Strike unrest continues
By United Press International
Dynamite blasted a culvert on the Pennsylvania Turnpike and a driver was shot in Texas early today as violence continued in the independent truckers' strike even after a tentative agreement had been reached in Washington.
Murder, shootings, sabotage and violent intimidation of nonstriking drivers in the seven-day strike has now spread to at least 40 states.
There were widespread reports that communities would be short of food by week's end because of the lack of supplies. In Washington the tentative agreement was reached between spokesmen for several independent truckers and government officials. Terms of the agreement were not immediately made public and a spokesman for the truckers said the rank-and-file would have to vote before resuming deliveries.
A spokesman for the truckers negotiating in Washington said "hopefully" the rigs could be rolling as early as this weekend.
However, spokesmen for some militant drivers' groups indicated they would not go along with the agreement.

Guerrillas free 4
By United Press International
Japan sent a jetliner to Singapore today to fly four ferry hijackers to the Middle East. Commandos holed up in Tokyo's embassy in Kuwait released four hostages, three Arab women and a Pakistani. But they refused to release their other captives, two Arabs and 10 Japanese officials.
The commandos threatened to kill all the remaining hostages, including the Japanese ambassador, on one-way and gave Tokyo until 8 p.m. MST today to fly the ferry hijackers to Kuwait.
The guerrillas aboard the jet in Singapore harbor also held hostages under threat of death as the drama unfolded in urgent messages between Tokyo and the tiny desert sheikhdom of Kuwait.

Bill stalls
WASHINGTON (UPI) — House passage of the Energy Emergency Act was stalled a week today by procedural objections to its provisions to roll back crude oil prices.
A House-Senate conference committee Wednesday approved a compromise version of the emergency bill, eliminating a provision that would have taxed windfall profits of oil companies and passed the savings to consumers. The administration had opposed the windfall provision.
In its place, the conferees accepted a proposal to roll back prices of crude oil and its products.

Nixon endorses overseas funds
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spending dollars for development abroad is in the U.S. self interest, according to an international economic report submitted to Congress by President Nixon today.
"The report by the Council on International Economic Policy declared "In this world of growing economic interdependence, it is in our interest to continue to play a significant role in support of the development process."
"To do otherwise would jeopardize our political and economic relations with both developing and developed countries, and erode our influence on matters of importance to us," the report said.

US House approves impeachment probe

(C) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — President Nixon may be called to testify — voluntarily or by subpoena — under the broad powers the House approved for an impeachment inquiry by a 410-4 vote.
Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N. J., of the House Judiciary Committee said he hoped to avoid a presidential examination under oath during the panel's investigation of misconduct charges against Nixon.
But Rodino said the chief executive may be summoned to answer questions if necessary "to assure a fair and responsible inquiry."
Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., a member of the judiciary committee, said Nixon's testimony — voluntary or under subpoena — was "essential" to the inquiry.
The House Republicans who cheered President Nixon's state of the union message a week ago did not raise their voices on his behalf during Wednesday's historic debate.
"It was only the second time that the House has authorized an investigation to see if a President should be impeached and brought to trial in the Senate. The penalty on conviction is removal from office."
Andrew Johnson, who succeeded Abraham Lincoln in the presidency at the close of the Civil War, was impeached by the house but was acquitted when the Senate failed to vote for conviction by a single vote.
In Wednesday's action, the House Republican leadership helped thwart a move to narrow the subpoena powers of the judiciary panel. The GOP leaders also blocked an effort to set an April 30 cut-off date on the inquiry.

Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., the ranking GOP member of the judiciary committee, came the closest any congressman to defending the untried President.
"There has yet to be demonstrated any evidence of 'impeachable conduct,'" Hutchinson told the House.
Several Republicans and some Democrats said they voted for the $1 million impeachment inquiry "to get impeachment behind us, one way or the other," as one member said.
While White House aide Patrick J. Buchanan has sneered at the "boch party forming up on Capitol Hill," House GOP Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona had nothing but praise for the House Judiciary Committee's investigators.
"That undercut efforts to amend the resolution directing the inquiry. The House divided 342-70 against the move and in support of the committee-approved measure."
Rhodes said he hopes, however, that the move may expose the inquiry if it becomes a partisan assault on the President rather than a fact-finding process.

Reapportionment bill killed

By DAVID ESPINO
Times-News Capitol Bureau
BOISE — The Senate today killed the House-passed reapportionment measure, 17-18, and then began work on two other redistricting proposals before it.
The defeat for the bill was a victory for the forces in the legislature seeking to avoid direct reapportionment of the state's legislative districts by the courts.
Wednesday, the Senate spent nearly two hours debating the proposal defeated today. The bill splits Gooding County between two legislative districts and makes changes in two other western Idaho districts.
An effort to place the measure into the reading calendar for amendment was narrowly successful. The amendment itself then failed on a close vote, and the Senate adjourned until today without voting on the bill as originally drafted.
The legislature has until Tuesday, Feb. 12, by court order to reapportion itself.
The sponsor of the bill, Sen. Dick Smith, R-Borjux, said it attempted to take into account a "unique problem" in the Rexburg area, Pluka College, he said, enrolls about 1,500 students who do not claim state citizenship, but were nevertheless counted in the 1970 census. The result, he said, is that the claimed malapportionment in District 28 does not exist.
The bill has a preamble attached to it explaining why changes were made in the district boundaries in eastern Idaho, even though the court which ordered reapportionment ordered changes made.

I.W. "River Rat" Edwards, of Overland Park, Kan., president of the owner-operators Independent Drivers of America Ltd., said: "The answer is no. I've been on the phone all morning on this and nobody is in favor."
Robert Blindauer, spokesman for drivers in Mobile, Ala., said Mobile drivers did not recognize the truckers' representatives in Washington, nor agree to terms of the agreement.
"We will not turn a wheel," he said.
The latest blast occurred early today when a dynamite charge went off in a culvert under the Pennsylvania Turnpike. The explosion caused minor damage to the culvert near Somerset in the western part of the state.
State police said they believed the dynamiting "definitely" was connected to the strike.
"Who else would be using dynamite?" a trooper said.
Wednesday a dynamite charge caused minor damage to a bridge footing on the Turnpike near Pittsburgh.

