AEC chairman pledges

By DAVID ESPO Times-News Capitol Bureau BOISE — The chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) has assured Gov. Cecil D. Andrus the National Reactor Testing Station (NRTS) will not be used as a permanent storage site for long-lived nuclear wastes.

In confirming the AEC's plans to construct a Retrievable Surface Storage Facility for high level radioactive waste, Dr. Ray also said the site must be maintained to assure the radioactive waste does not escape from storage. In addition, she said the public will have an opportunity to "thoroughly review the safety considerations and to raise any and all questions it may have concerning the ability of the facility to give full protection to the health and safety of the public and to the environment."

Israel, Egypt set PW trade

By United Press International Israel and Egypt agreed today at a meeting in the Egyptian desert to begin carrying out terms of the four-day-old cease-fire accord on Thursday. The first steps included an Israeli turnover of checkpoints on the Cairo-Suez road to be followed immediately by an exchange of prisoners of war.

It followed an uncompromisingly stubborn statement Tuesday by Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir who said "Israel will not budge from the Cairo-Suez highway. Not one gram of food and water will go through to Suez or to the 3rd Army if Israel does not get the prisoners back." There also was a warning in the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram that unless Israel lives up to the agreement "then there is no escaping a new conflagration to establish rights by fighting on the battlefield."

for storage of waste from sources not already using the site. Noting the capabilities at the NRTS for waste storage, Dr. Ray also wrote "I am sure you appreciate that we must make maximum efficient use of our sites, facilities and manpower so long as utilization does not in any way endanger the health and safety of the public or produce an unacceptable impact on the environment."

Henry hears Tokyo oil woe

TOKYO (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger arrived from China today and got first hand reports of the current world oil crisis in this nation which imports more than 99 per cent of the oil it uses, most of it from the Middle East. Kissinger, who worked out a Middle East truce accord in a visit to five Arab capitals and improved relations with China during his visit to Peking, had a long day today: a direct flight from Peking to Tokyo, a two-hour conference with Japanese Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira and a visit tonight to a Japanese gelsin house.

Emotions cancer target

TWIN FALLS — Treatment of the emotional reactions to cancer is as vital as treatment of the disease itself, a Boise tumor clinic counselor said Tuesday. John Dawson, patient counselor at the Mountain States Tumor Institute, told staff members and a few interested persons at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital that for most people cancer is "synonymous with death. It represents everything evil."

Gold's price skids

LONDON (UPI) — The value of gold fell dramatically on the big London bullion market today, wiping out millions of dollars invested by speculators in the biggest decline in prices since the introduction of the two-tier gold system five years ago. As gold sagged the dollar surged ahead in early trading. The market, responding to the announcement that the United States and six European countries have now junked this system, initially devalued the metal by $7.25 an ounce, but prices recovered part of the loss as the day progressed.

First snow

WET SNOW covered this branch of an evergreen in Twin Falls shortly after daybreak today after the passage of the season's first snow. Skies cleared later in the morning and the snow was melting by noon.

First snow in TF area

TWIN FALLS — The first measurable snow fell in Twin Falls this morning, but the flakes were confined to the immediate area. Only a trace of snow was reported at Buhl and Hagerman had rain, according to the weather station at Kimberly. It was snowing at Rupert this morning, but melting as it fell.

The weather man said another storm is expected in the next few days and whether it brings rain or snow will depend upon how low the freezing level drops. The level has been about 4,000 feet, but apparently dropped Tuesday night to include Twin Falls' elevation of 3,770, as recorded at the entomology bureau. About an inch of snow also fell in the Sawtooth Mountain area at Fairfield and Halley.

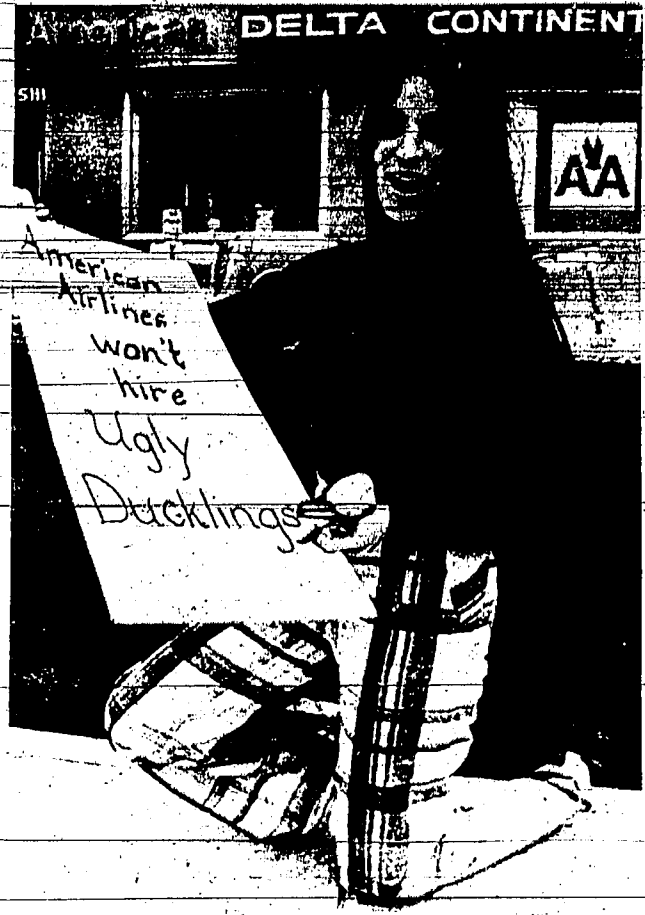

Health unit boosts tab

TWIN FALLS — A vote reversal by a Cassia County representative today led to a 40 cent increase in the per-capita assessment required to run South-Central District Health District programs.

On the first vote the issue was tied three to three. Then John Clark, commissioner from Cassia County, changed his position to approve the higher figure. He said he was bound by action of his commission to support a lower figure of $2 per capita.

Members of the district health board, of which Chancey is also chairman, had recommended the $2.15 figure. Dr. Wayne Carle, medical administrator, had asked for a $2.25 per capita assessment but said he could live with the $2.15 figure.

Dawson said five stages of emotional adjustment have been observed in the terminally ill cancer patient. The first, he said, is denial and disbelief. "This can't be happening to me." The second is anger. "The child of our frustration." In the third stage, Dawson said, the patient begins to make "bargains." To attempt to "manipulate circumstances to avoid the inevitable." The bargains can be made either with physicians, or with God, or many bargains may be struck.

Cancer society elects leaders

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Gene McNea was elected president of the Twin Falls unit of the American Cancer Society Tuesday night at a meeting at the Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Warren Saunders, Buhl, who has served as county unit the past year, will head a newly formed branch of the society at Buhl. She said officials at the division office in Boise had recommended formation of two identical organizations, to prevent necessity for long distance calls and difficulty in banking procedures.

Mrs. Saunders said Mrs. Shelby Williams will be crusade chairman for the Buhl area and Mrs. Ellsworth Schooler will handle publicity there. Other crusade chairmen to continue in the west end of the county are Mrs. Earl Heidel, Castleford, and Mrs. Ted Matney, Filer.

Mrs. J. G. Tippett was elected secretary and Bill Flannery, treasurer, of the Twin Falls group during Tuesday night's meeting.

Mrs. McNea, who has served as the unit's service chairman, reported on patients being helped through the society's service program. She said policies differ from state to state and are set by a volunteer board. Funds available can be used to reimburse patients for transportation costs, or provide medical equipment. In addition there is personal volunteer help, including the Reach to Recovery program which is being inaugurated here.

Mrs. James Howard,

memorials chairman, reported she had received eight memorials this past week. She will be assisted by Malda Olson.

Mrs. Rose McKinney, education chairman, reported response from service clubs wanting programs on cancer education. She will be assisted by Mrs. James Canine, Mrs. Carolyn Herzinger and Karlee Wylie.

Mrs. Saunders said only $8,429 was raised in the April crusade, with a goal of $10,000, but an additional $1,552 was received in the bike-a-thon event this fall.

Canyon study group elects

TWIN FALLS — A recently incorporated Snake River Canyon study group has announced the election of officers.

David Mead, a Twin Falls banker, was elected president of Canyon Inc., a non-profit research group organized, according to its charter, to "encourage and support the orderly development and preservation of land ... that lends itself to scenic, recreational, historical, archaeological, ecological, geological and aesthetic uses."

Attorney Charles Brumbach was elected vice president of the corporation. Elected secretary was Eleanor Burkhardt, while Ingrid Strope was named treasurer. Others elected to the board of directors included Dr. R. G. Roberts, Ken Self, Kevin Jones, Steve Carter, Dr. Cal Butler and James Chupa.

"Our group will consider purchasing or coordinating purchases and tax deductible donations of the canyon rim land so that some of the area can be dedicated for public use by the citizens of Magic Valley," Mead said.

Canyon Inc. has already sponsored meetings of land owners and county officials to explain to land owners how they can realize tax benefits through the donation or sale of their land for public use.

The group plans in the future to hold a photographic contest of canyon scenery, a membership drive and additional public meetings.

Examiner rules on mine claims

SALMON — A U. S. Department of Interior hearing examiner has ruled that three mining claims in the Boulder, Mining district of Custer County near Clayton do not constitute a valid discovery.

In a decision handed down by Robert H. Mesch, Salt Lake City, office of hearings and appeals, U. S. Department of Interior, who served as the hearing examiner, the conclusion was:

"The evidence clearly establishes, as charged in the complaint, that valuable minerals have not been found within the limits of the claims so as to constitute a valid discovery within the meaning of the mining laws!"

The action had been brought by the U. S. Forest Service against Elmer H. Swanson and a hearing held in Salmon July 11-12, 1972.

The final post-hearing brief was submitted on Jan. 22, 1973.

The forest service was represented by Erol R. Benson, office of the general counsel, Department of Agriculture, Ogden, Utah, and Swanson by James C. Herndon, Salmon attorney.

The mining claims are known as the Zee, Rex and Zenna lode.

In the same action, the forest service sought to vacate all or portions of seven mill sites, which are adjacent to the Livingston Mine on Big Boulder Creek in the Boulder Mining district.

Mesch dismissed the complaint challenging the validity of the High Tariff, Clara, Little Falls, Livingston, May, Trenaville and Deadwood mill sites "because the evidence does not support the allegations in the complaint."

Mesch's order declared the Rex, Zee and Zenna lode mining claims "null and void because they have not been perfected by the discovery of a valuable mineral deposit."

During the hearing, the forest service claimed that Swanson had made no valid mineral discoveries on the

Predator losses studied

By LESTER KINSOLVING
Times-News Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's opposition to control of coyotes by poison "could change," according to deputy White House press secretary Gerald Warren.

But, "it will depend on a study and research of the impact of predator losses which is now being conducted by the Council on Environmental Quality," Warren said following a White House press briefing.

The presidential press aide referred the matter to the Department of the Interior, where James Ruch, special assistant to the assistant secretary of the interior for fish and wildlife and parks, told the Times-News:

"We conducted two studies last summer — one in the Twin Falls area and the other near Rawlins, Wyo. We had four men on horseback watching some 10,000 sheep. Their results from Rawlins are not due for another month. But from a preliminary report from the Twin Falls area, we found:

"A lot of lambs are stillborn and are later eaten by coyotes. We know this because of an absence of air in their lungs and milk in their stomachs, as revealed by autopsies."

Widespread poisoning is no longer acceptable to the American people, especially when they are killing a lot of sheep when they don't eat sheep. As Dr. Fred Waggoner of Utah State noted, a relatively small percentage of coyotes are responsible for a majority of the losses.

"Indiscriminate poisoning is killing foxes, bobcats, martens, fishers, wolverines and eagles. Under HR 11266, the Federal Animal Damage Control Act of 1973 which is now in the House Committee on Merchant — Marine and Fisheries, more federal money can be given to states so that they can operate their own programs and aim at the offending animals through trapping, denning and helicopter shooting.

