

FBI 'didn't bug' Nobelist's sex orgies

WASHINGTON — The recently retired associate director of the FBI has disclosed that tape recordings of what he calls "the scandalous sex behavior" of the late Dr. Martin Luther King were made by the District of Columbia Metropolitan police, not the FBI.

W. Mark Felt was born and raised in Twin Falls. During an exclusive interview with the Times-News, he also stated that the tapes, recorded in a bedroom of Washington's Willard Hotel, near the White House, were not used by the late J. Edgar Hoover.

"These tapes were not played by Mr. Hoover during his confrontation meeting with Dr. King, after the FBI director called the civil rights leader and Nobel Prize winner, "the biggest liar in the country," explained Felt.

"In fact, Hoover didn't have the tapes in his possession," said Felt, a trim 60-year-old who bears something of a resemblance to actor George C. Scott.

Felt declined to discuss the details of what the tapes recorded — which were first publicly alluded to by the black author of a book titled "The King God Didn't Save."

There has been so much misinformation about the bureau," Felt said, "and, despite all the good publicity the FBI has received, when such charges are made, the bureau usually says, 'No comment.'"

"One of the reasons I retired is that I can speak out now, as I couldn't when I was an active member."

Felt's den in his attractive home in suburban Fairfax, Va. is covered with citations, plaques and signed photographs of J. Edgar Hoover, as well as the most recent FBI directors, Patrick Gray and William Ruckelshaus.

Regarding the FBI's new director, former Kansas City Police Chief Clarence M. Kelley, Felt commented:

"If they had to go outside the bureau, they couldn't have gotten anybody better. Actually he was in the bureau 12 years ago."

Felt proceeded to comment on a number of what he termed misconceptions about the FBI, such as:

"There was one claim that we have been computerizing records, even on children — which is simply a figment of someone's imagination."

"We do not investigate people's sex lives."

although when reports of sexual misbehavior are given to us, we file them. That's why columnist Jack Anderson reported that we probe people's sex habits."

"Hoover never investigated any member of Congress — unless that congressman was suspected of violating a federal law. Hale Boggs couldn't ever prove his contention about FBI bugging of Congressmen because it simply wasn't true."

"The old story that all agents had to wipe their hands with handkerchiefs before shaking hands with Hoover is a joke. All agents were, and I think wisely, advised against meeting people with a limp, moist, handshake. Hoover didn't like such a handshake, and neither do most people."

'Innocent,' Nixon says

(c) Chicago Sun-Times

WASHINGTON — In a written statement that he acknowledged as leaving many questions unanswered, President Nixon reiterated Wednesday night that he did not participate in planning the Watergate break-in or in covering it up.

Nixon did admit that his previous statements were "not precisely accurate" in fixing the date when he first learned of the 1971 burglary by White House employees at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

In a past statement, Nixon said that he learned of the break-in sometime after this March 21. In the new statement, Nixon said it was on March 17.

The disclosure meant that for 36 days — until April 25 — Nixon allowed Ellsberg's espionage trial to proceed without disclosing what turned out to be material information to the trial judge.

When he learned about the burglary, U.S. District Judge Matt Byrne dismissed charges against Ellsberg arising out of his distribution of the Pentagon Papers to news organizations. Byrne declared that the break-in had prejudiced the government's case against Ellsberg.

Nixon said he withheld the information because no information on Ellsberg was found at the psychiatrist's office. He said that former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst convinced him to tell the judge about the burglary "despite the fact that... the law did not clearly require it."

Nixon admitted he told Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry E. Peterson to "stay out of national security matters" in investigating Watergate at a time when the Justice Department was on the verge of interrogating witnesses about the Ellsberg burglary.

The presidential statement was far less comprehensive than had been expected in response to testimony by 35 witnesses before the Senate Watergate Committee.

"It would be neither fair nor appropriate for me to assess the evidence or comment on specific witnesses or their credibility," he said.

The 4 1/2-page statement contained no attacks or accusations against Nixon's prime accuser, former White House Counsel John W. Dean III, nor did it defer Watergate witnesses such as former aides Joh D. Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman, who have taken the president's side.

Nixon reiterated his refusal to release his secret tape recordings to either the Senate Watergate Committee or to a grand jury.

Nixon said: "I recognize that this statement does not answer many of the questions and contentions raised during the Watergate hearings."

Gem agencies request Snake island appraisal

US payment balance improves

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time in nearly four years the United States has a favorable balance of payments. The Commerce Department reported Wednesday that foreign currency coming into the United States during the second quarter of this year was nearly $11 billion more than the outflow of dollars during the first three months, for a $463 million surplus. It was the first surplus since the last quarter of 1969.

Newsprint strike stalemated

MONTREAL (UPI) — A general stalemate continued Wednesday in labor disputes that have shut down three major Canadian newsprint producers and cut-off daily output of 5,800 tons a day, mainly to U.S. consumers.

About 7,600 workers were involved in strikes at five mills owned by Canadian International Paper (CIP), two Ontario-Minnesota (O-M) Co. plants, and three mills operated by Price Bros.

Chicagoan freed of murder rap

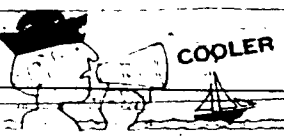

CHICAGO (UPI) — Wilbur McDonald, 34, Chicago, was freed Wednesday after spending three years in Illinois prison for a murder he maintained he did not commit. He had been sentenced to serve 100-150 years for the murder of Agnes B. Lehman in 1970 but was freed after a suspect in the killing of a woman in a Chicago park early this week signed statements relating to the Lehman slaying.

Labor strife claims first life

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — The battle between the Teamsters and United Farm Workers Union to organize California's field hands claimed its first life Wednesday. Nagi Baifullah, 24, a UFW picket from Keene, Calif., died in a Bakersfield hospital of head injuries received during an altercation with police Tuesday outside a tavern in nearby Lamont.

Bradley 'serious' after surgery

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Omar N. Bradley, last of the five-star officers who commanded the American military in World War II, underwent an emergency operation early today and was reported in serious condition. An army spokesman said drug treatments to remedy "massive blood clots" in the 80-year-old general's lungs had failed, necessitating surgery.

BURLEY — Two state agencies have authorized appraisal of a privately owned Snake River island six miles upstream from Burley, for possible purchase at a later date.

Officials at both the Parks and Recreation Department and Fish and Game Department said today it was premature to discuss anything except the appraisal which will begin as soon as a title search is completed.

But Seven W. Bly, director of the Parks and Recreation Department, said he and other had visited the 123-acre Frenchman's Island earlier this summer and "determined it did have some potential in terms of recreation and wildlife habitat."

Bly said his attention was first drawn to the island by Sen. Robert Saxvik, D-Burley, who suggested it might be suitable for inclusion in the state park system if the present owners have plans to sell it.

But Bly said other possibilities for the land include a wildlife habitat or a city-county park depending on how the Fish and Game Department in the Cassia County and Burley governments view the land. He said representatives of the Fish and Game Department will discuss the island with Parks and Recreation officials after the appraisal is completed.

Saxvik said he originally called Bly about the land because of its "significant recreational and wildlife potential and unique location." He said it could also "provide the link" between the present Massacre Rocks State Park near American Falls and other state parks in Southern Idaho.

Bly said the Parks and Recreation Department was developing a 10-year park system plan he hoped to have completed by next summer. Any proposals for a park in the Burley area would have to be included in the priority system that is being developed, he said.

He said the money for appraisal of the island had come from the Waterways Fund and the formal request for the work originated with the Cassia County Waterways Commission.

Saxvik said the land is currently owned by Mr. and Mrs. L. Wayne Woodland.

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — B.Y.O.B. has a new meaning on backyard barbecue invitations. It used to mean "bring your own bottle," but these days hosts are suggesting that guests "bring your own beef."

Atomic wastes storage backed

TWIN FALLS — Sen. James McClure said here Wednesday he would have "no objection" to storage of nuclear waste from other states in Idaho, provided the storage was only "temporary."

McClure said he had understood that the Atomic Energy Commission AEC had proposed such temporary storage. But the Idaho Republican senator said the storage should not be permitted to become permanent. He said the AEC should "look elsewhere" for permanent storage.

Earlier Rep. Orval Hansen had said he would support storage of such wastes in Idaho.

McClure said: "We're trying to maintain the NRTS (National Reactor Testing Station) as a nationwide center for atomic research. You don't get a favorable reaction from AEC officials by crying in alarm every time they move wastes."

But McClure said he hoped the state would not be forced to decide between either waste storage or losing its nuclear research industry.

"I don't think that is the tradeoff unless we scream too loudly. I don't want to scream too loudly about it," Sen. McClure said. "The only reason I have any doubts about it is that the Snake River Plain aquifer is the lifeblood of Southern Idaho in the future. You just don't take any chances with it. The state moved a few years ago to prevent drilling of waste wells because they recognized the importance of that aquifer."

The AEC has announced plans to transfer fuel elements from Las Vegas, Nev., to the NRTS for uranium extraction sometime next year.

The AEC hopes to recover about $25 million worth of enriched uranium from the spent fuel elements.

100 aboard jet freed

TEL AVIV (UPI) — A hijacked Arab airliner landed today at Lod International Airport where a band of specially trained Israeli commandos stormed aboard and freed the 100 passengers without firing a shot, official sources said.

The identity of the hijacker or hijackers was not immediately known nor was it known what the hijackers wanted. They seized control of the plane with 110 passengers and crewmen as it was over Cyprus on a flight from Benghazi to Beirut and landed at Lod escorted by a flight of Israeli F4 Phantom jets.

Israeli official sources said no Israelis were involved in the actual hijacking.

Gem court denies petition release

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court has denied a motion by a Boise attorney to release recall petitions against Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello, because they had not yet been filed with the court.

Stanley Crow, attorney for a Pocatello group seeking to initiate a recall against Miss McDermott, had asked the high court to release the petitions filed with Secretary of State Pete Cenarrusa.

The petitions are part of the record of the court action begun by Crow after Cenarrusa denied the petitions because most of the signatures did not bear a post office address.

But Fourth District Judge Alfred Hagan upheld the petitions and Miss McDermott appealed to the supreme court.

S. Viets, Reds clash anew

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese forces fought Communist troops in a two-hour battle in rice fields 16 miles southwest of Saigon early today and other Communist soldiers attacked a Saigon government supply train on the coast.

The South Vietnamese command also reported 18 Communist troops killed in fighting near Kontum.

More wheat goal for '74

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Formally lifting all government planting restrictions on wheat, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz announced details today of a 1974 support program designed to boost next year's wheat crop to 56 million acres.

The harvesting allotment on which growers will get full government income protection would be 1.3 billion acres more than this year's estimated acreage and would match or exceed estimated domestic and export needs.

The announcement came as the administration faced heavy pressure to limit exports from this year's crop.

Butz had said earlier that farmers would not be required to idle any acreage in order to qualify for 1974 supports.

In addition, acting under terms of a new four-year farm bill signed Monday by President Nixon, Butz set the harvesting allotment.

