Ethiopian revolt spreads

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — A military revolt spread across Ethiopia today and Emperor Haile Selassie appeared on a balcony before his loyal troops and made an emotional appeal for national unity.

The Ethiopian navy and air force today joined a rebellion in the armed forces sparked by demands for higher pay and better living conditions. Troops and sailors seized the Red Sea port of Massawa, the navy's principal facility.

'Improprieties' charged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary James Schlesinger said Tuesday the alleged Pentagon spy ring at the White House amounted to "gross improprieties."

He said they might have ended sooner had Adm. Thomas Moorer of the Joint Chiefs of Staff been more alert. Schlesinger appeared before the House Appropriations Committee, where he made the comment.

Coal miners stay home

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Thousands of coal miners in southern West Virginia stayed off the job again Tuesday to protest a shortage of gasoline, while United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller and Gov. Arch Moore pleaded with the Federal Energy Office to beef up fuel supplies.

Moore's office said nearly 8,000 coal miners were on strike in southern counties, while a West Virginia Coal Association official put the figure at 9,000.

Plea bargain rejected

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John Ehrlichman has rejected a plea bargain offered by Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, the Los Angeles Times reported Tuesday.

The Times quoted Friends of Ehrlichman. The newspaper said that one of Ehrlichman's Washington lawyers also had confirmed that there had been "negotiations ... but a plea was ultimately rejected by Mr. Ehrlichman."

French aides quit posts

PARIS (Chicago Daily News) — The French government resigned today and President Georges Pompidou prepared to name a replacement.

Premier Pierre Messmer and his team handed in their resignations at the weekly cabinet meeting.

It was not immediately clear whether Messmer would head the new government. However, Pompidou remains in full charge of French foreign and internal policy.

Nixon won't be witness

WASHINGTON — President Nixon refused on constitutional grounds Tuesday to appear as a witness at the trial in California of John D. Ehrlichman, his former chief adviser on domestic affairs.

He also refused to appear before the chief judge of the superior court of the "District of Columbia for a hearing on the question of whether or not he must appear at the Ehrlichman trial.

Lucy ends weekly stint

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Lucille Ball, who pioneered the television situation comedy format in 1951, announced Tuesday she is retiring from weekly appearances after 23 years.

Her weekly series, now named "Three's a Crowd," will end March 19. Officials of the CBS-TV network said Miss Ball will appear in "a number of specials" next season although not performing in weekly shows.

Idaho 'Mother' chosen

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Ella Elizabeth Eld, Donnelly, is the new Idaho Mother of the Year for 1974, according to Mary McClusky, Twin Falls, 1973, Idaho Mother of the Year.

A widow, Mrs. Eld has raised six sons. She is sponsored by Payette Lakes Progressive Club, McCall.

Bebe told Rose Mary of Hughes' $100,000

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — Charles G. Rebozo, President Nixon's close friend, changed envelopes containing a $100,000 campaign contribution from Howard Hughes to avoid "additional problems" for the President's reelection campaign, according to sworn testimony by Rebozo filed in federal court.

"In statements given under oath to lawyers for Common Cause, the citizens group that is suing the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President, Rebozo said he switched the envelopes containing $100,000 in cash "when confusion arose in the Hughes organization and it looked like we might have to change signals."

The money was in two envelopes, each containing $50,000 in $100 bills, according to Rebozo.

Rebozo said there was no danger of the identity of the donor being lost because he had told Rose Mary Woods, Nixon's personal secretary, about both installments of the $100,000 donation shortly after he received them in the summer of 1973.

Rebozo also testified he believed he received the initial $50,000 from a Hughes representative, Richard Danner, within the presidential compound at San Clemente, Calif.

The White House has said the president was unaware of the contribution from Hughes until reports about the transaction appeared in the press.

Rebozo also disclosed that the $100,000 came from the receipts of a gambling casino owned by Hughes.

Gooding editor's case under study in Oregon

By DAVID ESPO
T-N Capitol Bureau

BOISE — An Oregon corrections official said Monday the state's parole board was "looking at" the case of jailed Gooding news editor Harry Vanhorn.

At the same time the official, D. J. Snitker, said Vanhorn already had signed a waiver of extradition under the Interstate Compact Agreement for the Supervision of Parolees and Probationers.

Snitker and an official in the office of Oregon Gov. Tom McCall both said no formal decision had been made to extradite Vanhorn to Oregon, where he is wanted as a violator of parole.

In Gooding, Vanhorn told a Fifth District Magistrate Court Monday he would refuse to waive extradition back to Oregon, and Magistrate Clinton Shaw ordered his property bond reduced to $3,500 from the original figure of $7,500. Shaw also gave Oregon 20 days to act on extradition.

A spokesman in the office of the Gooding County sheriff, where Vanhorn is being held in jail, said he has not posted the bond by mid-morning.

Bob Oliver, a legal assistant to McCall in Salem, Ore., said Monday he had received "no formal documents" requesting that Vanhorn be extradited from Gooding back to Oregon as a fugitive from justice.

Spokesmen in the office Gov. Cecil D. Andrus in Boise also said they had received no request from Oregon authorities that Vanhorn be turned over to them. The governor's office has also received a petition, signed by about 30 area Gooding residents, charging in effect that Vanhorn is a political prisoner and urging his continued presence in their community.

The letter, copies of which have been sent to two state lawmakers in Idaho and to McCall in Oregon, charges that Vanhorn was arrested because of his "editorial comments concerning our political leaders. Please use your influence in reviewing the acts and free Mr. Vanhorn from this kind of political coercion and allow us to once again have an editorial in our newspaper worth reading," the letter said.

Vanhorn, convicted of armed robbery in Eugene, Ore., was jailed last week after a police check turned up evidence that he was a parole violator. (Continued on p. 11)

Rupert man serves at home

By ED MITCHELL
Times-News writer

RUPERT — An Army fopul may have left Rupert City sanitation superintendent Juan Waldemar Martinez serve out his military obligation behind a city desk in Rupert.

According to Mrs. Martinez, the Army simply forgot to send orders assigning Martinez to his duty station when he came home on leave in 1968.

Nothing was done about the oversight until this month, when an identification check brought the matter to the attention of military officials.

Martinez was arrested by military police and charged with being absent without leave. Since then he has been at Ft. Lewis, Wash., but not held under arrest. He was permitted to return home on a pass this past weekend.

Martinez has been a city department head for about two years.

An Army spokesman from the Ft. Lewis, AWOL processing center confirmed today three had been "a mixup" in the Martinez case.

"If what he says is the truth, he will be out in a little while," the military official said. "We're waiting for old records from Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind. We won't do anything until we get his records."

Henry reports Mideast gains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has been told by Syria that it holds 65 Israeli prisoners of war and will permit Red Cross teams to visit them beginning Friday, the White House said today.

At the same time, the White House said Israel will furnish Kissinger — who now is in Israel conferring with Premier Golda Meir and other top officials — its ideas on disengagement of Syrian and Israeli forces.

Kissinger plans to fly back to Damascus with this information on Friday, the White House announcement gains.

The announcement was the first official public disclosure that Kissinger was making progress in efforts to bring about a pullback of troops on each side on the Syrian-Israeli front.

Kissinger arrived in Damascus late Tuesday and held conferences with Syrian President Hafez Assad Wednesday morning before going on to Jerusalem where he reported, "I believe we have made good progress with some of Israel's most crucial concerns."

The Israel government has insisted as a first step toward disengagement, negotiations with Syria provide a list of the POWs held by Syria and allow Red Cross representatives to visit them.

Gerald L. Warren, deputy White House press secretary, declined to characterize his announcement, saying it "certainly reflects" movement toward negotiating a pullback in the Golan Heights region where bloody clashes have occurred between Israeli and Syrian forces since the October Arab-Israeli war.

UPI Moscow dispatches quoting diplomatic sources — in the Russian capital, said, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko flew to Damascus hours after Kissinger left and that he hoped to meet with Kissinger in Cairo on Friday.

Western diplomats in Moscow saw the Gromyko trip as a move by the Soviet Union to avoid being upstaged in the Middle East peace negotiations by Kissinger. The United States and the Soviet Union are co-chairmen of the Geneva Middle East peace conference.

High officials traveling with the Kissinger party have said several times that unless Kissinger got the list or similar assurances then little else could be done. They have also said that Kissinger said Mrs. Meir should make the actual announcement.

At the airport, Foreign Minister Abba Eban appeared pleased as he greeted Kissinger after the secretary's seven hours of talks earlier today and Tuesday in Damascus with Syrian President Hafez Assad. Syria said Kissinger would return to Damascus on Friday.

Eban and Kissinger held brief talks at the King David Hotel where Kissinger is staying and Kissinger left there for his 4:15 p.m. 8:15 a.m. MDT meeting with Mrs. Meir.

Spot gasoline shortages hit some TF stations

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Spot shortages of gasoline are beginning to affect the operation of service stations here.

Some stations out of gas at the end of the month, were closed temporarily. Other dealers limited amounts of gas that can be purchased at any one sale.

For a week the R & S Texaco station has been closed with a large cardboard sign in the window reading "Out of Gas."

J. G. Roth, co-owner, said the station had been given a quota this month of 77 per cent of February, 1973, sales. Meanwhile, the number of people seeking gas has increased so the station just sells the fuel until it runs out, he said.

Roth said his station will re-open March 1. He expressed surprise at the shortage of gas here. "I just got back from a trip to Mexico and the first time I ran into a shortage was in Twin Falls. When I got back Monday I found out other boys were out of gas," he said.

At times it is estimated up to 10,000 gallons in a month, Roth said. This February it was allotted 6,000 gallons.

Joe Mendolia at Mendolia Texaco Service said that to counter the gas rationing of 77 per cent of 1973 sales, his station is shortening its hours of operation and limiting sales to $4 purchases.

Even so, the station will run out of gas. Mendolia said he will be out today and Thursday before he can get some of his March allotment.

"If we fill everybody that came in here we'd be open maybe 10 days" each month, Mendolia said.

A few stations in Twin Falls are closing on weekends to save gas and some have had to shut down temporarily for days at a time, he said.

But the situation is uneven. "There are stations in town that aren't selling their allocations," according to Mendolia.

And despite the shortage of gas at many stations, he said that no lines of gas hungry cars are backing up at his station.

Robert Smith, an attendant at Dell's Mobil in Ketchum, said Dell's has not begun to restrict the amount of gas to be purchased by one customer.

Sign of times

But he said the station has been short on fuel with an 85 per cent allotment. He said it ran out of regular gas Monday and had no fuel at all for a few days at the end of January.

While there are no waiting lines in Ketchum, Smith said that three of the city's eight service stations have been out of fuel at least at times during the past week.

On the state level, Idaho Falls was about 13 per cent short of the gas it received at this time two years ago, according to Rick Brown, director of the State Energy Office.

He said that Idaho's "not in too bad shape, compared to most other" states, but that "on the other hand I want to keep it that way."

Brown said he does not know yet how national plans to redistribute gasoline among states may affect Idaho's allotment.

