Cold winter seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government study said Saturday that this winter will be colder than last year's unusually warm temperatures—probably creating a 1.1 per cent increase in fuel needs.

The outlook, which discounted heating requirements of buildings, homes, factories built in the past year, was prepared by scientists of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA).

The study said winter temperatures in the past 10 years have been colder than in the previous 25 years and the only major exception to this pattern was the warm winter of 1972.

The study said the demand for heating fuel this winter should be greater than last winter in these five regions:

- New England (Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont), 3.8 per cent more.
- Middle Atlantic (New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania), 4.7 per cent more.
- East North Central (Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin) 3.1 per cent more.
- South Atlantic (Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia), 6.1 per cent more.

West North Central (Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota), 0.7 per cent less.

DON'T MAKE THE MISTAKE OF LETTING OTHERS DECIDE HOW TO HEAT YOUR HOME!

Insist that Your Builder Install INTERTHERM Hot Water Electric Baseboard Heating—and Have HOT WATER HEAT WITHOUT PLUMBING

Every winter thousands of families suffer the discomforts of drafts, cold floors, alternating too-hot, too-cold periods. And pay outrageous heating bills for heat that's wasted at ceilings or out the chimney. Simply because they let others decide the kind of heating for their new, or remodeled, homes.

Thousands of other families—during coldest, blustering winter weather—enjoy the wonderful comfort of soft, gentle, quiet, uniform, floor-to-ceiling hot water heat. Without drafts and cold floors. That's also the cleanest, safest, most healthful heat possible today. And with air so fresh—its like June in January.

A separate thermostat in each room keeps the water in each heater at a constant, safe temperature. The INTERTHERM CAN'T cause a fire. Can't scorch furniture, drapes—or burn a child or pet—that comes in contact. Can't overheat and carbonize lint and dust particles in the air that irritate nose and throat membranes—or burn plastic particles into toxic vapors.

Don't let others decide the type of heating for you. Insist on an INTERTHERM HOT WATER ELECTRIC BASEBOARD HEATING SYSTEM. Mail the coupon below for FREE literature that gives full information. Or, phone (208) 733-1033.

Officers search for two youths

Sherriff's officers here said the two boys and another youth were in a special vehicle being transported from Boise to St. Anthony, to begin serving sentences. The guard left the boys locked in the cage type enclosed back portion of the vehicle and went into the outhouse to pick up another youth who was to be taken to St. Anthony from Twin Falls.

Officers said the vehicle would unlock only from the outside and when the guard returned to the vehicle with the Twin Falls youth two of his "passengers" were gone and a third remained in the vehicle asleep.

Officers said they were not certain how the two escaped the locked vehicle unless they summoned help from a passerby. Investigation is continuing.

Officers here said the two escapees were charged with assault with a deadly weapon in an incident in Boise and are considered dangerous.

They are identified as Ricky Lee Mitchell, 15, and Steven Kingsley, 15, both residents of Boise.

Fire Command Station
Harold F. Gerber Architect

Front view of proposed FF fire station

3 bids submitted for construction of new fire station in Twin Falls

TWIN FALLS—Three firms submitted bids Friday for construction of the proposed new Twin Falls main fire station with the apparent lowbase bid being $392,800 from Wills Inc., Twin Falls.

City Manager Jean Milar said all bids were extremely close, being only about two per cent apart.

The latest architect's cost estimate for the building was $367,600 or about six per cent below the lowest base figure listed. Harold Gerber, Twin Falls, is the architect for the new building.

Other bidding firms included Otis Hall Construction, base bid of $396,842 and Neilsen and Co., $399,880. Nine alternates were also bid, several to be deducted and others to be added. Milar said without studying the bids and at first hand glance it appears by eliminating the alternates the bids would come within the estimate.

One of the major alternates calls for deducting the fire sprinkler system which would trim between $10,900 and $12,907 from the bid, depending on the contractor selected. Another $2,200 to $2,307 would be trimmed by using floor tile rather than carpeting in areas where floor covering is to be used. In the apparatus room, a proposal for special treatment of the concrete floor with non-skid material would cost an additional $500 to $900. An exhaust system for this area to remove truck engine exhaust by special means would represent a deduction of $3,571 to $4,060 if eliminated.

All of the bids will be reviewed by the fire chief,

Milar, the city engineer and architect with a recommendation to be submitted to the city council in the next meeting Nov. 5.

The proposed new structure would be located adjacent to the present city hall, just to the east and would replace the present main building on Second Avenue South which has served the fire department since the days when horses pulled the fire equipment.

Eye kits available

TWIN FALLS — Home eye test kits for pre-school children are still available from the Delta Gamma Alumnae Association in Twin Falls.

Norma Benoit, co-chairman, said they have gone to 19 Magic Valley towns and about 30 per cent of the kits mailed out have been returned. She said this is about even with the national average as persons who use the kits find no eye problems with their children or find problems and contact their doctors and frequently do not return the cards reporting action.

She said the important thing is to have the tests made and proper action taken, although the association does like to have a report form returned.

Additional eye test kits are available by writing Delta Gamma Alumnae, Association, Box 752, Twin Falls, 83301.

Manipulations: At Best Were Childish

The furious response to Mr. Nixon's manipulations of last weekend has had curious consequences, some of them at best childish, at worst masochistic. Congressional leaders who denounce Mr. Nixon (not without reason, in some cases) for subordinating the public interest to his own, talked about impeachment flirtatiously. Then, when Mr. Nixon yielded on the matter of the tapes (Mr. Nixon always, repeat always, recognizes a superior force on the few occasions he has run into one), they consolidated their resentment of him by resolving: not to confirm Gerald Ford as Vice President of the United States.

If one reaches for an explanation for this line of reasoning one is baffled. What is the Democratic leadership saying?
1. That anyone named by Nixon is, by the act of having been named by him, contaminated? Surely that is an extreme position, most easily penetrated by the argument of reductio ad absurdum. If Nixon were to name Ralph Nader as Vice President, would they really conclude that Ralph Nader has suddenly been corrupted by the appointment?

2. Is it the actual nomination of Gerald Ford that offends these Democratic leaders? If so, then one wonders: what has Gerald Ford done in the last ten days to abate the enthusiasm shown over his designation at the time it was done? So far as the public is aware, Mr. Ford has not, during the past fortnight, accepted a bribe, suborned perjury, or abandoned his family. Mr. Ford is being investigated most rigorously by the FBI — much more rigorously, one hazards the guess, than the FBI would be invited to investigate down the line of presidential successors who, if one skips the Vice President, are as it happens Democrats. If the champions of deferred confirmation are suggesting that they have discovered a great weakness in Mr. Ford, why don't they tell us what it is? Because they haven't discovered a great weakness in Mr. Ford.

3. Is it a form of punishment they seek? Surely it is a high form of petulance to suggest that the Congress can punish President Nixon by denying him a Vice President? The Vice President isn't a valet who is personally useful to the President. As a matter of fact there are more presidents in United States history who would willingly have done without a Vice President, than there are Presidents who have made great use of their Vice Presidents.

As far as Mr. Nixon is personally concerned, he would probably be delighted not to have a Vice President to distract him from his multifarious concerns. To deprive the President of a Vice President isn't like saying he can't have his limousine.

4. Is the Democratic leadership attempting to out-trick Dick? The suggestion that this is the real meaning of the strange reaction is certainly cynical, and improbably correct. If Mr. Nixon should resign or be impeached, then we all know that as matters now stand, a Democrat would succeed him in the White House. This, as has been pointed out, would be to deny the mandate of the public as delivered resoundingly last fall. It is inconceivable that the Democratic leadership, in the name of restoring integrity to the United States Government, would attempt to pull off anything quite this brazen. Such a maneuver would have embarrassed General Trujillo, and probably, so long as there is an unconfirmed Vice President, any move for impeachment would fail — for that reason alone.

5. We are left then wondering: shouldn't the criticism of Mr. Nixon accelerate, rather than diminish, Congress's concern to confirm a possible successor? Isn't this, really, the first order of business? And is anything Mr. Nixon has done in his tortuous resistance to Watergate, the equal of the irresponsibility of those who leave us without a Vice President, in this season of great hazard? It is hard to take seriously any moral disdain for Mr. Nixon expressed by anyone who has a hand in delaying the confirmation of Mr. Ford.

"Gasless" Plan

To what extremes some communities could be treated by air pollution laws already on the nation's books has been revealed by the Environmental Protection Agency. Although calling his own plan "unreasonable," Russell E. Train, director of the EPA, says he is forced by the 1970 Clean Air Act to proceed with a plan which would limit supplies of gasoline to parts of California and could cut off Los Angeles completely within a few years.

Acting under provisions of the act which require the EPA to produce a plan for eliminating air pollution when the states fail to meet clean air criteria, Train said the curtailment of gasoline supplies will be mandatory if increased use of mass transit facilities and higher parking fees do not bring significant reductions in pollution.

Starting in 1976 in San Diego and in 1977 in San Francisco and Los Angeles, the EPA plan calls for controls on gasoline and diesel fuel delivered to retail outlets "to that amount which, when combusted, will not cause the ambient air quality standards for carbon monoxide and photochemical oxidants to be exceeded."

The California cities have received the worst threats yet issued under the 1970 act, but they may not be alone for long. By Nov. 1, the agency says it will issue plans for several other major cities, including Baltimore and Washington.

Legal Services: The Half Loaf

WASHINGTON — Early in his professional life, the successful politician learns something about a subsistence diet: He learns that half-a-loaf is usually better than none. It is a lesson that friends of a legal aid program ought to accept right now.

A compromise worked out last week between the White House and the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee is precisely that: a compromise. The reported agreement offers less than liberals had hoped to get, but it contains more than conservatives had been prepared to yield. For the foreseeable future, it is this or nothing. Those who want to see a permanent program of legal services for the poor had better settle for this.

By way of background: The House on June 21, by a vote of 276-95, passed H.R. 7284 to establish an independent legal services corporation. The vote looks lopsided, but the figures are misleading. Before approving the bill, the House added 24 restrictive amendments, most of them intended to prevent abuses by lawyers attached to the legal services program. The mood of the House should not be misunderstood. Such influential members as Edith Green of Oregon, and Albert H. Quie of Minnesota are deeply concerned by some of the activities attributed to poverty lawyers in the past. All too often, they contend, neighborhood law offices have accepted ineligible clients for litigation far removed from the humane purposes of the law.

In one especially notable case, reported two years ago in the Yale Law Journal, the Dallas Legal Services Project undertook to defend the editor of an underground newspaper who was charged with violating a state obscenity statute "by publishing a photograph of male frontal nudity. The lawyers argued that their client qualified as 'poor' because he has been disinherited by his father, a wealthy manufacturer, and was earning less than $100 a week.

Other such horror stories, in the conservative view, have marred a record of constructive accomplishment. Poverty lawyers have identified themselves with rent strikers, black militants, and young revolutionaries. The General Accounting Office has been sharply critical of sloppy management within some of the law offices. Eligibility standards have been so loosely administered that the House, in a sarcastic humor, adopted an amendment from Wayne L. Hays of Ohio to prevent poverty lawyers from assisting "indigent" abandoned Watergate defendants."

Under the compromise now in the works, some of the House amendments "would be dropped. Senate liberals, in return, would yield on issues, involving the makeup of the corporation's governing board. The President would name an 11-member board of directors, which in turn would create a national advisory committee. Over the opposition of Senate liberals, a provision would be retained by which state advisory committees would be created by gubernatorial appointment.

If some such agreement can be made acceptable all around, the country can look forward to net gain in a significant area of social policy. The House restrictions, for the most part, make sense; poverty lawyers can live under these limitations and do a reasonably good job for their poor clients. Composition of the governing board is important, but Senate liberals will lose little by a concession here.

The big thing is to keep this needed program alive. Almost 200 years ago, the Duc de la Rochefoucauld, traveling through New England, commented in amazement upon the American tendency toward litigation. He remarked of Connecticut that "perhaps no equal number of people in the universe have such a multitude of lawsuits." The tendency survives: We are the most litigious people in the world and we are pledged to the idealistic goal of equal justice under law. The pending compromise is far from perfect, but its approval would leave that goal not quite so far away.

Questionable

So many factors enter into the compilation of a gross national product that some economists are beginning to doubt the GNP is a reasonable guide to progress. Since GNP is an estimate of the market value of all goods and services produced, inflation, changing living standards and population growth all enter into the final tabulation.
Not even a zero population growth could stop the growth of the GNP, or the increased uses of resources. Inflation, however, adds a dollar value to the GNP without a corresponding increase in output.

Measuring the performance or satisfaction of a society is becoming more complex. Some economists are saying it simply is not possible to place a dollar value on it, something philosophers said long ago.

MR. SPECTATOR

Come On Folks—Let's Be Up And At It

If you didn't turn your clock back an hour before you went to bed last night then you are off someplace where you are not supposed to be.

Why? Because Mountain Daylight Saving time ended at 2 a.m. today. If you are looking at your clock as you are reading this this fine morning and your clock says it o'clock and you haven't turned the timepiece back as you should have, then it is really only 7 a.m. and you got up too early. If you do not read this — and do not look at a clock — then when you get to church at 11 a.m. you will find out you are ahead of the sermon.

We can well remember when Daylight Saving Time first started to be widely popular. There were pro and con arguments but all along we couldn't see anything wrong with it.

Now they are even thinking seriously of having Daylight Saving time year around. The purpose would be to save energy. Could be a good thing.

But again we would probably hear the same complaints we heard when it all started. Perhaps the biggest howl came from the farmers on behalf of their cattle.

They said the cows would never get used to the new time. But come to think of it, Mr. Spectator has no recollection at all of having received a complaint from a cow — personally, that is!

And one more thing. Time is only relative. If way back when clocks were started or anyone started to try to figure out what time it was, the day had been divided into 36 "hours" instead of 24 "hours" it would have made little difference all around.

THAT LAPEL FLAG

Every once in awhile Mr. Spectator wears a small lapel flag on his coat. And every once in awhile it causes comment.

For instance, one friend insists we must be an Archie Bunker. You see, he wears a flag too.

Then, when President Nixon did all his recent stirring up, another person said: "You must be ashamed to wear that now."

Well, really, I am not ashamed. Regardless of what goes on in this country or what the selected leaders do or do not do — I'm still an American, a citizen of the United States.

And I'm rather proud of it, too!

FEWER DISCOMMODED

The other day we commented about today's system of celebrating Halloween. Today we recollect a little:

Police officials and others are appealing to the young to be reasonable instead of destructive as Halloweeners. Some sound as though they were certain this generation required such advice to an extent former generations did not.

They don't know what they are talking about. Compared to the young hellions of 50 years ago, Halloween celebrators today are examples of decorum. Who has recently seen a streetcar with its headlight shot out, an automobile straddling a house roof (this fate frequently befell buggies in the old days), or a cow chewing her cud in the living room?

Nor is the plumbing today ever turned topsy-turvy, thus discommoding every member of the family.

HOUSEWIFE'S TURN

So many years have elapsed since meaningful action was taken to hold down food prices, it comes as a surprise to find an item at the store which sells for less than it did last time, although the price may be five times as high as it was not too many years ago.

All government efforts for years have been to subsidize farmers to grow crops and to subsidize exports to other nations, and to subsidize airlines and railroads — just to mention a few.

If the American housewife soon decided it is now her turn, who can blame her?

TODAY'S CHUCKLE;

GIVEAWAY DEPT.

We have five puppies we must give away. Are six weeks old and combination Labrador and Pointer. We must also find a new home for the 2-year-old mother — a very nice dog. Please call 326-4227 at the Filer exchange.

The Salmon river: Tie It Up Or Leave It Alone?

By O. A. (Gus) KELMER
Editor, Times-News

There was nothing secret about the agreements, and hundreds of people had their say pro or con; but there is still a "shock wave" when plans call for Salmon River use or non-use. This time the proposal calls for inclusion of the Salmon — 237 miles of it — in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers Act.

Three individuals — Governor Cecil Andrus, Vern Hamre, Intermountain Region Forester, and Steve Ulrich, Northern Region Forester, have inked an agreement recommending the 237-mile segment of the famed river — from the town of North Fork, Idaho to its confluence with the Snake River — be added to the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System pursuant to the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act of 1968.

The three recommend that 70 miles of the river be classed as "wild," 53 miles as "scenic" and 105 miles as "recreational." There would be different "rules" for each segment. Under the proposal it was also recommended that Federal lands located within one-fourth mile of the river for the entire length be withdrawn from all forms of appropriations under the mining and mineral leasing laws of the United States.

Like we said — all this was discussed for months by interested individuals but now that it apparently is getting close to being a fact, many people are getting excited.

So, there will be three more hearings on the proposal. The first will be at the Rodeway Inn at Boise on November 26; the second at the Ponderosa-Lewis and Clark Motor Inn at Lewiston on November 28, and the third at the Holiday Inn at Pocatello on November 30.

Views pro and con may be presented either during one of the hearing sessions or within 30 days after the hearing is held. A written statement will be accepted from those who do not wish to appear in person. Oral and written views presented as a result must be received by January 7, 1974 to be included in the hearing record. This record will be included with the River and Wilderness proposals which will be recommended to the Secretary of Agriculture, then to President and Congress. Those wishing to give oral testimony should notify the regional forester in either Missoula or Ogden by November 19.

To be doubly sure — and if you are not too certain just what is going on — then you had better see the ranger at the nearest Forest Service office. He can put you on the right track.

The actual study got underway in 1970 and was only recently completed. The purpose of the designation "is to preserve its free-flowing condition and to protect it and its immediate environment for the use and enjoyment of present and future generations."

For all purposes, that is what could be termed "high ideals" but there are those who object to the tieup as planned — and the restrictions which will be placed along the river.

The Salmon would include all three classifications of the Act, namely:

1. Wild River Area — Sections that are free of impoundments and generally inaccessible, except by trail, with watersheds or shorelines essentially primitive and waters unpolluted: (79 miles)

2. Scenic River Area — Those sections free of impoundments with shorelines or watersheds still largely primitive and shorelines largely undeveloped, but accessible in places by roads. (53 miles)

3. Recreational River Areas — sections of rivers that are readily accessible by road or railroad, that may have some development along shorelines, and that may have undergone some diversion in the past.

Other provisions of the act, pertinent to this proposal, include:

Section 5(C) which stipulates that the study of potential additions to the National System (study rivers) may be carried out as a joint study, in cooperation with the state.

Section 6(A) which limits fee title land acquisition to no more than an average of 100 acres per mile.

Section 6(B) which precludes condemnation for fee title acquisition once 50 per cent of the entire acreage is owned by public agencies, but allows condemnation for the creation of scenic easements and public access of 100 per cent of the area.

Section 7(B) which prohibits the licensing of any water projects under the Federal Power Act, or any study river, for a period of five years, plus the time necessary for Congressional review of any study recommendations.

The report signed by the three officials points out the Salmon River Canyon is of "great archeological, and historical importance and should be preserved and interpreted for present and future generations. It also points out the importance of the fishery resource of the river and mentions the "wealth of wildlife, both in numbers and kind."

In this case the report stipulates that outfitting and guiding is a well established, important and needed public service in the area. Commercial operators provide most of the public transportation within the roadless segments.

"This is by power and float boats, horse and airplane," the report states. "The proposal provides for continued established powerboat and aircraft use, but precludes motorized trail use within the section proposed for Wild classification. The latter type of use has not become established."

The report says that the "most expressed opinion" in previous hearings of even those favoring unclassified river segments indicated there should be no dams. The most controversial issue concerning the classification of the river centers around private land. A major reason given in support of unclassified status was to protect private landowner rights.