Officials stressed that the 1974 allotment is not a limit on next year's harvested wheat acreage which they hope will rise to at least 60 million acres. That would produce a record yield of 1.85 billion bushels or more compared to this year's estimated record crop of 1.73 billion bushels.

Agriculture spokesmen explained that the allotment covers enough acreage to produce 1.78 billion bushels, the amount officials think would equal domestic and export needs in the 1974-75 marketing season opening July 1.

Officials here said the basic purpose of the allotment was to spell out the number of acres on which the government would offer "target price" protection to growers under the new farm law.

Farmers are free to plant additional acreage under the spur of this year's record wheat prices and with the secondary support of a price support loan, experts pointed out.

Divers find Andrea Doria 'busted up'

FAIRHAVEN, Mass. (UPI) — Divers who entered the purser's office area of the sunken liner Andrea Doria found the vessel "really busted up" from its collision with a Swedish ship 17 years ago, a spokesman said Wednesday. Jay Flondella, a spokesman for the divers, said they found "the ship was really busted up. Everything was so banged up they decided to wait until daylight (today) to see which direction to go in."

The expedition, made up largely of current or former Navy divers, is seeking to salvage an estimated $2 million in cash and other valuables believed aboard the Doria.

The vessel sank in 1956 after a collision with the Swedish ship Stockholm. In all, 51 persons drowned in the accident. The ship now lies 250 feet below the surface of the Atlantic and 45 miles off Nantucket Island.

All past attempts to salvage valuables from the wreck have failed.

The divers, who managed to enter the vessel by cutting open two steel doors, are working out of an underwater habitat at the ocean bottom, where two of the men — Christopher DeLucchi and Donald Rodocker, both of San Diego — have been living for more than a week. A third man, photographer Bob Hollis, joined them last weekend in an attempt to speed up the salvage operation.

Flondella said the divers entered the area of the purser's office but apparently did not actually go into the office. Most of the money and valuables are believed located there. "It's like a shopping mall area," Flondella said.

Shoshone grants pay raises of 9%

SHOSHONE — Salary increases of about 9 per cent for eight city employees were approved by the Shoshone City Council Tuesday night. The increases were prompted by a request made last week by six employees who appeared at the regular meeting of the council. At that time, they said that the increased cost of living made it impossible for them to meet their financial obligations on the city salaries and some indicated that they would have to seek employment elsewhere if the requests were not granted. The request had been tabled and the regular meeting recessed until last night.

The new monthly payroll will be $4,493, compared to $4,070 previously according to Mrs. Ruth Chess, city clerk.

In other business, a building permit was issued to John Lalliss, for construction of a retaining wall and carport.

The recent refusal by the state water administration of three drainage wells was discussed by the council with interested persons considering storm drain systems.

Building displeases Minico commission

RUPERT — Minidoka County commissioners will meet Monday with the Boise architectural firm of Thurber and Marler, another architect, and a specialist in building construction to discuss the Minidoka County Law Enforcement Building.

In an inspection of the building Monday with Duane Marler, the commissioners expressed disapproval of some of the building construction. They told Marler they would not accept the building under its present condition until they had talked to other persons knowledgeable in that type of construction.

The commissioners said their main complaint concerned the brick veneer on the west side of the new building. Commissioner were unsatisfied with placement of the brick. They said the joints in the mortar were not smooth and the seams in the brick were not straight.

Marler told the commissioners, "There will be no structural problems with the wall, it's just a matter of appearance."

The inside of the building had only minor work to be finished, including general touchup work, realignment of the doors, and clean up.

Texas body search continues

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Galveston County sheriff said today he plans to dig for more graves on a remote stretch of Gulf Coast beach where deputies discovered six of the 27 victims of a sex-torture ring.

"I don't expect to find any (bodies) but I think it is my responsibility to check the area more thoroughly," said Sheriff J. B. Kline.

He said the reputed mass killer, Dean Allen Corll, told two teen-aged assistants he had buried another body on the High Island beach. Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, and David Owen Brooks, 18, said they participated in the sex ring over three years.

The pair led officers to the burial grounds on the coast, in an East Texas forest and in a Houston boat shed.

"He (Corll) told them he planted one there (on the beach) before he knew them," Kline said. "I think these kids have come clean as they could and pinpointed as many as they knew about." Kline said he hoped to use a road grader on the beach Friday, weather and searides permitting.

Parents living in the northwest section of Houston called The Heights are becoming increasingly reluctant to talk about the murders.

Israel rejects UN condemnation

(c) Chicago Daily News UNITED NATIONS — Israel has bitterly rejected a unanimous Security Council condemnation of the forced downing of an Iraqi jet over Lebanon and promised to continue to use "unswerving firmness" to combat Arab terrorism in the future.

The council, said Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah after the 15-0 vote Wednesday, "closes its eyes completely to the grave menace of Arab terrorism which necessitated Israel's defensive action on Aug. 10."

His voice shaking with anger, he continued: "Those who hope that the world will be rid of the murders of defenseless men, women and children, those who pray that massacres such as Lod, Munich, Khartoum and Athens should never happen again, can rest assured that Israel will not fail them."

It was a foreboding indication, diplomats here observed, that Israel would continue its actions — such as last week's forcing down of the jet bound for Baghdad with 76 passengers aboard by Israeli pilots. The Israelis wished to search the plane for a Palestinian guerrilla leader.

U. S. Ambassador John Scall, after voting for the resolution that condemned the Israeli action, charged her with violation of "principles of international and morality" and asked her to "desist from any and all acts" that endanger international civil aviation. He said his vote "in no way represents a change in our views" on the Middle East situation.

However, he added that "newer and uglier dimensions" could be imposed on that situation if international law were not always upheld.

Tekoah immediately responded that the U. N. in 25 years and never bothered to condemn Arab infringements through its terrorist organizations on the rights of Israel.

Skylab 2 astros given 'go' for full mission

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab 2 astronauts no longer are grumbling about not having enough work to do and Commander Alan L. Bean predicts the rest of the flight will go off without a hitch.

The crew's flight surgeon has given his approval to a full 59-day mission.

Officials added 11 man hours a day to the crew's work day after Bean said none of the astronauts was sleeping the allotted eight hours a night and didn't need as much time scheduled for meals and getting ready for bed.

"This was the first day the crew hasn't asked for more to do," Flight Director Phillip Shaffer said. "It was a super day. It felt like the latter half of Skylab 1, so we're getting there."

"I think we're in a unique position," Bean said. "We're looking forward to the last two-thirds of the mission. We hope we can get this flight plan down where we can really crank out the work."

Dr. Paul Buchanan said Wednesday night he has "no misgivings" about extending the flight of Skylab 2 for the full 59 days. The original flight plan at launch called the mission to run at least 28 days and thereafter the ground controllers would okay week-by-week extensions of the flight.

Today's schedule called for Bean and colleagues Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Louma to conduct some more observations of the sun and experiments that will reflect how man lives in the weightlessness of space.

The crew photographed the sun's exploding energy for eight hours Wednesday during a relatively quiet period of solar activity.

Obviously pleased with the way the two-month flight was progressing, Bean thanked Space Agency officials for a congratulatory message sent to the crew and said he felt lucky to be "doing things that are positive in this world."

BLM reports blaze near Hazelton

SHOSHONE — One range fire was reported by the Shoshone District Bureau of Land Management Wednesday.

The fire, which burned about 75 acres, was 13 miles northeast of Hazelton. It was reported at 7 p.m. and was under control by midnight. Cause of the fire was unknown.

Michael Green, public information officer for the BLM, said three tankers, one refill tanker and one shovel crew were used to fight the fire.

BRUCE BISSAT

Agnew Treated With Unfairness

WASHINGTON (NEA) — One could only watch Vice President Spiro Agnew with a dazed mixture of emotions. There he was, defending himself, openly and manfully facing the gunfire of a challenging press, speaking crisply and with evident precision, never flinching. He was the very picture of authority and command.

unreal. The mind is overwhelmed when even the suggestion of wrongdoing reaches so high and so far and leaves the White House so shadowed.

Yet, in this almost dream-like moment, it is clear that great care needs to be exercised. The vice-president is not today under formal charge or indictment. We are dealing with "reports" filtering out from an obviously widespread inquiry into the corruptive use of campaign contributions and contract awards in Maryland.

Venality is a commonplace of Maryland politics. And one relatively new friend of Agnew's, unable to recall the proved involvement of any prior governors, wondered aloud why the vice-president should be the one in danger of "getting nailed."

He voiced his doubt to me before Agnew spoke, but it seemed to fit the vice-president's own public hint that reports of his involvement may have come from people "who have found themselves in very deep trouble, and are looking to extricate themselves."

Only time and events can treat of such doubts. Meanwhile, it must be stated that in one sense highly important though little noticed — Agnew already has been manhandled in a grossly unfair and inept way by one of the country's major newspapers which originally reported the new story. Deeply embedded in its first long account was reference to an earlier charge against Agnew as governor, involving alleged impropriety in a land purchase near the site of a coming new Chesapeake bay bridge (now open).

The newspaper simply noted the charge, and then quoted a harsh comment on it from a 1968 New York Times editorial.

The fact is, the editorial followed upon an exhaustive Times inquiry and story into the bridge matter. But it was almost immediately brought out that another distinguished newspaper previously had done its own full study, and that the net of this and some official inquiry was to substantially exonerate Agnew. Confronted with this information the New York Times subsequently crawled a few inches toward apology in one of the most graceless editorials ever to hit print. And its own present references (though it is not the newspaper herein first charged with unfairness) to the earlier charge suggest that the Times is utterly immune to embarrassment over its errors.

Now, the vice-president may or may not be formally charged in this new case, and may or may not be found guilty if charged. But fair, fair. And, in this time of crushing scandal, decency and justice are not served by newspapers which seem contemptuously to insist upon their own infallibility.

New Approach

According to glowing reports, engineers with the Honda Motor Company of Japan have solved one of two major problems bugging U.S. automakers.

They've done it by developing a "stratified charge" engine, something that has eluded American know-how, which they claim meets the original 1975 emission standards (now postponed to 1976) for carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons.

The stratified charge engine, utilizing dual combustion chambers in each cylinder, would eliminate the need for fuel-consuming add-on devices like the catalytic converters American technology has been pursuing. U.S. automakers are said to be working out licensing agreements with Honda.

There remains the problem of nitrogen oxides, however. To eliminate or reduce these requires recirculating exhaust fumes for further combustion, again at a penalty in driveability and fuel economy.

Just recently, the Environmental Protection Agency, at the behest of the auto industry, also postponed this scheduled standard for another year, from 1976 to 1977.

The interesting thing is that the EPA itself has stated that nitrogen oxides are not presently a significant air pollutant in most parts of the nation. This was one of the points touched on by John K. McKinley, president of Texaco, Inc., during testimony before the Senate Air and Water Pollution Subcommittee.

"A single standard for clean air quality on a nationwide basis may not be defensible," he told the senators. In view of the fuel shortage, which he predicted would continue throughout the decade, he recommended relaxing the nitrogen oxide standard for noncritical areas so that exhaust recycling would not be required.

