Report on crisis by Nixon hinted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, described as confident there are "no grounds" to impeach him, worked quietly in his office today, with indications he was preparing a report to the nation shortly — perhaps in a nationally televised speech — to explain the firing of Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Nixon's legal advisers were preparing to submit to U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica on Tuesday, a formal document advising that in their view the president had provided adequate compliance with Sirica's order that the Watergate tapes be turned over to him.

Officials said that Nixon felt Cox's position was intolerable and felt "in retrospect the establishment of a special prosecutor's office was an error."

White House staff members and secretaries made dozens of telephone calls Sunday, polling congressmen and local Republican leaders on their reaction to Nixon's course.

Israel accepts cease-fire

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israel announced its acceptance today, with conditions, of the U.N. Security Council's Middle East cease-fire and ordered its troops to stop fighting on the Egyptian front if the Egyptians do at 6:50 p.m. (10:50 p.m. MDT). Noting that Cairo had accepted the standstill truce, the Israeli announcement said that, in accordance with the U.S. Soviet-sponsored Security Council resolution, it had ordered its troops to stop fighting, too, provided Cairo kept its word.

Malta oil test 'dry hole'

MALTA — The oil well near Malta may be plugged this week and the drilling rig moved to a new location in the area. Al Griffith, president of Standard American said Monday the drill, located about one-half mile north of Sirella, has reached a depth of 7,000 feet in a search for gas or oil. If the drill does not hit the oil or gas within the next few days, he said, the well will be plugged and the rig will be moved to another location in the same area.

Boy 'serious'

PAUL — A 13-year-old Paul boy was in serious condition this morning at Cassia County Memorial hospital following an accident Sunday afternoon south of Paul.

Bolivia goes after guerrillas

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — President Hugo Banzer threatened to mount a "military operation" against a band of Tupamaro guerrillas today unless they accept a safe conduct deal and release five hostages from a hijacked Argentine airliner.

Banzer gave the Uruguayan guerrillas until 4 a.m. MDT to release the hostages and accept safe conduct out of the country. He said guerrilla demands for a getaway plane would be refused.

Saigon war toll 10,000

Impeachment considered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The possibility exists that for the second time in the history of the United States, Congress will seriously consider impeaching a president to remove him from office.

At least four Democrats and one Republican said over the weekend they intend to introduce impeachment resolutions in the House because of President Nixon's dismissal of Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox and what they see as his decision to ignore a court order to release tapes of his Watergate conversations.

Congress is not in session until Tuesday because of the Veterans Day holiday.

Impeachment, similar to a criminal indictment, is brought by a majority vote of the House and limited by the Constitution to "treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors."

The Senate then sits as a jury with the Chief Justice of the United States presiding. The 17th president, Andrew Johnson, was impeached in 1868, but the Senate failed by one vote to muster the two-thirds vote required for conviction.

Only 12 government officials and judges have been impeached. Four were convicted. Speaker Carl Albert, who would be president if Nixon were removed before a new president is confirmed, has said he will not comment on the possibilities of impeachment until Tuesday. An aide to House Democratic Whip John McFall of California said the leadership would meet before Tuesday's session to discuss the situation.

McFall, who opposed impeachment moves last fall, said: "Congress cannot allow Nixon to defy the courts. We should look very seriously at beginning impeachment proceedings."

House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill said he has talked with a "considerable number" of representatives and "we've all talked about impeachment." Dozens of members, most of them Democrats, also volunteered their opinions, called for impeachment. Others urged Nixon to resign. Some defended Nixon and others reserved judgment.

Spanish flood claims 200

PUERTO LUMBRERAS, Spain (UPI) — Authorities said today at least 200 persons died in a weekend of massive flooding and unofficial reports put the death toll as high as 500 with thousands of others homeless.

The floods were the worst disaster in the country in more than a decade.

The stricken area stretched from the fruit groves of Murcia in eastern Spain to the southern Costa del Sol, where about 50 persons died in the small resort town of La Rabita.

Sirica studying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Described as "disturbed over the turn of events," Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica was reported closely studying today what his next move will be in the raging dispute over President Nixon's secret tape recordings on Watergate.

An informed source who asked not to be identified said Sirica had looked into the procedure for possibly citing the President for contempt of court. But the source said this was not something that Sirica was likely to do immediately.

A court official said that the U.S. Court of Appeals probably would formally return to Sirica today or Tuesday jurisdiction over the tapes suit.

"That would require some sort of response from the White House," the official said. "What that response would have some effect on what he (Sirica) does."

White House officials contend that a Nixon agreement with Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., chairman and vice-chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, fulfilled suggestions that the Court of Appeals made for a compromise.

Ervin sees new prosecutor

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Senate Watergate Committee Chairman Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., predicts there will be an effort to replace fired Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox with a congressional prosecutor protected by law.

"There'll probably be a genuine effort on the part of Congress to take and set up a special prosecutor under special law," he told newsmen Saturday night before leaving for a short vacation in the Virginia mountains.

Cease-fire set in Mideast war

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The Security Council passed a joint U.S. Soviet proposal for an "in-place" Middle East cease-fire early today, giving Israel and the Arabs 12 hours of daylight to consolidate their positions.

The council, meeting in a three-hour emergency session, voted 14-0 for the cease-fire resolution. It was the first Middle East proposal agreed upon by Moscow and Washington since the state of Israel was founded in 1948.

China refused to join in the vote. Ambassador Huang Hua accused "the two superpowers" of hurriedly cooking up a resolution that would allow them to maintain a "no war-no peace" posture in the Middle East.

Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah announced conditional acceptance of the cease-fire, to take effect 12 hours after its adoption. The measure passed at 10:50 a.m. MDT—6:50 p.m.

TF building focus shifts

TWIN FALLS — Building emphasis switched from residential to commercial in Twin Falls this year.

Over the first nine months of 1973, the value of construction was only slightly below the level of the same period in 1972, but the valuations listed on building permits issued for commercial construction soared more than $700,000 in that time.

Valuation of permits issued for single-family residential construction the same period a year ago, according to a report published by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Total building valuations for the first nine months of 1973 are $3,088 million down $3,020 from $5,089 million in the comparable period of 1972.

Single-family residential construction permits totalled $1,665 million this year, a drop of $841,000 from $2,506 million in the first nine months of 1972. Multi-family dwelling construction in 1973 totalled $350,000, down $40,000 from $405,000 in the same period in 1972.

New commercial construction the first three quarters of 1973 was valued totalled $2,669 million, a jump of $793,240 from the same period in 1972. The total then was $1,876 million.

Commercial alterations also showed a $49,441 increase this year, at $182,007 compared with $132,566 in 1972.

Other categories contained in the listing showed:

Residential alterations, $98,304 in 1973, up $6,742 from $91,562 a year ago.

Miscellaneous, $55,009 in 1973, up $21,962 from $33,047 in 1972. Garages, $45,500 in 1973, up $7,150 from $38,350 in 1972. Carports, $19,503, up $7,833 from $11,750 in 1972. Patios, $4,557, up $257 from $4,300 in 1972.

Major commercial construction in Twin Falls during the first three quarters of the year included two large insurance office buildings, a radio station, a new store on the mall downtown, a motel and convention center, a food market, drive-in restaurants, and an addition to a mattress factory.

TF grassland burns

KIMBERLY — About 40 acres of grassy wasteland south of Kimberly burned Sunday evening before firemen brought the blaze under control.

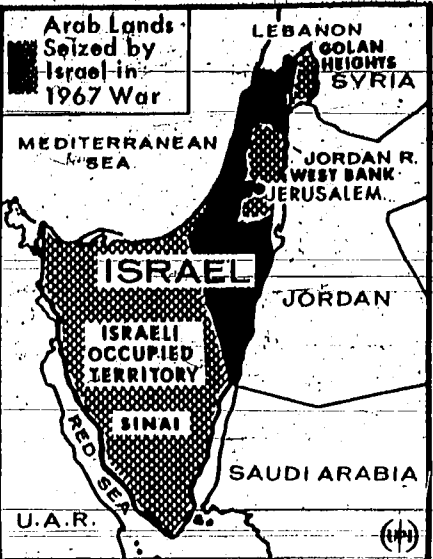

Kimberly city work superintendent Bob Vawser said today the fire, on "the butte" about 5 miles south of Kimberly, may have been started by a cigarette flipped into the grass.

Vawser said the blaze started about 7:15 p.m. and was brought under control by backfiring about 9:20 p.m. There were no damages or injuries, he said. The Kimberly Volunteer Fire Department responded to the fire.

Middle East time, giving the opposing forces all day to secure their positions.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed Hassan El-Zayyat was not as explicit, but Egyptian sources said Cairo would accept the cease-fire subject to its interpretation of the council's Resolution 242 of Nov. 22, 1967, on which today's proposal was partly based. Egypt maintains that the 1967 measure calls for complete Israeli withdrawal from all Arab territory occupied in the six-day war in June of that year. Israel contends the extent of the withdrawal is a matter for negotiation.

The resolution, introduced by U.S. Ambassador John Scalf on behalf of the United States and the Soviet Union, was worked out with Kremlin leaders by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in Moscow. Kissinger left Moscow today en route to Tel Aviv to urge quick Israeli acceptance of the U.N. proposal.

The measure:

- Calls on Israel and the Arabs to end all military activity not later than 12 hours after adoption of the resolution "in the positions they now occupy."
- Calls on the warring parties immediately following the cease-fire to begin implementation of Resolution 242.

—Decides that concurrently with the cease-fire, negotiations start between Israel and the Arabs "under appropriate auspices" aimed at a "just and durable" peace.

Scalf said the United States and the Soviet Union stood ready to act as the "appropriate auspices." Other council members said peace negotiations should be under the aegis of the United Nations. Diplomatic sources said U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim was willing to volunteer.

Scalf said that in the U.S. Soviet view, the cease-fire "applies not only to the parties directly concerned, but also to those who have joined in the fighting by sending units."

He did not make clear whether that applied to massive U.S. and Soviet arms buildups to Israel and the Arabs respectively. British and French delegates demanded that such arms shipments cease.

El-Zayyat said Egypt insisted on preservation of Arab lands, recognition of territorial rights of the Palestinian Arabs and reaffirmation of the inadmissibility of acquisition of territory by force.

Tekoa said the cease-fire must apply not only to countries accepting it but also to all forces operating on their territory, such as Palestinian guerrillas in Arab lands.

Watergate upheaval now crisis

John W. Dean III, a former presidential counsel who has confessed to plotting the Watergate cover-up, says the tapes must reveal that Nixon conspired in the cover-up during the spring, summer and fall of 1972. Nixon says they will establish the opposite.

Nixon may go on television, aides said, to rally support and stave off a move in the House to impeach and in the Senate to try him for "high crimes and misdemeanors."

Speaking on a not-for-tribution basis, White House officials say Nixon came to feel Cox was biased and "intolerable" and had set himself up as "a fourth branch of government." They said Nixon now thought it was a mistake ever to agree to permit such an office to come into being.

So when Nixon proposed the Stennis verifier compromise and Cox rejected it and threatened to seek a court order holding Nixon in contempt of court, Nixon had Cox fired.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson, who had promised Cox total independence, would not issue the dismissal order and resigned instead.

Deputy Attorney General William D. Ruckelshaus, another loyal workhorse of the administration, likewise refused because "my conscience will not permit me to carry out your instruction to discharge Archibald Cox." Before Ruckelshaus could quit, Nixon fired him.

That left Solicitor General Robert H. Bork, 46, who had been a Yale law professor until last June, as acting attorney general. Under orders, Bork fired Cox. This all occurred on one historic Saturday night.

Sunday brought brilliant autumn sunshine to Washington. Richardson jogged from his home with his dogs to buy the Sunday newspapers; Cox took a hike along the Potomac's Great Falls; Ruckelshaus went fishing in Chesapeake Bay. Their leisure belied the crisis which had set in.

