Some TF area stations open

TWIN FALLS — Motorists planning to travel over the long New Year's weekend will have to take their chances on obtaining gasoline.

A survey by the Times-News shows slightly more than half of the local stations questioned plan to remain open Monday and Tuesday. Some attendants who say they will be closed indicate they will be open if they receive more gasoline.

In some areas of the United States, stations are planning to close for at least three days during the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Galindo hold Lori Spunky Lori Galindo home for holidays

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Two-month-old Lori Ann Galindo is home for the holidays.

She has returned from the hospital incubators and doctors and nurses that are the life of a premature baby.

Lori was born Oct. 18 in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. She was 12 weeks early and weighed 1 pound, 12 ounces.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Galindo, Twin Falls, were told she needed intensive care and her chances were "statistically" better in a nursery room care.

Near the end of November, her parents brought her back to Twin Falls and Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

On Dec. 15, the Galindos brought home "quite a Christmas present." She weighed 5 1/2 pounds and had grown to 18 inches.

"The doctor said he believed Lori was one of the smallest babies ever to be born and survive at Magic Valley Memorial," James Galindo said.

A lineman for the Idaho Power Co., the father is full of thanks, especially to that "someone who was on our shoulder the whole way."

He thanks the Twin Falls Sheriff's office for transporting the Salt Lake City medical team, the doctors and staffs of both hospitals for their "miracle" work and the neighbors for bringing food and "checking on Lori."

When the Galindos were driving back from Salt Lake City with Lori, their car slid off the icy road near Sublett. James had to "climb out the window" into deep snow. Inside the car, Mary Galindo did her best to keep Lori warm in a "special insulating" pouch supplied by the hospital.

A state highway department snow plow found the car almost immediately and pulled it back on the road.

Battered Rupert woman dies

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

RUPERT — The battered elderly Rupert woman who was found lying in a roadway beside her injured husband on Christmas Eve died Wednesday.

Her husband, also injured in the unexplained incident, remained in critical condition today.

Puzzled Minidoka County sheriff's officers said today they could not explain what happened to Mr. and Mrs. John Praegitzer of Rupert who were discovered lying on the ground near their pickup truck at about 11:30 p.m. Monday at about 450 North Meridian Road.

Officers said the couple had not been involved in any vehicular accident, but would not speculate on how the elderly people had been injured.

Mrs. Praegitzer, 72, who was found lying in the middle of the north bound lane of traffic by a passing motorist, died of head injuries Wednesday at St. Alphonsus Hospital, Boise.

Her husband, 74, was listed in critical condition at Minidoka Memorial Hospital, suffering from a possible concussion, two fractured ribs and multiple bruises.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Nevarez said the pickup and camper were found backed up between a canal drain and a fence off the side of the road. The ignition key was on, the engine was stopped, the heater was running, the wipers were running and the headlights were on, he said.

The headlights led to the discovery of Mrs. Praegitzer. Apparently the lights were shining across the road making it possible for the motorist to spot Mrs. Praegitzer lying in the road. When the motorist was looking after Mrs. Praegitzer, he heard moans from a few feet away. Praegitzer was discovered lying in a drainage canal just off the road.

Nevarez said it had not yet been determined how long the Praegitzers had been lying there before they were discovered. Until he can talk to Praegitzer, Nevarez said, he will not know what happened. Hospital officials said today Praegitzer was not coherent.

Apparently the Praegitzers were headed toward their home in Rupert after a Christmas Eve visit with friends north of town when the mysterious incident occurred.

Nevarez said the vehicle "wasn't involved in an accident" but that there were many possibilities to explain what took place. He would not speculate on what happened.

Nevarez would not say if there appeared to be a struggle. He did say "everything appeared to be normal." Sheriff's officers searched through personal belongings of the couple and found that they were carrying money. The pickup camper was locked and no one had entered, he said.

Apparently it began snowing shortly before the officers arrived at the scene, so any tracks which may have been in the area were covered.

"We're just in the dark," Nevarez said.

Salt Lake City

A special medical team from Salt Lake City's University Hospital flew to Twin Falls and whisked Lori away when she was 5 hours old.

Barely 12 inches long, Lori was a "fighter," progressing from "highly" intensive to intensive to nursery room care.

Near the end of November, her parents brought her back to Twin Falls and Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

On Dec. 15, the Galindos brought home "quite a Christmas present." She weighed 5 1/2 pounds and had grown to 18 inches.

"The doctor said he believed Lori was one of the smallest babies ever to be born and survive at Magic Valley Memorial," James Galindo said.

A lineman for the Idaho Power Co., the father is full of thanks, especially to that "someone who was on our shoulder the whole way."

He thanks the Twin Falls Sheriff's office for transporting the Salt Lake City medical team, the doctors and staffs of both hospitals for their "miracle" work and the neighbors for bringing food and "checking on Lori."

When the Galindos were driving back from Salt Lake City with Lori, their car slid off the icy road near Sublett. James had to "climb out the window" into deep snow. Inside the car, Mary Galindo did her best to keep Lori warm in a "special insulating" pouch supplied by the hospital.

A state highway department snow plow found the car almost immediately and pulled it back on the road.

SHOVELING snow off sidewalks was a common chore in Twin Falls and the Magic Valley this morning as a widespread storm dumped several inches across the region. Intermittent snow is expected to continue through Friday in the Magic Valley with little change in temperatures. (Story on p. 11)

Gas ration plans drawn

(c) Washington Star-News

WASHINGTON — Federal energy chief William E. Simon today announced a stand-by gasoline rationing program, including the printing of coupons, that could be implemented March 1 if necessary.

While stressing at a news conference that the Nixon administration hopes rationing can be avoided, Simon said that "given" the uncertainties, prudence dictates that we place into position a stand-by rationing program."

Simon said that under orders of President Nixon, he ordered the Bureau of Engraving to begin printing a three-month supply of rationing coupons. He also has alerted the states to the program, he said.

The rationing program decided on by the administration is the "transferable coupon" system. Here are some of the highlights:

— Each licensed driver, 18 and over, would be allotted a certain unspecified number of coupons.

— The number each driver would get would depend on the population density of the area and alternate modes of transportation available.

— The rationing would apply only to gasoline sales at retail outlets, like service stations.

— Unlike World War II, rationing coupons would be fully transferable on the open market. Those wanting more could purchase additional coupons, presumably at higher cost, at gasoline stations.

While announcing the standby program, Simon remained optimistic on petroleum supplies, saying "We can still lick this problem."

Simon, backed up his optimism by announcing a revised forecast of just how bad the administration believes energy shortages will be during the first quarter of next year.

The new predicted shortfall between petroleum supplies available and demand is 2.7 million barrels a day. The administration's original forecast was around 3.3 million barrels a day.

Simon attributed the lesser shortage prediction to greater imports than have been expected because of the Arab boycott and reduced consumer demand under the conservation program.

Both reasons have resulted in the country moving into 1974 with petroleum inventories considerably higher than had been counted on, Simon said.

Idaho agency still in dark

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

BOISE — Officials at the State Office on Energy are in the dark today about which federal fuel regulations are in effect.

In addition, the office has had no information about the system of stand-by gasoline rationing announced in Washington by federal officials earlier today.

New mandatory allocation regulations were due to become effective today but federal energy officials notified the state office by telegram Wednesday that the implementation of those regulations has been delayed a month.

Gay Davis, assistant director in the state office, said the telegram left the old regulations in effect until superseded by new ones. Mrs. Davis said there had been reports the federal officials reversed that decision in that the new regulations had been implemented as scheduled.

The proposed new fuel allocation regulations would greatly expand the authority of state offices to deal with fuel shortages. In addition to middle distillate fuels, state authorities would be responsible for handling problems arising from a shortage of gasoline. In addition, states could set aside a reservoir of three per cent of all fuel available from which they could solve emergency problems.

Current authority is limited to ordering certain amounts of fuel diverted from one part of the state to another.

The stand-by rationing system announced by federal energy czar William E. Simon could be implemented by March 1 if other fuel conservation measures fail.

Part of the implementation would require state motor vehicle agencies to mail coupon authorization cards to citizens holding valid driver's licenses.

Spokesmen in the Idaho Department of Highways and the Department of Law Enforcement as well as Mrs. Davis all said they had received no information on these cards.

"We are still awaiting word so we can function properly and do an adequate job," Mrs. Davis said. "They are not giving us much to work with right now."

She said the office had been in touch with federal officials in Washington D. C. early this morning but were still awaiting definite word about what regulations are in effect.

LDS leader Harold Lee dies at 74

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Harold B. Lee, "prophet, seer and revelator" to 3.3 million Mormons, died unexpectedly Wednesday night of heart and lung failure at the age of 74.

Lee, the youngest president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints since World War II, headed the faith for just 17 months—the shortest tenure of any of the 11 Mormon leaders.

Under a church tradition dating back to 1844, when Brigham Young became the second Mormon president, President Spencer W. Kimball of the church's Council of the Twelve would succeed Lee. He became acting leader upon Lee's death.

Kimball, 78, had major heart surgery two years ago, and most of his vocal cords were removed in 1957 because of throat cancer.

The Council of the Twelve traditionally meets in the Salt Lake temple the day after a church president's funeral to select a new "prophet, seer and revelator"—who is believed by the faithful to receive direct revelation from God.

Final rites for Lee, which will be held in the Salt Lake Tabernacle, had not been scheduled early today.

Lee died at 8:59 p.m. MST, six hours after entering LDS hospital for his annual physical checkup. His wife, other family members, Kimball and Marion G. Romney, second counselor in the church's first presidency, were at his bedside when he died.

Mideast war talk tougher

(GENEVA (UPI) — With the

Israeli-Egyptian military talks in a one-day recess, there were increasingly warlike statements today from both Egypt and Israel. Egypt said it was fighting a war of attrition along the Suez Canal and Israel said a new war could come at any time.

Brig. Tahal el Magdoub of Egypt and Maj. Gen. Mordecai Gur of Israel met for 90 minutes Wednesday and said in a brief communique they discussed the principle of disengaging their Suez troops in hopes it would make future discussions more productive. Officials said any concrete talks would have to wait until after Israel's Dec. 31 elections.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy, who remained in Geneva after attending the opening round of the Geneva conference Dec. 21-22, returned to Cairo after overseeing the start of the military talks.

He made it clear there must be a "disengagement" before the peace conference can resume.

Maj. Gen. Hassan el-Greily, the Egyptian army's chief of operations, told a political gathering Wednesday that Egyptian troops now are fighting a war of attrition along the Suez Canal and awaiting President Anwar Sadat's order to complete the liberation of the Israel-occupied Sinai Peninsula.

