TF arson try probed

TWIN FALLS—City police here are investigating an arson attempt involving a fire at Freddie's Bar late Monday. Police were called to the establishment when someone saw smoke coming from the roof of the building about 9 p.m. Reports stated a box was found on the roof containing burning fuel oil.

McCall eyes '76 nomination

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon Gov. Tom McCall says he is considering running for President in 1976 to give a voice to disgruntled Republicans and Democrats as well as independents. McCall, a Republican, said he would consider a third-party role such as the one played by Alabama Gov. George Wallace in 1968.

Brezhnev greeted warmly

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Soviet Party Leader Leonid Brezhnev and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi exchanged warm and lavish praise today after meeting privately to further strengthen Indo-Soviet relations. At a gigantic public reception on the grounds of the historic Red Fort Brezhnev promised during a 70 minute speech that "we will always be with you in all difficulties and joys."

Labor writer may gain sight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Victor Riesel, labor columnist blinded 17 years ago by acid thrown in his face, returned to work Monday after the second in a series of eye operations. Riesel said it appears he will have some recovery of sight in the left eye. He was attacked in 1956 after a broadcast denouncing alleged extortionists in an operating engineers' union.

Red forces stall road drive

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Communist forces laid down mortar barrages on both sides of Kompong Speu today in an apparent attempt to outflank government troops who are trying to reopen Highway 4 to the deepwater port of Kompong Som, field reporters said. The road has been cut since Nov. 11 just southwest of Mahansing, 36 miles southwest of Phnom Penh. But the shelling at Kompong Speu today was 11 miles closer to Phnom Penh.

Scuba divers home from Cuba

BARTOW, Fla. (UPI) — Al Hichew, retired Air Force officer, smiles on return to United States after being detained five days in Cuba with party of 16 scuba divers after their plane made a forced landing. The party was released after paying an $11,000 "repair bill." Hichew said the twin-engine Lockheed L441 was forced down by two MIG fighters after he was "misled" by the Havana control tower.

Israeli miss guidance gear

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Israeli troops failed to capture the guidance equipment for advanced Soviet missiles introduced in Egypt during the October war, Pentagon officials said today. Military officers had been openly hoping that Israeli forces would capture a SAM6 missile intact during their advance beyond the Suez Canal so that American technicians could examine the equipment to learn the latest Soviet technical gains, particularly the radar guidance system, which has been difficult to jam.

Some Greek prisoners freed

ATHENS (UPI) — Police authorities in Salonica, under orders from the new military rulers, today began releasing scores of persons arrested last week for participation in antigovernment demonstrations. An Athens newspaper said most of those arrested in the capital also would be freed.

Noisy tape played

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of President Nixon's Watergate tapes — marred by whistles, hums and garbled voices — was played in public for the first time today in the court of Federal Judge John J. Sirica. The tape contained portions of conversations Nixon had with his former key aides, John D. Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, on June 20, 1972. Sirica ordered it played as part of an effort to try to find out whether the taped recordings had been altered in any way. This tape was chosen because Rose Mary Woods, Nixon's personal secretary, testified Monday she apparently accidentally erased an 18-minute segment while transcribing it on Oct. 1. She was on the witness stand as the tape was played. Miss Woods herself threaded the machine she had used to transcribe the tape, punched the play button and as newsmen and spectators leaned forward in their seats, the President's voice was heard in the courtroom. The quality of the tape was extremely poor — marred by a low hum and echoes in his Executive Office Building office, where the conversation took place. At first only occasional words, including some profanity, could be heard as Nixon discussed news conferences and other matters with Ehrlichman. Their words were obscured by background noises including such things as a jet plane and the toot of a car horn. Twenty minutes into the tape, the voices were replaced by a loud, persistent hum that sounded like an electric razor or an outboard motor at trolling speed. The hum diminished about four minutes later to a lower pitch. It changed slightly in pitch four minutes later, stopped briefly after another three minutes and eventually returned to its original high level. When voices were heard again, 18 1/2 minutes later, Nixon was speaking with Haldeman and could be heard to say "either way, either way." The President could also be heard at one point saying, "I work better when even I go to a place like that," and at another point he asked a White House steward to bring him some consommé. Miss Woods, who had testified Nov. 10 that the quality of that particular tape was "very bad" and that it took her some 30 hours to transcribe it, frequently shook her head as the tape was playing. "You see how difficult it is?" she said quietly to one of the Watergate prosecutors who hovered over the machine attempting to hear.

SV seeks return of passenger runs

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — Businessmen here are turning to the railroads in order to prevent economic damage brought on by fuel shortages. Fearful that fewer people would come to the resort if transportation were curtailed during the energy crisis, several contacts have been made with Amtrak officials to bring rail service to this resort community. According to Amtrak officials, the community would have to guarantee up to 400 round trip fares each day the train would run from Salt Lake City to Sun Valley. Still, train service could not be assured. Sun Valley owner Bill Janss has written the president of Amtrak inquiring about the possibility of railroad service to Ketchum from Salt Lake City. Sun Valley vice president Ed Pilkerton said. Pilkerton said that other possible routes would be from Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle to Ketchum. Up to now, he said, AMTRAK has given no confirmation that there will be service. No agreements have been made, according to AMTRAK Division Chief Art Lloyd, and a guarantee of "up to 400 fares" would have to be made "to justify the operation," of a railroad between Salt Lake City and Ketchum. The AMTRAK official said that other such proposals for train routes are "coming from all over the country." While no one knows the full extent of the fuel shortage, resort area businessmen are all worried that their towns will be left comparatively powerless, he said. Lloyd said AMTRAK's ability to run trains to Ketchum will depend upon whether engines and fuel will be available. "We haven't gotten guidelines on whether we will have fuel to run special trains. We know we can run regular trains," he said. Ketchum and Sun Valley Chambers of Commerce Executive Director Lloyd Curtis is circulating a proposal for AMTRAK fares among Sun Valley businessmen, Burt said. Meanwhile, Sun Valley Co., by far the largest business in the area, is making further contacts with AMTRAK before winter sets in.

US in red

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although administration officials are still looking for a balanced budget June 30, 1974 — the end of the fiscal year — the federal budget was $5.5 billion in the red at the end of October. Treasury Department said Monday the government took in $17.6 billion last month but spent $23.1 billion, leaving a $5.5 billion shortfall for October, the fourth month of the 1974 fiscal year.

Suspect arrested in TF kidnaping

TWIN FALLS — Blackfoot police early today arrested a suspect wanted in the kidnaping of three Twin Falls women and the rape of one of them. Twin Falls police officers left today to return the man to Twin Falls. Twin Falls Police Captain Tim Qualls said the suspect, who gave his name as Matthew Kennari, age unknown, was taken into custody in Blackfoot at about 2 a.m. and held for Twin Falls authorities. A few hours before the arrest, Pocatelto officers had found an abandoned, stolen vehicle sought in connection with the case.

Sheriff Paul Corder said the three women, two aged 18 and one aged 20, were stopped by a man Friday night in Twin Falls. The man asked them to follow him in their car as he drove to the police station. Before reaching the station, Corder said, the man allegedly forced his way into the women's car at gunpoint and ordered them to accompany him toward Nevada. In the desert area west of Rogerson he bound the two younger women and allegedly raped the older woman. He left the two younger women bound in the desert, and returned with the one woman to Twin Falls where he exchanged cars, driving on with her to American Falls in his car. The captive was released at American Falls. Meanwhile, the two bound women had freed themselves and notified officers from a ranchhouse at about 1 a.m. Corder said the suspect had told the women he was an escapee from Folsom Prison in California. Officers called prison authorities and were provided information on escapees fitting the description by the women, leading to identification of a possible suspect. Officers said they had not determined if the man held in Blackfoot was the suspected Folsom Prison escapee.

