Nixon bans tape summaries

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has decided not to publicly release transcripts or summaries of the Watergate tapes because he and his senior advisers fear the tapes would convince growing segments of the public that Nixon was involved in the Watergate cover-up, the Washington Post said today.

The White House also decided Wednesday that it will resist attempts by the Senate Watergate Committee to obtain these materials, the paper said, and will make them available only to the House Judiciary Committee, which is investigating the possible impeachment of the President.

Ray denies assassination

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Convicted assassin James Earl Ray, denouncing his guilty plea of four years ago, said Thursday, "I never saw anybody shoot" Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Ray filed a $500,000 damage suit in federal court charging he was being held in "oppressive" confinement for a crime he did not commit. He asked to be removed from solitary confinement and to have his case reopened on the grounds his former attorney mishandled some evidence.

Arabs threaten Jackson

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Thursday called himself "an obvious target" of Arab terrorism and claimed he had been threatened because of his support for Israel.

Jackson declined to give details but said at a news conference, "I've been threatened by them and I've had to deal with that problem."

Jackson has been honored by several U.S. Jewish groups for his strong support of Israel in the Middle East conflict.

Turks sentence Americans

ANTAKYA, Turkey (UPI) — A criminal court sentenced three Americans to death today on charges of hashish smuggling, then commuted the sentences to life imprisonment.

The three, who were arrested last year at Cilvegözü on the Syrian border, were identified as Joanne Marie McDaniel, 30, of Coos Bay, Ore.; Catherine Zenz, 28, of Lancaster, Wis.; and Robert Hubbard, 23, hometown unknown.

Astros pass halfway point

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 3 astronauts passed the midpoint of their 84-day orbital space journey today, concentrating on comet Kohoutek as it sped around the sun and headed back to the far reaches of the solar system.

The mighty comet stood out like a spotlight on television pictures which the pilots sent to the ground just before its swing around the sun. It appeared to hover on the rim of the sun when the middle of the fiery star was blocked out.

Berrigan refuses award

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rev. Daniel Berrigan, who has been criticized recently for a speech attacking Israel, Thursday refused the Gandhi Peace award from Promoting Enduring Peace, a multi-religious group.

Berrigan called Israel a state created by "millionaires, generals and entrepreneurs" in a speech he made Oct. 10 to the Arab University Graduates Association.

Bodies sought from air

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Air Force technicians today began processing infrared aerial photographs taken of a rural area of north Brevard County where the bodies of four young women have been found in the past two months.

Sheriff Leigh Wilson said it was hoped the infrared aerial photos taken Thursday by a plane from nearby Patrick Air Force Base would reveal any more bodies that may be in a five-square mile area of woods and orange groves near the town of Mims.

Ford tops presidential list

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Harris Survey Thursday reported Vice President Gerald Ford running ahead of Sen. Edward Kennedy and Sen. Henry Jackson as top choice for the 1976 presidential election.

The Harris poll of 1,103 voters around the country showed Ford running ahead of Kennedy by 48 to 44 per cent.

Lonely gas saver

SOLITARY runner Joe Viverito is a lonesome figure as he comes down New York City's Northern Boulevard early Thursday. He ran 20 miles from his Long Island home to his office to save gasoline and draw attention to the energy crisis. "I saved a gallon and a half of gas but lost about five pounds of water," he said. Slight damage reported in Sun Valley Lodge fire

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News Writer

SUN VALLEY — Guests were evacuated from the Sun Valley Lodge early this morning after a fire broke out in the fourth floor attic, resulting in "minimal" damage.

According to Sun Valley fire chief, William Innes, the 2 a.m. fire caused no structural damage and "smoke and water damage was primarily contained in the southwest wing on the fourth floor. Cause of the blaze has not been determined.

One child was treated for smoke inhalation at the Moritz Community Hospital, Sun Valley, and released. No other injuries were reported.

Innes said about 20 Ketchikan and 24 Sun Valley volunteer firemen responded along with two pumper trucks and a ladder truck, which afforded access to the fourth floor.

At one point, Innes said, the fire broke through the roof but was rapidly contained. Firemen consumed about 26 bottles of air fighting the blaze, he said.

The fire was contained in about 45 minutes. The trucks remained on the scene until about 5:30 a.m.

Sun Valley Co., Inc., vice president of hotels and marketing, Ed Pilkerton said all lodge guests, about 300 persons, were evacuated but were returned to their rooms. Fourth floor guests were re-located in condominium units and are expected to return to their rooms by mid-afternoon.

The evacuation was described as "quick and orderly."

DECS asks welfare boost

By DAVID ESPO

Times-News Capitol Bureau
BOISE — A state agency has built a large increase in welfare payments into its proposed budget for next year.

The increase is above another large increase which went into effect this month.

The Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS) wants families getting aid for dependent children to receive grants calculated at 100 per cent of the December, 1971 consumer price index.

This month's checks were raised to 90 per cent of the costs two years ago. Before this month, checks were pegged at the 80 per cent level.

If approved, the total raise above last month's levels would be 25 per cent.

The increase would cost the state an additional $1.2 million, according to DECS director of management services Howard Jameson. The average monthly check, would be for $218.

The boost for the state's welfare-recipients would be in keeping with a statement DECS administrator James A. Bax made in an interview nearly a month ago. At that time, Bax said his department would seek about $30 million from the state's general fund for the next fiscal year, including an increase in the amount available to families with dependent children.

The proposed increase is included in material DECS has prepared for the budget division. It has not yet reached Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' desk, where it will be reviewed before being officially submitted to the 1974 legislature.

DECS officials said Wednesday there had been no commitment from Andrus.

Gas stations face big cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Energy director William Simon said today that new fuel allocation regulations to go into effect in mid-January will leave gas stations with about 20 per cent less fuel than their customers will demand.

Simon filed final regulations governing petroleum products Thursday for publication in the Federal Register. The regulations will take effect on Jan. 15.

Simon said today that the new allocation program will place the local gas station at the bottom of the priority list for fuel, and he acknowledged that the regulations would in effect amount to "a moderate form of rationing."

Coming ahead of gasoline for private automobiles will be essential services such as farms, hospitals, public transport and industries that produce fuel. Other business and industry would take next priority, and next would come gas stations.

Simon said on the CBS-TV Morning News the resulting shortage of gas would vary from area to area of the country, but "basically what we are looking at is a 20 per cent shortfall in our gasoline."

Simon has announced a standby gas rationing plan, and he says that a big factor in determining whether the plan will be implemented is whether Americans voluntarily limit themselves to a "target" of 10 gallons of gasoline per week.

Announcing the plan Thursday, federal energy chief William F. Simon said other factors affecting whether it is activated will be:

How much crude oil continues to "leak" to the United States through the Arab oil embargo.

This winter's weather, which affects how much crude oil must be diverted from production of gasoline to heating oil.

How successfully domestic refiners maintain their production and inventories.

"We know that families will find it necessary to exceed the 10-gallon target during some weeks," Simon said. "Therefore, if all American drivers took 10 gallons a week as a target, we would hope to get an overall cutback of between 25 and 30 per cent in total gasoline usage."

A 25 per cent cut, he said, would mean each driver reducing his weekly use of gasoline from the present average of 16.5 gallons to an average 12.4.

Figures reported so far show Americans cut their gasoline purchases 7.9 per cent from normal during the week ending Dec. 14—for short of the 25 per cent Simon hopes for. But that was before Simon's call last week for a voluntary 10 gallon limit.

The standby plan would give each licensed driver over 18 years of age an authorization card and a number of ration coupons each month—probably entitling him to 8 or 9 gallons per week.

Church trip claims girl

TWIN FALLS — A 12-year-old girl traveling to a holiday church convention was killed Thursday in an interstate accident about 15 miles east of Twin Falls.

Four other children were seriously injured in the accident which involved two vehicles, each carrying 10 persons.

Branda Faye Barber, Caldwell, died of internal injuries shortly after noon Thursday at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, according to County Coroner Cloyce Edwards.

She and her family and several other persons had been traveling in a church caravan from Caldwell to Flagstaff, Ariz., where the group planned to attend a church convention.

Four other children hospitalized following the accident were listed as improved today at the hospital. All suffered head injuries.

Frances Rene Barber, 5, who was in critical condition following the accident, remains in the intensive care unit today but is listed in fair condition.

Also in fair condition are Karen Barber, 9, and Lori Kay Bates, 11. Rita Barber, 10, is reported in good condition today.

The Barber children were riding in a station wagon driven by their father, Ronald Lee Barber, 37, Caldwell. Lori Bates was a passenger in a pickup truck driven by her mother, Lois Bates, 33, Caldwell.

State Police said both vehicles were eastbound on the ice covered highway about 10:40 a.m. when the Barber vehicle slowed down for another slow moving vehicle and went into a skid.

The Bates vehicle, following Barber, also slowed down. Police said it went out of control, sliding into the Barber auto and striking it in the right side. Both vehicles left the highway but did not overturn.

The Bates pickup truck had a camper shell in which most of its 10 passengers were riding. The two vehicles were owned by the Bates family and both were heavily damaged.

Autopsy due

RUPERT — An autopsy has been ordered into the death of the elderly Rupert woman who died Wednesday from injuries received in mysterious circumstances Christmas Eve.

Mindoka County Prosecutor Bob Neilson was meeting this morning with officers to discuss possibility of an inquest into the death of Mrs. John Praegltzer, 72, who was found lying in the road about 11:30 p.m. Monday at 450 North Meridian Road.

