Gem trucks keep rolling

By United-Press International
Participation by Idaho truck drivers in a national strike Thursday failed to materialize, and truck traffic was judged at about normal for the day.
In other parts of the country, violence has erupted because of truck stoppages.
But in Idaho, State Police Headquarters said everything was quiet during the day and a trooper at the Bliss weigh station said truck traffic on the freeway "was about the same as always."

Echevarria visits Europe

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — President Luis Echevarria left today on a 14-day European economic tour with stops in Austria, Germany, Italy, Yugoslavia and the Vatican.
The trip is his third outside Mexico since proposing a United Nations charter of Economic Rights and Duties of Nations in April, 1972. Earlier trips took Echevarria to the United States and around the world.

Brazil fire claims 20

SAO PAULO (UPI) — A giant blaze roared through the 25-story Joelia Building in downtown Sao Paulo today, and police said several hundred persons were trapped inside. Dense flames and smoke drove off helicopters trying to roof rescue.
The city morgue reported at 11 a.m. (7 a.m. MST) that at least 20 persons had died in the blaze. More than 100 persons were rushed to hospitals, many of them with severe burns.

Busing ban bill rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Education and Labor Committee, one day after President Nixon reiterated his opposition to busing, rejected a measure that would have banned most court-ordered student transfers for purposes of achieving racial balances.
Thursday's 164 vote came as the panel worked under a June 30 deadline when the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act will expire.

Boise radio tower falls

BOISE (UPI) — A 400-foot transmitting tower for KIDO radio south of Boise near Kuna collapsed Thursday night, but Station Manager James Davidson said the loss would not take the station off the air.
He said broadcasting of programs would continue on the station's customary 24-hour-a-day schedule using two other 400-foot steel towers at somewhat reduced power.

Senate OK's legal aid bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A compromise bill to establish an independent legal services corporation for the poor was approved 69 to 17 Thursday in the Senate after attempts to turn the program over to the states was defeated.
The compromise bill, supported by the administration, would establish an independent corporation to run the program, with 11 directors named by the President.

Dempsey wins legal round

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey scored a TRO in a suit against his handlers Thursday.
The court ruled the owner of the building housing Dempsey's restaurant was required to give formal notice before bringing an eviction suit against the business.
Dempsey's counter suit was filed late in 1973.

Quake jars Turkish port

IZMIR, Turkey (UPI) — A predawn earthquake jolted this historic port city and reputed birthplace of the poet Homer today, leveling some buildings and spreading panic among greater Izmir's one million inhabitants.
Police said two persons were known killed and 35 injured, five critically.

Child abuse aid OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Friday signed a $60 million, three-year measure establishing a national center to deal with child abuse and neglect.

DOCUMENTS telling of a two year flight to join her husband in the United States are examined by Lynette Johnson, 22 (right), and her foster mother-in-law, Mrs. Wesley Stewart, Twin Falls.

Barrier remains TF airman's wife, 22, fighting for US visa

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Lynette L. Johnson, an attractive blonde married for two years, prefers to be treated like a human being rather than a number on a case U.S. immigration officials have been shoving aside for two years.
She was married about two years ago to Sgt. Terry Johnson, Twin Falls, who was then stationed in her native Oxford, England, with the U.S. Air Force.
As of Thursday morning, she was contemplating flight to Canada to avoid being arrested and jailed by immigration officers.
Lynette, 22, hardly looks or acts like a criminal, but she says this has been her role the past two years during a running battle to obtain a visa so she could join her husband.
Three years ago Sgt. Johnson, the foster son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Stewart, Twin Falls, was in her apartment in England when authorities searched him and found minute traces of marijuana in one of his inside pockets.
Lynette was at work at the time.
She was contacted at work and argued on a narcotics charge because the material was found in her home. Advised in England to plead guilty to the charges and pay the fine — about $65 in American money — as the best solution to the matter, she did so.
Terry, faced with discharge, was placed on probation. He has since been transferred back to the United States and is now stationed at Kalspell, Mont. He has reenlisted in the Air Force for four years.
The two were married shortly after the incident. Then the long battle for Lynette to join her husband began.
She arrived in Twin Falls with her Irish setter, Bron, several days ago on a visitor's visa, good for two weeks.

Unemployment soars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reflecting the energy crisis and fuel shortages, joblessness shot up in January from 4.8 per cent to 5.2 per cent, the steepest climb in four years, the government reported today.
The increase of unemployment by 370,000 workers to a total of 4.7 million during the month came less than 48 hours after President Nixon declared in his State of the Union message there would be no recession.
The 5.2 per cent unemployment rate in January was the largest since the 5.3 per cent of October, 1972 and 5.2 per cent the following month.
The increase from 4.8 per cent in December was the biggest percentage jump since joblessness increased from 3.5 per cent to 3.9 per cent in January, 1970.

Auto dealers combat $1 parts delivery fee

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — The energy crisis seems to have touched off a cooperative movement among car dealers here which threatens automotive parts firms.
Citing increased gas and maintenance costs, most Twin Falls parts shops are applying a $1 delivery charge on all orders under $8.
Car dealers with repair shops are banding together to avoid the charge.
"We're not applying pressure. We're just trying to help ourselves," Gary Olsen, parts manager at Wills Motor Co. said.
Olsen said that at a meeting Tuesday night the parts-and-service managers of major car dealers in town decided to "buy between ourselves" rather than ordering from the parts houses.
For the dealers this would be beneficial in two ways.
First, most delivery charges would be avoided. Olsen said if he had been paying the $1 charge last month, his car parts bill would have been over $100 higher.
Olsen said parts dealers had advised the dealer repair shops to pass the costs on to the consumer. "I don't think that's right. We're going to try to save that dollar," Olsen said.
Second, by buying parts from each other, the service shops will increase each other's business. Olsen estimated Wills Motor could obtain 80 per cent of the parts it needs for repairs on other dealers.
Olsen said this cooperative effort "is not going to kill" parts dealers because the bulk of their business is not with Twin Falls car dealers. Estimates by parts dealers of how much of their business is done with the car dealers ranged from "under 10 per cent" to 25 per cent.

Economic view for US gloomy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Inflation and unemployment will get worse, not better, in 1974 and the economy will totter at the threshold of recession for much of the year, President Nixon's chief economic advisers said today.
In a pessimistic prediction, the Council of Economic Advisers said prices would advance at a 7 per cent rate in the next 12 months, with food and fuel prices leading the charge.
If the forecast is correct, it would make 1974 the worst year for domestic inflation since World War II — and would surpass the inflation rate of 1973, an unusually bad year for prices.
The forecast was published in Nixon's annual economic report and appeared to conflict with Nixon's own goals.
"There will be no recession in the United States of America," Nixon said in his State of the Union message. Council chair-

Canyon road under study

TWIN FALLS — City and county officials met with private property owners and engineers today to discuss the possible development of the Taylor Grade access to the Snake River canyon.
The grade is about a half-mile west of the Perrine Bridge. It is now owned by Joseph McCollum, who is developing a nine hole golf course on the canyon floor. The city of Twin Falls presently has access rights on the road to the present sewage treatment plant.
Expansion of the plant will require widening the road, city engineers maintain.
The road also has, according to engineer Tom Shafer, a member of the city planning and zoning commission, "unlimited potential" as access for future development of recreation sites on the canyon floor.
The meeting at city hall attracted about 20 persons.