(C) N. Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Wednesday the United States had been led to expect the Arab oil embargo would be lifted and failure to do so would be regarded by Washington as "in form of blackmail."
Responding to news reports from the Middle East that the chances for an end to the embargo were not as good as Washington believed, Kissinger said that in light of the American efforts to bring about a Middle East peace, "to maintain an embargo now under these conditions must be construed as a form of blackmail and would be considered highly inappropriate by the United States and cannot be affected by the attitude with which we will have to pursue our diplomacy."
Kissinger spoke and answered questions at a combined luncheon of the Harvard, Yale and Princeton clubs of Washington. Most of his remarks were about international oil matters.
He sought to ease concern among oil producers and among European countries afraid of a confrontation with the producers that the United States envisaged next week's oil consumers conference in Washington turning into a clash between consuming and producing nations.

MVMH departments eye moves

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Surgery would move upstairs, and radiology and pathology would each inherit a whole wing in proposed hospital construction at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.
Twin Falls County residents vote Tuesday on the proposed $4.6 million bond issue to finance construction.
Rosenbaum said.
The present design calls for a six-foot access space above surgery for mechanical installations. Rosenbaum said the six-foot space is required to meet federal standards.
Also planned is installation of a laminar air flow system in some operating rooms. Basically, laminar air flow means any system which moves air from one portion to another in an organized fashion, according to Dr. Bruce Buck, general surgeon. The system is designed to help eliminate contamination, a constant problem in operating rooms. Clean air enters the room at the ceiling, while dirty air flows out of the room at the floor level.
"One important use for laminar air flow will be in orthopedic procedures, according to Dr. Mark Grefenson, chief of surgery. In a total hip replacement, a glue is used which gives off toxic fumes. The air flow system will reduce danger to operating room personnel and to patients by removing the fumes from the operating area.
Surgery will be relocated on the second floor of the addition to the north side of the hospital.
"From some viewpoints, the second-floor location is one drawback of remodeling versus new construction. In a new hospital, surgery might be located on the first floor, nearer laboratory and X-ray facilities, Dr. Buck said.
X-ray units in the operating rooms will offset difficulties that may result from second-story placement.
Dr. Grefenson sees the second-floor location as an advantage because it avoids traffic and possible contamination on the busy first floor. In addition, the first floor should be reserved for outpatient and emergency services, Dr. Grefenson said.
"The new surgical department would cover 9,230 square feet at an estimated cost of $23,300."
Plans call for five major operating rooms, one major orthopedic operating room, one ophthalmology room and a cast room. There are now four major operating rooms, one minor operating room and a cystoscopy room.

Third in a series

One reason surgery is being moved to the second floor is to comply with a safety requirement that would be difficult to satisfy in the present first floor. James Rosenbaum, hospital administrator, said.
Because of the volatile nature of some gases used in surgical procedures, health codes require the openings permitting the gas pipes to enter the surgical suite at least five feet from the ground, Rosenbaum said. Since gas is heavier than air, any leaking gas will flow to the ground, reducing the danger of explosion.
In addition, an access space is required so all systems — gas, vacuum, air flow, plumbing, electricity — may easily be reached.
Locating all these systems in existing wall space above the five-foot level is "too difficult," Rosenbaum said. Installation of the systems above the ceiling is easier.
The space required necessitates the move to the second floor. With the added space above the ceiling, the first floor location would have been inadequate unless floors above were raised, or the floor of the surgery department was dropped by excavating, at a huge cost.

Consumer buying spree ends

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans increased their credit purchases in December by the smallest amount in two years, signaling the end of the 1973 consumer buying spree.

With a sharp decline in auto sales leading the way, the Federal Reserve Board Friday reported an increase in overall consumer credit of just $704 million, seasonally adjusted, the smallest since February, 1972.

Installation purchases for automobiles fell $22 million—the first outright decline in this sector since December, 1970, when the industry was suffering from the General Motors strike.

The credit figure, a key indicator of consumer confidence in the economy, had been expanding handsomely until December. The 1973 increase totaled a record $22.9 billion, more than $3.7 billion higher than the previous top figure.

The dramatic falloff at year end indicated that shoppers were increasingly uneasy about the state of the economy, including their job prospects, and were less willing than before to take on new loans, installment payments and other sorts of debt.

Missile firing explained

TWIN FALLS — Logistics of the proposed Minuteman II missile test firing over Idaho and Oregon were shown Rotarians by Air Force Col. Gene Hull, Wednesday.

Hull, a College of Southern Idaho instructor and reserve officer, presently on reserve assignment to the Pentagon, said the Minuteman II defensive missile system was "like building an airplane and never test flying it."

The Air Force is uncertain at this point whether the multi-billion dollar, intercontinental ballistic missile system will even function, Hull said.

The Minuteman II has been successfully fired many times at Vandenberg AFB in California, he said, but the question remains whether all the six missile sites around the country will operate. The test firing at Minuteman AFB in Montana would be the first from another site.

Hull said the two areas where sections of the four test missiles would fall are in Idaho. The first section, 172 miles downrange, is a 26 miles long strip where the 4,800 pound first stage engines will land. Hull said a tree, or at most three trees, might be knocked down by an engine.

Four panels each weighing 68 pounds would "flutter down" from the missile into another 19 mile long section 50 miles further down range. This section is the one closest to Grangeville and White Bird. Hull said there would be no need to evacuate any towns.

Proposal rapped

T-N Capitol Bureau

BOISE — Gov. Andrus' proposed budget for public education is "inadequate," the co-chairman of the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee said Wednesday.

As a result, Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, said Andrus' fiscal year recommendations for other agencies of government will be a "ceiling" instead of a "floor."

High said the governor's budget would not give even a status quo level of funding for the public schools for the year beginning July 1. As a result, he said committee staff will be drawing up a status quo figure following the scheduled education hearings next Monday night.

Andrus asked the Legislature to fund an increase of $7.7 million for the public schools, but $2.6 million of that would come in the form of tax relief to local property taxpayers. The net increase would be $5.1 million.

By DAVID ESPINO

Times-News Capitol Bureau
BOISE — Upset over "inadequate" information from the Department of Environmental and Community Services, a co-chairman of the legislature's Finance Appropriations Committee said Wednesday another agency budget hearing may be necessary.

Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, said the material DECS provided the committee "didn't present a detailed program budget."

DECS officials presented their $29.3 million general fund request to the Joint Finance Committee late last week.

