Henry, Tho depart smiling

PARIS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese negotiator Le Duc Tho conferred today for nearly five hours in a second attempt to save the faltering Vietnam cease-fire they worked out nearly a year ago. They met for 2 1/2 hours before lunch, then resumed for another two hours and 10 minutes in the afternoon. There was no statement. Both men left smiling and waving.

Hunt pushed for missing angler

FILER — The search for T. H. Nicholson, 66, Filer, reported missing Tuesday, continued today after Twin Falls County officers investigated several unproductive reports Wednesday. Nicholson was reported missing when he failed to return from a fishing trip in the Hagerman area. Sheriff Paul Corder said Nicholson and his pickup truck were both reported seen in that area Tuesday. Descriptions of the man and truck have been broadcast in Idaho and other Western states. The truck carries license plate 2T-16286.

'Tarzan' slips taking seat

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Johnny Weismuller, former Olympic swimming champion and actor in "Tarzan" and "Jungle Jim" movies, injured his hip Wednesday evening while trying to sit down. Weismuller, 68, slipped and fell at a sports dinner at a hotel. The extent of the injury was not immediately known although X-rays were taken at a hospital.

Typhoid confirmed in Carroll

MOUNT HOLLY, N.J. (UPI) — An outbreak of typhoid fever was confirmed today by Burlington County authorities who said at least six cases had been reported so far. A spokesman for the county Health Department said the victims lived in various parts of the county but all incidents reported appeared to be related to a church supper held last Nov. 3 in Burlington City. Three of the victims were hospitalized at Rancocas Hospital in Willingboro, Burlington County Memorial Hospital here and at Zurburg Hospital in Riverside.

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian government troops pushed one mile up a Communist-blocked highway 12 miles northwest of Phnom Penh today but rebel forces overran a 200-man outpost only eight miles southeast of the capital. Field reports said insurgent attackers backed by mortar and rocket fire swept over the Daun Sar outpost early today, killing three retreating government forces.

Tabling vote by McClure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, voted Wednesday to table and thus kill an amendment which would have limited fuel price increases. McClure was among 47 Senators voting to table the measure. Forty-four voted against tabling. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, did not vote. The amendment was offered by Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., who wanted to avoid "rationing by price."

Cong attack Saigon outposts

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam accused the Communists today of attacking government outposts across the country, threatening the shaky cease-fire with the most raids in nine months. Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, the command spokesman, said the Communists launched 144 attacks during the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today in an apparent drive to mark the founding of the 13-year-old National Liberation Front (Viet Cong).

Judge blocks Boyle transfer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge temporarily blocked the transfer today of former United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle to Pennsylvania to face prosecution on three murder charges. U. S. District Judge Charles Richey directed U. S. marshals not to comply with a Pennsylvania writ for custody of Boyle "until further order of this court."

'Windfall profits' tax on oil asked

WASHINGTON — The Nixon administration set in motion today a general increase in oil and gasoline prices and proposed that Congress levy a "windfall profits" tax on oil producers. The Cost of Living Council authorized an immediate increase of $1 a barrel for crude oil prices and estimated that it would add 6.3 cents to the price of a gallon of gasoline and heating oil. Under the council's rules, which permit distributors to raise prices on the first of any month to reflect cost increases, about one-third of the increase could take effect Jan. 1 and the rest on Feb. 1. These changes alone would bring the national average price of gasoline to 44.6 cents a gallon, the council estimated, and heating oil to 30.7 cents. A plan proposed and not yet in effect to encourage refiners to produce more heating oil and less gasoline would add at least two cents to the price of heating oil and would chip one penny from gasoline prices. At a White House news briefing, President Nixon announced the tax proposal in a three-minute appearance. Neither Nixon nor treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, who conducted the briefing, said anything about gasoline rationing, a topic on which the administration professes to be undecided. However, as White House officials have said, the administration is loathe to impose coupon-type rationing and the new price increases — represented in part as a way to discourage consumption — looked like another reason to expect an eventual decision not to ration gasoline. The administration's tax proposal came as a surprise. The "windfall profits" tax, as proposed, would fall on oil producers and would be calculated only on crude-oil prices, not profits in the usual sense of revenues minus costs. Consequently, all of the 10,000 oil producers in this country — from giant global corporations to anyone with an interest in an oil well — would be subject to the tax as oil prices rise. However, it would not apply to any growth of profits in the refining and marketing phases of the oil business. Under the tax table published by the treasury, the $1 price increase authorized today would be subject to a tax of 9 1/2 cents. The rate would increase as prices rise, reaching a maximum of 85 per cent.

481 'Gate' documents demanded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee has subpoenaed 481 White House documents covering the dairy industry's campaign contributions to possible connections between one of President Nixon's brothers and billionaire Howard Hughes. The three subpoenas, covering 60 pages, asked for documents involving most of the matters and principals already mentioned in the months-long Watergate investigation, plus a host of others. The focus of the new subpoenas seemed to be on the allegations that the dairy industry contributed about $500,000 to the Nixon re-election campaign in exchange for price supports and tightened import quota, as well as what ties Nixon and his brothers may have had with the mysterious Hughes. Listing 37 subjects, they asked for any relevant documents including books, ledgers, account books, correspondence, receipts, appointment books, checks, check stubs, deposit slips, bank statements, petty cash records, photographs or negatives, notes, and records of telephone calls, White House visits and travel. It was not yet clear what the White House will do about the subpoenas. One White House attorney, Samuel J. Powers, said the information was so extensive that compiling it would "almost shut down the executive department." The subpoenas, signed by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, command delivery of the materials at 8 a.m. MST on Friday, Jan. 4, at the committee's offices. Nixon could contest the subpoenas in court.

Victim greeted

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — William Bryant received a Christmas card this week signed "from your friendly bank robber—Richard Alsop." Bryant is assistant manager of the Midwest Federal Savings and Loan Association here. Alsop is currently serving a sentence in federal prison at Marion, Ill., after being convicted of two Evansville savings and loan robberies two years ago, including one at Bryant's office in which $12,000 was taken.

Geneva stage set for Mideast talks

GENEVA (UPI) — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim arrived today for the first formal Arab-Israeli peace talks in a quarter-century, hailing the event as a historic turning point in the Middle East problem. The arrivals of the Israeli and U.N. delegations left only the U.S. and Jordanian contingents yet to come. Both were due later in the day. The Soviets and Egyptians flew in Wednesday. Eban said Friday's Middle East peace conference, the first face-to-face discussions between Arabs and Israelis in 25 years of fighting, brought "a historic moment in the destiny of the Middle East." Waldheim called the six-nation conference a "turning

Minister victim

MADRID (UPI) — An explosion killed Prime Minister Adm. Luis Carrero Blanco today, ripping apart the limousine that was carrying him from church to his office, the Spanish government said. Witnesses said it appeared to have been a bomb blast, possibly an assassination. The government said it was not known what caused the explosion. Carrero had been attending church across the street from the U.S. Embassy. The terrific blast hurled wreckage of his car over the roof of a five-story building and some of it landed on a second-floor back terrace. The 70-year-old admiral, named prime minister six months ago by Generalissimo Francisco Franco to share the burdens of government, died shortly after arriving at a hospital, the government said. Press reports said his driver and bodyguard were also killed. Vice President Torcuato Fernandez Miranda took over immediately as prime minister. The explosion occurred at 9:45 a.m. (1:45 a.m. MST) — at about the time a trial of 10 underground-labor leaders was scheduled to start in Madrid's Public Order Court. Leaflets have been strewn in Madrid in the past days in which underground left-wing organizations announced strikes and unspecified protest action for the day of the trial. "A strong explosion, whose causes are still unknown, occurred this morning in the Salamanca area of Madrid," the government announcement said. "It caused several casualties. The president of the government (the Spanish term for prime minister), Admiral Carrero Blanco who was passing by in his car on his way to his office at the moment of the explosion suffered grave injuries as a result of which he died shortly afterwards at a hospital."

Perrine span repair planned

TWIN FALLS — The Perrine Bridge was scheduled to be closed briefly this afternoon for bridge repairs, weather permitting. Howard Johnson, Shoshone District Highways engineer, said the closing could last up to an hour while a crane is driven onto the bridge to lower a beam to replace one knocked loose in a rock blast last week. Johnson said the highway department had planned to make the repairs Wednesday but winds prevented the work. One-way traffic was imposed for about 15 minutes Wednesday, while construction workers on the new bridge stretched a cable across the canyon, he said.

Intermountain Gas asks big rate hike

BOISE — Citing increased costs, Intermountain Gas Co. has requested rate increases averaging a total of 30.7 per cent. The heaviest burden would fall on industrial and commercial customers. According to company figures, typical rates would rise according to the following schedule: Residential customers: 18.0 per cent. Commercial customers: 27.5 per cent. Industrial, non interruptible: 40.5 per cent. Industrial, interruptible: 50.8 per cent. The proposed rate increases must be approved by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission (IPUC) before taking effect. The rate increases come in two separate packages, one requested earlier and one requested this week. One rate increase, which would raise a total of $8.9 million in new revenues, is intended to pass on rising costs of natural gas. The other rate increase, which would cost customers $4.5 million, is designed to meet other inflationary operation expenses. A spokesman for the utility, Vice President A. W. Smith, said Intermountain's Canadian supplier has increased the price of natural gas at the border to 81.34 cents per thousand cubic feet from an old price of 52.87 cents. He said the increase was effective to the company Nov. 1, but will not be retroactive to the firm's customers. The proposed increased rates would go into effect Jan. 1. Intermountain Gas Co. has had a recent history of a rising rate of return on investment. Between 1967 and 1971 the gas company's rate of return leaped from 5.5 to 8.89 per cent of plant investment, IPUC figures show.

However, the commission's statistics also show that the rate of return dropped slightly to 8.4 per cent in 1972. Intermountain Gas estimates, not yet verified, by the IPUC, show the rate of return through March 1973 at 5.66 per cent. Smith said the current rate increase request was prompted by the Canadian government's nationalization of gas wells in British Columbia. Intermountain Gas is asking permission to pass the increased wholesale cost on to customers with the latest request, according to Smith. He said the earlier rate increase request was "what we hoped to keep for ourselves" to cover increased costs of labor and material. The firm "wouldn't get to keep any of the last increase," Smith said. "If our costs go up, we have to pass them on."

Cattle rustling serious

Times-News Capitol Bureau
BOISE — Cattle rustling is a "pretty serious business" in Idaho, according to the state brand inspector, but not as sophisticated as it's become in other parts of the country.
 J. Burns Beal told the Idaho

Press Club Wednesday there have been about seven court convictions in the past year for cattle theft, and about 700 head of cattle lost. Some of them have been recovered, Beal said, but many disappeared. Beal said it was almost an impossibility to catch a man in the process of rustling cattle and it is necessary to track a thief after the crime has been committed.

Under a reclassification of the branding law, effective July 1, Beal told newsmen, all law enforcement officers in Idaho are ex-officio brand inspectors. He said the Brand Inspection Office has sponsored classes for some of the state's police officers to become familiar with reading branding of cattle as a crime prevention step.

There are about 60 employees in the brand office, Beal said, and although state law gives them "wide law enforcement powers, his orders are to be careful in exercising authority.

The brand inspector also said that unless federal fuel allocations gave high priorities to cattle shipments, the industry would suffer in the coming months.

TF bridge site warning given

TWIN FALLS — A construction official warned people to stay off the towers at the Perrine Bridge construction site.

Doug Spilley, Perrine Memorial Bridge project manager for Allied Structural Steel Co., said it is impossible for the firm to physically keep people off the towers, which are located on both sides of the bridge.

He said the towers will be fenced eventually but for safety, "absolutely no unauthorized person" is allowed on them.

Indian Hills land eyed

BOISE — The state director of the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) said Wednesday the federal government would try to make sure that the Indian Hills project sees continued farming use for at least one more year.

William L. Mathews met with the State Land Board to discuss roughly 3,600 acres of the project south of Hammett.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said he invited Mathews to meet with board members because of his concern for the economy of the area.

Several land entries were filed in the area ten years ago and they have been farmed since that time. Recent federal court action, however, has determined the entries were invalid, and ownership of the land is expected to revert to the BLM as soon as the court judgment is entered.