McKinley also suggested that the legislators consider adopting a "two-car strategy" — one type of car meeting more rigid nitrogen oxide standards for California and certain other critical areas, another type for marketing in the rest of the nation.

This, he argued, would be "a simple and practical approach" since neither type of car would require catalytic converters.

The two-car strategy, combined with a nontoxic solution to carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons (which Honda seems to have accomplished) would save the nation something like three million barrels of petroleum a day by 1985, McKinley testified.

It is, he offered, an idea "worthy of consideration."

No Public Outcry Is Expected

WASHINGTON — Ten million bucks spent by President Nixon's bureaucrats to "improve" and "secure" his private homes in California and Florida! Even today that is a lot of filthy lucre, but I do not expect any substantial public outcry.

There is, of course, the "security" angle. We remember with singular hurt the Kennedy assassination — and give or take a relatively few nuts — we're willing to fork a few extra hours to make Nixon safe.

But the American people are also amiable phonies. Despite all the talk about democracy and equal rights, we miss having a king, so we make do with what we have — putting a new roof on the gazebo at San Clemente and buying a shark net for the ocean at Key Biscayne. We call him our President, but there is something deep inside us that hankers to give him royal treatment even if it means baloney for dinner again.

I hold that what impressed so many Americans about the Kennedy White House is that Jackie did her best to transform its previously rather seedy atmosphere into that of a 20th Century court. Oh, it was gracious and had style, but a Kennedy party was also regal, with Queen Jackie making an appearance. One expected to see the women guests curtsying.

Indeed, there were those in the royal family who brooked no familiarity. The author Gore Vidal, who was some kind of kin to Mrs. Kennedy, once referred to "Jackie" in Bobby Kennedy's presence. Bobby gave him that cold, blue-eyed stare. "Here," he told Vidal, "we refer to her as the First Lady."

That was a bit hard on Vidal, who had grown up with Jackie Bouvier Kennedy Onassis and had, once bloodied her nose with a sneaky left hook. Yet Bobby probably was speaking for most of us unwashed.

This is a country in which we still pay furtive homage to descendants of the raffish and quarrelsome passengers who made the Mayflower's voyage hell. We bow and scrape to multimillionaires whose company would offend a scullery maid. We have made kings and queens of movie stars who could barely utter a simple declarative sentence, and mistake for statesmen television's grandstanding talk-show barons. We make way for small-town mayors and members of Congress, who stole their way into office without improving their manners.

In fact, we are in awe of power and impressed by arrogance. Mencken once wrote that "Perhaps the most valuable asset that any man can have is a naturally superior air, a talent for sniffiness and reserve. The generality of men are always greatly impressed by it, and accept it freely as a proof of genuine merit. One need but disdain (the people) to gain their respect."

John Ehrlichman's testimony before the Watergate committee proved Mencken's point. Ehrlichman had been booted out by Nixon, but he treated the committee with a hauteur often bordering on contempt, and he got away with it. At times, it almost seemed as if his inquisitors were afraid of the guy. Later, the committee members fell all over one another to praise and condescending former CIA chief, Richard Helms, who represented what passes for aristocracy around here because he went to the right schools and is Eastern Establishment.

Thus, there is little danger that the mob will hastily construct a guillotine and haul Richard Nixon to the knife in a tumbrel merely because he is pleased to live better than Louis XIV. He was a poor boy without even a Mayflower cabin boy to call his own, and his schooling was unfashionable, but he has been voted the Republic's ultimate power. Only if, like the Russian czars, he risks relinquishing some of his power or is found pleased to police to some obscure Congressman from Eyeball, Miss., will the people begin to suspect that he is not actually superior to other men, but prone to weakness, and beat their plowshares into swords.

Watch For Boredom

Boredom goes around like the 24-hour virus. It may be hard for a man to be bored in the era of the miniskirt, or for a woman to be bored in the vestibule of liberation, but some folks do manage to catch the virus.

And if we pick the wrong things to be bored about, we might just bore ourselves right out of business.

A story out of Thailand says U.S. bomber base people there "just want to go home." "Certainly there's a morale problem here," says a captain. "There's a morale problem because we've been here too long."

Foreign policy is not to be formulated on the basis of boredom. However, against boredom the gods themselves struggle in vain. Nietzsche said that. Or at least the book says Nietzsche said that.

JAMES J. KILPATRICK

And Watergate Is Far Away

SCRABBLE, Va. — Some years ago, caught in the summer doldrums, I once proposed that the Congress, by law, abolish August. My thought was to take its 31 days, divide them up and spread them around. We could have longer Aprils and longer Octobers, and be done with fretful August altogether.

Now I am not so sure. August has its points. If it weren't for August, we would still be stuck in the Watergate hearings, suffering the sanctimonies of Sen. Welcker. Because of August, it is possible to come home to these quiet, brooding mountains, to draw a smog-free breath, and to get a fresh perspective on the news.

I am more and more persuaded, as time goes on, that despite the millions of words that have been written of "Watergate" in the past 14 months, the real story has eluded us. It is not so important to determine who said what to whom in which meeting. The individuals in this drama are as insubstantial as those players who strut and fret their hour upon the stage and then are heard no more.

Our concern ought to be directed, it seems to me, less at the misdeeds of men and more at the abuse of power. Men come and go, weak men, stupid men, fearful men. We know how to punish the transgressions of men. But power is a timeless river, carrying in its passive currents both the potential for good, and the risk of evil. We know as much as we need to know about how power can be exercised, but we will never know enough about how power can be restrained. Because we have failed to fashion adequate restraints upon the power of the President, and upon the power of the men around him, we must endure this agonizing hour. New restraints, more effective restraints, will have to be found.

But there is more to think about in August in the country than the abuse of power by the White House, by the Senate committee, or for that matter, by the insatiable, ravenous press. Watergate seems happily far away. Our local papers are not much concerned with Watergate. They are more concerned with the shortage of beef, the price of grain, the widening of a road. They are concerned with death, birth, marriage, local politics, the sandlot ballclubs, a new minister in town. Life goes on. My wife is making pickles — pickles and relishes and chutneys — a ritual act, performed with love and grace whenever August rolls around. We go to the garden in the cool of the early morning, with the two colts trotting agreeably along, and we pick cucumbers, zucchini, melons, tomatoes, blackeyed peas. The baskets overflow. Marveling, we harvest in August the hopes of May.

Now the gleaming jars stand in jeweled array on pantry shelves, relishes of rubies, pickles of jade, peaches of amber. The kitchen is redolent of vinegar, garlic, spices, dill, of herbs fresh picked, the fragrances of home. The women's libbers will never understand the proposition, or accept it, but it is as important to a country woman to pickle as it is important to a country man to get in the firewood. One measures fulfillment in pints, quarts, and split oak logs.

Last night we heard rubles of thunder, and today the mountains are veiled by a hazy threat of summer storm. Across the ravine, Mr. Burke is making hay. He has a full crew working — two tractors, two trucks, a team of sweating boys. It is an operation as stylized as a square dance, a screen pass or a squeeze bunt. The baler grunts and chomps along the windrows, dumping the heavy bales behind; the boys run, the trucks fill up, the storm slips by, and by evening the work is done. Good earth, good men, and good machines; and so August passes day by quite day.

The Republic will survive. Down in Washington, there is much talk of "paralysis of government." You might suppose the country is dying of corruption and decay. Don't you believe it. This country is pickles on the shelf and hay in the barn, and it is still populated mostly by people, whether they live in the hills or the plains or the cities, who look beyond the travails of a passing summer. They know that after August, good autumns and good springs will surely come again.

MR. SPECTATOR

Back In Those Days

Remember the article we had in the paper not so long ago concerning the fellow from Jackpot who tried to "blaze" a trail to Jarbidge but who gave it up and returned to Jackpot?

Well, we received a comment on the effort. The note was from Dorothy (Barrington) Liston and she decided to add a few words to the situation, which we are very glad to print. She lives at 642 North Pine Avenue, Rialto, Calif. 92376. Her note:

"An item in the Times-News has come to my attention. It was the item telling of the efforts of the Jackpot fellow trying to walk to Jarbidge but giving it up and returning to Jackpot. He returned in about six days — unsuccessful.

"I was interested because my Dad, then known as "White" Barrington, with two friends Red Asmussen and Blackie Coulter (all residents of Twin Falls at that time) blazed a trail from San Jacinto, Nev., through the mountains and to Jarbidge over 50 years ago.

"They tipped the scales at about 125 pounds each, carried a bedroll, some food (mostly crackers and cheese) and a jug of liquid. After going over the mountains they came upon a nice cool spring on a Utah Construction Co. ranch and quenched their parched throats. They came out at Three Creek, Idaho, on the third day. That evening they hiked from Three Creek to Kitty's Hot Hole (now Murphy's Hot Springs) and over the mountain called Freighter's Defeat, to a rest stop called Rattlesnake.

"Before they got into Nevada they stopped at an Idaho ranch house and had a good square meal — costing them 50 cents each. Of course they were wealthy. They had nearly $20 between them so didn't mind the high meal price.

"A year later, my Dad and Mother spent their honeymoon in Twin Falls. They stayed at the Perrine Hotel. This was 52 years ago last May 26. They still live in Twin Falls where their three children graduated from high school.

Blackie lives in Denver and Red in Portland.

Dad and Mother like Twin Falls and, the Lord being willing, will live there for several more years. Father returned to Jarbidge shortly after their marriage and they remained there for more than two years. He worked in a mine and also on the power line from Kitty's Hot Hole into Jarbidge. He said this is where he received his PhD (Post Hole Digger).

My eldest brother, Darwin, was born in Jarbidge Feb. 28, 1921. The house still stands on the Main Street where he first saw the light of day.

"Just wanted to let you know that they accomplished what Mr. Smith failed to do, although they never received the publicity then — or anytime since then, according to my knowledge."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

The Doctor Says

"Dear Dr. Thosteson What could be wrong with a person with no appetite? My husband has been this way for as long as I have known him; at least five years.

"Food just has no appeal and it's down to only a few items he'll even consider eating now. He eats only to survive. Most of the time it's one meal a day, and he won't touch a vegetable or fruit. He's always thirsty and drinks excessive amounts of cola drinks. He isn't taking any medication or drugs.

He is only 23 and I know he is ruining his health. He says he will go to the doctor but doesn't know what tests, if any, to have. Could low blood sugar cause this?" — D. B.

"It doesn't in the least resemble low blood sugar; but he might have too much sugar in his blood — diabetes, that is. At least that is one of a number of possibilities that ought to be investigated. His excessive thirst could be a symptom of that. But before I try to do too much guessing, I'd want to know some other things. What about his weight? His emotional condition? Any other symptoms that could be significant. A deep seated psychological problem could cause this.

"That business of putting off going to the doctor because he 'doesn't know what tests to have, if any,' is pretty nonsensical, because you don't go to the doctor and tell him what tests you want run. It's the doctor's responsibility to select such tests as are needed.