But High and Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, the other committee co-chairman, said what they received wasn't sufficient and have asked DECS budget officials to provide more detailed information.

DECS director of Management Services Howard Jamieson said Wednesday neither of the lawmakers had suggested a second department budget hearing this far.

But he said the committee has asked for more information about "indirect costs" of program administration instead of the "direct costs" that was made available.

"We're attempting to just message our statistics around to separate direct costs from indirect costs," Jamieson said, adding some information had been sent to the committee's staff Tuesday and more was being prepared Wednesday. Jamieson said the committee was interested in administrative costs within the department, but "no one can define administration."

High said he talked to department administrator Dr. James Bax about the lack of detailed information and "he said he wants to cooperate and get us the material we need."

But when asked whether he thought the oversight by DECS was an "honest mistake," High responded, "I don't know."

DECS asks support aid

T-N Capitol Bureau
BOISE — The Department of Environmental and Community Services has proposed controversial legislation requiring stepparents to support their children when support can't be obtained from natural parents.

The legislation, according to a statement of purpose filed with the proposal in the Senate, "is aimed at what many people consider an abuse of the public assistance program by stepparents who are able to provide for their stepchildren but who, because of the lack of any legal obligation to support them, apply for and receive public assistance benefits."

DECS Director of Management Services Howard Jamieson estimated the savings of the legislation, if it is approved, at $150,000 for the state. He said the department's budget had not reflected the savings, however, because of the "uncertain" future of the legislation. The budget could theoretically be reduced if this legislation were passed," he said.

Jamieson said he thought the bill would become a controversial one in the legislature. "I have a feeling this would decrease the potential that women with children have of remarrying into a situation that would provide support for children," he said.

Using only the information agency officials provided, High said, "the administrative costs of the program cannot be pulled out. The $64 question for us is... of the increase from last year how much are administrative increases."

High also said the committee wants information broken down along program lines, so it will have a basis for post-audits performed by the office of the legislative auditor in the future.

Roberts said the department had not initially responded to committee requests for being prepared.

The DECS budget official said reports of increases of 300 employees within the department since the merger result from a public service employment program which took people off public assistance and put them to work for the state.

He has prepared information for the committee showing a "net growth" of 17 employees in DECS since the merger.

Both High and Roberts said they weren't certain about any money DECS might have saved the state through its creation last April.

"There's no way we can tell what's happened to the programs," High said.

Rogerts said, however, "up to this point, I don't think they've saved any dollars."

Texas' first newspaper was published in Galveston in 1841.

Deadline nears on reapportionment

The preamble, Smith told the Senate "clearly states the philosophy of the Idaho legislature," and could result in a "landmark in America in identifying and perhaps solving a difficult problem."

Sen. Walt Yarbrough, R-Grand View, urged defeat of the bill, however. He said it's reapportionment "was excellent" in southern and western Idaho, but unjustly ignored the problem in the eastern part of the state. He also told the Senate the deadline for reapportionment was only 20 days.

Sen. J. Wilson Steen, R-

Glenns Ferry, sponsor of the third reapportionment bill before the Senate, said the court had been wrong when it ordered the reapportionment. He said the 1972 legislature had reapportioned along the lines of the 1970 census figures, but the courts had then relied upon population projection figures and other non-census data when it made its decision about the original plan.

Steen's proposal would retain Gooding County in District 23, and would add to his District 22 from Ada County.

Sen. Jack Tacke, D-Grangeville, convinced the Senate to put the House-passed bill into the 14th order for amendment, on an 18-17 vote.

But his amendment, which would have shifted part of Idaho County now in district 9 into district 8, failed narrowly on a standing vote. The Senate then adjourned for the day.

Barron proposes revamp repealer

T-N Capitol Bureau

BOISE — Rep. Lee Barron, R-Corral, said Wednesday he would introduce two proposed constitutional amendments today, including one to repeal government reorganization.

Barron said, "the people should have a chance to vote on what's done" with reorganization during the 1974 legislature, and his proposed amendment would provide that opportunity.

It proposes repeal of the amendment to the constitution that was approved in the November, 1972, general election. That amendment required the number of executive agencies in state government to be pared to a maximum of 20 by Jan. 1, 1975. The second proposal would introduce, Barron said, would have each executive branch agency expire every six years unless the legislature specifically exempted it. The effect of the amendment, he said, would be to permit an "ongoing" reorganization with legislative input.

Barron, who has been one of government reorganization's severest critics during the session, said it was intended to accomplish a "reduction in the size of government and the fiscal cost of government."

Dissatisfied with the job that is done, he wants the public to have another opportunity to vote.

Printing approved

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. William Onweller, R-Boise, talked the House into printing his bill to phase out levies on improvements to real property Wednesday.

Onweller's bill was hung up in the printing committee and finally came out with a recommendation it not be printed.

He challenged this recommendation on the floor, pointing out there were "no constitutional or technical difficulties with the bill. He said even he might not vote for the bill at this time.

Watergate ghosts haunt excellent speech

WASHINGTON — If it is not too late to write about the President's State of the Union message last Wednesday night, let me weigh in with a few observations: It was a great speech, by anyone else but him.

Forensically speaking, this was a knockout. Content, of course, counts for more than form. The content was excellent also. One purpose of a State of the Union message is to let the people know that a particular president has been a great help to the state of the Union.

age of nuclear and biological weapons — an age of potential devastation — no more important purpose could be imagined. Ethetically, all this suffered from the Watergate syndrome. Like the ghost of Banquo, the malevolent spirit of recent events hovered over the dais. No mere forensics could exorcise the demon.

audible snickers. It is an ironical proposition, to hear privacy defended by an administration that tapped telephones wholesale, kept its "enemies" under surveillance, and sanctioned burglary in an effort to get at psychiatric files on Daniel Ellsberg.

The same specter intruded when Nixon began talking of "windfall profits" and equitable taxes for the oil companies. An ephemeral thought got between the viewer and the TV screen: Who is Richard Nixon to be talking about equitable taxes?

The President's legislative aims were ably spelled out. These ought to command wide bipartisan support. He said all the right things about health care, education, and welfare. But the nagging thought will not go away that Nixon, because of Watergate, will have serious trouble in pushing his ideas through.

