The bell atop city hall was sounded three times when the body was located. Miss Willie, as she was known, disappeared two weeks ago.

Aide opposes women cadets
DENVER (UPI) — Navy Secretary John W. Warner is opposed to admitting women cadets into the U.S. Naval Academy because they would be unable to go into combat despite the training. Citing costs of training and a law preventing assignment of women to combat roles, Warner asked why women should be trained at the academy. Most naval officers go into combat roles, Warner said.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Gasoline-hungry motorists in Southern California waited in long lines, fought each other and blocked the entrance to a fire house Saturday in attempts to buy gasoline. One exasperated driver ran down a service station manager. The vast majority of drivers, however, waited patiently for their turn at the pumps in this city built around the automobile.

Excess fluoride in MV drinking water harmful

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — A "good news-bad news" story can be applied to some drinking water consumed in Twin Falls and one county. The good news: Fluoride, a proven inhibitor of tooth decay, is naturally present in most water supplies. The bad news: Some of the water contains excessive amounts of fluoride. The result can be permanently stained or damaged teeth. State records show that the water supplies of Hollister and Filer have above or near maximum fluoride levels as recommended by the U.S. Public Health Service. The "upper limit" of fluoride currently listed by the federal agency is 1.7 parts per million (ppm). Tests during the past three years average 1.71 ppm in Filer and 1.67 ppm in Hollister.

Proposed revisions of federal drinking water standards will "tighten up" recommended fluoride levels, the Times-News has learned. Changes in the standards will probably "imply" that drinking water with 1.5 ppm or more of fluoride "be rejected... or changed," according to William Mullen, chief of the water supply unit at the Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) Seattle office. Under the new guidelines, 1.5 ppm will be "the level at which they should provide some sort of treatment or find an alternate source," Mullen said.

Several area dentists called by the Times-News reported cases of fluorosis, an abnormal condition of the teeth caused by excessive fluoride intake. Effects of fluorosis range from "non-subjectable" white flecks in the teeth enamel to severe discoloration, malformation and decay. (Continued on p. 8)

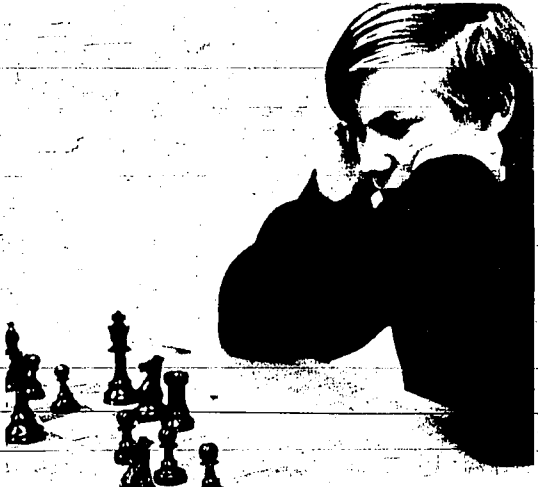

Hearst ransom demand slashed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The terrorist abductors of publishing heiress Patricia Hearst have slashed their demands and appear willing to compromise on any "sincere effort," Miss Hearst and the kidnapers told her parents in a tape recording delivered Saturday. "It was never intended you feed the whole state," the 19-year-old college coed said in a recording apparently made Wednesday and sent to the family with considerable intrigue through the minister of a radical-oriented church. Miss Hearst also said she was being well treated, but urged her parents to act "as fast as you can." The leader of the Symbionese Liberation Army, which says it is holding Miss Hearst, said on the same tape that the terrorist group "will accept a sincere effort on your part." Miss Hearst assured her parents she was being well treated, and not being starved, beaten or tortured.

"So people should stop acting like I am dead," she said. "Mom should get out of her black dress"—referring to a dress her mother Catherine has worn on several television appearances since the Feb. 4 kidnaping. "The recording—apparently made the same day her father, Randolph A. Hearst, announced he could not meet the original demands—said there was "some misunderstanding" about what the kidnapers called a "good faith gesture."

In a communication received by Hearst last Tuesday, the SLA demanded that Hearst, president-elect of the San Francisco Examiner and son of the late William Randolph Hearst, provide each of an estimated 4.7 million needy Californians with $70 in free food at a total cost of about $340 million. "They understand you want to meet their demands," Patricia said. "And they have every intention that you should be able to meet their demands."

"They weren't trying to present an unreasonable request." "So whatever you come up with is basically okay. And just do it as fast as you can and everything will be fine." The recording was delivered to the family by the Rev. Cecil Williams of Glide Memorial Methodist Church in San Francisco, one of six groups named by the SLA to handle the free food distribution.

Gem chess tournament mostly study, silence

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — Silence, broken only by the dull thump of chessmen on the playing board and the quiet ticking of the timers, signaled the start of the state chess tournament here Saturday. Thirty-four "wood pushers" from as far away as Boise gathered at the Twin Falls YMCA-YWCA for a 20-hour mind-straining struggle to earn top honors. Richard Vandenberg, Boise, top-rated chess player in the state, was back at the board Saturday, ending a nearly five-year absence from the tournament circuits. Vandenberg took the first game but was facing stiff competition in his next four games. Vandenberg said he began playing chess in Boise about 30 years ago when he and a friend would pit their skills against an "old man." The length of time a person plays, he said, though, does not matter as much as his aptitude and practice.

It takes "a certain kind of person," to play chess, he said. Good players usually have "analytical minds and enjoy the thinking process." "A lot of people think of chess as an old man's game," Vandenberg said, "but it is actually completely the opposite." Most good players are in their 20s or 30s he said, and players over 40 are considered "over the hill." Chess is "as demanding as any sport," he said, and tournaments can be "exhausting." A chess player usually makes about 40 moves a game and "it takes only one move to lose the game." In almost any other sport, he said, a person can make a mistake and still have a chance to rectify it. In a five-game tournament like this, he said, "you can't let up ever in 200 moves and can't make a mistake. It puts pressure on you." (Continued on p. 21)

Senate given ERA vote bill

BOISE (UPI) — Apparently deciding they didn't have the votes to reconsider the equal rights advisory referendum bill House leaders allowed it to go to the Senate Saturday. The bill passed the House by one vote Friday but was held for possible reconsideration. Normally, Saturday sessions do not attract as many members of the House as regular weekday sessions. By sending the bill to the Senate the House also sidestepped another floor fight on this highly emotional issue. About 10 minutes after the house passed the bill Friday, Rep. Jack Kennevik, R-Boise, held it up for one more day by serving notice of possible reconsideration. Kennevik voted on the prevailing side by which it passed. (Continued on p. 9)

Hailey units wins nod

By DAVID ESPINO
Times-News Capital Bureau
BOISE — The state has given its "general conceptual approval" for planned waste treatment facilities at the huge McCulloch Corp. development near Hailey. Lee Stokes, Department of Environmental and Community Services deputy administrator, said McCulloch had sent the agency a "good impact statement" detailing the effects on the local environment if the plan were approved. Stokes, who heads the environmental quality division of DECS, said formal approval for the planned subsurface disposal and waste treatment plant had not yet been granted. He said more detailed information was still expected from McCulloch. Stokes said the model projected by McCulloch Corp. would result in waste water entering the underground Snake River aquifer after it had been processed. But he also said the modeling the company had done on the system indicated the impact of the nutrients that remained in the water would be "negligible."

Minico's prosecutor rejects posse claims

By ED MITCHELL
Times-News writer
RUPERT — Statements made by the recently formed Minidoka County Posse Comitatus have been termed "ridiculous" by county Prosecuting Atty. Robert Nielsen. The group claimed to have served notice through a booklet sent to public officials last week the right to arrest and summarily punish public officials whom they believe to be acting unconstitutionally. Nielsen said Friday the sheriff and the prosecuting attorney have responsibility for law enforcement in the county under Idaho law. The law provides that the sheriff and other law enforcement officers may demand assistance from citizens but does not say anything about citizens forming their own groups, he said. (Related commentary, p. 4) One example of "erroneous statement" in the booklet, according to Nielsen, is the comment that the U. S. Supreme Court is not legally the supreme judicial authority in the nation. This statement, he said, is refuted by Article 3 of the Constitution. "Neither the sheriff's office nor my office is going to condone unlawful acts," Nielsen said. One possible example of an unlawful act would be the forming of a "citizen's jury" for trials outside established courts, he said. "Effective resistance" was used in the formulation of the group's basic thinking, according to Nielsen. County Commissioner Jo Hillis said Friday the county commissioners had "taken no stand at all now" on the formation of the group. Darrell Runyon, Rupert, head of the posse, said Friday the posse did not intend to follow the booklet "to the letter." "I don't know what they (the posse) intend to do," Deputy Sheriff Ray Jarvis said. "They can do what they want unless they break the law. The booklet goes along real good until where it talks about hanging people. I've known Darrell (Runyon) for quite a number of years and I think he's a hell of a swell guy."

Syria, Israel gunners trade fire on heights

By United Press International
Syrian and Israeli forces exchanged artillery fire for a second consecutive day along the Golan Heights cease-fire lines Saturday as Arab emissaries flew to the United States for talks on oil and troop disengagement with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

A military spokesman in Damascus said Syria destroyed an Israeli engineering unit and inflicted some casualties in a 25-minute clash on the front's central sector. There was no mention of Syrian losses.

The Israeli national radio said Syrian artillerymen fired four shells at Israeli forces near Jaba in the area captured from Syria during the October war. The Israelis suffered no casualties and returned the fire, the radio said.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy and Saudi Arabian Foreign Minister Omar Sakkaf left Paris for Washington amid reports they will take a hard line.

The ministers will tell Kissinger that before the Arabs lift their oil embargo against the United States, he must engineer progress toward Israeli withdrawal from all Arab territory occupied since the June, 1967 war, the semi-official Egyptian Middle East News Agency (MENA) said.

US gives warning, an offer

(C) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The United States has now placed before the other major industrial nations of the world both a generous offer and a clear warning.

The offer is to share America's advanced technology in a common effort to solve the world energy crisis. The warning — directed primarily at France — is that isolationist or go-alone policies in the energy field will affect America's military guarantees and may lead to economic chaos and general insecurity.

The president made clear the other nations could not expect the cooperation of the United States in one field if they refused to cooperate with the United States in other fields.

He didn't go so far as to say to the Allies that their isolation could revive American isolationism and the withdrawal of American troops from Europe, but he clearly implied it and urged the leaders not to put their short-term interests ahead of creating a cooperative world order.

PRaise BE We are aghast at the number of letters we have received congratulating us on our coming retirement from the newspaper. We thought people would be sorry to see us go (and a few have expressed this thought) but we find most everyone's "happy" for us. So it appears that all things being equal, the sun will still come up in the east and set in the west without us.

MR. SPECTATOR

But we must point out a card we received from Mrs. Ambrose (Marjorie Moffitt of Declo. She said she was "sorry" we were leaving because she enjoyed our written thoughts; but the thing that struck a responsive feeling in our heart was this: "I still have the polished rock you sent me and I still use it."

She had reference to those polished ocean rocks we sent to nearly 200 people who asked for them a couple of years ago. We had spent our vacation getting them from Pacific Ocean beaches and had polished them with tender loving care. They received our "blessing" to bring good luck to whoever carried them. And as a result of the note from Mrs. Moffitt, verily, we say, our cup runneth over.

ABOUT THE BATTLE A lot of gals battling for women's lib should take it easy — they don't know when they are well off.

MORE ON BING A note from Mrs. Henry Admire, Gooding, who recalled Bing Crosby hunted pheasants on their ranch southeast of Gooding about 25 years ago. We had remembered our association with the great guy in a recent column. Mrs. Admire said he posed for a picture and was a real "good and down to earth" individual. And, oh yes, she also wished us "good luck" in our retirement. Well, with the price of things such as they are Mr. and Mrs. Spectator will need more than luck — obviously.

Lib helps keep gas tank filled

WASHINGTON — I dropped over to Pettigrew's house at 6 o'clock the other night and much to my surprise, I found him setting the table.

"Pettigrew," I said in astonishment, "what on earth are you doing?" "I'm setting the table." "But that's women's work."

"Yes, she did. At first it was rather rough. She would come home with a quarter-tank or a half-tank or sometimes $1.50 worth and she was very discouraged. But I never criticized her because I knew she needed building up. I said, 'Clara, for a beginner you're doing swell.' "Now tomorrow you go out real early, like say 7 o'clock, and get a good spot in line and you should be able to get the tank filled by 3 in the afternoon."

"And did she get the tank filled?" "Not exactly. By the time she got to the pump, they had run out. But she did manage to buy four gallons in Rockville at 6 that night, so the day wasn't a complete loss."

"I've never seen Clara happier. She feels for the first time she's needed and she finally has a challenge worthy of her talent. In the evenings we have something to talk about together, and the beauty of it is that she gets the tank filled on her own. No one even knows she's Mrs. Irving Pettigrew."

"I'm happy for both of you! Where's Clara now?" "She's in line at an Amoco station in Gaitersburg, and just called to say she'd be a little late for dinner."

Minidoka 'posse' should disband

A self-proclaimed citizens posse has been organized in Minidoka County, claiming the right to arrest and summarily punish wrongdoers.

Such an organization is dangerous, subversive, illegal and ignorant of the Constitution it purports to support. It should be disbanded at once.

The organizers of the "Minidoka County Posse Comitatus" have misunderstood the function of the legitimate posse.

Idaho law and tradition provide for use of such a "posse comitatus" by a sheriff or other law enforcement officer to help enforce the law. Sheriffs are authorized to draw on the services of any man above 18 years of age when the sheriff believes such force is required.

But in such a case: —The sheriff calls the posse into existence for a specific legal purpose and then disbands it. The posse does not organize itself for its own purposes.

—The members of the posse take orders from the sheriff, not vice versa.

—The sheriff and the posse either carry out the orders of a court or apprehend lawbreakers and bring them before the courts. In no case does the posse act as a kangaroo court. In no case does it summarily punish a supposed lawbreaker.

—The posse enforces the law. It does not judge the law. The posse does not have the power to declare a law unconstitutional.

In contrast, consider the program proclaimed by the organizers of the Minidoka County Posse Comitatus.

The posse expects to arrest public officials it believes are acting unconstitutionally. Ordinarily it expects to support the sheriff in his job. But should the sheriff fail to make the desired arrest, the posse would proceed to arrest the sheriff himself.

Throughout, the members of the posse would judge the constitutionality of laws and actions of public officials.

In a curious misreading of the U. S. Constitution, the posse's organizers believe the sheriff is the only legitimate law enforcement officer. According to this view, state and city police officers have no authority to make arrests.

Moreover, the posse members believe the court system is unconstitutional, and specifically balk at the notion that the sheriff carries out orders of the court.

Instead, the posse members would bypass or assume the function of the courts.

The posse, not the courts, would govern charges brought against a supposed offender. The posse, not the courts, would pass judgment. The posse, not the courts, would direct the sheriff. The posse, not the courts, would rule on constitutionality of law.

However, the posse, unlike the courts, would not be sequestered. According to a booklet distributed to public officials in Minidoka County as an introduction to the posse's program, the organization would have the right to execute offenders.

Offenders could be removed by the posse in the most populated intersections of streets in the township and at high noon be hung by the neck, the body remaining until sunset as an example to those who would subvert the law.

It might not come to that, according to Darrell Runyon, head of the posse. "The booklet states things fairly harshly," he says.

We do not expect the Minidoka posse to go about hanging people. But we are alarmed by the posse's insistence on the right to do so.

No group of citizens has the right to take the law into its own hands. To do so is criminal.

No group of citizens has the right even to threaten to take the law into its own hands. To do so is criminal.

Several things should be done immediately:

- 1. The posse should be disbanded by its members. 2. The Minidoka County sheriff, prosecutor, county commissioners and other responsible citizens should insist publicly that the posse is neither wanted nor needed. They should make clear the posse has no legal status. 3. The responsible law enforcement officials should insist that they will vigorously prosecute any member of the posse who commits a crime or threatens to do so. 4. Ours is a society in which no man can set himself above the law. There is no civilized alternative.

Old but good time

Idaho Falls Post Register: How about returning the whole nation to its old time zone pattern — six months of daylight saving and six months of standard. Congress did a knee-jerk reaction in the intensity of the first big wave of concern on the energy crisis. It should re-evaluate, as one Idaho Legislative memorial asked it to do.

JAMES RESTON

It is interesting that Nixon took the internationalist line during the oil conference. He is in great political trouble and he could easily have diverted attention by appealing to isolationist sentiment in the United States instead of opposing it.

The fuel shortage has already created a mood of irritation in this country and the isolationist impulse is never far below the surface. Also, after Vietnam, the troubles in the Middle East, the disenchantment with "detente," the devaluation of the dollar, and the rising cost of living, the possibilities for blaming all this on other nations are obvious.

The danger in France's go-it-alone policy is not that it might be unpopular in the United States, but that it might be an excuse for turning the United States away from the dilemmas of foreign policy into the simpler, nationalistic policies of the past.

Still, the differences between the United States and France (and to a lesser extent with other European countries) are much deeper than the technicalities of the meeting. President Pompidou, Foreign Minister Jobert and other Gaullists still fear that the United States is trying to build a new Atlantic or worldwide political organization which would be dominated by American military, financial and industrial power.

Secretary of State Kissinger laid out the American offer for cooperative efforts to conserve fuel, develop new sources of energy, energy sharing, research and development, financial assistance to less developed countries and negotiations with the oil-producing nations.

But it was left to the President to insist that cooperation had to be a two-way affair, and even raise the specter of American isolation. This was not a popular theme with the visiting officials but as the President said, the major industrial nations have reached a point where they have to work together in all these inter-related fields or watch their relations break down into even worse disorder than now exists.

Thought for today

A thought for the day: American Post Henry Wandsworth Langfellow says: "Give what you have. To someone, it may be better than you dare think."

Arms debate looming

By ROBERT KLEIMAN (c) New York Times Service NEW YORK — Defense Secretary Schlesinger has wisely welcomed the idea of a debate on the Nixon administration's new military policies.

The increased defense budget the President has submitted should make that debate a certainty, at least within the confines of the Congress.

In fiscal 1975, beginning this July, the administration proposes to spend almost $8 billion on defense, including nuclear weapons, an increase of about $12 billion in two years. Expenditure of $95 billion is projected for fiscal 1976. That suggests a $100 billion defense budget by 1977 or 1978.

The Pentagon's budget briefers, as always, have attributed most of the projected increases in next year's spending to inflation and military pay raises. But Schlesinger wants the country to be in position for another major round in the arms race should the Soviet Union continue its rapid build-up and reject the kind of "equivalency" in nuclear capability upon which the United States is insisting in the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT II).

Research and development work on a startling array of new strategic weapons projects, the most extensive in 15 years, is planned for this purpose.

Relatively small sums are requested now for "R & D" projects. But, once production and deployment begin, they could throw wedge-shaped shadows into the country's financial future. That is what has happened in strategic weapons programs such as the $13 billion Trident nuclear missile submarine project, the B-1 bomber and MIRV multiple warhead missiles.

Not that we are against methodhood, low prices, clean air or kids — but today we would discuss kids for a few words.

We go along with Richard Joseph, travel editor in Esquire magazine, who suggests a 'legal way of getting rid of your children: IT ISN'T child abandonment (which is not legal most places) and which can get you in a peck of trouble) but it is just a case of leaving them someplace when you take your vacation.

With vacation periods coming up before too long, we wanted to pass the idea along to you parents. It doesn't concern Mr. and Mrs. Spectator because our kids are raised. This has to do only with those struggling to get theirs raised.

What you can do is to send the youngsters to what is known as a "parkatorium." It will cost you from $500 to a couple of grand, depending on just how long you want them to stay. And while someone else is taking care of them, you and your wife could take off on a vacation alone.

Actually, Mr. Spectator points out that an idea like this was merit. It would give the whole family a rest. We assume the kids get just as tired of you as you get of them.

If you want a real rest, send them to Europe. You can do that at about the same price it would cost to get them in a good parkatorium in this country.

So, if you don't want to go all the way — will

Only about 22 per cent of defense spending, or about $19 billion in fiscal 1975, is allocated to strategic forces. The largest part of the defense budget goes into general purpose forces. Overall, with less than 2.2 million men in uniform, pay and other manpower costs will take 55 per cent of the defense dollar, as compared to 43 per cent a decade ago, when about 2.7 million men were under arms.

Three distinct but interrelated issues face the Congress and the nation — finances, new strategic weapons and the new nuclear strategy.

Three distinct but interrelated issues face the Congress and the nation — finances, new strategic weapons and the new nuclear strategy.

From a financial point of view, the pay level required for a volunteer army is the biggest single cost factor in the defense budget. Reliance on volunteers is bringing down the size and quality of the armed forces and lifting sharply the recruitment of blacks.

The plan to match the Soviet Union in strategic weapons, the second major issue facing Congress, cannot be debated apart from American proposals in the SALT II negotiations.

Most important is the need for a thorough debate on the administration's new nuclear strategy. With the bulk of the nation's 7,000 strategic warheads already aimed at military targets, an argument can be made for more selective war plans and improved command and control.

The new defense budget contains a beginning on needed reforms. The new defense secretary is moving to reduce headquarters staffs, to form an added army division by cuts in support units and to develop more austere weapons systems and a smaller strategic missile submarine.

Soviet author shows many moods, appearances

By United Press International
Alexander Eysenicht Solzhenitsyn was once hailed in the Soviet media as a brilliant writer and "a new Tolstoy."
But that accolade in 1962, following publication of his first novel, was short-lived. Now he is branded a traitor and a renegade—a characterization more typical of the official Soviet attitude toward him throughout his stormy career.
Even his friends say that Solzhenitsyn can be a difficult man. He has broken off some old friendships because of personal disagreement, and he is a somewhat solitary figure—a dissident who seldom has identified himself with the struggle of other Soviet dissidents.
But there is another side to Solzhenitsyn.

During a recent interview, he scooped up his blond son Yermolai, 3, and had him recite a rhyme. The rhyme was about a dagger in the ribs and he ticked the boy's side until he burst into laughter.
Always stern or brooding—when he is photographed, Solzhenitsyn, in private smiles easily and is solicitous of visitors.
His physical presence is imposing: A chestnut-haired, Lincolnque beard wreaths his face, and he has the barechested physique of a bricklayer, which he used to be in a Leningrad prison camp.
Born Dec. 11, 1918, in the northern Caucasus town of Kislovodsk, Solzhenitsyn was an ardent Communist in his youth. But he began to have doubts about the ideology and the system during the Stalin purges of the 1930s.

His troubles with the regime began during World War II.
When the war started, Solzhenitsyn first served as a driver of horse-drawn vehicles but later transferred to an artillery company with which he fought on the front line for three years.
He was a captain when arrested in February 1945. The arrest came after several days of disrespectful remarks about the late Russian Dictator Josef V. Stalin in some of his letters.
He served in several correctional work camps and prisons, all the while gathering detail which became familiar to readers in "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich" and "The First Circle."