"What we are doing now is the attrition of the enemy because, for us, the war has not ended at all," Greily said.

Violent crime up 3 per cent in US

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Violent crime rose 3 per cent in the United States in the first nine months of 1973, the FBI reported today.

Overall, serious crime—encompassing murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault and far more numerous cases of burglary, larceny and auto theft—rose 1 per cent compared to the same period in 1972.

The FBI report, based on figures supplied voluntarily by local and state police, showed a 6 per cent rise in major rural crime and a 5 per cent increase in serious crime in the suburbs. The national serious crime rate a year earlier showed a 2 per cent decrease.

This increase in serious crime in the nation means that all of us must continue to support our law enforcement agencies in their efforts to combat crime in the streets," said Acting Attorney General Robert H. Bork.

The breakdown by category was: Rape—up 8 per cent. Murder—up 3 per cent. Aggravated assault—up 5 per cent. Robbery—no change. Burglary—up 3 per cent. Auto theft—up 1 per cent. Larceny-theft—no change.

In a regional analysis, crime was up 4 per cent in the South and 2 per cent in the North Central states. There was no change in the Northeast and a decrease in the West.

But the report said serious crime fell in 71 large cities, including New York, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, St. Louis and Washington.

The most dramatic crime rate drop was in Fall River, Mass., which recorded 29 per cent fewer crimes in the reporting period.

Skylab astronauts work hard to keep in shape

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab 3 astronauts, nearly halfway through their 84-day flight, say they are in-top physical and mental shape because of increased exercise.

The final Skylab crew is working harder to keep their muscles and hearts in shape in weightlessness than the two previous crews did.

Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue, who will reach the midpoint of their mission Friday morning, spend a major portion of today conducting medical experiments.

The trio spent a relaxing day off Tuesday and gave a light schedule today and Friday before venturing outside the station again Saturday for three-and-a-half-hour walk in space.

Solentists told the astronauts they were pleased with their research on Comet Kohoutek which makes its nearest approach to the sun Friday.

All of the comet investigators are simply delighted as far as the operations have been going.

said William Snuddy, Kohoutek project scientist for Skylab. "Interest in the comet is quite high and you can even get a Kohoutek T-shirt if you want to."

The comet discoverer, Iosif Kohoutek, will visit the Johnson Space Center Friday and talk with the astronauts from Mission Control.

Carr and Gibson discussed their physical conditions Wednesday with ground physicians and said they did not want to cut down on the amount of exercise although they were spending at least an hour and a half daily working on a stationary bicycle and pulley ropes.

Gibson said the extra exercise was "not in any way a personal fetish at all. It's strictly to try and keep ourselves in good shape for the long duration flight."

"None of us are complaining of any muscle soreness or any fatigue or anything like that from the exercise," Gibson said. "Most of us find the exercise is a cobweb clearer. It makes us feel a lot better when we're finished."

The older youth, Johnny Lee Branson, 19, and the juvenile are charged with taking 4,070 trading stamps, two electric clocks, two thermos jugs and numerous other items.

Officers said because of the help of public minded citizens the arrests were made later the same day of the burglary report.

Duffy started his broadcasting career at radio station WNB in Beloit, Wis. He had been a reporter for the Rockford, Ill., newspaper.

He joined ABC in Chicago in 1949 as a publicity writer and in 1952 he was named assistant publicity manager.

After promotions to director of advertising and promotion and account executive for the central division, Duffy took a national position as director of sales for ABC Radio.

In 1963 he was named vice president in charge of sales for ABC Television and became president of the network in 1970.

"We are most fortunate in obtaining the services of this outstanding individual for our speaker," said John Rosholt, president of the Twin Falls chamber.

Angry thief

NEW YORK (UPI) — A young man walked into the St. Patrick's Cathedral book store Wednesday, demanded some books, and, when a sales clerk couldn't understand that he wanted to rob the store, threw a metal bookrack through a glass case, police reported.

Police arrested Paul Schultz, 21, and charged him with attempted robbery, possession of a dangerous weapon—the book rack—and burglary.

Little Lori home

It was an example of the goodness of the "someone" who watched over Lori, according to Galindo.

Lori is in "real good" shape now and doesn't require special care, her father said.

Mrs. Galindo said "There's still the waiting period to see that everything is OK. You still wonder."

"My biggest worry is keeping the whole family well so she doesn't get something."

"We were determined that we wouldn't rock and cater to this baby like the first," the mother said, "but now this has happened and we probably will."

The first Galindo child, Carrie Lynne, is 3 years old.

The bills for Lori's care will probably reach $8,000 or $9,000, but James Galindo doesn't have much to say about that. Instead, he talks about Lori's tender courage and makes a point of mentioning several times the description of Lori given by a Salt Lake City doctor — "You've got a real fighter on your hands."

Rationing compromise

The Nixon Administration's proposed gasoline rationing system is a reasonable solution to a difficult problem.

The rationing system, according to Nixon's energy chief William P.E. Simon, could be implemented by March 1 should the Administration's appeal for voluntary reduction of gas use prove insufficient.

The plan is a hybrid of a rationing system and a free market system which should result in reducing the total use of gasoline to acceptable levels.

Key elements of the proposal are these: Each licensed driver over 18 years old would be issued coupons for between 32-35 gallons per month.

Individual drivers can then use their coupons to purchase gasoline, or sell excess coupons to other drivers in a free market exchange.

This would provide an incentive for people not using coupons to sell them to other people before their usefulness ends.

Authorization cards will be mailed by state departments of law enforcement to licensed drivers. This would eliminate a need for a large bureaucracy to administer the system.

The system has several advantages. Most important, it would absolutely regulate the quantity of gasoline rationed.

Providing counterfeit coupons can be curtailed, the plan should effectively limit consumption.

Secondly, the system would provide for a system of adjusting the availability of gasoline to individual needs. Any person willing to pay the price would be able to buy all the gas he wants on the free market.

The plan provides for regional variations in gasoline need. Sparsely settled areas without public transit systems such as Idaho would receive higher gasoline allotments than thickly settled areas with alternative transit systems available.

In the first place, the system would clearly be a hardship on poor people who may have to drive a long distance to work each day.

Secondly, people whose work requires large consumption of gasoline, such as traveling salesmen, would have to pay the going price for gasoline.

The real problem is that the going price of exchanged coupons likely will be very high.

There surely will be a large number of people who require high gasoline consumption. At the same time, there probably will be very few people willing to get along with less than their monthly allotment.

So the supply of coupons on the market probably will be low and the demand high. The price of coupons could soar to a dollar a gallon or more under market pressures.

Under such circumstances it is likely that many workers such as salesmen will bear the brunt of the energy crisis while others make a nice profit from sale of coupons.

WASHINGTON — Considering the rivers of information that are flowing along these days on the energy crisis, it is not surprising that little attention has been paid to a report submitted to the President three weeks ago by Dr. Dixy Lee Ray, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Yet this voluminous report is the best documented and most comprehensive study of the situation I have seen thus far. It merits careful consideration.

The report is the product of five months' labor by 16 panels of experts recruited from 36 federal departments and agencies. They were assisted by 282 consultants drawn from the private sector. Their review covered more than 1,100 specific proposals for energy research and development.

Our energy problems, in the view of these experts, are not to be blamed upon the extravagance of Americans or the stubbornness of the Arabs. The crisis stems, in large part, from the lack of a coordinated program of research and development over the past 20 years. Obviously, the United States is not alone in its difficulties. The energy shortage is worldwide.

Looking to our own needs, Dr. Ray and her associates conclude "the United States has the resources and technology for self-sufficiency." Given a sustained and vigorous national commitment, that goal can be attained. They urge five simultaneous efforts to reach it.

The first of these is to conserve the energy sources on which we now rely. That sounds elementary, but the opportunities for conservation outlined in this report go far beyond the familiar areas that have been most widely discussed. Tremendous savings can be achieved merely by salvaging wasted heat and by increasing the efficiency of energy-consuming machinery now in use.

As a second step: "Increase domestic production of oil and natural gas as rapidly as possible." Again, this goal seems too self-evident to merit discussion, but the consultants plunge head on into a controversy others have sought to avoid. They are talking of "improved drilling methods for offshore sites, release of gas from tight formations, and extraction of oil from shale."

The third recommendation is to substitute coal for oil and gas "on a massive scale." This is essentially a short term measure. The fourth recommendation, tied closely to the fifth, is that we move ahead on crash programs for developing atomic energy and solar power.

Still more distant is the development of energy from wind currents, geothermal resources, and ocean thermal gradients, but these also must be explored.

All this will cost money. Dr. Ray and her associates call for a five year, $10 billion program of federal research, to be closely coordinated with development efforts in the private sector. They acknowledge the political and economic pitfalls along the way: care must be taken to ensure that no industry realizes windfall profits at the taxpayers' expense, and due regard must be given to such national goals as price stability and consumer protection.

It is the spirit of Dr. Ray's report that is most significant. The energy problem is not beyond solution within a reasonable span of years.

America, they are saying, has the imagination, the know-how, and the physical and financial resources to achieve energy independence. Let us take heart: we will make it yet.

Long tour bicycling unappealing

We see where Rep. Orval Hansen, from our district, is pushing for a national system of bicycle trails — or paths.

Fine, fine, fine, we say — but for most of us gas-lacking citizens unable (possibly) to secure necessary fuel for the internal combustion engines which propel us here and there — it's just no use.

Most of us have a two-weeks vacation period each year. Can you imagine Mr. and Mrs. Spectator loading their luggage on a couple of bikes and heading for someplace like Disneyland or the San Francisco Bay area or the Seattle region on a vacation in which we only had 14 days to make it? Gad, it would take us more than two weeks just to get there — if we were strong enough to make it at all. Even if it was a bicycle built for two and Mrs. Spectator was doing all the work of pumping we just can't see it working.

So thanks, Congressman Hansen for the effort. But so far as we personally are concerned, it's just too little and away too late. If it comes down to what you have in mind, we will just sit down and watch you pedal by on a 1,200 or more mile "vacation" full of rest and relaxation.

LACK OF GAS

We must point out that the energy crisis — especially the apparent lack of gasoline — has caused all individuals and all groups to actually believe their situation is the worst possible, that all other individuals and groups are just not important enough to get any energy at all, and that if there is any "cut-off," then these other individuals and groups should take the cut. Now isn't that the way you see it?

ANOTHER THOUGHT

More about those bicycle lanes proposed by Cong. Hansen. Modern bicycles are not properly constructed. The seats are just too narrow for those of us blessed with a substantial area which needs to be supported.

IT'S ALL OVER

Well, that was quite a Christmas, wasn't it? Now comes the New Year. We are not going to tell you what you should be doing next Monday night but it shouldn't be driving if you are doing any celebrating.

