

today in brief

Simon sees 1-cent gas hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal energy chief William F. Simon said today that gasoline prices will go up another one cent a gallon to reimburse dealers for reduced sales due to the fuel shortage.

Announcement of the rise may come later today, Simon said, and follows a meeting he held with officials of the Cost of Living Council. It would be the first increase outside the wholesale price increases currently allowable under President Nixon's Phase IV program.

Oil nationalization sought

CARACAS (UPI) — Venezuelan President Rafael Caldera is under pressure from his party's defeated presidential candidate to nationalize the foreign oil industry before leaving office in March.

Caldera's Social Christian Party colleague, Lorenzo Fernandez, said in a telegram that he was sure President-elect Carlos Andres Perez would agree to immediate nationalization.

Blocked road delays papers

Heavy snow drifts and icy conditions closed roads early Sunday morning, delaying delivery of the Times-News to many Blaine County residents. We regret the inconvenience.

Astros star free on bond

SANTO DOMINGO, D.R. (UPI) — Houston Astros star Cesar Cedeno was freed on bond today pending trial for "involuntary manslaughter" in the motel death of a girl companion, District Attorney Maximo Henriquez Saladin, the prosecutor, announced.

Cedeno posted the $10,000 bond set by Judge Soerates Diaz Carlet this morning.

Sirica Time's 'man of year'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Time Magazine named Watergate Judge John J. Sirica, 69, as its "man of the year" Sunday.

The magazine praised Sirica as "a symbol of the American judiciary's insistence on the primacy of law."

Sirica insisted that not all the panoply of the Presidency entitled President Nixon to withhold material evidence from the Watergate prosecutors and brought the White House tapes and documents out of hiding, according to the magazine.

US growth seen continuing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Economic growth in the United States during the next 18 months will match that of the past 18 months despite the energy crisis, Sanford Parker, chief economist for Fortune magazine, predicted in an article in its January issue.

Parker said the economy will begin to expand again in the spring of 1974 and will continue its expansion until mid-1975, the growth running at an annual rate of nearly 6 per cent.

Balaguer only candidate

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — President Joaquin Balaguer, seeking a third consecutive four-year term, was the only declared candidate Sunday for the May presidential election in the Dominican Republic.

Official campaigning for the office begins Wednesday. Fifteen opposition groups unsuccessfully negotiated for a year in an effort to form a united front and run a single opponent against Balaguer.

Girl AF Academy nominee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. William T. Hungate, D-Mo., said today he had nominated an 18-year-old girl to the Air Force Academy, and promised a fight to overcome the Academy's men-only policy.

Hungate identified the girl as Karen Dwyer of St. Charles, Mo., a senior at St. Charles High School, where she is a member of the Air Force Junior ROTC Honor Guard and Drill Team.

Skydivers escape, leap into Hailey

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News Writer

HAILEY — Four Boise skydivers made an emergency jump over Hailey Sunday when their plane developed engine trouble.

None of the parachutists was injured and the plane landed safely.

One of the jumpers had a series of close calls. After the plane developed engine trouble, Ed Pancoast jumped over the town from about 4,000 feet altitude.

But his main parachute failed to open.

Pancoast then used his reserve canopy. The shock of the reserve's opening caused the main canopy also to deploy.

Then Pancoast threaded down into an alley between two sets of power lines. His main chute caught over one set of lines and his reserve chute over the other.

His chutes knocked out power for about 200 Hailey residents for 13 minutes and burned his main canopy.

Pancoast said he unhooked both canopies and "walked away." He said it was "a very good reserve opening, a very good reserve ride." He said the opening was "under control."

Another jumper said his unexpected ride was "very safe, very easy, no problem at all." The diver, John Stubblefield, was the first to jump from the plane.

He landed at the intersection of First and Gray streets, adjacent to the Hawatha Hotel.

The third jumper, Pete Hill, landed near Wertheimer Park where about four persons were riding snow machines. They zoomed right over," he said, and gave him a lift back to town. Hill said his snow landing was "one of the softest I've had."

The fourth jumper, Hebbie Gibson, landed at an intersection near the Hawatha Hotel.

The Cessna 100 single engine plane had taken off from Friedman Airport about 3 p.m. for the jumping demonstration at the Holiday Inn, Ketchum.

Pilot John Christ, 22, Boise, said the oil temperature indicator was "in the red" and that the oil pressure was dropping.

AF Dam measure signed

Replacement of the deteriorating American Falls Dam is authorized.

President Nixon signed a bill Sunday in San Clemente, Calif., permitting the Department of the Interior to negotiate with water users for reconstruction of the 46 year old structure, two weeks after the legislation passed Congress.

Deterioration of the concrete in the dam led to reduction of storage capacity by about one-third to 1.12 million acre feet of water a year ago. That also sparked an effort by water users to seek authority to rebuild the dam on their own, then return it to the Bureau of Reclamation for operation.

The bill signed Sunday by President Nixon was carried through the Senate and House by members of the Idaho Congressional delegation. The measure received Senate approval in June, then passed the House two weeks ago. Senate concurrence in several House amendments followed on Dec. 18.

Now that the bill has been signed, the American Falls water users can proceed with negotiating the necessary contract with the secretary of the interior for replacing the dam, negotiating a falling water contract with Idaho Power Co., and assisting the utility to obtain a license from the Federal Power Commission for replacement of the present power plant below the dam.

Supplementary legislation will be introduced in the Idaho Legislature next month to clear the way for a bond election in the area served by the reservoir district and a suit will be filed with the Idaho Supreme Court to confirm the legality of the entire procedure.

The bond issue will finance replacement of the dam. Under plans being followed, in return for the falling water contract, Idaho Power will pay up to $10 million in bond retirement funds over a period of 40 years.

Estimated cost of replacing the dam is about $25 million, with the proposed new power plant costing about $26 million. Idaho Power would construct the plant itself.

SPENCER W. KIMBALL
... new LDS leader

LDS choose new leader

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Spencer W. Kimball, a 78-year-old who has survived throat cancer and open heart surgery, was named the 12th "prophet seer and revelator" of 3.3 million Mormons, the church announced today.

The apostles of the church announced the expected naming of Kimball, their senior member, after meeting at the Salt Lake Temple to discuss reorganization of the Mormon leadership.

They said Kimball, his counselors — N. Eldon Tanner and Marion G. Romney — and the new council president, Ezra Taft Benson, were actually chosen at a secret meeting in the temple late Sunday night.

The choice of Kimball followed a tradition dating back to Brigham Young's selection in 1844. Since that date, the senior member of the Council of the Twelve (Apostles) has become church president.

Tanner and Romney were renamed to the posts in the First Presidency of the church which they held under Harold B. Lee, who died last week after 17 months as church president.

Benson, who became senior member of the council when Kimball succeeded to the presidency, replaced him as council president.

Balloting brisk in Israeli vote

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Prime Minister Golda Meir's Labor party coalition faced the toughest challenge in its 35-year rule today in an electoral battle with a center-right black critical of strategy in connection with the October war and negotiations with the Arabs at Geneva.

Israeli soldiers stood on maximum alert on the Arab frontiers to guard against a possible new outbreak of heavy fighting to coincide with the elections, which were held two months late because of the war.

Election officials said 2,037,000 voters were eligible to cast ballots and that they expected a turnout of about 80 per cent. Balloting was reported brisk.

Mrs. Meir's Labor front, which in one form or another has ruled Israel since its birth, was contested chiefly by a four-party bloc known as Likud.

Public opinion polls rated Mrs. Meir's forces about even with Likud, with between 20 to 40 per cent of the electorate undecided. Voters choose among party lists with each party getting seats in the 120-member Knesset (parliament) according to the percentage of the vote it attains.

Leaders of the nation's coal miners, whose refusal to work overtime has cut coal production and made the energy-saving work week necessary, said they might step up their campaign for more pay by going on strike.

Led by former-Israeli underground leader Menahem Begin and Maj. Gen. Ariel "Arik" Sharon, Likud has said none of the Arab territory Israel captured in the 1967 six-day war should be returned at the Geneva Middle East peace conference.

Mrs. Meir campaigned on a platform of seeking peace with the Arabs through territorial concessions at Geneva.

She and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan were criticized by Likud for Israel's unpreparedness for the Oct. 6 attack by Egypt and Syria.

Labor party advertisements said the election was the most crucial one in Israel's history, with a vote for Likud candidates a vote for continued fighting with the Arabs.

Mrs. Meir voted near her Jerusalem home shortly after noon while Begin cast his ballot in Tel Aviv at mid morning.

Small arms and artillery fire could be heard in the distance as Sharon, still on active duty, voted at his headquarters on the west bank of the Suez Canal. Emerging from the polling booth, Sharon, who led the Israeli thrust across the canal during the October war, smiled and joked, "It was hard to decide who to vote for."

A total of 4,000 polling booths were in operation for civilians around the country and another 1,100 for soldiers at the front. For the first time, polling places were set up for settlements on the occupied west bank of the Jordan river, where soldiers carrying submachine guns watched out for possible trouble.

Britons on 3-day week

LONDON (UPI) — Britons began an enforced three-day work week today and prepared to enter a new year which former Prime Minister Harold Wilson has called the most forbidding since World War II.

Government reports said Britain's economic crisis has thrown a half-million persons out of work and threatened to leave 1 million unemployed.

Leaders of the nation's coal miners, whose refusal to work overtime has cut coal production and made the energy-saving work week necessary, said they might step up their campaign for more pay by going on strike.

Viet battles rage

SAIGON (UPI) — Vietnam entered 1974 Tuesday with its people still fighting each other but for the first time in more than a decade, a new year began without American fighting men sharing the bloodshed.

The military command's New Year's Eve communique claimed 73 Communist violations of the cease-fire agreement, now almost a year old and still not taking hold, committed in the 24 hours ending at noon today. It said 30 Communists and 16 government soldiers died in the fighting.

to residents and merchants in hazardous areas who might not be able to obtain it otherwise. But under the new bill, people living or doing business in such places will be eligible for future federal assistance unless their communities take specific steps to reduce potential flood losses.

The legislation granting the government power to sell off almost $900 million stockpiled defense materials was requested by Nixon and went into effect when he signed it.

I-80 car traffic slowing

TWIN FALLS — An Idaho State Police survey shows that cars are either slowing down on U.S. Interstate 80 or not using the highway at all.

The survey also shows that trucks are maintaining their speed on the interstate.

I. Roy Thomas said for the past three weeks the Idaho State police have taken speed surveys to determine if drivers are voluntarily slowing down. The most recent survey, begun early last week in good weather, could not be made because almost no cars were on the road.

Three weeks ago the hour-long survey showed cars were traveling an average 63 miles per hour while truck speed averaged 65 mph. The next week cars had slowed to 58 mph. Thomas said about 60 to 70 cars passed during both these surveys.

In the most recent survey, this past week, the car speed could not be measured because only four cars passed in a half hour. Thomas said the truck traffic remained constant, continuing at an average 65 mph. He estimated 40 trucks passed during each survey.

'Let's get on with it'

TWIN FALLS — "Let's get on with it."

That was the area reaction to President Nixon's signing of the bill clearing the way for reconstruction of the American Falls Dam.

Sen. John Barker, R-Idaho, president of the American Falls Reservoir District, said, "I think that's great."

"The President has often urged people to do things on their own rather than depending on big government," Barker said. "The American Falls replacement is a self-help project in which the spaceholders, plus power revenues from the falling water contract, will retire the bonds."

"The financial participation on the part of the federal government will be minimal," he said.

Tom Olmstead, Twin Falls, reservoir district treasurer, said, "We're very happy about it. We've been working on this for some time."

"I think the bill signed Sunday was what the spaceholders wanted," Olmstead said. "I don't see how there could be any objection."

Ted Diehl, Jerome, manager of the North Side Canal Co., said, "It looks like we're on our way. The bill is what we all agreed on."

"I'm just glad that the bill is signed so we can keep on schedule and complete the new dam as soon as possible," Diehl said.

Nixon signs US-subsidized flood insurance bill

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon today signed a bill allowing millions of homeowners and small businessmen to buy substantially more flood insurance protection at federally subsidized rates.

Under the measure, called the 1973 Flood Disaster Protection Act, homeowners are free to purchase up to $35,000 worth of flood insurance at a rate of 25 cents per $100 of coverage and merchants can buy a maximum $200,000 of coverage at reduced costs. The new ceilings are about double the ones available previously.

A short time earlier today, Nixon signed legislation authorizing the government to sell nearly $900 million in stockpiled materials, particularly copper and aluminum, on grounds that the federal supply far exceeded national defense needs.

Nixon also was expected to turn his attention to international issues today during conferences with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who joined Nixon at his bluff-top villa after flying from Washington to Los Angeles aboard a commercial airliner Sunday night.

In signing the flood protection bill, Nixon said more than 90 per cent of all property damage caused by natural disasters result from floods and that the new law "will permit us to prepare more adequately against this threat."

Provisions of the act also extend for two more years an emergency program set up in 1969 to help make adequate flood insurance available to residents and merchants in hazardous areas who might not be able to obtain it otherwise. But under the new bill, people living or doing business in such places will be eligible for future federal assistance unless their communities take specific steps to reduce potential flood losses.

The legislation granting the government power to sell off almost $900 million stockpiled defense materials was requested by Nixon and went into effect when he signed it.

Skylab crew assured work follows schedule

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 3 astronauts have been assured they are working at the right pace and not falling far behind.

Flight controllers told them Sunday night planning problems on the ground make it appear the astronauts are slower than they should be.

Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William H. Ponce, spending more time on Comet Kohoutek research now than any other science studies, said they are much happier with the work pace than earlier in the flight.

Ground communicator and fellow astronaut Richard Truly discussed the planning problems with the crew. Carr said he thought the talk "did a world of good" to ease the pilots' worries that they were far behind the pre-mission plan.