Andrus told land board members that the area's economy had been badly hurt recently because of the opening of a new stretch of highway and a change in Union Pacific operations. He suggested the possibility of making a state lease land section for some of the land involved.

The state is currently picking parcels of BLM land in lieu of state endowment land it surrendered to the federal government early this century when national forests were set up.

In response to a question from Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park, another BLM official said it would take at least six months to move a land selection through the federal bureaucracy. Superintendent of public instruction D. F. Engelking also raised a question about ownership of existing water rights on the project. Mathews said the BLM hoped to lease the land for farming for 1974 to an area farmer. In addition to helping the economy he said, planting the ground would also help stabilize erosion by wind action this spring.

Decorated tree sale set in SV

SUN VALLEY — Live, individually decorated Christmas trees will be on sale Friday through Sunday in Sun Valley.

The sale, sponsored by the Moritz Community Hospital Auxiliary, will be conducted in conjunction with the annual Sun Valley Creative Arts sale, which will feature a wide range of arts and crafts by Idaho artists.

auxiliary members, are potted and, according to auxiliary president Lila Corcock, will carry care and planting instructions.

The auxiliary will have decorated gift boxes on sale and will provide gift wrapping for items purchased at the creative arts sale. The 1974 auxiliary calendar will also be available.

The creative arts sale will include paintings, ceramics, photography, weaving, taxidermy, stitchery, jewelry, woodcrafts and quilted pillows. Twenty-five per cent of the proceeds will benefit the creative arts center.

News executive talks to Rotary

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls newspaper executive Wednesday criticized efforts to force reporters to reveal their news sources.

Times-News General Manager William Howard told Twin Falls Rotarians that reporters should not be jailed for refusing to divulge their sources.

"The sanctity of the source is of the greatest importance to the free flow of information," Howard said.

Because of the jailing, he said, many states are passing "shield laws" to protect reporters. He said these laws are a "mistake" because they "compromise the First Amendment." Shield laws which guarantee reporters complete protection from prosecution are a mistake because newsmen must be held accountable for their stories, he added.

During the question period following an Associated Press film on press freedom, a Rotarian questioned why the press is not as concerned with protecting individuals from unfair innuendo as it is with protecting its own freedom.

Howard said the press is concerned with individuals' rights. He said letters to the editor are printed. With reference to court cases, he said the court retains the right to hold back information which might prejudice the jury from the press.

Proficiency test given

TWIN FALLS — The proficiency test was administered to six members of Bethel No. 56 International Order of Jobs Daughters at a meeting Tuesday night.

Barbara Hawkins, Sheryl Armstrong and Linda Armstrong sang a tribute to the honored queen. Members sang Christmas carols for the librarian's report.

Lorraine Walker was jobe of the meeting. Teri Sobotka was robe jobe. Jobe booster was Pat Breeding.

Mary Jones and Teri Sobotka were birthday honorees. Kristen Kolb introduced her parents Mr. and Mrs. Roger Kolb.

A caroling party is planned for Dec. 22.

"Round" quartet singing was featured and a gift exchange. Russell Bennett led the group in a thankful holiday prayer after which refreshments were served. The evening closed with a medley of songs by the Sweet Adelines.

The next regular practice will be at 8 p.m. Jan. 8 at the Methodist Church. Anyone interested in joining the group is invited. More information can be obtained by phoning Wanda Dimnick, president, 733-9096.

Surge expected

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The President of the Southern Pacific Transportation Co. reports that railroad personnel are preparing for an expected surge in business as a result of fuel shortages.

B.F. Blaggini said business is up 10 to 13 per cent over last year as freight shippers switch to the railroad because of the energy crisis.

"Railroads move four times as much freight per gallon of fuel as trucks and 125 times as much as aircraft," he said here after an inspection tour of railroad facilities.

Senator Sam won't run for new term in 1974

(c) N. Y. Times Service
 WASHINGTON — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., the 77-year-old legal scholar and raconteur who gained national prominence as chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, announced Wednesday he would not run for re-election next year.

The North Carolina Democrat said that his age was the only reason for his retirement. "If I should seek re-election in 1974," the senator said in a written statement, "I would be asking North Carolinians to return me to the Senate for a term which would extend beyond the 84th anniversary of my birth."

"Since time takes a constantly accelerating toll of those of us who live many years, it is simply not reasonable for me to assume that my eyes will remain undimmed and my natural force stay unabated for so long a time."

Ervin was appointed to the Senate in 1954 to fill a vacancy and was elected over only token opposition in 1956, 1962 and 1968. However, had he decided to seek re-election next year, in the opinion of North Carolina political experts, he would have faced formidable opponents for the first time.

Ervin came to the Senate after a career as a lawyer and judge in his home state, and he built a reputation as an authority on the constitution and other legal matters.

He took a leading role in the congressional attempts to thwart civil rights legislation in the 1960's, arguing that the constitution left such issues to the states. At the same time, he was the foremost advocate in the Senate for protecting individuals from interference by government agencies.

Sutherland drops $1 million suit

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — William R. Sutherland, to the relief of the United States Marine Corps, has admitted that he is William R. Sutherland and not his cousin or doppelganger. With that, Sutherland dropped his $1 million claim against the city and the Marines, admitted he was a deserter from the corps and accepted a discharge in "a dishonorable category," a Marine spokesman said Tuesday.

Sutherland, 27, and the Marines have been at odds over his identity since last June.

He was working as a zoo keeper when the city police, acting on a request from the Marines, arrested him as a deserter. Sutherland said he had never been in the Marines but was honorably discharged from the Army.

The Marines pointed out that he looked just like Joseph Sutherland, a Marine deserter. Sutherland argued that the deserter must be a lookalike cousin of his, or his brother.

The cousin, he said, was in the Marines. Fingerprint evidence was unclear, the Marines said. Sutherland filed a claim against the Marines and the city police for false arrest and demanded they clear his name. Sutherland and the Marines were to fight out the quarrel in federal court here today.

Panel appoints Nixon probers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Republican has been named to head a four-month impeachment investigation against President Nixon, according to Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., of the House Judiciary Committee.

Although Rodino would not reveal the name of his choice for special counsel even to committee members, a committee source said it was likely to be John M. Doar, former head of the Justice Department's civil rights division.

Doar, 52, joined the Justice Department during a GOP administration and led its historic civil rights activities in the 1960s under Democratic presidents.

Rodino called a news conference today (8:30 a.m. MST) to introduce his selection.

Rodino said the special counsel, who will head a staff that eventually would include about 45 lawyers and investigators, was "a man of the highest integrity."

He chose a Republican, he said, because he would "lend the bipartisan tone I think is necessary." Republican members of the committee have been charging Rodino with conducting the impeachment inquiry in a partisan manner.

They also have accused Democrats on the committee of stalling the inquiry in order to drag it out through the fall elections, but Rodino said Wednesday he expected to have a recommendation for the House to vote on in April.

Doar was appointed to the Justice Department in 1960 by President Dwight D. Eisenhower and was an assistant attorney general from 1960 until 1967. He took over the civil rights division in 1965.

Since he left Justice, Doar has been director of the Bedford-Stuyvesant Restoration Corp., a community action group in New York City.

Apparently in answer to GOP charges, Rodino also disclosed the one-month congressional recess beginning this weekend may be interrupted for at least 15 of his 38 committee members.

The 15 senior members, who will form an advisory group for Rodino and the full committee, may be recalled to keep abreast of developments in the inquiry the staff has been conducting without a special counsel.

The inquiry into what are impeachable offenses has been divided into four categories, including personal finances, campaign finances, Watergate and related matters and "failure to govern according to law," such as impounding funds.

Servicemen

RICHFIELD — DeVon Carlos Dayley is taking basic training at Lackland AFB.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Dayley, Richfield, and is married to the former Lori Pridmore.

Upon graduation from Lackland, he will go to Keesler AFB, Miss., for further training. His wife and daughter will join him there.

Meanest he's met

WARRENTON, Mo. (UPI) — When two men pulled alongside O.W. Williams in a pickup truck Wednesday during a snowstorm, Williams expected them to help him get his stalled car moving again.

Instead, the men pushed his car into a deep ravine and stole his snow scraper.

"Those are the two meanest men I ever met," Williams said.

Moves out

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Declaring that "our marriage has not returned to normal," Barbara Mandel, wife of Gov. Marvin Mandel, moved out of the governor's mansion today, where she has lived without her estranged husband for almost six months.

The governor announced last July that he was leaving his wife of 32 years to marry Jeanne Dorsey, 36, a southern Maryland divorcee.

GM, Ford innocent

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co., found innocent Wednesday of criminally conspiring to fix prices in the auto fleet market, still face lawsuits from customers asking more than $2 billion in damages.

The innocent verdict, however, lessens the chances the two automakers will ever have to pay the $2 billion damages sought by 38 states and cities and five fleet customers who had to pay higher prices when discounts were eliminated in 1970. These 43 price fixing cases are pending in federal court in Chicago.

Israel, Cambodia win funds

(c) N. Y. Times Service
 WASHINGTON — House and Senate conferees agreed Wednesday on a compromise foreign aid appropriations bill that provides $2.2 billion in emergency military aid to Israel and $200 million for Cambodia.

At the same time, the conferees imposed a one-third cut in the proposed military aid to other countries, reducing the program of military grant assistance from the $685 million requested by the administration to $450 million.

As the foreign aid appropriations bill finally emerged from months of uncertainty and growing resistance in Congress, it provides for approximately $5.5 billion in economic and military aid in the present fiscal year. The Congressional grant was slightly more than $1 billion less than requested by the administration.

The largest single item in the appropriations bill was $2.2 billion in emergency military aid for Israel requested by President Nixon toward the end of the Arab-Israeli war in October. Most of this aid is expected to go in the form of grants to Israel, which now has purchased all the arms it has obtained from the United States.

Some of the aid will be used to cancel the bills that Israel has run up in buying about $1 billion worth of arms from the United States during and after the war. Administration officials have talked in terms of supplying Israel with about $1 billion in additional arms for the stated purpose of maintaining the military balance in the Middle East.

Carnation, chief fined over gifts

(c) N. Y. Times Service
 WASHINGTON — Carnation Milk Co. Wednesday became the ninth corporation to plead guilty to allegations brought by the Watergate special prosecutor that it illegally gave company funds to political fundraisers.

H. Everett Olson, chairman of the company, pleaded guilty for himself and for Carnation, United States District Judge George J. Hart fined the company the maximum $5,000 and Olson the maximum of $1,000.

The contributions totalled $8,900. Of the total, $2,900 went to the finance committee for the re-election of the president; $1,000 to the Senate-House majority dinner, an annual Washington affair sponsored by the House and the Senate Republican campaign committees, and $5,000 to the Southern California presidential dinner committee.

The special prosecutor's office said the company came forward voluntarily in admitting to the contributions.

Lawyer admits 'mistake'

(c) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — A federal judge agreed today to restrict the public disclosure of documents in a suit against the Nixon administration for alleged favors to the milk industry. A lawyer for Ralph Nader admitted that he had played a subpoenaed White House tape recording at a cocktail party.

The lawyer, William A. Dobrovir, said in the United States District Court here that "I made a very foolish mistake" in playing portions of the tape while having drinks with friends Monday evening.

The tape, which records a meeting between Nixon and milk industry officials in 1971, was given to Dobrovir by the White House last week in response to a subpoena.

Today, William B. Jones, the district court judge, agreed to a Justice Department request to issue a protective order sealing all subpoenaed documents and tapes related to the milk case until they had been presented to the court and put on the public record.

However, Jones refused another Justice Department request, made by acting Deputy Assistant Attorney General Irwin Goldbloom, to order Dobrovir and other lawyers to refrain from talking to the press or making other public statements on the case.

He also declined to censure Dobrovir, who, he said, is "recognized as an able, honorable and responsible lawyer."

The Nader lawsuit alleges that the Nixon administration gave special favors to milk producers, including a sharp increase in milk price supports, in return for heavy campaign contributions.

The tape played at the cocktail party recorded a meeting on March 31, 1971 — just a few days before the administration reversed its policy and raised the milk price supports — between Nixon and milk industry executives.

Lawyers familiar with the case say that tape is not nearly as crucial as the recording of a meeting later that day between the President and several of his cabinet officers, at which the decision to raise the support level reportedly was reached.