Public response was predominately local — 34.5 per cent from the immediate area and 47.4 from other areas in Idaho. Overall, the trend was for the local residents to be more in support of no classification or less restrictive classification. While those people living farther away preferred more restrictive alternatives.

This follows the reasoning involved in other "tie-ups" suggested in various other sections of the country. It shows that those involved because of land ownership or because they live "on or near" the site are, against restrictions while those living at a distance, and owning none of the land, tend to say "tie it up for us." This, of course, was not mentioned in the report which the three officials signed.

The upstream area, under the proposal (from North Fork to the Nezperce National forest boundary, a distance of 148 miles) would be administered by the Forest Service. The downstream area (to the Snake River, a distance of 89 miles) would be administered by the Bureau of Land Management. State-owned land, all within the latter segment, would be administered by the State of Idaho, preferably through a memorandum of agreement to provide for management uniformity.

Within the recommended boundaries there would be 32,192 acres of National Forest; 17,963 acres of Bureau of Land Management Land; 545 acres of State of Idaho land and 5,693 acres of private land. Total comes to 56,393.

We predict the three final hearings on the proposal will be well attended and that proposals will be made pro and con.

In the simple meaning it boils down to this — should the Salmon River be tied up or not tied up.

That Backdoor Fund

Editor, Times-News:
Apparently, because of widespread opposition in the United States to sending foreign aid to North Vietnam, the U. N. Children's Fund, (UNICEF) is to be used as a "back door," through which these Communists are to be rewarded for their atrocities. The New York Times for August 5, 1973, reported: "North Vietnam has begun negotiation for assistance from the United Nations Children's Fund following a visit to Hanoi by two senior officials of the aid agency. They said Hanoi officials had also discussed aid needed for longer-term reconstruction." Such aid reported was to be discussed again during the coming months.

Ask the American prisoners of war who were returned from Hanoi a few months ago about the Communist "humanitarians" they encountered. The North Vietnamese beat and bludgeoned our men. They tied them in such a way that their toes were forced into their throats, and left them in agony for days. They were blinded. They were maimed and mutilated. They were burned with cigarettes and forced to crawl on their hands and knees over broken glass. They were beaten with rubber hoses. They were starved and denied available medical treatment. Navy Lieutenant Commander Rodney Knutson tells it like this: "I was tortured. I was beaten. I have had my teeth broken, my nose broken, my wrists broken. I have suffered injuries all at the hands of the Vietnamese at torture sessions. Lament and humane treatment? Not on your life!"

According to the Los Angeles Times for May 14, 1973, "The U. N. Children's Fund has a go-ahead for a new program of postwar aid to Indochina that could cost $30 million the first year. The UNICEF executive director, Henry R. Labouisse, said he wanted $3 million to expand present aid to South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos, and might need $30 million in the next year if North Vietnam and the Vietcong accepted his offers of assistance." In short UNICEF is gearing up to send nine times as much assistance to the Communist terrorists in Indochina as to their victims who are fighting to retain their freedom and their very lives! Is it humanitarian to give aid to the same Communist guerrillas who in 1968 murdered every last woman and child in the village of Dak Son because the men of the village refused to join the Vietcong? It was at Dak Son you will remember, that the Vietcong turned their flamethrowers on 250 helpless women and children in an intentional, premeditated act of terrorism. Even Hubert Humphrey was so stunned by the event that he declared: "The Vietcong has committed the most unbelievable acts of terrorism the world has ever known."

Now UNICEF plans to "reward" the very Communist terrorists who committed such deeds, thus making it easier for them to continue their assaults against the innocent people of Indochina. And all the while the U. S. Committee for UNICEF cynically ignores the horrible truth and hides behind pious platitudes about human kindness. If you want to send a contribution to the torturers of our POWs who killed tens of thousands of young Americans in Vietnam, and many more thousands of South Vietnamese, be sure to keep some big bills handy for the United Nations Children's Fund collection this Halloween, and be sure to buy and send UNICEF Christmas Cards. The existence of UNICEF is just one of many reasons why the United States should get out of the United Nations immediately!!

Editor, Times-News:
In reference to your Christian Science Monitor editorial in the Sept. 24th edition, commenting on the U. N. Star — Henry Kissinger, I do heartily agree that he is the U. N. star, but I don't agree that a U. N. star will be what is best for the United States. He was selected as U. S. Secretary of State. Don't you agree that U. S. interests will play second fiddle to Kissinger's main interests of promoting a World Government through the United Nations?

He has proven himself far more dedicated to the world than he has to the United States. Being a member of the CFR (Council on Foreign Relations), his allegiance to the U. N. and world government far surpasses any promises he has made to uphold the sovereignty of the U. S.

Already the U. N. has 135 member nations since the addition of the two Germanys. With each addition of a divided country the new segment will vote with the Communist block since it was Communism that separated the nation. Therefore, the Communist block of nations comes up with about 15 votes now. The United States has only one vote. We are being hit below the belt with the Monitor's statement that "Individual members will not play ball when they put national interest ahead of the general welfare." We are being accused of putting our national sovereignty first — (which I seriously doubt anymore). But just who is to say what is best for the general welfare? And since when should our citizens and especially our leaders pledge allegiance to any but our own national government? Henry Kissinger's allegiance should have been checked before he was so quickly installed by the Senate as Secretary of State.

The Christian Science Monitor article refers to the marvelous accomplishments of the United Nations in the last ten years — the environment, conserving the resources of the sea, and controlling the world's population.

I would say that the U. N.'s involvement in these issues has brought us to the crisis we are facing today. We are completely hamstringing now industry with O.S.H.A., E.P.A., I.C.C., F.C.A., W.H.O., and all the other bureaucracies we have been bound with, all through the directions of the U. N. in the name of "protecting the environment" and controlling the people.

The U. N.'s "tremendous education role" that Monitor speaks of — through UNESCO has produced two generations of atheists, pro-Socialists, and anti-Americans, who even favor the U. N. above our own sovereignty. This new breed of U. N. taught, interdependent people have been taught America can't survive as an independent nation any longer.

The U. N.'s efforts at controlling world population have been paramount in producing the satanic abortion bills in our country. Who dares usurp God's right to say who shall live and who shall not. God will not honor the U. N. or our country for doing it.

The United States has invested more money, technology and research into harvesting the seabeds than any other country. But the Monitor gives the U. N. the credit for "conserving the resources of the sea." Even our own Frank Church favors the legislation that gives the U. N. the control of the resources of the sea.

It is time for our nation to get more independent before we are completely destroyed. Let's send Communist sympathizers home. Get the U. N. out of the U. S., and the U. S. out of the U. N.

Sincerely,
Mabel Doramus Jerome

Canyon Smokescreen

Editor, Times-News:
There has, in recent months, been numerous statements from concerned citizens printed in this newspaper regarding to development along the canyon rim. Many of the points made by these individuals are the result of being misinformed.

Such statements as: We feel (sewage) would just drain right out into the canyon and down the canyon wall, are just not true. Prior to the Idaho Dept. of Health's approval of the Meander Point Subdivision, numerous sub-soil tests and analyses were made. The results were rated excellent for septic tank-drain field type, sewage disposal. The underlying substructure makes it impossible for waste to just "drain down the wall."

Another argument made is that of the threat to the agriculture base of the area.

Responsible Government agencies have made soil studies and reported that generally the soil in the immediate rim area is of poor agriculture potential. All of the Meander Point Subdivision falls in this category. The owner-developer of this area can testify to the many years of substandard crops.

These and similar statements are but a smokescreen for the real intentions of this group, which is to preserve the canyon rim in its natural state "for the public." They, however, won't or are unable to pay the land owner the fair market value of his property, which is a right guaranteed by the constitution of the United States.

Farmers Against Airport

Editor, Times-News:
As Jerome county taxpayers we would like to state for the benefit of Dr. Ruebel and John Van Orman who represented our county at the South Idaho Regional Airport Authority meeting that we are in favor of the regional airport being located at Joslin Field in Twin Falls county — if, in reality, there is any real reason or need for a regional airport as such.

During the hearing Dr. Ruebel stated he had not heard, one comment from anyone in his county in favor of the regional field being located at Joslin Field in Twin Falls county. Mr. Van Orman said essentially the same thing. We would like to suggest that they have not been reading our letters to the Editors and letters of testimony to the board which have been written on this subject. It has been stated by all of us and many others in this county that we would be very much in favor of making Joslin Field the regional field. It would cost far less than half as much to convert Joslin Field to a regional field than it would to build a new field which would, in addition, take farmland out of production and which would disturb additional residents. The extension of Joslin Field could be done without all this disturbance.

There was much importance given at the meeting to the projected cost of driving the extra 12 miles to Joslin Field for the next 20 to 40 years, mostly by Sun Valley residents. What about the value of the crops the land taken out of production would produce over that same period of time?

We would also like to pose the question of how far this thing can go without a legal determination of whether the site can be changed since Site 2 was specifically designated at the time of the election. To our knowledge this question has not been answered and we cannot understand how the SRRRA can proceed to "choose a site" without it.

Idaho's Death Trap

Editor, Times-News:
Shoshone, Idaho is a death trap. I know this from personal experience. I noted, with appreciation, your editorial in the Times-News, October 8, 1973, regarding the unsafe railroad crossing in Shoshone, Idaho. I have also read other recent article regarding death and injuries to other drivers. In addition to the numerous accidents at that crossing of Highway 93 and Union Pacific Railroad, a close friend of mine also suffered permanent injury in a train-car accident in February of this year.

In March of 1973 late one night I was traveling south on Highway 93. I stopped in Shoshone at the intersection at North Fall Street, proceeded on across to the tracks slowly and with much caution, because of the accident that my friend had at the same crossing. I crossed the first set of tracks, started across the second track and saw a light to my left. I slammed on the brakes, dumped my wife on the floor as the light disappeared from my sight. It was blocked at that point by a small metal building which made me realize that I was not on the mainline track yet. By the time I got stopped I was a short distance from the mainline track. Fortunately the train was stopped but due to no visible side lights or any indication to slow the train is moving or stopped, this was a very frightening experience for me and my family. The train was visible from a headon position only. There is no question in my mind that it is the most hazardous crossing in Idaho. I feel competent in saying this because I drive many thousands of miles each year in my job.

The Union Pacific Railroad takes a blasé attitude toward this hazardous crossing. They will do nothing. They will not initiate anything for safety's sake. I am told that the government will pay all costs for installation of the $50,000-$60,000 for warning signals. True, the Union Pacific Railroad must maintain the devices, but I am also told that they in turn submit the maintenance bill to the government and get paid for that too. Why don't they care? All they apparently want is a faster speed limit for trains running through Shoshone.

It appears that the only way to get a safe crossing there is to talk money to the Union Pacific Railroad. They understand that kind of talk. My friend has sued the Union Pacific Railroad for damages from his accident and I hope the other victims and heirs do likewise. That, apparently, is the only way to get the Union Pacific Railroad to request installation of adequate safety devices at that crossing, mainly the kind that will show that a train is approaching the crossing.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Good morning. Tell me, has the furniture been moved out of my office?"

'Cool' Nixon vents fury on media

(c) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — President Nixon, his face worn with fatigue and displaying occasional hurt and anger, asserted Friday he would not be deterred by demands for his impeachment and that he had no intention of resigning.
 "The hotter it gets the cooler I get," he said. "I have what it takes."
 Nixon, in a nationally televised news conference, announced that acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork would appoint next week a special Watergate prosecutor to replace Archibald Cox, whom Nixon dismissed last Saturday, setting off a storm of controversy.

Appearing for 40 minutes in the East Room of the White House, the President discussed the following matters:

— He maintained that a larger conflict in the Middle East had been averted because he held the respect of Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and was able to prevail on him to forestall the dispatch of Russian troops to that area.
 — He vigorously defended his business man friend, C. G. Rebozo, who is under congressional investigation for a $100,000 gift he accepted from Howard R. Hughes, the millionaire recluse, and reportedly kept in a safety deposit vault for three years before returning it. Nixon said he never knew of the gift, intended as a campaign contribution, because he had a strict rule that his associates not inform him of such contributions.
 — He lashed out angrily at reporting in the news media suggesting irregularities in his financial affairs, calling it "outrageous, distorted... frantic and hysterical."

Asked why he was angry at the television networks, Nixon replied icily that he was not angry: "One can only be angry with those one respects." Then he grinned.
 Nixon's delivery was slow and measured but he made no attempt to hide his emotions when asked about his mental health, his alleged wrong-doings and his friend Rebozo. His attacks on the news media, although not new, were more harsh than in the past. He repeatedly cited his negotiations in the Middle East as an indication of his ability to govern the country.
 "Those who saw me during the Middle East crisis thought I bore up rather well," he said; when asked how he was holding up under the stress of Watergate, "I have a quality which is, I guess I must have inherited it from my Midwestern mother and father, which is that the tougher it gets the cooler I get."

 On his pledge to name a special prosecutor, he said his appointee "will have independence, he will have total cooperation from the executive branch." Nixon said in an obvious effort to turn back charges that he had eliminated Cox's office because it was too vigorously investigating the White House.
 But he said he could not support legislation in Congress providing that a special prosecutor independent of the executive branch be appointed. This was likely to set off a major fight in Congress because a number of members are determined, after Cox's dismissal, to remove the investigation from the President's control.

NEWLY FORMED Committee to impeach the President took advantage Saturday of federal appeals court ruling Friday which cleared way for demonstrations near the White House. Area has been off limits to protests for the past four years. (UPI)

Quick action

Nixon relaxes

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon spent a secluded Saturday at this mountain retreat, keeping abreast of Middle East developments and reading a heartening batch of telegrams which the White House received after his Friday night news conference remarks on Watergate.
 White House aides sent a sampling of about 200 telegrams to Camp David, where the President went with his immediate family following the nationally televised news conference. They said the "cross-section" of telegrams were "overwhelmingly in favor" of the President.

Bork sifts list for prosecutor

 "I do not believe the new prosecutor will be acceptable to the Congress and the American public under the terms the President outlined," House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill said the morning after Nixon's news conference.
 Mansfield threw his weight behind legislation, cosponsored by a majority of 53 senators, empowering Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to name a new prosecutor and provide that only Sirica could fire him. A similar bill in the House has 106 cosponsors.
 Asked if the result might be two prosecutors, one appointed by Sirica and the other by the administration, Mansfield replied: "Well, let's face that if and when it happens."
 Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd said the dual prosecutors situation would not arise, because any legislated solution would, "pre-empt" Nixon's attempt to appoint one.
 Nixon said Friday night the new prosecutor would have independence (and) total cooperation from the executive branch, but would be denied access to any further "presidential documents" besides the nine Watergate tapes Nixon is turning over to Sirica for grand jury use.
 While not directly prohibiting the new prosecutor from suing him in federal court for tapes, memoranda, notes or other documents needed for the investigation, Nixon said the question "should be worked out in cooperation, and not by having a suit filed by a special prosecutor within the executive branch against the President of the United States."
 Hushen denied that Bork, in an interview a couple of hours before Nixon's news conference, had put himself at odds with the President when he said, "I would regard no legal procedure as out of bounds" for obtaining grand jury evidence.
 Bork hinted that he, like Richardson and Ruckelshaus, might resign if backed into a corner over the issue of the prosecutor's freedom to pursue a thorough investigation. "If his independence were interfered with, I would feel that my position would be intolerable... morally untenable," Bork said.

Bar wants prosecutor

CHICAGO (UPI) — The American Bar Association urged Congress Saturday to create an office of the special Watergate prosecutor to be appointed by the District of Columbia's U.S. District Court Bench.
 The ABA said in a resolution adopted by the board of governors at an emergency meeting — only the second in the association's history — the prosecutor should be "free and independent of the persons he is investigating."
 ABA President Chesterfield H. Smith said the prosecutor could be appointed by the 15-judge bench headed by U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica under an existing statutory procedure for appointment of U.S. attorneys.
 The proposal was made, he

Good news

NEW YORK (UPI) — By the year 2000 the average work week will be 31 hours. It is predicted retirement at age 55 or less will be commonplace. There will be about 50 million retired persons. They will live to age 80 or 90 and keep middle-age health and vigor virtually to the end of their lives.
 That glowing report comes from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

US view 'absurd'

(c) New York Times Service
 MOSCOW — The Soviet Union dismissed President Nixon's explanation of the American forces worldwide alert over the Middle East crisis as "absurd" and called the American tactics "an attempt to intimidate the Soviet Union."
 The unusual timing and contents of the statement issued through Tass, the Soviet news agency, suggested that Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev had been personally annoyed at the President's public version of

Nixon rips allies for lack of help

(c) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — President Nixon chastised the United States' European allies Friday for a lack of cooperation in resolving the Mideast war, suggesting that Europe "would have frozen to death this winter unless there had been a settlement."
 The underlying resentment within the administration over the failure of the allies to support the United States in its military resupply efforts for Israel burst into the open at the President's White House news conference tonight and in earlier statements by officials at the Defense Department and the State Department.
 "Nixon noted with approval statements from the State Department that European allies had not been as cooperative as they might have been in attempting to help the United States work out a Middle East settlement. The neutral stance assumed by many of the European allies was widely ascribed by U.S. officials to a concern among the European nations that they might be cut off from their oil supplies from the Arab nations."
 "I can only say on that score that Europe, which gets 60 percent of its oil from the Mideast, would have frozen to death this winter unless there had been a settlement," the President said. "And Japan, of course, is in that same position."
 Nixon went on to point out the United States gets only approximately 10 percent of its oil from the Mideast.

Clark raps plan

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark said Saturday he was against a special Watergate prosecutor appointed by either Congress or the courts because it could upset the separation of powers between the branches of government.
 Clark said Congress' responsibility "is not to usurp the executive function but to enforce the legislative function" in Watergate matters.

Panel splits over rules

(c) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — The House Judiciary Committee, which will meet Tuesday to work out ground rules for an inquiry into the possible impeachment of President Nixon, appeared Saturday to be headed toward a party-line split on a central issue.
 The Democratic majority on the committee reportedly agreed at a meeting on Wednesday that the constitutional grounds for impeachment — "treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors" — were not limited to violations of criminal law.
 But the senior Republican member, Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, said he thought a President could only be impeached for criminal wrongdoing. He said the issue was a "threshold question" that the committee must decide before proceeding with the investigation.
 The question of what constitutes an impeachable offense has been fundamental in each of the dozen cases in the nation's history in which an official has been impeached by the House of Representatives and subjected to a trial by the Senate.
 No one on the Judiciary Committee has adopted, at least publicly the most recent standard proposed on the issue in an unsuccessful 1970 effort to impeach Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, the House Republican Leader declared that "an impeachable offense is whatever a majority of the House of Representatives consider it to be at a given moment in history."
 The Republican leader at that time was, and still is, Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, Nixon's nominee to succeed Spiro T. Agnew as vice president.
 Republicans on the Judiciary Committee appeared to have been troubled by the declaration of the Democratic chairman, Peter W. Rodino Jr., of New Jersey, that the panel would undertake the "broadest possible area of inquiry."
 Rodino was preparing to secure the records of a number of Congressional committees which have investigated

All quiet on Syrian battle line

(c) New York Times Service
 DAMASCUS — The ceasefire on the Syrian front continued without incident Saturday, according to a Syrian military spokesman, and United Nations and diplomatic personnel who were evacuated to Beirut began to return.
 After the bombing of Damascus Oct. 9, in which more than 100 persons were reported to have been killed, the U. N. economic office here ordered the evacuation to Beirut of most of its experts and their dependents.