"Truly said they are now on the same pace as the Skylab 2 crew, although controllers started out trying to work this crew too fast.

"We very definitely felt the pressure come off about 10 days ago when you guys shifted gears down there and I'll tell you it was a very welcome event," Carr said. "It looks to me now that we're approaching the right direction."

Carr said since the schedule was relaxed, the pilots were doing a better job and making fewer mistakes than "when we were under the gun."

Carr said when the astronauts did not feel their first day off at the beginning of the mission there was "no slack left to catch up and the whole mess started snowballing."

"A guy needs some quiet time to just unwind if we're going to keep him healthy and alert up here," Carr said. "And if you keep him healthy and alert, you're going to keep him efficient."

Climbers poised for Teton attack

GRAND TETON NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (UPI) — Weather conditions permitting, a 26-man climbing party will move into position today for a New Year's Day assault on the summit of 13,770-foot Grand Teton Peak.

The climbers, led by veteran mountaineer Paul Petzold, 85, conducting his 10th winter assault on the mountain, split into two groups Sunday. One party of 11 spent the night in snow caves at the 10,300-foot elevation while the remaining 15 stayed at Moose Meadows at the 8,400-foot level.

Tony Bevinetto, park information officer, said the advance team would climb up to the lower saddle, elevation 11,700 feet, Monday and prepare for a final try for the summit. The second group was scheduled to move up to the snow caves.

Nixon inks insurance, stockpile sale bills

Of the total estimated revenues, based on current market prices, the White House said about one-third was expected to come from sales of copper and roughly one half from aluminum, zinc and molybdenum. The silicon carbide, an abrasive material, was expected to bring in $10 million and the opium $30 million.

Nixon signed six different bills, one for each commodity, and said in a statement that the government could give up the amount specified "without detriment to our national security interests."

In a separate statement, Deputy Budget Director Frederic V. Malek said the steps were being taken in line with an administration decision last April to reduce government defense stockpiles generally as part of a policy designed to provide jobs and slow price increases for certain materials in short supply on commercial markets.

Under the new legislation, the government now can sell:

- 207,000 short tons of aluminum, valued at $250 million and equal to 9 per cent of annual U.S. consumption;
- 357,300 short tons of zinc, worth about $200 million and about 25 per cent of annual domestic consumption;
- 36.5 million pounds of molybdenum, valued at $65 million;
- 196,500 short tons of silicon carbide, worth about $40 million and expected to boost employment in the granite industry as well as others dependent on it for production;
- 65,000 pounds of opium, almost half the total stockpile, valued at $10 million and intended to avert a shortage of some pharmaceutical supplies during the winter months.

In each case, the stockpile material is to be sold by the General Services Administration, the federal housekeeping agency.

As of last April, Malek said the value of all 91 commodities in the government stockpile, stood at nearly $7 billion and all but $1 billion of that amount was considered excess inventory.

With the new legislation, he said total stockpile sales since April will reach about $1.8 billion.

After signing the legislation, Nixon turned his attention to discussions with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on the Middle East peace talks.

Florida abductor sought

SOUTH DAYTONA, Fla. (UPI) — The uncle of a kidnapped Daytona Beach coed posted a $5,000 reward today for the capture of a masked gunman who police said barged into a birthday party and held the girl and three friends captive.

Kathy Morris, 20, of South Daytona, was abducted shortly after 12:30 a.m. Sunday after a 90-minute ordeal of terror.

Police said Miss Morris was attending a birthday party for Patricia Malarmey, 20, at the Malarmey home when a man armed with a pistol walked through the unlocked front door.

"The girls were playing cards and they looked up and there was a man with a gun; he had a cloth over his face and his voice was muffled," said Mrs. Virginia Malarmey, mother of Patricia.

FBI agents and sheriff's deputies Sunday began a statewide search for the man described only as black, of average build, and in his early 20s.

George Lubke Jr., a mortgage banker in the Daytona Beach area, offered the $5,000 reward for information leading to the return of his niece.

Mrs. Malarmey said she was asleep in an upstairs bedroom throughout the incident. Also sleeping upstairs were her father, her husband John, and a grandson.

Police said the man bound and gagged three of the girls with kitchen towels and fled in a white 1966 buick owned by one of the girls.

flce wreck

PORT HURON, Mich. (UPI) — A railroad tank car filled with 33,630 gallons of liquid butane derailed and overturned Sunday near Port Huron, forcing 30 families to flee their homes for 12 hours.

Officials said there were no injuries or damage.

The butane did not leak, but city officials ordered about six blocks of the city evacuated after firemen expressed fears that a spark could touch off a gas explosion.

E.H. Maher

TWIN FALLS — Edmond H. Maher, 87, Twin Falls, died Saturday evening at a nursing home after a long illness.

Born Aug. 28, 1886, at Monarch, Colo., he was reared in Colorado and New Mexico. He moved with his family by mule team and wagon to Yakima, Wash., in 1900 and later to Kennewick, Wash.

They later homesteaded near Twin Falls in 1905. Mr. Maher was first employed in bringing poles and equipment here for the first telegraph office and was also one of the first volunteer firemen in Twin Falls.

Mr. Maher hauled lumber from Twin Falls to Buhl for construction work and in 1906 went to work for the Oregon Short Line. He worked in the freight department for the railroad until 1930 when he went into business for himself.

In 1931 he formed a partnership with his son-in-law, which was known as Maher and Morrison. The firm still carries that name.

Mr. Maher was married to Esther Marie Turan in Salt Lake City on Dec. 31, 1907. He was a member of the Twin Falls First Christian Church, the Knights of Pythias, a member of Kayler Lodge No. 94, AF & AM, and served three years as lodge chaplain. He was also a member of Blue Lodge No. 15, Royal Arch Masons, Twin Falls Council No. 7, Twin Falls Knights Templar Commandery No. 10.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. H. T. (Deacon) Morrison, Twin Falls; two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mr. Maher was preceded in death by two brothers and one sister.

Funeral services for Mr. Maher will be conducted at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday at the White Mortuary Chapel by the Rev. Ray Jones. Burial will be in Twin Falls Cemetery under direction of Kayler Lodge, AF & AM. Friends may call at the mortuary today, Tuesday and until 2:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Economy helps

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the case of a fluorescent lamp, tube life is related to the number of starts. One needs to balance the cost of electricity against the cost of lamp replacement to determine the economics of leaving it or turning it off frequently.

A lighting manufacturer study shows an approximate 15 to 20 minute "off" time to be the breakeven point in deciding whether or not to turn off a fluorescent light for economic reasons.

Buyers up $ on oil

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
The oil shortage and Arab embargo have attracted a sizable number of new buyers and brokers into the Persian Gulf, bidding up crude oil prices but also serving as a conduit for oil to embargoed nations.

That's the view of one expert, recently returned from one of his periodic Mideast tours. He spoke freely of the changing world of oil, but only on the condition that neither he nor his employer be identified.

There always have been two major groups buying oil, he said, and these are huge international oil firms and the smaller (but still large) independent oil companies.

In just the last few months, however, large end users of oil have begun bypassing the oil companies to deal directly with producing nations. This activity actually began before the mid-October embargo. There was growing concern even then about a possible global shortage of oil.

"We had vice presidents of utility companies... come in and ask us: 'Where can I get a ticket to Saudi Arabia?'" he said. "I'm not kidding about that."

(As it turns out, Saudi Arabia is not easy to get to or into. A traveler must obtain, among other things, a certificate of baptism from his pastor, certifying that he is a practicing member of the Christian faith.)

Shipping firms have been the other major end users most eagerly seeking direct purchase of Arab oil, he said, but some municipalities and large chemical companies also have likely sent representatives to bid on oil.

These bidders have come from various nations, the observer said, with Japanese firms acting most anxious to acquire petroleum products. Japan imports all its oil.

Brother charged with shootings

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (UPI) — Two sisters were shotgunned at close range Sunday, killing one and critically wounding the other. Police arrested their brother, a young soldier home on holiday leave.

The brother was identified as Frederick Hanson, 22, who is stationed at Ft. Dietrick, Md. Homicide detectives said Hanson would be questioned further today to learn what may have triggered the attack.

According to several witnesses, Hanson stepped toward his mother's suburban home to find his two older sisters seated in the living room with their husbands, amiably chatting.

He reportedly ducked into a bedroom for a moment then returned with a shotgun and blasted the women at point-blank range. Hanson is said to have told detectives the amount of material goods owned by his two sisters angered him.

One woman, Mrs. Marilyn Coburn, 28, of South Gate, died after three hours surgery. Her sister, Mrs. JoAnn Shoemaker, 29, of Los Angeles, underwent nearly eight hours surgery Sunday night and remained in very critical condition.

Another oil scandal feared

(c) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III (D-Ill.) is convinced that "history is repeating itself" in Alaska and that another Teapot Dome scandal is in the making.

Only the stakes are so high at the Navy's Petroleum Reserve No. 4 in Alaska that what is threatened there "could make the raid on Teapot Dome a petty misdemeanor in comparison," according to Stevenson.

"Already the boundaries of Petroleum Reserve No. 4 are being moved in mysterious ways to enrich the oil companies instead of the public," he says.

"The bureau of Land Management has moved the border of this reserve inward and then granted leases to major oil companies on land the Navy still considers within the reserve."

When Stevenson voiced this complaint just before Congress adjourned for its Christmas vacation, he did not indicate what he proposed to do about it.

The Chicago Daily News has learned from a Senate source however, that the Senator may seek to have declared invalid the leases that were awarded major oil companies to drill in a two-mile buffer strip of Pet 4, as the Navy calls Petroleum Reserve No. 4.

He may also seek to prohibit further drilling without the Navy's consent which has been going on since 1954 in buffer zones around naval oil reserves at Teapot Dome, Wyo. and Elk Hills, Calif.

Finally, Stevenson may ask the Justice Department to bring suit to recover monetary compensation from the oil companies for the oil they have taken from the buffer zones around Teapot Dome and Elk Hills, according to the Senate source.

Teapot Dome was the generic term for major scandals that occurred during the Harding administration in the early 1920s. It was disclosed at a Senate investigation in 1972 that Sec. of the Interior Albert Fall got Navy Sec. Edwin Denby to transfer the government oil reserves at Teapot Dome and Elk Hills to the Interior department.

Then Fall leased the reserves to private oil producers without competitive bidding. For helping to arrange the transfers, Fall received $100,000 from E. I. Doheny for Elk Hills and $300,000 from Harry Sinclair for Teapot Dome.

In the aftermath of the scandal, control of Teapot Dome and Elk Hills was returned to the Navy and Pet 4, the huge oil reserve as large as Indiana, was created in Alaska.

When Stevenson and Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.) talk about "Teapot Dome scandal," they are referring to what they call the "raids" on the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills reserves by oil companies drilling in the buffer zones adjoining them.

The disclosure that this has been going on since 1954 was made in a report released in October, 1972, by the general accounting office, an investigating agency of Congress. This report, however, received almost no attention until Moss included it in a statement he made at a Senate Commerce Subcommittee hearing last week.

Moss also disclosed that on June 4, 1965, Kenneth Belieu, then Navy secretary, wrote the attorney general to complain that operations being conducted by private oil companies holding leases on public land adjacent to Teapot Dome

Study results given

(c) N. Y. Times Service
NEW YORK — University of Wisconsin economists reported today that a six-year experiment with the negative income tax has been a qualified success. Hundreds of poor workers in New Jersey and Pennsylvania who were given direct cash grants in the experiments, did not cut back their individual work efforts significantly. Instead, they used the government grant to supplement their own low earnings and kept on working.

Until the experimenters, headed by Prof. Harold Watts, reported their results today at the American Economic Association's annual convention, opponents of the negative tax or similar redistributive schemes had argued that the poor would quit or reduce their work effort to compensate for any government income supplement or guarantee.

Now, said Watts, "we suggest that the burden of proof has been shifted" from the advocates to the critics of the negative tax.

Results of the tests sponsored by the Office of Economic Opportunity, were turned over earlier this month to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, where planners are preparing a new welfare-reform proposal for possible inclusion in the president's State of the Union message next month.

The reforms under consideration, say analysts close to HEW,

Retraction seen in NH paper

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) — The Manchester Union Leader today printed a front-page retraction of charges that President Nixon's long-time associate Murray Chotiner organized the Watergate bugging incident.

Chotiner had said the newspaper and its chief investigative reporter, Arthur C. Egan, for $3 million for bled.

The articles over which he brought suit alleged he organized the "Watergate caper" and similar episodes, with money raised from the Teamsters Union and more than $400,000 from "Las Vegas gamblers."

In Washington, Chotiner said he had reached an out-of-court settlement with the newspaper. He said terms of the agreement called for him to be paid a "substantial amount" of money, but he declined to reveal the exact total.

The Monday morning edition of the Union Leader carried a three-column box directly under the banner headline. The headline on the retraction story read, "A Retraction and Apology to Murray Chotiner."

The newspaper's retraction read in full:

"The Manchester Union Leader retracts the allegations contained in articles by reporter Arthur C. Egan Jr., published in its April 27 and April 28, 1973 editions charging attorney Murray M. Chotiner with having organized the Watergate incident and other related activities, with having obtained finances for them, with soliciting campaign contributions to achieve the parole of former Teamster President James R. Hoffa, and with 'double-crossing' Mr. Hoffa. 'All such accusations against Mr. Chotiner are false.

"Whoever the individual responsible for Watergate may be, we now, after the public inquiries and our own extensive investigation, are satisfied it is not Mr. Chotiner.

Gasoline explodes, kills 4 persons

HARRISBURG, Ill. (UPI) — Four persons, three of them children under the age of five, burned to death Sunday night when a full container of gasoline in the trunk of their car exploded in a two-car collision on U.S. 45 about three miles south of here, police said.