The trouble is that Watergate can't be shoved into some closet of the public consciousness. This year will bring the trials of some of Nixon's closest aides. The day will not pass that some aspect of Watergate will not find its way unavoidably to the news.

That is the unhappy state of the Union. We will all have to live with it, even as we move toward the desirable goals this wounded President proclaims.

Recall reform

Lewiston Tribune

Idaho needs a new recall law. Not just any new statute but one that will protect public officials from petty harassment while still giving the public a means of removing corrupt or grossly incompetent officeholders.

The present law leans too far in favor of the voters, who can initiate a serious recall attempt on just about any grounds. That includes a yes vote on the Equal Rights Amendment, as Rep. Patricia McDermott has had the misfortune to discover. The ideal is to provide for ousting officials if malfeasance or misfeasance can be shown. Thus not voting at all in the legislature might be grounds for recall; an unpopular voting record is something that can wait to be dealt with at the next election.

The principle is simple; the solutions being proposed are ridiculously complicated, and as bad or worse as the present law. The latest is a plan by the Bonneville County clerk under which constituents could still circulate recall petitions for any little thing — but the accused officeholder would have the right to circulate counterpetitions. Whoever could collect the largest number of names — recallers or recallees — would win.

The possible consequences of such a law are only mildly amusing. Governmental processes could break down entirely while public officials were out scurrying around trying to collect enough signatures to keep themselves in office. The strain on the already short supply of paper would be tremendous as angry constituents and defensive officials fought for supplies on which to have their petitions printed. And beleaguered clerks could go blind trying to count names and verify addresses.

The unfunny part is that a signature-collecting contest is an even poorer method of determining who really is in the office than are the present recall provisions. There has to be a better way, but the Bonneville County clerk's proposal isn't it.

Complex problem—

Portland Oregonian

The problems of governing besieged Israel are amplified by that nation's complex system of proportional representation in the ruling Knesset (national parliament). Never, in the quarter century history of the country, has a single party gained a majority in that body and thereby a mandate to form a government.

Premier Golda Meir has depended on a coalition of parties for a Knesset majority. Officially formed from the Dec. 31 election, announced last week, that coalition is still the order of the day, with Mrs. Meir's dominant Labor alignment in an even weaker position than it was before the election.

The tally gives Labor 51 seats in the 120-member legislative body and the chief opposition the Likud (unity) Party 39. The 30 other seats are scattered among minor parties as disparate as the Moscow-line Communists on the left and Orthodox Jews on the right.

To form a government, Mrs. Meir's party must deal with its traditional ally, the National Religious Party, whose 10 seats would provide a bare majority. Another member of the current coalition, the Independent Liberals, has four seats. That would provide a working majority of 65, but the Liberals have important differences with the other parties in the coalition on Israeli territorial concessions in a Middle East peace agreement.

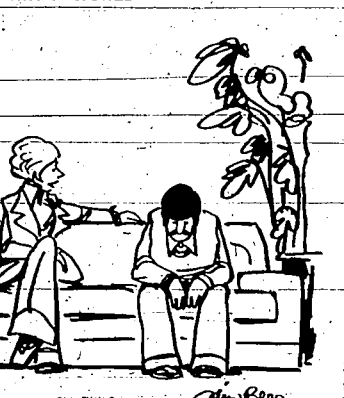

Israel's experience is added proof that a system of proportional representation, which is designed to give a voice to the smallest minorities in an electorate, encourages the splintering of parties and weakens national administration.

More than most countries, Israel needs a high degree of unity among its policy-makers. It would gain from a system encouraging the development of major parties, making possible a majority party and a loyal opposition.

Thought for the day

A thought for the day: Early American freedom fighter Thomas Paine said, "A bad cause will ever be supported by bad means and good men."

BERRY'S WORLD

and ANOTHER reason I am better than you are is I have feminine intuition and you don't...

I JUST DON'T SEEM TO HAVE BEEN CUT OUT FOR THIS KIND OF WORK!

Idaho revamping won't save much

By RICHARD CHARNOCK BOISE (UPI) — It is becoming increasingly clear government reorganization is going to be primarily a reshuffling of agencies in the executive branch and not really a reduction in government. If you are expecting this reshuffling to save you tax money — that is, cut the size of your present state taxes, forget it. But you may get two other dividends out of reorganization: — More direct lines of communication and, possibly, some snipping of red tape in your dealing with state government.

Pete T. Cenarrusa said over and over, for instance, that reorganization would not reduce governmental spending. State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon raised some pointed questions. But nobody wanted to hear them. Because of the thought of a tax cut the people approved the amendment and the first regular session of this legislature set up an interim commission to begin the reorganization task. The fruits of that work now are in the legislative basket for examination.

session. Some lawmakers still are determined to block reorganization — constitutional amendment or no amendment. They think it's going to lead to a big increase in spending. They could be right. But they need not be. It will depend on the executives in state government and the watchfulness of legislative budget committees who hold the purse strings. Nineteen huge departments could mean 19 huge salaries for 19 super-administrators.

Castro following Brezhnev lead

From all accounts, Castro put on a great show for Brezhnev in Havana. And of course he should have, it being the (rough) estimate that the Soviet Union has pumped about $4 billion into Cuba during the past dozen years, not counting the missiles. Accordingly Castro, who has rather shrewdly played the Moscow-Peking rift, occasionally flitting his eyes back to the East, put on the dog and instructed several hundred thousand of his subjects to come forward and cheer for Brezhnev.

William F. Buckley, Jr. aggressive action in other countries because the socialist camp desires "lasting peace". Granted this is the rhetoric of detente, and one yawns on hearing it at State Department dinners or from the lawn in San Clemente. But to hear it said in Cuba, indeed in front of a huge picture of Che Guevara, who went to Bolivia to export revolution and certainly died thinking he was a good Communist, must have been a little deflating for Castro.

