

MV merchants said losing retail market struggle

By RICHARD G. HIGH
Times-News managing editor

GOODING — A federal study has concluded that merchants in Gooding, Lincoln, Jerome and Camas counties are losing in their struggle with larger regional retail markets.

Improved transportation systems have caused shoppers from the counties increasingly to bypass local merchants to shop at larger cities. Rapid depopulation in those outlying counties also has added difficulties in the small merchant's life and death struggle for the shopper's dollar.

Twin Falls and Jerome county as illustrative of the problems of small-town merchants.

During the 10 year period ending in 1967, per capita sales in Jerome County rose only 8.6 per cent in uninflated dollars. In contrast, Twin Falls County retail sales rose 24.5 per cent in

During the same period per capita retail sales in Lincoln County fell 16 per cent in uninflated dollars. Camas County merchants fared even worse, losing 30.5 per cent in per capita uninflated dollar sales.

The study says Camas County's commercial losses are "quite amazing, considering that Gooding, the nearest town, is 34 miles from the population center of Camas County, and regional shopping centers in Twin Falls and Mountain Home are 70 miles away."

"Since the per capita personal income in Camas County is greater than the state average, strong confirmation is found for the growing preference of rural families to bypass local stores in favor of regional shopping centers."

Bollinger formulates "Bollinger's Law" in partial explanation of the difficulties of small town merchants. The law says: "The isolation of small towns increases more than proportionately with the speed of transportation."

"The faster the train runs, the more it costs to stop at a small town. The jet airplane, especially, has been no friend of the small town. Its effect has been to accelerate, rather than arrest, the concentration of population."

Since the inauguration of the Ralpac system in 1971, Bollinger notes no passenger train operates anywhere in southern Idaho. But most important have been the automobile and the superhighway.

"The automobile has lessened the dependence of farmers and villagers upon services provided by small towns and often brought their demise."

"The dual achievement of better cars and better highways has greatly facilitated the growth of regional shopping centers to the detriment of retail trade in smaller towns."

The disadvantage was more pronounced among the more sparsely settled and distant counties, such as Camas and Lincoln.

Auto makers ask price increase for safety aids

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The auto industry urged the Cost of Living Council today to approve a "no-profit" price increase ranging up to $106 per car on 1974 models to pay for safety devices required by the government.

The requested increases range from $55 a car for American Motors to $106 for Ford. General Motors proposed a $102 increase and Chrysler a $71 increase.

Industry representatives said the price hikes were needed to pay for stronger shock absorbers, air bags and improved antipollution equipment. The 1974 model cars must also be equipped with an interlock system requiring drivers to buckle seat belts before a car can be started.

Ford Comptroller Kenneth C. Merrill told the council at a one-day hearing that Ford wants to recover "only the cost of safety devices" on 1974 models.

A General Motors vice president, Henry W. Welch, another early witness at the hearing, said GM's request "includes no profit for GM — these cost increases represent equipment changes required to meet government mandated safety standards."

Peter J. Petkas, an attorney representing the Ralph Nader-backed Corporate Accountability Research Group, attacked industry arguments. He said the cost of the safety devices was far below increases proposed by automakers.

"Any price increase at this time is unwarranted," Petkas said.

James W. McLane, deputy director of the Council which administers the administration economic control program, said auto industry price increases have substantial impact on the economy.

"The council also is concerned not only with the immediate numerical effects of the automobile price increases but also with the impact of such increase on the country's inflationary psychology," he said.

Paper pinch drops news

(c) New York Times Service
NEW YORK — The increasing shortage of newsprint is forcing some newspapers to limit advertising, reduce the amount of space for news, eliminate features, and even drop some editions.

A Canadian railroad strike that began last week has quickly accentuated the seriousness of a newsprint shortage that had already been aggravated by continuing strikes at some of Canada's major paper-making mills.

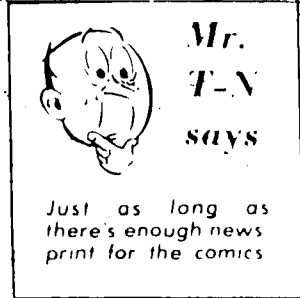

Initially, many of the smaller newspapers in the United States without long-term contracts with paper manufacturers were the hardest hit by the shortage. But some of the largest dailies are now feeling the pinch. They are taking steps to conserve available supplies and to avoid waste.

In New York, The Wall Street Journal said Monday that it would continue to publish essential news, including complete market reports, but that certain features "must of necessity be curtailed or suspended."

The Journal said that a strict limit was being placed on the amount of advertising accepted and that papers available for newsstand sales had been reduced.

The Minneapolis Star and Tribune, Company announced that it had restricted some kinds of advertising.

Gem reapportionment ordered

BOISE (UPI) — A three judge federal court panel has ordered the Idaho legislature to make changes in Idaho apportionment plan within 30 days after the lawmakers convene next January.

That decision was handed down today by the federal district court here in a suit which has been in the courts for more than two years and at one point was before the U.S. Supreme Court.

The latest decision says if the legislature does not act in the first month to make some "minor changes" in the state's reapportionment plan passed by that body in 1971 "the court will, on its own motion, proceed to exercise the obligation to fashion a judicial remedy."

Spud, onion prices plummet

PARMA (UPI) — Potato and onion prices are plummeting — some below cost of production levels, a spokesman for the Food Producers of Idaho, Inc., said today.

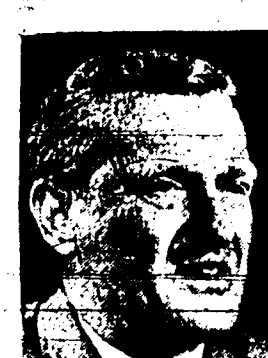

Onion prices at shipping point have dropped from last spring's record highs to below cost of production last week, the spokesman said.

"Prospects for the coming months are not too bright as a large crop is anticipated in virtually all areas where storage-type onions are produced," the farm organization said.

Fall potato acreage for the United States is up six per cent. Idaho acreage is up eight per cent from last year.

Potato fields east and north of Burley, however, are behind schedule and total tonnage could be lighter. An early frost in eastern Idaho could send potato prices skyrocketing again, the report said.

Ex-Alabama aide paroled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Alabama Attorney General Richmond M. Flowers, who was convicted in 1969 of extortion and conspiracy, will gain his freedom from federal prison Oct. 15.

Flowers, 56, was sentenced in 1971 to eight years in prison on four counts of conspiracy.

Rock Creek pollution halt predicted

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Officials said Monday two major Twin Falls processing plants will stop discharging pollutants into Rock Creek.

The statements came in response to an announcement by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) that it has proposed waste discharge permits for Independent Meat Co. and Idaho Frozen Foods. The proposed EPA permits call for the elimination of waste disposal into Rock Creek in 1975.

Otto Florence, manager of Independent Meat

Co. said his company is installing a new discharge treatment system which will eliminate most of the organic content from the present independent discharge. The remaining discharge will then be funneled into the city sewage system, he said.

Florence said the prime contract for the construction of the treatment facility has been awarded to Detweiler Bros., Inc., Twin Falls, and the work should be completed this fall. He said Independent Meat hopes also to hook up with the city sewer this fall, completely ending organic discharge into Rock Creek two years ahead of the federal schedule.

L. W. Routh, president of Idaho Frozen Foods, announced in June that his firm plans to pay its share of the cost of constructing a secondary sewage treatment plant for the City of Twin Falls and then channel all its discharge into the city system.

Routh said Monday he thinks the city treatment plant and Idaho Frozen Foods hook up will be completed within the limits of the 1975 federal guidelines. Once with the city, Routh said, Idaho Frozen Foods will have no discharge into Rock Creek.

Twin Falls City Manager Jean Miller said Monday he thinks the city will have completed construction of its secondary treatment facility within the time limits imposed on Idaho Frozen Foods' hook up in the proposed EPA permit.

Miller said design work on the facility is "well along," and that the city will likely call for bids on the treatment plant around the first of the year.

Construction should then take 12 to 14 months, Miller said — well within the deadlines suggested for Idaho Frozen Foods.

Miller said the city is currently operating on an EPA design grant of about $350,000 and that once design for the secondary plant is approved a construction grant will follow.

Drawing illustrates Swedish bank vault scene

Stockholm police plan rescue try

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — A bandit who has held four hostages in a downtown bank at the point of a machine gun for nearly a week shot a policeman through the hand today as police drilled holes through the bank vault's ceiling.

A police spokesman said the bandit fired a burst of bullets from his weapon at the drillers. One of the bullets hit the hand of a policeman, who was hospitalized.

The incident occurred as hundreds of police worked on a secret plan to capture the gunman and a convict friend with him in the locked vault and rescue the hostages.

Police Superintendent Aake Aakesson said the gunman had carried out "extremely brutal" acts against the three female hostages but that he could not confirm rumors the gunman, Jan-Erik Olsson, 32, had repeatedly raped one of the hostages, a 31-year-old mother of two.

One police officer, who refused to be identified by name, said Olsson and his accomplice Clark Olofsson, 26, a convicted murderer, "have turned the vault into a torture chamber. They are extremely brutal. What's happening down there makes me want to throw up."

Stockholm Police Chief Kurt Lindroth, in an emotional outburst, described the gunman as a "beast." Today another police officer said "What is happening in the vault makes that description sound true."

Asked point blank whether the reports of the rapings were true, Aakesson told newsmen, "No, not that I know of."

Police blanked out all news briefings today and continued to work in secrecy inside the bank on a new plan to end the drama, police sources said. Huge piles of various equipment, ranging from cutting torches to stretchers and oxygen tubes, were moved into the bank building this morning.

The police spokesman in the square outside would not elaborate, apparently because Olsson has a transistor radio for monitoring newscasts.

However Aakesson told newsmen that police had begun drilling new holes into the 10 by 40 foot vault to make "better observations possible."

Police drilled three holes early Monday into the roof of the two-foot-thick vault and had planned to inject knockout gas into the chamber. But the drilling stopped when Olsson warned he had tied a noose around the hostages' necks in such a way that they would strangle when the gas knocked them out.

Olsson has repeatedly threatened to kill the hostages since the drama began last Thursday, when his plans to rob the bank went sour. He has since demanded safe passage but Premier Olof Palme Monday night joined police officials in refusing to meet the demand.

Aakesson said police today had talked to Olsson and his convict companion, Clark Olofsson, 26, brought to the bank Thursday on Olsson's demand, about sending down more food, water and sanitary facilities. He said the hostages — one man and three young women — bank clerks, all in their 20s — were asleep in the 40-by-10-foot vault.

But Aakesson refused to say what the new police plans were to capture the convicts and free the clerks.

Andrews said Independent Meat hopes to have the new system operational by Oct. 1. He said the interceptor line to the city system should be complete within two years.

"Independent Meat is spending a considerable amount of money to clean up their portion of Rock Creek," Andrews said, although neither he nor Florence would give a figure. Andrews said he anticipated no problem with federal or state pollution control permits for Independent Meat once the new system is installed.

In announcing the proposed permits, the EPA set a deadline of Sept. 23 for comment.

TF zoning leader Rosholt resigns

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls City Planning and Zoning Commission were requested last night to compile a list of potential appointees to the commission following the resignation of chairman John Rosholt.

Rosholt announced his resignation in a letter to Twin Falls Mayor John Christoffersen Aug. 15, but the move was not made public until last night.

Rosholt, an attorney, said in the letter his resignation followed a recent ethics ruling by the Idaho State Bar Commission stating that it was proper for an attorney to serve on a zoning commission only if the attorney made a full disclosure of all his clients, whether or not they had business before the zoning commission.

Rosholt is a member of the Twin Falls law firm of Parry, Robertson, Daly and Larson.

"My partners and I feel it would be inappropriate for us to supply the zoning commission a complete and frequently updated list of the total clientele of the office, even if we went through the tremendous organization problem of obtaining the client's permission first," Rosholt said in his letter of resignation.

"In the past, prior to the ethics opinion," Rosholt said, "I have disclosed the attorney-client relationship when the client had business before the zoning commission and have abstained on every vote regarding the client's business."

"However, because of the new opinion, I feel that I am compelled to resign so that no taint of conflict of interest would follow me in the law practice. The code of professional responsibility for lawyers requires that we avoid even the appearance of impropriety."

Rosholt has served on the city planning and zoning commission for the past five years. He has been chairman since the fall of 1970.

"I am sorry to see that an attorney can no longer sit on this board," said zoning commission vice chairman

Tom Shafer after reading Rosholt's letter aloud. He said he thought the advice of a lawyer on the commission had been "invaluable."

Shafer asked that zoning commission members express their gratitude to Rosholt for his service. He then requested that they submit names of possible appointees to replace Rosholt on the commission.

In other action the zoning commission:

- Set Sept. 25 as the date for the next public commission hearing and established the last Tuesday of each month as the commission's regular meeting date.
- Recommended approval of the final plat of the Ken Lee subdivision to the northeast of the City.
- Recommended a variance to allow reduced off-street parking spaces at Title Fact, Inc., 45th Avenue North and 2nd Street North.
- Recommended approval of a variance to allow Tom Koto to build a carport on his residential property on Wiseman Avenue just west of Ostrander Street.

