

MV survey shows slight change in beef prices

TWIN FALLS—The first few days of the thaw on beef prices haven't made much of an impact on Magic Valley prices. A Times-News survey of stores in three Magic Valley cities indicates the anticipated rise in the price of beef, predicted nationally by Nixon Administration officials, has yet to materialize.

The survey shows some prices have declined since the Cost of Living Council lifted the freeze on beef prices last Sunday at midnight, two days prior to the anticipated Sept. 12 thaw.

Some stores in Burley, Jerome and Twin Falls that did not have regular grade hamburger available last week are now stocking it, while one store which offered regular ground beef last Friday had none on sale Wednesday.

Meat department officials in several of the stores said they do not expect immediate or abrupt price changes.

Some meat cutters even predicted that housewives who filled their freezers with beef during the past few weeks may find they paid more for their "frozen stock" than they would pay if they purchased the food as needed.

Six Twin Falls meat sales counters are selling steak, beef roasts and in all but one case, hamburger at the price in effect last Friday, two days prior to price control lifting. Ham, in several stores is priced lower and bacon is about the same, but it shows the most fluctuation.

In Burley, bacon prices have risen by as much as 20 cents per pound in one store but was constant in two others.

One chain store manager in Burley said a meeting was being held in Boise by firm officials to discuss pricing and an increase might be forthcoming.

Of the six stores surveyed in Twin Falls, two independent markets and four major chain store outlets, only one showed an increase in ground beef. That was to 89 cents per pound from the lowest price last week, 80 cents.

Large stores offer from two to four grades of ground beef with regular ground beef ranging from 93 to 98 cents; lean ground beef from 1.07 to 1.09 and extra lean all the way up to 1.45 per pound, but in nearly every case, the prices were the same as last week.

Steak in one store sold at $1.59 per pound for T-bone and $1.80 on sirloin last week. It is up to $1.79 on T-bone with no change on sirloin. Other markets are charging $1.98 per pound on T-bone both last week and this week, and up to $2.29 for sirloin, with little change since last week.

Syria, Israel clash

By United Press International

Syrian and Israeli warplanes clashed in a dogfight near the Syrian border today over a Palestinian guerrilla camp, Arab diplomats and the Israeli military command said.

The Israelis claimed they shot down 13 Syrian planes. Arab diplomatic sources in Beirut said two Syrian planes were shot down.

The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv said one Israeli warplane was hit and its pilot bailed out into the sea. He was picked up by a rescue helicopter unhurt, the command said.

A Syrian pilot who bailed out of his plane also was rescued by an Israeli helicopter, it said.

The Israeli claim of 13 planes downed would be the greatest single destruction of Arab aircraft since the 1967 Six Day War.

The Arab sources said it was believed Palestinian guerrillas maintain bases near Al Mintar, a few miles from the Syrian port of Tartus, where the dogfight took place.

The Israeli command did not say what type of Israeli aircraft were involved in the dogfight. It said only that 13 Russian-built Syrian air-force

MIG-21s were shot down.

The dogfight brought to 59 the number of Syrian warplanes downed since the 1967 war, according to Israeli military records. It was the first reported loss of an Israeli plane since Sept. 17, 1971, when an Egyptian surface-to-air missile shot down a Stratecruiser 14 miles behind the Israeli frontline at the Suez Canal, killing seven of the eight crewmen aboard.

Today's clash was the first reported aerial battle with Syria since last Jan. 8, when Israeli aircraft shot down six Syrian warplanes in a dogfight.

Tax increase eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon is considering asking Congress for a temporary tax increase of up to 10 percent—refundable later—as a tool to fight inflation, the White House said today.

Melvin R. Laird, Nixon's chief domestic adviser, said a tax boost was one of two proposals recommended to the President by Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, to deal with inflation. The other proposal concerns a variable tax credit of 4 to 15 per cent.

Burns told Congress Wednesday that he had discussed the tax matters with Nixon at a meeting Tuesday and that the President indicated "considerable sympathy."

Laird stressed that no decision had been reached but added, "These particular economie tools are important and they are being given consideration by the President."

Laird, speaking with reporters at the White House, said Nixon had ordered the Treasury Department, his budget analysts and the White House Domestic Council to make detailed studies and to report back to him at an unspecified date.

Mitchell subpoenas tapes

NEW YORK (UPI)—An attorney for former Attorney General John N. Mitchell Thursday attempted to subpoena all White House tapes that may have a bearing on the federal conspiracy case against the former cabinet member.

Assistant U.S. Attorney John R. Ring, part of the federal prosecution team, said his office was asked by the White House to "quash that particular subpoena."

The disclosure was made in a transcript filed Thursday in Manhattan Federal Court of a private conversation last Monday between defense and prosecution attorneys and the trial judge Lee Gagliardi.

Colson indictment due

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The lawyer for former White House Special Counsel Charles W. Colson has informed the Senate Watergate committee that Colson may be indicted in the Ellsberg case, according to committee sources.

As a result, the committee may not call Colson, 42, a former Nixon political operative, to testify, as originally planned, when it resumes public hearings Sept. 24.

ERA ratification predicted

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—White House assistant Jill Ruckelshaus, wife of acting Deputy Attorney General William Ruckelshaus, predicts the Equal Rights for Women (ERA) Amendment to the U.S. Constitution will be ratified by the states before 1976.

Twenty-nine states have ratified the proposed amendment and the legislators of 15 states have rejected it. To become part of the Constitution, the ERA must be ratified by 38 states by 1976.

Moscow halts radio jams

WASHINGTON (c) New York Times Service

—Washington—United States officials reported Wednesday that they had strong indications that the Soviet Union had stopped jamming broadcasts from the Voice of America, the British Broadcasting Corporation and Deutsche Welle, the West German radio.

A State Department official said that Washington had received reports from monitoring stations and the American embassy in Moscow that jamming had been halted since about midnight Washington time on Sunday.

Nursing home blaze kills 9

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Nine elderly persons died today and two others were unaccounted for in a pre-dawn blaze which wrecked a convalescent home in West Philadelphia.

Fire Commissioner Joseph Rizzo said a faulty alarm system at the Washington that convalescent home brought firemen to the scene too late.

Allende faithful fight on SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—Heavy firing broke out in the vicinity of the Defense Ministry and the presidential palace today only half an hour before a 45-hour curfew was to be lifted by the military junta which overthrew the government of socialist President Salvador Allende.

The firing was launched from the Defense Ministry toward the north, in the direction of the partially destroyed presidential palace.

It was not immediately possible to determine the combatants or the target of the machine gun and artillery fire.

The firing pinned this correspondent to the floor of the UPI bureau directly across the street from the Defense Ministry and only a few yards from the presidential palace.

In Mexico City, the government announced that the loyalty of Allende, who died in the military coup on Tuesday, had been granted asylum.

Before the new firing flared in the middle of the capital, it appeared that the ruling military government was in full control of the country.

The junta took office Wednesday night after using warplanes, tanks and artillery to crush resistance by die-hard Allende followers.

Unofficial reports said "at least" 1,000 persons had not died in the revolt. Government sources declined to make even an estimate of the dead, including their casualties. Military sources said 3,000 persons had been detained in the big seaport of Valparaiso and were being kept on ships in the harbor pending investigation.

The junta announced Wednesday that Allende had committed suicide.

Gen. Augusto Pinochet Ugarte, the army chief, was sworn in Wednesday night as president of the four-man junta which led the armed revolt against Allende. Other junta members were heads of the navy, air force and national police. A new cabinet comprised of 13 military men and two civilians was also sworn into office.

The junta said Thursday it controlled the situation in Santiago, considered the last pro-Allende stronghold to be resisting the coup, where fighting was reported throughout the night between troops and armed leftist workers, both downtown and in the industrial suburbs. Spokesmen for pro-Allende partisans described some of the clashes as "virtual massacres."

The Popular Unity party, coalition of leftist groups which supported Allende, has its headquarters in Santiago. Unconfirmed rumors were rife of suicides of some Popular Unity Party leaders. Others were said to have been "executed" by soldiers—when they resisted surrender.

Military sources said "thousands" of persons were under arrest for investigation, including hundreds of foreigners who sought political asylum in Chile during Allende's three years in office.

The military bosses said Navy Adm. Jose Toribio Merino, Air Force Brig. Gaston Leigh Guzman and National Police Chief Col. Cesar Menckner were sworn in as Pinochet's deputies on the four-member junta.

The military, which toppled Allende's three-year-old Marxist regime Tuesday, barred Chileans from the streets until noon today and warned that snipers would be "shot on the spot."

(The coup brought expressions of concern and outrage from some world leaders, although most governments remained silent. The U.S. State Department said it would have no official comment.)

HENRY WOODALL
... council hopeful

Woodall to seek TF Council seat

TWIN FALLS—Henry (Hank) Woodall, who was appointed to the Twin Falls City Council in June, announced Wednesday he will run for a four-year term this fall.

"I'm running because I enjoy being a city councilman and I have the time to devote to it, having retired recently," Woodall said. He said that while on the council he has had the time to investigate most of the requests for special permits on streets, curbs and gutters, zoning, etc.

Speaking of the city's priorities Woodall said, "Whatever the people of Twin Falls think they need, then we as councilmen should strive to get it for them." He mentioned a new fire station, police building, additional tennis courts, library building repairs and continued street improvement as high priority projects.

Woodall was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Tom Nelson, who resigned when he moved outside the city limits.

Mr. T-N says: Suppose Ehrlichman, Holdeman, Stans, Dean, and Agnew decide they want to subpoena tapes?

US told of coup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States got wind of plans for the overthrow of the Allende government in Chile about 10 hours before it took place, administration sources said today.

The information was passed on to high-level officials and a decision was made not to become involved, one official who declined to be identified said.

The official said Washington contacted neither the leaders of the movement nor the government of Salvador Allende, who was said to have committed suicide during a siege of the presidential palace.

A similar explanation of a top-level decision to maintain a hands-off policy was reported given Wednesday to some members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by a State Department official.

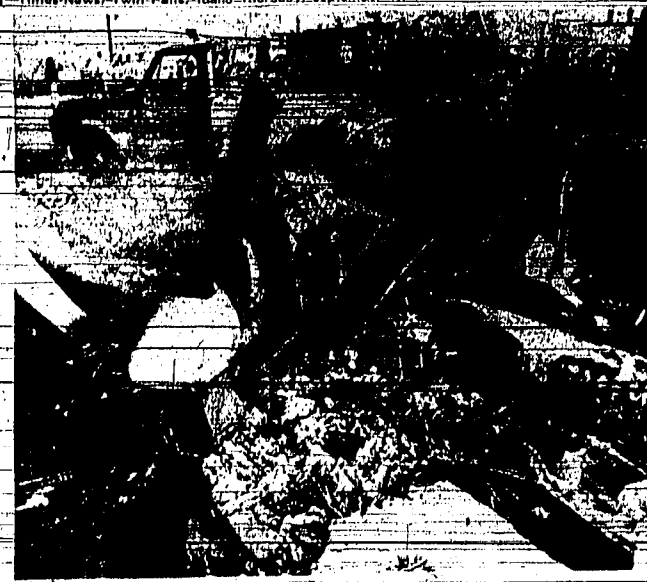

Assistant Secretary of State Jack Kubisch was quoted by one of those who attended a briefing for a small group of senators that a Chilean military officer told an American official in Santiago Monday that military leaders were planning to oust the Marxist president.