TODAY'S CHUCKLE:

Benemid is excellent for controlling gout, but aspirin should not be used at the same time because the aspirin destroys the effectiveness of the Benemid.

'Justice' erodes certain rights

(c) N. Y. Times Service

WASHINGTON — With Judge "Maximum John" Sirica being talked about as the likely "man of the year" for 1973, with "law and order" no longer denounced as code words for repression or racism, and with widespread approval of the way society finally moved to protect itself against crime of all sorts, only a sportsman would complain that the rights of the accused are being stolen away.

After all, we have finally reached a kind of national consensus on criminal justice: conservatives have long held that criminals were being mollycoddled by lenient judges, and are happy that the trend is now in the direction of tough-mindedness; liberals, meanwhile watching the wrath of a Sirica turned against the Nixon men, have to admit they like the taste of no-nonsense prosecution.

Thus, we have attained a kind of poetic justice: the Nixon hardliners who denounced the hamstringing of stern justice with petty civil-liberties technicalities only five years ago now find themselves standing naked before their enemies.

One old device of the prosecution that has been sharpened anew is the inclination of judges to sentence a convicted man most horrendously — and then to dangle the bribe of a reduced sentence, perhaps even freedom, if the man under sentence is willing to "cooperate."

A similar but newer weapon of the prosecution is now in rampant vogue, a way of getting around that part of the Bill of Rights which says that no man shall be forced to bear witness against himself.

Actor pays top price for oil

WASHINGTON — The other day it was announced in Tehran that an oil auction was held and the oil was sold for a record price of $17 a barrel.

Not many years ago that was what a barrel of wine was selling for. It occurred to me that the price of oil kept rising, oil auctioneers would soon describe their product with the same intensity that wine auctioneers use when selling theirs.

Ladies and gentlemen, today we are auctioning off the greatest barrels of oil produced in the Middle East. They are the 1973, 1974, and 1975 crop which, as all of you know, were vintage years for Middle East oil. The conditions were perfect, with plenty of sunlight, sandy soil and just enough rain to give the oil a nice, clean, fresh aroma.

Our first offering comes from the estate of Sheik Abu Dhab. What am I bid for this priceless barrel? As you know, the Chateau Abu Dhabi oil is the sweetest in all of Kuwait, with not a trace of sulfur. It can be served with Cadillacs, Mercedes Benzes, Lincolns and Rolls-Royces. This is a premiere grand cru. Do I hear $100 ... Do I hear $200 ... Do I hear $300 ... $300 once, $300 twice, ... $300 three times ... Sold to the Japanese gentleman waving frantically in the back.

The next selection comes from the property of the sheik of Bahrain. As you know, the sheik labels his own oil right at his private refinery.

Some received tax breaks

By WILLIAM J. LAYTON

(c) Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — A survey of former government officials who gave papers to presidential libraries before 1970 indicates that some did and some did not get a tax break from their gifts.

Of those who disclosed their deductions, none came within $500,000 of President Nixon's $576,000 deduction for documents from his eight years as vice president.

The nearest to Nixon was Theodore G. Sorensen, former special counsel to the late President John F. Kennedy, who claimed a $75,000 deduction for papers given to the Kennedy Library in 1968. He said the figure was "modest" compared to the Nixon claim.

But others who held high-level posts under Kennedy and his successor, Lyndon B. Johnson, took no deduction at all for their gifts.

Former treasury secretaries C. Douglas Dillon and Henry H. Fowler, who would be well aware of the tax laws, said they took no tax break for donation of their papers. "He's not that kind of fellow," a friend said of Fowler.

Leonard Marks, director of the US Information Agency under LBJ, had his papers appraised at more than $10,000 but decided against making a tax deduction when he gave them to the Johnson library.

Dr. James C. Cain of the Mayo Clinic, who treated President Johnson, took no deduction for his gift of medical records. "My papers weren't worth anything," Cain told a reporter. "I was pleased to have a place to put my old junk."

Another who took no tax break was Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, an aide to President Harry S. Truman.

Truman sent four or five tons out to his library and my couple hundred pounds weren't much," Vaughan explained. "But now I think maybe I'll send them a bill for the postage. Those Truman cronies were amateurs."

William P. Rogers, who was attorney general in the final years of the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration, gave papers to the Eisenhower Library at Abilene, Kan., but took no deduction. Why not? "I don't want to say," said Rogers, who was Nixon's secretary of state for four years.

A spokesman said Secret Service director James J. Rowley gave "official reports" to the Kennedy library but did not get any break on his taxes as a result.

Those who did take deductions generally recalled they ranged from $15,000 down to a few hundred dollars.

It is prized by oil connoisseurs all over the world for its deep-black coloring and its soft and smooth flavor. You will not find anything simpler to put into a generator or a truck. May we begin the bidding $320 ... $400 ... $450? Do I hear any higher than $450 ... Sold to the Frenchman in the first row.

"The last stock does not come from a noted oil property, but I believe you will be amused by its pretensions.

It comes from the wells of an unassuming tribal chief in the north of Iraq. It is called Chateau Haut-Bedouin and while it does not have the prestige of a Chateau Glowy or Cote de Faisal it is superb everyday oil that would be most welcome in a Volkswagen, Datsun, Dart or Pinto.

"Please do not be fooled by its color. Although a dark brown while it remains in the barrel, it will turn black when burned at room temperature.

"What am I bid for this noble fuel? Do I hear $200 ... $400 ... $600 ... Do I hear $800 ... $1,000 from the German gentleman ... $2,000 from the Swiss banker ... $10,000 ... $10,000 once, $10,000 twice, do I hear any more? ... Sold to Richard Burton for $10,000. What's that? Certainly we'll gift-wrap it for you, Mr. Burton. And our best to your lovely wife."

Hughes probe nears end

LAS VEGAS, Nov. (UPI) — A 23-member federal grand jury, which has heard testimony from more than two dozen witnesses in less than a month, is near the end of its investigation into the Howard Hughes take-over of Airwest.

The probe, initially was sparked by a Securities and Exchange Commission inquiry that began a year ago. Then a federal grand jury was quietly impaneled here Nov. 29 to hear testimony. Presumably any indictments must be returned by the end of this calendar year because of a statute of limitations on the Airwest transaction.

Hughes, now secluded in a $1,000-a-day penthouse complex at the Xanadu Hotel at Freeport, Bahamas, made the first offer to acquire Airwest more than five years ago. The airline was formed in April of 1968 by the merger of Bonanza, Pacific and West Coast airlines. Hughes offered to buy it for $130 million, including liabilities, a few months later.

The reclusive billionaire and record-breaking aviator officially took control of Airwest in April, 1970, after a fiery fight with the board of directors and the blessing of the Civil Aeronautics Board and President Nixon.

Nixon's approval of the Airwest transaction, needed because the carrier operates across international borders, is being scrutinized by the Watergate committee, according to Watergate investigator Terry Lenzner in a document filed in Washington.

Some of the cast of witnesses subpoenaed to appear before the Las Vegas Grand Jury in the past month were familiar names to the Watergate Committee investigation. The Las Vegas Federal Grand Jury heard testimony from Chester Davis, general counsel for Hughes' solely-owned Summa Corp.; former Hughes aide Robert Mahou who was fired as head of the $300 million Hughes Nevada empire in 1970; and Las Vegas Sun Publisher H.M. "Hank" Greenspun, whose newspaper safe was believed to be the target of a break-in according to Watergate Committee testimony.

Commercial flight

PRESIDENT Nixon enroute to Los Angeles aboard a commercial DC-10 surprised fellow passengers who didn't know he was aboard until he decided to stroll through the plane. Mr. Nixon took time to pose with 18-month-old Edward Haggood who is traveling with his parents to Tokyo. (UPI)

Air travelers surprised

(c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — President Nixon and a party of 12 slipped away from the White House last evening and took a commercial flight to Los Angeles to spend a post-Christmas holiday at his San Clemente home.

Gerald L. Warren, deputy White House press secretary, had denied only a few hours earlier that the president would vacation in California. He said tonight, after the president had left, that the plans had been kept secret for "security reasons."

The president's plane landed in Los Angeles at 10:58 p.m. (Eastern standard time).

Accompanying the president were Mrs. Nixon, his daughter Tricia, Ronald L. Ziegler, his press secretary, Rose Mary Woods, his personal secretary, security officers and other support staff.

The extraordinary move of secretly taking a commercial flight was an effort to show that Nixon was not consuming fuel for his own holiday during the energy crisis. Warren said that no passengers were bumped from their seats to make way for the president's party, and airline officials confirmed this. White House correspondents said that, in their memory, the last time a president or president-elect used a commercial plane was on Thanksgiving day in 1960 when John F. Kennedy, the President-elect, flew back to Washington from Palm Beach, Fla., when his wife gave birth to a son, who later died.

The President and his party boarded the airplane at 5:19 p.m., but had nearly an hour's wait for takeoff.

"We had a combination of baggage and weather problems," Kay Lind, a spokesman for United, said tonight. She referred to the heavy rain that was falling when the party arrived by car.

The flight, United Airlines No. 55, a regularly scheduled flight, was due to leave at 5:30 p.m., but finally lifted off at 6:15 p.m.

"There were quite a few empty seats," Miss Lind said, explaining that the plane, which has a capacity of 200 persons, carried 27 passengers in first class and 105 in coach seats. The plane has 42 first class seats and 196 coach seats.

Miss Lind said that the President's party of 25 persons was split with 13 in first class and 12 in coach.

She said that the reservations were made Christmas Eve by Col. John V. Brennan, a military aide to the President. He called United and was put in touch with the airline's reservation sales manager here, Ted Hattar, who made the arrangements.

The crew, she said, was not told of the President's plan until a half hour before the flight.

Miss Lind said that all the reservations were for one-way. She did not know whether the President had made arrangements for a return flight by commercial airline.

Save watts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Leaving lights on is no way to save energy or money. To save these always turn off lights when you leave a room, even if you're only going to be gone for a short time.

Many persons have the mistaken idea that turning a light on and off uses a lot of electricity. Say watt-watchers: it costs virtually nothing to turn an electric switch on or off.

Mitchell rejections eyed

(c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The Justice Department disclosed today that former Attorney General John N. Mitchell rejected two recommendations by his department's Antitrust Division to commence criminal proceedings against a milk marketing cooperative that had been a big contributor to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Mitchell urged instead that a Civil Antitrust Action be brought against the cooperative, Associated Milk Producers, Inc. a course of action subsequently adopted by the department's antitrust division.