In 1953, he began three years in internal exile. He developed a cancerous tumor and almost died but was cured a year later by a clinic in Tashkent. The experience provided material for his "Cancer Ward."
In exile, Solzhenitsyn wrote secretly. Rehabilitated after Stalin's death, Solzhenitsyn, at the age of 42, decided to emerge. He offered "One Day" to Alexander Tyarodovskiy, the liberal editor of Novy Mir magazine. With then-Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's approval, the magazine published the work.
Several novellas followed but within two years, the political climate changed and he was out of favor. The KGB secret police hounded him and confiscated some of his manuscripts. "First Circle" and "Cancer Ward" were published abroad.
In 1962 he was expelled from the writers union. A year later he was awarded the Nobel Prize. He did not go to Stockholm to accept it, fearing he would not be permitted to return.

"August 1914" the first part of a three-part history of World War I, was published in the West in 1972.
"The Gulag Archipelago, 1918-1956," Solzhenitsyn's account of terror in the Stalinist prison camps, was published in Paris Dec. 28. It prompted a six-week press campaign which culminated with Tuesday's arrest.
"No one can prevent the truth from spreading, and to advance it I am ready to accept even death," he told the writers union in 1967.

In a rare interview last summer, the bearded author told Western newsmen that he had received death threats and said the KGB was responsible.
He promised that his death would not stop his works and that his "literary testament" would then automatically go into effect. His plans changed when the KGB confiscated a master copy of "Gulag" from a Leningrad woman last fall. She later committed suicide.
He then decided to go ahead with immediate publication of the work.
In his last interview with Western newsmen three weeks ago, Solzhenitsyn said: "My family and I are ready for anything. I have fulfilled my duty to those who have died and this gives me calm and relief."
Solzhenitsyn won a lengthy legal battle last year to divorce his first wife, Natalya. He then married the mother of his three sons, also named Natalya. His first marriage produced two children.

Friends, co-workers salute retiring newsmen

Editor, Times-News:
For some of us words, though we deal in them, come hard.
But... with the leaving of Gus Kelker, a long time newsmen and friend, we are pleased to write a few words.
Any school child knows the trite but accurate "The pen is mightier than the sword." And over the years many of us in the business have seen those who use the pen to make a living as villains more so than those who did and still use the sword.

But among us some have taken pen or typewriter and made it a means of creating joy and information.
One among us who is not interested in finding that one scandal that will make the headlines, Gus Kelker, in all the years we have worked with him, has shown that "kill as a writer that makes you feel that only good is in this world. Never once has "Spectator," as some call him, stooped to the level of journalism that some of our kind have.
We in the "back shop" do at this time remind all that the "retirement" of Gus from the newspaper ends an era that never again will come. That era where the old woman down the street would call the newspaper to tell Gus about her neighbor's rose garden and know that Gus would be there to take pictures and paint an accurate and interesting picture of our interesting neighbors.

To Gus our past history was as if living twice. He will long be remembered as the historian of the Magic Valley. We regret his decision to leave and hope him well in any venture he may take.
We know that only good and kindness can come from the pen of our friend and co-worker, Gus Kelker.

Thermal story draws comment

Editor, Times-News:
The Times-News edition of Feb. 4, 1974, carried an article entitled "Expert cites Gem energy gold mine."
Dr. Jay Kunze of Aerojet Nuclear Co., Idaho Falls, was quoted as saying "the methods of harnessing underground energy (geothermal) are not all that safe — I don't know how we are going to do it and make it safe."
I think this needs some clarification. Since all of the facets involving the geothermal resources and methods of development are not generally understood by the public it is understandable that general statements concerning it can be easily misunderstood.
The only aspect of using geothermal waters of 300 to 350 degrees Fahrenheit for producing power that might be construed as not being safe would be the possible contamination of underground aquifers that are used for irrigation as in the Raft River Valley.
Adequate technology and mechanical means are readily available to prevent such contamination once the location and nature of the aquifers are determined. That's the reason for the extensive exploration and research that the Raft River project calls for.
Another point that could have been a typographical error was that "one square mile in the Raft River area could produce 110 megawatts of electricity for 10 years, after which the underground water would drop in temperature to a non-productive level."
It should have been at least 100 years.
The two flowing wells in Raft River have maintained a boiling temperature for at least 50 years.

MD offers election view

Editor, Times-News:
Two thousand three hundred and thirty-two yesterday defeated the Magic Valley Medical Hospital bond issue.
As one who is daily reminded of the urgency of the hospital's needs I am very disappointed.
We might want to change the many "yes" voters who did not vote. But the fact remains that 2332 voters felt strongly enough to make the trip to the polls to cast a negative vote.
The hospital is a service institution. It cannot close its doors because it has been denied its expansion program. Services will have to be curtailed. Some patients will suffer, at the least, considerable inconvenience.
The hospital employs must continue putting in considerably more than a day's work trying to make our facility do things for which it was never designed.
The welfare of our community hospital is therefore not a "yes or no" proposition. The question of a bond issue must of necessity be raised again.
The proponents of the bond issue stated the reasons for their position very clearly. I feel that all of the concerned citizens of Magic Valley now want to know the reasons for the "no" vote. It certainly cannot be simply a matter of cost.
The average voter pays tens to hundreds of dollars yearly for health insurance. He certainly cannot be objecting to the twelve dollars or so which it will cost to insure a facility to deliver the quality of care for which he has already paid.

It is also hard to believe that he prefers to leave home for such services as respiratory therapy and specialized surgery. I doubt that he is willing to settle for second rate medical care. He must therefore have objections to the proposed modernization plan which have not yet been voiced.
He has proved that he is a part of a large minority to whom we must listen. It is his money, as well as our own, which we are proposed to spend.
Your county commissioners, Mr. Rosenbaum, Dr. Katz, Dr. Carle, the Concerned Citizens' committee and many others have worked many hours for the proposal just defeated. Their death would have been a matter of public record for many weeks.
The "no" voters have now exercised their voting privilege. As with any privilege, an obligation is implied. They now have an obligation to their family and friends who must now live with increasingly curtailed medical services. I submit that it is now time to heal these voters.
A new request for funds to improve your hospital is inevitable. Your views should be available for consideration so that the next proposal put forth can have the backing of all of the concerned citizens of Magic Valley.

Benefit changes sought

Editor, Times-News:
As a recently widowed woman, I am picking up my campaign to try to get the men in my family to take the lion on the rule in the Social Security law that prevents a disabled person from having immediate payments from his money.
In our case we were able to handle it by being very careful financially, but I have seen the time that those 7 months would have been a terrible trial. We would have been on the mercy of relatives to have helped us.
No help from welfare — they say, after all, you are going to get this money — what does one live on, me and the kids?
If the Social Security Administration can't take the word of three reputable physicians that a man with inoperable cancer, damaged by radical cobalt treatment, is not in a condition to support himself and his family — does this make any sense at all?
Also, why no retroactive clause on all these months? My husband got his first check of $255 last July and his last came the day after he died, February 2. You figure it — he certainly benefited from our great system, didn't he?

Also, he died knowing that under the law many months must pass before I can benefit from any of his hard-earned benefits. My age, 43, my health, not robust; a history of serious illness.
You know what chances I have of getting work that will allow me to even live. I did what most good mothers feel they should, stayed home to raise our daughter, and no regrets, but I have been out of the job market many years.
Now, I presented this problem to Sen. Mark Hatfield while living in Salem, Ore., to move for your daughter's health. We have been residents of Idaho for over 20 years. He said, "I have a bill on my desk to make needed changes and agreed with me that the law was completely wrong."
Have you ever heard this brought before the Senate? Not I!
Please show us that there is some feeling for the small people. We, that have lived most of our lives saving, carefully, to be independent of help — most of the time on what is now called "poverty level" income.

Higher game fees; for what?

Editor, Times-News:
I am writing in regard to the request made for higher fees for licenses and tags for hunting and fishing.
I would like to know what the Idaho Fish and Game is planning to use it for.
Are they planning to feed the starving deer and elk in the Soldier Mountain game areas? If they aren't we really won't need any licenses or tags at all because there won't be any game to hunt or tag.
We've had more than 100 years to survive on hay or other roughtage. Why do they come to the farmers' haystacks where they are wantonly slain by packs of useless dogs?

Also, I presented this problem to Sen. Mark Hatfield while living in Salem, Ore., to move for your daughter's health. We have been residents of Idaho for over 20 years. He said, "I have a bill on my desk to make needed changes and agreed with me that the law was completely wrong."

How come Wyoming and other states can afford to feed and take care of their game animals and Idaho can't with all its increasing game fees for year to year?
Between the game department and these so-called sportsmen who are not content to kill their own deer but buy them by the bush, every one and return again and again bringing out game, there just isn't much chance for our wild game in Idaho to survive.
I'm beginning to wonder if we don't need some more money for the expensive parties we have and to help with the needs of the wild animals.
MRS. BERNICE WALKER

It is true that both Idaho Power Co. and Utah Power and Light Co. have taken the position, and development costs are too risky for them to burden their rate payers with.
That is why we have asked the Atomic Energy Commission to assist us as part of their energy research program and when the technology and methods of production have been proved, then the knowledge will be available to all segments of industry and the many areas of hot water occurrences can be harnessed to provide us with clean energy for many years to come.

Banished author signs 'Gulag' copy with Russian tragedy

MOSCOW (UPI)—The drama of "The Gulag Archipelago" began six months ago with a tragedy that could have been taken straight from its pages.
A woman named Yelizaveta Voronyanskaya had been given a manuscript copy of the book for safekeeping in Leningrad.
Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn said she was picked up by the KGB (secret police) and interrogated around the clock for five days.
After 120 hours without sleep and subjected to brutal threats, Solzhenitsyn said, she revealed the whereabouts of the manuscript.
Then she went home and hanged herself in remorse.
Solzhenitsyn already had spirited another copy of the manuscript but did not intend to publish until after his death.
His foremost concern was to protect his sources—the more than 200 prisoners and others who had volunteered him information about the underworld run by Gulag—an acronym for the state administration of labor camps.
But once the book was in KGB hands, the need for further secrecy disappeared.

After careful thought, Solzhenitsyn sent word abroad that he wanted the first two of the books seven volumes published in Russian first, then in other languages.
His aim apparently was to establish the primacy of his work, since the Gulag has been known to plant distorted versions of Russian dissident works in the hands of Western publishers.
Within little more than four months the book was published in Paris by the YMCA press, a small company that specializes in Russian works.
The one-page volume, deliberately printed on thin paper to make it easier to smuggle into Russia, went on sale Dec. 28.
It was just before the big New Year's celebration in the Soviet Union.
No sooner had the celebrating died down, on Jan. 2, than the Soviet media unleashed its attack against Solzhenitsyn.
The Tass news agency opened the barrage by saying the book had no literary merit, and was a New Year's gift to the enemies of the Soviet Union.

The Soviet press campaigners skirted around the contents of the book, but described Solzhenitsyn as a pro-fascist, anti-Soviet "traitor."
Even though few if any had seen the book, newspaper readers wrote to revile the Nobel laureate. Some suggested he be deported.
In his book, Solzhenitsyn raised questions which had only been whispered in restricted circles before and which would entail the rewriting of official Soviet history if accepted.
Solzhenitsyn said delays of KGB agents kept his telephone ringing from dawn to midnight with everything from obscenities to death threats.
On Jan. 18, Solzhenitsyn struck back. He said the press here had distorted the contents of his book in order to turn his countrymen against him.
"Cite me the pages, you liars," he thundered.
Solzhenitsyn said his anti-fascist "dared" to split in the closed eyes of the dead by suggesting he wrote "Gulag" for hard currency. The price was being kept low to make sure the book is within reach of all, he said, and any profits would go to the families of labor camp victims.
At the turn of the month, the press campaign tailed off. Solzhenitsyn predicted the KGB would start forcing the reopening of ex-prisoners who had volunteered information for the book.
He said the campaign against him would continue because the Soviet elite has "an animal fear of exposure."
On Feb. 8, a policeman knocked on the door of Solzhenitsyn's apartment with a summons to appear before a state prosecutor which his wife refused to sign.

The summons came back on Monday and the author rejected it with a written statement telling authorities to "learn how to fulfill the law before expecting citizens to obey it."
Solzhenitsyn failed to appear before the prosecutor Tuesday morning. A few hours later seven policemen muscled into the apartment and took Solzhenitsyn away with what his wife described as a considerable degree of violence.
Almost a day later he was in West Germany, stripped of his Soviet citizenship.

Time artificial problem

Editor, Times-News:
Now, we have daylight saving time, and everyone is making big fuss about time. Some want DST and others don't.
Time is money, the saying says, others are doing time. Some have all the time in the world, others don't have time for anything.
Some say it takes time; others can't wait. Some people waste time, so others say it used to be considered a waste to relax and enjoy yourself.
Now we are advised by those in the knowledge bracket to do it: Speed takes less time, now we are advised to slow down.
Time, time, time, it is an artificial thing. We just as well say time is marked by so many cigar butts. Animals have a total disregard for time and we envy...
I once knew a farmer who would not hire a man who had a big watch, a big hat and a pair of gaudy gloves. He said he wasted time when he should be working. His theory was if the man was looking at his watch, he was chasing his hat or shaking the leaves and dirt out of his shoes.
Back again to DST — the farmer doesn't need it, ask any irrigator. I ask a teacher friend of mine, "Why don't you have the students come to school earlier instead of changing the time?"
They think that it is terrible, but move the clock ahead and everything is OK."

I have a great admiration for the Indian race. Here is what one was supposed to have said concerning white man's time.
"White man much crazy, lookum watch to see when go to bed. Setum clock to makum get up. Lookum watch to see when hungry. Lookum to see when tired. White man much crazy."
"Indian go to bed when sleepy, get up when rested, eat when hungry, lay down when tired. White man much crazy."
The Indian lived for thousands of years on this continent without time manipulation. While man has lived here only a few hundred. Think about it manipulators, for many it is a painful process.

Viet cabinet resigns; Thieu ponders shakeup

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam's 25-member cabinet resigned Saturday in the wake of economic difficulties and widespread government corruption.

President Nguyen Van Thieu accepted the resignation of the ministers and vice-ministers, asking them to remain as caretakers — and requested Prime Minister Tran Thien Kiem to stay at his post to form a new cabinet.

An official communique from Thieu's press office said today that the president wanted that the cabinet be reorganized to "reshape the structure and personnel of the cabinet in order to cope with the situation and national requirements."

One of the main reasons for the mass resignation could well have been the government corruption coming at a time of inflation and growing unemployment.

Thieu fired his minister for veteran affairs, retired Maj. Gen. Pham Van Dong, Friday for organizing a huge gambling system at his own home involving wealthy merchants and army officers who spent thousands of dollars each night.

After Dong was fired, four high-ranking police officers responsible for two of Saigon's 11 precincts were arrested and scores of their subordinates were put under investigation. The crackdown came only a week after the government uncovered a black market ring which smuggled into the country hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of expensive electronic equipment, wines and cosmetics. The ring was said to be headed by high army officers.

Thieu said in his message to the population on the eve of the Tet Lunar New Year Jan. 23 that he was determined to consolidate the national security, increase economic production, reform the administrative machinery and cleanse society.

Resigns

HIGHEST ranking Spanish American in the Nixon administration Romania Acosta Banuelos, resigned Friday as treasurer of the U.S. Mrs. Banuelos is the sixth woman to hold the post. She had been treasurer about three years.

Strike moves rapped

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gov. Milton J. Shapp of Pennsylvania said Saturday the isolation of the White House led the administration to act slowly in solving the trucker's strike — which he said barely averted mental law.

Shapp, a Democrat, also said that the administration was dragging its feet once an agreement was reached.

"Not once prior to the strike or during my stay in Washington was it apparent to me that either the President or his top aides were fully aware of the true dimensions of the truckers' strike," he said. "Nor was it apparent that they were willing to take the bold action needed to bring the strike to an end."

Shapp said that "openness" characterized the Kennedy and Johnson administrations but in his attempt to see President Nixon, "I saw the exact opposite — isolation, inaccessibility and an unwillingness on the part of the President to come to grips with reality."

Red gunners shell city again, kill 5

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Communist gunners pumpeled more than 60 artillery rounds into Phnom Penh Saturday, killing at least five persons and wounding 47 others.

Four of the rounds exploded at a playground in the Ponhea Hok primary school near the U.S. embassy, killing a child.

The rest of the casualties came in the shelling of the sprawling Chbar Ampou market, southeast of the United Nations bridge leading into the main section of the city.

Cambodian military sources said the barrage was coordinated with infiltration of a North Vietnamese commando battalion as an apparent prelude to an attempt to destroy the bridge and a large electric power plant.

The artillery attack, utilizing captured U.S.-made 105mm artillery, came five days after a barrage on the city killed 168 persons, wounded 190 others and destroyed more than 1,000 homes.

America's top-ranking diplomat in Cambodia, Charge D'Affairs Thomas O. Enders, and other U.S. embassy officials were attending a ceremony near the area hit in Monday's attack to contribute aid to the homeless when the bombardment hit.

Campaign leaders on trial

NEW YORK (UPI) — John N. Mitchell and Maurice J. Stans, the first former cabinet officers indicted in 50 years, go on trial Tuesday on conspiracy, obstructing justice and perjury charges.

President Nixon's chief Watergate accuser, John W. Dean III, is expected to testify against them.

Pinnal defense motions for another delay or a change of location were denied Friday by Irish U.S. District Judge Lee Goffland.

Barring an unforeseen development, the trial of the two men who headed Nixon's reelection campaign in 1972 will begin in a small court room on the ninth floor of the gray, granite building on Foley Square.

Mitchell, 60, a former Attorney General in the Nixon Administration, and Stans, 65, former commerce secretary, are accused of trying to influence a major federal investigation of millionaire financier Robert L. Vesco. The indictment filed last May alleged the defendants attempted to get favorable treatment for Vesco in exchange for his secret $200,000 cash contribution to the Nixon reelection campaign.

Alex hunts Swiss home

ZURICH (UPI) — Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn left the seclusion of a suburban Zurich apartment Saturday for a business meeting and a trip to see the movie version of his book, "The First Circle."

The dissident author, in his fourth day of exile from the Soviet Union, was reported to be looking for a home in Switzerland in anticipation of being joined by his family.

Solzhenitsyn, accompanied by the wife of his Zurich lawyer, Fritz Heeb, the Heeb's 30-year-old son, and his Paris publisher, took a streetcar to the Rex cinema on the bustling Bahnhofstrasse in central Zurich.

The party took balcony seats to watch "The First Circle," Solzhenitsyn's chronicle of Russian prison camps—in English with German and French subtitles.

Top labor hierarchy convenes

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Organized labor's top hierarchy convenes Monday for its annual winter meeting, with spiraling prices, rising unemployment and impeachment of President Nixon the top items on the agenda.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council headed by 79-year-old George Meany, will meet for more than a week making plans for help for their causes and programs from the Nixon administration and instead are appealing to Congress for help.

First off, they're urging Congress to impeach Nixon for his part in the Watergate scandal and its coverup. The AFL-CIO launched its impeachment drive last November and expects to put it into high gear if and when the House Judiciary Committee returns a bill of impeachment against the President.

While planning to lobby members of the House to impeach Nixon, a spokesman for the AFL-CIO said it would keep hands off the Senate when it considers whether to convict Nixon. To lobby senators would be like trying to tamper with a jury, he said.

Fluoride in some area water good, bad

Dr. Stephen Lincoln, a Twin Falls dentist and city councilman, estimated that he has treated "8 to 10 people" during the past year with "objectionable" levels of fluoride in the 100 to 200 people came in with "obvious fluorosis that wasn't objectionable," Lincoln said.

Fluorosis "softens and stains" tooth enamel rather than hardening it under optimum fluoride conditions, according to Lincoln. The affliction, which becomes apparent when permanent teeth start coming in at about age six produces "mottled" teeth (mottle-like discoloration ranging from green to greenish-brown) and leads to "roughened, irregular" enamel surfaces.

A person with advanced fluorosis is more susceptible to tooth decay and "will probably lose his teeth early in life unless drastic dental procedures are undertaken," Lincoln said.

The Twin-Falls dentist said most of his fluorosis cases "have ... come from the Oakley, Buhl, Castleford and ... Hollister areas."

"You see it in rural families. They just have never had their wells checked," Lincoln said.

Private, rural wells are probably the source of much of the fluorosis, according to experts. "I'm pretty sure that you'll find that, in the majority of cases, it would be private wells," said Jeff Pearlman, a specialist in the Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS).

Dr. Thomas Bruck, chief of DECS' Dental Health Section, agreed. "I'd assume that much of the fluorosis comes from deep, private wells," he said.

The advantages of natural fluoride are "far greater" than the disadvantages, according to Bruck. But, in the same interview, he said "maybe 100 percent" of the area population has "moderate" fluorosis.

Many communities in the nation have artificially fluoridated water supplies to gain the decay-preventive benefits.

But the situation is reversed in some areas of Twin Falls and Cassia Counties; in fact, in a region of the state generally south of the Snake River and west of Burley, according to Bruck.

Some cities in the area either have defluoridated their water or should do so, Bruck said. Defluoridation is usually accomplished by blending water supplies to achieve a lower fluoride level.

Bruneau, in Owyhee County, has a staggering amount of fluoride in its drinking water. For the past three years, the fluoride level has averaged 11.4 ppm.

The nearby community of Grand View also has a high average level — 2.47 ppm.

Speaking of the Bruneau problem, Pearlman said, "I've seen some of the prettiest girls there until they smiled. It's a fact of life down there. They just don't worry about it."

C. M. Lanting, Hollister, takes periodic samples of that community's water supply for analysis.

"I do know that we have an excess of fluoride," he said. "There has been some mottling of teeth but none of the parents have objected."

Stations gain penny markup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Energy Office acted Saturday to end service station shutdowns by giving most dealers a penny per gallon markup in the price of gasoline.

An FEO official said the action should end shutdown threats scattered from North Carolina to Washington State by giving owners higher profits.

The penny markup in the retail price of gasoline will apply to all stations receiving less than 85 per cent of their 1972 fuel supplies, according to deputy energy chief John C. Sawhill. He said these stations numbered well over half of all dealers.

The markup, effective March 1, will be in addition to "pass through" to consumers of the higher wholesale costs of gasoline.

"This penny increase for retail dealers is designed to meet increased dealer operat-

SV chamber backs state trails net

SUN VALLEY — The Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce has backed proposed legislation to establish a state trails system for non-motorized travel.

On Thursday, recreation and environment chairman Gilbert Farr said the bill would establish a committee to assist obtaining trail right of way in multiple ownership areas and to possibly start a north-to-south connection of existing trail sections.

Farr said federal funds were available for the establishment of trails.

