Nixon, aides plot tactics

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon summoned two aides to the Western White House today for political strategy sessions two weeks before Congress reconvenes.

Counselor Bryce Harlow, a longtime political adviser, has been in touch with Republican congressmen taking grass roots soundings in their districts on the impact of Watergate and the possibility of impeachment.

Nixon also scheduled meetings with Kenneth Cole, executive director of the Domestic Council, on programs to be included in the President's State of the Union message.

Alternate fuel sources eyed

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — An M. London, an oilman and 1936 Republican presidential candidate, suggests developing nuclear and solar power as long-term solutions to the nation's fuel shortage.

In a magazine article published here, London says all oil and natural gas supplies in the U.S. will either be found or exhausted by 2005, and changes in alternate fuel sources "may be more of a blessing than a disaster for the nation."

Sadat plans Egypt shakeup

CAIRO (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat planned today a major government shakeup in which he would abandon the post of prime minister to give himself more time to devote to working out a Middle-East peace.

The semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said Sadat was meeting in the southern Egyptian resort of Aswan with three top officials considered possible candidates to become number two man in Egypt.

Prosecutor into probe

RUPERT — The case involving an elderly Rupert couple found critically injured Christmas eve near here has been turned over to Minotota County Prosecuting Attorney Robert Nielsen.

He said today evidence had been sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for evaluation but would release no details about the evidence or possible suspects in the case.

Mrs. Regina Praeger died of head injuries two days after the incident. Her husband, John, is still hospitalized here but may be released later this week.

Faulkner quits party post

BELFAST (UPI) — Brian Faulkner, rebuffed in his efforts to share power with Catholics, resigned today as leader of the Protestant Unionist party, but will retain his post as head of the new Northern Ireland executive.

Faulkner stepped down from his party post less than 72 hours after the Unionist Council, the party's governing body, voted by 54 to 37 to oppose the creation of a Council of Ireland.

The Council was proposed last month at a summit in London, in a conference among representatives from England, its Protestant-dominated Northern Ireland province and the Catholic Irish Republic.

Towam said in last term

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, a member of Congress since 1949, will neither confirm nor deny a report in the Des Moines Sunday Register that he will not seek re-election in November.

Gross, 74, is noted for his independent thinking and efforts to keep government spending to a minimum. He has won easy re-election every year except 1964, when he was the only Iowa Republican to survive the Democratic landslide.

Aerosol safety hearing set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Products Safety Commission said today it will hold a public hearing to consider whether aerosol sprays should be placed under tighter controls for health reasons.

The commission said it would seek public response Feb. 20 to a petition presented to it Nov. 8 by the Center for Science in the Public Interest, a private research group that said aerosol sprays cause air pollution in the home and can be dangerous when misused.

Fuel inventory reports asked

In a move designed to spot possible hoarding of gasoline and fuel oil supplies, 32 major trucking firms and all of the nation's railroads were ordered to report today on the size of their fuel inventories.

Geneva deadlock persists

By United Press International

Egyptian and Israeli representatives met today in Geneva for the fifth time in efforts to separate their forces on the Suez front as the first step towards a peaceful settlement of the Middle East conflict. But there was no public indication of progress.

In their briefest and least informative statement since the sessions began, the two sides said following a two-hour 22-minute meeting only that "disengagement talks were continued" and that the next meeting would be held Wednesday.

"There were no new proposals," a high-ranking member of the Egyptian negotiating team said.

Previous statements by Generals Taha el-Magdoub of Egypt and Mordechai Gur of Israel have mentioned that "an important stage had been reached" and that "technical models of disengagement" were discussed.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said Sunday, following talks in Washington with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, that Israel had a "concrete plan on troop disengagement" to present at Geneva.

Israel has been reported ready to move its forces in a point some 18 miles east of the canal in return for the withdrawal by Egypt of heavy armor from the canal's east bank and the opening of the Suez Canal to all shipping.

The Israeli newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth said that U.S. officials have some reservations about the Israeli withdrawal plans, feeling they may not be acceptable to Egypt.

Panel briefed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John M. Doar gave senior members of the House Judiciary Committee a rundown on the progress so far of a staff inquiry into possible impeachment of President Nixon.

Ten of the 15 senior members who will handle the day-to-day operations of the impeachment inquiry interrupted their month-long holiday recess to hear the briefing by Doar, who was hired last month as special counsel to head the preliminary investigation.

Albert J. Isaacs, 46, a Chicago lawyer who served as senior counsel of the Warren Commission investigation of the John F. Kennedy assassination, accompanied Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., senior U.S. House member of the committee, to the meeting.

Priority asked for school fuel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The president of the National Education Association urged today that the nation's school systems be included among high priority users of gasoline and other scarce fuels.

"The request is based on our belief that the education of pupils is of critical importance to the nation and should not be curtailed or sacrificed to the energy crisis," Helen D. Wise said in remarks prepared for a Senate education subcommittee.

Mrs. Wise said the 1.4 million-member teacher organization was ready to cooperate with energy-saving measures but said procedures might run contrary to some state and local regulations.

Such proposals as going to a four-day school week with longer days might be injurious to schools that have to open a certain amount of days a year to be eligible for state aid as well as for certain accreditation, she said.

The subcommittee held the hearing to examine problems created in the schools by the energy crisis.

John C. Saville, deputy energy administrator, testified that closing schools during the coldest weather as a means of saving fuel was considered only "an option of last resort."

Firm plans leak plug

MALTA — The Texas oil firm which has been drilling exploratory oil wells in the Malta area brought special equipment to the site of a plugged well today in an attempt to stop a hot water leak there.

Bill Donver, vice president of Standard American, said today the leak would be plugged Monday "if nothing unforeseen happens."

Denver said the hot water would be pumped from around the wellhead so the cause of the leak could be determined. Standard American officials maintain that the leak "has to be coming out of the valve," which was allegedly opened by an unknown person or persons.

Bus cost hike request faces TF school board

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls School District trustees will face a 10 per cent transportation cost hike request at their monthly board meeting Tuesday.

Dick Kirkman, Kirkman Bros. School Transportation said he will ask for the increase to offset partially soaring gas costs. He said gas prices have risen 50 per cent for his company since last January. He said he also requested a price escalation clause but that school district officials would not approve this because "it fouls up their allotment for the coming year."

The fuel situation "looks pretty good here just can afford to pay for it," Kirkman said. He said Standard Oil has assured him gas "to the point that if it is available I have my share. But as far as they know their wells could go dry tomorrow."

During December Kirkman Brothers squeezed by with not enough fuel to run the buses for another school day, Kirkman said. The district's 26 school buses use about 2,000 gallons weekly.

Despite the uncertain outlook on fuel availability, Kirkman will not recommend that the district shorten bus routes. He said children already walk up to half a mile to meet the bus and that steps could not be taken out without making children walk further or without eliminating the bus routes altogether.

District Supt. George Staudacher said the district does not anticipate any gas shortage now but "it might be different in a while."

In case fuel does run short the district staff has considered many plans such as shortening school hours, reverting to a four-day week and changing bus routes, Staudacher said.

Latest value for yen posted in Tokyo

Japan cuts yen value

TOKYO (UPI) — The value of the yen dropped by nearly seven per cent over the weekend as traders—primarily large Japanese companies—sold millions of dollars worth of yen in exchange for U.S. dollars and other currencies Monday.

It was the third drop in the once-nifty yen since the Arab oil squeeze last fall. It reflected the plethora of afflictions besetting the Japanese economy since a shortage of oil, a significant increase in oil prices, declining industrial production and an outflow of foreign currency. Finance officials said the yen was floated last February to let it find its own value and said this could mean that while the yen's value was down Monday, it could recover Tuesday.

The Bank of Japan's "hands off" decision came in the wake of relaxation in the flow of dollars into Japan. The Finance Ministry announced last week it was abandoning its policy of keeping dollars from coming into Japan, an action it was forced to take in the face of increases in the price of oil.

Japan had $19 billion in foreign currencies and gold last year, but at year end its foreign exchange reserves dropped to $12 billion.

Because of the oil price hike, officials and importers said Japan may have to spend as much as $14 billion this year to buy as much oil as it purchased last year at a total price of about $4 billion.

The blow to the yen came the same day Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka left on a trip aimed at improving relations with five countries of Southeast Asia.

Gas operators' appeal refused

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court refused today to hear an appeal on behalf of 16,000 independent service station operators who claim government price controls on gasoline are unfair and financially ruinous.

The Court acted in a brief order without comment on a test case brought by two station owners.

In other actions, the justices: — Agreed to decide later this term the constitutionality of a California regulation limiting access by the news media to prison inmates. A three-judge federal panel ruled Aug. 16 that the restriction was unconstitutional.

— Agreed to rule on disputed claims of former Army and Marine Corps personnel for more than $12 million in readjustment pay.

— Refused to disturb a New York ruling barring a federal judge from limiting the number of indigent clients who may be served at any one time by a legal aid society.

New jury sworn

(c) Washington Star-News

WASHINGTON — A third Watergate grand jury was sworn in here today to help with further indictments in Watergate-related cases.

The new grand jury, sworn in by Chief U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica, was requested last month by Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski. Jaworski told Sirica an earlier grand jury, sworn in Oct. 13, was overburdened.

The two grand juries will handle all Watergate-related investigations other than the bugging and cover-up investigation, which is still in the hands of the original Watergate grand jury sworn in June 6, 1972.

Cold holding on

Magie Valley residents can count on shivering through the week but perhaps basking in a "slight" warming trend this weekend, according to Boise weather forecasters.

"Continued cold" until the weekend was their prediction today. Snow flurries are due through tonight but should diminish Tuesday.

"A slight warming trend is in the offing for the weekend," the weather officials said.

The mercury dipped to one degree below zero at the Kimberly weather station Sunday night. Temperatures will drop to between 2 and 7 above in the Valley tonight. Twin Falls should register a low of about 4 above.

European airport defenses tighten

LONDON (UPI)—Authorities put more than 400 troops and anti-aircraft guns on alert at London's Heathrow airport for the third day today amid reports that Arab terrorists were planning a coordinated terror campaign across Europe.