Demos ban quotas in '76 meet rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats voted unanimously Saturday to adopt new rules for the 1976 Democratic National Convention banning quotas and outlawing winner-take-all primaries or conventions on the state level.
 Despite predictions of a bitter fight over some of the proposed rules, the 74-member Democratic Delegate Selection Commission quickly adopted the rules proposed by a drafting committee. They still were subject to approval by the full Democratic National Committee.
 As drafted by the committee and approved by the commis-

Economic 'war' on US urged

CAIRO (UPI) — Egypt's semi-official Al-Ahram newspaper Saturday called for an all-out economic war against the United States to protest Washington support of Israel.
 The newspaper said the Arab oil embargo should be combined with these other measures:
 — A stop by all Arab countries to dealing in dollars in foreign transactions.
 — A ban on trade with the United States and cancellation of all existing import and export contracts. It estimated Arab imports from the United States at more than $1 billion annually. It said a trade ban would increase the U.S. trade deficit by about 25 per cent.
 — Disposal of dollar holdings by converting them into other hard currencies.
 — Buying large quantities of gold to drop the value of the dollar.

Auditor proposes better cash flow

(Special to the Times-News)
BOISE — The office of the state treasurer needs improved cash management procedures to minimize average daily demand deposits in banks around the state, according to an audit prepared by the legislative auditor's office.
 The audit, presented Saturday to a legislative joint finance-appropriations committee, notes that Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon has made "considerable progress" in her cash management and investment procedures since the last audit was made several months ago.
 But Legislative Auditor Clyde Koontz told the legislators he thought the amount of investable money on demand deposit was still "excessive."

Miss Moon disagreed with the recommendation, however, maintaining that as long as the state's warrant system is in effect her current practice is realistic.
 The audit notes a decrease to an average of $3.5 million daily on demand deposit for the 1973 fiscal year, compared to $11.1 million daily during several months in 1971. It suggests an average daily deposit balance of $1 million as a realistic and attainable figure.
 The audit also noted several recommendations made in an earlier study of the state treasurer's office had been complied with. They included measures to strengthen internal control of the office.

Tighter money controls for Gem LEPC proposed

(Special to the Times-News)
BOISE — The Law Enforcement Planning Commission needs tighter internal financial controls according to a legislative audit presented Friday to the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee.
 The audit prepared by legislative auditor Clyde Koontz' office recommends a series of steps to tighten up. One recommendation calls for a check on travel vouchers submitted by employees of the commission. During our examination of the (commission) the audit said, "we discovered overpayments on some travel claims. The overpayments have been repaid to the LEPC to the mutual satisfaction of the attorney general's office, LEPC and the legislative auditor's office."

 The report also criticized the commission for encumbering general fund money on the basis of remaining balances rather than liabilities.

 In presenting the report, Koontz told legislative committee members however, there had been no evidence of misapplication of funds for uses other than law enforcement planning.
 Commission director Robert C. Arneson defended his agency.

Report said incomplete

BOISE (UPI) — State Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewiston, challenged today an incomplete legislative auditor's report on liquor law violations in northern Idaho.
 At the same time, auditor Clyde Koontz put before the joint finance-appropriations committee a letter of complaint from Kootenai County Prosecutor Gary Haman about information contained in that audit.

In the audit, presented at the committee meeting a month ago, there were allegations that liquor law violations are permitted to exist in some counties and that enforcement is not uniform.
 Haman took particular exception to emphasis in the audit that there is need for uniform law enforcement and that the liquor law division should help local agencies when requested.

"Frankly, I am of the opinion that these two points are inconsistent," Haman wrote the committee.
 Mitchell took issue with statistics presented in the audit comparing crackdowns in a previous state administration with actions taken under the Andrus administration. He contended they do not show the entire picture of the law agents' work nor the restrictions later legislatures have placed upon them in the number of hours they may work.

Cleanup push backed

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) — The American public must continue to push for more environmental legislation despite reports of an energy shortage, says David Zwick, director of a Ralph Nader task force on water pollution.
 Zwick told students at North

Idaho College Friday the public must also continue to monitor the effectiveness of existing laws.
 Zwick said without continued and increased citizen interest in the problems of the country, there will be a general gutting of environmental laws on the excuse of an energy crisis.

Drawing immediate partisan response from Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, Mitchell charged the Republican administration preceding Democratic Gov. Cecil D. Andrus used "enfranchisement" to enforce liquor laws.
 Peavey said at least the previous administration tried to enforce the laws and "keep kids out of the bars."

Thirsty POWs

EGYPTIAN prisoners of war grab for canteen of water tossed to them by an Israeli soldier in Suez City. The prisoners were awaiting transfer from city after surrendering Friday. (UPI)

Third Gem escapee captured

BOISE (UPI) — One of three Idaho State Prison inmates who escaped from the old prison site on Warm Springs Avenue Thursday night has been returned to the facility, while his two companions remain hospitalized with gunshot wounds.
 Walter Balla, 29, serving 25 years for robbery, was returned to the prison Friday after treatment for a superficial bullet wound in his chest.

 Boise police captured Balla and Gary Thomas O'Connell, 21, being treated for bullet wounds in one leg, early Friday morning in a residential section along Warm Springs Avenue. Neither man resisted officers. O'Connell was also serving time for robbery.
 The third inmate, Richard D. Foster, 26, serving life for rape was taken back into custody Friday night. When Ada County Sheriff's deputies went to a local home on a tip Foster might be there, they found him on the phone — trying to surrender himself to the sheriff's office. He was arrested without incident.

 Foster, being treated at St. Alphonsus Hospital for a gunshot wound in the neck, and O'Connell were in satisfactory condition today.

CSI audit findings completed

TWIN FALLS — Preliminary federal audit findings on the College of Southern Idaho administration of its work-study program have been completed and sent to the college. James Dirmul, assistant regional audit official for the Region 10 Health, Education and Welfare audit agency, said.
 The findings have been sent in sections to CSI during the past two weeks.

Dirmul said the last section of the findings were sent to CSI this past Tuesday morning. The college has two weeks to respond and make corrections before a final, public report is drawn up, he said. He added that the final report should be ready the beginning of November.
 HEW began the audit in early July after CSI's own auditing firm showed that $1,466 in "unsupportable payments" had been made to CSI college students for work-study when they were engaged in sports.

Meeting bill due

POST FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — Rep. Gary Ingram, R-Post Falls, suggested Saturday that candidates for city elections throughout the state should indicate their feelings toward open meetings.
 Ingram announced earlier this year that he will introduce in the next session of the legislature a bill to require open meetings for all governing bodies. The bill is to narrowly define exceptions for executive sessions, he said.

"Apparently, a number of city councilmen feel that they are entitled to meet privately prior to regular council meetings to formulate public policy. Regular meetings become nothing more than formal announcements of what has previously been decided in private," he said.
 His bill, he said, does not prohibit members of a governing body from getting together for purposes other than a regular or special meeting.

Enlarged Idaho highway board wins approval of revamp panel

BOISE (UPI) — The legislative executive commission Friday approved a plan to enlarge the present highway board to five members from three.

At the same time, the commission voted on a preliminary plan to create a department of water resources with the head of the new department appointed by the governor.

Earlier, water users and state officials agreed that the Department of Water Administration and the Idaho Water Resource Board should be merged, but they could not agree on whether the head of the department would be appointed by the policy board or the governor.

Bennett endorses recruitment aids

(Special to the Times-News) BOISE — The state's adjutant general told a legislative committee Friday he would recommend two or three legislative proposals next year to assist National Guard recruitment.

Maj. Gen. George B. Bennett wasn't specific on what he would ask the legislature to approve, but said recruitment was a "tough proposition." The state's highest ranking military officer said, however, recruitment has kept pace with other states since the military went to an all-volunteer army. As a result of the switch, though, he said, "we no longer have the inducement of selective service," in recruiting.

Bennett said the National Guard in Idaho recruited a total of 887 men and women in the last year, a net loss of 38.

Bennett spoke to the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee in response to a legislative audit, presented on the Adjutant General's Office and the Department of Disaster Relief and Civil Defense. It said the departments were fulfilling their duties.

The report said the additional salaries range from $1,200 to $4,500 and also said "it was not determined that any extra time and/or effort is put forth by these individuals."

Special education fund plans studied

(Continued from p. 1) Schrag also "fringed" the increase in special education and ancillary school personnel for the committee. There are currently 40 psychologists working in 39 districts, compared to 11 four years ago. There are also 11 social workers scattered in school districts, an increase from three four years ago and there are 56 speech therapists compared to only 23 four years ago.

state's system of equalizing education funding through the funding formula. Barker noted that the state permits school districts to raise more money through local property taxes than it equalizes through state support, and said if the judge rules that system improper, the legislature would have to make some changes.

The State Board of Education has also informed Barker it wants to meet with the two legislative committees concerned with education early in the session to discuss tenure and other matters board members have been considering.

One bill to abolish tenure was withdrawn last year after the board agreed it would study the state tenure system and recommend changes back to the legislature.

Schrag also noted a high turnover rate among special education teachers, blaming part of it on the salary range that is available and part of it on jobs offered the teachers at Child Development Centers around the state.

But Barker later said that he doubted the state could recruit enough teachers to meet the state's special education needs regardless of how much money were available.

The chairman also told the committee he expected a decision in the next several days from a District Court judge on a suit challenging the

'Stay out of it'

(Special to the Times-News) WASHINGTON, D. C. — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho said Friday the Middle East war was between the Israelis and the Arabs and "we must stay out of it."

Church said the United States must not under any circumstances permit itself to become involved in the war. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee members also said that "with neither side having been humiliated in the fighting the chances are pretty good that the cease-fire will succeed."

Church said his position on the Middle East is similar to his stand on the Vietnam War. But he said he supported aid to Israel to replenish lost tanks and airplanes when Israel was under attack and Arab supplies were being replenished by the Soviet Union.

Yule light plans set

SHOSHONE — Chamber of Commerce members have decided to put up Christmas decorations in the city despite efforts to conserve electrical energy.

In a meeting this week, the Chamber of Commerce agreed to decorate the city streets but admitted they might be limited to Christmas-Eve in keeping with the governor's request to conserve electrical energy. A decision as to the lighting will be delayed until later.

Idaho Power Co. manager in Shoshone, Kenneth Blackburn, said due to the energy shortage the company will not sponsor lighting contests in Idaho communities this year.

UF reaches 52 per cent of quota

TWIN FALLS — The 1973 United Fund campaign has reached $65,473, about 52 per cent of its quota.

That total in contributions was reported Friday at the final formal report meeting by Darl Gleed, United Fund executive director.

Gleed said the campaign will continue, and campaign officials hope to complete all solicitations before Thanksgiving Day. Goal of the campaign is $125,000. Funds collected support ten community agencies.

Gleed said at this time in 1972 only $43,390 had been raised. "We are delighted at progress to date, and anticipate a record amount will be raised in the campaign," he said. The 1972 campaign raised $93,000.

Gleed said in his report at the Turf Club luncheon-meeting that in 1967, $65,000 would have represented the total amount raised by the campaign.

The top 11 contributors to the 1973 campaign announced by United Fund officials include:

Twin Falls Bank and Trust and employees, $10,306.16; College of Southern Idaho and School District 411 and employees, combined, $4,781.50; First Federal Savings and Loan and employees, $3,350; Sears, Roebuck and employees, $3,100; Mountain Bell and employees, $2,950; Kellwood Co. and employees, $2,866.50; Sierra Life Insurance and Employees, $2,435; Idaho First National Bank and employees, $2,164; Idaho Power Co. and employees, $1,920; Twin Falls Clinic, $1,500; Parry, Robertson, Daly and Larson and employees, $1,300.

Japanese aides visit campground

TWIN FALLS — Four Japanese experts who plan to take over the operation and installation of some 300 KOA campgrounds in Japan in the future will be visiting Magic Valley this week.

The four arrived late Saturday to stay at the KOA facility between Twin Falls and Jerome on U.S. Highway 93. William Doten, manager said the group would be shown the facility and given a briefing on maintenance procedure and operation.

This is one of 35 such campgrounds selected by the group to visit during a six month tour.

KOA has an agreement, Doten said, with the Japanese officials for the installation of about 300 campgrounds in that country during the coming year. Randy L. Locke, manager of marketing for KOA, is directing the four on their tour of campgrounds in Idaho, California, Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming, and Nevada. Included on the tour with Locke are T. Nakamura, T. Takeshita, K. Shindo and H. Takenouchi.

Highway millions at stake in Gem court case

TWIN FALLS — The Supreme Court will hear one case here during its fall term that could have a bearing on millions of federal highway construction dollars necessary to complete the interstate highway program in Idaho.

The court has set for Monday at 10 a.m. arguments in two appeals from a District Court ruling that certain of the state's load limits were unconstitutional because they penalized one class of product and favored others.

Fifth District Court Judge James M. Cunningham made his ruling March 12, but later stayed his judgment until the Supreme Court could hear appeals on the case.

The original lawsuit involved a Utah trucking firm,

Sterling H. Nelson and Sons. The firm's drivers had been arrested in Idaho for violating maximum load limits set by law. The firm went to court against the State Commissioner of Law Enforcement, John L. Bender and L. Clark Hand, Superintendent of State Police, claiming the law that its trucks were being arrested for discriminated illegally against them.

In his ruling, Cunningham said the weight limits for general trucking should not be lower than weight limits permitted for haulers of farm produce, logging material or mining products as was the case. He said trucks carrying general cargoes "should be allowed the same gross weight allowed those engaged in hauling logging, farming and mining" products.

Cunningham's decision let stand the maximum limits on logging, farming and mining, because he said the legislature had the authority to set limits. But it overturned the lower maximum limits for other products.

The decision, handed down in March, threatened to cause a delay in the adjournment of the state legislature, but officials determined no special legislation was needed, pending the outcome of a certain appeal to a higher court.

Cunningham refused three weeks later to amend his earlier decision. In a hearing April 2, he turned down a motion from the Idaho Board of Highway Directors to intervene in the case and also denied a motion to change his earlier ruling. "If I'm wrong," Cunningham said in court, "I'll be corrected. If I'm right, then I guess the Supreme Court will say I'm right."

The judge also said, "One man driving a truck loaded with furniture can go to jail for six months while another man can use the very same truck loaded with logs having the same weight, using the very same road, go scott free."

He continued, "There is something wrong about this rule of conduct. And when our rules of conduct are that wrong, I say they are irrational and they are unconstitutional."

But later that month, April 27, Cunningham agreed to a state request to stay execution of his ruling pending an appeal before the State Supreme Court. In filing his request, deputy attorney general James W. Blaine included in the record an affidavit from a top state highway official about possible damage to the interstate highway construction.

Gem employees slate Shoshone gathering

JEROME — The Magic Valley Chapter of the Idaho State Employees Association will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Shoshone Highway Shop.

Ivan Njak, chapter president, will give a report on the last Board of Directors meeting which dealt with salary increases and retirement for State employees.

ISEA of directors have approved priorities for salary increases for state employees involving an increase in minimum wage. The increases, he said, would "raise the employee above the federally established non-farm family poverty level." He said that the proposal calls for an increase of the minimum wage from $325 per month to $385.

The annual legislative dinner for the Magic Valley Area will be held Nov. 8 at Wood's Cafe in Jerome. The social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30 p.m.

JEROME — The South Central District Board of Health has approved an agreement with the Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS).

Jim Inghalls, deputy director for the health district, said the agreement sets up the line of responsibility for the health department officials and DECS to avoid duplication.

Dr. Wayne Carle, district director, told the board he would forego the portion of his contract stating he is to return to school to obtain a master's degree in public health at this time. When hired, his contract called for such continued education at the expense of the district. He asked the board to hold open the agreement for possible later use, but said at this time he felt the end results would not warrant the cost.

The district will send delegates to the annual Health District boards meeting.

Delegates will ask the state group to support their effort to retain environmental controls through DECS at the state level as opposed to possible federal controls and retain milk inspections and quality controls for milk under health department supervision.

The board will also support state subdivision regulation for sewer and water requirements.

They will seek permission for health districts to invest funds which are accumulated for capital improvements to gain

The board will also support state subdivision regulation for sewer and water requirements.

They will seek permission for health districts to invest funds which are accumulated for capital improvements to gain interest.

Board members urged the legislature to fund for additional services which new state laws require health districts to perform.

Inghalls said new legislation continues to require additional inspections, more personnel and services from the districts, but makes no provision for funding such added duties.

Dr. Carle said work is moving slowly on the remodeling of the new district headquarters in Twin Falls, but it is expected to be ready on schedule.

It was announced Ted Dieselhorst, Jerome, has been employed with the district as an environmentalist to replace Beth Mather who has returned to school. Bob Amoureux, Jerome environmentalist, has been named to the Northwest Mosquito and Insect control board.

Wendell gets year extension for park

WENDELL — Mayor Eugene Soares told Wendell City Councilmen Thursday night that the city has received a one-year extension for completion of McGinnis park.

When the city received the original $70,000 grant, the money was guaranteed to be available until Nov. 1, 1972. Mrs. Phyllis Bunn, secretary of the McGinnis Park Board, said that it was understood when the grant was originally received that if the park was not completed and all of the set aside matching funds used within the two year grant period, three extensions could be applied for as needed until the park is finished. This will allow a total of five years to complete the park.

The extension is the second allowed since awarding the grant. The grant is administered by the State Parks Board which sent notification of the new extension, giving the city of Wendell until Nov. 1, 1974, to use the allocated grant funds.

Mrs. Bunn said the park has had the sprinkler system installed. She said planting will begin next spring and that bleachers, lights, picnic and playground equipment and ball fields remain to be completed.

Councilmen discussed having a meeting with the county commissioners, representatives of other towns in the county and the state health department concerning the county sanitary landfill. No date has been set for the meeting.

Mayor Soares announced that the water tank for the new city water system has been painted.

Councilmen discussed the possibility of installing a traffic control light at the grade school. Last year, the state Highway Department told the city that the warning light on highway 4 is not acceptable.

The council authorized city superintendent Claude Strickland to purchase gravel and to gravel city streets where needed.

McClure raps moral furor

GRANGEVILLE (UPI) — Idaho's junior U. S. Senator, criticizing moral indignation raised over former vice president Spiro Agnew's income tax discrepancies, equated the violations to Sen. Edward Kennedy "cheating on his wife."

"I question the logic or lack of logic that cheating on your income tax is a greater sin than cheating on your wife," said Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho.

The freshman senator noted the controversy over Agnew's financial delinquencies and the subsequent skepticism of Agnew's moral character.

"But there was no moral outrage when Sen. Edward Kennedy and some of his aides spent the weekend with six secretaries on that island," said McClure.

KETCHUM — A Ketchum City Council candidate does not believe that her position as news director at a Halley radio station would hamper her ability to serve.

Martha Poltevin, KSKI news director, discussed her candidacy in light of the recent firing of Twin Falls City Councilman Dick Tuininga as KMVT news director.

Initially, KMVT general manager Harold Hirte said Tuininga was fired because he had decided to seek re-election to the council seat to which he had been recently appointed. Hirte had stated that Tuininga was discharged because "I do not feel that a newsman can sit on the City Council and honestly disseminate the news to the Magic Valley."

However, later Hirte said Tuininga was fired partly because he planned to start a new radio station in Twin Falls.

Poltevin said, prior to filing as a candidate, she had a "long discussion" with KSKI Owner and general manager Kent Frandsen. His attitude about her candidacy, she said, "was one of encouragement."

Dismissed during the session, Poltevin said, was "any possible conflicts and how we might deal with them."

"Both of us are aware there is a possibility of conflict and will pay close attention so conflicts don't occur," Poltevin said.

The "biggest" conflict, Poltevin said, was the fairness to other candidates if she anchors the twice-daily station news program.

