

More Americans working, but jobless rate holds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of Americans holding jobs, almost stagnant for five months, surged upward by 700,000 in September but unemployment held stubbornly at about 4.8 per cent for the fourth month in a row, the government reported today.

The jobless rate did not improve despite the increase in the number of jobholders because it was offset by a rise of 750,000 in the number of persons entering the labor force.

The increase of 700,000 in jobholders pushed total employment to a record high of 85.1 million after adjustment for seasonal factors. This was the first monthly increase since June and only the second month since March that employment advanced.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said total employment had risen by 2.75 million persons over the past 12 months.

The number of unemployed workers remained essentially unchanged last month at close to 4.3 million after seasonal adjustment, representing an over-the-year decline of half a million.

The unemployment rate has been on a downward trend since holding at a level of about 6 per cent for 19 consecutive months until May of last year. It dropped to 5.2 per cent last November and held at about 5 per cent until May.

Joblessness declined in June to 4.8 per cent — the first time since June of 1970 that it had been under 5 per cent.

The employment statistics followed by a day a report showing that wholesale prices — led by a 6 per cent decline in food costs — registered a 1.8 per cent drop in September. Both figures were the largest decreases for any month since February, 1948.

Chairman Herbert Stein of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers said there had been even further wholesale price drops since the September statistics were gathered. He said the September drop was "a welcome sign that the worst of the big 1973 surge of inflation is behind us."

AFL-CIO President George Meany said the drop would be encouraging if a downward price trend continued, "but there is no evidence of that."

Meany predicted that the Cost of Living Council would approve most of the hundreds of price increase applications before it, suggesting that September's wholesale price figures "will prove to be only a momentary pause and prices will bounce up again."

The wholesale food prices decline included 16 per cent for live-poultry, 14.8 per cent for livestock, nearly 13.5 per cent for processed poultry, 13.1 per cent for grains, 12.9 per cent for fresh and dried vegetables, 8.6 per cent for eggs and almost 5.5 per cent for meats.

Main exceptions were milk, which rose in price by 10.7 per cent — and has apparently continued to rise in recent days — and cereal and bakery products which went up 8.4 per cent.

In today's job report, the BLS said there was little or no change in the unemployment rates for major categories of workers.

Joblessness among household heads was listed at 2.7 per cent; married men, 2.1 per cent; adult men, 3.1 per cent; adult women, 4.8 per cent; teenagers, 14.4 per cent; white workers, 4.2 per cent, and black workers 9.4 per cent.

The BLS said that the labor force usually declines sharply in September as young people leave the labor market to return to school, but this year the decline was less than normal.

Agnew subpoenas newsmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lawyers for Spiro T. Agnew served subpoenas on various newsmen today in an attempt to find out the source of news leaks in a federal investigation of allegations against the vice president involving an alleged Maryland kickback scheme.

Among the first reported receiving subpoenas were representatives of the Washington Post, New York Times, Washington Star-News, Time magazine and NBC.

The subpoenas were issued a few hours prior to filing in federal court in Baltimore of the Justice Department's reply to a motion by Agnew's lawyers to halt the grand jury investigation on the grounds the vice president is immune from indictment while still in office.

Bush sidesteps Agnew aid query

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Republican National Chairman George Bush says he is certain President Nixon will be helping on the congressional campaign trails next year but he doesn't know about Vice President Agnew.

Asked about Agnew, Bush said, "I don't know. I'd not like to contribute to idle speculation. We have an awful lot of experts around making judgments about Agnew, an innuendo and rumor and I'd like not to join that."

Oregon pot penalty lowered

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Smoking marijuana became less hazardous in Oregon today as a new law went into effect reducing the maximum penalty to a $100 fine.

The previous penalty had been up to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine. In other states the penalty for possession of even small amounts of marijuana is as high as 10 years in prison.

Under the new Oregon law possession of less than one ounce of marijuana, or enough for about 20 cigarettes, is no longer a crime but treated as a violation, the same legal category as a traffic offense.

Quake rocks Santiago

SANTIAGO (UPI) — A rumbling pre-dawn earthquake rocked Chile early today, blanketing out the port or Valparaiso and tossing thousands of persons from their beds in capital Santiago's shaking buildings.

There were no immediate reports of injuries.

The quake and two aftershocks sent buildings swaying in central Chile while residents were in their homes during a strict dusk-to-dawn curfew imposed by the country's military rulers.

Actor loses arm, leg

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor James Stacy was in satisfactory condition Thursday from injuries suffered in a traffic accident in which he lost his left arm and leg. Doctors said he was improving.

Stacy, 36, had been in critical condition since the accident Sept. 28 in which the actor's companion, Clair Cox, 27, of Sherman Oaks, was killed.

Suit costs Clorox $1.8 million

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) — The Clorox Co agreed in U.S. district court Thursday to pay $1.8 million to six children who swallowed a liquid drain cleaner which destroyed their esophagi.

Judge Earl E. O'Connor approved the settlement, freeing the company of any further claims by the children or their parents. The families live in Kansas City, Kan., Kansas City, Mo., Chanute, Kan., and St. Joseph, Mo.

Go Bruins!

DECORATED HOMES of Twin Falls. Bruin football players was all part of the annual Twin Falls High School Homecoming today. On tap today are the Homecoming parade at 2:30 p.m. and the Twin Falls Bruin-Nampa Bulldog football game at 8 p.m. The Homecoming Dance will be held Saturday night in the High School gymnasium.

Victim found

GLENN'S FERRY — The body of Leslie Wayne Hall, 20, Glenns Ferry, was discovered early Thursday morning along Pasadena Valley Road on the east edge of Glenns Ferry.

Elmore County deputy sheriff George Taylor said Hall apparently died when his truck left the road and then ran over him.

The Elmore County coroner said Hall died at about 9:30 Wednesday night.

Hall was driving a farm truck along Pasadena Valley Road when he evidently lost control of the truck and it went off the road into some rocks, investigators said.

Taylor said the impact of the truck hitting the rocks apparently threw Hall from the vehicle and the truck then ran over him.

Demos bugged

NEW YORK (UPI) — Florida officials have evidence that the Democratic party's headquarters at the 1972 convention in Miami Beach was bugged by Republican agents, NBC News said Thursday.

The network quoted Richard Gerstein, the local state prosecutor, as saying the information about "secret listening devices" came from James McCord, who has been convicted in the Watergate affair. NBC said McCord denied this.

Gerstein has been investigating the alleged convention bugging for months. He was unavailable for comment today.

"Evidently, they wanted to bug important persons in the Democratic party to find out what was happening in the way of political plans and what was happening during the convention," Gerstein said in a televised interview on the NBC evening news.

"We have every reason to believe that they successfully carried out this mission," he said. "It was political espionage, but it involved much more than 'dirty tricks.' It involved illegal bugging, which is a crime in this state."

Holiday frees TF workers

TWIN FALLS — Monday, officially designated as Columbus Day, will be a holiday for most office workers in Twin Falls.

All state, federal and county offices will be closed. As of this morning city offices were still in question but had announced plans to stay open. City Manager Jean Milar said he will have to check the state law and if the city is required to close the office will naturally close.

A labor official in Boise said Boise City offices had intended to remain open but will close in view of the state law declaring Columbus Day an official holiday in Idaho.

Banks, and the U. S. Post Office will be closed all day Monday. Schools will be open Monday as usual but will close on Friday for Teacher Institute. Most downtown stores have indicated they will also be open Monday as usual.

John Jones, in the office of the Idaho commissioner of labor, said the Idaho state legislature has adopted Columbus Day as an official holiday and the state law directs cities, counties and others to close their offices in observance.

He said other private agencies, such as newspaper offices, may close or remain open as dictated by the employer. No double time or overtime is required for those working on holidays, he said, unless the worker has exceeded his 40 hours.

Jerry Jensen, U. S. Wage and Hour Division, Department of Labor, said there are no federal laws covering holiday work and employers may determine working or not working on Columbus day or other federal holidays and need pay overtime or double time only if the worker has exceeded the 40 hour work week.

Jones said the Idaho Legislature also changed Veterans Day from Oct. 22 to Nov. 12 in Idaho and the same regulations will apply then. All county, city and state offices will be closed, he said.

TF field eyed for area role

By DAVID HOBSMAN
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Refusing to let "time and money go by the wayside," the South Idaho Regional Airport Authority (SIRAA) Thursday agreed to consider taking over Joslin Field as an interim regional airport.

But some big "ifs" were tied to the consideration. If approved, the take over would be completed only if Twin Falls County votes to join SIRAA. SIRAA would pay all maintenance and operation costs at Joslin Field under the proposal.

George Forscher, Burley, SIRAA chairman, said he would make the proposal to the regional authority's board of trustees at its next meeting.

SIRAA officers and Twin Falls City and County officials met Thursday night at the Holiday Inn. Approximately 60 persons sat in on the meeting, including officials and citizens from most Magic Valley counties.

Forscher also announced at the meeting that SIRAA will make a decision "within the month" on a permanent site for the regional airport. In proposing the interim take over of Joslin Field he stressed that another, permanent regional airport was the ultimate goal of SIRAA.

An engineer, advising Forscher, said Joslin Field would probably be used as the regional airport for "3 to 5 years" under the interim plan until the permanent facility is completed.

Although Forscher would not confirm it, a site northeast of the Interstate 80-Highway 93 Intersection in Jerome County will probably be picked for the permanent regional airport. The site was given priority in an engineering study commissioned by SIRAA.

The recommendations that SIRAA assume operation of Joslin Field was made in a "general consensus" resolution drafted by the Twin Falls City Council and County Commissioners and the Twin Falls City-County Airport Commission.

"If SIRAA would take over Joslin Field, we feel the taxpayers could consider giving their support and pay their share of the total cost," the resolution said.

Cable Vision hikes prices

TWIN FALLS — Inflationary pressure was cited by a company official as the reason for a 21 per cent increase in Cable Vision charges to subscribers effective Oct. 1.

The base rate for the firm's service to subscribers in Twin Falls and the surrounding area was increased from $1.95 monthly to $2.36 monthly.

Ken Walker, general manager, said increased costs of materials and labor and other effects of inflation were behind the fee increase. He said it was the first for the firm since 1960.

Walker said the increase did not require action by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission or the federal prior board.

He said other cable television firms serving other areas of the Magic Valley had increased their rates several years ago.

Chavez abandons Gem boycott

By LESTER KINSOLVING
Times-News Washington Bureau

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Cesar Chavez said Thursday he had abandoned a planned boycott of Idaho potatoes because of quick action by Gov. Cecil Andrus.

The head of the United Farm Workers said the Governor had acted to curtail illegal immigration of migrant workers — the major complaint by Chavez' organization.

Cesar Chavez, here to address the triennial conference of the Episcopal Church, Thursday told reporters details of the proposed boycott during a press conference.

He said an assistant to Gov. Cecil Andrus had cooperated with his union's attorneys so that the importing of the illegal immigrant workers was properly curtailed.

When asked about reports that militant AIM leader Vernon Riffe had demanded that the Episcopal church contribute $100,000 to the Wounded Knee Defense Fund, Chavez said he didn't know about the demand but that he supported the principle of churches giving money to the poor, and that his Farm workers have cooperated with AIM (American Indian Movement).

When asked if the money received by AIM always reaches the genuinely poor rather than the AIM leaders, Chavez said, "I really don't know that much about AIM."

As for the issue of abortion and birth control, Chavez explained to newsmen that he is not opposed to abortion in such cases as the 13-year-old girl who was gang-raped and impregnated in a Chicago playground last year, although he is "genuinely opposed" to abortion.

Sheriff scores

narcs

CALDWELL (UPI) — State narcotics agents are on the borderline of interfering with local drug law enforcement, Sheriff George Nourse said today.

"I wouldn't be opposed to state involvement in an area lacking its own resources," the Canyon County officer said.

"But I'm unequivocally opposed to any state agency designed to take over local law enforcement.

"It's certainly bordering on that," he said, adding, "I'm thinking in terms of the state narcotics division."

Nourse said he believes some of the money now spent at the state level for narcotics investigation should be funneled into local enforcement.

"When people find out someone's giving dope to their kids they don't call Tony Park (the attorney general)," he said.

"They call the local police or the sheriff. And if it's not taken care of that's who they blame. That's who they should blame," he said. "That's where the constitution puts the responsibility."

