Court ducks fund ruling

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court, rejecting the advice of the administration, today refused for now to rule on the constitutionality of President Nixon's impoundment of funds appropriated by Congress.
The justices, in a brief order with comment, declined to hear a case involving $65.3 million in federal funds earmarked for Georgia but impounded by the administration.
The highest court usually is wary of hearing cases which have not been ruled on by lower courts. But the justices were urged by the administration to hear the Georgia case.
"We submit that the importance and urgency of the issue justify the court in taking the issue now," said Solicitor Gen. Robert H. Bork.

Ten states, however, called on the court to reject this plea, saying assignment of the matter by the Supreme Court to a hearing officer probably would put off a final ruling until the 1974-75 term.
The administration, which has lost almost every impoundment case ruled on by lower federal courts, declined last August to bring its own appeal to the highest court after the 8th United States Court of Appeals ruled against the impoundment of highway funds for Missouri.
There are a dozen or so other impoundment disputes pending in federal appeals courts.
A ruling on impoundment could affect the entire amount impounded by the administration — an estimated $9 billion to $18 billion.

Fighting rages on

By United Press International
The Israeli Air Force struck deep into Syria and Egypt today in what the Arab nations described as the heaviest air raids of the four-day-old Middle East War. Israel also reported another change in the tide of battle with successes along the Suez Canal and in the Golan Heights.
An Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv said "a substantial part of the Egyptian army has already been destroyed" on the Suez front. The northern commander announced, "We have broken the spine of the Syrian army. We will carry the battle into the territory of the enemy in a storm."
The optimistic statements were in sharp contrast with more pessimistic appraisals earlier in the day. Spokesmen began backtracking this morning on their Monday predictions of an early victory while Syria and Egypt were claiming sweeping successes.

The Israeli planes struck at the Syrian army military headquarters in Damascus in the first raid on an Arab capital in this war. Strains sounded twice in Cairo but there were no air raids and Cairo residents said the Israeli planes bombed airfields near the Suez Canal. The brief alerts sounded at 7:20 a.m. and again at 7:35 p.m.
Israel also hit Syrian oil refineries and power plants, two Egyptian air fields and a Lebanese radar station, military communiques reported. The strike was the first against Lebanon, which has not entered the war. Beirut reported heavy damages and Damascus reported civilian casualties there and in Homs, 100 miles north of Damascus.
Israeli military officials who began issuing optimistic statements on Monday began backtracking today and said "the struggle facing us will not be an easy one." Observers in Beirut said the war was likely to be a protracted one, not a swift walkover as in the 1967 six-day war.
Egyptian military communiques said Egyptian forces driving from the Gulf of Suez advanced nine miles into the Israeli-occupied Sinai Peninsula today and fought a sea battle with Israeli warships off the northern coast. Both sides claimed victories in the naval battle.
A communique broadcast by Cairo radio said the Egyptian thrust in the Sinai, advancing all along the 102-mile front, destroyed "all" Israeli positions, sent Israeli forces in retreat and captured hundreds of prisoners, including an Israeli armored brigade commander.

War of words

Gooding County Deputy Sheriff Bill Bunn said Mrs. Kemp was riding in a vehicle driven by Kenneth S. Kemp, 40, Pocatello, it collided with an auto driven by Bill McDaniels, Nampa.

Gem tenure policy bogs board meet

By DAVID ESPINO
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Idaho Board of Education members opened four days of meetings today by trying to get down to specifics on a new tenure policy for the state's institutions of higher education.
But they immediately ran into problems when one president expressed his faculty's concern over the possibility of "malicious anonymous" attacks in the evaluation process and another president expressed philosophical differences with tenure as a policy.
The board has already adopted the broad outlines of a tenure policy following a pledge made early this year to a legislative committee. Today's meetings were to permit the state's four colleges and universities to propose specific guidelines to flesh out the outline.
Lewis-Clark State College President Dr. Jerold O. Dugger presented board members, meeting as a committee of the whole, with a statement drafted by a college committee containing periodic review of tenured faculty by a faculty and student committee.
Nothing, the document had been approved by the students, Dugger told board members the faculty had rejected the proposal and had requested more time to study some of the issues.
In particular, Dugger said, the vocational technical faculty prepared a minority report calling for "sufficient safeguards to insure that the faculty member is not endangered by irresponsible and/or malicious anonymous student and/or faculty attack through the evaluation procedure."
Dr. William E. Davis, Idaho State University president, told board members he thought tenure was a "condition of employment" rather than a "necessary condition of academic freedom."

McCarter backs Demos' rules
CORRAL (UPI) — Proposed rules which would abandon the controversial quotas used in selection of delegates to the 1972 Democratic National Convention have the full approval of Idaho Democratic Chairman Joe McCarter.
"I would like to see equal representation for women in the selection of delegates," McCarter said, "but we just can't go out and draft ethnic or racial groups for delegates."

MANILA (UPI) — More than 300,000 Filipinos on the main island of Luzon were left homeless today by Typhoon Nora, relief officials said. A new typhoon, Patsy, was reported in the Pacific heading towards Taiwan.

Two ships in the South China Sea, where Nora was reported at a point 156 miles northwest of Luzon with winds of 115 miles an hour, sent distress signals, maritime officials in Hong Kong reported.

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — President Lon Nol today issued an ethnic appeal to all Cambodians to join his forces in expelling Vietnamese Communists from Cambodia.

Battlefronts across the country were generally quiet and the High Command said Khmer Rouge (Cambodian Communists) had launched no offensive operations in the past 24 hours.
In a radio speech, Lon Nol said: "It is time for us to stop killing each other, to stop launching useless battles which will lead only to the weakening of our forces and to benefit our enemy, or even to erase our country from the map of the world..."

Utah's hijack term upheld
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court turned down Tuesday an appeal by Richard P. McCoy Jr., a Vietnam veteran sentenced to 43 years in prison for hijacking a United Airlines plane in April, 1972, and collecting $500,000 in ransom.
In a brief order without comment, the Court let stand lower court rulings against the Provo, Utah, Sunday school teacher. McCoy was convicted by a federal jury of commanding the United Airlines flight from Denver to Los Angeles on April 7, 1972.

Prof raps TF zone plan

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — The Idaho State University professor who was paid $6,500 to help draft a Twin Falls County zoning ordinance says he now opposes the final ordinance presented.
Professor Ross Fasolino, whose "Fasolino Plan" was the basic document from which the final zoning ordinance was prepared, says he wants his name "stripped" from all association with the final draft now being considered by the Twin Falls County Commissioners.
Fasolino charged the final ordinance does not include the "basic concepts that I intended."
Fasolino said he has recommended that Twin Falls County commissioners "not accept" the proposed zoning ordinance as published.
"I personally felt it was not what I had provided them," he said.
"It has been so thoroughly worked over that I don't think it is a good ordinance."
"It is no longer my ordinance," he added.
He said the proposed ordinance is "as bad if not worse" than the current zone law.
"I told them emphatically that I would start over," Fasolino said.
He indicated that the county zoning commission had gone too far in incorporating public sentiment in the proposed ordinance.
"They should not take every little point (of public comment) and adjust the ordinance," he said.
"They milked it to the ultimate and put it all" in the ordinance, according to Fasolino.
Fasolino is "quite against" an agricultural zone along the entire length of the Snake River Canyon Rim. The zone was recommended by county zoners but has been ruled out of consideration for the proposed ordinance. The County Commissioners said the zoners' recommendation did not meet procedural requirements.
"You cannot keep the entire rim natural," Fasolino said. "It would never get through the courts."
He said there are areas that should be kept natural, but retaining the entire rim is "ridiculous."
Fasolino said the "terminology of zones is remiss" in the proposed ordinance.
"It is ridiculous to create zones (for subdivisions), if you don't allow them to happen," he added.
He referred, in part, to a revision in the ordinance which requires public hearings for subdivisions in residential agricultural (RA) and residential medium (RM) zones that lie more than one mile beyond city limits.
Subdivisions are listed in the proposed ordinance as "principal uses" in RA and RM zones. But the one mile ruling would effectively make subdivisions a conditional use in the zones.

Porno review denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court rejected today a number of requests to reconsider last June's rulings establishing a new definition of obscenity.
The revised guidelines were designed to give states more leeway for cracking down on pornographic books and "adult" theaters.

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentine president-elect Juan D. Peron celebrated his 78th birthday anniversary Monday with 5,000 guests, most of them retired army officers.
Tables for the guests were set up in secluded grounds at the presidential residence, which will become Peron's official home following his inauguration Friday.

Muskie office target of GOP '72 spy unit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former FBI agent told the Senate Watergate committee today how he arranged last year while on the federal government payroll, to spy on Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's presidential campaign headquarters.
John B. Buckley, 53, testified that he was director of the inspection division of the Office of Economic Opportunity when he hired a cab driver to volunteer as a courier for Muskie and then arranged to photograph documents the cab driver carried from Muskie's downtown Washington headquarters to his Senate office.
Buckley said his superiors at the OEO knew nothing of his clandestine activities. He said he was recruited for the job by Kon Rietz, who headed the Young Voters For Nixon division of the Committee to Re-elect the President (CRP). Buckley said he personally developed the film and turned it over every nine or 10 days at street corner meetings first with Rietz and later with a man known to him as "Ed Warren." Buckley said he subsequently learned "Ed Warren" was E. Howard Hunt, an organizer of the CRP campaign of political espionage.
Buckley said he spent $3,000 on the Muskie spy operation, most of it paid to the cabbie, Elmer Wyatt. Buckley asked that he not be required to mention Wyatt's name because "he is of advanced age and has been ill," but the request was refused.
At a closed meeting prior to this morning's public session, the committee voted to hear testimony from Frank Mankiewicz, a top official of George S. McGovern's campaign, and the manager of Muskie's campaign, Berl I. Bernhard, on Thursday.

Camp sanitation hit

TWIN FALLS — Idaho Migrant Council officials today met with administrators of the Twin Falls Labor Center to discuss "unsanitary conditions" at the camp.
Idaho Migrant Council day care center nurse, Elizabeth Rodriguez, had said earlier that she believed unsanitary conditions at the camp contributed to dysentery and other illnesses among migrant families living in the camp.
This morning, in a tour of the camp, Mrs. Rodriguez pointed to clogged and littered toilet facilities, crowded living conditions and water supply sources as examples of the kinds of conditions in which diseases flourish.
The camp houses about 300 persons during the peak season.
Barracks which house up to 12 families in peak season are each served by a single outdoor cold water faucet located next to trash barrels.
The hot water in the camp is located in the shower and laundry building where there is no hot water.
Camp manager James Rathbun reported that the toilets and shower room are cleaned and disinfected every morning. He said many of the unsanitary conditions were due to lack of concern on the part of camp residents.
"They use this toilet paper and they just throw it down," he said. "What am I supposed to do, when those grown men go in there and don't flush the toilets and they throw the paper off the floor?"

UF reaches 15% of goal

TWIN FALLS — After one week the Twin Falls United Fund drive has reached about 15 per cent of its goal for 1974.

Mrs. Ervin Wilkins, United Fund secretary, said Monday that so far $19,167 has been collected, about $1,100 more than at a similar point in last year's campaign.

The UF hopes to collect $125,000 for 1974. Last year the Fund's goal was $114,000 and about $93,000 was raised, Mrs. Wilkins said.

