today in brief

Soviet cosmonauts land in storm

MOSCOW (UPI) — Two Soviet cosmonauts returned to earth through a raging snowstorm and high winds today, ending their eight-day Soyuz 13 space mission.

Flight commander Pyotr Klimuk and engineer Valentin Lebedev, two 31-year-old space rookies, floated to earth in their parachute-borne spacecraft near Karaganda on the plains of Soviet Central Asia, the Tass news agency said.

French aviation pioneer dies

TOURNUS, France (UPI) — Aviation pioneer and automobile builder Gabriel Voisin died Tuesday at his home near here at the age of 93, friends said today.

The Voisin biplane flew an officially recorded kilometer in 1908 and Voisin said this was a better performance than that of the Wright brothers who, he said, "never flew by their own means."

Nixon, HK, Dobrynin confer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon met with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today for a general foreign policy review.

Nixon's meeting with Kissinger had been expected. But his conversation with Dobrynin came as something of a surprise. Reporters learned that he was in the White House only after seeing his limousine parked nearby.

Boise building rite Thursday

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus will dedicate the Len B. Jordan Office Building at 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

Ceremonies will include remarks by Andrus and the unveiling of a commemorative plaque in honor of the former governor and U.S. senator.

Turkish 'Old Fox' dies at 90

ANKARA (UPI) — Thousands of Turks, including his most bitter political foes, paid homage today to Ismet Inonu, "the old fox," who died Tuesday at his home following a heart attack. He was 90.

Inonu became the first prime minister of modern Turkey, helping forge the nation from the ruins of the Ottoman Empire. A government spokesman said he is to be entombed Friday in the Ataturk Mausoleum here.

Pair spends Christmas Eve in jail

BURLEY — Two Burley men spent Christmas in jail after they were caught allegedly attempting to steal about $175 worth of hay in the Golden Valley near Oakley.

Cassia County sheriff's officers said Arlie McGuire, 31, and Vernon Blair, 33, were taken into custody by Merrill Wolverton, Oakley, who apparently found them loading hay into trucks on his farm. The two were held overnight in the county jail and charges against them are being drawn up.

Grenade attack kills vendors

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Four women vendors were killed and 45 shoppers wounded today when a disgruntled soldier tossed a hand grenade into a crowded market place just southeast of Phnom Penh.

Most of the wounded were women doing their daily shopping. Field reporters said the soldier threw the grenade into the crowded market to protest the high cost of dry fish.

Police said a suspect was arrested.

Mao marks 80th year today

HONG KONG (UPI) — Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung marked his 80th birthday anniversary today.

In 1921, when China was torn by domestic strife and under foreign domination he made a New Year's Day vow at a political meeting to "transform China and the world." His words and deeds are highly regarded among Asian Communists and by others around the world.

Prison inmate beaten fatally

BELFAST (UPI) — Someone beat a 19-year-old Protestant extremist to death inside Maze Prison early today, but the army said it discounted sectarian motives for the slaying.

An army spokesman said the body of George Hyde, who was awaiting trial for the attempted murder of a Roman Catholic, was found in an exclusively Protestant compound of the prison on the outskirts of Belfast.

Tough talk halts Suez meet

GENEVA (UPI) — Israeli and Egyptian military delegations adopted such tough bargaining positions today at start of their talks on separating their forces along the Suez Canal that there was no progress. Each side dismissed the other's proposals as unacceptable.

Israeli sources said their stand is that Israel's troops on the west bank of the canal and inside Egypt should simply move back to the east bank, in other words switching places with Egypt's 3rd Army on the east bank, or Israeli side of the canal.

Egyptian sources said this is the same position Israel took in the unsuccessful disengagement talks at Kilometer 101 on the Cairo-Suez road in November and remains "totally unacceptable."

Egyptian officials said privately that their opening position is that Israeli troops should move back as far as a line from El-Arish in the north of the Sinai to Ras-Mohammed in the south, thus giving Egypt about two-thirds of the Sinai.

Israeli sources said this would be "out of the question."

The Egyptian sources said their delegation to the military working group on disengagement has a fall-back position which would be for Israeli troops to move back behind the Sinai passes which are about 20 miles from the canal.

Egypt would remain west of the passes while the United Nations would act as a buffer on the passes themselves.

A third Egyptian proposal under consideration, the sources said, is for the 3rd Army to remain on the east bank with Egypt maintaining an "administrative presence" of civilians and police between the canal and the passes.

Israeli sources said their delegation is unlikely to move from the simple switching sides proposal until early next year after Israel's elections Dec. 31.

Holiday blaze

SPECTACULAR Christmas fire destroyed this stone building near Reading, Pa., which had been converted from a grist mill into a restaurant. Only walls remained after the fire. (UPI)

Albion files arts festival ouster

ALBION — Albion went to court on Christmas Eve to remove a group of artists from the city's college campus.

The city filed suit in Fifth District Court Monday to terminate a 99-year lease on the college campus held by the Oregon Trail Festival of the Arts.

The city claimed the festival had failed to maintain buildings and was not using the campus for educational purposes.

The festival was established as a cluster of art and literature schools with resident artists who produced year around and taught during the summers.

The city alleges that Lynn and Geraldine Teeple, and Douglas and Donna Teeple, holders of the lease, failed to fulfill the lease agreement and subsequently failed to rectify the situation after the city had sent them a written notice Nov. 21 of deficiency in the performance of the lease agreement.

The notice charged that the buildings had not been maintained, the campus was not primarily being used for educational purposes, the utilities had not been paid and alterations had been made in some of the buildings without the city's permission and without payment for the work.

The Teeples allegedly failed to correct all the deficiencies within 30 days after the notice as stipulated in the lease agreement.

The state granted the campus, formerly belonging to Magic Valley Christian College, to the city in February, 1970. The lease was signed in February, 1971.

No-rationing policy set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said today he was attempting to work out a program to avoid gasoline rationing.

It was the most direct comment Nixon has yet made about the likelihood of rationing.

When a photographer wished him a Merry Christmas during a picture-taking session in the Oval Office with federal energy czar William E. Simon, Nixon said:

"We're trying to work out something so there will be no rationing."

Simon will hold a news conference Thursday and was expected to announce that the administration does not plan to invoke rationing to help ease the energy shortage.

Nixon considers the lifting of the Arab oil embargo against most of Europe and Japan will be "a step in the right direction" but continues to believe that oil should not be used as an economic weapon, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren told reporters later.

Fire burns hay

FILER — Between 30 and 50 tons of hay burned Christmas morning on the Gilbert DeKlotz farm, west of Filer.

Equipment from rural fire departments at Filer and Buhl answered the alarm.

Sheriff's officers said the hay, stacked near the barns, apparently ignited from an electric fence. Fire equipment was able to control the blaze but could not save one stack of 30 to 50 tons.

Mrs. DeKlotz said the fire started about 11 a.m. It also burned 1,200 bales of straw stacked near the hay.

TF man wounded

TWIN FALLS — A Christmas Eve shooting has left a Twin Falls man in the hospital with two wounds and the victim's brother-in-law in jail.

The victim, Charles Richardson, 32, was in good condition today in Magic Valley Memorial hospital suffering from wounds in the shoulder and leg.

His brother-in-law, Lamont Arthur Manske, 42, Twin Falls, was arrested on charges of assault with a deadly weapon. Manske's bond was set at $10,000.

Sheriff Paul Corder said his office received a call at about 8 p.m. Monday from the Country Trailer Court southwest of Twin Falls.

Officers found the victim lying in an outbuilding at the rear of the court. Officers found Manske in the same building.

Corder said the two men apparently had an argument earlier in the day.

September guerrilla organization.

The group split off from the Popular Front of the Liberation of Palestine about a year ago, and the sources said, linked up with Black September before launching its first operation in Nicosia April 9, an attack against an Israeli airliner and the Israeli ambassador's residence.

One of the attackers was killed and seven were arrested, later to be released by the Cypriot authorities.

Since then, the sources said the group has been responsible for killing four persons and wounding 55 at Athens International Airport Aug. 5 and for planning to use surface-to-air missiles against an Israeli airliner in Italy.

Italian police on Sept. 5 arrested five Arabs in the Rome area after finding two portable Soviet-made anti-aircraft missiles in an apartment near Leonardo da Vinci Airport. The police said the missiles were to be used hours later against an El Al plane.

Two of the five arrested were released on provisional bail but did not turn up Dec. 17, the day of the airport attack, to join the other three for trial. The hearing was postponed.

Real snow job

OCCUPANT of this apartment on the south side of Denver, Colo., was gone for Christmas, but he'll have to shovel his way into his home. A Monday storm deposited 12 inches of snow which was whipped into 10 foot high drifts by high winds. (UPI)

Idaho due funds

BOISE (UPI) — State Public Instruction Supt. D.F. Engeling said today Idaho school districts will have an additional $528,000 in federal funds to operate four programs the remainder of the school year.

He said the money is Idaho's share of impounded funds released last week by President Nixon.

Engeling said $223,953 will go to Title I, which is assistance for educationally deprived children.

The other funds are for occupational basic education, $107,433; supplemental educational centers and services, $71,405, and children in state adult correctional institutions, $23,217.

Engeling said projects from various school districts requesting the federal funds already had been approved by his department and were ready to be implemented. He said he expected the money to be available right after the first of the year.

"It's unfortunate that we don't have more lead time to prepare for these federal education programs," Engeling said. "If we knew what to expect for, say, three to five years, we could do a more comprehensive job of planning."

Gas budget

The White House's request for voluntary gas rationing based on 10 gallons a week per driver, may not be the last word on American mobilization to meet the energy crisis.

As a practical matter, getting by on 10 gallons a week may be easy for some but difficult for many drivers. Salesmen whose work requires that they cover large territories, commuters at a distance from their jobs, drivers for commercial and public service fleets. Indeed, one of the major problems with outright rationing is that it does not readily allow for discrepancies in responsible energy use. A voluntary approach should help get at the first target of any energy action — waste. Though to use more than 10 gallons of gasoline per week is not necessarily to waste fuel.

We think the American people will want to help out in the fuel emergency. Already motorists are keeping speeds down on the highways, turning down thermostats, car pooling, cutting back on electricity use.

As we said at the outset, the "voluntary rationing" request is not the last word on government energy actions. The administration has just raised the ceiling on crude oil prices which will result in another 2.3 cents a gallon price hike at the service station. And the administration also proposed an excess profits tax to keep oil companies from reaping "windfall" gains from the fuel price hikes still to come.

Mandatory rationing — with coupons — may yet come. It is reported that the government is printing coupons should such a program become necessary. For the moment, however, the White House is still trying to come up with a mix that avoids coupons.

One could argue, of course, that a program of drastic fuel price rises — doubling the price at the pump by price hikes or tax hikes or both — also is a form of compulsion. Thus it is all the more desirable to ask Americans to eliminate waste and give them a fuel budget to shoot for, before sinking voluntarism in a pool.

Eventually, life-styles in America will have to shift anyway. Even a crash rationing program won't prevent the need for a heightened energy awareness. If we have a coupon system and/or have to pay twice as much for fuel, there still won't, by those facts alone, be any more to use. So we might as well right now voluntarily budget our use of fuel and get on with it.

Agnew plea

Portland Oregonian

Spiro T. Agnew's emotional plea for suspension rather than disbarment as a lawyer was not very convincing. It was based partly on the precedents of other lawyers' being suspended from practice from months to a couple of years after being convicted of income tax evasion, a charge to which Agnew pleaded "no contest" while resigning as vice president.

His plea was not impressive because he was allowed to make this indirect admission of guilt in exchange for the dropping of other charges against him. The income he did not declare or pay taxes on was not honestly earned income. It consisted of thousands of dollars he admitted receiving, as a public official, from contractors doing business with the State of Maryland and the federal government. In other words, graft money.

Agnew escaped with the lightest of penalties, as the government dismissed charges of bribery, extortion, conspiracy and other tax evasions. Agnew's contention that he should now be permitted to practice law, a decision to be considered by a three-judge panel, regrettably—the ethics code of the legal profession. It also reminds us of the court-rejected plan of a former union chieftain that he should not be convicted of income tax evasion because the money was embezzled. Agnew should find a way to make a living in another field.

Serve a cause

Lawston Tribune

Self-sacrifice for a cause is the name of the game the Arab terrorists are playing — or so they say. Their own lives don't count, according to these self-appointed executioners; it is the cause of Palestinian resettlement, or Arab unity, or the release of prisoners that counts and for which they will die if necessary.

It is very noble, but it is the nobility of the desperado and like most acts of desperation, these are self-defeating. The cause is not being served.

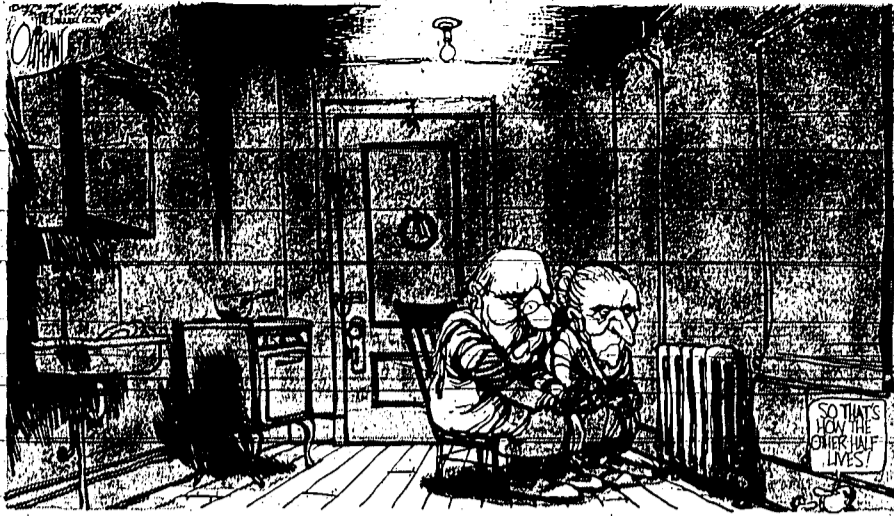

Arab prestige in the non-Arab world, which touched bottom at the close of the 1967 war, lately has been on the ascendancy and not only because the Arab nations control a vital part of the world's oil. The Arab's side of the Middle East dispute is getting closer scrutiny now in the United States than it has for years, somewhat to the alarm of the Israelis, our traditional allies. Idaho Sen. James McClure insists that it was not alone the oil boycott that drew him to the Middle East this fall; it was a conviction that the Arab nations had not been getting a fair shake in American policy and that the policy had to change.