Nourse said the city-county narcotics division in Canyon County is doing a good job at present.

"We've got the people that are trained, that are experienced," Nourse said. "The help we need is money. Quite frankly, the state hasn't impressed me," Nourse said. "We've relied more on federal agents than state."

Nourse said he has a good working relationship with the state police and with the state liquor law enforcement officers. He said he has "no complaints" about state law enforcement commissioner John Bender.

"There's no one coming in here and telling us how to run it and we appreciate what they do," he said.

Reorganization proposals heard

BOISE (UPI) — Suggestions for a chancellor of higher education and an elected Idaho Board of Education were among proposals presented Thursday to the Executive Reorganization Commission.

The commission will meet Oct. 25 for the final session to form tentative recommendations that will be presented to the legislature.

The board did not make any final decisions or reorganizing education after the session with education officials and members of the Idaho Board of Education.

Alan Smith, executive secretary of the Idaho School Boards Association, asked the commission to look at the feasibility of having an elected state board.

He said a resolution calling for an elected board will be presented at the association convention along with a proposal to have the state superintendent appointed by the elected board.

Smith said it is one of the options the board could consider but warned against "making the superintendent an appointed position without making this board an elective one."

"To have both an appointed board and an appointed superintendent would take education completely away from the citizens at the state level," he said.

Smith also suggested giving the state superintendent a free hand in implementing the board policy.

Hope Kading, vice president of the Education Commission of the States, suggested reorganization include a chancellor of higher education to act as ex-officio member of the board and as the administrative officer of higher education.

'Seniors' convene in TF

TWIN FALLS — Dr. Gerald Reed, Boise, director of special projects at Boise Junior College told some 241 senior citizens in Twin Falls Wednesday they should do something for themselves. "Everyone is doing something for senior citizens," Dr. Reed said.

"Why not have the senior citizens do something for themselves?" Speaking on "Gray America," the population of retirement age, Reed discussed some of the programs available to that group of exclusive residents. He was one of several speakers for the second annual Senior Citizens Rally for Magic Valley. Approximately seven counties were represented in the Wednesday meeting at the College of Southern Idaho.

Jack Carlton, manager of the Social Security Agency, Twin Falls, discussed changing Social Security situations and regulations. Cindy Varin, dietitian at the Twin Falls Clinic Hospital, talked on special diets and nutrition requirements.

TF site named for spring meet

TWIN FALLS — Edna Belle Oslund, Twin Falls member of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Aging, said today the committee meeting in Boise last week ended in selection of Twin Falls for the "spring" conference on aging.

included approval of the expansion of the talent fund held last year. It will be expanded to a Festival of Arts for senior citizens. As a festival, it will include not only the performing arts featured last year but a folk art show featuring all types of art created by senior citizens.

Other speakers included Kent Taylor, attorney, discussing the importance of wills and probate matters. Nancy Taylor in charge of the RSVP, (Retired Senior Volunteers Program) in Twin Falls discussed the program's assistance to senior citizens. She also presented each delegate with a gold card which admits the senior citizens type of charge to all CSI events such as games, drama events and other special activities. Additional cards are available from her office at CSI.

Special entertainment during the day included saxophone numbers by Marvin Brown, state talent find-winner of last year. Diana Ronn, former Miss Idaho, presented a number of songs and was joined by the delegates in singing "America" and "God Bless America."

Paper to close

BOISE (UPI) — The editor of the Intermountain Observer said today the weekly newspaper "has reached the end of its hope financially" and is preparing to stop publication.

Day was referring to the appearance of U.S. Supreme Court Associate Justice William O. Douglas last week at Boise State College. The speaker appeared on behalf of the Observer in an attempt to raise money.

Late reports could cost $

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, said the failure of Idaho to meet a September deadline could cost the state more than a million dollars of revenue sharing funds to which it is entitled.

Late reports which are received and recorded in the office of revenue sharing during the month of October will probably qualify those governments for a supplement check representing payment for the first quarter of entitlement period 4," Hansen said.

Let's You And Him Fight

Friday, October 5, 1973... Member of Audit Bureau of Circulation and UPI...

Nader, The Villain; Nader, The Hero

It's news of some kind when a businessman has nice words to say about Ralph Nader...

The consumer-advocate has been described in some quarters as "an enemy of the system..."

"The whole point of Nader," says Rust, "is so obvious that it is often overlooked..."

That, he says, "suggests a considerable degree of faith in the system and contrasts sharply with the revolutionary who would tear it down..."

Well, you won some and you lose some.

At about the same time that Rust was praising the Caesar of the consumerism movement, another source was challenging him to put his convictions where his mouth is.

The point of contention was Nader's recent charge that "there's no question that the oil industry has been calculatingly developing a short-term energy crisis in order to get what it wants out of Washington..."

The claim is "nonsense — and state nonsense, at that," counters the American Petroleum Institute. "If Mr. Nader has facts to back up his charge..."

The energy shortage is "real and will not go away any time soon," says the institute, maintaining that "the basic cause has been years of indecision over national energy policies..."

If the effect of Nader's blast against the oil industry is to encourage Americans to go their merry energy-consuming ways, it would seem that it would be a less-than-desirable consequence of his dedication to making the free enterprise system work...

But whatever one's feelings about business or consumerism, it has to be agreed that Ralph Nader makes waves.

(c) Chicago Daily News WASHINGTON — "Let's you and him fight..."

President Nixon has adopted a starched-collar version of that old barroom cry in supporting both Vice President Spiro Agnew and the Justice Department's handling of what he calls "serious and not frivolous" charges against Agnew.

To most observers of Mr. Nixon's manner and language, he appeared to be more sympathetic toward Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson than Agnew. But the judgment was a subjective one, not easily sustained by the words he used in a quickly arranged news conference.

The President said Agnew's defiantly stated position, that he would not resign if indicted or charged on political corruption while he was a state and local official in Maryland, was "an altogether proper one."

In effect, the President was affirming an obvious fact when he said that the Vice President, unlike cabinet officials or members of the White House staff, was elected by all the people and holds his office "in his own right..."

Some politicians thought the President was something less than enthusiastic about Agnew's stance when he noted that matter of resignation was "one for him to decide..."

With his administration already badly jolted by the Watergate scandal, an indictment against Agnew would further weaken public faith in the honesty and integrity of the government, according to opinion samplings. But the President seemed to view the affair as a narrowly legal one, and again appealed for a presumption of innocence.

The President said that Agnew has denied the charges to him "privately on three occasions..."

But, in response to a question whether he still supported Peterson's handling of the investigation, the President said that if he did not, he would have removed Peterson at this time.

Richardson "assures me" that Peterson has handled the Agnew inquiry "without prejudice in advance..."

Thus, the President danced and sidestepped around any attempt to get him to choose up sides against either Agnew or Richardson and his Justice Department. But he avoided the opportunity to demonstrate he was in complete charge of his administration and capable of composing bitter divisions of historic consequences within it.

The President fielded a number of questions about foreign and domestic policy, and was visibly relieved when they were asked. He even displayed a determined effort to be laconic about economic queries. But the Agnew inquiries caused him to tense up, and his voice was often uneven in answering them.

Agnew's aides and associates were not surprised that the President appeared resigned to Agnew churling his own course. The Vice President had intended to do just that before the President called his news conference, they said.

Meanwhile, the grand jury hearing allegations against Agnew in Baltimore heard U. S. District Court Judge Walter Hoffman instruct it to ignore comments and news leaks in the media — in considering the evidence. Hoffman also granted a request by Agnew's lawyers for authority to take depositions and subpoena evidence relating to the news leaks.

WILLIAM SAFIRE

The Petersen Case

(c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The deputy attorney general of the United States, William French Buckley III, called the other day to tell me how wrong I was to accuse his associate, Henry Petersen, of personally leaking a prejudgment of the Agnew case...

Ruckelshaus, who has earned a reputation for being a straight shooter, said that the leak was attributed to "sources close to the investigation" and not Petersen himself, which this reporter has verified. My apologies: Petersen did not plant the story personally.

Then the deputy attorney general went on to make three points that say a great deal about the way the Agnew investigation is being conducted:

1. Petersen never said those words. Neither Petersen nor Attorney General Richardson, who was in the room, remember Petersen saying that. The quote is probably a phony, they indicate now, about two weeks after the damaging pronouncement has had the widest circulation.

2. Maybe the leak came from Agnew's lawyers. Ruckelshaus was careful not to make this charge directly, but he asked rhetorically "who stands to gain the most? The prosecution stands to lose if the process is poisoned by prejudicial publicity..."

3. Petersen probably did use some strong language along those lines to attorneys for other potential defendants. With that, Ruckelshaus went to the heart of the matter.

Put yourself in Henry Petersen's shoes: You have been made to look like a bumbling cover-upper before the Watergate committee. Your lifelong reputation as a tough cop has been unfairly compromised. Your old boss, John Mitchell, is testifying that there were illegalities connected with the extension of FBI wiretaps, which could point right at you as a corner-cutter. And a major justice department scandal is about to break which will reveal that you and an associate improperly signed somebody else's name to "notifications" of the right to wiretap which could result in 159 criminal cases being thrown out by the Supreme Court.

In those circumstances, you have a natural desire to be known as the first prosecutor to get a Vice President. This will bring you immunity from criticism from anti-Agnew mouthpieces who believe that civil liberties do not exist for anybody to the right of Daniel Ellsberg.

Accordingly, you call in a series of attorneys for a group of scared, and possibly guilty, men. You say, in effect, that the first one in gets the best deal. You might have even used that phrase, but I am reluctant to use direct quotes from reconstructed conversations. You proceed to blackjack them: If their clients don't talk, or if they do not say the right thing when they do talk, they go to jail. But if they do say what the prosecutor wants to hear, they go scot free: that is not called bribery and coercion, the euphemism is "immunity," and it powerfully concentrates the mind.

In the course of these blackjacks, Petersen says — repeatedly — that he already has an airtight case against the Vice President. He spreads the word far and wide, to dozens of attorneys whose clients' interests call for its leakage, that the head of the criminal division of the department of justice has the evidence "cold" to convict the Vice President.

Then Henry Petersen turns to Elliot Richardson and William French Buckley III and says — leak? Who, me? I never talked to a reporter. Where could this terrible prejudicial publicity be coming from? "The average citizen does not know how the immunity statutes can be abused," says the Vice President. "When some guy sees a jail cell opening up, and a prosecutor says to him 'Wait — you don't have to go, just tell us about Mandel, or Agnew' do you have any idea what that does to the system of justice?"

Every one of the lawyers who were the target of the arm-twisting by Henry Petersen should be given the opportunity, under oath and with no prejudice to their clients, to report exactly what blackjacking they were subjected to.

Is it proper for the head of the criminal investigation division of the department of justice to broadcast his assessment of any man's guilt in a series of meetings? Ruckelshaus won't say — but the Petersen technique of guilt-by-pronouncement makes a mockery of the assurance given to the President that Petersen was "in no way involved" with leaks or otherwise "guilty of an indiscretion."

We don't know the facts, but we do know the techniques; and if we condone them in the case of Agnew, we will see reputation-seeking prosecutors using the immunity blackjack to get indictments on every man seeking the highest public office.

Double-standards will let their opinion of Spiro Agnew cloud their judgment on the prosecutorial precedents that are being set today; but the robes of retribution will be applying the new rules tomorrow to John Connally and Ted Kennedy, to Edmund Muskie and Elliot Richardson. Or even you and me.

ANTHONY LEWIS

Food Is Limited

(c) N. Y. Times Service BOSTON — The sharp rise in food prices over the last year, the world around, has profoundly disturbing implications. For it may reflect strains not only on present supplies but on the earth's agricultural capacity.

There is an unmistakable and mounting sense of uneasiness and foreboding, the director general of the food and agriculture organization, A. H. Boerma, said last summer. He spoke of "dismaying" developments and said there were signs of "a radical process of change..."

But it is not only food that has felt "disturbingly heavy pressures of world demand on limited supply. The London Economist's respected index of world commodity prices in fact shows that food is up less than other items: Only — just imagine that word — 50 per cent in the last year. The price of fibers has risen 93 per cent, of metals: 76. The index as a whole is up 70 per cent in one year.

Quite apart from the symptom of prices, we all can sense what one economist has called "the gathering clouds of resource shortages — legal and political conflict over control of the sea and its resources is sharpening. There is the energy crisis. Lumber and newsprint supplies are short."

