Ford, union reach accord

DETROIT (UPI)—United Auto Workers and Ford Motor Co. reached agreement before dawn today on a new contract covering 185,000 workers and avoided a second industry-crippling strike.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock emerged from a 21-hour bargaining session that began at 10 a.m. Thursday to announce the settlement with the nation's second largest automaker.

He declined to give any terms of the contract, but said, "I am satisfied."

Actress, convict will wed

CANON CITY, Colo. (UPI)—Actress Sue Lyon, 27, will marry convict Gary (Colton) Adamson, 33, in the Colorado State Prison chapel next month.

Adamson is serving sentences for second degree murder and robbery. The couple met in California after he escaped from the Colorado prison and was in the Los Angeles County jail. Adamson has been in prison for 15 years.

NY bank trims prime rate

NEW YORK (UPI)—First National City Bank, one of the country's largest, today slashed the interest rate for prime business loans to 9 1/2 per cent from 9 3/4 per cent effective Monday.

It was the second quarterpoint slash in the prime rate by Citibank in successive weeks and it could touch off a general cut in interest rates for prime business loans across the country.

Prosecutor bill offered

WASHINGTON (UPI)—With agitation mounting for recreating the office of special Watergate prosecutor, legislation was proposed in the Senate today to give the courts authority to name a new chief investigator.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and Birch Bayh, D-Ind., called for a law to remove the prosecutor from control of the executive branch.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., Watergate committee chairman, also advocated such a course.

Guerrillas kidnap American

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—David B. Wilkie Jr., 48, president of the Argentine subsidiary of Amoco International Oil Co., was kidnaped Thursday near his suburban home.

Wilkie was held for $1 million ransom. He was the third American and 150th person kidnaped this year. Most of the abductions have been attributed to leftist guerrillas fighting the Argentine government.

Bombs, violence stir Irish

BELFAST (UPI)—Northern Ireland was thrown into chaos today by an orgy of violence which the British army described as "most widespread wave of terror" in more than four years of sectarian strife.

At least 17 bombs exploded and more than 50 bomb scares were reported. The army said more than 100 vehicles were hijacked overnight by terrorists who often "booby trap" the vehicles with bombs.

Whole villages were evacuated, but despite several explosions there were no casualties reported.

Rebels cut Cambodian road

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Rebel troops cut the only road between Phnom Penh and the deepwater port at Kompong Som, a government spokesman said today, and field reports said Cambodian warplanes bombed insurgent positions just seven miles from the capital.

Command spokesman Col. Am Rong said the rebels severed Highway 4, a frequent insurgent target, in two places—31 and 33 miles southwest of the capital.

S. Hills hunter found safe

TWIN FALLS—A deer hunter reported lost in the South Hills area Thursday was found safe at about 1:35 a.m. today sheriff's officers said.

Delbert Klundt, 28, had left camp about 3:30 p.m. The sheriff found his way to a logging camp and was taken to the ranger station where he called officers to report his return.

Sheriff Paul Corder said Klundt had been lost for nearly eight hours.

By United Press International

The Soviet Union said today it had sent "representatives" to the Middle East to observe the precarious cease-fire and suggested the United States do the same. The United States called off an alert for some of its armed forces but most, including nuclear forces, remained on readiness.

U.S. Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger said the bulk of American forces would continue on alert because Soviet intentions in the Mideast were not entirely clear.

Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, speaking in Moscow, did not specify whether the "representatives" dispatched to the war zone were troops or civilian observers, Western diplomats, however, said it appeared from his remarks they were civilian observers rather than military personnel.

The Washington and Moscow pronouncements came as the first troops of a U.N. peacekeeping force, authorized by the Security Council on Thursday, flew to Egypt from a base on Cyprus. The United States, the Soviet Union and other big powers were excluded from membership in the force.

In the Middle East Israel charged that an Egyptian force, trapped by Israeli troops in the Sinai Desert, launched a new attack today in violation of the cease-fire in a bid to break through back home to the west bank of the Suez Canal.

In Moscow, Brezhnev charged that Israel was "treacherously" violating the cease-fire and seizing more land despite the truce.

President Nixon ordered U.S. forces around the world on the alert early Thursday after receiving reports of possible movement of Soviet paratroops toward the Middle East.

Schlesinger said today that no Soviet military personnel have shown up in the Middle East, despite Brezhnev's announcement that Soviet "representatives" had been sent there. In that announcement, the Russians suggested the United States do the same.

The White House responded that it is willing to "entertain a request" from the United Nations to participate in a U.N. observer team.

Gerald L. Warren, deputy White House press secretary, said Nixon believed that the major powers should be excluded from any observer team but said the United States was willing to participate if requested by Secretary Gerald Kurt Waldheim.

Schlesinger said the alert applied to all 2.3 million American military personnel throughout the world. He said the units taken off alert today totaled 38,000 personnel.

Schlesinger said that as a result of the apparently easing situation, the U.S. southern command—which embraces Central and South America—and the Alaska Command had been returned to normal readiness. He said, the remaining U.S. forces would be taken off alert status as Soviet actions became more clear.

The peace troops were being rushed to the area on orders of the U.N. Security Council which averted a major U.S.-Soviet confrontation Thursday by deciding to exclude troops of the big powers from the U.N. peacekeeping force.

Already on duty in the Middle East today were the observers of the U.N. Truce Supervisory Organization—28 along the Egyptian-Israeli front and 31 on the Syrian-Israeli front. UNTSO sources said 14 observers were sent to the Egyptian side from Cairo and 12 were sent from the Sinai to operate on the Israeli side.

In Jerusalem, Prime Minister Golda Meir told a meeting of Israeli government leaders the exclusion of Soviet troops from the Middle East had averted a "great danger." But she added that the fourth Middle East War was not yet over and Israel must be prepared to bear its considerable burden for a long time.

Speaking in Brussels, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy praised President Nixon's handling of the Middle East crisis.

Fumes cut classes at Hailey

HAILEY—Classes were dismissed at Wood River Junior High School Thursday following discovery of fumes leaking from the school's furnace.

Supt. Wayne Fagg said U.S. Department of Labor Inspector Elden Ryals ordered the school closed after Ryals discovered the leakage during a routine inspection.

Fagg said repair was being accomplished today and he hoped the school could be reopened Monday.

No injuries were reported from the gas leakage.

Ryals said the leaking gas was sulphur dioxide.

Sulphur dioxide is a toxic heavy colorless nonflammable gas with a pungent suffocating odor.

However, witnesses said there was no strong odor.

Press meet set

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon wound up a hectic week of crisis today by arranging to hold a televised evening news conference at which he is expected to disclose his position on future conduct of Watergate investigations.

A White House official said the news conference would be at 9 p.m. MDT in the White House East Room.

There were strong indications that Nixon might be prepared to announce that he was willing to acquiesce to demands by congressional leaders of both parties that he name a new Watergate special prosecutor to succeed Archibald Cox, whom he fired last Saturday.

Alert eases

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States called off today an alert for some of America's armed forces, although most, including nuclear forces, remained on readiness because Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger said Soviet intentions in the Mideast were not entirely clear.

President Nixon ordered the alert early Thursday after receiving reports of possible movement of Soviet paratroops toward the Middle East. Schlesinger said all of Russia's paratroops had been placed on alert and that U.S. analysts believed some might already be on the way to Egypt.

Gerald L. Warren, deputy White House press secretary, said the President believed that the major powers should be excluded from any observer team but said the United States was willing to participate if requested by Secretary Gerald Kurt Waldheim.

Schlesinger said the alert applied to all 2.3 million American military personnel throughout the world. He said the units taken off alert today totaled 38,000 personnel.

Schlesinger said the Soviet alert had been in effect "for several days."

He indicated the U.S. alert was triggered by a combination of factors:

- The Soviet alert.
- The apparent sudden preparation Tuesday of Russian transport aircraft to carry troops.
- A resumption of activity by those aircraft.
- A note delivered through diplomatic channels warning of the possibility of Soviet troops going to the Middle East.

Allegedly starved horse stretches for grass

Burley man accused of neglect

TWIN FALLS—The Twin Falls County Humane Society has filed charges of neglect of animals and cruelty to animals against a Burley man.

Bobbi Glasmann, society president, said six horses have been taken into custody by the society and are being fed and treated by a veterinarian at society expense. They will be offered for sale when in suitable condition, to pay the cost of feed and medication.

The horses, she said, were taken from a corral at the Dick Finch home near Burley. She said Finch has been formally charged in a complaint signed by the society. He is scheduled to appear in magistrate court in Cassia County.

Mrs. Glasmann said the complaint against Finch alleges he allowed the horses to go without adequate food and that several were near starvation.

Buhl Highway District may get new territory

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News Writer

BUHL—If petitioners are successful, an election soon will be held to annex a portion of the Twin Falls Highway District into the Buhl Highway District.

William Kinyon, chairman of the Buhl Highway District board of commissioners had voted to consolidate into the Buhl District that portion of the Twin Falls Highway District which lies west of Salmon Falls Creek.

The area includes several hundred square miles from a point across the Snake River south of Bliss south to the Nevada Line. Until recently, most of the area was desert grazing land, but much of it has now been irrigated, with increasing road use.

Kinyon said the Twin Falls Highway District "has been asking the Buhl District for years and years and years if they wouldn't take it but up to this point the Buhl District wouldn't accept the proposal."

Keith Anderson, engineer for the Twin Falls District, said the area is difficult for work crews to reach from Twin Falls headquarters, but he also said that the Twin Falls District has spent about $200,000 on road improvements in the area in the past three years, at the expense of other areas of the Twin Falls district, and for that reason the Twin Falls District board may be reluctant to give up the area.

"Due to the recent expenditures for major construction I think this (consolidation) would be less desirable now than it would have been four or five years ago," Anderson said.

Anderson said the Twin Falls District will lose funds from property taxes and from highway users revenue in the portion if it moves to the Buhl District. However, the losses would be offset by reduced maintenance costs, he said.

Hailey savings, loan application due study

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News Boise Bureau

BOISE—A state hearing officer took under advisement Thursday a request from a Blaine County group for a state savings and loan institution charter.

