USSR scores missile gains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has caught up with the United States in developing multiple ICBM warheads which can be steered to individual targets, Defense Secretary James F. Schlesinger said today.

He said a new warhead successfully demonstrated for the smaller SS17 was designed to carry four warheads with substantially lower explosive power than those for the SS18. (Megaton equals 1 million tons of TNT.)

Schlesinger did not say how he knew the new warheads had been successfully tested, but the United States regularly monitors Soviet missile progress with reconnaissance satellites.

Court powers denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon claimed in federal court today that the judicial branch of government has no power to reverse his position that the public interest requires him to keep secret White House tapes of his conversations about the Watergate scandal.

The President's latest views on the controversy were spelled out by his lawyers in a 16-page brief filed in U.S. District Court in response to a request by Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox for a court order to compel Nixon to surrender selected portions of the tape recorded material.

Citing various rulings by the Supreme Court and lower courts to support the President's position, his lawyers said in the brief.

Forecasts 'inflated'

WASHINGTON — The Department of Agriculture has declared earlier government estimates of foreign commitments for United States wheat and other grains "erroneous and inflated."

Meanwhile, wheat prices continued to fall on the Chicago Board of Exchange, and this could ease mounting pressure to impose export controls as sought by domestic buyers bidding against foreign buyers. The Agriculture Department continued to oppose such controls.

Murtaugh boy loses leg

HANSEN — A 5-year-old Murtaugh youth had his leg amputated following a farm accident about seven miles southeast of Hansen Thursday evening.

An official of Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital said Danny Brinkman, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Brinkman, Murtaugh, was in "fairly satisfactory" condition this morning in the clinic's intensive-care unit following the amputation.

The boy was injured when his leg became caught in the moving grain auger of a self-propelled combine.

Reports of the accident were sketchy. Apparently the boy was either stomping grain into the hopper or sitting atop the hopper and fell prior to getting his leg drawn into the auger.

A rescue team worked for nearly two hours to free the boy before he was taken by ambulance to the hospital.

Cloyce Edwards of Magic Valley Ambulance Co. said ambulance attendants Glen Barth and Wesley Annis responded to the emergency call.

Annis, Edwards said, finally freed the boy by removing the auger with a cutting torch.

Edwards said Annis is a professional cutting torch operator in addition to working as an ambulance attendant. The cutting operation was ticklish, Edwards said, because of the tightness of the hopper and the possibility of burning the boy.

Times-News advertising representative Tom Lane, who went to the scene after hearing the emergency call over the police radio, said a doctor was at the scene when he arrived.

Lane said sedatives were administered to the boy so that his leg could be disengaged from the hopper as painlessly as possible.

Water plan mullied

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A staff planning task force presented members of the Idaho Water Resource Board (IWRB) with six alternative approaches Friday for completion of a state water plan by early 1977.

Board members were expected to choose from among the approaches this afternoon during a meeting at the Blue Lakes Country Club. The approach recommended by the Planning Task Force and Development Task Force would commit the IWRB to an objectives report by April, 1974, and a final basins report scheduled for completion in January, 1975.

The objectives report, according to the schedule envisioned by the task force, would "treat subjects such as water management, water quality, recreation and irrigation. It would generally not discuss projects, specific area, or specific problems."

The state water plan basins report, according to the outline prepared for board members consideration, would "demonstrate to the public and to federal and state agencies the general course that the Idaho Water Resource Board anticipates it will take in conducting subsequent studies."

Gil Haycock, a planning engineer and member of the task force, told Board members today the group had "discussed major environmental concerns, efficient use of water and computer models of water inventory," and looked at the legislation that had been passed pertaining to the IWRB before drawing up its report.

US economy cools while prices soar

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The economy cooled dramatically between April and June while prices rose at the highest rate in 22 years, the government said today.

In a revised report on the Gross National Product GNP, the Commerce Department said the economy expanded at an annual rate of 2.4 per cent in the second quarter compared to 8.7 per cent in January-March.

A preliminary GNP report issued by the department last month put the April-June growth rate at a 2.6 per cent rate but administration economists said statistical quirks had pushed the figure far too low.

They contended that the economy was much healthier than the figures indicated and the revised report, using more up-to-date statistics, would bear this out.

But the first report proved to be just about on target.

The 2.4 per cent second quarter "real" growth rate (economic expansion minus the effects of inflation) was the smallest of any quarter since the recessionary 4.8 per cent decline in the last three months of 1970.

On the price side, the inflation rate was 7.3 per cent in the same period, up from a 6.1 per cent surge between January and March.

The second quarter inflationary surge was the biggest since a 13-per cent jump in the first quarter of 1951, when the buildup for the Korean War pushed inflation to an all time high.

HOUSTON(UPI) — Skylab's astronauts, with their workday crammed with experiments, fly their Buck Rogers type miniature spacecraft again today to see if the jet propelled unit can aid future spacemen. Dallas are rationed DALLAS (UPI) — Distributors of Coors and Budweiser in Dallas said Thursday they would ration beer to retailers because their supplies are limited. Jimmy Smith, general manager of the firm that distributes Budweiser in the area, said transportation problems and a strike at the Anheuser-Busch brewery at St. Louis caused the shortage. Coors said its problem was that sales had grown faster than production.

BOISE (UPI) — The Executive Reorganization Commission Thursday approved proposals for horse racing, brand inspection, law enforcement, and changing the name of the Department of Environmental and Community Services. The proposal calls for changing the title for Environmental and Community Services to the Department of Health and Welfare. Environmental Services will remain a division of the department. The commission approved placing both the state brand commission and horse racing inspection functions under a Department of Law Enforcement along with the state police, narcotics and liquor law enforcement. Proposals calling for the State Board of Education to be a policy making body with authority over institutions of higher learning and the superintendent of public instruction administrator of public education also were considered by the commission. The staff proposal suggested the superintendent of public instruction should be an elected official and serve on the state board as he now does. The commission was in disagreement over the degree to which the functions and structure of the board and superintendent should be spelled out and asked the staff for additional studies which will be presented at the Sept. 6 meeting of the commission. They also called for further clarification of the status of junior colleges. The placement of agriculture commodity commissions swung through three possible options: placement under the commissioner of agriculture, under the state auditor, or as a separate group but united. The reorganizers finally agreed they would need to gather opinions from the public during public hearings before a decision will be reached. The draft calling for continuing the present functions and structure of the lieutenant governor's office also received approval of the commission. Other state offices that would not be changed under the reorganization proposal, are the state auditor and the state treasurer.

Cambodia fighting tapers off

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Only one minor engagement between government troops and rebel soldiers was reported on the outskirts of Phnom Penh today—two days after American bombs officially stopped falling in the country. But Thursday, at least two American jets made passes over Phnom Penh and an official of Prince Norodom Sihanouk's exile government claimed the bombing was still going on. Both warplanes, one of them a Phantom F4 fighter-bomber, were apparently on reconnaissance missions. The U.S. air war in Cambodia officially ended Wednesday but Washington has said reconnaissance flights will continue over the country. In Paris, a minister in Sihanouk's exile cabinet said the "so-called American reconnaissance planes are continuing their dirty work by occasionally dropping on our country their bomb loads."

Hired workers made up the remaining 21,000, and showed a decrease of 3,000 workers from the previous year.

Family closeness shows in times of bad trouble

FREMONT, Calif. (UPI) — Jesse DeAnda is proving that his family is close—even in times of the worst of troubles.

Seven children were orphaned last month when their parents, Robert Montalbo, 43, and his estranged wife, Joan, 39, died in a murder-suicide in a mobile home parking lot. DeAnda, a self-employed insurance broker, is their cousin. He also has a wife, four daughters and two foster children. Despite a crowded home, he took in six of the Montalbo children.

The seventh is 20 years of age and is living elsewhere in search of a job so he can help support his brothers and sisters. DeAnda is applying for a loan to add four bedrooms to his five-bedroom house.

The dead parents left no will, which is causing financial headaches for DeAnda and the Montalbo children.

A mortgage company has initiated foreclosure action on the Montalbo estate because of delinquent payments. The Internal Revenue Service has placed a tax lien on the estate. And there isn't enough money to buy school clothes for the Montalbo children.

DeAnda has obtained the services of an attorney who is trying to salvage money for the orphans. The lawyer is trying to obtain Social Security benefits for them.

DeAnda will go into Superior Court on Aug. 29 in an effort to become the guardian of the orphans.

The Montalbo children are Susan, 16, Sandra, 14, David, 13, Danny, 10, Yvonne, 8 and Nancy 6. Robert Montalbo, 20, is living in the family home while looking for work.

DeAnda said the children were "a great help" in assisting his wife in the household duties.

"And my wife now has to prepare meals for a family of 14 rather than eight," he added.

But, he said, the whole situation has become "a challenge" for him and he is determined to keep the family together.

"We are a close family," he said.

DeAnda said he has added another table to his small kitchen so all can eat together.

"Now, if we can get some clothing together for the children, they will then be ready for the opening of school next month," he said.