KLM'S A.W. WITHHOLT hijackers' hostage

Stolen jet flying on

BEIRUT (UPI) — Three Arab guerrillas freed 255 captives aboard a hijacked Dutch jumbo jet in Valletta, Malta, then flew to the Persian Gulf sheikhdom of Dubai where they refueled and took off again, a Dubai Airport spokesman reported.

The Royal Dutch Airlines (KLM) 747 took off from Dubai airport after a three-hour refueling stopover. The spokesman said the plane left at 6:40 p.m. (7:40 a.m. MST) and headed in a southerly direction. KLM said in Amsterdam it was flying to Aden, the capital of Marxist Southern Yemen. The plane was carrying 10 crewmen and a vice president of KLM who boarded at Valletta as a voluntary hostage. Since the Sunday night hijack the guerrillas have taken it to Damascus, Cyprus, Libya, Malta and Dubai. Officials at the Libya's Tripoli airport said today the takeoff Monday of the fully loaded plane was a "miracle." They said the plane used a runway that had been closed for 25 years and "is certainly unfit for landings and takeoffs." They said it almost collided with construction equipment on takeoff. Diplomatic sources in Beirut said if the plane flew to Aden the hijackers might be given refuge and a safe conduct. The Dubai airport official said during their stay at Dubai's modern airport, the hijackers made no demands beyond the one for refueling.

Egypt mulls peace paths

By United Press International
Egypt said today it is reviewing its decision to attend a proposed international peace conference on the Middle East, and an Egyptian official warned Israel that the Egyptian armed forces are fully prepared for action if Israel does not withdraw to the Oct. 22 cease-fire lines. Ahmed Anis, the official Egyptian spokesman, was asked at a Cairo news conference if Egypt might refuse to attend the December Geneva conference if the current negotiations with Israel on the separation of their forces along the Suez Canal are not successful. "This is a question that is under close study at the moment," Anis said. He said Israel is "playing for time" at the military meetings held at Kilometer 101 on the Cairo-Suez road and that "this can only reflect adversely its intentions towards the peace conference itself."

Opinion rejection key

TWIN FALLS — A legal opinion by county prosecutor Robert W. Galley was instrumental in the rejection of a petition to vacate a controversial canyon rim subdivision. In advising the county commissioners to deny the petition, Galley pointed to precedent which he maintained showed that land ownership was elemental in any request for plat vacation. The county commissioners said Monday Galley's written opinion was the basis for their unanimous decision Friday to reject a petition by Canyon Inc., which sought the vacation of the Meander Points subdivision east of Rock Creek on the Snake River Canyon rim. While Galley acknowledged that a "literal interpretation of the vacation statute" ... I suspect would mean any person in the world could file a petition to vacate any platted land within the state of Idaho," he added that in researching case law "it is very clear that it has been the owners who have always requested the vacation of a plat." "Therefore, it would be my opinion," Galley concluded, "that petitions filed under this section by people not owning the plats sought to be vacated should be denied and no hearing set." Charles Brumbach, attorney for Canyon Inc., a group which seeks orderly development and preservation of the canyon rim, said Monday he did not know if, or when, a legal suit would be filed to attempt to set aside the Meander Points approval. The commissioners approved the subdivision by a 2-1 vote on Oct. 15.

US trade gains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States international trade balance showed a substantial surplus in October for the second consecutive month, the Commerce Department reported today. Exports exceeded imports by $27.1 million in October, the department said. The surplus was less than an eight-year high registered in September, but nevertheless was regarded by officials as a strong showing. During the first 10 months of 1973, exports on a seasonally adjusted basis were valued at $57.042 billion while imports totaled $56.382 billion for a U. S. surplus of $680.2 million, the department said. During the similar period in 1972, the United States registered a trade deficit of $5.232 billion. The Commerce Department reported exports of $6.432 billion in October and imports of $5.905 billion. That surplus of $527.1 million followed a September surplus of $273.3 million.

'Gate hearing recessed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee today called off any further hearings until January but authorized additional subpoenas for White House tapes and for employees of billionaire Howard Hughes. "The responsible thing to do is to get your ducks in a row before you start swimming in the pond," said Vice Chairman Howard W. Baker, R-Tenn., in explaining the decision to delay hearings. He said the committee had been unable to come up with enough "hard evidence" to resume hearings. Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., said subpoenas were authorized for additional tape recordings from the White House. The committee also voted to release subpoenas against six or seven employees of the Hughes Tool Co. who refused to appear voluntarily for closed-door questioning. They were summoned to answer questions about $100,000 in cash which Hughes gave Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo for Nixon in 1969 and 1970. Rebozo, a close friend of Nixon, returned the money early this year.

Andrus disagrees with limits

(Special to the Times-News) BOISE — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said Monday he disagreed with President Nixon's decision to seek a mandatory nationwide reduction in maximum speed limits.

Andrus said he thought a lot of people would be unwilling to accept a 50 mile per hour limit for passenger vehicles and 55 miles per hour for trucks and buses. And the governor said he didn't blame them.

Andrus and Washington Gov. Dan Evans, a Republican. Andrus said he spoke with McCull by telephone earlier in the day Monday and found him upset over the President's actions, especially the differing maximums for cars and trucks.

The three governors, he said, would like to "reason with the man if we can."

License granted, ranch plans set

By MARILYN ELLIOTT Times-News writer RUPERT — The approval of a state license for the Idaho Youth Ranch last week "came through like I expected it," director James Worsley said Monday.

The ranch currently houses nine boys in one home. Remodeling on a second home is expected to be completed in about three weeks, according to Worsley, and ranch personnel hope to have 24 boys in residence by the end of the year.

He said Gov. Tom McCall, R-Ore., was trying to arrange the conversation with Nixon.

The Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS) approved the full-year license for the ranch on Friday, just two days before the ranch's provisional six-month license expired.

Now that the license has been granted, "we can start concentrating on bringing back public support," Worsley said. "The biggest problem is to overcome the innuendoes and this sort of thing."

The governor, while taking exception with the President's requests, also predicted Congress would give him the authority he requested. Andrus said states wanted to comply with fuel conservation measures, but were finding it difficult. The legislation will give the president a "club" to use on the states to force them into compliance, he said.

Andrus said his first reaction on hearing the president's requested speed limit reduction was to "tell them to go to blazes."

The provisional license came last spring after nearly the entire staff resigned in the wake of investigations of corporal punishment being used at the ranch.

Donations, which dropped sharply after last spring's upheaval, are "coming along," he said.

At the same time, Andrus reported some good news about traffic fatalities on the state's highways. He gave newsmen figures showing a reduction in the number of fatal accidents this year over 1972.

Worsley said DECS officials were "impressed with the quality of the staff at the ranch." There are now six professional and four non-professional staff members at the ranch, all of them hired following last spring's upheaval.

"I want the public to understand—we're-in-business and our main concern is to help the kids," he said. "The ranch is finalizing plans and organizing a fund-raising committee for construction of an approximately $220,000 gymnasium for the ranch, according to Worsley. A master plan is being developed to organize growth of the facilities at the ranch."

Fireplace cause of Blaine fire

KETCHUM — Fire caused an unestimated amount of damage to the floor of a Prospector condominium, Warm Springs, Monday morning.

According to Ketchum Fire Chief Bill Brand, the blaze broke out at about 11:30 a.m. at condominium 128, owned by William Stanley, Bellevue, Wash., and stemmed from an "incorrectly installed" fireplace.

Brand said fireplace bricks had become heated from a fire in the fireplace, igniting floor joists underneath. The fire burned through two, 2 by 10 inch floor joists and burned about four to six feet on each side of the fireplace, Brand said.

Murtaugh youth faces charge

TWIN FALLS — A charge of involuntary manslaughter has been filed against a Murtaugh youth accused of negligence in the fatal shooting of his brother.

The charge was filed Monday in Fifth District Court against Willard Earl Dunnagan, 18. In papers filed with the court, county prosecutor Robert W. Galley charged Willard Dunnagan with "gross negligence" in pointing a loaded pistol at his brother, John A. Dunnagan Jr., 19.