Clearly, your husband's diet is one that is going to cause a lot of trouble for him in the near future if it isn't doing so already. So get him to a physician and find out what's wrong.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, 31, had a slight heart attack and the doctor told him he had too much fat in his blood. Could you explain this? Is it ever fatal? The doctor put him on a diet — A. F. B. Excessive amounts of various fatty substances in the blood — cholesterol and triglycerides — give evidence of having a good deal to do with hardening of the arteries. That, in turn, is the principal factor leading to heart attacks.

So I'm pleased that your son's doctor has him on a suitable diet. If you want the story of cholesterol and blood fats in more detail, I refer you to my booklet, "Control Cholesterol Sensibly." It goes into the problem of the triglycerides, too. Send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of the Times-News, for a copy of the booklet.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Thailand vacuum created by Indochina air war's end

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

When the last American B52 exploded its last bomb over Cambodia, the result in neighboring Thailand was a sort of vacuum.

There are 45,000 American troops at seven bases in Thailand, and the Thais want to know more about their intentions for the future, or rather the intentions of the American government in Washington which they feel has not always taken them into its confidence.

Prime Minister Thanom Kittakachorn, the head of Thailand's military government, has declared the U.S. forces must remain so long as there is doubt that North Vietnam will live up to its cease-fire pledges in South Vietnam.

If, in the meantime, there should be a communist takeover in Cambodia and Laos, then he believes the U.S. should remain in Thailand indefinitely.

Against the government view are the dissenters who believe the American presence creates a threat to the peace of Thailand and believe it should reduce as quickly as possible.

Among them is Thanat Khoman, the former foreign minister, who declares that eventually Thailand must make its accommodation with North Vietnam and with China and that the continuing presence of the American bases only makes Thailand a target for new communist aggression.

Thai university students, who are proving themselves an unexpectedly powerful political force, also are demanding quick removal of the American forces.

Between those who want the U.S. forces to leave and those who want them to stay are others who suspect that a U.S. doublecross is in the making. They fear that Thailand, after serving for years as the United States' most faithful southeast Asian ally, is about to be cut loose by the United States in the interests of its own global strategy.

In preparation for possible new external threats Thanom has strengthened Thailand's borders and has asked the United States for new assurances of continued military aid.

He also has new worries at home.

Thailand along with Burma, used to be a primary exporter of rice to other nations of southeast Asia.

Burma no longer exports and Thailand is in the grip of a three-year drought. She has been forced to turn down orders from Cambodia, the Philippines and others for whom she has been a traditional supplier.

The drought has had an accompanying effect on the nation's farmers. Many have had to borrow, putting up their small land holdings as collateral. The result has been that many poor farmers have now become impoverished tenants.

Communist-led insurgency in the northeast and along the border with Cambodia and Malaya continues to be a problem. The insurgents are not believed to number more than about 6,000 but they are insistent. China has toned down its broadcast support for the insurgents but has been vague about cutting off material support.

Whether they are led from China or from North Vietnam is a matter of debate.

These problems, plus the activities of Thailand's 100,000 students, plus new union activity among the nation's workers contribute to the uncertainty of the leaders in Bangkok.

Judges disqualified in action against Agnew

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Maryland's nine federal judges have disqualified themselves from any court action involving Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Chief U.S. District Judge Edward Northrop said Wednesday the judges in Maryland would not "handle anything relating to the vice president" because of Agnew's "unique position" in the state. Agnew is the former governor of Maryland.

Northrop asked the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., to designate a judge from outside Maryland to "supervise and handle all future matters arising from the inquiry of the special grand jury which in any matter whatever pertains to the vice president of the United States.

Agnew is being investigated by the U.S. District Attorney in Baltimore for allegations he was involved in a kickback scheme involving government contracts while he was governor. The vice president has called the allegations "damned lies."

Northrop also announced he was granting U.S. District Judge C. Stanley Blair's request to be relieved of supervising the grand jury's investigation. Blair has had charge of the jury since it was impaneled last December. While Agnew was governor, Blair was Maryland secretary of state. He was the vice president's chief of staff in 1969. After he ran unsuccessfully as the Republican candidate for governor in 1970, Blair was appointed to the federal bench.

Northrop said a published report he had ordered Blair relieved of his duties with the grand jury was untrue. Northrop indicated Blair's request did not personally implicate Blair in any way in the inquiry into an alleged kickback and bribery scheme involving government contractors in Maryland.

Sept. 11 trial scheduled for Mitchell and Stans

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Nixon cabinet members John N. Mitchell and Maurice Stans will be tried on charges of perjury, conspiracy and obstruction of justice Sept. 11 as scheduled, despite their request for a delay.

U.S. District Judge Lee P. Gagliardi rejected their motion for a postponement Wednesday, saying, "Basically, this is a very simple case."

Both Mitchell, former attorney general, and Stans, former commerce secretary, gave up their cabinet posts last year to run President Nixon's reelection campaign. They are accused of trying to stop a federal investigation into financier Robert L. Vesco in exchange for a $200,000 campaign donation.

The Securities and Exchange Commission was investigating Vesco, of Boonton, N.J., for fraud when, according to the indictment, Mitchell and Stans engineered the scheme to get the SEC to leave Vesco alone if Vesco would make the donation.

Later, the government says, Mitchell and Stans lied about their participation in the deal to a federal grand jury.

The indictment suggests the $200,000 secret campaign donation from Vesco was used to pay Watergate burglars, and Mitchell's lawyers argued the government had improperly linked the New York case to the Watergate scandal in asking for the delay.

Maryland aides tell of deals

By NICHOLAS GAGE
(c) New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson met with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew early this month and outlined the substance of the evidence gathered by federal prosecutors in Baltimore against the vice president.

The New York Times has learned that the key elements of the case presented to Agnew were the following:

— More than 20 Maryland businessmen told prosecutors that they had given cash payments to Agnew associates in return for state and government contracts and that they believed some of the money was being funneled to Agnew.

— At least three of the Agnew associates the business named were said to have told the prosecutors that they turned over some of the payments to Agnew. The three were Lester Matz and Jerome B. Wolff, engineering consultants in Baltimore, and Allen I. Green, once one of Agnew's closest personal friends.

— Matz told prosecutors that he made one payment of $2,500 to Agnew in the summer of 1971 in return for his help in getting someone a job in the general services administration.

— Matz said that he turned over the money to Agnew in the presence of J. Walter Jones, a Maryland banker and political supporter of Agnew. But Jones has publicly denied participating in kickbacks or witnessing any being made.

— Some time before they began to talk to the prosecutors, Matz and Wolff went to George White, Agnew's long-time personal attorney, and told him that if the federal investigation in Baltimore was not stopped it was going to involve the vice president because they would tell what they knew, the sources said.

White denied during a telephone interview that Matz and Wolff had approached him about the investigation.

A spokesman for the Justice Department confirmed that Richardson had met with Agnew about the case. He said the meeting was held on Aug. 6 to supplement the information contained in the letter received the previous week by the vice president from George Beall, the U.S. attorney in Baltimore, informing Agnew that he was under investigation.

While none of the former aides who said that they had separately given kickbacks to Agnew have been corroborated by other witnesses, sources said that the cumulative evidence collected thus far was enough for the prosecutors to seek an indictment against Agnew and that they intended to do so.

American reaction to Nixon talk varies

By United Press International

The American citizen's reaction to President Nixon's Watergate address ranged from "he is innocent" to "I think he was lying."

UPI bureaus around the nation questioned people at random after Nixon's speech Wednesday night. It was not a scientific opinion poll.

"I've been with him all along," Henry Aaron—not the baseball player—said in Dallas. "This reaffirms what I've thought—that he is innocent of all wrongdoing personally."

"I think he was lying," Nancy Soland, also of Dallas, said.

"I'm just a housewife who has missed her daytime television soap operas," Mrs. Martha Nulf of Kansas City, Mo., said, "but the Watergate hearings have left me in a state of utter confusion. I don't know who to believe. I hope I can believe the President."

"I'm not convinced he did a thorough job of defending his actions," Robert Ball of Chicago said. "I mean that he ignored some of the points of what happened in his own staff."

"He didn't really say anything," was the reaction of Carolyn Pettway, a San Francisco executive secretary. "I figure he knew all along. He only made this appearance because the public is putting so much pressure on him. He was trying to look so sad and innocent. It's just another lie."

"I believe everything the President said about his involvement in Watergate," said Ken Solt of Bay Village, Ohio. "I agree with him that they should turn the Watergate affair over to the courts and that the government should get on with the business of governing."

"If he is so lily-white and innocent, what is in those tapes he doesn't want the American people to know about?" Mrs. John Sunderhaus, a 64-year-old grandmother from Cincinnati asked. "I'm not ashamed of you printing what I'm saying, so why should the President be so reluctant to give up those tapes? If there is something in them to hurt the country, cut it out but leave in the Watergate information."

"I thought it was a good speech and he answered some of the questions I thought he should have," Mrs. Elsie Chavannes of St. Paul, Minn., said. "He sounded sincere to me and I think he is."

Goldwater backs Nixon's request

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater believes President Nixon failed to say anything in his Watergate report that will tend to divert suspicion from him.

The former Republican presidential candidate made the assessment Wednesday night after Nixon addressed the nation on television. But Goldwater also said he stood behind the President in his appeal that the country get on with more urgent business.

Generally, reaction from officialdom to the President's speech was along party lines. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said Nixon's remarks were "frank, candid, honest and as much as should be required."

Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, said he was "not impressed" and found it difficult to understand how Nixon could be "totally ignorant" of the actions of high officials of his administration.

Goldwater said it appeared to him that "the President did not add anything to his other speeches that would tend to divert suspicion from him." He said, however, he stood behind Nixon "in his appeal for Americans to recognize existing and obvious dangers to our Republic, our economy and the good of the nation and the world."

Three members of the Senate Watergate committee had immediate comments. Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said any information Nixon could offer was welcome and would be used to help the investigators write a "meaningful report."

Sen. Joseph P. Montoya, D-N.M., complained Nixon failed to inform the public about essential facts regarding his role and was wrong in suggesting the hearings should be concluded.

Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, said contrary to "Nixon's feeling the committee was trying to implicate him, I think all of us have been trying our best to assist the President and to clear the President."

Suggestions asked

BOISE (UPI) — Citizens concerned about mental retardation must provide suggestions for change in the public attitude toward the health problem, says Sen. Frank Church.

The Idaho Democrat made the comment Wednesday in remarks before the national youth conference on mental retardation in Boise.

He said federal legislation to help deal with problems such as retardation is important, but "it is up to you as concerned citizens to make congress aware of the nature of the problem and to provide suggestions for change."

He told his young audience, "I ponder why our society has placed a stigma on the mentally retarded. It's ironic that a nation such as ours—founded by pioneers of strong, neighborly spirit—should turn away from a problem like mental retardation."

He praised the conference attendants for spurring "a national interest in the needs of the mentally retarded."

Nixon reiterates innocence of Watergate charges

"It has not been my intention to attempt any such comprehensive and detailed response, nor has it been my intention to address myself to all matters covered in my May 22 statement," a 4,000-word written document.