"I definitely think they would have survived if they didn't have that gasoline in their trunk," a state police spokesman said. "They've preached and preached on television and in the newspapers about carrying gas in your car, but nobody listens."

1974 economy

Christian Science Monitor

American economists have had to go to press with their 1974 forecasts, despite perplexity over the energy crisis.

They would no doubt have been reassured by Tuesday's easing of oil cutbacks for West Europe and Japan, from the current 25 per cent cutback to 15 per cent. And they may have been further reassured by energy chief William Simon's comment that the U. S. energy shortfall now may be less than expected. But the economists have largely been counting on a renewed oil flow within two months anyway, and they view the energy crisis in broader than Middle East political terms.

Business Week's roundup of forecasts shows a projected 1974 average real GNP growth of 1.4 per cent (down from 6 per cent this year), inflation at 6.1 per cent (about the same as this year), and unemployment of 5.7 per cent (an increase of 1 per cent). Business profits aren't expected to drop more than 10 per cent, although the auto industry may lead a downturn in production with a 3 million drop in sales. If the oil embargo continues for the year — a far less likely prospect for the U. S. — now that quotas have been eased for Europe and Japan — the GNP could shrink by as much as 3 per cent, a severe but not disastrously recessionary rate.

The forecasts are instructive in two ways. First, it is a sign of the inherent momentum of an economy that it carries on as near "business as usual" as possible and does not freeze with fright at the prospect of shortage or adjustment. The economists had to crank out their forecasts. The banks and businesses for which they work likewise will carry on into the new year — wishing no doubt they knew the answer to the oil riddle, but with the best basic and contingency plans they can muster.

The second point is that while the prospect of recession, especially in the first quarter, seems serious, there remains a basic strength in the economy that should not be discounted. Capital spending, exports, government spending, inventories are expected to stay strong, according to latest calculations.

This is not to ignore the potential hardship for many individuals put out of work, or of higher prices on the poor, already disproportionately hit by recent economic trends.

Nor to suggest that the economy will be able to bull its way through without help from government. For instance, Walter Heller, new president of the American Economic Association, said Sunday there would have to be "a certain amount of monetary easing. We cannot go into a modest recession with 10 per cent interest rates."

But it is to say that Americans can face 1974 with a measure of gratitude that 1973 was a fairly good year, food prices excepted, and that they have grounds for confidence for progress through 1974.

Pooling pitfalls

Salt Lake Tribune

William E. Simon, the energy chief, has announced details of a standby gasoline rationing plan which would provide a basic allotment of 32 to 35 gallons per month to every licensed driver 18 or older. This approximately 8 and a half gallon weekly ration, in this area, at least, ought to encourage car pooling.

However, the idea is less inviting, even with tight gasoline supplies, after reading Tribune Business Editor Robert H. Woody's analysis of some of the legal ramifications of car pooling. In the event of an accident where passengers are hurt, the owner-driver is likely in for a lengthy round of legal confrontations.

As Mr. Woody points out the laws or rules regarding participants in car pools, either passengers or drivers, are indefinite. What eventually results in the event of a death of injury accident, he says, "only your jury will know for sure." It is likely that the thoughtful, prudent motorist, after examining his alternatives will opt to continue driving to work alone. He will have weighed the costs of additional insurance coverage against the cost of buying those extra ration coupons Simon says will be available at premium prices and have concluded it is cheaper to buy more coupons than more insurance.

A recent Gallup Poll showed Americans generally don't look upon car pools with unbridled enthusiasm. Nationally, only 8 per cent of the respondents said they had joined a car pool to conserve energy. In the west acceptance of car pools was grudgingly a little better, 20 per cent of the people had agreed to stop riding solo.

Even with the threat of nationwide gasoline rationing, it is a reasonably certain prospect that Americans will spend money for more ration coupons than be confronted with the possibility of prolonged court battles.

They will unless the 50 state legislatures begin immediate consideration of statutes that reduce the legal perils of car pooling, while defining more precisely the duties and obligations of car pool drivers.

The advantages of car pooling are immensely attractive, until examined alongside the potential legal pitfalls. Those stumbling blocks must be turned into responsible guidelines that will encourage the end to solo driving. Otherwise car pooling will continue to rate not much more than 8 per cent on the Gallup Poll.

WASHINGTON — There is plenty left over for the 93rd Congress to do in its second year, which begins Jan. 21.

Some major problems it will tackle were not even raised in its first year which recently ended.

For example, national health insurance. President Nixon plans to introduce "a comprehensive program" and the Democrats who control Congress will have some competing programs.

A presidential veto is the reason for another unfinished piece of business — a raise in the minimum wage. The President vetoed a bill Congress passed which would have raised the basic hourly rate of $1.60 to $2 this year and $2.20 next July 1. Nixon vetoed it on grounds it would be inflationary.

Some major items still remaining for action are the result of both houses of Congress failing to act. For example, the House passed a foreign trade bill giving the President broad authority to enter negotiations on reducing barriers to trade but banning concessions to the Soviet Union.

The House also passed a budget reform bill that would reform procedures to give Congress better control over federal spending and fiscal policy and would also restrict presidential impoundment of funds.

The Senate, however, has not acted on either of these measures.

On the other hand, the Senate passed a campaign finance reform bill and a bill to protect private pensions but they did not become law because the House did not act on them. Campaign reform might have passed the House had not the key committee chairman involved; Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, delayed hearings on the subject.

Still another subject which Congress has left to do is to pass housing legislation. The blank for slow action in this case appears to rest on the President. He declared a moratorium on existing public housing programs last January and promised to introduce legislation for a sweeping reform. But it did not come until late in September — too late for Congress to complete action on it.

Tax reform — another issue which promises to be big in the new year — has come to the fore in part because of the national uproar over the way President Nixon handled his income tax problems.

In its first year, the 93rd Congress did take care of a number of problems.

Inevitably, as when Congress is controlled by one party and the White House by another, there was a difference of opinion as to just how good a record was established.

"It's been a hell of a good year when you think of all the troubles that we had to contend with," said Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., agreed that "Congress passed a great deal of legislation this year — much of it of considerable importance." Scott, however, complained Congress did not begin to clear up the list of legislation the President sent it.

But Scott's opposite number in the House, House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., said he thought the 93rd Congress had asserted itself in several important areas previously ignored at the federal level.

One thing Rhodes liked was House passage of the budget reform bill. Its chief significance, he said, is that for the first time "Congress will be forced to make the basic fiscal decisions which it presently ignores."

Noting that the 93rd Congress is only at the half-way mark, Rhodes said that if it follows through on some of the major issues still pending it will have taken "a giant step" toward restoring the public's confidence in government.

Majority Leader Mansfield declared that Congress this year has been "the rock of the nation" at a time when the executive branch has been seized "in a whirlwind of resignations, disclosures, denials, dismissals and indictments" — a reference to the Watergate scandal which was laid bare by an investigating senate committee.

The President was so provoked with Congress that he issued a second state of the union message Sept. 10. He proclaimed a stripped down priority list of legislative goals and blamed legislative inertia for the slow accomplishment up to then.

Legislative inertia was to blame in part, in the judgment of political analysts. But the analysts also feel that another problem was failure of the administration to submit legislation in time for action. Finally, congress, in some cases, simply disagreed with the President's goals.

This session of the 93rd was marked, among other things, by Congress reasserting its authority in the field of foreign affairs. It passed a war powers bill which sets a 60-day limit on the President's power to wage undeclared war. Nixon vetoed it. This was the ninth veto he cast this year. But this one, for the first time, was overridden by Congress.

Congress also legislated a fund cutoff for U. S. military activity in southeast Asia which ended the active U.S. military role in the Indochina War and is also designed to prevent the President from going back in without Congressional approval.

The farmers were provided for with a new four-year farm bill. The cities were taken care of with a highways mass transit bill. This authorized $10.9 billion for highways including, for the first time, the right of cities to use some of this for urban mass transit.

Senior citizens were given a boost with a bill that provided for an 11 per cent, two-step increase in social security benefits.

Seven bankrupt railroads in the northeast were kept going by a $2 billion bill that provides for their reorganization in a government corporation.

Congress cut $3 billion out of the defense appropriation bill and $1.2 billion out of the administration's foreign aid request.

In its closing days, it has tackled the energy crisis. It approved year-around daylight savings time, and construction of an Alaska pipeline to tap the Alaskan oil fields.

The final legislative obstacle with which it wrestled was emergency legislation giving the president authority to impose gasoline rationing and take other measures dealing with the crisis.

Vice President Gerald Ford called it "a mixed score card." And White House Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren indicated the President will give considerable thought to some of the last-minute legislation before he signs it.

Travel made pleasant

It being the season to be jolly, one forces one's thoughts away from the world of getting and spending and pleasuring. And this means, as usual, traveling, concerning which a few recent notes.

There is a gentleman attached to the Metroliner train who if his name were known, would fill any cars he services, years in advance. He was on duty on the train from Washington to New York.

On the whole, one wants to watch out for the ho-ho-bearty types. But the Metroliner conductor, who is W. C. Fields, aged about 45, is irresistible. "Please leave the car from the rear, if that is convenient."

To hear such words from someone connected with the railroads is, as the kids used to say during the late unpleasantness, mind-blowing.

When he takes your ticket, he thanks you heartily, and wonders whether your seat is tilted back at a satisfactory angle? "Here, try it at this angle — it's my favorite and maybe it will appeal to you." He appeals to me, and maybe because he read about the new bill in Congress that would pump at least $4 billion into the railroads. But I suspect he was born happy and non-bureaucratic-minded.

The bureaucracy, I have had, surely, the ultimate encounter with it. So I am flying to New Orleans and am offered at lunch a wine which must be from the same vineyard Professor Hugh Kenner drank from during his regulations... our own beverages.

"Very well," I said brightly, "I will present this with this bottle, so it will be yours." She was puzzled. "I'm sorry, sir, but we are not allowed to accept gratuities."

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

And before my encounter with the euphoric conductor, the telephone rang. "This is Allegheny Airlines. The flight you were going to take to New York at 9:10 has been cancelled because of a problem with the equipment. We have you on a flight at 12:30 if that's not too late." I thanked her. Much more perfunctorily than I was disposed to do.

I was disposed to tell her that I loved her for her thoughtfulness and consideration. And then, of course, it was on account of her, that I met Santa Claus on Amtrak.

Triumphantly, I produced my St. Emilion and asked her please would she let me use her corkscreever. She paused, shook her head. "We can only let you drink, according to the honey-moon. His description of it is graven in my memory. "It was a New York State rose, which tasted as if a few drops of Coca Cola had been mixed with old battery acid."

But that night the manager of the hotel provided me and my wife with a half bottle of St. Emilion. This we did not consume, and I put it into my briefcase. And returning to New York, the stewardess offered us another draught of Professor Kenner's potion.

"Triumphantly," I produced my St. Emilion and asked her please would she let me use her corkscreever. She paused, shook her head. "We can only let you drink, according to the Who's next Kissinger?

WASHINGTON — As the sound of the fakir's flute hypnotizes the cobra, the speculation about "the next president" holds Washingtonians spellbound.

Someday, of course, there will be a next president, as there always has been, but the central question is: Will there ever be a "next Kissinger?"

Keeping in mind that the job of secretary of state will one day return to a status independent of — and perhaps equal to — that of a national security adviser, let us look over the pool from which the next national security adviser could be drawn.

If Henry were to disappear from the scene overnight his replacement at the National Security Council staff helm would be Al Haig, 49, who knows the job well; a secretary of state would then be chosen who traveled well.

The only other man who could step in as national security adviser immediately would be Helmut Sonnenfeldt, 47, already called "Kissinger's Kissinger." Sonnenfeldt, a longtime hardliner, would likely serve a Reagan, Jackson or Brock administration.

In foreign affairs, being able to pronounce and spell Zbigniew Brzezinski is akin to being able to pronounce "rodornates" in the Johnson administration or "Dr. Tkach" in the Nixon entourage.

Zbig is a serious analyst whose strategic ideas and humanist philosophy would attract a liberal-centrist president, perhaps a Mondale or a Foley. Ted Kennedy might be comfortable with Brzezinski, 45, though he would probably choose Adam Walinsky, 36, with columnist Joseph Kraft, 49 — once a John Kennedy speechwriter — not to be overlooked.

A president whose view was conservative moralist night turn to Richard Allen, 37, a foreign policy adviser to Richard Nixon before 1969. A liberal - activist president might go for Anthony Lake, 33, who broke with Kissinger over Cambodia; Ed Hamilton, 32, ex-deputy mayor of New York, though all four of these men are some years away from the top job at the N.S.C.

If Nelson Rockefeller became president, and secretary Kissinger decided to give up one of his titles, they would probably appoint Winston Lord, 36, to be national security adviser, or take on Ben Read, 48, a former Dean Rusk deputy now on the foundation circuit.

WILLIAM SAFIRE

Henry Jackson as president would probably choose his current foreign policy adviser, Dorothy Fodskick, 60.

Whoever the next national security adviser turns out to be, he or she is likely to come from outside the section of Cambridge, Mass., that spawned McGeorge Bundy, Walt Rostow and Henry Kissinger, the men who have held that post up to now.

With no academic slur intended, perhaps that change of roots will be for the better. The "next Kissinger" should be a man who will neither compete with his predecessor's superstardom nor usurp his president's power, but will come to grips with the unspectacular job of creating situations of trust.

THOSTESON, M.D.

Vitamins can be overdone

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband thinks I've gone overboard on vitamins. After his breakfast I give him 800 units of vitamin E, a geriatric vitamin with minerals, 500 mg. of vitamin C, a B-complex with C and B-12 and one lecithin. He is 55 and has angina and diverticulosis. I have him on a proper diet and his cholesterol count is normal. I am considering increasing the lecithin with another dose after dinner. What do you think? Am I really overdoing it? — E.S.