The pistol was allegedly held by Willard Dunnagan when it

IMC plans request

TWIN FALLS — Officials of the Idaho Migrant Council (IMC) will attend a meeting of the Twin Falls Labor Board Wednesday to present requests for the use of the Labor Camp armory.

The Migrant Council requested the use of the building for classrooms and recreation for winter labor camp residents some weeks ago, but no decision was made by the labor center board at that time.

Assistant area coordinator for the Migrant Council, Reynaldo Galvin, said Monday members of the IMC will attend the regular labor center board meeting to voice requests for use of the building.

Henry due some rest

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — In the 10 weeks since he became the 56th secretary of state of the United States, Henry Kissinger has covered more miles, visited more countries, answered more questions, and probably consumed more food and prepared more toasts than any of his predecessors since John Foster Dulles.

and negotiating skill of Secretary Kissinger. Maybe this is what Moscow wants. Having failed to keep up with the computer revolution in the advanced industrial nations, the Soviets could be using their political influence in the Middle East to cut down the production in the west and in Japan. But we won't know that until the negotiations between the Arabs and the Israelis get going, and here Kissinger's role is both critical and awkward.

that wars have been produced by the rivalries of client states, without a full consideration of the world-wide issues... the over-riding need of finding a solution to the problems of world-wide nuclear war becomes overwhelming... this is the central question of our period, and it is a problem that will have to be solved either by this group of officials or by their successors. But it cannot be avoided.

Tail packs sting

Arab states apparently feel they have the oil-hungry world by the tail. They may find the tail carries a sting.

Although the industrialized powers including the United States temporarily have decided to "tough out" the cutoff of vitally needed oil supplies, there surely is a limit to such uncharacteristic passivity.

Historically, nations will not long abide economic blows delivered from others, much less so when the blows are seen as blackmail.

Economic threats, real or imagined, have been contributory factors in many wars, including the War for American Independence, the Civil War, and World Wars I and II, to mention a few.

But there are few cases of such a severe and direct economic threat as is being served up by the oil states today.

The Arabs have every right to use their oil as a weapon. But when they do so, they should realize that to do so may be an act of war.

Those against whom the weapon is brandished have an equal right to respond using their own most effective weaponry.

The Arab states could find themselves indelicately served up on a platter of appetizers before the industrial powers sit down to their accustomed high-energy feast.

Roses have flower vote

The roses have it — really! Today we announce results of the "Flower Vote" which was featured in a recent edition of the Times-News Sunday Home Magazine "Idaho." Right off we can say that the Magic Valley selection of the Rose as the national flower was by a vote of 17 to one. There were 83 ballots received by Mr. Spector and of this number 68 were for the Rose.

opportunity to vote for a law naming a national flower, they will record that Magic Valley folks are for the Rose.

THE GOOSEBONE

Goosebone weather prophets of the future could go amiss if they base their predictions on comparisons with demand for fireplace wood in 1973 and their year, whether it be 2000, 3000 or whatever.

MR. SPECTATOR

People are not going hog wild in stocking up on firewood because they fear a severe winter. Any kind of winter is enough to raise fears in the face of what else is threatened in this old country of ours.

Right here in Magic Valley scores have cut and piled great amounts of logs. And Mr. Spector will get a plugged nickel that come next spring that same pile will be right where it is now.

Solons poor reporters

Portland, Oregonian

As predicted in this space when President Nixon disclosed his plan of calling in members of Congress for question-and-answer sessions on Watergate, conflicting reports of what the President said are flowing from senators and representatives to the press. It has been necessary for the White House to refute or dispute congressional lemons, inasmuch as no reporters were present to record exact statements.

The latest discrepancies included reports by some members of the Senate that the President had said or implied that his resigned attorney general, Elliot Richardson, had "lied" in testimony to a Senate committee about events preceding the firing of Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox. Other senators and the White House said the President merely had disagreed with Richardson's testimony and the intimation of lying or the question of perjury had not arisen.

The conflicting reports from closed-door meetings again emphasize the need for the President to submit himself to detailed and knowledgeable questioning in sessions open to all the media and long enough for exploration of the whole complex field of Watergate investigations. Mr. Nixon will go part way on that route tonight when he is scheduled to answer questions for one hour at the Associated Press Managing Editors convention in Orlando, Fla. But the Washington press corps, which has followed Watergate developments more closely than its managing editors, will not be allowed to ask questions.

The President has submitted to questioning on Watergate in previous meetings with reporters and each time his stock has risen with the public. But it will need more than an hour to cover the field. More such sessions will be needed if the President decides against a long, press-covered examination by all or some members of the Senate Select Committee chaired by Sen. Ervin and Sen. Baker.

Bellmon dreams of switch

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — A fantasy according to Sen. Henry Bellmon:

The editor of the New York Times becomes President of the United States and the editor of the Washington Post becomes vice president.

Jack Anderson runs the FBI and Walter Cronkite presides over the Supreme Court.

And who's putting out the news? Richard Nixon, of course.

"While the world is more nearly at peace than at any time in recent years, a bitter war still rages on the home front—the war between President Nixon's administration and the national news media," the Oklahoma Republican said in his weekly newspaper column published today.

"Since most conflicts arise from a lack of understanding by one side or the other, perhaps the way to achieve peace between the press and the President would be to have the combatants reverse roles for a week."

"Suppose, for example, President Nixon became editor of the enemy New York Times, and the Times editor became president. The editor of the Washington Post could become the vice president."

GEORGE S. THOSTESON, M.D. Take smiles at face value

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it the truth that small babies only smile when they have gas? Or is this just an "old wives' tale?"

My baby sister is 3 1/2 weeks old and very alert for her age. She smiles so cute that it's an ego-buster to have somebody say, "Oh, it's only gas," when you thought it was you she was smiling at. — N. C.

Old wives' tale. And don't let the killjoys bother you. I've been hearing that for decades and don't believe there's an ounce of truth in it. Of course you have to distinguish between a smile and grimace, and a baby may make distressed faces if he has a bubble of gas bothering him. But a smile is a smile, and it comes as naturally as tears.

A small baby has only about four expressions: smiles, crying, a pout, and a screwing up of the face when he feels fussy. So take the smiles at face value.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 41, look 30, but my neck looks like it belonged on a woman about 55. How do I go about contacting a plastic surgeon, and how long would I be confined? — Mrs. P. J. Best way is to ask your physician to refer you to a reliable plastic surgeon or ask the county medical society to give you names. Only the surgeon could tell you about the time you'd be out of circulation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Last week my eye doctor told me cataracts were forming on both my eyes. I know nothing about cataracts so I got upset, but he told me not to worry because it took from one to 10 years before they become serious. Is this true. — M. D.

Cataracts develop slowly, and what your doctor told you is true. There is nothing you can do to slow down their formation, but when or if they reach the point of interfering with your vision, the cataracts can be removed.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm 15 and would like to keep a plant in my bedroom, but I won't be allowed to unless you say it's okay. My mother is under the impression that a plant would consume the oxygen supply. I thought it was the opposite, that plants take in carbon dioxide and give off oxygen. Please set us straight. — L. E.

You are right — plants (when there is light) take up carbon dioxide and give off oxygen.

China ignores Cong demands

By KEYES BEECH
(c) Chicago Daily News
HONG KONG — China doesn't seem enthusiastic about another Communist offensive in South Vietnam.

That is the conclusion of analysts here after reading the tea leaves left over from a visit to Peking by Nguyen-Huu-Tho, 62-year-old head of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, and president of the provisional revolutionary government.

Tho, touring China after getting the VIP treatment in Peking, did get a pledge of more economic aid from the Chinese leadership.

But Prime Minister Cho En-Lai and other Chinese officials did not respond to Tho's belligerent rhetoric demanding the right to "strike back" at the Saigon government for alleged truce violations.