Ceremony slated

TWIN FALLS — Company D 321st Engineering Battalion, the Twin Falls unit of the Idaho Army National Guard, will hold a change of command ceremony Saturday, August 18, according to Spec. 4 Dick Elliott, the unit's public relations non-commissioned officer.

First Lt. Dennis K. Hendricks will assume command from Captain Clyde N. Carlson, Twin Falls, who is being transferred to Battalion Headquarters in Boise.

Camping free in forest camps now in S. Idaho

TWIN FALLS — Camping is free in forest camps in southern Idaho now.

It's also free at Craters of the Moon National Monument, although an entrance fee is still being charged visitors there.

Use fees on federally administered campgrounds were suspended in compliance with an amendment to the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act, signed Aug. 1 by President Nixon.

The law eliminates fees for access or use of, any campground not having flush toilets, showers, access and circulatory roads, sanitary disposal stations, visitor protection control, designated tent or trailer spaces, refuse containers and potable water. The law applies to all campgrounds administered by federal agencies, including the Forest Service, National Park Service, Bureau of Land Management, and Bureau of Sport Fisheries.

Robert Hoag, recreation officer for the Sawtooth National Forest, said no fees are now being charged for campgrounds on that forest, since none offer trailer hookups and showers.

Previously, fees were charged at some newer and better campgrounds, Hoag said.

Tom Kovalicky, recreation assistant for the Sawtooth National Recreation Area, said no fees are being charged at campgrounds in that area. The SNRA has about 40 developed campgrounds, and fees were charged at about two-thirds of those prior to the new law, he said. "A spokesman at Craters of the Moon said while no fee is charged for campground use, an entrance fee of $1 is charged. Another entrance fee will be charged persons who remain more than one day, then leave the monument grounds and re-enter to reach their campsite.

Use of Golden Eagle and Golden Age passports is not affected by the new law, nor are fees charged for use of campgrounds operated by concessionaires.

Regional forest service officials in Ogden, Utah, said the change will cause loss of about $350,000 in revenues in the Intermountain Region, which includes the Sawtooth National Forest, SNRA, and other southern Idaho forests.

State police to provide gas for stranded autos

BOISE (UPI) — For stranded motorists on Idaho highways who ran out of gas, State Police patrol cars are a welcome sight — they will give drivers enough fuel to get them to a service station, even with the current gas shortage.

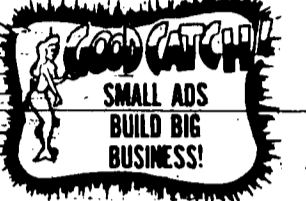

The program was initiated in 1966 by Idaho State Police Supt. L. Clark Band in an effort to save time.

Before, troopers drove people to the nearest service station, got gas and then drove them back to their vehicles.

ISP Operations Officer Capt. M. J. Bays Jr., said the gas kit carried on patrol cars includes a nine-foot plastic tube and a valve that fits in to gas tanks of cars. He said it takes about three minutes to pump one gallon.

"It's better than carrying a gas can," Bays said, "because gas may stop around in a patrol car."

Peace boost goal

JERUSALEM (UPI) — An Arab accused of hijacking a Lebanese airliner to Israel to promote peace in the Middle East said in court today he "only meant good" and "didn't mean to commit any crime."

At the brief hearing for Mohamed A-Touni, 37, police asked that he be sent back to jail while charges against him were prepared. The procedure is common to Israeli law.

A-Touni told the court: "I do not deserve to be imprisoned. I only meant good and I didn't mean to commit any crime. I planned this for years and I made sure to protect the passengers to assure that no harm would come to them."

Judge Eliezer Goldberg turned down A-Touni's plea not to be imprisoned and sent him back to jail after a 10-minute hearing.

A police attorney said, "This is a normal investigation and it is basic procedure to put a suspect in jail during an investigation."

A-Touni appeared disheveled and unshaven 18 hours after he commandeered the plane on a flight from Benghazi, Libya to Beirut.

Reading the charge sheet, Judge Goldberg said A-Touni "hijacked the plane while threatening with arms. When the plane was over Cyprus, he forced the pilot to land at Lod." A court interpreter translated from Hebrew into Arabic for A-Touni.

A-Touni appeared drunk when he took over the plane Thursday afternoon, wielding two pistols he bought in Alexandria, Egypt. The plane landed at Tel Aviv's Lod Airport, where Israeli security officers entered a hatch underneath the plane and overpowered A-Touni from behind. No shots were fired.

None of the 119 persons aboard the Boeing 707 was injured. They slid down the plane's emergency chute and were given refreshments in the airport's lounge until their plane continued its flight to Beirut five hours later.

It was the second time in a week that a MEA plane landed unexpectedly in Israel. Last Friday Israel warplanes forced a MEA jet to a military airfield in an unsuccessful effort to kidnap four Palestinian guerrillas.

Oregon fire near homes

LaGRANDE, Ore. (UPI) — Whole families in the south end of this community were evacuated Thursday night as a lightning-caused fire threatened to burn their homes.

The fire burned across 7,000 acres of grass and timber and destroyed at least six plush suburban homes.

Lightning ignited dry brush four miles west of here about 1:30 p.m. Thursday and by late evening flames had burned a seven-mile trail. McGhehey said there was to be a declaration of disaster to be made through the Office of Emergency Preparedness.

No people were injured in the fire. Homes in the Glass Hill area two miles to the south were in danger, he said.

The Union County Disaster Committee, National Guard and Oregon State Police were coordinating evacuation efforts.

Military man quits

ATHENS (UPI) — Gen. Odysseus Angelis resigned today as commander-in-chief of the Greek armed forces to become the country's No. 2 political leader.

The government said that Angelis, elected vice president of the new republic last month, was succeeded as commander in chief by Lt. Gen. Dimitrios Zagorianakos, the army commander. Under Greek law Angelis could not hold both elective and military office.

Strongman George Papadopoulos, who has led the government since the colonels' coup in 1967, and Angelis will take their oaths of office as president and vice president Sunday, a government spokesman said.

Boise fire crews brace for worst

BOISE (UPI) — More than 1,000 firefighters throughout the nation have joined northwestern crews as weather conditions pushed fire dangers to a point one official termed the worst in 18 years.

Weather service forecasts today called for winds, little humidity and possibly thundershowers in the drought stricken area.

The Boise Interagency Fire Center borrowed 1,080 firefighters from state and federal fire crews, Job Corps camps and migrant farm labor groups to boost the crews to a total of 6,000 as the center mobilized for the extreme situation.

Jack Wilson, Bureau of Land Management director, said Army and National Guard crews will be called to fight the fires if needed. National guardsmen in Montana have already been placed on alert.

Monroe Kuntz, Milwaukee, Wis., branch chief in fire management for the U.S. Forest Service, said the crews will be kept in the areas as long as they are needed for suppression and mop up work.

Depression nears

DALLAS (UPI) — The country is in the midst of a recession and headed toward a depression because of "big banks and the federal reserve," Rep. Wright Patman, D-Texas, said Thursday.

But Patman said his House Banking Committee will begin hearings at the end of the Congressional recess to head off the potential economic disaster.

"We are in a recession right now," Patman said in a telephone interview from his home in Texarkana, Tex. The cause of nation's economic ills is high interest rates, Patman said. The prime interest rate is now at 9 3/4 per cent in some places.

"The big banks and federal reserve are making a depression right now," he said. "The prime interest rate is a big fraud and a fake anyway. It is not meaningful and nobody enforces it."

"It means the big fellows like General Motors, General Electric and American Telephone and Telegraph can get their money at a fixed rate. It is a ceiling for them. But it is a floor for other persons, who have to pay interest rates of 15 per cent sometimes."

VFW talk planned by Nixon

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — The White House confirmed Thursday President Nixon would speak to the opening session of the annual Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in New Orleans about midday Monday en route to San Clemente, Calif.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the President would fly on to his home and western office at San Clemente for a stay through Labor Day.

While in San Clemente Nixon will hold his first news conference since March 15. Associates say he will be prepared to cope with questions about Watergate.

Warren said the President would speak out "forcefully" in the coming weeks about problems that he considers of overwhelming importance, such as energy, inflation and foreign policy issues.

Warren had no information on what Nixon would say in his speech Monday to the VFW. Asked whether the public would be admitted, he said he understood the auditorium capacity to be limited to about 4,500 persons and attendance would be limited to convention delegates and their wives.

Ceiling hit

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. Geval Hansen, R-Idaho, Thursday sent a strongly worded telegram to the Cost of Living Council saying it was imperative that a re-valuation be made of proposed ceiling prices for retail gas sales.

He said in the telegram to Council Director John T. Dunlop, "I ask and urge that the date for the price norm be set at June 1, 1973."

Hansen has been meeting with oil jobbers and distributors and reports they are vocal and unanimous in protests against a Jan. 10 markup base.

Idaho agencies miss budget deadlines

BOISE (UPI) — State budget officials hoped all 108 state agencies could meet the Aug. 15 deadline for presenting written budget requests, but only 21 did and eight received time extensions.