The London Times reported over the weekend that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and European security organizations had received tips of as many as 20 airport incidents by Arab terrorists, but a UPI survey indicated few new security measures at European airports other than new alerts which began in mid-December.

The London Daily Mail said what it called Palestinian suicide bombings were believed planned before the present security campaign and that police were hunting for an armed group of Palestinians already in Britain. Some reports said the Arabs hoped to shoot down a Pan American or an El Al Israel passenger plane with Russian-made missiles.

Other European countries reported strict security precautions at airports. Some of them, like Italy, West Germany and Belgium, introduced the measures before the present security campaign. However, unusually large numbers of police were on duty at the Brussels airport.

Police sources at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci airport said

Security personnel were increased at Athens airport and at downtown airline offices after the Dec. 17 hijack in Rome. Since then there was an unexpected exercise Jan. 5 in which security police patrolled the Athens airport perimeter and some were stationed on surrounding high ground.

Police said they have strengthened surveillance at Stockholm's Arlanda International Airport, but refused to elaborate.

Soldiers with automatic weapons routinely take up positions at Israel's Lod airport every time a hijacked airliner enters Middle East airspace.

Troop votes aided Israeli rightists

(c) N. Y. Times Service

TEL AVIV — Final but unofficial results of the Knesset elections held last week showed today that the vote of those in the armed services weakened religious representation in parliament and mainly benefited Likud, a bloc of parties on the right that sought to unseat Premier Golda Meir.

Results before the army votes were counted had accorded the religious parties 16 or 17 seats. Today, with the army ballots counted, they were given only 15. The largest of the religious parties, the National Religious Party, is a member of Mrs. Meir's coalition.

According to sources close to the elections, Likud, which won only 26.6 per cent of the civilian vote, polled 42 per cent among soldiers.

Mrs. Meir's Labor alignment, which received 39.9 per cent of the civilian vote, won 35.5 per cent of the army ballots, the sources said.

Because of mobilization as a result of the October war, the size of the army vote was considerably larger than it normally would be.

The distribution of the 120 seats in the Knesset will be announced on Tuesday.

An informed source said that the parties would be represented as follows: Labor alignment, 51 (56 in 1969 elections); Likud, 20 (33); National Religious Party, 10 (12); Agudat Israel and Agudat Israel Workers, 5 (6); Independent Communists, 4 (3); New Democrats, 4 (4); Arab List, 2 (2); and the Jewish National Rights Movement, 3 (not represented previously), and Menked, a left-wing party, 1 (1).

Shale sale slated

DENVER (UPI) — If all goes according to plan, Tuesday's bidding in Denver for the right to dig up 5,100 acres of oil shale in Colorado will be followed by auctions in Utah and Wyoming.

Firms will enter their bids Tuesday for the western Colorado tract, which is estimated to have about 1.86 billion tons of shale which could be stripped into oil.

Interior Department officials say each ton of shale has about 100 barrels of oil.

The Bureau of Land Management auction in Denver runs smoothly and everything goes according to plan, Interior officials bidding at monthly intervals will follow.

The first sale in Colorado will be followed by auctions in Utah and Wyoming.

The project aimed at encouraging oil shale development and allowing us to learn whether or not 600-million barrel shale oil reserves can be developed at acceptable economic and environmental costs.

High court won't hear gas appeal

Their complaint said gasoline dealers had been singled out from other small businesses for unfair discrimination by arbitrary methods.

U.S. District Judge Barrington D. Parker barred enforcement of the regulations temporarily on the ground that they were discriminatory and violated the Constitution's guarantee of "due process of law."

But the temporary emergency court of appeals, established to hear price-stabilization cases, ruled that the plaintiffs had not exhausted the available administrative methods for obtaining relief from the Cost of Living Council.

The operators said this placed adverse power with the same individuals who had rejected their own arguments and argued that further administrative procedures would impose financial burdens from which no recovery is possible.

British railway troubles worsen

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's 29,000 railway locomotive drivers threatened today to step up their crippling five-week-old rail services.

But leaders of 260,000 coal miners prepared a new peace move which they said could end the three-day working week, a strike which has been imposed on industry by the government to save critically dwindling fuel stocks.

Before meeting with other top railroad drivers' leaders, Ray Buckton, general secretary of their union, said there is a feeling of "latter anger" among railroad engineers at the state-run British Railways Board's rejection of their 20 per cent pay hike claim.

"I have had telephone calls galore from union branches demanding that the overblown and policy of non-cooperation should be stepped up," Buckton said.

But the coal miners' leaders described as a "ray of hope" into their deadlock with the government over pay.

The union has demanded a 25 per cent pay hike, but the State National Coal Board has refused to go above 16.5 per cent.

Union chiefs met to consider new evidence they were submitting to the government's Pay Board arguing that further increases of $7.20 to $12 a week would be possible without breaching the government's anti-inflation pay ceilings.

Britain went into its second week of three-day working week today as the rail services slashed still further — the locomotive drivers' slowdown.

London's busy commuter services were almost at a standstill with almost no trains running.

On the foreign exchange market the British pound plummeted to an all-time low of 2,283 1/2 the U.S. dollar, compared with more than 2.50 last summer.

Labor unions tightened still further their stranglehold on Britain's crisis-shaken economy.

Sabotage charged in fires

(c) Chicago Daily News

CAIRO — Egypt's leading newspaper, Al-Ahram, said today Israel may have sabotaged the Abu Rodels oil wells in the Gulf of Suez "to deprive Egypt of exploiting these oilfields in the future."

The southern sector of Sinai, where the oilfields lie, will be among the areas from which Israel will withdraw if a disengagement agreement is reached, the newspaper said.

Al-Ahram stopped short of accusing Israel outright of starting the fires that have been raging in the offshore wells since last week.

It said a "definitive ruling" would be premature, but did refer to the sabotage as "this act of sabotage to deprive Egypt of exploiting these oilfields in the future."

The wells are in territory occupied by Israel since the 1967 war and Al-Ahram said it had become "fully clear" to Israel before the fire that it would have to return the wells to Egypt.

Abu Rodels fields are the source of about 60 per cent of Israel's oil consumption and production apparently has been reduced about 15 per cent by the fire.

The fire is extremely costly to Israel, though Al-Ahram did not mention this. Israel will have to pay millions for imported oil.

Question...

What is the difference between burial insurance and life insurance?

Answer...

We don't know why some insurance companies call the difference between insurance and life insurance. When these policies are actually what all of us have come to know as life insurance.

There are four basic kinds of life insurance: Term, straight life (also called ordinary life or whole life), limited payment, and endowment. Burial insurance as called is always issued under one of these forms. It is not actually a separate kind of insurance at all.

A very large percentage of all funeral bills in America are paid by proceeds of a life insurance policy. Life insurance, therefore, is burial insurance in its truest sense. You may purchase insurance for burial from your own life insurance agent. It will be less expensive and serve your purpose adequately.

Hoax author 'free man'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Clifford Irving, in federal prison since August 1972, for writing a fake autobiography of billionaire reclus Howard Hughes, was pretty much a free man over the weekend.

Irving, 41, was allowed to spend the weekend a free man after he was assigned from the federal penitentiary in Danbury, Conn., to a halfway house in New York City Friday. He checked out of there later the same day, but was to report back to the rehabilitation center today. Officials said he was to be assigned to a center as long as he doesn't break the rules giving him a measure of freedom.

TF man charged with burglary

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls police Friday arrested a Twin Falls man in connection with a burglary of the Head Start Program, office in late December.

Dennis G. Thacker, 19, was arrested Friday on the burglary charge in which foodstuffs and other items were taken from the Head Start school's kitchen. Thacker was released on $1,000 bond about 10:30 p.m. Friday.

In other police action over the weekend:

— Police arrested a Twin Falls juvenile on a charge of possession of a controlled substance. The youth was originally arrested about 2:35 a.m. Saturday on a curfew violation. In a routine search of the youth's belongings, police allegedly discovered a quantity of marijuana.

Clarence Miller, Twin Falls, reported the theft of about $80 in clothing from his car while it was parked at a local tavern late Saturday night.

U.N. Terry reported that persons unknown had caused about $75 damage to the rear fence on his property at 1879 Alturas Dr. North.

— C. G. Oliver, Twin Falls, reported that about $100 in tools and other items were stolen from a house at 608 Maurice Street from which he was in the process of moving.

Oliver told police the burglary occurred between 10:30 p.m. Friday and 1 p.m. Saturday.

— Motorists appeared to be less cautious as they became accustomed to icy, snowy streets. Twin Falls police reported three minor accidents within an hour this morning.

Solons to decide on Idaho's time

by United Press International
As most of the nation went on Daylight Saving Time Sunday, Idaho and neighboring Malheur County, Ore., remained on Standard Time.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' decision to exempt Southern Idaho from the time change to avoid "double Daylight Saving Time" still is subject to legislative approval.

Unless the lawmakers take affirmative action to exempt the southern portion of the state from the time change, Idaho will have to join most other states on DST Feb. 3.

Because of the close ties between far-eastern Oregon and western portions of Southern Idaho, Malheur County, Ore., also is exempt temporarily. This leaves the door open to exemption by a special session of the Oregon Legislature should Idaho legislators affirm Andrus' proclamation.

Andrus already has indicated he will ask the legislature to continue the gem state on Mountain Standard Time.

Perlite explained

MALAD CITY, Idaho (UPI) — Perlite, an ore mined and processed here, is being used as the principle construction material in a prototype home being constructed in Malad City.

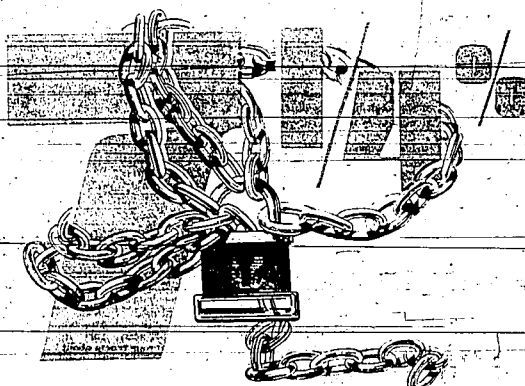

Brent Mills, owner of the home and an associate in the perlite mining operation with his father, said one great factor is the cost.

