Old Lincoln School: 'firetrap'

Firemen say older Lincoln 'firetrap'

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — In the view of fire department officials, the old section of Lincoln School is a "firetrap."

The old section of the school is scheduled to be replaced by a 12-classroom addition should a $3.5 million school bond issue to approved by Twin Falls District voters on Oct. 16.

According to Twin Falls Fire Marshal Fred Higgins, open stairways and heating flues in the building would "act like a chimney," rapidly spreading flames through the building should fire break out.

He said cane fiber acoustical ceiling tile would add to the spread of smoke and flame, whereas fiberglass tile used in newer schools is fireproof.

The best fire precaution is to have one-story school buildings, according to Higgins. In refurbishing older two-story buildings the "safest thing" is to install an automatic sprinkler system hooked to a fire alarm. Heat in a particular area would spring the nearby sprinklers and set off an alarm, holding the flames back until arrival of the fire department, Higgins said.

Ed Peterson, CTA architect who is working with the school system on building plans, said the 12-classroom replacement would probably be one story high. In any case, he said, "all the latest safety codes will be adhered to" in building the classrooms.

Besides being hazardous, the old portion of the school is educationally unsound, according to Keith Turner, principal at Lincoln School.

"It's either too hot or too cold," Turner said. In the summer classrooms in the building reach temperatures in the nineties and last winter during the coldest spell, the temperature in some rooms never rose above 60 degrees.

Israeli attacks push Arabs back

By United Press International

Israel reported today it had counterattacked Syrian and Egyptian forces and was routing them in the Golan Heights and along the Suez Canal.

The reports on the third day of the war were in sharp contrast to Egyptian and Syrian communiques which said their armored forces were advancing on both fronts and expanding their bridgeheads.

An Israeli National Radio correspondent reported from the Suez Canal front that the Israelis "are routing the enemy" and that Israeli planes, artillery and tanks were hitting 600 Egyptian tanks trapped on the east side of the Canal.

Another National Radio reporter said from the Golan Heights front that "the Syrians are openly in retreat and our forces are racking after them and destroying them." He said 400 of the invading 600 Syrian tanks had been destroyed or crippled.

The radio said Syrian planes tried to strike back and bomb the far northern Israeli town of Kiryat Shmona but were thrown back with 13 MIGs shot down in a dogfight. Israel reported earlier its air force and ground troops shot down 15 Egyptian planes which tried to attack in the Sinai today.

Israel claimed mastery of the air following deep penetration raids into Egypt and Syria, including attacks on five Syrian air bases today, and said its planes and ground troops shot down 15 Egyptian planes over the Sinai and several Syrian planes over the Golan Heights.

A Cairo communique said the Egyptian forces are in complete command of the whole eastern bank of the Suez Canal and are advancing into the Israeli-held Sinai. The Arabs reported more than 150 Israeli planes shot down — about a third of the Israeli strike force.

An Israeli military spokesman said most of the Syrian anti-aircraft batteries in the Golan Heights had been destroyed, that the Israelis were attempting to encircle a Syrian tank brigade and that the situation in the heights had eased enough to permit evacuated settlers to return.

The 1973 Middle East War began at 2 p.m. Saturday (6 a.m. EDT) when Israel and United Nations observers reported the Arabs struck into Israel on two fronts. The Arabs accused Israel of starting the war and pledged to continue it until all occupied lands are liberated from Israeli occupation.

Israeli military commentators said Israeli strategy was to block the two invaders and then counterattack. An official spokesman said today, "the holding action has been concluded. Our forces are repulsing the enemy."

Frontline military reporters said the Israeli air force had knocked out the dozen or so pontoon bridges across the Suez Canal and that 400 or so Egyptian tanks were now trapped. Tonight the Israeli National Radio reported the "routing" of those tanks.

Nixon seeks peace aid from Brezhnev

WASHINGTON (UPI)

President Nixon personally contacted Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger spoke with Chinese officials in hopes of getting broad support to end the Middle East war, the White House said today.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler in announcing the discussions did not detail what was said or the responses, but Nixon in an earlier brief statement said the United States intends to do everything possible to end the Arab-Israeli fighting.

Kissinger, in addition to speaking to Hsiao Chen, head of the Chinese liaison office in Washington, has been in contact with both the Egyptians and Israelis, as well as discussing the U.S. position with permanent members of the U.N. Security Council.

Mideast foes swap charges

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Israel and the Arabs accused each other in the General Assembly today of starting the renewed warfare in the Middle East.

Muhammad Zakiaria Ismail, Syrian deputy foreign minister, said latest information from Damascus was that Israel had launched an attack from the sea and was being engaged by Syrian naval vessels.

He charged Israel with "cowardly aggression" which started at 2 p.m. Saturday (6 a.m. EDT) with land and air forces.

"The attack was massive and of such proportions that there is no doubt that it was part of a premeditated plan," the Syrian said.

He cited an attempt by Israeli planes to penetrate deep into Syria last month as further evidence that Saturday's fighting was premeditated.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed Hassan El-Zayyat, who had asked to be first to speak to the assembly on the middle east fighting, was not present when President Leopoldo Bentes of Ecuador called on him.

The Security Council, convoked by the United States, was summoned to take up the fourth Arab-Israeli war at 1:38 p.m. EDT.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said he had a telegram from Israel at 4 a.m. last Saturday — six hours before hostilities began — that an attack was coming from the Arabs.

"There is not a single man or woman in this hall who doesn't know deep inside his heart that Egypt and Syria have dealt a blow to the most cherished of causes — that of international cooperation. The premeditated, unprovoked attack was one of the basest acts coming on the day of atonement of any government. We are determined that it will not succeed because if it should all hope for peace would die."

Having been forewarned, Eban said, Israel communicated assurances to the Arabs — presumably through a third party — that it would not take preemptive action.

He said the Arabs "invented the myth" of a ship crossing the Suez Canal silently in the darkness early on Yom Kippur.

Absentee ballots set

TWIN FALLS — Absentee ballots for the Twin Falls School District bond election are available at the district office, according to officials.

The election, set for Oct. 16, calls for $3.5 million building program that includes the construction of one new elementary school, classroom additions at other elementary schools and additions at a junior high school.

The district office is at 201 Main Ave. W.

Mr. T-N says

One wonders why the old section of Lincoln School was permitted to remain a 'firetrap' all these years.

Wendell man victim

JEHOIME — Wilford Green, 59, Wendell, has been identified as the man killed Saturday night when his pickup truck went off a Jerome County road and rolled, throwing him out.

State police said Green was traveling alone in the pickup when the accident occurred at 9 p.m. near the junction of Interstate 80 and State Highway 24 about one mile west of Jerome.

Susan Elaine Pauley, 27, Oakley, was the victim of an accident in Burley Saturday. She died when she drove her vehicle into the path of a northbound train at a crossing 50 feet west of the Burley city limits.

The deaths boosted the Idaho traffic toll for 1973 to 287, compared to 259 on this date last year.

TF councilman scores firing of TV newsman

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls City Councilman Stephen Lincoln has charged television station KMVT with "discrimination" in firing newsreader Richard Tuninga last week.

Tuninga was fired after he told KMVT officials he intended to seek election to the City Council.

Harold Harte, general manager of the station, said Tuninga was fired because "I do not feel that a newsman can sit on the City Council and honestly disseminate the news to the people of the Magic Valley."

Tuninga was appointed to the council in September to replace Mike Gray, who resigned to devote more time to his business and family. He planned to file candidacy for the remaining two years of Gray's term, to be decided in the Nov. 6 city election.

Lincoln was the most outspoken councilman in opposing Tuninga's discharge, although council members said they were "disturbed" by the action.

"I would think that if a guy from KMVT wanted to be active in the community, he should be praised rather than fired by his boss," Dr. Lincoln said.

TF Humane Society dognappers' target

TWIN FALLS — Stealing dogs from the Humane Society is like stealing garbage from the dump.

Why steal what would be given away? Yet, thieves went to a great deal of trouble Saturday to steal three dogs from the Twin Falls Humane Society. One of them was a St. Bernard.

According to Twin Falls

police reports, the thieves entered the Humane Society offices at 260 Maxwell Avenue through a trap door and stole the keys to the outdoor dog pens.

The thieves opened a pen and removed three dogs, including the full-blooded St. Bernard. The two other dogs were of undistinguished breed.

A Humane Society employee said today the St. Bernard, because of its pedigree, might have been auctioned for adoption for about $35. The other dogs would have cost about $5 each.

The employee said the St. Bernard would have been worth much more, if bought from a breeder. On police reports the dog was valued at $250.

TF boy still 'critical'

TWIN FALLS — Adam Wojcik, 2, Twin Falls, remained in critical condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital today.

He was injured Friday afternoon when a car backed over him as he played in a driveway near his home.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wojcik.

Police said the child was removed from beneath the vehicle before an ambulance arrived and rushed him to the hospital. He suffered multiple injuries.

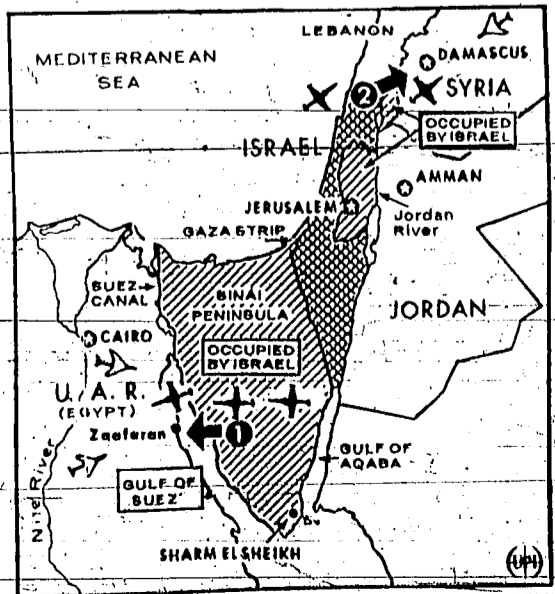

"I would think this is very discriminating toward him. This is a poor example by KMVT," Lincoln charged. "I think that individuals and businesses get out of a community exactly what they put into it."

"I call upon them (KMVT) to re-evaluate their position," he added.

"He is a good broadcaster and would be a good councilman. The two are compatible."

Asked if Tuninga should test the firing in court, Lincoln said that "is really up to him. Maybe he's going to have to swallow the bitter pill."

 "They didn't have the intelligence to get the more expensive items," said owner Charles Glut in reviewing the

 "I don't keep money here, so they took all kinds of dumb stuff. Three dozen light bulbs. They leave a $75 fish tank and take a little hexagonal one."
 And Glut said some of the stolen stuff might even bite the hand that took it — the tarantulas, for example. "The Texas tarantula was a whopper. He must have been 5 inches in diameter. Big and black and furry. It can be poisonous to some people."
 The other tarantula, a Mexican variety, was smaller but equally dangerous. And the 8-foot boa constrictor and the yellow-rat-snake do not make particularly lovable pets.

 The loss of the Texas tarantula was acutely distressing to Glut. "I had him since I opened the store 10 years ago. His kind is hard to get. I would rather have lost $500 in merchandise than this tarantula. I literally would not have taken $200 for him," Glut said.
 "Hello, Lefty. Al Again. Don't hang up this time. I just found out this big spider is worth a lot of money. I can let you have him for . . ." Click.