Most of the money raised last week, Mrs. Wilkins said, came from the Fund's Blue Chip division which is composed of the United Fund's 40 directors, the directors' businesses and the businesses' employees.

The second largest contributor was the College of Southern Idaho staff.

The Blue Chip division, headed by Earl Faulkner, owner of The Paris dress shop, has so far brought in $16,231.

CSI employees have contributed or pledged $2,581, Mrs. Wilkins said. Dr. Paul T. Smith, academic dean at CSI, is head of the 1974 United Fund drive.

Other contributions have come from:

- Professional division (doctors, lawyers and other professionals): $486.
- Commercial division (various city businesses): $570.
- Rural division (mail-ins from rural residents): $40.

The Chapter Plan, under which businesses contribute key executives to work for the UF for one-half day, is just getting under way, Mrs. Wilkins said.

Mrs. Wilkins said the fund drive, which helps support local service organizations including the Y, Boy Scouts and Red Cross, is "coming along very well." She has collected more than she had to date last year.

TF office burgled

TWIN FALLS — Dr. W. H. Kramer's office, 151 Addison Ave., was broken into sometime Sunday night, city officers reported.

Police said a door was forced open to gain entry to the building and persons then ransacked the offices, patient rooms and other portions of the building, going through medicine cabinets and refrigerators.

Dr. Kramer said he would be unable to determine the amount of missing items, mostly medication, until an inventory is taken.

An estimated $100 in tools and mechanical equipment was taken from John Christ Motors over the holiday weekend. City police said entry might have been gained through an alley window which was open when investigation was made.

Investigation is continuing.

Bruce Barton told officers someone entered his parked automobile about 9:30 p.m. Monday and removed a stereo and several tapes. He estimated loss at $76. The vehicle was parked behind the Magic Bowl in an alley at the time, officers said.

Kim Mortenson reported the theft of tools from his damaged vehicle in the 1100 block of Blue Lakes Boulevard N. He said the vehicle was struck in the rear while parked in the D. J.'s parking lot and someone then took the tools from the trunk. He set a value of $450 on the tools.

Watergate: Turn Six Of Them Loose

WASHINGTON — In a statement issued on October 1, Judge John J. Sirica emphasized that the crushing sentences he imposed on the Watergate defendants last spring were not intended to be final sentences. When he does fix final sentences, these will be "in accord with a sense of justice and in accord with the relevant principles of law."

"And it will be perfectly apparent at that time," Judge Sirica added, "if that time comes, that such disposition was predicated as it should be, upon fairness, compassion, understanding and justice."

What in the world, one is minded to ask, did Sirica mean by "if that time comes"? The Watergate defendants now are languishing in prison under the maximum permissible sentences of 35 to 40 years. The sentences were imposed in March, though several of the defendants had been in jail since early January. It is customary in the federal trial courts of the District to impose the "max" at the conclusion of a trial in which defendants have pleaded guilty or have been found guilty, but after an investigation by probation officers, such sentences routinely are reduced within 90 to 120 days. When, one must inquire, will the time come for such reductions here?

If Sirica means what he says about "fairness, compassion, understanding and justice," he will discharge six of the seven Watergate defendants from further custody—all but G. Gordon Liddy—at the earliest possible moment. Such a humane decision would be fully supported by the law, the evidence, the character of the defendants, by their conduct in recent months, and by the record of sentences in other burglary cases.

Viewed simply as a matter of law, with every political consideration set aside, the Watergate burglary was a humdrum crime. No one was hurt. No person was put in terror of his life. No money or other intrinsically valuable property was stolen. Not even a lock or a door was damaged. The defendants at first gave aliases, but they made no attempt to flee or to resist arrest. In terms of the seriousness of the crime, this burglary would rank toward the bottom of the 2.3 million burglaries reported by police every year.

The evidence demonstrated convincingly, especially as to the four men recruited from Miami, that criminal motivation was altogether lacking. Virgilio Gonzalez testified that he had been told that "we are solving the Cuban situation." Frank Sturgis had the same understanding. "When it comes to Cuba and the Communist conspiracy involving the United States, I will do anything to protect this country."

Sturgis had the reputation of a "soldier of fortune," whatever that means, but the others had no visible taint. E. Howard Hunt and James McCord had served long and honorably with the CIA; Bernard Barker was in real estate; Eugenio Martinez and Sturgis were his associates; Gonzalez was a locksmith. For purposes of probation or parole, all of them, so far as is publicly known, would be classed as "first offenders."

Judge Sirica's requirement was that these defendants cooperate."

With the exception of Liddy, they have. The six men have done everything that conceivably could be asked of them toward clearing up the Watergate mystery. It would take a heart of stone not to be touched by the plight of Hunt. He had been abandoned by the White House that commissioned him. His wife is dead in a plane crash; his children are orphans. How is justice served by keeping him and the others—in prison?

Finally, the sentences ought to be kept in perspective.

If Judge Sirica were now to fix final sentences of a year and a day, which is what 14 of the "other burglars" received, he would be acting precisely in accord with the courts' traditional "sense of justice and the relevant principles of law." And these six non-criminals would be free to patch up their broken lives.

MR. SPECTATOR

From The Back To The Front

Well, it had to happen at some time so this time was as good as ever. We're talking about Mr. Spectator's picture which for issue after issue disclosed the back view of my head—but which now shows the front view for better or worse.

Why the change? A threat no less. Officials of the local Kiwanis Club threatened a resolution calling for all the 180-plus members to immediately cancel subscriptions to and advertising in the Times-News unless Mr. Spectator went from a rear to a front view. The rear view, they contended, disclosed a slightly bald area in the hair which distracted from the effectiveness of the disclosure.

So under threat of official club resolution, we made the change last Sunday. But we want to point out that we are really much better looking than the picture because it is a passport picture—and you know what passport pictures look like. But we thought we should be honest and present our front view honestly and without retouching so we would not distract from the other characters who get their pictures on this page from time to time.

Although we have fallen in line with a front view photograph, we are still the only Times-News columnist not using our real name. We will still go with the "Mr. Spectator" bit. If you know us you will know who we really are. If you don't know us you had better find out because you do not really know what you are missing.

We have written close to 2,000 "Mr. Spectator" columns at this point in time—not counting the 300 or so we did for the old Twin Falls Telegram back about the time World War II ended.

That's a lot of something—or nothing—depending on the way you look at it.

But we just wanted to fill you in as to why our full-face view suddenly came into use. We just do what our readers demand—up to a point, of course.

So now that resolution to be can be withdrawn and the subscription and advertising total of the Times-News will not be in jeopardy—which should make our boss feel mighty good!

THAT RIM SETBACK

For what it is worth, Mr. Spectator would make a statement about making an agricultural belt, or green belt or whatever you want to call it along the Snake River Canyon.

Personally, and as a private citizen with a right to speak up just like everyone else, we question closing off the "belt" entirely for one reason or another.

Rather, we believe it would be much more sensible to permit zoned home construction and agricultural use along the rim with public access roads and viewing areas at such points of interest as the Blue Lakes area, Niagara Falls, Box Canyon, Thousand Springs and like places. Such a plan would hold expenditures to a minimum and would still benefit the most people. Sealing off the entire length of the rim would cost a fortune and knowing Twin Falls and Twin Falls county as we do, we could well use that money for other projects—or to pay for bonds we will be asked to approve for such things as new schools, new highways and more irrigation water not to mention sewage treatment, garbage disposal and the like. Most people have only so much cash available or upcoming. This should be recognized by everyone. That's why we feel that the "viewpoint" course is the only sensible way to go.

So be it! We have spoken as a private citizen!

TODAY'S CHUCKLE:

You can always tell when a marriage is shaky. The partners don't talk to each other during television commercials.

Mr. Agnew

If there is anything Americans take to their bosoms more readily than an underdog, it's an underdog with spunk.

Make no mistake about it, even a vice president of the United States can be an underdog. But as Spiro T. Agnew made plain in Los Angeles the other day in his ringing address to the National Federation of Republican Women, he is not about to roll over and play dead.

No doubt the cheers of his partisan audience were echoed in many homes throughout the land, and no doubt Mr. Agnew won many Americans over to his corner by his demeanor that day.

Yet the very pugnaciousness of his stance emphasizes the contradictions of his performance: The Vice President says one thing; at the same time his lawyers acting in his name do almost the opposite.

For example, on the one hand Mr. Agnew decries—and rightly—the "flagrant violations" of the constitutionally guaranteed secrecy of grand jury proceedings and his resulting "kangaroo trial in the media."

On the other hand, his lawyers attempt to persuade the courts that their interpretation of the Constitution precludes a grand jury from investigating—even secretly, the allegations that have been brought against him.

On the one hand, Mr. Agnew calls for "the widest possible hearing" on the charges and on the other attempts to limit the investigation to the House of Representatives, even though a congressional committee, unlike a court of law, is not bound to observe the rules of evidence or permit an accused to confront his accusers.

On the one hand, Mr. Agnew proclaims his innocence, and on the other is willing to suffer the extreme punishment of impeachment and removal from office before risking the determination of that innocence in a court.

Every American should fervently hope that the nation's vice president can vindicate himself completely, unquestionably and soon.

At this uncertain juncture, however, while Spiro Agnew bravely challenges his enemies to fair and open battle, he seems to be doing everything he can to make sure the battle never takes place.

Sen. Church: Should Exercise Wisdom

Dr. E. R. W. Fox, M. D., president of the Idaho Medical Association, has the makings of a politician.

With one stroke of rhetoric he told Senator Frank Church that as a lawmaker he (Church) was slightly off base when it came to some of his ideas of health care involving older Americans and that he (Church) again should exercise some wisdom and prudence. In the next paragraph he said the Senator's wife was a "charming person" and, without doubt, "your number one secret weapon."

We must point out it is difficult to become "all angry" with such reasoning. But we must also point out that the "position paper" which the Idaho Medical Association adopted relative to the Senator's recent hearing on "Barriers to Health Care of Older Americans" at Coeur d'Alene could be taken as the association's jump into the political arena.

Just released to the Senator, the press and interested individuals and groups including the chiefs of staffs and administrators of all hospitals in the state, the position paper was really quite short and to the point.

The paper discusses four problems: (1) Availability of care (2) cost of care (3) quality of care and (4) quantity of care.

The criticism? The Idaho Medical Association rejects the promise that "fifty thousand more doctors are needed" to serve the health care needs of the American people. The physician population, to the contrary, is increasing two or three times faster than the population. In Idaho there are few settled areas of the state that are not within reasonable distance of medical attention.

The rapid rise of expenditures for Medicare and Medicaid has alarmed the public and has focused attention of legislators on ways and means to control cost. Unfortunately, a preoccupation with cost can have an adverse effect on quality. The physicians resent the implication that the cost of "health care" is synonymous with the cost of "doctor care." Statistics reveal that the medical profession has kept its fee increases far below the inflationary level seen in practically every other segment of our economy. Physicians have instituted numerous measures designed to assist in limiting, by voluntary means, the cost of care both in and out of the hospital.

The quality of service rendered has always been the primary concern of practicing physicians. The medical profession has expressed concern lest the thrust toward cost control might result in impairment of the quality of medical care. In Idaho the stay in hospitals is far below the national average and quality of care has not suffered.