Yes, I think you are, decidedly. All the vitamins you are giving him are readily available in any "proper diet." One point overlooked is the fact that overdosage of some vitamins is not absorbed. For example, after a concentrated dose of B-complex is taken, the urine becomes highly yellow from the riboflavin being discarded by the body.

The minerals in the geriatric capsules also are plentiful in any balanced diet. Finally, despite the clamor that vitamin E is supposed to be good for almost anything that ails you, scientific evidence makes the massive use of vitamin E questionable.

Some certainly rue their '73 statements

WASHINGTON — A lot of people said a lot of things in 1973, they are now sorry for. For example:

How would you feel if you had been the person who said to the Shah of Iran, "No, thank you, Your Highness, we don't need any oil. Go peddle your surplus somewhere else."

Or the one who advised President Nixon, "Why don't you release your tax returns? What have you got to hide?"

Or the real estate man who said to Spiro, "Well, as long as you're going to be vice president for four more years, you might as well invest in a $200,000 home in Kenwood, Md."

Or the broker, any broker, who told his clients, "You couldn't do any better with your money than investing it in the stock market in October."

Or the lobbyist who said to a friend in June, "Don't waste your time with Gerry Ford. He isn't going anywhere."

Or perhaps the White House lawyer who said to President Nixon, "If you fire Archibald Cox on Saturday, no one in the country will know you did it."

Or the White House press agent who burst into the Oval Office and said, "I've got it! I've got it! We'll launch a counteroffensive and call it 'Operation Candor!'"

Or the Israeli intelligence officer who assured

ART BUCHWALD

Golda Meir's cabinet, "You have my word, the Arabs are not prepared to fight."

Or the Egyptian intelligence officer who assured Sudan's cabinet, "You have my word, the Israelis will never be able to cross the Suez Canal."

Or the American intelligence officer who told the National Security Council, "The Arab oil embargo talk is all bluff. What are they going to do, drink the stuff?"

Or the General Motors vice president who told his bosses last spring, "My advice is to double the number of big cars we plan to make for 1974."

And how about the friend who said to John Love, "If I were you, I would resign as governor of Colorado and take the job as energy czar. What have you got to lose?"

US energy office tells plan to enforce fuel allocations

DR. DIXY LEE RAY backs atom power

(c) N.Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — The federal energy office made three announcements Sunday designed to demonstrate that the complex new system of fuel allocations will be enforced. These were the highlights of the announcements, issued in the name of the energy office chief, William E. Simon: The energy office is "looking into the inventory practices of refiners, importers, wholesalers and end users" of oil products to prevent "the possibility of fuel being stockpiled in excessive and unreasonable amounts." A force of 1,600 agents of the Internal Revenue Service "is now being mobilized" to enforce both the present regulations and those that will take effect in mid-January. Violators of the regulations, said the announcement, "are subject to criminal penalties." More than 15,000 "hardship cases," mainly involving propane and middle distillate oil products such as heating oil, have been settled and the oil allocation staff has been increased from 370 in early December to 900 now.

During the holiday period, the agents have been combining the two by enforcing price controls on gasoline. So far no violators have been prosecuted, but some price rollbacks have been reported. The number of businesses engaged in oil production and distribution is well in excess of 100,000, and the number of business users of oil products — apart from individual consumers — is unknown but probably greater. Officials concede that enforcing regulations against "hoarding" of inventories will be difficult. In another development, Dixy Lee Ray, chairman of the atomic energy commission, speaking in favor of nuclear power as an alternative source of energy, said that "in the case of industrial accidents, the record in nuclear (electric power) plants is far better than the record in fossil fuel plants."

The "actual strong opposition" to construction of nuclear power plants among the general public is only "a minority of 5 to 10 per cent," she said, citing "a number of polls taken in various areas of the country." In his announcement on a possible hoarding of fuel inventories, Simon said, "We are concerned over the possibility of fuel being stockpiled in excessive and unreasonable amounts, which could create local shortages and disrupt normal distribution patterns." He said his agency will "direct an increase or decrease in inventories if circumstances warrant." He cited the new mandatory oil allocation regulations that became effective last Thursday.

The announcement on enforcement of the oil allocation regulations covered those in effect since early October on some products, those that took effect last Thursday and those that will become effective on Jan. 15. Simon said "willful violators of the mandatory fuel allocations are subject to criminal penalties. False or fraudulent activities regarding the allocation program will be prosecuted and could lead to substantial fines." He said reports from "all levels of the petroleum industry" were now being audited.

Gas scrambles fire tempers

By United Press International
Most of the nation's gas stations are closed until after New Year's Day, and there were some temper-snarling scrambles Sunday for the last drops of gasoline. A 17-year-old gas station attendant in Detroit was held by police Sunday after he admitted fatally shooting a motorist who refused to pay for gasoline. Police said the youth told them he thought the customer was reaching for a gun when he put his hand in his pocket after refusing to pay. Spot checks across the nation by United Press International Sunday found that service stations open for business ranged from about a dozen of the 1,200 in St. Louis, Mo., to as high as 30 per cent in parts of Ohio, the South and West. Most dealers said the pumps would stay locked up until after New Year's when they get the first supplies for 1974. Gasoline was scarce around New York City. There were waiting lines outside the few service stations that were open, and short fuses tempers occasionally exploded into harsh words. Dwindling gas supplies prompted the New York City police department, "left with just over a day's supply on hand, to cut down on the use of patrol cars and send more officers out on foot patrol. A police spokesman said there were 35,000 gallons in police tanks, about 10,000 gallons more than a normal day's usage, and the department was "nervous" about getting fresh supplies. "In the past, we could just call up and be sure of getting deliveries the next day," said the spokesman. "Now we can't. So we're not taking any chances." Police across the nation said that traffic was extremely light on the fourth gasless Sunday of the energy shortage. Among those caught in the squeeze was vacationing Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon who was refused gasoline at one station in Lincoln City, Ore., because he wasn't a regular customer then had to wait at the end of a long line of cars at another station to fill up. President Richard Nixon has given up one of his favorite pastimes, too. White House aides said he hasn't hit the San Diego freeway near his San Clemente, Calif., vacation retreat for a scenic drive because of the gas shortage. And in Tempe, Ariz., a motorist who unexpectedly ran out of gas found a $5 bill tucked under his car's gas cap, apparently left by the driver who siphoned out his fuel.

Appearing on the Columbia Broadcasting System's "Face the Nation" television program, she also said, "All the wastes accumulated from the commercial (nuclear) power plants, reduced to solid, by the year 2000 — even including the new plants that are expected to be built between now and then — could be stored on one acre of ground. It doesn't take a lot of space because it isn't a lot of material, if you evaporate it down to a solid."

Job boost sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has urged President Nixon to take action to avert rising unemployment in the housing and related industries and at the same time to make it easier for middle-income Americans to buy homes. In a letter to Nixon, released Sunday, Proxmire urged release of $360 million in impounded housing subsidy and rent supplement funds and activation of a program to provide mortgage loans at 7 per cent interest to middle-income families. Proxmire, vice chairman of Congress' Joint Economic Committee, said the unemployment rate in the construction industry is 9.6 per cent, nearly double the national average, and a further drop could "trigger a nationwide recession." He said the home-construction industry is projecting only 1.6 million housing starts next year, 24 per cent less than in 1973. "A reduction of 500,000 starts will result in a loss of at least one million jobs in the construction and related industries," he said.

Slide kills hiker

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — An avalanche 150-200 feet wide thundered down Flat Top Mountain outside Anchorage Sunday, sweeping members of a church group hiking party off their feet and killing an adult leader. "I yelled, 'landslide, landslide, go to your right,'" said Dean Honette, youth director for the Evangelical Covenant Church of Anchorage. "I managed to get two steps out of the way before it hit me," he added. "I grabbed one of the girls' hands and we tried to hold on but couldn't."

Most of the 10 weekend hikers managed to avoid the brunt of the slide, but youth group leader Patrick McDaniel, 35, of Anchorage, was on the slide and was buried by the tumbling snow. Seven group members managed to uncover themselves and hiked more than a mile to a telephone where they called for the Alaska Rescue Unit for assistance. "When we finally dug him out, I checked to see if he was breathing," Honette said of McDaniel.

Inmates surrender

BLAND, Va. (UPI) — Inmates who barricaded themselves in two cellblocks Sunday night and then snoked themselves out by starting fires may just have wanted to give the prison "a hard time," according to the superintendent. Superintendent John Gathright said he was unaware of any demands by rebel prisoners at the institution in rural southwestern Virginia. "No inmates have talked to me about the incident," he said after the disturbance involving some 45 inmates was ended without any serious injuries reported. "We don't know what the reason was, unless they just wanted to give us a hard time." The inmates clogged the cellblocks for about three hours before dense smoke from their fires forced them to surrender to prison guards, State Police Lt. L.H. Baumgardner said. Baumgardner said about 20 state troopers were assembled at the scene about 7 p.m. He said they entered the prison complex, but took no action.

Reporters barred from murder trial

DONALSONVILLE, Ga. (UPI) — Newsmen were barred from the courtroom today during the selection of jurors for the trial of the first of three men charged with the slaying of six members of the Ned Alday, farm family last May. Judge Walter J. Geer said Sunday that reporters would not be allowed to watch the choosing of a jury for the trial. And Geer, brought in from another circuit for the case, refused to say which of the defendants — Wayne Coleman, 26, and his half-brother, Carl Isaacs, 19, both of Parkville,

Md., and George Dundee 35, of Baltimore, Md., would be tried first. A fourth member of the group, Billy Isaacs, 16-year-old brother of Billy, pleaded guilty earlier to reduced charges of burglary and armed robbery and received consecutive 20-year terms. He is expected to be the state's key witness. Geer, who is the uncle of special prosecutor Peter Zack Geer, ordered newsmen to register with the Seminole County sheriff and barred cameras, tape recorders and other electrical equipment once reporters are allowed in.

Recluse Hughes faces choice

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Is Howard Hughes' passion for privacy so great that he will abandon his $100 million Nevada gambling empire rather than emerge from 20 years of seclusion? The possibility that he may have to make a choice emerged today, after the state Gambling Control Board met during the weekend to ponder their course in the face of a federal indictment against Hughes. "If he becomes a fugitive from justice, it places a cloud over the status of his Nevada gambling license," board member Shannon Bybee said Sunday. No one may own any part of a Nevada casino, nor be a significant stockholder in a corporation that does, without a state gambling license. If the board revoked Hughes' license, he would have to close his seven casinos and almost certainly would have to sell them to someone with a license. Without the casinos, the value of their accompanying hotels would be drastically cut. Hughes' status is of enormous importance to the Nevada government. His $300 million empire here is the biggest financial entity in the state. He is the state's biggest employer (8,000 workers), biggest taxpayer, biggest landowner and is the major owner of the casinos that bring millions of tourist dollars to the desert. A federal grand jury here, indicted Hughes last week on conspiracy charges for allegedly ordering a stock manipulation to drive down the worth of an airline he was buying. State gambling officials take the position that the indictment should not affect his license, since he is legally innocent until found guilty. But on Jan. 11, Hughes is supposed to appear in federal court here for arraignment. He is not expected to be there. The week before the indictment was returned, he moved his floating hermitage from London to the Bahamas, where he is believed to be safe from extradition. Hughes, 60, has said in the past that he cannot surface now because there are so many legal actions pending that if he appeared in public, it would bring a rush of process, serves and he would be a prisoner of lawsuits for the rest of his life.

But if Hughes does not appear for arraignment, a warrant will be issued for his arrest, and the Department of Justice may begin extradition proceedings. "We would not just have a person who has an indictment against him, but in a sense a fugitive from justice," Bybee said. "That is an overt act... When a person avoids subjecting himself to the jurisdiction of the federal government, the board and the (Nevada Gambling) Commission would have to consider it." Hughes and the many firms he owns anyhow licenses from the Federal Communications Commission, the Civil Aeronautics Board, and permits from other government agencies.

Court order closes station

Chicago area to be closed for price gouging, according to an assistant U.S. attorney here. In Washington, the Justice Department announced the order was the first of its kind in the country.

Hunger strike ends

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — A two-week hunger strike by some of San Quentin Prison's toughest inmates ended Sunday with a breakfast of oven-fried potatoes, eggs, orange juice, rolled oats and coffee.

hardened and dangerous convicts. They began refusing food Dec. 16 to protest a tough "lockup" imposed in an effort to stop prison violence. The lockup included cutting off some privileges and rehabilitation programs.

Judge William J. Bauer Sunday issued a temporary restraining order which prohibits the station from selling gasoline until the Internal Revenue Service can determine the ceiling price the station can charge, according to Asst. U.S. Atty. Jack Wesoky.

Wesoky said a similar legal form could be bought at many stationery stores for less than 50 cents. After her visit to the station, the IRS agent along with Wesoky and Asst. U.S. Atty. Robert Schaefer, deputy chief of the U.S. attorney's office civil division, went to Judge Bauer's home in suburban Elmhurst to request the restraining order.

Prison spokesman Don Goodwin said all of the "nearly 100" inmates in San Quentin's "Adjustment Center" at the meal. The center is a building used to house the prison's

Intense security imposed

BELFAST (UPI) — British troops and police imposed intense security today for the swearing-in of a moderate coalition government granting the Roman Catholic minority its greatest voice in the history of strife-torn Northern Ireland. Gunmen fired on an army patrol in the Beechfield area of Belfast early today, but a military spokesman said nobody was hurt. Troops reported seeing three attackers. Security forces closed all roads between Catholic and Protestant areas of Belfast today before the swearing-in ceremony at Stormont Castle outside of the capital. The ceremony marked the handing over of the province's internal administration from the British government to the 15-member "executive" of Protestant and Catholic moderates.

The coalition body will run schools, housing, local government and community relations. Britain, however, still retained control of internal security, defense, external affairs and much of the province's tax system.

"We don't quite know what to expect, but we are certain that the power-sharing executive is to the liking of neither set of extremists," an army spokesman said.