Jerome death probed

JEROME — Earl E. Lewis Jr., 17, Jerome, was killed about 2 a.m. today at the Tupperware plant south of Jerome.
Investigation into Lewis' death was continuing today, but county officers and company officials declined to give any information.
Early reports apparently indicated Lewis was electrocuted. But personnel at St. Benedict's Hospital said preliminary investigation showed no signs of electrocution.
Dr. Loren Neher, Jerome County coroner, was not available for comment this morning. Sheriff's officers were investigating after being informed of the death about 8 a.m.
Luther Malone, personnel manager at Tupperware, refused to release any information. He said it could not be given out until a thorough investigation has been conducted.
A safety inspector from the Idaho Department of Labor was also investigating, but Tupperware officials declined to identify him.
Mike O'Toole, 18, was treated at St. Benedict's for a fractured jaw and possible concussion after another accident on Tuesday. Malone said only that O'Toole apparently violated several safety procedures while operating a lift.

Rural delivery costs increase

The rapidly rising price of gasoline and oil has created a great hardship for private contract newspaper carriers who deliver papers on motorcycles.
To help compensate motor carriers for their added vehicular expense, the Times-News is forced to increase monthly delivery subscription rates to $3, effective today.
Your carrier will get the entire cost. The newspaper gets no part of the increase.
The increase will not affect the majority of Times-News subscribers whose papers are delivered by foot carrier or by mail. Rates for non-motorized delivery will remain at $2.75 per month.

Lenaghan vote due

By DAVID ESPINO
Times-News writer
BOISE — The Senate was set today to vote on the controversial appointment of Robert Lenaghan to the Public Utilities Commission.
Observers were predicting a close vote on the former labor official, with confirmation expected by as little as one vote. Gov. Cecil D. Andrus personally has been discussing the appointment with some senators, while President Pro Tem James Ellsworth, R-Leadore, has been leading the Senate opposition. Other key Republican political leaders, including some from the State Central Committee, have also been seeking Lenaghan's defeat.
The appointment to the six year term resulted in two public hearings called by the State Affairs Committee in the Senate, at which Lenaghan's background and qualifications to the position came under attack.
Tuesday, a former official of the Intermountain Gas Co., Richard W. Hirst, appeared before the committee in irregular session and charged Lenaghan with accusing the company of having "engaged in illegal farming and ran a whore house." A special public hearing was set for later that day, when Lenaghan appeared and denied having made the statements as charged.
The president of the utility, R. Dean Grimm, disassociated his firm from the testimony offered by Hirst the next day and pronounced Lenaghan honest, fair, candid and intelligent in their business and personal contacts.

Half-tank purchase of gasoline asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Deputy Energy Director John Sawhill said today the nation cannot "break the back of the energy crisis this year" — a hope voiced by President Nixon — and urged consumers not to buy gasoline until their tanks are half empty.
At a news conference, Sawhill also said Americans are making their finest effort at conserving oil products, including a record 16.5 per cent saving in gasoline consumption for the week ended Jan. 26. But he made clear "spanic buying" and shortages continue to depress available refined gasoline stocks.
Nixon asked Congress in his State of the Union message Wednesday night for legislation to "break the back of the energy crisis" but Sawhill said Federal Energy Office investigations showed that hope "was not possible because we're still going to experience some shortages."
"We're not going to be able to break the back of the energy crisis this year because we're going to continue to experience these very high prices" as a result of actions taken by petroleum exporters.

Tape experts scored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rose Mary Woods' lawyer charged today the experts who testified that one of the White House Watergate tapes definitely had been erased "don't know what they're doing" and cannot support their findings with scientific facts.
"They just went off on a $100,000 boondoggle and they don't have anything to back it up," said the lawyer, Charles S. Rhyne.

Desert Land Act retention sought

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News Capitol Bureau
BOISE — A Magic Valley legislator appealed to Congress Thursday to keep alive the Desert Land Act.

Rep. Vernon Ravnescroft, R-Tuttle, said in a floor speech the Congress was in the process of drafting new legislation on the mission of the Bureau of Land Management. He read a letter he had drafted for Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and James A. McClure, R-Idaho, urging retention of the Desert Land Act.

Ravnescroft asked the other House members to join him in signing the letter and also sending a telegram to the Senate.

Both McClure and Church sit on the Senate Interior Committee, which is looking at the legislation. Ravnescroft said the legislation

Speaker 'pleased'

(Times-News Capitol Bureau)
BOISE — House Speaker William Lanting, R-Hollister said Thursday he was pleased with the progress made in reorganizing the government reorganization so far this session.

Lanting noted the first four reorganization bills will be up for a vote in the House today, the 19th legislative day. Progress, he said, has been "better than I thought it might be."

He predicted the job of reorganization might still be accomplished within the first 30 days of the session.

Gem disaster aid fund bill ordered printed

BOISE (UPI) — On a 5-3 party-line vote, the House Printing Committee Thursday ordered printing of a bill establishing a disaster relief fund and a special legislative committee to oversee it.

Democrats on the committee accused the Republican majority of using emergency needs of the northern Idaho flood disaster to further their political ambitions in an election year.

"At the same time," Rep. Wayne Loveless, D-Pocatello, said, "it is unconstitutional because it provides for legislative control of an appropriation to be administered by the executive branch."

The bill introduced by the House Transportation Committee is a revision of an earlier disaster relief bill which set up a four-member committee, including the lieutenant governor and speaker of the house to administer $3.5 million in disaster relief advance funds.

Because Republican Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy has announced he will seek his party's nomination to run against Democratic Gov. Cecil D. Andrus this fall, Democrats have raised strong objections to Murphy being on the committee.

Consequently, the bill was revised to remove Murphy from the committee and put in his place the president pro tem of the Senate. However, the committee in the new bill would include a fifth member to be appointed by the other members of the committee.

Under the new bill, the fund would be administered by the department of civil defense and disaster relief. But the legislative

Gem office space agreements muddled

BOISE (UPI) — The legislature Thursday received two agreements to consider for the state insurance fund and Department of Administrative Services to work out financing for new state office space.

In a letter to House Speaker William J. Lanting, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said the proposed agreements would accomplish the same result as was used to construct the industrial building on Main Street in Boise.

Andrus said the documents have been presented to the attorney general's office and have met its criteria.

The agreements also would provide for transfer of the former state building and Department of Public Works indicated that the state was expending $450,000 a year on outside rent and would be spending $800,000 annually by 1975.

Address endorsed

(Times-News Capitol Bureau)
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, said Thursday he was pleased to endorse the business of government over the personal problems of his administration.

McClure made his statement following the State of the Union address Nixon delivered Wednesday night.

"I was pleased that the President is not letting the personal problems of his administration interfere with his carrying out the urgent business of government. His emphasis on energy and the economy was particularly welcome."

Machine balloting approved

(Times-News Capitol Bureau)
BOISE — The House approved Thursday and sent to the governor a measure permitting the use of machine ballots in bonding elections.

The vote was 24-0 on the bill designed to clear the decks for the Feb. 12 Magic Valley Memorial Hospital $4.6 million bond election.

Tal Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, said there was an urgency to the measure because of the date set for the bond election. He cited three reasons for the use of election machines, including economy, more accurate vote counts and the reduced possibility of fraud.

The bill passed the Senate last week, 29-1.

The six representatives who opposed the measure in the House Thursday included two Magic Valley legislators, Evan Costello, the no-votes included Reps. Ralph Gines, R-Nampa; Earl Greenawald, R-Jerome; E. V. McLean, R-Ketchikan; Ray Ingfanger, R-Salem; Wayne Tibbitts, R-Lorelei; and Gene Winchester, R-Kuna.