Her husband, 74, was listed in fair condition at Mindoka Memorial Hospital, but was not lucid. He was found lying in a drainage canal just off the road.

Valley businesses expect to feel gas pinch

TWIN FALLS — Rough times may lie ahead for many Magic Valley businesses when federal fuel conservation plans go into effect, a Times-News survey suggests.

Federal energy officials have said supplies available at gas stations will be reduced to 20 per cent below expected demand in mid-January.

Additionally, a 35-gallon-per-month rationing plan has been developed for possible implementation by March 1. Businesses ranging from ski resorts to beekeepers expect to be hurt.

"I'll be dead; I might just as well quit," Charles Miller, a Twin Falls beekeeper, said. He said normally he uses between $3,000 and $4,000 worth of gas of local bees between California and Idaho.

Thirty five gallons a month is going to almost put me on foot," Twin Falls realtor Kay Harrison said. Mrs. Harrison said the rationing would definitely be bad for her business in which she must show prospective buyers the lots for sale.

She said she could conduct some business by phone but that "nobody's going to buy sight unseen and they want a choice" between many lots. One way to save substantial gas would be to meet the likely buyers at the lots rather than pick them up at their homes.

However, this plan would hurt business. This way "I have a real slim chance of selling the product. How can I close a deal?"

John Rosholt, president of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, said he "would presume that the effect would not be that substantial."

However, he said rationing might have some effect on businesses dependent upon travel and tourism. Also, he predicted rationing would have some effect on business from out-of-town people. "The American people are pretty ingenious," car pools of people in outlying areas might be developed for work and shopping, he said.

"We're not going to be able to conduct our business on eight gallons a week," Carl Berg of Berg Insurance, Twin Falls, said. Berg said his company uses 11 to 12 gallons a week for local business alone. Handling business by phone or mail would "slow our business down so that it would actually hurt us," he said.

Handling the business by mail would be slow and there would always be the danger of loss of documents, he said.

He said if he could not get to a major car accident or fire loss, the processing of the insurance claims might be slowed down dramatically.

John Russeau, manager of McDonald's in Twin Falls, expects "some sort of decline" because the ski traffic would be cut down.

Gib Craggs, dealer for Craggs Chevron Station, said the mid-January 20 per cent cutback from expected demand would be "rough." "I'm out of gas now and have been out since about a week before Christmas," he said. He said he had "managed to get a hold of a little extra" gas, but would not reveal the source.

Ski resort owners in the Magic Valley area are watching the fuel regulations with considerable concern, admitting recreation will probably be the first industry to suffer from cutbacks.

Wally Huffman, vice president in charge of mountain management, said Sun Valley has already taken some voluntary steps to effect all possible fuel saving in mountain grooming and transportation.

The Magic Valley resort already receives about 70 per cent of its customer use from airline transportation or other public travel facilities. Resort officials say this will probably increase as the fuel shortages begin to pinch.

Negotiators try to break deadlock

GENEVA (UPI) — Israeli and Egyptian negotiators made a new attempt today to break a deadlock in troop pullback talks, but on the cease-fire lines both sides showed little sign of compromise.

The two nations' negotiators agreed to meet today at the Middle East peace conference for the second attempt to separate their forces along the increasingly tense Suez Canal cease-fire lines.

Brig. Gen. Mordechai Gur, the Israeli negotiator, and Brig. Gen. Tahal el Magdoub, the Egyptian delegate, met Wednesday at the Palais des Nations conference hall for the first time.

Diplomats said an accord on troop pullbacks along the 102-mile-long waterway was essential to further progress at the peace conference. The first face-to-face talks between Arabs and Israelis during their quarter-century conflict.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi flew back to Cairo with his peace delegation Thursday, leaving behind a military team to negotiate a troop withdrawal agreement.

A spokesman for Fahmi said he would return to Geneva only if a satisfactory agreement was reached on separation of the opposing armies along the waterway.

Israeli sources said, however, their troop pullback negotiator did not intend to introduce any new proposals at the talks until after Israel's general elections next Monday.

Israeli sources said Jerusalem was insisting its troops on the west bank of the canal simply exchange places with Egyptian forces on the east bank.

Egyptian sources said Cairo was demanding an Israeli pullback into the Sinai Peninsula giving the Arabs one-third of the desert.

Despite the opposing opening positions, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Thursday he believed there was "a good chance of progress" at the Geneva talks.

He told a news conference in Washington the "positive attitude" of the Soviet Union had helped improve the chances of the talks.

In Cairo, War Minister Gen. Ahmed Ismail Said called on Egyptians Thursday night to "continue our preparations for war to defend our freedom and our honor."

"Our battle has started but has not ended yet," he said. "It will not end except when we regain all our legitimate Arab rights."

In Tel Aviv, Israel accused Egypt of building two earthen causeways across the Suez Canal to bring heavy armor to troops in the Sinai desert.

Tel Aviv sources said the causeways, which cannot be seen from Israeli-held territory, were similar to one Israel built to send supplies to its troops on the west bank of the canal.

Only qualification

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Miss Nude-Cosmopolitan contest will move to Canada this year to avoid U.S. nudity laws, Atlanta promoter Sparky Williams said. He decided to go north after Boston and Knoxville, Tenn., refused to host the six-year-old event. It will be held March 2 in Toronto, he said. There is only one qualification for the contest: "All an applicant must know how to do is wear high heeled shoes," Williams said.

Antitrust filed to dairymen

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Justice Department has filed civil antitrust charges against a dairy cooperative which has been under investigation in connection with contributions to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

In a suit filed Thursday in U.S. District Court here, the government charged that Mid-America Dairymen Inc. attempted to monopolize milk sales and restrain trade in a 10 state area through practices that eliminated competition from independent producers.

It accused the company of entering into illegal agreements with milk haulers to restrain the ability of independents to transport their milk to processors.

Mid-America, headquartered in Springfield, Mo., has about 19,000 milk producer members.

Ski conditions said excellent

TWIN FALLS — Skiers can't go wrong this weekend, according to condition reports from all area resorts.

New snow ranging from 3 to 15 inches has fallen in various areas during the past few days and all resorts have "excellent" conditions. All resorts are operating every day with bus service available.

Magic Mountain reports a total depth of 40 inches at lower lift terminals and 60 inches at the top. A grand opening event is planned at the resort for both Saturday and Sunday.

The area will operate daily through Jan. 6 and will then resume the regular Wednesday through Sunday operation.

Roads have been cleared but snow tires or chains are required. No uphill traffic is allowed between 3 and 5 p.m. on days the resort opens.

Soldier Mountain lists 15 inches of new snow with total depths of 40 inches at the lower levels and 60 inches on top of the slopes. The road is snow packed and plowed but snow tires or chains are recommended.

Soldier also operates daily through Jan. 6 and will then be operating Wednesday through Sunday.

Pomerelle has 10 inches of new snow with depths from 54 inches at the bottom to 76 inches at the upper lift terminal. The resort operates seven days a week throughout the season.

A report in the Times-News Wednesday saying the resort would operate only five days a week after the holidays is in error. The area operates daily through the winter season. Snow tires and chains are also required to reach Pomerelle.

Roto-Run reports 16 inches of snow on a well packed base. The lift is operating daily through Jan. 1 and will then open on weekends only.

Sun Valley has 13 inches of new snow during the week with total depths of 51 inches on the top of Baldy Mountain and 40 inches at the Roundhouse. There are 19 inches on the valley floor. Helicopter skiing is reported excellent. All facilities at Sun Valley and Elkhorn are now in operation.

Skiing at Galena Summit is excellent with 60 inches of snow, 14 inches of which is new powder.

Bus service is available daily during the holiday operations to all resorts. Buses leave Twin Falls at 7:45 a.m. for Pomerelle; 8 a.m. for Soldier Mountain and 8:30 a.m. for Magic Mountain. The Pomerelle bus operates from the Blue Lakes Shopping Center and the others leave from Newton's Sports Center.

Snowmobiling is listed as safe to good in areas where new snow depths are high but adequate snow is listed in all areas at this time. Smiley Creek lists 28 inches of snow with a 10 inch new powder covering and Stanley has 22 inches of which 10 inches is new snow.

Banner Creek has 30 inches of which 10 inches is new.

"Frostie" the snowman

WARMER weather Thursday afternoon brought the energy crisis to this snowman: his cheeks, eyes, teeth and buttons dropped out and then he began to drip away. Bruce Kulm, Twin Falls, and a group of enthusiastic children built Frostie during Thursday morning's snowfall.

Forest timber sold

TWIN FALLS — Nearly ten million board feet of timber was sold to highest bidders Thursday by Sawtooth National Forest officials here.

Phil Straub, project timber staff specialist, said the sales all brought appraised prices or higher.

The biggest sale involved 2.43 million board feet in the Alta Creek area north of Featherville. About 91 per cent of this sale involved ponderosa pine and was high quality. Straub said. The remaining was Douglas fir and other species.

The timber brought a high bid of $175 per 1,000 board feet with the successful bidder being Sawtooth Lumber Co., Mountain Home. The firm outbid Boise Cascade Corp. for the total amount of timber in the cutting. Straub said the appraised figure had been set at $94.02 on the ponderosa pine and $77.23 on the fir and other species.

Another sale involved 1.2 million board feet of timber on Moran Creek in the Ketchum ranger district east of Hailey. This sale was made Dec. 4 with Wendell Mills, Fairfield, paying the appraised price of $45.64 per thousand feet.