In the Coeur d'Alene edition, the position paper as released by Dr. Fox said "no one really complained about the quality of health care but everyone, including Senator Church, kept repeating that we need greater quantity of care: more doctors, more nurses, more medical assistants, a longer stay in the hospital, more free drugs, dentures, eye glasses, more of health writers for "raising the expectations" of the public as to just what should be provided for them. "Unfortunately, there is a limit to what we as providers can provide and to how much we as taxpayers can spend," the paper contended.

Care of the aged is first of all, "our problem here at home" and society must never allow government to usurp the responsibilities that belong to the family. The public must be made to realize, as they apparently have in auto insurance, in health insurance, in fire insurance, that first dollar coverage is never worth the exorbitant premium.

And what can Congress and Senators like Frank Church do about it?

The position paper contends:

(1) Lawmakers should welcome the input of physicians and physician organizations because these people, for the most part, are public spirited citizens.

(2) In deliberations on health care, Congress should guard and preserve the fundamental characteristics of American medicine—the person-to-person and patient-to-doctor relationship. Federalized medicine is poor medicine.

(3) If national health insurance is inevitable (as legislators would have us believe) then co-insurance or deductible clauses should be maintained. Catastrophic illness coverage should be included, because it is available for the price of a pack of cigarettes a day; health insurance should be underwritten by the American Insurance Industry and not by government; extension of ambulatory coverage would greatly decrease costs and the insurance must allow freedom of choice.

For the "old folks" the physician which is called "my doctor" is a most prized possession.

As we said at the start of this comment discussion, the position paper could be thought of as a political step. That might or might not be the situation.

But one thing is for sure. Senator Church's following and supporters among the "oldsters" are numerous. It's hard to turn old folks toward new thoughts and beliefs, especially if they are "poor, old folks."

Senator Church is the champion for these people—and for many more, for that matter—and to change their thinking it will be necessary to get rid of Senator Church.

Nothing on the horizon indicates he will be replaced when he runs for another six years come the November, 1974 election. If he's alive he will be a winner. And he will win, under that circumstance, because there is no indication he will change his rhetoric toward the old folks.

The position paper of the Idaho Medical Association will gain wide distribution and will be widely read—but it will change few minds.

everything." This, the statement said, may get votes but the public has a right to expect its legislators to exercise some wisdom and prudence.

The solution? The position paper contends that hospitals should accept the philosophy that they are primarily for acute cases, and cooperate with the physician, the patient and the family to that end. The financial structure of "for-profit" nursing homes should come under close surveillance. Allowances for care in a nursing home for less than skilled nursing care should be liberalized and some consideration should be given to relaxing Medicare Medicaid restrictions on payment for so-called "shelter care." Home health care should be cautiously expanded. The paper was also critical of the media, of Congress and of

No walkover for either Arabs, Israel in new war

BEIRUT (UPI) — With the fourth Arab-Israeli war now in its fourth day, all indications are that it is not going to be a swift walkover for either side. It certainly will not be over in six days such as the war in June, 1967.

Whether either side cracks or can crush the other even in six weeks remains to be seen.

But out of the smoke clouds of conflicting claims and counterclaims monitored in this Middle East capital, these fairly well established facts appear to be emerging:

—Regardless of who actually fired the first shot, the Israelis were caught off balance, only partially mobilized and not yet ready to launch an overwhelming attack offensive with all their forces as they did in June, 1967.

—The Egyptians did succeed in crossing the Suez Canal at several points and made quite considerable initial advances through the thin Israeli "buffer" forces in the Sinai desert.

—The Syrians were able to score similar initial successes with their Soviet-equipped tank forces on the Golan Heights. However, they have not yet claimed to have captured Kuneitra, the only sizeable town in the area, which lies a bare five miles west of the 1967 cease-fire line.

At this point the situation becomes less clear.

Monday night, while Egypt and Syria still were talking of "fresh advances" in Sinai and on the Golan Heights, Israeli back the Egyptians and Syrians everywhere.

He even hinted the Israelis might not stop at the Suez Canal and on the northern front might occupy Damascus. They stopped short of either such action in 1967.

But this morning the chief Israeli military commentator, Irish-born Gen. Haim Herzog, who once served as a British guards officer, spoke in much more cautious terms.

He warned against overconfidence and warned the war might drag on longer than initially expected.

As he spoke, the Egyptians were claiming to have advanced nine miles into Sinai and to have captured East Qanata, second largest city in the peninsula.

The capture of East Qanata in itself did not mark a great Egyptian advance. It is a fly-bitten town located directly on the east bank of the canal itself and its population was evacuated by the Egyptians in the 1967 debacle. The Israelis kept only a small holding garrison there.

But what could be more significant, if true, were Egyptian claims today to have smashed through Israeli positions and to be advancing all along the canal line.

This might mean a breakout from the bridgeheads in which the Israelis said the Egyptians were surrounded.

The Golan Heights position is equally unclear, except that the Syrians have denied they were pushed back to their starting position and the Israelis have admitted a "substantial" Syrian penetration at one point.

Whatever the truth or untruth of these rival claims, it does not look like being a blitz walkover this time.

Fulbright proposes Mideast peace plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., has proposed a Middle East peace settlement including American military support for Israel if that country is overwhelmingly attacked.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, outlined the proposal Monday at a "Pacem in Terris" conference sponsored by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions.

In addition to an immediate cease-fire, he proposed:

—Retention by Israel of some part of the Golan Heights.

—Phased Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai desert.

—Stationing of an international force or the granting of a license to station Israeli troops at Sharm el Sheikh, the choke point on the Gulf of Aqaba.

—Internationalization of Jerusalem.

—Signature of a binding international treaty by Israel and the Arabs.

—Signature of a treaty between the United States and Israel that would obligate the United States to defend Israel against any attack she could not repel.

Judge rejects newspman petition

BAITIMORE (UPI)—Judge Walter E. Hoffman, determined to resist further delays in a federal investigation of Spiro T. Agnew, rejected a request Monday by newsmen for postponement of their replies to newsleak subpoenas, federal court sources said today.

Hoffman wanted no time turning down a petition by a group of reporters who asked that they be allowed an extra week, until Oct. 18, to respond to subpoenas to tell the vice president's lawyers sources of newsleaks about the investigation.

Court sources said Hoffman was insistent on the grand jury pressing ahead with its inquiry of charges involving kickbacks, with only 17 days remaining before the statutory limit expires on some of the allegations.

There was no word on who the grand jury would be hearing when it resumes its investigation. Security continued tight at the federal court house where it meets. The Justice Department argued Friday that Agnew was subject to indictment while in office, contrary to his contention of immunity.

Besides the constitutional immunity claim, Agnew's lawyers sought to halt the investigation on grounds of pre-judicial publicity due to leaks about progress of the inquiry which Agnew charged came primarily from the Justice Department.

In addition to the reporters' request for a one-week delay from Thursday in replying formally to subpoenas, the Justice Department Monday called the Agnew publicity claim frivolous, and asked Hoffman to reverse his decision allowing subpoenas to be issued to newsmen.

The department said it was willing to allow top officials to answer questions under oath from Agnew's lawyers about newsleaks, but described the subpoenas for newsmen as "fishing expeditions."

The reporters' brief was filed with the federal court clerk who went to his office to accept it although the courthouse was closed for the Columbus Day holiday.

Hoffman, reported staying in a room in Alexandria, Va., was said to have notified the clerk he was turning down the petition and was quoted: "I am not going to grant an extension on anything. There will be no hearing."

Hoffman normally sits in the U. S. district court for eastern Virginia at Norfolk. He was assigned as supervising judge for the grand jury inquiry into an alleged kickback scheme of Maryland politics after all federal judges in Maryland disqualified themselves.

Thought for the day: U.S. historian Henry Brooks Adams said, "What one knows is, in youth, of little moment; they know enough who know how to learn."

New trial asked

CINCINNATI (UPI)—The appeal of James Earl Ray, convicted killer of Martin Luther King, comes before the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today. Ray wants to change his plea of guilty to innocent and ask for a new trial.

He pleaded guilty March 1, 1969, to the sniper slaying of the civil right leader in Memphis, Tenn., on April 4, 1968, and was sentenced to 99 years in the Tennessee State Prison in Nashville.

Ray's attorney, Bernard Fen-sterwald Jr., said he would ask the court to allow his client to go before the court in person and change his plea.

"Ray said his guilty plea was coerced," Fensterwald said. "He was held in solitary confinement for eight months before he made the plea."

"He claims his lawyer, Percy Foreman, was in cahoots with the prosecution and judge to coerce his plea and that Foreman did not investigate the case but immediately started negotiating with the prosecutor and the judge."

Nixon meets W. African

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's meeting today with Ivory Coast President Felix Houphouet-Boigny has taken on an unexpected dimension because of the Middle East crisis.

The Ivory Coast, a prosperous West African nation about the size of New Mexico, is a Moslem country that has diplomatic relations with Israel.

Houphouet-Boigny has been under intense political pressure from Arab and other African Moslem leaders to sever those ties, but has steadfastly refused to do so.

Because of the Ivory Coast's economically successful relations with Israel and its ties with Arab leaders, Nixon is expected to give particular attention to Houphouet-Boigny's views on the current Middle East crisis.

Nixon also has planned an unofficial meeting with another African leader, Zaire President Mobutu Sese Seko, at the White House Wednesday.

The French speaking Ivory

Coast president also will renew his friendship with Mrs. Nixon during his official visit. Houphouet-Boigny was host to Mrs. Nixon when she toured the Ivory Coast, Liberia and Ghana in January 1972.

State Department officials regard the Ivory Coast as an example that Moslem nations can have successful diplomatic relations with Israel.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger planned a luncheon in honor of Houphouet-Boigny today, to be followed by a black-tie dinner at the White House tonight.

Houphouet-Boigny also plans to meet with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Congressional leaders, and address the National Press Club during his visit.

Congress to control own spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Government Operations Committee has tentatively agreed on a plan to break Congress' old habit of spending more money by the end of the year than it promised it would at the start.

It is one proposed answer President Nixon's "impoundment," or refusal to spend money appropriated by Congress when he feels it exceeds his overall budget. It is based on the theory that if Congress wants to avoid this, Congress must control its own spending.

The committee bill sets up a procedure under which Congress would approve an overall spending ceiling and target ceilings for each of the 13 major spending areas, then would pass appropriations bills and would finally cut the appropriations if their overall total exceeded the approved overall ceiling.

Until this final trimming, no appropriation could be spent. To give Congress time to achieve systematic control over spending, the bill would push back the start of the fiscal year, probably until Oct. 1. The fiscal year now starts July 1 to give Congress six months to enact authorization bills, which establish program levels but are subject to later appropriation.

The process always takes more than six months, so many government agencies are forced to operate in the new fiscal year at the prior year's spending levels.

The reform bill spells out this congressional timetable:

- By June 30 of each year, all authorization bills must pass.
- By Aug. 1, the overall ceiling and spending targets for each major program must pass.
- Between then and Oct. 1, individual appropriations bills must pass. Normally, there are 13 major such bills; each the handwork of 13 separate House and Senate subcommittees, each a ballwreck of power.

FDA offers rules on X-ray radiation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has proposed rules to protect the public from radiation emitted by commercial X-ray machines, including anti-jacking devices in use at more than 30 major U.S. airports.

The rules would limit how much radiation can be given off in the vicinity of such machines and provide safeguards to prevent accidental exposure.

