today in brief

Court rejects Boyle's appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court refused today to hear an appeal by W. A. "Tony" Boyle from his conviction of illegally funneling mine union money to political candidates. The brief order by the high court denying his request to present arguments on the appeal, means Boyle must serve the five-year prison sentence meted out and pay a $130,000 fine plus another $40,250 in restitution.

Korean premier retains office

SEOUL (UPI) — South Korean Premier Kim Chong-Pil and nine other ministers were retained in their offices today by President Park Chung Hee after they offered their resignations, declaring their responsibility for student unrest. Park replaced 10 other cabinet ministers and the head of the Korean intelligence agency in the shakeup. Student unrest had been directed against Park's regime.

Sirica to hear copied tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica said he would begin listening to "exact copies" today of President Nixon's subpoenaed Watergate tapes—in private with only a law clerk present. Sirica said the tapes were "exact copies" of the White House originals turned over to the court but did not elaborate on how the copies were made.

Corona loses eye in knifing

VACAVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Convicted mass killer Juan V. Corona, 30, lost his left eye in a weekend attack by fellow inmates who stabbed him 32 times with a small hobby shop knife.

Corona was reported in "serious but stable condition today in the prison hospital. Four convicts were being questioned about the attack, described by Corona's attorney as "unprovoked."

Israel mourns Ben-Gurion

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel's citizens, young and old, many openly crying, halted work across the nation today to pay an emotional farewell to David Ben-Gurion, "the old man" who guided the Jewish nation from dream to reality a quarter-century ago. The National Radio said more than 250,000 mourners—almost 10 per cent of Israel's population—braved cold and rain to file past the rough, wooden, coffin before today's simple funeral service.

Blacks seen changing policy

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., said today he thinks the United States may be pushed toward "a more even-handed policy" in the Middle East. Diggs said that would be the result of a rising sympathy among America's blacks toward the Arabs and their position in the Middle East conflicts.

Love, deputy to resign jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bypassed in a reshuffle of administration energy priorities by creation of a new agency, John A. Love and his chief deputy have decided to resign as presidential advisers, it was learned today. William E. Simon, deputy Treasury secretary who served as the top energy spokesman in the administration for a time before Love and Charles DiBona were brought in, is to be head of the new Federal Energy Administration.

Wreck kills Boise woman

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI) — Marie J. Alegria, 51, Boise, died Sunday night in the head-on collision of two cars on State Highway 67 near Mountain Home. Albert Alegria, 70, and Lawrence Payne, 18, Mountain Home Air Force Base, were the drivers of the two cars, State Police said. Alegria was in fair condition at Elmore Memorial Hospital while Payne was listed in serious condition at St. Alphonsus Hospital in Boise.

Nixon term end seen certain

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Jack Conway, the president of Common Cause, Sunday said President Nixon will be impeached or resign voluntarily as the public again focuses its attention on Watergate and related scandals. He said the energy shortage may have temporarily diverted attention from the Watergate scandal, but the issue of possible corruption in government is still on the minds of most Americans.

Saigon fuel burns

ROLLING CLOUD of black smoke darkens sky over Saigon after 49 Communist rockets blasted an American owned Shell Oil Co. storage complex. Fires burned oil products. The Saigon government promptly cut back civilian use of fuels and electricity after one-third of South Vietnam's storage capacity was destroyed in the attack. (UPI)

Mr. T-N says

That last load of gas going past was Saigon bound.

Solons act to pay bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional leaders made contingency plans today to see that the government can pay its bills if a Senate filibuster continues to block action on a bill to raise the national debt ceiling. House sources said the House was ready, if the Senate desired, to pass a bill to extend the old debt ceiling—which expired Friday—for a week or so while the filibuster continued. Senate sources said a brief extension would be accepted if the filibuster was still going on by the next day or two. The government's fiscal position, they felt, would not get serious until later in the week.

The Senate, in its first Sunday session in 112 years, fell seven votes short of the needed two-thirds majority to cut off the filibuster. It is aimed at purging the debt ceiling bill of an amendment to finance presidential election campaigns with public tax money. The vote was 47 to 33.

The expiration of the ceiling on the debt left the government legally unable to borrow money to pay its bills or to meet its next paydays.

Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., and several conservative Republicans have waged the filibuster since Friday, refusing to allow a vote on whether to send a debt ceiling bill—to which campaign reform is attached—to a conference committee with the House.

The reform measure is intended by its sponsors to free presidential campaigns, including primaries, from the kind of reliance on big money contributions such as were described in the Watergate hearings. These campaigns would be financed instead mostly from the public treasury.

Allen and his supporters call this a raid on the treasury by politicians.

As a result of the filibuster, the government's legal debt ceiling automatically dropped from $465 billion to $400 billion at midnight Friday, cutting off its power to borrow money. That required the government to announce Saturday the halt of U.S. savings bonds and to plan other lending curtailments this week.

Old Gem Pen ends career

BOISE (UPI) — National Guardsmen, state police, county and city officers helped prison personnel today begin the long-awaited move to Idaho's new penitentiary south of Gowen Field.

Raymond May, state director of correction, told a news conference just before the move from the century-old institution that the last of some 230 convicts should be behind the fences of the $14 million new prison by nightfall.

"We should be feeding the supper meat out there by the normal time of 4:30 to 5 p.m.," May said.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said the closing of the old penitentiary closes a point in history for Idaho that began with the laying of the first cornerstone of the grey-walled institution in July, 1870.

"It's long overdue that we move," Andrus said. "We can go forward to the new site without looking over our shoulder at the century-old institution that was not doing the job for us."

What will be done with the old prison still is uncertain.

TF rim decision spurs attorney general ruling

By DAVID ESPO
T-N Capitol Bureau
BOISE — The Idaho attorney general has been asked for an opinion involving a controversial Snake River Canyon rim subdivision near Twin Falls.

The attorney general was asked who may petition to have subdivisions vacated after they have already been approved.

The question was raised as the result of a recent decision of the Twin Falls County commissioners. The commissioners ruled only the owner of the land on which the subdivision is planned can request it be removed. The commissioners reportedly acted on the advice of county prosecutor Robert W. Galley.

A regional director of the Idaho State Planning and Community Affairs Agency said Friday he had asked the attorney general's office to write an opinion on the question. Ray Mickelson said a Twin Falls lawyer had written him and asked him about it.

"The question of the subdivision has become central in the effort of a group in Twin Falls to preserve the Snake River Canyon Rim from development.

Mickelson said he had requested the opinion from the attorney general's office because the question posed in Twin Falls hadn't come up before and had an application statewide.

"In his opinion to the county commissioners, Galley wrote that the 'literal interpretation of the law under question' I suspect would mean any person in the world could file a petition to vacate any platted land within the State of Idaho. In looking at the case law it is very clear that it has been the owners who have always requested the vacation of a plat unless it involves the vacation of a street in which case abutting land owners have a definite interest in such vacation."

Using Galley's opinion, the commissioners denied a petition that sought a hearing on whether a Meander Points Subdivision should be vacated. It was approved on a 2-1 vote by the commissioners several weeks ago.

College residency upheld

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court upheld today the right of states to impose a one-year residency requirement for tuition purposes at publicly financed colleges and universities.

It is common practice to charge higher tuition to out-of-state students at state colleges and universities. About 120 University of Washington students sued to change the situation there.

In a brief order, the high court affirmed a 2-1 ruling on June 20 by a special three judge federal court in Seattle.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall voted to hear the case but four votes are necessary to place a case on the Supreme Court docket. The state had agreed that all but two of the University of Washington students had established a bona fide residence in the state.

The students contended that under the constitutional guarantee of "equal protection of the laws" all residents should be treated the same, regardless of the length of time they had been in the state.

Highway district patrons vote today

TWIN FALLS — Highway district trustee elections were held throughout Magic Valley today.

Four men are running for two seats on the Twin Falls Highway District board. The incumbents in the three other highway districts in Twin Falls County are running for re-election unopposed.

In Cassia County four men are seeking two posts on the Burley Highway District board, two men are seeking one seat on the Raft River board and six men are seeking two positions on the Oakley Highway District board. In the Albion Highway District three board seats are open but all voting will be by write-in as no one has filed for election.

Burley Highway District: Clarence Barks and Ervina Dewey are running against each other for the subdistrict 1 seat; D. Max Burton and Tom W. Etherington are seeking the subdistrict 2 seat. Polling places are the Burley Highway District office and the Deelo City Hall. Polls open from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m.

In Twin Falls County, Elections will be held for all four highway districts.

Twin Falls Highway District: Candidates for subdistrict 1 are Claude F. Jones and Kenneth Poe; candidates for subdistrict 2 are Lloyd Shearman and Burton Webb.

The election will be from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. Polling places at Twin Falls Courthouse, Twin Falls City Hall, Twin Falls Highway District

Egypt quits talks

By United Press International
Highly placed diplomatic sources in Cairo said today Egypt has informed the United States and the Soviet Union that it will not participate in the Geneva peace conference unless Israel agrees to some troop withdrawals from Egyptian territory before the conference opens.

UPI Correspondent Raymond Wilkinson, in Cairo, said the new demand meant the peace conference is in danger of being stillborn. Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir has said there can be no preconditions to negotiations aimed at settling the 25-year-old conflict.