Another Thursday sale involved 2.6 million board feet of Douglas fir and other species on Placer Creek up Warm Springs drainage in the Ketchum district. This was purchased by Wendell Mills, the only bidder, for the appraised price of $57.04 per thousand board feet.

The final sale Thursday involved 4.89 million feet of Douglas and alpine fir in the Miller Creek area north of Fairfield. The price of $57.27 for the Douglas and $63.41 for the alpine and other species was offered by Wendell Mills. This was the Sawtooth appraiser's advertised price.

Straub said most of the timber sales areas have been involved in inventoried roadless areas and sales have been held up pending environmental studies and plans for future use of the areas.

The sales have been planned for some two years but could not be completed until now, he said. They are all part of the existing Sawtooth five-year timber program approved some time ago, he said.

TF man, 20, serves sentence

TWIN FALLS — Michael Dennis Johnson, 20, Twin Falls, was in the county jail today to begin serving a 30 day sentence ordered by Magistrate Court Judge Daniel Meehl after Johnson neglected to pay a traffic fine.

Judge Meehl sentenced Johnson to 30 days in the county jail in September and then suspended the sentence in favor of a $50 fine and costs. The man pleaded guilty to violation of the basic rule and failing to carry a driver's license. He was allowed to make payments on the fine, but the court stated he had failed to make payments on a regular basis and issued a bench warrant for his appearance. He was sentenced to jail for 30 days Thursday by Judge Meehl, for being in contempt of court.

Studies in Greece

Richard A. Hughes, 20, son of the Rev. and Mrs. James B. Hughes, is among 15 students from Pepperdine University and Linfield College selected to study anthropology under Dr. Dorothy Lee and Clayton Burrell of Pepperdine.

Dr. Lee is former chairman of the Harvard anthropology department.

Hughes is a senior at Linfield College, McMinnville, Oregon. He is majoring in psychology and anthropology and minoring in political science and philosophy.

The past semester he was managing editor of the Linfield newspaper.

Students participating in the "winter trimester in Greece" will spend the first seven weeks living in Athens studying modern Greek conversation and anthropology. The latter eight weeks will emphasize field study, including research in Jerusalem and cruising among the islands.

Hughes will be Dr. Burrell's paid administrative assistant. Classes begin Jan. 3 in Athens. The program formally ends on April 12.

Dr. Burrell, originator of the program, taught at Linfield until this year. He started the college's summer cruise to Alaska and "Lincampo" program of academic study and travel in Guadalajara, Mexico.

Student cars

Administration Energy Chief William E. Simon correctly urged the nation's high school students who drive to school to take the bus instead.

In perhaps the clearest example of unnecessary use of fuel, a large number of high school students drive their own or their parents' car to school each day. The large Twin Falls High School parking lot is nearly filled with student cars each day.

A student's desire to drive a car to school is understandable. Many high school students feel a need to increase their independence and personal control over their lives. Access to a car often has been one means of fulfilling this need.

Of course the practice is wildly wasteful. High school students can ride the bus to school as well as younger students.

Now with fuel shortages upon us, students can establish their maturity in a new way. They can keep their cars at home and ride the bus to school each day.

Mideast boundaries

Oceanic Blade-Tribune

While we have great admiration for Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and his accomplishments towards world peace, we shuddered at a suggestion which came from him in an interview for television made in China during his diplomatic mission there.

He was quoted as saying that the administration is considering a treaty or some form of formal guarantee of Israel's security if it withdraws from occupied lands as part of a peace settlement with the Arabs.

By this we would presume he meant a guarantee of boundaries, which would be arrived at in bargaining with the Arabs.

We think it is one thing for the United States to aid Israel as it has in the past. It is quite another for this country to guarantee the territorial integrity of any other nation.

The Middle East has been, is, and will be a hotbed of trouble for years to come. It is an area which holds a potential for a disastrous nuclear confrontation.

We do not think the people of the country want to enter into a treaty or pact which will mean that we are inextricably meshed in the fortunes of Israel versus the Arab world.

While Dr. Kissinger did not say how such an agreement would be enforced, it implies weapons, certainly, and perhaps military force.

Israel is giving notice that it is going to be a very stubborn negotiator in any peace conference. Mrs. Moir is already rejecting any call for the establishment of ceasefire lines based on the positions of the warring nations on October 22nd.

Such lines are imaginary and a propaganda ploy of Egypt and Russia, she said.

Thus, Israel does not admit the existence of a line as of October 22. Instead it wants the present lines, which were the result of its armed forces encircling the Egyptian Third Army after the cease-fire.

While Israel says the resumption of military action was taken as the result of Arab attacks, there is no doubt that the additional territory taken was and is being looked upon as bargaining material for the conference ahead.

Dissatisfaction was voiced in Israel when its forces halted their advance after having trapped the Egyptian army. While we do not think Israel was looking to territorial aggrandizement, in this instance, there is no doubt that the worth of additional land under Israel command, as a negotiation point, was not overlooked.

Dr. Kissinger, we feel sure, is hoping to persuade Israel to agree to give up territory captured in the 1967 war, and perhaps earlier than that.

He is hoping for a settlement that the Arabs will accept. And he is also hoping for a calm, or even peace in the Middle East. All of these are very worthy motives.

But we do not think that the United States wants to pay the very high price of a treaty guaranteeing Israel territory. We do not think ratification of such a treaty would be possible in the Congress.

Israel and the Arabs must work out their own peace. Terms enforced from above by us or by Russia would merely light the fuse of another conflagration.

Above all we must not be a party to the peace by treaty, or other formal agreement.

It is time we showed a little enlightened self-interest. And that should not be interpreted as agreeing to Arab oil blackmail, either.

Washington playing down energy crisis

WASHINGTON — Five months ago, a major US company, alarmed by closing gasoline pumps and its own projections of the energy shortage, came to Washington seeking estimates from the Nixon administration on the dimensions of the crisis.

It got lavish quantities of soothing syrup, predictions the energy shortfall would be "no more than 2 or 3 per cent" and advice not to worry.

Angry at this refusal to analyze what may be the most serious economic and cultural shock for the US since the great depression, this went back to its own drawing boards to try and take stock.

The incident was a forerunner of the administration's apparent decision to downplay the energy crisis, avoid the facts and hope that it will disappear.

In fact, far from disappearing, the dimly perceived dimensions of the shortage are now the subject of more political debate and speculation than Watergate. The theme: "President Nixon is encouraging a dangerously unrealistic mood about the energy crisis by forecasts of quick recovery."

Thus, the "assessment and analysis" of the energy emergency compiled by Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, denounced the administration for having its head in the sands. "The information required to determine and assess the extent of impending energy shortages," said Jackson, "has been available in the public domain, but no agency of the federal government has compiled or made any competent analysis of such data. There has been no adequate analysis of the anticipated social and economic impacts of projected fuel shortages."

Far worse, Jackson said the shortages "and the threat they pose to the economy and to national security exceed by far any savings resulting from measures taken by the executive branch."

That warning has been sounded again and again to President Nixon. More than a year ago, Secretary of Interior Rogers Morton briefed Nixon on the coming crisis. The President asked Morton to give him briefings every three months.

But, overwhelmed by his personal crisis over Watergate, the President never did ask Morton back.

Likewise, in his speech early this month to the Seniors Union, Nixon referred to the energy crisis "that we have for this year, a crisis that was made much more difficult because of what has happened in the Mideast over the past three to four weeks."

In fact, the "crisis that we have for this year" will be nothing compared to the next 10 years, as demand for dwindling fossil fuels rises and the American proportion goes down.

Moreover, some presidential aides talk blithely about "breakthroughs" and "crash programs" to extract oil from shale and gas from coal within the next few years.

In fact, it will be at least five years before either form of new energy supplies will even have reached the demonstration plant stage. The problem of getting oil out of shale is staggering.

That offers some idea of the future problem. Indeed, politicians and engineers studying the energy crisis believe the US and the entire industrialized world may be caught in a near-fatal squeeze without any real solution.

That may also be a slight hyperbole, but not nearly so dangerous as the President's hyperbole in talking about a one-year crisis.

Fringe Benefits

Aides running store

(c) Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — Who's running the store? That question gets asked frequently these days as President Nixon seeks to regain his executive footing in the quicksand of Watergate and other political snarls.

The evidence is strong that Nixon is mainly involved in plans and projects to restore his credibility, leaving foreign, military and domestic affairs to the day-to-day direction of strong-minded cabinet officers.

Administration aides emphasize Nixon has not abdicated his responsibilities or lost interest in the dominant issues of his administration. They openly resent any suggestion that he has been crippled by scandal to the point of political impotence.

At the same time, they concede that the White House is now surrounded by powerful principalities whose chieftains operate with a freer hand than ever before during the Nixon tenure.

"We've got a lot of scrambling room," and we feel needed now; that's the main difference," one official said privately.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, for example, is perceived by administration watchers as being more than a mere presidential agent. "Henry's making it up as he goes along," observed one official. "He knows the perimeters of his authority and he pushes to the very edges of them."

Kissinger's second role as a presidential assistant for national security affairs gives him a tactical flexibility in carrying out strategic designs.

It also gives him a strong voice in defense policy, although the Pentagon's civilian chief, James Schlesinger, knows as much about military requirements as anyone in town, and more than anyone who might second-guess him at the White House.