Deputy Budget Director Larry C. Seale said Thursday the law reads that all agencies must submit their budgets by Aug. 15 unless approved for extension by the legislative director and auditor.

He said there used to be a flat deadline, "but that didn't make any difference. We wound up getting them late anyway." He said for some agencies there is certain information that becomes available after the deadline that is essential in forming their proposals, citing fall enrollment at colleges and universities as one example of vital information not available before the deadline.

Seale said this is the first year the state has had a provision to extend the deadline but as far as enforcing it, he said, the budget division is limited.

"The major problem is we have a job to do ourselves. Unless we have enough material to work with ourselves, it is difficult to prepare the budget analysts, investigate the budgetary requirements and help the governor prepare his legislative presentation.

Alson held up when budgets are not on time are legislative fiscal officers and the joint finance and appropriations committee.

Among those agencies submitting budgets on time Wednesday were the state treasurer, retirement system, Professor Geologists Board, state insurance fund, vocational rehabilitation, Veterans Affairs Commission.

Congressmen tour Pacific White House

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two investigating congressmen toured the Western White House Thursday, even looking over the President's bedroom, and said the $2.4 million in federal money spent there appeared to be justifiable on security grounds.

Even the $76,000 worth of trees and shrubs appear to be legitimate screens against a sharpshooting assassin, they said.

But they want congressional control of such spending in the future.

Rep. Edward R. Roybal, a Democrat, said he began the tour with "a very critical attitude" but that after seeing the ground himself "My general impression is that the money which was spent for security was well spent."

Accompanying Roybal, of California, was Rep. Jack Edwards, R-Ala.

On behalf of the House Appropriations Committee, they spent three hours in the complex at San Clemente, Calif., they said, and were taken through all facilities, including the office building, the grounds of Nixon's privately-owned estate, and into the house where they viewed many rooms, including the president's office and bedroom.

Another congressman, Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., was turned away when he tried to conduct such an examination Monday.

"When a person sees what had to be done to install security equipment around the house, the large sums of money spent for landscaping and other items seems justified," Edwards said.

For instance, Roybal said, because of a palm tree that was planted there "you could see that a marksman couldn't possibly hit the window where the President may be walking across."

"It's beautiful shrubbery and it costs $76,000. When it was pointed out why it was done you can understand to what extent they (the Secret Service) do."

"If someone shoots the President, we'll be the first to jump on the Secret Service," he said. "They're in the business of not losing presidents, and I can't say (the money spent) has been a waste. If cheaper than it is to have a state funeral."

Nixon's No. 2 campaign man

Magruder pleads guilty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jeb Stuart Magruder, a key aide in President Nixon's campaign last year, says he feels "comfortable" after pleading guilty to conspiracy in the Watergate affair.

"I feel as good as you can under the circumstances," Magruder said Thursday a short time after he entered the plea in U.S. District Court. "I decided it was best to plead guilty to the charges as stated, and I feel comfortable having done so."

The charges against Magruder accused him of conspiring to tap the telephones of the Democratic National Committee, hampering the investigation, concealing evidence and lying under oath. The information filed against Magruder by special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox also accused him of taking part in a conspiracy to "misrepresent that the Central Intelligence Agency had an interest in limiting the investigation."

Magruder, 38, who was deputy director of the Nixon re-election committee in 1972, stood at parade rest as he entered his plea before Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

"I plead guilty," Magruder said in a quiet voice. Sirica postponed indefinitely the sentencing of Magruder and released him on his own recognizance.

Magruder was the second high Nixon campaign official to plead guilty to conspiracy charges. The first was Frederick C. LaRue, an aide to campaign director John N. Mitchell, who entered his plea June 27.

Both LaRue and Magruder will be government witnesses at forthcoming Watergate trials. Sirica said he would not sentence either man until the trials are over.

Conspiracy carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison, a $10,000 fine or both.

James F. Neal, an assistant to Cox, said the prosecutor had decided to accept Magruder's plea to a single conspiracy count instead of indicting him on other charges because Magruder had come to prosecutors voluntarily in April to spell out his role in the scandal.

"Of course, if you're going to have a trial, you've got to have witnesses," Neal told reporters.

Indictments against other figures in the case are not expected for several more weeks.

Sen. Ervin calls for tape release

GASTONIA, N.C. (UPI) — Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., denied Thursday that his Watergate Committee was out to "get" the President. He accused Nixon of obstructing his investigation by refusing to release certain tapes.

"I deeply regret that the President entertains the idea the committee wants to get him," Ervin said. "The committee only wants to get the truth. I deeply hope that the truth will prove the President innocent."

Ervin called Nixon's refusal to provide Watergate investigators with tapes of his Watergate conversations "unfortunate" and urged Nixon to release the tapes to bring the summer-long hearings to a close.

Nixon's call to end the hearings, made in his televised speech to the nation Wednesday night, was quickly rejected by Ervin.

"He more than any other human being can speed completion of that work" by releasing the tapes of recordings of conversations with former White House Counsel John W. Dean III.

Dean, in testimony given before the committee at the outset of its 37 days of hearings, said he thought Nixon was aware of a coverup of Watergate activities as early as Sept. 15, 1972, less than three months after the break-in of Democratic headquarters.

"The President is obstructing not only the courts, but also the committee" by refusing to relinquish the information which Ervin said would serve not only the committee and the nation, "but also the President if they sustain his position."

The Bible-quoting hill country senator, here to address a chamber of commerce group, said he wanted to avoid making an issue of the confrontation between the committee and the President and to talk about the matter "without emotion."

Nixon's defense that release of the truth would hurt the office of the President was a "queer position" to assume, said Ervin.

US war role debate opens

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. combat activities in Indochina ended this week, but the Pentagon and an antiwar senator have opened a new debate about what the American war role should be in the future.

Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, said Thursday the United States should cut off all aid to South Vietnam if the Saigon government tries to help the Lon Nol government in Cambodia.

"The law is clear," Hughes said, of restrictions Congress put on aid to Saigon. "The South Vietnamese cannot use U.S. aid to come to the defense of the Cambodian government. Moreover, the legislative intent of this law was clearly to forbid any operations in the border areas of Cambodia. Such operations would also be in violation of the Paris cease-fire agreements."

If South Vietnam tries to intervene in Cambodia, Hughes said, U.S. aid should cease immediately. There has been speculation the Lon Nol government might need the help of South Vietnam since it lost American air support when the U.S. bombing halt went into effect at midnight Tuesday.

William P. Clements, the deputy defense secretary, disagreed with Hughes' assessment.

He said the United States cannot prevent the Saigon government from deciding on its own to provide military support to Lon Nol.

SS agent fired for violation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Secret Service agent who disclosed confidential information about Sen. George S. McGovern during last year's campaign that eventually got back to the White House is out of a job.

The Secret Service fired agent James C. Bolton, Jr. Thursday for violating agency policy.

However, Secret Service spokesmen denied that Bolton, who was assigned to the detail protecting the Democratic presidential candidate, was working actively for the Nixon re-election campaign. This was implied in a confidential White House memorandum quoted last week by The Washington Post.

The service said Bolton had innocently told his father during a "family conversation" about a scheduled weekend meeting in Massachusetts which apparently was never held between McGovern and an alleged subversive.

Libya takes over firm

BEIRUT (UPI) — Libya took its "slaps in the face" campaign against the United States a step further by taking over 51 per cent of the U.S.-owned Oasis Oil Co. Thursday, six days after nationalizing the American Occidental Oil Co.

Oil sources said Amoseas, a third American firm and the only major group still operating independently in the oil-rich country, will be next.

On Aug. 10, Libya nationalized 51 per cent of the Occidental Oil Co. Thursday's development also came two months after the Bunker Hunt Oil Co. was nationalized.

Tripoli Radio said the agreement signed by Libya and Oasis will give the government an immediate 51 per cent interest in the company and 100 per cent control by January, 1975.

The government of Col. Moammar Khadafi, who has described his oil takeovers as "slaps in the face" for the United States because of its pro-Israeli policies, put pressure on Oasis by banning its oil exports following the Occidental takeover.

Libyan Oil Minister Ezzedin Mabrouk said in a statement in Tripoli Thursday night that by signing the agreement with Libya, Oasis had avoided outright nationalization.

Mabrouk said Oasis "gave in to the conditions of this agreement" after realizing "our determination to gain full control of our oil wealth and regain our legitimate rights by all means."

Oasis signed Thursday on behalf of Continental, Amerada-Hess and Marathon, owners of the company. Representatives of the Shell Company, which also forms part of Oasis, said they would have to consult with head office before agreeing.

The deal with Oasis, which has come after months of negotiations and threats of nationalization from Libya, includes an accord on substantially higher prices the company will pay for crude oil.

Kevin awaits visit

Kevin now able to accept bid

CAREFREE, Ariz. (UPI) — Kevin Steen has a surprise for his friends, the spacemen. It looks like he'll be able to accept that invitation to watch the joint Russian-American space mission after all.

Kevin was 12 and the doctors said he was dying of cancer when the invitation was made last year.

He was the subject of worldwide attention when he was invited aboard the USS Ticonderoga to watch the Apollo 17 astronauts splash down in the South Pacific, returning from the last planned moon landing.

