More Idaho gas

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Gasoline shipments into Idaho for the first six months of this year show an increase over 1972 that equals the estimated increase in demand for the same gasoline.

At the same time, a survey in Twin Falls early this week showed station owners are still curtailing business hours to deal with the nationwide "gas shortage."

State Tax Commission records released Monday show that gasoline imports into Idaho for the six months ending June 30 totaled 234.4 million gallons, an increase of about seven per cent over the 219 gallons registered for the first six months of 1972.

Doug Bean of the Idaho Petroleum Council earlier this year estimated the increased demand for gasoline to be 6.5 to 7 per cent.

Gasoline allotments imposed by major brand dealers on station operators several months ago are still in effect, according to Twin Falls operators. One station owner, informed this week of the tax commission's records, said, "If you find out where it's (the gas) going let me know."

Fire control nears

By United Press International
Thousands of firefighters were battling six major fires and range blazes in four states today and additional men were being sent to seven new lightning-caused fires in Idaho and Montana.

Roger Leonard, public information officer for the Boise Interagency Fire Center, which is coordinating much of the fire fighting effort in the Pacific Northwest, said major fires continued to burn in California, Oregon, Idaho and Montana.

The fires have engulfed nearly 200,000 acres of grass and timber lands in the past week in an eight state area and official said no rainfall or weather relief appears in sight.

One of the most troublesome fires was located in the El Dorado National Forest near Placerville, Calif., Leonard said the blaze has blackened some 10,000 acres, threatened homes, and closed Highway 50. He said about 2,000 men were fighting the blaze, which has been burning since last weekend.

Two major fires, a new one located near Riggins, were reported in Idaho today and two in Montana, including the Tri-Creek fire which threatened the town of Thompson Falls Wednesday. Some families in the outlying area were ordered to evacuate their homes.

Officials in the Lolo National Forest, where the town is located, said the fire was no longer threatening homes in the area and it did not "run" Wednesday afternoon as expected.

The other major fire in Idaho was located in the Boise National Forest 58 miles north of Boise. The fire has burned 2,300 acres and 600 men were on the fire lines.

A series of isolated lightning storms Tuesday and Wednesday morning started new fires in Montana and Idaho, but officials said only seven of the 100 or more starts have caused any problems.

Two of the smaller fires are located on the Kootenai National Forest in northwestern Montana and involved about 100 acres. Another was burning on the Clearwater forest near Pierce and two new ones in Idaho's Nez Perce forest totaling 75 acres.

Leonard said the fire center has so far pressed 10,000 men into action, but he added only 7,500 of those are actually fighting fires, with the remainder in support functions.

"As far as the big fires are concerned it is looking better," Leonard said. "But we still have the six major fires in a four state region."

He added that the weather outlook for the Northwest did not indicate any chance of rainfall for the drought-plagued area.

Interagency officials have called this summer the worst fire season ever. They attributed it to the lack of rainfall during the spring and early summer months.

Campaigns receive record $79 million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Major contributions to presidential and vice presidential candidates during a nine-month period last year totaled about $79 million, the General Accounting Office announced today, clearly the largest amount ever collected for national campaigns.

A 1,900-page compilation by the GAO's Office of Federal Elections reflected contributions in excess of $100 to all candidates for President and Vice President in the form of donations, ticket sales, loans, transfers, interest, rebates and other payments for the period of April 7-Dec. 1, 1972.

"The total of these contributions, ticket sales, loans, and other payments comes to approximately $79 million," the GAO, an investigative arm of Congress, said in a statement accompanying the four-volume report.

The report was the first issued under the 1971 Federal Election Campaign Act, which requires an annual accounting of total contributions and expenditures for all presidential and vice presidential candidates and identification of all those who contributed in excess of $100 to these candidates.

Other portions of the report will be published later.

The report on contributions starts with the date the new campaign law went into effect and thus does not include contributions prior to April 7, 1972.

It has been estimated that the Finance Committee to Re-Elect the President alone collected $20 million before the April 7 deadline.

The GAO report lists, in alphabetical order, transactions involving about 2,570 political committees that registered with and reported to the Office of Federal Elections under requirements of the new law.

The GAO said the report contained 71,575 entries reflecting contributions and ticket sales totaling $63.6 million and 1,750 entries reflecting loans amounting to $15.1 million. The report did not indicate if the loans had been repaid.

Since this was the first report to deal so extensively with the scope of campaign contributions for presidential and vice presidential candidates, there were no previous figures available for comparison. But political observers said there was no question that the amount reported was the biggest ever collected.

Gets new job

APPOINTED U.S. secretary of state is Henry A. Kissinger, who will also retain post as presidential adviser on foreign affairs. He will succeed William P. Rogers in that post when Rogers' resignation is effective Sept. 3. Kissinger's choice was announced Wednesday by President Nixon. (Related story, p. 5)

Lawsuit handling 'normal'

BURLEY — Pomerelle Ski Inc., Burley, will handle a law suit filed this week for payment of a bill "in normal legal fashion," Roger Jones, president of the corporation, said.

The suit, filed Monday in Fifth District Court by Riblet Tramways Inc., Tacoma, Wash., asks payment of $4,013.44 plus interest for lift repairs allegedly made by the company at the ski resort in January.

A brake failure on the chair lift New Years Day caused a mishap injuring 17 persons.

The suit "will be settled one way or another," Jones said. A legal letter is now in the mail to the company's lawyers to let them know the corporation's position, Jones said.

The corporation board met in Burley Wednesday night but Jones offered no further comment on actions taken.

Gasoline use figure note asked

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — The Environmental Protection Agency today proposed a program that would let auto buyers know, before buying new cars, how many miles per gallon of gasoline they can expect.

Under the program, which would be voluntary on the part of auto manufacturers, gasoline mileage would be listed on a window label located beside the price sticker of all new cars in the 1974 model year.

Even if manufacturers do not want to participate, the agency plans to point out that bigger cars use more fuel and cost more money by providing dealer showrooms with information on fuel economy.

Gunmen rob jazzman, hotel

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two masked gunmen wearing tuxedos handcuffed and blindfolded jazz musician Maynard Ferguson and six other persons in an East Side hotel early today, took a briefcase containing $2,000, leisurely broke into 17 safe deposit boxes and departed, police reported.

The briefcase contained part of an $8,000 payroll which Ferguson, his manager and another associate were carrying. Ferguson said he covered the second briefcase containing $6,000 with his body and the robbers overlooked it.

No shots were fired and no one was injured in the incident at the Hotel Crofton.

today in brief

Prices seen leveling off

(c) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz predicted today food prices will "level off" in the last quarter of this year and rise 5 per cent or less in 1974. Butz said, however, he expected "a big jump" in food prices paid by consumers this month and another "modest increase" in September. The end of the beef freeze and more liberal regulations on food price controls will account for the rises, he said.

'Less painful' increase seen

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — Cost of Living Council officials predict food-price increases under the second stage of Phase 1, starting Sept. 12, will be inevitable but less painful than those that came with stage one — the lifting of the food freeze on July 18. Under the second, or Stage B, as the council is calling it, the food industry will be allowed to pass along all cost increases in addition to those for raw materials, which they were permitted to pass along under Stage A.

AIM members charged in Iowa

QUINCY, (UPI) — Nine members of the American Indian Movement were charged with disturbing the peace Wednesday after they surrendered following a 24 hour occupation of the Iowa Department of Public Instruction. They surrendered quietly to state officers after being given five minutes to clear the second floor of the state office building. The AIM members received no action on 19 demands.

Cong. Saigon trade charges

PARIS (UPI) — The Viet Cong and South Vietnam accused each other today of torpedoing the negotiations on their country's political future. Viet Cong and Saigon negotiators exchanged the charges at their 22nd meeting in the five-month-old conference, which is aimed at mapping a blueprint for national elections in South Vietnam.

Cambodians take 3 Red posts

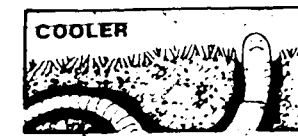

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian troops have recaptured three Communist-held positions on the outskirts of Kompong Speu, easing the threat against the provincial capital, the High Command said today. Kompong Speu, 30 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, came under attack earlier this week and government reinforcements were sent in to help stem the Communist threat.

Skylab spacewalk rehearsed

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 2 astronauts today rehearse their spacewalk to replace the "basic guts" of the giant space station's faulty stabilization control system. Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma, aiming toward breaking man's spaceflight record of 28 days, planned to spend three hours readying gear and checking procedures for the outside venture Friday.

Stockholm bank seized

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — A robber armed with a submachine gun barricaded himself in a Stockholm bank today, held the staff hostage and demanded a $750,000 ransom and the release of a convicted murderer. Police said the robber, holed up in the government-owned Kreditbanken building on a downtown city square, wounded at least one policeman in an exchange of gunfire.

Chileans accuse Allende

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — The Chamber of Deputies accused President Salvador Allende of violating the constitution Wednesday night and called on the armed forces to make sure his Marxist government obeys the law. The 81-47 vote, coming near the end of a 48-hour strike by hundreds of thousands of Chileans protesting Allende's labor policies, condemned the government for "constant trampling of the guarantees and fundamental rights established in the constitution."

Demo raps bug charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's claim that government-authorized burglaries took place on "a very large scale" during the Kennedy and Johnson administrations was questioned today by a former Democratic attorney general.

Nicholas deB. Katzenbach, who served as assistant attorney general, deputy attorney general and later attorney general for most of the Kennedy-Johnson period, said he had no knowledge of any such burglaries by government agents.

The Western White House referred questions on the issue to the Justice Department.

Nixon expressions, gestures vary at press meet

Forget Watergate, Nixon asks

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. — The Watergate scandal is "water under the bridge ... and now we must move on to the business of the people," President Nixon says. At his first press conference in over five months — a midday 50-minute session Wednesday on the sunny grounds of the Western White House — the President subjected himself for the first time to detailed questions about the Watergate affair. He admitted to "scandalous conduct" on the part of his closest associates and conceded that the "constant barrage" of publicity had created some public doubt about his ability to govern. But, once again, the chief executive denied any direct knowledge of efforts to cover up the scandal, and said he could not blame his former attorney general and re-election campaign director, John N. Mitchell, for not telling him. Nixon clung to the version being advanced by his trusted aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, and predicted they would be exonerated by the courts. The villains in this story were identified as John W. Dean III, who was fired as White House counsel, and Jeb Stuart Magruder, who was the number two man in the President's re-election campaign organization. It was Dean and Magruder, incidentally, who brought about the collapse of the cover-up scheme by deciding to co-operate with federal prosecutors. Professing surprise at the string of press conference questions about Watergate, instead of "the business of the people," Nixon said he would never consider resigning his office. Standing in the hot sunshine at the presidential compound on the shore of the Pacific Ocean, he delivered an emotional appeal in front of the television cameras to be freed at last from the onus of Watergate. "I was elected to do a job," he said.

"Watergate is an episode that I deeply deplore and had I been running the campaign rather than trying to run the country ... it would never have happened. But that is water under the bridge. It is gone now. I have almost 3 1/2 years to go ... and I am going to use every day trying to get the people of the United States to recognize that whatever mistakes we have made in the long run, this administration, by making this world safer for their children and by making their lives better at home, deserves high marks rather than low marks. Whether I succeed or not can be judged by them." He said some politicians and members of the press who did not want him elected in 1968 and do not "accept the mandate of 1972" were exploiting the Watergate scandal "in order to keep the President from doing his job."

Cattle escape raging fire

CATTLE make their way through the charred trees near Sonora, Calif., where a raging forest fire burned through 15,000 acres of the Stanislaus National Forest. The Stanislaus fire has been declared under control. (UPI)

Timber salvage possible

BOILING SPRINGS, Idaho (UPI) — A timber management forester with the Boise National Forest Wednesday said logging will salvage 90 per cent of the wood in some stands of trees burned in the Pine Creek fire. Bill Barnes, a forester with the Boise National Forest supervisor's office, said much of the large timber will survive in areas where the fire crept slowly and was confined to the underbrush.

Loss from the fire, however, is estimated at $1 million. In areas where the trees were scorched, Barnes said "if the sapring was penetrated, the tree will die." But beneath the scorched bark the wood remains sound and can be marketed.

