Solons cut war powers

(c) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — The House and Senate, dealing President Nixon his worst legislative setback of the year, Wednesday overrode his veto of a bill aimed at limiting the President's power to commit the armed forces to foreign hostilities without Congressional approval. The House voted first, 284 to 135, only four votes more than the two-thirds required. The Senate followed nearly four hours later by a vote of 75 to 18, or 13 more than the required two-thirds. It was the first time in nine attempts this year both houses had overridden a veto and the first time since Congress overrode a Nixon veto of a water pollution control measure in October, 1972, that a bill has become law over the President's veto.

The votes marked a further erosion of Nixon's strength in the Democratic-controlled Congress, particularly in the House, which has tended to support the Republican President more than the Senate.

Several Republicans insisted, however, they were not striking back at Nixon because of the Watergate scandal, but that up to now he had managed to rally enough Republican strength in Congress to sustain his vetoes. Voting against him today were 86 Republicans in the House and 25 in the Senate.

The votes also represented what supporters of the war powers bill contended was an historic effort by Congress in the aftermath of the Indochina war to reassert its role in deciding when and under what circumstances the nation went to war.

Earlier this year Congress forced to halt in the U.S. bombing in Cambodia as of Aug. 15, but until today both houses had never been able to muster a two-thirds vote to override Nixon's vetoes of measures dealing with the nation's involvement in foreign combat. (Continued on p. 5)

Idaho votes split on war powers bill

Idaho's Congressional delegation split evenly on Tuesday's enactment of a bill setting limits on the President's war-making powers.

Both Idaho senators, Democrat Sen. Frank Church and Republican Sen. James McClure, voted to override President Nixon's veto of the war-powers bill.

But Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, and Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, both worked to sustain the veto by voting against the bill.

Nixon asks power to fight oil lack

(c) N. Y. Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Nixon asked Congress Wednesday to give him a variety of far-reaching powers to deal with the deepening shortage of oil.

In a speech on radio and television, Nixon appealed to the American people to cope with the shortage by driving their cars less and by lowering home thermostats six degrees.

Although his principal purpose was to stress the gravity of the shortage and the need for action by congress and state governments, Nixon sought to reassure the country about what he called the prospect of "the most acute shortages of energy since World War II."

"The fuel crisis need not mean genuine suffering for all Americans," he said, "but it will require some sacrifice by all Americans."

In the administration's first acknowledgment that the fuels shortage could cause loss of sales, production and incomes, Nixon asked offices, factories and stores to achieve the equivalent of a 10-degree reduction by lowering the thermostat or curtailing working hours.

Nixon, whose popularity is at its lowest ebb because of the Watergate controversy, sought to rally politicians from both major parties to support his energy program. He invited members of Congress, governors, mayors and county executives to White House briefings in advance of the address.

Returning to the theme of self-sufficiency that he had articulated in his April energy message, Nixon said the country must strive to meet its energy needs without relying on foreign countries. (Continued on p. 5)

Snoozing fugitives nabbed

WADENA, Minn. (UPI) — Two fugitives who shot their way out of jail, held a farm family hostage for two days and demanded a plane to freedom, were captured today after they fell asleep from exhaustion and their hostages escaped.

FBI special agent Joseph Trimbach said the hostages — Elmer Wegscheid, his wife Joyce and their oldest son Ed, 15 — fled from their farmhouse at 4:15 a.m. when they noticed that the gunmen had fallen asleep.

Perjury hinted in testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., Senate Rules Committee chairman, said Wednesday a witness critical of vice presidential nominee Gerald Ford may have committed perjury in closed meeting testimony.

Former lobbyist and author Robert N. Winter-Berger had made contradictory changes in earlier testimony in which he alleged a $15,000 loan to Ford was never repaid. However, Cannon declined to detail the discrepancies in talking with reporters.

Danish elections called

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Prime Minister Anker Joergensen's Social Democrats lost a vote of confidence on a tax bill in Parliament today and Joergensen called for new elections Dec. 4.

The government could manage only to tie, 86-86, the opposition coalition on the vote on the tax bill. Although not forced to resign, such a move is tradition in any parliamentary system if the government is unable to pass its own laws through Parliament.

Guerrilla grenade kills child

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A guerrilla tossed a grenade into a restaurant on the outskirts of Phnom Penh today, killing a child and wounding 12 persons, the latest in a series of recent terrorist attacks around the Cambodian capital.

Police said the grenade ripped through a restaurant in a marketplace near Pochontong Airport, the seventh terrorist attack in or near the capital in 11 days.

Authorities said high-ranking officers based at the airport often ate at the restaurant, but there were no military men there during the mid-morning explosion.

Israel accepts 5-point Middle East peace plan

By United Press International

Israeli officials said today Israel has accepted a compromise proposal worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat providing for an exchange of prisoners, a corridor to the trapped Egyptian 3rd army and an end to the Arab sea blockade.

Beyond that it was understood that there will be direct negotiations between Egypt and Israel for the first real peace since Israel was established in the first Middle East war 25 years ago.

Government sources in Israel reported the acceptance of the compromise peace plan as Kissinger left Cairo, flew to neighboring Jordan for talks with King Hussein and then flew on to Saudi Arabia for talks there with King Faisal. As he left Cairo, Kissinger himself reported "good progress."

While Kissinger conferred in Amman with King Hussein of Jordan, assistant Secretary of State for Middle East Affairs, Joseph Sisco, met in Jerusalem with Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel. Sisco carried the latest proposals to Israel Wednesday night after a meeting in Cairo between Kissinger and Sadat.

Before Mrs. Meir met Sisco for a second time today, the Israeli cabinet met for two hours.

Israeli government sources in Tel Aviv said Sisco emerged from the 90-minute session with the Prime Minister saying the talks had been "useful and constructive... I'm optimistic." He said he would be joining Kissinger in Riyadh.

The peace plan provided that: — Israel will allow a supply corridor, supervised by United Nations forces, into the Egyptian 3rd army, whose 20,000 men are surrounded on the southern end of the Suez Canal. Cairo will not have full control of the route and no military supplies will be allowed in.

— There will be full exchange of prisoners of war with Egypt, beginning as soon as possible with the wounded. Israel holds about 8,000 Egyptian prisoners while listing about 350 of its men missing on the southern front.

— The Egyptians will lift their blockade of the Bab el-Mandeb Strait at the entrance to the Red Sea. The blockade had prevented ships from arriving from or departing to Asia from the port at Eilat.

— Senior Israeli and Egyptian officers will begin negotiations about "tidying up" the ceasefire line in order to make it easier for U.N. forces to police and in order to prevent mistaken clashes.

Secretary claims tapes too poor to transcribe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rose Mary Woods, President Nixon's personal secretary, said today the quality of some of the conversations on the President's Watergate tapes is "very bad" although the equipment was sensitive enough to pick up some outside band music.

Miss Woods, testifying in Federal Judge John J. Sirica's court about the tapes which Nixon has agreed to turn over to the judge, said she had transcribed some of the conversations for Nixon. But she said a verbatim transcript was impossible.

"I could not get every word and I don't believe anyone else could," she said.

She said she was asked by the President to go to Camp David Sept. 29 to listen to the controversial tapes — which former Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox insisted on having before he was fired — and had worked many hours on them. But she said her job was far from finished.

Miss Woods said the quality was "very bad on some" of them, partly because of extraneous noises they picked up — from music apparently emanating from a formal ceremony on the White House lawn, to the loud noise of a coffee cup being banged on a desk.

Miss Woods, sometimes showing irritation at insistent questioning by special assistant prosecutor Jill Volner, also testified that she made sure she didn't accidentally erase any portions of the tapes given her.

Rim zone change rejected

By GEORGE WILEY Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County commissioners today unanimously rejected a proposed zoning change which would have permitted construction of a canyon rim apartment and shopping complex.

Instead, the commissioners referred the proposal back to the County Planning and Zoning Committee to be considered under a proposed planned unit development (PUD) ordinance.

The 33-acre development was proposed by Lynwood Development Co. for construction at the canyon rim just west of the Perrine Memorial Bridge.

Opponents of the project argued rezoning for commercial-general uses under the present zoning ordinance would permit the developers to change their plan once the zoning change was approved.

Under the proposed PUD ordinance the county would have to approve plans for each stage of the project's development.

The zone variance had been approved by the Twin Falls County zoning board on Oct. 11 by a vote of 5 to 2.

Included in the plans are a 200-room motor hotel, condominiums, apartment houses, professional offices, a restaurant, a service station and other as yet undesignated commercial buildings. (Continued on p. 13)

President won't quit

(c) N. Y. Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, besieged in recent weeks by demands for his resignation or impeachment, insisted Wednesday he had "not violated the trust" of the American people and that he would not quit.

Near the end of his nationally televised message on the energy crisis, he paused, looked hard into the cameras and said, "I would like to close on a personal note."

After reciting a list of the accomplishments he said the nation had made since his landslide reelection a year ago today, Nixon declared somberly:

"I have no intention whatever of walking away from the job I was elected to do, as long as I am physically able."

"I am going to continue to work 16 to 18 hours a day," he said, to deal with such problems as inflation and to attempt to bring peace to the world.

Nixon, who has looked tired and haggard in recent days as his Watergate problems have mounted, apparently spoke the last words of his message tonight from memory. And while he earlier had fluffed what was for him an unusual number of lines from his prepared text, he delivered his answer on Watergate without a miss. (Continued on p. 5)

Price boosts forecast for TF gasoline pumps

By BILL LAZARUS Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Gas prices stayed relatively stable here between June and the end of October, but dealers predict substantial price increases before the year is out.

An Oct. 31 Times-News survey of seven local stations showed that since June prices climbed an average of 4.6 per cent.

Apparently, during summer and early fall federal price freeze regulations curbed gas cost inflation on the retail level.

Prior to summer, in May alone, gas prices here soared by 10 per cent. Recently the government announced gas dealers will be able to pass on wholesale price hikes, which are expected to occur at a rapid pace.

"I expect them to go higher," Ralph Garrison, Lynwood Standard Service dealer, said. "I'm just going by the say-so of tanker drivers... but they expect it (gas prices) to go up another dime before the first of the year."

Wayne Lindemoor, assistant manager of Howard's Conoco, said his station has not raised its prices recently but is "anticipating a couple of cents raise anytime," even though the supply and demand situation "has pretty much leveled off now." "From what I hear from my supplier, it's probably going to go up. But I don't know," Del Crang, Del's 66 dealer, said.

As of Oct. 31, soaring inflation has not hit the gas pumps here. Where regular gas cost 41.5 cents per gallon on June 1, it cost 43.5 cents per gallon Oct. 31, a rise of 4.8 per cent.

The average cost of premium gas jumped from 49.6 to 45.6 per cent during the five-month period, a rise of 4.2 per cent.

ASAP airs plan

TWIN FALLS — The state director of the Idaho Alcohol Safety Action Project (ASAP) met with Twin Falls area legislators Tuesday to acquaint them with an upcoming request for about $700,000 in state funds.

Don Pieper told the legislators at a dinner in Twin Falls Tuesday night ASAP will lose federal funding of two of its key programs next year.

The January session of the state legislature, he said, will then decide the fate of the programs, which must be sustained by state funds if they are to continue.

The Alcohol Emphasis Patrol, a special 20-man unit of the Idaho State Police assigned to patrol highways for drunk drivers, and the ASAP Pre-Sentence Investigation program will both be terminated in 1974, Pieper said, if the state does not undertake the funding.

Other ASAP "countermeasures," such as court alcohol schools, an alcohol data bank, program evaluation and dissemination of information will continue with federal funds, Pieper said. However, he said the drunk driver apprehension and correction programs were key to ASAP's operation.

Pieper said statewide arrests for driving while intoxicated have increased by 85 per cent since the ASAP program was started in July 1972. From the inception of the program through August of this year, he said, ASAP patrol officers have arrested 1,796 persons on drunk driving charges. They have also been responsible for about 11,000 other traffic violation arrests, he added.

One of the most encouraging statistics in favor of the continuation of the programs, Pieper told the lawmakers, was a 29 per cent reduction in the number of drunk drivers and a 50 per cent reduction in the number of problem drinkers behind the wheel.

Pieper said the pre-sentence investigations conducted by the ASAP staff, which are designed to guide a judge in sentencing those convicted for drunk driving, are being increasingly used by Idaho magistrates.

The funding to continue the ASAP programs in 1974, Pieper said, could be taken from state liquor dispensary profits.

Rotarians hear politics topic

TWIN FALLS — Nixon should be impeached or resign, Sam Day, former publisher of the now defunct Intermountain Observer, told Rotarians here Wednesday.

Day said this was necessary as a result of the low stature of the office of the presidency.

Addressing himself to the topic "All Politicians are Dirty," Day warned of placing public officials on pedestals because their fall may be too great.

Politicians are ordinary people doing hard jobs, he suggested, but their jobs have no more pressures than those of the businessman, farmer, doctor or lawyer. He urged politicians not be viewed as heroes. Day said Ben Franklin was once one of the greatest "pornographers" in America and George Washington, a grower of hemp (marijuana).