PUC nominee's ability scored

BOISE (UPI) — The administrative ability of Robert Lenaghan to serve as an Idaho public utilities commissioner was questioned at length Thursday.

Three witnesses, including a man who had been fired by Lenaghan when he was director of administrative services, appeared before the Senate State Affairs Committee to oppose his confirmation.

Former Atty.-Gen. Robert Robson charged that Lenaghan had fired D. E. Cowell and Ray Ciovis without giving them reason.

He said the action was "not judicious but arbitrary" and the Senate should not approve Lenaghan's appointment.

Robson said he defended the two men in the firing and that he charged them $500 apiece while Lenaghan expended $2,318 in legal fees from state funds in the case.

A voucher in that amount for legal fees for Herman J. McDewitt-of-Pocatello was submitted to the committee.

Sen. Cy Chase, D-St. Maries, however, said he didn't think that it was relevant to Lenaghan's qualification for the PUC.

"All we're trying to do is dig out dirty linen," said Chase. Cowell also testified that Lenaghan didn't have "rudimentary administrative abilities."

The other witness was Richard W. Hirst, who Wednesday tossed a bombshell on the committee with accusations against Lenaghan.

Thursday, Hirst told committee members that "the presence of Mr. Lenaghan on the commission would be a dishonor to the other two members of the board."

During a noon-hour hearing Wednesday, Lenaghan "categorically denied" an accusation by Hirst that he had said that Intermountain Gas "had engaged in illegal farming and ran a house of prostitution."

Lenaghan's confirmation was to go to the Senate floor today.

Economic portent for nation gloomy

Inflation: January through June will contain the worst of the price increases as winning highs of energy and wholesale food is passed to the consumer. After mid summer, prices should "subside to rates significantly below those experienced in 1973," Nixon's advisers said.

The 1974 price rise is expected about 7 per cent, whether measured by the GNP deflator (the most comprehensive measure of overall price pressure) or the consumer price index (the best scale of what Americans pay for goods and services at retail). This year's rate will be faster when compared to the 1973 deflator of 5.3 per cent but somewhat slower than the 8.8 per cent rise in consumer prices last year, the report said.

Wages: "The rapid wage increases that were being experienced at the end of 1973 will undoubtedly be carried and pass through in the early part of 1974."

Limited by government controls in their wage demands, unions in the past two years have concentrated on winning fringe benefit increases but surges in the cost of living and the possible demise of the wage-price control program this spring, will probably make money the key issue.

Wage-Price Controls: In a surprisingly frank judgment, the council said the economic stabilization program probably did nothing to "blow dampen" inflation last year. "I do not think it (inflation) will have been substantially different without the controls program," Stein said.

What's more, the role of the government in the economy created an uncertain climate for private investment.

Dealers duck part delivery fee

In addition to Workman Ford and Willis Motor, Olsen said Aco Hansen Chevrolet, John Chris Motors, Theison Motors, Abbie Briggs Oldsmobile, Blue Lakes Volkswagen, Bob Reese Motors, Magic Valley International and United Old have agreed to buy parts from each other.

Olsen did not expect the $1 charge to inspire the dealers to save gas and money by reducing the number of petty orders made on the street.

He said mechanics are used to working piece by piece rather than figuring out everything that needs to be done on an engine or car. This pattern would be difficult to change, Olsen said.

Lee Cowger, parts manager at Workman Ford, said that encouraging parts purchases among the car dealers always has been an objective of the dealerships' parts and service club.

"We've been a club since 1949 and have been buying from each other all along," he said.

"We think (the delivery charge) is going to help the effort to buy parts among each other," Cowger said. He could give no estimate of the percentage of parts Workman Ford has been buying from parts shops instead of other car dealers.

Olsen said four parts dealers are imposing the $1 delivery charge on orders under $8: Motor Mercantile Co.; MacKenzie Auto Equipment Co.; Nordling Parts Co. and Step-Ken Auto Parts Co. He said Kirkham Auto Parts Co. has not joined the other companies in the delivery charge.

"We're not trying to hurt anybody in it. It's just a matter of economics. You can't deliver all over town for a 67 cent item," said Frank Flint, manager of Motor Mercantile.

Motor Mercantile imposed the delivery charge Monday. Since then, its under $8 delivery business has dropped off to practically nothing.

Flint said the dealers had been in to pick up items under $8, but that he did not believe any such deliveries had been made to the car dealers.

Olsen said the charge is "bound to" have an effect, but how serious it would be will only come evident after some time passes.

"If business drops enough hereafter, he will have to 're-evaluate' the charge," Lew Hull, an employee at Nordling, said that company makes 30 per cent profit on sales of parts. Fluctuating gas costs and pay checks for delivery help, the company would be "breaking even" on a $1-charge for an $8-delivery order, he said.

Hill Snel, manager of United Automotive, said his company will impose the charge but has not decided when yet. He reported "no noticeable drop in business."

Those guys (at the car dealers repair shops) are all friends of mine. I really don't believe it's going to happen," he said. Wood added, however, that business is usually slow this time of year and that it is "pretty hard to tell" if the delivery business is falling off.

He said the decision to charge for deliveries is a matter of "plain economics." Gas has doubled in price, pickups are selling for $1,000 more than they did a year and a half ago and insurance rates have shot up, he said. "One dollar for invoices under $8 doesn't begin to take care of it."

"Grocery stores used to have free delivery. When they quit it, did everybody quit eating?" Wood said.

Carl Pelton, manager for Kirkham Auto Parts Co., said Kirkham will not charge for deliveries because "the management felt like it wasn't necessary."

He said the company has not had an increase in delivery business yet.

Jack Helfrecht, manager of MacKenzie, which will begin charging for small item deliveries today, said the decision to charge has had no effect on his business yet.

He said the change is "bound to" have an effect, but how serious it would be will only come evident after some time passes.

"If business drops enough hereafter, he will have to 're-evaluate' the charge," Lew Hull, an employee at Nordling, said that company makes 30 per cent profit on sales of parts. Hill Snel, manager of United Automotive, said his company will impose the charge but has not decided when yet. He reported "no noticeable drop in business."

The Boise District of the Bureau of Land Management has received ownership claims for 15 horses running on national resource lands (formerly public lands). According to the claims, seven horses are located in the vicinity of Juniper Mountain, 50 miles south of Grandview, Idaho and eight horses are located in the Grosventur area approximately 40 miles south of Brunson, Idaho.

The purpose of the claiming program is to provide owners of unlicensed horses or burros the opportunity to recover their animals and to insure protection of wild horses and burros inhabiting national resource lands.

"Based on the evidence submitted, such as detailed descriptions of the horses and in most cases registered brands, it appears that the claims are valid and that permission to gather the horses should be granted. Gathering operations would be conducted in a humane manner with representatives of the Bureau of Land Management and State and Federal Inspectors' Office present to insure compliance with P.L. 92-195 (Wild Horse and Burro Act) and the State Brand and Estray Laws.

However, before further action is taken, the Bureau of Land Management is inviting public comment on the claims and suggestions on gathering methods to be used. Comments and suggestions should be submitted by February 10, 1974 to the District Manager, 230 Collins Rd., Boise, Idaho (Ph. 342-2711, Ext. 2582). The names of the claimants and all evidence submitted in support of the claims is available for public review at the above address.

