KASEY BENNETT puts out fire

KENNA BENNETT saved by sister

Training saves Wendell girl, 4

By BONNIE JONES
Times-News Writer

WENDELL — Joe Bennett, a former fireman, has told his children what to do in event of fire since they were old enough to say the word.

Monday night it paid off. Four-year-old Kenna Bennett escaped with a few tiny burns on her chest and abdomen when her 5-year-old sister, Kasey, grabbed her blazing nylon pajamas and smothered a fire.

Mrs. Bennett said she had gone to a meeting in Gooding, leaving her husband's dinner on the stove for him to heat when he finished the outside chores. He was in back of the house feeding the horses when the two small girls decided to surprise him and have his dinner ready.

Kenna climbed on a chair, wearing only a pair of pajamas made of synthetic material. As she turned on the electric unit the clothing burst into flame. Kasey, helping with the "surprise dinner" grabbed her younger sister and slapped out the flames with her hands. She told her mother later she knew she was supposed to get a blanket to wrap the burning clothing in and smother the flames.

"But I didn't have time," she told her mother.

Mrs. Bennett said the girls were frightened by the experience. Even though they had the fire out, they called their brother, Kortney, 10, who was in the barn and told him, "There's an emergency in the house. I'm on my way."

Mrs. Bennett said the boy ran to the house, taking his coat off as he ran so he could smother the fire. He called to his father as he ran. When the two arrived in the kitchen they found the fire out and Kenna frightened but safe.

Now a state brand inspector, Bennett worked in the Wendell area for more than two years as a fireman.

"Sometimes we have wondered if it was a poor idea because the younger children would dream about fires and wake up frightened. Now we are glad we didn't let this change our policy," Mrs. Bennett.

Mrs. Bennett said the pajamas Kenna had been wearing were burned from the neck to the waist in the front and much of the other material was melted by the heat. Kasey escaped any burns and those suffered by Kenna were not severe enough to require medical treatment.

Hazelton mayor shuts off well

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News Writer
HAZELTON — Hazelton Mayor Jimmy Dryden today ordered that one of the city's two water wells be "turned off immediately" because of arsenic contamination.

Dryden was called by the Times-News today concerning three letters from a state official warning of "the possibility of unacceptably high arsenic levels" in the Hazelton well.

At that time, Dryden said, "I haven't seen the letters at all and I should have." He said he would check city files immediately.

Dryden called the Times-News back at mid-morning, saying he had " dug up " the letters and was ordering the well shut down.

He said he had not seen the letters because they were apparently "misdirected."

The most recent letter, dated Jan. 21, was addressed to former Hazelton Mayor Elmer Pyne at the city office. Pyne left the post Jan. 15.

"In the future we'll have some legal advice and a chemist" to examine the well, Dryden said. "We can't have contaminated levels of water."

He said the city "might drill another well, depending on the tests."

Judge orders Nixon onto witness stand

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A superior court judge, setting an historical precedent, Tuesday ordered President Nixon subpoenaed to testify at the trial of three former White House aides accused of the Ellsberg burglary.

Judge Gordon Ringer said he would comply with a defense motion to order the President to give testimony at a pretrial hearing in the case Feb. 25 and also to appear for the trial that is scheduled to begin April 15.

Ringer ruled the President "is a material witness for the defense."

The court was told by defense counsel that James St. Clair who recently took over as head of the legal team advising Nixon on Watergate related matters told them "he would advise the President against making a voluntary appearance."

After signing the subpoena order, Ringer received proceedings until Feb. 25.

The jurist cited the Aaron Burr treason trial of 1807 in which the Chief Justice ordered Thomas Jefferson to turn over a letter to the court establishing the precedent that a President could be subpoenaed.

The action came on a motion filed by attorneys for John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's former domestic affairs adviser. The motion asked that the President either be subpoenaed or written statements be obtained from him.

Before the news that Ringer had taken such action, White House lawyers said they advised Ehrlichman that the President would not voluntarily appear in his behalf in California.

Presidential spokesman Gerald L. Warren refused to say, at that time, however, what Nixon's reaction would be to a subpoena.

"Any discussion of that would be pure speculation and if there are any further developments they will be dealt with by the White House counsel's office as they arise," Warren said.

Warren confirmed that James St. Clair, head of Nixon's team of Watergate attorneys, had talked recently by telephone with Ehrlichman's California attorney. He said Ehrlichman's lawyer, identified as Douglas Dalton, requested Nixon's appearance and St. Clair told him he "would recommend against voluntary appearance by the President."

South Idaho facing DST

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

BOISE — It's only a matter of time until the clocks are set ahead in southern Idaho.

The House Monday defeated, on a 31-37 vote, a measure that would have exempted the southern part of the state from daylight saving time. Unless there is some further action taken, before Sunday, clocks will be set ahead at 2 a.m. that day.

Rep. Walt Little, R-New Plymouth, one of the sponsors of the measure, told the House Congress might repeal the daylight saving time bill it passed last year. In light of that, he said, southern Idaho should wait before it has to set clocks ahead one hour now and then back again later.

Beyond that, he said, the effect of daylight saving time would be "18,000 children going to school in the dark."

The other sponsor, Rep. Lee Barron, R-Corral, said he doubted daylight-saving time would save energy — as it was intended to do. He said he doubted any energy would be saved in southern Idaho if the bill failed — putting that part of the state on what he termed "double daylight saving."

Rep. Russell Fong, R-Idaho Falls, like most east Idaho legislators, opposed the bill. He claimed its passage would be a message to the young of the state they could engage in insubordination of the federal government. "Let us be good Americans, let us be good Idahoans. Let us go on daylight saving time," he pleaded with other members of the House.

Rep. John Beardron, R-Boise, said he hadn't made up his mind on the measure until earlier the same morning. Then, he said, he received a call from a carpenter who is a constituent.

Later class start eyed by TF aides

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school officials are considering delaying the start of school for one hour to compensate for daylight saving time.

Supt. George Staudacher said today the question has "been under considerable consideration." No decision has been made yet, he said.

He said school officials and trustees are weighing two factors: child safety and inconvenience to working mothers.

"We are concerned about the safety of the kids," Staudacher said. I just finished talking to Dick Kirkman (operator of district buses) who said it is a problem with kids in the darkness."

Staudacher said he estimates that about 40 per cent of the district's mothers work during the day, which "causes some problem" when school is delayed.

The question will be put on the agenda of the next trustees meeting Feb. 12, he said.

US removes lid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prompted by a brightened trade position and the strong position of the dollar in overseas exchange markets, the Treasury Department eliminated for the first time in 11 years a tax used to restrain U.S. foreign investments.

Under an executive order, the effective rate of the interest equalization tax has been eliminated in terms of trades and acquisitions of any foreign stocks or debt obligations.

The Treasury Department said that "the moved" was "appropriate in light of the improvements in the U. S. balance of payments position."

Water conveyance agreement development key

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

"BUH!" — Development of huge tracts of desert interior land east of Salmon Falls Creek hinges on a water conveyance agreement with Twin Falls Canal Co.

Officials of Canyon View Irrigation Co. and Juana Irrigation Co., developers of the proposed 37-square-mile project in the Bruneau Desert, say that without an agreement with the canal company to transport irrigation water, the projects would not be economically feasible.

Both Canyon View and Juana have reached preliminary agreement with the canal company to transport spillover water from Milner Dam during the off-season through the canal company's system.

Third in series

However, Twin Falls Canal Co. directors have made the agreements conditional upon approval of two-thirds of the canal company stockholders, and the proposals are encountering heavy resistance from stockholders.

The critics, particularly in the Castleford area, are fearful the agreements will jeopardize their future irrigation draws from the canal system.

Under the proposed water conveyance agreements, which follow two years of negotiations between the canal company and the developers, Canyon View would take water from the western end of the Highline Canal and channel it into its own canal system to a siphon pipe crossing Salmon Falls Canyon and into the Blue Gulch Reservoir north of Castleford.

Tuana would fill its Yahoe Creek Reservoir about 10 miles northeast of Buhl with water transported through Twin Falls Canal Co.'s Lateral Number Nine.

Twin Falls Canal Co. stockholders are now voting on the water transportation proposal.