Israeli and Egyptian dispatches said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger would visit the Middle East after he attends a NATO meeting in Brussels Dec. 11-12 and that it appeared there could be no progress toward a settlement until he arrives.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi saw U.S. ambassador-designate Herman Eilts and Soviet ambassador Vladimir Vinogradov Friday and Saturday. Fahmi met Eilts again Sunday and Vice President Hussein Shafiq received Eilts today.

The sources said there was no question of Egypt attending the conference unless agreement is reached on "unilateral and unconditional" Israeli withdrawal at least to or near the cease-fire lines of Oct. 22. Israel has refused, suggesting instead a mutual disengagement, and the cease-fire talks collapsed. Both sides have indicated willingness to resume the talks but said no progress was expected until Kissinger arrives around Dec. 13.

The highly placed Egyptian sources said the Egyptian position toward the peace conference was agreed at the Arab summit conference in Algiers last week.

They also said that if Egypt attends the Geneva conference it will not be content with a mere ceremonial session to be adjourned until after the Israeli elections Dec. 31 and the formation of a new Israeli government.

Egypt will want the conference to get down immediately to substantive discussions without awaiting the outcome of the Israeli elections, they said.

Egyptians lift Red sea barrier

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Egypt appears to have lifted its Red Sea blockade against Israel's southern port of Eilat, Western diplomatic sources said today.

The Israeli government has yet to confirm the end to the blockade, but the sources said Tel Aviv has sent ships through the Red Sea without interference to test the Egyptians.

Western diplomats noted that Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv, Israel's chief negotiator at the stalled Israeli-Egyptian troop withdrawal talks, said in a weekend radio interview, "It appears that the cease-fire at sea is working and is being maintained."

Nixon chooses tapes audience

(c) Chicago Sun-Times

CHICAGO — In an effort to turn aside Congressional attempts at impeachment, President Nixon plans to play the remains of the Watergate tapes to the leadership of the Congress, it was learned Sunday.

The present plan calls for the tapes to be played at the White House before members of the Senate Watergate Committee, the House Judiciary Committee studying impeachment and other Congressional leaders.

It was pointed out, however, that the White House has constantly switched tactics in the long Watergate controversy and no one at the White House was able to give a detailed time schedule for this latest plan.

Sources involved in the White House tapes controversy believe that the contents of the tapes will blunt sentiment against the President when they are heard.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said in Washington only that "a lot of things are under consideration."

At the same time the White House legal staff is being enlarged considerably with specific instructions to prepare a defense against the possible impeachment of the President.

Although only six of the nine originally subpoenaed by the Watergate special prosecutor survive intact, along with part of a seventh, a total of 16 tapes are to be presented to the Senate and House leadership under the new plan.

The tapes most favorably showing Nixon's version of the situation are said to be two tapes made April 16 of this year.

These tapes are of a conversation with John W. Dean III, Nixon's former counsel, and reportedly deal with material similar to that which the two discussed the day before in the President's office in the executive office building.

Solons due 'Gate tape playing

Dean has testified during the April 15 conversation the President indicated he was aware of efforts to cover up the Watergate scandal by White House staff members.

In an explosive development Oct. 31, U. S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica was told the April 15 conversation was not recorded because of a malfunction in the recording system.

But the next day the judge was told that the conversation was not recorded because the machine ran out of tape.

A White House source said that the April 16 tapes "would be more categorically what Dean says."

The surrender of virtually the last shred of privacy concerning the tapes after more than four months of battle to keep them secret would be a principal element of what White House staffers refer to among themselves as the political counteroffensive.

The other prong of the two-sided effort for the survival of the President is the legal battle, which stands to be further complicated soon by more indictments by the Watergate grand jury.

The White House expects indictments—perhaps in large numbers—of persons involved in the Watergate matter, some of whom may already have been indicted for separate offenses.

At the same time, the Senate Watergate Committee is nearing completion of its investigation and the House Judiciary Committee is cranking up its impeachment inquiry, which is expected to conclude by February.

All of this has put enormous strain on Nixon's legal staff, which he is trying to reorganize. There was some confusion during hearings before Judge Sirica, and Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, acknowledged Thursday there had been "some mistakes" made by the legal staff.

The White House has been assembling a larger staff of lawyers and has established a "legal group." The legal group will be composed, mainly, of young lawyers.

Meat production cut looms

(CHICAGO UPI)—Federal price controls on meat are putting a damper on livestock production and may produce a beef shortage in 1975 unless controls are lifted immediately, the American Meat Institute (AMI) said Sunday.

"Pork and cattle producers are simply not expanding production as much as the public interest demands," AMI President Richard Long said in an appeal for relaxed controls to Dr. John T. Dunlop.

Question...
If I should have any checks outstanding at the time of my death, would the bank automatically stop payment on them?

Answer...
For ten days after your bank has knowledge of your death, they may continue to pay checks drawn by you prior to that date, unless ordered to stop payment by a person claiming interest in the account.

Banks in Twin Falls usually acquire knowledge of the death of a depositor through the newspaper obituary columns. These columns are dated. Checks, therefore, may be paid by the bank for ten days after the first publication of the announcement of a death unless payment is stopped sooner.

Rationing, revamp mark energy setup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon is getting a new energy "czar" and will set up a new "superagency" to deal with the energy crisis.

On the nation's highways, long-distance drivers were the hardest hit by the first day of voluntary gas station shut-downs. Other motorists filled their tanks Friday or Saturday and got through the weekend in what was described as a reply from the Democratic leadership of Congress to the President's recent energy message, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., Sunday urged the rationing of gasoline. He said the administration's program "won't do the job."

An administration source reported that John A. Love has been told he is no longer Nixon's chief energy coordinator because of a dispute over gasoline rationing, which Love says is inevitable. Love reportedly will stay on as an energy adviser.

Deputy Treasury Secretary William E. Simon will be named to head a new Federal Energy Administration, which will run the government's energy program, officials said.

An administration source who declined to be identified said Simon and Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz "concocted" Love's downfall and "eroded" his position with Nixon because they disagreed with his stand on rationing and felt it would hurt the economy and the stock market.

Nixon and Shultz have called it a "last resort," but nevertheless are mapping contingency plans for it.

Appearing on CBS television with the Democratic rebuttal, Proxmire also took issue with a proposal within the administration to let petroleum prices rise to accomplish a sort of automatic rationing. He said that would leave those with modest incomes unable to drive to work and "literally millions of other modest income Americans would spend a winter of shivering cold."

On another television program, NBC's "Meet the Press," Shultz warned the nation to prepare for higher fuel prices and also urged higher unemployment compensation to help those who lose jobs because of the energy crisis.

Other developments: —European Common Market representatives met in the first of a month-long series of sessions to talk about taking action to meet the oil crisis among other topics.

One tourist tramped through the streets in a chariot behind two white horses on the first day of a Sunday ban in Italy on automobile driving.

Charges dismissed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The district attorney's office says burglary and conspiracy charges against former White House aide Egil Korch will be dropped in light of his plea of guilty to federal charges of violating the civil rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Korch's guilty plea in Washington, D.C., "satisfied the interests of justice" in Los Angeles County, said District Attorney Joseph Busch, who headed the "plumbers" unit that supervised the break-in at the office of the psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding, was expected to testify when and if John Ehrlichman, David Young and G. Gordon Liddy come to trial.

Oil benefits eyed

(c) N. Y. Times Service WASHINGTON — The Nixon administration is seriously considering a change in the controversial oil depletion allowance that would be aimed at two objectives: increasing the supply of oil and limiting the "windfall profits" the oil companies might otherwise realize from the Arab embargo on oil shipments.

The change in the tax laws, which would require Congressional action, would prohibit use of the 22 per cent depletion allowance unless the company or individual claiming the allowance put an equivalent amount of money back into efforts to increase the oil supply.

No decision on the matter has yet been reached, and many details of such a plowback requirements remain to be worked out. An important detail is whether the uses of the plowback funds would be limited to exploration for new oil sources or could also be applied to development of already discovered oil sources.

THE MOST COPIED TV SETS IN AMERICA

MOTOROLA® Quasar II™

WORKS IN A DRAWER

Quasar™ Works in 25" diagonal CONSOLE COLOR TV by MOTOROLA

$599

Motorola Engineers have improved and expanded the benefits and advantages of SOLID STATE to offer many other valuable features:

INSTA-MATIC® COLOR TUNING

Brightness, Color Hue, Automatic Fine Tuning, Contrast, Color Intensity

INSTA-MATIC® Solid state components are ideal for the special circuitry needed for a simplified one button color tuning system. INSTA-MATIC takes care of 5 color tuning functions — Hue, Contrast, Brightness, Intensity and Automatic Fine Tuning — plus, a "6th sense" which helps to maintain picture value when a channel is changed or the signal varies.

SATELLITE® REMOTE CONTROL TUNING

SATELLITE® REMOTE CONTROL CHANNEL SELECTION Because INSTA-MATIC automatically balances the 5 color tuning functions once activated at the receiver, these controls do not have to be on the hand remote control unit. This allowed for development by Motorola engineers of a simplified remote channel selection system. The SATELLITE All Channel Remote Control unit has only two buttons; one for: On/Off and Volume — the other for: Channel Selection.

WORKS IN A DRAWER TV DESIGN

MODULAR CONSTRUCTION — "WORKS IN A DRAWER"® COLOR TV The small size and compactness of a modular opened the door to new chassis design considerations — and once again Motorola engineers exercised leadership by developing "Works in a Drawer" Color TV... wherein the chassis slides out in front of the set for easy accessibility for inspection or service.

