

Mixed views on gas limit

US energy chief William E. Simon has asked motorists to limit themselves to 10 gallons of gasoline a week, or else face rationing.

Here is the local reaction.

JIM HAWLEY, Twin Falls: "If the weather stays nice it will hurt me, but if the weather turns bad, then I'll have an excuse not to work." He uses about 20 gallons of gas a week, he estimates, in his insurance business.

MRS. LISA McPHERSON, Twin Falls: "I can live with it. As far as taking trips, it's pretty hard, but I guess people will get used to it."

ROBERT BEST, Idaho Falls: "I think it's a good idea, but I'm in business and use 10 gallons a day at least." He drove to Boise and back to Idaho Falls Friday, buying gas in Twin Falls en route.

JIM FITZPATRICK, Twin Falls: "If we have to... we have to. But everyone is going to end up with 10 gallons anyway."

EMIL MARTENS, Eden: "I think it's stupid. Ten gallons a week won't get anyone anywhere in this country. What we need to do is limit the politicians and there would be plenty for the rest of us." He sells real estate and often uses 10 gallons of gas per day.

HELEN TULLOCH, Twin Falls: "I can live with it, I use just about 10 gallons of gas in two weeks time, including extra errands in connection with my work."

Benefit measure approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate passed and sent to the House today for final congressional approval a bill to give 30 million Americans an 11 per cent increase in Social Security benefits.

The extra benefits will be paid for with a payroll tax increase on middle and upper income workers.

Pilots call off holiday walkout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Christmas holiday walkout threatened by the Air Line Pilots Association has been called off, with assurance from the U. S. government jet fuel allocations will be increased.

However, J. J. O'Donnell, head of the 35,000 man union, said he has been empowered to call a strike later if the fuel is not provided by Feb. 1.

Gem law requires gas

BOISE (UPI) — Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park says there is an obscure Idaho law requiring gasoline retailers to sell consumers as much gas as they want as long as the dealer has it in stock.

"If the stations have it and the consumer wants it, they've got to sell it," Park said. The law was passed in 1927. Park said his office studied the statute and it applies to gasoline. However, if federal law forces rationing, the state law will become void.

Calley conviction upheld

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The conviction of 1st Lt. William L. Calley for the slaying of at least 22 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai was upheld Friday by the U. S. Court of Military Appeals.

The nation's highest court of military law also upheld a 20-year sentence given Calley.

The slayings took place in the South Vietnamese village of My Lai in March, 1968 during a sweep by an Army unit led by Calley.

Abzug audit continues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., one of 575 "enemies" of the Nixon administration, said today an audit of her tax records is continuing.

"This is a clear indication the Nixon administration did indeed carry out its plan to harass and punish its enemies," she said. She said it is "ironic" that she and others who paid more taxes than President Nixon are audited.

Cambodia fuel supply menaced

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Rebel forces on both sides of the Tonle Sap River pushed to positions within two miles of a military fuel depot just outside Phnom Penh today and Cambodian government troops fought to dislodge them.

Perrine repairs delay traffic

TWIN FALLS — Repairs to the Perrine Memorial Bridge were expected to delay traffic periodically until late today, Idaho Highway Department officials said.

Crews are replacing a member of the existing bridge, damaged in blasting last week during construction of the new span over the canyon nearby.

US living cost continues rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Big price increases for fuel, electricity and food pushed the cost of living up 0.7 per cent in November and cut the purchasing power of the average American's weekly paycheck by 0.6 per cent, the government said today.

Reflecting the worsening fuel shortages, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said home heating oil prices went up 10 per cent last month, and retail gasoline prices rose 4 per cent.

Prices also rose sharply for natural gas, coal and electricity.

The BLS said higher costs for fuel and electricity accounted for about one-third of the November increase of 0.7 per cent in the Consumer Price Index (CPI).

Higher prices for restaurant meals and most food purchased in grocery stores — except meats, poultry and eggs — also contributed significantly to the rise in the cost of living in November, the BLS said.

Prices of restaurant meals went up 14 per cent and grocery prices increased 0.9 per cent. There were rises of 4.9 per cent for cereals and bakery products, 3.5 per cent for fruits and vegetables, and 2.8 per cent for dairy products.

The BLS said the November price rise cut sharply into the purchasing power of the average weekly wage of rank and file workers.

Average wages dropped 3 cents to $147.60, but the actual purchasing power of gross average weekly earnings declined 0.5 per cent. Purchasing power of weekly payments paychecks, after deductions for federal taxes and social security, fell 0.6 per cent for a married worker with three dependents.

Over the past year, average gross weekly earnings have suffered a 1.9 per cent loss in purchasing power and spendable earnings have lost 3.3 per cent in purchasing power.

Geneva session opens noisily

GENEVA (UPI) — Israeli and Arab delegates to the Middle East peace conference fought with words today in an exchange of threats, taunts and invective that marked their first face-to-face meeting in 25 years.

"Surely the time has come," said Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban, "to banish the savagery which has marked the treatment of Israelis in Arab hands."

"Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy said Eban was 'trying to belittle the intelligence of us here by talking to the gallery.'"

"Not only Israelis can use modern and sophisticated weapons," he warned.

Yet somber warnings that failure to agree on a Middle East peace settlement inevitably would mean another still bloodier conflict added emphasis to the historic nature of this first meeting of Jews and Arabs at a peace table in a quarter of a century.

The meeting got off to a shaky start with both Israel and Egypt threatening to pull out over seating arrangements, delaying the opening by 40 minutes.

Terms delay solons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Seeking to end the first session of the 93rd Congress, the House and Senate moved swiftly today to dispose of some key pieces of legislation but an energy bill jeopardized plans for night final adjournment.

The most politically popular legislation rushed to passage was a kind of Christmas present for Social Security beneficiaries as lawmakers head home for the holidays.

House-Senate conferees also reached a new agreement on the energy bill but it ran into quick opposition.

The White House made clear it still was dissatisfied with restrictions it would impose on President Nixon's powers to deal with the energy crisis.

Congress approves aid bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has sent President Nixon the biggest foreign aid bill in 20 years despite warnings that $2.6 billion included for Israel could wreck the Mideast peace talks due to open today in Geneva.

The $5.8 billion aid appropriation passed the House on a 216-149 vote Thursday and later was approved on a voice vote in the Senate.

Earlier the Senate gave final approval to a $2.2 billion authorization bill for emergency aid to Israel.

The compromise appropriation measure was worked out in an all-day House-Senate conference Wednesday, after a bitter argument on how to finance the war in Cambodia. It directs the Pentagon to draw on current inventories to supply the Phnom Penh government.

Money returned

TF youths commended for turning in $700

By GEORGE WILEY Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls youths were praised for their honesty by Twin Falls police today after they turned in a bank bag containing more than $700 in cash.

Police Capt. Kenneth Johnson said the action of Mike Mingo, 16, and Spencer Smith, 15, "restored my faith in humanity."

Mingo said he and Smith counted the $772 "three or four times" before turning it in to police. "I hadn't held that much money before," he said.

Angler, 86, dies

GLENN'S FERRY — A missing 86 year old Piler fisherman was found dead about 17 miles northwest of Glenn's Ferry Thursday morning.

T. H. Nicholson was found by farmer Les Beam about 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

Elmore County Deputy George Taylor said the body was lying next to his pickup truck which was stuck in the mud.

Nicholson was reported missing late Tuesday. The Elmore County coroner placed the time of death as late Tuesday. Taylor said the cause of death was either a heart attack or exhaustion.

Taylor said Nicholson may have taken a short cut to Camas Reservoir when he took the wrong road. He said Nicholson apparently had failed to make a slick grade. In backing down he had gone off the road and into a ditch.

Nicholson apparently struggled to get his truck out of the ditch as his hands were cut and bruised.

Both young men said they had no thoughts of keeping the money. "Our consciences would have bothered us," Smith said.

According to Mingo, he and Smith had stopped at Swensen's Magic Market, 850 Shoshone Street West, to make a phone call. He said they were returning to their car parked near the back of the store when they spotted the bank bag lying on the pavement in the parking lot.

Market owner M. S. Swensen said he had driven from his grocery store in Paul to the Twin Falls store with the money beside him on the seat of his pickup truck. He said the money fell out unnoticed when he opened the truck door.

Swensen said he returned to his truck from the store and drove off before he missed the bank bag. He had just gone back to the market to look for it, he said, when police called him to report the money had been found.

Swensen called the return of the money "a fine example of what youth and people should be." He said a reward had been made to the youths.

Asked if he thought the return of the money unusual, Swensen said he didn't think so. "Most people are honest," he said. "There are just a few rascals."

Utility welcomes Yule lighting

By DAVID HORSMAN Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Idaho Power Co. has energy to spare and welcomes Christmas lighting displays in Twin Falls, according to Earl Haroldson, southern division manager for the utility.

There's "much ado about nothing" over Christmas lighting and the energy crisis, especially in Idaho, Haroldson said.

Twin Falls residents are welcome to turn on all their holiday lights, both inside and out, as far as Idaho Power is concerned.

Haroldson said the displays account for about 0.3 of one per cent of all Idaho Power's business during this season.

The power firm's highest usage comes in the summer, during the irrigation season, according to Haroldson. "We are selling power to other utilities in the northwest now," he said.

"What we're saying is that we have energy to sell and if our customers want to use it we are required by law to supply them."

Asked if energy should be conserved in Idaho for the benefit of less fortunate parts of the nation, Haroldson said, "We could sell it to Bonneville (Power Administration) and let them light up Rupert like a Christmas tree. It kind of depends on where your allegiance is."

Rupert (which uses BPA power) is "lit up far beyond Twin Falls," according to Haroldson, who visited the city recently.

"They're supplied by BPA and are supposed to be conserving. But their business district is rather impressive, far beyond lighting we have in Twin Falls."

He said he is "rather envious" of Rupert. Although Idaho Power can sell its excess energy to other utilities, "our customers come first... they pay our expenses," according to Haroldson.

"He said the total energy cost for Christmas lights in downtown Twin Falls last year amounted to less than $200. 'I think it's money well spent.'"

Christmas displays "don't make any difference to us loadwise," Haroldson said. "It isn't even enough to show on our measurements."

"If the people want to use it, as far as we're concerned they can. We're in no position to dictate what they can do."

A FIRE which shot up through five floors in 15 minutes gutted the old Anthony Hotel in Minneapolis and drove occupants into the subzero cold early Thursday. No serious injuries were reported in the blaze at the 75-year-old, six-story building but five persons, including two firemen, received hospital treatment. Red Cross officials report there were 26 persons unaccounted for but gradually they're surfacing from various places. There were 84 persons registered at the hotel, many of them transients. (UPI)

Frank Dotson

BURLEY — Frank B. Dotson, 93, Burley pioneer, died Wednesday at Cassia Memorial Hospital following a short illness.

He was born Nov. 10, 1880, in Summersville, W. Va. Orphaned at an early age, he attended school in Summersville and remained there to teach and work in the coal mines.

As a young man, he came west to Colorado where he worked as a carpenter. He then lived in Alta, Utah, for a short time before coming to Burley. He pitched a tent in an area that is now the middle of downtown Burley and worked as a carpenter helping build the new town. He later graduated from the State Normal School at Albion, then attended school at the University of Colorado, Boulder, and the University of Idaho, Moscow, where he earned a law degree.

He set up law practice in Albion, then the county seat for Cassia County. He remained in Albion until the county seat was moved to Burley. He then moved his law office to Burley where he has since resided.

He served as probate judge while he was practicing law.

In the mid '30s, he retired from his law practice to devote his time to building and maintaining rental homes for the low income families of the area.