Although approval of the 50-year contract does not require such a vote, the company's directors have called one Alfred Peters, the company's manager said.

The final decision will be made by the directors, Peters said. But he said he expected the directors to endorse a contract only if two-thirds of the stockholders support it.

Without the contract irrigation of the proposed Bruneau tracts will not be economically feasible according to the Harry LeMoyné and Emery Wiser, the presidents of Tuana and Canyon View.

The preliminary contract with the Canyon View Co. calls for the Twin Falls Canal Co. to convey 86,000 acre feet of water to the end of its highline canal, south of Castleford.

The water would be conveyed at a rate of 400 cubic feet per second during the non-irrigation season for a minimum of 85 days each year. Peters said the water would be carried between Sept. 15 and Dec. 15, when the canals are used for watering stock.

The river crested at 21 feet eight inches, its highest record of level this century, but is now receding.

Intermittent sunshine today and weather bureau forecasts of a fine day Wednesday offered some optimism as cleaning up operations in the inner city began with the thrashing of pumps emptying flooded basements.

Statement taken out of context

BURLEY — Mary Mitchner of the Rupert Child Development Center believes schools have been slow in bringing needed changes in the grading system.

Mrs. Mitchner said Monday she had been misquoted in the Times-News and that her statement had been taken out of context.

She was quoted as saying "the whole (educational) system has been slow in getting involved. We're feeding positives and the schools are feeding negatives and the kids are cracked-up in the middle."

"It was referring to the grading system," she said. She said it was a workshop participant who said "we're feeding positives and the schools are feeding negatives."

Mrs. Mitchner does not believe letter grades should be given in the early grades.

New playground proposed

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls school administrator Monday night endorsed a proposal to develop a new kind of playground at Harrison School which he said fits in well with the school district's physical education goals.

The project would be constructed with volunteer labor and materials. Mrs. Hutchison said it has been discussed with Principal Frances Anderson and Harrison teachers, who will be discussed this week with Supt. George Stueber prior to seeking approval from district trustees.

The plan would involve an undulating surface of grassy raised mounds and lower sand-covered areas. Instead of the usual playground equipment, the project would feature underground tunnels of pipe, "tarzan swings" and heavy rope netting for climbing.

Embezzlement charge made

The money was taken from the station's bank deposits during a period between February of last year to early this month.

Scott was released on $2,500 bond until sentencing.

TF women hear hospital facts

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — The present hospital space crunch is "a very scary situation," James Rosenbaum, Magic Valley Memorial hospital administrator told Twin Falls County Republican Women Monday.

Rosenbaum addressed the chapter's luncheon, seeking support for the $4.6 million bond issue to be voted on Feb. 12.

Rosenbaum said a general obligation bond was not his personal choice for funding hospital improvements, but was the only avenue permitted by a county hospital by law.

"A revenue bond would have been much simpler and more equitable, but a county hospital is not eligible to obtain funds for capital improvement except through a general obligation bond," Rosenbaum said.

Barring a major population boom, Rosenbaum said he doesn't foresee the need for another major construction bond issue for 18 to 20 years. By then, he said, he hopes the laws are changed and other funding methods available.

Rosenbaum described the proposed changes. Thirty additional beds — necessary to help bring the hospital's occupancy rate down to the 70 to 80 per cent considered as full — will be added on the second floor with partial provision for 60 extra beds to be added in the future.

The entire surgery department will be relocated to comply with new federal regulations and the radiology department will be expanded. In addition, the outpatient department will be expanded and reorganized, eliminating the need for patients to visit several different hospital areas for outpatient care. Outpatient surgery — the treatment of minor surgical procedures on an outpatient basis — should reduce the surgical load by 15 per cent, increasing availability of beds, Rosenbaum said.

The cost to Twin Falls County tax payers is 4.6 mills on the tax dollar. For property of $20,000 market value, appraised at $16,000, the increase would come to $11.78 a year, of about $1.00 a month, according to Rosenbaum.

Rosenbaum said although tax funds help support the hospital, the total of county funds is less than 5 per cent. In this year's budget of $4.2 million, $180,000 is tax money, or about 3 per cent.

Asked whether the hospital could charge higher rates to out-of-county patients in order to share the cost between users, Rosenbaum said federal regulations made differing rates impossible. The Idaho laws permit unequal rates, but federal legislation supersedes the state codes. Because the hospital accepts government funds, it is required to provide equal care, and in addition to comply with civil rights laws which outlaw discriminatory — or unequal — rates.

Also, Medicare will pay only the lowest rate, so unequal rates result in losses for the hospital.

Rosenbaum compared the hospital with the county supported airport as providing benefits for residents. If it was not an area-wide medical referral center, much of the specialized care now available could not be offered, Rosenbaum said.

To vote, a person must be 18 years old, a resident of Twin Falls for the previous 30 days, and willing to sign an elector's oath. Property ownership is not a requirement.

Speaker highlights DECA banquet

TWIN FALLS — Distributive education courses teach students the principles of the free enterprise system.

Anthony Maucone, state supervisor, told members of the Twin Falls Distributive Education Club of America Monday evening.

Maucone addressed the third annual employer-employee dinner at the Turf Club. More than 70 DECS members, their employers and teachers attended.

He said the course teaches marketing, merchandising and management with DECA providing support through development of respect for education and promoting understanding and appreciation for responsible citizenship.

Maucone said employers are important to the program because they provide supervision and opportunities for students to gain experience.

Also speaking briefly was John Holup, of the University of Idaho, who works with distributive education teachers in the state.

Maucone said the Idaho DECA leadership conference is planned in Twin Falls March 22-25, with about 300 students expected to attend.

6 spaces open for Mexico tour

TWIN FALLS — Last minute changes in personal plans and two cases of illness have resulted in six spaces being open for the Times-News annual winter vacation tour — this time to Mexico.

An early sell-out of available space caused a stop for tour sales efforts but Tuesday Joe Salisbury, owner of Magic Carpet Travels who, with the Times-News, is sponsoring the tour, said there were six openings available.

They will go on a first come basis," he said. The tour group will board a Hughes Aircraft jet at Jadin Field the morning of Feb. 16 for the 10-day trip to Mexico, returning the night of Feb. 26.

The tour package is offered at $50 per person on a sharing basis. This includes jet roundtrip fare, hotel and land arrangements in Mexico and other sightseeing, including special tours in each city visited. Hughes Aircraft and Western Airlines are cooperating in flight arrangements.

After departing from Twin Falls, the tour will arrive in Mexico City that afternoon. Four nights will be spent there. Visits will be made to the University of Mexico, Chapultepec park and palace, the Cathedral, the town square, the museum and the Pyramids of Teotihuacan. Tour members will also attend the Sunday performance of the Folklorico dancers at the Palace of Fine Arts. The next three nights will be at Guadalajara, Mexico's second largest city and gateway to beautiful Lake Chapala. The ancient village of Ajijic will also be visited.

The last three nights in Mexico will be at Barra de Navidad, a beach resort on the Pacific coast, with headquarters at the Hotel Meliure. The flight home on Feb. 26 will be via Mexico City and Los Angeles.

Energy-saving tip for home planners

A good wall should include:

- 1 Inner finish
- 2 Vapor barrier to keep moisture from condensing inside the wall
- 3 A full thick batt or filling of insulation for energy savings
- 4 A quality sheathing well installed
- 5 A tight-fitting good quality exterior finish

Open range end sought

BOISE (UPI) — A bill to do away with Idaho's "open range" law and make livestock owners responsible for damages should their animals stray on public highways was approved for printing Monday by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sponsor of the bill, Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewiston, said his mail was running "about 50-50" for and against the measure.

The cost to Twin Falls County tax payers is 4.6 mills on the tax dollar. For property of $20,000 market value, appraised at $16,000, the increase would come to $11.78 a year, of about $1.00 a month, according to Rosenbaum.

South Idaho time and social change

Monday's vote bringing back daylight saving time to southern Idaho is suggestive of social changes that go far deeper than adjusting clocks by an hour.

One of the most important may be oversimplified as follows: The "indoors" has become more important than the "outdoors."

Two major factions appeared to be involved in the heated debate over whether southern Idaho should be exempted from daylight saving time.

On the one hand, a large number of rural people and outdoor oriented people had opposed daylight saving time, complaining it set "clock time" further away from "sun time."