Groups seek limits on low cost housing near TF

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Three citizen groups are seeking county zoning to ban or restrict low cost housing in affluent neighborhoods north and northeast of Twin Falls.

Warning of possible court action as a last resort, the groups have appealed for changes in proposed county zoning regulations to protect property values.

They reportedly have asked that trailer parks and multiple-family dwellings be banned or brought under strict construction guidelines in the area.

Ray Roper, representing "75 to 100 homeowners" northeast of the city, said

Tuesday his group would "definitely" go to court if the commissioners refused to change or tighten up permitted uses in the proposed zone.

"We will be forced to find out what our legal rights are," Roper said.

Spokesmen for the other two groups suggested they might join in the court action if allowed to do so.

Residential medium (RM) zoning is proposed for a large area surrounding Twin Falls City, including the north and northeast region. Trailer parks and multiple-family dwellings are listed as permitted uses in the RM zone, and they are the basis for the three groups' alarm.

But it appeals last week were probably touched off by a decision allowing construction of a trailer park on Eastland Drive. The park, planned by Arlie and Robert White, was granted municipal sewer and water services Feb. 19 by the Twin Falls City Council. The county had earlier approved the park, contingent upon its receiving the city utilities.

David Mead, spokesman for the Hill Crest Improvement Association said Tuesday allowing trailer parks in the region is "like mixing apples and oranges. His group includes homeowners on Hill Crest Drive and Hill Crest Lane.

Trailer parks represent "higher density" development that should not be permitted in the existing "low density" region, according to Mead.

He listed several other objections:

— Trailer parks do not have to meet uniform building code standards. Mead said "a legal opinion floating around town" suggests that the parks should be considered subdivisions, requiring plats and conformity with the building code.

— "Fast depreciation" of trailer homes could lead to devaluation of adjoining property. Mobile homes can lose as much as 25 per cent of their initial worth during the first year, according to Mead.

102 Gypsies appear in southern Arizona desert

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—The Border Patrol is looking for a criminal bill that will prevent just how 102 Gypsies from various parts of Europe appeared in the southern Arizona desert one night.

The gypsies—half of them young—were being held as illegal aliens.

The Border Patrol suspects they may be concealing the operations of a wide-ranging ring that illegally brought them to the United States by way of Montreal, Mexico City and a midnight ride across the border.

Assistant Chief Border Patrol Agent William Selzer said Tuesday he doubts the gypsies' story that they made it across the border by hiring smugglers in Nogales, Mexico, just across the border from Nogales, Ariz. They said they bumped into the helpful smugglers by happenstance.

"That can be so. This had to be planned in Europe," he said.

"I'm puzzled because I don't know how they got everyone from Europe together all of a sudden in Nogales—this took some planning."

The Gypsies are apparently from seven families, he said, and speak a number of languages, Serbo-Croatian, Spanish, Italian, German, indicating many places of origin. They range in age from 2 to 72, and half are under 12.

Selzer's district already has a stable problem with illegal border crossers from Mexico and from other Latin American nations who come to Mexico to try to get into the United States.

"We don't want to be inundated every week with 100 Europeans," he said.

The misanthropic leader of the gypsies, Ivan Gora Konovailov, said the group flew from Holland to Montreal, then flew to Mexico City and made their way more than 1,000 miles northward to Nogales.

The Gypsies appeared Sunday. The Border Patrol first noticed groups of them straggling out of the desert near an old Spanish mission in the region of Tumacacori, 40 miles south of Tucson. Others were sighted trekking along the road to Phoenix and others in a bus station in Tucson.

Refreshments for the meeting were served by Mrs. Mary Mann, Mrs. Gus Callen, and Mrs. Clyde Bragg.

Pipeline planned in west

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A natural gas pipeline will be built through Idaho, Washington and Oregon, if two natural gas transmission companies get their way.

The companies asked the Federal Power Commission Tuesday for permission to construct a $2.25 billion pipeline.

Interstate Transmission associates plan to transport 42.8 million cubic feet of natural gas per day from Canada to the Pacific Northwest and Southwest.

Northwest pipeline would operate the 37-mile, 26-inch line extending from the Canadian border near Kingsgate, British Columbia, through Idaho and Washington to near Rye Creek, Ore., where it would connect with Northwest's existing system.

Pacific Interstate also applied to the FPC for permission to import and sell the Canadian gas under a six-year contract signed last July with Pan-Alberta Gas Ltd., Calgary, Alta.

Church bingo game robbed by two men

MOUNTLAKE TERRACE, Wash. (UPI) — Two men in a bingo game at a St. Pius Roman Catholic Church Hall here and escaped with about $900.

Police Chief Bob Fox said one man entered the hall through the kitchen door, pulled out a revolver and ordered all persons at the bingo game to lie face down on the floor Monday night.

The second bandit then entered the room and the two of them tied up the bingo patrons and attendants.

They then took the proceeds from the bingo game and robbed the patrons before leaving.

Officer kills cohort

HOUSTON (UPI) — A policeman summoned to investigate a shooting in a lounge burst into the bar's restroom Tuesday and confronted a long-haired man wearing jeans and an embroidered denim jacket holding a gun on two other men.

The long-haired man whirled at the sound of the policeman crashing through the door. The policeman fired one shot that killed him.

The victim, identified as Rodney Scott Morgan, 27, was an undercover narcotics officer.

"Were police?" the dead man's partner, F.G. Dodd, yelled at the policeman.

"Goddamn it, why didn't you say so?" the policeman replied.

"It is an unfortunate situation, but it's the risk involved when you have people walking under cover," Sheriff Jack Heard said. "City and county undercover officers coordinate their activities, but there's no coordination between undercover and uniformed officers."

"Unfortunately a uniformed officer entered this situation." The policeman was identified as Glen E. Thyssen, 25.

"Thyssen kicked open the door to the men's room," said district Fire Chief L.O. Martin who witnessed the shooting. "A man with a gun in his hand (Morgan) spun around. Thyssen took one step back and fired one, hitting the man in the chest. He dropped dead."

Welfare Seen... measure passes

BOISE — With little debate Tuesday, the Senate approved a measure effectively increasing the penalties welfare cheaters face in the state.

The vote on the bill was 28-4. Most of its provisions were designed to put Idaho into compliance with federal welfare eligibility regulations.

Three provisions of the measure, however, were requested by the special deputy attorneys general working in the state program to pursue welfare cheaters.

One of the provisions provides that anyone who knowingly accepts assistance for which they are not eligible is punishable in the same manner and to the same extent as for larceny of the money of value of the public assistance or relief so obtained or attempted to be so obtained.

A similar provision is written into the law for people who dispose of property or conceal income to render them eligible for assistance.

The current law makes the crimes misdemeanors and carries possible penalties of $300 and not more than six months in prison.

The floor sponsor of the measure, Sen. Robert Saxvik, D-Burley, told the Senate, the legislation would help the Department of Environmental and Community Services in eliminating the "non deserving" persons in the state now receiving welfare.

Views heard at Oregon Trail study session

TWIN FALLS — Support for inclusion of portions of the Oregon Trail in the National Trails System was expressed here Tuesday night.

But one local citizen attending the Oregon Trail study session urged that any such step in Idaho should be made through existing public and private agencies without creating new federal bureaus.

Don Zark, representing the Twin Falls County Parks and Recreation Commission and the Idaho Wildlife Federation, said existing agencies, including the BLM, city and county groups as well as private groups, could handle the task should such program be adopted.

He said there would be some who would be disappointed in such a program because it would attract more people into this area. More people means a downturn in the quality of life in an area such as Idaho, he said.

Under the plan which was briefed at the Tuesday session, the Oregon Trail preservation project would, through legislation, become a part of the National Trails System.

Several alternatives for funding and project supervision were discussed by Howard Chadwick, Seattle, study coordinator for the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

Also speaking were Marie Wells, director of the Idaho State Historical Society, Boise, and Del Williams, manager of the Idaho State Park at Massacre Rock near American Falls. Assisting in a slide presentation prior to the open discussion was Judith Austin, Boise, of the Idaho State Historical Society. The U. S. Forest Service, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the BLM and the National Parks Services are among other agencies involved in the Oregon Trail study.

Discussion also centered around trail markers, purchase of land over which the Oregon Trail had passed, preservation of remaining trail portions and structures to cover trail sections for close public study.

But Earl Peck, former president of the Twin Falls County Historical Society, which is also active in trail study and preservation, said he was "more interested in putting on his walking boots to inspect the trail" rather than "going into an elaborate building."

Bob Humphries, of the Youth Conservation Camp at Milner, told of interest in such projects among the young people.

Written comment was turned in by some at the Tuesday evening session and those wishing to express an opinion of the proposals under study can do so until March 30 by writing the Northwest Regional Office of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, 100 Second Avenue, Seattle, 98104.

Dr. Wells said a new booklet-map of the Oregon Trail would be available by late spring and would be for sale by the Society at locations over the state.

O. A. (Gus) Keller is local representative of the Oregon Trail study program.

Pops concert Sunday in TF

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho Concert and Stage Band will give a pops concert of light music Sunday at 3 p.m. in the College Fine Arts Auditorium.

Guest artists to be featured with the Concert Band are soprano Mary Walker and tenor Eugene Milton.

Mrs. Walker is well known in the Magic Valley for her many singing roles in local productions and as a voice teacher. Milton is assistant professor of music at CSI and each summer sings professionally with the McKinley Theater in the east.

They will be heard with the band in selections from "Cabaret," "Showboat" and "Westside Story." The band will perform two marches and Peter Henning's "Canaan."

After intermission the Stage Band will give forth with some big band jazz. Jazz compositions by Burt Backarach, Simon and Garfunkle, Sammy Nestico and others will be heard. Jazz soloists with the stage band include Reed Coulam and Tom Breske on sax, Allan DeVries on trombone, Warren Saunders and Bud Tensley on trumpet.

Bill Dove on drums and Marjorie Tensley on piano. Lawrence Curtis, CSI director of bands, will conduct the free program. CSI band officers this year are Jess Torres, Carol Skinner and Clay Zlatnik.

Special program

TWIN FALLS — Children at area grade schools will be viewing a special children's readers theatre show this week. The program is staged by the CSI drama department.

Called "The Pachyderm's Pack of Tales," the program evolves around elephant stories and poems. It is under the direction of Fran Tanner, drama department chairman. The group will visit four grade schools in Filer, Jerome, and several in Twin Falls.

Readers include David Hill and Joleen Lickley, Jerome; Connie Allen and Sandra Heaps, Filer; Joan Vaux, Hansen; Luau Clawson, Joe Shultz, Molly Curtis and Tom Atkins, Twin Falls.

Trees injured

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — Copper smelters have caused apparent sulfur dioxide injury to trees in four national forests in Arizona and New Mexico, the U.S. Forest Service says.

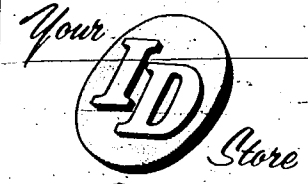

The Forest Service said a disease detection survey found leaf or needle tissue death among trees in the Tonto, Coronado and Apache National Forests in Arizona. The study said the symptoms were those of "acute sulfur dioxide injury."

