Gem board asks geothermal lease rules hearings

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — The State Land Board called today for five informal statewide hearings on proposed geothermal lease regulations that provide for leasing on a first-come, first-served basis.

At the same time, after a 90-minute review of the proposals drafted by Deputy Atty. Gen. Matthew Mullaney, the board agreed to meet next Tuesday in special session before settling on any hearings.

Dates and places of the hearings were left to the discretion of the Land Commission, Gordon Trombley. The maximum number was left open but the board specified he arranged for at least five to be conducted by a qualified hearing examiner.

After the special meeting Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park and other members said they plan to conduct a formal Administrative Procedures Act hearing on the proposed regulations before final adoption of them.

Mullaney's draft provides principally for award of leases on a first-come, first-served basis with simultaneous filings or other "conflicts" resolved by public drawing.

It does allow for discretion by the board in cases where existing holdings might make it advisable to award the lease to someone other than the first to file and for competitive auctions in areas designated as "known geothermal resource areas."

Mullaney said this will give the board the ability to deal with cases where persons or companies have done considerable exploration in areas adjacent to the land to be leased or have developed hot water energy resources in such areas.

It also will enable the state to get for itself, he said, for leases in areas known to have potential value for commercial geothermal power development.

However, he admitted the state has no land ownership in the areas so far designated as known geothermal areas by a study of the U. S. Geological Survey and the State Department of Water Administration.

At present, some 1,300 applications have been filed for geothermal leases on more than 800,000 acres of state lands — mostly adjacent to the known geothermal areas on the Snake River Plain of Southern Idaho.

Anschutz Corp., Denver, Colo., filed the bulk of the applications covering more than 800,000 acres.

Mullaney's proposed regulations would wipe out all pending lease applications, returning both filing fees and advance rentals to the applicants.

Such action would not prejudice the board, however, against accepting applications from the same applicants on the same lands later, however.

The proposed rules call for 10-year leases which would automatically renew if the lessees showed they were diligently pursuing their potential. Mullaney suggested perhaps a cutoff on all leases after 40 or 50 years so the board could renegotiate with lessees.

Leases would be for a maximum of 640 acres but no person or group could hold more than one lease.

'Keep fired ag aides'

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer
MOSCOW — A special University of Idaho appeals board has called for the reinstatement of five College of Agriculture personnel terminated because of a financial emergency, independent sources said today.

The sources said the report, written by the Special Appeals Board for College of Agriculture Terminations, recognizes a genuine funding problem at the college, but cites the procedures used in determining who would be terminated in calling for the reinstatement of five personnel.

The special 12-member appeals group received information for three days last May and June about the terminations, announced by College Dean Dr. A. M. Mullins following the State Board of Regents declaration of a state of financial exigency last April 6.

One source emphasized that while the report was not binding on the university administration, the appeal board chairman, Prof. Richard Porter, had a "verbal assurance" that the recommendations would be followed. Porter was reported teaching a class today and was unavailable for comment.

Mullins announced the termination of personnel in both the agricultural research program and the extension service. Five of the persons appealed their termination, and the appeals board was convinced to hear their case.

The five are: Gene Carpenter, and John Kolar, who work at the Twin Falls agricultural research station; Norman Waters and Charles Painter, Parma-based agricultural research personnel and Gene Rinebold, a former extension specialist based in Twin Falls until his termination became effective last June 30.

The other terminations were to have gone into effect Dec. 31.

It also is said to urge that the decision making authority within the college be spread more evenly among administrators, although it apparently makes that observation without mention of any individual's name.

Jerome addition wins nod

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer
JEROME — The Jerome Junior High School will get a metal building to alleviate classroom crowding at the school.

Acting on the request of Supt. John Campbell, Jerome school trustees authorized a call for bids for a 40-by-82 foot metal building.

It will contain 3½ classrooms plus lunchroom facilities. The junior high school falls by a total of 1,500 square feet to meet state requirements of 30 square feet per student, Campbell has said.

Campbell said the building is expected to cost about $38,000 and can be paid for from the emergency three-mill levy the district has requested from the Jerome County commissioners.

"At the present time we have 571 students in the junior high. When school first started, we had only 537 and now students have just kept showing up each day. Frankly, we don't know when it will end," Campbell said.

Panel OK's Kissinger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved Henry A. Kissinger's nomination as secretary of state today. The vote was 16 to 1, with Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., casting the lone dissenting vote.

The action cleared the way for Senate confirmation of Kissinger later in the week.

The committee endorsed Kissinger after a week of hearings dominated by questions about his role in national security wiretapping and the concentration of power in his hands when he enters the Cabinet while retaining his role as chairman of the National Security Council.

McGovern said he voted against Kissinger as a "symbolic protest" against administration policies in Indochina.

Spiro quitting? report denied

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's chief spokesman today strongly denied published reports Agnew is seriously considering resigning from office — perhaps within the week.

"It's not true, it's not at all what he's thinking and it's not in keeping with his plans to fight the charges against him," said J. Marsh Thomson, Agnew's press secretary.

Reacting to a story in today's Washington Post, Thomson declared: "I've been as clear as I could be on rumors that the vice president would resign and this report is just another of those speculative stories. He's prepared to fight."

Agnew has steadfastly resisted suggestions he might resign since being notified that he is under investigation in Maryland on possible charges of conspiracy, bribery, extortion and tax law violations.

According to the Post account, Agnew has held lengthy discussions in recent days with close friends in the Republican party. It quoted an unnamed source, identified as "a senior Republican figure, strongly in Agnew's corner," as saying he is "99½ per cent certain he (Agnew) will resign — and probably this week."

The source was reported to have met with Agnew for two hours last week attempting to convince him not to resign, but a subsequent conversation reportedly left him convinced Agnew is headed for resignation.

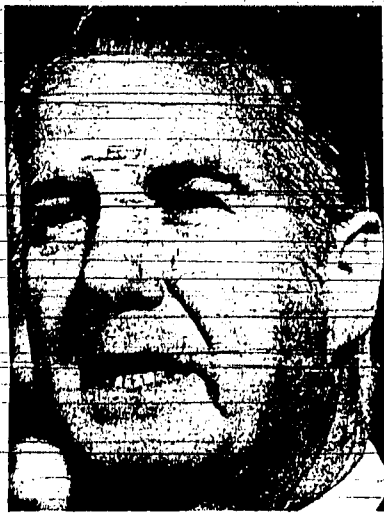

The Post reported the source as saying Agnew's supposed decision to quit was prompted by two main factors: the pressure on his family of holding office while preparing a full-scale legal defense of his past actions and the strong feeling that the White House — including, apparently, the President — wants him out.

The Post also quoted an unnamed White House source as saying: "A story that goes beyond saying he is considering and discussing it (resignation) may be beyond the facts. It would complicate things. I can't say this story isn't true — as one option. Various options are being explored . . ."

Any story predicting Agnew's imminent resignation is "speculative . . . obviously off the mark . . . not correct . . ."

The Post quoted the source as saying.

GOP National Chairman George Bush said in Cincinnati he had heard nothing about the possible resignation before he left Washington earlier in the evening. He said it "comes as a complete surprise to me" and declined further comment.

Minico restores harvest vacation

RUPERT — Harvest vacation was reinstated in the Minidoka Schools Monday in response to requests of 40 farmers.

"All students in the district will be let out of school Oct. 8 through Oct. 15 in an effort to help relieve a labor shortage for the fall harvest. In addition, students may be given an additional five days excused absence if they show they are employed.

Harvest vacation was dropped from the calendar last year because school trustees felt increased mechanization was removing the need for student labor.

To compensate for the lost school days, one day will be cut from spring vacation and school will end May 30, four days later than previously scheduled.

The district is cutting back on excused absences to increase the average daily attendance levels, according to superintendent Darrell Hatfield.

The district had a nearly four per cent drop in enrollment this year, which could lead to the loss of about $80,000 in state funds granted to the district, he said.

Burley workers draw pay hike

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer
BURLEY — Burley city employees were unanimously granted a 7½ per cent cost of living wage increase by the Burley City Council Monday night.

John Christian, head of the city electrical department, presented the council with a petition signed by nearly 60 city employees asking for the raise. Ninety-four employees were present at the meeting.

The raise, effective Sept. 16, applies to all city employees excluding the mayor and city council, who were granted raises two weeks ago.

The council is pursuing two options to bring the North Burley sewer project with the budget amount allotted for it.

Mike Angles of CH2M, a Boise Engineering firm, was instructed to explore the possibility of rewriting the specifications with an addendum for granting leeway for solving the dewatering problem. Angles will make a check with possible bidders to see if the change would bring more interest in bidding the project.

Mayor Garis Robertson, in pursuing another route, will make a formal request for more state and federal funds for the project.

MV housing quality, quantity hit

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — The quality and quantity of housing in a four-county area of the Magic Valley has been criticized in a report submitted to the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The report, compiled by the South Idaho Resource Planning and Development Association (SIRPDA), covers housing conditions in Twin Falls, Jerome, Cassia and Minidoka counties. SIRPDA acts as a regional planning body for the four-county area.

The housing report was part of SIRPDA's annual report to HUD, which pays two-thirds of SIRPDA's operating expenses.

Dealing primarily with housing for the poor and elderly, the report decries the gaps "first, between what can be afforded and the price of housing, and secondly, between the quantities needed and the amounts available."

The gaps are being "widened rather than closed," the report charges.

"Adequate housing is becoming steadily more difficult to obtain," according to the report, and "a large number of families in this region do not have enough income to afford safe, sound and decent housing, nor can most low-income families properly maintain such a home."

The minimum cost for a "modest" single family house in the area is around $18,000, SIRPDA says, "which is out of reach for many families."

No homes are available or planned in the $0,000 to $14,000 range, which low-income families can afford, the report said.

The lack of adequate housing also contributes to unfair practices by many landlords, the report charged.

"Deteriorating" housing is scattered throughout the region, SIRPDA says, although "critical concentration lies in certain depressed areas," including the East Park area in the Twin Falls and the northern part of Burley.

"Many landlords take advantage of low or fixed income people because they know nothing better is available at a price they can afford," the report states.

If more housing was available, several houses could be condemned and "the owners would then be forced to bring dwellings up to standard."

Sextuplets satisfactory

DENVER (UPI) — One boy and one girl joined their sister on respirators today, but doctors were still optimistic that the sextuplets born to a suburban Denver couple would be the first of the century to survive.

The four boys and two girls are the children of Eugene Stanek, 31, an accountant, and his wife, Edna, 34.

Both girls and one of the boys were reported having breathing problems this morning and were placed on oxygen. The three were listed in fair-to-satisfactory condition. The other three boys were all reported in satisfactory condition.

Pediatrician James Strain said the next 48 hours were important in determining the odds for survival of the babies, ranging in weight at birth Sunday from 2 pounds, 15 ounces to 3 pounds, 11 ounces.

"We're very happy," Eugene Stanek, 31, the dazed father said. "For the past month or so, we knew there would be five and maybe six."

He said they expected a multiple birth because of the fertility drug which Mrs. Stanek took before she got pregnant. The couple has one other child, a 4-year-old boy.

Engel said the odds for birth of six babies at the same time were 490,880,451 to 1. Engel, the attending obstetrician, said he knew of no other case in this century in which all six infants survived. Reference books say there have been at least 12 cases of sextuplets in the 1900s, but none survived.

"This is an historic event," Engel said. "So far it looks just terrific."

Engel said Mrs. Stanek is in satisfactory condition and "pretty cheerful. Her attitude has been just delightful."

The infants will remain in the hospital at least six weeks.

Stanek saw his six new children during the afternoon.

"They're a little thin and have some hair on top," he said. "But it's an awful lot of tax deductions."

Taxpayers to pay Seen... election bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Public financing of federal elections today picked up support from 30 senators including Republican leader Hugh Scott, a former critic who today called the proposal "our last best hope" for restoring confidence in government and elected officials.

The senators endorsed the principle of paying for election campaigns with public funds instead of contributions in a statement delivered to a Senate privileges and elections subcommittee opening hearings on the idea.