The Chinese made no mention of truce violations. Nor did the Chinese respond to Tho's demand that the signatories (including China) of the January cease-fire agreement call on the Saigon government to stop violating the truce.

"The tipoff to the talks was Tho's farewell speech in Peking," one analyst noted.

"On the whole," this source said, "China seemed to paint a more tranquil picture of South Vietnam than the situation warrants. There's little doubt the Chinese want to see Vietnam stabilized. They have larger interests in mind, such as their relations with the United States and their feud with the Soviet Union."

"The Viet Cong no longer count for much in Vietnam in the opinion of most analysts, but the North Vietnamese count for a great deal. And today, according to top level sources, they are stronger than when they launched their 1972 offensive."

Veteran Hanoi-watchers think the North Vietnamese are capable of launching another major offensive regardless of the wishes of their two major backers, China and the Soviet Union. It wouldn't be the first time they have ignored Moscow and Peking to go their own way.

And, once an offensive is launched, it seems unlikely Peking and Moscow will abandon North Vietnam, any more than Washington will abandon South Vietnam.

Lower speed safety help

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — A federal highway safety expert estimated that a reduced speed limit, as ordered by the President would reduce traffic fatalities by 10 per cent, thus saving 3,000 lives next year if the new controls remained in force.

Eugene E. Lunn, an analyst at the research institute of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, said "there will be a drastic reduction if we went through all of 1974 with less traveling and at lower speeds."

Yet Lunn, and other experts who were interviewed said that over periods of five or 10 years this reduction might start being offset because the smaller cars that are becoming more popular afford less accident protection.

Feminist offers reminder

WASHINGTON — If justice triumphs, women of the world will arise some day — and erect a monument to Midge Decter, who manages to be a feminist without being a woman's libber.

Miss Decter, who is also the wife of Norman Podhoretz, editor of Commentary, and the mother of four children, is the author of two books: "The Liberated Woman" and "The New Chastity" (Coward, McCann and Geoghegan). She is an original thinker, a nonconformist who rejects the New Freedom of Germaine Greer, Gloria Steinem & Co.

She brought her heresies to the Woman's National Democratic Club the other day and must have left members with uncomfortable thoughts about the theory that women should get preferential treatment to make up for past oppressions, including their trials as wives, mothers, and politicians seeking proportionate representation for their sex.

This was the woman who holds that marriage, far from being a trap for females, is an institution women use to ensnare men so they can submit to the "stronger sex." She called the current demand for feminist solidarity the ultimate apology for the embarrassment of being a woman.

Indeed, while supporting the feminists' demand for maternity leave without loss of job seniority, she labeled it for what it is, to wit, an admission that women are different. The biological differences between the sexes, she said, give women "different needs."

Obviously, Midge Decter's quarrel is not with careers for women. After all, she's the full-time editor of the Saturday Review World. She simply denies that women are deprived of freedom of choice to be educated and to work at specific jobs. No Utopian speeches will alter the fact that what women are rebelling against is the burden of living with what she calls "the consequences of choice," a burden men have always carried: I found comforting, too, Miss Decter's reminder that American Revolution promised equality of opportunity for individuals, not for categories of people. We Jeffersonian liberals have been arguing for years that in Midge Decter's words, to give a woman a job because she's a woman is almost as great a sin against equality of opportunity as denying her a job because she's a woman.

In fact, most of us reject the notion that minorities should be given privileged rather than equal treatment. Provide the means whereby the minorities can qualify for advancement, yes; but none of this patronizing nonsense about giving a job to an individual because he or she is black or brown or Irish or a Jew. At the same time, we can join Miss Decter's scornful comment that to find that "middle class" women with college degrees are "oppressed" in the way a poor black or Indian might be is preposterous.

Bless your heart, Midge Decter. You not only have joined in the Frenchman's salute to "la difference," you have reminded us males that the estate called womanhood is still a delightfully interesting package, reaffirming Shakespeare's song to Cleopatra: "Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale Her infinite variety."

Senate vote slated today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice-presidential nominee Gerald R. Ford says liberal Democrats—at least some of them—could be "dangerous to our way of life."

The 60-year-old House GOP leader made the statement Monday to the House Judiciary Committee, but quickly added under questioning that most Democrats are as patriotic as he is.

The Senate held what it called a "debate" on Ford's nomination Monday, but only one member opposed confirmation. A Senate vote was scheduled for 2:30 p.m. MST today.

In the House hearing, Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., asked Ford about a letter sent under his name March 3, 1970, to a businessman in his home state of Michigan, which said "some liberal elements of the Democratic party are dangerous to our way of life."

The letter also criticized Common Cause, a citizens' lobby headed by John W. Gardner, former Democratic secretary of health, education and welfare.

"Do you feel that anyone who labels liberal Democrats as dangerous to our way of life has the stability and balance to be president?" Rep. Holtzman asked.

"Common cause has an ideological identification with the more liberal elements of the Democratic party. I believe their views could be dangerous to our way of life," Ford replied.

Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., chairman of the Senate Rules Committee, which unanimously approved the Ford nomination, said some might "think that Congressman Ford is not the most outstanding candidate available to the President," but that President Nixon had the right to choose "a nominee of his own general political persuasion."

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., said, "I am supporting the nomination of a man of integrity...but I am not endorsing what I consider to be Mr. Ford's conservative philosophy of government."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said he would vote for Ford, whom he found "something of a plodder, not brilliant, not creative, but adequate, competent, reliable."

Senate okay predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sponsors claimed enough support today to win Senate approval of a bill to outlaw private campaign contributions in federal elections and finance campaigns from tax funds.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., asserting the Watergate revelations have helped his cause, said he counted 51 votes for the proposal—34 "sure" votes and 17 "hanging." He said opponents had 39 sure votes and 10 senators were undecided.

The Senate agreed to vote on the issue this today or Wednesday.

Under the proposal, candidates for the House, Senate or presidency would be barred from accepting private campaign contributions in the general elections but would be assured fixed payments from the Treasury to underwrite the cost of seeking office.

Public funds would be made available to candidates in presidential primaries, matching dollar for dollar every private contribution of $100 or less.

The proposal builds upon the existing law providing taxpayers the right to signify on their tax returns that they want $1 of their taxes, or $2 for joint returns, to fund presidential campaigns.

But it doubles the amount of the checkoff and reverses the procedure, so taxpayers would have to signify if they did not want $2 (or $4) to serve that purpose.

The Senate debate is likely to center on whether the principle should be extended immediately to congressional candidates in the 1974 elections or should be limited to a test by presidential candidates in 1976.

The administration is expected to oppose the bill.

Ralph Abner, a senator from Utah, urged support for the bill and saying the public doesn't realize what it actually pays for—campaigns—under the present system.

"When the oil industry gives secret, illegal contributions from corporate funds in the hope of maintaining favored tax and price treatment in Washington, the consumer indirectly pays the cost of the contributions," Abner said.

Kennedy ahead

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — The Gallup Poll said Monday its latest survey shows Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., far head of other possible candidates for the 1978 Democratic presidential nomination.

The poll indicated that Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine were next leading choices, but both were far behind Kennedy.

Corrupt loaning charge probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee today begins public hearings on charges of corrupt loan activity in the Small Business Administration (SBA) and possible connections with the Nixon administration.

Initial witnesses before the Small Business subcommittee will be asked about loan practices in the Richmond, Va., SBA office that reportedly have resulted in more than $11 million in bad loans. Curtis Prins, chief investigator for the House Banking Committee, has been investigating the Richmond office for one month.

In addition, evidence linking the White House in some of the illegal loan activities is expected to be presented in early testimony, possibly as early as today.

At stake in the hearings is legislation increasing the loan-making authority of SBA by $2.3 billion to $6.5 billion. Subcommittee members have voted unanimously to delay action on the legislation until the air is cleared over the charges of widespread corruption.