He said the Catholic Irish Republican Army (IRA) and extremist Protestant groups such as the Ulster Freedom Fighters (UFF) "have vowed to wreck the assembly and we shall be on our guard over the next few days to take steps against any violent action."

The coalition government was formed after 20 months of talks between Catholic and Protestant moderates guided by Britain's former Northern Ireland Secretary of State William Whitelaw.

Two bombs exploded within minutes of each other late Sunday in the County Fermanagh town of Enniskillen, destroying a gas station and badly damaging a government office.

A telephone caller warned the town's postmaster 15 minutes before the bombs went off and the area was cleared in time to prevent injuries, police said.

ICC asked to stay out of Cambodia

TOKYO (UPI) — Ousted Cambodian Prince Norodom Sihanouk Sunday asked the Indochina International Control Commission (ICC) to stay out of Cambodia.

In a telegram to United Press International's Tokyo bureau, Sihanouk appealed to the three countries that make up the ICC—India, Canada and Poland—to decline the recent invitation by the government of President Lon Nol to station observers in Cambodia.

The reason behind the Lon Nol government's invitation was "to fool international opinion," the telegram said. "When they invite the ICC to return to Cambodia with so much insistence they haven't peace on view at all. They simply want to make the ICC an instrument to legitimize their illegal, anti-constitutional regime."

The Cambodian government last week issued a plea for an immediate end to the fighting and asked the ICC to police the country.

Sihanouk's cable was sent to UPI from the Chinese city of Canton.

His government is Cambodia was overthrown in the spring of 1970 in a coup headed by Lon Nol, Sihanouk's prime minister. Sihanouk has lived in China and has formed a rebel government.

Foundation pays Edward

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The tax-exempt Richard Nixon Foundation paid President Nixon's brother, Edward, at least $21,000 to find out where the Nixon family would like the Nixon presidential library built, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

Edward Nixon was paid a salary of $1,500 a month, for 14 months as a "consultant" respecting selection and development of proposed presidential library site," the Times said.

The newspaper, in a story from Sacramento, quoted a report by the foundation to state authorities, confirmed by Leonard K. Firestone, the tire and rubber magnate who is president of the foundation.

The President's brother, in return for his fee, visited "no more than six sites around the country and advised that a final selection (which has yet to be made) should be among three in Orange County (Calif.) where the President was born and began his legal and political career," the Times noted.

Baker suggests 'full disclosure'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., vice chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, has suggested President Nixon ought to make a full disclosure about Watergate-related matters, including some involving national security matters.

"I do know of other circumstances that I think ought to be investigated and they ought to be disclosed to the country," Baker said.

"Some of them do involve national security, but there must be a balance at some point, a valued judgment, a balancing judgment, on whether the requirements of national security are greater than the requirements of domestic tranquility," he added.

Asked if there were any other "bombshells" relating to Watergate, Baker said, "there are other things."

"There are animals crashing around in the forest. I can hear them, but I can't see them," Baker said. The information which he and Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, possess, even though it involves national security, "has sufficient bearing on the conduct of affairs in the White House so that it ought to be disclosed."

But he would not detail the nature of the information except to say "the odds are probably better that it would be helpful to the President (rather than hurtful) and Nixon was 'adamant' about not disclosing the national security-related facts."

"I must say as well," Baker added, "that Sen. Ervin feels it is not technically within the jurisdiction of this committee."

The payment was revealed by a report from the foundation to the state Registry of Charitable Trusts, which scrutinizes the finances of tax exempt foundations. Last June, the registry asked the foundation to explain a statement showing expenses of $72,230 for "construction in progress," since the foundation had still not chosen a site for the library, much less begun building it.

An exchange of letters followed, climaxed by a report two weeks ago itemizing the construction expenses, including consultant fees to the President's brother and five other firms or individuals and architecture fees.

Among the trustees of the foundation are former top presidential aides John Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman and former Attorney General John Mitchell.

Avalanches sweep Utah slopes

ALTA, Utah (UPI) — Heavy new snow broke loose and thundered down three ski slopes in the Wasatch National Forest during the weekend, amassing into a crowded lodge, burying cars and killing a 30-year-old ski instructor.

Two avalanches occurred Sunday at the Alta Ski-Resort during a blizzard. The first slide hit the Alta Lodge, seriously injuring a resort handyman.

The snow rumbled down the Flagstaff slide area and poured through the window of one room at the lodge, covering a young woman who was sleeping. She escaped unharmed. The slide also buried 20 cars and the Photohaus Studio under 10 feet of snow.

A second river of snow poured down the Cardiff slide area Sunday, narrowly missing the Peruvian Lodge and covering 15 cars in the parking lot.

On Saturday, an avalanche at Park City West, just over the mountain from Alta, roared 300 yards down a gully and slammed into three ski instructors. Two of them managed to break free of the snow pack, but Rex I. Potter, 30, Salt Lake City, was swept into a tree, knocked unconscious and suffocated before rescuers arrived.

U.S. Forest Service supervisor Chandler St. John said Alta received 55 inches of new snow since last Thursday and that slides were a common occurrence in the area.

He said the forest service uses special cannons regularly to blast loose the snowpucks before they become dangerously large. Motorists are forbidden to stop during the winter months at designated slide areas in the canyon.

William Cargill, 30, a handyman at the Alta Lodge was struck by flying debris during an avalanche and was evacuated by helicopter for treatment of possible internal injuries.

Helicopter pilot Bob Hoskings flew Cargill through a blizzard to Holy Cross Hospital in nearby Salt Lake City.

"How he made it, I just don't know," St. John said of Hoskings' flight through the storm. "He's just a great pilot."

Alta Mayor William Leavitt said the slide caused no structural damage to the lodge.

but the snow broke windows, cracked a propane tank and generally made a mess of the building where 110 guests were staying.

He said it was the first avalanche to come close the lodge, "but slides are unpredictable. It apparently found a new path."

Well-wishers greet Lindsay

NEW YORK (UPI) — John V. Lindsay spent the last Sunday of his administration doing what helped make him a national figure soon after taking office eight years ago: walking along streets filled with boisterous New Yorkers.

But instead of the sweltering and tense ghettos of 1966, Lindsay was mobbed by thousands of well-wishers along the Fifth Avenue mall—23 blocks closed to vehicular traffic.

Lindsay, who switched parties and ran an unsuccessful campaign for the Democratic nomination for president, did not seek re-election as mayor. Abraham Beame, 67, the city's Democratic comptroller, will be sworn in as the city's 104th mayor on New Year's Day.

Asked if he would miss the crowds, the enthusiasm and the recognition, Lindsay said, "it's mixed. Of course I'll miss it but it's mixed."

Those too far to shake Lindsay's hand, called out their well-wishes: "Hate to see you go John!" "Good luck Mr. Mayor!" "God bless you Mayor Lindsay" "Come back to us soon."

To which Lindsay would reply with a broad smile, "Happy New Year and good health to you, friend." To the many little girls almost trampled trying to get close, Lindsay would say, "How are you honey?" and to the little boys, "Hello handsome."

Many asked Lindsay if he was going to run for senator, governor or president. "No, I don't think so," he replied.

At one point a man told Lindsay the mall "is a great idea—we need it seven days a week." Lindsay replied quietly, "you know, you're right."

Once seated in his car with several aides after the 40-minute walk, Lindsay said somewhat wistfully, "what a way to go."

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices moved steadily lower Monday to conclude a year of historic highs and precipitate declines on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was active.

Analysts attributed the decline primarily to year-end tax selling and adjustment of institutional portfolios rather than to any specific economic or political developments.

Shortly before noon EST the Dow Jones industrial average was off 7.23 at 840.79. Stocks declining in price outnumbered those gaining, 970 to 430, among the 1,785 issues traded.

Volatility after two hours of trading was about 5,500,000 shares, compared with 10,000,000 at the same time Friday.

On the last day of the year, only gold mining issues and railroads drew support on a market that opened 1973 on a wave of enthusiasm that sent the Dow to a record high of 1051.70 last Jan. 11.

Advances of 6 points in Dome Mines, 4 1/2 in Homestake Mining and 3 1/2 in Campbell Redlake by midday Monday reflected concern among investors that the historic highs now being imposed on petroleum by the producing nations may disrupt the world's currency system.

The higher rails, paced by a 1 1/2-point advance by Chessie System, was consistent with the nation's renewed interest in coal as a source of energy to make up for dwindling supplies of oil. The railroads are the principal transporters of coal, and some own vast reserves of it.

General Motors, one of the major victims of the energy crisis, was the most actively traded issue by midday and was off 2 points at 46 on turnover of 111,000 shares.

Gulf Resources and Chemical was second among the actives, up 3/4 at 11 1/2 on turnover of 68,200 shares. Gulf Oil was third at 23 1/2, up 1/2 on 67,900 shares.

DEAR ABBY: I have been happily married to a beautiful girl for over a year. She used to work at the same office with me, but she quit a few months ago.

There is this guy at the office who has been telling me every morning lately about his love dreams. And who do you think he is dreaming about? My wife!

I know you can't blame a guy for what he dreams, but it bugs me to know that he has been making love to my wife in his dreams.

I hate to get rough with him because he doesn't know how much it bugs me, but how do I tell him? BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: In plain language, like this: "Look, friend, I can't stop you from dreaming about my wife, but if your dreams are getting better all the time, I'd rather not hear about it!"

Keep dreams to yourself

DEAR READERS: I would like to share something with you that strikes me as 9 simple common sense rules. Let's call them, New Year's Resolutions:

"Just for today I will try to live thru this day only, and not tackle my whole life problem at once. I can do something for 12 hours that would appall me if I felt that I had to keep it up for a lifetime.

"Just for today I will be happy. This assumes to be true what Abraham Lincoln said, that 'Most folks are as happy as they make up their minds to be.'

"Just for today I will adjust myself to what is, and not try to adjust everything to my own desires. I will take my 'luck' as it comes, and fit myself to it.

"Just for today I will try to strengthen my mind. I will study. I will learn something useful. I will not be a mental loafer. I will read something that requires effort, thought and concentration.

"Just for today I will exercise my soul in three ways: I will do somebody a good turn, and not get found out; if anybody knows of it, it will not count. I will do at least two things I don't want to do - just for exercise. I will not show anyone that my feelings are hurt; they may be hurt, but today I will not show it.

"Just for today I will be agreeable. I will look as well as I can, dress becomingly, talk low, act courteously, criticize not one bit, not find fault with anything and not try to improve or regulate anybody except myself.

"Just for today I will have a program. I may not follow it exactly, but I will have it. I will save myself from two pests: hurry and indecision.

"Just for today I will have a quiet half hour all by myself, and relax. During this half hour, some time, I will try to get a better perspective of my life.

"Just for today I will be unafraid. Especially I will not be afraid to enjoy what is beautiful, and to believe that as I give to the world, so the world will give to me."

And that is the credo for Overeaters Anonymous. It makes sense, doesn't it? And so does their program. It's free. For information about this wonderful organization, write to Box 2613, Hollywood, Cal. 90028.

P.S. Have a happy, healthy New Year. And pray for peace!

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "Why are you sticking in this hand to finish the year 1973?"

Oswald: "Because, North should really be given a prize for the underbid of the year."

Jim: "Now that I look the North hand over, I must agree. North's four spade call was really playing it close to the chest."

Oswald: "I received it in a batch of questions for my 'Pro and Contra' column in the Bridge World magazine. I was asked to comment on the bidding and replied that it appeared as if North had never been told about slam bonuses."

Jim: "It sure looks that way. After South bid and rebid spades it would be impossible to visualize a South hand that wouldn't be worth a small slam contract; opposite North's monster."

Oswald: "In addition North had an easy way to try for the grand slam if he knew about the grand slam force. A five notrump call would ask South to bid seven if he held two of the three top honors in spades. South certainly held them plus the jack as an extra."

Jim: "Just for the record - in most instances when you play four instead of seven - both partners are at fault. But I can't attach any blame to South this time."

You, South, hold: ♦ K J 8 5 ♠ 2 ♣ A Q 10 6 5 ♣ K 4 3

What do you do now?
A - Just bid six spades. In order for there to be a good play for seven your partner would have had to make slightly stronger bids than he has.

Fashion keynotes

Soft, feminine, tailored, neutrals. The keynotes for this season's fashions are all reflected in the latest eyewear designs. Frames are bolder this year and the new designs emphasize gently contoured shapes. Neutrals and soft tones are the color leaders. Metal finishes still rank high on the fashion scene. Highlights of a fashion report from The House of Vision, Chicago:

Transparent plastic eyeglass frames are back. This year in soft tones - champagne, brown and soft orchid. The muted colors complement the basic single-tone ensemble fashion look and blend nicely with classic tweed clothes.

Tinted lenses still are very stylish. The tinted lenses can be selected to match the subtle colors of the new soft-tone frames to extend the one-color look and complement the wearer's eye color.

Frame shapes are non-geometric. Many designs resemble a squared-oval. The gentle contours enhance the soft, feminine look.

A good evening style from the fashion collection of eyewear is a small metal half-eye design

Miss Thornburg wed at service

BURLEY. - Tamara Thornburg, Burley, and Lt. John J. Camalick, Lansing, Mich. were married in a ceremony at the Burley Presbyterian Church Nov. 2.

The bride, the daughter of Dr. Roy M. Thornburg, Burley, and Mrs. Irene G. Thornburg, Rupert, and Camalick, son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Camalick, Lansing, Mich., will make their home at Travis Air Force Base, Calif., where Camalick is serving as a C-141 pilot with the Air Force.

The Rev. Dr. David Buzza performed the ceremony as the bride was given away by her father. The bride's sister, Deborah Thornburg, served as maid of honor, and Jill Hodges, the bride's cousin, the Polly Camalick, the bridegroom's sister, served as bridesmaids. James Camalick, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Another brother of the bridegroom, Jeffrey Camalick and Robert Patkiewicz, served as groomsmen. Chris Goode, Jon Goode and Craig Hodges, all cousins of the bride, served as ushers.