- Recommended a variance to allow John E. Davis to build a breezeway between the family room and the main building at his residence at 2155 Hillcrest Drive.
- Tabled an amendment on off-street parking for professional offices which would require a minimum of one parking space for each professional and each employee and additional parking spaces for customers based on the formula of one parking space for every 300 square feet of office floor space to a maximum of six parking spaces.
- Recommended a side yard setback variance to allow Robert Ellis to construct a garage on his property east of the city.
- Recommended side yard and front yard setback variances to allow Lyle Cunningham to make additions on his property on Moreland Avenue.
- Recommended approval for a curvilinear design for a Ross Ward trailer park.
- Recommended that the developers of East Haven Estates contact neighboring property owners to obtain a right-of-way easement on property adjacent to Eastland Drive south of the sugar factory.

TF processing plants to clean up Rock Creek

Under the EPA permits currently proposed, Independent Meat Co. would be allowed to continue its present level of discharge into Rock Creek until June 30, 1975. No discharge would be allowed after that except for clean water flowing through a condenser cooling system.

For Idaho Frozen Foods the EPA permit would require partial limitation of Rock Creek discharge by Oct. 1, 1974, with complete elimination by March 1, 1975.

Florence said his firm applied for the federal permit over two years ago and since then has activated plans to update its treatment system. He suggested that red tape has kept the EPA out of step with his company's treatment progress to the extent that "their information is quite old."

Routh said Idaho Frozen Foods had just received notification of the EPA's proposed permit and had not had time to study it. "We'd have to look at it before we'd have any comment on it," he said.

Routh said his company had no objection to the proposed permit "that we're aware of at this time." He said the company's time schedule for eliminating Rock Creek discharge is "the same time schedule we've working toward for the last year-and-a-half or two years."

Garrett Andrews, engineer with Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield of Boise which designed Independent Meat's

new treatment facility, said Monday the new system will add one anaerobic lagoon and one mechanically aerated aerobic lagoon to the single existing anaerobic lagoon now used by the meat packing firm.

These two (additional) lagoons should reduce the organic load coming from the plant by 95 per cent," Andrews said. He said the remaining five per cent of the organic material would continue to be discharged into

Oil, gas comments sought

IDAHO FALLS — Rep. Orval Hansen said Monday the U.S. Office of Oil and Gas is now soliciting public comments regarding the mandatory fuel allocation program which was published in the Federal Register Aug. 13, 1973.

Interested persons may obtain a copy of the proposal and submit written data, views and arguments to Mandatory Petroleum Allocation Program, Charles J. Cullen, Office of Oil and Gas, P. O. Box 19407, Wash., D.C. 20504.

Comments should be received prior to Sept. 10, 1973.

Suspension okayed on clean air rule

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has decided that, in the immediate future, warmth is more important than clean air.

It has proposed a one-year suspension of industrial conversion to cleaner burning fuels in order to conserve scarce heating oil.

A proposed government rule to this effect was announced Monday by the administration's energy chief John A. Love. Public hearings will be held on it Sept. 6 and 7, and then a decision will be made whether to implement it.

It was the government's first concrete step toward mandatory controls on scarce fuels.

The proposed rule would halt for one year conversion of power plants and other big industrial users from coal to oil or from high sulfur oil to low sulfur oil including heating oil. But it could be waived in any specific case to avoid a danger to public health or allow firms to comply with primary air quality standards.

Factories and power plants have been burning more heating oil in recent years to reduce air pollution, and this has contributed to shortages of oil to heat homes.

Lawrence Moss, president of the Sierra Club, an environmental group which has been fighting for more progress on cleaning up the air and preserving clean air where it now exists, said: "We're willing to be flexible on such short-term postponements."

But, for the long run, the Sierra Club warned the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), in air quality hearings held Monday, that its present policies would allow air that is now clean in some parts of America to be degraded to the level of minimum federal standards.

Vandals damage fair mini-train

FILER — Vandals Sunday put the Twin Falls County Fair mini-train temporarily out of commission by cutting all its wiring.

The vandals, described as about half a dozen youngsters, also ripped down most of the stall cards in the beef sheds.

Mrs. Tom Shouse, wife of fair secretary-manager Tom Shouse, said the damage was noticed by her husband Sunday evening as he was locking up the beef shed where the mini-train was stored.

The mini-train, christened "Tom's Folly", was built by her husband, Mrs. Shouse said, to transport elderly and handicapped persons around the fair and to carry fairgoers from the parking lot to the main fair area. The train contained a tractor and three cars.

Mrs. Shouse said she did not know if the vehicle could be prepared by fair time next week. "It's going to take a rewiring," she said.

She said she knew of no reason for the vandalism other than "just malicious mischief." She said her husband and another fairgrounds employee observed a group of youngsters running from the beef sheds Sunday afternoon but did not suspect at the time that any vandalism had occurred.

Mrs. Shouse said all the wiring, including spark plug and distributor cap wires, had been cut by the vandals.

Twin Falls Sheriff Paul Corder said his office is investigating the incident, but no arrests have yet been made.

Other than the vandalism, Mrs. Shouse said, fair preparations are going fairly smoothly except that workmen are "racing the clock" on hooking up a new water line system to the pre-existing one. Concessionaires have been slightly inconvenienced by the shut down of some water sources, she said, adding that other water sources were available.

TWIN FALLS — A Nevada man was arrested by Twin Falls police early this morning on charges of driving under the influence, resisting arrest and possession of a controlled substance.

Michael S. Harper, 27, Elko, Nev., was arrested about 1:30 a.m. on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol. Further investigation revealed that Harper was in possession of marijuana, according to police reports.

Warrants okayed

BOISE (UPI) — The State Land Board has authorized the land department to draw up to $200,000 in deficiency warrants against the general fund to pay forest fire fighting costs, it was reported Monday.

Land Commissioner Gordon Trombley said the board authorized the warrants at an unannounced special meeting last Friday morning. Board members were alerted Thursday afternoon about the meeting but newsmen were not told of it in advance.

Callifornian arrested

TWIN FALLS — A young California man was arrested Monday and charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver after an automobile accident.

James E. Franklin, 25, Porterville, Calif., was arrested by Twin Falls sheriff's deputies after he allegedly failed to stop at a stop sign at the intersection of U.S. 93 and U.S. 30 west of Twin Falls and struck a parked car about 6:45 a.m. Monday.

Franklin was also charged with driving under the influence. Twin Falls Sheriff Paul Corder said drugs allegedly found in Franklin's possession included marijuana and amphetamines.

Fire rages through Park City ski resort in Utah

PARK CITY, Utah (UPI) — Fire raged through this old mining-ghost town turned ski resort Monday night, destroying or damaging at least seven businesses.

Fire officials said the blaze spread out of control because they had trouble finding a fire hydrant that worked.

"We hooked to the hydrant on Park Avenue behind the burning buildings," said Chief Tom Sullivan, "and all it did was leak."

"Somebody probably hit it with a car and didn't report it," he said.

Two other hydrants also failed.

The flames erupted about 9:30 p.m. in an old shed behind the Poison Creek Drug Store on Main St. and was almost extinguished by the Park City Volunteer Fire Department when their pumper truck ran out of water.

The blaze quickly spread through the 75-100 year-old frame and brick buildings along the 400 block of the street which had been converted into shops catering to tourists and skiers.

Additional fire trucks were called from Salt Lake County, Heber City, Kamas and Coalville—all 20 to 30 miles away.

Scores of city residents turned out to help battle the blaze while some held fire hoses, others brought hot coffee from their homes.

As the blaze was brought under control, people began to drift off, but some, soaking wet from the spray of fire hoses and shivering under blankets, remained to watch the mop-up operations.

"All the long-hairs were helping the straights, it was great,"

one man said.

A total of five buildings were involved in the blaze. Businesses destroyed or damaged by the fire were First Security Bank, Poison Creek Drug Store, Just Rings, Mountain Toggery, Gardner Realty, Park Record and My Favorite Thing.

As the fire began to engulf the buildings, onlooker managed to bring some items from My Favorite Thing out into the street, but water rained the rescued items.

Chief Sullivan said the bank and Gardner Realty were housed in brick buildings and although they received extensive damage, were still standing.

Even politics was involved at the blaze.

City Manager Keith Bailey said the city council had been discussing a bond issue to buy more fire equipment for the city.

Drilling slated to find bomb explosion result

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (UPI) — Project Rio Blanco sponsors said Monday that workmen will begin drilling next month to find out the volume of natural gas freed by an underground nuclear explosion.

"Advance studies indicated that the well could produce as much as 17 1/2 billion cubic feet of gas over a 25-year period if the nuclear device performed as predicted," said Hal Aronson.

Aronson is a vice president of CERGeonuclear Corp., which detonated the nuclear device beneath the ground outside of Meeker, Colo., last May with the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC).

The test was called Project Rio Blanco and was designed to fracture rock buried more than a mile beneath the ground that held natural gas supplies.

Aronson said workmen would drill into an underground chamber of fractured rock called a "chimney" to tap the gas. He said about 30 million cubic feet of gas would then be flared, or burned, above ground.

"Additional flaring up to a total of 800 million cubic feet of gas may be needed to achieve a desired pressure drop in the (well) chimney," Aronson said.

"Then the well will be shut down to allow pressure to build for six to 12 months," he said.

"This will provide information on the volume of the chimney void and the extent to which the tight, gas-bearing formations have been stimulated, or fractured, by the nuclear detonation."

The nuclear explosives detonated were more powerful than the Hiroshima atom bomb, and rocked the surrounding area for miles. About $14,000 in damage was done to buildings within the blast zone.

Project Rio Blanco was the third in the AEC's Project Plowshare aimed at finding peaceful uses of the atom.

The earlier tests were Project Gasbuggy in New Mexico in 1967 and Project Rulison in western Colorado in 1969.

Environmentalists lost a court fight to halt Project Rio Blanco. They had claimed radiation released by the blast might poison underground springs that flowed into the Colorado River, used as a source of drinking water in the southwest.

Railroad short of cars

BOISE (UPI) — A Union Pacific official says the railroad is receiving orders for 100 more grain cars a day than it can furnish.

C. R. Rockwell, director of public relations for UP, said a nationwide shortage of grain cars is especially prevalent in the Midwest.

"The reason for it is this year there is more grain to move than we have cars for. In Idaho, especially, the number of acres planted and the yield are higher than in the past," Rockwell said.

He said because of higher grain prices and the exports of grain to Russia some of the grain that might be stored is going to market.

Another problem, Rockwell said, is the late harvest season in the Midwest this year.

"Where we might have extra cars released from the Midwest in a normal harvest year, we're in a tight situation because the Midwest can't spare any cars," he said.

Robert Henry, administrator of the Idaho Transportation Council in Boise, said the car shortage is adversely affecting grain growers.

"The most pronounced effect is that the grain is not moving to market, and there isn't enough storage space. Much of the grain has been pulled into the open. This exposes the grain to loss of quality. Rain might destroy it completely, or it might be contaminated by bird droppings," said Henry.

He termed the situation "very bad," saying the most critical exposure of wheat to the elements has occurred in Magic Valley and western Idaho.

"Everything possible is being done to have the best utilization of available cars. It's too late to order new cars because it takes several months to get them. There is really no way to prepare for the extreme demand present this year," said Rockwell.

Same pay schedule

BOISE (UPI) — It appears the state of Idaho will keep its employees on the present 20-grade pay schedule.

Director of administrative services, D. E. (Skip) Chilberg said Monday he had a meeting with members of the state personnel department and both agreed to put together alternative plans within the 20-step plan to increase state employees' salaries.

The personnel department proposed to the Joint Finance and Appropriations Committee Saturday a new 40-grade plan with other recommendations to increase state employees' pay. At that meeting Chilberg said he was opposed to changing the present 20-step schedule and warned legislators if they made the change they would go back to the 20-step plan within a year or so.

The new alternatives will be submitted to an ad hoc committee studying state employees' wages.

TF woman heads state society

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls woman has been named to head the first statewide organization of Humane Societies, and a state meeting is scheduled in Twin Falls in September.

Mrs. Gordon (Bobbi) Glasmann was elected president of the newly organized Federation of Humane Societies of Idaho during the meeting of delegates from nine area societies in Boise last weekend.

Mrs. Glasmann also heads the Twin Falls Humane Society and was instrumental in organizing it.

"We feel a state wide organization will help us present a more united effort on legislative matters and keep the organization going in the same direction throughout the state," Mrs. Glasmann said.

She said the Idaho Federation will work with the individual Humane Society groups to assist in providing leadership, coordination of effort and setting policy.

"However, the individual Humane Societies will continue to function on their own and continue their local area services," Mrs. Glasmann said.

Helen Wilson, Nampa, will serve as vice president of the new group and other officers include Doris Hawley, Mountain Home, secretary, and Teresa Harmon, Boise, publicity Chairman.

The first annual meeting of the new organization will be Sept. 29 in Twin Falls. Plans will be made by the board of directors of the Twin Falls Humane Society early in September.

Other Humane Society chapters around Idaho include those in Canyon County, Ada County, Cassia County, Elmore County, Blaine County, Jerome County and Nez Perce and Coeur d'Alene.