'Every step planned'

A few days ago we received a note from someone in Hagerman signed "A Friend." It was written in the style of a letter and finished reading our column on "Memory," which you may recall. "Who knows what he will be thinking about five minutes ahead of time?" the writer asked. "I claim your thinking comes like a radio or like television. We each have a receiving set and a broadcasting set. As long as we are awake it keeps going. "We think on different levels. Some people never get above the animal level. They just eat, sleep and reproduce. Others think so high it is above human comprehension. "There must be some big broadcasting system. You have said "Well, I had it on the tip of my tongue just a minute ago, but I'll be hanged if I can remember it now. Perhaps it will come back soon." In an hour or even in days it will suddenly flash back to you. "Think this over — and write us Divine Providence. How, for instance, does a hen lay just enough eggs to make a setting and then sets it and the little ones have enough egg yolk to keep them going 72 hours so the old hen can stay on the nest until all the eggs are hatched? She feeds the chickens, protects them and keeps them warm until they are able to care for themselves. Every step is planned ahead of time. "Same way with humans. The new baby is helpless except for a "squawker" and a sucking ability. He has a kind mother to care for him and a father to provide indirectly for his care. The mother's milk comes at the right time, in the right quantity and quantity. He eats liquid until he gets teeth. Every step is prepared ahead by Divine Providence.

Charles Vogel of Jerome. It was in response to our feeling hurt because we had been called (we thought) asinine after printing a remark about abortions. Here's her note — and we appreciate it. "We evidently misunderstood each other. I took your 'me' about abortion literally and you accused me of 'being critical' and 'calling you asinine' in my letter to the editor. "I meant your remarks on abortion were asinine, not you personally. I do not consider you to be asinine. Your column proves otherwise. It is intelligent, informative and interesting. However, I believe there are some things one shouldn't joke about and one of them is abortion. When human lives are being jeopardized, we can't joke about it, can we? "In the future, if I take issue with your column, I will write to you directly. "Incidentally — I'll delete the word asinine from my vocabulary!"

MY DEAR COMRADE BREZHNEV! Washington Star Syndicate, Inc.

WELL, BLESS YOU We have received a nice note from Mrs. TODAY'S CHUCKLE: One reason photographs don't look natural is that photographers always tell their subjects to look pleasant.

THOSTESON, M.D. Split heartbeat causes worries

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A recent physical check-up revealed that my heart beat has a "split first sound." I am 50 and active in volunteer community projects. Please explain what it means and if it is serious. — M.K. When a doctor listens to your heart with a stethoscope, he hears the vibrations from the closing of two of the heart valves. That is the unhappy state of the Union. This comes as a single sound. But if there is a slight delay in the closing of one valve, there are two sounds, or an "split" sound.

This occurs, not uncommonly, in normal hearts, and is of no significance unless there is a pronounced degree of "splitting." In view of your active life, and apparently without any contrary advice from your physician, I would have to assume that your "split sound" is probably one that occurs in healthy hearts and is no cause for alarm.

Editor: Times-News: About three or four months ago an attempt was made via the editorial columns to print letters of the subscribers who did not like certain comics. These comics which were enjoyed by all were voted in and those which were a waste of the printer's ink to publish in the first place were voted out. I am one of the subscribers who is casting a vote for the elimination of the following: 1 — Short Ribz — beyond the nonsense stage 2 — Eck & Meek — beyond the nonsense stage 3 — Winthrop — beyond the nonsense stage 4 — Deonysary — inferior 5 — Ike O'Shay — inferior 6 — Wizard of Id — boring If the "Family Circus" could make a comeback, it would truly be worth three of the above listed cartoons, or comics. The other newer comics seem to have the humor your paper is supposed to have and the taste of older comics still managing to survive. Hoping others feel the way I do about the six listed trash comics and salaries, I join the line of subscribers who are anxiously watching the prices go up but doing something about it. J. ### Tax payment bill introduced SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A plan to assure that President Nixon will pay state income tax in the future was introduced Wednesday in the California Legislature. The bill doesn't mention the President by name but another Sen. David A. Roberts, D-Los Angeles, said it was aimed at "a resident of San Clemente."

The bill would require state income tax payments by persons who have registered and voted in California and who own California property of value exceeding $100,000.

Prisoner release agreement set

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam and the Viet Cong today agreed to resume a release of prisoners on Friday, the first major agreement between the two sides in seven months.

Only hours after the agreement Communist saboteurs mined a train between Dien Bien and Hue 380 miles north of Saigon. Nine civilians were killed and 26 other persons were wounded in the explosion, the military command said.

A spokesman for the command said it was one of the worst terror incidents of the year-old Vietnam truce.

In Cambodia, government troops fought to recapture a position on the outskirts of Phnom Penh today which they had lost hours earlier. The high command reported 50 rebels killed in the counterattacks.

The clashes occurred Wednesday at Prek Pra, located on the east bank of the Tonle Sap River and within sight of the United Nations bridge stretching across the wide river into Phnom Penh.

The rebels still controlled the position about three miles southeast of the capital today despite the government attacks. About 100 Cambodian infantrymen abandoned their position at Prek Pra less than 24 hours earlier.

In Saigon, spokesmen said the prisoner agreement was worked out after seven months of deadlock between South Vietnam and the Viet Cong. The prisoner exchange was halted in July, 1972.

"Right now, it is very likely the POW exchange will be started Friday as agreed upon," said Saigon command spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien.

Committee submits questions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee has sent President Nixon a list of 11 questions intended to substitute for direct questioning of him.

All the questions were drawn up by Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., and sent Wednesday on behalf of the entire panel.

Weicker asked Nixon whether he shares responsibility with John Dean III for the Watergate cover-up.

Weicker noted that in three public statements the President said Dean "under my direction" conducted a complete investigation of Watergate crimes.

In light of these statements, Weicker asked, "What is the difference in your measure of responsibility from that of John Dean?"

Weicker also asked if Nixon had informed law enforcement officials of criminal activities after he was told of them in relation to the Watergate and Filberg break-ins. Failure to do so would constitute a felony, Weicker said.

He noted that the President said he first learned of the cover-up from Dean March 21, 1973.

Leads dwindle in kidnaping

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Although police have followed dozens of leads, a spokesman said today that "not a darn thing has checked out" so far in the search for Patricia Hearst, the kidnaped daughter of publisher-editor Randolph A. Hearst.

Lt. David Johnson, speaking more than two days after the young woman was dragged screaming from her apartment, said "Mainly, we are now waiting to hear if the family is contacted. I can't figure their holding her for too long without making a move."

Meanwhile, an FBI artist worked on composite drawings of the two black men and the white woman who abducted the 19-year-old University of California sophomore.

John Kelly, assistant agent in charge of the FBI office in San Francisco, said the agent was down to Berkeley from Washington, D. C., and immediately started interviewing witnesses and making the composite sketches.