"Someone else will anchor the news until after the election at least," Poltevin said and also stated that "a reporter is trained in objectivity."

The council candidate added that a reporter could potentially be in a good position to serve on an official body "because he covers a whole spectrum of issues that might have bearing on the decisions he would have to make as a member of that body."

BRASILIA (UPI) — Under a recently passed law, Brazilian diplomats can marry foreign citizens only with the previous consent of the president of Brazil.

The law further states no Brazilian diplomat can marry a person employed by a foreign country or an international organization and, if married to a foreigner, a Brazilian diplomat cannot serve in the country of his spouse's origin.

Salon opens in TF

TWIN FALLS — Miss Elaine's Hair Fashions, a new Twin Falls business, has set a special grand opening observance to begin Nov. 6 and run for a week.

The Salon is located at 303 Second St. E., in a modern brick building. Elaine Call, wife of Glen Call, is owner operator of the salon. Mrs. Call said she has been in the business for two years and that this is her first experience as a shop owner.

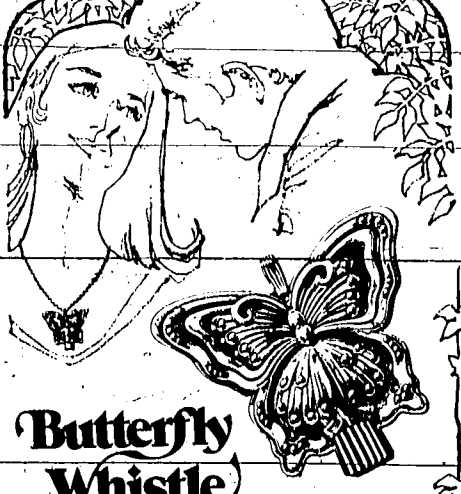

Mrs. Call said that during the grand opening, she would serve nuts, mints and coffee and would have favors to give customers. She plans to run a special on wigs during the week, she said.

The beauty salon is decorated in blue and white with blue chairs and shampoo bowls and a six unit carousel styling station which is white antiqued with gold. Mrs. Call said the salon has six full time and one part time operators and is open from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. She offers some retail cosmetic and hair products, she said.

"We specialize in the finest and newest products in permanent waves and colors," Mrs. Call said. She also said the operators are skilled in air waving and the use of the curling iron.

Egypt, Syria, Russia supplying Israelis

(c) Chicago Daily News
 TEL AVIV — Egypt, Syria and ultimately Russia have become important suppliers of arms to Israel.
 Unwittingly of course.
 They are also apparently helping Pentagon weapons experts get a look at some Russian military equipment they may never have seen before.
 Israel has captured scores of tanks and other military vehicles many in perfect operating order. Some of them have no more mileage on them than the 70-mile drive from Damascus to the Golan Heights front.

 Israeli forces have also picked up entire surface-to-air missile installations along the Sinai front as well as field guns, anti-aircraft weapons.
 Those which need no repair are being given a quick paint job and returned to troops along the cease-fire lines.
 Heads of Israeli troops can be seen popping out of the turret hatches of Russian tanks, and behind the wheels of Russian trucks and armored cars.

 The amount of Russian equipment captured is classified but judging from what can be seen on the two fronts, it is considerable.
 Israel also has the technology and facilities to repair much of the Syrian and Egyptian equipment, using parts fashioned or salvaged from damaged vehicles after the 1967 six-day war.
 Some of the equipment captured in the 1967 war may have played a key role in the most important Israeli military move in the now concluded war.

Hanoi bolsters forces inside S. Viet border

(c) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — American intelligence officials report North Vietnam has moved more than 70,000 fighting men, 400 tanks and more than 200 artillery pieces into South Vietnam since the cease-fire nine months ago.

Additionally, these sources said, the North Vietnamese army has moved 15 anti-aircraft artillery regiments to the south, has nearly completed a new all-weather highway south of Tay Ninh Province and has rebuilt 12 airfields along the hilly western perimeter of South Vietnam.

The officials said these improvements give North Vietnam the greatest attack potential in the south since the Communists launched an offensive in March, 1972.

The difference between the 1972 situation and that of today, the intelligence community has concluded, is that North Vietnam does not necessarily face heavy opposition from United States air power this time.

The bolstering of Communist forces in South Vietnam has continued unabated since the cease-fire on Jan. 28, the officials said, adding it was their understanding that there had been a fairly steady flow. According to informants in Saigon, the bulk of the 70,000 troops was infiltrated in the period immediately after January, when there were said to be about 200,000 North Vietnamese troops in place in South Vietnam.

Most of the troops and materiel were considered only nominally a violation of the truce since they came by way of Laos before there was a peace agreement there and because no international control system was functioning.

These officials have insisted that neither the Nixon administration nor the Saigon government "cheated" by adding to the South Vietnamese arsenal, although Saigon's inventory of weapons has been kept at the same level that it was at the time of the cease-fire.

The current American intelligence estimate is that Hanoi can now count on a force of 270,000 North Vietnamese regular troops in South Vietnam, plus 70,000 to 80,000 Vietcong troops. The South Vietnamese regular forces total about 375,000.

The Nixon administration has reportedly become concerned about the Communist build-up less because it represents a violation of the cease-fire than because of its potential for a new outbreak of heavy fighting.

A sharp debate is going on among American national security officials about the significance of the North Vietnamese moves.

Bumper humor not stuck up

Go down almost any street in any Magic Valley town and you see them in profusion — bumper stickers adorning vehicles of almost every description.

Their messages are almost as varied as the design of the stickers themselves. They advertise products, boost insurance agencies, espouse causes — notably ecology and religion. Stickers promote political candidates, tout celebrations, and endorse patriotism. Their humor, often based on the pun or double entendre, enlivens short or long trips. And it appears bumper stickers are going to be part of the Idaho motoring scene for a long time.

On this page are a few of the wide assortment of bumper stickers which can be found on vehicles on Twin Falls streets and parking lots.

ERA prompts review of women's status

By NORMA HERZINGER Times-News writer

ORLANDO, Fla. — What a difference a year makes — in all walks of life.

I just returned from the semi-annual meeting of the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services in Orlando (completing my three-year appointment), finding many changes. Our changing society has affected the military, too, and many of the projects the civilian advisory group has been working on for three years or more have become a reality. And, in many instances, the group feels it has been instrumental in bringing about these changes.

The prime concern of DACOWITS is to provide a communications link between military brass and the Department of Defense on matters pertaining to the training, housing, health, recreation and general welfare of service women.

The first initial change was made by the Army in August, 1972, and set off a series of actions by the other services. The Army opened all classifications to women except combat arms. The Navy assigned women aboard ship. The Army removed the restriction barring women from commanding non-combat male units. The Navy did, too, and assigned the first high-ranking woman officer as a base commander, Capt. Robin Quigley, former director of women in the Navy. And, the Air Force succeeded in getting the first woman promoted to major general.

Prior to 1968, the highest rank a woman could achieve in the services was colonel and in the Navy, captain. Today the military boasts four women, generals and one rear admiral.

In addition to liberalized promotion policies for women, the military has also given women equal status in housing procurement, family separation allowances and other benefits where dependents are concerned.

According to Lt. Col. Doris Caldwell, recruiting staff head, many changes have been made affecting eligibility and making the service a more viable option for women. Women with dependents are allowed to join the service with a dependency care waiver. Married women are not only allowed to join now, but because of a new policy, can be assigned with their husbands.

According to Col. Caldwell, the question concerning unmarried women with dependents was answered when the moral waiver clause was dropped. An unmarried woman in service was previously discharged without recourse if she became pregnant. She may now request a waiver to remain on active duty and to keep her dependent. Women can now receive quarters allowance if their husband is a civilian. Women previously could not declare their civilian husbands as dependents unless he qualified under Internal Revenue Service rules with the wife providing more than half of his support.

Col. Maida Lambreth, deputy director of the Women's Army Corps, said special efforts are made for service women who marry men in the military to stay on active duty together by coding the couple's personal folders for special assignment consideration.

She also cited the many, in-service educational opportunities available to service women up to and including government funded full time study for advanced degrees.

Brig. Gen. Ann Hoefly, chief of the Air Force Nurse Corps and World War II veteran, commenting on DACOWITS and its part in the changing forces, said an ongoing dialogue between military and civilian sectors is particularly important today to aid this country's efforts to secure a volunteer force. "It is essential our communities understand what a real break women have in the military area. The opportunities for education are prodigious," she said.

She cited recent legislative changes which have made it possible for women to be promoted to four-star generals. These changes are just a few that make the military more attractive to not only the high school graduate but college students wanting to further their careers in specialized fields.

The current proposed Equal Rights Amendment has possibly been responsible for some of the changes. The services are having to review their regulations to see just how many would be invalid with the passage of ERA.

A federal court, two weeks ago granted a preliminary injunction requiring the Department of Defense to open the DACOWITS meetings to the public, an action sought by the National Organization for Women (NOW).

Although the press and television were on hand during the semi-annual gathering, a NOW representative was not on board. The court ruling is a good one, according to the majority of DACOWITS members. They feel perhaps (Continued on page 14)

Role of military women sees change

Completing a three-year appointment to a committee is just the starting point for many. Talking with many of the outgoing members several things were brought out concerning future activities. Sarah McClendon, White House news correspondent, Washington, D. C., summed it up very well and she spoke for most of the outgoing members. "I think there needs to be more of an ongoing activity between meetings with projects assigned to different members so that they can be working during the interim and make reports later on our continuing efforts," she said. "We have not made enough of an impression on the nation or the men and women in military services. So many of them still do not know we are here." "Somehow, some way must be found to make our presentation felt so that we can become more effective," she stated. "We definitely need to have closer liaison with the civilian officials in the military between meetings. We need to have more work done on legislation at all times. I feel that we ought to have women appointed as subcommittee chairmen who can be in close contact with Congress and the DACOWITS secretariat. I also feel that no woman should be allowed to take a subcommittee chairmanship unless she can be available actively and no woman should be permitted to remain on DACOWITS if she is not going to attend meetings and participate actively," she said.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: It might do your correspondent whose husband wants no bodily contact except sex good to know that there are others with the same problem.

I have a husband who wants no bodily contact outside sex. Even kisses are few and far between. If I sit too close to him in the car, I get an elbow in the ribs. If I get too close to him in bed, I get a sharp nudge and an admonition to move over! He has a healthy appetite for sex, however, altho he is completely lacking in the tenderness that turns a woman on.

After years of brooding and studying, I found an explanation for his hangup. [Explanations don't solve problems, but they do help you to be more patient and understanding.]

My husband was an unwanted baby, and his mother let him know this from the start. He had very little cuddling and fondling at home. He has never learned how to accept physical love because he has never had any, and consequently, he doesn't know how to give any.

Husband can learn

For years I felt I was unattractive and unlovable. Now I know it's not something lacking in me... it's something lacking in him. Knowing this takes the sting out of it.

RESIGNED

DEAR RESIGNED: Your husband's lack of tenderness, which is simply his reluctance to learn how to please his partner, was learned, and that which was learned can be unlearned. Don't "resign" yourself in a martyred manner. Talk turkey to your man. He is capable of understanding a few explanations, too.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I called on a thriving trucking company, whose business it is to ship. I was asked to wait a few minutes as the owner was busy on a long distance call.

While I waited, the receptionist, a very attractive young woman, constantly cracked her chewing gum. The waiting time grew longer, and the noise of that gum cracking became more and more irritating.

Finally, my nerves couldn't take it any longer, so I told the receptionist I would come back later, and I left.

I located another hauler—one whose receptionist did not chew gum!

I wonder what the owner of that first truck line would say if he knew that his receptionist's gum-chewing was responsible for his having lost a good account?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: He probably would have chewed her out—but good!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 40-year-old woman with children away at boarding schools. My husband and I are divorced, but we haven't told our children about it for fear they may hate us for life.

The children go to school in Ohio. I live in North Carolina, and my husband lives in California. Whenever the kids come home, he flies down here and brings enough of his clothes with him to make them think he is still living here with me. He is complaining that it is getting to be a terrible expense, and if I am going to continue this pretense I will have to start paying for his transportation.

I am only a part-time cocktail waitress and make just enough to live in comfort. My husband is paying for the children's education. Please, help me.

T. IN N. C.

DEAR T.: Put an end to the ridiculous charade and tell your children that Daddy doesn't live there anymore. They'll survive.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

By HELEN WALKER

TWIN FALLS—The purpose of a soap or detergent is to loosen and remove soil from fabrics and to hold the soil in suspension in the wash water until it is drained away.

Which you choose depends on water conditions, the kind of washer used, fabrics laundered, degree and types of soil and personal preference.

Soap is a product of natural fats, oils and alkali. The amount of soap required varies with the amount of soil and the hardness of the water. If soap is used in hard water, a water softener should be used in both the wash and rinse. This prevents the soap from combining with hard water minerals and forming an insoluble film or curd which deposits on clothes. If left in the fabric, this film will give a gray or yellow cast.

A detergent is a synthetic product containing additional additives: Agents to make water wetter and suspend the soil; builders to tie up hardness minerals; suds control agents; inhibitors to help prevent loosened dirt from settling back on the fabrics; fluorescent whitening agents to whiten and brighten; perfumes to help cover odor from soiled clothes and give a clean fragrance to clothes; and optional ingredients such as oxygen bleach to remove stains, borax to impart a sweetness and freshness to clothes, bacteriostats to inhibit growth of bacteria, bluffs to counteract yellowing and enzymes to aid in cleaning and stain removal—especially protein stains.

Light-duty soaps and detergents are designed for laundering delicate, lightly-soiled fabrics. They are available in dry or liquid form.

All-purpose soaps and detergents are suitable for the entire household wash from heavily soiled work clothes to delicate fabrics. Soaps come in granule and flake form and detergents are found in granule, liquid or tablet form and are generally identified by their sudsing characteristics—high (normal), intermediate and low.

High and intermediate sudsing detergents can be used in top loading washers. The low sudsers can be used in all washers where an excessive amount of suds can interfere with the washing action.

All-purpose detergents are also available for use in cold water. The cold water detergents are designed for situations in which cold water may be desirable, that is to guard against shrinkage, wrinkling or color loss. They are also effective in water of any temperature.

Instead, he stopped for a minute to see what legitimate play, if any, there would be for the slam. He saw that if West held the singleton king of trumps, a low trump to dummy would pick it up and leave a finesse for the jack on the way back.

He also noted that if East held the singleton jack he would lead the queen and pick up East's jack. Either play gave him just under 12.5 per cent chance.

Then he won the diamond in his own hand and quickly led the queen of spades. Why did he select this play? Because in addition to the legitimate chance there was a possible swindle. West just might hold king and one and fail to cover the queen.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South had a lot of ways to bid his hand after North's jump to three spades. He chose to go the Blackwood route.

After North showed two kings, South decided to gamble on the grand slam. It was two to one that one of North's kings would be in spades. If that king happened to be held by an opponent, South figured that his partner would hold ace-jack and there would be a finesse for seven.

We don't approve of the seven bid because we just hate to bid seven unless we expect to have a cinch or at least a very good play for it; but we do approve of South's technique after dummy hit the table.

He didn't act like a man who had just thrown away the family fortune on riotous living.

Sure enough, West did duck quickly and the grand slam came home even though it should not have.

Mini-Reviews

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Public Library officials have released mini-reviews for some of the new books recently received at the library.

"Runaway Horses" by Yukio Mishima. This is a chronicle of a patriotic conspiracy set in the 1930's in Japan.

"Judah, the Pious" by Anne Edwards. The scope is a Polish court, the time uncertain, about Juda Ben Simon, brilliant son of a village scholar.

"The Making of a President, 1972" by Theodore White. The fourth of Theodore White's narrative histories of American politics in action.

"The King's Grey Mare" by Rosemary Hawley. A rousing story of medieval England with its superstitions and witchcraft; its courtly manners, and cruel punishments; its sumptuous dress and bloody warfare.

"Hammurabi" by Brian Urquhart. The author affords a rare understanding of this man forced into lonely eminence.

"The Land Beyond the Mountains" by Leonid

Shinkarve. Every aspect of Siberia is covered from prehistory to a projected year 2000, with the emphasis on people.

"Wandering Land and Animals" by Edwin Colbert. The day the author unearthed a fragment of ancient bone was the keystone of the evidence for the long debated theory of the continental drift. His is a vivid and authoritative book.

"Yellowhawk" by Janet Stewart. "Yellowhawk" is about a new red brick elementary school and Rhoda Miller in her first year of teaching there. If a lump rises in your throat now and then, that's because the people are as different and as much alike as the people you know best.

"A Report From Group 17" by Robert O'Brien. The scene is Washington — the tension is extraordinary. The hero is Fergus O'Neill, a brilliant young virologist. His opposite is Helmut Schultz, a former Nazi scientist whose talents have been commandeered by the Russians.

Lincoln pool fund reaches $23,413.92

SHOSHONE — The Lincoln County swimming pool fund has now reached $23,413.92. Francis Bergin, treasurer of the Rotary Club committee, reported Friday.

This amount includes pledges in amount of $3,825; a city fund of $8,500.41, and the Rotary fund of $6,747.92. The Rotary has also agreed to underwrite an additional $3,500.

An additional amount to make a total of $40,000 to $50,000, is needed to be raised, local officials state. The matching state funds that would go with the local fund would guarantee the possible cost of between $80,000 to $100,000 for construction of the pool.

Current project to raise funds is sale of tickets for a beef, Howard Hill, a city councilman and area rancher, donated one-half of the beef, and the Rotary Club is paying for the other half. The four quarters of the beef will be awarded to four individual donors to the project. This contest will end Nov. 30.

Rotary Club committee members state they hope to have sufficient funds to be ready to go ahead with construction of the pool by next spring, when it is anticipated the state funds will be available.

OWNERS' DIRECTION HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Norman Jewison, whose most recent movies are "Jesus Christ, Superstar" and "Piddler On the Roof," has been named director of the year by the National Association of Theater Owners.

Diagnosis procedure explained

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Philadelphia pathologist reported Thursday that a procedure for obtaining specimens of suspicious masses in breasts allows a woman to know her condition within an hour.

Dr. Tilde S. Kline, associate pathologist at Lankenau Hospital in Philadelphia, told the joint meeting of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists and College of American Pathologists the procedure involves using a thick-needle such as the one used to obtain blood samples.

She said the needle is inserted into the abnormal area of the breast and a sample withdrawn by means of suction. The sample can then be examined within an hour and the woman can be told whether the mass is malignant or benign.

Kline said a quick diagnosis immediately relieves the patient's anxiety if the sample is benign, and if the sample proves to be malignant, the patient can be psychologically prepared for both the necessary surgery and post-operative recovery.

The needle procedure was first reported used in studying breast tumors almost 50 years ago, she said, but has not been widely used in the United States.

 "I think the ERA is misunderstood," Ms. Soderbloom said. "It attempts to end discrimination, but it does not say how women are to live their lives. I myself believe equal responsibilities go with equal rights."

Participating in an afternoon panel on "Women in Society," Ella Nelson, president of the Twin Falls League of Women Voters, said the woman who has the richest personal/individual life will have the best effect on her children and her husband.

"As long as a woman must struggle to be a human-being, she cannot be a creator," she said.

She said a man's idea of femininity and a woman's idea are often not the same, "so with envy and discontent, we often give up our lives to our home and our families. It has been said that the American woman raises her family and then waits to die."

Ms. Nelson urged the workshop participants to become vocationally, politically and creatively active if they felt a void in their lives. She suggested that a working woman might be able to provide financial support to free her husband from "an unhappy plateau." She asked the women to utilize self-discipline to achieve equal rights goals. "Don't underestimate yourself," she said.