Kevin is a space buff and was invited by NASA after doctors said he had terminal cancer and would be dead in a few months.

Kevin is 13 now, and doctors say they can't explain it, but the cancer is "in remission" — subsided and no longer an immediate threat to his life.

Kevin's explanation for the dramatic reversal in his condition is that "God has a plan in my life."

Doctors say that in the final stages of his four year battle with cancer, he was given drugs so strong that few patients survive the side effects. Now he is completely off drugs and needs no treatment at all. He still undergoes examinations every other week because the cancer could recur.

New price rules for gas delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With service stations operators in several parts of the country threatening to close in protest, the government has delayed until Sept. 1 the start of new price rules for gasoline and diesel fuel.

The present price freeze on gasoline and diesel fuel remains in effect until then. But the freeze ends and new price regulations begin for all other petroleum products at midnight Sunday as scheduled. Midnight Sunday had been the deadline also for gasoline and No. 2 diesel fuel. The two-week delay was announced Thursday by John T. Dunlop, head of the administration's Cost of Living Council.

The new Phase IV regulations, when they do finally take effect for service stations will involve new price ceilings based on the seller's actual cost plus his profit markup in dollars and cents, not percentage — as of Jan. 10, 1973.

Many retail dealers complain that this profit provision will mean money out of their pockets and that thousands of them will be forced out of business.

Robert Jacobs, an official of both the Illinois and Indiana gasoline dealers associations, said in Chicago Thursday he expected 90 per cent of the service stations in the Chicago area to shut down in protest Aug. 24-26, with signs reading "This Station Closed By U.S. Government Bungling."

Dealers in Michigan had voted to close all next week. A Pennsylvania association planned to shut down over the weekend. Jacobs said directors of gasoline associations nationwide would meet in Houston, Tex., this weekend and would be asked to lend their support to shutdowns.

These plans were made before Dunlop's announcement of the delay, and it was not immediately clear how this would affect them.

Meanwhile, U.S. District Judge Barrington D. Parker Thursday denied a request by brand name gas station owners to exempt them from Phase IV controls. He gave as his reason the fact that these controls were not yet in effect.

Striker killed on picket line

LAMONT, Calif. (UPI) — One of the original followers of United Farm Workers Union leader Cesar Chavez was killed by sniper's gunfire Thursday as he left the picket line at a table grape ranch.

Chavez, visibly shaken by the slaying, said that if such violence continued he would call off all pickets in the San Joaquin Valley. "We're not going to have our people shot," he said as he toured the area.

The UFW was striking 28 ranches which recently signed contracts with the Teamsters Union. The two unions are locked in a battle for farm worker representation.

Juan Delacruz, who had worked for Chavez since 1965, died at Kern General Hospital in Bakersfield where he was taken after a slug ripped into his chest near his heart. Two Filipino workers, Bayani Advincula, 20, and Ernest Baclig, 64, were arrested after witnesses reported the license number of the sniper car.

This was the first fatality near a struck ranch in the union struggle. However, on Wednesday a UFW member died from injuries suffered when he became engaged in a scuffle with a Kern County Sheriff's deputy outside a tavern here.

A memorial service will be held today in nearby Delano, birthplace of the UFW for Nagi-Daiffulah, 24, who suffered the fatal injuries in the fight with the deputy. A UFW spokesman said picketing would be halted during the 1 1/2-mile procession from the mortuary to union headquarters where Daiffulah will be eulogized by Chavez.

Divers abandon Andrea Doria

FAIRHAVEN, Mass. (UPI) — A team of divers Thursday abandoned its month-long quest to recover $2 million in riches believed aboard the luxury liner Andrea Doria, which sank 17 years ago when it collided with the Swedish vessel Stockholm, killing 51 persons.

The recovery mission, which cost at least $250,000, was abruptly ended Thursday when a trio of divers who had managed to cut into the sunken vessel two days earlier found access to the ship's purser's office all but impossible.

"One long wall was badly buckled and there was a lot of wreckage in there—twisted steel and wooden beams," support diver Tim Kelley said. "We decided it was a death trap, and we weren't going to send them in there."

Crewmen also said weather conditions were becoming increasingly dangerous.

The support ship Narragansett steamed back to this Atlantic Ocean port today, towing an underwater living chamber used as a home base for the search at the ocean bottom. Divers Chris DeLucchi, and Donald Rodocker, both of San Diego, and photographer Bob Hollis remain in the habitat, affectionately known as "mother," undergoing decompression.

Before the search was abandoned, divers recovered some valuables, but crewmen refuse to detail what they are. Any booty may be subject to a court fight, and one crewman said there was a concern of "piracy" attempts on the trawler's return to Fairhaven.

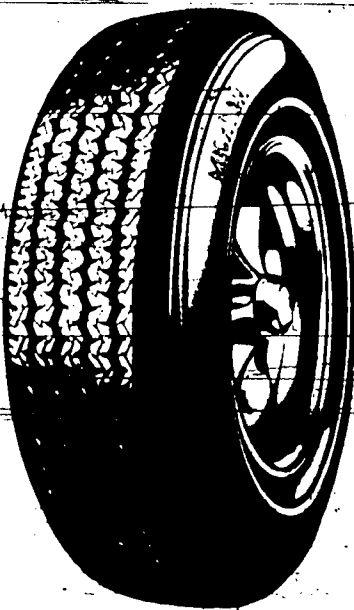

No newsmen have been allowed aboard the Narragansett, and all reports on the progress of the expedition have been made over ship-to-shore radio by members of the salvage team.

Most of the $1.1 million in cash and nearly $1 million more in art objects, jewelry and other valuables, however, are believed located in four safes in the purser's office.

"Everybody was basically disappointed when we decided not to open the safes," Kelley said.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) —

The stock market, lacking substantial enthusiasm, opened slightly higher Friday in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was ahead 0.15 at 872.89 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 147 to 125, among the 425 issues crossing the tape. Turnover amounted to more than 340,000 shares.

There appears to be little buying enthusiasm in the market at this time. This showed Thursday when the market, after a substantial early gain, backed off and closed lower.

There are some favorable news developments in the background. The dollar has risen and the price of gold, which rose sharply in the past few months, declined.

Unfamiliar feeds offered as hay substitutes

MOSCOW — With hay costs rising and hay shortages increasing in severity throughout the state, the University of Idaho College of Agriculture is advising farmers how to use some unfamiliar feeds as substitutes for hay.

By-products of grain, pea and grass seed production are suitable for feeding livestock even though they have not been popular feedstuffs in the past, according to Morris Hemstrom, animal scientist for the U of I Cooperative Extension Service.

Although they are feedstuffs with moderate nutrition value, enormous quantities of by-products from Idaho grain and seed production usually go to waste, Hemstrom said. "This year, farmers and stockmen are urged to use these by-products in order to reduce their livestock feeding expenses."

Wheat straw, hop vines, dry cull beans and other by-products are unknown feedstuffs for many farmers who are accustomed to feeding alfalfa hay. A statewide educational effort by the University of Idaho Cooperative Extension Service is aimed at helping livestock producers learn the merits and limitations of the by-product feeds.

"Information about the little-known by-product feeds is available at extension service offices around the state," Hemstrom said. "Most farmers who are seeking information will find it convenient to consult their county extension agricultural agent. The county agent knows the facts — and he's familiar with the local situation."

Some field crops have been treated with pesticides which should not be fed to livestock, Hemstrom cautioned. "Farmers must avoid by-product feeds containing chemical residues," he said. Improved harvesting techniques will help preserve the feeding value of certain by-product roughages, the University of Idaho scientist said.

"When beet tops are properly cured," he said, "they have about 72 per cent of the feed value of alfalfa hay. An acre of beets that produces a 20 ton crop of roots will supply about 14 tons of tops. It is worthwhile to use beet top harvesting equipment which removes the beet tops from the roots before digging. Otherwise, valuable nutrients are wasted." When wheat and other grains are harvested with combines, the chaff and straw may be lost, Hemstrom noted. "Much of the straw can be recovered from the ground," he said, "but the chaff is too fine to be raked up once it has been scattered. The way to save the chaff is to install a chaff board on the combine as a means of bunched the chaff. This is worth doing because chaff is better feed than straw."

How satisfactory is the use of straw and other roughages in livestock rations? "Good results have been obtained when the by-product roughages have been supplemented with other feeds," Hemstrom said. "Proper supplementation is important — and that's why we think each farmer should check with his county agent for information on supplements."

By-products recommended by the University of Idaho as emergency substitutes for hay include the following roughages:

Hop vine silage or hay, pea vine silage or hay, field pea straw, lentil straw, sweet corn canners refuse silage, alfalfa and clover straw, bean straw, beet tops, corn cobs and corn stalks, corn silage and cereal grain straw and chaff.