Mrs. Glasmann said the state organization has already established some goals. The group will work toward legislation on hit and run accidents, asking that in the event an animal is injured or killed the driver be required to remain at the scene to make an effort to contact the owners of the animal or to report it to proper authorities.

A unified effort to cope with the problems of the animal population explosion will also be considered by the state organization.

Mrs. Glasmann also announced plans to begin an educational program, probably during the current school year, to work through the grade schools and possibly secondary schools to instruct youngsters in proper care of animals.

The society will encourage pet owners to take more pride in their pets and to understand the responsibility of owning pets.

Frantz Dahlzler, Salt Lake City regional director of the Humane Society of the United States, attended the Boise meeting discussing organizational matters with the group.

Quakes reported in Yellowstone

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo. (UPI) — In recent weeks, earth tremors and minor earthquakes have caused shocks in the Canyon, Lake, and Norris areas of Yellowstone National Park, park officials reported Monday.

"In Yellowstone, the unusual is common, and this includes earthquakes," said Superintendent Jack Anderson.

Girl dies

FIRTH, (UPI) — Susan M. Holm, 8, Firth, became Idaho's 222nd highway fatality this year following a car-pedestrian accident this weekend near here.

Idaho State police said the girl was struck by a car driven by Vernon A. Jolly, 18, Shelley, while walking along Goshen Road one mile east of U.S. 91.

CSI fall term begins in TF

TWIN FALLS — Students returning from summer vacations and jobs began fall classes at the College of Southern-Idaho Monday.

Enrollment in vocational programs is up over a year ago, according to Gerald Meyerhoeffer, CSI director of admissions. Meyerhoeffer also said he hopes enrollment in academic courses will not decline as it has in the recent past.

classes for Idaho migrants. If the MDTA funds come through, this program will start within the month, he said.

Bradley said CSI is expanding a program to help bring vocational education to local high school students. This year high schools will send 150 students to the college.

San Clemente: You Can't See Forever

(c) Chicago Daily News SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. — From the Presidential compound on a clear day, you can't see forever, alas. You can't actually see much of anything beyond the eucalyptus, pine and sycamore, except for low-slung building complex which was erected on a promontory to accommodate an itinerant executive.

But it's easy to indulge illusions here. Under a benign sky, looking toward the sea, anything seems possible: the world is tolerable, the Congress malleable, Watergate manageable now. The stardom of the real world yields to the rhythmic, soothing whoosh of the surf. A man at bay could believe himself out of reach of the harsh, glaring realities. Especially a man like President Nixon, who can race from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue to Camp David, Md., to Key Biscayne, Fla., and to this brilliantly protected haven, without more than a perfunctory brush against ordinary people.

It hardly seems a setting for grim encounters, but one took place here the other day when some 70 newsmen sought to cross-examine the President about Watergate. The reporters were losers before they started. The locale was deceptively comfortable and serene as the reporters took their seats under the big sky, like petitioners summoned to a potentate's court, as the big color cameras scanned the scene like a classroom monitor, their chiding presence adding a tension to an already tense engagement.

But, as with televised news conferences in the White House East Room or the State Department's elegant auditorium, the situation was hand-tooled for the President's purposes. He could pick and choose among the reporters, turn away from the crucial follow-up questions, play to an audience out in the Republic, finessing the embarrassing inquiry. Every man and woman seeking the President's attention minded his or her manners, knowing Mr. Nixon's skill at portraying himself as the victim of hostile forces in the media.

In the nature of these pseudo-events, there is a disconnectedness, a randomness, as reporters struggle to get in an ear. Because of a touch of anarchy, the President is in almost total command. He can filibuster, evade, resort to unresponsive replies, and engage in polemical excesses if he chooses.

These disadvantages notwithstanding, the reporters did their professional best to ask the President probing, relevant questions. The newsmen were, by and large, tough and uncompromising. Trying desperately not to be rude or impertinent, most succeeded, but all were frustrated by the lack of opportunity to bear in on the President when he failed to answer directly and left holes so obvious a schoolboy could have spotted them.

Sen. Sam Ervin, chairman of the Watergate committee, has said that you can't cross-examine a written statement. The same is true in a Presidential news conference, especially the first in more than five months, with an accumulation of questions that could sustain a single reporter for several hours. A lawyer might require several days to exhaust this interrogation of the President; given the contradictions of other witnesses and the inconsistencies of the President's own accounts.

The President's assertions cried out for a vigorous cross-examination. Examples abound. He dismissed his brief "secret" meeting with the Ellsberg trial judge Matthew Byrne as having taken place in "full view of the whole White House staff, and everybody else who wanted to see. I asked him how he liked his job."

The San Clemente compound is heavily guarded, and the implication that it's open to the public generally was left lying there. And Mr. Nixon could not be pressed on his statement that Judge Byrne made the decision to talk to John Ehrlichman, who was sounding but Byrne on whether he'd like to be FBI director, the impropriety of it all lost in the wind.

and there was no chance to ask for documentation. Even after two attorneys general of the period challenged the statement, White House spokesmen repulsed efforts to get proof by saying, "The President said it because it's a fact." Beyond that he refused to go. There were answers about John Dean and John Mitchell that shrieked for more orderly inquiry.

Mr. Nixon's "Watergate news conference" was a sad and depressing affair to many veteran reporters, who could not recall a comparable case of newsmen asking a President about burglary, bribery, violations of oaths of office, perjury, impeachment and other utterly amazing breaches of conduct within his official family. Mr. Nixon advanced his case a bit perhaps but not persuasively so to most of his interrogators. And the reporters, who served as spear carriers in the main, drew what satisfaction there was from the fact that the public had a chance to see the demeanor of the witness in a grimly stressful situation.

Open Meetings

Of recent date, some comment has come from Pocatello and Lewiston to name a couple of communities having to do with alleged "secret" or "off the record" meetings of city council members.

These floating accusations in two such widely separated sections of our state is cause enough to praise members of the Twin Falls City Council for the above-the-table manner in which sessions of this sort are conducted locally.

In Twin Falls anyone is welcome to attend any regular session or any work session, of the City Council. The regular council meeting is held the first and third Mondays at the City Hall. A "work session" for council members is held every Monday noon. At these sessions, over a lunch, councilmen discuss city business but no official action is taken. Official action comes only at the Monday night meetings. At the Monday noon meetings, for instance, officials have discussed city matters with state and local highway district board members, representatives of the courts, state officials, auditors and the like.

These meetings, as we said, are open to the public. A call to city hall, and a request to speak to someone in the office of the city manager, will be sufficient to find the location of that session on that particular day. If you have lunch you must pick up your own tab — but if you do not want to eat you are still welcome.

Like City Manager Jean Milar said recently: "We have never had a closed or hidden council meeting where city affairs are discussed."

With city meetings open to the public and the press citizens have no need to fear something is being done without their knowledge.

Weather Control

Whether weather patterns may be making a significant change is one of the questions brought forth by the erratic and damaging weather of the last several years. Ranging the gamut from droughts to floods, heavier-than-usual snows, and contra-customary heat waves, these phenomena have become the subject of intense study by meteorologists.

Although it may appear to the layman that weather forecasting and control is one of the constants which seldom changes for the better, the fact is meteorology is advancing. Tornados, which have been responsible for almost twice as many deaths as hurricanes in the last half century, are now predictable with great accuracy.

As weather science moves closer to the day it will be in position to determine or at least affect major weather patterns, a new diplomatic specialty may be required. What is one country's lush rainfall could be another's drought.

The Power Center Is Now Dispersing

(c) N. Y. Times Service

WASHINGTON — With the appointment of Henry Kissinger as Secretary of State, there is now virtually a whole new cabinet and top White House staff moving into place here, and what is probably more important, they are bringing new attitudes to their work.

The transition from the old to the new is far from complete. It takes time to master the complexities of the great departments of government and sort out new personalities and routines in the White House, but something interesting, and maybe even important, is happening here in the aftermath of Watergate.

It is all on the surface so far. The essential policies of the administration are the same. The defensive and even deceptive arguments are the same. In short, the administration is backing into the future, and clouding its movements as it goes, but it is moving.

The right and secretive little power center in the White House is gradually dispersing into the departments and agencies. Gen. Alexander Haig, H. R. Haldeman's replacement, Mel Laird, John Ehrlichman's successor as the President's assistant for national affairs, and Kissinger, the President's principal adviser on security affairs, are now coming out from behind the White House screen.

After the President's first televised news conference in over a year, Haig was available to talk to the press about the background of the President's problems. Kissinger followed with a news conference promising to open things up and be available to questioning by the Congress, the press, and the critical ideas and suggestions of the public.

In these melancholy days of contention and confrontation, even if the fundamental questions of the past have not been resolved, these tentative symbols of change, and maybe even of reconciliation, may be even more important than the President's arguments that he was right all along, and if he wasn't, it was somebody else's fault, and anyway, was no worse than what other Presidents did in the past.

Everybody in Washington now, including the President, says we must "learn the lessons of Watergate," and some people have. Most of the new key cabinet members are showing a new independence, and this is an important lesson. Vice President Agnew is in deep trouble. He is fighting his political life, and he is fighting on his own. He is not asking the President whether he can have a news conference to argue his case. He is "informing" the White House what he intends to do, and doing it in his own way.

These emerging changes of attitudes, assumptions and power centers in Washington may be more important than anything else. After all, it was probably this administration's mistrust of fear of dissent that led to the centralization of power, the secrecy, the conspiracies and the Watergate tragedies, but at least there is now a change of tactics, if not a change of heart.

The next Nixon team in Washington is now urging the President that he has more to gain by talking out than by hiding out in Camp David or Key Biscayne or San Clemente, that he gains more by facing the reporters than by evading them, and that he will be better served by trusting and liberating his cabinet and his White House staff than by controlling and intimidating them.

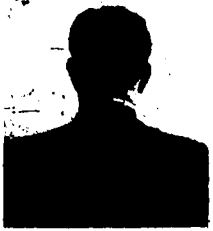

He has either seen this point on his own or had it imposed on him by his advisers and by his troubles, but in any event, he is no longer in a position to impose his will on a frightened and obedient staff.

His aides, consciously or unconsciously, now seem to be acting on the assumption that they can serve him best by insisting on his powers of their offices, by asserting their independence to tell him the truth, and by offering to leave and tell why if he doesn't like it.

Maybe nothing has changed in policy or the President's arguments about the war or Watergate, but everything has changed in the minds of most of his new aides. They are asking for more freedom. At least some of them are insisting on doing what they think is right, and he seems to have got the point.

This is an important change. The President needs his cabinet and his staff now more than they need him, and though gradually and grudgingly, he seems to be accommodating himself, as he did to China and Russia, to a new approach to the realities.

You Long Hairs

If you are a male and have long hair and money enough and a desire to travel — better stay away from Singapore unless you want a haircut.

The government has lashed out at those who wear "long and unkempt" hair. But above that, visitors to Singapore, when going through customs, are offered a free haircut if:

(1) The hair reaches below an ordinary shirt collar or (2) covers the ears or (3) falls across the forehead and touches the eyebrows.

In other words — if you don't want the free haircut then you can just pick up your bag and go back from where you came from.

The same government rule is now going into effect for hotel workers — especially those hotels who cater to the tourists. In the "hotel rule" situation the government says that if the workers want to keep their long hair then they can give up the hotel job they hold.

It's as simple as that!

Today's Chuckle: Saying "Gesundheit" doesn't help a cold, but it's about as good as anything the doctors have come up with.

Words of Praise

Dear Mr. Spectator: When a child shows the great human character trait of honesty, it speaks very well of his parents as well as of the child. Troy Killian of Filer has this fine trait of honesty.

Our nephew left a watch in a locker at Banbury's where we went to swim. There are many who would have taken the watch and kept it — but not Troy! He gave it to the pool owner who returned it to us. The principle of Troy's honesty is tremendous. He could have kept the watch with no danger of public punishment. But he reacted in an honest manner.

We want to publically thank Troy for being the fine person that he is. The Haskell Family

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Can People Live Without Sleep?

Dear Dr. Thosteson I have read of people who live without sleep — one man lived 25 years without sleep.

This book I read said that if you adjust your sleeping habits for a week or so, from then on it would be relatively easy to fall into the habit of non-sleep.

If this were possible, we could add years to our lives — all the wasted time we spend sleeping could be put into activity.

Would it be dangerous forcing yourself into such a habit? — R. J.

Will nutty notions ever stop? It's one thing to read somebody's claim that some man lived without sleep for 25 years. But try to find such a man! There isn't any.

Thomas Edison used to tell anybody who would listen that he got along on an amazingly small amount of sleep; people who worked with him blew the whistle on him — he had a curious knack of taking brief little catnaps many times a day. It is quite possible that he himself didn't realize it.

Some folks can get along on considerably less sleep than others, but all need some, whether it's all in one piece or in lots of catnaps.

Probably a more convincing answer to you lies in some experiments that have been done by a variety of psychiatric research clinics.

In order to study schizophrenia, they hunted for some way to produce what they call a "model psychosis," that is, to take a normal person and turn him, temporarily, into a schizophrenic.