Wayne Crookston, assistant attorney general, said following the public hearing in the Statehouse he would make his recommendation to Finance Commissioner Thomas D. McEldowney in the next several days. The only information offered at the hearing—was generally favorable to the request.

State Finance Examiner Robert Sargent said his investigation had determined a savings and loan institution was economically feasible in the Ketchum area, and the people involved in the effort to establish the institution were capable.

The only point Sargent raised in answering the questions of Mike Brassey, a Finance Department deputy administrator, was with the proposed name of the institution. Sargent noted one savings and loan institution had failed in Blaine County, and added that the proposed name of First Idaho Savings and Loan paralleled that of the old one too closely.

Following the meeting, the name was changed to First Intermountain Savings and Loan.

Finance officials said following the meeting there are currently four savings and loan institutions in Idaho with state charters. They are in Pocatello, Blackfoot, Mountain Home and one other firm with four separate offices in Boise, Payette, Idaho Falls and Pocatello.

William R. Burt, Hailey, is chairman of the board of the group trying to win state approval for the bank.

Probers eye Butz efforts

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON—Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz is under criminal investigation in connection with an alleged attempt to influence a Federal Trade Commission investigation last year for political purposes, according to several informed sources.

The matter was reported in August to the office of then-Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox, and was referred to the task force investigating campaign financing. The investigation is continuing, according to these sources, despite Cox's firing last week.

The incident that led to the Butz investigation revolves around the 1969 acquisition by Heublein, Inc., one of the nation's largest purveyors of alcoholic beverages, of a California wine growers cooperative known as United Vintners, Inc.

In the spring of 1972, the FTC's Bureau of Competition, in a recommendation to the five commissioners, suggested that the acquisition constituted an illegal restraint of trade and should be formally challenged.

Before the commissioners could act on the recommendation, according to various accounts, Butz requested a meeting with then-FTC Chairman Miles Kirkpatrick.

But as the meeting was ending, with Kirkpatrick apparently unpersuaded, Butz changed his tack. According to the sources, he asked Kirkpatrick to delay the challenge until after the presidential election, and implying the challenge would hurt President Nixon's re-election efforts in that state.

Turn 'em back

To the delight of many Magic Valley residents, turn-back time is here. Daylight saving time for 1973 expires Saturday night—or to be correct, at 2 a.m. Sunday.

That's the hour clocks, watches and other timepieces should be set back an hour, as Idaho and most of the United States tick back to standard time. And a lot of Magic Valley residents who are all wound up over daylight saving time will be happy at being back on standard time for six months.

One of the most noticeable effects will be the sun appearing to rise an hour earlier and set an hour sooner—making candlelight suppers an autumn event in some homes.

But to avoid alarm over the time situation, the key is to get those clocks and watches back an hour on retiring Saturday night.

3 flee Gem prison, 2 nabbed

BOISE (UPI) — Three men escaped in a hail of gunfire over a 12-foot, barb-topped chain-link fence from the old state prison Thursday night and authorities recaptured two of them early today.

Prison officials identified the three fugitives as Walker Balla, 29, serving 25 years for robbery; Richard Don Foster, 26, serving life for rape, and Gary Thomas O'Connell, 21, serving six years for robbery.

City Policecaptured Balla and O'Connell between 3 and 4 a.m. today in a residential section along Warm Springs Avenue near the prison. Both men were wounded and neither resisted officers. Balla was hiding in shrubbery and O'Connell was nearby.

Foster was still at large and an all points bulletin was sent out for him.

Attendants at St. Alphonsus Hospital said Balla received a superficial bullet wound in his chest while escaping from the old, grey-walled institution. His condition was listed as good. O'Connell was shot in the left leg and was listed as fair.

Armed guards put the two-wounded men under heavy security at the hospital.

Richard L. Anderson, acting director for the penitentiary, said a tower guard fired four shots at the men as they scampered over the tall security fence around the penitentiary.

Prior to the escape, the three were among 25 inmates who attended secondary education classes in a building inside the number two yard of the prison, according to duty officer L.D. Smith.

Shortly after the class let out and while other inmates were being returned to the walled-in number one yard the three men made their bid for freedom.

Smith said a guard turned to lock the classroom when the three darted across a 20-foot area to the first of two, 12-foot chain-link fences topped with barbed wire and made their

New 'con' scheme in US Judge hospitalized

TF area

TWIN FALLS — Residents of Twin Falls were warned by police today of another "con game" apparently being worked in this area.

Police Capt. Tim Qualls said one, and possibly two men, are attempting to obtain money from elderly residents with a "sob story" approach.

He said a Twin Falls couple was contacted Wednesday by a well dressed man appearing young man who told them he was the man's nephew and asked for financial help. He was given $10, which was all the man had at the time, Qualls said.

He told the Twin Falls couple he had been in an accident in Nevada, had wrecked his car, and his wife was in a hospital there with a neck injury. Officers are checking the Nevada area for information on the man's story.

Officers said the suspect identified himself as a nephew of the Twin Falls man but a telephone call to other relatives revealed this nephew had been killed in the service overseas.

Qualls asked persons called with any such story or other appeal for money to notify police.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Chief Federal Judge Willis W. Ritter will remain hospitalized for at least one more day after suffering what his doctors termed a possible heart attack.

Guardsmen to assist officials

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Army National Guardsmen will assist local law enforcement officials in residential areas Halloween.

Captain Larry J. Pettingill, commander of Twin Falls Headquarters Troop, 116th Armored Cavalry, said 15 members of his unit will give their time in an effort to stop injuries to young trick or treaters by automobiles at street crossings and in poorly lit residential areas.

He said the men will not attempt to perform law enforcement duties, but will be available to assist the children.

Molotov cocktails found at school

KIMBERLY — Five Kimberly boys, ranging in age from 12 to 15, are scheduled to appear in magistrate court Nov. 14 with their parents in connection with a number of "Molotov cocktails" recovered on Kimberly school grounds.

Kimberly Police Chief Jim Campbell said the five youths were petitioned into court under the Youth Rehabilitation Act following an investigation which began Oct. 12.

He said three of the "cocktails," pop bottles filled with gasoline under pressure with a cork and cloth, were found near the Kimberly football field. Four others were found in the home of one of the boys.

Campbell said no bomb threats were made. A teacher overheard some of the boys talking about the "bombs," questioned several of them and notified police.

Campbell said the pressurized gasoline-filled bottles are highly dangerous as they explode when thrown or dropped.

(Special to the Times-News) BOISE — Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce manager Ray Rostron was one of two men named today to the Department of Commerce and Development Advisory Committee.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus also named Idaho State Journal Publisher Alvin H. Rieken to the group. "For some time Twin Falls and Pocatello have needed representation on this important advisory council," Andrus said, "and these two fine men will do an excellent job of representing their communities and their economic areas."

Andrus said Rostron, as Chamber of Commerce manager for the past nine years, had been one of the Magic Valley officials responsible for the area's rapid economic growth.

On Good Sense

A number of commentators have made a large thing of the fact that the 25th Amendment to the Constitution is quite vague about the actual mechanics of installing a replacement vice president.

Section 2 of the amendment reads: "Whenever there is a vacancy in the office of the Vice President, the President shall nominate a Vice President who shall take office upon confirmation by a majority vote of both houses of Congress."

There is nothing in the section, it has been pointed out, that says how soon after a vacancy occurs the president shall nominate a vice president, nor puts a time limit on how long Congress may deliberate before accepting or rejecting the nominee.

In fact, it does not indicate whether the president should submit a single nominee at one time or a whole slate of them for Congress to choose from. Nor does it specify what kind of hearings Congress should hold, or whether it should act as a joint body or if each house should vote separately.

Yet this one sentence says everything that needs to be said, and if it is vague, it is the same kind of vagueness that has enabled the Constitution to endure as a living document down through the decades.

The writers of the Constitution wisely realized that they could not anticipate the needs or problems of future generations. They thus bequeathed what was essentially the framework of a government, knowing that only life and experience could flesh it out, along with the means -- the amendment process -- whereby later men could change it as they deemed necessary.

The Constitution's economy of words, its sometimes deliberate ambiguities, have been the model and guide for every subsequent alternation to it.

Not that the Constitution cannot be detailed and prolix. Indeed, most of the 26 amendments that have been added to it have had to go into detail because they are part of the fleshing out process the Founding Fathers foresaw.

The 12th Amendment, for example, adopted in 1804, runs on at length about just how the president and vice president are to be elected, what happens if no candidate receives a majority, etc.

Similarly, in the 25th Amendment, adopted in 1967, section 4 explicitly spells out how a president may be declared unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office and be relieved of them, and how he may claim them back again.

Such detail is necessary in this section because it is involved not with general principles but with the maintenance of government continuity under highly specific circumstances. The 25th Amendment, it should be remembered, was designed primarily to anticipate the crisis of a disabled president and only secondarily to deal with vice presidential succession.

There is not such explicitness in section 2, nor does there need to be. Like so much else in the Constitution, it states the essentials and leaves the rest to the good faith and good sense of whatever generation of men finds it necessary to put its provisions into operation.

MR. SPECTATOR

Lights On, Pilots

Don't let it throw you if, in broad daylight, you look up into the sky and see planes flying around with their landing lights on.

The officials of the Federal Aviation Administration have come up with the suggestion pilots flip on the plane landing lights if they are within 10 miles of an airport. Reason: the birds will see them and avoid the plane.

Ever since man started to fly there has been competition for the airspace between planes and birds. And, when the birds hit a plane the plane is really shook up. In fact, many planes have been damaged to the extent they would no longer stay in the air and scores of people have been killed as a result.

So now someone has figured that birds tend to avoid flying lights. Apparently they are afraid of them and turn away. So (although it isn't a law as yet) the FAA officials urge the landing lights to be turned on within 10 miles of any airport day or night.

If you have a habit of watching the big jets land (such as they do at Joslin Field in Twin Falls) you have noticed the pilots flip on the lights when the approach starts -- at least five miles or so away. And they leave them on during takeoff and climbout -- up to about the same distance.

It will not hurt, that's a cinch. A bird is not good for a plane because, even a small duck, striking a plane zipping along at 300 miles an hour, can knock a plane's wing off.