The disclosure was contained in an affidavit by Richard W. McLaren, former assistant attorney general in charge of the antitrust division, filed Friday in the United States District Court in San Antonio as part of a brief related to the government's civil suit against Associated Milk Producers, Inc. The brief, released today, confirmed reports, published earlier, that Mitchell had turned down recommendations of criminal action against the milk cooperative.

The brief asked the court to reject a motion by AMPI asking access to all documents and tapes related to a possible quid pro quo between the milk industry campaign contribution to President Nixon and administration favors to the milk industry.

The Justice Department asserted in the brief that there were no facts supporting allegations by the milk cooperative that some administration officials attempted "extortion" by using the threat of antitrust action to obtain additional campaign contributions.

O'Connor denies writing story

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor Carroll O'Connor, who plays Archie Bunker in the "All in the Family" television show, has denied that he wrote a story that appeared in an AFL-CIO publication calling for President Nixon's impeachment.

O'Connor called the story a "complete fabrication."

The story in question ran in the Texas AFL-CIO Labor News' December issue under the headline "Listen, Dingbats." The story carried O'Connor's name with the name Archie Bunker beneath it, and was accompanied by a photograph of O'Connor.

Your story purporting to be a message from me urging the impeachment of the President is a complete fabrication," O'Connor said Monday in a wire to Fred Carvell, editor of the magazine headquartered at Austin, Tex.

(c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — Frank C. Carlucci, the undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said today there would be "no compensating cutbacks" in the department's 1973 budget request as a result of the release earlier this month of more than $1 billion in impounded 1973 funds for education and health programs.

Carlucci, at a news conference he called, said to "try to put the '73 question at rest," also said that what was described in press reports earlier this week as a "plan" for the spending of the newly available funds, delaying some spending over the next two years, was no more than "the best estimates we can make" of how the money is likely to be spent.

The funds in question had been appropriated by Congress for fiscal year 1973, which ended last June 30, but impounded, or withheld, by President Nixon on the basis of curbing government spending. Last week, however, Nixon announced that he was ordering the release of the impounded funds.

The plan released Monday by the department showed $800.7 million of the total being spent in fiscal year 1975, which begins July 1, 1974, and only $365.1 million spent during the present 1973 fiscal year, which ends next June 30.

For 1976 and beyond, $309.1 million was listed as being spent.

Of the funds impounded, the withholding of $968 million had been challenged in a variety of legal suits.

Oil meet date set

(c) New York Times Service BEIRUT, Lebanon — The meeting at which the Arab oil producers are to reconsider their oil embargo against the United States and the Netherlands has been set for February, according to Arab diplomatic sources here.

The meeting of oil-pilmsters of the producing countries is to be held in Tripoli, Libya, and will follow another tour of a number of oil-consuming countries by Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Al-Yamani, the Saudi Arabian minister of petroleum affairs, and Belaid Abdessalam, the Algerian minister of industry and energy.

This was announced in the joint communique issued yesterday in Kuwait after the oil ministers of the member countries of the organization of Arab petroleum exporting countries decided to increase production by 10 per cent to countries considered friendly to the Arab cause, effective Jan. 1. The communique did not mention the date of the Tripoli meeting.

The total ban on Arab oil exports to the U.S. and the Netherlands was retained, however, until the ministers meet again.

LDS leader Lee dies at 74

Lee, the first leader of the massive Mormon welfare program set up "under divine inspiration" during the depression, to take Mormons off the public dole, was named church president on July 7, 1972, five days after President Joseph Fielding Smith died at the age of 95.

He was confirmed by the elders of the church in a solemn ceremony at the Salt Lake Tabernacle during October conference last year. During his brief period as leader, the Mormons made some efforts to reduce their emphasis on Salt Lake City, holding world conferences in Europe and Mexico and urging members to develop the church where they lived rather than "gathering in Zion."

Lee was born March 28, 1899, in Clifton, Idaho, grew up on a family farm with five brothers and sisters and received a teacher's certificate in 1917 from Albion Normal College in Idaho. He became principal of an Idaho school at the age of 17.

He served as a Mormon missionary in the Western states from 1920 to 1922, then studied for a year at the University of Utah before becoming a school principal in Salt Lake County. He resigned in 1928 to become regional manager for Foundation Press Inc.

In 1932, Lee, who was moving up the hierarchy of local church positions, was appointed a Salt Lake City commissioner. He won re-election the next year and held the city post until 1937, when he resigned at the church's behest to head the new welfare program.

Lee, who had organized a regional welfare program for Mormon members, headed the church-wide program for 22 years.

In 1941, he was appointed to the Council of the Twelve, the church's ruling body, and at 42—became its youngest member in modern church history. He was senior member at the time of Smith's death and was unanimously selected by the council to succeed him.

Lee married Fern Lucinda Tanner in 1923. She died in 1962. He married Freda Joan Jensen the following year. He was survived by his widow, a daughter and 10 grandchildren.

Generosity encourages hazards

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Uncle Sam is so generous to disaster victims he may be encouraging homeowners and businessmen to build in hazardous areas without insurance, according to a University of Pennsylvania economist.

Federal disaster subsidies in recent years have been so large that some individuals have actually made substantial profits, says Prof. Howard Kunreuther of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business in a study released Wednesday.

In one case, a motel owner in Fairbanks, Alaska, whose property suffered $140,000 damage in a 1967 flood, was able to borrow $294,000 from the government at 3 per cent interest. The going rate for loans at the time was 7 per cent, Kunreuther said.

After a 1971 California earthquake, many homeowners sought—and received—funds to repair damage that was not even caused by the quake, and some got more than they asked, he said.

Gas men, IRS clash nearing

By United Press International
Gasoline station operators and the Internal Revenue Service appear headed for a clash on the price of gasoline at the pumps.

Following reports of gasoline price gouging over the Christmas holiday weekend, the IRS launched an investigation into price-exceeding federal regulations. Rather than sell at government-imposed levels, many stations said they would close indefinitely.

"That's all we needed," moaned a spokesman for the American Automobile Association.

Harold Murphy, head of the Bay State Gasoline Retailers Association in Massachusetts, said: "We can't live on a seven-cent per gallon markup. Despite restrictions, he said, many dealers were pricing gasoline for a 10-cent markup."

He said he was charging 45.9 cents for regular and 49.9 cents for premium. Government restrictions in his case set the price at 44.9 cents and 47.9 cents.

"People are willing to pay 40.9 cents," said Murphy, whose group represents about 400 stations.

He said he expected "many other" stations across the country to join the boycott that would begin "as soon as gas runs out Saturday."

Robert Jacobs, an official of the Illinois and Indiana Gasoline Dealers Association, representing about 6,000 operators, predicted a "gasless Sunday, Monday and Tuesday for the New Year's holiday."

"The overwhelming probability," Jacobs said, "is that 80 to 90 per cent of the gasoline stations will be closed all over the U. S."

Over the Christmas holiday weekend, there were reports that many stations were overcharging customers. At least one in New York City was charging 99.9 cents a gallon for gasoline.

The IRS launched an investigation and late Wednesday said that "as a result of flagrant violations" of the price regulations, IRS personnel, who had taken the Christmas holiday off, would be on hand over the New Year's holiday weekend to monitor holiday gasoline prices.

A spot check, the IRS announced showed that more than one-third of the 25,543 gasoline stations it recently checked were violating price controls.

Conspiracy hinted

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A Nashville television station quoted "highly placed sources" Wednesday night that James Earl Ray claims he was involved in a conspiracy to assassinate Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

WSM-TV quoted the sources as saying Ray attached a statement naming several persons he claims gave him money to participate in the conspiracy to kill King to a writ mailed to the U.S. District Court here Saturday.

Federal court officials said, however, they have received no documents from Ray recently. Ray is serving a 99-year sentence in the state prison here for the 1968 slaying of the civil rights leader in Memphis.

Interview ends stay

MOSCOW (UPI) — Dissident nuclear physicist Andrei D. Sakharov said today an interview he gave a Swedish radio correspondent likely was responsible for the expulsion of the reporter from the Soviet Union.

Sakharov, in a statement given to Western newsmen, said he was grieved and indignant over the expulsion of Olle Stenholm from Moscow. Sakharov said during the Stenholm interview he had warned against Western accommodation with the Soviet Union on Soviet terms.

"I am grieved and indignant over this news," he said. "Once again I feel myself humiliated by the action of my country, the authorities of which violate the simplest international norms."

Kidnapers set ransom

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Kidnapers of American construction manager Charles Hayes were reported Wednesday asking $500,000 ransom for his release.

Buenos Aires newspapers cited sources close to Hayes' employer, McKee Teesa, for the unconfirmed report. The company declined comment.

Hayes, 51, a resident of Argentina for the past six years, was seized Friday in La Plata, 35 miles southeast of Buenos Aires, while on his way from his home to a McKee Teesa construction site at the nearby port. McKee Teesa is an Argentine affiliate of the U.S. firm McKee Cleveland.

Unlike most of the other 11 foreigners kidnaped in Argentina this year, Hayes' case has not been accompanied by a communique from left-wing guerrillas taking credit for the act.

Big firms hoard scarce fuel oils

(c) New York Times Service
NEW YORK — Big business has moved swiftly in recent months to stockpile millions of gallons of scarce fuel oil, even as the Nixon administration has urged homeowners to turn down their thermostats and drivers to reduce use of automobiles.

Some critics have labeled the practice hoarding. Corporate executives, however, defend it as simply efficient business practice.

Many large corporations across the nation have hurriedly obtained scores of newly built storage tanks and thousands of railroad tank cars. Starting months ago, they also arranged with their oil suppliers for uninterrupted deliveries of petroleum products.

Typical of the companies that say they have added stocks of fuel or new storage facilities are the Aluminum Company of America, the Union Carbide Corp. and the General American Transportation Corp.

General American, besides stockpiling petroleum products for its own plants, has been leasing tank cars and building storage tanks for other companies.

Jr. Scanlin, president, also said his company presently was storing at its tank farms about 23 million barrels—mostly of crude oil—for the major oil refiners—up from 18 million barrels 14 months ago.

followed an interview which IRA leader Seamus Twomey gave to a German magazine in which he said: "We will have commando action from the air."

The newspaper said flying clubs throughout Northern Ireland had been alerted in case the IRA tries to hijack or rent a light plane.

Nixon inks Israel aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has signed a $2.2 billion emergency aid to Israel authorization that covers the cost of U.S. arms shipped to Tel Aviv during and after the Middle East War.

The bill, signed Wednesday, is the first of two pieces of aid legislation on his desk. The other is a $5.8 billion appropriation measure that supplies the emergency funds plus $385 million in other military and economic aid to Israel.

The authorization measure gives Nixon power to supply Israel with $1.5 billion of arms at U.S. expense and to approve another $700 million in credit sale.