Experiment aftermath

TWO PERSONS were killed when their experimental aircraft, a Ford Pinto fitted with Cosna 337 wings, crashed shortly after takeoff from Oxnard, Calif. It was the second flight for the craft. The first is shown in photo above. An FAA spokesman said the test vehicle apparently broke up in flight. (UPI)

Narcotics bureau chief asked for resignation

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — The supervising agent of the state's drug enforcement program in Pocatello will be asked to resign, with more resignations from narcotics agents there, possible, a member of the state attorney general's office says. The announcement follows a shakeup of the Pocatello office of the Bureau of Organized Crime, Narcotics and Drug Enforcement, a year ago. During that investigation the chief agent was fired and several field agents resigned. Clarence Sulter, chief deputy for Attorney General W. Anthony Cobley, confirmed that John Cobley, bureau chief in Pocatello, will be asked to leave his post. "If his resignation has not already been requested at this time it will be soon," Sulter said. Park, reached by telephone in Seattle, also confirmed the resignation. Sulter also said some of the bureau's agents and undercover personnel working in the Pocatello area are being investigated for using coercive methods in their work. He indicated that more resignations may follow. The shakeup a year ago stemmed from abusive methods used by paid undercover agents and field personnel in their arrests. Sulter would not pinpoint the reasons for the request that Cobley resign. "The operation in Pocatello has not been effective," Sulter said. "We have had administrative problems and we don't really know who is at fault." Sulter added that there are minor problems in the bureau, which is under the control of the Attorney General's office, throughout the state. "One thing is certain, what we have been doing is not working," he said. Sulter was asked if he had any information concerning prominent citizens being investigated in the state for possible drug violations.

Appeal court hears gas rollback case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The temporary emergency court of appeals for economic stabilization matters will be considering an appeal in the Anderson case of Sept. 17. The landmark case has been brought on behalf of more than 150,000 gas retailers suing for a cancellation of the freeze or grounds of hardship and discrimination. Legendary name gone from Jackass resort

KELLOGG, Idaho (UPI) — Noah Kellogg's legendary Jackass, credited with founding the nation's largest and richest silver deposit, was shunted into history recently with the renaming of a local ski resort. The name was changed from Jackass Ski Bowl to a less colorful Silverhorn Ski Area with changes in ownership. Legend had it that Kellogg, an early-day prospector, had left his jackass to browse while he poked around the Silver Valley looking to get rich. When he returned the Jackass was eating atop an exposed outcropping of ore. The outcropping is believed now to be part of the Sunshine Silver Mine property, the largest and richest silver mine in the nation. Kellogg died penniless. Presumably, so did his jackass. But neither was forgotten. The small northern Idaho community was named after Kellogg. And up until last week, the ski resort was named for his jackass.

Moose women meet

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Cecil Johnston, senior citizen coordinator at Buhl, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Women of the Moose Tuesday evening. Mrs. Maine Wright, a member of Arts for Senior Citizens, played several of her compositions on the autoharp. Mrs. Douglas Hiltzman was program chairman. It was announced that volunteers are needed to clean fair equipment at the lodge at 7:30 p.m. tonight and at 2 p.m. Thursday. Members wishing to attend the Boise meeting should meet at the Moose home at 5 p.m. Sept. 18. There will be an appreciation dance for adult fair workers at 8 p.m. Sept. 22 at the Moose home. Live music will begin at 9 p.m. Those attending should bring a covered dish for the Dutch lunch, and should contact Mrs. John Livoly, 733-0195. There will be a record hop for the younger fair workers from 8:30 until 11 p.m. Sept. 29 at the lodge. A meal will be provided.

Fairgrounds bid doubles estimate

TWIN FALLS — County Commissioners got an unpleasant surprise Wednesday morning when they opened bids on a cover for the grandstand at the County Fairgrounds.

There was only one bid for the project, and it was more than double the architect's estimated cost.

The bid received was from Nelsen and Co., Twin Falls. The base bid was $181,747 with an additional $61,440 for coverings for roof trusses and joints, for a total bid of $233,186.

Last week the Commissioners had quoted architects estimates at about $110,000. The County had scheduled payment for the roof out of its federal revenue sharing funds.

After reviewing the bid Wednesday, the Commissioners turned it over to the Fair Board for advisement and set a meeting for Friday to hear the Fair Board's recommendations.

Asked what the effect of the doubling in price might have on undertaking the project, Commission chairman William Chauncey said, "At the present time we don't know until we hear from the Fair Board members, but at these prices we don't know yet where we might get the funds."

Commissioner Merl Leonard said the increased costs "certainly would" put the project on the County's revenue sharing funds "but I have no idea what the recommendation will be."

Twin Falls architect Ivan Stone, whose firm designed the grandstand cover, could not be reached for comment.

One of Stone's draftsmen, Tracy Hansen, said he did not want to speculate on the drastic cost jump. "Right now, we just don't really know," he said.

Draftsman John Meyer said the principal function of the covers for the trusses and joints would be to keep the birds out. He also said the appearance would be improved.

Agreement signed

TWIN FALLS — Hughes Airwest and American Airlines officials have signed a route exchange agreement said to be the largest in the history of commercial aviation.

The agreement was signed in Salt Lake City Wednesday. American Airlines stops between Arizona and Texas points, involving five cities, will be served by Airwest and Airwest stops between Utah, Nevada and California points, involving four cities will be served by American Airlines.

The agreement must be approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board before it becomes effective. The new route flights would be implemented between Nov. 1 this year and the spring of 1974.

In Twin Falls, Airwest authorities said the agreement would permit Twin Falls passengers to fly from Twin Falls to Texas points with only one plane change. They said there would be no change in airlines needed and said the agreement would also permit direct transfers with American planes to all cities the airlines serves.

TF firm seeks owners of riding lawn mowers

TWIN FALLS — Sears, Roebuck and Co. said this week it is trying to locate owners of two models of riding mowers because of a possible safety-related malfunction. The company said the malfunction could result when owners do not follow starting instructions.

Jim Willis, store manager of Sears in Twin Falls, said the models can be identified as tractor-style, electric-start riding mowers, model Nos. 536.81360 and 536.81361. The unit can be identified by the model number located on a plate next to the fuel tank.

Sears also sells a similar mower with a manual starter. This mower as well as other Sears riding mowers are not affected.

Willis said some 14,000 units in question were produced between May and August of this year. These units can be identified by date codes following the model number: PA3, DB2, DC3, DD3, DE3, AA3, AB3, AC3, AD3, AE3, UA3, UB3, UC3, UD3, UE3, GA3, GB3, GC3, GD3, GE3.

He said that a control module used in combination with an electric-start type of engine may cause a starting malfunction. This could permit the mower to be started with the transmission in gear and with the brake-clutch pedal not depressed or with the cutting blades engaged. In normal operation, the control module prevents the mower from starting unless the brake-clutch pedal is depressed and blade clutch is engaged.

The company said this mower can be started and used in a safe manner if the customer follows the owner's manual or operating manual on the unit's dashboard. Customers were also urged to contact their nearest Sears unit at 733-0021 for inspection as soon as possible. If needed, the correction will be made without charge.

Sears said it has reported the possibility of a malfunction to the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Money taken from TF home

TWIN FALLS — Darla Humphries told city police Wednesday someone took a money bag containing $120 from her home at 1116 Second Ave. E.

Officers reported Mrs. Humphries had received the money from the manager of the Maxie's Pizza Parlor in Burley and had not taken the money to the bank as yet. A juvenile came to her door, asking to use the telephone and when she went into the adjoining room for a moment he took the money bag and ran. The theft occurred at about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Hidden Economy

America's real-gross-national-product may be far in excess of the figures a host of government agencies keep tabs on.

This is because there is an incalculable volume of "off the books" enterprises operating at all levels of society — the neighborhood baby sitter, the free lance auto repairman, the hustler are examples — says Prof. Louis A. Ferman of the University of Michigan School of Social Work.

This seldom noticed economic system, which he calls the "irregular economy," is most heavily concentrated in poverty areas, where people have less access to well-paying jobs and adequate goods and services than members of society at large.

Ferman and his wife, sociology Prof. Patricia R. Ferman of Eastern Michigan University, are preparing a book on the irregular economy to be released late this year.

The existence of two side-by-side economic systems first came to their attention 15 years ago during research among 20 "hard-core" unemployed residents of the Detroit ghetto. They had hypothesized that these people would be alienated and withdrawn from society, engaged in occasional jobseeking and leisure pursuits.

To their surprise, they found that most of them were working regularly, if in an irregular way. Some were in criminal activities, such as prostitution or narcotics, but most worked at such conventional jobs as gardening, handicrafts, home repair or the selling of low-priced goods.

Further investigation has confirmed the existence of informal, sometimes invisible, occupation networks within many low-income communities. The majority of the work is not criminal, but it is illegal, since it goes unreported for licensing or tax purposes.

Jobs in the irregular economy thus offer some major advantages over jobs in the regular economy.

They are not accountable to any legal authority, since no records are kept of them. The earnings tend to be larger and more predictable since no taxes are deducted. And since the worker can accept or reject jobs as he pleases, he enjoys a control over his economic fate unparalleled by most conventional employment.

Ferman stresses that the irregular economy is ancillary to the regular economy, not distinct from it. Some goods and services may even shift from one economy to another, as liquor did after the repeal of Prohibition.

Although the irregular economy also operates to some extent in middleclass suburbs, in the ghetto it's more likely to be a survival mechanism.

It offers, says Ferman, the only means by which some residents "maintain a level of existence similar to that of regular society." It is, a means for redressing inequities.

Rafters Ring With Oratory

WASHINGTON — Well, Congress is back in town making the rafters ring with oratory about everything from detente with the Soviet Union to the need for more creek-dredgings across the land; but the big story is The Battle of the Veto.

The Democrats control both Senate and House — the latter by an overwhelming majority and some of them are talking bravely about a new campaign to override President Nixon's numerous vetoes. The facts of political life, however, suggest that the issue is not likely to worry Nixon into his grave.

It takes a two-thirds vote by both houses to override a Presidential veto. With the Democrats running the show on Capitol Hill they would seem to be in a strong position to work their will on legislation rejected by the White House.

But — stop. Although the Democrats outnumber the Republicans, 240 to 192 in the House, they still don't have enough votes to override a veto on a straight party-line tally. Moreover, a number of the more conservative Democrats tend to side with Nixon on most issues, which further pares the party's power.

The conclusion therefore seems inescapable that the Democrats seldom if ever will come up with the necessary 285 votes in the House to put Nixon in his place. Even if every Democrat votes to override, which is most unlikely, the opposition still has to find another 49 anti-veto votes somewhere. Democratic leaders admit this "probably comes under the heading of Mission Impossible.

So unless the impasse is to continue and government come to a grinding halt, both Congress and the White House must pay heed to House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass.

Tip O'Neill is not to be confused with the moderates in both parties who constantly practice the art of the possible by compromise. He is one of the most partisan of politicians, a man who sometimes makes Richard Nixon seem consumed by reason. But O'Neill can count and he is above all a pragmatist.

Accordingly, O'Neill returned to Washington with a plan that Congress and Nixon work together rather than continue a war whose casualties are vital legislation. "We've got to find an accommodation on the bills before Congress," said O'Neill. "The President lacks the votes to get his legislation passed and we don't have the votes to override his vetoes."

It sounds reasonable, because it is. Democratic leaders will be working closely with Melvin Laird, former Defense Secretary and now a Nixon counselor, and as a former member of Congress Laird has considerable goodwill and credibility on the Hill. Laird may be the only Nixon staffer who understands that a frustrated majority in Congress can get out of hand as to embark on a campaign of obstructing even the acceptable legislation of an opposition President, just for the perverse pleasure it offers.

However, there is one obstacle to the creation of a real atmosphere of compromise between Congress and the President. That is the professional Nixon haters among the Democrats and the professional Democrat haters in the Nixon administration — a group which not always excludes the President himself.

The attitude of the haters has become almost psychopathic during the past several months of the Watergate investigation. The Nixon haters see him as an out-and-out crook who should be impeached; the Democrat haters on the Nixon team see a "radical" plot by Sam Ervin, Prosecutor Archie Cox & Co. to destroy not only Richard Nixon but the Republican Party. If Congress and the White House are to work together with any measure of harmony, Democratic leader and the President must find some way to do-fang these manic obstructionists. Otherwise, the people will call down a plague on both houses.