While Judge Jones was given a copy of this second tape, over which the White House claims executive privilege, Dobrovir was not. He received only the first tape. Other sources familiar with the first tape said it consisted largely of Nixon giving a "pep talk" to the milk industry.

Dobrovir explained in court today that he had been going home Monday evening with a cassette recording he had made from the original White House tape in his pocket when he stepped off for a drink at the home of a friend in the fashionable Georgetown section of Washington. There were six other people present, including an official of ABC News, Kevin Delany.

"Then I made a foolish mistake," Dobrovir told Judge Jones, who had summoned him for an explanation. "I said, 'I've got in my pocket the hottest item in town.'"

While the group sat around the fireplace with drinks, Dobrovir said, "We played perhaps 'five minutes' of the tape."

He then told the judge that his "second mistake" was that "in the relaxation of the moment I assumed it would be off the record." He also said that he had made it clear to Delany that it was off the record.

When asked about the circumstances, Delany, who is director of television news for ABC, said he had agreed only to regard the contents of the tape as off the record, not the fact that Dobrovir had played the tape at the party.

The following evening an ABC correspondent, David Schoumacher, reported on the air the events of the cocktail party tape session.

"I am a very embarrassed man," Dobrovir confessed in court today.

Detroit strike ends

DETROIT (UPI) — A three-day wildcat strike that choked off the flow of foodstuffs to more than 300 supermarkets in southeast Michigan ended Wednesday night.

Teamsters union pickets outside warehouses of three major supermarket chains returned to work as housewives continued a shopping spree that emptied shelves in dozens of stores.

"Some goods already are rolling," a supermarket spokesman said. "More goods will roll soon."

The strike, in defiance of court orders and union leaders, began at midnight Sunday — affecting almost 5 million Detroit area residents.

Judge Sirica sides with president

(c) N. Y. Times Service
 WASHINGTON — Judge John J. Sirica sided with President Nixon today and ruled that nearly all of two of the tapes sought in the Watergate Case and part of a third were covered by executive privilege and thus would not be turned over to the special Watergate prosecution.

Sirica said that he had based his ruling largely on his finding, after listening to the tapes in his chambers, and that there was nothing on the three segments that related to Watergate.

The ruling sustained, with only slight exceptions, both the descriptions of the contents of tapes and the claims of privilege that Nixon had made in his statement to the court on Nov. 28. It was the president's first real victory in his protracted battle with the prosecution over the tapes, and perhaps, an assiat to his credibility as well.

The ruling also appeared to indicate that the prosecution's subpoena for tapes and notes of the White House conversations — the cause of months of historic litigation — was yielding somewhat less than the prosecution had originally hoped and forecast.

The prosecution issued the subpoena last summer on the ground that tapes and notes of the nine conversations were "relevant and important evidence in the (Watergate) Grant-Jury's Investigation."

It backed up its argument by explaining, for each of the nine conversations, why Watergate-related information it hoped to get, or on the basis of testimony before the Senate last summer, might be expected to get.

Judge Sirica said today, in effect, that at least some of these conversations did not live up to the prosecution's expectations. Included were the June 20, 1972, discussion between Nixon and first John D. Ehrlichman and then H. R. Haldeman; his June 30, 1972, conversation with Haldeman and John N. Mitchell, who resigned later that day as chief of the re-election campaign; and to some extent, Nixon's Sept. 15, 1972 meeting with Haldeman and John W. Dean III, his former counsel.

Earlier, the White House had announced that two of the other conversations covered by the subpoena were never recorded.

It subsequently announced that the Watergate-related segment of Nixon's June 20 discussion with Haldeman had been erased by an 18-minute buzzing sound.

The prosecution said this afternoon that it accepted Sirica's ruling and would not appeal it.

4 of 10 welfare cases ineligible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four of every ten welfare families are ineligible or incorrectly paid, costing taxpayers $1.17 billion a year, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said today.

In a separate report, HEW said there is new evidence from experiments in New Jersey and Pennsylvania that even if the government guarantees a minimum income, the working poor will continue to work for a living. The conclusion is important for welfare policy makers who are preparing a new welfare reform proposal.

Findings from an intensive six-month study of the nation's largest and costliest welfare program — Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) — represent the highest level of welfare error ever reported by HEW.

Based on a national sample of 44,000 recipients this year, Weinberger said 10.2 per cent of the 10.8 million AFDC recipients are ineligible, 22.8 per cent are overpaid and 8.1 per cent underpaid.

New York state had the highest rate of ineligibility — 17.5 per cent of its case loads. New Hampshire had the highest rates of overpayment — 40.9 per cent, and North Carolina the highest percentage of underpayments — 10.2 per cent. North Dakota had the lowest ineligibility rate, Arkansas the lowest overpayments and Maine the lowest underpayments.

About $7 billion a year in federal and state aid is provided to 7.8 million children and 3 million adults through AFDC. States are threatened with a loss of their federal share, about 54 per cent on a national average, if they fail to reduce the rate of ineligibility to 3 per cent and overpayments to 5 per cent by July, 1975.

Group says policy threatens grizzlies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A conservation group Tuesday sued the Interior Department and the National Parks Service charging that the government has embarked on a policy that will result in extinction of the grizzly bear.

The Fund for Animals, which claims a membership of 50,000 persons across the country, said the purpose of the suit filed in U.S. District Court here was to force the government to file an environmental impact statement on its bear management policies at Yellowstone National Park.

In 1970, the Parks Service, despite advice from some of its own experts, closed the garbage dumps in Yellowstone because it said it wanted to protect visitors from the animals.

The Fund for Animals and other conservation groups contend the dumps should have been phased out gradually because the bears had come to rely on them and are now searching for food elsewhere, including campsites.

IRS orders station to give gas away

MOUNT SHASTA, Calif. (UPI) — Service station operator Russell Brownell said Wednesday that under orders from the Internal Revenue Service he will give away 3,600 gallons of gas this weekend on a first come, first served basis.

Brownell said a bookkeeping error caused his station in this winter resort in Northern California to overcharge customers one cent per gallon during federal fuel price freezes.

Brownell said the error, discovered by the IRS last month, amounted to 3,600 gallons of gas.

"We anticipate it all can be given away in one day on Saturday," he said.

Two Twin Falls men charged in burglaries

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls men were arrested on charges of first degree burglary.

Gerald Goldson, 18, and Dennis L. Childs, 20, were arrested late Tuesday evening following the theft of furniture cushions from an apartment at the North Campus Apartments complex on North Washington Street.

Detective Capt. Tim Qualls said approximately $650 in stolen merchandise from other burglaries at the apartment complex during the past month was recovered following the arrest of the two men. Both were residents of the complex. Goldson and Childs remain in the county jail in lieu of $1,000 bond each.

Fuel supply tight for farm purposes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The supply situation for farm gasoline and diesel fuel remains "tight to very tight," the Agriculture Department says in a weekly report.

In a summary for the week ending Dec. 14, the department said the northeast is experiencing more of a shortage of gasoline than diesel.

The reverse is true in the central states, it said, adding that the situation is critical for both products in the mountain and Western states.

The department said farmers having the most difficulty getting fuel are those who have not yet completed harvest, who are preparing land for spring crops, or who engage in year-round feeding such as dairying.

Farmers have expressed concern that there will not be enough fuel for spring work and distributors have notified them that supplies will be reduced, the report said.

In several states have reported that the companies are complying with provisions of federal regulations giving agriculture priority on fuel allocations. But several others complained that distributors are not heeding the new guidelines, the department said.

The report said distributors are continuing to base their allocations on 1972 use because they say they have not yet received new instructions from their parent oil companies.

New farm customers and farmers who have expanded production or converted from gasoline operating equipment to diesel fuel continue to suffer, the report said.

It noted that many are getting fuel from retail pumps but that some retail outlets are beginning to stop sales for bulk containers. It also said there appears to be an increase in the number of distributors who have either stopped or cut down on the number of farm deliveries in order to reduce overhead expenses.

In the one bright note in the summary, the department said supplies of propane remain "adequate" in most states.

However, it said there is a critical shortage of the crop-drying fuel in parts of Nebraska, Oklahoma and Minnesota.

It said some Nebraska grain dryers are continuing to close down because of lack of fuel.

TF lab move set

TWIN FALLS — The University of Idaho Bean Research Laboratory, which for 50 years has been located behind the "bug house" or entomology lab in Twin Falls, is moving to Kimberly.

Dr. Bill Dean, a plant disease specialist at the University of Idaho-ruth bean lab, said the move will consolidate university personnel working on beans and will "conserve hard-earned tax money."

Dean said the university has been conducting bean research in Kimberly since about 1950, when it purchased an 80-acre plot near the town. However, since there were no office facilities at Kimberly, the laboratory staff largely worked out of its offices in Twin Falls.

No new offices have been built, but the lab has been allowed to "encroach" upon U. S. Department of Soil and Water Conservation offices for an indefinite period of time, Dean said.

Except for the staff consolidation and the elimination of one secretarial position with the bean laboratory, Dean knew of no other changes occurring with the move.

He said the laboratory will continue the research it has been primarily involved with for many years: the development of disease resistant varieties of beans.

Tobacco use increasing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department says tobacco use during the current marketing year may about match last season's 2 billion pounds, exceeding the 1973 crop of 1.8 billion pounds.

Officials said this would result in a further reduction in carryover from the 3.3 billion pounds at the start of the 1973-74 marketing year.

They said tobacco supplies for 1973-74 were down 3 per cent from last season because of reduced beginning stocks, but said the crop was turning out 2 per cent above last year.

Despite higher U.S. tobacco prices and smaller supplies, exports were expected to remain near last season's total, they said.

They added that domestic tobacco use during 1973-74 probably would total a little more than the last marketing year's level. Some decline in leaf tobacco use per cigarette may be more than offset by the continuing gain in cigarette output, they report.

In a summary of the tobacco situation, they noted that U.S. cigarette manufacturers have made sizable unit gains both here and overseas during 1973, and have increased their output by about five per cent over 1972.

They said continued population gains and a further recovery in per capita use should push cigarette output to another record in 1974.

They said exports of U.S. unmanufactured tobacco were sizeable throughout 1973 and might approach 1972's 605 million pounds. They noted the 1972 total included some strike-delayed exports from the previous year but that the 1973 shipments have benefited from currency realignments and shortfalls in foreign production.

Total exports from the 1974 calendar year ease-off, they reported, but should exceed the 588 million-pound average for 1963-72.

Graze fees hiked

MISSOULA, Mont. (UPI) — Livestock grazing fees on national forests in the five-state Northern Region will go up about 20 cents per animal month next year.

An animal month is the term used to describe one animal grazing for one month.

Approximately 2,850 operators now hold permits for grazing 235,000 cattle and 85,500 sheep on about six million acres in the Northern Region national forests.

Cattle fees will range from 99 cents to $1.26 per animal month in 1974 compared with 77 cents to $1.09 this year. Sheep fees in 1974 will range from 20 1/2 cents to 25 cents compared with 16 1/2 cents to 21 1/2 cents per month per animal month this year.

The 1974 increases, the Forest Service said, are a continuation of a grazing fee program begun in 1969 to raise fees to fair market value by 1980.

First Forecaster

The first systematic weather reports in the United States are attributed to the Reverend John Campanius Holm, chaplain of a settlement near present-day Wilmington, Delaware, who began making regular observations only 24 years after the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock in 1620.

TF post on board to Heidel

TWIN FALLS — Earl Heidel, Castleford farmer and retired school teacher, was named to the Twin Falls County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee this week.

He was chosen by delegates to the ASC county convention.

Carryover members are Carl Boyd, Twin Falls, serving his third year of a three year term, and Milton Ballard, Kimberly, serving his second year of a three year term.

The organization of the county committee for 1974 will be Boyd, chairman, Ballard, vice chairman, and Heidel, member. The newly elected alternates are Jack Claiborn Jr., Kimberly, and Jay Cobb, of Filer.

ASC county and community farmer-committees are in charge of local administration of such national farm programs as the Rural Environmental Assistance Program, the cropland adjustment program, the feed grain program, the wheat program, the wool program, the sugar program, commodity price-support loans, storage facility loans, and the beekeeper indemnity program.

Farm

Expansion planned

BOISE (UPI) — The Food Producers of Idaho, formed primarily to deal with farm labor problems, are seeking additional membership and hope to branch out into other areas of interest to all agricultural groups.