The SBA will reach its legal debt ceiling of $4.3 billion this week, and without additional authorization from Congress, the only new loans approved by the agency would have to come from repayment of current loans. SBA officials believe the use of repayment money would trim loan programs by up to 75 per cent.

Committee sources expect the investigation to reach into all loan programs administered by the SBA and various SBA offices around the country.

RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI) — Solid radioactive waste clogged a pipe and caused a 7,000-gallon leak at the Hanford Atomic Reservation earlier this month, according to the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC).

An AEC spokesman said radioactive salts clogged the underground pipe, forcing the highly radioactive liquid waste to back up and spew out through a vertical pipe.

No one was exposed to radioactivity by the Nov. 14 leak, the spokesman said, and the contaminated soil was buried in cement containers on the sprawling atomic facility.

'Terrible mistake' causes gap, secretary claims

(c) N. Y. Times Service
 WASHINGTON — President Nixon's personal secretary testified Monday through some "terrible mistake" she pressed the wrong button on her tape recorder and thus caused an 18-minute "gap" in one of the subpoenaed, Watergate tape recordings.
 She said she had told the President of the error minutes after it occurred last Oct. 1, and that he had assured her it did not matter.
 "He said, 'There's no problem because that's not one of the subpoenaed tapes,'" the secretary, Rose Mary Woods, testified in federal court here. Nixon did remark that "it was too bad," Miss Woods recounted. But he told her that he understood, she testified, and said to her, "don't worry about it."

 The conversation whose tape recording has an 18-minute erasure — or "gap," as Miss Woods insisted on describing it — is a discussion between Nixon and H. R. Haldeman, one of his former key aides, on June 20, 1972, three days after the break-in at Democratic headquarters in the Watergate building.
 The White House did not disclose the 18-minute gap on the tape until last Wednesday. It has maintained that it did not know that the conversation in question was covered by the subpoena until Nov. 14, a week earlier.
 According to the White

House, there was an "ambiguity" in the subpoena issued by the special Watergate prosecution for the President's Watergate-related tape recordings. As a result, the White House contends, the presidential counsel first believed that the special prosecution wanted only the recording of another earlier June 20 presidential conversation — one with John D. Ehrlichman, also a former Nixon aide.
 The subpoena calls for recordings and other material regarding a meeting June 20 "in volume." Nixon, Ehrlichman and Haldeman lasting from 10:30 to about noon. The prosecution's explanation of this subpoena — an explanation with the court of appeals attached to its ruling last month of the subpoena — notes that "Ehrlichman and then Haldeman went to see the President."

 The White House Monday turned over the disputed tape recordings and other materials to Chief Judge John J. Sirica of the federal district court here who asked last week, in the wake of the disclosure of the 18-minute gap, that they be given to the court for protective custody, pending examination by technical experts.
 With the material, the White House turned over as well a 22-page "index and analysis" of what it was providing to the court. And according to the document, the June 20 conversation between Nixon and Haldeman included a discussion of Watergate-related public relations measures.
 The White House was giving Sirica Haldeman's "handwritten notes" of the meeting, the document said, and the notes "reflect that the

ROSE MARY WOODS ... tells her story

President gave instructions to Haldeman to take certain actions of a public-relations character which related to the Watergate incident."
 The United States Court of Appeals here, which ruled in October that the President must comply with the subpoena, had left open the possibility that Nixon could still make "particularized" claims of executive privilege regarding certain portions of the material covered by the subpoena.
 In its index and analysis today, prepared in accordance with the court of appeals' instructions, the President maintained that various conversations covered by the subpoena involved non-Watergate matters and thus were privileged.

In discussing one of the disputed conversations, moreover, the White House said in the document that the conversation should not be disclosed, even though it involved Watergate. This was the conversation on June 30, 1972, between Nixon, Haldeman and Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, shortly before the announcement that Mitchell was resigning as chairman of the Committee to Re-Elect the President.
 Sirica must now rule on whether or not to accept the President's assertions of privilege.

All the movie theaters in Buenos Aires are located on one street, the Calle Lavalle, says Argentine Airlines.

Her version unlikely

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Experts familiar with the recorder involved say Rose Mary Woods' version of how a key White House tape was erased describes an accident that is either technically impossible or highly unlikely.
 The Los Angeles Times questioned technicians and executives in the audio industry, who deal with the Uher 5000. Miss Woods told a federal judge that she had accidentally punched the "record" key instead of the "stop" key while transcribing from the tape, but kept her foot down on a pedal control that allows secretaries to control the tape by foot movements while typing. That forced the tape through with the recording head activated, she said, erasing the recording of the first meeting between President Nixon and H. R. Haldeman after the Watergate break-in.
 "I don't believe that can be done," said George Munyan, service manager for Magnetic TV Corp., a firm selling the German-made Uher.
 Carl Bennett, service manager for Martell Electronics of Los Angeles, the chief U.S. importer of Uher machines, said the mistake described by Miss Woods was theoretically possible, but the chances she would make such a mistake

"are very, very low because of the way it (the recorder) is designed." He said there "is no reason at all" for any competent secretary to make such an error.
 "This whole thing stinks to high heaven. I just don't believe it. It's just ridiculous," said Frank Larkin of Audio Video Craft Inc., who has sold

Uher recorders for many years. "It's not something a person could do accidentally," he said. "They make it very difficult to put the machine in the erase position just so people won't accidentally erase their recordings."
 Bennett noted that the erased portion was described as containing a humming sound.

Home insulation orders soar; supplies shorten

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans are so concerned about the energy crisis that they've created a boom in the home insulation business, with the result that orders are now running weeks behind schedule, industry officials said today.

The shortage could get even worse, the officials said, if fuel cutbacks — particularly natural gas — force the industry to slow production.

The demand is being created by the government's advice to invest in insulation to cut down heat loss and by the consuming public's efforts to compensate for turned-down thermostats and the possibility of more serious home-heating problems — as the winter progresses.

About 90 per cent of all residential insulation used in this country is mineral wool — fiberglas or rock wool, Sheldon Caddy, executive director of the National Mineral Wool Insulation Association, told UPI that manufacturers are now behind in their shipments to such a point that there is a three week delay in delivery. He said the situation is "definitely unusual" and his trade organization is being "flooded" with inquiries.

Virginia Krauer, President Nixon's consumer adviser, has been circulating an energy-saving tip sheet which says that six inches of added insulation can save the average homeowner 20 per cent on his fuel bill. Even more impressive figures come from George J. Hauffler, executive vice president of Certain-Trend Products Corp., a major insulation maker from Valley Forge,

Pa., who says that 50 per cent of the existing houses waste one-third of the fuel supplied them because they have no insulation at all.

Hauffler told Congress recently the industry should be exempt from any fuel-cutback-equals-furnace, largely fired by natural gas, could go on burning at the required high temperatures.

US energy plans draw some opposing comment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has won widespread support for his energy savings plans both from the government and Congress, but some voices — concerned with their economic impact — are being raised against the measures.

Nixon renewed his plea Monday for Americans to curb their use of fuels and pledged to resist gasoline rationing.

At the same time, Speaker Carl Albert indicated the House would act within the next two weeks to give the President most of the authority he has requested to implement his energy saving proposals.

Arch Booth, head of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said Nixon's proposals were "good." However, he also said there were actions Nixon could take immediately "to increase sorely needed energy supplies. But a leader of the building trades industry said the energy shortage had already had a dramatic impact on the industry and mandatory fuel allocations could bring construction to a standstill by the end of winter.

"Construction activity in this country is already down 20 per cent," said Nello L. Terr, president of the Associated General Contractors of America. "If the present fuel allocation programs are not altered quickly, the economic impact on the construction industry may reach catastrophic proportions before the end of winter."

The chief issue in the energy debate is the question of rationing.

US seeks release of last Indo POW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department has requested the immediate release of Emmett Kay, the only known American prisoner of war remaining in Indochina.