In 1920, he married Caroline Horton, a Burley school teacher. She died in 1966.

Mr. Dotson was a member of the United Methodist Church and the Burley Masonic Lodge No. 68. He had joined the Masonic Order in West Virginia in 1906. He served as worshipful master of the Burley lodge and held a distinguished 50-year pin as well as a 60-year certificate of membership. He had been a member of the Shrine Club for many years.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Jennie Ross, Burley, and Mrs. Margaret Hall, Pocatello; nine grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in the Burley United Methodist Church with Rev. Stanley Andrews officiating. Interment will be in the Pleasant View Cemetery.

Friends may call at Payne Mortuary from 4 until 8 p.m. today and prior to services Saturday. Masonic graveside rites will be under the direction of the Burley Lodge No. 68, AF & AM.

T.M. Nicholson

FILER — T. S. Nicholson, 86, Filer, died Tuesday while on a fishing trip to Mountain Home in Elmore County.

Born Aug. 30, 1887, at Coacola, Iowa, he married Jennie M. Loxley June 5, 1911, in Mt. Morris, Ill.

When Mr. Nicholson first arrived in Twin Falls in 1911 he was an instructor in a business college here.

He served on the boards of the Filer Mutual Telephone Co., the Twin Falls County Mutual Fire Ins. Co., Buhl, and the Twin Falls County Hospital board.

He was a member of the United Methodist Church and a retired farmer.

Surviving are his wife, Filer; one daughter, Mrs. Lyman Engle, Twin Falls; one son, S. J. Nicholson, Florence, Ore.; two brothers, Lloyd Nicholson, Twin Falls, and Dr. Roy Nicholson, Washington, D. C.; four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 3 p.m. Saturday at White Mortuary Chapel by Rev. J. D. Crego. Final rites in Sunset Memorial Park.

The family suggests memorials to the Filer Methodist Church or charity of choice.

TWIN FALLS — Leading economic indicators in Idaho showed declines for the second consecutive month in October. But 15 coinciding indicators showed gains.

Of the five leading indicators, only daily average non-agricultural placements and non-residential building permits rose above year ago levels, according to the State Department of Employment.

The average manufacturing work week, average initial claims and residential building permits all deteriorated compared with October of 1972.

The adjusted figures of the five leading indicators for October (1972 October figures in parentheses) are: daily average non-agricultural placements 178.3 (107.0); weekly average initial claims, 1200 (1101); average work week manufacturing (hours), 30.4 (41.1); residential building permits (thousands of dollars) 5129 (2008).

With the exception of contract construction employment, all selected and coinciding economic indicators improved over year ago levels.

The adjusted figures for selected and coinciding indicators for October (October, 1972 figures in parentheses) are: non-agricultural wage and salary employment (thousands), 246.5 (233.6); unemployment rate, total (percent) 5.6 (5.8); average weekly insured unemployed (thousands), 7 (7.0); non-agricultural job openings received (daily average), 212 (136); new car registration, 2368 (1932); average hourly earnings (dollars), 4.07 (3.72); food and kindred products employment (thousands), 15 (14.5); lumber and wood products employment (thousands), 14.8 (13.0); contract construction employment (thousands), 13.2 (13.3); retail trade employment, 47.3 (41.9).

Bank debits (millions of dollars) for September were 780.4 compared to 601.5 in September of 1972. Personal income (billions of dollars) was 275 in August compared to 223 in August of 1972.

Electric Power sales (million of kilowatt hours) were 692 in September and 672 in September of 1972. Gasoline sales (millions of gallons) were at 31.2 in September and 37.6 in September of 1972.

Safety glasses, shoes, and other safety devices should be used for hazardous jobs on farms or in shops.

TWIN FALLS Civitan Club president Henry Cardinale, left, and fruitcake chairman B. L. (Pete) Burnikel display fruitcakes the service club will sell on the mall Saturday. The fruitcakes sell for $1.49 each. Buttons the men are wearing say: "I sell fruitcakes for Civitan. Ask me why?"

Civitan plans sale

Real headache

BOISE (UPI) — What looked like a near riot Thursday at Idaho's new state prison proved to be a real headache for three inmates Thursday. What prison officials initially reported as an "upheaval" and a potentially riotous situation turned out to be an early celebration of the holiday season by three inmates in the new prison south of Gowen.

The three got drunk on some homemade liquor called "Squawkee" and became boisterous.

But, before they could do anything besides acquire potential hangers, security personnel broke up their party.

Fruitcake sale set

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Civitan Club members will sell fruitcake on the downtown mall Saturday beginning at 10 a.m.

Proceeds from the annual Christmas sale will be used to sponsor civic projects of the service club including aid to retarded children and the Harbor House juvenile home.

Fruitcake sales chairman R. L. Burnikel said the cakes cost $1.49 apiece. Originally, he said, Civitan had about 1,500 fruitcakes but many have been sold through local supermarkets since they went on sale at Thanksgiving. Burnikel said about 500 cakes remain. Those who have not bought a cake can call 734-5500 to purchase one, he said.

Installation set

TWIN FALLS — Sue Thompson, honored queen elect of Bethel No. 43, International Order of Job's Daughters, read the names of her new officers at a meeting Wednesday night.

She also invited all members to the open installation at 7 p.m. Dec. 28.

Laurie Beal, honored queen, conducted the meeting and introduced Sue Thompson, senior princess of Bethel No. 43; Suzanne Guthrie, junior princess of Bethel No. 14 and Grand Bethel representative from Idaho to Iowa; Art Wylie, past associate grand guardian; Jan Beal, guardian of Bethel No. 43; Nellie Black, guardian of Bethel No. 14; Jim Beal, associate guardian of Bethel No. 43, and Bob Black associate guardian of Bethel No. 14.

There was a Christmas party and gift exchange following the meeting.

Good sign

It is becoming clear that Magic Valley people will help support national efforts to reduce energy consumption.

One visible symbol of local willingness to reduce consumption is the reduction of outdoor holiday lighting.

Many streets, such as Sunrise Boulevard North in Twin Falls, have been ablaze with colored lights in past seasons. This year there are only a few homes with outside lights in evidence.

At the same time there are as many or more non-lighted outdoor decorations visible. People who once relied on lighting to express their holiday wishes now make hand-lettered signs or displays to express themselves.

It is interesting to note that the reduction in outdoor lighting hasn't led to a reduction in indoor lighting. Christmas trees are ablaze with light in nearly every living room, perhaps an indication that people consider Christmas primarily a private event. They are willing to cut back public displays outdoors but not private ones in the home.

The small amount of electricity saved by dimming the outside lights may be small, but it is symbolic of willingness of Americans to work together once again. It is a good sign.

Idaho surplus

Idaho Falls Post Register

One of the unusual tasks of the 1974 Idaho Legislative session will be to deal with a money surplus which some say may reach to $13 million.

The productive things that can be done with this surplus, first of all, could be channeling obviously needed money into the Permanent Building Fund. Some years back the fund was reduced and its accumulation siphoned off into other state programs. The siphoning proved excessive as building needs over the state mounted and the money receded.

The Eastern Idaho Vocational School, just to name one such need in East Idaho, could benefit fruitfully by such action. The vocational school has more student needs than it can begin to handle, which says something about the catch-up we need to do on vocational education. But over the state, there are also other public projects of worth. The Idaho State Penitentiary, now virtually done, has taken a great deal of appropriation. It is questionable, moreover, that college students must pay for their own athletic stadiums in Idaho, and some basic other facilities as well, because the Legislature apparently interprets the Constitution's education rights as not to apply completely to college students... at least when it comes to those kinds of buildings.

Tax relief is another distinct possibility and one which undoubtedly will be advanced in the session if legislator statements to date are any indication. The tax relief, however, cannot be significant after it is first divided with existing programs of need and then the remainder spread so thinly over the populace. Applying the total surplus, in fact, as tax relief over the state, would hardly be noticeable after the spreading. We would suggest that the state also catch up on air quality and water quality standards and enforcement, spending some money for monitoring equipment and specialists to handle the program. The programs won't require much additional staff - but undoubtedly some, and certainly some monitoring equipment that can really tell us where we are on our ceilings and assist us in enforcing them.

Education will undoubtedly take another bite as well. The average teacher salary in Idaho remains at 48th in the nation. That's a disgrace.

Down in Utah, legislators hope to spend some of their surplus in buying recreational lands for public use. The biggest item is a sprawling, New England State size private ranch. Idaho might get some thought through funneling some extra funds through the Idaho Fish and Game Department for purchase of winter range for big game... and also for sufficient enforcement personnel in the Water Administration Department to enforce the stream protection law. For practical purposes, the stream enforcement is so random now to be interpreted a retreat from the stream protection law.

It should also be pointed out that gas rationing and travel restrictions could cut critically into revenues of the game department as out-of-state hunter quotas dwindle. As usual, there are plenty of places to put the money. Here're just a few on the list as thought-invokers.

Some fail to learn lesson of limiting power

(c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — One clear lesson of this extraordinary year is that strong nations, and strong institutions within nations, have more power than they dare use, but some people still haven't learned the lesson.

It is plain for all to read: — The United States obviously had the power to destroy North Vietnam, but preferred to compromise rather than face the consequences of the slaughter.

— The Soviet Union clearly had missiles which the North Vietnamese could have used to blow every American aircraft carrier out of the Moscow limited its power.

— In the Middle East, the Israelis had the tanks and aircraft to destroy Damascus and even Cairo, and again the Russians could have given Egypt missiles that could have wiped out

Tel Aviv or even Jerusalem, but everybody had enough common sense to hold back.

— Here in Washington, the Nixon administration is in terrible trouble precisely because it didn't limit its power in the political wars of 1972, but resorted to burglary, espionage, sabotage, forgery, extortion, and perjury to achieve its political ends, and cover them up.

Even so, the leaders of the Arab world, which invented philosophy, seem to have missed the philosophic points. They have come late into the world of power politics, and now think they can use the power of oil to compel the big industrial nations, who need their oil, to lean on Israel.

So far the Arab strategy has worked. Industrial Western Europe and Japan have sided with the Arab states, and even Secretary of State Kissinger has been urging the Israelis to withdraw roughly to the borders they held before the 1967 war.

But Kissinger is also pleading with the leaders of the Arab nations not to press their advantage too far, to limit their power, as the United States and the Soviet Union did in Vietnam, and work in the Geneva peace conference for a compromise.

No American secretary of State in this century has had a more difficult assignment. He is asking Israel to make concessions for peace it has never been willing to make in the past, and asking the Arab nations to lift their oil boycott and give the Geneva peace conference a chance.

The Arab nations, however, are still counting on power.

What is odd about this is not only that the Arab states have not learned the lesson of limiting their power, but that they have won their main battle and don't seem to know it.

Kissinger has asked the Arab leaders to do a simple thing: To lift the oil embargo when they go to Geneva, not to ask the United States to negotiate under duress. In practical terms, this is not a major suggestion.

But the Arabs are making it hard. Syria is refusing to go to the Geneva peace conference. President Sadat of Egypt is saying he won't negotiate directly with the Israelis. The Palestinians are shouting up American planes and murdering civilians to call attention to their grievances.

The lesson is that power can't be pushed too far, but it has to be controlled and limited. Unfortunately, neither the Israelis nor the Arabs seem to have accepted that lesson.

Star troubles family

WASHINGTON — The cold of the December night gripped the Palestinian village of Kerioth as Simon hurried home to his wife and little son. As he strode down the narrow streets, his mind was filled with wonder at the huge star which hung in the eastern sky and flooded the village with a brilliant, unnatural light.