Israel push routs Arabs

The Israeli command said the Arabs had suffered heavy losses, including 90 aircraft and helicopters in the war, but it refused to disclose its own casualties in fending off the attacking Arabs for two days.
 An Israeli military spokesman, broadcasting to the nation, said the situation on both the Egyptian Suez Canal front and the Syrian Golan Heights line was "encouraging." The initiative on the field of battle has turned to the Israelis.
 Cairo Radio gave a far different picture of the situation. A communique broadcast at 1:40 p.m. (5:40 a.m. MDT) said: "The eastern bank is now completely in the hands of our forces."
 Syrian communique reported their troops had liberated large areas of the Golan Heights, that tanks and troops were advancing rapidly under Syrian air cover and that Syria during the day had shot down 32 Israeli planes.
 Both Cairo and Damascus reported beating back Israeli counterattacks and said the Israelis suffered heavy losses in men and tanks.
 The new Egyptian communique said: "Our forces are continuing to pour into Sinai across the strong bridges built across the canal."
 "The enemy attempted during the night to carry out counterattacks in desperate attempts to repel the advance of our troops, but it was met with fierce fire from our tanks, artillery and anti-tank weapons."
 "This counterfire completely foiled the enemy's counterattack. Twenty enemy tanks were destroyed and the enemy suffered heavy casualties and damage to its equipment."
 "The eastern bank (of the Suez Canal) has become completely under the control of our armed forces. Enemy personnel in the fortified positions of the bank have surrendered."
 So far only Syria and Egypt have been involved directly in the war. Jordan reported its anti-aircraft batteries shot down two Israeli planes today and Lebanese gunners have been reported firing on intruding planes.
 However, the Arab world gave its solid backing to Egypt and Syria. Iraq placed all its armed forces under the direct command of Egyptian and Syrian forces. Libyan leader Col. Muammar Khadafi said he would give Egypt and Syria the money and all they needed. King Hassan II of Morocco said he would send a second contingent of troops to aid Egypt. Algeria said it would give aid but did not mention troops. Tunisia said it would send troops. Baghdad Radio said Iraqi planes had taken part in the fighting.
 The Palestinian guerrillas said they were in action against Israel. The Palestine Liberation Organization appealed to all Arab oil producing countries to halt the flow of oil to the West. Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat called for guerrillas to strike at the Israelis throughout the world.

Europe worries about oil line

(c) Chicago Daily News
PARIS — Western Europe worried about its oil supplies today as the Arab-Israeli war went into the third day.
 Experts here predicted new difficulties in negotiating with the oil-producing nations at the International Conference beginning today in Vienna.
 The worldwide oil and energy shortage increased the leverage of the Arabs regardless of the military outcome.
 Iraq seized assets of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and Mobil oil which had 23.75 per cent of the Basra Oil Co., but it wasn't clear how this would affect the European co-owners.
 Western Europe has built up a 60-day oil reserve since the 1967 Middle East war and hopes to raise this to 90 days.
 With the margin between world demand and capacity only one million barrels per day, action by Syria and Lebanon affecting the pipeline flow also would have impact.
 If Libya cut off all oil from the western major companies, that would remove 600,000 to 700,000 barrels per day from production. Libya has promised financial aid to Egypt, but so far hasn't mentioned oil.
 Western officials see King Faisal of Saudi Arabia as the pivotal figure in the oil-weapon strategy. "We stand beside you will all our potential and capabilities," the King assured Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.
 "Unless the United States moves at once to contain Israel's aggression," King Faisal said in another message to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, "then the situation may explode into a global conflict involving the major powers."
 Kissinger had asked Faisal to try to persuade Egypt and Syria to halt the fighting. The Palestine Liberation Organization executive committee appealed for a stoppage of the oil flow to the west, in a Beirut statement.

Cambodian forces attack rebel units

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Communist attacks and shelling eased around Phnom Penh and government forces went on the offensive today on the eve of the third anniversary of the Khmer Republic.
 The top U.S. envoy in Phnom Penh said the United States would keep Cambodians fed for the rest of 1973.
 Col. Arn Rong, spokesman for the high command, said, "The enemy has suffered heavy losses from our artillery fire and it appears the initiative is passing to our side on all sides of Phnom Penh."
 Thomas O. Enders, charge d'affaires of the U.S. embassy in Phnom Penh, and Cambodia's acting foreign minister, Chhann Sokhum, signed an agreement which will give Cambodia another $5.4 million worth of wheat, cotton and cotton yarn under the food for peace program.
 In the first three months of this fiscal year, the U.S. has agreed to provide 19.1 million dollars worth of agricultural commodities to Cambodia under the food for peace program, compared to 25.8 million dollars in all last year.
 "We expect to be able, thanks to the appropriations made available by the Congress, to keep Cambodia fed through this year," said U.S. Charge d'Affaires Thomas O. Enders.
 Field reports said government defenders of besieged Sala Lekpram province capital, 27 miles northwest of Phnom Penh on Highway 5 had cleared a perimeter a half mile east of the city, despite a claim by the province governor his city would fall without reinforcements.
 At Prek Roeung, six miles south of Phnom Penh on Highway 2, government troops went on the offensive but the operation was soon halted by stiffening Communist resistance, field reports said.
 Government reinforcements were seen by field reporters moving along Highway 45 the American-built "Friendship Highway" to the port of Kompong Som in an apparent effort to storm a Communist roadblock 33 miles from Phnom Penh.

Blaine law bans cuts

HAILEY — Blaine County contractors are notified that no cuts on county roads are allowed from Oct. 31 to May 1 each year.

 No such permission, the ordinance states, will be granted — except in cases of extreme emergency — during the stated time period when the ground is frozen or likely to be frozen.

(c) N. Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — At the request of Vice President Agnew, Howard R. Hughes made a secret cash contribution of $10,000 to the 1970 Maryland gubernatorial campaign of C. Stanley Blair, according to testimony in a California lawsuit confirmed Sunday.
 The Hughes gift, which was acknowledged and described as "nothing illegal" by Blair's former campaign treasurer and by the Maryland attorney general, nonetheless underlined the awkward situation here as Agnew's dispute in the federal court moved toward a climactic week.
 Blair, 45 years old, was appointed United States district judge here in July, 1971, on the recommendation of the vice president.

LDS official denounces women's lib

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A Mormon leader denounced women's liberation Sunday as the work of the devil and urged church members to cling to traditional family values.

"Satan and his cohorts are using scientific arguments and nefarious propaganda to lure women away from their primary responsibilities as wives, mothers and homemakers," said N. Eldon Tanner.

Tanner, first counselor to President Harold B. Lee of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, spoke at the final session of church conference at the Salt Lake Tabernacle.

"I mothers, daughters and women everywhere, let me stress the fact that because of your great potential and influence for good in the lives of us all, Satan is determined to destroy you. You cannot compromise with him."

Tanner warned Mormon men, however, that women are their equals.

"It is un-Christianlike, unfair and displeasing to God for any husband or father to assume the role of dictatorship and adopt the attitude that he is superior in any way to his wife," Tanner said.

He told a crowd of several thousand that advances in communication techniques had aided the devil in his attack on womanhood and the family.

"Some effective tools include the use of radio, television and magazines, where pornography abounds and

Firemen honor winners

TWIN FALLS — Thirty-nine youngsters from the Twin Falls elementary schools received certificates, free ice cream and cake from the Twin Falls Fire Department Saturday.

The occasion was the annual party the firemen hold for winners of an essay contest about fire prevention.

Some of the children, as young as first graders expressed their appreciation by simple stories which said, "I want to be a fireman."

One young lady was taken by fire extinguishers and told how she planned to talk her parents out of money so she could buy them a gift. "The gift will be a fire extinguisher," she wrote.

UF flags stolen

TWIN FALLS — Some time between Saturday and Sunday, vandals stole all the United Fund flags in the 100 blocks of Main Avenue North and Main Avenue East, police reported today.

The theft was reported by a United Fund official. Police placed no estimated value on the flags which were erected to advertise the current United Fund campaign.

In other police action over the weekend:

- Philip Newton, Twin Falls, reported a chain saw and other items stolen while he washed his car Saturday afternoon.
- Newton told police he had taken a box containing the chain saw and miscellaneous items from his car prior to washing it at Shelby's Car Wash about 3:30 p.m. Saturday. Newton said he forgot he had set the box inside and drove off after washing his car. Ten minutes later he realized his mistake and returned to get the box, but it was gone, he told police.
- Newton placed a value of $200 on the missing merchandise.
- Burglars entered Jan's Lounge early Sunday morning and stole several cases of beer and cash from the till and various vending machines.

Police said entry to the bar was forced. Value of the stolen merchandise was estimated at $115.

William D. Bell, Elder, reported a stereo tape deck stolen from his car as it was parked outside the Military Inn in Twin Falls late Saturday night.

Bell estimated the value of the stolen tape deck at $50.

Stan Patterson, Twin Falls, reported several items, including a pistol, were stolen from his car. He valued the merchandise at $62.

and toured the fire station.

This is part of the annual fall fire prevention program of the department. During the past week and in the coming week, firemen will visit all of the grade schools with ladder truck, hose and other equipment for demonstrations and talks on fire prevention.

The department has also been calling, door to door, in residential areas of the city to hand out fire prevention and fire escape plan brochures and to assist families with any problems or questions.

Open house marks year

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Senior Citizens held an open house Sunday to mark the first anniversary of their organization.

About 75 senior citizens attended the event.

Mamie Shaw and the Old Time Fiddlers played at the event. Cake, coffee and punch were served.

2-day meet slated

TWIN FALLS — The State Board of Education will discuss higher education when it meets for two days this week at the College of Southern Idaho.

Board members are expected to consider a special University of Idaho appeals board report on five tenured personnel who were terminated last spring. The five, who were all from the College of Agriculture, were fired when the board declared a state of "financial exigency" at the college due to a shortage of funding and uncertainty over some crucial federal funds.

The appeals board report, issued last month, calls for the reinstatement of the five personnel. University of Idaho President Dr. Ernest Hartung said at the time he would discuss it with board members when they meet in Twin Falls. The two-day meeting, which begins Thursday, will be preceded by two days of committee meetings by board members. Tuesday afternoon, the board's Committee of the Whole will go over a controversial discussion paper on the future of higher education in the state. The report, authored by Director of Higher Education Mill Small, was first presented to board members at an earlier meeting.

The committee agenda also includes a discussion of tenure, set for Tuesday morning.

The board meeting, the first in Twin Falls in two years, will include a joint session with the state's university and college president Thursday morning. Also scheduled is a review of proposed higher education budgets for the next fiscal year and proposed recommendations to the Permanent Building Fund Council.

Board members first went over budget and building proposals at a meeting this summer in Boise.

The report of the special 12-man appeals board at the University of Idaho recognized the genuine shortage of funds at the College of Agriculture, but also said the personnel should be reinstated because of violation of due process at the university.

Sheriffs okay Bender's work

LEWISTON (UPI) — A survey of 60 per cent of the sheriffs in Idaho showed nearly unanimous approval of commissioner John Bender's work with the state Department of Law Enforcement.

The survey was conducted by the Lewiston Morning Tribune. The sheriffs interviewed were selected at random from the list of 44 Idaho counties and were predominantly Republican in their political affiliations. Bender is a Democrat.

They were asked to rate the current performance of the Department of Law Enforcement under Bender and to compare Bender's administration with his predecessor, Warner Mills. Bender was appointed to the post by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus in 1971.

All but one sheriff interviewed said the current department is at least as good or better than it was under Mills.

Two things pointed out in Bender's favor included an improvement in cooperation between the department and local law enforcement units; they also approved Bender's philosophy of local control.

Land-use planning scored by AP leader

TWIN FALLS — Nolan Victor, state chairman for the American Party of Idaho, Friday deplored the "massive propaganda blitzkrieg" designed to influence Idahoans in favor of land-use planning programs.

State land-use planning, financed by federal funds, would not only void the right of states to conduct their own affairs but would, in fact if not in theory, deprive the citizen of ownership of his land, he said.

"The right to own property and use it as one desires is the basic concept of freedom. Once their right has been taken from the people, this nation will have succumbed to the socialistic state and individual freedom will no longer exist," the official said.

Judge sets trial date

HAILEY — Fifth District Judge Charles Scorgin has set a Dec. 18 trial date for Steve Myers, Ketchum, who has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

During arraignment Thursday, Myers pleaded not guilty to the charge, which had been made in connection with an alleged incident July 27 in Ketchum.