But then it will have another good side, too. It will enable those little silvery men in their strange machines from wherever it is to not run into our planes in the vicinity of our airports.

FREE AT LAST Well, you can now sit down without any real problems. The Borg-Warner Corporation's plumbing division has come up with a water-saving toilet designed to reduce water use by 25 to 30 per cent.

The division's president, James T. Sledge, has announced that "this new toilet can save the average household more than 22 gallons of water each day and that's enough water for three average showers, one dishwashing cycle, a tub bath or a healthy watering for the shrubbery."

Mr. Spectator compliments the Borg-Warner company for such a real find. Now, if someone would come up with a toilet which glowed in the dark it wouldn't be necessary to use electro-power while you were sitting around reading.

PETER LISAGOR Nixon Pictured As Confident

(c) Chicago Daily News WASHINGTON -- President Nixon is pictured as confident that he can ride out the storm over the Watergate tapes and the "political upheaval" within his administration.

White House officials say that Nixon believes Sen. John Stennis, who may come to be known as the Great Verifier, will satisfy the courts, the Congress and the public that the tapes have been much ado about nothing.

They don't put it quite so colloquially, but they exhibit little doubt in asserting that the President will be "vindicated" by Stennis' findings once the aging, Mississippi Democrat has listened to the controversial tapes and affirms Nixon's account of them.

As Congress returned from a long Veterans Day weekend and the White House lawyers trooped off to Judge John Sirica's court, the President remained in a cocoon of silence and seclusion, driving to nearby Camp David, Md., with Mrs. Nixon.

Symptoms of the White House counter-attack against the raging storm of criticism that greeted the dismissal of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, with the attendant resignations of Attorney General Elliot Richardson and his deputy William French, was a comment by one aide who asked what the President has been doing.

"Well, he's just solved the Middle East War, that's all," was the reply.

Nixon apparently hoped that a cease-fire in the Arab-Israeli conflict, coupled with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's scheduled trip to Peking, this week, would dramatize his handling of critical foreign affairs, and perhaps take some of the steam out of the growing clamor for impeachment.

"We've just begun to fight," said one combative aide, who suggested the President would speak in his own behalf when "the shouting and screaming subsides."

In an unprecedented admission, Presidential aides acknowledged that the initial public reaction to the removal of Cox and the departure of the justice department's two top officials was overwhelmingly negative.

One of the strongest indictments of the President's action came from Chesterfield Smith, president of the American Bar Assn. who supported the role of a special prosecutor in the case, and condemned the proposal to use Stennis to screen the tapes.

Smith said it "may well be acceptable for a Congressional investigation, but to also insist that it be utilized by the courts in criminal proceedings is an assault of wholly unprecedented dimension on the very heart of the administration of justice."

The ABA head called the President's action "an unprecedented flouting of the rule of law." Nixon, "by declaring an intention, and by taking overt action, to abort the established processes of justice, has now instituted an intolerable assault upon the courts, our first line of defense against tyranny and arbitrary power," Smith said.

Smith praised Cox, Richardson and Ruckelshaus as "three great lawyers" who had "put ethics and professional honor above public office."

A White House spokesman said that Smith's comments "couldn't have been any worse than George Meany's," a reference to the AFL-CIO president's denunciation of the President in the Cox affair.

ANDREW TULLY How About Perpetual Motion?

WASHINGTON -- It must be more than a touch bewildering to be Sen. Teddy Kennedy and former Texas Gov. John Connally these days. Were I either of those men, I would be tempted to forsake big-time politics and tackle something easy like constructing a perpetual motion machine.

Two developments a couple of days apart seem calculated to create confusion in the Kennedy and Connally minds and cause them to ponder the twistings and turnings of political fortune.

Connally gave up his best chance for a Presidential nomination when he turned Republican.

Crazy. In Kennedy's case the only possible explanation is that those voters who have named him their first choice for the Presidency did so despite doubts about his integrity. Apparently they feel that the Kennedy name and charisma, plus Teddy's good looks, personality, and "Kennedy style" compensate for any lack of trust in his rectitude.

At the same time, we have Mel Laird saying admiringly that John Connally "made a great sacrifice to become a Republican," and "should be welcomed" into the party, but also telling Connally in effect that he mustn't expect the GOP to nominate him for the White House.

Presidential politics are enough to drive most sane men over the wall. Moreover, a lot of other Republicans -- possibly including Mel Laird -- would like to get that 1978 nomination. But Connally can be forgiven for wondering what prompted Laird to count him out of the running before the horses are out of the gate.

Although Richard Nixon is a secretive man, it is no secret that he admires John Connally -- and at least up to the moment Laird spoke his little piece -- counted the Texan as a leading candidate to succeed him, if not The leading candidate.

No. Unquestionably Nixon was privy to Laird's views and did not consider it in his personal interest to disapprove the public airing of those views. John Connally has been put on notice by the White House that he is no more than one of the pack in the race for the GOP nomination.

Why else would Laird speak of Connally's "great personal sacrifice" to become a Republican? As for Kennedy, he may be yet another victim of Watergate. One of the major issues in 1976 will be morality in government, and obviously many voters are still confused by the Chappaquiddick incident in their search for Mr. Clean.

Presidency," they also disagreed by 43 to 36 per cent that Kennedy "could give the country the kind of inspired leadership we need."

The temptation is to dismiss that particular poll as preposterous, but I suggest it makes a certain rude sense. Events of the past few years have had their effect on the voter. Chappaquiddick plus Watergate has made him more uncertain than usual about "popular" political men.

That is Kennedy's problem and it is Connally's problem, too. Connally has no Chappaquiddick on his back and he was not involved in Watergate, but he suffers from his status as a brand new Republican, and like Mel Laird, workers in the GOP salt mines may not be persuaded to hand the party's biggest prize to a candidate whose loyalty is of such recent vintage.

Those Growths Removed By Surgery

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am subject to keratocysts of the face and forearms and have had four of these growths removed by surgery. My doctor advised me to protect myself from the sun when I go out. Is this by wearing a large hat and protective creams.

I have two questions. First, could you give the ingredients that should be in an effective sunscreen? There are several on the market and I would like to use one of the more effective ones.

Second, could you comment on the use of bronzing gels to give a suntan effect to the skin? I find the sunscreens prevent me from getting a tan, and I feel bleached out. -- A. W. A.

screened out. I see no reason why you shouldn't occasionally substitute one of the tanning lotions to unbleach you. Their purpose is cosmetic as well as mildly protective.

Incidentally for the sake of other readers, it was well to remember that some drugs increase sensitivity to the sun. Among them are sulpha preparations (both the antibiotics and the diabetes pills); tetracycline (another antibiotic); some tranquilizers; salicylates, some (not all) diuretics, and birth control pills.

It can be a point to keep in mind for some folks.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know if giving a baby of two months seven drops of paregoric every four hours for colic is harmful. He is a nice size baby although he was three weeks premature.

The baby acted as though he might be blind for a time while on the paregoric. Can you inform us on this? -- M. J.

effect of the paregoric.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had acne and now am left with scars. I've read that a "skin burning" will get rid of them. What is this? -- I. A. D.

I think you refer to a form of "skin-peeling" which involves the use of an acid causing the outer layer of skin to peel. This lessens the chance for blackheads and pimples to form, thus helping the acne situation.

It has to be done under the supervision of a doctor familiar with the process, because improper use can cause severe skin irritation. It is used on a daily basis in some cases of acne.

As to how much it will help get rid of your scars, I have my doubts.

Acne is one of the most terrible problems of growing up. If you are afflicted with this aggravation, or if you have children who are, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of this helpful booklet, "Controlling Acne, Blackheads and Pimples." The Ann Frank diary unaware of a Jewish girl through the medium of what purports to be her personally written story, ANN FRANK'S DIARY. Any informed literary inspection of this book would have shown it to have been impossible as the work of a teenager.

Editor, Times-News: Area audiences will view ANN FRANK'S DIARY at CSI. Published in 1952 the book has long been required reading in our schools. Made into a play it won the Pulitzer Prize and the New York Drama Critics Award in 1956, now 90 weeks in New York with comparable runs in major U.S. cities; also in Europe, running in 18 German cities. "German audiences," reported LIFE MAGAZINE, "invariably greet the final curtain in stricken silence and have jammed the theatres in what seems almost a national act of penance."

A noteworthy decision of the New York Supreme Court confirms this point of view, in that the well known American Jewish writer, Meyer Levin, has been awarded $50,000 to be paid him by the father of Ann Frank as an honorarium for Levin's work on the ANN FRANK DIARY. Mr. Frank, in Switzerland, has promised to pay to his race kin, Meyer Levin, not less than $50,000 because he had used the dialogue of author Levin, just as it was and "implanted" it in the diary as being his daughter's intellectual work."

said, the case was settled out of court, for what amount, he did not indicate.

Historical revisionists, Paul Rassinier of France and Harry Elmer Barnes of the U.S., now deceased, with A.J.P. Taylor of England, and others, have questioned the accepted charge of German atrocities in World War II. Spid Barnes: "It is admirable enough that from a million to a million, and a half Jews perished between 1940 and 1945, without having to add vast imaginary slaughter. It only weakens the case when, with the use of false documents, the weakest sort of testimony, and statistics outrageously inflated, the State of Israel claims indemnity for six million dead. This completely inaccurate figure only serves Communist and other political causes in Europe, and outright financial purposes in Tel Aviv." Again, curiously surfacing, I contacted the Bonn Government. An April 1968 reply indicated that as of Dec. 3, 1967, an estimated $7.25 billion had been paid in reparations from Germany to Israel, and that the "number of concentration camp victims has not as yet been fully determined."

"Of all the personal documents published about the heroism and terrors of World War II, a teen-age girl's simple chronicle of her existence while in hiding in Holland has probably had greater impact than any other. I, too, have wept for Ann Frank. Consequently, my curiosity was aroused in 1962 when the Swedish Journal FRIDA ORD reported: "History has many examples of myths that live a longer and richer life than truth, and may become more effective than truth. The Western world has for some years been made

Richardson eyed as chief prober

(C) Chicago Daily News
 WASHINGTON — Conservative Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., has asked President Nixon to appoint former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson to replace Archibald Cox as special Watergate prosecutor.