Nixon was at his desk by 8:45 a.m.; MDT, communicating with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in Moscow and laying the groundwork for the joint Soviet-American resolution in the United Nations calling for a cease-fire in the Middle East War. It was the kind of high level activity which Nixon hoped the nation would come to see as far more important than what he once called "wallowing in Watergate."

Dean has sworn before the Senate Watergate committee that a truthful transcript would show that as early as Sept. 15, 1972, three months after the break-in at Democratic headquarters, Nixon in conversation with Dean revealed knowledge of the cover-up attempts by high officials of the administration.

Nixon has denied this repeatedly, but asserted that the tapes were ambiguous and subject to varying interpretations.

Seen... and overheard, "Nixon wants to get on with running the nation," then turns around and ties Congress up for months in confirmation hearings."

Question... My wife and I no longer have a home of our own; we visit among our children in several states. When either of us passes away will we be subject to the estate tax laws of the state in which we are currently living?

Answer... The problem of multiple domiciles doesn't matter much as far as Federal estate taxes are concerned, but it does make a difference in those states that levy an inheritance tax. There is no one positive length-of-time which creates residency for you within a state. Actually this can vary within a state from as little as two weeks for voting eligibility to as long as 35 years to qualify for an old age pension.

In general, however, you are a legal resident of the state in which you regularly cast a ballot or in which more than 50% of your assets are located. Another reliable indicator is the address you have used with some degree of regularity for Federal income tax filing purposes. Obviously these qualifications are changeable and some people these days are shopping for a legal residence that will minimize their state inheritance tax liability.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon had planned to spend the weekend with his family and close friend Charles G. "Boo" Rebozo at Camp David. Nixon spent Sunday secluded from the public, conferring with his staff and discussing the possibility of a nationwide television appearance explaining the weekend's shattering events. # Idaho Demos shocked over Cox firing

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's leading Democrats, still shocked over the resignation of vice president Spiro Agnew, have expressed disbelief in president Nixon's firing of Archibald Cox, William D. Ruckelshaus, and the loss of Attorney General Elliot Richardson.

"My only comment is that these men were among the last in the administration whose reputations for integrity still warranted confidence," said Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho. "There is only one way to describe this situation," Church said. "It is a tragedy to the republic."

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., who was in Boise attending a fund raising dinner for Church, said the events and the president's firing of Cox and Ruckelshaus was "outrageous."

Asked about impeaching the president, Mansfield said that was a matter for the House and he said it would only come to him in the Senate if the house initiated it.

"I am greatly distressed with the events of this afternoon," Mansfield said. "This takes me totally by surprise," Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said.

But he added that the latest developments in the Watergate destroy any chance in the future for any solution to the whole Watergate affair.

James A. Bax, administrator of the State Department of Environmental and Community Services and once a close associate of Richardson, said the ex attorney general was one of Nixon's most loyal employees.

Bax worked for Richardson when he headed up the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Bax was a commissioner of community services in Washington, D.C. before coming to Idaho 16 months ago.

"He (Richardson) went the last mile with the President," Bax said. "He was a very moral guy. I guess he knew sooner or later he would have to make a choice."

Idaho's Republicans expressed "surprise" at Nixon's move against Cox and Ruckelshaus.

Marge Miner, state chairman of the Republican Party, said, "there have been a lot of surprises for everyone recently."

Mrs. Miner said she felt all along that the President should not release the Watergate tapes.

"I still feel these are private copies and they are his," she said.

Lieutenant Gov. Jack Murphy, who earlier this week announced he would seek the Republican nomination for governor, said he thought at "first blush" the President's compromise plan on revealing the contents of the tapes was proper.

"Indeed I am surprised," Murphy said upon hearing the news of the resignation and firings.

Idahoans hear crucial news

BOISE (UPI) — Many of the 1,500 persons attending a Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, fund raising dinner in Boise hissed and booed when Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., announced that President Nixon had fired Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox.

For many it was the first word that Cox and Deputy Attorney General William Ruckelshaus had been fired by the chief executive. It was also the first many had heard of Attorney General Elliot Richardson's resignation.

"The Watergate Committee is going to continue," Mansfield told the partisan crowd Saturday night. He said Democrats are tired of "dirty politics and violations of civil rights."

Mansfield, the main speaker at the Democrat gathering, said the Watergate situation was a case of men around the President who were interested in only one thing and that was power. They were men who said "to hell with the cause," Mansfield said.

The Montana Democrat said he could not find fault with the Presidents move to call members of the Watergate Committee for discussion of the tapes, because Mansfield had advocated that very thing months ago.

He said the Republic will stand in the weeks ahead, despite what has taken place and the U.S. Senate will act constructively to make sure it does.

He said there would be "no more snooping." He said there are limits in politics that must not be overstepped.

He added that perhaps out of the Watergate situation there may come a cleansing of the whole nation. He said in the future the people of the country will pay closer attention to what elected officials are doing.

Fiddlers plan '74 festival

WEISER, Idaho (UPI) — After a quick count of this year's receipts, the Weiser National Oldtime Fiddle Festival Committee has started planning for the 1974 festival.

Judge Parsons, secretary, said a committee is looking for a chairman for the 1974 festival.

Festival Chairman Bob Storm said the 1973 event was $5,045 net profit compared with the 1972 profit of $8,000.

He said the profit this year was down because more trophies and larger cash prizes were awarded.

Military gets salary increase

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Persons entering the military service have just received a basic $19 per month salary increase.

This was reported today by US Navy, Army and Marine Corps recruiting officers here. The seaman or private, depending on the branch of service, now enters the service with no previous military experience at $326 per month base pay as of Oct. 1. Prior to the new raise, he entered at $307.30.

This compares with the new enlisted man of five years ago who received only $90 and with the enlisted man of 10 years ago who was paid $78 per month.

These salaries are in addition to the military provisions for medical, housing, food and clothing needs which service personnel are furnished while in the service of their country.

In addition to the salary increase as the serviceman's rank goes up, it also increases on a basis of years of service.

A private first class or seaman apprentice would receive $383 per month under the new pay scale, compared to $342 prior to the raise. Other enlisted personnel salaries now include light corporal, $392.70 with two or less years of service; $398.40 with over two years; $414 over three years and a top pay of $430.

The sergeant would receive $408 if two years or less of service compared to $384 prior to the new raise. He now receives $444 a month for over two years service; $465, over three years; $473 over four years and $491.70 over six years.

A gunner sergeant, with the highest enlisted pay begins with $538 per month and was receiving $507 prior to this October. For over three years he receives $602.70 with six years service he will be receiving $645 per month. Ten years ago he would have received only $308 after 10 years service.

Not that too many people will reach that rank, says Marine Corps recruiter, S. Sgt. John M. Luna, but a full general now receives $2,756 per month or $3,170 after 16 years experience.

That same general in 1968 made $1,424 a month his first year and $1,531 after 10 years experience. In 1963 he made $1,200 the first two years and $1,300 after 10 years.

S. Sgt. Luna said many parents do not realize what the current pay scale for military enlistees is and most feel it is still about $90 a month making it difficult for the serviceman with a low rank to set aside something for use in education, business or for a home after leaving the service.

The new pay scale now in effect, he said, changes this old situation of low pay for the first year of service, he said.

The Story Behind The Airlift

(c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — Despite America's massive airlift of planes and ammunition to Israel, it would be a mistake to assume that the Nixon administration's objective is to assure another spectacular Israeli victory in the Middle East war.

Still, the Israelis, despite their losses, may be able to win the critical tank battle and even drive the Egyptians back across the Suez, but the feeling in official quarters here is that such a spectacular Israeli victory and Arab humiliation would merely restore the status quo.

strike against Moscow's clients. It's all a little byzantine and totally hostile to all those proclamations of peaceful cooperation between Nixon and Brezhnev, but that's what happens when principles and power conflict.

planes and ships to the Arab ports, under the watchful eyes of the American sixth fleet in the Mediterranean, and the U.S. has been sending C-140 and C-5A transports full of bombs to Israel.

together for a cease-fire with the Arab and Israeli forces "in place."

Washington is trying to persuade Israel that even if it wins the tank battle in the Sinai, the strategic problem for Israel has been "changed fundamentally by this war."

The official view here, right or wrong, is that Moscow is determined to provide the most sophisticated modern weapons to the Arabs, that the Arabs have the manpower and now the skill to use Soviet weapons, and that it is better to compromise than face the prospect of a war of attrition against the Arab millions, backed by Soviet modern weapons.

Obviously, the Israeli government rejects this thesis, but it is up against not Cairo or Damascus, but against Moscow and Washington. These big powers disagree about many things, but agree that Israel must pull back from Suez and begin negotiating and compromising and giving up much of the territory she captured in the 1967 war.

COMMENT The Right "Deal"

Portland Oregonian The instant debate which spread among Americans when Vice President Spiro T. Agnew resigned, pleaded no contest on a tax falsification charge and was fined $10,000 and set free for three years of unsupervised probation split this way:

Some said Agnew should have been convicted and sent to prison in the normal processes of justice; that the leniency shown him distorted the judicial processes in favor of a man of great prominence; that he benefited from treatment by the Department of Justice, approved by President Nixon, not available to ordinary citizens.

Others took a longer view, as did the President and Attorney General Elliot Richardson. Conceding at his press conference that the "deal" resulting from plea bargaining initiated by the vice president (when Agnew was loudly proclaiming his innocence and decision to stay in office even if indicted) was in one sense political, Richardson went to the heart of the matter. The political nature of the bargain refers to the operation of the government. The vice president is a relatively unimportant figure in the government, except in one respect. That is that he succeeds to the presidency if the president dies or is disabled or is impeached and removed from office.

subjected to the risk of succession of a vice president fighting in the courts against bribery, extortion and tax violation charges, if convicted and through appeals, for the remaining three years of his term. Not only the prospect of such a man becoming president, by succession, but the harmful effects of such a struggle on the effectiveness and public support for President Nixon, in a period of crushing domestic and foreign burdens, constituted an imminent national peril. Agnew himself recognized this danger which he had previously threatened to bring about by remaining in office.

While expressing sympathy for Agnew, both the President and Mr. Richardson shared the feeling of many Americans: Even knowing his guilt, it is a normal reaction to regret his weakness as a public official. But sympathy was not the primary motivation of the bargain which kept him out of prison. The primary reason was to get him out of the vice presidency, without years of struggle and division among the Agnew's personal freedom is of little consequence. With his burden of guilt and failure he is not likely to get any satisfaction from it. And the book has not been closed on his criminal involvement. But, at least, he is no longer a divisive official in the federal government, one breath away from the presidency.

Unspent Billions

St. Louis Post-Dispatch The Nixon administration has impounded so much money appropriated by Congress, in the professed desire to curb inflation, that no one knows how much is in the deep freeze, or whether it will ever be spent. Estimates of the sums withheld range from $9 billion to $18 billion.

This is money on paper, of course. It wasn't there when Congress appropriated it, for the annual deficit exceeds the credit. That may be one reason why withholding by the Office of Management and Budget, the No. 1 Scrooge in the views of members of Congress and state, county and city officials, has had no easily discernible effect in reducing inflation.

The administration has lost about a dozen cases in courts which ruled that it has no authority to stop the spending of money appropriated by Congress. But it goes right on doing it while appeals drag through higher courts. The Supreme Court has just refused to take original jurisdiction in a suit filed by Georgia, which says it has $65 million coming, in an effort to get a final ruling on what many lawyers and judges consider an abuse of executive power.

The administration, oddly enough, joined Georgia in asking the highest court to take original jurisdiction. The administration must have more confidence in the "Nixon Court" than it has in lower courts.