They discovered a way to do it, too — just keep a person awake long enough, and he starts having all the hallucinations of a person with a serious mental illness. Volunteers, naturally, were used in the experiments, but they were paid for their time, plus the discomfort. They were kept awake by having someone around constantly to talk to them, or see that they were doing something, reading, playing games, whatever.

In about five or six days and nights without sleep, they all began seeing "smoke coming through the air-conditioner," or saw people who weren't there, or in general reacted just the way seriously schizophrenic patients behave.

And — this is important — it happened to everybody, although there was some variation in how rapidly it happened. Well, come to think of it, there were some to whom it didn't happen. That was because they finally went to sleep, no matter how hard they tried, and how hard the laboratory people tried to keep them awake.

In other words, don't take that book about not needing sleep seriously.

Dear Sir — My husband had laryngitis for seven weeks — At times his voice was gone completely. Now when it comes back he is hoarse. What do you recommend? — Mrs. C. M.

Without further information, I don't recommend anything, except that when hoarseness lasts that long, it calls for careful examination by his doctor. Smoking or disease of the vocal cords could account for this.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is meant by the word "etiology" in the diagnosis of thyroid trouble? I came across the word in an insurance claim report. — N. I.

"Etiology" means the causation of some condition. (Often used in the context of "etiology unknown," meaning that we know what disease or condition has developed, but we don't know what brought it

about

Diverticulosis is a bulge in the digestive tract. To become more familiar with the subject, write for Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

They Got You Comin' and Goin'!

Strike hurts Canada

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau recalled Canada's Parliament Monday to try to legislate an end to the country's rail strike. He called the strike a "national emergency" and said it is "hurting Canadians everywhere."

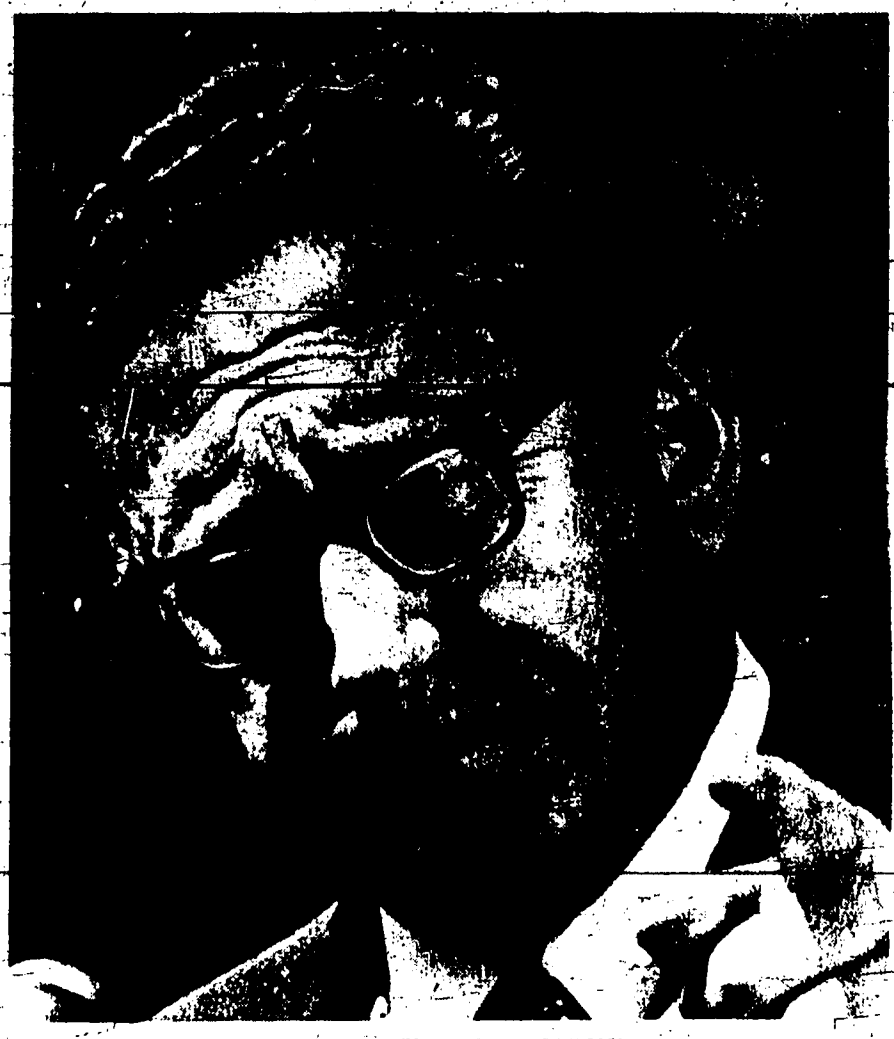

Parliament will reconvene Thursday, and Labor Minister John Munro said railways could be operating again by the weekend.

The strike, which began six days ago, has caused massive lay-offs and plant closures in the giant paper and auto industries, stranded thousands of travelers, and curtailed food and grain shipments.

Munro said Parliament could pass a bill to order the 56,000 members of the striking Associated Non-Operating Railway Unions back to work and to prohibit planned walkouts by the 30,000 shopcraft and United Transportation Union members.

Trudeau recalled Parliament in a televised speech after Munro failed in a "last chance" effort to reach agreement between the striking rail employes and the 11 railways, including the nation's two largest.

"I want to speak to you as prime minister of a country that must deal quickly with a national emergency," Trudeau said.

HENRY A. KISSINGER assumes new duties

Kissinger confers with Washington officials

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry A. Kissinger, nominated by President Nixon to be secretary of state, is devoting primary attention to organizing a management team to run the administrative side of the department and leave him free to deal only with high policy.

Administration officials said Kissinger met for more than two hours Monday with Deputy Secretary of State Kenneth Rush to discuss the management of the department. Although Kissinger has yet to be confirmed, officials said that his concern over administrative arrangements was understandable since the President has asked him to retain his post as special adviser on national security affairs, while assuming the secretary's post being vacated by William P. Rogers.

Kissinger also moved quickly, on his return to Washington from the Western White House where his appointment was announced last week, to smooth relations with Democratic Senate leaders. He met Monday morning with Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and then had lunch at the White House with Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee which must act on his selection. Fulbright said hearings on the Kissinger nomination probably would begin in about 10 days.

Besides his conferences with Washington officials, Kissinger asked U.S. diplomats stationed in mainland China, South Vietnam, Japan, India, South Korea, and a number of other envoys to the Near East and East Asia to meet with him soon.

Officials said they understood Kissinger wanted Rush, a onetime law professor, to handle overall management with Curtis W. Tarr. Tarr at present is undersecretary for security assistance and deputy undersecretary for management.

The actual management of the State Department always has been a difficult task, having defeated the best efforts of some highly skilled administrators. The sprawling building in Foggy Bottom, which directs 120 embassies around the world, has been described by some administrators as a "can of worms" while others, such as former Undersecretary George W. Ball, designated it "The Fudge Factory."

The Foreign Service Association, whose membership includes the principal career officers here and around the world, is a strongly knit organization whose members have built-in legal protections which in the past have enabled them to sabotage secretaries of state who tried to push them around.

Officials said they believed that Kissinger, probably will ask the present undersecretary of state for political affairs, William J. Porter, to remain and handle the diplomatic tasks of a secondary and less publicized nature. This would free Kissinger to devote more attention to the more highly visible positions of secretary of state and presidential adviser.

Chrysler offers benefits

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. sets out its wage and fringe benefit proposals to the United Auto Workers today, putting the auto contract negotiations into a new and more intensive phase.

Just 19 days away from a possible strike by 127,500 U.S. and Canadian auto workers, the Chrysler proposals will follow Phase IV wage guidelines limiting increases to 6.2 per cent. The union is expected to say they are "totally inadequate."

UAW President Leonard Woodcock Monday said he was not "worried about the (wage) ceiling being high enough."

"The existence of these restrictions are useful to the company," he said. "It gives the company a refuge to take shelter behind."

Unlike past years when all auto companies presented their proposals on the same day, General Motors and Ford will wait until later in the negotiations. Chrysler is this year's "strike target" and could be shut at 11:59 p.m., Sept. 14 while Ford and GM continue building cars.

Even though Ford and GM will remain silent on their proposals, Woodcock said it's common knowledge that the "Big Three" companies hold meetings to discuss what they'll offer the union.

Pakistani prisoners repatriated

NEW DELHI (UPI) — India and Pakistan signed an agreement today for the repatriation of hundreds of thousands of persons stranded by the 1971 war.

It provides for the repatriation of some 90,000 Pakistani prisoners of war held in India, the return home of some 150,000 Bengalis stranded in Pakistan, and transportation for a large number of pro-Pakistani Moslems from Bangladesh to Pakistan.

The agreement came after 11 days of intense negotiations between the two countries.

The final agreement was signed late today just an hour before Pakistan's delegation, headed by Foreign Minister Aziz Ahmed, was scheduled to fly home.

During the final stages of the negotiations Aziz Ahmed and the Indian delegation leader, P.N. Haksar, met twice with Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi in "intense efforts to break the 20-month-old deadlock on the subcontinent."

Nearly half a million people from the nations of Pakistan and Bangladesh were caught up in the events of the 14-day war in December of 1971 and have suffered ever since.

Viet shelling kills 21

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese command said today Communists killed 21 civilians and wounded 35 in shelling against a half-dozen small towns and hamlets across the country.

Military sources also reported that fighting around a government infantry position in the Mekong Delta 99 miles southwest of Saigon killed 22 Communists and 26 government soldiers. Another 41 government troops were wounded in the Monday afternoon clash.

1. Col. Le Trung Hien, the military command spokesman, said the worst Communist attack was at Tam Quan, a town along the South China Sea coast 290 miles northeast of Saigon.

He said guerrillas fired 70 rockets and mortars into the town Monday night, killing seven civilians and wounding 30.

Hien reported six civilians slain early today when guerrillas fired two mortars into a tiny hamlet 10 miles north of Tam Quan.

Two civilians were reported slain and eight wounded early today when a bus set off a mine near the Cambodian border in Chau Doc province, 125 miles southwest of Saigon.

Hien said guerrillas fired rifle shots into a hamlet 16 miles southwest of Da Nang, killing two civilians as well as a government militiaman.

Twenty mortar rounds landed in a small town two miles outside the provincial capital of Quang Ngai City Monday, killing three civilians and wounding seven, Hien said.

Communist commandoes blew up a government ammunition dump near South Vietnam's southernmost district town of Nam Can Monday, killing one nearby villager.

In other action, Hien reported heavy fighting Monday near Kontum, 280 miles north of Saigon, for the second consecutive day.

Martha says John broken

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — Martha Mitchell says her husband is a "broken" recluse because of Watergate and they no longer speak to each other, but she will stand by him until he is "convicted or disbarred or cleared."

"He never moves, he won't see our friends, he's broken up," Mrs. Mitchell said Monday of her husband John, the former attorney general. "That's what the doctors say. He's remote. He's been taken. He took a tremendous loss. Nixon cut him off and his law firm has been miserable to him. He stays in the apartment 24 hours a day."

Mrs. Mitchell talked with UPI reporter Helen Thomas from her New York apartment. She said that she and Mitchell are still living together but are not speaking.

"I don't talk to him anymore," she said. "I can't get through to him."

Although she said she has consulted a lawyer, she gave no indication she would separate from Mitchell.

"I have to hold up until John is convicted or disbarred or cleared," she said. "I'm not going to do anything against my husband. I lived 17 years with him."

"I don't believe there are many women in this country who have been so faithful. I love him very much. He loves me because I've stood up for him."

But he is defending the President who planned the whole goddamned thing. I'm talking to you in the sight of God," she said, repeating her accusation that President Nixon had been a party to plans for illegal political surveillance operations such as Watergate from the beginning.

She has said her husband told the Senate Watergate Committee that Nixon had no knowledge of such operations because Mitchell hopes Nixon will free him with executive clemency if Mitchell shields Nixon now, and if he is convicted of a crime.

Two Belfast girls lure soldiers into ambush

BELFAST (UPI) — Two girls lured a part-time soldier in the Ulster Defense Regiment to his death in Belfast today when machine gun fire cut him down as he investigated a car they told him was booby-trapped, the army said.

The private was on patrol with his partner when the two girls told them a car bomb had been planted. Gunmen ambushed the two with machine guns when they arrived at the scene, an army spokesman said.

The unidentified victim died almost instantly. His companion was treated at a hospital for minor injuries and released.

The death brought to 875 the number of persons killed in four years of Northern Ireland strife, among minority Roman Catholics, majority Protestants and security forces.

British forces, meanwhile, began what they said was their biggest security clampdown in Northern Ireland to prepare for today's arrival of Britain's Prime Minister Edward Heath.

Army marksmen were assigned to rooftop positions wherever Heath goes, and plans called for squadrons of army helicopters to hover over Belfast to watch for crowd movements, an army spokesman said.

He said security forces feared the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) would try to stage an incident — though not necessarily an assassination attempt — against Heath to demonstrate its displeasure at the prime minister's visit.

Heath planned to confer with Northern Ireland political leaders, visit army units and attend a memorial service for a former Northern Ireland politician who died of natural causes 11 days ago.