"This bill will also allow for state use of poisoning in emergency situations while beginning a major program of research in alternate methods of control.

"In 1972, in Wyoming, as reported by the Wyoming Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, the loss rate without poisoning was 4.2 per cent, but in the previous years while poisoning was still allowed, the loss rate was 4.0 in 1971; 4.8 per cent in 1970."

When asked about the express concern for the urban rat, "an endangered species as expressed recently by Idaho Sen. James McClure, as well as a recently organized group in South Dakota, called STAR (rats spelled backwards)?"

Ruch chuckled and responded after a moment of thought:

"Well, the rat in our cities is an introduced species — just like sheep!"

Shoshone BLM board elects 2

SHOSHONE — Two incumbents have been elected to the Shoshone District Bureau of Land Management Advisory Board, according to O'dell Frandsen, Shoshone district manager.

Allen Bauscher, cattle representative, and John W. Jones Jr., sheep representative, were re-elected to three-year terms. According to Frandsen about 33 per cent of the eligible voters cast their ballots for the election.

Frandsen said that with the increasing demand by the public for use of national resource lands, functions of the advisory board are becoming additionally important.

Duties include providing recommendations and advice relating to grazing administration and associated matters, as well as multiple use management programs concerning two million acres of national resource lands in the Shoshone district.

Head 'plumber' defense rejected by trial judge

(c) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — The ex-chief-of-the-White-House "plumbers" is trying to show he acted under President Nixon's secrecy orders when he lied to a Watergate grand jury.

Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office in Los Angeles. He earlier assumed full responsibility for the burglary, carried out by Liddy, Hunt and others who took part in the Watergate burglary.

EGIL KROGH
... defense hit

That is the defense outlined by counsel for Egil Krogh, former presidential aide accused of making false statements under oath about Watergate conspirators — E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy.

Krogh has asked the President to turn over a tape of a July 24, 1971, conversation between them and former White House adviser John D. Ehrlichman to help in his defense.

Krogh, 33, also has been indicted on burglary charges in the 1971 break-in of Daniel bugging of Democratic headquarters.

Federal Judge Gerhard Gesell, who will try the case if he rules against moves to dismiss the indictment, virtually rejected Krogh's argument out of hand.

"You're saying he (Krogh) can do anything he wishes to evade the law of the land because he's in national security work," the judge told Krogh's lawyer, Stephen N. Schulman.

"It's a question of whether the President of the United States can tell you to violate a law," Gesell added, indicating disbelief in the theory.

The judge, who has been on the bench here since 1968, said he was not aware that government officials were lying under oath on White House instructions.

Gold sale bar dropped

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — The United States and six European countries have terminated the five-year-old agreement that barred them from selling gold in the free market.

The termination was announced by Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, immediately upon his return from a weekend meeting of central-bank officials at Basel, Switzerland, where the decision was made.

Dr. Burns said the American interpretation of the dissolution of the agreement was that the United States could now sell gold in the free market from its official monetary stockpile, but what Washington had not decided "whether, when amounts and in what way" the gold would be sold.

The possibility of the sale of gold by the United States and perhaps some other central banks could have the effect of driving down the free-market price, which has been as high as $125 an ounce and is just under $100 now.

The official price — at which inter-governmental valuations are made — is just $42.22 an ounce.

Burns said there was "no special explanation" as to why the 1968 agreement had been terminated at this moment. He did say, however, that the decision "does give the governments of the world a certain flexibility, which is of some importance particularly at a time of floating (BKT) currency (UNBKT) exchange rates."

Burns said he was "confident that none of the major central banks will buy gold in the foreseeable future — from the market or from each other."

Kent State probe eyed

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — The Justice Department is likely to convene a federal grand jury within the next 30 days to hear evidence on the slaying of four students at Kent State university by Ohio National Guardsmen in 1970, Assistant Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger indicated today.

Pottinger, who is director of the Justice Department's civil rights division, said at a news briefing that a decision had not yet been reached. However, the tenor of his remarks suggested that the calling of a federal grand jury in Cleveland was probable.

Such an action by the Justice Department would reverse a decision by former Atty. Gen.

John N. Mitchell, who declined to ask for a grand jury investigation after four students were fatally shot and nine others were wounded during a confrontation with National Guardsmen on the Kent State Campus.

In reply to questions, Pottinger insisted today that Mitchell's decision to avoid a grand jury investigation of the Kent State slayings was not "capricious, erroneous or dishonest."

The purpose of the federal grand jury, Pottinger said, would be "inquisitorial," explaining that its purpose would be to "uncover evidence rather than to hand down indictments."

Skylab countdown resumes

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Countdown for the twice-delayed launch of the Skylab-3 crew on a 60-day record-breaking space voyage got under way today with officials confident the problem-plagued Saturn 1B booster rocket was in good condition.

The launch rocket got a top-to-bottom examination — for structural deficiencies Tuesday.

Skylab program manager William C. Schneider said, "We are committing to launch Friday" at 9:01 a.m. EST, but a final flight readiness review was scheduled for the booster today.

The countdown clock was started at 2:30 a.m. EST and preparations made to load almost 200,000 gallons of propellants into the rocket.

Astronauts Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue were supposed to take off last Saturday to fly to the eight-room orbiting space station on a mission that could last 85 days — if all has gone well after eight weeks.

"Cracks in the 22-story tall Saturn launch machine's eight tail fins forced postponement first until Thursday, and then other cracks found in rods connecting the two rocket stages pushed the liftoff back another 24 hours.

The tail fins were replaced with a new set, but rocket manager Richard G. Smith said the second set of cracks, in the structural rods or beams, would not be patched.

"We are not planning any repairs on the beams," Smith said in an 850-word news briefing Tuesday. "We haven't been able to determine any peculiarities in the history of the hardware specifically associated with this vehicle."

Schneider added that with bracing put over the vertical rods, "the vehicle has an adequate margin for safe flight."

It costs $2 million in materials and machines and the labor of almost 100 skilled workmen to bring in one oil well.

Mariner 10 path shifts

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Controllers of the Mariner 10 space explorer, launched 12 days ago, fired its rockets for 19.9 seconds Tuesday so the spacecraft will tuck in "a hair" closer to Mercury on its arrival there.

Without the midcourse maneuver, the spacecraft would have passed Venus 28,000 miles out on the sunward side. "We want it to pass on the other side at about 3,600 miles," said a spokesman for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, so the rockets were fired to "nudge the bird a bit to the right and slow it down just a hair," he said.

A fine tuning course correction is scheduled for later in the six-month journey, so that Mariner 10 will be properly grabbed by the gravity of Venus and hurled onward to Mercury with a crack-the-whip effect.

If Mariner is off course by one mile at Venus, it will cause a 1,000 mile error arriving at Mercury, scientists said.

Mariner's two television cameras, exposed to the cold of deep space when two of three heating units failed, continue to perform well despite the failure, a JPL spokesman said.

But a problem remains with an apparatus designed to measure the solar wind, the stream of particles emanating from the sun. The device is measuring only the high range of cosmic energy, and readings from the low range are being lost.

"We're still looking for the solution," the spokesman said.

Ration coupon

A MOTORIST in Seattle, Wash., has his gasoline ration coupons checked as he pulls into a station in 1944 to purchase gasoline. During World War II, you were given an A, B or C sticker to display in the right hand corner of your windshield, depending upon your need for gasoline.

Naturally enough, no red-blooded American wanted to admit his driving was so pleasure-motivated that he rated only an A. So anyone who could come up with any excuse at all trooped down to convince his local OPA officials that he warranted a B or C. Soon nearly half of the nation's 30 million auto owners had wangled a B or C.

That was gasoline rationing back in World War II, as recalled by Richard R. Lingeman in his 1970 book, "Don't You Know There's a War On?"

An A coupon entitled a driver to four gallons of gas a week, enough to get the government figured, for 60 miles of driving. Later this was reduced to an allotment of three gallons and for a bleak period of 1943 to only two gallons.

War workers who drove in car pools were given B stickers and persons with war-essential jobs, like doctors or farmers, got C stickers. Truckers got T stickers and unlimited mileage. Clergymen and policemen won unlimited gasoline with X stickers. When coupons were first issued more than 200 members of Congress unashamedly asked for and were issued X stickers.

Rationing started in 17 eastern states in May, 1942 because German submarines were sinking the tankers which normally supplied the East Coast. The pipelanes from Texas had not yet been built.

On Dec. 1, 1942, rationing was made nationwide. Some people, Lingeman wrote, considered it "an exercise in official sadomasochism whose only purpose was to instill in the American people a proper mood of wartime self-abnegation."

To conserve gasoline and war-scarcened rubber, the government imposed a nationwide speed limit of 35 miles an hour.

Worse yet, it banned pleasure driving altogether. Even the fellow with his A sticker was supposed to devote his paltry ration to such driving as "necessary" shopping or trips to church, funerals, doctors, jobs.

The ban on pleasure driving was lifted in September, 1943, but not before agents of the Office of Price Administration (OPA), which administered gas rationing, had lifted the coupon books of motorists whose cars were spotted at racetracks or stadiums or packed outside night clubs. Crime saw the opportunity in all this. Counterfeit rationing coupons sold for as much as 50 cents each. In Washington, coupons worth 20 million gallons were stolen from a government warehouse. The government estimated that between one million gallons of gasoline a week and 2.5 million a day were sold illegally.

Fifteen per cent of all C coupons in circulation were said to be fakes.

There were salutary effects, too. The highway death toll plummeted. People rediscovered walking and bicycling—although bicycles were sold only to those who could produce a "certificate of necessity" and the shortage of laces led to shoe rationing.

Gasoline rationing ended Aug. 1, 1945 just before the end of the war. Throughout the land was heard the cry, "fill her up!"

Committees okay time change plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation putting the nation on year-round daylight saving time with clocks set an hour later than present standard time has been approved by both the House and Senate Commerce Committees.

The measure, which assumes the time change means people will be awake for more daylight hours thus reducing electricity consumption, was approved Tuesday less than a week after President Nixon proposed the move to save energy.

Both measures would be mandatory for all states, unless the President approves an exemption for certain areas. The House version would be in effect for two years after the bill is signed; the Senate bill, through April, 1975.

The legislation would require clocks to be set an hour later than the present standard time, which went into effect Oct. 28.

The Senate bill also would require the Departments of Transportation and Interior to make studies to determine how much energy actually is saved on daylight saving time.

Nixon, 15 GOP senators discuss Watergate issues

(c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — President Nixon met for more than two hours Tuesday night with 15 Republican senators and apparently persuaded most of them that he intended to tell everything that he knows about Watergate and allied scandals.

The comments of the senators indicated that the meeting — part of a series designed to help bolster presidential credibility — had answered relatively few specific questions, and thus had fallen somewhat short of the goal stated by some White House officials: "clearing the air" with the Congress.

Instead, according to the participants' accounts, Nixon devoted himself to convincing them that he would explain his actions in full and soliciting their advice on when and how he should seek to do so.

"It was more comments than question," said Sen. William E. Brock of Tennessee. "The emphasis was primarily on the more fundamental question of how do we get this information to the courts, the congress and especially the American people."

The Senate minority leader, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, added: "everyone in the room — everyone — agreed on the need for full disclosure."

Only a few hours before the meeting, the Senate Watergate Committee voted to ask Nixon for a private meeting, the transcript of which would be made public at once. The president told his visitors at the White House that he had not decided whether or not to agree.

Interviewed at a Capitol Hill party for Sen. Wallace F. Bennett of Utah after the meeting, a number of the participants emphasized the president's seriousness of purpose.

Sen. Dewey Bartlett of Oklahoma said, for instance, that Nixon had promised full reports on the International Telephone and Telegraph case, on the dairy-price case and on his property acquisitions. Sen. Pete V. Domenici of New Mexico remarked that he left the meeting convinced that the President was "not going to stand on evidentiary technicalities."