PLUG-IN CIRCUIT MODULES

RETRO-FIT CONCEPT Latest circuit and component improvements are added to newly developed modules which will also fit sets made in prior years. Thus, if an exchange replacement module is needed it may even include improvements not contemplated or contained in the original panel.

HERE'S HOW MOTOROLA MOVED AHEAD WITH SOLID STATE . . .

As the telephone industry recognized the need for better communication systems by devoting time, scientific talent and money to research and development, so too did Motorola exercise leadership in the home entertainment industry by getting into solid state first —

- Motorola INTRODUCES THE FIRST 100% Solid State "large screen" 19" (diagonal) portable all-transistor B/W receiver appropriately called the "Astronaut." 1960
- Motorola INTRODUCES THE FIRST mass-produced, large screen, modular, all-transistor solid state color TV receiver in the U.S.A. (Except for high voltage rectifier). 1967
- Motorola INTRODUCES the first Factory TV Exchange Module Program. 1967
- Motorola INTRODUCES the "Works in a Drawer" Color TV® concept with all its attendant benefits. 1967
- Motorola DEVELOPS a solid state high voltage rectifier. 1968
- Motorola ADDS solid state line voltage regulation to its solid state receivers. 1969
- Motorola INTRODUCES QUASAR II COLOR TV®, thus expanding the benefits of solid state into smaller screen sizes and lower price points. 1969
- Motorola INTRODUCES THE FIRST, one-button Color TV Tuning System — which automatically balances color intensity hue, contrast, brightness and activates automatic fine tuning — The "Insta-Matic." 1970

HERE'S HOW MOTOROLA MEETS THE CHALLENGE OF SOLID STATE COMPETITION . . . TODAY

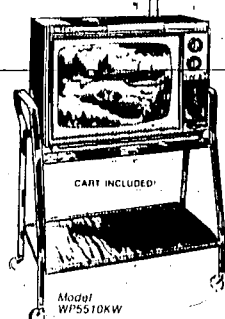

1974 It was inevitable that more and more TV manufacturers would take advantage of solid state technology advancements and finally apply them to their equipment. The swing to solid state was predictable even way back in the mid-fifties when Motorola had the foresight and imagination to begin work on the first solid state receiver.

MOTOROLA SOLID STATE EXPERIENCE . . . isn't that really what it's all about?

Peace 'progress' in Middle East slow arriving (N.Y. Times Service) NEW YORK — Secretary of State Kissinger says that the main hope of easing the Middle East oil embargo lies in 'progress' toward an Arab-Israeli peace agreement...

Israeli elections are over at the end of the year, so it will probably be mid-January before they are ready to get down to business.

Population context

Christian Science Monitor It's not simply a matter of bringing the world's future births and resources into balance. It's a matter of allocating and providing the increased food, schools, housing, jobs, and other needs to compensate for today's already vastly increased generation of babies as they grow up.

Planning for future generations is ideal not simply with population as a pressure in itself but with all the economic, social, political, and environmental factors that affect population.

Recent studies show that even modest economic growth in poor countries results in lower population growth if the benefits are widely diffused through the community.

In industrialized countries even a modest decrease in the rate of consumption would significantly reduce levels of world demand.

The first child in an American family uses as much of the world's resources as seven children in a Bengali family, notes Tarzie Vittachi, executive secretary of World Population Year.

World Population Year (WPY) can also be supported through various nongovernmental organizations that are cooperating in it. A number of countries have started national population commissions or other groups to foster WPY activities.

Though there have been world population conferences going back at least to 1854 in Rome, the Bucharest meeting will be the first global intergovernmental population conference.

The corollary is that each nation has the right to develop its own population policies, with the UN standing ready to help. Because of widely differing national attitudes, the UN began its efforts slowly and cautiously.

The projects supported by the fund as various as a Korean program to "create an atmosphere in which family planning is viewed as normal behavior"; a study for improving fertility in Cameroon; an international seminar on Family Life Education for representatives of Roman Catholic religious groups.

In this context, World Population Year clearly cannot be summed up as a drive to limit the world's children — who represent not only consumer statistics but family strength and affections and the perpetuation of the race.

New policy unfair

What has happened to the school absences this year? It's not a bad deal that there are fewer absences and less sluffing as last year. But then too, it's not a very good deal that just because you fail to check out for some reason or another, you get a ten per cent grade cut.

Then there's the fact that you have to bring a note the next day! The teacher gets to decide whether the absence is avoidable or unavoidable according to the way she or he feels.

Oilman lays crisis to 'stupidity'

WASHINGTON — Even St. Peter is not going to persuade me that the oil industry is without sin in the energy crisis, but it would be selfish not to share with readers of this pillar some comments by Graham P. Stewart Jr., an oilman based in Casper, Wyo.

Although I've never met Stewart I know him pretty well. We have exchanged correspondence and whenever his free enterprise heart is particularly outraged, he gets on the phone to me.

Comes now a missive from Glenville, W. Va., where Stewart is consultant to a company looking for natural gas. Answering his own question, Stewart blames the energy mess on "stupidity at all levels, of government, Congressional, executive, judicial and administrative."

Specifically, he cites the Hope-Natural Gas case after World War II, in which "the Supreme Court stupidly held that the Federal Power Commission had power to regulate at the well head the price of gas going into interstate commerce. Result, the search for gas was certainly not shot full of adrenalin."

The reduction of the depletion allowance when it should have been increased, thanks to the running vendetta of people like Williams (former Sen. John) of Delaware. You will note they always come from states where there ain't no oil.

The laws passed by some of our recent Mad

ANDREW TULLY

Dog Congresses ... having to do with environmental control, sulphur emissions, environmental impact studies. So a car now uses 10 per cent more gas to get where it's going. They even wanted to extend impact studies to well-drilling. Can you imagine an operator with expiring leases, rushing to get started before the last day, having to submit to six months or more of an impact study?

"When the depletion allowance was cut, I said and now one day since we ain't finding enough oil and gas, due to lack of incentive, the government will start looking for it, and man, we is in deep trouble."

"I read an argument by a representative of the Sierra Club ... that the Alaska pipeline would destroy or at least put out of useful (what?) purposes 60 square miles of land. Sixty square miles is 18,000 acres. My brothers and I just sold a ranch with more land than that. Anyway, Alaska has better than 400 million acres — and that is more than twice as much as Texas."

"Before closing, may I say that I, also, am an ecologist. Our pine trees are cut selectively, our grazing lands are contoured, spreader dams are put in to control erosion, some grazing land is rested for two years at a time. I have always turned off all unnecessary lights, and I always kept the thermostat at 68 degrees — when there were no women around."

Third world object of China policy

(N.Y. Times Service) LONDON — The foreign policy of People's China is deliberately oriented toward the third world of developing nations among which the Chinese include themselves.

It is a mistake to think that, simply because relations with Moscow have soured, Peking now looks upon the USA as an admirable big brother. China isn't lining up with anyone. Its experience with Russia was enough. Today it opposes the "imperialism" of both superpowers even if America is currently regarded as the lesser of two evils.

The third world is different. China goes out of its way to promise that catch-all of poor countries it will never seek hegemony — the crime attributed to Washington and Moscow — and that it will do all it can to support underdeveloped nations.

China made a play for third world support last decade and lost out — in Africa and much of Asia. But it has since been reviving the attempt less flamboyantly and has started to make appreciable inroads while the USSR and the USA are losing headway.

Russia sacrificed huge foreign investments with only partial recompense. Its position in Chile and Indonesia was smashed; its future in Cuba and India remains uncertain. For its part, the United States has lost ground in South America, South Asia and Africa.

Whatever ultimately happens in the Middle East and its crucial hold on industrial energy supplies, the third world is increasingly conscious of its own blackmail potential. It sees it could confiscate Western investments and repudiate debts with little fear of retribution. Moreover, if it ever manages to unite on a broader basis, it can play Europe, Japan and the USA against each other with devastating effect.

But not China. As an autarchy with modest and long-range aspirations, the people's Republic depends little on the third world for raw materials or markets while, as a fairly large aid-giver, it can help satisfy the third world's need for outside help.

C. SULZBERGER

China's road to self-improvement has much to offer other lands. Its land-reclamation program is more valid for backward Turkey than Russia's or America's.

Remembering that the third world contains most of the earth's population and acreage, the eventual importance of Peking's elected role could be immense.

Peking has been right and apt out of the contemporary superpower race. It stands no chance of achieving any sort of hegemony this century. It probably even falls behind nonnuclear Japan.

NATO anchor menaced

WASHINGTON — The chilling bankruptcy of Nixon administration policy toward Greece, dramatized in the overthrow of the Papadopoulos dictatorship, has now created an even more horrendous prospect: the threat of a Qaddafi-style, super-nationalistic regime controlling NATO's strategic eastern anchor.

For the first time since Col. George Papadopoulos overthrew the legal, parliamentary government in Athens nearly seven years ago in a military coup d'etat, American policymakers are showing alarm (though still not stating it publicly).

The reason: full-blown American support for the now-deposed Papadopoulos dictatorship may have created a Frankenstein monster in the form of growing anti-Americanism which, under the new nationalistic regime of strongman Lt. Col. Dimitrios Ioannidis, could radically transform the volatile Eastern Mediterranean.

That alarm does not seem unjustified. Thus, the highly controversial homeporting scheme of the U.S. Navy, now half completed, may be aborting. Always resented by housing-short Greek civilians (and questioned by State Department diplomats), homeporting has been completed for some 3,000 sailors and their dependents. But twice that many sailors and dependents attached to an aircraft carrier are still to come.