In Belfast Monday, 25 prisoners formed a human pyramid in a drive to scale the wall of the Crumlin Road prison, but police said the escape attempt was foiled by barbed wire at the top of the wall.

In New York, Mitchell's lawyers said although he was under considerable strain, he had not gone into seclusion and appeared to be "bearing up quite well under the circumstances."

Mitchell's top Washington lawyer, William Hundley, said, "He is tired and under a lot of strain but he certainly does not appear in the throes of a deep depression."

"He's not a man who is jumping up and down, but he's certainly bearing up a heck of a lot better than I would under the same circumstances."

Other friends and legal advisers to Mitchell, who is under indictment for perjury and obstruction of justice, in connection with a campaign contribution to Nixon's re-election committee, said he appeared his usual unflappable and hard-nosed self and they detected "no signs of a breakdown."

Threatening CB calls made

DENVER (UPI) — A man who monitored citizens band radio threats against President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says he has received another broadcast threatening his own life.

"I don't think it was the same person," Robert Vetter said Monday. "The voice of the man that made the threat had a Mexican accent, but the other one didn't."

Saturday, Vetter monitored CBR broadcasts which took credit for sending New Mexico authorities on a futile statewide search for a young boy named Larry earlier this month. Larry allegedly broadcast his plea for help from an overturned truck in which he and his dead father were trapped.

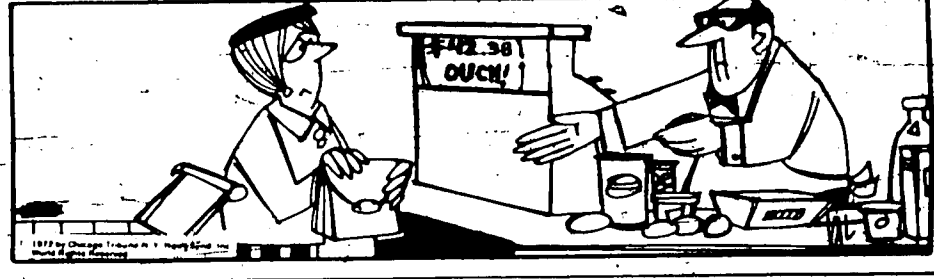

The Saturday broadcasts heard by Vetter, a service station operator, and other CBR buffs also contained threats against the lives of Nixon and Agnew.

A network of 400-500 CBR operators tuned in Sunday in an effort to pinpoint the location of the broadcaster. No calls were heard. Authorities said the threat on Vetter's life was transmitted shortly before midnight on a different channel.

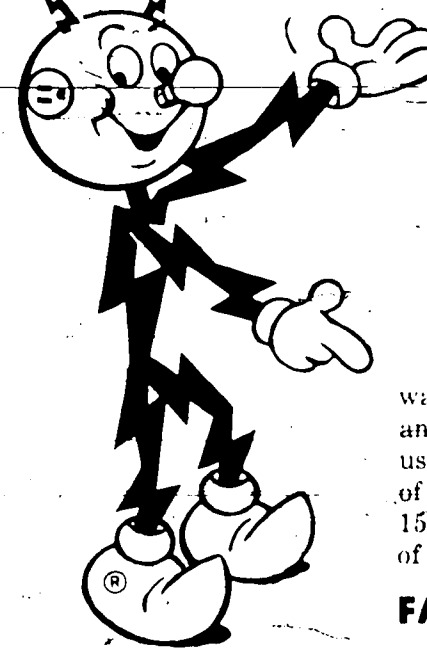

"I'm not really worried about it," Vetter said. "We're getting all the nuts out of the woodwork now."

A spokesman for the Denver FBI office said the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) was investigating the broadcasts. The Secret Service also was involved because of the threats on Nixon and Agnew.

Let's set the record straight

... about the cost of electric water heating

(Based upon heating 1500 gallons per month)

Nobody knows your family's exact water heating cost, as it varies from day to day and month to month with changing hot water use. The facts below are based upon a University of Illinois study* which reports that use of 1500 gallons would require 430 kilowatt-hours of electricity.

FACT No. 1. In 1972 Idaho Power's average residential customer used 918 kilowatt-hours of electricity per month $15.37

FACT No. 2. If he did not have electric water heating, thereby removing 430 kilowatt-hours of use, his bill for the remaining 488 kilowatt-hours would have been $11.44

FACT No. 3. In this example the effective difference in cost for heating 1500 gallons of water would be $3.93

The above costs are compiled from Idaho Power Company's Schedule No. 1 as filed with the Idaho and Oregon public utility commissions.

Automakers to ask hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a major test of Phase IV price controls, top U.S. automakers will ask the Cost of Living Council (CLC) today for permission to raise prices on their 1974 model cars.

The price hikes, which would range from $55 per car for American Motors to $106 for Ford, have been challenged by the council as possibly violating the administration's anti-inflation program. General Motors wants an average increase of $102 per vehicle and Chrysler, $71.

Witnesses at a one-day hearing include top officials of each company plus a spokesman for the Center for Corporate Responsibility, a Ralph Nader-associated group. The auto companies argue that they need the price boosts to make up for the cost of installing seat belt alarm systems, shock absorbing bumpers, improved exhaust systems and other safety and antipollution equipment required by the government.

CLC director John T. Dunlop says he wants to make sure the price boosts really reflect the higher costs of the government required equipment before allowing them to take effect.

Under Phase IV rules, companies with more than $100 million in annual sales must notify the CLC 30-days ahead of any planned price increase. Unless the government steps in, as it is doing in the auto case, the increases take effect at the end of the 30-day waiting period.

Dunlop has scheduled similar hearings later this week on price increases requested by the steel industry.

HANDS tied behind their backs, Khmer Rouge captives are guarded Sunday by government soldiers with Russian-made rifles at Angkor Chey, about 21 miles southeast of Phnom Penh. Battlefield activity in Cambodia has reached its highest level since the American bomb halt on Aug. 15. (UPI)

Cambodia troops smash barricade

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Government troops broke through a Highway 4 roadblock 15 miles from the city today, easing but not solving Phnom Penh's supply problems. Torrential rains which swelled the Mekong River out of its banks also eased the plight of river convoys.

Recent heavy rains have helped slow down the fighting and have widened the Mekong River to such an extent that supply convoys can usually escape fire from the banks by staying in the middle of the stream. A convoy carrying ammunition and fuel arrived in Phnom Penh during a 90-minute downpour Monday that dumped so much rain on the city many of the streets were flooded.

The arrival of the convoy came just as residents of refugee jammed Phnom Penh were beginning to feel the pinch of higher prices brought on by shortages of rice and fuel.

Highway 4 leads southwestward from Phnom Penh to Kompong Som on the Gulf of Siam; Cambodia's only deep water port where major supplies arrive from abroad. The Mekong River convoys can bring in only smaller shipments.

Highway 4 was cut in two places—once 35 miles southwest of Phnom Penh and once 15 miles from the capital. The clearing operation today removed the roadblock closer to Phnom Penh but the road was apparently still cut on the western side of Kompong Speu.

Field reporters said troops moving toward Phnom Penh from Kompong Speu linked up with a detachment heading from Phnom Penh toward Kompong Speu, they met at Thnal Totung, 15 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, wiping out the Communist roadblock.

Highway 5, the road to the rice-producing Province of Battambang in northwestern Cambodia, was still cut, however. Government troops are moving along the road in a clearing operation.

In other military action, fighting slackened off at Kompong Cham, a surrounded provincial capital 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, and the high command said government defenses had been consolidated.

British bomb alert

LONDON (UPI) — The biggest bomb alert since World War II gripped Britain today and the government ordered stringent security in its embassies abroad after Monday's letter bomb blast that severed the hand of a British Embassy secretary in Washington.

The bomb campaign, believed the work of the Irish Republican Army (IRA), prompted Scotland Yard to warn Britons to expect more mailbomb incidents today as workers returned to their jobs at the end of a three-day holiday.

"This is a desperate, serious situation and there may be many of these letter bombs lurking in offices after the holiday. All we want to ensure is that no one gets hurt," said Ernest Bond, deputy assistant police commissioner.

Bond called on the public to report any suspicious envelopes to police and said: "Anyone who attempts to open a letter of this nature is sheer, bloody stupid."

'Spider' kills

UNION CITY, Tenn. (UPI) — A ride called the "Spider" collapsed at the Obion County Fair Monday night, killing a 13-year-old boy and injuring eight other children.

The youth, Keith Connell, of Union City, was crushed in the accident which occurred only a short time after the fair officially opened.

Jacqueline Pendergrass, 12, daughter of Police Chief Charles Pendergrass, suffered a fractured neck; Steve Oliver, 13, had a fractured spine, and James Griffin, 13, had cervical injuries. The other children had minor injuries.

Jim Rippy Jr., president of the fair board, said the mishap happened when the threads in a nut stripped and one arm of the ride collapsed, throwing two cars together. The "Spider" is a ride with cars, or seats, holding three persons, on long arms that rotate as they go up and down.

Boy dies from lack of insulin

BARSTOW, Calif. (UPI) — Wesley Parker, 11, who died after his fundamentalist parents withdrew his insulin when they decided diabetes was caused by devils, was buried Monday with only a gravedigger and a mortician looking on.

His father still says he is certain Wesley will rise from the dead to prove that he was cured by faith healing.

The San Bernardino County district attorney's office said officials were reviewing police reports on the boy's death but had not yet decided whether to bring criminal charges.

The dead boy's father, Lawrence Parker, an unemployed NASA tracking station technician, at first left orders that the body was not to be buried, in expectation of his son's resurrection.

According to Wes Dixon, a spokesman for the O'donnell Funeral Home, Parker asked Monday that the body be buried in private at Mountain View Cemetery. But Parker remained steadfast, he said, in his belief that Wesley will "arise in four days."

"I think God is letting it go this far so He can receive the most glory from this when Wesley comes back," Parker said.

Ten days ago, Parker and his family—his wife, Alice, 29, and three other children—went with Wesley to hear a faith healer at the Assembly of God Church. The healer pronounced Wesley "cured" by a "laying on of hands."

Although Wesley had been suffering from diabetes for five years, his parents threw out the supply of insulin doctors said was vital to him.

CLYDE BELLECOURT ... leader shot

Militant Indian leader wounded

WINNERS, S.D. (UPI) — Clyde Bellecourt, cofounder of the militant American Indian Movement (AIM), was shot and critically wounded at the Rosebud Sioux Reservation Monday, apparently by a fellow AIM leader.

It was the first major violence among AIM hierarchy since the group was founded in 1968.

Carter Camp, 29, AIM national chairman from Ponca City, Okla., was arrested late Monday in Nebraska and charged with the shooting. Camp, his brother, Craig Kelly Camp, 27, and Leroy Cadoado, 33, of Alliance, Neb., had all been named in federal warrants charging them with assault with a deadly weapon.

The warrants were issued after Bellecourt was shot in the stomach in the front yard of the home of a friend on the reservation.

Camp was apprehended with a struggle. He was unarmed. The other two suspects were still at large.

Top AIM leaders called a vigil today at the Baptist Hospital where Bellecourt, a Chippewa, is hospitalized.

No reason was given by police or AIM leaders for the shooting.

"We are as puzzled as everyone else as to how and why this shooting happened," said Russell Means, an AIM national leader. "We're looking into it. We're conducting our own investigation."

There are three theories about the shooting so far," Means said. "The first is a conspiracy to assassinate AIM leaders from within or without. The second is that it could have been an accident, or it could have been a spontaneous anger thing."

"It definitely wasn't a sign that our leadership is weakening," Means said.

Means, one of the leaders of the 71-day AIM led occupation of Wounded Knee on the Pine Ridge Reservation, said Bellecourt, Camp and he were among the AIM leaders who were guests at the home of a friend, Sidney Ear, for the annual Rosebud Tribal Fair and Powwow.

"I saw Carter Camp holding a pistol and pointing it in the direction of Clyde Bellecourt," Means said. "Clyde doubled over immediately after he was hit. He was hit in the gut and went into shock almost immediately. He ran through the house and out the back door, and I had to tackle him."

Means said the Camp brothers and Casados drove away in two vehicles while he was out in the back yard with Bellecourt.

Space center named for LBJ

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Manned Spacecraft Center was officially dedicated the "Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center" on the 65th anniversary of the late president's birthday Monday. His widow, Lady Bird Johnson, attended ceremonies renaming the Houston space complex.

A day of events in Johnson's honor began in Austin, at the LBJ Library, where a commemorative LBJ stamp was issued. It went on sale in post offices across the nation today.

Throughout the day, Johnson was praised a man who helped world peace and formulated the policy that took America to the moon.

At the space center, NASA Administrator James C. Fletcher unveiled a bust of Johnson which went on display in a special "Johnson Room" at the facility. Mrs. Johnson spoke during the dedication ceremony.

"Few of his experiences brought him greater pride than his part in the architecture of the space legislation which led to the momentous adventures of these last incredible years," she said. "Giving his name to this great center—the LBJ Space Center—dedicated to the peaceful exploration of space, is a birthday gift I know he would deeply appreciate."