In prepared testimony, Scott said he joined with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in proposing the legislation because "it is our last hope to restore full confidence in public officials and government."

Scott said that only two years ago he believed that "merely requiring public disclosure of private contributions and campaign expenditures would be enough to cure wrongdoing."

But, referring to the campaign reporting law which went into effect in April, 1972, Scott said, "I misjudged that as much as I misjudged the deviousness of certain individuals who sought to humiliate the law from the day when it was enacted."

Congress last year provided that taxpayers can divert $1 of their income tax to presidential election campaigns in a check-off system. The Scott-Kennedy proposal would increase this to $2 and require candidates in presidential, Senate and House campaigns, beginning in 1976, to use public rather than private funds.

It would not apply to primaries. Congress would be authorized to appropriate additional funds if the checkoff did not raise enough.

Watergate is only the latest demonstration of the long-overdue need to cleanse elections of the corrupting curse of huge private campaign contributions," Cranston said.

Wild horses offered shelter in Nevada

NEWCASTLE, Utah (UPI) — The National Mustang Association has offered shelter, after a fashion, to wild horses declared excess on the Pryor Mountain wild horse preserve.

The association said Monday it has submitted a formal request to the federal Bureau of Land Management for custody of some of the excess horses.

The horses would be moved to the association's ranch at Bareilly, Nev.

The Pryor Mountain preserve is a 35,000-acre tract on the Montana-Wyoming state line. BLM biologists say the preserve has an overpopulation of wild horses, and the herd must be reduced.

Under federal law, the BLM has several options in dealing with overpopulation of the reserve: it may relocate them on other public land, enter into agreements with individuals or organizations.

Increase in taxes hit by Victor

TWIN FALLS — Nolan Victor, Idaho state chairman for the American Party, today expressed concern with President Nixon's proposal of increasing taxes to curb inflation.

He said that working Americans are carrying an "unbearable load" at the present in "trying to pay taxes to support the idle of the world and still keep bread on the table with the ever declining dollar."

"Raising taxes would be a back-door approach at the most," the chairman said. "Our political leaders need to balance the budget and stop their continual search for social programs to waste money. By so doing confidence could be restored in the dollar and an incentive given all our people to work for their living."

TF man cited by council

TWIN FALLS — Attorney John Rosholt was honored by the Twin Falls City Council Monday night.

The honor came in a resolution recognizing Rosholt's five years service on the city's planning and zoning commission.

Rosholt served as a member of the planning group for two years and as chairman for three years.

JOHN ROSHOLT honored

He resigned his commission job last month, prompted by a recent Idaho Bar Association ruling that requires attorneys in public office to disclose their clients.

(Related story, p. 11) In other action Monday, the Council:

— Interpreted the trailer park ordinance to allow the Pioneer Trailer Park at Kimberly Road and Locust Street to eliminate service buildings.

The buildings contain washrooms and restrooms that were required when the trailer park catered to over-night customers. The park agreed to stop over-night trailer trade.

— Agreed to waive the building permit fee for reconstruction of the American Legion Hall by the South Central District Health Department. The health department plans to set up new offices in the building.

— Authorized City Manager Jean Milar to apply for a matching federal grant to construct a sprinkler system at the municipal golf course. Milar will apply for $35,000 in federal money, with another $35,000 provided from local funds. The Council estimated that the $70,000 expenditure would allow sprinkling of one-half of the golf-course.

Y program slated

TWIN FALLS — The YMCA's Indian Guide program for fathers and sons will begin its fall program at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday at the building.

Purpose of the Y Indian Guides is to help busy dads get closer to their 6, 7, or 8 year old son. The group meets twice monthly in the homes of members of first to third grade boys. The meetings feature games, crafts, stories and other activities, according to Charles Upton, Y director.

In addition to regular meetings, the Y-Indian Guide Longhouse sponsors an induction program in October, a Y-Guide III-Jinks in January, a snow outing in March and a Junior Olympics track meet in May.

These special all-tribe events add to the total program for the boys. Further information can be obtained by calling the Y at 733-4384.

Therapy program

TWIN FALLS — Twelve Utah specialists spent a day observing the Easter Seal Center in Twin Falls.

Merle Stoddard, director, said the group, all from the Exceptional Children's Clinic in Salt Lake City and Utah State University, Logan, observed 18 children who are receiving therapy at the center for various physical handicaps.

The visitors, including doctors, therapists and graduate students, spent the day at the center and at the College of Southern Idaho where a video tape was played covering the training program. Mrs. Stoddard has established.

The guests observed the staff center personnel demonstrate their methods of therapy and detected learning problems among small children.

The group observed the therapy for three cerebral palsied children. During demonstrations, Mrs. Stoddard stressed the importance of inhibiting the infantile reflexes for all, not just those with brain damage. She said all children should have the opportunity to move with freedom and not be shackled by infantile reflexes which cause coordination and learning difficulties.

She also stressed the importance of knowing how the normal child develops from birth and being able to correlate the lack of development to these coordination and learning difficulties.

By being cognizant of these problems during the first year of the child's life, she said, corrections can be more easily made and the movement and learning processes will develop normally.

Mrs. Stoddard explained the video tape program used in teaching her class at CSI and explained the original is being shown in St. Petersburg, Fla., by Dr. Ray Wunderlich, pediatrician at Sun Coast Clinic and professor at South Florida University.

CSI students ask agency off campus

By BILL LAZARUS Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho President James L. Taylor said Monday night the CSI Student Senate had recommended leaving the Consumer Protection Board (CPB) at the Community Action Agency instead of on campus.

Last week the Times News reported that CSI administrators were reluctant to permit an on-campus CPB apparently for fear of alienating local businessmen.

The administration showed willingness to support the CPB with work-study funds, but wanted it off-campus with the CAA where it would not be "identified" with CSI.

Taylor said Monday night, however, that the Student Senate's vote would make no difference in the college's position.

"It's just pure and simple — students don't run this college, nor the faculty. The college is run by myself and the board of trustees," Taylor said.

"You might tell them that Dr. Taylor is not going to let the (Idaho) Attorney General's office run us," he added. Taylor said it was wrong for the Attorney General's office to have made plans with the students for the CPB without working with the administration.

David Perkins, CSI director of student personnel, is now working with the Attorney General's office, Taylor said. Taylor said CSI students are too young and inexperienced to set up a CPB. At universities and four-year colleges where CPBs have been established, he said, graduate students and upperclassmen work on the boards.

During the College trustee meeting Taylor reported the Human Rights Commission had made no contact with CSI since the commission's Aug. 10 finding of reasonable cause of sex discrimination by CSI against a former teacher, Terrill Castaneda.

The commission had planned to present CSI with a conciliation proposal within a week of Aug. 19.

Taylor also reported that the college has received no word regarding the U.S. Health, Education, and Welfare Agency's audit of CSI's administration use of federal monies for the work-study and national student loan programs.

Earlier this month an HEW official reported the agency's findings would be made known to the college the beginning of October. Taylor also told the board CSI fall enrollment figures will be made public this week.

Warnings of the domestic oil industry that the United States would be pursuing a perilous course by becoming dependent on Arab oil have been taken lightly in the past.

Libya has expropriated American oil companies taking 51 per cent ownership and announcing an increase in the cost of Libyan oil almost more than double what it has been.

There is, however, a complicating factor in the Arab oil outlook. Middle East oil may be used as a weapon against the United States because of this country's long support of Israel.

This is a real threat to Israel. The Arabs might do with oil what they have been unable to do with arms. And Israel is very aware of this.

President Nixon has warned the Arab nations of the possible loss of their Western markets, and has announced new energy policies for the United States.

With a very real shortage of heating and energy producing fuels facing the nation this fall and winter, the President has announced a policy of reducing clean-air standards to permit the use of high sulphur content coal in electric generating plants.

Mr. Nixon also suggested other steps to meet the energy shortage both now and long term. Acceleration of construction of the Alaskan pipeline was proposed as well as faster development of nuclear power plants.

He also proposed the use of Naval oil reserves in the Elk Hill field of California as a temporary measure. Suggested, too, was greater use of strip mining to get at great coal reserves in the west.

Our domestic oil industry may find it worthwhile to again take the gambles inherent in exploration for new fields.

If we are to remain an industrialized society with all the benefits and amenities which we have learned to use and enjoy the energy problem must be overcome, and it must be done quickly.

These days there is no one more frustrated than a zealous environmentalist, who cannot travel to the unspoiled regions of the wilderness because he has no gas for his car, or fuel for his cabin.

Arthur Burns, who has been described as "a swinger with the word set in Old English type,"

Meanwhile, there need be no confusion about what criterion the president will apply to determine what he considers a "definitive" decision of the Supreme Court.

Federal Judge John J. Sirica, who cracked the Watergate case originally, and whose order to produce the White House tapes bids fair to open up the President's decision-making process to public scrutiny.

And he's right. Where is Ralph Waldo Emerson now that we need him? It was he who wrote that "A foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds."

The Doctor Says

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told I have folliculitis and would like to know more about it. Is it a fungus? Can it be cured? Do certain foods aggravate the condition? — C. H.

Folliculitis is an "itis" — an infection, that is — of follicles, which are the depressions from which hairs grow. Strictly speaking, a pimple forming around a hair is folliculitis, but we don't use the term in such isolated instances. In your case, evidently some area of the scalp or elsewhere is involved.

It can be a fungus infection. However, bacterial infection, particularly the staph (staphylococcus) germ is a frequent culprit. Certain chemicals or oils that inflame the skin can be involved, too. "Barber's itch," for one example, is folliculitis of the follicles from which facial hair grows. These days barbers take substantial pains to sterilize their instruments so such infections cannot be passed from one person to another.

Treatment is usually successful — as soon as the particular type of infection has been identified. Antibiotics are used if the infection is bacterial or if it is causing some of the trouble. Medications to combat fungus are, of course, required if a fungus is the basic cause. Such medications, plus scrupulous cleanliness, constitute the treatment. "Certain foods" aren't responsible.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When I was 35 I suffered an attack of gout. Now, two years later I have had another attack. This seems to be a strange ailment and very painful. What causes it, and is there no cure for it? As I get older will it recur more often and more severely? My doctor gave me some medicine and said just eat plain food. Should I quit eating meat altogether? — P. V.

No, don't quit eating meat — but avoid organ meats (hearts, kidneys, sweetbreads, etc.). And avoid or go easy on other foods that are classified as being high in purine.

The underlying factor in gout is too much uric acid in the system, and uric crystals can form in various joints. They are, as you've found out, extremely painful.

However, several drugs have been found to be effective in keeping uric acid down to a satisfactory level, so instead of attacks getting worse as time goes by, many patients find they have no more.

For further details, including food lists, see my booklet, "Gout: The Modern Way to Stop It." Copy available in return for 25 cents and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but, regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Crippling blow seen

WASHINGTON — The recent decision to eliminate the TV blackout in cities where professional football is played was a crippling blow to those of us, who believe in the class system in America.

This country has very few status symbols. The one that meant the most to 50,000 of us in Washington, D. C., was that we could see the home games of the Redskins, while everyone else was shut out.

These of us who managed to buy, steal or beg tickets to the home games were an elite group of people admired and envied by neighbors and friends.

On Monday mornings we would come to work and join the poor peasants around the drinking fountain who were discussing the game they had either heard on radio or read about in the newspapers. Casually we would mention we had been at the game, then in that patronizing way most season ticket holders have developed, we would give them the highlights — filling them in on the touchdowns, the disputed plays and, if time permitted, a description of the half-time show.

In the evenings we would call up relatives who were blacked-out and give them a play-by-play description of the previous afternoon's contest. What better way to get back at a brother-in-law you didn't like or a father-in-law who thought you weren't good enough to marry his daughter?

The beauty of being in this upper strata of American society was that you could pass on the status to your children and their children. Since season seats are held in perpetuity, you were assured that your family would always be among football's chosen people.

When the drivers, maître d'hôtels and waiters found out that you had entree to the home games, they treated you with respect.

Since this country does not bestow knighthood on its favored citizens, the only way anyone had of knowing who rated in our society was through the annual printed lists of those who were season ticket holders.