Mills said cost of the 1,400-square-foot home with a basement is about $14-15 per square foot, compared with $25-35 for similar homes built of conventional materials.

He said the home is built of perlite masonry with the exception of footings and basement walls. Concrete made with perlite is both better insulation and acoustical qualities than that using gravel, Mills said. He added that in home construction, perlite can easily be nailed to, painted and sprayed with acoustical materials.

Homemade N-bombs

Portland, Oregonian

While opponents of nuclear power plants have been warning about reactor core meltdowns and other improbable accidents, little has been said about a more likely and dangerous event: The theft of fissionable materials for the purpose of making a nuclear bomb.

Terrorists have just demonstrated again they can overcome heavily armed airport security guards and capture an airliner. The report of a study done by the General Accounting Office reveals that in some cases a petty thief armed only with a pair of stout tin snips, might have easily made off with fissionable materials.

Since the GAO investigation that began in 1972, the Atomic Energy Commission has proposed stringent new security standards, some of which are opposed by the nuclear industry for reasons of costs. There is doubt in some quarters of the nuclear industry that the standards will prove adequate in the face of rapidly developing use of nuclear power generation.

The GAO investigators found that despite guards, fences and in some cases alarm systems, it would be fairly easy to make off with large quantities of fissionable materials.

Theodore Taylor, the nuclear physicist who designed Magnox, perhaps the nation's most efficient hydrogen bomb, and worked on the miniaturization of numerous other atomic weapons, believes that a knowledgeable scientist, working without any secret information and with materials readily available, could build a crude nuclear bomb in his kitchen if he could steal some of the fissionable materials that are being shipped about on airliners and kept in storage.

He has sought to have the AEC conduct a demonstration to prove that a Manhattan Project is not needed to build an effective bomb. In fact, he told in a recent New Yorker magazine series exactly how it could be done without drawing on any classified information. He estimates there are at least 1,000 scientists in the world who already know how to make nuclear bombs.

A television script writer would not be needed to depict the world terror that would explode if a small group of militants hijacked some fissionable material, built a bomb and then sought to blackmail a nation by threatening to blow up a capital city.

It is Taylor's thesis that tougher security regulations must be worked out now while the chances of theft of fissionable material are still minimal. By the end of this decade, there will be a proliferation of nuclear power plants and fuel reprocessing plants around the world. Large quantities of weapons grade material will be shuffling about the country and stockpiled in various places.

Real security is possible, he believes, so there is no reason to curtail nuclear power. There is a good reason to develop a security and accounting system that cannot be penetrated by a band of terrorists armed with machine guns and hand grenades, or a burglar with wire cutters.

Mr. Nixon's papers

Lawton Tribune

If President Nixon donated his vice presidential papers to the federal government in return for a tax deduction of $750,000, why doesn't the federal government, meaning the people of the United States, now own them? It's a good question, but we are not likely to get an answer soon.

A tax reform group affiliated with Ralph Nader's organization maintains that Mr. Nixon never did own the papers in the first place, and wants a court to so rule. This would mean that the papers were not Mr. Nixon's to give away and might be further construed to suggest that Mr. Nixon should not have got paid for them in the form of that whopping tax break.

Traditionally, presidents and vice presidents have been considered the owners of the papers they accumulated in office even though they were part of the official business paid for, and supposedly devoted to, the taxpayers. Departing office holders have usually donated their papers to university libraries, private libraries, the national archives and other depositories where they were available to scholars. That's fair enough. But it is going a bit far to ask the taxpayers to buy these papers twice, especially when the seller retains final control, as in Mr. Nixon's case.

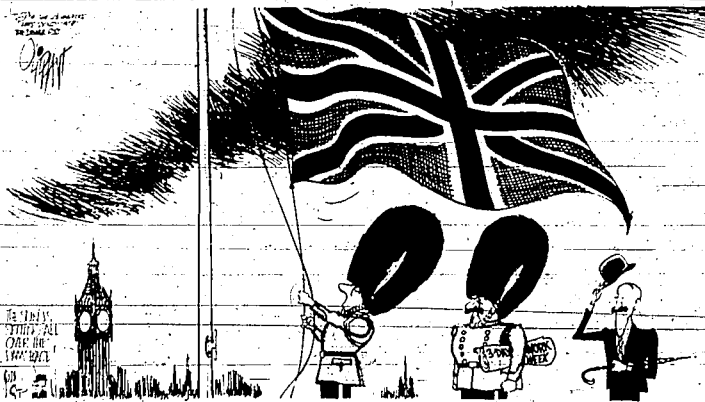

Although he got a huge payment in tax deductions for his vice presidential papers, as if he had given them over to the government, he in fact did not. He retained the right to determine who might be allowed to see them. So they are not public papers at all; they remain the private papers of Richard Nixon, for whom the government is merely storing them.

The people ought to demand their money back. — L. H.

BERRY'S WORLD

Pill addiction major US problem

WASHINGTON — More than 8 billion doses of depressants and stimulants are produced and presumably consumed — every year in the United States.

Most of these doses are consumed not by junkies but by ordinary individuals whose challenge to the law consist of nothing more serious than speeding and overtime parking. Thus it does not seem an overstatement to remark that John Pekkanen, a former Chicago bureau chief for Life magazine, has written an important book, "The American Connection" (Follett). Pekkanen is outraged by what he calls the casual attitude of big-drug companies toward the problem of addiction and the lack of government regulation of the industry.

Amphetamines are pep pills; barbiturates are tranquilizers and sleeping pills. Most of us know people who take sleeping pills at night and then a pep pill in the morning to get their machinery going again. They are addicts in exactly the same sense that heroin-maniaculators or cocaine-sniffers are addicts even though they get their drugs by prescription.

Finally, in 1971, the federal government lumped amphetamines with the so-called "hard drugs," and set quotas to limit production. The quotas, says Pekkanen, are much too high. He supports his statement by noting that a substantial number of those 8 billion doses produced every year falls into the hands of black marketers — illicit dope peddlers.

ANDREW TULLY

For example, Pekkanen reports that Bates Laboratories, a small Chicago company, shipped 1.5 million amphetamine pills to an address in Tijuana, Mexico, during an eight-month period in 1969. "A Congressional committee found there was no drug distributor, warehouse or druggist at the address. Apparently," writes Pekkanen, "the pills were shipped to the 11th hole of the Tijuana Country Club." Whatever their destination, the 1.5 million pills shortly were smuggled back into the United States for sale by dope pushers. Government studies estimate about half of the production of stimulants and depressants probably is diverted from the legal trade to the black market.

Pekkanen names names in Congress. Among the drug industry's good friends, he writes, are Rep. Tim Lee Carter of Kentucky, a doctor and member of the House Subcommittee on Public Health and Environment, and Rep. Paul Rogers of Florida, of the Public Health and Welfare Subcommittee.

Although Pekkanen implies that Congressional supporters are paid off with campaign contributions from the drug industry, he leaves it at that. Rather weakly, he says such contributions are "usually untraceable because they are made in cash."

Pekkanen would have been more convincing had he tried harder to nail down his charge. Nevertheless, "The American Connection" is a good book, worth its $7.95 price tag, especially to parents. We have already become a nation of pill poppers. Most of the pills are harmless, but while amphetamines and barbiturates have legitimate medical uses, they can be physically destructive.

Indeed, amphetamines in some cases are more dangerous than heroin. Also, unfortunately, their production is highly profitable, and Presidents and Congresses traditionally have been leery of offending stockholders who vote.

Freezeout thoughtless

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — When the White House was in power, one of the most mean-spirited and petty abuses it was fairly accused of perpetrating was "the freezeout" — a stern direction from on high to cut off some reporter or publication from all communication with White House aides, after a critical or unfair article or commentary.

The freezeout made life difficult for the reporter, but was rarely successful in intimidating a publication. What happens when power shifts from the presidency to the press? Consider the case of Alvin Snyder, a White House press aide. Formerly a Columbia Broadcasting System employee, Snyder has for the past five years been handling many of the technical television arrangements for the President. He also "books" administration figures on television panel shows. A quiet, competent, experienced professional.

Couple of months ago, amid the general leakage of White House memos, a two-year old memo from Snyder surfaced in which he recommended that the White House not make available to CBS a group of people to talk about the Nixon public relations operation — instead, to meet the CBS request by providing an interview with Herb Klein. Not exactly a scandalous memo, but one which evidently caused CBS news in Washington to take umbrage.

On Nov. 7, Snyder found it impossible to reach the CBS producer who was handling the network pool on the President's energy crisis speech. He was informed that the producer was instructed by his boss at CBS never again to communicate with that particular press aide.

On Dec. 5, Snyder tried to call the CBS producer of the Ford swearing-in—he was rebuffed. The next day, Snyder called again. The head of CBS news in Washington said to Snyder's secretary: "This is Bill Small. Please tell Mr. Snyder that CBS is not accepting his calls."

Next day, Snyder wrote a conciliatory letter to Small, concluding with "Let's put aside any personal animosities that may exist. I hope you will agree after a little reflection." The letter was sent back with "I don't — Small," scrawled across the bottom.

On its face, this "freezeout" of a government official doing his job by a news organization is outrageous; CBS has no more right to refuse to deal with any individual in the White House than the White House has to dictate to CBS which reporter it should assign to the White House.

But hold up — I know Bill Small. This didn't sound like him. Reached by telephone, Small said there was no CBS policy to blacklist anybody, that he would deal with Snyder if he had to, but that he might have been smart-wicky in writing that snide comment on what he assumed was a private communication. He didn't recall telling his associates to freeze out Snyder.

The temptation here is to take the cheap shot — to denounce CBS for beginning its own "enemies list" for doing to an individual in government exactly what Eric Sevareid would rightly condemn the government for doing to an individual anywhere.

A subtler point, however, is closer to the truth. Good men, in positions of authority, can get irritated and act thoughtlessly. The resulting misapplication of power makes good men at the top appear to be petty tyrants — which they are most often not, or at least do not intend to be.