Simon had never seen such a star before, and it both puzzled and frightened him. An unlettered man, he knew nothing of the mysteries of the universe, and he was beset by the fear that the sudden appearance of this shining planet might portend something of great significance.

Simon shivered, as much from his thoughts as from the cold, and drew his robe a little closer. He was relieved when he finally turned into the street where his house stood. Only a few steps more, and he would be safely home.

Casting one look backward at the glistening star, he opened the door of his house, stepped in, and shut the door on the night.

He stood there in the room for a moment, rubbing the cold-ache out of his hands and indulging himself in the warmth of the oil lamps which cast flickers of shadow-making light in the room.

For a moment, he thought the room was empty. Then from a darkened corner his wife emerged to greet him.

She was distraught, weeping, a troubled hand held to her face. He stepped toward her and his arm instinctively went around her in a comforting gesture.

ANDREW TULLY

"And now, what is this?" he asked. "Why do you weep, woman? 'Tis but a star in the heavens."

His wife broke off a sob, half-buried in his shoulder.

"Star?" she asked. "I know nothing of a star. It is the baby. Something is ill with him. He has no fever, yet he cries in his sleep."

Simon patted his wife's shoulder gently, and peered into the darkened corner where stood the cradle in which his son lay. Now he could hear the little boy's troubled whimpering.

Still with one arm around his wife, the father stepped over to the cradle and looked down at the baby, muffled in homespun blankets.

The child was asleep, but as he slept his little face worked and from his lips came a weak and pitiful moaning.

Simon reached out a gnarled hand and touched the child's brow with a gentle finger. The child stirred in his sleep, and the fretful whimpering became a small cry. Simon's own face darkened with fatherly concern.

"Why do you cry?" he asked his little son gently.

"What troubles you on this night, O little man of Kerioth — O little Judas Iscariot?"

Santa will know what to bring

(c) N. Y. Times Service

Dear Santa Claus: I write to you tonight, my fellow American, about a major list of gift requests of absolutely vital importance to the national security of the United States.

First, however, let me be quite frank with you about one vital point. It is this, my fellow citizen: I believe firmly in Santa Claus, I believe firmly that Santa Claus can deliver the goods when the chips are down and the ball is on the yard line.

I believe firmly that Santa Claus can and will deliver those goods not only for the United States of America, but also for its President. And you will say, "but why do you believe that, Mister President? Why do you believe in Santa Claus? Isn't believing in Santa Claus old-fashioned and out-of-date, like believing in mother and believing in root beer?"

And my answer to that is yes. If it is old-fashioned and out-of-date to believe in mother and root beer, then I choose proudly, my fellow humanitarian, to be old-fashioned and out-of-date.

And that is why I believe in Santa Claus. Some of my advisers cautioned me against turning to Santa Claus with this major list of vital gift requests.

It would be too hard, they said, if I tried to go the Santa Claus route. "Take the easy way, Mr. President," they told me. "Just give the check book to Pat and send her out to a shopping mall some Saturday afternoon."

And that is why, my fellow donor of good things to our fellow Americans, I chose to pursue the Santa Claus policy instead of letting Pat do the shopping.

"Ah!" you will say. "Ah, Mr. President, I'll bet I know what you want Santa to bring you for Christmas. Let old Santa just guess. I'll bet you want a brand-new image, and a nice shiny new Haldeman, and a mandarin as pretty as the one you lost last — and some new tape recorders that really work this time, and..."

And my answer to that is very simple and perfectly candid. The information you request cannot be divulged, no matter how sincerely I wish to keep you informed, because to do so would betray the presidential privilege of confidentiality. For this reason I must decline to make available to you my major list of vital gift requests.

A I explained above, my advisers warned me that in turning to Santa Claus I was not taking the easy way. I expect, however, that you will have sufficient faith in me to bring me the presents I have in mind.

Candidly yours, President R. M. Nixon

White House works on loopholes

WASHINGTON — Nearly four years after President Nixon took advantage of a fast-closing tax loophole to claim a $576,000 tax deduction for donation of his vice-presidential papers, senior White House aides were plotting how to pry it open again to permit an even faster tax break for his presidential papers.

In late 1972 and early 1973, with the Nixon tide running high before Watergate broke open, such a move was seriously discussed inside the White House by the President's top lieutenants and lawyers. The consensus favored a bill to reinstate tax deductions for contributions of public papers. The savage eruption of Watergate halted all such efforts.

This points up covert preoccupation at high levels of the Nixon White House with the President's personal financial security. It also is one more indication that "Operation Camel" whatever its impact in saving Nixon's predecessor, has hardly been candid at all.

In truth, as we recently reported, the White House's lobbying recently to save the tax loophole in 1969 "What's more, 'presidential papers' were well aware that this effort was based not on any broad tax principle but on a businesslike desire to feather the President's nest. Though, of course, it was not so presented to Congress."

Before and just after Nixon's 1972 reelection and while the White House staff pondered how he could profit from his accumulating presidential papers and discussed seeking help from Congress, Nixon's personal lawyers, led by Herbert Kalmbach, conferred with the White House counsel's office, then headed by John W. Dean III. The top presidential lieutenants, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, also were periodically involved in such matters.

The reason why senior government aides spent official time on the President's personal money problems was pervasive concern, seeping down from the oval office, about Nixon's financial future.

Of course with financial security as by no means unique to Nixon among American presidents.

Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski is now getting cooperation from the White House in supplying evidence — but only up to a point. It may be significant that the Jaworski aide assigned to manage through White House files belonging to the task force investigating the plumbers.

All this suggests to Capitol Hill that the more things change in Nixon's White House, the more they are the same. Of course, Congress will not impeach Nixon for disingenuous interest in securing big tax deductions. But cosmetic candor does not improve the overall congressional attitude toward Nixon, and that could prove decisive in the critical months ahead.

LETTERS

US appears laughing stock

Editor, Times-News: Our American public reacts to critical emergencies much the same as a colony of red ants milling feverishly about in all directions when their routine is disrupted by a careless or malicious foe. But, unlike ants, we cannot put our house back in order.

During the past year, it has been made amply clear to our congress in Washington that we desire to be rid of our presidential incumbent and his host of advisors and political yes men. Within the original structure of our constitution we incorporated, albeit lazily, means to do this. I should think that we have thus put our problem squarely before the proper authority. But, the proper authority does not appear disposed to properly function.

A large percentage of our 435 man House of Representatives are lawyers, or somewhat versed in law, or certainly should be. This is their baby. This is an unpleasant part of the job these gentlemen solicited and we supported. How have they contrived to shift off their responsibility in this respect?

Well, sir, I will tell you. They proceeded to appropriate fees for an anonymous committee of some 30 odd attorneys at law to make up their mind for them because they have not the courage to stick out their necks. And what, may we ask, is this estimable committee up to? Well, sir, they are presently adjourning until sometime in 1974. This is nice work if you can get it. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, Mr. Rodino.

Meanwhile, we continue as a laughing stock before the world.

Ray Howell, Shoshone

Apathy citizens' attitude

Editor, Times-News: Apathy — one word describes the awful name of the disgusting attitude of the U. S. citizen.

Look at your behavior — meat shortage — you strike! You protest! You boycott! You scuttle around buying up deep freezes screaming about high prices!

Wheat shortage — caused by you permitting your government to sell your wheat that you paid over $300 million in subsidies to Russia who in turn is playing the market with it — not helping the starving nations, but selling to Italy for one, who in turn may sell it back to you in products costing you hard earned cash. What do you do? — run around like a little squirrel hoarding up flour that you will have to throw away when weavils take over.

Next — you subsidized the oil companies who have oil wells capped off the Gulf of Mexico. The big cats are going to make you pay through the nose for trying to keep our country clean, so they yell — shortage — you go to pieces — like a chicken with its head cut off, flopping your wings.

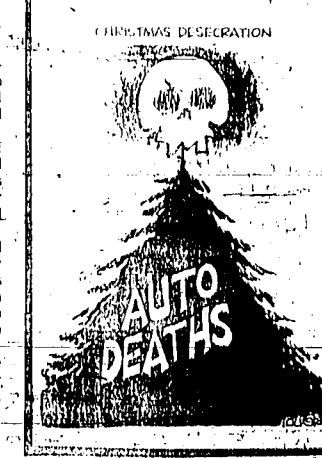

Quickly you grab drums, barrels, cans, hoard-hoard-hoard, screaming "What am I going to do? Light up the place so no burglar can steal my oil that I'm hoarding. Black market will sure help!"

"Get after them Arabs — those dirty sons of guns! Industry's big brass can go to their head offices to see how well they can use all this confusion to their advantage. O happy day for all who can use the plight of apathy that you and I possess."

No wonder my children look in disgust and disdain at a so-called educated race. They should put on sack cloth and sit in ashes mourning the day their parents gave them birth and left them this sad mess and worse yet are so disinterested, fat and too lazy to change the apathy that exists.

In the year 1974, let us do something — write to your congressmen and pray like you've never prayed before. Be a real live active citizen. Clean up your mess for a Happy New Year.

Probe reveals 'no evidence'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional investigators have concluded that the Internal Revenue Service did not buckle under pressures from John W. Dean III, author of a new political ethics measure, when he came up with a list of 575 names.

The House committee, headed by former committee member Johnnie M. Walters, did not complain to the Justice Department about what it saw as a "cover-up" of the IRS until a political apparatus in apparent violation of the law.

Reporting Thursday on the results of a six-month investigation into the IRS' behavior under political pressure, the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation said it found no evidence the IRS conducted a "massive cover-up" of the 575 names.

In a report on Dec. 13, the committee said that Woodworth, chief of staff for the joint committee, was not as candid about the IRS' actions as reported White House sources that the IRS had "taken away" on seven occasions.

Woodworth refused to identify any of the friends except one — New York attorney Kenneth Wiland, who helped President Nixon and a company deal with China and who is under indictment for evasion of tax.

Others who reportedly were shielded out for favorable tax treatment include actor John Wayne and evangelist Billy Graham, who has denied trying to use his influence with the IRS to get out of tax trouble.

Woodworth's check showed that the IRS taxpayers had and receive about twice as many audits as would be normal for people in their brackets. But he said the "enemies" were scrutinized not out of political motives but because as a class they tended to have more entertainment deductions and other checkworthy deductions than most taxpayers.

He said most of the enemies appeared to be supporters of 1972 Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern or his contributors or wealthy supporters of liberal causes.

Among the prominent people on the list were:

John Westwood and Lawrence O'Brien, both former Democratic national chairmen; entertainers Burt Lancaster, Shirley MacLaine, Paul Newman, Joanne Woodward, Polly Bergen, Gene Hackman, Joseph E. Levine, and Herb Alpert; Painter Georgia O'Keeffe; Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.; Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y.; former IRS Commissioner Mortimer Caplin; former Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford; Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, former Texas Democratic gubernatorial nominee; Howard M. Metzbaum of Cleveland, who was designated Wednesday to fill the vacant Senate seat of William B. Saxbe, the new attorney general.

Also Playboy publisher Hugh Hefner, diplomat Angier Biddle Duke, Harvard Professor John Kenneth Galbraith, cosmetic maker Max Factor, Xerox executive Max Paley, liberal philanthropists Philip Stern and Stewart Mott, Harvard Professor George Wald, Sculptor Alexander Calder.

Among the McGovern staff people or supporters were: Gary Hart, Frank Mankiewicz, Pierre Salinger, Gordon Well, Anne Wexler, Adm. Gene LeRoque, Richard Dougherty and Kirby Jones.