The signals of strain make one think again of "the limits to growth," the book published just 19 months ago by a group of scientists at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Based on a computer model, it argued that the mushrooming growth of world population and production would reach earthly limits in the next century.

bringing a collapse of industrial society.

"The limits to growth" was intended to provoke, and it did. After all, it struck at a premise of our civilization: the beneficence of economic growth. Many economists denounced it. Some scientists criticized its computer model as overambitious or flawed.

A proposition as broad as the one made in that report is not affirmatively provable — or at least not until too late. But it is possible to see over time whether developments in it or tend to support the general thesis.

In this case the authors understandably find some grim vindication in events. The group has moved to Dartmouth College, and there Prof. Dennis Meadows said the other day:

"If I had stood up in March, 1972, and said that within two years we would see beef on the black market in this country, and retail food prices up 20 per cent or more, and families going cold for lack of heating oil, I'd have got very long odds. But these things have happened, and they will continue happening."

Thereal thrust of the Meadows report was political. I argued that accelerating growth posed a new kind of challenge to human society — to stabilize population and production on a world basis. In terms of meeting that "challenge the record of the last two years is bleakly discouraging."

The Nixon Administration has reacted to the signs of resource pressure with an attitude of business as usual or more so. Is lumber short? Plunder the national forests. A threatened oil crisis? Build an Alaska pipeline and increase offshore drilling. Food prices rising? Put an embargo on exports.

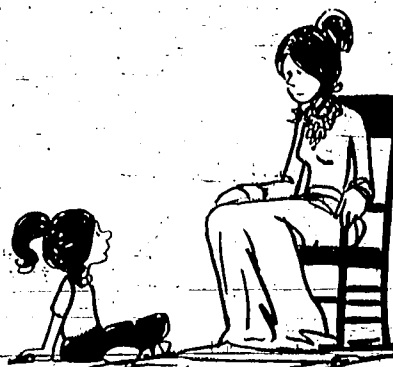

It is all too frightening close to the danger that "the limits of growth" foresaw — growing destruction of the environment and national scrambling for scarce resources. Nor is the record encouraging elsewhere in the world. As the solution to their problems, politicians continue to give the same answer: More.

Consider, for example, the American Energy problem. Anyone can see that the United States is prodigal in its use of oil and electricity. Our first necessity is serious measures of conservation. How can we cry shortage while we build abundantly overpowered cars and encourage energy-intensive industry? But the government pays only lip-service to conservation, planning instead to develop new energy sources "at enormous cost."

Or think about food. If the world is dependent on American exports, as it is, we shall have to limit our own consumption to meet the demand — or else let millions starve. How would we limit our consumption? Let domestic prices rise? But then our own poor suffer. Rationing? Subsidized distribution? And to which needy foreigners do we sell our grain? And how will they pay? The dilemmas are terrifying.

The scientific particulars of "the limits of growth" remain beyond the understanding of most of us. But even critics are beginning to recognize that the book poses valid and urgent questions. Can our world, with all its divisions of nation and interest, deal with the visible strains of physical growth? We await a political leader who will begin to make us face the problems.

BERRY'S WORLD

1973 by NEA, Inc. Do pricas ever go DOWN?

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

The Doctor Says

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband became ill with high fever and chills. Figuring he had the flu, he stayed in bed four or five days.

He developed a swollen gland on his arm and had chest pains and went to the doctor thinking he might have blood poisoning. He was given penicillin but continued to get worse and finally was hospitalized for five days with his arm in that pack.

The swelling started to go down and he was allowed to go home with the understanding that he keep his arm in hot packs and take antibiotics, but two weeks later the swelling and pains started to increase.

Then he mentioned that he had been doing some squirrel hunting and the doctor immediately ordered a blood test which showed he had tularemia, or "rabbit fever."

The glands in his arm had to be lanced and drained but the doctor said it would still take some time for the lumps to go away completely. Should another blood test be run?

It was believed he got tularemia through a tiny cut on his finger while cleaning squirrels. This cut developed into a terrible ulcer which took weeks to heal — Mrs. T. S.

That's a classic description of tularemia, even to the relapse after initial treatment, and it is well worth reading, just to remind ourselves that "rabbit fever" is still around — and it's no joke to get it.

The germ is present in small animals, particularly wild rabbits and squirrels. Some birds also are infected.

Hence hunters should be very cautious in handling and dressing the animals. The germ usually gets into the system through some otherwise trivial cut or break in the skin, but there is strong suspicion that the disease can be contracted even when there is no break in the skin. That's why it is recommended that gloves be worn while handling the animals. Cooking makes the meat safe to eat; but by that time the damage has already been done. In this specific case of tularemia, I see no necessity for additional tests.

but your own physician would be in better position to judge whether there are any other signs you haven't told me about.

In the average case you have to expect it to take quite a bit of time before the swollen glands subside.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband was 40-d at 13 and it was agony. The boys stared and made indelent remarks. My bra straps cut into my shoulders and I could hardly stand it, and I became stoop shouldered.

The way some people look at me makes me feel like a freak. I am 60 now, and my bust is big and sagging. I'm 5 feet tall and weigh 155, not married and have no children.

I'm ashamed to go to a doctor because he will make fun of me, like my family. — M.F.S.

After nearly 50 years, you've made up your mind that everybody is going to make fun of you, but that is not so. Doctors have helped people like you, and you should not expect ridicule from them.

So go to a doctor. Surgery is possible to remove excess breast tissue. But do not be surprised if the doctor also insists that you lose some weight, because 155 pounds at your height is too much.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I saw your article about agar or other artificial bulk producers. I would like to know where to buy this product. I have inquired at a large super-valut and they didn't carry it. — M.F.S.

All drug stores carry these products. Deal with a pharmacist, not a clerk who may not know. Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching, and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper requesting a copy of his booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Richest and strongest of nations we may be, but we seem to have lost any concern for those who are young or weak, old or poor. — Dr. Margaret Mead, testifying before a Senate subcommittee investigating the condition of American families: I want to kick all the scoundrels out of the legal profession. # SS boost clears panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A speed up and increase in Social Security benefits to help the aged fight inflation has cleared the Senate Finance Committee. By voice vote, the committee Thursday approved a 7 per cent across-the-board increase to take effect the month it is enacted into law.

The Social Security increase, which would cost the social security trust fund $2 billion, will be attached to a minor-house-passed bill. The Senate is expected to vote on the bill within the next two weeks.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., who sponsored the proposal, said "I believe more firmly than ever that unless we move more swiftly, many of our senior citizens will sink below the poverty level."

"Their incomes are virtually frozen for another year," he added. "But prices, as we all know too well, are not."

"This 7 per cent increase is not a generous appeal, but an urgent demand," he added.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., a member of the committee, said "the evidence is quite clear that rampant inflation—especially the soaring costs of food, medicine, and housing—hurt most precisely those dependent on Social Security, the retired and the aged on fixed incomes."

"Many of the aged are in dire straits, and we simply must respond to their plight," Nelson added. He termed it "an emergency situation."

Last July Congress passed and President Nixon signed a 5.9 per cent across-the-board increase to take effect at the end of June, 1973.

The Finance Committee bill, if it gets through Congress and avoids a veto, would replace that increase.

Stoned to death

POLICE LIFT body of unidentified man from rocks at Columbia Point in South Boston Thursday after he was stoned to death by a group of 40- to 50-teenagers. The incident occurred less than 48 hours after a woman was set aflame and killed by six youths in Roxbury section of Boston. (UPI)

Senate decision pleases Church

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Thursday he was "extremely heartened" by the decision of the Senate Finance Committee in approving the thrust of his legislation to grant a seven-per-cent increase in Social Security benefits.

Under the measure approved by the Senate committee, the increase would go into effect immediately upon final enactment.

The Idaho senator, who is chairman of the Senate Special Committee on Aging, noted that 30 Senators have now joined him in co-sponsoring the legislation calling for the seven per cent increase.

Approval of the increase by the Senate, Church said, "is inevitable" because a majority of that body has endorsed the proposal.

Black teens kill elderly man

BOSTON (UPI) — An elderly white man was stoned and killed by a group of black teenagers Thursday. It was the second murder across racial lines in Boston within 48 hours.

Police prepared for "any kind of emergency."

In addition to the murders, a white man and a white woman were stabbed and robbed Thursday by black teenagers in the same general area where the elderly man was killed.

Police said there was "a definite tie-in" of the three separate incidents Thursday. They did not connect the Thursday incidents with the burning Tuesday night of Evelyn Wagner, 24, a white woman who told police from her deathbed that a group of black youths forced her to pour gasoline over herself, then set her ablaze. She died six hours later.

Two 16-year-old black youths were arrested in connection with Thursday's incidents. Police said other arrests were "imminent."

The man killed Thursday was identified as Ludjicio I. Barba, 65, who was attacked and killed as he was fishing from shore in Boston Harbor. Police said Barba was robbed and that 40-50 youths threw stones at him. His body was recovered from the water.

"I just can't believe it," Barba's wife Verna said.

At first report, police said Barba was "stoned to death." Later, they said they were unsure whether the actual stoning killed him or whether he drowned or tied from some other effect of the attack. An autopsy report was expected today.

The other attack victims Thursday were Ronald Leonard, 37, of Revere, Mass., and Clare Oates, 28, of Quincy, Mass. Leonard, knifed while he was moving furniture at the project, was on the danger list at Boston City Hospital. The woman suffered slash wounds on her face when youths attacked her in the parking lot of a nearby abandoned shopping center and stole her purse.

Earlier in the day, there was fighting between black and white youths in Andrew Square, a few hundred yards from the project. Last week, fighting across racial lines caused the temporary closing of Dorchester High School.

Mayor Kevin H. White and Police Commissioner Robert DiGrazia met to "assess the situation and coordinate activities and to be ready to deal with any kind of emergency that might come up in the communities," a spokesman for the mayor said. "The situation is delicate and sensitive, an hour-by-hour thing."

White has offered a $5,000 reward for apprehension of the killers of Mrs. Wagner, who told police before she died that six black youths accosted her while she was carrying a can of gasoline to her stalled car and forced her to pour the gasoline on herself before they set her ablaze.

Answers call, finds father

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Officer Dennis Huddleston, 27, was dispatched Wednesday to an apartment house where a burglary was reported in progress.

In front of the building Huddleston found the body of an elderly man, sprawled on the walk dead.

It was his father, Henry Huddleston, 70. Witnesses told police the older man had witnessed the burglary and struggled with the robber. He apparently died of a heart attack or a head injury.

Remember last spring?

Fall fertilization saves Springtime woes! Here's why...

- 7 Practical Reasons:

  - Fertilizer stocks are better, and faster delivery can be obtained.
  - You'll even up the spring rush work load, both in manpower and spreader equipment. You'll save time, labor and money by combining fertilization with fall tillage.
  - You can take advantage of good fall weather and not have to worry about those spring storms and muddy fields which often delay fertilization for weeks.
  - You'll avoid compaction and rutting of the soil which often occur in the spring if fields are wet and boggy (the kind that bog down your tractor too!)
  - You can take advantage of fast, economical broadcast application.
  - Soil tests are easier to take in the fall, with results returned more quickly, allowing your Simplot dealer to give you better service.
  - And remember that fall fertilization expenses are deductible on this year's income tax return, even though the benefits will apply to next year's crop!

7 Scientific Reasons:

  - You will be sure of the quickest crop response in the spring with fertilizer already in the soil, dispersed evenly... immediately available to root systems.
  - The danger of seed damage at germination will be minimized.
  - You will be assured of maximum late fall and early spring growth on many crops; you'll utilize every day of the growing season.
  - Winter-kill will be reduced by increasing root reserves.
  - Decomposition of crop residue will be hastened, adding additional nutrients to the soil and improving tilth. (Undecayed residue often interferes with seedbed preparation and planting, too.)
  - You'll be getting necessary N into fruit tree root zones at bloomtime when they need maximum fertility for early fruit maturity.
  - Fall fertilization, plus plow-down organic matter, will conserve moisture and aid in disease control.

When not to fall-fertilize

There are several instances in which fall fertilization is not recommended:

- Do not fall-fertilize steep, bare or frozen fields where topsoil might wash off or erode.
- Do not apply N in the fall to coarse, sandy soils.
- Do not fall-fertilize areas which water-log or pond in the spring when temperatures are warm.
- Do not fall-fertilize areas which slope more than 12°.