The X-ray machines involved are those enclosed in cabinets and used for such purposes as authenticating works of art or detecting flaws in solid matter. In recent months they have come into widespread use to screen airline carry-on luggage to detect weapons.

Last month Ralph Nader asked the Federal Aviation Administration to ban the airport use of such devices, saying passengers should not be exposed to them until the government sets safety standards.

At that time the Air Transport Association said 175 of the machines had been installed at a cost of $4 million. Passengers are generally screened by metal detectors which do not employ X-rays. The FDA said the cabinet devices are also being used to uncover contraband at air, rail and bus terminals as well as in civilian and military post offices.

Under the proposal filed Monday for 60 days of public comment, X-ray emissions could be no higher than 0.5 milliroentgen per hour at a distance of five centimeters, about two inches, from the equipment.

Producers seek 66% price jump

VIENNA (UPI) — Six of the biggest oil producing countries in the world opened the second stage today of a campaign to force an immediate 66 per cent increase in prices paid by Western oil companies.

Oil sources said the demand could result in the biggest leap in crude oil prices in two years, a move almost certain to affect the American consumer.

The sources said the price hike demand was presented Monday to 13 Western companies by six states on the Persian Gulf, members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

The second stage of the negotiations was scheduled to begin today.

Negotiations in OPEC's Vienna headquarters took place against a background of heavy fighting in the Middle East and Arab manifestos demanding that oil serve as a weapon against Israel.

The six gulf states, Saudi Arabia, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Abu Dhabi and Qatar, demanded that crude oil prices rise from $3 a barrel to $5 and that machinery be established to insure that in the future the prices keep step with inflation, the sources said.

Strip mining bill progresses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Time after time in the hills of Appalachia, large coal firms have pushed poverty-stricken landowners off their property in order to carve out the black mineral.

The landowners objected in many cases, but lost out when the coal company produced half-century-old deeds to mineral rights.

Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., planned to offer an amendment today to a pending nationwide coal strip mining bill to give the surface owner the upper hand.

It would require written consent or waiver by the surface owner before the coal operator could implement his "broad form deed" and extract the coal.

The Senate, by a 51-33 vote, passed a similar but limited amendment by Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., as it began consideration of the bill Monday.

Mansfield's amendment would prohibit strip mining on all land where the federal government owns the mineral rights, but a private individual owns the surface.

Montana police search for killer of four

HELMVILLE, Mont. (UPI) — Law enforcement officers set highway checkpoints along the rugged Continental Divide today in their search for a heavily drifed teen-ager suspected of killing four persons at a dude ranch.

Sheriff's deputies said Roger Caryl, 17, who liked to be called "Tex McCord" after a famed 19th-Century bandit, was carrying several weapons including a 7mm rifle, which "could blow a man's head off at 500 yards."

Montana Highway Patrolmen, deputies and Fish and Game Department wardens were stationed every two miles along a north-south road between U.S. 12 and Montana 200 in the mountains.

Sheriff David Collings said Caryl is suspected of killing the four persons Sunday, possibly because he was ordered to bury a dog he had shot to death. The youth was employed at the dude ranch where the killings took place.

Collings said Caryl first shot Samuel Akins, 42, and his son,

Steven, 18, with whom he shared a cabin at the Whitetail ranch. Then, according to the officer, he killed the manager.

Middle East resolution voted out

WASHINGTON (UPI)—By voice vote and with little on-the-record debate, a half dozen senators have voted out a resolution on the Middle East which purports to speak for the entire Senate.

The vote Monday came after a preliminary struggle which took place mostly behind the scenes. This is what happened.

Monday morning Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., circulated to colleagues a strongly pro-Israel draft resolution. It described the Arab states as aggressors and urged that the United States "give its full diplomatic support to Israel." Sens. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., and Henry Jackson, D-Wash., supported it. Ribicoff showed the draft resolution to Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott. Sources said Scott objected to its language. According to one account, Scott called Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and got from him language of a milder, more neutral draft resolution.

Scott, however, said he and Senate Democratic Leader

Mike Mansfield drafted an alternate resolution themselves.

Scott and Mansfield brought their resolution to the floor shortly after noon Monday without telling Ribicoff, sources said.

Under the rules it preempted other resolutions, and a half dozen senators present in the nearly empty chamber, adopted it by voice vote with little floor discussion.

The resolution said the Senate would "support the use of the good offices of the United States by the President and the secretary of state to urge the participants to bring about a cease-fire and return of the parties involved to lines and positions occupied by them prior to the outbreak of the current hostilities."

Scott later said Kissinger had told him he found "no fault" with the formula. The administration, later that day, stated much the same position in the United Nations.

Ribicoff said later, "I don't think it's a very good resolution."

HENRY KISSINGER

Israeli prisoners interviewed

CAIRO (UPI)—Cairo television Monday night screened interviews with two Israeli prisoners taken in the Sinai fighting.

Interviewed in Hebrew through an interpreter were two men identified as Air Force Lt. Eriq Gor, 22 and Dr. Van Daniel, 27, an army physician.

Gor said his mystery jet fighter was shot down while on a reconnaissance mission over the Suez Canal by an air missile fired by an Egyptian jet.

Asked whether he thought the Israeli air force still had superiority over Arabs, he said "No."

Daniel said he and some comrades left their position in the Sinai after they ran out of food and water. "It order to be seized by the Egyptians."

Among the prisoners were four pilots, an artillery trooper and a commander of an Israeli armored regiment, the Damascus television commentator presenting the film said.

Soviet role in war halt urged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger urged the Soviet Union to play a responsible role in helping to halt the Arab-Israeli fighting in the Middle East.

At the same time, Kissinger emphasized that the relaxation of U.S.-Moscow relations is of paramount importance, and should not be sacrificed by disagreement with Soviet policy on immigration of Russian Jews to Israel.

Failure to grant Moscow most-favored-nation trade concessions because of its immigration policy might cause the Soviet Union to end the existing détente and revert to Cold War policies, Kissinger said.

"The secretary made these points Monday in an address to the 'Peace in the Middle East' conference sponsored by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions.

"Our policy with respect to détente is clear. We shall resist aggressive foreign policy. Détente cannot survive irresponsibility in any area, including the Middle East," Kissinger said.

Kissinger, who was heckled by several youths objecting to his role in U.S. Vietnam policy, did not mention directly the current fighting in the Middle East. He said only "We meet at a time when renewed conflict in the Middle East reminds us that international stability is always precarious and never to be taken for granted."

He criticized Congress for introducing legislation that would deny most-favored-nation status to any nation that restricts immigration, clearly aimed at the Soviet Union. It has passed the House Ways and Means Committee and is likely to be approved by Congress.

"The demand that Moscow modify its domestic policy as a precondition for most-favored-nation treatment of détente was never made while we were negotiating," Kissinger said. "Now it is inserted after both sides have carefully shaped an overall mosaic. Thus it raises questions about our entire bilateral relationship."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Washington, sponsor of the legislation, issued a statement critical of Kissinger's comments.

"The secretary must know that he can't give away what the Congress has not authorized him to give away," Jackson said.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, presented a six-point plan for peace in the Middle East which included Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai desert, retention of the Golan Heights, Israeli access to the Gulf of Aqaba, internationalization of Jerusalem, a binding treaty among the nations involved, and U.S. military protection if Israel could not repel an attack.

American Jews collect millions

By United Press International

Americans Jews gave millions of dollars to Israel in an emergency campaign today and others volunteered to go there themselves to do civilian jobs while Israeli workers are in the army.

Over $4 million was collected in New York City alone Monday. Jerome Rosemarin, a director of the United Jewish Appeal, said the nationwide target for the next few days was $100 million. He said the money would be used for "social welfare and humanitarian needs" so that the Israeli government could use its resources to prosecute the war.

Robert Copeland, a spokesman for the United Jewish Federation in Norfolk, Va., said hundreds of volunteers have called the group since the fighting erupted Saturday.

"Donations are pouring in," Copeland said. "Members of the community stand together in this time of crisis."

In Miami, leaders of the Jewish community approached their goal of selling $5 million worth of Israel bonds today, by 10 p.m. Monday the bond drive had reported $3,779,000 collected in cash and checks.

Three separate rallies were set for New Jersey tonight, a spokesman said. Other meetings were called in St. Louis, Mo., Atlanta, Chicago, Baltimore, Miami, San Francisco, Pittsburgh, and Hartford, Conn.

The Anti-Defamation League of the B'nai B'rith condemned Egypt and Syria for what it called a "Pearl Harbor attack" and the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations called an "emergency convocation" of over 500 Jewish leaders for Washington today.

UN asked to halt Mideast battling

(c) N. Y. Times Service
 UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — In a long day of debate, filled with charge and counter-charge by the antagonists in the fighting in the Middle East, the United States Monday night asked the Security Council to bring an end to the hostilities and to restore the "cease-fire line" that had existed before the new war broke out.

John A. Scall, the U. N. Representative, told the council that United Nations reports "appear to indicate that the air attacks in the Golan Heights were initiated by Syrian MIG aircraft and that the first firing on the Suez front, which took place at the same time as the Syrian attack, was from west to east."
 However, Scall said that what the United States sought in the council was not a war of words. Rather, he said, it sought a broad consensus that would enable the council to put the full weight of its influence behind the task of restoring the peace "so that the Middle East can be set on a new course pointing toward a better era in the region."
 He asked that the cease-fire line that existed before the hostilities broke out be restored. The war of words, however, was not long in coming.
 Scall based his assessment of the military aggression on reports received here from observation posts along the cease-fire line that were set up by the U. S. Truce Supervision Organization at the request of the Security Council.

These observation posts reported that Egyptian forces were seen crossing the Suez Canal from the West Bank to the East Bank from five places as hostilities commenced. Other observation posts on the Golan Heights reported that at the same hour as the Egyptian attack, Syrian forces also crossed the cease-fire line.

As soon as Scall relinquished the floor, Mohamed H. El-Zayyat, the Egyptian Foreign Minister, began speaking.
 It is Egypt's contention the conflict was touched off when Israeli airplanes attacked Egyptian forces stationed in the areas of El-Zaafarana and El-Sukhna on the Gulf of Suez while Israeli naval units were approaching the western coast of the Gulf of Suez.
 "I take issue with the United Nations report that Egypt and Syria began the firing," El-Zayyat said. "May I ask the secretary general if he had observers at Saafaran and El-Sukhna and could he say there had been no attacks there?"
 Abba Eban, the Israeli Foreign Minister, who, earlier in the day before the General Assembly labeled as a lie the charge that Israel had started the fighting, turned to El-Zayyat and said:
 "It would, I think be helpful if, at the next meeting, the foreign minister of Egypt would bring to the table some evidence for the odious falsehood about an attack by Israeli naval forces at Sukhna and Zaafaran."

Kibbutz children underground

KIBBUTZ DEGANIA "A," Israel (UPI) — Twenty feet below ground, the children of Israel's oldest kibbutz crawl into their wooden bunks and try to sleep despite the noise of an occasional fighter-bomber flying overhead.
 Degania, a collective settlement established in 1909 and the birthplace of Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, lies just below the Sea of Galilee and three miles from the Jordanian frontier.
 Jordan has stayed out of the war, but even so, when the fighting with Egypt and Syria began Saturday, Degania's 400 residents, who tend dairy cattle and banana trees, were put on "alert stage one."
 "That's when we know that at any moment we must go down into the shelters," said Yossi, a young kibbutz official who would not give his last name.
 The shelters are 20 feet below ground and even though the walls and ceilings are made of thick concrete, the sounds of jets flying above can still be heard.