If new strongman Ioannidis, head of the military police and the only incorruptible figure to emerge from the seven Papadopoulos years, does become a Qaddafi-style xenophobe, he may play to this anti-Americanism and reverse homeporting. Dangerous limitations on the administration's policy have long been apparent. In the 1970 Jordanian crisis, American spy planes were forced to use the island of Cyprus instead of Greek airfields to keep a camera on the strategic war zone. Likewise, Greece was barred to the U.S. airlift during the recent massive resupply of Israel in the Yom Kippur war.

EVANS & NOVAK

Yet, it has now been established that the Soviet airlift to supply the Arabs during those same critical days overflew Greek territory with impunity. The U.S. government has made no fuss about this; and probably won't. Its effect, however, is to cast grave doubt on the administration's claim that support of the dictatorship would guarantee military dividends.

The political course of Ioannidis, who now has taken personal charge of press censorship and has been holding cabinet meetings in his own office, is uncertain. But his accession raises the prospect of either Qaddafi-style super-nationalism or further coups, aborted coups, insurrections and instability, none of it helpful to the U.S.

Such a prescription, as all our reporting trips to Greece the past six years have warned, was immediately evident following the 1967 Papadopoulos coup. Whether President Nixon now will attempt a policy more aloof and detached than his ardent pro-Papadopoulos courtship will greatly influence the future U.S. relationship with the Greek nation.

Panel fading into twilight

(N.Y. Times Service) By JAMES M. NAUGHTON

WASHINGTON — It flashed suddenly and brilliantly onto the nation's television screens six months ago, but now the Senate Watergate Committee is fading from sight like a comet on an awesome yet brief circuit across the night sky.

Now Senators Sam J. Ervin Jr. of North Carolina, Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee and their five committee colleagues decided after weeks of sporadic appearances at occasional hearings, to suspend the public Watergate hearings until January.

Some are not so sure that the hearings will ever resume or that, if they do, they will produce evidence of financial misdeeds by the Nixon administration that the Watergate committee has thus far been unable to find. When the Senate panel turned in September from the Watergate burglary and cover-up to political subterfuge and financing, it set and then abandoned deadlines of Oct. 15 and Nov. 21 for completion of public hearings. Now the committee intends to wrap them up by February.

Meantime, it must prepare a comprehensive report to the full Senate. The report is expected to be relatively bland — but with each of the four Democrats and three Republicans adding more lively separate views. By the time it becomes public, it is likely to be an anti-climactic as the vague memory of a comet's tail.

"Stop referring to it as 'Phase 5'."

Nixon finance report due close check

(c) N. Y. Times Service
MIAMI — If the White House releases this week, as promised, the first detailed report of the President's finances, critics who challenged Mr. Nixon's previous partial disclosures are certain to subject the new information to skeptical scrutiny.

The previous reports, the critics have said, have been general in nature and have often contradicted themselves and Nixon's own statements. For example, Nixon said last Nov. 17 at the Associated Press convention of managing editors that he had bought his homes in Florida and California with his savings.

But a partial report of an audit made by a private concern for the President and released in August by the White House clearly shows that he bought all of the houses and surrounding real estate — costing some $1,750,000 — almost entirely with borrowed money. He kept his own money in savings accounts and in certificates of deposit at banks. Shortly before he took office as President in 1969, Nixon released a financial statement showing "personal property, including jewelry," valued at $60,000. In 1969 and 1970, he bought $55,000 worth of furniture for his new homes, yet his latest net worth statement, issued in 1972, showed "personal property" worth only $55,113. Nixon's finances have been a subject of intense public interest on several occasions since he became President. Public curiosity was aroused last spring when a California newspaper suggested that campaign contributions might have been used by Nixon to buy his home in San Clemente, Calif. The May 25, 1972, statement said that Robert H. Abplanalp, one of Nixon's friends, had lent him $425,000 to make down payments on the California real estate, and that Abplanalp had formed an investment company to buy some of the land back from Nixon.

Christmas mail on time

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite fuels shortages, Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen said today he expects the huge volume of Christmas mail to be delivered on time. Klassen said cancellation of some commercial airline flights because of lack of jet fuel will "have an impact," but he had been assured that 45 million gallons of gasoline needed by the Postal Service in December for surface vehicles, would be available. "I've been in touch with the authorities who recognize the impact this has not only on the Christmas attitude and spirit but on the economy of the country," Klassen said. "I believe we're going to get the necessary priorities in order to move the mail on schedule."

Greek universities open

ATHENS (UPI) — Greek universities opened today for the first time since Nov. 17, when student-worker riots at Athens Polytechnic School brought the overthrow of the government of President George Papadopoulos. At Athens University, students milled in the yards and corridors discussing academic and political developments, but there was not an air of protest against developments of the past two weeks, witnesses said. No police or military were seen at the University and Polytechnic campuses.

The new military backed government ordered the schools opened today on grounds "security and peace prevailed throughout the country." However, it has kept the doors of the Athens afternoon newspaper Vrachini padlocked since Saturday night, thus preventing publication. Four new ministers and two deputy ministers today joined the 18-member cabinet of Premier Adamantios Androusoopoulos. Two of the new ministers were cabinet ministers under Papadopoulos. They were retired Gen. Vassilios Tsoumbas (Interior) and Elias Balopoulos, minister without portfolio. Panayotis Cristou, professor at the University of Salonika, became minister of education, and Christos-Georgiopoulos, former president of the Constitutional Court, was sworn in as minister of social affairs. Phoebos Legakis became deputy minister of education and Dionysios Gyalistras deputy minister of transport. Despite the new appointments, the new cabinet was still incomplete, with the ministries of commerce, finance and economic coordination vacant. The new government, which repeatedly has said there no longer is censorship in Greece, locked the doors of Vrachini Saturday night.

New York sues oil firms

NEW YORK (UPI) — Attorney General Louis Lefkowitz has begun anti-trust action against seven oil companies for their alleged "illegal understanding and agreement" to maintain high prices on gas in the metropolitan area. Named in the suit in Manhattan State Supreme Court are Shell Oil Co.; Exxon Corp.; Gulf Oil Corp.; Sun Oil Co.; American Oil Co.; Texaco, Inc.; and Mobil Oil Corp.

The suit, announced Sunday, charges them with eliminating competition among themselves in areas where there were no competing independent companies, and granting rebates to dealers while maintaining the same high retail prices. Lefkowitz said the rebates occurred mostly in areas where there was competition from independent companies, and that the firms "acted in unison" in granting the rebates. The suit says that through the trust agreement, the seven big companies could suppress competition from independents; conduct coordinated price wars to edge out the independents while maintaining high prices elsewhere; and prevent their dealers from competing against one another and with other firms. The suit also charges that six of the seven firms practiced deliberate price discrimination among their own dealers. "Gasoline prices in the New York City metropolitan area are the highest in the nation," Lefkowitz said, "despite the existence of excellent distribution facilities in New York and refineries in New Jersey. The major companies do not compete with each other on the basis of price, but instead make advertising claims making the alleged unique qualities of their products," he said. "Nevertheless," he added, "gasoline of any given octane rating is an essentially standard product, as evidenced by the fact that the companies exchange products with each other."

Wilson visits Eastern Star

TWIN FALLS — Ina B. Wilson, worthy grand matron of Idaho, paid her official visit to Twin Falls Chapter No. 29, Order of Eastern Star Saturday night. Also visiting were Fred Currie, worthy grand patron of Idaho, and William Sheppard, worthy grand patron of Utah. The meeting was conducted by Mable Clark, worthy matron and James Clark, worthy patron. Past grand matrons introduced were Jane O. Benfer, Erna McFarland and Glendene Keister. Lon Clayton, past grand patron, was also introduced. Grand officers present and introduced were Gertrude Weber, associate grand matron; Darlene Schiers, grand conductress; Virginia Peters, associate grand conductress; Maxine Macnamer, grand marshal; Betty Jean Myers, grand Adah; Dona Busacker, grand Esther; Thelma Currie, grand Martha; Marian Clayton, grand warden; Bill Clark, grand sentinel; and Doris Sheppard, Utah's grand Esther. Grand representatives introduced were Nina Strange, Saskatchewan; Beulah Johnson, New Jersey; Ollie Lesley, Nevada; and Louise Montgomery, New Hampshire. Lowell Jensen, worshipful grandmaster of the Grand Lodge of Idaho, A. F. & A. M., was introduced and spoke. Willis Rider presented two vocal solos accompanied by Mary K. Boyd. Three candidates for membership were initiated. Mrs. Wilson spoke on "Vision, Voyage of Discovery," and Currie spoke on "Our Masonic Heritage." Sheppard brought greetings to Idaho from the Grand Chapter of Utah. Officers and members of the chapter attended a school of instruction Saturday afternoon. The dining room tables were decorated by Ariene Grose and the serving committee composed of Louise Graybeal chairman, assisted by Sarah McVey, Mr. and Mrs. Holland Houfburg, Mrs. Dorothy Frazier, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Petersen, Elna Petersen, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fuller, Mildred Floyd, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Shotwell, Sue Remaley, Mr. and Mrs. Al Robinson, Dorothy Carter, Pauline Mansfield, Theo Merrick, Emma Steffen and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Niven. There were 26 chapters represented at the meeting.