Fortunately, Schlesinger and Kissinger have comparable backgrounds as scholar-strategists and generally share the same world view.

In the domestic area, treasury Secretary George P. Shultz is in charge of co-ordinating economic policy abroad as well as at home. A former Shultz deputy, William E. Simon has shown a taste for authority that may help him set up a power satellite of his own.

This triumvirate — Kissinger, Schlesinger and Shultz — is buttressed by a fourth center of considerable power and authority, the Office of Management and Budget headed by Roy L. Ash.

The ultimate status of Vice President Gerald R. Ford has never been established. If precedent serves as any guide, Ford will be given chores of varying importance by the President but will not be empowered to act with any independence.

However, because of the President's diminished political authority, Ford may find power sources outside Washington, much as his predecessor did.

The store is being run by cabinet officials and agency heads who have a good idea of the Nixon goals and objectives.

One uncertain element in the White House operations is the scope of Gen. Alexander Haig's authority.

Cairo-Jerusalem-Beirut alliance proposed

(c) New York Times Service

GENEVA — If the Arab-Israeli conference is to accomplish its proclaimed goal of peace in the Middle East, there won't be a sign of any positive action for at least a month.

Not that Israel's forthcoming elections and subsequent creation of a new cabinet comprise the stumbling block; simply that complex modern negotiations take ages to progress. Vietnam is an example.

The precise shape of a future Israel is less important, than its future role in the Middle East. Hitherto, Israeli governments have placed minimal emphasis upon their aspirations to be integrated into regional, social and economic structures. Forced by ceaseless conflict to give priority to defense and secure frontiers, they have been content to appear as a "European" intrusion in the Levant.

Now, in the wake of the fourth outbreak of fighting, it is time peacemaking efforts should focus not only on leashing the dogs of war but also on a new political program integrating the Jewish state, into the geographical area it inhabits.

There is a logical pattern for this: creation of a Cairo-Jerusalem-Beirut Axis. Egypt is a primarily agricultural hinterland capable of intensive development with technical and financial assistance. Israel has a talented technological superstructure but little space in which to develop it. And Lebanon is the most skillful trading and banking country in the area.

There is far less bitterness and fanaticism among these three countries than most people assume. The Egyptians are by heritage an ancient Nilotic people boasting the world's oldest national state.

The Lebanese remain essentially those same Phoenicians who were famous in commerce more than 20 centuries ago. A considerable portion of their population is non-Islamic.

Lebanon has never been at war with Israel, and one of the few contemporary assumptions in the Middle East is that Beirut will be "the second capital" to make peace with Israel.

The three countries joining under the Mediterranean's eastern shore complement each other economically; if a settlement acceptable to Israel's other neighbors can be forged, the start of mutual cooperation would be logical.

Certainly Israel would have to pay the price of admission by altering security concepts which hitherto have insisted on territorial acquisition. But that admission fee would render Israel more eligible for membership.

Moreover, if a sensible solution is not devised there is no prospect that Israel will ever cease to exist.

Nature's ire awaited

WASHINGTON — It is undoubtedly significant that one must descend to the sixth definition of flying in Webster's Collegiate before finding: "To traverse the air in an aircraft; to fly aircraft."

Some people like to fly. Some don't, but fly anyway because they feel they have to. Businessmen are a majority in this category (time is money). Millions of people in the United States are so scared of flying that they wouldn't take a jumbo jet three blocks. Flying mostly bores many airline passengers, including this one.

How many people are afraid to fly? It depends on who's doing the talking.

I have flown with some regularity since World War II, when one of Pan Am's old flying boats, misnamed Clippers, bore me from LaGuardia Field in New York to Shannon, Ireland, enroute to assignment as a war correspondent. The flight took 19 hours, including stops practically everywhere but Manchester, N. H. Because comfort and convenience are important to me, the flight was tedious rather than exciting or frightening.

I have a feeling I shouldn't be up there, that I am breaking one of Nature's laws and that some day Nature will strike. I still find most annoying about taking an airplane the journey to and from airports and the interminable delays in delivery of my baggage.

Between times, I have been scared out of my wits.

One nightmare occurred during a bumpy night flight across Lake Erie from Cleveland to Detroit in the late 1950s when the stewardess suddenly announced that the cabin in the ancient DC-4 was "filled with gasoline fumes, so please don't smoke."

Another bad moment was when the blith pilot flying me over the frozen Alaskan tundra in mid-January kept swiveling from a bottle of bourbon. There was also the time I rode pogyback in a Black Widow to observe the strafing of some German railroads. Nobody had told me about those sudden dives through asky filled with flak.

In fact, I am afraid of heights. I will not climb anything higher than a stepladder. But I don't mind being locked into a 747 which shortly will climb to 30,000 feet. Somehow, being inside makes everything right.

Those profound speeches do have some use

WASHINGTON — One of the reasons for having a holiday season is to give congressmen and senators a chance to go home and find out what the American voter is thinking.

In the past, our lawmakers have gone through the motions of talking to their constituents, but this year they've traveled home with a certain amount of trepidation.

"Hi there, Mr. Coleslaw. I'm Congressman Upchuck and I'd like to have a few words with you."

"I don't want any."

"I'm not selling anything, Mr. Coleslaw. I just want to find out how you feel about the great issues of the day so I can do my job better in Washington. Now, how's everything been working for you?"

"What can you do about me not working?"

"Congress can do a lot of things. Pass a law, offer a resolution, filibuster if we have to."

ART BUCHWALD

"Do you mind if I ask why you're not working?"

"Place I worked at made shoelaces for shoes made in another place. Other place couldn't make shoes because they couldn't get leather from the leather company. The leather company couldn't get leather because there was no diesel fuel to get the cows to market. Truck drivers wouldn't deliver diesel fuel to diesel filling stations because they was losing money driving 55 miles an hour. That's why I ain't making shoe laces."

"Mr. Coleslaw, you're a victim of the energy crisis! Do you know I warned the country about the energy crisis three years ago?"

"Upchuck, will you get out of here?"

"Now, wait a minute, Mr. Coleslaw, I want to know everything that's bothering you. Tell me, Coleslaw, besides being out of work and havin' no money, what else irritates you?"

"Too many crooks in Washington, startin' with that guy who keeps saying he ain't one. I'm glad you brought that up, Coleslaw. Would you be for or against impeachment?"

"I'd settle if he just paid his income tax."

"Well, I have to be going now. I hope in the next election you'll remember that I did come to see you about your problems."

"Yup. Say, you got any other speeches I can have?"

"I certainly do. I'm flattered you want to read them."

"Read them? Heck, I'm goin' to burn 'em to help save on firewood."

Answers given on gas rationing program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Questions and answers on the standby gasoline rationing program outlined Thursday by the Federal Energy Office and other effects of the Arab oil embargo and price increases:

Q. What is a standby rationing program?

A. One in which all preparations are made, but it waits in the wings until and unless it is ordered into effect in an emergency.

Q. Is it likely to be put into effect?

A. That's hard to say. Federal officials continue to say they hope measures already taken can avert oil rationing.

Q. What would set it off?

A. William E. Simon, head of the Energy office, says several things—failure of the voluntary effort, an end to the "leakage" of imported oil around an Arab embargo, failure of any substantial part of the refining capacity.

Q. What preparations will be made meanwhile?

A. A three-month supply of rationing coupons will be printed. Federal officials will contact local officials and arrange for rationing boards to be named. Guidelines will be prepared on how much gasoline each driver would get.

Q. How would the system work?

A. Each licensed driver over age 18 would get an authorization card. Then he could pick up gasoline rationing coupons each month—color-coded differently each month—in amounts set by his position on a priority system. He would pay $1 each month for his package of coupons, and turn a certain number of them in each time he buys gas, until his coupons are used up.

Q. What would determine the priority?

A. The number of coupons would be determined by the population density of the area in which a driver lives, and by the availability of other transportation.

Q. Like where, for example?

A. For instance, New York City drivers might get somewhat less gasoline on the average than a Los Angeles driver—the New York driver lives in a more concentrated area and Los Angeles has very little public transit.

Q. What about taxis and other drivers who need much more gasoline than the ordinary driver?

A. The announcement said special arrangements will be made for them.

Q. Would bulk sales of gasoline, such as to a rental car fleet owner, be covered by rationing?

A. No. Bulk sales (and "bulk sales" are defined in the rules) would continue to come under the mandatory fuel allocation programs already announced.

Q. What if a driver runs out of coupons and needs gasoline?

A. He can buy coupons from anybody who has some left over.

Q. Where do you get your monthly supply of coupons?

A. Probably from banks and savings and loan associations and post offices—the details are not firm.

Q. If you bought coupons from somebody else, what would the price be?

A. Whatever the two of you agreed upon.

Q. How much gasoline would a driver get each month?

A. That depends on many variables. If the system were in effect now, officials estimate, a driver probably would get 32 to 35 gallons a month.

Q. Who would run the system?

A. Local rationing boards, which will also handle appeals for more coupons.

Q. Why not put rationing into effect immediately?

A. The administration believes Americans may get out of the fuel crisis without requiring rationing, Simon said. It depends on how well Americans continue to respond to the voluntary things and other mandatory programs already in effect.

Q. Couldn't people counterfeited the coupons and make a killing?

A. Officials said they should be as hard to counterfeit as a dollar bill, although about half the size.

Q. What effect will the doubling of crude oil prices by the Arab oil-producing states likely have on Europe?

A. The cost of living for the broad mass of Europeans will probably increase substantially. Just about everything is likely to cost a good deal more, including such basic items as housing, clothing, medicine and food.