DEAR ABBY: My husband carries a picture of me without any clothes on in his wallet. I posed for it just for him. He says he likes to look at it occasionally at work, but he wouldn't show it to anybody. Yet whenever I meet one of the guys he works with, the going over I get with his eyes gives me the feeling that he might have seen the picture. I am a very shy person, so maybe it's just undue concern on my part. But on the other hand, I'd rather have my husband looking at MY picture in the nude than a girl's in a magazine.

What should I do?

WORRIED.

'Poses' problem

DEAR WORRIED: Since you obviously doubt your husband's word, ask him to destroy the picture in your presence, and rely on his memory. Don't pose for another, and you won't have to worry.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 75-year-old gentleman with a lovely 21-year-old granddaughter who was recently married. Her mother in law, who appears to be between 55 and 60, says: "Hello, Grandpa," everytime we meet.

I do not object to my grandchildren calling me "Grandpa," but I do not wish this woman to address me in that manner.

The last time she called me "Grandpa," I called her "Grandma," and she quickly said: "Oh, no, not yet!"

I said, "Well, you're old enough to be one."

Without making an issue of it, how can I let this woman know that I do not wish for her to call me "Grandpa"? A.K. IN CHICAGO

DEAR A.K.: Don't rely on your "Hello, Grandma" response to get the message to her. Simply tell her good-naturedly that the right to call you "Grandpa" is reserved for your grandchildren.

DEAR ABBY: I am having a small disagreement with my mother in law. A friend of hers sent my husband and me a wedding present. I didn't know the lady, but my husband did. One day when my husband and I were in a restaurant my husband spotted this lady, so we stopped and talked to her. I mentioned several times in the conversation how much we appreciated her wedding present and before we said goodbye I thanked her again for it, and so did my husband.

My mother in law insists that I should write this lady a thank you note. She says a verbal thanks is not enough. I think a verbal thanks is just as good as a written thank. What do you think?

WAITING TO HEAR

DEAR WAITING: Your mother in law is right. Send the lady a written thank-you note.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The common gull or seagull feeds upon fish and mollusks but is most useful as a scavenger which eats edible refuse from ships or in garbage dumps. Extremely graceful in the air, the gull has long, narrow wings adapted for gliding, which enable it to glide in air currents behind ships and to soar effortlessly inside warm air columns. The World Almanac notes.

Couple exchanges promises

PAUL — Dinah Williams and George Heinze were married in 1 p.m. rites Dec. 8 at the Presbyterian Church Chapel.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert VanNest.

Patti Burke was bridesmaid. Jim Garner was best man. Roy Williams, brother of the bride, and Steven Gibb acted as ushers.

The couple was honored at a reception following the ceremony. Cake was served by Mrs. Joy Kicer. Mrs. Edith Stacy made the punch and Mrs. Nancy Chambers served it. Coffee was poured by Patti Burke.

The bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower given by Barbara Lowe with the bride's co-workers as guests.

Our old friend pessimistic Pete writes, "Here is my favorite rubber bridge hand of 1973. It sure illustrates the importance of playing safe for your contract."

"I happened to sit East. My jack of clubs was taken by South's ace. South proceeded to play a diamond to the queen and a second diamond to the king. Then he played a third and fourth diamond. I was in with the jack and had noted that my partner had discarded the three and five of hearts and five of clubs so I promptly led my six of spades. South's 10 lost to my partner's jack. He returned a low spade to my king. I led my last spade and all of a sudden we had five tricks in.

Pete's letter continues for some time but the gist of it is that South could and should have insured his contract by finessing his nine of diamonds at trick three.

This might have lost to a doubleton or tripleton jack in the West hand, but the three notrump contract would still wheel in. Even if West shifted to a low spade the defense could not gather in more than three spade tricks and South would then be sure of the nine needed for game and rubber.

Campers told to move on

DALLAS (UPI) — In the neighborhood where flob and Toni Blackman used to live their children didn't have much room to play and the rent was high.

There were rats and roaches and the Blackmans' claim their landlord wasn't interested in eliminating the pests.

So the Blackmans bundled up their four boys and three-month-old daughter and moved into a tent on the wooded shores of Lake Ray Hubbard.

"We just decided we'd be better right here," he said of the lake front 25 miles outside of town.

The Blackmans, who are in their early 30s, pitched their tent along a creek 100 yards from the lake, dragged in an empty cable spool for a table and built a brick stove in the dirt.

"We've been out here about three months and the kids evidently are much healthier, getting fresh air and sunshine. If it was where we could, we'd stay here indefinitely."

The reservoir manager is not quite so anxious.

"People down here at the water utilities came out and told us that people have been coming out here and seeing us and they don't like the idea of us being out here," Mrs. Blackman said.

She said the lake authorities told them to leave. She's not quite sure why.

"We've been clean; in fact we cleaned up a bunch of junk when we came here. We keep it clean, but the manager of the water utilities said there has been a bunch of complaints. He said the people from the Health Department had come down here."

"My husband pondered the question and wondered what they'd do if we just stayed out here."

Walter Lane, reservoir manager for Lake Ray Hubbard, said the Blackmans have been asked to move for health reasons.

"We can't let it (the camp) be there, one will bring another and next thing we know we got a whole shoreline of migrants and squatters," he said.

"It's primarily the health problem, a health and sanitation problem," Lane said. "There's no personal animosity involved. Rules are rules. If you let one do that everyone will want to."

He said extended camping near the lake would ruin the reservoir for drinking water. He said health authorities set strict rules for camping, as well as animal grazing.

The Blackmans spend their day fishing, hunting, and dredging up returnable bottles. Occasionally, Bob Blackman takes the boys into town, when he's not working at a paint and body shop.

Mrs. Blackman, who wears blue jeans, a long-sleeve plaid shirt and a faded white straw hat, spends much of the time with the children, who are all under 8 years old.

"There's no other kids out here, so we play with them quite a bit more. If I need water to clean something the bigger boys will get it. In town, you can't get kids to do that because they don't know where their house is."

Texas bus rider charged

NEW BOSTON, Tex. (UPI) — A Salem, Va. man today was captured and charged with murder in the slaying of a bus driver who was stabbed to death Christmas night as he sped cross country at 60 miles an hour.

Bowie County Sheriff Earl Sabo said James Edward Morris, 31, was charged with murder and jailed in lieu of $75,000 bond.

The sheriff's department said the bus driver, Bill Young, 40, and a passenger argued about a bus ticket Christmas night as the bus moved across North Texas. Witnesses said that Morris stabbed Young in the neck, chest, stomach and face with a large knife.

Railroads run Utah tests to prepare for conversion to electricity

By DWIGHT JENSEN
Special to the Times-News
FARMINGTON, Utah — The wind comes howling through this part of the country, often blowing off Farmington Bay of the Great Salt Lake with such force that Interstate 15 is closed to trucks and campers. Where better to test the durability and safety of a catenary structure that would provide electricity to railroad locomotives? Can those wires and the structure supporting them withstand the wind and keep the electricity flowing to the locomotives that would need it?

The railroad is finding out. It is now putting the finishing touches to a test section of electrical construction here, and in spring it plans to build another test station on the main line between Cheyenne and Laramie.

The Union Pacific has been aware for years, of course, that electricity might be used to power locomotives. It has examined the question on paper from time to time, and has always come to the conclusion that the costs of conversion and operation would be too high to justify the change.

But now oil is becoming harder and more expensive to get, and the economics of electricity as compared with those of diesel fuel are changing. The time could come in the fairly near future when it does become financially feasible to replace diesel locomotives with electric trains. So the railroad has moved beyond the paper stage and is beginning a study on the right-of-way itself.

For the past month, the Corbin-Dyke Electric Co. of Phoenix, Ariz., has been putting up a few hundred yards of catenary construction as a test section.

The construction is of European design and uses some European equipment.

Next spring another test section is to be built between Laramie and Cheyenne. It will be of American design.

Both sections are designed to find out how the equipment withstands weather, especially the high wind at Farmington and the bitter cold in Wyoming.

Later on, the Farmington section will be energized so the railroad can find out if putting current into the wires has any detrimental effect on telephone lines, broadcast signals, television sets or other nearby electrical equipment.

The railroad has no firm plans beyond that — no timetable for conversion to electricity. But when the tests are complete, they'll be better able to judge whether to start buying electric locomotives.

Three kinds of poles are being tested here. Wooden, steel and concrete poles alternate along the experimental section. They are firmly set against that wind — anchored by a polyethylene solution that is sprayed into the postholes in liquid form and, in drying, expands to 13 times its liquid size, fills every gap and corner, and provides a solid base for the pole.

What will the experiment cost? The railroad won't say.

But if the fuel shortage continues, it may turn out to be an important investment.

Salmon favors bills

SALMON — The Salmon Chamber of Commerce through its legislative committee and Lemhi County commissioners has voiced its support for reinstatement of a single member Legislative District 20-A and 20-B, including all of Custer County.

The group recommended that a fair campaign bill be enacted requiring a disclosure identifying election campaign material.

Regarding recall, it was recommended to limit the basis for reason of recall to include malfeasance, mental incompetence, neglect of duties and corruption.

It also was suggested to the Citizens Committee, For Rules For the Legislature that the actual number of days absent from the session be listed in the legislator's attendance in the journal.

It was recommended that the law be followed in the most economical way regarding the state redignation plan.

In reference to the land use planning legislation the group was in favor of local control with state advisory assistance.

The Chamber's Legislative Committee met with the Lemhi County Commission to review the proposed legislation as well as recommendations of the Citizens Study of Local Government.

The District 20 legislators will be advised in letters of the chamber's recommendations.

The local committee and commissioners reviewed the recommendations of the Citizens Study of Local Government committee.

On the issue of the number of county commissioners, which the law presently sets at three, the group felt no action was necessary and recommended no change in the terms of office.

They also opposed a constitutional amendment to provide for a local county option to be exercised by the voters of having either a county supervisor elected or county administrator appointed who could be one of the elected officials.

Under the proposal the traditional form of legislative and executive authority resting with the board of county commissioners would remain for those counties not exercising an option.

Valley driving conditions hazardous

SV patrolman selected

SUN VALLEY — Sun Valley Police patrolman Edward Crain was selected president of his class at the Peace Officers Training and Standards Academy, Pocatello.

According to Police Chief Dade Cain, Crain graduated high in his class in the four week course which covered all aspects of general peace officer training and qualifies Crain to obtain his basic policeman's certificate.

Crain joined the department in April, 1973.

Suit filed

TWIN FALLS — A condemnation suit has been filed in Fifth District Court here by the Department of Highways against Lyman and Mabel Schenk, 732 Addison Avenue.

