Burley plans double shifts

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — Three Burley schools face double shifts next week as classroom space is juggled to accommodate about 150 junior high school students.

The Cassia County School Board met in emergency session Monday night to decide what to do with students left without a school after fire destroyed Burley Junior High School Monday morning.

Administration officials met with district principals in the afternoon and, after discussing several options, arrived at a basic plan which was adopted unanimously by the board in the evening.

Under the plan, pupils at Dworshak and Miller elementary schools and Burley High School will attend morning sessions, hopefully scheduled to begin Monday.

The session will begin at 7:30 a.m. and run to 1:10 p.m. High school students will have 50 minute periods with a 20-minute break for lunch from 10:10 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. recesses and lunch periods will be shortened at the elementary schools.

Junior high students will begin classes at 1:20 p.m. and return home at 6:30 p.m. Classes will be 45 minutes long and the students will break for lunch from 3:45 p.m. to 4:05 p.m.

Seventh graders will attend classes in Miller Elementary School and the remaining out-buildings of the old junior high school. About four classrooms at Miller will be utilized in addition to the lunch room, band room, LDS seminary building, and the Lowe Building at the junior high school.

Eighth and ninth graders will attend classes at Burley High School. Special arrangements will have to be worked out to transport students from the high school to the junior high for shop and craft classes. Officials will be working on plans for lockers and scheduling the rest of this week.

Kirby Wilson, district bus supervisor, said busing costs will be doubled under the new plan. He estimated the costs at about $460 per day.

Because the heating system was lost in the fire, a hot water tank will have to be installed to heat the outbuildings at the junior high. Costs for the system were estimated at between $7,000 and $10,000.

Insurance coverage had been increased by six per cent since last year, administration officials said, and the district expected to receive about $900,000 in insurance.

The new schedule is only a temporary solution. Junior High School Principal Lovell Turner said within a few months of study the entire curriculum might be revised and cut down to a five period day.

"Schedules may be revised completely by the end of the semester," high school Principal Tom Grawell said.

The completion date for the new junior high school could be pushed up to January 1975, according to the architect, but the building could not be finished sooner.

The board commended all personnel involved in the evacuation of students from the junior high school during the fire Monday.

Burley loss $2 million; fire cause not certain

BURLEY — The Burley Junior High School was gutted in about one and one-half hours by a fire of unknown origin that swept through the building Monday morning.

No one was hurt in the blaze which was reported about 10:30 a.m. but Supt. Harold Blauer estimated the loss at over $2 million dollars.

"We thought for a moment we may have had the fire under control," Fire Chief Douglas Shill said Monday night. "Then it actually blew."

Shill blamed the rapid spread of the fire on the construction of the building. The open spaces between each of the floors and the location of the stairwells in the center of the building helped suck the fire quickly throughout the structure, according to Shill. School officials "have been repeatedly warned for years that if it (the junior high school) ever really caught on fire we would never get it stopped," he said.

The fire spread throughout the third floor within the first 20 minutes, he said. Within an hour and a half, the blaze had gone into the basement. "That's mighty unusual for a building of this size," he said.

"I think we'll never really know what it was" that caused the fire, he said, but it is believed the blaze started between the second and third floors on the southeast corner of the building. Shill said arson was not suspected.

Regional airport board moves site

BURLEY — In an unexpected move, regional airport trustees voted to shift the proposed site for a regional airport.

The trustees voted two-to-one Monday night to locate the airport at "site two" southeast of the junction of US 93 and I-80 just north of the Snake River Canyon.

The site had not been the focus of attention in recent months during discussions of a site by the South Idaho Regional Airport Authority (SIRAA).

George Falkner, Rupert, and Dr. L. V. Ruebel, Jerome, voted for site two and George Forschler, Burley, voted against the site.

Falkner said site two was the location local residents had felt they were voting for when they joined the SIRAA and he felt obligated to choose that site. He said, however, there was no question that site three, north of I-80, would have been the better choice.

Dr. Ruebel said that because "the human environment is more important than the natural environment" he voted for site two.

Many Jerome farmers and ranchers had launched repeated protests over the past several months that the selection of site three would infringe upon their property rights. They had, however, endorsed the selection of Joslin Field for the regional airport.

About 10 Jerome County residents were on hand at the meeting Monday night.

George Forschler, president of the SIRAA said he did not vote for site two because of the restrictive terrain. In addition, he said, it would be difficult to re-locate railway access to the site and the location would present sewage and storm drainage problems.

Airport expansion would be limited at the site, he said, and two major power lines would have to be re-located to serve the airport.

"The location of the new airport should be well away from residential and wild animal habitats," he said, "and site two would not be."

Representatives of the engineering firm said that, provided the cost ratio was not prohibitive and that there was not too much objection from environmentalists, site two would be acceptable.

The board tabled a motion to use Joslin Field in Twin Falls as an interim Regional Airport. (Continued on p. 11)

Fire drill empties school

BURLEY — In an almost incredible stroke of good luck, Burley Junior High School students evacuated their building during a routine fire drill about five minutes before school officials discovered there was a real fire on.

"I can't believe it. This can't happen," principal Lovell Turner said Monday afternoon as he stood before the burned-out three-story structure that had been the school.

"I was sitting at my desk and Beth (Turner's wife, who is school secretary) said she smelled Lysol or iodine. So I walked around looking for the source of the smell."

"It was about five minutes before the end of the period so I decided to have a fire drill," Turner said.

"I stood there clocking the students, and I wouldn't have done that if I thought it was a real fire."

Perhaps because of the fire drill's timing, all students were safely evacuated from the 60-year-old building. (Continued on p. 6)

Catching up said big job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Archibald Cox said today it would take "months if not years" for a new Watergate special prosecutor to familiarize himself with the material already developed in the investigation.

"He'd have to start from scratch," Cox told the Senate Judiciary Committee at the second day of hearings on his firing as prosecutor by President Nixon. "It would take him many months without question."

He's glaring now

ROYSTON GREEN, England (UPI) — Archibald McLean labored for five years piecing together his intricate telescope to study the stars.

The work complete, he set up the telescope, aimed it heavenwards and saw the light. But it was the light of the new street lamp erected outside his home. No matter which way he turned his telescope the glare proved too strong for the celestial opposition, he said.

"The street lamp is so bright that reflection from it makes star gazing impossible," he said.

North Walsham council said it will listen "sympathetically" to any request the lamp be moved.

Subpoena power granted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee voted by party line today to give its Democratic chairman sole power to issue subpoenas in a presidential impeachment inquiry and in confirmation hearings for Gerald R. Ford.

The 21 Democrats turned down two proposals by the 17 GOP committeemen to have chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., share the subpoena power with Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, ranking Republican.

Rodino told the GOP members that he would consult with Hutchinson, that there would be no wholesale issuing of subpoenas and that the impeachment proceedings and hearings on Ford's nomination to be vice president would not be partisan.

"There will be no partisan crusade or witch hunt," Rodino said. "Neither will the nomination of Mr. Ford be held hostage for other purposes."

In the Senate, Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., called for President Nixon's resignation. He was the second senator to publicly advocate Nixon leaving office voluntarily. The other was Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, a member of the Senate Watergate committee.

"President Nixon should resign the presidency," Tunney said. "He must leave office for the common good. The people do not believe him, and he has shamed them."

Asked if he shared that view, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said: "That is up to the President." Republicans on the House committee, holding its first session since receiving a flood of impeachment resolutions last week, complained they had not been consulted on today's decisions, such as the subpoena power.

Israeli leader will fly to US to talk to Nixon

RUTH MOFFETT, 71, wanders through the ashes of her two mobile homes which were destroyed by the 8,000-acre Boulder Oaks, Calif., fire. Miss Moffett, blind, was one of 300 persons evacuated from the community Saturday. She returned to her 5.5-acre spread to find her dogs alive and her radio, some canned food and a 100-gallon holding tank survived the flames. (UPI)

By United Press International
The U.S. and Israeli governments announced today that Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir would fly to Washington for talks with President Nixon Thursday on the Middle East where the emotionally charged question of prisoners of war, exchange threatens the cease-fire.

Complicating the issue was an official Egyptian announcement today it would exchange Israeli prisoners only after Israel withdraws to the Oct. 22 cease-fire line—a move that could free the 20,000 men of the trapped Egyptian 3rd Army from Israeli encirclement. Adding to the growing anger in Israel over the POW issue was a charge by its military command that Egypt violated the cease-fire today by firing three SAM missiles at Israeli jet reconnaissance planes over the Sinai desert. The missiles missed.

John Scali, U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, said in New York today on the NBC-TV Today show that prospects for a Middle East settlement are brighter than they ever have been but that the issue of Arab-Israeli prisoner exchanges could derail the peace efforts.

Scali said Israel was adamant on getting a list of Israeli prisoners from Egypt and that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was likely to impress that on Egypt's Anwar Sadat, a special envoy of President Anwar Sadat, at their meeting in Washington today.

Mrs. Meir's visit to Washington was announced jointly today in Washington and Jerusalem. She had visited Israeli troops in Egypt Monday and told them that Israel agreed to the cease-fire and to the resupply of the Egyptian 3rd Army only because of U.S. pressure.

Gerald L. Warren, the deputy White House press secretary, said Nixon would meet early this evening at Camp David with Kissinger and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin and at the White House

Wednesday with Fahimi, who is acting Egyptian foreign minister.

"These meetings are all part of the President's efforts to bring lasting peace to the Middle East," Warren said. He said the meeting with Mrs. Meir was arranged by mutual agreement and that she also would meet with Kissinger. The Israeli communique announcing the Meir visit said it was a "working visit," suggesting that the two leaders not only will discuss the cease-fire but U.S. weapons supplied to Israel during and after the October War. Mrs. Meir, in telling her troops in Egypt she was bowing to U.S. pressure, said "we haven't got any particular surplus of friends in the world" and that the United States has been the only nation since 1970 to supply Israel.

Skylab 3 Seen... countdown perfect

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The communications and navigation systems of the Skylab 3 rocket ship checked out perfect Monday in a countdown for the Nov. 10 launch of a rookie crew toward America's orbiting space laboratory.

Space agency officials said technicians today would hook up small explosive charges on the Apollo command module for use in undocking the ship from Skylab in orbit, and also test the ship's electrical system.

Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue, the first all-rookie space crew since the Gemini program, were scheduled for launch at 11:40 a.m. EST Nov. 10 on a space research journey that could last 85 days.

Continuing their training in semi-isolation at the Johnson Space Center in Houston, the crew has been approved for a mission of at least 60 days, one more than the Skylab 2 record. They'll make the 85-day flight if their health is holding up, if they have rationed their food properly and they can find enough space research work to keep them busy.

No relationship of coffee, heart

CHICAGO (UPI)—Coffee drinkers of the world—relax. The results of a study published Monday in the Journal of the American Medical Association shows no significant relationship between coffee drinking and heart trouble.

"No independent association between coffee drinking and a subsequent first myocardial infarction in 464 patients was found in a study well controlled for cigarette smoking and five other established risk factors," the report said.

The report was authored by Drs. Arthur L. Klatsky and Gary D. Friedman and Abraham B. Siegelman of the Kaiser Permanente Medical Center in Oakland, Calif. and based on a Kaiser-Permanente Epidemiologic Study of Myocardial Infarction.