Q. What effect will all this have on Europe's hard-won prosperity?

A. The prosperity of most European nations depends to a large extent on their ability to sell goods to each other and to other parts of the world. Increased fuel costs will mean higher manufacturing costs. This will drive up the price of European goods abroad and thus make them less competitive.

Q. How will European currencies be affected?

A. Foreign exchange dealers predict that European currencies—particularly the British pound—will suffer far more than the U.S. dollar. This is because a country's currency tends to weaken abroad when its world trading position suffers. The dollar is less likely to be affected because the United States imports only a percent of its crude oil requirements from the Middle East and the Persian Gulf.

Q. How did Japan react to news that the Arab countries agreed to increase oil production by 10 percent for Japan and other "friendly" nations.

A. The stock market reacted with enthusiasm. However, there was little optimism among professional oil men.

Q. Why did the oil industry remain gloomy?

A. Because of the steep price increases that preceded the latest Arab action.

Opinions on gas rationing vary

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., chairman of the House Energy Committee, says he believes the administration will have to put its standby gasoline rationing plan into effect within a year.

Some other members of Congress, questioned as they vacationed in home districts, said they don't believe the energy crisis is as bad as the government has contended and see no need for rationing.

Quakers call on Nixon to resign

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—The clerk of the Stamford-Greenwich Religious Society of Friends Wednesday said the group has decided to call on President Nixon's Quaker background and urge him to resign.

Carl Hollander of Old Greenwich, spokesman for the group, said its 10-member executive committee voted at its monthly meeting Dec. 16 to ask Nixon to resign "as one who shared their beliefs." He said notice of the decision was delayed because of a catastrophic ice storm that played havoc with communications in Connecticut for a week.

Hollander said the President was addressed in a letter simply as Richard Nixon, not out of disrespect, but according to the Quaker tradition "that all men are equal in the sight of God."

The letter called on Nixon, "who has on various occasions referred to your Quaker background," to "respect the traditional testimonies of the society."

However difficult it may be to step down, the letter said, "it would aid in dispelling the atmosphere of corruption in our national government."

were made to shuttles and plates of cookies were also taken to shuttles. The group participated with other groups from Hansen and Murtaugh in delivering gifts at the Magic Valley Living Center, Twin Falls.

If an all day meeting is required for officers of the eastern district of UMW the local church will serve the luncheon for them at the Kimberly church.

Mrs. Grace Durk, Mrs. Willard Brewster, Mrs. Don Kilborn and Mrs. Frank Palmer were hostesses.

Alaskan slides shown

SHOSHONE — Slides of Alaska were shown at a special meeting of the Assembly of God Church Wednesday night, along with a report by layman missionary, Violet Christopherson, Twin Falls.

She told of her experiences in missionary work in Alaska last summer over a several week period, and announced she will be leaving around Jan. 1 to spend an entire year there doing more work along that line.

Specifically, she will be working in the Haines area with children and will be teaching music, an area which she felt is now being neglected.

After driving to Seattle, she will take a ferry to her location in Alaska.

Stein outlines bleak economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supplies of gasoline, heating oil and other fuels will become even tighter in January and February, according to President Nixon's top economic adviser.

But when supplies begin to loosen, Herbert Stein says, soaring prices will spur a "steep increase in inflation."

Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, spoke Thursday in a monetary review of 1973 and preview of 1974.

"Our economy will grow, and grow rapidly, but the Arabs will own more of it," Stein said.

While oil-producing nations will take a bigger bite of the dollar, yen, pound, franc and mark in 1974, Stein said, there are likely greater benefits for the United States than other consuming countries. He said the Arabs will probably increase their investments and purchases in America.

Inflation should ease to about 4.5 per cent in the second half of 1974 after an initial leap, Stein said. However, he said he was reluctant to talk about future economic conditions because of the "uncertainty" of energy supplies and prices and the role that administration energy policy would play.

"The period of maximum shortage (of fuel) lies immediately ahead for us," Stein said.

He said oil prices will soar when Arab supplies resume to the United States, but the increases will ease after a few months. "Even for Arabs there is a ... maximum-price," Stein and Gary L. Seavers, a council member, both predicted food prices would continue to rise, but slower than the 19.6 per cent rate in 1973.

There will be a "definite" upward thrust of food prices in the first six months.

Seavers said. The second six months are "uncertain" because world consumer demand for U.S. foods may decline because of pricing.

In other economic developments: —The Agriculture Department reported that the annual retail cost of a typical grocery basket rose $14, or 0.9 per cent, to $1,634 in November, from October.

Kohoutek speaks

PHOTOGRAPH of comet Kohoutek provides backdrop for Lubos Kohoutek, the Czech astronomer who discovered it. Kohoutek was in a Washington press briefing Thursday, part of his tour of the United States for NASA. (UPI)

Scientists 'dim' Kohoutek

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The comet Kohoutek may be carrying potentially significant clues to the mysterious origins of the solar system, but it's likely to be a disappointment as a nighttime spectacular, U.S. space scientists say.

Stephen B. Maran, head of the space agency's Operation Kohoutek, said at a news conference Thursday that scientists observing the comet have discovered it contains a complex molecule, called methylcyanide. The discovery could pinpoint the origin of the comet—and the solar system itself in the empty interstellar space at the center of the Milky Way.

But Maran, appearing with Lubos Kohoutek, the 38-year-old Czech-born astronomer who discovered the comet last March through his telescope at a Hamburg observatory, said it now appears the comet will be several degrees dimmer than astronomers had hoped.

Currently circling behind the sun, it will become visible again on Jan. 2 and should be at its brightest in the evening sky between Jan. 5 and 20. But the diminished luster will make it harder to see and could reduce the amount of tail visible behind the head, NASA officials said.

Discovery of the methylene cyanide molecule was made by a team of radio astronomers at the National Radio Astronomical Observatory on Kitts Peak outside Tucson, Ariz., early in December. Using an 11-meter antenna, they listened for and received the molecule's characteristic frequency.

Word of the discovery had circulated in the scientific community, but it was first reported publicly Thursday.

Grocery basket cost boost told

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The annual retail cost of a typical grocery basket rose $14, or 0.9 per cent, in November because food industry middlemen fattened their margins sharply for the third consecutive month, an Agriculture Department report showed Thursday.

The expanded marketing costs more than offset another decline in farm prices.

The monthly report showed retail beef prices edged down again last month to the lowest level since last February. But the total retail market basket cost, which had declined for two straight months after hitting a record in August, rose from a rate of $1,620 per year in October to $1,634 last month compared with $1,330 in November, 1972.

On a weekly basis, the November cost was $31.42, up 27 cents from October and $5.84 above a year earlier, but 37 cents below the August record.

The report showed consumer food bills would have declined another 1 per cent in November, instead of rising, if food processors and retailers had passed onto consumers the latest installment in a substantial decline in farm prices which began after mid-August. Farm prices for foods in the market basket slid another 2.2 per cent in November for a total 15.7 per cent decline since August, but the spread between farm and retail prices widened another 3.3 per cent in November for a 13.7 per cent gain since August.

The farm-to-retail spread had narrowed last summer when farm prices were booming and middlemen were absorbing part of the raw product gains rather than passing them all on to consumers. The government also had clamped price controls on retail food sellers.

The farm-to-retail spread represents middlemen's charges including both costs and profits, for handling the U.S. farm-produced foods included in the market basket. The basket represents a selection of foods needed for a theoretical household of 3.2 persons.

Hughes hit by indictment

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — It is a matter of question whether Howard Hughes can be hauled from behind the walls of wealth and foreign laws that shield his floating hermitage to face a federal conspiracy indictment, the first criminal charges brought against him.

Hughes, the reclusive billionaire whose activities have become enmeshed in the Watergate investigation, and four of his former top associates, were indicted by a federal grand jury Thursday on charges of conspiracy and stock manipulation in the acquisition of Hughes Aircraft.

Hughes, 60, who has not been seen in public in 20 years, may have been taking precautions against the possibility of such an indictment when he moved a week ago from London to Freeport in the Bahamas.

The Bahamian government refused to extradite financier

Robert Vesco on a wire fraud charge recently.

The 42-year-old extradition treaty between the United States and the Bahamas is aimed primarily at those charged with crimes of violence, or common theft, it was reported.

Hughes has said that he fears that if he ever surfaced in a court, a great number of legal papers would be served on him, and he would be a prisoner of lawsuits for the rest of his life.

The main target of the grand jury was the purchase by the Hughes Tool Co. — then Hughes' chief operating arm — of Arwest in 1968 for $130 million, including $40 million in liabilities.

Grand opening set

TWIN FALLS — Although Magic Mountain has been in operation most of December, new owners have announced plans for a grand opening this weekend.

The resort now boasts plenty of snow including a new eight inches which fell Thursday.

Events will include ski races for children of various age groups and some novelty adult races. Prizes will be awarded skiers throughout the two days with a grand prize of a season's ski pass to be awarded on Sunday.

The resort reports it is operating with a free rope tow for children and beginners. All facilities will be open for the weekend including the newly remodeled lodge complete with a lounge serving beer and hot wine.

Special show set

KETCHUM — Broadway and Hollywood singing star Melva Niles will present a holiday gift to the community with a special show scheduled Saturday evening in Ketchum.