Selections endorsed

BOISE (UPI) — The State Affairs Committee Thursday sent to the floor of the Senate two gubernatorial appointments — with a condition that they be confirmed.

The appointments are those of Calvin Wright to the Soil Conservation Commission and D. E. Chibberg as director of administrative services.

Senate President Pro Tem James Ellsworth said they were "excellent appointments" and that both men were "well qualified."

TF survey needed on school time

The sun will rise at 8:49 a.m. Monday morning in Twin Falls. Most Twin Falls school children will be at school by then.

Most grade school children will walk to school in the dark.

Twin Falls school officials briefly considered changing school starting time to keep children out of the dark, but rejected the notion.

According to Supt. George Staudaher, four of five school trustees were polled and expressed the view that school hours should change with the clocks.

Staudaher said he and the trustees had received phone calls on the matter, with the "vast majority" concerned about the "family chaos" that would result with later school opening hours.

Staudaher has repeatedly said about 40 per cent of the district's mother's work.

As outlined earlier by Staudaher, the choice boiled down between consideration of the safety of school children, many of whom will walk in the dark, and the convenience of working mothers or fathers.

Clearly the choice is not so clear cut. For example, there is a real consideration of safety, say, when a working mother leaves a youngster alone at home an extra hour in the morning before the child walks to school.

Nevertheless, there is sure to be a large number of persons, including drivers concerned about running down a child in the pre-school dark, who will question the district's decision not to adjust school hours with the sun.

It is doubtful that the brief sampling of phone calls from parents is a good enough cross-section to support a decision on school hours.

Our best guess is that a majority of people in the community would prefer following the lead of the Boise Schools by delaying school starting times by an hour when our clocks return to Daylight saving time this weekend.

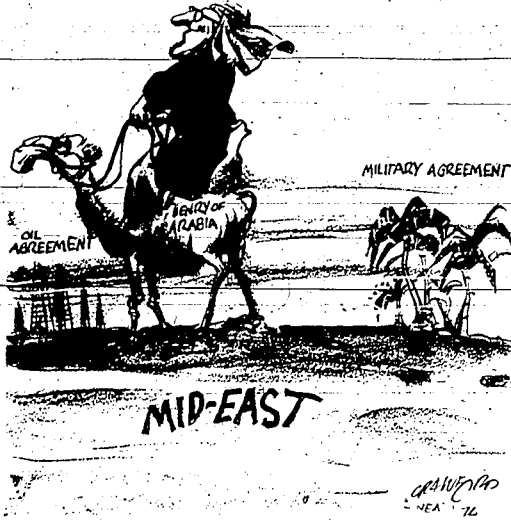

The trustees should take a formal poll of parents to determine their preference. Such a poll would be easy enough to conduct by sending home a questionnaire with each child.

Our presumption is the trustees would follow the wishes of parents as expressed in a reliable poll.

WASHINGTON — Egil (Bud) Krogh's implication that John W. Dean III lied under oath to the Senate Watergate Committee, was cheering to the White House but added nothing to the question of Dean's credibility. In his taped, nationwide TV interview over CBS Sunday night, ex-White House aide Krogh asserted Dean told him last March 20 the President "just doesn't know what's been going on" in the Watergate cover-up. But in his own prepared and sworn testimony, Dean revealed a similar conversation with another White House aide. In truth, neither conversation sheds any light on whether, as Nixon maintains, he first learned of the cover-up from then White House counsel Dean March 21.

the Watergate and particularly the implication of those facts." That is consistent with what Krogh says Dean told him later the same day. But Dean also testified in June, "I did not discuss with Moore the fact that I had discussed money and clemency with the President earlier (March 13)." If by his own testimony Dean withheld this from Moore, it would scarcely strain credulity if he also withheld it from Krogh.

Thus, the President's involvement depends far less on the tape recording of March 21 than of March 13. Yet Nixon's defenders have stressed the March 21 tape, contending its disclosure would exculpate the President. Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's investigators have now read transcripts of all tapes. Contrary to the impression of many Dean can be prosecuted for perjury before the Senate committee. But the prosecutors have found nothing to warrant such prosecution. Until the transcripts are released, this transcends all else. While a Nixon adviser found Krogh's account of his conversation with Dean to be "helpful" to the President, it changes nothing and reveals little.

25th Amendment could be useful to Nixon

If the House of Representatives votes to impeach President Nixon, then what? The gloom that besets the spirit is only one part traceable to the ugliness of the generic situation: a President, formally charged with having committed a high crime and misdemeanor, dispatched now to the Senate to stand trial. Much of the gloom comes from the fear that executive leadership will be lost during a period — between the vote of impeachment, and the final determination of the Senate. It has not been noticed the 25th Amendment could be useful here. Paragraph 3 provides that the President, if unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, may name the vice president as acting President. It is entirely consistent with the spirit of this paragraph that President Nixon, organizing his defense, should declare Gerald Ford acting president. If the Senate should then fail to convict Nixon, he could promptly instruct the relevant officials of Congress that he is once again able to discharge the powers and duties of his office, and resume the administration of the presidency. The advantages are mostly obvious. A president who is impeached is under a cloud. Moreover, his preoccupations are obvious. They center on himself and his future. It is as unfair for the public to expect that he could give primary attention to affairs of state as it would be for a President to persuade himself that he could successfully negotiate his way past that bifurcation. It is true that President Johnson remained in office during the interval between his impeachment and exoneration in 1968. But the presidency was far more relaxed in those days, not to be compared with the presidency a hundred years later, when decisions made between midnight and one in the morning can decide the future of the nation.

Moreover, although the Senate hearings on the charges against Johnson sometimes lasted six weeks, it must be assumed that those against Nixon would last much longer. Johnson had a relatively simple point to make, alleging that a law of Congress approached unconstitutionally on the executive. Richard Nixon will by the standards of modern jurisprudence require many times as long to make his case. We would be without a functioning chief executive during this period. The disadvantages, though impalpable, are real. It is difficult to abdicate irresolutely. What would be the relations between the President-on-Leave and the acting president? Would the acting president feel free to discharge, let us say, the cabinet of the President, and redirecting national policy? There is nothing in the 25th Amendment that suggests any limitation on the powers of the acting president — save only that he cannot appoint himself president. A terrible unpleasant business. So much so as to give rise to all the talk about Nixon's resigning in the event that he is impeached — even if confident his critics could not hope to get two-thirds of the vote in the Senate. It would be useful, surely, to publicize the alternative question, to knead it into the public consciousness, in an effort to pre-figure all those annoying anomalies. It would give us a way of navigating more skillfully through the dangerous passage we may be headed towards. Washington Star Syndicate Inc.