Myers was represented in court by public defender Tom Champion. The state was represented by Blaine County Pros. Atty. Stephen W. Boller.

Aide in TF

TWIN FALLS — Astrid Liljeblog, instructor from Idaho State University in Pocatello, was in Twin Falls during the past week to obtain special assistance for three cerebral palsied children at the Easter Seal Center here.

She met with Merle Stoddard and Marjorie Benedet at the Twin Falls center for evaluation and therapy suggestions to help the individual children and their special problems. Mrs. Stoddard said the assistance was provided at no cost to the Pocatello group and as a public service to help children of other areas.

The Coldest War Of All

(c) New York Times Service PEKING — The first Sino-Russian negotiation occurred in the 17th Century at Nerchinsk. The Russians were represented by a Pole and the Chinese by two Jesuits.

The Chinese, who consider themselves good Marxist-Leninists, must read with cynicism what Lenin wrote in 1900: "The greedy paws of the European capitalists have reached out into China, and almost the first to do so was the Russian government which now swears to its 'unselfishness'."

Land is one of the main factors contributing to tension between Communism's two behemoths. On July 10, 1964, Chairman Mao said: "One hundred years ago, the region east of Baikal became Russian territory and later on Vladivostok, Khabarovsk, Kwantung and other regions became the territory of the Soviet Union. We have not yet presented the bills for this list."

Nevertheless, Peking stipulates it has no territorial pretensions and would like to resolve the frontier question by signing an unfair-imposed 19th Century treaties as a basis for negotiating. Premier Chou En-Lai says: "The Sino-Soviet boundary question should be settled peacefully through negotiations free from any threat."

But Peking does not feel there is any chance today, with Russia's vast army deployed along this country's border, of exploring the question on a basis "free from any threat." The Chinese are certainly prepared for minor accommodations such as an accord to pull troops back on each side.

But they want no major treaty yet and anyway regard treaties with some skepticism, having seen Russia seize its ally Czechoslovakia in 1968.

China is therefore digging in and playing for time. But Sino-Soviet differences aren't limited to geography. As early as 1927, when Borodin was Stalin's adviser with the Chinese Communists, Mao Tse-tung was warning that this country's revolution must be based on support, a doctrine considered heretical in Moscow. Partly because of Soviet pressure Mao was excluded from the Chinese politburo.

The triumph of Maoist Communism here was clearly disgruntling to the U. S. S. R., despite a temporary period of Sino-Soviet alliance. Their ideological differences were irreconcilable and the dispute became global with rivalry showing not only in Marxist movements but on a state basis.

The Russians called the Chinese leftists and the Chinese called the Russians revisionists. Peking claims Moscow sought to encourage dissident movements here, above all those led by Liu Shao-Chi, once head of this People's Republic, and by Lin Biao, who was constitutionally designated as Chairman Mao's successor until he died while fleeing after an abortive coup attempt.

Lin represented urban influences and had spent some years in Russia. Lin had been cured of tuberculosis in Moscow just before World War II. While there is no detailed evidence linking them to Kremlin machinations, Lu favored reactivation of the Sino-Soviet alliance and Lin is thought to have opposed the new policy of friendship with the U. S. A. Chou En-Lai now denounces the former's "revisionist" line and proclaims that Lin died fleeing "as a defector to the Soviet revisionists in betrayal of the party and the country."

Thus the clash between Russian and China is territorial, ideological and political with the result that military tension has grown. Peking believes Moscow might have risked a nuclear attack here had China aided Pakistan in its 1971 Indian War. It sees India and outer Mongolia as Russia's vassals, and fears Vrezhnev's policy of seeking to encircle China.

It remembers with bitterness Khrushchev's 1959 failure to send a promised "sample atom bomb" here and the withdrawal of all Soviet technicians and planners one year later. It resents construction of an implacable Soviet military machine on China's borders. But possibly the greatest danger sensed is the fear of plots inside this country. Premier Chou recalled to a recent party congress these words of a "chief of the Soviet revisionists": "Sooner or later the healthy forces express the true interests of China will have their decisive say."

For Chou this implies "reducing China to a colony of Soviet revisionist social imperialism" because "enemies at home and abroad all understand that the easiest way to capture a fortress is from within... Lin Biao will appear again and so will persons like Liu Shao-Chi. Thus, while the rest of the world talks blithely of detente, China finds itself engaged in the coldest war of all with Russia."

Railroad Crossing

Two car-train collisions in downtown Shoshone within two weeks have claimed the life of one woman and injured another woman seriously.

Both collisions occurred at railroad crossing guarded only by crossarm warning signs. There are neither signals nor gates at the crossings — one of which carries traffic on three U. S. highways across the Union Pacific's main line.

The history of those crossings in Shoshone is spotted with the blood of victims of other accidents through the years. Many crashes have claimed lives. Other victims have escaped with injuries.

Why no action has been taken prior to this to protect both motorists and trainmen from collisions is almost beyond belief. But the most recent accidents have spurred Shoshone residents to demand installation of crossing signals.

This is a demand, it seems to us, the UP can not afford to ignore.

Neither, for that matter, can Idaho Highway Department officials since one of the crossing carries highway traffic.

Another factor affecting the situation is the UP's request for permission to raise train speed limits through Shoshone from the present 25 miles an hour to 45 miles an hour. That request is pending before the city council.

We'll grant that economic operation of heavy freight trains requires maintaining steady speeds over long distances on main line trackage. The UP's main line across Southern Idaho handles this type of traffic at speeds up to 70 miles an hour or more. But where safety is involved, it would seem 35 miles an hour through a town — particularly where crossing aren't protected — is fast enough. In fact, it may be fast enough, even with warning signals and gates to bar crossings.

The motorist, too, has responsibility for his own safety. He or she should be alert when approaching crossing — looking both ways, listening for whistles — particularly when crossing are guarded only by crossarms. And often it's a wise precaution even when there are warning signals.

A train travelling 60 or 70 miles an hour covers a half mile in less than 30 seconds. That's not much time for stopping either a train or car.

Installation of warning signals would cost $50,000 to $60,000 or more for a multiple-track crossing such as the two at Shoshone, according to UP officials.

And those same officials indicate the proper channel for Shoshone to work through in pushing for installation of crossing warning signals would be the Idaho Public Utilities Commission.

It seems to us the time has arrived for officials of the railroad, Shoshone, and maybe the Idaho Highway Department to proceed with installing signals at the crossings in question. Perhaps the costs could be shared two or even three ways since all have an interest in the safety of person passing over the tracks.

Citizen pressure for action along this line should be applied — and more if needed for action at the earliest time.

The cost of possible lawsuits arising from fatal accidents or from injuries sustained by accident victims is probably far less than the cost of installing a couple of sets of flashing signal lights or crossing gates.

Not Much Change

WASHINGTON — A story in the Washington Post reveals — for about the millionth time — that college students have not changed much over the centuries. The headline tells it all: "Once-Popular Black Studies Now Attracting Only a Handful of Students."

In a city that is about 74 per cent black and whose white students challenge Berkeley for the championship belt in "relevance" courses in black culture and history — forced on colleges and universities by the violent protesters of 1968 — have been a flop.

At George Washington University, 167 students took a black history course in 1969. Twenty-four students are taking it this fall. At American University, 339 students took a black course in 1969; only 12 are taking it now. Georgetown University dropped a black history course in 1971 when it drew only nine students. At black Howard University, enrollment in the Department of Afro-American studies has dropped from 1,635 in 1971-72 to a mere 38.

black students wanted an education that would enable them to "make it" in a white world. Second, there was a condescending, pat-on-the-head flavor to the whole business, especially among drawing room apparatchiks.

Now the Post story quotes two highly respected educators — Saunders Redding of Cornell and Harvard professor Martin Kilson — as having, in effect, reached the same conclusion. Redding is quoted as saying that because the white schools were pressured into acting swiftly, they often hired "black members for their faculties who were not prepared... a great many of these instructors gave courses which had little or no informational content, but which were sort of rah-rah, us blacks."

Redding, a black, opposes black studies; he favors "intellectual integration" of other subjects. "The Post quotes Redding and Kilson as agreeing that 'Eventually... white students came to realize that many of the courses were worthless, and black students found that if they were going to compete with whites after graduation, they could not afford to lose themselves in black studies.'

What the chic Kennedy — and McGovern — liberals did, of course, was to understate the intelligence and the shrewdness of the black students. Like some whites, there were blacks who went to college to major in political mischief-making. But it is now clear that most black students are seeking a broad education so they can work through the mostly white system to build careers in the system.

Indeed, the argument can be made that the "black culture" fad — not back integration — instead of advancing it. In most colleges, the black courses established new sectors of separatism. They created an atmosphere — on many campuses that there were two colleges, one for whites and the other for blacks. When that happened, the black student was getting no more out of attending, says Harvard, than if he had gone to an all-black college.

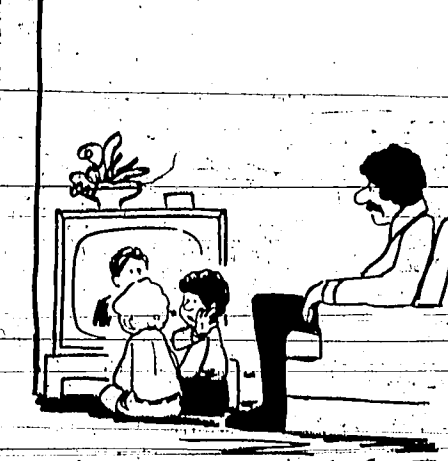

Thus, despite ideological cultism does the very purpose it purports to serve. There has been a lot of nonsense talked about uplifting the young black so he can take pride in his blackness. Well, you can't teach pride in college, as many white parents have learned to their dismay. Neither black nor white can be called "beautiful" merely because of his blackness or whiteness. More important pragmatically, neither blacks nor whites can compete for the good jobs if they spend four college years majoring in genteel racism.

X-ray is useful because it indicates density of the tissue through which the rays pass. Bones are dense, so they throw a strong shadow on the X-ray plate. But soft tissues permit the rays to pass through easily and throw little shadow.

The intestinal tract (including the colon) does not show up very sharply, being all soft tissue. Therefore the patient is given a barium enema (a chalky-looking fluid which does not let the rays pass through so readily). The barium-filled intestine will throw a sharp shadow on the plate, and in that way the size and shape of the intestine can be seen clearly. (Other tests, including blood and enzyme levels, also may disclose trouble when X-rays don't.)

Evidently in your case, no marked abnormality showed up. All the same, you hurt. Therefore surgery may disclose some other abnormality that the X-ray didn't show. I wouldn't try to guess what, without further information. However, your doctor, apparently has some suspicions, since he mentioned the colon.

BERRY'S WORLD

COMMENT

Blacks And Politics

Christian Science Monitor

The Southern Governors' Conference has elected a black chairman, Gov. Melvin Evans of the Virgin Islands. Said Mr. Evans: "The completely routine manner in which this historic event took place is indicative of a basic understanding and acceptance of principles which may have been in doubt in the past."

Though the step may have been more significant emblematically than in terms of power, it is one more indication of blacks entering the stream of American politics. If they take full advantage of the opportunities gradually opening to them, they should be able to temper a sad finding in the Yankelovich survey of black attitudes in Ebony magazine. The survey showed that about half the blacks were satisfied or moderately optimistic about their prospects in the American system but that more than 40 per cent felt unhappy.

The new efforts of black politicians could lead to improved hopes for blacks, as well as for white Americans in the sense that the whole society is improved as each segment in it reaches its rightful place.

The key to political progress is successful group action. Blacks moved toward this with the August meeting in Denver which brought together Democratic and Republican black elected leaders for the first time to coordinate efforts for forthcoming elections. Last week the congressional black caucus met to develop coalition strategies, even with former opponents, to achieve common goals.