Day said the Nixon administration had tarred all politics. But in retrospect, he said, the Watergate investigation was a healthy process for the country, an example of a free country, instead of dictatorship.

Among the lessons learned, he said is the great influence of money on the electoral process.

He cited the 1972 Electoral Reform Law as "just a small step" toward the solution.

Other lessons included: the "enormous stakes in the office of the presidency" and the need to find ways to cut the stakes down, the need to reduce the President's ceremonial duties as those may become a preoccupation, and the need to show the public that interval conflict in the administration is necessary and a benefit to a free society.

When asked whether the "eastern liberal press" had unfairly treated the Nixon administration, Day said he believed the press was performing its function as a free press was intended. However, he chastised the press for its "laziness" in the past, especially on the local level.

Ford gets president-elect treatment

(c) Chicago Daily News WASHINGTON — He has yet to be confirmed as vice president. But the times being what they are, Rep. Gerald R. Ford is being treated as though he might be President on short notice.

call on them. Byrd, a man who doesn't beam easily, beamed slightly. Sen. Mark Hatfield (R-Ore.) asks Ford to define the personal characteristics a President should have.

affair," Ford said. "I think it will be," he said, adding he hasn't thought of a forum. When Ford said it was "unbelievable" that the "stupid, illegal acts of a handful of people should have this impact" on the Presidency, Hatfield asked him, "can Richard Nixon save his presidency?"

Spending limits

Even though the California voters rejected his plan, Ronald Reagan has come up with a proposal which, if modified, might have applications to Idaho state and local government.

In a nutshell, Gov. Reagan's plan would have placed a ceiling on state spending. With the reduction in spending, state taxes would be limited.

The proposal determines each year's spending ceiling according to a formula which would not let total spending rise above a certain percentage of the state's personal income.

Gradually over the years, the formula would be changed to shrink the governmental percentage. In the event the economy continued to grow at a rapid rate, governmental spending could also grow, but just not so fast.

The proposal probably was defeated in California because of a combination of oversell by Reagan — who expected to use the plan as a stepping stone to the Republican presidential nomination — and overkill by opponents who claimed that Reagan was advancing his political future at the expense of widows and orphans.

In its present form, Reagan's proposal probably should have been killed because it went too far too fast. Its critics were correct in saying that many people would be damaged by a too drastic reduction in state services.

But the notion of some realistic limit to governmental spending still has merit. The need is greatest at the local and state levels, where governmental costs have outstripped general economic growth for some years.

The State of Idaho, for example, has seen state spending rise much faster than state income during the past decade.

Twin Falls City and Twin Falls County spending also have grown at rates greater than their local increase in personal income.

If these trends were projected far enough in the future, it is clear the governmental share of the economy would swell to unacceptable levels. At some point a line must be drawn.

It is unrealistic, however, to expect local units of government to effectively curb their own growth rate.

Providers of governmental services see their role as meeting public demands for services. They will naturally see how much of their task remains undone, rather than what resources remain with which to complete the task.

The policeman continually is reminded of unsolved crimes and how many crimes were not prevented. A schoolteacher is acutely aware of how much needs to be done to bring out the best from schoolchildren.

The county commissioner is daily confronted by pressing needs of people with broken down cars who need $20 to make it to the next job. The hospital trustee is aware of local physician's demands for more improved hospital facilities, necessary for up-to-date practice of his speciality of medicine.

These needs are real. None of these people can be expected to say "here is where we will stop in our law enforcement efforts," or "here is where we must draw the line in our educational program" or "here is where we must be satisfied with providing less than the best medical care."

Without some kind of external limitation imposed on the provider of public services, the chorus of specific demands and the sincere desire to meet these demands will tend to enlarge government indefinitely.

It is evident that a priority system is required through which the taxpayer's dollar can be allocated to the most deserving of the various competing social needs. Priorities, however, can have little effect until there is some limitation on the resources available for distribution among various worthy projects. Without a ceiling on resources, lower and lower priority items are funded, and the governmental sector of the economy grows.

Even when spending ceilings are accepted, major questions remain. At a state level a limit on total spending can work because there is a governor and a legislature to decide how to allocate state funds among the various competing state agencies.

But at the local level there is no governor or legislature to establish such priorities. Under such circumstances, city, county and educational officials would naturally tend to see their needs as higher priority than the others.

Schoolmen who see pupils' needs at first hand, naturally would still say those needs should come before improved city streets. But city councilmen who endure endless needling about potholes would tend to disagree.

Press can 'tough it'

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's war with certain segments of the media and the whimpering with which it has been greeted in some journalistic quarters recalls a put-down I suffered years ago at the hands of a wise editor in Boston.

Ray Kierman had sent me to cover a fire on the South Side. When I phoned in my story of what I called the "holocaust," I included complaints about reporters being shoved around by cops.

Kierman blue-pencilled my sniveling, and explained why when I returned to the city room still hot with indignation.

"I know this will sound incredible, young man," he told me. "But the reading public is not interested in your personal troubles. Just tell the story."

Since that day I have had small sympathy for reporters who inject themselves into their dispatches by citing official attempts to thwart their zeal. Things are tough all over, and a reader should be no more interested in a reporter's tribulations than in those of his friendly neighborhood plumber.

Except perhaps for certain publishers' sons, nobody came into this dodge with the guarantee of an easy life. There will always be people who make it hard for us noble historians but I do not expect a mother of 10 kids to rush to my side and press a witch-hazel poultice to my brow.

Thus, I am only mildly stirred by the disclosure of a 1969 White House memo by Jeb Magruder criticizing President Nixon's "shotgun" attacks on the media and suggesting the use of such tactics as harassment by the Internal Revenue Service and the Justice Department.

Magruder, then a White House aide, since has pleaded guilty to obstruction of justice in the Watergate case.

"Of course it is not comforting to learn that anyone in the White House was considering using a government agency as a weapon against the media. As Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., said, there is "no way to know" if the Magruder memo was acted on, but "it shows the type of thinking that was going on at the White House."

That "type of thinking" reflects both paranoia and a failure to realize that some things are just not done by the Republic's Chief Executive.

Indeed, although it is unknown whether Richard Nixon saw the Magruder memo — which was addressed to then White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman — it seems strange that Magruder was not forthwith booted out of his job for daring to think his President would stoop to such tactics for any reason whatsoever, let alone reasons of personal and political pique.

Few of our recent Presidents have been saints, but any Haldeman who worked for Eisenhower would not have dared withhold a memo of that creepy sort from his boss.

Besides, it was a dumb memo. Nixon had enough troubles with his enemies, even in 1969, without risking the revelation that he was considering an order to the Federal Communications Commission to establish a monitoring system "to prove bias on the part of the networks."

Surely the fur would fly if Nixon had taken Magruder's advice and threatened "antitrust" action against various news organizations.

(c) New York Times Service A MILITARY HEADQUARTERS, NORTH CHINA — Field Marshal Montgomery once told me: "There are two rules of war. The first rule is never invade Russia. The second rule is never invade China."

As far as the first rule is concerned, I am convinced this country hasn't the slightest intention of breaking it. But it is clearly preparing for the contingency that Moscow itself might violate the second.

There is no effort to hide this worry. In a Shensi Village I saw a large poster on the main square showing Chinese troops fighting the Russians in 1900 along the Ussuri River. I saw the same picture in a textile factory at Hsuehot, Inner Mongolia.

A high ranking officer of the People's Liberation Army told me: "Political education in our unit stresses Russia, both in class

No high crimes on new tapes

WASHINGTON — The solution to the two missing presidential tapes is simple. The president should do them over again with the same cast. It would be no problem for the White House to rent a recording studio and hire a producer to make tapes as good as the original.

This is how it would go. PRODUCER: Okey, Mr. President, do you have your script? Now on this tape you're getting a call from John Mitchell. It's right after Watergate and Mr. Mitchell is giving you a fill-in.

Mr. Mitchell, you hold the phone over there at that mike. Are we ready? Roll 'em. This is the Nixon-Mitchell telephone conversation tape one. GO. MITCHELL: Hi, Mr. President. John Mitchell here.

NIXON: Hello, John. How's Martha since you tied her up in Newport Beach? PRODUCER: Cut. Mr. President, you sound too relaxed. Now you have to remember, this is right after Watergate, and it looks like the Committee for the Re-Election of the President has been involved. Could you get some anxiety in your voice?

NIXON: I never show any anxiety. PRODUCER: Well, pretend you were just awakened or something. We want to make this thing sound real. Okay, roll it again, tape two. MITCHELL: Do you want to start from the top or where I tell the President I can't tell him anything about Watergate because it will only upset him? PRODUCER: All right, start from there. MITCHELL: Mr. President, I know something you don't know. PRESIDENT: What is it?

MITCHELL: I'm not going to tell you because you'll go through the roof. PRESIDENT: But as President, shouldn't I know everything you know? It isn't nice to keep secrets from me, John. MITCHELL: Someday you'll thank me for not telling you about it.

PRESIDENT: Why on earth did you bring it up, if you can't tell me? MITCHELL: In the future I may have to testify that I didn't tell you about it and I want it on the record. PRESIDENT: Well, what did you call for then?

MITCHELL: Just to tell you I couldn't tell you anything about the Watergate break-in or who was involved. PRESIDENT: I appreciate that. And, John, have a nice day. PRODUCER: Beautiful. You guys were perfect. All right, let's do the second tape. Where's John Dean?

ASSISTANT: He's sitting over there being guarded by two secret service men. He says he doesn't want to do it. PRODUCER: Why doesn't he want to do it?

and tackle. Then Vince, 12, in the seventh grade at Buhl Junior High, played center and linebacker for his grade's team and the youngest, Tim, 10, played quarterback for the Buhl Orange team which took the city championship.

You can bet the entire family will be at the Pocatello Mini-Dome Saturday night. Mike, Pat and Kevin will be with the Buhl Indians on that gridiron.

X-RATED EFFECTS? The Japanese movie industry plans to tone down X-rated films in more ways than one. Not only will some scenes of nudity and explicit sex be blotted out, the industry's administration commission of the Motion Picture Code of Ethics has announced certain "indecent groans" will be eliminated.

Rustling waxes and soaring violins at crucial moments, Mr. Spectator would hasten to point out, will probably still be okay, however.

struggle education courses and situation education courses." Another commander said: "We build tunnels, but the Russians talk about our threat."

Tunneling is indeed a main feature of Chinese preparation. I have seen tunnels in various places including one in Peking factory, linked to the capital's extensive underground network, displaying Mao Tse-Tung's slogan: "Dig tunnel deep. Store grain everywhere."

Tunneling is an old Chinese stratagem. Sun Tzu, who taught "the art of war" in 600 B.C. and is Chairman Mao's favorite strategist, counseled: "The general who is skilled in defense, in effect, hides in the most secret recesses of the earth."

I have read a popular book and seen a popular movie both entitled "Tunnel Warfare." All cities are riddled with underground shelters and connecting links. Tunneling is even regarded as an offensive tactic and I wouldn't be utterly astonished if portions of the Soviet frontier had been honeycombed by clever Chinese engineers.

The other aspect of Maoist defensive strategy is distributing food and key supplies around the country. Chen Chung of the agriculture ministry says: "Each district must become self-sufficient in grain as a preparation against war. In wartime communications can be cut."

People's China has a vast army with limitless reserves. The full strength division volunteers who may be retained after their three-year enlistment expires — comprises somewhat over 10,000 men with five regiments of infantry, one artillery (80 guns) and one armored (60 tanks).

Morale, training and small arms appear excellent. Artillery relies heavily on the 120 millimeter piece. The air force is unimpressive, depending mostly on outmoded Soviet type MIG-19's and twin-jet medium bombers. I saw plenty of both on various airfields.

Maoist tactics; "Weapons are an important factor in war, but not the decisive one; it is man and not material that counts." Thus tunneling (which tunneling is an example), loyalty (insured by party control of the army) and ruse are vital to Chinese planning. Sun Tzu taught: "All warfare is based upon deception." Chairman Mao wrote: "The Red Army generally operates by surprise attacks."

Nevertheless, the nuclear-missile age and the break with Russia have had a sobering effect. Mao admitted to Nehru once that an atomic conflict might kill half of mankind but "imperialism would be razed to them and the whole world would become socialist."

However, as China has pressed forward its own nuclear-missile program.

Nixon won't quit

Message highlights

WASHINGTON — Here are major points of President Nixon's energy conservation message, in which he:

- Ordered thermostats in federal office buildings set at 68 degrees.
- Asked that thermostats in homes, offices and factories be set at 68 degrees.
- Set a 50 mile an hour speed limit on all U. S. vehicles.
- Asked the public to drive at slower speeds on highways.
- Ordered temporary variances in federal clean air and water standards to permit wider use of coal.
- Forbade utilities and industries to shift from coal to oil and natural gas.
- Ordered an allocation system for jet fuels which could cut commercial flights 10 per cent.
- Called for a $10 billion, five year energy research effort.
- Asked for Congressional approval of the Alaska pipeline and deepwater oil handling facilities.
- Asked for authorization of full-year daylight savings time.