South America may barely hold its own on oil

By WILLIAM D. SMITH (c) New York Times Service. CARACAS — In the growing worldwide struggle for energy supplies, South America appears barely likely to hold its own, let alone contribute much to North America's energy needs. Indeed, for the rest of the decade the good fortune of having energy supplies within one's national boundaries may be a major indicator of a country's potential for growth. And the gap between have and have-not nations on the continent may widen even further. A third category of nations exists in South America — the industrialized state short of oil. This includes Brazil and Argentina, the continent's two most powerful countries. Both consume more oil than they produce. Brazil is in the more difficult energy position. Her booming economy last year consumed about 700,000 barrels of oil a day while producing only 100,000. Indeed, a number of economists believe that energy is the Achilles' heel of the Brazilian "economic miracle," which has been going on since 1964. The third most powerful nation on the continent is Venezuela. She is also the world's third largest oil exporter. The most jubilation on the nation's oil industry will be made during the tenure of President Carlos Andres Perez. The important question facing the new government as far as the rest of the world is concerned, is whether Venezuela will expand her oil production. Venezuela produced about 3.4 million barrels of oil a day last year, with about half exported to the United States. However, her major oilfields are old and production is beginning to decline. Reserves, which stood at 17.7 billion barrels in 1968, fell to less than 14 billion at the close of 1973. On the other hand, others believe that the new wealth would put Venezuela past Brazil as the continent's richest nation and in doing so sharply increase the influence of Caracas on the rest of the continent. The new president of Venezuela has not yet advanced production cutbacks, but he has shown no inclination to increase output either. Such an increase, or course, would be helpful to the nations desperate for oil during this period. The most jubilation country in South America this day is Ecuador, which in two years has become the continent's second largest oil exporter. Last year she exported about 225,000 barrels a day of oil produced from the sweltering rain forests of the Amazon. Production is expected to climb to 1 million barrels a day by 1980, giving Ecuador wealth that could do much to advance the quality of life for her 6 million generally poor people. Ecuador, following Venezuela's advice, has moved quickly to take over a growing share of the profits from the companies that discovered oil in Ecuador, chiefly Texaco, Inc., and the Gulf Oil corporation. To be north of Ecuador is Colombia, where the first Amazonian oil was discovered. Colombia, although a minor exporter of petroleum on balance, has failed to live up to area expectations and may soon become a net importer of oil. This would be a major problem for a country that is one of the most populated and poorest on the continent. To the south is Peru, whose Amazon area is expected to yield oil and provide a basis for national wealth, although no oil has yet been produced commercially in the Peruvian Amazon. Government officials and some independent experts are predicting production of 1 million barrels a day by 1980. Bolivia, also stands to gain because of soaring oil prices. Bolivia's exports of oil and particularly natural gas, although tiny by Middle East standards, may well bring this mountainous country revenue of about $100 million in 1974. The government of Bolivia is trying to walk a tightrope between Brazil and Argentina, who are vying for the natural gas supplies.

TF hospital facts told

By O.A. (GUS) KELKER

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Memorial Hospital attracts referral patients from all over the area because of specialists on the medical staff.

"And while it offers and provides more medical care for the patients dollar than any area hospital, the room rate charge is second lowest of all the hospitals."

These were among background facts given Thursday to members of the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club as a staff surgeon and the hospital administrator detailed expansion plans which will result from a successful bond election of $4.6 million Feb. 12.

Dr. John M. McKain and Administrator James Rosenbaum said the fact the local hospital was "burating at the seams" is not the result of a population explosion — there is steady growth but — no explosion, they said — but rather because Magic Valley Memorial is a regional, a referral hospital.

No other hospital in the valley, they said, offers the medical care available at the Twin Falls institution. With 62 doctors on the staff, all but 14 are specialists in various fields. The 14 are general practitioners.

In urging a successful bond election, Dr. McKain said "It is a serious issue for us and for you and for the whole Magic Valley."

"Our hospital is suffering from an illness, an illness of overuse and an illness of overconsumption. We are too small for the services that are being asked and it could be made more efficient by some structural changes we have in mind," Dr. McKain said.

The bond passage would permit increasing the available beds from 125 to 151 but this is only a part of the need. Perhaps more important is the additional space for various departments including an active outpatient facility which permits hospital stays to be cut down from days to hours, thus providing beds for more seriously ill patients.

Dr. McKain said bond passage would still mean a period of about three years until completion, and added that if the bond plan fails this time it would have to be brought up again immediately because "there's just no way around it. You need this facility and the people of the whole valley need it."

He said occupancy is now averaging 83 to 86 per cent against an efficient level of 65 to 70 per cent. The high average makes it impossible to adequately utilize the facilities.

"When a patient in intensive care no longer needs intensive care we many times must keep him there because there is no other bed available," Dr. McKain said.

Rosenbaum denied any real problem in collecting fees from neighboring counties for welfare patients referred to the institution here.

He also said general obligation bonds were being asked because it was against the law to borrow money or to issue revenue bonds because the facility was a county institution. The bonds, he said, should be sold at an interest rate approaching five per cent.

53rd year

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Kiwanis Club was 53 years old Thursday. That was the anniversary of the club's founding on Jan. 31, 1921.

The original membership of 40 has now grown to 153 and there are now two Kiwanis Clubs in the community.

No charter members of the original club are living, according to W. W. Frank, secretary. He told members Thursday noon at the Turf Club that U. N. Terry, a Twin Falls insurance executive, now holds the distinction of having belonged longer than anyone else, 43 years.

Miners complete strike ballots

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's 263,000 coal miners completed a crucial strike ballot today. Although final results will not be announced until Sunday or Monday, their leaders said there was an overwhelming majority in favor of a national mines shutdown Feb. 10.

The ballot, in the coalfields ended heads of the 10 million-member Trades Union Congress (TUC) agreed to meet Prime Minister Edward Heath for new peace talks.

They said they would do so only on an "exploratory" basis without any strings attached accepting any new government peace plan.

But Lawrence Daly, general secretary of the miners' union, said he himself will not attend the talks.

"My union will take part in no further talks unless the prime minister can promise further cash at the end of them," he said.

The miners took this uncompromising stand despite an appeal by Heath for "national discussion" instead of "brute force."

Some showed their hostility to the prime minister when he toured areas of the Midlands — Britain's industrial "black country."

As he arrived to open a new school at Lichfield, 20 miners from a nearby coal mine surged forward with banners, jeering and jeering against his car. One miner rapped on the window.

Heath ignored the demonstration and police forced a way for him through the crowd.

As miners' balloting ended, one South Wales union official predicted a 95 per cent "yes" vote in his area for a strike.

Yorkshire miners' leader Arthur Scargill said indications pointed to an 85 per cent "yes" vote in his area.

As soon as voting ended, union officials sealed ballot boxes and had them taken by train or automobile to miners' union headquarters in London for counting by the independent Electoral Reform Society.

Arabs vow to maintain embargo

BEIRUT (UPI) — Arab officials vowed today to maintain their petroleum embargo against the United States despite Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's prediction the Middle East nations would lay down their "oil weapon" by March.

Arab officials in Beirut, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Libya and Iraq said the Kissinger agreement for the separation of Israeli and Egyptian forces was not enough to warrant lifting the embargo.

The officials said, however, they might decide at next month's meeting of oil ministers in Libya to increase shipments of petroleum to the rest of the world, a move likely to ease fuel shortages indirectly in the United States.

In Cairo, however, the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said Arab oil has been flowing at normal levels to the United States since last October's Middle East War despite the highly publicized embargo.

The authoritative newspaper, which usually reflects Egyptian government policy, said the United States "succeeded" in its attempts "to defeat the Arab embargo."

"Statistics show that the flow of oil to the United States has not ceased or decreased, although the sources of this oil remain a mystery," the newspaper said.

Congressional sources said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told the House Ways and Means Committee Thursday he felt the oil embargo would end in late February or early March.

"What is news is that the lifting of the embargo will be recommended by several of the oil-producing countries," he told reporters after a closed session.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has called on Arab oil states to offer a "gesture" to the United States because of Kissinger's help to zoning out the Israeli-Egyptian troop disengagement agreement.