Domenici pressed Nixon for verification of reports earlier in the day about the tape recording of a conversation between the President and John W. Dean 3D, the ousted White House counsel on March 21.

Republican congressional sources had quoted Alexander M. Haig, the White House chief of staff, as stating that Nixon could be heard on the tape exclaiming, "Oh, my God!" When Dean told him of the cover-up, he thereby buttressing Nixon's frequent assertions that he had not previously known of it.

The President reportedly confirmed Haig's account.

Panel wants court over 'Gate prober

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee has voted to take the special prosecutor's office completely out of the administration's hands and place it under jurisdiction of the courts.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, inclined toward a similar bill, decided it wanted to hear Acting Attorney General H. Bork today and other witnesses later this week before taking final action Nov. 21.

Bork told a House Judiciary subcommittee last week that Leon Jaworski was given all the guarantees of independence he needed when he was chosen to replace ousted Archibald Cox as special Watergate prosecutor.

He also suggested he would recommend President Nixon veto precisely the type of bill

(c) New York Times Service HOUSTON — The National Petroleum Council called today for immediate rationing of gasoline and home heating oil as well as other energy conservation measures to avoid a serious blow to the United States economy.

Without emergency measures, the council said, the gross national product could lose $40-billion during the first quarter of 1974, and unemployment might climb from the current 4.5 per cent to 6 per cent.

Two major firms give guilty plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two oil firms—Gulf Oil Corp. and Ashland Petroleum Gabon—have pleaded guilty to making illegal political campaign contributions, bringing to six the number of major corporations charged with in connection with the 1972 election.

Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski said Gulf contributed $100,000 to President Nixon's 1972 campaign fund and $25,000 to two Democratic presidential hopefuls.

He also alleged Gulf vice president Claude C. Wild Jr. illegally consented to making the $100,000 corporate contribution to the Nixon campaign.

The criminal information filed by Jaworski Tuesday, prior to the guilty pleas, also charged that Gulf gave $15,000 to the campaign committee of Rep. Willbur E. Millis, D-Ark., and $10,000 to the campaign of Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

Ashland, a subsidiary of Ashland Oil Inc., pleaded guilty in Kentucky to a charge of giving $100,000 to Nixon's re-election campaign.

CATTLE ADVANCE Feeder cattle futures rose 25 to 66 per cent in a moderate trade of 51 contracts compared with 35 yesterday. Trading followed closely the trends in live cattle futures, advancing moderately at the start and selling off on profit taking at the close in advance of the 7-state cattle and calves on feed report to be released by USDA.

The expiring Nov. contract showed the best gains while March was the only other month traded. Primary receipts at 11 markets were 9,500 head of feeders out of the total 29,500 head receipts of all types.

BANK RAISES RATE LONDON (UPI) — The government announced Tuesday a record trade deficit for October of $715.2 million and to avoid a major economic crisis and protect the pound abroad raised the Bank of England's minimum lending rate to a record 13 per cent.

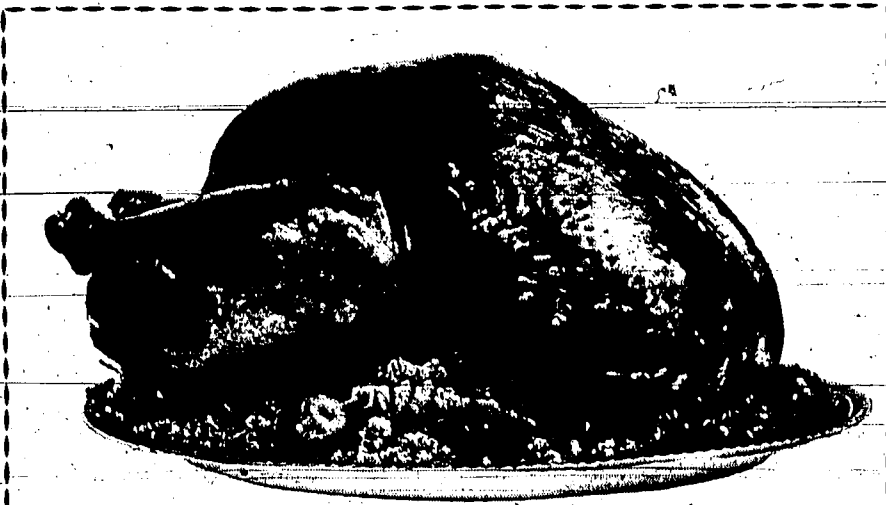

In addition the Bank of England called on the main banks for another two per cent special deposits totaling $1,380 million to curb their ability further to lend to customers.

Sino-US contacts grow

TOKYO (UPI) — The United States and China today agreed to expand their liaison offices in Washington and Peking, exchange experts and artists and speed up trade in an acceleration of the momentum toward eventual establishment of diplomatic relations.

But their joint communique, issued here following the four-day visit of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to China, indicated the question of Taiwan remained the major stumbling block to establishing embassies in Washington and Peking.

Chinese leaders reiterated that the "normalization of relations between China and the United States can be realized only on the basis of confirming the principle of one China," the document said.

High ranking American officials said, however, that the Chinese statement represented a subtle advance which could lead to a possible breakthrough in the push to establish formal diplomatic relations.

They said it requires the United States to recognize the principle of "one China," a principle the two nations will explore for its delicate nuances. In talks between Kissinger and Premier Chou En-lai, officials said the slight shift in the Chinese approach "made no specific demands for any specific action."

Officials said the communique is a "surface statement" which they "expect and hope will permit a definite evolution toward normalization of relations."

There was speculation the United States and China may be able to finess the question of Taiwan, home of the Nationalist Chinese government.

The number of U.S. troops on Taiwan is progressively being reduced. Spokesmen said today 3,000 of the 9,000 men there now would be withdrawn by the end of the year.

The two sides agreed that in present circumstances it is of particular importance to maintain frequent contact at authoritative levels in order to exchange views and, while not negotiating on behalf of third parties, to engage in concrete consultations of mutual concern," the communique said.

Both sides "noted with satisfaction" that their liaison offices, headed by Ambassadors David Bruce and Huang Chen, "are functioning smoothly."

Both sides agreed "that the scope of the functions of the liaison offices should continue to be expanded."

The two countries also agreed to enlarge the number of new exchanges for the coming year

Fund bill pushed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a surprise move, key Senate sponsors of public financing for federal elections have agreed on one bipartisan bill and will seek congressional passage before the end of the month.

The measure, a consensus of five major bills introduced earlier this year, would extend federal financing to presidential primaries and to general elections for the Senate and House.

Public financing of presidential elections, through a $1 check-off on income tax returns, was approved in 1970.

Debate over Saxbe nomination grows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chances of Sen. William B. Saxbe being confirmed as attorney general anytime soon have faded considerably as the constitutional debate over his nomination grows.

A bill to remove a constitutional roadblock that threatens to prevent Saxbe's confirmation has been approved by the Senate Civil Service Committee, but the corresponding committee in the House has taken no action.

Senate Assistant Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd has raised "serious constitutional questions" over the bill and is demanding that it be sent to the Judiciary Committee for further study.

The White House is delaying formal submission of Saxbe's nomination to the Senate until Congress removes the constitutional obstacle.

The bill in question would cut the attorney general's salary from its present $60,000 to $35,000 annually.

This is necessary because a provision in the Constitution says a member of Congress cannot be appointed to any civil office if the salary for that office was raised during his elected term of office.

Saxbe was in the Senate at the time the salary for attorney general was increased in 1969 to $60,000. His present salary as a senator is $42,500.

Ford votes target

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford's civil rights voting record and his qualifications to assume the presidency came under attack today.

Joseph L. Rauh Jr., vice chairman of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), said in prepared testimony to the Senate Rules Committee that the main question Congress must answer is whether Ford is qualified to succeed President Nixon if necessary. He said the "ADA believes the answer must be 'no.'"

The panel is continuing its public hearings on the nomination amid speculation it will vote before the end of this week for confirmation and send Ford's name to the Senate floor for a vote early next week. The House Judiciary Committee will open its hearings on the nomination Thursday, with Ford as the first witness.

Arabs to keep US oil embargo

By United Press International
Two high-ranking Saudi Arabian officials said today their government will maintain its oil embargo against the United States until Israel withdraws from all Arab lands captured in the 1967 Middle East war, including Jerusalem. They also said the Arabs should prepare themselves for another "ferocious war" if current peace efforts fail to produce the results desired by the Arabs.

In a related move, Prime Minister Abdel-Salam Jalloud of Libya said in an interview published today the oil embargo against Europe will continue as long as European states refuse to supply the Arabs with modern weapons.

The Saudi Arabian position was outlined today by Omar Sakkat, minister of state for foreign affairs, and Oil Minister Ahmed-Zaki-Yamani, in an interview with the Egyptian newspaper Al Akhbar.

The two cabinet officials arrived in Cairo Monday for consultations with the Egyptian government on Arab strategy in the conflict with Israel.

The oil weapon has proved its effectiveness in the battle and our plan is to continue to use this weapon until peace is realized and enemy forces withdraw from the lands they occupied in 1967," Yamani said. Sakkat said: "The position of Saudi Arabia is very clear. We are determined to maintain this position until the enemy withdraws completely from the lands he occupied in 1967. Jerusalem is returned and the Palestinian people are given their right of self-determination." Israel in the past has refused to discuss a return of Old Jerusalem, which was captured from Jordan in the 1967 war.

Officials puzzled

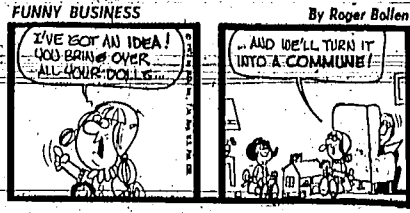

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (UPI) — Puzzled investigators watched today as scuba divers recovered more of the 166 cars dumped into the Mississippi River off the edge of Chouteau Island. Authorities said it was possible the cars were dumped as part of some sort of a large scheme to defraud auto insurance companies. Of the eight cars recovered since the divers spotted the cars Saturday, only two had been stripped.

"It looks funny to pull eight cars out and find only two stripped," said Robert Rizzi, chief deputy of the Madison County sheriff's office. Many of the recovered cars were intact, with expensive stereo radio equipment, air conditioners. Authorities said it was highly unlikely that joyriders had stolen the cars for kicks and drove them into the river.

US POWs 'now in good shape'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. prisoners of the Vietnam war have been home nearly eight months, and the Pentagon says most of them are now in good shape, rehabilitated both physically and psychologically better than doctors expected. Nearly nine out of 10 of the former POWs are back at work. The remaining 13 per cent are still under medical care. The Pentagon said 6 to 7 per cent of the POWs are not expected to ever be fit for military duty again, all for physical reasons except for one man. At least two of them will probably be confined to wheelchairs for the rest of their lives, a senior military medical officer said Monday.

But the others under medical care are expected to return to normal lives after further care and surgery. Besides the pair of partially paralyzed men, those 30 to 40 men unable to return to duty include 12 who had limbs amputated. Another group had arm and leg injuries, some of which resulted in shortening of the limbs. The men were clearly better off than medical doctors had feared before their release, Pentagon Health Department officer Edward J. Huyche said. But some officials said they suspect men with more serious injuries were left to die in North Vietnam.

Bonuses given to campaign

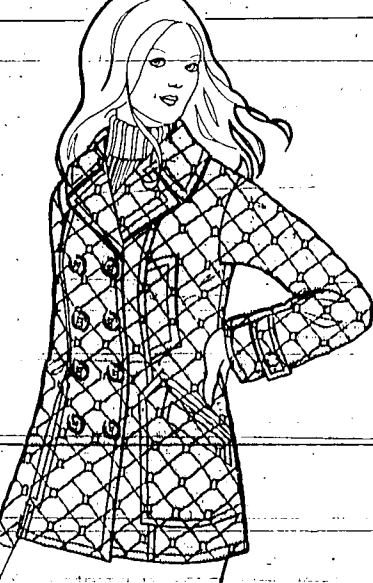

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An executive of a Cleveland shipbuilding firm told the Senate Watergate Committee Tuesday that he and others were paid bonuses in 1972 by the company and then ordered to turn the money over to the Nixon re-election campaign.