Jack Pierce, Malta, president of the producers, said the group met with representatives of some 20 member organizations Monday to discuss the expanded role of the agricultural group.

Land use planning, environmental protection agency activities, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, proposed changes in the state tax structure and other issues all came before the group.

He said they plan to meet in Boise Jan. 21 at 10 a.m. at the Holiday Inn to discuss matters coming before the legislature of interest to agriculture groups in the state.

Tougher rulings proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department Tuesday proposed tougher regulations to protect the environment from effects of mining exploration and operation.

The new regulations would apply to the 140 million acres of national forest land, including wilderness administered by the department's National Forest Service.

Miners and prospectors would be required to notify the Forest Service in advance of plans for exploration or development of deposits. They would also have to submit a plan for restoring the surface of the affected area to a natural looking state within a year or less, provided a longer period is not allowed by the government. A minimum bond of $2,000 would be posted to insure the restoration work.

Miners may presently bulldoze in the area to look for near-surface mineral deposits and leave mine spoils or tailings in piles where they can run off into streams or lakes. Though the department has access roads to mining sites, it has no authority to require steps be taken to protect the surroundings.

Exports up

WASHINGTON — Exports of cottonseed oil from this country Oct. 1, 1972, through September rose to 582 million pounds, 20 per cent above the same period a year ago, the Agriculture Department confirmed today.

Egyptian imports of 237 million pounds accounted for 41 per cent of total U. S. cottonseed oil sales and for 40 per cent of the export increase. Venezuela was the second largest market, taking 14 per cent of the total.

Solons battle logjam in pre-vacation rush

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress today grappled with complex social security, energy and appropriation bills in an effort to adjourn by the weekend and get home by Christmas.

With time running out, these issues still were left to be resolved:

Social Security—Senate-House conferees meet today on a two-step, 11 per cent increase in benefits. Prospects are they will agree and put off some Senate-passed riders, such as broadening Medicare to pay the cost of drugs for non-hospitalized patients, until next year.

Defense Appropriations—The $73.7 billion measure is expected to pass the House today. The Senate will concur shortly.

Foreign Aid Appropriations—Conferees Wednesday night agreed to a $5.67 billion 1974 foreign aid bill, splitting the difference between two differing versions. The bill now goes back to each house for approval before being sent to the White House.

Second Supplemental Appropriations—The House Wednesday returned a $1.6 billion catchall package to conference, demanding it include $2 million for taking oil from the Elk Hills, Calif. and Alaskan military reserves.

Energy — Congressional leaders have said there will be no adjournment until legislation is passed giving President Nixon broad emergency powers to deal with the energy crisis.

Moving with unusual swiftness, the Senate and House moved other legislation closer to enactment.

The Senate passed 86-2 legislation creating the Federal Emergency Energy Administration, the office headed by William E. Simon; passed 77-19 and sent to the White House legislation giving the District of Columbia partial home-rule; approved 83-1 a bill providing a variety of medical services for people left out of private health insurance plans; and approved authorization to siphon oil from the Elk Hills reserves. The House passed, and sent to the Senate, a bill to create an Energy Research and Development Administration to handle all energy research programs aimed at making the United States self-sufficient in energy needs.

Senate-House conferees reached agreement on legislation to ease the northeast rail crisis and on a bill providing operating subsidies for the first time for rail and bus commuter lines facing imminent threat of collapse.

President to resign, report says

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Gallagher Presidents' Report Wednesday predicted that President Nixon will resign next year because the demands on his energies and the implications of the Watergate scandal will weaken his health.

In its lightly written predictions for 1974, which are distributed to business executives, the weekly newsletter said, "Nixon to resign for health reasons before year-end. Vice President Gerald Ford to become 38th President. Demands on U.S. President to intensify in areas of energy crisis, inflation, unemployment, international relations."

"Nixon dissipates efforts by fighting on too many fronts in effort to salvage image. Added pressure comes from Republican party pros. Look for Democratic legislators to have 'field day' with 'lame duck' President."

The report also predicted an annual inflation rate of 8 per cent and a business slowdown during the first six months of 1974 that will boost unemployment to 8 per cent, reduce business profits and drive the Dow Jones industrial average down to the 700-point level.

There will be a stock market recovery in the second half, however, the report said, and the Dow will soar up to 1,000.

Nevada sets limit

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada, the only state without a statewide speed limit, now plans Wednesday to comply with the new proposed federal 55 mile per hour limit.

The State Highway Board authorized a $20,000 program to install new signs and change existing ones to denote the 55-mile per hour limit.

There will be 65 locations for the speed limit signs but motorists in many cases will be able to travel 50 to 100 miles without sighting any sign at all because of the wide open spaces in Nevada.

World's Jews mark festival of lights

By United Press International
Jews around the world marked the beginning of Hanukkah Wednesday night, the eight-day festival of lights. Jewish soldiers on the front in the Middle East in Danced and told jokes while in New York, rabbis lighted candles and Jewish choruses sang songs.

Troops in Israeli-occupied Syria, near Muzart Belt Jann, laughed and sang as a traveling navy group entertained them. Local villagers watched as four girl soldiers in light-fitting jeans and sweaters played holiday music on an electric guitar, organ and drums.

In New York and other American cities, Jewish families lighted the first of eight candles on the menorah, which is then put near a window. The tradition is to light another candle daily until all eight are burning.

The holiday, which coincidentally overlaps the Christians' celebration of the birth of Jesus Christ, involves family gatherings, gift-giving and religious services.

The celebration of Hanukkah began 2,100 years ago when Jewish insurgents successfully rebelled against a Syrian ruler of the Greek empire in the Middle East, retaking Jerusalem and rededicating their temple.

The ancient Jews celebrated their success by lighting a small pot containing a day's supply of oil. But by some miracle, it burned eight days.

Jury visits Kent State campus

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The federal grand jury investigating the killing of four Kent State University students by National Guard troops has apparently visited the campus to view the scene of the 1970 slayings. Robert Murphy, head of the criminal division of the U.S. Justice Department, said the 23-member jury left the federal building Wednesday, but would not reveal where it went. Murphy said today's session might be the last one until after the holidays. He said the jury will not meet at all next week but would reconvene after Jan. 2.

Fast moving storms return to MV

In Falls, northside, lower Wood River Valley: Intermittent snow tonight, decreasing to flurries Friday. Windy at times. Lows tonight 15 to 20 and highs Friday 30 to 35.

Synopsis: The general weather pattern is changing back to what it was a few weeks ago, that is, fast moving weak Pacific storm systems which produce rapid changes in cloud cover and occasional brief periods of light rain or snow at about 36-hour intervals.

Holiday weekend travellers should observe the usual wintertime precautions by carrying chains and a shovel, but no major road blocking snowstorms are in sight at this time.

US agency so secret name is classified

By MARK REDNER
Congressional Quarterly
WASHINGTON — A special Senate committee which recently recommended public disclosure of more information about federal intelligence agencies may have inadvertently taken its own advice.

According to sources in Congress, who asked not to be identified, the NRO spends in the neighborhood of $1-billion a year for high-altitude reconnaissance flights. Using both satellites and planes, the agency conducts surveillance for a number of intelligence organizations on a contract basis.

The chairman of the Senate appropriations oversight committee, John L. McClellan, D-Ark., was one who declined to discuss the secret agency. The committee's staff counsel, Guy G. McConnell, answered all questions about the office with a terse "no comment." He did disclose, however, that the CIA had notified the committee that inquiries were being made about the NRO.

Another member of one of the Senate oversight committees, Stuart Symington, D-Mo., agreed to discuss the agency, but then denied having ever heard of a National Reconnaissance Office. He also denied being surprised that an intelligence office had surfaced that no one apparently had ever heard of. "Intelligence activities are the least supervised aspect of our national security policy," he said.

Perhaps the most typical response of those questioned was the one of Rep. Euclen N. Nedzi, D-Mich., chairman of the House Armed Services Intelligence Operations Subcommittee and a member of that small congressional club privy to most intelligence information: "I've told you just about all that I can."

The ad hoc Senate Committee on Secret and Confidential Documents issued a report Oct. 12 suggesting that the government begin printing the over-all budget figures for several agencies engaged in classified activities.

The emphasis on secrecy may explain why the agency was able to maintain its anonymity on Capitol Hill despite the fact that each year the agency was able to maintain its anonymity on Capitol Hill despite the fact that each year it receives an appropriation from Congress.

Under the CIA Act of 1949, certain intelligence agencies are exempt from the normal budget reporting procedures to Congress required of federal departments.

Both the authors of the committee report and the members of the committee were unaware of the security slip. Staff aides on the committee told Congressional Quarterly they were uncertain how reference to the NRO had appeared in print when, according to intelligence officials, the name of the agency itself was classified.

The existence of the first three agencies has been widely known. The National Reconnaissance Office has not. It has maintained its anonymity on Capitol Hill, in the Pentagon and the CIA.

Couple recites vows in Murtaugh rites

TWIN FALLS — Marlene Mury Lattimer and Thomas M. Melody were married in a double ring ceremony with Rev. Dr. Winford Secord performing the evening wedding in the Murtaugh Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Lattimer, Murtaugh. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Melody, Twin Falls.

The sanctuary was decorated with two large green urns of yellow chrysanthemums accented with red oak leaves, laciniae, gold, yellow and orange wheat, and leather fern in a sunburst arrangement flanked with gold and white candleabra with gold tapers.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a floor-length gown of pearly silk with a standup mandarin collar of lace and seed pearls. The sleeves were long with lace covered ruffles. The princess-style gown was trimmed with an overlay front of scalloped tulle and lace.

Her veil of elbow-length french illusion was held by a camelot cap of matching lace and seed pearls. The dress and veil were made by the bride and her mother.

She carried a cascade bouquet of gold, bronze and yellow pompons and chrysanthemums accented with yellow illusion and yellow satin picot with smaller bouquet attached.

The bride wore a drop pearl necklace from her mother.

Carol Lattimer was maid of honor for her sister.

Bridesmaids were Rita Cole, Twin Falls, and Marie Melody, Twin Falls, sister of the bridegroom.

Candlelighters were Lori Thornton, Twin Falls, and Herb Melody, brother of the bridegroom.

Ray Esslinger, Twin Falls, was best man. Ushers were Carl Blessing, Twin Falls, and Jim Lattimer, Pullman, Wash., brother of the bride.

Mrs. Laurel Buel played the wedding music. Patrice Peterson and Judy Goodman sang, accompanied by Sharon Rowsell. She also accompanied Carl Costello, who sang the "Lord's Prayer" while the couple knelt at the altar.

Vickie Van Buren, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book for the reception. Those in charge of the gifts were Mrs. Judy Perry, Kevin Perry and Sharon Wilson, all cousins of the bride; and Ben Melody, brother of the bridegroom.

A miniature cherub and doves topped the three-tiered cake decorated with orange and yellow chrysanthemums cascading down the three layers frosted with scallops of white frosting. The cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Bertha Wilson, Twin Falls, aunt of the bride.

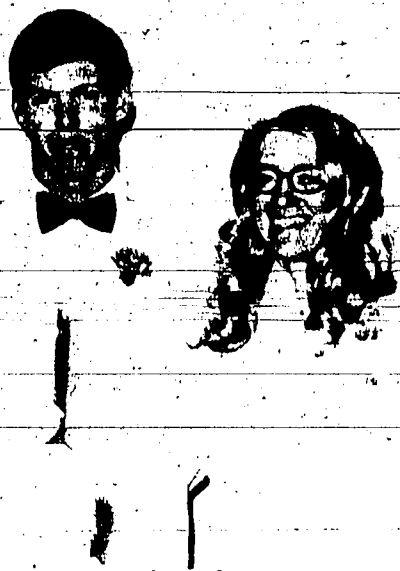

The bride's table was covered with a white voile drape over yellow. Cake was flanked with compote arrangements of bronze and yellow pompons with gold tapers.

Guests were served on tables covered with floral print cloths centered with baskets holding orange, yellow and bronze pompons accented with red oats.

Serving were Mrs. Guy Lattimer, Twin Falls; Mrs. Roy Willard Lattimer and Mrs. Roy Goible, both Burley; Mrs. Nora Andersen, Hansen, and Mrs. Bertha Wilson, Twin Falls, all aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Judy Perry, cousin of the bride.