Damage from the fire will result in a loss of less than 10 per cent of the marketable tree.

Barnes said the US Forest Service crews will "cruise" the burned area as soon as the fires are out to determine how much of the timber is marketable so that "within 10 days or less we can send in loggers." Pointing to the inches thick ashes beneath the charred trees, Barnes said loggers "hate logging in that."

The Pine Creek fire 58 miles north of Boise has moved through more than 2,300 acres of what Barnes called "prime timber."

Fire crew plagued by illness

BOILING SPRINGS, Idaho (UPI) — Heavy colds, congested lungs and other "pneumonia like symptoms" plagued crews fighting fires in the Boise National Forest.

Phil Hansen, an Idaho National Guard medic at the fire camp, here said most of the 40 to 50 men reporting to him with illnesses Tuesday and Wednesday were from Louisiana.

He said they probably are having trouble because of the change in climate.

There are 650 men assigned to the Pine Creek fire 58 miles north of Boise, including 40 National Guard troops from the 116th Cavalry Unit in Idaho.

Hansen, Caldwell, said he sent one man with a high fever to Boise to see a doctor. The other ailing crew members have been given antibiotics.

He said most of the illnesses he has treated at the fire camp are feet and eye injuries.

CAA to consider food co-op grant

Thursday, August 23, 1973 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 3

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The South Central Community Action Agency (CAA) will consider a local food co-operative's request for $10,750 at a board meeting tonight.

The Magic Valley Consumer Co-op has requested the funds to carry on co-operative food sales and production projects, according to Ken Thacker, Co-op chairman.

Thacker said the CAA Planning and Program Committee approved the request Monday and tonight the South Central Community Action Board will make the final decision.

According to the co-op's proposal most of the money would be spent for food sales, poultry production and processing, and product production. Thacker said once the projects are initiated, they will be self-sufficient.

Co-op members are planning to appear at the board meeting in Jerome following an hour-long food distribution meeting 7 p.m. at the St. Edwards Catholic Church school building in Twin Falls, Thacker said.

Specifically the Magic Valley Consumer Co-op has requested the following:

Food sales: $2,500 "seed money" for purchase of groceries to be sold at wholesale prices; $500 for scales, a cash register, freezer, cooler, etc.

Poultry Production and processing: $1,500 for a fish meal cooker and dehydrator; $2,000 for a poultry dressing and custom slaughter plant; and $500 for supplies, equipment and chicks for the broiler production process.

Gardens and produce production: $2,000 for equipment including a small tractor, tillage equipment and small hand tools, which are to be purchased and used at farm auctions; $250 for 600 pounds of potato seed; and $1,000 to lease land at a maximum of $100 per acre per season.

Other production projects: $250 for rabbits, stock and equipment and $250 for local resources such as bees and watercress. This category includes projects not ready to be undertaken yet, but still in the research stage.

Thacker anticipates the cost of the projects "in most cases will exceed the nominal amount requested." However, he believes the difference will be made up through a slight profit on food sales, loans and donations, profit from production projects, increased revenue from gaining new members, and utilization of surplus equipment.

TF Courthouse cleaned

TWIN FALLS — For the first time since it was built in 1911 the Twin Falls County Courthouse is getting an outside cleaning.

County Commissioners awarded a contract for $69,200 on Aug. 13 for the combined cleaning of the courthouse, the Old Hospital Building and the Nursing Home. The Old Hospital and the Nursing Home are located on Addison Avenue West next to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Max Stuart, owner of Max Stuart, Inc., Twin Falls, which was awarded the cleaning contract, said Wednesday the courthouse will take about seven weeks to clean. He estimated cleaning the Old Hospital and the Nursing Home will keep his firm busy until mid-November.

Stuart uses a three-stage cleaning process. The first step is high-pressure blasting of the stone walls with a mixture of white siltich sand and enough water to keep down the dust. The second step is a high-pressure water wash. Finally, two coats of water repellent are sprayed on the stone.

Workmen will also spot-prime and paint metal cornices and rinse out and replace loose mortar, Stuart said.

Stuart said he thought the courthouse was in "real good shape" for being 62 years old.

MV solon re-elected

SPOKANE, Wash. — Rep. Ray Lincoln, R-Twin Falls, has been re-elected by the Northwest Production Credit Associations to serve a three year term on the Spokane District Farm Credit Board.

M. J. Carter, chairman of the presidents' committee for the farm credit banks made the announcement.

As a district board member Lincoln is a director for the federal Land Bank of Spokane, the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Spokane, and the Spokane Bank for Cooperatives.

Initially, Lincoln was elected to the district board in 1972 by the 30 PCAs in Idaho, Oregon, Montana, and Washington. Lincoln's new term begins in January, 1974.

TF vet elected

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls veterinarian has been named president elect of the Idaho Veterinary Medical Assn.

Dr. C. I. Manners, Twin Falls, was sworn in as president elect during the group's convention earlier this month in Coeur d'Alene.

A number of Magic Valley veterinarians attended the convention. During business sessions the delegates voted to continue efforts to establish a school of veterinary medicine in Oregon to better serve prospective veterinarians from Idaho and Oregon. It was pointed out only schools in Colorado and Washington State Universities are presently available to Idaho students and enrollment is limited.

A number of leading state and out of state scientists and medical officials addressed the convention.

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK

And Now—About That Agnew Affair

WASHINGTON — A confidential telephone call from top White House aide Melvin R. Laird to a Republican congressional leader, warning him not to go all-out in defense of Vice President Spiro Agnew, is new and harsh evidence to party professionals of the depth of the crisis that threatens Ted Agnew.

In his Aug. 7 telephone call to Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, chairman of the House Republican Conference, Laird carefully specified that he was talking not as a White House aide.

His message: don't get on a limb in the Agnew affair, particularly with an all-out defense of the Vice President. Stay away from the Agnew affair as far as possible.

Agnew is under intense federal investigation on charges of possible criminal violations of various federal statutes involving bribery, extortion, tax fraud and conspiracy.

Republicans who know about the Laird call to Anderson (described as "astounded" by the warning) assume that Laird and possible other party grandees have contacted other senior Republicans with similar warnings.

Moreover, the Laird telephone call to Anderson fits a pattern that has infuriated the Agnew camp. For example:

1. Before Agnew himself received formal notice from the Justice Department that he was under investigation, Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson reported (in late July) to White House staff chief Alexander M. Haig, Jr., with a briefing on all aspects of the case. On Aug. 2, Agnew's attorneys received their letter from the prosecutors.

2. A prominent television commentator was privately cautioned by an official of the Justice Department 10 days ago in words similar to those used by Laird to Anderson: don't go overboard for Agnew; you may wind up with egg on your face.

3. The White House has gone to embarrassing length not to put the President on record as to his Vice President's innocence. White House spokesman Gerald Warren will only say that Mr. Nixon's confidence in Agnew has not changed.

4. The New York Times front-page dispatch of Aug. 15, outlining charges against Agnew in vivid detail, is believed by furious Agnew allies to have emanated from high levels of the Justice Department (who flatly deny it), not from Maryland sources also implicated in the charges against Agnew.

It is not surprising that allies of Agnew, whose talents have sometimes been grossly used by the President to advance Mr. Nixon's interests, would be filled with dark suspicion over these incidents. They regard them as proof of nefarious underground administration warfare against Agnew, partly to ease the President's immense Watergate burdens.

Thus, in this conspiratorial view — so understandable on the part of Agnew intimates —

Mr. Nixon or Republicans close to him are greasing the skids for the hapless Vice President. Under the 25th Amendment to the Constitution, they are quietly preparing to nominate a successor — most likely John B. Connally.

It was Connally who saved Mr. Nixon from disaster in the inflationary crisis of August 1971. Perhaps Connally, the former Democratic governor of Texas who turned Republican at a moment of maximum help to the Watergate beleaguered President last spring, can help again.

To Agnewites, that fits the known fact that Connally recently cancelled his plans for a long trip abroad and the lesser-known fact that some Connally friends predict he will be back in the administration in October.

But in fact the Laird warnings may spring from something far less conspiratorial. They may be a flashing signal of caution based not on any desire to do in Agnew but on a rational and informed judgment that Agnew is a goner.

Likewise, Richardson's July briefing of Haig, before Agnew himself had formal notification, may also be explainable as a rational act based on the President's prior right to know. "Is that normal?" a Justice Department official repeated in answer to our question. "Hell, nothing's normal in this case. We're playing it by ear."

But such quiet and rational explanation is understandably difficult for Agnewites. The mood in the Agnew camp has grown isolated and embittered. Now, with word being secretly passed to "keep clear" of the Agnew affair, that mood will intensify, with dangerous implications for the Republican future no matter the investigation finally ends.

To Obey Or Not

In the aftermath of the Vietnam war, the country is in the throes of a grave constitutional question: When and to what extent may a president as commander in chief, take the nation into war without a declaration from Congress?

That the question carries frightening implications is suggested by an interchange between Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, and Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, during the latter's recent testimony before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Noting that, by law passed by Congress and signed by President Nixon, the bombing of Cambodia was to cease by Aug. 15, Hughes asked:

"If the law is clear and the President gives an order to bomb, what would you do?"

Moorer: "I would carry out that order. I do not expect that to take place, but if I get a direct order of course, I would have to comply with it."

Hughes: "At what point would you disobey?"

Moorer: "I don't see one, on the horizon. I would have to obey the commander in chief or obey someone else. I hope that nobody ever puts a military man in that position."

But military men have been put in that position, in Moorer's lifetime. A lot of them were hanged because of it. In a place called Nuremberg.

RAY CROMLEY

Demand Rising, Productivity Lags

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Dr. Paul W. McCracken, former chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers for President Nixon, has put the inflation problem succinctly:

Demand is rising by 12 percent a year while the capacity to produce is rising only a third as fast.

That obviously leaves three courses open. Cut demand. Find ways to increase production. Or both.

The economic record of the past several decades tells us that we have been notoriously unsuccessful at curbing demand nationally, however desirable that may be at times. And when officials have succeeded, they've often done it so clumsily that we've ended up with a recession.

A simple cutback in government spending, for example, seems almost impossible to achieve politically, however much praised by one president or another.

We do have the capability to increase production at a faster pace. We have the know-how in $100 billion in stored "available" research in recent years. This is not the total research and development figure; it is rather the amount of useful research accomplished and stored which men knowledgeable in the field believe could be put to use in industry, on the farms and otherwise in our daily lives — research which has been virtually ignored in major sectors of industry, or not fully utilized.

This research in question is the product of untold millions of man hours in the nation's universities, in the space program, in defense and in other government and private laboratories throughout the land.

In some cases, the work was done in the interest of science, with no application in mind. In most cases, however, the research was accomplished for a specific program, used for that program and the knowledge not applied elsewhere.

We are not talking about the need for expanded research, which is another problem. We are talking about research already done, waiting for users.

From time to time, in one administration or another, officials have developed plans and set up bureaus to translate this store of research into usable terms and to advertise its existence among potential users. These programs usually get bogged down in red tape.

Yet the need is there. From time to time one of my engineer friends makes a study of this industry or that, or digs out a study by some team attempting to find out why productivity and production aren't increasing as they might.

In each case known to this reporter, covering in total a veritable fistful of industries, what is abundantly clear is that production (or productivity) could be increased considerably at relatively little cost with the application of existing but not widely known techniques.

Some states have attacked this problem head-on. A team sponsored by the state university system of Pennsylvania has an active program for servicing businesses in the state with information on already-developed research required to improve their products or their efficiency. Or if that research cannot be found, the inquiring firm is put in touch with specialists who can carry it out. There have been some surprising results.

JAMES RESTON

Washington: What's Going On?

(c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The Government of the United States has often been described as a kind of organized disorder, but lately the normal confusion has declined into an illogical and sometimes even into an irrational babble of astonishing contradictions.

Last week, President Nixon was appealing to the nation over TV to forget the past and settle down to the positive programs of the future, but this week in New Orleans he was raking over all the old arguments of the war, engaging in an angry shoving match on TV with his own press secretary, and fussing with his own secret service for taking prudent precautions to protect his own life.