In New Mexico, the report indicated further investigation was needed for verification but said symptoms resembling sulfur dioxide injury have been found in the Gila National Forest.

Confucius target in latest China unrest

Wednesday, February 27, 1974
Member of Audit Bureau of Circulation and UPI Official City and County Newspaper pursuant to Section 60108 Idaho Code. Thursday will be published. Published daily and Sunday except Saturday, at 132 Third Street West, Twin Falls, Idaho 83401. By Magic Valley Newspapers, Inc. Entered on second class mail matter April 9, 1918. Post office in Twin Falls, Idaho 83401 under the act of March 3, 1879.

(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — Two centuries before the birth of Christ, the first emperor of the Chin dynasty in China came to the conclusion that the only way to break out of feudalism into nationhood would be to strike at the followers of the philosopher Kung Fu-Tzu.
Accordingly, book-burning was invented, along with "scholar-pitting," the burying-alive of hundreds of scholars in pits, a campaign that can be safely described as anti-intellectual.
A couple of millennia later, Chairman Mao Tse-Tung has launched a fresh campaign of vilification against the teachings of Kung Fu-Tzu, whom Westerners call Confucius. A question arises: why do the forces of change in China, then and now, initially find the teachings of Confucianism so subversive?

First, Confucius was a pre-conservative, teaching methods of weaving a social order in which men accepted a given role in life. A man obedient to his ruler could demand obedience from his son, creating stable, if rigid, hierarchies.
Second, the style of Confucianism is placidly composed. "The man of superior mind is placidly composed," said the Master. "The small-minded man is in a constant state of perturbation." Mao, hardly small-minded, considers regular turbulence essential to revolutionary purity.
But when a national demigod like Mao, near the end of his life, turns fiercely on a figure revered by his countrymen for 2,500 years, there must be more to it than a backing-off from a probe to the West, or a matter of palace intrigue.

In taking on Confucius, Mao cultivates a mighty opposite, and challenges the centuries ahead to judge him on the highest level of confrontation.
A marvelous irony in the confrontation between the four books of Confucius and the little red book of Chairman Mao is this: Not only has Mao adopted Confucianist principles in shunning the idols of God, but he has been forced to follow the master in dealing with one of his toughest ideological problems.
Because "Confucius say" that a man's character determines his conduct, and the only way Lin Piao could have tried to depose Mao was for Lin to have been a bad apple right from the start. Thus trapped, Mao must blacken the name of Lin Piao even if it means making Mao look less than all-wise.

The concession by the modern leader who presumes to defy his teachings might bring a smile to the pacidly composed face of Kung Fu-Tzu.
The old sage has seen how the dynasties which brought his followers into pits went on to preserve their power by adopting his ideas of social order. He will see it happen again, as the men who come after Mao select traditions of the ancient mandarins to freeze in the results of Mao's revolution.

Arbitration good for TF

Both the Twin Falls City Council and the city's firemen are to be commended for willingness to arbitrate their wage disagreements.
The city's firemen reportedly have reached an impasse in negotiations with the city regarding next year's salary schedule.
Instead of acrimony that often accompanies a negotiation stalemate, the two parties have turned to well respected arbitrators, including College of Southern Idaho President James I. Taylor and Tom Hazzard of the Idaho Employer's Council.
Although the arbitration is not legally binding, the arbitrators' findings can be expected to carry great weight in the final settlement.
Use of arbitration has several advantages. It does not paper over the often fundamental differences between the negotiating parties. At the same time arbitration serves as an indication of responsibility and good faith by both sides at the bargaining table.
Bringing prestigious members of the outside community into the negotiating process serves to remind both the Council and the firemen that the community as a whole has a large stake in the outcome of negotiations.
And perhaps most important, availability of respected negotiators gives key public employees such as the firemen who have no legal right to strike, an alternative to paralyzing their community to obtain fair treatment.
The trend is a good one and should be encouraged. It permits various economic interests to press their legitimate needs while at the same time maintaining an awareness of the whole community's stake in an amicable and fair settlement.

Tough task for Sisco

(C) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — Something familiar in diplomatic circles happened to Joseph J. Sisco on his way to the presidency of Hamilton College in New York state.
He was beguiled by Henry A. Kissinger into believing he was indispensable in the State Department.
It wasn't one of Kissinger's major triumphs, because Sisco wasn't all that hard to beguile. "I wouldn't have felt comfortable walking away from the Middle East after 20 years," he recalled recently.
"A settlement is not going to be easy, of course, but we've made significant progress in the past few months."
Ever since his graduation magna cum laude from Knox in 1941, Sisco nurtured the dream of becoming a college president. After World War II, he did graduate work at the University of Chicago, eventually earning a Ph.D. as a specialist in Soviet affairs.
It was at Chicago U. that Sisco was persuaded by professors Hans Morgenthau and Quincy Wright that he ought to get a couple of years of government experience before embarking on a career in academe. The two years became 20, and Sisco as head of the State Department's U.S. affairs section and as an assistant secretary for the Near East and South Asia, found himself deeply embroiled in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

PETER LISAGOR

Until Kissinger became secretary of state and began to apply his talents to the Middle East, Sisco had been the government's chief emissary and negotiator in the prolonged effort to find a peaceful solution in the region.
Although he expects to concentrate on the Middle East, Sisco's staying on. His upward mobility in the foreign service was too brisk and unusual to endear him to many of the traditionalists in the diplomatic corps. Moreover, Sisco's aggressive, outspoken manner and gregarious personality seemed out of phase with their tusty concepts of the foreign service.
There is a sense of vindication, therefore, in the new post.
Sisco's not confident he made the right choice, but he is sure that he did the right thing insofar as Hamilton is concerned.
He recognizes that Kissinger is "a hard taskmaster" and that his new obligations involve helping to restore the department's morale by giving the foreign service structure a sense of participation in policy. It lacked that sense during the tenure of William F. Rogers as secretary, because the center of the action was where Kissinger operated in the White House, as a presidential assistant and head of the National Security Council staff.
Kissinger's close-to-the-vest habits may frustrate Sisco, and make him wish he took the Hamilton job. But he believes that the opportunity to move the warring parties in the Middle East toward a settlement of their ancient struggle was one that he could not ignore.

Thought for today

A thought for the day: American philosopher William James said, "Man lives by habit, indeed, but what he lives for is thrills and excitement."

BERRY'S WORLD

Portland Oregonian
The General Accounting Office's belief that in general large grain firms did not make a killing on the Russian wheat sale ought not to be allowed to obscure the findings that "shocking mismanagement" of the subsidy programs was uncovered.
Some dealers did make a killing during the summer of 1972 when the Russian wheat deal was cooking. These were on sales to non-Soviet buyers. In addition, evidence was turned up that farmers were milked by excessive requirements on transportation and margin fees.
The report showed that the Department of Agriculture operated its gigantic export subsidy program in a "slipshod" manner, not even making use of its own informational sources to keep track of the huge Russian purchases that stripped American reserves, causing a spiral of food pricing that is still twisting upward.
This mismanagement in the end cost the American consumer and taxpayer far more than any criminal act uncovered in the aftermath of Watergate. It was a blunder of such magnitude that if made under a parliamentary system would have brought down the government.
Fortunately for those responsible in the Department of Agriculture, the horrors of Watergate and an explosive energy crisis have all but obscured the disaster.

British election picture puzzles

(C) New York Times Service
LONDON — A puzzled reader in Sarasota, Fla., has requested a simple explanation of the British election. The following questionnaire is provided:
Question: Who's going to win?
Answer: The conservatives are almost sure to be re-elected.
Q — The people are fairly satisfied then?
A — Not at all. Last September, the polls showed that 72 per cent of the people questioned were "not happy about the way things are going in Britain." In December, the figure was 82 per cent, and at the start of the election; it was up to 88 per cent.

Q — Then why did Prime Minister Heath call the election now?
A — He was confident he could win.
Q — On his record?
A — Certainly not. Since he took office in 1970,

Food prices have gone up 53 per cent, the miners are on strike, and the country is working only three days a week.
Q — How many people work in Britain?
A — About half of them.
Q — I take it then that Heath must be popular?
A — Not exactly. He smiles a lot but somehow he doesn't seem to feel good when he does. He is not an easy public speaker like Wilson. He is not a television star. It's not that people don't like him or like his program, but think that maybe he's good for them.
Q — Then the outlook for the future must be much better?
A — The outlook is much worse. You see, except during the strike, the price of coal will double soon, Britain's oil bill will go up by 2 billion pounds in 1974, the miners will have to get a big pay rise before they go back to work, the other unions will want a lot more too, and taxes will have to be raised. It's all a bit awkward.

The Other Side of the Coin!

JAMES RESTON

Q — Do the voters know about all this?
A — Certainly. No disaster has ever been so widely publicized. In the first two weeks of the election, Heath held 11 news conferences and made 10 major policy speeches; Harold Wilson, the Labor leader, held 11 news conferences and delivered 10 formal speeches, but Jeremy Thorpe, the Liberal leader, was not nearly so active as the other two.
Q — And what's happening to the liberals?
A — They're doing well, probably make more progress than any other party. Sometimes you have to know people will dislike them.
Q — I'm a little confused, but let me try it another way. The Tories are usually for free enterprise, and the Socialists for controlling the economy, right?
A — Right, but not this time. Heath wants to fix wages and some prices, and Wilson wants to fix prices but not wages, and both want to spend more on the social services and control the inflation. Then, of course, Heath wants to stay in the Common Market and Wilson is thinking of getting out of it.
Q — Then why isn't labor going to win?
A — Because the British people — have apparently decided to abandon the old rule this time — vote against the shortcomings of the opposition.

Outcome of Ohio election big worry for GOP

WASHINGTON — The shock of Democratic victory Vice President Ford's old Michigan district could be magnified into total alienation between Richard M. Nixon and his party by the next Congressional special election: March 5 in Ohio's 1st Congressional District, another longtime Republican stronghold.
"If we lose that one," a top Republican told us, "real panic will set in." Such panic could radicalize Congressional Republicans on resignation or impeachment.
But even before the crucial Ohio election Republicans who had their deep anxieties over the impact of Watergate are now preparing harsh new demands on the White House for complete disclosure of all documents demanded by the House Judiciary committee.
Thus at the least, the shocking results of the Michigan election have stiffened and offended the Republican Party at the moment Nixon and his battery of anti-impeachment lawyers are plotting new ways to withhold material from the House committee's impeachment proceedings.

There are strong indications that the runaway Michigan upset by Democrat Richard VanderVeen was the result of thousands of outright Republican switchers, not merely angry and disillusioned Republican voters slaying at home.
For example, nearly 30,000 get-out-the-vote calls from Republican telephone banks went to identified Republican voters the day before the election. "We got those voters out," a high-level Michigan Republican told us, "but they doublecrossed us and voted Democratic."