What would happen if the administration let loose of the $9 billion to $18 billion, after borrowing the equivalent to replace the money that isn't there? More inflation, maybe. But that seems to be what nearly everyone is asking for. George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, demanded the other day that President Nixon end all wage and price controls immediately. A day earlier the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers made the same appeal. President Nixon could hardly be blamed if he gave all these critics what they're asking and let the devil take the hindmost.

Post-Watergate

Christian Science Monitor Sometimes it seems like whistling in the dark to say that the Watergate ordeal can have positive results for America. But encouragement came in former Vice-President Agnew's farewell TV address. Though it echoed the self-justifying tone of much Watergate testimony, it recognized "the new post-Watergate political morality."

Judged by this morality, Mr. Agnew said, perhaps he did permit my fund-raising activities and my contract-dispensing activities to overlap in an unethical and unlawful manner. In plain English, this appears to mean that illegalities which used to be acceptable to a politician like Mr. Agnew are now seen to be unacceptable. Perhaps it is not whistling in the dark to suppose that, as long as the post-Watergate morality lasts, officials on every level will think twice before indulging in such practices.

"Will the recent events form the crucible out of which a new system of campaign financing is forged, a system in which public funding for every political candidate removes an opportunity for evil or the appearance of evil? I hope so," said Mr. Agnew.

"Will the furor about campaign contributions dramatize the need for state and local governments, across the country to close the loopholes in their laws which invite abuse or suspicion of abuse in letting lucrative contracts to private business? Again, I hope so."

PETER LISAGOR

A Comment On Current Affairs

(c) Chicago Daily News WASHINGTON President Nixon supposedly maintains a strong and taut leash on his emotions. He is not known for gushing his teeth, chewing on rugs, or stalling the corridors of the White House in turmoil or tears.

But there must be moments when he would like to go to the roof of the executive mansion and shriek his rage at the gods who offer him no success from his woes. With Hauplet he must feel that "when sorrows come, they come not single spies, but in battalions."

A war in the Middle East, involving client states of both nuclear superpowers, could hardly be considered a portent of some new dawn. Yet, despite the incendiary character of the Arab-Israeli struggle, which frayed the bonds of detente, raised new fears of an oil shortage and deepened ancient traumas, Nixon felt himself on familiar terrain. Able to lift his gaze to the scaffolding of peace he has so often hailed. But even as he received four Arab foreign ministers and brought them before the cameras in the Rose Garden, speaking in the language of conciliation, the grave tableau was not distracting enough to eclipse other problems, other disappointments, other woes.

His spokesmen were besieged with questions about a $100,000 campaign contribution from the billionaire recluse Howard Hughes, money which the President's friend Bebe Rebozo has inexplicably slashed away in safety deposit boxes for a couple of years, and then returned to Hughes, according to Rebozo's account to Senate Watergate committee investigators. Large sums of secret cash float across Nixon's political career like lurid streamers across the sky, drawn by unseen engines and for mystifying ends.

Nixon's vice presidential nominee, Gerald Ford of Michigan, awarded in an oddly festive White House ceremony which cast the disgrace of Spiro Agnew in an eerie light indeed, faced delays in the House and Senate confirmation process as many members did not know whether to cheer or cry.

Ford, a genial man who will cause no soaring of the national spirit, was cut of Nixon cloth, a conservative gray. He is not charged with the adrenalin of ambition, at least for the present, and will be a most obedient servant. The weak and unfocused Democratic leadership in Congress is capable of attempting to hold Ford as a hostage, his confirmation tied to the release of the President's Watergate tapes, but it would be misguided and would, in the end, boomerang to Nixon's advantage.

But the whoops of delight heard in the East Room the night of Ford's selection have drifted off into the night, and the querulous sounds of a scandal-obsessed capital are heard again.

In his private musings, the President must hear the gods cackling with an ironic glee over the fact that Henry A. Kissinger, not Richard M. Nixon, was a co-recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize. The new eminence of the man Nixon chose as the new Secretary of State could even overshadow the President's grab for the brass ring of "a generation of peace." The President surely nourished the dream that he might be tapped for the prize, which not only would honor his initiatives toward Peking and the Kremlin but compensate for the ignominy of Watergate and a disgraced White House staff and for the Agnew shock.

Now all that needs to happen is for Kissinger to establish a kind of foreign-policy regency which would settle the middle east conflict, restore detente to the favor it enjoyed before the Arabs and Israelis resumed the war, and open up China to new and profitable ventures for American entrepreneurs. The noble laureate is sustained by a boundless faith in his own wisdom and works, and he has merrily admitted that he suffers from what might be described as elephantiasis of the ego, a condition which will hardly be eased by the award.

Kissinger's reputation for performing prodigies of diplomacy is such that some of his colleagues truly believe that one reason the Arab armies struck was because he was elevated to head the state department. Cairo and Damascus probably cracked with rumors that he would apply his wizardry to their dispute with the Israeli. That led them to try to bite off some of the territory they lost in 1967, so that when Kissinger put his mind to the area, they would be in a better position to dicker, or so Kissinger's clique asserts.

Under the circumstances, the President could be excused if he shook a wrathful fist at the heavens for the hand he has been dealt — or has dealt himself.

Mind In Disarray?

Editor, Times-News: This is in regard to the column by Lester Kinsolving which appeared in the October 14 issue of the Times-News. After suffering through the insufferable prose of the Rev. Kinsolving, I had to ask myself "Whose mind is in disarray? Congressman Symms', as Kinsolving alleges, or Lester Kinsolving's?"

Kinsolving's attack on our Idaho Congressman for being a GOP apostate was far out of line. From less biased accounts of the press statements made by the two men, I sense very little partisanship at all. Is it partisan to lament unfair and unjust treatment by those

Justice Department officials who allowed "leaks" to the press? Is it partisan to point out that Agnew was confronted by charges of criminal conduct in the media before he was notified by the Justice Department? Kinsolving's conclusion seems to have been what he himself terms the "product of an imagination-run wild!"

The Right Irreverent Kinsolving's moral indignation at "a national cancer," "a national stench," "stinking corruption in high places" and "a self-confessed cheat," is discredited by its own attitude of benign neglect toward the outrageous Justice Department leaks during the Agnew episode and his scathing attack on Agnew for trying to confront his accusers in the press.

The last three paragraphs of Kinsolving's article, in which he tries to depict Congressman Steve Symms as a "court jester" and a "dancing bear," were appalling — and bordering upon being libelous! To base an attack of a man's entire performance on just one press statement is indeed "the trippery of a mind in disarray!" One wonders if this "dancing bear" is the same Steve Symms who warned of the dire consequences of the Russian grain deal way back in June, the same Symms who sports a 94.7 per cent attendance record, the same Symms who has been waging war on bureaucratic usurpation of individual freedoms, and the same Symms who has abided by his campaign promises. If Steve Symms is a "dancing bear," I just wish we had a lot more "dancing bears" back in Congress — I'd like that kind of music!

I'm consoling myself with the fact the Rev. Kinsolving is working as a lay person in the public press. At least that protects me from hearing his drivelling diatribe from a pulpit and gunning the risk of believing it!

Makes Her Sick

Editor, Times-News: This commercial zoning of the Canyon rim makes me sick. I was born and raised in Idaho. I spent my married life in Oregon after my husband passed away I moved back to my native state which I love. While in Oregon on the coast the money people built fabulous homes on the coast and tried to fence the sides of the property so no one could use the beach in front of their homes. That was stopped in a hurry with not much fan fare, but here it seems we will end up with a merry-go-round or whatever the rich want!

The next move will be to put side-boards on the bridge so the natives can't even get a glimpse of the canyon. When I was a girl we used to picnic on Blue Lakes, but now the rich have taken that over with the country club. Shoshone Falls would be a nice place for the rich to do what they want, that will probably come next. Idaho doesn't seem to realize what they have in scenery, or care as long as someone's pockets are lined. The rim will soon be like Sun Valley, no place for the poor up there.

Second impeachment possible

Some believed events of the last few days would delay confirmation of House GOP leader Gerald R. Ford to replace Spiro T. Agnew as vice president, which had been considered shoo-in. "Under the circumstances I would say that Jerry is going to be caught up in this," said O'Neill. But Assistant Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, said: "I don't think Ford should be held a hostage. I think that would be a mistake. I think Ford's nomination should be considered on its merits."
Out of the first 40 House members who gave their opinions on the impeachment question, 31 Democrats and one Republican said or indicated they favored impeachment proceedings — which would not necessarily include final action. One Democrat and two Republicans said or indicated they opposed such proceedings.

A total of 22 Senators commented, and six Democrats and two Republicans said or indicated they favored impeachment proceedings. One Democrat and two Republicans indicated they opposed impeachment proceedings.
California Rep. Paul McCloskey, the antiwar Republican who ran against Nixon in early GOP primary elections in 1972, said Sunday in San Francisco that he would offer an impeachment resolution Tuesday. Democratic Reps. Jerome

Waldie of California, Warren Mitchell of Maryland, and New Yorkers Ogden Reid and Bella Abzug said they, too, planned resolutions. One impeachment resolution is apparently already pending in the House. It was introduced July 31 by Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass.
In Minneapolis, the Iupon Society, a liberal Republican group, called on the House to begin impeachment proceedings.
Waldie told UPI he had not yet drafted a specific list of charges, but "Obstruction of Justice is a crime where I come from and that's an impeachable offense."
"No man is above the law," said Reid, a former Republican, "and no president can be permitted to flout the decisions of two courts, endanger pending prosecutions and break a commitment to the Congress to insure an independent special prosecutor."

A White House aide, saying he had the authority to speak for the President, said in the opinion of Nixon's legal experts, "there are no grounds for impeachment."
Rep. James Quillen, R-Tenn., agreed, saying "impeachment is out of the question," along with Rep. Joel T. Broyhill, who also said that Nixon had the right to fire Cox.
According to House procedure, if a member insists on a vote for an impeachment resolution, no business may be conducted until a vote is taken. This happened in 1930 when 11 congressmen voted to impeach President Herbert Hoover.

A more likely route is an investigation by the House Judiciary Committee, Drinan says. He has asked the committee to consider his resolution.
Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., said Sunday he would introduce a bill to create a new office of independent prosecutor to be named by the U.S. District Court in Washington, and staffed off any confrontation. "Either to acknowledge the cancerous strain of corruption within our government or to impeach Nixon are unacceptable at the moment," Stevenson said.

Action settles course

SEN. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, said in a television interview Sunday "the President by his action yesterday pretty much wiped out the possibility of viable or non-viable alternatives for dealing with the constitutional crisis."
He spoke as demands for impeachment of President Nixon grew in wake of firing of Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox. (UPI)

Labor goes after Nixon

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Top AFL-CIO leaders today demanded the resignation or impeachment of President Nixon for his defiance of court orders and the firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.
The labor federation's executive council, meeting in an emergency session, adopted the resignation or impeachment resolution for presentation later in the day to the AFL-CIO convention meeting here.

Big decisions face Petersen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Direction of the prosecution of the Watergate case now returns to Assistant Attorney General Henry E. Petersen, who had it in the first place. He faces some big decisions.
Former Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox had withheld grand jury indictments, expected against several top ex-White House aides, until he could learn the outcome of his suit to obtain President Nixon's secret Watergate tape recordings and other documents.
Nixon fired Cox after the onetime solicitor general said he would continue to pursue his suit to obtain them despite Nixon's orders not to.
Now Petersen must decide whether to proceed with indictments, and he must anticipate what effect the tapes or absence of them might have on the cases. Presumably he will obey Nixon's orders not to try to get the tapes and the documents.