"The Melva Niles Show" will be staged at 8 p.m. at the Ketchum LDS Church Cultural Hall Theatre on Sun Valley Road. Seating will be free and unreserved.

The show has played to 49 standing ovations in its last 51 performances.

Miss Niles has starred in such Broadway hits as "Song of Norway," "Brigadoon," "Kiss Me Kate," "Showboat," "King & I," "Great Waltz" and "Magdalena."

A highlight of the one-woman show will be a presentation of condensed features of "I Do, I Do" and "Fiddler on the Roof" — which Miss Niles has starred in during the past few years — in musical vignette form.

Sentence starts Friday

SHOSHONE — James Trowbridge, 24, Shoshone, Friday begins a five-year term in the state penitentiary on a charge of grand larceny.

Trowbridge was sentenced by Fifth District Judge Charles Scoggin after being convicted on a cattle rustling charge brought by Lincoln and Gooding County enforcement officers. Attorneys for Trowbridge had earlier appealed the sentence to the Idaho Supreme Court but the court upheld the sentence.

Lincoln County sheriff's officers were directed to deliver Trowbridge to the prison Thursday afternoon.

Fuel saved

POCATELLO Idaho (UPI) — City Manager Charles Moss, has ordered police patrol units to stop their cars for 10 minutes each hour to save fuel.

Moss said the 10 minute stops are one way to save money at a time when the city faces a possible 30 per cent reduction in the availability of gasoline and a 50 per cent increase in fuel costs.

Road temporarily closed

ALBION — Between a foot and 18 inches of new snow which has fallen since a storm began Thursday closed the road to Pomerelle temporarily Friday morning.

Cassia County Highway District plows were sent out for re-enforcements when the first plow was unable to reach the area by 9 a.m.

Woody Anderson, resort owner, said the road would be open later in the day but as of 10 a.m. even the employees had not arrived. He said the snow was continuing.

Burglary probed

TWIN FALLS — A burglary at the Twin Falls Public Library was under investigation today by city police.

Police Capt. Tim Qualls said someone entered the library sometime after 9 p.m. Wednesday and prior to 8:05 a.m. Thursday. Only the soft drink and candy machines were broken into. An undetermined amount of change was taken, officers said.

Capt. Qualls also reported an arrest earlier this week of a 17 and a 19-year-old has cleared up an attempted safe burglary at Step-Ken Auto Dec. 16.

He said the building was entered and an attempt was made to open the safe but nothing was taken.

Coroner awaits report

SUN VALLEY — Blaine County coroner Bruce Rnthke said today an autopsy report is expected in about one week on a California woman who was found dead in a Sun Valley Lodge room Thursday morning.

Sun Valley police chief Dade Cain identified the woman as Janice Howerton, 29, San Diego. Cain said the body was discovered about 8:30 a.m. and said Ms. Howerton had apparently died in her sleep.

Investigation into the death is continuing, Cain said. The autopsy was performed Thursday at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, Twin Falls.

The body was taken to Bird Funeral Home, Haily, and will be transferred to San Diego for funeral services and interment. Ms. Howerton is survived by her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. George Barker, San Diego.

Inventory under way

TWIN FALLS — An inventory is being taken at the Head Start school, 139 Sixth Ave. E., following a break-in at the building sometime between Wednesday evening and Thursday morning.

Officers said Jerry Blei, who discovered the building had been entered, said offices and classrooms appeared to have been ransacked through and the food storage area entered. It was believed canned food and other items were taken.

Dennis Dean, Head Start director, told officers he will inventory the food supplies and determine the loss.

Officers promoted

BOISE (UPI) — Four officers of the Morrison-Knudsen Co., Inc., have been promoted. All serve as directors of the company.

The directors from the Boise area are James A. Lilly, executive vice president; L. Neal Spencer, executive vice president in charge of international operations; and Robert K. Woodhead, senior corporate vice president.

F.M. Armstrong, Cleveland, Ohio, was promoted to vice president of the company and resigned to the Boise headquarters as executive vice president.

State highway planned

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Highway board is moving ahead with plans for a new State Highway 64, between Napersee and Kamiah.

Planning studies for the highway date back to 1959. But lack of detailed mapping interfered with accurate construction estimates.

The department mapped the study corridor in 1970 for two alternate plans, and based on that mapping, a new route has been under study.

Students don't want to give up cars

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Student reaction here tended to be hostile to U.S. Energy (Zar William E. Simon's request Thursday that students give up a most cherished possession — their cars.

When announcing a standby rationing system, Simon urged school boards and principals to curb driving by restricting the use of school parking lots and limiting the numbers of students permitted to drive.

"The same students who responded so admirably to the environmental message in the past few years now have the opportunity to help relieve a related problem — the energy crisis," Simon said.

Most high school students interviewed Thursday said restricting only teenagers would be unfair.

"They tell us not to do something but then they go ahead and do it themselves. Other people waste gas, too," Susan Hoffman said. She said she could "see the point" of conserving gas, but that White House jumps to Florida "kind of make me mad."

"If they make us stop driving, they should make them (adults) stop driving — make them bike to work," Twin Falls High School student Dan Brizee said. He asserted that "everybody has the right to drive" and said that a driving ban "would hinder his skiing trips."

"I don't think that teenagers should give up their cars if others don't give up their own," Twin Falls student Beth McGinnis said. She added, however, that many adults need cars more than teenagers to go to work.

One young high school student supported Simon's proposed voluntary ban on youth driving. Jeanne Doshier said student use of cars to go to school or to work is all right, if necessary. However, she believed students would be better off walking or riding bikes.

"If they've got the two feet that God gave them, why can't they walk? They're young and they've got bikes. Riding bikes is healthier," she said.

Twin Falls School Supt. George Staudaher said closing off the parking lot at the school would be ineffective. "I don't know how you can control that (student driving). If we closed off our parking lots, the kids would park a block away or at the Lynwood," Staudaher said.

He said about 500 student cars use the parking lot at the high school. Out of about 1,000 students needing transportation to go to the high school only about 150 take the bus, he said.

Simon emphasized that programs to curb student driving are "voluntary at this time." He exempted from the voluntary ban any students who cannot use a school bus or public transportation and students who need cars to go to and from jobs.

Wood growers ask help

TWIN FALLS — Wool growers of the National and Idaho associations have asked U.S. senators to assist in correcting what they believe to be improper reporting of Interior Department research information.

Laird Noh, Twin Falls, chairman of the National Wool Growers Predatory Animal Committee, said the shepherds have no argument with the research program itself.

"We feel the research work is good and is filling a need for the livestock industry," he said. "Our criticism is of a few individuals in the department who appear to be slanting the research reports for their own political interests."

Noh said some 21 U.S. senators, including Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, have asked for a meeting with Secretary of Interior Rogers Morton to discuss the wool growers' complaint against research reports.

Noh said it will probably be after the first of the year before such a meeting can be held as most of the senators and department officials are away from Washington now because of the holidays. He said he does not anticipate any further report until after the requested meeting.

Purpose of the meeting, wool grower association members say, would be to request results of research studies involving sheep predators such as the coyote be issued directly by the Wildlife Research Center, Denver, Colo., and through Dr. Donald Balsler, chief of the Basic Studies Research.

Wool growers have charged the reports by two Department of Interior officials, James Ruch and Nathaniel Reed, are being used through congressional committees and the EPA to influence decisions against the need for an accelerated predator control program.

Working along with Noh in bringing the matter to the attention of the senators and the public in general are Robert Bledsoe, secretary of the Wyoming Wool Growers Association and R. K. (Bill) Siddaway, St. Anthony, president of the National Wool Growers Association.

In an address in Idaho last April at the College of Idaho, Caldwell, the wool growers said Reed, assistant secretary of the interior, said sheep losses from coyotes in Idaho were down.

The address allegedly indicated a reduction of coyote damage in Idaho Sheep herds, but Noh said, he was later informed the Department of Interior reports said it was too early in the season at that date for any trend indication. Statistics had indicated no substantial difference from the previous season, he said.

"Research breakthroughs which would preclude the need of toxicants, were imminent, the public reports indicated, but such was not true according to information direct from Interior Department scientists," Noh said.

Fuel cut impact eyed

Persons can still fly to the large resorts and travel by bus from the airports with the only reduction being whatever public transportation reductions are forthcoming.

Woody Anderson, owner of Pomerelle, said the shortage will naturally reduce business by some degree. However, he said buses will be used to the fullest possible extent.

He said some of the Utah resorts are already giving a 50 cent lift ticket reduction for those utilizing car pools.

"We may try this at Pomerelle," he said. "We could give a reduction to those traveling to the resort with four or more persons in each vehicle to encourage car pooling," he said.

Anderson said Americans do not like to travel to recreational sites by bus, but this might be preferable to not going at all. The resort operates daily with buses on weekends, holidays and days when schools are closed.

Whether or not a daily bus would be practical remains to be seen, he said.

Although Magic Mountain officials could not be contacted, Stan Detweiler, president of New Magic Mountain, said in an earlier interview he would make every effort to conserve gasoline in lift operations, hill packing equipment and would encourage bus utilization by his customers.

David Wheeler, manager of Soldier Mountain, was also unavailable for comment today but has previously indicated the resort has no plans to close down or cut operations unless absolutely necessary. He indicated rather he would implement all fuel conservation methods possible and utilize available bus services.

Efforts have been underway for some time by the National Ski Area Operators Association to protect the ski industry in the event of fuel cutbacks.