In other action: — The chamber voted to back spraying of trees to save them from the current tussock moth infestation. Farr said the infestation presently affects about 1,200 acres of Douglas fir trees in Idaho, with some of the acreage located on Bureau of Land Management land east of Halley and Bellevue.

Farr said public comments should be directed to the Northwest Forest Pest Action Council, Oregon, or the US Forest Service regional director in Portland, Ore., by Feb. 19.

— Member William Brand, who serves as Ketchum mayor and fire chief, requested suggestions from members to boost the present fund drive for the Ketchum-Sun Valley ambulance service. Brand said about $8,000 had been raised toward a goal of $22,000 to $23,000.

— Member Billie Thompson agreed to request the Sawtooth Board of Realtors to look into a comment by member James McDonald that Joe Sorenson had not received a deed for land in Copper Basin, which Sorenson had purchased for $10,000 at a "Fund-A-Bus" auction.

— Executive director Lloyd Curtis reported the Ketchum-Sun Valley Transit System had presently had in excess of 24,237 riders this season. He said a total of over 40,000 riders is anticipated for the season, compared to 33,000 last year.

Curtis also said he had written a letter on behalf of the chamber, favoring passage of the first two proposed land use planning bills.

— President Ed Plikerton read a letter from a Washington State University professor, expressing appreciation to Dr. Newell Wood, Ketchum, for giving the professor emergency dental care on a Sunday evening.

— Aromatic bitters is a blend of tropical herbs and spices that can be used as a seasoning and flavoring agent for food as well as beverages.

Raps Nixon

SILENCE by President Nixon on expulsion of Russian writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn was denounced Saturday by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash.

"I cannot allow the silence of the president to be understood as representing the sentiments of the American people. It does not," he said.

Scott calls Wallace key

HERSHEY, Pa. (UPI) — Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott said Saturday Alabama Gov. George Wallace could be on the 1976 national Democratic ticket or be a powerbroker in naming it.

Scott, Pennsylvania's senior Republican senator, keynoted the state GOP's candidate slating session here with an analysis of how Wallace could obscure words of the Democrat party.

Moslem rebel force battles Filipinos

MANILA (UPI) — Philippine army engineers were trying Saturday to rebuild the rebel capital of beleaguered Jolo Island while fighting with Moslem rebels continued seven miles from the town.

Gen. Juan Ponce-Enrile said the government was in full control of the eight towns on the island 650 miles south of Manila after 10 days of fighting. Official casualties were placed in the hundreds but unofficial reports said thousands were feared killed in the fighting.

Enrile told a news conference army engineers were airlifted to Jolo earlier this week to restore power and water services and rebuild residents' homes after the rebels burned more than half of the capital to cover their retreat last week.

Casualties in 10 days of fighting in Jolo reached more than 300, according to official military sources, with the rebels suffering 250 killed.

Army casualties were put at 25, while at least 32 civilians were killed.

M-1 rifle maker dies

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — John C. Garand, the famed designer of the M-1, M-14 and M-16 rifle, died at 86 Saturday at the age of 86.

Garand died at Wesson Memorial Hospital from chronic pulmonary edema, his doctor said.

In 1934, he patented his rifle and presented his invention to the U. S. government royalty-free. The now famous "Garand" was accepted by the Army in 1936 and the Marine Corps in 1940, after meeting the Army's standards of a light, simple and strong firearm.

Big reward

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — A mechanist presented an $25,000 reward 20 seconds before it went through a rock crusher at the De Beers Kimberley Mines last October and will get a $15,000 reward, a company spokesman disclosed Saturday.

The diamond, still unnamed, ranks among the 50 most valuable jewels in the world, the spokesman said.

Seoul denies spying

SEOUL (UPI)—South Korea Saturday denied North Korea's claim that two South Korean fishing boats attacked by North Korean gunboats were spy ships, and accused the Communists of planning the attack to destroy the divided peninsula's fragile peace.

Chang Key-woon, acting co-chairman of the South-North Coordinating committee, sent a formal protest note to North Korea in response to a radio broadcast of the North Korean charge from the northern capital of Pyongyang.

"I cannot but believe that your piratic act was planned well in advance to destroy the peace so far maintained on the Korean peninsula since the announcement of the July 4, 1972, joint communique (by South and North Korea) renouncing hostilities," Chang said.

A mass rally of more than 100,000 persons was held in the port city of Incheon to protest the attack on the fishing boats.

Senators satisfied

BOISE (UPI)—Senate Majority Leader Phil Batt, R-Wilder, told the Senate Saturday although legislative progress lately has been a little slow, legislators shouldn't be discouraged because we've been working hard and the results will show.

Taking note that this was the 34th legislative day, Batt said "before 34 more pass, we should have a good program enacted which will be acceptable to our constituents."

The dean of the Senate, Sen. Arthur Murphy, D-Mullan, also said he was pleased with the way the session was progressing.

He added that if the legislature continues with annual sessions "in another session or two we will be able to get out in 50 days."

Valley votes

Times-News Capitol Bureau
BOISE—Here is the Friday roll call of Magic Valley legislators on House Bill 434, which would require a public referendum vote in 1974 on the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution. The bill passed 44-32.

Gem Senate given ERA vote measure

Rep. Ralph Gines, R-Nampa, said the bill is to find out how the public "really" feels on the controversial amendment proposed for the U. S. Constitution.

He said it will cost only $2,500 to put it on the ballot and said the vote this fall would settle the question once and for all. ERA has come up at three successive sessions of the Idaho Legislature—first when the lawmakers voted to ratify the amendment in 1972 and the last two sessions when some legislators tried to undo that ratification.

Rep. John Reardon, D-Boise, said ERA is an "emotional cloud that blankets this House." He said it will continue to hang over the legislature until the people have a chance to speak.

Then Rep. Peggy Bunting, R-Boise, who led a move in committee of the whole Thursday to kill the bill by stripping its enacting clause, switched sides on the issue and said she would vote for the bill.

Her vote made the difference in its passage.

"With the feeling of the people being as strong as this is," she said, "I'm going to support putting this issue on the ballot."

She indicated she changed her mind because of the way her move earlier to kill the bill was defeated.

Rep. Norma Dohler, D-Moscow, called the advisory referendum an improper use of taxpayers' money to get an advisory vote of the people on an act that already was done.

She cited a landmark Ohio legal case on the subject.

"I think this is a waste of time and money," Mrs. Dohler said.

House kindergarten debate due Monday

(Times-News Capitol Bureau)
BOISE—The House Education Committee will take the wraps off the 1974 kindergarten debate Monday. Committee members are expected to look at three separate kindergarten proposals at their meeting.

They are sponsored by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, the Unified Education Council and Rep. Vernon Ravencroft, R-Tule. Kindergarten have been major topics of debate in the legislature for the last several years. The Senate finally approved a kindergarten program in 1973, but the House killed that and different pre-school programs. This year, the Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee led it.

Andrus' proposal would establish kindergarten programs for only one year, and would appropriate $2 million in state funds to finance the classes. Local school districts would have the option of starting programs with voter elections permissible to guide the local board's decision. The Andrus proposal as drafted does not authorize local school districts to levy taxes to support the program.

Department of Education spokesmen point out, however, that districts are able to get voter consent to levy additional taxes to support the program.

funds for kindergarten programs: Buhl and Boise currently levy for their kindergarten programs. The Unified Education Council proposal is identical to a kindergarten bill that was rejected in the House in 1972. It is nearly identical to the one being backed by Andrus, except it gives local school districts authority to levy one and a half mills to support the kindergarten program. The UEC proposal also does not expire at the end of one year.

Ravencroft's proposal, the Primary Grade and Preschool Program—Enrichment—Act of 1974, makes available $1 million in state funds, and authorizes a two-mill levy on the local level, but does not require the money be used for kindergartens.

Money received under the act may be used for several purposes, including: — Kindergarten classes conducted by the local district.

— Kindergarten classes contracted for by the district but provided by private, non-sectarian groups.

Improvement of instructional programs in the first three elementary grades. — Improvement of instructional programs at any level in school districts with an average daily attendance of less than 350.

The legislation also requires a local election before the district can levy any of the two mills authorized by the law, with majority approval of the levy required for it to become permissible.

Ravencroft's proposal also distributes the state funds on the basis of a district's existing first grade average daily attendance.

CAA future said uncertain

By CRICKET BIRD
Twin Falls News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Many programs sponsored by Community Action Agency may be cancelled if Congress allows the Economic Opportunity Act to lapse, according to Bob Russell, CAA director.

The act terminates June 30, and completes the phase-out by the Nixon administration of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO).

No funds have been requested in President Nixon's budget for OEO. Some programs that were funded under OEO in the past have been transferred to other funding agencies, Russell said.

For example, Senior Opportunity Act for Service (SOS) was originally funded by OEO. Now it receives its support under the Elder Americans Act.

Other programs haven't been received alternate funding, however.

"One program we're real concerned about is Head Start and what happens if OEO lapses. We're not sure if its covered under current HEW legislation," Russell said.

Russell said he had made inquiries through the office of Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, about the status of CAA programs and through other organizations such as the Office of Child Development and the state office for the OEO.

"Congress is now considering a three year extension of the act-with amendments-to cover the energy crisis," Russell said.

Chances for approval of the extension are "much better now than they were last year," according to Russell, "partly because of the energy crisis, and partly because there are still a lot of people around that are in worse shape than they were ten years ago," due to inflation.

Russell said, "There's a real feeling that this energy crisis is going to hurt low-income people in particular . . . we

Suit filed

TWIN FALLS — A Buhl plumbing contractor has filed suit in Fifth District Court against NAN Inc. for materials and labor provided on homes the firm built in the Kingsgate subdivision.

Cecil E. Westover, operator of Westover Plumbing Co., sued NAN and other parties seeking payment of $2,312.50 for materials and services allegedly provided last fall on homes being built in the Twin Falls subdivision.

Four youths to appear Monday

TWIN FALLS — An 18-year-old Twin Falls youth and three juvenile companions are scheduled to appear in Magistrate Court Monday in connection with burglary charges.

Sheriff Paul Corder said Michael Kenneth Warren, 18, was in custody Saturday in the county jail, charged with first degree burglary. Three juvenile boys were to be petitioned into court on similar charges.

Corder said all four were apprehended by Boise city officers and returned Friday to

Twin Falls by Twin Falls Police chief of detectives, Capt. Tim Qualls.

Corder said they are charged with burglarizing a lumber company building in Filer and Denny's Market on Addison Avenue West in Twin Falls. He said Twin Falls city officers are also investigating several other burglaries in connection with the arrests.

Corder said cooperation between the Filer, Twin Falls and Boise city officers and the Twin Falls county officers resulted in the arrests.

Break-in probed

TWIN FALLS — Police are investigating a break-in at Immanuel Lutheran School, at 272 Shoup Ave. W.

According to reports the school was forcibly entered during the night Thursday and a meal of bread and wafers was prepared by the burglars in the school kitchen.

In addition to the cost of missing food, a clock worth about $4.50 was stolen, school officials told police.

Problems aired on emergencies

TWIN FALLS — Lack of understanding by the families of servicemen as to what constitutes an "emergency," is a major problem of the American Red Cross, the Twin Falls unit directors were told at a board meeting at the Holiday Inn.

Kenneth Carmichael, Mountain Home, presently on service to military personnel at Mountain Home Air Force Base and recently returned from tours of duty in Vietnam and Germany, said a death or serious illness of an immediate family member will result in efforts by the Red Cross to arrange emergency leave and transportation back to the US for an overseas military person.

Immediate family members are considered a wife, child, parents, brother or sister, but grandparents or in-laws are not in the category for emergency leave.

Kent Taylor, Twin Falls, reported most of the area chairmen have been recruited for the March membership campaign, with additional volunteer workers needed in the Hansen area.

Bob Wright, board chairman, expressed appreciation to Betty Stewart, chairman, and the Oldtime Fiddlers for the benefit jamboree held in January.

Janitors watched

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls janitors were well watched Thursday night.

Within the space of an hour early this morning Twin Falls police investigated three calls of possible break-ins at Twin Falls businesses.

The first call came at 3:25 a.m. A man told police he had just seen someone wearing a motorcycle helmet go into the office on the new car lot at Willis Motor Co. The helmet wearer turned out to be the janitor.

At 3:45 a.m. police received a call that the "girls on the third floor of the hospital could see people running around in the doctors' offices behind the hospital." The people running around turned out to be janitors!

At 4 a.m. a third call came in to police. This time that two suspicious looking men pulled up in front of JB's Big Boy restaurant. Investigating police once again encountered janitors.

Aides to review annexation plan

TWIN FALLS — City Council members of Twin Falls will reconsider an annexation request Tuesday night from Arlie White for property on Eastland Drive at the east edge of the city limits.

White submitted a request nearly a year ago for city water and sewer services for his property just south of the K mart store. He plans to build a mobile home court. City Attorney Charles Bruntzsch advised the city council last week they could not deny water and sewer services to White to avoid his building the mobile court if they continued to grant such services to other out-of-city properties.

A request for out-of-city services from Sun Laker who purchased the former Hedenstab property northwest of Twin Falls will also be considered. He also plans a mobile home court.

City Council members will consider an ordinance to grant a conditional use for a small animal hospital in the green just west of Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

Other agenda items for the Tuesday meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the city hall include a request from Charles and Cora Vaccation of an alley, review a request for a senior citizens parking area; consider a request from James Newton for side yard adjustment and review the request to vacate Butler Street.

The council will also set fees for the swimming pools and determine the annual irrigation assessment fees as well as consider acceptance of the golf course club house lease and approval of a contract for airport engineering.

Catholic women hold party

TWIN FALLS — St. Edward's International Council of Catholic Women had a valentine party and baby shower at a meeting Thursday night.

Parish women, under the direction of Mrs. Robert Fries, International Affairs Chairwoman, donated baby items to be given to the missions. The items will be used to prepare layettes to be sent to families who are in need because of floods, earthquakes, fires, famine and other disasters.

Father Bill Dohman spoke on charismatic prayer groups. Father Lafayette presented a history of St. Valentine. Father Lafayette and Father Dohman were presented with valentine presents by Mrs. John K. Batsch, president of the IOCF.

TWIN FALLS — Kenneth Hill, Boise, legislative chairman for the Idaho Retired Teachers Association, Friday urged fourth district retired teachers to keep up with legislative information.

He addressed the district luncheon meeting in the Board Room of the Regerson Hotel Friday.

Ernie Lindgren, Twin Falls district president, conducted the meeting. Bernice Babcock introduced the speaker.

Hill gave a resume of the bills now before the Idaho Legislature pertaining to retired teachers. There were 62 members and guests attending.

Rehabilitation center elects

TWIN FALLS — New members of the Magic Valley Rehabilitation Center board of directors were announced Friday.

Pete Stover is chairman, Edith Marjorie Hoops, vice chairman, Howard Burkhardt, treasurer, and Roy Stotten, secretary.

Committee chairmen, announced by Stover at a recent board meeting, include Stotten and Judge Dan Meehl, advisory committee; Burkhardt and Morris Rob, finance; Dr. Kenneth Briggs, Harold Livingston, director, and Mrs. Oren Boone, treatment; Charles Raleigh and Judge Robert Maughan, housing; and Mrs. Boone and Mrs. Marjorie Hoops, publicity.

Livingston, who is director of the alcoholic rehabilitation facility, said the home has been operating at its full 14-bed capacity the past two to three months. In addition, two detoxification beds are under the direction of local doctors.

He said referrals come from judges, probation and parole officers as well as from physicians. Patients are from throughout Idaho.

All patients are charged $5-per day which includes board, room, group and individual therapy — "they get their money's worth," the director said.

Livingston, a retired minister, is a certified psychological and marriage counselor. He has been at the center for the past 13 months. His home is in Jerome.

"Alcohol is the No. 1 drug problem in the nation," the director said.

Senate kills Steen's remap plan

By DAVID ESPO
T-N Capitol Bureau

BOISE — The Senate Friday rejected still another reapportionment plan, killing a measure sponsored by Sen. J. Wilson Steen, R-Glenns Ferry, 15-19.

On Saturday, the Senate first revived Steen's plan, but then defeated it again, this time on a 15-18 vote.

The plan would have left Gooding County intact in District 23, but would have made changes in two Idaho legislative districts involving Ada County, and District 9, which includes parts of all of Adams, Boise, Gem and Idaho counties.

Steen said during Friday's debate this proposal was "more equitable" than others that have been presented in the Senate. He said it took into account the apparent failure of the Mountain Home Air Force Base population to rise as anticipated by the federal court which viewed the most recent reapportionment.

He also said it did not require any changes in the counties. Idaho, where the bill would have substituted its explanation about out-of-state residents in the place of redistricted boundaries.

Sen. Vernon Brassey, R-Boise, whose district includes the area of the Mountain Home Air Force Base, said the plan was a "poor one." He said there were two basic ways to reapportion the state — one on a strict population basis and the other on the philosophical plane that would tie small counties together to form districts and leave the urban areas separate.

Brassey suggested a complete reapportionment along one of those two lines, perhaps first letting the Select Committee on Executive Reorganization propose a plan.

Sen. W. Dean Abraham, R-Caldwell, objected to Brassey's thinking. He noted that some states had wide variances between population counts in their districts. Why, he asked Brassey, should Idaho be forced to live within narrow variances?

Sen. Robert Kinghorn, D-Pocatello, objected to Steen's proposal. He said he would oppose any reapportionment plan that doesn't recognize the disparity among three eastern Idaho districts, 33, 34, and 35. The district he represents, Kinghorn said, falling completely within the city limits of Pocatello, has 5,400 more people in it than the average district in the state.

Sen. Richard Egbert, D-Tetonan, said the proposal Steen had was worth passing. He appealed to the Senate to forget "partisan politics" and "gerrymandering," and approve a revamp bill.

The bill was the second one on reapportionment to fail the Senate this session. The third bill the Senate considered, which it passed, was soundly defeated in the House earlier this week.

Kidwell seeks GOP nod

BOISE (UPI) — Boise attorney Wayne Kidwell plans to "let it like it is" in his campaign for the Republican nomination for attorney general.

The former state senate majority leader said Friday "cynicism, backroom politics, and political arrogance must be purged from our political system."

He said "that's the kind of attorney general I would like to be."

MV solon raps tax proposal

T-N Capitol Bureau
BOISE — A Magic Valley representative attacked one of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' tax proposals on the House floor Friday, claiming it would have "wreak havoc" for some counties in the state.

Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, R-Tuttle, said "neither stability nor tax savings would be automatically followed" if Andrus' recommendations about the ratio of assessment were enacted by the legislature.

"In his State of the State message, Andrus called on lawmakers to 'retard the spiraling ratio of assessment. Unless you reduce the targeted mill from 20 to 15 per cent, he said, 'the assessed valuation will increase even if you cut millage and property tax increases are sure to follow.'"

But Ravenscroft said research indicated all counties in the state had already raised their rates beyond 15 per cent. To cut back now would represent a decrease in every tax base in every county of the state," he said. "These tax base losses coupled with inflation could be made up only by increasing mill levies. Neither stability nor tax savings would automatically follow."

Ravenscroft also said the counties which had already reached the 20 per cent ratio would suffer an automatic decrease in tax bases if the ratio were now ordered cut back. Camas County, he said, would suffer a $1 million base loss if the ratio were decreased as Andrus suggested.

In addition, Ravenscroft said in his speech, utilities would be major recipients of reduced taxes brought about by a move back to a 15 per cent ratio.

"The 15 per cent proposal was ill advised," the Tuttle Republican said. "There is no magic way of reducing or stabilizing taxes. This can be accomplished only by dedicated school boards, county boards, legislators, and by an informed citizenry who will attend budget hearings and insist that needless and/or unwanted services be cut from the budgets at every level from the schoolhouse to the statehouse."

Valley votes

T-N Capitol Bureau
BOISE — The call of Magic Valley senators on the reapportionment bill that failed 15-19 Friday. The bill would have left Gooding County entirely within District 23.

For the bill: Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls; John Peavey, R-Rupert; Robert Saxvik, D-Barley; J. Wilson Steen, R-Glenns Ferry; James Yost, R-Wendell.

Against the bill: Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl.

T-N Capitol Bureau
BOISE — The chairman of the Health Education and Welfare Committee said Friday he supports a minimum statewide pay scale, but current proposed legislation sets a minimum that is too high.

Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, said the state's current level of funding of schools won't permit the proposed $7,300 floor for teacher's pay. But Barker said $6,500 would be a reasonable figure instead.

The committee which Barker chairs is considering a bill to establish a statewide scale with salaries ranging from the base figure of $7,300 to a maximum of slightly over $13,300.

Barker also said he was "all for" having the members of the State Board of Education elected instead of appointed by the governor, as is now the case. A bill also pending in Barker's committee creates seven elective districts and calls for one member to be elected to the board from each district on a non-partisan ballot.

Barker said the idea of electing members from districts would make the board "more responsive to the people." He said Utah had an elective state board for public schools, and it had worked well there.

Ultimately, Barker said, an elective board would make it possible to have a superintendent of public instruction who would be appointed by the board.

The position of superintendent is constitutionally set as an elected one, but Barker said a constitutional change might meet with approval if the board were elected.

Tightening proposed

BOISE (UPI) — A state official told the House State Affairs Committee Friday he is introducing a bill to tighten up veterans' preference for state jobs and to stop promotion of "underachievers."

Director D. E. ("Skip") Chilberg of the Department of Administrative Services told the committee that at present some veterans get an unfair preference over other job seekers for state employment.

Veterans get a five-point preference in hiring and disabled veterans get a 10-point advantage. In addition, Chilberg said, the personnel commission law automatically boosts disabled veterans to the top of the register.

Info nod passes

BOISE (UPI) — The House approved 49-19 and sent to the Senate Saturday a bill allowing physicians and nurses to advertise birth control information without being guilty of a felony.

Opponents of the legislation voiced fear it would lead to widespread availability of contraceptives and advertising of birth control devices in doctors' offices.

Rep. Ralph Gines, R-Nampa, said if the bill becomes law "doctors can advertise in any way they wish." But Rep. Russell Goss, R-Idaho, said physicians' ethics prohibit advertising.

Rep. Herb Fitz, R-New Plymouth, said the issue has been before the House four times while, he said, the venereal disease rate "keeps going up and up and up."

"Shouldn't that indicate it's time we did something about it?" he asked.

Memorials passed

BOISE (UPI) — Three memorials urging Congressional action on the Occupational Safety and Health Act, restoration of train service to Idaho and assuring fuel allocation passed the Senate Friday by voice votes.

The first bill to be considered was one which would ask Congress to make the Occupational Safety and Health Act more workable or repeal it.

Without debate, the Senate adopted memorials to restore passenger train service to Southern Idaho and urging that if a fuel dealer leaves an area his fuel allocation would remain in the area he previously served.

Editorial signature given nod

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate State Affairs Committee Friday gave a do-pass recommendation to a bill requiring editorials to be signed or initialed.