Kuwaiti Foreign Minister Sheikh Sabih Al-Ahmad said Thursday, however, the Arabs still demanded total Israeli withdrawal from occupied territory before they would lift the embargo.

Another Arab source in Vienna headquarters of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) said, the Middle East nations "will probably discuss the embargo, but they are not likely to lift it."

The Libyan newspaper, Al-Fajr At-Jedd (New Dawn), which usually reflects the Tripoli government's views, called on other Arab nations to keep up the embargo.

Florida deputies find another body

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Brevard County deputies searching for a series of murder victims Thursday discovered the body of a young woman, the sixth found in the county since Thanksgiving.

It was the first new discovery since Jan. 19, two days after Bernard Eugene Giles, 27, of Rural Mills, Fla., was indicted on a first-degree murder charge.

He was charged in the death of Nancy Gerry, 18, whose body was found Dec. 10.

Sheriff Leigh Wilson, as with the other discoveries, has refused to link the deaths, but detectives continued to search the brush.

They would not speculate on whether more bodies are expected to be uncovered.

The latest body was found in the woods more than 10 miles west of the trailer park near where the other five bodies were found.

Like the others it was badly decomposed and only partially clad.

The age and identity of the victim was not known, but police said she had been dead at least two months.

Pago Pago crash kills 92 persons

PAGO-PAGO, American Samoa (UPI) — A Pan American 707 jet smashed into a low hill and burst into flames while approaching Pago Pago Airport in a violent tropical squall Thursday, killing 92 of the 101 persons aboard.

Thirty-six of those killed were Americans. Seven of the survivors were in critical condition and two were satisfactory.

The fire and impact left only the nose and tail sections of the four-engine Boeing jet intact. One side of the craft was torn away.

Some 250 persons, many waiting to board for a trip to Honolulu, watched in horror as the plane crashed.

Syphilis study 'justified'

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — The Tuskegee syphilis study, which gained publicity as a deplorable experiment with the lives of poor blacks, was "fully justified" according to a professor of medicine at Stanford University.

The study, involving 399 Negro men whose syphilis infections went undetected since 1932, was not the "medical atrocity" publicized in the press and condemned by the government, Dr. Charles W. Barnett wrote in the current issue of Stanford M.D.

The committee from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare concluded last year that the Alabama study had never justified because it did not obtain informed consent from the participants. The panel said the study should have ended when penicillin became available in 1942.

But Barnett argued, "no amount of any kind of treatment will always prevent the development of later manifestations of the disease." All participants had suffered from syphilis at least three years.

"There is little reason to suppose that treatment of latent syphilis with penicillin would have changed the lives of the subjects," Barnett said. The treatment of advanced syphilis does have therapeutic value, discouraging to both physician and patient, the professor contended.

In fact, Barnett said, many of the originally untreated subjects received various types of treatment during the course of the experiment. However, none of the medications mentioned included penicillin.

Contrary to HEW's charges, Barnett said, "It is highly probable that the untreated blacks in the Tuskegee study did not have treatment withheld from them deliberately." He contended their failure to get therapy "was by their own choice."

The hijackers, who identified themselves as Japanese and Arab guerrillas, waved away boats from the commandeered ferry, firing a pistol in the air when a vessel carrying newsmen got too close.

Tokichiro Uemoto, Japan's ambassador to Singapore, used a bullhorn today to speak with the commandos from the deck of a ship in Singapore harbor, but failed to get them to release the hostages.

Miss Seal, Vogler wed in Rupert rites

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES E. VOGLER

RUPERT — Kathleen Louise Seal and Charles Edward Vogler were married in a ceremony at the Trinity Lutheran Church, Rupert, Jan. 12.

Pastor L. G. Mietzner conducted the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated by arrangements of white chrysanthemums, daisy pom-pom chrysanthemum and burgundy roses and ribbon. The altar was flanked with spiral candelabra holding white tapers and floral arrangements matching those on the altar. Arrangements of pink chrysanthemums, huckleberry and pink satin bows were placed in the chapel windows and the center aisle was marked with white super, pink chrysanthemums and huckleberry, pink and white pom-pom ribbons and a white aisle carpet.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Uedel Seal, Rupert, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Adolph Vogler, Boise.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a floor length gown of white silk organza with a banana neckline and lace applique collar. The gown was embellished with iridescent sequins and seed pearls formed a front panel and continued to the back of the dress. The long full sleeves were gathered to a wide white cuff. The empire waistline was marked with a band of white satin.

Her chapel train of white organza and lace applique was lined with white peau de soie and attached with a large bow. Her chapel length and blusher veils were edged with wide chantilly lace applique with sequin and seed pearl trim. The veil was held by a wide band covered with matching lace.

Her only jewelry was an opal ring which originally belonged to her great grandmother, Mrs. Alice McAllister. She wore a blue garland and a new penny in her shoe.

She carried a bridal chapel bouquet of white orchids, roses and shattered chrysanthemums, centered with pearls and accented with green ivy and lace ribbon on a blue shawl.

Mrs. Pamme Stetter, Denver, Colo., was matron of honor. Patsie Seal and Joyce Seal, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. Shava Seal, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Steve Waters, Boise, was best man. Jim Vogler, brother of the bridegroom, and Mike Seal, brother of the bride, were ushers. Phillip Vogler, nephew of the bridegroom, and Kent Schow, cousin of the bride, were ring bearers. Roger and Mike Vogler, brothers of the bridegroom, were candlelighters.

Mrs. Howard Brunns was organist. Vocalists were Mr. and Mrs. Sid Cannon, Boise, aunt and uncle of the bride. Cannon provided guitar accompaniment.

As the couple left the altar, the bride presented a long stemmed white rose to the bridegroom's mother and to her mother.

Kim and Todd Cannon, Twin Falls, cousins of the bride, passed out wedding programs. Julie Brown registered guests at a table covered with dacroon over white satin and featuring a white plume pen and a miniature bridal couple made and given to the couple by Mrs. Carl Cannon, grandmother of the bride.

Caring for gifts were Betty Brado, aunt of the bride, and Karen Vogler, Boise, sister in law of the bridegroom. Jeff and Greg Schow and Warren Bendele, cousins of the bride, were gift bearers. Mr. and Mrs. Steve Schow, aunt and uncle of the bride were hosts for a reception honoring the couple following the ceremony in the parish hall.

The hall was backdropped with white and pink valeniums. The couple received guests before a white Austrian backdrop flanked by white Grecian columns.

Guests were served a buffet luncheon at an L shaped table attended by Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cannon, Twin Falls, aunt and uncle of the bride, and Mary Jane Phillips, Boise sister of the bridegroom. The buffet table had a white floor length satin and dacroon skirt with burgundy corner bows. The table was centered with silver candelabra holding white tapers and arrangements of pink carnations, white daisy pom-pom chrysanthemums and burgundy roses.

A bridegroom's cake topped by a modern bridal couple seated on a bench was displayed on a crystal pedestal cake plate with boxed bridegroom's cake surrounding the base. Miniature wedding bells tied with pink satin ribbon and holding white rice were placed on a silver tray. A silver service bowl with silver coffee punch completed the buffet table appointments.

The wedding cake—a gift to the bride, was made and decorated by Mrs. Mary Harrell, Burley. It was in the shape of a round, white cake, decorated with pink flowers centers. It was topped with round layers on a columned divider and white floral trim surrounding a silver cana cross. The cake surrounded by pink roses, white carnations and fern was displayed on a round table with a white satin floor length skirt. Guests were seated at round square tables covered with white satin and dacroon. Sentimental were cranberry scented candles encircled by roses, carnations, and daisy pom-pom chrysanthemums.