Kay, a legal resident of Honolulu, was a civilian pilot for Continental Air Services, Inc., and was captured in Laos in May, 1972.

On what it called "a routine mission," Kay landed on an unmissed air strip — either because he ran out of fuel or because of bad weather. The strip turned out to be under Communist control and Kay and six Laotian passengers were seized, the department said.

Cora Weiss, an American antiwar activist who has just returned from a month in North and South Vietnam, said Kay was flying Thai mercenaries to a major base of the Central Intelligence Agency in Laos. Pentagon sources acknowledged Kay was transporting Thai or Laotian military personnel.

Stacking wood

BUNDLE OF FIREWOOD is added to stack at wood yard in New York City by foreman Maurice Ferrara. Company spokesman said energy situation has boosted wood sales over 300 per cent above 1972 levels, with some 300 bundles sold Monday. (UPI)

Skylab poised for photo trip

HOUSTON (UPI) — The frustrated Skylab 3 astronauts completed tests on their various scientific instruments and said they are ready for today's picture-taking sweep across the United States, a tour delayed one day because of the weather.

Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue try to gather data on snow fields in Colorado and the Sabine Forest northeast of Houston during the 20-minute pass from Seattle to the Gulf of Mexico.

Flight planners scrubbed the first planned Earth studios sweep Monday because bad weather covered the sites to be photographed. Pogue completed a checkout of the battery of Earth resources equipment Monday and said the instruments "worked like a champ" and were ready for the first of up to 50 passes.

Gibson got his first chance to man the solar observatory controls Monday. Before the telescopes were ready for use, Mission Control told Gibson ground stations observed a solar flare, a surge of energy from the sun's surface.

"Tell her to hold off," Gibson replied. "I don't want her to shoot it before we get it."

"Just warning up," ground communicator Robert Crippen said.

Pogue was asked to use a special camera to photograph the ultraviolet light radiating from the comet Kohoutek. The astronauts have five special instruments to collect information on the comet during their 84-day flight. They photograph the comet twice a day to keep an accurate record on how it builds intensity as it speeds at 100,000 miles per hour toward the sun and swings around the other side about Christmas time.

The pilots will spacewalk Christmas Day and Dec. 29 to get man's best view of a comet and try to learn more about what a comet is made of.

Pioneer plunging on toward Jupiter

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — Space scientists sent signals a half billion miles through space Monday to fire thrusters on the Pioneer 10 spacecraft and align the probe's communications antenna for clearer details of its flyby of the planet Jupiter.

Pioneer 10's cameras have already sent back small clear color pictures of the mysterious-red-spot-on-the-solar-system's-largest-planet and NASA technicians plan to begin round-the-clock picture taking late today.

The delicate thruster maneuver for the $100 million craft occurred as it raced toward a week away rendezvous point at 20,200 miles per hour.

Pioneer 10 has already passed inside the orbits of seven of Jupiter's 12 moons, four of them planet size, and has yet to encounter the "bow shock," which could damage or destroy the probe's circuitry.

The "shock" should occur at the point where ionized gases flowing out from the sun hits Jupiter's super-strong magnetic field.

A space agency spokesman said the pictures being sent back to earth from the spacecraft continued to be "excellent with colored television images now clearly showing the great red spot and the round, black shadow of the moon Io on Jupiter's surface."

The red spot is a huge oval on the planet that is several times the size of earth and has puzzled scientists for centuries.

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen a problem like mine in your column. Would you believe my husband is 31 and he still wets himself? Not only in bed, but while he's awake.

Last evening, after supper he went next door to talk to a neighbor and have a few beers and when he came home (about 9:30 p.m.) his pants were soaked. I asked him how that happened, and he said he didn't know. (He wasn't even embarrassed.)

He even denies that he wets himself. He can be sitting in the living room watching TV, and when he gets up, the chair is soaked. I have scrubbed that chair more times than I can count. Our mattress is ruined. I know it's the beer, but he won't admit it and he won't give it up.

Upset wife

He had a physical last month and claims the doctor says he is sound as a dollar. (I'm sure he never mentioned his wetting to the doctor.)

He works hard, is good to the kids, and I love him, but I can't face the neighbors knowing how they must talk about his walking around soaked. I'm losing all respect for him. Please help me.

HIS WIFE IN BOSTON

DEAR WIFE: He's "sound as a dollar" all right—which at the moment isn't very sound. Your husband should see a urologist, and it's imperative that the doctor be informed about his problem. It could be a symptom of something serious, which, if caught early could be remedied.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been divorced for two years, and I have custody of our two children. Occasionally he has them for a weekend.

My "ex" recently married a widow with three children. (I am still single.) Last weekend my children were with their father, and upon returning home, they told me that Daddy had a photographer take a picture of him, his new wife, and all the children (his and hers)—for his Christmas card!

Abby, does he have the right to use a picture of my children on a Christmas card with his new wife and her children? Recipients of the card will naturally assume that my children are living with their father, and perhaps wonder if I am an unfit mother.

Should I threaten him with court action if he uses that picture on his Christmas card? UPSET AND ANGRY

DEAR UPSET: Even though you are divorced, they are his children, too. Forget it. Your friends and family will know that the children are living with you. And who else matters?

DEAR ABBY: I'm another one who never thought I'd be writing you, but here I am. I am a 21-year-old college senior. I am still a virgin and have vowed to God and myself that I will remain one until I'm married.

Last year I met Delores, the most wonderful girl in the world, and we became engaged. Here's the problem. We will not be married until next June, and Delores, who is also a virgin (or so she tells me), says she can't wait until next June for her first sexual experience. She says since we are going to be married anyway, what's the difference?

I am only human, and it is difficult for me to keep refusing her, but I feel that if I were to break my vow to God and myself, I would have a guilty conscience the rest of my life. Please help me. GOD-FEARING

DEAR FEARING: If Delores can't wait, and you'd feel guilty jumping the gun, why wait until June to marry? Tie the knot immediately.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "POOR OLD ED K. IN CHULA VISTA, CAL.": Why does Ethel insist on picking out your underwear? Could it be so in case you lose your pants (in the market, or at the track) you'll make a nice appearance?

Couple recites promises

TWIN FALLS — Jane Small and Lynn W. Ricks were married in an 8 p.m. ceremony Nov. 10 in the Carillon Chapel.

Bishop Ray Lewin performed the nuptial rites in a pink and white setting with cathedral baskets of pink and white chrysanthemums, Spider chrysanthemums and daisy pompon chrysanthemums tied with burgundy satin ribbonettes and burgundy satin bows.

The bride wore an empire-styled gown of Hagoda crepe with a high neckline, Chantilly type lace and seed pearl clusters trimmed the bodice and the skirt front.

Her chapel-length mantilla was held by a crown of matching lace and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white Spider chrysanthemums with baby's breath and starburst pompon chrysanthemums, tied with burgundy satin.

Nancy Matthews, Nampa, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Laura Herrett, Pocatello, and Tammi Davis, Twin Falls, cousin of the bride.

Dave Small, brother of the bride, was best man. Gary and Larry Ricks, brothers of the bridegroom, were ushers. Tim Davis, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer. Teresa Burgess was flower girl.

Mrs. Royal Heyer was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Lynn Aylred.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony. Guests were served at quartet tables with pink under white lace. Miniature flower baskets with pink and white pompon chrysanthemums decorated each table.

MR. AND MRS. LYNN RICKS

The three-tiered square cake was decorated with pink lilies and lace. A miniature bridal couple under a semi-arch topped the cake. The chapel and serving areas were decorated with pink and burgundy satin bows and decorations.

Mrs. Roger Marsh, Mrs. Dale Ghan, Mrs. Melvin Menck and Mrs. Greg Blastock assisted with serving. Pam Davis and Karen Kawamoto cared for gifts. Mrs. Bob Thompson registered guests.