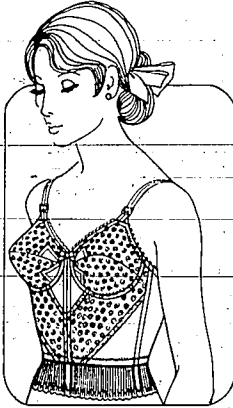

The bill was opposed by the Idaho Statesman, the Lewiston Morning Tribune and the Idaho Newspaper Association, which represents 12 newspapers.

Ice cliffs line river

ICE BANKS tower behind fishermen's boat on the Salmon River in the primitive area above Salmon Falls. The "cliffs" were pushed 15 to 18 feet high when the ice jams went out of the Middle Fork recently and moved down into the Salmon River Canyon. With the ice out of the river, steelhead fishermen took to jet boats the past weekend with one party catching 35 of the big fish. Jet boat operators were taking steelhead fishermen 50 miles or more below the end of the Salmon River Road.

Salmon steelhead run on SALMON — The jet boats are operating on the Salmon River again, hauling steelhead fishermen down river into the primitive area. Boaters taking out parties reported extremely good success the past weekends. The ice apparently flushed out of the Middle Fork and was piled 15 to 18 feet high along the banks of the main Salmon River above Salmon Falls. Normally the ice walls left as the river breaks open are four to five feet high. Bill and Norman Guth with a two-boat party caught 35 steelhead in the area from their camp to Salmon Falls while Bob Smith reported similar success with a party below the falls and to his lower camp at Lemhi Creek, some 50 miles below the end of the Salmon River Road. Bill Guth said the ice walls left along the river were so steep and high in places it was impossible to tie up a boat to top and fish. Also getting onto the river was Dave Giles who operates from the end of the road at Earth Creek. A spell of warm weather cleared out the river ice earlier than usual, allowing boaters to begin the spring steelhead season.

Union. In 1941, she received permission to leave Russia and arrived alone in America a week before Pearl Harbor.

A naturalized U.S. citizen, she rejoined her war correspondent husband in Moscow after the hostilities and left with him in 1948 when he was expelled on charges of spying on behalf of the U.S.A.

Mrs. Magidoff will describe manners; customs; food, clothes, romance, elections, the duties of citizenship and other aspects of life in two strikingly different worlds.

The dinner meeting will be at 7 p.m. Feb. 23 at the Ponderosa Inn.

Mrs. Magidoff was born in Russia and survived an early life of extreme poverty, hard work and exile to Siberia. Turkey rescinds 13-month-old ban on heroin ANKARA (UPI) — Turkey has decided to bow to demands from its unemployed poppy farmers and lift a 13-month-old heroin ban imposed at the request of the United States.

A government spokesman said Thursday Foreign Minister Turhan Gunes told U.S. Ambassador William Macomber the decision was made to ease the financial plight of Turkey's 70,000 poppy growers.

"One part of mankind cannot be driven to despair to safeguard another part," the newspaper Hurriyet quoted the foreign minister as saying.

The announcement did not say when the ban would be lifted or whether the government might reconsider its decision if the United States offered to step up compensation payments to farmers.

Turkey banned poppy growing last year after a decade of delicate negotiations with the United States. In return, Washington agreed to pay Turkish farmers more than $35 million in indemnities.

The farmers complained, however, the compensation payments were "hardly more than a lip" and pressed candidates in last October's national elections to take a stand on the issue.

During the election campaign, all of Turkey's major political parties pledged either to lift the ban entirely or find a way to cut farmers' losses.

Turkey's poppy farmers have traditionally sold their crops to international drug dealers who use the plant to make heroin and opium. The drugs have eventually found their way to markets in the United States. In addition to poppies, Turkish farmers have also raised large crops of hemp, used to manufacture hashish and marijuana.

Jerome group named

JEROME — Jerome School trustees have selected a group of Jerome residents to serve on a special committee to handle publicly for the bond election for a proposed new high school. An organizational meeting of the group will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in the Junior High audio visual room. Lyle Van Orman, chairman of the school board, said that representatives of local organizations have been invited to attend. "We need the cooperation of the entire community to promote our new high school," Van Orman said.

Gooding workshop set

WENDLELL — A weed control workshop sponsored by the Gooding County Weed Control Committee and the Gooding County Extension Service will be held Monday at the Wendell Grange Hall, beginning at 10 a.m. Lectures slated include how to calibrate a weed sprayer, how agencies, counties and district organizations participate in weed control, fumigation as a method of weed control, primary chemicals available for use, and the use of herbicides in this area and their control, and a panel of Gooding County farmers discussing "How I Control Weeds on My Farm."

Jerome man injured

JEROME — Ronnie Lee Hankins, 24, Jerome, was injured in a one car roll over six miles south and one mile east of Jerome at 1:45 a.m. Thursday. Elza Hall, Jerome County sheriff, said Hankins was taken to St. Benedict's Hospital by ambulance where he was treated and released. Hall said Hankins was travelling to Twin Falls when he failed to negotiate a curve.

Phone-hearing set

BURLEY — Two public meetings to review preliminary recommendations on the comprehensive land use plan for national resource lands in Cassia County are scheduled. Nick J. Cozakis, Bureau of Land Management district manager, said the meetings are scheduled at Burley High School auditorium on Feb. 21 and at Raft River High School in Malin on Feb. 28. Both will begin at 7 p.m. Lewis Martindale, BLM area manager, will present the recommendations; Cozakis said. The meetings are open to the public.

Land review slated

BOISE — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has set a hearing for March 21 of the petition by the Blaine County Farm Bureau for free telephone service between the Carey exchange and the Halsey, Ketchum and Sun Valley exchanges. The commission ordered the second phase of the hearing be held for the receipt of evidence from the Mountain State Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the Idaho Telephone Co. for any further evidence from the Blaine County Farm Bureau or residents of Blaine County. The meeting will begin at 9 a.m. in the Claim Jumper Room of the Holiday Inn in Ketchum.

Seminar slated

SEATTLE (UPI) — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency will hold a seminar Feb. 28 in Seattle to help explain regulations on preventing oil spills from storage and handling facilities. The oil spill regulations, calling for prevention plans from business firms and government installations involved with the storage and handling of oil, will apply to about 2,600 installations in Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Alaska.

Gas application OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has approved an application by Intercontinental Gas Co., Boise, for the issuance and sale of $8,000,000 of first mortgage bonds. Intercontinental Gas plans to place the new series of first mortgage bonds, series J, eight and seven-eighths per cent due 1994, through its investment bankers, Goldman, Sachs and Co., and Robert W. Baird and Co., Inc. The commission stated that nothing in the order or connected with the order, signed Feb. 14, shall be construed to obligate the state of Idaho to pay or guarantee in any manner whatsoever any security authorized, issued, assumed or guaranteed under the provisions of Chapter Nine, Title 81, Idaho Code.

Statement filed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Forest Service announced Saturday the filing of a draft environmental statement on a proposed big game habitat improvement program involving prescribed burning of brushfields.

The environmental quality statement involves burning of brushfields in northern Idaho during fiscal years 1974 and 1975. Purposes of the prescribed-burning-in-the-spruce-and-clearwater drainages in the Coeur d'Alene, St. Joe, Clearwater, and Nezperce National Forests are to provide forage for Rocky Mountain elk, moose, mule deer and white-tailed deer and to sustain their respective populations within the productive capabilities of the land.

Hospital course taught

BOISE (UPI) — Four separate courses held in community hospitals this week taught health personnel techniques in lifting and moving patients for personal and patient safety. The body mechanics workshops, co-sponsored by St. Luke's, St. Alphonsus, Caldwell Memorial and Holy-Brosary Hospitals in cooperation with area health education consortium, had 269 participants from throughout the Treasure Valley.

Consumer meet set

BOISE (UPI) — Reservations for the Idaho Consumer Affairs, Inc., annual meeting, Feb. 26, at Boise State College will be made by Friday, according to Allen R. Rath, president. Rath said Mrs. Hjalmar Rath, Portland, executive director of the Oregon Consumer League and a national representative on President Nixon's Consumer Council, would be the luncheon speaker. Mrs. Rath's topic will be "What is Your Future as a Consumer."

Gem chess tourney under way in TF

For the opening game Saturday, the top-rated players were set against the lower-ranked players and, as a result, most of the games were over in less than two hours. The silence of concentration which filled the rooms during the first hour soon gave way to the shuffling of feet and murmured conversations.

For the second game, winning players will be matched with winning players and losing players with other losing players. Thus, by the end of the tournament, chess skills are more evenly matched. Games stretch to the end of the time limit then, and the tension heightens.

One point is awarded for every win, one-half point for every draw and no points for every loss. The individual with the highest accumulation of points at the end of the grueling 20-hour tournament is declared the winner.

"I'd like to win," Vandenberg said. "I figure I'll have to win at least four and draw one" to take the title. In a five-game tournament "if you lose a game, you won't win," he said.

A contingent of chess buffs from Boise who came to the tournament included a mother and son team. Both Mrs. Marilyn Juds and her son, Kevin, were listed an unranked players and both lost their first games to higher rated competitors.

Kevin, 13, said it was his mother and father who had introduced him to the game. This was his second tournament, he said, and it really didn't bother him much to lose. He just played "for fun" anyway.

"Chess was 'not hard to learn,'" Kevin said, "he just kind of picked it up on his own."

Mrs. Juds was the only woman in the competition. According to another Boise player, Steve Hyals, very few women participate in chess tournaments. Chess publications show that the top-rated women players in the country were ranked lower than many of the participants in this weekend's tournament.

"Women just don't like to play," Hyals said. He liked to play chess because it was "an aggressive type game. It is the only game where there is no luck involved," he said.

Hyals said he has played as long as seven hours in one game. "After seven hours it is difficult to play anymore and the end of the game is when you want to think. When the game is over, then you have to go immediately into another," he said.

To the uninitiated, a chess tournament appears to involve little action beyond the punching of the timer and the meticulous recording of each move. But the action is there, participants say, in the minds of every player as he contemplates the next move. And the excitement of the finish is just as real as that of a downhill racer at the end of the day.

The game isn't over when the winner is announced. With each game methodically recorded on score sheets, the players then sit down to re-enact the crucial moves so next time no mistakes are made.

Idaho horse breeders rap racing tax boost

By ED MITCHELL

BURLEY — Legislation currently pending before Idaho lawmakers to increase taxation on horse racing in the state drew unanimous opposition from the Idaho Horse Breeders Association Saturday.

Members of the group agreed at a meeting there is "nothing in this bill to benefit horse breeders." The association said if the racing industry is left alone it will grow by itself.

The Idaho Horse Breeders Association is the largest such organization in Idaho involved in racing.

The association agreed the "take out" in paramutual wagering is more than adequate now to administer the racing program.

An increase in the tax on wagering will result in decreases of total money wagered, thereby hurting the whole industry, according to national racing statistics, the association said in a statement.

Racing in Idaho has had a steady yearly increase in gross of 20 per cent up to now, association officials said.

An increase in the tax (take out) would result in lower attendance at Idaho race tracks which would hurt track owners who receive most of their profit from the gate-and-concessions, the association said in its resolution opposing the proposed law.

It would also encourage illegal off-track betting, they said. In the proposed legislation, part of the increased take-out would go to pay for a one per cent increase in purses and breeders' awards. This would increase the purse for the winner at a track such as Rupert by only $5.50, the association said.

The group said this small increase would not encourage a better class of race horses to be brought to Idaho as proponents of the bill hope.

"We feel the breeder award language of the present bill is wrong. The racing commission should be placed in the position of determining how awards are to be divided or dispensed. This should be left to the breeders themselves, but monitored by the commission as a regulatory body."

This organization feels the commission is now properly funded to carry out their obligations in administration. These financial needs will be taken care of as in the past as the total money wager increases, officials said.

The group met in the Ponderosa Inn Saturday, Joe Hansen, Jerome, conducted the meeting.

Holiday

Most Magic Valley government offices and schools will close Monday in honor of George Washington's birthday anniversary but spot checks show few will remain open.

Schools will close in Burley, Twin Falls, Wendell and Jerome but will remain open in Gooding and Buhl.

Government offices at all levels will be closed in most towns, except Buhl, where city offices will remain open.

Students at the College of Southern Idaho will be given a Monday holiday.

Several towns will generally be open although insurance agents will close their doors. Offices for the telephone companies and for Idaho Power will also close.

The regular Monday refuse pickup in Wendell has been rescheduled for Tuesday. All banks will close in recognition of the first U.S. president's birthday anniversary.

Twin Falls' businesses will mark the day with a special merchandising event on Monday.

Area women's caucus formed

By SHARYN MITCHELL

BURLEY — A local chapter of the Idaho Women's Political Caucus (IWPC) is being formed in the Burley-Rupert area.

Ann Martinez, Pocatello, state coordinator of the IWPC, met Saturday with interested women. Martinez explained the "women's caucus" is a coalition of women from various backgrounds, economic levels and political affiliations who have joined together for political action.

The by-laws of the group state all women regardless of "race, color, economic status, age, national origin, religion or partisan affiliation" are encouraged to join the caucus.

The organization supports legislation and initiates changes to meet the needs and rights of women and supports candidates who declare themselves ready to fight for those rights and needs.

Yellowstone opening set

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo. (UPI) — The spring opening date for Yellowstone National Park, originally delayed one month to save fuel used in snow plowing, has now been tentatively moved up to May 25, a park spokesman said Saturday.

Opening the nation's largest park May 25 would get it ready for Memorial Day traffic, when visitation normally begins to pick up at Western Park.

Fuel-saving efforts by park officials during the winter in closing down some buildings, reducing vehicle use and lowering thermostats has caused Superintendent Jack Anderson to tentatively schedule the opening one week earlier.

Park officials had announced Dec. 6 that the traditional May 1 opening of Yellowstone would be delayed until June 1 to save an estimated 16,000 to 18,000 gallons of diesel fuel used to clear the park's roads.

Travel in the nation's oldest national park averages 50,000 to 60,000 persons during the first month normally, although the nationwide gasoline shortage could play havoc with that this year.

CSI institutes tough policy on rock concerts

By CRICKET BIRD

TWIN FALLS — A tough new policy on rock concerts has been instituted at the College of Southern Idaho as a result of problems at the Feb. 6 Fleetwood Mac concert.

The new policy forbids holding rock concerts at the gymnasium where Fleetwood Mac and other bands have played.

Any rock group must play at the Fine Arts auditorium. Tickets will be sold primarily on a reserved-seat basis with attendance restricted to CSI students and their guests, and to college-approved members of the community, according to Jack Sims, director of student activities.

The policy change is due to the difficulty of enforcing regulations — such as no smoking, drinking or drugs — in the gym.

"If we are going to have regulations, we can't use the gym; we can't control it there," Sims said.

The policy change was reviewed and approved by the student programs board and student senate, according to Sims.

Dr. James L. Taylor, CSI president, said the student senate forwarded the proposed policy to him. "I certainly will respect the recommendation of our governing body," Dr. Taylor said.

Smoking was one of the big problems at the concert. Both the gym floor and the canvas mat under the chairs had burned spots after the concert. According to students attending, some alcohol and drugs were in evidence.

Enforcement of rules is made difficult in the gym because concert-goers often sit on the floor in aisles and near the stage. Seats are not assigned on a one-to-one basis, unlike those in the Fine Arts auditorium. Police or other enforcement personnel cannot circulate and efficiently in the gym. Also, there is some thought that the auditorium encourages a more reserved audience mood.

The policy doesn't affect all concerts, only hard rock types, Sims said. Country music, softer rock and other types of groups may continue to give concerts in the gym, he said.

One exception to the rule is the rock band Lobo. The programs board contracted with that band last fall, Sims said, and cannot change the agreement now. The band will play in the gym, with no restrictions on ticket sales.

The ticket restriction requires concert goers who are not students or student guests to go to the student activities office — to receive permission to buy tickets. It is an attempt to keep out-of-town "hard-core" people from attending and causing problems, according to a member of the programs board.

Seating capacity will be reduced under the new policy. About 1,300 tickets were sold for the Fleetwood Mac concert, Sims said. The seating in the auditorium is 914.

One program board member predicted many large rock groups would refuse to play at the college because they operate on a percentage basis, and the auditorium doesn't offer enough seating to make it financially worthwhile for the group.

Smaller groups and single performers often play for a flat rate, making the change in total seating capacity unimportant to them.

Wendell studies cable franchise

WENDLELL — The Wendell City Council took under advisement a request to locate a cable television franchise in the city during a regular meeting Thursday night.

The franchise was applied for by James A. Hirschfeld, Bellevue, Wash. Hirschfeld represented Summit Communications, Inc.

Bruce Olsen, Wendell, met with the council to propose a 16-acre subdivision south east of the city. Olsen said the subdivision was in the preliminary development stage. He discussed possible extension of the city sewer system to the area with the council.

Mayor Otto Lemke reported to the council that city engineers had estimated the cost of pipes for the city water system at $6,500.

The council reviewed prices of used pickups for the water works and irrigation department.

City residents wishing irrigation pipe should notify the city, city superintendent Claude Strickland told the council. The deadline for installation of the pipe is the end of March, he said.

Police Chief Dale Bunn requested that the council install "No U Turn" signs on Main Street.

Dale Gilbert, Wendell, asked the councilmen to consider allocating funds in the upcoming budget for repair work on the city water tank.

Rock group suit filed

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Attorney General has filed suit against sponsors of the rock group Fleetwood Mac on grounds they violated the State Consumer Protection Act.

The suit contends promoters promised Fleetwood Mac would perform at concerts in Boise and Twin Falls, but instead those who attended the concerts heard a group of unknown, unidentified musicians posing as Fleetwood Mac.

The current group is composed of four British musicians, none of them part of the original group.

The situation according to group manager Clifford Davis, is a result of his ownership of the name, and not the result of any gradual or partial change in personnel.

He told a Salt Lake City reviewer after a concert there Monday he had, in effect, fired the original group en masse, and hired a new one to assume the same name.

The Idaho suit asks refunds for those who purchased tickets to the two concerts, and a court order restraining the defendants from doing further business in Idaho.

Defendants are Factory Productions, Inc., Boise; Activities, Inc., Seattle, and American Talent International Ltd., New York.

Aides chosen TF land bank elects county men directors

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Melvin Jagels, Buhl, and Leon Wright, Filer, were elected directors of the Federal Land Bank Association Thursday.

The annual meeting was attended by approximately 200 area farmers. The Rev. Herbert Morris, pastor of the Twin Falls United Methodist Church, gave the invocation. Jagels served as master of ceremonies. Music during the dinner hour was presented by the "Common Taters," a singing group from Buhl.

Guests were introduced by C. David Burgess, Twin Falls association manager. George Atkins, Buhl, gave the directors' report and spoke on sound loans, dividends and public relations.

The year 1973 was a great year for our association and for agriculture... both in Magic Valley and the United States. Burgess said. He said loans are getting larger with the average in 1973 of $43,200 compared to the former average of $24,000. Interest rates during 1973 went down 1/4 per cent to 9 per cent according to the manager.

Kenneth Errend, Burley, regional manager, said farmers must not only raise food for the American consumer who wants plenty of food and of good quality, but must also meet the challenge to produce food for the entire world. He quoted Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, who recently said that food is one of the most powerful weapons in the President's defense program.

The speaker predicted the demand for credit would remain strong in the future as the demand for food will increase and land values will continue to rise.

Maurice Klaus, Filer, nominating committee chairman, introduced the candidates for three-year terms on the board — Les Jones, Wright, Leo Gihring and Jagels.

The nominating committee for the coming year includes Orval Retke, Bernice Schwartz, Floyd Stanger, Al Kramer and Harvey Maxson. Bill Haynes, Twin Falls, division manager of the Idaho Power Co., illustrated his talk on "Energy — Present and Future" with slides. He predicted the energy situation will get worse before it gets better.

With the graphs showing the available amounts of the forms of energy, coal, oil and gas, he

Stray stock found

BOISE (UPI) — State Brand inspectors caught up with 800 head of cattle that last year strayed from their owners but most of the 715 cattle reported missing were presumed victims of hunters.

E. Burns Beal, state brand inspector, said "Cattle that get somehow get into someone else's land and end up over at the sale yard are often spotted by the brand inspector there." He said use of road and air patrols in 12 counties encouraged rustling activities. In seven instances, there were arrests that led to seven cattle rustling convictions in 1973. They drew penalties ranging from five years in the state penitentiary to parole, he said.

Beal said brands in Idaho are up for re-registration every five years and this is the year for the holders of 50,000 brands in Idaho to reregister them.

USDA obtains interest in Beirut club, casino

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The staid old Agriculture Department has interests these days going far beyond its usual concern in hogs, corn and wheat. It also owns a small, indirect interest in a high-class night club and gambling casino in Lebanon.

If anyone wants to buy the department's share in the casino and assorted other enterprises, including Middle East Airlines and a French shipyard, the agency is open to offers, an official said today.

Agriculture's involvement in these ventures developed after it was left holding nearly $22 million "in letters of credit" issued by the New York branch of a Lebanese bank. The branch suspended operations in 1966 and the government, after negotiations, accepted stock in two Lebanese corporations set up as successors to the parent bank in Beirut.

Originally, an official said, Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corp. (CCC) was allotted 15 per cent of the stock in the new Intra Investment Co., as a replacement for 50 per cent of the $21.8 million due under the letters of credit. Since then CCC has recouped about $11.5 million from New York assets of the old bank which reduced its stockholding to about 7 per cent of Intra.

properties. Becker said the CCC would be willing to sell its stock in Intra "if we got a good offer."

Farm

Theodore J. Becker, CCC Controller said Intra's holdings include two-thirds of the stock in Middle East Airlines, shares in a big French shipyard, and a controlling 50.9 per cent interest in the Casino du Liban in Beirut.

At present the book value of the stock is about $7 million.

Becker, who has visited Beirut several times for negotiations on settlement of the old debt which started the whole business, had an approving word about the way the CCC's "partners" manage the casino. "They have a very fine floor show," he said.

Fewer feed cattle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department says the number of cattle on feed in seven major livestock states is less than levels last year at this time.

The report confirmed speculation that 'light beef supplies and higher prices are ahead.

A Department survey showed 9,632 million head on feed Feb. 1 in the seven states, 4 per cent below the total 9,992 million a year earlier.

The February estimate was up from the January level of 9,349 million head. In January, the number was 5 per cent below a year earlier.

Government economists have predicted that beef slaughtering will move ahead of 1973 levels by summer and that supplies will be more plentiful in the last half of the year.

Montana solon claims sale profit 'shocking'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont., believes an unpublished government report shows U.S. firms apparently did not reap excess profits from the 1972 Russian grain deal, but also shows they made "shocking profits" from related sales.