Matthew E. Clark Jr., director of purchasing for American Shipbuilding Co., said he was given the instructions by Robert E. Hartome, secretary of the company, in April, 1972. "He told me I was getting a bonus of $5,000 and I was to make out a check to the Committee for the Re-Election of the President for $3,000," Clark testified. "I was told it was made out then (April 6) because the new campaign disclosure law was going into effect April 7."

Clark said that after taxes and other deductions were made $3,700 remained of the purported bonus. He said in addition to the original $3,000 check, he was then ordered to make cash contributions for the remaining $700.

"I did not receive any of this money myself," he said.

The committee introduced documents indicating that eight employees of the Cleveland firm were given bonuses which were similarly transmitted into contributions totaling $25,000 and that George M. Steinbrenner, chairman of American Shipbuilding, personally gave $75,000 to the Nixon campaign chest. It is illegal for corporations to contribute to election campaigns.

Ancient objects

Ancient Roman articles uncovered

ROME (UPI) — Archeologists digging through the mud of an old sewer under the Colosseum said Tuesday they have come up with a unique collection of ancient Roman trash. It ranged from peachstones thrown away by spectators to a bear's skull, neatly severed by a gladiator's sword. There were animal bones from caged lions, and a cameo brooch apparently lost by a woman spectator. "The study of the material we found in the sediment is particularly important," archeologist Claudio Mucchegiani

Carpano told newsmen. "Apart from being unique, because there is no documented evidence of excavations of this kind, it provides for the first time certain archeological evidence about the life of the Colosseum up to the second half of the fourth century A.D."

Mucchegiani said the objects were found under a six-foot layer of mud in one of four sewage mains under the Colosseum, built in the 1st century A.D. under the Emperor Vespasian and blocked by a cave-in or earthquake 300 years later.

Britain declares emergency state

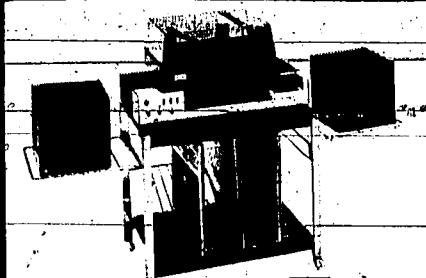

LONDON (UPI) — Britain, moving to conserve its power supplies in the face of industrial disputes and the Middle East oil crisis, declared a state of emergency Tuesday and warned the public to expect gasoline rationing. While a government spokesman said that gas rationing was not imminent, London newspapers predicted ration books already delivered to post offices would be distributed next Monday.

A government spokesman said rationing would be the final stage of a three phase program being introduced under the emergency powers. The first phase, which began Tuesday night, involves a 10 per cent reduction in the power and fuel used by all government departments and nationalized industries and a request that the public do the same voluntarily.

This will be followed by a regulation cutting back the fuel supplies received by distributors before rationing takes place, the spokesman said. Britain's fuel problems have been compounded by a ban on overtime work launched by the nation's coal miners and engineers at electricity generating plants, threatening widespread blackouts.

Heavy grain export seen

WASHINGTON (CNS) — The Agriculture Department today said continuing strong wheat exports lead it to believe 1973-74 exports will be near the 1.184 billion bushel 1972-73 foreign sales total — but the department left its export estimate officially at 1.15 billion bushels, — the same projected Oct. 17 in a supply-demand report.

Wheat shipments to the Soviet Union have tailed off, the department said, but China, India, North Africa and West Asia are "taking up the slack."

Domestic disappearance was set in today's wheat situation report at 755 million bushels for 1973-74, versus a 746 million projection made Oct. 17.

Projecting carryover into this crop year at 430 million bushels now versus 428 million projected October 17, the department now sees a 403 billion bushels available for export and carryover in 1973-74 — including carryover into 1974-75 — as potentially 233 million bushels.

Today's wheat situation summary's tables, in short, show the following: beginning carryover into 1973-74 at 430 million bushels, production still 1.727 billion, imports still 12 million for a total supply of 2.158 billion (versus 2.156 projected Oct. 17). The tables show 528 million bushels projected use for food, 77 million for seed, 150 million for feed for a total of 755 million. And with exports still projected at 1.15 billion, the carryover shows up at the 253 million level.

Farm

Harvest near end

BOISE (UPI) — Except for sugar beets, harvesting of Idaho crops was in the closing stages at the start of November, according to the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

The reporting service said October weather was nearly ideal for digging the potato crops with a few fields unharvested by Nov. 1.

The sugar beet harvest made good progress but was running a little later than last year, reporting service officials said.

Fuel moves queried

WASHINGTON — Disappointed with how the new mandatory allocation program for distillate fuel is working House Agriculture committee members bombarded witnesses with questions on what the Agriculture Department and the Office of Oil and Gas are doing to relieve farmers of the diesel shortage.

USDA associate administrator for the agricultural stabilization and Conservation Service, Glenn Weir, and Nick Smith, ASCS deputy administrator, told the committee that the diesel fuel situation was tight in many farm areas, but USDA is doing all it can to expedite individual farm requests for fuel through ASCS regional county offices.

USDA, though not directly administering the distillate allocation program, begun on Nov. 1, is influential in the formulation of fuel policy as it relates to agriculture and keeps the OOG informed on farm fuel shortage areas.

Gem food stamp use expanding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Continuing its compliance with a congressional directive to spread the Food Stamp program into all parts of the country, the Agriculture Department Monday announced approval for stamp operations in 43 additional counties in five states, including Idaho.

All of the areas involved currently are providing food for needy families under a second federal aid program which provides food commodity donations.

Congress, in a law passed last summer, ordered the commodity program phased out in favor of food stamp programs by next June 30.

The latest action put 2,736 counties in the stamp program in contrast to 327 remaining in the commodity program and 59 operating both programs. Start-up dates for stamp distribution in the 43 counties will be announced later locally.

Payette plant closing

PAYETTE, Idaho (UPI) — Operators of the Dairymen's Creamery Association plant in Payette plan to close the plant Thursday night and lay off approximately 12 employees, the Idaho Statesman said today.

Eleven counties in Idaho are involved. They are Adams, Benewah, Bonner, Boundary, Clearwater, Kootenai, Latah, Lewis, Nez Perce, Valley and Washington.

Dairymen Victor Pruehs

Dairy holding to pasture land

STERLING HEIGHTS, Mich. (UPI) — Victor Pruehs' dairy farm with its red barn, grazing cattle and earthy smells stands out like an island of the past amid the neat, carbon copy $48,000 homes of this bedroom community.

Pruehs' forebears cleared the land for a homestead in 1872. For the 101 years since, it has been in the family, although the original 80 acres has shrunk to 18 as land was sold to save on taxes.

"I love farming," Pruehs said, his big grizzled hands gently patting the nose of a Shetland pony.

"Watching a heifer calf, the spring crops come up, the seasons change, all that does something to a man. It makes you glad to be alive."

But Pruehs is troubled. His neighbors in the northeast Detroit suburb are unhappy about the farm and the cattle roaming close by to Dodge Park Road and Metropolitan Drive.

Two weeks ago, the city — reacting to their complaints — ticketed Pruehs for "depositing unwholesome substances" on his field.

"They were complaining about cattle manure and I don't know any way you can house train cattle," Pruehs said.

Despite Pruehs' promise to pick up after his cattle, the complaint was lodged in 41st District Court.

He cited another violation, this one when Pruehs installed an electrical fence, prohibited by ordinance.

"Without the fence," said Pruehs, "the cattle would get out of the pasture. It's no harm to anyone."

That ticket was followed last week by another, this one for violating a little-known ordinance which forbids keeping animals or fowl, other than household pets, within 300 feet of a dwelling.

Pruehs said he is convinced the city is forcing him to sell out by a series of harassing tickets.

"It's absolutely incredible," he said. "Sterling Heights has been a city for just five years. We've been living on this farm for 101 years."

Police Chief Maurice Foltz said the fact Pruehs' farm existed long before the city was formed "apparently doesn't count." We are bound to enforce the law, whether we agree or disagree.

Pruehs said he, his wife, Kathy, and five children, ranging in age from 20 to 5, are "getting by and that's about all."

The family is not sure what they'll do. They own some acreage near Armada, Mich. "They call it progress," he said. "But what happens if subdivisions suddenly surround us out there? How far do we go before there just isn't any land left?"

Appointed

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — William F. "Bob" Papworth, 37, has been named as assistant district manager for the Bureau of Land Management's Vale District in southeast Oregon.

Papworth currently is with BLM at Burley, Idaho.

Larger bean crop

WASHINGTON (CNS) — Expanded plantings and improved yield are slated to boost Mexican soybean production upwards 135,000 tons in 1973-74.

The season could produce 18.7 million bushels, the Agriculture Department estimated today.

Soybeans could become Mexico's most important oilseed crop within the next few years, the Foreign Agricultural Service projected, if double cropping with wheat and high prices for both wheat and beans continue relative to cotton.

Salmon grant approved

SALMON — The federal government has approved a $130,032 grant to the city of Salmon as its participation in funding of a $499,211 sewer system for the Bar area west of the Salmon River.

Harold Neyman, city clerk, who was advised of the approval, also was notified that the federal government has approved $38,061.55 additional federal assistance on the already completed sewage lagoons.

The city already has received $45,673 in federal aid on the project.

Marshal to retire

BELLEVUE — Duane Dudley said he intends to resign as Bellevue City Marshal.

Citing personal reasons for his resignation, Dudley would like to continue to serve as marshal until a replacement is hired. Dudley has been city marshal for the past two and one-half years.

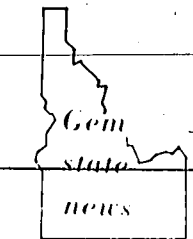

Office nears completion

JEROME — Workmen are putting the finishing touches on the new regional fish and game office in Jerome this week.

Fish and game personnel are not expected to move into the new office until the first week in December, according to Bill Webb, regional supervisor.

Webb said that the new office is now nearing completion. Leveling and graveling of the parking area is expected to be done the first part of next week, he said.

Formal dedication of the office is expected to be held sometime after the first of the year. Robert Slater, assistant director, said that the governor would be invited to the ceremonies.

MI issue defeated

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI) — Voters in Mountain Home for the second time this year defeated a $2.79 million bond issue for a new high school.

The measure received only 59.69 per cent of the 2,146 votes but a two-thirds majority was needed for the measure to pass. There were 1,281 "yes" votes to 865 "no" votes cast in the election.

Obscenity law queried

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise attorney says there should be a "legislative inquiry" into what he calls a county option law enforcement policy in Idaho.

Stanley Crow told a Boise service club there seems to be a number of interpretations of Idaho's new anti-obscenity law around the state.

In his criticism of law enforcement in the state, Crow also suggested the news media are not doing their jobs properly. He accused the Idaho press corps of being "too cozy" with government.

1974 event scheduled

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Special Olympics Organization plans to hold the 1974 winter games March 14-15 at Northwest Nazarene College in Nampa, Idaho.

The spring games will be held in May at the Idaho State University campus in Pocatello.

The fifth annual general membership meeting of the organization elected Tom Busacker, Pocatello, president and Bruce Messick, Idaho Falls, vice president of the board of directors for the organization. Sharon Stemons, Twin Falls, is the new secretary-treasurer.

Melba rejects issue

MELBA, Idaho (UPI) — Voters in school district 136 rejected a proposed $743,000 bond issue for a new high school and remodeling of other school buildings Tuesday.

Unofficial tabulations showed the issue failed by 144-233, or more than 61 per cent.

"Too many people wanted too many things," School Superintendent Norman Winters said afterward. "We couldn't do what everyone wanted."