The authors said review of other studies which appeared to show some association between heart diseases and coffee drinking "indicates that discrepancies in findings may be related either to cigarette smoking or to selection of control subjects."

The study referred to coffee drinkers as those who drink six cups of coffee each day.

"It certainly seems premature to add to the privations already inflicted on the actual or potential coronary disease victim (Spartan diet, abstinence from tobacco, avoidance of slothful habits) by denying him the solace of his morning coffee," the report said.

Blood infection probed by officials in Florida

MIAMI (UPI)—An outbreak of blood infections may be tied to manufacturer's equipment used by a local commercial blood bank, Dade County health director Milton Saslaw said late Monday night. "We've found so far no negligence in the blood bank's operations, but we will be keeping them under close surveillance," Dr. Saslaw said.

Federal and county disease control experts announced after a 10-hour investigation they had found 11 "probable" cases of blood infection related to the plasma-donations, out of 23 persons hospitalized over the past 10 days with related symptoms. "These 11 all had the symptoms of fever and chills within 12 hours of plasma pheresis operation; the other were hospitalized for other reasons," Saslaw said. Earlier reports from patients said that attendants at the Community Blood Service, a firm with branches in Florida, Georgia, Alabama and Texas, had not swabbed the arms with alcohol before taking the plasma. "These are bacterial infections, but we believe it may be related to the sterile equipment used at the clinic," Saslaw said. Judge refuses to remove prisoner

BOISE (UPI)—Federal Judge Ray McNichols has refused to remove a prison inmate from maximum security but he has rebuked the administrators of the state prison for some of their procedures.

Alfred Floyd Mellinger sought a writ of habeas corpus to return him to the main prison population from maximum security. McNichols denied this. The judge said Mellinger's record, both inside and outside prison, "makes it clear that the prison authorities are fully justified in keeping him in a segregated status."

But he said prisoners put into nonpunitive administrative segregation are treated just the same as those who violate the rules and are placed in punitive segregation.

"It is to be hoped, when the new penitentiary is finally completed and all prisoners housed there, that punitive and nonpunitive segregation can be set up on regimens better calculated to deal with the respective problems and eliminate a potential source of prison discontent," the judge said.

He also criticized the prison administration for having no adequate or enforced set of rules and procedures to afford prisoners the minimum right to due process to which they are entitled in disciplinary matters.

Troops take marshes

PHNOM PENH (UPI) —The Cambodian military command said today government troops cleared guerrillas out of marshlands six miles northeast of Phnom Penh in a night of fighting.

The command said two columns of government soldiers pushed into the marshes near the town of Vihear Suor Monday night and early today from opposite directions.

Col. Am Rong, the command spokesman, said the two forces linked up after driving out the Communist-led Khmer Rouge guerrillas and took control of the marshland.

Field reports also told of fighting at the town of Prek Luong, four miles northeast of Phnom Penh, and Prek Krabau, also six miles northeast of the capital.

Military sources said, however, the fighting at Vihear Suor, Prek Luong and Prek Krabau was not considered a serious threat to the capital despite the proximity to Phnom Penh.

Offensive planned

SAIGON (UPI) —The South Vietnamese government said today it appeared certain Communist forces were preparing to launch a new offensive at the end of this year or early in 1974. It indicated government troops may attack first.

Bui Bao Truc, a government spokesman, told correspondents for Vietnamese newspapers, "With all their efforts in all Four Corps areas, it is certain that the Communists are preparing for a new offensive."

"I cannot divulge the day and time," he said. "But President Nguyen Van Thieu has given orders to counterattack by all means."

A reporter asked Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, spokesman for the South Vietnamese command, why government troops did not attack first. Hien replied, "We haven't yet, but that doesn't mean we won't."

Kennedy won't comment on 'cheating' statement

By LESTER KINSOLVING T-N Washington Bureau WASHINGTON — Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, has declined to elaborate on his public statement that Sen. Edward Kennedy cheated on his wife.

During a speech in Grangeville, McClure had said:

"There was no moral outrage when Sen. Edward Kennedy and some of his aides spent the weekend with six secretaries on that island... I question the logic or lack of logic that cheating on your income tax is a greater sin than cheating on your wife."

Spokesmen in Senator

Kennedy's office told the Times-News that this sort of thing is somewhat commonplace, so that the Massachusetts senator would have no comment on McClure's statement.

They noted that just recently the National Lampoon magazine published a bogus Volkswagen ad, showing a Volkswagen floating in a deep river, with the caption: "If Teddy Kennedy had been driving a Volkswagen he would be President of the United States today."

"You have to understand the Lampoon," observed Mary Cubberly, Kennedy's press aide. "I see that Volkswagen is sung the Lampoon, but we certainly aren't."

Kennedy's administrative assistant, Edward Morton, told the Times-News:

"The accident at Edgartown resulted in a wide open public inquiry which has 600 pages of testimony, including 70 pages from our senator. It is open for anyone to see — as we notified Sen. Goldwater, who made a similar although more restrained charge, recently."

James Norell, Sen. McClure's press secretary, while verifying the accuracy of the report of the Idaho senator's statement, declined to offer further comment.

Does Sen. McClure have any evidence that his senatorial colleague actually committed adultery?

Norell: "No comment." Is there any rule in the Senate or committee which deals with such accusations made by one senator about another?

Norell: "I don't know."

Has McClure said anything more about Sen. Kennedy?

Norell: "I won't say." The secretary who answered the telephone in McClure's office told the Times-News that Norell was in a meeting with the senator.

But when the Times-News asked to speak directly with Senator McClure, Norell replied that could not be arranged.

The Idaho Senator's implication that Sen. Kennedy committed adultery came little more than a month after he charged the Federal judge John Sirian has "extorted" statements from Watergate defendants in exchange for light sentences.

Judge Sirian also declined to comment on McClure's charges.

Hatred: It's A Political Plus

(c) N.Y. Times Service WASHINGTON — "They hate me," said Franklin Roosevelt of his most savage critics, adding with a vengeance "and I welcome their hatred."

To be the object of hatred of a despised minority has long been considered a political plus: George Wallace could hardly do without his "pointy-headed professors" nor Ralph Nader without his corporate oligarchs.

Dwight Eisenhower touched a responsive chord when he denounced "the sensation-seeking columnists and commentators." Richard Nixon, sometimes through Spiro Agnew, liked to play off the public's suspicion of the "elitist establishment press."

Nixon's latest display of what is usually a decorously-draped hatred of the press was not a studied blast, however, as he said earlier in the same press conference, he was seeking a "cease-fire at home."

Which he returned the fire of his tormentors; he handed them a victory, because he was not playing off a despised minority — he was rubbing his neck against the cutting edge of what had become majority sentiment.

The element of calculation is gone: we are witnessing honest hatred, gleefully returned, and at the root of the mutual hatred is an irresponsible, self-indulgent, and ill-examined attribution of evil motives.

In the eyes of the media-haters, the press is just to "get" the President, just as it forced the previous President into early retirement. Its motive is to sweep aside the verdict of the majority in the past election, to assert its primacy in the manipulation of popular opinion, to settle past personal scores with a long-time enemy and to make itself a superpower which can override the traditional system of checks and balances.

Surely, to some degree, those evil motives exist in some members of the media, but the media-haters will not recognize other motives that predominate: a fierce desire to defend individual freedom from the excesses of governmental power, a determination to see justice done, a belief that the exposure of wrong-doing will in the long run strengthen the system.

In the eyes of the Nixon-haters, the President's motive is to crush tyrannical power, to crush dissent and humiliate the political opposition: to satisfy a bloodlust by waging secret war, to throw sand in the eyes of justice to protect himself and to assert a new imperialism to answer feelings of personal insecurity.

Certainly a desire to stay in power mixed with other, more noble motives, but the Nixon-haters will not recognize good motives anywhere near the White House: A desire to build a structure of peace in the world that can last, or (less nobly) to be seen in history's eyes as the great peacemaker of this country, a desire to preserve the separation of powers and to restore the mistakenly-absurd confidentiality of the President's office.

Motives are almost always mixed and no prism exists to separate them; yet there was never more certainty about the motives of the forces in opposition and the mutual verdict is that the other guy's motives are all bad.

The perception of bad motives is demonstrably false: We are not more governed by evil blunders than we are informed by evil geniuses. Yet we permit ourselves to bite down on our toothaches as if there were satisfaction in suffering.

Let's get personal about motives. If you are a member of the new noisy majority — who wants to see the sheriff of Nottingham appoint a special prosecutor and Judge Sirica give way to the Red Queen — ask yourself why you are reading this essay: —Your good motive for so doing: to try to understand a different viewpoint so as to form a judgment on your own rather than accept the stereotypes of others. Bad motives: to see how a Nixon sympathizer will squirm out of this one, or to whip a dander up at breakfast which will keep your vindictiveness feeling vindicated all day.

If you see only good motives in yourself, you prove the point: if you recognize mixed motives, you make the case. A turnaround is required: Why is the essayist trying to sell you this bill of goods about the need to repeal universal motive-impugning? His good motive: To reduce the general hate-level and thereby take some of the mindless passion out of what should be a more mutually respectful confrontation. His bad motive: To pose as one of those above-the-battle, even-handed good guys.

A Good Step

A Department of Transportation — merging the highway and aeronautics departments — is a good step. It was proposed, and approved, by the Idaho Government Reorganization Commission after much debate.

Under the new plan the Department of Transportation board would number five individuals — three representing the same geographical areas as the present highway board and two appointed at large. One of the members would be aviation oriented.

There is no reason why one board could not do the work of the present two boards. True, it would keep the five members busy but it would also save the state money and would make it easier to listen to the desires of the citizens. Aviation activities and highway activities in our state are compatible.

Activities in both instances are moving ahead at a rapid rate and closer coordination between the two fields of transportation is important.

Taxing Patience

On top of Watergate, the Agnew scandal and allegations of questionable financial arrangements in the purchase of his estates in Key Biscayne and San Clemente, the revelation that in two recent years President Nixon paid less income taxes than the average working stiff is likely to arouse little more than a resigned shrug from Americans, whose confidence in the integrity of their public servants has already about reached bottom.

Specifically, Mr. Nixon paid taxes of $792.81 in 1970 and $878.03 in 1971 on the salary of $200,000 — less taxes than a family of three earning $8,600. Apparently, this was a result of his donation to the National Archives of his personal papers.

All perfectly legal, and who is to insist that the nation's first citizen should strap himself to set some kind of example for the rest of us? Who, as any cynic will tell you, would be just as happy to beat out the IRS if he could?

It has been a long time since a man like Herbert Hoover turned back his presidential salary every year to the government. But Hoover, of course, was a millionaire long before he was elected.

Even Dwight D. Eisenhower received favorable capital gains tax treatment for his story of World War II, something denied your ordinary plodding author. The nation did not begrudge this favor to its much-loved hero, though Ike was hardly in the financial straits of a General Grant, the publication of whose memoirs saved him from poverty.

Still and all, and even though it may be disgustingly old-fashioned these days, some people may not help feeling that things which are perfectly legal are not necessarily perfectly admirable — especially on the part of those who admonish us about hard work, sacrifice, patriotism and all those other — what was the word we used to use? — oh, yes, virtues.

ART BUCHWALD

About The Line Of Succession

WASHINGTON — Because of all the talk about impeachment and resignation, this country has suddenly taken a very careful look at the succession of the President of the United States.