The TV blackout engendered pride in local neighborhoods. People used to point out the houses of those who got to see the home games. In school, children of season ticket holders were given favored treatment by the teachers (in hopes that someday a father might invite the teacher to a game).

There was no problem with credit if you could show that you were one of the honored 50,000 ticket holders.

Obviously anyone who had the clout to see a professional football game at home was a good risk for any bank or department store.

Don't get the idea it was all peaches and cream though. As a season ticket holder you were obligated to contribute heavily to charity, usually to a man who stood at one of the main gates of the stadium. And you were expected to appear in all sorts of weather. As part of the elite class, you had been an example to the less fortunate people in the country who were afraid of going out in the rain and the snow.

Season ticket holders were noted for their chivalry, good deeds and compassion for their blacked-out fellow men.

But now, thanks to a cantankerous Congress, the ball game is over. With one stroke of the pen the President of the United States has wiped out the last vestige of status in this country. He has destroyed our finest privileged class and now made it possible for any Tom, Dick and Harry with a TV set to see football that heretofore was played only for those few of us who really understood the game.

Who says socialism hasn't come to America?

By ROBERT GRUENBERG

(c) Chicago Daily News BUENOS AIRES. — A mood of ill-concealed hostility toward Americans pervades this capital, the closest one to Santiago, Chile, where less than a week ago Salvador Allende's first Socialist experiment on the South American continent was extinguished, along with his life.

Always subject to blame for the myriad of Latin crises, the United States quickly became singled out again when it was admitted by the U.S. State Department that the American Embassy in Santiago received reports beforehand that a military coup was about to take place.

The failure to inform the Chilean government has only embittered the fact. While no polls have been made public, it is probably a truism that a preponderant number of Argentinians — and other Latin-Americans, as well — are convinced not only of the US willingness to let last week's events play to their (ateful end, but had a hand in it as well.

The greater the denials by the Americans, the more rigid the belief.

Crowds gather here on attractive Avenida Florida to argue in front of newspaper offices where the latest photos and news bulletins are displayed of the events in the Chilean capital, only 750 miles away. Castigation of "Yankee imperialism's" newest "dirty deal" is not hard to overhear.

An American, always distinguished somehow from the rest of the public, carries on his discussion against counter-arguments laced with malice. And falling that, there are always the demonstrations to remind a Yankee of his place.

A few days ago several thousand Peronist youths — intent on demonstrating in front of the steel-shuttered US Embassy — were persuaded by police just to march past it, instead. They did, shaking their fists, whistling and jeering, shouting obscenities at those in the embassy windows. And reserved the biggest cheer when a US Marine hauled in the American flag at dusk. On Sunday, the First National City Bank branch here was damaged when "people's revolutionary army" activists attacked the building with machineguns and firebombs.

Ex-Dictator Juan Domingo Peron, who by all odds will be elected to run the country again, has fanned the sentiment. He blamed the United States openly in statements of sympathy and pity — mixed generously together — for the death of Allende. Those who have studied him over the years are not so sure that, secretly, he is so unhappy.

At the same time the Chilean coup d'etat has presented him with a geopolitical problem.

Argentina, the curious Populist-Socialist-Capitalist-Peronist State, is now surrounded by conservative, right-wing military dictatorships: Uruguay, Brazil, Paraguay, Bolivia and, now, Chile. It has been compared by some political observers to the situation in 1910 when Argentina led the independence struggle amid states still under the Spanish and Portuguese yoke.

Meanwhile, the Chilean explosion, while disheartening for the moment to the left-wing movements of Latin America, carries with it the further stoking of the "National Liberation" fires. In turn there will be further measures against the movements.

This, it is believed by students of revolution, will be especially true if the generals in Santiago fall to pull things together in reasonable time, and turn the clock too far back to undo many of the Allende reforms.

It is a formidable task the generals face. Some 40 per cent of the population supported Allende — more, on such issues as nationalization of copper and other foreign-owned mining interests — and it is unknown still whether complete control of the country and its production is in the hands of the military, or is limited to the Santiago area.

There are persistent, but unconfirmed reports of resistance in the industrialized Allende bastions such as Valparaiso, the port for Santiago, and Concepcion, 350 miles to the south of the capital.

But the news filtering through the few Santiago telephone wires to the hundreds of newsmen waiting for planes to take them to the still-closed airport of Chile's capital, is sketchy.

The military junta is reported to have executed at least three persons said to have attempted to "sabotage" the new regime — in Valparaiso, at Punta Alto, 20 miles from Santiago, and in the far northern, industrial port city of Antofagasta, nearly 800 miles from the capital. The Antofagasta victim reportedly was a militiaman accused of assassinating two superior officers.

Estimates of the dead so far range between 500 and 2,000, and up to 20,000 a figure reported in the more sensational press.

In addition, thousands of political prisoners are reported held — in Stadia as well as on ships in Valparaiso's harbor. Fifty students at Santiago's College of Fine Arts were arrested after a battle after the reported shooting of two policemen.

The junta said more than 15,000 foreigners, the majority, extremists, have been found. These include 4,187 Bolivians, 3,266 Uruguayans, 2,139 Argentinians, 987 Cubans, 588 Colombians and 148 Mexicans. Their fate was not immediately known here. The Chilean public has been urged by the junta to report the presence of foreign "extremists."

The 57-year old leader of the junta, Gen. Augusto Pinochet Ugasta, promised in weekend TV interview that the nation would return to its traditional democracy once everything is normalized.

This will require an "orderly completion of two problems: return of the country to tranquility" and achieving recovery by applying social, economic and political plans.

Watergate: D.C. political climate changes

By JAMES M. NAUGHTON (c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — The Senate Watergate Committee's decision to abbreviate public hearings on 1972 presidential campaign sabotage and spending and to terminate the inquiry as soon as possible is a highly significant reflection of a change in the legal and political climate of Washington.

The seven Watergate committee senators had proclaimed their determination in May to ferret out the facts about the campaign scandal. Now they seem willing, perhaps eager, to turn over the responsibility and the center of attention to the special prosecutors under Archibald Cox.

The function of the Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities the panel is called formally, was to recommend legislation to deal with the excesses represented by Watergate. Yet its members voted unanimously Wednesday to hear only the "very highly relevant" witnesses whose testimony about political "dirty tricks" or financial manipulations ought to provide the clues to corrective legislation.

The committee devoted 37 days on national television to delving into details of the Watergate break-in and cover-up before recessing the hearings on Aug. 7. Yet it plans only 18 more hearing days — between Sept. 24 and Nov. 1 — to complete that first phase of the inquiry and to examine the more complex subjects of political sabotage and campaign contributions.

"I think that the function of the committee is to reveal the broad outline of what it finds in the other two phases," Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., of North Carolina, the Democratic chairman, said.

The decision has unnerved several of the committee staff members who had counted on more time to present their case to the committee and the national audience and prompted John W. Gardner of Common Cause, the citizens lobby, to express "gravest apprehension" that the criminal wrongdoing involved in the Watergate and associated legal cases.

One of the senate investigators complained a few days ago, for example, that the committee staff had been unable to determine the origin of an apparently spurious letter to the Manchester (N. H.) Union-Leader that accused Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, of a slur on an ethnic group making up a large segment of the New Hampshire electorate in the presidential primary last year. But the senate investigator added that he believed Cox's staff had located the author of the fake letter.

Similarly, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., declared Wednesday he would no longer insist that the Department of Justice turn over records on the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. antitrust cases as a prelude to confirmation of William D. Ruckelshaus as deputy attorney general.

His reason? Cox had assured Kennedy "he believed the nominee had performed his responsibility fully and thoroughly" as the acting director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

One of the principal, but unannounced, factors that led to the Senate panel's decision to delay the Watergate hearings until Sept. 24 was a warning that Charles W. Colson, the former White House special counsel, might decline to appear as the leadoff witness until he learned whether he would be indicted by a federal grand jury.

Several members of the Watergate committee staff said privately that they were dubious of the merits of Colson's plea to be excused from giving public testimony. But the senators delayed calling Colson because, as one of the aides stated, they did not want to run the risk of jeopardizing Cox's case by giving Colson ground to argue that pretrial publicity had damaged his legal position.

At least as significant as these shifts in the legal climate here were the political considerations that were said to have affected the Watergate committee's judgment about the continuation of the inquiry.

One knowledgeable associate of the Watergate senators said a few days ago that there were four basic political considerations involved in the decision to hasten the hearings to a conclusion:

— Concern that continued public dissection of the Nixon White House would produce a "backlash" against the committee.

— A possibility that prolonged hearings would foster a belief that "all politicians are crooked."

Recognition of some complaints that the senators were devoting insufficient attention to home-state matters.

— Warnings that the campaign finance hearings in particular might produce embarrassing references to the senators or their colleagues.

Citing a "hypothetical" possibility, the associate said that a witness might go before the Senators and say that he had donated, say, $50,000 to Nixon's re-election committee from a secret Swiss bank account.

"But what if he said he had drawn $100,000 from the account?" The official went on. "It might be embarrassing to find out where the other half went."

250 arrests: "I'm the boss"

By DONALD THORNTON
SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Robert H. Simpson, dean of California statehouse protesters, who at the age of 93 has been arrested more than 250 times, believes he has his old adversary, Gov. Ronald Reagan, just where he wants him.

"He's on the hot seat and I'll keep the guy there," Simpson said Sunday in an interview. "He's not the boss — I'm the boss now."

The frail but feisty Simpson, who has been patrolling the capitol halls with his portable walking chair since 1966 denouncing a number of politicians, is the cause celebre behind much debated legislation now on Reagan's desk.

The bill, which received full legislative passage last week as the legislature hurried toward adjournment, repeals an anti-picketing measure signed into law by Reagan in 1969 aimed directly at Simpson's salty picket signs.

"I have him just where I want him now," said the old, gray-haired man. "If he signs this bill, it will show he was wrong before when he approved the original legislation. If he votes it, I can accuse him of violating civil rights. His choice damns him."

"I'll be here everyday, whether or not he signs it. It's just fun for me to go to jail. I've worked seven years to establish the right to complain and I'll work seven more when you can't complain, you're lost."

Simpson began his career as "muckraker-in-chief" of the capitol in 1966. He contends his is "not pitched politically."

In a routine that is nearly ritualized, state police arrest and escort him to the city jail. He is then released and the complaint dropped. He immediately returns to his capitol patrolling.

Reagan, considered a top contender for the Republican presidential nomination in 1976, is expected to take action on the bill sometime this week.

There is no indication which way he will go.

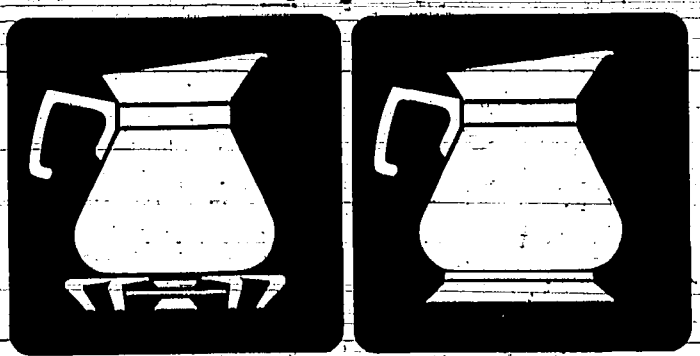

"Simpson, who lives near the capitol in a hotel on $200 a month in social security and "some savings," is undaunted in his wait for the Governor to act.

"No matter what he does he's on my griddle and until he takes action I'll make them arrest me twice a day," he said.

"The only thing I'm fighting for is the right to complain," the old man added. "Complaint is your only safeguard. Congress should pass no law to abridge this right, like these guys did — but I've beaten them."

Former CIA agent asks plea change

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Howard Hunt Jr., the former CIA agent and spy novelist who pleaded guilty in the Watergate burglary, now wants to change that plea to innocent, saying it was "coerced" from him by "outrageous" government conduct.

Hunt's lawyers Monday asked U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to allow him to change his plea and to dismiss the charges of conspiracy, burglary, bugging and wiretapping on which he is now serving a provisional sentence of 35 years in a federal prison at Danbury, Conn.