Edward Brooke, the Senate's one-man black caucus, noted that cooperation with whites need not mean any loss of black identity. Nor need group effort mean loss of individual identity either. The varieties of political point of view within the black community need not be homogenized even though certain wide disparities are muted for common purposes.

The question of division has come up in connection with the growth of the black middle class and a reported tendency of parts of it — like their white equivalents — to turn away from the interests of the lower economic classes. In the course of an ongoing study of politics in Harlem, it was found that the middle and lower classes differ politically on matters "internal" to the black community. But, as reported Ebony, they come together on "external" matters such as citywide, state, and national elections.

One sticking point is the black voter turnout, which has disappointed black politicians. This should improve as the results of more effective black leadership become apparent — and hopes improve sufficiently so that all American citizens realize that their votes do count.

Witnesses slated for 'Gate panel'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Fat Jack" and "Sedan Chair II" will occupy the witness chair before the Senate Watergate committee this week, but whether the panel planned to investigate a reported $100,000 cash donation from Howard Hughes to President Nixon's reelection campaign was unclear.

Committee counsel Sam Dash confirmed Sunday that John "Fat Jack" Buckley and Michael W. McMinoway, code-named "Sedan Chair II," would testify when hearings resumed Tuesday. Both were identified in previous testimony as having passed information to the Nixon campaign committee from the headquarters of Democratic candidates.

McMinoway allegedly was a spy in the headquarters of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Buckley was said to have been a contact between Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt and an informer in the campaign of Sen. Edmund S.

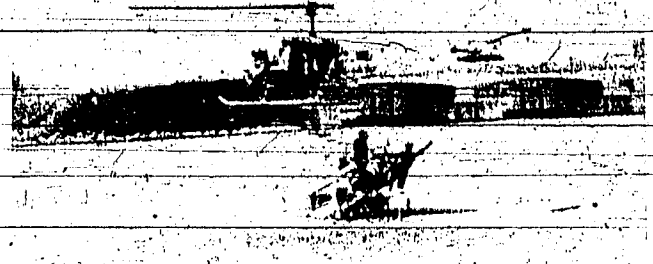

Muskie, D-Maine.

Dash refused to comment on reports Sunday that the committee had subpoenaed registration records of four Key-Biscayne, Fla., hotels in an effort to link Hughes with the Nixon campaign.

The subpoenas sought the dates of registration for 19 persons, mostly Hughes' associates, but including Nixon's friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, Nixon's brother Donald, Hunt and co-conspirator G. Gordon Liddy, the reports in the Los Angeles Times and the Washington Post said.

They reported that former Hughes aide Robert Maheu made a federal court deposition in Los Angeles that the billionaire arranged a $100,000 cash gift to the Nixon campaign through Rebozo in 1969 and 1970.

Committee sources said the panel will end the "dirty tricks" phase of its probe soon and take a two-week recess later this month, along with the rest of the Senate.

Downed craft Rescue attempt delayed

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — A helicopter and a police boat were disabled Sunday as they tried to rescue two adults and a baby drifting toward Niagara Falls in a stalled motorboat.

All 10 persons who ended up in the water were safely pulled ashore a few hundred feet from the 176-foot-high cataract.

Thousands watched the string of accidents and the eventual rescue from the shore.

Police said Jo Ann Horn, 21, and Michael Horn, 18 months, both of Tonawanda, N.Y., and Jerry Land, 20, of Buffalo, were in a 14-foot motorboat when its engine stalled. The current of the Niagara River was sweeping the boat toward Horseshoe Falls — the American side of the falls.

A private helicopter, carrying the pilot and two Niagara Falls Park policemen, went to their aid.

But one of the people in the motorboat grabbed a runner on the helicopter, police said. That forced the craft to tip over. It broke up and spilled its occupants into the river when it hit some rocks.

WASHINGTON — Lawyers representing news organizations and reporters subpoenaed by counsel for Vice President Agnew in an effort to find the source of news leaks met here today to plan strategy for a response.

The attorneys attending the session declined to discuss any decisions that may have been reached, but it was understood that the discussions focused on the case law that could be used in arguments for quashing the subpoenas and the jurisdiction or jurisdictions in which motions to quash might be filed.

The session was occasioned by the action Friday of Agnew's attorneys in serving subpoenas on the news organizations and reporters.

The reporters subpoenaed are known to include Nicholas Gage of the New York Times; Richard M. Cohen of the Washington Post; Fred P. Graham of the Columbia Broadcasting System; Ron Nessen of N. B. C. News; William Sherman of the New York Daily News; Stephen Leshner of Newsweek Magazine; Sandy Smith of Time Magazine; and Ronald Sarro and Robert Walters of the Washington Star-News.

Time and Newsweek were also served with subpoenas demanding testimony of unidentified reporters who had contributed to some articles about the Agnew investigation.

The subpoenas were authorized Wednesday by United States District Court Judge Walter E. Hoffman, who is handling procedural matters in the Grand Jury investigation of Agnew in relation to possible tax, bribery, extortion and

'Hate mail'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Secret Service has heightened security in handling mail at the White House because of an increase in "hate mail" threatening the lives of President Nixon and the first family, U.S. News & World Report said Sunday.

The magazine said that all hand-carried envelopes and packages must now be checked by police or given a fluoroscope test before they can be delivered on the White House grounds.

after gasoline dealers in Houston, Tex., Southern California, the New York suburbs on Long Island and other scattered areas staged their own boycotts.

The council granted a price hike of 1 to 2.5 cents a gallon a week ago, but the dealers said the increase was not enough to make up for shrinking profits caused by hikes in the wholesale cost of gasoline.

Reno supports 'gas' shutdown

By United Press International

A nationwide shutdown of gasoline stations to protest the government's Phase 4 freeze on gas prices failed to materialize anywhere but in Reno, Nev., over the weekend. Even there, dealers called the protest off after it appeared they were all alone.

"If the national closure looks like a weak sister, we have no intention of trying to bury the people of Reno with the burden," said Bob Cashell, a spokesman for the Northern Nevada Petroleum Trainers Association.

Ninety per cent of the stations were closed Saturday, Cashell said, but he added, "I expect everything to be back to normal in this area by Monday."

There had been talk of a nationwide shutdown all last week, but it lost momentum

The California Highway Patrol reported no problems with a shortage of open stations except that "a lot of people have been outting us."

The Nevada Highway Patrol reported only "the normal number" of motorists stranded along roadways on isolated stretches of Nevada's desert highways. The Patrol said there were rural gas operators ignored the boycott call.

But the police boat stalled. The four officers jumped into the river before their boat was swept over the edge of the falls.

As the people in the river clung to the wreckage of the helicopter, those on the shore threw ropes to them. Two of the people from the helicopter grabbed the ropes and scrambled ashore, carrying the baby.

The others also were pulled out by a combined force of park police, Niagara Falls city police, firemen and the Coast Guard.

But Park Police Sgt. Lyle Newberry, 47, was swept furthest downstream.

One human chain formed to catch him, missed as the current carried him by. A second human chain 100 yards further downstream caught Newberry just as he was about to slip over the 176-foot drop.

All were treated at the Niagara Medical Center and Mount St. Mary's Hospital in Lewiston.

Hughes donates campaign money

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (UPI) — A Las Vegas casino owned by billionaire Howard Hughes donated $10,000 at the request of Vice President Spiro Agnew to C. Stanley Blair for use in Blair's unsuccessful 1970 Maryland Republican gubernatorial campaign, Newsday reported Sunday.

In a copyrighted article from Los Angeles, the Long Island newspaper said the donation was made to Blair, Agnew's friend and former administrative assistant, after the vice president asked Hughes for campaign money.

The $10,000 donation was not recorded in Blair's campaign records, former Blair campaign officials were quoted as saying.

The newspaper said, "Ten thousand dollars in $100 bills were obtained from the cashier's cage of Hughes' Silver Slipper Casino for the gubernatorial campaign of Agnew's friend and former administrative assistant, C. Stanley Blair."

Agnew arranged the deal while in Las Vegas in September, 1970, on a speaking engagement, Newsday said.

Marsh Thomson, Agnew's press aide, said Agnew's office had no knowledge of the matter and a Hughes spokesman declined to comment, the paper said.

Blair now is a federal judge in Maryland and set up the grand jury that now is investigating the bribery charges which have involved Agnew. Because of his former relationship to Agnew, Blair has withdrawn from any connection with the case.

DC bill scheduled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Self-government for the District of Columbia, which many residents complain is the "last colony," comes up for action in the House this week.

Under terms of a bill that will reach the floor Tuesday, Washingtonians, who won the right to vote for President only 12 years ago, would elect their own mayor and city council.

Washington's mayor and city council are appointed by the President, and the District has no voting representation in Congress, which controls the city budget and makes all major decisions.

The bill was expected to spark a loud and bitter debate with racial overtones, because Washington is 73 per cent black.

"Some members just do not want to give self government to a predominantly black city because they are somehow offended by the idea of blacks governing the nation's capital," said Rep. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y.

Strip mining control urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For years environmentalists have argued that strip miners, after removing coal from the earth, should be required to return the land to its original contour. The coal industry says this would shut down stripping operations throughout much of Appalachia.

The issue came to a head today as the U.S. Senate debated on a bill for nationwide control of strip mining for coal.

Coal industry officials have waged an intensive lobbying effort to weaken the measure.

The bill, authored by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., calls for the Interior Department to set federal standards. It then gives the states a year to draw up their own rules, before federal enforcement begins.

The House last year passed a strong strip mining bill, but it died when the Senate failed to act on it.

The most controversial provision of Jackson's bill, attacked in committee by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., would ban so-called "highwalls" after the stripping and reclamation work is completed.

Highwalls are the near-vertical slopes, much like the walls of a mountain, after a highway has been cut through it, created by strippers in mountainous areas.

Environmental groups contend banning highwalls would not ruin the industry. They cite Pennsylvania, which has had a virtual ban since 1964, as a successful example.

But the National Coal Association, which represents most of the major coal operators, argues that the ban would virtually shut down the industry in Appalachia.

Several amendments are expected to be proposed for the Jackson bill, including one by Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., which would require "concurrence" by the Environmental Protection Agency before the federal standards could be adopted or state regulations approved.

Sidestep asked in tape issue

NEW YORK (UPI) Chief Justice Warren Burger privately has suggested that the Supreme Court sidestep the issue of whether President Nixon should be ordered to turn over tape recordings in the Watergate case, Newsweek magazine reported Sunday.

However, the magazine said, the report is being denied and most members of the court seem to feel the issue is unavoidable.

The magazine said Burger reportedly explored the possibility of refusing to review the case on the ground — both President Nixon and special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox are members of the executive branch of government.

But, Newsweek said, some justices have already made an unprecedented start on the case — studying background papers, arguments and briefs from the appeals court in Washington even before that court's decision on the case is handed down.

Solons back Nixon move to UN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon cut short a Florida weekend and flew back to the capital late Sunday to take personal command of U.S. efforts to halt the war in the Middle East.

Initial congressional reaction supported the President's call for an emergency meeting of the U.N. Security Council. "I think he's following the only feasible course. I support him 100 per cent in what he's undertaking," said Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont.

But when asked what he thought the chances were that the Security Council would take effective action, Mansfield said: "Based on past performance, not too good. But I don't know what else we could do."

Administration officials viewed the new fighting as a test of agreements between Nixon and Soviet Communist party Leader Leonid Brezhnev in two recent summit conferences not to let disputes between other nations spiral into a U.S.-Soviet confrontation.

Declarations to this effect were made by the U.S. and Soviet leaders at their Moscow summit in May, 1972, and reinforced at their Washington summit last June. Included was a pledge to hold "urgent consultations" to avoid escalation of disputes.