The bride wore a victorian style gown of silk organza over satin with long sleeves, a fitted cuff, lace detail and a long hem and train. An elbow length silk illusion veil trailed over her shoulders.

She carried a cascade bouquet of orchids, pink roses and baby's breath.

Cousin of the bride, Sherri Roark and Julie Park, served as flower girl and ring bearer. Beth Harper and Vincent Wolf served as organ music for the ceremony.

Childbirth classes set for Jan. 8

JEROME. - The next series of prepared childbirth classes for St. Benedict's Hospital will begin at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 8 at the hospital.

The series of eight classes will cover such topics as prenatal care, nutrition, breastfeeding, the anatomy and physiology of pregnancy and postnatal care of the mother.

A tour of the entire obstetrical area will be conducted at one session and a film of an actual childbirth will be shown at another session.

Instruction in relaxation and breathing techniques to produce a more comfortable labor and birth will be given during each class. An area physician will be present to answer group questions at one class.

The classes are free to all expectant parents after obtaining written consent of the woman's doctor. Persons interested should contact Judi Heath, instructor, at 324-2410 as soon as possible.

Mini-Reviews

TWIN FALLS. - Twin Falls Public Library officials have released mini-reviews for some of the new books recently received by the library.

"Without Reserve" by Sheila Burford. This is a book about making friends with trappers, fishermen and priests... with nomadic wild rice harvesters... with children and dogs and even a possible shaman or two. "The Clearwater of Idaho" by Cecil Dryden. A fascinating book of fact and folklore recorded with precision in episodes of high drama, amusing events and warm description.

"We Can't Breathe" by Ronald Fair. An autobiographical novel of Ernie and his friends and each one's struggle to attain black manhood with a remnant of self respect.

"The Traitor" by Lavr Dwornikoff. "Was he actually a dedicated Communist passing as a priest, or had his 20 years masquerade converted him?"

"Nero Wolfe Cookbook" by Rex Stout. Two hundred fifty-five recipes of Rex Stout's secret mysteries of Nero Wolfe's kitchen, plus a substantial helping of culinary philosophy from this great man.

"Two Guests for Swedenborg" by March Cost. This is the story of two young people and the effect upon both their lives by a most potent voice from the past.

"Passing Go" by Ken Schiff. A gentle and beautifully crafted first novel about a boy whose search for sanity goes beyond the understanding of his psychiatrist, the possibilities of love and the boundaries of his society.

"As We Are Now" by May Sarton. This short, swift blow of a novel deals with an old woman trying to keep alive in a nursing home in a remote country place.

"Come Ninevah, Come Tyre" by Allen Drury. America whirls in doubt and confusion around a weak man in the White House.

Layoffs eyed

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Department of Employment is concerned over layoffs in the transportation equipment industry in the gem state.

The industry has run as much as 600 layoffs above last year, the department said, and the average was more than 400 ahead until December.

"It's a little early yet to call this a trend," the department said, "but it is a source of concern."

Additional funds expected

BOISE (UPI) — A broad guaranteed-income program for the poor which will be started in the new year is expected to help an additional 2,000 Idahoans, mostly for the aged, blind or disabled.

The new program, the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) is administered by the Federal Social Security Administration. It will mail out checks monthly of not less than $130 per person or $195 per couple.

Banquet set

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus will be honored at a $50 per person "appreciation banquet" March 16 in Boise.

Banquet chairman Billien Jeppesen of Boise, said co-chairmen for the event will be Mrs. Harry W. Morrison, of Boise, and former Democratic State Committeeman Harry Wall, Lewiston.

Judge dismisses suit

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Federal Judge Aldon J. Anderson has dismissed a suit filed by 13 Gulf service station operators seeking to prevent Gulf Oil Co. from moving out of the state.

Anderson said Saturday he had no jurisdiction in the case and told the station operators to seek help from President Nixon.

Gulf has announced plans to close 33 stations in Utah by today as part of a general economic cutback.

The station owners brought suit in federal court to prevent Gulf from shutting off their supply of gasoline.

Facilities improved

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — The Nampa and Meridian Irrigation District is taking steps to improve its facilities and expedite delivery of water to urban area subdivisions.

The district provides irrigation water for the Boise Bench westward to the Huston community in Canyon County.

Urban residents have been denied use of irrigation water despite being billed for the unavailable water.

Fire damages mill

NYSSA, Ore. (UPI) — A fire caused an estimated $30,000 to $40,000 damage to grain and mill equipment at the Farmers Feed and Seed Co., in Nyssa.

Henry Anderson, manager of the mill, said the cause of the fire was still unknown.

The fire did not move into the office and store part of the building and missed one section with sack grain. It destroyed most of the mill equipment and some grain.

Storage tanks eyed

BOISE (UPI) — Service station operators, watching their gasoline supplies dwindle at the end of the month, are eyeing the bulk storage tanks for petroleum products in Boise that are reported brim-full.

John Wagers, business consultant for Idaho retail gas stations, told the Idaho Statesman newspaper that one company has filled two one-million-gallon tanks that normally are not used.

Wagers said the storage tanks in west Boise are storing more petroleum products than they have for a long time.

Two suspects charged

RIGBY, Idaho (UPI) — Two suspects in the stabbing death of a 54-year-old Rigby sheepherder have waived extradition proceedings, and Idaho authorities hoped to take custody of the men in Montana today.

Jefferson County Sheriff Joe Potter said Carl N. Lockhart, 34, and James C. Moore, 28, both believed to be from the Boise area, have been charged with grand auto theft.

But he said additional charges would be filed against the two in connection with the death of Le Grande G. Hobison, who was found Friday with his throat cut and four stab wounds in his chest and abdomen.

TF meet set

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Farm Bureau will meet with state legislators from Twin Falls County at 8 p.m. Thursday at the County Farm Bureau Office, 191 Adams St.

Business before the state legislative session will be discussed. Of particular interest to county residents is state land use planning.

The meeting will be directed by Clyde Van Ausdell, Twin Falls County Farm Bureau legislative chairman.

All interested residents are invited to attend according to Dick Parrott, county president.

'Booked up'

CHALLIS, Idaho (UPI) — The Forest Service already is booked up with reservations through July for float trips down the Middle Fork of the Salmon River.

Sam E. Warren, wild river ranger, said reservations are about one month ahead of last summer.

He said there so far have been only a few requests for trips in August.

Cemetery plans sent to Gov. Cecil Andrus

TWIN FALLS — Results of an election to create a West End Cemetery Maintenance District in Twin Falls County have been submitted to Gov. Cecil Andrus for review and appointment of district directors.

County Clerk Harold Lancaster said Wednesday he has sent in the election results in which residents living in an area reprecified by the boundaries of the Buhl and Castleford school districts voted in favor of creation of the district.

He said there will be three districts with one director to be named from each. The first board will be appointed by the governor with others to be elected.

Up to two mills can be levied for the district's operation, Lancaster said. Purpose of forming the district is to provide additional cemetery space and assure perpetual maintenance.

Lancaster said apparently the Buhl City Cemetery space has been used and more land will need to be obtained to expand cemetery facilities.

TF Lodge project

Lodge starts new project

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Moose Lodge and Women of the Moose in Twin Falls have adopted the Senior Citizens Center as one of their projects for 1974.

The first of what will be a continuing series of donations of food and other needed items to the center was made Friday by the lodge officials.

About $50 in food items including canned foods, flour and other staples went into the center's pantry. Other fund raising programs are planned under the direction of Bob Martin, civic affairs chairman for the lodge.

He said the group hopes to be able to provide gifts of food or assist in other ways with special needs of the center.

Kimball named Mormon leader

Benson, 74, who served eight years as U.S. Secretary of Agriculture during the Eisenhower Administration, is the next man in line for the church presidency.

Lee, 74, died Wednesday night of heart and lung failure after serving just 17 months as the Mormon prophet. He was buried Saturday after services in the Salt Lake Tabernacle.

As council president, Kimball, a member of the church leadership for 30 years, became acting church leader upon Lee's death. Church tradition called for the Council of the Twelve, which swelled to 14 members with the dissolving of the First Presidency—to name him president after Lee's funeral. The Elders of the church will sustain Kimball at the next Latter-Day Saints World Conference in April.

Kimball, who speaks in a husky, deliberate voice because most of his vocal cords were removed in 1957 due to throat cancer and who survived open heart surgery less than two years ago, is known to Mormons as a hard worker, a worldwide traveler and an advocate of repentance and forgiveness.

Before joining the church hierarchy three decades ago, Kimball was a successful businessman in the Gila Valley of Arizona, where he had worked as a banker, real estate and insurance salesman and broadcasting executive.

Replacement authorized

Only about $2 million in federal funds is involved in the project. That sum would include highway reconstruction, fish, wild life and recreation facilities, and costs charged to the Fort Hall Indian Reservation.

The process of reconstruction is following closely the projected timetable set up by the water users.

Contracts have been let by the Idaho Highway Department for construction of the bridge across the Snake River below the dam. If finished on schedule by January, 1975, the bridge will carry traffic across the river during reconstruction of the dam. On completion of the dam, the bridge would provide a one-way crossing, with another one-way crossing atop the dam.

Plans call for a new 577 foot concrete dam segment containing penstocks, sluices and spillway. That would be tied to the existing dam by an earth and rock fill 750 feet long.

About 2,400 feet of existing concrete dam would be strengthened by fill as a water barrier, and connected to the new dam by another 70 foot long earth and rock fill dam. Another 1,600 feet of earthen embankment on the west end of the existing dam will be used with little work done to it.

State and federal funds will be used to construct the highway crossing, one of the key points in planning for replacement of the dam.

The proposed new power plant will be located about 300 feet downstream from the new dam. Idaho Power has proposed that it have three generating units with 90 megawatt capacity, about triple the size of the existing power plant.

The American Falls reservoir provides water for about 1 million acres of Idaho farmland, much of it in the Magic Valley area.

Officers obtain 'clue'

RUPERT — Officers have obtained "a possible clue" as to what killed a 72-year-old Rupert woman on Christmas Eve and left her elderly husband seriously injured.

Minidoka Sheriff's officers said they had been able to interview 74-year-old John Praegitler of Rupert, who had been in a semi-conscious state following the unexplained mishap.

Praegitler's wife died Wednesday in a Boise hospital from massive head injuries, according to an autopsy taken in Rupert Friday.

Mrs. Praegitler was found lying in a road north of Rupert by a passing motorist and her husband was discovered lying in a drainage ditch nearby.

Minidoka County Deputy Sheriff Robert Nevarez said Monday he had talked to Praegitler several times. He was listed in good condition today in Minidoka Memorial Hospital.

"Although the injured man had trouble sustaining a conversation, Nevarez said, the talks had yielded "a possible lead" into what had happened. Nevarez refused to make further comments.

Hospital officials said Monday that Praegitler was not yet coherent but was improving.

Funeral services for Mrs. Praegitler were scheduled for 2 p.m. today.

Outage caused by wind

BURLEY — Power was off in many sections of the Mini-Cassia area late Saturday night as winds reaching up to 60 miles per hour raced through the area.

Residents in Burley and Heyburn found themselves without power for up to four hours when the winds whipped the power lines together and blew tree limbs onto the lines.

Crews in Burley worked about 12 hours repairing lines. Heyburn crews spent nearly nine hours cleaning up damage there.

Several power poles leading to Oakley were snapped by the winds, knocking out power for several rural residents. In addition, telephone lines to Oakley were knocked out, hampering communications between the Oakley and Twin Falls offices of the Idaho Power Co. during repair operations.

Officer to patrol homes

HALLEY — David Pursell, formerly of Idaho Falls, has been hired by the Blaine County Sheriff's Department to serve as the officer for a patrolling program of summer home areas and campgrounds.

The program is a cooperative project with the U.S. Forest Service.

Pursell was assigned to Idaho Falls with the Idaho State Police for one and one-half years, serving part of that time as a motorcycle officer for eastern Idaho, and previously served with the Mountain Home Police Department for one year.

Pursell received motorcycle training at the California Highway Patrol Academy, Sacramento, Calif., and attended the State Police Academy, Boise, earning his basic law enforcement officer's certificate. Special schools he attended include dangerous drugs, accident investigation and the Alcohol Safety Action program training.

The new deputy said he felt the Blaine County Sheriff's Department was the most progressive and, referring to the new jail, has the best equipped facility in the state.

'Mostly dry'

SHOSHONE — Magic Valley area highways were reported mostly to be dry with some icy spots this morning by the Shoshone office of the Department of Highways.

The weather ranges from clear in the King Hill, Bliss, Gooding and Shoshone areas, to foggy at Fairfield and Burley.

King Hill to Gooding, icy spots, clear; Bliss to Buhl, dry with icy spots, clear; Twin Falls to Nevada line, dry with icy spots, cloudy; Jerome on Interstate 80N, icy spots, clear; Burley, 150, dry and foggy; Rupert to Raft River on 180, icy, fog; Colterel to the Utah line on 180, icy spots, cloudy with light snow;

Carey on Highway 20-26, icy spots, snow floor, clear; Shoshone, U. S. Highway 93, icy spots, clear; Fairfield, snow floor, foggy; temperature reported as -18; Halley to Ketchum, broken snow floor, cloudy; Galena to Stanley, snow floor and cloudy.

Weekend crimes reported

TWIN FALLS — Hit-and-run collisions with parked vehicles and broken windows were the most frequently reported crimes over the weekend.

Randel Wilson, Twin Falls, told police about $190 damage was done to his car when it was struck by a vehicle which left the scene.

Wilson reported the accident occurred between 8:30 Friday evening and 3 p.m. Saturday afternoon while his car was parked in the 300 block of Third Avenue East.