"He believed in more than the conquest of space. He wanted to bridge this great force for the cause of peace. He believed the infinity of space could provide a common ground for all nations to work together, putting aside the differences, suspicions and conflicts of this planet."

Later she and others attended a dinner sponsored by the Houston Chamber of Commerce, and watched a movie on America's space progress narrated by Rear Adm. Alan B. Shepard Jr., America's first man in space.

Another spaceman during Johnson's tenure, James B. Webb, the NASA administrator from 1961 to 1968, also addressed the gathering.

"I believe Lyndon Johnson's determined support for a preeminent U.S. position in space will go down in history," Webb said. "Against the opposition of many scientists and economists he strongly supported the manned space flight part of NASA's program."

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are contemplating a divorce. She is 40, I am 28, and we have five children. I am in love with another woman and want to marry her, but I will not leave my wife until I am sure she has somebody else. She knows all about my situation.

Even tho I don't love my wife, I want her to be happy. She is blond, attractive, 5 foot 8 and weighs 115. Money is not a problem. I intend to support her and the children, but I'd feel much better if she had a man. We've been the route of ministers and family counselors, and now I think a professional matchmaker or computer-dating service is in order. Who locates prospective husbands for single women? NO NAME IN N. Y.

New man wanted

DEAR NO NAME: I don't. Your concern for your wife is commendable, but have you discussed this with her? Is she interested in another husband? If she is, does she want to go the computer or matchmaking route? I'd like to hear her side of it. She may not be programmed to follow your plan.

DEAR ABBY: You said, "Freud found sex in the out-house, and brought it into the living room." I always wondered what ailed Dr. Freud. Now, I know. Imagine, anyone looking for sex in an outhouse!

DEAR JAMES: I didn't say Freud LOOKED for it there. I said that's where he FOUND it.

DEAR ABBY: Cold chills ran up my spine when I read the letter from that heartbroken mother, whose daughter, a nurse, was marrying an amputee. (He lost both his legs when he stepped on a mine in Vietnam.) The mother said her daughter was beautiful, and could just as easily have married a whole man.

I am sure many people think my husband could have married "a whole woman" instead of me. You see, when I was 3, my brother shot me thru the head with a .22 rifle. Thank God I am still alive, altho my left side is paralyzed.

I can walk, and do anything any other woman can do. But best of all, a wonderful man thought I was "whole" enough to marry. He is handsome, kind, and faithful, and he treats me like a queen. We've been happily married for 10 years. I still can't believe my good luck. Sign me, FREDDY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It's more than "luck." You must have a lot going for you. Congratulations.

If you're playing rubber bridge you aren't happy with your three no-trump contract. Of course, you are sure of your game, but you would have liked to have reached six diamonds. If you are a duplicate player you see that if you can make three overtricks at your no-trump contract you will do well since virtually everyone will be in the same contract and probably most of them will only make five.

You see that even is almost impossible. You will need four club tricks and some sort of spade heart squeeze for that.

so you duck the first spade on general principles

You win the second one in dummy, lead a club and finesse the 10. The finesse works and now, since East started with exactly three clubs, you are going to make four club tricks and since the jack of diamonds is going to drop nicely you are going to make 12 tricks.

Was there any reason to finesse against East? Yes, there was! You were sure of four club tricks on this line if East held queen, queen-small or queen and two small in clubs. Playing West for the queen you would only score four club tricks against a singleton.

MR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE FRAZIER

Judy L. Blades weds in Jerome

JEROME — Judy Lou Blades and Lawrence Max Frazier were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony Aug. 11 at the Methodist Church, Jerome.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Loren Blades, Jerome. The bridegroom is the son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Max Frazier, Reno, Nev.

The candlelight ceremony was performed by Rev. Bill Johnson, before an altar of orange glads and lime green spider mums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown designed and made by Mrs. Avis Huddleston. It was fashioned of white peau d'oele sequin lace covered the bodice and lily point sleeves. Matching lace defined the chapel train. Her three tiered, elbow length veil of illusion was held by a heart-shaped headpiece accented with seed pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of orange, white, and lime green chrysanthemums and baby's breath accented with stephanotis and natural greenery.

Debbie Blades, Jerome, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Kathy Simms, Moscow, and Sherri Duncan, Wendell, were bridesmaids. Margi Frazier, Reno, sister of the bridegroom, was Junior bridesmaid and Michelle Springston, Reno, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

Tom Springston, Reno, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man. Rob Barr, Moscow, friend of the bridegroom; Darrell Blades, Seal Beach, Calif., brother of the bride, and Lloyd Thompson, Wenatchee, Wash., cousin of the bride, were groomsmen and ushers.

Matthew Lawson, friend of the family, was the ring bearer.

Candlelighters were Mark and Lloyd Thompson, Wenatchee, Wash., cousins of the bride.

Book Review

By ARIANCAIL

Twin Falls Public Library Everyone knows that libraries stock dozens of magazine titles, but few persons realize just how diversified those titles are. The following paragraphs are intended to introduce to you several of the newer magazines currently received by the Twin Falls Public Library.

Weatherwise — A popular weather magazine for experts and laymen. Each issue contains fine articles, with good photographs, discussing weather phenomenon and patterns. A recent issue outlines the recorded snowfalls in Florida in a highly interesting manner. (Only eighteen occurrences since 1774; the latest, in 1973, was the first recorded snow in the state since 1958).

Film Quarterly — A serious film review source, with a good reputation for critical objectivity. Each issue features several long reviews of current movie fare, with special sections indicating films of little interest.

Barron's — A politically conservative journal, with objective articles on business trends and specific industries. International market data is statistically evaluated each week. The journal accumulates and analyzes material presented daily in its sister-publication, The Wall Street Journal.

Yale Review — One of the oldest reviews of national literature and politics. It contains contemporary poetry and fiction, as well as in-depth reviews of important new books. The penetrating articles on current problems — economics, politics, and world events are contributed by well-known Americans.

Caveat Emptor — "Let the buyer beware" is the watchword of this new consumer awareness magazine. Each month there is an editorial by Ralph Nader. A stated policy of the magazine is to expose fraudulent schemes, false advertising, and business cheats. No holds barred in this one!

Upper Snake River Valley Historical Society Quarterly — A new Idaho history magazine, each issue of which contains short articles, poetry, photographs and a listing of new western history books.

TIMMY PHILLIPS, standing, Wendy Davis and Tony Purves model children's playhouse to be given away in a drawing by the Twin Falls Junior Club. The playhouse was donated by Unique Builders, Inc. The playhouse will be on view at the Twin Falls County Fair. Proceeds will go to the YMCA-YWCA swimming pool fund. Tickets are available at the Lynwood Shopping Center and from Junior Club members.

Nutrition now subject of concern, controversy

(c) New York Times News Service. NEW YORK — Nutrition, once a subject relegated to grade-school "health" classes, has emerged as a household word and become a subject of national concern and intense controversy.

Between a growing "health" foods and vitamin industry, a national epidemic of obesity, soaring food prices and a steady stream of books and articles recommending this, that or the other diet or nutrient, the public is being showered as never before with advice and counteradvice.

The mounting concern over the nation's dietary habits is beginning to show in official action, as the following developments indicate: —The Senate select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, after four years of worrying about the nation's hungry and malnourished, last spring turned its attention to the 70 million Americans who are overweight and fair game for the $10 billion-a-year diet industry that preys on a think-slim public.

—The Food and Drug Administration, prompted by the increasing use of vitamins in "megadoses," has proposed restrictions on the sale of vitamins, a move that has met with vigorous protest from that part of the public that takes megadose vitamins and an attempt by Congress to pass a law overriding the impending restrictions.

—The F.D.A.'s new food labeling proposals will make it possible for — and in some cases require — food processors to list the nutritive content of their products to help the public know what it is getting and, it is hoped, choose a more nutritious diet.

—The Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Science-National Research Council, which sets the nutritive standards for the American diet, is expected this fall to replace the outmoded "minimum daily requirements" for various nutrients with much larger "recommended dietary allowances" to affect more realistically the nutritional needs of most people.

—The board has also recently set up a committee on nutritional misinformation which, from time to time, will issue reports "to set the record straight" about food fads.

Interviews with experts on nutrition and a review of the medical literature have shown that only a relative handful of scientists know much of anything about human nutrition and most of them readily concede that their knowledge is far from complete.

Yet research funds that might have helped to put the rather shaky science of nutrition on a firmer footing have been all but eliminated by the Nixon Administration.

As a consequence, an ignorant public has been left at the mercy of the food industry and a growing army of food fadists, diet concocters, vitamin hawkers and self-styled nutritionists.

Nutrition experts point out that the typical supermarket shopper is faced with a dazzling array of beckoning goodies with little or no nutritive value. And the daily American diet increasingly relies on prepared foods, pre-cooked meals and synthetic imitations of the real thing, many with lists of artificial ingredients that would make a chemist's tongue curl.

During processing some of the nutrients in the natural foods are destroyed or lost, and not all are replaced when the finished product is "enriched."

In addition to replacing what was in the original food before processing, some experts advocate doing what they call better than nature by fortifying processed foods with nutrients that are at low levels or absent in the natural product. Attention has focused particularly on raising the protein or iron content of breads, cereals and macaroni products, the inexpensive foods that form a major part of the diet of the poor.

But while a substantial proportion of the population is a victim of undernutrition, a much greater proportion is suffering the ravages of overnutrition — obesity, heart disease, diabetes and the like. Much of the nation's overweight problem is thought to be a function of an affluent society that encourages overeating, but it is also true that many of the nation's poor are obese because their diets are overloaded with inexpensive, fattening but unnutritious foods.

And the obese, whose health is already compromised by their excess poundage, often further jeopardize their health by going on crash or fad diets of questionable nutritive value.

Survey set on Boulder

SPOKANE — The U. S. Department of the Interior Bureau of Mines is conducting a mineral survey of the 290,277-acre Boulder-Pioneer area of the Sawtooth and Challis National Forests.

East of Sun Valley, the Boulder-Pioneer study area lies along the ridge of the Pioneer Mountains in Blaine and Custer Counties. The bureau expects to examine all mining claims, mines, prospects and mineralized areas. Several million dollars of lead, zinc, silver, and copper already have been claimed from mines in the area.

Bureau mining engineers will work the area by helicopter, trail bike and on foot.

Hagerman youths serve in town's rescue squad

HAGERMAN — When someone needs pulling out of a well in Hagerman, the Emergency Rescue Society (ERS) is called.

The ERS, comprised of volunteers from 8 to 18 years old, serves as an auxiliary to the Hagerman Fire Department. According to Patrick Montgomery, 14 year old vice president of the society, the group uses the fire department's vehicles and equipment when making calls.

One of the most common types of rescues the group performs is pulling people out of wells, he said. If the person is hurt, an ERS man goes down the well, straps the person to a stretcher and signals those above to start cranking.

Past ERS rescues have also included pulling a man out of a home-made swimming pool and breaking down a jammed bathroom door to help the injured person inside.

Paramedics on the fire department staff accompany the young rescuers.

Montgomery said ERS members give demonstrations on rescuing techniques and also help out at fires.

The ERS has an office located above the federal fish hatchery in Hagerman. When the fire department radios the office, a button is pushed which triggers buzzers above ERS members' phones. Different signals are used for different types of emergencies.

The ERS now has about 18 members and is understaffed, according to Montgomery. Those interested in volunteering may call the ERS office at 837-6176.

Changes in stamps

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced two amendments to food stamp program regulations.

Food coupons now may be used to purchase imported foods, and seeds and plants for home gardens.

Also all states are required to implement the food stamp program in all political subdivisions no later than June 30, 1974.

Trial held for Soviet leaders

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union put two former dissident leaders on trial Monday on charges of working against the Soviet state and the official Tass news agency said both pleaded guilty. Dissident sources said the trial may result in new arrests.

Pyotr I. Yakir, 50, the bearded son of a Red Army general executed by the late Premier Josef V. Stalin in 1937, and Viktor Krasin, 44, went on trial in Moscow City Court.

Tass said both men, arrested last year, had confessed and "repented" during preliminary investigations.

There have been frequent reports that Yakir has denounced other dissidents to the secret police (KGB). Dissident sources said they fear these would be called as witnesses and later arrested themselves.

Tass said Yakir and Krasin were charged with collaborating with a West German-based emigre organization called Peoples Labor Union, which sets itself the aim of overthrowing the existing system in the USSR.

Although Tass said the trial was open, the tightly guarded courtroom in a distant suburban location was inaccessible to foreign correspondents.

"When such crimes are committed they concern all Soviet citizens," Khudin said.

Navigator fined for bombing town

ANDERSEN AIR FORCE BASE, Guam (UPI) — The navigator of a U.S. B52 bomber that accidentally bombed the Cambodian town of Neak Luong earlier this month has been fined $700 and reprimanded, the Air Force said Monday.

Three other officers also were disciplined following an investigation into the Aug. 6 bombing accident, the worst of the Indochina War, in which 137 persons were killed and 268 wounded.

A spokesman for the 8th Air Force said Capt. Prince A. Brumfield was ordered to forfeit $350 salary for two months and given a letter of reprimand.