According to the Constitution, as interpreted by the White House, only male heirs may succeed the President if for some reason he cannot carry out his duties. This eliminates Julie Eisenhower and Tricia Cox.

The nearest male heir to take over the Presidency would be Mr. Nixon's brother, Donald, the Prince of Marriott as he is known at court. Donald is much more of a free spirit than his brother Richard.

Since he never thought he would ever assume the throne, Don has devoted himself more to the restaurant business, but people at the White House believe he would be a fair and honest ruler if duly called.

Next in line of succession would be Edward Nixon, the President's youngest brother, a dashing young aristocrat known as the Duke of Seattle. Edward has served his brother on very important missions including picking up cash from the President's loyal subjects when no one else could be trusted with the job.

Unlike his brothers, Edward has managed to stay out of the limelight, and it is not certain if he would have the mass appeal of Donald who knows Howard Hughes personally.

After Edward comes President Nixon's nephew, Donald Jr., known as Bonnie Prince Don to distinguish him from his father. There has been some talk that Donald Sr. might step aside and persuade his brother Edward to give up rights to the throne, so his son, Bonnie Prince Don, could be crowned President.

Bonnie Prince Don, though still a young man, has had great experience in international relations working for Count Robert Vesco who was exiled to Costa Rica when he got into financial difficulties with the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The one problem of Bonnie Prince Don's assuming the Presidency is that he is too young to serve, and a regent would have to be appointed to run the affairs of the country.

The nobleman most talked about to serve as regent is Bebe Rebozo who holds the title of the Duke of Biscayne.

The duke is probably the closest intimate of the Nixon family, and has served the President by administering the vast land holdings that the Nixons have accumulated in the last five years.

But after Bonnie Prince Don, there are no more male heirs in line for the Presidency.

Therefore, someone would have to be found outside the Nixon family.

This might cause a great deal of consternation throughout the country, because it would be hard for anyone to agree on a President that did not come from the Nixon royal bloodline of succession.

There is some talk of changing the Constitution so that Julie Eisenhower could inherit the role in case her father abdicates, but the male chauvinists in Parliament have said they would never allow it. A compromise candidate if none of the Nixon heirs could serve is Paul Delisle the maitre d'hotel at the Sans Souci restaurant.

While he has no royal blood, he has served the aristocracy of Washington in and out of court for many years.

The country has never had a maitre d'hotel as President before, but the way things are going, many people have indicated they would be willing to give it a try.

It Sounds Just Like Osteoporosis

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I know this is incorrectly spelled but it sounds like osteoporosis. What is the correct spelling? Causes pain in the back. What is the trouble and can it be cured and how? — H. F. P.

are wrong. That isn't incorrect spelling. It's absolutely right. Osteoporosis. It's a bone condition and the name itself may give you a clue: "Osteo" meaning bone; and "porosis" from a Greek word meaning "passageway." In other words, a sort of porosity of bone.

such vigorous exercise as might contribute to fractures of brittle bones, but as much activity as consistent with safety.

DANGEROUS EROSION ?

The bones lose some of their density — some of the calcium which makes bones strong and hard. Instead, small "passages" or tiny hollow places form and are filled with fat or other substances instead of the normal amount of calcium (mineral).

I fervently hope, for the sake of those with osteoporosis, that the researchers will find some rapid method of restoring density to bones which have lost it, but I have to warn you that at present it is a slow process, and you have to expect it to take time.

When the bones lose density, it would be fair to say they lose strength. They can break more easily. But even if no fracture occurs, bones gradually change shape.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What are the pros and cons of tying the tubes? As far as I know it is perfectly safe, but why then does a doctor hesitate to do this to a younger woman? I am 22, have one child, and hope to have another in a couple of years. I have discussed with my doctor that after my second child, I would like to have my tubes tied. — Mrs. A. L. M.

Osteoporosis can cause problems in various parts of the body, but the spine is a frequent trouble spot because, after all, the vertebrae — the bones of spine — are weight-bearing bones. In addition, changes in the bones can result in pressure on the nerves which branch out from the spinal column. Hence the pain.

Sometimes the tubes can be repaired, but it is a long gamble and fails more often than not.

There you have, in brief, an explanation of osteoporosis and why it bothers you. But specifying a treatment for it is not so easy.

So doctors, after such experiences, wonder why young women can't take the trouble to use any of the other methods which are available but not so permanent.

Osteoporosis occurs more frequently in women, and after menopause; so it is a natural assumption that hormone levels have something to do with the change in the bones.

Therefore, treatment ordinarily involves use of hormones, plenty of calcium whether in food or other form, and attention to getting ample protein in the diet, as protein is necessary for bone-building. One other thing — bones strengthen when used, so activity is necessary. By that I of course do NOT mean

MR. SPECTATOR

Just A Thank You

Mr. Spectator received a mighty nice note the other day from Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Blake of Box 5344, Aspen, Colorado, 81611. It should shine out from among all the junk news of late around this old world, so we pass it on to you for your edification.

They wrote that on a recent trip through here their car broke down. They were enroute to Seattle. They wrote they were "pleased and impressed" with the people who helped them during their difficulties and added that "communities like Twin Falls with sincerely interested people are becoming fewer in numbers all the time."

They sent along special thanks to J. Nussbaum's Towing Service, Ray and his staff at Magic Valley International, Inc., and to Bob Baumgardner at Ace Hansen Chevrolet.

So there you have it. Someone out there loves us!

Mr. Spectator would point out that the late President Johnson, in commenting on Gerald Ford at one time, said he was a nice guy who had played too many football games without a helmet.

A CAMPER STORY

Bob Brackett, the cattle rancher-hospital board chairman and what have you, saved this one for us:

Some — as though a camper — and his family returned home from a trip and in a few days received a letter from the rancher on whose property they had stayed.

The note stated that the campers had left some personal articles behind and that they would be sent the owner if the owner would agree to pay the shipping costs.

The camper agreed and a few days later a 33 pound box arrived. It contained old newspapers, empty cans, bottles, paper plates, assorted cardboard boxes, comic books, empty milk cartons and a used envelope containing the name and address of the camper.

Texas halts cholera bug

ATLANTA (UPI)—A cholera-causing organism in South Texas, which caused the first reported case of the disease in this country since 1911, has been destroyed, the National Center for Disease Control (NCDC) reports.

The case was reported in Port Lavaca, Tex., late this summer, when a well from which a motel drew its water was found to be contaminated.

Dr. Jack Weissman, an epidemiologist with the NCDC, said medical studies of 50 persons who may have been exposed to cholera last month were negative.

The 50 were among more than 200 persons who stayed at the motel during August and September. One person, who lived in a trailer behind the motel and shared the motel water system, came down with cholera but since has recovered.

Although blood tests of the 50 showed they had contracted an infection, their illnesses were not cholera but an inflammation of the stomach and intestines.

Weissman said that in all the medical tests and investigations conducted in Port Lavaca thus far, none of the cholera bacteria have been found except in the original patient.

The NCDC, he said, is continuing its investigation with the goal of pinpointing how the cholera organism got into the U.S.

"Seventy-five miles away is the Mexican border where there is pollution," he said. "Cholera in that country could be a real public health problem."

Weissman said the NCDC was checking all foreign ships which docked at Port Lavaca during August and part of September to make sure there were no cholera carriers among the crews.

About a dozen immigrant families living in the Port Lavaca area who came from countries where cholera is endemic are also being examined to determine if any of the family members are carriers of the disease.

Cholera is a sometimes fatal illness which can spread rapidly in an area which lacks a sanitary water supply and sewage disposal system.

Wendy to auction top of her bikini

MIAMI (UPI)—Jim and Wendy's traveling wild West front show may soon trade bikinis for bathrobes.

Jim and Wendy Berlowitz, a young couple from Norman, Okla., brought their show to Miami Sunday looking for recruits to their two-person "liberation" movement.

Lunchtime crowds from Norman to Chicago have watched Wendy rip away her bikini top in defiance of laws which she says permit men to go "topless" in public but keep ladies unconstitutionally buttoned up.

Jim, a 27-year-old former high school teacher, says the idea hasn't grown stagnant, despite the fact they have done the same thing in six cities in the past six months.

"But we're planning something big when he head North from here, and we're looking for some comrades," he said.

"Our next crusade may involve a protest of the segregation in public bathrobes."

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

Our gazing friend is something like the month of March: he goes out lyin' and comes in limp.

The best way to take international confabs is with a grain of SALT.

Terror hits Kansas town

OTTAWA, Kan. (UPI)—Franklin County's gentle hills and pastures are dotted with the white frame farm homes and large harvesting machines that identify the people as peaceful and close to the land.

But since March the tranquility of the Ottawa community has been broken by five unsolved murders, and residents of the whitewashed houses now lock their doors in fear and wonder why the horrors of the city have moved in on them.

"People are more and more afraid," said Lila Miskimon, who has lived in this town of 12,500 all of her 44 years. "I never used to lock my doors, even at night, but I do now."

Mrs. Miskimon can recall when she was a child and she walked Ottawa's streets at night without fear. "My mother never would have thought to worry about me."

But now, she says she is afraid to leave the house alone at night.

Three persons, two of them teenagers, were found dead in their car about three miles from Ottawa last March. All were shot. In August, the body of a nurse was found in a field near town over two weeks after she had been reported missing.

The fifth victim, J.W. Schoonover, 80, was found last Wednesday night slumped over his farm tractor. He had been shot in the head, the back and his side.

Last Thursday, authorities found their first substantial clue to any of the killings in Schoonover's mailbox: a pistol wrapped in paper.

Claude Fouts, in his 50s, left Ottawa—35 years ago—and returned last June. He says he is concerned about the killings, but they do not surprise him.

"There's the same influence on people all over. I think it results from wars. Wars change people's attitudes and their love for one another," Fouts said.

"I spent years in Nevada and they'd often find bodies out there in the middle of nowhere killed. There's no reason it should be any different here."

The dead nurse and one of the persons killed in March worked at hospitals and some residents believe drugs were involved in the killings.

Havoc caused by wake turbulence

(c) New York Times Service

NEW YORK — Violent air currents found in the wake of jumbo jetliners have caused more than 20 smaller planes to crash, according to government officials.

As the big jets approach or take off from airports, their wings leave behind two churning cylinders of air that some pilots say have the wallop of a cyclone. This swath of wind, called "wake turbulence" or vortex, is posing frustrating problems for air safety officials.

At Sacramento, Calif., on July 10, for example, a small Beechcraft private plane with three men aboard was preparing to land behind a Western Airlines DC-10, a big trijet, when the smaller plane was caught in the air currents. It was flung crazily through the sky and crashed in a cornfield. One man was killed.

The federal aviation administration has recognized the hazard by increasing the minimum permissible distance between extra large and small planes from the standard three to five miles during looking approaches and take-offs. But some safety specialists, fearing a disaster, say that the distances should be even greater.

However, F.A.A. officials maintain that the present gap is more than adequate. They say that these restrictions, by reducing the hourly flow of planes to runways by 10 per cent or more, limit operations occasionally at some airports — including Kennedy International — that at times have been operating close to capacity.

Lawrence Langwell, an F.A.A. specialist on wake turbulence, said that the agency was highly concerned.