JOHNNIE WALTERS ... didn't complain

JOHN W. DEAN III ... listed 575

Thomas Adams named on list

LINCOLN, Mass. (UPI) — Thomas Boylston Adams, a direct descendant of two presidents, is "sort of proud" to be on the White House enemies list.

Adams, 63, is a descendant of John Adams — one of the leaders of the American Revolution — and second president of the United States — and of John Quincy Adams — sixth president.

John Adams helped draft the Declaration of Independence and persuaded the Second Continental Congress to organize the Continental Army and appoint George Washington as commander-in-chief.

"You might say I'm kind of proud to be on the list," Adams said Thursday upon learning his was one of 575 names listed as enemies of the administration of President Nixon.

Adams ran for the U.S. Senate on an antiwar platform from Massachusetts in 1966, but got only 10 per cent of the primary vote. He later waged an unsuccessful campaign for congress.

"I didn't know I was on the list, but I suppose I've earned my place on it," Adams said. "I think I should have probably been on the list because of my antiwar activities."

Adams said he was a McGovern delegate to the Democratic National Convention and supported the campaign of Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass. Drinan has called for Nixon's impeachment.

The savings amounted to more than $10,000, according to calculations by private accountants.

In 99 cases out of 100 the treasury decision to treat the expense allowance as "salary" and withhold taxes on it would have made no difference in the ultimate tax due. But in the president's case the ruling had the effect of allowing him to take a larger annual deduction for the contribution of his vice-presidential papers than would otherwise have been possible.

Bethlehem visitors rate low

BETHLEHEM, Israel-occupied Jordan (UPI) — On the surface, Bethlehem is laughing, preparing to celebrate the birth of the Prince of Peace nearly 2,000 years ago.

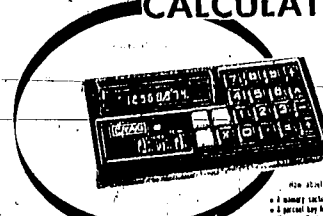

The red, green, and white festival lights adorn Manger Square as they have in years past. Workmen put up the wooden stage near the square as they have done for hundreds of years in the week before Christmas.

And the mayor of the town where Jesus was born talks joyfully about the ceremonies planned for Christmas Eve, 1973.

A closer look, however, shows that Bethlehem is a tourist town suffering from a troublesome lack of tourists because of October's Middle East war.

Rejection urged

(c) Chicago Sun-Times WASHINGTON — House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes yesterday urged President Nixon to reject the pay raise from $12,500 to $15,000 a year that is pending for members of Congress.

Committee, the White House has taken a series of steps recently to shore up his support in Congress.

Wednesday Nixon ordered the release of $1.1 billion in previously appropriated health and education program funds that had been impounded or withheld for a year or more. The power to control expenditures has been the object of a continuing controversy between the legislative and executive branches.

To avoid the responsibility for raising its salaries, the House and Senate arranged for an outside commission to recommend the raise. The president has authority under the system to grant the full amount, reduce it, or reject it altogether.

The congressional liaison staff has recommended that all or most of the increase be approved. A decision is expected by the end of the year. With an impeachment investigation about to begin in the House Judiciary

Airwest sale charges eyed

(c) Washington Star-News
 WASHINGTON — Federal officials will decide before the end of next week whether to seek indictments from a grand jury in Las Vegas, Nev., in connection with the acquisition of Airwest Airline by industrialist Howard Hughes, according to sources said today.

U. S. Attorney V. DeVoe Heaton, confined by phone from Los Angeles that a federal grand jury was sitting but declined to discuss what subjects the panel was considering.

Sources in Washington said a decision on whether to seek indictments in the case must be made before the end of the year because a statute of limitations covering possible conspiracy charges expires then.

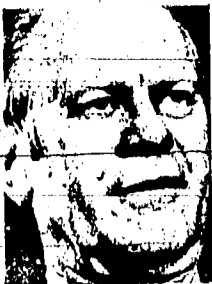

Hughes acquired the financially ailing airline in 1970 after a battle involving stockholders and officials of the company over a period of some three years.

In the complicated transaction, the airline was acquired by Hughes Tool Corp., and then passed on to Hughes Air Corp., both then owned by the billionaire recluse.

The Justice Department reportedly entered the case after the Securities and Exchange Commission concluded there might have been manipulation of the stock during the negotiations. If there were manipulation, this would raise the question of whether stockholders in the line had been defrauded by being led to believe their stock was worth less than it actually was.

According to reports at the time, Hughes paid $94 million for the line.

He'll pay

VICE PRESIDENT Gerald Ford said Thursday he will "bend over backwards" to keep paying his Michigan state income tax, but refused to criticize President Nixon for not paying California income taxes. Shortly after his news conference, Ford left for Spain to attend the funeral of Prime Minister Adm. Luis Carrero Blanco. (UPI)

Aid recipients not eligible

(c) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — More than 30 per cent of families receiving cash assistance under the aid-to-families-with-dependent-children program were ineligible or overpaid, according to a study released today by the Department of Health Education and Welfare.

Another 8 per cent of these families were underpaid, the report said. The findings came from an "intensive six-month quality control review" of the program from April to September of this year. The review, conducted by state agencies, covered 44,000 selected cases.

Of these cases, 10.2 per cent were ineligible and 22.8 per cent received overpayments. These two groups of violators cost the government $1.17 billion a year, the department said.

All states have developed corrective measures to reduce the excess cost, according to the secretary of HEW, Caspar W. Weinberger.

The corrective actions taken by the states include increased interviews with persons in the program, additional verification of outside income and more training of local program participants.

A department spokesman said Congress had authorized the department to penalize states that fail to meet these goals. States could lose federal funds in 18 months equal to the percentage they go over the goals.

Cong accuses US of false reports

SAIGON (UPI) — The Viet Cong took the political offensive against the United States today, charging Americans lied in their report of a Communist attack last week on three unarmed helicopters that left a U.S. officer dead.

A short Viet Cong statement issued to newsmen said the United States and South Vietnam committed a "flagrant distortion of the truth" when they tried to pin blame for the attack on the Communist side.

In retaliation, the Viet Cong said it had decided to boycott this week's meetings of two truce teams. The move will have no effect since South Vietnam and the United States already had walked out of the talks to protest the attack.

The three helicopters, painted with the bright orange stripes of the international peacekeeping force, were attacked just after they landed 10 miles southwest of Saigon Dec. 15 to search for the body of an American soldier killed in 1966.

An American report said one U.S. officer was killed "in cold blood" when he stood up, hands in the air, in an attempt to tell the attackers the entire team was unarmed. Rocket fire blew up one of the helicopters.

IRA blamed for bombs

LONDON (UPI) — Extremists set off two bombs outside the Hilton Hotel in London today and postal workers in Dublin found two others in a pre-Christmas terror campaign that spanned two countries.

The Hilton bombs packed inside empty cigarette packages blew the hood off a car parked beside the U.S.-owned hotel in the fashionable Mayfair district but caused no injuries. A Scotland Yard spokesman blamed the Irish Republican Army (IRA) for the blast, but said there was no indication why the outlawed Roman Catholic extremist group picked the Hilton.

The letter bombs discovered in the Irish Republic's capital were defused before they exploded.

Dublin authorities said 13 letter bombs have been received in the Irish Republic within the past 24 hours.

WR Valley Lutherans make plans

KETCHUM — The new Lutheran Church in the Halley-Ketchum-Sun Valley area — only four months old — has a rather ambitious program for the Christmas holidays.

The Advent season was observed with Bible preparations that focuses on the Christ of Bethlehem's Manger. This Sunday evening the church will present its first Children's Christmas Vespers. This "Christmas Party" to which the public of our Magic Valley communities are invited will be held in the multipurpose room of the Halley Junior High, according to Pastor E. F. Loessel.

At the present time, the officers of the Halley-Ketchum Lutheran Church are Bill Otterstein, chairman; Will Farmer, secretary; Mrs. Otterstein, treasurer. The Sunday school teachers are Mrs. L. P. Poyne, Mrs. Macanilla, Les Polzen, Mrs. Kolzon, secretary, and Miss Carolyn Larson, music.

Benefit boost revived

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An 11 per cent increase in Social Security benefits for 30 million Americans, once bogged down in a dispute between two committees, has been revived by House and Senate negotiators.

Chances were considered good that Congress would approve the compromise bill worked out by a House-Senate conference committee, before a month-long Christmas recess.

But the bill faced one possible hitch in the Senate where it is being brought up under an unusual parliamentary procedure that would allow a filibuster or floor amendments. Normally such a compromise bill would not be subject to amendment or extended debate.

The first 7 per cent installment of the increase would come in April checks, with the remaining 4 per cent in July checks.

To pay for the $2.3 billion-a-year increase, the base pay on which Social Security taxes are calculated would be increased to $13,200 in 1974. It was $10,600 in 1973 and had already been scheduled to go to $12,600 in 1974.

The tax rate of 5.85 per cent would remain the same, meaning that the entire increase would fall on those in the upper income brackets.

Because of the delay in reaching a compromise, the Social Security Administration may not be able to program its computers in time for April checks, and the April increase may be paid retroactively, in May checks.

The bill would increase the present $34.50 minimum Social Security payment to $60.60 in April and $93.80 in July. The average old age benefit would rise from $107 in April and $106 in July, and the average benefit for an aged couple would go from $277 to $296 in April and $310 in July.

On Thursday, the conference committee agreed on a compromise involving a series of Senate amendments which involved the Senate's taking the House bill and the House accepting a few Senate amendments. Most of the Senate amendments remain in conference, and they will be considered early next year.

This led to the unusual parliamentary situation in the Senate. Instead of considering a normal conference report, the original House bill had to be passed along with the amendments agreed upon in conference.

Skylab's bad gyro acting up

HOUSTON (UPI)—Skylab engineers are becoming increasingly worried about the flipshod performance of a gyroscope that keeps the space laboratory flying straight. But they do not believe the situation is serious enough to end the current mission prematurely.

Skylab 3 crewmen Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue weren't troubled by the problems of the controlling device and were doing their research—work listening to Christmas carols piped up to them from the ground.

The space fliers rolled their eight-room space house over again today to take another look at Comet Kohoutek and took turns sitting in a rotating chair to test their susceptibility to motion sickness.

Luther Powell, a Marshall Space Flight Center engineer studying the gyro's erratic behavior, said there is no clear answer to why the device has momentarily slowed six different times in the past 3-1/2 weeks.

"There's just no pattern to it, no frequency," Powell said Thursday.

Without the gyro, the third space station crew could stay in orbit no more than five weeks. Another of the lab's three gyros quit working almost four weeks ago, and with just one of the devices the only way to keep the ship stable as it orbits the earth is to use thrusting gas from the crew's Apollo ferry ship, in which they rode to Skylab.

Faces trial

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI)—Dep. William Alexander, D-Ark., was arrested Thursday afternoon on charges of assaulting a police officer after a brief scuffle in a pouring rain at Washington's National Airport.

He will be tried Feb. 6 in U.S. Magistrate's court in Alexandria.

Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Dennis Feldman said the scuffle started after Alexander nudged a traffic policeman with his car as he attempted to maneuver in front of the terminal. Feldman said the congressman disregarded Officer Richard Prince's directions "and ran into the policeman."

Nixon example?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon may cancel a planned post-Christmas trip to Florida and "stay here and freeze" in order to set an example of fuel conservation.

Nixon's aides had said the President would take a holiday at Key Biscayne, Fla., for a week or 10 days starting on Dec. 26, going by train or plane.

But when Nixon met with energy adviser William E. Simon Thursday he broke off his conversation to remark to photographers: "You all are going to stay up here with me and freeze. Somebody has got to set an example and it's going to be me."