In addition to pursuing cases growing directly out of the break-in of the Democratic National Headquarters offices at the Watergate complex June 17, 1972, Petersen also must decide whether to pursue the violations of the campaign finance law by corporations and their executive officers. Cox got three pleas of guilty on this last week.
Petersen, the highest ranking career employe in the department, supervised the criminal investigation that led to Spiro T. Agnew's resignation as vice president Oct. 10 after pleading no contest to one count of income tax evasion.
Although Cox has been fired, the rest of the 31-member Watergate Special Prosecution Task Force — including 39 lawyers — has been transferred into the Justice Department. Petersen heads the department's criminal division.
About 35 persons attended a staff meeting after Cox' dismissal Saturday night. Spokesman James Doyle said not one person raised a hand when Deputy Prosecutor Henry Ruth asked who would not be on hand for work Tuesday.
"The message I want to get across today," Doyle said in a news briefing Sunday, "is that we are a criminal prosecution task force, we have reason to believe some serious crimes have been committed and we want to prosecute."
"We have some serious crimina" proceedings under way," Doyle said. "The people higher up are going to have to make some hard decisions."

Proceeding
SPOKESMAN for Watergate prosecution staff, James Doyle, said in Washington, D. C., Sunday that the staff will continue working on the "assumption" that some serious crimes have been committed and we will want to prosecute. The staff includes 81 persons, including 39 attorneys. (UPI)

Cox staff charged with intimidation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A source close to the White House claimed today that former Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox's staff intimidated Watergate defendants and their lawyers to force them to testify.
A spokesman for Cox's office said: "It is a preposterous lie. Our records of discussions with attorneys and prospective defendants are thorough ones, and we have been extra careful in protecting their rights."
The source, who declined to be quoted by name, said the Justice Department hopes to get affidavits from the intimidated witnesses to support the charges of impropriety.
"Details on the incidents will begin to surface by next week," the source said.
But the spokesman for Cox's office termed the report "a transparent attempt by anonymous sources to reflect on the integrity of Mr. Cox and his staff."

The source claimed that attorneys representing potential Watergate defendants were led to believe "that unless they abandoned their clients, they themselves would become targets for prosecution."
"On more than one occasion witnesses called to testify were told by Cox's staff not to bring their lawyers along."
"If the lawyers appeared," the witness was told "he would be viewed in a different light" by the special prosecutor's office, the source said.
Nixon fired Cox Saturday when Cox refused to accept Nixon's order to end his legal attempts to win court approval to examine secret presidential tape recordings involving Watergate. Cox's staff was incorporated into the Justice Department.

HENRY PETERSEN ... takes over probe

Ford nomination held 'hostage'

(c) Newhouse News Service.
WASHINGTON — The White House has been warned the nomination of vice president-designate Gerald R. Ford will be held "hostage" by the Democratic-controlled Congress until the Watergate tape controversy is resolved.
Moreover, high-ranking members of the Senate have sent word to President Nixon that he would be well-advised to delay naming a successor to former Attorney General Elliot Richardson lest that nominee suffer similar delaying tactics.
On the matter of a new attorney general, political observers here predicted that the President might encounter difficulty in convincing a lawyer of stature to accept such an appointment in the wake of the forced resignations of Richardson and deputy attorney general William Ruckelshaus and the firing of special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

But as the government headed toward the end of a three-day holiday weekend marked by tumultuous and historic developments, the ball clearly was in Congressional territory.
The Ford nomination must be approved by a simple majority of both houses; nominations within the Department of Justice are subject to confirmation only by the Senate.
These matters — darkened by the cloud of possible impeachment of the President — are on the agenda as congress returns Tuesday.

Bork checks views

(c) N. Y. Times Service.
WASHINGTON — Robert H. Bork, the acting attorney general, spent his first morning at the head of a stunned Justice Department discussing the future of the Watergate prosecutions with Henry E. Petersen, to whom control over the government's investigation has reverted because of the dismissal of Archibald Cox.
Afterward, he declined to meet with newsmen, saying that he would have a statement on the future of the Watergate case on Tuesday. Bork met later Sunday with other assistant attorneys general, including J. Stanley Pottinger, the head of the civil rights division.
There were unconfirmed reports of further resignations in the department, possibly including that of Pottinger, and some officials expressed fears this morning that there might be further dismissals, as well.

Petersen, who heads the Justice Department's criminal division, was relieved of his authority in the Watergate case five months ago, when Cox, a professor from Harvard Law School, was named special Watergate prosecutor.
It was Bork, who left Yale Law School to become the government's solicitor general, who discharged Cox last evening after Elliot L. Richardson had resigned as attorney general and William D. Ruckelshaus, his deputy was dismissed by President Nixon.

Israel drives Syrian troops off mountain top

By United Press International
Israel reported driving Syrian troops off a mountain top in the Golan Heights and turning back fierce Arab attacks in Egypt today with the warring sides launching all-out attacks hours before the superpowers' delicate-saving deadline to end the 17-day 1973 Middle East war.
Syria snit stiff hand-to-hand fighting was still going on for Mt. Hermon and Cairo said Israel's forces in Egypt were "besieged entirely" by Arab troops.
The U.N. Security Council adopted a joint U.S.-Soviet resolution early today calling for a mid-day cease-fire and Arab-Israeli talks toward "a just and durable peace."

Israel announced a conditional acceptance of the cease-fire proposal within minutes of the vote. Iraq, one of a half-dozen Arab nations taking part in the fighting, rejected the cease-fire. There was no immediate comment, however, from Egypt and Syria, the two principal Arab combatants.
The resolution—even if approved by all sides—might still not bring an immediate end to the fourth Middle East war in 25 years.
Political analysts said some of the warring countries might pay lip service to the cease-fire but accuse others of ignoring the truce and keep on fighting.

The two superpowers, in an apparent attempt to get their Middle East allies behind the plan, sent top officials to the region for talks with Arab and Israeli leaders.
The White House said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew from Moscow to Tel Aviv today to urge Israel to "hasten the full implementation" of the cease-fire resolution.
The Iraqi news agency said Syria Premier Alexei N. Kosygin flew to Cairo today for his second meeting in a week with Egyptian officials.
In the war, Israel said its crack Golan Brigade paratroopers recaptured a Syrian outpost on Mt. Hermon, a 9,232-foot peak, clearing the last Arabs out of the Golan Heights. The Syrians seized part of the peak from Israeli defenders on the first day of the war.
A Damascus communique, which insisted fighting was still going on, said fresh Israeli paratroopers landed on the hill early today to reinforce 400 commandos, flown in Sunday in 14 helicopters.
Israel said its troops on the northern front were in control of all territory held before the war and also occupied 300 square miles of new Syrian land.
Israel said its forces on the southern front seized a 475-square-mile slice of Egypt, but conceded Egyptian troops were still occupying most of the east bank of the Suez Canal in the Israeli-held Sinai Desert. The Israelis reported destroying more than 60 per cent of Arab tanks in the Sinai.
Egypt, however, said Arab troops on the southern front launched "unceasing and successive attacks" on both banks of the 102-mile-long canal and the Israeli forces were "fighting desperately."

Solons expect Nixon to veto

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In the midst of renewed uproar over Watergate, President Nixon faces another legislative test in the coming days over his anticipated veto of a bill to regulate his warring powers. He probably will win.
An unlikely coalition of administration loyalists and antiwar congressmen is expected to help sustain the veto, expected Tuesday or Wednesday.
It is anticipated Nixon will argue that the bill would tie his hands in situations like the current war in the Middle East. It would limit to a maximum 90 days the length of time a president could deploy U.S. troops overseas without specific congressional assent.
Many liberals oppose the bill because they believe it would write into law more presidential power to make war than now exists in the Constitution, which says that only Congress can declare war.

As the experience in Vietnam demonstrated, the lack of a formal declaration of war did not deter three presidents from committing Americans to combat.
The bill, intended to deal with the anomaly, would permit a president to commit U.S. troops to combat under certain conditions for 90 days without approval from Congress and for another 30 days simply by declaring, he cannot withdraw them any earlier.
The House gave final congressional approval to the bill Oct. 12. The vote was 238-123, three votes short of the two-thirds necessary to override. The Senate vote was 75-20, well over the necessary two thirds, but that chamber was not expected to get a chance to vote on an override because it was expected to be defeated when the House votes first next month.

Government bans 1,500 new toys

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government has a new list of banned toys for shoppers to avoid during the holiday buying season, and it's more than half again as long as last year's.
With the pre-Christmas buying surge already in swing, the Consumer Product Safety Commission has compiled a list of over 1,500 banned products. Last year some 800-plus items were listed.
The items, although banned from sale, sometimes appear on store shelves anyway. They range from pumpkin and cat-shaped Halloween candy containers with dangerous nails to toy stuffed bears with sharp, barbed eyes. There are also toy poodles with sharp wires in the tail and child-sized xylophones with sharp edges.
Eighty per cent of the nation's toy sales take place in October, November and December, the commission said. The list is available at the commission's regional offices and Washington headquarters, at no cost.
The commission tests toys for three things—sharp points, sharp edges and small parts. One or a combination of those hazards, when exposed by tests, can result in the toy being banned.
A baby's rattle, for example, may be dropped by commission testers to determine if it will break open, spilling its contents and exposing them, as well as the sharp plastic edges, to the baby. In general the tests attempt to determine what will happen to toys when they are used—and abused—by children.

Eyes are pulled from stuffed animals; toys are subjected to impact tests; dolls are ripped apart to expose nails and pins. Some of the more recent additions to the list are imported dolls and more plastic balls on strings which "clack" when hit together.
Many of the hazards are repeat problems appearing under different brands and styles. The list is heavy on imports.
Asked why the list had grown so much during the past year, Al Castle, of the commission's Bureau of Engineering Science credited increased emphasis from the agency, which took over responsibility for product safety last May.
Castle said the testing program has better facilities and inspectors are getting more familiar with the hazards involved.

Troops turned back

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Government troops attempted to push their defense lines out north and south of Phnom Penh today but ran into fierce rebel resistance and were turned back, field reports said.

At Prek Roteng, six miles south of the capital, a company-sized government force attempted to move the security zone 500 yards but was stopped by a curtain of Communist fire, field reports said.
On Highway 5, 27 miles north of Phnom Penh, a company of government infantrymen backed by eight armored cars attacked Communist positions a mile east of Sala Lekpram but the rebels blocked the advance and killed one government soldier and wounded 10, field reports said.

On the political front, Prime Minister In Tam reshuffled his cabinet, firing his defense minister, reassigning his information minister and adding three vice premiers to increase the cabinet to 29 members.
Maj. Gen. Thapanna Ngin was named defense minister, replacing Maj. Gen. U say, and Thapanna Ngin also became third vice premier.

Since 1860, Missouri forests have contributed 5 per cent of the country's oak lumber.

No peace

SPEAKING ON THE CBS television program, "Face the Nation," Sunday, Egypt's Foreign Minister Mohammed El-Zayyat says there will be no lasting peace in the Middle East unless Israel gives up the territory gained in the six-day war of 1967. (UPI)

Only China abstained

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Chinese Ambassador Huang Hua once again condemned the "collusion of the two superpowers" today when he refused to vote on the U.S.-Soviet Security Council resolution for a cease-fire in the Middle East. The measure passed 14-0. Only China abstained.

Oil supply halted

BEIRUT (UPI)—Three Arab states Sunday joined four others in halting oil deliveries to the United States, establishing a total Arab boycott that will stop the flow of about 6 per cent of all oil consumed in the United States.
In another move, two hard-line Arab oil producers—Algeria and Iraq—added Holland to the oil embargo because of its backing of Israel in the 1973 Middle East war. Iraq called for even sterner measures aimed at ending U.S. support of the Israelis.

The Iraqi news agency said it called on the Arab oil producing countries to nationalize all U.S. oil and economic interests in the Arab world, withdraw Arab funds from U.S. banks and break off Arab-American diplomatic and economic relations.
The three Persian Gulf states of Bahrain, Kuwait and Qatar announced the cut-off of oil deliveries to the United States, making the Arab boycott unanimous. Libya, Algeria, Abu Dhabi and Saudi Arabia announced a similar boycott last week.