They noted that in Twin Falls the sun would be overhead at 12:38 p.m. on standard time and 1:38 on daylight saving time.

On the other hand, a large group of people, who might be called "indoor people" for want of a better term, were equally upset by the prospect of remaining on standard time.

One of their primary complaints was that television programs had been advanced an extra hour on standard time. The TV programming changes had occurred because the eastern studios had become three hours ahead of south Idaho instead of two.

A third group potentially involved in the issue, parents whose children will face the risks of walking to school in the dark, was curiously muted.

The time fight was heated, as people on both sides of the issue felt it to be important to their mode of life. In the end, the "indoor people" defeated the "outdoor people."

Their victory suggests that man-oriented structures of time organization have become more important than natural structures.

The TV program schedule now touches more lives more forcefully than does the time of sunrise or sunset.

Perhaps this should surprise nobody. Most people spend more of their time indoors than outdoors. The urban office or factory worker spends his day isolated from the weather and the length of his shadow. Man's true environment, now, is man.

The vast social changes this suggests may be inevitable, but nonetheless sad. Something has been lost.

Up or down vote for impeachment

Some detractors and some defenders of President Nixon are coming together on a common method to pursue their separate causes: Both advocate an up-or-down, one-and-for-all vote by the House on impeachment.

This view is more commonly held by those who believe the President can survive the vote. But it is a view worth the attention of anyone who would like to find out much sooner than sometime in the next year or so who is in charge of this nation.

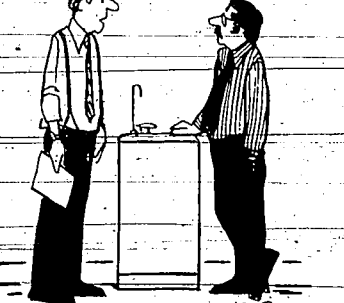

The point is that no one is in charge today. The President is virtually unable to lead today in matters that have nothing or little to do with Watergate. The energy crisis is a case in point. Who can blame the people who say they "don't believe him on that either."

The former doubt may never be brushed aside, no matter what the outcome of an impeachment vote. But the question of whether Mr. Nixon is going to be in office long enough to bother living with as a leader can be converted to a dead issue one way or the other with an impeachment vote — soon.

It is the inconsistency of those members of the House who meaner toward impeachment that they say the nation can't tolerate Mr. Nixon's presidency for another three years — but the nation can tolerate his presidency for the year or more it will take, at their pace, to remove him.

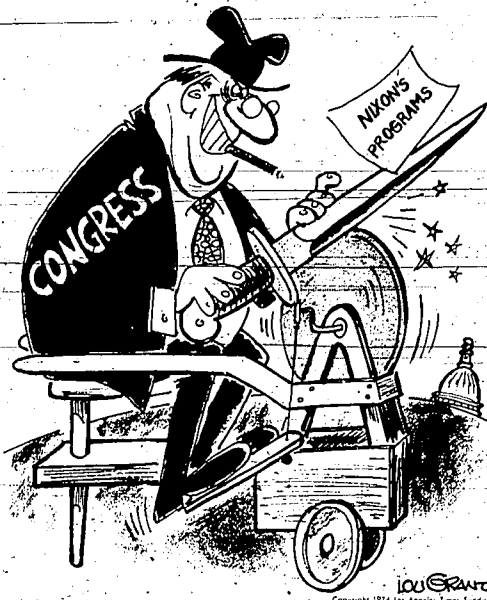

If Mr. Nixon survives an impeachment vote, the action can settle down and limp along with his weakened but known leadership for the next few years. If Mr. Nixon is removed from office, the nation can move forward even more surely. Neither result would be pleasant, but certainly would be better than this dangerous never-never land of uncertainty in which the nation is now languishing. — B. H.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Do you think Dr. Kissinger is spreading himself too thin girl-wise, I mean?"

"WELL, BACK TO THE OLD GRIND"

Poorest hit hardest

(c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — One of the bitter tragedies of the present world crisis is that the heaviest blows are falling, as usual, on the poor of the earth.

For the rich, inflation, the energy shortage and rising food prices and unemployment are an irritation and at worst an inconvenience, but for the poor they are a disaster.

The point is obvious, but it seems to have been missed by the House of Representatives in its vote to kill President Nixon's bill to aid the world's poorest countries through the World Bank's International Development Association.

This vote tells a lot about the present mood of the Congress and the state of presidential and Democratic leadership. Though the danger of mass starvation in sub-Saharan Africa and in India and Bangladesh is now alarming, the House voted 248-155 against the relief sought by the administration, with 108 Democrats voting for it and 118 against it, and 130 Republicans voting against the President and only 47 Republicans supporting him.

Now we are beginning to see the consequences of Vietnam, Watergate, and the turmoil of the Middle East.

President Nixon anticipated this mood but he underestimated it. By diligent private negotiating over the last year, and with the help of Robert McNamara, the head of the World Bank, he managed to persuade the other industrial nations of the world to increase their "soft loans" to the poorest countries from 40 percent to 66 and two-thirds per cent, allowing the United States to reduce its contribution to one-third from 40 per cent.

Today's thought

—Sir Winston Churchill said, "Dictators ride to and fro upon tigers they dare not dismount. And the tigers are getting hungrier."

Ford keeps on taking right step

WASHINGTON — Democrats will underestimate Gerald Ford at their peril. In what might be called the case of "Them Against Richard Nixon," he keeps doing the right thing, which is to say he is helping both his boss and himself.

Nothing exemplified the vice president's position to a greater degree than his defense of administration policies and philosophy in a speech before members of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Atlantic City. He stood up for Nixon personally; of course, but his speech was an attack on the President's ideological enemies and a warning of what would happen if those enemies prevail.

It was a clever and perfectly legitimate appeal to the man in the street's impatience with the daily headlines of bad news and his instinctive suspicion of certain labels. Whether Democrat or Republican, the average citizen tends to look with something less than enthusiasm upon what Ford called "a few extreme partisans" . . . "a small group of activists" . . . "super-welfare states" . . .

"powerful pressure organizations" whom he charged with trying to "cripple the Presidency" by "waging a massive propaganda campaign." Another Spiro Agnew? Possibly, but not probably. Gerry Ford is a different package of goods. In the final analysis, Ford was merely telling the electorate that a Republican administration is better for them than a Democratic administration.

Thus it was not surprising that Ford accentuated the positive. — Moreover, it was understandable politicking when Ford warned that if the Nixon critics win,

"we can all kiss goodbye to the chances of reducing Federal spending and increasing community and individual independence." Ford was talking Main Street's language. If the average American is uncertain about Watergate, he knows about welfare scandals under past Democratic administrations, and by both instinct and the exigencies of daily life he is inclined to see red when someone mentions government spending and almost any form of taxation.

Even some citizens who support impeachment must have second thoughts about what seems to be Congressional dawdling over the process. By and large, folks in the hinterlands want every man to get a fair shake.

Finally, Gerry Ford has to be considered the best man available for the role of Minister Republican. Richard Nixon is in too much trouble to help GOP candidates, and indeed in the past has not savored the chore.

But Ford is fresh from the Congressional ranks, with many friends on Capitol Hill and among county chairmen.

He's clean, and he's a take-off-your-shoes-and-get-comfortable type, which means that in Washington he speaks the values that the people may well decide brings them the gospel.

A few thoughts while sitting

Mr. Spectator's thoughts while sitting: If you are planning a long vacation next summer or fall — say to Europe or to South America or to Alaska — you had better get your reservations in early.

Many airlines have had big cuts on "big" plane service with the result many seats are no longer available and unless you get in advance you will not get. Then the Amtrak trains are filling. Officials tell us summer travelers had better reserve right now.

The "day of thinking up your mind" on Wednesday that you are going to start out on a major trip next Saturday is all gone. You'll plan far in advance now or you will just sit!

We wonder what the doctor means when he says to take pills four times a day. Does he mean four times during your waking day or does he mean every six hours during a 24-hour day?

We see where Indian writings on the Mojave desert are being destroyed or stolen by vandals. It brings to mind the time late Frank Clarke, the Glens Ferry pioneer, showed us a group of

MR. SPECTATOR

Indian writings. They were wonderful, but some had been destroyed even before we saw them. Which prompted us to ask officials at Idaho State University to inspect them and make a study. We never heard from anyone on that request. Really!