We must battle back at the insolence of office — government or corporate — whenever it appears, intended or not. But it might help cool passions to recognize that what often seems like raw tyranny at the receiving end is merely a lapse of sensitivity at the source.

"GET OFF MY BACK!"

Partial removal of gas price controls probable

By PETER J. BERNSTEIN
(c) Newhouse News Service

WASHINGTON — Since the Supreme Court's landmark decision on the energy business in 1954, the price of natural gas for interstate sale has been under federal control.

Because natural gas accounts for one-third of all energy consumed in the United States, covering hundreds of electric utilities and factories and heating more than half of the nation's homes, the court decision has meant billions of dollars in savings to the American consumer.

New 20 years later, amid the nation's worst energy crisis, the Nixon administration is urging Congress to undo the court's ruling through legislation to provide a phased deregulation of natural gas prices.

That Congress will partially remove federal controls in an effort to stimulate the exploration and production of untapped natural gas reserves now appears certain. The question is to what extent federal price restraints will be lifted to satisfy gas companies who are ready to drill — if only they can obtain the right price through deregulation.

This is the key energy-related issue facing the nation's lawmakers when Congress reconvenes.

Momentum for natural gas deregulation has been building as the price of imported liquefied natural gas and other competing fuels has escalated.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., the chief Democratic spokesman on energy matters, said the price of natural gas has been "unrealistically held down" by the Federal Power Commission (FPC) and that the matter deserves top priority attention when Congress reconvenes.

Rather than adopt the administration measure, Jackson said he favors a solution that would somehow produce sharp increases in natural gas prices without lifting federal controls.

Even one of the Senate's most vociferous supporters of natural gas price controls, Sen.

Adlai E. Stevenson III (D-Ill.), recently called for a change in regulations to permit a price increase.

While avowed liberals such as Stevenson and Jackson have shown no enthusiasm for deregulation, they have voiced even less liking for the present regulatory system.

The main reason for their displeasure is that the supply of natural gas trails demand by more than 5 per cent — and the margin is widening as the energy crisis grows more acute.

Senate advocates of tough price controls have maintained that the FPC set an artificially low ceiling on natural gas prices at the wellhead in a calculated move to show the need for no regulation at all. The result is that 1,000 cubic feet of gas costs, on the average, only 22 cents.

The upshot is that the nation's largest producers of natural gas (which are the giant oil companies led by Exxon and Texaco) have little incentive to explore for, or open up, new reserves. According to the U.S. Geological Survey, there are potentially some 1.2 quadrillion cubic feet of reserves waiting to be tapped. Yet the American Gas Association claims proved gas reserves have dwindled.

Last June a federal trade commission senior investigator, James T. Halverston, wrote before a Senate subcommittee and charged on the basis of "subpoenaed producer records, that some companies had gas reserves 10 times as great as the figures they reported to the American Gas Association. Industry claims of dwindling reserves have been the basis for administration pressure to deregulate natural gas prices.

If price controls on interstate sales of natural gas were lifted, as the administration has proposed, the consumer would not suffer too much immediately, since the cost of deregulated newly-produced gas would be averaged in with the cost of existing supplies. Sen. James Buckley, R-N.Y., who spearheaded the deregulation move in the Senate, estimated that if new gas were sold at 65 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, or about three times what the FPC currently permits, the initial effect on the consumer would be an increase in the yearly gas bill of $8.30.

'Superbanks' dominate industrial competition

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate report says a handful of New York "superbanks" and other financial institutions hold enough stock in competing corporations to dominate entire industries.

For example, it found the Chase Manhattan Bank was the biggest stockholder in 1972 in 20 major corporations. Chase Manhattan held more than five per cent of the stocks of four airlines and six railroads and was a substantial stockholder in the firms which run the three major broadcasting networks as well as 25 other broadcasting companies.

The study, "Disclosure of Corporate Ownership," was issued Sunday by the Senate subcommittee on intergovernmental relations and the subcommittee on budgeting, management and expenditures.

It looked into the stock holdings of 28 big institutional investors, each with at least $5 billion and with combined investments of more than $300 billion, which is more than the U.S. government spends in a year.

The report said the extent of bank influence had never before been revealed—even to the government regulatory agencies which require firms to list their 20 largest stockholders.

The banks held the stocks under other names in "nominee" or "street name" accounts. Until recently, they were able to cloak their identities and the extent of their holdings by putting their stocks under several different names. For example, seven banks held 53 different "nominee" accounts to hold stock in major electric utilities. The banks were not named when the utilities listed their biggest stockholders for the Federal Power Commission.

The report was based on research done over the past four years so the banks may have changed their holdings in the interim. But the subcommittee said the pattern they found still prevails.

These were some of the reports' findings: —Morgan Guaranty Trust of New York used 13 "nominee" accounts to hold utility stocks. The practice "subverted the fact that Morgan Guaranty was among the top 10 stockholders of 41 different utility companies."

—Banks often hold substantial interests in competing firms. One bank, not identified in the report, held major blocks of stock in six airlines: "Trans World," "Northwest," "Eastern," "National," "United and Delta."

—When the Burlington Northern Railroad listed its 30 top stockholders to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Bankers Trust of New York was not among them. But the 7th, 13th, 24th and 28th largest stockholders were all "nominee" accounts to Bankers Trust. The bank "appears to be the largest single stockholder in that rail and transportation conglomerate."

—Banks in 1972 held 38.1 per cent of the stock of the Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., 34.8 per cent of the American Broadcasting Cos., Inc., and 6.7 per cent of RCA Corp., parent of the National Broadcasting Co.

—Directors of the banks often were directors of firms in which the banks hold stock.

Gerald R. Ford, considered a mistake by the ADA. Nelson missed by voting for a June 29 amendment that put an end to the Indochina war Aug. 15, rather than an immediate end.

In addition to Musk, Nelson and Mondale, the ADA's top 10 were Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif.; Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn.; William D. Hathaway, D-Maine; Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., R-Md.; Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., and James Abourezk, D-S.D.

The ADA also noted the scores of 12 senators it considers 1976 presidential prospects: Mondale and Muskie, 95 per cent; Kennedy, 90; Sens. Hubert H. Among the Republicans, the ADA listed Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., 70 per cent; Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., 60; Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn., 20; and Sen. Howard H. Baker R-Tenn., 10.

Mondale, Muskie, Nelson top ADA annual report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) has handed out its annual Senate report cards, rating Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Maine, Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., top marks.

The liberal-oriented organization, rating senators on 20 votes in the first session of the 93rd Congress, ranked Mondale, Muskie and Nelson at 95 per cent on a scale of 100.

It gave 10 senators, nine of them Republicans, a zero. These included Republican Sens. Paul Fannin and Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona, Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, Jesse Helms of North Carolina, Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, John G. Tower of Texas, and Clifford P. Hansen of Wyoming. Sen. John C. Stennis of Mississippi was the lone Democrat to be awarded a zero.

The overall Senate average was 47 per cent. Democrats scored 62 and Republicans 26.

GERALD FORD ... compromise OK?

High court case load increasing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger says the backlog of cases in the federal courts has stopped increasing for the first time in a dozen years.

But Burger said the Supreme Court is in trouble and that unless something is done to stem its incoming flow of cases, the justices by 1980 will confront a new case every hour, including weekends.

In a year-end report released Sunday, Burger reported that all federal judges are working "harder than ever before" to keep afloat in the "sea of litigation." He said U.S. district judges between 1968 and 1973 increased the number of cases handled from an average of 285 to 340. The comparable figures for appeals judges are 85 and 156.

In five years, the length of time required for a case to work up from its beginning in the district court through disposition in a higher court has been cut by one-fifth, he said. He reported a current backlog of 125,000 cases in federal district courts.

Ford asks ITT, milk disclosure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford has publicly urged President Nixon to reveal information on two Watergate-related matters—the ITT and milk fund controversies.

"I think the White House ought to get these documents out and make them available to the public," Ford said. "I think it will increase public support for his position above that at the present time."

White House sources have been quoted recently as indicating the administration has had a change of heart about its "Operation Candor" and that some information which had been expected to be released will be withheld.

Interviewed Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," Ford said he had favored Nixon's disclosing his income tax returns and other financial information "and I hope and trust, despite what I understand is some reluctance at the present time, that the President will continue with Operation Candor, without full disclosure or a white paper involving the ITT matter and the so-called milk fund contribution."

The ITT controversy involves whether a $400,000 contribution by a subsidiary of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. to Nixon's re-election campaign was related to a favorable antitrust decision involving ITT and the Hartford Fire Insurance Co. The milk fund controversy involves contributions by dairy interests and whether these were linked to administration action on milk price supports.

President acted properly in both cases.

He said he believes most Republican members of Congress feel, as he does, that the President, having started Operation Candor in December, should go forward with it.

On a related matter, Ford said that if the Senate Watergate committee would scale down its subpoena for some 500 White House tapes and documents on a wide range of subjects there might be room for compromise.

Probe resumes

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A special federal grand jury, recessed 17 days for the Christmas and New Year's holidays, resumes its investigation today into the May 4, 1970, Kent State killings.

U.S. Attorney Frederick M. Coleman said it had not been determined whether any witnesses would be called to testify today.

The jury of 10 women and 13 men already has heard from seven witnesses. John P. Filo, a former KSU student who now works for the Associated Press as a photographer, has been subpoenaed to testify Tuesday.

Filo, 25, Springfield, Ill., said he was told to supply U.S. government lawyers with photographs he took the day the four Kent State students were gunned down by Ohio National Guard troops. Among the prints was to be a picture of Mary Vecchio of Miami, Fla., as she knelt and wept beside one of the slain victims.

Air backing 'likely'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger says the administration "likely" would ask Congress for authority to renew bombing in Indochina if Hanoi launches another all-out offensive against South Vietnam.

Under legislation enacted last year, the administration would have to obtain authority from Congress to renew bombing in Vietnam.

Schlesinger said such a request "is highly likely to be forthcoming ... if the North Vietnamese were to choose, without provocation, to launch an all-out offensive of the sort that occurred in May of 1972." He made the statement in a local television interview (WETA-TV), taped for broadcast tonight.