In addition, most of the Arab oil producers introduced immediate 10 per cent production cuts to strengthen the five per cent per month cut generally agreed upon last week.

The oil producers, led by Saudi Arabia, said the production cuts and embargo would last until Israel withdraws from all territories it occupied in the 1967 war and agrees to restore "the legitimate rights" of Palestinian refugees.
Oil sources said the boycott by the seven Arab states will stop the flow of about 2 million barrels of oil a day, or about six per cent of the U.S. consumption according to the Middle East Economic Survey. However, the sources said Sunday night's U.S.-Soviet proposal in the U.N. Security Council for a Middle East cease-fire raised speculation on whether the Arab oil producers would continue their boycott measures once the war ends.

The producing countries, meanwhile, did not say how they were going to make sure their oil did not reach the United States. Oil sources said it would be almost impossible to check the route taken by any shipment of crude oil.
But the sources said the producing countries may want foreign companies operating on their territories—most of them American—that if they are caught delivering oil to the United States, their holdings will be nationalized.

Japan, USSR turn down whale treaty

(c) Newhouse News Service WASHINGTON — The refusal of Japan and the Soviet Union to comply with international controls on whaling underscores the extreme difficulty of achieving safeguards for endangered wildlife through diplomatic channels.

In protest, eight national conservation groups have launched an economic boycott of Japanese goods. Similar action against the Soviet Union's whaling policy appears likely.

According to Dr. Robert M. White, chief of the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, Japan and the Soviet Union are refusing to abide with catch limits for whalers adopted by the International Whaling Commission (IWC) in London last year.

As a result of the Japanese and Soviet decision to disregard the IWC whaling agreement, said White, who is United States commissioner to the IWC, "five of the eight species of great whales are in danger of extinction."

At its meeting last year, IWC adopted a treaty to ban the hunting of Antarctic fin whales later June 30, 1976, and to set next season's quota on minke whales at 5,000.

The Japanese government, in opposing the ban, cited the demand for whale meat as food in Japan. But if Japan were to catch its usual quota of 1,500 fine whales, White said, the catch would amount to an insignificant contribution to that country's protein requirement.

Likewise, Japan's objections to the international quota on minke whales flies in the face of the conservation policies of most other nations around the world, White said.

Rather than abide by the IWC's quota of 5,000 minke whales next season, Japan wants a total of 12,000, arguing that the IWC has underestimated the minke whale population.

The Soviet Union supported the quota of 5,000 at the IWC's last meeting in June, but has since reversed its position.

Their action now jeopardizes a worldwide ban on killing blue, gray, bowhead, humpback and right whales, and quotas on killing sperm, fin, sei and Bryde's whales.

The environmental groups launched their boycott against Japanese goods before the Commerce Department disclosed the Soviet Union was supporting Japan in defying the international agreement.

The organizations announcing the action were the Friends of the Earth, Animal Welfare Institute, Fund for Animals, Defenders of Wildlife, Environmental Policy Center, Animal Protection Institute, Let Live Inc. and the Society for Animal Protective Legislation.

Chile will return firms to US hands

(c) New York Times Service SANTIAGO — The vast majority of American concerns brought under state control without compensation by the deposed government of Salvador Allende Gossens may be returned to their former management in the coming weeks.

In a lengthy statement published Friday, Gen. Augusto Pinochet, the president of the ruling military junta, announced the government's intention to return a majority of the more than 300 private domestic and foreign companies that were taken over without payment by the Marxist government of Allende.

Among these companies are about 40 concerns in which American money is involved. The list does not include concerns that were brought by the Chilean government, such as the Bank of America and branches of the First National City Bank.

The military government has also made it clear that it will not return the holdings of three U. S.-based copper companies — Kennecott, Anaconda and the Cerro Corp. — which were nationalized under the Allende government by the unanimous approval of the legislature.

But the junta has announced that it is prepared to resume negotiations on compensation for these concerns, which had assets here estimated at between $500 million and $700 million. Allende refused compensation on the grounds that the copper companies allegedly owe Chile $774 million for excess profits.

Although the copper concerns accounted for the bulk of United States private capital in Chile, there are a number of concerns with large American investment that were taken over in the Allende years.

The International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. lost control of the Chilean telephone company in which it had a 70 per cent interest and an investment of about $150 million dollars.

The return of concerns to their former private management will probably involve considerable negotiations with the military government.

Pinochet indicated that the companies must be prepared to give up claims against the Chilean government for damages or losses to their installations while they were under state control.

The owners of the concerns may also be asked to repay debts owed to the Chilean government while the companies were under Marxist control. And the military government has said the concerns must be prepared to accept any future labor legislation passed by the junta.

New Gem road brings complaints

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) — The new extension of U. S. Highway 95 north of here is only two months old and already complaints are being voiced about it.

The eight-mile long section of the highway was opened this summer, replacing a narrow two-lane road that wandered through the area.

Mayor Ward Newcomb of Dalton Gardens, a small bedroom community two miles north of here, thinks the new highway is hazardous.

Most of the wide divided four-lane highway is posted as 60 miles per hour. It also has limited fencing and many "criss streets and roads."

"I know it is quite a hazard when you try to cross it," said Newcomb.

He said there had been seven vehicular accidents at one intersection on the highway.

Arab oil pumper seeks large loan

(c) New York Times Service LONDON — Abu Dhabi, one of the major Arab oil producers, has been negotiating here to obtain a multimillion dollar bank loan, according to highly-placed sources in London's financial community.

The sources said that Abu Dhabi was seeking upward of $100 million and possibly as much as $250 million.

The funds ostensibly would be for industrial development, or other nonmilitary purposes. However, bankers here noted that the Soviet Union was demanding American dollars for delivery of arms to the Arabs and speculated that any cash sent to the Middle East now would inevitably be used in the war effort.

But it is considered unlikely that any funds obtained by Abu Dhabi would be directly used to purchase armaments. Rather, such funds could be expected to flow into a general arms pool for the Arab nations.

The possibility of gold sales by one or more of the wealthy Arab nations also exists, but such sales might be counterproductive because they could depress gold prices. Moreover, such sales might not yield adequate funds in sufficient time to satisfy demands for cash on delivery.

Abu Dhabi is a small sheikhdom of 4,000 square miles situated on the Persian Gulf and is the capital of the United Arab Emirates. Its oil revenues have raised it from poverty to wealth in less than a decade, and it has been called the richest place per capita in the world.

Abu Dhabi's oil revenues are estimated to have grown from about $87 million in 1967 to $500 million last year. Its population was thought to have reached 70,000 in 1972, but reliable figures are not available.

Despite its sudden wealth, however, Abu Dhabi has encountered financial problems. Its efforts at national development led to a minor crisis in 1969, when expenditures exceeded revenues.

As a result, the 1970 development budget was cut 35 per cent from the level foreseen in a five-year plan.

Youth charges Boise authorities in lawsuit

BOISE (UPI) — A 16-year-old youth from New York has filed a suit in U. S. District Court in Boise charging Boise police illegally searched him and beat him.

Daniel B. Delzer seeks more than $150,000 from two policemen, the police chief, the City Council and the city in the federal lawsuit. The suit alleges he was stopped by police Oct. 4 and searched without just cause. The suit names Officer Wallis McPheters as the officer who searched him and took him to jail.

Records show McPheters and two other officers took the youth into custody at the Boise Airport on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, a case still pending.

Police said Delzer told them he was 22, and they treated him as an adult. When they found out he was 16, he was treated as a juvenile and put into a juvenile detention facility.

Chavez continues battle by boycott

(c) Chicago Daily News
MIAMI BEACH — For Cesar Chavez and his United Farm Workers Union (UFW), it's back to the boycott in his battle with the Teamsters Union in California.
 Chavez has asked AFL-CIO backing for a boycott of table grapes, lettuce and wine made by Gallo, Gullid and Franjin.
 AFL-CIO President George Meany and his No. 2 man, secretary-treasurer Lane Kirkland, were authorized to help the Labor Federation's newest affiliate by "whatever means necessary."
 Meany named a five-man committee to consider how to carry out a boycott with the least harmful effects on other AFL-CIO members employed in the wineries and retail stores.
 Protests by Mort Brandenburg, president of the Distillery workers Union, may exempt the wine producers from the boycott. In return, Brandenburg would be expected to persuade the wineries' management to recognize Chavez's union on farms they own.
 Chavez outlined his boycott plans to the AFL-CIO executive council after a tentative agreement between Meany and Teamster President Frank Fitzsimmons apparently came unstuck.
 "It's the only way to go," said Chavez, recalling court injunctions and the death of two UFW supporters on the picket lines in California.

 Meany talked with Fitzsimmons by telephone Monday but renewed attempts to patch up the UFW-Teamsters dispute produced no success.
 According to Meany, the Teamsters have not followed through on an agreement to give the UFW a free hand in organizing workers in grape and lettuce fields.
 Chavez's free-wheeling boycott tactics in the past — sometimes aimed at halting all consumer patronage of stores handling the target products — have irritated other AFL-CIO unions.
 Meany named officials of these unions to a committee to develop techniques that would channel the UFW protest along lines that everyone could endorse.
 Representatives of the glass bottle blowers, meat cutters, retail clerks and distillery workers were named to the panel, along with Chavez.
 The AFL-CIO raised $1.8 million through special assessments of affiliated unions to help Chavez wage the strikes triggered by Teamster's take-over of grape and lettuce contracts last spring.
 Meany condemned the Teamsters' actions as "strike breaking" and later persuaded Fitzsimmons to repudiate about 30 contracts with big growers.

Harvest late

BOISE (UPI) — The harvest of late season crops and seeding of fall grains was running a little later than normal at the beginning of the month, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said Thursday.
 The reporting service said an absence of a general killing frost during September lengthened the growing period of potatoes, sugar beets, and late cutting for alfalfa hay.
 At the same time, the service said farm workers in Idaho during the week of Sept. 23-29 totaled 55,000. This was 1,000 less than a month earlier and 2,000 less than the survey week in September last year.
 Of the total, family workers accounted for 40,000, up 2,000 from the previous month and unchanged for the same period last year.

Shoshone election planned

SHOSHONE — The Wood River Soil Conservation District will hold an election of supervisors Thursday.
 Voting polls will be open at the Soil Conservation District office in Shoshone from 1 to 5 p.m. Ballots will also be mailed.
 The conservation district serves Lincoln County and was organized in 1943 by local land owners.
 The present district board of supervisors includes Robert Aja, Paul Bancroft, Waldo Faught, Lawrence Tews and Jim Whitaker.
 Aja, Tews and Bancroft are up for re-election. Also running for one of the positions is Mrs. Evan (Linda) Guthrie, North Shoshone. These offices are for four year terms.
 The board serves without pay and spends considerable time working for the conservation effort.
 Presently Idaho law has no provisions for enforcement of district policy, but other states and many counties are using districts and district policy to regulate development and utilization of land and resources.
 "This means the board of supervisors has a great deal of responsibility and is in line for a lot of authority," according to Leo Senten, conservationist with the local office.

Mrs. Duane Johnson, president, presided.

Cheer cards were signed to be sent to four members who are ill.

Mrs. Cecil Trooper, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Mabel Brez, and Mrs. Harry Thompson thanked their secret pals for birthday gifts.

Next meeting will be Nov. 16 for 1 p.m. luncheon with Mrs. Margaret Gerbig, Mrs. Glenn Journey, Mrs. Ernest Eubanks, Mrs. Mink and Mrs. Johnson as hostesses.

Program chairman is Mrs. LaPearl McPherson.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Another advice columnist keeps insisting that homosexuals are "sick." She says: "Thousands of homosexuals have written asking me where they can get straightened out so they must consider themselves twisted, or they wouldn't be asking for help. Occasionally I hear from homosexuals who are at peace with themselves; but they are few and far between. I believe the majority of homosexuals would be straight if they were really free to choose."