Ann Matinez, coordinator of the Pocatello Women's Caucus outlined women's activism historically then told the group, "It takes the radical groups — the Red-Stockings and the SCUM (Society for Cutting Up Men) — to accomplish change. They are the ones who stood up first on abortion, which has now been accepted."

Organized by Twin Falls women's rights advocates Sonja Joelson and Tara Desmond, the workshop Saturday included, in addition to talks by Ms. Slotten and Ms. Soderbloom, a presentation on the Idaho Human Rights Commission by Terrill Castaneda, Twin Falls. She current has a sex discrimination complaint before the commission involving the College of Southern Idaho.

There were also morning panel discussions on "Medicine and Women" by gynecologist Dr. Stephen Green and a registered nurse Delores Simms and "Mother-Child-Relationships" by Ann McNevin and Donna Suhn of the Twin Falls Child Development Center and Barbara Jessen of the Head Start Program.

In addition to the afternoon session on "Women in Society," in which Pocatello activist Mary Swanson participated along with Ms. Nelson and Ms. Martinez, there was a panel discussion on "The Family and Mental Health" by Dr. Willa Barnes and Carol Harvey, both teachers at Boise State College, and Twin Falls psychologist Phil Grover.

More honest sex education urged

TWIN FALLS — More honest sex education programs and better understanding of birth control methods were urged Saturday at a women's rights workshop in Twin Falls.

Delores Simms, a Twin Falls registered nurse, told the largely female audience that sex and the reproductive systems of males and females remain semi-taboo subjects in America.

Health and physiology textbooks in the public schools remain void of sex education until the junior high level, she said, eliminating words or pictures of genitals.

Thus, the child, she said, has a relatively complete understanding of the body with the exception of the reproductive system, and this void contributes to unnecessary fears and guilt.

She urged more honesty in the schools and greater emphasis on adult sex education classes to combat ignorance on the part of grown-ups.

One effect of more thorough sex education would be to aid women during pregnancy and childbirth, Ms. Simms said. She said the uneducated woman tends to react to labor and childbirth with tension which is "anything but conducive to labor." She also said education would eliminate myths and fears concerning breast-feeding.

Calling physicians often paternalistic and secretive in dealing with patients, Ms. Simms called for greater responsibility on the part of nurses in examining and dealing with patients.

She also stressed that more emphasis on infant care training must be given to young mothers, who often do not have an experienced family member available for help after childbirth.

Dr. Stephen Green, Twin Falls gynecologist, told the women that sensationalism over the use of birth control pills should be discounted.

Calling the pill 100 per cent effective, Dr. Green said there is only about one chance in 5,000 that a woman will develop blood clots from its use.

Although Dr. Green admitted that blood clots could lead to serious, even fatal, problems if they occurred, he said the pill was still a "boon" to birth control because of its ease and reliability.

Dr. Green also discussed problems of menopause, midwifery and abortion.

Many women he said go through menopause routinely, while for others it is a low point. Much of the problem with menopause would disappear, he said, if society would quit shrouding it in mystery.

Midwifery, he said, "may be a step backwards in terms of the best care for mother and child."

No Twin Falls physicians routinely perform abortions, Dr. Green said, despite the recent U. S. Supreme Court decision legalizing it. "We live in somewhat a conservative community," he said.

Sen. Peavey talks

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI)—State Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert says the highest priority of the next session of the legislature should lie in what he called a remedy for Idaho's "sick system for electing leaders."

Peavey spoke to the monthly gathering Thursday night of the Idaho College Republican League at the University of Idaho. He said the nation should not turn away from the government and politics because of Watergate.

Straightening of route south of Hansen slated

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Relocation of the Highline Canal and elimination of a double curve south of Hansen on the Rock Creek Road is being planned by the Twin Falls Highway District.

Keith Anderson, engineer for the district, said plans are to relocate about 1,000 feet of the main canal by excavating a new channel to the east of the present channel where it curves requiring the roadway to swing from the section line into a double curve eastward.

Anderson said the roadway was built in about 1936 and at that time should have been straightened but was left to follow the canal contour.

Surveys have been made, he said, and it appears about 2.5 acres of land will have to be acquired to make the change.

and to provide right of way for canal maintenance. He said it is hoped the Twin Falls Canal Co. will assist in the project.

No applications for federal funds will be made, Anderson said, due to the effort to complete the work as rapidly as possible. He said it is hoped some work can be done this fall and winter so as not to disturb the canal during irrigation season.

Anderson said it will probably require two years to complete the entire project as the old canal bed will not be removed and the highway straightened until the new excavation is suitable to carry the canal.

Length of the project is about 1,000 feet, the engineer said, and at this time it is difficult to estimate the cost but it will be handled by local highway district revenue.

Candidate meet

BURLEY — The four Burley mayoral candidates will answer questions Monday before the Burley Chamber of Commerce in a noon meeting open to the public.

Charles (Chuck) Shaddock, Kendall Tilley, Sylvan Burgi and Joe Peters will each be given five minutes for a prepared speech, according to chamber president George Forachler.

The public is invited to attend the luncheon meeting at the Ponderosa Inn and may ask questions of the candidates. The questions must be submitted in writing, either to the chamber office, or at the meeting.

Those wishing to attend are asked to register at the chamber office by Monday.

TF league sets candidate meet

TWIN FALLS — The League of Women Voters of Twin Falls will sponsor a public candidates meeting Monday at 7:45 p.m.

The meeting will be broadcast live by KTFI radio at 8 p.m. from Room 108 of the vocational education building on the College of Southern Idaho campus. Moderating the meeting will be voters service chairman, Ingrid Strope.

Six candidates have filed for the four positions to be filled on the Twin Falls City Council. Leon Smith Jr. and Richard H. Casper have filed for the single two-year term. H. E. (Bud) Cheney and incumbents Paul Ostyn, Henry Woodall, and Richard Tulniga have filed for the three four-year terms.

Following prepared statements, the candidates will answer questions from the audience.

According to Ella Nelaer, local League president, "Candidate meetings give the public an opportunity to meet, question, and consider the candidates for contested races. I urge city residents to inform themselves and vote in the Nov. 6 city-council election."

Pilot pre-school program planned

GOODING — Immediate steps will be taken here to establish a pilot pre-school education program for visually handicapped children as a result of verification of a $18,000 federal grant.

Lee W. Robinson, assistant superintendent of the Idaho School for the Blind in Gooding, will be project director. He said it will serve as a model program for assisting children 3 years of age or under who have visual difficulties and who live in sparsely populated states such as Idaho.

The funding will be entirely from the grant through the Health, Education and Welfare Bureau of Education, Robinson said.

"We have been anticipating the grant," Robinson said Saturday, "and have been doing some preliminary planning but could not hire personnel or take definite steps to prepare for the new services until the grant was actually awarded. We can now go ahead and plan to do so."

This is the first such program to be funded and will be used as a guideline for similar training in other sparsely populated states.

Robinson said he anticipates about 100 visually handicapped children will be provided educational opportunities through the intensive program which will include parent-counseling, continuous case finding and referral procedures.

Three parent counselors will be hired with part of the grant and will conduct home visitations in various parts of Idaho during which they will advise parents on training procedure, give out materials, provide tutoring services and check on referrals.

Robinson said the main purpose of the grant is to help the parents prepare to work with their own visually handicapped children at home and to develop self-help skills for the children.

The program director said the new grant will allow the school to expand its itinerant program and reach more children at an early age and succeed in working them into the regular programs.

Robinson also said the State School, with approval of the Board of Education, has begun a program to allow secondary school-aged children with visual handicaps to remain in their home school districts and be assisted by traveling itinerant teachers. There are now six such teachers in the state.

Under the program as now proposed, he said, the early education services can be provided in communities of all sizes.

Aide says models outmoded

TWIN FALLS — A Boise psychology teacher told a Twin Falls women's rights meeting Saturday that the U.S. society operates on outmoded and often destructive family models.

American lives on the image of the family as a man, a wife and probably two children, said Dr. Willa Barnes, a Boise State psychology professor.

"That is considered the best way to live and if you don't live that way you're in trouble."

Dr. Barnes said that Americans have got to decide that living in non-traditional ways, such as a single woman with children or a single man with children, is not trouble, it's an alternative.

"We've got to allow for freedom, and that freedom is good for the children," she said.

She said that studies have shown that, for instance, boys without fathers do not necessarily turn out to be homosexuals.

"The more we study, the more we see that children can turn out with a good conscience and good social behavior and so on without following the model. How can we see the richness in getting away from the stereotypes?"

One result of the stereotypes, she said, is that the father has been "really chased" of the joys of parenthood.

Parenthood is a shared responsibility, said Dr. Barnes, "and that is the kind of thing we can teach our children to do."

UNICEF drive set

KETCHUM — The "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" drive will be conducted again this year in Ketchum with Vicky Gudmundsson as chairman.

Children participating in the program will be honored with a party at the Hemingway Elementary School after the drive on Halloween night.

Chairpersons for the drive include Spook Alley, Lauri Sarchett; carnival, Mary Jane Atkinson; education, Carolyn Lloyd; refreshments, Pam Ritau and Mary Jo Sewell; entrance, Mary Sidwell and Lucille Chohsey; and publicity, Jo Ann Algiers Levy.

Anyone wishing to help with the Halloween party should contact Vicky Gudmundsson at 726-5522.

BLM aide resigns

SHOSHONE — Louis Logosz has announced his resignation as assistant Wood River area manager for the Bureau of Land Management, according to O'Dell Frandsen, Shoshone District Manager.

Logosz' resignation was effective Oct. 26. Frandsen said Logosz has worked 10 years for the BLM, the last seven years in the Shoshone District.

He will be associated with Lemoyne Realty, Twin Falls, as a range consultant, and will work in real estate and appraisals.

Hailey finishes furnace repair

HAILEY — A furnace malfunction has been corrected at the Wood River Junior High School, Hailey, and classes will resume Monday.

The school had been ordered closed Friday after US Department of Labor inspector, Elden Ryals, discovered that the school's oil furnace was emitting sulphur dioxide fumes.

According to assistant Supt. Ray Jefferson only minor adjustment of the furnace damper and flue was required to correct the problem. He said the work had been accomplished in half an hour Friday.

School principal Phil Homer said, at the time of Ryals' routine inspection Thursday, a small amount of fumes had been coming from the furnace door.

Homer said no odor had been present in the building and the fumes had constituted "absolutely no health danger whatsoever."

TF youth remains critical

TWIN FALLS — Jerry Lynn Craghead, 14, Twin Falls, remained in critical condition late Saturday at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

He is being treated for multiple fractures, internal injuries and head injuries suffered when struck by a pickup truck Thursday evening.

The boy was walking from the school bus stop to his home and county officers said he was in the center of the highway when a pickup truck driven by Darrell Lee Schmitt, 17, Twin Falls, attempted to swerve to miss the boy but hit him as he changed directions, darting into the vehicle's path.

The accident occurred about 4:30 p.m. on the Pole Line Road three miles west of Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

Nampa bull tops Filer range sale

FILER — Naugle Hereford Ranch, Nampa, topped the 1973 fall range bull sale of the Idaho Cattlemen's Association here Friday with a $2,200 sale to Rockland Valley Ranches, Rockland.

The purebred Hereford bull, MJIR Britisher, brought a higher bid than the grand champion of the Thursday judging which sold for $1,800. It was consigned by Wallace Hayes, Rockland, and sold to Bob Swanson, Pocatello.

The top 10 bulls of the sale averaged $1,300, and the total 46 bulls which received the top-A grade averaged $1,080, which officials said, was an unusually high average for the entire A bulls.

The 52 B-plus bulls brought $45,775 and averaged $880 per animal, also a good record.

There were a total of 25 B grade bulls selling for $16,235 and an average of $706. Sales officials said the current cattle prices plus outstanding quality shown in nearly all of the sale consignments.

Other top sales of the event included bulls consigned by Rex Daniels, Malad, and sold to Lefe Holbrook, Bancroft, $1,450; consigned by Udy Brothers, Rockland and sold to Pierce Inc., Malta, $1,300; Jay Pearson, Moore, sold to Willey Smith, Mackay, $1,400; Dew E. # Desert land use meeting Tuesday

IDAHO FALLS — A final public meeting before implementing the Big Desert Management Unit framework plan has been set here Tuesday (Oct. 30) by Bureau of Land Management officials.

The meeting will be at the Idaho Falls District BLM office at 8 p.m.

The Big Desert Management Unit includes about 100 million acres of public lands in Bingham, Blaine, Butte, Minidoka and Power counties. These lands generally lie between the Idaho Falls-Arco highway and the Union Pacific railroad between American Falls to Minidoka. They are also between the Craters of the Moon National Monument and farmland west of American Falls Reservoir.

Walter (Ed) Jones, BLM district manager, said the information to be presented at the final meeting reflects recommendations previously made by the public and the proposed plan for proper management of resources in the unit.

Preparation of the management plan has taken more than two years, Jones said.

Gem bean program to expand

BOISE—A food promotion program emphasizing Idaho beans will be expanded from the southwest and southern California to other western states early in 1974.

According to Idaho Bean Commission officials, the program focuses on using beans to stretch food dollars and the importance of protein in meatless meals, using new recipe ideas based on bean dishes.

Commission officials said studies are being made to establish controls on large populations of Mexican bean beetles west of Boise, within four miles of the principal Treasure Valley bean growing area in Ada and Canyon counties.

Robert Henry, transportation consultant to the commission, has advised members he is filing rate reduction requests in seven areas including export markets. The applications are to reduce bear transportation rates, to combat cuts already made in other areas.

Some of the requests would apply to containerized beans shipped on railroad flat cars, Henry said.

Alabama sets records in whipping Va. Tech

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Second-ranked unbeaten Alabama, getting long touchdown springs from Calvin Culliver, James Taylor and Willbur Jackson, shattered two NCAA records Saturday night and annihilated Virginia Tech 74-0.

Alabama, its powerful wishbone offense running rampant over the outclassed Gobblers, piled up 828 total yards, including 743 rushing and 85 passing. The total yardage and the rushing yardage set national single game records.

The old records were 788 total yards by Vanderbilt in 1960 and 717 rushing yards by Oklahoma in 1971.

Culliver, a third stringer, scampered 87 yards for one-touchdown.

Taylor, a fourth stringer, romped 80 yards for another and starter Jackson scored on a 51-yard run. Jackson also had a 71-yard run that set up a touchdown.

Jack O'Rear, a freshman third-string quarterback, scored two Alabama touchdowns on runs of 14 and 28 yards. Randy Billingsley, also tallied two Crimson Tide touchdowns on runs of two and seven yards.

Alabama got its other scores on a 20-yard pass from Richard Todd to Warren Dyar, a nine-yard keeper by Todd, a seven-yard run by Ralph Stokes and Conley Duncan's recovery of a blocked punt in the Gobblers end zone.

Phil Rogers scored Virginia Tech's only touchdown on a six-yard run in the second period. Rogers reeled off a 23-yard run and snared a 19-yard pass from freshman quarterback Eddie Joyce to set up the score.

Alabama, with an eye toward overtaking Ohio State in the national ratings, scored 11 of the first 13 times it had the ball despite substituting Treely, COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI) — Quarterback Mike Miloy ran two yards for a touchdown with 1:03 left in the game Saturday night to rally eighth-ranked and unbeaten Louisiana State to a 33-20 win over South Carolina.

Miloy led the Tigers, trailing 20-26, into the end zone in barely two minutes, putting them in striking range with a 40-yard pass to split end Ben Jones.

Louisiana State, now 7-0, had to overcome a two-touchdown first-quarter deficit and a furious charge by the inspired Gamecocks, who dropped to 4-3, to preserve their perfect record.

The Tigers, down 12-9 at the half, took the lead for the first time with 9:51 left in the third quarter when fullback Lora Hinton danced into the end zone from a yard out.

South Carolina took the kickoff and roared back, matching the touchdown on a 20-yard pass from halfback Jay Lynn Hedgott to tight end Marty Woolbright.

With 2:08 left in the period, the Bengals took the lead back as tailback Steve Rogers darted around right end for seven yards and a touchdown. The two teams traded field goals early in the fourth quarter before South Carolina quarterback Jeff Grantz gave the Gamecocks a 29-26 lead with 3:20 remaining that had the partisan crowd of 51,039 thinking it had an upset. Grantz tossed a nine-yard touchdown pass to flanker Scott Thomas for the tally, capping a nine-play drive that went 76 yards.

Undefeated Tulane beats Georgia Tech

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Tailback Eddie Price Jr. ran for touchdowns of 19 and one yard to help undefeated and 14th-ranked Tulane to a 21-14 victory over Georgia Tech Saturday night.

The Green Wave, 6-0 and sporting its best record since 1934, also scored on 42 and 26-yard field goals by David

Faloust and had a safety on a Georgia Tech, now 2-5 on the season, scored on a one-yard run by quarterback Jim Stevens and a one-yard plunge by Greg Horne.

Tulane, playing before a crowd of 66,826, won the bruising game by grinding out yardage on the ground most of the time, but added key yardage through the air with the passes of alternating quarterbacks Steve Foley and Don Louney.

Tech went ahead, 14-12 in the third quarter when Horne dove over left guard for a touchdown with 6:50 left.

Texas routs Rice 55-13

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Bruising fullback Roosevelt Leaks ground out 193 yards and two touchdowns and Marty Akins threw two touchdown passes to tight end Parker Alford, sparking the Texas Longhorns to a 55-13 rout of the Rice Owls Saturday night.

Reserve quarterback Mike Presley scored three more Longhorn touchdowns on runs of 12, five, and one yards as the contest became a runaway.

Leaks turned in his second best career performance only one week after burning the Arkansas Razorbacks for 209 yards.

Arkansas

downs Tulsa

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Dickey Morton sparked a sputtering Arkansas offense with a 77-yard touchdown run to break a scoreless tie in the third quarter and the Razorbacks rolled on to beat Tulsa Saturday night 20-6.

The Razorbacks gathered steam from Morton's run and added another touchdown in the third quarter on Alan Watson's one-yard smash to cap an 85-yard drive. Mike Kirkland's 56-yard pass to Jack Ettinger was the big gain.

A 26-yard punt by Tulsa's Rick Engles into a stiff north wind put Arkansas in business again moments later at the Tulsa 40. Watson plowed in from the one again five plays later with Morton setting it up with an 11-yard sweep.

Camas County completes third undefeated season

FAIRFIELD—The Camas County Musers completed a third-straight undefeated season Friday afternoon by beating Bliss 56-20 and will meet New Meadows for the state eight-man championship next week.

Seniors Layne Osborne and Brent Geisler, integral parts of the three-year Musher machine, had goodbye to the home crowd in rousing fashion. Osborne romped for 32 points, giving him 178 for the year.

The Musers will play for the title at New Meadows at 1 p.m. Saturday. A victory against the air-minded "host team" would give Camas its third straight state title and 28th consecutive win.

Bliss tried to make the Musers think about No. 27, however, as the Bears took the opening kickoff and rode the passing arm of Jay Lenker to a touchdown. After a 40-yard bomb, the payoff came on a 30-yard screen pass to Kelly Schroder.

But the deficit—the first one Camas has looked at in a long while—didn't last long. Osborne gathered in the ensuing kickoff and springed 62 yards. He then added the two-point run to send the Musers ahead to say.

Camas quickly added three more first-period scores. The first came on a 39-yard bomb from Geisler to Larry Ivie, Osborne converting. Osborne collected the next two on runs of 22 and 85 yards, converting on the last one.

In the second period, Geisler scored from 39 yards out and Osborne came back with a 25-yard gallop and another two-pointer before halftime.