So it is ironic that Arab terrorists with blazing guns should erupt onto the scene once again and make doubly difficult the task of those who, like McClure, hope to influence American policy in the direction of the Arab states. It is an odd kind of patriotism and a good case of serving one's cause to death. — L. H.

Poison-pen letter ires GOP solons

WASHINGTON — House Republican leaders are seething over a poison-pen letter, hand-delivered to most Republican Congressmen, just before the election of Rep. Barber Conable of New York as House Republican policy chairman, attacking Conable for joining an "ultra-liberal" organization — with signs that it originated in the office of a conservative Republican House member.

Conable's unsuccessful opponent, conservative Rep. Del Clawson of California, had nothing whatever to do with the attack. Conable beat Clawson by 10 votes in the Dec. 13 party balloting for the post vacated by the new Republican House Leader, Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona.

Intimates of Rhodes say he was livid, not because Conable had been attacked but because the letter attacking him, written to Conable and signed by a Chicago woman named Janice Blakely, was distributed anonymously — and surreptitiously — from the office of a Republican Congressman.

Rhodes told us that if he knew for certain which office had engineered the attack, he might recommend "disciplinary action" against the culprit.

But Rep. Sam Steiger of Arizona, a conservative Republican, was tougher. He fingered the office of his Arizona colleague, right-wing Rep. John B. Conlan, as the source of the concealed attack.

"An employee in Conlan's office told me that she was prepared to swear that this was done in that office," Steiger told us. Steiger and Conlan are mortal political enemies.

Conlan denied to us any participation or knowledge of the law blow against Conable, a highly regarded moderate. But many of Conlan's colleagues, asking not to be quoted, told us they suspect Conlan's office.

The "Dear Congressman Conable" letter was a right-wing diatribe that could not have swung a single vote against Conable even if it had not appeared in Congressional office. It said the writer of the letter "was shocked to read in the Council on Foreign Relations' annual report of 1973 that you had accepted an invitation to join this ultra-liberal organization."

It then listed several moderate and liberal congressmen of both parties, including Republican Rep. John Anderson of Illinois and Democratic Rep. Thomas Morgan of Pennsylvania, as other new members of the council, a New York-based foreign-policy research organization and publishers of the Quarterly magazine Foreign Affairs.

The phrase "CFR" is a scathing codeword in right-wing circles. The council has been a pet target for years of the extremist John Birch Society, which regards it as a sinister East Coast establishment conspiracy with connections to Moscow.

What has infuriated Rhodes, Steiger and other Republicans is the Watergate-style politics of using the office of a Conable foe to duplicate and transmit the attack on him.

"This is what Watergate was all about, and the American people won't stand for it anymore," one angry Republican told us. "If we can identify the source of this beyond doubt, we may censure him."

Who will set value of joke tape?

Ralph Nader, you will remember, is that essence of integrity and decorum a whiff of which restores the ethical sensibilities, permitting us to rise again.

Nader can detect an impulse to wrongdoing in The Great Pyramid, and has been able to count on a complaisant press to headline his discoveries. Nader views himself as the ombudsman for any American who wants to attack Republicans, corporations, or businessmen.

To that end, Nader went to court to demand access to one of those woebegone tapes President Nixon has plagued himself, and us, with.

This particular tape was apparently a recording of a conversation between Nixon and his secretary of agriculture and his budget chief. Nader, we gather, was confident that it would reveal "Nixon" conspiring with his lieutenants to raise the milk price so as to bring milk money into the coffers of the Committee to Re-elect the President.

Perhaps it was general fatigue that one day recently resulted in a tape being delivered to one of Ralph Nader's cabinet members, one Charles Dobrovir.

Dobrovir played the tape a couple of times, presumably in search of high crimes and misdemeanors. But then, unlike Nader, Dobrovir likes to relax, and at a cocktail party at his house he decided that he would play the tape for his guests.

A member of Dobrovir's staff reported that the whole experience was somehow unsatisfying. What they did hear, it turns out, was several poor jokes by Nixon. No doubt this will be added to the encyclopaedia of Nixon's sins.

How can we have a president whose conversations in the Oval Room with his Cabinet members include the telling of jokes that do not satisfy the cocktail guests of Ralph President's staff, but both are now on their way out, so the president is relying again mainly on Gen. Al Haig, Ron Ziegler, and Henry Kissinger.

The cabinet is strong at the center, with Kissinger, George Shultz at treasury, and James Schlesinger at defense working well together.

For some reason or other, presidents usually promise to give their vice presidents large executive responsibilities, and then either forget them or turn them into ministers of propaganda.

After his first term as vice president, Nixon wanted to be given responsibility for seeing that all major decisions taken by the President were carried out. He never agreed to the switch.

There are special reasons for finally putting this original Nixon idea to work now. The new vice president has spent most of his mature life on Capitol Hill as a party leader.

But he has little experience in foreign affairs or economic and financial affairs, which are increasingly dominating the relations between the nations.

In fact, it is one of the misfortunes of Nixon's career that Eisenhower did not give him the experience he wanted in the White House from 1956-60, for had he worked closely with the departments in those days, he might have acquired more experience and respect for the professional civil service and the cabinet, rather than relying on the closed and suspicious gang he finally brought into the White House.

The energy crisis is only the latest evidence of what happens to a government that is unstable and preoccupied with politics and scandals.

The result is that it is going into the New Year with a host of complicated intractable problems, a crippled team and a doubting electorate, but Ford at least gives it the hope of continuity.

In fairness to him and the country he deserves more serious work than he's getting. He cannot help much by telling us Nixon is innocent, but by getting ready for any emergency, he might help a lot.

Ford tasks little help in top job

(c) N. Y. Times Service

WASHINGTON — Vice President Gerald Ford has conducted himself since his nomination and confirmation with dignity and admirable good sense, but he is not being given the sort of assignments that would prepare him for the presidency.

He is being carefully briefed. He is seeing the President more than Spiro Agnew did, and he is attending meetings of the National Security Council when they are held, which is not often, but mainly he is being used as a presidential ambassador to the Congress, a cheerleader for a dispirited Republican Party and a public defender of Richard Nixon.

These are natural roles for a popular and believable man, but they are limited and they serve the President better than they serve the nation. For in these uncertain times, the first task is to give him some on-the-job training in the executive branch of the government and get him trained in decision-making in case he has to take over.

There are plenty of places to be filled. For a while, former Gov. John Connally of Texas was brought in to help with the crisis in the White House, but that experiment soon came to an end, and not because the crisis had ended.

Then Mel Laird and Bryce Harlow, two popular men on Capitol Hill, were added to the President's staff, but both are now on their way out, so the president is relying again mainly on Gen. Al Haig, Ron Ziegler, and Henry Kissinger.

The cabinet is strong at the center, with Kissinger, George Shultz at treasury, and James Schlesinger at defense working well together.

Conservation hints offered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a plea to the nation Thursday to help ease the energy crisis, energy chief William E. Simon suggested these conservation measures:

- In the home:
-Turn down thermostats to 68 degrees, no matter what kind of fuel is used.
-Cut back thermostats to 60 or 55 degrees at night, and when away.
-Weatherize homes with insulation, storm doors and weather stripping.

—Buy 10 gallons of gasoline and make it last all week.

—Join a car pool.

—Don't drive faster than 50.

—Pick two days a week not to use the car.

At the office:
—Remove at least every other light in work areas, and three out of four in hallways.

—Turn off all external and internal lights — except security lights — during weekends and at night.

—Cut back heating.

Bill prepared

Editor, Times-News:

Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park announces that a shoplifting bill is being prepared through which parents can be held liable for the acts of their children.

One wonders if they have thought of protecting innocent children in cases of false accusation. My son was falsely accused by a Twin Falls business, but after seeing their mistake offered no apology whatever. My son may be awkward but is a devout Bible Christian, and was immensely chagrined to be falsely accused.

Businesses may doubt that there are such children, and evidently feel secure in the belief that they themselves cannot be brought to account if they trample on the feelings of innocent children.

S. Korea unrest eyed by Premier

SEOUL (UPI) — South Korean Premier Kim Jong-Pil said today the government will not tolerate any defiance of the current ruling system in South Korea, including demands for constitutional revision.

There were recent nationwide anti-government demonstrations by students and some religious groups seeking such reforms.

In a nationwide radio-television speech, Kim said any challenge to the present political system goes against the basic setup of the state designed to protect the country from Communist threats.

"Though it is said that this is an era of peaceful coexistence, it is an illusion to think that there will be no war in Korea," Kim said. "The North Korean Communists do not subscribe to peaceful coexistence."

Kim said political and social stability must be maintained in South Korea in any event. He said the South Korean people should keep in mind that the Communists, who are located only 30 miles north of Seoul, would take advantage of political and social confusion to create what they call a "revolutionary atmosphere."

"If there are upheavals in our country, dialogues with the North cannot make any progress," Kim said.

Troops down S. Viet crafts

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist anti-aircraft guns shot down three South Vietnamese aircraft in 24 hours, killing nine government soldiers and wounding 37 others, military sources said today.

Heavy machine gun fire downed a jet A37 Dragonfly fighter-bomber and a UH1 Huey helicopter today in Quang Duc province 110 miles north of Saigon, the sources said.

Earlier, Communist forces besieging Tong Le Chan base camp 55 miles north of Saigon shot down a huge CH47 Chinook helicopter carrying replacement troops to the camp. All nine of the dead and 36 of the wounded were in the Chinook.

The sources said the subsonic Dragonfly was bombing North Vietnamese troop positions near Kien Duc district town, scene of heavy fighting earlier this month. The pilot ejected and was unhurt but the plane was destroyed, the sources said.

About two hours later, the Huey helicopter, carrying government reinforcements to Kien Duc, was hit three miles northwest of the town. One crewmember was wounded and the helicopter was damaged, the sources said.

The huge twin-rotor CH47 Chinook chopper was making a night flight to Tong Le Chan camp when it was hit just after midnight Christmas day, the sources said.

Tong Le Chan was captured by North Vietnamese forces during the 1972 spring offensive, but recaptured by government troops late last year. Communists have ringed the camp ever since, forcing the government to send supplies in by helicopter.

The sources said the crippled, multimillion dollar helicopter made it over the Tong Le Chan perimeter after being hit, but crashed when the pilot attempted to land.

Arabs ease Japan ban

TOKYO (UPI) — A government official said today Japan was happy and grateful at the decision of the Arab oil producing countries to ease their oil embargo on Japan but economists warned that continuation of the embargo against the United States would hurt Japanese business.

Minister of International Trade and Industry Yasuhiro Nakasone said Japan was "extremely happy and grateful to the Arab states."

On the Tokyo Stock Market, where the Dow-Jones average of 225 selected blue chips soared 140 yen to 4,170 yen in the morning session today, the Arab decision to welcome Japan on the list of "friendly nations" also was welcomed.

Oil importers cautioned that Arabs relaxation of oil restrictions against Japan did not immediately mean the island country could get all fuel it needed.

They said oil would be more expensive than before and that it was uncertain whether major international oil companies would follow the Arab decision and comply with Japan's demand for fuel needed to keep the country's industry going.

Japan depends on the Middle East for more than 40 per cent of its oil supplies and most of it comes through big American, British and Dutch oil companies.

White Nakasone welcomed the news, he made it clear that the government's policy of cutting fuel and power supplies to industries would remain in force at least through January.

His position reflected oil importers' concern that Japan would continue to face oil shortages as long as the Arab states kept their oil embargo against the United States.

Light lack disappoints former POW

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (UPI) — A former prisoner of war, spending his first Christmas at home in eight years, said Tuesday his biggest disappointment during the holiday season was a lack of outdoor lights.

Air Force Lt. Arthur Black, 29, Bethlehem, who spent eight years in a North Vietnamese prison, said in the past his hometown, known as Pennsylvania's Christmas City, sparkled with outdoor decorations and lighting.

"I used to dream about the lights in town during Christmas," Black said. "Unfortunately, this year with the energy crisis, I can't see them."

"I'm sure in the future they'll be back up again, and it would be nice to see all the decorations hanging out again."

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI) — James H. Morgan Jr., a Cabell County Court commissioner and Huntington businessman, gave his wife a "haiky" Christmas present Tuesday.

Morgan shaved off his mustache, put it in a package and placed it under the Christmas tree.

Cold claims aged couple

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (UPI) — An old man and woman, both in their 90s, tried to keep warm by huddling together on the cold living room floor of their apartment after the electric company cut off their power. They were found there—frozen to death—by a grandson on Christmas eve.

Frank Baker, 93, and his wife, Katherine, 91, were discovered by a grandson, Basil Helse, home on leave from the military, who went to their home to take them to a Christmas Eve dinner Monday night.

Detectives said the couple had been dead for about two days. A gas stove had been turned on in the kitchen, a detective said, but provided little warmth.

Elbert Watrous, Schenectady County district attorney, said he was considering handing the case to a grand jury.

A spokesman for the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., which services the area with electricity and natural gas, said the company cut off power to the home because the couple declined to pay a five-month-old bill for $202. The company also tried to shut off gas to the home, the spokesman said, but the couple would not let a utility man in their home.

Cong, Viet envoys set Friday meet

PARIS (UPI) — South Vietnamese negotiators agreed today to meet the Viet Cong again Friday although the Communists have walked out of the bilateral truce talks three times in recent weeks.

A South Vietnamese delegation spokesman said the two sides have agreed to meet at Friday at the suburban La Celle Saint Cloud chateau for stalemated talks on a political settlement in South Vietnam.

The meetings were started last March after the Jan. 27 Vietnam peace agreement.

The South Vietnamese spokesman today accused North Vietnam of being behind the unsettled situation in Vietnam and said it sought a partition of South Vietnam.

Bank bombed

BERLIN (UPI) — A gasoline bomb was thrown through the window of a bank in the American sector early today but did little damage, police said.

A note left at the bank said, "A commando of the revolutionary people's army has carried out a punishment action against an institution of the enemies of the people."

Priest robbed

MANOSQUE, France (UPI) — While the priest of this Alpine village celebrated Christmas midnight mass, thieves broke into his apartment and stole $60, police said today.

Guerrilla network smashed in France

PARIS (UPI) — Security agents smashed a pro-Palestinian guerrilla network and seized 40 pounds of explosives, forged passports and commando operator plans, police said today.

Among the weapons seized were bomb detonators, hand grenades and letter bombs, police sources said.

They said the agents arrested 13 persons—one Palestinian, 10 Turks and two men of unknown nationality—and referred them for trial at a court at Corbeil-Essonnes, 20 miles south of Paris.

Police sources said the Turks told the agents they were members of the extremist Popular Front for the Liberation of Turkey working with the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP).

Police did not say what charges were preferred against the 13.