The protein content of livestock rations can be increased by adding feeds which the university classified as "by-product concentrates." The concentrates — with relatively high percentages of protein include alfalfa and clover screenings, dry cull beans, dry cull peas and wheat bran. "By-product feeds can be utilized to some degree by all classes of livestock," Hemstrom said. "Cattle and sheep will make the best use of roughage because their digestive systems contain bacteria which aid in the breakdown of fiber. Horses will make more limited use of by-product feeds. Hogs will benefit from cull peas and beans but will not effectively utilize most other by-product feeds."

How by-product feeds pinchfit for hay is demonstrated in these typical rations developed by nutrition specialists:

1. A ration for wintering cattle. A cow weighing 1,100 pounds would receive 20 pounds of pea vine silage, 12 or more pounds of cereal chaff and 4 pounds of oat hay. (An alternate ration: 2 pounds of barley plus beet tops feed free choice.)

2. For fattening cattle. One recommended ration for an 800-pound steer would be 10 pounds of barley or other grain, 6 pounds of beet pulp, 2 pounds of cull beans, 10 pounds of sweet corn refuse silage and 2 pounds of alfalfa hay.

3. For fattening lambs. A ration for a 70-pound lamb would be 2 pounds of oat hay, 1 pound of barley, 1/2 pound of beet pulp and 1/4 pound of cull beans.

Oil yield steady

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Mint growers expect to harvest 253,000 pounds of peppermint oil, according to the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Production at this level is unchanged from a year earlier, but 15 per cent less than the 1971 production.

At the same time, the reporting service said Idaho hop production is 11 per cent above that of a year ago.

The Idaho hop production is forecast to be 7.2 million pounds. The indicated yield per acre was set at 1,800 pounds.

Ketchum inspector resignation asked

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — A group of Ketchum contractors and building material suppliers has called for the removal of city building inspector John Jacoby.

In a letter to Ketchum Mayor Kenneth Richey, the group requested immediate action and stated the request had stemmed from problems encompassing the past year.

The letter cited the following points:
— That "in too many cases it has taken up to two and one half months to get a (building) permit. In view of the length of the building season this has unnecessarily handicapped many projects, the letter stated.

— That the group is concerned with a "conflict of interest" by Jacoby.

The letter stated that Jacoby "is the Ketchum building inspector, Sun Valley inspector, Elkhorn project engineer, operating a private practice and designing within his jurisdictional district all simultaneously."

— That "Mr. Jacoby's attitude and conduct while carrying out his duties are not acceptable for a public official."

— That the uniform building code requires two sets of plans to be submitted to the building inspector and, after corrections, the set must be returned to the builder. The letter stated that "this has not always been done."

— That, according to section 204 of the uniform building code, a board of appeal must be created. "This has not been done," the letter said.

The letter further stated, "Keeping in mind the unusual characteristics of building here in Ketchum, we recommend that a board of appeals be created by the city to hear complaints and disputes, to review the uniform building code and recommend practical additions and deletions as required in the code in section 204."

In an interview Thursday, Jacoby — who has served as city building inspector since October, 1971 — said he felt that the 16 persons who have signed the letter do not "even represent a minority" of the building industry.

"I don't feel they have valid arguments for demanding my resignation," Jacoby said. "Although, I do feel," he said, "that they would have some legitimate complaints that I feel should have been brought to my attention before demanding my resignation."

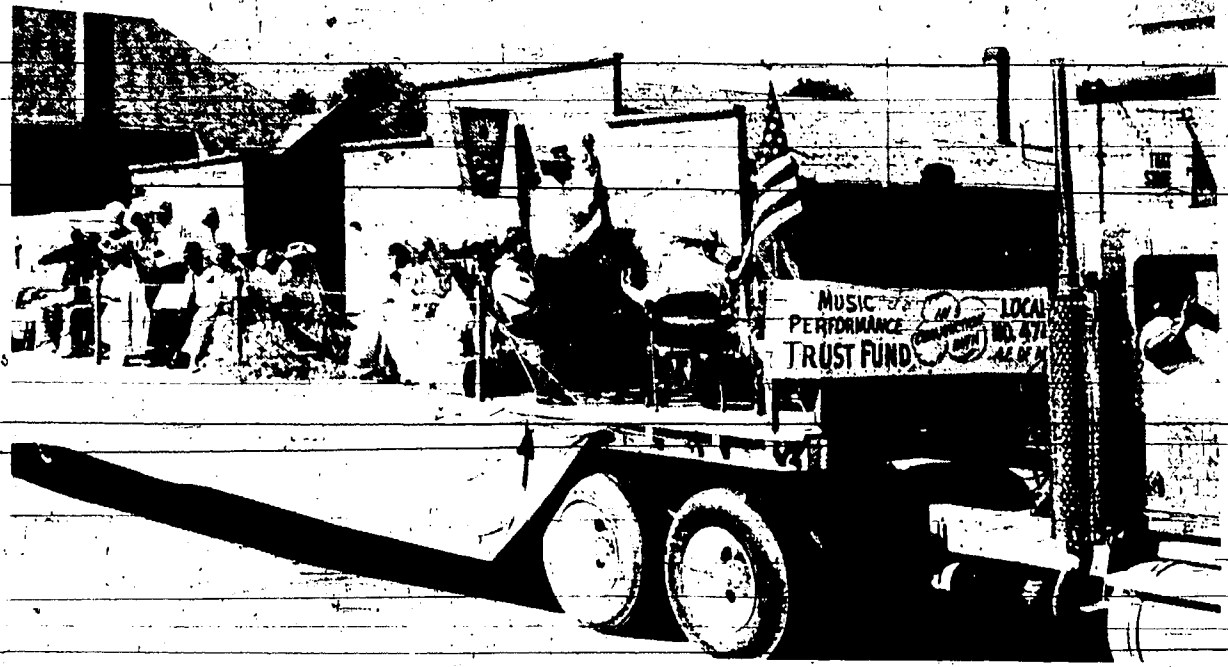

Responding to the points in the letter, Jacoby said the average permit processing time in 1973 was 13 days, including permits applied for during the moratorium and issued after the moratorium was lifted.

Jacoby stated that he had "recognized the possibility of a conflict of interest long before these contractors wrote this letter." He said, "I have never done any structural engineering in the city of Ketchum, except for a few minor beams and columns."

In rebuttal to the point about his conduct, Jacoby said he thought his "attitude and conduct have been above reproach."

The building inspector said that if the second copy of plans have not always been returned it was either "an error or the builder has failed to pick them up."

Jacoby also said he was "all for" a board of appeal. But he said "no one expressed a need" for such a board in the past.

Rupert group hears report

RUPERT — Two traffic reports for the City of Rupert were discussed Thursday at the Chamber of Commerce by John Wanamaker, engineer with the State Highway Department.

Wanamaker said he was assigned by the department to make studies in towns throughout the state because it was felt that local planning needed the aid of some expertise.

"All communities in the state of Idaho are not necessarily up to par in traffic safety," Wanamaker told chamber members and representatives of the Rupert Traffic Safety Council.

He commended Rupert on its interest and noted that the city council had already adopted one of the suggestions in his reports by hiring Chet Mills to study and update all traffic signs in the town.

Wanamaker's main report concerned Fremont Avenue, one of the main streets in the town.

He said that at two points on the artery there were five streets coming together at intersections which could be confusing, and pose a traffic problem, but the arrangement was not unique to Rupert.

The report listed several suggestions for changes on the street, one of which would be to block off the center of the street, closing it to through traffic. Parking could be utilized that way, he said, and the street would be made safer for pedestrians.

"The street is not being used to its fullest extent," he said. The city should take advantage of the width of the street, increase the traffic and promote additional parking and pedestrian crossings, he told the group.

Wanamaker said the city should hire an expert to study the entire traffic picture in the city and "find out where you want to go."

Funds from the recently passed federal highway bill will be going mainly to the larger cities, he said, and small towns like Rupert will suffer. Some state and local roads will be taken off the system, he said.

"If you have a gravel road, you will probably have a gravel road for years to come," Wanamaker said, although construction on major highways will be increased and speeded up.

Deep freeze sales soar

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley deep freezer sales have soared, packers are "doing great" with custom work, and no cattle are being slaughtered for grocery stores.

Packing companies throughout the Valley are running with backlogs of private orders while they have discontinued slaughtering cattle for the retail market.

"We just can't buy cattle and slaughter them and sell them," Howard Gibson of Gibson Brothers Meats in Burley said. For the last 10 days Gibson Brothers had been doing only custom work, "We're staying real busy," he added.

"We're sitting in pretty good shape. We're just doing custom work entirely," Leland Green, an employee of the People's Quality Packing Co. in Rupert, said.

Green said that three weeks ago People's stopped slaughtering cattle for stores. Now, the plant is running at full capacity and is behind on cutting orders, he said.

Mrs. Kenneth Hutchins of Eden Cold Storage in Eden said that they had been able to buy "a few cattle here and there" and that they were putting up some hamburger for schools and the fair.

However, Eden Cold Storage has cut back by more than 50 percent on its non-custom cattle slaughtering operation, Mrs. Hutchins maintained. "This week it's gonna be worse. We just don't have someone around we can buy (cattle) from. In the next two or three weeks we probably won't be doing any (non-custom slaughtering)."