His attorneys argued that he should be allowed to change his plea because the government "suborned and concealed perjury" broke into his White House safe and destroyed evidence that might have helped him.

They also argued that the burglary and bugging of Democratic headquarters at the Watergate June 17, 1972, "flowed directly and lawfully from the President's office" and was justified by national security, or that Hunt at least thought it was and therefore lacked criminal intent.

Another development: The Senate Watergate committee meets in private today to plan its next round of hearings beginning next Monday.

Donald H. Segretti, a 32-year-old California lawyer, agreed Monday to plead guilty to a new, four-count indictment in Florida, accusing him of conspiracy and illegal distribution of anti-Democratic campaign material.

Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., said officials of the Treasury Department, which operates the Secret Service, invoked the doctrine of executive privilege and refused to "confirm or deny" to him a newspaper report that President Nixon's brother, Donald, was wiretapped by agents.

Hunt's petition, similar to one filed recently by four Miami defendants who also had pleaded guilty in the case, claimed that his constitutional rights "were violated by the outrageous conduct of the government in depriving him of valuable evidence."

It said two of his notebooks "disappeared" and cited the removal of papers from his safe and their subsequent destruction by acting FBI director J. Patrick Gray, along with false testimony which has been admitted by former aides Jeb Stuart Magruder and Herbert L. Porter.

Officials drop protest charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Monday dropped charges against seven protesters of the American bombing of Cambodia, amid indications that similar charges against others would also be dropped.

The seven persons released in the District of Columbia Superior Court were among three groups arrested in July and August after stepping from lines of people touring the White House, to conduct a prayer protest against the United States bombing of Cambodia. The bombing ended Aug. 15.

The seven included Sister Elizabeth McCallister, wife of Daniel Berrigan, the militant war protester who has resigned his priesthood.

About 150 protesters were arrested before the bombing ended. Some stepped into an off-limits area to pray and some prayed within the tour area.

Most of the former were

Senate action slated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry A. Kissinger's role in a wiretapping controversy apparently will not hinder his Senate confirmation as Secretary of State.

Senate action is anticipated late this week.

Sens. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and John Sparkman, D-Ala., a subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, reported to the full panel Monday on Kissinger's part in the wiretapping of 17 newsmen and government officials.

Case and Sparkman were delegated by the committee to read a secret FBI memo on White House surveillance activity in 1969 and 1970 to find the source of new leaks.

The two praised the administration for making the secret report available to them, calling it a "good omen" for congressional-executive branch relations. They gave no hint what was in the summary.

Kissinger spent five hours behind closed doors with committee members as the panel completed its confirmation hearings. It was his fourth appearance before the committee.

AFL-CIO urges override

CHICAGO (UPI) — The AFL-CIO is taking a new or newer approach in urging Congress to override President Nixon's veto of the $2.20-an-hour federal minimum wage.

If the House sustains Nixon's sixth veto of 1973 Wednesday, as expected, labor sources said they would balk at supporting a modified bill that the President favors.

"Let him stew in his own juice," said one AFL-CIO official. "We won't give in on domestics and the youth subminimum and that's where he's hammering now."

Lack of organized-labor's backing would scuttle chances of passing a minimum wage bill at this session of Congress.

Proponents and foes of the legislation have fought to a standstill since early 1971 over how to improve pay of America's lowest-paid workers.

Nixon said the legislation he vetoed would have increased unemployment and added to inflationary pressures, doing "far more harm than good."

He proposed more delay in raising the basic $1.60 hourly minimum rate to $2.30 an hour by 1976, together with a lower rate for teen-age workers and no coverage for domestic workers.

The labor-backed bill he rejected would raise the rate to $2 on Nov. 1 and $2.20 next July, as well as expanding coverage to millions of additional workers, including 1 million household servants.

House okays prison bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House approved and sent to the Senate Monday a bill authorizing federal prison officials to grant a day passes to allow selected prisoners to visit home and "re-establish family ties."

The measure, adopted by voice vote, would extend programs which already permit home leaves for family emergencies and work training programs.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., told the national council on the aging Monday he soon will introduce legislation to aid the country's 20 million senior citizens.

Percy proposed reforms that would:

- Set social security benefits at an "absolute minimum" of 50 percent of pre-retirement earnings.
- Get rid of situations in which couples with identical combined incomes get different benefits because of social security computation methods.
- Eliminate the system's built-in discrimination against women retirees, who cannot claim as dependents retired husbands who had not been covered by social security.
- Restore full deduction for medical expenses.
- Allow increased personal exemptions for the aged.

Mitchell, Stans trial delayed

NEW YORK (UPI) — The perjury conspiracy trial of former cabinet officers John Mitchell and Maurice Stans was reset for Oct. 23 Monday, but U.S. District Judge Lee Garfield, who will preside, left open the possibility of further delay.

The trial was originally supposed to begin six days ago, but Mitchell, former U.S. attorney general, and Stans, former commerce secretary, said they weren't ready and won a postponement. Both

Judge ponders banker's trial

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — The trial of a Baltimore banker charged with improperly reporting contributions raised in a dinner for Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has been delayed while the presiding judge considers a defense request to dismiss the charges.

The trial of Riegden H. Wharton, treasurer of the Salute to Ted Agnew Night Committee, had been scheduled to begin Wednesday. It was delayed Monday by Judge Matthew H. Evans of Anne Arundel County, Md. circuit court who said he hoped to rule on the motions for dismissal by the end of the week.

A four count indictment charging that $49,900 reported as coming from 31 individuals was actually a loan from the Committee to Re-elect the President in Washington.

Seniors reform laws proposed

Call on senior citizens the nation's "most neglected minority group," Percy warned all problems of the aged cannot be solved by legislation.

"The main problem is still one of attitude," he said.

"The emphasis in this country is still placed on youth. Or perhaps I should say 'still misplaced.' Young people are encouraged by massive advertising campaigns to stay young; middle-aged adults are encouraged to revert to youthful ways; and the elderly are virtually ignored."

Land use issue urgent

(c) Chicago Sun-Times

WASHINGTON — Land use control is perhaps the most pressing environmental issue before the nation, President Nixon has told Congress.

But he said legal conflicts between the ownership of private land and the need to preserve the environment and regular growth are not "questions to be dealt with from Washington."

State and local governments and courts must work out these problems and strike a balance between protecting property and regulating land use, he declared.

primarily a responsibility of local governments, where responsive leaders are most likely to understand the choices that have to be made."

Nevertheless, the administration is supporting federal legislation to stimulate and financially support state controls.

In last week's general assembly of the status of his legislative program, Nixon complained the federal cost of the land-use bill that passed the Senate was excessive. The measure is being considered by a House subcommittee.

Another section of the CEQ report asserted that environmentalists were being blamed unfairly for the energy shortage.

Price controls, a cold winter and insufficient oil-refining capacity contributed significantly to the shortage of natural gas and heating oil, the report noted while conceding that air-quality standards also played a role.

The President has asked states to relax air-quality standards to permit more high-sulphur heating oil.

Although the need for additional refineries is often emphasized, CEQ observed: "Roughly a 50-per-cent expansion of refinery capacity is possible at existing sites. More important reasons for the lack of increased capacity in the refining industry include uncertainty in price and Nixon offered his comments Monday in a message that accompanied the annual report of his council on environmental quality.

"Public attitudes on development are showing a remarkable shift away from the historical American boosterism and toward a skepticism about the cost and benefits of unlimited growth," the council reported.

The President said: "Land-use regulation should be

Jet tested

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A jet engine designed for the Air Force's new F15 fighter broke down after 13 hours and 10 minutes of a 150-hour endurance test; the Air Force said Monday. But the test was resuming today after replacement of a broken turbine blade.

It was the third attempt to put the Pratt Whitney Corp. engine through the required endurance test. Deputy Defense Secretary William Clements has set a Sept. 30 deadline for completion.

Failure to meet the deadline could mean problems for the entire F15 program. The plane is in production, and the Air Force has no other engine for it.

Butz action probe planned

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate farm bloc leaders have decided to hold public hearings on a charge that Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz flouted the intent of Congress in setting a bare-bones feed grain allotment for 1974. Butz has appealed to Congress for all-out production of corn, and other livestock feed grains as part of the administration strategy of attacking high retail food prices through increases in food production. But in setting the 1974 allotment of feed grain acreage eligible for full government "target price" protection, Butz limited it to 89 million acres.

That acreage, Butz estimated, would produce the 6 billion bushels of corn, and additional amounts of grain sorghum and barley, which would just equal demand foreseen by agriculture experts for the 1974-75 marketing season.

Actually, administration officials believe farmers will plant more than the price-protected 89 million acres and harvest enough to begin rebuilding reserve stocks as well as meeting 1974-75 market needs. But there will be no target price protection for the acreage planted beyond the allotment level.

Butz's decision to limit the allotment to the "need" level, with no price protection for additional acreage, was attacked by President Tony T. Dechant of the National Farmers Union (NFU). Dechant said the new four-year farm law setting up the target price support program, which takes effect with 1974 crops, was written with a congressional understanding that when the government is trying to rebuild reserves, it would offer farmers protection on the extra acres. Also, Dechant said, Butz erred by refusing to include allotment for corn grown for silage.

A spokesman for Sen. Walter D. Huddleston,

D.Ky., said Huddleston has agreed, following a request from Sen. George McGovern, D-S. D., to hold hearings on the issue.

McGovern said Butz's action is not likely to have much impact one way or another on farm production or income in 1974.

That's because the target price program offers support payments to growers only if actual market prices sag below the 1974 target levels including $1.38 a bushel for corn and $2.05 for wheat. Since markets are expected to be above the targets in 1974, farmer earnings on non-allotment acres should be as good as their returns from the supported allotment acreage.

"But... it is important that we not allow the secretary's 1974 allotment determination to establish a precedent for future years," McGovern said.

An aide to Huddleston said no date for the hearing has been set yet, but it will probably be scheduled within the next few weeks.

Cattle quotas cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supplies of Mexican cattle for American farmers to feed and fatten may be cut sharply during the coming year, an Agriculture Department report indicates.

Meanwhile, the department's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) said in a report that Pakistan has taken steps to limit cotton exports in order to protect domestic supplies.

Hop crop unchanged

BOISE (UPI) — Hop production in Idaho is forecast at 7,200,000 pounds — unchanged from predictions a month ago, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today.

Production at this level would be 11 per cent more than last year's output of 6,498,000 the report said.

Yield per acre at 1,800 pounds compares with 1,710 in 1972 and 1,690 in 1971, the report said.

Meat cut label numbers sliced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The meat industry announced Monday a voluntary nationwide plan designed to reduce confusion among food shoppers by establishing standard identification for cuts of meat.

Under the system the names used for various cuts of beef, pork, veal and lamb would be reduced from more than 1,000 names used now to about 300. The new standard list of names

BOISE (UPI) — The Peppermint Oil Corp. in Idaho this year is forecast at 253,000 pounds.

The Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said production at this level is unchanged from last year, though 15 per cent less than 1971. Yield is estimated at 55 pounds of oil per acre, with average for harvest at 4,600 acres, both unchanged from the 1972 level.

Production of spearmint oil is indicated at 171,000 pounds, down 10 per cent from last year's 189,000 pounds of oil.

Bean sales slow, lack trends

DENVER, Colo. — The Agricultural Marketing Service reports pintos, great norths, and small reds and pinks were not sold in sufficient quantities to establish price in several market areas.

Pintos in Colorado's western slope, western Nebraska, eastern and northern Wyoming, southern Montana, North Dakota and Washington were not sold in sufficient supply to establish market prices.

Great norths in western Nebraska, eastern Wyoming, northern Wyoming and southern Montana; small reds and pinks in Washington; and small reds in southern Idaho were not sold in sufficient supply to establish market prices.

Prices are quoted in dollars per 100 pound bag for good U.S. No. 1's FOB specified rate area with comparisons for pintos, Colorado, northern, 17.00-18.50, 9.90-10.25; south-eastern 17.50-18.00; minimal-southwest corner, 17.50-17.75, 10.00; southern Idaho, 17.50-18.00, 10.15-10.25; great norths, southern Idaho, 22.50-23.00, minimal; Idaho pinks, 17.50-18.50; 10.25-10.50.