President asks energy powers

Nixon spoke only in passing of the Arab oil embargo, which he said would cause a supply gap of 10 to 17 per cent in oil supplies this winter. Oil accounts for about half the total energy consumed in this country. Of the 17 million barrels of crude and refinery products that have been burned every day about 2 million have come, directly and indirectly, from Arab states.

Nixon spoke deliberately of "Middle Eastern" producers in what officials had said was a conscious attempt to avoid anything that might ring in Arab ears as a tone of rancor or retaliation. The President's strategy, the officials said, was to show the Arab producers that the United States cannot be crippled by the embargo and will adapt successfully.

"We have an energy crisis," Nixon said, "but there is no crisis of the American spirit." It was the first time he had gone so far as to call the fuels shortage a "crisis."

The President renewed an appeal to Congress to authorize the five-year, $10 billion energy research and development program he proposed on June 29, and to create a separate agency, the Energy Research and Development Administration.

To dramatize the proposal, Nixon likened the push to develop new forms of energy to the World War II Manhattan Project to develop an atomic bomb and to the Apollo effort that put men on the Moon.

Returning to his energy self-sufficiency theme, he suggested that the research effort be called "Project Independence."

Presidential energy advisor John Love said with heating oil supplies running 15 per cent below normal requirements, the government's mandatory allocation scheme would assign to wholesalers and retailers not 100 per cent of last

Iran holds output line

TUNIS, Tunisia (UPI) — Iran will not step up oil production to fill the gap caused by Arab cuts, Iranian Premier Amir Abbas Hoveida said today.

In an interview with the newspaper Action, Hoveida said: "It is not possible for Iran to increase its petrol output for three reasons—our means do not permit it, present production is at a ceiling and Iranian petrol will never fill the void created by the reduction in Arab production."

Hoveida said he was "not happy to see peace in the Middle East being organized by the two superpowers (the United States and the Soviet Union)" and that his country backed the 1967 U.N. Security Council resolution calling on Israel to withdraw from occupied Arab territory.

Cool rooms a problem?

BOSTON (UPI) — Turning the heat down a few degrees in New England School of Art classrooms would pose a serious problem, administrative assistant William Davis said Wednesday.

"When we go to hire nude models, one of the things they always ask is, how warm is the room?"

Davis said Wednesday night he was concerned whether the school might be granted an exemption from the 10 degree heat reduction President Nixon called for in commercial buildings.

He said, when it comes to hiring nude models, room temperatures are "a real problem for us, even when you can heat the place. What do you do... close the school?"

Looking for a gas leak? Apply soapy water solution to the suspected area and watch for a bubble. Do not use a match or any other open flame.

Congress overrides war bill veto

The White House said in a statement Nixon felt the Congressional action "seriously undermines this nation's ability to act decisively and convincingly in times of international crisis." It declined, however, to say what the President planned to do as a result of the overriding of his veto.

Supporters of the bill, who have waged a three-year effort to enact the measure, said it was the first time in history that Congress had sought to spell out the war-making powers of Congress and the President.

With the veto overridden, the measure takes effect immediately and contains the following provisions:

- The President would be required to report to Congress in writing within 48 hours after the commitment of the armed forces to foreign hostilities.

The action would have to terminate in 60 days unless Congress authorized the commitment, but this deadline could be extended for an additional 30 days if the President certified that continued action was necessary for the safe withdrawal of the forces.

Within that 60- or 90-day period Congress could order an immediate removal of the forces, by passing a concurrent resolution, which is not subject to a presidential veto.

Nixon vetoed the bill Oct. 24 on the ground that it was "clearly unconstitutional."

The House overrode the veto despite a strong appeal by Rep. Gerald J. Ford of Michigan, minority leader and vice president-designate. Representatives who had been chipping on the House floor during the debate hustled as Ford went to the well of the house to say that the bill "has the potential for disaster" by taking away the President's flexibility to deal with foreign crises.

In the Senate, Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., took another tack, arguing that the bill was "a horrible mistake" because it gave the President "unilateral authority to commit troops anywhere in the world for 60 to 90 days."

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., an opponent of the bill, said it was a "most dangerous piece of legislation." Immediately after the Senate vote Tower said he hoped that the constitutionality of the measure would be tested in the courts at the earliest opportunity. He did not say how such a test might be initiated.

'Gap' discovered in tape recordings

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — A presidential aide testified today that a "gap" had been discovered in one of the White House tape recordings and that as a result another conversation between President Nixon and John W. Dean might be unavailable. John C. Bennett, deputy assistant to the President, told the court that Rose Mary Woods, Nixon's personal secretary, had told him this morning she had discovered a "gap" while putting one of the recordings into written form. "I presume that in going through some one of the conversations — I believe it was between the President and Mr. Dean — that she found some sort of gap in the recording," Bennett declared. He added that he had not

Voters reject Reagan's plan

(c) New York Times Service
SAN FRANCISCO — Gov. Ronald Reagan refused today to agree that voter repudiation of his state fiscal management plan was a personal defeat, but in the view of political observers here the result must lessen his chances as a Republican presidential nominee in 1976.

For several months Reagan has put his prestige into the campaign to pass a constitutional amendment that would have put limits on the amount of money the state could raise by taxation. Yesterday the voters turned down the Governor by 54 to 48 per cent — or 2,284,705 to 1,945,123 votes.

Reagan has said that he will not be a candidate for a third four-year term next year. He has said he intends to tour the nation explaining his political and economic views, somewhat as he did a decade ago when he worked for the General Electric Co. Although the Governor himself never made the connection, others close to him said they expected Reagan to use the California fiscal reorganization plan as an example of what he stood for, and to point to it as the wave of the future for Republicans. But the voters refused to buy the plan, and the wave broke before Reagan could mount his surfboard.

To a question that assumed he had been defeated for the first time by California voters, Reagan responded by asking, "how can trying to reduce the people's taxes be a political defeat?"

In his tireless campaigning for the amendment, Reagan insisted that it would result in lower government costs because it would limit taxes collected at the state level. But opponents called this an erroneous argument and said the result would be a shifting of costs to local government.

When it was over Reagan had lost for the first time since he entered politics here in the Republican gubernatorial primary of 1966.

inquired into her problem any further.

"I didn't think it was in the President's interest to get into the contents of that tape," he observed.

The White House had announced last week that its recording system had failed to pick up a conversation between the President and Dean on April 15 because a six-hour tape in the executive office building had run out before the evening meeting took place. Nixon lawyers said then that there was also no recording of a call the President made to John M. Mitchell, his campaign manager, on June 20, 1972, three days after the Watergate burglary, because the telephone on which the call was placed was not hooked into the recording system.

These two recordings were among nine that had been subpoenaed from the President by the special Watergate prosecution force, precipitating a legal battle during which Nixon defied court rulings that he surrender the tapes but finally agreed to do so.

The prosecutors regarded the two missing conversations as critically important to resolving questions as to the President's knowledge of the break-in at Democratic National Headquarters.

New plan needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. James O'Hara, D-Mich., says the office of vice president should be scrapped and a new system established to name a presidential successor.

O'Hara appeared Wednesday before the Vice Presidential Commission of the Democratic National Committee, which held a one-day hearing on suggestions for revamping the process by which a presidential candidate chooses his running-mate.

But the Michigan congressman, who chaired efforts to prepare procedural rules for the 1972 Democratic Convention, said the best thing to do is abolish the vice presidency itself.

Shake down

JOHN J. Pelescia, a Florida homebuilder, told the Senate Watergate Committee Wednesday that President Nixon's re-election funders asked him to donate $100,000 as the price for getting the Federal Housing Administration to drop action against him. (UPI)

Mariner problem levels

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Mariner 10 should be able to produce good pictures of Venus and Mercury next year, scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory confidently predicted Wednesday.

The reason for the optimism was relief of a problem with two heaters aboard the spacecraft.

The heaters broke down after launch last Friday and television cameras and telescopes aboard Mariner began cooling down, bringing fears that the pictures would be distorted.

But a JPL spokesman said Wednesday the temperatures "have leveled off and we think they have bottomed out. We are optimistic we can go on and photograph Venus and Mercury."

One other problem still remained. An instrument designed to measure the solar wind was reporting only part of its measurements.

The spokesman said that despite the problem, the instrument was "functioning perfectly from an engineering point."

SS benefits increase 11%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 28 million Social Security recipients would get an 11 per cent benefits increase in 1974 under a bill approved by the House Ways and Means Committee.

To finance the increase, payroll taxes would be increased to upper income wage earners by raising the Social Security wage base to $13,200. The tax rate of 5.85 per cent would remain the same.

The House is scheduled to act on the bill next week, and the Senate also appears to be moving toward a benefits increase, making it likely some increase will become law before Congress adjourns for the year.

Democrats pushed the two-stage increase through the committee Wednesday, overturning a Republican-sponsored 10 per cent increase approved 11 to 12 Tuesday that would have become effective with July checks.

The Democratic bill would get the benefits to recipients sooner by giving 7 per cent of the increase in April checks and the remaining 4 per cent in July.

The administration pushed strongly for the Republican measure because it would have no inflationary impact during this fiscal year, which ends June 30 just before the 10 per cent increase would have been phased out.

Agency obtains names

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — The Internal Revenue Service, which is re-considering a controversial 1969 tax ruling that allowed the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation to acquire the Hartford Fire Insurance Co., has taken a significant step in the case, according to sources close to the tax service.

In a move that was seen as a possible preliminary step to revoking the rule, the revenue agency recently obtained a list of Hartford shareholders who had traded their stock for ITT shares in the tax-free transaction, the sources said.

Last April the New York office of the agency recommended revocation of the tax ruling, which made possible the largest corporate merger in United States history. The recommendation was apparently based on a complex disposition of Hartford stock by ITT to an Italian bank.

ITT said in April that an adverse tax ruling could cost former Hartford shareholders about $30 million. Trade sources, however, put the figure as high as $100 million.

Both ITT and the IRS declined to comment today on the latest development. "Since this is a matter under investigation, it is inappropriate to comment," an ITT spokesman in New York said. The revenue agency, as a matter of policy, does not comment on cases in progress.

Octane ratings change

TWIN FALLS — Up again, down again, octane ratings for gas are in for another change. No, enraged Arabs are not siphoning valued, no-knock preventing octane away from the United States.

In all likelihood your car is getting just as much octane as before, even though the octane number of the gas pump is several points lower.

Most octane number changes are due to new requirements set last month by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service's department of stabilization, which is responsible for enforcing price freezes.

Gwen Martin, IRS stabilization service representative, said that starting Sept. 7 gas stations were required to post the lowest octane rating in a blend of gas. Previously, the octane number was usually determined by averaging together the different octane rates of the various gases going into the blend.

Because of the new rating system, regular gas at seven stations surveyed by the Times-News last week showed an octane rating of only 88.

Because different stations use different blends of gasoline, there is no simple formula to convert the new ratings into the old terms, Mrs. Martin said.

However, octane-watchers, who are beginning to adjust to the new system, will be subjected to renewed confusion come Nov. 1.

At that time, Mrs. Martin said, the IRS Stabilization Board will require stations to determine octane by averaging together the different gas octanes going into a blend.

Huge Siberian diamond found

MOSCOW (UPI) — Siberian miners have found a 232-carat diamond, equalling the largest diamond ever found in the Soviet Union; the newspaper Trud said today.

The new diamond, named the Star of Yakutia, was found in the rich diamond fields at Mirny in the Yakutskaya region.

On Aug. 19, another 232-carat diamond was found in the same fields and named "50 Years of Aeroflot" in commemoration of Soviet aviation day which was observed that day.

According to the Guinness Book of Records, the largest diamond ever found was the 3,106-carat Cullinan, discovered in South Africa in 1905.

Aid services cut at New York hospitals

By United Press International

New York hospitals caught in a bitter, strife-torn strike by nonmedical hospital workers Wednesday cut services — even including emergency aid — as medical supplies dwindled and piles of garbage grew.

Other labor walkouts plagued the nation from New York to Los Angeles.

The three-day strike at 48 New York hospitals and nursing homes by 30,000 members of the Drug and Hospital Workers Union erupted into picket-line violence Tuesday and Wednesday and 19 persons were arrested.

The hospitals stepped up the release of convalescing patients to ease the strain on hospital facilities and personnel, and began investigating a possible health threat from growing heaps of refuse including used bandages, syringes and operating room waste that has not been collected.

Warning signal improvement slated at Shoshone

SHOSHONE — The city of Shoshone will participate with the Idaho Highway Department to improve warning signals at the Union Pacific Railroad crossings in Shoshone.

Decision on the matter was made at the Tuesday night City Council meeting.

Lights at the intersection of State Highway 93 and North and South Rail-streets will be changed from 8-inch traffic lights to 12-inch traffic lights.

The city will also recommend to the state highway department a double strip on Highway 93, alternate for one block east of the Highway 93-26 intersection.

In other business Tuesday night, the council decided to set up a special meeting in the near future to study the problem of a waste by the landfill north of Shoshone.