Those consultations began over the weekend when Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger conferred with Russia's ambassador in Washington, Anatoly F. Dobrynin. Kissinger, who spent Sunday in Washington, also was in touch with Foreign Minister Abba Eban of Israel, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohammed H. el-Zayyat and the Earl of Cromer, Britain's ambassador to Washington.

At 4 p.m. EDT Sunday, Nixon called Kissinger from Key Biscayne, Fla., instructing him to request the U.N. Security Council session. Kissinger relayed the request to John Scall, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, in New York.

US 6th Fleet standing by

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Part of the U.S. 6th Fleet has been ordered out of port in Greece and ordered to a holding area southeast of Crete, only a half day's sailing from the Suez Canal, Defense Department officials said Sunday.

A Defense Department spokesman would say only that "certain 6th Fleet ships have put out to sea." Other Pentagon officials said a naval task force, including the aircraft carrier Independence and three or four destroyers, sailed to an area southeast of Crete only a few hundred miles from fighting in the Suez area.

According to the sources, the ships will remain there until a decision is made to either move them in closer to the hostilities or return them to port.

Russia supports Arabs, blames Israel for war

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union blamed Israel and "external reactionary circles" Sunday night for the outbreak of fighting in the Middle East, and said Moscow "resolutely supports" the Arab cause.

The Soviet government's first statement since the outbreak of hostilities was markedly milder than the initial Russian reaction to the 1967 Arab-Israeli War.

"Responsibility for the present development of events in the Middle East and their consequences falls wholly and entirely on Israel and those external reactionary circles which constantly encourage Israel in its aggressive ambitions," the latest statement said.

At the outbreak of fighting six years ago, the Soviets held out the threat of intervention, saying Moscow reserved "the right to take all steps that may be necessitated by the situation."

Moscow, in its latest communique, also failed to repeat the 1967 call for the United Nations to condemn Israel and for the world body to try to end the battles.

Political analysts said the statement reflected the coolness in Soviet-Arab relations over Egypt's expulsion of Russian military advisers in 1972 and a determination not to involve the superpowers in the current conflict.

Cruise ship released

ATHENS (UPI) — A Greek cruise ship with 307 American tourists aboard, seized by Syrian gunboats Sunday, left the Syrian port of Tartus early today, bound for Cyprus, a spokesman for the ship's tourist office said.

The 4,000-ton cruise ship Romantica was seized Sunday for only a few hours, after which the Syrian government had quickly announced it was free to leave.

Hussein playing it cool

BEIRUT (UPI) — King Hussein of Jordan, who had his fingers badly burned by intervening in the six day war against Israel in June, 1967, is playing it cool and cautiously this time.

But there are indications he may be considering entering the battle.

In 1967, Hussein's long range guns shelled Israeli Jerusalem and Tel Aviv from the start of the fighting.

Hussein ordered this action, he disclosed afterwards, on the strength of pledges by the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt that the Arabs were winning.

The late Levi Eshkol, Israeli prime minister at the time, twice appealed to Hussein to stay out of the fighting. He promised Israel would not attack if he did. Hussein ignored the pleas.

Only on the third day of war did Israel launch an all-out attack against Jordan. It resulted in humiliating defeat for Hussein and the loss for Jordan of the old city of Jerusalem and the entire West Bank.

So far, Hussein is playing it cautiously this time.

His 70,000-man army so far has not intervened, even though it could pose a dangerous threat to Israel.

Hussein's failure to strike in the first three days since the present fighting erupted has been bitterly attacked by Palestinian guerrillas. He also has been fiercely assailed by Libya.

But there are signs that this Jordanian inaction may be coming to an end.

Iraq grabs assets of 2 US oil firms

BEIRUT (UPI) — The leftist government of Iraq nationalized the local assets of two American oil companies Sunday in what Baghdad Radio said was retaliation for Israeli attacks on Egypt and Syria.

The radio identified the companies as Standard Oil of New Jersey and Mobil Oil and said they owned 23.75 per cent of the operations of the Basra Oil Company.

The Baathist socialist government said, "The confrontation of imperialist and Zionist aggression against the Arab nation requires that we direct a strike against American interests in the Arab homeland and make oil a weapon in our hands and not in the hands of imperialists and Zionists."

On June 1, 1972, Iraq nationalized the Iraq Petroleum Company (IPC), the major foreign consortium operating in the Arab country in the Middle East.

The radio urged other Arab countries to "stop exporting oil to the United States and every country which supports the Israeli enemy."

It called on Arabs to "attack firmly whoever supplies the imperialist American enemy with the power of aggression."

The broadcast said Israel was established in the Arab world to protect American and imperialist interests in the area and consequently "all effective Arab weapons in the struggle against the Zionist-imperialist enemy must be used."

"The oil weapon comes ahead on consideration that it is a strategic and effective weapon in paralyzing the power of the enemy," Baghdad Radio said.

Turnaround not easy

TEL AVIV (UPI) — A military spokesman said today Israeli forces have blocked the Syrian and Egyptian advances and that "the initiative is at present in our hands."

"It wasn't easy," said Ref. Maj. Gen. Haim Herzog. "I don't know if we've reached the turning point, but we are not far from it."

"But I can say the initiative is at present in our hands," Herzog, former chief of military intelligence, said Israel faced a force more than six times its size when the fighting began Saturday on the Suez Canal and Golan Heights fronts.

Paul man invents corrugate opener

PAUL — A Paul man, Henry Aschenbrenner, has invented a completely automatic corrugate opener.

Aschenbrenner, who said he had been thinking about the project for nearly two years, constructed the new piece of machinery from iron available on his farm in about three days working time by tinkering with it off an on for about a month this summer.

The manufacture of the device, he says, is that it is fully automatic. "Just drop it into the ground and drive real slow," he said Friday.

Aschenbrenner said there were several different types of corrugate openers on the market, but "they're a pain in the neck. You have to watch them all the time and use a hydraulic lift and PTO to operate them."

These corrugate openers, he said, created a great deal of wear on the clutch of a tractor because the farmer has to stop to use the hydraulic lift and PTO at each corrugate.

He said he had had two commercial corrugate openers in the last 10 years and they "were broken down all the time" because the bearings operated in the dirt.

Aschenbrenner's invention has no drive chain and its only bearings that run are above the dirt. "Hardly anything can wear out on it," he said.

The corrugate opener, which "jumps up and down and makes the corrugates as you drive" hardly has to be watched at all, he said.

The device "is much easier on the tractor and the operator," he said.

And it works much faster.

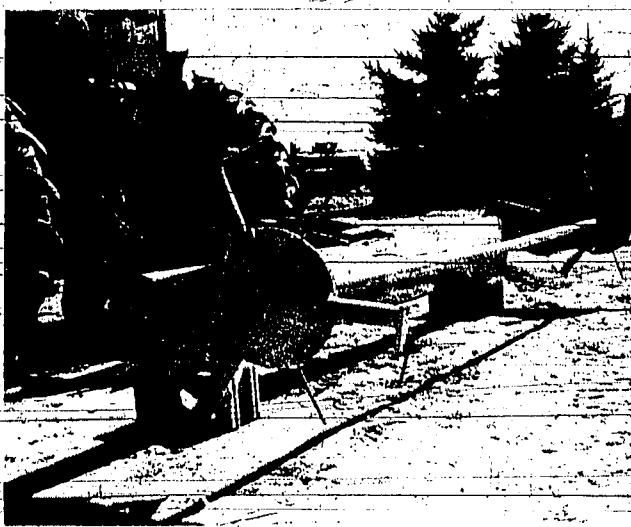

Aschenbrenner said a field which used to take him nearly two hours to complete now takes only about 15 to 20 minutes.

That is about one-eighth the time of conventional corrugate openers and considerably less than hand-digging.

In addition, he said, the device is adjustable so that it can form corrugates anywhere from 32 inches to 44 inches apart.

Aschenbrenner has written to the patent office and expects to patent his device for manufacture. He said Friday he was in the process of looking for a manufacturer.

The corrugate opener he has now is "kind of a cobbled-up" job being constructed of scrap iron from the farm, but Aschenbrenner said he would "make them look better if I sell them."

Oct. 19 selected for BLM election

BURLEY — Two members of the Bureau of Land Management Advisory Board for Idaho District 2 will be elected Oct. 19 in a district-wide election.

Polling places will be established in four locations in the district including the old hospital building in Twin Falls; the BLM office on Oakley Highway at Burley; the Oneida County Courthouse courtroom in Malad, and the county courthouse commissioner's room in Pocatello.

Those whose terms expire and who are eligible to run for re-election are John A. Pierce, Malad, in Precinct 2, and Milton T. Jones, Malad, Precinct 4.

Representatives are elected as livestock operators only, with no distinction between sheep and cattle grazing.

Nominations will be accepted from 1 to 2 p.m. at the polling places. No nomination will be accepted after 2 p.m. at which time the polls open. Voting will continue until 5 p.m.

Nick Cozanos, district manager, BLM, Burley, said the nomination must be made by a holder of a regular license for grazing use in the same precinct as the number whose term is expiring.

Voting is on a district-wide basis. Each qualified licensee will be permitted to cast a ballot for an advisory board member from each of the two precincts.

Cozanos urged all persons holding grazing permits to attend the meeting and vote for the board members of their choice.

National Guard tours to Europe criticized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pentagon critic Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says the National Guard Bureau's sending of Air National Guard units to Europe for summer training was "a foolish waste of military time and tax money."

Aspin said the 35-man 53rd Air Force Band of Harrisburg, Pa., spent active duty training in August giving concerts to German audiences.

Capt. John Dixon, a spokesman for the National Guard Bureau, said the cost differential compared to training in the United States was "insignificant," adding the efforts support international community relations.

"All such bands fly to Europe on previously scheduled Air Guard aircraft, flying missions to Europe in support of the U. S. Air Force," Dixon said. "While in Europe, band members make maximum possible use of government quarters to minimize housing costs."

Dixon identified two other band units that appeared in Europe this past summer—the 51st Air Force Band of Dallas and the 568th Air Force and of Chicago.

All the stints were for the two-week training period.

"I'm all for friendship, but this is ridiculous," Aspin said, noting the Harrisburg band played during German-French-American Friendship Week.

"As a matter of fact, I can think of no good reason why the National Guard, an organization that's supposed to back up the regular services in war-time, should even have bands," Aspin added.

Food prices will rise despite wholesale drop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite a sharp drop in wholesale prices, housewives will continue to pay increasingly more for food during the next six months, according to one of President Nixon's key economic advisers.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, suggested Friday that a 10 per cent annual rate of increase for retail food over the next half year was "in the ball park." He pointed out, however, that the jump would be about half the rate of increase in grocery prices this summer.

The Labor Department announced Friday that the number of Americans with jobs increased by 700,000 to an all-time high of 85.1 million in September, but the unemployment rate held stubbornly at 4.8 per cent.

The decline in wholesale prices and the latest employment figures drew the attention of President Nixon, who is spending the weekend in Key Biscayne, Fla.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren told reporters that "while fully realizing that we still have a long way to go to deal with the problem of inflation, these two index figures show that we are perhaps making some headway."

Class action filed by LA policewoman

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Almost all the female candidates for the newly created "unisex police force" flunked the physical strength test. Of the 178 applicants for police officer training, 35 were women.

Only two of them passed the physical strength tests, compared to 139 of the 143 male applicants, the city personnel department said Friday, and one of these two women was disqualified for other reasons.

The test results brought more criticism from Sgt. Franchon Blake, the policewoman who is leading the fight against what she contends is antifemale discrimination in the department.

She is suing the department in federal court in a class action suit aimed at forcing the city to hire more women officers.

Sgt. Blake charged the tests were designed "systematically to exclude women" from the force, and the standards were "set at such a high level only Amazons could pass."

35 black whales try to commit mass suicide

CHARLESTON, S. C. (UPI) — Thirty-five black whales washed up on the beach of nearby Kiawah Island Friday in what scientists described as a rare mass suicide attempt.

