Idaho speed cut 10 mph

Senate panel OK's Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Rules Committee voted unanimously today to recommend the confirmation of Rep. Gerald R. Ford as vice president.
All nine of the members were present and voted for confirmation. Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., said as he left the half-hour long private session of the panel.
(Earlier story, p. 5)
Cook said preparation of the formal committee report would be completed over the four-day Thanksgiving recess this week, and the Senate would start debate of the nomination on Monday with a vote expected Tuesday.
The committee action had been expected. Ford, 60, the House Republican leader, underwent four days of hearings and extensive investigations by the Senate panel.

John Wayne, wife separate

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor John Wayne and his wife of 19 years, Pilar, have agreed on a trial separation, a spokesman for the couple said Monday.
However, there are no plans for a divorce at this time, the spokesman said. Mrs. Wayne, 37, was born in Peru. They have three children, ages 6 to 17. No reasons were given for the separation.

Gate probers want Rebozo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Watergate committee staff members said today they would recommend that President Nixon's close friend Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo be called to testify in public hearings.
Additionally, there were reports that former Treasury Secretary John P. Connally also would be called in public hearings.

Mrs. Peron runs show 4 hours

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — For about four hours Monday, Argentine President Juan Peron left the country in his wife's charge while he went to Uruguay to sign a treaty settling a 100 year old border dispute.
Mrs. Maria Estela Peron, the vice president of Argentina, became the first woman to serve as acting president of a South American nation.

Wendell mulls school bond issue

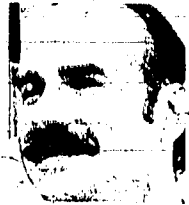

WENDELL — Wendell school trustees are considering a third bond issue election to finance construction of a gymnasium and other facilities.
The board met with Neal Kolbo, Boise architect, Monday evening and discussed possible remodeling to provide extra junior high school classrooms. They will meet again next week to inspect the vocational agriculture building for possible classroom use.
Supt. Lawrence Larue said the bond issue will be considered when a firm cost estimate is received. Previous bond issues were defeated by narrow margins in May and November, 1972.

DST bill hits pay snag

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today a bill establishing year-round Daylight Saving Time will not be considered until some Republicans stop trying to attach a minimum wage amendment to it.

DC bar suspends Liddy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy was suspended from practice of law before the U. S. Supreme Court Monday and given 40 days to show why he should not be disbarred.
Liddy had earlier been disbarred in New York, after disciplinary proceedings had been brought by the bar association in New York City.

IRA starts new bomb campaign

BELFAST (UPI) — The Irish Republican Army (IRA) launched a new bomb and bullet campaign today and Protestant extremists threatened to start killing moderate Protestant politicians.

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News Capitol Bureau
BOISE — The State Highway Board today ordered a 10 mile per hour reduction in maximum speed limits on Interstate and primary highways in Idaho.
The action followed a request for the reduction by Gov. Cecil Andrus.
The reduction will set the maximum speed on interstate highways at 60 miles per hour and reduce the speed limit on primary highways in the state system to 50 miles per hour.
Highway Board Chairman Carl Moore, Lewiston, said the new speed limits will become effective in each area of the state as new signs are put up by highway crews. He estimated it would take about two weeks to complete construction of signs.
Andrus said he made his request to conserve fuel and to put the state into conformity with the wishes of President Nixon, who two weeks ago requested a reduction nationwide in maximum speed limits to 50 miles per hour. But the governor noted that certain conditions in Idaho "make it impossible to comply with that level" on all roads.

Andrus said the reduction in speed limits that he requested and the board approved would result in a gasoline savings of about 13 per cent statewide. He said his estimates were based on tests conducted by the Department of Highways earlier this month.
The governor said he and the Highway board also "collectively request that the State Police strictly enforce" the new speed limits.
Moore said the new speed limits were going to inconvenience a great number of people but were "obviously necessary." Moore also said a short supply of fuel is having an impact on the operations of the Department of Highways. He said maintenance costs have risen as a result of an increase in fuel prices and that the department has been conserving fuel since early this summer.

He also predicted there would be some decline in highway revenue because of the cutback in fuel use across the state.
Andrus reiterated his opposition to a stiff federal tax on gasoline as a way of cutting down on fuel use because it puts the burden unfairly on poor people.
He also said he didn't think that an increase in the state tax would be necessary at this point to offset the reduction in revenue the Highway Department is anticipating.
The governor said the reduction of speed on the interstate highway would add about 30 minutes to a trip between Boise and Pocatello, but he also said that in addition to conserving fuel, reduction in speed limits would increase traffic safety.

Officials estimate the cost of sign construction at $50,000.
Andrus said consideration had been given to dropping the maximum speed to 50 mph on all highways but said this could have an adverse effect on gasoline consumption by trucks and buses on the interstate because of a drop in gears by such vehicles.
Board member Lloyd Barron of Fairfield warned that if Idaho goes into a long hard winter, fuel shortage might force closure of some roads for periods of time if fuel supplies cannot be obtained by maintenance crews. He expressed the hope the department will post proper warnings so motorists will not be stuck on snowbound highways.

End of trail Lewis-Clark trek ends in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Five young men retracing the 3,800-mile trek which took Lewis and Clark across America's heartland said at the end of their five-month journey Monday that Americans have not been born by the problems of their leaders in Washington.
"They're disgusted with Watergate, all right," said Gary Kimsey of Independence, Mo., "but the spirit is still there." The five modern day "explorers" left the Pacific Coast at Astoria, Ore., June 7 to re-enact the historic 1803 journey in reverse. They were out of touch with the news for days and even weeks at a time.
"We didn't get out for 14 days when I looked at a news magazine in Montana and saw something about Watergate," said Mike Wlen of Highland Park, Ill. "I asked somebody what it was, and he looked at me like I was a dummy."
"When we got to Sioux City," added Mike

Cochran, 29, Grand Junction, Colo., "we found out we didn't have a vice president."
"That's kind of ironic because that's where Lewis and Clark asked a French trader about the state of politics in the country," Cochran said.
But the five said they had the same optimism about the future of America that their earlier counterparts had after exploring the land and its natives.
"From just reading about all the shocking events, you'd think America was about to fall apart," Kimsey said. "But we've met over 2,000 people — from bricklayers to housewives to governors — and the attitude we've seen is one of optimism."
"People are very interested in history," Wlen added. "In fact, they were more interested in hearing about our journey than they were in relating to us the current events of the world."

The five paddled their kayak and two canoes through the Mississippi Monday to the levee below the Gateway Arch, where they were met by city officials, relatives and girl friends.
Clay Asher of Twin Falls, Idaho, at 18 the youngest of the five, was presented with a bottle of champagne while Bob Miller of Albuquerque, N.M., was draped with a string of peppers by his mother.
While the nearly five months in canoes resulted in cramped legs, the tan, lean explorers said the hardest part of their journey began in Loviston, Idaho, where they left the boats for a 435-mile hike through the Bitterroot Mountains.
They carried 65-pound packs loaded with freeze-dried foods and such necessities as flour, sugar and peanut butter.

Home park loses

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Scorched by public dissent, the plans of Arlie and Robert White for a trailer park on Eastland Drive were rejected by the Twin Falls City Council Monday.
But the Whites' attorney, Lloyd Walker, pledged to bring the mobile home park issue before the city officials again and "go to court" if handed another rejection.
In a 5-2 vote, the council turned down an ordinance annexing the 19-acre trailer park. Mayor John Christoffersen and councilman Winston Jones voted for annexation.
The action eliminated the need for another vote on a conditional-use ordinance allowing a mobile home park on the annexed land.
Five persons spoke in opposition to the trailer park Monday, most of them restricting their comments to the statement, "I definitely oppose it." Many were veteran dissenters on the hard-fought issue and had expressed themselves at prior council meetings.
Even Walker, who in the past has given extensive statements supporting the park, cut short his comment. "We are essentially asking for sewer and water connections."
At the end of the meeting voting at the request of city attorney William Langley, the council rejected out-of-city sewer and water connections for the mobile home park. Jones cast the "only" vote in favor of the action.
The county has approved the park, but with a condition that city sewer and water be granted.
After the council meeting, Walker told the Times-News that his clients would submit a formal request to the city for sewer and water utilities. "I don't think there was actually a request (for sewer and water) before the council," he said.
If the request is rejected, "then we'll go to court. It's as simple as that," Walker said.
The city would be discriminatory in not granting the services to the mobile home park, according to Walker. He cited out-of-city utility hook-ups granted to K mart and others.
"It's all or nothing," Walker told the Times-News. "If they deny us, then we'll get a court injunction to stop (sewer and water) service to K mart and the others."
He could force power plants that can switch from "clean" but scarce fuels to "dirty" but plentiful ones to do so.
He could ease up on clean-air requirements.
He could set a specific reduction of energy use by businesses. He could provide incentives for car pooling and use of mass transit.

Israeli cabinet mulling Suez pullback proposal

By United Press International
The Israeli cabinet met in emergency session in Jerusalem today to discuss what a government source described as delicate negotiations with Egypt over a proposal for both armies to withdraw to their prewar positions along the Suez Canal.
Maj. Gen. Ahiron Yariv, Prime Minister

Golda Meir's special adviser and chief negotiator for Israel, walked into the meeting with the armed forces chief of staff, Lt. Gen. David Elazar. Both carried big maps.
The reason for the urgency of the meeting was not known, but Cairo reports said Egyptian officials were awaiting the "outcome of unspecified 'international action' aimed at bringing pressure on Israel to withdraw to the Oct. 22 ceasefire lines.
New difficulties arose over Israeli construction of a causeway across the Suez Canal and diplomatic sources in Cairo said Egypt had asked the United Nations for a detailed report about the bridge which Cairo considers a serious breach of the ceasefire stabilization agreement.
The sources said Egyptian Foreign Undersecretary Mustafa Lutfi made the request Monday to Maj. Gen. Ensis Sillasvuo.

Bax studies new job cut

By GEORGE FRANK
BOISE (UPI) — The administrator of the giant Department of Environmental and Community Services says he is not running a popularity contest and will continue to eliminate more positions in DECS.
James A. Bax, administrator, said Monday night he will abolish another 400 positions which are waiting to be filled.
"I am not running a popularity contest or a finishing school," Bax said. "My top priority is the people that this department serves and the taxpayers."
Bax's statement followed a disclosure that the administrative aide to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus was looking into possible "management problems" in DECS.
Just how serious this "problem" might be, however, is not clear, according to William J. Murphy, Andrus' assistant.
Last week, Bax announced he would eliminate 60 jobs, some of them unfilled. The cutback included a dozen key administrative positions with a total payroll of $200,000. He said at that time all employees whose jobs were eliminated would be offered other jobs in the central office or one of the seven recently created regions.
Murphy said he already has met with one former top executive in the department. He said he will try to talk with others about the reorganization.
"There are always two sides to a story," Murphy said, when asked about the interviews.

Student, 90, dies

BURLEY — The oldest college student in the United States, a former Burley resident, Dr. George Edward Craner, 90, died Sunday at Ogden.
He had been attending classes at Weber State College in Ogden, almost since the time he retired from his Burley practice as an ear, eye and nose specialist and moved to Ogden in 1953.
Mrs. Arthur Craner, Burley, sister in law of Dr. Craner said he enrolled at Weber State and was "well accepted" by both faculty and students. He studied geology and various sciences. College research by Weber State officials credited him with being America's oldest college student.
He was not interested in the credit, she said, but became a student for his own enjoyment and benefit. She said he was actually a "student" most of his life, always studying and reading.
He was active in reclamation projects and helped promote the North Side reclamation project in Mindoka County for veterans' homesteading. He also worked to develop the Ralt River electrical service and other area projects.

Heavy snow due

BOISE — Travellers in Southern Idaho have been warned to expect up to six inches of snow and gusty winds tonight.
The National Weather Service said today a snow storm in northern Idaho is expected to spread into the Magic Valley by this evening. It will leave up to six inches of snow, with locally heavier amounts in the mountains. Strong winds will make driving hazardous with drifting and blowing snow.
A heavy snow watch is in effect through Wednesday in southeastern Idaho.