 Children under 14 years of age have been in the shelter day and night since the fighting started.
 Hannah Levi, a graying heavy-set woman who is in charge of the children, said they play and study under the bare lightbulbs to pass the time during the day. As she talks, she herds the children into bed.
 "The children are afraid every time they hear a plane," said Merit Khanovitz, 16, who was born in a kibbutz and spent the 1967 Middle East war in a bomb shelter. "Never mind whether it's Israeli or not, they're afraid of the noise."
 Yossi said the planes started flying over at 3 p.m. Saturday.
 "We were taken completely by surprise," he said. "This has been a peaceful area since King Hussein (of Jordan) kicked out the terrorists in 1970, and because of that we didn't even imagine that something could happen."

Viets sight 'copters

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese Air Force spotter pilots sighted two "mystery helicopters" Friday within 60 miles of Saigon and two truce team helicopters were shot at but not hit, the high command announced today.
 "It's too bad only spotter planes did the sighting instead of heavier planes with guns on them," a spokesman remarked.
 The Saigon command said what it called "mystery helicopters" were spotted Friday morning near Don Luan, 60 miles north of Saigon, and near Phu Giao, 35 miles north of the capital.
 A command spokesman said two helicopters belonging to the International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS) were shot at in separate incidents Friday and Monday.

It was the first time since mid-June ICCS aircraft drew ground fire.
 On the fighting front, Tropical Storm Opal's 60-mile-an-hour winds followed by flooding rains in the Central Highlands cut reported Communist cease-fire incidents down to 60, lowest since Sept. 18 when there were 36.
 Diplomatic sources, meanwhile, reported no progress in efforts to trace three employees of a U.S. contracting company, one an American, who apparently were kidnaped Saturday in the Delta.

The American is Homer Elmsan of Mrs. Bonnie M. Sanderson of Arcadia, S.C. The other two missing men are South Vietnamese. All three worked for Pacific Architects and Engineers, which runs installations for the U.S. government and the ICCS.

Chile opens way for probe

(c) N. Y. Times Service
 UNITED NATIONS — Chile has agreed to permit Amnesty International to make an on-the-spot investigation into charges that political opponents of the ruling junta have been arrested, tortured and executed without trial.
 The agreement was made here today by Chile's foreign minister, Vice Adm. Ismael Huerta Diaz, who is here attending the general assembly.
 The Chilean government's willingness to permit the inquiry was seen here as an effort to counter the widespread accusations that the military junta is continuing to round up suspected supporters of the regime of President Salvador Allende Gossens, torturing imprisoned political prisoners and executing some without trial.
 Huerta informed Martin Ennals, secretary general of Amnesty International, a non-political organization based in London, that a mission would be welcomed in Chile at any time and would be given full freedom.

 The foreign minister had private talks this weekend with Secretary General Waldheim and is known to have offered new assurance that human rights will be observed.
 Specifically, the Chilean is reported to have said persons detained for political reasons either will be released after interrogation or brought to trial and these court proceedings will be public with the accused having the right to legal defense and to appeal the court sentence.
 The admiral also reiterated earlier assurances that Chile would not force foreigners to return to countries where they faced possible persecution.

Success of ERA—opinions assorted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Is the unratified equal rights for women amendment going to make it? Well, it depends on whom you ask.

Supporters say they need the votes of only 10 more states for ratification. Opponents say 10 states have rejected it, and only 12 rejections would mean defeat.

UPI's count confirmed the arithmetic of both sides: 28 out of the 38 states needed to ratify have done so. It has been rejected in 16 states, but at least 10 of those appear likely to reconsider.

The language of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) to the Constitution is simple: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

Proponents say that regard to the ERA's practical effects, it would at least be symbolically significant as a statement of public policy.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Would you please write something in your column about overly affectionate fathers who encourage intimate body contact (all in the spirit of playfulness) with their teen-age daughters?

This horseplay between my son in law and his 13-year-old daughter involves a lot of wrestling and touching, but I was shocked when I saw them rolling around on the bed (in the parents' bedroom) while my daughter was busy putting on her make-up in the adjoining bathroom.

Abby, this grandchild is just coming into young womanhood, and it's possible for her to become sexually stimulated and aroused by this sort of thing. Soon enough she will be faced with sex play with her peers, which is normal and natural, but such teasing from her father worries me.

Fatherly horseplay

I don't want to hurt my daughter by even suggesting that her husband keep his hands off his daughter. She might even be offended.

Frankly, I am ashamed to be writing this letter. I don't think I'm evil-minded, and I'm no prude, but perhaps my son in law will see it and take the hint. If you think I am wrong, please say so. I'll be able to take that, too.

WORRIED GRANNY

DEAR WORRIED: Touching and hugging is a normal, healthy expression of affection between fathers and daughters. But you make a good point. Teen-age girls should be taught that their bodies are "private," and not to be handled by anyone—fathers included. And fathers should refrain from intimate horseplay with their budding young daughters. As revealing as the idea may be to some, it's possible for parents and children to be turned on sexually by each other, so intelligent restraint should be exercised.

DEAR ABBY: To "Camillo," who wrote to you of her involvement in remembering lonely patients in a nursing home, and to your forlorn hope that the idea "will catch on."

I can add to the story by telling you that in Columbus, Ohio, there is a "Remembered Patient Program" of 15 years standing in one of our hospitals for mental patients. People in the community remember the more than 500 patients who have no families or friends by sending cards and/or gifts throughout the year on birthdays and other occasions. Some send money that is deposited to the patients' accounts and that enables them to purchase their own items in the patient commissary.

It is a beautiful sight for the three of us who work on the committee, and for the dedicated staff employed by the hospital, to see the birthday cakes and gifts that are delivered by these concerned "friends" at Christmastime the delivery trucks from local department stores make daily deliveries, bringing gifts to patients who might otherwise be forgotten.

If you know of any who would be interested in this kind of program, we will be happy to provide material.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The Jacoby transfer bid can be used in response to no-trump overcalls, but we don't use it except in response to opening no-trump bids.

The reason for this is that in general there is no advantage in having the lead come up to the no-trump-overcall. Nearly all the defensive strength will be in the opening bidder's hand.

In fact, there are plenty of times when keeping the opening bidder on lead will be worth a trick.

Today's hand illustrates this. It doesn't matter what West leads against South's optimistic four-spade contract. South will have time to discard a diamond on one of trumping clubs and will lose one trick each in all suits except trump.

Give East the lead against four spades and he will open a diamond. Now if West just plays his nine-spot, West will be sure of two diamond tricks in addition to the heart and club aces.

Why do we call four spades by South an optimistic contract? Because it is! South really had to go all out to find that four-spade call, but whether the hand is played at game or part score it still should be played in spades and by South.

California eyes prostitution law

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A majority of this capital city's residents think prostitution should be legalized, a survey by the Sacramento Union indicates.

The poll, which produced some interesting reasons for legalized brothels, showed Sunday that 61 per cent of the men and 49 per cent of the women contacted in a random telephone survey favored legalized prostitution. The average for both sexes was 55 per cent.

"It might help stopping rapes," remarked one clerk typist.

"It would cut down on a lot of baloney between vice and law enforcement," said a civil engineer.

"I think that California should legalize both prostitution and gambling, because there is a lot of tariff to be made in those two things," said another of the 302 persons contacted.

Hopefuls eye top city jobs

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

RUPERT — New mayoral candidates have entered the races in both Burley and Rupert.
W. F. (Bill) Whitton, Rupert councilman, turned in his petition for mayor of Rupert late Monday. He will oppose incumbent Mayor Wendell Johnson.
"It is time for a change in the administration for a multitude of reasons," Whitton said.
Among those were the need for long-range planning in all departments, improvements in streets and water supplies and for keeping citizens informed on city activities.
Whitton has served four years on the council.
Whitton, who has lived in Rupert 2 years, is currently director for information for the Idaho Farm Bureau.
In Burley, Joe Peters filed a petition for the mayoral race late Friday.
He previously served three non-consecutive terms as mayor of the city, being defeated by current Mayor Garis Robertson in 1989.

"Many things were done when I was in office with the great help of the council and the people of the community and city employees," Peters, manager of the Intermountain Sewing Center, said.
"Burley is a great city, a city with a heart, and one of the best in the state. Most all the streets are oiled. If elected, we will work together to make Burley a better city than we have today."

Charles (Chuck) Shaddock, Kendall Tilley and Councilman Sylvan Burgi are also running for the post.
Seven candidates have filed for three Burley City Council seats. They are Lon Clayton, Jerry Vegwert, James Roper, Gerald Wyant, Roland Willis, F. Curtis Puskett and Duane Broadhead.
Rupert Council Candidates are Edwin S. Catmill, Blaine Jensen and Dwinelle Allred.

POTATO HARVEST in the Magic Valley is well under way. A potato combine on the Floyd Kissing farm near Dietrich is shown picking up the tubers and conveying them to a truck driven by Mrs. Elsie Riddinger. Floyd Kissing is driving the tractor pulling the combine. The combine eliminates most rocks, clods, vines and other debris before the potatoes are loaded.

Harvest under way

JEROME — Members of the Jerome School Board Monday night denied a request from high school band director, Larry Standley for an 11-day tour for the varsity band through central California.
The unanimous vote followed several hours of discussion during which Standley outlined plans for financing the tour by work projects and sales by band members. He said the total cost of about $2,400 would be provided by the band and there would be no cost to the district.
Several school board members said they felt the 11 days, requiring at least a week away from classes for the band members, is too long.
They recommended Standley consider a shorter tour closer to home, possibly in Idaho, and submit the proposal to the board at a later meeting.

In other business before the school board a complaint was heard on the recess periods at Jefferson Elementary School being too short. This was referred to the principal of the school, Lavar Butters.
Supt. John Campbell reported the steel building which will serve as annex to the Jerome Junior High School is on order and should be arriving within about 29 days.
Standley said there would be 53 students involved in the band tour. He also asked for three days of school time off to make arrangements for the tour which he had scheduled for March 23 through April 3.

Fuel cut plan set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House made public today a joint government-consumer energy saving campaign urging Americans to cut down on fuel consumption, particularly home heating oil which may be in short winter supply.
The campaign recommended turning down thermostats and installing weather stripping and insulation in homes.

The effort, through various booklets and pamphlets, urges Americans to lower their home thermostats by four degrees this winter, a tactic which the White House said would save over 400,000 barrels of oil per day — enough to heat 2 million homes.
In addition home owners were advised to install insulation, storm windows, weather stripping and caulking wherever practical.
The White House said some progress already had been made by the government since Nixon requested that the federal government reduce its energy demand by 7 per cent and that consumers cut theirs by 5 per cent.

Bank of Idaho change asked

BOISE (UPI) — The Bank of Idaho announced Monday it has applied to the U. S. Comptroller of the Currency to become a national bank.
Joseph Bianco, president and chairman of the board, said the change for Idaho's largest state chartered bank has been approved by directors of the bank.
"As a national bank, Bank of Idaho would have great flexibility of operation," Bianco said.
"Under current regulations national banks may provide a broader scope of services to customers."