Instead of settling down, Nixon seems to be getting more restless, frustrated, and separated from his own office and even from the rest of his administration, lately he has been secluded on his mountain top at Camp David more than at the White House.

When he finished his latest report to people last week, he flew off to his house in Florida to the weekend, then took off for New Orleans to address the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and is now at his house in San Clemente where he intends to stay for a couple of weeks.

Meanwhile, in his absence, we have a public row between Vice President Agnew and Attorney General Elliot Richardson, with the Vice President accusing the Department of Justice of trying to indict and convict him in the press and demanding on TV that Richardson put Justice Department officials under oath to discover the source of the leaks.

The atmosphere now is poisonous with rumors that Nixon's people leaked the news that Agnew was being investigated for criminal activity in order to divert attention from the Watergate to the Vice President, and even that the alleged assassination conspiracy in New Orleans was blown up in order to create public sympathy for the President.

The President's last two speeches illustrate confusion of thought and purpose. In the first, the President concluded with a plea to the people for understanding, for rededication to "the principles of decency, honor and respect for our institutions," and for "a commitment by all of us to show a renewed respect for the mutual restraints that are the mark of a free and a civilized society."

But less than a week later, after condemning those who put their ends ahead of their means, he was proclaiming that his objective of peace justified the bombing of Cambodia and keeping this secret from the American people. And while calling for a new spirit of conciliation at home, he was attacking those who criticized his policies and asserting that he was not only right in the secret bombing but that he would do it all over again in the same circumstances.

He simply dismisses the protests against the bombing by saying they are "absurd" and defends the secrecy by saying the bombings were disclosed, not to the leaders of Congress, but to the appropriate Congressional leaders, meaning those who favored his policies in the military affairs committee.

He sees no conflict in this with his statement in the TV speech that the abuses of Watergate "resulted from the assumption by those involved that their cause placed them beyond the reach of those rules that apply to other persons ..."

No conflict in his refusal to hand over any incriminating evidence out of the Watergate tapes with his statement "far from trying to hide the facts, my effort throughout has been to discover the facts and to lay those facts before the appropriate law enforcement authorities ..."

No conflict in his appeal for "confidentiality" with the admitted fact that he was bugging the conversations of his visitors without their knowledge, no conflict in his appeal for privacy in the relations between lawyer and client, Priest and penitent, husband and wife with the violation of that privacy in the burglarizing of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's files.

The time has come to turn

Watergate over to the courts," he says, because "a continued back-ward looking obsession with Watergate is causing this nation to neglect matters of far greater importance to all the American people."

This may be true if it is affecting the emotions and logic of the President, but the fact is that Watergate is not responsible for the price of beef, the state of the dollar, or the conduct of our foreign policy. In fact, in his New Orleans speech he took credit, and fair enough, for bringing peace and composing major controversies with the Chinese and the Russians. Despite Watergate, he could say: "It's a good time, a good time."

It is easy to say, and understandable enough, that many people are sick of Watergate and all this contention, but the main point is that the mentality that conducted the war and produced Watergate are still with us.

The President is still asserting that the Ervin committee and the critics are "increasingly absorbed in trying to implicate the President personally in the illegal activities that took place" and that others unnamed are trying to "exploit Watergate in order to keep us from doing what we were elected to do ..."

In one speech he plays the role of the great conciliator, calling for forgetfulness of the past, and in the next he is a glory merchant, forgetting nothing and forgiving nothing. It is all very odd, and even a little frightening.

Pens Of All Things

Americans aren't penurious when it comes to pens.

Last year we spent $600 million on the things. This translated into a record total of two billion pens sold, gleefully reports the Writing Instrument Manufacturers Assn. They were pens of all kinds — fountain pens, ballpoint pens, felt-tip markers, porous-point pens. Nor were they all used just for writing or scribbling.

For instance, a pen was used to make an emergency repair during one of our space flights. A U. S. Army medic used a pen barrel as a makeshift breathing tube while performing a battlefield tracheotomy in Vietnam. Ball pens have been used by senior citizens for knitting and by youngsters to make model railroads.

The association predicts that in the future there may be pens that: — Combine a fountain pen, porous pen, marker, and ball-point pen all in one unit.

— Blend inks into many shades and colors.

— Translate spoken messages into your own handwriting.

If all this doesn't make you pen-sive, nothing will.

HEROES ARE MADE

Heroes are made, not born, but a heck of a lot depends upon what era they are born into.

Take the case of Frederick Accum, one of the first pioneers in consumer protection.

In 1820, recalls Chemistry magazine, Accum published a book entitled: "A Treatise on the Adulterations of Food and Culinary Poisons. Exhibiting the Fraudulent Sophistications of Bread, Beer, Wine, Spirituous Liquors, Tea, Coffee, Cream, Confectionary, Vinegar, Mustard, Pepper, Cheese, Olive Oil, Pickles and Other Articles Employed in Domestic Economy, and Methods of Detecting Them."

Among the "sophistications" Accum exposed were the use of red lead to color cheese, green copper salts to color pickles and sulfuric acid to intensify the acid taste of vinegar — all common additives in the supposedly "natural" foods of a century and a half ago.

Far from winning him acclaim as an early Ralph Nader, however, publication of Accum's book, which listed irresponsible manufacturers and merchants, led to his disgrace, the loss of his business and friends and his exodus from his home in London.

Rogers reluctant secretary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers, the last survivor of the original Nixon cabinet, has resigned and will be replaced by presidential national security adviser Henry A. Kissinger. President Nixon at his news conference Wednesday in San Clemente, Calif., announced that Kissinger would become secretary of state Sept. 3 while retaining his present job as a presidential assistant.

The 50-year-old naturalized native of Germany will thus have broader scope in foreign affairs than any of his 53 predecessors, with the possible exception of Benjamin Franklin.

An interesting legal question arises from the fact that Kissinger, as a presidential assistant, can invoke "executive privilege" to avoid testifying before Congress on foreign policy. On the other hand, as secretary of state he does not have this immunity and is supposed to present the administration's views to Congress in public and private.

Rogers, the reluctant diplomat who never really wanted to be secretary of state, told newsmen that "I feel like the last of the whooping cranes. I'm the only one who stayed four and a half years."

George P. Shultz, labor secretary in the first Nixon Cabinet, is now secretary of the treasury but served in between Cabinet positions as director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Rogers claimed that he told Nixon at the beginning he would only stay four years and tried to get out last January. He asserted, however, that unfinished business in—Indonesia, the Middle East, Latin America and Europe persuaded him to stay on for seven more months.

WILLIAM ROGERS ... disillusioned?

considerable disillusionment with the actions of the current administration, probably ascribed to the Watergate affair.

Despite the cordiality of the letters exchanged by Rogers and Nixon, it was clear that their friendship of a quarter of a century had cooled somewhat in recent months.

Rogers said during his talk with reporters Wednesday that he and the President had discussed Watergate at Camp David for about two days late in April but that in the intervening four months it had not been mentioned between them.

For a man who has been credited by Nixon with being his closest adviser and comforter during his so-called "Six Crises," beginning with the 1952 political fund scandal which almost cost Nixon his spot as vice president on the Eisenhower ticket, the coolness appeared unusual.

Nixon himself has written that Rogers, who served as attorney general in the Eisenhower cabinet, and California kingmaker Murray Chotiner plotted the strategy for the "Checkers Speech," from which Nixon emerged "clean as a hound's tooth" so far as Eisenhower was concerned.

Rogers denied suggestions that he was quitting because of the Watergate scandal, which has besmirched the Nixon administration, although the secretary is one of the few who has not been touched by it.

He said: "I would have left whether there had been a Watergate or no Watergate. That doesn't mean I don't have feelings about Watergate. It does not mean that I don't think this is not a good time to make the decision. I think this is very timely."

That statement, when added to what Rogers said at a news conference Monday, seemed to belie his assertion that Watergate had nothing to do with his resignation.

On Monday he said, when asked about Watergate, "I believe that it is very important for the United States not to become so obsessed with security matters that laws are freely violated." He said specifically that national security was not sufficiently involved to warrant the burglary of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office and declared: "I think one of the things that provides security for Americans is that we are a law-abiding nation, and that is protection for all individuals, and protection for individual rights."

Light guard?

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon would prefer to cut down on the large number of Secret Service agents that accompany him and his family everywhere they go.

Nixon told a news conference Wednesday that he had, in fact, recommended three days ago that the Secret Service detail be reduced by one-third. The recommendation came just one day before a assassination plot was reported in New Orleans, where Nixon made a speech to the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Nixon told reporters he and his family had more security than they wanted.

"I would prefer and I recommended this just three days ago—to cut my detail by one-third, because I've noticed there were criticisms of how much the Secret Service was spending," Nixon said.

Certain bugging defended

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon says he feels that if increased wiretapping could have prevented the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, "it would have been worth it."

Nixon was asked a series of questions at his news conference Wednesday about his contention that telephone wiretaps on government officials and newsmen, and a break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, were justifiable under considerations of national security.

The President said he did not condone the Ellsberg burglary, which was carried out by E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy, two members of the White House "plumbers" unit.

But he said that while Robert F. Kennedy was attorney general in 1963, more than twice as many wiretaps occurred as during the Eisenhower administration and the Nixon administration.

"He had over 250 (taps) in 1963, and of course the average in the Eisenhower administration and the Nixon administration is around 110," Nixon said.

Kissinger choice backed by Church

LAVA HOT SPRINGS, Idaho (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, Idaho, applauded the nomination of Henry Kissinger to be secretary of state, saying "it was time for the de facto secretary to be made de jure."

Church talked with Kissinger shortly after President Nixon announced his nomination during a televised news conference.

Kissinger called Church here to express the hope that common ground might be found to join the legislative and executive branches of government together again in support of a genuine bipartisan foreign policy.

Church is a ranking member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The Idaho senator said he respected Kissinger and called him a "personal friend."

He added the two had agreed to consult when Church returns to Washington.

"The fact is that Kissinger has been the major architect of our foreign policy during the Nixon years," said Church.

Accident sets back F-15 plan

(c) Washington Star-News

WASHINGTON — The Air Force F-15 fighter plane program suffered a serious new setback last night when the engine for the plane blew up during a final military qualification test.

The Air Force has only until Sept. 30, under the present schedule, to find out what happened to the engine, find a solution to the problem and successfully run the 150-hour test with another engine.

Defense officials have told Congress that the entire production schedule would have to be revised if the engine failed to pass its test by the Sept. 30 deadline.

The McDonnell-Douglas Aircraft Corporation of St. Louis, Mo., has been given the go-ahead to produce air frames for the F-15.