Oilmen aid proposal cancelled

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government has shelved a plan to call in 250 oil industry officials to help run the fuel allocation program.

Duke R. Ligon, director of the Office of Oil and Gas, said Thursday the callup was "postponed indefinitely" after Acting Attorney General Robert H. Bork ruled the oilmen might face conflict of interest charges over decisions they would make involving their own companies.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton announced on Nov. 29 plans for mobilization of oil industry executives participating in the "Emergency Petroleum and Gas Administration Executive Reserve" program. The program was authorized by the Defense Production Act of 1950 and came into being in 1963.

The purpose was to maintain a roster of oil experts who could be called to serve the government in time of national emergency. The executives have received training in their spare time, much as National Guardsmen report for training in their spare time.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and my boy friend is 24. We're expecting a baby soon and are very happy. We are not married, but because we are not bound to each other by marriage, only because of our love and commitment to each other—we feel our relationship is stronger than one of legal ties.

Neither one of us wants to get married, but I am worried about the complications that could arise in the future. For instance, if one of us should die, since we are not legally married, wouldn't it be hard for the remaining one to obtain the belongings of the deceased partner? And if there were a separation, where would we stand? Also, would his Blue Cross and insurance cover me, too? Would our child be considered illegitimate?

If we stay together for seven years, we understand our union will be considered common-law. But what if it doesn't? Can you help me?

New method studied on ending pregnancies

(New York Times Service) HONOLULU — A new method of ending an unwanted pregnancy, developed by a psychologist, promoted by Women's groups and surrounded by intense medical controversy, is now being studied carefully by physicians throughout the world.

The technique, a modification of the standard suction abortion, has many names, among them menstrual regulation, induction or extraction, endometrial aspiration and mini-abortion.

It is usually performed within two weeks of a missed menstrual period, a time when traditional pregnancy tests are often unable to detect conception.

According to participants in the First International Conference on Menstrual Regulation, which ended here Wednesday, the advantages of the method include its simplicity, rapidity, low cost, very low complication rate and the fact that it can be performed in a doctor's office by paramedical personnel.

Then he led the only card that would enable him to beat the contract. He played his low trump. South's only choice was to cash his good spades and concede the last three tricks for down one.

'Common' Lawyer

DEAR NEEDING: You are asking some intelligent (and most timely) questions which only a lawyer can answer. I suggest you see one, and pay him for what he knows.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 15, and I suppose you'd call her "normal," for today's world. Her language is atrocious, and her clothes are "stylishly disreputable," but she is a straight-A student and plays the clarinet in her high school band.

She has one strange hangup, which is why I am writing to you. We have two very old female boxers who sleep at the foot of her bed. Realizing that one day they will die, our daughter insists that when they do she wants to keep their ears! This isn't as far out as it sounds, considering she communicates well with animals and wild birds.

Should I try to discourage her from keeping the boxers' ears after they die?

PAPA BEAR

DEAR BEAR: How does she intend to "keep" the ears? (Pickled in formaldehyde? Cast in bronze?) If there are no laws prohibiting the keeping of pets' parts after they depart this life, what's the harm?

DEAR ABBY: My daughter in law did not acknowledge any of her wedding gifts and she has been married for more than six months. She says she is "sorry," but now it is too late to do anything about it.

I am terribly embarrassed because many of my good friends sent gifts. I don't know which direction to take. Should I, as a mother in law, interfere? I wouldn't mind helping her—or even writing them all myself, but I don't want to stir up trouble.

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: I would tell my daughter in law that even tho it is very late, it is not TOO LATE to acknowledge her wedding gifts, and I would offer to help her. If she refuses, I would then write to those who sent her gifts out of friendship to me, apologize for her negligence, and thank them myself.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 60700, L.A., Calif. 90060. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Marriage request denied by warden

CANON CITY, Colo. (UPI) — The acting warden of the Colorado State Penitentiary has denied an inmate's request to marry and conceive a child by artificial insemination.

"I denied it... because I reject the theory that a warden should be placed in a position to make arbitrary decisions," Warden Gordon Heggie said Wednesday.

Heggie said he told the inmate, Harold "Skip" Richardson, 26, to add his name to a list of prison plaintiffs who have filed a suit requesting the courts to adjudicate prisoners' right to marry while in jail. The suit challenges the warden's authority to grant or deny marriage requests.

Richardson, denied conjugal visits of weekend furloughs under Colorado Law, said last week he wanted to marry Dawn Harris and have a child through artificial insemination. He said he wanted to father the child before February, 1975, when he is eligible for parole, because the child would strengthen their marriage.

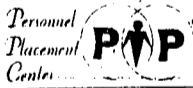

Heggie said his denial of Richardson's marriage request did not involve the question of artificial insemination.

Short hairdos shaping up for spring

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
CHICAGO — Cold weather doesn't seem to be deterring women from getting their locks lopped off. The short cuts that started shaping up as a top trend last spring are continuing to gain acceptance as hair stylists keep right on snipping along.
 "Seventy-five per cent of our customers have short of medium styles," says Tim Knupp, manager of the Chicago Vidal Sassoon Salon. "And they requested them. We didn't have to persuade them." Knupp thinks women of all ages are going for shorter cuts because they've become bored with all that hair hanging around their shoulders. "They simply want a change. Even the young girls who have had long, straight hair for several years are tired of the look because it's become too common."

 "They're eager to try something different. And older women like shorter hair because it gives a lift to their faces. We do styles from curly to wavy and smooth, depending upon what looks best on the individual. The cut is generally graduated and shaped to the form of the head. A lot of women like bangs, but they're not for everyone."
 Marc Benaim has always preferred short to long hair.

But lately he hasn't had to convince many women that they should have their hair cut very short. They aren't afraid it will be too short anymore, as they were in the past.
 Benaim believes that more men are finally coming to realize that short hair on a woman can be as sexy as long hair.
 "If she isn't feminine, long hair won't help."
 Some stylists say women are coming around to have their tresses bobbed because they're busy and they want easy-care hair. According to Jean Luc of Saks Fifth Avenue, "there are so many busy women today who want to spend a minimum of time caring for their hair. With shorter hair they can have it blown dry in minutes."

 Like most stylists, Jean Luc says a good cut is vital. With shorter hair, a woman can do her own hair at home and make periodic visits to her stylist.
 The small head look in hair has been receiving a lot of praise from milliners, as might be expected. Remember, it was the bubble and other bouffant hairdos that helped kill the hat business several years ago.

House approves manpower training act

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House approved Thursday and sent to the Senate a job-training and job-creating bill to cost nearly $2 billion. The vote was 330 to 33.

The manpower training act is a compromise of differing House and Senate plans which the administration said it would accept. It would continue for two more years a public-service-jobs program considered essential because of rising unemployment caused by the energy shortage.

The job-creating portion of the measure would earmark a minimum of $250 million for the current fiscal year, and $350 million for the year starting July 1.

The program, created in 1971, is credited with putting at least 300,000 jobless persons to work in the past two years.

It provides federal financing for wages and fringe benefits for people hired by state and local governments as municipal hospital workers, sanitation and road-maintenance workers, firemen and policemen.

Earlier this year, President Nixon opposed extension of the program on grounds that the "emergency" of high unemployment that existed at the time it was started had disappeared. He later agreed to the two-year extension as the energy crunch settled in and created new unemployment problems.

No set authorization was provided in the measure for the training programs but Rep. Marvin Esch, R-Mich., GOP manager of the bill, estimated between $1.5 billion and $1.8 billion a year would be made available.

A complicated formula that takes into account the number of unemployed in a state, the number of adults in low income families and the amount a state received last year for the training programs was agreed on to determine allocations among the 50 states.

Auditor says F-G 'knuckled'

BOISE (UPI) — State Auditor Joe R. Williams accused the Fish and Game Department today of knuckling under to political pressure in a wildlife report on state land in Eastern Idaho.

Williams said "there's way too wide a variance" in reports the department made on three sections of land between Aug. 23 and Dec. 17.

Located 22 miles south of American Falls and 7 1/2 miles southwest of Rockland in the Cedar Ridge area of Power County two thirds of the land is being farmed on leases. One third is idle. When the land department first received applications to buy the land it asked the Fish and Game Department whether it was needed for wildlife habitat.

"The parcel of land in question... has been inspected by our personnel and we have concluded to the best of our knowledge that no critical deer winter range is involved," Region IV Supervisor William E. Webb, Jerome, wrote the land department Aug. 23.

Land board members took up the sale applications at a Nov. 15 meeting but, because only three of the five were present, hold them up until a meeting of the full board last Wednesday.

Because of the Aug. 23 report Williams said he was ready to vote for selling the land and putting it on the tax rolls.

Then, Wednesday, board members were handed a new appraisal of the land by Fish and Game Director Joseph C. Greenley. Dated last Monday, this report recommended "all three sections be kept in public ownership, the leased farmland be restored as rangeland and the state and Bureau of Land Management enter a joint management program for livestock and wildlife grazing in this area.

Greenley said the reappraisal of the land on Cedar Ridge was based on a "more detailed look" at the area.

"This small amount of state rangeland is an oasis in a biological desert that is inhabited by mule deer, bobcats, Hungarian partridge, hawks, owls, coyotes, songbirds, and other wildlife," Greenley wrote.

"Along with providing habitat for this multitude of wildlife species... this land is important in providing clean water to the watershed of Rock Creek," he said, adding it also could be important to Cutthroat and Rainbow fishery.

"This land on Cedar Ridge has the only quality cover left in the valley," Greenley said. "Possibly some of the watershed values could be restored which could result in some of the fishery being brought back..."

And, he added, at the present time "the farming operations are creating serious erosion problems."

Santa, seniors kick up heels

Senior Citizens from Elmore County were special guests Thursday afternoon at a Christmas party in the Twin Falls Odd Fellows Hall, sponsored by the Twin Falls Senior Citizens Center.

About 140 persons attended the dinner dance, according to Mary Taylor, secretary at the center. A group of Mountain Home musicians, including hiddlers and pianist, played for dancing after the dinner and Santa distributed treats.

Two of the guests were 90 and 91, but this did not deter them from enjoying the dancing, Mrs. Taylor said.

Arrangements for the party were made by Mary Etta Bench, director of the Twin Falls center.

Lincoln dumps in violation

SHOSHONE — The four Lincoln County dumps must go because they violate state health standards, according to a consensus of county and state officials.

State officials from the Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS) met with county commissioners and other area officials.

DECS officials recommend the county establish and operate one sanitary landfill in a new location. The new fill would be fenced, open on certain days only and be supervised.

The DECS officials also recommended pickup stations be established throughout the county, with pickups contracted.

The City of Shoshone would continue its house-to-house pickup at its own expense. A two-mill county levy would defray a portion of the fill operating expense. Should additional revenue be required, fees could be charged.

Revenue Sharing funds would be used to construct the fill.

The possibility of cooperating with neighboring counties in a joint operation of a sanitary landfill has been discussed.

The DECS will come up with a plan locating the pickup station and develop a cost of operation estimate.

Question was raised at a meeting regarding whether or not there is enough soil to cover in the present operation, at least in some of the locations.

"No landfill can work unless the area is fenced, unless there is public support recognizing that all material must be put in the pit, and unless the use of the pit is limited to the time an attendant is present," the group said.

DECS asks fair share

BOISE — The Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS) is going to seek legislation in 1974 to make sure Idaho gets its "fair share" of construction funds for municipal sewage treatment plants, a top official said Thursday.

Al J. Eiguren, head of the Environmental Protection Division of DECS said two proposals were being drafted with the assistance of the Association of Idaho Cities.