No inquest planned

CAIDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — Canyon County Coroner Harold Craven has decided against an inquest at this time into the gunshot death Nov. 5 of Mrs. June Helton.

A family friend found Mrs. Helton dead in her bed after a stepson of the woman told him on the telephone he could not wake his mother. An autopsy disclosed she had been shot in the back of the head.

"Due to the present facts an inquest at this time would serve no purpose other than to unnecessarily add to the unsettled problems of the family," Craven said.

'Schizophrenia' charged

BOISE (UPI) — A senatorial hopeful says a proposal to give the President emergency energy powers is political schizophrenia in action.

"These people who want to give the president tremendous powers in the fuel and energy crisis are the same people who want to impeach him for being incompetent," Robert L. Smith, Nampa, told the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation convention Tuesday.

Smith, who resigned as administrative assistant to Rep. Steve Symms to campaign for the Republican senatorial nomination, said "Americans can solve their own problems if the government will get out of the way."

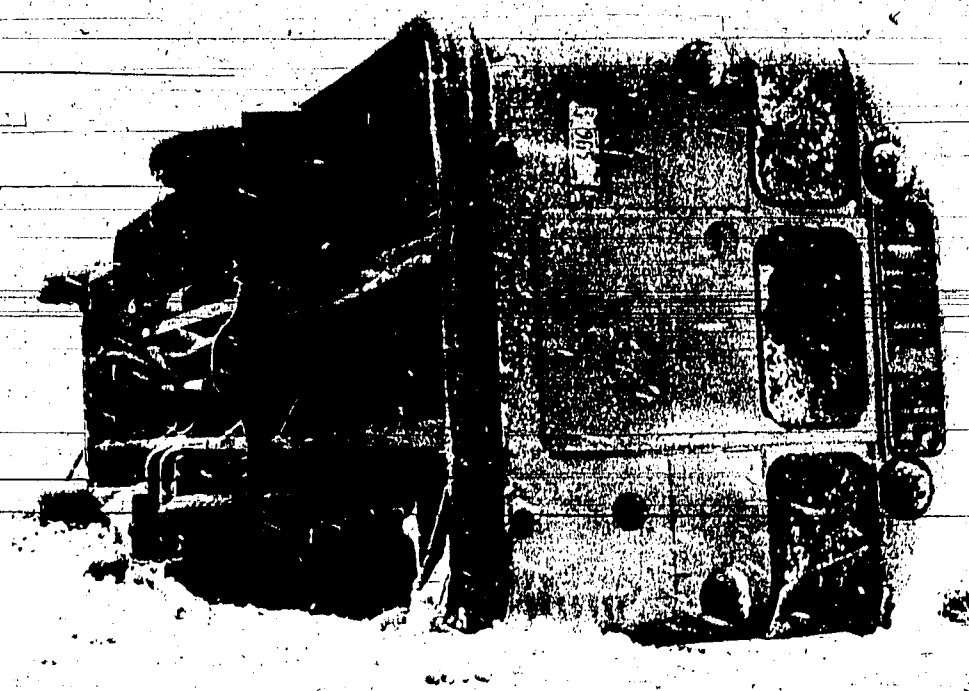

Bond sale set

HAGERMAN — A $380,000 bond sale will be held Monday at 8 p.m. at the Hagerman High School. Bids will be opened at that time for the construction of a new grade school.

Supt. Kenneth Black announced at the school board meeting Monday night that the coal bins for the school are full and the district may be able to get through the winter without any further purchases of fuel.

Black said that his contractor Dick Waite has assured him there would be enough gasoline for the buses. In order to conserve energy, Black said the district will be cutting back heat in the schools during the evenings particularly and the district has adopted a turn-out-the-lights policy.

The trustees accepted an audit report from George Carrico of Carrico and Oakley, Gooding, who reported the district was in good financial condition.

Jerome school bus overturns—no children aboard

Ada counselor speaks in TF

When the patient begins to accept that he has cancer and is going to die, Dawson said, then he faces reality and begins to deal with it by completing his business. He gave the example of a young man who was dying who worked out with his wife methods for continuing to pay for a home they had bought.

Dawson said family members and friends of the terminally ill really say things to make themselves feel better, at least at first, and do not confront the patient or his disease. "You can only talk about the baseball scores for so long a time and keep them meaningful," he said.

He said the patient should be given an opportunity to talk openly and honestly about his feelings about his cancer and this takes acceptance of the disease by the friend or relative.

People paint rose picture of an afterlife and ignore the process of dying itself, Dawson said. He said statistics show as a terminally ill patient gets closer to death the nurse or attendant unconsciously takes longer to answer the patient's bell.

Dawson said work with the terminal cancer patients at the tumor institute has taught him that, to the patient, "whatever life is left is a lot more interesting if the problem is confronted."

Changes made on MV service

GOODING — The Magic Valley Ambulance Service has changed personnel and telephone communications in Gooding County.

The ambulance service has hired new "full-time" operators and added an extension telephone in the Gooding County sheriff's office, according to owner Cloyce Edwards. The extension phone will permit dispatching of ambulances from the sheriff's office.

Edwards also said a fourth ambulance may be added in Gooding County and probably in the Hagerman area.

Full-time ambulance workers will also be required to have Emergency Medical Technician certificates, Edwards said.

The changes were initiated after a meeting Friday including Edwards, Gooding County Sheriff Earl Brown and County Commissioner Chairman Ben Glauner.

Gooding County Commissioners met Monday with Everett Perry, a member of the Emergency Health Services branch of the Department of Environmental and Community Services.

Perry and the commissioners discussed the recent changes in ambulance service.

Perry last met with the commissioners at the ambulance hearing on Nov. 5, at which time the commissioners were taking testimony concerning the ambulance service.

The county commissioners told Perry that they would go along with the current ambulance service and that the changes proposed by the service should prove satisfactory to the commissioners and county residents.

Perry told the Times-News that his office is concerned that residents of Gooding County receive quality emergency medical care.

Wendell aides okay program

WENDELL — The Wendell School Trustees approved a community education program for Wendell adults at their meeting Monday night.

A survey will be taken to determine what night classes should be offered.

Vard McHan and Fred Maltz have been appointed to meet with teacher representatives to discuss possible changes and upgrading of the district's grading system.

Jack Varin, Gooding, has been retained as legal counsel for the district.

The board agreed to participate in the Idaho School District Cooperative Service Council. The council will purchase in large quantities school supplies needed for the participating schools.

Land purchase okay sought

JEROME — The Jerome School Board will seek approval from the Office of Education for purchase of 120 acres of Bureau of Land Management land east of Jerome.

The trustees and Supt. John Campbell will meet at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday with John Bean, Seattle, Wash., Office of Education to acquaint him with the district's proposed purchase of the land located one-fourth mile south of the State Highway 93 and 25 junction on the west side of Highway 93 about three and one-fourth miles east of Jerome.

Campbell told the trustees Monday night that written approval must be obtained from the Office of Education and submitted to the BLM. Campbell said he could see no trouble in getting approval and that Bean's visit was to acquaint him with the project in order to do the necessary paperwork.

Campbell read a letter to the board from the BLM which stated that the district's application for the 120 acres had been approved. He said that under the qualifying reservations stipulated, the school district would have to pass a school bond before a patent on the land could be issued.

"An adequate plan of development, showing in detail the amount of land needed to facilitate the educational complex will also have to be submitted prior to patenting the land. This would mean the district would have to have an architectural design plus engineering specifications to submit with a long range proposal for the entire 120 acres," Campbell said.

Board chairman Lyle Van Orman read a letter from the Idaho Highway Department which said that the department has a two fold interest in the location of the district's new high school. The letter said the department has been taking borrow material off the north 40 acres of the proposed site and hopes some kind of arrangement can be made with the district to permit continued removal of the material by the department.

The letter also said the department is concerned about possible traffic hazards created on State Highway 93 by the new high school. It was suggested that the school board propose entrance and exit to the school grounds from Highway 25.

Campbell said he could see no problem with traffic in the area and said "the highway department is just worried about losing their borrow materials and the only way they can get anyone to hear a protest is to claim we would be a traffic hazard."

Following discussion, it was agreed that the board has not decided to build a new high school and the letter from the highway department should be tabled until a later date.

Mrs. Forrest Hymas, board member, said the board should not be in a hurry about a new high school until the School Needs Assessment Project has been completed and the district knows what the people want.

Campbell said, in his opinion, the school patrons want a new high school and the SNAP program, while it will be good for the district, is not going to change the fact that "we need a new high school now in order to meet the district's facility needs."

"One thing I want this town and everyone to be aware of is that we can take the grade school

Jerome bus overturns

JEROME — Frank O'Hare, Jerome, was treated for minor injuries at St. Benedict's Hospital this morning following a school bus accident on State Highway 25. There were no children aboard.

Idaho State Police said O'Hare left the school bus barn on his way to pickup school children and was headed east on Highway 25 when he skidded on ice. The bus flipped over on its side when he hit the borrow pit.

O'Hare was taken to St. Benedict's Hospital where he was treated and released. Supt. John Campbell said the bus company dispatched another bus for the students. "They arrived at school late but safe," Campbell said.

Rail crossings studied

SHOSHONE — A move to control the traffic hazard at railroad crossings in downtown Shoshone took more definite form Tuesday when city, railroad and highway department officials met here.

A proposal was made to the city for consideration to close the Apple Street crossing and allow increase of speed for trains through the city to 59 miles per hour. The present speed limit is 35 miles per hour.

With this proposal railroad officials said a smooth wide pedestrian crossing would be constructed at the Apple Street crossing and the Highway 93 crossing would be made into an "A-1" class.

This would include a pedestrian lane, installation of gates and flashing red lights, removal of two and possibly three of the present tracks.

The Apple Street crossing would be used for bicycles and pedestrians and the railroad would be fenced on both sides, west from this location. Mayor Ellwood R. Werry said a public meeting will be held at 7 p.m. Dec. 12 in the Lincoln County Courthouse in Shoshone with highway, railroad and city officials present to answer questions.

After this meeting the city will then act on proposals made Tuesday and based on the consensus of opinion from local residents.

Minidoka building revised

RUPERT — Minidoka County revised its one year moratorium on building in high substrate areas Tuesday to allow construction of housing in platted subdivisions.

The county commissioners voted unanimously to allow building in platted subdivisions if completed housing in the area has experienced no problems with the high substrate.

The motion specified, however, that the houses, septic tanks and drainfields must be 48 inches above the high water level. It is allowable for earth to be brought to the site to build up the land above the water level to the appropriate height.

Originally, the moratorium called for a half of all building on less than five acres of ground where the substrate level was less than 48 inches below the ground level until studies could be made of the high substrate problems.

The change was made after the commissioners heard an explanation of the mounding process, or the building up of ground levels for installation of septic tanks, by Gerald Hurst, district environmental director of the South Central Health District.

Although the Health Department recommends six feet of ground between septic tanks and the high substrate levels, Hurst told the commissioners, it has been found that because of good filterable soil in this area, four feet is adequate.

The mounding system "is a workable system and we would approve it" if the construction met the health department's specifications, Hurst said.

"We don't care whether you haul it in (the dirt) or nature put it there," he said, as long as the ground level is 48 inches above the substrate.

Hurst told the commissioners, "I don't like the mound system, but there aren't many counties with our high sub-levels."

The chairman of the new Minidoka County Waterways Committee, Harvey Hollinger, reported to the commissioners that a site about three-eighths of a mile below Minidoka dam had been selected for the construction of a small park and boat launching ramp.

The land belongs to the Bureau of Reclamation and already has a picnic table and gravel access road, Hollinger said.

The construction of a boat ramp would cost the county about $2,500, he said. The ramp should be built now while the water in the Snake River is at a low level, according to Hollinger.

Hollinger said the committee hopes to eventually build ramps for water skiing between this site and the city of Heyburn.