In the Republican hard-core counties of Ford's safely Republican district, precinct captains and county chairmen sent this message to state Republican headquarters within hours after the vote: "Nixon has to go."
"These people would have crawled over hot coals for Nixon until Watergate," a political lieutenant of Republican Gov. William G. Milliken told us. "Now they've had it."
In Ohio's 1st district, Democratic prospects are far better on paper than they ever were in Michigan, despite a 70 per cent win there in 1972 by William Keating, the resigned Republican Congressman. Operatives of both parties believe Democrat Thomas Luken was running slightly ahead of Republican Willis Gradison Jr. before the Michigan shocker.

Thus, Luken must be the odds-on choice to capture the seat for the Democrats for the first time in 10 years. But more important, a pro-Luken labor campaign has been transported from Grand Rapids to Cincinnati with a most sophisticated AFL-CIO political operation.
To save the Ohio district — and stem what is surely potentially fatal political blood-letting for President Nixon — the Republican high command is prepared to put every resource available at Gradison's command.
But moving Republicans to the polls March 5 may well mean more votes for the Democrat, as in Michigan. If so, even a last-ditch, maximum Republican campaign with help from the White House may be self-defeating in Cincinnati. Having experienced shock in Michigan, party leaders are now half-expecting panic from Ohio.

Nixon press meet pacification attempt

By DON BACON
 (c) Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — Lots of Americans are angry at President Nixon for various reasons these days, and at his news conference, Nixon attempted to pacify all of them. To those who are frustrated and enraged by long lines at the gasoline pumps, he offered hope that the "crisis has passed" and that while serious energy shortages remain, gasoline will start to flow in greater quantities this spring and summer. To those who are worried about inflation and the possibility of a recession, he promised to hold down prices of the two leading inflation offenders — fuel and food — and to pour federal money into areas that may be hurt by an economic downturn. Overall, he said, the economic prospects for the rest of 1974 are "good."

 To those in the Republican Party who are fearful of an electoral disaster this year, he urged them to remain calm, not to panic and not to be misled by the loss last week of a so-called "safe" seat in a special Congressional election. "Nine months before an election," he said, "no one can predict" how it will turn out, but he predicted "a good year" for Republican candidates who ran on the administration's "peace and prosperity" record.

 To those in Congress and elsewhere who are seeking to impeach Nixon, he repeated a pledge to "cooperate" with the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment investigation — up to a point — and to those opposed to impeachment, he said he believed the House would accept his narrow interpretation of the impeachment clause and would reject the impeachment resolution.
 "I do not expect to be impeached," he said. Nixon, looking trim and confident for the most part, sailed through his first press conference since Oct. 26, answering in detail the questions he chose to answer and leaving many reporters still seeking recognition at the end.

The 38-minute session with reporters underscored Nixon's oft-repeated declaration that he will serve out his full term in any event — a short of impeachment — will cause him to quit.
 He would not resign, he said, even if doing so would mean the survival of his political party.
 "I want my party to succeed," he said, "but more important, I want the presidency to survive." He was determined to stay in office, he continued, because "it is vitaly important that the presidency not be hostage to what happens to the popularity of a president one-time or another."

 Nixon said he had a lot of unfinished business still to do. Island's Newsday read back to him an old Nixon statement on the need for tax reform to assure that Americans would pay their fair share of taxes. Schram, at the end, asked Nixon: "Do you think you paid your fair share of taxes?" Nixon flinched as if he had taken a blow to the stomach. But again, he recovered, noting that he "did not write the law" which once gave prominent persons large tax write-offs for gifts of their personal papers. He admitted, however, that the legal work involved in the donation of his own papers in 1969 — which allowed him to reduce his income taxes to a nominal amount over the past five years — may not have been completed in time.

Analysis

"and I'm going to stay here until I get it done."
 White House aides admit televised news conferences take a great deal out of Nixon — he prepared for this one for three days — and require an emotional pitch that he is not able to achieve often. That, they point out, is a major reason for the infrequency of his meetings with reporters. At the Monday night session, held in the White House East Room, Nixon appeared totally unamused. He stumbled over his words at times, but seemed never at a loss for the answer he wanted to convey. Even the shouts of Sarah McLendon, a Washington press figure who represents several Texas newspapers, failed to rattle Nixon. And at one point Nixon — with a glare that deliberately singled out one of his long-time press conference adversaries, Clark Mollenhoff of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, for a question. He seemed caught off balance only once — when Martin Schram of Long

No medical support for cancer report

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For peace of mind and health of body, I would like to know what the danger of taking estrogen by women going through the change of life is.

I am hesitant because I have heard that estrogen can produce cancer in a person who is prone to it. There are several cases of cancer in my family history. What is the medical opinion? — D.M.B.

That "cancer" story, I realize, is widespread, but there is no medical support for it. It is true that estrogen can increase the rate of growth of a cancer that already exists, but there is no evidence that it causes cancer, whether a person does or does not have a family history of it. I do not recommend giving estrogen just because of menopause (change of life) but I do approve use of it when symptoms demonstrate a need for it. Some women need it, others don't, and for further information on that I refer you to my booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." If you'd like a copy, send 35 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of Times-News.

As to tests, an electrocardiogram would be in order to see whether there is in fact any real heart trouble, but I doubt it would show anything. I'd rather to start off suspect the coffee, because to me coffee before bedtime is a bit like a caffeine-free substitute, for two or three weeks and see what happens?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My wife's nonchalance about the following drives me nuts. When she is through "washing" the dishes, she puts them on a plastic type drain board. Many times she neglects to clean the drainboard of leftover bits of food, potato peelings, etc., on which she puts the clean dishes after washing.

Maybe something in your column might reach her on the unsanitary prospects. — J.S. Pretty sloppy housekeeping isn't it? I have no formula for correcting that trait, and if anyone else has a cure, let me know. I'll pass it on.

New peaks seen in food prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of a typical household basket of groceries, which set a new record in January, will push on to more new peaks this spring and summer, government economists predicted.

The January market basket estimate was calculated by Agriculture Department experts Tuesday while bakers scheduled on the Capitol to publicize their claims that consumers could run out of bread temporarily this spring unless the government slows down wheat exports.

Higher prices in the months ahead because "prices of practically all major categories of food will be increasing, reflecting tightening supplies, higher farm prices, and rising costs of processing, transporting and distributing food products."

For the months from January through March, retail food prices are expected to average 9 per cent above last three months of 1973. Agriculture experts say they believe most of this year's price hikes will be packed into the first six months, with a leveling off possible in the summer and some downturn late in the year if crop and livestock production rises as expected.

Even with the predicted production gains, however, department economists have predicted that average retail food prices for all of 1974 will average between 8 and 16 per cent above 1973, probably 12 per cent above.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz headily denied the bakers' charges.

According to agriculture experts, the annual rate of cost of a market basket of farm-produced food for a "household" of 3.2 persons rose 1.8 per cent from $1,650 in December to a record $1,680 in January because of sharp increases in farm prices.

One department economist said consumers should be bracing themselves for "still

Scout campout rough 'n tough

SANDPOINT, Idaho (UPI) — Some 140 Boy Scouts and their leaders flunked an outdoor test in cooking and had to repair the kitchen.

The youths tried to barbecue a turkey at a campout but the bird just wasn't responding to the embers. So—using their ingenuity—they carried the turkey to a nearby ranchhouse where the farmer's wife cooked it in a radar range.

Dinner was a success.

Gold prices keep soaring

LONDON (UPI) — Dealers said today the price of gold might keep soaring on European money market after breaking through the $175 barrier in an unchecked surge of speculation.

Heavy buying pressure was reported building across the continent with one dealer predicting the level of gold could go to $200 an ounce or more.

"Anything could happen now," a London dealer said Tuesday after gold broke through the $175 mark in London, Paris, Zurich and Frankfurt.

A month ago, dealers described $175 as the ultimate limit in gold prices and most said the level would never be reached. At the time, the metal was trading at what they called an unrealistically high range of $140 an ounce.

Silver, copper and lead prices, swept up in the speculation, also rose to highs across Europe. The U.S. dollar declined.

A spokesman for Samuel Montagu, a leading London bullion dealer, said, "The price is being carried forward on the crest of an international wave of speculative demand aggravated by concern over domestic inflation everywhere."

There is also a general disaffection in the world currency system and this speculative buying of gold everywhere, with an absence of sellers, has sent prices soaring.

Major commodities take high jump

WASHINGTON (UPI) — How the major commodities fared in the government report on the rising cost of a typical family food grocery basket in January:

Retail beef prices rose 6.4 per cent in January to an average of $1.43 a pound, 17 per cent above a year earlier although short of the $1.45 record set last September.

Pork prices rose 0.8 per cent to $1.17 a pound, well below last August's record.

Egg prices rose 4.6 per cent to an average $1.2 cents a dozen, 26 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Milk prices edged up 0.8 per cent to 75.9 cents a half gallon, 26 per cent more than a year earlier.

Farm prices for lettuce, which were nearly 16 per cent cheaper than a year earlier, plunged 24 per cent in January, but rising marketing margins forced the retail price up 0.9 per cent.

Higher farm prices and marketing costs pushed tomato prices up 16 per cent.

Reagan gives opinion

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says Californians should refuse the free food offered in the Patricia Hearst kidnaping.

"The honest people ought to say to them (kidnaper) we don't want food that way... at the price of a kidnapping or harm to some young girl," Reagan told a group of high school students Tuesday.

Reagan had no criticism of what the Hearst family had done to try to secure the safe release of Miss Hearst, but he said, "I don't think that any of the people should take that food."

If that is demanded by the Symbionese Liberation Army, Miss Hearst's captors.

"Where would it stop?" Reagan asked. He said if such a step were taken, prison doors "might as well be swung open."

During a question-and-answer session, Reagan denounced the kidnaping as "an awful price to pay" to focus attention on the needs of the kidnaped.

"We ought to be able to focus that attention without making an innocent young girl go through a thing now three weeks, to say nothing of the agony of her parents and family. This isn't the way to go about it."

Earlier, Reagan told newsmen that Joseph Remiro, 27, and Russell Little, 26, charged with the murder of Oakland schools superintendent Marcus Foster, should not be released

Attack interrupts flight

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — A United Airlines plane was forced into an emergency landing here Tuesday by a passenger who apparently went berserk at 33,000 feet and started slashing at people around him with a blunt knife.

Two men received superficial cuts before one of them—whom said he was a movie stunt man—knocked the attacker out with a karate chop.

Herbert E. Hoxie, special agent in charge of the FBI office here, identified the man as Robert Slutsky, 31, of Far Rockaway, N.Y., and said he would be charged today by federal authorities with crime aboard an aircraft—assault with a deadly weapon.

"It happened right out of the cold blue, with no forewarning," said Hoxie of the incident, which interrupted UAL flight No. 26 from San Francisco to New York.

The pilot, Hoxie said, decided to make an emergency landing after the two passengers were injured—and Slutsky was knocked cold.

Those injured, not seriously, were Kenneth S. Stern, 24, of Eatontown, N.J., who was sitting next to Slutsky in the coach section, and Ray S. Stevens, 46, New York, who came from the front of the plane to knock Slutsky out.