Melcher said he had obtained a copy of a General Accounting Office (GAO) investigation of the June 1972 sale of an estimated 500 million bushels of wheat to the Soviet Union and showed the companies "probably did not make excessive margins on the Russian wheat itself."

"But there were unusual profits on non-Russian sales thanks to the Department of Agriculture subsidies to maintain a net cost to export firms of $1.63 on the Russian deal."

Critics have charged some U.S. grain exporters learned the extent of the impending sale in advance and profited hugely from that knowledge by secretly buying up U.S. stocks at reduced prices.

Robin Johnson, a spokesman for one of the five export companies investigated, Cargill Inc. of Minneapolis, said the report supported the companies' argument "that we did not have advance knowledge of the Russian grain deal."

Melcher said that was not the whole story.

"Any self-serving interpretations," he said, "will be designed to divert attention from the shocking mismanagement of the subsidy program, the 'shocking' profits from subsidies on other sales made possible by the deal and continuous milking from farmers of excessive margins for transportation and handling by the grain companies."

Wheat gain predicted

SEATTLE (UPI) — Wheat acreages in the three northwestern states may increase 31 per cent during 1974, but a federal energy official still predicts enough fuel will be available to meet farmers' needs.

Ruling OK

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court has upheld a Sixth District Court ruling that liability existed in a case where injuries were suffered in the farming accident.

But the court said the case should be remanded to the district court to see whether a new trial should be granted on the issue of damages.

The case involved the case of F. Clair Rindisbaker, who suffered permanent injuries when the applicator wings of a fertilizer machine fell on him. The district court found defendants Irene M. Wilson and the Farmore Distributing Co. liable in the case.

Fertilizer demand up

BOISE (UPI) — The demand for fertilizer is expected to skyrocket this spring with neither production nor trucking keeping up with the demand.

John McLeod, assistant sales manager for Simplot Soilbuilders, said fertilizer consumption increased annually by three or four per cent in recent years.

Jerome tops Buhl, splits SCIC crown three ways

JEROME — The Jerome Tigers, paced by Kelly Emerson and a deliberate attack against a zone defense, defeated the Buhl Indians 63-59 Saturday night to throw the South Central Idaho Conference into a three-way tie at the top.

Immediately after the playoffs for the fourth district A-4 tournament, which opens Wednesday at CSI gymnasium, were established by coin tosses. Wood River drew first place and will meet Filer at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday with second-seeded Buhl going against Gooding in the nightcap. On Thursday night, the two first-night losers will play at 7:30 p.m. with Jerome taking on the Buhl-Gooding winner at 9 p.m.

Although the Tigers were outshot from the field, they controlled the lead pretty well and shot free throws extremely well against the Indians. Both teams scored well in the first half, which left Jerome on top 36-32. Buhl hung in on the 17-point effort of Monty Bell as Buhl burned Jerome out of its full court press attempt in the second period.

But in the third quarter Buhl managed only two of 12 field goal attempts and Jerome was only a little warmer, hitting four of 14. That was enough for a 10-point advantage and Coach Bill Emerson held the ball on the zone. Jerome hit only one of three field goal attempts in the final period but poured through 15 free throws against the harrassing Indians.

to move away at the end. It marked only the fifth time in history that Jerome has had or shared in the conference championship and the second year in a row. Buhl wound up with the best A-2 record in the area at 17-3.

For the night Jerome hit 30 of 65 attempts from the field against 21 of 46 for Buhl. At the full line Jerome was 23 of 28 against seven for 13 for Buhl. Jerome held the rebounding edge 32-23.

Ben Jipcho, Milburn highlight pro track

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Kenya's Ben Jipcho posted a double victory in distant events for the second straight tour stop and Rod Milburn equalled an indoor pro record Saturday night to highlight the International Track Association's second meet of the season.

The slender 31-year-old Jipcho outlasted Keith Munson and Jerome Howe in the mile, event after breezing to victory in the two-mile run over George Young, Jim Ryan, world record holder in the mile, did not compete in his specialty but opted for the 800-run instead where he finished second to Chris Fisher.

Jipcho also swept both events when the ITA opened its door Friday night in Longdale, N.Y. Milburn became co-holder of the 60-yard high hurdles record by edging Len Coleman with a clocking of 6.9 seconds. Coleman set the mark in Salt Lake City last May.

Other winners were sprinters Mel Pender, Jim Hines, Larry James, shotputter Karl Salt, pole vaulter Buddy Williamson, Ron Jourdan in the high jump and Henry Hines in the long jump.

Jipcho won the mile in 4:08 flat after taking the two-mile in 8:45.8. Pender's quick start won the 800-yard dash in 5.3 seconds; Jim Hines triumphed in a photo finish in the 60-yard dash with a 6.1 second effort; Salt heaved the shot 67 feet, five inches to beat out Randy Matson and Williamson took the pole vault with a leap of 17 feet after effort. Steve Smith offered the embarrassment of having his pole break in half.

Sherbine, Harper and Diehl win state; Jerome second

BOISE — Rocky Sherbine of Wood River repeated as a state champion and Jeff Harper of Jerome won the 110-pound class. Sherbine joined him in the winners' circle at the state wrestling finals Saturday night.

Jerome also made the best team showing of all Major Valley teams in the A and B divisions. Coach Jerry James' Tigers grabbed second place with 42½ points. Sherbine scored with 48½ points. Highland third at 49½. In the B division, Parma claimed the title with 48, followed by Salmon with 45 and Teton with 43. Buhl was 10th with 26 points while Jerome was 14th at 17½ and Filer was 21st with 11½. In the A side, Minico was 14th with 20 and Twin Falls was 16th with 15.

Sherbine won the 110-pound class, 3-1, defeating Douglass of Buhl in an all-Magic Valley windup. Mike Courtney of Filer was third at 158 pounds and DeLoey Baker placed third at 170 pounds for Valley. White of Kimberly placed fourth in the heavyweight division.

Harper, named the outstanding wrestler in last week's district meet and the Southern Idaho Conference champion, took the Class A 135-pound weight, was third in the same division.

Wade Diehl romped through the 170 pound class for his title while junior teammate Tom Cochrane wound up second at 188 pounds.

Most of Twin Falls' scoring came on the second-place finish of senior Dan Davis at 141 pounds.

Kentucky edges Vols

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Kentucky withstood a fervent rally by Tennessee in the final minutes Saturday night and held on to defeat the Vols, 61-58, behind Kevin Grevey's 16 points.

Tennessee cut a 10-point Kentucky lead to three points with a minute-remainder, but was unable to get any closer as the Wildcats executed an effective stall and cashed in on six consecutive free throws in the final minute.

The victory moved Kentucky into a third place tie with Tennessee in the Southeastern Conference.

Weiskopf, Snead in 4-way tie for lead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Tom Weiskopf equalled the course record with a sizzling six-under-par 65 Saturday to finish in a four-way tie for first place after three rounds of the $150,000 Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open.

Weiskopf, the No. 3 money-winner on the tour last year but still seeking his first official money in 1974, is tied at 207, six under par, with halfway leader Dave Stockton, 61-year-old Sam Snead and young John Mahaffey.

Hatching the Riviera Country Club course record set in the 1973 L.A. Open by Rod Fuisich and Guy Brewer, the 31-year-old Weiskopf blazed in with nines of 33-32, a round that included six birdies.

"I played just about as well as I've ever played," smiled Weiskopf, who had four tournament victories a year ago.

"I didn't miss a green today. I guess this puts me right back in it."

Snead, a winner here in 1945 and 1950, shot a five-under 66, while Stockton, who had a one-shot lead going into the day's play, boyeyed the final hole for an even-par 71.

Mahaffey, who was third in the Bob Hope Desert Classic last week, checked in with a 66.

One shot back at 208, five under-par, were wrecks-faced Tom Watson and Johnny Miller, bidding for his fourth victory of the young PGA season.

Miller had a 71 Saturday while Watson was three under with a 68.

Snead, the sentimental favorite here, said he wasn't thinking of winning tournament after 30 to a four career that began in 1937. His last victory came in the 1965 Greensboro Open.

"I'm just out here to play," smiled Snead. "It's nice to play and see how the young kids are coming along, and see how much the game has changed. Let me tell you, these kids are stronger and they're better putters than they were in my heyday."

"I just hope I do well tomorrow. I'd like to shoot another 66 and see what happens."

Jack Nicklaus, who led the tournament after the first day with a 66, had a 71 for a 210 total, three under par. Jim Wiechers, who started the day in second place, one shot behind Stockton, shot a 73 and was also at 210.

Arcari retains welterweight title

TURIN, Italy (UPI) — Italy's Bruno Arcari retained his World Boxing Council junior welterweight title Saturday night when challenger Tony Ortiz of Spain was disqualified at 2:20 of the eighth round for butting.

Ortiz, knocked through the ropes in the seventh round for a mandatory eighth count, had been warned three times earlier for job blows and rabbit punching.

It was Arcari's ninth successful defense of the title he won in 1970.

Ortiz, the European junior welterweight champion, was warned for low blows in the opening minute of the scheduled 15-rounder in Turin's Palace of Sports.

Both fighters brought the crowd to its feet in the first round during flurries of punches that at one point saw Ortiz fall through the ropes.

The end came at 2:20 of the eighth round when Ortiz butted Arcari and Durst disqualified the 30-year-old Spaniard.

Nebraska nips Tigers 88-87

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — Steve Erwin sank both fouls in a one-and-one situation twice in the final minute of play Saturday as Nebraska nipped Missouri, 88-87, in a comeback Big Eight basketball victory.

After being fouled by Missouri's Jim Kennedy with 46 seconds left, Erwin sank two free throws to give Nebraska an 88-83 lead. Al Eberhard, who led Missouri with 26 points, hit a 10-foot jumper to bring the Tigers back within one point.

Aaron shelved 'til first home stand

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Atlanta Braves' multipositioned "flak from several different directions," finally decided Saturday that Hank Aaron, nudging Babe Ruth for the all-time home run mark, will not start any of the team's first three games in Cincinnati at the start of the 1974 season.

The Braves announced Saturday they will start their first game of the 1974 season when the Braves open at home against Los Angeles Monday, April 8, NBC-TV had already announced the April 8th game will be nationally televised.

But Aaron will be available for pinch-hitting duties in the three road games at Cincinnati which precede the 11-game homestand.

The Braves' action is expected to be nationally televised.

ed to cause some controversy around the league since the Reds are expected to be in a tight pennant race with Los Angeles, Houston and San Francisco in the NL Western Division.

With Aaron out of the lineup — except for pinch-hitting duties — Cincinnati should presumably have an edge in the first three games. Aaron usually hits well in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was traveling to Florida Saturday and was unavailable for comment.

A spokesman for the commissioner said, "any official comment will have to come from the commissioner. I know how I feel personally about it but the commissioner has to make any official comment."

Baseball has always been proud of the integrity of the pennant race coming above any individual records.

But manager Eddie Mathews insisted that winning the games in Cincinnati is more important than "where or where" the homer breaks Ruth's record.

Mathews said he would not save Aaron for the Atlanta fans if he felt the Mobile, Ala. native could mean the difference in one of the Cincinnati games.

Maryland nips Clemson 5-4

CLEMSON, S.C. (UPI) — Sophomore John Lucas collected three points in the closing 27 seconds to give sixth-ranked Maryland a narrow 55-54 Atlantic Coast Conference win over Clemson here Saturday.

Lucas, the Terps' leading scorer coming into the contest, hit a 13-foot jumper with 27 seconds to go to put Maryland on top 55-54, then hit the first of a one-and-one with three seconds to play to give the Terps their 17th victory in 21 outings.

The Tigers, 12-19 overall and 5-7 in the conference, had the Terps down in the final minute of the contest.

Irish outlast South Carolina

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — Clutch foul shooting and a 26-point performance by center John Shumate usually hits well in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium.

Notre Dame hit foul shots within the last minute and a half to clinch the victory.

It was the 20th win of the season for the Irish.

Shumate was able to move almost at will underneath the basket despite double coverage by South Carolina, which saw its 34 game home winning streak broken. South Carolina is now 17-4 for the season.

Northwestern drops Illinois

CHICAGO (UPI) — Freshman guard Billy McKinney reeled off 30 points Saturday, 14 of them in a second-half spurt that boosted Northwestern to an 85-75 come-from-behind Big Ten basketball win over Illinois.

Illinois scored the first points of the game, held a narrow lead for most of the first half and had eked out a 34-33 halftime advantage.

But Northwestern outscored the Illini 31-19 in the first nine minutes of the second half to take a 64-50 lead and never trailed thereafter.

Oregon pins second loss in row on UCLA by 56-51

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon, getting brilliant shooting from Bruce Coldren, Saturday lost UCLA its second straight stunning basketball upset in less than 24 hours, 56-51, knocking the Bruins into jeopardy of losing the Pac-8 basketball title for the first time in eight seasons. The last time UCLA lost two in a row was in 1966, when they lost to Oregon State and Oregon. That was the only time in 10 years the Bruins didn't win, the Pac-8 title or the national championship. Coldren, hitting one-handed mainly from the corners with remarkable accuracy, canned 12 of 14 shots for 24 points, his career high. The 6-8 forward hit 14 points in a row in the first half, on eight of nine attempts and his 32 consecutive points rallied the Ducks when the Bruins caught up briefly. The Ducks also held all-America Bill Walton, America's amateur athlete of the year in 1973, in check with 11 points and also kept him away from the boards. He didn't get his second basket until all but six minutes were gone in the second half.

Stunned the night before by Oregon State 61-57 in Corvallis, the Bruins raced to an early 11-2 lead against Oregon, by scoring nine consecutive points. But Oregon turned it on with Walton, who got going in a zone while holding the Bruins scoreless. Oregon went in front 26-24 and led at half by six.

Wooden hasn't lost two in row for years—and he's not happy

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — "I haven't lost two in a row in a long time," said UCLA basketball coach John Wooden, "and I don't like it."

His remarks came following Oregon's 56-51 upset of the Bruins less than 24 hours after Oregon State had turned back UCLA 61-57 in nearby Corvallis the night before. The last time UCLA suffered back-to-back losses was on the swing to Oregon State and Oregon eight years ago, in 1966, the only year in the last 10 that Wooden and his Bruins did not go on to win the national championship.

"We don't like not being number one, I don't like it," said Wooden. "But we don't deserve it. We're a good team, we're a fine team. I'm not going to worry about losing to Oregon or State. We haven't seen a team that could beat us in a series of games. But we've met a lot of teams that can beat us in a single game."

"We didn't play well, but we played better than we did last night against Oregon State."

As for Bruce Coldren, the 6-8 Oregon star who shot 12 of 14 shots, hitting 12 of 14 shots, Wooden said, "My guess is that he couldn't go out in the second half and do any better against us than he had done in that first half. But he shot very well. Very well."

Wooden said the large crowd which literally shakes the ancient Wooden MacArthur Gymnasium has had no effect on his team. "It always has been my contention," he said, "that the crowd inspires the home team, but it does not deter the visiting team."

As for Walton, who managed only 11 points against the rugged Ducks' defense, the Bruin coach said, "Walton played well."

Although Wooden has been a constant critic of Oregon's rough and aggressive style of play, he said, "I did not consider today's game a physical game. It wasn't our ball game. We didn't play the way we like to. It was Oregon's style of game and Oregon controlled the tempo of it. Oregon's defense was real good. We gave them open outside shots, and they made them."

Oregon coach Dick Harter, who came West after building a nationally-ranked team at Penn, said of the victory, "Let's not talk about second place anymore in the Pac-8. Let's start talking about taking them one at a time."

The victory gave Oregon a 6-3 conference mark and keeps the Ducks much alive in the Pac 8 chase. UCLA is 7-2, and Southern Cal was 6-2 going into Saturday night's game against Oregon State—a spoiler but not a contender.

"We wanted to move them around when we had the ball, the Utes ripped off 15 straight points in the second half to take a 56-44 lead and BYU never got closer than 10 points down as Utah took over sole possession of first place in the Western Athletic Conference with the win."

Tickey Burden had 24 points for Utah, 15 in the second half, to help lead the surge. BYU ran through Utah's first half full-court press to take a 38-35 lead at the break, but the Utes switched to a tight zone after intermission to take away the Cougar's inside attack.

so that we would be free to take a shot," said Harter of the strategy that beat the Bruins. "We have 12 different plays, but we only ran about four of them. No matter what we ran, we found the open man."

"We won because of good execution and good intelligent basketball. This is the most important victory to us since I have been at Oregon."

Montana pins Weber 62-61
OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — Guard Robin Selvig hit a free throw with 40 seconds left to lift Montana over Weber State 62-61 Saturday night in a Big Sky conference game.

The loss eliminated six-time defending conference champion Weber State from the league title race. Montana remained a game behind Idaho State with the win.

Weber had tied the game 61-61 on an 18-foot jumper by Bill Lewis with 1:37 then Selvig hit one of two foul shots to put the Grizzlies ahead for good.

Weber State had once chance to pull the contest out, after Ben de Mers missed a one-and-one shot for the Grizzlies and Jimmy Watts called time out.

Murtaugh tips Valley
EEDEN — The Murtaugh Red Devils went to a delay game and reaped a harvest of free throws Saturday night in defeating the Valley Vikings 66-57.

Valley trailed through much of the ball game but in the third period started chipping back. The Vikings, chipped—the margin to 32-48 with just over six minutes left and Murtaugh immediately went into the slow game.

Valley had to come out pressing and the Devils refused to crack at the foul line, picking up the total margin of victory there.

Thus the Buhl cage season closed

Fans brawl as Buhl topples Wood River

BUHL — Although it ended 10 seconds short with fans from both sides belling each other "near" midcourt, the Buhl-Wood River game wound up Friday night with the Indians on top 44-34.

With both sides booing almost every call from the outset, tempers flared quite regularly throughout. Wood River begged fouls much of the night and Buhl players consistently shook their head "no" when a foul was called. The crowd, taking its cue, began booing everything although the game was fairly well called.

Finally it wound up with the game decided and Buhl's Ken Folkings and Wood River's Bill Aldinger chasing a loose ball out of bounds—after a whistle had blown play dead. The two scuffled for the worthless ball but were separated as both coaches, officials and Buhl monitors stepped in to settle it down. It appeared over.

Then a couple of Buhl fans came whooping out of the stands and a couple of equally energetic Wood River fans rushed out to meet them. In a couple of seconds the floor was called with a knot of about 12 people. Then a cowboy from the Buhl stands came storming out and jumped feet first into it, drilling some luckless soul in the middle of the back with his cowboy boot heels.

During that time Coach Jerry Koester ushered his troops back into the dressing room while Coach Fred Trenkle gathered all his to the bench. After it settled down, Coach Trenkle had his second unit check in and Buhl was called back onto the floor. At that time it was decided enough was enough and for all practical purposes the game was over.

Wood River took a 4-0 lead and then went elite, full minutes without scoring from the field. In the meantime, however, they missed a lot of free throws but scored enough to stay four to six points back.

Buhl broke ahead when Jerome Hill hit three straight Buhl field goals but the Indians couldn't pull out of contention in the slow-paced, defensive contest. Wood River managed only two field goals off steals and stayed within six. A fast break to open the third quarter reduced the margin to four but then Monty Bell came up with six points while Wood River managed only a free throw by Wes Moore. Darrell Adams then claimed in with four foul points but in the closing minutes Bill Aldinger and Moore brought Wood River back to within seven.

Mike Hamilton, sitting out with four fouls since the second period, closed the game-out with six points off the offensive board as the fourth quarter started and Buhl stayed up from eight to 11 until the franks ended it.

Duo leads Wendell by Solons

GOODING — The Wendell Trojans, behind John Gough and Matt Bunn, defeated the Gooding Senators 56-38 Friday night.

The Senators stayed close in the first quarter, trailing 8-4. In the second quarter Bunn scored 10 points to lead the Trojans to a 27-16 margin at the half.

Gooding topped Wendell in the preliminary game.

Wood River led 14-8 in the first quarter and were on top 32-14 at the half. Rob Wright led Murtaugh scorers in the first half with 10 points. He finished the night with 20 points.

In the third quarter Hansen came within eight points but the Red Devils went back to a 38-29 margin at the end of the quarter.

MURTAUGH — The Murtaugh Red Devils jumped to a 10-0 lead and had little trouble in beating the Hansen Huskies 59-41 Friday night.

Wooden doubts UCLA is still No. 1 team

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — John Wooden says he wouldn't rate his UCLA Bruins the top collegiate basketball team now.

"I think I would vote for North Carolina State," he said. Wooden's remark came after Oregon State, which started three freshmen, ended UCLA's long Pacific 8 winning streak with a 61-57 victory Friday night.

Earlier this season Notre Dame halted the Bruins' 88-game win streak.

UCLA now finds itself fighting to stay in first place in the Pac-8 and gaining an NCAA playoff berth. The defending national champions were to meet tough Oregon at Eugene Saturday while Southern California, only a game back, was to play Oregon State here Saturday night.

"I'm concerned," Wooden said. "Very much so. I didn't feel that way after last week's game (when UCLA edged Oregon State 80-75 in Los Angeles). We haven't been as sharp as we had been. I don't know the reasons. Maybe we're just not hungry."

It was the first Pac-8 loss for UCLA since March of 1970.

The hero for Oregon State was one of those three freshmen-guard George Tucker.

"George is the worst free throw shooter on the team," said a beaming OSU coach Ralph Miller. "But, my, he hit four big ones there at the end. It was Tucker's four free throws in the late going that allowed Oregon State to win after the Bruins had closed a 57-50 deficit to 57-56."

"I consider myself a good free shooter," Tucker said. "But my statistics just don't show it."

The Bruins were hurt in the late going when Bill Walton, who wound up with 15 points, picked up his fourth foul, though he stayed in. Walton also made two costly turnovers.

"We made mistakes," Wooden said. "Some of our seniors made key mistakes. You do not expect it from them. They have been through the mill before. Miller had praised for Doug Ossen, who guarded Walton. "Doug did marvelous job," he said.

Jerome defeats Filer 53-37

FILER — The Jerome Tigers put 10 men in the scoring column Friday night in rolling past the cold-shooting Filer Wildcats 53-37.

The Tigers, getting several buckets off the offensive board against the shorter Wildcats, rushed into a 34-16 intermission lead.

Filer hit only 29 per cent from field for the night.

Dietrich defeats Bliss

BLISS — The Dietrich Blue Devils jumped off to a 12-point lead in the first quarter and pretty well maintained it throughout in defeating the Bliss Bears 59-43 Friday night.