Richardson, who resigned rather than follow Nixon's orders to fire Cox, was not available for comment on the suggestion.

Under Gurney's plan, the President would guarantee Richardson's independence and agree to give the Senate a veto power over his removal.

"There is a need for speedy action to restore confidence," the Florida lawmaker wrote the President. "In view of the crisis atmosphere, your appointment of a new special prosecutor is of paramount importance."

About a dozen senators, led by Phillip A. Hart, D-Mich., and Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., want to pass legislation to let federal Judge John J. Sirica name Cox's successor.

Nixon has assigned Acting Atty. Gen. Robert Bork to conduct the inquiry into the administration's worst scandal. Bork was assigned Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen, the man who led the much-criticized inquiry that did not penetrate a White House cover-up. Meantime, Petersen joined with Henry S. Ruth, Cox's former deputy, to get a court order protecting the task force's files and denying access to anyone but the attorneys who worked for Cox and Petersen.

Their motion was filed with Sirica following the assignment of FBI agents and U.S. marshals to seal off Cox's headquarters and Richardson's office following the Saturday night firing and resignation.

"We are still here, hard at work, with the notable exception of Professor Cox," said a spokesman.

Senate sentiment is overwhelming for a special prosecutor but many Republicans want the choice to be left to Nixon rather than assigned to a federal judge.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., a sponsor of the bill to let Sirica appoint a successor to Cox, said the President "probably" would want Congress to the punch by appointing someone before the Senate and House act.

But Bayh doubted that Richardson, who served in three other federal posts before becoming attorney general, would want to take on the special prosecutor's job.

Awaiting tapes

U.S. DISTRICT Court Judge John J. Sirica said in Boston Thursday night he expects to have President Nixon's secret White House tapes "within" three or four days. Sirica said he had not yet decided whether to call in a technical expert to aid in examining them. (UPI)

Ruckelshaus lauds public's reaction

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Resigned Deputy Attorney General William D. Ruckelshaus told applauding students Thursday that public reaction to the firing of Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox was "an outpouring such as Washington has never seen."

But Ruckelshaus, who resigned Saturday rather than fire Cox under President Nixon's orders, declared himself "neutral" on the question of whether the President should be impeached.

Ruckelshaus spoke to 10,000 students of the University of California campus in the first major political convocation on the once strife-torn campus since the Cambodian crisis of 1970.

Ruckelshaus said he lost his job, as did his boss Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson, because Nixon's demand that Cox be fired violated "a solemn agreement" between the U.S.

Senate and the attorney general.

He said Nixon handed over the White House tapes in the Watergate investigation because "the people of the United States demanded it."

"The worst thing people of this country can do is to drop out. Don't quit. Don't drop out."

Tapes hearing sought

(C) Washington Star-News
 WASHINGTON — The legal battle between President Nixon and the special Senate Watergate Committee over the White House tapes may reach the Supreme Court by late next month.

White House lawyer Charles Alan Wright Thursday urged the United States Court of Appeals to hear oral arguments to the dispute on Nov. 9.

This is a week later than the committee wants the court to hear arguments. But even if the Nov. 9 date is accepted, the appeals court may hand down its ruling by the end of the month.

Whoever side loses is expected to carry the case swiftly to the Supreme Court. The justices would probably issue their final ruling sometime early next year.

The committee has subpoenaed five tape recordings of conversations between Nixon and his aides and a variety of White House documents.

But the President defied the subpoena, and Chief Judge John J. Sirica of U.S. District Court dismissed the committee's lawsuit which seeks a court order enforcing the subpoena.

Sirica held the federal courts do not have jurisdiction over the case. The committee has challenged his ruling in the appeals court.

Impeachment move wins Ford backing

(C) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — Gerald R. Ford, President Nixon's nominee for vice president, said today in answer to questions that the House of Representatives should "carry on" with an inquiry into the impeachment of the president.

Moreover, Ford said he would support demands for the creation of a new Watergate special prosecutor's office if a majority of the Congress insisted on it.

Ford, who is the minority leader of the House, outlined his views minutes after the House Republican Conference implored three White House officials to persuade Nixon to name a few special prosecutor and to make public the contents of the secret Watergate tape recordings.

Bryce N. Harlow, a counselor to the President, told newsmen the Republican requests would be conveyed to Nixon and that the President would decide "very shortly" whether to name a successor to Archibald Cox, the special prosecutor who was discharged Saturday.

Reports circulated Thursday afternoon among Republicans in Congress that Nixon would accede to the plea and designate a new special prosecutor when he holds a news conference tomorrow. A spokesman for the Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said that Scott anticipated the appointment.

But Democrats in the Senate and the House pressed ahead with plans to enact legislation that would grant Chief Judge John J. Sirica of the U.S. District Court here the authority to appoint a Watergate prosecutor totally independent of the White House.

VP hearing date set

(C) Newhouse News Service
 WASHINGTON — Congress, ready to perform a new and momentous function for the first time in history, will open hearings Wednesday on the nomination of Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan to fill the vacant vice presidency.

The Senate, moving more swiftly than the House, has quietly drafted a 33-point set of rules for a "leak-proof" investigation of Ford that will pose a vigorous public test, televised to the nation, of his intellect and capacity for leadership.

Rule 9, for example, requires that Ford himself must personally answer the questions put to him, although he may have an attorney at his side to advise him.

The rule specifically states that any counsel accompanying Ford at the hearings would not be authorized "to coach the witness, answer for the witness, or put words in the witness' mouth."

A Senate source said the wording was deliberately inserted into the rules to insure that Ford himself is required to demonstrate his capacity for leadership abilities and grasp of complex issues.

Although President Nixon's choice of Ford on Oct. 12 to replace the disgraced Spiro T. Agnew was originally expected to sail smoothly through Congress—the shot-and-shell political developments since then, including the embryonic impeachment procedure begun in the House, has virtually insured that Ford will be subjected to thoughtful and challenging examination by his colleagues in both the House and Senate.

"We have to examine the man's qualifications on the basis that he may someday become president," said Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., the Senate's Democratic whip and a member of the Senate Rules Committee, which will conduct the Ford hearings on that side of Capitol Hill.

Emergency?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House officials say that President Nixon had the authority to dispatch FBI agents to guard the offices of former Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox last Saturday night.

But their replacement Sunday by Justice Department guards indicated that the White House considered the security precaution only an emergency measure.

Gen. Alexander M. Haig, the White House chief of staff, says he ordered FBI agents to seal Cox's offices after the prosecutor was fired.

Haig told reporters earlier this week that White House staff members got word before Cox's dismissal that members of the prosecutor's staff were leaving the offices with bundles under their arms.

He said that "under the circumstances we felt it was necessary to secure" the evidentiary material.

Confidence questioned

PINEHURST, N.C. (UPI) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, says he doesn't think Americans will have confidence in the Justice Department's prosecution of the Watergate case.

Ervin told newsmen Thursday night the nation is "not going to have confidence in prosecution where the executive department in effect is going to be prosecuting itself."

While President Nixon, he said, has settled the question of the availability of his disputed Watergate tapes, Ervin plans to introduce legislation "to make certain the federal courts have jurisdiction to rule on our (the committee's) request for the tapes."

Soviet message triggers US alert

(c) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — What caused President Nixon to put U.S. military forces on a worldwide alert was a message from the Soviet Union which came in Wednesday night.
 This requested the United States to join the Soviet Union in sending troops into the Middle East to keep the peace and — although it never has been acknowledged officially — it also threatened that if the United States would not cooperate, the Soviets would go on alone.
 But the crisis blew up so suddenly and appears to be receding so quickly that some skeptics have raised the question whether the U.S. alert may have been ordered by the President to divert public attention from his Watergate woes.

As far as can be ascertained, however, it was not a fictitious crisis and it has been resolved because the Russians backed down.
 Authoritative U.S. sources said that unless a snag developed they expected the U.S. forces around the world would be ordered to stand down from their alert sometime today.
 There was no hint of a crisis in the air Wednesday afternoon. Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin spent an hour at the state department with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger from 4 to 5 o'clock.
 Their conversation, as Kissinger recalled at a press conference yesterday, was devoted to a preliminary discussion of "the site, the participation and the procedures" for getting diplomatic negotiations started between the Israelis and the Arabs.

 With the Middle East situation seemingly moving along satisfactorily, Kissinger went into a conference with his aides at the state department early Wednesday evening on preparation for his rescheduled visit to China.
 The conference was interrupted by a telephone call to Kissinger from Dobrynin who said that he had received an important message from the Kremlin and that he would send it over in his limousine.
 The message, according to Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., was "brutal" and "rough" and threatened unilateral action by the Russians if the United States refused to join them in a joint peace-keeping unit in the Middle East.
 By 10:30 p.m. Wednesday, a series of urgent meetings of National Security Council officials began at the White House. By midnight, Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger put out the first alert order. By 3 a.m. Thursday, when the White House meeting concluded, a general alert was put into effect.
 It was the biggest alert since the 1962 Cuban missile crisis. It included B-52 bombers at the Strategic Air Command Headquarters in Omaha and other points around the United States, the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N.C., U.S. Army and Air Force units stationed in Germany, and the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.
 At noon yesterday, Kissinger walked into a crowded press conference at the state department to provide further details on the situation.
 He used the news conference both to alert the U.S. public to the reasons for the military alert and to warn the Russians publicly against the dangers of taking unilateral action in the Middle East.
 "The United States does not favor and will not approve the sending of a joint Soviet-United States force into the Middle East," he announced. "The United States is even more opposed to the unilateral introduction by any great power, especially by any nuclear power, of military forces into the Middle East in whatever guise those forces should be introduced."