A letter was received from the Department of Environmental and Community Services stating the department had received complaints about continued burning at the dump site.

To be invited to attend the meeting to work out a feasible solution are Lincoln County commissioners, city officials within the county, local planning officers and representatives of the South Central District of Public Health.

The council plans further study and investigation of a proposed sewer system for the Molt addition.

Harroll Thorne, owner of the property, met with the council and presented a plan for development of the area. It is located on the southeast side of the city, and would accommodate construction of several new homes.

Also taken under advisement was a request from Idaho Power Co. to vacate an alley in block 48. Notice was given the council that Dave Ritter is working on a trial basis as sanitation collector, replacing Thomas Jansen who resigned Nov. 1.

Building permits were issued to the Idaho Grange Co-op for addition of a storage building and remodeling, to Sharon Tracy for a new home, to Jake Sullivan remodeling a garage and Clayton Clifford to remodel his residence and add a fireplace.

The Lincoln County Magistrate Court reported $129.60 as the city's share of fines in the past month.

Beer licenses for 1974 were issued to the Columbia Lounge and Ed's Gateway Service. Bartender permits for the remainder of the year were issued to James Smith, Debbie Anderson, Perry Warron and Ruth Nielsen.

Drug cases spark concern in Blaine

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — Disposition of court cases, particularly drug cases, sparked concern at the weekly Ketchum-Sun Valley Rotary Club meeting here Tuesday.

Club member Lloyd Curtis reviewed statistics on 346 prisoners handled by the Ketchum Police Department during 1973. The statistics were prepared by the department at the club's request.

Earlier, State Rep. E. V. Mellan, R-Koichum, had presented a petition to fellow club members, initiated by concerned Blaine County citizens, urging the district judges and magistrates to reexamine their positions on criminal and misdemeanor offenses in the county.

According to the petition, the citizens believe the judges and magistrates are "altogether too lenient in their decisions, particularly in all drug offenses."

Subsequent club meetings have included a program on drug abuse, presented by Ketchum police, and one on the courts by Blaine Pros.

Atty. Stephen Bolter and a county magistrate, V. K. Joppesen.

Curtis said out of the 346 prisoners, 257 had been handled through the courts. Of this figure, department statistics show that 97 defendants, or 37 per cent, had pleaded guilty and 58 cases, or about 22 per cent, had been dismissed, he said.

Of the 249 other arrests, 100, or 40 per cent, were unknown, Curtis said. Other dispositions on the 257 arrests included 21 cases which had not been completed; 15 defendants or about 5.8 per cent had received withheld judgments, and 14 cases were still pending.

Out of the total of 66 narcotic arrests, Curtis said, 35 cases or 53 per cent had been dismissed. Nine defendants had been placed on probation; the disposition of six cases were unknown; four cases had not been completed, with no court dates set; three defendants received withheld judgments, and of another four defendants who had been found guilty, three paid a fine and the fourth served four days in jail.

Bids exceed TF budget for new fire station

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council is taking a hard look at budget-breaking costs for the new command fire station.

Construction bids on the facility, opened two weeks ago, were "certainly much higher than any of us expected or anticipated," according to City Manager Jean Millar.

The bids came in nearly $100,000 over the $300,000 budgeted: Wills Inc., $392,890; Otis Hall Construction, $396,842 and Neilson and Co., $399,880.

With the seven per cent architectural and engineering fees thrown in, the total cost of the fire station would be about $420,000.

Councilmen Henry Woodall, Paul Ostyn and Stephen Lincoln were appointed to a subcommittee to study cost-cutting alternatives for the station, including the possibility of no new fire station at this time.

Cost estimates, which were used for budgeting, apparently couldn't keep up with skyrocketing construction costs.

Harold Gerber, city-hired architect for the fire station, said he "would have guessed initially at $20 to $22 per square foot" for the facility. The apparent low bid by Wills computes to more than $29 per square foot, he said.

The new building, as currently planned, will cover 13,400 square feet adjacent to and east of city hall.

Ostyn, at a recent City Council work session, asked Gerber why costs for the building were allowed to climb over $300,000. The architect knew he should work within the budgeted amount, according to Ostyn.

Ostyn also suggested that the council should have been advised by Gerber when it became apparent that costs would exceed the budgeted amount.

Gerber said he was not able to give a final estimate of the costs until "all the plans were in," apparently just before the bids were taken.

The architect submitted an "up-dated" cost estimate of $397,000 on October 24, two days before the bids were opened.

Ostyn said Gerber, "by his own figures, is in $67,000 over what we asked."

"Perhaps you (Gerber) designed an ideal station geared to the demands of the fire chief" and other fire department officials, Ostyn said.

Gerber said, with the possible exception of a day room and lounge, the fire station "will be pretty much a basic operation," without luxuries.

"With three companies bidding, I think we got a good figure," the architect said.

"The only way to save money now," according to Gerber, "would be to lower program requirements," a move that the architect apparently did not favor.

He also indicated that drawing up new plans for the station would only result in higher costs.

"If the plans are redrawn, with less square footage, the bids might come in around $32 a square foot," he warned.

Gerber did offer to charge the city for engineering fees only, excluding architectural fees, if the building is redesigned.

The city had planned to spend $550,000 in revenue sharing funds for the fire station and a new police facility; $300,000 for fire and $250,000 for police.

Gerber was asked if the city could save money by building facilities in the fire station that would serve both firemen and policemen, including showers, day rooms, dispatch rooms and physical exercise rooms.

Gerber said "you're going to have to go very Spartan on the fire station" if it was redesigned to stay within the $550,000 figure.

Jerome gets jail funds

JEROME — Jerome County Commissioner Claude Bernard said Tuesday that Jerome will receive $100,000 to help build new jail facilities adjacent to the county courthouse.

Bernard said that Jerome County has been notified that $100,000 in matching funds have been made available to Jerome from the State Law Enforcement Planning Agency.

"We have been formulating plans for an addition to the courthouse for a year now. The total amount of the construction is figured to be between $400,000 to $450,000," Bernard said. He explained that the $100,000 would be matched with county funds that have been accumulated over the past several years from the available funds portion of the budget. "The remainder of the cost will come from federal revenue sharing funds," Bernard said.

"The present plans being drawn up by the architect firm of Sunberg, Sunberg, Idaho Falls, calls for a three story addition to be located on the south side of the courthouse about 50 by 70 foot in size. The new addition will provide new jail facilities and law enforcement office for the sheriff and the Jerome City police as well. The city police will be moved from the city hall and all of the communications will be located in the new addition," Bernard said.

"Also the new addition will provide office space for the prosecutor who now provides his own office outside the courthouse. An additional courtroom will also be provided as well as other office space which will help to ease the now crowded conditions at the courthouse," Bernard said.

Bernard said construction of the new building is expected to begin sometime after the first of the year. The county commissioners will meet with the architects today and as soon as the plans are formulated a public hearing will be held, possibly some time next month, Bernard said.

Price cost squeeze told for farmer

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — Farmers are getting to experience price cost problems two to three years from now at higher prices than they are now used to, Dr. Don Paarlberg said Wednesday.

Dr. Paarlberg, director of agricultural economics for the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, spoke to about 50 members of the Idaho Cooperative Council (ICC) at its annual meeting in Burley.

Dr. Paarlberg foresaw "some squeeze on farm income" in the coming years but said 1974 would be "essentially a good year, not better than this year, but better than prior years."

"1974 earnings will fall off and prices paid by the farmer will continue to rise," he said.

In 1973 farmers saw "the best crop in history at the highest price in history," Dr. Paarlberg said. Harvests were a record six per cent above any previous levels, he said, and in spite of "more crises than I can ever remember having in one year."

Some say the current situation is a "new era" when growing world affluence, the opening of new trade markets and the rapid growth of world population will make food relatively scarce; food prices higher and farmer incomes higher, Dr. Paarlberg told ICC members.

Others predict that this is another "boom and bust" situation similar to those in the middle 1940s and 1960s, he said, "but this thing is

New store opens in TF

TWIN FALLS — The new K mart discount department store opened this morning on Addison Avenue East and Eastland Drive.

The Twin Falls store will be the second in Idaho operated by the S. S. Kresge Co., operator of K marts, according to John E. Nance, local manager.

The first Kmart opened in a Detroit suburb in 1962 and today's opening of the Twin Falls store and a similar one in Fort Ogden, Ga., bring the number of stores to 652 in the United States, Puerto Rico, Canada and Australia.

Nance said the Kresge firm expects to open 23 more K marts before the year is over and more than 100 are planned across the country in 1974.

More than 135 area residents have been employed at the store and additional personnel will be hired part-time during the holiday seasons, Nance said.

The store carries over 40,000 different items, including everything from an auto-service center to household goods and features a snack bar. Its floor space — 66,000 square feet — is considered the largest located all on one floor of any Twin Falls business.

MV ambulance owner defends Gooding service

TWIN FALLS — Cloyce Edwards, owner of Magic Valley Ambulance Service, of which Gooding Ambulance Service is a part, today defended the service which was reportedly criticized in a hearing in Gooding Monday.

Edwards said a Times-News article covering the meeting did not give full details and greatly overplayed the "criticism."

He said a statement of a 6-minute delay in getting an ambulance to an accident scene outside of the city limits is not explained.

"Six minutes to get an emergency vehicle from the ambulance base in town to a scene outside of town is good time," he said, "and I don't believe officers can be critical of that kind of service."

There was also a complaint of a 45 minute wait at an accident scene, Edwards said.

"Our dispatch sheets cover every call received since last March when the Gooding Ambulance Service began operation. In that time only one instance of a delay of up to 45 minutes is recorded.

"This was an exceptional situation," Edwards said. "We keep three ambulances in Gooding City when only two would meet requirements. All three were on emergency calls when the accident in question occurred."

Aides rule on rim zone

Real estate agent John Bishop, secretary-treasurer of Lynwood Development Co., told those attending the Tuesday meeting the project would include a public path along the canyon rim with a stone and wrought-iron spiked fence to protect the public from falling into the canyon.

Lynwood architect Richard Hiendel said the development will be designed to retain the "soft" feel of the present agricultural land. Most of the trees currently on the property will be retained, he said, with other trees planted.

Hiendel said the commercial buildings planned for the frontage along North Blue Lakes Boulevard will not be garish and will, of economic necessity, be high quality.

Most of those objecting to the zoning variance Tuesday requested the county commissioners to delay acting on the project until the new county zoning ordinance had been approved.

The consensus of opponents to the development was that approval of the plan would set a precedent for the continued commercialization of Blue Lakes North and the residential development of the Snake River Canyon rim.

The opponents also asked that the development, rather than being flatly zoned for commercial use, be approved under a planned unit development (PUD) ordinance which is part of the proposed new zoning code.

Craig Neilson, an interest holder in and attorney for Lynwood, told the commissioners that to require the company to develop under the proposed PUD ordinance would place unwarranted restrictions on the project and set a precedent which would "severely curtail the development of local property by local developers."

Neilson said a PUD designation, which requires that a developer strictly follow plans as presented to and approved by a zoning board, was workable for large developers with more or less unlimited financing.

Lynwood, he said, could not afford to operate so inflexibly. Noting that a PUD "is structured so as to initially require a total financial and usage commitment," he said, "the only way that local development firms such as Lynwood Development Co. can successfully develop property is to move more slowly and to have the flexibility to reasonably alter the land use balance to meet the needs of the community as the various phases are completed."

Edwards said doctors from throughout Magic Valley assist in the training program, each giving instruction in his special field. Several work with each class, Edwards said.

He said the Gooding hospital staff of nurses and doctors have also been most cooperative with ambulance personnel and have expressed their approval with the service.

The two mortuaries which provide back-up service were also tied up.

"Our extra personnel did go to the scene well ahead of the 45 minutes mentioned and provided emergency treatment for the injured while an ambulance completed the first call and cleared for service again."

Edwards said Magic Valley Ambulance Service has made an all out effort to give prompt and efficient service. All ambulance personnel have received or are receiving the Ambulance Emergency Medical Technician training.

This is an 81 hour training program, Edwards said, under the direction of Everett Perry of DECS. It is a national training program designed to equip ambulance personnel with skills and knowledge for emergency care, handling and transportation of victims of accidents or illness until they reach the hospital emergency room.

Edwards said doctors from throughout Magic Valley assist in the training program, each giving instruction in his special field. Several work with each class, Edwards said.

today in brief

Crisis 'emergency'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Idaho's junior senator thinks the President needs to initiate a state of national emergency to deal with the energy crisis.

Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, said that government authority can bring the nation "to the point where our economy can take care of itself if we don't take the appropriate actions now."

He urged the use of emergency powers under the Defense Production Act to deal with "immediate problems immediately."

Inflation main concern

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A poll Rep. Orval Hansen conducted of 16,000 Idahoans indicated inflation was the major concern of his constituents.

He said inflation topped a list of 14 major issues and outranked the energy shortage and law enforcement.

He said other concerns included tax reform, national defense, environment, agriculture, drug abuse, education, individual suggestions, unemployment, health insurance and housing.