Senate grants energy powers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has voted President Nixon the sweeping powers he requested to deal with the energy crisis, and the administration was reported considering a plan to ban Sunday gasoline sales.
The Senate passed the energy emergency bill 78 to 6 Monday. If approved by the House it would allow Nixon to ration gasoline and other fuels, limit energy use by business, relax clean air rules and curb oil exports.
Meanwhile, a cabinet-level administration task force, was reported by The Washington Post to have recommended to President Nixon Monday that he ban sale of gasoline from 9 p.m. Saturdays until midnight Sundays in order to discourage Sunday driving.
The Post said the plan also called for a 10-gallon limit on gasoline sales per vehicle from midnight Fridays to 9 p.m. Saturdays to make it harder to gas up ahead of time for a Sunday drive. The proposals

McClure acts as Mid-East envoy

Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Idaho Republican Sen. James McClure appears to have preempted Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's assistant for the Middle East, Joseph Sisco, by accepting an invitation to visit Kuwait, whose government recently turned Sisco away.

Sen. McClure is on his way to the Middle East where he is scheduled to visit Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Lebanon and Jordan as well as Kuwait, whose government is financing his trip, according to McClure's press secretary, James Norrell.

"The senator is not traveling at government expense," Norrell said. He explained the Idaho senator was first approached by the Kuwait government after he gave a speech in Texas last spring urging that the U. S. "attain a balanced relationship with the Arabs, since they are an emerging power."

In a statement issued Sunday night, McClure said: "Many Arab leaders have come to think of me as someone in Washington who understands their problems."

His statement did not mention which Arab leaders. Nor was Norrell able to disclose which Arab leaders he was to meet in Kuwait or the other Arab nations.

At the embassy of Kuwait, the embassy's counselor, Jamil al-Hassani, told the Times-News, Sen. McClure is "travelling to Kuwait on his own. We sent a cable saying that he is coming and we will take care of his expenses while he is in our country, but not his plane fare."

Who, then, will pay the fare — $1,857.80 — according to Pan American — for Sen. McClure's two week trip to the Middle East?

Replied al-Hassani, "I don't know."

When asked the same question, McClure's press aide answered, "It was my understanding that his entire trip was as a guest of the government of Kuwait. But whatever the arrangement that seems incidental to the news that he is going. We're getting tremendous response on that."

When asked if he was aware of the fact that Sisco was turned away by Kuwait, Norrell said he was not.

At the State Department, Joseph Briggs, public affairs adviser for Near Eastern and South Asian affairs, was asked about McClure's travelling where Sisco has been excluded.

Other than any comment on McClure, Briggs denied Sisco's visit had even been finalized. "His visit to Kuwait was discussed with the Kuwait government, but no decision was made. A story was broken prematurely about the trip on Oct. 30 — but right from the start we explained that this was a tentative schedule."

But the Beirut Daily News, the Kuwait daily, Al-Sayassah, and Reuters International wire service all reported that the Kuwait government had refused to receive Sisco. The Reuters dispatch included a confirmation of the Sisco rejection by the Kuwait foreign ministry.

Sen. McClure is not a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, as is Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho. But Church has supported military aid to Israel, while McClure has opposed what he terms "massive aid" — what she (Israel) needs to escalate war.

Storm's aftermath

AN UNIDENTIFIED Oklahoma highway patrolman carries infant victim found lying beside street in a Moore trailer park after tornado-like winds demolished dozens of mobile homes. The strong winds ripped through the mobile home park at 8 p.m. Monday without warning. (UPI)

Oklahoma winds kill 5, injure 60

BLANCHARD, Okla. (UPI) — Tornadoes raked Kansas and Oklahoma Monday night, killing five persons in Oklahoma, injuring 60 more and causing at least $6 million in property damage to a number of cities and towns.

Property damage was estimated at $3 million at Tonkawa, a northern Oklahoma town near the Kansas border. The deaths and many of the injuries occurred in suburban areas of Oklahoma's heavily populated midsection.

Two persons, a woman and her 3-week-old child, were killed in Blanchard and three other persons died in Moore, Okla.

Ray Saunders, 77, a security guard, was crushed under a concrete piling when winds or the Moore twister toppled the Oklahoma Twister warehouse just south of Oklahoma City.

Robbie Maynard, a 4-month-old child, was found in a mud puddle by a highway patrolman when rescue workers tried to clean up the Royal Park Mobile Home park, one of the most devastated areas in Moore.

The second child killed in Moore was found about midnight when rescue workers lifted an overturned mobile home, one of a dozen heavily damaged trailers. Forty-five of the injured were in Moore. Most of them were treated for cuts and broken bones and released from three hospitals.

Another 30 mobile homes were destroyed by the tornado, undersheriff Bob Lamb said today.

Just about everything was destroyed there," he said.

Fifty national guardsmen were called in to protect damaged areas from looting, which Lamb said had begun within an hour after the storm.

A woman and her child were killed in — Blanchard — when, according to a spokesman, "The tornado blew away about one-third of the town."

They were identified as Linda Hill and her son, David.

Five of the injuries were reported at Blanchard, mostly from flying debris.

The funnel that struck Blanchard knocked out all electrical power in the town. A trailer park received the brunt of the damage by the Moore tornado.

"We were watching television and all of a sudden the house started shaking and everything started going everywhere," a resident of the park said.

Between 15 and 20 trailers were damaged.

Hail and heavy rains accompanied the funnel clouds to Kansas and Oklahoma. Many rural roads in Kansas were impassable.

Tornadoes tore roofs from homes and uprooted trees around the Kansas communities of Hutchinson, St. John, Ellwood and Seward.

Fire Chief Eddie Manley of Tonkawa, Okla., said a tornado struck his community causing thousands of dollars in damage.

"All the power lines are down," he said. "We've got trailer houses turned over, rooftops are blown away. Both city warehouses are flat on the ground and the city trucks are covered with bricks."

NEW SCIENCE OF CONSCIOUSNESS

Attend the Alpha Awareness

SEMINAR ADMISSION... $3.00

All over the world, a vast amount of research is going on in what some scientists of parapsychology have described as a science of consciousness. This research is going in many different directions and has very profound application in many different areas.

Research has proven that an individual can learn to exercise a great deal of conscious control over the autonomic nervous system, producing such results as stopping or controlling tension or migraine headaches, raising or lowering of blood pressure by conscious desire, causing irregular heartbeat, to become normal, regulating fluid level in the kidneys, developing the ability to go to sleep without drugs or to stay awake and mentally alert for longer periods without drugs. This research has shown that individuals can become completely relaxed mentally and physically in nearly any pressure situation.

In other areas, the research has demonstrated the measurable effects of the thoughts and feelings of human beings upon plants and animals.

The research has proven that individuals can learn to enhance their extrasensory awareness or intuition, thereby giving them better hunches and ideas in their daily routine and work. In 1971, at a meeting at the American Association for the Advancement of Science, experiments showed that corporations with the past five years had executives who scored above average in extrasensory awareness. Those corporations in the experiment which had low profit gains or deficits scored below average in extrasensory awareness.

Research has demonstrated that through controlling the brain and states of consciousness, an individual's learning ability can be tremendously improved.

There has been successful application in working with drug addicts and alcoholics. Other research has gone in the direction of mental retardation with profound results.

The autogenic research in Europe demonstrates that many psychosomatic problems lessen or disappear when an individual learns to allow a self-stabilizing process of the brain to occur.

Gem narcotic info sought

Special to the Times-News
POCATELLO — A former state narcotics officer now charged with misuse of public funds is seeking access to certain state payment records in connection with the charges pending against him.

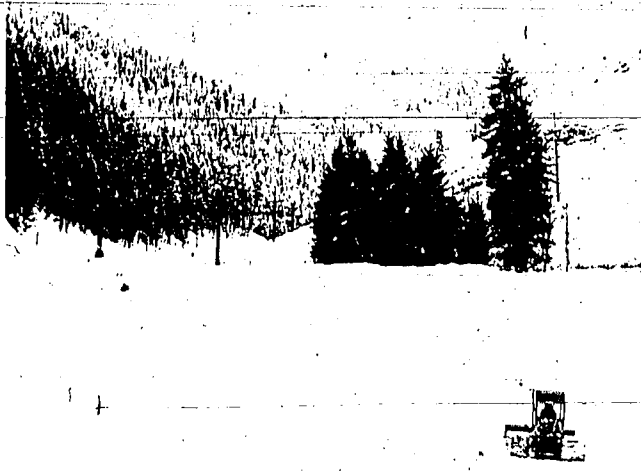

John Cobley has asked Sixth District Magistrate Thomas F. Dial to order the state to make available three individual ledger sheets and all books and records of the Bureau of Narcotics and Drug Control for several months during 1973.

Dial said Monday he would sign an order giving Cobley and his lawyer, Peter D. McDermott, access to the ledger sheets, but that the remainder of the request was too vague. Dial also said he was granting several other requests made by Cobley through his attorney in a hearing held a week ago.

They include a request for records of overtime salary payments to six narcotics agents, an audit of certain operations of the Pocatello bureau conducted by federal auditors, and copies of all written and recorded statements Cobley might have made that are in possession of the state.

Cobley is accused of 12 counts of misuse of public funds, a felony. He was the former head of the Pocatello office of the bureau until last fall, when he was suspended.

Pickup delayed

TWIN FALLS — Because of the Thanksgiving holiday the Thursday Department of Sanitation pickups here will be on Friday and Friday's pickup will be on Saturday. Next week the normal schedule will be resumed.

Local wrestling program outlined

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Recreation Department and Twin Falls schools will sponsor a wrestling program for boys in first through sixth grades.

The boys will wrestle Nov. 24, Dec. 1, 8, 15 and 22 at the Twin Falls High School Gym. The schedule will be grades one and two, 9 a.m.; grades three and four, 10 a.m. and grades five and six, 11 a.m.

The program will be conducted by Doug Rex, high school wrestling coach and members of the Twin Falls High School wrestling team.

A tournament Dec. 22 at the high school gym will conclude the program.

Ski lift to open

RIVER RUN, Exhibition and the Roundhouse lift on Bald Mountain will begin operation Thanksgiving day. The lifts will operate Thursday through Sunday this week and on Saturday and Sunday for the remaining weeks prior to the Sun Valley resort's general opening Dec. 15. Sun Valley officials report about 42 inches of snow on top of Baldy. The bowls and Warm Springs lifts will remain closed.

CSI response kept silent

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho Trustees avoided public discussion of the college's response to the Idaho Human Rights Commission's (HRC) "reconciliation agreement" at its board meeting Monday night.

At the end of October the HRC urged CSI to rehire and pay back wages to former CSI teacher Terrill Castaneda. The commission previously had found reasonable cause of sex discrimination by the college against Mrs. Castaneda.

CSI attorney Robert Alexander told the board he is now drafting a response to the HRC's reconciliation proposal. He said he had just talked with HRC attorney-director Fred Grant and that "things are going along pretty nicely."

"There were a number of items I took issue with and I think Fred Grant agreed with my taking issue," Alexander said, without mentioning what he objected to in the reconciliation proposal.

When acting board chairman John Coleman inquired about "the nature of the (college's) response," trustee Rev. John Garrabrاندt cut in.

"Mr. Chairman, I would object to that (question) at this time," Garrabrاندt said. "I don't think that our attorney has had enough time to think about it."

Alexander said his response is not complete yet, and the board shifted its attention to another topic.

Following the meeting, Alexander said he would recommend the college's response to the HRC not be made public. If the case goes to court, then it would be made public, he said.

Alexander said the board might "possibly" approve his response to the HRC before it is sent. "I don't know" whether the board would meet to approve the response, "I've had my directions," he said. The attorney said he did not know when his response to the HRC would be ready.

CSI President James L. Taylor said he has not "taken a formal position" on the reconciliation agreement. He said the CSI-Castaneda case has been going on a long time and that he "wouldn't say that the board hasn't taken a position" on the reconciliation agreement. He said the policy of the board has been to cooperate with the HRC.

Following the HRC's finding of reasonable cause of sex discrimination by the college in August, CSI trustee expressed unwillingness to further cooperate with the commission.

The HRC's reconciliation proposal is not binding and must be accepted by both Mrs. Castaneda and the college before being effective.

Attorney-director Grant said the state agency is prepared to turn the Castaneda case to the Federal Equal Employment Opportunities Commission (EEOC) if substantial progress is not made in the CSI case.

Grant said that because of EEOC regulations, which he is bound to, he cannot discuss the case at this time.