Miss Hagar, granddaughter of newspaper giant William Randolph Hearst, was kidnapped Monday night after her fiancé was killed and beaten by two men who broke into the apartment five blocks from the university campus. The fiancé, Steven A. Weed, 26, is a graduate student in philosophy.

Kelly also told reporters that the newspapers had not contacted the Hearst family or authorities about a ransom.

He noted that a composite sketch is "iricky unless you get a good one," but said he knew of two witnesses that "got a good glimpse" of the abductors.

Kelly also said there were "leads" in the case, although he did not amplify that statement. Lt. Johnson said most of the Berkeley police department's leads came by telephone from interested citizens throughout California, many of them reporting having sighted a vehicle like one used in the kidnaping.

Hansen, Symms favor House subpoena powers

Thursday, February 7, 1974 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 7

By LESTER KINSOLVING

Times-News Washington Bureau — Idaho's Representative Congressmen, Steve Symms and Orval Hansen, voted in favor of House Resolution 803 to provide subpoena power to the House Judiciary Committee to:

"Investigate fully and completely whether sufficient grounds exist for the House of Representatives to exercise its constitutional power to impeach Richard M. Nixon, President of the United States of America."

The resolution passed by vote of 410-4, after one hour of debate. On a previous vote to move the previous question (and shut off debate, and amendments) Congressman Symms was one of 67 Republicans and 3 Democrats who voted in the negative. Hansen voted aye.

Shorter seasons proposed

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, said he will introduce and push for passage for a memorial intended to shorten deer and elk hunting seasons in Idaho.

"The decline in deer and elk herds is reaching crisis proportions," Peavey said.

Peavey said during the resource committee hearing last week, Joe Greenley, director of the Idaho Fish and Game Department, admitted the seriousness of the problem.

Greenley agreed the department should continue to shorten the seasons where it is necessary to arrest the decline of big game herds, according to Peavey.

Peavey said his proposed memorial would give the department the flexibility needed to take such action.

"If the fish and game commission does not cooperate, I will have to push for passage of Senate Bill 1271 instead — a bill proposing a 15 day limit each for deer and elk hunting seasons," Peavey said.

Lawmen ask tightened thumb laws

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Sheriffs asked the house transportation committee Wednesday to tighten the law against hitchhiking — it would apply to city streets.

As proposed by sheriffs and other peace officers, hitchhiking would be prohibited from a street, highway or sidewalk as well as the "roadway" as set forth in the present statute.

Committee members suggested a better approach might be to aim the law at the drivers of motor vehicles — making it unlawful for them to pick up hitchhikers.

but I was opposed to that motion to cut off debate and prohibit amendments," Symms said.

"I am wary of any resolution that comes up accompanied by attempts to forbid amending. I also wanted to see a time certain, such as May 1, for the Judiciary Committee to report back with their recommendation as to whether or not the President should be impeached."

Symms extends the right to subpoena "without limitation" "Books," records, logs, correspondence, journals, memorandums, papers, documents, writings, drawings, graphs, charts, photographs, reproductions, recordings, tapes, transcripts ... and other things of any kind."

The Judiciary Committee

may also subpoena "the attendance and testimony of any person."

As to whether he thinks that the House will vote to impeach Nixon, Symms replied: "I doubt it at this point — but there seems to be a new chapter of Watergate every day. I have little doubt that the Judiciary Committee will recommend impeachment. It bothers me that some members of that committee have already stated that they favor impeachment, when they should be conducting themselves as a grand jury."

When asked for comment upon the President's forthcoming visit to Moscow — tentatively scheduled just after the Judiciary Committee makes its report on impeachment — Symms said he was not aware of the President's plan.

"I hope if he goes to Moscow," he added, "that he doesn't give away anything else."

Persecutor?

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — A nightclub owner who tried to prepare his own motion for dismissal of a charge against him was cited Tuesday for contempt of court because his secretary typed "U.S. persecutor" instead of "U.S. prosecutor."

Anthony J. Tavel, a Brooklyn-born longtime resident, said he was notified to appear in U.S. District Court Wednesday to show cause why he should not be held in contempt.

Suspects arrested

BOISE (UPI) — Boise City police have arrested two adults and a juvenile as suspects in an armed robbery that took place Monday night at the State Street Beverage.

The adults were identified as John Robert Horn, 18, and Robert Lee Cronin, 18, both Boise.

Horn and Cronin were charged with one count each of armed robbery.

The State Street Beverage was held up Monday by a gunman described as 5 feet 9 inches tall, with bleached blond hair, and wearing denim jacket and pants.

Diabetic truck driver rescued

BURLEY (UPI) — A diabetic truck driver who was stranded overnight by a blizzard was rescued by Idaho State Police Tuesday with a load of candy bars.

The driver, who was unidentified, became stuck in the snow after following the tail lights of a state police car off Interstate 80N into a rest area during a blinding snowstorm, trapping both vehicles in the small juniper rest area.

Trooper Bob Conner of Rupert was dispatched Monday night at 8:30 p.m. to check reports of the snowstorm causing traffic problems.

Conner said about 20 cars and five semis had skidded off a section of the interstate where the highway department snowplows were unable to cope with blowing snow.

After closing the highway with the help of highway workers, Conner pulled off the car for the rest area and the truck driver, thinking Conner still was on the interstate followed.

With no room to turn the semi, the truck driver and Conner sat out the night in the parking car, turning on the motor only 15 minutes each hour to warm the car.

It was 9:30 a.m. Tuesday before a snowplow cleared a six-foot drift to reach the parking car and deliver the candy to the truck driver, who after 10 hours without food or insulin was weak and dizzy.

down more than one you play spades right away. If you want to take the best play for your contract you should cash all your heart, diamond and club winners to see if you can get any information about your opponents' distribution.

You do! Everyone follows so you are right back where you started except that you have noted the fall of the spot cards from East and West and it looks as if West started with only three cards in diamonds and clubs. Hence he is more likely to be long in spades.

Also, he might have led a spade if he didn't hold the queen so you decide to play him for it. You lead your king of spades; carefully play the jack or 10 from dummy; lead your nine and make the slam.

Here is another Paul Lukacs test-your-play problem from the Bridge World magazine.