Geisler last home field score came on a scramble when he faded to pass found one open and traveled 52 yards. Bill Baldwin wound it up for the Musers on a 30-yard jaunt.

Wicher leads Glenss Ferry to 30-22 victory over Wildcats

GLENSS FERRY—The Glenss Ferry Pilots, paced by Tom Wicher, broke out in their biggest point rash of the season Friday night and swept over the Filer Wildcats 30-22.

It was a see-saw battle throughout the last period, although Glenss Ferry kept the upper hand due to the only touchdown of the first half.

Wicher, who got all but two of the Pilot points, was the workhorse in a drive off the opening kickoff. Wicher wound it up by getting the last four yards, then coming back for the two-point conversion.

He pushed Glenss Ferry ahead 14-0 early in the third period but Filer nullified that on a 70-yard pass and run play between Rockne Lammers and Dan Olsen. Lammers tacked on the two points.

Wicher immediately replied with a 40-yard jaunt and Louie Egusquiza ran for the conversion. Again Lammers turned to the air, this time connecting with Brent Thaele on a 53-yard bomb.

Wicher moved Glenss Ferry out of reach in the final period with another four-yard bust. Filer cut the deficit to eight points on a 57-yard pass from Lammers to Lenn Thaele but could get no closer.

Eden—The Buhl Indians, helped by six pass interceptions, beat back the scrappy Valley Vikings 20-6 Friday night in a non-conference game.

Buhl managed a 7-0 lead in the first half when Rick Lauda broke a draw play for 27 yards and the touchdown. Pat Hamilton booted the point after.

Murtaugh and Grace battle to 12-12 tie

GRACE—A last-second field goal try hit the crossbar and bounced back into the end zone Friday night and the Murtaugh Red Devils had to settle for a 12-12 tie with Grac.

The conclusion of the question will be established Nov. 8 when the same two clubs meet in the fourth-fifth district playoff in the midnight. Decht will meet Westside in the other half of that annual doubleheader.

Grace gave Murtaugh trouble with its passing in the first half and drew first blood on a run that capped basically a passing march.

Murtaugh, seeing an interception kill a good scoring chance with eight minutes to play, got the ball at the Grace 40 with 17 seconds left. In two plays Stanger passed the Devils to the 15 before Scott Perkins' field goal just missed winning it.

Wood River defeats Wendell in last half

WENDELL—The Wood River Wolverines turned a fumble recovery into the decisive touchdown in the third quarter Friday night when they defeated the Wendell Trojans 20-12.

The second half, with only that one score, proved decidedly different to an offensive display in the first two quarters.

Wood River started that by taking the opening kickoff and rolling 56 yards in 12 plays. Tandy Collier got the big gain on a 22-yard spring and then wound it up with a one-yard dive. Bruce Malen kicked the first of two points after.

Wendell then successfully worked on sides kick but a drive was stymied by a penalty at the Wood River 21-yard and the Trojans punted to the Wolverine four. From there Wood River ripped 96 yards in four plays with Dallas Barnes getting it going with a 43-yard burst. Allen Patterson plunged in from the two.

Wendell replied with a 72-yard drive that took 12 plays. The 12th play was a 23-yard scoring strike from Kent Sisson to Kent Peterson. But again the point try was blocked.

The turning point came on the first play of the second half when Wendell fumbled at its own 32-yard line. A 15-yard penalty moved the ball to the 17 and on the next scrimmage Patterson went in from the 17.

Wood River recovered a fumble at the 25 immediately after the kickoff but this time Wendell held. The only scoring play from then on came on a Wendell field goal attempt that missed.

Dietrich falls to Carey rally

DIETRICH—The Carey Panthers overcame two early Dietrich touchdowns Friday afternoon to score a 34-16 season ending victory.

Daryl Ballard, back off the injured list, started the thing with a bang, taking the opening kickoff and romping 85 yards. Minutes later, Jess Southwick, who got both two-point conversions, capped a Dietrich drive by getting the last five yards. But from then on Dietrich was contained.

Carey started back on a 70-yard romp by John Molyneux and cut the deficit to two points by halftime when Jerry Ivie went in from the six. Molyneux added the two-pointer.

Ivie's one-yard dive in the third period sent Carey ahead and, after converting on that one, Carey scored again on a 28-yard pass from Gary Shaffer to Mike Peterson.

Crenshaw leads PGA qualifiers

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (UPI)—Ben Crenshaw, a former collegiate golf star from Austin, Tex., easily won the PGA qualifying tournament Saturday by 12 strokes with a final round 4-under-par 68.

Crenshaw, who had an eight-round total of 558, heads a group of 23 players who now become eligible to join the PGA tour.

A smothering defense led by Ecomet Burley, David Knaus, and Brian Bernwanger shut down the nation's second leading rushing team until the 16th-ranked Raiders had run up an insurmountable lead.

It was the sixth win against a single loss for Tech and kept the Raiders in the Southwest Conference race.

Jerome take title; Hunter top runner

BOISE—The Jerome Tigers, placing all five men in the top 12, easily coasted to the state B cross country championship Friday afternoon while Twin Falls placed third in the A-division.

John Hunter of Gooding State grabbed individual honors with a 12:20 clocking over the Ann Morrison park course while Mike Gregory of Blackfoot paced the A field in 12:18.

Jerome's victory was a rout. Coach Tim Dunne's charges finished with 46 points while Snake River was second at 114. Scoring for the Tigers were rocky Bartholomew, fifth; J. D. Tolman, eighth; Gerald Walters, 10th; Chris, Waigo, 11th, and Steve Marshall, 12th. No other B data was available. In the A division, Blackfoot just nipped surprising Borah 79-80 for the team title while Twin Falls fell back from its usual showing. The Bruins were third but had 115 points. Idaho Falls was fourth at 155.

Hansen stops Oakley air game to collect 20-6 decision

HANSEN—The Hansen Huskies moved the ball better than they scored Friday night but still claimed a 20-6 decision over the Oakley Hornets.

After some early squabbling, Hansen defense, behind Randy Fix, pretty well contained Oakley's running game, which wasn't unexpected, but the Hornets also had trouble with the air game. In the last period Oakley tried running only one play.

Hansen turned to the air for its first scoring. Marty Jacobs hit Mark Stanger with a 35-yard bomb to put teeth in a 92-yard drive after Jacobs' three rollout runs for 27 yards got it started. The same combination clicked for the final nine yards.

But Oakley rebounded with a good march, the payoff coming on a slick improvisation in midstream by Dave Rodriguez. He started off the right side, found nothing but green shirts and pivoted completely around and sprinted 20 yards to it.

Jerome rolls past Blackfoot by 20-8

POCATELLO—The Jerome Tigers shook off a plague of fumbles and rolled past the Blackfoot Broncos 20-8 Friday night in their first visit to the midstate.

The Tigers dropped the ball nine times and lost it on five of these occasions. But the Jerome defense wouldn't let Blackfoot move and the Broncos' chance for an upset went aglimmering early in the second period when Morris, their starting quarterback, had to leave the game.

Jerome took the opened kickoff and marched 65 yards to score on an eight-yard run by Bryon Lyons. The conversion attempt failed. Through the rest of the half the Tigers kept the pressure on Blackfoot but fumbled away several budding bids.

Eight minutes into the second half, however, Dwight Hurd burst for seven yards and the points that moved the tigers out of reach. Stacy Camp ran for the two-point conversion.

Richfield romps by Rockland

RICHFIELD—The Richfield Tigers threw their way to a 16-0 halftime lead and rolled past the Rockland Bulldogs 28-6 Friday afternoon.

Richfield opened scoring on a three-yard pass from Rod Hubsmith to Phil Aja for the touchdown and Gaylen Edwards then flipped to Aja for the two points.

In the second quarter Mike Robinson and Ken Piper hooked up on a 40-yard bomb. Robinson threw to Doug Maestas for the two-pointer.

Richfield moved ahead 22-0 in the third period when Mike Robinson dived in from the one with Rockland breaking the shutout early in the fourth period on a one-yard quarterback sneak by Blaine Udy. That came after a 60-yard run by Udy that carried to the one.

Raft River shuts out Castleford

CASTLEFORD—The Raft River Trojans scored in the middle quarters and defeated the Castleford Wolves 14-0 in a defensive struggle Friday night.

The first period was scoreless with Castleford missing a field goal as the biggest point threat.

But in the second period Raft River went on a good march that ended in Ted Tracy's six-yard scoring run.

In the third quarter, Brian Hansen's 14-yard burst shoved the game out of reach and neither team could muster a serious threat in the final minutes.

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Sophomore quarterback Mike Holder engineered four first-half touchdowns for Montana State, and the Bobcats easily downed Idaho 35-4 in a Big Sky Conference game Saturday.

Montana State completely dominated the first half, but it took a while for the Bobcats to get on the scoreboard as they missed two field goal attempts before getting their first touchdown.

Fullback Don Bagley showed the way as he finally banged into the endzone from three yards out with less than three minutes left in the first quarter.

Holder then took over in the second quarter, scoring a pair of touchdowns on runs of one and three yards and passing even yards to tight end Bob Jabb to give the Bobcats a 28-0 lead at halftime.

Burley overpowers Gooding

GOODING — The Bucey Bobcats bottled up Gooding's offense and picked off four passes Friday night in ridding to a 26-6 non-conference victory.

The Bobcats lost the shutout bid in the final second of the game, when Kevin Boger scored from a yard away after a long screen pass at it up.

But by then Burley was safely out of reach. The Bobcats started moving away in the first period when Ed Rasmussen picked off the first of two passes and Burley immediately began driving. Ken Harper plunged in from the three. Just before the end of the period, Gooding stopped the Bobcats inside the five.

It stayed 7-0 until the third play of the third quarter when Jimmy Baker broke a 40-yard touchdown run. Burley immediately forced a Gooding punt and the Bobcats drove to the 12 before Trent Martindale went in.

Midway through the fourth period Harper ran for a first down out of punt formation to get a first down and Chad Jones hit Rick Fletcher for 16 yards to the Gooding one. Tim Morley plunged in from there and Harper tackled on his second conversion by kicking.

through a scoreless third quarter before Idaho began to move in the final 15 minutes.

The Vandals picked up two quick tds but it was too late to get back into the game.

With just one minute gone in the final quarter, quarterback Dave Comstock hit flanker Kirt Dennis on a 25-yard pass in the corner of the endzone, and the Vandals followed that up with a two-yard td run by Darrell Mitchell after the Bobcats fumbled the kickoff.

But Montana State shut off the Vandals the next time they got the ball when cornerback Bill Crowley intercepted a on-stump pass and raced 47 yards to the touchdown. The MSU defense then stopped two more Idaho drives to preserve the victory.

Montana State is now 4-1 in the Big Sky and 6-2 overall. While Idaho dropped to 1-2 in the conference and 2-6 on the season.

Two share Sahara meet lead

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — John Mahaffey and Lou Graham battled to a draw once again Saturday in the third round of the 72-hole $135,000 Sahara Invitational with 10-under par scores of 103.

In the third day of near-ideal weather on the sun-swept Sahara-Nevada Country Club course, they each shot 89, two under, to maintain the tie they had at the top of the pack after 36 holes.

Mahaffey, 25, a smiling protege of the great Ben Hogan, had earlier rounds of 68-66, and Graham, a Nashville, Tenn., veteran of 10 years on the PGA tour, shot a pair of 67s in the first two rounds.

A stroke back of the leaders with one round to go (Sunday) was Larry Ziegler, St. Louis, Mo., who shot 65, the lowest score in the third round, and that gave him a 54-hole total of 204, nine under.

ROLLING OUT quarterback Rod Shaffer of Twin Falls eludes three Pocatello Indians enroute to a 12-yard pickup late in SIC action at Bruin Stadium Friday night. Pocatello defeated the Bruins 13-0.

Pocatello pins third straight shutout loss on Twin Falls

The Pocatello Indians pinned the third consecutive shutout on the Twin Falls Bruins Friday night in collecting a 13-0 Southern Idaho Conference victory.

The Bruins had two chances to score during the evening, both set up on misplays by the Indians. But in neither case could they muster a first down as the passing game wasn't there and it became increasingly obvious Twin Falls can not run inside.

Field goals did most of the damage to the defensive team as Nate Stiggers batted a pair, defensively, Pocatello was much quicker than the Bruins and shut just about everything off. Sophomore Mike Allison was responsible for most of what yardage Twin Falls managed.

Twin Falls had a break early when Steve Brawley scooped up a fumble and returned it 21 yards to the Pocatello 10. But three plays later Twin Falls fumbled it back. Pocatello then kicked out of that hole, but the Bruins muffed the catch and the Indians recovered at the 48-yard line.

Tony Monroe sped for one first down and Jeff Edwards took a screen pass for 21 yards to the Bruin nine. Twin falls' defense held there and four plays later Stiggers kicked a 25-yard field goal.

Neither team managed much until late in the half when Dennis Warren returned a punt 20 yards to the Twin Falls 30. Monroe's off-tackle slant

UCLA crushes California

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Cornerback Jimmy Allen intercepted a Vince Ferragamo pass on the UCLA goal line and raced it back 100 yards for a touchdown in the second half Saturday as the 13th-ranked Bruins crushed California 61-21 for their sixth straight victory.

Allen, a senior who led UCLA with seven interceptions last season, sprinted untouched down the sideline after picking off Ferragamo's aerial intended for Slavia Rivera on a fourth-and-goal situation on the UCLA two.

Scoring more than 50 points for the fourth time this year, and breaking 60 for the second time, the Bruins improved their season record to 6-1 and their conference mark to 3-0.

Notre Dame breaks USC streak at 23

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Eric Penick aped 85 yards on a game-breaking touchdown run and Bob Thomas kicked three 32-yard field goals Saturday to lead Notre Dame to a 23-14 victory over the Trojans.

Penick's 85-yard run, which he completed in 11 plays, was the longest in the history of the game. It set up Thomas' first field goal, which he kicked from 32 yards out.

Thomas kicked three more field goals in the game, all from 32 yards out. The Trojans' defense was unable to stop Penick's drive, which consumed 11 plays and 75 yards.

Notre Dame's defense was vital in the game. The Irish forced four turnovers by the Trojans, two on fumbles and two on pass interceptions at crucial moments, and shut off the Trojans' running expertly.

The Trojans went into the game with an average of 217 yards gained per game on the ground and they wound up netting only 68 yards rushing in the nationally televised game.

Anthony Davis, who had averaged 86 yards per game, carried 10 times for 55 yards and was guilty of one of the crucial fumbles.

Notre Dame trailed in the opening quarter when the Trojans put together their first scoring drive, covering 65 yards in the nine plays before Davis plunged from the 1 for the touchdown. A personal foul penalty which gave Southern California 15 yards at midfield kept the drive going.

Notre Dame had a 20-7 lead before the Trojans' second score, on a 27-yard pass from Pat Haden to Lynn Swann, who was the successful target on five of Haden's nine complements.

Thomas hit his first field goal after Tim Rudnick partially blocked Jim Lucas' punt from the Trojan end zone to give the Irish field position on the Southern California 28.

Thomas hit again from the 32 yard line to leave the Irish at 7-6, winding up a drive which began on the Notre Dame 41.

Just before the half, quarterback Tom Clements sparked a 47-yard parade in 11 plays and scored on a one-yard sneak to give the Irish a 13-7 margin.

Then Penick led the game with his long touchdown dash, in which he outran the Trojan secondary for the final 40 yards on Notre Dame's first play from scrimmage in the second half.

Thomas' final field goal isn't easy to explain. He uses blockers very well and has some good moves to free himself. Also, at 6-1 and about 170 pounds, he's a little bigger than the usual back and, facts being facts, is as big as some of the defensive tackles the small schools in the conference can muster. But he doesn't overpower any — and that didn't say he won't take his head and go for the extra yards.

He's still an enigma, however, in this eight-man game. The good ones previously were (a) small, very quick and very fast or (b) very big and very overpowering.

Osborne has good speed. We'd guess in the 10.5 or 10.6 area. But during the track season he isn't the quickest in the league. He isn't a "soul" runner, going in five directions at once.

But although we can't tell you exactly how he does it, we can assure you that he can do it. After all, 500 points and well over 3,000 yards can't lie. Unless, of course you consider the lie being that Osborne probably wasn't on the field

Of note, Billy Shaw, a Wood River high graduate, has been described as being the best 10-year-old Alpine skier in the United States today. That's the opinion of his Boise State coach who has been around the international tour a lot and comes to BSC after serving as the chief coach of the U. S. women's ski team.

And the Shaw family of Ketchum wants one thing perfectly clear. "He's not a newcomer, someone who moved in here from California or New York. He's been here all the way through school. And we're not rich people. He learned to ski on his own and earned his own way doing it," says Mrs. William Shaw.

The resulting BSC scholarship and, hopefully, the notoriety that will accrue to Bill in the next few years is something, Mrs. Shaw says, that "should be an example to the other youngsters in our area."

This one comes a little late, but is worth repeating. A Twin Falls man, who desires anonymity, no longer will go golfing by himself. He arose early some time ago for a quick nine holes before work at the muny course. In fact, it was about 6:30 p.m. when he stepped up on No. 4 tee.

You're right, he hit the shot of his life. "It was going straight at the pin and looking so good that I just yelled out 'don't go in,'" he reported; it did, of course, and there he stood. "I looked around and no one was there. It looked like some people were moving down No. 1 fairway. There was no one ahead of me for about five holes."

Still, he took his time getting to the hole, hoping someone would bounce out of somewhere and say "nice shot." The miracle didn't happen. He took the ball from the cup, wrote a one on his scorecard and teed off on No. 5 — still waiting for his first official hole-in-one.

an era ended in Magic Valley sports Friday when Camas County senior Layne Osborne romped for his final touchdowns to cap a heady three-year scoring career.

With the state title game at New Meadows still on tap next Saturday afternoon, Osborne has completed his regular season with 178 points. Quite a few, you say. It's nothing really. Last year he had more than 200 and as a sophomore he once scored 54 points in one game.

Coach Mark Hansen, whose had the youngster only this season, puts it into a little more perspective. "Well," Coach Hansen says trying to recall exactly to what extent Osborne played this year, "he missed that one game completely with that appendicitis operation. We only played him 12 and a half quarters this year."

Exactly what Osborne does on a football field isn't easy to explain. He uses blockers very well and has some good moves to free himself. Also, at 6-1 and about 170 pounds, he's a little bigger than the usual back and, facts being facts, is as big as some of the defensive tackles the small schools in the conference can muster. The closest Houston got was the Auburn 15-yard line, but that threat died when Ricky Terrell missed a 32-yard field goal attempt. Terrell also fuffed one from 36 yards. Both came in the third period.

Auburn Coach Ralph "Shug" Jordan, who has changed his offensive line in every game since the start of the season, put Vaccarella as QB.

Colorado shatters Missouri unbeaten hopes in final 1:21

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Sophomore reserve fullback Jim Kelleher bulldozed his way four yards through the middle of the Missouri defense for a touchdown with 1:21 to play Saturday as Colorado handed ninth-ranked Missouri its first loss of the season, 17-13.

The real credit for the Big Eight game-winning score went to sophomore quarterback Clyde Crutcher as he drove the Buffaloes 76 yards in five plays after Whitney Paul fell on Missouri fullback Tom Mulkey's third fumble of the game with 2:07 to play.

On the first play of the game-winning drive, Crutcher threw incomplete. Then he hit tight end J.V. Cain with a 10-yard pass, slowed up by a 30-yard quarterback keeper and hit wide receiver Steve Haggerty with a 14-yard toss at the four to set up Kelleher's touchdown.