Amtrak eyeing Gem service

BOISE — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Friday Amtrak is considering reintroducing rail passenger service to southern Idaho. Church said he had made an inquiry to the national rail passenger service, and Amtrak Director Gerald D. Morgan responded by saying that a federal law requires the Secretary of Transportation to designate one experimental route a year. "Union Pacific's Oregon Short Line, through Boise, may be a possibility for such service," Morgan wrote Church. The senator said he endorsed the proposal and wrote Morgan, "Idahoans want their trains back — a move that would seem all the more desirable in light of the current energy crunch." Church also wrote Morgan that he has been a critic of the Amtrak system since its inception and elimination of passenger service in southern Idaho. "However," he wrote, "I am ready to lend all possible assistance should Amtrak be willing to foster a truly national rail passenger system — one that serve all of the country — including Idaho. The time is right, if the Administration is willing to cooperate with Congress, the future of passenger trains would become bright again. Meanwhile, I heartily endorse any proposal to restore rail passenger service to southern Idaho. I would appreciate a more detailed explanation of what an experimental route through Idaho might entail," Church wrote.

DEAR ABBY: I would like your advice concerning a problem I am having with a secretary who has been working for me for six months.

At first she called me "Mr. B."—then a few weeks ago she started calling me by my first name.

I didn't approve of this first name business, but I didn't know how to tell her without hurting her feelings or getting her angry with me.

How can I get her to call me "Mr. B." again without making a federal case of it?

— S. C. BOSS

Address trouble

DEAR BOSS: First, what do YOU CALL HER? If you are using her first name, start addressing her as "Miss" or "Mrs." and tell her you'd like her to call you "Mr. B." If you're already calling her "Miss" or "Mrs.," simply ask her to please call you "Mr. B." If you're yellow about telling her face to face—give it to her in black and white—in an office memo.

DEAR ABBY: After I die, I want to be cremated. Then I want my ashes to be placed in an envelope and left in a certain man's mailbox with the following message: "Howard, you always said I would wind up with you. I love you. Goodby, Annette."

I went with this man for 17 years, and then he dropped me like a hot potato and married somebody else. How can I arrange to get my last wish?

A. D.

DEAR A. D.: There are strict laws concerning cremation and the disposition of ashes which may make your last wish impossible. You will have to get the final word from a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorcee, trying to support myself and three teen-aged children, but in order to be called for employment, I must have a reasonably clear telephone line—and that is my problem.

My next door neighbors complicate things. The wife runs up enormous telephone bills calling long distance all over the country, and when her husband gets drunk (which is often) they fight about her telephone bills, and he rips the telephone wires out of the wall. Consequently the wife (and her children, who are teen-agers) are over here asking to use my telephone when theirs is out of order. (This is the third time in a month.)

Worse yet, they have given my number to every Tom, Dick and Harry, so I've been acting as an answering service for people who call them. I ran next door six times last evening to call them to my phone.

The only glimmer of hope in this whole mess is that they all read DEAR ABBY, so please print this so they will realize what an imposition they have been, without my having to tell them. Thank you.

MRS. DINGALING

DEAR MRS. DING: Here's your letter. Let's hope the man next door doesn't rip up the newspaper.

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho State Wheat Growers Association has gone on record supporting an increase in self-imposed assessment from one-half to one cent a bushel.

An amendment to that effect was adopted at the closing session of the group's annual convention in Boise.

Queries irk deputy press secretary

By LESTER KINSOLVING
Times-News Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's deputy press secretary angrily pounded the White House press room podium Wednesday when asked questions relating to (a) sex and (b) crime.

(a) — Jill Volmer is an impressively statuesque blonde who wears miniskirts and is an assistant special Watergate prosecutor.

(b) As prosecutor, she visited on Nov. 28 the office of President Nixon's personal secretary Rose Mary Woods. When she returned to her apartment, she found it burglarized. Missing were a radio and some clothes — as well as the key to her safe deposit box along with four boxes of canceled checks.

She told reporters the theft seemed like a "routine burglary" but who would want all my canceled checks?

"This burglary was reported last Wednesday at the daily White House press briefing by the correspondent of the Baltimore Sun. He asked if there might have been some involvement by the White House "plumbers" who burglarized both Watergate as well as the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Retorted deputy press secretary Gerald Warren; obviously angry:

"I thoroughly reject the implications of that question." Whereupon he was asked: "Can you categorically state that no one from the White House was involved in any way with this burglary?"

Warren slammed the podium and replied angrily with an incomprehensible monosyllable "Can you categorically state that no one from this Times-News was involved?"

"Yes," shot back the reporter, which evoked general laughter.

After closing the matter by referring further inquiries to the D. C. Metropolitan Police, Warren declined, for the seventh time, to reveal the identities of those TV commentators whom President Nixon described Oct. 27 as being "guilty of outrageous, vicious and distorted" reporting.

The Times-News noted that the National News Council has repeatedly telephoned or wired White House press secretary Ron Ziegler in order to ask that those allegedly vicious commentators be identified and their alleged distortions specified. "They have yet to receive any answer," noted the Times-News in asking about what the White House has termed "Operation Candor."

"We're working on it," answered Warren.

Warren earlier declined to explain to newsmen just when and in what form the President's income tax will be made public.

Baja highway open

GUERRERO NEGRO, Mexico (UPI) — Long far off the beaten track, unspoiled Baja California will find it difficult to remain that way as a result of the opening Saturday of the $80 million Trans-Baja California Highway.

President Luis Echeverria, fulfilling a campaign promise, stood on the 23rd parallel and declared open the 1,058-mile highway that links Tijuana, on the United States border, with Cabo San Lucas, at the tip of the peninsula.

Houston runoff set

HOUSTON (UPI) — Voters in Texas' largest city choose a new mayor Tuesday in a runoff election between liberal Fred Hofheinz, whose father built the Astrodome, and conservative City Councilman Dick Gottlieb.

The race is considered to be a tossup, but political observers believe the turnout will be the deciding factor.

Aspin asks GAO check on Clements

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., today asked the General Accounting Office (GAO) to determine whether ownership of oil stocks by Deputy Defense Secretary William Clements Jr., constitutes conflict of interest.

Aspin said Clements owns 1.6 million shares of oil stock valued at $90 million in SEDCO, a Dallas, Tex., oil drilling company. Clements serves on the administration's Emergency Energy Action Group and has overall control of the Pentagon fuel allocation program.

In a letter to Comptroller General Elmer Staats, Aspin contended that Clements' ownership of the stock while he serves as a key administration energy official "constitutes an obvious and potentially dangerous conflict of interest."

He quoted an executive order signed by President Johnson in 1965, saying that "employees may not have direct or indirect financial interests that conflict substantially or appear to conflict substantially with their responsibilities and duties as federal employees."

Pioneer nearing Jupiter

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — Pioneer 10 headed into a potentially destructive radiation belt today before edging the closest it can to Jupiter, largest planet in the solar system.

The nuclear powered spacecraft was speeding at 23 miles a second toward a point 81,000 miles above Jupiter and was expected to reach it at 7:25 p.m. MST.

However, a vaguely known belt of radiation blocked the Pioneer's path. There was a possibility this radioactive field could cripple or destroy the spacecraft's instruments.

If Pioneer survives the radiation, it means man can proceed to investigate the far outer planets. If Pioneer fails, man may be blocked from substantial exploration beyond the spacecraft's instruments.

The spacecraft took Jupiter's temperature, analyzed its chemical elements, measured its mass and gathered clues to its internal structure. Little of the data related to the question of whether conditions for primitive molecular life exist on Jupiter, a subject which will be studied in the future.

Throughout Pioneer's 21-month journey, including passage through the asteroid belt, it has especially studied activities of high-energy atomic particles, a subject related to production of nuclear energy on earth.

Many of the data bits went to make up color pictures of Jupiter and its swirling atmospheric currents stretching the planet. One of Jupiter's clouds, a possible storm 10,000 miles wide, appeared in the pictures Sunday.

Bomb alert out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Acting on a tip from the FBI, the U.S. Postal Service has warned federal government officials and oil companies to be alert today for letter bombs that may have been mailed Friday from Toronto.

The Postal Service said Sunday it has notified all "possible targets," but officials said it was only a "precautionary" measure and they had no direct knowledge that any letter bombs actually had been mailed.

The Postal Service said it has offered to screen any suspicious mail received by the government agencies or oil companies.

The warning said the letters were white and pink and either 4 inches by 6 inches and 1-1/2 inches deep, or 4 by 11 inches and 1-1/4 inches deep.

The letters were believed to have originated in Toronto but they carried a return address in Switzerland and the names of Yasrat Guy Vahr and Josef A. Runjdu Prabhakar.

"There is no indication that any letter bombs are in the mail," a postal spokesman said.

Skylab's fuel use problem persisting

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab officials, confident they've figured out how to save fuel aboard their space station, twisted the huge lab about in orbit again today for two more Earth photography sweeps.

"It reminds me a lot of learning to ride a bicycle," flight director Philip C. Shaffer said Sunday after Skylab used three to four times more stabilization gas than expected to get into position for two photo passes. "We're kind of bruised up a bit. But we're not going to do it again."

Astronauts Gerald P. Carr and William R. Pogue devoted their morning to studying forests, farms, mountains and cities during the two picture-taking sweeps, one across the northwestern United States and Venezuela and the other over Southern California and Central America.

Mission scientist Edward G. Gibson, a solar physicist, operated the 100-ton spaceship's sun-study observatory.