School trustees meet

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — Idaho school district trustees will vote on 25 resolutions during a meeting in Pocatello, including a resolution seeking a $14 million increase in state general funds for public schools for 1974-75.

Nearly 300 local school district trustees are attending the meeting at Idaho State University which will conclude Saturday.

ISBA President Allan Stanley said the group's $14 million school figure "is a realistic sum on studies made in all of the state's 150 school districts."

He said several proposals before the group are likely to "stir some controversy."

Election invalid?

PINEHURST, Idaho (UPI) — Because of a procedural error Tuesday's municipal elections in this small northern Idaho mining community may be invalidated.

City Clerk Sherry Krulitz said Wednesday.

Mrs. Krulitz said 20 people who were not registered were allowed to vote in the election, thus putting the whole thing in jeopardy.

Caretaker found safe

CASCADE, Idaho (UPI) — The caretaker of Deadwood Dam, reported missing on a trip from Cascade to his remote winter headquarters, was reported safe Wednesday night.

James Sims, about 55, became the object of a search in the Landmark-Deadwood area southeast of Cascade when he was reported missing.

A search and rescue party notified the Valley County Sheriff's Office they had found Sims, but because of poor communications the party was unable to report its location or details other than that Sims was okay.

Liquor contaminated

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — Pocatello police have arrested two women on charges of selling unlicensed liquor and issued warnings to residents to be aware that bootleg liquor in the area may be contaminated.

Garth Pinecock, Bannock County prosecutor, and Keith Mathews, of the Idaho Bureau of Liquor Law Enforcement, told Pocatello newsmen that an undercover agent recently purchased a pint of liquor that was contaminated from a private individual.

Mathews said laboratory analysis showed the liquor was 100 proof and contained vodka, water and urine.

200 sheep killed

TWIN FALLS — A large Twin Falls-based truck-trailer carrying several hundred head of sheep overturned on Interstate 80 near Alta, Calif., yesterday killing some 200 of the sheep.

Officials of Tolman Livestock Co., Twin Falls, owners of the truck, said another truck out of California picked up the animals that were not killed. They were on the way to a slaughter house in San Francisco, officials said. The brakes apparently failed on the truck allowing it to go out of control and overturn.

Driver Kenneth Road, 29, Jerome, and relief driver, Jim Lockridge, 27, Jackpot, Nev., suffered minor injuries.

Concert presented

VALLEY SCHOOLS — The first concert of the Valley High School music department was well received by a large audience at the high school Tuesday evening.

Lerner and Lewy's "Camelot," performed by the concert band, climaxed the evening's varied musical program that was presented by the concert band, and chorus and cadet band and chorus.

Paul Larson, music instructor, conducted.

Choral accompanist was Debbie Hammond.

Approval expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, expects the U.S. Department of Interior to approve a leasing program for geothermal development.

Hansen said a report from the department said the effects of such development appear to be potentially less adverse than those that would result from generation of comparable amounts of electrical power by conventional means.

Debaters to compete

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Appellate oral debating teams from the University of Oregon and the University of Idaho will join 25 other teams for the National Moot Competition Nov. 26-28 in New York City.

Oregon's School of Law team successfully defended its title in the regional competition at Idaho with Idaho placing second. Both teams went into the final competition before members of the Idaho Supreme Court Saturday with 4-0 records.

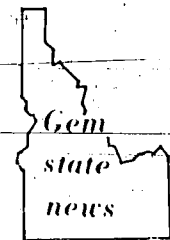

The two schools will represent the Northwest Regional District in the national contest with debates at the House of the Association of the Bar of the city of New York.

Bill introduced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has introduced a bill to keep the amount Medicare beneficiaries must pay as deductible before they can receive Medicare hospital benefits at $72 instead of increasing it to $84 in January.

Church said the scheduled 17 per cent increase could only cause financial harm to senior citizens.

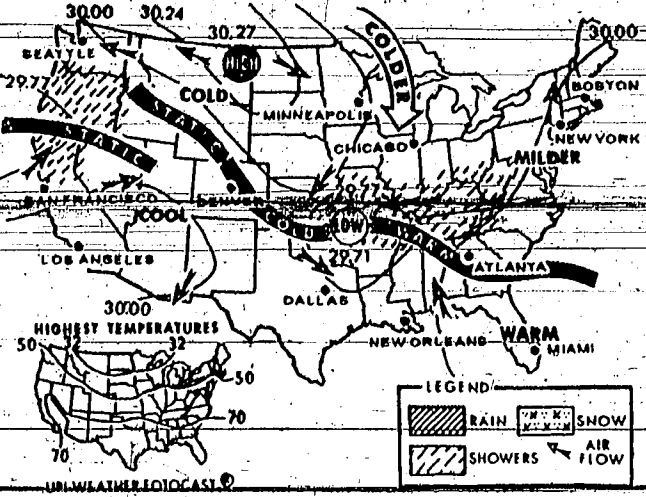

He said if the scheduled increase is allowed to take effect, the amount Medicare beneficiaries must pay before they receive hospitalization benefits will have increased by 110 per cent since December, 1968.

(c) N. Y. Times Service
MOSCOW — The Soviet Union displayed Wednesday what Western military specialists believe to be a new intercontinental ballistic missile — the first major new military hardware to be shown off in a Soviet parade since 1967. Observers were caught off guard by the sudden appearance of the missile near the end of the military display celebrating the 56th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

There was considerable uncertainty about the identification and capabilities of the missile, a pair of which were trucked through red square in long, cylindrical green jackets.

But the first estimate of western specialists was that the new weapon did not appear to violate the interim agreement reached in 1972 between the United States and Soviet Union on offensive strategic missiles. The agreement limits the number of strategic missile launchers without restricting qualitative improvements in the missiles themselves.

Tass, official Soviet News agency, singled out the strategic missile as reflecting the latest achievements of Soviet science and technology — a possible allusion to the multiple warheads that the Soviet Union is known to have been testing.

Hospital fee hike looming

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — The cost of most hospital stays would increase about 9 per cent next year under Phase 4 price regulations proposed by the Cost of Living Council.

Some hospitals, however, would be allowed greater increases and some would be held to smaller ones under the plan.

In announcing the proposed regulations Council officials said that the new controls would require hospitals to determine their annual budget needs in advance and to base their rate increases on the number of people they admit for bed care each year.

The health industry has been operating under the old Phase 3 and Phase 4 price controls. The new regulations are to take effect on Jan. 10. However, the council allowed a two-week period for comment and could make some changes.

Under the proposed Phase 4 regulations, hospitals treating the same number of patients next year as this year automatically would be allowed to increase their average charges 7.5 per cent but would have to get the council's permission for increases beyond that.

To that basic increase would be added charges to compensate a hospital for any investment in new services and equipment it makes. Council officials said yesterday that this provision would bring the over-all average increase in a typical patient's bill to a total of about 9 per cent.

State aide quits

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — Ray S. Cline, director of the State Department's Bureau of Intelligence and Research, has resigned effective Nov. 24, largely because of what he said was "frustration" with the difficulties created by the political climate in Washington.

Cline, who has had 31 years of service in the intelligence community, said in an interview today that he did not hand in his resignation because of the Watergate affair, as had been reported.

He also denied that his motive had to do with any planned cutbacks in the intelligence arm of the state department.

Cline denied Secretary of State Kissinger had any plans to eliminate the I & R Bureau or to phase its work into his personal staff or the National Security Council apparatus.

Tour responsibility lies with current PGA stars

PINEHURST, N.C. (UPI)—As the touring pros set chase after the richest prize in their history today, the question of "responsibility" still remains to be resolved.

In this case, the question of responsibility refers to the obligation the pro golfers owe the people who will have put up $3.3 million for the 47 PGA tour events on this year's calendar.

For example, the World

Open Golf Championship, which started its two-week run over the No. 2 and No. 4 courses at Pinehurst today, is offering a total purse of $500,000 with the winner's share standing at $100,000. Both figures represent new highs, yet for varying reasons five top stars have been missing from the field of 240.

Tom Weiskopf, Johnny Miller and Dave Hill are missing from the field of 240.

"This is a new step for golf and it's important that we work hard to make it a success," said Deane Berman, who has announced his candidacy to replace Joe Dey as Commissioner of the Tournament Players Division of the PGA. "We can't take lightly the responsibility of this tournament."

Yet, the pros are reluctant to give up their independent right to pick and choose where they will play. Many of them aren't quite sure where the solution lies.

"I find it hard to believe that some of the biggest names don't support the biggest money tournament," said Bob Murphy, who along with the PGA's top contenders, take home a lot of loot. "I've been putting up $500,000 for a tournament, I'd figure that every pro golfer who could put on his shoes would shoot for it."

"But I also feel these guys are being unfairly criticized for not playing just because there's big money here. If you come down to it, it's just another golf tournament with a different format. We should have the right to pick and choose where we want to play."

Houston coach declines to select team's top quarterback

HOUSTON (UPI)—Houston Oilers Coach Sid Gillman says the team has No. 1 quarterback, a statement that must mean a lot to Lynn Dickey, who led the Oilers to a victory over Baltimore last week, their first in 10 games.

"We don't have a No. 1 quarterback," Gillman said. "We have three great quarterbacks. I will not delegate one No. 1."

Dickey right now is working with the first team. Dan Pastorini, who started the team's first seven games, is available and Edd Hargott, the New Orleans Saints' castoff, is the team's third signal-caller.

"We will play this by the hour, minute, day and week," Gillman said. "Whoever is out there has got to move us to score. If he does not move us to score, he won't be out there. Dickey, who missed all last season because of a dislocated hip, is likely to start this Sunday against Cleveland.

Gillman, who as general manager acquired more than 20 new players this year by swapping draft choices like football cards, says he may not be through fooling with his roster.

"You may be surprised at some of the people we let go," Gillman said. "We can't wait (on them). We take films of every practice, every drill. It's quite calculating. It's not guessing. When you deal with the human element you make errors but we're going to reduce ours."

Among the players Gillman has traded was safety Ken Houston, who has been a standout with the Washington Redskins. It was Houston who tackled Dallas Cowboy fullback Walt Garrison at the line in the two teams' first meeting this year to preserve Washington's 14-7 victory.

But Gillman says he made no mistakes in any deals.

"Those people won't help us," he said. "They'll do for (other teams) what they do for us—zip. The biggest error we could make is if we kept them around."

"When we get rid of someone it's not because we're mad at them," he said. "It's because we can't play them."

Because of last week's win,

Gillman treated the team to champagne in place of the usual beer on the flight home.

"They're pros, sick of losing," he said. "They enjoyed it and the results—they drank champagne, not beer. Once you experience (winning) the second experience is easier."

Browns put players on suspicion

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Cleveland Browns Coach Nick Skorich bluntly warned Wednesday that any player not doing his best this season would be traded away.

"If the men don't start playing up to their capabilities, they'll be playing elsewhere next season," he said.

Next Sunday's opponent is the Houston Oilers, who have won only one game this year. Skorich feels they are a better team than their record and wants the Browns ready for the game.

Skorich said the Browns did not look sharp in losing to Minnesota 26-3 last week, referring particularly to the offensive unit which is a composite 12th among the 13 AFC teams.

"What disappointed me was that the offense didn't have enough intestinal fortitude to pick up the slack and say, 'we've got to get the job done because the defense is below par,'" he said.

"If it had done that, we could have won. The defense certainly went all out despite its health problems. The defense has pride in what it's accomplished."

Even with those missing there is still an exceptional international field competing here, and there is a good chance that the top money will go outside the United States.

There are 44 foreign entries, including Australia's Bruce Crampton, currently the second leading money winner on the tour with $273,351, and South Africa's Gary Player, always a threat and a man who has been playing well lately.

"This is one of the strongest international fields I've ever seen in one place and it truly has the flavor of a world championship," Player said.

"These are two exceptionally fine golf courses and it's unbelievable that we have a chance to win $100,000."

With the tournament being played this late in the year, cold and windy weather is a definite possibility and Player predicted that "the scores are going to be quite bad. But I've been playing well and I'm feeling confident."

Both the No. 2 and 4 courses, which will be used for the first four rounds, play to par 71, but No. 4 appears to be tougher. In the Joe DiMaggio World Celebrity Pro-Am on Wednesday, no one was able to break par on No. 4 and only Jim Jamieson could equal it.

On No. 2, both Jerry Heard and Charles Coody were three-under-par at 68 and Arnold Palmer, Sam Snead, Miller Barber and Bobby Nichols all shot 70.

The field will be cut to the low 70 and ties after Sunday's fourth round, and the survivors will go at it again for another 72 holes on No. 2 next Wednesday to Saturday.

Course closes

TWIN FALLS—The Twin Falls golf course will close for the winter season Monday.

Clyde Thomsen, professional, said persons with clubs in their lockers should get them before Veterans day. The Pro shop will be open for Christmas shoppers from after Thanksgiving through Dec. 24, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Allen sees no problem in comeback

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI)—Chicago White Sox first baseman Dick Allen took batting practice here Wednesday and said he didn't think the broken leg suffered last June would affect his play.