How much fertilizer should be applied?

The amount, type and rate of fertilizer to apply in the fall depends, of course, on such variables as the kind of crop, soil deficiencies, moisture level, management practices in short. Your individual situation.

Fortunately, you do not have to try to figure out the technical details. You have a friend who will do it for you, gladly, your Simplot dealer. He will discuss your requirements, help you test your soil, evaluate the results, and then, (optional) make a fall fertilization program for you, with YOUR crop, YOUR yield, and YOUR profit in mind. See him today!

Three hopefuls join race

BURLEY — Three new candidates have entered major races for the Nov. 6 municipal election in the Mini-Cassini area this week.

Kendall "Tilly," retired Burley businessman, has announced his candidacy for the mayor's post in Burley. His only opponent so far is City Clerk Charles (Chuck) Shaddock whose petition has been filed.

Calvin Heiner, Cassia county assessor, picked up two petitions for mayor Wednesday but could not be reached today for comment.

Roland Willis, former Burley police judge, has added his name to those running for Burley city council seats. A petition was picked up at the city office by incumbent Sylvan Burgi's wife, but Burgi has not yet indicated whether he will seek re-election.

Other candidates for the three Burley city council seats are James Roper and Jerry Vegwert, both incumbents; F. Curtis Paskett, Lon Clayton and Jerry Wyant.

Blaine Jensen will seek a seat on the Rupert City Council Nov. 6. The only other announced candidate for the two council seats to be filled in Rupert is Edwin S. Caldwell, incumbent Mayor Wendell Johnson. He is the only announced candidate for Rupert mayor.

Hearing slated on homes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House committee says it plans to hold a hearing next Wednesday on government spending for presidential homes.

Chairman of the House Government Operations Committee said the hearing on President Nixon's homes and those of previous presidents would be conducted by Rep. Dick Brooks, D-Tex., chairman of the panel's subcommittee on government activities.

During the Nixon administration, Brooks said, more than $10 million had been reported as having been spent on items such as the heating system, sewer line, den furniture, lawn sprinklers and other improvements on Nixon's personal property.

"Any expenditure of public funds on private property imposes a particular burden on government officials to be especially vigilant to assure that the funds are expended for clearly security or other purposes absolutely essential to the operation of the presidency," Brooks said.

Records of Agnew gift subpoenaed

ASHBYVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service has subpoenaed from Biltmore Industries records of a gift of four yards of cloth presented to Vice President Spiro Agnew during the 1967 Southern Governors Conference.

Harry Bloomberg, owner of Biltmore Industries, said two agents from the Charlotte office of the IRS Intelligence Division served the subpoena Wednesday, ordering that records be turned over to the special grand jury investigating allegations against Agnew.

Agnew received the gift of four yards of hosiery cloth, valued at $16.33, and 17 other gifts from Biltmore Industries during the convention. He was governor of Maryland at the time.

"I thought it was just something funny to me that they (IRS) would go to that much trouble," said Bloomberg, "but I guess they're just going all over the country to find any transaction he (Agnew) had with anybody."

Narc charges denied

BOISE (UPI) — State narcotics agents on Monday denied charges of "receiving stolen property" in the course of their work, their boss said today.

The Lewiston Morning Tribune said today its investigators found state police snooker marijuana at times, commit burglaries and receive stolen property, and sometimes engage in "entrapment and harassment."

Robert King, head of the Division of Narcotics and Organized Crime in the attorney general's office, denied some of the allegations.

"He agreed agents and those working under their control to receive stolen property under the direction of the Controlled Substances Act if they must use drugs in order to maintain their cover identities."

But King said he does not allow the agents to use hard drugs "and we discourage even the situation of smoking marijuana unless they are hard-nosed and you have to."

Generally, he said, an agent is able to "fake it" when asked to smoke marijuana.

"Hell," he said, "I've faked it a lot of times."

King vehemently denied that his agents commit such crimes as burglary.

"We don't commit crimes of burglary," he said. "We don't receive stolen property." "Sometimes, he said, his agents "buy" stolen property for local law enforcement officers to use in making their cases.

He also denied that his agents have "unlimited expense accounts."

"Hell no! They've got to answer to a supervisor and it has to go from him to the area supervisor to me," he said.

King also denied agents sign phony names to their expense vouchers to maintain cover.

"Maybe informants or something like that," he said. "They've got a payroll over there. They have their true name on it. They damn well don't get their check with a phony name on it."

In their report for the Tribune, reporters Bill Hall and Jay Shelley said state narcotics agents are sometimes paid salaries higher than those paid to police chiefs and sheriffs in Idaho.

King said the undercover agents make between $50 and $150 per month.

Hall and Shelley also said the majority of the agents are in their early 20s. King listed these ages for his men: 28, 34, 24, 20, 31, 23, 34, 35, 24, 24, 35, 27, 35, 45, 32, 26, 23, 28, 26, 24 and 26.

US troop pullout ill-timed

BOISE (UPI) — The commanding general of the Sixth Army said today it would be "most inopportune" at this time to pull American forces out of Europe.

Gen. E.D. Roberts, in Boise to inspect Army National Guard facilities at Gowen Field, disagreed with recent congressional efforts to bring American troops home from Europe.

"Military, American forces in NATO have a very vital contribution to make and if we withdraw them at this particular time it would be most inopportune," Roberts told a news conference.

He said President Nixon has a number of initiatives with Warsaw Pact nations to get an agreement for reduction of force.

Within the framework of such a negotiated agreement, he said, it would be all right to bring the troops home. But to pass legislation at this time or right at the threshold of these agreements would be inopportune, he said.

Sabotage admitted by panel witness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee has heard from a witness who says politics is always has been dirty and politicians are the only people who don't acknowledge it.

A defiant Robert Benz, 29, of Lutz, Fla., who earns his living loading trucks and who was paid by Donald H. Segretti $150 a month for five months to sabotage the campaigns in the Democratic Florida primary in 1972, defended his activities Thursday as nothing more than fit for fat.

The balding, burly Benz, testifying with immunity, confessed to such "dirty tricks" as planting stink bombs in the headquarters of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie.

When Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C. expressed outrage, Benz fired back:

"Where were you in 1960, when it was accused (sic) that an election was stolen?"

He said Richard M. Nixon would have been elected president in 1960 had it not been for illegal activities by the Democrats in Chicago.

Benz insisted that if the committee would examine other campaigns as intensely as it has examined President Nixon's campaign in 1972, it would find an equal amount of chicanery.

In response to senators' questions, Benz agreed that such things as writing fake press releases, distributing invitations to nonexistent events and placing false orders for food and liquor to be delivered to the headquarters of political opponents was immoral and often illegal.

Nonetheless, he said, he feels he may have contributed to politics.

"I feel if my actions in any way would have cleaned up the political system in any way, then I contributed something; senator," he told Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M.

He said he felt compelled to sabotage the Democratic presidential candidates because of sabotaging two years earlier against Rep. William C. Cramer's campaign for the Republican senatorial nomination in Florida.

Terry Lenzler, assistant committee counsel, said Benz had admitted in private questioning that he did not know that the Democrats were behind the anti-Cramer acts.

Benz listed only two such acts, Lenzler said. One was an interview he gave to someone who said he was a radio reporter but who he now believes was an agent for the opposition. The other was a poster linking Cramer, a conservative, with a moderate Democrat, Florida Gov. Reuben Askew.

Nixon estate reassessment denied

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A state tax official, Thursday denied published reports that it has already been determined that the assessment of President Nixon's Western White House estate should be doubled.

No such determination has been made, said John Lynch, of the state Board of Equalization.

The board is investigating the alleged under-assessment of Nixon's estate, at the request of the Orange County Board of Supervisors. The county board asked for the reassessment Tuesday, and the state board is obliged by law to comply.

The Oakland Tribune quoted

what it said was an unreleased report by the state board's appraisers, placing the value of Nixon's 24.6-acre beachfront estate at San Clemente at more than $2.9 million.

The estate is currently assessed at $1.3 million.

Lynch, whose district includes Orange County, said the higher figure was not arrived at by the board's appraisers, but was the amount suggested as appropriate by Orange County Supervisor Robert Battin.

Lynch said he feels Battin's estimate is too high, and was arrived at by including the thousands of dollars in federal money spent on Nixon's estate as taxable improvements.

Whether or not such federal installations are "improvements" for tax purposes, or taxable by local authorities, is one of the central quarrels at issue.

The chairman of the state board, William Bennett, has publicly maintained for some time that the estate is "grossly under-assessed" and tried without success to get the state board to move into the dispute on its own, before the county invited it.

Truck driver attacked, glasses burned by UFO

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (UPI) — A physics professor investigating a reported attack on a truck driver by an unidentified flying object (UFO) said today the victim's eyeglasses were damaged by internal heat from an unknown source.

In the latest of a series of recent UFO sightings in southeastern Missouri, Eddie Doyle Webb, 45, of Greenville, Mo., was blinded for several hours after the incident. He is recovering his vision, but intends to visit an eye specialist at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis.

Webb said he was driving a tractor-trailer rig about dawn Wednesday when he saw a bright light or aluminum object in the pig behind him, "coming up real fast."

He awakened his wife, Velma Mae Webb, 47, who was asleep in the cab, he said, but she didn't see anything.

"Then, I stuck my head out of the window and a large ball of fire struck me in the face," Webb said. "My glasses fell off

Guerrillas attack Phnom Penh airport

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Guerrillas bombed a crowded marketplace near Phnom Penh's Pochentong airport today, killing seven persons and wounding 23 in the worst terrorist attack in the capital area in a month and a half.

Authorities said the rebels buried the bomb, made out of a grenade and a trip wire, under a busy outdoor stand selling lottery tickets. A passerby tripped over the wire, exploding the device.

Maj. Lemyre De Diez, military police commander at the airport, said a second bomb was found 100 feet away, but failed to explode.

Diez said two civilians, including an 11-year-old boy, died instantly in the blast. He said four civilians and a soldier died soon after arriving at a Phnom Penh hospital.

The major said 23 persons, including 14 women and three children, were wounded in the explosion. He said half the wounded, including seven soldiers, were in serious condition.

Diez said the bomb was apparently buried during the night under the lottery ticket stand in front of a restaurant at the Pochentong market. He said the second device was placed to explode when triggered by persons fleeing the first explosion.

Shutdown proposal running out of gas

United Press International

The proposal for a nationwide shutdown of gas stations to protest the government's freeze on the price of gasoline began sputtering and appeared to be running out of gas everywhere but in Southern California today.

The Long Island (N.Y.) Gasoline Retailers Association Thursday claimed 85 per cent of its members in the suburbs and 50 per cent in the New York City borough of Queens were closed for the second day of a protest action. But the group's leaders said they would open again today and stay open for a few weeks to give the government a chance to come around to their way of thinking.

"It's an overwhelming and unbelievable success," said Sebastian Gaeta, president of the group. "We got our message across that we want to pass on price increases to our customers as they occur to us."

Station operators say a 2.5 cent increase allowed last week by the Cost of Living Council did not meet higher costs. Some said the increase was immediately eaten up by suppliers who boosted the wholesale price of gas.

John T. Dunlop, the council director, said the government is committed to allowing service stations to jump the price of gas again. He said permission for a price hike would come in "due course."

Hundreds of independent service station operators in Southern California were set to close today, but others were unsure.

In meetings in Los Angeles, San Diego, Santa Barbara, Ventura and other cities Wednesday, hundreds of gasoline dealers shouted their support of the shutdown. Weekend shutdowns were also set for Sacramento. Many dealers said they would turn their pumps off for at least three days.

"At this point, indications are that more stations will be open than closed," the Automobile Club of Southern California said. "A large number of station operators are playing the waiting game—rather than commit themselves to a definite decision today, they are waiting to see what happens with other stations."

Jobies feted at TF meet

TWIN FALLS — New members of Bethel No. 43, International Order of Job's Daughters, and their parents were honored at a reception following the Wednesday night meeting of the Bethel.

New members initiated during the meeting included Joyce Felton, Shawna Detweiler, Becci Jo Harmon and Robin Martsch.

Honored Queen, Laurie Beal, presided at the meeting. Program for the evening was Jolynn Sonius, outer guard.