Schlesinger has previously described this as a possibility. His use of the word "likely" was new.

In the same interview, Schlesinger said the energy crisis might eventually push the American people to urge military intervention to force the Arab states to resume fuel deliveries, but he dismissed chances the administration would ever pursue such a policy.

Plane crash death toll 11

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — Eleven persons were killed and six injured critically Sunday night when a two-engine Beechcraft 99 commuter plane en route from Pittsburgh undershot a runway on a landing approach and crashed at the Johnstown-Cambria County Airport.

It was the third accident at the airport in the last two months.

The plane, Allegheny Commuter Flight 317, owned and operated by Air-East, Inc., a Johnstown commuter line, undershot the runway by about five feet, struck an embankment, and broke apart, airport officials said. The plane did not burn.

Soviet gas loan scored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Export-Import bank is considering a low-interest $49.5 million loan to develop natural gas in the Soviet Union. One congressman calls it a "lousy" deal for Americans.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said Sunday "this lousy gas deal" would "provide gas to Americans at six times the current price and would make last year's fleeing in the Russian wheat deal look like a Sunday school picnic."

A spokesman for the government-supported Export-Import bank would not discuss the matter other than to say it was "under consideration."

Oil exporters discuss prices

GENEVA (UPI) — Ministers of the world's largest oil exporting nations met informally today to discuss possibilities of starting a dialogue with the major consuming nations of the West.

The ministers from the 12-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries were scheduled to begin formal talks at 5 p.m. OPEC members, who supply 85 per cent of the world's oil imports, have almost doubled prices in recent weeks.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss a basis for a new price system that would inject an element of stability into the market, spokesman Abdul Kubbah said. "In order to arrive at this, we in OPEC are thinking of discussing the matter with major consuming countries."

The discussion, the first of its kind, would be in line with President Nixon's proposals for a cooperative effort to ease the energy crisis and avoid a worldwide depression.

Venezuelan Mines Minister Hugo Perez la Salvia said in Caracas last week that oil countries should ask the industrialized nations to freeze export prices of manufactured products in return for stabilization of petroleum prices.

He said oil producers realized unrestrained price increases ultimately would harm them because they would have to pay more for imports of goods manufactured in industrialized countries.

"We don't want to strangle the economy of the West because our economy would also suffer," Kubbah said. The Shah of Iran has proposed that the price of oil be fixed on the basis of the cost of other sources of energy.

The Persian Gulf oil states—Abu Dhabi, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Qatar and Saudi Arabia—broke away in October from the traditional method of fixing oil prices through negotiations with Western oil companies. Various big price hikes have now brought the price of Persian Gulf crude oil to $11.55 a barrel.

OPEC's other members—Algeria, Ecuador, Indonesia, Nigeria and Venezuela—have since either increased their prices or said they would raise them.

Crisis impact on children eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Caspar W. Weinberger, secretary of health, education and welfare, is concerned about the impact of the energy crisis on school children, particularly those from low income families.

The Senate education subcommittee is looking into the problem at a hearing today. The secretary said he was particularly worried about the educational and nutritional effects of prolonged school closings on underprivileged children.

In a letter that received no public notice at the time, Weinberger told federal energy director William E. Simon last month: "A number of the school systems across the nation have discussed with my staff their intentions to shut down for a portion of the winter months in order to obtain some of their required fuel savings."

He also expressed concern about the impact on our society of severe disruptions of the nation's school schedules," Weinberger wrote.

The National Education Association (NEA) has reported that Christmas vacation periods for elementary and high school students were extended state-wide in Delaware, Maryland, Maine and New Jersey. In New Hampshire this week, four school districts began a four-day school week for three months to conserve gas, electricity and heating oil.

Weinberger expressed two major concerns: "That most of the 9 million children who receive free breakfasts and lunches in schools would lose their principal nutritional source."

That interruption of education will impair the educational progress of those who need it most—such as children taking special reading and math, other special education for the disadvantaged, or vocational education. HEW is also concerned that closings will be a particular hardship on working parents who count on their children being in school during certain hours and about a possible increase in crime.

Another theory proposes there was not as much dust in the tail as first thought. He said the real test will come as the comet moves away from Earth and it has a chance to be as bright again as it was last spring, when astronomers believed it would be much brighter than Venus, the evening star.

The material, named "pack-sprite" in a July 1973 exchange of theories among astronomers, was said to reflect light, but not as brightly as normal comet material.

Michlovic said another theory suggests a shell arrangement, with a volatile outer layer. In this case, he said, the outer shell may have burned away so fast nothing remained to form the bright reflection expected.

Sweden rations fuel

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Motorists make a first run on an service stations today before Sweden becomes the first nation in Western Europe to ration gasoline because of the fuel crisis.

The government ordered rationing to begin at midnight today, with car owners getting only 25 gallons of gas until Feb. 28.

Government sources said the rationing, which was caused by the Arab oil squeeze, might be extended past February.

The government already cut central heating by 20 per cent and planned to ration hot water next month to save dwindling fuel supplies.

The gasoline rationing will not apply to emergency vehicles, buses, taxis and persons with special permission for extra fuel, the government said. Gasoline costs $1.18 per gallon.

Some auto-supply stores reported Saturday they had sold out gasoline caps with locks to prevent siphoning and on Sunday Swedes began lining up at gas pumps to fill their tanks before the rationing took effect.

One station attendant said, "You know, I really feel like a Jeweler. As they said in the old days, this really is black gold."

The state-owned railways reported a record sale of monthly commuter tickets and said it would put on extra equipment during rush hour for the expected rise in travelers.

Slow typists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said today 80 per cent of the Army's typists are required to type 30 words per minute or more, and their actual speed averages 31 words per minute.

He said the requirement, with at least 40 words per minute required for civil service typists and 60 required by many offices on Capitol Hill.

He suggested the Army replace GI typists with civilian secretaries in order "to save a hunk of dough and use the GIs as soldiers."

"This problem may seem insignificant to some," Aspin said, "but if all Army typists worked at 40 words per minute then 37 per cent, or more than 7,000 of the Army's nearly 20,000 typists' jobs, might be released for other duties."

Kohoutek not 'spectacle'

HOUSTON (UPI) — Kohoutek has proved not to be the spectacle once promised to Earth-bound viewers, but space scientists say it has yielded the best scientific data ever collected on comets, mainly because of the close watch kept by the Skylab 3 astronauts.

"Comets are like fingerprints," Joe Michlovic of the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., said Sunday. "We've seen a lot of comets and 'all' behave a little differently."

"Although this one started out like a house on fire, it's burning out a little quicker."

The astronauts, Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue, trained their solar telescopes at the dimming comet Sunday for the last time and Gibson said the tracking program "looks pretty successful."

He said in a television program from Skylab the tall looked much like the plume from a rocket soaring to high altitudes.

Michlovic said Dr. Thornton Page of the Naval Research Lab in Washington suggested half-humorously that a sticky, white substance has covered the comet and prevented dust and gases from boiling off the nucleus to form the bright tail that was expected.

The material, named "pack-sprite" in a July 1973 exchange of theories among astronomers, was said to reflect light, but not as brightly as normal comet material.

Michlovic said another theory suggests a shell arrangement, with a volatile outer layer. In this case, he said, the outer shell may have burned away so fast nothing remained to form the bright reflection expected.

Another theory proposes there was not as much dust in the tail as first thought. He said the real test will come as the comet moves away from Earth and it has a chance to be as bright again as it was last spring, when astronomers believed it would be much brighter than Venus, the evening star.

Troops patrol London airport

LONDON (UPI) — Authorities put more than 400 tank-supported troops and police on an anti-terrorist alert at Heathrow airport today following reports of Arab guerrilla plans to fire missiles at civilian airliners.

Patrols also fanned out through the nearby grounds of Windsor Castle, residence of the royal family, but Queen Elizabeth and her relatives were away.

Police maintained the alert during the night before army troops, armed with machine guns and backed by light tanks, came in at dawn to ring the airport for the busy daylight hours.

Government spokesmen insisted the operation was a mere test exercise, but one official said it was ordered because of "heightening of terrorist interest in London."

Newspapers in London said European alert has been on special since Christmas because of intelligence reports of Palestinian guerrilla plans to attack civilian airliners with Soviet-made SAM ground-to-air missiles.

A top-level conference of senior police, army and government officials met Sunday night to assess the effectiveness of the alert and draft reports for Prime Minister Edward Heath.

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading a lot lately about women who have had silicone implants to enlarge the size of their breasts, and I want to know more about it.

Is this something only tramps have done? Because if it is, I want no part of it. I just want to look nice in swimsuits and low-cut dresses.

I have been married for 11 years and have two children and my husband says I can do as I please. Also, is this type of surgery covered by insurance? CONSIDERING IT

DEAR CONSIDERING: Implants are for any woman who wants them—the coldest lady and Molly O'Grady alike. And unless you can convince the insurance people that silicone implants are essential for your mental or physical health, the only thing that will cover it is a brassiere!

Bra only coverage

DEAR ABBY: Please! You've got to help me. I am desperate and don't know where else to turn.

I am a 22-year-old school teacher, unmarried and pregnant. The father is a married man I've known for some time. It was no big love affair. We were both at a local night spot one night and I had too much to drink, and the pregnancy is the result. I haven't seen a doctor but I know I'm pregnant. I hope and pray I'm not too far gone for an abortion. I just can't pay for this one mistake the rest of my life.

This is a small town and I would lose my job, and I really do need to work. It would also wreck my marriage. I feel so guilty and ashamed. I want an abortion, but don't even know if it's legal in this state. How do I find out? If it's not legal here, where can I get one legally? I'll go anywhere. I could never go thru with this pregnancy. I'll take my life first.

Don't tell me to talk to my minister. I couldn't. I can't go to my family either. They'd disown me, and I wouldn't blame them. Rush your answer to me. I'll be eternally grateful.

DEAR DESPERATE: The Planned Parenthood chapter nearest you is in St. Paul, Minn. CALL THEM! They will help you. If you are too far along for an abortion, get in touch with Birthright. They do excellent counseling, and also arrange for adoptions.