Amtrak starts buying more passenger cars

(C) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — Amtrak, the nationwide railroad passenger corporation, hit by soaring business due to the energy crisis, has begun a frantic effort to buy up "virtually every serviceable passenger car on the continent."
The latest Amtrak purchases are largely from among cars the company's buyers rejected as inadequate to years ago. The company also appears to be paying more for these rejects than it has been paying for some cars of better quality.
"The Amtrak board has authorized the expenditure of $1.13 million for 100 cars — an average of $11,300 apiece. Most are to come from the bankrupt Penn Central Transportation Co."
An Amtrak official said the company's car inspectors had examined about 500 cars offered for sale by seven railroads in the United States and Canada. They recommended purchase of at least 100.
The largest number of old cars offered — 224 — came from Penn Central. The financially shaky Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific offered 64, while Canadian Pacific offered 11.
Roger Lewis, Amtrak president, said in an interview recently, "I think we've got everything that's got wheels on it now." He added that he expects to put before the board's next meeting Feb. 21, a program for purchase of new cars. He declined, however, to elaborate.
Amtrak currently has a Philadelphia engineering firm completing specifications for an entirely new series of long-distance passenger cars. If Amtrak orders them (it is expected to order between 100 and 200) they would be the first such cars built in the U. S. since 1966. Most of Amtrak's present fleet — built during the 1950s — was obtained from the railroads when they went out of the passenger business in 1971.

Amtrak has just completed the purchase of 28 Union Pacific cars on which it has been making payments for about a year and a half. The cost of these cars — which had been well-maintained — were $9,518 for each coach and $7,700 for each sleeper.
For the first 1,200 cars it purchased when it began operations in 1971, however, Amtrak paid an average of $11,000 apiece.
What has propelled the search for more equipment is a sharp 25.2 per cent surge last year in Amtrak's business as measured by revenue passenger miles — one paying passenger carried one mile.
According to records filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, Amtrak compiled a $4.4 billion revenue passenger miles, compared with $3.4 billion during 1972, its first full year of operations.
And those figures don't take into account what is likely an increasing crash early this year as the Arab oil embargo has continued.
Lewis said Amtrak management now is acting on the basis that the energy shortage is permanent.
Aside from locomotives, the only new passenger equipment Amtrak has ordered are 57 Metroliner-type cars and two French-built gas-powered turbines.

Bright futures

BOISE (UPI) — A Portland stock expert has picked nine Idaho corporations he believes have bright futures despite the energy crisis.
Dr. Shannon P. Pratt, former professor at Portland State University and editor of the Northwest Investment Review, made the assessment.
He said the future looks good for Boise Cascade Corp.; Morrison Knudsen Co.; Albertson's, Inc.; Red Steer, Inc.; Tru-Jolt; Idaho Power Co.; Intermountain Gas Co.; Idaho First National Bank; and Rogers Bros.
Pratt said the Boise area houses more financially sound corporations than any other city its size in the West.

Truck owners win fuel compensation

(C) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — The interstate commerce commission put into effect Friday new rules that require trucking firms to pass through to owner-operators of trucks rate increases to compensate them for higher fuel costs.
The ICC last week authorized trucking firms to put into effect increases up to 6 per cent as compensation for higher fuel costs. But today's order requires them to make certain the higher rates are passed through to independent truckers with whom they contract for service.
The ICC will also require the trucking firms to compensate the independent operators under contract with them for all fuel price increases since last May 15. As a result, the independent trucker under contract to a trucking firm will get either a 6 per cent increase in his payments, under the contract, or reimbursement for the actual increased costs of fuel, whichever is greater.
The ICC Chairman, George M. Stafford, said at a news conference, "we're going to make the owner-operators whole... whether or not the carrier with whom they have a contract files for higher rates" under the ICC's order of last week authorizing the 6 per cent increase based on higher fuel costs.

Polish family gimmick 'off'

By MIKE ROYKO
(c) Chicago Daily News
CHICAGO — There has been a small push of publicity lately about a TV movie that is being made here by the Playboy people.

They hope that it will also become a regular weekly series.

The gimmick — and the creative soul of anything on TV is the gimmick — is that it is about a Polish family.

Until now, the Poles on TV have been limited to being the butt of Polish jokes and to identifying with Archie Bunker's son-in-law.

But soon that will be changed. The Playboy production will be telecast April 3.

It will be called "The Kovacs."

That, as many Poles will immediately note, is not a Polish name.

That, as many Hungarians will immediately note, is a Hungarian name.

Somehow it figures. When the creative minds of TV got around to figuring that a Polish family would be a gimmick, it figures that they would give it a Hungarian name.

I'm surprised they aren't going to call the movie "The Fongs." Getting the continent correct is probably an accomplishment in itself.

In picking "The Kovacs" as the little—the producers managed to come up with one of the most common Hungarian names.

It's the equivalent of Smith. In fact, it means "someone who works in metals; a Smith."

To make sure I wasn't wrong, I called Ed Dzielowski of the Polish National Alliance.

"No, it is not a Polish name," he said. "We have no such name as that. The ending would have to be a 'K,' not a 'C.'"

"Also, we do not have a 'V' in the Polish language. Use the 'W' to get a 'V' sound."

Things like this fascinate me. Here you have a big outfit like Playboy spending a bundle to make a movie and TV series, and the gimmick is that it is about a Polish family.

Presumably they hope the millions of Polish-Americans will watch it.

So you think that they would start with something basic, such as giving the Polish family a Polish name.

You wouldn't make a movie about an Irish family and call them the Carruses; or about an Indian family and call them the Schwartzes.

All they had to do was find a Pole and ask him for a few Polish names. If they wanted the equivalent of Smith, he would have told them: "Kowalski."

To find out how they go about picking a Hungarian name for a Polish family, we contacted the production crew at the 20th Century-Fox studios in Hollywood.

The production manager is Paul Donnelly. (That is an Irish name, going back to the Linnhalls of Cinef Eoghan. See how easy it is?)

Donnelly said, "It has a Hungarian name because the show was originally to be about a Hungarian family. It was changed because there are an abundance of Polish people in Chicago. And there are simply not that many Hungarians."

Why not change the name? You mean to something like Smolinski? I really don't know.

So we tried the producer, Ron Roth.

Roth contradicted Donnelly, which he can do because he is a bigger shot.

"It has always been about a Polish family," he said. "Then why a Hungarian name?"

Roth said that problem has been resolved. "Kovacs" has been added, making the name "Kovacs," instead of "Kovac."

"That makes it Polish," he said, in a knowledgeable way. "It still has a 'V' and there is no 'V' in the Polish language."

Roth said the show was written by Adrian spies. (That's German, and it means one who fashioned objects on a lathe.)

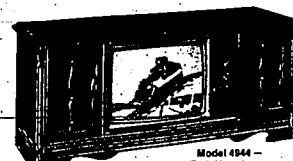

Is anyone involved in the production of Polish ancestry? "We don't have a Pole on the set," Roth said.

Incidentally, Roth is a German name. It means somebody who has red hair, or a red face. He should, I

In that Japanese ski resort known as Sapporo stands a nine-story building which houses 187 different barrooms. And in the quarter-mile square around it, another 50 high-rise buildings likewise are huddled together with drinking joints. Now should the 2,500 ground-level taverns scattered within that area fail to be mentioned, what? Skiers? What?

A lady speaker claims the number of confirmed pipe smokers among females nationwide has risen to 250,000. And she credits Women's Lib. Something's wrong with that. When Mrs. Zachary Taylor pulled her pipe publicly in the White House, the number of women who did likewise in their homes was higher than today in proportion to the population. Far higher.

08 Employment Agencies
Researchers estimate that 80% of all Americans are misemployed, caused by indiscriminate trial and error hiring into positions where the applicant is not qualified. By process and determination, the applicant makes good on the job regardless of how much he dislikes it.

Employers who call a private agency often want an experienced but misemployed person who has the insight and courage to change jobs. We may have to screen several people for one employer, but at the same time, the applicant has been screened for several jobs.

100% FINANCING

Spring is just around the corner and the time is right to buy that new Regal Home. With building materials getting hard to get and prices soaring, the percentage of increased value continues to climb. This makes a new Regal home a very good investment. You can choose a lot in one of our new sub-divisions; Hanson Estates, in Hansen, Hillcrest in Jerome, Suburban Park in Burley, Vista Village in Rupert or Carleton in Burley. Or perhaps you have a lot of your own! You can be in your new Regal home by Spring. Farm Home Administration loans with interest credit with 100% financing are still available. Farm Home Administration announced January 23rd they were lowering their interest rates to 8 1/2%.

ALL OVER TWIN FALLS!

Weight checker's job involves much waiting

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Ira Nehrbass sits alone in an old school bus eight hours a day, staring at Highway 93 and watching the continuous flow of traffic past his windows.

That is his job. Nehrbass, 55, works for the Idaho Highway Department at the weigh station on the south end of the Perrine Bridge. During his eight-hour stretch at the post, he must check the weight of every truck with three axles or more before allowing it to cross the bridge.

"It's quite boring for a lot of the guys," Nehrbass said, "but it doesn't bother me. If I was younger I'd probably get bored." In a typical hour Tuesday morning, 10 trucks stopped at the station. For each truck Nehrbass had to record—the time, the owner of the truck, destination and the route it followed when it left the station. The paper work took less than a minute for each truck.

Few trucks are turned back. Nehrbass turned back one truck Tuesday, one Monday and two Friday. "Sometimes you go a whole week without turning any away and sometimes you turn away two or three in a day," he said.

Nehrbass (It rhymes with nervous), said he spends his time listening to the radio and occasionally reading. "You get so you look up every few seconds automatically," he said.

When the weather is nice like it was Tuesday afternoon Nehrbass leaves the bus and walks around by the side of the road. But he can't go far.

Since he started working in the station last September, he has learned to recognize some of the trucks that cross the bridge regularly. These trucks slow down and pull off the road near the bus under the watchful eye of Nehrbass who then waves them on down the road.

Some trucks nearly roar right past the odd-looking station before Nehrbass can run to the roadside with his hand-held stop sign.

"I get ticked sometimes," he said with a chuckle.

"They're roaring down there and I get out with the stop sign and they skid over here and squeal on the brakes."

"All the local truckers, they know what it (the weigh station) is. It's these outsiders you have to watch out for," he said. "They see the old school bus sitting here but don't think it's a weigh station."

During the day, according to Nehrbass, the heaviest truck traffic is heading north across the bridge past his weigh station. The operators on the other side of the bridge, he said, have their heaviest flow in the evening. Weekends are usually fairly slow, he said.

A list of telephone numbers is taped to the wall in the bus and occasionally Nehrbass refers the callers to one of the numbers. Many people call about permits for wide or long loads to cross the bridge, he said, and he must refer them to the state police.

Sometimes truckers with mechanical problems will stop to call the home office, he said, but he has never faced a real emergency at the station.

Nehrbass lives only two miles from the weigh station. However, one man drives to work on the midnight shift from Burley and several live in Jerome and Shoshone.

"Most of the fellows are fairly young," he said. "I don't see them too often."

The bus is equipped with both a gas heater and a small portable electric heater but "not too awfully warm here in the winter," Nehrbass said. Since he only began working at the station in September, he didn't know what conditions were like in the summer months.

Nehrbass, a former gasoline station operator in Twin Falls, closed his station last winter and with his wife "spotted off for about eight months." The couple traveled through Colorado, Kansas, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas in a trailer on their first long trip.

"I'll more than likely work here until the new bridge is built," he said. "I doubt if I'll do anything as far as holding a job goes when this job ends. I'll just wait and see. I have all my life."

Nehrbass refused to say he liked his job but, he insisted, "it's all right."

'Togetherness' means sharing hobby for TF family

By MARGIE MORRIS
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Family togetherness is not going by the wayside.

Many Magic Valley families share in activities — skiing, camping, boating, hunting and fishing. Many of these activities however, require motor trips and with the fuel shortage, some families are "discovering new ways to enjoy their leisure-time-together."

An impromptu visit to the Richard Brizee home might find one or more of the family tied in knots; more specifically — tying knots.

"The ancient art of knotting is called macrame and is as old as mankind itself. Sailors have used macrame on ships for centuries because of the strength of its construction. It is a deceptive craft in that it looks impressively complicated, but actually originates from a few simple knots.

The Brizee girls — Debbie, Diana and Dedra, make macrame items for birthday and holiday gifts. Dan and Dana provide knot tying advice because of their scout training. Dick Brizee's role in the family project is a pivotal one — he provides the materials and supervises.

During the holidays Donna Brizee shared her macrame skills with several friends so that they might enjoy this easy craft. A decorative plant hanger can be completed in 30 minutes to an hour with the use of one or two basic knots.

Any cord-like material can be used. Merely match the material to its intended use. Durable items require strong cord or rope with a hard-twist. Delicate projects call for thinner, more flexible twine. The pattern should dominate any macrame design, coordinating texture, color and materials.

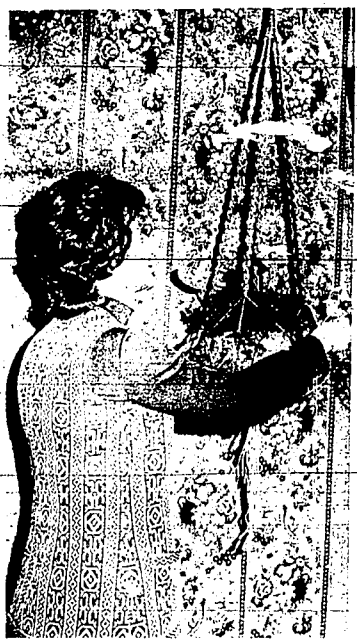

In addition to plant hangers one can make macrame belts, jewelry, place mats or room dividers. A more ambitious family project might be a knotted hammock or basket swing using heavy rope.

THE MAGICCHORDS, Twin Falls, will present a concert Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Wendall High School Gymnasium to boost the city swimming pool funds. A quartet from the group includes, from left, Bob Karns, Jerome, and Russ Barrett, Burt Hulsh and Claude Brown, all Twin Falls. Concert tickets will be available at the door.

Donation approved by club

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Salmon Social Club approved a donation to the YM-YWCA swimming pool fund at a meeting Thursday at the Colonial House.

Mrs. Betty Davis was hostess for the meeting. Cards to be sent to five sick members were signed by all members present.

Lola Andrews was a guest. Susan Davis received the roll call gift. Mary Ellen Taylor presented the program. Susan Davis won first prize and Barbara Fuller won second prize.

The next meeting will be March 7 at the home of Mary Ellen Taylor. Secret plans will be revealed. Alice Courtney will be program chairman.

TWIN FALLS — Nettie Magel was awarded the blue pencil for the best speech at a Thursday meeting of Magic Toastmistress Club.

The red pencil for good performance in publicity went to Greeta Smith. Alda Strong and DeAnna Voller were awarded the traveling trophy.

Alda Strong gave the inspiration. Dot Miller led table topics. Ruby Box presented the lesson. Aileen Lindemood was toastmistress and DeAnna Voller served as general evaluator.

Rare forest

FLORA, Miss (UPI) — Mississippi's petrified forest is its only geological wonder of its kind located in the eastern part of the United States.

The concentration of petrified wood is within a 40-acre tract nestled in the hill country of Madison County.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I sure dig your column. Do you write all those answers yourself? Or have you got a whole mess of writers who do it for you?

And that picture of you is a goal! How old is it? Is that really you? I'll bet in real life you're a fat old maid who takes her frustrations out telling other people how to live. I'm a 38-year-old bachelor. Never been married, but I've been around a lot. If that's really your picture and it's not more than 10 years old, I might even ask you to marry me. Do you think you could live in Fort Wayne, Ind.?

RUSTY

He loves Abby

DEAR RUSTY: I write all those answers myself, that picture is ME, and it's a recent one. Anyone who lived in Sioux City, Ia., and Eau Claire, Wis., can live in Fort Wayne and love it. However, I'm still married to the same man I married 34 years ago, and I'm old enough to be your mother.

DEAR ABBY: This is my second marriage. His, also. Three years ago Carl won me over by pretending to love my two children. He took them on picnics, to the beach, etc. As soon as the honeymoon was over, he ignored them completely. He finally admitted he actually likes children! The boy, now 10, is under a doctor's care because of the tension at home. The girl, 15, ran away twice because she couldn't stand this "institution."

When Carl comes home from work he goes right to his bedroom and nobody sees him until dinner. At dinner, the extent of his conversation is: "Sit up straight, both you kids, and keep your elbows off the table!"

After dinner he retires to his bedroom to watch TV. We can be watching the same channel in another room, but Carl prefers to watch it alone.

We never visit anybody, and no one visits us. He hasn't kissed me hello or goodby in two years. There is no sex, either. I am clean and neat and pleasant. I am 33. He's 42. He's a good provider, but what good is that when everything else is lacking?

Don't suggest counseling. My son's doctor suggested that, and Carl said: "No one has to tell me how to live my life."

Please help me. DESPONDENT

DEAR DESPONDENT: Ask your husband what he is getting out of your marriage. [He can hire a cook and housekeeper.] Unless he agrees to counseling, talk to a lawyer about a separation or divorce. And I hope you're qualified to work outside your home, because you may have to.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I'm dumb, but I can't figure something out, and I hope you'll help me.

My husband sometimes likes a little change, so he goes out with another woman. Then he comes home and tells me the truth. He says that as long as he TELLS me about it I can't call that CHEATING on me.

In a way, I guess he's right. But I still don't think I should have to put-up-with-it. Do-IT. DELIA

DEAR DELIA: Not unless you want to, TELLING you that has been unfaithful to you doesn't excuse his unfaithfulness. He's just one cut above most cheaters. They lie. He tells you the truth, but he's still a cheater.

CONFIDENTIAL FOR "YELLOW RIBBON": There is no situation as hopeless as a single girl who has got it bad for a married man who never had it so good.

Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 67706, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

How to write letters? Send it to Abigail Van Buren, 122 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Canned up

No power

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The California canning industry produces more than 200 million cases of canned fruit and vegetables annually.

It supplies the nation with about 35 per cent of its annual consumption of these products.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama's Consumer Protection Office must rely on persuasion to keep business transactions on the level.

The agency, created by Gov. George C. Wallace, has no enforcement powers.

TWIN FALLS — The Christian Women's Mission Service met Thursday at the Christian Church with Mrs. Maude Shotwell as special guest speaker.

Mrs. Shotwell spoke on ecology and the need for taking care of our world. She read appropriate scripture from the book of Psalms.

Mrs. Mildred Ealinger gave the devotions on love. Her scripture was Matthew 5:8. Members decided to have a work day in March to clean the kitchen.

Refreshments were served by Elsie Moseley, Bonnie Carroll, Hazel Stearns and Lillian Allen.

Reports of individual group meetings were given.

PHILCO-FORD INFLATION FIGHTERS

get your Quick Adder helps you keep shopping dollars within budget

Come in! see how PHILCO COLD GUARD REFRIGERATORS Save you nearly 1/3 (or more) IN ELECTRICITY COSTS!

You save every day you own a Philco. No Frost refrigerators use more electricity than any other appliance in the home; but the new Philco-Side-by-Side saves electricity compared to leading competitors. Every day you use it.

So economical it runs less than half the time. The new Philco Side-by-Side uses electricity less than half the time while competitive makes use electricity continually. Furthermore, Cold Guard design makes the entire cabinet—top, bottom, back, sides, doors—a multi-layer barrier against cold loss. Keeps cold in, heat out. Saves operating costs, saves money. How much money? See the table at left.

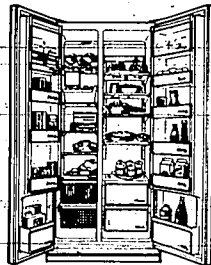

Keeps its cool, too. Tests prove that a Philco Side-by-Side keeps its cold longer in the event of power failure than any competitive make tested. And that saves food!

Tickets prepared

Shoshone supervisor sees many changes

SHOSHONE — As Shoshone school hot lunch supervisor for more than 22 years, Mrs. Josephine Lequerica has seen many changes.

She first began working in the program as PTA hot lunch chairman in October of 1951, the lunch program being only about three years old.

Sandwiches and soup were served in the school auditorium those first two years, followed by construction of the hot lunch room.

Facilities in the hot lunch room, however, have improved over the years with installation of new stoves, sinks, cupboards, serving tables, etc.

Reports back on those early days were done monthly and Mrs. Lequerica's duties centered around ordering groceries and making the reports.

When someone was needed to help out in the kitchen, Mrs. Lequerica was hired and her work has increased now to five and a half hours, five days a week. She spends most of the time at the grade school, but also goes with the lunch ladies and served at the high school.

Reports today take up a lot of time, too. About 95 per cent of the grade school students eat the lunch and about half of the high school students eat there.

Cost of lunches has increased over the years, from 25 cents in 1951 to 45 cents for high school age and 40 cents for grade school students now. Adults are charged 55 cents each.

Parents are invited to attend school and purchase a lunch, to see how the program is operated, Mrs. Lequerica said.

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls High School class of 1944 are planning a 10 year reunion.

Anyone with information about names and addresses of those graduating with the class is urged to contact Bob Brown, 583 Fillmore, or call 734-3433.

HAILEY — Sandy Sovell has been elected president of the newly formed Alturas Toastmistress Club according to Mary Arrington, Twin Falls, extension coordinator for the Snake River region.

Other new officers of the club are Ruth Mendau, vice president; Roberta McKecher, secretary, and Mary Beler, treasurer.

The club was organized in September and meets the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at the Rialto Hotel, Hailey. The meetings begin at 8 p.m.

The club is open to all women in the Wood River Valley including Sun Valley, Ketchum, Hailey and Bellevue. Members are currently planning a charter party for early April.

Students sought for poetry, art contest

SHOSHONE — Students in the Shoshone school system are invited to participate in the annual Federated Women's Club art and poetry contest.

Mrs. Frank Garrett, Shoshone Civic Club art and poetry chairman, said the contest will end with judging on March 1.

There are four divisions in each, in art grades 1-3 for one division; grades 4-6 in one division; grades 7-9 in the third division, and grades 10-12 in the fourth division.

In the poetry contest the divisions are grades 4-6; 7-9; 10-12, and adults.

The local winning entries will be forwarded to a district chairman by March 15 and those winning there will then go to the state competition.

Prizes in the contest on the district level are $3, $2 and $1. Adults who enter the poetry division must be members of the affiliate club and they will receive certificates of award if winners in the state. Local contest sponsors provide their own prizes.

Regulations for participants are available through the club chairman and will be carried out in the school distribution, Mrs. Garrett said.

There is a special Hallmark Art Contest for seniors in high school, only. A prize of $10 will be awarded for the district winner. The state winner will receive a $1,000 scholarship.

Rodeo club organized at Gem pen

SHOSHONE — Denny Peyman, Shoshone rodeo clown, has been instrumental in the organization of a rodeo club for Idaho State Penitentiary inmates.

Peyman worked with rodeo announcer Zeb Bell, Kimberly, Bob Aja, Shoshone, and Mick Healer, Glenn Perry, in helping inmates plan the rodeo for the prison.

The men drove to Boise several times and gave pre-arena tips to would-be bronc and bull riders.

Peyman said he "loves rodeo work and finds a lot of fun in serving as a clown."

He has also been involved in entertaining the children at the Idaho State School, Gooding.