California, baby limas, 23.75-24.00, 11.25-11.05; large limas, 36.00-38.00, 23.35-23.50; blackeyes, 24.00, 13.25-13.50; links, 19.00-19.25, 11.00; small whites, 27.00, supplies insufficient to quote; light red kidney, 32.00, 18.25-18.50.

Prices on dry edible beans remained in a transitional and realignment state. Rain in Nebraska, Colorado and Kansas stopped harvest. Some buyers withdrew from the market and some sellers are taking a "wait-and-see" attitude before selling.

Shippers in North Dakota have been unable to ship due to car shortage. Grower prices are given for U.S. No. 1's thresher run, clean basis in dollars per cwt of pintos for Colorado, northern, 14.00-15.00; southeastern, 15.00; Nebraska, 15.00; eastern Wyoming, 15.00; and southern Idaho, 15.00. Great northern grower prices are given for Nebraska, 20.00; eastern Wyoming, 20.00; Idaho, 18.00-20.00.

Light sales activity took place at prices generally $1 to $1.50 lower than last week's quotes. Light interest was noted on Idaho pinks at prices generally $1 to $1.50 lower. Southern Idaho reports bean harvest five to 15 per cent complete with poor drying conditions delaying activity in some areas. Early fields of great norths are reported yielding 20 to 30 bushels. Grower selling remains inactive in most areas.

ATTENTION ALL POTATO GROWERS

THIS MARKET ALERT FROM POTATO GROWERS OF IDAHO, INC. IS THE FIRST OF A SERIES TO ADVISE YOU OF THE "FACTS" AS OPPOSED TO SOME FANTASY'S THAT ARE PRESENTLY BEING CIRCULATED REGARDING IDAHO'S 1973 PRODUCTION.

1. Idaho's 1973 crops is down significantly from last year's production levels.
2. Present data indicates that although planted acreage is up approximately 20,000 acres, total production will be considerably below 1972 with estimates in the area of 5 to 6 million hundredweight less than last year.
3. 1972 production in Idaho, as we all know was tremendous, and most other production areas were down, this year all areas including Idaho are down. Do you remember what Idaho's price went to last year? Do you really know what your spuds are worth this year?
4. A recent Potato Growers of Idaho, Inc. survey shows on a recap of questionnaires returned, the percentage of acres under contract this year to be 46 percent as compared to 61 percent of the 1972 crop.
5. You hold the key at this time to a successful marketing year, and you listen for the facts in the immediate future is essential to your welfare.
6. PGI accepts the responsibility of keeping you informed on current marketing conditions, and at the present time no market has really been established. However, our analysis of the current crop and marketing conditions does not justify any sales under $3.50 per hundred for your potatoes.

DEAR ABBY: Can a man tell if a woman has had silicone implants to enlarge her breasts? I don't mean by looking; I mean by touching!

I've talked to two girls who have had it done, and one says a man would have to be awfully dumb not to know, because hers feel like grapefruit. She said she's not sorry she did it because they look fine.

The other girl said nobody could tell she had anything done.

Are there any telltale marks? What do your experts have to say about this?

CONSIDERING IT

Silicone implants?

DEAR CONSIDERING: The girl with the "grapefruit" must have had her implants some time ago when harder materials were used. Softer materials are now used that feel like the real thing.

As to whether you question whether a man could tell if a woman had had a breast implant would depend on the amount of breast tissue she had before surgery and the way she healed. The only telltale marks are the tiny scars under the breasts, which in time become practically invisible. And if a layman tried to prove that a girl had had it done, he'd have his hands full.

DEAR ABBY: This may sound like I'm bragging, and I suppose I am, but this is the way it was:

A couple of weeks ago I was walking past my husband's chair in the living room when he reached out and took my hand and said: "Honey, will you marry me?" (We were married in 1935!) I said: "Are you trying to tell me we aren't married after all these years?" He grinned and replied: "Oh, we're good and married. I'm taking an early retirement, and we're going to start all over again, just the two of us, like we did 30 years ago. If you'd like to go thru another wedding with me, I'd like it, too."

Well, I sat down and howled. I called a local minister and explained it to him, saying I hoped he wouldn't think it was funny. He said he didn't think it was funny at all. He thought it was beautiful, and he agreed to perform the ceremony for us. (We didn't need another license or blood test.)

My sister, who lives in Bishop, Calif., was my bridesmaid when we were first married, so I called her and asked if she'd do it again. She said: "Tell me when you want me, and I'll be there if I have to take a bus." My brother will be our best man.

This may strike you as nothing special, but it sure means the world to me.

MARRYING DAN AGAIN
BALDWIN PARK, CALIF.

DEAR MARRYING: I think it's beautiful. Congratulations and God bless you. More couples should renew their marriage vows.

DEAR ABBY: I disagree with a recent correspondent who wrote: "Most cancer victims read the obituaries with apprehension and fear."

My vocal cords were removed by surgery 13 years ago because of throat cancer. Instead of apprehension and fear, I have confidence in the future and enjoy life today.

I am not a victim—but a victor, thanks to the progress that's made the kind of cancer I had curable in almost every instance if detected in time. JERRY F. CROWLEY

DEAR JERRY: You are a victor indeed, and I thank you for this opportunity to remind my readers to see their doctors for periodic checkups.

Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69799, L. A., Calif. 90089. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

signal for the higher suit. He leads a spade and you go South.

This hand illustrates the weakness of those who get suit preference happy. The normal purpose of the nine of clubs play would be to announce an even number of cards in the suit. How could East tell that it called for a spade return this time?

It is a matter of the diamond plays. West continued with his highest diamond at each turn to lead. That was an unmistakable suit preference signal, because if he wanted the normal heart return he would have played the 10 of diamonds at trick two and continued with the jack at trick three.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is another one of Bill McKinney's hands illustrating the suit preference signal.

West is allowed to hold the first diamond; he continues with the queen and then the jack after South ducks for the second time.

South has to win that third diamond and proceeds to lead and finesse the 10 of clubs.

East takes his king. His normal return is a heart which will allow South to romp home with nine tricks, but since West has played the nine of clubs East reads it as a preference

$285,000 changes set on Nixon jet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's jetliner is undergoing alterations at a price of $285,000, largely to conform to his wife's wishes that guest quarters be next to the President's lounge, it was disclosed today.

A White House spokesman said the changes to the interior of the Spirit of '76 were being made while the plane was undergoing a regular, annual maintenance check at John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York.

The remodeling work, and installation of some new units for improvement of the engine performance are to be completed by mid-October.

The plane, also known as Air Force 1 and as No. 27,000, was introduced on presidential flights in August, 1972, to replace No. 26,000 which had been used by Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

The new Spirit of '76 was originally decorated and configured at a cost of $1.5 million.

A staff suite was the largest on the plane and was located directly next to the President's quarters.

From the outset, Mrs. Nixon and other members of the family disliked the new arrangement. Mrs. Nixon felt that the guest lounge should be next to the President's cabin.

Frequently, on trips to San Clemente, Calif. and to Key Biscayne, Fla., the old plane, No. 26,000, was used to provide more comfort for the family.

The Secret Service, which previously had been located nearer to the President, also was dissatisfied with the arrangement on the new plane. Agents found themselves flying in a much smaller cabin where their seats would not recline at all.

The remodeling was described as "very slight" by Col. Ralph Albertazzi, the President's pilot, but the layout of the new plane will be changed to conform to that of the older jet.

Castro raps US on Chile crisis

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro said Monday the military takeover in Chile was a "fascist coup instigated by the U.S."

On a stopover in New Delhi en route to Havana from Hanoi, Castro accused the United States of blockading international loans for the Marxist government of former Chilean President Salvador Allende while maintaining "close contact with the Chilean army and supplied arms."

"The U.S. are the fathers of this creature (the military junta)," he said.

Castro said Allende "died heroically according to news reports reaching us. He was urged by the coup people to surrender, but he refused. He took measures even in the trying moment to save women and children lodged at the palace. It was a very dramatic end."

The Cuban leader said at an impromptu news conference: "I think the Chilean people will not accept this operation. I am sure it will meet resistance from the Chilean people."

"We are taking this matter to the (U.N.) Security Council simply to denounce the violation of international law."

He was referring to Cuban allegations that Chilean armed forces attacked the Cuban embassy during the coup last Tuesday, seriously wounding some Cubans.

Castro said there was an attempt by the Chilean army to occupy the Cuban embassy, "but they were repelled."

Castro was met at the airport by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, Foreign Minister Swaran Singh and members of the diplomatic corps. There was no public welcome at the airport.

Utah film awarded 'mustang' in Elko

ELKO, Nev. (UPI) — "Jeremiah Johnson," a movie filmed in Utah and starring Utah resort owner Robert Redford, was voted best film of 11 movies at the 1973 Mustang Awards this weekend in Elko.

Raquel Welch was named best actress for her role in "Hannie Caulder" out of a field of 13 nominees, and John Wayne took top honors from 15 nominees as best actor for his part in "Cowboys."

The Mustang Awards are presented on the basis of balloting by movie patrons who view the films shown during three months in the northern Nevada community. State officers from 48 states participated in the balloting.

Murphy to ask funds restored

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy plans to ask the next legislative session to restore to cities and counties the nearly $1-million taken from them by executive order under the 1.9 per cent holdback of state funds last year.

Murphy said Republicans opposed Gov. Cecil D. Andrus in his plans for tax increases which later proved "would have been unnecessary and unwise."

He said the subsequent 1.9 per cent holdback of state funds had the effect of forcing counties and cities to collect $1 million in additional taxes to make up the slack.

KSL Television was presented a trustees award for "excellence in reporting," while a separate award went to Jackie Nonkes for the best talk show on television. The show is also viewed in Salt Lake City.

The award banquet and a sneak preview of the film "Charley Varrick," filmed in Nevada, attracted about 120 persons from Nevada and Hollywood.

Bob Goodman, head of the Nevada Department of Employment Security, said 10,000 had been budgeted by the state for 1973-74 in hopes of attracting numerous filmmakers to Nevada locations.

At the banquet Mark Rydell was named best director for the film "Cowboys," and Filmline Productions won the best television film award for "Let's Go."

The Elko Chamber of Commerce presented numerous trust awards, including the one to KSL and a "Superstar" trophy to Jean McCrean for "his contributions to the motion picture Industry, National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Elko County." Oren Probert of Elko was emcee of the three-hour awards banquet sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Nevada Department of Economic Development.

XXX theater owner skips

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — Canyon County authorities suspended preparations to bring an injunction against the manager of a Caldwell theater featuring triple X-rated movies after learning Bob Loya, 20, apparently left the area.

Canyon County Prosecuting Attorney C. Robert Yost said his office had been preparing an injunction case against Loya to prevent showings of the adult movies.

Yost said his office will continue with the proceedings if Loya returns to Caldwell.

Bob Covert, Nampa, Idaho, projectionist at the Top Theater Loya managed, said Loya apparently "cleaned out" the theater concession stand supplies and 16 mm projection equipment.

Police said the theater did not conduct movie showings either Thursday or Friday night. They also said the clerk at the hotel where Loya had been living informed them Loya left, saying he was going on vacation.

Report supported

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — A report that attempts to define roles of Idaho's schools of higher education is supported by one state board of education member who says defining roles is necessary to setting up a centralized state system of higher education.

The report was prepared by Dr. Milton Smith, state executive director for higher education, at the board's request.

Mrs. Janet Hay, Nampa, board member, said setting up a centralized system would be better than having the individual schools compete for programs and money at the state legislature.

The report is to be considered next month during a board meeting in Twin Falls.

Project date set

REDFISH LAKE, Idaho (UPI) — Completion of a sewer system at Redfish Lake is projected for late next summer.

Construction is under way on a $995,000 sewer project to eventually serve campgrounds, the Sunny Gulch area and Redfish Lake Lodge, all in the Sawtooth National Recreation Area.