What say you, Dear Abby? L. A. TIMES READER

DEAR READER: I say if a heterosexual had been raised to believe that his preference for the opposite sex was "sick," twisted, abominable, sinful, and a disgrace to his family, he would ask for help on how to "straighten himself out," too.

Love and let love

Homosexuality is a problem because an unenlightened society has made it a problem, but I have received letters by the thousands [not just "occasionally"] from gay people telling me that they wouldn't be straight if they had a choice. All they ask is to be allowed to love in their own way without facing the charge that they are "sick and twisted."

I say, love and let love.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 57-year-old grandfather, happy in a third marriage, which, the turbulent at times, has lasted for 16 years.

I must comment on a letter you printed about this virgin who married a widower and objected to sleeping in the same bed in which he slept with his former wife, now deceased. So disturbed is she by the memories her husband must have of that bed, she disposes of her getting rid of the bed! Both you and that new wife are out of your minds. What about the man himself? Were not his lips, his arms, and everything else also used in making love to his first wife?

How can she kick this wonderful old love-filled bed out into the street as used merchandise and yet sleep with the man who is also used merchandise?

The logic of the female mind I shall never understand.

FRANK IN PHOENIX

DEAR FRANK: Move over. Freud admitted that he couldn't understand it either. But I bet a lot of women (including this writer) understand it.

DEAR ABBY: May I answer "STUCK," regarding the nervous couple who drop in at dinner time regularly several times a week?

This happened to us, too, and here is how we handled it: When they appeared at our door we said: "Come in - we were just about to have dinner, but we weren't expecting company. Make yourselves comfortable in the living room, and we will join you AFTER dinner."

A few times of this treatment should get the message across to the "nervy" couple, and you'll soon be [as my husband and I are] "UNSTUCK."

CONFIDENTIAL TO N.C.s: No one said it better than Horace Mann: "Generosity during life is a very different thing from generosity in the hour of death; one proceeds from genuine liberality and benevolence, the other from pride or fear."

Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90060. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

How to write letters: Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 332 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212 for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Miss Robinson bride of Smith

KING HILL — Tonette Louise Robinson became the bride of Winford D. Smith, Pocatello, Oct. 6 at 2 p.m., in the King Hill Community United Presbyterian Church.

Miss Robinson is the daughter of the late Nick Robinson and Mrs. Bettie Smith Robinson, King Hill. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd H. Smith, Pocatello.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert Bibb of the First Pentecostal Church, Pocatello.

The couple stood at the steps of the chancel, flanked by tall baskets of orange gladioli, yellow pompons, white spider mums and candlebra decorated with orange glads and white spider mums with ribbon streamers the floor. The aisles were decorated with nosegays, yellow bows and streamers to the floor.

The bride, given in marriage by La Velle Coulter of Pocatello, a life long family friend, wore a floor length Victorian gown of candlelight peau de soie and venetian lace. The gown was fashioned with a lace trimmed square neck, empire waist and Queen Ann sleeves edged with ruffled Venetian lace.

The full A-line skirt was overlaid with panels of lace from the waist to the floor, as was the softly shirred, back, which fell into a short train. Lace was inserted at the hemline around the full skirt.

Her bridal corsage was of orange rosebuds, baby breath and miniature spider mums, star-flowers, accented the ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Ronald Torgerson, Mud Lake, was matron of honor.

Terry Cutler, Pocatello, was best man. Ronald Dorn, Boise, was an usher. Michael Smith, nephew of the groom was ring bearer; Kimberly Smith, niece of the groom, was flower girl.

Mrs. Paul Shirum, Glenns Ferry, was organist.

Mrs. Michael McHugh, Pocatello, was in charge of the guest book.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor, with Mrs. Rodney Ruberry, Mrs. Nathan Miller, Mrs. Jack Craig and Mrs. Charles Einlayson in charge.

The bride's table was covered with an imported white lace cloth over yellow. Silver candlesticks with yellow candles were decked with miniature yellow and orange pompons. The table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake decorated with yellow and white roses and greenery and topped with a miniature bride and groom seated on a sofa under an archway.

The wedding cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Delmar Brannon.

Guest tables were covered with white satin cloths with yellow net overlays. Mrs. Mildred Carnahan cut and served the cake, assisted by Mrs. Ronald Dorn of Boise. Mrs. Dennis Sterling, King Hill, was seated at the coffee service. Mrs. Sterling also assisted with the gifts.

Out of town guests attended from Boise, Mountain Home, American Falls, Pocatello, Mud Lake, Blackfoot, Bliss and Glenns Ferry. The grandmother of the bride, Mrs. M. E. Smith, of Pleasant Hills, Calif., was a special guest.

New state prison supply cost list

BOISE (UPI) — Cost estimate figures show that proposed furnishings and equipment for the new state prison along with the joint mental health facility at the site are expected to cost about $20,000.

The total cost of beds, tables, chairs, office furnishings and commissary, dining, security and hobbycraft equipment for the new prison itself is estimated at $202,274.

Furniture, medical supplies and other equipment for the security treatment facility to be shared by the prison and mental health authorities may total another $17,522.

These furnishings are in addition to furnishings and equipment to be hauled to the new site south of Gowen Field from the century-old, grey-walled facility on Warm Springs Avenue in the next two months.

Associate Superintendent of Security C. W. Crowl says the Board of Correction will take all equipment it possibly can to the new site from the old.

But convicts are going to get new beds because the old metal ones are welded tight to the walls of cells in the old prison. Prison industries is building 500 new beds at an estimated cost of $24.50 each and it also is building 500 bedside cabinets estimated at $50 each.

Also listed in request, furnishings for the new prison site is nearly $2,000 worth of new dishes and other table service. A $1,300 battery-powered industrial cart apparently to haul food around the prison dining room, is also requested.

A hospital clinic at the new site will take an estimated $30,000 worth of equipment in addition to that removed from the old building.

Among record office equipment requests is one paper shredder — at a cost of $358.

For the barber shop, two sanitary ultra-violet disinfectors at a cost of $75 are sought as well as one hot lather machine costing $44.50. Also listed in that request are two barber chairs costing $400 each.

In the vocational training building, prison officials hope to install internal weight lifting set costing $2,295; a 30-foot by 30-foot woodlath mat at a cost of $1,900 and two player-protection wall mats at a cost of $150.

Hobbycraft equipment requested includes a rock polisher with motor for $50, and a heavy duty treadle sewing machine worth $850.

Mechanical service equipment listed in the proposed furnishings includes a $6,900 hydraulic lift and a $550 machine to make keys. Officials have ordered one $20,000 dust collector for the industries building.

The regional office of environmental and community services is seeking bids on miscellaneous items for the mental health facility including a 23-inch, commercial-quality color television set.

DECS also asked for a radio system with three station capability, with volume and on-off switches installed in each room of the facility, including offices. The three stations listed in the specifications are KFXD, KGEM and KAIN.

Many DECS specifications require various "bright" or "decorator" colors.

War damage heavy blow for Syria

(c) N. Y. Times News Service DAMASCUS — The cost of Syria's war effort, and the damage already caused by Israeli bombing attacks, represent a heavy blow to the development plans of this relatively poor country.

But the political goal of recovering Syrian land occupied by Israel in the 1967 War is an issue charged with such emotion here that losses in lives and money appear to be shouldered willingly by the public.

Moreover, officials here seem to be confident that whatever material damages are sustained will be repaired after the war with the help of the wealthy Arab countries, the Soviet Union, and other friendly communist and West European countries.

"There will be time and money to rebuild, and more, when we have recovered our land," said a British-trained Syrian textile engineer.

The occupied Golan Heights is an area of about 500 square miles of poor land devoted to subsistence farming, olive groves and sheep raising. It is of little economic value, but it is a matter of national pride for Syria to win it back.

Two weeks of war have brought few signs of disruption of basic consumer supplies or of day-to-day economic activity, except in those sectors directly damaged by the hostilities.

The open market places in Damascus and the surrounding villages are well stocked.

But Israeli air attacks on the Homs and Banitas oil refineries, and on a large oil tank farm east of here, which has been billowing black smoke for a week, have produced some shortages of fuel.

Taxi drivers and automobile owners have to obtain coupons for gasoline purchases, which are limited to about six gallons a day for taxis. Long lines of women with large tin cans form when kerosene, a principal cooking fuel, goes on sale.

Candles are in great demand because there have been several power blackouts. This is not considered unusual because the swift growth of this capital of some 500,000 people has been faster than the expansion of electrical services, and brief power cuts are common.

Bomb damage to the big power station at Homs, which also provides part of the Damascus supply, has aggravated the problem.

However, most large industries in this area, such as textile plants, are operating normally.

TWIN FALLS — Fifteen Idaho counties, including six in the Magic Valley, will benefit from an $82,356 federal grant for educationally services to migrant children. Cassia, Twin Falls, Elmore, Minidoka, Jerome and Gooding Counties will get shares of the Title I money from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The grant will provide special educational and supportive services to children of migrant agricultural workers. The fifteen counties serve about 7,000 migrant children. The Title I program is designed to supplement the frequently interrupted schooling migrant children receive as they and their parents follow the crops. Transportation, regular meals and medical and dental care will also be available under the projects. Special training will prepare teachers and other staff members to meet the special education needs of migrant children. The new Migrant Student Record Transfer System will make possible the transfer of students' health and school records from school to school.

Valley Comment

Do you think President Nixon was right or wrong in firing Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox?

Ethan Brown, Twin Falls — I think he was wrong. When they hired Cox to take that job he was supposed to have a free hand and apparently he did not. There's too much coercion from the White House. It looks to me like they have no choice but to begin to impeach him. We can't have a dictator in there as President and that's what it looks like it's getting to be. I voted for him and I'm sure sorry I did now.

Earl Faulkner, Twin Falls — I don't really know. This is a hard question to answer because we don't know all the facts. He hasn't broken any law so there's no room for impeachment at this juncture.

NG plans service for tots

BOISE — Idaho Army National Guardsmen will be out in force Halloween Eve, but instead of asking for treats, they will be protecting the small trick-or-treaters from too many tricks. This was reported Saturday by Idaho Maj. Gen. George Bennett. He said many of the 3,500 Army guardsmen are volunteering their time to assist law enforcement officers in protecting the children who are out seeking "treats" on a door-to-door basis. "Parents are continually warned of the dangers to children on the streets on Halloween," Gen. Bennett said. "However, each year reports are made of instances when small children have been injured by automobiles while crossing poorly lighted streets in residential areas. We hope to reduce the accidents to zero with this special effort." Bennett said the volunteer guardsmen will not receive pay for their efforts and they will not be replacing any law enforcement officers but will be assisting the small children and officers where possible.

Ray Nelson, St. Cloud, Minn. — As far as I'm concerned he's wrong. He's been wrong in a lot of things he's done lately. He should have consulted the Congress or the Senate or somebody before he did something like that.

Services set for GF pioneer

GLENN'S FERRY — Funeral services for Frank C. Clarke, 88, area pioneer, will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the South Mortuary. Burial will be in the Glenns Ferry cemetery. Mr. Clarke, a recognized authority on the Oregon Trail and on old freight and stage roads between Fort Hall and Fort Boise and ranging down into Utah, died Saturday at the Mountain Home Hospital after an extended illness. "During his lifetime he traveled over most of the old trails either on horseback or on foot and in later years in vehicular transportation. Because of his knowledge he was sought by many writers of history, by many visitors to Idaho and also by officials of the Idaho Historical Society. He was credited by Governor Cecil Andrus, when the Three Island State Park was dedicated at Glenns Ferry on the Snake River, with being the "father of the idea" which resulted in its establishment. The park is at the point the Oregon Trail wagons forded the river enroute from Fort Hall to Fort Boise. Mr. Clarke, in an interview for the historical edition of the Times-News in 1972, disclosed he had lived practically all his life on the Cumas Prairie and in the Glenns Ferry and Mountain Home regions. Only recently he disposed of a rock shop which he operated here. He was a self-taught carpenter and a replica of a covered wagon was made by him and given to the state park. It is on display there now. His father was a pioneer Idaho photographer. The family came to Glenns Ferry in 1896 and settled on the banks of the Snake River. As a youth Mr. Clarke engaged in mining up and down the river, ran the first motion picture house in the community and sagebrush-fired the boiler which generated steam, converted to electricity for use to illuminate the first lights in Glenns Ferry. Only recently, Mr. Clarke was named a member of the special Oregon Trail study committee appointed by officials of the Department of the Interior.