 Kissinger said that the plan for a joint U.S.-Soviet military force in the Middle East "was never broached to us, either publicly or privately, until yesterday (Wednesday). And we immediately made clear that we would not participate in such a force, and also that we would oppose any unilateral moves."
 Authoritative sources point out that Kissinger's reference to unilateral moves was a clear indication that the Russians had made the threat that Senator Jackson said they did.
 The U.S. forces were put on alert not only because of this threat but because, as Kissinger disclosed, the United States learned that some Soviet military units had been put on alert and, in addition, the United States was "puzzled by the behavior" of some Soviet representatives in the discussions that took place.
 Part of Kissinger's press conference was devoted to dealing with questions from skeptical correspondents.
 To one reporter who wanted to know whether the military alert was recommended by Kissinger or had been initiated by the President and who asked, as well, whether it was a "totally rational decision," Kissinger replied that it was the unanimous decision of all the members of the National Security Council.
 He also assured the reporters that when all the facts were out it would be clear the President "had no other choice" than to take the action he did.

Paper raps Soviet

HONG KONG (UPI) — The Chinese Communist Party newspaper "People's Daily" today accused the Soviet Union of undercutting the Arab cause in the Middle East.
 An editorial, obviously written before the latest developments that saw American military forces put on alert, criticized both the United States and the Soviet Union for working "hand in glove" to put out the raging flames of the "people's just war."
 However, the main thrust of the criticism was against the role of the Soviet Union in the United Nations and in the Middle East theater.
 "The two superpowers, the Soviet Union and the United States, have all along contended with each other fiercely in the Middle East," the editorial said.
 The remainder of the editorial, broadcast in full by King's Hsinhua New Agency and monitored in Hong Kong, dwelt on "the sinister dual tactics of social-imperialism," meaning the Soviet Union.
 "By saying 'having no tension,' they 'ease of tension' in mind than to bind the Arab peoples hand and foot," the editorial added.

Awaits orders

A TROOPER from the 82nd Airborne sits quietly with his weapon awaiting orders. All U.S. Army and Air Force units at home and abroad were put on alert Thursday due to developments in the Middle East. (UPI)

Soviets on guard

(c) New York Times Service
NEW YORK — The expansion of Soviet airlift capacity, airborne forces and the Mediterranean Squadron of the Black Sea Fleet in the last five years — has provided the Russians with means of rapid military intervention in the Middle East, North Africa and the Indian Subcontinent, should they have decided on such a course.
 Intelligence analysts, military and civilian, who have charted this expansion see it in "long-range terms" as signifying the end of the United States policy of containment by conventional military means.
 They believe that the Supreme Soviet Command would consider the use of those forces to strengthen the Soviet position in strategically sensitive areas like the Middle East if that position or the military survival of a client state in the area was in obvious danger.

 For 20 years Pravda and Soviet defense publications have stressed the importance of the Middle East and the Eastern Mediterranean Basin to the security of southern areas of the Soviet Union.

Alert decision upheld

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Many members of Congress, including influential Democrats, rallied behind President Nixon's decision to order a worldwide military alert.
 There was a sprinkling of charges that the alert was a ploy by the President to divert attention from his Watergate-related troubles. But these charges were far outnumbered by statements of support.
 "Nothing political is going on," Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. told the House Thursday after returning from a White House briefing on the Middle East crisis. "This is really, deeply serious to the country."
 Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., said the suggestion that the alert was politically motivated was "stupid, far-fetched, irresponsible."
 Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference, "It is a symptom of what is happening to our country that it could even be suggested the United States would ever alert its forces for domestic relations."

 "We are attempting to conduct the foreign policy of the United States with regard for what we owe, not just to the electorate, but to future generations," Kissinger said.
 On Capitol Hill, House Democratic Whip John McFall, D-Calif., after attending the White House briefing, said he still had a "nagging suspicion" that the President's move was tied to his political problems.
 Two other California Democrats, Reps. John E. Moss and Robert L. Leggett, were also skeptical.

Leggett, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, said the alert order has "given the President an extra 24 hours to figure out what to say to the American people about Watergate." Nixon postponed a televised news conference, scheduled for Thursday night, in order to devote his full attention to the Middle East, the White House said.
 Moss said it appeared to him that "this is an effort to divert attention from the more damaging disclosures the President feared Archibald Cox was about to make when he fired him as special prosecutor."
 "Precautionary alerts are not uncommon things," Albert told a news conference. "It has happened in the past without much being said about it."

Career day at TFHS

TWIN FALLS — High School seniors listen to Mark Barton, Brigham Young University, discuss college opportunities Thursday. Representatives from 10 colleges and universities in Utah and Idaho spoke to about 150 students during the annual sessions scheduled by high school counselors.

Solons favor airing

BOISE (UPI) — Legislative reaction seems to be good so far on a proposal for live, statewide television coverage of key legislative hearings and debates, a house leader said Thursday.

Speaker William J. Lanting, R-Hollister, told the Citizens Advisory Committee on Legislative Improvement (CACLI) he has cursory approval from all house members he has contacted to date.

He said he understands some senators favor the idea, too. CACLI has proposed airing key hearings, debates and 30-minute news reports daily on three educational television stations — in Moscow, Boise and Pocatello — to make citizens more aware of legislation.

To do it, however, some $35,000 will be needed and the advisory committee is seeking a letter of intent from the house speaker and president of the senate.

Meantime, committee members discussed with a Boise public relations consultant its proposal for a public information division in the legislature to keep the public better-informed.

L. E. "Erv" Johnson of L.E. Johnson & Associates, Boise, recommended that persons hired to handle such chores be persons who are members of the Society of Public Relations Consultants.

He indicated his firm might like to apply if the legislature adopts the committee proposal.

Deputy Secretary of State Dryden Hiller-discussed with CACLI the need to have a central place where citizens and others can obtain information not only about bills that passed but those that failed.

MacKay said. Earlier Boise attorney representing the Idaho Potato Commission told the reorganization commission if the state's commodity commissions are not allowed independence they may well die when state reorganization takes place.

Attorney Gene Thomas told members of the reorganization group that commodity commissions should be set up in one of the planned 20 agencies.

Hair tomorrow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — From Georgetown University — the bald facts about hair transplants: "Since 1954, when the first hair transplant was done, more and more cosmetic-minded Americans have been submitting to the procedure."

Some of those first transplants—19 years ago—are still growing, says Dr. Peter N. Horvath. He is a dermatologist. He does hair transplants.

INEC appeals shut down

BOISE (UPI) — The chairman of the Idaho Nuclear Energy Commission said today he considers his commission a specialized technical arm of state government and argued it would be unwise to merely move its function somewhere else.

In a written presentation to the State Executive Reorganization Commission, Donald J. MacKay said better communication is needed between the nuclear commission and the reorganization commission.

The commission earlier voted to abolish the INEC and today was the first opportunity the energy commission had to appeal to the reorganization group.

Idaho residents passed a constitutional amendment last year which called for the reorganization of the executive branch of state government into no more than 20 agencies. The legislature has until January 1975 to complete the task.

"We consider ourselves a specialized technical arm of state government that is intent upon utilizing nuclear and advanced technology expertise in conjunction with other fellow agencies for the overall benefit of the people of the state," MacKay said.

He said his commission considers the Nuclear Energy Development Office extremely important because of the unique situation that exists in Idaho.

"We have in Idaho a nuclear industry that is one of the tops and is roughly equivalent in importance to the mining industry."

"However, the product at the National Reactor Testing Station is research and development — not a tangible product like silver and phosphate."

Water agencies merger aired

BOISE (UPI) — Associations and agencies agreed Thursday that state executive reorganization should include the merging of the Department of Water Administration and the Idaho Water Resource Board.

But there were disagreements on who should have the power to appoint the director of the new agency, according to testimony before the State Executive Reorganization Commission.

"Idaho Water Resource Board members, with the exception of the ex-officio member, believe that the people of Idaho can be best served by retaining a lay board responsible for setting general policy in those areas where there is a question of public interest," John F. Streiff, chairman of the Idaho Water Resource Board, said.

Streiff told the Legislative Executive Reorganization Commission, "the board should be a policy board and not an advisory board and should have the authority to hire the director of the water agency."

But Jack Barnett, executive director of the Idaho Water Users Association said the group feels the governor should have the authority to appoint the director of the new department.

"The director must be selected from individuals with specific qualifications and he shall be appointed for a selected term," Barnett said. The reorganization commission earlier had a plan to merge the Department of Water Administration and the Water Resource Board, with members of the resource board as the chief policy makers.

But State Rep. Lyman G. Winchester, R-Kuna, speaking on behalf of the southwestern Idaho Development Association, said that group would support a single water resource board appointed by the governor.

"The Water Resource Board should, in turn, appoint the director," Winchester said.

TWIN FALLS — Clara Walton gave the program on "Alice Asmar's Painting" at a meeting of Mary David Art Club Wednesday at the home of Mrs. T. W. Hicks.

Asmar's paintings are done in watercolor, casein and colored inks on rice paper, Haruki and Chiri papers. "I paint Indians," Asmar notes, "because Indians are American's real ecologists." The November meeting is at the home of Mrs. Elgin Wilson, with Mrs. Martha Swick as assistant hostess.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for nearly 20 years. We have three well-adjusted children, a lovely home, and an excellent income. We love and respect each other, have a good social life, and just about everything one could ask for. What's our problem? Our sex lives. We have none.

My wife was a virgin when I married her, and I had very little experience for a 22-year-old college graduate. I know I never really satisfied her; but she never complained. I felt like a failure, so I just quit trying. I've never cheated on my wife and I never will. Occasionally one of us will initiate some foreplay, because we are both very affectionate, but it always ends in humiliation for me. She says it's not important to her and I shouldn't worry about it, but I do. I know I'm cheating her. And I'm cheating myself, too, because I hear that some couples in their 60s enjoy sex. Don't suggest psychiatry. I've had two years of that and got nowhere. What do you say? MISSING SOMETHING

Sex clinic suggested

DEAR MISSING: If you love each other and are properly motivated, there IS hope. If you can afford to spend $2,500, and 10 days to two weeks in St. Louis at the Masters and Johnson Clinic, I recommend it. They are specialists in sexual dysfunction, and have done a remarkable job of rehabilitating couples after everything else (including psychiatry) has failed. Your visit there will be strictly confidential.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old divorcee with a four-year-old daughter. People tell me I'm very attractive and have a good personality—I'm a receptionist, meet many men and get invited out often.