DEAR ABBY: I took your advice, and it backfired. I asked you what to do about a couple my husband and I liked very much, but who always brought their kids over. [Their kids are very wild and don't listen to a thing their parents say, so consequently when they're here with their kids we never enjoy their company.]

You told me the next time we invited them over to say, "We'd like to see you, but please leave the children home this time."

Well, I did, and now we are minus two friends. The wife got highly insulted and told me not to call her again, and it also ruined the friendship between our husbands.

Now what should we do? N. J. COUPLE

DEAR COUPLE: Friendship is a fragile thing. It was never much of a friendship to begin with.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "Five clubs turns out to be a cinch. South has to lose one trick each in hearts and spades but has no trouble taking the other 11."

Jim: "The actual method of getting to the club game is open to question. Some people would jump right to three clubs after North's reopening double. I would only bid two but would have jumped right to game after my partner raised me to three."

Oswald: "I agree with you. South had shown nothing by his two club bid yet North had made a game try and South should have relieved all further pressure by bidding the game directly."

Oregon youth injured

BOISE (UPI) — A Burns, Oregon, teenager, Rocky Tiller, 17, was flown by helicopter to St. Alphonsus Hospital in Boise following a motorcycle accident over the weekend. Tiller was listed in good condition Sunday.

The youth suffered head injuries when he fell from a motorcycle. He was admitted to the hospital in Burns, but his doctor feared complications from the injuries. Consequently, the boy was flown 100 miles to the Boise hospital where special care was available.

River at flood stage

BOISE (UPI) — The Lower Weiser River has reached flood stage, and flood watches are out for three other rivers in the state, according to the U.S. National Weather Service. But no serious flooding problems have occurred as of yet.

The Lower Weiser is jammed with ice near the Presley Bridge and the water is backed up, Henry Schultz, of the weather bureau said. Schultz added that if the ice breaks loose suddenly and without warning, there could be a real problem.

1st traffic fatality

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — A Pocatello woman, Bernita Sue Eyer, 20, over the weekend became Idaho's first traffic fatality of the New Year, according to the Idaho State Police.

The 20-year-old was stopped at a stop sign about three miles south of Idaho Falls when she pulled into the path of a Greyhound bus and was struck broadside. The bus was driven by Merle Oberhansly of Salt Lake City. Neither Oberhansly nor his two passengers were injured.

Transfer set

MALAD CITY, Idaho (UPI) — Dennis Dines, who has been Oneida County Farmers Home Administration supervisor here the past two years, will be transferred to Owyhee County Feb. 3. Craig Thurgood, Pocatello, will assume duties of a coal stove in the shed. He estimated that the shed and its contents were worth more than $2,000. A small dog belonging to the Mays was destroyed in the fire.

TF firemen battle midnight blaze

TF shed razed by fire

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Rural Fire Department contained a fire at the country home of Twin Falls attorney J. Alfred May late Saturday night.

Rural fire chief James Rathbun said he received the call about 10:30 p.m. Responding with a pumper truck and one assistant, Rathbun had the fire under control about midnight.

May said the fire apparently started from a coal stove in the shed. He estimated that the shed and its contents were worth more than $2,000. A small dog belonging to the Mays was destroyed in the fire.

May said he had gone to bed when he was awakened by neighbors who told him the shed was on fire.

Mrs. May said he had built a fire in the coal stove earlier in the afternoon, to prevent some plants in the shed from freezing. Among the belongings lost in the blaze were a sewing machine, an iron and an antique trunk filled with baby clothes, she said.

The Mays took the loss in stride. "We can roller skate on the Southern next summer," said May as he stood next to the glowing remains of the shed.

TF awaits opinion

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Commissioners are "waiting for an opinion" from Ross Fasolino on the proposed zoning ordinance.

Fasolino, an Idaho State University instructor, was hired by the county to revamp the existing ordinance.

Commission Chairman William Chancy said Fasolino is "more or less in agreement" with the ordinance as recommended by the county planning and zoning commission.

"We would like to see how (Fasolino) feels about it before we make a decision," Chancy said today.

"We would hope to take action on the ordinance in the near future," he said.

Lincoln eyes fuel thefts

SHOSHONE — Rising cost of gasoline and the possibility of rationing have contributed to increased reports of gasoline thefts in the area.

Shoshone City Police Chief John Shaffer said his office has recently received considerably more notice of gasoline theft from parked automobiles, tanks by local residents.

In the interest of discouraging thefts, the Police Department offers some tips for car owners who must park their vehicles outside garages.

"Park in a well lighted area, where the rear end of the vehicle may be readily seen from a window at place of residence."

"Another inexpensive deterrent would be the installation of a locking cap on the gasoline tank."

Chief Shaffer points out the risk anyone takes in stealing a few dollars worth of gasoline.

Conviction on a petty larceny charge carries a possible fine of $500 and a sentence of one year in the county jail.

"Anyone caught stealing gas in the area will be vigorously prosecuted before you even consider the prospects for your future with a permanent police record and also the reputation of being a sneak thief," Chief Shaffer said.

WR planning progresses

SHOSHONE — Planning progresses in the Wood River Resource Area Council of Government area, according to the recent third newsletter publication.

The notice states "A new era of cooperation between cities and counties within the area is taking place. Contacts made with the city and county officials have indicated a need for cooperative planning between these jurisdictions to avoid duplication of work and cost involved in producing separate plans."

"Blaine County is working on goals and objectives, compiling their resources data and will make an environmental assessment of their alternative plans. They expect to have a rough draft of their comprehensive plans by June 1974."

"Camas county has been active and has a rough draft of their comprehensive plan and zoning ordinances. The State Planning and Community Affairs Agency and the Attorney General's office will review and comment on this work before it is finalized. A public hearing was held by the planning commission in late 1973 to inform the public of the progress to date and listen to their views and comments."

Youth listed 'fair'

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls youth who apparently shot himself intentionally late Saturday night was reported in fair condition today at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

The name of the juvenile was not released. According to a hospital spokesman, the boy was in intensive care following surgery.

Police chief Frank Barnett said today his officers had investigated the incident. "We presume it (the shooting) was intentional," Barnett said.

Race results

ST. ANTHONY, Idaho (UPI) — The sixth annual St. Anthony 101 cross-country snowmobile race was run under sunny skies Sunday after being postponed because of bad weather Saturday.

The 25-year field was topped by the David Foster foursome from Driggs, which broke the course record by more than half-an-hour.

The team, including Foster, Rex Hibbert, Curt Hibbert and Daryl Zohner, ran the 101 miles from St. Anthony to West Yellowstone, Mont., in two hours, 31 minutes and 19 seconds, breaking the old record of three hours, three minutes and 27 seconds.

ADA ratings listed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) has released its annual ratings of U.S. Senators.

The liberal ADA rates each senator on a scale of 0-100, awarding points for votes consistent with ADA positions.

Extension work supported

SALMON (UPI) — When the Legislative Council held hearings around the state five or six years ago, there was tremendous support for extension work, according to Lemhi County Agent Robert Loucks. But that support, Loucks said, has not been translated into dollars.

The University of Idaho Extension Service needs more money to adequately continue its programs, he said, and the people of Idaho must decide whether to fund the agency adequately at its present size, fund it at a reduced size or eliminate the agency altogether.

Blackfoot man killed

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (UPI) — A 53-year-old Blackfoot, Idaho, man has become Wyoming's first traffic fatality of 1974. There were two traffic deaths at the same time last year.

The State Highway Patrol said Richard Leroy Haines was killed Friday when his car hit a bridge railing on U.S. 187 here, just north of the U.S. 30 intersection.

Bowling finalists

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — Roger Orear, Nampa, beat Arch Newson, Burley, 187-151 Sunday to win the First Scrabble Bowling Association Tournament of the year.

In other finalist competition Joe Hill, Boise, defeated Fred Beguhl, Nampa, 171-151, Hill beat Dennis Bergendorf, Pocatello, 212-201, and Orear defeated Hill 202-189.

Suit filed

BOISE (UPI) — An Idaho man has brought a $100,000 lawsuit in U.S. District Court against an Illinois-based insurance company, claiming "age discrimination."

Alva G. Borders said in his complaint that he was state manager for the Horace Mann Mutual Insurance Co. until Sept. 1, 1972, when the company "discriminated against the plaintiff by reason of plaintiff's age."

Jurisdiction challenged

BOISE (UPI) — Magistrate Gerald F. Schroeder has given Attorney William J. Twy of Boise until Jan. 18 to file briefs in Twy's parking meter case and the city until Jan. 25 to answer.

Twy, who has collected more than 60 overtime parking tickets, has challenged the city's jurisdiction over parking. He contends the city gave up its right to control parking when the Ada County Highway District took over its streets.

Budget meet set

SHOSHONE — Lincoln County Commissioners will meet at 10 a.m. Jan. 14 to set a tentative budget for the county for 1974. Officers have submitted their proposed budget which will be considered by the Commissioners in setting up the tentative figure.

The budget will be approved at the February meeting. At that time the budget may be lowered from the January figure, but not be increased.

Youths arrested

HAILEY — One Hailey, and two Bellevue juveniles have been apprehended in connection with the theft of about $175 in merchandise from Rose's Garden of Gifts, Hailey.

According to Hailey police chief Dan Norton, the majority of the merchandise had been recovered. Norton said the break-in apparently occurred about 9:30 p.m. Friday but was discovered Saturday morning.

In a separate incident, investigation is continuing into a break-in at the Hailey dog pound. Norton said the wire had been cut on all five gates sometime early Saturday.

Southern Idaho gets time 'title'

BOISE — Southern Idaho no longer is on Mountain Standard Time. Neither is it on Mountain Daylight Time.

According to a telegram sent to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus late last Friday, Southern Idaho at 7 p.m. Sunday went on "Mountain-Non-advanced Time."

This wire, from General Counsel Rodney E. Eyster of the Department of Transportation, confirmed the federal agency's temporary reprieve for Southern Idaho from Daylight Saving Time until Feb. 3 — thus giving the legislature a chance to exempt the southern part of Idaho in the Mountain Time Zone.