Myran J. Mayne, Twin Falls, also reported damage to a parked car by a vehicle which left the scene.

Mayne said a car registered to him, but belonging to his daughter was struck as it was parked in the 700 block of Second Avenue North. Mayne told police the collision, which caused about $85 damage to his daughter's car, occurred between Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon.

In the window breakings, an employee of Idaho Frozen Foods told police two windows were broken at the food plant when metal bolts were apparently fired at the building with a slingshot. The window breaking reportedly occurred between 5 p.m. Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday, police were told. Damage was estimated at $150.

Two windows were also reported broken at the old Phillips-News building at the corner of Second Street West and Second Avenue West. The building has been used by the Twin Falls Jaycees as a temporary headquarters. No damage estimate was made on the windows which were discovered broken Sunday.

Louis Hathaway, Twin Falls, told police a living room window at his residence on Holly Lane was broken by a snowball over the weekend.

In other police action Saturday and Sunday:

Betty Newbery, Twin Falls, told police $100 in cash was stolen from her purse while she was at work at a Twin Falls restaurant Saturday evening.

Bertha Wolff, Twin Falls, reported her purse was stolen and a $76 personal check and $8 in cash taken. The purse, which was stolen from Miss Wolff's car as it was parked in the 400 block of 4th Street South, was later found by a lot attendant lying between used cars at Dean Motor Co. The theft occurred Dec. 28 between 6:10 and 6:30 p.m.; Miss Wolff said.

Douglas Hilton reported the theft of a pistol, valued at about $85 from his Twin Falls residence. Hilton told police the theft occurred Dec. 22.

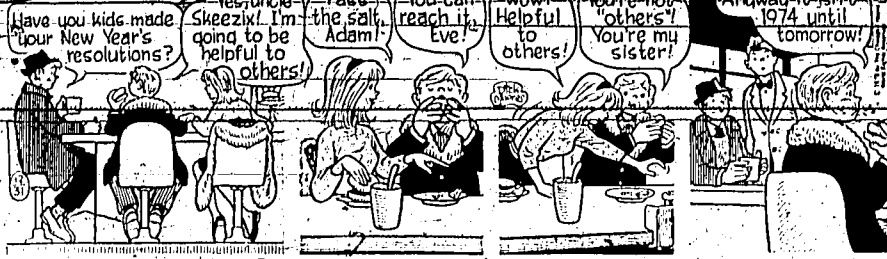

Jay Dugan, Twin Falls, reported the theft of a table, valued at about $100, from the porch of his residence. Dugan told police the table, which he was refinishing, came from the Blue Quail restaurant, which he owns.

George Ward, Twin Falls, told police a citizen's band radio worth about $250 was taken from his car parked in front of his home on 2nd Ave. West. Ward also told police about $42 worth of jacks were missing from the four-wheel-drive vehicle. Ward said the theft occurred between Dec. 18 and Dec. 26.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

A man does not tend to be as impressed with his own job as his wife. Or so it would appear. Pollsters asked a sizable group of wives if they wanted their sons to take up the fathers' lines of work. Three out of 10 mothers said yes. But when the fathers were so queried, only two out of 10 said likewise.

A man of medicine claims surgery at the base of the spinal cord has been known to cure convulsions, migraine headaches and neuralgia. He believes said surgery relieves tension which may cause such. That's interesting. But not as interesting, I think, as his additional contention that those animals which wag their tails do not suffer from convulsions, migraine headaches and neuralgia. And that human beings would not be so afflicted if they had tails to wag.

SILK

In Japan now, enough silk to make a good kimono costs more than $500, correspondents report. It was because Handel needed the money so quickly that he had his hand up for 21 days to write "The Messiah." Again an asked the name of Jesse James' favorite horse. That one he called "Siroc."

If you're 28 2/3 years of age, you're younger than half the Americans and older than half the Americans. That's equitable no?

Hunters shoot down more than 90 million mourning doves every year. But they say that's only about one out of every 10 such birds. And they figure that seven out of every 10 left die of natural causes annually, anyway.

STATISTICAL

Q "How many states now levy no personal income tax?"
A Only 10. Connecticut, Florida, Nevada, New Jersey, New Hampshire, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Washington and Wyoming.

Q "Is E the most frequently used letter in other languages as well as in English?"
A In French, Italian and Spanish it is. In Portuguese, A is first, then E.

Q "How fast is the fastest ice boat?"
A Latest world's record is 174 m.p.h.

Just about 65 out of every 100 juveniles who get in trouble with the law do so once or twice, then no more. That's why the criminologists now are recommending that the young delinquent not be thrown into a grownup court case until after the third offense.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JANUARY 1, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Rest and relax while letting your mind think about where you are headed during the coming year. Meditate on the finest plan you can dream up. Avoid sarcasm.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19): You have many new ideas which require the involvement of others to make them successful, so find the right allies today. Need a new acquaintance.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20): Intuition guides you. Make your New Year resolutions without the help of others. Don't spoil the day by losing your temper.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Keep promises made to an associate without arguing about them. Steer clear of one who opposes you. A cheerful smile is important.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Get health in best possible condition and do nothing strenuous. Plan how to please co-workers more in the future. Show consideration for everyone.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21): Plan how to have a good time today in the most charming and safe manner. If unmarried, join one you like greatly in social activities.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22): Show appreciation for the loyalty given you at home and build up harmony there. Make the home more attractive, comfortable. Entertain.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22): Discuss socially with associates your plans for the future, your relative position with them. Finish thank-you notes. Dine with family, friends.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21): Some clever business expert you bump into has fine ideas for you. Make this a happy family day and invite friends in for tea.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21): Restore your energies instead of gadding about. Invite only trusted friends in, since others could prove troublesome.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20): Think about how to make your life more prosperous in the new year, instead of doing dull tasks. Help one who needs assistance.

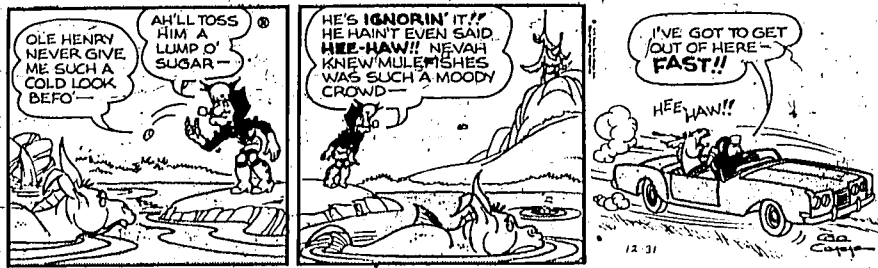

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19): See only a few choice friends today. State your views clearly and show both kindness and understanding. A very pleasant and charming day, p.m.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20): Take no risks where your good name is concerned. Show loyalty to an influential person you know, build up his ego. Avoid a troublemaker.

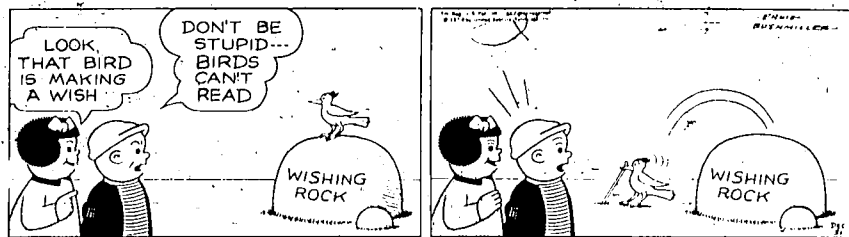

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she can be very blunt with others unless you teach diplomacy early and how to smile more. Otherwise this child can be unhappy. Give a fine academic education with a philosophical bent, and there can be fame in this chart. Teach good manners and kindness early. Give music lessons. Sports are fine.

Minnesota defeats Dallas to advance to super bowl

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — The Minnesota Vikings, after a methodical, efficient first half, survived an error-prone second half with a pair of spectacular plays by Fran Tarkenton and Bobby Bryant Sunday to advance to the Super Bowl with a 27-10 triumph over the luckless Dallas Cowboys.

The Vikings gave a textbook exhibition of dull but near-perfect football in the first half to take a 10-0 lead in this NFC title game but the second half became a comedy of errors with 10 turnovers—six by the Cowboys as Roger Staubach fumbled once and had four passes intercepted.

Minnesota, which has won 19 of 21 games this year including exhibitions, managed to keep the lead with the help of Tarkenton's 54-yard touchdown bomb to John Gilliam and Bryant's 63-yard dash with an interception.

The Vikings, who suffered so much frustration in the playoffs in the past, now will climax their season by returning to the Super Bowl on Jan. 13 at Houston. The Vikings' last trip to the Super Bowl came after the 1969 season when they were heavily favored over Kansas City but were upset by the Chiefs in Super Bowl IV.

It was another maddening end to the season for the Cowboys, who have been to the playoffs for a record eight consecutive seasons but have reached the Super Bowl only twice, winning once.

Dallas, which played the entire game without injured running back Calvin Hill and defensive tackle Bob Lilly who had his string of 100 consecutive games snapped, fell behind 24-10 when Bryant stepped in front of Bobby Hayes and raced 63 yards untouched down the right sidelines with a Staubach pass.

After a Jeff Wright interception set up a 34-yard field goal by Fred Cox that made it 27-10, Dallas had one more chance to get back into the game.

The crowd of 60,272 at plush Texas Stadium came alive when Bryant fumbled a punt and Bill Gregory-Lilly's replacement—recovered it at the Minnesota 34.

A pass interception penalty moved the ball to the one and the Cowboys had a chance to move within 10 points of a tie with about seven minutes remaining. But on the next play, Walt Garrison fumbled and Gary Larsen gobbled it up on the three with 6:58 remaining.

That effectively killed Dallas' last hope and the two teams simply played out the clock to end the game.

In the first half, Tarkenton, playing in the playoffs for the first time in his 13 year career, directed the Viking offense about as well as is possible against the usually tough Dallas defense. He directed drives that consumed 7:45 in the first period and 6:48 in the second period.

The Vikings lost a touchdown on the first drive because of a holding penalty and settled for a 17-yard Cox field goal. But the second drive went 80 yards in 14 plays and was climaxed by Chuck Foreman's five-yard touchdown sweep around right end.

Dallas, which was so listless in the first half, suddenly came to life early in the third period. Bryant made his first interception of the game on the Minnesota two-yard line. He actually would have been better off just knocking the ball down because Staubach threw the pass on a third-and-12 situation from midfield and the Cowboys would have been forced to punt.

Pinned in the shadows of his own goal posts, Minnesota was forced to kick back to Dallas when Tarkenton missed a third down pass to Gilliam.

Mike Eischeid got off an excellent punt but it soared over the coverage and rookie Golden Richards fielded it on his own 37 and got down the left sidelines on a 63-yard touchdown burst that cut the Vikings lead to 10-7.

It seemed as if that play might turn around the momentum of the game but just three plays later Tarkenton passed for what proved to be the deciding touchdown.

The canny old pro, who often has said sarcastically that you're not supposed to be able to throw long against the zone, hit Gilliam on a 53-yard TD pass that made it 17-7 and gave the Vikings a cushion again. Gilliam bent two veterans, Mel Renfro and Cornell Green, on the play.

Dallas didn't lose its poise though. The Cowboys marched back for a 17-yard field goal by Toni Fritsch that cut the Minnesota lead to 17-10 and made the prospect of sudden death if Dallas could tie the game.

Then all the misplays started. Three plays after the field goal, Dallas got a great chance to tie the game when Charlie Waters hit Foreman and Cliff Harris recovered his fumble on the Minnesota 37. But on the next play, Staubach's pass bounced off the hands of Billy Joe DuPree and Jeff Siemon caught the deflection on the Minnesota 22.

Three plays later, Waters intercepted a Tarkenton pass and returned it to the Minnesota 24. But Dallas again lost a scoring opportunity when Jim Marshall hit Staubach from behind and Larsen recovered his fumble at midfield.

Tarkenton hit on 10 of 21 passes for 133 yards in the game while Foreman rushed 19 times for 76 yards and Oscar Reed carried 10 times for 75 yards for Minnesota.

Pearson leaps for reception

Cowboys' Staubach frustrated

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — Roger Staubach said it all in a single word.

Frustration.

"They gave up the breaks," Staubach said. "But we just didn't act on them. It was very frustrating—extremely frustrating."

"The Cowboys were beaten 27-10 by the Minnesota Vikings in Sunday's NFC championship game and Staubach's performance had a lot to do with it. He lost one fumble and threw four interceptions, all in the second half.

It was Staubach's second straight disappointment in an NFL title game, since Washington beat the Cowboys 26-3 last season, but Staubach said this one was "by far" the most frustrating, and linebacker Leroy Jordan could not get over the fact that Dallas isn't heading for the Super Bowl.

"The defense went out there and did what it was supposed to do," said Jordan, the Dallas defensive captain said. "We made the turnovers and that should have been enough."

Cowboy Tom Landry could not explain the Cowboys' letdown. "We played with great intensity against both Los Angeles and Washington but we did not have that sharp edge today," he said.

Viking bothered by sign

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — When Gary Larsen walked onto the field for the pre-game warmups Sunday it did not take him long to notice a 12-foot sign which some Cowboys fans had hung above the entrance to the tunnel to the Minnesota dressing room.

In two-foot high black, capital letters, the sign read:

"LOSERS."

Right then, even before the kickoff, Larsen was ready to tear the sign down. But he waited. He waited until his club had won the NFC title over the Dallas Cowboys, 27-10.

As Larsen and his teammates stormed off the field, Larsen broke ranks, jumped in the air, grabbed the sign with his left fist and ripped it to the artificial turf.

"I saw that thing hanging up there the minute I walked onto the field," said the Vikings' defensive tackle, sweat dripping off the end of his blond walrus style mustache. "There was another sign hanging over the other tunnel—that said 'winners.'"