Mrs. Ruth Chess, Shoshone city clerk, said. She said only 250 persons voted in the city election two years ago and anyone who did not vote then must register now. Judges for Richfield are Mrs. Betty Piper, Peggy Robinson and Grace Whitesell. Alternate judges are Virginia Shal and Emma Gintner. At Dietrich Terry Costello said he will not seek re-election, but Mrs. Costello announces she is seeking support for a write-in vote to the position vacated by her husband. Ohio woman injured

TWIN FALLS. A Cincinnati, Ohio, woman was injured slightly in Twin Falls Sunday when she was struck by a car while crossing Blue Lakes Boulevard North. According to police reports, Christine K. Thacher, 24, was struck a glancing blow by a vehicle driven by Lenora Schaefer, 23, Twin Falls. The Thacher woman was crossing Blue Lakes from East to west in front of the Holiday Inn when she was struck by the southbound car. She was treated for bruises and pavement burns and released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital later Sunday.

Mr. Clarke was an accomplished artist in oils, pastels and watercolors and in his youth had been a student at The Academy of Fine Arts. Many of his paintings hang throughout Idaho. In the past few years he learned to play the electric organ and installed one in the front room of his home. Survivors include his wife Jessie, whom he married 46 years ago, and an adopted son, Howard Clarke, now an official of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in Oakland, Calif.

100 attend OES confab

GOODING — More than 100 women attended the fall meeting of the South Central District Past Matrons, Order of Eastern Star, here Saturday. The event was held at the Gooding Masonic temple and was sponsored by the Gooding club. Theme for the day was "Prayer is the Key to Heaven." A musical program was presented, featuring the "Intervals," a women's quartet composed of Maxine Trout, Vi Childister, Verni Jean Carriero and Betty Aringa. Mrs. Pendleton gave the welcome address. The spring meeting will be held in Hagerman in April.

John Ledbetter, Kimberly — I do not think he should have fired Cox. The investigating committee should have access to that portion of the tapes that have any bearing on Watergate. I think that he has gotten himself in a mess and the thing that I'm concerned about is if he's impeached who's going to take his place?

Elbert Johnson, Baton Rouge, La. — They wanted to see the tapes and I think somebody should audit them because there is information on the tapes that shouldn't be for public knowledge. If we are going to negotiate with anybody they've got to be frank and honest and some of these things can't be for public knowledge. The big thing with the Watergate was gathering information that people didn't want public knowledge they claimed that it is violating the people's private life. I think the President should have the same privacy that other people get.

McClure raps US for outbreak

By LESTER KINSOLVING T-N Washington Bureau WASHINGTON, D. C. — "I do not blame either the Arabs or Israel for this current outbreak," Sen. McClure, R-Idaho, told the Senate Thursday. "I blame the United States. "One of our grave mistakes has been in giving the Israelis the impression that with total commitment from the U.S. she is invincible — that there has been no reason to negotiate, no reason to deal with the very real common problems shared with their Arab nations," he explained. He spoke before an announcement of a Mideast ceasefire proposal Sunday night. During an interview following his speech, McClure was asked if he thought military aid provided Israel by the U.S. was either an extensive or as regular as that provided the Arab nations by the Soviet Union. "Well, the Soviets have supplied more abundantly, I suppose, but it's hard to measure," he said. He was then asked regarding negotiations whether he knew of any offer by any of the belligerent Arab nations to recognize Israel. "The offer of Egypt's Sadat the other day meant the same thing as diplomatic recognition," replied McClure. "What we need now is a cease fire in place. The Idaho Senator said you can't negotiate while the bullets are flying. McClure said he feels that Israel should be willing to withdraw from all territory it occupied during the Six Day War. When asked about Israel's withdrawal from the Sinai following the 1956 war McClure said: "1956 is not 1973. The Arabs have shown more willingness to accept Israel. Besides, 2.7 million people cannot indefinitely hold off 110 million people, especially when they are continually being supplied by the Soviet Union. "Israel has no choice. She will have to withdraw, or we will have to send troops eventually — and I want to emphasize that that means eventually. For I am utterly opposed to our committing troops at this time." Asked if it is realistic to expect that Israel will give up either East Jerusalem or the Golan Heights, McClure said "It is very difficult to imagine Israel returning the Golan Heights to Syria." In his speech to the Senate, he said that Israel as a nation should be recognized "and the safety of her borders guaranteed, with appropriate buffer zones set up and maintained with any assistance necessary to assure their inviolability." At the same time, he stressed, "The question of the Palestinian refugees must be confronted and a solution found and captured Arab lands returned. The specifics, of course, would have to be discussed at length by the participants."

Gloria Morrow, Twin Falls — I think he was wrong. He agreed to let Cox go ahead with the Watergate investigation. He should have stuck by what was agreed upon with Richardson and Cox. I think that Nixon has lost all favorable public opinion.

A's beat New York for baseball title

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland A's, proving that power beats prayer, won their second straight World Series Sunday as Bert Campaneris and Reggie Jackson belted two-run homers to beat the New York Mets 5-2.

The A's, whose attack was stifled by New York's superb pitching through the first six games, struck dramatically and swiftly to kill the Mets' fervent hope of a "miracle" victory such as they achieved in 1969.

They got power from both an unexpected source, Campaneris, and an expected one, Jackson, to grab a 4-0 lead in the third inning.

Then the A's routinely coasted to the victory which ended the series four games to three and made them the first non-Yankee team in more than 40 years to repeat as world champions.

The Oakland victory served as a farewell gift for manager Dick Williams, who ended a week of denials with the official announcement he's quitting as manager with two years remaining on his contract, the second time in a decade manager quit a World Series winner to go looking for another job.

Johnny Keano was the first in 1964, leaving the St. Louis Cardinals for the New York Yankees, and that's the very vacancy Williams now may fill, also.

The A's, a team that defies the traditional bromides of bickering and turmoil, needed with their constant clubhouse bickering and turmoil, needed help from the Mets to win the Series—New York kicked away the first and third games on unearned runs—but Sunday Oakland won all by itself.

Ken Holtzman, a pitcher who had come to the plate only once all season because of the American League designated hitter rule, lined an 0-2 pitch down the left field line for a one-out double in the third, the first hit off loser Jon Matlack.

Campaneris, who hit only four homers during the regular season but got two in the American-league playoffs against Baltimore, tagged Matlack's very next pitch over the rightfield fence for Oakland's first home run of the series.

Joe Rudi singled to center before Matlack got Sal Bando for the second out. But then Jackson, who won Saturday's game 3-1 with a pair of RBIs, homered deep into the seats in rightcenter to make it 4-0, knocking Matlack out of the game and the Mets out of the series.

Holtzman, who won both the first and last games of the Series though he didn't last six innings in either, also had doubled to start the two-run rally that beat Matlack in the final game.

Several dozen fans in the sellout crowd of 49,333 raced

Bud Harrelson respects A's

OAKLAND (UPI) — Bud Harrelson sipped a can of beer, said "It doesn't taste like champagne," and then tongued the world champion Oakland A's.

"I respected them because they still won despite all that bull they had to go through," the skinny, little shortstop said in the quiet New York Mets' dressing room Sunday.

"I don't like Mr. (Charles) Finley because he doesn't treat his players well," Harrelson said, "but you've got to give them credit. They're professionals and they play for themselves."

When Harrelson was asked if he thought the A's had won it for manager Dick Williams, he asked, "how can they win it for a guy who's leaving? They did this for themselves."

Harrelson said the underdog Mets had given the A's more of a battle than they expected.

"In their minds, they didn't expect it to go seven games," Harrelson said. "They were cocky, especially after they won the first game."

Jon Matlack, the Mets' starting pitcher who was the victim of a pair of two-run homers in the third innings, said, "If I was going to have a game like this, why did it have to happen today. Why not six weeks ago?"

Matlack added, "I felt like I had decent stuff. I was satisfied leaving the bullpen before the game. Prior to this, I was getting away with mistakes but I wasn't today."

"I was trying to build my game around the curve. I'd throw a couple of good ones and then I'd throw a bad one. I still

Dick Williams resigns from A's for Yankees

OAKLAND (UPI) — Without even taking so much as a single sip of victory champagne, Dick Williams announced Sunday he was resigning as manager of the Oakland A's "for the good of the ballclub" immediately after they beat the New York Mets 5-2 in the final game of the 1973 World Series.

The 44-year-old Williams emphasized he has "no commitments with anybody" but he has already been given permission by Oakland owner Charlie Finley to negotiate with the New York Yankees and his signing with them as their new manager is expected within the next few days.

Even before participating in the A's triumphant celebration, Finley announced in Oakland's jubilant dressing quarters:

"I want to thank my manager, my players and everybody connected with us. We're gonna do it next year and make it three years in a row."

Then, turning to Williams, he said to him softly: "I want to thank you again personally and even though you're not going to be with us. I want to tell you that I'll miss you and I wish you all the luck in the world."

Williams had two more years to go on his contract with the A's, which calls for $70,000 a year. This is the same sum the Yankees will give him when he signs a three-year contract with them shortly.

Finley, a master sycophant, isn't letting the Yankees have Williams for a bag of peanuts. He wants something back, and he's going to get it.

The A's now have only eight pitchers on their staff and would like another established one, say somebody like Fritz Peterson.

The Yankees may be willing to give up the 31-year-old lefthander, who tailed off to 8-15 this year.

One thing is certain: Finley won't give up Williams for nothing. He already has gotten word to the Yankees that he wants a player in return. When asked Sunday if he has anyone specifically in mind, he replied:

"No comment on that right now."

The way for Williams' departure from the A's was paved during a private meeting between him and owner Charlie Finley last Tuesday. Williams made known his intention of resigning at the time.

When Finley had heard all the reasons, he informed his

Williams is right on move

OAKLAND (UPI) — Dick Williams' last managerial decision with the Oakland A's was the right one.

Williams realigned immediately following his club's seventh game victory over the New York Mets in the A's repeated as World Champions Sunday. But with the Mets having runners on the corners with two out in the ninth, Williams was faced with a tough decision, the kind managers are paid to make.

He called in southpaw relief specialist Darold Knowles from the bullpen to replace right-handed reliever Rolie Fingers and pitch to Wayne Garrett, a lefty batter. Garrett popped to short for the final out of the game and insure the A's their second consecutive championship.

manager he wouldn't stand in his way. Finley took much the same position the Washington Senators did when the New York Mets sought to hire their manager, the late Gil Hodges, following the 1967 World Series.

Like Finley, the Senators also demanded something in return for Hodges and they got it. The Mets turned over pitcher Bill Denney plus cash to the Senators in exchange for Hodges.

Before Sunday's final Series contest with the Mets, Williams held no formal meeting with his players to tell them goodbye.

All he merely did was walk among them individually and say to them: "Let's go out winners."

Later, when Williams came out onto the field before the game, he immediately was besieged with questions since it had become common knowledge that he had told his players privately he was resigning following the final Series game.

Finally Williams said: "I will have a personal announcement to make after the game."

One newsman put in, "Finley has said unequivocally you are resigning after this game."

Williams, who had denied it the past four days, was silent a moment, then said:

"That's correct."