A month-long top secret security operation terminating on Christmas Eve with the men's referral to court was begun at the end of November, police said, when they received information a Palestinian guerrilla group was planning to smuggle weapons and explosives into France to use Paris as a relay point to other European countries.

On Dec. 10, agents stopped a car coming from Italy at the French border town of Modane. Police said it was specially constructed for the clandestine carriage of arms but the secret compartments were empty.

Storm delays oil well blast

GLENROCK, Wyo. (UPI) — A fast-moving Pacific cold front that packed snow and high winds delayed a planned nitroglycerine blast designed to snuff out a fire at the Patterson No. 1 oilwell fire near Glenrock, Wyo., today.

Tom Popp, a geologist for Chapparral Resources, said blasting will depend on the weather.

You'll have to ask the weatherman when he's going to give us a decent day now," Popp said.

The well re-ignited Monday night and put firefighters from the Red Adair Co. of Houston back where they started. They extinguished the fire Saturday.

The blaze, with its 40-foot flames gobbling up 200-300 barrels of crude oil an hour, broke out Dec. 5 and lasted 17 days before it was snuffed out

Extra care in engineering... It makes a big difference in small cars.
Where's the only place in town to find a small car that...

1. ... is priced less than Volkswagen's most popular model.
You'll be surprised how little it costs to own one of our small cars. The suggested retail price is less* than Volkswagen's most popular model, believe it or not.
2. ... can go farther on a gallon of gas than Nova.
Recently published test results by Popular Science show our Slant Six engine can go farther on a gallon of gas than Nova, and you get a Slant Six engine standard in all our small cars, which means you can get more miles per gallon than comparable size small cars like Maverick, Comet, Ventura and Apollo.
3. ... has more trunk space than 3 Pintos.
Dodge Dart Sport has the largest luggage capacity by far in the small car field. More than Nova and Maverick. Twice as much as Vega and more than three times as much as Pinto.
4. ... has up to 20" more total hiproom than a Maverick.
Dart Sport and Duster seat 5 comfortably. And they have more hiproom front and rear than Nova, Hornet and, of course, Mustang II, Gremlin, Vega and Pinto.
5. ... can save you as much as $62 in ignition maintenance alone.
Electronic ignition is standard on all our small cars. In recommended ignition maintenance alone, you can save up to $62 every 24,000 miles over competitive 6-cylinder engines and up to $27 over competitive 4-cylinder engines.

Survivors say crew 'drunk'

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (UPI) — Some survivors of a crowded ferry that sank in the Pacific with about 300 persons aboard said today the crew was drunk, the ship was overloaded and the vessel had been condemned.

Authorities said more than half the passengers died when the ferry Jamboll sank in shark-infested waters 26 miles from Guayaquil and about a half-mile from Puna Island.

Naval officials said 143 bodies had been recovered by Tuesday afternoon and 142 persons managed to reach safety. Navy frogmen said they feared more bodies were trapped in the hull of the vessel under 25 feet of water.

Naval authorities said the sinking of the 100-foot, 107-ton ferry Monday was the worst marine disaster in Ecuadorian history. The vessel went down during a scheduled trip from Puerto Bolivar in southern Ecuador to Guayaquil.

The victims, including women and children doing Christmas shopping and soldiers en route home for holiday leave, were given a mass burial Tuesday.

The survivors said the ship began leaking off Puna island and went down in about 30 minutes. Most of the survivors swam the mile and a half to the island in the dark. Others floated for hours on debris from the ship until being picked out of the water by rescue boats.

Naval authorities opened an investigation Tuesday into allegations by some surviving passengers that crewmembers were drinking and overloaded the vessel to double its capacity.

Some passengers said they complained before the trip to authorities at Puerto Bolivar of the ship being overloaded, but the vessel was permitted to leave anyway.

Captain Juan Nieto and first mate Jorge Contreras died in the disaster, but crewman Francisco Quinde survived and was being questioned by authorities.

Survivors from Puerto Bolivar said the Ecuadorian Social Security Institute condemned the vessel a few months ago because of "precarious conditions."

Skylab chalks up record

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 3 crew chalked up a record seven-hour spacewalk and probably the best comet data ever collected during a tough Christmas workday.

The astronauts were waking up two hours later than usual and taking most of today off in reward for their work.

Commander Gerald P. Carr and Pilot William R. Pogue labored with only minor problems through most of Christmas day shooting pictures of Comet Kohoutek, repairing a balky sun study camera and putting fresh film in their solar observatory. Scientist Edward G. Gibson monitored their work from inside the ship.

Energy step

SINCE 1967, Texas State Rep. Hilary Foran has been out of step with the rest of the nation because he refused to set his watch to Daylight Saving Time. Now Foran said he is ready to make the sacrifice and go along with the rest of the country on Jan. 6.

"I'll ever so humble, there's no place like home," Carr said after staying outside the safety of the ship 1-1/2 hours longer than planned. "Home Sweet Home."

Taking his first spacewalk, the veteran Marine aviator was awed by the view from 270 miles above Earth.

"Holy cow, what a view! I'll tell you ... I feel like I'm up in the crew's nest of an old sailing ship. I'm just going to turn around and rubberneck a little. Yahoo!"

Flight controllers were poring over figures on the amount of stabilization gas fired by the 100-ton lab during the outside work, attempting to reduce usage of the vital fuel during the next spacewalk on Saturday. The constant movement of Carr and Pogue in doing their work disrupted maneuvers of the lab-to-precisely-point the Kohoutek cameras, forcing Gibson to use more gas than planned.

The controllers said however, there was a healthy reserve of the stabilization fuel and the excess usage presented no problems.

Scientists were elated with the information the pilots gathered on Kohoutek, soaring toward a giant loop around the Sun in two days. The scientists hope to have hints on the origin of the solar system by studying the data.

Carr and Pogue said the glare of sunlight outside the ship blocked their view of the comet with the naked eye, but the three different cameras the manoperated worked perfectly. Carr spent several frustrating minutes using a screwdriver to force a filter wheel on one of the sun study instruments into an open position. Officials said the wheel was jammed so they were getting only 3/4 of a picture.

Ford skis in Colorado mountains

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — Vice President Gerald Ford spent two hours skiing in the Colorado mountains Christmas day then returned to his condominium to stay with his family.

Ford and ski instructor Dennis Hoeger, a longtime friend, have been skiing every day since he arrived in the mountain community of 2,000 people early Saturday.

"It's hard on my old legs," Ford said, "but it's just great to ski. It is nice to be up here and have some time to relax and enjoy the beautiful country."

Ford attended a late Christmas Eve mass at the Vail chapel and spent a leisurely Christmas Day with his family. "He hasn't asked for any special favors," said Pam Conklin of Vail Associates.

Satellite launched

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union announced today it had launched another in its series of Molnia-2 communications satellites.

The Tass news agency said the satellite was launched Christmas day for telephone and telegraph communication and for relaying television programs to outlying parts of the Soviet Union.

The sputnik is orbiting the earth every 12 hours and 17 minutes. As with other Molnia satellites, it has a highly elliptical orbit, ranging out to 24,519 miles in the northern hemisphere but only 280 miles in the southern hemisphere.

2nd born on Dec. 25

OTTAWA (UPI) — Margaret Trudeau, the wife of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, gave birth to the couple's second son Tuesday. Their first child, now two years old, also was born Dec. 25.

Trudeau said he was not surprised at the second Christmas birth in the family. "We thought the 25th of December would be a good day."

No name has yet been chosen for the 7-pound, 9-ounce boy, but Trudeau said it might be Sasha.

The baby was born at 7:21 a.m. EST in Ottawa Civic Hospital, several hours after Mrs. Trudeau, 25, attended

A hospital spokesman said both mother and child were in excellent health.

Large holiday crowds head for slopes

Timber sales depressed

GRANGEVILLE, Idaho (UPI) — Timber sales in north Idaho are being depressed because of uncertainty in the construction industry, Clearwater District Ranger Ernie Anderson reported. Anderson said part of the uncertainty was the result of the energy shortage.

He noted that no bids were received last week for fire salvage timber in the Cougar Creek area.

FFA conference set

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — The Idaho Future Farmers of America Association will conduct its annual leadership conference March 27-29 in Twin Falls, it was announced today.

Carol Seburn, state FFA reporter for 1973-74, said officers for the coming year will be elected during the session.

She said each of the 68 FFA chapters in Idaho were expected to send two official delegates, in addition to youths holding state farmer degrees and candidates for office.

The session will be at the College of Southern Idaho.

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

Magic Valley ski resorts reported excellent snow today as large holiday crowds headed for the hills in the traditional post-Christmas rush. Crowds were reported above normal.

At Sun Valley skiing was reported excellent. With a maximum eight-minute wait in line, skiers could amuse themselves by trying to catch sight of a number of Hollywood stars.

Bob Hamilton, sales director for the resort, said that big-name guests during the holidays included Andy Williams, Janet Leigh, Gene Hackman, Cloris Leachman and Marlon Brando. John Wayne is scheduled to arrive later this week, Hamilton said.

Hamilton said professional racing teams were also at Sun Valley over the holidays resting and preparing to resume the professional racing tour. Famed French racer Jean Claude Killy will join the tour after the holidays. Hamilton said. Among the special activities during the holidays for the resort are a New Year's Eve party and a morning "Ramos Fizz" hangover and Rose Bowl party New Year's Day.

Hamilton reported good crowds at the resort. "Everything's going 100 miles per hour up here," he said.

While other Magic Valley resorts weren't boasting the big names, they reported heavy holiday crowds and outstanding skiing conditions.

Pomerelle owner Woody Anderson reported an "abundance of snow." He said "dollarwise" the ski area was ahead of last year's holiday income and called skiing conditions "as good as it can get. It's what skiers dream about when they go to heaven."

Anderson said extensive repairs and upgrading of equipment have allayed any fear the public might have about a repeat of last winter's ski lift accident in which 10 people were injured.

Noting that Pomerelle has changed ownership since the accident, Anderson said the addition of a cable tower jangling system and other safety features have increased the safety of the lift.

Anderson said the resort, above Albion, will change operating hours with the advent of daylight savings time Jan. 6. The new hours will be 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., from the present 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Pomerelle will be open every day until Jan. 6 and will then resume its regular Wednesday to Sunday schedule.

Soldier Mountain ski resort near Fairfield also reported good snow with all runs "excellent."

Mountain and maintenance manager Jake Hansen said holiday crowds have been running about 20 per cent above last year's levels. Lift line wait is three to five minutes, he said.

He reported no problems with crowds or road conditions and said there was "fantastic snow and plenty of it."

The Pomerelle ski schools have many new pupils, he said, especially in those classes using the graduated length method in which longer skis are used each day.

Sawtooth National Forest officials reported snowmobile conditions good in most areas as of late last week.

The South Hills were termed fair to good; Little Smoky near Fairfield was also good, with Howell Canyon, Conner Flats, Thompson Flat and the Wood River Valley north of Ketchum good to excellent.

Hammer Creek Summit and the Cape Horn area were reported excellent. Twenty inches of snow was reported at Spilly Creek and 12 inches at Stanley.

Officials at Magic Mountain ski resort south of Hansen could not be reached for comment on conditions there.

Howard Hughes

Hughes celebrates 68th

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Monday was the 68th birthday of Howard R. Hughes, the world famed aviator and motion picture producer who moved to Las Vegas in 1966 and invested some $300 million in Nevada.

He left Nevada in 1970 and has been on the move ever since -- with stops in the Bahamas, Vancouver, Nicaragua and London. At last report, Hughes was back in the Bahamas where he is secluded on the 12th or 13th floor of a resort hotel in Freeport.

Film time listed

TWIN FALLS — "Multiple Use in Action" is the title of a 30-minute film to be televised here at 9 p.m. today. Bill Whitton said the setting for the program is "Right here in Idaho. It was all shot on location."

Whitton, information director for the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation, said the color film was produced with equipment recently purchased by the Farm Bureau. He said most of the interviews were made last summer and fall. The theme of the program deals with use of public lands in Idaho.

Court date set

KETCHUM — A January second appearance date has been scheduled in Blaine County magistrate court for George James Vila, 24, Hailey, who has been charged with petty larceny.

According to the Ketchum Police Department, Vila was arrested Monday afternoon in connection with an alleged shoplifting incident at Chateau Drug. He has been released on a $32.50 bond.

Shovels claimed

BOISE (UPI) — Two shiny shovels misdirected to the state auditor's office and filed there, in a closet, have been sent on the State Vocational Education office which ordered them.

Auditor Joe Williams had stacked the shiny shovels in a corner of his office for two weeks while he and his staff tried to find out which state office had ordered the tools from a Salt Lake City firm.

After reading about the shovels in a Boise newspaper, the vocational education office claimed them for a project in Twin Falls.

Security plan eyed

BOISE (UPI) — Attorney General W. Anthony Park plans a closed meeting Wednesday with health agency and prison officials to discuss improving security at the mental health facility at the penitentiary.

Park called the meeting after a dangerous mental patient, Michael Hightower, 24, escaped from custody of health officials last Thursday. Hightower, still at large today, is accused of kidnapping and raping a Boise State College coed after his escape.

Boise man appointed

HOLLISTER (UPI) — House Speaker Wm. J. Lanting, R-Hollister, has appointed Craig Harvey, 25, Boise, chief clerk of the house for the forthcoming legislative session.

Harvey, believed to be the youngest chief clerk of the house in Idaho history, has served as docket clerk in past sessions of the legislature.

He succeeds Beth Fitzwater, Boise, who resigned Friday.

Permit suspended

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission today suspended until June 21, 1974, the common carrier permit of a Kalspell Mont., man at his request.

Jay Shropshire requested the suspension for the reason that he was reorganizing his business and acquiring new management.

Phone calls stop

BOISE (UPI) — A rash of phone calls to State Auditor Joe Williams from unpaid babysitters stopped when the state office responsible for their employment found out the calls were going to the wrong office.

Williams received nine calls in one day from the irate sitters after they had been incorrectly told the auditor's office was delaying their pay.

The babysitters work for the day care program administered by the department of environmental and community services. Williams said there have not been any more calls "since the source notifying the people that we were at fault was corrected."

Skiing conditions good

DAILY OPERATION of most ski resorts will entertain students and other vacationers this week. Here two skiers cut through new powder at Pomerelle's Bull run. The resort lists some of the best skiing it has had in December in several years. Below, storms have converted the resort to a winter wonderland with fresh snow and sunshine. Photos by Bonnie Jones.

Gifts taken from home

TWIN FALLS — Thieves showed a lack of Christmas spirit when they entered a Twin Falls home sometime during the holiday and took four Christmas gifts.