"We're like all the rest of them. Just like Independent, we can't buy the beef and sell it," a worker at Parr's Locker in Wendell said. He said that Parr's had nearly shut its cattle slaughtering operation for grocery stores and was operating at full capacity on custom work.

The worker expressed worry about publicity causing hoarding. "You don't want a run on your meat supply. You'd rather take care of your customers," he said.

Stores react to hoarding by rationing the amount of beef they put on their counters, he maintained. "A lot of stores don't put more meat on their counters to keep from running out. If they weren't (rationing) they couldn't have their counters filled up every morning and emptied out every night," he said.

Steve Gilbert, a worker at Marlow's Meat Market in Wendell, said that his plant had stopped breaking up beef for stores and was now doing solely custom work.

Robert Fletcher, sole business manager at the Bryant Packing Co. in Burley, said that Bryant cannot afford to buy cattle at current prices. However, Bryant has been able to keep up about 50 percent of its business to grocery stores by slaughtering cattle in its own facilities.

Fletcher said that Bryant is "very busy" with custom work and has a backlog of orders.

Meanwhile, freezer sales have complemented the popularity of custom work on cattle. Every Twin Falls deep freezer dealer listed in the yellow pages reports being out of freezers for the past week.

Accused fails to show in Rupert traffic trial

RUPERT — Randy Nelson, 23, Rupert, failed to appear Thursday at his trial for failure to stop at the scene of an accident which resulted in the death of Scott A. Ennis, 15.

A bench warrant for his arrest was ordered by Mindoka County Magistrate Court Judge Blaine Anderson.

Nelson was allegedly involved in the hit and run accident which claimed the life of Ennis, Rupert, on May 11.

Ennis was riding a bicycle along baseline road, Rupert, and was struck by a vehicle driven by Ignacio Mingo, 31, Rupert, about 9:30 p.m.

Mingo had dimmed his lights for an approaching car and failed to see Ennis, according to Deputy Sheriff Robert Nevarez. He said witnesses at the scene of the accident had covered Ennis with a blanket and were directing traffic around him when a second vehicle approached at high speed and ran over the boy.

Witnesses reported jumping out of the path of the second vehicle, allegedly driven by struck Ennis. Nelson was charged with failure to stop at the scene of an accident, and had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Elmore grant OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Law Enforcement Planning Commission has approved a grant of $80,000 in federal funds for the Elmore County sheriff-police building.

The commission also voted to conduct a study to determine whether enough funds from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration will be left over for either a courthouse in Canyon County or a jail in Nampa.

Elmore County Clerk Bill Tread said in addition to the $80,000 from the planning commission, $40,000 in civil defense funds would be used to construct the facility.

He also said about $155,000 would be available due to a bond issue which passed in April.

Blaze battled

BURLEY — The Burley Fire Department was still battling a blaze this morning which began in a 100-ton haystack southeast of Burley Thursday night.

The department received the call about 11:50 p.m. and crews were still fighting the fire early this morning at the Jack Funk farm, 300 South and 150 East of Burley.

Man found guilty

GOODING — After deliberating 5 1/2 hours Thursday, a Gooding County jury found William Trowbridge, 36, Wendell, guilty of possession of stolen property.

He was charged by county law enforcement officials in connection with the theft of calves from a Gooding County ranch. Sentencing was scheduled Aug. 24.

Nixon sets European tour

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon is planning his "grand tour" of Europe in late October and early November to rebuild Atlantic Alliance unity, White House officials said today.

Preparations have begun for a two week journey that will take Nixon to France, Britain, Germany, Italy and Belgium as well as perhaps one or two other countries in western Europe.

Gem water aides hear 6 proposals

Telling the board that planning had to proceed on a "multi-objective" level, he referred to an opinion from assistant Atty Gen Nathan W. Higer.

"The language (of the legislation) clearly speaks to a coordinated, integrated, multiple use plan for optimum development of our water resources," the opinion holds.

"This language is inescapable and directs a broadly based multiple use plan that takes into consideration and allows for all possible beneficial uses of water."

Later in the day, the board was expected to discuss its proposed 1975 fiscal year budget as well as going over a legal review of the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act and a National Water Commission Report.

Water Board director C. Stephen Alfred, told board members, "We need to have clearly in mind what must be done" in preparation of the water plan. "We need direction from the board on what the state water plan should be."

A staff memorandum to Alfred from the task force reports, "No single course of action can be ascribed to as the 'right way' to formulate a State Water Plan." "We cannot copy the California or Texas approaches and satisfy you or our fellow Idahoans. The state water plan should respond to Idaho, its citizens, and resources."

Jerome car drives into tavern in early morning

JEROME — Mrs. Helen Lambert, 46, Jerome, drove her car through the front end of the Northern Tavern on West First Street in Jerome early Thursday morning.

Mrs. Lambert was arraigned Thursday on charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol according to Howard DuBois, Jerome police chief.

DuBois said Mrs. Lambert was leaving the tavern about 1 a.m. Thursday morning when she drove her car through the front end of the building. He said Mrs. Lambert had started her car and was attempting to move it but the emergency brake was on.

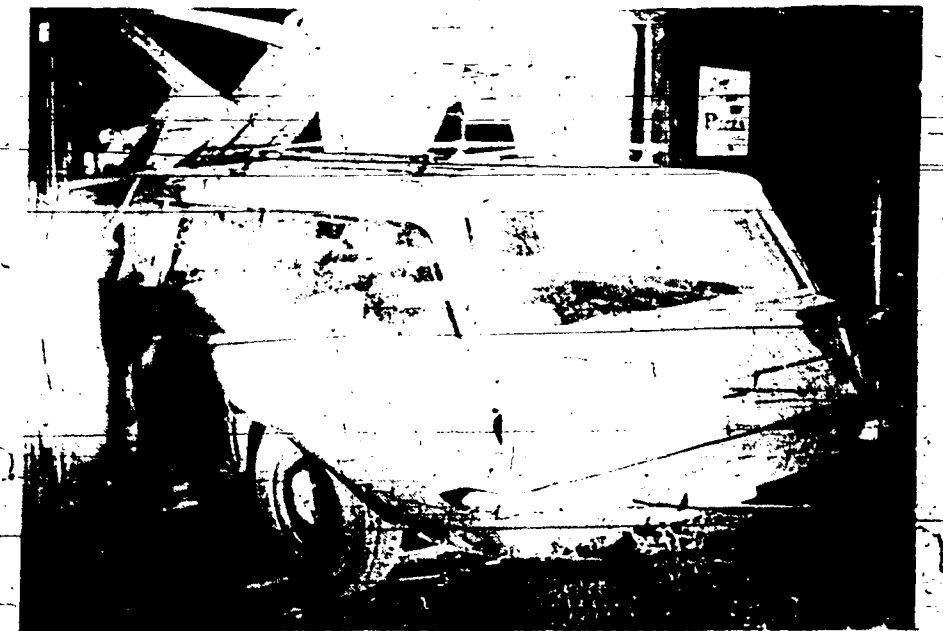

Her son, Carl Lambert, 25, who was in the car with her, told her to release the brake and when she did so the car went forward and into the tavern, DuBois said.

Mrs. Lambert's son was also arrested and is now in Jerome City jail pending charges.

DuBois estimated damage to the tavern to be about $2,000. The front end of the tavern was demolished. The car also hit a piano in the bar.

Neither Mrs. Lambert or her son were hurt in the accident.

Kuhn declines to break inter-loop play deadlock

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was put squarely on the spot Thursday but maneuvered off it quickly by declining to cast a tie-breaking vote in a deadlock over inter-league play. Kuhn said he preferred using his "wisdom" rather than his "power" as commissioner. His action, or non-action, virtually eliminated any chance of inter-league competition for next season. It amounted to a victory for the National League, which was opposed to the plan from the very start. It was the American League which tried to pressure Kuhn into voting by means of a resolution. The feeling among A.L. officials was that Kuhn had the necessary authority to cast the tie-breaker. The National League insisted that under baseball's general constitution, he didn't have. Kuhn, himself, wasn't sure. So at Thursday's joint meeting between the two leagues, which officially ended the summer meetings, he got up and asked a rhetorical question of the assembled officials of both leagues. "Does the commissioner have the power to cast such a vote?" he asked. "It's more a question of wisdom," he went on. "Assuming he does have the power to cast such a vote, he isn't inclined to do this time." A general silence greeted his statement. What Kuhn did instead was create "a blue ribbon steering committee" to consider "any and all aspects of baseball, including inter-league play," and report back at the winter meetings which will be held late November in Houston. The committee will be made up of two members of each league, and their identities will be announced within the next few days. Kuhn also will be part of the committee. Prior to these sessions, here, a special four-man committee had been formed to study the feasibility of inter-league play and report its findings. That committee was made up of Allan "Bud" Selig of the Milwaukee Brewers and Frank Lane of the Cincinnati Reds, plus American League presi-

Limit doubled

CAREY — Daily fish limits on Fish Creek Reservoir have been doubled effective immediately due to "probably draining of the impoundment for irrigation purposes. Officials of the Little Wood River canal company informed the Idaho Fish and Game Department that the reservoir would be empty in from 10 days to two weeks. The reservoir, drained last year for repairs, was heavily planted with fingerling trout this spring and these now are in the six to eight inch class. A large number of catchable trout also were planted. By doubling the limit the department hopes to put at least some of the fish to practical purposes.