The action seeks to obtain part of the Schenk property needed for the widening and improvement of U.S. Highway 30 along Addison Avenue in Twin Falls. This is one of a number of condemnation proceedings pending in District Court in connection with the highway improvement project.

Meet set

KETCHUM — The Ketchum Planning and Zoning Commission will conduct an informational meeting tonight on the proposed new city zoning ordinance and zoning map.

The meeting has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the city hall.

The commission will conduct public hearings on the ordinance and map on Jan. 3 and Jan. 10, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the city hall.

SV policeman hired

SUN VALLEY — Herb Wright has been hired as a Sun Valley policeman, according to chief Dade Cain.

Wright replaces patrolman Dan Norton, who was named chief of the Hailey Police Department.

Wright has worked for the Sun Valley Co. for one and one-half years over an about three year period and obtained a degree in recreation from San Jose State University.

Overburdened staff blamed

BOISE (UPI) — A small, overburdened staff was blamed by a Department of Environmental and Community Services official for not responding to a child neglect case in Boise.

DEC's Region Four services director Ron Paulsen confirmed that the first call in the matter was received last June.

The case, however, was not responded to until neighbors called the governor's house two weeks ago.

Unemployment high

BOISE (UPI) — A high rate of unemployment among union building trades workers is being blamed on funding, weather and shortages of materials.

One-third of the 2,000 union workers in the southwest Idaho-southeast Oregon building and construction trades council are unemployed, says council representative Robert Moore.

The council's area includes Treasure Valley, Malheur County in Oregon, Elmore County and parts of Idaho County.

Moore said many jobs have been delayed by the stormy weather or shortages of materials.

Timber needed

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI) — A local lumber company is in desperate need of timber.

E.M. Stoddard, owner of the Sawtooth Lumber Co., said he had only enough timber left for a year's operation.

He said the firm would curtail its present operation to some extent, and endeavor to stretch the present timber holdings to two years.

Gem ownership eyed

BOISE (UPI) — The Bureau of Land Management hopes it can get the State of Idaho to take over ownership of 3,600 acres of illegal desert entry land near Hammett.

Idaho BLM Director William L. Mathews, said the state had expressed an interest in accepting the Indians Hills acreages from lands.

The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals held the land must revert to BLM management. The land comprises 12 desert entries, five of which had been patented and developed by the Hoodoo Corporation.

Mathews noted that the land has been under cultivation for nearly five years and that a decision should be made so the land can be farmed next spring and not get dry and blow. He said about 3,000 acres were plowed this past fall.

Senate secretary named

BOISE (UPI) — Pat Harper is the new secretary for the Idaho State Senate. L. Gov. Jack Murphy said Mrs. Harper is the first woman to hold the position.

Mrs. Harper has served as assistant secretary of the senate since 1971.

She has worked with Idaho legislators since 1961 when she was enrolling clerk in the Idaho House of Representatives.

4 critically injured

JORDAN VALLEY, Ore. (UPI) — Four persons were critically injured and a number of others hurt when a Boise Winnemucca Stages bus slid off U.S. Highway 95 about 14 miles southwest of here early today.

Among the critically injured was the driver, James Jackson, 44, Boise, Idaho, who had a record of 15 years without an accident. He and the other critically injured were taken to Memorial Hospital in Caldwell, Idaho.

Names of the other critically injured were not immediately available.

IPUC orders rehearing

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission today ordered a rehearing on an order capping for installation of a flasher type signal device at the Swan Falls railroad grade crossing near Kuna.

The PUC had issued an order that the signal be installed with the Ada County Highway District paying 90 per cent of the cost and the Union Pacific Railroad paying 10 per cent.

Search continues

BOISE (UPI) — An escaped mental patient was the object of a search between Star and Eagle, after a woman told police a man matching the description of Michael Hightower shot at her car.

Ada County Sheriff's deputies Wednesday night reported that state and city police joined in the search, after Linda D. Cole, Meridian, notified them a man shot at her car.

She said the man stepped onto the roadway pulling out a gun. She said she heard the gun shot as she drove past.

Hightower, 24, walked away from a Community Mental Health Center last week in Boise. He is suspected of kidnapping and raping a 22-year-old Boise State College coed.

Hazardous driving conditions were reported early today throughout Magic Valley and into adjoining states.

Idaho Department of Highways officials in Shoshone said all snow plow and sanding equipment was at work from about 7 a.m. through the morning with snow falling from Galena Summit to the Utah state line.

Heavy snow fall was reported in the Fairfield area with four inches of new snow at Cat Creek Summit at 7:30 a.m. and the storm continuing.

About 1.5 inches of snow covered highways from Shoshone to Timmerman Hill at 7:30 a.m. with the depths increasing during the morning.

Idaho State Police reported interstate sections were slick and driving remained hazardous into both Utah and Oregon with snow falling on U.S. 93 into Nevada as well.

While motorists lamented the conditions, skiers heading for nearby resorts rejoiced in the new powder snow. Conditions in most resorts have been listed as excellent throughout the past week. All resorts are operating daily and daily bus service is available to all resorts for those wishing to conserve gasoline.

City and county officers were called to check a number of minor accidents around the valley but no serious injuries had been reported early today.

State police in Twin Falls said despite the slick highways not a single accident had been reported to their office.

In Twin Falls city sanding equipment began hitting major intersections at about 7 a.m. but city police received several accident reports, all of a minor nature, before the sanding operations could be completed.

Floyd Dayley, Twin Falls Highway District manager, said all county roads were passable but said some sanding and salting on curves was necessary. He said the only plowing was on the Rock Creek road to Magic Mountain where six to eight inches of new snow were reported. The road was open, he said, and would be in good condition for skiers and snowmobilers.

Dayley said if winds occur some serious county road problems could result but all were open and passable at 10 a.m. today. He said with schools closed for the holidays some of the problems are lessened.

Weather forecasts indicate snow would decrease during the remainder of the day but storms would move in again for the weekend developing Saturday and continuing through Sunday with a clearing trend for Monday.

Road board tells aims

Times-News Boise Bureau

BOISE — The State Board of Highway Directors today unveiled a $6.4 million highway construction program for 1974 including eight projects in the Magic Valley area.

Also included in the proposed construction is work on approaches to the American Falls Dam along State Highway 39.

Highway officials emphasized that impoundment of federal highway construction funds and possible material shortages could curtail construction over the next 12 months. In addition, they said, uncertainty over state highway users revenue made continuation of the state's safety and improvement schedule doubtful.

The construction, scheduled for 1974 in the Magic Valley, includes work on two separate stretches of the route along Interstate 80, grading and paving is planned for about four and a half miles in the Bliss area.

Work scheduled around Glens Ferry involves construction of a bridge crossing of the Snake River as part of a six and two tenths mile project.

Other Magic Valley construction proposed for the coming year includes work on the Timmerman Rest Area at the junction of State Highway 93 and State Highway 68; work along an eight mile stretch of State Highway 24 west of Kimama; construction of a four lane road to connect Interstate 80 with the new Perrine Bridge; improvements on eight tenths of a mile of Addison Avenue in Twin Falls along U.S. 93; improvements at the West Five Points intersection in Twin Falls; construction of the Little Camas Rest Area along State Highway 68.

Approximately one-third of the state's entire federal highway construction money for the current year is being withheld by the Nixon administration, the highway board of directors said, but noted it could still be released later in the fiscal year.

The list of construction projects authorizes department personnel to proceed with construction when plans and specifications are completed, right of way acquired approval of the Federal Highway Administration is obtained, and as state and federal funds become available.

The announcement also said that uncertainty with state highway users revenue made it "difficult" to schedule with certainty any state funded safety and improvement programs for 1974.

In the past the program has paid for surfacing and paving in addition to installation of traffic control devices, drainage structures and guard rails as well as widening of roads and bridges.

The work on the interstate system anticipated for initiation in 1974 will cost about $28 million, according to today's announcement, with the federal government paying 92 per cent of that total.

Work on state primary and secondary systems will cost $36 million of which the federal government pays 78 per cent and the state the remaining 22 per cent.

Sentence suspended

TWIN FALLS — Charles James Abundis, 19, and Betty Doreen Dutt, 19, both Twin Falls, were sentenced to 14 years in the state prison on grand larceny charges with the sentence suspended and a 12 month probation ordered.

Judge Theron W. Ward pronounced sentence for the pair after they entered pleas of guilty to the theft of a 19-inch color-television set from the Monterey Motel Oct. 14.

Rocky Carpenter, 19, Twin Falls, changed a previous innocent plea to grand larceny charges and pleaded guilty to a lesser count of joy riding. He was charged with taking a 1967 sedan from James Monroe, Kimberly.

Judge Ward sentenced the young man to six months in the county jail which he then suspended, fining him $200 and court costs and requiring one day in the county jail.

Slow arrival

JEROME — The Christmas rush may be over but some post offices apparently are still cleaning out the backlog.

The Times-News today received an envelope from St. Benedict's Hospital in Jerome containing a list of dismissals and admittances.

It was mailed Dec. 21 — six days ago. Considering that Jerome is 14 miles away this would mean a communication rate of about two miles per day.

Opinion 'doesn't overrule' local view

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — State Atty. Gen. Anthony Park says an opinion by his staff on subdivision vacation petitions contradicts but does not overrule an opinion by Twin Falls County Pres. Atty. Robert Galley.

In a letter to Twin Falls County commissioners Dec. 21, Park said an article appearing in the Times-News Dec. 19 on his staff's opinion "seemed to imply that my office had over-ruled" the legal opinion earlier submitted to you by prosecuting attorney Robert W. Galley.

"This concerned me," Park continued, "because a further implication could be drawn that this office and the State Planning and Community Affairs Agency are attempting to intervene in and interfere with matters of a local nature."

"I can assure you, speaking for myself, that nothing could be further from the truth. True enough, I did still do disagree with Mr. Galley's interpretation of the statutes in question. However, having said that, I want to assure you that you are still perfectly free to follow your attorney's advice."

Park was referring to a legal opinion prepared Dec. 12 by assistant Attorney general James Weaver which declared that the county commissioners "shall provide for notice and hearing" on any petition to vacate a subdivision, regardless of whether or not the petitioners were owners of property in or adjacent to the subdivision.

Weaver wrote the opinion at the request of Robert Wise, acting director of State Planning and Community Affairs, after Twin Falls County commissioners in November denied a petition to vacate the controversial Meander Points subdivision on the Snake River Canyon rim.

"The commissioners acted on the advice of Galley who had advised that, in his opinion, the phrase 'any person, persons, firm, association' may petition for vacation of a previously platted subdivision, as the statute reads, was not to be taken literally, and that the courts in precedent cases had ruled only on petitions from landowners in the subdivision in question.