Larry is 48; he was married when he was 17, but it was annulled. He married again at 21; that lasted a year. Later he married a divorcee and they stayed married for 15 years. He doesn't look his age and I find him very exciting. We date four or five nights a week. He loves sports, and we see all the baseball, football, hockey, and basketball games. We have a great time together, and I keep thinking how marvelous it would be to be married to him.

That's the problem. Larry says marriage is the kiss of death to romance. Is he right? Am I a hopeless romantic? He's getting all the privileges of marriage with none of the responsibilities. I know he cares for me, but how can I get him to marry me? Is an ultimatum the answer?

WANTS MARRIAGE

DEAR WANTS: Don't give him an ultimatum unless you're prepared to lose him. At least he's honest and isn't leading you on. If it's marriage you want, look for a man who's marriageable. Larry isn't.

DEAR ABBY: I know you have stated a dozen times that it is improper to write "no gifts, please" on invitations, but something must be done about showering expensive gifts on older people who neither want nor need them.

I am soon to celebrate my 50th wedding anniversary, and I do not want a truckload of "things" for which I have no use.

There are so many lovely friends and relatives who go overboard, spending their hard-earned money for these useless gifts.

We want to entertain our friends, but we absolutely do not want them to bring or send us any presents. Isn't there some way we can let our wishes be known without being ill-mannered?

NO GIFTS, PLEASE

DEAR NO GIFTS: Requesting "no gifts" on an invitation is suggesting that gifts are expected. A close friend or relative can spread the word that a contribution to some worthy cause in honor of your "50th" would be your preference.

All he had to do was to lead his singleton heart right then and there. East would still take his ace and return a diamond but now South would be able to lead a trump toward dummy's 8-7. East would take his nine and then could take his ace of clubs; lead another diamond or just give up.

There would be no way to keep South from getting to dummy with dummy's last trump, whereupon he would be able to discard two of his clubs on the good hearts.

It was a rather long grunt but North was really mad. South had run off several rounds of trumps and then led his singleton heart. East had hopped up with the ace and led another diamond and South had to lose all his three clubs in addition to the heart trick.

Official new flag

PRESENTATION of the official new flag of the Magic Valley BPW Club highlighted the group's observance of National BPW Week. Carolyn Comer, left, designed and made the bright gold and green flag. She presents it to Frances Buhler, club president.

BPW emblem displayed

TWIN FALLS — An official emblem of the Magic Valley Business and Professional Women's Club has been designed and made by one of the members and is now on display during National BPW week at Van's Department Store.

Also displayed with the new gold and green flag are the official proclamations of President Nixon and Mayor John Christoffersen establishing this as National BPW Week and urging observance by Twin Falls residents.

Carolyn Comer designed and made the flag depicting the principals of the BPW organization.

A dinner observing National BPW Week was held by the Magic Valley club featuring an address by Eugene McGuire who was honored for his contribution in employing handicapped persons. A librarian at the College of Southern Idaho, he received the annual award as employer of the year from the Mayor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. He discussed some of the problems facing handicapped persons who seek employment.

Betty Ainsworth, program chairman, also a member of the Mayor's committee submitted McGuire's name as a nominee for the award.

Club members received an invitation to attend the Idaho Federation of BPW Oct. 27 in Boise. The next meeting will be a luncheon session Nov. 12 in the Rogerson Restaurant.

Big earthquake predicted in SF

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — State officials have alerted communities in the San Francisco Bay Area that a big earthquake is being predicted by an amateur seismologist who missed on at least 50 earlier warnings.

Dan Bloxom, president of Earthquake Technics, Pasadena, Calif., said the tremor would occur Sunday "give or take a few days," according to a press spokesman for the California State Office of Emergency Services.

The spokesman Wednesday said a notice of the prediction was sent to police and fire officials in San Francisco and other communities along the Pacific Coast. Bloxom said the shaker would register between 7 and 8.3 on the Richter scale.

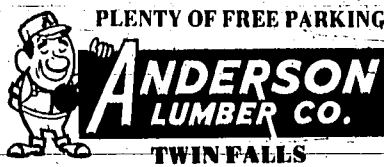

Don Rodgers, a seismologist with the state Division of Mines and Geology, said Bloxom previously forecast "5.0 to 6.0" quakes but "so far he hasn't scooped." He added that Bloxom was "using a seismograph he has designed himself."

The notice was sent as a result of a new state policy to advise local officials of such predictions by "professional" and "reputable" sources, the press aide said.

Rodgers, however, said that Bloxom's seismograph "doesn't appear to be a scientific instrument."

Popcorn king harvests crop

BUIH (UPI) — Wilho most Southern Idaho farmers are harvesting beans and potatoes, Elmer Schroeder is busy harvesting popcorn on his 180 acre farm south of Buhl.

Schroeder, known to many Idahoans as the Popcorn King of Idaho, began raising popcorn at the age of 16 in 1920. His first crop yielded 25 pounds of the black variety of corn which since has become his specialty.

Schroeder said his Idaho based operation has expanded over the years with eastern growers growing the yellow popcorn and returning it to Schroeder's Buhl farm where all the packaging is done. The black variety is the base of Schroeder's fame and he has obtained patents on it. He said the dry climate in the southern part of Idaho is very conducive to growing the black variety which pops out entirely white. Schroeder said in his 50 years in the popcorn business he has shipped out more than 20 railcars of packaged popcorn at one given time.

In the past, Schroeder said, there were other farmers in the Buhl area who tried to grow popcorn but they did not have his success.

"Many have tried raising popcorn but without much success," he said. "You have to like it and stick with it." Through the years, he was stuck with it and now ships his corn to the western states and Texas with marketing done by his family.

He said since developing the black variety popping corn in 1920 "things have really popped on the Schroeder popcorn ranch."

TF man asks $35,000 in damages

TWIN FALLS — Otis Hall, of Otis Hall Construction Co., Twin Falls, is asking $35,000 in damages from the City of Twin Falls in a suit filed in Fifth Judicial Court.

Hall states the city entered his property, in Lot 31 of the Orchalara Subdivision in 1969 and enlarged a small waste water ditch on the southern boundary of the property, enlarging it to carry a sizeable amount of water. As a result, he said, the loss of part of his property resulted and the ditch became a private and "public" hazard and nuisance.

Hall asks $10,000 for the value of the property taken for the ditch enlargement and $25,000 for the permanent property damage.

Phone calls warn Hailey candidate

HAILEY — City Council candidate William Whitaker said he has received a series of 25 to 30 obscene telephone calls to his home, one warning of a "big fire" if he does not drop out of the Hailey race.

Whitaker, 51, said the calls, which began Oct. 11, were all received by his wife while he was out of the house, including one call during the short time he was out walking the family dog.

The calls, Whitaker said, "had made me more determined than ever that I won't quit."

Mrs. Whitaker said all the calls were apparently placed by the same adult male. With the exception of the call threatening a fire, received about 10 a.m. Wednesday all the calls began with obscenities and she hung up the telephone immediately.

She said during one call a second person was chanting "fire, fire, fire" in the background.

Wednesday, Mrs. Whitaker said, the caller cautioned her not to hang up the telephone. Mrs. Whitaker said the caller said she should not go out alone again, as she had done the previous night.

The caller also said, "There will be a 'big fire' if Bill doesn't drop the Council," Mrs. Whitaker said.

Whitaker said he reported the calls to the Blaine County sheriff's office and the telephone company. A retired U. S. Air Force major, Whitaker has lived in Hailey since 1968.

Discussing his views, Whitaker said he is "not anti-McCulloch" but is "anti-big development." The candidate said he is against "accelerated growth" above the normal growth of the area.

Truck struck TF student

TF youth struck after getting off school bus

TWIN FALLS — A 14-year old boy was in critical condition today in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital after being struck by a truck while walking from the school bus to his home Thursday.

Jerry Lynn Craghead, was reported being treated for possible skull fractures, multiple fractures including several broken ribs and internal injuries.

Officers said the boy had gotten out of a school bus on Pole Line Road, three miles west of Blue Lakes Boulevard and was walking west along the center line of the road.

A pickup truck driven by Darrell Lee Schmitt,

17, Route 2, Twin Falls, approached from the east. The pedestrian started to the right, officers said, as the driver swerved to the left but at that time, Craghead, who was running, turned and ran to the left and was struck by the vehicle. The accident was reported at 4:30 p.m.

Officers said Craghead was thrown 50 feet by the impact and came to rest in the center of the eastbound traffic lane.

Two small children, the brother and sister of a passenger in the pickup were walking at the left hand side of the road, officers said. The children and the pickup passenger were the only witnesses to the accident, officers said. Investigation is continuing.

Assessment asked by health board

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

JEROME — Members of the South Central District Board of Health Thursday recommended a $2.12 per capita assessment in the eight-county area to support the 1974 district programs.

Dr. Wayne Carte, medical director for the district, had asked for $2.25 per capita in order to pay salaries and rentals for satellite services in the individual counties. This money would then be returned to the counties but would have to show in the budget.

The recommendation for a $2.12 per capita assessment will go to the district budget committee consisting of the chairman of the board of county commissioners in each of the eight counties. These men will meet Nov. 14 in conjunction with the next regular health board meeting in Twin Falls.

The district's local funding is currently requiring a $1.75 per capita assessment.

Dr. Carte said a base $2 per capita will be required to continue the present district services and maintain the new building the district will occupy after the first of the year.

He asked for 12 cents per capita to allow the districts to pay rent for nursing office and other district services maintained in the individual counties. He said this would equalize the load because some of the counties are now renting space for the district personnel.

In addition it would allow the district to obtain matching funds from the state for this amount and the rental fees would be returned to the counties in the way of paid rent constituting a saving.

Twin Falls, the largest county, pays no rentals because district headquarters are located in Twin Falls. Salaries paid the personnel working in these county offices would require another 13 cents, bringing the total figure to $2.25. Several commissioners objected to this, saying it would bring clerks under the pay schedule of the state personnel commission.

Commissioners said the salary scale paid by the state would be higher than county pay and would cause problems among employees where a clerk works part time for the county and part time for the health district or where a secretary for the health district would be sharing office space with a county secretary who would be receiving a lower salary.