Many of the reservoirs are quite low this year and fishing has predictably been slow during mid-summer at Magic and Little Wood Reservoirs. Fish Creek Reservoir will be drawn down so low this year that the Idaho Fish and Game Department has doubled the fish limits on it. Last year Fish Creek Reservoir was drained for repairs by the Little Wood Canal Co. who owns it and a low snowpack didn't fill the reservoir as planned. Mormon Reservoir has been good fishing for boat trollers in the upper end and trout have been averaging one and one-half to two pounds. However, they aren't taking a lot of them. Rightfield Canal was pretty good last weekend but the trout have been in the eight-ten inch class with few of the large ones showing up in the catch as in years past. Many of these trout in Richfield Canal are wild fish that have resulted from successful rainbow spawning in the Big Wood River below Magic Dam and in the canal itself. Lava Lake near Carey has been producing good catches of seven to ten inch yellow perch with some going up to 12-13 inches and three-quarter of a pound. A few catchable rainbows are also taken from releases by the Fish and Game Department. The access is allowed at this lake strictly by courtesy of the private landowners so be sure you aren't a litterbug or damage any fences, etc. Salmon Falls Creek Reservoir has been producing some good catches of 10-12 inch coho salmon in the Whiskey Slough Area. We have had quite a lot of interest by people in our brown trout program so I thought I would detail the waters we've planted this species and their sizes. Little Wood River from Carey to Richfield and the lower end of Silver Creek have some of the better populations with browns going up to 20 inches plus. Sublett Reservoir east of the Sublett Interchange has browns up to 17-18 inches long in addition to rainbow, cutthroat, and coho salmon. Billingsley Creek in the fly fishing only section has had browns released the past two

Lotz has early golf meet lead

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — Dick Lotz sank birdie putts of 35 and 60 feet Thursday to card a five-under par 67 for a one-stroke lead over Rik Massengale and Bert Yancey in the opening round of the $200,000 USI Classic at Pleasant Valley Country Club. Defending champion Bruce Devlin was disqualified after carding a 71 for the day. Tournament officials ruled he "played a ball from the wrong place on the 15th hole—a serious infraction of the rules." Insisting it "wasn't one of my better rounds, except for the putting," Lotz sank seven birdies on the 7,212-yard course, but a pair of bogeys on the back nine cost him a chance to tie the course record of 65. Lotz preserved his lead with a 60-foot putt for a birdie on the par four, 441-yard 17th hole. "I'd like to cut those putts up all year," Lotz said. "The ball carried over the water by only about five feet and then rolled up another five feet. The putt was one of those unreal things you do every now and then." Pre-tournament favorites Bruce Crampton and Lee Trevino finished well back in the field after the first day's action, but former collegiate star Ben Crenshaw, making his first start as a professional, shot a one-under par 71. Crampton, the leading money winner on the Professional Golfers' Association tour, finished with a 73 while Trevino was at even-par. Massengale, 26, who has never won a tournament but had his best finish with a tie for sixth here a year ago, put away five birdies and a bogey while Yancey had seven birdies, one bogey and a double bogey. Tom Jenkins, Roy Pace, and Dave Glenz, Ross Randall and Steve Melnyk all shot 68s to tie for fifth place. Glenz had a chance to tie Lotz for the lead, but overshot the hole on the final green and ended up by three-putting for a bogey five. Devlin's disqualification resulted from placing the ball in the wrong spot after driving into the water hazard on the 15th hole. He placed the ball on the line of sight to the hole—a move that is not permitted on the hole because a permanent hazard—a bridge—should have been in his line of sight. Badger shaving brushes dropped about 50 per cent in sales after the aerosol dispensing shaving soap was introduced in 1951.

U.S. Cagers rip Britain

MOSCOW (UPI) — The United States basketball team handed Great Britain a bitter lesson Thursday on the "schoolyard game," overwhelming the outclassed English 123-74 in the opening round of World University Games. Playing the freelance style which has characterized this team throughout its tour of Eastern Europe, the Americans had six players in double-figures—including 24 points by Marvin Barnes of Providence—and put the Britons away almost from the opening tipoff. The victory, 12th straight for the U.S. contingent which toured Poland, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia prior to these games, enabled the Americans to advance in the winner's bracket against Sweden on Friday. "I guess that's not too bad for an opener," was coach Ed Badger's understatement. "Actually, though, I think we could've been sharper."

Steelers get two last-quarter touchdowns to drop Eagles 17-3

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Quarterback Terry Hanratty came off the bench and directed the Pittsburgh Steelers to two rapid fourth period scores Thursday night to seal a 17-3 exhibition victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

Indians tip KC for first time

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Ron Lotz drove in four runs with two doubles and a single Thursday night and Chris Chambliss extended his hitting streak to 17 games with a homer and single Thursday night, boosting the Cleveland Indians to a 10-4 victory.

Hanratty relieved Terry Bradshaw in the closing seconds of the third period and on his third play threw a 52-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Ron Shanklin, who stepped out of the grasp of defender Al Nelson to score. On the Steelers' next series, placekicker Roy Gerula booted a 43-yard field goal that hit the cross bar and bounced into the end zone. The Steelers gained the lead for the first time on their opening series in the second half on a six yard burst up the middle by Preston Pearson. A fumbled snap by Eagle punter Tom McNeill on the 33 yard line gave the Steelers field position, and running back Franco Harris set up the score on a 15-yard sweep on the next play. Harris, carrying the ball for the first time since suffering a bruised knee and thigh in the opening exhibition game against Minnesota, gained 43 yards on 11 rushes and another 20 on four pass receptions. The Eagles scored the first time they had the ball on a 47-yard field goal by Tom Dempsey and the lead held up throughout the first half which was dominated by errors by both teams. Quarterback John Reaves set up the field goal with a 38-yard opening play to wide receiver Harold Carmichael. Reaves, however, threw three interceptions later in the half with the third one running an Eagle drive inside the Steeler 20-yard line with 23 seconds left in the half. "This is in no sense any retreat from my original position," said Kuhn, when asked if he hadn't been much more enthusiastic about inter-league play at the start. "What I had said was that I was in favor of some form of limited inter-league play for consideration by both leagues. I never said I was in favor of it on any broad scale." National League officials heatedly keep insisting Kuhn had no right to cast any vote under baseball's constitution. The American League, interpreting the rules its own way, was equally insistent that the commissioner did have a right to vote. That was the reason they demanded that he should. Had he voted their way, Kuhn immediately would have been challenged by the National League, which has an agreement in its own saying any change in its schedule has to be agreed upon unanimously by all its members. "How could he (Kuhn), force us to schedule games we don't want when that is completely contrary to the agreement all of us function under?" asked one National Leaguer. "He could do it if he wanted to," countered an American Leaguer. "What it all boiled down to is that he didn't want to. So now we're back in the same position we've been in during the last 10 meetings I've attended. We haven't moved an inch."

Jenkins wants to be traded

CHICAGO (UPI) — Fergie Jenkins, the Chicago Cubs righthander with the mercurial temper, said Thursday he wants to be traded to the Detroit Tigers. Jenkins, who threw four bats into the field in an angry outburst during Wednesday's game against the Atlanta Braves, said he would rather pitch for the Tigers than the Cubs because of the Detroit fans whom he described as "great." The hurler, now 10-12 on the season, apparently was also upset because manager Whitey Lockman decided to start Burt Hooten in Saturday's nationally televised game against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Berry to start for Minnesota

MANKATO, Minn. (UPI) — Bob Berry was named Thursday to start at quarterback for the Minnesota Vikings in their nationally televised exhibition game Saturday night at Kansas City. Berry will replace Fran Tarkenton at the quarterback spot when the Vikings go after their second straight exhibition victory. Berry came off the bench last week in Minnesota's season-opening 10-6 win over the Pittsburgh Steelers and completed nine of 11 passes. Coach Bud Grant has been cautious about discussing the growing rivalry between first-stringer Tarkenton and Berry for the Vikings' quarterback position. Asked how long Berry will play Saturday, the Vikings coach said, "Well, I can't tell you. What if he gets injured on the first play?"

Giants edge Phillies 2-1

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gary Thomasson drove in the winning run with a fourth inning sacrifice fly and Tom Bradley picked up his 10th victory Thursday leading the San Francisco Giants to a 2-1 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Aaron hits 702 as Braves win

CHICAGO (UPI) — Hank Aaron hit his 702nd career homer and 29th of the season with two men on base Thursday to cap a nine-run eighth inning for the Atlanta Braves and give them a 10-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs, the Cubs' 11th straight loss and 14th in the last 15 games.