The whales, some 15 feet long, ran aground Friday afternoon.

Visitors to the area helped keep the huge mammals wet while agents of the state

Wildlife and Marine Resources Department dragged them back into the water. Several of the whales died.

A department spokesman said the grounding of whales is a rare phenomenon which occurs for no apparent reason other than suicide. He said some of the whales put back out to sea were expected to return to the shore again later.

Wisconsin fire kills 5 persons

RACINE, Wis. (UPI) — Five persons including three children died in a smoky home fire that began in some furniture early Saturday.

Fire Chief Russell Anderson the fire was reported about 4 a.m. and that firefighters evacuated six people. He said the fire probably started in a duvetenport due to someone smoking.

Four of the five victims were identified. They were Donald Gerardo, 20, and his brother, Robert, 23, both of Racine; Leg Rausch, 5, and his sister Rosie, 3; and a third child not identified.

The children's mother, sister of the Gerardos, was hospitalized in shock. The deaths occurred from smoke inhalation.

A thought for the day: British writer Samuel Butler said, "If people would dare to speak to one another unreservedly, there would be a good deal less sorrow in the world a hundred years hence."

Bill controls ships dumping oil at sea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has signed legislation bringing the United States in line with new international controls over ships that dump oil at sea.

The new rules bar any intentional discharge of oil into the sea, except when a vessel's speed or the rate of discharge insures dispersal of the oil.

No discharge from a moving vessel can be more than 15.9 gallons per nautical mile. Discharges can only be made "as far as practicable from any land area," said a congressional report accompanying the bill.

The bill also sets new construction standards for oil tankers. These limit the potential loss of oil from tankers in collision or going aground. The rules will apply to all vessels entering U. S. ports, once the treaty is fully ratified.

The bill passed by Congress is tougher in one respect than the international convention. It increased the fine for a willful violation to $10,000 and added a civil penalty of $10,000 for negligent discharge.

The bill changes the Oil Pollution Act of 1961 to adopt 1969 and 1971 amendments to the International Convention for the Prevention of the Pollution of the Sea by Oil.

In Washington, Stein and the head of the National Association of Food Chains warned that the sharp falloff in wholesale prices in September, which was announced Thursday, would not be felt in supermarkets for some time to come.

Although prices for corn and soybeans — the most important animal feeds — have dropped drastically, Stein, said, "by the time that gets converted into meat it will be six to nine months from now."

So reports Dr. Harold D. Newson, Michigan State University medical entomologist. Out of the 229 insect sting fatalities, 167 of the victims died within an hour of the stinging, and 24 within two to five hours.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 45-year-old married woman who fortunately survived breast cancer three years ago. My right breast was removed, and altho I wear a padded bra and look normal in clothes, I haven't totally adjusted to my loss, even tho my husband has been very kind and understanding.

I suppose I will sound vain and silly [that's why I haven't spoken to my doctor about this] but I would like to know if it is possible for a plastic surgeon to reconstruct an artificial breast and successfully make it part of me?

MRS. J.

DEAR MRS. J.: I have discussed your problem with my plastic surgery advisor, Dr. Eugene Worton, who advises me that every case must be evaluated individually. Whether it would be possible to do a reconstructive operation on you would depend upon the type of surgery you had [the site and location of the removed tumor]. He suggests you contact a qualified plastic and reconstructive surgeon, and discuss it with him.

Chrysanthemum culture featured at area meet

JEROME — A display of chrysanthemums from Mrs. Victor-Nelson's garden was featured at the fall meeting of the Magic Valley district of the State Federation of Garden Clubs in Jerome Friday.

Mrs. Nelson gave directions for successful growing of the flower and stressed when growing for flower shows it is necessary to pick the buds back leaving only one bud, including side branches.

This should be done after July, she said. She mentioned the many varieties of chrysanthemums, including single, pompon, ball, incurve spoon and others and ended her talk by making a table arrangement using Polynesian mums and lvy.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Stanley Hepler, Kendrick, president of the Idaho Federation of Garden Clubs, and Mrs. S. W. Smith, Twin Falls, Pacific regional director, National Federation of State Garden Clubs.

The Jerome High School Choralliers sang selections during the luncheon served by Catholic women in their parish hall.

Reports were given by the clubs belonging to the district. The Jerome Leaf and Petal Club had a booth displaying edible plants not usually considered edible at the county fair.

The spring meeting will be held in Twin Falls in April, 1974.

See your surgeon

DEAR ABBY: How does a woman let her friends know she is available? I am being divorced, and a woman my age can't afford to waste much time, so I'd like to have it known that I am in the market for a new husband.

What do you think of having some cards printed saying: "I AM AVAILABLE!" and without going into detail I could add: "My divorce was final March 10th" and then something cute, like "The line forms on the left." Then my new phone number.

I suppose this would seem rather forward a few years ago, but Abby, times have changed. What do you think?

AVAILABLE

DEAR AVAILABLE: Times may have changed, but men haven't. When they play for keeps they avoid aggressive women. I recommend a more subtle way to get the word of your availability around.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CAN'T BELIEVE IT IN TEXAS": I couldn't believe it either, so I wrote to the State Bar of Texas and inquired. The reply:

"Dear Abby: You wrote that a woman had written to you saying that an unmarried woman cannot own property in Texas and wanted to know if this is true."

In the words of my patient and long-suffering secretary: "An unmarried woman CAN own property in Texas—and the more, the better!"

Cordially Yours,

shows North's action with a club bid. He bids two spades and passes after his partner bids three clubs.

Jim — The play at three clubs is fairly simple. South wins the heart lead and goes after trumps. Eventually he leads spades from dummy a couple of times, sets up the fourth spade in his hand for a diamond discard and winds up losing a spade, a diamond and one or two clubs depending on how he plays the suit.

Oswald — Getting to three clubs with these North-South cards is not a unique feature of Jacoby transfer. They can get there in most any bidding system. We make no claims of sole perfection, but merely that Jacoby transfer is fairly simple and works well.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner rebids three diamonds. What do you do now?

Answer tomorrow.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald — When first learning Jacoby transfer there's no need to bother with transfers to minor suits. The important transfers are to the majors, but if you want to get into minor suit transfers later on there are several ways to use them.

Jim — The very simplest is to use the two-spade response to a transfer to three clubs and the three-club response as a transfer to three diamonds. If responder has a very bad hand he passes right there. If he bids again he is forcing to game and showing a good hand.

Space factories set in 10 years

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Spaceships, have become as commonplace as cars to today's Americans and the space agency is now switching its efforts from exploration to utilization of space — including establishment of orbiting factories in less than 10 years.

That was the outlook given Friday by Christopher Kraft, director of NASA's Johnson Space Center in Houston.

"It's not that this nation has become blasé in this regard," he said. "It's just that space has become commonplace — like the automobile has become commonplace — and I don't see anything wrong with that."

"Space is as much a part of our way of life today as the automobile."

Speaking to Town Hall West, Kraft said NASA is now concentrating on exploiting the knowledge gained in the first 15 years of space exploration.

"We are committed to this objective," he said.

The establishment of industries in space is one such use, since the perfect vacuum and zero gravity found in space could lead to new forms of manufacturing, perhaps by 1980, he said.

NASA or some other agency could provide transportation into orbit, he said, and manufacturing could be carried on in industrial space stations, orbiting workshops.

"The space agency still has people with 'stars in their eyes' who dream of a new era of space exploration, with manned missions reaching out to the planets and beyond the solar system," he said.

"Speaking philosophically, I feel that eventually such missions may become extremely important to mankind because we may find we are really not the only place where human beings live," he said.

But he doesn't believe in flying saucers, he added.

"I can't conceive of us sending vehicles to another world just to have a look around and never expose ourselves to any beings there. And I think that if any other intelligences should send probes to our system, they would expose themselves and come down and talk to us."

Forgeries on rise in Mini-Cassia

BURLEY — The Mini-Cassia area has been experiencing a considerable increase in bad checks during the last six to eight months.

Police officials in both Burley and Rupert say their departments need one full-time person investigating the checks, which consist mostly of forgeries but also include those written on insufficient funds.

Burley police detective Rex Madden said Friday that the Burley department has sent one man to the penitentiary, has another one waiting sentencing and is currently working on four other cases, one involving over $1,000 worth of bad checks.

Rupert Police Chief Edward Culver told the Rupert City Council Tuesday that the force must spend considerable time and money tracking down checks and locating suspects.

Both Culver and Madden said local businesses will have to cooperate by checking the identification of check writers more closely in order to decrease check abuses in the area.

Madden said the laws against bad checks are not stiff enough and that too many charges brought to court are dropped and the suspect left free "to go on another fling."

SV ski foundation elects new officers

KETCHUM — John Beaupre, Ketchum, has been named as the new president of the Sun Valley Ski Education Foundation.

Beaupre replaces retiring president Jane Kneeland, who had served in the position for three years.

Other new foundation officers, elected during a board of directors meeting are William Janss, vice president; Joan Patterson, secretary, and Wally Huffman, treasurer.

Michael Brunetto will fill the newly created financial manager position.

Beaupre said the foundation program will be expanded to "develop a higher caliber of skier and to reach as many children in the valley as possible."

Beaupre said a formal Nordic program, which was initiated last year, was presently in operation. This year, he said, about $11,000 will be budgeted for the Nordic program, compared to $2,500 last year.

The Alpine program budget will also be increased to about $45,000 compared to about $39,000 last year, Beaupre said.

Blaine deputies certified

Hire the piece corps.

The ultimate quality of every building rests in the hands of the men who build it. And the men who build ours have a big advantage over those who build the ordinary brick-by-brick, board-by-board way.

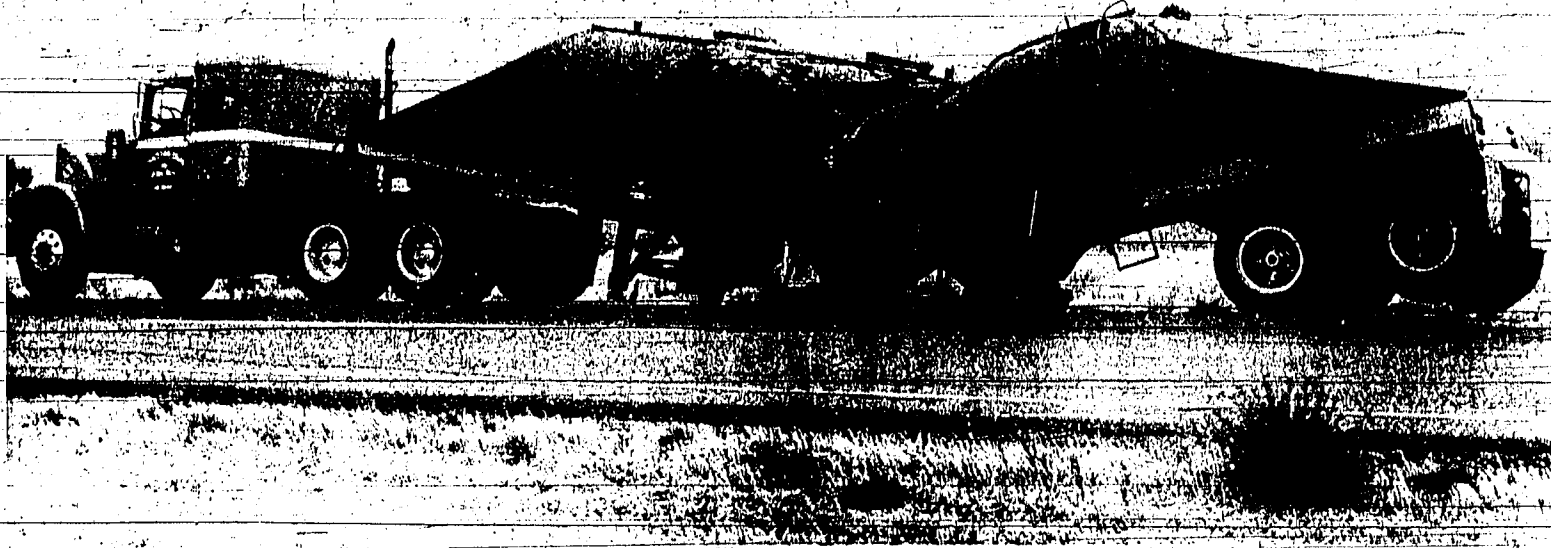

Because we build with Butler building systems. Which means the structural, the walls, the roof, the doors, the windows, even the finish treatments—all the pieces and components of the basic finished building—are designed to fit and work together precisely. And to stay together.