On another matter, Dr. Taylor told the board he opposes Option II of the state's reorganization of education plan proposing that vocational education, vocational rehabilitation, elementary and secondary education in Idaho all be put under the supervision of the state's superintendent of public instruction. The board approved Taylor being able to express his opposition to the state committee of education reorganization.

Alexander told the board that Fred Fender, Frontier Riding Club president, would be willing to let the college take back all the Frontier Field property, which the club has been leasing. The college had asked Fender for a 17-acre portion of the property for a playing field to be developed and used both by the city and college.

TWIN FALLS — About $100 worth of items were taken from a van which was waiting for repairs, owner Dwayne Hall, Gooding, told Twin Falls police.

He said someone entered the vehicle and took sleeping bags, stereo speakers and pillows while the vehicle was in Twin Falls between Nov. 3 and Nov. 19. Officers said the vehicle was apparently not broken into.

5 reappointed

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus reappointed five persons to his advisory committee on Comprehensive Health Planning Monday and three to the Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws.

In addition he named James F. Watson, Parma, to succeed R. Doyle Symms, Sunny Slope, on the Apple Commission and Barton F. Jensen, Rexburg, to succeed June A. Hepworth on the State Board of Optometry. Watson will serve a three-year term and Jensen a four-year term.

He reappointed former state Sen. Cecil Sandberg, Blackfoot; State Rep. Rudy Andersen, R-Boise; Leonard O. Thompson, Boise; James E. Worsley, Heyburn, and John M. Ocker Jr., Boise, to four year terms on the Health Planning Advisory Committee.

Overcome-Watergate bid carried to GOP session

(c) Chicago Daily News
KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. — President Nixon carried his we-shall-overcome-Watergate crusade to a wary Republican governors' conference in Memphis today.
 Nixon was expected to seek support from the GOP governors on the energy crisis and probably will repeat his reaffirmations of innocence despite mounting charges of irregularities.
 Tired from a "strenuous" 10-day drive to reassert his leadership, the President spent most of Monday relaxing at his Florida home.
 But he did consult with Melvin R. Laird, his special domestic adviser, on the governors' meeting and proposals for new legislation in the social welfare field.
 The President was praised by Tennessee Gov. Winfield Dunn, host and chairman for the state executives, for being "candid and honest" at his Saturday night news conference.

But Dunn indicated in advance of today's session that Nixon could not expect all-out backing at this point without more public disclosure.
 Even California Gov. Ronald Reagan proposed additional televised interviews with small groups of reporters to get the president's message across better.
 The governors heard a disappointing report from George Gallup, the polling expert, who said his surveys indicate that Republicans would suffer their worst Congressional defeat in modern history if elections were held today.
 The number of Americans who identify themselves as Republicans has dropped from 42 per cent to 35 per cent in the past five years since Nixon took office. The Democratic Party suffered a smaller drop in popular confidence, retaining the loyalty of 47 per cent of the voters. Independents showed a sharp gain, surpassing the Republicans for the first time.

REP. HARRINGTON scores Ford

Senate panel seems sold on Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After hearing four days of testimony and receiving thousands of pages of investigative reports, the Senate Rules Committee appears sold on Gerald R. Ford's qualifications to be vice president and, in the event of a vacancy, president.
 The five Democrats and four Republicans on the committee would not say how they will vote later today following a final closed-door review session, but none has voiced any criticism of Ford.
 A committee source said committee approval was certain and would likely be unanimous. The full Senate is expected to vote Nov. 27.

 Under the constitution both branches of Congress must approve Ford, and the House Judiciary Committee was holding its own closed-door session today to hear three witnesses who also appeared before the Senate panel in executive session. They were Robert M. Winter-Berger, who wrote a book mentioning Ford; Dr. Arnold Hutchecker, a New York psychotherapist, whom Ford says he met but not as a patient; and Mrs. Alice Weston Showalter, who has denied an allegation that she accepted $1,000 from Winter-Berger to introduce him to Ford.

The kind of president that Harry Truman became."
 Joseph I. Raab, vice chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, challenged Ford's voting record on civil rights and the extent of his experience in foreign affairs.
 Clarence M. Mitchell, director of the Washington Bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the NAACP does not have a position for or against Ford but that his voting record shows that he has a restricted approach to civil rights.

Nixon draws support

(c) New York Times Service
MEMPHIS — Republican governors put out the welcome mat for President Nixon with a unanimous resolution commending "his outstanding accomplishments in international and domestic affairs."
 The resolution, based on a draft by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, continued: "We applaud the determination of the President to make full disclosure to the public concerning Watergate, and we look forward to his visit to this conference tomorrow as a part of that effort."
 The careful phrasing of the sentence on Watergate was more cautious than the wording that the Republican governors adopted last May. At that early stage of the Watergate crisis they had said: "We deplore Watergate. We support the President. We believe the President."
 Yet the adoption of a strongly supportive statement was viewed as a clear victory for the President's supporters over the uneasiness that the governors have expressed about embracing the party's leader.

 Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon has said he would not join in any "partisan piece of adulation" of Nixon, and Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington said he had wanted to avoid resolutions altogether. But both men voted for this afternoon's statement and Evans was said to have moved to strengthen the language of endorsement on Watergate.
 Three White House aides sat in on the afternoon meeting that produced the resolution, but apparently none of them spoke on it or had anything to do with writing it.
 Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the vice president designate, told the governors in remarks prepared for delivery in the evening that the Republican Party — in Franklin Delano Roosevelt's words about the depression — has nothing to fear but "fear itself."

Panel pondering Saxbe eligibility

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, waits in the wings, the Senate Judiciary Committee is trying to figure out by midnight tonight whether he is eligible to be attorney general.
 The committee is considering a bill designed to remove a constitutional roadblock to Saxbe's nomination and is under instructions to report to the Senate by midnight.
 But Assistant Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd, W. Va., a committee member who chaired the hearings Monday, says no legislation can solve Saxbe's problem and that President Nixon should begin looking for another nominee.
 Saxbe's problem is that the Constitution says that no member of Congress can be appointed to a civil office if during his elected term Congress raised the pay for that office.
 Saxbe was a senator when Congress raised the salary for the attorney general from $35,000 to $60,000.

 To put things right, the administration wants Congress to cut the pay for the job back to $35,000, which would mean Saxbe would take a cut from his senator's pay of $42,500.
 But Byrd said Monday he thinks the constitutional language is "so clear that it can't be waived," and that: "If the bill is passed then I would have no alternative but to vote against Mr. Saxbe."
 Sens. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., and Philip Hart, D-Mich., agreed with Byrd. But Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said, "I think it (the bill) is perfectly constitutional."
 The committee heard from four constitutional law professors, only one of whom believed the corrective bill was constitutional.
 Saxbe appeared untruffled. "I'm a great believer in destiny," he told UPI. "If I'm destined to be attorney general, it'll work out."

New Soviet carrier under construction

(c) New York Times Service
NEW YORK — A second Soviet aircraft carrier is being built at Nikolayev on the Black Sea, and United States and British intelligence sources report that the Russians plan to construct another, larger class of carriers as part of their expanding naval program.
 Naval sources in Washington and London felt the growth of a Soviet carrier force represents a significant shift in the global balance of power. The Russians are said to be moving from a fleet built to frustrate American operations to one capable of projecting Soviet power across the oceans of the world.
 Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., the chief of naval operations, recently told the Senate Armed Services Committee that his members would see the day when the Soviet Union has a larger carrier fleet than the United States. The United States Navy has 15 carriers now but is reducing the number to 12.

 The first Soviet aircraft carrier, the Kiev, is on commissioning trials in the Black Sea. She has a displacement of approximately 45,000 tons and will carry 35 fixed-wing aircraft, probably the new Soviet Frechard, vertical-take-off-and-landing fighters, and helicopters for antisubmarine warfare.
 The second ship of the Kiev class, now under construction, is believed to be of about the same tonnage. In weight, the Soviet ships are closest to the American Essex class. The last of this class, the Bennington, was launched in 1944.

Bid-draws no response

NEW YORK (UPI) — The White House has not responded to the National News Council's request for more information on President Nixon's charges of "outrageous, vicious, and distorted" news coverage by the three television networks.
 The council's associate director Ned Schurman said "We have had no response to our two telegrams which were sent to the White House on Oct. 30, and Nov. 14."
 Schurman said "we asked each time for specifics regarding the President's charges" that were made in his Oct. 26 news conference.
 The council also has made five telephone calls but still "no answers," he said.
 Schurman said that he and the council's executive director, William Arthur, have an appointment next week to meet with a White House aide to discuss specifics of the President's charges.

Harry S. Truman was believed to be the first U.S. President to ride in a submarine. He made a short cruise and a dive in a captured German U-boat, in November, 1946.

Arabs use 'oil weapon'

VIENNA (UPI) — The Arab oil weapon threatened today to split the European Common Market and placed Japan between an irresistible force and an immovable object, diplomats said.

Foreign ministers of the nine Common Market nations held a meeting in Copenhagen today to discuss the Arab decision to cancel a scheduled five per cent oil cutback for eight of them, but leave Holland under a total boycott.

The ministers and their aides said they resented the Arab move to single out Holland, but were grateful for the extra oil it will give them next month.

The Arab concession left Common Market members with a decision whether to sacrifice unity for oil. One diplomat said the ministers wanted to tell the Arabs, "The nine are nine, not eight plus one."

It was unknown, however, whether this feeling would be translated into a public stand as Holland has demanded. The eight nations were exempted from a five per cent cut scheduled for December after the Common Market called early this month for Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab lands.

The Arab oil states imposed a total fuel boycott on Holland as well as the United States last month for supporting Israel in the 1973 Middle East war.

Fuel-hungry Japan, was caught in a dilemma over how to win exemption from Arab oil cuts—the immovable object—while safeguarding U.S. sales, much of which is handled by Jewish-owned import firms—the irresistible object.

Arab oil producers increased their pressure on Japan Monday by demanding Tokyo break ties with Israel.

Japanese Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira said today Japan will adopt a new Middle East policy in an effort to get his country out of the oil squeeze, but he declined to say whether the policy will be explicitly Arab-oriented.

HALF THE LIGHTS ON THE Golden Gate Bridge were turned off Monday in an effort to save energy. Bridge Manager Dale W. Troops control Athens clash

ATHENS (UPI) — Troops in tanks guarded public buildings in Athens today to prevent a new outbreak of violence, but appeared to have crushed a rebellion against the military backed government of President George Papadopoulos.

Authorities said there were no clashes Monday night and early today following a mass roundup of students and workers suspected of taking part in three days of anti-government street fighting.

The government, however, maintained a 7 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew in the capital and posted troops outside parliament and other public buildings to prevent a recurrence of the clashes that left 11 persons dead and about 150 wounded.

Authorities said eight persons were tried Monday by military tribunals and sentenced to terms of up to five years in jail for taking part in the demonstrations.

Former Premier Panayotis Kanellopoulos, in his first public statement since the rebellion began, called Monday for the creation of a government of national unity.

He said rule "based on the overwhelming majority of the Greek people will restore peace, will relieve the armed forces from their sad task of facing youth with murderous fire."

No UFO

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (UPI) — Thousands of bewildered and terrified Long Island and Westchester County residents looked up at the sky Monday night and thought they saw a flying saucer.

Police departments all along the Long Island Sound reported their switchboards jammed with frightened and curious calls. One man reported the object landed.

But the Civil Defense Air Command tracked down the object: a small Cessna airplane with multi-colored lights doing Christmas promotional advertising for a small bank.

Schooner mystery solved

PORT ISABEL, Tex. (UPI) — The mystery of the wrecked schooner and the disappearance of 13 crewmembers has been solved and, as it turns out, it really wasn't much of a mystery.

The schooner leaked water faster than the crew could bale it out so they beached the sinking ship and spent the weekend at a beachhouse. Four South Texans on a fishing and camping expedition in the remote section of the upper East Coast of Mexico, spotted the wreckage Friday. They reported the find to the Coast Guard which launched a massive sea and air search for the survivors Monday.

A port official at Port Isabel said the descriptions of the wreckage matched that of a 120-foot schooner, the Fair Morse, which sailed from the South Texas port Thursday bound for a dry dock at Tampico, Mexico, with 13 persons on board. About the time a Coast Guard search crew positively identified the wreckage as that of the missing schooner Monday, a member of the crew notified authorities and said the boat had been beached because it was leaking. "The schooner was a wreck," said port director W. C. McConnell. "It was leaking like a sieve. They were pumping it 24 hours a day. I don't know why they sailed."