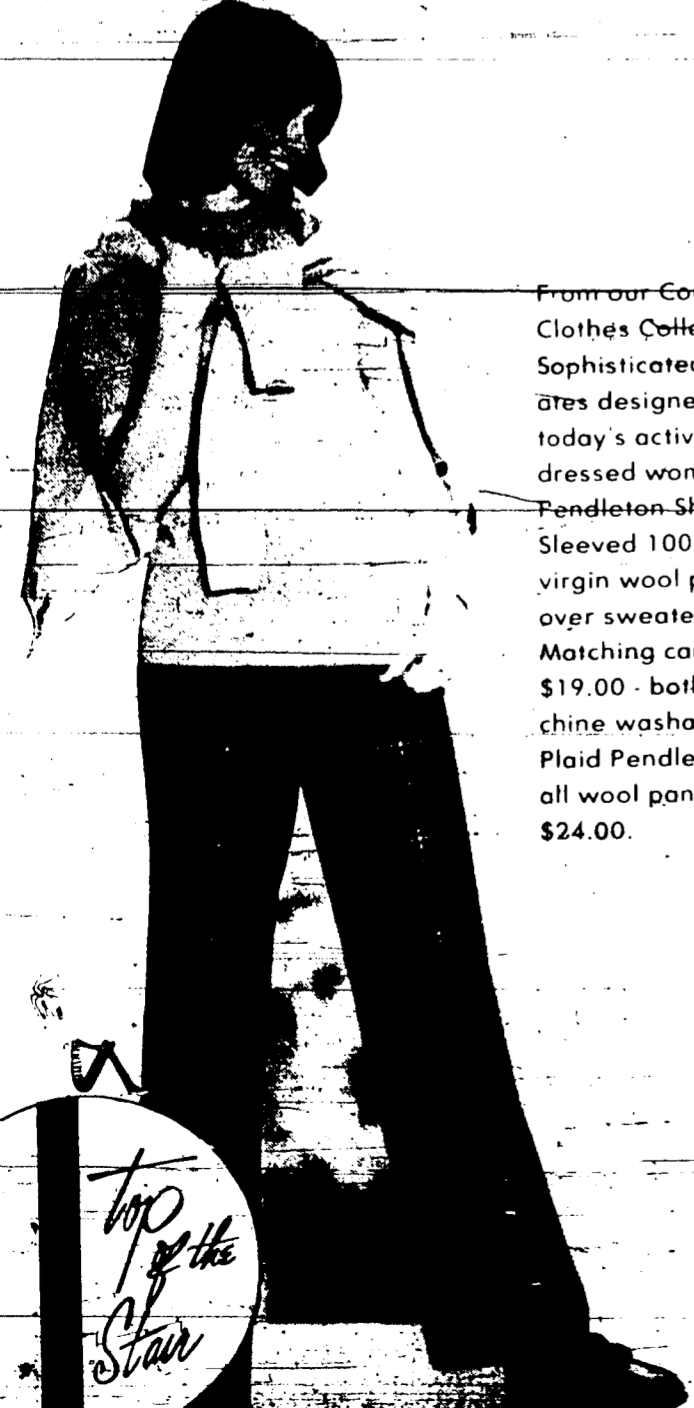

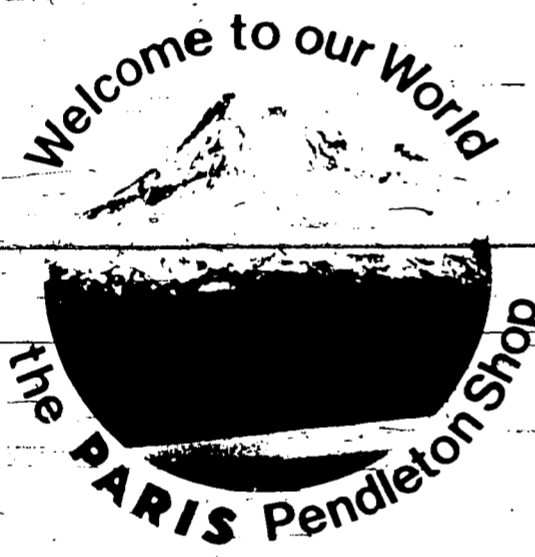

The builder of the engine, the Pratt & Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corporation of East Hartford, Conn., has a limited go-ahead for engine production, pending successful completion of tests.

A delay in the production schedule would certainly mean a sharp increase in the cost of the 749 planes the Air Force plans to buy in a $7.5 billion program.

Behind the gentle humor of Rogers' remarks, newsmen who have known him for many years thought they detected

Credit wheat sales due record cutback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With commercial wheat exports booming and prices riding at record levels, the United States may cut wheat shipments under the Food for Peace program to the lowest level since the program began in 1955, officials indicated today.

Exports under the long-term credit phase of the program, which reached a peak of about 500 million bushels annually during the 1960's, had fallen to 184.5 million bushels in the 1970-71 marketing season, 174.1 million in 1971-72, and then dropped sharply to an estimated 95 million bushels in the 1972-73 season which ended June 30.

Officials said today they are still reviewing the supply situation to determine how much can be shipped under the program in the current 1973-74 marketing year. While no decisions have been made yet, one expert said there are "very preliminary indications" that shipments in the new season could be down to about one-third of the 1972-73 level.

A cut of that size could bring exports under "Title I" of the Food for Peace program, which covers sales for long-term credit, down to the neighborhood of 32 million bushels. This would be the lowest figure since the 1954-55 marketing season when the program was launched about halfway through the season.

In 1954-55, Title I wheat exports—at that time shipped in return for foreign currencies—were reported at 23.8 million bushels for the half year in which the program operated. In 1955-56, shipments rose to 94.3 million bushels, approximately the amount moved in 1972-73, and then rose to remain above 200 million bushels in virtually every year until the 1970's.

The pinch on supplies for the easy-credit Food for Peace sales because heavy world-wide demand for U.S. wheat has left little available for "concessional" sales. Despite a record 1.7 billion bushel 1973 U.S. wheat crop, the United States is currently facing a season in which domestic and export sales will exceed demand and pull reserves down to the lowest level in many years. Exports, according to current government forecasts, will reach at least 1.1 billion bushels.

FRED HAISE JR. crashes

Ex-Astro burned in crash

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Former astronaut Fred Haise Jr., who survived an explosion in space aboard the ill-fated Apollo 13, crashed a single engine World War II trainer in an open field Wednesday. He was burned over 50 per cent of his body.

Galveston County deputy sheriff Eddie Burke said the plane, painted so it resembled a Japanese Zero, narrowly missed a trailer park and crashed into the field.

Haise said the plane's engine "quit" on him. The former astronaut was taken to the John Sealy Hospital-Burn Clinic in Galveston.

The spokesman said the plane was a T6 belonging to the Confederate Air Force—a group that collect and fly old military aircraft. Haise was ferrying the aircraft 40 miles from an airport in Angleton, 43 miles south of Houston, to Galveston.

Haise joined the astronaut corps in April, 1966. He served as a backup pilot for three Apollo flights and was the lunar module pilot on the flight of Apollo 13 in April, 1970.

Chavez aides dispatched

DELANO, Calif. (UPI) — Cesar Chavez' sent supporters to 63 cities across the nation today urging support for another boycott of table grapes. About 100 members of the United Farm Workers Union were in the first contingent to leave California's agricultural heartland to work with UFW sympathizers in the major cities.

A spokesman for Chavez said the boycotters will picket stores, speak to schools and civic groups, and do whatever they can to help the union cause.

Chavez himself was in Florida drumming up support for the boycott, which he hoped would duplicate the successful grape boycott of the late 1960s which led major growers to sign with his union in 1970.

The rival Teamsters Union has taken away most of those parts this year, but Teamsters

President Frank Fitzsimmons this week repudiated contracts his union signed with 30 grape growers around Delano, Calif. Chavez walked out of peace talks between the unions Aug. 9 after the contracts were signed.

The call for another national grape boycott came at the end of a three-day fast by UFW members in the memory of two of their pickets, Juan de la Cruz, who was shot to death by snipers, and Naji Dalifullah, who died after a scuffle with a sheriff's deputy outside a bar.

In a letter to the A and P supermarket company, the UFW asked the firm to "recognize its partial responsibility" for the two deaths and to refrain from purchasing non-UFW harvested crops.

The letter was sent to A and P division manager J.E. Flannery in Pittsburgh, Pa., by the local union.

Gonorrhea cure marketed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A glassful of pleasant-tasting medicine is being marketed as a 48-hour cure for gonorrhea, America's most common infectious disease except for the cold.

The new liquid drug, a combination of ampicillin and probenecid, was found 90 per cent effective last year by the Public Health Service (PHS), but so far only one company, Bristol Laboratories of Syracuse, N.Y., has received Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approval to sell the prescription drug.

Harold Snyder, president of the competing Biocraft Laboratories of Elmwood Park, N.J., has complained that the FDA is dawdling in letting his company sell the drug, which is tastier, less painful and quicker acting than the previous cure of swallowing huge doses of penicillin pills or taking a long series of penicillin shots.

Snyder has asked Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., to investigate the FDA's delay in approving his company's product. An FDA spokesman said Biocraft submitted its request six months after Bristol and that there has not been enough time to consider the application yet.

Robinson said persons allergic to penicillin should not use the drug, although he said allergic patients can avoid the penicillin side effects by drinking a lot of water and juices.

The PHS has estimated at least 3 million Americans have gonorrhea, making it the most common infectious disease except for the common cold, and the federal government is expected to be the largest buyer.

FDA official William T. Robinson described the cure: "Just fill up the bottle with water and the powder at the bottom will dissolve. Drink it and you'll be well within 48 hours."

Foreign meat limited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Meat-hungry Americans who go into Mexico and Canada for supplies were warned today they could suffer losses if they get too greedy in their over-the-border shopping.

U.S. meat inspection regulations put a 50-pound limit on the amount of meat any individual can bring back into the country for personal use at one time, Agriculture Department officials noted in a statement.

"Any excess may have to be seized and destroyed at the border, causing a loss to consumers," officials added.

Spokesmen said the caution was issued because inspectors along the Mexican border have been reporting that many Americans are apparently not aware of the longstanding 50-pound limit.

Nixon wants to move on 'to business of people'

The President insisted, as he had previously, that once the cover-up began to unfold, "I kept pressing for the view that I had had throughout, that we must get this story out, whatever and wherever it is going to hurt."
This is "a fundamental conflict with Dean's testimony before the Ervin committee. Dean said Nixon congratulated him last September for keeping the White House out of the original Watergate burglary indictments. Dean said he had the impression then that the President knew about the cover-up."
Immediately after the break-in at Democratic national headquarters on June 17, 1972, his then campaign director called him about the matter, the President recalled.
Mitchell "expressed great chagrin that he had not run a tight enough ship, and that some of the boys, as he called them, got involved in this type of activity, which he knew to be very embarrassing, a part from its illegality, to the campaign."
Mitchell has testified that he didn't want to bother the President with the details because he knew Nixon would be angry.
The President also gave his version of the meeting with Dean in which the council remembers being told that raising $1 million to silence the convicted Watergate burglars would "be no problem."
Nixon said he told Dean that this wouldn't work because the convicts were not going to receive executive clemency and could not be silenced in this fashion as long as they remained in jail.

He said he would never compromise the principle of confidentiality by making tape recordings of his office conversations available to Senate investigators or to Special Prosecutor Arhibaldi Cox.
The only limitation on this power of executive privilege, he argued, is "the limitation of public opinion, and, of course, Congressional and other pressures that may arise."

Nixon did repeat an earlier statement by a White House spokesman that he would abide by any "definitive order" of the Supreme Court commanding him to produce the tapes.
One of the many unresolved questions from the 37 days of Senate Watergate hearings is why Nixon let Haldeman listen to taps of his private conversations with Dean after Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen had warned the President that Haldeman faced indictment.

Nixon answered by saying that he had given Haldeman only one tape after the warning and that was a recording of the Sept. 15, 1972, oval office conversation in which Dean says he first warned the president that White House officials might be involved in the Watergate case. However, the President said Haldeman listened "only to the tape on Sept. 15" in which he had participated in the conversation throughout.
Nixon said: "I wanted to be sure that we were absolutely correct in our response."

Both Dean and Haldeman testified that Dean with the president alone both before and after Haldeman was in the meeting.
Another belated explanation from the president concerned the reason he did nothing about the warning from former acting FBI director, J. Patrick Gray III that some of Nixon's trusted associates were "mortally wounding" him. The President said he thought Gray was talking about people "involved in the CIA operations", a but vague version of what happened.

The President also said U.S. District Court Judge Matthew Byrne, the trial judge in the Daniel Ellsberg case, had expressed interest in the FBI director's job when Ehrlichman discussed the appointment with him here. Byrne has denied any such interest after the conversation with Ehrlichman and, briefly, with the President.
Nixon defended the use of "surreptitious entry" to gather information about domestic subversion by citing a Supreme Court ruling that he said "indicates inherent power in the presidency to protect the national security."

more than one trump trick. He also sees that he has no way to avoid the loss of at least one.

He leads a diamond toward dummy. West plays the 10 and dummy's king wins.

He leads back the deuce of diamonds. If East plays the queen or jack South will win with his ace, lead the nine and be sure of his contract. But East doesn't play the jack. He simply drops the seven-spot on the table.

This is the best that East can do and it will work if South goes up with his ace, but South has no reason to do this. The play of the nine-spot guarantees the contract at no risk whatsoever and as such is a perfect safety play.

Miss Herzinger, Kocherhans wed

TWIN FALLS — Carolyn Herzinger became the bride of Larry Kocherhans in rites performed in the Salt Lake LDS Temple, Aug. 9.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman S. Herzinger, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Kocherhans, Phoenix, Ariz. David Haight, assistant to the Twelve Apostles, performed the ceremony.