"Unless we solve the wake turbulence problem, with the trouble there's been in building new airports in the past few years, we're going to have serious problems of capacity in a few years," he said in an interview.

Every plane moving through the atmosphere causes some turbulence.

B52s return to Fairchild

SPOKANE (UPI)—The B52s have returned to Fairchild Air Force Base west of Spokane.

The giant bombers were last seen over this area about two years ago when they were transferred to various Southeast Asian bases to serve in the Vietnam war.

The air force said the bombers began returning from Southeast Asia last Thursday, and the base now has its full complement of the nuclear capable aircraft.

Although Col. Martin Nulcher refused to say exactly how many of the bombers were stationed at Fairchild with his 92nd Strategic Aerospace Wing, he did say Fairchild was authorized to 15 of the aircraft.

Student exodus 'calm'

BURLEY — The students almost nonchalantly evacuated the Burley Junior High as their principal timed their departure in what everyone thought was a routine fire drill Monday morning.

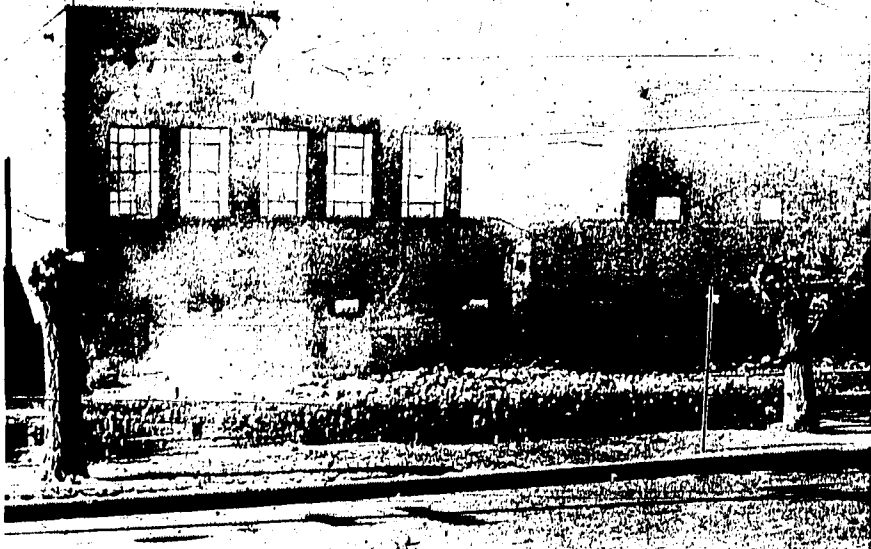

Principal Lovell Turner said he clocked the students out in one minute and forty seconds. Both Lori Warwood, an eighth-grader and Tina Gutierrez, seventh-grader, said they thought it was the bell ending the second period class. "It smelled like something was burning as we were leaving the building," Miss Warwood said. "They moved us onto the football field and you could see smoke coming out of the bathroom window," Miss Gutierrez said.

"I thought somebody was burning something in the home ec class," eighth-grader Gary Miller said, "I thought it was just a fire drill." Miller left a brand new coat in his locker. Eighth-grader Greg Lobato said he lost his coat, books and physical education clothes in the fire, but did help move instruments out of the music building, which was not affected by the fire.

Getting out of school is "okay," he said.

But ninth-grader Joe Armstrong said that getting out of school was "terrible" because he had heard the junior high students would have to attend split sessions at the high school.

Armstrong said he smelled smoke when the fire alarm went off, but "everybody was just walking out." He said the students were held in the football field for about half an hour before they were sent home.

Charred skeleton

ALL THAT remains of the Burley Junior High School was a charred shell following a midday fire Monday. School officials estimated the loss at $2 million, and took steps to begin double shifts at the high school to make room for the displaced junior high students.

Lucky timing on 'drill'

About the time the drill began, according to Turner, teacher Bud Pink said he smelled smoke on the third floor and Mrs. Ruth Helner reported smelling smoke.

When the students were out of the field, Turner and several teachers reentered the building and immediately smelled the smoke. The group checked the furnace room and then checked the building's lavatories.

When they turned on a fan on the first floor, smoke billowed out and, according to Turner, he immediately called the fire department.

The call was made about five minutes after the students were evacuated.

Administration and school personnel were all stunned by the fire.

Mrs. Turner said that as they watched the fire raging through the building one of the substitute teachers walked up to her and returned the room keys for the regular teacher.

One teacher complained that the fire happened just when he had received the new desks he had been begging for for years, Turner said.

Administration officials arrived shortly after the fire department. "We really didn't expect it to go at that point," Supt. Harold Blauer said. "When I got here it was just smoking a little on top."

"We took out some of the stuff just in case," instructional supervisor Norman Hurst said, but some records were left in a safe in the basement of the building.

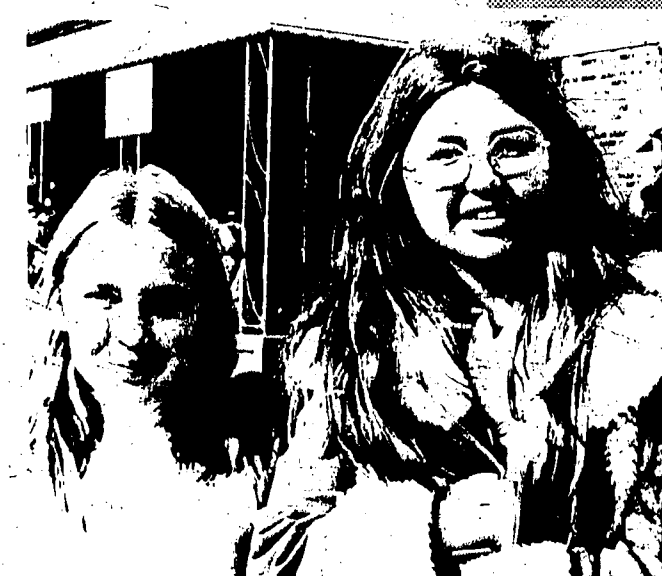

All the typewriters, home economics equipment and school records were safely moved from the building, Hurst said.

All bus students "who didn't check out to watch the fire" were taken home, according to bus supervisor Kirby Wilson.

A special call was sent out for local bus drivers over the local radio station, he said, and they all showed up within 10 minutes.

Burley school damage reported at $2 million

"It was a complete and total burn and so fast," he said, that it was impossible to determine the exact cause of the fire.

The three Burley fire engines were assisted in fighting the blaze by two units from Rupert and one unit from Heyburn which were called in shortly after 11 a.m.

About 80 to 90 people were involved in fighting the fire, according to Shill. In addition to fire fighting crews from the three cities, employees from every city department in Burley were at the scene, he said.

The blaze was still smoldering in the building's basement Monday night and Shill said crews would be kept at the scene throughout the night. The building's walls had been shored up temporarily, he said, and it was hoped that they could be knocked down on Tuesday.

About nine homes on the east side of the school caught fire from burning embers carried from the blazing building by high winds. One or two of the homes sustained "bad roof damage," Shill said.

Some of the homes damaged were as far as five blocks away and debris from the fire was found nearly a mile away on the Burley Municipal Golf Course, he said.

School officials managed to salvage all the typewriters, home economics equipment and current records from the building, but desks, books and personal possessions of many of the students were lost in the blaze.

The building had been scheduled for remodeling as an elementary school when the construction of a new junior high school was completed in about two years.

Building 'free' of hazards

BOISE — The Department of Labor's Chief safety officer said Monday there were no fire hazards in the Burley Junior High School building when it was last inspected.

Jack Richmond said records in his office showed the building had last been inspected in April, 1971, but that the record didn't "have anything that would lead you to believe there were any fire hazards."

Richmond also said the Magic Valley Department of Labor official Eldon Ryals, went to Burley Monday afternoon on a fact finding mission following the fire that destroyed the building earlier in the day.

BOISE — Use of the Burley Junior High School building should have been discontinued in 1967 according to a state Department of Education evaluating committee.

The committee, which toured the building for three days in May, 1967, included in its report about the educational program several recommendations about the structure itself: "Discontinue use of this building." "Build a new junior high school on a site of not less than 30 acres." "Until such time that the building is replaced, it is recommended that the Burley Junior High School be placed on split sessions, eliminating if possible some of the use of the third floor classroom space. Reduction of the number of pupils housed in this building would facilitate evacuation in case of fire." "Remove the old fire system." "Remove the paint and oil which is being stored in the janitor's supply closet. This is located directly under a math class and is a definite fire hazard." "The method evacuating the school in case of fire should be re-evaluated."

Cassia County school district instructional supervisor Norman Hurst, said Monday the district had been aware of the recommendations, but said there had been no "financial source" to permit discontinuation of the use of the building. The district tried and failed to pass bond issues for school construction for over a decade until it passed one successfully several months ago.

Hurst also said there had been proposals made to put the students in another building on split classroom shifts but that was stymied because there was no other available space. He also said the district had installed new stairwells, fire escapes and emergency exits as fire safety steps. He said he had been unaware of the recommendation regarding the paint and oils.

State offers assistance

BOISE — State Superintendent of public instruction D. F. Engelking said Monday the Cassia County school district hadn't requested any help from the Department of Education after the junior high school fire.

But Engelking said the department stood ready to do whatever it could to assist the district following the destruction of the school building.

The superintendent said the State Board of Education has the authority to declare an emergency in the district, permitting officials to shorten the school year without any loss of state aid.

Nixon ordered ITT probe halt

(C) N. Y. Times Service
 WASHINGTON—Former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst has told the Watergate prosecution that President Nixon personally ordered him not to press a series of antitrust actions against the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, according to sources close to the case.

The sources said that the President telephoned Kleindienst in 1971, when he was deputy attorney general and the top man in the Justice Department on the case, and directed him not to appeal an ITT ruling to the Supreme Court.

The appeal in the case was held up and the government agreed to an out-of-court settlement generally considered favorable to the corporation. The settlement followed ITT's agreement to help finance the 1972 Republican national convention with a gift from one of its corporations reported variously at $100,000 to $400,000.

The White House tonight issued the following statement in response to the New York Times story:

"This is an inexcusable breach of confidence on the part of the staff of the former special prosecutor. This information comes from a highly confidential conversation between Archibald Cox and former attorney general Kleindienst and from documents furnished voluntarily and also in absolute confidence to Cox.

"The information furnished by the White House and Kleindienst put the matter into fair and accurate perspective. However, the information provided to the New York Times by Cox's staff is distorted and unfair in its implication insofar as both the President and Kleindienst are concerned.

"The president's direction to Mr. Kleindienst was based on his belief that the Canten case (one of three cases involving ITT) represented a policy of the Justice Department with which he strongly disagreed, namely, that bigness per se was unlawful. When the specific fact of the appeal was subsequently explained in greater detail the president withdrew his objection and the appeal was prosecuted in exactly the form originally proposed."

Kleindienst refused to comment. The New York Times has not disclosed the sources of its information about the President's call to Kleindienst.

Kleindienst's reported statements to the prosecution, made before Archibald Cox was dismissed as special prosecutor, represent the first time that any government official involved in the ITT case has said that Nixon was on behalf of the corporation.

Court decisions on the ITT case up to that time had gone against the government. Kleindienst had to decide whether to appeal because Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell had disqualified himself because he had represented ITT as a private lawyer.