With everything worked out in advance, the quality of your building is assured and time-consuming field modifications are cut to the bone.

So hire the piece corps. We'll build you more than a building, we'll build you peace of mind.

IT WAS just one of those days for the driver of this sagging truck which buckled Sunday as it carried a load of potato waste along Interstate 80 one and one-half miles west of the 93-80 junction.

The truck's driver had apparently tried to pass another vehicle when the mishap occurred.

State Highway Patrolmen said it appeared the truck simply buckled. No estimate of damage was available.

It took road crews most of Sunday to clean up the spilled waste along the highway.

CAA seeks added funds

TWIN FALLS — The Community Action Agency is seeking expanded $167,000 program for the remainder of the fiscal year, according to director Bob Russell.

Russell said the application, which has been made to the U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity in Seattle, would carry the poverty agency through June 30, 1974. Russell said no word has been received on the request, but said federal officials encouraged the application.

The agency is currently operating on a six-month $48,000 grant through Jan. 1, 1974. Last year's budget was $129,000, Russell said.

The basic operating grant is in addition to several other funding sources, according to the director. Included:

- An Idaho Office on Aging nine-month grant for $18,000 for four senior citizen sites. Russell said the grant requests an effort to include minorities in the senior program. The grant expires June 30, 1974, he said.
- A family health program including family planning services and Head Start health service giving the agency $9,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1974.
- The senior citizens grant is currently funded on a quarterly basis, Russell said, because of Congressional failure to approve a new appropriations bill.

Youth involvement urged

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times News Writer

KETCHUM — Young people here have been urged to "get involved now" and to take an active role in community planning boards.

Arthur Rathburn, Twin Falls, area specialist for community development, urged youth involvement during a panel discussion on Blaine County development, conducted in conjunction with the two-day Idaho 4-H Community Pride conference which concluded Saturday in Ketchum.

Panelists included county planning and zoning administrator David L. Vnay; county agricultural extension agent, James Eakin, who spoke in lieu of scheduled speaker, Ketchum attorney James Donart; and Gary Dayton, engineer for Trico Development Company.

The discussion was followed by a tour of the McCulloch, Elkhorn and Sun Valley developments.

"There is absolutely no reason why every community (advisory board) shouldn't have a representative from youth," Rathburn said. Decisions made on such boards "affect you right now," he said.

Earlier, Rathburn told the about 170 youth at the conference that they were all "members of a much larger community" and were "all citizens of the Idaho community." Wood River Valley development "drastically affects Carey and Fairfield, he said, and "spin offs affect all of Idaho."

Vnay said that, as a planner, he liked to view growth and development not as an "inevitable changing thing."

The problem in planning, he said, was to examine resources which he said in Blaine County included agriculture and recreation and to "integrate people into those resources."

Limitations must be defined, Vnay said, including a limit on how many people can be absorbed before "we destroy the resources we have."

Vnay said, hopefully through planning "a lot of alternatives" can be examined and that the needs of the community can be fitted with the existing resources.

In response to a question about the demand within the county for development, Vnay said the county had a need for low cost and different types of housing. However, he said he felt the county presently had 100 per cent more residential lots than were needed.

"This situation, he said, prompted a question of whether development should be limited until a need existed or whether it should be "allowed to spring up, to chew up a lot of valuable land that could be preserved."

Eakin discussed major area concerns about development, including the future of Silver Creek and other waterways.

Indications exist, he said, that Silver Creek is "rechargeable" and that irrigation of lands south of Hailey contribute to the stream level. He questioned the effect of taking the land out of irrigation and putting it into development.

"Anytime we develop people intensity, we develop secondary problems," he said, including pressure on schools, roads and utilities.

Eakin further stated that residents in development areas must also make a decision of whether they are willing to spend their dollars to upgrade development and stated as an example, the proposed community trunk sewage line.

Eakin said alternatives including "orderly, satisfactory and projected development," are being sought to stem the secondary problems.

Dayton discussed the 650-acre Woodside Development in Hailey.

Dayton said McCulloch starts with a master plan and checks all potential problems including water, sewage, roads, access and schools.

The firm, he said, "totally plans" for the development "clear out into the ultimate future" and looks "immediately at the ultimate" population.

"The population figure, he said, "scares some people." However, he said, "contrary to popular belief population is not something McCulloch does. Population is a real thing. People need places to live," Dayton said.

He termed McCulloch as "unique" in that the firm has thought out future problems ahead of time and has provided for them.

He said, for example, the firm has made provisions to totally finance the required expansion of the Hailey sewage treatment plant and/or to build it itself. He also stated that the development property will go on the tax rolls this year "to generate money ahead" of the need for services.

TF club cited for project

KETCHUM — The Twin Falls County Builders Club has been honored for organizing the best community betterment project in southeastern Idaho.

The award and winners of four other district awards were announced during the two-day, Idaho 4-H Community Pride conference, which ended Saturday in Ketchum.

In its project, the 37-member builders club utilized funds from the sale of a lamb which they had raised to fund a camping session for underprivileged children. Club members also served as counselors for the session.

Saturday, Dorothy Hole, asst. state 4-H leader, announced grants for community projects which had been awarded and have been in operation since May.

Grant recipients and projects included the following: The Gooding Junior Leaders, to establish a community recycling project; the Mindoka Builders Club, to establish ownership of an old cemetery and to beautify the cemetery grounds; the Banner County Builders, to continue a three-year county fairgrounds landscaping project; Washington County clubs, to construct a public information board at the county fairgrounds; and Bingham Boosters, to continue a landscaping project at the new 4-H building, Eastern Idaho State Fair grounds.

Newsman's ouster eyed by TF aides

Mayor John Christoffersen would not take sides on the firing. "I'm not going to say it's wrong or right. There could have been more to it than that."

Christoffersen did say that he had talked to Hirte prior to Tuninga's appointment and "it was my impression that he understood that he (Tuninga) would run for the remaining term."

Councilman Winston Jones said he was "very disturbed" by the firing. "I do have a feeling of regret that it has happened."

But Jones would not give an opinion "because I don't have all the facts."

Councilwoman Ann Cover referred to the recently announced candidacy of television newsman Dick Cardley for Boise mayor.

Cardley took a leave of absence to run for the post.

"It doesn't seem to bother them up there," Cover said. "I really don't understand why there would be a conflict of interest."

"Dick might miss a few broadcasts due to council meetings, luncheon meetings, etc., but that didn't seem to bother them in Boise," she said.

Recently appointed councilman Henry Woodall said, "I thought they (KMVT) were a bit hasty in their action. It seems like they could have worked out a leave of absence."

"Apparently there was a lack of communication between Tuninga and his employer," Woodall said.

Councilman Paul Ostyn was not available today for comment on the firing.

Humor added

BURLEY — It wasn't all serious business at the subcommittee hearing on American Falls Dam legislation here Saturday.

There was a leavening of humor throughout the four-hour hearing at the Ramada Inn.

The first chuckles came when Rep. Don H. Clauson, R-Calif., observed that he and fellow committee member Rep. William Ketchum, R-Calif., had dealt with so many Idaho matters they were almost qualified to be the "fifth and sixth members of the Idaho Congressional delegation."

At the end of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' testimony, Ketchum said, "You really do have your ducks in order" after noting a portion of the governor's testimony covered improved fish and waterfowl habitat in connection with the rebuilding of the American Falls Dam.

Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, provided three cases of apples to sustain witnesses, press, and subcommittee members during the hearing. The munching was audible throughout the proceedings.

After Rep. Steve Anlone, R-Rupert, testified about the effects of lack of water on the area served by the American Falls Reservoir, Ketchum volunteered to send him a sack of potatoes from California.

Anlone replied he should have matched Symms and provided some Idaho potatoes for the subcommittee and others.

Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, drew laughter when he observed during his testimony: "If you know anything about Idaho politics, if Bob Macfarlane (Idaho AFL-CIO president, who also testified) and I agree on any project, then it can't be all bad."

Oliver ranks 12th

BOISE (UPI) — Dean Oliver, Boise's champion calf rider and golf enthusiast, has dropped to 12th place in the winnings bracket in 1973 calf roping standings.

While spending more time recently on the golf courses, Oliver has won $12,355 this year on the National Rodeo Circuit.

Royce Smith, Challis, is in eighth place in bareback bronc riding with $14,049 in winnings.

MH senior cited

MOUNTAIN HOME — A 17-year-old senior at Mountain Home High School will be honored Tuesday in Boise at the state's first outstanding handicapped high school student.

Richard Mattoon, 17, will receive the award during the annual fall luncheon of the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

He also will receive a $100 cash award from the Mountain Home Air Force Base Officers' Wives Club.

Mattoon was chosen on the basis of the severity of his disability and the accomplishments he has made despite his handicap. Mattoon is a polo victim.

BLM plan praised

BOISE (UPI) — A Salt Lake City official with the Humane Society says he is impressed with the Bureau of Land Management's attitude on the issue of rounding up wild horses.

Harold Perry arrived too late last week to watch a wild horse roundup in Marsing, but he said the BLM appears to be attempting to do the right thing with wild horses.

Sentencing slated

VALE, Ore. (UPI) — A Caldwell man was scheduled to be sentenced today by Malheur County Circuit Court Judge Jeff Dorroh Jr. after he pleaded guilty to a burglary charge in connection with stealing a steer.

James R. Honeycutt, 26, pleaded guilty to stealing, killing and butchering a steer taken from the Mooney Cattle Co., ranch near Harper, Ore., Sept. 20.

Schedule tight

BURLEY — Possible mid-November adjournment of Congress puts any House of Representatives action on legislation authorizing rebuilding of American Falls Dam on a tight schedule.

Rep. Harold T. Johnson, D-Calif., chairman of a subcommittee which conducted field hearings on the legislation here Saturday, declined to guess whether or not the matter might come before the House for a vote before adjournment.

Johnson said the legislation must be presented to the full Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, possibly requiring another hearing — and then the rules committee before it goes to the entire House for a vote.

The Senate approved similar legislation in June, six weeks after a hearing in May in Washington, D. C.

Old Lincoln 'firetrap'

Throughout the winter the temperature in some rooms would be around 53 degrees when school started and would take from one to two hours to reach 70 degrees. Last winter some teachers had to bring their students to the auditorium because the classroom was too cold, Turner said.

Whether the new classrooms proposed by the bond would have air conditioning has not been decided yet, according to Peterson. However, the classrooms would probably have their own heating system instead of being hooked up to the boiler in the other section of Lincoln School.

"All in all it would take such a tremendous amount of money to fix this building that it would be unthinkable," said one Lincoln School teacher regarding the old portion of the school. The teacher, who has taught at Lincoln for the past 22 years, said that in the classrooms there is "no room to do other activity than just the plain old class activities which are about as outdated as the carriage." Other activities would include setting up science and social studies tables and staging dances and plays, she said.

Loud, creaky stairs, the lack of cupboard space and toilet facilities, and poor ventilation are other problems which teachers at Lincoln school mentioned.

Classroom size in the old section of Lincoln roughly averages 600 square feet. The number of students per class averages 26 in the first grade and 31 in the second and third grades.