A's Jackson unanimously named American loop MVP

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reggie Jackson, the Oakland A's star slugger, was selected unanimously Tuesday as the Most Valuable Player in the American League, but said he had to do a lot more than he already has to justify the honor.

conceded he had expected it — but was surprised, he said, by the unanimous vote, only the seventh in major league history.

Orioles, named "winner" last week of the American League Cy Young Award as the top pitcher, finished second in the voting; and centerfielder Amos Otis of Kansas City was third.

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — World Light-Heavyweight King Bob Foster, who makes history Dec. 1 when he becomes the first black boxer to meet a white in the professional ring in South Africa, received a hero's welcome Tuesday when he arrived for his second title bout against local champion Pierre Fourie.

Tennessee State has championship iced

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tennessee State, with only one game remaining on its regular season schedule, today appeared the odds-on choice to replace Delaware as national college division football champion.

In the latest ratings released by the United Press International Board of Coaches, the Tigers of coach John Merritt retained their big lead over Hawaii, Western Kentucky and Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo with just two weeks of voting remaining.

Wittenberg of Ohio, which has completed its regular season schedule, was sixth followed by Elon of North Carolina; Abilene Christian, Grambling and Nevada-Las Vegas.

Tennessee State will wind up its regular season this Saturday against Alabama State.

Gilbert will charge for $100,000 prize

PINEHURST, N.C. (UPI) — With $100,000 at stake, Gibby Gilbert has no intention of going conservative.

Gilbert is confident, too, since all of the final four rounds will be played over the No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club, a 7,007-yard, par-71 layout he conquered both times he played it in the first half of the tournament with a record-breaking 62 and then a 70.

"I want to shoot for a real good round Wednesday and see if I can't increase my lead," Gilbert said before starting round five of the marathon $500,000 World Open Golf Championship.

Gilbert, who has had to struggle to survive during his first six years on the tour, has put himself into excellent position to capture the richest purse in golf history by shooting a four-under-par 280 for the first half of this eight-round tournament.

Inevitably, and despite his constant reminder that "there's still a long way to go, the subject of money winds its way into any conversation with Gilbert.

"It's unreal," says the 32-year-old native Tennessee of the $100,000 jackpot that could be his come Saturday.

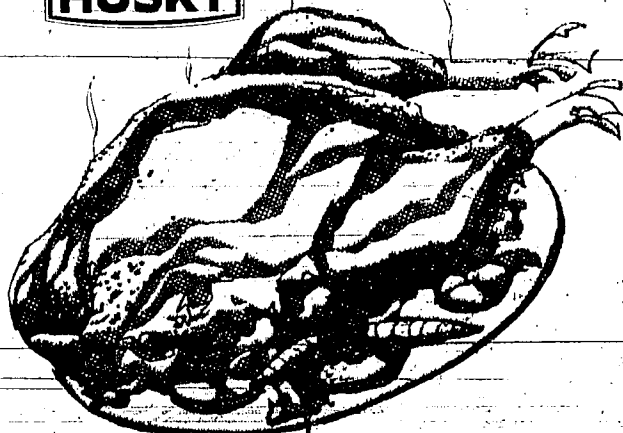

But the pressure of the money, along with the incidental task of racking up only the second victory of his career, doesn't seem to faze Gilbert.

"I haven't felt any of the pressure during the two days off," he said. "In fact, I enjoyed a couple of relaxed rounds under the sun. When I go out Wednesday I suppose I'll feel some pressure, but normally I play better under those conditions."

HEW rejects college plans

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, acting under a federal court order, said Tuesday it had rejected plans from nine states for desegregating their public college systems because the plans lacked adequate detail.

Given 90 days to improve their plans were Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania and Virginia. Louisiana and Mississippi were told to indicate their intent to submit plans by Nov. 30 or face further court action.

Maryland has submitted a partial plan and will offer a full plan later, said Peter E. Holmes, director of HEW's Office for Civil Rights.

"We are telling the states that while they are on the right track generally in dealing with the issue, their submissions made thus far still fall short of an acceptable plan," he said.

"The main problem is lack of details and specificity as to the desegregation impact of the action they proposed."

HEW is under court order to get voluntary college desegregation plans from the 10 states, including Maryland, by April 8 or to initiate legal action. This could involve either administrative hearings leading to a cutoff of federal funds or to the filing of lawsuits seeking court orders for desegregation, Holmes said.

He predicted court action rather than fund cutoffs for the states—that fail to submit acceptable plans.

In letters to governors and college officials, Holmes said the plans should show specifically the anticipated results of desegregation for students and faculty; should set time tables; should not place a greater burden on white than on black students, and should assure that minorities are given a voice in planning for desegregation.

"There are fears among blacks that desegregation would lead to the downgrading and closing of black colleges and the widespread loss of jobs by black administrators and faculty," said Holmes. "The letters made clear that we do not feel that desegregation can disproportionately burden the black community."

Monday concert scheduled

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for five years. I've always told her that I prefer well-filled out girls to skinny ones. My wife is really overweight, but knowing that I like a well-padded body has given her an excuse to get sloppy fat.

She is 5 feet 2, weighs about 170 pounds, and is still gaining. I've hinted that she should start reducing, but to no avail. How can I get it across to her that I would like her to lose about 40 pounds?

AIR FORCE HUSBAND

TWIN FALLS — For those who like good guitar music there is a treat in store Monday at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium. Leo Kottke, who is billed as a guitar player's guitar player, is not as well known in this area as many other sections of the country, but college music officials say his performances will be one of the highlights of the season.

The concert will be at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the Music Center, CSI Book Store and at the door.

Kottke, a recording artist for Capitol, has attained his fame without the benefit of reading a note of music. His abilities range from an intricate Bach fugue to the Byrds' "Eight Miles High" and his playing has been described as an "orchestra full of guitars."

He rose from Oblivion (the name of the first label he recorded for) to renown with his recording of "Greenhouse."

He developed a following by playing in small clubs around the country and began impressing both guitarists and non-players with his finger-picking style on the 12-string guitar.

Born in Athens, Ga., he developed an early interest in folk music and enjoyed Burl Ives, the Kingston Trio and Jimmie Rogers. After moving to Muskogee, Okla., he discovered country-western music while attending high school, played trombone in the high school marching band and played violin for three years.

His varied musical interests also include jazz and he is an opera fan and enjoys classical music.

Kottke attended college in St. Cloud, Minn., and now resides in Minneapolis, Minn., with his wife and collection of custom made guitars.

Recording for Takoma label, after being selected by John Fahey, another "underground" guitarist; he was introduced by Fahey to Denny Bruce who took him to Capitol. His first Capitol album, "Mudlark," sold more than 100,000 copies.

Retroactive pay hikes ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge found Northwest Air Lines guilty Tuesday of practicing widespread sex discrimination in its flight crews. The ruling could mean retroactive pay hikes of up to $250 a month for approximately 1,100 Northwest stewardesses.

U.S. District Judge Aubrey

Robinson ruled that the airline was in "willful violation" of federal equal pay and civil rights laws because it favored "male pursers" over female stewardesses in hiring, pay, promotions and working conditions.

"The job of purser and the job of stewardess require equal skill, effort and responsibility and are performed under similar working conditions," Robinson said in a 61-page opinion.

He said a judgment against Northwest would be entered later, so it was not known immediately how much money might be involved. But an attorney who represented the stewardesses in their class action suit said each woman could receive "as much as possibly $250 a month" in retroactive pay, depending on seniority.

"This is a highly significant victory in terms of clearing up sex discrimination in the airline industry as a whole," attorney Dennis D. Clark said in a telephone interview.

The suit was filed by 40 Northwest stewardesses in July, 1970. Since then, Clark said, about 1,100 more stewardesses joined in the case.

A similar class action suit brought by Trans World Air Lines stewardesses is pending in a federal court in New York.

TF miss sets Utah appearance

TWIN FALLS — Becky Reddick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Reddick, will appear Friday and Saturday in "Ballet Ensemble," a quarterly presentation of the University of Utah Ballet Department.

Performances will begin at 8 p.m. both evenings in the student theater of the dance building.

Miss Reddick will dance one of the maidens in "Le Sacre du Printemps" by Stravinsky and will be featured in a pas de deux in the second movement of "Concerto" set to music written by Saint Saen.

She is a freshman majoring in ballet at the university and a former student of Beverly Hackney.

City vs. suburb

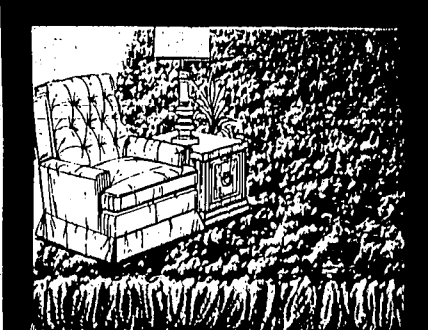

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama's port city of Mobile may find itself swallowed up by its small suburb of Chickasaw. A bill was introduced in the Alabama legislature to allow Chickasaw to annex part of Mobile. Mobile city officials say they vigorously oppose the measure.

Some 800 to 900 species of woody plants are native to California.

Hinting husband

DEAR ABBY: I would like to get the opinion of some hairdressers. My mother passed away, and a few hours later I got a phone call from a hairdresser saying she had heard the sad news, and wanted to come to the funeral home to fix my mother's hair. She said she thought so much of Mom she felt that this was the last favor she could do for her. I thanked her, and told her I appreciated her generosity. (No mention was made of money.)

After the funeral, this hairdresser called the funeral home and demanded $15. Of course I saw to it that she got her money, but I really think it is a shame that a person would call and offer her services as a "friend," and then ask for money.

She later said it was against the law to do that kind of work for free. Is it?

JUST WONDERING

DEAR JUST: If it is, it's news to me. Hairdressers?

DEAR ABBY: My husband says he thinks I don't like being married. I asked him why, and he said: "Because of the comments you make to single people, like, 'You're not missing anything,' or, 'You don't know when you're well off.'"

I know this sounds like a reflection on my marriage, but I'm not speaking of mine. I'm referring to the majority of marriages I read about in your column, and also in the statistics.

As a single person, I had no debts and was able to save a large sum of money. Since I've been married, I haven't saved a dollar and we always are in debt.

How can I convince my husband that I am satisfied with my marriage? I explained to him that I was not referring to our marriage, but only to marriages in general.

BIG MOUTH

DEAR BIG MOUTH: You will have a tough time convincing him—and also me!

CONFIDENTIAL TO E. S. H.: Thank you for making me an honorary senior citizen of the city of San Diego, Cal. It's a first for me. I hadn't considered myself ready for it, but if you take 'em at age 50, I qualified five years ago!

Blaine schools face gasoline lack for buses

HAILEY — Blaine County School District is feeling the brunt of the gasoline shortage with about 2,000 gallons presently on hand and "no guarantee for more," according to school officials. During a trustees meeting Monday night, trustee chairman Ronda Hunt said the district gas supplier, Adamson's, Carey, which is under a contract subject to availability of gas, had reported that they would only be able to supply to the district the about 815 gallons needed each month in Carey. The gas shortage also has been compounded by the theft of about 1,500 gallons from the district tank in Hailey during October. Supt. Wayne Fagg told the trustees that the stolen gas had been metered through the tank pumps and that the theft was under investigation by the Hailey Police Department. Fagg also said the district had purchased about 1,200 gallons last week and about 1,200 Monday from Conoco. District buses use about 200 gallons a day, he said. Hunt recommended that "we play this thing on a day-to-day basis," and to "pick-up every gallon we can get" to keep the tank full. Possible means to ease the district gas shortage, which were discussed by the trustees, included cutting down on activity trips and contacting dealers to determine if additional gas could be obtained.