Stevens was bitten several times and his shirt was almost torn from his back in the fight. Stevens said he is a stunt man.

The stabbing incident occurred while a movie was being shown and Hoxie said "we don't know why it started."

Hoxie said Slutsky was heard

Tax deductibility move sets fund fight stage

BOISE (UPI) — House taxwriters have set the stage for the first major battle over the state budget and it could occur Friday.

By a surprising 100 vote Tuesday they sent to the floor a bill approved by Rep. Maurice Clements' bill to restore the "double deductibility" feature to the state's personal income tax law.

Clements said the total package amounts to a budget cut of $10 million — $7.5 million going out in straight income tax relief and the rest to make permanent the $15 grocery credit on income taxes.

They see what happens to the Nampa

Republican's proposal, the committee is holding up other legislation — including circuit breaker plans, school funding relief and a cut in the sales tax.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus talked the legislature in 1972 into removing the double deductibility feature — where federal income taxes are deducted from the state income tax bill. Some committee members predicted he will veto the tax bill.

Rep. Harold Reid, D-Craigmont, the governor's chief spokesman on the tax committee, argued the state does not have the money to grant this kind of tax relief in this inflationary year.

But Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, R-Tuttle, countered that if worse comes to worse "maybe the legislature can get it by eliminating those extra-budgetary programs for which federal funds have run out."

More than one member reminded the committee the legislature still must resolve the school funding problem and it will require more state aid.

Even as the taxwriters prepared for showdown on the floor of the house, both parties prepared for caucuses in the senate on just how big the general fund budget should be. Budget schools run by the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee ended Tuesday.

This was the 48th day of the session — the last for introducing bills by all but four privileged committees in the house, and the day by law when the budget committee is supposed to submit a budget.

House conservatives have made noises about forcing the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee to abide by the letter of the law — setting a deadline for the budget. Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, co-chairman of the committee, has said maybe the time has come to repeal that law as it may be unrealistic.

Vet preference change assailed

BOISE (UPI) — The legislative chairman of the Veterans of Foreign Wars suggested the House State Affairs Committee "weigh carefully" a bill to change veterans preference for jobs.

Hank Vanderhoef said the VFW, Disabled American Veterans and American Legion saw "no necessity" for including amendments for concerning dual compensation.

He told a committee hearing that the bill "would have a drastic and adverse effect on many of this state's wartime veterans and their dependents."

"This bill deprives the veteran in the state of Idaho of his right to a decent education or rehabilitation before he ventures into permanent career employment in the state," Vanderhoef said.

The bill would exclude from the provisions of the five point veterans bonus for employment any veterans or widows eligible to receive a retirement benefit in excess of $100.

Changes set

BOISE (UPI) — A conflict of interest bill was held by the Senate State Affairs Committee Tuesday for amendment.

Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park told the committee that the bill was "important and significant and should get a fair run."

He said it provided for financial disclosure of elected officials and appointed officials who received more than $12,000 a year.

"It will cover all elected officials down to the city level," said Park.

He said there were some people who felt it shouldn't go down that far because it would discourage people from seeking public office.

Remap bill ready

BOISE (UPI) — The latest in the reapportionment bills to come before this session of the Idaho Legislature was approved for introduction Tuesday by the Senate state affairs committee.

Sen. Warren Brown, R-McCall, co-chairman of a select committee created to draft reapportionment legislation, said his committee drafted this measure "to speak to the areas the supreme court spoke to with regard to reapportionment."

He said it would deal with the problem areas, which are districts 9, 22, and 28.

Under the present proposal, two precincts would be removed from Canyon County to district nine and three precincts in District 9 would be transferred to District 8.

There also would be changes in precincts in Gooding and Madison counties.

Theft curb OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — Near unanimous approval was given by the Idaho Senate Tuesday to a bill designed to help curb shoplifting in Idaho.

The measure passed 31-3 and was forwarded to the House. It provides that parents would be liable for civil damages to the merchant for the retail value of the merchandise, plus additional damages of not less than $100 and not more than $250 plus cost of suit and reasonable attorney's fees.

Sen. Arthur Murphy, D-Mullan, said shoplifting was becoming "a drastic situation in Idaho." He said it was estimated that one per cent of all business in Idaho was charged to shoplifting.

Fee boost bill OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — A "do-pass" recommendation was given Tuesday by the Senate State Affairs Committee to a bill which would increase horse racing fees by two per cent.

Committee Chairman H. Dean Summers, R-Boise, said testimony received at a hearing last week was mostly in favor of the boost from 15 to 17 per cent. He said the two per cent would be taken out of the "bet" and the money would be used to raise the purses.

Bill passes

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate Tuesday failed to reconsider a bill which would prohibit smoking at certain public meetings.

It passed the Senate Monday by a vote of 18-17 but was held at the desk upon notice of possible reconsideration from Sen. John V. Evans, D-Malad. The bill now goes to the House.

Insure women

NEW YORK (UPI) — With the advent of the working woman, life insurance has become an important part of her financial independence.

Women now own about $225 billion worth of life insurance, according to the Institute of Life Insurance, compared with about $50 billion 20 years ago.

In early 1970, 72 per cent of women who were heads-of-households including children carried life insurance, the Institute said.

Fish, game bill changes sought

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. Ray Lincoln, R-Twin Falls, introduced the House Tuesday into delaying the Reorganization Commission and amending a bill to establish a new Fish and Game Department.

Lincoln successfully moved 38-28 to put the measure once approved and then reconsidered into committee of the whole, to put Fish and Game division chiefs back under the merit system.

House members approved the bill in its original form 51-16 Feb. 4. Then, the next day, the House reconsidered that vote and sent the bill back to the Reorganization Committee for preparation of amendments.

Last week, the Committee sent the bill back to the floor without amendment, recommending passage of it in its present form.

Through the reorganization debates the Commission and the legislative leadership have urged both Houses not to amend the bills in committee of the whole. Instead they have recommended passage in their original form and sending out other bills to amend the package later.

This was the final bill on reorganization to be considered by the house and it is the only bill directed to committee of the whole for amendment.

"I think this taking division heads out from under the merit system in Fish and Game is a bad move," Lincoln said. "It is a blow to the morale of the department."

"I'm sure it's a popular thing to kick around the Fish and Game Department. Not everybody knows how to build a highway, but every sportsman knows how to run the Fish and Game Department."

Rep. Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, the bill's floor sponsor, argued that taking the seven division heads from under the merit system gives the director of fish and game more control over the department.

Brands asked

BOISE (UPI) — To curb dog theft, the Senate State Affairs Committee agreed Tuesday to introduce a bill which would provide for dog branding.

Three witnesses appeared before the committee to urge adoption because of the increase in dog stealing.

Alice Myers of Boise said "this bill will make people afraid to steal on a large scale."

She was joined in that sentiment by Gary Barton, Wilder, and Louise Pattee Earl, Boise.

Tighter parole provisions pass House

BOISE (UPI) — With virtually no debate the House approved 50-17 and sent to the Senate Tuesday a bill to tighten parole provisions for life terms and persons convicted of violent crimes.

Rep. Ralph Gines, R-Nampa, urged passage of the legislation — pointing to a case in his area where a man was convicted of burglary twice in a two-year period and then picked up a third time.

Under the proposal the persons sentenced to life would have to serve 15 years before they would be eligible for parole or even commutation of their sentences.

Other serious law offenders would have to serve 15 years or one-third of their sentences before they would be eligible for parole or commutation of sentences.

In addition, there could be no commutation of sentence until the prosecuting attorney from the county from which they were sent to prison is notified they might be returning to the community.

Gines said he felt restrictions and guidelines are needed in this field. He said there is a need for mercy to be accomplished but also for justice to be done.

Salary limit approved

BOISE (UPI) — By a one-vote margin, the Idaho Senate passed and sent to the House a bill restricting state employees' salaries to not more than that received by the governor.

It was approved 18-17 and goes to the house.

Sen. James Stotcheff, D-Sandpoint, floor sponsor, said the governor should receive more money because he makes the most important decisions in the state — "decisions that affect everyone."

GF changes school time

GLENNES FERRY — Schools in Glennes Ferry will start at 9 a.m., starting Monday, Supt. George Powell has announced. Powell said the class starting time was moved back half an hour to 9:30 a.m. several weeks ago when daylight saving time became effective. The regular starting time is 9 a.m.

Warden resigns

BOISE (UPI) — State Director of Corrections Raymond W. May Monday submitted his resignation to the Board of Corrections after five years as warden at the Idaho State Penitentiary.

Robert L. Rice, chairman of the Board of Corrections, told United Press International May's resignation will be effective May 30. The board has hired Donald R. Erickson, 55, the warden at the South Dakota State Penitentiary, to replace May.

May, 57, said he regrets leaving the Idaho post but when he took the job, he had intended to serve only two years. He will move to Tacoma, Wash., sometime this summer. He has been in corrections for 38 years.

Fuel-out-eyed

BOISE (UPI) — A drop in allocations for large oil companies supplying Idaho may result in a five to six per cent decrease in fuel allocations for the state in March.

Richard Brown, director of the Idaho office of Energy, said preliminary figures Tuesday indicated the oil companies could expect to receive only 82 per cent of the 1972 supply for March. Brown told the Idaho Statesman that by the end of March, priority users would still receive their supply but more retail stations will run out of their gasoline supplies sooner.

Hansen meet postponed

HANSEN — The regular meeting of the Hansen PTA Thursday night has been postponed because of the basketball tournament at Murtaugh. The new meeting date will be announced later. Mrs. Roy Hancock said.

Death probe

KETCHUM — Investigation is continuing today into the cause of death of a Ketchum man who was found dead in the Alpine Bay Ketchum, Tuesday morning.

Blaine County coroner Jay Butler said an autopsy had been performed Tuesday at the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, Twin Falls.

Ketchum police chief Dennis Haynes identified the man as Gene D. Mangon, 50. Haynes said Mangon was formerly from the Poetello area.

The body was taken to Bird Funeral Home, Halley.

Recreation funds received

T-N Capitol Bureau BOISE — The department of Parks and Recreation announced Monday it has received $10,700 in federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation Funds, including $3,790 for Filer.

Parks Director Steven Bly said the receipt of money for Filer brought to a conclusion the $41,950 project, which involved construction of tennis courts, softball fields, sprinkling systems and landscaping and other recreational areas.

Half the money came from the BORs Land and Water Conservation Fund, according to the Parks Department, while the other half of the project is locally funded.

53 meet set

SUN VALLEY — The Sun Valley Fly Fishers will meet today at 7 p.m. in the Walnut Room of the Sun Valley Inn.

Jack Hemingway will present a slide show of fishing in Europe.

DDT tests eyed

SEATTLE (UPI) — The proposed use of DDT to combat the tussock moth in northwestern forests will have to wait for laboratory tests to determine if the chemical is effective on the moth larva.