The Soviets presently have about 20 small vessels in the Indian Ocean. A U.S. Navy-7th fleet aircraft carrier and escort vessels crossed into the Indian Ocean during the Middle East crisis, provoking strong criticism from the Indian government and press.

For several years India has promoted the idea of a "zone of peace" free of big power rivalry in the Indian Ocean.

Young Kennedy recovers slowly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Slowly working his way to recovery, 12-year-old Edward Moore Kennedy Jr. has walked for the first time with the aid of parallel bars.

A spokesman for Georgetown University Hospital said the son of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., worked Monday in physical therapy using parallel bars for the first time since the amputation of his cancerous right leg Saturday.

No further details were available, except that he was in "excellent spirits."

Edward got out of bed briefly Sunday night and read through some of the thousands of letters and telegrams wishing him a speedy recovery, the spokesman said. Hospital officials would not speculate on how long the boy would be hospitalized.

Young Teddy's right leg was amputated above the knee Saturday after it was discovered he had a cartilage tissue tumor, a type of bone cancer less serious than primary bone cancer.

Dusty findings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Space is dustier than expected between the asteroid belt and the planet Jupiter.

That is the latest finding of the Pioneer 10 spacecraft as it approaches Jupiter after a 21-month voyage from Cape Kennedy. The probe will pass 81,000 miles from the great planet Dec. 3 and radio back what scientists hope will be the answers to some of Jupiter's many mysteries.

William H. Kinard, one of the project investigators, said at a news conference Monday that three particle detection instruments aboard Pioneer 10 showed that tiny bits of space debris are 100 times more abundant than anticipated since the probe crossed the asteroid belt.

WH granted delay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House, pleading the illness of one of its lawyers, has been granted a week's delay in surrendering the first of President Nixon's subpoenaed Watergate material.

Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica granted the delay Monday shortly after the Senate approved legislation extending the life of the Watergate grand jury — the body which eventually will receive Nixon's Watergate material.

A spokesman for Sirica said the White House had asked for the delay in submitting the material—a "written descriptive analysis and index" of the subpoenaed material — scheduled to be submitted today under a timetable announced last week by Sirica, because of the illness of lawyer Samuel J. Powers, who is hospitalized with pneumonia in Miami.

"They said they needed time to finish the job," an aide to Sirica said.

The delay came as Nixon prepared to meet today with the 19 Republican governors in Memphis, Tenn., to carry on his Watergate counter-offensive by taking his side of the scandal to GOP officials, the press and the public.

In the Senate, the decision to extend the life of the grand jury—reported anxious to complete their work—was passed and sent to the White House on a voice vote and without any opposition.

The grand jury was due to complete its 18-month tenure on Dec. 5.

Nixon has 10 days, not including Sundays, to decide whether to sign the legislation. In other Watergate-related developments:

The Senate Judiciary decided to go into executive session today to consider—recounting former Attorney General Elliot Richardson to clarify conflicting reports of his role in the Oct. 20 firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

A House Judiciary subcommittee has voted to give the U.S. District Court jurisdiction in a Senate Watergate committee suit seeking the White House tapes. Sirica, in an earlier decision on the suit, ruled he did not have jurisdiction to decide whether the committee should be able to subpoena the tapes from the White House. The full Senate has already passed the legislation.

Crisis could disrupt mail

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen says Christmas mail could be seriously disrupted this year because of the energy crisis.

He told Congress Monday that airlines already have cut some flights and are threatening to cut more which otherwise would carry mail. He said the Postal Service's own trucks may be unable to get enough fuel.

Economic constraints already have forced the Postal Service to seek a 27 per cent hike in rates in January—an 8-cent stamp would cost a dime—and yet "each one-cent increase in fuel costs us $3.5 million a year," Klassen said.

Here's the new energy symbol shot down - by irate senator

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Snoopy" is in the doghouse, at least as far as Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., is concerned. Aspin charged Monday that the White House is pushing over-priced energy stickers featuring a picture of the famous "Peanuts" comic strip dog.

SNOOPY

... in doghouse

The picture, showing the bearded-blonde reclining on the top of his abode, has been adopted as the official symbol of the Nixon administration's campaign to conserve fuel.

Last week, Aspin said, congressional offices received a White House letter from Virginia H. Krauer, presidential consumer assistant, offering information on how to order the stickers from Dot Manufacturing Co. in Kansas City, Kan.

The letter quoted the price for the decals as $47.72 per thousand for 10,000, less with larger orders, Aspin said.

But Aspin charged that research by his office shows that identical three-by-four-inch stickers can be bought in the Washington, D.C., area for an average of $30 per thousand on purchases of 10,000.

"It's bad enough that the White House should be outflanking for private businesses," he said in a statement, "but it's utterly inexcusable that the administration's consumer expert should be responsible for pushing over-priced goods on the American public."

Mrs. Krauer, in a statement issued through her office, called Aspin's charges "absurd."

She said the decals will be free to the consumer, with the biggest buyers expected to be utility companies who plan to give the stickers to their customers.

"Had congressman Aspin taken the time to contact our office before issuing his press release, I would have gladly informed him of the circumstances here," Mrs. Krauer said.

She said "Peanuts" cartoonist Charles Schultz donated use of the picture as a public service and that United Features Syndicate, the copyright holder, gave the government a free license but stipulated that, in order to maintain quality, only printers whom it approved could print the decals.

"The charge that I am promoting the decals for the sake of Dot Manufacturing Co. is absurd," she said. "In fact, I have said 'no' to a number of major companies who have asked where to buy the decals because their promotion plans were too commercialized."

Jupiter snapped

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — Pioneer 10 has taken 15 clear pictures of the planet Jupiter, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported Monday.

The space agency said the pictures showed Jupiter's three bright belts and two dark zones. The Pioneer spacecraft was rendezvous with the planet on Dec. 3. Latest reports showed it was 7.9 million miles away.

Rockets' cameras focus on Kohoutek

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Space scientists from Boulder will launch two rockets, next month in the skies above New Mexico to collect data from the comet Kohoutek they hope will give clues to the origin of the solar system.

"Kohoutek could tell us something about the origin of comets or, in general, something about the nature of the universe," said Kermit Gause of the Laboratory for Atmospheric and Space Physics (LASP).

"Comets come from very deep in space," said Gause. "Nobody knows really what they are except that they were created and evolved eons ago. Undoubtedly, Kohoutek did not originate in our solar system." The comet will pass the sun next Dec. 28 and space scientists claim it will be the most visible in January. Kohoutek, still 100 million miles away, now is visible as a smudge in the sky at sunset.

Gause, assistant director for space instruments at LASP, said the two Aerobee 150 sounding rockets which will measure ultraviolet rays given off by Kohoutek would be launched from White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico.

He said the instruments aboard the two Aerobee rockets would be able to break down the chemical composition of the comet by means of ultraviolet emission lines recorded.

Hotel fire kills 2

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (UPI) — Fire Chief Richard Canestrini Monday blamed arsonists for a fire that gutted the Park Hotel annex and killed two men.

Canestrini, who was helped in his investigation by State Fire Marshal Ed Bradley, said three suspects had been arrested in the case, but no charges had been filed.

"We found three spot fires where the fire started and we found proof that there was some sort of propellant such as gas or diesel," Canestrini said. "You could also see a spot on the second floor of the hotel

Viet gas prices hiked

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese government raised gasoline prices today in an attempt to cut civilian energy consumption by 25 per cent within two months.

On the truce front, the Viet Cong, accused South Vietnamese forces of launching bombing raids in four provinces during the past five days. The government had no comment on the allegations.

The gas price hike ordered today could cause political problems for the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu. South Vietnamese, motivated by subsidy from the United States during the 1960s, have long considered cheap gasoline as a right.

Thanks to fuel imports also subsidized by the U.S. government an estimated 1 million motorcycles and Asia's cheapest taxis have clogged Saigon streets.

Political observers said today there was a chance the well-organized unions of taxi and minibus drivers, whose fares are controlled by government decree, could take to the streets in protest.

There was no indication military fuel needs would be cut back, although U.S. aid pays for all fuel consumed by Saigon's armed forces. U.S. forces themselves have had their oil cut off by Singapore refineries, the largest in Southeast Asia.

A government spokesman said both grades of commercial gasoline will cost about 32 cents a gallon more, beginning immediately. That would raise the price of premium gasoline, the most widely used, to about $1 a gallon. Regular gasoline now will cost about 92 cents a gallon.

Kremlin favors troop cuts

VIENNA (UPI) — The chief Soviet negotiator at the two-week-old conference on East-West troop cutbacks says the Kremlin favors considerable reductions of forces in Central Europe.

Oleg N. Khlestov, head of the Soviet delegation at the talks, said, however, the Warsaw Pact's numerical superiority must be maintained after the troop cuts.

"We are seeking considerable reductions of forces," Khlestov said in an exclusive interview with UPI. "The exact figures are subject to negotiation."

He said he "would not deny" reports that the Warsaw Pact allies had proposed a specific timetable for East-West force reductions in Central Europe. He declined, however, to give details of the Communist proposal.

Conference sources said the proposed timetable called for an initial 20,000-man cutback of North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and Warsaw Pact forces in Central Europe in 1975, followed by a mutual five per cent reduction in 1976 and a further ten per cent reduction in 1977.

Khlestov said the present balance of forces in Central Europe must be maintained in any cutbacks.

"Each side has developed its forces in Europe to a level sufficient for its own security," Khlestov said. "It is necessary to have these different levels of forces in order to ensure political stability in Europe."

According to the authoritative International Institute of Strategic Studies in London, NATO ground forces in Central Europe total 700,000 men, compared to 871,000 for the Warsaw Pact.

The Western allies want NATO and Warsaw Pact forces in Central Europe to be reduced to approximate parity.

If you care about Idaho you should know about plans for the Idaho Primitive Areas.

One of Idaho's major resources... the Idaho and Salmon River Breaks Primitive Areas is about to be reclassified for its permanent future status. The 1,500,000 acres that make up the area could be classified in several different ways, but there are two basic approaches.

One is the approach which would classify the entire 1,500,000 acres (plus some contiguous areas) as a permanent Wilderness Area... allowing no roads, no overland motor vehicles of any kind, often inadequate sanitation and camping facilities, minimal fire or insect protection, and no forest management of any kind.

Another is the multiple-use approach which provides for a combination of land management plans tailored to the best uses of the various parts of the total area.

Boise-Cascade favors the multiple use approach and has developed a concept which would protect the main Salmon River and Middle-Fork Canyons while permitting more intensive management of the balance of the present Primitive Areas. All activities would be controlled, as at present, by the Forest Service. Our proposal utilizes standard Forest Service classifications in developing a possible use pattern for the areas.

There are compelling reasons for concerned citizens to favor a multiple use approach. Among these reasons are the need for accessible recreation, the need to protect the areas from fire, insects and disease and the need to provide the products we use.

While none of the organizations listed below endorse the Boise-Cascade proposal in every detail, they do support the basic concept of balanced resource use and development coordinated with rational regard for environmental values.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Do you think an 80-year-old man is foolish to consider remarriage? Some of my children do. I am a widow who has been alone for 12 years, during which time I have been in the company of some lovely eligible women. But I never have wanted to marry until I met My Fair Lady. She is 65 and has been a widow for 10 years.

We are both in reasonably good health, and we would like to spend the rest of our lives together, making each other happy. All our children are married. Some approve of our plans to marry; some do not.

I own my own home and have a little money. In view of the mixed feelings of our children, should we sneak off and get married by a preacher with just a few friends as witnesses? Or should we have a small church wedding, invite all the children, and let those who want to, come, and those who don't, stay home?

YOUNG AT HEART

Children disagree

DEAR YOUNG: Why sneak? Do whatever pleases you and your Fair Lady. The last thing you should worry about is what your children think.

DEAR ABBY: My girl friend and I are both 17. When Lydia does something to displease her parents, they make her stand in a corner.

A couple of times when I've come to take her out on a date, her father has said: "Lydia can leave in about 10 minutes—after she's thru standing in the corner." So I just sit and cool my heels while Lydia stands in the corner with her face to the wall.