Dave Kimpton, Stanley Zone manager of the NRA, said the system is being paid for mostly by the Forest Service — will eliminate possible contamination of the Salmon River or Redfish Lake Creek.

Chrysler, UAW agree on contract

DETROIT (UPI) — Despite tentative agreement Monday to end its strike against Chrysler Corp., the United Auto Workers said today assembly lines probably will not roll again until next week.

This, said UAW President Leonard Woodcock, is because it will take the rest of this week for national and local officers to ratify the settlement.

Under the contract, the UAW won a break through 30-and-out nonfrontrun plan and obtained relief from mandatory overtime rules.

In turn, workers will receive less money than they wanted.

Woodcock called the non-money issues in the contract a "tremendous breakthrough," especially the introduction of a system that will allow employees to retire on a pension after 30 years' work regardless of their age.

Pending ratification of the settlement, about 113,000 blue collar workers remain away from work.

Still working, although negotiations continue on a contract covering them, were about 15,000 white collar workers.

The announcement Monday of the three-year contract came just 63 hours after the UAW pulled the strike in 22 states and Canada. It was the fastest settlement in UAW history. The previous record for brevity was nine days in 1955 against Ford Motor Co.

Agreement came after nearly 30 hours of marathon bargaining, interrupted only once for three hours when negotiators said they showed signs of weariness.

Deadline of the 30-and-out retirement plan, the major non-economic feature of the contract concerned the mandatory overtime that automakers can demand of workers.

Under the new contract, workers can refuse to work more than nine hours a day or more than 64 hours a week or more than two consecutive Saturdays. But the company retains certain limited rights to impose mandatory overtime.

Pay will increase 3 per cent yearly in each of the three years of the pact, less than the UAW sought. Woodcock said the cost of the package was "very, very high" for the UAW because of the non-money concessions Chrysler made.

The UAW, which will take essentially the same agreement to Ford and General Motors Corp. for contract talks with them, gained increased fringe benefits in holidays, insurance and medical benefits and improved health and safety checks in plants.

Astros study earth, sun

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 2 astronauts began their Earth's natural resources across the central United States.

Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousima also gazed at the sun with the latest study frames of film in their array of $648 instruments.

"It's too bad we don't have a few weeks more and another roll of film," Garriott said Monday, pausing between chores. "Maybe we'd have a few weeks of good activity."

The sun was relatively quiet as expected, as it had been, last week, and Garriott, a solar scientist, was thinking about the solar before when the burning star was exploding with energy.

Bean has planned throughout the two-month mission with flight controllers to let the three space pilots extend their mission, but officials ruled they would splash-out as planned, a week from today in the Pacific Ocean. The officials kept the schedule that way to have accurate medical data on the crew after a record of two months in weightlessness.

Bean and Lousima aimed their space cameras at Japan Monday for the first time to take data on ecology, oceanography and the weather.

But the Japanese islands were "soaked in" by clouds, the astronauts said, and they believed they took only a very few good pictures.

Cuba accuses US of Chile coup

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Cuba accused the United States during a turbulent U.N. Security Council meeting Monday of masterminding last week's military coup in Chile with the aid of "gangs of murderers."

In a biting denunciation of the United States, Cuban Ambassador Ricardo Alarcon accused the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and the Pentagon of being behind the coup that overthrew the Marxist regime of President Salvador Allende.

As Alarcon finished, a dozen Cuban exiles in the gallery jumped to their feet and shouted out "Let our people go." Guards evicted them.

The Cuban ambassador charged the coup was "instigated and masterminded by Mr. Nixon and his colleagues in the North American government."

He demanded the council condemn Chile's new ruling junta for shooting up the Cuban Embassy in downtown Santiago and attacking a Cuban ship outside Chilean territorial waters.

U.S. Ambassador John Scali responded to Alarcon's speech with a scathing denunciation of the Cuban diplomat as an "expert in terror."

"He has honored us with his after lie," Scali said. "I consider it a badge of honor to be the target for lies from this source. I only wish he could be more inventive or interesting."

Charges fly in US, N. Viet talks

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnam charged today that U.S. protesters over delays in accounting for soldiers missing in Indochina were nothing but an excuse to renegotiate on promised economic aid to Hanoi.

At a meeting of the four-party Joint Military Team (JMT), the North Vietnamese delegation delivered a "proclamation" containing the accusation.

The United States Communique said the Communists in Viet Cong and North Viet namese... deliberately stalling the search for the missing in action in Indochina.

A spokesman for the Saigon command, Lt. Col. T. T. Huong Hien, listed 59 trace violations in the 24 hours ended at noon today, the lowest total since Aug. 15 when there were 58.

Hien reported the battle for control of Kontum province's only important rice growing area—a plain around the provincial capital of Kontum city, 200 miles north of Saigon—went into its fifth day Monday.

Thousands of Swedes bid farewell to king

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Thousands of Swedes turned out today to view a motorcade carrying the body of King Gustaf VI Adolf of Sweden, who died over the weekend, as it proceeded slowly from the southern sector of the country to Stockholm.

The hearse, accompanied by a number of royal limousines, left Helsingborg in southern Sweden early today and was expected to arrive the 312-mile journey in about 12 hours, arriving in Stockholm in the early evening.

The 90-year-old monarch died in Helsingborg City Hospital Saturday after a four-week illness.

Gustaf Adolf's three sons, Prince Bertil and Counts Sigvard and Carl-Johan Bernadotte, accompanied their father's body on the 342-mile drive to the Swedish capital.

A state funeral, to be attended by European royalty and other heads of state, will be held Sept. 25.

EPA lists 1974 auto mpg figures

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) today told the nation's consumers they can get a wide range of fuel economy in 1974 model cars to range from a top of 28.1 miles per gallon for the Honda Civic to a low of 6.8 miles per gallon for the Oldsmobile Toronado.

In the 2,000-pound weight class, the Honda Civic, with a 76-cu. in. engine and a manual four-speed transmission, showed the best fuel economy—at 28.1 miles per gallon. The worst fuel economy in that weight class was the MG Midget at 12.7.

In the 2,250-pound class, the Datsun B 210, with a 79-cu. in. engine and manual four-speed transmission, came out on top at 24.0 m.p.g. Toyota's Corolla-2 sedan was worst at 18.8 m.p.g.

Here are the other weight classes and the most economical car in each one:

- 2,500 pounds: Subaru, 22.7 m.p.g.
- 2,750 pounds: Chevrolet Vega Hatchback, 14.0 Cu. in., manual 3-speed, 24.6.
- 3,000 pounds: Chevrolet Vega Kombi, 14.0-cu. in., automatic three-speed, 20.
- 3,000-cu. in. manual Ford Comet, 19.9.

Tax bills rise slightly

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Despite a decrease in actual tax levies this year, Twin Falls County property owners will, in most cases, be paying slightly higher taxes than in 1972.

Expanded city spending is the chief factor behind the increase, with highway district levies also above last year's levels.

According to figures prepared by County Clerk Harold Lancaster, property owners in Twin Falls City will face a total County tax of $228.60 for each $10,000 worth of real or personal property this year.

Property owners in other County municipalities will pay total tax charges based on $10,000 worth of property as follows:

Buhl: $227.69 for each $10,000 worth of property this year, compared to $225.71 in 1972.

Filer: $216.53 this year, compared to $212.20 last year.

Kimberly: Kimberly is one of three municipalities showing a decrease in levies, $165.66 this year, compared to $173.70 in 1972.

Hansen: $191.14 this year, against $182.29 last year.

Castleford: $187.37 this year, compared to $184.30 last year.

Murtaugh: $180.58 this year, a drop from last year's $192.30.

Hollister: $150.51 this year, also a drop — from $160.18 a year ago.

Property owners in the County who do not hold property within the boundary of any city will pay lower but varying taxes, depending on which school district and which highway district they own property in.

For instance, a resident of the County living outside Twin Falls City limits but in the Twin Falls school district and the Twin Falls Highway District will pay $135.28 for every $10,000 worth of property he owns, compared to $130.58 last year.

The county taxes not only for its own operation, but also for each city in the county, all county school districts, the county highway districts, and the state general school fund, building bond fund and water pollution control fund.

The county receives a fee of 1 1/2 per cent on all levies it collects other than for the County itself and the school districts.

Tax levies for the operation of county government programs are down this year compared to last year, Lancaster's figures show. Property owners this year will pay $82.73 on each $10,000 worth of property they own, compared to $85.48 last year.

City levies show the biggest increase of all categories. Twin Falls City's levy for this year is $31.33, compared to $31.53 last year.

Other city levies, again computed on the basis of $10,000 of property, are: Buhl, $95.41 against $82.50 in 1972; Filer, $80.28 against $64.80; Kimberly, $27.83 against $30.82; Hansen, $57.60 against $47.25; Castleford, $47.13 against $47.25; Murtaugh, $56.55 against $39.38; Hollister, $22.57 against $23.18.

School district levies in most cases were down due to new State maximums or levies for maintenance and operation of schools.

The Twin Falls School District levy decreased by $1.10 this year, to $55.81 from last year's $56.91. The Buhl School District levy decreased by more than $10, from $88.74 last year to $58.34 this year. The Kimberly School District levy fell off about $5, from $83.33 last year to $58.50 this year.

Levies for County highway districts all showed increases. Twin Falls Highway District's levy increased more than $2 this year to $10.33 per $10,000 of owned property, from 1972's $13.84.

The Buhl Highway District levy rose to $16 from $14.01, and the Filer Highway District levy increased 54 cents, from $15.11 to $15.65.

The levy for the Murtaugh Highway District rose 25 cents, from $15.75 to $16.

Jerome school addition OK'd

He said last year's enrollment was 631 students, 50 less than the present enrollment this year.

Campbell told the board that providing lunchroom facilities for the junior high students may help to alleviate some absenteeism during the cold months due to colds and flu contracted by students who run between the junior and senior high buildings without coats at lunch time.

He said five additional classrooms are needed but the district only has enough money to add three large classrooms.

Campbell said the district would do plumbing, heating and sewer hook up for the new building. "We have both the skill and the equipment on hand and it will help to cut down our costs. It will take about six to seven weeks to construct the building after the bids have been let," Campbell said.

He said the building can be moved again if the crowded classroom condition shifts to another school.

Mrs. Forrest Hymas, trustee, suggested the board consider bricking the building later to have it become a permanent addition to the junior high.

Campbell said he found, while preparing a building information report for John W. Briggs, State Department of Education, with the footprint of 30 square feet per student, that each school lacks space, a violation of State Department of Education standards. He said that a district cannot be penalized since there can be no penalty for something which can't be controlled.

The board approved a request from Campbell to transfer one second-grade class from Washington Elementary to a basement classroom at Lincoln Elementary school. Campbell said the move would free a classroom at Washington Elementary for use as a first grade classroom and enable the district to reduce the number of first grade students in a classroom from 28 to 22.

"The second grade students who will attend Lincoln School will be chosen by address so we can center them in the northwest section of town to eliminate transportation problems. An additional first-grade teacher will have to be hired," Campbell said.

Burley grants 7 1/2% pay hike

Bids for the project were opened last week. Van DeGrift Construction, Boise, turned in the only bid for the project — about $235,000. The city, with the aid of Environmental Protection Agency and state funds, had only about $135,000 for the project.

In contrast, a bid of $104,283 from P.M.F. Inc., Twin Falls, was accepted for construction of a storm sewer in the Hilland Park and Suburban Park subdivisions. The engineer's estimate for the project was $112,000.

Joe Haynes, of JUB Engineers, Twin Falls, explained to the council the procedures required to gain certification for the Burley Municipal Airport.

Although the certification is not necessary unless the city would begin receiving certified air carriers, Haynes said, the move is recommended by both the State Board of Aeronautics and the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA).

"An in-depth operational manual would have to be written for the airport as a certification requirement, he said. No major construction would be necessary other than a fence and some fire-fighting equipment, he told the council.

Mayor Robertson said they had received an extension to May, 1974, for certification. No other action was taken by the council.

Engineering department head Christian said the council should develop some power conservation programs for the city in cooperation with the Bonneville Power administration.