The couple was honored at a reception the same evening in the Twin Falls Maurice Street LDS Tabernacle.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown, which was of antique satin with a fitted bodice and long sleeves. The skirt was ruffled with tiny pleats circling the skirt and caught in an apron effect from the floor to the waistline at the back. Her fingertip veil of white net flowed from a satin, pearl and rhinestone star. She carried an Austrian Styled bouquet of yellow rosebuds, white daisy mums and babybreath with blue ribbon streamers.

Edith Farnsworth, Salt Lake City, was maid of honor, and Pam Kocherhans, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid.

Steven Kocherhans, brother of the bridegroom was best man, and Mark Herzinger, brother of the bride, was groomsmen.

Elizabeth Rice, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

The reception hall was decorated in shades of blue with white and yellow accents. Austrian valences and pouff panels served as backdrops for the receiving line and the serving table. Baskets of white and yellow gladioli and daisy mums accented with natural greenery completed the decor. Flower decorated carts displayed the unopened wedding gifts. The guest tables were decorated with white lace tablecloths with blue liners. Small white baskets of yellow and white daisies served as centerpieces.

Buffet type refreshments were served the guests. Mrs. Everett S. Rice, aunt of the bride, presided at the serving table. Joyce Thomson, Beverly Call, Flossie Willis, and Karla Brashear were reception assistants.

Gift bearers were Greg Rice, and Linda Thompson. Mrs. Kenneth Shew provided piano background music during the evening.

A wedding breakfast hosted by the bridegroom's parents was held at Nero's in Salt Lake City immediately following the ceremony.

Special guest included Mrs. Lavina Thomas, grandmother of the bridegroom; Mrs. Clarissa Gillette and Mrs. Anna Herzinger, grandmothers of the bride. Out of town guests attended from Phoenix, Provo, Utah; Seattle, Salt Lake City, Idaho Falls, Boise and Nampa.

An open house was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents in Phoenix, Aug. 17.

24 TF children at summer camp

TWIN FALLS — Twenty-four Twin Falls youngsters, most of them from low-income families, are at summer camp this week thanks to the Salvation Army.

A chartered bus bearing the Twin Falls youths left Monday for Camp Cascade at Donnelly about 15 miles south of McCall. An additional 125 to 150 southwestern Idaho youngsters from outside Twin Falls were also taken to the camp at Cascade Dam Reservoir for a week of camping, swimming and handicrafts.

Salvation Army Capt. Dale Vilen said this was the second group of youngsters the organization has sent to camp this summer. A similar group was taken to the camp last week, he said.

Vilen said the camp includes music, crafts and a special Sunbeam camp for girls. The youngsters are in the 7 to 14 age bracket, he said.

Vilen said part of the financing for the summer camp came from a successful fund raising letter mailed throughout the community.

Most referrals to the camp, he said, came informally from low-income families who heard about the program and signed their children up to go.

All aboard

SALVATION ARMY Capt. Dale Vilen, in uniform, shakes hands with Scott Aragon, 14, Twin Falls, as Scott prepares to board a bus to a summer camp run by the charity organization for Idaho youngsters. Beginning to climb on the bus is Michelle Matlock, 9, also Twin Falls. Looking on, right, is Jack Muldoon, chairman of the Twin Falls Salvation Army board.

Water shutoff OK

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has given Bunker Hill Co. authority to shut off its water services for certain uses if its supply becomes dangerously low this summer. On Aug. 14, Bunker Hill filed a request with the PUC for authority to restrict water usage to the extent necessary to prevent water reserves from dropping to a level that would imperil the health and safety of customers on its water system. The request said, because of the dry season, all of the Bunker Hill water storage tanks are drained one-third in the daytime and partially recover during the night.

Low bidder

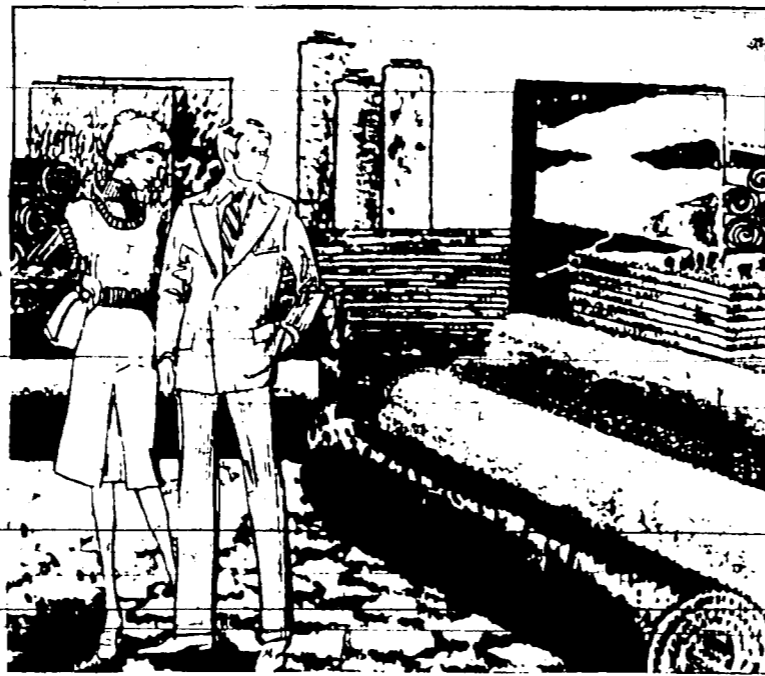

BOISE — Lone Pine Equipment Co., Kimberly, is the apparent low bidder for the Rock Creek culvert on the Balanced Rock-Kimberly Road. Idaho Highway Department officials said today the firm bid $58,636.50 for furnishing and installing pipe for the culvert.

It added that a fire of any consequence could drain down the water in one or more tanks. The PUC said an emergency water shortage situation exists in the system, and therefore, when the company determines that not enough water is in its storage tanks, the company may request users to shut off certain services, such as the outside water uses.

Rescue workers ready to free trapped miners

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI)—Rescue workers readied heavy machinery today for the final push to reach two men trapped 1,300 feet underground by a copper mine cave-in six days ago.

There was hope the rescuers would reach the men today. There has been no communication with the trapped miners, David Deeter, 41, and Terry Udall, 24, and no firm evidence that they survived. But officials at the Lakeshore Mine have maintained since the ordeal began last Friday that the men should still be alive.

They were seen fleeing into a dead end tunnel, 500 feet long and 14 feet wide, when debris cascaded down from the tunnel roof onto a loader machine. Oxygen and fresh water have been pumped into the chamber through a pipe since the collapse.

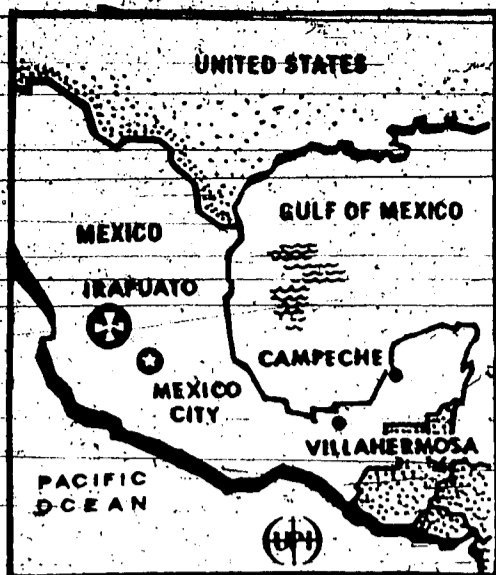

Project manager Jim Hunter said Wednesday that "We still feel we will get to them some time tomorrow (today)."

The tunnel fire that was the major obstacle to reaching the men was put out Tuesday, and burned support timbers replaced Wednesday. Rescuers were working today at clearing up "80 to 115 feet of muck" left behind by the blaze, and the million cubic feet of chemical foam pumped in to extinguish the fire.

"Now comes the moment of truth when we find out the condition of the loader," a spokesman said, referring to the 40-ton machine which is at the core of the tunnel blockage. How long the remainder of the task takes depends on the situation of the loader. Once the loader is dealt with, rescuers said, they can move in heavy equipment to dig through the pile of rock and sand into the chamber where Deeter and Udall are hoped to be waiting.

"You can't ask for a better company," said Deeter's wife, Morgan. "Those rescue men are killing themselves. We hear they are doing very well and we're optimistic. We're getting to the point now where we're going to know one way or another pretty soon."

300 die in Mexico flood

IRAPUATO, Mexico (UPI)—President Luis Echeverria Wednesday toured flood-ravaged Irapuato where thousands of homes were wiped out and an estimated 300 persons died when a dam burst, sending a seven-foot-high wall of water crashing into the city.

A cameraman who flew over the scene Tuesday said it looked "really bad—like Managua after the (Dec. 23, 1972) earthquake. At least 40,000 houses were destroyed."

Larger buildings remained standing but most of the town's adobe houses were washed away. Army teams dug through the mud and debris searching for victims. The army said 124 persons were confirmed dead but some sources said the death toll may rise to 300.

The disaster struck this central Mexico city of 180,000 persons Monday, the same day Hurricane Brenda slammed into Mexico's eastern coast and killed at least five persons.

After weeks of pounding rain that had already lashed a seven-state area in central Mexico, Irapuato's nearby Conejos Dam broke and sent tons of water gushing through the city.

"The dam broke while people were sleeping and the water rushed seven feet high," the cameraman said. "It covered the town in a few minutes."

Echeverria promised massive disaster aid to the stricken community 115 miles northwest of Mexico City. The army said 44,000 relief kits—each containing a week's food for five persons—were distributed Tuesday. Materials were flown in for rebuilding homes, highways and railroads.

City officials estimated damage at $80 million. Relief officials said at least half and possibly all the buildings in town suffered serious interior damage.

Firm turns garbage to pellet-size fuel

LOS GATOS, Calif. (UPI)—A California company says it has developed a process to turn the nation's garbage and solid wastes into a clean, pellet-sized fuel.

Ian Allison, president of Sira International, Inc., of Sunnyvale and Los Gatos, Calif., said the new fuel source could reduce the strain on the nation's dwindling coal reserves and help solve the problem of what to do with the daily production of garbage.

"Less than two pounds of Sira pelletized fuel will be required to produce a comparable level of BTU's from one pound of coal, but the production cost will be as much as 25 per cent less," said Allison.

"I know our fuel will not replace coal but the use of it can surely extend the availability of existing reserves. This clean fuel source will mean the end to the solid waste disposal problems, elimination of old, smelly, unsightly garbage dumps and the many environmental problems they create. The use of the new Sira fuel will mean 69 million tons of coal per year can be conserved for the future. Plus more than $3 billion worth of raw materials can be reclaimed in a usable fashion. It normally costs between $13 and $18 a ton to produce coal in the United States while the Sira pelletized fuel has an estimated cost of merely $3 to $5 a ton," Allison said.

The company has a plant in operation at Los Gatos and is constructing another in the Tokyo suburb of Matsudo to handle a capacity of 500 tons a day.

Raw garbage and waste materials are delivered by collection trucks and dumped into the enclosed metal building. The garbage is moved to a conveyor belt by a skip loader and the belt feeds the load into a giant hammermill where it is reduced to four-inch particles.

Two proposals to curb pet population offered

By RONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Two proposals for curbing the area pet population explosion have been offered by the Twin Falls County Humane Society.

Directors of the association made the proposals Tuesday during a luncheon meeting with area veterinarians, city and state officials. Dr. A. P. Schneider, state veterinarian and his assistant, Dr. W. G. Nelson, both Boise, Twin Falls city manager, Jean Milar, and several veterinarians from Twin Falls and Burley attended the meeting.

Bobbi Glasmann, president of the society, said the organization is facing an almost unsurmountable problem of over population of dogs and cats through operation of the Twin Falls Humane Society shelter.

As a partial solution, she said, the society is proposing several state-operated spay clinics in Idaho. She said these would have to offer the sterilization surgery for pets at a low cost or at no cost at all and would require state or federal funding.