Shaffer said flight controllers still believe they have enough vital nitrogen gas that keeps Skylab in the right position to do 35 Earth resources passes. That's 15 fewer than predicted before launch of the last crew, he said, but most of the loss was due to a six-day liftoff delay.

Food stores close

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Members of four unions rejected a contract offer by supermarket operators Sunday and a massive strike-lockout went into effect at 12:01 a.m. today in California's retail food industry.

Rejecting the offer from the Food Employers Council were Teamsters, meat cutters, machinists and operating engineers. Members of the Retail Clerks Union were also expected to "fully respect" any picket lines, according to a spokesman.

The walkout affects more than 60 supermarket chains in California and their thousands of outlets throughout the state. Directly and indirectly nearly 100,000 employees are affected.

The strike by teamsters, operating engineers and machinists extends from San Diego to San Luis Obispo counties in Southern California. The meatcutters' strike is statewide.

South, West grow fastest, census shows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Population growth since the 1970 census has increased significantly in southern and western states, the Commerce Department said Saturday.

While the nation's population increased 3.3 per cent in the 39 months between the census and a provisional estimate on July 1, it surged 5.1 per cent in the south and 5 per cent in the west.

The northeast and north central states showed increases of 1.3 and 1.8 per cent, the Commerce Department reported. Despite the lagging regional growth, however, rural New Hampshire, Vermont and Nebraska showed sharp gains.

New Hampshire and Vermont grew by 7.2 and 4.4 per cent. Connecticut, on the other hand, increased population by only 1.5 per cent. Pennsylvania by 1 per cent and New York almost remained constant with a 0.8 per cent increase.

The largest percentage increase was 16.1 per cent for Arizona, followed by Florida 13.1 per cent, Nevada 12.1 per cent, Colorado 10.4 per cent, Alaska 9.3 per cent and Utah 9.2 per cent.

In the south only West Virginia (2.8 per cent) and Mississippi (2.7 per cent) failed to surpass the national average. In the west every state except Washington (1.3 per cent) exceeded the national average.

For the northeast and north central, however, only New Hampshire, Vermont, Nebraska (4 per cent) Maine (3.7 per cent) and Wisconsin (4 per cent) grew faster than the national rate.

In numbers, Florida was the individual leader adding 898,000 citizens to its population. California had the second largest numerical growth, 648,000, but its increase rate of 3.2 per cent was less than the national average. Texas was third with 507,000. California remained the most populous state with 20.8 million. New York was second with 18.3 million, followed by Pennsylvania 11.9 million, Texas 11.8 million and Illinois 11.2 million.

The District of Columbia, which constitutes a territorial entity although it has a declining population, the loss of 11,000 citizens in the nation's capital followed a pattern that has been increasingly noticeable in cities.

Halley man charged

HAILEY—James A. Dixon, 34, Halley, charged with driving while intoxicated and felony possession of a controlled substance, was scheduled to appear today in Blaine County magistrate court.

Dixon was arrested early Saturday morning south of Ketchum by a county sheriff's deputy. He has been released from the county jail on a $500 property bond.

Shoshone council meet set

SHOSHONE—City Council will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the City Hall.

Harding may challenge Hansen

MALAD CITY, Idaho (UPI)—The brother of a former Idaho congressman is eyeing the seat his brother once held.

Malad attorney Don L. Harding may run against Republican Rep. Orval Hansen. The 36-year-old Harding, a brother of former U.S. Rep. Ralph Harding, said he had received extensive encouragement.

Gem poverty level reported

BOISE (UPI)—More than one fourth of Idaho's population live in families with income under $3,000, says a poverty study made by the State Department of Social Services.

The "Poverty in Idaho" report showed 27.7 per cent of the population fell into that category.

The report noted that Ada County had the greatest number of poor people. Ada County had nearly 14,000.

Reorganization hearings slated

COEUR D'ALENE—Idaho's Government Reorganization Commission will open a series of hearings in Coeur d'Alene tonight on the proposed reduction of the state's executive branch to 17 departments.

It will be the first of seven hearings to be held this week throughout the state, announced Sen. Warren Brown, R-McCall, commission chairman.

Urging Idaho's citizens to attend the hearings, Brown said, "The legislature will only be successful in accomplishing a meaningful reorganization of state government if it knows what the people want."

Tonight's meeting will be followed by hearings in Lewiston Tuesday, Payette and Boise Wednesday, Twin Falls Thursday and Idaho Falls, and Pocatello Friday.

Pheasant season to close

BOISE (UPI)—Pheasant hunting will end Dec. 9 in 16 Southern Idaho counties, the Idaho Fish and Game Department reminded hunters today.

At the same time, the department noted that the season on two species of partridge and four species of quail continues in most sections through Dec. 31.

A special season on partridge and quail will continue through Jan. 20, 1974, below Hells Canyon Dam to Tammany Creek south of Lewiston, and part of the main Salmon River.

For cottontail and pygmy rabbits, the department said, the season will continue through Feb. 28, 1974, with daily bag and possession limit of eight rabbits in the aggregate.

Duck hunter drowns

AMERICAN FALLS, Idaho (UPI)—The body of Dale Dykstra, 29, Pocatello, was recovered from the Snake River near American Falls after he drowned while on a duck hunting trip.

Dykstra disappeared in the murky waters Saturday when he attempted to recover a small boat that had drifted away while he and Sam Robison, also Pocatello, were hunting.

Dykstra and Robison had been hunting on the north side of the Snake River near Bonanza Bar and had boated across to a little island. While out of the boat, it drifted away and Dykstra stripped down, went after it and suddenly disappeared.

Boating mishap prompts suit

BOISE (UPI)—An Illinois widow and her daughter have filed a $228,000 lawsuit in U.S. District Court as the result of a fatal boating accident on Cocolalla Lake in Bonner County Aug. 3.

Dorothy D. Van Horn, and her daughter, Vicki, brought the suit against Vic D. and Mary Ann Clary and their son, David.

The Clary's boat, allegedly driven by their son, struck and killed Richard Van Horn in the Lake, the suit claims.

Truckers ask 55 mph limit

BOISE (UPI)—Truckers want a standard 55 miles per hour speed limit for every body and not just trucks.

The Idaho Motor Transport Association, which is comprised of more than 200 member companies, has endorsed a resolution calling for that standard speed limit.

Church votes to end debate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Utah and Idaho senators voted 2-1 to choke off debate on the national debt ceiling during the historic Sunday Senate session, but the measure failed to pick up the necessary two-thirds majority in the upper house as a whole.

Democrats Frank E. Moss of Utah and Frank Church of Idaho voted for the measure, which would have halted a filibuster by Sen. James B. Annen, D-Ala.

The measure failed of the required majority on a 47-33 roll call.

Utah Republican Sen. Wallace F. Bennett voted against halting debate. Idaho Republican Sen. James McClure was not present for the vote.

Plan timber use

Timber management plan readied for Salmon forest

SALMON—The Salmon National Forest is in the process of determining how much timber it has.

The field work was completed the past year and this coming winter, Marvin Rude, project leader, will be writing a timber management plan for the Forest.

The object of the undertaking is to determine what the allowable cut of timber will be for future years.

An inventory of the resource was the first step in obtaining information for the development of a new timber management plan, Rude explained.

An inventory is conducted normally on each forest every 10 years. This new plan and inventory will reflect the most current resource information available and new annual allowable cuts will be determined," he said.

"These allowable cuts will follow multiple use and sustained yield principles. The cuts will be divided into standard, special and marginal categories.

During the past summer, forest crews gathered information to determine how much productive forest land the Salmon Forest has, and where it is.

Gathered was information on timber characteristics including tree species, tree diameters and heights to determine volumes, growth, age, growth trend, external and internal tree defect, disease or insect damage, soil class and depth, steepness of slopes and site index which is a measure of the productive potential of the area.

The survey involved examining approximately 1.6 million acres of national forest land. Field measurements were taken of 300 sample locations, each one acre in size located on productive forest land. Also made were field checks on some 100 sample locations on unproductive forest land.

Don Goodrich, branch chief in charge of timber management, said the new timber management plan will allocate a certain amount of timber cutting in good areas and in bad areas.

The plan will establish which areas needs helicopter logging or cat logging or which should use cable system.

Gas traces lost

MALTA—No traces of gas have appeared during the last 200 feet of drilling operations by Standard American five miles south of Malta.

The Texas firm's president Al Griffith, who visited the site Saturday, said Monday the drill had reached a depth of 5,078 feet. "Things look pretty good," he said, "but I was hoping we would hit some more gas shows by now."

If this well had to be plugged, as the firm's first attempt in the areas was last month, Griffith said they would probably try a new well at another location in the Malta area before spring.

Winter weather could stop the drills but the weather was "not so bad," Griffith said, "and unless we get two feet of snow, we'll keep on drilling."

Hailey suit 'revitalized'

HAILEY—A class action suit brought by 16 Hailey owners of undeveloped property over the 650-acre McCulloch Woodside development has been revitalized with the filing of an amended complaint.

Defendants named in the U.S. District Court suit include Hailey mayor Lawrence Heagle; the four member city council; McCulloch Properties Inc. (MPI); and Robert P. McCulloch Jr., president of MPI.

Judge Ray McNicholas had earlier dismissed the complaint because it failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted. However, he allowed the plaintiffs 20 days to file a new amended complaint.

The amended complaint seeks an injunction to stop the city from committing Hailey's remaining unused sewage disposal potential for the development—which was annexed last spring—unless a new permit for increased effluent potential is issued by the federal or state government.