Man charged

JEROME — Dell Wayne Myers, 32, Jerome, is being held in jail today in lieu of $10,000 bail.

Myers was arraigned Thursday on charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder. Bond was set at $10,000. Jerome Police Chief Howard DuBois reported that Myers was arrested Wednesday night at the Rialto Bar in Jerome after he allegedly fired several shots with an alleged .22 automatic pistol.

DuBois said it was reported that Myers entered the bar around 9:30 p.m. with a revolver strapped to his hip. "During the course of the evening one of the patrons of the bar removed the pistol from his holster and hid it. When the patron refused to return the pistol to Myers, Myers left and returned with another pistol and allegedly began threatening patrons of the bar with the pistol. Myers was then reported to have fired three shots into the floor before he was subdued with a pool cue and the gun taken from him," DuBois said.

Blaine decision appealed

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILY — A land owner has appealed the Dec. 13 Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission's decision to grant the Idaho Power Co. a variance to construct a turbine generator and oil storage tank north of Haily.

The appeal to the Blaine County Board of Appeals was filed by Boise attorney John S. Chapman on behalf of Mrs. Dorothy J. Chapman who owns about 320 acres neighboring the Wood River Substation — the planned site for the 50,000 kilowatt combustion turbine generator and the 50,000 barrel oil storage tank.

A public hearing before the appeals board has been set for 7:30 p.m. Jan. 9 at the county courthouse, Haily.

Chapman said proper procedure should have been that Idaho Power file a rezoning application instead of asking for a variance.

Chapman stated, "The expanded facilities to be built by Idaho Power Co. are industrial in character and constitute more than a normal public utility."

In addition to the generator and oil storage tank, he stated that the firm also intended to convert a "small length" of 46,000 volt line to 138,000 volt; install a new 138,000 kilovolt line from the substation along U.S. Highway 93 to Ketchum, and construct a railroad siding and a buried pipeline from the railroad right-of-way to the substation.

"Obviously," Chapman stated, "these uses are openly industrial in nature and should not be constructed in an R-1 (high density residential) zoned area."

He said that only an M-1 industrial zone would allow a public utility to have storage facilities and stated that a 50,000 barrel oil storage tank and "the other facilities certainly should not be allowed in an R-1 zone."

During the Dec. 13 hearing, Chapman said because of the installation's proximity to Haily, the plant will be "right in the way of urban expansion in the next five to ten years."

Chapman also said the proposed transmission lines would "substantially visually pollute the area" and said there is "no question" the plant emissions will deteriorate present air quality.

The variance was approved after commission chairman Nick Purdy cast the favorable vote to break a four to four tie.

Commission-imposed stipulations on the variance include that Idaho Power will maintain a 47 decibel maximum generator noise level, the existing Barite railroad siding north of the site be used to unload oil tank cars and an underground pipeline be installed to the site rather than constructing a new railroad siding, and the complex be screened with trees on four sides rather than on the proposed three sides.

Idaho Power had proposed the turbine to solve the need for power during the 1974 summer because of construction delays on the Jim Bridger generating plant in Wyoming, the need for emergency back-up power in case of failure on the prime transmission line and the need for reserve capacity.

"Obviously," Chapman stated, "these uses are openly industrial in nature and should not be

TF County operates three landfills

By RONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Three landfills are now operating in Twin Falls County to serve rural residents and to help the county meet new federal and state environmental regulations.

The landfills include the West site, just west of Haily, the Main site, south of Twin Falls and just west of the former city landfill, and the East site south of Kimberly.

Darrell Heider, solid waste director for the county, said a new contract has been issued for operation of the three landfills with the intent of closing all county dumpgrounds.

Heider said the Twin Falls Highway District has completed repairs on a road connecting U. S. Highway 93 near Hollister with the new main landfill south of Twin Falls. This has permitted the county to close the old Hollister dumpground.

With the new improved road, Heider said, residents can swing by the landfill on their way to Twin Falls for business.

"There is no reason for not using the landfills as they are free to all residents of the county except for commercial hauling or the debris left from extensive building or rebuilding projects," Heider said.

He said there is no longer any reason for dumping any type of wastes on public lands or waste land areas around the county or for using the old dumpgrounds which are now closed. To dump in any undesignated area constitutes a misdemeanor and persons found to be doing this will be prosecuted.

Heider said the Balanced Rock dump was closed last spring and the Clover dump was discontinued in July.

The director said two types of solid waste are still creating problems. Dead animals or even those still alive but worthless or unwanted are not allowed or accepted at the landfills, or dump areas.

Heider said these animals will be picked up by rendering processors at little or no cost providing they are offered within a reasonable time after death.

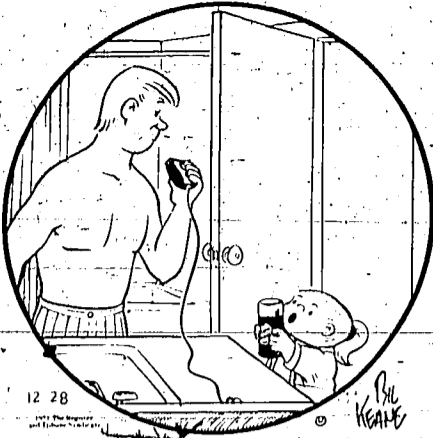

The other problem involves disposal of dirt, rocks and concrete. These are not accepted in any of the landfills but should be disposed of at the nearest fill area such as the one just west of Independent Mont Co., Twin Falls, or west of the Haily landfill.

Heider said some dirt is also needed at the dumpgrounds being closed and persons with dirt to offer may call the county courthouse and ask for Heider or extension 32 for arrangement to dispose of the dirt or fill.

He said nearly all county residents are cooperating to the fullest extent in helping with an orderly disposal program for county solid wastes. The county appreciates this cooperation, he said.

EXPECTANT

A woman's magazine put this query to 1,000 readers. What should an unmarried pregnant teenager do? Exactly 41 per cent said the girl should have the baby, then put it up for adoption. And 27 per cent said get an abortion. And 23 per cent said marry the boy and keep the child. And 9 per cent said keep the child, but don't marry.

Did you lie about your age when you got your marriage license? Nevermind, no importance meant. Merely wish to mention that researchers in Ohio found 7.35 per cent of the brides lied in this circumstance as did 8.33 per cent of the grooms.

Interest wanes for tonight's bowl tilt

By United Press International
Enthusiasm is waning for at least one post-season college football game this weekend.

One of the more exciting contests could take place Friday night at Atlanta when Maryland meets Georgia in the Peach Bowl, but so far the fans couldn't care less.

George Crumbley, executive director of the Peach Bowl, said Thursday there were still 21,000 tickets unsold and he blamed lack of sales on the failure of Georgia fans to back their team.

Georgia had only a 6-4 record this year, but the team came on strong at the end of the year with three victories in its last four starts, including a 35-31 triumph over Tennessee. The Bulldogs also feature two outstanding offensive players in Andy Johnson, the No. 2 passer in SEC history, and tailback Jimmy Poulos, the No. 2 rusher in Georgia history.

Maryland counters with an exceptional tailback named Luis Carter, an all-ACC selection, and a pair of quality defensive linemen in Paul Vellano and Randy White.

Carter is a triple-threat type who can run, pass and catch passes with equal skill.

Four other post-season games are scheduled for Saturday, including three bowl games and one all-star contest. On Saturday afternoon Missouri meets Auburn in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex.; Houston takes on Tulane in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston and the East meets the West in the 49th annual East-West Shrine Game at San Francisco.

Tennessee opposes Texas Tech Saturday night in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

The Sun Bowl figures to be a low-scoring affair as neither Missouri nor Auburn generated much offense this season. Missouri, which lost its last three games and finished 7-4, averaged only a little over 16 points a game while Auburn, which dropped three of its last four and was only 6-5, scored only 14 points a game.

The Astro-Bluebonnet contest is the only weekend encounter that pits two nationally-ranked teams against each other. Houston, ranked 13th in the final UPI coaches ratings, lost only to Auburn in 11 games while Tulane, ranked 15th, posted a 9-2 record, including a victory over Louisiana State.

Houston went to a ball control offense this year and it paid off with a 20-point per game average. Tulane, on the other hand, is more of a defensively-minded club although quarterback Steve Foley ranks as one of the nation's better offensive players.

Two top notch quarterbacks also will be on display in the Gator Bowl with Cadredge Holloway, an all-SEC choice, doing the signal-calling for Tennessee and Joe Barnes handling similar chores for Texas Tech. Both players had over 1,500 yards in total offense this year.

All-Americans David Jaynes of Kansas, a quarterback, and Bill Yoest of North Carolina State, an offensive guard, head a field of 58 players selected to play in the East-West Shrine Game. Other top prospects scheduled to appear are tight end Paul Seal and defensive tackle Dave Gallagher of Michigan, running back James McAlister of UCLA and tight end J.V. Cain of Colorado.

Oregon, Washington move to Far West tourney semi-finals

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Aggressive Oregon consistently turned back charges by Texas Thursday and moved away to a 78-66 victory in the final opening round game of the Far West Classic.

The victory put Oregon in Friday night's semi-finals against Washington, Thursday night's other winner over West Virginia, 96-79.

West Virginia will meet Texas in Friday afternoon's consolation play.

The Ducks, diving and jumping across press tables for loose balls, intimidated the Longhorns throughout most of the game with their physical style of play.