City police said George Galvan, 191 Juniper St. N., reported someone broke into his home between 8:30 p.m. Christmas Eve and 2 a.m. Wednesday. Four gifts were missing. They were valued at $82.

Another burglary occurred at the R. E. Stobaugh home, city officers said. He told officers his home was entered at 351 Fifth Ave. E. and a color television taken. Damage to several other items also resulted. He estimated the loss at $406.

Several instances of broken windows also occurred, Twin Falls Police Capt. Tim Qualls reported.

Damage estimated at $40 was reported at Norm's OK Tire Shop on Fourth Avenue West. Officers said windows on one side of the building were broken but no entry was made.

Another report of broken glass was received from Sears. Officers said a window was broken out and damage was estimated at $75.

Officers are investigating an apparent break-in at the home of Reed Coulam, city building inspector. He is reported out of town and officers have been unable to complete the investigation.

River plans stay same

CHALLIS — The US Forest Service plans to manage the Middle Fork of the Salmon River in the Idaho Primitive Area essentially the same as last year.

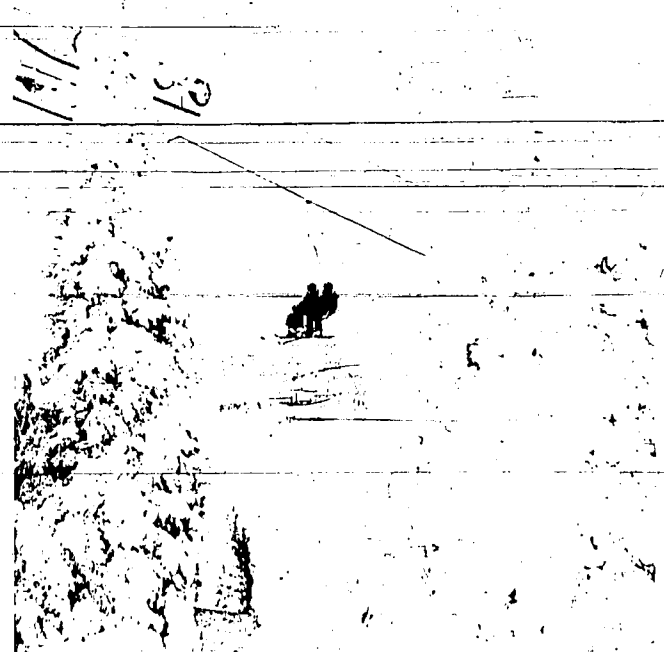

Sam E. Warren, "wild river" ranger, noted that reservations are required for all private parties wishing to float the river next summer. At the present time the reservations for July are completely filled, which is approximately one month ahead of last year's schedule.

As yet there are only a few requests for August, Warren noted.

Roy Barrett, Salmon, who served as river manager last season, has taken a leave of absence and Warren indicated someone will be hired to fill that position.

The river manager had been stationed in Salmon last season but next year will be stationed at Challis.

Warren speculated that the gasoline shortage could see a lowering of tourist use for the next several years on the river.

BLM authority urged

SALMON — The Salmon District Bureau of Land Management's Advisory Board has recommended that the BLM be granted the authority to purchase private lands, if needed for proper resource management, when it is mutually agreeable between the land owner and the bureau.

The matter was discussed by the board at its recent meeting here.

Harry Finlayson, district manager, read a letter from William R. Melners, a resource management consultant in Boise, commenting on the Challis Resource Unit plan.

Melners supported recommendations made by the Salmon district's wildlife specialist, particularly the recommendation that the bureau acquire private lands on the East Fork of the Salmon River.

Melners stated in a letter to Grant Harbour, Challis-Mackay BLM area manager, that the Challis unit plan is a non-discretionary action upon the BLM that requires full compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act.

Melners requested that an environmental statement be prepared on the Challis resource unit plan or that the bureau give reasons why such action is not appropriate.

Frank Kimball appeared before the board to protest trespassing and damage caused by licensed range to private property along Williams Creek adjacent to federal lands.

He read a statement of grievances which cited that the livestock travel the Williams Creek road and break through the existing private fences causing damage to lawns and gardens. He said that telephone calls to the stock owners have helped very little and in some cases has resulted in verbal abuse over the telephone from some stock owners.

Area Manager Larry Bardsley advised that he had held a meeting with the range licensees who indicated that they believed the problem should be solved by the private land owners fencing adequately to keep the livestock off their property.

Kimball recommended that 1/2 of a mile of fence be constructed between private lands and federal lands below the US Forest Service boundary to solve the problem.

The board considered the request and recommended that the Salmon district office work out a solution.

Blaine selects TF firm

HAILEY — CTA Architects, Engineers and Planners, Twin Falls, has been chosen as the project architect for the proposed new Wood River High School.

The firm will conduct planning for the school, incorporating the recommendations of the Blaine County Program and Facilities Study group and the school board of trustees.

According to a district report, CTA has an extensive staff and is particularly suited for planning educational facilities. The firm has done the architectural work for many schools within the state and developed the master plan for the College of Southern Idaho, Twin Falls.

The report said the firm's representatives have also expressed a desire to help with planning for the coming bond issue.

Representatives of CTA and two other firms had been interviewed jointly by members of the Architectural Selection Committee and the board of trustees. The committee includes chairman Don Haines, a member of the AIA, who has extensive experience in planning school facilities; and members, Ralph Rutter, also an AIA member; George Loomis, an area contractor; and Ken Morey, Grant Patterson, Bill Clayton and Grace Enkin.

During the interviews, the firms gave brief presentations describing the history of their companies, staff size and recently completed projects.

Afterwards, they were questioned in detail on their responses to a comprehensive questionnaire which had been prepared by the committee, with the discussion centering around fee structure, anticipated construction methods and the kinds of services available for the coming bond issue.

Fuel pinch not expected

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls City and Highway District officials don't expect any fuel pinch for road maintenance and snow removal this winter.

City Manager Jenn Milar said there is "no pinch yet and we don't anticipate any problem."

Based on last year's figures, the city will get a 100 per cent allocation of gasoline and a 95 per cent allocation of diesel fuel, according to Milar.

"In the event of an extra heavy snowfall (two or three feet), we could be in trouble" with the diesel allotment, he said. The city's snow removal equipment, including road graders and front end loaders, burns diesel.

"We try to cut down on fuel usage," by shutting off engines and consolidating trips, Milar said. Two or more employees travel together when they are going to the same part of the city, he said.

Floyd Dayley, highway district director, said, "We've been assured of plenty of fuel from suppliers at least until the first of the year."

Yule deaths total four

By United Press International
At least four persons have lost their lives over the long Christmas holiday weekend -- including three youths who died in a mishap on the Port Hall Indian Reservation.

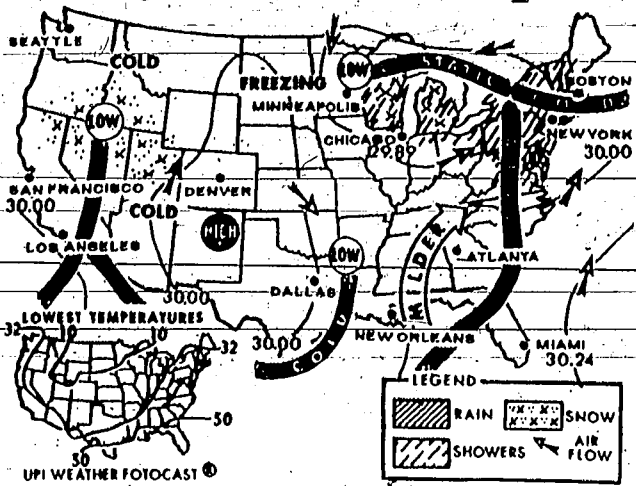

The three youths, all teenage boys, drowned in the Blackfoot River Christmas Eve when their car skidded off the Negitsy Road and rolled upside down into the river.

Bingham County officials identified the victims as Patrick Ball and Michael Hernandez, both 18 from Fort Hall, and Jay Mortenson, 17, Wapello. Two other youths escaped from the car.

FB asks control cut

CHICAGO (UPI) — A committee composed of leaders of the American Farm Bureau Federation has urged that several environmental controls be relaxed during the energy crisis.

The committee, composed of Farm Bureau leaders from 40 states and Puerto Rico, drafted resolutions for presentation at the 2.2-million-member organization's convention next month at Atlantic City, N.J.

The proposals included:

- Temporary removal of automobile emission control equipment.
- The encouragement of more coal use through the amendment of air pollution and strip mining laws.
- "Immediate steps" to permit development of oil supplies under the outer continental shelves along all coasts.
- Allow the development of new deep water ports for importation of oil supplies by lifting environmental restrictions.
- "Adjustment" of environmental laws to encourage building new conventional and atomic power stations plus new refineries and transmission lines.
- Ending the moratorium on oil production in the Santa Barbara Channel off California.

The AFBF leaders also called on Congress to eliminate price controls over natural gas, and called on federal energy officials to establish "realistic," unspecified, speed limits for trucks.

Snow flurries expected Thursday

Twin Falls, northside, Burley-Rupert area: Increasing clouds tonight with chance of a few snow flurries Thursday. Beginning occasionally windy tonight and Thursday. Low temperatures tonight 15 to 25. Highs Thursday 30 to 35.

Halley, Camas Prairie, lower Wood River Valley: Increasing clouds tonight with a chance of a few snow flurries Thursday. Occasionally windy tonight and Thursday. Lows tonight 0 to 10. Highs Thursday in the 20s.

Synopsis: A large high pressure system which now dominates the weather over Idaho will be weakened temporarily Thursday by a low pressure disturbance off the Pacific coast. The resulting snow flurries should be scattered and too light to cause any serious problems for holiday travelers familiar with Idaho highways in the winter time. Increasing clouds tonight will hold temperatures above those of last night, and only minor day to day temperature changes are expected.

Record production seen for winter wheat crop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With wheat prices booming to record levels in 1973 because of feverish foreign demand, farmers are planning to produce a record 1974 winter wheat crop of 1,513,000,000 bushels, the Agriculture Department said.

The department's crop reporting board, in an estimated based

November results

JEROME — Wilmer G. Priest, extension agriculture agent for Jerome County, has released November dairy herd testing results.

Ben Russell, unit tester for the Gooding-Lincoln-Jerome Dairy Herd Improvement Association, reported 15 herds that averaged over 1.25 lbs. butterfat per cow per day in unit No. 2. Two thousand and ninety-eight cows were tested during the month.

Herds in order of production are listed by name, address, number of cows, daily average pounds of milk and daily average pounds of butterfat: Frank Houston, Jerome, 1, 50.6, 1.82; Westpoint Holsteins, Wendell, 58, 48.8, 1.77; Ron and Glen Taylor, Wendell, 63, 48.0, 1.88; Henry Reid, Jerome, 69, 48.2, 1.68; John Webster, Jerome, 27, 46.2, 1.61; Jack Nelson, Jerome, 34, 42.5, 1.49; Don Thibault, Jerome, 107, 46.5, 1.47; Scott Gulick, Jerome, 26, 36.1, 1.45; Ruth Black, Jerome, 37, 31.3, 1.36; W. G. Priest, Jerome, 11, 25.2, 1.25; Sam Severson, Jerome, 59, 36.7, 1.34; Oreville Mattice, Wendell, 52, 34.5, 1.31; Pat Riley, Richfield, 71, 40.1, 1.30; Delbert Rawlings, Hazelton, 83, 37.1, 1.29; Dennis Wardell, Wendell, 69, 36.9, 1.28.

Ranchmen file claims on horses

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — About 70 Nevada ranchers have filed claims to more than 7,000 horses and burros running free on national resource lands.

The Bureau of Land Management said the affidavits covered 7,170 horses and burros.

Under regulations implementing the new Wild and Free-Roaming Horses and Burros Act of 1971, ranchers with claims on animals running on national resource lands must claim and identify them and remove them from the lands so the remaining animals can be protected.

According to a BLM inventory earlier this year, more than 17,000 horses on the lands are not under grazing licenses.

Nevada BLM director Ed Rowland said the bureau must evaluate whether there is enough evidence of ownership to warrant a roundup of the animals for identification.

Meat supply good

CHICAGO — The nation's supply of beef, pork and poultry was still abundant this week and if government allocations of truck fuel are effective, market analysts believe these supplies will remain adequate throughout the winter.

Any marked increases in gasoline and diesel fuel prices are certain to be a factor in forcing up the prices housewives will pay for food next year.

But the analysts expect no food shortages if the priorities assigned to truckers who haul animals from the feed lots to the packers or transport carcasses on to the supermarkets provide enough fuel for near normal movement during the cold months.

The Agriculture Department's latest survey, showed the number of hogs now on feed was 3 per cent higher than last year at this time. While there was a reported drop of 2 per cent in cattle on feed, the number being fattened was still large enough to meet demand.

And the numbers of broilers and turkeys ready for market have been large enough to bring turkey prices down since Thanksgiving and bring broiler prices down close to those of last December.

Christmas babies have included American Red Cross founder Clara Barton, actor Humphrey Bogart, journalist David Lawrence, scientists Isaac Newton, and TV writer Rod Serling.

announced Technology harms wine

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Technology has hindered rather than helped the wine making industry, according to an E. J. Gallo Wine Co. spokesman.

"That's why the firm is not going to accept any mechanically have rested grapes, other than Thompson seedless, in 1974."

"Machine harvested grapes make bitter wine because the machine chops the leaves in with juice," the Gallo spokesman said.

The Gallo decision has stirred concern in the grape growing industry because Gallo winers crush 50 per cent of California's wine grapes.

Demonstrations against Sugar bowl start today

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Disgruntled black leaders Wednesday will begin a series of demonstrations led by the Rev. Ralph Abernathy to protest their exclusion from the Sugar Bowl Committee. But they said the protests would be peaceful and would probably stop short of asking black players on the top-ranked Alabama and third-ranked Notre Dame football teams, or on the four basketball tournament squads, to stage a boycott.

Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), was to speak at a rally Wednesday night to inaugurate the protests.

Protest leaders are demanding black membership on the prestigious executive committee of the Mid-Winter Sports Association, the Sugar Bowl sponsor. The association agreed under pressure and threat of legal action to accept six blacks as associate members but it steadfastly refused to desegregate its executive committee.

Pickets definitely would be stationed outside Tulane Stadium before the New Year's Eve football game and at Municipal Auditorium during the basketball tournament Dec. 28-29, the leaders said.

Demonstrations at various other locations which are centers of Sugar Bowl activity were also being considered, they said.

"There are contingency plans for picketing elsewhere—hotels and such," said Dr. Guy Gipson, president of the New Orleans NAACP.

But he said that violence was not part of the plan and that the leaders were interested "in assuring a peaceful demonstration."