Hailey City Council pays for 2-ton truck

HAILEY — Action taken by the Hailey City Council Monday night includes the following: Allocation of about $3,910 to complete payments on an about $7,800 two ton truck purchased this year for the street department. Mayor Lawrence Heagle appointed a committee to research legal and other details for a proposed lease of the city rodeo grounds by the Days of the Old West Committee and the Sawtooth Riding Club to enable the groups to conduct improvements. The committee, which will report at the next council meeting, includes Wallace Young, president of Days of the Old West, and councilman

Claude Porter and Charles Dunn. Young and Rupert House, representing the riding club, Monday night submitted a list of proposed improvements, totalling about $10,000 excluding labor. They included grass seeding, installation of pool fencing along the highway, installation of metal bleachers and bucking chutes and grandstand and bleacher repairs. Mayor Heagle announced the resignations of Hailey Police Chief Doug Williams and patrolman Ron Wyatt, who will work for the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement, and announced the appointment of Dan Norton, Hailey, as police chief.

Forester Art Selin presents program

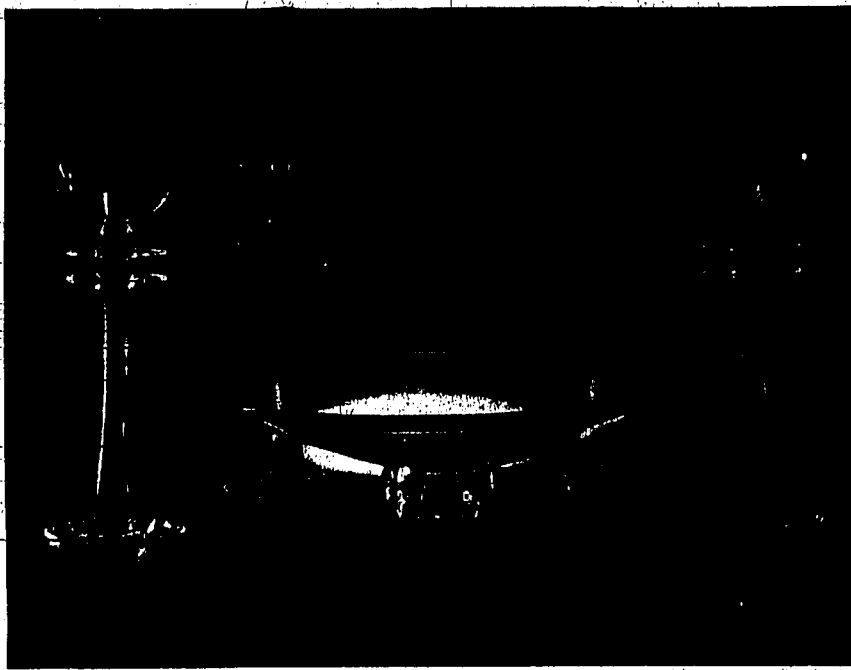

TWIN FALLS — The members of the DAR held their regular luncheon meeting at 1 p.m. Monday at the Rogerson Hotel Round-up room. Guest speaker was Art Selin and was introduced by Mrs. Ridgeway. Selin is a representative of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture Forest Service of the Intermountain Region. Literature and a map of the Sawtooth wilderness and recreation area were presented to those attending. Selin told of the objectives of the U.S. Forest Service and showed a very comprehensive slide program that is being prepared to be shown at the Redfish visitor center next summer. Pictures of Sunbeam Dam, Yankee Fork, Custer and many other points of interest were shown with appropriate recorded narration. A question and answer period followed the presentation. The business meeting was conducted by the regent, Mrs. L. H. Miller. The prayer was offered by Mrs. Gerald Roman followed by the president general's message read by Mrs. Mahlon Neumann. The inspirational thought was given by Mrs. Frank Palmer. Guests were Mrs. Primrose Beryl, Mrs. Margaret Shively, and Mrs. Lylo Schmitker. The next meeting will be a Christmas tea to be held at the home of Mrs. Neumann at 2 p.m. on Dec. 10th.

Pomerelle opening delayed

ALBION — Opening of the Pomerelle ski resort, originally planned for Friday will be delayed because of warm temperatures during the past week and lowering of snow depths. A. W. Anderson, resort owner, said the facilities will be open by Dec. 1 according to present plans and earlier if possible. A free Friday of skiing will open the season at Pomerelle with fees in effect on Saturday and Sunday. About two feet of snow on ski runs dropped to around one foot at the top during warm weather and rain last week, he said. Additional improvements underway on the lifts and lodge will also be completed by Dec. 1.

Symms votes no to federal spending

By JUDY PRISLEY
Times-News Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON, D. C. — A familiar voice as a "nay sayer" to most requests for government spending, Idaho's Republican Rep. Steven Symms continues his firm stand to whittle down the national budget and oppose economic control. To each of five bills in the House of Representatives calling for federal financing for a variety of purposes, Symms has, in the space of roughly two weeks, voted on the losing side when each bill passed. This is the scorecard: — Emergency Petroleum Act, passed 337 to 72. — Extending authorization for the cabinet committee on opportunities for Spanish-speaking people, passed 273 to 97. — Use of health maintenance organizations CHAMPUS program, passed 345 to 41. — Extending the Environmental Education Act, passed 335 to 60. — Extending the Drug Abuse Education Act, passed 372 to 13. In each of these issues Idaho's other Republican representative, Orval Hansen, voted on the majority side — which seems to reveal a serious split in Idaho's GOP Congressional delegation. Of the five bills which Symms voted against, the only one to which he commented on the floor of the House was the Emergency Petroleum Act. That bill was to "authorize and require the President to allocate crude oil and refined petroleum products to deal with existing or imminent shortages and dislocations in the national distribution system which jeopardize the public health, safety, or welfare. . . . The energy shortage, Symms said, is because "we are not allowing the marketplace to work. . . . We work so hard in this country to make socialism work instead of letting free enterprise work that we have created so much chaos. . . . If we can get rid of the wage and price controls, then we will not have to have rationing." Further opposition to government control was expressed by the representative in a section of the Congressional Record reserved for remarks. He charged "blatant misunderstanding of economics demonstrated by the Cost of Living Council" and commended an article from the "Packer" which approved the solution to the fertilizer shortage the removing of price ceilings — to increase — the domestic supply. One measure of federal control that Symms strongly supported — only to be on the losing side again — was last month's House vote for home rule for the District of Columbia. Laird wants all energy source tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Admittedly sticking his "cotton-pickin' fingers" into an area where they might be unwelcome, presidential adviser Melvin R. Laird suggested Tuesday special taxes on all kinds of energy sources as a means of coping with the current crisis.

Administration spokesmen have said they were studying the possibility of a surtax on gasoline (figures as high as 40 cents a gallon have been mentioned), but Laird went far beyond that.

The former defense secretary, now President Nixon's domestic adviser, said taxes should be imposed not only on gasoline but on fuel oil, electricity and natural gas as well.

In late summer, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, head of Nixon's economic team, became angry at Laird's suggestion that income taxes be raised as an "anti-inflation move. In Tokyo when he heard of Laird's suggestion, Shultz said Laird should "keep his cotton-pickin' hands off" economic matters.

Laird today however reasserted his faith in use of the tax system to deal with major areas of economic concern, including the energy crisis.

Interviewed on the NBC-TV "Today Show," Laird was asked about the possibility of rationing or higher taxes, or both, as means of alleviating shortages. He called for a combination of the two.

"I don't want to get my cotton-pickin' fingers over in the Treasury Department," Laird said. "These recommendations will have to come from the Treasury and the secretary of the Treasury will have to come forward with those recommendations."

"But...I'm glad to bring my cotton-pickin' fingers in there a little bit because I'm a strong believer in the use of taxation whether it be taxation for gasoline or home fuel oil."

Asked if he favored applying such taxes also to power and natural gas, Laird said: "Yes, I believe that is one thing that needs to be considered because that kind of incentive system will work and it will be fair and equitable for all."

"Those people that need the energy for going to and from work or for their homes or for other things can apply for certain refunds."

Oil men request immediate help

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — An advisory committee consisting of leading oil industry executives has warned the Nixon administration that gasoline rationing and fuel conservation measures must begin "immediately" if serious disruptions in the nation's economy are to be avoided.

The assessment by the National Petroleum Council, which advises the Interior Department on oil policy matters, is reportedly what led the White House to a turnaround over the weekend on the need for rationing.

The report, to be made public later this week, warns that by early next year the nationwide shortage of residual oil, which fuels heavy industries and public utilities, could reach 37 per cent.

For the East Coast, which is heavily dependent on oil imports from the Middle East, a shortage of up to 48 per cent is anticipated.

These shortages, the council says, could set off as much as a 10 per cent decline in the country's gross national product.

And this decline, it says, could push unemployment over 6 per cent.

The White House energy adviser, John A. Love, said last week he hoped that gasoline rationing could be avoided. Monday, however, after he was briefed on the contents of the council's report, he said in Houston that rationing is likely to begin early in 1974.

Love warned that the coming months were "going to be the gravest time of challenges this nation has faced short of war, perhaps in its whole history."

He told about 2,000 oilmen at the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute that the oil shortage will require many years to solve and will result in basic changes in the nation's lifestyle and perhaps its economy.

How frequently are marriages performed in this country to unite not just two but more than two citizens to make one family? Nobody knows exactly. But a California coed is quoted as saying...

In numerous municipalities, they are Police frowned on that fairly common scene years ago wherein citizens on the streets went to and fro in masks.

Did I say those hot winds in Southern California are called "Santanas"? You know our column motto "Wrong again..." An irrefutable authority says they're rightfully named "Santa Anas" for the simple reason that they blow down the Santa Ana River Canyon.

BPA energy better

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The administrator of the Bonneville Power Administration says improved streamflow and "the most outstanding conservation effort anybody's ever heard of" were improving the energy situation.

"But energy shortages and conservation will be with us for years ahead," Don Hodel told the League of Oregon Cities meeting Monday.

"There's no justification in any society to waste any commodity," Hodel said. "The power deficits we face in the 1980s are far bigger with normal water flows than the deficits we face today."

But Hodel added that if the rains keep coming the "more stringent aspects" of the Northwest's conservation efforts can be eased by January. He said without a total effort in the northwest, consumers have been achieving a 5 to 6 per cent reduction in electrical use — well above the 2 or 3 per cent that had been predicted.

New power sources will have to be found and carefully energy use will have to be expanded in coming decades, Hodel said, but development of energy must go hand-in-hand with environmental protection so "we don't unbalance our society."

Hodel urged city officials to revise zoning ordinances so that governments make land-use decisions on power plants and major factories rather than no decisions at all.

The Hodge-podge we have been developing should be unacceptable to us, he said. "We need some overall concept of where we're going in the next 20 to 30 years."

"Right now, power companies are not sure what is expected, and the drawn out fights over the location of generating facilities, only makes them costlier," Hodel said.

Alta skiers asked to rough it

ALTA, Utah (UPI) — Skiers at Alta will be asked to rough it this winter — taking fewer showers and keeping the heat turned down in their darkened rooms.

Mayor William Levitt informed Utah Gov. Calvin L. Rampton Monday that Alta's town board had acted to meet the energy crisis with a list of recommendations for businesses and winter guests.

The town fathers asked for the distribution of information in all guest rooms, employee quarters, business establishments and private homes asking for cooperation in conserving fuel by "lowering thermostats, by limiting the use of hot water, by turning off unnecessary lights; by closing the windows and by other methods to help in the conservation of fuel."

They asked business establishments and private homes "to forego the use of ornamental outdoor holiday displays during the coming season," ski resort employees to form car-pools and not drive over 50 miles an hour, and the general public to use buses when visiting the resort about 20 miles outside of Salt Lake City.

Ricks' rolls decline

REXBURG — Registration at Ricks College for the fall semester fell to 4,760.

Eldred Stephenson, director of admissions, said Ricks followed somewhat the downward trend in higher education enrollment across the country. Ricks enrollment last year for the fall was 5,057.

"The liberal arts programs are down somewhat across the country with vocational studies gaining students," Stephenson said.

A four-year survey from 1968 to 1972 by the Teacher Insurance and Annuity Association showed enrollment at public two-year colleges grew by 45 per cent but declined by 9 per cent at private two-year colleges.