I think this is a ridiculous way to punish a 17-year-old girl, but of course it's not my place to butt in.

Are you familiar with this stupid punishment? And if so, what's the reason for it? And what do you think of using it on a 17-year-old?

FEELING WEIRD IN MD.

DEAR WEIRD: Yes, I'm familiar with it. It's a very effective way to make a child settle down and reflect on the reason he's being punished. But to use it on a girl of dating age, in the presence of her date, I think is cruel and unusual punishment.

DEAR ABBY: Our church recently installed a set of "chimes"—a large tape player and four huge speakers, mounted on top of the church. The music is all hymns, played on an organ with loud bells. They play it at least once a day from 15 to 45 minutes, and sometimes it's played three times a day.

This can be heard all over town, and people who live four miles from town say they are disturbed by it, too.

I live near the church, and this is pretty hard to take. It's impossible to carry on a conversation (in our house, mind you), and this music is too loud to be considered pretty.

I think church music belongs in church. If teen-agers played their rock music this loud at a party, the police would break up the party and charge the kids with disturbing the peace.

This is a small town. My peace is disturbed. I am a tax-paying senior citizen who has asked the pastor of the church to please tone the music down. He did for a while. Now it's as loud as ever. Maybe if you print this, it will help.

SMALL TOWN

DEAR SMALL TOWN: I hope so. I nearly got a headache reading your letter.

Energy saving tip

Your choice of draperies can make them useful for home comfort as well as decorative. The heavier fabrics, lined draperies, or the new insulated styles can add to window protection against outside cold.

Since body heat tends to flow toward cold window surfaces, a warm inner surface provided by drapes can help reduce this flow. Then open your drapes to the sun for "free solar heat." Close them against cold for added comfort. Draperies alone won't fill your insulation needs, but select them for comfort as well as beauty.

Farm support reforms don't involve tobacco

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration farm officials are pushing Congress for "reform" bills to eliminate government controls and high price support levels for peanuts and rice. They're even debating the possibility of asking Congress to eliminate a 40-year-old sugar control program.

The tobacco, so far, remains exempt from Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz's crusade to eliminate remaining mandatory planting control systems and put all farmers on a "market-oriented" basis.

Agriculture Department officials interviewed here say they have no plans to request any major new tobacco program legislation next year.

The existing program is based on the kind of rigid acreage controls and support loans the government has abandoned for corn, wheat and cotton and wants to abandon for peanuts, rice and sugar.

But Kenneth E. Frick, head of the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), said the tobacco program so far has not, like many others, been costly to taxpayers.

William L. Lanier, a Frick aide who heads the ASCS tobacco division, said government support for the 1973 crop probably won't cost anything. Less than 2 per cent of the harvest was placed under price support loans and it will probably be resold later at a profit, Lanier said.

Administration and congressional sources, however, say Butz's decision not to seek any major changes for tobacco in the coming year is no guarantee that revisions of some kind will not be pushed in the future.

"At some point we've got to do something about tobacco," Butz said in a recent interview.

The potential problem, Butz said, could emerge if Great Britain and Western Europe resume trade with Rhodesia, which could sell large volumes of cigarette tobaccos at prices below the U.S. level. If that happens, the U.S. tobacco-growing industry could be under severe pressure because it depends on export markets for 40 to 45 per cent of its sales, Butz added.

"The problem is not acute this year or next, but two or three years down the road it may be. Something will have to be done then to make us more competitive," Butz said.

Frick, in a separate interview, added that production cost factors were another reason that the administration is not wrapping tobacco into its current proposals for new peanut and rice legislation. He said that while peanut production is mechanized, tobacco is not yet as far along "in the ability to produce at competitive (world) prices."

Farm

Arab grain cut said unlikely

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States probably will not cut off wheat sales to Arab nations in retaliation against the oil embargo because the Soviet Union easily could fill the grain gap, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz indicated Monday.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carroll Brunthaver, joining Butz at a news conference, said the Soviets may stop buying wheat from the United States next year if they get a good 1974 crop following a record 1973 harvest.

Brunthaver, just returned from a trip to Moscow, said he believes the 1973 Russian grain harvest may be "some above" the record 215-million tons claimed publicly by Soviet officials. He declined to speculate on how much bigger the crop might be.

Butz, who returned Saturday from a 10-day European tour that included talks on trade and food reserves, told a questioner that U.S. grain shipments to Arab countries have increased but still are not big enough to be a "significant" part of total Arab food needs.

The Russians could "very easily make up the deficit of anything we cut off from the Arabs," he said.

"It's true this suggestion (a grain embargo for Arab oil countries) has been made in many quarters," Butz said. "But if we took this action it would simply irritate the situation and make negotiations more difficult."

Food profits decline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Record food prices for consumers didn't produce profit gains for the food processing and retailing industries through the first half of this year, an Agriculture Department report indicates.

The report estimated that for all of 1973, the cost of marketing foods produced on American farms may reach $82 billion. This would be 8 per cent above 1972 compared with an average annual increase of 5.7 per cent during the past decade.

Other data in the report indicated that for the first half of 1973, at least, the increased marketing charges levied by processors and retailers were going into higher wages and other operating costs rather than higher profits.

The report said after-tax profits for corporations processing and manufacturing foods averaged 2.4 per cent in the second quarter of 1973, slightly less than a year earlier. In contrast, profits for all manufacturing industries in the same quarter were 5.1 per cent compared with 4.5 per cent a year earlier.

According to the report, after-tax profits as a percentage of sales for bakery corporations were 1.3 per cent in the first half of 1973 compared with 2.4 per cent a year earlier.

Food retailing profits dipped in the first six months of 1973, the report said. After-tax profits for 15 leading chains averaged 0.55 per cent of sales, per cent a year earlier. Dairy firms showed a slight decline, but textile mills boasted first-half profits to 3.1 per cent compared with 2.4 per cent a year earlier.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Chuck Petty has a home on the range where the buffalo really do roam.

But he will have to put up with fuzzy television reception, electricity from a sputtering gasoline generator and indoor plumbing fed by an icy stream.

Petty, an employee of the Arizona Game and Fish Department, has won the job as manager of the department's 67,000-acre Houserock Valley Buffalo Ranch north of the Grand Canyon. It was disclosed Sunday.

OSCAR FIELD wins FB post

Idaho FB top spot to Field

BOISE — Oscar Field, Grand View row crop and livestock producer, is the new president of the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation.

Field was elected during the Farm Bureau's annual meeting in Boise. He succeeds W. Dale Rockwood, who did not seek re-election. Rockwood, of Tonia, had served since 1969.

Thomas Geary, Burley, diversified farm operator from Cassia County, was elected vice president.

Gordon Hollifield, Jerome, was elected to the board of directors, and Ed Gunning, Wendell, was re-elected to a seat on the 17-member board.

Field said he believes membership in the Farm Bureau will continue to increase because of the many programs available to agriculture through the organization. He also predicted agriculture will continue to prosper because of the productivity of American farmers.

Harley Hammond and Don Capps are shown above on the new Skirole Snowmobile by Coleman, featured at Hammond's Repair Center.

Hammond's Repair Center, owned and operated by Harley Hammond, has been at its present location for the past 13 years. Along with Don Capps shop foreman, they can service your small engine. It's the only shop in Southern Idaho that is devoted exclusively to small engine repair, servicing and sales.

Hammond and Capps attend all the factory service schools for lawnmowers, snowmobiles and small engines. This keeps them up to date on the latest innovations in small engine repair.

Among new innovations is the dynamometer. Hammond's is the only shop in the Magic Valley equipped with this instrument for testing snowmobile performance. There is no longer any guess work involved in testing horse power, track alignment, clutch problems, head exhaust gas temperatures, ignition repairs and other problems associated with obtaining better total performance.

Hammond's handles 12 lines of small engine parts. They also service and sell Skirole snowmobiles by Coleman; chain saws by Pioneer, McCulloch and Homelite; lawnmowers and snow throwers by Jacobson, Snapper and Ariens. Skirole snowmobile clothing is also available and can be ordered at Hammond's.

Hammond's services approximately 3500 units annually — so when you need anything from small engine repair to a snowmobile, stop first at Hammond's Repair Center.

Symms raps probe fund

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. Steve Symms has criticized House action that provided the Judiciary Committee with a million dollars to look into possible impeachment proceedings against the President.

The Idaho Republican told Idaho Woolgrowers that the money will be used by the Democrats to "pick over the bones and carcass of Richard Nixon."

He said the Democrat-dominated committee already has $700,000 for the remainder of the year. He said this was ample tax money to conduct the investigation.

Burley grant approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Administration has approved a $101,133 airport development grant for the Burley airport.

Officials say the money will be used to help acquire 5 1/2 acres of land for clear zones around the airport, an extension of a parking apron and other construction.

GC man stabbed

GARDEN CITY, Idaho (UPI) — A Garden City man was stabbed to death early today during what police say was an argument about transportation to work.

Garden City Police identified the victim as Brett Dilworth, 20, Garden City. Officers said he died shortly after 5 a.m. from a stab wound in his left chest.

Benny Ramirez, 10, a friend who lived with Dilworth, was taken to the Garden City Jail for investigation.

Police said the two young men got into an argument about a ride to work and that Dilworth was stabbed with a small pocket knife. Dilworth died about 10 minutes after police arrived at his home.

Rationing hinted

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Rep. Orval Hansen has hinted that gas rationing may begin after the first of the year and is dependent on efforts of voluntary reduction.

If rationing comes about, the Republican congressman said, it will be a fairly complex system.

"It's going to be extensive, inequitable and burdensome," Hansen said, "but it's better than driving the market place price up."

Higher prices, he said, simply hurt low and middle class families.

At the same time, Hansen said President Nixon, members of Congress and other public officials should set an example against unnecessary travel.

Hearings set

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has asked the U.S. Forest Service for evening hearings on classification of Idaho's primitive area so more people would have an opportunity to testify.

The hearings are planned in Boise next Monday, Lewiston Nov. 28 and Pocatello, Nov. 30.

"A majority of Idaho citizens cannot take time from their jobs to attend the daytime hearing sessions," Andrus told regional foresters.

Arson suspected

BOISE (UPI) — Arson is suspected in a fire that caused several thousand dollars damage to merchandise in a stock room at K mart Discount store in Boise early Saturday, police said today.

Firemen said a rear door on the building was forced open and a flammable liquid was tossed inside. Assistant fire Marshal John Boros said he definitely believes it is a case of arson.

Both the police and fire departments are investigating the blaze.

Indian shot

FORT HALL, Idaho (UPI) — An out-of-state Indian was shot to death Monday and the FBI and the Bureau of Indian Affairs are investigating the shooting.

Bingham County Coroner Carl Staley identified the victim as Little Bear Clearwater, 50, Stanley said Clearwater's home town was not known, but it was determined he was from out of state.

The shooting occurred at a Fort Hall Reservation residence, Staley said, but the details were unclear.

Important trip

WEISER, Idaho (UPI) — Sen. James A. McClure's trip to the Middle East should be recognized as an important contribution to peace and a step toward a solution to the oil shortage, Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, says.

McClure, R-Idaho, left Sunday for a two-week swing through the Arab world as a guest of Kuwait.

Symms pointed out Monday night that McClure is the only member of congress to make the trip and said the Idaho Republican is highly respected by middle east countries for his knowledge of the situation and his concern for a fair and equitable settlement.

Conserve fuel

MOUNTAIN HOME AIR FORCE BASE, Idaho (UPI) — Routine training missions by jet fighter aircraft are being cut short to conserve jet fuel, base officials said today.

Col. Howard Leaf, commander of an F111F jet fighter wing, said his pilots are conserving jet fuel by cutting the length of each flight.

"We must continue to train but we can accomplish the basic requirements with shorter missions," Leaf said.

Decision 'derelict'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Noting several recent news accounts saying the Pentagon may abandon its search for Americans still missing in action in Indochina, Sen. Frank Church D-Idaho, says any such decision would be "derelict."

"If this collect of stories is accurate," said Church in remarks prepared for delivery in the Senate, "then the Nixon administration is being derelict in its duty to continue doing everything possible — for as long as it takes — in tracking down and hopefully finding the whereabouts or remains of some 1,300 of our men who still remain unaccounted for."