Paula Smith, Brandt Manning and Jeff and Greg Schow cleared tables. Other reception assistants were Mrs.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 28 years. I am 55, and Zeke is 57.

After Zeke and I were engaged, he told me he was buying his brother's farm. I told him it's that's what he really wanted I did not care to live on a farm. We broke our engagement. A few weeks later Zeke called and said he wasn't buying the farm and would I marry him.

To make a long story short, we were married, but I have heard nothing but "farms" since I married him. Now, Zeke tells me he wants to buy a "nice little 12 acre farm" in the same stinking area we broke our engagement over. He says he wants to "retire" there. Abby, I never wanted to live on a farm, and I sure as heck don't want to "retire" on one.

What should I do?

CITY GIRL

City girl objects

DEAR GIRL: Tell Zeke you still don't want to live on a farm and don't give an inch, or you'll wind up on 12 acres.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Agnie in Colorado" — the problem the gentleman had in wondering how he could tell a lady who was wearing a "panshi" that her fly was open.

DEAR DOTIE: Thanks for an "OK" suggestion.

DEAR ABBY: It's past midnight now, and even if I went back to bed and tried to sleep, I couldn't, so I might just as well write this.

My sister has a beautiful 3-year-old son who she doesn't appreciate. Sis works Monday thru Friday only to satisfy her "extravagant" tastes. Her husband makes good money, but Sis never has enough clothes, so she works, too. Sis drops her baby off at Mom's every-work-day-without-fail.

The baby is never fed, and sometimes he's not even dressed. Mom takes care of him all day until Sis picks him up at 6 p. m. (Mom even gives the baby his supper and has him in his pajamas, bathed, and ready for bed.) Sis doesn't pay Mom one cent, either.

I feel sorry for Mom. She has her own housework to do (three kids and Pop are still at home), and Mom is growing old and tired, but she would never say no to Sis. There have been weekends when Sis leaves the baby with Mom, but Mom never complains.

Doesn't Sis realize that Mom raised her kids and now Sis should raise her own?

I love my sister and wish she would open her eyes.

Hot water test wells will be started soon

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

MALTA — Test drilling for the first hot-water geothermal plant in the state will begin "any day now," according to Ed Schiender, manager of the Raft River Electric Co-operative Inc.

Schiender said Wednesday that Aerojet Nuclear, contracted for the work by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC), is getting the special equipment to the area and waiting for the ground to dry out before it begins operations.

"The ground is too soft for heavy equipment now," he said. "It sinks clear in." One shipment of pipe has also been delayed in delivery, he said.

"They had intended to start by this time," Schiender said. The Raft River Electric Co-op serves as a subsidiary operating entity in the five-year AEC project. The co-op will serve as an intermediary agency between the AEC and the public utilities," Schiender said, and will supply operators for the plant and serve as a marketing agency.

The first step in the project will be the drilling of shallow test holes. These test holes, drilled to a depth of about 100 feet, will be fitted with plastic pipe and left to monitor for a period of a year, Schiender said.

"Up to half a dozen deeper tests holes, reaching a depth of up to 1,000 feet, will be drilled in conjunction with the shallow holes," he said.

Most of the test holes should be completed "in a couple months" after the drilling is begun, he said. Then, "if the tests show promise," the first really deep test hole will be drilled.

"We hope that by the middle of the summer, or at the latest, late summer, tests will point to a site suitable for production," Schiender said.

"They are just working on the designs for the plants now," he said, and production will probably not begin until 1975.

Irrigation study is taken

HAILEY — A study has been started to determine the effect of upstream changes in irrigation patterns on water from irrigation discharge into wells and creeks.

According to Blaine County agricultural extension agent James Eakin, the study will cover water from irrigation districts north of Bellevue plus the Base Line Canal Co. and its effect on Silver, Spring and Crystal creeks.

The study will focus on possible changes in water flow, water temperature and salinity.

Sponsored by the Wood River Resource Area, the study will be conducted in co-operation with the State Department of Water Administration. Study personnel will be drawn from the Soil Conservation Service, the extension service and a local service committee of farmers and ranchers from the affected irrigation districts. The Snake River Conservation Center, Kimberly, will also aid in the study.

Eakin said the study primarily stemmed from an increase in subdivisions, which have removed land from irrigation, and the increased use of sprinkler irrigation, which has decreased the surplus discharge of water.

As the Wood River Valley increases as the head end of the watershed, Eakin said, stream flow changes "directly affect" Lineal and Gooding counties. The study is expected to combine known water records as well as in-the-field studies. The initial phase of the study may be completed by the end of this summer, with preliminary data available by the end of the year, Eakin said.

Sentences given out in district court

TWIN FALLS — A former Twin Falls man was sentenced to four years in the state penitentiary Tuesday following conviction on an embezzlement charge.

Judge James M. Cunningham of Fifth District Court imposed the sentence on Raleigh D. Bjarnson, 23, Bjarnson had pleaded guilty.

Dec. 17 to a charge of embezzling $4,000 from Intermountain Theatres, Inc., while he was manager of the Orpheum Theatre in Twin Falls during the summer of 1972. Prior to his arrest in September, 1973, Bjarnson had moved from Idaho to Utah.

In imposing the four-year sentence, Judge Cunningham retained 120 days jurisdiction in the case. This allows him to amend the sentence at any time within that period. Prison officials will make recommendations to Judge Cunningham prior to the end of the period.

In criminal court action last week, Judge Theron W. Ward sentenced two Twin Falls youths to 15 years in the state penitentiary for first degree burglary. However, Ward suspended the sentences and placed both youths on 18 months probation.

The sentencing followed guilty pleas by Wade Larson, 18, and Roger Fisher, 19, to burglary charges on Dec. 28. They were accused of breaking into the pickup truck of a Twin Falls man on Nov. 14.

Nicklaus and Nevl beat storm to lead tournament

HONOLULU (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus and Dwight Love played some magnificent sub-par golf in a magnificent example of a tropical storm and finished with seven under-par 65 Thursday to share the apparent first round lead of the $220,000 Hawaiian Open.

The qualification necessary because the wind and rain that blew in from the Pacific Ocean and hit Waialae Country Club prevented the entire field from finishing play on Thursday.

So, approximately 30 golfers who had not gotten in the full 18 holes when the storm blew in included in the group that did not finish was John Lister of New Zealand, who was six under for 14 holes. Should he quickly finish Friday morning, of course, he would find himself tied for the lead with Nicklaus and Nevl at 65, seven under.

Although this year's Twin Falls Bruin crop is the biggest in school history, it can't lay claim to being the town's tallest basketball players.

That distinction goes to Kim and Kerry Hughes, now one-quarter inch shy of seven feet, who are seniors at University of Wisconsin.

They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hughes who left Twin Falls in 1954. Mrs. Hughes taught school at Lincoln and Washington elementary schools while Mr. Hughes, now in a career field, did some high school basketball coaching and played basketball and softball.

Currently located in Preston, Ill., the couple is only a few miles from the Wisconsin gymnasium. And they are enjoying the success their sons are having. Next issue of Sports News reportedly will have a front-cover color picture of the two.

While the boys are good basketball players, Mrs. Hughes reports it seems to be their remarkable growth patterns that have stimulated the news media.