Leann Mathews, Carol Brockman, Kris Barkes and Monica Smith were in charge of the tables.

Special guests were Mrs. Alva Lambert, Long Beach, Calif., grandmother of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Andersen, grandparents of the bride.

Fords plan Colorado holiday vacation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford and his family plan to fly to Colorado for a Christmas skiing vacation aboard an Air Force jet, his press secretary said today.

Spokesman Paul Millich said that the vice president and a party of about 30 would use an Air Force C-135, the military version of the Boeing 707 transport, for the Colorado holiday.

The group will leave Washington as soon as Congress adjourns, probably Friday.

Ford flew last Saturday by helicopter with his wife and other government dignitaries to Williamsburg, Va. for a social event.

Government officials have been urged to refrain from using unnecessary fuel during the current energy crisis, but Millich said Ford was taking along 17 Secret Service agents to Colorado and they would be bumping other commercial passengers if they flew on regular airlines.

He also said that it was "impossible for Ford to go commercially because he does not know when Congress will adjourn." Millich said the vice president plans to offer seats to 10 servicemen who may wish to fly to the Denver area for the holiday season.

Seven reporters who will be traveling with Ford will be the only paying passengers and they will be charged first class fares, Millich said.

The vice president does not plan to take along any staff members and plans a "low key" traditional Yuletide vacation with his family at Vail, Colo. where he owns a condominium. He expects to return to Washington Jan. 5.

The Fords are keeping their thermostat at 68 degrees in their Alexandria, Va. home and turning out unnecessary lights, aides said.

The heater in the Ford swimming pool also has been turned off.

Better bake a batch for the Holiday Season soon.

VIENNESE CRESCENTS

- 2 cups flour
- 7 T. sugar
- 1/4 cup Challenge Butter
- 1 cup grated almonds

Sift flour before measuring. Then mix with Challenge Butter and sugar until pliable. Work in almonds. Form into small balls. Then roll each ball into 3/4" rope with tapered ends. Bend into crescents. This makes about 72 cookies. Bake on an ungreased cookie sheet at 350° for eight to ten minutes or until straw-colored. Do not let them brown. Roll in powdered sugar while warm. DEAR ABBY: A lady professor came out with the statement that it is silly to teach arithmetic because now we have calculators to do the job. She says she takes one to the grocery store with her.

While grocery shopping this morning, I picked up a three-pound package of pork chops at .69 cents a pound, marked $2.97. If I hadn't known that 3 times 70 equals $2.10, I might have paid it.

When I pointed it out to the checkout girl, she said: "Oh, that crazy machine isn't working right again!" Please tell people not to put too much confidence in machines. If they do, they're sure to get gypped.

M. L. IN GENEVA, OHIO

Calculating shopper

DEAR M. L.: Good thinking! The truism, "If you don't use it, you'll lose it," applies to the brain, too.

DEAR ABBY: May I answer that 45-year-old woman who survived breast cancer, and inquired about the possibility of having plastic surgery to replace the amputated breast, but she didn't want to appear "vain or silly"?

I had a breast removed, and later had reconstructive plastic surgery to make me "whole" again, and I can't tell you how much it did for my morale.

I am 50, and believe me, I'm no sexpot, and I also had a very understanding husband who tried to make me feel that I was still as beautiful and desirable as ever—regardless, but I had the operation for myself. I would encourage any woman who wants this type of surgery and is able to have it. Mine was done by Dr. Shattuck Hartwell of the Cleveland Clinic, and he was marvelous. WHOLE AGAIN

DEAR WHOLE AGAIN: I think it's important to add that not all women who have had breast amputations are candidates for this type of surgery, but thank you for encouraging those who can.

DEAR ABBY: Have you ever heard of the superstition, "Three times a bridesmaid, never a bride"?

I have been a bridesmaid twice and am now engaged to be married next July. A girl friend of mine, who is being married in March has asked me to be a bridesmaid at her wedding, and I want to accept, but this superstition keeps coming to mind.

Everyone I've mentioned it to says I am foolish to let something like a superstition bother me, but if something happened to prevent my being a bride, I would never forgive myself. Frankly, being a bride is far more important to me than being a bridesmaid for a third time. What do you think I should do? CAUGHT TWO BOUQUETS

DEAR CAUGHT: Feeling as you do, decline the invitation to be a bridesmaid.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WAITING FOR MY SHIP TO COME IN IN TUCSON": And if it came in, would you now how to navigate it?

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

jumped to the heart game. This series of bids leaves West on lead. He might open a diamond, but the spade suit looks far better. Once he opens a spade South is home free. He simply draws trumps with three leads; runs off four clubs in order to discard one of dummy's diamonds; concedes a diamond trick and eventually ruffs one diamond and discards the last two on the ace and king of spades. Where does the luck come in? Suppose the bidding goes differently and North becomes declarer at six hearts. East is on lead with the ace and king of diamonds and will be smart enough to cash them.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of rebidding diamonds your partner has bid two clubs over your one spade. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is another example of duplicate luck. North and South really belong in five hearts. This is all they can make if the defense starts by taking their two diamond tricks.

The bidding in the box shows how they can reach a heart slam if North elects to open one club. You can't find much fault with North's second round jump to four hearts. If anything he has underbid a trifle, and while South might not have Blackwooded to the heart slam he certainly has a pretty good hand after his partner has

"On The Mall, Downtown" — Twin Falls, also in Burley

Crowd attends local 'Messiah'

TWIN FALLS — Between 700 and 800 persons turned out Wednesday night to hear Handel's "Messiah" presented by a combined group of Magic Valley musicians.

Under the direction of Carson Wong, the Jerome High School Varsity Chorus augmented by the Magic Valley Community Chorus joined to provide a large choir. They were accompanied by the Magic Valley Chamber orchestra composed of instrumentalists from Twin Falls, Burley, Buhl and north side communities.

Soloists for the oratorio, which is a traditional part of Christmas for many music lovers, included a similar combination of age and geography.

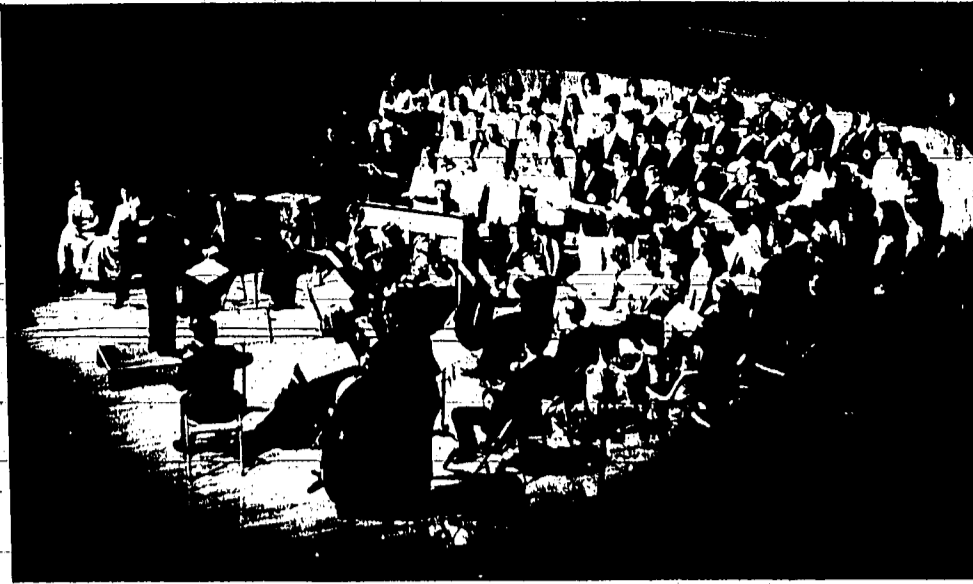

The bass and tenor soloists, Brian Atterbery and Bill

Buckendorf, are both College of Idaho music majors, while the soprano and alto soloists were Martha Mead, Twin Falls, and Billie Jo Premo, alto.

The performance was enthusiastically received with the audience breaking into applause after many of the individual numbers.

It is the first time the so-called "Christmas" sections, foretelling the Saviour's birth from the Book of Isaiah and details... from the gospel account, have been presented here in the past several years.

Some 10 to 15 years ago the oratorio was presented in Twin Falls for some years under sponsorship of the Twin Falls Music Club, and since then efforts have been made to have a joint effort with singers from both the Twin Falls area and north side.

Feds fine Burley firm

BURLEY — Palen Cattle Co., Burley, has been fined $500 and permanently enjoined from violating registration and bonding requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture said the fine was assessed by the U. S. District Court for the District of Idaho, which also permanently enjoined the firm from operating as a livestock dealer or market agency without registering and providing a reasonable bond. The firm purchases feeder cattle throughout central and northern California, southern Idaho, southern Oregon and southwestern Montana.

Train speed petition set

SHOSHONE — There is a petition being circulated in Shoshone by a citizen's group asking that the Union Pacific Railroad reduce the speed of trains within the city limits to 25 miles per hour.

The petition also calls for warning devices to be installed at both the U. S. Highway 83 and Apple Street crossings in Shoshone.

The petition asks for the reduction "to insure the safety health and welfare of those persons crossing the Union Pacific Railroad tracks within the city limits of Shoshone."

The circulation of the petition is an outgrowth of recent interest in the railroad crossings in Shoshone because of accidents during the past year and a railroad proposal for upgrading the U. S. Highway 83 crossing and closing the Apple Street crossing and increasing the speed of trains.

Creek bears mining scars

SALMON — Rehabilitation of Blackbird Creek west of Salmon is being considered by the U.S. Forest Service.

A six-mile section of the stream bears the scars of mining activity.

The forest service met with officials of the Idaho Fish and Game Department and the Idaho Department of Water Administration here to discuss the proposed watershed project to try to stabilize the stream channel.

Bob Graves, Salmon National Forest, in charge of watershed management, says plans are being developed for a project which would involve hauling out deposits of old tailings in the stream channel, installation of some water drop structures and riprap work where the bank has undercut and caved away.

He said it is hoped the project can be financed through the SEAM program of the Department of Agriculture. SEAM (Surface Environment and Mining) is a program to aid in developing methods of rehabilitation of damage from various types of mining operations and is searching for ways to minimize damage in new mining adventures.

Graves said the forest service is hoping funds can be approved for fiscal year 1975.

The official noted the undertaking would not re-establish fish habitat in the stream, a tributary to Panther Creek, which once had anadromous fish runs, but would aim at preventing further damage to Panther Creek.

today in brief

Off to Washington

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Two University of Idaho graduate students announced Wednesday they will work with the National Student Lobby in Washington, D.C., next year.

Kevin Russell, Blackfoot, and Robert Pickett, Meridian, both graduate students in political science, said they plan to leave late in January and will stay in the nation's capitol until August or until their funds run out.

TF man charged

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man was arrested Wednesday afternoon and charged with possession of marijuana.

Jack La Verne Elisinger, 18, Twin Falls, was arrested by Twin Falls police about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday and charged with illegal possession with intent to deliver a controlled substance.

Detective captain Tim Qualls said today that Elisinger was arrested in a car at the corner of FJler and Fillmore Streets.

Elisinger was released on $2,000 bond about 7:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Regulations rapped

BOISE (UPI) — The executive director of the Oil Heat Institute for southern Idaho has labeled new federal mandatory petroleum allocation regulations "unworkable, contradictory and impossible."

"We can't live with these regulations, and I don't believe anybody else can," Frank Sattler told a meeting of the State Department of Education Task Force on Energy.

Sattler predicted "complete chaos nationwide" when the federal regulations become effective Dec. 27.

860 taken

BURLEY — The office at the Martin and Anderson farm south of Burley was broken into late Tuesday night and about $60 in small change taken.

Cassia County deputy sheriff Don Taylor said the burglars forced their way into the building through a door. Damages to the building brought the loss to about $100. The cash taken was composed of quarters, dimes and nickels.

21 arrested

BOISE (UPI) — Combined efforts of state, county and local police during the past six weeks resulted in the arrest of 21 persons on drug-related charges.

Ada County Sheriff's detective Galen Engstrom Wednesday night said charges were brought ranging from delivery to heroin to delivery of amphetamines and delivery of marijuana. He said all the persons arrested were from the Boise area.