A pet skunk, Sweet Pea, owned by the Peyman family, is a participant of his rodeo clown act and has proven a favorite with the children.

FBI looks for kidnap suspect

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The widowed mother of a man reported to be one of the kidnapers of Patricia Hearst said today four FBI agents visited her home and searched it last Saturday, five days after the abduction.

Mrs. Mary DeFreeze told the Cleveland Press the federal agents wanted to know if she had seen her 29-year-old son, Donald, recently.

"I told them no," she said. "They told me they were looking for him. They said they got word to look for him from his jail (Soland Prison in Salinas, Calif., from which DeFreeze escaped last March)."

"They looked in drawers, looked in closets, asked for the names and addresses of my children," she said.

Mrs. DeFreeze said that although Donald had "been in and out of trouble ever since he was a little boy" she could not believe that he was involved in the kidnaping.

"I think he may be sick," she told the press, "but I don't really believe my son would take anybody. Harm anybody."

"He has three children of his own," she said. "I don't think he'd pick up and hurt someone else's child."

Mrs. DeFreeze said she last heard from her son in January, 1973, when he wrote her from Soland.

VICKI CALL plans files Schedules wedding

PAUL — Mr. and Mrs. Dean Call, Paul, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Vicki Jo, to Russell Wilson.

Wilson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Lloyd Wilson, Scottsdale, Ariz.

Miss Call is a 1973 graduate of Minigo High School and is employed by a Tempe, Ariz., dentist.

Wilson served an LDS Mission in Central America, and attended Utah State University. He is now attending Arizona State University.

The couple plans a March 15 wedding in the Salt Lake City LDS Temple. They will be honored at a reception March 16 at the Paul LDS Church.

They plan to reside in Tempe, Ariz.

The following are energy-saving tips from Glamour Magazine, recommended by experts in the field.

Take a shower instead of a bath and save five gallons of water.

Put washing machines full and use cold water detergents or at least a cold rinse.

Don't over-dry clothes. Synthetics take 10-15 minutes to dry, permanent press items, take 20-25, and towels take 30-40.

Save cooking fuel by thawing frozen food before cooking; use tightly lidded, flat-bottom aluminum pans for best heat conduction and retention and avoiding extra peeks in the oven (you lose 25 degrees heat by opening the oven door).

Couples participate

DELORES Sims, instructor, has taught expectant parents in the community the past four years to actively participate in childbirth. Response to the classes has prompted another which will begin March 21 at the YWCA. The class is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. and will be limited in size.

Childbirth classes scheduled

TWIN FALLS — Response to the YWCA's first class in the psychophysical method of childbirth preparation has resulted in a second class, scheduled to begin March 21.

According to Delores Sims, instructor, the classes help couples expectantly and psychologically and physically to actively participate in childbirth. The expectant couples learn in detail what happens in childbirth and how they may feel.

Then, husbands and wives learn and practice specific skills which make labor and delivery easier. These skills learned during the six class sessions consist of body preparation and exercises and concentration on relaxation and three techniques of breathing during labor.

Mrs. Sims, who has taught expectant parents in the community for the past four years, recommends that couples expect their first child attend the prenatal classes at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital in addition to the YWCA modified Lamaze classes.

Couples must pre-register by calling the Y at 733-4384, as class size is limited. A fee of $18 plus $1.25 for books is payable the first night of the classes. The next class will begin March 21 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 4 at the Y.

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Magic Valley Dilettantes will present excerpts from the forthcoming production "Fiddler on the Roof" at the So-Journey Club luncheon Tuesday.

The luncheon will be at 12:30 a.m. at the Grizzly Bear Plaza. Reservations may be made by calling 733-4316 by 10 a.m. Monday.

C of I jazz ensemble sets concert at Buhl

BUHL — The College of Idaho Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of Prof. Richard D. Miller of the C of I music department, will present a concert and clinic at Buhl High School Feb. 26 at 11:30 a.m. A public concert is scheduled that evening at 7:30 p.m. The 20-member group is currently touring seven central Oregon high schools during their week-long winter tour. The ensemble recently presented a most successful home concert with jazz flutist, Bill Fritz, Glendale, Calif. The ensemble's 1974 tour book includes big band jazz and jazz rock arrangements from the libraries of Stan Kenton, Woody Herman, Buddy Rich and Maynard Ferguson, as well as some original selections.

Performance set

TWO MAGIC VALLEY—students—Mark Fisher, left, Kimberly, and Jerry Janson, Buhl, are among the members of the College of Idaho Jazz Ensemble, scheduled to perform at Buhl High School on Tuesday, February 26.

Win trophies

TWIN FALLS — Three trophies were won by CSI forensic and debate students at the Idaho—State—Speech—Conference Tournament at Boise State College last weekend, officials announced today.

Charlotte Presnell took first place in expository and second place in oral interpretation. Dan Harrell, Jerome, took first place in Lincoln Douglas debate. Sandy Heaps, Filer, was a finalist in oral interpretation. The winners are students of Fran Tanner, forensics, and Gene Hull, debate.

FLOOR FASHIONS

WALT ANDERSON IS THIS PADDING really necessary? That's not an uncommon question when we recommend a good quality padding to make the best-of-a-new-carpet. The answer is that you can install carpeting directly over bare floors... but in the long run that choice will prove a lot more expensive than a padding would be. Unless, of course, it's one of the range of new carpets that has its own pad or cushion laminated to the back. The padding does many things. Most important of all, it reduces wear. It enables the carpet to "give," and the cushion takes the abrasive action against the hard surface beneath it. The padding also increases comfort and luxurious feel of the carpet as you walk on it. Even a thin-budget carpet will feel thick and springy underfoot with a good padding. The cushion also helps to absorb sound and to resist fire and moisture. There are many types available, with foam, hair, or jute, or combinations of these being used. A 48-ounce pad is virtually a must, and you won't go wrong with an extra-thick padding. We'll gladly advise you on the choice of the right padding for the carpet you select. Giving expert carpet-counsel is part of our business, from first stage to last. Put our experience on your side!

Parents Without Partners Club organized in Twin Falls

By BARTE E. QUESNELL, Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Divorce, separation and death can be frightening especially for the member of a married couple who then raises the children alone.

According to Mort Fitch, president of the newly formed local chapter of Parents Without Partners, "There's almost 50 per cent about taking responsibility for both parents that you don't know."

Men and women both, he said, often find it difficult at first to supply the leadership and at the same time the emotional warmth needed. Headed, Parents Without Partners and the programs it encourages has changed the masculine outlook of many men for the better.

Beginning in 1954 Parents Without Partners was started and since has spread worldwide. Fitch was in the program in California before moving to Twin Falls.

The local club was started last December and is still in the organizational stage. "It's a club of people who work in concert to find out how somebody else solved something," Fitch said.

Discussion groups are most often started in clubs to unravel or at least point up problems of raising children and facing life. Fitch said it's not unusual for groups to get fired up during topic discussions.

He remembers the polarization of groups during several meetings in California and the "tooth and nail" quarrels in some of them. Everything was discussed he said including vasectomy, abortions, sex, morals, affairs, death, divorce etc.

"People said what they wanted during meetings, but always were friends after the discussion and couldn't wait for the next discussion," Fitch said. "The local club hopes to bring speakers in and to arrange activities so that a diversified program can be going at all times. The Twin Falls club discussed behavior modification at their second meeting. "This is not just a social club," Fitch said. "It's a program where people with diversified interests can find something they like."

Parents Without Partners can supply many of the dual relationships needed for children growing up, according to Fitch. The Twin Falls club hopes to organize recreational activities so many children can share benefits accrued by being around both sexes.

"If most kids had the benefit of several mothers and fathers they'd be a lot better off," Fitch said.

"The main emphasis however of the whole program is to get people together who share many of the same problems,"

"Many of the men think they can't belong because they don't have custody," Fitch said. "But the club is open to all persons who have the responsibility of providing for a split family."

Persons interested can call Fitch at 733-9628 or Angie King after 5 p.m. at 733-8604. The next meeting will be Feb. 20, 7:30 p.m. at 655 Grant, Twin Falls.

How to shave 3¢ a year from your electric bill

Some energy shaving suggestions are quite impractical; others make common sense. For example, if you want to discontinue using your electric razor, energy shaving is not a valid reason.

Making coffee in a coffeemaker is wise use of energy. It's more efficient than stove-top brewing. Likewise the electric frypan is generally more thrifty than range or oven. While it's best to wash only full loads, the electric dishwasher can use less hot water than some cooks use washing dishes in the sink.

As we've said in other ads, your greatest opportunity to save energy in the home is to insulate that home thoroughly include double windows and doors, weatherstripping and caulking. Save energy, too, by repairing leaking hot water faucets. A loss of sixty drops a minute is more than 100 gallons per month.

Watch Idaho Power advertising for other common sense energy saving tips. We want to provide the electric energy you need for your comfort, convenience and good health. Use what you need, but use it wisely.

Getting back to shaving, if switching to a blade adds a gallon a day to your hot-water use, that's more than fifty times the energy consumption of the electric razor.

Valley Comment:

QUESTION: President Nixon's budget proposes $100 billion for social security, welfare, disability compensation — and $87 billion on defense. A few years ago, the defense budget was higher than the income security program. Do you think the trend towards more income security and less defense spending is good or bad?

Al Wagner: "I think it's good that they're spending more on social programs, but they don't realize the same benefits as does defense spending. For example, defense spending creates employment; providing services doesn't necessarily help the economy. I don't believe in spending money just for weapons, though."

Al Nelson: "I believe that they both need to be lowered. Of course, I'm from the old school. I believe that everyone should work, not sit on their hind ends waiting for the coconut to fall. I have no complaint with social security — people have put their money and time into it. The defense budget should be run more efficiently, then it could be cut. There is a tremendous amount of waste, but it's bound to be there in a democratic form of government."

Margaret Durbin: "I'm all in favor of that. The money should go to the right people, but then again, some people that are not deserving of it might as well get it as all those politicians taking millions of dollars."

Albert Nault: "I think it's a very good trend. Since I was in the service, I saw a tremendous amount of waste spent on so-called defense. I think it's good that money is being geared towards public assistance."

Mrs. Dave Killen: "I've thought about that... I like to see them spend more money on the public sector, but I realize that we can't afford to be left behind on defense. They can't afford to spend more on the public sector than they have."

Kenneth Leazer: "Let's put it this way, I do know there's a lot of need for those who are on public assistance, but I don't know if we should let the defense go, we should hold it up there. We need public assistance, we've got a lot of old people that need it bad."

Father plays big role in daughter's life

By SANDRA PESMEN
CHICAGO — It begins when he sees her in the hospital for the first time and feelings of wonder clutch him.

A few years later he strolls through the park holding her hand, and his heart reels with love.

Still later, as he watches her twirl before the mirror in her first prom dress, he experiences a sense of fear and loss.

And just a few years after that — when he fights back tears, squares his shoulders and marches down the aisle to give her away — he notices the other man is a lot like him.

That's how it goes with daddies and their little girls — sometimes.

And although both sons and daughters often complain about their mothers when things go wrong with their emotions in later life, fathers, too, play a critical role in child development.

Especially if that child is "daddy's little girl" — or if she wants to be — but isn't.

Factors that influence the relationship between a father and daughter can begin even before the baby's birth, says psychiatrist Jack Berger. These can include whether the father wanted a boy or girl, whether the baby is the first-born, or the last in a large family, who might be accepted without much to-do. Sometimes an unexpected, or unplanned, birth can also influence a father's attitude toward his daughter.

"I recently treated a depressed and insecure woman," whose problems revolved around a poor relationship with her father.

After several sessions she realized it existed because she was conceived out of wedlock and the father 'did the right thing' and married her mother. Later, he resented the daughter and blamed her for his unhappy marriage," Berger says.

In a home where both parents are adjusted and fond of each other, one parent, usually the mother, assumes the major portion of the nurturing role during the first few months of the first year, experts agree. This is a time when daughter has the idea of who supplies the necessary milk, food, bed, love and clean warm clothing. But she does need to have the same person, or persons, supply these needs consistently.

"Some fathers are eager to participate in this early mothering stage, too," Berger says.

"They may take over some 2 a.m. feedings, change diapers, and sincerely enjoy fulfilling the needs of this tiny helpless creature they are half afraid of — and yet feel a new and awesome love for."

Basic feelings of security or insecurity can be transmitted to the child during this early infancy stage. The results usually depend upon how sincerely and how adequately the infant's needs are responded to and met.

It is during the Oedipal stage, which usually reaches its peak between 3 and 6, that a little girl begins to have some specific feelings about her father as an important individual in her life.

"This is the time when children develop strong feelings for the parent of the opposite sex," Berger says.

Maria Flax, dean of Erikson Institute for Early Education, goes a step further, stating, "this Oedipal stage is the time when kids fall in love with the parent of the opposite sex, and feel love — for the same competition with the parent of the same sex."

Mincing no words, Mrs. Piers says "fathers and daughters are in a real, though miniature, man-and-woman relationship at this time... It is important that father be aware this is happening so he can react most effectively. Very often his relationship can be crucial in determining the way a woman will act to men later in life."

A father should show affection and loving attention to his daughter at this time, but it's important that he also realistically convey to the child that she's his daughter, and that he is married to her mother.

Both therapists remarked that some fathers are so flattered by their daughters' attention during this Oedipal stage that they "play it to the hilt" and unwittingly encourage sexual responses. The result is the daughter can become so emotionally involved with her father she will never find a satisfactory mate of her own later on.

Coast Guard last branch to admit women

(c)1974 New York Times Service

CAPE MAY, N. J. — The recruits of Sierra Company 89 at the Coast Guard training center here are out of bed at 5:15 every morning, puffing through calisthenics and running a mile. Then there is mopping and sweeping, shoeshining, dismantling rifles, drilling and hours of technical classes.

They are following the same exhausting boot camp regimen that the Coast Guard has been using for decades, but there is a difference, for the first time in the 184-year history of the service the recruits are women.

The 32 women of Sierra Company 89 are the first to be enlisted as regulars by the Coast Guard since Congress changed the men-only acceptance policy of the service last fall.

A Coast Guard spokesman here said the service hopes to recruit about 40 women every 90 days. It is likely, he said, that they will all be trained at the center here at the southern tip of New Jersey.

The Coast Guard was the last of the armed forces to admit women as regulars and officers say that Congress was urged to make the change mainly as a solution to a manpower shortage that developed when conscription was ended.

For now, at least, the women, who are midway in a ten-week program, are eligible for only four jobs in the service: hospital corpsman, dental technician, storekeeper and yeoman of secretary.

They cannot be assigned aboard ships or aircraft nor can they be posted to isolated stations. In addition, the women are required to have either high school diplomas or certificates of equivalency while men have only to pass a battery of Coast Guard tests.

Still, the women of Sierra-89 earn the same basic pay as the men — $326 a month — and they say they have no complaints. Most of them came to the service for the classic reasons — job security, the promise of education and travel. Some concede that they mainly wanted to get away from home.

The women, who range in age from 18 to 25, are former nurses, students, secretaries, clerks and bookkeepers; one of them says she used to fight forest fires.

Since World War II the Coast Guard has had some women in its ranks as reservists, known as SPARS. But they did not go through Coast Guard boot camp and unlike the present group they were prohibited from ever commanding men.

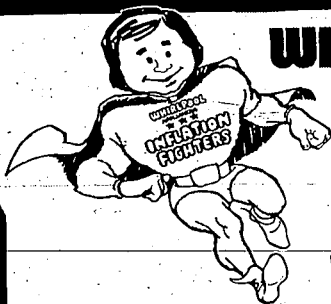

In the beginning, the women of Sierra Company fumbled with their rifles and had trouble with marching movements but some of the old salts here have been astounded by their performance. In the first rifle drill

center's personal appearance citation.

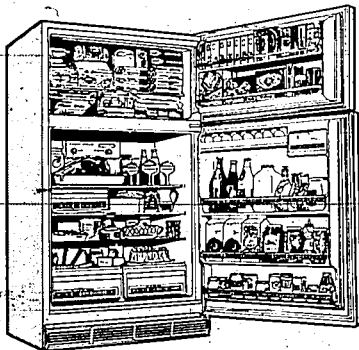

Chief Boatswain's Mate Royce L. Jones, a gaunt, handsome 18-year veteran who is their commander, said the women are highly motivated, serious and inquisitive.

Teacher talks freely about her abortion

PEGGY CONSTANTINE

1974, Chicago Sun-Times

CHICAGO — A 30-year-old teacher abortion in 1971 with a fascinating kind of dramatic gusto and without visible embarrassment, regret or self-pity.

"I teach school. I have an 8-year-old son. I was married, but we recently were divorced. I was having several affairs. The pregnancy was not my husband's. I know who the father was. We missed the super bowl game. I was going to call it the super bowl game."

"If I thought he would be blond and blue eyed. I might have had him, but I was pretty sure he would be dark-haired and brown-eyed. I could not have explained him to my husband, our parents or my son. I certainly couldn't have told my husband about all the extramarital stuff."

"God, that apartment where I had the abortion was grimy. It was on the south side. I lay on a table on a plastic sheet washed down with alcohol. A nurse gave me antibiotics and local anesthesia. It annoyed me that I couldn't see. I was blindfolded."

"The abortionist was an ex-mafia man. He was a super abortionist. He doesn't do them any more, not since the law changed. He earned more, not since the law changed for 15 minutes of work."

"I kept thinking, 'I walked in here pregnant and 15 minutes from now I will not be pregnant.' I wanted it over fast so I could be; the traffic home and be there when my son came home from school."

"It was one of those soupy, gray, ugly Chicago days. When I left that apartment, it seemed the sun was shining everywhere and the horizon was limitless."

"I have never dwelled particularly on the abortion. Other things have happened because of it. I learned to ask friends for help and to take it. I finally discussed my affairs with my husband. I found my system was not low. The 1 I had affairs to prove to myself that I am a desirable human being. Since I cannot take the pill and don't like the loop and I know I won't give up sex, I had my tubes tied."

"Snock for snock? A physician cover-up for paralyzing guilt? Probably not. Maud, more glibly than most, reflects what data keepers in the medical community and abortion clinics and other women who have had abortions already know. Abortion does not shroud women forever in guilt, remorse and depression. Abortion, in fact, has no emotional impact, or only a mild one, provided the woman is emotionally stable, elects to have the abortion in the first rather than the second 12 weeks of pregnancy and receives proper medical care and support of family, friends and professional counselling."

The greatest single emotional feeling, in fact, seems to be relief. The greatest single practical effect is that women who interrupt pregnancy take steps to learn about proper contraception.

Some 5,000 women, aged 12 to 52, have had abortions since last April in the Midwest Population Center, 100 E. Ohio. Said a counsellor:

"Abortion does not shroud women forever in guilt, remorse and depression . . . The greatest single feeling seems to be relief."

who talks with women before and after the abortion: "I've heard about two women who got up from the table just as the procedure was to begin. I've heard of maybe five who verbally regretted the abortion. But mostly we get letters, flowers and candy from women grateful for the abortion and our nonjudgmental friendship."

Said Dr. Lonny Myers of the Midwest Association for the Study of Human Sexuality, also at 100 E. Ohio: "Any negative emotional impact from abortion is induced by society. Most women feel as if they have had a 20,000-pound burden lifted off their backs."

Mrs. Alfred Kennan is clinic administrator of the Midwest Medical Center in Madison, Wis. Her husband, a former obstetrics-gynecology professor at the University of Wisconsin medical school, opened the clinic in 1970 to assure proper medical care for women who wished abortions.

The clinic has done thousands of abortions on women 12 to 51. "Our over-all statistical data," said Mrs. Kennan, "is that the women by and large are happy with the decision they made. Some experience a depression, but it's not a depression that interrupts their functioning."

The current issue of Perspectives, a quarterly planned parenthood magazine, reports data of a 3½-year study made at Johns Hopkins University hospital in Baltimore of 211 women who entered for either abortion or delivery. The study finds no personal or differences between those who elected abortion over full-term delivery. Said a professor who worked on the study: "It's a kind of a myth that women who have abortions suffer more psychological problems."

Dr. Mary Anna Friederich, an obstetrician and gynecologist and associate professor of obstetrics, gynecology and psychiatry, University of Rochester, (N.Y.) asks not why the abortion but why the pregnancy. She thinks, once the setting in which conception occurred is understood, the abortion follows naturally. "I feel strongly," she said, "that women do not get pregnant willingly. They usually have some reason."

Last August, she presented her findings in a study of 281 women interviewed four to six weeks after their abortions to obstetricians and gynecologists at Chicago's Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center.

About 8 per cent of teen-agers studied never used contraception (stay separate to understand, she thinks). But 18 per cent of older women had stopped contraceptive measures quite suddenly and for reasons such as dizziness, headaches, depression or anxiety, all reasons she called "enralls."

"Why," she asked in the seminar, "did they allow themselves to get pregnant when literally no woman needs to be pregnant? We saw some themes time and time again. Is it not possible that women use pregnancy as a coping, adaptive device?"

Catholics losing priests over celibacy

WASHINGTON — His rise in the Roman Catholic hierarchy had been phenomenal. First he was secretary to Bishop Floyd Begin of the California Diocese of Oakland; then Vice Chancellor of the Diocese of San Francisco de Sales Cathedral — all when he was hardly 30.

Joseph Skillen was still met him in late December in the office of Congressman Jerome Waldie (D — Calif.), where he now works. But the shirt was no longer the vestiture of a Monsignor, as he was also wearing a red necktie.

On his desk was a photograph of a notably attractive brunette, his wife Penny, now from Oakland.

In Rome, presumably, is Skillen's application for licentiation (reduction from the priestly to the lay order) about which he remarked, "These thing come to take longer these days."

Meanwhile, though, he remained a priest, he is excommunicated for having married.

"Well, I certainly don't feel any the less a member of the church," he remarked. "When asked about the excommunication, and we continue to go to Mass." He said it wistfully, expressing his gratitude that from Bishop Begin, and his priestly colleagues in Oakland, there has been nothing on the order of a nasty reaction.

"He (Bishop Begin) looked disappointed," he explained, "but he was gracious."

In Manhattan, the Archdiocese of New York recently launched a $100,000 advertising campaign in an attempt to recruit candidates for the priesthood. From Recently, Jason Petosa replied in writing:

"I know a priest here they could have for only an eight cent stamp. He's orthodox, relatively hard working, and anxious to be of service. The only thing they might find unacceptable is my wife."

Yet the Vatican has long accepted the wives of Catholic priests of such Eastern Rite bodies as the Melkites, and is engaged in a growing rapprochement with the Episcopalian-Anglicans, whose priests are allowed to marry.

Some observers are theorizing that the obstinate insistence upon compulsory celibacy is due to economics. For it is less expensive to feed and house bachelors than couples and children (lots of them) due to the contraceptive ban. There is also speculation that celibacy is a device whereby Curia conservatives are driving record numbers of liberal priests out of the church.