The score came just over five minutes after Missouri had apparently taken a 13-10 win on Greg Hill's second field goal of the game. Quarterback John Cherry had zig-zagged 22 yards early in the fourth quarter for the Tigers' only touchdown as they fought back from a 10-3 deficit.

Colorado took the halftime lead on a nine-yard run by Charlie Davis, who had 76 yards-ago together on the afternoon for a school career rushing record, and a 27-yard field goal by barefooted Chilean Freddie Lima with 24 seconds left in the opening half.

Davis excited the 51,425 homecoming fans with his performance before he was shaken up on a tackle and had to leave the game midway through the third period as he ran his career rushing mark to 2,787 and broke the old record of 2,728 set by Denver Bronco fullback Bobby Anderson.

Oklahoma batters K-State

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI) — Defensive end Mike Struck created two first quarter touchdowns with a fumble recovery and deflected pass and quarterback Steve Davis took care of the rest Saturday as third-ranked Oklahoma slaughtered outmanned and error-prone Kansas State, 56-14.

Oklahoma scored on its first three possessions, stunning 34,500 Kansas State homecoming fans harboring upset hopes.

Davis gained 119 yards on 14 carries and halfback Joe Washington added 112 on 17 totes, although the Sooners' first-teamers played only one series in the second half. The unstoppable Sooners pilled up 501 yards rushing and 85 more passing.

During the late twenties and early thirties an electric refrigerator was a status symbol, the mark of a wealthy family. For another decade it continued to be a luxury appliance.

Similarly, it was the "rich people" who first had electric cooking, radios, and later, television sets.

Today, refrigerators are for everybody. And few homes that we serve are without electric cooking and television. More than 125,000 have flameless water heating. In addition there are more than two hundred electric appliances—large and small—available for home use.

Because luxuries for the few rapidly become necessities for everybody, electric consumption has increased at an amazing pace. All across America people have been raising their standards of electrical living, noticeably so in our area where last year's average residential electric use was 4 1/2% higher than the national average.

The obvious bulge in the numbers of customers of Idaho Power Company moving from low use brackets toward high use is one of the reasons we must continue to build new generation and transmission facilities. In spite of inflationary construction cost and the high interest rates in today's money market, we must keep the energy supply equal to the needs of the people we serve.

Likewise operating costs, the costs of supplies, equipment and almost everything else are rising steadily. So your electric rates, of necessity, will go up. Public understanding can help us meet the challenges of the seventies.

What's What

The statistics indicate married clergymen live longer than celibate Roman Catholic priests. . . A mama garter snake has been known to turn out as many as 78 baby snakes in a litter. . . How many uses are there for old toothbrushes? I counted up to 43 and then quit. . . The concrete in Grand Coulee Dam could cover twice as much ground as the Empire State Building and stand three times as high. . . Three most popular flavors used to sugar-coat medicinal pills in order are orange, peppermint and raspberry. . . There are exactly 64,828 feet of difference between the highest and the lowest points on this earth's surface. . . I think the Miss America finalists ought to compete with the Miss Universe finalists in a Super Beauty Bowl playoff. Milk of a white tailed deer is about three times as rich as the milk of a Jersey cow. . . File clerks in the Library of Congress have to find space for about 40 new items every minute. Quick, name the only American country that didn't establish its national sovereignty by revolution. Correct, Canada.

OLD STONE

Q "What's the Kensington Rune Stone?"
A It's a big old rock 36 inches long, 15 inches wide, 3 1/2 inches thick. Weighs 230 pounds. Writings on it prove the Vikings explored America before Columbus showed up here.

It has been reported repeatedly that the great sports broadcaster Bill Stern rarely admitted error in his radio play-by-plays. Instead, if during a football game he named the wrong man as the ball carrier, he simply described a lateral pass to the right carrier, then went on chattering. If he got the second man wrong, he announced another lateral until he named the right runner. Racing announcer Clem McCarthy once erroneously reported the wrong horse as the winner in the Kentucky Derby. Stern laughed at him. Clem said, "Well, you can't lateral a horse." Red Barber explained the foregoing.

RATS AND $1

The rate circulating throughout India outnumber the $1 bills circulating throughout the United States by 2.4 to one, it's estimated. Fascinating.

Somebody asked the elder Henry Ford on his 50th birthday if great wealth penalized a man. In one way, it does, he said. "Mrs. Ford stopped cooking."

Statistically, in a traffic smashup your chances of escaping serious injury are three times as great when you're in a big heavy car as when in a light compact.

Insurance statisticians say they still don't know why people born in February live on an average of about four years longer than people born in June.

Butz scores probe tale

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz Friday denounced former Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox and the news media for raising the question of possible political scandal in his intervention in a Federal Trade Commission probe of a California wine industry merger.

The report, published by the Washington Star-News, said Butz allegedly tried in the spring of 1972 to pressure then-FTC chairman Miles Kirkpatrick into dropping an investigation of a 1969 acquisition by Heublein Inc. of United Vintners Inc., a California wine producing cooperative representing some 1,600 farmers.

The Star-News said that the matter had been turned over to Watergate investigators in August before Cox was fired by President Nixon.

"This is evidence that Cox' 60 young attorneys are fishing around for anything," Butz said.

He denounced what he called "the trial by headline technique," which he accused the press, the Ervin Committee and the Cox investigators of employing.

"I did not try to impede the FTC action. I simply made my position clear," Butz told newsmen at the "Cow Palace" arena where he addressed the Commonwealth Club.

The Star-News said Butz implied in his meeting with Kirkpatrick that the FTC probe of the merger would hurt President Nixon's re-election campaign in California.

Butz, however, said he called Kirkpatrick's attention to "the predicament of the wine growers" who had told him if the merger with Heublein were broken up, the wine cooperative would "be driven into the hands of another large private firm."

If politics was mentioned, "it was incidental," Butz said. The Star-News said that despite Cox' firing last week "the investigation is continuing."

Savings bond interest up?

(c) Washington Star-News WASHINGTON — The treasury's plan to raise the savings bond interest rate from 5.5 to 6 per cent has been approved by the House Ways and Means Committee.

If the full House and the Senate concur with the committee's decision, reached Thursday, the treasury is expected to raise the rate promptly to stem bond redemptions by savers who have been shifting their money to earn rates far above 5.5 per cent.

Committee action on savings bonds was coupled with clearance of a bill to raise the limit on the federal debt to $465-billion to $478-billion — $13-billion less than the treasury had requested.

Unless the debt legislation is enacted, the legal limit will drop automatically to $400 billion on Dec. 1, when the actual debt is expected to total about $467 billion.

Before clearing the debt bill, the committee rejected, 20 to 3, a move to add amendments increasing social security benefits and lightening the minimum tax on types of income that otherwise escape full taxation.

NATO plans given intensive review

(c) Chicago Daily News BRUSSELS — The Middle East war has compelled defense planners in NATO headquarters here to take a close new look at some basic concepts.

A key factor in all NATO planning has been the assumption that any major move by the Warsaw Pact countries in Eastern Europe could not be kept entirely secret, especially if it involved large numbers of conventional forces.

Ideas have differed in the past about how long this period of warning might be. Because of the size and the readiness of the Soviet armies in Eastern Germany, the West Germans always have been more pessimistic than some of the other NATO members.

But the attack by Syria and Egypt on Israel has demonstrated with drastic clarity that a large measure of tactical surprise can be achieved, even in the face of sophisticated intelligence of the kind the Israelis command, together with the supposedly all-seeing eyes of the U.S. satellites.

The attack, it is agreed, probably was mounted and executed by the Arab armies with little or no immediate Soviet participation. But the elaborate and effective camouflage and deception, extending into the past for months if not years, is believed here to have been essentially a Russian plan and program.

Alcatraz visitors in rush

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — For the first time in its grim history, there was a rush Friday to get inside Alcatraz Prison.

"It's a madhouse," said a hurried ticket seller as public tours began at the abandoned San Francisco Bay island penitentiary, the first big U.S. prison ever opened for public inspection.

"The Rock," a federal penitentiary from 1934 until 1963 when it was declared too expensive to operate, once held Al Capone, "Machine Gun" Kelley, George (Baby Face) Nelson and a gallery of widely publicized gangsters.

Tours were sold out until Monday before the first tour boat left for the island Friday morning.

"We've had nine ticket lines stacked up three days," said Bonnie Boyd of Harbor Carriers, tour boat operators, "and we're all about to go jump off the Golden Gate Bridge."

A bleak fortress atop a small volcanic island, the prison was later turned over to the National Park Service which decided to open it to the public.

William J. Whalen, superintendent of the park service's Golden Gate National Recreation Area, said the public would help decide eventual use of the island prison.

"There have been many proposals, from tearing it down and giving it back to the pelicans, to making it a gambling casino or erecting statues to St. Francis or the U.N.," he said.

Tour boats, carrying 50 passengers each, leave the San Francisco waterfront every half hour from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily.

"So far we've had mostly middle aged people or young, but we're discouraging the very old or the very young," said Miss Boyd. "There's a lot of walking and it's steep out there."

What You're Saying...

Do you think president Nixon held off impeachment by agreeing to release the Watergate tapes? What do you think were on the tapes?

Rev. Roy Watson — No. Who knows what's on the tapes, but it's nothing incriminating.

Glen Slanger — No. I don't think he held off impeachment. I have no idea what was on the tapes.

Shirl Todd — No. I doubt if there's much of anything on the tapes. I think it's a lot of hullabalo about nothing.

Fred Staples — Yes. There must be something that he doesn't want anyone to know about.

Ed Bossard — Yes. He had his back to the wall and he had to do something. I have no idea what was on the tapes, but why was the president allowed to do something a citizen is not allowed to do.

Ron Shockley — Yes. Comments on matters that have nothing to do with Watergate.

100% solid state GT-100™ chassis

From space ships to pocket radios, the benefits of all solid-state electronics have been proven. Now an important advance in solid-state television technology - Sylvania GT-Matic™. A new three part color level monitoring circuit remembers your preference, corrects most problems caused by signal changes due to your antenna, your local station; the network program or your cable. Almost all color TV sets have one of these circuits, some sets have two. Sylvania has all three. Service is a snap. Circuits are logically grouped on three separate plug-in modules. Service is fast and easy... often right in the home.

Locked memory controls

The new Sylvania GT-Matic™ is so automatic, the controls are inside the set. The vertical control has been eliminated. The horizontal control is inside the chassis and factory set. Brightness, Contrast, Tint and Color controls are locked up. Only the on/off/volume control and channel selection controls are left outside. That's all you should have to touch. If you want to make minor adjustments, you have a key that unlocks the controls so you can set the picture to your own preference. Then, the GT-Matic circuits take over. They "remember" your preference. You watch the programs. We watch the picture.

Joan Blondell Breaks Shady

Joan Blondell and Carroll O'Connor last shared a stage in the motion picture "Waterhole No. 3." She played the proprietress of a house of ill-repute and he played a sheriff.

Their roles are somewhat different on "THE CARROLL O'CONNOR SPECIAL — Three For The Girls," to broadcast Monday, Nov. 5, on the CBS Television network.

In the special, Miss Blondell portrays O'Connor's rather possessive mother, who has built a mother-son relationship based on guilt as a means of assuring her son's devotion. It's a serious comedy highlight of the O'Connor special, which also features music and drama sketches with Lee Grant, Nancy Walker and Barbara Sharma, plus newcomer T. J. Sullivan.

"It's quite refreshing to play a lady whose background can be talked about in public," Miss Blondell says. "It seems that for the past several years, I have been somewhat stereotyped as either an aging swinger, a saucy saloon keeper or a generally shady lady. As a mother, I can readily appreciate the trauma this character has been going through. And as an actress, I am thankful once again to get a role where the character has some depth and the story has something meaningful to say."

It doesn't seem chivalrous to refer to Miss Blondell as a veteran. But she's the first to admit that her show business career goes back a long way — over six decades to be specific.

Miss Blondell was barely walking when she first appeared on stage in her parents' vaudeville act, and she has been going strong ever since.

"I may be past the prime of life," says the blunt-spoken actress, "but I'm not ready to be a fossil. I want to continue to develop as an actress, and, unlike so many of my recent parts, this role has afforded me that opportunity."

"I was first carried on stage in my mother's arms, and I'll probably have to be carried off."

Arabs and Jews

To whom was the "Promised Land" promised?
 An historical perspective on the Middle-East war.

By ROBERT COCHNAR

When did the conflict in the Middle East begin? You can date it from 1967, after the Six-Day War, when Israeli forces occupied the Syrian Golan Heights, the Egyptian Sinai and the west bank of the Jordan River. Or you can date it from 1948, when the State of Israel came into official existence. Perhaps you can date it from World War-II, when Hitler, through his massacre of millions of Jews, made the existence of a Jewish homeland a matter of survival for the Jewish people.

The situation has even earlier roots in English and French colonial manipulation in the area during and after World War I. But in a truer sense, the emotional realities of the Mideast conflict date back 4000 years to the days of Abraham. For it is from Abraham that both the Moslems and Jews trace their descent.

And, in the clash of human passions — which is what this conflict is really about — it is the sanctity of the "promised land" that has locked the Arabs and Jews into this vicious and intransigent conflict which seems somehow to involve the fate of the rest of the world.

THE CURSE OF THE LAND: PERPETUAL WAR

The territory which geographers call the "fertile crescent" has been politically unstable since the reign of the Egyptian Pharaohs. For centuries, the land was conquered and reconquered by Babylonians, Persians, Turks, Crusaders, French colonists and British imperialists. The Zionist thrust entered the picture relatively recently.

Before the 1948 war, which resulted in the establishment of the State of Israel, Jews had no nation for 2000 years. Scattered by the Romans, they travelled to all parts of the world and lived their lives, usually isolated from the social mainstream of the countries which they inhabited.

In 1897, after several decades of intense persecution in Russia and Eastern Europe, a Viennese journalist named Theodor Herzl organized the Zionist movement — a movement for the Jewish return to Palestine.

While the major cities of the Mideast — Cairo, Beirut, Damascus, Jerusalem — were inhabited by Arabs, Palestine itself was populated by tribes of Bedouins. In the early years of this century, Zionists purchased thousands of acres of Palestinian land and began the slow process of repopulation. The nomads simply moved, as was their nature.

The Zionist movement was nearly snuffed out during World War I when the Turkish empire, which controlled the Mideast, entered the war on the German side. Zionism was declared illegal and any Palestinian Jew suspected of having Allied sympathies was hanged.

To counter Turkish power in the area, the British guaranteed certain lands in the Mideast to the Arabs if they revolted against Turkish rule. Mobilized by Lawrence of Arabia, the Arabs swept into Damascus routing the Turkish forces.

Meanwhile, in 1917, the British Foreign Minister, Lord Balfour, wrote a letter to Lord Rothschild, a British millionaire and a Jew, declaring that Britain "views with favor" the establishment of Jewish national homeland in Palestine. In exchange for Rothschild money and the rights to synthetic cordite — a powerful explosive agent developed by Dr. Chaim Weizmann, a Zionist leader — Britain promised to support Jewish claims in Palestine.

For the rest of World War I, Britain profited from the help of both the Arabs and the Jews because it had, in a sense, promised the same land to both of them.

A CLASHING OF CULTURE

Until the end of World War I, the Jews and Arabs in Palestine had lived comfortably together. Both shared "semite" ancestry; both shared many cultural traditions. But the continuing Zionist immigration after the war, began to unsettle the Palestinian Arabs. For one thing, the Jewish immigrants were European in speech and custom, and the Arabs had come to mistrust the designs of all Europeans by this time. For another, the Jews' democratic approach to politics threatened the traditional master-serf relationship between Arab land owners and peasants.

In 1937, a British commission recommended partitioning Palestine into two states, one Arab and one Jewish. But the Second World War intervened growing Jewish population.

The resulting turmoil was too much for the British, who had troubles enough in other parts of the Empire. So, washing her hands of all responsibility, Britain dropped the Palestine problem into the lap of the United Nations.

In 1948, the U.N. partitioned Palestine into separate Arab and Jewish states and internationalized the holy city of Jerusalem. Shortly thereafter, the nation of Israel was established and, within hours, military units from Jordan, Syria, Egypt and Iran began an open assault on the new nation. After initial Arab successes, the Israeli forces rallied and, at the end of Israel wound up holding a third more territory than it would have held under the original plan.

World War I ended 400 years of Turkish domination and set up the Middle East for the carving. The victors received their spoils and the British pledge of a "national homeland" for Jews was still a dream.

But the establishment of Israel had another, more specific, result: a group of Palestinian Arabs, who had been promised a separate state, were now homeless refugees.

Today a second generation of refugees lives in squalid camps, eating food supplied by the U. N. Relief and Works Agency, clinging to a dimmed hope that they will one day return to Palestine, a land which technically no longer exists.

The refugees have no home left. Nor have they been compensated for the property they lost. This is the source of their bitterness — a bitterness which has spawned the Palestinian Liberation Organization, the El Fatah, the Black September Movement and other groups which, encouraged by the Arab states, have staged hijackings, murders and terrorist attacks to protect around the world.

Moreover, the Palestinian refugees have been abandoned by the rest of the world. Arab countries have not attempted to "resettle" refugees because, they say, a successful resettlement would help the world forget Israeli injustice and would solidify the existence of Israel as a fait accompli.

As far as Israeli policy, Mideast specialist Albert Hourani suggests that "in the long run it may be in Israel's interest to grant the refugees the right of return of compensation, for only as a mixed state has a chance of being accepted by its neighbors." But Hourani admits, "it seems more likely that Israel will do nothing."

OILING THE MACHINERY OF CHAOS

Despite the series of wars against Israel, the Arab states have been unable to maintain a united front, a fact which has enabled Israel to survive as a nation. While the current war suggests that the Arabs are cooperating with more success than ever before, the leaders of various Arab factions are still at odds.

The U. S. and Western European positions are critical. But because of the political and economic repercussions of an ominous energy crisis, and the fact that and, when it was over, almost a third of the world's Jewish population had perished in Nazi concentration camps. Those who survived had a new status: displaced persons.

As the American Friends Service Committee reported, "the Christian West was weighed and found wanting. Instead of opening wide their gates to refugees the free nations vacillated, took half measures and waited."

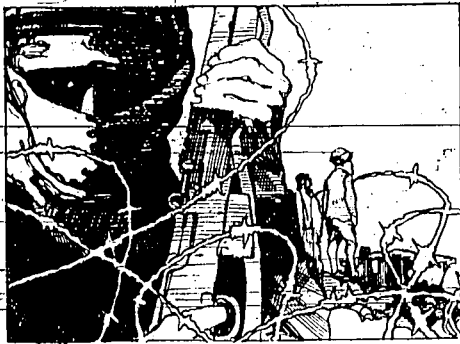

Because of the indifference of the American and Western European governments, "the flood of Jews into Palestine increased dramatically. Palestinian Jews, armed and organized into guerrilla units, fought both the British — who tried to limit the flow of refugees — and the Arabs who were threatened by the

THE PALESTINIAN REFUGEES

An armistice was arranged in 1949, but there was no peace. The Palestinian Arab state was never created. Instead, Jordan annexed the territory west of the Jordan river, Egypt assumed a protectorate over the Gaza Strip, and Israel absorbed a part of Jerusalem, the Negev and parts of Galilee.

The general Arab reaction to the establishment of Israel was "one of bitterness, frustration, and a sense of humiliated impotence," according to the AFCS. "Their chief satisfaction for a long time came from a war of propaganda rarely matched in passion and vituperation... But they have believed that their cause was just and that it would prevail in the end."

Bottled under the authority of Pepsi Co., N.Y.