It was suggested by Walter Bowman, Dietrich, the counties pay the salaries and be reimbursed by the district to avoid this problem.

At the rate of $2.12 per capita, Twin Falls County would pay $88,631 per year to support the district and at $2.25 the cost would be $94,060. Other counties on the same basis include Blaine $12,188 and $12,935; Camas, $1,543 and $1,638; Cassia, $36,076 and $38,288; Jerome, $21,736 and $23,060; Gooding, $18,327 and $19,451; Lincoln, $6,481 and $6,878; and Minidoka, $33,350 and $35,305.

At the rate of $2.12 per capita, the total counties participation would be $218,332 while at $2.25 the amount would be $231,720.

Providing the counties contribute the $2.25 per capita, the federal and state revenue available would bring the total 1974 budget to $403,143. Last year the total budget was $351,497 with counties contributing $180,228 under the $1.75 per capita assessment ratio.

Public land hearings end

TWIN FALLS — The State Lands Department held its final public hearing on geothermal leasing and navigational aid rules and regulations in Twin Falls Thursday.

The hearing was the last in a series of six held across the state. Most testimony at the hearing concerned regulations for leasing of state lands for geothermal resources, according to Ralph Sampson, assistant commissioner for lands, minerals and grazing.

Representatives of the Rural Electric Co., Rupert, and the Raft River Electric Co-Op Inc., Malta, "felt they should be given an opportunity to develop some of the geothermal resources," Sampson said.

Anschutz Corp., a Colorado drilling company, said it is prepared to put some "high risk" money into geothermal drilling operations, according to Sampson.

The League of Women Voters asked for more information on leasing procedures, Sampson said, and said "they wanted to see development but with proper protection for the land."

The League also asked that monetary returns to the endowment fund "be consistent with good land management," according to Sampson.

RR construction starts

MALTA — Construction began Thursday on the new Raft River High School auditorium and contractors say the project may be finished in time for graduation ceremonies next spring.

The auditorium is the first building project authorized in the $3.9 million bond election last spring to get underway. The first phase of a remodeling project at Oakley High School was completed this summer.

The $150,000 auditorium, which will seat about 300 people, was designed by Richardson and Richardson Assoc., Salt Lake City, Utah, and is being constructed by Nielsen Construction Co., Twin Falls.

In an effort to keep the project within budget, seats were omitted from the bid specifications. Seating will have to be funded through community projects.

Resource group requests study

By PEGGY CIU
Times-News writer

GOODING — The Wood River Resource Area Council of Governments has requested a study of the costs necessary to provide city services to single dwellings.

According to Tom Miller, spokesman for the resource project, there is no information on costs to a city to provide sewer, water, police and fire protection services to homes, especially subdivisions first built outside city limits and then annexed.

The study request was made to Art Rathbun, a cooperative extension service community development specialist, for information relating to the four county area. Miller said the study will probably be extended statewide.

The WRRRA council of governments has also requested an air quality study within the four county area. The study will be aimed primarily at the Upper Wood River valley, Miller said. The Department of Environmental and Community Services is waiting for federal guidelines before the study can begin.

The Corps of Engineers is currently mapping the Dietrich Canal Floodway diversion area, the WRRRA Council has announced. Corps plans are to enlarge the diversion.

Other priorities named by Ken Hoyt, of the Army Corps of Engineers, are the Milner-Gooding Canal diversion and the Leabo Diversion.

In other Council action, a new RC&D measure has been approved which would study the effects of the decrease in irrigation water in the Bellevue-Pleabo area.

Andy Gardner, Blaine County commissioner says he fears that the decrease in application of irrigation water to the land may impair water flows to the Silver Creek aquifer.

A request by the Council has been made to the Department of Water administration for information.

Gooding man can't seek post

GOODING — Ray Hendrix, candidate for Gooding city council, has been informed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture that he cannot seek the office.

Hendrix is an engineering technician for the Soil Conservation Service in Gooding. His name is already printed on the ballots for the Nov. 6 election, but will be marked off, City Clerk George Silva said.

Hendrix was informed last week that he could not run. Guy Nutt, state conservationist with the SCS, advised him of the regulation. The administrative procedure manual of the USDA states, "employees must avoid involvement in controversial local situations... they are not permitted to stand for election or accept appointment to town or city council."

Windows broken

GOODING — Several large panes of glass were broken at the Gooding high school about midnight Wednesday, resulting in $1500-$2000 damage.

According to Supt. James Muscut four windows in the front and one in the rear were broken, including a full door pane and a side panel pane.

"This is the second time in ten days that the high school has been vandalized," he said. A similar incident Oct. 13 caused $300 damage.

The school district does not have insurance for glass breakage and so the costs will have to be borne by the school district funds, Muscut said.

Police also are investigating two break-ins last Sunday. The soft drink machine in the high school shop building on Main Street was broken into after vandals kicked a panel off the door and crawled inside. The same night vandals forced open the auditorium door at the elementary school to rob the coke machine there.

According to police chief Lyle Clifford the same persons are probably involved in the four incidents. Police officers questioned suspects at the high school Thursday morning.

Buhl road district eyes annexation of TF unit

Anderson said he had not yet evaluated the effect upon the Twin Falls District of the proposed consolidation, other than to note revenue losses following major expenditures.

Although the portion proposed for consolidation makes up about one-fourth of the Twin Falls Highway District, Anderson said he did not think the Twin Falls District would be over-equipped on its remaining area should the shift take place.

"We have been spread rather thin," he said. "I think we could provide the same service on the smaller area, even with less income."

Kinyon said expenditures by the Twin Falls District were not a consideration of the proposed consolidation. He said increased road use, higher population density and the proximity of the area to the Buhl District were the major factors influencing the Buhl board's decision.

"I don't think they (Twin Falls District) have put in that much," Kinyon said. "They have improved some of the roads and all that, but there's probably a whole lot more that will have to be improved right away. They needed to improve some. They've had it for years and years and haven't spent much."

Before the consolidation can take place, several questions on election procedure have to be answered.

Idaho law requires a minimum 25 voter signatures for a highway district election, and Kinyon said petitions with at least 25 signatures will be presented to the County Commissioners soon. However, the Code states that 25 signatures are needed from "each" of the districts involved and so far petitions have been circulated only to those residents within the affected portion.

Kinyon said he was of the opinion that only signatures from the affected portion were necessary. He also said he thought an election had to be held only in the affected portion.

However, Buhl attorney William Nungester, who drew up the petitions now being circulated, said today he thought petitions would have to come from both the affected portion of the Twin Falls and from the Buhl District.

Nungester said the final decision on election procedures will be up to the Twin Falls County Commissioners, "because they're the ones holding the election."

According to Idaho law, once the petitions have been filed the County Commissioners must hold public hearings on the proposed consolidation.

Following the public hearings it would then be up to the County Commissioners to decide if an election should be called.

Unemployment drops to 4.1%

BOISE — Unemployment in Idaho dropped to 4.1 per cent in September, the lowest level yet in 1973, according to an October Department of Employment report.

The bulletin also reported employment at a high for the year, with 326,200 workers.

Seasonal expansion in manufacturing and other nonagricultural categories accounted for the increase, the report said.

Writing in "Idaho Manpower Review," state labor market analyst Dwight E. Reed predicted a continuing improvement in the State's economy based on third-quarter statistics.

"Compared with the third quarter of 1972," he wrote, "employment during the corresponding period in 1973 expanded by 3 per cent."

Reed also noted an increase of 9,400 in the statewide work force, a 3.3 per cent increase in nonagricultural employment and a 6.8 increase in manufacturing employment in forecasting an improved economy.

"As in previous months, worker supplies were generally adequate to meet demand for regular and seasonal workers," Reed wrote of September. "Late fall harvests are expected to increase employment opportunities for seasonal workers during October and November, and then employment will drop off rapidly as harvest activities are completed."

Expansion of food processing operations, and an increase in educational employment with the opening of schools were major factors behind greater employment and less unemployment in September, Reed noted.

While nonagricultural employment increased in September, agricultural employment fell off statewide by 900 workers, he wrote.

Magic Reservoir project readied

BELLEVUE — Construction will be completed in about three weeks on a $17,000 public boat ramp complex at the northwest end of Magic Reservoir.

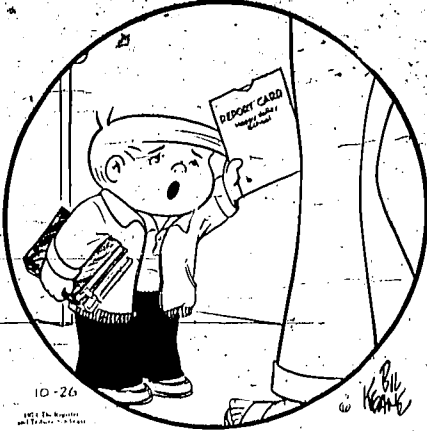

According to Ray Sweet, Blaine County commissioner and chairman of the county waterways commission, the project was funded by a combination of state and private funds, including about $10,000 from the State Parks and Waterways Fund and about $7,000 from the Moonstone Corporation.

The complex — located south of Moonstone where Camas Creek enters the reservoir — will remain free to the public and will be under Blaine County control, Sweet said. Project construction was conducted by Moonstone.

According to Mike Sliiman, vice president of Moonstone, the project includes an about 352 by 24 foot boat ramp; a dock for about eight to ten boats; restrooms; three picnic tables, and about 40 parking spaces.

The complex has been under construction for about the past two weeks, Sliiman said.

Maaculine client asks if sharks always turn upside down to attack. Not quite, not quite. Only when said sharks attack at the sea's surface. You know how their mouths are cut far back and underneath. Instinct, I guess, tells them not to expose their heads or bodies above the water. Deep down, they bite this way, that way, right side up, too.

An outfit in New York City makes its coin by contracting to place small advertising signs on the interior doors of public restrooms. To reach an immobilized audience. At last report, it charged from $20 to $50 a month per sign, depending on the number of signs ordered. I resent that.

"A little over half the men and a third of the women have had extramarital sex by age 45," reports that authority on such matters, Dr. Joseph B. Trainer.