The Sugar Bowl was not the only target of the protests. Tyron Brooke, a spokesman for Abernathy, said the SCLC felt "part of our program is to force ABC to project some black faces across that screen in football season."

The American Broadcasting Co. telecasts college football games weekly and carries a nationwide broadcast of the Sugar Bowl. Brooks said all the network's game announcers are white.

"Picket lines will be set up around the stadium and at various events. Also, we are urging all the concessionaires not to go to work on that day. We are urging all businesses that have committed themselves to sell there hot to sell," said Brooks.

Mandich okayed for action in playoff

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula got the Christmas present he was waiting for Tuesday—word that injured tight end Jim Mandich will probably play in Sunday's AFC championship.

The Dolphins held their normal daily workout Christmas morning in preparation for their game with Oakland.

Mandich suffered a broken hand in last Sunday's 34-16 playoff victory over Cincinnati. A pin was inserted into the broken area behind the knuckle of the little finger.

"A cast will remain on the hand during the week and come off for the game, when the hand will be taped," Shula said.

Mandich, who caught one touchdown pass Sunday, has been replacing Marv Fleming as the starting tight end since Fleming suffered a thigh injury Thanksgiving Day.

Shula said he was hopeful that Fleming, whose thigh began hemorrhaging badly about a week after the initial injury, also would be ready for the Raider game.

Defensive tackle Manny Fernandez, who tore a hamstring muscle in the 16-3 loss two weeks ago to Baltimore, also is expected to play. Fernandez was suited up for the Cincinnati game but was restricted to the sidelines.

Tim Foley, who has been out for a month with a shoulder separation also might be ready. But Shula said he definitely would start Lloyd Mumphord at Foley's cornerback slot, partly to let Foley's shoulder mend more thoroughly and partly because of Mumphord's fine performances in the last four games.

Wide receiver Howard Twilley has been out with a bad back, but he played briefly last Sunday and will be ready again Sunday.

Several Dolphins — tackle Maulty Moore, running back Jim Klink and cornerback Curtis Johnson among them—suffered minor injuries against the Bengals but should be ready for the Raiders.

Charley Leigh, a reserve running back and kick returner, suffered a hip injury and is doubtful.

Suns blast Lakers by 135-100

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — The Phoenix Suns, with their sticky defense forcing Los Angeles into 26 turnovers, trounced the Lakers 135-100 Tuesday night.

Charlie Scott, with 27 points, led the Suns, who trailed only during the opening minute of the game. Neal Walk had 20 and Mike Bantom and Corky Callhoun 19 each.

Pat Riley came off the bench to score 17 for the NBA Pacific Division-leading Lakers. Bill Bridges had 13 while Gail Goodrich, the league's fifth top scorer, and Elmore Smith had 12 each.

Phoenix, after leading 61-50 at halftime, broke away to a 99-73 margin in the third quarter, when it hit 47 per cent from the field compared to a cool 30 per cent for the Lakers.

It was the second straight convincing win for the Suns over a division leader. They had defeated Milwaukee 121-112 Saturday night.

Los Angeles played without Coach Bill Sharman, who stayed home because of his wife's illness. Assistant coach John Barnhill ran the team.

South beats North with two late TDs

By CHARLES E. TAYLOR
MIAMI (UPI) — The South capitalized on a North fumble to break open a dull game with a final quarter touchdown Tuesday night and win the annual Shrine All-Star charity game 27-6.

After Frank LeMaster of Kentucky recovered the fumble by J.J. Jennings of Rutgers quarterback Don Woods of New Mexico threw a 29-yard pass to Jack Ettinger of Arkansas on the North one-yard line.

MIAMI (UPI) — Statistics of the North-South Shrine football game:

North	South
First downs	11
Yards	48
Passing yards	48
Interceptions	1
Fumbles	1
Time of possession	33:00
Penalties	4-20
Fumbles lost	0-0

A sack on the next play threw the Rebels back to the 25, but then Woods gained 24 yards on a keeper when he couldn't find a receiver to set up the one-yard scoring run by Willie Burden of North Carolina State that made the score 20-6.

Before the game ended, North Carolina's Sam Johnson scored once more for the South at the end of a 34-yard drive against a gagging North team.

Chuck Ramsey of Wake Forest kicked three conversions and two field goals for nine points in the game played before a slim crowd of 10,672 in the Orange Bowl.

It was a game fraught with errors, three fumbles and three interceptions by the North and two fumbles and one interception by the South. Three of the turnovers led to scores.

The South got most of its yardage on the ground, opening the scoring on a 71-yard drive capped by a four-yard scoring plunge by Alfred Thompson of Eastern Kentucky.

The North got its points on field goals of 37 and 32 yards by John Phillips of Xavier.

Ramsey kicked a 36-yard field goal in the second quarter and a 32-yarder in the third quarter for the South and the game remained 13-6 until late in the fourth quarter when Jennings' fumble set up the game-breaker.

Big 8 meet opens on subdued note

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The holiday atmosphere customarily associated with the Big Eight basketball tournament will be toned down this week with the absence of Iowa State Coach Maury John.

John, 54, entered the Mayo Clinic Tuesday to undergo surgery for the removal of a tumor in his esophagus. Assistant coaches Gus Guydon and Tom Smith will run the Cyclones in the tournament, which begins Wednesday night for a four-day run. John is expected to miss four to six weeks of the season.

Kansas State ranks as a slight favorite to win its eighth Big Eight tournament. The Wildcats have been shut out of the winner's circle since 1963 and have lost in the finals the last two years to Missouri.

Coach Jack Hartman's team, however, has won the conference championship the last two years.

Wednesday night's opening round sends Missouri (3-2) against Oklahoma (5-1) and Kansas (5-2) against Colorado (4-3). Thursday's first-round pairings pit Nebraska (6-2) against Kansas State (5-3) and Oklahoma State (5-3) against Iowa State (5-2).

Semifinals are scheduled Friday with the championship game Saturday night.

Missouri has a seven-game winning streak going in the tournament, but Coach Norm Stewart's Tigers don't figure to go far this year. Al Eberhard, an All-Big Eight performer who was voted most outstanding performer in last year's tournament, is back, but the Tigers are inexperienced elsewhere.

Oklahoma has the best center in the league in 6-foot-9 Alvan Adams, a sophomore who was an all-conference player as a freshman. The Sooners' only loss was a 66-64 setback to Jacksonville in Norman. The Sooners, under new Coach Joe Ramsey, have won four road games, including the Great Plains Classic in Omaha.

Kansas, which has finished eighth in the tournament the last two years, appears vastly improved with the addition of freshman Norm Cook and junior college transfer Roger Morningstar. Also, 6-10 junior Danny Knight has developed rapidly.

Colorado was the surprise of the league a year ago, finishing second despite an overall record of 13-13. Scott Wedman and Dave Logan lead the Buffs.

Shrine players share dinner

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — The East and West squads for the 49th annual Shrine football game got together Christmas Day for a traditional dinner with turkey, cranberries and cherries jubilee.

The dinner was the only occasion the two squads will meet before Saturday's game at Candlestick Park.

The game is a benefit for the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children and has so far raised more than $7 million for the institution.

Both squads also held workouts in the morning. The East squad at Foothill College in Los Altos Hills and the West squad at Stannford University.

Time adjustment

BOISE — Duck hunters must "tranklate" official shooting hours by adding one hour to shooting hours printed on the back of the waterfowl regulations to convert to Daylight Savings Time, which becomes effective January 6, 1974.

Duck shooting continues through January 13, 1974, in Columbia Basin Mallard Counties, and goose hunting in northern Idaho does not end until sunset, January 6, a spokesman for the Idaho Fish and Game Department said.

Both duck and goose hunting is closed in other parts of the state (see waterfowl regulations).

Idaho student will continue winter habit study of goats

MOSCOW (UPI) — While most people wait out the cold winter of the Pacific Northwest with minimal outdoor activity, Jerry Lounsberry plans to spend about 1,000 hours staring at mountain goats through a spotting scope.

Lounsberry is working toward a master's degree in wildlife management at the University of Idaho college of forestry.

This will be his second goat-watching — inter-high in the Lemhi Mountains of Southeastern Idaho.

But he hopes his research will contribute to the longevity of the wilderness beasts which are prized by mountain climbers and wild game hunters alike.

Lounsberry said there has been a gradual decline in goat numbers on the range since the mid 1950's. He says an understanding of goat ecology on the winter range is critical to future management.

Mountain goats are found in isolated spots from Alaska to southern Idaho and because of the different climatic and vegetation population is considered as a separate entity.

Research on spring, summer and fall goat movements and food habits as well as population dynamics and hunting pressure is being conducted by Lonn Kuck, senior game biologist for the Fish and Game Department.

Lounsberry said his observations so far support Kuck's earlier findings that mountain mahogany, a shrub that dominates the southern Idaho winter goat range, is also the dominant source of winter food for the goats.

Over the years, the mountain mahogany limbs have been eaten back by the hungry goats while the plants have continued to grow out of reach.

Young mountain mahogany plants do not appear to be establishing themselves, according to Lounsberry, but the plant grows very slowly and lives over 140 years, so the impact of goats on this shrub is still to be determined.

Raiders psyching up for Miami playoff

OAKLAND (UPI) — Center Jim Otto, who's been associated with the Oakland Raiders since 1960, said Tuesday he's not sure how much longer he'll play but related it to the attitude the team has taken for the American Football Conference title game — one at a time.

"I'm playing my seasons one at a time," Otto said. "And you have to do the same thing with your playoff games."

The Raiders, who meet the Miami Dolphins Sunday in Miami for the right to go to the Super Bowl, went through a light workout Christmas day after a morning film session.

"You have to be up every week in order to win and you try to prepare yourself that way," Otto, co-holder of the record for playing in consecutive games (27), added. "There are times when it's automatic. The playoffs, for instance. The Raiders are always up for playoff games."

Otto admits it won't be a one-way street. "The other guys will be just as psyched up as we will," he said, referring to the defeat the Raiders handed Miami earlier this season.

Hunting back Mary Hubbard put it this way: "I'm convinced you've got to be mad when you play this game."

In the Pittsburgh game, the Raiders won, 33-14. We were mad at everybody. We were mad at ourselves for losing the playoff game last year and we were mad at the Steelers because we'd lost three straight to them.

The only injury the Raiders had in the Pittsburgh game was an ankle sprain sustained by outside linebacker Pat Villapiano.

However, the team physician said the former Bowling Green star will be ready for the Miami encounter.

Jordan sees tight tilt, Dallas victory

By MIKE HADUN
UPI Sports Writer
DALLAS (UPI) — It's been quite a year for Lee Roy Jordan.

The Dallas Cowboy middle linebacker finally won All-NFC recognition at his position and then he had the honor of being named Santa Claus in Dallas' pre-Christmas pageant against Los Angeles last Sunday.

It was Jordan's interception of a John Hadl pass on the first play of the game that started Dallas in the right direction.

Jordan sees about the same type of struggle this Sunday in the NFC title game against Minnesota as was produced on the floor of Texas Stadium last Sunday. And, he figures, with the same result.

"They (Minnesota) are a great team," said Jordan.

"They are a lot like the Rams. They have a great defense, they have two good running backs (in Chuck Foreman and Oscar Reed) and a real veteran line, so they are very similar to the Rams."

"I think it will be the same type of battle. But I feel like we will win it."

"Against Los Angeles we feel like we had a 47-man effort and we feel everyone did a great job. The offense came in and put the ball over the goal line."

Bullets nip N.Y. with late rush

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Capital Bullets, behind by 19 points in the first half, got 13 fourth-quarter points from Elvin Hayes, outscored the New York Knicks 13-4 over the final 5:27 and scored a 102-100 victory Tuesday night.

Two foul shots by New York's Walt Frazier cut the score to 99-98, but Hayes matched the two free throws to make it 101-98. Another foul shot by Phil Chenier made it 102-98 with 27 seconds to go. New York's Dean Meminger scored a basket with 18 seconds to go, making it 102-100, and with four seconds left, Frazier stole an inbound pass — but missed the layup.

We got the turnovers, but that's what it is all about. But if they don't get the ball across the goal line, we don't win."

This will be the first time Dallas has faced Minnesota since the two met in a divisional playoff game two seasons ago—a contest which produced a 20-12 Dallas victory en route to the Super Bowl title.

In that game, just as in Dallas' game with Los Angeles last week, the Cowboys seized on Viking mistakes—an early fumble by Dave Osborn and interceptions by linebacker Chuck Howley and safety Cliff Harris—to run up 13 of their 20 points.

"We will have to play the same kind of defensive game against Minnesota as we did against Los Angeles," said coach Tom Landry. "We will miss Calvin Hill, but I think we will be all right with Bobby Newhouse."

The post-Los Angeles injury report showed that, other than Hill's disabling dislocated elbow, outside linebacker D. D. Lewis also came up with a broken thumb.

Vikings must not 'over-prepare'

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — After a three-day Christmas holiday, the Minnesota Vikings Wednesday will get on with the job of preparing—but not "over-preparing"—for the Dallas Cowboys.

The Vikings, who have been rapped as a football team which folds in the big money games, were so super-charged in their 27-20 victory over Washington last Saturday that they almost blew their title dreams.

"We took the field before the game with more emotion than at any time I can remember," said Grady Alderman, a Viking offensive tackle for 13 years.

"We were so fired up we couldn't play our game," said defensive end Carl Eller, who put on a blackboard-kicking outburst at halftime which seemed to pull the team together for a second half rally that won the game.

The Vikings will try not get over-prepared for Dallas in their National Conference title game Sunday at Texas Stadium.

Now comes Dallas again. The Cowboys have lost one of their best offensive weapons—running back Calvin Hill—but the team has shown it can overcome adversity and win when it counts.

"Dallas has won before without Hill," Viking coach Bud Grant said.

Grant had a workout scheduled for the Vikings Wednesday at Metropolitan Stadium here. They will fly Thursday to Tulsa, Okla., to practice for two days on the artificial turf at Skelly Field, where they worked out prior to the Redskin game.

Mantle expected to make hall of fame on first eligible try

NEW YORK (UPI) — The only thing you can say for sure about baseball writers is that no one can ever say for sure what they're going to do, but sometime in the next few weeks I'm pretty sure they're going to vote Mickey Mantle into the Hall of Fame.

This will be his first time "up" insofar as his being eligible is concerned and only a half dozen others — Warren Spahn, Sandy Koufax, Ted Williams, Stan Musial, Bob Feller and the late Jackie Robinson—ever made it their first shot out of the box, but I'll be surprised if Mantle isn't No. 7.

Whitey Ford puts it well. "I think."