Condition 'critical'

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — Curtis L. Codd, Sweetwater, Idaho, remained in critical condition Wednesday following a fire that took the life of his mother.

Leora F. Codd, 87, Sweetwater, died when a gasoline-caused fire raged through her wood framed home about mid-morning Tuesday.

Neperce County sheriff's deputies said the accident occurred shortly after delivery of about 500 gallons of gasoline at the home.

Prosecutor appointed

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — Merlin W. Clark, a Lewiston attorney for the past nine years and former deputy prosecuting attorney, was appointed Tuesday as Neperce County prosecutor.

Clark was named by county commissioners to succeed Roy E. Mossman, who was named Monday by Gov. Cecil Andrus as second district judge. Mossman succeeds the late Thomas H. Felton who died Nov. 20.

Extend greetings

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. and Mrs. Cecil D. Andrus hold their annual open house at the statehouse office Wednesday to extend seasonal greetings to state employees.

Outfitters elect

SALMON — The Idaho Outfitters and Guides Association has elected Norman Guth as president succeeding Martin Capps. Both are of Salmon. The term runs two years.

The association, at its winter meeting in Sun Valley, also elected Elwood Masoner, Twin Falls, vice president, and Al Tice, Boise, treasurer.

New directors are Don Nitz, Stan Potts and George May, all three-year terms. Bill Guth Jr. and Eggs Beckley were re-elected directors.

Reporters get McCulloch offer

KETCHUM — At least six Blaine County newsmen have been offered expensive Christmas gifts for free by a public relations firm representing McCulloch Properties Inc.

A giant McCulloch housing development in Halley has stirred controversy in the area for months.

Terry Campbell, the Times-News correspondent in Blaine County, recently received a letter from Laurence Laurie and Associates, McCulloch's public relations firm, listing nine gifts from which she could choose: an electric razor, a 17-jewel ladies watch, a hair dryer, a vacuum cleaner, a model Rolls Royce with radio, a decorative weather gauge, a three-piece luggage set, a grandfather clock or a blender.

At least five other area newsmen received the same offer.

Contacted in California Wednesday, Laurence Laurie said the gifts have been offered as "nothing more than Christmas remembrances."

He said Fred Melcher, a member of his firm who handles the McCulloch account, had listed five people in Idaho for the gift offering.

He acknowledged that Miss Campbell was on the list with four others, including a "lawyer."

"Don't misconstrue this as an attempt to gain friendship," Laurie said. "It's simply to say Merry Christmas."

"There certainly isn't any ulterior motive," he stressed.

Miss Campbell declined the gift. "It would be unethical as a reporter to accept the gift offer," she said.

Kent Fransen, KSKI radio station owner and general manager, said he had not decided whether or not he would accept a gift. He said it was "certainly my impression that this was an apparent very standard procedure by McCulloch."

KSKI salesman and announcer Warren Farwell said he did not see any reason why he should not use the gift certificate. "I do not see where there's any bribe in any way, shape or form."

If the offer had come before the Halley city election, where issues involving McCulloch were prominent, "then in all fairness to KSKI Radio, I would have refused," Farwell said. But, the announcer said he thought the McCulloch controversy was over because the "electorate very convincingly spoke."

Stan Crawford, managing editor of the Wood River Journal, and Jo Schneider, reporter for the Journal, both said acceptance depends on company policy.

Shannon Besoyan, a former Journal reporter, had not decided this morning whether she would accept the offer.

Steve Lathrop, editor of Ketchum Tomorrow, and Nancy Bedingfield, publisher of the Sawtooth Mountain Star, both said they had not received the gift offer.

Holiday card winners named

BURLEY — A Burley Junior High student and a Burley High School graduate were honored Wednesday for the entries in the Ore-Ida Christmas card art contest.

Steven Chigbrow, Burley, was presented a packet of Christmas cards containing the Christmas card design he was awarded "best of show" for during last year's contest. Chigbrow's design was chosen from entries submitted by Ore-Ida plants throughout the nation for use on this year's Christmas card.

Cindy Hill, a seventh-grader at Burley Junior High School, took best of show with her entry in this year's contest. Miss Hill will receive a $75 U.S. Savings Bond.

In the senior division, Mike Bodily, Burley, took first place and will receive a $50 savings bond. Lori Dudley of Rupert, won second place and a $25 bond. Bonnie Jo Green, Burley, took third place and will receive a $15 check.

Debra Dilworth, Burley, won first place for her design in the intermediate division. Miss Dilworth will receive a $50 bond. Second place went to Teresa Gould, Burley, who will receive a $25 bond. Peggy Garner, also Burley, took third and a $15 check.

Honorable mention winners, who will receive a $5 check each are senior division; Howard Brown and Sharon Vickers, both Burley; Lilly Nichols and Lori Dudley, both Rupert, and Tedd Tuttle, Elba; intermediate division; Denise Kerbs and Deena Higbee, both Rupert; Mathew Gardiner, Malta; Tami Smith, Burley, and Kenyon Tuttle, Elba.

The winners were chosen from 144 entries, submitted by art students throughout Mindoka and Cassia counties. The entries were judged by LaVar Steele, chairman of the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Department; Mike Green, art instructor at CSI, and Olaf Moeller, Paul, a local artist.

Winning entries will be on display at the Bank of Idaho in Burley and the Idaho First National Bank in Rupert during the holidays.

Man arrested after accident

SHOSHONE — The Lincoln County sheriff's office is investigating an auto accident which occurred at 1:45 p.m. Wednesday, two and one-half miles southeast of Dietrich, on State Highway 24.

The accident led to the arrest of a man who identified himself as 32-year-old Glen C. Hamilton, who declines to give his address.

He is being held for Pocatello city police on a grand theft charge in connection with a stolen car, which he was driving.

When local officers discovered the car was not registered in Hamilton's name, they verified through conversation with Pocatello officers that the actual owners live in Pocatello and had not given Hamilton permission to drive the car to Lincoln.

Sheriff B. J. Anderson was called to investigate when several citizens reported to his office that a car was travelling in an erratic manner on State Highway 24. Investigation found the car, a 1965 Ford, had run off the road into a fence and road signs, doing extensive damage.

Hamilton may also face a DWI charge in Lincoln County.

Architectural barriers studied for handicapped

TWIN FALLS — A bill to discourage public "architectural barriers" to handicapped persons has been pre-filed with the Idaho legislature.

The bill was drafted for the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, was discussed in a Twin Falls meeting Wednesday.

Members of the Twin Falls Mayor's Committee for Employment of the Handicapped, area legislators and specialists from several state departments attended the meeting.

Bart Brown, state commissioner of labor and chairman of the Architectural Barriers Subcommittee, introduced a film which outlined the problems handicapped persons face in gaining access to public buildings.

Governmental buildings and churches are probably the most inaccessible to the handicapped, according to the film. The structures often have long stairways with no ramps available for crippled, cardiac or elderly persons.

"Cost is minimal in planning but maximal in remodeling," the film said.

Several other hindrances in public buildings were cited: Doors in series and revolving doors, high water fountains and telephones, poorly planned elevator systems and narrow doorways.

The measure pre-filed by the governor's committee provides generally that "all buildings, structures, sidewalks, curbs, parking lots and related facilities, constructed in this state... shall conform to each of the standards and specifications in the 'American Standards Specifications for Making Buildings and Facilities Accessible to and Usable by the Physically Handicapped'."

A penalty of $1,000 or six months imprisonment is included for noncompliance.

Nixon releases impounded funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Wednesday ordered the release of $1.1 billion in impounded funds for health and education programs.

A White House spokesman, Gerald L. Warren, said Nixon had directed HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger to free the department's impounded funds for fiscal 1974 and 1975 to end a "climate of uncertainty" while the impoundment issue is being contested in federal courts.

Warren said that the President's desire was "to end the uncertainty to recipients of the funds," such as school districts, to permit them to proceed with their planning.

Involved are funds appropriated by Congress which Nixon had refused to spend — for such things as grants for compensating education programs, vocational education, health manpower, mental health, education for the handicapped and programs on alcoholism.

Warren disclosed Nixon's decision to release the funds in announcing the President had signed a $32.9 billion appropriations bill for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) and the Labor Department.

Warren said the President was pleased that Congress had sent him an appropriation bill that "he could accept and sign."

"The legislation, Warren said, "meets the test of fiscal responsibility" in Nixon's view. He added that it reflected the "spirit of compromise" between Congress and the executive branch.

The HEW measure includes a provision permitting the President to withhold spending up to 5 per cent on all programs.

On the question of releasing the impounded funds — an about-face for Nixon — Warren said: "The President recognizes this bill will create a surge in spending in fiscal 1975, but he was determined to end the uncertainty."

In a case directly tied to the impounded funds, a federal judge ruled last week that HEW had to release $20 million in impounded funds that were to go to six states for statewide educational programs.

The administration also has not fared well in other litigation on withholding appropriated funds. Warren was asked whether under the President's "present logic" he might also release withheld funds for highway and environmental programs.

Home rule for Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate passed, 77 to 13, and sent to President Nixon Wednesday a home-rule bill for the District of Columbia. Residents of the nation's capital will get the right to elect their own city government for the first time in nearly a century under the bill which Nixon is expected to sign shortly. Although the bill provides for an elected mayor and a city council, Congress and the President retain control over such key functions as the city budget.

Land sold to Boise airport

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Land Board today agreed to the sale of 972 acres of land sought for expansion of the Boise Airport for the appraised price of $887,000. The land will be put up for public auction.

Attorney General W. Anthony Park urged the board to take immediate action, citing a suit brought by the Parent and Teachers Association and others because of the low lease price on the land.

Milk firm pleads guilty to funding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Carnation Co. and its board chairman, H. Everett Olson, pleaded guilty today to making illegal corporate political contributions totalling $8,000 to 1972 Republican presidential and congressional candidates.

U.S. District Judge George I. Hart fined the condensed milk company $5,000 and Olson $1,000 — the maximum under federal law that prohibits such political gifts.

Carnation was the eighth corporation to be charged with illegal 1972 campaign contributions by Watergate prosecutors. Federal law prohibits corporations, labor unions and national banks from contributing directly to political campaigns.

A spokesman for Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski said that Carnation had voluntarily admitted the gifts but unlike the seven corporations which previously pleaded guilty had not disclosed its gifts publicly.

Olson also could have been sentenced to as much as one year in prison, but the prosecution has followed a policy not to seek prison terms for executives who voluntarily admit illegal acts.

Olson and his company waived indictment and pleaded guilty to a two-count criminal information filed by Jaworski. Olson also was charged with consenting to one of the gifts — a $5,000 contribution to the Southern California Presidential Dinner Committee, an arm of President Nixon's re-election campaign.

In addition to the $5,000 contribution, Jaworski charged that Carnation gave $2,900 to the Finance Committee for the Re-election of the President and $1,000 to a Senate campaign dinner.

Grand Canyon complex protested by group

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Plans for private construction of a $5 million development including a cocktail lounge and a trailer camp on the south rim of the Grand Canyon were under fire today from a national conservation organization.

The National Parks and Conservation Association, in a letter to the National Park Service, called for a new look at what it said was an "ill-conceived plan" to be carried out under a 30-year contract signed with Fred Harvey, Inc., in 1969.

The NPCA also charged Interior Department officials had denied knowledge of such development plan during a Nov. 10 meeting with representatives of the association.

The contract, NPCA said, called for completion of "phase one" of the development by the end of this year.

SV spending 'on target'

SUN VALLEY — Sun Valley City general fund expenditures are running almost "on target" with budget funds with only one month remaining in the city budget year.

City comptroller Ona Henp told the City Council Tuesday night that, through Nov. 30, general fund expenditures were only $2,000 over the budgeted figure. However, she said revenues for the 11-month period had also exceeded the anticipated figure by $2,000.

The 1973 city budget totals $159,000, with about $170,000 in revenue anticipated for the year.

In other action, the council went on record as opposing the Idaho Board of Highway directors' decision to remove a portion of State Highway 75 from the state highway system. Removal of the about 37-mile-long section includes about 9 miles in Blaine County from the North-Sun-Valley-City limits to about Trail Creek summit.