Eyster's wire said, "shall be Mountain-Non-advanced Time."

Irked trio meets in Boise

BOISE (UPI) — Three minority members of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee held a brief meeting today and then notified other members they will do so again Tuesday.

Rep. Marion Davidson, D-Bonners Ferry, a spokesman for the three, said they met because they do not believe the co-chairmen can "arbitrarily" call off the pre-legislative session hearings.

Davidson and Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewiston, and James Stoltcheff, D-Sandpoint, said they acted under Mason's manual of parliamentary procedure by which the committee operates.

Today, the committee was supposed to begin budget hearings but late last week Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, and Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, the co-chairmen, called it off.

They said Gov. Cecil D. Andrus had prevented general fund agencies from testifying before the committee until after Andrus delivers his budget message to the legislature Jan. 17.

Stoltcheff said he learned of the co-chairmen's decision late Saturday night after he had reached Boise and set up housekeeping for the session.

Mitchell and Davidson also said they were headed for Boise before they learned of the change in plans.

All three lawmakers criticized the co-chairmen for their actions, saying if they had a problem with the governor they should have contacted the minority members before calling off the meeting.

In Twin Falls today, co-chairman Sen. High said "I can understand them being irritated at the situation as I am."

High said the three minority members should direct their irritation "at the cause of the problem, which is the governor's complete turnaround."

High said it is "customary" that "unanticipated" decisions are left at the discretion of the chairmen.

"We simply couldn't justify bringing 18 men to Boise at some expense to spend a week twiddling our thumbs."

"If these members do have influence on the governor," he said, "I hope they will use their influence to ask the governor to cooperate where cooperation obviously serves the best interests of the state."

Malad building

MALAD CITY, Idaho (UPI) — The Farmers Home Administration approved loans totaling $1,217,000 in Oneida County in 1973, supervisor Dennis Dines reported.

The loans were approved, Dines said, for construction of new homes and remodeling older units.

With Davidson, the senior member present, acting as chairman, the three Democrats briefly this morning. Then they notified the committee's fiscal officer, John C. Anderson, to notify other members of the committee they intend to meet again Tuesday.

"One of the purposes is to get a quorum so the committee can decide what it wants to do," Davidson said. "We want it to be committee action and not arbitrary action by the chairman."

The others agreed and Stoltcheff said if they fail to get a quorum this week they may file for their pay regardless. Stoltcheff said he cannot afford to come to Boise a week early and do so without a salary.

Bulls outlast Phoenix 120-116

CHICAGO (UPI) — Norm Van Lier poured in six points in an overtime session Sunday to lead the Chicago Bulls to a come-from-behind 120-116 victory over the Phoenix Suns in a nationally televised NBA game.

It was a hard-won decision for the bulls, their 30th in 43 games, as the Suns, winners in both previous meetings with Chicago, led most of the way. The Bulls got in front by one point at 6:36 of the third period at 62-61 in Chet Walker's 18-footer. They then fell behind again until only 1:06 was left in the game when Walker's pass aimed for an open man under the basket went through the net instead and the Bulls had a 104-102 edge.

With two seconds remaining, in regulation time, Jerry Sloan hit a free throw to give the Bulls a 107-105 edge, but the Suns' Keith Erickson sent the game into overtime when his 46-footer from center court was in the air as time ran out and it dropped through to deadlock the game.

In the overtime, the Bulls never trailed after the two clubs matched the first two baskets and Chicago had a six-point lead with two minutes to play.

Bob Love, who had 33 points in the game, hit two points in the overtime. Walker had two of his 28 in the extra five minutes, and Clifford Ray netted two.

Charlie Scott, who had hit 68 in the two previous games against Chicago, scored 30 for Phoenix, and Dick Van Arsdale, with 20 points in the first half, wound up with 28.

It was the eighth loss in the last 17 games for the Bulls and the Bulls' fourth win in their last six contests.

Miller leads in Crosby after third round play

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller, thanks to birdies on the 11th and 13th holes at Pebble Beach, shot a two-under par 70 Sunday for a four-stroke lead over Grier Jones with one round to go in the rain-plagued $185,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.

The 28-year-old Miller, who won the open at Oakmont last summer with a final round 63, ran down a 10-footer for his bird on 11 and a five-footer on 13. Earlier, he birdied the par-five sixth with a 15-foot putt and his only mistake on a round of 36-34 came on the par-three seventh when he put his teeshot in a bunker. His 54-hole total was eight under par 208.

"I still haven't had a good putting round," Miller said, "but under the circumstances, how can I complain? My iron shots are keeping me in the tournament."

Miller made one of the best iron or wedge shots of his career, he said, when he blasted 100 feet out of the sand in a drainage ditch on 18 to within 45 feet of the pin. He missed the putt but saved par to grab the lead on a day when play almost was stopped two different times because of rain.

Jones, another young lion, started a four under and finished the same way with an even par 72 and his 54-hole total was 212. At one time, on the back nine—also at Pebble Beach—he closed to within three shots of the lead but bogied the 15th of full back two shots further back at two under 214. Tom Kite, Bruce Summerhays and Rod Funseth, Kite shot a four under 68 at Cypress, Summerhays had a three under 69 at Pebble and Funseth had an even par 72 at Spyglass.

Dave Edelberger shot a 72 at Cypress and Dave Glenz had a 73 at the same course for 215, one under par and seven shots behind Miller.

Bruce Crampton, winner of four tourney titles last year, shot a 71 at Pebble and was at even par 216 along with Mike Morley, Bob Eastwood and Bob E. Smith, whose five under 67 at Spyglass included an ace on the par-three 12th.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of the last two Crosby's in sudden death, shot a 71 and was at two over 218. Gary Player had a 74 and was 217, and Billy Casper had a 73 to also stand at 217.

While things were falling into place for Miller, who lost the 1972 Crosby in a sudden-death playoff to Jack Nicklaus, they were coming apart for Larry Wadkins and mini four graduate Gary McCord. Wadkins started play Sunday even par 72 and his 54-hole total was 212. At one time, on the back nine—also at Pebble Beach—he closed to within three shots of the lead but bogied the 15th of full back two shots further back at two under 214. Tom Kite, Bruce Summerhays and Rod Funseth, Kite shot a four under 68 at Cypress, Summerhays had a three under 69 at Pebble and Funseth had an even par 72 at Spyglass.

Castleford meets Declo

The Castleford Wolves, with one tough on the road test behind them, travel to Declo Tuesday night in another key Magic Valley Conference game.

The Wolves could greatly enhance their championship hopes with the victory. Currently, only Castleford, Murtaugh and Declo are undefeated in the loop.

In their loop play, the Hagerman Pirates will travel to Oakley where the Hornets are smarting from a loss to Castleford.

Murtaugh steps out of league play to meet the Bulldogs at Kimberly in the third game of the night.

Davidson, King win doubles tournament

DALLAS (UPI) — Sure-serving Owen Davidson and steady Billie Jean King, showing the most precise teamwork of the week's matches, Sunday swept the "team" of Marty Riessen and Rosemary Casals, 5-2, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, to earn top money in the $60,000 Spaulding International mixed doubles championship.

Davidson, who did not lose a service during 24 games in the tournament, gave his team triple match points on his service in the fourth and final set.

The Davidson-King championship was assured in the ninth game of the fourth set when King broke Riessen's service with a forehand winner following a crisp volley.

King and her Australian partner split the $20,000 top money and the American team of Riessen and Casals each received $5,000. It was the largest purse ever offered in mixed doubles. The previous high was $3,000 at Wimbledon.

In the consolation match played earlier, Australians Rod Laver and Leslie Hunt beat fellow Australian Roy Emerson and Florida's Wendy Overton 7-6, 6-1 for third place money of $10,000.

The finals began with a strong showing by King Davidson and looked as if the two would easily dominate the Casals-Riessen team.

But Riessen, of Amelia Island Plantation, Fla., and Casals, of San Francisco, broke King's service to love in the second set to even the match up and overtake King and Davidson's momentum.

However, Davidson and King exhibited better teamwork and used a questionable call to break Casals' services in the eighth game of the third set to take final control of the match. Casals' volley, which even Davidson and King said they felt was in, was called out to set up the double break point.

The two teams traded service breaks of the women in the fourth and final set before the decisive break on Riessen.

"We just didn't cover a couple of the holes that they were able to," Riessen said. "This was the best serving I've done in a long time," Davidson said. "But it's a team thing. Even if I am serving well and Billie Jean can't return volleys, we can't win. She has to come away as good as any woman I've seen."

King, who has campaigned relentlessly for equal prize money for women in four-nations, said she was excited about the enthusiasm shown by Dallas crowds toward the mixed doubles tournament.

Great weather for golfers!

Only unbeaten basketball teams in South will collide tonight

By DAVID MOFFIT
UPI Sports Writer

Something has to give tonight when the south's only two unbeaten major college basketball teams, Vanderbilt and Mississippi State, tangle at Nashville, Tenn.

It figures that the 12th-ranked Vanderbilt Commodores, who knocked off 10th-ranked Alabama Saturday, will pick up the 10th straight victory of this season — and their 13th straight, dating back to last February.

The Commodores needed some last-minute heroics by sophomore guard Butch Fehrer to keep that winning streak alive Saturday. Fehrer scored five points in the closing 49 seconds — including the winning basket after missing what would have been a tying free throw but getting the rebound — as Vanderbilt overcame a seven-point deficit in the last three minutes of play to win 73-72.

Mississippi State, 8-0 since losing 74-70 to Vanderbilt in the final game of last season, was impressive Saturday in a 91-70 victory over Gator Bowl champion Florida.

In other southeastern conference action tonight, Alabama is at Tennessee, Auburn at Old Miss, Louisiana State at Florida and Georgia at Kentucky. Only independent play tonight has Georgia Tech at Ohio State and Tulane at Valparaiso.

Intra-conference play in the SEC began Saturday and the first day's biggest shocker was the regionally televised game at Baton Rouge, La., where the Louisiana State Bengals beat the Kentucky Wildcats, 55-84. It was only the third Bengal win in 10 basketball games against the Wildcats.