Christian suggested as possible means of conserving energy that lightings in the commercial areas remove some lamps and sign lightings, that janitorial work can be done during the day, that residents improve insulation and use storm windows, and that Christmas decorations be set up for daylight appearances.

The council took the suggestions under advisement.

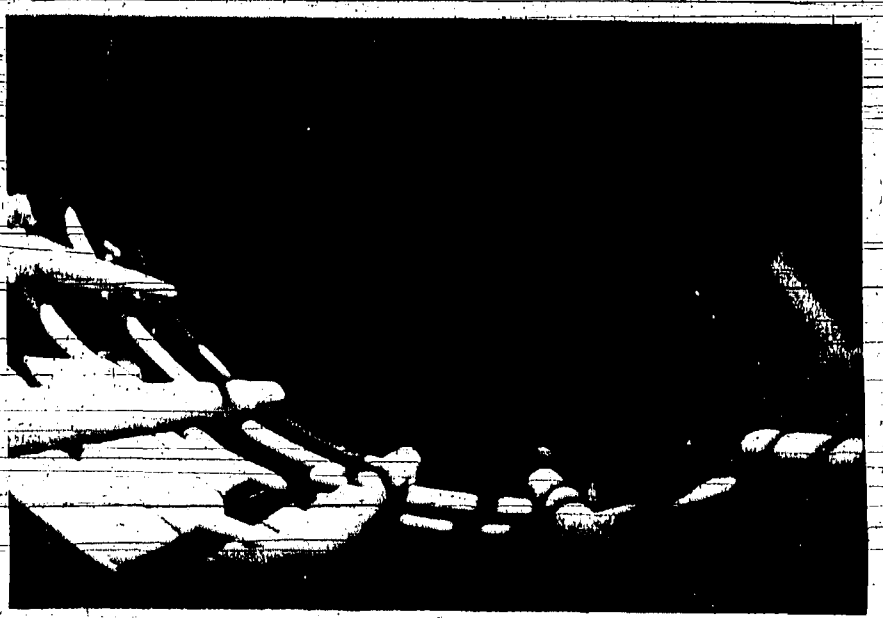

Garth Williams, Burley, a spokesman for the 321st engineers reserve unit, requested the use of the Burley Fire Department building for the reserve unit.

The fire department will be moved to the old armory building sometime in the future.

The unit, based in Twin Falls, plans to set up facilities in Burley for area members, who would then maintain the building and work on civic projects in the area.

The council suggested the unit consider sharing the National Guard facilities in Burley and took the request under advisement.

The 1972 audit report was accepted by the council after presentation by the accounting firm of Nielson, Sagers, Anderson and King, Burley. The audit showed a general fund balance of $33,000, about $100,000 over that of the year before.

Concrete poured

TUESDAY the first concrete was poured for the new Perrine Bridge. "About 3 1/2 years from now we'll be pouring the last of it," said Highway Department Inspector Dick Crittner. Above is the excavation for a column footing to support the north bridge abutment. At right, workers pour concrete in a similar hole. The column being poured required about 10 yards of concrete, Crittner said.

Lease agreement referred to port for fourth time

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — For the past two months the Twin Falls City Council has been caught up in an endless shaggy dog story. It involves renewal of a lease agreement with car rental firms at the City-County Airport.

The latest installment came Monday night when the Council decided to refer the controversial lease agreement to the Twin Falls City-County Airport board — for the fourth time.

But this time the airport board will consider the agreement in a joint meeting with the City Council and Twin Falls County Commissioners.

For several years the city and county have leased 100 square feet of airport space to each of three car rental firms — Hertz, Avis and National — at $2.50 per square foot per year. The firms also paid $75 per month for franchises at the airport.

That deal brought in $1,150 per year from each firm.

But the city and county decided that wasn't enough. They instructed the airport board to negotiate a new lease in view of the growing airport traffic.

On July 17 the airport board sent a lease proposal to the Council, calling for a monthly fee of $300, or 10 per cent of the gross income of each car rental firm, whichever is highest.

The rental firms objected. Phil Cargill of Hertz and Wally Brown of Avis said the proposed terms were "way too high" and could force closure of their airport offices.

So the Council sent the lease back to the airport board for another look, with instructions that the board confer with the car rental firms.

Back came the lease on Aug. 20, with the initial terms intact — $350 or 10 per cent.

This time the Council, with no car rental spokesman present, approved the agreement.

But then they found the airport board had reviewed the lease agreement without consulting the car rental firms.

Back went the lease to the airport board, apparently with a firm note that the board and rental firms get together and hash things out — finally.

Back came the lease on Monday, this time with some changes. The car rental firms were to pay $300 per month or six per cent of their gross income, and the percentage was to be boosted by one per cent each year for four years, ending at 10 per cent. The lease was for 10 years.

The car rental firm representatives came out in force again, opposed to the proposed deal.

Avis brought in a company spokesman, Thomas Dean, who talked about lease agreements at the Tampa, Fla., airport and others.

He said the proposed lease was "economically impractical" since Avis' business at the City-County Airport is a "marginal operation" at best.

The $300 per month "minimum guarantee" would currently equal about nine per cent of Avis' gross income, according to Dean.

He said the agreement could "drive out" the Avis operation and force the firm to relocate and send courtesy cars to the airport to pick up car renters.

Dean suggested a $200 per month or five per cent agreement, with the percentage constant for the first five years and boosted one per cent the last five years, to 10 per cent.

How trading ensued: Councilman Steve Lincoln: How about $250 per month and five per cent for the first five years? Ok, said Avis and Hertz.

Nope, said Councilman Paul Oslyn. We better send it back to the Airport Board for its consideration since they've worked long and hard on the deal.

Yes, said Councilman Winston Jones.

Compromise: The Council will meet with the airport board and county commissioners next Monday over lunch.

Valley housing plan criticized

The number of elderly persons in the region is increasing, according to the report, which coupled with the fixed income of most has forced many senior citizens to accept sub-standard housing.

Another "symptom" of substandard housing conditions is evident in rural parts of the region, where migrant labor units suffer "acute crowding" during the summer, the report states.

Most of the counties have inadequate accommodations for farm laborers... and doubled housing occupancy is therefore common.

Rental units are also practically non-existent in the area, according to the report.

"Of the five cities (Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Jerome and Buhl)... with population over 2,500, 14,075 housing units exist, with a total of 14,941 occupied or unrentable the year round."

College of Southern Idaho students must compete with lower income groups for "the already inadequate supply of low-rent housing in the City of Twin Falls," the report states.

Although private contractors have built student housing near the CSI campus, "the prices usually reflect the convenience of location, with the standard price of $200 a month for a two-bedroom apartment."

Next: What's being done about the housing shortage? Although several housing authorities exist to deal with the problem, most are stymied by limited funding and public apathy.

McClure raps Earl Butz, Energy Policy Office

By LESTER KINSOLVING
Times-News Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Idaho Republican Sen. James McClure charged Monday Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz and President Nixon's Energy Policy Office are perpetrating a "great deception" due to a disastrous clash of opposing government policies.

"On the one hand we have the secretary of Agriculture painting a picture of future agricultural growth," McClure said. "The administration claims that there will be nothing stopping the nation's farmers from making incredible gains. But on the other hand, the Energy Policy Office has proposed a mandatory fuels allocation program which absolutely mandates a zero growth of our food production."

At the department of Agriculture, a spokesman for Secretary Butz said "We have no answer to Sen. McClure, for

Mr. Butz has asked for fuel for the farmer." When asked how Butz made that request, the spokesman said, "He has not made any direct appeal. I believe it was during a press conference but not here in Washington."

Sen. McClure went on to charge the clash between the two divisions of the Nixon administration is "absurd."

"To avoid an economic disaster I urge the administration to change this proposed fuel allocation to allow increased farm production and authorize priorities immediately," McClure said. "If the administration delays in either step, then the impact on our economy will be swift and drastic."

"It's just beginning to dawn on ranchers, farmers and irrigators that all this talk about 'sky's the limit' is a cruel deception... increased growth of livestock production isn't something that can wait until spring. It's a plain, simple fact that under this proposed administration fuel policy farm-ranchers — anybody involved in agricultural production — is limited to no more than the total gallons they used in 1972, and with that, all this talk about growth is a cruel hoax."

At the White House, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren said the President had no comment on the Idaho Senator's criticism.

The fuel problem surfaced elsewhere on Capitol Hill Monday with the appearance of three Idaho service station operators at a special hearing called by Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., so that service station operators could speak to President Nixon's Cost of Living Council.

Marvin Christensen and Joe Anderson, both Pocatello, and John Bozer, Idaho Falls, told Sen. Domenici and the council that they had been sent by 35 other service station operators in Idaho.

Christensen said "There are places in Idaho where motorists can travel a hundred miles and find only one service station which can't possibly stay open 24 hours a day. Such stations are seasonal — just like we are in Pocatello — where we spend most of January to May with our feet in the air."

Christensen said while government price controls have been imposed on service stations, the oil companies recently increased the price of gas to dealers by one cent. He also said there have been increases in Social Security, insurance, workman's compensation, payroll, bank interest — and even windshield towels and laundry costs.

"We have to try to find help at less than $2 an hour, while Union Pacific is offering $5 an hour," he said.

"If our margin suffers even two cents more, we're broke. We need action today, not next week. All four of our Idaho Congressmen have deplored the situation and we are grateful," he said.

Jets errors let Packers post easy 23-7 victory

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers capitalized on errors by the New York Jets and held off Joe Namath's passing attack to roll to a 23-7 victory in their nationally televised National Football League opener Monday night.

The Packers turned one Jets fumble into a touchdown and another into one of Chester Marcol's three field goals, and got another touchdown after intercepting a Namath pass. In the battle billed as a struggle between the Packers' pass defense and Namath's aerial attack, Green Bay came out on top even though the Jets quarterback totaled 283 yards through the air.

Namath got the Jets to the Packers 34-yard line on his first drive but the Packers' defense didn't let the Jets get past the 50-yard line until late in the fourth quarter. At Woodard, finally took New York in for its only score of the game on a 17-yard touchdown pass to David Knight with half a minute left.

Hank Aaron belts 711th homer in Atlanta win

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hank Aaron hit his 711th career home run and Dave Johnson tied Rogers Hornsby's record for home runs by a second baseman Monday night while the Atlanta Braves were beating the San Diego Padres, 7-0, before the smallest crowd yet to attend a major league baseball game in Atlanta Stadium.

Aaron's homer, the 38th of the season for the 39-year-old Braves' outfielder, left him only three shy of Babe Ruth's career record. Johnson's homer was his 42nd of the year.

Baltimore nips New York 5-1

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Paul Williams blasted a lead off home run in the bottom of the 10th inning to give the Baltimore Orioles a 5-4 victory over the New York Yankees Monday night.

Williams' 21st home run came off reliever Wayne Granger and gave Mike Cuellar his 16th win against 13 losses. Granger replaced starter Lindy McDaniel, who went nine innings.

Twins rally to top Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Tony Oliva slashed a three-run double down the left field line in the seventh inning Monday night, lifting the Minnesota Twins to a come-from-behind 3-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Houston defeats Reds with homers

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Homers by Cesar Cedeno and Bob Watson led the Houston Astros to a 5-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Monday night as Dave Roberts picked up his 15th victory against 10 losses.

The victim of all five Astros runs was Jack Billingham, who was tagged with his ninth loss against 16 victories. Cedeno's 23rd home run of the season came in the first inning and Watson connected for his 15th in the fourth inning.

Rangers drill White Sox 10-3

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Toby Harrah, Bill Madlock and Jim Fregosi hit first-inning homers for Texas Monday night, accounting for five runs, and the Rangers went on to down Chicago 10-3.

Harrah's 10th home run, Madlock's 11th and Fregosi's 11th led the Rangers to a 10-3 win over the White Sox. Harrah's homer came in the first inning, Madlock's in the second and Fregosi's in the fourth.

Home runs lift Pirates to win

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Willie Stargell drove in four runs with his 40th homer and three other extra-base hits and Richie Febber, Richie Zisk and Mill May also homered Sunday, as the Pirates rapped the New York Mets 10-3 in a rain-delayed game.