Nixon said that with the Senate hearings continuing and grand jury investigations still under way, "it would be neither possible to provide nor appropriate to attempt a definitive account of what took place."

"Neither do I believe I could enter upon an endless course of explaining and rebutting a complex of point-by-point claims and charges arising out of that conflicting testimony."

"While the judicial and legislative branches resolve these matters, I will continue to discharge to the best of my abilities my constitutional responsibilities" as President, he said.

Nixon's statements made these points:

1 - "Not a single witness has testified that I had any prior knowledge of the Watergate break-in."

2 - "It is also true, as I said on May 22, that I took no part in and was not aware of, any subsequent efforts to cover up the illegal acts associated with the Watergate break-in."

Nixon said he gave orders to the Justice Department and the FBI to conduct a "thorough and aggressive investigation to disclose the facts." He said he was concerned that secret CIA activities might be compromised, but when he learned that none would be, he ordered the FBI to "press forward vigorously" with its probe.

Nixon made no mention of the warning issued by former Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray that high-level White House assistants were referring to "wound" the President. Nor did he refer to the fact that Petersen later urged him to fire his top assistants, Ehrlichman and Haldeman.

Nixon said the indictments of only seven persons "seemed to me to confirm the validity of the reports that Mr. Dean had been providing me, through other members of the White House staff, on which I based my Aug. 29 statement that no one then employed at the White House was involved."

He added that "it was in that context that I met with Mr. Dean on Sept. 15 and he gave me no reason at that meeting to believe that any others were involved."

3 - "Not only was I unaware of any coverup, but at that time and until March 21, I was unaware that there was anything to cover up."

Nixon said that "On March 21 I was given new information that indicated the reports I had been getting were not true."

"I was told then for the first time that the planning of the Watergate break-in went beyond those who had been tried and convicted, and that at least one and possibly more persons at the re-election committee were involved."

Nixon said he learned - presumably from Dean, though Nixon did not say - that funds had been raised for the Watergate defendants, but Nixon said he thought it was for the purpose of paying their legal fees, not to keep them silent.

"I was told that one of the defendants (presumably E. Howard Hunt) was currently attempting to blackmail the White House by demanding payment of $120,000 as the price of not talking about other activities, unrelated to Watergate, in which he was engaged.

Nixon said that it would be possible to raise $1 million to keep the defendants from talking. Haldeman has said Nixon did say it was possible, but added the words "it would be wrong." Nixon did not refer to that, either.

4 - After receiving "disturbing information" on March 21, Nixon said, he ordered new efforts "to get the facts out" and began by meeting with Dean, Haldeman, Ehrlichman and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell - those now accused in various phases of the coverup.

When Dean did not provide information requested on him, Nixon said, he assigned Ehrlichman to investigate and to report his findings to then-Atty. Gen. Richard G.

Kleindienst. On April 15, Nixon said, Kleindienst and Peterson "told me of new information that had been received by the prosecutors."

Nixon's statement did not explain why, though, Petersen had urged him to fire Haldeman and Ehrlichman - but not Dean - the President instead, on April 30, fired Dean and announced that he was regretfully accepting Haldeman's and Ehrlichman's resignations, while praising them as two of the finest public servants he had known.

5 - Nixon reiterated his refusal to make public his secret tape recordings of White House conversations because in the future "the confidentiality of the office of the President would always be suspect."

In response to objections that a President has no right to withhold evidence possibly material to a criminal case, Nixon said:

"This misses the point entirely. Even if others, from their own standpoint, may have been thinking about how to cover up an illegal act, from my standpoint, I was concerned with how to uncover illegal acts."

Idahoan charges tapes police work, not FBI

"Another legend is that Butte, Mont., is the FBI's salt mine or purgatory. Well, the explanation for this is that at one time we had a good disciplinarian in charge of the Butte office, who did very well with problem cases. But the Butte office covers all of Idaho and Montana - which is a heavenly area in which to be stationed."

"The FBI is filled with dedicated people who are sincerely trying to do a good job, sometimes under extreme difficulties. This includes the fact that there is imperfection in any human organization - such as one former FBI agent who resigned, a year later was robbing banks."

"I think those stories about Hoover becoming senile were a figment of the imagination of disgruntled former agents. I was with Hoover daily until the day he died, and he was by no means senile, but bright as ever. I do think it would have been better for the bureau and for himself if he had retired earlier. But he liked his job, and it was his whole life."

"There was no excuse for Patrick Gray's burning those records. That really hurt the bureau. So did our believing the White House when they told us that the CIA had interposed. But John Ehrlichman's claim that we failed to investigate Ellsberg's case fully is simply false. We investigated massively. It's just that the FBI is extremely careful about the Constitution. We wouldn't, for example, break into a psychiatrist's office in order to steal the confidential records of his patients."

Felt is embarking on a nation-wide college lecture tour "because we've had so many far out extremists as guest lecturers" on the campuses, and I think students would be able to hear both sides."

His attractive brunette wife

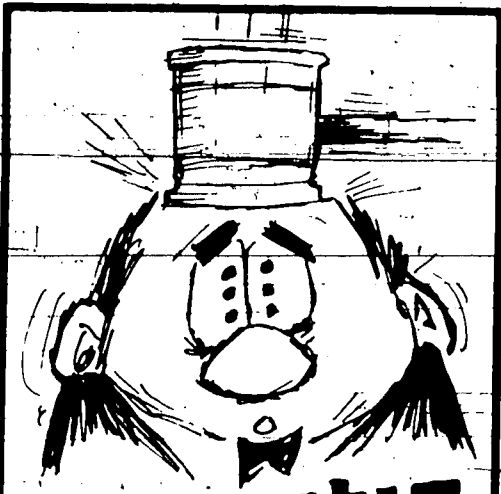

Audrey - one of whose nephews is a dentist in Gooding and the other operates Shoshone Indian Ice Caves - will accompany him on a number of his lecture dates, which include such eastern universities as Duke and Rutgers.

"But there is one place we'd rather go than anywhere else," said Mrs. Felt. "The University of Idaho, because we haven't been back there since we graduated in 1935 and 1937."

Felt has served the FBI in Houston, San Antonio, Seattle, New Orleans, Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Kansas City, and Washington.

Prior to his graduation from George Washington University Law School, he worked as administrative assistant to Idaho's U. S. Sen. Worth D. Clark.

District judge sentences men

TWIN FALLS — Daniel Ferguson, 23, Twin Falls, was sentenced Friday to 14 years in the state penitentiary after having pleaded guilty earlier to assault with intent to commit rape.

After sentencing Ferguson, Fifth District Court Judge Theron W. Ward suspended the sentence and sent Ferguson to the penitentiary with 120 days retained jurisdiction.

Ferguson was originally charged with assaulting a woman in a Twin Falls grocery store parking lot on the night of May 24.

In a second case Friday, Judge Ward revoked the probation of Robert D.

Torkelson, 30, Twin Falls, and ordered him to the penitentiary to begin serving a three-year sentence imposed earlier.

Torkelson was placed on probation in May after being convicted of issuing a check without funds in the bank.

The revocation of Torkelson's probation followed his arrest on July 27 for driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Two special provisions of Torkelson's probation, as imposed earlier by Ward, were that he refrain from alcohol and that his driver's license remain suspended until reinstated by the Department of Law Enforcement.

FOUR sections of the J.R. Simplot Co. potato storage building east of Jerome are nearing completion. Each section will hold 350,000 sacks of potatoes. Also under construction at the site, a quarter mile south of the 93-25 junction, is a combination office and scale house.

Malta firm awarded contract at Cotterel

BURLEY — Industrial Construction Co., Malta, is the apparent low bidder for two additional lanes of interstate highway in eastern Cassia County.

Idaho Highway Department officials said today the firm offered a bid of $1.22 million for grading, drainage, base construction, plant mix surfacing and signing on Interstate 80 between the Salt Lake junction with I-15W and Cotterel.

The project extends 7.45 miles. That segment of the interstate route has been the scene of two head-on crashes claiming several lives in recent months.

Two lanes of interstate highway were built earlier.

Agencies attacking food contamination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) have stepped up efforts toward reducing food contamination. The two agencies are specifically hoping to reduce the incidence of salmonellosis, one of the more common food poisonings, which is passed on to humans through contaminated food or through contact with an animal or human carrier.

Salmonella bacteria can live and grow in the human digestive tract once contaminated food is eaten. The resulting disease is often confused with the flu, since its symptoms are similar. Though seldom fatal, it causes extreme discomfort and can last from two to seven days.

Representatives of the two agencies told a news conference Tuesday that red meats and poultry are the "casual food" in 70 per cent of reported outbreaks from contaminated food, and that careless handling practices during preparation of food for home or restaurant use account for 53 per cent of the reported illnesses.

The "single most important link" in cutting down on foodborne illness is the consumer, the agencies said, so a major effort will be made to mount an intensive consumer education campaign — conducted through the media — to warn against improper food handling procedures.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter told newsmen that the agencies also recommend continuation of a cooperative federal-state industry program to eliminate salmonella from rendered animal by-products used in animal feeds.

This, he said, would probably require modification of processing procedures and facilities in meat and poultry plants under inspection by the Agriculture Department to reduce bacterial cross-contamination of products and equipment.

Several changes are being considered in that area, he said, such as chlorination of water supplies and total separation of raw from cooked products during both processing and storage.

FDA Commissioner Alexander Schmidt said that his agency would be charged with development of model ordinances governing sanitation and food handling in retail stores, food service institutions, and standards for the food transportation industry.

Yeutter said that both agencies had agreed that to aim for total eradication of salmonella "would be an unrealistic target" since the organism is so widely distributed throughout the environment.

"What we need to do is recognize where we can further improve our food processing and handling procedures to reduce the risk," he said.

Larger Gem apple yield forecast

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today the state's apple production should be the largest this year since 1969.

The service said 120 million pounds of apples are forecast for this season, which would be the largest since 1969 when 134 million pounds were produced.

Based on prospects as of Aug. 1, production of the delicious variety, including red strains is forecast at 63.0

million pounds and accounts for 53 per cent of Idaho's 1973 apple crop.

At the same time the reporting service said the state's dry bean production forecast is down 13 per cent from last year's crop.

The crop is forecast at 1.86 million hundredweight. The reporting service indicated the decline is the result of decreased acreage which is down 13,000 acres from 1972.

Idaho dry pea production drops

BOISE (UPI) — Dry pea production in Idaho is down 23 per cent this year compared to 1972, according to the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

The sharp decrease in production was a result of both a decrease in acreage and low yields.

Production was expected to be right around 576,000 cwt.

At the same time, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said small grain harvest highlighted the past week's activity as combining operations are in full swing throughout the state.

Milk price support increased

WASHINGTON (UPI) — remainder of the marketing year which ends March 31, 1974. The increase is effective immediately and goes from $5.29 to $5.61 per hundredweight. The previous support level was announced March 8. Butz made Tuesday's announcement in Madison, Wis.