Junior Princess of Bethel No. 43, Suzanne Guthrie, Grand Bethel representative of Idaho to the state of Iowa, was introduced as were Irma Scott, post-grand guardian; Vera Wylie, vice grand guardian and guardians; Nellie Black, Bethel No. 19, Jerome, and Janice Beal, Bethel No. 43; associate guardians, Bob Black, Bethel No. 14, Jerome, and James Beal, Bethel No. 43. Visiting members from Bethel No. 39, Rupert, and Bethel No. 14, Jerome, were special guests.

Lesson display

MRS. WILLIAM Harris and Mrs. Burton Thorne inspect a display of the cultural living lesson material at the Shoshone LDS Relief Society of Tuesday's luncheon meeting. Mrs. Douglas Hansen, not pictured, is president of the group.

Gayelynn Griffin gave the librarian's report. Birthday anniversary honors were given Sue Remaley, Paul, Remaley and Barbara Detweiler. "Jobie Jobie" was Peggy Eden and "Jobie of the Meeting" was Shawna Detweiler, with Shirley Guthrie as "Jobie Booster."

Clean up committee included Ardith Crumbliss, Ticia Bradbury and Cathy Allison. The next meeting is Oct. 17 with parents, Eastern Star and Masonic members as special guests. A potluck dinner will be held prior to the meeting.

TF Garden Club hears speaker

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. C. W. Daigh presented the talk "Now is the Time to Plan" at the Twin Falls Garden Club meeting at the YM-YWCA Wednesday afternoon.

She showed a chart with planting depths and said Hardy bulbs like tulips, daffodils, hyacinths and smaller bulbs like scillas and crocus take little care but require good drainage.

During the business meeting the club voted a $25 contribution to the swimming pool fund. The club also received yearbooks for the 1973-1974 year.

Mrs. Daigh reviewed articles from a government bulletin "Flowering Spring Bulbs" and from a Better Homes and Gardens article called "Landscaping with Bulbs."

Mrs. Alfred Kramer spoke on how to preserve foliage with a glycerine solution. She displayed samples of treated foliage of evergreens, ferns, eucalyptus and oak.

A district garden club luncheon meeting will be held Friday at noon at the Jerome Catholic Parish Hall. The next regular club meeting will be Nov. 7 at the Y.

Public nuisance

DEAR R. G.: Whether large dogs are kept in the city for protection, hunting, or as household pets, unless they are well trained and kept under control night and day, they are a public nuisance and, as such, should be caged off with their owners—to Siberia.

DEAR ABBY: Like "Me" in Illinois, and the daughter who takes care of "Grandma" who puts $200 a month in the bank, I took care of my stepfather for four years and paid for two of his trips to the hospital.

When he died I requested his heirs to honor our "out-of-pocket" expenses that were spent directly for him. (I had check stubs for verification.) They laughed at me.

I hired a lawyer, turned in a bill for his keep for four years, his hospital bill, and his funeral expenses. The lawyer got me twice what I had asked for, AFTER his percentage.

I really loved my stepfather, and would have cared for him without compensation, but I had no love for his heirs who had turned him out when he became a chore.

Why don't people who care for those they love get a lawyer and collect what is due them?

ME TOO IN MISSOURI

DEAR ME: They may, after this hits print.

DEAR ABBY: About two months ago I bought a package of rice. I noticed small brown bits but thought they were just darker kernels of rice. Upon closer examination, I saw them move! When I returned the rice to the market, they looked at me as tho they thought I had placed the bugs there!

Last week, when I opened a five-pound box of flour, I found more bugs!

This morning I started to make pancakes. In measuring the pancake flour, yes; more bugs! Really Abby, I am afraid to make anything made with wheat, flour, or even cereals. I wonder how long I may have been eating those bug-infested foods. I never was a finicky person who examined things under a microscope, but I am getting a phobia from all this. What kind of bugs are they? How can I find out? And how do I get rid of them? BUGGED IN NEVADA

PRAGUE—The oldest synagogue in Europe still being used for religious services stands here in the former Jewish ghetto just off old town square in the Czechoslovakian capital. But it is today almost more a tourist attraction than a house of worship.

"We only have services here on Saturdays and the high holidays because there are not enough people attending any more," said Oto Heitlinger, secretary of the Jewish community in Prague.

Two large emigrations—in 1948 when the Communists took over here and Israel became a state, and in 1968 when the Russian invasion pretty much wiped out what was left of the Jewish population in Czechoslovakia after Hitler and World War II.

Before the war there were, according to Heitlinger, 39,000 Jews in Prague and altogether about 260,000 in those areas that now constitute Czechoslovakia. There is no way to know exactly how many of them died in the Nazi holocaust, he said. "But we estimate that it was about 90 per cent" of the total. Now, he said, there are only about 2,000 Jews in Prague registered with the Jewish Community. Others say the figure is even lower.

There are others—perhaps as many as six or eight thousand—who are of Jewish background but are not registered.

Like Heitlinger, many of the Jews here now came back to Prague as soldiers in Czech army units that were recruited about during the Nazi occupation.

Heitlinger fled ahead of Hitler in 1939, spent a couple of years on a kibbutz in what is now Israel and then joined the Czech army to fight his way back home.

Some of the Jews here now also are survivors of Nazi concentration camps. Jews here do not have the same problems they have in Russia, Heitlinger said. First of all, there are not, of course, nearly so many. Second, he said, most of those who did want to emigrate got out either in 1948 or 1968 and "there is no strong movement" here now among remaining Jews to emigrate.

If they did want to, would it be possible, he was asked.

"It would be very difficult but I think it would be possible," he said, especially if a person "had serious reasons" for wanting to emigrate. As an example, he said a Jew left along here would probably be allowed to go abroad to join other members of the family already gone. But he said he believes "close to 100 per cent" of the Jews left here do not wish to leave.

When swords will be beaten into plowshares...

Will this ever occur? War persists like some cancerous extension of the violence that appears to be part of us all from birth. Yet the path of non-violence is a realistic goal. Individual women and men have achieved it. Perhaps one day nations will. You and I can help show the way. Get together with your family, friends, neighbors, or co-workers to discuss the problems of violence and how you can work together to help solve them. ## Toolmaker will speak in TF

TWIN FALLS — Jim Quellan, a toolmaker for IBM, will be the featured speaker at the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship meeting at 7 p.m. Saturday at the Holiday Inn. He is president of the "Acts Fellowship," an organization of men with a desire to see the miracles of the Book of Acts alive in the present times. He is also president of the North Denver Colorado Full Gospel Business Men's Chapter. He will bring another officer, Hank Vleg.

Wayne Barney, local EGBMFI chapter president, says, "Mr. Quellan recently returned from an airlift to Africa and will relate some of the experiences that took place there. The EGBMFI sponsors airlifts to various countries of the world and business men who give of their own time, pay their own way, who love God, spend time witnessing to other people of the world. This has been richly rewarding with many wonderful results, many, many lives changed."

Both Quellan and Vleg give greatly of their time for God, and praising Him for the wonderful way He works in the lives of others.

Call 733-2973 or 733-1493 for reservations for the Saturday night dinner.

Dinner set

TWIN FALLS — Annual harvest dinner of the First United Methodist Church is scheduled for Friday, Oct. 12, between 5 and 7:30 p.m. in the Fellowship hall.

Advance tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Jim Rosenbaum, 733-5092 or the church office. Proceeds are used for the missionary programs supported by the United Methodist Women.

Musical group sets TF event

TWIN FALLS — The Gastons, a group of five youths whose musical ministry is mainly with young people across the nation, will perform at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the First Assembly of God Church, North Locust at Shoup.

The Gastons have appeared in many youth rallies and summer camps throughout the United States and have sung to college audiences, high school assemblies and in coffee house ministry as well as to church congregations.

Members include Angela Gaston, 17, who sings soprano and plays percussion instruments. A high school sophomore, Becky Gaston is the youngest member of the group and plays drums. Tina Gaston, a former Central Bible College student, sings alto and was a finalist in the Gulf Regional Teen Talent contest in the vocal solo division. She was named national Miss C. A. 1972.

Bass guitarist and tenor for the group is Paul Gaston who attended Drury College. Steve Rose, pianist, was a finalist in the National Teen Talent contest in the keyboard division. Several songs he has written are performed by the group including "Sons of Love," "Man of Galilee" and many more.

The group has recorded several albums, the last of which was released in May. All music performed is either written or arranged by group members.

Kent slayings case reopened

By ROY LARSON

(c) 1973, Chicago Sun-Times
 Early in August three men were particularly surprised by joy when Atty. General Elliot L. Richardson disclosed the Justice department was opening a new investigation into the slaying of four Kent State University students by national guardsmen on May 4, 1970.

Although they do not know for sure what factors prompted Richardson to reverse the policy of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, who officially closed the books on the Ohio case in August, 1971, Arthur Krause, Peter Davies and the Rev. John P. Adams felt vindicated for their tireless, months-long efforts to keep the issue alive.

Arthur Krause went to work gathering facts about the shootings immediately after the burial of his daughter, Allison, who was one of the four victims.

Soon he was joined by Davies, a New York insurance broker who, four days after the tragedy, wrote a letter to President Nixon saying the use of such "unwarranted force was inexcusable."

Davies sent a copy of his letter to the Krause family, and, on May 13, Arthur Krause called Davies to express his appreciation. That call, Davies has said since then, sealed his commitment to ensure that justice was done in this, cruel and senseless act.

Eventually, Davies, persistent digging for the facts resulted in the publication this month of a book, "The Truth

About Kent State — a Challenge to the American Conscience."

Adams, 50, director of the United Methodist Church's National Department of Law, Justice and Community Relations in Washington, became the third man in the triumvirate in March, 1971. The former Hammond (Ind.) pastor, who joined his denomination's national staff in 1967, saw the Kent State case as a natural extension of his ministry.

Throughout his career, Adams has identified himself with American Society's dispossessed outsiders — migrant workers, blacks, American Indians, student dissenters, jail inmates and the poor.

He entered the Kent state picture because he became convinced "violence had been used as an instrument to prevent change, and the moral authority of the religious community needed to be exercised in protest against the blatant violation of the civil rights of young citizens."

Fall season opens

SPRINGDALE — The Relief Society meeting for the fall season will begin Tuesday in Springdale with a new starting time of 10 a.m.

President Mrs. Roy Zollinger announced the meeting at the Relief Society opening social held in the cultural hall Saturday evening.

Bishop Fred Johnson wrote the script for the program which followed the luncheon.

The program was patterned from a television series. Mrs. William Craythorn acted as a sponsor and Mrs. Burke Scholer acted as announcer.

All officers of the organization took part in the program.

The theme was "Try It, You'll Like It." The theme song was sung by a chorus of the Relief Society officers.

OFFICERS OF THE Shoshone LDS Relief Society attend the first fall luncheon meeting at the church Tuesday. They are, from left, Mrs. Frank Garrett, Mrs. Clint Kingsford, Mrs. Douglas Hansen and Mrs. Kenneth Blackburn.

Roosevelt denies 'lies'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gambling operator Michael J. McLaney says he made a deal with the prime minister of the Bahamas to finance his election in return for control of all gambling enterprises on the island.

McLaney told the Senate Permanent Investigating Subcommittee Thursday that Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling "washed on his promise" after McLaney contributed more than $65,000 to Pindling's 1967 campaign.

Meanwhile Elliott Roosevelt, testifying before the subcommittee for the second day, said two convicted securities swindlers, who have accused him in testimony of involvement in a stolen securities racket, had "fabricated fantastic lies."

He denied the latest charges by Patsy A. Lepera, who accused Roosevelt of selling stolen securities for him on three occasions in 1969 and 1970. At a news conference later, Roosevelt said he had been "vindicated."

"I have refuted each and every allegation made by these two gangsters," the 63-year-old son of President Franklin Roosevelt said.

Louis P. Mastriana, like Lepera a convicted securities racketeer, had told the subcommittee last month that Roosevelt and McLaney had offered $100,000 to assassinate Pindling, a charge Roosevelt denied.

McLaney said he and an associate, David Probinsky, met with Pindling and agreed to contribute $65,000 to his 1968 election campaign.

"Mr. Probinsky and I elected Mr. Pindling," and in return Pindling agreed to push existing gambling operators off the island and allow McLaney to operate all the casinos, he said.

"We would make a merger with the government on a 50-50 basis," McLaney explained.

McLaney, an alleged associate of the underworld figure Meyer Lansky, has been twice convicted of income tax and securities violations and owns a gambling casino in Haiti.