The second proposal, she said, would be for city ordinances requiring the neutering of all pets licensed in the city except those maintained for breeding purposes.

Both proposals met with cool reception from state and city officials, although all agreed the problem is a critical one.

Dr. Schneider said he does not believe the spay clinics would be utilized. He said similar efforts in Boise failed. Some people will not take the trouble of utilizing the services, he said, even at a low cost or no cost at all.

Dr. Schneider recommended increased public education as a major step in combatting the problem. Veterinarians attending the meeting said they would not be willing to offer the surgical sterilizations at a lower cost because it would mean reducing the quality of their services.

Two suggested offering several free sterilizations of pets by each veterinarian each year through cooperation with the Humane Society with the surgeries to be considered tax deductible donations to the Humane Society. City Manager Jean Milar said animal control is one of the major problems cities face, but animal ordinances are not "politically popular" and therefore get low priority in city government consideration.

Enforcement of ordinances represents a major problem, Milar said. The city has only one humane officer who could work 24 hours a day and not keep up with demands. Violations of the city leash law result in issuing of citations but most are ignored because of the heavy work load of the courts and the higher priority given traffic and criminal citations, he said.

Milar said only a relatively small percentage of the pets are licensed and many go unlicensed until they happen to come to the attention of the Humane officer.

Mrs. Glasmann said the Twin Falls and Boise Humane Society must dispose of nearly 2,000 dogs per month through their combined facilities.

"This is a sad situation but we can find no other solution," she said.

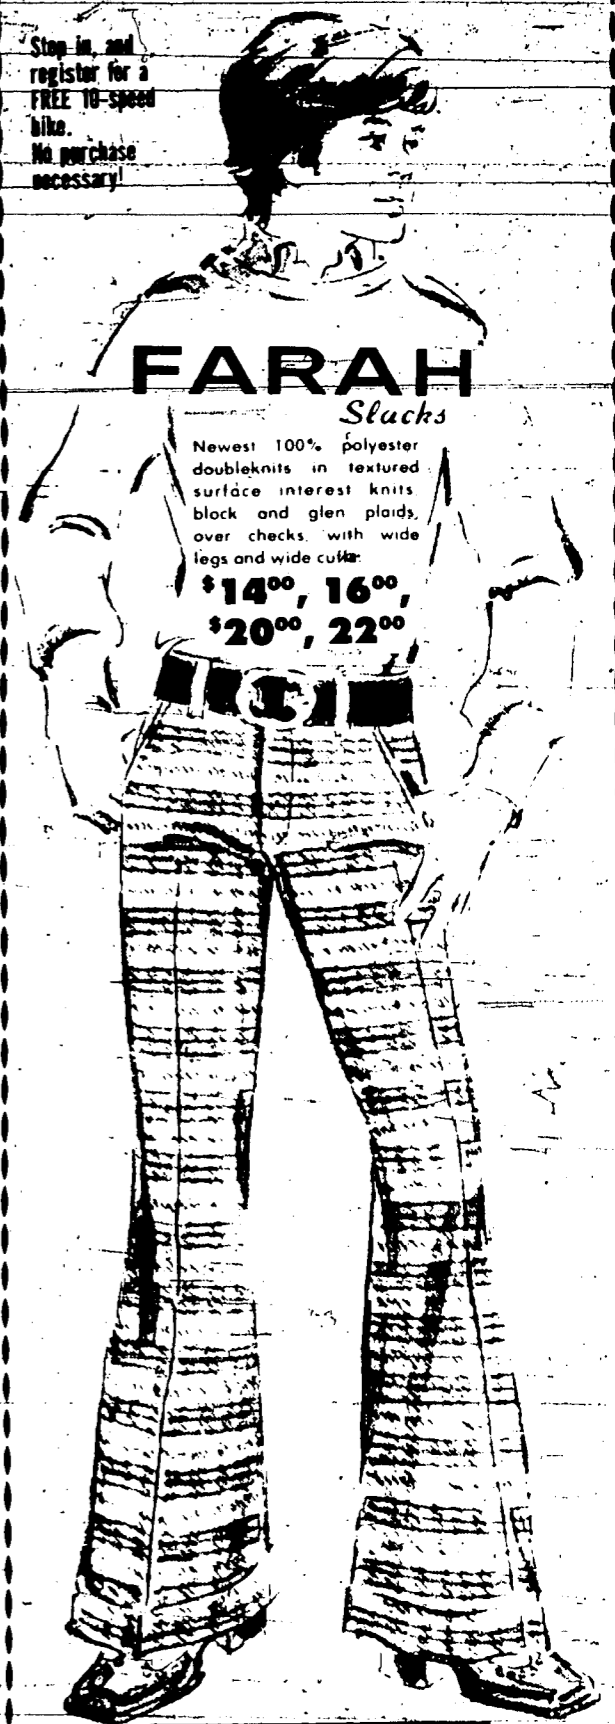

Too many dogs, cats

POSSIBLE CONTROL of pet population through state and city measures is discussed in Twin Falls by Humane Society officers and state veterinarians. From left are Dr. A. P. Schneider, state veterinarian; Ardith Wheeler, society secretary, and Dr. W. G. Nelson, standing, assistant state veterinarian.

Sharon Davis, Miss Idaho served as grand marshal for the parade she was followed in line by the Jerome County Commissioners and Mayor Jack Russell who was accompanied by the Mayors of Elmer Pine, Hazelton and James Lulow, Eden.

Following the parade members of the Jerome Arts Guild, unveiled the third and final mural on the produce building. The mural was designed by Feebe Thomson and painted by members of the Jerome Art Guild.

Truck rests in Snake River Canyon

Truck ditched in canyon

TWIN FALLS — A pickup truck believed stolen from a Twin Falls automobile dealer's parking lot Wednesday night was found this morning on a ridge in the Snake River Canyon.

The pickup was spotted this morning by employees of a northside canyon fish hatchery resting on a ledge about 30 feet below the south rim of the canyon about a half mile west of the Twin Falls gun club. It was apparently stolen from Blue Lakes Volkswagen, authorities said. Sheriff Paul Corder said this morning no one was in the vehicle. A search of the canyon with binoculars by deputies failed to turn up any sign of an injury or fatality.

Corder said he thought the pickup, which bore no license plates, had been pushed over the canyon rim by a nervous thief.

Tire tracks in the dust along the rim showed no sign of loss of control, according to the sheriff. He said both doors to the vehicle were closed when deputies arrived.

City police were making preparations to remove the truck from the canyon later today to determine where it came from.

Rupert council accepts street improvement bids

RUPERT — Bids were accepted from two local companies for street improvements on 8th Street at the Rupert City Council meeting Thursday night.

Ron Klebe, city public works director, said the bids presented by Kloepper Concrete, Paul, and Gordon Paving Company, Burley, were "reasonable" and would figure into the contract prices negotiated with the three property owners residing along the section to be improved between G and H streets.

Kloepper Concrete was awarded the bid for sidewalk installation at $2.51 per lineal foot, for curb and gutters at $2.98 a lineal foot, and for three catch basins at $262.60 each. The asphalt bid went to Gordon Paving at $1.58 a square yard as did the gravel at $1 a cubic yard.

The completion date is set for 35 days from the time of bid opening, or about October 6.

Nephi Douglas and a small delegation of residents from the Wright addition near 15th street asked the council whether something could be done to control the sub water coming up into their basements.

The council, he said, made some improvements by installing a low pressure pump between 14th and 15th streets, but "we've all got sub this year."

Councilman William Strasser said much of the problem stemmed from the "B" canal, which loses 40 per cent of its water before it reaches end. "It can be sealed in the not too distant future," he said, "but that doesn't help the problem now."

The council gave Jack Jensen 30 days to "work out a financing arrangement for improvements required under the terms of the contract with the city" for street work in the Jensen subdivision.

The 1972 audit was presented by CPA Helen Dickinson, Rupert, to the council, which approved the statement after explanation.

On October 1, the city will change to Metropolitan Life Insurance for health and accident insurance for city employees. The city used to purchase insurance from the Association of Idaho cities.

Gem gas shipments show 7% increase

Ken Miller, manager of the Idaho State Automobile Association, said last week that tight gasoline conditions "improved slightly" during the early part of August.

"Wise motorists still fill up before 6 p.m. and have to do some Sunday searching,"

Miller said, "but this is mostly a matter of gas station economics, not supply of gas."

Most gas station operators surveyed by his agency, Miller said, were more optimistic than earlier in the summer. However, he cautioned that the situation might become tight during the last part of the month as allotments expire.

Miller said motorists have apparently been holding back on vacationing because of the gasoline shortage, with a consequent decrease in demand. The number of routing requests received by his agency in July was down 10 per cent compared to last year. However, he noted that routing requests were on the increase during August.

While the comparative first-half figures showed an increase statewide in gasoline imports in 1973 over 1972, on a month-for-month basis June 1973 imports were about 2 per cent below imports for June 1972, another indication that motorists may have cut down on summer driving.

For the state as a whole gasoline imports in June reached 44.4 million gallons, a gain of about 2.2 per cent over the 43.4 million gallons imported in May.

For the eight-county Magic Valley area gasoline imports in June totaled about 8 million gallons, a 9 per cent gain on the 7.3 million gallons imported in May.

Gasoline shipments into Magic Valley for the first six months of 1973 reached about 41 million gallons, up about 6 per cent over the 38.7 million gallons imported in the first half of 1972.

Soil supervisors elected in Jerome

JEROME — Three supervisors for the North Side Soil Conservation District were elected Wednesday in Jerome, in the largest vote turnout on record.

Roger Fiala was reelected to the board. New supervisors elected included Gordon Hagler and Albert Lickey. They will serve a four-year term.

Fiala received 53 votes, Hagler, 46 and Lickey 64, defeated candidates include Mrs. Wesley (Mary) Rose who received 30 votes; Robert K. Johnson, 16; R. J. Reichard, 28; and Everett Ahrens, 45.

This was the first time in the district that a woman had sought election to the supervisor position.

Hagler has farmed for 15 years northeast of Jerome on 400 acres of which he owns 200.

He raises beans, hay, grain, pasture and runs 70 head brood cows. He has a cow-calf operation with some feeders.

Fiala has farmed 25 years northeast of Jerome. He has 380 acres of irrigated land and grows potatoes, grain and hay.

He has been supervisor for 16 years and was chairman for eight years.

Lickey farms 350 acres southeast of Jerome, has a cow-calf yearling operation.

He runs 60 cows and 800 yearlings. Lickey has been in the farming cattle business for the past 18 years.

Sawtooth fires out

TWIN FALLS — Lightning caused seven small fires Wednesday in the Sawtooth National Forest north of Ketchum, but all were out today.

Fire dispatchers reported the fires were all less than an acre in size and were controlled immediately after being spotted. Another lightning storm was reported moving through the area this morning and officials were watching the dry areas closely.

Bureau of Land Management officials in Burley said fires were all out and no new reports have been received in the district today.

Rain, heavy in some areas, helped improve fire conditions and put out some small blazes Wednesday afternoon, BLM officials said.

A range fire burned between one and two acres along U. S. Highway 33 north of the ice caves about 6 p.m. Wednesday. Wallace Fixsen, fire control officer for the Bureau of Land Management office at Shoshone, said the cause was not known although the blaze was probably man-caused.

Advisory committees set for MV planning group

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

BURLEY — The South Idaho Resource and Planning Development Association (SIRPDA) decided to set up an advisory committee on housing and another on planning Wednesday night in Burley.

SIRPDA determined the housing committee would consist of three representatives from each member county — Jerome, Minidoka, Cassia and Twin Falls. The three members would include one consumer, one elected official and one private citizen from each county.

From this committee, three members would be sent to the Idaho Housing Agency Advisory Committee, a private, non-profit agency, which, with the use of state funds, floats bonds and builds low-cost housing within the state.

Executive director of SIRPDA, Paul Kelly, said the agency needed a strong housing committee because most of the funds come through the department of housing and Urban Development.

Dennis Alston, VISTA volunteer in Twin Falls, requested SIRPDA's support in appropriating land for migrant housing. The land is available, he said.

Alston's request will be put on the agenda for the next meeting.