Well, the environmentalists have run up against a stone wall as a result of the energy crisis. They are coming out second best in many court battles to keep everything all tied up. Truth is, they just got a bit greedy. We ended up with too many things tied up — too much wilderness — and the change in eliminating some of the restrictions will continue.

CONGRATULATIONS! To Dan Obenechin who is now the new president of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce. He's a mucker and the Chamber and the city will benefit through his efforts. And just to remind you folks, the Chamber is a real pulse of the community and has been just that for a good time now ever since Ray Rostrom became manager. He and Dan will work well together.

A REMINDER Mr. Spectator must point out that if nobody knows the troubles you've seen, you're not living in a small town.

Future US nuclear strategy aired

BY JOHN W. FINNEY (c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — Should the United States be able to fight a nuclear war as well as deter one? That question has been raised by Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, as he tries to stir up a national debate on the nation's future nuclear strategy.

For 20 years, the strategy has been built around deterrence — the idea of "mutual assured destruction" — or MAD by its detractors.

For all the variations in name, the idea remained basically the same: if one side had enough nuclear power to absorb a surprise attack and still retaliate with devastating force, the other side would never dare attack. In effect, a position of mutual deterrence developed between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Schlesinger is not proposing abandonment of this deterrent strategy. But he wants to add a new idea, called a counter-force strategy.

In essence, the counter-force strategy contemplates the ability to wage a nuclear war short of an all-out exchange between the two superpowers. Rather than attacking cities as is envisioned under the strategy of mutual assured destruction, the two sides would be able to strike at military targets, such as airfields, production centers or even missile sites.

Schlesinger has chosen to herald this change in strategies — with public pronouncements starting almost from the time he took over as secretary of defense last July. Before a Group of reporters two weeks ago, he volunteered that there had been a change in strategies so that some intercontinental missiles were now aimed at Soviet military installations as well as at cities.

Then, in mid-January, he announced a reorganization of the Pentagon's command and control system as part of the move "to develop a wider variety of strategic options for the President in crisis situations."

What Schlesinger, in his professional way of discussing nuclear war games, has yet to make clear is how this counter-force differs from the present abilities of the United States strategic forces.

As Schlesinger acknowledges, the United States has more war heads than it needs to destroy Soviet cities and industries under the strategy of massive assured destruction. For some years, the surplus has been aimed at Soviet military installations.

In effect, therefore, the United States already has a counter-force ability, and the question arises as to what is new in Schlesinger's proposal.

Part of the answer given by associates of Schlesinger is that the well-publicized shift is as much psychological as it is real; as much name as fact.

The target of the Schlesinger publicity is the Soviet Union. The Schlesinger theory is that the way to deter the Soviet Union from a counter-force strike is to publicize that the United States can retaliate against Soviet military targets.

If this were an isolated case of nationalism, it might be passed over as a regrettable and correctable offense, but the tide of nationalism is running strong in the world again.

Wherever you look in the advanced countries today you will find leaders arguing for a new world order and pointing to the monetary crisis and the energy crisis as evidence that this is an increasingly inter-dependent world, requiring mutual aid and cooperative action between nations.

But at the same time, many of these same nations turn protectionist whenever they get in trouble.

The leadership on both sides of the aisle was appalling during the debate. A White House preoccupied with its personal and legal problems gave its little support.

JAMES RESTON

The situation is particularly awkward now, not only because the World Bank will run out of "soft-loan" funds at the end of June, but because no nation is obliged to meet its commitments to I.D.A. if other nations refuse to meet their quotas.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz reacted immediately and strongly against the House vote but the following day, Kissinger has condemned on Capitol Hill for doing so.

Accordingly, they are now turning to the Senate for a more careful reappraisal of the problem. Their aim is to get the decision reversed or at least modified before Feb. 11, when the World Oil Producers and Consumers meet here to discuss cooperative action on the cost-and distribution of fuel.

"How can we expect cooperation on oil if we will not cooperate to relieve hunger?" Kissinger asks. But Congress has its mind on other things and so has the President.

THOSTESON, M.D.

Doctor Says

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to have an allergic reaction to aspirin? If so, what type of reaction would occur? — Mrs. R. H.

Definitely yes; some individuals can be hypersensitive to aspirin. Not that it's common, but it does happen.

Likeliest manifestations are breaking out in a rash or hives; or touching off an asthma attack; or intestinal track symptoms.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When a woman is approaching menopause, could her periods be different than they normally were? Mine remain regular but I have had two that dragged out for two weeks. The first was heavy, the other wasn't. I am 47. — Mrs. R. B.

All sorts of irregularities are not only possible but likely as menopause approaches — missed periods, alternately light and heavy ones, and so on.

DEAR ABBY: I fell in love with a guy I'll call Motorhead. All he has is his car. He lost his job and I finished making his car payments. I also paid some other bills for him, and even paid back some money he owed. My friends told me I was crazy, but I was stubborn and wouldn't listen.

Motorhead got a job, and now that he is working he is going with another girl and people say he is going to marry her. I feel like a fool but what can I do? How can I get my money back without my parents knowing? I don't want to go to court, and I don't have any kind of written "I.O.U." from this guy. A FOOL

DEAR ABBY: I have lived here for 30 years and my husband is a respected member of the community, so I am unable to explain why I should have this problem.

I first noticed it in the department store where I shop regularly. The minute I enter, a buzzer goes off, and the store detectives appear and start watching me. Also, I notice the salespeople look at me suspiciously, so I don't dare even handle any merchandise.

I went to the dime store and noticed the same thing happened there, so I called for the manager and asked him why I was being watched. He very sarcastically said I wasn't, but if I had a clear conscience I had nothing to worry about. I left immediately without buying what I came for.

I now get the same feeling when I go to the supermarket. I've never stolen anything, but people keep watching me as if I were a thief.

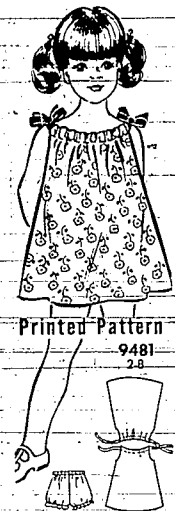

Should I bring suit against these people who are harassing me? I now order everything on the telephone because walking into a store is so humiliating. INNOCENT

DEAR INNOCENT: It's entirely possible that you are not being harassed, but that your imagination is working overtime. If you haven't discussed this with your doctor, you should. An imagined harassment is as damaging as a real one.

We don't really recommend that you, our readers, rush to play the Flannery convention, it does complete bidding but if you have a partner who will play the convention you can have a lot of fun and some mighty good results with it.

The opening bid of two diamonds shows five hearts, four spades and 12-16 high-card points. Thus a Flannery two-diamond opening is a picture bid and with many hands responder can place the contract.

Today's hand is a good example. South knows that his partner holds nine cards in the major suits. That leaves him with just four cards in the minors so that if all North's high cards are in the majors he must have the ace of spades and opening of hearts so four spades will be a good contract. There is no slam and no need to shifty-shilly. South bids the spade game.

Since spades break 3-2 and hearts 2-2 this spade contract wheels in. South wins the diamond lead, draws trumps, goes after hearts and makes only four since he must use his last trump to ruff one of dummy's hearts. There is nothing remarkable about getting to this game, but we can assure you that it would not be reached at over a quarter of the tables in a strong duplicate game.

Rain-gorged river spills over

VICKSBURG, Miss. (UPI) — The rain-gorged Mississippi River, following the early pattern of last year's disastrous floods, has spilled over two million acres in seven states and driven more than 500 persons from their homes.

"The river is much higher at this time than it was a year ago," said Richard Drummond, a spokesman for the U.S. Corps of Engineers and Mississippi River Commission Monday.

"The top's full... and that's what we're worried about. We just hope we don't have any more rain up in the basins to the north."

"Approximately 500 persons have evacuated their homes in northwest Tennessee because they have been cut off by rising waters," he said, and there have been some evacuations in the Mississippi Delta.

"Right now it's an inconvenience for parts of Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana," Drummond said.