"I don't think I'll be affected in any phase of my game," Allen said. "Right now it (the leg) feels fine."

Allen worked out lightly in the batting cage and did not face live pitching.

"He said he wants to do some infield practice and will stay here a few more days before returning to his home at Wampum, Pa."

"I'm ready to go right now," Allen told sportswriters after taking his cuts. This is the first time I've ever been in a uniform in November."

Allen suffered the leg injury at Anaheim, Calif. June 28 in a collision at first base with Mike Epstein of the Angels.

He stayed in the game for a couple of plays and was then helped off the field. He came back four weeks later but only for three games.

He finished the year with a batting average of .316, 16 home runs and 41 runs batted in.

Indiana tops ABA Carolina

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Guards Kevin Joyce and Bill Keller combined for 45 points Wednesday night to lead Indiana to a 109-100 American Basketball Association win over the Carolina Cougars.

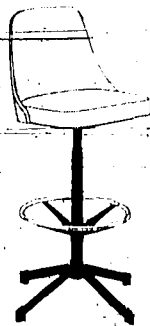

Rookie Joyce, acquired recently by the Pacers after being dropped by an NBA team, rained in 23 points to lead the balanced Indiana attack while Keller, one of the smallest pro guards at 5-foot-11-inches, had 22.

The game between the two league rivals looked like a runaway in the first period after Indiana sprinted to a 10-point lead at 28-18. But Carolina, behind the shooting of Billy Cunningham, closed to two at the half, 50-48. The score was knotted heading into the final stanza, 70-70.

Wings can coach

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Red Wings fired coach Ted Garvin Wednesday night 12-game into his rookie season in the National Hockey League and replaced him with 22-year veteran Alex Delvecchio.

Steelhead success reported

SALMON—The Idaho Fish and Game Department checked 49 anglers Saturday at North Fork who had caught 25 steelhead on the Salmon River below that community.

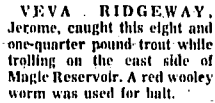

Dan Corley, regional fisheries biologist, said the 49 anglers had spent 17.3 hours per fish.

Sunday, 45 anglers were checked with 24 fish for 16 hours per fish.

The number of hatchery fish in the catch was 48 per cent on Saturday and 39 per cent on Sunday.

Corley said that steelhead fishing has improved since the first part of the season but currently the pressure is down.

Buckeyes, Michigan bide time 'til game

By GARY KALE, UPI Sports Writer
Although it's two weeks away, the anticipated crunch between top-ranked Ohio State and No. 4 Michigan is sending vibes through the Big Ten Conference.

The two schools are rated one-two in national scoring defense, with Ohio State the stingiest at a 2.9 point a game yield to 5.4 for the Wolverines. In total defense, the Buckeyes are ranked fourth in the nation, allowing an average of 103.6

yards a game. Michigan is fifth at 214.6.

Both are scoring powerhouses. Ohio State takes a 38.7 mark, fifth best in the country, against Michigan State Saturday and it's a good bet the average will increase as Coach Woody Hayes unleashes Archie Griffin against the Spartans.

Michigan, lighting up the scoreboard at a 33.1 point-a-game clip, 10th best among major colleges, faces an Illinois team that was smeared, 30-0, by Ohio State last week.

The Wolverines have no individual scoring leader among the top 25, but the diversification of touchdown production makes them more potent since the opposition can't rely on any one player too often. In last Saturday's 49-13 win over Indiana, Chuck Heater and Ed Shuttlesworth scored two TD's each, quarterback Dennis Franklin scored on a 49-yard run, Gordon Bell romped 29 yards and Bob Thornblad went over from the 10.

Second-ranked Alabama, the likely candidate for the No. 1 spot should Ohio State suffer an unlikely upset by Michigan State, is rolling toward a collision course with seventh-ranked Louisiana State on Thanksgiving Day. The two schools are idle this weekend but pick up the following Saturday when Alabama takes on Miami of Florida and LSU plays Mississippi State.

No. 3 Oklahoma can go a long way toward clinching the Big Eight title if the Sooners get by Missouri Saturday. Oklahoma has been held under double figures just once this season and that was a 7-7 tie with Southern Cal. Missouri won its first six games and then lost to Colorado before rebounding against Kansas State.

That "Cheer, Cheer for Old Notre Dame" will be heard in Pittsburgh this Saturday as the fifth-ranked Fighting Irish meet an improved Panther squad.

"They may kill us, but I'm looking forward to this game," says Pittsburgh coach Johnny Majors. "I don't think it's going to take a miracle to beat them, but we're going to have to play a very good ball game."

Majors bases his hopes on freshman sensation Tony Dorsett, the only rusher in Pitt history to gain 1,000 yards in a season.

No. 5 Penn State should have no difficulty rolling over North Carolina State, despite the Wolfpack's recent 56-35 romp over South Carolina. N.C. State's defense is vulnerable Oregon (2-6) and the Trojans play Stanford (5-3).

Defense is byword of Ohio State team

NEW YORK (UPI) — One word can summarize Ohio State's ranking as the No. 1 college football team in the nation—defense.

The Buckeyes have been practically impossible to score against this season.

According to the latest team defensive statistics released today by the National Collegiate Sports Services, Ohio State has allowed its opponents only 2.9 points per game in compiling a 7-0 record. That statistic is by far the best in the land.

Fourth-ranked Michigan, the Buckeyes' rival for the Big Ten Conference title, rates second in defense against scoring with an average of 5.4 points yielded a game and fifth-ranked Notre Dame stands third with a 5.9 average.

The Irish are the best in total defense with a yield of only 103.6 yards per game and sixth-ranked Penn State is the best against the rush, giving up only 45.8 yards a game.

Nebraska, surrendering only 40.9 yards a game, rates as the best in pass defense and Wake Forest boasts the best punting average of 40.2 yards per kick.

Bucks batter Lakers 109-92

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 22 points and had 22 rebounds to pace the Milwaukee Bucks to an easy 109-92 win over the Los Angeles Lakers in a National Basketball Association game Wednesday night.

The Lakers, who played without Jerry West, were outclassed from the start as the Bucks built a 30-24 first quarter lead and extended it throughout the game.

West aggravated an abdominal muscle strain and, after testing the injury prior to the game, decided he could not play.

The much-anticipated duel between Abdul-Jabbar and Laker center Elmore Smith never came off. Smith, who has a fractured cheekbone and missed one game, was ineffective in limited action. He had only seven points and eight rebounds and no blocked shots.

Colonels run to 11th win

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The Kentucky Colonels, off to the best start of any team in ABA history, clobbered the Memphis Tams 113-89 Wednesday night for their 11th victory in 12 games behind Dan Issel's 30 points and 19 rebounds.

The Colonels cracked the game open in the third quarter when they outscored Memphis, 28-15, to pull away from a 53-51 halftime lead. Issel, the league's leading scorer, pumped in 12 points in this period.

The best previous start in the ABA was a 9-2 record posted by Oakland in 1968 and Utah in 1970.

Squires keep Nets on skids

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Second year forward-guard George Gervin scored 26 points, 17 of them in the final period, as the Virginia Squires handed the New York Nets their seventh straight loss Wednesday night, 111-107.

The turnover-prone Squires trailed by as many as 17 points in the third period, but rallied to go ahead with six minutes remaining in the game, paced by Gervin's accurate jump shots and hooks.

With 33 seconds remaining and the score tied 107-107, Gervin sank a pair of key free throws to give the Squires the lead and Virginia iced the game on a Swen Nater stuff shot in the final seconds, after Julius Erving missed a short jumper for the Nets.

Erving's appearance marked his first return to Virginia.

ISU hopes to spoil BSC's title dream

POCATELLO — Idaho State hopes to assume the spoiler's role in the Big Sky Conference, starting with Saturday's game between the Bengals and powerful Boise State College. Game time is 8 p.m. in the ASISU Mini-dome.

In the past ISU has successfully spoiled Boise's title hopes. In 1971 the Bengals dropped BSC 21-17 to give Idaho the league championship.

However, in 1972 the Broncos returned the favor. Needing only a win in Boise, ISU dropped a 31-28 decision to give Montana State the outright title.

1973 sees Boise with a 5-0 league mark, Montana State at 5-1. Should the Broncos win they will hold the championship outright. A loss to ISU means they would share the championship with MSU.

Idaho State stands 2-4 on the season following a wet 21-13 win over Portland State in a non-league encounter, while Boise is 6-2 after dropping a controversial 23-21 game to Nevada Reno on the last play of the game after time had officially expired.

The Broncos were tops in NCAA Division II scoring and total offense stats prior to last week's game and according to ISU Coach Bob Griffin, "Boise has the two best quarterbacks, three of the best receivers, and their offensive and defensive lines rate with the best in the Big Sky Conference. They are 5-0 in the Big Sky and when you look at their people you see why."

The quarterbacks are Ron Autele and Jim McMillan. The former has started all year, except when hurt, and the latter leads the league in total offense with 1189 yards, 305 of it rushing and 884 passing. He's hit 59.6 per cent of his passes for 10 TDs, with only four interceptions. Autele has completed 52 per cent of his passes for 504 yards and has run for 170 yards. He's known as the Samoan scrambler.

They throw to the Huff brothers, Don and Terry, and Eric Bonhoe. Don Huff grabbed 36 for 572 yards, Terry 15 for 218 yards, and Donhoe 22 for 308 yards.

Surprisingly, the Broncos have rushed for more yardage than they have gained in the air. Halfback John Smith (his real name) has 537 yards and a 7.0 average. The rest of the yardage (266.9 per game) is spread out over about 10 other running backs.

Their massive defensive line averages 233 pounds, and their even bigger offensive line has a mean of 244 pounds. Biggest defensive player is tackle Ron Franklin, the transplanted eager, at 6-0, 260-lbs. The Hawaiian fireplug, Charlie Russell, is an offensive tackle at 6-0, 260-lbs. Cornerback Greg Frederick is all-league in 1972.

ISU returns to some semblance of health following a trip to Portland on which 18 freshmen made the traveling squad. 42 players saw action in a game that resembled a contest held on a green sponge in a shower with the water turned on. There were 22 fumbles, 15 of which were lost, in the game and the less said about it the better except for Griffin's comment. "The conditions were as bad as you'll ever play under. Many of our people were at new positions and we had a good effort from them. We hope we can build on the good effort for the Boise game." Griffin went on to praise the team effort given by Portland State. The Vikings trailed 21-0 but came from behind in the fourth quarter behind quarterback Anthony Stoudanice to challenge ISU.

Defensive end Mark Kastlahn won conference Defensive Player of the Week honors after recovering three fumbles and sacking the passer twice.

"This week's game is a great struggle against the odds for us," Griffin continued. "We count on being at a great emotional pitch to cause what we hope will be a big upset. There's no doubt Boise deserves to be a strong favorite." Griffin concluded by explaining that he didn't think talent would decide the game. He said he felt that the team at the highest emotional pitch would be the winner.

ISU came out of the Portland game with no injuries, except for the hip bruise guard Joe Moreno suffered. Jim McCarthy replaces him as a starter. Several players are expected to return to the starting lineup after a week or two layoff. Cornerback Greg Mathis, fullback Ken Monroe, and offensive tackle Gary Jamini are included in that category.

Steel shot idea meets resistance

(c) N. Y. Times Service
NEW YORK — There are many thoughtful wildlife biologists and hunters who are far from convinced that the current move toward making the use of steel shot mandatory for waterfowling is a good thing.

All would agree that substantial numbers of ducks and geese die each year from lead poisoning as a result of spent lead shot they have ingested. Estimates of this toll have run as high as 2 or 3 per cent of the continent's waterfowl population of 100 million birds, but one question is whether more birds would be lost by crippling because of the ballistic inferiority of steel pellets to those of lead.

Early this fall, the United States Department of the Interior said that should a bureau of sports fisheries and wildlife study make it seem advisable, a ban on lead shot might be instituted in one of the nation's four major waterfowl flyways in the 1974-1975 hunting season.

Faced with enormous pressure from various conservation organizations, the federal government clearly must move ahead in this matter, but, to some observers at least, all the evidence has not been thoroughly examined.

For example, Nolan G. Perret, a coordinator of habitat and resource development of the Canadian wildlife service, has reported the pellets made of powdered iron and lead may offer the best solution yet found to the problem.

These combination pellets, 50 per cent lead by volume, were found, said Perret, to be only "slightly toxic" to mallards fed on a whole corn diet. Ducks living on such a diet, a condition that would occur only in the corn belt area of the continent are more susceptible to lead poisoning. Those birds enjoying a balanced diet have a higher resistance to the poisoning.

In one experiment, ducks maintained on a whole corn diet for 48 days were fed from one to four of the combination pellets. At the end of that period, they were in good condition and showed no signs of lead poisoning. A control group of birds fed similar numbers of ordinary lead pellets suffered heavily. At the end of the 48 days they were either dead or showed signs of lead poisoning.