Other officers to be disciplined were Maj. Donald R. Fiar of Carswell Air Force base in Texas, the B52's commander, and the plane's navigator, Lt. George E. Tindell of the McCoy base. Both received letters of admonishment. Fiar will also face an evaluation board.

Gas or Electric; which is your best buy?

For clothes drying, it's Gas!

A gas clothes dryer does its job faster* (average drying time 33 minutes vs. 46 minutes for electric dryers). It can do up to 5 loads of clothes for the cost of 1 with electric dryers. You can buy a gas dryer at any of our offices. We'll finance it and you can make payments with your gas bill. A gas dryer conserves your energy and nature as well because natural gas is a highly efficient energy source for home clothes dryers. In Idaho we have gas to burn... but we want to burn it wisely.

Hong Kong best place to find out news about Peking

By KEYES BEECH
(c) 1973, Chicago Daily News

HONG KONG — Something important is going on in Peking but nobody is sure what it is.

China watchers here are admittedly baffled, although they have some educated guesses. Diplomats in Peking are if anything in even worse shape.

Although the diplomatic community in Peking now numbers 4,000 people, apparently no one has been able to breach the great wall of secrecy the Chinese have erected around their internal affairs.

Which, as one China analyst observed, says a good deal about security in the People's Republic. "Eight hundred million Chinese and not one leak," he mused.

Some Peking-based diplomats have been reduced to calling their consulates in Hong Kong to ask what they thought was happening. Which supports the conclusion among a good many observers that Hong King, with its corps of skilled translators, monitoring services and intelligence resources, still is a better source of information on China than Peking.

Peking-based correspondents often arrive in Hong Kong saying, "You know more here about what's going on in China than we do."

Two developments have sent the China watchers, a notoriously sensitive lot, into a tizzy in recent weeks.

One was a series of meetings — if there was a series — in Peking's Great Hall of the People. The other was, and continues to be, a series of attacks on Prime Minister Chou En-Lai.

Unusual activity in Peking's Gate of the Heavenly Peace Square was duly reported by diplomats and newsmen who saw a lot of people going in and out of the Great Hall. But nobody could find out what they were doing in there or, for that matter, who they were.

Some leaped, unwisely as it turned out, to the conclusion that a long-delayed meeting of the Communist Party Congress was under way. "But now we know better," said one China analyst. "Or at least we think we know better."

Anyway, the meetings have given way to an international ping pong tournament with teams taking part from all over Asia, Africa and Latin America.

As long as the ping pong players are in town, China analysts reason, no meetings of great importance can occur because there aren't enough hotel rooms for all those players as well as delegates to political conferences.

China watchers take a serious view of what seems to be the situation with Chou.

The thrust of the criticism is that Chou is too pragmatic. The criticism seems to come from the left. Ideological purity, the anonymous critics argue, must come before everything else.

Counties lose market battle, study shows

Bollinger directly challenges the notion that local people are loyal to their local markets.

"The professed loyalty of townsmen and farmers for village stores with their neighborly conveniences proved to be only skin-deep.

In contrast, during the same period, the nine cities of Idaho whose population exceeded 10,000 increased an average of 65 per cent.

Bollinger examines closely two specific retail operations which have been undercut most severely.

He finds that farm equipment dealers have suffered.

"One of the paradoxes in our economy is that although farmers have never possessed more equipment, the mortality among farm equipment dealers has been of epidemic proportions, especially in small towns.

In 1950 there were 25 farm equipment firms in the four-county area. By 1971 the number had been reduced to only eight.

Fairfield had four dealerships in 1950. By 1971 it had none. Richfield lost both of its earlier dealerships. Shoshone's three were reduced to one. Gooding lost five dealerships, leaving only two. Jerome's six dealerships shrank to two.

Only Eden and Wendell retained their original dealerships.

Small town car dealers fared as badly as implement dealers.

Citing census of business figures, Bollinger notes that sales volume for automotive dealers in the four-county area from 1948 through 1967 showed actual dollar volumes reduced during each four-year census period.

So badly had the dealers fared that their sales volume in the prosperous inflationary year of 1967 was 40 per cent below the 1948 level — without making adjustments for inflation.

"Automotive dealers, like farm equipment dealers, have been pressed hard by competition from large dealers in regional shopping centers. The greater sales volume of larger automotive dealers enables them to cover costs on lower markup prices. Furthermore, the smaller dealers feel, with some justification, that their orders are 'given the back shuffle' at the regional supply depots of the automobile manufacturers."

In contrast to both farm equipment and automotive dealers, professional services have prospered in spite of depopulation.

Bollinger quotes an accountant who said his business tended to increase as farms consolidated as the larger farmers tended to use more than a proportionate amount of his services.

"Lawyers indicated that they generally would be beneficiaries of farm consolidation," Bollinger wrote. "Larger farm operators think and act more like businessmen and less like the traditional small independent-minded farmer." On the other hand, depopulation tends to reduce the divorce trade for attorneys, partially offsetting the rising farm-counseling role.

An exception to the reduction in divorce business was noted in Gooding County, which, Bollinger says, "has become a divorce capital of renown."

Bollinger, who does not name the official, notes that a "judge with an eye on business conducts the only Saturday court sessions in the state, an arrangement especially convenient for working class people within hundreds of miles who can obtain a Saturday divorce without having to shortchange their salary check on payday."

Bollinger notes with satisfaction that local leaders have attempted to fight back against the economic impact of depopulation. In Gooding County, he finds, the effort was largely successful.

He focuses his attention on the creation of the Gooding Industrial Commission in 1964 and its efforts since to broaden the local job base.

The Commission, aided by two $350,000 loans from the Small Business Administration, set up a meat packing plant with 50 employees.

The plant went bankrupt within two years, which "produced a crisis of despair throughout the community."

Fortunately, "a series of events followed which changed the attitudes of the community leaders from despair to their present one of optimism about their depopulation problems."

Around 1966 the packing industry was reopened by a California company, reintroducing the 50 jobs.

In 1968 the county courthouse burned, leading to its replacement with a modern facility. Shortly afterward a 110-bed private nursing home and retirement complex was opened.

And in 1971 a new high school opened.

A similar case is reported in Camas County. There, according to Bollinger, community leaders find their salvation in tourism and recreation. The community, he says, recently organized a Fairfield Coordinating Committee.

Bollinger observes that depopulation, as a conflict-producing situation, may have had favorable impact on Gooding and Camas communities because it spurred creation of the local efforts to revitalize local economies.

The study notes that the task facing such local efforts is large. For one thing, to keep the same level of population there is a need for an increase in the number of local jobs.

"Modern social and economic trends, such as rising entry by women into the labor force and smaller-sized families, make it necessary for a community's employment base to expand as a condition for sustaining the level of population."

In support of this conclusion, Bollinger finds that despite the fact that the number of people delinquent by 899 during the 1960s in Gooding County, the number of households "actually increased" slightly.

Project successful

SUN VALLEY — The second annual "Fund-a-Bus" Saturday night raised about $13,000 towards the continuation of the Ketchum-Sun Valley Transit System.

The net proceeds had been incorrectly stated as $10,000 in Monday's Times-News.

Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce manager Lloyd Curtis Monday thanked Lorraine Curtis, over-all "Fund-a-Bus" chairman, and the Sun Valley Company Inc., which donated use of the Lamlight Room, for helping to make the event a success.

The chamber manager also said that the summer transit service schedule will end Sept. 1 and that the winter schedule will resume about Dec. 22. Ticket books, which were awarded as prizes, will be also honored this winter, he said.

One way to deliver silage

Silage truck upsets

BUHL — Drivers of a pickup truck and a 10-wheel truck hauling corn silage escaped injury Monday afternoon when the silage truck collided with the pickup then overturned in the corral of a Buhl farmer.

According to Corporal D. W. Owen of the Idaho State Police, the accident occurred about 4:50 p.m. on Highway 30 seven miles west of Buhl.

Owen said a pickup truck driven by Chris E. Roberts, 14, Buhl, was attempting a left-hand turn into the driveway of Leonard Vitek when it was struck by the silage vehicle which was attempting to pass.

The silage truck, according to Owen, was coming up alongside the Roberts pickup when Roberts made the left turn. The silage truck swerved to avoid Roberts' vehicle and overturned after crashing through the Vitek corral.

Daniel L. White, 22, Buhl, driver of the silage truck, told the State Police officer he failed to see a hand signal allegedly given by Roberts before making the left hand turn.

Both vehicles were heading west at the time of the accident.

Owen estimated damage to the silage truck at $2,000 and damage to Roberts' pickup at $500. An additional $1,000 damage was estimated on the Vitek corral.

The silage truck was coming from the Green Grant Co. at the time of the accident, Owen said, while Roberts was apparently turning onto the Vitek property to begin mowing the lawn.

The silage truck was owned by George W. Clark, Buhl.

No citations were issued.

Blaine commission studies two bids

HAILEY — Blaine County Commissioners have tabled for further study two bids submitted for construction of a new county shop.

During a bid opening Monday, bids were received from P. B. Ritzau Contractors and Engineers, Ketchum, and Hunter-Saucerman Construction Inc., Idaho Falls.

According to commission chairman C. W. (Andy) Gardner, the proposed combination shop and storage room for county equipment would be about 50 by 80 feet. It will be located, he said, on a three-acre site, south west of the Friedman Memorial Airport, Hailey, and will replace the existing Bellevue and Hailey shops.

The incident allegedly took place from April 15 to June 30, 1973.

Teacher strike 'spots' cited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's first teachers' strike of the season already has taken place, and National Education Association (NEA) officials have counted 143 other "serious trouble spots" that could erupt into strikes.

Spokesmen for the teacher organization said today, however, they doubted there would be that many strikes this year.

"Although the potential is there, I'd really be surprised if we actually have that many strikes in the whole country this year," one NEA official said.

King marvels doctor

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The personal physician of King Gustaf VI Adolf of Sweden marveled today at the physical strength of the 90-year-old monarch, fighting death for more than a week in a southern Sweden hospital bed.

"He is a physical phenomenon," said Prof. Gunnar Bioerck, Gustaf Adolf's chief physician.

The king's condition improved slightly Monday but was still termed critical following a gastric ulcer operation and resulting pneumonia and internal bleeding.

Minidoka to keep food stamp plan

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

RUPERT — Minidoka County Commissioners voted unanimously Monday to continue the county's present food stamp program for at least six months.

The commissioners had considered a change to the commodities program several months ago but had delayed making a decision until reports were received on the status of commodity supplies.

Cassia County switched to commodities at the beginning of this year.

"Because of recently published reports of shortages of food," the commissioners said in a prepared statement, they requested information from the Idaho senators and representatives in Washington regarding the possibility that foods may not be available for the commodity program.

A letter received by the commissioners Monday from Mary Jane Fiske, asst. to the administrator of the Food and Nutrition Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), indicated the government would require nearly every community in the state to operate under the food stamp program next year.

Commodities, the letter said, come from farm market stabilization programs which are being curtailed this year because of the strong domestic demand for food.

Because of the cutback in these programs, the department is faced with unusual difficulties in providing a full range of foods for participants in the commodities program, Fiske wrote.

President Nixon signed into effect a bill earlier this month which allows the USDA to purchase foods for donation "without reference to surplus removal and price support operations. This should make it possible for the department to distribute a greater variety of donated food than we have been able to offer for some time," the letter said.

The same bill, however, according to Fiske, "requires State agencies to submit, prior to Jan. 1, 1974, a plan to operate the Food Stamp Program in every political subdivision of the state (unless it can be shown that such a program would be impracticable in a given area.)"

Fiske said the bill "calls for implementation of such plans no later than June 30, 1974. Therefore, after that date, it is expected that the Food Stamp Program will be implemented on a nationwide basis."

A letter forwarded to the commissioners by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, from Orval Kerchner, asst. Deputy administrator of the Food and Nutrition Service of the USDA confirmed the existence of shortages.

"The department is greatly concerned about the shortages which have occurred, and we are persisting in our efforts to purchase as full a range of donated foods as possible. However, while we do not regard the present supply-demand situation as permanent, we cannot now predict the scope or magnitude of future purchases," Kerchner wrote.

The commissioners will remain with the food stamp program "because of government uncertainties" until Feb. 1, 1974, when the situation will be reviewed.

"We urged all recipients of food stamps to shop wisely in an effort to prepare nutritious meals for their families, and we urge all merchants handling the stamps to assist in preventing stamp abuse," the commissioners said.

The commissioners also decided Monday to remove individual charges for the county landfill and cut city and industry prices in half effective Sept. 1.

Man, 75, survives fishing mishap

HAGERMAN — A 75-year-old Californian is in good condition in Gooding Memorial Hospital today after being pulled unconscious from a water falls in the Snake River Monday.

Lester A. Hoover, San Leandro, Calif., was found hanging by one foot in the Cavanagh rapids in Hagerman Valley. He was discovered by Robert Johnson, Twin Falls.

Johnson said when he saw him, Hoover was on his back, hanging head down with water eight inches deep cascading over him.

Johnson said he went to the area to fish and saw the man hanging in the falls. He made his way to the top of the falls and determined the man was still alive.

Johnson said it appeared the man had slipped on the rocks and fallen with one foot wedging in the rocks to hold him in that position.