She recalls the boys were an average 5-10 as sophomores. Then it happened. As Juniors they were 6-4 and as seniors at 6-9. Since enrolling in college their growth has dwindled some, but they've still managed another 2 1/2 inches.

Mrs. Hughes says the cost in replacing "bumper" dummies for bumper periods was something but she was more impressed by the grocery bill shot up.

"It's phenomenal how much they ate," she reports.

The twins didn't attract a great amount of recruiting pressure. Wisconsin was one of three that showed more than a get-acquainted interest. This basically was due to the lack of stamina caused by the rapid growth. While they never were in a real workout stage, they tired quickly. Still their high school team did well in the state playoffs.

The Hughes have two other children. One fully grown daughter, who is 6-0 and a 13-year-old son.

Due to the late blooming of the other children; Coach Ed Peterson of Jerome and Coach Joey Behrens of Wendell went to the trouble of contacting people in surrounding districts and hammering out a workable plan. Neither came before the board.

The state Interscholastic Activities Association again has rejected ideas for a state playoff — or any playoff beyond the 11th game rule adopted last year.

It was done brusquely. Football coaches of the various classifications were asked for plans on taking playoffs at least another step further.

Boyd figures USC's turn still coming

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bob Boyd, who took over as University of Southern California's head basketball coach in 1966, when Lew Alcindor became a sophomore at UCLA, is confident victory will turn out all right in the end.

"Despite the continued awesome presence of the Bruins, "This doesn't bother me. The Trojans' 44-year-old mentor said, "We're going to have our time at the top someday."

In February 1971, USC was undefeated—16-0—and ranked No. 1 in the nation. The Trojans held a nine-point lead at home against U of S in the WPI, but lost to Oregon in the Pacific race. The Webfoots are 9-0 and UCLA has a 3-0 league mark.

KC must find spot for 5 quarterbacks

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — There are going to be some changes made in the Kansas City Chiefs' starting quarterback.

For one, the Chiefs now have five quarterbacks—if they sign David Jaynes. Veteran Len Dawson has announced he will play at least one more year.

For another, the Chiefs drafted five offensive linemen among their 15 picks and Stram will move Mo Moorman from guard to right tackle.

The Chiefs have had mediocre seasons back to back, 8-6 in 1972 and 7-5 in '73 but the Chiefs' record would improve if they were able to get enough work. That sounds like someone will be dealt elsewhere.

PILL LETTER

Q "What's a 'Pill Letter' in the language of the mortgage company?"

A That's a letter wherein a working husband and working wife who borrow money to buy a home state they intend to continue to practice birth control, so as to have no babies, thus to insure their double income.

Q "Is it possible to get sunburn on a rainy day?"

A Absolutely. Those ultraviolet rays can penetrate the overcast.

Q "Louie, can you name the only sort of animal that would survive even if we killed off every member of its species?"

A The mule.

Approximately 1,000 beats per minute is typical of a canary's pulse, please bear in mind.

BABY KISS

If the newly born baby were a boy, the father should kiss it first. If a girl, the mother. That was the widespread belief in Germany for many years. Otherwise, it was thought, the lad might grow up without whalers or the lass with them. Those German peasants nodded knowingly when they say a limpsided young man or a butch female. The wrong parent kissed first.

What, madam, you have no modeling 'clay at hand to amuse the youngsters on those wintry days? Make some. Two cups of flour, two-thirds cup of salt, one cup of water. Split the stuff into several lumps. Add different food colors to same. And mix. That ought to keep the little rascals busy.

In that matter of the difference between an engine and a motor, ah now advised the engine develops its power within itself, the motor draws its power from a source outside itself.

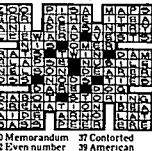

A chel reptiles is possible to serve a different kind of fish everyday for almost six months without repeating a single dish. Incredible!

Idaho Spuds Close Lower After Gains

CHICAGO — Idaho russet potatoes closed lower Thursday after reaching limit up during the day.

The final May option quote was 13.25 per hundredweight...

As Maline potato futures continued to decline...

Some support was evident in the steady demand at Chicago...

ounce minimum Idaho russets were still selling for 12.00-12.50 per cwt.

FBI arrests

Rupert man

TWIN FALLS — FBI agents arrested Rupert man Wednesday in connection with the theft of a 130-pound, bronze-aluminum alloy nut.

According to the FBI's Butte, Montana, office, which administers Idaho, Franklin D. McCleary, 41, Rupert, was arrested by FBI agents and Johnson County Sheriff Theo Johnson on a charge of theft of government property.

McCleary was arrested on a warrant issued by U.S. Magistrate Harry B. Turner, Twin Falls, which charged him with the theft of the nut, valued at about $300, from the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation. McCleary was employed as a power plant operator at the Minidoka Dam prior to his arrest. The dam is run by the Bureau of Reclamation.

McCleary was arrested without incident at his rural Rupert residence Wednesday, the FBI said. He was arraigned before Magistrate Turner later in the day where he waived a preliminary hearing. Turner set bond for McCleary at $1,000 and shortly after arraignment McCleary produced the bond and was released from the Twin Falls county jail.

FBI agents said the nut allegedly stolen by McCleary was of a type used to lift sluiceways at the dam.

Further court action in the case will be under the jurisdiction of the U.S. District court in Boise.

TF man acquitted

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man was acquitted Wednesday on a charge of delivering a controlled substance, following a jury trial in Fifth District Court.

According to defense attorney Monte Carlson, the jury deliberated about 17 minutes before acquitting Johnny Gale Potter, 31, Twin Falls. Potter had been accused of delivering barbiturates to an inmate in the county jail last November, at a time when Potter himself was serving weekends in the county jail on an earlier conviction and sentence on a bad check charge.

In a summation at the Potter trial, Carlson argued that the inmates in the county jail who testified against Potter were jealous of the fact that he was a trustee and a "weekender." This jealousy led them to falsely implicate Potter, Carlson said.

Sideshow attraction

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — The district attorney's office is going to investigate a midway sideshow where the main attraction, "Glug Glug, the Swamp Creature," supposedly eats live snakes.

Barry Hitchcock, 19, is "Glug Glug" and says he has been performing in midway shows for three years because "I just want to do it. It's kind of fun, especially watching the people."

The Humane Society complained to the district attorney's office the act violates the state's new law against the torture of animals.

Absentee balloting under way

TWIN FALLS — Absentee ballots are now being cast on the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital $1.6 million bond issue question.

A voting machine has been set up in the office of Harold Lancaster, county clerk and recorder, on the second floor of the courthouse.

Lancaster said the machine is programmed for the election. It is available for absentee balloting for persons who will not be in the county and able to vote Feb. 12.

Absentee hand ballots are being sent to persons requesting them by mail, and will be taken to persons if a request is made. Persons eligible to vote on the proposed hospital expansion bond issue include those who are 18 years of age or older, a resident of Twin Falls County and a citizen of the United States. Voters will sign an oath at the time of balloting attesting to their eligibility. On Feb. 12, polls will be open from noon until 9 p.m. in all county voting precincts. Lancaster said persons should vote in their own precincts if possible but they can vote in the one most convenient.

Persons wishing absentee ballots by mail may call the county clerk-recorder at 734-3300. They must be returned by election day to be counted in the vote. Signatures on the voter's oath which accompanies each ballot must also be signed by a witness, but it is not necessary to have the oaths notarized.

Deadline for absentee voting in the clerk's office is 5 p.m. Feb. 11. The clerk's office is open each day from 8:30 to 5 p.m.