The agency also established the membership grouping for the newly formed Land Use Committee.

The makeup will consist of one member from each city and county planning agency, plus two additional members, one each from Jerome and Minidoka counties (which have only one planning body) and members of SIRPDA's land use committee, making a 12-man committee.

The committee would help counties decide if they want to cooperate on regional planning, what kind of plans they want to develop, what kind of ingredients will be included in the plans, and what methods for development will be used, Kelly said.

A request by the city of Twin Falls for $30,000 in HUD funds in addition to $10,000 in cash and another $10,000 in plan from their own funds for development of a comprehensive plan for a region encompassing land from Joslin Field to Jerome County was forwarded without comment.

Kelly said SIRPDA had been granted only $25,000 in funds and had budgeted $20,000 already. The shortage, he said, came as a result of a freeze on HUD funds.

The Twin Falls request, he said, was the only one received by the agency at this point, and applications were due to the agency by Sept. 1.

The agency voted to support the "general concepts" of the soil survey legislation, the state sediment and soil erosion control legislation, and the Senate land use planning bill.

Courthouse cleaned

WORKMAN Bill Stuart applies high-pressure blast of water and sand to exterior walls of the Twin Falls County Courthouse as first step in cleaning process. The old murals home and old hospital are also due cleaning improvements.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A nerdy couple we know drops by unexpectedly several times a week—and always at dinnertime, so we have to invite them to stay for dinner. They are breaking us in the food department. They finish off everything so we never have any leftovers. Also, they drink coffee (which isn't cheap) by the gallon. When one pot is empty the wife gets up and makes another pot, just like she's in her own home.

They invited us to dinner at their place twice, and both times they served rice while they bragged that they had a whole cow in their freezer.

Don't suggest that we tell them we ate already when they come over. We tried that once and they said: "So did we," came in and sat until midnight and everybody's stomach was growling so loud we could hardly hear ourselves talk.

So how do we tell this couple not to come for dinner without hurting their feelings?

STUCK

DEAR STUCK: What feelings? If you permit unwelcome guests to impose on you, look for sympathy under "S" in the dictionary.

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorced woman of 43 who has been dating a 50-year-old bachelor for two years. I'd like to know if I'm wasting my time. I cook him a full hot meal at least four nights a week, and how that man loves to eat! He is so sweet and affectionate to my two daughters, who are 10 and 12, but he never kisses me unless I practically force myself on him. The first time he kissed me I was boarding a bus to go visit my mother and I said: "Aren't you going to kiss me goodbye?" So he kissed me.

Do you think there is something wrong with a man his age who can hardly keep his hands off 10 and 12-year-old girls but never makes a move toward a mature woman?

Also, he never says a word about our future. Should I bring it up? I would like to know where I stand.

TIRED OF WAITING

DEAR TIRED: Don't waste any more time on him. But to be sure you aren't passing up a likely prospect, ask him how he feels about marriage. I'll bet he disappears in a hurry, which will be a break for you.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's mother keeps telling me that a man's wife is nothing—his mother is the most important person in his life because a man can have 10 wives, but he can have only one mother.

I have the impression that she would like nothing more than to break up my marriage so she could have her son back home. She is twice-divorced.

My husband is a kind and gentle man, but he refuses to enter into any kind of controversy where his mother is concerned.

She thinks that because she attends church regularly and knows the Bible backwards and forwards she is a "good" woman.

Since my husband refuses to take my part against her, how can I defend myself?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Tell her to refer to her Bible: "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife." (Genesis 2, 24)

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HELP ME IN ALBANY, N. Y.": I doubt if any ethical doctor would be willing to remove all your female organs because you find "all that female business a nuisance." And at age 28, you may have regrets later for having done so.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 9770, L. A., Calif. 90009. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

7 named but not indicted

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Seven persons, including a close friend of Vice President Spiro Agnew, were mentioned today but not individually charged in an indictment of a Maryland Republican fundraising committee on charges of filing fraudulent financial reports.

The indictment was returned Tuesday by the Anne Arundel County grand jury which has been investigating a 1972 "Salute to Ted Agnew" fund raising party. It was revealed during the Senate Watergate hearings that $50,000 in Nixon re-election campaign funds were used to exaggerate the success of the dinner—held to raise money for the Maryland GOP organization.

State's attorney Warren Duckett said he persuaded the grand jury to indict the committee and not individuals. Seven persons were mentioned because there were other members of the committee who were not involved in the alleged conspiracy, Duckett said.

Among those mentioned were: Alexander Lankler, chairman of the Maryland Republican Party, and J. Walter Jones, a wealthy banker and land developer who is a close friend of vice president.

Also mentioned were Bagden H. Wharton, a senior vice president of Maryland National Bank who has been previously indicted on related charges;

Mrs. Charles S. Bresler, the wife of one of Agnew's running mates in the 1966 Maryland gubernatorial election; John Steffey, a prominent realtor; Mrs. Harvey Meyerhoff, wife of a prominent Baltimore developer; and the Rev. Roy Pfautch of St. Louis, who was a consultant to the committee.

Duckett said Agnew, although he allowed himself to be saluted and may have lent the support of his office to the arrangements of the event, was not otherwise involved.

"We've determined the allegations were best laid to these individuals," Duckett said, "as alleged co-conspirators but not defendants. We chose to exclude those (committee members) we felt were not working members of the committee."

"If there was a violation, it was done in a committee atmosphere," he said, and the committee was indicted "rather than say that one person was more guilty than other persons."

Duckett said the court would decide how to mete out any punishment but said none of the individuals named could be held "subject to the penalty clause."

One of the seven will have to represent the committee when it is arraigned on the indictment, perhaps as early as Thursday, Duckett said.

McGovern says no alternative

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said Wednesday President Nixon's refusal to release the Watergate tapes leaves Congress with little alternative but to consider impeaching him to determine the truth behind the scandal.

"Neither I nor any other member of the United States Senate relishes the thought of impeachment," said McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee who lost to Nixon in a landslide last November.

"We'd like to believe the President is innocent. We would like to believe he would cooperate with the constitutional procedures of our country so we can avoid the possibility of impeachment."

But McGovern said Nixon's televised Watergate speech a week ago had served to strengthen his thought that impeachment might prove to be the only solution.

McGovern cited the President's refusal to "answer in a point-by-point rebuttal the serious charges which have been made against him and also the glaring contradictions in the testimony of some of his top aides.

"Somebody has not been telling the truth," he said. McGovern was interviewed on television (NBC's Today show).

"If the President persists in (resisting) giving either the courts or the Congress the information and the evidence that we need on which to base a sound judgment, then he himself almost leaves us no alternative except to consider impeachment," McGovern said.

Wheat production jump anticipated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration farm experts currently think wheat growers, responding to this year's record prices, will push 1974 production to about 1.9 billion bushels, up nearly 200 million bushels from this year's record crop.

Officials here, along with spokesmen for wheat growers, concede that forecasts this far in advance are risky. But Claude B. Freeman, deputy director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) grain division, said in an interview that the consensus in his agency is that growers will plant about 65 to 66 million acres for 1974 harvest. This compares with 58.8 million acres planted for this year's crop.

Freeman said experts estimate that if 66 million acres are planted, farmers would harvest about 58 million acres and produce about 1.9 billion bushels. This would be enough to fill all foreign and domestic orders currently foreseen by government analysts of the 1974-75 marketing season, with about 100 million bushels left over to begin rebuilding the nation's dangerously low wheat reserves. Market prices at this production level would be "strong," other officials say.

Grower spokesmen say some farmers, noting that Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has been talking about "all out" production next year, are asking why the administration didn't seek to assure a stock-rebuilding cooperation by guaranteeing full price protection on more land. Butz last week announced there would be no acreage retirement in the 1974 farm program, but in setting the amount of acreage eligible for full protection under a new "target price" support system he did not go all out.

The 1974 acreage allotment was set at 55 million acres. This is the level government experts think is needed to produce about 1.8 billion bushels, which would just equal their forecast of demand. A new farm law gives Butz the right to guarantee supports on additional acreage if he determines such action is needed to rebuild stocks, but the agriculture secretary chose not to use that added authority.

"It's a calculated risk," Freeman said of the decision to hold the allotment to 55 million acres. But he added that administration officials are sure world demand will remain strong, and high market prices will induce many farmers to plant beyond the acreage covered by full price guarantees.

Spokesmen for the National Association of Wheat Growers (NAWG) indicate they agree with the Agriculture Department's belief that high market prices will lead farmers to plant above the 55 million acre allotment. The NAWG said in a newsletter that farmers may plant "something in the neighborhood of 67 million acres" and could harvest 62-63 million acres next year.

Freeman said, however, some farmers may hesitate to go beyond their price-protected allotments. He said many farmers attending a recent series of wheat grower meetings indicated a fear that the government has been too optimistic in its forecasts of continued high wheat prices. Others, he said, appear reluctant to convert good pastureland to wheat at a time when cattle prices are the highest on record.

Part of all of this (reduction in stocks) could be offset by increases in supplies later in 1973-74 following harvests in the Southern Hemisphere," experts said in the world grain situation summary.

Overall, the report said world production of all grains for the current 1973-74 year is expected to top last season's poor harvest by more than 50 million tons.

In a related development, Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carroll Brunthaver said the United States will not turn to export controls on grain to bolster domestic food supplies unless an unexpected disaster strikes the 1973 crop.

World grain yield may meet demands

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department has projected that world grain production is on the upswing and may be "approximately sufficient" to meet world demand.

A new government report issued Tuesday indicated production of both wheat and feed grains is currently forecast slightly below needs. This could produce a further small decline in the world grain reserves, which were cut to low levels following poor 1972 harvest.

But the report noted that record grain crops are expected in both Russia and the United States despite some harvest problems in the Soviet Union. It added the potential decline in stocks during the 1973-74 year ending next June 30 was concentrated in northern hemisphere countries, especially the United States.

SWENSEN'S MARKETS HAVE THE ANSWER!! LIVER LIDS — Shrinking plastic Liver Cup Lids is one of the greatest discoveries since the wheel or the safety pin. A regular 6 inch liver lid can be shrunk to the amazing size of only 1 inch... or less, a reduction in size that should bring joy to the heart of any confirmed head shrinker. However, Liver Lid Shrinking is most popular with little kids. All you do is pop a lid in the oven at 400 degrees for one minute, more or less, and presto...its shrunk!

Before they are shrunk, liver lids can be painted with colored felt pens into all sorts of pictures and designs that are just cute as can be after they are shrunk. Shrunken liver lids can be made into charm bracelets, traded and collected. Shrinking liver lids is one of the greatest pastimes for kids — up to 66 — yet discovered and at 2 cents per lid its cheaper than pop-sicles. A 2 cent liver lid could also be used as the worlds least expensive frisbee.

WILD MELEE between American (in white) and Cuban (in black) basketball players broke out during a World University game in Russia. The fight broke out 90 seconds before game's end and lasted 25 minutes. The U. S. won 98-70. (UPI telephoto)

Not part of game

Fight punctuates U.S. cage victory over Cuba

MOSCOW (UPI) — A wild and bloody melee between United States and Cuban men's basketball players which was marked by flying chairs and broken glass shocked the security-conscious Russians Wednesday at the seventh World University Games.

The brawl, which resulted in the American trainer being knocked unconscious and two other players bloodied by broken glass, overshadowed five more gold medals by the Soviet Union and the second individual victory by U. S. swimmer Allen Poucher.

The Russians, of course, still maintain their stranglehold in the medals race with a total of 53 golds to just eight for the United States and three for Romania.

With just 90 seconds remaining in the U. S.-Cuba basketball game (won by the Americans, 98-70), an unidentified Cuban player kicked Mitchell Kupchuk of Brentwood, N.Y. Kupchuk went down in front of Cuban basket, but came up swinging, touching off a bench-clearing riot that sent wood chairs and broken glass hurtling around the court. U.S. trainer Duane Woltzen of Sheboygan, Wis., was knocked unconscious. With the Cubans slinging folding chairs at the American's heads, the shocked and outnumbered handful of Soviet police at court-side was almost helpless. The light security was a complete contrast to the no-nonsense attitude the host Russians have portrayed at these games — especially in light of the hundred or so crop-headed police and soldiers who have surrounded the court at every Israeli contest.