Corps and Weather Service officials emphasized that the flooding so far has not approached the levels of last year, which cost more than $1 billion and took at least 20 lives.

The National Service predicted that thousands of additional acres will be inundated between St. Louis and New Orleans within a week, with a rise in the waters of at least another foot.

The Mississippi reached 43.3 feet at Vicksburg Monday, almost 10 feet above the 33.7 foot stage recorded in late January, 1973. The level was still eight feet below the May crest recorded at the height of the flooding.

March winds may arrive early

Twin Falls, northside, Burley-Rupert area: Mostly fair today through Wednesday. Strong gusty westerly afternoon winds. Lows tonight 20 to 35. High Wednesday 40-45.

Outlook for Thursday: Increasing clouds.

Halley, Camas Prairie, Lower Wood-River Valley: Variable cloudiness today

Outlook for Thursday: Increasing cloudiness.

Synopsis: West northwest flow covers the Pacific northwest. The jet stream shifted north, keeping incoming disturbances confined to Washington, extreme northern Idaho and Montana.

Another change in the upper air flow is due to occur about Thursday or Friday, and could bring some rain to southern Idaho. Mostly fair conditions will prevail over southern Idaho through Thursday with very little temperature change.

The extended outlook, Friday through Sunday, calls for periods of rain in the valley and snow in the mountains. Highs will be mostly in the 30s and 40s and lows in the upper 20s through the 30s.

Chickens net $450

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — The Maine House of Representatives voted Monday to give $450 to a man who claimed 500 of his chickens were scared to death by a state police cruiser.

Black gunmen kill 4, hurt 1

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Black gunmen traveling in a large black automobile, shot and killed four white persons at random Monday night on the streets of San Francisco.

A young mother of a 4-month-old son also was shot apparently without reason but is expected to live, although physicians say she probably will be paralyzed from the waist down.

"It seems to be the work of more than one person," said Chief of Inspectors Charles Baren, who took personal charge of the investigation.

Police noted similarities to a 10-day outbreak of street shootings last month that killed six persons and wounded two others, although they would not definitely say the gunmen were from the same group.

"There's no rhyme or riddle to it," Petrolina Williams Wakefield remarked while discussing the difficulties of trying to catch the silent shoot-and-run marksmen.

Witnesses gave varying descriptions of the gunmen but noted that in almost every case the man with the handgun, either walked out and started shooting without saying a word. In each case in the latest shootings the murder weapon was a .32 caliber pistol.

The murder spree started at 7:51 a.m. in a largely residential district to the west of San Francisco's downtown area and ended two hours later.

During that time the killers had slain another person to the west of the downtown area, one in a slum area two blocks from the city's main street and another near the southern San Francisco limits.

In all, they had traveled only six miles.

Little was known about the victims who had no connection with each other and appeared to have been picked at random.

The victims, in the order that they were shot, were Tina Smith, 32; Vincent Wollin, 69; John Bumble, 87; and Jane Holly, 25.

Wounded was Mrs. Roxanne McMillan, 23, who was standing near her new home in the city's southern section.

Tina Smith and Wollin were shot within nine minutes of each other, the woman at Geary Boulevard and Divisadero Street and Wollin at Scott and Fulton Streets.

Bumble, a pensioner, was killed at Ninth and Howard Streets, in the "South of the Slot" area.

Jane Holly, a bank employee, died in a brightly lit self-service laundry at Silver and Brussels Streets and the shooting of Mrs. McMillan occurred in the 100 block of Edinborough Street.

Back to walking

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The energy crisis could put Salt Lake City patrolmen back on the beat.

Police Chief J. Earl Jones listed that as one possibility Monday in a contingency plan for police operations in case of a gasoline shortage.

Other plans included use of bicycles, motor scooters and motorcycles instead of cars on patrol downtown, at shopping centers and in high-crime areas; doubling up of patrolmen in autos; screening of complaints; and freeze on non-emergency use of gas by other city departments.

An important note to bus travelers:

New highway speed laws have made most existing travel timetables obsolete. Pacific Trailways, like other carriers around the nation, has issued new schedules.

We apologize for these necessary changes, and hope the new timetables cause you no inconvenience in your travel plans. We have adjusted the schedules carefully so as to keep departure and arrival times as reasonable as possible while retaining convenient connecting schedules.

So if you are planning a bus trip, or if you are meeting someone arriving on the bus, be sure to call your local Trailways office to check on the latest schedule.

Your support and understanding is sincerely appreciated. And we will continue to try to give you the best service possible, especially in view of current restrictions on automobile travel caused by the fuel situation.

Clocks move up Sunday

The man told him, Reardon said, "I just don't like the idea of trying to drive a nail and hitting myself on the thumb."
Reardon also noted 13 or 14 states are going to ask Congress to repeal daylight saving time.
Eastern Idaho legislators generally opposed the measure because they want to be on the same time zone as the Salt Lake City and Utah areas.
Northern Idaho lawmakers voted by a 2-1 margin for the bill. One of them, Rep. Bruce Sweeney, D-Lewiston, said all parts of the state were finally on the same time zone, and saw no reason to change that.
With the failure of the bill, clocks in northern Idaho will again be one hour behind those in the rest of the state.
In other developments Monday, a state senator from eastern Idaho introduced a memorial asking Congress to put the country back on six months standard time and six months daylight saving time each year. Sen. Charles E. (Chick) Bilyou, D-Pocatello, asked "immediate" action by Congress in his memorial.
Another legislator—Rep. Harold Show, R-Moscow, said he might introduce legislation putting the state on daylight saving time only during the summer months. The bill would defy Congress—but Show hasn't found any penalty clause in the bill that created year-round daylight saving.

Sale changes eyed

BOISE (UPI)—The Senate Resources and Environment Committee was told Monday it was time for Idaho to get in step in selling endowment lands.
Idaho Land Commissioner Gordon Trombley said this could be accomplished by "reducing the pay" but "permitting and allowing flexibility in setting interest rates."

Trombley said the payout period should be reduced from 40 to 30 years because the longer period can no longer be obtained in the market place.

Spending rule set

BOISE (UPI)—The Senate Judiciary and Rules Committee ordered printed Monday three bills providing for regulation of campaign expenditures and contributions and regulation of lobbyists.
Chairman Edith Miller Klein, R-Boise, said the bills, which were sponsored by Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, would be subject to a public hearing.

The campaign expenditure disclosure bill would require candidates for state office and the legislature to name treasurers and report on contributions over $100.
The other two bills would allow checkoff of $1 per income tax return to a party of the taxpayer's choice and would provide for lobbyist registration.

Open meet bill asked

BOISE (UPI)—Despite doubts by some members, it can be enforced, the House State Affairs Committee called

Monday for introduction of an open meeting bill for public agencies.
Rep. Gary Ingram, R-Post Falls, presented the proposal to the committee—saying he first got interested in the open meeting problem when he learned of executive sessions of the horse racing commission.

No change

BOISE (UPI)—Although transportation costs are going up, Idaho legislators will have to do with the same 10 cents a mile they have been getting.
The Senate Judiciary Committee Monday recommended that senators receive 12 cents after it learned that the constitution sets the rate at 10 cents a mile.

Then, he said, he discovered the fish and game commission would still be closed doors to set hunting and fishing seasons, school boards would work on budgets in secret and city councils would make decisions in private.

Health aides say their DECS relations good

(Times-News Capital Bureau)—Representatives of two district health departments assured the Senate Health Education and Welfare Committee Monday they had good working relationships with the Department of Environmental and Community Services.

Environmental and DECS but the district directors were hired by the local boards.
The committee also voted to hold for a day proposed enabling legislation to permit regional cooperation of existing libraries, William Roden, appearing for an association of libraries, said the legislation would create no new taxing districts.

Members decided to hold the proposal in committee until they could study it more closely.

DISTRAUGHT YOUNG LADY HAS LOST HER CAR KEYS. LOCKSMITH LOWELL WILSON COMFORTS AND REASSURES HER WHILE LOCKSMITH KYLE HARSHBARGER PROCEEDS TO BUILD A NEW KEY.

KEY PLAY IN THREE PARTS

PART ONE: Girl buys car which has only one key. Girl puts off getting an extra key. Then one day her only key gets lost. Filled with despair, girl curses, sobs and stamps foot.