Special honored guests included Mr. and Mrs. Lem Utter and Mrs. W. Small, grandparents of the bride.

Out-of-town guests attended from Solvang, Calif.; Tacoma, Wash.; Terreton and Pocatello.

After a wedding trip to Nevada, the couple resides in Twin Falls. The bride is employed by Marsh Catalog Sales and the bridegroom is a co-owner of the Perrine Barbershop.

The expert declarer knew of a better play that would work if West held K-10 or Q-10 doubleton in clubs. He led a low club toward dummy, at trick two.

West rose with his queen and led a second spade. Now South entered dummy with a heart and led the jack of clubs. It didn't matter whether or not East covered West's ten as going to be picked and South was sure of three club tricks.

The bad diamond break didn't hurt. He had 12 tricks with just three diamonds coming in.

60th year open house scheduled

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bingham, Twin Falls, will celebrate their 60th Wedding Anniversary with an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2, at their home in Twin Falls.

An article in Sunday's Times-News implied that the open house was last Sunday and incorrectly listed a son-in-law as Lynn Saunders. His name is Marvin Saunders. The Times-News regrets the error.

TF card sale under way

Not as pretty

TWIN FALLS — UNICEF's new Christmas cards went on sale Nov. 24 and will continue throughout the holiday season at Warner's Music Store.

"Every UNICEF card you buy today helps build a better world tomorrow," says Edith Robertson, coordinator of sales for Twin Falls. "Proceeds from card purchases provide funds for 251 long-range UNICEF-assisted child care programs now under way in 111 Third World countries."

More specifically, a $1.50 pad of correspondence cards, can buy enough vaccine to protect 50 children against tuberculosis or smallpox; a $2 box of note cards or informal-size "minis" will buy three baby chicks for an applied nutrition program, and a 50-card gift pack, which sells for $5, may provide exercise books for 35 elementary school children.

These are made possible by the generosity of artists and museums who contribute the art and devotion of the volunteers who sell the cards.

This year, for the first time, UNICEF is also offering a photographic card. Called "Reaching," it pictures a trio of leaping youngsters whose outstretched arms seem about to touch the sun.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said Monday not having ornamental lights at Christmas time "won't hurt anybody" but added "it's not as pretty."

He quipped to the Seafarer's International Union that coming home at night with the lights out "it might be dark and you could get in the wrong door."

"But who knows," he added, "there might be somebody interesting behind those doors."

Ecology oriented holiday

BERKELEY (UPI) — On the first day of Christmas my true love gave to me...one subway ticket?

The Ecology Center is hoping this Christmas will be an ecology oriented one and has drawn up a list of "eco-gifts."

The presents include the Bay Area Rapid Transit system ticket, a fly swatter to use instead of pesticide sprays, and a sweater to wear because the thermostat has been turned down.

Suggestions for children's gifts include handmade puppets of nearly extinct animals such as the musk ox and bighorn sheep.

The center says the gifts should be wrapped in color comics from Sunday newspapers instead of wrapping paper.

"We're kind of thinking that the energy shortage might lead people to take this list seriously and cut down on all of that electric can-opener type of thing," said Kathy Evans, a staff member at the center.

The center is not the only group taking such action.

In San Francisco, you can get two Christmas trees for the price of one at the Guardsmen Christmas tree lot.

One will be the typical freshly cut tree. The other will be a seedling for planting in the yard.

Ban shows savings

THE HAGUE (UPI) — Premier Joop den Uyl said today the Sunday pleasure driving ban enforced in Holland for the past four weeks had resulted in a 10 per cent saving in car fuel.

During a radio interview, he said the voluntary speed limit of 100 kilometers (62 miles) per hour saved another 5 per cent.

He said cooperation from motorists on restricting their speeds had been reasonable, but that a law was being prepared making the speed limit compulsory.

HAVE A BEDWETTER? LET HIM HAVE A

MERRY CHRISTMAS

The greatest gift you can give a bedwetter and the rest of the family, too, is an end to this serious problem, and make no mistake, bedwetting is serious. It can cause complicated psychological problems that last a lifetime. It's so needless because bedwetting, when not caused by organic defect or disease, can be ended surely and swiftly. So have a Very Merry Christmas and a Dry New Year. Send for our free brochure, "Bedwetting - What It's All About and How to End It," a report by three eminent medical doctors. No obligation. What's What

L. M. Boyd

If your index finger is shorter than your ring finger, odds are you're a male. If your index finger is longer than your ring finger, odds are you're a female. Not in every case, but mostly. Go on, check it out with the citizens at the dinner table.

Thinking of giving up smoking? Might try Golden Gibson's technique. In Knoxville, Tenn., at age 43, he nonchalantly produced a pack of cigarettes, put a wretched tractor in his mouth, and lit up. Mr. Gibson quit smoking, just all of a sudden, like that.

Am still trying to figure out what this social scientist had in mind exactly when he said, "Invariably, jealousy weakens a man, but strengthens a woman." Can you get the handle on the remarkable contention? Please advise.

SCOTLAND YARD

Q: "How come the detective division of the London police is called Scotland Yard?"
A: Centuries ago, the London police set up their headquarters in an ancient building that earlier had been used to house visiting Scottish kings and ambassadors. Sort of like an embassy it was called Scotland Yard.

Young lady, ask your English teacher the plural of sphinx. If said savant doesn't say sphinges, you may gloat. That's correct.

Rapid reply: No, sir, just can't recall which New Jersey restauraunt posed that sign, but do remember it read "One of the two most overrated things in the world is home cooking."

POEM

This little poem is supposed to represent a dialogue between a couple of fairly well-to-do women. One complains about the traffic. The other complains about the location of her house. Both complain about their husbands, about the stupidity of their housemaids, about the high cost of the new fabrics. It winds up with the two of them departing late to go to some sort of celebration, distractedly issuing last-minute instructions. Yet, the lot of the ladies changes but little. The poem is called "Aboniasae." It was written by Theo. Critus in the third century BC.

Another difference between the shark and the barracuda is the shark hits again and again when attacking, but the barracuda just hits once.

Never lose your temper by accident. And never quarrel except on purpose. That's the private axiom of a prominent politico who says, "Don't quote me by name, Buster. All right, sir."

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to take a look at your practical goals and then organize a plan of action whereby these can be made to operate more to your liking. Success can result if you put them in effect with little delay as possible.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Thinking big at this time can put you on the road to success which has eluded you in the past. Do something about a talent you have.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make the right impression on one who has influence over your affairs and gain the cooperation you desire. A new contact can help.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handling business affairs carefully will bring right results and give you added prestige. Show more devotion to loved ones.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Discuss important matters with associates instead of wasting time philosophizing with them. Relieve personal tensions.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Gain the cooperation of associates for all that work ahead of you and get wonderful results. Buy new apparel but count the cost well.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Engage in social events you like with friends during spare time today. Use more practical methods in dealing with mate for best results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Try to have more harmony at home. A chance presents itself to get ahead, faster in the business world. Don't let it pass you by.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan how to be more proficient at your regular work and derive greater benefits from it. The evening is best time to engage in hobby.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Talk with a successful businessman and gain knowledge and support for your own endeavors. Plan to save more money for the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan the future more wisely and choose the individuals you would like to be associated with in a new project. Think logically.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can plan your life with greater intelligence right now and make the future much brighter. Avoid one who is a troublemaker.

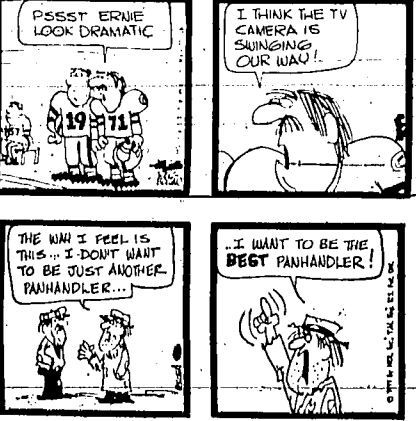

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Looming large in the horizon is the crown of success, provided you make the right contacts now. Make your social life more rewarding.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be charming and intelligent and will not hesitate to take advantage of any opportunities. Direct the education along practical and business lines. The stage could also be a fine outlet here. Give good religious training early in life.