Public hearings slated

TWIN FALLS — A public hearing on the proposed 1974 South Central Idaho District Health Department budget will be held Dec. 3 at 2 p.m. in the Jerome County Courthouse.

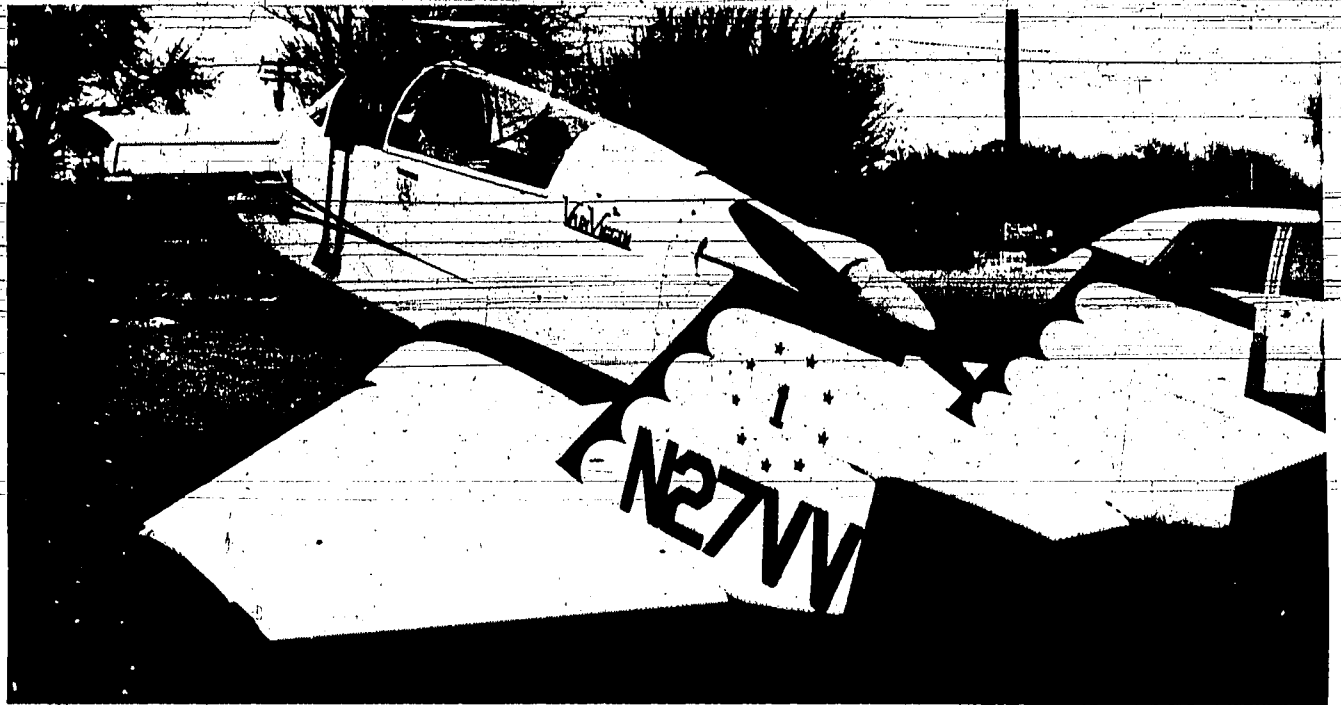

The budget including local funds to be raised from a $2.15 per capita assessment in all eight district counties will cover the calendar year of 1974. Written comments may be submitted in advance of the hearing date by writing the South Central Idaho Health District board chairman, County Courthouse, Twin Falls, 83301.

Chipboard damaged

GOODING — A box car fire at 7:25 p.m. Monday caused slight damage to chipboard in a car on an eastbound Union Pacific train.

The fire was caused by a hot brake on the car according to city fire chief George Anderson.

Anderson said that the train dropped the burning car off on a side rail in Gooding.

Bids not required

BOISE — The director of Magic Valley Rehabilitation Services Inc. said Monday his corporation had followed established procedures in securing a service contract from the Department of Environmental and Community Services.

Jeff Crumrine said the janitorial services contract signed earlier this month had been in accord with a recent law passed by the legislature and the state purchasing agent had agreed the contract followed an established fair marketing price.

The Times-News reported Sunday the $19,000 service contract had been signed for janitorial services at the former tuberculosis hospital in Gooding without competitive bidding procedures. Crumrine said a recent law permitted rehabilitation entities to sign contracts without competitive bidding. He said the group had followed other prescribed procedures in negotiating the contract.

He also said the article incorrectly reported that clients of Magic Valley Rehabilitation Services would receive $2 an hour to complete the janitorial chores. He said the contract called for them to be paid at a rate that reflected each person's performance, with the minimum set at $1 an hour, half the prevailing rate of $2 hour. The Times-News regrets the error.

TF station bid okayed

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Cornered by booming construction costs, the Twin Falls City Council Monday accepted a budget-breaking low bid for a new fire station.

The low bid, $389,640 by Wills Inc., when coupled with a seven per cent architectural fee, is about $120,000 more than the city budgeted for the new station.

The city allotted $300,000 in its current budget for the project. With the architectural fee, the actual cost for the building will be about $420,000.

Councilman Steve Lincoln cast the only dissenting vote in the bid acceptance.

In their regular luncheon "work session" Monday, several councilmen expressed dissatisfaction with architect Harold Gerber for not holding the fire station within the budgeted figure.

Lincoln questioned whether the city should pay Gerber in view of the cost overrun. "Do we owe Gerber anything?" he said.

He cited a case in Twin Falls in which a company refused to pay an architect because of an overrun. The architect lost a court test of the refusal, according to Lincoln.

Mayor John Christoffersen was also displeased.

"I think we've learned a pretty tough lesson," he said. "That is, if you're going to hire an engineer or architect, you better spell it out pretty damn well what you want."

"I don't think it was right to read in the paper that it would cost $420,000," Christoffersen said.

He said the council should have been advised of excessive costs while plans for the station were in progress. "I don't think we were advised (by Gerber)," the mayor said.

A special council subcommittee has reviewed the bids for the past three weeks, but apparently found no means for a major cost cut without damaging the effectiveness of the station.

The council did substitute plastic for cast iron pipe in the building, cutting costs by $3,250.

Gerber today agreed he had been asked to design the building for $300,000. "I furnished a final estimate of cost at $367,600 and agreed to redesign it to come within the $300,000, but it was agreed this would not be the kind of a building which would effectively serve as a fire station for Twin Falls," Gerber said.

"People ask you for a price cost per square foot of building before you know what they want the building to do. That's like asking a doctor for the price of an operation before you know what the operation is going to be for," he said.

Gerber said he met with the city manager prior to bid opening to submit his estimate of $367,600 and at that time included alternates which if accepted would have given a final bid of $367,990 or just $1,390 higher than the estimate, but which the city found it could not accept because they wanted the better building.

Area closed to tree sale

BURLEY — Christmas trees will not be sold this year from National Resource Lands south of Almo.

Nick J. Cozakos, district manager of the Bureau of Land Management, Burley, in announcing continuance of the closure of the tree sale said prior cutting of young trees and the lack of seed production for new seedlings has resulted in few harvestable Christmas trees.

Cozakos said that in order to conserve the stand and protect the new trees which may become suitable in the future, the area must be closed for a year.

He said this stand of single leaf pinon pine is the only such stand in Idaho, and that detailed inventories scheduled for the next two years may reveal additional sites within the area with trees suitable for the harvest of family trees. Any new sites would require new roads for access, he said.

Cozakos asked public cooperation in the effort to conserve the trees. He said BLM area supervisors will be working in the area in an effort to protect the remaining trees.

Kansas pilot makes safe landing in Burley field

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Motorists did a double-take on Main Avenue Monday about 11 a.m. when they passed a strange-looking airplane driving down the street.

The unique plane, powered by a single propeller on the tail, had made an emergency landing about 9:30 a.m. in a field south of the Snake River and just west of the city limits.

It was escorted from behind the Burley Livestock Commission Yards down Railroad Avenue, south on Hilland Avenue and then East on Main to the airport by State police, Burley police and Cassia County sheriff's vehicles.

Burt Rutan, Wichita, Kan., owner of the plane, was taking off from the Burley Municipal Airport for Boise when, he said, he lost about half of his power. Instead of taking a chance at trying to restore his altitude and risking a landing in the river, he landed the plane in a field, he said.

Although emergency landings are usually made without landing gear, Rutan said he put the landing gear down at the last minute because the field looked fairly smooth. That stroke of luck enabled him to drive the craft back to the airport.

Rutan blamed the power loss on a frozen gas line brought on, he said, because he was not allowed to store the plane in a hangar overnight. The plane was not damaged.

The plane was designed and built by Rutan, who said it was "the only one in the world." He has been flying the plane for about a year and a half, logging about 250 hours.

Rutan said he began working on the design about ten years ago because he wanted to build a "safer airplane." According to Rutan, the plane can hold a speed of about 150 m.p.h.

The plane, called a VariViggen, is a two-passenger canard-configuration homebuilt craft. Rutan began marketing plans for the plane this month.

Rutan, 30, said he had been flying for about 12 years. He flew the plane to Burley from Kansas in about eight hours, he said.

Decision asked

(Special to the Times-News)

BOISE — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has sent a formal request to the Attorney general asking whether Dr. James A. Bax needs confirmation proceedings by the Senate to serve as administrator of the Department of Environmental and Community Services.

Bax was confirmed during the 1973 legislature as administrator of the old Department of Environmental Protection and Health (DEPH). But the same legislature also merged DEPH with two other state agencies into DECS.

Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park received the letter from the governor's office Monday afternoon. He said the request would be taken under advisement and an opinion rendered in due course.

Scout dinner set in TF

TWIN FALLS — The Falls Boy Scout District will hold a dinner tonight to recruit sponsors for scouting programs in Twin Falls County.

According to Rev. Eugene Tjarks, pastor of Our Savior Lutheran Church, Twin Falls, and chairman of the local scouting sponsorship drive, a survey in the Twin Falls public schools indicated the need for additional scouting sponsors.

There were boys from the Bickel, Lincoln and Washington schools in Twin Falls and in the Buhl schools who were interested in the scouting program, Rev. Tjarks said, "so we are looking for sponsors, especially for these areas."

Rev. Tjarks said sponsors may include churches, PTAs, service clubs or a variety of other organizations. The organizations would ideally provide all forms of scout leadership, he said, including scout masters, den mothers, committee members and institutional representatives.

The Falls District is looking for a total of 10 new sponsors, Rev. Tjarks said. He said the purpose of the dinner tonight will be to explain responsibilities to sponsoring groups.

The local sponsor soliciting effort is part of a national scout drive to increase participation in scouting, the minister said.

Derald Fitzsimonds, scout executive for the Falls District, which includes Twin Falls County and Jackpot, Nev., there are 90 scout units in the district with participation by 2,000 boys.

Tonight's dinner is by invitation only. It will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the College of Southern Idaho cafeteria. The dinner is being paid for by a group of Twin Falls businessmen, Fitzsimonds said.

Those interested in serving as a scouting leader should call scout headquarters at 733-2067 or contact Rev. Tjarks at 733-7777.

Car rental firms approved

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council Monday approved application for two more car rental firms at the city-county airport.

Dollar-A-Day Rent-A-Car and Thrifty Car Rentals will be given office space at the airport if the Twin Falls County commissioners concur with the city's action.

The two new agencies would bring to five the number of car rental firms operating at the airport.

Sun-Valley Co. holds the franchise for the Dollar-A-Day dealership. Ernie Wills, who now operates an agency in the downtown area, applied for the Thrifty dealership.

In the City Council's luncheon "work session" Monday, councilman Winston Jones said Dollar-A-Day had indicated that it would accept the terms of a new lease agreement currently being negotiated with the other three airport rental firms — Hertz, Avis and National.

The three current firms, particularly Hertz, have in the past voiced opposition to the new lease, which includes a major boost in rental fees.

City Manager Joan Milar said the three firms "have been told to sign up by Dec. 1 or vacate by Dec. 15. We've told them others want the space."

Rains bring moisture to dry Valley

TWIN FALLS — Fall rain in the Twin Falls area has improved soil moisture levels and stream flows with water conditions "real good for the immediate future," according to a Weather Bureau meteorologist.