The first proposal, Eiguren said, would change state eligibility requirements that govern which municipalities receive construction funds. He said Thursday, the state's current requirements, in some cases, exceed federal regulations.

The second proposal the state agency will make to the legislature, according to Eiguren, would require certification of plant personnel to operate the treatment facilities.

The present voluntary system of training in certification would be replaced with an instructional system set up by DECS and the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) under the proposal DECS will submit.

Eiguren also said department officials are still trying to determine what Idaho needs to do before federal authorities will give it jurisdiction over water pollution permits.

The 1973 legislature approved both civil and criminal penalties for violators of the permit system but the EPA has notified the state the penalties aren't strong enough. As a result, Eiguren said, DECS will seek tougher measures from the 1974 legislature. But he said no decision had been made on what penalties would be sought.

today in brief

Charge dismissal ordered

HAILEY — Magistrate Charles Shaw has ordered dismissal of charges of alleged driving while intoxicated and disturbing the peace, which had been brought against Earl L. McBride, 37, Twin Falls.

The dismissal came on the motion of Blaine County Pros. Atty. Stephen W. Boller on the grounds of inavailability of witnesses. McBride had been arrested by the Hailey Police Department on June 30.

Director blames DECS

BOISE (UPI) — The director of corrections blamed the State Department of Environmental and Community Services for procedures that led to the escape of a mental patient who is suspected of kidnapping and raping a young woman.

Director Raymond May said Michael Hightower, 24, was committed to the Board of Health as a mental patient. May said he was at the prison on a "civil" commitment.

May said the Board of Corrections was to provide a secure setting for psychiatric and psychological counseling for such patients.

Lemhi shop completed

SALMON — A new $45,000 shop for Lemhi County has been completed by Cooper Construction Co. of Salmon on U.S. Highway 93 at the south city limits.

The all-steel structure was built with federal revenue sharing funds. It measures 50 by 100 feet.

Charles Kane Sr., Lemhi County Commission chairman, said the new shop is the realization of a 16-year-old dream to provide adequate shop facilities for the county.

Low bidder announced

BOISE — Hensel Phelps Construction Co., Greeley, Colo., is the apparent low bidder for building a bridge over the Snake River below the American Falls Dam.

That firm's bid of $1,199,675 was the lowest of six received by the Idaho Highway Department Thursday.

The Colorado firm bid for the contract to erect the superstructure of the 1,130-foot-long bridge, which will be located below the planned replacement dam. When the new dam and the bridge are completed, the bridge and a crossing atop the dam will provide two one-way river crossings.

Peter Kiewit Sons Co., Twin Falls, holds an $810,365 contract for bridge substructure construction.

Fuel allocations rapped

BOISE — The newest proposed fuel allocation regulations fail to take into account several economic areas vital to Idaho, according to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

Andrus, in a sharply worded telegram sent this week to federal energy czar William E. Simon, said the proposed regulations "would be unacceptable and bring undue hardship to the people of Idaho." If adopted, the new regulations would become effective Dec. 27.

Andrus' telegram to Simon took "strong exception" to the proposals that arranged priorities for middle distillate fuels for four basic reasons:

- They include:
 - The setting of agriculture as a Category II for receiving middle distillates;
 - The low priority established for recreation which Andrus termed "a primary industry" in the state and charged in his telegram is "mentioned primarily in negative terms" in the - proposed regulations;

 - the setting of logging, mining and related industries as Category II recipients for diesel. Andrus wired Simon such priority would seriously handicap the industries located in sparsely populated areas of the state and said "should they not receive adequate supplies of gas and diesel which will have an immediate impact on the communities."
 - a lack of flexibility which Andrus noted in his telegram does not "take into account a state with low population centers wide geographic expanses... and a lack of passenger or other mass transit to serve the people."

The proposed regulations grant the state's a reservoir of fuel to administer, amounting to three percent of what is available within the state. Andrus wrote Simon that more clarification is needed on what the state's responsibilities would involve.

Date set

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's Supreme Court will hear oral arguments at 10 a.m. Jan. 18 on a case testing the recall movement against state Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello.

When Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa declared the recall petitions insufficient last summer because they lacked a post office address for those signing them, the recallers went to court.

Fair hearing queried

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, has raised the question of President Nixon's chances for fair impeachment hearings, in light of the campaign contributions organized labor made to 1972 congressional campaigns.

Symms said members of the House Judiciary Committee received nearly $100,000 from labor organizations last year. Now labor boss George Meany "is screaming for the impeachment of Nixon, knowing that most Democratic members of the judiciary committee are heavily financed by organized labor."

Pocatello election set

POCATELLO (UPI) — Pocatello School District will hold a $4.2 million bond election in February for elementary school additions and construction.

The bonds, if approved will cover building a new Wilcox Elementary School and additions to the Chubbuck and Tyhee elementary schools. Also included will be construction of a central kitchen facility that will provide hot lunches to five schools without lunch programs.

Matching funds available

BOISE (UPI) — A matching funds program of $20,000 will be made available to local emergency services agencies for procurement of rescue-extraction equipment.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus announced the establishment of the state funds Thursday and said the objective of the matching funds program is to assist in providing rescue tools that will result in the formation of at least 50 rescue squad units throughout Idaho.

Pheasants battle farmers in Minidoka

RUPERT — In Minidoka County the pheasants are battling the farmers for the rights to 12,000 acres of Bureau of Reclamation Land.

The Mindoka Project Northside Pumping Division Extension Advisory Committee hosted the battle Thursday night during another in a series of meetings set to help determine the future of the land.

The committee "is very fluid," chairman George Glarborg of the A and B Irrigation District said after the meeting. Membership is not limited and co-occasionally over 75 farmers, sportsmen, fish and game officials and interested citizens attended Thursday's meeting.

The lands in question formerly belonged to the Bureau of Land Management and were turned over to the Bureau of Reclamation for development many years ago. The bureau ran out of funds to develop the 12,000 remaining acres and is now attempting to determine their fate.

The exchanges Thursday night were lively, particularly to the debates between the Idaho Fish and Game Department and several of the farmers.

Unofficial fish and game proposals and an official proposal from the Minidoka Wildlife Federation, for example, called for the fish and game department to lease the lands to farmers for crop production so the department could control them for wildlife purposes.

"Why don't we (the farmers) lease the land to the fish and game department," someone then commented. Several statements were made that the federal government already owns too much land.

"Everytime we farmers try to work with the federal government we end up losing money," one farmer said.

Stuart Murrell, fish and game official, said that studies show that the longer a tract is in irrigation, the larger the decrease in the pheasant population, because the amount of unfilled land decreases. Although solid sagebrush is not good for the pheasant population, "good clean farming practices" will drive the population down also, he said.

Models drawn up by the Bureau of Reclamation were presented to the committee by John Peterson, Idaho Bureau of Reclamation director. The models call for the land to be leased from the federal government for farming with crop production to be under the control of the government. Border strips would be developed for the protection of the pheasants.

Dave Wilson, of the Minidoka Wildlife Federation, presented a proposal calling for retention of the land in federal ownership with development by the Bureau of Reclamation for wildlife purposes emphasizing habitat for pheasants and cottontail rabbits.

Once the lands were developed the plans said, they would be turned over to the fish and game department to lease for crop production with a stipulation that the majority of the lands be open for public hunting.

Steven Armstrong proposed that the land be opened for homesteading "with consideration given to lands not profitable for farming" for wildlife purposes. "There is room on this ground for the farmer and the sportsman," he said.

Glarborg told the committee that it "just as well learn to live with the fact that some of this land is going to have to go for pheasants."

"What are we more interested," a voice from the audience followed, "groceries or birds."

The debate ended in a standstill. No proposals were acted upon and will not be acted upon until the final report is made by the Bureau of Reclamation. The report is due in March and the bureau was hoping to finish the hearings by January.

Filer Lutheran group buys Christmas gifts

FILER — Peace Lutheran Women's League members held their Christmas dinner and meeting at the home of Mrs. Del Butterfield. Guests included Mrs. Bob Wyatt, Mrs. Otto Schlange, Mrs. Helen Brown and Mrs. Verla Dodson. The group decided to donate $10 to help buy Christmas gifts for the Twin Falls Head Start program. The special collection will be sent to the Good Shepherd Home. Mrs. Edith Lammers and Mrs. John Ortel will be on the visiting committee for the month and also will take gifts to the shut-ins. Mrs. Ortel was in charge of the opening devotionals and topic which included scripture readings and Christmas carols. Mrs. Ernest Thaeo was re-elected president for the coming year and Mrs. Lammers, vice president. Mrs. Houben Lieman will serve as secretary and Mrs. Walter Mueller as treasurer.

Castleford High School students present skit

FILER — A Christmas candlelight service marked the opening of the Clover Lutheran Women's Missionary League meeting in the school. Christmas carols were sung and Bible readings were presented by the group. Proceeds from the birthday bank, Christmas stockings and collection taken at the Christmas party will be divided between the Good Shepherd Home and students attending Lutheran Church colleges. New officers were elected with Mrs. Roy Gartner selected president; Mrs. Lyle Lieman, vice president; Mrs. Vernon Lassen, secretary, and Mrs. Rene Burkhalter, treasurer. Rev. T. D. Johnston installed the new officers. Students from the Castleford High School presented original skits, cuttings from plays and pantomimes. Mrs. Raymond Lassen and Mrs. Vernon Lassen were hostesses. Mrs. Arthur Kaster and Mrs. Robert Schner were members-at-large.

Brief church news

TWIN FALLS — The annual Christmas program of the Bethel Temple Church will be at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. The pastor, Rev. J. L. Tankersley, invites everyone to attend. The new Bethel Temple Church is located on 3200 east Addison Avenue East.

TWIN FALLS — "Is the universe, including man, evolved by atomic force?" is the title of Sunday's Christian Science lesson-sermon. The KTFI radio program will be heard at 6:30 p.m. Christmas Eve on the subject "How are we celebrating Christmas?"

HAGERMAN — "God's Gift to You" will be theme of the Christmas program to be given at the Baptist Church at 7 p.m. Sunday by the Sunday school department. The public is invited. Rev. Bill Scrubbs, pastor, said.

KING HILL — Mrs. Gerald Bybee, Glenns Ferry, has been appointed secretary and treasurer of the King Hill United Presbyterian Bible School. Mrs. Karl Carnahan, Bible school superintendent, announced the appointment. She also announced that Lucille, Sheri and Craig Finlayson, Kevin Sherman and Ardella Rubery will serve as ushers and candlelighters.

TWIN FALLS — Paul DeWitt, Sunday school superintendent at the First Assembly of God, North Locust and Shoup Avenue, will direct the children of the church in a program at 10:30 a.m. Sunday. The young people of the church will present a Christmas play at 7 p.m. Sunday under the direction of the youth pastor, Loren Hamar. Pastor James C. Hicks invites the public to attend these services.

ALMO — The Almo LDS Primary Christmas party was held Tuesday afternoon at the recreation hall. The group sang Christmas carols and played games. A Christmas birthday cake and punch were served for refreshments. Mrs. Robert Ward, Mrs. Zenith Taylor, Mrs. Arley Cahoon and other officers and teachers were in charge of arrangements.

SHOSHONE — The annual Episcopal Church Christmas program and party will follow short worship services at 7 p.m. Sunday, Rev. Father Daniel McAughy announces. Special Christmas services at the church include a 6:45 p.m. service on Monday with a "manager service" especially for the children; an 11 p.m. service of Holy Communion that night, and another Holy Communion at 11 a.m. on Christmas Day. The public is invited to any of these services. Rev. McAughy said.