Newsman ask data on charge

(c) Chicago Daily News
 WASHINGTON—Newsman covering the White House have asked for "a bill of particulars" on President Nixon's charge that the media and especially television commentators have engaged in "outrageous, vicious, distorted reporting."

But their prospects for getting a list of examples to support Nixon's accusation grow slim, even though Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren has said he would look into it.

Warren, a mild-mannered former newspaperman, was besieged Monday with persistent requests that the President cite specific grievances against the networks, naming names of alleged culprits and detailing the news reports that aroused the ire he vented at last Friday's news conference.

The President's spokesman said he didn't want to engage either in identifying networks or personalities. But he cited as an example a report on one network that the President's friend, C. G. (Bebe) Rebozo was handling a million-dollar investment portfolio for Nixon.

Cox reports data delays

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
 WASHINGTON—Archibald Cox, fired by President Nixon 10 days ago, told a Senate committee Monday of the "delay and frustration" he and his staff encountered in trying to get papers from the White House.

Nixon, when Cox was appointed, promised the special prosecutor full cooperation unless matters of presidential confidentiality and national security were involved.

"We were not furnished all the papers" the staff asked for, Cox told the Senate Judiciary Committee, which is seeking to draft legislation that will give a new special prosecutor a free hand and make him safe from summary dismissal by the President.

During the investigation of possibly illegal campaign contributions, the special prosecution force found that records of large contributions by the milk-producing industry were in the possession of the Justice Department. Cox told the senators he called Elliot L. Richardson, who resigned as attorney general after he refused to fire Cox, and asked him if the files could be turned over to the Cox staff.

Cox said Richardson raised no objections but told him: "I'd better tell the President." Shortly thereafter, the cooperation was "forbidden" by the White House, Cox said.

In another case, Cox said, the White House transferred a staff member's political papers into the presidential files so they could not be obtained by subpoena. He said this incident was reported to him by a White House aide who voluntarily warned the prosecutors that if they did not act, it would happen to other papers as well.

There were also lengthy delays in obtaining files, Cox said. His staff asked for a "political matters file" for U. S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, Sirica, Cox said, was promised the file on July 26, 1973, and "he first saw it in September." Cox said the White House explained this by saying that J. Fred Buzhardt, Nixon's special counsel for Watergate affairs, said he "wanted to take a look at it" before it was given to the court.

Delays and frustrations were also experienced in trying to obtain notes of telephone conversations by White House staff members, particularly those involved in the Senate Watergate hearings, Cox said.

Cox said he supported legislation directing Sirica to appoint an independent special prosecutor, but he said the legislation should require appointment by the entire U. S. District Court "rather than by any one individual."

Cox said a special prosecutor appointed by the Justice Department and responsible to the President would not have the necessary independence he said an independent prosecutor must have the right to determine what to investigate and how far to push an investigation and should be able to maintain secrecy even from the White House.

No sleep pills

WASHINGTON (UPI)—"Sleep problems are one of the most common reasons for consulting a physician," says Dr. Joseph Fermaglich, a Georgetown University neurologist.

"In most cases, sleeping pills which are prescribed only worsen the problem," he said. Why? Sleeping pills inhibit dreaming—during which certain emotions and feelings are released. "If we are deprived of our dreams, we wake up tense, nervous and unrested, even though we may have slept eight hours or more," Dr. Fermaglich explained.

More services asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An estimated 85 House members today joined in backing a bill to force the Nixon administration to liberalize its social services programs.

A spokesman for Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., one of seven original sponsors in the House Ways and Means Committee, said they hoped to have 100 cosponsors by the time the bill is introduced later in the day.

The bill was modeled after one introduced earlier in the Senate by Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., to impose more flexibility in deciding who is to benefit from programs for the elderly, the mentally retarded, the day care program and other federal services.

Landon raps Nixon joust with networks

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI)—Alfred M. Landon, the Republican candidate for President in 1936, Monday said he does not believe President Nixon will fare well in his latest joust with the television networks.

Landon, 86, the owner of several Midwest radio stations, has been a strong supporter of Nixon's, but he said in an interview that politicians usually come off second best in such a fight.

"I'd have handled it differently," Landon said, referring to Nixon's charges at a news conference this week that television coverage has been unfair.

"When you're in a personality conflict like that, you just can't win. You just have to learn to roll with the punches. Of course, such a conflict is also bad for the media, and really, nobody wins."

Despite the no-win aspect of the squabble, Landon said, the President will probably continue his criticism.

Landon has been critical recently of reporters at presidential news conferences for focusing on Watergate-related matters while asking few questions on other subjects, such as inflation.

This time he stood by his prediction that by this time next year most attention will be on "the price of shoes or eggs or a new coat" and not on scandals in Washington.

Altmann wins freedom

LA PAZ (UPI)—Accused Nazi war criminal Klaus Altmann was released from a Bolivian jail Monday to await the outcome of a French demand for extradition.

Altmann, under death sentence in France, looked pale and thin as he walked out of jail after almost eight months behind bars.

Altmann, who looked older than when he was first imprisoned, was granted provisional liberty last week by the Bolivian Supreme Court, while extradition proceedings brought by France continue against him.

Subversion claim aired

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Top White House aides tried to subvert the civilian leadership of the Central Intelligence Agency by looking to second echelon career military officers for "unquestioned compliance" with their illegal orders, a House subcommittee charged today.

The subcommittee, chaired by Rep. Lucien R. Nedzi, D-Mich., made the charges in the first formal report by any congressional body investigating Watergate and related matters.

Based on 17 days of testimony from 24 witnesses, the subcommittee recommended a ban on any CIA domestic activity except with the personal consent of the President, transfer of CIA's responsibility to protect itself against domestic dissent to another agency and prohibition of any CIA official dealings with former agents such as E. Howard Hunt or James McCord.

'Foreign' object

WATERMELON sized object believed to be of extra-terrestrial origin is held by Donald Taylor, Highland, Ill. He and a friend found it Sunday where they said a "bright light" struck the earth near a railroad track. Taylor has built a showcase to display the object in a bank, but has balked at scientific examination if it means removing any of it. (UPI)

Fuel power bill drawn

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The administration hopes to complete proposed legislation this week to give the President broad power for getting the nation through potential fuel emergencies.

John A. Love, President Nixon's energy adviser, and the Interior Department are editing the proposal, according to administration officials. It should be ready for introduction in Congress in the next few days.

President authority to waive or modify clean air provisions to allow certain fuels to be substituted for others, limit highway speeds for the duration of an emergency and to cut down the consumption of transportation fuels.

Trade wars ahead, UN agency claims

(c) New York Times Service
ROME — The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization warned today trade wars over farming products were looming, and developing countries would suffer most.

The organization said in a report that many governments were becoming increasingly "aggressive" in adopting measures to regulate food trading with direct effects on other countries.

Governments were intervening in agriculture more than in other sectors of their economy to influence production and achieve various social goals, the report said. It contended that "in many countries these agricultural adjustment policies have proliferated into a formidable complex of legislative and administrative arrangements that were often interfering with other nations' pursuit of their own goals in farming policy."

FAO pleaded for greater efforts to harmonize national agricultural policies in the interests of the international community. The report said that the present critical world food situation would have been much less serious and the emergency — much less widespread — if such international adjustment had taken place during the last few years.

The FAO report defined "international agricultural adjustment" as a series of measures concerted at national, international and inter-governmental levels to ensure orderly, stable growth of world farming production and trade to the benefit of all countries and the growth of export opportunities for the products of the developing nations.

Discussing the situation in various parts of the world, the document said the potential growth rate of agriculture in the advanced countries remained "far higher than any conceivable growth in their own demand." Continuing inventiveness of agricultural technology was given as the principal reason.

In developing countries, the report said, demand for foodstuffs was increasing faster than production because populations were increasing by an average 2.5 per cent a year, and a high proportion of additional income was being spent on food.

Poor countries were therefore increasing their food imports and were receiving only a part of their requirements in the form of food aid, the report declared.

USDA aide sets talk at Idaho co-op meet

BURLEY — Dr. Don Paarlberg, director of agricultural economics for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will address the Idaho Cooperative Council annual meeting here Nov. 7-8.

Sessions at the Ponderosa Inn are expected to attract representatives of many of 200 farmer-owned business firms in Idaho.

Dr. Paarlberg, frequently quoted as a spokesman for USDA policies, will speak on the afternoon of Nov. 7.

Other speakers include Owen K. Hallberg, president of the American Institute of Cooperation; Glen Hofer, executive head of the National Federation of Grain Cooperatives; John McKay, president, Farmers Union Central Exchange, St. Paul, Minn.; Ralph Bunje, president, California Peach Canning Association; and Keith Handy, vice president of research and planning, FCX Inc., Raleigh, N. C.

A highlight of the meeting will be the Idaho Bargaining Conference at 10 a.m. Nov. 8, Grant Eldredge, Caldwell, council president, said. He said beet, potato and vegetable growers who market products under processor contracts were interested in the first conference at Boise in 1972.

The annual dinner is set for 7 p.m. Nov. 7. Four-H, FFA and FFA members will be honored along with Young farm couples who have demonstrated leadership qualities and attended the American Institute of Cooperation.

Mrs. Ruth Spidahl, home economics leader for the Idaho Extension Service, will conduct a special women's meeting on the afternoon of Nov. 7. It will focus on the role of women in economic and community affairs and consumer education.

Magic Valley directors of the council are R. Lyons Smith, general manager, Ida-Gem Dairyman, Jerome; Wayne Ranstrom, manager, United Co-op, Inc., Rupert; and J. R. Churchman, manager, Idaho Grange Cooperative, Shoshone.

Farm research boost endorsed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agricultural leaders are trying to lay the groundwork for a sharp increase in government-sponsored farm research to help expand future food production.

The latest public appeal came at a news conference in the capital by Dr. W. Robert Parks, president of Iowa State University and head of the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges.

Parks said American and world consumers need substantial increases in food harvests in the years ahead, and most future production gains must come from increasing per-acre yields.

Firm makes payments

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah-Idaho Sugar Co. has sent checks totaling $451,880 to sugar beet growers in Utah as the final payment on their 1972 crop.

The final payment brought to $6.2 million the amount paid for 1972 crops beets by U and I in Utah — a new record.

These facts, he said, underline the need for a "sharp step-up in the federal investment in agricultural research."

Dr. Parks warned the "bank account" of research discoveries for boosting farm production has been "drawn down to low levels." At present, he said, technology in use on farms has caught up with work in research stations, and a sharp increase in experiment work is needed if farmers are to be led forward to bigger crop and livestock yields.

Parks conceded that a heavy federal investment in agricultural research, while needed to assure adequate food at stable prices over the next several decades, could result in production of some surpluses.

But the cost of producing surpluses would be less than the cost of skipping on research and winding up with shortages, the Iowa official said.

Butz claims US not short food

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

Free enterprise the "vital and invisible ingredient" will allow the United States to provide a substantial portion of the world's food needs, despite a predicted doubling of global population by the year 2000, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said Monday.

In a speech prepared for delivery at a Pepperdine University lecture series in Los Angeles, Butz said that despite concern over "alleged shortages of food" in this country, "there is no danger of food shortage in the United States in the foreseeable future."

The text of his speech was released in Washington.