In a letter to the county commissioners Dec. 20, Galley reaffirmed his original interpretation.

"The interpretation which would allow non-interested persons to force the county commissioners to have a hearing is subject to so much abuse, extra work on the county commissioners that I can only conclude that the statute means a person who wants to vacate must have an interest in the property."

Galley said if his interpretation was incorrect the question should be resolved by the courts "rather than some obscure deputy attorney general."

"It is obvious that should you follow the purported opinion of the attorney general's office, that we will be involved in extensive litigation on the part of the subdividers involved in this case," Galley wrote.

"On the other hand," he continued, "the citizens who have filed the petition may also bring litigation if you follow my opinion. But I think the line of least resistance would be to follow the more common-sense interpretation of the statute and should the petitioners feel that this is a wrong interpretation, they can simply bring a writ of mandamus against us and this would bring it before the district court for an interpretation of the statute."

Commissioner Merl Leonard said Wednesday that he saw only two alternatives to resolve the interpretation of the statute, either a decision by the courts, or action by the legislature to change the wording of the statute to limit vacation petitions to property owners or those with direct interest in the property.

Commissioner William Wiseman said in his opinion it was "ridiculous" that any person from in or out of state could petition to vacate any subdivision previously approved.

David Mend, president of Canyon Inc., said no action on filing a second vacation petition against Meander-Points would be taken until after the holidays. He said no decision had been made whether or not the group, which favors preservation and orderly development of the canyon rim, would file a second petition.

RUPERT — School will be starting at 9 a.m. for most students in the Minidoka School district when busing is changed to a single route system late next month.

In a special meeting Wednesday night the Minidoka County School board decided unanimously to change to the single route system in an effort to keep within its gas allotments which have been cut 10 per cent based on last year's monthly allocations.

Under the double route system, over 40 buses were used to transport elementary students and another 40 were used to pick up the secondary students. The single route system would use only about 50 buses, cutting fuel usage in this area by at least 25 per cent, superintendent Darrell Hatfield said.

The district has been allotted 13,000 gallons for January. In addition to the 600 gallons still coming for the month of December, approximately 2200 gallons already in the tanks and about 1200 gallons presently in the buses. The total gives the district about 17,000 gallons for the 22 school days in January.

At an average rate of use of 900 gallons a day, the buses will be short about two or three days of fuel for next month, Dr. Hatfield said. If the fuel allotment is cut 10 per cent for February, the district will be about two days short that month, he said, although the fuel company would not even guarantee that the cut would not be larger.

Bus supervisor Tom George said he would have to have about five new bus drivers to handle the new route system. Some method would also have to be devised, he said, to pay the drivers enough to keep them on the job because their working time would be cut when running only one route.

The motion accepted by the board provided only one exception to the single route system — Acequia. Because the Acequia school is further away from the district's center, students would either be arriving early or leaving late on a single route system, the board decided that the Acequia elementary school would be put on a double route either in the morning, or the afternoon.

Because school will be dismissing later in the day, the number of buses used for extra-curricular activities will have to be decreased, George said. Buses needed for these activities will be running regular school routes, he said.

The board also considered the possibility of limiting the junior high school "B" teams to intramural games as one alternative in cutting back extra-curricular activities. The board authorized Dr. Hatfield and George to iron out the details of the new system for presentation at the next board meeting.

David Moller, president of the Minidoka County Teachers Association, told the board it was "pushing the panic button a little too early." The single-bus route system was the best for the students, he said.

If the district did run short, Moller said, it could probably buy gasoline from other sources.

Dr. Hatfield said the district budgeted for gasoline at the rate of 28.9 cents per gallon. It is now paying 31.9 cents per gallon and gasoline from other sources could run 50.9 cents a gallon, he said.

"There is no doubt in my mind that we can get the fuel, but somebody is going to have to pay for it," he said.

In other action, the board voted to grant a $1.50 per ton increase in coal payments to Matlock and Son. The firm had requested the increase to $19 per ton from $17.50 per ton because of increased operating costs.

Twin Falls, Tigers slate double duty for weekend

The Twin Falls Bruins and Jerome Tigers will play two nights while Buhl and Burley will go once apiece in the season's shortest weekend.

The rematch between the Bruins and the two-non-conference area teams will be a yardstick that can be applied to the rest of the season.

expected to do that point and Jerome Saturday.

important because they show a team's progress. Twin Falls, for instance, can't progress at the rate of some other teams simply because it is playing basically seniors and three of those seniors have three year's varsity experience.

New Idaho coach sets sights on Big Sky loop grid crown

BOISE — The new University of Idaho head football coach has his sights set on a Big Sky Conference championship.

before hiring any new coaches because of equal opportunity regulations. But his coach pledged the three assistants would all be from the northwestern United States.

Green said he was looking at long term schedule commitments with an eye on cancelling some of them if it were possible.

Rematches in basketball are watch the outside shooting of the Bobcats because once Burley's guards start hitting, they shoot tremendously well.

Jerome's height has to be better than it showed in the first meeting and the truth of the past two losses for the Bruins shows Twin Falls isn't overpowering on the boards unless the other team is a little timid.

Ed Troxel, who is taking over a team that wound up this season 4-7, warned the school's fans not to expect "any miracles."

Troxel said his immediate mission with the team would be to instill a feeling of pride and to hire new assistant coaches.

In response to one newsman's question he said the 1975 game schedules against Arizona State University was one he was "unsure" about.

The Beavers trimmed Jerome by 12 points in their first game and Coach Bill Blum blamed it on lack of aggressive rebounding and team mobility.

Missouri surprises Oklahoma by 73-70

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Pat Kelly sank three free throws in the last 1:46 and Scott Wedman scored 30 points Wednesday night, leading Colorado to a 73-71 victory over Kansas and allowing the Buffaloes to join Missouri in the semifinals of the Big Eight basketball tournament.

Missouri elevated its record to 4-2 while Oklahoma fell to 5-2 in the first game.

He said he had been assistant coach under three coaches. "I know their pitfalls," he said, adding he hoped he could "take what they do best and put it to use for the University of Idaho and what they did worst I'm not going to do at all and at certain times I'm going to keep my mouth shut."

Steve Dangos and Al Eberhard combined for 45 points to lead Missouri to a 73-70 upset victory over 14th-ranked Oklahoma in the other first round game.

Eberhard, the most outstanding player in the tournament a year ago, took command in the late going, pulling Missouri from a 65-64 edge with 4:03 left to a commanding 73-64 lead with 1:25 remaining.

Chariot racers run Sunday

Pairings for this Sunday's contests sponsored by the Snake River Chariot Racing Association are announced.

Kelley, a 6-2 senior, hit three straight field goals midway in the second half to lift the underdog Buffaloes to a 61-51 lead with 12:38 to play. After the margin moved to 70-63, Kansas made a bid to catch up and closed the gap to 70-69 with 3:34 left. But Kelly's free throws, the last one with five seconds to play, were the difference.

For the game, Dangos had 24 points and Eberhard 21. Alvan Adams led Oklahoma with 24 points, while Lee Gilbert added 14.

Senior division, Hansen and Mur vs. Eric Stevens; Dunn and Grant vs. Webb; Bud Swan vs. Bob Grant; Bolton and Kimball vs. Don Vandeghof; Harold Peterson vs. Eldoq Anderson; Homer Stradley vs. Wayne Clark; Peterson and Kimball vs. Blain Sorenson; Dee Wolverton vs. Sorenson and Johnson; and Rainbow Ranch drew a bye.

Senior division results were Stevens over Peterson and Kimball; Dunn and Grant over Anderson; Rainbow Ranch over Clarke; Stradley over Wolverton; Grant over Webb; Kimball and Bolton over Sorenson and Johnson; Hansen and Muir over Vandeghof; Swan over Sorenson.

Kansas, after pulling within 72-71, got the ball back but lost it when Donnie Von Moore was called for traveling with 18 seconds left.

But the game really was won during a 5 1/2-minute span in the second half when Missouri outscored the Sooners 19-4. That brought the Tigers from a 52-40 deficit to a 59-56 lead with 7:26 left in the game. During that spree, Dangos scored eight points and Eberhard seven.

In last week's two-year-old division, Mike Elliott defeated Webb and Peterson; Ewing and Juker defeated Bob Juker; Boyd Stevens defeated Halway Ranch, and Rose Acres defeated Wayne Thompson.

Miller hit 10 quick points early in the second half as Oregon State outscored Army, 16-0, in the first six minutes.

College grid season boils down to final 12 contests

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer

Cheer up, ladies, there are only 12 college football games left this season. And here's some more good news for you. After next Tuesday that number will be reduced to three.

Beginning Friday and lasting through "New Year's Day" a total of nine post-season games will be played, and the bulk of the action will take place Saturday with four games on tap.

The first of this week's contests will be held Friday night in Atlanta when Georgia meets Maryland in the Peach Bowl.

Maryland, which finished in a tie for 11th in the final UPI ratings, posted an 8-3 record this season compared to a 6-4-1 mark for Georgia, but the game is listed as a tossup—no doubt due to the fact that Georgia won three of its last four games, including a 35-31 victory over Tennessee.

Both teams feature some exceptional players. Maryland boasts a triple-threat offensive star in tailback Louis Carter, an all-ACC selection, and a pair of super defensive linemen in tackle Rantly White and middle guard Paul Vellano. The Terps ranked among the top 10 in total defense this season.

quarterback Andy Johnson, the No. 2 rushing quarterback in SEC history, and tailback Jimmy Poulos, the No. 2 rusher in Georgia history.

There are three bowl games and one all-star contest set for Saturday. On Saturday afternoon Missouri (7-4) will meet Auburn (6-5) in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex.; Houston (10-1) takes on Tulane (9-2) in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston and the East meets the West in the Shrine Game at San Francisco.

On Saturday night Tennessee (8-3) tangles with Texas Tech (10-1) in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. Houston, ranked 13th, is an eight-point choice over 15th-ranked Tulane in the Sun Bowl, and this game figures to be a battle between a conservative club and a big play team. This year, however, it is Houston, which has gone conservative in marked contrast to previous years.

The Cougars have stuck pretty much to a ground game this year and has paid off with victories over every one except Auburn. Quarterback D.C. Nobles has attempted 45 fewer passes than a year ago, and there are four backs on the team with more than 400 yards rushing.

Tulane's strength is quarterback Steve Foley, who gained more than 1,400 yards in total offense this season. The Green Wave will be hurt considerably on defense, however, by the loss of defensive tackle Charlie Hall, who has undergone knee surgery.