You find yourself in a rather normal six notrump contract. West opens the three of clubs and it is up to you to play the hand. Paul points out that you must take the heart finesse some time or other so he suggests that after winning the club you cash dummy's king of hearts, lead toward your hand and finesse the jack.

It loses and we can assume that West will lead another club. If you don't want to go

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thousands of candy chocolate balls, which could cause fever, nausea, vomiting and diarrhea, are being pulled off the market, according to the Food and Drug Administration (FDA). The FDA Tuesday identified the brand, made in Canada and distributed throughout the United States, as "Regent Solid Milk Chocolate." It said the balls, wrapped in colorful Christmas-like foil, carried the Regent name on packages. The recall began, the agency said, after public health investigators checking into cases of salmonella poisoning uncovered several instances where the chocolate balls were believed to have been the culprit. The FDA also said the New Jersey Health Department found a type of salmonella contamination in a sample of the Regent chocolates. The FDA said it did not know how many packages of the candy were still on the market or how much the manufacturer hopes to recover through the recall.

DEAR ABBY: My wife loves to cook—with wine! that gives her an excuse to get into the wine bottle.

She's a school teacher, so her hours are shorter than mine. When I get home at 5:30 p.m., she's already had a snootful and is making dinner (using wine, of course) so by the time we sit down to dinner (with wine) she's already smashed!

After dinner she falls asleep in front of the TV. The next morning she wakes up bright and cheerful, and that evening it's the same story.

If we have no plans for the weekend, it's the same routine—only she starts earlier. If I suggest she lay off the wine, she becomes defensive and insists she can take it or leave it alone. (That she always takes it.)

Wife's smashed

Is she an alcoholic? And if she is, how can I help her? I hate to see a pretty, intelligent young woman grow ugly and dull before my eyes. Fortunately, we have no children, and with things as they are, I'm going to make sure we don't have any. In the meantime, how can you help someone who refuses to admit she needs help?

PATIENT HUSBAND

DEAR PATIENT: It's not easy. I think your wife is an alcoholic, but until she admits it, and takes steps to overcome it, no one can help her. Alanon, the companion group to Alcoholics Anonymous, teaches the mates of alcoholics to cope with that problem. When you learn to handle it, you may get her to help herself. It's worth a try. They're in the phone book. Get going and good luck.

DEAR ABBY: Mine is a problem to end all problems. I am 35 and Ira is 41. We've been living together for two years and three months. We had a big fight last week, and I kicked him out. I told Sybil (my best friend) about kicking Ira out, and within three days Sybil and Ira were married! I didn't know a thing about it. Ira came to see me and I thought he came to make up with me because we made love. It was just like old times. I guess he couldn't get up the nerve to tell me about him and Sybil. That night Sybil came over and said she and Ira were

Librarian speaks for TF club

TWIN FALLS — Arlan Call, librarian, told members of the Twentieth Century Club that the Twin Falls Public Library circulated 170,000 items in 1973. Call spoke at a luncheon meeting Tuesday at the Turf Club. He told the group the library has over 90,000 books as well as microfilm reels, maps, art reproductions, records and newspapers. He said 240 magazines are available at the library. Call also said services for the blind and handicapped and large print books are offered by the library. He said there is a good chance construction on an addition to the library will begin in May.

Mrs. James Kinney was program chairman. Mrs. Mac Chatterton gave the invocation and Mrs. Margaret Durbin led the pledge. The Twin Falls High School Madrigals, directed by Richard Smack, presented special music.

Smelly situation

OAK HARBOR, Wash. (UPI) — Police are looking for a car with aromatic exhaust smoke. Someone stole 60 gallons of gasoline Monday at the Whidbey Island Naval Air Station, where officials recently ordered perfume mixed with the gasoline to make thieves easier to catch.

married. I didn't believe her and called her a liar. Anyway, the next day Ira came over and said it was true. He also said he was drunk when he married her, but he still loved me. I know this sounds crazy, but I love him, too. We belong together. Sybil told me that Ira really loved ME, and she didn't really want him, she just married him to make her boy friend jealous.

Abby, can Ira's marriage be annulled because he was drunk? We're back together again and want to be married soon as possible.

DEAR POOPSIE: I don't know whether Ira's marriage can be annulled or not, but a lawyer can tell you. So see one!

DEAR ABBY: Why do mothers teach their daughters that when a boy brings them home from a date they should "thank" him for the lovely evening?

After all, it's the MAN who does the asking, and if the lady grants him the date, then HE should thank HER for the lovely evening. I'm in disagreement with someone over this point and want your opinion.

DEAR N. C.: A lady doesn't "grant" a gentleman a date in the same sense that a celebrity "grants" someone an interview, or the Pope grants someone an audience. She simply accepts his invitation. And if they both enjoyed themselves, they should thank each other!

TF parts-dealers deny meet report

TWIN FALLS—Three of six Twin Falls auto parts dealers who offer delivery service have denied a reported meeting to discuss fixing a delivery charge ever took place.

Carl Felton, manager of Kirkham Auto Parts Co., said the six local dealers met around October and talked about placing a $1 charge on all deliveries under $1. He said their possible charges were discussed but no decisions were reached.

During the past two weeks, four of the parts dealers who deliver have started to charge $1 on all deliveries under $1. One dealer is soon to follow, Kirkham has decided not to impose the charge.

Felton said the managers and owners of MacKenzie Auto Equipment Co., Motor Mercantile Co., United Automotive Inc., Step-Ken Auto Parts Co. and Nording Parts Co. attended the meeting in an attempt to discuss the representatives of Kirkham.

But the managers of three of these dealerships deny any such meeting occurred, while two others refuse to comment. "We'd be in a bit of trouble if we did that," Harry Workman, manager at Nording, said.

Workman said Nording operates across state lines and is strictly regulated by the U.S. Interstate Commerce Commission. He said there is "no way" the company would participate in such a meeting.

"We got the idea after Motor Merc's letter (announcing the delivery charge) was published and distributed," Workman said. He said he heard about the announcement and asked for a copy of the letter. "It (the meeting) just didn't happen, period."

Frank Filml, manager of Motor Mercantile, also denied that such a meeting occurred.

He said there was "no discussion collectively" of settling a charge on deliveries.

Felton said the charge for deliveries "gets around by word of mouth." Motor Mercantile's decision to charge on small orders was simply "a matter of economics," he said.