Lyn Frandsen, an Environmental Protection Agency official, Region 10, Seattle, said Tuesday that eggs of the tussock moth are being hatched in laboratory tests to see if the use of the banned chemical is necessary.

Gooding planners set meet

GOODING — The Gooding County Planning Commission will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Soil Conservation Service meeting room here.

Wayne Matthews, Wendell, newly elected chairman of the commission, will announce the new vice-chairman for the group.

Three new members of the commission are William N. Brailsford, Hagerman; Mrs. M. V. (Pat) Klingler, Gooding, and David Griffith, Bliss.

Consumer protection aired

BOISE (UPI) — Attorney General W. Anthony Park told a gathering at the Idaho Consumer Affairs Conference held at Boise State University that more needs to be done in consumer protection but limited budgets has hampered many of his efforts.

"The biggest problem about consumerism is getting the word out to the people what laws say and what protection they afford," Park said Tuesday.

Oregon ponders extradition case

(Continued from p. 1) An assistant Ombudsman in Oregon, Ted Winters, said Monday the parole board from the Gooding residents had coached his office. He said no action had yet been taken on it, although he cautioned that was not an indication that "we're not interested."

Winters said he had talked with one of Vanhorn's friends in Oregon, but "I don't feel at this point there's anything to do."

In his appearance in court Monday, Vanhorn refused to waive extradition to Oregon.

6 men added to Gem Hall of Fame roster

By BILL LAZARUS Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Southern Idaho Livestock Industry Hall of Fame added six men to its distinguished roster Tuesday at its annual banquet here.

Nearly 300 persons attended the banquet. The men honored, three of whom are from the Magic Valley, were: Everett A. Campbell, Bellevue sheep rancher; Eugene C. Davis, Brunau-cattle rancher; Jean P. Etcheverry, Roper sheep rancher; Harry Noh, Rogerson cattle rancher; and J. P. Seaback and Claud A. Whitte, both Spokane livestock marketers.

Each honoree was introduced by a friend and associate who detailed the man's history and rise to success in the cattle world. James Campbell, Wendell, introduced his father; Mildred Vaughn, Brunau, introduced Davis; Chall Alfred Barley presented Etcheverry; Lyle Frailer, Twin Falls, introduced Noh; Earl Janssens, Twin Falls, presented Seaback and Whitte.

Campbell was born in 1902 on a farm near Arkansas City, Kan., and moved with his family to Gooding. He later moved to Nampa and after graduating from Nampa High School attended the College of Idaho at Caldwell for two years. Following college he returned to Gooding where he farmed the Senator Gooding Farm now belonging to Ernest Fields. He married Mildred Proctor, Nampa, in 1930 when still farming the Fields ranch.

In 1940 he moved his lambing operation to its present site at Wendell and increased his operation from a few head to 2,000 head. In 1963 he purchased the entire sheep operation of the Martin Bros. of Shoshone, increasing his operation to its present size of 5,000 ewes and 1,500 ewe lambs.

At this time he incorporated to form the Campbell Land & Livestock Co. Campbell is one of the few first-generation sheep operators left in the state.

Harry Noh was born in Clarkson, Neb., in 1896 and moved with his family to a farm south of Buhl in 1909.

He married Grace Kearley in 1916 and homesteaded in the Three Creek Area where he ran cattle. He bought the Dead Wood Ranch in the area in 1915.

Four years later he sold the cattle and bought a band of sheep. By 1923 he expanded his band to 4,000 head. His sons joined him in partnership in 1917.

He was voted Idaho Grassman of the Year in 1956 and has served as a director on the Salmon River Cattle Co. board.

Gene C. Davis was born near Roseburg, Ore., in 1924 and moved to Kuna four years later. He served in the European Theater in World War II where he was awarded a Purple Heart for wounds received in action and also the Silver Star medal for gallantry.

In 1946 he married Letty Bronson and farmed in Eastern Oregon. He moved to a 400-acre piece in Brunau and began cattle operations in 1958 where he received ownership in the Battle Creek area of the Owyhee mountains and acquired BLM privileges. That year a Turner-Davis cattle corporation was established.

The land holdings of this operation now consist of some 14,500 acres of deeded land, BLM privileges of about 7,000 A.M., State leases of over 7,000 acres and a feedlot operation of more than 4,500 head. Recently, the Davises have purchased the Turner interests in the operation.

Seaback was born in Rockville, Neb., in 1913. After college in Nebraska he hired out as a cowboy in Colorado and later moved to Twin Falls where he stayed for a year and a half as operator of a large feedlot.

He then moved to Tacoma, Wash., where he became manager of the Carstens Packing Co., livestock department. He also started a wholesale meat company in Tacoma.

In 1959 he joined in purchasing the Twin Falls Livestock Commission Co. and under its management the firm regained its position as the leading auction market in Southern Idaho.

He also started the Twin Falls Feeding Co. with Peter Gilham. They have built three restaurant restaurants in California.

After sale of the Twin Falls Livestock Commission Co. he moved to Spokane where he leased a livestock auction company and made it a market leader. He is a member of the board of directors of the American Commercial Bank and was the first president of the Livestock Hall of Fame.

Claud A. Whitte, was born in Moline, Ill., in 1917. He attended business college in Twin Falls. After service in the armed forces he went to the University of Utah. He married Beta Hayes in 1938 and moved to Billings, Mont. where he worked for an accounting firm.

He returned to Twin Falls to work in the livestock industry. He is currently treasurer and office manager of Stockland Union Stockyards, Inc., in Spokane, Wash.

State panel okays funds

T-N Capitol Bureau BOISE — The Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee approved a supplemental funding request Tuesday for the Human Rights Commission, but only over the strenuous objections of a southern Idaho lawmaker.

The committee sent to the floor with a "do pass" recommendation a supplemental appropriations bill for $2,257, included in the total is a raise of nearly $230 a month for the commission's administrative director, who was promoted from the post of assistant director in an administrative changeover last fall. Also included is $7,350, most of which is to replace anticipated federal funds that now appear not to materialize for the commission's operations.

The balance of the request is for increase in operating expenses due to workload increases, according to the commission.

But McArthur tried to get the committee to kill the proposed supplemental. He claimed the Commission would eventually have the state financing both sides of a lawsuit involving North Idaho College in Coeur d'Alene.

McArthur told the committee NIC had recently terminated a professor-to-hire-another person "better adapted" to teach vocational studies, and the former teacher had filed a lawsuit.

He implied that the Commission was involved in the case. Referring to the college, he said, "Now they've been sued and if you fund this committee you'll just be funding them to help with the suit. That's up there." Then, he warned, "we may have to turn around and help with this Northern Idaho College if we lose the suit."

Other committee members, however, overrode McArthur's suggestion and approved the supplemental on a vote of 13-5.

Sen. Walt Yarbrough, R-Grand View, said he has been asked by an officer of a large Idaho county the commission had been performing its proper function in the past year or two.

Sen. Vernon Brassey, R-Boise, also said the commission is doing the job that labor groups and ethnic groups think ought to be done.

Rep. Angus Condie, R-Preston, sided with McArthur, however. He said the state had been "suckered into a federal program with federal funds" where the federal support had now been withdrawn. He said he didn't see "how to survive" with budgeting for the state unless the committee took the position that it would not replace withdrawn federal funds with state general fund money.

In other action related to the Human Rights Commission Tuesday, the Senate State Affairs Committee gave a "do pass" recommendation to a bill to pay HRC members $25 a day when they are on official commission business.

Jerome to open bids on courthouse

JEROME — Jerome County Commissioners will advertise for bids for a half-million-dollar addition to the county courthouse.

The commissioners met Tuesday with Merlin Alderson, architect with Sundberg and Associates of Idaho Falls, hired by the county to prepare plans for the new addition.

Alderson presented plans for a three-story addition to be located on the south side of the present building. The commissioners have set March 21 at 2 p.m. as the time for opening bids.

About $555,000 has been allocated in the 1974 county budget to pay for the addition. Virginia Ricketts, county clerk, said money includes revenue sharing funds and matching funds from the state law enforcement planning agency.

John VanOrman, commissioner, said the county officials will hold three public hearings on the new addition after bids have been opened.

"Since we are not going to the people with a bond issue on the addition, the commissioners (feel) the public hearings should be held in order to give taxpayers the opportunity to voice views. We'll hold two hearings in Jerome and one in the east end of the county," Van Orman said.

Besides providing additional room needed at the courthouse, the new addition will allow a joining facility for the city police of Jerome and the county sheriff's department. While both departments will be operated separately, jail facilities will be utilized jointly by city and county, and the jail is designed to segregate prisoners by sex and degree of crime.

Chief of Police Howard DuBois said city and county jails are filled to capacity and the new facility is greatly needed.

Recently county and city officials reached an agreement in which the city will pay $2,114 per month to help defray expenses of operating the law enforcement unit.

CLAUDE BERNARD, John Van Orman and Merlin Alderson, architect with Sundberg and Associates, Idaho Falls.

Addition planned

Hailey man named coroner

HAILLEY — The Blaine County commissioners have appointed Medex Jay Butler, Hailey, as Blaine County coroner.

Butler will fill the unexpired term of former coroner Bruce Rathke, who had resigned to open Rathke Personal Home, Hailey. State statute prohibits a person affiliated with a funeral home to serve as coroner if more than one funeral home exists in the county.

Butler has served as a physician's assistant to Dr. Alden Packer and Dr. Robert Gwinner for the past one and one-half years. He received his Medex training at the University of Washington, Seattle, Wash.

Prior to that time, he was in the pharmaceutical business for seven years and had served as a medical assistant to a pediatrician in Ogden, Utah.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) - Stocks opened broadly higher in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average had risen 1.49 to 861.00 minutes after the opening. Gainers topped losers by a two-point margin, among the 301 stocks crossing the tape.

Investors may respond favorably Wednesday to unconfirmed reports Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger succeeded in getting a list of Israeli prisoners of war from Syria. Kissinger himself would not confirm the report, but told newsmen on his arrival in Tel Aviv. On Tuesday, optimism that Damascus where I believe we made good progress on some of Israel's most crucial concerns.

Cattle futures show gains

CHICAGO - Live cattle futures finished with limit gains Tuesday as prices remained strong throughout the session. Cattle quotations showed a rise to December limit up with a 55 cent gain in nearby April. Volume maintained a brisk pace with a turnover of 12,000. Futures opened limit up in the back months with main support coming from carryover buying from Monday's sharp gains.