Texas Tech, which lost only to Texas this season and was ranked 11th, is a 2½-point choice over Tennessee in the Gator Bowl. Texas Tech, which was forced to come from behind in six of its 10 victories, is a powerful offensive team that was held under 20 points only twice all season. The Red Raiders center their offense around quarterback Joe Barnes, who passed for 978 yards and rushed for 568 yards this year.

Tennessee's defense hasn't measured up to past years, but the Vols also boast an explosive offense which is geared to the talents of quarterback Conderge Holloway, an all-SEC selection. Holloway passed for 1,149 yards and rushed for an additional 433 yards this season.

All-America quarterback David Jaynes of Kansas heads a list of 58 outstanding players selected for the 49th annual East-West Shrine Game. Jaynes, Stanford's Mike Boryla and Arizona State's Danny White gives the West Squad three of the nation's best quarterbacks, but the East has been rated a slight favorite.

Other top pro prospects competing in the game will be tight end Paul Seal and defensive tackle Dave Gallagher of Michigan.

Newhouse replaces Hill as Dallas back

DALLAS (UPI) — Dallas Cowboy coach Tom Landry said Wednesday the loss of Calvin Hill for Sunday's NFC championship game against Minnesota should not change what the Cowboys try to do on offense against the Vikings and should not change the eventual outcome of the game.

"We will obviously miss Calvin," Landry said. "You always miss a back who has gained 1,000 yards for you."

"But I don't think it should keep us from winning. It should not be used as an excuse. Our defense can still play defense and Roger Staubach can still throw the football."

Hill's services were lost because of a dislocated elbow he suffered last Sunday in the Cowboys' 27-16 division playoff victory over Los Angeles.

Robert actually has played only one game at halfback," said Landry. "But he is capable of having a super game. We have lost other players this year and it has not been disastrous. We lost Otto Stowe (at flanker) and Drew Pearson has come on to perform very well."

Landry said the use of Newhouse would not cause him to alter his game plan.

"We really can't change what has brought us here," said Landry.

Leaks declared sound

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Roosevelt Leaks, Texas' ground gobbling fullback who strained a knee Thanksgiving Day, was pronounced 100 per cent recovered Wednesday. Leaks took part at full speed in the Longhorns first official workout since the end of the regular season.

Abernathy doesn't show but Sugar bowl protest goes on

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Rev. Ralph Abernathy failed to show up as promised Wednesday night at the kickoff of a series of demonstrations called by black activists to protest the exclusion of Negroes from full participation in Sugar Bowl activities.

Dr. Guy Gipson, a dentist who heads the New Orleans NAACP, made the announcement of Abernathy's non-appearance to a crowd of a few hundred gathered for a "mass rally" in St. Raymond's Church Hall. Abernathy took over as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) after the death of Rev. Martin Luther King.

"I regret to inform you that the Reverend Abernathy will not be able to be with us tonight but has sent a representative who, I'm sure, will convey Reverend Abernathy's solidarity with us," Gipson told the crowd.

Blacks said earlier their protests against the Sugar Bowl's sponsor would be peaceful and would probably stop short of asking black players on Alabama and Notre Dame football teams and on four basketball squads to stage a boycott.

Both civil rights groups said they had written to black players to advise them that blacks had been excluded, until recently, from full participation in the Sugar Bowl organization and were still being denied any memberships on the executive committee, although six blacks serve on other bowl committees.

The letters, said Dr. Gipson, asked the black players to "follow their own consciences."

"My first obligation is to my team," said star running back Eric Penick of Notre Dame.

Cal nips Penn on free throw

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Senior Carl Meier made a free throw with two seconds left to give California a 64-63 victory over Pennsylvania in the first round of the Quaker City Basketball Tournament Wednesday night at the Palestra.

In the first game, Ron Brown scored four points and handed off a key assist in overtime as Penn State outlasted Fordham 73-67.

John Beercraft hit a 20-foot jump shot for the Quakers, 42, with 35 seconds left to tie the game at 63-63. California, 44, then worked the ball to Meier who drove in from the left side and was fouled. He made the first of two foul tries and time ran out before Penn got off a shot.

Duke, Florida reach finals

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The Duke Blue Devils and the Florida Gators both came from behind with strong closing rallies Wednesday night to advance to the finals of the Gator Bowl basketball tournament.

The Blue Devils, trailing by seven points with less than five minutes to play, scored the final 13 points of the game to beat Western Kentucky 75-69. The Gators, with a strong close by Chip Williams, nipped the Jacksonville Dolphins 64-62.

Jacksonville led Florida by 19 points late in the first half and was ahead by 17 early in the second. But the Gators, paced by Williams, who wound up with 19 points, and Gene Shy, who led all scorers with 25, finally caught up with 5-10 left in the game.

Florida took the lead for good, 59-57, with 1:55 left to play.

Florida lost three regulars and Jacksonville lost two to fouls in the rough contest.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to look directly at the changes that are necessary for you to do during the coming year and to work out a plan of action by which you can do them in a satisfactory manner. New formulas can help you gain your objectives.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have problems at home that need attention, so get them solved quickly and then meet with interesting friends. Harmony is the keynote.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Obtain the information you need so that you can advance in personal project. Insist that others arrive on time for any appointments made.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Instead of feeling unhappy because you are financially deficient temporarily, find some new outlet that will solve situation.

MOON CHILDREN (June 2 to July 21) Forget altercations with others and concentrate on how to make your monetary position more secure. Relax and have fun tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Discuss the policy level with associates and come to a complete understanding. Do more listening and less arguing. Become a true Leo.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) First handle any financial affairs that are important and then handle work awaiting your attention. Show that you are family minded.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Put your finest talents to work. Show that you are alert to new opportunities to get ahead faster. Engage in amusements you like.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Use your good judgment in handling financial matter. Your experience will help solve a problem. Show that you have poise at all times.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Keep the appointments that can be helpful in your career. If you are objective, you can take care of an unpleasant situation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget an emotional affair and concentrate on bettering your financial position. Show others that you have good judgment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Stop fretting about what cannot be helped and get busy doing something of a constructive nature. Show more devotion to loved one.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan your future more intelligently and stop fuming about what is annoying to you. Show more appreciation for your good friends.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will want happy and successful persons around to lean upon and feel safe with during adolescence, otherwise a phobia could result which your progeny could have difficulty shedding later in life. Direct the education along lines of psychology, personnel work, government and there could a fine life here. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Remarkable how many people in Sweden have the same surnames. So many, in fact, that the Swedish government with its computers recently invented 900,000 new names. And now those Swedes interested in taking on a fancy different last moniker are being invited to do so.

In those liquor lounges designed to attract unmarried customers, the men almost invariably outnumber the women. But at those resorts which feature anglois, weekends, the women generally outnumber the men considerably.

How would you like to be a professional egg breaker or thumb cutter or screen ape? The egg breaker does just that in a mass production bakery. The thumb cutter works in a glove factory. The screen ape tends the trembling screens that sort newly mined coal.

THE HARD FACTS

Older the part-time worker, the longer said citizen is apt to stay on the job. Now it can be reported, that 46 per cent of the population has never flown in planes. Income of medical interns has just about tripled in the last 10 years. Pink grapefruit has considerably more vitamin A than the white variety. Murder rates nationwide are at their peak when suicide rates are at their lowest and vice versa.

Our legislatures are sometimes referred to as solons, as is widely known, in honor of that ancient Greek lawmaker named Solon. Appropriate enough, I think. He was the fellow who legalized in that place in that day all the houses of prostitution.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

- Q "How many acres in a city block?"
- A Four plus, generally.
- Q "Not counting the United States, which country has the most universities?"
- A Japan. With 291.
- Q "What do alligators eat, mostly?"
- A Fish.
- Q "Which of cable cars first, San Francisco or Chicago?"
- A San Francisco. Be eight years.
- Q "How can you tell an ape from a monkey?"
- A Monkeys have tails, apes don't.

Employees at the Rheingold Brewery in Brooklyn take beer breaks, rather than coffee breaks, if they prefer. Rounds me of a print shop in Stuttgart, West Germany, years ago. Strong beer was at immediate hand throughout the composing room. In the makeup of a 12-page newspaper, old Bill White, now of Wenatchee, Wash., and I, used to allow ourselves each one beer per page. And we made up Page 1 last. It sure looked funny sometimes.

Idaho economist sees higher potato prices

MOSCOW — Higher potato prices at the grocery store are likely.

"Consumers may even occasionally see shelves bare of potatoes before next year's fall crop is harvested," according to Dr. Robert Sargent, University of Idaho extension agricultural economist.

The amount of stored potatoes in the 24 states which produce most of the fall crop is reported as 3.8 million hundredweight less than last year's short crop.

Idaho, one of the major producers, is in the same situation. There were two million hundredweight less potatoes in Idaho storage on Dec. 1 than at that time last year.

Sargent said a major reason for lower stored potato stocks is that processors have been using large quantities of potatoes in their plants.

For instance, processors in the seven major processing states — including Idaho — used 3.8 million hundredweight more potatoes for the season through Nov. 30 than during the comparable period in 1972, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Idaho's processing was up 2.3 million hundredweight.

Even though processors have been using greater amounts of potatoes, their cold storage stocks of frozen potato products were only 74 per cent of year earlier levels on Nov. 30, according to Sargent.

"This suggests demand for processed potato products remains strong," he said. "That demand is probably a reflection of the fact consumers found processed products were a better buy, relatively speaking, than fresh potatoes during much of the past year."

Record crop seen

SPOKANE, WASH. (UPI) — A U.S. Department of Agriculture reporting board survey predicts a record 126 million bushel wheat crop for Washington State in 1974.

The survey seemed to substantiate earlier predictions of a bumper wheat crop. The only exception was the drought that lasted through the summer, but with seasonally high rainfall the past several weeks in most of eastern Washington, the blighted areas are reported back to normal.

China harvest near record

By DAVID BONAVIA
Dispatch of the Times, London

PEKING — China's grain harvest this year seems to have exceeded, but only barely, the record levels of 1971.

A government announcement yesterday said that the harvest "topped" that of two years ago, but indicated that the recovery from last year's shortfall was not dramatic. It said the 1973 harvest rose by more than the annual average growth rate since 1949 — officially put at just under 4 per cent.

Last year, the harvest was 240-million tons of grain and sweet potatoes, 4 per cent less than in 1971. So the logical conclusion is that this year's harvest is little bigger than that of two years ago.

The harvest is somewhat of a disappointment for China's agricultural planners, who have to reckon with a population growth rate of 1 to 2 per cent each year.

While no one in China seems to be going hungry, it is now unlikely that grain rationing can be lifted in the near future.

especially since importance is attached to building up reserves in case of natural disasters or war.