"He belongs," says the Yankees' former lefty pitching ace and long-time teammate of Mantle's.

Even his first time around? "I think so," says Ford, who missed being voted in by only 29 votes last year, the first time he was eligible and finished second in the balloting to Spahn.

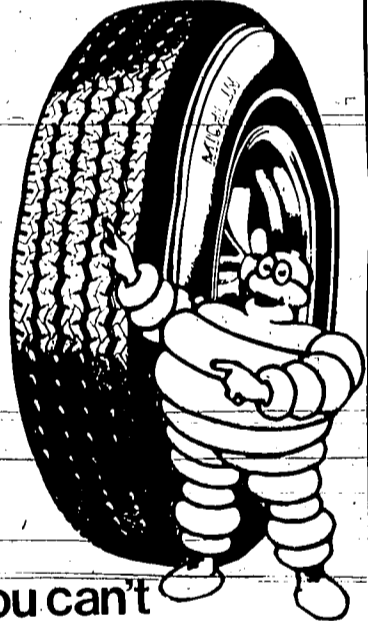

"To me, a Hall of Famer always had to have three things," Ford goes on. "He had to be around for a long time, at least 10 years, and I think the voting rules say that (they do); he should have done something really noteworthy, like in Mickey's case, he hit more than 500 home runs, and he should've been consistent. I'd say consistency is the main thing."

"On that count Mantle certainly qualifies."

He was consistently spectacular and when you consider he performed with the physical infirmities he did, his record becomes more meaningful yet.

South beats North with two late TDs

By CHARLES E. TAYLOR
MIAMI (UPI) — The South capitalized on a North fumble to break open a dull game with a final quarter touchdown Tuesday night and win the annual Shrine All-Star charity game 27-6.

quarterback Don Woods of New Mexico threw a 29-yard pass to Jack Ettinger of Arkansas on the North one-yard line.

A sack on the next play threw the Rebels back to the 25, but then Woods gained 24 yards by a keeper when he couldn't find a receiver to set up the one-yard scoring run by Willie Burden of North Carolina State that made the score 20-6.

MIAMI (UPI) — Statistics of the North-South Shrine football game:

First downs	North 11	South 17
Yards gained	North 40	South 134
Passing yards	North 33	South 117
Return yards	North 7	South 11
Fumbles	North 2	South 3
Punts	North 7	South 13
Time of possession	North 31:15	South 28:45

Big 8 meet opens on subdued note

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The holiday atmosphere customarily associated with the Big Eight basketball tournament will be toned down this week with the absence of Iowa State Coach Maury John. John, 54, entered the Mayo Clinic Tuesday to undergo surgery for the removal of a tumor in his esophagus. Assistant coaches Gus Guydon and Tom Smith will run the Cyclones in the tournament, which begins Wednesday night for a four-day run. John is expected to miss four to six weeks of the season.

Kansas State ranks as a slight favorite to win its eighth Big Eight tournament. The Wildcats have been shut out of the winner's circle since 1963 and have lost in the finals the last two years to Missouri.

Shrine players share dinner

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — The East and West squads for the 49th annual Shrine football game got together Christmas Day for a traditional dinner with turkey, cranberries and cherries jubilee.

Oklahoma has the best center in the league in 6-foot-9 Alvan Adams, a sophomore who was an all-conference player as a freshman. The Sooners' only loss was a 66-64 setback to Jacksonville in Norman. The Sooners, under new Coach Joe Ramsey, have won four road games, including the Great Plains Classic in Omaha.

Before the game ended, North Carolina's Sam Johnson scored once more for the South at the end of a 34-yard drive against a sagging North team.

It was a game fraught with errors, three fumbles and three interceptions by the North and two fumbles and one interception by the South. Three of the turnovers led to scores. The South got most of its yardage on the ground, opening the scoring on a 71-yard drive capped by a four-yard scoring plunge by Alfred Thompson of Eastern Kentucky.

Raiders psyching up for Miami playoff

OAKLAND (UPI) — Center Jim Otto, who's been associated with the Oakland Raiders since 1960, said Tuesday he's not sure how much longer he'll play but related it to the attitude the team has taken for the American Football Conference title game — one at a time.

He said the Raiders were mad at the Steelers because we'd lost three straight to them. The only injury the Raiders had in the Pittsburgh game was an ankle sprain sustained by outside linebacker Phil Villapiano.

Idaho student will continue winter habit study of goats

MOSCOW (UPI) — While most people wait out the cold winter of the Pacific Northwest with minimal outdoor activity, Jerry Lounsberry plans to spend about 1,000 hours starting at mountain goats through a spotting scope.

mountain mahogany, a shrub that dominates the southern Idaho winter goat range, is also the dominant source of winter food for the goats. Over the years, the mountain mahogany limbs have been eaten back by the hungry goats while the plants have continued to grow out of reach.

Lounsberry is working toward a master's degree in wildlife management at the University of Idaho college of forestry.

Young mountain mahogany plants do not appear to be establishing themselves, according to Lounsberry, but the plant grows very slowly and lives over 140 years, so the impact of goats on this shrub is still to be determined.

Beamingly yours.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 35 years old, and am being married for the first time. My fiance is 45, and this will be his second marriage. My fiance's father has been in a convalescent home for four years and his mother doesn't want any kind of wedding at all.

My mother is a widow and I am an only child, and we want something we can remember. It wouldn't be a big, wild celebration, but I would like my relatives there, plus a few friends, totaling about 60 or 65. My fiance's mother said she doesn't think we should have any music at all. Abby, her husband is still living, altho he is partially paralyzed from a stroke, and I don't see why music would be objectionable. I can't imagine a wedding with no music at all.

It's your wedding!

Also, his mother said she doesn't want to get "all dressed up" because she is not in a celebrating mood.

Finally, she said if we really want to make her happy, we should ask the rabbi to come to her husband's bedside and perform the ceremony there, with only the witnesses!

Please, please, tell me how to deal with her Abby. She is making what should be the happiest day of my life the most miserable.

IN TEARS IN L. A.

DEAR IN: I assume your fiance's father isn't at death's door. In that case, go ahead and have the kind of wedding you want, and afterwards, call on his ailing father and take him a piece of wedding cake.

DEAR ABBY: Does a person have the right to punish someone else's child? Yes or no? WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR WANTS: What do you mean by the "right"? If you mean the legal right, that would depend upon where you live. In some places it's against the law to lay a hand on another person's child. Also, what do you mean by "punish"? Do you mean rap his knuckles or belt him one?

DEAR ABBY: While sitting under the hair dryer in a beauty parlor, a lady seated next to me lit a cigaret.

I turned to her and politely said: "Please don't smoke near me, it makes me nauseous."

She replied in a snippy tone: "This is a public place, and I don't see any 'No Smoking' signs anywhere, so if my smoke bothers you, why don't YOU move?"

I then said: "I think it's YOUR place to move since you are the one who is causing the problem, but I've been taught to respect my elders, so I will move." With that I moved, but I noticed that she immediately went to the desk girl and reported the incident.

When I paid my bill the desk girl told me I shouldn't have been so insolent to that woman.

Abby, do you think I was insolent? She looked to be about 60, and I am 30. OFF MY NEST

DEAR OFF: No. More people should screw up the courage to complain to smokers who offend them by polluting the atmosphere.

DEAR ABBY: I am a registered nurse interested in working on the hospital ship "S. S. Hope," but I don't know where to write for information about it. Can you help me? J. G. McN.

Book Review

By ARLAN CALL

Twin Falls Public Library
TWIN FALLS — "The Art of Walt Disney: From Mickey Mouse to the Magic Kingdoms" is a huge, happy biographical treatment of the man who devoted his life and total talents to the pleasure of others.

The author, Christopher Finch, and the Abrams Publishing Company, have produced a large format book (it weighs several pounds) which is every bit as flashy as the better Disney movie productions. Dozens of double-sized, foldout color pictures make it one of the best coffee table "browsing" books of the year.

Quite aside from impressiveness of the format, the quality of the textual content is very high. The lives of both Walt Disney as an individual, and of his Disney Productions, are traced from their low key beginnings in Chicago to the fantastically elaborate Florida Disney World.

On another level, the book is the story of the maturation of the animation concepts developed by Disney and his staff. The pre-eminence of their work in the industry is evidenced by the fifth-plus Academy Awards earned by Disney Studios from 1931 to the present.

Few persons will read the entire text of "Walt Disney, but any who feel warmth at the thought of Mickey Mouse and his cronies will enjoy looking through this fine book.

Handbook revised

JEROME — Edith Nancolas, Jerome, president of the Idaho Retired Teacher's Association has returned from Washington D. C., where she helped revise the handbook of the association.

Miss Nancolas said the revision was the first undertaken for several years and included examination for relevancy and additions covering new programs and services. The handbook will be given final approval in February and then will be published and sent to the more than 1800 local units, according to Miss Nancolas.

50th anniversary open house slated

WENDELL — Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Adams, Wendell, will observe their 50th wedding anniversary with an open house from 2 to 5 p.m. Dec. 30 in the basement of Christ Lutheran Church.

The couple's four children will serve as hosts for the event. They are Lawrence Adams, Wendell; Virgil and LeRoy Adams, both Salt Lake City, and Mrs. Melvin Arlene McMaster, Pocatello.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams were married Dec. 26, 1923, in Iowa. They later moved to Twin Falls where they lived for a few years before moving to Wendell. The couple farmed south of Wendell for a time and later Adams owned and operated Wendell Implement Company for a number of years.

Friends and relatives of the couple are invited to the open house. They request no gifts.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER E. ADAMS

First recipients

TWIN FALLS — Seniors Todd Brumbach, Twin Falls, and Laura Mahan, Puyallup, Wash., are the first recipients of the James E. Balyeat Memorial Art Scholarship for fine arts students at Washington State University. The awards are named for a former WSU faculty member, who taught sculpture in the Department of Fine Arts from 1963 until his death on Oct. 12, 1970.

Brumbach's field is three-dimensional art. Miss Mahan specializes in painting.

TF chapter meeting slated Thursday

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Chapter of Parents Without Partners will meet at 6 p.m. Thursday at St. Edward's School.

The agenda includes a potluck supper, games and group discussion.

Temporary officers chosen at an organizational meeting earlier this month are Mort Fitch, chairman; Faye Alcorn, secretary, and Angie King, treasurer.

Some of the activities planned for the chapter include roller skating parties, all day ski outings, dances, invited speakers dealing with topics

Student listed

WENDELL — Debbah Gilbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale E. Gilbert, Wendell, and a student at Ford-Wright College, Spokane, Wash., has been named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

A senior, majoring in English-writing, she is active in campus affairs and serves on several committees dealing with cultural affairs and on campus publications.

Specialist tells care of poinsettias

The poinsettia is among the best known emblems of the Christmas holiday period and many Idahoans may either purchase them for the occasion or receive the flowers as gifts.

A Cooperative Extension Horticulturist, Allen Boettcher of Clark County, Nev., recently provided some suggestions on how to care for the plants. He also had some interesting facts to relate about poinsettias.

In the home, Boettcher says, the plant should be kept in a sunny location at temperatures between 70 and 75 degrees during the day and 60 degrees at night. Cold or hot drafts should be avoided. The plant needs adequate but not excessive watering. Water well when the soil feels dry and then let the excess run through the bottom of the pot.

If the leaves of the poinsettia become yellow or drop prematurely it could be caused by insufficient light, not enough nitrogen fertilizer, drafts, or excessive water. Also, in frost-free areas, the poinsettia after the holiday season may be grown outside.

Boettcher says the plant was named after Dr. Joel Poinsett of Charleston, South Carolina in 1829.

Cover the food chopper with a clear plastic bag. This will keep it clean and ready for use.

Miss Forbes, Simmons marry

TWIN FALLS — Terri Ann Forbes and Tom Simmons were married in rites Dec. 7 at Immanuel Lutheran Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Eugene Tjarks, Chaplain of Lutheran Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Forbes and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Simmons, all Twin Falls.

The church was decorated in a Christmas theme with gold tined holly garlands and red velvet poinsettias. A large arrangement of red poinsettias and boughs of evergreen decorated the altar which was flanked by lighted green ceramic Christmas trees made by the bridegroom's father. Two candelabra with white candles were decorated with holly and poinsettias.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of imported Chantilly lace over net and satin with a hoop skirt and chapel train. The scalloped neckline was embroidered with seed pearls and crystals, which also trimmed the long lily point sleeves.

Her multi-tiered French illusion veil was held by a row of white organza roses and was trimmed with seed pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of red carnations and white Elfe roses with the long cascade featuring white roses and feathered carnations and ivy. The bouquet was tied with cream ribbon and streamers.

Mrs. Lloyd (Kathy) Knowles, Salt Lake City, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Eddie (Held) Green, Carey, sister of the bride, and Joan Simmons, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Monica Groeh, Carey, niece of the bride, and Wendy Simmons, Nampa, cousin of the bridegroom, were flower girls.

Roy Thompson, Twin Falls, was best man. Ushers were Darrell Groves and Mike Pries, James Knowles, Salt Lake City, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Mrs. Marvin Robertson was organist. Mary Jo Haran, Boise, was in charge of the guest book.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a three-tiered heart-shaped cake decorated with red poinsettias and green leaves. A miniature bridal couple was placed on top of the cake. Red candles set in greenery with velvet ornaments flanked the cake. A holly garland with red velvet poinsettias was draped around the table.

Quartet tables were covered with lace cloths and centered with a red candle, holly, ornaments and red net.

Martha Lowery, aunt of the bride, served punch. Coffee and cake were served by Carolyn Simmons, Ethel Durrington and Goldene Durrington, all relatives of the bridegroom.

Debbie Pruitt and Debra Palmer, Boise, cared for gifts. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Forbes, Jerome, grandparents of the bride, and Mrs. R. C. Simmons, Nampa, grandmother of the bridegroom.

Guests attended from Jerome, Shoshone, Carey, Nampa, Boise and Salt Lake City.

The parents of the bridegroom were hosts for a dinner at their home after the rehearsal.

The bride was honored at a pre-nuptial shower given by Susan Dunavan and Lunda Hamilton at the Dunavan home.

After a wedding trip to Moonstone Lodge, the couple resides in Utah where the bridegroom is employed by Union Pacific Railroad.

BUTTERMILK PRALINES
2 cups sugar
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon soda
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
1 1/2 cups chopped pecans
1 tablespoon vanilla
1/4 cup butter
Combine sugar, buttermilk, soda and syrup in a saucepan.

Cook over moderate heat to soft ball stage (234 to 240 degrees on candy thermometer).
Remove from heat. Add pecans, vanilla and butter. Stir until butter has melted. Cool until mixture begins to thicken. Drop by spoonfuls onto sheets of waxed paper.