Most observers pointed to the inflationary atmosphere which pushed all commodities on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange higher as a major source of strength. Some traders noted farmers have apparently

Buhl, Jerome clash as A-2 play resumes

Buhl and Jerome have met three times already this year but their fourth clash at 8 p.m. Thursday at the CSI gymnasium will be their biggest of the season. The winner of that one stays alive with the hope of surpassing Wood River for the district championship and corresponding trip to state while the loser retires to the spectator seats. It isn't anything new for these two to be playing pressure games. All three have been important in conference or tournament standings, including the season finale when Jerome came up with the victory to fashion a three-way tie in the South Central Idaho Conference. The funny thing about the meetings has been a lack of last-minute cliff-hanging. Whichever one won in previous games has been in good shape going into the final few minutes. Not always big leads, but fairly comfortable. The winner has the chore of beating Wood River both Friday and Saturday night. Both are slated for 8 p.m. with Saturday hedged against Wood River losing Friday. The only clear thing in the tournament thus far is that Wood River coach Fred Trenkle is the tournament's most valuable player. Giving away height, depth and talent in certain areas, he has guided his Wolverines to within an eyelash of success. This takes nothing away from his charges who have shown the most fortitude in the tournament. They never win big. They leave the Wolverines find a way to win. They were scared almost to death in the opener but snatched out a three-point win. They appeared on the ropes when a technical foul and then individual effort by Paige and Scott Uhrig changed it in the semi-finals. But the overpowering thing about Wood River is you can't consider them dead after a game until the crowd starts to leave. While Wood River figures to have the inside track, it isn't home free. Both Buhl and Jerome have the height and firepower to win this thing yet. In their last two meetings, guards have proved the difference between Jerome and Buhl. Kelly Emerson, hitting 14 points in the first quarter and 20 for the game, gave Jerome the night long advantage in the season finale. In the tournament, Ron Folkman had undoubtedly the best night of his career, canning 24 points and definitely handling everything else that came his way. This last and decisive meeting should, according to

WAC curbs Arizona

DENVER (UPI) — The Western Athletic Conference council Tuesday placed Arizona track coach Willie Williams on probation for one year and prohibited Arizona from recruiting or issuing track scholarships during the coming year. The action was taken because of the alleged illegal recruitment of New Mexico junior college sprinter Wardell Gilbreath. "We felt the penalty was placed where it was deserving and that is on the coaches," said WAC Commissioner Stan Bates. "If the school could not participate in the WAC or NCAA championships, you also would be punishing the 40 kids who were at the school before the incident occurred."

CSI thumps Boise State jayvees 78-58

College of Southern Idaho picked up its 30th victory of the season Thursday night by belting the Boise State Jayvees 78-58 in the final home appearance. Meanwhile, North Idaho, leading all the way, dropped Ricks 81-72 to throw the regional tournament race into a three-way tie. Those two along with CSI all have three losses in the determining games and some type of tie-breaker has to be developed before the regional meet next week. CSI Coach Jerry Hale said the matter has been turned over to Sid Andrews, Bend, Ore., who is assistant regional director. Hale is the regional director but declined to make this decision. Coin flips and six-team regionals are among the plans under scrutiny. While the final answer isn't available now, it will have to come soon since the regional meet is clearly by early next week to allow the champion to prep for the inter-regional in Arizona. Hale said it was his understanding that North Idaho would prefer the regional not be held at Ricks. North Idaho hosted it last week. And none of the Oregon community colleges involved have the financial capacity to support the thing. CSI, with six sophomores playing in their final game, played just hard enough to win this one. Will, Lon Trotter getting six early points and Ron Fryson and Arnold Dugger chipping in later, the Eagles rushed out to a 22-6 advantage. Boise State steeled behind Brett Clogg for the next eight points and the game became a matter of CSI stretching out to nearly 20 with BSU then coming back to within 12 or 14. CSI fired with its first 20-point margin early in the second half at 43-34 but within three minutes, largely on the outside shooting of Chris Binder, BSU sliced back to within 12 with 10:20 to go. Dugger hit a jumper and Barker canned the next six points to close it out at 66-46 with 6:06 left.

NFL players don't anticipate strike

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — John Thompson, executive director of the National Football League's Management Council, expressed confidence Tuesday that a strike by the Players Association could be avoided. The Management Council will represent the league in talks beginning next month with representatives of the players. "We think we can resolve our problems without a strike," Thompson said. "I think a strike can and will be avoided. This is based on the fact that we will be meeting on a regular basis. I think we can iron out our problems without a strike."

The players did strike for nearly three weeks in 1970. The Council also announced receipt on an independent study by the Stanford Research Institute on artificial turf which called for "the standardization of various types of synthetic surfaces." Dr. Bill McColl, a former end with the Chicago Bears, and John Brodie, who last season retired after a lengthy career with the San Francisco 49ers, announced the results of the study, which was commissioned by the NFL. McColl said the institute concluded that the artificial turf "does not in itself represent a significant health hazard" but found that minor injuries do occur on the synthetic surface than on grass. "What we really want after this report," said Brodie, a member of the committee to study artificial surfaces, "is a standardization of artificial surfaces."

Irish whip Ball State

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — All-America candidate John Shumate scored 61 points Tuesday night to lead second-ranked Notre Dame to a 93-69 victory over Ball State. Shumate who had 15 rebounds in the game, tied his all-time career-high point output set last year against St. John's. Notre Dame led 50-38 at the half, using an eight-point run to take a 28-18 lead with 8:45 to go.

Reed ready to work out

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Willis Reed's right knee was examined by Dr. Donald O'Donoghue Tuesday and it was reported the 6-foot-10 center of the New York Knicks can begin practicing with the club on a limited basis beginning Thursday. Reed underwent surgery on Dec. 12 for removal of cartilage but the healing process has not satisfied Reed.

FISHING POLES & REELS at RED'S TRADING POST

Edward Garvey, executive director of the Players Association, said last week that "freedom for players rather than economic issues," will be the key topics for his organization in the talks, which are scheduled to begin in Washington March 16 and alternate between the capital and New York.

Take a closer look at your ignition system. It's your battery, points, plugs and condenser that provide the necessary "spark" which makes your engine run. And if these components are not functioning properly, you're bound to be experiencing poor gasoline mileage. If you're in doubt about the kind of performance you're getting from your ignition system, bring your car to Abbie's for a complete checkup.

RECYCLABLE

Tires have been recycled for years. In fact, they were one of the first products to be recycled. But the process has changed quite a bit since its origin years ago.

Our Tru Bond Premium retreads today, are at the top in quality and dependability. They're safe because Tru Bond's safety standards are tougher than the US Government standards for new tires. They're constantly checked and double checked. And they're priced at half the cost of a new tire.

After all, why throw away 75% of your tire when the tread wears out?

Big O Tru Bond Premiums built better than most retreads, backed-up better than most new tires.

Devils hope to keep jinx on Castleford

N.C. State cinches ACC season crown

RALEIGH (UPI)—Tommy Burleson and David Thompson combined for 43 points Tuesday night as top-ranked North Carolina State defeated fourth-ranked North Carolina 83-72 to clinch the regular season Atlantic Coast Conference title. The victory, a record 29th consecutive conference win for State, gave the Wolfpack a first round bye for next week's ACC tournament which will determine the league representative in the NCAA Eastern Division playoffs.

North Carolina State now has won 23 with a loss only to UCLA and is 11-0 in the conference with one game, Saturday against Wake Forest.

remaining, North Carolina is 20-4 for the year and 8-3 against conference foes.

Burleson scored 19 of his 22 points in the second half as the Wolfpack rallied from a 34-32 intermission deficit to down the Tar Heels.

Thompson had 21 points and Moe Rivers 19 for the Wolfpack. North Carolina was placed by Walter Davis with 18, Darrall Elston with 17 and Bobby Jones with 10.

At the start of the second half North Carolina held state without a field goal for nearly three minutes and jumped to a six-point lead at 40-34.

Burleson got hot, hitting 11 points as the Wolfpack outscored the Tar Heels 23-6 during the next eight minutes and moved out front by 11 at 57-46. The Tar Heels came within seven but could get no closer as North Carolina State went to a spread, offense and kept the ball away from Carolina.

MURTAUGH — The Castleford Wolves have dropped only two games all year — and both to the Murtaugh Red Devils. The first two didn't matter that much to the Wolves. But another when the two meet at 5 p.m. Thursday to resume the sixth district A-4 tournament at Murtaugh would be fatal.

Both are in the losers' bracket. The winner earns the right to try and wrest the title from Oakley with two straight victories Friday and Saturday while the losers are done for the year.

Oakley Coach Neal Wyatt sees the two teams from this standpoint.

"You know just about exactly what to expect from Castleford," he opines. "They'll work very hard, play excellent defense and rebound better than their size. They can beat you. They beat us twice, so I know. Murtaugh is different. In (Scott) Perkins and (Robb) Wright, Murtaugh has two of the top five individuals in the tournament, we feel. When those two are right, who ever they play is in trouble."

"We don't know who we'd rather play," Coach Wyatt answered a question. "But I'll tell you this: we enjoy being the team that the other team, whichever one it is, has to come to. They will have to play three straight nights to beat us out of a trip to state and the longer the tournament goes the better we think our chances are."

Murtaugh seems to be getting it together after a season of what appears, to an outsider, to be a little cockiness, a little apathy and a little acrimony. The defending state champions, with three starters back, had only a so-so season and only the late season mastery of Castleford really held it together.

But as another coach said before it all started: "Murtaugh decided to quit fighting among themselves long enough to win the state tournament last year and they might decide to do it again."

There seems to be some chemistry in that Murtaugh-Castleford thing, that has puzzled Coach Bud Watkins. His Wolves simply devoured Murtaugh during the season. In fact, Castleford didn't have much trouble with Murtaugh in the first meeting, winning by 16.

The psychological edge might be the thing to consider here. The Murtaugh win that ruined Castleford's bid for an undefeated season might have been a strong reason for the follow-up two-point loss in tournament play.

Either way, only one of the teams will survive to take the district's title-ridden banner to Lewiston next week. This district has dominated the A-4 rankings for the past seven years.

Burley tests Minico Thursday in A-1 loser bracket showdown

Burley will be at Minico Thursday night when the class A-1 basketball tournament resumes with percentages running with the Spartans.

The winner will be home to Twin Falls Friday night and need a pair of victories to claim the title and one berth in next week's state playoffs in the midstate in Pocatello. Due to the NCAA regionals at the dome on March 9, the A-1 state tournament will run Wednesday through Friday.

Burley can play a numbers game in looking at the Thursday meeting. The Bobcats have lost by six, five and three in three meetings this year, indicating progress. Minico's numbers read something like 17 victories in the last 18 meetings.

is the team's leading scorer, Eric Hovey.

So when the big guys respond like they did against Minico and Skyline, the defense has a lot to think about. Protect inside and definitely watch the outside because Coach Hayes said "We still want Hovey taking 20 to 25 shots a game."

Although he is in the driver's seat, Coach Hayes isn't relaxing. "We know we had a super night against Minico. We know there's not way we can expect anything but a close game if we play the Spartans again. We also know that if Burley gets past Minico they will be sky high. And the way they can run and shoot leaves no doubt in my mind that with a psychological edge like a win over Minico they could run off 80-85 points, if they get started."

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote that she heard strange voices coming from her tuned-in radio and traced it to her neighbor—a ham radio operator. Your reply was an insult to more than 285,000 radio amateurs in the U.S.A.

She should first contact the ham, and if he is indeed a licensed ham operator, he has had to pass strict examinations which require him to know enough to keep a good, non-interfering signal on the air. If he's at fault, he would appreciate being told, so he can promptly remedy the situation.