He said expanded farm technology will "further intensify food production throughout the nation" and that "no scientific stone is being left unturned in our efforts to expand our capacity to produce."

But he dwelt mostly on the Malthusian problems of geometric growth of population with arithmetic growth in food supply.

Butz forecast that current birth rates coupled with longer life spans in could produce a 10-fold population increase in developing nations in the next century.

"The real question is not whether we can feed seven billion people. The real question is can we feed them well?" he said.

"Can we make eating an exciting experience instead of a dreary exercise in holding body and soul together? Can we raise the level of contentment and physical well-being of people to the end that world peace will be easier to attain?"

He said the answer in each case is yes, if the following agricultural developments occur:

More extensive application of science to farming.

Increased efficiency in converting protein into animal products such as meat, milk and eggs.

Development of new acreage.

Increased cultivation of the ocean and tropical lands.

"By the end of the century we will have the capacity to feed twice as many people as we have in the world today, and we will be able to feed them better than we do the half as many people that we have today," Butz said.

Fertilizer price controls dropped

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Cost of Living Council said today controls have been lifted on fertilizer and nutrient materials used in the production of fertilizer and explosives in an effort to increase the food supply and stop skyrocketing grocery prices.

John T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, said the economic controls were removed to "affirm the council's commitment to the administration's goal of significantly expanding agricultural output and thereby stabilizing food prices."

The cost of fertilizer is about 5 per cent of a farmer's food production expenses. Dunlop said the council could not estimate immediately how much higher fertilizer prices will rise, but he said the increases would be "substantial."

The fertilizer industry currently receives about 30 to 40 per cent higher prices on the international market or an average of about $35 to $40 per ton. Exempting fertilizer, Dunlop said, was "not cost-justified," but that diversion of fertilizer to exports was increasing to the extent decontrol was necessary to protect domestic supplies. Dunlop said he did not expect domestic prices to reach parity with export prices, but said the difference would be reduced.

World trade expanding

GENEVA — World production and trade are in a period of "exceptionally vigorous expansion" despite international monetary upheavals, according to a study by the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

GATT, which writes the trade rules for 99 nations, warned, however, that the world economy faces the twin "major dangers" of continuing global inflation and insufficient international coordination of the measures taken by individual governments to combat it. Because the pressure of demand is almost uniformly high in all industrial countries, a number of them may introduce important measures to fight inflation simultaneously, the annual GATT study noted.

This raises the possibility of "overkill," the study said, and could produce "a spreading and cumulative deflationary effect capable of setting back world trade, production and employment."

This is particularly true, GATT said, because governments for political reasons rely excessively on monetary measures to fight inflation. These measures drive up interest rates and distort the normal channels of financing.

The study said international coordination of anti-inflationary policies was "essential," and called for a special effort to make the further dismantling of trade barriers an "anti-inflationary instrument."

Present trade trends, GATT predicted, point to a continuing improvement of the United States balance between imports and exports. The trends indicate that Japan's trade surplus is likely to disappear completely, but those of West Germany and France are not expected to diminish this year, the study found.

For world trade as a whole, the study foresaw an increase in export volume this year of more than 12 per cent, against 8 per cent last year. This would match the best previous annual increase since World War II, recorded in 1968.

World output this year, the GATT economists said, can be expected with "some confidence" to increase by more than 7 per cent, equal to the exceptionally high rate recorded in 1951 in the wake of the Korean War.

Hearings to open on Ford nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Rules Committee closed Monday to open public hearings into the nomination of Gerald R. Ford as vice president Thursday.

After a 90-minute closed session of the committee, Cannon told reporters that Ford, named by President Nixon to succeed Spiro T. Agnew, would be the first witness.

Department had backed off an earlier offer and decided to restrict access by committee members to the FBI investigation into Ford's background.

FBI while providing summaries to the other seven members of the committee. But Cannon said that Acting Attorney General Robert H. Bork wrote him Wednesday informing him that he and Cook would get the raw material but no summaries would be provided for other committee members. The committee chairman said that he would have preferred the original proposal because "I don't relish having to make the basic decisions on what is or is not important."

abstaining, to accept the revised ground-rules on access to the FBI material. Other committee members, including Sens. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., Clayborne Pell, D-R.I., and Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., said the revised guidelines were acceptable to them.

Ohio St. remains top team while Notre Dame advances

NEW YORK (UPI) — Notre Dame's 23-14 victory over defending national champion Southern California was worth a jump of two places for the Irish in the latest college football ratings of the United Press-International Board of Coaches.

Third-ranked Oklahoma picked up three first place votes and 257 points, while Michigan was again fourth with 246 points. The other first place vote from the 35-member coaches board went to Notre Dame.

Penn State, apparently caught in the aftermath of Notre Dame's exciting win over Southern Cal, remained in the No. 6 spot while the Irish were moving into the top five.

Louisiana State was again seventh but Arizona State moved up two places to eighth in the wake of Missouri's loss to Colorado and Houston's defeat at the hands of Auburn. UCLA, winner of six straight since an opening loss to Nebraska, jumped from 13th to ninth and Southern Cal rounded out the top 10.

Tennessee, which rebounded from its loss to Alabama two weeks ago by beating TCU 39-7, moved back up from 15th to 11th, followed by Missouri (down from ninth after losing 17-13 to Colorado), unbeaten Tulane and Nebraska.

At No. 16 was Houston, knocked from the unbeaten ranks 7-0 by Auburn over the weekend, while Texas Tech and Oregon tied for 17th and Auburn and Miami of Ohio deadlocked for the final position.

Steelers won't obtain another quarterback

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pittsburgh Steelers Coach Chuck Noll said Monday he had no plans to obtain a new quarterback even though Terry Bradshaw will be out for four to six weeks with a shoulder separation and Terry Hanratty has damaged ribs.

Bradshaw suffered a partial separation of the right shoulder Sunday and was replaced by Hanratty, whose 51-yard scoring bomb to Ron Shanklin cleared the way for Pittsburgh's 20-13 victory over Cincinnati.

Hanratty was hit in the ribs by Bill Bergey on a blitz and was in pain the rest of the way. "Right now we have no plans to obtain another quarterback," Noll said at his weekly press luncheon. "We won't have any drills until Tuesday and we hope Hanratty won't have any spasms. He's a gutsy player and we awarded game balls to him and to Mike Wagner, who made three interceptions."

"Hanratty's long touchdown pass and Rocky Bleier's rush on kicker Dave Lewis on fourth down which forced a turnover were the big plays of the game. We had an inspired defense to help us," too.

Bleier, who overcame leg wounds suffered in action in Vietnam, has been used on specialty teams and Noll said he may have a chance at fullback against the Washington Redskins next Monday night because French Fuqua is out with cracked collarbone. "We'll use Steve Davis at halfback more than we did," Noll said. "I was considering using Steve at fullback but I think Rocky can fill in there to help out Franco Harris."

Someone asked Noll about Hanratty's attitude when he sat out most of the year and watched Bradshaw lead the way. "Hanratty acted like an adult," Noll said. "He conferred frequently with Bradshaw and they get a lot of satisfaction of working together."

"This is the worst game we've had injury-wise," Noll said, "because it was so physical and both teams hit like hell." Doctors told Noll that Bradshaw and Fuqua would be out of action from four to six weeks. "It could be earlier — depending how they heal," Noll said. Referring to Joe Gilliam, the third string quarterback, Noll said the former Tennessee State star "is anxious and looking for an opportunity." Someone asked Noll if he considered using Babe Parilli, the quarterback coach. "If I could, I would," Noll said of the former signal caller who played 16 years of pro ball in three leagues. "You cannot activate a coach during the regular season. He must have been on the training camp roster," Noll said. "Then he must be placed on waivers — and there's no doubt some other team would claim him as an emergency quarterback."

Pepper Rodgers, who installed the wishbone at UCLA last season, took a verbal swipe at critics of the offense Monday. "There's one thing I want to clear up at this time," the Bruins' third-year coach said. "I don't think the defenses have caught up with the wishbone."

Pepper Rodgers rips critics of wishbone offense at UCLA

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Pepper Rodgers, who installed the wishbone at UCLA last season, took a verbal swipe at critics of the offense Monday. "There's one thing I want to clear up at this time," the Bruins' third-year coach said. "I don't think the defenses have caught up with the wishbone."

At least not with UCLA's wishbone. The Bruins, who crushed California 61-21 Saturday, have rolled up six straight wins after an opening season loss at Nebraska and are averaging 44.5 points a game. "Last year every time we lost," said Rodgers, "it was because the defenses had caught with the wishbone. We'll lose some football games with the wishbone but it won't be because of the wishbone. It'll be because the other team has very fine players who can stop us on the line of scrimmage."

The Bruin coach, whose club plays Washington here next Saturday, was in a jovial mood on a day UCLA moved up from 13th to 9th in the UPI coaches' poll. "We'll just keep playing and if we finish in the top 11 or 12 teams, we'll be happy," Rodgers said. "We don't try to keep our players' minds off the polls. They talk about a lot of things I'd like to keep their minds off of, though. Unfortunately, coaches' minds run in the same way sometimes."

Rodgers was asked about what affected the University of Southern California's 23-14 loss would have on his Bruins. UCLA and USC are expected to settle the Pacific-8 race and decide the conference representative for the Rose Bowl on Nov. 24. "The only difference I see as far as we're concerned in the nonconference record counts in the tabulation of the Rose Bowl," he replied. "At UCLA as at SC we're interested in going to the Rose Bowl more than we're interested in the national rankings. A year ago when we played Southern California they could have gone to the Rose Bowl with a tie. Washington has beaten UCLA three straight seasons and Rodgers was asked if it was the Bruins' year to reverse the trend. UCLA is listed as a 33-point favorite in next weekend's game. "I hope it's our year to beat Washington," he smiled. Rodgers said he didn't expect sophomore quarterback John Sclarra and senior fullback James McAllister to play against the Huskies. McAllister has missed two games with a strained knee and Sclarra played only briefly last weekend because of a sore back.

Assistant USC coach Craig Fertig told the weekly luncheon of the Southern California Football Writers that linebacker James Sims probably would be back for the Trojans' game at Cal next Saturday. Sims missed the Notre Dame contest with an ankle sprain. He said senior Dave Boutware had replaced sophomore James Lucas as the Trojans' No. 1 punter. Lucas punted poorly against Notre Dame.

Charles Finley might reconsider appealing

CHICAGO (UPI) — Baseball's "bad boy," Charlie Finley, had second thoughts Monday whether he would appeal a $7,000 fine slapped on him by commissioner Bowie Kuhn. "I don't know what I'm going to do," he said. Earlier, he had said he would appeal to baseball's executive council, but then he reviewed the situation again. "I don't have that much comment to make," he said, "other than to say that regardless of hell or high water, fines or no fines, once more in '74. And by that I mean the World Series."

Finley's Oakland Athletics won the world championship for the second straight year by whipping the New York Mets in seven games, and Kuhn's fines were applied for Finley's activities during the post season classic. He was fined $5,000 for requesting assignment of second baseman Mike Andrews to the disabled list after he made two errors in the second game of the series. Another $1,000 fine was imposed because he ordered a public announcement at the opening game that the Mets would not allow the A's to add Manny Trillo to their World Series squad. The second fine of $1,000 was levied because Finley ordered the lights turned on when the A's were gunning to bat in the ninth inning of the second game rather than at the start of the inning.