A's complete sweep of Sox

BOSTON (UPI) — Vida Blue pitched a four-hitter and Reggie Jackson drove in four runs with a pair of homers Thursday as the Oakland A's completed a three-game sweep of the Boston Red Sox with a 6-3 victory. Blue, who struck out eight and walked three to raise his record to 13-7, had a one-hitter until the eighth when Boston scored two unearned runs.

Even now, the typical bride and groom in India meet for the first time on their wedding day. I'm told Parents, brokers, astrologers, fortune tellers and classed advertising salesmen, these are the citizens who arrange the marriages. Knowing this, a client asks our Love and War man, 'Why, what's missing?' One thing, says he. Dating That relatively recent social notion of the Western world has not yet been adopted in India. Hence, unattached souls there still find no personal way to meet eligible members of the opposite sex.

It's the mother of the bachelor in Ireland who is credited with keeping him single until so late in life. Said mother is known to pamper the young fellow considerably in an effort to hold him under her own wing. Thus, he usually doesn't wed until he's between the ages of 28 and 35. As you may know, the typical Irish-born bachelor marries about 10 years earlier, if he moves away from his mother out of Ireland.

Celibacy debate haunts Catholics

BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer
The debate over celibacy along with other controversial questions within the Catholic Church is "like kicking a dead dog," according to Father Robert Grant, co-pastor of St. Edward's Catholic Church.

The social and political uprisings of the late 1960s has peaked and now is dying, Grant said. Controversy invaded the structure of the church but the church remained intact and emerged perhaps stronger on "the island of certain fundamental doctrine, according to him.

The spirit of the revolution of the past decade got its foot in the door of Vatican II, he continued. Certain dogma within the church was compromised but these were not matters of unchangeable truths.

"The church has remained firm on matters of moral question," Grant said. "The church tends to save and retain certain unchangeable truths."

Grant emphasized that the Catholic Church cannot change truths within itself because of outbursts or enraged activists.

"No one has ever said the church was a democracy," Grant said. "There has always been a head and a set of fundamental rules that Catholics have followed since the beginning of the church."

"While fighting the church these people realize the church offers the stability that they need," he said. "The church is there to define and give man a fundamental sense of stability."

Grant said the movement on celibacy corresponds to the political surging of the last decade. Since those uprisings have quelled, so too have many of the bitter fights over abortion, birth control, etc.

Few people realize, Grant said, that celibacy is not one of the fundamental doctrines of the church. It was not until the 12th century that the church instituted the principle.

"There are certain dogma within the church designed to discipline the people, priests, bishops etc," he continued. "One of these disciplinary acts is celibacy."

Never to marry is one of the sworn rites they all must take.

"We're not saying that marriage is bad," he said. "It is just that as priests, we must act as quasi Gods. The body cannot follow a path different from the head of the church which is Christ. We show this by example and teaching. In this way we are totally free to give our whole time to the church."

In one of the most publicized recent cases Phillip Berrigan, an outspoken priest against the Vietnam war who was imprisoned for his activities, married a Catholic nun.

Berrigan was a close friend to Grant when they both taught in the same school in the east.

Grant said some priests shared an empathy with others wanting to get married like Berrigan but that if he had to choose between the values of the church or a friend, he would put the principles of the church first.

A priest is automatically ex-communicated if he marries.

In reference to revolution within and without the church, Grant said that many priests end up making one of two decisions.

1) In order to remain objective the priest is supposed to be up like a prophet. He cannot compromise his position.

2) Especially with minorities many priests maintain the "powerless" need (support) so they end up looking partisan. Many take to the streets speaking and rallying the people to demonstrate.

Grant spent two years in the supreme court of Louisiana fighting for de-segregation of southern high school athletics.

"There are certain dangers in the second position," he said. "I don't think I compromised my objectives though. I seriously maintain that there is a middle ground — to speak and to lead."

Much of the change within the church will come out of parish councils he added. The church will remain solid on fundamental issues but parishes have the power to suggest change in dogma, he said.

"Even though things come up to change our minds, no man is free to do what's wrong. He has a moral obligation to do what's right. Every man is bound to follow his conscience — that is the ultimate norm of morality," he said.

The teaching of the Catholic Church is there to help people form their conscience to direct them in favor of what the church has traditionally thought about man."

Mormon Church 'family' gathers

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI) — Descendants of the founder of the Mormon Church gathered Thursday for a family reunion that brought together members of a long-divided sect.

Registration and a reception were scheduled Thursday at the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in Independence, for representatives from all over the country.

They were welcomed by three Independence descendants of the martyred Joseph Smith Jr. — Two of Joseph Smith Sr.'s descendants from Utah and one from Illinois were to respond.

The Mormon Church began moving here a short time after its founding in New York in 1830. Its antislavery beliefs brought trouble in pro-confederate western Missouri and in 1844 part of the group moved to Nauvoo, Ill.

At Nauvoo, Joseph Smith Jr. and his brother Hyrum were slain.

Following Smith's death, a struggle in the leadership of the Mormon Church developed, and hostility from non-Mormons forced the divided Mormons again to move.

Brigham Young, Smith's successor as president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, led a large group of Mormon pioneers to Salt Lake City, Utah, after they abandoned their holdings in Nauvoo in 1846.

Smith's wife and son joined others in forming the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints which established its headquarters here.

DEDICATION services for the new Bethel Temple Church, 3200 Addison E., are scheduled Aug. 22, 23 and 24 at 8 p.m. According to Pastor

J. L. Tankersley, Twin Falls, Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Sizemore, Cincinnati, Ohio, will be speakers on guest night Aug. 24.

Reception scheduled at St. Benedict's

TWIN FALLS — An open house at St. Benedict's Priory and Student Center will honor Father Simeon Van De Voord, OSB, Sunday between 3 and 6 p.m.

Fr. Van De Voord, who was chaplain at the local center for three years, has only recently been appointed dean of Mt. Angel Seminary School of Theology. Prior to this appointment he held the position of dean of men of Mt. Angel Seminary undergraduate college.

Prior to returning to active participation in the Mt. Angel schools he had been working in the Catholic Diocese of Boise. Before being sent to Idaho in August, 1967, he had been teaching in the various departments of Mt. Angel Abbey.

He had also completed his graduate degree in the field of speech and communications at the University of Washington, Seattle. He has studied at DePaul University in Chicago and Northwestern in Evanston.

He was ordained to the priesthood in 1961 at Mt. Angel Abbey. In Idaho he worked in many parishes of the Boise Diocese and also in the field of adult education.

In Oregon he has been primarily involved in the formation of young men for the priesthood.

Choir to present program

TWIN FALLS — The congregation at the First Presbyterian Church will return to its regular summer worship time of 10 a.m. this Sunday.

They will host a 50-voice choir of high school young people called the "Spirit Spreaders" who are from the First Presbyterian Church of San Mateo, Calif. These young people are under the direction of Lyle Richardson, who is the director of music for the church and an artist.

The choir will present a 40 minute program of religious music. Following the worship service the church will host the choir for dinner.

On Wednesday and Thursday the junior high young people will spend the night at the church's "Rust-O-Roy" cabin in the South Hills. The young people will leave at noon on Wednesday and return for dinner Thursday.

Young people interested in going should contact the church office.

Guru disciples confess beating

DETROIT (UPI) — Disciples of the 15-year-old "boy god" Maharaj Ji said Thursday they were holding in custody two men who allegedly beat a reporter critical of the religious movement and its young leader.

The reporter, Pat Halley, 22, who works for the underground newspaper Fifth Estate, was listed in serious condition with a fractured skull.

Followers of Guru Maharaj Ji, who says he dispenses "perfect knowledge," said two disciples confessed they beat Halley early Wednesday.

A police spokesman said no charges were filed pending questioning of Halley, who smashed a shaving cream pie into the guru's face last week at Detroit City Hall.

Halley had warned earlier that followers of the guru would try to "kill me" in retaliation for the pie-throwing episode.

The attack, Halley said before he underwent skull surgery, came when two men struck him in an empty apartment at a rendezvous Halley set up in order to gain more knowledge of the Divine Light Mission headed by the guru.

The mission's headquarters are in Denver and the teen-aged mystic issued a statement there saying he deplored the attack.

Detroit members of the sect, which claims five million members around the world, did not identify the two men they held.

"We said we would say nothing until the police decide whether to arrest them," said Richard Royale, 25, who described himself as the leader of the Detroit Mission.

Halley's newspaper had strongly assailed the guru, who it calls "the kid." It called his teachings "a spiel."

Halley said he was telephoned Tuesday by a man who congratulated him on slapping the pie into the guru's face. That incident received nationwide publicity. The guru refused to prosecute Halley.

Halley said the caller offered to "expose" the mission and the guru. Eventually he met two men and went with them to an apartment where they said they would demonstrate the mission's rituals.

Some of Halley's friends became suspicious and jotted down the license number of the car the two men used.

Inside the apartment, Halley said, the men asked him to sit down and close his eyes — so they could demonstrate the guru's rituals.

"I heard a jingling noise," Halley said. "One of them was behind me. He smacked me on the top of the head with something that felt like a hammer. I felt over."

Halley's friends gave police the license number and police discovered it was owned by the mission.