PART TWO: Girl calls Boster Key Shop, reveals her predicament. Asks if there is any way to get a key for her car. If she doesn't have one. Sympathetic locksmith reassures girl, explaining he can make not only duplicate extra keys but also original keys for almost everything, including automobiles, indeed without a working key to go by. Somewhat relieved, girl then asks can someone come right out, I have to be to work in thirty minutes.

PART THREE: Locksmith in shop radios locksmith in service car, relays emergency call. Service man rushes to scene of emergency and whips out new keys for girl's car in minutes. Elated girl thanks locksmith profusely, writes him a check, jumps in her car, blows a kiss and zooms off to work.

LESSON ONE: Always keep an extra key handy for every lock you use. The girl in the story could have had a dozen extra keys made for what it cost her to have the key man come out.

LESSON TWO: Don't despair if you DO lose a key, or can't find your extra. Just remember Boster Key Shop makes keys for ALL occasions. Boster Key Men make the best key available whether original or duplicate.

4th youth arrested

TWIN FALLS — A fourth youth arrested in connection with the overturning of three Volkswagens sedans last week was arraigned in Magistrate Court Monday on charges of destruction of private property. Tim Yout, 18, Twin Falls, has been charged, along with Irvin Wayne Hamlett, 18, Twin Falls, and two male juveniles, ages 16 and 17, with turning over the three small sedans, one of which also had its windshield kicked in according to police reports.

Gully plea given

SALMON — Ray Grammer, Wendell, pleaded guilty in Magistrate Court here Jan. 24 to charges of unlawful possession of grouse and unlawful possession of elk. Judge William Puette fined him $25 and $750 court costs on the first count and $300 and six months in jail on the second count and was suspended. He was placed on probation to the State Patrol Department for two years, his hunting and fishing license revoked for the remainder of 1974 and the elk horns and carcasses ordered given to the State of Idaho.

Escapes nabbed

BOISE (UPI) — Police and sheriff's deputies nabbed two escapees from the Eagle Island Prison—Farm while the pair were napping in an apartment west of Boise. Fred M. Wilcox, 19, and Lloyd Eloy Broncheau, 20, had walked away from the prison farm Sunday. Officers picked them up at 11:30 a.m. Monday after receiving an anonymous telephone tip on their location.

Shoshone meet set

SHOSHONE — North Side Communities, Inc., will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Shoshone office, 200 N. Grand. O'Dell Fremson, manager of the Shoshone office, Bureau of Land Management, will present the program.

Interns' costs welfare

BOISE (UPI) — At least four of the college students who are working for academic credits as legislative interns are meeting to see how they can receive food stamps and make ends meet. In a Lewiston Tribune article Monday, reporter Rod Gramer said one intern estimated his expenses are $10 more a month compared to expenses on campus.

Disaster counties listed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Small Business Administration has declared counties in Idaho, Oregon, Washington and California states "disaster areas" because of winter storms and flooding. Monday's action makes long-term, low-interest loans available for repair, rebuilding and replacement of property damaged or destroyed by the storms. In Idaho, the counties included Adams, Benewah, Bonner, Boundary, Latah, Shoshone and Washington.

Court rules against widow

BOISE (UPI) — US District Court has ruled against the widow of a Los Angeles man who drowned on a float trip down the Middle Fork of the Salmon River. Judge Ray McNichols in his judgment noted that the 100-mile long Middle Fork was obviously dangerous at the time the fatality was made by the late Ellis Harmon and "any person of ordinary intelligence should have recognized the danger."

2nd ambulance bid set

HALLEY — Blaine County commissioners will advertise again for bids on the county ambulance contract after the only two bidders submitted the same proposed fee Monday. The two firms, which each bid $450 per month, were Bird Funeral Home and Rathke Funeral Home, both Halley. Last year, Bird had the contract for $500 per month. The new bid opening has tentatively been set for Feb. 12.

Well turned off at Hazelton

A Federal study of Idaho water supplies, reported last week in the Times-News, also found arsenic in Hazelton's water that violated "recommended" federal health standards. It reported .01 ppm of the toxic chemical in the water. In Runsvold's last letter he recommended that "the city continue use of water from Well No. 2 but that consideration be given to eventually replacing it as it becomes financially feasible and/or imperative because of increasing system demands." Contacted by the Times-News Monday, Runsvold said, "Basically what we're telling them is that they are taking a high dose and should find another supply. But we're in no position to demand this." "It's a gray area where there's some question about it," Runsvold said. The arsenic concentration is probably diluted before it reaches Hazelton consumers since water from both city wells is mixed in the municipal system, according to Runsvold. "Former Mayor Pyne said today he had seen the letters but doubted that any action will be taken 'right at the moment.'" "It is apparently not enough to bother anybody at this time," he said. "They may have to drill another well if it gets too bad," Pyne said. "We've never had anybody that I know of that has had any disagreement with the wells." The federal study also found a dangerous level of selenium, a poisonous and possibly cancer-causing chemical, in Hazelton's water supply. Runsvold said Monday he had taken two tests of each well since the federal study, both showing non-harmful levels of selenium in the wells. Federal testers found .02 ppm of selenium in the water, but Runsvold said his sampling showed .002 ppm. Mandatory federal health standards call for rejection of a water supply with greater than .01 ppm of the toxic chemical. "I can't explain the discrepancies between federal and state tests," Runsvold said. "It may be a variability in the water or test procedures or a mistake in recording procedures." Runsvold said he does not intend to take any more tests in the near future for selenium in the Hazelton wells.

GOODING — The proposed Gooding County budget for 1974 is $1,814,971, larger than last year. The proposed budget totals $2,272,716. Most of the increase in the budget is due to raises in salaries, increased expenses, new employees and the general election costs. Salaries in the sheriff's office were raised $25 per month and all other county employees received salary increases. Margaret Clements, county clerk, said the state tax commission told her the budget represents a 15 per cent increase over 1973 expenditures. "It is not known whether the increase budget will result in a tax increase," she said. That will depend on how much revenue the county receives from other sources and upon the collection of 1973 taxes. In the clerk, auditor and recorder's office, the proposed budget is $36,470, compared to $30,888 last year. In the sheriff's office, the proposed budget is $76,223 compared to $73,471. The jail budget is $3,200 compared to $2,024. The budget for the assessor's office is $30,609 compared to $28,831. The assessor for re-evaluation has a budget of $9,750 compared to $1,275 for last year. The prosecuting attorney's budget is $19,125 compared to $15,977 for 1973. In the treasurer and tax collector's office, the proposed budget is $20,250 compared to $15,950. The district court budget is down slightly at $3,100 compared to $3,640 last year. The magistrate court budget is $15,704, up from $8,600 last year. The public defender has a budget of $10,025, compared to $9,286 last year. The commissioner's budget is set at $14,653, compared to $12,411. The county agent's office has a budget of $15,214 compared to $12,909. The coroner's budget is $1,365 compared to $763 for 1973. Budgeted for elections is $15,000, compared to $75 last year. The civil defense budget totals $900 compared to $550 last year. County building totals $34,514 compared to $35,521 in 1973. The general and reserve fund increases are due mostly to employee benefits such as Social Security and retirement due to salary increases and some flood control is included in the budget this year. This year's budget is $71,232 compared to $48,076 for last year. Budgeted for the special cattle rustling deputy is $2,552 compared to $12,782 for last year. In the road and bridge department $4,765 is proposed, compared to $3,025 for last year. The weed eradication budget is $52,350 compared to $45,991 last year. The airport budget is $1,000, the same as last year. The county fair budget is $9,000, also the same as last year. The hospital budget is $22,000, the same as for 1973. The historical society has been allotted $1,000, compared to $49 last year. The budget amount last year was the same, but the money was not spent. The budget total is the same for both years. Hospital bond interest and redemption is down slightly at $39,616, compared to $39,834 last year.

The indigent fund is set at $46,095, up from $41,792 for 1973. The same amount was budgeted last year but not all the money was spent. Junior college tuition is set at $25,000 compared to $17,136 for 1973. Last year, $30,000 was budgeted but only $14,000 of it was spent, the amount for 1974 was reduced. The public health budget is set at $18,587 compared to $8,214. The increase reflects a $2.15 per capita charge set by the district health board. The regional airport authority budget totals $3,000. Nothing was budgeted in 1973. Solid waste disposal has been provided $5,000 compared to $3,500 last year. The war memorial fund is set at $700, unchanged from 1973. The revenue sharing budget is listed as $205,287. Federal grants are budgeted at $1,800.