But Irving Wood, manager of Step-Ken, refused Monday to comment on whether a meeting of the parts dealers took place. "What possible good can you do by stirring something up that isn't anybody's business," he said.

Last week Wood said, "One of them went first and I just followed along," regarding how he decided to charge for small deliveries.

Jack Helfrecht, manager of MacKenzie, also would not say whether a meeting occurred. "I wouldn't make a comment on that one way or another," he said.

Bill Shell, manager of United Automotive, said he knew nothing about such a meeting. "If it was done I have no knowledge of it," he said.

Shell said the delivery charge had been discussed at a United Automotive six or eight months ago. The company was going to impose the charge in November, but put it off. He said the company's owner has decided to impose the charge soon.

Step-Ken and Motor Mercantile imposed the $1 charge on all deliveries under $1 Jan. 28. MacKenzie began the charge Feb. 1 and Nording started Feb. 4.

Hayes has first-day lead in Hope meet

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Former Oklahoma State star Mark Hayes outlasted the wind at Indian Wells Wednesday with a four-under-par 68 and a one-shot lead after the first round of the $160,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

The 24-year-old Hayes, oblivious to 30 mile per hour gusting winds which sent most of the opening day's scores soaring, had five birdies and one bogey on a card of 34-34. Mike McCullough, a second year pro from Cocheton, Okla., and veteran Lee Elder had matching three-under par-69s to share second place. Labron Harris, Rick Acton and John Lister checked in with two under 70s to share third place. Defending champion Arnold

Palmer, shooting for his sixth Hope title, opened with a four-over 76 on a day in which less than 20 players from a starting field of 128 broke par.

Hayes said he shot well because he was able to keep the ball in play despite the strong wind. "I didn't feel as if I played all that well," he said. "But I never got into trouble and that made the difference in all that wind."

Hayes sank birdie putts of 12 feet on the fourth and ninth holes, made a 13 footer on the 16th, two-putted from 10 feet on the 14th and two-putted from 40 feet on the final hole.

McCullough's card included four birdies and one bogey while Elder had three birdies and no bogeys. McCullough played at Bermuda Dunes while Elder opened at Indian Wells.

Johnny Miller, who opened the year by winning the first three events, had an even-par 72 at Bermuda Dunes while Bobby Nichols, winner of the San Diego open, had a two-over 74 at La Quinta.

The only other players to break par were J. C. Sneed, Bert Vancy, Tom Shaw, Jim Colbert, John Mahaffey, Dave Hill, John Ruedi, Jack Ewing and Vern Novak, all of whom had 72s.

Sauer likes football again

NEW YORK (UPI) — Remember George Sauer? The wide receiver with the unusual moves and even more unusual ideas who caught eight passes from Joe Namath in the New York Jets' famous Super Bowl victory over the Baltimore Colts.

A year later after the 1970 season, George Sauer walked away from pro football, saying, among other things, that the game was "dehumanizing." He retired in his prime at age 27.

Sauer has had a change of heart and now would like to come back and play for former Jet Babe Parilli, who's coaching the Boston team in the World Football League.

But Sauer has left a legacy in the National Football League—a signed contract. He could spark the first legal battle between the NFL and the new WFL.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

When a citizen reached the 100th birthday some years back, editors took note. Usually. But not so much so anymore-Those centenarians now are said to be the latest growing man-group in the U.S. population. Such seasoned citizens numbered at least 13,000 at last report.

Here's a male subscriber who reports he just can't stand potato pancakes whether fried to a crisp brown or not. What a monstrous thing to say! I only hope he doesn't live in a situation where he can degrade some poor woman and corrupt the children.

Understand Napoleon's handwriting was something else. So last, in fact, some of his letters were stolen by spies, not for what they said; but because they were thought to be maps of battlefields.

DAYLIGHT

Who first dreamed up daylight saving time?
A Benjamin Franklin is credited with suggesting that citizens set the clocks ahead an hour to lengthen the days, but he recorded the suggestion as humorous.

Do women in China wear earrings?
A Some of the older ladies do. Gold loops in pierced ears. But correspondents say none of the younger girls wear any jewelry at all.

First man ever to domesticate a horse did that thing not to ride the beast, but milk it. Or so numerous experts contend.
The marketing you prefer each household in the country during the next 12 months will buy at least 45 aerosol cans of one thing or another.

THATCHER

That expert who knows how to hatch a roof properly is a rarity. And in England, in fact, he is a highly honored citizen. The country even has a Senate Thatcher Official. Maybe the most comparable citizen we know hereabouts is the grain stacker. When I was a boy in the harvest fields in Montana, Idaho and Washington State, there was always one special man over in the next county known as the region's master stacker.

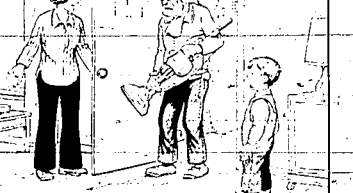

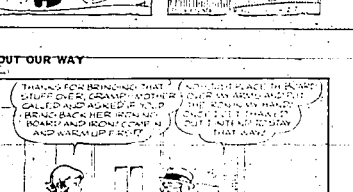

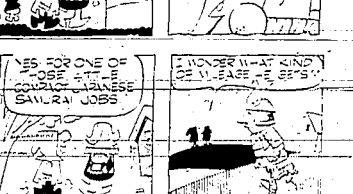

Studios show a goldfish would rather look at a mirror than at another goldfish.
If a human baby grew as fast as a baby whale, said human baby would be about 65 feet tall by its second birthday. Now where are you going to find a playground for a little tyke like that?

Although some girls as young as 7 years old can wear contact lenses without much trouble, boys best not be litted until they're at least 9 years old. So says one eye doctor.

A hotel heliboy of lengthy experience now contends dentists rank way down there with professional baseball players and politicians as the poorest tippers.

MAGIC VALLEY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL BOND ISSUE

Twin Falls County needs a newly modernized hospital designed, equipped and staffed to help slow the worrisome escalation of medical care costs.

By encouraging its use on an outpatient basis, where possible, many medical and surgical problems can be effectively treated on a "day care" basis. With a newly organized and centralized outpatient facility, patients (in many cases) may be released, without overnight stay, to convalesce at home. A Savings to the patient of both time and money. The undersigned citizens of Twin Falls County earnestly solicit your support next Tuesday, February 12th.