Watch carefully, when the mixture has been taken from the stove and the butter stirred in. It thickens quickly.

Japanese buy US fish, boost salmon prices

Salt Lake alive and well

SALT LAKE CITY, (UPI) — The Great Salt Lake is alive and well in northern Utah. In 1963 the nation's largest inland sea had shrunk to its lowest level ever. But four straight years of high runoff boosted the level of the lake by more than eight feet in the past 10 years. Interior Department officials here report the lake level reached 4,199.4 feet above sea level last month, 0.95 foot higher than a year ago and 8.05 feet above the all-time low of October 1963. The Utah office of the federal agency said streamflow in northern Utah this fall remained above the normal range, but elsewhere in the state, flows were about normal.

(c) Newhouse News Service
PORTLAND, Ore. — The Japanese, often criticized for fishing near the United States, are now sending their buyers to the Pacific Northwest docks to buy fish caught by Americans. The upshot, however, has been to help boost the price of canned salmon on U. S. grocery shelves in many places to $2.79 a pound — if it is available. Other price-boosting factors are: the U. S. government's partial control of prices, the pollution problem in Japan where the Japanese, who rely on fish for protein, are afraid of buying aquatic products taken from local waters or streams, and the worst red sockeye salmon run in history in Bristol Bay, Alaska. The 1972 salmon pack — 1,675,000 cases containing 48 one-pound cans — was way below normal so there was little carryover for this year. This year the pack totaled a little more than 1.15 million cases through most of the season, according to John McGowan, president of Bumble Bee Seafoods, one of the nation's biggest canners. The salmon takes off Oregon and Washington were good this year but Alaska accounts for 80 to 85 per cent of the U. S.

salmon harvest and the Bristol Bay red salmon run accounts for 60 to 65 per cent of the total run of that species. To the scarcity problem add the complications of price controls. Under a three-tiered price control system intended to protect the small and medium-sized packers, explained McGowan and Ray Krantz, market coordinator specialist for the National Marine Fisheries Service in Seattle, the small canners could up their prices to reflect mounting costs and the medium-sized packers could, too, after justifying the increase with the Cost of Living Council. Big packers like Bumble Bee and Del Monte had to stand pat with prices that took effect in January on the 1972 salmon harvest despite having to pay higher prices to independent fishermen. The result was that major packers bought and froze rather than canned the salmon.

To avoid middlemen, the Japanese met the fishermen at the docks. They also moved into Oregon and Washington to buy from gillnetters and other commercial fishermen.

Demo hopefuls assail defense spending, detente

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON—Senate Democratic presidential hopefuls are moving toward the right on a number of defense spending issues and taking an increasingly critical stance on the Nixon administration's policy of detente with Moscow.
 One senator who did not want to be identified said, "Scoop is pulling the Democrats with national ambitions along with him" on national security matters.
 "Scoop" is the nickname for

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who has become a frequent challenger of the administration's foreign policies. The Senate Democrats with presidential ambitions for 1976 include Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas.
 None of the three has gone as far as Jackson in assailing White House positions, but many Senate sources and observers see each as moving in that direction.

Since the outbreak of the Middle East war, Mondale, Kennedy and Bentsen have said and implied that the administration oversold the benefits of detente, largely for domestic political ends. At the same time, Kennedy and Mondale have lowered their voices in recent debates on defense department appropriations. Bentsen, who was more conservative on these issues to begin with, has not had to shift as much.

Several senators and a sizable number of Senate staff members, most of whom are unhappy about this drift toward Jackson and to the right, say that everything has now come together for the Senator from Washington. They cite as the reasons for his sudden attractiveness, the political vulnerability of President Nixon, the Middle East war and the Soviet involvement in it, and the successes of Jackson in getting attention from the news media and in passing legislation.

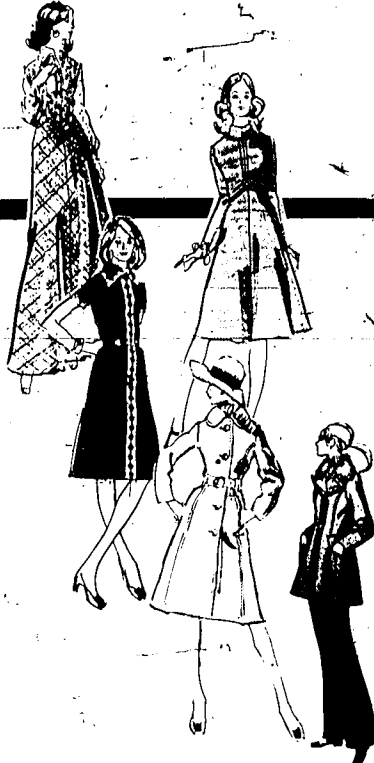

Observers point out that Jackson was on his way to dominating the foreign policy headlines even before the start of the October Arab-Israeli war.
 He had engineered the passage of an amendment on American troops in Europe that would bring about reductions in their number to the extent that the European allies did not help Washington to meet the attendant balance-of-payments costs.
 Then, Jackson tagged on an amendment to the trade bill that sought to deny special trading status and financial credits to Moscow until Jews were allowed to emigrate freely from the Soviet Union. Kennedy, Mondale and Bentsen joined in co-sponsoring this amendment, along with some 70 others.

 Again months before the war started, Jackson lashed out against the energy policy of the administration, warning of the international security implications. A month later, Mondale gave a speech urging that America's food weapon be used to counter the Arab oil weapon. Kennedy last week attacked the administration in the energy field.

 Once the war flared up, Jackson began sounding the alarm about the policy of detente, calling it in effect a policy of headline grabbing without the substance of security.
 Kennedy followed suit with a speech before the convention of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations, talking about "the obvious signs of our nation's excessive reliance on the promise of detente and our failure to meet, let alone anticipate, the dangers that surround it." Mondale also made critical remarks about the hollowness of detente in view of the Soviet involvement in the Arab war effort.

 Bentsen, after having been relatively silent on foreign policy matters since coming to the Senate, joined in the general attack earlier this month.

Americans to challenge Soviet peak

(c) N. Y. Times Service
MOSCOW — The Soviet Union has agreed to let a dozen American mountain climbers try to scale its third highest mountain, the 23,405-foot Lenin Peak.

The mountain climbers are the first Americans ever allowed to undertake a major ascent here. They have asked to climb the formidable mountain by a route not previously attempted. The peak was first climbed by a Soviet team in 1934.

The expedition is to be part of an international mountaineering camp planned for next July and August in "Glade of the Edelweiss" between the Alai Valley and Lenin Peak in the Soviet Pamirs, according to a recent article in Pravda Vostoka, the Communist newspaper of the Uzbek Republic.

The attempt will mark the first full cooperation between Soviet and American mountain climbers, although last October, three Americans, including a young woman, participated in a speed-climbing competition in the Crimpa. A handful of Americans have climbed independently in the Soviet Caucasus.

American climbers have long wanted a full-fledged expedition in the Soviet Union.

That last confidence was misplaced. Hearts were opened and continued. South ruffed the third heart and played his king of spades. East won and led the deuce of diamonds to West's 10. West thought a while and led back the three spot to East's king. East led his last diamond whereupon West ran off every trick but the last one to set South six tricks.

The 1700 penalty can't have been the largest one of 1973 but it comes close to being the most useless. If North and South had stayed out of the bidding the worst that could happen to them would have been for East and West to get vulnerable. Or East and West might well have bid to a slam which would have failed on account of the 5-0 diamond break.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Take away the East-West part score of 99 points and the odds are that North would not have stuck in his horrible overcall. It wouldn't have cost him anything if South hadn't compounded the felony by bidding his weak diamond suit after East had gone to one trump.

North could have escaped major trouble if he had rebid his spades or shown his clubs at the three level, but North decided to let his partner suffer at his own contract.

South's pass to two diamonds doubled was the worst bid of all. He could at least have gone to two spades, but South had no confidence in North's dummy play and lots of confidence in his own.

 What do you do now?

A — Bid seven diamonds. Your partner's five notrump was the grand-slam force and your diamonds are good enough to accept.

TODAY'S QUESTION
 Instead of bidding three hearts your partner has bid four diamonds over your three diamonds. What do you do now?

TWIN FALLS — Bob Wills, Twin Falls, is new president of the Magic Valley Aeromodellers Club. Gene Admond, Kimberly, is secretary-treasurer. He said the club has a 40-acre flying site leased from the Bureau of Land Management. The club has plans for future runway development at the site, Admond said. The club meets the last Wednesday of every month and members fly their handmade model planes Sundays at the site, and during the spring and summer months also on Wednesday nights.

BPA discloses details of new pact with regional utilities, industries

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Bonneville Power Administration has released details of its new agreement with Northwest utilities and industries for providing more than 11 million kilowatts of generating capacity between 1981 and 1986.

The agreement was announced last Friday, two weeks after a Nov. 29 meeting between BPA and its customers at which BPA Administrator Don Hodol expressed criticism of lack of progress toward developing a program beyond 1981. Current plans and power supplies are expected to run-out then.

Hodol said he is very pleased with the D&E-14 agreement. The agreement involves financing, construction and operation of 1.6 million kilowatts of coal-fired generating capacity, about 5.8 million kilowatts of nuclear generation and 3.7 million kilowatts of peaking capacity. The nuclear generation figure includes continued operation of Hanford No. 1 beyond 1977.

"In view of the national energy policy dependence upon oil is avoided," the BPA statement said.

The statement added that because of power use has grown faster than previously forecast and because of delays in planned construction the region probably will have a power shortage in the 1970s.

It said "hydro-thermal program phase 2" is designed both to eliminate that expected shortage and to meet power needs through 1986. "It is expected that additional resources to provide the power requirements beyond 1986 will also be identified soon," BPA said.

According to BPA its agreement with the utilities and industries to which it sells power includes:

- Private utilities would own plants or parts of plants or buy power from other non-federal utilities to meet their requirements. This is the same as in Phase 1 of the hydro-thermal power program now under way.
- Publicly and cooperatively owned utilities would own parts of thermal generating units, could participate in ownership through a joint operating agency such as Washington Public Power Supply System (WPPSS) or could participate indirectly with BPA acting as their agent.

- Industrial customers which buy directly from BPA will buy up to 1 million kilowatts to provide extra reserves for the region.
- Industrial customers which buy directly from BPA will buy up to 1 million kilowatts to provide extra reserves for the region.

- The industries would get new 20-year contracts with BPA. — Bonneville would acquire energy for long-term reserves, to meet requirements of preference customers up to 25 average megawatts and to serve existing commitments.

Generating facilities and their projected dates for beginning power production, as contained in the new agreement, are:

- Jim Bridger, No. 4, 500,000 kilowatts, coal-fired, in Wyoming, July 1, 1978; Centralia No. 3, 700,000 kilowatts, coal-fired, near Centralia, Wash.; July 1, 1978; and July 1, 1979; Puget Sound Power & Light Co.; Sedro Woolley nuclear plant, 1.1 million kilowatts, July 1, 1982; Pacific Power & Light Co.

Nuclear No. 1, no site decided, 1.26 million kilowatts, July 1, 1983; WPPSS No. 4, nuclear, no site decided, 1.3 million kilowatts, July 1, 1985. In addition, Hanford No. 1 will continue to operate at 840,000 kilowatts after October, 1977.

The Hydro power and other peaking units are scheduled to provide 800,000 kilowatts by July 1, 1983, 1.2 million kilowatts additional by July 1, 1984.

Vatican asks missions continue

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The official Vatican newspaper appealed to Roman Catholic priests Sunday to continue their mission "no matter how unknown or unappreciated" they may feel.

L'Osservatore Romano issued the worldwide appeal in an editorial signed only with its customary three asterisks and entitled "A Priest Is a Priest."

The editorial said it was "not amazing" that a priest should ask to return to the lay state and should not be condemned. But, it said, "we cannot hide the profound melancholy that these facts stir in us."

"In these times of so much secrecy, who has the right to close a font of energy?" the newspaper asked. "Every priest who ceases to remain in the exercise of his priesthood is a well, a font that closes itself. No matter how little, it is a font that ceases spouting in fullness its spring of spiritual energy to earth."

"And when one thinks that of these wells, these fonts there are in the world about 400,000, less than of dentists, less than of doctors, the idea that in the last years 15,000 to 20,000 of these have closed themselves is very sad for whoever believes," the newspaper said.

"Because of this we are convinced that every priest must do the impossible to remain at his post, to continue his mission, no matter how unknown or unappreciated," it said.

Paper demand growing

MONTREAL (UPI) — Consumption of newspaper in the United States has increased by one-third in the past decade, from 75.4 million tons in 1963 to 10.6 million in 1973, the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association reports.

Projected U.S. consumption in 1978 is 11.28 million tons, a CPPA report said.

A breakdown by regions shows that the total U.S. demand on Canadian supply went down in 1973 from 1972, but still remained above the 80 per cent level except for the western United States where it was 50 per cent.

The report said the total demand for 1973 in the northeastern United States was "up some 120,000 tons from 1972, but is still below the record figure of 2.88 million tons set in 1969."

"Strikes in Canada appear to have had little effect on the relative shares of total supply coming from Canada, from the United States and from Europe," the CPPA said.

Shipments from Canada in 1972 represented about 49 per cent of the total supply in the western United States, while 48 per cent came from the United States.

In 1973, Canada supplied some 52 per cent of newspaper in the western United States, while the U.S. share fell to 44 per cent.

Fuel crisis may reduce death toll

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Safety Council says the fuel crisis will probably reduce traffic fatalities over the New Year's holiday because motorists will drive less and travel slower.

Vincent L. Tofany, NSC president, said Sunday the council estimates that 470 to 570 persons will die in traffic accidents over the four-day New Year's weekend.

Without the energy crisis, he said, the NSC projection "would have been 70 fatalities higher."

The council forecasts motorists will travel 8.8 billion miles during the holiday period beginning at 6 p.m. Friday, Dec. 28, and ending at midnight Tuesday, Jan. 1.

The mileage estimate is the lowest since the three-day New Year's weekend in 1970-71, and the lowest four-day estimate since U.S. drivers logged 8 billion miles in 1962-63.

Tofany said about 400 persons would die on the nation's roads during a comparable, four-day non-holiday period in December.

Screws and bolts on air-conditioner bracket supports need to be checked and tightened regularly. The screws sometimes "jiggle" loose because of the vibrations.

Biologists say chubs near extinction in Great Lakes

(c) N. V. Times Service
LELAND, Mich. — Government fish biologists are warning that the last and smallest of seven species of chubs, a silvery little fish that once thrived in the Great Lakes, is facing extinction.