Country Western music fans gather

Cassia jamboree attracts 5,000

BURLEY — Nearly 5,000 people crowded into the stands at the Cassia County Fairgrounds to see and hear Country Western music star Buck Owens and his All-America Show Wednesday night.

Country western stars Tony Booth, Buddy Allen, LaWanda Lindsey, the Bakersfield Brass, and Don Rich and the Buckaroos, joined Owens in a two hour jamboree that brought round after round of applause from the crowd.

Owens, who was in Burley two years ago for the jamboree, told the crowd his group always enjoyed coming to Burley. In fact, he said, "If I were going to move to Idaho, I sure would move right here."

Within about 10 minutes of the close of the concert, Owens was flying back to Bakersfield, Calif., home base of the group, but the other stars remained at the fairgrounds for nearly an hour signing autographs.

Jerome fair set Aug. 22-25

JEROME — Plans for the Jerome County Fair and Rodeo to be held Aug. 22-25 have been completed this week, according to John Stelle Jr., fair board chairman.

Stelle said the four days of events will get underway with a parade in downtown Jerome at 3 p.m. Sharon Davis, Miss Idaho, will be the parade marshal, Stelle said.

"Following the parade the Jerome Art Guild will unveil their final mural on the produce building," Stelle said. He noted this will be the third mural done by the Art Guild in the past three years.

The rodeo will be held Wednesday and Thursday nights with events Wednesday to include a performance by the Lariatiers from Madras, Ore., Stelle said. He noted that the Lariatiers performed last season in New Plymouth at the Idaho State Fair and Rodeo Association.

Also on Wednesday night the queen contestants will perform in the rodeo arena, with the selection and crowning to take place Thursday night, Aug. 23. Stelle said this is the first year the queen contestants have competed for the title during the rodeo.

"We feel the public should be able to participate more in the queen competition," Stelle said.

A Western Jamboree will be held at 2 p.m. and at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 25. The jamboree will be between the Wood River Association and the Eastern Idaho Association. Stelle said both jamborees will feature cow milking contests.

Friday night the 4-H awards will be presented in the rodeo arena. This is the second year the awards event will be on Friday night, give the parents an opportunity to see their children receive awards for their 4-H project they have entered in the fair, Stelle said.

Entries sought

JEROME — Leroy Weigle, chairman of the Jerome county fair and rodeo parade, said Tuesday he is still taking entries for the parade which will be held Aug. 22.

He has already received numerous entries in the parade and others wishing to enter should contact him at 324-4181.

Weigle said the theme for this year's parade is "Rich Heritage — Unlimited Future." He noted that prizes for parade entries will be as follows: for floats with the best parade theme, first place $50, second place $25, third, $15; posse, first, $25, second $15, third $10; marching teams, first $15, second $10 and third $5; prizes for the novelty entry are the same as the marching teams.

Attorney general says no prosecution at ranch

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

RUPERT — The Idaho Youth Ranch is "off and running" since the attorney general's office said there will be no prosecutions of former ranch personnel, James Worsley, executive director of the ranch, said Wednesday.

Worsley said he was "reassured there would be no prosecutions" of those involved in child abuse charges at the ranch by Robert Bushnell, chief counsel for the Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS) last Friday.

Although Minidoka County Pros. Atty. Robert Nielsen released a statement several weeks ago stating that he would conduct no prosecutions, the innuendo was that Tony Park (Idaho attorney general) wasn't happy with Nielsen's decision, Worsley said.

"But that is out and over with and done," Worsley said, and the ranch is beginning to hire new personnel. The former directors and entire house parent staff of the ranch resigned last spring in a management disagreement.

Worsley said he would be making a general news statement within a week "to answer people's questions" about the youth ranch and recent news articles concerning activities there.

"I didn't make a statement before because I didn't feel I was safe to do that until I felt there would be no prosecutions," he said.

Officials from the Yellowstone Boys Ranch, who have been helping set up a new program at the Idaho Youth Ranch, have published a report outlining the program for the youth ranch, Worsley said.

Worsley met with Rita Blackaller, director of child and family services for DECS, Wednesday afternoon to discuss the report and make any revisions necessary to comply with DECS guidelines.

Monday, Worsley said, the attorney general's office will give him a recommended punishment schedule to be used at the ranch.

David O. Naugle, a former Yellowstone Boys Ranch employee, has been hired by the Rupert ranch, as director of social services, Worsley said. Naugle's wife has been hired as educational coordinator to work as a liaison between school officials and boys attending county schools.

Marvin (Dusty) Mills, a former Yellowstone Boys Ranch employee, was recently hired as the new assistant executive director. The position was previously labeled ranch

Negotiated settlement predicted in Cambodia

TWIN FALLS — Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, predicted Wednesday the halt in US bombing of Cambodia most likely will lead to a negotiated settlement between government and insurgent forces.

He said it was unlikely that the Lon Nol regime would collapse in the near future, "although that is awfully hard to predict."

McClure, who voted for a compromise bombing halt deadline which went into effect Wednesday, said "It's not likely but not impossible" that US combat forces would again be used in Cambodia to support Lon Nol.

However, he expressed the "hope" that the United States would continue to supply Cambodian loyalists with supplies.

McClure said the end of the American combat role in Indochina is being greeted by relief instead of joy.

"I don't think there is any rejoicing," he said. "Certainly we're glad our men aren't being killed there anymore. I think the division and wounds in our society are deep — it's just about removed the joy."

"There is more relief than joy," McClure said. Southeast Asia is now more secure than it was when the US first became involved in combat there.

"In spite of our failure to achieve a clear-cut victory, Southeast Asia is more secure than it was, except for the Indochinese peninsula." He said the Communist gains on the peninsula had been offset by strengthening anti-Communist forces in other Southeast Asian areas, such as Mylaysia and the Philippines.

"I think the real unknown right now is how North Vietnam will respond when they renew the aims so often expressed by their leaders over the last 50 years — domination of the Indochinese peninsula," he said.

McClure said the US has lost the will to fight another war such as the one just ended.

"I don't think we have the will at this point," he said. "I'm not certain that an all-out assault on Thailand and a direct appeal to us might not rekindle support."

"Most of the criticism of US support for Vietnam was that it was a civil war we were involved in. If North Vietnam launched an all-out attack on Thailand, it would be different."

"I don't know if we can predict what our responses would be. I don't think we ought to signal in advance that we wouldn't become involved. We made that mistake in Korea."

"It would be more difficult to respond this time."

Solon seeks Bax firing

SODA SPRINGS, (UPI) — State Sen. Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, fired over a press release from the Department of Environmental and Community Services, Wednesday called for the dismissal of administrator James A. Bax.

Budge said DECS called a public hearing to gather testimony on the environmental impact of a sulfuric acid operation near Soda Springs and then issued another release indicating the hearing would be "a mere formality."

A hearing is scheduled for Friday in Soda Springs for the proposal by Agricultural Products Corp. fertilizer plant to expand its sulfuric acid plant.

Budge said DECS in the news release stated the purpose for the hearing is "to gain comment and information from the public regarding the proposed expansion."

He said the press release also specified that testimony from the hearings would be presented to the board of Environmental and Community Services before a decision is reached.

Budge said a second department release said DECS could not tell the company "how much it can produce but we can have a say on how much is emitted to the environment. In this case, we will not allow an increase in present levels of emission."

Budge said that stand is "contrary to the welfare of the state of Idaho and its people."

"When any state agency takes a position indicated by the statement of Dr. Bax that public hearings are a mere formality, disregarding any input by the people, then the state no longer needs or wants or desires his services and he should be terminated and a man appointed to his place who will be responsive to the people of whom he has asked an opinion."

John Squires, Pocatello, a member of the board of Environmental and Community Services, said the department has followed exactly the right procedure in scheduling the hearing even though the hearing is not required by law.

Squires said Bax felt the corporation request was a very important matter and scheduled the hearing in order that the board could hear from the local people.

Squires noted the department has the final authority in adopting the rules and regulations and orders necessary for the department to carry out its responsibilities.

In this case, said Squires, the board must adopt a binding order that spells out exactly what environmental requirements agricultural products must meet. The department staff makes proposals but the board makes the final determination.

Bids let for highway project

BURLEY — A stretch of planned interstate highway between the junction of Interstate 15 and Coterrell was bid Tuesday and set for completion next fall.

A bid of $1.22 million by Industrial Construction Co., Inc., Malta, was the apparent low bid of five received for the 7.45 miles on I-80 North to be constructed, the highway department said.

"When this one is complete, we will have four lanes of divided interstate highway from Tuttle to the Utah state line," said Victor N. Richardson, state highway engineer.

This stretch of highway was the scene of two recent accidents which claimed the lives of eight Intermountain area residents.

On July 27 Candis Lynn Wilson, 22 and David S. Allen, 22, both Utah, were killed in a head-on collision about 2 miles south of the Coterrell weigh station on a two-lane section of the roadway.

Five members of a Boise family and a Burley woman were killed June 5 in another head-on collision near Sublett on a two-lane section of the same highway.

Richardson said the project includes construction of roadway and paving, signs, painting and lighting.

Contest set

FILER — From 12 to 15 entries are anticipated for the Miss Rodeo Idaho contest Sept. 4-8.

Gene Hull, contest chairman, said the event will be conducted in connection with the Twin Falls County Fair. The new Miss Rodeo Idaho, to be chosen on the night of Sept. 8, will represent the state in the Miss Rodeo America competition at Las Vegas, Nev., in November.

Appearing in the contest will be the current Miss Rodeo Idaho, Lola Anglin of Tendency, and Pam Martin of Las Vegas, the reigning Miss Rodeo America.

Hull said contestants are anticipated from most of southern Idaho, and the young women entering the contest are being asked to submit photos and biographical information to him no later than Aug. 23.

Man arrested

TWIN FALLS — Arthur Dwight Watson, 22, Twin Falls, was arrested Wednesday by Twin Falls and Kimberly police on a charge of first degree burglary.

Twin Falls detective Captain Tim Qualls said the arrest was in connection with an Aug. 1 burglary of the Kimberly Drug Store in which a firearm and quantities of drugs were stolen.

Qualls said Watson's arrest followed the serving of a search warrant. The stolen gun and a portion of the missing drugs were recovered, he said.

Qualls said the value of the stolen merchandise was between $500 and $1,000.

Watson is being held at the city jail pending arraignment today in Magistrate court, Qualls said.

Mental health offices moved

By ROBERT SCHLEEF
Times-News writer

RUPERT — Minidoka County Mental Health offices under the Department of Environmental and Community Services will be located at 637 Fremont Ave. within the next two weeks, according to social worker Steve Dow.

The department is now working out of Minidoka Memorial Hospital. The change of offices is necessary, according to Dow, lack of space and large case load.

There are presently four people working out of one office at Minidoka Memorial. Normal case load, says Dow, would be about 35 people. The department is handling about 100 cases.

Since Dow came to Rupert in January of this year the department has worked with about 250 people.

Three people have been added to the staff. Mrs. Jane Hill has been working on volunteer basis during the summer. She plans to return to school this fall to major in social work and will continue to work two days a week.