Eden man unopposed

EDEN — Three Eden City Council incumbents will be running unopposed in the Nov. 6 city election.
Earl Clark, Kenneth Hutchins and Don McFarland filed declarations of candidacy prior to the filing deadline today, according to Opal Newbery, city clerk.
No other petitions have been taken out, she said.
All three vacancies are for four-year terms.

Wendell fund cut 50%

WENDELL — Supt. Lawrence LaRue reported a 50 per cent cut in Title I funds this year to members of the Wendell School Board at a meeting Monday.
LaRue said present programs can be carried through the year, but next year's program's will have to be re-evaluated. Last year the Wendell School District received $26,000 in Title I allocations.
The district will offer adult education classes as a result of approval by the school board last night of a community education program. According to LaRue, if enough adults show interest in an area of learning, night classes will be conducted.
In other board action trustees re-affirmed the 85 per cent attendance policy. There have been attendance problems this year, LaRue reported.
The board approved hiring a teacher's aide for the resource classroom in the grade school and approved ordering additional elementary school desks, due to an increase in enrollment.

A special trustee work session on district building programs will be conducted at 7 p.m. Oct. 17. There will be a special meeting at 7 p.m. Oct. 22 with the school auditor and at 8 p.m. the board will meet with teachers to discuss areas of mutual concern, LaRue said.
Elementary school principal Arditt Dennis' request to attend the elementary principal's convention in Coeur d'Alene was approved.
Trustees allowed a payroll deduction plan for teachers desiring to purchase cancer care insurance at the request of Don Lowman, agent for American Family Life Insurance.
The high school drill team will attend competition and a workshop at Idaho State University Oct. 20. The high school band will perform Nov. 3 for the Utah State University homecoming.
Early graduation for seven seniors was approved.

Fund cut eliminates Gooding program

By PEGGY CHIU
Times-News writer

GOODING — The proposed physical education program in Gooding elementary school will have to be eliminated due to $10,000 cut in Title I funds.
Grade school principal Eugene Gibbons told the school board that Title I allocations this year are based on the 1970 census which reveals fewer disadvantaged families in the county than reported in the 1960 census. Title I funds for this year will total about $14,740, compared to an about $25,000 program funded last year, based on the 1960 census.
Gibbons said, "We won't be able to offer all we have previously." He read a list of priorities for the Title I funds which included pre-school readiness, teacher's aide program, summer school and physical education. He said the summer school program will have to be limited this year and that the physical education will be dropped.
Before receiving word of the cut in funds, Gibbons said the elementary school had hoped to hire a PE instructor on a regular basis. Physical education has been conducted by teachers in their individual classrooms.
Supt. James Muscat announced that an opinion by Atty. Gen. Anthony Park will be given this week concerning whether a limited power of attorney may apply to guardianship under tuition laws. Muscat said he received a letter from assistant superintendent of instruction, Dr. Roy Truby, stating that the opinion has been made and will be released this week.

The Gooding School District has requested an opinion on the intent of the power of attorney law in order to clear up tuition problems in the district. There have been instances of parents requesting approval by the board of power of attorney in order for their children to attend Gooding school tuition free.
Replacement costs on school equipment and facilities have risen 10 per cent over last year's levels. Supt. Muscat said. The value of school district building totals $3,038,850 and the value of furniture, fixtures and equipment totals $223,480.
Due to the price increase of five cents on school lunches, there has been an $1,800 increase in the school lunch fund over last year, although the school is feeding 30 less students than last year.
Student lunches now cost 40 cents in the high school and junior high and 35 cents in the grade school.
Students fed per day total 365 in the grade school, 230 in the junior high and 152 in the high school.
Muscat reported that $47,050 in recreation projects has been approved by the Department of Parks and Recreation, but no

Hailey vote set Nov. 6

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — The issue of whether a city initiative and referendum ordinance should be enacted will go before Hailey voters on Nov. 6.
By a two-to-one decision, the Hailey City Council agreed Monday night to place the measure on the general election ballot. Voting in favor of the move were Councilmen Neal Nyblad and Lyle Bremser. Opposed was councilman Claude Porter.
The ordinance vote is the first step in a drive spearheaded by the Council for the Defense of the Wood River Valley, an anti-McCulloch group.
If the ordinance is adopted, the group plans to re-petition for a second referendum election on the City Council's decision to annex the 650-acre McCulloch Properties Inc. development site.
In acting on the 108-signature petition for an initiative and referendum election, Mayor Lawrence Hengle said the petition had been "checked quite thoroughly" and had contained the sufficient number of signatures.
Mayor Hengle said the council has discussed the petition informally and agreed to place the measure on the general ballot rather than "subject the city to another special election." The petition had been submitted to the council about two weeks ago.

Speaking in opposition to the move, W. D. (Marty) Martindale told the council "you're completely lying it wide open for advocacy of your present form of government."
During a meeting recess, Martindale said that "any minority group or combination of minorities" could, if they obtained petition signatures from 20 per cent of the registered voters in the prior election, "force any type of law or ordinance to a vote in the city as often as they want."
With the lack of residency requirements, Martindale said, a minority could bring "200 to 300" persons into the city, have them register, claim they want to live in the city, and they will be able to vote in the election.
Lynne Ward, Council for the Defense of the Wood River Valley, stated in answer to prior questions that she had obtained an assistant attorney general's opinion that measures — adopted before the July 1 enactment of the state initiative and referendum legislation — could be voted on in a referendum election.

Martindale said the opinion he had received from Rep. E. V. McHan, R-Ketchum, was that "the legislative intent not be retroactive for laws before that date."
An identical petition for an initiative and referendum election, containing 107 signatures, had previously been tabled by the council after Martindale protested the legitimacy of about 40 signatures.
According to Ralph Rutter, a member of the anti-McCulloch group, the preliminary petition form had been re-submitted to the city and had been approved. The petition was then re-circulated, he said.

Hailey council approves plats

HAILEY — Plats 10 through 23 of the McCulloch Properties Inc. Woodside development were unanimously approved by the Hailey City Council Monday night.
In its decision, the council acted on the recommendation of the Hailey Planning and Zoning Commission.
According to Horace Self, Woodside project manager, the plats represented about the east one-half of the development.
The council had previously approved plats for the west half of the about 650-acre development.
"It is our intent," Self said, "to record all of these tracts and have them on the tax rolls before Jan. 1." He said this procedure would allow the tracts "to be taxed as a development rather than bare agricultural land."
In other action, the council approved the location of Boise Cascade components on the McCulloch property on a two-year, temporary basis.
The components will be used as administration, engineering and sales offices and will be located on lots one, two and three, block two.

4 seek TF posts

TWIN FALLS — Only four persons have filed candidacy papers for the four City Council seats to be filled in the Nov. 6 city election, a check with City Hall showed this morning.
The filing deadline is 5 p.m. today.
Leon Smith Jr., former Twin Falls prosecuting attorney, has filed for the two-year term left open when Mike Gray resigned from the council last month.
Richard Tunliffe, who was appointed to replace Gray until the city election, has filed for a four-year term.
Incumbent Councilmen Paul Ostyn and Henry Woodall have also filed for four-year terms.

Stolen car recovered

HAZELTON — Jerome County sheriff's authorities recovered a stolen car from Wilson Lake Saturday but said there were no victims involved in the incident.
Sheriff Elza Hall said the car, which was apparently stolen in Ogden, Utah, Sept. 6 was discovered by two youths who were near the lake. The pair apparently saw the back wheels of the vehicle sticking up out of the water because of the low water level. The lake is a mile north of Hazelton.
A diver inspected the vehicle before it was hauled from the lake, Hall said. The sheriff said the car had been submerged about three weeks.

Fire damages building

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone volunteer fire department was called out twice Sunday to extinguish a blaze at the old slaughter house on the west edge of the city.
The fire was first reported about 6:30 a.m. by Lawrence Rands, who lives in that section of the city. Cause of the blaze was unknown. The interior of the abandoned building was burned.
About noon the fire broke out again and the fire department again went to the site and extinguished it.

Kitchen closure set

JEROME — The Jerome Canning Kitchen will close Friday according to Mrs. Harry Brown, chairman of the board of directors.
There will be a potluck dinner at noon on closing day. There are three canning days left and there are a few chili appointments available.
Cans may be picked up from 10 a.m. until noon Monday.

Richfield hunter safe

SHOSHONE, Idaho (UPI) — A Richfield, Idaho, man reported missing on a hunting trip Sunday spent a cold, wet night on the hillside with his horse but turned up safe at his camp the next day.
David Rosseler, 28, Richfield, said he spent most of the night, riding his horse through snow, rain and sleet trying to find his way back to camp 16 miles northeast of Fish Creek.
He arrived in camp before Lincoln County Sheriff Bill Anderson arrived Monday morning to begin search operations.

Boise man killed

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI) — A Boise man was killed Monday when a 45 caliber pistol fell from his holster, hit a rock and discharged.
Elmore County Sheriff Earl Winter identified the man as Edward Allen Hadel. The sheriff said Hadel was getting out of a boat when the gun fell. The bullet hit him in the lower abdomen.
Hadel had been hunting with two other Boise men, Ed Haggis and Archie H. Doran, at the Troutdale Guard Station on the middle fork of the Boise River.

Ballooning aims for MV

DIAMOND JUNCTION, Ore. (UPI) — Light winds held publisher-ballooning Malcolm Forbes to only 50 miles Monday, the fifth day of his cross-country journey.
Forbes, the 54-year-old publisher of Forbes Magazine, is trying to become the first person to cross the United States in a hot air balloon.
A spokesman for the Forbes team said the expedition plans leading further southeast Tuesday, possibly reaching Twin Falls, Idaho.
They are still 100 miles from the Oregon-Idaho state line.

TF winners to compete in Boise

TWIN FALLS — Six first place winners in six many age groups of the Twin Falls Punt, Pass and Kick contest will leave Saturday morning for Boise and the next division of the national competition.

Approximately 18 boys received trophies Wednesday afternoon in Twin Falls City Hall auditorium at the conclusion of the annual contest sponsored by Ford Motor Co., the city recreation department and school's athletic program here. Bill Workman, local Ford agency owner, presented trophies to the top three performers in each division. Winners included: Mike Rice, Dan Dane, Scott Gutherie, 8 year olds; Mitch McKinstry, Curtis Barber, Brian Dodds, and Kelly Fitzpatrick, nine year olds; Greg Scherer, Greg Kucera and Gary Krupm, 10 year olds; Casey Fitzpatrick, Lars Hovey, and Mike Pentec, 11 year olds; Kurt Rosenau, Scott Bradley and Dave Clark, 12 year olds, and Lawrence Pfefferle, Jim Powell and Steve Osborne, 13 year olds.

Stennis assailant now admits guilt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tyrone Marshall, 19, charged with shooting and wounding Sen. John S. Stennis, D-Miss., during a holdup attempt, changed his plea to guilty Monday as his trial entered its third week.

Marshall, one of three youths charged with waylaying Stennis in front of his home Jan. 30, changed his plea on the advice of his lawyer because an alleged accomplice agreed to testify on behalf of the prosecution.