The game was close for most of the first half as the Longhorns fought back from a 10 point deficit to within two, 31-29, with five minutes remaining.

But the Ducks outscored Texas 9-6 the rest of the way for a 42-35 halftime mark.

Sophomore guard Ron Lee, touted as a pre-season all-American, picked up 19 of his game high 28 points in the first half and sparked the Ducks in the final half to their sixth victory of the year against two defeats.

Texas, 0-8 on the year, got 13 points from James Price and Larry Robinson.

In the first contest, Washington toyed with West Virginia for 10 minutes before moving away to victory.

Iowa St., K-State cop Big Eight wins

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Robert Wilson's 19 points and a 10 1/2 minute scoreless stretch by Oklahoma State lifted Iowa State to a 73-50 victory Thursday night, pushing the Cyclones into the semifinals of the Big Eight basketball tournament against Kansas State.

Missouri will play Colorado in Friday night's other semifinal game.

Like Kansas State, Iowa State also had a 16-point streak although the Cyclones' was in the second half. Oklahoma State pulled to within 44-40 with 14:52 remaining, but the Cowboys did not score again until the 4:22 mark and, by that time, they were far out of the contest.

Alabama, Louisville to play for title

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Ninth-ranked Louisville, with 36 players in double figures, stretched its winning streak to seven games Thursday night by trouncing undermanned Eastern Kentucky 91-75 in the Louisville Holiday Basketball Classic.

Hitting 65 per cent of their field goal attempts in the first half, the Cardinals raced into a 54-38 lead at the half and Eastern never came closer than 14 points after the intermission.

The Cardinals were led by Junior Bridgeman with 16 points and Terry Howard and Allen Murphy with 14 apiece.

Eastern's Carl Brown was high for the game with 17 points, followed by Jimmy Segar with 15 and Rick Stansel with 12. The loss left the Colonels with a 1-4 record.

Florida wins Gator bowl title in upset

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — The University of Florida, figured to be the weakest of the four teams in the tournament, scored its second upset in two nights Thursday when it beat Duke University 77-60 to win the Gator Bowl basketball championship.

Bob Fleischer was high scorer with 18 points for Duke. Jacksonville beat Western Kentucky 85-79 in a consolation game for third place.

Jacksonville, upset by Florida Wednesday night, jumped off to a fast 24-10 lead on the shooting of Henry Williams and Leon Benbow. The Dolphins led 71-55 with less than nine minutes to play before the Hilltoppers began to cut into the lead.

Calvin Wade, shortest man on the court at 5-10, scored 28 points for the losers and kept them close to 81-77 with 1:16 left to play. But time ran out before the Hilltoppers could come closer.

Benbow wound up with 24 points, 16 in the first half. Butch Taylor and Bobby Alvarez each had 14 while Williams, used sparingly in the second half, scored 13.

Weber bows to Roberts in tourney

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Houston rolled to a comparatively easy 85-66 victory over Virginia Tech in the opening round of the 38th annual All-College Tournament Thursday night.

Sam McCants scored 24 points and Oral Roberts held off a late charge by Weber State to win the first game of the evening, 82-79.

Houston had its first five men in double figures with Louis Dunbar sinking 18 points. Tech's Craig Lieder led both teams in scoring with 20 points. Houston will meet Oral Roberts for the championship Friday night while Southern California plays Rutgers for third place.

The Cougars hit 35 of 59 for 59.3 per cent while Virginia Tech had 29 of 94 for 30.9 per cent.

Weber State, which led at halftime 41-40, outshot Oral Roberts 42 per cent to 40 per cent from the field. Leading scorer for Weber State was Jimmie Watts with 10 points.

Favored St. John's wins ECAC battle

NEW YORK (UPI) — Backcourt mates Mel Utley and Frank Alagin teamed up for 42 points Thursday night as journey favorite St. John's outclassed Illinois, 76-60, in the nightcap of the opening round of the 22nd annual ECAC Holiday Festival.

In the other half of the evening doubleheader, Princeton, led by a 17-point output from Armond Hill, defeated Duquesne, 72-62. In a afternoon doubleheader, LaSalle, sparked by a combined 46 points from Charley Wise and Joe DiCocco, upended Stanford, 77-66, and Manhattan had five men in double figures including Bill Campion, Tom Reilly and Mike Young and coasted past St. Louis 88-65.

After building a 38-31 halftime lead, St. John's pulled away with comparative ease in the second half behind the hot shooting of Utley, who wound up with 26 points, and Alagin, who had 16.

Early in the second half, St. John's scored 11 straight points, Alagin getting five of them, to make the score 51-30, a margin Illinois was never able to dent despite a tournament high 30 points from Rick Schmidt.

Near the end of play a minor fight erupted between Illinois' Dennis Graff and Kevin Raftery of St. John's, but play was quickly restored.

Hayes says team works too hard

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Woody Hayes says he never has had a team with better morale but he won't reveal why.

"We've had better player morale, better understanding among players and coaches, than we've ever had on our squad," Ohio State's 23-year head football coach said Thursday.

"I'm not going to tell you why but there's a definite reason. It's a team reason. You might imply I'm a nicer guy. Yeah, I am because I'm dealing with better people."

Hayes and Southern California's John McKay appeared at a Rose Bowl luncheon, and McKay let the Buckeyes' mentor do most of the talking — although McKay didn't spare the accolades in describing Ohio State.

"I think they (the Buckeyes) are a very, very powerful football team," said the USC coach, "and they make very few mistakes. Remember, in a close football game you don't win it. The other guy loses it."

Hayes said the Ohio State coaching staff was having trouble holding back his team from overworking.

"This team works too hard," he remarked. "If you don't hold them back, they work right up to game time. So the rest of this week I'll assure you I'm going to be a little softer. Not much, though."

Although the Buckeyes disdain the pass, Hayes said "Don't let John know it but we're going to pass more. We're definitely going to pass more. At least before the ball game we're going to warm up like hell."

McKay, the master of the one-liners, was at his funniest. Some of his quips:

"I'm bringing Woody a cake when I come into the stadium."

"We ate a lot of turkey during the Christmas holidays and when we came out to practice yesterday we looked like a lot of turkeys."

Unitas still figures in S.D. plans

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — He was the ranking celebrity on the sidelines through most of 1973, but San Diego Charger owner Eugene Klein says he wants quarterback Johnny Unitas back for 1974.

"Under the circumstances, it was best to give exposure to the young quarterbacks," Klein said. "There was just no chance we were going to win."

"But we'll solve some of our problems and we can go with Johnny. He can win a lot of ball games."

As for Unitas, he says, "I have a contract and I expect to fulfill it." Unitas signed a six figure contract with the Chargers for two years after being traded by Baltimore last season.

But he failed to play after the fifth game of the Chargers' most disastrous season, which ended in the AFC West cellar at 2-11-1.

"Our season was so disastrous," said Klein, "that it served no purpose to give Unitas more playing time."

To correct all that, Klein predicted "considerable" turnover for next season.

"We're going to get rid of the ballplayers who didn't put out like they should. The actions of some of our people were totally unconscionable. They'll be gone."

Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow of one year, 68 years old, living alone in my own home.

We had a roomer for four years in our spare room to help pay taxes and insurance on our house. After my husband's death, this roomer, who is about 60, began to take a personal interest in me, which I resented, as he is not my type.

One night, without warning, he came into my bedroom and awakened me, saying he was "lonely." I was frightened, and screamed at him, and he went back to his room. He apologized, said he would not do it again, but I gave him 30 days notice to move, which he didn't want to do, but I insisted.

Now he keeps calling me on the phone, asking to come back. He says he "loves" me, but I know his intentions are to even proposition me on the phone.

How can I get him to stop calling me? I don't want to anger him, and I don't want to get an unlisted phone number. SEATTLE

Roomer ousted

DEAR SEATTLE: Ask your attorney to write this man a letter and tell him if he doesn't quit harassing you, you will bring charges against him.

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged married woman. I was walking toward my apartment building with several packages when a man who lives in our building (also middle-aged and married) pulled up in his car and said: "Get in, and I'll give you a ride home."

I knew him, so I got in and he drove down into the basement of the apartment building where the tenants park their cars.

Walking toward the elevator, I said: "Thanks, friend. How much do I owe you?"

He jokingly replied: "I'll settle for a kiss," so I kiddingly gave him a little neck on the cheek, and wouldn't you know, one of the other tenants saw me! Abby, my right hand to God, that was the whole story, but this neighbor spread it all around the building.

How can I clear my name? I can hardly hold my head up. NOT GUILTY

DEAR NOT: He who excuses himself, accuses himself. Forget it. You're lucky he didn't jokingly ask you for a few dollars.

DEAR ABBY: I am currently enrolled in a four-year college which requires that everyone who is physically able must learn how to swim before he graduates.

I have been putting off taking the swimming course because I am deathly afraid of water. Just the thought of it makes me sick.

I suppose I could go to a doctor and ask him to please give me some kind of phony excuse (like ear trouble) which would get me out of taking swimming.

I realize it would be an advantage to know how to swim, but if I'm too frightened to learn, what should I do? PETRIFIED

DEAR PETRIFIED: I urge you to give it a try. [Most swimming instructors are experts in dealing with "petrified" students.]

CONFIDENTIAL TO SYLVIA IN SAN MATEO: Tell him, "Thanks a lot," and take public transportation. Those "free" rides could cost you more than you want to pay.