If such a permit is issued, the complaint seeks that the city be restricted from committing the additional permit to McCulloch so that the plaintiffs would be excluded from using it.

The complaint also seeks to stop MPI from connecting sewage lines until a new permit is issued and, if issued, to stop MPI from using the sewage potential the plaintiffs would be using.

Furthermore, the complaint states that the waters of the Wood River are "subject to anti-degradation standards which will not permit the quality of the water to be reduced."

James Donart, Ketchum, serves as attorney for the plaintiffs.

Emergency health aid aired at Ketchum meet

KETCHUM—An emergency health services technology exists, and it is now a "matter of putting together what's known and make it work," according to Paul B. Anderson, special governor's assistant for the Idaho Emergency Health Program.

Anderson spoke on the program's objectives during the Central Idaho-Magic Valley area governor's Emergency Health Conference Saturday in Ketchum, which was sponsored by the Mountain States Regional Medical Program.

Anderson said the statewide emergency health plan was based on regionalization and the proposed timetable may vary in different areas.

Within the next several months, he said, local emergency health committees will be formed or will be re-activated and regional emergency health councils will be initiated.

The program's prime objective will be to obtain the 911 emergency telephone number, Anderson said, to simplify the public's means of contacting emergency services. He said the Ketchum and Sun Valley area was the "first place" in the state to get as far as they had toward obtaining the number.

Other state program objectives, Anderson said, included:

- To improve the public's basic first aid skills and to train "literally thousands in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR).

- To train several thousand law enforcement officers to the 40 hour level and to equip patrol cars with critical care kits.

- To promote use of fire personnel for emergency health to a greater extent in more populous areas.

- To encourage ambulance purchase of radio pagers and two-way radios to decrease response time.

Anderson said, the formation of "quick response units" had been proposed for communities such as Carey and Mackay which are located a distance away from existing ambulance service. The units would utilize about six to eight persons who have been trained to the 40 hour level and about $100 to $150.

Ketchum man escapes, caught

HEILEY—John J. Creighton, 32, Ketchum, remained in custody this morning in the Blaine County jail after he reportedly escaped and was recaptured Saturday night.

Creighton had been arrested on a felony charge of driving while intoxicated about 8:40 p.m. Saturday by a Hailey police officer.

According to Blaine County sheriff Orville Drexler, Creighton apparently escaped about 9 p.m. by kicking out a nine and one-half inch wide window in the drunk tank and crawling through it.

He was arrested about 11:20 p.m. in Ketchum by Ketchum police officers and was charged with escaping from confinement and destruction of jail property.

Jerome man jailed

WENDELL—A Jerome man was arrested on charges of grand larceny Saturday night at Larry's Auto Salvage north of Wendell.

Max Clayton Vanderpool, 40, was held in the Gooding County Jail in lieu of $2,000 bond.

Employees told officers Vanderpool was caught by employees of the salvage yard at about 10:45 p.m. Saturday.

The suspect allegedly had in his possession auto parts.

Police later searched the suspect's house and reportedly discovered a supply of auto parts and salvage equipment, allegedly stolen on Nov. 25.

C.J. Simpson leads Bills to upset in NFL highlight

Pro Football Roundup
By United Press International
O. J. Simpson, becoming the second leading single season ground gainer with two games left to play, ripped off 130 yards Sunday to lead the Buffalo Bills to a stunning 17-6 upset over Atlanta, snapping the Falcons' seven game winning streak.

Although Simpson did not score for the Bills, his long gainers kept the Bills driven going and 243-pound fullback Jim Braxton bulldozed across twice from the one yard line, first with 4:11 left in the first period and again with 7:37 left in the third.

Sunday's performance gave Simpson 1,583 so far this year. Former Cleveland star Jim Brown holds the single season record of 1,863 which he set in 1963 and Brown previously also held the second best mark with 1,545 he gained in 1965.

In other action, Washington tipped the New York Giants, 27-24, Cincinnati upset Minnesota, 27-0, the New York Jets nipped Baltimore, 20-17, New England tripped San Diego, 30-14, Green Bay cracked New Orleans, 30-10, Detroit edged St. Louis, 20-16, Los Angeles blanked Chicago, 20-0, Oakland shined Houston, 17-4, Dallas doused Denver, 22-10, San Francisco topped Philadelphia, 38-24, Cleveland and Kansas City battled to a 20-20 tie.

The results of Sunday's action left seven teams still battling for three AFC playoff positions. In the NFC, Los Angeles became the second team to clinch a berth with Dallas, Washington and Atlanta battling for the last two spots. But Atlanta's loss to Buffalo dimmed the Falcon chances. They had the inside shot at the wild card spot before that loss.

Gimpy-legged Stray Jurgensen threw 11 straight completions and engineered two long fourth period touchdown drives to rally the Washington Redskins to a last-ditch victory over the New York Giants.

Joe Namath threw 15 yards for one score and set up the decisive field goal with a 63-yard pass to lead the New York Jets to victory over Baltimore.

Four David Ray field goals, a three yard touchdown run by Jim Bertelson and a nine yard scoring dash by Les Josephson with just 3:07 left in the game nailed down the championship of the National Football Conference's Western Division for Los Angeles as the Rams humbled Chicago.

Roger Staubach threw a pair of touchdown passes to Jean Furgett and Toni Fraticchek two field goals to buck the Dallas Cowboys' defense that stymied Denver and handed the Broncos their first loss in eight games.

Bill Munson hit Charlie Sanders with a five-yard touchdown pass with 10:11 left in the fourth quarter to give the Detroit Lions a win over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Jim Plunkett dove for two touchdowns and passed for a third while Mack Horron returned a kickoff 92 yards for the other TD as the New England Patriots tripped the San Diego Chargers.

Steve Spurrier, who spent Saturday in traction because of back spasms, ran for two touchdowns and passed for a third Sunday while directing a near flawless attack as the San Francisco 49ers defeated the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Green Bay Packers converted three interceptions of Archie Manning passes into touchdowns and Chester Marcol touched three field goals to give the Green Bay Packers a triumph over the New Orleans Saints.

Wildcats open with victories

FLIER — The Flier Wildcats opened their wrestling season with a double dual victory over Valley and Oakley Saturday. Flier defeated the Vikings 42-25 and then bounced Oakley 41-20.

Results of the Valley match, Flier men listed first, include 98, Dutt pinned by Childer; 105, Schmahl pinned by Kincaid; 112, Tiffany pinned Corder; 119, C. Schmahl pinned Luchau; 126, Daniels decided by M. Sellers; 132, Allen decided by L. Sellers; 138, Crego pinned L. Sellers; 145, Bias pinned Harold; 155, Courtney pinned Deuel; 167, Jines pinned by Baker; 185, Denton pinned Nye, and heavyweight, Routt pinned Rust.

Results of the Oakley match, Flier men listed first, include 98, Dutt decided by Bench; 105, B. Schmahl decided by Wadsworth; 112, Flier forfeit to Haines; 119, C. Schmahl pinned D. Rodriguez; 126, Daniels pinned Jackson; 132, Dietrich pinned Goe; 138, Crego decided Cooper; 145, Bias pinned Reed; 155, Jines pinned by Mitten; 167, M. Schmahl won by forfeit; 185, Denton pinned Martin, and heavyweight, Routt drew with L. Rodriguez.

Old rivals will meet Tuesday

A renewal — probably brief — of one of Magic Valley's fine oldtime rivalries spiced an abbreviated four-game basketball schedule Tuesday night.

The renewal will bring the Oakley Hornets to Rupert to play the Minico Spartans. For many years, going back into the day of Rupert High but still continuing into the days of Mipico, the two have battled and, surprisingly, Oakley used to hold its own.

This one apparently is brought about by the one-game schedule Minico has with Provo, Utah. The Utah team will not repay the visit, leaving a one-game vacancy on the Spartan schedule.

Going into it Oakley is 1-0 and Minico 0-1.

In other action, the Wood River Wolverines, evened out at 1-1, will entertain Butte of Arco in another traditional December series.

Hagerman, which has lost a pair, will entertain Camas County which pulled off a mild surprise in beating Murtaugh in the Musers' only outing thus far.

In an afternoon affair, Gooding State's Redskins, 1-0, will be at Twin Falls playing the juniors.

Sports

Baseball talks begin today

HOUSTON (UPI) — The effect of the energy crisis, possible expansion of the interleague trading period and a review of the designated hitter rule are just some of the items to be discussed this week at baseball's Winter meetings which get underway here Monday.

The first item of business will be the major league draft. Later in the week, American League president Joe Cronin will rule on the tangled managerial situation involving the Detroit Tigers, New York Yankees and Oakland A's, while National League owners will decide on the acceptability of the proposed new owners of the San Diego Padres.

And in between all the official discussions and talks will come the player trades that almost always overshadow any of the other business accomplished at the meetings.

Cronin will hold hearings Wednesday to determine if the Yankees are entitled to any compensation from the Tigers, who hired Ralph Houk as their manager after Houk quit New York. The AL president will then rule if Oakland is entitled to any compensation from the Yankees, who would like to hire former A's manager Dick Williams. Williams, like Houk, quit with two years remaining on his contract and both men feel no compensation is required since their resignations were publicly accepted.

A group including Mrs. Marjorie Everett has agreed to purchase the Padres from C. Arnholt Smith but it has been reported that the Everett group doesn't have enough support from the other NL club owners. Nine votes are needed to ratify the sale but according to one report, the club owners will turn Mrs. Everett down because of her "involvement in the Gov. Otto Kerner bribery scandal in Illinois."