Aborigines Provide A Lesson

WASHINGTON (NEA) — When you're in as much trouble as the "civilized" world seems to be in today, you probably ought to grab for ideas wherever you can find them. So let's go more than 11,000 miles out to the great central and western deserts of Australia, and check in on the aborigines.

It's not only far, but it may strike a lot of people as far-fetched. Particularly since I'm going to talk about some tribal rules and attitudes, and the Australian government is busy trying to de-tribalize and assimilate the aborigines.

The "Australians" on hand when Europeans discovered and colonized the world's smallest continent were a curious blend, basically black Africans in type, but showing a few Caucasian characteristics. They were nomadic, and described by experts as among the most primitive peoples ever seen.

Yet anyone who has taken even the briefest plunge into studying man's development knows that many primitive societies have highly complex social structures. Australia's 140,000 present aborigines had built such a society.

They've had some rigidly applied rules. Discover, which could — if nothing more — stir us to fresh thought on our "strangling problems."

For one thing, they shrewdly achieved guidelines which kept their population level fairly constant, and — important — tended always to keep their numbers within the "carrying capacity" of the country they roamed in search of food.

Having heard so much about man's rapacious stripping of earth's riches, it seems odd to have it alleged, as it is in a book on Australia's history, that such true primitives could develop natural concern for "conservation," a thing that in the abstract they surely never grasped.

But we have to remember that the aborigines have moved about in one of nature's harshest landscapes, a place of withering sunlight, faint sprays of rainfall, sparse, quickly fading vegetation, and elusive animals playing the same game of survival by the thinnest of margins.

How have they met this test where failure spells death? By jaylaying down strict tribal and sub-tribal food restrictions.

They put limits on their total "harvesting" of particular food resources. They decree that particular sub-groups may not, for specific periods, hunt certain animals.

Later, the "deprived group" may have their turn at the restricted category of game, while others lay off.

The women in the tribe are consistently assigned special foods.

Now, with the world's population 3.6 billion and counting, what lesson is there in the customs of a cluster of Australian primitives whose numbers don't quite match the citizenry of Portland, Maine? Well, small their numbers may be, but their old rules still hold a lesson. They learned how to move and live in a fiercely hostile environment, finding sustenance in it yet never upsetting its treacherous balance.

Through history most societies have taken from the earth as if they were manfully gutting an enemy — seeing no cost to themselves as they laid waste on all sides.

The day is late with much damage done. Still, technology, far advanced, may rescue us. It is not a murder weapon, as some say. But we have to use it deftly, harmonizing our needs with earth's realities. The aborigines know the price of survival. We can't seem to turn past the price of tomorrow's beefsteak.

When It's Us

Aviation Week & Space Technology magazine reports that the Air Force Foreign Technology Division laboratory is analyzing parts taken from the wreckage of the Soviet Tupolev supersonic airliner that crashed spectacularly on the last day of the Paris air show in June.

Parts were scooped up and spirited away by USAF intelligence officers shortly after the crash, says the magazine, before French security personnel could cordon off the site.

U. S. officials are particularly interested in pieces of the Tu-144's turbofan engines, a version of which is used on one of Russia's strategic bombers. But the missing parts, says Aviation Week, could pose a problem for civil investigators attempting to discover the cause of the accident.

Imagine the howls about the dirty Commies if Russian spies had spirited away evidence from the wreckage of an American aircraft, civilian OR military, while the bodies of the unfortunate victims were still warm.

Where Is The Year In Europe?

(c) New York Times Service NEW YORK — According to Henry Kissinger this was supposed to be the year of Europe for U. S. policy but the chances of real success are modest. Not that it isn't high time to check the erosion of Transatlantic relationships; it is simply that too many unforeseen frustrations have occurred.

When Kissinger is confirmed as Secretary of State, where he should prove especially effective — he will undoubtedly seek to carry out his original plan of gluing NATO back together. It is not secret to him that some of our partners are fed up with American unilateralism and the seeming priority of interest in China and Russia at the expense of Europe (and Japan).

But political embarrassments and procedural delays imposed by Watergate's spreading ripples distorted and weakened the original program to rectify this situation. President Nixon's hopes for a triumphant European journey have become dimmer. Kissinger's own desire to use the Copenhagen meeting of common market foreign ministers to galvanize unity unfortunately faded.

Nor is West Europe's ambience particularly propitious. Bonn and Paris are squabbling more than they have in years over the European community's agricultural policy which patently favors France. The French are reverting to nasty anti-German cracks and meanwhile Chancellor Brandt's omnipotence runs into trouble.

Attempts by the Europeans to compose their difficulties have stumbled. A trial balloon floated by Bonn and proposing a Franco-British-German summit never got off the ground. At the same time a combination of factors has worked to loosen Transatlantic ties.

The monetary crisis, primarily caused by an uncontrollable U. S. credit structure plus a sagging dollar, is not over. Many Europeans complain the consequent American export drive is at their expense. And above all it is necessary to erase suspicions that bilateral dealings between Washington and Moscow do not reflect the interests of NATO's European members.

As Kissinger clearly recognized when he first spoke of the Year of Europe, fundamental changes exist in the relationship between that area and the United States, a relationship initially formalized in NATO. For an entire generation the West Europeans have been able to focus on internal problems while relying for protection on the American nuclear umbrella.

The age of decolonization relieved them of expensive overseas ties and helped them to create a huge mass market in the European community, now including nine members. This built up their self-confidence, enabling them to speak more loudly in world affairs even if they are not yet truly unified and are certainly incapable of defending themselves. The latter weakness is obscured by pleasant assumptions that today's detente will be of indefinite duration.

Within NATO, the United States has ceased being the benevolent economic patron and is now — often at a disadvantage — Europe's commercial rival. And while it remains the latter's ultimate protector, the combination of declining American strength and gaining pressure to bring home troops worries Europeans who know they couldn't do much to help themselves militarily in a crunch.

Thus a kind of quasi-isolationist spirit on each side of the ocean is starting to replace the old twin-pillar theory which previously sustained North Atlantic hopes.

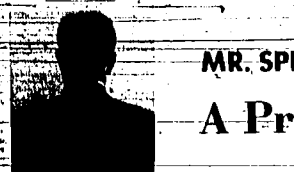

Although common ideas of freedom and civilization remain a powerful bond among the allies, they begin to find their trading interests often antipathetic, their political aims more unilateral and their common defense investment less palatable.

The consequence is a new psychological atmosphere. Wise Americans see the need to keep garrisoning Europe in our own self-interest in a world capable of sudden shifts. But this is not made politically easier by commercial resentment and diplomatic suspicion of Washington in West Europe. At the same time, while Europeans want our soldiers and missiles, they don't like helping to pay for them or granting favors to ease the American load.

The result of these discernible trends in each half of NATO is that both the USA and Western Europe are becoming increasingly relaxed toward a smiling Russia that is meanwhile arming to the teeth and tightening screws on dissidents.

Prof. Raymond Aron, a brilliant French commentator, makes this wry observation: "One should not see an adversary as a devil, but one should not see him as a friend either. Perhaps one can consider the opponent of today as a friend of tomorrow, but one should not take him as a friend before he becomes one."

A Progress Report

You might term this a progress report.

You will recall a couple of months ago the doctor put me on a diet because he couldn't find anything wrong with my physical condition and felt that he should make some such decision in exchange for the money given.

So — that's how the diet started. Well, when I was in his office I tipped the scales at 208 pounds. Today — just about 60 days later — I weigh 185 pounds. Which, we must point out, just ain't bad. But there is a difficulty. Now that I have had all my trousers taken in from two to four inches it will not be possible for me (financially, that is) to gain weight. I just cannot afford now clothes at this particular time.

And with vacation coming up can I stay on the diet? Only time will tell.

SOMETHING NICE

Something nice has happened. It has been 10 days or so since I saw an earwig. So Twin Falls is now returning to a nice place to live.

BIRTHDAY

Passed another birthday Tuesday. Which one? None of your business. But what was startling was that someone sent a box of candy over. I opened it and Mrs. Spectator said I could have one chocolate. But you know what? Before I could stop my intense reflex action, I had four chocolates in my mouth and on the way down. Diet or no diet I just couldn't help it — after 60 days without sweets of any kind.

WORDS OF PRAISE

Was talking to Ray Rostron, the top banana over at the Chamber of Commerce. He showed me a letter from Mrs. James H. (Alice) Fitzgerald of Portland, Oregon. She wrote the Chamber as follows:

"I am writing this to tell you how much my husband and I enjoyed our recent visit in your city. We were only there overnight but we had occasion to go to your main business district and were very pleasantly surprised by the landscaping and the obvious care given it. It was like finding an oasis in the desert. So many small cities are drab and dingy but yours was pleasing to the eye and yet functional.

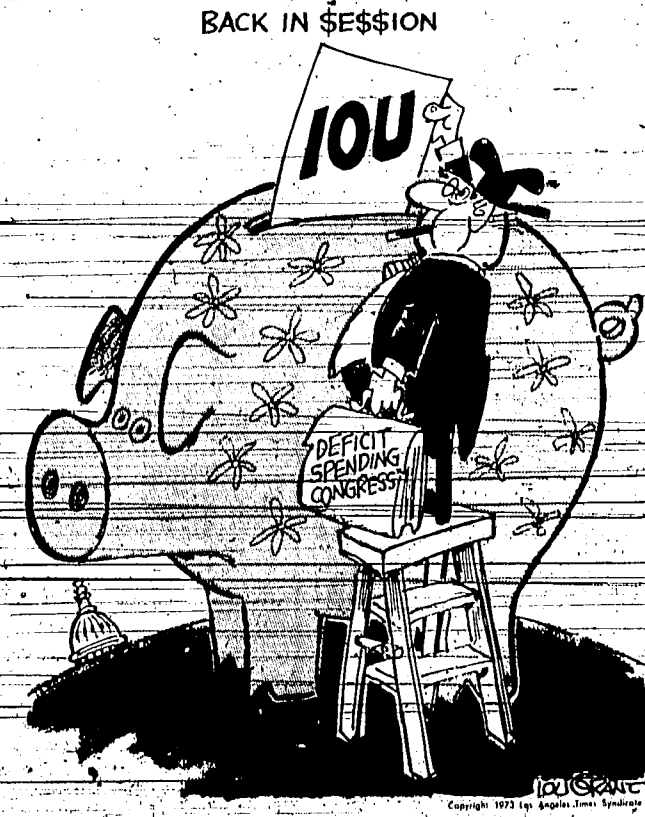

"Please give our congratulations and appreciation to your merchants, since this must have entailed great sacrifice on their part."

TODAY'S CHUCKLE:

One thing this country needs is a grocery cart with four wheels that all go in the same direction.

Id that day the Lord God of hosts called to weeping and mourning, to baldness and griding with sackcloth; and behold, joy and gladness, slaying oxen and killing sheep, eating flesh and drinking wine. Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die. — Isaiah 22:12, 13.

P plunge boldly into the thing of life! Each lives it, not to many is it known; and seize it where you will, it is interesting. — Johann Goethe, German dramatist.

Allende: serenades to dirges

(c) New York Times Service
NEW YORK — When Dr. Salvador Allende Gossens was elected president of Chile, the first freely-elected Marxist president in the Western hemisphere, senators and deputies in the joint session of the Chilean Congress serenaded his choice by raising their voices in the national anthem.

But the course of politics never runs smooth, and a vibrant chorus of opposition to his leadership peacefully rolled the harmony sounded on Oct. 24, 1970.

In recent weeks there have been almost daily demonstrations in Santiago, the capital, for or against the president. Crisis became endemic, with left-wing supporters of Allende talking increasingly of "people power" while conservative parties demanded his resignation and a military government that would restore law and order. The left saw a right-wing conspiracy supported from abroad; the right inveighed against a regime they thought was ruining the country.

Allende found himself embroiled in a prolonged politically motivated strike by thousands of truck owners — most of Chile's commerce moves by road — doctors, professional workers, shopkeepers and owners of small businesses. In a movement that Marx would hardly have predicted, the middle-classes were proving a vigorous mass force, supporting their demands with mass action.