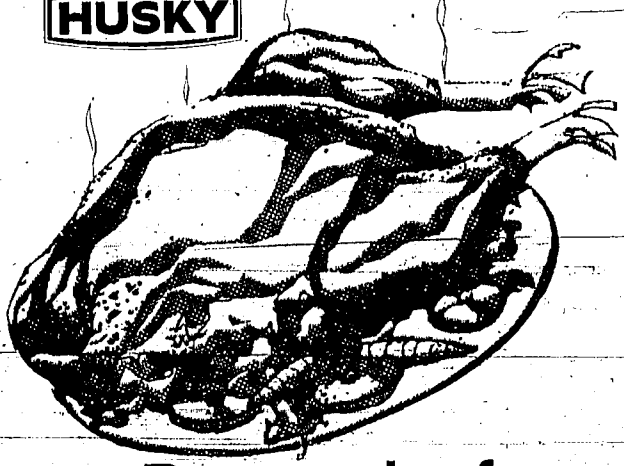

Ricks is the largest privately owned two-year college in America.

Rio Blanco gas tested

Moment of laughter

CHINESE Deputy Premier Chiao Kuan-hua and U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger laugh after Kissinger told Chiao, "We can solve all our problems here," during visit to Temple of Heaven in Peking. (UPI)

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (UPI) — Natural gas released by Project Rio Blanco will not be available for use by Colorado Springs this winter, a test official said Monday.

"The possibility of marketing Rio Blanco gas is pretty obscure at this point," said Rick Price of CER Geonuclear Corp., the industry sponsor of the test. "Before anything is done, there has to be approval by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) to market the gas."

Price said the AEC still had not decided whether to approve marketing of natural gas produced by Project Rulison outside Rulison, Colo., in 1969. He said a decision on Rio Blanco gas would follow.

"We're moving ahead as fast as possible on Rulison right now but I don't know the exact status," Price said. "There's an awful lot of red tape to go through. The procedure is just getting off the ground."

Last Friday, the Colorado Springs energy committee headed by former Mayor T. Eugene McCleary said that the gas produced by Project Rio Blanco was being considered for use during the winter to help out with the city's fuel shortage.

Project Rio Blanco occurred last May and consisted of the detonation of three 20-kiloton devices more than a mile beneath the ground to shatter buried rock formations and free natural gas. Natural gas was freed by a similar detonation.

McCleary said he understood that Project Rio Blanco gas would be available by January but Price said that initial evaluation of the radiation content and quality of the gas would not be completed for six months.

McClure seeks emergency status on energy crisis

By JUDY PRINGLEY
Times-News Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, D. C. — "Our economy could utterly collapse because of inaction," Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, said during a Senate subcommittee hearing on Wednesday.

McClure called upon the President to "initiate a national emergency on the energy crisis."

"How much of a crisis must we have before we move?" he questioned, citing "glacial progress" by Congress as well as by the administration both preceding and during the present national energy crisis.

"Geothermal energy will not get us by this crisis," the Idaho Republican continued, "but if we hadn't waited till now to get going, maybe it would be making some contribution now."

The hearing was held before the Subcommittee on Water and Power Resources of the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

The proceedings were chaired by Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho). In addition to the two Idaho senators, Senators Cliff Hansen (R-Wyoming) and Alan Bible (D-Nevada) were also present.

Comments from the Senate subcommittee members as well as from some of the five witnesses at the hearing, anticipated the President's message to the nation regarding the energy crisis.

"Time has run out on decisions that must be made," McClure further contended, pointing out that the President could act today under an old Defense Production Act to take steps to solve U. S. energy problems.

"Only one per cent of total authorized funds are for geothermal energy," was Church's rebuttal, "and that is the result of congressional action — not administrative."

"Based on the present level of funding, this thing will stretch out for a long, long time without much to show for it: As projected here, it is a very relaxed program. Geothermal continues to get very low priority," Church noted.

Johnson admitted that none of the $7 million Government funds tagged for energy research and development (with $4.7 million an AEC's anticipated portion) had been made available.

"Does this mean the funds have been impounded?" Nevada's Senator Bible queried. When Johnson answered in the negative, Bible, with a laugh, called him "a natural optimist who's been handcuffed."

The witness from the U.S. Geological Survey stated: "We are not using our geothermal resources to their capacity today, given even our existing technology. This can be changed through research and development, if we make the commitment."

Since the Senate's Geothermal Steam Act was passed in 1970, there has been a continuous sequence of criticisms, questions and new regulations, according to Sen. Church.

"Unlimited clean energy would be available in the Imperial Valley (of California), geothermal energy would solve all the problems," testified Albert M. Sheppard, secretary and treasurer of Geo-Energy Systems Inc., Los Angeles.

Sheppard also spoke of repeated communications with AEC in an effort to procure Federal funding for his company which has already secured eight patents in the geothermal field without Government aid.

Additional witnesses for private industry were Dr. Carel Otte, manager of Geothermal Union Oil Co. of California, and Stewart French, representing Joseph W. Aldin, general counsel to Magna Power Co. of Los Angeles.

"Commercial and industrial power needs of one million people could be supported by geothermal energy from the geysers field — equivalent to one major nuclear power plant," Dr. Otte claimed.

Coinciding with the Senate Subcommittee action in the area of geothermal energy was a statement from Idaho's Republican Congressman Orval Hansen.

Valley schools confabs success

VALLEY SCHOOLS — Reports on the recent parent-teacher conferences held in the Valley Schools were given in the regular school board meeting Monday night.

High school Principal William Mitchell reported two-thirds to three-fourths of the parents kept appointments with high school teachers. Eighty to 90 per cent of elementary students attended the conferences in the Eden and Hazelton grade schools, Bryce Sorenson, grade school principal, said.

transfer of $1,005 to the plant facilities fund from the bond interest and redemption fund which is being phased out.

Owen Severance met with the board and requested the trees on the north side of the high school property be removed. He said tree roots are causing problems with his irrigation system. His property borders the school. Board members agreed to remove the trees with the work to be done by agriculture students under supervision of a faculty member.

Supt. Arlyn Bodily said "We are real happy with the results of this new program and plan to hold similar conferences again during the third nine-week period."

The program was instigated to create an climate of understanding between teachers and parents, Bodily said.

"The board approved the

In other action the board voted to delay the purchase of new typewriters to replace those taken in a theft last month until a later meeting. The College of Southern Idaho has loaned the school some machines to use until their next term sometime in December. This has made it possible to hold regular classes until that time.

Greenleaf faces environmental realities of '70s

GREENLEAF, Idaho (UPI)—This quiet community is surrounded by patchwork farmlands and its unzoned boundaries allow cows and goats to graze in front yards along Main Street.

Those who live in this small Quaker town talk slowly and attentively. They look forward to going to the only grocery store, for it is there they always will run into someone they know.

There is no smog hanging between the town and the blue skies above. The 600 residents cannot recall the last major crime and when they read about the plight of large cities, they all shake their heads in disbelief.

But in spite of its peaceful and pastoral setting, federal regulations designed to protect the environment may change that.

Several months ago the federal Environmental Protection Agency and the State Health Department more or less forced this town, located 30 miles west of Boise, into becoming a city.

"The Health Department takes a dim view on running raw sewage directly into the creek," acting Mayor Lloyd Puntenny said as he sifted through an unwelcome pile of proposed ordinances from the last city council meeting.

At present, the city runs all its overflow sewage through a large pipe which empties into pipe gulch — eventually finding its way to the Boise River. Puntenny fears if the town does not get a treatment plant and the drainage pipe is closed off, some residents could be forced to move.

He said they cannot afford to get up drainage fields for their septic tanks.

"So there was nothing else we could do," he said. "We needed a sewer plant and the only way we could get it was to turn this quiet bedroom community into a city."

"The only way we could finance a treatment plant was first to incorporate and then apply for an Environmental Protection Agency grant," he said, shaking his head with sad reflection.

Residents of Greenleaf have fought incorporation for years, he said. They felt making the town into a city might attract undesirable.

But when they were told the sewage line would have to be capped and they needed a $300,000 sewage treatment plant, they buried their dreams of the pastoral life and faced the environmental realities of the 1970s.

Puntenny and others gathered 170 signatures and went to the Canyon County commissioners with an incorporation petition. Last June sleepy little Greenleaf became a city.

And with it have come the myriad problems that go with a city — budgets, employees, council meetings, candidates, special meetings and more meetings. So many, in fact, that few worry about the sewage problem any more.

Just the other day, Puntenny opened the city's first checking account.

"It was only $51, but that's a start," he said. "It cost us $13 to get a city seal."

But money is only a minor problem compared to the more pressing one of civic apathy.

"People just don't have much interest in city government," the 48-year-old reluctant mayor said, shuffling papers around his desk where he also works as the city's postmaster.

He stalked the town looking for candidates to run for city council and for mayor. He especially was interested in finding candidates for mayor. He doesn't want the job.

He waited until the last day for filing petitions to see if at least two persons would come forth to run for the city's highest office. When none appeared he filed his petition of nomination. Later, he found out another resident had filed for the office.

"I'm just too busy and the mayor's job takes a lot of time and it doesn't pay a salary," Puntenny said. "But I believe that all positions in city government should be contested."

Police officers see UFO

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An unidentified flying object photographed by two police officers turned out to be just a bright blip on the developed picture.

The officers, C. C. Smith and John Wynkoop, said they saw a bright bluish-white object in the sky Monday night while investigating reports of something in the sky over east Los Angeles.

They took a picture of the object from inside their moving patrol car but the finished print showed only a bright dot, apparently caused by a reflection from the camera's flash in the vehicle's windshield. The dot was about the size of a half-dollar, police said.

Smith and Wynkoop said they chased the object at speeds of 70 and 75 miles an hour but were unable to gain on it.

"I was a non-believer," Smith said. "Now I believe I've seen something. I know it's not an airplane, or a helicopter or a weather balloon. It's just undescrivable."

Smith, 29, is a four-year veteran of the Police Department, and Wynkoop, 28, has been on the force for five years.

They said they had just finished eating lunch about 9:15 p.m. when they received a couple of calls about an object in the sky.

"We went to investigate," Smith said, "and as we approached...we saw a bluish-white object, real bright, which appeared to be dropping at a 45 degree angle. It stopped and hovered for a brief period at a low altitude."

Smith said as they approached the object, it suddenly reversed itself and climbed at a 45 degree angle to an altitude of 1,000 or 1,500 feet where it again hovered temporarily, then moved off swiftly in a south to southwesterly direction.

The two officers said they chased the object at high speeds but were unable to gain on it.

Hearings set in Lewiston

WASHINGTON — Sen. Frank Church announced today that the hearings in Lewiston Dec. 14 and 15 on legislation to authorize a new Hells Canyon Recreational Area will be at the Lewis Clark Hotel.

The hearings are slated to begin at 9 a.m. each day.

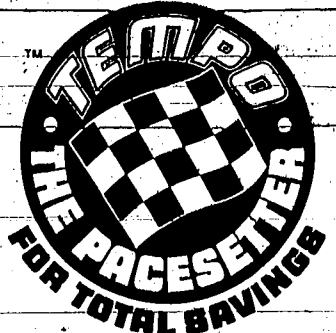

The bill under consideration is designed to provide permanent protection for the middle Snake River and the Hells Canyon area. It would establish a recreation area in the region between Hells Canyon dam and Asotin, Wash.

In addition, the bill would prohibit any further dam construction on the remaining undeveloped portions of the middle Snake; create a Hells Canyon wilderness within the recreation area; de-authorize the proposed Asotin dam; protect upstream water rights; preserve grazing on public lands involved; limit condemnation powers presently exercised by the Forest Service; designate segments of the wild and scenic rivers system and authorize funds to improve public access to the river.

Those wishing to testify at the December hearing should notify the Senate Interior Committee by either wire or letter by December 11. The address is Senate Interior Committee, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20510.