Detroit teachers ignore work order

By United Press International — Striking schoolteachers in Detroit and Yorktown, N.Y., ignored court orders to return to work Thursday. Detroit teachers were under a $12,000-a-day fine and in Yorktown, 22 teachers spent much of the day in jail.

Detroit teachers, who have staged the country's longest and largest school strike, and school board officials resumed negotiations within hours of the court ruling imposing the fine. Mary Ellen Riordan, the president of the 10,600-member teachers union, reported "some progress" in the talks.

Circuit Judge Thomas J. Foley found the Detroit teachers union guilty of contempt Thursday in defying his earlier orders to return to the classrooms. He fined the union $11,000 a day, starting Sept. 27, the day he issued the first order, and imposed extra fines of $500 a day on Mrs. Riordan and $250 a day for each of two fellow union officers.

Lawyers for the teachers said they would appeal Foley's decision.

In Yorktown, 22 teachers, six of them union officers, were fined and locked up for several hours in the Westchester County jail on contempt of court charges arising from their 18-day-old walkout. They were released when union attorneys won a stay late Thursday afternoon.

The 22 were also fined $250 each, the six union officers drew 30-day sentences and the other 15 teachers got 15 days in jail. The union was fined $1,000 a day for every day since the Sept. 17 court-ordered halt to the strike.

The union spokesman said the two sides remained "far apart on salary and are having trouble with a no-reprisal clause and make-up days."

In another teachers strike in Harrison, N.Y., there was no report of any progress. The strike has been going on for 30 days.

In New York City, no talks were scheduled in the 25-day-old strike by lay teachers against the Brooklyn Diocese, according to federal mediator Al Addeo.

Court urged to free Calley

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lawyers for Lt. William L. Calley, saying he was only trying to obey orders, have asked the highest court of military law to clear him of murdering Vietnamese civilians in the My Lai massacre.

"He was attempting to perform what he saw as his duty," Capt. J. Houston Gordon, Calley's military attorney, told the Court of Military Appeals at a 90-minute hearing Thursday.

Calley may have to wait weeks or months to learn the court's ruling.

Gordon told UPI that if the defense loses this appeal, it will try to go to the civilian courts.

Another defense attorney said Calley could at that time raise a constitutional question of whether the system of military justice is, so controlled by higher command authority that it cannot give fair trials.

The Court of Military Appeals, declined to hear that and 26 other issues the defense wanted to raise. The court, composed of three civilian judges, is the highest review court in the military system.

President Nixon has said he will review the Calley case when all appeals are finished.

2nd earthquake felt in SF

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The second light earthquake in two days was felt Thursday in the San Francisco Bay area.

No serious damage or injuries were reported in a mild tremor that rolled along the Hayward fault seven miles southeast of the University of California Seismographic Station early Thursday.

The shake at 5:24 a.m. was recorded at 2.8 on the Richter scale. Twenty-four hours before, a small earthquake near Morgan Hill, south of San Francisco was felt over a wide area. No damage or injuries were reported.

Women make, mail effective bombs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It may just be more female liberation, but the chief U.S. postal inspector says women are making and using lethal bombs as effectively as men.

He also says pornography through the mails has ceased to be a problem because of tougher federal penalties.

William J. Cotter, who has headed the government's Postal Inspection Service since 1969, told UPI in an interview "in the old days women used to do in a potential victim by poison candy or some other ladylike means. Now, according to my crime lab statistics, women are making bombs and sending them through the mails."

Cotter displayed several reconstructed samples of letter bombs made from thin strips of brass surrounded by explosive plastic strips. They can be mailed with an 11-cent stamp. He also has samples of more sophisticated models with fine wiring.

Cotter, a former Central Intelligence Agency and FBI agent, said he believes letter bombing will prove to be a passing fad, but that those who do it are hard to catch. On pornography, Cotter said tough federal legislation has made this an "insignificant" problem.

"We received 100,000 complaints in 1969 from persons who received pornography through the mail which they hadn't solicited," Cotter said. "The penalties and prison term threat in the federal law now makes pornography through the mails a pass problem."

Cotter said the most common problem facing his department presently is theft of welfare and government checks from the mails, often by narcotics addicts to finance their habits.

"We went through a period of numerous post office holdups," he said, "but we have put bulletproof glass at many post offices which had been repeatedly held up and that seems to help."

The Postal Service has also put new locking apparatus on more than 5,000 street collection boxes and is using its first armored vehicles in New York and Chicago to carry expensive registered shipments.

Adjust input to solve problems

NEW YORK (UPI) — A guard thought a red box left on the front steps of the Museum of Natural History was a bomb and called police. "It's a red with a clear plastic dome and a bunch of things sticking out of it. I don't know what it does, but it's not loaded," a police spokesman said.

Later police said they had found out what the object was.

"It's a toy called an 'Executive Thought Organizer.' On the back it says 'to solve your problem, adjust the input control to the desired light and flash,'" the police spokesman said.

Intermountain Gas seeks raise

BOISE (UPI) — Intermountain Gas Co. is filing an application with the Idaho Public Utilities Commission for its first general rate increase since 1965.

The application requests new rates which would result in an increase of about 90 cents to $1.20 per month for the average residential and small commercial accounts.

Dean Grimm, president, said such accounts amount to 99 percent of the company's customer with the remaining amount increases would be made depending on the type of service required.

Grimm said gas cost increases passed on to customers since 1960 have offset in part the higher prices the company pays for gas from its supplier, El Paso Natural Gas Co.

He said the application for a general rate increase is not related to the price of gas but is necessary to cover increasing costs of operating Intermountain's distribution system in Idaho.

Burr papers requested

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — A spokesman for the New Jersey state archives department Wednesday said that copies of an indictment against Vice President Aaron Burr, who was indicted for killing Alexander Hamilton in a duel, have been sent to Washington at the request of a research division of the Library of Congress.

He said he did not know if the call for the 169-year-old documents came in connection with the Watergate hearings or the court proceedings against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Burr was indicted in Bergen County, N.J., in 1804 for slaying Hamilton, the former secretary of the treasury, with a pistol shot in "the right side of the belly...near the short ribs of the aforesaid."

The duel came after 15 years of political warring, but it was not until allegedly libelous statements by Hamilton were printed in the press that Burr issued the challenge.

They met the morning of July 11 in a clearing in the town of Weehawken, on the same spot where Hamilton's son, Phillip, was slain in a duel three years earlier.

Although an indictment was returned against Burr, it was later quashed because Hamilton died in New York City. The move to invalidate the indictment was said to have come after influential friends of Burr applied pressure on the governor of New Jersey.

A spokesman for the state Library Archives and History Division said the Library of Congress asked for the records late last week. The papers, which are in remarkably good condition, were copied and mailed early this week to Washington. They consist of 10 pages, including typewritten copies of the original document.

The indictment said the vice president shot Hamilton while "being moved and seduced by the instigation of the Devil."

The New Jersey attorney general and the state supreme court, however, apparently did not believe the "true bill" was valid because of this wording: "...in the year aforesaid at the Township and in the County aforesaid the said Alexander Hamilton of the said 'Mortal wounds died.' Hamilton died in New York, and not in Bergen County."

The press branded Burr as a murderer, however, and the vice president fled to Pennsylvania. After being threatened with lynching there, he again fled, this time to the South.

Airport trustees eye TF field role

(Continued from p. 1) Twin Falls Mayor John Christofferson said SIRAA had three alternatives in accomplishing the take over: assume maintenance and operation costs of Joslin on an interim basis (Forschler's choice), assume the costs on a permanent basis or outright purchase of the airport.

Forschler said Twin Falls City and County airport taxes would drop considerably if SIRAA takes over Joslin Field. Twin Falls City residents currently pay nearly a five-mill levy for the airport. As members of SIRAA, the levy would drop to "one-mill or less," according to Forschler.

The most definitive comment at the meeting came from George Brown, Seattle, chief of the Federal Aviation Administration's airport division.

Brown placed the FAA's support squarely behind a permanent regional airport "north of the (Snake) river."

He referred to two engineering studies, in 1969 and 1972, that "came to essentially the same conclusion: The airport should be north of the river."

"The basic problem of Joslin is it's in the wrong place," Brown said. "On a long-term basis, building an airport 'north of the river' will lead to considerable savings for air passengers, he said."

Over a 20-year period, traveling to Joslin Field from the 180-93 interchange would cost airport patrons $6 million in travel expenses, he said. If transit time is considered, the cost would rise to between $10 million and $30 million, according to Brown.

"The ideal location of the airport is at the centroid of passengers," Brown added, "and that centroid is north of the river and will be moving further north."

Idaho 4-H'ers convene in SV

SUN VALLEY — Some 370 4-H youths from throughout Idaho are attending the annual Idaho-Pride conference today and Saturday in Sun Valley.

The conference purpose is to encourage young citizens to participate in community betterment projects, to realize that the community includes not only their home town but all of Idaho and to stress an active role in community planning and growth, according to Cheryl Armstrong, state 4-H reporter, Twin Falls.

Three representatives of Standard Oil Co., which sponsors the conference, will present awards and speak. They include Owen Murphy, Seattle; Bill Steel, San Francisco, Calif.; and W. E. McKinsey, Salt Lake City.

The awards will be given to the best community service project entered from each of the five districts in Idaho.

Sharon Davis, Miss Idaho, will speak on "Responsibility as a Young Citizen" and sing a song, accompanied by Miss Armstrong, Twin Falls.

Debra Cox, Miss Teenage Idaho, will speak to the group on Teenage Responsibilities.

Speakers scheduled for the two-day conclave include Davy Vray, Blaine County Planning and Zoning administrator, who will discuss the overall view of growth and land development in the county; Jim Donart, Ketchum attorney and former state senator, speaking against large scale developers; and Gary Dayton, engineer, speaking on orderly and planned large scale developing.

The youths will tour Sun Valley, Elkhorn and McCullough Development.

Among the community projects entered in the award competition from Twin Falls county is one by a group of 4-H'ers who raised a lamb, sold it at the fat stock sale and used the $500 to take underprivileged children to camp.

TWIN FALLS — A garage sale will be held from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday in the First Christian Church parking lot at Sixth Avenue and Shoshone Street North. Proceeds will be used by the high school youth group for their activities.

Cash, ring stolen

TWIN FALLS — Marvin Robbins, 1890 Osterloh, told city police someone entered his home sometime during the past 24 days and took a small amount of cash and a man's ring.

The ring was valued at $150. Robbins said about $27 in cash and two milk bottles were missing.

2-car accident hurts 2

TWIN FALLS — Two persons were injured slightly in a two-car accident Thursday afternoon at the intersection of Second Avenue North and Third Street North.

City police said Charles Roosevelt Road, 71, Twin Falls, driver of one of the vehicles and Rita Alice Jasso, 16, Burley, the other driver, were treated for minor injuries and released to their homes.

Officers cited Road for failing to observe a stop sign. Police reports stated he was driving southwest on Third Street North when he drove onto Second Avenue North (U.S. Highway 30), a one way street, and was struck by the Jasso vehicle. The Road vehicle was forced sideways by the impact and came to rest between a power pole and fire hydrant. The Jasso vehicle glanced off the other vehicle and hit a power pole.

The accident occurred about 4:04 p.m. Miss Jasso was taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital by ambulance and released following X-ray examinations. Damage was estimated at $600 to the Jasso vehicle and $400 to the Road vehicle.

Con man's plan foiled by friends of TF victim

TWIN FALLS — An 84-year-old Twin Falls man narrowly escaped Thursday with his $1,500 from a clever scheme by an apparent confidence man.

Twin Falls Police Chief Frank Barnett said the man was contacted Thursday by an apparent con-man by telephone who asked for help in apprehending a dishonest bank clerk. The elderly man was to draw out $1,500 of his own money in cash to be marked and traced in an attempt to catch a teller who was falsifying records.

The elderly man was told to take the money to a "security guard" outside the Safeway store in the Lynwood Shopping Center.

Barnett said "this is a common practice among thieves to obtain large sums of money from unsuspecting persons who think they are doing a good turn for the bank."

"Banks just don't operate that way," he said.

In the case — Thursday — the Twin Falls Bank and Trust officials at the Blue Lakes Branch became suspicious and contacted the man who has power of attorney for the banking customer.

He contacted police when he determined something improper was taking place.