Minico eyes trial plan

By ED MITCHELL Times-News writer
RUPERT — A trial plan for improving conditions and service at the Minidoka county dog pound was discussed by city and county officials at a Minidoka County Commissioners meeting Monday. A delegation of local officials, including Rupert city councilmen Clark Cameron and Dwinelle Allred, Rupert police chief Ed Culver, Halley police chief James McCall, and Paul councilmen James McFee met with county commissioners to form a countywide program to deal with the dog problem. The matter came to the attention of Minidoka officials early in January, when the dog pound was said to be inadequate during the extremely cold weather at that time. A new program for handling the collection and care of dogs in the county was called for in both city and county government meetings earlier in the month. Rupert councilmen Cameron and Allred will meet with county commissioner Lyle Barton and officials from the surrounding towns of Heyburn, Paul and Minidoka to work out details for a plan which will be tested for 60 days before a final decision is made. The plan proposed calls for a fulltime dogcatcher to be hired by the city of Rupert for the area. The costs are to be shared by the city and the county, with the smaller towns in the area paying on a per dog basis for use of the pound services. Area residents who bring dogs to the pound themselves or go to the pound to redeem unlicensed animals will have to do so during regularly scheduled hours when the dogcatcher will be the facility. They will also have to pay a pound fee in addition to the licensing fee to redeem unlicensed pets. County prosecuting attorney Robert Nielsen said that once the plan has been changed to meet the requirements of the new plan because most existing local ordinances are basically for the purposes of licensing. Councilman Cameron said that the operation of the pound would have to be put on a "right and proper basis." "The city doesn't want to be responsible if anyone can go out anytime to take and pick up dogs," he said. "In the past we have occasionally been left at the pound without the knowledge of the attendant, sometimes even left loose in the building. Unlicensed dogs, ordinarily will be kept 48 hours before they are destroyed, according to Police Chief Culver. Exceptions will have to be made in instances of animals which are plucked up by rural residents and brought to the pound for destruction because of danger to livestock. Culver said "Sometimes mean dogs have to be destroyed immediately." The usual method at the pound for destroying dogs is by gassing them with carbon monoxide from the exhaust pipe of a pickup truck. When dogs must be taken care of immediately, they are shot.

Minico names 2

RUPERT — A new county coroner and deputy coroner were selected at the Minidoka County Commissioners meeting Monday. Vaughn Bar, Paul, former deputy coroner, was appointed to fill the position of coroner with Kim Christensen, Rupert, to assist him as deputy. The coroner's post was vacated when Robert C. Walk resigned Jan. 21. Walk quit the job he had held since 1956, saying last week he felt it was time to get out of the job. Walk has remained associated with Walk Mortuary after selling the business last February. Minidoka County Prosecutor Robert Nielsen told the commission Idaho law prohibits anyone acting as mortician in a case in which he performs the autopsy or coroner unless he is the only licensed mortician in a county. The problem came up for the first time when the proprietors of Magic Valley Funeral Chapel opened their business in Rupert a year ago.

Jerome hospital toured

By CHARLOTTE BELL Times-News writer
JEROME — St. Benedict's Hospital inaugurated a new phase of public information Monday with its first annual "Service Club President's Day." Presidents of the Jerome service clubs participated in a complete tour of St. Benedict's Hospital and all its facilities which was conducted by Leon Felder, hospital president. The tour was followed by a luncheon served at the hospital. Attending were representatives of the news media: Tom Prescott, president of the Jerome Rotary Club; Gail Hendrickson, president of the Jerome Kiwanis Club; Roger Baisch, president of the Jerome Jaycees; Mike Hodge, internal vice president of the Jerome Jaycees; Mel Magnell, representing the Jerome Chamber of Commerce; Myron Johnson, president of the Shoshone Rotary Club; Roger Maxwell, president of the Shoshone Chamber of Commerce; and Mike Sullivan, newly elected president of St. Benedict's Hospital Foundation. Felder said that about three years ago, St. Benedict's Hospital was facing some difficult decisions. "The hospital was placed under severe restrictions by the government. Our costs were continually going up, but we were mandated to hold the line on our charges to the people we serve," Felder said. Felder said that St. Benedict's developed a "management by objective" program for the hospital. "This program has enabled us to establish goals for our hospital and objectives for each major department within the hospital," Felder said. Felder noted that studies conducted at the hospital indicate laboratory, radiology and emergency services have more than doubled since 1956. "Because of this, an on-going plan of modernization has been finalized and now implemented. Community involvement came about with the formation of St. Benedict's Hospital Foundation. The foundation has membership of over 300 families in our service area and is governed by a board of 32 members which is separately incorporated. It is now involved in a major fund development project trying to raise $350,000 over a three year period from the community to insure the orderly development of services and to insure the continuation of hospital services for future generations," Felder said. A total of $19,000 has been pledged to date, according to Fred Matz. Felder said a review of hospital costs nationwide showed that the average patient pays $830 for an average length of stay in the hospital of 7.9 days. In Idaho, the average patient is $425 for 5.2 days and St. Benedict's cost is $420 for an average stay of 4.3 days. "At the present time, St. Benedict's is in the process of doing internal remodeling only. No additional beds or space is planned for at this time. Our remodeling calls for the expansion of our laboratory, radiology and emergency department primarily. However, in an internal remodeling, the domino theory comes into play. If you expand in one area, you must provide space for what you have displaced," Felder said.

4 youths arrested

TWIN FALLS — State undercover narcotics agents arrested four Twin Falls youths late Monday on charges of possession of a controlled substance. One of the youths was also charged with a second count of possession and a third count of possession with intent to manufacture a controlled substance. Arrested on possession charges were Bilo Daniel, Jr., 19; Roy Arambula, 19; Francis G. Delcon, 23 and Steve Harding, 21. According to Twin Falls police detective captain Tim Qualls, two undercover agents made the arrests shortly after midnight in the parking lot of DJ's Lounge on Blue Lakes Boulevard North. Cars belonging to the suspects were also impounded by police. All four men remained in the county jail this morning in lieu of $200 bond. Arambula faces an additional $600 bond on a second count of possession and a count of possession with intent to manufacture.

Land development hinges on water plan

If icy conditions prevented 85 days of water delivery during this 91 day period, the Twin Falls Canal Co. would convey the rest of the water between March 1 and April 15, Peters said. The canal company also would, if necessary, spill excess flows during rainy periods of the irrigation season into the project's canals, Peters added. For each acre foot of water conveyed, Canyon View would pay 25¢ per foot of Twin Falls Canal Co.'s annual cost of delivering an acre-foot of water to its own shareholders. Based on the canal company's 1973 expenses, Canyon View would pay $1.18 per acre foot delivered for a total of $7,880 for conveyance of 66,000 acre-feet of water. Any year that the Twin Falls Canal Co.'s costs rose $10,000, the Canyon View payment would increase 2 cents per acre foot, or $1,320 for 66,000 acre-feet. According to the Twin Falls Canal Co.'s board of directors the water conveyance arrangement with Tuana is similar, except that Tuana would use just half as much water. The Twin Falls Canal Co. would deliver 200 cubic feet per second of water to Tuana for at least 85 days during the late fall and early winter. Again, if all the water could not be supplied during this period, the canal company would convey the rest between March 1 and April 15, Peters said. For the transportation of 33,000 acre-feet of water to lateral No. 9 in Deep Creek area, Tuana would pay Twin Falls Canal Co. half of what Canyon View would pay. Based on 1973 canal company costs this payment would equal about $39,000. In 1973 the Twin Falls Canal Co. spent $550,000 in transporting water to its stockholders. If the company had delivered water to Canyon View and Tuana that year up to $116,000 or 21 per cent of its operating expenses could have been offset. This, according to Peters, would be a sound business deal, Peters maintained, because transporting water to the two irrigation companies would cost Twin Falls Canal Co. practically nothing. He said that between Sept. 15 and Dec. 15 the canal company would transport water for farmers' stock anyway, and that running more water straight through the highline canal would not entail more expense. In addition to Milner Dam spillover water conveyed by the Twin Falls Canal Co., Tuana developers once had planned to make use of equal water runoff into Deep Creek. Between November and March the excess flow into Deep Creek, most of which drained into the Snake River, would have been diverted into lateral No. 9 and, in turn, to other canals leading to Tuana's Yahoo Creek Reservoir. Harry LeMoine, president of Tuana, said use of this return flow would be environmentally beneficial because too much irrigation runoff percolated with magnesium and sodium salts is being spilled into the Snake River. This flow makes the river overly saline. However, Tuana has withdrawn its application for waste water filings. LeMoine said a minor problem was in the application. Instead of filing for the water between November and March the company filed for it between March and November. Also, the proposal to use waste water aroused much controversy in the Castleford area where farmers used some of the drainage for their stocks, LeMoine said. The development company plans to obtain the water it needs from Milner Dam spillover water. To carry 200 cubic feet of water per second the Twin Falls Canal Co.'s lateral No. 9 would have to be about double in size. LeMoine said Tuana would pay for the widening.