"In a few years the last of them may be gone, and I'm afraid no-one is even going to shed a tear for them," said John J. Scott, the Michigan department of natural resources fisheries supervisor.

Smoked chub is considered a delicacy by some persons. In addition, chubs were once a major food fish for lake trout.

The only species of chub still harvested in the United States is the bloater chub, which lives in waters at least 200 feet deep.

Until the other species disappeared the bloater chub was not sought by fishermen because it was considered the least valuable chub species and its deep water habitat made it difficult to catch.

The various species of chubs were once abundant in all five great lakes. Now American fishermen take them only in Lakes Michigan and Superior and the annual catch has fallen sharply in recent years.

Last summer the United States Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife made an extensive effort to determine if chubs were making a comeback in Lake Ontario, once a major chub fishing area.

The search turned up only one chub, according to Ed Brown, a fish biologist with the bureau.

Bill Carlson, a fourth-generation great lakes fisherman who works out of Leland, said that bloater chubs now brought as much as 80 cents a pound at dockside. He said that more valuable species of chubs typically sold for 10 cents to 15 cents a pound in years past.

Chub prices have risen because the fish are becoming scarce, Scott said. In 1969 more than 10 million pounds of chubs were harvested in Lake Michigan. Last year the catch was 5.3 million pounds.

The Lake Superior catch of about one million pounds a year has also declined modestly in recent years, Scott said.

The size of bloater chubs has increased from about six inches in past year to about nine inches today, Scott said.

He and Brown said this indicated there were fewer fish competing for space and food.

The almost total disappearance of small chubs, the two men said, indicates that the chubs are not reproducing themselves.

Scott said that the same situation developed before each of the other six species of chub were fished out.

Glen Sheppard, editor of the North Woods Call, a Michigan environmental newspaper, has attributed the decline in chub catches to over-fishing.

But Carlson said that pollution and the mysteries of the chub's spawning patterns, which he said caused cyclical variations in chub populations, were the reason for the decline.

Gem F-G licenses shipped

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Fish and Game Department has shipped licenses to some 25 vendors and orders are being filled as they arrive, according to A. Kay Belnap, chief of business administration.

License vendors again will sell a portion of the nonresident big game licenses, making it possible for outfitters and guides to make their plans with nonresident hunters before quotas are sold.

Bird hunters, both resident and nonresident, need the licenses to complete waterfowl and upland game bird seasons that extend into 1974 and for fishing in year-round waters during the new year.

The department reminded resident hunters who have lived continuously in Idaho for the past 10 years or more and are at least 65 years of age that they can buy combination hunting-fishing licenses for $1 instead of $6.

Those who are past 70 years of age and lived continuously in the state for 10 years can get five-year courtesy combination permits without cost.

Permits are available at the regional offices and the headquarters in Boise.

Lion dogs legal in Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — The use of dogs in hunting, trailing or killing mountain lions in Idaho is legal throughout the remainder of the hunting seasons listed in the Idaho Fish and Game Department big game regulations.

The department noted dogs are banned from lion hunts before Dec. 14.

The department also noted nonresident hunters must possess a $10 mountain lion cougar tag and a $135 nonresident combination hunting and fishing license to take the animal. It is unlawful for any person to kill more than one lion per year.

The department, in a news release, also said it is illegal for any person to kill or capture a spotted mountain lion kitten or kill or capture a female mountain lion accompanied by a kitten.

Capturing or holding them in captivity without a permit also is unlawful.

The hide with evidence of sex attached and the skull of each lion must be presented to a conservation officer or fish and game regional office within five days after a kill and a report made on the date and location of the kill.

Hides will be sealed with a metal tag which must remain attached until the hide is tanned. Skulls will be retained by the department until cleaned and measured and then will be returned to the hunter.

Dogs also may be used to pursue, trail and tree mountain lions during the consumptive season of Feb. 1 through March 31. A nonconsumptive permit must be obtained for those activities.

Lions trailed, pursued or treeed cannot be killed.

Europe studies weaponry

By PAUL KEMEZIS
(c) N. Y. Times Service
BRUSSELS—The latest war in the Middle East could stimulate sluggish programs to improve the quality of front-line equipment in Europe, according to officials at the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Brussels.

The war provided the allies with vivid lessons in the way combat tactics are changing. New weapons such as anti-tank and anti-aircraft missiles employed by the infantry are available, but in many cases nations have not purchased them because of budgetary pressures.

The lingering belief in NATO that western weapons are generally superior has disappeared and, according to one diplomat, the western Europeans especially may feel a compulsion to be at least as well armed as the Middle East combatants.

The 15-nation alliance has ordered its international staff to prepare a detailed analysis of the Middle East fighting, drawing on the intelligence sources of all members.

The member countries most concerned about arms improvement hope the report can be finished before the deep impression left by the fighting wears off. The work, however, is expected to take months.

At a meeting of defense ministers Dec. 7, the alliance's military committee presented a preliminary list of areas where the Middle East fighting raised questions.

One was the effectiveness of antiarmor weapons — the Soviet Sagger, as NATO calls it, and the American Tow missile. If they were as effective as reports indicated, NATO officials concede the new tank tactics must be developed.

While cautiously denying that the era of the tank is over, one expert said: "The old German maxim — the tank is the best anti-tank weapon — now seems at least questionable."

This is essentially good news for the alliance since in a conventional war in central Europe, its potential enemy, the alliance of forces under the Warsaw Pact, would have a two-to-one tank superiority. The ability of NATO's anti-tank defenses to prevent a breakthrough in Germany would be paramount.

It also raises the problem of supplying combat units with the new missiles, an effort that has lagged for lack of funds.

Much of the preliminary list of questions concerns air combat and the appearance of the effective Sam-6 and Sam-7 anti-aircraft missiles in Arab hands.

But alliance sources say there is no belief that the close-support fighter is losing its general effectiveness because of the anti-aircraft missiles.

Native IQ test rejected

(N. Y. Times Service)
HONG KONG The foundation that protects minority tribes in the Philippines has rejected a proposal by a Miami physician that he raise and educate two children from the Tasadays, a stone age people discovered three years ago.

The physician, Aaron Stern, wanted to show that Tasaday children, if brought up and educated in a modern environment, would demonstrate a level of intelligence as high as any others.

He opposes the theory that different ethnic groups have different degrees of innate intelligence and in particular rejects the arguments of Dr. William B. Shockley, of Stanford University about the alleged genetic inferiority of blacks.

The foundation's Panamin, said through its public relations director, Oscar Trinidad, "We are sure the Tasadays are as intelligent as any other humans, but our aim is to protect them as a living link to the past and a cultural treasure of the Philippines and all mankind."

Expansion at Ontario by Ore-Ida

ONATARIO Ore. (UPI) — Ore-Ida Foods, Inc., plans to spend $7.5 million for expanding the Ontario potato processing plant next year and provide employment for 350 new employees.

than double the Ontario production volume of potato products over the next three to four years, according to Robert K. Pedersen, company president.

He said most of the work will take place inside the plant and will consist largely of equipment installation. Pedersen said the continuing consumer acceptance of Ore-Ida products has created a dramatic increase in sales during the past two years, requiring the company to expand its production facilities.

Pro-con Successful Investing on ocean mining

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—Having begun a monthly investment program in 1960, with all dividends and capital gains reinvested thereafter, I holdings in National Securities Growth Fund and Capital

Shares.—In my judgment, neither of these funds has done especially well. Would you suggest a change to another fund in the same management group? These funds represent a substantial portion of my planned retirement program. — V. T.

A.—Yes, at this time an exchange of your holdings for income funds offered by these two management groups appears judicious. National Securities Growth Series, founded in 1944, is a comparatively large fund with total assets of close to $200 million. In the last 5 years this fund showed a 27 per cent increase in net asset value, which has been virtually cancelled by the 26 per cent decline in value in the first 7 months of 1973. As a replacement, the Dividend Series, which may be acquired at net asset value and a small fee, seems appropriate. This latter fund yields 5.8 per cent currently from income dividends. In addition, 12 cents a share in capital gains was distributed in 1972 and again in 1973. The expense ratio is a modest 0.70 per cent and portfolio turnover averages around 27 per cent annually. Performance has been above average, with a 33 per cent increase in assets in the 1968-72 period and a 10 per cent decline through July of 1973.

Under the same management as Capital Shares, CapAmerica Fund has a performance record almost identical with National Securities Dividend Series. CapAmerica, a growth-income fund, is currently returning an indicated 4.6 per cent versus 2.0 per cent for Capital Shares. While the latter made no capital gains distribution in 1972, the income fund paid 11 cents per share in security profits. Over the 5-year period through Dec. 31, 1972, Capital Shares showed only a 14 per cent gain in net asset value — well below the 24 per cent increase recorded by the average fund and the 34 per cent rise in the Dow Ind. Average. The portfolios of both income funds include common and preferred stocks, convertible bonds and convertible preferreds. As of June 30, CapAmerica had 5 per cent of its total assets of $71 million in cash while National Dividend had 4 per cent of its $90 million in assets in cash.

Legislation pending in Congress would spur the mining of minerals — manganese, cobalt, nickel and copper — existing in large quantities on the ocean floors. Specifically, the bills would commit the federal government to compensate any mining company for damages caused by another nation or from a future, anticipated international treaty dealing with ocean resources.

Some environmental groups have argued that insufficient research has been conducted to commit the government to help the private countries interested in the minerals. Should the federal government underwrite deep seabed mining by private industry? Following are some views expressed by participants in the debate.

Pro: Hard mineral resource developers are ready to file claims and begin mining much needed manganese, cobalt, nickel and copper by 1975, but need government assurance that their investments in international waters will be protected.

The nation is facing an energy crisis this winter. Within a few years it could well be facing a mineral crisis. This problem should be met head-on by beginning full-scale mining operation.

"We can mine these nodules and break them down into much needed metals that this country has one hell of a demand for. We want to whip this problem before it becomes acute like energy has this winter," according to Leonard Killgore, head of the Washington office of Tenneco.

Legislation pending in Congress would pave the way for an international agreement by promoting the "conservation and orderly development of the hard mineral resources of the deep seabed, pending adoption of an international regime therefore." This legislation is not intended to supersede international agreements. It is only a stop-gap measure until treaties are ratified years from now.

Provisions in the bill would not constitute a unilateral action because they would not affect any nations except the United States and countries which chose to become reciprocating states.

In addition to making the United States more self-sufficient in hard minerals, domestic deep-sea mining would reduce the present adverse balance of payments situation by cutting down the flow of dollars to other nations for essential miners.

Con: These bills fly in the face of United Nations resolutions declaring the resources of the seabed to be the common heritage of mankind and rejecting national sovereignty over the oceans.

Substantive widespread international agreements dealing with deep seabed mining should evolve from the planned Law of the Sea conference no later than its mandated 1975 completion date. Any actions affecting the sea — the common heritage of mankind — should be taken only after considering all their aspects. This legislation is an unwise, piecemeal approach to a complex situation.

The American Mining Congress bill is not, as it pretends to be, a national-interest bill pitted against anti-American developing states and internationalist forces at home. It is simply a mining industry bill and drafted by that industry in such a way as to benefit itself first and foremost," according to Jeremy J. Stone, director of the American Federation of Sciences.

In the rush to guarantee today's mineral needs, the nation cannot be oblivious to the impact on tomorrow's environment.

No complete, unbiased study based on primary research has been done of the effects of extensive deep seabed mining. The food chain based on the seabed's plankton is not a resource that can be treated casually.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: One of your best days in some time to build up your relationships with others. Let them see you are devoted to them and want to get along in greater rapport in the future. Think out what your personal longings are.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Inviting good friends to your home and making their friends welcome also can bring some interesting results. Pay important bills.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Ideal day for expansion where your activities of a career nature are concerned. Public work could be your mode of expression now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Being alert to changes you can make to have greater advancement in the future is wise now. Make plans to gain your fondest aims.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Handle your responsibilities in a most intelligent and modern way. Your hunches can be very helpful so make use of them.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Understand better what an associate desires from your relationship and cement better relations. Don't antagonize a good friend.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Start early attending to those tasks awaiting your attention and bring order out of chaos. Strive for greater happiness in the future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Ideal day to get together with congenials at the amusements you mutually enjoy. You are able to command a better income at this time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make improvements at home that are necessary in preparation for the upcoming holiday. Take on a more positive outlook in the days ahead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal day for communications and getting right results therefrom. Shopping and errands can be handled favorably right now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make sure you take care of any property affairs in a most diligent way, and add to prosperity. Study newspapers for opportunities.

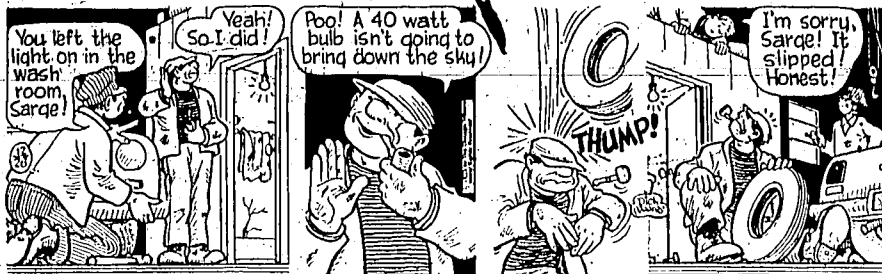

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Good day for making changes that are right for gaining your aims. Being devoted to kin is most important at this time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Let your intuitive hunches help you solve whatever problems are at hand. Lend a helping hand to those in need and who are deserving.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will have a highly intuitive nature that will help greatly to get the life organized well and know how to deal with others on the best plane of understanding. Give as fine an education as you can afford to this gifted and brilliant progeny. Much success and happiness in this chart.

Note a new cologne on the market called "Ebb Tide" That nomenclature must have been created by a lifelong Nebaskan. Anyone who has ever lived on the seashore knows the odor in an ebb tide is not marketable. Wait, I take that back. The beach when the water is out is a little like hurt skunk downwind of the pippet with a wisp of hot (ennis) fumes! It has some aromatic charm, nonetheless. Not so delectable as strawberry fields, sunrise at the bakery or woodchips in the lumberyard. But it beats the death and aphasia of the alleys.

Q "Why doesn't the telephone company invent a system whereby you can tell when on the line that somebody else is trying to call you?"

A The telephone company already has done so, young lady. Expect such service shortly. Not only that, you'll be allowed to hold the first call while you take the second. Further, you and your conversational friend will be permitted to ring up a third person and bring said party right into the conversation. And still further, if you plan to be away for awhile, you'll be able to route incoming calls to some other phone. The equipment is already invented. And it's even in service here and there.