Peterson said that classrooms in the new building proposed by the bond would meet state standards and have at least 250 square feet of usable floor space and at least 30 square feet floor space per child, following enrollment expectations.

Besides creating 12 new classrooms, the bond proposes a better lighting system be installed and an indoor play area be created by removing a wall between two classrooms in the newer section of Lincoln School, according to District Superintendent George Staudacher.

Field goal lifts Packers to victory over New York

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)— Chester Marcol, Green Bay's biggest offensive weapon, kicked a 32-yard field goal, his third of the game, with just one second left to play Sunday to give the Packers a 16-14 victory over the New York Giants in the first regular season professional football game ever played in the Yale Bowl.

San Francisco beats Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI)—The San Francisco 49ers' valiant last minute pass defense saved a 13-9 victory over the Atlanta Falcons Sunday after Ralph McGill's 64-yard punt returned early in the second period set up the game's only touchdown. Atlanta managed to get to the San Francisco 29 with 1:46 left in the game but the 49ers' tough pass defense stymied the drive and preserved the victory.

McGill's return, mainly on his own effort in a broken field run, carried the ball to the Atlanta eight yard line and two plays later, Vic Washington went over from the seven yard line on a right end sweep to give the 49ers a 10-0 lead with 2:48 gone in the second period. All the other scoring in the closely fought contest came via

New Orleans scores upset over Chicago

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)— Archie Manning scored two touchdowns and set up by Henry Matthews' freak fumble recovery and Howard Stevens added one Sunday as the New Orleans Saints upset the Chicago Bears, 21-16. Ed hand coach John North his first regular season victory.

The Saints were protecting a 14-7 going into the final period but two field goals by Miro Hoder cut the gap to 14-9 before the Saints led the game on a freak play.

Undefeated Rams edge Oilers 31-26

HOUSTON (UPI)—John Hadl threw three touchdown passes and Tony Baker rushed for another score Sunday to lead the undefeated Los Angeles Rams to a 31-26 triumph over the winless Houston Oilers.

Hadl hit on 10-of-16 for 179 yards and hasn't suffered an interception in four games. Snow's touchdown pass came after Hadl hit Jim Bertelsen with an eight yard third down conversion pass and Snow easily beat Benny Johnson to score with 5:30 left in the first period.

Raiders slip past St. Louis 17-10

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Backup quarterback Ken Stabler put together lengthy second half drives with Charlie Smith and Marv Hubbard diving for the touchdowns as the Oakland Raiders found their offense Sunday and downed the St. Louis Cardinals 17-10.

play. Quarterback Scott Hunter, who sat on the bench through out the first half, hit John Stagers over the middle and McCarver Lane ran 20 yards with another Hunter pass to the Giants 20.

After a short gain on the ground, the Packers let the clock run down and finally called time with five seconds remaining. Marcol trotted onto the field, marked his spot and calmly booted the winning kick straight through the uprights.

The Giants had taken the lead at 3:47 of the fourth quarter when Quarterback Norm Snead hit Bob Grim with a 10-yard touchdown pass. But Snead, who was bogged throughout the game by an announced capacity crowd of 70,000, could not sustain a drive after that.

With 4:24 left in the game, Marcol missed a 36-yard attempt and it appeared then that the Giants had the victory wrapped up, but the Green Bay defense got tough to give their little place kicker one last chance.

Linbacker Tom MacLoud's interception on the Giants first play from scrimmage in the second half set up Marcol's

Steelers topple San Diego

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Safety Mike Wagner set up a score by intercepting a Johnny Unitas pass and tallied himself by recovering a blocked punt to spearhead a devastating first half defense Sunday that carried the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 39-21 victory over the San Diego Chargers.

The Steelers scored on six of the first seven possessions including the first four to surge to a 38-0 halftime lead.

Fairbanks gets first pro win

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI)—A short punt and a fumbled punt return set up touchdown runs of one and three yards by John Tarver Sunday as the New England Patriots beat the Baltimore Colts 24-16 to give rookie Coach Chuck Fairbanks his first pro win.

Tarver's one-yard drive over the middle with 24 seconds left in the first half cracked a 3-3 tie. He took a pitchout from Jim Plunkett to get three yards around the left side for a 17-6 lead with 10:21 gone in the third quarter.

Buffalo slips by Eagles

BUFFALO (UPI)—O. J. Simpson ran for 171 yards, scoring one touchdown and setting up another and John Loyoldt kicked a 47-yard field goal with 3:51 left to play to give the Buffalo Bills a 27-26 victory Sunday in a see-saw battle with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Philadelphia drove to the Buffalo 10 and let the clock run down to three seconds but Tom Dempsey's 26-yard field goal attempt, which would have given the Eagles the victory, went wide.

The Eagles, down 24-10 at the half, took the lead on a third quarter touchdown pass by Roman Gabriel and a 19-yard field goal by Dempsey in the fourth quarter.

But Loyoldt then hit his 47-yarder for the victory.

Stenerud kicks Chiefs past stubborn Denver

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—Jon Stenerud's third field goal of the game, a 39-yarder with 8:38 left Sunday, lifted the Kansas City Chiefs to a 16-14 victory over the Denver Broncos, who have won only twice in their 27-game series.

The field goal negated a brilliant 72-yard burst of tackle by Joe Dawkins with 10 minutes left that gave the Broncos a 14-13 lead.

Denver gained possession twice more after Stenerud's last field goal. The Broncos punted the ball away with 3:22 to play and regained it on a return punt with 1:37 left. But Kansas City held on a fourth down try at the Denver 34 with 56 seconds and the Chiefs ran out the clock.

The winning field goal drive covered 58 yards from the Chiefs' 10 to the Broncos' 32.

Len Dawson hit two key passes in the drive, a 28-yarder to Otis Taylor and a 21-yarder to Ed Podoluk.

Dolphins overwhelm New York

MIAMI (UPI)—Miami quarterback Bob Griese polished his passing arm Sunday by hurling three touchdown throws which padded a 31-3 Dolphins' rout of the New York Jets, also lost quarterback Al Woodall for at least three weeks with an injured knee.

Playing only the first three periods, Griese connected on scoring throws of 12 to Marlin Briscoe in the first period, three yards to Paul Warfield in the second and 40 yards to Warfield in the third. Griese finished his day with 10-of-17 for 173 yards.

Earlie Thomas intercepted one of his passes in the end zone to stop a second period drive.

Other Dolphin scores came on a three-yard run by Mercury Morris early in the first period and a 19-yard second period field goal by Gary Yepremian.

Stenerud's field goal elevated the Chiefs' record to 3-1 as they retained their lead in the Western Division of the American Football Conference. Denver fell to 1-3.

The Chiefs took a 13-7 lead in the third quarter with a 76-yard, 12-play drive. Dawson's 20-yard pass to Taylor, who snatched the ball away from cornerback Randy Montgomery at the goal, capped the march.

The Chiefs broke through in the second quarter after Denver went for a first down on fourth down at the Chiefs' 45 and failed. Dawson flipped a 23-yard pass to Morris Stroud to the Broncos' 31, which set up Stenerud's 38-yard field goal 10:58 before intermission.

Floyd Little put the Broncos ahead with a dazzling run off a screen play. From the 60, Charley Johnson called a double-screen, faking first to Dawkins, then turning back to Little. The 196-pound back fled to the sidelines, popped out of a covey of tacklers, hurdled another and streaked the distance. Little hit the flag just ahead of Emmitt Thomas, giving Denver a 7-3 lead, 2:42 before halftime.

Jon Matlack hurls 2-hit shutout for New York Mets

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Southpaw Jon Matlack, who lay in a hospital bed only five months ago with his baseball future in doubt, kept the New York Mets' hopes for another "miracle" alive Sunday with a two-hit, six-out shutout for the Cincinnati Reds that evened the National League playoffs at one game apiece.

It was a "must" victory for the underdog Mets, who were beaten 2-1 on Saturday, and it sends the best-of-five series back to New York for the final three games, beginning Monday.

The starting pitchers for the third game will be Jerry Kosman for the Mets and Ross Grimsley for the Reds.

The Mets, who were helpless against Jack Billingham and reliever Pedro Borbon Saturday, supported Matlack with seven hits, including a solo homer by Rusty Staub in the fourth. But Matlack nursed a 1-0 lead until the ninth when the Mets broke loose for four runs off relievers Turk Hill and Borbon.

Unlike Saturday when the Reds rallied in the final two innings on homers by Pete Rose and Johnny Bench to beat Tom Seaver, the 23-year-old Matlack gave the NL championship series record-setting crowd of 54,041 at Riverfront Stadium little to cheer about as he allowed only two runners as far as second base.

The stylish lefthander, who oddly had not enjoyed much success against the Reds during the regular season, was troubled by only one batter — Andy Kosco — who collected both Reds' hits with singles in the second and seventh innings.

It also was Kosco who provided Matlack with his only anxious moment when he drilled a long fly ball down the leftfield line in the fifth inning which missed being a home run by only a few feet when it hooked foul at the last second.

Other than that near-miss by Kosco the Reds had only two other scoring opportunities against Matlack. The first

Nicklaus keeps lead by 9 shots

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus, playing as if he owned the course — which he does — shot a nine-under-par 62 Sunday to take a nine-stroke lead at the end of three rounds of the $125,000 Ohio-Kings Island golf tournament.

Nicklaus, who actually owns half the 6,915-yard, par-71 Jack Nicklaus Golf Center course on which the tournament is being played, birdied six of the first seven holes and missed making it seven in a row when his 25-foot putt on the second hole missed the cup by no more than an inch.

Nicklaus's 54-hole total of 199 gave him a nine-shot edge over runnerup John Laster of New Zealand, who had a fine four-under-par 67 for 208, and a 10-shot margin over Lee Trevino who had a third-round 69 for 209.

end of 54 holes also was a tour record for the year. Busting the previous mark of seven strokes which Nicklaus held in Atlanta and Hale Irwin took into the final round on the Heritage Classic.

Homers lift A's to 6-3 win to even playoffs

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Sal Bando hit two booming homers and was robbed of a third Sunday as the Oakland A's unleashed a salvo of four round-trippers to beat the Baltimore Orioles 6-3 and secure their American League championship series at one victory each.

It was the first loss suffered by the Orioles in 11 playoff games over four seasons, and gave the world champion A's the advantage of going home even to play the final three games of the five-game series in Oakland, beginning Monday.

Bando, who was robbed of a homer in the third inning when Al Burnby made a sensational leaping catch against the leftfield wall, drilled his first homer 400 feet into the left field stands in the sixth inning to give the A's a 3-1 lead. It came immediately after Joe Rudi homered over the right field fence to give winning pitcher Jim Hunter a 2-1 margin.

Bando hit his second homer after a single by Bert Campaneris in the eighth and boosted the A's lead to 5-2.

Campaneris, who led off the game with a homer off Dave McNally, knuckled in the A's sixth run with a single in the ninth.

Hunter, who was touched for a run in the Orioles' first on a walk to Burnby, Rich Coggins' single and Tommy Davis' forceout, received credit for his first playoff victory but needed help from Rollie Fingers when Baltimore rattled in the eighth and left three runners stranded.

Fingers, a World Series hero for the A's last October, came out of the bullpen with two on and two out and the A's clinging to a 5-2 lead. He retired pinch-hitter Terry Crow-

The 12 finishers in the 59-lap, 199-mile race played follow the leader from the start to the end, with Peterson's lead ranging from a half to 2 1/2 seconds in the world's richest road race as he managed to barely keep his Lotus John Player Special in front of Hunt's March 731 G.

Animal World: Lacking nostrils, the pelican has to breathe through its mouth, poor bird. Asian elephants lie down frequently. African elephants hardly ever do. I don't know why. Were you aware that snakes, too, are bothered by chiggers? Heat up a baby male mosquito overmuch in an incubator and it's apt to turn into a baby female mosquito. Most birds perch crosswise on limbs. Not whippoorwills. They perch lengthwise.