Finley already has been at work going over new managerial candidates for his A's.

He'd like to have Ted Williams, but isn't at all sure the former Washington-Texas manager, out of baseball one year now, would consent to come back even with a winning bracket like Oakland.

If Finley can't get Williams, he may settle for Dave Bristol, the former Cincinnati and Milwaukee manager currently a coach with Montreal.

Jackson is MVP

OAKLAND (UPI) — Reggie Jackson, minutes after the Oakland A's won the World Series Sunday and he had been named Most Valuable Player of the post-season classic, finally told the story of how his life had been threatened.

"A couple of weeks ago," the slugger's A's outfielder began, in the glare of the winner's dressing room, "I got a call from Mr. (Charlie O.) Finley to hustle over to the ball park for a meeting."

"It was a day off and I had been looking forward to spending the day at home resting, but I sensed an urgency in Mr. Finley's voice, so I went to his office in the Oakland Coliseum."

"When I got there, there were three FBI men in attendance and they had a letter they wanted to show me.

The general tone of the letter was a threat on my life. "It said that if I played in the American League playoffs it would be the last thing I ever did."

"So from that day on, including the final weeks of the season, the playoffs and now the World Series, I had a couple of FBI men with me all the time. I didn't take the threat all that seriously and I don't think it affected my play in any way, but still I had it on my mind. You don't dismiss anything that easily."

The threatening letter was addressed to A's announcer Monty Moore, who turned it over to Finley.

A manager Dick Williams and club farm director John Claiborne were in attendance at the meeting in Finley's office.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES Whatever is new, untried about the future that interests you is fine, but avoid the past, including legal matters and whatever limits you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Forget home anxieties, be with persons you like, or who can help you advance. Personal aims should be given precedence over business ones.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Listen to highway suggestions to get ahead faster. Busy yourself with public and vocational duties. Wasting time foolishly would be foolish indeed.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you study those new interests well, you can make them successful and start wheels rolling in right direction. You are inspired! Steer clear of moochers.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Work on unfinished projects which can now bring real benefits. Some new form of entertainment could be what you need to perk up your spirits. Be happy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listen to associates and go along with them. Bring those new plans to attention of, right persons and get their okay. Forget things you can't change.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Install that new system to get all those tasks done efficiently in jig time. Keep an eye on your wallet. Much care in driving, motion is important.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Meet with interesting persons who can help make your life more prosperous, satisfying. Drive carefully and keep out of trouble with the law. Evening good for recreation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Avoid tangents, get busy improving conditions at home and pleasing kin and make life happier for all concerned. Put good ideas across. Think, act.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your surroundings and see where you can make improvements. Discuss aims with one who is fond of you and get cooperation. Enjoy the social in p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan how to increase income through intelligent efforts. Avoid an associate who got out on the wrong side of the bed. Don't argue unnecessarily.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are thinking very clearly now and can coordinate your efforts best with those of others for mutual benefits. Get into interests that are remunerative. Advance.

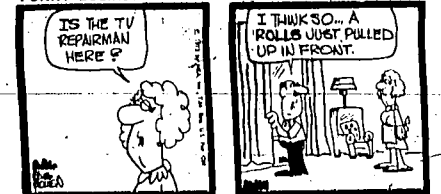

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contact advisers for pointers needed to make your operations more successful, personal or business. Romance does not need broadcasting around if it is to be satisfactory.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful young people who likes to cooperate with others and become part of interesting projects that are run by bigwigs. You must teach early to be more objective instead of so emotional, otherwise there can be little success here, despite the ability for doing accurate and neat work. Teach early to stick to principles and use willpower. Give a thorough grounding in music and good manners.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Experts ponder UFOs

By United Press International
Two Los Angeles area space experts agree that many people who report seeing unidentified flying objects (UFOs) are seeing something, but question that the UFOs are extraterrestrial "spaceships" under the control of nonhuman creatures.

"People are seeing something; they're not hallucinating," said Dr. William J. Kauffman, director of the Griffith Observatory. "It's also clear that they're seeing things for which standard, run-of-the-mill explanations do not suffice. But just because they see something strange in the skies doesn't mean that the something strange is a vehicle, controlled by an alien intelligence. That just doesn't follow."

A rash of UFO sightings began two weeks ago in Mississippi when two shipyard workers catfishing on the Pascagoula River reported they were kidnaped by silver-skinned creatures with pointed ears who took them aboard a cigar-shaped spaceship and examined them.

There have been hundreds of other sightings in states from coast to coast. Gov. John Gilligan of Ohio reported seeing a UFO made of amber-light just outside Ann Arbor, Mich. Deputies reported chasing five, amber-colored saucers flitting just above tree-top level in Louisiana.

Many of the UFOs have turned out to be weather balloons. Some of the sightings turned out to be hoaxes.

Phillip J. Klass, a senior editor with the magazine Aviation Week and Space Technology, who has written one book putting down UFOs — "UFOs Identified" — and is currently writing a sequel, said, "There simply is not a shred of physical evidence (for UFOs) after more than 25 years of sightings."

"Quite literally. Not a shred, in any of the tens of thousands of UFO sightings that have been reported, that you could take before the National Academy of Sciences and ask: 'Have you ever seen its like on earth?'"

Danny Dropp, a photographer for the Baton Rouge Morning Advocate, said Sunday he photographed with a telescopic lens a strange object that flew over Louisiana State University's packed football stadium Saturday night, touching off a UFO hysteria. The object turned out to be a hot air bag, cellophane bag with a flickering candle inside that heated the air and carried the bag aloft.

Police officer Lawrence Whitman was on patrol in the southwestern area of Los Angeles early Saturday when he sighted a bluish-white light streak, but he thought twice about reporting it.

He said he didn't report the mysterious light streak which fell to the earth in seconds because last year he and another officer were reprimanded for allegedly dreaming up the so-called "watermelon hoax." They reported that a woman dropped a 51-pound watermelon on her boyfriend.

But Whitman decided to report Saturday's incident after a half dozen other officers acknowledged they also had seen the light streak.

Another officer said he felt the air change from very cold to hot in minutes in the area where the light was sighted.

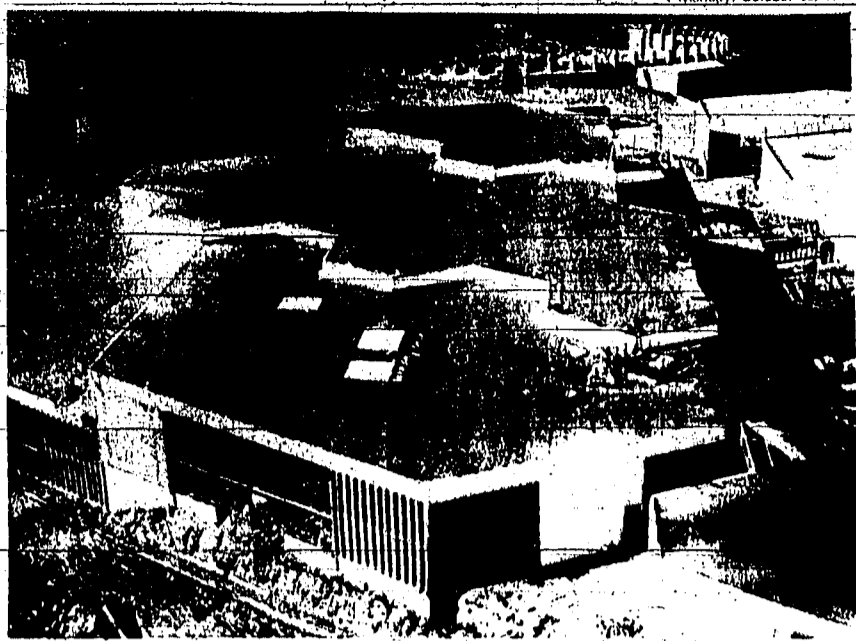

"I got cold and shook like it was 28 degrees, and after I came out of this alley, everything was back to normal. Then I made another turn through the alley and the air felt like it was 90 degrees," he said.

Caltech scientists told police the luminous object probably was part of a meteor shower. But the experts did not explain how the "meteorite" might have caused the alleged bizarre change in temperature.

Field data

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI) — Arizona State University archeologists have begun using a computer to store, analyze and retrieve field archeology data.

Teams of researchers recently fed data into a computer as it was collected at an ancient Hohokam civilization site near here. Scientists said the material would be catalogued and stored until staff and funds are available to completely excavate the huge site, believed to have been occupied from about 500 A.D. until 1400 A.D.

Sunken reefs

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials are planning to acquire 12 surplus "liberty ships" from the federal government, and scuttle them to form artificial reefs off the state's Gulf Coast.

Successful Investing

By Roger E. Spear

Q — I bought Federal Land Bank bonds which paid 7 1/2 per cent. Then I noticed in your column you say they are paying 8 1/2 per cent. When I called my agent he said they now pay 9 per cent. What is wrong?

A — There is a very reasonable explanation for this seeming conflict. When bonds are bought at original offering for $1,000 (the coupon or interest rate is the same as the yield. For example: a 7 1/2 per cent bond bought at $1,000 yields 7 1/2 per cent but if the price of that bond goes down in the resale market to $950, the bond is then said to pay 7.9 per cent currently. This is the yield that a buyer at $950 would receive. When you checked with your broker he quoted you the highest current yield available on Federal Land Bank bonds. Your particular issue, which is due in July, 1980, is selling at about $982 to yield 7.64 per cent currently or 7.69 per cent when held to maturity.

The name California is thought to have come from a 15th Century Spanish novel which used the word to describe a mythical island near the Garden of Eden full of gold and beautiful women.

Mind Your Money

Q — With the current rash of electricity failures, how can I tell if the frozen food I buy has thawed and then been refrozen? Is it harmful to eat refrozen foods? — A. M., Alexandria, Va.

A — If you find frozen food packages that are mushy or have solid sheets of ice on the bottom, they've probably thawed and been refrozen. If you find vegetables that are discolored and shriveled or ice cream that has stains on the outside of the package, they've also been refrozen.

Orange juice that has thawed and been refrozen will often separate after you mix it. If the food or beverage has thawed but has not gone above 45 degrees, it's probably not been damaged.

Don't eat any frozen food that looks unappetizing or smells odd. Take it back to your grocer for a refund.

Q — Regarding your column on lightning, I have found that a cheap and effective way to protect a sailboat is to use a set of automobile battery jumper cables.

Attach one end to the boat's backstay and drop the other end into the water behind the boat. This grounds the mast. — T. R., Washington, D. C.

A — Thanks for the tip. My lightning expert gives this additional advice:
Use a tinned copper jumper cable. You can attach it directly to an aluminum mast and drop one end over the side. If you have a wooden mast you need special advice from a local lightning expert.

Q — I previously had a VA loan and there was no prepayment penalty. I now have a conventional loan and was shocked to find that I had to pay a penalty when I wanted to pay off the mortgage. — J. O., Palos Verdes, Calif.

A — VA insured loans do not permit prepayment penalties. FHA insured loans are not now requiring a prepayment penalty. Unfortunately, many conventional loans do include this penalty. This is why you should always have a lawyer

School bid accepted

VALLEY SCHOOLS — A low bid from Amoco to furnish fuel for the Valley School District has been accepted, according to Supt. Arlyn Bodilly.

The bid for 16.37 cents per gallon from Amoco was accepted by the Valley School trustees at their last meeting. The bid is for a maximum of 45,000 gallons of fuel which is only half the amount usually used by the school, Bodilly said. Their tanks are full now, however, so the board hopes they will be able to get by with that amount.

"The bid was the only one received and we had to go to the main offices in California and pressure them to get that," Bodilly stated. The Amoco company had furnished fuel for the district for the past 12 years.

Vending machines for the Valley High School have been approved by the board. Machines will be placed in the halls to furnish pastries and snacks for students.