History records that England's great Prime Minister Disraeli changed beds four times nightly on the theory his body would become overheated during unbroken sleep in just one nest. Otherwise, Disraeli was known to have been a fairly bright fellow.

Whoops - Directors of Wild West movies to liven up their scenes have long employed for sound effect the Indians' war whoops. But did you know said whoops among the real Indians were actually signals? A Creek squaw, for instance, could tell how many scalps a brave was carrying into camp by the way he whooped.

The drug makers spend about 10 per cent on advertising. Clothes makers, about 2 per cent. Beer makers, about 6 per cent. Whiskey makers, about 4 per cent. Movie makers, about 3.5 per cent. Soda pop makers, about 6 per cent. And the car makers, about 1 per cent.

The written records indicate that handicapper known as Jimmy the Greek Snyder has been right in 78 per cent of his gaming predictions. Remarkable!

Average pheasant numbers await hunters Saturday

More of a return to normal is anticipated Saturday noon when the Magic Valley pheasant season opens.

That's the word from Idaho Fish and Game biologist Dave Turnipseed. "Our brood counts, crowing census and sex ratio counts all indicate we're down some in population from the previous two years," Turnipseed said. "But then those two years were about the best in the last 10 seasons, too. We feel we have enough birds to have a good season, perhaps a little above average. But it won't be a boomer."

Actually it will be hard to gauge the results due to the reduction in bag limit this year. The department has records on number of birds killed, average number of birds per hunter and hours of hunting required for each kill over the past 25 years.

Houston faces Auburn in last big obstacle in unbeaten year

By United Press International If Houston gets by Auburn this Saturday the Cougars could be on their way to the first perfect football season in the school's history.

Houston, the No. 10 team in the nation, has already gone through the toughest part of its schedule with wins over Rice, South Carolina, Memphis State, San Diego St., Virginia Tech, and Miami (Fla.). After Auburn, the Cougars play winless Florida St. (0-6), Colorado St. (3-4), Wyoming (3-3), and Tulsa (4-2).

The War Eagles from Auburn, one of the pre-season favorites to win the Southeastern Conference, suffered back-to-back defeats to Tennessee and Louisiana State but bounced back last week to raise their season mark to 4-2 with a convincing 24-10 win over Georgia Tech.

Tigers drop Frank Howard

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Howard, one of the highest priced designated hitters in baseball, was given his unconditional release Thursday by the Detroit Tigers.

Howard, 37, whose 382 home runs make him 17th on the all-time list, was offered and declined a job as a minor league manager in the Tigers' farm system to "pursue other opportunities both in and out of baseball," a spokesman for the club said.

Cubs send Jenkins to Texas

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs today sent pitcher Ferguson Jenkins to the Texas Rangers in a trade for two "bright young prospects" who play both the infield and outfield.

Puddu plans to take title

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Antonio Puddu, the best lightweight in Europe, smiled at the question.

"Of course," he replied through an interpreter, "I think I can win. Why wouldn't I win?"

Brodie to retire at year's end

REDFORD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — Veteran San Francisco 49er quarterback John Brodie announced Thursday he was retiring as an active player at the end of the current season.

Bruin sophs beat Skyline

The Twin Falls sophomores, scoring all their points in the final seven minutes; dropped Skyline 21-7 Thursday night.

Skyline went up 7-0 midway through the first period and stayed there until midway through the fourth quarter when quarterback Jeff Osborne smacked it from the one-yard line. With three minutes left Tom Iik broke a 62-yard scoring romp and with 30 seconds remaining Osborne rolled out for 11 yards and the final Twin Falls score. Gene Turley booted all three extra points.

McCovey traded to Padres

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Willie McCovey, 35, hard-hitting first baseman for the San Francisco Giants for 14 years, was traded Thursday to the San Diego Padres.

Secretariat sets last race

TORONTO (UPI) — Secretariat will race for the final time Sunday but he'll do it without jockey Ron Turcotte on his back.

Everything had gone as planned early Thursday as the Triple Crown winner from the Meadow Stable worked a quick five-eighths of a mile in 57.4 in his final prep for Sunday's $125,000-added Canadian International Championship Stakes at Woodbine Race track.

McCovey traded to Padres

McCovey, troubled with arthritic knees the past two seasons, has counted 413 home runs since joining the Giants in 1969. His lifetime batting average is .279.

Three fire 65's to open Sahara tourney

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Young Allen Miller and a pair of veterans, Romero Blancas and Dow Finsterwald, took advantage of balmy weather Thursday to shoot six-under-par 65s and tie for the first round lead in the 72-hole $15,000 Sahara Invitational.

Miller, 25, a Pensacola, Fla., resident in his second year on the PGA tour, and 35-year-old Blancas, from Houston, Tex., each had six birdies on their cards and no bogeys.

Finsterwald, 44, who won the National PGA title back in 1950 and is now head pro at the Broadmoor in Colorado Springs, fired eight birdies and two bogeys for his 34-31-65. Blancas had 34-31 and Miller 32-33.

Two shots back at 67 were Lou Graham, Nashville, Tenn., and Bruce Fleisher, Miami, Fla., both with 33-34. Three pro tied at 68 — Leonard Thompson, Myrtle Beach, S.C., 34-34; Bob Merne, Lantana, Fla., 35-33; and John Mahaffey, Houston, 33-35.

The mass assault on par occurred in virtually ideal weather. There was little wind — sometimes a big factor in the desert — and the temperature was in the mid-70s to make it seem like a mild summer's day.

Arnold Palmer, the 44-year-old millionaire who has never won this event, shot a par 35-36-71 but he needed an eagle three on the 535-yard fourth hole to do it. He used a three-wood for his second shot and put the ball 10 feet from the pin and sank it for his three.

With a wry grin, Palmer said, "I hit the ball good but I just can't seem to get it in the hole soon enough."

He got confidence on the fast greens here and sank a 12-footer on the second hole, a 30-footer on the third, another 12-footer on the fourth, and a three-footer on the ninth, all for birds. On the back nine he sank a 15-footer on the 10th hole and a beautiful 40-footer on the 11th.

Yanks question legality of Houk shifting to Detroit job

BOSTON (UPI) — Outgoing American League President Joseph Cronin said Thursday night the New York Yankees had asked for a ruling on Ralph Houk's decision to leave the club for the job of manager of the Detroit Tigers.

Cronin said the New York club wanted a league decision on whether there was violation of a contractual arrangement.

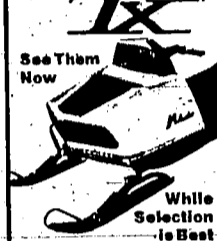

Jackson calls MVP his biggest thrill

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reggie Jackson, the outspoken and often controversial slugger of the Oakland A's, Thursday said that winning the World Series Most Valuable Player award was the "greatest thrill of my life."

go underneath — leader, professional, man, and winner. Henry Aaron is the best ballplayer around today. He's got all these things, and I want them too."

About the current Dick Williams-Finley-hassle Jackson commented: "If Dick Williams could stay on as manager it would be beneficial to the ballclub. But I know I'm being selfish about this. I don't blame him for wanting to leave."

Jackson, a leading candidate to win the American League's MVP to be awarded in November, capped off a sensational year with a two-run homer in the final game of the Series to help the A's defeat the New York Mets and clinch their second straight world championship.

Williams announced after the Series that he would resign with two years still left on his contract. Originally, Finley gave Williams permission to break the contract but on Wednesday announced he would not let his manager go to another team unless he was "handsomely compensated."

At his home in Boston, Cronin said, "The Yankees sent in notice for a ruling on Houk going to Detroit. We will investigate. After we get all the information, I'll determine whether there is any contractual violation."

He said he could not speculate on when a decision would be made, but that it probably would take more than two weeks. The 24 general managers will meet in Scottsdale, Ariz., within the next two weeks, but Cronin said no decision could be expected at that time.

McCovey, troubled with arthritic knees the past two seasons, has counted 413 home runs since joining the Giants in 1969. His lifetime batting average is .279.

McCovey traded to Padres

The Padres, to obtain the 6-foot-4 slugger, gave the Giants left-handed pitcher Mike Caldwell, 24, who has amassed a 13-25 record since joining the Padres in 1971. His ERA is 3.00.

San Diego also was given outfielder Bernie Williams of the Giants' Pacific Coast League farm club at Phoenix.

Padre General Manager Peter Bavasi said McCovey was one of the "premier power hitters in baseball." And, he said, coupled with Nate Colbert would "give the Padres as potent an offense as we could hope to have."

Support change proposal chilled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Proposals by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz for sweeping reform of the peanut and rice support laws drew a cold response today from W.R. Ponge, D-Tex., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee. Ponge said in an interview that he doesn't yet know how deeply Butz's plans would affect rice growers. But as a representative of a major peanut growing state, the Texan predicted it "would mean that nobody could make any money out of peanuts."

Independent commodity commission endorsed

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise attorney representing the Idaho Potato Commission said Thursday if the state's commodity commissions are not allowed independence they may well die when the state executive reorganization takes place.

Attorney Gene Thomas, Boise, told members of the state executive reorganization commission that commodity commissions should be set up in one of the planned 20 departments.

The people voted last year by constitutional amendment that the executive branch of state government should be reorganized into not more than 20 departments. The reorganization is to be completed by January, 1975. Thomas told the reorganization commission that the commodity groups should not be placed under the control of elected officials and should not be run by "a king or czar."

He explained that if the commissions are not given independence they may lose their authority under the state constitution to tax for support of those programs.

He said "There should be no change" in the structure of the commodity programs and "government should preserve the independence of the commissions."

He said of the commissions are grouped as one of the 20 departments the structure should remain the same and the budgets of the groups should be presented to the legislature independently.

Good wheat price seen

RITZVILLE, Wash. (UPI) — Jack Dowitt, president of the Washington Association of Wheat Growers, said Wednesday he doesn't think wheat prices will go down next year.

He said several new factors in domestic and international wheat markets give credence to his opinion.

Anti-weed drive set

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus announced a new battle against noxious weeds in Idaho Thursday.

Andrus said four young Idaho farmers, selected in four regions of the state, will be honored next fall for achievements in the area of weed control. He said it will be part of a "governor's weed control awards program."