Mayor Winton Gray said the county possibly would have to maintain the 9 mile section and said that it did not have the funds budgeted. He also said county commission chairman C. W. (Andy) Gardner told him that it would probably cost about $3.5 million to bring the road up to standards.

Gray said the road was "important to the area people" and said that a number of city residents use the road for access to hunting and fishing. Sun Valley Co. president Stan Coleman, who was present at the meeting, said he would draft a letter stating the company's position on the road abandonment.

In other action, the council —was informed by Gray that unless arrangements could be made with the Sun Valley Co. to obtain the about one acre needed for the planned city fire station at a reasonable cost or as a donation, that the facility could probably not be built.

Gray said he met Tuesday morning with project architect Neil M. Wright, Ketchum, and that the facility — which will also house the police department and city offices — had "really been trimmed to the bare-workable."

After the meeting, he said that estimated costs were about up to the $350,000 bond amount, without the land. Sun Valley Co.'s last figure for the land, he said, was $125,000.

—authorized investment of the $500,000 realized from the bond sale in a time certificate until the funds are needed. The bonds, approved by city voters last year, will cover construction of the new fire station and costs for two fire engines and fire equipment.

—changed the monthly meeting date from the present third Tuesday of the month to the third Monday of the month at 7:30 p.m. in the Mortiz Community Hospital library. Gray recommended the change to allow the City Council representative to attend the Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission sessions which are scheduled for the second Tuesday.

—approved ordinances adopting the 1973 Uniform Building, Mechanical and Fire codes.

—agreed to qualify the city for the national flood insurance program to enable residents to apply for the insurance.

Sheriff loses car

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — San Jose officials may have encountered the ultimate in bravado. Someone stole a sheriff's patrol car — complete with siren, red lights and sheriff's seal — and drove it three miles from the county garage to downtown.

It was recovered when a San Jose police officer thought it strange that a sheriff's car would be parked for three hours in one spot.

Social Security increase pushed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate committee chairmen agreed Wednesday to try to push an 11 per cent Social Security increase through Congress this week.

Chairman Russell Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee and Acting Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore. of the House Ways and Means Committee buried some of their past sharp differences over the bill and held what is described as friendly meeting to work on a compromise.

"We agreed that we want a Social Security increase before we go home," Ullman said. Congress plans to start a month long holiday recess this weekend.

Neither Ullman nor Long would say how they had worked out differences.

Senate sources said one compromise under consideration was that the 11 per cent increase be passed this week along with any Senate amendments that the House committee could agree on. The remainder of the Senate amendments would be considered promptly in separate legislation next year.

Both houses had agreed on a two-step 11 per cent increase. The House would give the first 7 per cent in April checks, while the Senate would give the first 7 per cent immediately. Both houses would give the remaining 4 per cent in July checks.

Twin Falls cars looted in separate incidents

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls men reported to police Tuesday that their cars were broken into while parked in the 200 block of Seventh Avenue East.

The break-ins were reported to have occurred within a half hour of one another.

John Kemper told police his pickup truck was broken into and a shotgun stolen about 9:45 p.m. Tuesday. Kemper valued the shotgun at $320.

Dudley Dane reported that his car was broken into a short time earlier, about 9:15 p.m., and a briefcase containing personal papers removed. The briefcase was later recovered on a nearby sidewalk.

Two other burglaries were also reported to police Tuesday. Kevin Houffberg reported that $154 in merchandise, including clothing and a T-bone steak, was stolen from his apartment in the North Campus Apartments complex near the College of Southern Idaho. Houffberg told police the incident occurred between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

In still another case, Sound Limited, 1246 Blue Lakes Blvd. N., was reported broken into and stereo equipment valued at about $700 was taken.

A store employe told police that a window was broken out of the stereo shop during the night Monday and a display panel containing the stolen items pulled out through the broken window.

The troupe will present a special three-part Christmas program with proceeds of ticket sales to benefit both groups. Tickets are available from the center.

Christmas benefit slated

SUN VALLEY — The Sun Valley Creative Arts Center and the Antique Festival Theatre will present a special Christmas benefit production at 9 p.m. Dec. 23 in the Limelight Room at Sun Valley.

Old Gem prison has 'great potential'

BOISE (UPI) — Revitalization of the old Idaho State Prison for tourism, recreation and commercial purposes would provide a self-sustaining revenue producing project, the State Land Board was told today.

Arthur Hart, director of the State Historical Museum, and Parks Director Steven Bly said that the project has received widespread approval from the public as well as from business interests.

Hart explained that the prison has "great potential" because it is tied in with the Boise Greenbelt Project and the municipal golf course.

"I'm convinced of its tourist potential," he said, adding it could draw as many as a million visitors a year.

He explained that it would serve a three-prong purpose—recreational, cultural and historical, and commercial.

"It would ultimately pay for the thing," Hart said.

Hart asked for the board's approval to go before the Legislature for a supplemental appropriation as well as to sell the project to the public.

The board agreed that it would take every step to endorse the project. Bly and Hart told the board that a supplemental appropriation of $32,000 would be needed for operation and maintenance and to get the project started this summer.

They said the first phase this summer would be to open the prison as a tourist attraction, charging $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

A delegation from the city of Payette appeared before the board to ask delay in advertising sale of land they said was needed for disposal of sewage effluent.

The board agreed to delay sale for six months to allow the city to complete a study.

William Mathews of the Bureau of Land Management reviewed for the board a problem created by a recent court ruling returning desert entries southeast of Hammett in Owyhee County to his agency.

Mathews said he was hopeful the state could assist in keeping the land in agriculture production. He said it already had been prepared for crop cultivation next spring and that if a crop wasn't planted there could be erosion problems.

Life-like dolls not banned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A doll so lifelike it eats, drinks and even has a periodic bowel movement requiring a diaper change, is in such heavy demand as a Christmas present, the Consumer Products Safety Commission believes some stores have been falsely telling customers the toy has been banned.

The doll involved is called "Baby Alive" and a commission spokesman said the agency has had "literally hundreds of calls" from shoppers across the country asking if it was true the toy was banned as stores had been telling them.

Commission Chairman Richard O. Simpson wrote letters Tuesday to retail trade associations representing department stores, drugstores and other outlets telling them some stores apparently are misleading consumers and making deceptive use of the commission's name.

Injunction ordered

BOISE (UPI) — Second District Judge John Maynard has issued a preliminary injunction at Moscow against a Clarkston, Wash., building contractor.

Made available to newsmen by Attorney General W. Anthony Park, the order, issued Dec. 14, was issued after the defendants, Farm Building Specialty Co. and William Dowling, Clarkston, failed to appear either personally or by counsel.

Army deserters surrender in NY

$1 million needed to save building

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Lambs, a theater-district private club that housed, fed and watered the greats of Broadway since 1874, is facing bankruptcy and possible demolition unless its members can raise $1 million.

Samuel Landow, chairman of the club's fund raising committee, Tuesday said the sum is needed to cover mortgage, back taxes and interest payments.

"Foreclosure would mean destruction of The Lambs building, an impressive edifice designed by Stanford White in 1905 and one of the finest examples of turn-of-the-century New York architecture still standing in the theatre district," he said.

The six-floor building has two floors of living quarters and a fully equipped theatre, where many sketches were shown that later became hits.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two Army deserters surrendered to FBI agents outside a Greenwich Village folk club today, saying the war was over, that they had paid the price of exile for their acts, and now wanted to come home.

The two said they hope to establish a precedent of "de facto amnesty" for the estimated 50,000 draft dodgers and deserters living in exile or underground.

Law Simon, a leading member of the exile community in Sweden and Edward McNally, a Vietnam veteran who has lived on Long Island for the past four years, spoke to their weeping families and supporters before giving themselves up.

"It's been five years since I left the Army," said Simon. "I have spent those years in exile in Sweden. Now I am putting myself back under military control because I want to reclaim my rights as an American citizen."

The surrender, sponsored by the exile support group Safe Return, was the finale at a Christmas party at the folk club attended by the families of draft resisters and deserters and others who have supported unconditional amnesty.

FUNNY BUSINESS

By Roger Bollen

FBI agents handcuffed them and pushed them into separate cars. Sources said they were taken either to Ft. Hamilton Army Base in Brooklyn or Brooklyn Navy Base.

If found guilty on charges of desertion or being absent without leave, an Army spokesman said the men could face dishonorable discharge and a year's confinement at hard labor. He stressed, however, that the disposition of the case is up to the commander at the military installation where the men are taken.

New York Knicks seen making playoffs without Reed but winning title doubtful

(c) New York Times Service
NEW YORK—Basketball is a strange sport. No matter what happens in the earliest stages of a game or the season, virtually all of the excitement, intensity and suspense is jammed into the closing stages. Raucous and counter-raucous add to the turmoil of tumultuous, tempestuous finishes and give the dribble diversion its extra emotional appeal.

That is why the distress and alarm of the fanatical followers of the New York Knickerbockers at the loss of Willis Reed have more implications for the future than for the immediate present. The valiant captain of the Knicks underwent knee surgery last week and will be lost to the team until some time in March. In spite of all that, though, the Knicks still will finish second to the Boston Celtics, and therefore be assured of a playoff spot.

Such is the structure of the National Basketball Association and such is the nature of the sport itself that a heavily handicapped team like the Knicks can still limp into the post season showdown without the vital services of their big center. But can they win the playoffs without him in a reasonable state of repair and efficiency? It is to be doubted.

While Reed is convalescing, the Knicks will try to shadow box their way through the league with the center spot handled by such as Jerry Lucas, John Gianelli and even Phil Jackson, who isn't a center at all. They will fool no one although they probably will be able to get away with it against ordinary centers. But once they are confronted by such super centers as Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Dave Cowens, Nate Thurmond and Bob Lanier, they have neither the height nor the muscle that Willis used in chopping them down to more normal size.

Fortunately for their joint peace of mind they will not be troubled this season by Will Chamberlain. The Big Dipper jumped to the other league as the playing coach of San Diego for the poverty level salary of $600,000 per annum. But the courts barred him from playing and so he will receive the six hundred grand only to think. Albert Einstein never earned that much and he thought a lot better than Will the Still.

As for the Knicks, however, what's so bad about finishing second? They did it last season and still won the championship as Reed, the indomitable one, climbed back from hobbling injuries to outplay Chamberlain. This was the determining factor in a victory that was gained with unexpected swiftness, an abrupt four games to one.

For pure drama, though, pro basketball history has rarely been able to match the electric excitement of the seventh and deciding game of the playoffs in May of 1970. Again it was between the Knicks and the Lakers. Again it eventually resolved itself into a duel between Reed and Chamberlain.

What gave it an air of unreality and introduced a note of total incredulity to it was that Willis won the deciding game with the first field goal he scored. At least that was my conviction then and it remains unshaken to this day. And I'm sure that countless thousands of Knick fanatics agree with me. This play off series had been a masterpiece in stagecraft, rushing toward a rousing climax with suspense finally reaching an agonizing intensity. Willis has had an army of admirers over the years but the seventh game of the 1970, showdown against the Lakers produced his finest hour. In reality he jammed his overwhelming presence into the opening minutes. That's when Willis directed destiny to ordain a Knick victory.

It had been a spectacular series. The Knicks and Lakers had split two games in New York—and then they split the next two in Los Angeles, both in overtime. The Knicks won the fifth but Reed crashed heavily while driving in for a layup, straining two muscles in his right thigh. He was unable to play in the next game and carefree Chamberlain was granted so much freedom from restraint that he scored 45 points.

When the Knicks took their warm up shots in the Garden before the seventh game, Reed was missing. The fans noted his absence with a growing apprehension but the players knew that their captain would play, his ailing leg deadened by painkiller injections.

"When Willis comes out," said Dave Stallworth, "These fans are going to pull down the roof."

They did, exploding into the hysteria that is the hallmark of Knick fans. It acts as adrenalin to their heroes and gives cold chills to the opposition. The thunder was still rocking the arena when Reed took his first shot—a jumper from the top of the key. It swished through the net. A minute later he delicately flipped in another. These were the only points he scored but the psychological damage to Will and the Lakers was beyond calculation. Willis played only 27 minutes but they were 27 magnificent minutes and they led to victory.

Over the years a wounded Willis has rebounded so often for last ditch heroics that his adoring Knick followers have come to take such behavior for granted. Can he do it again, however? It will be late March before anyone will know.