Stargell's home run came in the top of the first inning and Febber's in the second. Zisk and May homered in the bottom of the third and fourth innings, respectively.

Ohio State attracts most fans

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ohio State, perennially among the top draws in the country, attracted 65,000 fans to its home opener against Minnesota at Columbus last Saturday to easily rank No. 1 for the weekend.

A distant second was the crowd of 73,231 which turned out at Los Angeles for the game between top-ranked Southern California and Arkansas.

The 10 leading college football attractions at last Saturday drew a total of 643,480, the second highest weekend total in history this early in the season. The highest occurred early last season with a total of 658,652.

Riggs has busy day in Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Bobby Riggs Monday played tennis in a downtown bank lobby, had his hair examined by Dr. Denton A. Cooley, and again predicted Wimbledon champion Billie Jean King will crack under the pressure of their $100,000 winner-take-all match Thursday.

Riggs beat Cooley, 6-5, in an exhibition $100 match last weekend and the heart specialist suggested the 55-year-old hustler stop by for a routine checkup.

Another doctor gave Riggs a cortisone shot for his sore right elbow and Riggs then curtailed his promotional activities prior to the nationally televised match.

"My heart is fine," Riggs said. "This is just a routine checkup. But my elbow is killing me. It hurts."

USC retains top rating with Nebraska second

NEW YORK (UPI) — Southern California overcame a mild weekend scare from Arkansas and a strong challenge from Idaho-Nebraska Monday to retain its pre-season No. 1 football ranking from the United Press International Board of Coaches.

The defending national champion Trojans, who had to struggle to get by Arkansas, 17-0, in their season's opener, received 21 first-place votes from the 35 coaches on the board and outpointed No. 2 Nebraska, 325-301.

The second-ranked Cornhuskers, resting up after beating UCLA, 44-14, two weeks ago, received nine first-place votes.

All told, the Big Eight placed four teams in the top 20 — others were Oklahoma at No. 8, Oklahoma State at No. 15 and Missouri at No. 16.

Southwest Conference champion Texas was fifth, Big Ten power Michigan was sixth, eastern kingly Penn State was seventh, Oklahoma eighth, LSU ninth and Tennessee tenth.

The second 10 brought some surprises. After peripherals Notre Dame, Auburn, and Arizona State at 11-12-13, much-improved Florida came in at No. 14 on the basis of its 21-0 whipping of Kansas State, and at No. 15, Oklahoma State, a 56-7 winner over Texas-Arlington, made its first presence felt as a Big Eight power this year.

Tied at No. 16 were Houston and Atlantic Coast Conference co-favorite North Carolina State while Missouri was 18th and Tulane and North Carolina were tied for 19th. The Green Wave, who have yet to play this season, are regarded by many to be on the way back under imaginative coach Bennie Ellender after many long seasons as a southern doormat.

Ohio State, a one-sided, 56-7, victor over Minnesota Saturday, received four No. 1 votes from the coaches to finish third this week with 281 points, and Alabama was fourth with 232 points, and the last first place vote. The Tide opened up with a 66-0 shellacking of California.

The rest of the top 10 looked similar to pre-season and even 1972 for that matter. Yearly

Butkus has comments on loss

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dick Butkus, burly linebacker of the Chicago Bears, second-guessed his coach, Abe Gibron, Monday.

"I think we should have passed," he said.

Butkus appeared at a Playboy luncheon featuring his discussion of the previous day's contest. He said of Sunday's 20-17 Bear loss to the Dallas Cowboys: "We should have punted and settled for a tie."

Butkus referred to a fourth-down play with less than a foot to go and with less than 4 minutes remaining in the game. Bobby Joe Green went back to punt, but center Rich Coady snapped the ball to an upback, tackled Bob Parsons, who tried to run and was thrown for a three yard loss.

Giving up the ball on the Bears' 23, Dallas' Tom Fritsch had the opportunity barely two minutes later from the 11 yard line for a field goal to give the Cowboys a 20-17 win.

McMillian is traded to Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The National Basketball Association Buffalo Braves traded seven-foot center Elmore Smith today to the Los Angeles Lakers for forward Jim McMillian.

The expansion Braves hope the 6-3 McMillian, who signed a new contract last week with the Lakers, will be the good shooting, small forward they have been looking for.

Smith, in his third year of professional basketball, did not report to the Braves training camp last week at Fredonia State College because of what a club spokesman called "contract problems."

Smith became expendable Saturday when Buffalo signed rookie center Kevin Kunert, another seven-footer, to a contract. Kunert and forward Garfield Heard were acquired in a trade which sent forward John Hamner and a future draft choice to the Chicago Bulls.

At a news conference to announce the trade, Braves General Manager Eldo Donovan said "McMillian is a great talent, a winner. This week has been very productive for us."

"We're still talking to several other clubs about some other things," Donovan added. "I've already had three different phone calls this morning from interested teams."

Johnny Bench gets hearing

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Johnny Bench, Cincinnati Reds' catcher, has been granted a hearing with National League president Chub Feeney to appeal a two-day suspension and $200 fine imposed on him as a result of his argument with plate umpire Andy Olsen last Saturday night.

The hearing will be held Thursday when the Reds are in San Francisco to play the Giants.

Feeney said the penalties imposed would be rescinded pending the outcome of the hearing.

Bench was notified Monday of the suspension and fine for allegedly bumping Olsen and using abusive language. He immediately appealed the ruling and the hearing was granted.

Manager Sparky Anderson, who was ejected from the game along with Bench during the same argument, was also fined $300 for what Olsen reported as "abusive actions and language."

Senator says NFL treasuries weren't hurt by loss of fans

NEW YORK (UPI) — According to Sen. John D. Pastore, D-R.I., National Football League club treasuries were not hurt by the almost 50,000 fans who were no-shows for Sunday's opening games.

Who got hurt? Why, the scalpers, said the senator, who was a sponsor of the legislation that banned local blackouts of games sold out 72 hours in advance.

"I'd like to see the number of tickets left in the hands of the scalpers," Pastore said on the Senate floor in Washington.

He also made a quick decision to change this law. I want to see the roster of people who buy tickets."

The Rhode Islander said he had heard that 3,000 persons bought out the 40,000 seats for the Washington Redskins' opener at Kennedy Stadium.

News tips

Individual club titles. Yet they are worried. Season ticket holders not coming for opening games on a day in which the weather was quite good almost everywhere; leads the clubs to think that season buyers, unhappy with poor locations, will shy off buying again next season, in the hope that the games will sell out anyhow. But, should that come to pass, the money would no longer be in the till — nor would the fan get to see the game for free.

There always have been "no-shows" at NFL games, but many clubs have arbitrarily set their "official" sellout figure below the actual number of seats available because many seats either have an obstructed view or are bad for other reasons.

It seems now that some clubs, and owner Leonard Toso of the Philadelphia Eagles is vocal in the matter, will now place all seats on sale, and if all seats are not sold before the 72-hour mark, the blackout will stand.

Of interest was the New York Giants-Houston Oilers attendance call. The Giants have always announced the attendance based on ticket sale, not turnstile count. On Sunday, the turnstile count was given at 57,979 — the lowest Giant attendance since 1961. The club announced 3,850 ticket holders did not show up, apparently taking the game on home TV.

In Cleveland where the Browns game against Baltimore was not televised, there were 2,566 no-shows and an additional 2,313 seats unsold.

In Minnesota, the Vikings, according to a club official, had "about as many no-shows as we've ever had for a sellout." The official noted that the weather was good, but that he expected the situation to worsen as the weather worsens. The Vikings have announced they are sold out for the season.

There were 65 cars competing for over $100 in prize money. The two wheel stardards put on a really fine show.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Promises broken, by you or others, is likely to be the order of the day. You would be wise to carry through with whatever promises you have made. Curb the urge to let restlessness take you from one interest to another. ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Being most careful in motion is important now so you can avoid accidents. Guard your words, too, so that you don't offend others. Count your change when shopping. Listen to a pal's advice. TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Don't invest unwisely whether in a small or larger way or you could regret it later. Endeavor to be more understanding of others. Study a new activity that could be profitable in the future. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you come up with some ticklish matter at home, you could destroy the harmony that exists there now. Wait until a better day before you engage in a new outlet that interests you. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Instead of feeling sorry for yourself because you are not getting ahead fast, become more active in the right channels. Take time to improve your appearance. Attend the social tonight. LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Personal relationships are more important today than monetary dealings, so keep focused on the former. A personal aim can be reached easily now. Control your temper. Avoid one who bucks. VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Making sure to handle public duties in the morning makes it possible later to gain personal aims of importance. Obtain the facts and figures that are vital in your line of endeavor. LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 23) You have a new plan in mind and getting it to work quickly can bring success in the near future. Study your responsibilities well and know what should be done about them. Be more cheerful. SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Show that you are scrupulous in handling any obligations and promises you have made. If you endeavor to run away from your duties, you could get into much trouble. Be more self-reliant. SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Make sure you don't enter into an argument between an associate and a higher-up. Show more courtesy to others and make progress through own efforts. Avoid one who is troublesome. CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Get busy with work you have to do and avoid trying to get away with anything or you could get into trouble. Acquire the new implements that can help you to do your work better. Be wise. AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) It would be wise at this time to avoid expensive amusements. Sidestep one who brings up subjects that are depressing. Show more kindness to loved one. Engage in favorite hobby tonight. PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) An argument between you and one at home could become serious so make sure you take steps to avoid it. Make plans to handle your tasks more efficiently. Satisfy your curiosity through study. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who will do so much looking on both sides of any situation it will be difficult to make up the mind as to which is right. Give the spiritual training that will help to make decisions quickly and well. The education should be directed along artistic lines. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

L. M. Boyd

A man with a fairly sharp-tipped nose tends to be bad tempered. If his nose is large but somewhat blunt, he's most likely to be generous. And the man with the nose that a bulbous at its end is apt to be rude, crude and downright dirty. No, I don't believe the foregoing. But that old Greek sage Aristotle did. He said so.

Average telephone book with normal use grows in thickness by about 15 per cent in six months. Just about twice as many kinds of cabs live in Africa as in India. Boy babies tend to go to sleep more promptly than girl babies, but girl babies sleep about five minutes longer on the average. Claim as an illiterate grownup can learn to write a simple letter in about three weeks. Am asked if any living thing, besides man, wages war in battle formations. Only ants.

QUESTIONS FROM CLIENTS

Q "You said both stultifying and dulling are more common among boys. What's a dulling?"
A A tendency to jumble up words. As in Spoonerisms. A duller might say "Chief loads of Staff" or "Diction's Websterary."
Q "When an American wine is labeled Burgundy, what's that mean?"
A Mean it's red, that's all.
Q "How many baby porpoises can a mama porpoise nurse at one time?"
A Two.
Client asks the first activity ever recorded on motion picture film that was a simple snooze. By one Mr. Fred Ott. He was an assistant to Thomas A. Edison. His historic snooze occurred in 1893. In Edison's laboratory at West Orange, N.J.

ELEPHANTS

Like a lot of wild animals, untamed elephants seem instinctively to loathe fire. But it doesn't panic them. If they see a campfire or a pile of burning logs, they're apt to charge, the flames to stamp them out. Naturalists credit these elephants with saving millions of acres of African timberland.
It was that Columbia University economist George Stigler who said "An American can still lead humbly and adequately for something in the neighborhood of $100 a year. His diet: 370 pounds of wheat flour, 57 cans of evaporated milk, 111 pounds of cabbage, 25 pounds of spinach, and 285 pounds of navy beans."
In a poll of married women in this country, 57 per cent admitted they know how to clean a fish. The remaining 43 per cent were either very smart or not so very.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices opened higher in moderate trading Tuesday on the New York Stock Exchange.

Shortly after the opening, the Dow Jones industrial average had risen 0.52 to 893.51.

Analysts weighing the significance of IBM's downward move said the market had passed a tough test Monday in maintaining its gains, even as the $3.8 billion loss in IBM's market value distorted a number of market averages.

Other observers said Telex's legal victory against the computer giant in court may have raised doubts among investors concerning the legal vulnerability of other blue chip companies.