Because of the shortage of jet fuel, the owners will vote on a proposal to cut back on air transportation by increasing the use of trains for short trips. Also expected to be reviewed are the possible cutting down on the large number of night games and an increase in doubleheaders.

The owners will rule on a recommendation by general managers to expand the period for interleague trading from May 15 to June 15. Interleague trading is now permitted only from the fifth day after the end of the World Series until the final day of the winter meetings.

The American League is seeking to eliminate the experimental nature of the designated hitter rule so as to permit either league to use it indefinitely. The rule is now on a three-year trial basis but, in effect, what the AL is seeking is the right to use it in World Series games that are played in AL parks.

Australia asks U.S. for match

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Australian David Cup captain Nell Fraser accepted the International tennis trophy Sunday after his team blitzed the United States 5-0 in the final round, and invited the U. S. team back to Australia for a rematch next year.

Fraser, like his team members attired in white shorts, gold blazers and black turbans for the ceremony, said "I'm very proud to be an Australian and to be able to captain a team of such sportsmen of proven ability. The U. S. team was in mixed, casual attire for the ceremony."

"I want to thank Dennis Ralston (the U. S. captain) for the wonderful way the matches went, and we look forward to a return match in Australia next year," Ralston said. "They just played too well for us. Rod Laver and John Newcombe never played better than that, that I have seen."

We strongly hope to get down to Australia next year. The last time we had a victory and brought the cup back here."

Laver and Newcombe played all the matches for Australia, defeating Stan Smith and Tom Gorman in singles matches and Smith and Erik Vandell in doubles.

"It has been an emotional experience," Newcombe said. "I just realized just how much so today playing Tom in the last set when I started to shake. It was just tremendous to me."

Looking back to 1953 when, as a nine year old, he listened to the Davis Cup radio broadcast and vowed he wanted to grow up and be like Ken Rosewall.

Ironically, Rosewall did not play, but Fraser cited him, Mal Anderson, Collin Dibley and Geoff Masters, the other members of the team, "for helping us to get here."

Bulldogs will host tourney

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly Bulldogs will host an invitational wrestling tournament for class B teams in Magic Valley Tuesday and Wednesday.

The sessions will start at 1 p.m. each afternoon with the evening action going at 7 p.m. both days.

Participating will be Declo, Glens Ferry, Kimberly, Oakley, Raft River, Valley and Wendell.

New models. Two suspensions. Sparkling action from John Deere.

Performance to make you happy. Dependability to keep you happy. That's the spirit of John Deere snowmobiling. And it's yours in models from 292 to 440 cc's, on your choice of two superb-riding suspensions. Trail-smoothing trailing-arm bogies on our 300, 400, 500 and 600 snowmobiles. A great new John Deere sildo-suspension system on our blitz-black JDX series. Wide choice of matching fashions, too. From dealers strong on service, and listed in the Yellow Pages.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

It was just 16 years ago that Dr. H. Strughold conducted his famous flying experiment. Bear in mind, Dr. Strughold had done a lot of flying earlier. No greenhorn, he. On this occasion, he thoughtfully numbered his posterior with sizable injections of Novocain, then took off in a plane with a pilot who was instructed to do acrobatics. Dr. Strughold promptly became sick, scared, confused, disoriented, all shook up. He was getting no nerve impulses from where he usually got many when in flight. Thus did he prove, scientifically, that pilots really do fly by the seat of their pants.

This is sad. Very sad. "Seventeen" magazine surveyed a batch of young ladies. And found out two-thirds of the girls felt closest to other girlfriends. Or to sisters. But only one-tenth felt closest to their mothers.

ALLIGATOR

You know how a camel closes its nose in a high wind? That's how an alligator closes its ears underwater. That name, Natash, means Child of Christmas. Most any man spends one year of his life on the telephone. That's night and day, day and night, sir, Frank. Average rattlesnake grows three rattles a year. Sir, a fur, I'm told, is the traditional gift for the 13th wedding anniversary.

O. "I'm a Linda who wants to know the chest measurement of the average 17-year-old girl?"
A. Exactly 30.1 inches.

Exactly 20 per cent of the men and 21 per cent of the women nationwide tell pollsters they regularly go to bed weeknights at 10 p.m.

NORTH POLE

William F. Warren, a Methodist minister who was president of Boston University for 30 years, wrote a book to prove that the original Garden of Eden was at the North Pole. Paradise Found was the name of said book. About 500 pages. Grows out in 1885. A most scholarly work. He said God got mad and froze the place.

Were you aware that doll collecting is the fifth most popular hobby among grownup Americans? Yes, even more popular than photography. So reports the American Hobby Federation. Stamp collecting is still first. Second is the collecting of glassware. Third, woodworking. Fourth, making models.

In 1958, there was one store for every 97 Americans. In 1963, one store for every 110 Americans. In 1967, one store for every 113 Americans. This year, one store for every 115 Americans. About. What's going on here, anyhow?

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1973
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Delays and possible depression can now upset you, so keep cheerful. Develop patience so no one will feel you are pressuring them. Study new plans but do not put them in action today, tonight.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Think along more personal lines to progress faster, but don't get into social squabbles that could become costly. Smile more. Don't force yourself on anyone.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle confidential matters, since other activities may not turn out successfully now. Clear your desk for bigger things ahead. Show your ability.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid pals who get on your nerves today and work on your finest aims. The social is not favored tonight, so keep working in p.m.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do not ink higher-ups in any way now, await a better day for expansion. Handle credit affairs with the aid of experts.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your excellent ideas do not fit into your scheme of things just yet, so postpone and study further. Situation with out-of-towniers will improve in time.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make some arrangements to handle collections and payments more efficiently. Show patience with mate who is apt to be in a poor humor.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Use tact to know what associates expect of you, and then you can combine efforts more intelligently. Use subtle methods, reconcile and don't start arguments.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't relegate your duties to others but get at them quickly. Take right treatments to restore waning energies. Show you are sensible.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle important tasks first, then go out to recreations that make you feel happier. Stay within your budget. Avoid one with peculiar ideas.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show more devotion to kin for their affection and cooperation now. Forget your argumentative idea and establish more harmony instead. Avoid one whose ideas are picaresque.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can easily figure out the right solution to problems, but stick to yours and don't get involved in those of others. Make your life happier, more successful.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Forget all discontent and do things you really like to do which can be successful. Be patient with a good friend who isn't feeling well. Think along logical lines.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will need religious and ethical training early to provide the right platform for successful activities. Slant the education along modern lines and the vision here will then be extraordinary. There is inventiveness in the nature that can be helpful to the public in general. Teach early to be practical and to earn money for self for best results.
"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

BEARS HIBERNATE BECAUSE THEY CAN'T DRIVE A MOTOR HOME

Whoever said motor homes are strictly for the sunshine, 80-in-the-shade crowd obviously goes into hibernation when the football games, ice-fishing, tobogganing and snowmobiling get underway. You're missing a whole world of family fun just because it happens to be winter. The CHAMPION MOTOR HOME can change all that. It's your own private year-round chalet on wheels. A strong furnace provides the heat and all-around urethane foam insulation keeps it in. It's complete with galley, dining area, comfortable beds and private bath. This year, leave the hibernating to the bears. Join the winter action in a new CHAMPION. You'll be surprised at how little cold costs it takes.

YEAR END CLOSE OUT!

RICHFIELD — Members of the Lions Club have voted to stand the entire expense for constructing the community bulletin board at a cost of about $200. Labor will be provided by members.

The club sponsors a newly formed Boy Scout Troop, No. 7, according to Charles Bullcane. Richard Sparks is the Scoutmaster and Nell Anderson and Wendell Johnson assistants. The members will furnish two boxes of oranges for the annual Christmas community program.

Chilly winds buffet Valley

Twin Falls, Northside area, Burley-Rupert: Gusty winds and chance of a little rain or snow this evening. Clearing tonight. Mostly sunny Tuesday.

Los tonight, 27-32. Highs Tuesday 40-45. Valley, Camas Prairie, Lower Wood River Valley: Scattered snow flurries this evening. Clearing tonight. Fair Tuesday. Lows tonight in the teens. Highs Tuesday in the 30s.

Synopsis: A weak cool front and trough of low pressure moved eastward across southern Idaho today. A few showers or snow flurries were expected to persist in the Magic Valley until about sunset this evening. Precipitation will be scattered and too light to be of importance.

South follows suit. You have to discard on the third heart. What discard do you make? Jim: "There is one and just one discard that will guarantee defeat of the contract. Pop up with your ace of diamonds." Oswald: "This sensational discard will get your partner to lead a diamond if South ruffs with the nine you will score your ten spot of trumps immediately. If he ruffs with a high trump you will collect the setting trick with it later on either way you get a plus score."

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "For many years George Coffin of Waltham, Mass., has been collecting and writing about interesting bridge hands. His newest book is a column entitled 'Bridge, Perfect Plays and Match Point Ways' includes some old timers and very new ones." Jim: "Here is a simple one called 'The power of the pop up play'. Just look at the West and North hands and the bidding. We'll give you a clue to the proper play. You decide to open a heart and not your singleton ace of diamonds." Oswald: "That is quite a clue because we feel that the ace of diamonds lead would almost surely be the best opening. Anyway, you do open the eight of hearts and your partner proceeds to cash three heart tricks while