The U. S. swimmers, whose efforts have pulled the Yanks into a strong (but not challenging) second place with an overall total of eight gold medals, had to settle for a 3-3 split with the Russians in the six finals on the schedule. David Johnson of San Diego, Calif. was the other individual U.S. winner, taking the backstroke in 2:10.5.

The Russian swimmers, perhaps cheered by the sunny but chilly weather that prevailed today after Tuesday's heavy rains, wasted no time in taking it to the Americans. In the first race of the day, Lubov Rusanova upset world record holder and two-time Olympic gold medalist Cathy Carr in the 100-meter breaststroke.

Ali tests jaw, says Norton's in trouble

DEER PARK, Pa. (UPI) — A subdued Muhammad Ali stuck his famous jaw out Wednesday, was hit hard by two sparring partners, and then declared himself ready for his Sept. 10 rematch with Ken Norton in Los Angeles.

It was the 31-year-old former heavyweight champion's first public workout since Norton broke his jaw in their bout at San Diego, Calif., March 31 to inflict upon Ali only his second loss in a brilliant career.

Ali worked four rounds with New York heavyweight Billy Daniels and then went two with Tony Doyle of Salt Lake City, Utah, before he quit serious work for the day.

The clowning that has marked previous Ali workouts was missing as the "people's champion" went out to test his jaw.

He wore no headgear and he was flatfooted in the first round, but he hurt Daniels with some murderous left hooks. There was a mean look in his eyes.

Convinced that the jaw had healed, he spent the next three rounds slipping punches and moving smoothly as the Ali of old.

Ali relied mainly on defense in his workout with Doyle. The former champ, whose only other loss came against Joe Frazier, looked trim at 214 pounds and he said afterwards "this is the best shape I've been in since I beat Sonny Liston nine years ago."

Ali has been at his two-acre training camp in the Pocono Mountains for the last 10 weeks and there was not an ounce of fat on his well-muscled frame. He has chopped down 86 pine trees in his search for fitness and by his own admission "this is the hardest I've ever worked for a fight."

"This is the crossroads for me. I have experienced many crises during my career, but I sincerely believe I will defeat Norton. If Norton wins then he'll have beaten me twice and he can consider himself a great fighter."

As he talked, Ali checked old fight photographs of himself and then looked over his figure on a wall-sized mirror.

"Look at that, not an ounce of fat," he said, pointing to his stomach.

Looking back to the first fight with Norton, Ali conceded "It was probably the best thing that ever happened to me when I got that spanking. I was not fit for that fight and a few before that and this made me realize I would have to go out and work."

At the suggestion that his legs could not perhaps last the championship route, Ali said "I'm 214 pounds now and that means I'm dangerous. If people think my legs have gone they are entitled to their opinion."

"These bastards hit me three times," Woltzen said. "I'd put my arm up and someone would hit me in the back."

North Carolina State's David Thompson, who led the U.S. scorers with 34 points, seemed dazed after the fight. "I can't believe this, man. I just can't believe this."

The U.S. win clinched a spot in the semifinals, but head coach Ed Badger vowed to lodge a protest with the technical committee.

Poucher, the 18-year-old All-American from Jacksonville, Fla., was the bright spot for the American swimmers who ran into the same unyielding Soviet strength the U.S. track and field men felt during the first week here.

An impressive winner in the 100-meter butterfly on Tuesday, Poucher came back to cop the 200-meter event over West Germany's Floket Meeuw in a Games record time of 2:05.7. Leading throughout the first two laps, Poucher, as if sensing Meeuw's late challenge, turned it on over the final 50 meters to win by a half length.

Dallas heavily favored against Oilers

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys may no longer be the champions of professional football, but they are expected to remain champions of Texas Thursday night in their annual preseason meeting with the Houston Oilers.

The game, with the "Governor's Cup" going to the winner, will be played before a sellout crowd of 55,000 in the Astrodome.

Houston, heavily revamped following a 1-13 season in 1972, has yet to win a preseason game in three attempts while Dallas, improving each week to the point that Coach Tom Landry says the team is far better now than it was at this time last season, is 2-1

"Houston is playing under its potential at this point," said Landry, "and I mean no criticism by that. But they must have 25 or 30 new players on that team and to try to make them jell all at once is very tough."

"The Oilers played well against Chicago and Green Bay for the first half of the ball games, but then gave up some easy points in the second half."

Roger Staubach is scheduled to start at quarterback for Dallas and play for the first half and Craig Morton will probably get the call in the second half. Dan Pastorini, starting his third year with Houston, will guide the Oilers attack.

Magic Valley meet

approaches capacity

Defending champion Mike Mooney of Pocatello heads a strong delegation entered in the Magic Valley amateur golf tournament, reports host professional Clyde Thomsen. Thomsen said the event, slated for Sept. 1 through 3 at Twin Falls municipal course, is nearly filled. The tournament committee is shooting for a field of 200 and that number nearly has been reached. "We have a few more spots available but not many. We'd like to get a few more in the championship flight," Thomsen said, "but it's already a good one."

Tennis seeds set precedence

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stan Smith of the United States and Ilie Nastase of Romania were co-top seeded Wednesday in an unprecedented action by the tournament committee of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships. Tournament chairman Billy Talbot explained that the seeding committee "could not split out the two men" for the tourney which will be played at Forest Hills, Aug. 29-Sept. 9.

Packers trade for quarterback

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins traded third-string quarterback Jim Del Galzo to the Green Bay Packers Wednesday for second round draft choices in 1974 and 1975. Del Galzo, who signed with the Dolphins as a free agent from the University of Tampa, was starting his third year as Miami's No. 3 quarterback.

Mooney and his brother Jack along with Denny Howells, the Von Elm champion, and Rick Turnquist head a championship-flight contingent from the east. Doug Wood, Ogden, sixth here last year, and perhaps another couple Utahns are expected. J.P. Howard, reigning Idaho amateur champion has entered. And Thomsen reports four past champions, not including Mooney, are in. These include Don Knap of Elko, Glenn Blakeley of Burley, John Rosholt of Twin Falls, and Willie Peterson of Twin Falls.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, AUGUST 24, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES An excellent day and evening to put your attention upon the little affairs of daily living that improve matters at home. It is also a good time for showing courtesies and thoughtfulness to loved ones. Be more cheerful.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Buy appliances for the home that will make it more functional. A little entertainment at home brightens everyone's appearance. Take positive steps to make the future more successful.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Improve routines in the home so they are running more smoothly. Convene with associates and plan the future more wisely. Show loyalty to those who have been that way toward you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study property matters and see where any repairs need to be made. Anything you are not sure about should be discussed with trusted advisers. Express the finest talent you possess.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) By improving your health and appearance you can make progress where personal and business appointments are concerned. The social can be very pleasurable in the evening.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Plan your time well so that you can get those intimate matters handled well and quickly. See what a trusted adviser has to say regarding whether you are headed in the right direction.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) A good day to show your appreciation for steadfast friends who may need help at this time. A personal goal can be achieved by exerting more effort. Evening is fine for reading.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 23) Don't waste that Libran magnetism on small things when it could prove to be so useful on more important matters. Make certain you have the kind of career you are really suited for.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) You are interested in a new outlet but you must first study it well before jumping into it or there could be considerable losses. Seek advice from experts. Go out for amusement tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Find a new system that can make your life easier and more profitable. Keep promises made with associates. Try to please your mate more and come to a finer understanding.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) A little firmness on your part can go much to control a person within the family fold who is getting too emotional. Know what is expected of you and do your part willingly.

AQUARIUS (Jan 31 to Feb 19) Work is the keynote now. Forgetting frivolity during the daytime winds this work week up very nicely, and you get ahead faster. Take steps to become a more dynamic person.

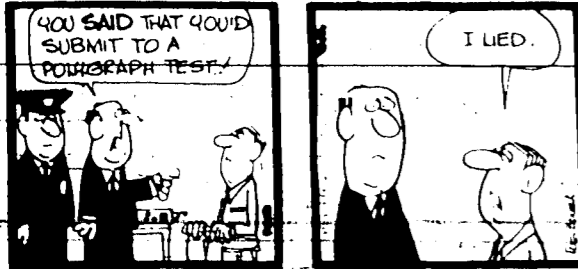

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) During spare time do something to make yourself look more charming so that others will respect you more. Plan some time to help good friends feel happier if they are depressed.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those most interesting young people who has much vitality and will work hard for whatever practical purpose to succeed in life. Teach early to be objective in dealing with others, particularly where the personal side of life is concerned, otherwise too much emotionalism could be a deterrent. Sports will be helpful.

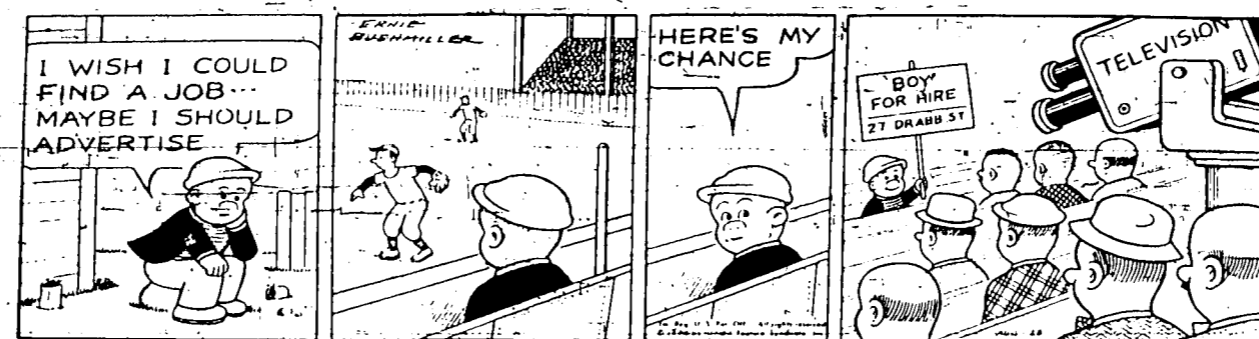

The stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

L. M. Boyd

So you like to walk around the house in your socks, do you? All right, but if your rugs are synthetic fiber, note this, please. Sock makers say nothing wears out their merchandise faster. Can believe it. It's commonly known that the craftsman who ruins more pairs of pants than any other professional fellow is the carpet layer.

Q "What motion picture has been seen by the most people?"

A "The Wizard of Oz" is a fair guess. It has been shown on TV about 10 times to audiences of at least 45 million at each showing.

Q "What's 'SASE' mean?"

A "Self-addressed stamped envelope." I don't like it as well as "SWAK," frankly.

WEDDING CEREMONY

Every bride and groom should keep a tape recording of their wedding ceremony. That's the contention of a matrimonial counselor. No, not just as a sentimental souvenir. Play the thing, suggests this authority, as frequently as necessary to end quarrels.

Did I say Lana Turner was married seven times? Wrong. Eight times. To Artis Shaw, twice to Steve Crane, to Bob Topping, Lex Barker, Fred May, Robert Eaton and Ronald Dante.

Young lady, if you want your cut flowers to last longer in the vase, set them in one part water and one part 7-Up, and toss in a half a teaspoonful of chlorine bleach. Michigan State University researchers say that works in a dandy manner.

LOVE AND WAR

Many is the girl who discloses she was expectant when she went to the matrimonial altar. But relatively rare is she who admits she was expectant before her engagement. A professor of family relationships at Pennsylvania University found that out. In another of those intimate surveys. Specifically, three out of 10 wives said they were pregnant prior to marriage. And three out of four said they could have been, if they hadn't been lucky. Our Love and War man continues to be amazed at the important queries the surveytakers put to blushing brides.

Q "What's the coldest town in the 48 states?"

A Munich, N.D. With an average winter temperature of 6 degrees F.

A certain amount of that infamous poison known as botulinus bacillus will kill a rat, if injected in said beast during the daylight. But the same amount injected at night will merely make the little rascal sick, usually Or so the laboratory boys report. Night is the rat's turned-on time is why you and I likewise are said to be most resistant at some specific times of day. Morning, afternoon, evening, it differs.