Women by the tens of thousands paraded in protest against the coalition government.

The strikers blamed Allende's policies for rampant inflation — over 300 per cent in a year — the decline in agricultural and industrial production and food shortages. Demonstrators backing Allende accused Congress and the courts of hamstringing his efforts to reform the nation. Though the government was Marxist, the Congress was controlled by Christian Democrats and the right-wing National Party.

The role of the military was pivotal. In recent weeks the army and navy have played an increasingly independent role in crushing disorders, often without consulting government officials.

Between them the Army and Navy had long had a reputation for political neutrality, but at times this seemed endangered by the increasing politicization of the armed forces.

To restore order Allende enlisted the three commanders in chief of the armed forces and the director general for the national police into his cabinet on Aug. 9. He had moved similarly last October, but this time discord in the military came to the surface. The Air Force commander resigned, protesting that he did not have the authority he needed to settle the truckers' strike, and Allende then removed him from his command.

A large majority of the generals called for the resignation of the Defense Minister and Army Commander-in-Chief, Gen. Carlos Prats Gonzalez. Prats had defeated an attempted coup d'etat against the president on June 29, and he was reputed to be an Allende supporter. He resigned both his posts "so as not to serve as a pretext for those persons determined to overthrow constitutional government."

The Chamber of Deputies adopted a resolution accusing the government of violating the constitution and calling on the military men in the cabinet to restore constitutionality. Openly challenged, the president denounced the resolution and charged the opposition parties with "trying to promote a coup d'etat."

Allende had been elected by a joint session of Congress after winning a plurality in the popular election of Sept. 4, 1970. It was his third try for the presidency in 18 years.

compared with 35 for the runner-up, Jorge Alessandri Rodriguez. In the congressional ballot, Allende was given the support not only of his own socialist party but of the governing Christian Democratic party as well.

"We must create a new society, a new conscience, new morals and a new economy," he said when he learned the results. "Now we need a disciplined people capable of sacrifice and work."

Allende and his coalition promised a sweeping socialist program — nationalization of mines and basic industry, banking and insurance, and foreign trade. They pledged economic and social planning and expropriation of farmland in an extensive agrarian reform.

The new president, who had a reputation for tolerance, came to office after repeatedly rejecting the course of revolution and violence. "A victory by the electoral route will be difficult for us, but it is the best way by far for Chile," he had insisted.

In a nation that is 90 per cent Roman Catholic he was a free-thinker who proclaimed himself "anti-imperialist" and "anti-oligarchic." In a nation where the state already controlled oil, railroads, steel and power, he expressed the aspirations of middle-class leftists who dreamed of destroying the political and economic power remaining to a small number of wealthy families.

To deal with fundamental problems — poverty, with resultant hunger and poor housing — Allende wanted to remove what his party spoke of as "a bourgeois structurally dependent on foreign capital."

Chile stretches along a thin strip of southwestern South America between the Andes and the Pacific and north by geography nor the temperament of the people nor industrial development was she to be compared with Cuba, the other Latin-American country with a frankly socialist regime. "Chile is different," Allende insisted.

Though supported by the Communist and radical parties, he insisted that he did not want a one-party government. He did not want to replace the constitutional system — legislative power in a two-chamber house — with an "assembly of the people" that would select new supreme court judges.

A physician who had served as minister of health in a popular front government, he mixed his disciplines in forming the capitalist social structure a cause of nutritional deficiencies in the diet of Chile's nine million people.

Allende came to office despite tenacious opposition from the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, which had extensive holdings in Chile. The American conglomerate sought to bolster the opponents of Allende and to prevent his election, attempting to enlist the help of the Central Intelligence Agency. ITT offered a million dollars toward a plan to prevent Allende's victory. More recently it has been making over $80 million in compensation for the seizure of its Chilean telephone company.

Chile also nationalized American-owned copper mines, notably the giant mine of Kennecott Copper at El Teniente, and then deducted "excess profits" of earlier years from the compensation offered. Allende maintained that the United States retaliated by waging economic war against Chile, vetoing loans by international and American financial institutions.

The American official position was that Chile's credit rating was bad and that the government had stopped paying its debts.

But Allende's basic problem remained — the socialist program he favored had no electoral mandate. His militant supporters have him no respite and his opponents no relief, and the congress with which he had to govern opposed him. The opposition had the simple majority required for impeachment in the Chamber of Deputies, but not the two-thirds needed in the Senate.

After suffering the frustrations of the power that had eluded him so long, Allende was hard-pressed to see the irony of his political position — a Marxist brought to the helm by the free vote of Congress and toppled by a middle-class revolution.

Shultz says food prices will subside

TOKYO (UPI)—U.S. Treasury Secretary George Shultz said today wholesale food prices in the United States registered "gigantic declines" in the last four weeks and predicted the lower costs would eventually reach the supermarket.

Crediting the American farmer for the change, Shultz told a news conference the declines applied to a whole list of important commodities, including beef and chicken.

"In the last four weeks we have seen a great decline in those prices," Shultz said. "You can see that these declines are gigantic declines. Of course they will reflect themselves through to the retail level as time goes on."

Only that Friday, the government reported the largest monthly rise in wholesale prices since 1946, led by increases for raw agricultural products.

Shultz said then that "my instinct is that we have seen the worst of the food price problem."

Shultz, who is attending world trade talks in Tokyo, said speculation touched off food price rises during the summer and now. "The speculation has been taken out of them by the American farmer."

"The farmer has responded to the high prices and also to a change in government policy," Shultz said.

In reporting the declines of wholesale food prices, Shultz read a list of commodity prices to support his point. Shultz said in the last four weeks wholesale cattle prices dropped from $56.75 to $48.25 per hundred weight, hog prices fell from $61.88 to $45.12 per hundred weight, broiler chicken was down from 74 cents a pound to 64 cents and soybean meal dropped from $430 to $185 a ton.

The treasury secretary, in talks with leaders from other countries during negotiations to overhaul world trade rules, also said all producing states displayed a "wondering" attitude when discussing world energy shortages. He called for renewed efforts to develop United States energy resources.

He said the Nixon administration moved last year to increase food production because of an anticipated short supply.

"We released tremendous additional acreage for planting and the crops now are beginning to come in," Shultz said. "Of course it takes a long time between the inception of a government policy and when it comes out the other end."

Meat producer says prices will decline

By United Press International A leading beef producer predicts that the price of meat will start going down now that the price freeze has been lifted, but he warned Wednesday that long-term factors will probably make the price go up starting next year.

"Large numbers of cattle were kept on grass rather than placed in feedlots, so we can expect reduced beef supplies in the winter months, and probably increased prices as a result," said H.W. "Bud" Harrington, executive committee chairman of the American National Cattlemen's Association.

Harrington told a news conference in Chicago that prices should drop about 5 percent over the next 30 days because cattlemen are sending animals to market that he held back during the freeze.

Despite that, he added, the "chaotic, confused conditions" resulting from the freeze will mean an increase by January because of the industry's six to eight month feeding cycle, which "can't adjust overnight to governmental changes in the rules."

Agriculture Department economists in Washington said if feed prices remain steady there are enough cattle ready to go to market to make for a significant increase in production.

The department said the larger numbers of cattle being sent to market means live cattle prices will probably stay below recent high levels for the rest of the year.

Fugitive captured

MAN accused of kidnapping and shooting is restrained by police following his capture in Newport Beach, Calif. (UPI)

Californian arrested in kidnaping, shooting

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—A man who said he was fleeing arrest kidnaped three persons to rid in his escape but was captured Wednesday night when he was jumped by one of his wounded hostages, police said.

Witnesses said the man told his hostages, whom he stepped outside a home where they had been visiting, "I'm wanted by the police and one of you is going to have to drive me someplace and I don't want to have to use my gun."

He apparently first wanted to be driven to a nearby airport, but when police gave chase, he took refuge in an unoccupied house. An exchange of gunfire followed.

The 1 1/2 hour incident ended about 7 p.m., when one of the hostages grabbed the man from behind as the alleged kidnaper held a gun to another hostage's head.

The suspect, identified as Victor Heidlage, 26, was booked at the Newport Beach Police Department on charges of kidnaping and assault with intent to commit murder. Authorities were checking to see if he was wanted elsewhere.

Marco DeSilva, 20, Newport Beach, who jumped Heidlage as police surrounded the house, was shot in the stomach and arm, police said. Denise Baeseman, 16, Pasadena, was wounded three times. A bullet punctured one of her lungs.

The third hostage, a woman, was not identified. A policeman was cut by flying glass.

Authorities were examining all the guns used to determine the source of the bullets that wounded the hostages.

At one point, a photographer was summoned to act as a go-between when the kidnaper demanded to see a reporter. The gunman at first demanded a police helicopter with a full tank of gas and a female pilot, police said.

Students forced out of lunches

WASHINGTON (UPI)—As many as 800,000 students may be forced out of school lunch programs because of increased prices, Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said today.

McGovern, chairman of a Senate committee on nutrition, said the impact of the rising costs would be felt hardest by low and middle-income working families whose children are not covered by the low entitling students from poor families to free lunches.

He submitted findings of a study conducted by his committee staff which showed that state food service directors foresee a sharp cut in participation in their programs because of rising costs and that they fear that the increases will seriously affect the quality of the programs.

The survey, he said in a report to a Senate agriculture subcommittee, found that 29 percent of those students now paying for their lunches," McGovern testified, adding that that percentage figure represents 800,000 students.

He urged Congressional support of legislation he is cosponsoring, which would implement emergency efforts to keep financially-strapped lunch programs intact.

"Therefore, if the costs of meals rise an average of 5 percent, we may lose as many as 5

Europe, US plan readied

BONN (UPI)—Foreign Minister Walter Scheel said today a united Europe is ready to meet out a new partnership with the United States aimed at military security, political harmony and no trade wars.

Hurged President Nixon not to come to Europe merely for the "psychological effect" of such a trip, Nixon plans to visit Europe in mid-October for a top-level Atlantic conference.

"The nine (Common Market) nations are ready for a far-reaching and constructive dialogue with the United States" as a result of the recent Copenhagen conference of European foreign ministers, Scheel said in a major foreign policy address to Parliament.

"Now we can answer the questions Dr. (Henry A.) Kissinger raised in April about Atlantic relations," Scheel said.

"If Nixon should come to Europe in the near future, then the nine are ready to make a joint declaration (on European-U.S. relations). We will stress the independence of both sides in freedom, security and well-being."

"The United States needs a free Western Europe," Scheel said in his 25-minute speech interrupted only twice by applause.

"West Europe needs political and military connections with the United States," he said.

"Nobody wants a trade war. We want to reach an agreement on trade and monetary problems," Scheel said.

Scheel's speech met the effect of rejecting recent criticism especially from French officials, that Bonn was losing interest in European union. He said the prospect of "eventual European government, formerly theoretical speculation, is now a political reality."

Scheel said Europe now had "a joint list of items" to discuss with the United States and he said the Europeans expected business and not pomp from Nixon's visit.

Woodcock "still hopeful" for contract settlement

DETROIT (UPI)—United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock says he is "still hopeful there will be and can be a settlement" with Chrysler Corp. on a new contract before Friday night's strike deadline.

Emerging from an 11-hour session with top company officers Wednesday, Woodcock and Vice President Douglas A. Fraser said there was a feeling that "progress has been made" toward a new contract for 127,500 U.S. and Canadian auto workers. If there is no agreement in principle by 11:59 p.m. Friday, there will be no extension of the present contract and there would be a strike, Woodcock said. There will be 31,802 workers on the job at deadline time Friday and another 80,550 are scheduled for Saturday overtime.

Fraser said the company hasn't presented a second economic proposal since its first was rejected two weeks ago. That calls for little more than continuation of the present 3 per cent annual wage increase.