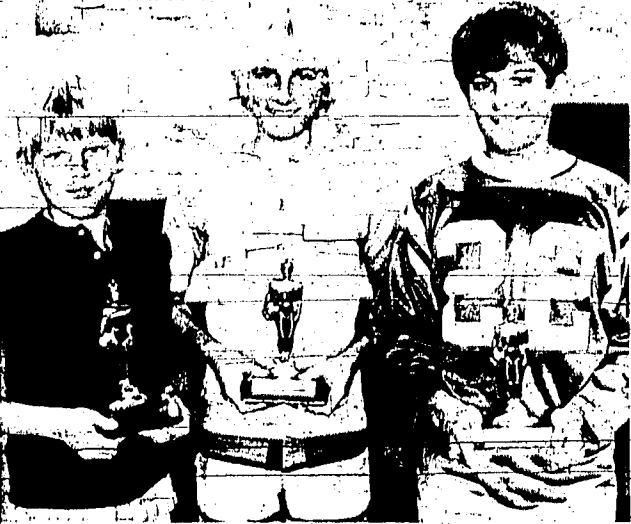

The accomplice, Derick Holloway, 19, refused to testify last week on grounds of self-incrimination, even though he had been offered partial immunity.

Holloway was jailed for contempt of court at that time but then changed his mind and agreed to testify. Holloway agreed to testify after being given total immunity — meaning he can never be prosecuted in the Stennis case.

The limited immunity meant that nothing he said during his testimony in court could be used against him but the government could have prosecuted him on the basis of any other evidence it developed.

Defense attorney R. Kenneth Mundy said he reviewed Holloway's prospective testimony on Friday and became convinced he could not overcome the weight of evidence. Holloway would give

Station giveaways now carry $ tag

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The things motorists once took for granted as they wheeled into their service stations now carry a price tag in some areas.

Irritated by inflation and lower profits, some gas station dealers are installing pay toilets, charging a dime or even a quarter for road maps and even demanding a fee for cleaning windshields and checking the oil.

Chevron owner Bill Plecup. "Some people look at them (road maps) once, crumple them up like Kleenex and throw them away."

Anyway, if we were allowed to make money on our (gasoline) products, we could keep the free services."

Hey, Bourbon Drinker.

You drink it because, among other things, it's got character. Right? Well listen. For 10 years now America has been producing a whiskey with a character so unique, nobody's copied it yet. It's 86 proof and tastes it. It's 86 proof and acts it. It does, in fact, anything any whiskey can do. But with a difference. This one's so beautifully smooth, so easy-sipping, it's given a whole other name to the pleasures of drinking. The name is soft. The Soft Whiskey. The other name for Calvert Extra.

If they've got you tagged, friend — just once, fool them. Just once, try not ordering your usual brand.

Because what you like about the usual is what you'll like about Calvert Extra.

And then some.

Soft Whiskey is your drink.

Consumer tips from YOUR GAS COMPANY

save more money with gas when you cook

COVER YOUR PANS while cooking. The more heat you have in the pan, the less you'll need under it. Besides, the lid keeps grease-laden steam in the pan instead of on your walls and ceilings.

THAW OUT FROZEN FOODS before you cook them. They'll be done faster and use less heat. Also, don't use more water than is needed in cooking. Unneeded hot water will just go down the drain, and your money with it.

ADJUST FLAME. Once you've brought water to a boil, turn the flame down to just enough heat to maintain the boil. And as a general rule, don't use a high flame when a low one will do. A flame that licks around the edge of a pan is soot too high. It wastes gas.

And since food costs enough when you buy it, don't waste money to cook it. Cook with gas. It's economical. And it's clean.

Gas burns with no smoke and virtually no emissions, so it doesn't ruin the air we breathe. Gas is dependable. There's enough gas for home use for many more cold winters and hot summers. In Idaho we have gas to burn. But we all must burn it wisely. That's why we take the time to tell you about ways to use gas wisely.

USSR good sale target

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite projections of a record Russian wheat crop this season, American farmers should continue to find substantial markets in the Soviet Union.

This is the evaluation of Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carroll G. Brunthaver after a conference with Soviet Agriculture officials in Moscow.

"The opening up of Russia and China has opened up full production for American agriculture," Brunthaver said in summing up his views.

Soviet officials discussed the possibility of importing soybeans, cotton, corn and other commodities during the conference. But Brunthaver said they made no commitments.

And the outlook for U.S. wheat exports to the Soviet Union may not be entirely out of the picture in the 1974-75 season because of a number of factors in the Russian picture.

Soviet Communist Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev told Agriculture Secretary Carl L. Butz the Russian wheat crop would be "massive."

The Agriculture Department's Foreign Agricultural Service projects the Soviet crop at about 100 million metric tons, or about nine million metric tons over the record harvest of 1971-72.

But Brunthaver said Soviet Agriculture Minister Dmitry Polyansky expressed concern over about one-third of this season's crop yet to be harvested. About 30 million acres of wheat are in windrows or yet to be cut, Brunthaver said.

Wet weather, early snows and faulty equipment are important factors, which could alter the size of the actual harvest. In addition, Brunthaver said Soviet officials are concerned that some of this season's crop is of poor quality.

The prospects of Soviet imports of feedgrains and soybeans are promising, Brunthaver said.

Until the Sino-Soviet split, the Russians had imported soybeans from China. Brunthaver said the Soviets now have three plants for crushing soybeans standing idle.

And the Russian goal of increased cattle, hog and chicken production is still active.

"For the longer run, they are definitely interested in feed grains," Brunthaver said.

Hogs off to Asia

THREE HUNDRED head of hogs, believed to be the largest shipment to Asian mainland ever made, are, loaded aboard transport plane at Sioux City, Iowa. Shipment was sent to "new territories" outside Hong Kong for breeding purposes by 505 Corp., Lytton, Iowa. (UPI)

Controls due

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department announced it will establish controls over use of off-road vehicles, such as dune buggies, on all 187 million acres of National Forest, grass lands and other areas administered by the Forest Service.

The controls program will be put into effect over almost four years but supervisors of the 155 National Forests must establish by Dec. 31, 1976 the areas where off-road vehicle use will be allowed, curtailed to some extent, or prohibited.

Shipments increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In spite of an audit which eliminated some duplicate reporting, the Agriculture Department said a new tally filed by cotton exporters still shows plans to ship more than 6 million bales abroad during the 1973-74 marketing year.

The report, covering the year which began Aug. 1, gave no figures on how much was shipped between Aug. 1 and Aug. 31. But it said that as of Aug. 31, exporter reports showed undelivered contracts totaling 6-105 million bales.

A thought for the day: British statesman Winston Churchill said, "The V sign is the symbol of the unconquerable will of the German occupied territories and a portent of the fate awaiting Nazi tyranny."

Cyanide use bid endorsed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Agriculture Committee called on the administration today to allow use of a poison called M-44 in controlling predators such as coyotes.

M-44 and other poisons were banned by the Environmental Protection Agency following complaints they were wiping out some animal populations including some non-predator animals.

But the committee said M-44 was a cyanide pellet that does not cause secondary deaths of animals or birds that feed on the dead coyotes.

The committee acted after numerous rangers and farm associations complained that coyotes were ruining cattle and sheep farmers out of business.

The committee also called on the EPA to allow the use of "small bait" strychnine to control skunks and other predators that prey on chicken and turkey flocks.

Flies spread fever

CHICAGO (UPI) — Most cases of rabbit fever, or tularemia, during a 1971 outbreak of the disease in Utah started from a deer fly bite, a medical report said today.

Tularemia is an uncommon disease that produces fever, muscle pains, nausea, weakness and lung congestion that sometimes leads to pneumonia but is rarely fatal.

Predator control partnership ends

DENVER (UPI) — The Colorado Agriculture Commission has taken the first step in assuming complete control of the state's predator control program by voting to dissolve its partnership with the federal government.

Ray Burke, head of the Agriculture Department's Animal Division, said federal restrictions had actually resulted in increase in the number of predators, such as coyotes.

Being scrubbed, Burke said, is the program jointly administered by the Interior Department's Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Burke's department. The federal agency has provided supervisors for state trappers who actually carry out the duties of killing coyotes.

"If you're going to be so restrictive about killing methods," Burke said, "then you don't need a lot of high priced supervision."

He said a number of stockmen have complained about the federal restrictions which leave them with only shooting or trapping as methods of killing predators. The federal agency recently banned the use of cyanide pellet guns as one method of predator control.

Antiquers: There are lots of prospects. They classified and attract them. (UPI)

Staub bats Mets past Reds 9-2 in fight-marred game

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rusty Staub, his power finally restored after a long blackout hit a pair of supercharged homers to spark the New York Mets to a 9-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Monday in a fight-marred third game of the National League championships which nearly ended in a riot and forfeit.

The Mets, needing only one more victory in the best-of-five series to win the pennant and complete their second "Miracle" in five years, almost lost the game to forfeit in the fifth inning when an angry Shea Stadium crowd turned its vengeance loose on Cincinnati's Pete Rose following a brawl that cleared both benches.

Rose, a fiery competitor who plays like they used to in the days of Ty Cobb, touched off the "brawl" when he barged into Bud Harrelson as the Mets' shortstop was turning over a double-play-to-end the inning. As Rose got up he pushed Harrelson and the two men began exchanging punches near second base.

In a matter of seconds both benches had cleared and the two clubs squared off on the infield. Another fight broke out between Pedro Borbon of the Reds and Buzz Capra of the Mets and it took the umpires nearly five minutes to restore order.

The real trouble, however, started when Rose went to his position in leftfield. The fans in the leftfield mezzanine began hurling debris at Rose and he started throwing some of the things back at them. This only angered the fans more and they started shaking their fists at him and hurling even more objects.

Reds' manager Sparky Anderson went out to confer with the umpires and an announce-

Mets' 5-0 victory Sunday, got New York off to a 1-0 lead with two out in the first inning when he drilled a 400-foot homer over the rightfield fence off southpaw Ross Grimsley.

Wrestling champion

SEEMING TO HAVE the upper hand is Pete Rose of the Reds as he battles Bud Harrelson of the Mets in the fifth inning of the game in New York on Monday. The brawl erupted when Rose upended Harrelson while attempting to break up a double play. (UPI Telephoto)

Rose relates his version of scrap after hour in seclusion

NEW YORK (UPI)—"I was trying to break up a double play. That doesn't mean I'm dirty. Look, I'm a professional ballplayer, not a chorus girl. What was I supposed to do, stand there and look at him?"

Pete Rose, the Cincinnati Reds' firebrand, captain, playmaker and No. 1 hitter, was giving his side of Monday's scrap with Buddy Harrelson of the New York Mets.

For nearly an hour after the payoff contest, won by the Mets 9-2, Rose locked himself in the trainer's room and refused to come out and talk to newsmen.

Finally he did, though, and as soon as he emerged, he was pinned in his locker room by more than 30 newsmen.

"I didn't want to say the wrong thing," said Rose, explaining why he didn't make himself immediately available. "I don't think it's my place to apologize because I don't think I was wrong. I play hard. I play the same way whether there's 73,000 fans in the stands or only 2,000."

There were 53,067 watching the Mets take a two game to one edge over the Reds Monday and some of them became downright ugly after Rose tried to take up his position in leftfield again following the fifth-inning skirmish with Harrelson which blossomed into a full scale free-for-all.

Some of the fans in the upper left-field stands began hurling down objects at Rose and finally, Sparky Anderson, the Reds' manager, pulled his team off the field.

"I've been in Chicago and I don't mind beer cups," said Rose, talking about the various objects hurled at him during his career.

"But some guy out there today let fly with a whiskey bottle and he came this much from hitting me," Rose went on, holding his thumb and forefinger no more than two inches apart.