The combination pellets, which are produced by a sintering process, are ballistically superior to steel and deliver nearly as much energy to the target as those of lead. In addition, they apparently do little or no damage to gun barrels. Steel shot, tests have shown, can cause barrel deformation.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—A generally favorable reaction to President Nixon's energy proposals helped stocks open sharply higher Thursday in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was up 3.69 to 923.17, shortly before the opening. Advances led declines by a three-to-one margin, among the 378 issues traded.

On Wednesday, the list scored a modest rebound as bargain hunters entered the picture after one of the worst seven-day declines in Exchange history. The Dow gained 7.00 to 920.00, but analysts noted trading had grown increasingly cautious the past two weeks against a background of Watergate, the Middle East and fuel shortages.

President Nixon's energy message Wednesday night will have immediate and widespread impact on stocks, analysts say.

Security tight for Golda's US visit

By REV. LESTER KINSOLVING
Times-News Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The security provisions appeared to be every bit as tight as those for the President of the United States, when the elderly lady with the rugged features walked across the stage of the hotel ballroom and took the podium.

The ballroom was cut in half with a curtained partition — so that anyone coming in the front door could not see the stage. As double precaution there was at this front door an enormous barrel-chested security officer who looked ferocious, came from Israel, and refused to answer any questions.

Neither did the two dozen additional security men from Israel, or the six U.S. Secret Service men who stood in front of the stage, their eyeballs oscillating in constant inspection of the crowd of some 200 reporters and photographers, all of whose credentials had been carefully checked.

For the lady on the stage is perhaps the best known woman in the world. She is the leader of a nation still at war, even though a cease-fire has taken virtual effect.

Her voice does not match her rugged visage — although there is no mistaking its command caliber, which motivated one of her predecessors, Prime Minister David Ben Gurion, to refer to Golda Meir as "The only man in my cabinet."

Quietly, but with an almost dramatic forcefulness, she opened with a brief and unpretentious statement and went almost directly to fielding of reporters' questions.

She denied that there has been any U. S. pressure to withdraw from occupied territories, and noted:

"There has been no pressure to withdraw to the battle line of Oct. 22, because no one can possibly know where that battle line was at 6:32 p.m. If someone starts shooting at an army you can't expect it to stand still."

Would there have been such promotion of a cease fire by Soviet Russia had Arab tanks broken through the Sinai?

She flashed a wry smile. "The Security Council always seems to become unusually aroused when we do well in battle."

There was no smile however, when another woman asked about the idea that Israel should give back Golan Heights, East Jerusalem and Sharm El Sheik, or approve a Palestinian buffer state on the West Bank of the Jordan.

"Jerusalem can never again be a divided city. It will remain the capital of Israel," she replied. "We will not agree on another Arab country between us and Jordan. Fifty per cent of the government of Jordan has been Palestinian. That is their country."

In answer to the Times-News question as to reported criticism of her government by Israeli citizens because the Arabs were allowed to strike first, Mrs. Meir responded: "I haven't read one newspaper in Israel — and we have a lot of papers, thank heaven — that says we should have launched a preventative attack. As for criticism you may have heard about General Dayan, there are still a lot of people in Israel who think a lot of him — including me."

The Israeli prime minister seemed to evade another of the Times-News questions, relating to one of her cabinet ministers, Menachem Begin, who resigned his post in 1972 in protest of the Israeli government's acquiescing to the installation of Russian SAM missiles along the Suez Canal.

Has Mrs. Meir had second thoughts about this?

"We are so busy thinking about the present and the future that we don't have any time to consider such things of the past."

She was then asked by one newsman whether she thought that the U.S. might be mistaken in supporting only three million Israelis while offending nearly 100 million Arabs — who control lots of oil.

Her response was direct and dramatic.

"Why is it surprising when a big power believes that a small country should not be allowed to be dumped into the sea?"

"Neville Chamberlain thought he could achieve peace

TF Optimist Club meets each Thursday

TWIN FALLS — Optimist Club members will meet each Thursday noon at the Black Whale Inn.

In last week's meeting they voted to donate $100 to the YMCA "biddy basketball" program for the purchase of T-shirts for the young players.

Membership fees were also increased by $5 to cover the cost of vests to be supplied to each member.

by selling out a small country. But all he got was war."

Then the former Milwaukee school teacher told the assembled press:

"If for the sake of all the United States would sacrifice the lives of millions of people, it is not the American I once knew."

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A 40-year-old man who is a neighbor of mine, and also a friend, goes out to get his morning paper in the nude.

I have told him that this is against the law, but he says as long as he is on his property they can't arrest him. I told him, it didn't make any difference, it was still against the law.

I am afraid they will catch him and lock him up. Will you please print this. There are lots of children in the neighborhood, and I don't think this is very nice. Sign me WORRIED IN FORT PIERCE, FLA.

'Nude' nuisance

DEAR WORRIED: Laws differ, but your neighbor should find out if he's within the law to be without clothes even on his own property in view of the neighbors. What could they charge him with? Indecent exposure, or being an attractive nuisance?

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote that she had been married 27 years, and all she was good for was sex. One is struck by her incapacity to realize that she must be one fantastically creative, imaginative, responsive female to have made sex so exciting for the same man for 27 years.

She says she's "the world's worst cook and housekeeper, and not good at anything except sex"—as if sex was a bad thing to be good at.

One could easily change the letter around. A woman may have written in saying all she was good for was cooking, and that's the only reason her husband married her, and now they are both overweight, and their lives are devoid of everything except the pleasures of eating. That would be worse, wouldn't it?

Or she might have said she was the world's greatest housekeeper, but since she didn't have a passionate nature, her husband went out and paid prostitutes, or kept mistresses to fulfill his sexual needs. Sadder, but more believable, right?

I was married for years to a man who found my sexual nature both irritating and intimidating. Since he really didn't enjoy either physical or emotional intimacy, and since he mostly wanted me to be an excellent cook and housekeeper (neither of which I am or ever will be), our relationship was singularly lacking in closeness, friendship, and love.

Luckily, I since have left that marriage and have found a man who appreciates a woman who is passionate, responsive, and sexually creative.

After six years of this fulfilling relationship, please tell that poor woman for me that I have been there, too—both ways. And believe me, this way is better!

"LIVING" IN RIVERSIDE, CAL.

DEAR ABBY: We are studying about reproduction in school. The book says that a female can become pregnant only during a two to four day period every month, but it doesn't say anything about a man. Does the man have a certain time when he is fertile, too?

I am embarrassed to ask the teacher because I don't want to sound dumb.

WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR WANTS: First: There is nothing "dumb" about your question—in fact, no question is "dumb" if it's sincere, so never hesitate to ask. The male is fertile on a nonstop basis throughout his reproductive life.

TWIN FALLS — Second event of the season for the Magic Valley Community Concert will be a harpsichordist whose mother lived in Magic Valley.

Ilse Foerstel Bliss, founder and director of the New Collegium-Museum of Long Island, N.Y., will present a concert at 3 p.m. Sunday at the CSI Fine Arts auditorium. She is the daughter of the late Arthur and Susan Bliss.

Ilse Bliss has visited in the Magic Valley many times. The game at Glamis castle was taking its usual course. MacDuff, the best player in Scotland, was winning as usual. He had tried to quit but MacBeth had commanded "Play on, MacDuff!" and he had agreed to one last rubber.

Both sides were vulnerable. MacDuff had reached a spade game in accordance with the principle that good cards seem to fall to good players.

MacBeth opened the king of diamonds. He continued with the ace and queen. MacDuff thought a while and discarded the deuce of hearts.

MacBeth thought a while. "I should have asked those witches about bridge. They prophesied that I would bethane of Cawdor and later King of Scotland. That is a great omen, but I would like to beat this MacDuff just once at something."

"The witches could predict the future," MacBeth could make MacBeth into a good bridge player. His best play would have been to lead a trump and wait for MacDuff to play the other suits but the deuce of hearts fascinated him. Finally MacBeth led a heart and MacDuff made the rest of the tricks.

Note that MacDuff's deuce of hearts was a sure loser some time in the play. He elected to lose it early in hope that MacBeth left an lead would shift to a heart.

Soviets end Arab airlift

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has halted its arms airlift to Egypt and Syria, apparently relying now on a massive seafleet to deliver weapons to the Arabs, according to Pentagon sources.

The sources said an American arms airlift to Israel was continuing at a reduced rate. They predicted it would be at least a week before a steadily increasing seafleet using U.S. ships and Israeli-owned or chartered vessels could take over the full job of delivering weapons to Israel.

As of Tuesday, sources said the U.S. airlift was running about 10 to 17 flights a day, down slightly from a peak level of just over 20 flights daily.

The Soviet airlift tapered off from an average of 20 flights a day early last week to three flights on Friday and six on Saturday, sources said, with no flights on Sunday or Monday.

The sources speculated the Soviet airlift was stopped because the Middle East ceasefire ended the need for emergency arms replacement and because a seafleet, although slower, can deliver more cargo at less cost.

Finishing touches

FINAL PHASES of a lift renovation program, are underway at Pomerelle with resort owners looking toward a Nov. 16 opening date. Rick Anderson, on the ladder, and Claude Jones are among those working on lift improvement. Here they are working on the upper ballwheel of the chair lift.

Pomerelle plans to open Nov. 16

POMERELLE — Opening of the 1973-74 ski season at Pomerelle south of Burley is planned on Nov. 16.

A. W. Anderson, new owner of the resort, said there is sufficient snow for good skiing and plans are pending completion of a few more pre-season chores.

He said the resort's chair lift has been completely renovated with seven braking systems and numerous other improvements.

Plans call for a free ski day for all interested skiers Nov. 16, followed by a regular weekend of operation.

The resort will operate on a daily basis through the winter with bus service every Saturday and Sunday, during Christmas holidays and all holidays.

A meeting will be held this Sunday at 2 p.m. at the lodge for all Pomerelle ski instructors or those interested in attending clinic sessions and instructing at the resort this winter.

Approximately 15 inches of snow covers the runs at the area with a freezing rain last week having turned early snow into a hard base covering the runs. About 6 inches of new snow fell at the area Monday.

Canadians overweight

OTTAWA (UPI) — More than half the Canadian population is overweight, according to a comprehensive national nutrition study released Tuesday.

The nutrition Canada survey, described by officials as the most complete national study conducted by any country, also reported that income is not a major factor in nutrition nor is overeating the clearest cause of overweight.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Did I ever tell you about old Henry Heidemann? As a boy, I cleaned trail with him one summer for the U.S. Forestry Service in Washington State. Heidemann claimed he never apologized for anything. On the theory the apology sometimes turned out to be worse than the insult, "You've heard about the king's jester in the court?" said he. "One day he jumped up behind the king, who was bending over, and booted His Majesty in the Royal posterior. That disturbed the king a little, son. Then the jester made his second mistake. He said, 'Your pardon, sire, I thought you were the Queen.' No, I never apologize."

Writes a Pennsylvania girl: "When I told my husband that our marriage was in danger, because he was burning the candle at both ends, he just shrugged and asked where he could get more wax. I'm through!" That's not good. It's bad.

"Defenselessness" is not the only English word that repeats the letter "o" six times with no other vowels, but can you think of any other such word?

KARATE
Q. "How many different belts are there in karate?"
A. Six. Yellow, red, blue, green, purple, brown and black.

Q. "What do the English mean when they refer to a cooker?"
A. That's an oven.

Q. "Ever do any gambling, Louis?"
A. Certainly. Lost $3.5 billion, in fact, in a bet with the Ladyfriend on the World Series. But won it all back plus $1.5 billion on subsequent Monday night football. We plunge some.

And now there are more TV sets, too, than bathtubs hereabouts.

GROWING BALD?
Medical historians say the first known written prescription was for a hair restorer. It called for massage with hippopotamus fat—still, that's not the point. Point is that men have been worried about growing bald for just about as many centuries as they have been worried about anything.

It's a rare politician who executes a powerful handshake. But this signifies no lack of self-assurance. Politicians shake hands so much they choose to grip lightly. Another professional man who almost never bears down hard in the handshake is the physician. I'm told The why of that remains unexplained.

Kind of like these Ozark sayings: "It ain't going to last till it's gone." "He'd tell the Devil how to run hell." "She keeps scratching where it don't itch." "Busier than a buzz saw in a pine knot." "Dull as a widow woman's ax." "Granted, there's a lot of Fostus Hagen in those, but why not?"

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Proceed with caution to gain the advance you wish in practical matters. Don't argue. Take the time to get the advice of bankers, businessmen before acting.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you move or act too quickly, you may make big errors, but taking too much time to reach decisions could be just as bad. Be sensible.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't blame yourself since others could be at fault instead. Benefit by improving health. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Keep promise you made, otherwise you get into trouble. Assist one who is having really rough sledding and forget own despondency.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't rely on a good friend who has problems, but work own angles. Out to that group affair, but don't lose your temper or your head.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Solve those problems connected with new outlets so they become successful. Handle civic matters efficiently. Save more money for the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study details and figures of some advanced plan you have and be sure they are exact. Make new associates who can be most helpful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use more modern methods in handling the routines that have been tedious in the past. Cement better relations with mate by doing what he or she likes to do.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get into all those details with an associate that will make some mutual outlet very profitable and put aside anything of a light nature.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try to please co-workers more even though it takes longer, and have greater harmony. Take the exercise that will improve your health.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Enjoy amusements you like and get away from present tensions of business. Reach better understanding with congenials. Avoid one with a bone to pick.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle home affairs so there is more harmony and health there. Show you're devoted. Get into details of some new project for greater success.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Stop and do important errands; get in touch with those who can help you advance. Use much care in motion. Don't permit some silly person to know you down.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who has to learn early to be most careful where details are concerned for true success. Teach early to take pains with such even at play. Teach also to keep main goals in mind and not forget them in the mass of details. Make sure this child gets plenty of rest early in life to build a strong body. Care in diet is important.