The company reportedly has put together that second offer and is expected to present it to the union today. It is expected to contain a settlement slightly above the 6.2 per cent Phase IV guideline for wage and fringe benefit increases.

Woodcock said the talks Wednesday were recessed early to allow the company negotiators "time to burn some midnight oil."

Burns backs tax increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve thinks he may have sold President Nixon on the idea of proposing a tax increase as a way to combat inflation.

Burns told the House Banking Committee Wednesday his proposal won "considerable sympathy" when he brought it up with the President Tuesday.

The pipe-smoking economist said inflation cannot be controlled solely through the tight-money policies the Fed has been pursuing, driving interest rates to historic levels and making mortgage money so scarce the important housing industry faces a depression.

Among the tax increases Burns mentioned in his testimony, and presumably to Nixon, were:

- In effect, a compulsory savings program for taxpayers. Income tax rates would rise temporarily but the government would set aside what it collects from the increase, then refund it, with interest, when the economy needs stimulation and inflation is under control.
- A variable investment tax credit ranging between 3 and 15 per cent in place of the existing inflexible 7 per cent credit. The credit allows businessmen to subtract from their federal taxes up to 7 per cent of the cost of new equipment. It serves as a tremendous stimulus to expansion at a time when many economists consider stimulation the wrong medicine.

Veto upheld

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supporters of a $185 million medical services bill vetoed by President Nixon are gearing up an effort to pass a substitute version which would meet Nixon's objections.

On a 278-144 vote Wednesday, the House sustained the President's rejection of the emergency medical Services Act. The House action fell five votes short of the needed two-thirds majority of those voting to override and was the fifth consecutive time that a Nixon veto had been sustained this year. The Senate had voted earlier 77-16 to override the veto.

The Medical Services bill would have authorized $185 million over three years to grants to communities to improve ambulance services, emergency room equipment and to train medical specialists in handling heart attack and traffic accident victims.

Violence in print

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — South African Prime Minister John Vorster today promised a thorough investigation of Wednesday's gold mine riot that left 11 black miners killed by police gunfire and a 12th hacked to death by a mob.

Police said 27 other miners were wounded in the incident.

"This matter will be investigated thoroughly and, if it is still necessary, further investigations will follow," Vorster said.

Vorster said he thought police had taken the only action possible in the situation.

The trouble at Western Deep Levels Mine near Carletonville, 60 miles west of Johannesburg, began when black machine operators demanded more pay, protesting that recent salary increases had been granted to other grades of workers at the mine.

The miners rioted, looting stores in the camp compound, mine officials said. When police arrived to quell the riot, the miners surrounded them and they opened fire in self-defense, police officials said.

Vorster said he was convinced the police acted correctly.

It was the worst shooting incident in South Africa since March of 1960 when 69 black demonstrators were gunned down at Sharpeville.

Vorster's announcement of the inquiry into the shooting quieted opposition party demands for such a probe.

On Wednesday, about 80 students invaded the Johannesburg offices of the Anglo-American group that owned the mine, carrying placards saying, "Employers' greed, the real killer."

Vorster promises investigation

Laotian military alerted

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — The Laotian military was ordered on alert today to guard against any attempt to sabotage the signing of a peace agreement Friday with the pro-communist Pathet Lao.

The more than 100,000 residents of this administrative capital went quietly about their business and authorities said all was normal.

Government sources said a new coalition regime for the tiny mountain kingdom of 2.5 million people would be formed by Prime Minister Prince Souvanna Phouma as soon as the peace pact ending more than 10 years of strife is signed at midmorning.

"I don't think there'll be any problems," the 72-year-old Souvanna remarked today as he greeted Laotian sportsmen who had returned from the Southeast Asian Peninsular Games (SEAP) in Singapore.

Tawnee Thompson, Darrington wed in temple rites

ALMO — Tawnee Thompson and Kevin A. Darrington were married in Aug. 24 rites at the Salt Lake City LDS Temple. Elder Samuel Carpenter performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald M. Thompson, Malta, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Ms. Ivan Darrington, Almo.

The couple was honored at a reception and wedding dance Aug. 25 at Ratt River High School, Malta.

The couple and members of the wedding party greeted guests before a gold-flocked background trimmed with garlands of green. Beauty baskets of white gladioli and white daisies with blue carnations and baby's breath flanked the area.

The bride wore a floor-length, wedding gown of white satin in an empire style. The dress featured a high neckline and long sleeves with lace cuffs. A beaded lace bolero was fastened with pearl buttons. Her shoulder-length veil of white net was held by a tiara of crystal and pearl beads. She carried a bouquet of white and blue split carnations with blue satin streamers.

Rosetta Ward was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Diane Buttler and Mary Darrington, sister of the bridegroom.

LaVell Darrington, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The gift table was covered with a white cloth edged with blue. Jeannette Thompson and Mrs. Reid Allred arranged the gifts for display.

Gift carriers were Valya Darrington, Carol Thompson, Terry Fridal, Chad Fridal, and Terril Peterson. Guests were registered by Mrs. Lyndell Darrington.

The bride's table, covered with a white lace cloth, was centered with the wedding cake made and decorated by Shannon Briggs. The three-tiered cake was set on a base of five heart-shaped layers, each decorated with white with blue forget-me-nots and each topped with a small cupid. The tiers of the cake were decorated with white roses and forget-me-nots. Two satin bells, glowing seed pearls and white velvet blossoms topped the cake.

Guests were served at round quartet tables covered with white lace cloths. Blue lighted candles in crystal holders centered the tables.

Assisting with the serving were Katherine Allred, Elizabeth Allred, Shannon Briggs and Kelly Briggs.

William Jones, Almo, was master of ceremonies for a program of musical numbers. Clark Ward's orchestra, The Ridgerunners, furnished music for dancing.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. LaVell Darrington, Cedar City, Utah, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Peterson, Pocatello.

Other guests attended from Elba, Malta, Declo, Burley, Rupert and Acequia.

The bride was honored at a kitchen shower given by Rosetta Ward at her home in Malta.

The couple are graduates of Ratt River High School and have attended Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, where the bride received her associate of arts degree.

The couple resides at Bridge where the bridegroom is engaged in ranching.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am absolutely terrified of going to a dentist. I know I need some work done, but I can't get up the nerve to go. The only times I've ever gone to a dentist were when the pain got so bad I couldn't stand it any more. I have faked and broken so many appointments. I am ashamed to make another one, but Abby, I've got to get my teeth taken care of.

I heard that it's possible to put a patient to sleep before doing any work on him. Could you please find out if there is a dentist near me who does this? I live in Beaver Dam, Wis., but I'd drive 100 miles if I could find a dentist who wouldn't hurt me.

'Pained' mother

Please, don't tell me to "grow up." I am a married woman with two small children who I'd have to take to the dentist with me, and I'm so afraid my fear will show, and rub off on them, too! Help me.

TERRIFIED IN WISCONSIN

DEAR TERRIFIED: I consulted an excellent Minneapolis dentist, Dr. William B. Nienaber, who suggests that you contact your state dental society in Madison. Ask them to recommend one or more dentists who use the "relative analgesia" method of sedating fearful patients, with nitrous oxide and oxygen to reduce their fears.

You are to be commended for your concern about passing on your fears to your children. Not all parents are so wise and thoughtful.

DEAR ABBY: Several of us have been having an argument which we hope you can settle. Which musical instrument most closely resembles the human voice?

Some say the wind instruments. I say the strings. Will you please ask some of your experts? Thanks.

STILL ARGUING

DEAR STILL: If anyone is an authority on music and sound, it's the one and only Herb Alpert. He says, "The cello is in the hands of the right artist."

Another music master, Lawrence Welk, says, "For the female human voice, it's the violin. For the male, the cello."

Ernest Fleischmann, executive director of the Philharmonic, Hollywood Bowl: "The string instruments, of course."

The lone dissenter, Doc Severinsen, replied, "There can be only one answer: The trumpet!"

It looks like the strings have it.

DEAR ABBY: Being a quiet, shy person, I am in

Official visit set by TF Altrusa Club

TWIN FALLS—Plans were made for the official visit of the Altrusa district governor Gladys Brewster, when members of the Twin Falls Altrusa Club met Tuesday evening at the Colonial House.

Mrs. Brewster will meet with the Twin Falls group Oct. 5 for a dinner meeting.

Norma Herzinger, first vice president, was in charge of the business session, with Virginia Baneroff giving the blessing and Faye McGuire leading the flag salute.

Committee reports were heard, with special emphasis put on the forthcoming Children's Theatre performance in October and a dinner Oct. 25 at the home of Mrs. Marie Sanders, Jerome.

Discussion was held on the workshop slated for Sept. 29 and 30 in Pendleton, Ting Hill, president, will be representing the local group at the workshop. The next meeting is set for Sept. 27 at the home of Adele Stoddard.

MV couple say vows

WENDELL—Ivy Irene Parker and Michael Robert Holloway were married July 7 in a double ring ceremony conducted by father Patrick Meagher at St. Benedict's Student Center and Priory, Twin Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Parker, Wendell, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holloway, Twin Falls. Meriam Nelson, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Timothy Smedley, Twin Falls, was best man. Ushers were Grady Parker, Wendell, brother of the bride, and John Holloway, Twin Falls, brother of the bridegroom.

After a wedding trip to Sun Valley, the couple resides in Richland, Wash., where the bridegroom is employed as an X-ray technician and the bride is a lab technician.

somewhat of a quandary about a situation that has arisen where I work.

A divorced man with whom I have hardly spoken, keeps sending me flowers [at the office] without signing the card.

I know he is the sender because I've checked with the florist. How can I get it across to this man that his attentions are neither wanted nor welcome? I have even told the florist that I do not want any more flowers from that party, and to please send them to one of the hospitals. But still the flowers come!

The situation has gotten entirely out of hand, and I'm tired of it.

I would appreciate your advice. UNAVAILABLE

DEAR UNAVAILABLE: If you want to nip the situation in the bud, tell the sender exactly how you feel. Don't blame the florist. He can't send flowers "to a hospital" when he's been instructed by the buyer to deliver them to you. What you do with them after they're delivered is your business. [P.S. The sender must be an idiot. Send him a bachelor button!]

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90049. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

When Tristram de Lyonesse arrived at King Arthur's court he had already established a reputation as the best knight in Cornwall. What wasn't known was that he also was a top bridge player.

This gave him a chance to work a beautiful swindle against none other than Sir Lancelot the first time he got into the game.

Sir Gareth, sitting East, overtook Tristram's jack-of-hearts with the queen and continued with the 10 and ace.

Wedding planned

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. DeLoe Bingham, Twin Falls, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Deborah Lee, to Scott Erwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Erwin, Paul.

The bride-elect is a graduate of the Twin Falls High School and is currently studying at the College of Southern Idaho. She is employed at the Don Marche.

Erwin is a graduate of Minico High School, Rupert, completed two years of college work at the College of Southern Idaho and attended Boise State College. He is currently employed by Sierra Life of Twin Falls.

The marriage has been set for Nov. 10.

Valley Briefs

TWIN FALLS — Daughters of Utah Pioneers Evening Chapter will meet at the home of Mrs. Lynn Pirker, 320 Teton St., at 8 p.m. Friday. All members and guests are urged to attend.

KING HILL — There will be a potluck dinner in the King Hill United Presbyterian Church on Sunday, following the services, about 12:30 p.m.

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Chapter of the Idaho Writers League will meet Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Idaho Power Auditorium. The program leader will be Olive Kelley and roll call topic will be "Campfires." Persons interested in writing for publication are welcome.

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Public Library officials have released mini-reviews for some of the new books recently received by the library.

"Chosen People" by Bernice Rubens. A gentle and loving old man lives with his son and daughter, both single, both approaching middle age. One bears the brunt of many mistakes and sins.

"Harvest Home" by Thomas Tryon. The time is now, but the secret of the perfect New England Village of Cornwall Cobbe is older than history.