CHURCHES

Candlelight carol service scheduled

TWIN FALLS — The annual Christmas Eve candlelight carol service at the First United Methodist Church will be conducted at 7 p.m. Several special selections will be sung by the choir under direction of A. B. (Rip) Gerdes, including "Carol of the Bells," "Christmas Cradle Song" and "Birthday of a King." Angelina Pennington will light the Christmas candle and Mrs. Fran Ridor will be organist for the service. Mrs. Richard Baum and Richard Chilcote will be pianists. A brass trio, vocal duet, men's and women's quartets will sing during the service. The Rev. Herbert E. Morris, pastor, said the service is open to all persons interested in attending.

First Christian Church sets Christmas cantata

TWIN FALLS — The choir of First Christian Church, under the direction of Mrs. Robert Nelson, will present a cantata "The Night of Miracles" by Peterson at the Sunday morning worship hour. Accompanied by Mrs. Mary Kay Boyd, organist; Cleta Rutecky, pianist; Narrator will be Mrs. James Reynolds. Those with solo parts are Ferris Sweet, Bill Sweet, Shirley Hazen, James Reynolds, MaryLynn Jones. In the evening at 7 the Sunday School will hold its annual Christmas Program "The Birthday of a King" presented by the children in the Sunday school classes. Treats will be given to the children during the fellowship time which will be followed by a play put on by the high school youth.

Festival at Shoshone

SHOSHONE — The annual ward workshop festival at the Shoshone LDS Church, held last Saturday evening, featured a variety of items. There were tea towels and pillowslips, aprons, candles and miscellaneous art, as well as decorative floral arrangements and a section for children.

Dolls had been made from stockings, and the trimming necessary for hair, face and clothing. Teddy and panda bears sold well. In addition there was a cooked food section, a fish pond and games for children and a movie.

Funds raised go toward the ward budget and the building fund, according to Bishop LaMar Duffin.

FILER — The Filer United Methodist Church will present its annual Christmas Eve candlelight ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Shoshone services set

SHOSHONE — There will be three services at St. Peter's Catholic Church over Christmas. The first Mass will be at 9 p.m. Monday with a midnight Mass and the third at 9 a.m. Christmas Day.

The annual Christmas party and program was held in conjunction with opening of the newly remodeled parish hall adjacent to the church. This was held Monday evening under direction of Mrs. Dale Harding, president of the Altar Society. The CCD children presented a Christmas play "Colors of Christmas," featuring music, recitations, film strips and was under direction of Sister Rosemary, Buhl, who is the coordinator for Catholic education in this area. Children from kindergarten through sixth grade participated. During the social hour treats were given to the children and refreshments served. This is the first time the new hall has been used since it was redecorated and finished for use. The hall was moved to Shoshone from Jerome early last spring and members of the church have spent countless hours remodeling and redecorating it. The men dug a foundation and laid the cinderblock for that, put on new exterior siding and repaired the roof.

Farm

Fuel lack effects ripple across US

DENVER (UPI) — John Stencel, president of the Rocky Mountain Farmers Union warned Wednesday that effects of the fuel shortage on farmers and ranchers will ripple through the entire economy.

"It isn't as simple as we've occasionally heard said that we're talking about fuel for farmers," Stencel said. "In fact, we're talking about fuel for food, for jobs and for economic stability through world trade."

Stencel told a gathering of Colorado Democratic legislators that agriculture must be given special consideration in the current fuel crisis.

"We cannot treat agricultural producers as an isolated category," he said. "They are smack in the middle of everything connected to everything."

Stencel said that in determining priorities and allocations, some thought decisions will have to be made. He said so far the nation has been reluctant to make them.

"Agriculture is a priority if we want food," Stencel said, "and farmers cannot function without an extensive range of supporting businesses because agriculture has changed, and demands for farm products, they are going to need more fuel than they have had in the past not less. Stencel said there were few ways that farmers and ranchers could reduce fuel and electric energy consumption.

"Agricultural producers have been in a cost-price squeeze for 20 years, and this has forced out much of any waste," he said.

Slaughter livestock declining

BOISE — Cattle and calves on feed for the slaughter market in seven states were estimated to be down two per cent from a year earlier, according to a Dec. 1 report of the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Cattle being fed were estimated at 9.54 million head in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Texas, Colorado, Arizona and California. Nebraska, Texas and California showed an increase, while the other states showed declines.

November placements of cattle and calves on feed in the seven states were down 10 per cent from last year.

Fed cattle marketings from the seven states were down five per cent from the year before.

The average price of $30.99 per hundred pounds live weight for steers at seven markets was up $5.68 from a year ago, but down $1.84 from October. The average price of $37.87 for heifers was up $5.53 from last year, but down $1.57 from last month.

BOISE (UPI) — Parathion insecticide used to fumigate 3,000 bushels of grain rendered the $5,000 worth of wheat unfit for human or livestock consumption and may force the commodity to be destroyed.

The Department of Environmental and Community Services said Wednesday possible safe uses are being sought, such as for seed, rather than having the wheat destroyed at a time when it is in short supply and selling for 45 a bushel.

Burke Cannon, DECS food and drug coordinator, said the first consideration was safety, and that "all precautions will be taken to make sure the contaminated grain doesn't end up in any food channels."

W.W. Benson, a DECS Project director, said the pesticide was "super toxic."

Benson said the Eastern Idaho farmer, his son and a hired man who applied the pesticide, were given blood tests, but apparently suffered no lasting ill-effects from the parathion.

Williams manages self into two-year vacation

BOSTON (UPI) — Dick Williams can't manage in New York and won't manage in Oakland.

And unless the clouds part and a miracle saves him, Dick Williams has managed himself out of baseball for two years. Williams officially became tied to his Oakland Athletic contract—and to A's owner Charlie Finley—Thursday when American League President Joe Cronin put the kibosh on the New York Yankees' signing of Williams while he still was under contract to the Athletics.

"I still hope to be the manager of the Yankees," said Williams, who guided Oakland to two straight world championships. "I definitely will not be going back to manage Oakland. I think I made that clear on several occasions."

The undisputed winner in the case was Finley and he gloated in his triumph.

"I immediately called Joe Cronin in Boston after hearing the decision and told him I was proud of him and so happy for baseball," said Finley, who somehow always gets his way in the end. "There's no question in my mind but that he made the right decision. I think the decision he reached was so obvious."

The decision was less obvious to Cronin, who, at 67, had to make his "most complex decision in 15 years as league president." Cronin, eagerly awaiting a Jan. 1 retirement, heard more than 11 hours of testimony over two days on the Williams case and a similar matter involving Ralph Houk's jump from the Yankees to the Detroit Tigers before making separate rulings. Cronin ruled in favor of Houk, reasoning that he had resigned and his resignation had been accepted by the Yankees before he signed with Detroit.

The outgoing league president said he was glad the problems arose because they showed "that some baseball rule must be applied to cover managers' contracts. There is no such rule now."

If Williams was left jobless by the ruling, the Yankee management was left speechless. New York came out of the hearings 0-2—losing one manager and unable to hire the other.

Yankee President Gabe Paul couched the team's disappointment in soft terms but it is known that privately New York officials feel "we was robbed."

There still is a chance Williams can manage the Yankees next season, but only if Finley is allowed to grab the heart from New York's farm system.

Finley reportedly would cut the legal ties that bind Williams for outfielder-first baseman Otto Velez and pitcher Scott McGregor, the cream of the Yankees' minor league crop.

But, in Finleyesque fashion, the A's owner said after the decision that he may not want to give Williams away "for any compensation" now that he holds all the cards.

Vikings, Cowboys place five players on NFC all-star team

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Minnesota Vikings and the Dallas Cowboys, who are favored to meet in the NFC title game on Dec. 30 for a Super Bowl berth, Thursday each placed five players on the United Press International 1973 National Football Conference All-Star team.

The Vikings are favored by a touchdown over the Washington Redskins on Saturday and the Cowboys are a two-point choice over the Los Angeles Rams on Sunday. If they both win, they'll meet in Dallas on Dec. 30 for the NFC crown.

Los Angeles had three players named to the squad while the Redskins were one of three teams to get three players on the team.

The team was selected by a nationwide panel of 39 sportswriters—three from each of the 13 conference cities.

Minnesota posted a 12-2 record this season while winning the Central Division crown while Dallas had a 10-4 mark while taking the Eastern Division title and making the playoffs for a record eighth straight season.

The five Vikings on the team are wide receiver John Gilliam, tackle Ron Yary, end Carl Eller, tackle Alan Page and safety Paul Krause while the five Cowboys are tackle Rayfield Wright, guard John Niland, running back Calvin Hill, middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan and cornerback Mel Renfro.

The other 12 players on the squad are wide receiver Hal Jackson of Philadelphia, tight end Ted Kwalick of San Francisco, guard Tom Mack of Los Angeles, center Forrest Blue of San Francisco, quarterback John Hadl of Los Angeles, running back John Brockington of Green Bay, defensive end Claude Humphrey of Atlanta, defensive tackle Merlin Olsen of Los Angeles, outside linebacker Chris Hanburger of Washington and Dave Wilcox of San Francisco, cornerback Ken Ellis of Green Bay and safety Ken Houston of Washington.

Hadl and Houston made the NFC all-star squad in their first year in the conference. Hadl joined San Diego in 1962 and Ken Houston started his pro career with the Houston Oilers in 1967. But Hadl was traded to Los Angeles and Houston was traded to Washington this season and both players became instant successes with their new clubs.

Hadl's quarterbacking played a major role in Los Angeles' surge to a 12-2 record and the Western Division crown after the Rams failed to make the playoffs for the previous three seasons. Houston strengthened the Redskins secondary and was more than worth the five players coach George Allen gave up to get him.

Also making the team for the first time this season was Lee Roy Jordan, the Dallas middle linebacker, who replaced perennial All-Star Dick Butkus, and John Gilliam, the Minnesota wide receiver who has been an effective deep threat for the Vikings.

Hill, Renfro, Eller and Olsen didn't make the team last season but had been All-Star selections in the past.

The other 14 players who were selected this season also made the team last season.

The top vote-getter on the team was Page, the Minnesota defensive tackle who received 29 votes. Coach Bud Grant said Page played as well as he did in 1971 when he became the only defensive player ever to win the Player of the Year award.

Last year Page made the all-star squad but was hampered at the start of the season by a leg injury. Mack and Hill tied for second with 28 votes each.

Gilliam Named to the second team offensive unit were wide receivers Harold Carmichael of Philadelphia and Charley Taylor of Washington, tight end Charley Young of Washington, tackles George Kuntz of Atlanta and Charlie Cowan of Los Angeles, guards Gale Gillingham of Green Bay and Joe Seibell of Los Angeles, center Len Hauss of Washington, quarterback Fran Tarkenton and running backs Larry McCutcheon of Los Angeles and Dave Hampton of Los Angeles.

On the defensive unit were ends John Zook of Atlanta and Jack Youngblood of Los Angeles, tackles Diron Talbert of Los Angeles and Bob Lilly of Dallas, middle linebacker Joff Sierman of Minnesota.

Wrestling

A kids wrestling tournament will be held Saturday at the Twin Falls high school gymnasium, announced Recreation Director Chad Browning.

Browning said Coach Doug Rex and the Twin Falls wrestling team will conduct the competition for all Twin Falls district grade-school students.

The times by grade include 9-10 a.m., first and second; 10-11 a.m., third and fourth; and 11 to noon, fifth and sixth.

Rebs slate grid future

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — Veteran coach Johnny Vaught said Thursday night that he expects to reach an agreement with University of Mississippi officials Friday on whether to continue as the Rebels' head football coach.