Error at bank nets windfall

OAKVILLE, Ont. (UPI) — Police said Wednesday they have traced to Chicago the movements of a young American who allegedly took advantage of an error on a $200 bank draft to collect nearly $200,000 in cash and travellers cheques.

Through an error in the New York branch of a Canadian bank, three zeroes were added to the figure and Garrett was informed Oct. 25 by the bank's Oakville branch that he had a $200,000 bank draft waiting for him, police said.

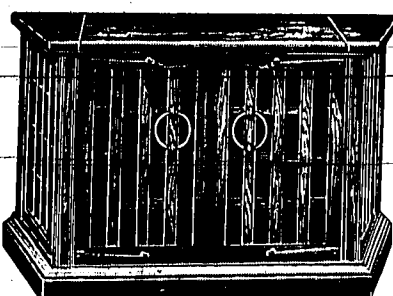

Garrett at the time was working for a car dealership firm. His employer said Garrett had told him he had been travelling around Canada for five months.

LP shortage threat to grain crop fades

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A threat of heavy grain losses this fall due to shortages of LP gas for crop-drying equipment apparently is fading, an Agriculture Department survey indicates. Liquefied petroleum (LP) gas has become an important production tool in major grain areas in recent years because much of the corn crop is harvested with a relatively high moisture content and must be dried with gas-fired equipment before it can be stored without danger of heavy spoilage losses.

In early harvest seasons, like 1972, the moisture content of grain coming out of the field is higher than usual and fuel needs for drying increase.

Earlier this fall, reports from some major grain areas carried warnings that propane gas supplies might not be adequate unless the government moved quickly to reserve stocks for farmers. However, a weekly survey of farm fuel and fertilizer conditions conducted by the Agriculture Department showed today that for the week ending Nov. 2, supplies of LP gas for crop drying were rated "generally satisfactory in most areas."

The report said the outlook brightened primarily because warm, dry weather during the past few weeks has left harvested grain with less moisture than anticipated. This automatically reduced the amount of fuel needed for post-harvest artificial drying.

Officials in the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), who are monitoring fuel and fertilizer conditions through their nationwide network of state and county offices, said LP shortages persisted in some localized situations. Also, officials warned, "a few states anticipate critical situations... for use in poultry and swine production as we move further into the winter."

The report noted that the ideal harvest season weather which eased crop drying problems has also — by stepping up harvesting and other field work — worsened another fuel pinch.

"Gasoline and diesel farm fuel supply ranges from adequate in a few states to short or critically short in about half the states," the report warned. It said the arrival of November fuel allocations will help farmers keep their tractors and other equipment running.

S. Idaho swine unit elects

TWIN FALLS. — The South Idaho Swine Growers Association elected directors Tuesday evening during the annual dinner meeting in the Holiday Inn here.

Serving as directors this year will be Clark Mills, Twin Falls; Dale Hopper, Jerome; Clair Daniels, Gooding; Gale Wrigley, Burley; Vernon Larsen, Piler; and Wilford Gebauer and Robert Kildow, both Paul.

The directors elected officers naming Gebauer as president; Hopper, vice-president, and Wrigley as secretary-treasurer.

Association members will be host to the state convention in Burley Nov. 28-29. Plans were made for the annual carcass show and sale in February.

Five barrows will be judged Feb. 20, the carcass show will be the evening of Feb. 21 and the bred gilt sale will be Feb. 22.

Directors said all animals to be in the show and sale this year must be validated for having brucellosis inoculations.

US wine industry expanding swiftly

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — A major revolution is currently underway in the U.S. wine industry, one of the country's leading wine experts said Monday.

Dr. Maynard A. Amerine, professor of enology at the University of California at Davis, said, "vineyard acreage in California has increased 25 percent in the past three years, the largest increase in history."

"Increasing Idaho and Washington acreage is being planted to vps," Amerine said in his appearance at the University of Idaho as an American Chemical Society speaker on wine research.

Amerine said he expected wineries to develop in numerous states since local wines always have an advantage over those imported because of loyalty to locally-made products.

He advised Idaho and Washington grape growers to consider wine grape varieties developed in New York and Russia which have similar winter-time conditions.

Calf scours meet set

TWIN FALLS — Information on the calf scours syndrome problem will be presented at a meeting in Twin Falls on Nov. 16.

The Magic Valley Cattlemen's Association will present the program, which is open to all interested beef and dairy operators, said George Peter, secretary treasurer of the association.

The program is set for 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the College of Southern Idaho mini-auditorium, with Dr. Raymond Miner, a representative of the Norden Laboratory at Lincoln, Neb., speaking.

Food prices drop in October, may bring easing of inflation

(c) New York Times Service — WASHINGTON — Wholesale prices declined in October for the second consecutive month, because of a drop in farm prices, the Labor Department reported Wednesday.

The 0.3 per cent decrease last month, following a 1.5 per cent drop in September, indicates that consumers can expect at least temporary relief from inflation at the retail level.

However, the strength of the moderate price trend is in doubt. Price movements have been distorted by the summer freeze and erratic post-freeze adjustments.

One danger signal in the report was the acceleration of price increases for industrial goods, which partly offset the decline in agricultural prices. The 0.3 per cent decline in the total wholesale price index last month was on a seasonally adjusted basis, to discount normal seasonal movements.

In absolute terms, without seasonal adjustments prices declined 0.5 per cent in October following a 1.8 per cent decrease in September.

The declines followed the huge August rise of 6.2 per cent seasonally adjusted and 5.8 per cent unadjusted.

Even with the two months of decreases, wholesale prices in October were 16.3 per cent higher than a year earlier. They have risen at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 18.3 per cent in the last three months, accelerating from a 12.2 per cent rate in the preceding three months.

Prices declined in July during the freeze imposed by President Nixon. They surged in August, when the freeze was removed from most goods, and have been settling back somewhat since then.

Wholesale prices of consumer foods — basically the prices paid by grocery stores — declined 1.6 per cent last month in absolute terms. This was slightly less than the usual decrease at that time of year, so these prices rose 0.3

per cent seasonally adjusted, following a 1.7 per cent decline in September.

Food prices at wholesale last month were 25.6 per cent higher than in October, 1972, and had risen at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 42.2 per cent in the latest three months.

There were sharp price drops last month for meats and poultry, and increases for vegetables, eggs, milk, bakery products and most other foods.

Consumer goods other than food increased 1.8 per cent seasonally adjusted and 2 per cent unadjusted, at wholesale last month, to a level 8.6 per cent above a year earlier.

There were notable price rises for gasoline and clothing.

Farm prices in October dropped 5.3 per cent seasonally adjusted and 6 per cent unadjusted, but still were 50.1 per cent higher than in October, 1972. Wholesale prices of processed foods and feeds decreased 1.4 per cent seasonally adjusted and 2 per cent unadjusted, and were 25.7 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Agricultural prices are erratic, but economists consider industrial prices most basic in assessing inflationary trends. There is concern that, even if farm and food prices moderate, a new surge in industrial prices may keep the inflation spiral rising.

Industrial prices last month were 0.1 per cent higher than in October, 1972.

Big price rises for fuels accounted for more than one third of the increase in the industrial category. There also were important increases for metals, new autos and trucks, clothing, textiles, chemicals, paper, machinery and a variety of other industrial goods.

Lumber and a few other products declined.

Snake storage below average

BURLEY — Carryover storage of water on the Snake River is below 1972 and median levels after a "dry" water year.

Carlos C. Randolph, Minidoka Project superintendent, said the 1973 irrigation year was a "dry one" although water was available to mature all crops.

Carryover storage as of Nov. 5 was 1.47 million acre feet, or 37 per cent of reservoir capacity, Randolph said. The carryover figure is 1.32 million acre feet below the 1972 carryover, and 313,000 acre feet below median level.

Randolph said water storage on the upper Snake River made the difference for the 1973 irrigation season, as those reservoirs were drafted heavily to meet irrigation demands.

The river is being regulated "in a conservative manner and is storing water to fill the reservoirs next year, even if 1974 proves to be another dry year," Randolph said.

The water supply outlook for 1973 is good at this time, he said.

Status of the storage in the various reservoirs includes:

- Island Park, 71,400 acre feet and holding;
- Jackson Lake, 608,110 a.f. and holding;
- Palisades, 732,000 a.f. and storing;
- Grassy Lake, 9,800 a.f. and storing;
- American Falls, 380,000 a.f. and storing;
- and Minidoka, 53,000 a.f. and holding.

Island Park Reservoir will begin storing water Nov. 15, he said.

Setback visible on road revenues

BOISE (UPI) — A highway planning survey manager says state road building revenues could suffer a severe setback if a shortage of motor fuels becomes acute in the months ahead.

Lawrence P. Sheesley told a legislative interim committee on study of highway needs the department is concerned especially about key motor fuels tax income and is watching the situation closely.

Sheesley said if revenues return to "normal" income will drop off only about 1.4 per cent despite decreases in July, August and September.

Highway engineer Vic Richardson told the committee the fuel shortage is pinching diesel oil allocations for snowplows.

SHRIVELED GRAPES ON SALE AT SWENSEN'S

What can you say about a raisin? They're certainly not pretty. Blackish, brownish little wrinkle skinned things — but, Oatmeal cookies are just not complete without ugly-delicious raisins. Neither is fruitcake, raisin pie, rice pudding and a lot of other things that need raisins. (Beauty is more than skin deep). Since we already advertised when we didn't have any raisins, we thought it only fair to advertise when we do have raisins. — Which we do right now!! And at a price that will make shriveled up grapes look truly beautiful.

Israel ready to war

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Hour after hour, giant U.S. Air Force Galaxy transports roar low over the parched Israeli countryside, touch down and unload still more tons of vital American arms.

Young Israeli soldiers on leave from the Suez Canal and the Golan Heights throng roadsides, thumbing rides home from passing drivers.

An American-built M-60 battle tank, still caked with the dust of Sinai, sits parked on a trailer heading for an army repair depot.

The uneasy, two-week-old, frequently broken cease-fire has brought a semblance of peace to Israel. But it still looks very much like a country at war—or on the verge of one.

The fear of a resumption of all-out fighting still weighs heavily on the minds of Israelis as U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger holds peace talks in Arab capitals.

The wartime blackout—foreigners say it was the blackest they have known anywhere—has been lifted. But most homes, hotels and offices have kept their dark curtains ready just in case.

At Tel Aviv's Lod airport, a notice in Hebrew and English tells travelers where to go in case of an air raid alert. Hotels keep candles in bedrooms. There are few buses in the streets. Taxis are hard to find.

The government said Monday every private auto must stay off the highway one day a week to conserve increasingly scarce gasoline.

Show planned

TICKETS to the annual barbershop show Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 are being handed by Claude Brown to Burton Hulsh, John Wells and Al Iverson. Theme of this year's show is "Those Old Records." The headline quartet will be Kidder and Sons Inc., a father and son group. Tickets may be purchased from any Magichord.

Tobacco smokers decline

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fewer Americans smoke today than 10 years ago, the American Cancer Society (ACS) reported today, and of those who do, more favor low tar products.

"There has been a definite decline in smoking between 1963 and 1973," said the society in a report issued today on the "progress in the campaign against smoking since 1964, the year the Surgeon General's Report on Smoking was issued."

Using estimated figures for 1973, the society reports a 5.6 per cent decline in the number of cigarettes smoked in the last 10 years, an 18.1 per cent decline in the pounds of cigarette tobacco smoked and an 18.85 per cent decline in the pounds of total tobacco products used.

"Filter tips and tobacco substitutes have displaced a substantial proportion of natural tobacco leaf in cigarettes," said the ACS, accounting for the disparity in the figures for cigarettes alone and those for the pounds of tobacco smoked.

In 1963, said the ACS, 58 per cent of all cigarettes sold had filter tips; by 1973, the figure was 85 per cent.

Citing a decline in the tar content of cigarettes, the society reported that in 1960, 90 per cent of all cigarettes sold contained between 19 and 35 milligrams of tar per cigarette.

By 1972, 90 per cent of all cigarettes sold contained between 14 and 20 milligrams of tar.

Said the ACS, "We regard this — the tar-reducing trend — as clear evidence that the tobacco industry, despite its public disclaimers, accepts the evidence on the health hazards of smoking."

The ACS noted that smoking increased between one and two per cent between 1971 and 1973.