"Horn" by Keith D. Mann. The time of Horn is the next decade. Its place is the Harlem ghetto. Its theme, one of black and white conflict.

"The Taking of Pelham, One, Two, Three" by John Bodey. Hijack a suburb? Absurd! John Goday gives reality to the super crime of the century involving the reader in spiraling tension.

"Cosmetics From the Kitchen" by Marcella Donna. Included here are over 70 recipes with easy-to-follow instructions for making cold creams, sun tan oil, perfume and after shave lotion and many others.

"The Nixon Nobody Knows" by Henry D. Spalding. Without a doubt, Richard Nixon is one of America's least understood presidents. Whatever our personal feelings about him, we can be reasonably sure that they are more the result of intuition than hard fact.

"Last Days of Marie Antoinette and Louis XVI" by Robert F. Pugh. A description not only of the fate of the royal couple, but the pathetic separation of the eight year-old Dauphin and his 14-year-old sister from their parents in another part of prison.

"Shy Conservative Churches are Growing" by Dean M. Kelley. The growth of sectarian and theologically conservative religious groups is moving at an amazing clip while there is an equally dramatic decline in membership of mainline churches.

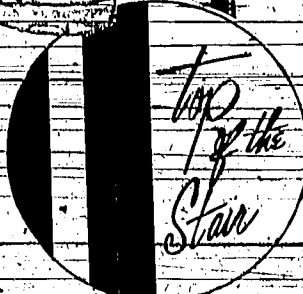

"Great Ship Disasters" by A. A. Hoehling. Colorful, documentary, dramatic eye-witness accounts with many human interest sidelights of the major sea disasters ever assembled.

"Cops and Robbers" by Donald E. Westlake. Two cops in New York can't take much more of it, so they invent a romantic dream to get rich-

TF miss, Fuhriman say vows

TWIN FALLS — DeAnne Schneider and David Fuhriman were united in marriage Aug. 25 at the Church of Christ, Twin Falls.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Don Wilson of the Gooding Church of Christ before altar baskets of pink and white chrysanthemums.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Schneider, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Fuhriman, Preston.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length French designed scalloped Chantilly ruffled splendor Bridal Original gown that featured a sapphire neckline and a bow of acetate tulle. The bride's veil featured a Venice lace flower-cluster with two tiered, elbow length, puff face veil.

Julie Schneider, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Diane Fuhriman and Danielle Ellis were bridesmaids. Beadie Biggers was flower girl.

Robert Smart was best man. Groomsmen were Kent Chatterton and Mike Pearce. Jason Keller was ringbearer. Ushers were Keith Crockett and Craig Larson.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony at the Holiday Inn. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with pink roses and sugar bells. Two white satin bells were placed on top of the cake. The cake was baked by Mrs. Robert Jackson.

Mrs. Kenneth Ellis and Joyce Mason served the cake. Punch was served by Mrs.

AEC recycling recovers uranium

IDAHO FALLS, (UPI) — Officials at the Atomic Energy Commission here say they are recovering million of dollars in uranium yearly by recycling exhausted radioactive fuel cells at the National Reactor Testing Station.

Dr. Wayne Bills, director of production materials and waste management for AEC, said a three month campaign for the experimental reactor number two recovered $12 million in uranium with a capital investment of only $500,000.

"It has to be economically feasible before we will process the spent fuel cells to recover uranium," Bills told in a telephone interview.

Bills said he did not have the figures on how much uranium was being extracted from spent cells used in Navy submarines sent to the National Reactor Testing Station near Idaho Falls.

For example, Bills said, when the AEC receives the expended cells they are sent to a chemical processing plant at the testing station where the uranium is recovered. What remains is a high level radioactive waste.

He said this waste is stored in a liquid and then stored in large, cooled, stainless steel tanks. In this form, the waste can be stored for up to five years.

Later, the liquid is put through a solidification process and turned back into a solid and stored in stainless steel bins which are stored in 50-foot deep areas surrounded by two-foot thick concrete.

"Who has the responsibility for the waste is rather complicated," Bills said, adding it was the responsibility of the AEC when the spent fuel cells arrived at the processing plant. He said it was the responsibility of the Navy reactor division before it reached the NRTS and during transportation phases.

"But the Navy reactor division is part of the atomic energy commission," he said.

Idaho teacher nominee sought

BOISE (UPI) — A search is underway in Idaho public schools for "exceptionally skillful" and dedicated classroom teachers for National Teacher of the Year honors. D. F. Engelking, superintendent of public instruction, said Tuesday.

Any classroom teacher may be considered, but nominees should have the respect and admiration of students, parents and co-workers.

Engelking said in a memorandum to school district superintendents.

"They should play active and vibrant roles in their communities as well as in their schools. Most important, is a superior ability to inspire love of learning in students of all backgrounds and abilities," Engelking wrote.

Nominations are due before Oct. 2.

Gas price hike asked

BOISE (UPI) — Intermountain Gas Co. wants to raise its rates to offset wholesale gas price increases of nearly $1 million a year, the Public Utilities Commission said today.

The PUC, which scheduled a public hearing on the applications for 9 a.m. Oct. 9 in Boise, said the gas company plans to raise its rates on Oct. 15 and again on Dec. 10 to offset its cost increases.

Intermountain Gas said El Paso Natural Gas Co., its supplier, plans to raise prices Oct. 1 and again Nov. 25. It wants increases that would produce an additional $631,130 per year beginning Oct. 16 and an additional $300,740 annually beginning Dec. 10.

Trial slated

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise man is scheduled to go on trial in U.S. District Court Jan. 2 on a charge of embezzling more than $11,700 from the Mountain Home Air Force Base Federal Credit Union.

Gordon L. Harm, Boise, pleaded innocent to all 15 counts of a federal grand jury indictment against him.

Valley Briefs

TWIN FALLS — The Women of the Daughters of the American Revolution will meet at 7 p.m. Friday at the Rogerson Roundup Room for a dinner meeting. Elma Gockley, Boise, state regent, will be honored guest.

Appalling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, today urged the Nixon administration for what he termed the "appalling" decision to impose strict controls on operators of service stations.

In a letter to John Dunlop, director, the Cost of Living Council, Church said recent figures show that the nation's major oil suppliers and refiners are increasing their profits from 10 percent to 50 per cent.

"This is happening in the midst of the fuel crisis and the inflationary spiral that the Cost of Living Council is charged with trying to prevent," Church said.

Andrus unveils recreation plan

BOISE (UPI) — An Idaho outdoor recreation plan was unveiled for Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Wednesday by the State Department of Parks and Recreation.

A major attribute of the plan was a plea for citizen input — one listing 13 ways in which the public can participate in the recreation planning process. Among the proposals were:

- A call for citizens to urge increased appropriations by their respective city councils for provision of more community park and recreation opportunities.
- Support by Idaho's local planning commission efforts in establishment of flood plain zoning and shoreline protection.
- Encouragement by the public of use of professional assistance in developing park and recreation facilities, programs or department.
- Expression of concern by citizens for federal legislation on such programs as wilderness areas and wild and scenic rivers.

Some 250 Idaho children reported abused yearly

BOISE (UPI) — A study by the state Office of Child Development indicates some 250 Idaho children are abused each year, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told the Governor's Conference on Child Abuse Awareness Wednesday.

But as far as he is concerned, the governor said, "Even one case of child abuse is too many."

"It may seem incredible that children are beaten, burned, tortured, starved and even murdered," Andrus said. "At least two Idaho children were beaten to death last year by their own parents."

"I propose to put the entire resources of the state of Idaho behind the effort to stop this sort of thing," he said, adding he will seek voluntary assistance from the news media in spreading the word.

Andrus said there have been deficiencies in child abuse reporting in the past. He said he hoped a new law passed by the legislature will help correct these deficiencies.

This law puts responsibility for reporting such abuse on any one knowing about it. It states that if the report is made without the police and in good faith the person reporting the abuse is given immunity from libel when testifying on behalf of the child, Andrus said.

The splake trout is a cross between a female Mackinaw trout and a male brook trout.

Rate hike okayed for power firm

BOISE (UPI) — The Public Utilities Commission has authorized Washington Water Power Co. to raise its rates to Idaho customers slightly to help offset research contributions.

The PUC said the increase, effective Sept. 13, will amount to about $1.27 per year for the average residential customer of Washington Water Power in Idaho.

STEVE SYMMS gives opinion

Symms against lead paint act

WASHINGTON — "I'm not in favor of babies being poisoned," emphasized Idaho's first district congressman, Rep. Steve Symms, when asked by the Times-News why he voted against the Lead-Based Paint Poisoning Prevention Act last week. "A bill supported by Idaho's other congressman, Orval Hansen."

"I'm just not sure that this bill — which requires $1.05 million — will do the job," said Symms.

"We just can't allow them to go on expanding expenditures on the idea that only the Federal government can solve the problem — which idea is a lot of hogwash," Symms said.

When asked what if local, municipal or state governments cannot themselves afford to meet the cost of a serious hazard, epidemic or natural disaster?

Symms said: "The Federal government has killed far more people than lead based paint. It has fought war after war this century."

He went on to contend: "This is an issue of collectivism versus individual liberty. It is completely utopian to think that Washington can solve all our problems."

Congressman Symms was then asked whether he thought congressman Hansen as well as Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, are "utopian spendthrift and collectivist" because they voted for the bill. Symms smiled as he replied: "I will not impugn their motives."

The Lead Based Paint Poisoning Prevention Act was passed unanimously by the Senate, but the House Rules and Bank and Currency committee, only 11 members of the house (all conservatives, noted Symms) voted against the bill.

The bill provides financial grants for the detection and treatment of children with high lead levels in their blood, as well as authorizing both research and prevention programs.

The bill also sets lead levels in paint at 0.5 per cent rather than tolerating pre World War II lead levels as high as 50 per cent, found in many areas of slum housing.

Patman also noted the Senate had appropriated $400 million in its version of the bill.

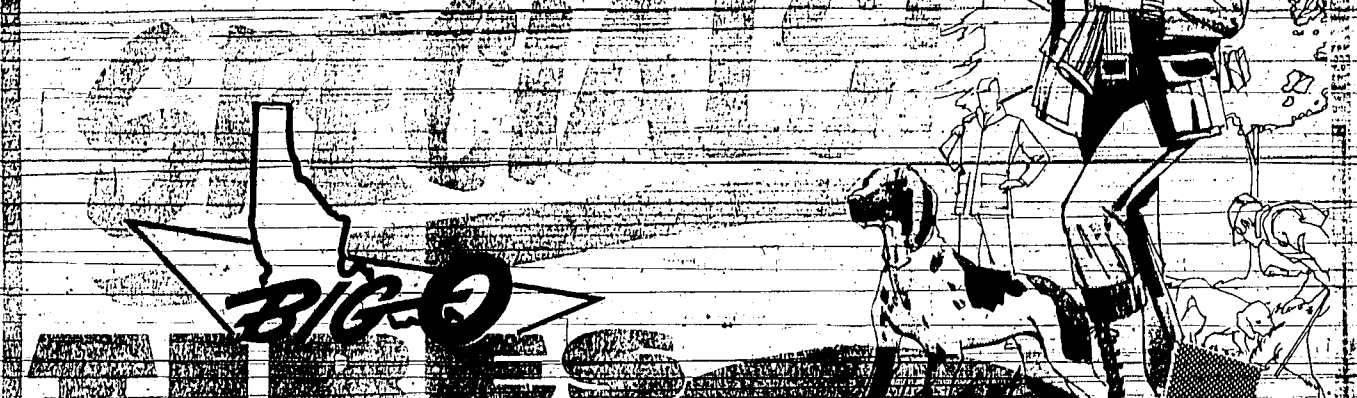

Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-New York, told the House 400,000 children are believed to be suffering from this form of lead poisoning annually and that an estimated 2,000 children die each year of effects such as mental retardation, cerebral palsy, convulsive seizures, blindness, behavioral disorders, and other neurological handicaps.