The bitterness of the Palestinian refugees, homeless since 1948, has spawned terrorist groups like El Fatah and the Black September movement.

Barbra Streisand Special On Tube Friday Evening

Barbra Streisand, who will star in her own special, "Barbra Streisand... And Other Musical Instruments," Friday, Nov. 2 on the CBS Television Network, is today a household name.

Television certainly helped her in her rapid upward climb during the 1960s. Three shows won other viewers: "My Name Is Barbra," "Color Me Barbra" and "Barbra Streisand: A Happening In Central Park." Otherwise, apart from guesting on other shows, she has made her way into the household-name category through the theatre and the cinema.

Miss Streisand gained a Hollywood Oscar for her performance as Fanny Brice in the film of "Funny Girl," in a role which she played on the stage as well, both on Broadway and in London.

But it was not sufficient for the off-beat Brooklyn girl to win an Oscar. She had to cause something of a sensation in doing so because she shared the triumph with Katharine Hepburn, and it was only the second time in Oscar history that the prize had been shared.

Barbra Streisand is that sort of a girl.

A favorite adjective to describe her is "kooky." But she's a "kook" only in jargonese manner. Behind it all lies a very shrewd and talented girl. Co-producers of the "Other Instruments" show are Gary Smith and Dwight Hemion. Interviewed separately, both came up with exactly the same reason for her success: her love of work and her love of perfection.

Barbra hasn't reached the top by chance, and if there is one thing she's proud of, it is that she has attained stardom without having her nose fixed, her teeth capped or her name changed (well, almost; she dropped the middle 's' of Barbra in a sort of thumb-to-her-nose gesture when asked to change her name).

She agrees that she is no oil painting and doesn't conform to any of the beauty attributes so commonly considered to be essential for stardom. It's her personality and talent that count.

Somehow, because she comes from Brooklyn, people have the impression that she has struggled up from nowhere, but the fact is that she had a comfortable-enough upbringing. Her father was a teacher.

She was born on April 24, 1942, and was performing by the time she could take steps far enough to reach her mother's lipstick. She sat in front of the television set and copied the commercials. Though she never had an acting, singing or dancing lesson, she proved that she needed none.

Agents weren't interested in her at first, but they took note when she won an amateur talent contest which took her to New York's Bon Soir Club, and that in turn took her into a musical revue titled "Another Evening with Harry Stoones," an off-Broadway production which, far from reaching Broadway, lasted just one night.

More club work, including New York's Blue Angel, preceded her return to the stage in the Broadway musical

"I Can Get It For You Wholesale." Miss Streisand won personal acclaim for her performance, a Tony nomination and the New York Drama Critics award for "best supporting actress."

She also married the show's leading man, Elliot Gould, though the marriage is now in a state of suspended animation.

She recorded an album, and it was a hit. She performed at the White House for President Kennedy and later for President Johnson. Then in 1964, "Funny Girl" opened, and the girl whose voice it had been said, could make a ballad sound as if it were being played on a mighty pipe organ; was there in a big way. Her interpretation of the life of Fanny Brice won wholehearted acclaim from audiences and critics alike. Later, London fell at her feet when she appeared there in the same show. And the film took the world by storm.

Television success followed, with a multi-million-dollar contract with the CBS Television Network granting her full creative control over her television specials.

A national concert tour was interrupted by the birth of Jason Emanuel Gould on Dec. 29, 1968.

In recent years, apart from her best-selling albums, she has spent most of her time in movies: "Hello, Dolly!" "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever," "The Owl and the Pussycat," "What's Up, Doc?," "Up the Sandbox," "The Way We Were" and the projected "The Merry Widow."

vast reserves of the world's fuel are buried under Arab lands, the U. S. relationships with Israel and the Arabs are constantly shifting.

During the 1956 war, the U. S. found itself on the side of the Arabs and the Soviet Union against Israel, France and Britain. The result was an Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai in exchange for American assurance that Egypt would not interfere with shipping through the Gulf of Aqaba. To enforce this arrangement, a U. N. Emergency Force was stationed on the Egyptian border and on the Strait of Tiran.

THE SIX-DAY WAR

Between 1956 and 1967, the strength and determination of Palestinian guerrillas intensified, and the reciprocal terrorism between Israel and her neighbors reached fever pitch.

By May of 1967, Egypt's Nasser moved troops into Sinai, fearing a pre-emptive Israeli strike. Nasser requested that the U. N. withdraw its forces from Egyptian land and since no troops had been permitted on Israeli territory, the forces were removed.

On May 22, when Nasser announced his intention to blockade the Strait of Tiran, Israel mobilized to counteract what it saw as Egyptian aggression. And although the Strait was, in fact, never blocked, Israel launched an attack on June 5, destroying the Egyptian and Syrian forces in six days. In a stroke, Israel expanded its borders by occupying Sinai to the Suez Canal, moving to the West Bank of the Jordan River, and finally, occupying all of Jerusalem.

YOM KIPPUR RAMADAN 1973

In the wake of the Six-Day War, Israel acquired a new population of embittered Arabs, a fact which has contributed to increased terrorism. Israel has also been called on to absorb thousands of Jews from the Soviet Union which has fanned Arab fears of Israeli expansionism.

While the outcome of the current war is likely to remain in doubt for some time, some basic myths have been exploded. One myth is that the Arabs can't fight; a second is that they can't keep a military secret; the third is that Israeli intelligence is infallible.

But, regardless of the outcome of the war, profound emotional contradictions will remain. To the Arabs, the boundaries of Israel, wherever they are fixed, lie across the land which has been theirs for 2000 years. For the Jews, Israel — no matter how ravaged or vulnerable — is their home, the only one they have.

After the Six-Day War, experts from all sides were asked to predict the future of the area. They agreed only on one point: there would be another war.

For Steve McQueen

The Scramble Up Was Very Rugged

It's been one long, hard scramble upward for Steve McQueen, a boy literally from nowhere, who turned to acting when nothing else looked like it could fill his life.

"I thought I might find myself a place in life," he says remembering many years life didn't seem to have a pattern for him.

McQueen stars as the tough, individualistic cop who goes after corruption in top places, in "Bullitt," to be seen as a special presentation on "The CBS Thursday Night Movies" Thursday, Nov. 1 in color on the CBS Television Network.

McQueen plays the role with a style that almost begs comparison with the best of Humphrey Bogart and other strong, silent hero types of the past.

"I'm myself," he says, rejecting the idea of being a new Bogart. "I don't see anyone identifying with any of our past greats. They were something to many people then; they are something to many now — and I think that's great."

The McQueen personality and style have been shaped in the forge of adversity, along with a distinctive appearance ruggedly marked by a thrice-broken nose and toughened by months spent on shipboard squinting out at the sun. It's the sort of color that he was able to transfer into "Bullitt," adding personal strength to the taut script.

"I think 'Bullitt' is something different," he states. "It is a 'color' picture. I don't mean it's in color, but that the dialogue and pictures convey a definite mood."

"The construction of a film is what I am really concerned with. By that I mean that it has to be honest and tell it like it is. It has to have honest people in it, and must tell an honest story."

Today In Historic Spain

By O. A. (Gus) KELKER
Editor, Times-News
VALLE De-LOS CAIDOS, Spain —
The monument to all who fell in Spain's Civil War — itself dominated by a stone cross which soars several hundred feet into the air and whose arms are wide enough to permit two motor cars to pass — is the completed dream of General Franco.

The Valley of the Fallers is both a marvel and a monument at the same time. And inspiring, it is fast becoming a "must" on the tours of those who go to Spain and for a journey back in history. Four figures are carved into the base of the Great Cross. The figure of St.
John, leaning forward, seems on the point of hurling itself through the air; St. Luke sits astride the bull with upraised head; St. Mark swings vigorously round on the back of his lion and St. Mateo reads from an enormous book. All these figures are at one with the rock itself and each is as high as a six-story building and weigh 20,000 tons.

At the low base of the cross — and over the entrance above the main facade of the monument, is
this page.

The monument entrance is reached by means of a series of steps hewn out of the living rock.
But perhaps wonderous of all is the fact the Crypt was carved out of solid rock which forms the hillside supporting the Great Cross.

statues, mosaics which rival any anywhere in the world and to the great statue of Christ (see color picture on cover page of this section) which dominates the Main Altar.

In wood, the figure is carved from an ebony tree selected by General Franco-himself. The figure, with its three nails, is a fine piece of work.
Notwithstanding the anatomical detail of the torso and abdomen, the serene face is entirely uncovered and the tranquility of the whole composition enhances the majesty of the Saviour.

To detail the wonders of Spain in a few words is, of course, impossible. In the Western United States we measure our history in less than 200 years. In Spain you walk streets, peer into and visit churches and enter buildings which were old before Christopher Columbus convinced Queen Isabella that she should finance a journey into the unknown.

And today the tomb of Christopher Columbus is one of many interesting objects viewed in Sevilla (we spell it Seville) inside the unbelievably beautiful Cathedral of Sevilla. Dominated by four great stone figures, the stone tomb of the great explorer is borne on their shoulders in a dimly lighted area where quiet prevails eternally. Difficult to photograph (see picture in this article) it gives one a feeling of coming home to the burial place of the man who found us.

The Cathedral is the third largest in the world, exceeded only by Saint Peter's in Rome and Saint Paul's in London and in the past two years my wife Betty and I have stood and meditated in all three.

It is in Granada that Queen
Isabel and King Ferdinand
(Fernando) are buried in the Royal Chapel. The Queen was already dead when work started on the Church in 1506. The King died in 1516 and in 1521 both bodies were taken to the completed Royal Chapel where they rest today under great reclining likenesses viewed by thousands of tourists and faithful from around the world.

The new Spain is fast spreading into a land of wonderful hotels and resorts, of fine harbors and modern airports. The tourist tempest has caught the trend of the times and the visitors are streaming in for a mixture of the ancient, the old and the new.

Although the interior cities are dominated by churches and Cathedrals, the seacoast of the Mediterranean is dominated by sand beaches, hotels, pleasure-craft and bikini-clad girls — all within sight of old and small villages which cling to the hillside.

Next week we will tell you about this famed seacoast area, about another portion of Spain and also about Portugal, which fronts on the Atlantic.

Theatrical Movies Provide Few Ideas On Television

Theatrical movies seem like the perfect mother for television series, yet over the past 20 years they have supplied very few of TV's titles or ideas for series. There are reasons for this.

The ideal premise for a single film story is seldom the ideal premise for the multiple stories which makeup a TV series. But in the beginning, even when a movie's title and plot were perfect, TV was seldom given a chance to use them. Motion picture companies guarded their properties zealously against the TV upstart who was stealing their audiences.

Then, by the time movie companies had recognized TV's dollar potential, they had all (with the notable exception of Walt Disney) gone heavily into satirism and sex-features. What possible use could TV have for such properties?

Well, ABC has decided they have use for at least one of them - "Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice." Let's take a look at this move-based series in 3D (Difference, Depth, and Durability).

1. Difference: The movie told the story of two couples with different life-styles who got in bed together. Is this the premise for the TV series?

"No," says producer Jim Henerson. "I do not think of the series as being based on the movie. Our series is simply the story of the age gap between two married couples who are close friends but come from different decades."

Then why bother to use the movie title? Because ABC hopes this sex-associated title will not only encourage viewers to sample the series but also to read sex into the simplest situations. Thus, each episode of "Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice" becomes a tip of the sexual iceberg which the movie actually was.

2. Depth: Talent depths are overshadowed by serious miscasting. If the basic premise is an age gap, then this gap should be apparent. And it is not. To portray the older gal, Alice, the producers chose Anita Gillette who, God bless her little heart, has an implish face which may still look 12 when she is 62.

Even the men have too little age dissimilarity. Side by side and given careful appraisal, Ted and Bob may look ten years apart, but the episodes seldom provide such opportunities.

As for acting abilities, Anita Gillette and David Spielberg do very well as the older couple, but the only logical reason for choosing Robert Ulrich and Anne Acher as the younger couple is either because Robert is Burt Reynolds' friend or because Anne is Marjorie Lord's daughter.

3. Durability: Early ratings indicate that the sexy movie title did indeed cause audiences to sample the show as ABC hoped. And the producer is giving the first episodes all the lip-of the iceberg treatment he can freeze into them - nude-swimming (without nudity), group marriage (with bedroom allusions), etc.

But this show has a very tough timeslot. The competition is "Adam-12," still strong in spite of all the other cops around this season, and "Sofsy and Cher," drawing larger audiences due to pleasant revisions.

Unless the producers of "Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice" have episodes in the can which ingore the sexual iceberg and capture instead the kind of comedy an age gap brought to Desi and Lucy and Fred and Etel, this series will never see a second season. And it may not last beyond the January cut.

TV Tinderbox

By BUCK BIGGERS and CHET STOVER

We interrupt for this important message — a game of question and answer from the Mail Box. Bet you can't get ten right. Just answer yes or no.

1. I heard Katherine Hepburn say "Goddam" on Dick Cavett's show. Doesn't the network usually cut this out?

2. Is it true that Dick Van Dyke almost got hooked into a Godfather-type contract?

3. Everywhere I look I read rumors about Sonny and Cher. Are they really close to divorce?

4. Is Doc (Milburn Stone) on "Gunsmoke" writing his life story?

5. How did Shirley Temple's breast operation get all that publicity — a sneaky reporter?

6. Max Baer Jr. ("Beverly Hillsbillies") is one of my favorites. Is he scheduled for a new series soon?

7. Diahann Carroll divorces after 4 months and Gail Fisher does the same. Aren't Blacks emotionally over their heads in Hollywood's pressure cooker?

8. Mike Douglas' show was picketed. Is he in some kind of trouble?

9. Whatever happened to Wally Bruner, once host of "What's My Line"?

10. Remembering Desi's roving eye, is Lucille Ball ever jealous of present husband Gary Morton?

11. Bill Bixby is flat and expressionless on his "Magician" series. Has he been ill?

12. Didn't Marlo Thomas have a baby this past summer?

13. Peter Falk's marriage seems to have constant ups and downs. Do they have problems?

14. "Today's" Barbara Walters — was her father in show business?

15. Isn't it absurd that with all their money people like Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton can't be happy?

Okay, let's check your Box Score.
1. YES. But ABC would not gamble on annoying Katherine Hepburn by bleeping out a couple of GD slips. The network worked too hard to get her there (to help ratings for her "Glass Menagerie" Dec. 16 as well as Cavett).

2. YES. "A lot of years ago a guy from the rackets offered me clothes, a car — everything I wanted, says Dick Van Dyke, "and I have to admit I was tempted to sign because I was married and struggling. But I turned them down and starved for another five years."

3. NO. Sonny and Cher are not near divorce, but they are attractive, popular people — ideal for gossip glist.

4. NO. Milburn Stone, "Gunsmoke's" Doc, is not writing his life story, but a newspaper-man is, and the reporter happens to be Doc's real-life brother.

5. NO. The story of Shirley Temple Black's breast cancer operation was released by the lady herself. "To help other women avoid waiting," she explains.

6. NO. Producers have type-cast Max Baer Jr. for "big jerk" roles, so he seldom gets a shot at a decent series. The producers are wrong.

7. NO. When Diahann Carroll or Gail Fisher get quickie divorces, don't color the problem black. Color it blue — for sadness.

8. NO. Mike Douglas is in no trouble. The picketing of his show was part of a larger union-management battle not personally involving the star.

9. YES. Wally Bruner, host of "What's My Line" until a fight with the producer, is now handyman host for the syndicated "Wally's Workshop."

10. YES. Lucy gets jealous, but she and Gary have an agreement. "I tell him he can stare at new cars as long as he wants," says the redhead, "but if he looks too long at another woman, I'll murder him."

11. NO. Bill Bixby has not been ill. He is trying to put forth a new image on the "Magician" series. Too bad it comes off like Dracula.

12. NO. Marlo Thomas is not a mother. You are probably thinking of sister Terre who had a son in June.

13. YES. "Everybody has problems," says Peter Falk, "but we keep our sense of humor, and that helps us adjust. You see, marriage is like driving a car while you're gaining or losing weight. You have to keep adjusting the seat belt."

14. YES. Lou Walters, father of Barbara, produced those star-studded shows for New York's Latin Quarter when it was tops.

15. NO. It isn't absurd. In a sense, Liz and Dick's problems are more difficult than those of people with less financial security, because the wealthy have nothing to blame for their emotional failures except themselves.

Newman Was Lucky, Jim Stacy Wasn't

By DICK KLEINER, HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — I was reminded, when I heard about James Stacy's terrible accident — he lost his left arm and leg in a motorcycle crash — about the time Paul Newman broke a collar bone in a similar mishap.

Newman then and there gave up riding motorcycles. He said to me then that he had learned accidents were inevitable with motorcycles and he had had it. As far as I know he hasn't been on one since.

It's too bad Jim Stacy didn't talk to Paul Newman.

A couple of the girls have written a couple of books which you might like, if you enjoy reading about Hollywood and Hollywood personalities.

Marilyn Beck, an astute reporter, takes a good look at the new Hollywood — its changing morals and economics — in "Marilyn Beck's Hollywood."

And Shirley Eder, the Detroit-based columnist who seems to be here more than she is in Detroit, takes a loving look at the old Hollywood in "Not This Time, Cary Grant."

They're both very readable — and very truthful.

My old friend, Martin Gordon, has bounced back into a good spot. He's now executive vice-president in charge of worldwide production for an ambitious new company, The Film Makers Associated. This is the group which will utilize the services of eight top directors — Michelangelo Antonioni, Federico Fellini, Kenneth Russell, Terence Young and four still-to-be-named Americans. Each will have carte blanche in making his own films.

Terence Young will do the first film for the group, a film biography of Sir Richard Burton, the curious 19th-century British explorer. It will be a $6 million film and the big problem, Young says, will be to find an actor to play the part of Burton.

Eva Marie Saint tore up the place when she played Alma Winemiller in Tennessee Williams' "Summer and Smoke" at the Huntington Hartford Theater here. And Romy Cox helped enormously as Dr. Johnny, in one of the best versions of the Williams' classic I have seen. Most of the credit goes to Jeffrey Hayden (Miss Saint's husband), who produced and directed the play to bring out the humor inherent in it.

Hal Holbrook will play a trumpet player in his next film, Robert Ellis Miller's "Girl from Petrovka." Holbrook really can play the horn.

Movie Features Divorce Action

"My Dad Lives in a Downtown Hotel," an "ABC Afterschool Specials" film, began production on location in Los Angeles. Beau Bridges and Maggie Blye star in the story about a 10-year-old boy's reaction to his parents' divorce. Ike Eisenmann is featured as the boy, Joey Grant.

Jerome Kagan is directing the script by Stephen and Elinor Karpf, based on the novel of the same title by Peggy Mann.

With an eight-day shooting schedule, the hour children's show is being filmed entirely on location, using both business and residential areas of the city. The drama will air on the ABC Television Network series Wednesday, Nov. 28.

In "My Dad Lives in a Downtown Hotel," 10-year-old Joey Grant tells what happened to his life after an argument between his parents sent his father out of the house. Joey makes an anxious trip to his father's downtown office to bring him home. When that fails, he begins to believe that the divorce is his fault since neither parent blames the other. He finally realizes he can accept their separation as he begins to love his parents as individuals.

"My Dad Lives in a Downtown Hotel" is A Metromedia Producers

Corporation production. Charles W. Fries is the executive vice president in charge of the production. Gerald L. Isenberg is the executive producer and Richard Marx is the producer.

COMPOSER-CONDUCTOR
HOLLYWOOD — (UPI) — Shelley Mann will compose and conduct the musical score of MGM's "Trader Horn," starring Rod Taylor and Anne Heywood.