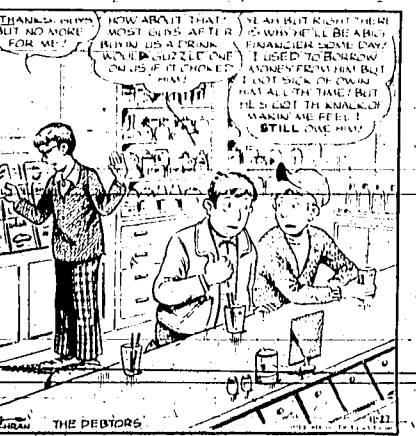

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

MAJOR HOOPLE

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks opened mixed Tuesday in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average had gained 0.16 to 825.11. Declines narrowly led advances among the 360 issues traded.

On Monday, prices took one of their worst drubbings in history due to concern over the energy crisis, fear of a recession, and disappointment over President Nixon's emergency energy measures. The Dow fell 29.05 to 824.95, the fifth worst decline in the index's history.

Toward the close of Monday's debate, some of the market averages were helped slightly by highly selective blue chip bar-gain hunting, leading some analysts to hope for an extension of that buying into Tuesday's session. A long awaited technical recovery may be helped, they said, by news Treasury Bill yields declined for the second consecutive week.

Warming trend won't last long

Twin Falls, northside, Burley-Rupert area

A warming trend and considerable cloudiness with occasional light snow, mainly in the mountains. Slight chance of rain Wednesday. Lows tonight—25 to—35. High Wednesday 40 to 45.

Outlook for Thursday, a chance of rain.

Halley, Camas Prairie, lower Wood-River Valley

Considerable cloudiness with occasional light snow. A slight chance of rain or snow mixed. Lows tonight 15 to 20. High Wednesday 35 to 40.

Outlook for Thursday rain or snow.

Synopsis: A significant change in the upper air pattern of the Pacific northwest is expected in the next couple-of-days which will allow a more west-southwest flow in the upper atmosphere, bringing warmer air aloft to the Gem State.

Precipitation in most of the valleys will change from snow to rain. The change is expected to be of short duration.

The extended outlook, Thursday through Saturday, indicates a colder trend by the weekend. Periods of rain in the valleys and snow in the mountains with a chance of snow returning to the valleys by the weekend.

Pay boosts draw fire from legislative panel

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the Legislative Council blocked a proposed cost of living increase for their employees Monday and recommended the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee do the same.

At the same time, individual Republican members of the council questioned the way the executive branch of state government is preparing to push through a 5 per cent cost of living increase Jan. 1.

House Majority Leader H. Ferd Koch, R-Boise, made the motion to deny council staff members the increase until after the legislature convenes in January and can consider the proposed raise.

Because the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee — which has a legislative audit function — was created by a different statute he said the council could only recommend action by that group.

John Anderson, fiscal officer for the joint committee, told the council his committee already has approved the 5 per cent increase for its employees.

He said the committee agreed with an ad hoc salary committee that raises should be uniform throughout state government and not confined just to classified merit system employees in the executive branch.

Koch, however, contended the raises are a legislative matter and that the manner in which they are to be effected is improper.

Anderson told the council that in some cases the pay raises for executive branch employees may necessitate supplemental appropriations from the Legislature.

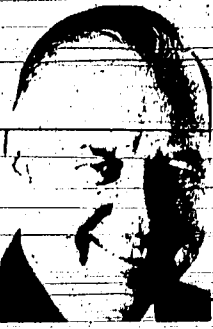

Senate President Pro tem James Ellsworth, R-Leadville, said that — in effect — is obligating the Legislature to pick up the pieces for something in which it had no voice.

Most council members said they felt the raises are justified. But they objected strongly to the way they are to be achieved.

Sen. David Bivens, R-Payette, said some agencies may find themselves in a "terrific squeeze" if the Legislature decides against making any supplemental appropriations to cover the raises.

Earlier, Senate Majority Leader Philip Batt, R-Idaho Falls, told fellow council members they should keep to a minimum their participation in some out-of-state governmental meetings.

Batt and Koch attended a meeting at San Diego last July to clarify rules of the Western Conference of the Council of State Governments.

Defiant

NEW HAMPSHIRE Gov. Meldrim Thomson says he hopes the U.S. government stands up to the Arab nations "and tells them they can burn their oil in the desert themselves, that we're not going to knuckle under to their blackmail." He spoke in a radio interview. (UPI)

Recall set

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. today said it was recalling 17,744 current model Lincoln Continentals because of a possible short circuit from an improperly routed starter cable.

It was about 75 per cent of the 1974 model Continentals produced so far in this model year.

Travels to meets assailed

BOISE (UPI) — A veteran legislator told fellow members of the Legislative Council today they should keep to a minimum their participation in some out-of-state governmental meetings.

Senate Majority Leader Philip Batt, R-Idaho Falls, and House Majority Leader H. Ferd Koch, R-Boise, attended meeting at San Diego last July to clarify rules of the Western Conference of the Council of State Governments.

Batt reported on some of the rules changes as they regard participation of the executive branch of government.

"I suppose that we must go to these meetings to keep up on whatever other states are doing and what can be done jointly," Batt observed in a letter to the council.

"However, I believe that our participation should be on a minimal basis because I believe what we gleaned from that San Diego meeting — you could put in your eye and not feel it," he said.

Rationing set

LONDON (UPI) — Peter Walker, Britain's Trade and Industry secretary, said Monday the government will issue gasoline rationing coupons beginning Thursday.

Walker told the House of Commons the decision was intended "as a precaution."

Walker told Parliament the rationing system was being designed to ensure a "fair" allocation with priority for industry and essential services.

A basic ration to cover essential travel — such as from home to work if public transport was unavailable — will be provided, he said.

Saxbe questions cited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said today grave constitutional questions exist on the nomination of Sen. William Saxbe to be attorney general, even if a special bill aimed at removing them is approved.

Mansfield was asked by reporters about a bill due before the Senate later this week to temporarily lower the attorney general's salary from $60,000 to $35,000 so Saxbe can serve.

"The legislation is intended to overcome a constitutional bar on any member of Congress serving in a government position after the salary for the job has been raised while he was serving in Congress."

AF couple found dead

FEATHERVILLE, Idaho (UPI) — An American Falls couple was found dead in their pickup camper about 15 miles from Featherville.

Snowmobilers found Nambita Shipp, 25, and her husband, Charles, believed about 30, late Sunday afternoon.

Elmore County sheriff's deputies said a propane radiant heater was in the camper with the couple and believed responsible for asphyxiating the couple.

Feed outlook stable

WASHINGTON — The government's most recent feed situation summary shows virtually no new factors have changed government supply-demand estimates in the last week.

The Agriculture Department now says farmers should, into next spring, get about $1 per bushel more for corn than the $1.32 national average price of the same period last year.

The USDA once again quoted crop-carryover at the end of 1973-74 potentially at 6325 million bushels, and feed grain total disappearance at 212 million tons.

Domestic disappearance of oats for 73-74 was cited for the fourth consecutive year at 746 million bushels, Barley domestic use close to last year's 393 million. Barley exports could be up a fifth from last year's 66 million bushels, USDA said.

Custer named

TWIN FALLS — Gary Custer, Twin Falls, will serve on the board of directors of the Idaho Dairymen's Association during the coming year.

He and other officers were elected Nov. 20 in the annual two-day convention of the dairymen in Moscow at the University of Idaho Campus.

President of the state group for the coming term is Dale Pine, Nampa.