Maurice Faubion, meteorologist at the Kimberly weather station, said Monday that the rainfall for Twin Falls itself was about an inch-and-a-half below last year's comparable rainfall but still above normal.

So far this year Twin Falls has had 8.11 inches of rain, compared to 9.71 in a like period of 1972. The normal rainfall is 7.45 inches, Faubion said.

He said the timing of this fall's rainfall was "perfect."

"Nearly everyone got their crops out before these fall rains started," Faubion said.

Faubion said the Twin Falls area was abnormally dry through the summer. Much of the rainfall so far this year fell early in the year, he said. He said the fall rains will help carry crops, such as alfalfa and wheat, through the winter.

Faubion said the whole Pacific northwest stream flow situation has improved with fall rains, after some concern about stream flows, particularly on the Columbia River.

The fall rains have also brought snow to mountain ski areas early. Pomerelle had about three feet of snow on the ground as of this weekend and Sun Valley is scheduling the earliest opening in its 37-year history on Thanksgiving Day.

Magic Mountain ski resort, however, has only about a foot of snow, less than usual for this time of year.

Jim Terry, National Weather Service specialist in Twin Falls, said the rainfall in November, although heavy in the mountains, is nowhere near a record in the valleys.

For Twin Falls city, Terry said, precipitation this month has measured 1.29 inches so far, already ahead of the 1.12 inches for Nov. 1972, but far below the record 3.95 inches set in Nov. 1969.

September and October rainfall in Twin Falls this year was below last year's levels, he said. The record rainfall for October in Twin Falls was 2.71 inches in 1926, he said, compared to 1.23 inches last October and only .15 inches this year.

Atlanta upsets previously unbeaten Minnesota 20-14

ATLANTA (UPI) — Bob Lee threw two second period touchdowns—pines Monday night to lead fired-up Atlanta to a 20-14 victory over the previously unbeaten Minnesota Vikings, keeping alive the Falcons' hopes for a playoff berth.

The Falcons, picking up their sixth straight victory after getting off to a 1-3 start this season, cruised for 17 points in the second period. Lee threw touchdown passes of 19 and 30 yards to running backs Dave Humpton and Eddie Ray, respectively, and rookie Nick Mike-Mayer, who added a 40-yard field goal in the third period, had a 25-yard snorter after the second period began.

It was the first loss in 10 games for the Vikings, who had already clinched the National Football Conference Central Division title for the fifth time in six years while the victory kept the Falcons just one game behind the Los Angeles Rams in the NFC West.

The Vikings scored twice on touchdown passes by Fran Tarkenton, the first a 33-yard strike to Jon Gilliam which gave Minnesota a brief 7-3 lead 5:56 into the second period. The other was a 2-yarder to Bill Brown with 6:29 left in the game which kept the Vikings' hopes alive for avoiding the upset.

The Vikings had two more chances after that but the first one ended when Gilliam lost the ball on a fumble at the Atlanta 36-yard line after catching a 23-yard pass and the second ended with 30 seconds left in the game when Tarkenton scrambled for 12 yards on a fourth downplay but failed to make a first down.

The Falcons completely dominated the first half as they outgained the Vikings 275-105 yards overall and held Minnesota to only 13 yards rushing.

The first period wound up scoreless after Mike-Mayer missed 46 and 26 yard field goal attempts and the Falcons were ahead by only 17-7, at halftime.

The Vikings moved to the Atlanta 27 early in the third period only to lose the ball on a fumble and Mike-Mayer's second field goal gave Atlanta a 20-7 lead with 3:01 left in the third period.

The Vikings tried and missed a 49-yard field goal early in the final period and the next time they got the ball they drove 49 yards for their second touchdown to close to within six points of the Falcons.

Griffith drops Paris match

TONY MUNDINE (R) of Australia misses with a long right during his 12-round non-title middleweight bout in Paris, France, against Emile Griffith of New York. Displaying superior punching and high-class defensive skills, Mundine decisively outpointed Griffith to win the match. (UPI Telephoto).

Michigan will face top team

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — A worried but relaxed coach Bo Schembechler said Monday his fourth-rated Michigan team will have to play our best game of the season — by far — to win its game Saturday with top-ranked Ohio State.

The Wolverines are 10-0, the Buckeyes 9-0, and to the winner goes the Big Ten title, a trip to the Rose Bowl Jan. 1, and possibly the National title.

"But don't get down," Schembechler cautioned members of the "M Club," a Michigan booster organization, "I think we can do it."

"We're ready," Schembechler said. "Everything that's been said and written about them is true. They're better than they were in 1971 and 1972. I want to avoid comparing them with 1969 and 1970."

"This year, they're maybe a little more complete," he said. "Somebody I hope I can go to a class like this as a spectator. But I don't think I'll be able to for a while."

Four years ago Schembechler flatly predicted to this same group Michigan would beat Ohio State and then went out and did it. The Buckeyes were 8-0 at the time and heavily favored. The game was played on the Wolverines' field.

He made no such statement this time and was even more cautious later during his meeting with a mob of media men at his weekly press luncheon.

Tommy Hudson leads tourney

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tommy Hudson of Akron, Ohio, pro bowling's reigning rookie of the year, knocked down an average of 213.5 pins in an eight-game block Monday to take the early first round lead in the $100,000 Brunswick World Open.

Hudson, a 25-year-old righthander, rolled games of 196, 177, 259, 191, 243, 222, 206 and 214 for a 1,708 total and a six-pin lead over Denny Torgerson, Des Moines, Iowa.

Another win for Pre Steve Prefontaine wins cross country title

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Oregon's Steve Prefontaine did just what everyone expected him to do Monday — win his third NCAA cross country individual championship and lead his team to overall first place finish.

But "Pre" had a few people worried for awhile until he charged from the second-place position he held most of the race to win.

Western Kentucky's Nick Rose settled for second place after leading the field of 230 of the nation's top collegiate distance runners for five miles of the six-mile course.

Prefontaine clocked 28:14.8 in winning the event held on the Hangman Valley Golf Course. He finished five seconds ahead of Eastern Michigan's Gordon Minty — finished third in the meet, followed by defending champ Neil Gusack of East Tennessee State.

Waigwa Wilson rounded out the top five and helped spark his University of Texas-El Paso team to a second-place finish behind Oregon.

The race was the last collegiate event for Prefontaine, who also became only the second man to win three NCAA individual championships. He tied a record set by Washington State's Gerry Lindgren in the late 1960's.

Host WSU, considered a pre-race favorite along with Oregon for the team title, finished third in the standings ahead of William and Mary and Oklahoma State.

The remainder of the top 10 teams included Colorado, Western Kentucky, East

Rufus Ferguson suffers emotional breakdown

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Rufus "Roadrunner" Ferguson was in the hospital, a season past his glory days in a Wisconsin football uniform, but he was voted the game ball anyway by his old teammates last Saturday.

As center and team captain Mike Webster put it after Wisconsin eked out a 36-34 thriller over Northwestern, "we want to show him that we love him and this is the best way."

Ferguson, the 5-foot-6 dynamo who almost single handedly filled the stadium here for two years, had a serious emotional breakdown a week earlier, his second in less than a year. He ended up in University hospital and it's not certain how long he'll be there.

Police were called to the home of former Wisconsin coach Lewis (Les) Ritzerson, and after a brief stay in jail, Ferguson was taken to the hospital.

What the reasons for the breakdown were, no one was saying. But it was clear the record-breaking former running back, always ebullient, obviously was under an intolerable strain.

Some speculated that years of almost overpowering adulation by fans and the frustrations of a disappointing try at pro football with the Atlanta Falcons triggered the latest crisis.

That was the kinder speculation.

There also was talk of drugs or an old football injury, and Wisconsin athletic director Elroy "Crazylogs" Hirsch moved quickly to put it to rest.

"He has suffered an emotional disturbance due to fatigue and pressure," Hirsch said, asking publicly that Ferguson be "left alone."

"We want to dispel any rumors that the breakdown is due to drugs or football injury. It is not," Hirsch said.

Arlie Mucks, executive director of the Wisconsin alumni association and a close friend of Ferguson's, also pleaded for privacy for the former star.

"They love him so much, but what he really needs is for the spotlight to be turned off," Mucks said. "He needs to rest and recover."

Robb Johnson, a former Wisconsin basketball player who is a reporter-photographer for the Madison Capital Times, interviewed Ferguson a week before the breakdown.

"If Ferguson's trouble had reached the point where he would soon be in the hospital, there was no hint of it in the conversation we had," Johnson said.

"Then again, looking at it in retrospect today, perhaps there was. Ferguson was a great college football player and a sensitive, proud human being."

Johnson said Ferguson was feeling low after failing to make the Falcons.

"It was early September," Ferguson told Johnson. "They call you in the morning and tell you to come over. As soon as you get that phone call you know."

By that time, the Canadian pros were well into their season and he didn't last. Ferguson returned to Wisconsin, as he said, "because I've grown to love the state. I feel closer to the state and the University of Wisconsin. I want to help the program."

After his college career was over, Ferguson traveled the state at his usual breakneck pace talking to youngsters and stressing the importance of education, of obeying parents and teachers.

Knowing the kind of magic Ferguson has in these parts, Gov. Patrick J. Lacey hired him as an administrative assistant. But only a few weeks into the job, the breakdown came.

Tommy Hudson leads tourney

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tommy Hudson of Akron, Ohio, pro bowling's reigning rookie of the year, knocked down an average of 213.5 pins in an eight-game block Monday to take the early first round lead in the $100,000 Brunswick World Open.

Hudson, a 25-year-old righthander, rolled games of 196, 177, 259, 191, 243, 222, 206 and 214 for a 1,708 total and a six-pin lead over Denny Torgerson, Des Moines, Iowa.

Billy Tohill fired at TCU after long recovery fight

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Billy Tohill, who fought his way back from a near fatal auto accident last spring to resume his full-time head football coaching duties at Texas Christian University, was fired Monday.

"His accident has made his task at TCU more difficult," said TCU Chancellor Dr. James M. Moudy, "and has lessened the likelihood of its accomplishment."

"It is our judgment that the interests of TCU must be paramount."

Tohill's Horned Frogs had compiled a 3-6 season record and a 1-4 mark in the Southwest Conference.

He had been voted as co-Southwest Conference coach of the year two seasons ago when, after the mid-season death of TCU coach Jim Pittman, Tohill took over to guide the Horned Frogs to a 4-1 year.

Last March, in the early days of the Horned Frogs spring drills, Tohill's car ran off a Fort Worth freeway at high speed. He was in traction for weeks and his right foot had to be amputated above the ankle.

He vowed, however, he would return to the sidelines to coach this season and, with the aid of crutches, he kept his promise.

But TCU was hard hit by injuries early in the season and speculation quickly began that despite his valiant comeback Tohill would not be back as Horned Frog coach next year.

"This termination is made with deep regret and sincere appreciation of his efforts amid great difficulties," said Moudy.

"Mr. Tohill has not put it all together in the ways that meet the many expectations of TCU.

"That he is a fine coach is fact and it is likely that he can fill the role of head coach at some institution where the demands and traditions are different of those at TCU."

Moudy hinted that TCU officials considered Tohill had not put forth the best public image of the school.

"At TCU," he said, "the head coaches' responsibilities must go beyond recruiting and coaching and must include close relationship with the public, ex-lettermen and former alumni."

"The financial elements of Coach Tohill's two remaining contract years will be honored by TCU until such time as Mr. Tohill is able to locate another

Butkus will face surgery

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Bears middle linebacker Dick Butkus said Monday he expects to undergo surgery on his right knee after the end of the current National Football League season.

Butkus, who sat out the second game of his nine-year NFL career Sunday because of his "troubled" knee, brushed aside questions at a luncheon about whether he might retire.

"Well, I don't know," he said. "People talk about me retiring. Well, if I was young, fast, healthy and had a lot of money and my whole sex life ahead of me, I'd retire like Secretariat."

He said the problems with his knee are more than arthritis. "The arthritis isn't much more than 20 per cent of it," he said.

"Loyal car customers are hard to find. I want to keep mine by giving Good Service." It doesn't make sense to do business any other way.

UCLA's Rodgers says USC to face wishbone

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Pepper Rodgers says he doesn't have any special gimmicks in mind for University of Southern California Saturday.