"Sparky said the bottle was empty and that it was Johnny Walker scotch," put in one newsmen.

"I thought it was Jack Daniels," said Rose solemnly. "I'm not a drinker, but that's what I thought it was."

At that point, Rose came in from his position in left field and appealed to left field foul line umpire Ed Sutilo.

"I told him, Ed, I don't mind being booed. I understand that because they're the home team and we're not, but I don't want to get hit with a bottle. I'm not staying out there when they're keeping throwing things like that. He said he didn't blame me."

Shortly thereafter, Anderson pulled his players off the field. Bowie Kuhn, the baseball commissioner, and Chub Feeney, the National League president, both were at the game and after the Reds left the field and the crowd in left field continued acting ugly, Feeney left his box seat, and called into the Mets' dugout for some of the Mets to come out and try to quiet down the fans in the left field sector.

Rusty Staub, who had two homers his first two times up, volunteered along with Tom Seaver, Cleon Jones, Willie Mays and manager Yogi Berra. All walked out toward left field, talked to the fans

Ray Crumbliss was named president of the Twin Falls Men's Golf Association at the group's reorganization meeting Sunday.

Dick Reed and Keith Kelly will be first and second vice presidents with Chuck Pottel secretary.

Wet field results in Oakland postponement

OAKLAND (UPI)—A wet field and the prospect of more rain Monday resulted in the third game of the American League Championship series between the Baltimore Orioles and Oakland A's being called off and rescheduled for Tuesday.

American League President Joe Cronin inspected the field at the Oakland Coliseum twice, the first time about an hour before the scheduled 12:30 p.m. PDT start, and the second a half hour later. After the second tour, he decided play was impossible because of wet conditions.

As a result, the third game now will be played Tuesday with the fourth on Wednesday and the fifth, if necessary, on Thursday. The two teams are tied in victories with one apiece.

Earl Weaver, the Orioles' manager, was especially disappointed when play was called off Monday.

"We really didn't want rain," said Weaver, "because I hate to see Jim Hunter come back in the fifth game with three days rest."

Hunter stopped the Orioles Sunday in pitching the A's to a 6-3 victory that knotted the best-of-five series.

Ken Holtzman, a 21-game winner during the regular season, remains the A's third game pitcher on Tuesday and Weaver plans to stick with 18-game winner Mike Cuellar. They were supposed to have opposed each other Monday.

There were less than 10,000 people in the 51,000 seat Coliseum when Cronin called the game off. The A's had anticipated a crowd of around 40,000 but it has been raining lightly but steadily in the area since Saturday.

Since the World Series doesn't start until this Saturday, Cronin said he thought it was best not to take any chances on possible injuries because of the poor condition of the field.

The weather forecast was for some cloudiness and clearing skies Tuesday and warming temperature. It was about 55 degrees Monday.

Dick Williams, the A's skipper, wasn't any happier than Weaver with the postponement.

"I didn't think they waited

Washington topples Dallas on late TD

ABA trustees pass measure concerning no-foul-outs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Billy Owens raced 26 yards with an interception for the winning touch down with 2:33 to play and the Ken Houston made a game-saving tackle with 24 seconds left Monday night to carry the Redskins to a 14-7 victory over the previously unbeaten Dallas Cowboys.

The TD snapped a 7-7 tie which Washington had achieved only 1 minute 6 seconds earlier when veteran Sonny Jurgensen tossed a one-yard touchdown pass to Charley Taylor for the Redskins' first score of the game.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The trustees of American Basketball Association Monday passed the revolutionary and controversial no-foul-out rule for regular season games and playoffs in 1973-74.

Nicklaus coasts to win in Ohio-Kings tourney

KINGS MILL, Ohio (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus, who went into the final round with a nine shot lead, shot a one over par 72 Monday and coasted to victory in the $125,000 Ohio-Kings Island Open Golf Tournament with a 72-hole score of 271. He then gave away the prize money.

Nicklaus, whose victory was the 50th in his career on the PGA tour, won by six shots over runner-up Lee Trevino, who had a final round of three under 68 for a 277 total.

Tom Weiskopf, who was paired with Nicklaus and Trevino in a dream final round matchup, finished tied for third with Andy North at 281 after shooting an even par 71. North had a two under 69 in the final round.

Another shot back was Tom Kite, who had a 68 Monday, followed by John Lister at 283.

But Dallas' Mark Washington recovered a punt which accidentally had touched a Redskins player on the 31 with 1:57 left, and the Cowboys drove to the four. Three Morton passes were incomplete but on fourth down he threw to Walt Garrison who caught the ball at the two.

Houston wrestled Garrison down at the one-yard line to preserve the victory.

The only Dallas touchdown came in the second period when Otto Stowe speared a 15-yard pass from Roger Staubach in the end zone.

Staubach came up with a charity horse in his leg midway through the third period after completing 9 of 17 passes for 161 yards. He returned for one series but sat out the rest of the game, and Morton completed only 4 of 14.

The game-saving tackle by Houston was typical of the fierce defensive play that prevailed on both sides in the contest which saw the Redskins pull into a tie for the NFC Eastern Division lead with the Cowboys.

The rule will be in effect when the ABA starts its regular season Wednesday night. The vote wasn't disclosed but it took a majority of the 10 owners to pass the new rule. The action was taken by a conference call involving the 10 owners.

The rule reads: "no player will be disqualified because of the number of personal fouls he may accumulate during a game and overtime periods. When a player commits his seventh or succeeding fouls, the offended team will retain possession of the ball after the offended player attempts and free throw or free throws which he is awarded."

The rule was put in effect on an experimental basis in the exhibition season.

Jim Chones of the Carolina Cougars got 32 and 10 fouls on consecutive nights last week for the most fouls charged to a single player in the exhibition season. No other player got more than seven fouls. About 50 players received six or more a player fouled out when he was charged with his sixth foul.

Some skeptics said the rule would increase fouling in the game. But an ABA study of the exhibition games showed that fouls were up less than one per cent over last year's pre-season play.

Mike Storen, the commissioner of the ABA, said, "I'm very happy that the trustees have seen fit to adopt this new rule."

Secretariat wins easily

NEW YORK (UPI) — Meadow Stable's Secretariat, racing over a turf course for the first time, smashed the Belmont Park grass record for 1 1/2 miles Monday when the Triple Crown winner won the $113,600 Man O'War stakes by five lengths.

With the familiar Ron Turcotte on his broad back, Secretariat charged over the course in 2:24.4 to clip three-fifths of a second of the previous record of 2:25.2-5 set by Drumpton on June 12, 1971. That gave the big, red colt a stranglehold on the 1 1/2 mile records at the race track.

Nicklaus said the scholarship would go to "a golf-minded boy from southwestern Ohio, but not necessarily a golfer."

Nicklaus, who had a 75 washed out when the first round was postponed by rain Thursday, has now won six tournament titles this year, including the PGA championship. The first prize money boosted his 1973 earnings to $278,124, pushing him past former leader Bruce Crampton by more than $4,000. Crampton was not entered in the tournament here.

Carroll Righter
FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Grasp the new and forget the old at present, for many apparently insoluble problems connected with unfinished projects require some time before finishing. There are all kinds of possibilities in a new set of constructive circumstances now coming to your attention—keep wide awake.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) A newcomer can now give you the right slant for gaining your finest aims. Avoid one who is depressing. Plan a trip that can be pleasurable.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Got into new interests that could lead into something very worthwhile. Reach a better understanding with a bigwig. Use tact handling difficult situation of long standing.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go after the information you require for a new interest. Study newspaper for new ideas you need a good day for advancement.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find modern methods that can help make your operations far more efficient, profitably. Forget argument with loved one and make life pleasant. Cheer others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Find some new associate who can add new life to present operations. Discuss ideas carefully. Steer clear of an ally who is unreasonable today. Take mate out.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Find new system that will help you plow through all that work efficiently. Take new health treatments that can be helpful and make you more dynamic, charming.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) Get together with allies and improve some project so that it becomes truly successful. Get about-and study, more modern trends. Drive with care and improve diet.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Get out of that rut and investigate new interests that could prove profitable. Buy the few accessories that will improve your wardrobe. Do nothing impulsive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Enjoy favorite recreations. Try to please your mate more. Come to a true understanding and be happy. A good day for making recordings.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Some new approach at home can make a whole of a difference and get excellent results. Buy new furnishings for home. Invite friends in tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Your mind is keen and you can put across excellent deals, start a better working method. Make notations of new ideas to remember them. Command a greater income.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) Read trade, business journals for information needed to have a greater income. Talk to that business person you have long avoided. He's not as way-out as you think.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those youngsters who will do well in New Era professions, so slant the education along such lines and at the right schools. The mind here is excellent and the willingness to work hard is apparent early. The inventive bent is pronounced also and humanity could be much benefitted by such. Give the spiritual training early that brings inspiration. Make sure the diet is right during childhood.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Shoes, they're the apparel that costs the average model the most money. Maybe she can get by with a half a dozen slips, bras, girdles, a dozen pairs of stockings, six suits, six cocktail dresses and a couple of long evening gowns. But she needs about 20 pairs of shoes in perfect condition. Usually she's expected to supply her own. And they've got to be a superior sort.

Look, miss, I'm not going to ask if you think you've got particularly heavy thighs, certainly not. But the surveytakers did indeed ask a lot of women that impudent query. And two out of five replied yes.

The undergarment makers report about one half of all the grown girls under age 40 you see on the streets these days are wearing padded bras.

One out of four grown women nationwide shampooes her hair every other day.

YELLOW
 Q. 'Who first came to the conclusion that black or yellow was the best attention-attracting color scheme for street signs?'
 A. Don't know that, but do know, whoever it was, said gonjys was also the soul who inspired John D. Hertz to originate the notion of painting taxicabs yellow.

Q. 'You said there are more places in Great Britain called "Cold Harbour" than called anything else. What are the most places in the United States with the same name called?'
 A. Summit. With at least 70 such spots.

Q. 'My granddad, still a lively old gent, was born in 1890. What was a man's life expectancy then?'
 A. Just 48 years, young fellow. Regards to your granddad.

ALAN LADD
 A feminine client, who says TV movies have caused her to fall in love posthumously with that fancy actor Alan Ladd, asks his height. He stood 5-foot-6-inch. Ladd was one of numerous Hollywood heartthrobs considerably shorter than heros are expected to be. Like John Garfield. The earlier John Gilbert. Audie Murphy, too. Charles Boyer. And the great James Cagney.

Median age of that man who immigrates to this country now is 26 years. Of that woman, 24.8 years. Were you aware that 43 per cent of the money you spend on soft drinks and throw-away bottles goes to pay for the glass? Investigation reveals 18 per cent of all forcible rape reports turn out to be phony, says the FBI.

The upcoming year of 1974 will begin on a Tuesday. It will have 53 Tuesdays in all. Every year has 53 of the day it begins on.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market showed strength in the past several weeks, Tuesday opened mixed in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was off 0.30 at 977.35 shortly after the opening. But advances led declines, 167 to 02, among the 302 issues traded. Volume amounted to 510,000 shares.

The strength of the market, as shown Monday with the mid-session rally, has encouraged many investors. Also encouraging was the volume which was heavy despite Columbus Day holiday.

A major factor weighing on the market, however, is the war in the Middle East. Some analysts say they are a bit nervous about the effects the conflict could have on some investors, particularly those involved in oil stocks.