"I have no objections to being fined about the lights," Finley said. "The commissioner was very unfair with these fines." It was the third time Kuhn has fined Finley, once for $5,000 for giving a bonus to Gene Tenace and Joe Rudi for their play in the 1972 World Series, and $500 after his drawn-out contract negotiations with pitcher Vida Blue. Finley defended his action on Andrews, and said "I was fined only because I requested permission to put Andrews on the disabled list. The doctor said Andrews was disabled and the commissioner fines me $5,000 for asking for a replacement." Kuhn reinstated Andrews on the A's roster after he had left the team, and he appeared once as a pinch hitter in the last four games of the series. He said Finley "embarrassed" him into signing a statement that he was disabled.

Sooners continue improving

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — Coach Barry Switzer said Monday his No. 3-ranked Oklahoma football team is getting better every week, but he would like to wait until the season ends to compare it with Sooner powerhouses of 1971 and 1972.

"The '71 offensive team was the best I've ever been associated with," Switzer said. "The '72 defensive team was the best we've had since I've been here. The '73 season isn't over yet. There are three teams as good as we are that we haven't played yet and conceivably we could lose a couple of games."

Oklahoma, which defeated Kansas State 56-14 Saturday while Colorado beat Missouri and Oklahoma State tied Nebraska, is in first place in the Big Eight conference and the only unbeaten team in the league. Switzer said sophomore quarterback Steve Davis, who hadn't played a varsity intercollegiate game of football before the season began, is improving week by week "just like all of the others." He said Davis, who rushed for 199 yards in the first half against Kansas State, could improve in passing and pitching the ball on options.

The Sooner coach, observing that Iowa State has lost four games by a total of 14 points this year, expressed concern about Saturday's game with the Cyclones at Norman. They are bound to be frustrated and hungry, he said.

O.J. Simpson leads Bills past Kansas City 23-14

ORCHARD PARK, N. Y. (UPI) — O. J. Simpson scored two first quarter touchdowns, both set up by Kansas City turnovers, and ran for 157 yards Monday night to push his season total past 1,000 as the Buffalo Bills defeated the Chiefs 23-14 in a mistake-ridden game.

Simpson's performance gave him 1,025 yards for the season and kept him on the pace to break Jim Brown's NFL single season rushing record of 1,863 yards.

John Leyboldt kicked three second half field goals for the Bills, two of them set up by Kansas City errors, to account for Buffalo's other points.

Simpson scored from one yard line at 2:43 of the first quarter and from four yards out only 89 seconds later.

His first touchdown was set up when Jim Cheyanski recovered a Len Dawson fumble at the Chiefs' 15 yard line on Kansas City's first series of plays. Simpson carried the ball four straight times before finally scoring.

Simpson tallied his second

TD after Cheyanski intercepted Dawson's pass at the Kansas City 35 and ran it back to the Chiefs' four. On the next play, Simpson scored.

Bob Chandler ran the ball in for the extra point on Buffalo's second touchdown after a bad snap from center.

The Chiefs pulled within 14-7 shortly before halftime when Pete Beathard, who came in when Dawson suffered a sprained left ankle, hit Wendell Hayes on a 27-yard pass play to set up a one yard touchdown run by Ed Podolak.

JACK RUDNAY (58) and quarterback Len Dawson (16) of the Chiefs combine to tackle Bills' linebacker Jim Cheyanski (hidden) on the sideline Monday after the picked off Dawson's pass on the 35 and ran it back to the four, setting up a Bills TD. (UPI Telephoto)

Garden officials relax after learning of Ali

NEW YORK (UPI) — Madison Square Garden boxing officials gasped Monday morning, but were breathing easier by nightfall.

For a short time, it appeared their gold-plated rematch of Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali, set for Jan. 28, was in jeopardy when it was reported from Kuala Lumpur that Ali had reinjured the jaw broken in March by Ken Norton.

The story originated with promoters of Ali's ill-fated tour of the Orient, which was cancelled out in its final stages Monday by organizers who took one look at advance sales in Kuala Lumpur and decided enough was enough.

The promoters said Ali's exhibition and sparring partner, Orlando Johnson, had hit Ali "precisely where Norton had hit him," and that the blow required immediate medical attention. They said Angelo Dundee, Ali's trainer, had taken the fighter to Honolulu for a checkup and that they had then informed Dundee there was no reason for him and Ali to return.

In Hawaii, Dundee indignantly said "there is nothing seriously wrong with Ali's jaw. The permanent bridge they put in his jaw felt a little bit loose; that's all."

According to Dundee, it would be more of an adjustment of the bridge than any major surgical work.

"We will be ready for the fight against Joe Frazier. There is nothing wrong with Ali that might endanger that fight." As for the cancelled tour, Dundee would only comment that "we were planning to go through with those bouts, but the promoters cancelled them."

Ali's experiences in the Orient were something new for him. It represented the first time he failed to draw a large audience. There were wide open spaces in the Jakarta soccer stadium when he laored to a 12-round decision over the unranked Rudi Lubbers of Holland, while less than 2,000 fans turned out for his exhibitions in Soerabaya, Indonesia; Singapore, Kotta Kinabalu and Hong Kong.

Ali was scheduled to appear in Kuala Lumpur tonight but the promoter said he had sold only about 70 tickets for the show.

The co-promoters, Thomas Oh of Singapore and Gen. Sreemantri of Indonesia, said they had lost somewhere between $50-60,000 on the tour. Ali's handlers said the fans had stayed away because of the high price of admission in an area where the majority of people earn an average of $20 per week.

Oh said, "After considering our losses, Ali's injury and the poor response, so far, we decided to cut our losses here and now by stopping Ali from coming to Kuala Lumpur."

Goodrich leads NBA scoring

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gail Goodrich of the Los Angeles Lakers, thanks to a career-high 49 point effort Sunday night against Portland, has jumped into the individual scoring lead in the National Basketball Association.

Goodrich's effort against the Trail Blazers gave him 260 points and a 28.9 average.

Close behind in second place came Pete Maravich of the Atlanta Hawks with 258 points in nine games for a 28.7 average followed by Bob McAdoo of Buffalo, who has 250 points in nine games for a 27.0 mark. Like Goodrich, McAdoo also registered a career high Sunday night when he tallied 44 points against Kansas City-Omaha.

Dick Van Arsdale of Phoenix is tops in field goal percentage at .616 while six players are tied for the lead in free throw percentage with a perfect mark of 1.000. The six are Jeff Mullins of Golden State, Don Chaney of Boston, Bob Rule of Cleveland, Jon McGlocklin of Milwaukee, Nick Weatherpoon of Capital and Barry Clemens of Cleveland.

Elvin Hayes of Capital has pulled down 132 rebounds in eight games for an average of 16.5 to lead in that department while John Havlicek of Boston leads in assists with 59 in seven games for an 8.4 average.

Woody Hayes prepares top ranked Ohio St. for Saturday contest with 'real test'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Rainy weather added to the problems of Ohio State coach Woody Hayes Monday as he prepared his No. 1 rated Buckeyes for a "real test" Saturday at Illinois.

The Buckeyes, who rolled to their sixth straight victory Saturday with a 60-0 decision over Northwestern, will be playing on natural turf for the first time this season against the Illini and Hayes wanted to practice this week on grass.

But a day-long rain Monday had Hayes still pondering the question of whether to practice inside French Fieldhouse or on the regular AstroTurf field.

Hayes said the grass practice field the Buckeyes have been covered and he did not want the cover removed while the rain continued.

"We'll have a real test Saturday," Hayes told his weekly press gathering. "Illinois has a fine defense and evidently its offense has picked up. It will be a rugged Big Ten game."

The Illini, who defeated Iowa 50-0 last Saturday, are 5-2 on the year and 4-0 in the conference, sharing first place with Ohio State and Michigan.

Hayes called Saturday's win over Northwestern "pretty much a defensive game because the offense sputtered. The defense was particularly quick, more so than the week before."

It was the defense, after a scoreless first quarter, that broke the game open against Northwestern, setting up three of four second quarter touchdowns as the Buckeyes exploded for eight touchdowns and 53 points in a 21-minute span.

Hayes, who used a record 82 players against Northwestern, said fullback Bruce Elia, used sparingly against the Wildcats, should be at full go Saturday.

"We took him (Elia) out of there last Saturday because he could only drive on one leg," Hayes said. Elia, who replaced injured Champ Henson in the Buckeyes' third game, carried only three times against the Wildcats.

Archie Griffin, who scored twice and rushed for 105 yards in 17 carries, led the offensive unit in Buckeye leaf awards for his performance against Northwestern.

Griffin gained at least 100 yards for the sixth straight game, although he carried only three times in the second half.

"We had to stretch it out to get Arch his 100 yards," said Hayes, who used third and fourth stringers most of the final quarter.

Safety Neal Colzie, whose 45-yard punt return set up the first TD against Northwestern and opened the flood gates, garnered six and one-half Buckeye leaf awards to lead the defense.

Colzie, who according to Hayes "played his second straight all-American game," also set up another TD with a 32-yard return and intercepted a pass on the first play of the second half, returning it 19 yards for a score.

"Colzie had just as good a game as it looked like he had," said defensive coach Chuck Clausen after viewing films of the game. "Neal is doing a fine job."

But Clausen also had high praise for all-American linebacker Randy Gradishar and defensive back Tim Fox, who scored the Buckeyes' third TD after blocking a Wildcat punt.

"It's hard for me to believe a linebacker could play any better than Randy did Saturday," Clausen said of the 6-5, 230-pound Gradishar, who was credited with eight solo tackles and six assists in just over half a game's play. "He was phenomenal."

Colorado mentor says Nebraska is missing big playmakers now

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Colorado coach Eddie Crowder said Monday there were two major differences in Nebraska's 1973 football team and the Cornhusker squad of a year ago.

"Nebraska is, the same superb team it has been over the years," Crowder said at his weekly news conference. "It's just that they lost guys like (Rich) Glover and (Johnny) Rodgers."

They lost the big playmakers. Rodgers gave them 10 points a game and was scoring you when he wasn't scoring on you."

Crowder said another factor was the simple fact "that everyone is just playing better defense."

"When a team like Nebraska has produced a lot of points and now is producing fewer there are usually just a few basic points, but it is common to try and expand on the problems," Crowder said.

Nebraska, which has scored only 39 points in its last three games and is 5-1-1 on the year, hosts Colorado this week. The Buffs have managed only one win over Nebraska in 10 years.

Crowder said the Nebraska defense was as strong as ever overall, but it is being overshadowed by the fact "they aren't producing as many points."

Crowder said Saturday's win over previously unbeaten and ninth-ranked Missouri was a great confidence builder for the Buffs and especially the young offense.

"Number one, it was a character win," said Crowder. "It would have been just as easy to lose 20-10, but our guys weren't ready to accept that. It also really boosted the confidence in our offense."

With Missouri leading 13-10 and apparently driving for an insurance TD, Tiger running back Chris Hoskins had the ball taken out of his hands by Buff middle guard Whitney Paul on his own 23 with 2:07 to play.

In less than a minute, sophomore quarterback Clyde Crutchmer drove the buffs to a touchdown with SOP Kolbaga, for another trip.

Sunday morning he was en route to his home in Fayetteville, N.C., to join his mother at his father's bedside. The father, Charles Baggett Sr., was in critical condition following a heart attack last week.