About the time he discovered Hoover, Johnson said, he saw George Jasper of Buhl, fishing in the river a short distance away. He called Jasper to assist and the two were able to lift Hoover from the falls.

Johnson then went to seek help while Jasper administered artificial resuscitation. A group of Idaho Power Co. employees brought a litter and first aid equipment to the scene from the nearby Upper Salmon Falls power plant and assisted in getting Hoover to an ambulance. He was then taken to the Gooding hospital.

Johnson said Hoover was visiting relatives in Twin Falls and was apparently fishing alone in the vicinity of the falls, 23 miles northwest of Buhl.

Deputy Sheriff Curtis Pryor, Twin Falls county, and Deputy Sheriff Roy Boyer, Gooding County, investigated the incident.

Regional airport board sets Jerome, TF meets

BURLEY — The South Idaho Regional Airport Authority (SIRAA) will set up a meeting with a group of Jerome County residents and another with Twin Falls city and county officials next month.

The decision was reached at a Monday night meeting in Burley by SIRAA members and the group's review board.

SIRAA president George Forschler, Burley, said the authority should seek input from all property owners who would be affected by proposed Site 3 in Jerome County north of Interstate 80 I, nearly a dozen of whom were at the meeting Monday night.

The meeting with Twin Falls city and county officials would have a two-fold purpose, he said. One point would be discussion of the acceptance of Joslin Field as an interim regional airport and the second would be an election in the county to bring it into the SIRAA.

Discussions, Forschler said, should also be conducted with Blaine County officials about bringing that county into the authority.

Sam Barton of the engineering firm of Barton, Stoddard, Milhollin, and Higgins, Boise, discussed the firm's engineering report concerning the airport with SIRAA members.

Barton said his firm is still comparing wind data between proposed Site 3 and Joslin Field. The studies may show, he said, "that a full cross-wind runway is not necessary."

Barton showed the group three possibilities for the location of the east-west runway north of Interstate 80. "The location of runways is completely dependent on a good topographic map and wind surveys" which are not yet available, he said.

The best location at the site, however, he said, would be further north, because "the further south you go, the more costly it will be."

Barton's presentation Monday night, he said, concerned only site 3.

Both the SIRAA and the technical review board accepted the engineering report "realizing that a final environmental impact statement was yet to come."

Fred Isaac, airports planning officer for the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA), Seattle, Wash., said that before the FAA could approve a site, all environmental objections would have to be ironed out.

Isaac said the FAA had given tentative approval to Site 3 provided the environmental objections and the availability of air space were determined. The latter, he said, has already been approved.

The next step is the acceptance of the environmental impact statement by the Department of Transportation being finalized by the engineering firm. The statement, he said, would have to go through all state and federal agencies that might be affected in anyway by the construction of the airport, which could take five to seven months, before the statement could be approved. "Someday, the statement will be approved for some site," he said.

Only after the statement has been approved will the FAA grant a site endorsement, he said, which is a prerequisite for federal funds to develop the airport.

Funds would then be approved for a detailed master planning of the airport which would determine the final placement of the runways.

The authority discussed taking over Joslin Field as an interim airport, but delayed a decision until an opinion from Idaho attorney general, W. Anthony Park, is received. Since Twin Falls is not a member of the authority, a question exists as to the legality of the SIRAA taking over the field.

To avoid duplicating facilities, Isaac told the group, the development of a regional airport at site 3 would affect the funds available to Joslin Field, but for a period of five to seven years, Joslin Field would have to be kept up and improved to provide services for the valley.

"The instrument landing and control tower are being installed with every intention to remain until they wear out," he said.

A report from the state attorney general is also expected to clear up the legality of the SIRAA authorizing a site other than the original proposed site A-1, south of the freeway. The original interim board, Forschler said, had "proposed" that site.

The SIRAA approved the appointment of Ray Lickley, Jerome, as a member who would be affected by development of site 3, to the technical review board. C. Bruce Young, Burley, was appointed administrative assistant to SIRAA.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock prices tumbled mixed in moderate trading Tuesday on the New York Stock Exchange.

Minutes after the opening, the Dow Jones industrial average had lost 0.22 to 870.49, but advances were nearly double declines, among 427 issues traded. Investors appeared to shrug off the latest round of prime lending rate increases Monday, but watched from the sidelines as the Dow rose 7.22 to 870.71. Observers said widespread apathy, coupled with concern over inflation continued to keep volume below normal.

Early Tuesday, a number of the nation's leading banks, including Chemical Bank of New York, joined with the dozen or so other banks that boosted their prime lending rates to 10 3/4 per cent on Monday. Analysts say the rate could reach as high as 10 1/2 per cent within weeks.

However, a technical rebound, now three days old, apparently overshadowed the latest increase in the prime Monday, and allowed many depressed issues to score solid gains.

Grain, cotton subsidy elimination seen in '74

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government paid grain and cotton growers more than $30 billion in subsidies over the past 13 growing seasons. It may cut those outlays to zero in 1974.

Grover C. Chappel, head of a program analysis unit in the Agriculture Department's price support agency, predicted in an interview today that no payments will be needed next year.

Chappel said average market prices next year probably will top the target support price levels of $2.05 a bushel for wheat, $1.38 a bushel for corn, and 38 cents a pound for cotton.

A new farm law which takes effect on 1974 crops allows farmers to receive grain and cotton subsidy payments only if market prices fall below "target price" support levels set by law.

Several months ago, while Congress was considering the bill, administration experts had predicted 1974 payment costs at about $1.8 billion, even that figure would have been a sharp drop from subsidies of recent years, but Chappel said booming market prices for wheat, feed grains and cotton in recent months have sharply improved the price outlook for 1974, thus eliminating the probability that next year's market prices would be below the new targets.

Chappel said the department's most recent estimates had indicated that small subsidies might be needed next year for wheat and cotton. But, he added, market prospects have brightened since those estimates were prepared and he now believes no payments at all are likely under the regular 1974 grain and cotton programs.

There could be some small payments under a special insurance feature of the new farm law which takes effect next year, Chappel pointed out. This provision allows payments to farmers whose crops are substantially reduced or wiped out by weather disasters.

Soviet grain jump cited

By BERNARD BRENNER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite rains that have caused concern about the quality of Soviet wheat currently being harvested in some areas, the Agriculture Department insisted again Monday that it still expects Soviet grain production to show a "dramatic" jump over the poor 1972 crop.

As a result, current department estimates show Soviet wheat imports from the U.S. may fall below the amount likely to be shipped to the People's Republic of China, which has emerged as a major U.S. grain customer this year.

Reports of undelivered wheat export sales for the year starting July 1, 1973, for example, showed that as of August 3, pending shipments to Russia were listed at about 3.2 million tons (116 million bushels) while shipments scheduled to move to China were listed at over 3.6 million tons (133 million bushels). In the 1972-73 season that ended

June 30, Russia imported a record total of over 400 million bushels of American wheat, while China took only about 22 million bushels.

"Barring extraordinary late-season weather problems with spring grain crops, the USSR's wheat imports will probably decline sharply," Agriculture Department experts said in a summary published Monday by the agency's foreign agricultural service. In general, the summary repeated earlier forecasts and confirmed again that the Soviet wheat crop is expected to reach a gross-weight total of 95 million tons, about 20 per cent better than last year.

Monday's report estimated that for the 1973-74 season as a whole, China will import 3.5 million to 4 million tons of U.S. wheat and about 1 million tons of American corn. As of Aug. 3, Chinese corn orders were officially listed at only 600,000 tons, an indication that further orders are expected in coming months.

MARSHALL'S SPECIAL "85"
NIXON'S PINTO BEANS, RICE & CORN BREAD PLUS FRESH ONIONS ALL YOU CAN EAT

WITH MEAT at high prices, Marshall Pittman of Galveston, Texas is making changes on his menu and attracting attention with a familiar name out front. He reports good response on his Nixon's Special, an 85-cent combination of pinto beans, corn bread, rice and fresh onion.

Nixon special

Coyotes still sought but now without poison

(c) Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — Eighteen months after President Nixon banned the use of poisons for predator control, the traps and guns of federal agents continue to take their toll of the resourceful coyote.

In the fiscal year ended last June 30, the federally supervised control program killed some 84,000 coyotes in 15 western states — 10,000 more than the estimated kill the previous year when poisons were still the major weapon against the sheepman's number one enemy.

Despite the seemingly large number killed, the coyote is far from being an endangered species, according to James B. Ruch, who heads the Federal Predator Control Program.

"We're not going to wipe out the coyote, that's becoming clear," Ruch said in an interview.

Exterminating coyotes, in fact, is no longer the expressed goal of the government program, Ruch added. The new philosophy is to attack individual animals that are doing damage — the so-called "target coyotes" — while leaving the "general coyotes" alone.

"Sheep ranchers remain unconvinced, however, and are still arguing for a return to poisons. But Ruch firmly states that poisons are out for good.

"We see nothing in the year and a half since the executive order (banning poisons) to indicate it has had a detrimental effect on livestock," Ruch said.

While sheep losses to coyotes vary from area to area and state to state, the average percentage of sheep and lambs killed is about the same as when poisons were in use, he added.

Ruch feels that the government attack on coyotes — with airplanes, helicopters joining ground forces in the battle — probably still is killing too many animals that were not harming sheep.

But the situation, he argues, is far different than with poisons, which indiscriminately killed non-target coyotes as well as many other species of meat eating birds and animals that never bothered sheep.

"We've reduced the loss of non-target species down to practically nothing," he noted.

Nobody knows how many coyotes there are around the country, but there is a theory among some scientists that, unlike most wild animals, the intrusion of man may have helped the breed.

Cattle treatment told

MOSCOW — Cattle may be treated for grubs any time after the first killing frost, according to a University of Idaho Extension Service entomologist.

According to Roland Portman, treatment should begin as soon as possible after the first frost for maximum effectiveness. Treatment eliminates cattle grub larvae before they can develop into large, fat grubs.

Portman said treatment consists of applying chemicals to the skin of the animals by using ointments, sprays, dips, dusts, backrubbers or oillers.

There is no legal chemical treatment for lactating dairy animals, according to the scientist, since use of any of the agents used for cattle results in illegal traces of residues in the milk.

Portman also cautioned that label instructions should be followed for the chemical treatment selected.

Consumers fight to lower prices

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — Growing consumer resistance to high meat costs has sent prices plunging on the hog and lamb markets, with the happy result that prices will decline in supermarkets during the next two weeks.

Under Cost of Living Council rules, decreases in wholesale prices must be passed along to consumers dollar for dollar or cent for cent the same as increases.

Consumer resistance to meat prices is so stiff that one local wholesaler observed:

"I don't think people are going to buy much meat no matter what the supply or cost. I don't think they would buy too much beef if we had it right now."

Commerce Department figures on national food sales confirm this observation.

Food sales nationally dropped $71 million last week from the week before and down $173 million from two weeks ago. During the week ended August 18, food sales totaled only $1,999,000,000. They totaled $2,070,000,000 during the week ended Aug. 11 and $2,192,000,000 during the week ended Aug. 4.

"New York is the key," said A. C. Hodges of the Pointer Wholesale Co. "New York controls the market. If people in New York don't buy, the people out west don't know what to do with their meat."

John Shepherd, public relations director for the Safeway chain, speculates that many shoppers stocked up on meats while prices were lower, and those who didn't are refusing to pay the higher prices.

Because New Yorkers,

Washingtonians and many other people are not buying, hog prices Thursday tumbled about $4 per hundredweight on midwestern markets.

The cost of a live hog had sunk from the all time high of $62.50 per hundredweight (100 pounds) two weeks ago to $54.50 Thursday.

Meat packers were refusing to pay the high prices in the face of the strong buyer resistance. Negotiations over hog prices that normally take a few minutes were taking as long as an hour and a half.

The drop in prices means that a reduction in the cost of pork cuts will continue to show up in supermarkets for the next two weeks.

FFA award

BOISE — Clay E. Harrison, Heyburn, has been recommended to receive the American Farmer Degree of the Future Farmers of America.

Ralph W. Edwards, state supervisor of agricultural education for the Idaho Department of Vocational Education, said the degree will be conferred on five Idahoans during the national FFA convention at Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 16-19.

The degree is the highest awarded by the FFA, and the recommendation must be confirmed by convention delegations.

Other Idaho nominees are Larry A. Abbott, Meridian; Wayne Bishop, Caldwell; Robert Doig, Blackfoot; and Dan Van Lith, Payette.

Harrison is a member of the West Wendoka Chapter.

Backed by the strongest Color TV Guarantee in RCA History

Basic Provisions: If anything goes wrong with your new XL-100 set within a year from the day you buy it—and it's RCA's fault—RCA will pay your service agency its regular labor charge to fix it and make available new or, at RCA's option, rebuilt replacements for defective parts. Use any service shop you wish if your set's a portable, take it in. On larger sets, your serviceman will come to your home. Present your warranty registration card and RCA pays his repair bill. If your picture tube becomes defective during the first two years RCA will exchange it for a rebuilt tube (RCA pays installation during first year—you pay for it in the second year.) RCA's warranty covers every set defect. It doesn't cover set installation, foreign use, antenna systems or adjustment of customer controls.