"In some cases the children become vegetables."

"Lead poisoning is irreversible at a certain stage and when one reaches that point that child may have to be institutionalized at a cost of $10,000 per year. These children do not necessarily have a short longevity. Merely assuming a longevity of 25 years means $250,000 just for that child," Rosenthal said.

Rep. H. L. Grass, Blawie, asked why the proposed expenditure for this bill increased from $7.5 million annually the past two years to $2.5 billion for each of the next two years.

IOOF meet slated

BURLEY — The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Idaho, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, is planned for the third week in October, according to lodge officials.

The meeting will be at the Ponderosa Convention Center and is expected to attract about 500 Odd Fellows and Rebekahs from Idaho as well as visitors from other states.

A special committee of Burley Odd Fellows and Rebekahs with Ted Arbogast and Hazel Janak is making plans for the event which will begin Sunday, Oct. 14. A public ceremony for awarding the decoration of chivalry to a class of members will be the opening event.

Following a dinner Sunday evening, visitors will attend a special church service at the Burley Christian Church with the Rev. Leman Westley officiating. The service is open to the public as is the installation of officers for all branches of the order Oct. 17 at the high school gymnasium.

Blaine shows decreased tax levies

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News Writer

HAILEY — A dramatic increase of about $7.2 million in Blaine County's assessed valuation this year has resulted in decreased tax levies by several taxing agencies.

The Blaine County Commissioners approved the 1973 levies this week based on a new $29.45 million assessed valuation for the county. This compares to $22.2 million last year and only about $18 million in 1971.

In spite of reductions in the levy figures for some taxing units, they will actually be collecting more revenue than last year, Nicholson said. For example, he said, the county's current expense fund received $187,250 last year on an 84-cent per $100 assessed valuation basis. This year a levy of 87.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation will bring the fund about $198,700.

Sun Valley is down 45 cents with a total levy of $1.50 per $100 assessed valuation. Sun Valley residents, however, also have a special sewer and water district levy to pay which is up to $2.10 this year compared to $1.50 last year.

Antiques loaned to TF museum

TWIN FALLS — A 91-year old bedroom set is now on loan from Gladys Stricker at the Twin Falls Historical Museum. The set was used by Herman and Lucy Stricker at the Rock Creek Store, the earliest store in Magic Valley, where the couple lived beginning in 1876. The Strickers bought the new bedroom set in 1882. In addition to the bed with a huge wooden headboard, the set includes a dresser and a commode, both with marble tops. Adorning the wall by the bed are Herman Stricker's photograph and his discharge papers from the Union Army. Mrs. H. F. Waggoner, director of the museum, said a large picture of Mrs. Stricker will come soon to the museum. Other items from the Rock Creek store on display at the museum are the "post office," which resembles a large secretary, and the Strickers' safe. The bedroom set was brought to the museum Monday evening.

Gem milk produce up

BOISE — The Idaho Bureau of Dairying reports that milk production in Idaho during July was up one per cent from the same month last year.

Total Idaho milk production for July was 154 million pounds.

Production of American cheese at 4.75 million pounds was up 16 per cent from the previous July.

Creamery butter production was down 81 per cent from a year earlier and ice cream production at 330,000 gallons was up four per cent from the previous July.

Milk production in the U.S. during July is estimated to be 3.3 per cent less than a year earlier. The daily average output was nine per cent less than in June, compared with an eight per cent decline between June and July last year.

Production of creamery butter in July is estimated to be 21 per cent less than last year and output continues to decline in all major states.

Nationwide production of American cheese was down two per cent from July last year. Production of miscellaneous types of cheese was down seven per cent from June, but up nine per cent from July, 1972.

Dairyman in Idaho received an average of $5.50 per hundredweight of milk used for American cheese during July, 71 cents more than a year ago. The average price of milk fat at $1.69 is up two cents from June. Milk used for American cheese tested 3.23 compared with 3.22 a month earlier.

For July, milk used for butter, Idaho dairy farmers received $5.65 per cwt., up 66 cents from a year ago. The price of milkfat at $1.58 per pound was two cents above June. The milk fat test was 3.55 per cent, compared with 3.40 per cent a month earlier.

Weather aids crops

BOISE (UPI) — August weather conditions generally were favorable throughout Idaho for crop development and harvesting operations, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today.

"North Idaho areas continued to be very dry and short of forage," the report said. "Dryland pastures and ranges provided below average grazing for livestock in all except southeastern Idaho."

"However, August temperatures remaining above the frost level and the late maturing crops made good progress during the month."

The report said that except for dry beans Sept. 1 crop prospects continued to place forecasted yields per acre for most Idaho field crops below 1972 levels.

Beef prices may dip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumers who have been fearing a new surge of beef prices following the lifting of controls may actually see some slight reductions by late this year, Agriculture Department reported.

And looking into 1974, experts said in a report, there are enough cattle ready for finish-feeding to allow a significant increase in production next year. The report said the increase would be possible "provided feed prices settle down to levels that cattle feeders can live with, and the (cattle) price-outlook remains favorable."

For the October-December period this year, the report said increased cattle marketings and seasonally larger pork supplies probably will hold live cattle prices well below the recent "exceptional level" of $56.50 per hundredweight for choice grade steers at Omaha.

The October-December price average will probably be about $10 per hundredweight above last fall, one specialist said, putting it at about the $46-$47 level prevailing last March when retail beef ceiling prices — which were lifted early this week — were imposed.

Corn crop may slow price hikes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department, looking at what promises to be a record 1973 corn crop, has suggested the size may be an indication that food prices will rise more slowly than in the past year.

The department Tuesday estimated that the 1973 corn crop, on the basis of Sept. 1 conditions, would be 5.788 billion bushels, up 2 per cent from its August estimate.

The corn estimate was about 107 million bushels above last month's forecast for the key livestock feed grain, and 4 per cent above last year's somewhat heightening hopes for increased meat supplies to help stem the price spiral.

A department economist, cautioning that the estimate was still tentative, said the record crop "may offer some additional hope that big price increases are behind us."

MV handicapped trained

By LORAYNE SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — There are 3,000 handicapped persons in Magic Valley, according to federal statistics.

While some of them are employed, others are merely living at home. Many of those at home can benefit from specialized training now being provided, according to officials of the Magic Valley Rehabilitation Services, Inc.

The non-profit group was incorporated last March to operate the rehabilitation training program and serve as the channel for participation in matching federal funding.

One of the reasons for incorporating a private group is that the training program includes a sheltered workshop where products or services are produced under contract and state agencies may not contract with each other in private enterprise.

"There is no use in getting a retarded person trained to fill a job if no one will hire him," according to Jeff Crumrine, director, says.

Board members currently are involved in talking to as many public groups as possible to outline the advantages, economic as well as personal, in utilizing the limited abilities of the handicapped.

In most cases the clients have multiple handicaps, since mental retardation often is accompanied by emotional and physical problems.

The main emphasis is to get the handicapped person back into the community so he can be economically independent.

Crumrine said, so the sheltered workshop, which is a popular conception to the public, is only one facet of the total program.

However, there will always be persons whose mental and/or physical handicaps preclude his being able to function in a competitive situation. For those people a sheltered workshop or extended employment where he does not have to face the pressures of the market place, is the only answer.

Crumrine pointed out a pitfall to putting too much emphasis on the sheltered workshop theory is that disabled can become production-oriented and tend to keep the people doing the best job in the sheltered environment. They permanently since they do the most to meet the production contract. This pattern violates the overall goal of getting the person back into the community, he said.

The four-phase program includes vocational evaluation, or assessing the individual's physical, mental and emotional abilities to predict his future employment potential and adjustment.

Currently 10 clients are undergoing this phase. Crumrine hopes to expand this to about 30 by the first of the year. Clients are referred to the Magic Valley Rehabilitation firm from agencies, such as Department of Environmental and Community Services and the Vocational Rehabilitation agency, but they also can come from private citizens who know of someone who could benefit from the program.

Work adjustment and training, which includes not only actual on-the-job training, utilizing "real world" situations as much as possible, but promotion of social adjustment, etiquette and personal hygiene which contribute to keeping a job. Such details as getting to work on time and being properly dressed are stressed.

The other phases are placement and follow-up and extended employment, which is the shelter concept for individuals not capable of attaining vocational skills independently in the community.

On the job training is being provided both at the former TB hospital at Gooding and at the warehouse, the firm leases at 551 Addison Ave. W. The administrative unit is located at 1061 Blue Lakes Blvd. N., Twin Falls.

Specific curriculum offered include janitorial training, maid service, food service, warehouse laborer, yardman, caretaker, woodworking, and industrial training.

Average age of the trainees is 37 and they are about equally divided between men and women. It takes an average of six to eight months time for training, Crumrine said, although each person is handled on an individual basis.

The program is operating on a $450,038 equipment grant and $1,200 minimum support agreement from the Idaho Vocational Rehabilitation service and a purchase of service contract with DECS. Under the contract payment is made to the firm only as service is provided to Vocational Rehabilitation Service and DECS clients.

Crumrine said the estimated cost for training an individual is $300 per month compared to the $2,000 cost to taxpayers for each person under the permanent and totally disabled category of public assistance. Over a lifetime this individual represents a state expenditure of $94,000, so the cost for training is a savings in tax money if the individual can be helped to become economically self sufficient.

The Magic Valley Rehabilitation Services, Inc., is planning a membership drive this fall under the leadership of Bob Cooner, Twin Falls, and anyone interested in the program may contact him or Crumrine or any board members.

Sage grouse, partridge hunting opens Saturday

By STU MURRELL
Regional Conservation Educator
The sage grouse population in Magic Valley and the Owyhee area appears to be down somewhat from the high-in '60 and '70, according to Bob Autenrieth, senior research biologist at Jerome.

Cold, wet weather during the hatching periods in '70, '71, and '72 resulted in a low survival of young sage grouse and the populations have declined during those years. This was particularly true in the Browns Bench and Shoshone Basin areas. The birds have had a somewhat better production this year but the population is still low.

Autenrieth emphasized there is still a harvestable surplus available for the hunter each year and studies indicate weather conditions are the main factor affecting sage grouse production. Loss of habitat through burns or spray projects on key sagebrush areas can also have an adverse effect on sage grouse populations. The hunter will have to work for his birds this year and they will be in scattered locations.

The season starts on September 15th as soon as it's light enough to distinguish the sage grouse and runs through September 23rd in the Magic Valley region, including eastern Owyhee County. Bag limit is three sage grouse per day and six in possession.

Hungarian partridge, quail and chukars also open on September 15th with a bag limit of 10 per day and 20 in possession. Blue spruce and ruffed grouse open on September 15th with a limit of three per day and six in possession.

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Bob Bailey led off the ninth inning with his zucker to give the Montreal Expos a 2-1 victory over St. Louis Wednesday night, knocking the Cardinals out of first place in the National League East. The win moved Montreal into third place, one game behind first-place Pittsburgh. The Cards dropped to second, one-half game behind the Pirates.

Minico meets Burley, I.F. invades T.F. in grid play

Minico travels to Burley for a traditional big one and Twin Falls plays host to Idaho Falls Friday in the Southern Idaho Conference opener and other league action comes into play during a 12-game high school schedule.

The Snake River eight-man, which plays a round robin, the Magic Valley Conference and the Little Five loop—all have games on tap.

Despite an opening loss, Minico is again slightly favored over the Bobcats who have compiled a 1-1 record thus far. The Spartans bowed to highly-regarded Highland 28-7 while Burley, added considerable luster to its laurels by polishing off Bishop Kelly of Boise 27-6.

The thing that gives Minico a slight edge was its defensive stand against the vaunted Ram offense, twice shutting the Rams out inside the 35-yard line. While Burley's defense also came through well against Minico, Coach Bob Mathews said the best thing the Bobcats had going for them was ball control. "We had it (the ball) all night," he said.