Just the same old wishbone that's accounted for 457 points and 3,154 yards rushing this season.

"You can rest assured we'll run the same plays as we've been running all year," the UCLA coach told the southern California football writers Monday. "We'll put the ball in the fullback's stomach and sometimes he'll have it and sometimes he won't."

Rodgers got a big laugh with the line but there's been nothing funny about the Bruins' ground-gobbling offense to their opponents this season.

"I feel like we have a good football team and I feel we can win the game," noted the UCLA coach, "but I'm sure we can lose the game, too, if we don't play like we're capable of playing."

Rodgers, whose club has won nine straight since losing its season opener at Nebraska, was asked how he felt on the week of the UCLA-USC Pacific-8 Rose Bowl decider.

"Let's put it this way," he smiled. "I feel more confident than I did the first year I was here but I don't feel as confident as I did last week against Oregon State. It's somewhere in between."

In his first year at UCLA in 1971, a 2-7-1 season for the Bruins, Rodgers saw his team play to a 7-7 tie against USC. The Bruins buried Oregon State 56-14 last weekend.

Rodgers had strong words of praise for quarterback Pat Haden, who had led the Trojans to an 8-1-1 record.

"I don't think there's any question he's probably the best passer we've seen this year and maybe the premier passer in the country," said the UCLA coach.

"You can't rush him because he's so quick he can get away from the rush and he can throw the ball anywhere on the field under pressure."

But, said Rodgers, the Bruins will stick with their zone defense. "We're going to play exactly as we've been

Student leaders advise

BOISE (UPI) — Student leaders from Big Sky colleges and universities Monday recommended keeping Portland State out of the conference.

Portland State's athletic department made a request to Big Sky conference officials more than a year ago to join the league, but students at a conference meeting here said they did not want the school to join.

Cindy Parker, chairperson for a Portland State student government committee which allocates incidental student funds, told a Big Sky student council that students in the Oregon school do not want to join.

The student council will make a recommendation to the conference. Big Sky officials are scheduled to vote on the matter at their meeting Tuesday.

Miss Parker said students are concerned about the amount of money it will cost for the school to join the conference.

She said the athletic department there estimates it will cost in the neighborhood of $185,000 over a five year period if Portland is admitted.

Student body presidents represented most of the schools in the Big Sky conference in Boise.

Oklahoma faces rival for title

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — Barry Switzer said Monday the Nebraska football team his No. 1-ranked Sooners meet Friday is just like the Cornhusker squad Oklahoma faced the last two years with two notable exceptions.

"Offensively, it's the same football team with a lot of different names and numbers, except one that I'm thankful for," Switzer said. "That's Johnny Rodgers. That's the difference."

"Defensively, they are basically the same type of team as last year except for Rich Glover, they don't have him," Switzer said.

Although the National Championship is not at stake in this year's nationally televised match at Norman, it should decide the Big Eight conference title for the third straight year.

The Sooners need only a tie to win the crown, while the Huskers would have to win and then root for Oklahoma State against Oklahoma Dec. 1.

Switzer said that even without Glover and Rodgers, last year's Heisman trophy winner, this year's Nebraska team is stronger in some respects.

Quarterback David Humm is better this year, he said, and the Huskers are stronger at back with Tony Davis and John O'Leary sharing rushes.

"I look for a physical, defensive battle again," Switzer said.

"I said that about Texas (52-13 loser to Oklahoma), but I just don't see how a lot of points can be scored against them," he said. "Kansas State scored the most in a 60-21 ballgame so you know that had to be against the reserves."

"There is no field advantage," he observed. "Both teams have lost the last two years at home. The only advantage is for the fans; they know how to get to the stands."

"I think it'll be a touchdown difference, or maybe a point," Switzer said.

Oklahoma came out of last week's 48-20 victory over Kansas without major injury to starting players, Switzer said. Quarterback Steve Davis jammed his left thumb, middle guard Lucious Solomon has a bruised shin; cornerback Clyde Powers has a pinched nerve, fullback Waymon Clark a stumped toe and end Wayne Hoffman a case of the flu.

All should be well enough to play by game time, he said, although specialty team players Eric Van Camp, E. N. Simon and Pat Hussey may miss the game.

Switzer said a factor in the size of the Sooners' margin over Kansas last week was winning the toss and electing to kick with the wind. Kansas never got out of the hole and it was 27-0 in the first quarter.

"Our play in the Kansas ball game has got to be considered outstanding from the defensive point of view," he said.

Note the name of Calvin Coolidge listed among those several presidents which one historian contends possessed no sense of humor. Bunk 'Coolidge was an exceedingly witty fellow. Most of his lines just don't reduce to print any too well. Coolidge said absolutely nothing to him, except: Call often.

That word "kickback" has leaped off the wires from Washington, D.C. quite frequently of late. This comes to mind because a feminine client asks what's the difference between a kickback and a hinder's leg? "Oh, my dear, it gets so complicated. Essentially one is illegal, the other is okay. And I guess maybe it's a bit rural of me to report that a kickback has taken on a new meaning for some. As a lad, a kickback was what you got when you allowed the kid in the next seat. FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An apparently tranquil surface covers tempestuous, strange conditions seething beneath. So be prepared for these. However, with thoughtful judgment and careful planning it is also extremely good to get set to go after big goals.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study an associate carefully for his next move; be prepared. Show a cooperative spirit. Don't let temper break up some worthwhile alliance.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Analyze work and schedule, leaving room for possible tantrums of fellow-workers. Don't overdo and ruin health. Use good judgment.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Accept some invitation for fun and relieve tensions. Some interesting new personality could give you added inspiration now. Avoid a silly smart-aleck.

MOON (CHILDREN) (June 22 to July 21) Don't blast out at a family tie or devoted servant; handle the matter intelligently. Don't make those changes at home which you are contemplating, yet.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Some unexpected note or telephone call could bring a fine chance to improve your position in life now. But study the matter carefully first. Use care in motion.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't make big investment or spend large sums of money without advice from an expert. Don't use credit cards without careful thought.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Know what you want most, since pressures will be put on you to do other things. Get out socially. Remain your conservative self.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take care of problems by keeping promises and working diligently. Don't let your temper get the best of you. Know your own mind.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Let clever friends suggest what should be done to better your situation. Don't light into a good friend because you disagree. Learn to cooperate more.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use good judgment, do nothing harmful to yourself or others. Drive with special care, guard your reputation. Get talents across without appearing boastful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have fine ideas and don't know which to work on first; select the most practical. Get fine pointers from an expert.

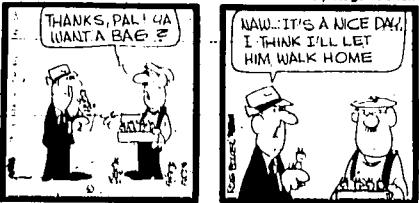

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make collections; pay bills, and come out of that slough of despondency. Discuss future trends with specialists. Don't play any tricks on mate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be clever and a veritable question-box. Some early discipline of this fine mind is needed to teach to listen as well as talk. Give best education possible, and there can be real fame here provided the religious training is good also. Give opportunity to travel early in life when the mind is inquisitive and retentive. Care in diet early, too.

Market Review Idaho Valley Weather Report National

NEW YORK (UPI)— Prices moved lower in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday. A few minutes after the opening, the Dow Jones Industrial average was off 0.00 to 862.58. But declines were more than three-to-one ahead of advances among the 378 issues traded.

The market Monday took its worst beating in more than a decade with investors apparently intimidated by a tough anti-U.S. stance by the Arabs with regard to oil shipments, and by the effects the energy crisis will have on the nation's economy.

The Dow fell 28.67 to 862.66, the fifth worst single loss ever, and the number of issues declining—1,404—set an Exchange record.

Given Wall Street's jittery psychological state, overreaction is the order of the day, many analysts observe. The problem of the energy crisis, and various emergency proposals like a ban on Sunday driving have brought on mammoth reactions among investors lately.

6th Fleet alert lifted

(c) 1973 Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — The Pentagon announced today that the United States Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean had been taken off a military alert instituted for it on Oct. 6 with the outbreak of the Middle East war.
 Spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said that 50 ships, including three aircraft carriers and two helicopter carriers, have been put back on "normal training condition" status. The 30,000-man force is the last unit to go off the latest worldwide "readiness" alert ordered by the President on the night of Oct. 24-25. Friedheim said the Soviet fleet strength in the Eastern Mediterranean is down by 20 or 30 ships during the war. Over the weekend, he said, a number of Soviet combat and support ships, including a missile-carrying cruiser and destroyers, either had returned to the Black Sea or called out into the Atlantic.

 The U.S. Aircraft Carrier Franklin Delano Roosevelt and its escort destroyers went to Athens, Greece, over the weekend for repairs. Because of student and workers riots and a government-imposed curfew there, the ship's crew was restricted from going ashore.

 During the Middle East crisis, the United States increased fleet strength of the Sixth Fleet by one Aircraft Carrier — The John F. Kennedy — and one helicopter carrier — the Two Jims.
 Today Friedheim indicated that the helicopter carrier Grundtlemal, which was already on station in the Eastern Mediterranean with 2,000 Marines aboard, would soon be returning to the United States for its normal rotation time with the Two Jims.

WH cuts Christmas lighting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's energy shortage will directly affect the Christmas lighting at the White House during the yule season.
 Aides said today that President Nixon has ordered that the 20-foot Christmas tree in the Blue Room only will be lighted for the special social occasions and traditional parties leading up to Christmas. There will be candlelight in the state rooms, but shrubs and trees on the north and south porticos will not be illuminated this year.
 The Christmas decorations will be put up between Dec. 11 and 15. Candlelight tours again will be held for the public Dec. 26-28.
 White House staffers already are feeling the effects of the reduction of lights and heat at the White House. "We're stumbling around and we're cold," one aide said.

In line with the conservation measures, the temperature in the White House has been lowered to 68 degrees, and staffers are wearing warmer clothing.
 The lights at the fountains on the north and south grounds have been turned off and the exterior lights which show off the White House at night — one of Mrs. Nixon's innovations — are being switched off nightly at 10 p.m.

leading a diamond to his ace and ruffed his last heart. He led a low club from dummy and ruffed it with his king of trumps. His last diamond was ruffed by the ace of trumps. This series of plays had established West's queen as the high trump but that high trump was the only trick for the defense.
 A trump lead by West would have defeated the slam, but as it was Pete only made it because of his pessimism.
 He has to cash dummy's ace of clubs before leading the third heart. Otherwise, West would have been able to discard his one club and ruff the ace. He also had to ruff the first club with his king of trumps to keep West from overruffing and leading a trump back.

TODAY'S QUESTION
 Instead of bidding three diamonds your partner has bid three hearts over your three clubs. What do you do now?
 Answer: Tomorrow

Pessimistic Pete looked over the dummy and remarked, "I'm glad a trump wasn't opened. A lucky player would be able to set up dummy's clubs, pick up the trumps and make seven. I'm going to try to play as safely as possible for six."
 It was well that he didn't try for seven. Actually, the least bit of careless play on his part and he might not have made six.
 Pete won the diamond in dummy and promptly played the ace of clubs. Then he cashed his ace and king of hearts and led a third heart. West discarded a diamond and Pete ruffed in dummy. He returned to his hand by

Friendly gesture indicated

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon lightly slapped an Air Force master sergeant on the cheek Saturday night, and the man's wife called it a gesture of friendship.
 The incident occurred at McCoy Air Force Base as Nixon was returning from an hour-long news conference at Disney World.
 M.Sgt. Edward Kleizo and his son were among a group of about 60 persons on hand to see the President off. According to reporters with the President, Nixon approached Kleizo and had the following exchange:
 "Are you the boy's mother or grandmother?"
 "Neither," the man replied.
 "Of course not," Nixon said and lightly slapped the man's face. The incident was interpreted by some as an indication of anger on the President's part, but according to the sergeant's wife, Kleizo has no such feelings.
 "I don't know how they got that," she said.
 "He just mistook him because the light was so bad. It was blinding the President's eyes."
 "He couldn't see the crowd. He was just reaching out for everyone, I guess," Mrs. Kleizo said.
 "He mistook my husband for my son's mother or grandmother and when he said 'no,' it was just a gesture — just like anyone reaching out to pat him on the shoulder or the cheek, and say 'I'm sorry.'"