"There's been no change in his condition," Charlie Jr. said by telephone Monday. "He's still critical."

Baggett got the game ball following the Purdue game. He also was tabbed for UPI's Midwest Back of the Week honors.

The 6-foot, 187-pound quarterback, booted soundly by the hometown fans for a less than stellar performance the week before in a 6-3 loss to Illinois, turned the tables against Purdue with a 69-yard touchdown that provided Michigan State with its margin of victory.

In all, he gained a game high 133 yards in 19 carries and completed two of four pass attempts, as a steady rain forced both teams to stick to the ground.

Baggett, a junior transfer from North Carolina, gave much of the credit for his performance to the Spartans' much maligned offensive line.

"Our offensive line just did a tremendous job," he said. "All I had to do was run. There were some big holes out there."

Baggett scored on an option play around end after faking a pitchout. He also scored on a 40-yard scamper, but the play was called back on a seldom used penalty.

"Mike Hurd was in front of me," Baggett recalled. "There was one man between me and the goal line. He (Hurd) was blocking the man. I just kind of pushed him toward the guy and ran the other way. The ref said I was 'adding the block.' I never heard that one before."

Johnny Coulon dies at 84

CHICAGO (UPI) — Johnny Coulon, the little prize fighter no man could lift, died Monday in a nursing home almost 60 years after he gave up the world bantamweight championship. He was 84.

Coulon, who went into the home where he died on July 27, the 52nd anniversary of his marriage to the widowed Marie Coulon, ran a gym on Chicago's 63rd street on the South Side for 50 years.

In that period champions of every weight and size, from Jack Dempsey to Muhammad Ali, worked in his quarters, often bumping their heads on the low ceiling while doing exercises.

Coulon worked with youths too. He was a manager and trainer after he retired from fighting in 1914, and he tutored Golden Gloves teams, Catholic Youth Organization teams, and Coulon gym teams.

Lamar is early pick for honor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dwight Lamar of San Diego has staked an early claim to rookie-of-the-year honors in the American Basketball Association.

The high scoring guard from the University of Southwestern Louisiana tallied 201 points in his first eight games as a pro to currently rank third in individual scoring with a 25.12 average.

Lamar has connected on 12 of 25 three-point field goal attempts to hold down the fourth spot in that department behind Roger Brown of Indiana, Stew Johnson of San Diego and John Benschley of Utah who are tied for the lead with percentages of 50%.

Julius Erving of New York still tops all scorers with 212 points in seven games for a 30.29 average, followed by Dan Issel of Kentucky at 20.13.

Artis Gilmore of Kentucky leads in rebounds with an average of 18.07. Gene Little of Carolina leads in two point field goal percentage with a mark of .603. Mack Calvin of Carolina is tops in free throw shooting with a .948 percentage and Chuck Williams of San Diego leads in assists with 7.3 a game.

Davidson quits job with hockey league

CHICAGO (UPI) — Founder Gary Davidson resigned as president of the World Hockey Association Tuesday and a committee was named to find his successor, possibly "in 30 to 60 days."

Davidson said he had planned to resign next May, when his contract expires, but that he was involved in another sports venture, and I'd like to devote my full-time and energies to that."

He was speaking of his recently announced attempt to form the World Football League, which he said now had six franchise holders and 22 groups bidding for the other six.

Davidson earlier had been an organizer of the American Basketball Association.

Bill Hunter of Edmonton, speaking for the trustees, said they accepted the resignation "with regret," and praised Davidson for "quiet, dedicated, forceful, dynamic and highly aggressive leadership."

A committee of Davidson, Nick Mileti of Cleveland, John Bissett of Toronto, Tim Trimble of Vancouver, and Howard Baldwin of Boston was named to screen possible candidates.

The league also added two new members to the executive committee, Baldwin and Hunter.

Davidson said the league had made "fantastic" progress in one year, averaging over 5,300 in attendance and operating with a combined budget of more than $20 million.

"I feel I will leave it in very good hands," he said.

Until a successor is found, he said, he would give "all the time necessary to maintain the growth and progress of the WHA."

The trustees also discussed the situation with the New York Golden Blades franchise and expected to continue on this subject. The franchise has been turned back to the league once, and the trustees now are attempting to work out some means that the present owners could continue in operation.

US beefs up sea forces

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Both the United States and Soviet Union are operating beefed-up naval forces in the Mediterranean, and the United States sent an aircraft carrier task force into the Indian Ocean.

But the Pentagon said there was no sign of any naval confrontation developing between the two superpowers. Sources called the U.S. moves "precautionary."

The entry of the carrier Hancock, five destroyers and an oiler to the Indian Ocean, a move which began during last week's alert of U.S. forces, marked the first time since the 1971 war between India and Pakistan that a U.S. carrier task force had operated in those waters.

"The movement of the Hancock is not related in any way to movements of the Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean," said Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim Monday. "The secretary of defense said Friday we were a long way from a confrontation with the Soviets. We are even further from any such confrontation today."

U.S. officials said privately the Hancock's mission in the Indian Ocean was primarily to demonstrate the right of the United States to use the Straits of Malacca, which the United States considers international waters, and to operate in the Indian Ocean even during times of tension in the Middle East.

The Indian Ocean is an important route for shipments of Middle East oil, particularly to Japan.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said after Monday night's meeting: "We are talking about the whole complex of issues, including the cease-fire."

Monday night's session began only a few hours after Fahmi arrived in Washington. Sadat had asked that he be received here to discuss various aspects of the situation in the wake of the latest Arab-Israeli conflict.

Kissinger had not intended to meet with Fahmi until this morning. However, the senior Egyptian diplomat, who was met at the airport in late afternoon by Assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco, asked if he could see Kissinger as quickly as possible. He appeared anxious to explain Sadat's position to U.S. officials with little delay.

It was assumed that he wanted to enlist as much American sympathy and support for Egypt's position as he could, since Washington has served notice that it intends to join Russia in taking a more direct interest in trying to influence a settlement in the turbulent Middle East.

Gease-fire accepted

(N. Y. Times Service) DAMASCUS, Syria — President Hafez Assad of Syria said today that he had accepted a cease-fire with Israel on the Golan Heights front because of Soviet "guarantees" that Israel will surrender all occupied Arab territories and recognize the rights of the Palestinian people.

If these conditions are not achieved through what he called the "new political stage of the battle" Assad said Syria would "resume the armed struggle with all our strength."

"We will say a strong no if we sense any treachery or betrayal or any procrastination in implementation of security council resolutions as we understand them," said Syria's military president, a former Air Force general.

Assad spoke to his nation in a speech that had first been announced for last Thursday, the day after Syria announced its acceptance of the cease-fire ordered by the United Nations Security Council on Oct. 22.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said after Monday night's meeting: "We are talking about the whole complex of issues, including the cease-fire."

Brandt becomes involved

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Willy Brandt involved himself in the German-American controversy over Middle Eastern policy today by sending a personal letter to President Nixon, the German news agency DPA reported.

The contents of Brandt's letter were not divulged but it was reported as top U.S. and German diplomats met in Bonn to discuss differences over shipments of U.S. weapons from Western Germany to Israel during the 1973 Middle East war.

Foreign Minister Walter Scheel and Paul Frank, foreign ministry state secretary, conferred with Walter J. Stoessel, U.S. assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

Before going to the foreign ministry, Stoessel called on Karl Carstens, parliamentary leader of the opposition Christian Democrats.

"The German-American row developed when the Bonn foreign ministry declared last week it could not allow the United States to ship arms from its depots in West Germany to one of the warring parties in the Middle East."

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said after Monday night's meeting: "We are talking about the whole complex of issues, including the cease-fire."

Cease-fire threatened

(c) Chicago Daily News TEL AVIV — The Middle East cease-fire is threatened by two potentially explosive issues as it ends its first hectic week of existence:

— Prompt return of all prisoners of war.

— Free navigation through all Middle East waters.

Israel is becoming ever more impatient over the failure of Egypt and Syria to carry out their obligations with regard to POWs as required under U. N. Security Council Resolution 338 which brought the hostilities to a close.

This country also is concerned about a maritime blockade to its shipping established by the Arab Republic of Yemen in the strategic Bab El Mandab Strait lining the Arabian and Red Seas.

Even the unconfirmed though probably officially inspired report in today's Cairo daily "Al Ahram" that Egypt will turn the names of Israeli POWs is coupled with an unacceptable condition from Israel's standpoint.

"Al Ahram" said Egypt would submit the names to the Red Cross if Israel withdrew its forces to the cease-fire line as of Oct. 22 when the initial call for a halt in hostilities was issued by the U. S. Security Council.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said after Monday night's meeting: "We are talking about the whole complex of issues, including the cease-fire."

Monday night's session began only a few hours after Fahmi arrived in Washington. Sadat had asked that he be received here to discuss various aspects of the situation in the wake of the latest Arab-Israeli conflict.

Kissinger had not intended to meet with Fahmi until this morning. However, the senior Egyptian diplomat, who was met at the airport in late afternoon by Assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco, asked if he could see Kissinger as quickly as possible. He appeared anxious to explain Sadat's position to U.S. officials with little delay.

It was assumed that he wanted to enlist as much American sympathy and support for Egypt's position as he could, since Washington has served notice that it intends to join Russia in taking a more direct interest in trying to influence a settlement in the turbulent Middle East.

Envoy welcomed

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Ismail Fahmi, a special representative of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, found their initial discussion of the complex Middle East situation, including the shaky cease-fire, "very satisfactory."

Those were the words both Kissinger and Fahmi used to describe their 90-minute meeting at the State Department Monday night. Kissinger and Fahmi met again today.

Neither side was willing to disclose anything specific concerning the talks.

Agnew authorized mail privilege

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Monday signed into law a bill authorizing Spiro T. Agnew to use the official vice presidential mail frank privilege until Nov. 10.

Under the legislation, the former vice president can send letters weighing four ounces or less to anyone, and he can send mail weighing four pounds or less to a government official.

Queen announces government goals

LONDON (UPI) Queen Elizabeth today announced a sweeping program of government legislation, including plans to clean up pollution, tighten controls over indecent public advertising and reform corporate laws.

She did so in a speech from the throne read to members of the upper and lower houses of Parliament in the House of Lords chamber. It marked the opening of a new parliamentary session — generally expected to be the last before national general elections in 1974.

The speech, although read by the queen, was in fact written by the government and outlined major legislation planned for the coming 12 months.

The Queen's speech made one brief reference to the Middle East conflict.

"My government will continue to work for a just and lasting peace in the Middle East," it said.

It said the government "will continue to attach high importance to our relationship with the United States of America."

Conference opens

VIENNA (UPI) — The East-West troop cut conference opened today with a Communist welcome for Russian-American cooperation but a firm demand that the Warsaw Pact's military superiority in Europe be maintained under any agreed troop withdrawals.

East Germany, expressing the position of the Soviet Union and the Warsaw Pact, called for "completing the political detente by military detente."

It said the present "correlation" of East and West Bloc Forces in Central Europe must be preserved. The Warsaw bloc has a sizeable numerical superiority in men and tanks over the Western forces represented by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

West Germany spoke for NATO and immediately called for troop cuts that would bring the opposing forces in Central Europe to something like parity strength.