"I'm all for the fans having their fun, but sometimes it gets to you."

"There are no losers on this ballclub. There are a great bunch of ball players on this club."

Csonka paces Dolphins past Oakland 27-10 to win title

MIAMI (UPI) — Larry Csonka, running with the ferocity of a wounded animal, ran for a record three touchdowns Sunday as the world champion Miami Dolphins roared to an unprecedented third straight American Football Conference title and Super Bowl appearance with a 27-10 victory over the Oakland Raiders.

The Dolphins now meet the Minnesota Vikings, 27-10 victors over the Dallas Cowboys Sunday in the NFC title game, for the World Championship at Houston's Rice Stadium Jan. 13.

Csonka, who carried the ball 29 times for 117 yards, scored on runs of 11, two and two yards and Garo Yepremian kicked field goals of 42 and 26 yards as the Dolphins surged to a 14-0 halftime lead and then held off a third period Raider uprising. Csonka scored a title-game record third touchdown when he dragged five tacklers over the goal line with 1:49 to go as a white handkerchief waving crowd of more than 75,000 fans chanted, "we're No.

The win was the 24th in a row at home for Miami, which now has won 32 of its last 34 games. The loss marked the fourth time the Raiders have lost in five AFC title games.

Csonka, the brash 6 foot 2, 237 pound fullback, capped a 64-yard, eight-play drive in the first quarter with his 11 yard run off right tackle and then scored Miami's second touchdown, wriggling through the center of the Oakland defense with just 27 seconds left in the first half.

Oakland scored its lone points in the third period on George Blanda's 21 yard field goal and a 25 yard pass from Ken Stabler to a wide open Mike Stani.

Miami took a short opening kickoff at its 17 and Don Nottingham returned the ball to the 36. With Csonka and Mercury Morris slyly dodging Oakland's defense and all-pro right guard Larry Little manhandling the Raiders' Otis Sistrunk, the Dolphins quickly moved to the Oakland 38. Bob Griese, back to pass on a third and 11, burst through a gap on the left side on the Raider defense and ran 27 yards—his longest run of the season—to the Oakland 11. On the next play, Csonka, following key blocks by Little and center Jim Langer, burst into the end zone untouched.

Miami then launched a typical time-consuming Dolphin drive using 7:42 that covered 63 yards in 15 plays. Miami ran nine consecutive running plays to move from the Raider 48 to the two and after a rollout pass to tight end Jim Mandich failed, Csonka powered through the middle for a 14-0 lead.

The Oakland offense, held in check through the first half, finally began to move following the second half kickoff. Oakland moved to the Miami 14 and Blanda, who earlier missed a 41 yard field goal attempt, kicked his 21 yarder after Fred Biletnikoff dropped a key third and four pass. Charlie Leigh's 52 yard return of the ensuing kickoff to the Oakland 43 then set up Yepremian's 42 yard field goal that gave Miami a 17-3 lead. The Raiders bounced back with the help of a controversial official's call to cover 79 in 10 plays, with Stabler hitting Stani all alone in the right corner of the end zone.

The touchdown pass came after Clarence Davis apparently fumbled a pass that was recovered by Mike Kolen. But the pass was ruled incomplete and Oakland continued its margin to a score.

The victory, worth $8,500 to each Miami player, sends the Dolphins to their third Super Bowl and a shot at a $15,000 championship share. The Dolphins lost to Dallas two years ago and won the title in January by beating the Washington Redskins, 14-7. Only the Green Bay Packers, with back-to-back victories in 1966 and 1967, have won two Super Bowls. The Raiders, the Western Division titlist, each received $5,500 for their losing efforts.

Shula cites Miami running game as important in Sunday victory

MIAMI (UPI) — Don Shula said a breakdown in Miami's running game was the key factor in an early season loss to Oakland and the Dolphins were determined not to let that happen again in Sunday's AFC championship game with the Raiders.

The Dolphins, with big Larry Csonka pounding out 117 yards and an AFC playoff record 266 yards on the ground against the Raiders while marching to a 27-10 victory and their third straight conference championship.

"I can't be any more proud of this team than I am right now," said Shula. "It was a great win against a real fine team."

"We've got the big offense and the offense got the points on the board," Shula continued.

"We like to think we have a good running game," said the Miami coach. "We didn't show it in the first game with Oakland (the Raiders won 12-7) but we did this time around."

"We felt our job was to go out and establish our running game," said Shula. "Csonka was fantastic and Mercury (Morris) got off a couple of key runs."

(Csonka, the No. 2 rusher in the AFC this past season with 1,003 yards, scored from 11 yards out in the first period and later added a pair of two yard touchdown runs. No other player in AFC playoff history had ever scored more than two touchdowns.

"I didn't realize that I had a record," said the 237-pound Csonka. "I wasn't worrying about that. All I was interested in was winning."

"We gave the game ball to the 'Hunk,' Csonka, he had a truly great game," said Shula.

Dolphins' quarterback Bob Griese got off runs of 27 and 17 yards, the first time on a bused pass play and the first on a quarterback draw.

"It was the first time we used a quarterback draw this year," said Shula. "Griese suggested it. The blocking on it is the same as if the fullback is carrying the ball. I didn't send it in, Bob called it."

The Dolphins, the defending NFL champions, now meet the Minnesota Vikings—who beat the Dallas Cowboys by a matching 27-10 score in the Super Bowl in Houston.

"We played them in the pre-season but that was a long time ago," said Shula. "We do know that Minnesota is a team with a lot of great players—quarterback Fran Tarkenton has proven what he is capable of—and that rookie running back (Chuck) Foreman has been a big help."

Csonka also said that Minnesota has a great football team. "My back is just now getting straightened out from getting Roy Winston's helmet slamming into it the last time we played them."

Paul Warfield, the Dolphins' top receiver, was thrown only one pass Sunday but this didn't bother him a mite. "It was just the trepid of the game," said Warfield. "When you've got your running game going you just stick with it."

Shula was asked why the Dolphins spent most of the afternoon pounding away at the left side of the Raiders' defensive line.

"There was no special thought to running to their left," said Shula. "That just seemed to work best and we stuck with it. Then making a joke based on the fact that Raider quarterback Ken Stabler is a left-handed passer. Shula added "maybe we went to our right because they were going to their left."

Shula said the Dolphins will take Monday and Tuesday off, returning to practice on Wednesday. He said the team would go to Houston on Sunday to work out a week before prior to the Super Bowl game.

Alabama is favored to defeat Irish in tonight's sugar bowl

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — They once fought a memorable battle in this city during the War of 1812, but the way things are boiling for Monday night's Sugar Bowl game that one may have just been a mild scuffle by comparison.

Not only are Alabama and Notre Dame, the two participants in the New Year's Eve contest, out to do bodily harm to each other on the football field, but the threat of a boycott by blacks against the Sugar Bowl Committee lends some political undertones to the proceedings.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the NAACP are protesting a lack of representation on the Sugar Bowl Committee and they maintain that 2,000 or more pickets will show up at the game and block entrance to the stadium.

All that, of course, could lead to trouble of the violent kind, although leaders of the boycott have insisted that the demonstrations will remain peaceful.

The real violence of the evening is more likely to come on the field, however.

The Alabama players have been priming for a shot at Notre Dame ever since Irish coach Ara Parseghian made the remark that "the Tide took the easy way out" when they bypassed a chance for a rematch with Nebraska in the Orange Bowl last season and played Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

Ara's quote was clipped from the newspaper at the time and has been adorning the Tide's wall at Tuscaloosa. The Alabama players naturally would like to make Parseghian regret he ever said those words.

"Yes, I made that remark," says Parseghian, "but I don't think it will give Alabama any extra incentive. We both have all the incentive we need."

True enough. This is the first meeting ever between these two football factories and both teams are going into the game with perfect records. Alabama, boasting an 11-0 mark, has already been named the national champion by the UPI's board of coaches, while Notre Dame (10-0) finished fourth.

There is something regretful on the outcome of the game for Notre Dame, however. The MacArthur Bowl Committee has said it will award its national championship trophy to the winner of Monday night's game.

The idea that a "feud" exists between the two coaches, or that one will consider it a personal victory if he defeats the other, has been a subject of much conversation. But that is quickly refuted by both parties.

"I don't think of the game in those terms," says Parseghian, who is only one victory away from bringing Notre Dame its first perfect season since 1949.

"We have tremendous respect for Bryant, and I know he's a fine coach, but I'm not thinking about Bear Bryant and I don't think he's thinking about Ara Parseghian. It's the two squads playing each other that will decide the game."

"This is no different from another other real big game for me," says Bryant, "but as far as it being a personal thing for me as a coach that's ridiculous. I do very little coaching now, anyway. I rely mostly on my assistants who handle specific things. I'm really only a traffic cop. I do the substituting. If there's a mistake made, I make sure I'm the one who makes it."

Alabama will enter the game a 6-1-2 point choice, but the Tide has not fared well in bowl games in recent years. This marks a record 15th straight year that Alabama has gone to a bowl game, but they have not won since beating Nebraska in the Sugar Bowl in 1967.

They are primed to the hilt for this one, though. "Bama supporters have been pouring into town in droves the last few days and the town is bedecked with crimson colors."

In the lobby of the Fountainblau Hotel, where the Alabama team is staying, there is a giant stuffed red elephant. Sitting on top is a toy bear wearing that familiar tyrolean hat that is Bryant's trademark. Next to the bear is a sign which perhaps says it all for the Crimson players and fans: "Do not feed the bear. He eats only leprechauns."

Bud Grant talks of mistakes

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — Minnesota Vikings Coach Bud Grant admitted it was an aesthetic disaster.

What began as an almost flawless championship football game deteriorated into a comical contest in which two big name offenses surrendered, the football almost at will.

"The mistakes," Grant said. "They kind of destroyed the aesthetics of the game. But we can play volleyball with anyone."

"When you're in a fight and somebody hits you on the chin, you don't stop and ask what happened."

The Vikings and the Dallas Cowboys had just matched each other in fumbles and interceptions for the final 30 minutes, at Texas Stadium Sunday and in the uproar of the dressing room afterwards, even Grant showed a sliver trace of a smile following the 27-10 Vikings' triumph.

"The guy fumbles a couple of times," Grant said of two Chuck Foreman miscues. "The worst thing you could do is take him out of the ballgame."

"I don't think there is anything you can do but give him a pat on the back and say let's go. Most of the time the players take care of that."

Grant said his club won the game by doing the things it had done well all year.

"You got to do the things that got you here, you're not going to outcoach them. We ran a few new wrinkles, but basically it was our blocking that did it. I thought that Funches called an exceptional game."

Nation relies on free fuel reports

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — Although they are calling for a new mandatory public reporting system to keep track of the nation's fuel supplies, officials of President Nixon's new Federal Energy Office have quietly sought to settle legislative measures that would have given them powers to install such a system.

As a result, one-third of the way through a crisis-ridden heating season, the nation must continue to rely on information provided voluntarily by the oil industry and the state of Texas for its best statistical picture of how much fuel there is in storage, in wells and in refineries.

The FEO's move to strike the reporting system was made last Friday, almost overlooked during a confused Senate session in which oil-state senators used a filibuster to force changes in emergency energy legislation.

While much of the fight on the Senate floor was devoted to a section of the bill that would have attacked "windfall profits" of oil companies, a major part of behind-the-scenes wrangling during the filibuster was an effort to strike a section that provided for "reports on national energy resources."

According to several sources involved in the struggle over the bill, which was finally rejected by the House because of the filibuster and resulting confusion it was Gerald Parasky, administrative assistant to FEO head William E. Simon, who led the fight to knock out the reporting system.

Working from a "command post" in the office of Vice President Gerald Ford, Parasky also attempted to bargain for the removal of another section of the act, an antitrust exemption section which would have required public records of meetings of oil company officials when they met on moves to ease the fuel crisis, according to the sources.

Although Parasky, backed by a team of White House aides and officials from the President's Office of Management and Budget, lost the effort to kill the antitrust section, he, along with oil state senators, forced a compromise that removed the power of the administrator of the Federal Energy Administration — soon to be formed under Simon — to create a mandatory reporting system.

Instead, under the compromise, the power to initiate a reporting system to develop "reliable data on reserves, production, distribution, and use of petroleum products" would have gone to the attorney general or the interior secretary.

In the original measure, information from such a system would have gone to several agencies that have expressed an interest in oil company activities, including the Federal Trade Commission and the General Accounting Office. This provision was also removed in the compromise.

Friday, after calling for a "blue ribbon panel" of economists to see what might be included in a reporting system, Simon was asked about Parasky's reported efforts.

"We have always said we need a reporting system," Simon said, referring to the matter to Parasky. Parasky described the compromise as a kind of technical change. Later, he could not be reached for further explanation.

Lemhi water users protest decision

SALMON — The preliminary report on proposed finding of water rights in the Lemhi River Basin by the Idaho Department of Water Administration has raised concerns among water users.

Limitations on the quantity of water to be made available to each user and imposition of a season of use are proposed by the department in the process of adjudicating the waters in the basin.

Keith Higginson, department director, who conducted hearings here with 50 water users, indicated the department is willing to reconsider these issues.

State Sen. James Edrington commented that he felt confident "we can work with the department to straighten these things out before the final report goes to the court. If we can't then we must muster our muscle to change it in court."

The facts and the old water decrees are on our side in this particular instance."

Steve Mahoney, chairman of the Lemhi Irrigation District, said that if the department does not modify the three-acre feet per season limitation per water user it will be presented to the court that way.

He said that quantity limitation has not been a customary procedure in adjudications in Idaho and is not mentioned in Idaho water law.

Film available to groups

SHOSHONE — The Wood River Resource Area Council of Government and University of Idaho, Cooperative Extension Service now have a copy of the new film "Look to the Land."

The film was produced by the State Community Planning and Community Affairs Agency.