If this is the case, the price is heavy in that the loss of good priests like Skillen is serious. There is also the continuing and possible increasing occasion for scandal, as the conservatives are dragged further into the 20th century. Recently, for example, Father Eugene Kennedy in a serious psychological study cited cases of priestly dating, and even rarer occasions of priestly concubinage.

This was promptly seized upon by "Newsweek" magazine as a sort of literary baptism for a torrid, five-page expose of "thousands of U.S. Catholic priests," whom the titillating article described as caught up in a virtual national epidemic of ecclesiastical fornication.

Father Kennedy promptly and emphatically disassociated himself from the article, which was subsequently cited by the "National Catholic Register" as evidence, that "no publication in the country more consistently distorts the facts about things Catholic than "Newsweek."

At the same time, the loss of even one good priest might be regarded as tragic enough to change the 12th century celibacy regulation, which apparently was never applied in the case of the 12 Apostles. (First Corinthians, Chapter 9, Verse 3)

Washington: Tributes for the man who wept at Valley Forge

A part of each day was always set apart for meditation and devotion; nor this in time of peace only, for we are told that one day while the Americans were encamped at Valley Forge, the owner of the house occupied by the General, a Quaker, strolled up the creek, and when not far from his mill, heard a solemn voice. He walked quietly in the direction of it and saw Washington's horse tied to a sapling. In a thicket near by was the chief, upon his knees in prayer, his cheeks suffused with tears.

From "Washington's Birthday," edited by Robert Schauflier

One of the best of modern Americans, James Russell Lowell, who was born on the same day of the month as Washington, February 22, 1819, wrote shortly before his death, to a schoolgirl, whose class proposed noticing his own birthday: "Whatever else you do on the twenty-second of February, recollect, first of all, that on that day a really great man was born, and do not fail to warm your hearts with the memory of his service, and to brace your minds with the contemplation of his character. The rest of us must wait uncovered till he be served."

Elbridge S. Brooks

The life of our Washington cannot suffer by a comparison with those of other countries who have been most celebrated and exalted by fame. The attributes and decorations of royalty could have only served to eclipse the majesty of those virtues which made him, from being a modest citizen, a more resplendent luminary.

Malice could never blast his honor, and envy made him a single exception to her universal rule. For himself he had lived enough to life and glory. For his fellow citizens, if their prayers could have been answered, he would have been immortal. His example is complete, and it will teach wisdom and virtue to magistrates, citizens and men, not only in the present age, but in future generations, as long as our history shall be read.

John Adams

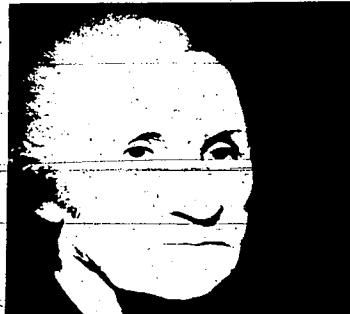

His character, though regular and uniform, possessed none of the littleness which may sometimes belong to these descriptions of men. It formed a majestic pile, the effect of which was not inspired, but improved, by order and symmetry. There was nothing in it to dazzle by wildness, and surprise by eccentricity. It was of a higher species of moral beauty. It contained everything great and elevated, but it had no false or trivial ornament. It was not the model cried up by fashion and circumstance: its excellence was adapted to the true and just moral taste, incapable of change from the varying accidents of manners, of opinions and times. General Washington is not the idol of a day, but the hero of ages.
anonymous

Washington's is the mightiest name of earth — long since mightiest in the cause of civil liberty; still mightiest in moral reformation. On that name no eulogy is expected. It cannot be. To add brightness to the sun, or glory to the name of Washington, is alike impossible. Let none attempt it. In solemn awe pronounce the name, and in its naked deathless splendor leave it shining on.

Abraham Lincoln

Behind the popular myths, behind the statuesque figure of the orator and the preacher, behind the general and the President of the historian, there was a strong, vigorous man, in whose veins ran warm, red blood, in whose heart were stormy passions and deep sympathy for humanity, in whose brain were far-reaching thoughts, and who was informed throughout his being with a resistless will.

Henry Cabot Lodge

Napoleon was great, I know,
And Julius Caesar, and all the rest,
But they didn't belong to us, and so
I Like George Washington the best.

Anonymous

Great without pomp, without ambition brave,
Proud, not to conquer fellow men, but save;
Friend to the weak, a foe to none but those Who plan their greatness on their brethren's woes;
Aw'd by no titles — undefil'd by lust —
Free without faction — obstinately just;
Warm'd by religion's sacred, genuine ray.
That points to future bliss the unerring way;
Yet ne'er control'd by superstition's laws.
That worst of tyrants in the noblest cause.

Agnew's book makes money

By MIKE ROYKO
 (c) Chicago Daily News
CHICAGO — The most exciting literary event of the year is sure to be the publication of Spiro Agnew's suspense novel.
 Agnew will become the most talked about American author since Clifford Irving, another crook.
 Unlike Irving, however,

Agnew will be able to cash in on his creative effort. Irving, who coned a publishing house, went to prison, while Agnew, who took graft and cheated on his taxes, went to dinner with all blue eyes.

There is no doubt that the book will make loads of money. One magazine says it will pay $100,000 just to serialize it. People in the book business are estimating that Spiro could make $500,000 or more. Spiro might become the best-selling vice president in history, in more ways than one.

And the nice part of it, at least for Agnew, is that the money won't have to be slipped to him in a plain envelope.
 There are several reasons why the book will sell enormously, whether or not it is any good.

There are still many people who admire Agnew, and buying his book will be their way of showing their support for him. I don't know if these people will read his book. I don't know if anybody who still admires Spiro knows how to read.

Then there will be those who buy it for its novelty value, which is considerable. Spiro could be the first former vice president to write a mystery suspense novel. Most of them write their memoirs. Spiro could write his memoirs, too, but they would probably just get a lot more people indicted.

Spiro's book could present a number of unusual problems to his publisher and to the nation's book review editors.

It is the custom for the authors of potential best-sellers to trot around New York and other major cities, appearing on all the radio and TV shows that will tolerate them. This is believed to stimulate sales.

But it is also the custom for the hosts of these shows to ask, at some point, this question: "Why did you write this book?"

The answers are usually something like: "I felt it was a story that needed to be told," or "this was something that always interested me."

But when that question is put to Spiro, what is he going to say: "I wrote this book because I had to resign as vice president of the United States after it came out that I was a tax-cheat and grafter, and now I've got to pay my lawyers and back-taxes, and I can't go through life letting all blue eyes pick up every tab, so I had to make a buck somehow."

Why the interviewer would swallow his cigar.
 Then there are the reviewers. It is the usual practice to get somebody who knows something about the subject or the form.

The Gossip Column

... terrible profile

Q: I was told that Sophia Loren has a terrible nose in profile and I've been trying to find a photograph of her from the side. I can't find any except for a few with her chin tilted up. — M. C., Denver, Colo.

A: Sophia's profile is not her best feature and she's careful always to look full face into the camera, or at least put her chin up so her nose isn't so prominent. You probably won't find a side shot as the actress insists on approving all photographs that are to be published.

UNDERCOVER WORK IN HOLLYWOOD: A well-known director thinks he has his fingers totally under control. What he doesn't know is that she has established an elaborate spy network throughout his organization and among his friends. She knows every move the man makes.

Q: Whatever happened to Mark Spitz? — E. T., Orion, Ill.
A: The seven-times Gold Medal Olympic winner is taking drama lessons at the Jeff Corey Workshop in Hollywood. So far the results have not been apparent. Spitz is married to 21-year-old Susan Weiner and they spend most of the spare time on their boat, "Sunmark." They live in Los Angeles.

RUMOR OF THE WEEK: We hear that Betty Friedman's ex-husband is currently writing a book about their life together. Supposedly it's a no-holds-barred autobiography. Revenge, Revenge!

A: George Harrison seems to have stuck with it. He's in India now and is reported to have taken up Kali worship. Harrison has ordered a statue of the Hindu goddess Kali shipped home to London.

GEORGE HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD'S MOST SIZZLING FEUD: It's between gossip columnist Frank Barrett and singer Frank Sinatra. Rona has been on Frankie's "list" ever since she wrote a novel that closely paralleled his life and career. Subsequently, he has been saying insulting things about her in his night club act at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas. Miss Barrett's lawyers have had the Sinatra comments taped for possible legal action. But Sinatra has insulted women columnists in public before and gotten away with it — remember what he said about Dorothy Kigallien and Maxine Cheshire?

Q: Is Lionel Hampton rich and is he married? — E. D., Detroit.

A: Lionel is a widower; his wife died three years ago of a cerebral hemorrhage. He is well to do, mainly because his late wife handled the family purse strings, giving the musician $50 a week spending money and insisting that they stay in their low rent Harlem apartment. When she died, Hampton moved immediately to more lavish quarters. The 59-year-old jazz great has just recovered from a successful cataract operation and is seen everywhere with Audrey Smaitz, who is in her twenties.

TROUBLE IN PARADISE? Are two Hollywood dream marriages between older men and younger women fraying at the seams? That's what they say about Dick and Cathy Martin and Dean and Dolly Martin (no relation) wedlocks. The male TV stars are best pals and so are their young wives, but friendship isn't helping matters.

Q: Is it true Dick Van Dyke drinks a bit? — H. P., New York, N. Y.

A: The highly successful television performer is an admitted alcoholic and works and lives within the precepts of Alcoholics Anonymous. He says his biggest asset has always been "the love and understanding of those around me." Dick's problem has never so severe as that of many chronic alcoholics.

Q: I've lost track of the famous Herrigan brothers. Could you bring me up to date? — G. G., Scranton, Pa.

A: Philip and his wife Elizabeth, who pleaded guilty and was fined not long ago for shoplifting, are trying to keep out of the public eye. They're opening a "resistance commune" in Baltimore called Jonah House. Daniel left his college teaching job by "voluntarily" and just took off for Europe.

Are rats leaving Britain's sinking ship? Well, no. Andre Previn, conductor of the London Symphony Orchestra and husband of actress Mia Farrow, is taking out British citizenship papers. Andre, Mia and their 4-year-old twins and adopted Vietnamese orphan daughter will be joined by another little Previn in the early spring.

Q: Isn't the girl who is "Charlie" in the Revlon ads the same one who is on TV in the bra ads? If so, why does she have a space between her teeth in the latter? — H. E., New York, N. Y.

A: The model is indeed the same — the one and only Lauren Hutton. She did the bra ads before Charles Revlon picked her to be "Charlie." Since Lauren is a health food, nature child-individualist, she has refused to have the gap between her teeth fixed and at Revlon's insistence wears a dental coverup to make her perfect for her "Charlie" ads. Q: Have the Bentles stuck with India meditation, or was the Guru period just a passing fad? — A. C., Park Ridge, Ill.

Q: Will Liz Taylor's daughter by Mike Todd follow her into show business? — E. Y., Ft. Worth, Tex.

A: Right now the teen-aged Liz Tod says she wants to be a doctor. She goes to school in Hawaii where her uncle, Howard Taylor, an oceanographer, keeps a close watch on her. Her half-brother Christopher also goes to college in Hawaii on the island of Kauai.

SEN. ROBERT BYRD
... for flag, God and country

Q: How can Senator Robert Byrd of this state ever hope to become Senate Majority Leader with his record of membership in the Ku Klux Klan? — E. O., Wheeling, W. Va.

A: Senator Byrd does have a good chance to make it when Senator Mike Mansfield retires some time between now and 1977. Byrd is no longer a member of the KKK where he served as an "officer" during World War II. (The fact emerged in the primary during his first bid for Congress in 1952.) Byrd said his Klan involvement was a youthful mistake and he'd been a member only between 1942 and 1943. However, in 1946 he wrote a letter to the Imperial Wizard saying, "The Klan is needed as never before and I am anxious to see its rebirth here in West Virginia." Today Byrd explains it all away by saying, "In the period and environment I grew up in, I didn't see anything against the Klan; it was for flag, God, country and it was against Communism."

... refuses to fill the gap

Q: In another question and answer column similar to yours I read that Zsa Zsa Gabor and Conrad Hilton had no children. I thought they had a daughter. Right or wrong? — L. M., Zanesville, Ohio.

A: You are right and the other column is wrong. The hotel tycoon and the Hungarian actress have a 24-year-old daughter named Francesca Hilton. It is not known why, but Hilton doesn't list his daughter under his bio in Who's Who.

Q: What happened to the pig Billie Jean King gave Bobby Riggs before their 'Houston match? Did Bobby keep it? — R. T., Lima, Ohio.

A: "Larrimore Hustle," the piglet, is alive and well in Oklahoma City where he has been adopted by the two songwriter partners who wrote "The Ballad of Bobby Riggs." He was lost after the tennis match, then found, and Bobby didn't mind giving him up.

Caution urged for first-time gardeners

BY GEORGE ABRAHAM
GARDENING FEB. 14:
 We've been telling folks to garden more in '74, but for newcomers we'd like to add a word of caution. Don't bite off more than you can chew! People who have never gardened before tell us they are going to plant as much as an acre.

Many of them will have so much blaspheinous that they will never garden again. For these folks we tell them to start small and work up to the size of garden they can comfortably handle.

Sordid news on the domestic and international scene keeps our pressures and anxieties on the increase. Cutbacks in travel and runaway inflation are making more people garden-minded and as a result there's going to be more shortages.

Don't buy more seed than you can use and keep the size of your garden down to where you can handle it nicely. A good many crops can be planted closer together than is recommended, and you might better tackle a smaller plot than to put in an acre. One acre might turn out to be an "acher."

CATS AND DOGS: For those who've asked how to keep cats and dogs out of the flower bed, here's an answer from a reader: "First, it's cruel to hurt animals for functioning naturally."

Suggestions: "Encourage your neighbors to put plenty of peat moss or fine pine bark around his shrubs and trees, telling him how it benefits plants. It's a small price to pay and the cats will welcome using his own yard with the soft materials for covering his deposits."

"If you can't stand the accumulation, try a poop scooper. Get one for your neighbor. Be understanding. It's the neighbor's fault and not the animal. It seems ironic that gardeners spend money on cow and sheep manure, and cringe at cat and dog deposits. No harm is done except if cats get into new seedling beds."

TOUGH FOLIAGE PLANTS: If you're one who "just can't grow any plant," here are a few toughies to try: Chinese water fern (Glaucocarya), Grows well in water and in semi-shade. Cast iron plant (Aspidistra). Grows as an expanding clump. 18 inches tall, 18 inches wide. (Cissus rhombifolia). Ideal vining plant for planters, or for living wall coverings.

Dumb cane (Dieffenbachia). Leaves grow 2 feet long, 8 inches wide. Grows in sunless window. Heartleaf philodendron (P. oxycardium). Ideal on several pots or on pole light fixture. Corn plant (Dracaena) Several varieties, ideal for planters in sunless windows. Pittosporum. No common name. Grows in low-light apartments in north window. Dark green foliage is handsome.

Sea teal (Podocarpus) Small shrublike plant that takes little light. Bird's nest clematis (Gastrodia) habit, dwarf "snake plant" grows in any window. Taller growing snake plant (also called bowstring hemp, and mother-in-law tongue) grows in any window. All above take a soil mixture of 1 part each of sand, peat and loam.

In many-apartments plants have a long time thriving due to excess heat and low light. The above plants will flourish in rooms with these conditions.

VEGETABLES ON FENCES: Several readers have a fence around their backyards and wonder if they can grow vegetables on the fence. This is a fine idea. Use the fence for growing tomatoes, pole beans, gourds and all types of cucumbers.

You can even use the fence for growing melons and baby watermelons, squash and small pumpkins. Don't worry about the plants being so fragile that they cannot support the weight of the crop.

The plants are strong and with a little support such as wire or trellis, will grow fine crops.

We grow many melons, cucumbers, squash and others in half barrels with a wire corset for the vines. If you're short on garden space, grow your crops in a container of some sort.

"TOBACCO MOSAIC" ON FLOWERS? For years we've cautioned gardeners about first washing their hands (if they are tobacco users) before handling tomato plants, peppers, eggplants or any member of the tomato family (solanacea).

The reason: tobacco mosaic virus infects about 40 percent of all solanaceous tobacco. Smokers can spread this incurable disease to their tomato plants, etc., simply by touching or brushing up against them. By using an electron microscope, it's been proven that many flower-species can also be infected with tobacco virus, from both cigarettes and pipe tobacco, as well as cigars or chewing tobacco.

Petunias, browallia, and other members of the "tomato family" can get the tobacco mosaic virus from smokers who do not wash their hands before handling "the weed."

GROW CUCUMBERS: When it comes to ordering cucumber seeds, home gardeners are baffled. They want to know which varieties are non-bitter, or which are not hollow.

Our friend, Dr. Henry Manger of Cornell University has produced a wonderful cucumber named Marketmore 70. It bears over a long period and is resistant to scab and mosaic. Tablegreen 25 is also scab and mosaic resistant, and is also tolerant of downy mildew, an important advantage for home gardeners in late season.

Hollowness in cucumbers often results from poor pollination, and is also found along with bitterness. Both problems are associated with drought and cool temperatures. Bitterness is also an inbred characteristic and before long you should be able to buy non-bitter seed.

Burplex No. 25 is a mild cucumber recommended for folks who eat cucumbers and have them "talk back" (Lemon is another non-burpy cucumber).

Incidentally, if you want to can your own gherkin pickles, order seed of West India Gherkin and start a few.

Each vine produces great quantities of very tiny, prickly fruit, which make dandy small pickles. Fruit is short, rounded in shape and covered with little sharp spines. If you have a greenhouse, why not let a few cucumber vines climb up to the top and take advantage of the upper space?

Most varieties do well in a greenhouse, but be sure to get one that's mildew resistant.

QUESTION BOX
QUESTION OF THE WEEK: C. D. of Twin Falls: "We want to build ourselves a plastic greenhouse and want to know if we should use the plastic panels or the plastic sheets. Will either let the sunlight in as much as glass will?"

Before glass got so scarce—and so expensive, it was the best material to make a greenhouse out of. Now with high maintenance costs, we think that the specially surfaced fiberglass reinforced plastic (abbreviated FRP) panels are great—for both amateur and commercial greenhouses.

Fiberglass will transmit the same amount of light that glass will. Normally, fiberglass is guaranteed for a period of ten years. After five years, the manufacturer recommends recoating the fiberglass with a material called Tedlar to renew the surface.

If the fiberglass is untreated, you can't get adequate light transmission unless you rub down the panels with steel wool periodically, wash and spray with an acrylic lacquer.

The alternative to this costly procedure is to install protectively surfaced panels that are guaranteed against yellowing, erosion and fiber "bloom." Fiber bloom is the fuzzy strands of fibre you see after the material has become exposed, causing dirt to cling to the surface.

We just built ourselves a greenhouse with fiberglass coated with Tedlar and it is guaranteed to last 20 years and this will never need ordinary unpunctured FRP panels. If you're planning to build a greenhouse check with a horticultural supplier and get the facts before you buy.

E. G. of Buhl: "We raised some of our sunflowers from seed last year and they were terrific. A man from Germany told us that sunflower seeds were loaded with nitrogen, calcium, phosphorus, carotene, riboflavin and niacin, and almost as high in protein as a T-Bone steak. They are rich in vitamin A and D."

"He also said that each seed is a sun lamp to the human body, being beneficial to the eyesight, complexion and fingernails. They are a cure to neural pressure and jumpy nerves. The seeds of the small sunflowers are just as good as the tame varieties which grow to the size of a dinner plate. I understand that the Russian people carry sunflower seeds with them at all times, and eat them constantly."

Test shows extent of heart muscle damage

NEW YORK—A test that allowed doctors for the first time to see the precise area of muscle destroyed by a heart attack in a living patient has been developed by a team of Harvard researchers.

The researchers reported at a meeting of the American College of Cardiology here Sunday that the experimental test, which is currently in use at just one Boston hospital, has potential application to everyday bedside medical practice in hospitals for both diagnostic and predictive purposes.

The test could help distinguish heart attacks from other conditions that produce chest pain. Also, it could help doctors evaluate which therapy helped limit the extent of damage from a heart attack as well as those that adversely affected a heart attack patient's course of illness by extending the area of dead tissue, thereby jeopardizing the victim's life.

Further, the test could aid cardiac surgeons in defining precisely the area of heart muscle that must be resected in those cases where open-heart surgery is needed for heart attack patients.

Doctors can now determine the extent and location of heart muscle destruction only indirectly by such methods as interpreting the changes appearing in a series of electrocardiograms and in the levels of the enzymes in the blood. Cardiologists at the meeting predicted that the test could prove to be another important tool in improving the treatment of the hundreds of thousands of heart attacks that strike Americans each year.

The new test relies on the combined actions of a metal called technetium, which is made radioactive, and an antibiotic drug called tetracycline.

In 1963 a Czechoslovak scientist, Dr. P. Malek, learned that technetium has the peculiar property of attaching itself to dying cells. The basis for the affinity seemed to be selective binding of the drug to proteins and nucleic acids within the cells.

Echo location techniques aid sea mammals

By DAVID BINDER
 (c) New York Times Service
 FREMONT, Calif. — In the twilight of a distinguished scientific career spanning 50 years, Dr. Thomas C. Poulter spends most of his days listening to the voices of sea mammals — the clicks, honks, barks and screeches that most species use to find their way around in the world's oceans. The 76-year-old California scientist has recorded 600 miles of tape of sounds made by sea mammals. In the process, he has learned a lot about the highly sophisticated echo-location techniques that most employ to find food, mates and enemies. Over the last dozen years, Dr. Poulter and his associates at the Biological Sonar Laboratory here have also made some unusual discoveries about hearing functions, mainly through their experiments with seals, sea lions and whales. "Blind sea lions did it," he said in an interview, explaining how he got into experiments with two sightless but otherwise healthy specimens. The tests demonstrated how they swiftly found their prey by means of echo ranging signals — a series of sharp clicking noises whose echoes determined the size, shape and distance of fish. The clicks come at a rate of 75 to 80 each second and sound like a low buzz to the human ear. But the tiny interval of silence between the clicks is the time when the sea lions pick up the echoes. Poulter said that sea lions coded their personal clicks in such a way that they could almost concentrate on them and not be confused by the signals of their fellows. He learned this by putting 12 sea lions in a tank after the same fish quarry. With the assistance of Dr. Robin P. Michelson, a physician experienced in neurosurgery, Poulter determined that sea lions broadened the base line of their echo receiving equipment by employing their whiskers, which have highly sensitive nerve endings. "The whisker signals don't go to the same part of the brain as the hearing signals, and this makes it almost impossible to jam the signals," Poulter said. Sea lions also employ two-tone echo signals to locate small fish, and Dr. Poulter said, "We think this will be useful for manned sonar" as applied by navy and other underwater explorers.