After a long delay at the bank, the well-meaning customer withdrew his money and began to search for the "security guard." The con man by this time apparently had become alarmed by the delay and had left.

Barnett said persons asked to withdraw money or write a check to a "bank official" or "security guard" should contact police immediately.

Best newstip

Alert Laura Hyatt of Burley will be mailed $5 for the best newstip of the week.

She was the first of several persons to eul the Times-News to tell of the fatal train-car crash in Shoshone Wednesday.

If you know of something newsworthy you would like to see in your newspaper, phone 733-0931, or use the Times-News toll-free lines. It could be worth $5.

Gooding woman files

GOODING — Helen Jacke, of Security Title Co., filed a petition Thursday of candidacy on the Gooding City Council election Nov. 6.

Doris Vaughan, wife of Harry Vaughan, filed earlier this week. She was incorrectly identified as Mrs. Ralph Vaughan in the Times-News.

At Wendell Denton Adams, appointed last month to fill the unexpired term of Dale Gilbert, filed a petition Thursday for a two-year council term.

3 seek Rupert posts

RUPERT — Three Rupert residents are competing for two city council seats at this point but so far incumbent Mayor Wendell Johnson is the only mayoral candidate.

Blaine Jensen turned in a petition for city council to the city office Thursday. Jensen, 34, is a Rupert insurance agent.

Sanitary and storm sewer problems were listed as top city priorities by Jensen, who also cited the need for manageable growth supported equally and fairly by all city residents.

Jensen, who said he was the only representative from the south side of the city in the race, said, "we should have representation from all sections of the city," but stressed that, "we can't have sectionalism."

He urged all residents to "get out to vote."

Dwinelle Allred, president of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce, turned in a petition for city council Thursday.

3 seats vacant in Eden

EDEN — Three vacancies for four year terms in the Eden City Council will be filled in the Nov. 6 Eden City election.

Terms have expired for councilmen Kenneth Hutchins, Earl Clark and Don McFarland. Hutchins and McFarland have both filed their declaration of candidacy. Clark may or may not file, depending on a job transfer, according to Mrs. Opal Newbury, city clerk.

Deadline for filing is October 9.

Candidates for the councilmen posts must be bonafide residents of Idaho, live within the Eden city limits, and must be at least 18 years old.

Those residents wishing to register to vote in the Eden city election may do so at Mrs. Newbury's home or Saturday afternoons at the Eden city hall.

Depot closes at Fairfield

BOISE (UPI) — Despite objections from area residents the Public Utilities Commission has given Union-Pacific Railroad authority to close its agency at Fairfield.

In granting the request, the PUC said it shall become effective after 30 days' notice — both posted at the Fairfield depot and to all known shippers of rail freight in the Fairfield area.

Additionally, the PUC said, the railroad must maintain a listing in the Fairfield telephone directory stating that collect calls on railroad business will be accepted from the Fairfield area users at the UP agency during specified hours in Shoshone.

Commissioners said when they granted the request they were "acutely aware of the desires of persons in the Fairfield area to retain the agent."

But they said facts in the proceeding clearly point to a contrary position which must be considered with respect to the basic need for the agency by the public and the effort of the railroad to eliminate unnecessary or wasteful expenses.

Evidence showed a decline in use of railroad service in the Fairfield area, the PUC said. This was brought about by the change in agricultural production from wheat to hay and diversion of shipping to trucks — "conditions not likely to be measurably improved."

Sealing okayed

BELLEVUE — The Bellevue City Council, Thursday night, approved an about $800 expenditure for frost sealing newly improved city streets.

Mayor L. T. (Pete) Johnson said the streets — which have been graveled and panted — will receive the frost seal this fall and would be chipped and sealed next spring.

Comprising 46 blocks, the street improvement project will be financed by revenue sharing and city funds. Final costs of the projects have not yet been determined.

In other action, the council:

- Agreed to request bids from contractors to assist the city with snow removal.
- Agreed to solicit a bid from a person who had expressed interest in purchasing the city's fire hose cart.

AF dam hearings slated

BURLEY — Field hearings on legislation authorizing replacement of American Falls Dam are scheduled here Saturday.

The hearing will begin at 10 a.m. at the Ramada Inn. Conducting the hearing will be Rep. Harold T. Johnson, D-Calif., chairman of the subcommittee on water and power resources of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee.

At least 20 persons are scheduled to testify during the hearing on the bill, which is before the subcommittee. Among them are all four members of Idaho's Congressional Delegation and Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

Rep. Orval Hansen and Rep. Steve Symms, both Republicans, are sponsors of the legislation in the House. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, sponsored the bill which was passed by the Senate in June following hearings in Washington, D. C., in May.

Hansen said an on-site inspection of the American Falls Dam is planned, either Saturday afternoon or Sunday morning, depending on the amount of testimony to be presented. He termed the hearings "instrumental in the progress of the authorizing legislation to facilitate an early start on construction of the new dam."

Testimony is expected from representatives of irrigation districts holding space in the reservoir or receiving water from it, engineering consultants, Idaho Power Co., the Shoshone-Bannock Indian tribal council and other interested organizations from an area extending from Idaho Falls to King Hill.

If passed by Congress, the legislation would permit the American Falls Reservoir District to proceed with construction of the existing dam, which has been weakened by deteriorating concrete. That weakening has caused a water storage limitation of 1.1 million acre feet to be placed on the reservoir, cutting its capacity by about one-third.

Estimated cost of replacement of the dam is about $25 million including engineering costs and the costs of providing a modern highway crossing.

Under a plan proposed by Idaho Power Co., the reservoir district and the utility would enter into an agreement which would provide for financing construction of the dam through sale of tax free bonds. The utility would pay up to $19 million plus interest toward retiring the bonds over a 40 year period.

Other provisions of the utility's proposal include assistance by the reservoir district in obtaining a 50 year license from the Federal Power Commission for construction and operation of a power plant; use of the falling water from the dam for generating power for 50 years, with right-of-renewal; and designation of Idaho Power as the district's sole agent in engineering, purchasing and construction of the dam in an effort to obtain the lowest construction cost.

In hearings before the water and power resources subcommittee of the Senate's Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs in May, 27 persons offered testimony supporting the legislation. There were 40 other letters filed with the subcommittee in support of the legislation.

There were few objections to the proposed legislation, with the principal stipulations coming from Shoshone-Bannock tribal representatives asking that the reservoir level not be raised, erosion be controlled, and funds needed to meet the tribal share

Entry probes mount

SHOSHONE— During the past several months the inquiries concerning desert land entries have been more than six to eight times average, said O'dell A. Frandsen, district manager, Bureau of Land Management.

Frandsen said the increased interest was probably the result of the current favorable market prices for agricultural products. Almost all of the national resource land—formerly called public land—in the Shoshone BLM District has been classified for multiple use management and is closed to homesteading and desert land entries.

Tracts open for entry are few, and are mostly unsuitable for farming because of no access, rocky, poor soils, or the unavailability of water. The best agricultural land went into private ownership many years ago. There are no specific maps available in the BLM office showing lands open or suitable for entry.

Many inquiries concerning entries are for irrigated pastures or grazing use. Under the regulations pertaining to the Desert Land Act such uses do not qualify as being acceptable for land acquisition. A number of requirements are mandatory prior to the allowance of any desert land entry.

Each application must show that it is technically and economically feasible. This means that crops other than alfalfa crops are required to qualify.

Award given

FIRST PRIZE trophy for Twin Falls County Fair-carnival show competition is awarded to Barbara Swan of House Creek Ranch, Rogerson, by Noy Brackett (right), secretary-treasurer of 71 Livestock Grazing Association, and Jack Pierce, assistant vice president, Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co. Miss Swan, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Swan. Her 1,662 pound Hereford steer placed first in a field of 100 entries.

Shoshone advisory votes due

SHOSHONE — The 1973 Shoshone District Grazing Advisory Board election is now in progress, according to O'dell A. Frandsen, Bureau of Land Management.

Both nominations and voting will be done by mail. At the present time nominations are being solicited for advisory board positions that will become vacant on Dec. 1, 1973.

The incumbents for these positions are: Allen Bauscher, Fairfield, cattle representative; Prentice T. John W. Jones Jr., Hagerman, sheep representative, Precinct 3.

The nominations must be made by a qualified licensee who enjoys grazing privileges in the same precinct with the same class of livestock as the member whose term is expiring. Nominations must be submitted to the Shoshone district office by Oct. 15.

SMU-Missouri battle pits two of nation's top teams

By BILL MADDEN
UPI Sports Writer

Funny how quickly the world turns in college football.

A year ago Hayden Fry was just beginning to enjoy the harvest of his tireless recruiting program at Southern Methodist. Dave Smith was being hailed as a miracle worker at Oklahoma State and Al Onofrio was worrying about his job at Missouri.

On Saturday an unbroken and nationally-ranked SMU team will entertain an equally unbroken and nationally-ranked Missouri team at Dallas, Tex. There have, however, been a few changes made.

For one thing, it was Fry, not Onofrio, who wound up losing his job last year and the man SMU chose to wrest the Dallas football attention away from the pros was, you guessed it, Dave Smith.

Both SMU, ranked 14th, and Missouri, ranked 16th, lost 3-0 won-lost marks for '73. The odds-makers like the Mustangs in this one-by-one. And if they do win, you've got to like their chances against Texas later on in the season for the Southwest Conference title. No wonder Fry was so embittered when the SMU hierarchy jettisoned him after a 7-4 season in '72.

Elsewhere around the country, the top three collegiate powers — Ohio State, Nebraska — and Southern California — are all off the board in their matchups with Washington State, Minnesota and Oregon State. No. 4 Alabama is a 21-point pick over Georgia. No. 5 Michigan is off-the-board against Oregon. No. 6 Oklahoma is a 20-point choice with No. 18 Miami (Fla.) and No. 7 Penn State rated 13 over Air Force.

Other picks include Tulane 31-2 over Pittsburgh, West Virginia 13 over Indiana, Colorado six over Iowa State, N.C. State 13 over North Carolina and UCLA 20 against Utah.

Playoff-experienced pitchers will open Saturday's contests

By United Press International

It'll be nothing new for Jim Palmer, Vida Blue, Jack Billingham and Tom Seaver when they take on the starting pitcher assignments Saturday in the first games of the major league baseball playoffs.

It'll be Palmer vs. Blue when the Baltimore Orioles host the Oakland A's in the first game of the American League playoffs and Billingham vs. Seaver when the Cincinnati Reds host the New York Mets in the opener of the National League playoffs.

All four pitchers have started before in the four-year history of the playoffs and Palmer has a 3-4 record in these games. He won one game each year as Baltimore rang up a 9-0 record in the playoffs in 1969, 1970 and 1971.

Included in that record was a victory in the Sweep over the Oakland A's in 1971. In that series, the Orioles beat Blue in a dramatic first game. Blue was coming off his sensational 24-4 record.

Blue took a 3-1 lead over Dave McNally into the seventh inning of that game but the Orioles rallied for four runs with the help of back-to-back doubles by pinch-hitter Curt Motton and Paul Blair that knocked Blue out.

Ironically, Blair will be in the lineup for the A's because Blue is starting. When the Orioles go against a lefthander, Manager Earl Weaver uses Paul Blair and Merv Rettenmund. Blair underwent hypnosis, during the season to conquer his fear of being hit with a pitch and it helped improve his hitting.

Against righthander Jim Hunter in the second game, Weaver will switch to Rich Coggins and Al Bumbry, the two youngsters who did so much to spark Baltimore's second half surge.

Palmer is the odds-on favorite to win the Cy Young award this season and he admits, "I think I should win the award."

Bob Powell claims, "If Palmer was pitching in New York, he'd be the greatest thing since bottled beer." Jim meant more to us than anyone else this year," Palmer posted a 22-9 record this season even though he was left off the American League All-Star team back in July by Oakland Manager Dick Williams.

Billingham, who started the seventh game of the World Series last year but was lifted in the fifth inning for a pinch-hitter with the Reds trailing 1-0 and didn't get a decision, made his only previous playoff appearance last year when he started the second game against Pittsburgh.

Simpson holds NFL rush lead

NEW YORK (UPI) O.J. Simpson still has more than 100 yards on the rest of the field in the race for NFL rushing championship this year.

Simpson, who gained a record 250 yards in his first game this season, now has 476 yards in three games in the latest National Football League statistics released Thursday.