That will be the Bobcat aim

ISU seeks rebound against Hayward

POCATELLO — Idaho State attempts a football comeback against pass-minded Cal State Hayward Saturday in the Mindome. Game time is 8 p.m.

The Bengals were one touchdown underdogs last week against Montana State, but were demolished 42-7 by the Big Sky Conference pre-season favorites. Now they must come back against a resurgent Hayward team that rides on the passing arm of tiny Mike Jacinto.

Jacinto, only a junior, already holds all Pioneer passing and total offense records. As a freshman, directed Hayward to a 7-2-1 record. Last year they fell to 2-8 but it wasn't the scrambling Jacinto's fault.

ISU must bounce back from the disappointing loss to Montana State. Coach Bob Griffin draws a parallel between the loss to MSU and last year's 35-7 trouncing by South Dakota. "When we were beaten so badly by South Dakota we had to come back and prove ourselves as football players. We rejected by winning six games in a row. Hopefully we will react the same way to our Montana State loss."

"We were beaten by a real good football team. You have to give credit to Coach Sonny Holland, his coaching staff,

Colorado-LSU matchup figures to have bowl game overtones

By BILL MADSEN
 UPL Sports Writer
 Colorado-LSU. On the surface, it looks like a college football matchup just made for New Years Day.

The schedule-makers couldn't wait that long this year, however, and so the Buffs and the Bayou Bengals will kick off their '73 seasons Saturday in an unseasoned-bowl-like matchup at Baton Rouge.

Normally, the big-time schools with winning football traditions choose to put the early non-conference part of their schedules with pals, and perennial winners. So either somebody goofed on this one or else coaches Eddie Crowley of Colorado and Charlie McClogdon of LSU want to find out quickly just how good their clubs really are.

The odds-makers have installed Colorado a three-point favorite—a risky bet considering the past fates of visiting teams at Tiger Stadium.

In other intercollegial games around the country, outstanding national champ Southern California is an off-the-board choice against Arkansas, Penn State is rated seven-over Stanford, Georgia Tech seven over South Carolina, Alabama is listed 24 over California, Arizona State 10 over Oregon, Georgia 17 over Pittsburgh, Oklahoma 17 over Baylor and Florida 21 better than Kansas State.

The biggest reason Colorado goes into Baton Rouge a favorite is the return of the entire backfield from last year, including quarterback Ken Johnson and the swift running back Charlie Davis. Crowley seems to be putting up a smoke-screen though after announcing early this week that Davis is not likely to start—despite having scored 28 touchdowns in two years at Colorado.

It was Johnson who engineered a 31-21 upset victory for Colorado over the Bengals at Baton Rouge two years ago. The Buffs also feature 6-foot-6 J.V. Cain, Johnson's favorite receiver and an early-line honor for All-America honors as well as a big pro bonus come January.

LSU, as usual, is supposed to be top-heavy with defensive standouts and that's a good thing if it is to stop Colorado's multi-faceted attack.

Linebacker Warren Capone, a bonafide All-American prospect, is the key man in the LSU defensive unit.

Southern Cal, favored to repeat national champion, is not expected to have too much trouble with Arkansas. Last year, the Trojans trounced a highly-rated Arkansas team led by super passer Joe Ferguson, 31-10. This time around, Southern Cal returns much of its 1972 cast (including All-Americans Anthony Davis and Richard Wood) which went 11-0, while the Razorbacks '73 squad is comprised of 65 percent freshmen and sophomores.

Baltimore reduces magic number to 12

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Boog Powell's clutch single drove in the winning run in an eighth inning rally in the second game Wednesday night as the Baltimore Orioles swept a double-header from the Milwaukee Brewers 4-1 and 5-3 to reduce their pennant-clinching magic number in the Eastern Division of the American League to 12.

Powell's single to right scored Rich Coggins from third base to snap a 3-3 tie in the second game.

Normally, the big-time schools with winning football traditions choose to put the early non-conference part of their schedules with pals, and perennial winners. So either somebody goofed on this one or else coaches Eddie Crowley of Colorado and Charlie McClogdon of LSU want to find out quickly just how good their clubs really are.

Angels edge Chicago 6-5

ANAHEIM (UPI)—Bob Ojawa's third single in the game drove in Winston Lenas from second base with the winning run with two outs in the eighth inning Wednesday night as the California Angels edged the Chicago White Sox 6-5.

Angel starter Bill Singer had bled a 5-0 lead but Oliver singled to right and the hit brought Singer his 8th victory.

Neither Gooding nor Shoshone has scored a point this year but that should change when they meet at Gooding — providing the coaches agree to the tie-breaker. Both have played pretty well on defense but neither has been able to sustain anything close to a mark offensively as yet.

The third in a series of west-end battles finds the Valley Vikings hosting the Kimberly Bulldogs and it should be another donnybrook. Valley nipped Murtaugh on an intercepted pass 6-0 while Kimberly bowed 7-6 to the Red Devils. A break should decide this one, too.

Murtaugh and Hansen open the Road Valley Conference on the road with Murtaugh at Oakley for an afternoon duel and Hansen at defending champion Raft River that night. The third game brings Decle to Hagerman for a night battle.

In eight-man play, Richfield will be at Dietrich, hoping to stay on the heels of the still-powerful Camas County Mushers while Bliss, which shows signs of breaking out of a long tail-spin, will entertain Carey.

In a long Thursday night affair, the Castleford Wolves will entertain the Jerome Invites.

Rangers win

BLOOMINGTON (UPI)—Tom Grieco cracked a two-run homer and rookie Rick Henninger pitched 5 2-3 innings of one-run relief Wednesday night, giving the Texas Rangers a 6-2 win over the Minnesota Twins.

Neither Gooding nor Shoshone has scored a point this year but that should change when they meet at Gooding — providing the coaches agree to the tie-breaker. Both have played pretty well on defense but neither has been able to sustain anything close to a mark offensively as yet.

Royals blank Oakland 5-0

OAKLAND (UPI)—Hal McTee drove in four runs with a pair of homers and Paul Splittorff, with help from Doug Bird, snipped a personal five-game losing streak with his 10th victory Wednesday night in leading the Kansas City Royals to a 5-0 triumph over the Oakland A's.

Neither Gooding nor Shoshone has scored a point this year but that should change when they meet at Gooding — providing the coaches agree to the tie-breaker. Both have played pretty well on defense but neither has been able to sustain anything close to a mark offensively as yet.

Yaz powers Sox past NY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Carl Yastrzemski drove in five runs for the Boston Red Sox in the season and Roger Moret won his 11th straight game Wednesday night as the Boston Red Sox scored a 7-1 victory over the New York Yankees.

Neither Gooding nor Shoshone has scored a point this year but that should change when they meet at Gooding — providing the coaches agree to the tie-breaker. Both have played pretty well on defense but neither has been able to sustain anything close to a mark offensively as yet.

Horoscope

Carroll Righter

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1973
GENERAL TENDENCIES Emotionalism which is widespread today could cause a long series of adverse events, so make sure you are truly cooperative. Don't allow yourself to think about the faults, failings or mistakes of your companions, or you will have a bad effect on them and yourself.
ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) An associate and a family tie could be at sword's point, so keep neutral for now. Later all is calm and pleasant. Not a good day for entertaining at home, inviting in strangers.
TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Schedule time and activities well, otherwise if you try to do everything at once you wind up doing nothing. Don't try any tricks, either. Put your own inevitable stamp on everything you do.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Put your energy into monetary matters of importance and put off the recreational. More opportunity time. Bringing an adviser and an attachment together is inviting trouble now. Dine sumptuously in p.m.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Not the right day to discuss difficult matters at home, for there could be serious arguments resulting. Even the changing around of a piece of furniture could make tempers fly. Atmosphere is tense even in the outside world.
LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Get busy and accomplish much in the world of activity instead of fretting and fuming foolishly. Plan some time to help a good friend who is having difficulties. Consider own affairs first.
VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Do errands and shopping important now that you have promised others you would attend to. Listen to what a business expert has to suggest. Follow the best advice given you.
LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) Take care you do not sever relations with another under stress, or you could regret it later. Cool off and see whether you are in the wrong. Avoid another who annoys you and save yourself trouble.
SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Take care you do not go out on some tangent or other and leave important work behind you that needs your immediate attention. Take the exercise that will add to present energy. Evening is fine for study.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Study those interests at hand carefully so you know which to center your attention upon first and don't become confused. Show more thought for the one you love. Reach afar better understanding.
CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Delve into the responsibilities that are yours both at home and in the business world and steer clear of the recreational where you could get into arguments. Accomplish a good deal. Work with vim and vigor.
AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Not a good day to make important decisions, but fine for getting into all those odds and ends that need doing and require imagination. Have fun with mail.
PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) Being interested in whatever has to do with finances and property can make this a banner day for you. Fine day to plan repairs to property needed to make the winter months ahead comfortable and safe. Work.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those young people who has to be taught early to do any work started in an efficient way, for if shoddiness is not curbed early, the fine promise here can be lessened and the life can become an unhappy one. Teach to cooperate more with others, also, especially family and partners. The mentality here is very good otherwise and there can be considerable success, especially in the field of business, selling, etc.
 The Stars impel, they do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

L. M. Boyd
 The fatter the wife, the richer the husband. That was the way to measure a man's financial position among the wandering gypsies in Central Europe some years back. Reasonable theory was the man had to be fairly well financed to buy sufficient grub to keep a pleasingly plump girl in that condition.

What's noteworthy about September 17 is it has been designated as Expectant Father's Day.
 The primary killer in the United States, heart disease, isn't even listed among the top three fatal ailments in any country in Asia.
 Average grownup Frenchman drinks approximately 50 times as much alcohol as the average grownup Englishman. Hard to believe, isn't it? Buy up the World Health Organization.

THE ZERO
 Remember the infamous zero plane of the Japanese in World War II? How come it was so called?
 A Nothing mythical about that—was produced in 1940 which was the year 2600 on the Japanese calendar. All those planes carried either a double or single zero at the end of their model numbers to indicate the first year of their series.
 That state wherein the most quon bees are raised is Alabama.

Said Herbert Hoover of the Presidency: "A few hair shirts are part of the mental wardrobe of every man. The President differs only from other men in that he has a more extensive wardrobe."
 That a man will weigh less in Danvers than he'll weigh in Los Angeles no doubt you know. But do you know he'll weigh less in Death Valley than he'll weigh in Los Angeles, too? Anything that weighs anything will weigh less both above and below sea level.

HAPPY MARRIAGE
 Studies have shown repeatedly that the highest percentage of happily married women are those who go to the altar between the ages of 30 and 34.
 You know that familiar movie scene wherein some hungry cougar pounces upon its prey from a tree limb? Never happens like that, say the experts. When hunting, maybe it will be an ambush, maybe it will stalk. But it only goes to high perches to escape, never to attack.

Fact that the literary fellow Nathaniel Hawthorne received a letter from his wife everyday he was away from her is not the point. The point is he always painstakingly washed his hands before he read each of said letters.
 Among those famous ladies said to smoky cigars, list also Joan Fontaine, Lauren Bacall, Greta Garbo, Princess Margaret, Gloria Vanderbilt, Marlene Dietrich, Paulette Goddard and Lana Horne.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) - Prices opened irregularly Thursday on the New York Stock Exchange in light activity. Minutes after the opening, the Dow Jones Industrial average was up 0.76 to 822.60, but declines narrowly led advances, among 407 issues traded.

Investors again found the prospect of higher federal taxes and mounting pressure on interest rates distasteful Wednesday, and watched from the sidelines as stocks slumped for their third consecutive session. The Dow fell 4.4 to 811.32.

Foremost investors' minds, analysts said, was Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns' congressional testimony Wednesday, in which he said President Nixon might be inflexible to a tax increase to fight inflation. He also said the Fed is virtually powerless to halt the current rise in various interest rates, and would continue its tight money posture.

In early news Thursday, Council of Economic Advisers Chairman Herbert Stein said, "The rate of inflation will be high for the next several months, but then it will gradually decline in 1974."