Football attendance continues to grow

NEW YORK (UPI)—College football attendance increased for the 20th consecutive season in 1973 and has nearly doubled over the last 20 years, it was revealed Wednesday in the final statistics released by the National Collegiate Sports Services.

The final figures show that 31,282,540 fans attended games this season, an increase of 453,738 over last year. Rounded off that's 31.3 million, nearly twice the 16.7 million in 1953. Geographically, the South showed the greatest increase with both major and small conferences and independents all climbing. Southern schools attracted 988,778 more fans than last season, and the South led in total attendance for the 17th straight year with 9,680,820. The South's per game average of 14,825 also was the highest.

Major conferences across the nation experienced a small drop in overall attendance, but this was more than made up for by a marked increase among the 34 major independents and the smaller-attendance or "grass roots" teams.

Of the 453,738 increase over last season, 405,059 came from the 502 usually smaller-attendance teams. The Big Ten Conference reigned again as attendance king with 3,344,742 fans, but the Southeastern Conference was a close second, with 3,279,097.

The Southern Conference enjoyed the biggest jump in crowd average at 10.5 per cent.

I.F. knocks Bruins from unbeaten list

IDAHO FALLS—The Twin Falls Bruins ran into their first major test of the season Wednesday night and flunked, bowing 73-70 to the Idaho Falls Tigers.

Lessons in on the road determination continue Friday when Twin Falls moves to Boise to meet the strong Borah Lions. Another falling notice would severely crimp the Bruins' hopes for the Southern Idaho Conference title.

Idaho Falls, which will definitely win a lot of games at home this season, gave the Bruins fits in several departments. The biggest was a clutch eight-for-eight free throw shooting display over the final three minutes, which offset Twin Falls' four field goal advantage for the night. Another was taking advantage of the glaring weakness in the 2-3 zone when the offense attacks it from the left. It turns the zone something like a 1-4 with the problem being all the Bruin height is on the left side and 6-1 Eric Hovey is alone on the right. Idaho Falls' 6-3 Roger Rowberry and once in a while 6-6 Ross Nickerson took advantage of that disparity to can several follow shots.

The Bruins also contributed with some very nonchalant passing in the first 10 minutes of the game, which resulted in a lot of turnovers. Late in the game Twin Falls couldn't hit from the foul line.

It was a horse race throughout with five six ties to 12-12 before the Bruins opened up a 16-12 lead, then let Idaho Falls—back—in—with two turnovers.

In the second period Idaho Falls jumped ahead 21-16 and kept the Bruin behind until Hovey tied it at 30-30. From there it was tied at two-point intervals through halftime.

Early in the third period Twin Falls went to running and hitting the offensive boards. Kim Nielsen hit four points and Jim Lash and Kent Schmidt two each to make it 46-40. Twin Falls stayed up by six until the closing minutes when Nickerson hit four points, two from the line, and Baldwin drove through the Twin Falls retreating defense—with its back to the ball—for a crumple.

In the fourth quarter, Hovey hit three straight lone shots to give the Bruins their final lead at 57-56 with 5:48 to play. But Idaho Falls hit the next four points.

Bruins, Minico travel to Boise

Twin Falls and Minico make the first of three appearances in the Boise area this weekend with the Bruins going against the Southern Idaho Conference favored Borah Lions and Minico appearing to have a good chance of ending a brief two-game losing spell at Caldwell.

Young and inexperienced and before Christmas is the best time to catch a team like that on the road.

This could well be Minico's last time out without the services of three-year veteran Scott Morehouse, who sustained a football injury. His return will add a lot of scoring, rebounding and steadiness to the Spartan lineup.

With 3:24 left, Lash and Bowyer cut the deficit to 61-60 but then Rowberry hit twice from the line and Nickerson hit a 16-foot jumper. Lash and Kelly-Newton reduced that to two again but Baldwin and Martin then scored to make it 69-63 with 1:31 remaining.

Martin's crumple against Twin Falls' pressing defense with 23 seconds left clinched it and Hovey only narrowed the margin with five seconds remaining.

Twin Falls won the preliminary 55-44.

Kilmer is still in hospital

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Billy Kilmer remained hospitalized with a persistent stomach ailment Wednesday, disrupting the starting quarterback outlook for the Washington Redskins in their play-off game with the Minnesota Vikings Saturday.

Coach George Allen has all but committed himself to eliminating Kilmer for opening duty because of the development. This would require the Redskins, underdogs by six points against the Vikings, to turn to 39-year-old Sonny Jurgensen who in turn is badly handicapped by a gimpy left knee condition.

Kilmer went to suburban Arlington County hospital Sunday after throwing four touchdown passes in the Redskins' 38-20 win over the Philadelphia Eagles that gained them the wild card play-off berth.

He already has missed two of the four practice days prior to the Minnesota contest. The Redskins will work out Thursday and again Friday before they fly to Bloomington for the Viking game.

Team physician Dr. P. J. Polumbo Jr. said he was "very hopeful" Kilmer could emerge from the hospital in time for Thursday's workout but Allen even before learning that his No. 1 quarterback would be kept in sick bay another day, said: "If he can't practice Wednesday, then I think we'd have to go with Sonny."

Steelers recall weather at home

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Pittsburgh Steelers' coach Chuck Noll, presiding over a defensive drill in 75-degree temperatures here Wednesday, recalled the weather back home.

"It's sure great to be here, because there's 15 degrees of frost back there," said Noll as his team readied for their AFC first round play-off game Saturday in Oakland.

"It's just fantastic here. The weather is wonderful and the turf is great. It's just what we need to get ready for the Raiders."

The Steelers, who earned the AFC wild card berth with a 10-4

Indiana tops Utah 104-88

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—George McGinnis rifled in 31 points to lead Indiana to a 104-88 American Basketball Association victory over the Utah Stars Wednesday night.

The Pacers attacked into a 20-point lead at the end of the first period and never got a threat from the cold-shooting Stars. The halftime count was 58-30 and Indiana was ahead 70-50 going into the final stanza.

The Pacers built their lead twice to 31 points in the third period, the last at 65-34.

New York slips by Kentucky

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI)—Julius Erving scored 16 of his 30 points in the final quarter and Larry Kenon, who had 22 rebounds, sank a free throw after a referee reversed a ruling late in the last period to give the New York Nets an 83-82 victory over the Kentucky Colonels Wednesday night.

The triumph left the Nets, who have won 18 of their last 21 games, .017 behind the Colonels in the ABA East.

Erving was dynamic down the stretch, looking for the basket each time he got his hands on the ball and sometimes putting shots in while being guarded by two or three men. Kenon, a rookie from Memphis State, dominated the rebounding throughout the game, including five straight rebounds in the last minutes.

Wisconsin is still unbeaten

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—Kent court performers Kim and Kerry Hughes and Dale Koehler combined for 56 points as unbeaten Wisconsin defeated West Virginia, 60-42, Wednesday night for its fifth victory of the season.

Kim and Kerry Hughes, a pair of 6-11 twins, scored 22 points and 18 points, respectively. Koehler, a 6-8 forward, added 16 points.

The game was tied nine times and the lead changed hands five times in the first half before Wisconsin scored the final 10 points before halftime to take a 37-34 lead, while West Virginia went scoreless during a 5:10-minute span.

Pistons rally past Chicago

DETROIT (UPI)—The Chicago Bulls recovered from their lowest scoring first half in history but Bob Lanier sparked a last-minute Detroit rally to power the Pistons to an 89-87 victory.

The Bulls and the Pistons are battling for second place in the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division. Detroit led most of the game and was ahead 42-28 at the half.

The 28-point first half and an eight-point second quarter were all-time lows for the Bulls.

With Detroit holding a 52-32 advantage in the third quarter, Chicago, paced by Bob Love's 11 points, fought back and took the lead 80-76.

Troxel named head coach at Idaho to replace Robbins

MOSCOW (UPI) — Ed Troxel, who came to the University of Idaho in 1967 as the most successful high school coach in Idaho history, Wednesday was named head football coach replacing the ousted Don Robbins.

New athletic director Leon Green made the announcement earlier this week. Troxel, whom Green replaced as athletic director two weeks ago, had turned down the job.

He got four assistants and a two year contract at an estimated yearly salary of $16,500.

He is to put the Vandals back in the win column." Green said Troxel, 48, was a natural selection since they had heavy support not only from Vandal boosters in northern and southern Idaho, but was also the choice of the student body.

Rams plan trip to play Dallas in NFC playoffs

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — There's a lot of talk these days about the Rams leaving Los Angeles and as a matter of fact, they are. They leave for Dallas Friday to play the Cowboys in the NFC playoffs.

Owner Carroll Rosenbloom and coach Chuck Knox as well as the players hope they will be back to play in the Coliseum here Dec. 30 in the conference championship game leading to the Super Bowl.

The team in Los Angeles." Rosenbloom would like to have practice facilities made available in a public park adjacent to the Coliseum and this is another point of the dispute.

They must beat Dallas to qualify, but this could be the last football game the Rams play with the Coliseum as their home turf.

This week, as in the past, the Rams practiced at Blair Field in nearby Long Beach, presumably oblivious of the newspaper talk about a new home field.

Physically, the Rams are in good shape and Knox is drilling them on exactly the same schedule he did for other games, a program which resulted in a 12-2 record and the championship in the NFC West.

Rosenbloom is having a dispute with the managers of the Coliseum, a publicly owned edifice, about a boost in rent

The Dodgers are not anxious to have football tenants and, in the wake of newspaper reports on a possible move by the Rams, issued a statement saying they would not consider such a proposition with one exception. That would be if the city authorities ask the Dodgers to make their stadium available to keep the Rams within the city limits.

This week the Rams work out at 11:30 a.m. to coincide approximately with the time of the game in the central zone at Dallas.

Carolina rips Memphis 111-90

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — The Carolina Cougars, led by Tom Owens with 22 points and 18 rebounds, scored an easy 111-90 American Basketball Association victory over the Memphis Tams Wednesday night.

The statement issued by Arthur E. "Red" Patterson, vice president in charge of public relations, said:

The team will leave by charter plane from Los Angeles International Airport at 2:30 p.m. Friday, the time it left for all Sunday road games during the regular season.

The win snapped a three-game losing streak for the Cougars and ran the Tams' string of consecutive defeats to 12.

"The Los Angeles Dodgers have not made any arrangement with the Los Angeles Rams to play in Dodger Stadium and will not consider doing so unless requested by Los Angeles authorities to keep Rookie forward Charlie Edge led Memphis with 19 points. The victory gave the Cougars the lead in the ABA's Eastern division after the Kentucky Colonels lost Wednesday night to the New York Nets, 83-82.

Niagara drills Gophers 79-65

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Niagara parlayed a topacious defense with spectacular shooting Wednesday night to demolish the University of Minnesota 79-65.

Guard George Rautins set the tempo for the Purple Eagles as he poured in 22 points, including 10 of 22 shots from the field. Niagara hit a blistering 63.5 per cent from the field for the game, connecting on 33 of 52 field goal attempts.

Niagara held a 43-25 advantage at halftime. During the first half, the Eagles' defense forced the Gophers into countless errors. Niagara stole the ball nine times during the first 20 minutes.

Rautins, a Toronto native who played on the Canadian National team last summer in Europe, hit his first eight shots from the field.

Ask 100 women on the day they marry if they think they got the right man, and 99 will say yes. Ask them two years later, and 66 will say yes. Ask them 20 years later, and only five will say yes. Such is the surprising report of that matrimonial sage Dr. Joseph B. Trainer.

Or so research indicates. Thought the names of Mellon, Getty and Hunt would show up on that list, but they didn't.

MILK BATH Am asked if milk baths really can improve a girl's complexion. Hardly. But that notion has been around a long time. Started back in the 1920s when a milk peddler in Brooklyn sued the famous showman Flo Zeigfeld for failure to pay for 50 cans of milk delivered to the Hotel Marlboro at the rate of two cans per day. Taking the bait, a reporter learned the milk had gone to the apartment of that dandy actress Anna Held. No, she didn't drink it, she bathed in it, word leaked out. Zeigfeld's defense attorney charged the milk was sour, so hurt her complexion. And out-of-court settlement, arranged long in advance by Zeigfeld's press agent, ended the matter, after newspapers nationwide carried the fanciful tale.