Karren Short was hired as a secretary and Bonnie Hess has been employed to administer testing.

Since Aug. 1 evaluation testing has been done in Rupert. The tests which take about two hours to complete had previously been administered in Pocatello. Test results had taken from four to six weeks to be returned to the Rupert office. Test results are now available in under two weeks since the testing has been localized.

The Minidoka County Mental Health Department has been working closely with doctors in the area. The program receives psychological backup from Twin Falls.

Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: At my age, I should be giving advice, not asking for it, but I just don't know how to handle this. My husband passed away two years ago of a terminal illness. While he was sick, his best friend, Charlie (a divorced man) was wonderful to both of us, and he promised my husband he would "look after" me.

After my husband's death Charlie helped me in my grief and loneliness, and I transferred the love I had for my husband to him. He's pushing for marriage, but I just don't trust him. I have become suspicious, jealous, and resentful of Charlie. He says he loves me, but he is very often "unreachable," which upsets me. I have caught him in several lies, for which he always has explanations, but I am not convinced.

Every time I try to tell him I want to hold off marrying him, he gets a terrible attack of something. (Asthma or the shingles.) I am so afraid he will die, and I'll be responsible for it.

How can I get out of marrying him without making him sick?
IN A BIND

Avoid scene

DEAR IN: Avoid a scene. Gently ease Charlie out of your life. See others and drop him gradually without telling him it's his swan song. It's your neck or his.

DEAR ABBY: I need help soon. My son is engaged to be married. I met his bride-to-be only once. She is a beautiful, rich society girl. I hear they are having a big church wedding. There will be judges, congressmen, governors and all kinds of high-class people there. Abby, I have never been to a wedding like this let alone been IN one.

This is way out of my class. I wish I could say I have a headache at the last minute and ditch the whole thing. I don't know what to wear, and I won't know how to act or what to say. I'm afraid I'll be a hick from the sticks and I'll embarrass my poor son.

I do janitor work in an office building at night, and I just won't fit in with these people.

How can I either learn fast or get out of it?
GROOM'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Be yourself, and you'll do just fine. Ask your son to find out what kind of gown the bride's mother is wearing, and wear one that will go well with hers. (Perhaps your son and his fiancée can help you purchase the dress and accessories.) You need not feel inadequate or embarrassed. After all, you are contributing something to the wedding that is of the utmost importance: The groom!

DEAR ABBY: BUGGED IN THE BRONX, a secretary, complained because her husband called her at work several times daily to talk about nothing. She said she cuts him short, saying she's busy, but he calls right back to finish a long, boring story.

You advised her to keep cutting him shorter and shorter until he gets the message.

It won't work. Here's my advice: Tell him: "No calls at work unless the house is on fire or somebody drops dead." When he continues to call, as he will, do this: When you say: "Hello," and he says: "Hello," you say "Good-by," and hang up on him before he has a chance to say anything else. When he calls back and says: "You hung up on me," you say: "I know it," and hang up on him again. Nothing else will work.
BEEN THRU IT

DEAR BEEN: If that's not "cutting him shorter and shorter until he gets the message"—what is?

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 63706, L. A., Calif. 90009. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Visitors refute claim about Irish civil war

By PAULINE DAY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — "Northern Ireland is not in the throes of civil war" according to three young men from North Ireland visiting in Twin Falls.

They said, the trouble was political rather than religious.

"We watch television to find out where the trouble is the same as you do," they said. In Dublin and Ulster where the men attended school there was virtually no trouble at all, they said.

The three men are participating in a student work exchange program. The program offers foreign students an opportunity to work in a field related to their studies for six weeks and become acquainted with new people and ideas.

Neill Montgomery and Ivan Cunningham both come from Ballyclare, County, Antrim, Northern Ireland, and Finlay Clements is from Co. Tyrone, Northern Ireland.

Montgomery is a graduate of the New University of Ulster majoring in chemistry and plans to go into teaching.

Cunningham attends Trinity College in Dublin and will major in veterinary science. He worked with a veterinarian in New York.

Clements is majoring in medicine at Trinity College, and worked as an orderly at a hospital in New Jersey. He is a cousin of Joe Clements, Twin Falls.

The three left the east coast and traveled to Ontario, Canada, through Detroit, Chicago, the Black Hills, Yellowstone Park and Colorado and Idaho. From Twin Falls they will travel to California and then return to the east coast by the southern route. They expect to return to New York the end of the month and leave for home in September.

All three men said they were impressed with the size of the United States as compared to Ireland. They cited other noticeable differences as the number of working wives in the United States and the "speed of living" here.

They were also impressed with the friendliness of the western people and were thoroughly enjoying the "Twin Falls hospitality." All agreed one of the worst experiences is the "feeling of large trucks bearing down on them on the freeway at such tremendous speed," especially when you're traveling in a small car.

Cunningham said he was impressed by the number of small animal hospitals in this country.

They were amazed at the current price of meat and said they felt our economic structure was the reason so many wives worked and men held second jobs.

Wedding announced

KIMBERLY — Mrs. Peggy Demain, Kimberly, and Jerry Demain, Gooding, announce the marriage of their daughter, Gwen, to Harold Shoup Jr., Gooding.

The ceremony was performed Aug. 10 at the Calvary Baptist Church, Elko.

The couple will reside in Twin Falls. The bride will attend Twin Falls High School and the bridegroom is employed at Idaho Frozen Foods.

Pops concert slated on Saturday near Ketchum

KETCHUM — A pops concert, presented by Twin Falls musicians, is planned at 4 p.m. Saturday at The Prospector on Warm Springs Road.

The guest artists, all of whom are well-known Magic Valley performers, will present a program under the direction of Larry Curtis, CSI-music director, on the dining room terrace overlooking Warm Springs Creek. The newly landscaped grounds of the restaurant will be arranged with chairs and small tables to accommodate invited guests, according to Dick Williams, manager of the Prospector.

Participating will be Mary Walker, and Martha Mead, both Twin Falls and Roger Vincent, Filer, vocalists; Clare Gibbs, Harriet Denton, both Kimberly; Ernest Moss and Curtis, both Twin Falls, and Laura, Jane and Margaret Vincent, all Filer, instrumentalists.

The same group presented a similar concert earlier this year at College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts auditorium. Pop concerts such as Saturday's event will provide an outlet for Twin Falls area musicians, and it is hoped that additional concerts will be held at The Prospector, Mrs. Walker said.

The restaurant also features Sunday brunch with home-made gourmet foods.

Student freedom to end Aug. 27

TWIN FALLS — All Twin Falls School District students, from first graders through high school seniors, are to report to their respective schools at 9 a.m. Aug. 27, according to Supt. George Staudaer.

Faculty members will meet at 9 a.m. Aug. 24 in the Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School auditorium for a general faculty meeting.

Dr. Gerald Wallace, dean of the college of education, Boise State College, will be the guest speaker.

High school registration is scheduled from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., with seniors enrolling on the 20th, junior class students on the 21st and sophomores signing on the 22nd at the Twin Falls High School.

All elementary and junior high students who did not register during the spring sign-up may enroll on the 20th from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at their schools.

There will be no fees charged for elementary students. Junior high pupils may pay a voluntary fee of $5 for activity ticket and locker fees, and high school students will pay $20 for a variety of fees including annual, student-activity card, Bruin News, locker, class dues and athletic towel fee.

High school and O'Leary students will pay their fees at the time of enrollment, while Robert Stuart Junior High School students will pay on Aug. 31. All senior high students are to meet in the high school auditorium at 9 a.m. on Aug. 27.

Junior high and elementary students will report to their home rooms. Home room lists will be posted on bulletin boards in each school near the principals' offices.

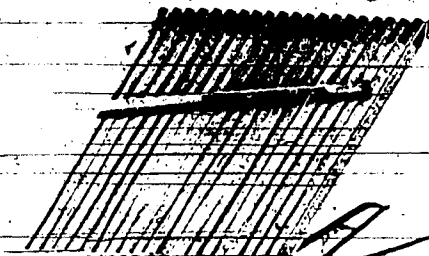

All first grade students entering school this fall must bring their birth certificates to prove that they will be 6 years of age on or before Oct. 15.

School lunch will be served on the first day in all schools except the high school and Vera C. O'Leary Junior High.

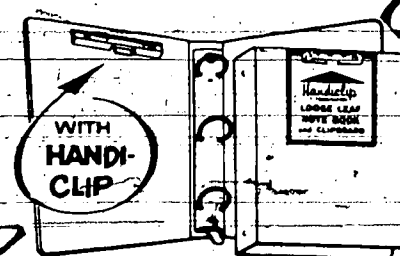

Bus routes will remain as they were last term. Information on bus routes may be obtained from Kirkman Brothers.

Pilot art program deferred in Blaine

HAILEY — The Blaine County School Board has deferred action on a proposed student pilot art program to determine whether Title III funds would be available.

Mrs. Glenn Janss, representing the Sun Valley Creative Arts Center, outlined the proposed program, which will be conducted at the center, Monday night during the monthly board meeting.

According to Supt. Wayne Fagg, Mrs. Janss told the board that the center's ceramics building would be able to serve from 25 to 40 students and described the facilities and resources available at the center.

She requested that the district contribute $2,000 to help cover program costs. Fagg and Asst. Supt. Ray Jefferson will meet with D. James Belson, center director, to discuss possible application for a Title III grant.

The board also tabled a request by Mrs. Janss to finance continuation of the center-organized arts and crafts programs at Bellevue and Hemingway Elementary Schools until those program costs could be determined.

That had to be the best percentage, so he promptly cashed his king and queen of that suit. East followed and it was all over but the mopping up. He entered dummy with the ace of diamonds and led the ace of hearts. East could gain nothing by discarding because the parade of hearts would continue so East ruffed.

South overruffed and proceeded to pull the rest of East's trumps, but now he had the last trump left in dummy.

Book Tells How To Knit Raglans

"Raglans Unlimited" is a book of concise and simple knitting directions for all basic raglan sweaters: Pull-overs and Cardigans, with a choice of Round, Turtle or V neck; even a choice of long or short sleeves in the lighter weights of yarn. As a matter of fact, you can make 416 different sweaters from this book without repeating!

This book gives all patterns worked from the neck down — the very popular method of knitting raglans which has heretofore been so hard to find in a range of sizes and for different weights of yarn. As most knitters know, or will be delighted to discover, this method of knitting a sweater gives a finished garment that requires an absolute minimum of finishing or putting together and eliminates entirely the necessity of "setting in" sleeves — a task which so many knitters find objectionable.

Instructions are given for all sizes ranging from 2 through 52. There are very few knitting instruction books available with these larger sizes for any style or type of sweater, much less raglans. Also, the instructions are given for four different weights of yarn: fine weight fingering yarn, medium weight sport yarn, heavy weight knitting worsted and also for the bulky weight.

Directions are written so that a complete sweater can be made without turning a page, with none of the usual tracking down of bits and pieces of information from page to page, to be put together like a jigsaw puzzle. This should appeal to the most experienced knitter, as it certainly will to the novice — and all degrees of skill in between.