Yankee President Gabe Paul couched the team's disappointment in soft terms but it is known that privately New York officials feel "we was robbed."

There still is a chance Williams can manage the Yankees next season, but only if Finley is allowed to grab the heart from New York's farm system.

Finley reportedly would cut the legal ties that bind Williams for outfielder-first baseman Otto Velez and pitcher Scott McGregor, the cream of the Yankees' minor league crop.

But, in Finleyesque fashion, the A's owner said after the decision that he may not want to give Williams away "for any compensation" now that he holds all the cards.

Eight NFL teams ready to start bid for Super bowl

By STU CAMEN
UPI Sports Writer
Minnesota Vikings coach Bud Grant summed it up best. "They've been pointing for the same thing as we have all along," Grant said of the Washington Redskins. "We've each played 14 games to reach this point. One of us won't make it any further."

The Vikings and Redskins meet Saturday in frigid Bloomington, Minn., in the first of four National Football League playoff contests this weekend that will determine the pairings for the Dec. 30th National and American Football Conference title games. The conference champions, of course, will then proceed to Super Bowl VIII in Houston on Jan. 13.

The Vikings-Redskins clash begins at 1 p.m. EST and will be followed by the AFC playoff involving the Raiders and Pittsburgh Steelers at Oakland. Sunday's two games find the Cincinnati Bengals at Miami to meet the defending Super Bowl champion Dolphins followed by the NFC clash between the Cowboys and Los Angeles Rams at Dallas.

The oddsmakers favor all four home teams—Minnesota by 8, Oakland by 3, Miami by 9 1/2 and Dallas by 2 1/2. In order to get his team ready for Saturday's game, Grant moved the Vikings out of Minnesota to Tulsa, Okla., to practice.

Redskins coach George Allen had problems of a much more serious nature—such as who will start at quarterback for Washington. Billy Kilmer, whose four touchdown passes against Philadelphia last Sunday enabled the Redskins to nail down a playoff berth, was hospitalized after the game with recurring stomach problems. If Kilmer isn't able to start, Allen will turn to 39-year-old Sonny Jurgensen who is handicapped by a gimpy left knee.

The Steelers-Raiders clash is a rematch of last year's first round playoff battle won by Pittsburgh with five seconds left when Franco Harris scored with a pass that ricocheted off the chest of Oakland defensive back Jack Tatum.

The Raiders and Steelers possess two of the finest defensive lines in the NFL and the game figures to turn into a low scoring affair. As tackle Art Thoms of Oakland said, "if we keep playing the way we have been, we'll be unbelievable."

But the Raiders have no illusions about the Steelers' own front four, which they rate as the best in the business. "They don't try to fool you with anything they do, they just try to knock your head off," said Oakland offensive guard Gene Upshaw. "They force the other team to commit mistakes because they're so aggressive."

Cincinnati, in the playoffs for the second time in its six year history, would seem to be in a bit over its head against the Dolphins who are seeking to become only the second team to win the Super Bowl in successive years. Green Bay won the first two Super Bowls.

However, Bengals' cornerback Neal Craig has his own theory. "We've got a fantastic team and some people are going to find that out," said Craig.

Short slate winds up area cage week

Magic Valley teams basically wind up their non-conference schedules this weekend with six games and the Carey holiday tournament.

The highlight probably comes Saturday night when the Burley Bobcats entertain the Buhl Indians. That matches a pair of teams that have lost only three games between them.

Burley will put heavy pressure on Buhl's guards and although the Indians will have a height advantage, the Bobcats will be quicker. Burley boasts a 3-2 mark while Buhl has lost one time in five tries.

In Friday action, the Kimberly Bulldogs, who have won three straight since losing their first two, will be at Jerome. The Tigers, who have improved their team shooting 35 per cent in the past two games, will be taller.

At Hatley, the Wood River Wolverines will entertain the Wendell Trojans. Neither team is very tall and both rely on defense more than offense. Filer, which hasn't found much in the way of a scoring punch, will be at Valley where the Viking point total is pretty much attached to the kind of night Rocky Hagan is having.

Camas County will be looking for a pre-Christmas sweep against Hansen at Fairfield. The Musers won the first game 43-35.

The Saturday night fare is limited to Buhl at Burley but does offer a game in the Little Five Conference. That sends Kimberly to Glens Ferry and should be an important one since the league appears pretty evenly matched this season.

The Carey holiday tournament opens at 7 p.m. Friday with the host Panthers taking on the Dietrich Blue Devils. Richfield goes against the Minico Juniors at 9 p.m. Saturday night, at the same starting times, will pit losers and winners-winners.

Fiesta bowl pits new against old

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI) — Fiesta Bowl III will tell a tale of Old vs. Young, a team accustomed to winning against a team that has just found victory, when Arizona State and Pittsburgh clash tonight at Sun Devil Stadium.

Arizona State, the only team ever to host the Fiesta Bowl as Western Athletic Conference champion, has three seniors in the first backfield in NCAA history where each now has surpassed 1,000 yards in his specialty.

Pittsburgh, making its first bowl appearance in 17 years, does not have a senior in its starting backfield, which is headed by 19-year-old freshman tailback Tony Dorsett, a second-team All-American.

The Panthers' rise to a 6-4-1 record from a 1-9 mark in 1972 earned Johnny Majors, in his first year at the Pitt helm, "Coach of the Year" honors from the Football Writers of America.

Extra care in engineering... It makes a big difference in small cars.

Where's the only place in town to find a small car that...

- ... is priced less than Volkswagen's most popular model. You'll be surprised how little it costs to own one of our small cars. The suggested retail price is less than Volkswagen's most popular model believe it or not.
- ... can go farther on a gallon of gas than Nova. Recently published test results by Popular Science show our "Slant Six" engine can go farther on a gallon of gas than Nova, and you get a "Slant Six" engine standard in all our small cars, which means you can get more miles per gallon than comparable size small cars like Maverick, Comet, Ventura and Apollo.
- ... has more trunk space than 3 Pintos. Dodge Dart Sport has the largest luggage capacity by far in the small car field. More than Nova and Maverick, twice as much as Vega and more than three times as much as Pinto.
- ... has up to 20" more total hiproom than a Maverick. Dart Sport and Duster seat 5 comfortably. And they have more hiproom — front and rear than Nova, Hornet and, of course, Mustang II, Gremlin, Vega and Pinto.
- ... can save you as much as $52 in ignition maintenance alone. Electronic ignition is standard on all our small cars. In recommended ignition maintenance alone, you can save up to $62 every 24,000 miles over competitive 6-cylinder engines and up to $27 over competitive 4-cylinder engines.

Scott joins baseball money club

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers announced Thursday that first baseman George Scott has become the first $100,000 player in Milwaukee baseball history.

Scott, who finished second in the American League last season, in both batting (.307) and runs batted in (107), expressed pleasure with the one-year contract.

"This is the happiest day in my life," he told a news conference. "My goal of $100,000 has been reached and my next goal is to win a World Series."

Jim Wilson, Brewers director of baseball operations, explained the big contract was not just a reward for Scott's offensive strength and his defensive skills.

Friday, December 21, 1973 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 19

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock prices opened lower in fairly active trading Friday on the New York Stock Exchange.

Minutes after the market opened, the Dow Jones industrial average was off 0.16 of a point at 827.95. Declines outnumbered advances by a 5-to-1 margin.

The market opened as the government issued a report showing the cost of living increase 0.7 percent in November, much of the jump a result of large increases in the prices of fuel, electricity and food.

Analysts said they doubt that the market will move significantly higher before the end of the year because of tax-loss selling and other factors in addition to the energy crisis.

The session Friday was the final one of the year for regular clearing.

Early Times.
To know us is to love us.

On October 28, 1972, Emerson Chipps stopped by the Candlelight Lounge and ordered a bourbon and soda. Just as he has every Thursday evening since 1953. For 19 years the Candlelight Lounge served Emerson Chipps, Early Times.

On October 28, 1972, they did not. Goodbye, Mr. Chipps.

Jerome churches list activities

JEROME — Jerome churches have announced special programs and activities for the Christmas season.

The Christmas program at the Church of God will begin with a Sunday school Christmas program at 7:30 p.m. Included will be an organ prelude by Mrs. Larry Pothel. The Youth Group plans a Yule party Saturday at the Ted Turner home. Following the party, those attending will go skating in Twin Falls.

The Christian Science Church will have regular services at 11 a.m. Sunday with readers Mrs. Russell Shaud and Marie Snyder in charge. The title of the Yule message will be "Is the universe, including man, evolved by atomic force?" Elsa Sonnichsen will give a special program of Christmas music.

A special Midnight Mass will begin at 11:16 Monday at the Episcopal Church which Father Art Latta is presiding. Eucharist will be at 9 a.m. Sunday. The Junior and Senior Youth Group in conjunction with Presbyterian Youth and any other denomination youth interested will leave from the Presbyterian Church at 8 p.m. Sunday for a hayride and caroling.

The traditional candlelight Christmas Eve communion service will be at 8 p.m. at the United Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Gamley, Wendell, will give the Christmas message. The young people of the church will conduct the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday in the sanctuary. A Christmas pageant will be presented following the Sunday worship service.

The United Methodist Church will have Christmas worship services at 11:10 a.m. Sunday, following Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. Features of the service will be lighting the Christmas candle and the advent wreath by Alice Anderson. There will be a Christmas Eve service of carols and candlelighting at 7:30 p.m. The Sunday school Christmas program will be at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the sanctuary.

The First Christian Church will have 11 a.m. worship services Sunday. At 7:30 p.m. the Bible school will have a Yule program and tabloid. There will be a special candlelight communion service at 7:30 p.m. Monday. A baptismal service and Christmas Eve message will be included.

The Jerome LDS First Ward Sunday schools will be at 11:20 a.m. Sunday with Bishop Neal Perkins presiding. The sacrament service will be at 7:30 p.m. The ward Christmas party will be at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

The Jerome LDS Second Ward will have a special Christmas program during Sunday school at 10:20 a.m. Sacrament services will begin at 4:15 p.m. Sunday with Bishop R. E. Williams presiding.

The Jerome First Baptist Church will have services Sunday beginning with Sunday school at 10 a.m., followed by 11 a.m. worship services.

There will be a Christmas program at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Jerome Assembly of God Church.

The Church of the Nazarene will have a Sunday school Christmas program at 10:30 a.m. Sunday. Pastor Floyd Young will give the Christmas message following the program. There will be Bible study at 7 p.m. and evening worship at 8 p.m.

Sunday morning Sunday school services at the United Pentecostal Church will be at 11 a.m. Sunday. Instead of the worship service, a special Yule program will follow classes.

Regular church services for the Seventh Day Adventist Church will begin with Sabbath school at 9 a.m. Saturday. Worship services will be at 11 a.m.

The annual Christmas program for the Bible Baptist Church will be at 9 p.m. Sunday. There will be a Christmas Eve caroling party from 6 to 8 p.m. Regular Sunday school services will be at 9:45 a.m. and worship services will begin at 11 a.m. Sunday. Rev. Chester Whiteker will deliver the Christmas message.

Christmas confession will be from 3 to 5 p.m. Saturday at St. Jerome's Catholic Church. Sunday evening confession will be from 6:30 to 7:20 p.m. and confession will be from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Monday. A Midnight Mass will be celebrated Christmas Eve. Two Christmas morning masses will be conducted at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. The St. Jerome Parish Christmas party will be at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Sunday school Christmas services will begin at 11 a.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. A Christmas Eve candlelight communion service is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday. A Christmas Day worship service will be at 10 a.m. A special New Year's communion service is planned for 7:30 p.m. Dec. 31.