In other SEC play Saturday, Tennessee beat Auburn, 89-77, and Ole Miss beat Georgia, 78-70.

The big game among the region's independents was at Columbia, S. C., where 17th-ranked South Carolina (7-2) scored the winning goal with two seconds to play in a 60-58 victory over 6th-ranked, previously unbeaten Marquette.

In other independent action, Florida State (9-4) beat Texas A & M, 79-75, then lost to Houston, 73-74, in the Bluebonnet Classic; Georgia Tech (1-7) beat Wisconsin-LaCrosse, 73-69; Jacksonville (7-3), beat Austin Peay, 93-70; and Memphis State (11-3) beat West Texas State, 53-49.

Kentucky (4-5), defending SEC cage champion, led LSU by a points at halftime. But Glenn Hansen, a 6-5 transfer, scored 17 of his 30 points and Collis Temple scored 18 of his 22 in the second half — and the Bengals ran away from the Wildcats.

Erving leads Nets to 103-100 victory

UNIONDALE, N. Y. (UPI) — Julius "Doctor J." Erving scored a game high 29 points and New York's fanatical defense gave the Nets a 103-100 victory over ABA east rival Kentucky before 12,280 fans, the Nets' biggest crowd of the year.

The victory moved the Nets into a virtual tie for first place with Kentucky, only .005 behind the Colonels.

The game was a bruising battle throughout, with players on both sides bouncing off the court and diving for loose balls. Rugged defense held Kentucky's shooting to 39 per cent in the first half as the Nets ran up a 31-4 lead at intermission on Erving's 18 points and 10 rebounds.

Louis Dampier was the only Colonist to hit critically in the first half, clicking for 16 points while New York dominated the boards 31-22.

But Kentucky quickly brought the difference down to one point, 55-54, three minutes into the third quarter.

Rookie Larry Keon hit a critical basket with 20 seconds left to give New York a five-point lead, but Kentucky's Wendell Ladner responded with a 30-foot three-point shot to close the gap to 102-100.

John Roche then led the game with a foul shot with four seconds left.

Physicians Mutual Insurance Company

Introduces

$30-a-day lifetime hospital insurance protection for people of all ages...families of all sizes.

It's like a bottomless well. Because this plan provides unlimited benefits...at the rate of $30 a day...when you're hospitalized for a covered sickness or accident. Even if you live to be a hundred, and are in and out of the hospital every other month, your benefits can't run out. There's just no end to your daily benefits.

Provides $30 a day to help you pay your share of your hospital bills.

Like most folks today, you probably have basic hospitalization insurance. You feel prepared...safe and secure.

But take a look at your policy. You just may find you're not as well prepared as you thought. Your benefits may be out of line with today's cost of hospital care in your community...short of what's actually being charged for room, board and related hospital services. And since you have to pay for what your basic hospitalization insurance doesn't pay, you may discover that your share of your hospital bill is now more than you bargained for. With the cost of hospital care shooting up like a raging fever, what you might have to pay out of your pocket could be staggering.

This new plan of ours gives you a sound and sensible second line of defense when an accident or sickness puts you in the hospital. It comes through with $30 a day to help you meet your share of your hospital bill. Benefits to help you avoid serious financial trouble because of hospital and medical debts.

There's no fixed limit to the benefits provided.

That's right. This plan has no limit to what it will provide...no fixed amount that could run out when you need the money the most. For as long as you live, for as long as you pay your premiums, you've got $30 a day coming in for each day you're hospitalized for a covered accident or sickness.

For example, it provides $210 for seven days in the hospital...$900 for thirty days...and so on. Because as doctors and as insurance men we know only too well that a person can be hospitalized any number of times during his lifetime. And as you grow older, you're more likely to go to the hospital more often for longer periods of time.

Benefits start on the first day of each covered hospitalization.

Your coverage for accidents begins on the same day your policy is issued and put in force. It is protecting you even before you receive your policy in the mail. You are not covered for new sicknesses until your policy is 30 days old. This is a one-time-only waiting period...after which any new sickness is covered immediately.

Since even a short stay in the hospital these days can be costly, we don't make you wait 3 or 4 days after admittance before your benefits begin. Your $30-a-day benefits begin on the very first day of each covered hospitalization. This feature can be valuable to you if your other insurance has a "deductible" which you must pay.

There's no limit to the number of covered days when you are hospitalized.

Here's more good news for you. Our plan covers you for each and every day you're in the hospital for a covered sickness or accident...no matter how long you stay...no matter how often you are hospitalized during your lifetime. The plan takes into account that many injuries and diseases can have you flat on your back in the hospital for one, two, even three months or longer.

Provides the same $30 a day benefits for your wife and children.

It costs just as much for your wife to be hospitalized as for yourself. And almost as much for a child as an adult nowadays. In fact, some childhood diseases and health conditions are more expensive to treat and correct than the sicknesses and accidents we grown-ups have to cope with. We recognize this...and provide equal benefits...$30 a day...when your wife or children are hospitalized, and insured under the plan.

There's no premium increase at 65, no decrease in your benefits.

Here's another feature you'll surely welcome. Particularly if you're nearing 65. The plan does not penalize you when you turn 65. You continue to pay the same premium as for your age group when you apply for this plan. And you continue to be eligible for the full $30-a-day benefits. Think

NEW: No limit to the number of covered days when you're hospitalized.

NEW: Provides equal benefits...$30 a day...for you, your wife and the youngsters.

FOR EXAMPLE: The plan would provide $210 for 7 days in the hospital...$900 for 30 days...and so on, with no end-to-the-amount you could be eligible for. With this kind of money coming in, you might not have to touch your savings...or borrow...to pay the expenses your basic hospitalization insurance doesn't fully cover. Read the full details of this new plan now. Then apply right away right from this page.

what a comfort this will be when you reach that time in life when you're more likely to be hospitalized, but will have reduced resources to draw on to pay your share of the bill.

Provides double benefits when you and your wife are hospitalized at the same time due to accidents.

An automobile accident can do it. Can put both your wife and yourself in the hospital. Suddenly you're faced not only with your combined hospital bills, but the added expense of keeping your home running smoothly. The plan comes to your rescue with double your individual daily benefits...provides $120 a day when you're both insured under the plan and hospitalized at the same time because of accidents.

Provides equal benefits for maternity after your policy is 10 months old.

The plan provides $30-a-day when your insured wife is hospitalized for pregnancy or any consequence thereof...providing your policy has been in force for 10 months. This may amount to as much or more than you would get from your other insurance.

Benefits come direct to you...unless you say otherwise.

We send your $30-a-day benefits directly to you. Unless, of course, you tell us otherwise. You alone decide how and for what this money is to be used.

We cannot drop you because of your age, health or the number of claims you have.

This new plan offers you the security of lifetime protection. As long as you pay your premium when due, you can count on $30 a day, every day you're hospitalized for a covered sickness or accident...even if you live to be a hundred. We cannot cancel or refuse to renew your policy because of your age, your health or because you've had a number of claims. The only time we can cancel your policy is if we do so for all policies of this type in your entire state. You, on the other hand, can drop this back-up insurance on any renewal date. Of course, you can only have one policy of this type with the company.

You cannot be singled out for a premium increase.

That's right. We cannot arbitrarily single you out for a premium increase. We can adjust your premium, up or down, only if we do the same on all policies of this type in your entire state. Remember, your monthly premium never goes up as you move from one age bracket to the next.

You can examine your policy for 10 days without risking a cent.

We guarantee to issue you a policy. We will not turn you down because of your age or your health. As soon as we receive your Application Form, we will issue your policy (Form P340A Series) promptly and put it in force. When you get your policy in the mail, you will have 10 days in which to study it at your leisure, to satisfy yourself completely that this new plan is all we say it is. No salesman will call or visit you. If, for any reason whatsoever, you change your mind about your need for this protection, simply return your policy within the 10-day period. Your first month's premium will be refunded promptly and in full. Fair enough?

NEW: No limit to the benefits you can be eligible for as long as your policy remains in force.

NEW: No premium increase when you turn 65, and no cut in your daily benefits.

This plan welcomes folks over 65 and over. Apply now.

There's no reduction in the benefits simply because you're 65 and over. When you're insured under the plan, it makes no difference how often you go to the hospital or how long you stay, you've got $30 a day coming in to help you pay your share of the bill no matter what your age.

Yes, Medicare, if you have it, will take care of most of the cost of your being hospitalized. But not all, as you will see if you check your benefits under Medicare. Think what a comfort it will be knowing that with our new plan, you'll have $30 a day coming in to help you meet these expenses. And you can have this additional security so easily. Simply fill out and mail your Application Form with your first month's premium. Remember, we cannot turn you down because of your age or the condition of your health.

Here's what the plan does not cover.

Please read carefully, then mail your Application Form. ■ Sickless is not covered during the first 30 days that your policy is in force. After this one-time-only waiting period, new sicknesses are covered immediately.

■ Pre-existing conditions (health problems for which you received medical advice or treatment, or which were manifested during the 12 months prior to the issue date of your policy) are not covered for one year after your policy is put in force. From then on, a health condition you have now or have had before will be covered the same as any new condition for hospitalization commencing one year after your policy is issued.

■ Not covered is hospitalization due to alcoholism, drug addiction or any condition for which you get Workers' Compensation or Employers' Liability Law benefits.

■ Pregnancy or any consequence thereof is not covered unless your wife is also insured under the plan and your policy has been in force for 10 months.

■ The plan does not cover confinement in convalescent, extended-care or self-care units of hospitals, in nursing homes, or in U. S. Government hospitals where there is no room and board charge legally required in the absence of insurance.

■ New-born infants are not covered for hospital "well baby" care. Additions to your family, however, are covered automatically at birth for all other covered sicknesses and accidents if your present child or children are insured under the plan.

■ Hospital confinement due to mental disorders is not fully covered. Physicians Mutual will provide half-benefits $15 a day...for up to 4 weeks when hospital confinement is due to a mental disorder. And you are eligible for half-benefits for as long as 4 weeks again if you are hospitalized for the same condition after you have resumed your normal activities for 6 months.