"Raglans Unlimited" is not available in stores and can be purchased only through the mail by sending $2.00 (post-paid) to: Knit 'N' Notion, P.O. Box 161, Fairless Hills, Pa. 19020, Dept. 836.

Pollsters asked 1,062 citizens. "If you could invite anybody in the world to dinner at your place, who would you choose?" Mostly, those queried named President Nixon, Henry Kissinger, Spiro Agnew, Billy Graham, John Wayne, Paul Newman, Burt Reynolds, Dean Martin and Elvis Presley. The only non-Americans to turn up on the roster were Queen Elizabeth, The Pope and Mick Jagger. All right, young lady, you're the hostess. Direct the conversation.

That Americans are more apt to marry for love than other nationals is generally understood. Still, a client denies it. If true, writes this subscriber, how come Americans so readily break up their marriages? Divorce statistics hereabouts, says our Love and War man, do not so much indicate the failure of love as the refusal of citizens to live without it. This topic also is one he'll discuss in detail next time he hires a hall.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q "How often should I repaint my house?"
A Depends on the color. White, every four or five years. Tinted, every five or six years. Dark, every six to eight years. Or so advise those Federal sages in the Department of Agriculture.

Q "What countries still refuse women the vote?"
A Liechtenstein, Jordan, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and Yemen.

Q "How long before a baby porcupine is weaned?"
A About a week.

Volume of water in the earth's ice caps and glaciers is said to be equal to the flow of all the earth's rivers for 1,060 years.

LARGE NOSE

Consider the renowned military gentlemen named Hannibal, Caesar, Washington, Lee, Foch, Pershing and MacArthur. A physical characteristic they had in common was the large nose. Noting such, a researcher concludes the man with the prominent proboscis tends to be a forceful fighter with a propensity for leadership. Endorse that?

The goddesses outnumber the gods considerably in the Hindu faith, remember that.

In England, it was called "The Church Ale," that regular Sunday afternoon get-together. A custom thereabouts for 500 years. Parishioners gathered either in churchyards or nearby barns. Chief activity was the drinking of brew. Church wardens prohibited some. Not only charged they for the liquor, but they turned the passing of the collection plates when the lubricated generosity was paramount.

Was a rare fellow in early America who made his living solely from dentistry. Mostly, he was a barber or a tunker or a clockmaker. Too moonlighted in teeth. False teeth there were made of ivory, quite true. But it had to be hippopotamus ivory, not elephant ivory, to be regarded as the premium thing.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Many new ideas are now yours and you can get off to some interesting new situations and people who inspire you with the right means for making your life more effective and through whom you can gain the information necessary if you are to advance towards a more interesting life. Expand.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be active dealing with people and problems important to your welfare and get excellent results. Engineer the works wisely. Entertainment good, friends charmingly.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Find the right way to get the advice you need from experts so you can put it to excellent use. Follow your intuition for more success in the future. Avoid one who wants to learn in your territory.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan time for being with trusted pals and get into those group affairs important to your well-being. If you use a positive approach you can get action on that personal aim. Don't retire too late tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Contact those people who can do much to further your aims of a career nature. Add to prestige by joining in some civic work that is important. Show you have true ability.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get into the good graces of a charming person whose experience has been different from yours. Gain much thereby. Make the plans now to travel for some important purpose and count the cost well.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Sit down with experts and find the best way to handle all your responsibilities without having to worry so much. Find a better way to please loved one, also. Show you are loyal.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Sit down with associates and discuss mutual aims and operations intelligently for right results. Being more cooperative with others brings fine understanding. A little firmness with mate brings good results now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A day to get much work done provided you first schedule your time and activities wisely. Make sure that co-workers understand work plan before delving into it. Home is your best bet tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A day for doing pretty much what you want to do and doing it well, since you operate best this way, whether in business or social life. Remember mate with some charming gift. Show you truly care.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get into the activities at home that kin approve of for excellent results, pleasing all concerned. Then take it easy at home and enjoy the company of those you love. Take that chip off your shoulder.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are alert and clever now and should sit down with partners and reach a fine understanding as to future operations. Handle letter writing, transportation matters wisely. Avoid one who wants to waste your time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want to add to present income and can do just that if you follow through on fine practical ideas you have. Do listen to what a most successful person you know has to suggest. Avoid one who has strange ideas.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those individuals with a fine mind who will want to have praise for anything really worthwhile accomplished early in life. The incentive will be lessened by criticism as this is a sensitive youngster who needs to be handled with the proverbial kid gloves. There can be fame in this chart, especially in the field of government, the theater, or the oratorical platform. Give finest education you can afford.

Early season reduction okayed for pheasants

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Fish and Game Commission Wednesday passed about the same seasons as last year, following reports that the pheasant population is fairly good.

Commission Chairman Paul C. Keeton, Lewiston, said there will be a lowering of the bag limit the first five days of the season, however.

Pointing out the need of reducing hunting pressure during the first part of the season in heavily-hunted areas of southern Idaho, the commission ordered the reduced bag limit of two cock pheasants per day and two in possession for the first five days of the season beginning Oct. 27.

Beginning Nov. 1, the bag limit in the main pheasant-hunting areas will be four cocks per day with a two-day bag limit of eight allowed in possession beginning Nov. 2.

Southwestern and southcentral Idaho counties were allowed a pheasant season through Dec. 9 with one hen per day allowed in the daily bag limit from Dec. 2-9.

The pheasant season in northern Idaho opens Oct. 12 and runs through Nov. 18, with a daily bag limit of two cocks with four allowed in possession after the first day was set for the panhandle.

The Hungarian, chukar partridge and quail seasons open Sept. 15 and run through Dec. 30 in chief areas for game birds in southwestern and southcentral Idaho.

Sage grouse seasons will be Sept. 15-23 in the main areas. Wild Turkey seasons were set on a general hunt basis with one turkey permitted in the season Sept. 22-Oct. 5.

Cottontail and pigmy rabbits seasons are Sept. 1-Feb. 28. The duck season was cut from 107 days last year to 100 days from Oct. 6-Jan. 13, 8, the 26 counties of the Columbia Basin Millard section. The season in the rest of the state closes Jan. 6.

Geese hunting seasons vary from Oct. 12-Jan. 6. The 1973-74 furbearing animal seasons and regulations were established with minor changes, with most trapping seasons opening either Oct. 15 or Nov. 1.

The commission also authorized fish and game department director Joseph Greenley to make a 45 per cent cutback in poundage of catchable trout to be produced in the 197-74 season.

The reduction was authorized after it was pointed out that fish food costs have increased from $9.91 per hundredweight last year to $19.79 per hundredweight currently.

This represented an increase of about $200,000 over the amount budgeted for this fiscal year.

Officials said lowering in the poundage for next year will affect the number of catchable-sized fish to be planted in Idaho.

Niagara closed

BOISE (UPI) — The 1973 Idaho fishing regulations for Gooding County were amended Wednesday by closing Niagara Springs creek from the falls below the Niagara Springs hatchery upstream until further notice.

The action taken by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission was in response to the sterilization and rehabilitation program that is being conducted at the hatchery following a recent outbreak of disease in hatchery fish.

Burrow signed while still in college

ATLANTA (UPI) — A court suit brought by Ken Burrow of the Atlanta Falcons shows Burrow signed a contract with a professional management company and one of its agents contrary to NCAA rules, the Atlanta Journal reported Wednesday.

The suit revealed that while Burrow was playing his senior year at San Diego State, the wide receiver was under contract to Probus Management Inc., and agent Norman Young, who were to handle his financial affairs upon being drafted by a professional team, according to the Journal.

The blank, undated contract was signed in the spring of 1970 before Burrow began his final year as a collegiate player, the newspaper said. He was later drafted by the Falcons and signed with the team in February, 1971.

Burrow filed suit against Probus and Young, charging mismanagement of his salary, filing a false federal income tax return on his behalf and failing to file a Georgia state income tax return.

U.S. District Judge William C. O'Kelley last week awarded Burrow $95,000 in damages but noted that the player had entered the agreement "when he was otherwise ineligible to sign professionally."

The Journal said Burrow received $250 when he signed the contract and another $50 per month through the summer of 1970 and during his senior Watch fishie?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Children who stare into fish tanks for a long time may be damaging their eyes, according to Dr. Alden Haffner, consultant to the Society for Visual Care and director of the Optometric Center of New York.

Haffner warned that youngsters should not get too close to fish tanks which have ultraviolet fluorescent lamps.

College games get underway in Russia

MOSCOW (UPI) — The U.S. basketball team, unbeaten after 11 games in Eastern Europe, began its quest today for a gold medal in the seventh World University Games.

The Games officially opened Wednesday night with a 61-nation parade of colors marked by loud boing of the Israeli delegation.

The U.S. cagers, led by All-America David Thompson of North Carolina State, met Britain in the first round of competition. At stake in the end, however, is the pride and prestige of the United States, which lost at these Games four years ago and then was shattered in the disputed Olympic competition at Munich last summer.

Thompson, a unanimous N.C. State's 25-0 season this past year, led all scorers with 20 points per game in the Americans' sweep of teams from Poland, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia.

The gala and colorful opening ceremonies, held at rain-drenched Lenin Stadium before nearly 90,000 persons, were clouded by a chorus of boos and whistles directed at the 32-member Israeli delegation, one of two participating contingents not having diplomatic relations with the Soviets.

The other nation, South Korea, was received with no noticeable favor pro or con. North Korea is boycotting the Games because of the participation of its southern neighbor.

The rain, which caused the processions of flag bearers, bands and nations to dodge numerous puddles on the stadium infield sod, cut short a fireworks display at the ceremony's finale but not before a youthful Soviet track and field star, Ludmila Zharkova, lit the traditional Games torch.

The 300-strong U.S. contingent, dressed in blue blazers with white pants, was led by two-time Olympic gold medal winner Cathy Carr, a swimmer from Albuquerque, N.M. Miss Carr, 18, captured Olympic titles in both the 100-meter breaststroke and 400-meter medley relay.

Twins rap Tigers from loop lead in 9-7 homerun derby

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Larry Hise's two-run homer in the eighth inning Wednesday night—the sixth home run hit in the game—gave the Minnesota Twins a 9-7 victory over Detroit and knocked the Tigers out of first place in the American League East.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, encouraged by a sustained dollar strength overseas, opened higher in moderate activity on the New York Stock Exchange.

Shortly after the opening, the Dow Jones industrial average was up 0.36 to 874.63. Advances were more than two to one ahead of declines, among 367 issues traded.

On Wednesday, news of continued dollar strength abroad, and a Commerce Department report showing the nation in the June quarter had its first balance of payments surplus since 1969 helped stocks move a bit higher, but trading remained subdued. The Dow gained 3.46 to 874.17.

The dollar rally overseas continued Thursday, with the currency opening sharply higher against European currencies. With stocks at or near their yearly low following two weeks of declines, analysts said the improved international monetary situation may give the market a lift.