Architect plans viewed
RUPERT — Minidoka County Commissioners viewed architect's plans for the county's new judicial building Monday at their meeting in Rupert. Plans for the $419,000 building are nearing finalization with only minor alterations left to be made. Officials of the Boise architectural firm of Dropping, Kelley, Hosford and LaMarche told the building will be constructed of concrete reinforced brick, with about 12,000 square feet of floor space. It will be heated and cooled by electricity, supplied by Rupert's city-owned electric company. Original plans called for gas heating in the building but the idea was rejected by the county commissioners as being more expensive and uncertain architect's plans for the county's new judicial building Monday at their meeting in Rupert. Plans for the $419,000 building are nearing finalization with only minor alterations left to be made.

Ali beats Frazier in unanimous vote

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a classic rerun of their first fight, Muhammad Ali got his revenge, winning a close but unanimous decision over Joe Frazier before an emotionally charged throng at Madison Square Garden Monday night.

The scoring saw Judge Tony Castellani call it 74-71; Judge Jack Gordon 84 and Referee Tony Perez 6-5-1, all for Ali. The UPI had it 7-4-1.

Ali was in their first match as of March of 1971, it was again the clash of the big power man, Frazier, and the great boxing stylist, Ali. As it was again, it was Frazier wading after Ali from start to finish, laking the punches, taking the punches in the hopes of getting that one big one in himself.

Ali took the first two rounds with consummate ease and in the third, Frazier for the first time began to get a few punches into Ali's body, egged on by the shouted advice from his corner to "stay down low, Joe, stay down low."

Universe back in order with UCLA in top spot

NEW YORK (UPI) — God's universe is back in order and UCLA is again the main man.

The Bruins averaged a 71-70 dot in a week earlier by blasting Notre-Dame, 94-75, Saturday to reclaim their accustomed berth atop the rankings.

And, for Notre Dame, it was the briefest of trips to the top as the Irish fell to third in this week's rankings.

Dollar war looming in NFL draft today

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League, faced with the possibility of fighting a dollar war for its choices for the first time since 1965, holds its annual college player draft Tuesday with the Dallas Cowboys ready to make massive defensive tackle Ed "Too Tall" Jones of Tennessee State their No. 1 pick.

Minnesota (20), Dallas and Pittsburgh (19) and San Francisco, the New York Giants, Buffalo and San Diego (18) also have extra picks.

The draft will consist of 17 rounds, with 442 players to be chosen. Ties were broken by coin flips and the teams involved will alternate positions each round.

The source of the problem this year for the NFL is the new World Football League, which held its own preliminary draft of 72 players last week and is intent on plucking some of the top college talent available.

The old American Football League waged a costly bidding war with the NFL from its inception in 1960 through 1965 until a merger and a common draft were reached. The draft has been peaceful since then, with only light competition coming from the Canadian League.

The talent crop this year is considered slim, with defensive line, linebacker and running back considered the strong positions. Besides Jones, the top defensive linemen available are John Dutton of Nebraska, Carl Barzilauskas of Indiana, Bill Sandifer of UCLA and Dave Gallagher of Michigan.

The Cowboys are relatively sure of signing the 6-foot-8, 260-pound Jones—some say he's already signed—and the WFL virtually conceded that tact by not picking him until the third round of its draft.

San Diego picks second, followed by the New York Giants, Chicago, Baltimore, the New York Jets, St. Louis, New Orleans, San Francisco (from New England), San Francisco, Los Angeles (from Philadelphia), Green Bay, Detroit, Denver, San Diego (from Cleveland), Kansas City, Min-

Waldrop defeats Liquori

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Tony Waldrop, a senior at North Carolina University, shaded Marty Liquori by less than a stride Monday night to win a stirring mile victory as both runners clocked in 3:58.9, the fastest time in Philadelphia's long track history that the four-minute mark was broken indoors.

A roaring crowd, attracted by sports doubleheader—the Philadelphia Track Classic and the closed-circuit televised showing of the Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier heavy-weight title fight—saw Waldrop come from third place with less than half a lap to go, reach Liquori a scant 50 yards from the finish and go ahead in the final five yards to break the tape first.

It was the third time in two weeks that the North Carolina miler cracked the four-minute mark, and it climaxed a beautiful race in which he was content to stay in third place until it came time for his decisive drive for the tape.

Two other meet records fell when Byron Dye, a former New York University star won a 1,000-yard run in 2:09.9 and Tom Hill, formerly of Arkansas State and now assistant track coach at West Point, won the 60-yard hurdles in seven seconds flat.

fantastic

Obviously, Ali's greatest goal is within reach, that being, of course, the heavyweight championship of the world now held by George Foreman, who it must be remembered destroyed Frazier in two rounds last January.

When the Ali-Frazier match was made, there were those who thought they could not recapture the drama, the theater, of the 1971 bout which had been labeled simply "The Fight."

For the privilege of seeing it in the flesh, they bought tickets ranging from $20 to $100 for a gross gate of $1,053,589.

The other non-title gate to exceed that money was the Jack Sharkey-Jack Dempsey battle in July of 1927 when the money amounted to $1,003,530.

Ali says opinion was wrong

NEW YORK (UPI) — Muhammad Ali admits he was "wrong" about Joe Frazier, Ali, who won Monday night's rematch between the two super heavyweights, said that he had thought Frazier was finished as a professional fighter before they squared off in a 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

"I thought Joe Frazier was finished," said Ali, who avenged a loss to Frazier three years ago. "I was wrong, I don't take anything away from him. He fought a tremendous fight and I don't have any hard feelings, about Joe Frazier. I would like to give Joe another chance."

The possibility of a third fight between the two men is probably inevitable as Frazier, who thought the fight could have gone either way, said the foremost thing in his mind was to get another crack at Ali.

"The fight was very close," said Frazier, who seemed to carry the fight most of the way but was a loser on all three cards turned in by the judges. "I thought it could go either way, yes I would say I won it."

Hawaii gas request denied

Nixon subpoena urged

Hot bird!

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lawyers for John Ehrlichman will ask a California court to subpoena President Nixon so Nixon can testify that the Daniel Ellsberg burglary was a legitimate federal police action, the Los Angeles Times said today.

But Ehrlichman's lawyers told the Times that it was not likely that the President would be forced to appear.

Meanwhile, Herbert L. "Bart" Porter Monday became the 13th man to be either convicted or to plead guilty to charges arising out of the burglary of the Democratic National Committee headquarterin the Watergate complex. Porter, who calmly confessed to perjury before a nationwide audience during last spring's Senate Watergate hearings, formally pleaded guilty to lying to the FBI and was freed without bond pending a probation report.

Porter, 35, waived indictment on the one-count charge. He could receive a maximum penalty of five years in prison or a $10,000 fine or both.

HONOLULU (UPI) — The Federal Government has refused to grant an emergency gas allocation to Hawaii which has instituted rationing because of the fuel shortage.

The Federal Energy Office turned down Hawaii's request for 6.3 million gallons of gas Monday, the day the nation's last ration program got under way in the ocean state.

State officials said the emergency allocation was "crucial" to the gas plan. They added they would press federal officials further in Washington, D.C., to get more gas.