Trailing Simpson in the AFC statistics in Essex Johnson of Cincinnati, who has 342 yards. The leader in the NFC is Calvin Hill of Dallas, who has 285 yards. That's a respectable three-game total but it would leave him in third place in the AFC.

Al Woodall, who replaced Joe Namath as the New York Jets' quarterback, when Namath was injured, took over first place in the AFC leaders in the complicated formula the NFL uses to determine passing leaders. John Hall of Los Angeles leads the NFC.

Donny Anderson of St. Louis and Ray Garcia of Pittsburgh are the scoring leaders and Bobby Anderson of Denver and Charley Taylor of Washington are the receiving leaders.

Against righthander Jim Hunter in the second game, Weaver will switch to Rich Coggins and Al Bumbry, the two youngsters who did so much to spark Baltimore's second half surge.

Palmer is the odds-on favorite to win the Cy Young award this season and he admits, "I think I should win the award."

Rain washes out Ohio-Kings opener

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (UPI) — The first round of the $125,000 Ohio-Kings Island Open golf tournament was postponed Thursday after a second afternoon thunderstorm hit the Jack Nicklaus Golf Center course.

Don Bies, looking for his first victory in seven years on the PGA Tour, was leading the tournament with a four-under-par 67 when the second of two storms drenched the already soggy course.

Lyle Mangum, supervisor for the Tournament Players Division, said the first round would now be played Friday with the final round, originally scheduled for Sunday, set back to Monday.

Mangum said the decision to push the tournament back one day rather than play 36 holes Sunday was made because of the time of the year.

"At this time of year with the shorter days," Mangum said, "it is impossible for the course superintendent to get the course ready for play in time for two rounds."

The Nicklaus course, which was drenched by rain Monday, forcing the only postponement of a qualifying round on the tour this year, is only in its second season of operation and therefore does not absorb water as would a more mature course.

Bies, who had a 33-34 for his round, held a one-shot lead over Tom Weiskopf who had a 68 and a two-stroke margin over Larry Ziegler with a 69. None of the scores count, however.

Nicklaus had struggled home with a four-over-par 75 and commented following the round he wished it would rain.

"I have been praying for the last week that it wouldn't rain," said Nicklaus, who helped design the course and was instrumental in getting it ready for championship competition. "Now I hope it does."

Nicklaus' 75 tied the worst round he had shot in a regular tour event this year, although he had a 77 in the Masters and a 76 in the U.S. Open.

About half of the field of 144 players finished their rounds before the rains came, with Bob Menne, Gibby Gilbert and Tim Collins posting one-under par 70's and Len Thompson, Dwight Nevil, Paul Moran, John Lister, Dick Rilyan and Don Kern carding even-par 70's.

CSI splits twin bill with ISU

POCATELLO — Jeff Velasquez singled in Jeff Spring with one out in the last inning Thursday to give the College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles a doubleheader split with Idaho State.

Idaho State unloaded the biggest hit barrage in two years against the Eagles in taking the opener 10-1. But lefty Kevin Nelson cooled the Bengals down with a three-hit, 13-strikeout job in the nightcap and won 3-2.

Nelson carried in the first run when he walked and scored on Darrell Groves' hit and run double. In the third, Spring collected a two-bagger and coasted in on Mike Pries' single up the middle.

ISU came back with a run in the fifth and Nick Ysursa's homer tied it in the sixth.

But Spring got his second double and rode in on Velasquez' hit.

The Eagles travel to Treasure Valley Saturday and wind up their fall season at Boise State Oct. 13.

Powderpuff senior team poofs

Coach Tom Ashenbrenner kicked a yard-line marker. Coach Bill Miller said "let's beat up some juniors or go to the bonfire."

So ended the enthusiastic but perplexing evening for the Old Biscuits of 1974 in a 6-0 loss to the Shrinking Violets of 1975 in the annual powderpuff game. Meanwhile, cheerleaders Kevin Packard and Kevin Lee stood on the track sobbing while cheerleader Dan Davis rammed his fist into a nearby fencepost.

Kathie Kiene was the author of this scene of dejection as she sprinted about three or seven yards for a touchdown with 24 seconds left in the half. There were 24 seconds left because the senior coaches called time out. The thought hadn't occurred to the juniors. And with a usual 30 seconds between plays, the juniors, capitalizing on an intercepted pitchout, the decisive play wouldn't have happened.

The seniors, seeing a long touchdown run killed by the usual illegal motion penalty, gave the juniors something else to think about at the end of the game. But again the juniors weren't attuned to the game.

That occurred when a senior punt receiver took the ball on the fifth hop — and raced the wrong way. A junior overhauled her six yards short of a cinch safety.

But if you thought the game and the cheerleader left a little to be desired, you should have seen the junior boys' all-team at halftime.

Eight NFL cuts to be telecast

NEW YORK (UPI) — The home TV blackout will be lifted for eight of the 13 National Football League games this weekend, an NFL spokesman announced Thursday.

The eight games were sold out before 1 p.m. Thursday, the 72-hour deadline before kickoff. But tickets are still available for the other five games and they won't be televised in the cities they're being played in.

Part of promotion?

Frazier, Ali trade insults at signing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frazier was a little old boy wearing suspenders when I fought Zora Foley." Muhammad Ali — "Ah, boy."

"You just a piccolo player," snorted Joe Frazier.

Thus did the formal curtain raise on the rematch of the two former heavyweight champions as they went before the press and to cameras Thursday to agree to what they had agreed to days ago.

They officially signed to meet in a return 12-rounder at Madison Square Garden on Feb. 4 Thursday and then renewed their long-time vendetta against one another with a name calling contest. That was more refreshing than their recent fights.

Ali and Frazier, each in the twilight of his career, threw quips back and forth while matchmaker Teddy Brenner was explaining the fight would continue if after the 12th if the verdict at that time was a draw and the bout would go on until one man was declared the winner.

Ali and Frazier, who sat just three feet apart, threw lines back and forth until both were struggling to get at each other. It was all an act on Ali's part but Frazier seemed upset and had to be escorted out to cool off.

"I made Joe Frazier," Ali shouted. "It was a little old boy wearing suspenders when I fought Zora Foley (in 1967). For three years I've been waiting for him. I'm gonna win out Joe Frazier then I'm gonna smuff out George Foreman."

Frazier, who successfully defended his title against Ali over 15 tough rounds on March 8, 1971, was content to let Ali do all the talking at first but then came back at his old foe.

"You just a piccolo player," said the former champ who lost his title to Foreman last January. I'm gonna paralyze you. You finished."

When asked if he was going to knock out Ali this time, Frazier replied: "All you got to do is take that came out from under him."

"We want each other bad. We don't have no love for each other. All I know is I'll be the winner."

Whichever man wins, both Ali and Frazier will be paid handsomely. Each has been guaranteed $850,000 or 32 1/2 per cent of the live gate receipts and ancillary rights.

Well think.

Think about a whiskey that's so unusual... people liked it the day it made its bow 10 years ago. Today millions drink it... and yet no one's managed to copy it.

Think about a whiskey that's so easy going down, it's given a whole other name to the pleasures of drinking.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market, which has had prices gain sharply lately, opened lower in moderate trading Friday on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 0.22 at 855.66 shortly after the opening. It declined 486 issues, 184 to 148, among the 486 issues crossing the tape. Turnover amounted to 560,000 shares.

Profit taking became a factor in many of the blue-chip and glamor stocks Thursday. Most analysts said this was normal in light of the recent big gains.

Many analysts said they believe the Federal Reserve Board has moved to a softer credit stance, and this has encouraged investors. The money situation has been tight for the past several months.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Listening closely to opinions expressed by those in power is the best course of action today. Then, later you can gain your objectives by a forceful attitude. Good for delightful entertaining. Avoid criticism of others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are able to make new and interesting friends today. By sidestepping the boring and the troublesome. Read good books that could be educational as well as pleasurable. Relax tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A forceful attitude toward others, especially higher-ups, could result in trouble today or tonight. Don't forget to pay an important bill on time. Show that you are a fine citizen.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't give up a new interest simply because you have not studied the details carefully. Get busy with obtaining the data. Going off on a tangent now could lead to real trouble.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be sure to complete any jobs you have left undone and make good use of your hunches. Listen to mate more and you increase the harmony at home. Avoid one who hickers.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you first listen to what associates have to say, you can come to a real understanding with them now so that conditions are improved in the future. Stop being so demanding.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do your share of any work connected with agreements you have made, but make sure you are not stepping on the toes of others. Health treatments can help you become a more vital person.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you show good pals like being with them, you can have a wonderful time today. Don't waste time feeling sorry for yourself. Show others that you are loyal. Be cheerful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you listen carefully to what others have to say at home, you can improve conditions there appreciably. Help them to gain their cherished aims. Don't be forceful with others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Keep a vital appointment but make sure you don't become too demanding. Much care in travel is necessary, if you want to be sure to avoid an accident. Entertain tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A more conservative attitude is necessary rather than a dramatic one today for the best results. Cut down on present expenses and build up a cash reserve. Evening is fine for fun.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Instead of fretting, get busy and do whatever will make conditions better for you and ers at home. Don't force anyone to do things your way. Use the more gentle approach.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Engage in confidential activities now that will help put your affairs in better shape. Listen to the troubles of others but don't become too involved. Take it easy tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who will be so involved with the troubles of others that it would be well to direct the education along lines of humanitarian work, medicine and the like. Getting into government or police work is also fine here. Teach not to give advice to others unless asked. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

suit by inference. Without those hearts North would simply respond with a transfer to spades.

South doesn't know how good his partner's hand is. South does know that he is looking at 17 of the best high-card points that a man can hold and South announces this by his four-club bid. This bid leaves spades open as the final contract, but suggests a spade slam in case North has a really good hand.

North has just 10 high card points, no singleton and no ace; signs off at four spades and has no trouble making his contract plus an overtrick.

CARD SENSE

The bidding has been:

West North East South

1NT Pass 2♣ Pass 3♣ Pass 4♣ Pass

Your South hold:

♠ K 2 ♡ 5 4 3 ♦ 3 2 ♣ A 9 6 5 4

What do you do now?

A—Bid three no-trump. You have no interest in slam, but certainly want to be in game and nine tricks are a lot easier to make than 11.

TODAY'S QUESTION

What do you bid as dealer with:

♠ A K 8 4 ♡ K J 2 ♣ A 7 4 ♦ K J 6

Intruders search for scripts

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, England (UPI) — A gang of intruders removed an historic bust of William Shakespeare from its resting place above the Bard's tomb, police said today. They got nothing for their effort, but laid to rest yet another theory—the great literary mystery of all time.

A police spokesman said the intruders broke into the Holy Trinity Church Tuesday and removed the marble bust and its plinth, or base, causing superficial damage to the historic artwork. It was left in the church.

"It was obviously a search for something," the spokesman said.

"They were not vandals. They took extreme care. They took down the bust—it is so heavy that three large detectives had to pick it up again, and they had a deal of difficulty—and removed part of the plinth to see if it was hollow."

The intruders presumably were searching for manuscripts of the great plays that are now known as Shakespeare's work. As far as has been determined, no such manuscripts exist.

But a Washington journalist and broadcaster claimed last week that he had decoded the inscription under the bust in such a way as to indicate that the bust itself hid Shakespeare's own hand-written texts of his plays.

According to the experts, that theory has now been shot down. In addition to the monetary value the manuscripts might have, they would figure prominently in the age-old controversy over whether Shakespeare himself actually was the author of the plays for which he now gets credit.

Several theories have been advanced suggesting that someone else, possibly a nobleman named Francis Bacon, nullified the works, but none of these has been proved.

MH treatment center licensed

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI) — Edgemede of Idaho, a live-in treatment center for emotionally disturbed children, now has full licensing from the state.

The Department of Environmental Community Services has changed Edgemede's license from provisional status to full licensing for one year.

The Jacoby transfer bid is good enough so that virtually every expert player uses it, but it isn't any wonder bid.

In particular, you don't need to use it every time your partner opens no-trump and you have a long major suit.

North wants to be in game after the no-trump opening, but he is not sure that he wants to play spades. He has five spades and four hearts. Hence, he responds with a Stayman two clubs and jumps to three spades after his partner denies any four-card major holding.

That jump to three spades is a game force. It guarantees at least five spades and shows a supplementary four-card heart