There are thousands of nonlicensed law-breakers operating radios on another service who often cause interference, for which we hams are blamed. Our record for self-helping and helping in emergencies is too often overshadowed by annoying interference from someone who is not a licensed ham.

Corrects 'signal'

Any questions you or your readers have about amateur radio can be answered by writing to The American Radio Relay League, 235 Main St., Newington, Conn. 06111.

DEAR "WA": Sorry my advice about hams wasn't kosher. I appreciate your setting me straight.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have a godchild we've seen only twice in our lives. She's 22 now and sent us an invitation to her wedding. We would have gone even tho it would have meant traveling to another state and spending a night in a motel, but the date of her wedding conflicted with the opening of hunting season. My husband loves to hunt, and I've never planned anything that would keep him from his hunting.

I wrote her a nice letter, explaining why we couldn't attend her wedding. A few days later we received this one from her:

"Dear godparents: I received your letter today, and I am disappointed and insulted. My fiance is also a hunter, and so are many of his friends, but they all seem able to make it to our wedding. Hunting season comes every year, but I get married only once, therefore I feel that your excuse is very flimsy and downright disgusting. And please don't send me a gift as it won't be appreciated."

Abby, we were shocked! I wanted to reply, but my husband said: "Ignore it." He was also glad we declined now that he found out what kind of a person she is.

How would you have handled this? SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: When declining the invitation, I'd have omitted the reason. But since you didn't, and she took offense, I'd have ignored her rude letter and saved the price of a wedding gift.

DEAR ABBY: How do you get a little wart off your hands? JUDI

DEAR JUDI: Dermatologically speaking—see a dermatologist. Socially speaking—tell him you're busy.

Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 63706, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Today's Recipe

LASAGNE ITALIAN

- 1 lb. Italian sausage
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 Tbs. whole basil
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 cup crushed tomatoes
- 1 cup tomato paste
- 1 8-oz. pkg. LASAGNE
- 3 cups cottage cheese
- 1/2 cup grated cheese
- 2 beaten eggs
- 1/2 tsp. Mozzerella cheese
- 1/2 tsp. pepper

Brown meat slowly. Add next 5 ingredients, simmer uncovered 30 minutes.

Boil LASAGNE until tender, drain. Place layer of LASAGNE in 2" deep baking dish about 12" x 9", spread layer cottage cheese and thin sliced Mozzerella and meat sauce. Repeat layers. Sprinkle top with grated cheese and bake at 375° for 30 minutes. Let stand for 10 minutes. Serve square cuts. 6 servings.

A rich, flavorful main course everyone will enjoy.

That's the beauty of...

Golden anniversary observance planned

GLENNIS FERRY—Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Carpenter will be honored Sunday at Green Hall for their 50th Wedding Anniversary.

The event is from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

They were married in Twin Falls on March 3rd, 1924, and have lived in this area all their married life.

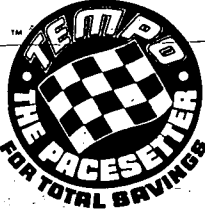

Mrs. Carpenter (Ruby Zeller) was born in North Dakota and came with her parents when 5 years old to the Burley-Paul area, where they were early settlers.

Carpenter was born in Illinois, graduated from high school at Council Grove, Kansas. He has worked on dam construction work, the Union Pacific Railroad and farmed.

The open house will be given by the five children of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Hawkins of Burley, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Carpenter, Pocatello; Mr. and Mrs. Robert McDermott of Sacramento, Calif.; Sgt. and Mrs. Willy Vermeulen of the US Air Force in Germany, and son Ira Carpenter and wife.

WAKE UP, SLEEPY HEAD!

By Mary Sue Miller

Are you a slug-a-bed these mornings? You pretend the alarm didn't go off and turn over? The very thought of exercise leaves you gasping? Why, if you fluster up a short flight of steps, you are out of breath.

It could be that you have a physical problem and should check with your doctor. But the chances are you will get a clean bill of health if huff-'n'-puff is your sole complaint. Breathlessness in a well person indicates insufficient exercise and bad breathing habits.

When you don't take regular exercise, your muscles weaken and activity becomes an effort. Gassy breath naturally follows. As for habits: Many people gasp when exercising because they hold their breath—they are scared to let fresh air into those hoarse lungs. Others, overweight in particular, breathe in short, shallow spurts, and so end up breathless.

The natural breathing action comes from the diaphragm. You take in a deep draft of air and let it out fully, in an unhurried, regular rhythm. In that way, the body takes in energizing oxygen and expels tired "dead air."

Start the day with this breathing routine and you will feel increased drive. Sit up, arch arms overhead, and relax. Now take a breath that expands the diaphragm; let out the air so that the diaphragm contracts. Do not strain; you are only doing what nature intended.

LAZY GIRLS EXERCISES

Here's an effortless way to trim off heavy spots. All you do is lie down or sit down, and flex your muscles. If that's for you, send for LAZY GIRLS EXERCISES. Based on the isometric principle of exercise, routines trim, tone and tighten. May Sue Miller is in care of this newpaper, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents in coin.

Book Review

By ELAINE NESBITT

'Twin Falls Public Library'
TWIN FALLS— Pearl Bailey in "Pearl's Kitchen" departs from the usual cookbook by giving not only her mouth-watering recipes, but by reflecting throughout the book the dedication, "To humanity, who has so surrounded me with Love—My cup runneth over. Love returned, Pearl."

She says, "My kitchen is a mystical place, a kind of temple for me. I don't like to say that my kitchen is actually a religious place, but I would say that if I were a voodoo priestess, I would conduct my rituals there."
Here is the center of activity. It is the room where she makes sense out of life, birth, death, work, play, hurt, and joy. In her books she is reaching out for an audience of people who understand about the mystical side of cooking—a people who could join her happily for a good solid one-pot meal, a full three-course dinner, or just a plain cup of good coffee.

Macaroni and cheese is her most famous recipe, but she says no matter how closely you follow her instructions your macaroni and cheese will never taste exactly like hers, as hers is never the same twice. Just make a big roast pan of this and serve it to your guests; then the next day serve it again (she tells you how to warm it over); and the third day it is better still.
In her cooking she brings out her philosophy of life. Once she decided to follow a recipe very carefully. She got out the measuring spoons and cups but when she measured the first it did not look as if it was enough, so she forgot about the recipe and dipped into the flour barrel her way. "This is my approach to living. We don't live our lives in quantity. Life is a quality and you don't measure that."

The chapter on "Bending Twigs" is worth the whole book. "Children, our joy came to us as gifts, the miraculous material from which truly human beings can be made. With the excitement of coming, comes a sense of responsibility. Mothers and fathers want for their children a full measure of skill, peace, love, and satisfaction in living."

"These come to young people through a kind of mystical recipe—parental example, challenge and support, freedom and discipline, and always the evidence that they are loved. For the time they are with us, we arrange the ingredients of their lives as God and the instincts of good sense would dictate. We warn our children slowly, season them with discipline, trust them with affection, and baste them with love, and the result is the outcome."

I recommend this delicious book, by this wise, witty, wonderful lady. You will be warmed by her thoughts, and probably will find yourself moving right out to the kitchen to experiment with one of her recipes.

TF fair office to Hove

TWIN FALLS — Harold Hove, Twin Falls, was re-elected president of the Twin Falls County Fair Board Monday.

Two retiring board members were paid tribute at a meeting at the Rogerson Coffee shop for reorganization.

Michael P. Gray, Twin Falls, was re-elected vice president. Tom Shouse, Filer, was re-elected secretary-manager. Neenan Shouse was reappointed office secretary. Hove has served as fair board president the past eight years.

Members accepted the resignations of Walt Miller, Filer, and Cecil Calhoun, Buhl, both with long terms of service on the fair board.

Miller, who has headed the horse division of the fair for many years, is one of the original exhibitors of the Twin Falls County Fair, having shown his horses in the first fair in 1915. He has served on the board since 1961.

Calhoun, a member of the board since 1967, had headed the produce division of the annual exhibit since assuming membership.

Hove expressed appreciation to the two retiring members for their work over the past year. Successors will be appointed by the county commissioners prior to the March board meeting, Hove said.

Plans for the 1974 show were announced. The RCA rodeo will feature the stock of the Golden State Rodeo Co., owned by Cotton Rossier. This will be the second successive show by Rossier.

Theme of the 1974 show will be "Hi Neighbor" in keeping with the fair's reputation as a place to meet friends and neighbors and to welcome visitors to the county, Shouse said.

Specialty acts this year will include Albert Ostermair with his Lipizan performing horses from Austria and his Andalusian performing horses.

George Lawson will also appear with a special trained horse act. Chuck Parkinson will return as rodeo announcer and the Ray Carmack carnival will again be on the grounds through the show.

For the third time, the national Merit Hereford Show will be featured, bringing some of the nation's most outstanding Hereford cattle.

Again this year, Shouse said, the Mias Rodeo Idaho finals will be held in conjunction with the county fair and rodeo.

Branding required

BOISE (UPI) — Proposed regulations for livestock grazing on national resource lands administered by the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) would require branding for all animals. Robert D. Krumm, BLM Boise District manager, said if adopted the new regulation would require branding, ear tagging or marking of all livestock over six months of age. The markings also would have to be filed with the BLM.

Dry bean supports may end

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After 33 years of supporting the price of dry beans, the Agriculture Department is seriously thinking about eliminating the support program, officials announced today.

Department spokesmen, in a formal announcement, said Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Buttz is inviting public comment on whether a dry bean support program should be operating in 1974.

For the past three years, officials noted, market prices have been above supports and no beans have been turned over to the Agriculture Department under the support program. Prices have risen sharply in the last six months, experts said, because U.S. bean production dropped last year at the same time export demand for the crop was rising dramatically.

Kermit Cowan, manager of the House of Representatives Resistant to Capital Hill, which has featured bean soup on its menu daily for 70 years, said he had no current plans to increase the price of the famous dish despite the boom in bean costs. A bowl of the restaurant's famous soup, currently priced at 45 cents, has remained at that price since last February, when it was raised from 40 cents.

The Agriculture Department, noting that supports for beans are optional under federal law, said it would accept comments until March 15 on whether to drop the support program for the 1974 crop.

Preston top FFA speaker

BURLEY — Tim Preston, Declo, won a Future Farmers of America (FFA) public speaking contest held here last week.

Ricky Walker, a Minico High School student, and Jim Wright of Valley High School took second and third places, respectively.

The contest was sponsored by the East Magic Valley District of the FFA.

In a parliamentary procedure contest, Declo High School's five-student team came in first, followed by Oakley High School, second and Valley High School, third.

Winners were announced at a dinner at Price's Cafe.

Steven Grinnin, Martingale, a Burley High School student and president of the FFA district, will attend a conference Thursday and Friday in Boise where state farmers will be selected. Nine state farmers and two alternates will be named from each of the eight FFA districts in the state.

Eight star district farmers will also be selected, from which a star state farmer will be picked.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon you are likely to have very poor judgment, so avoid giving advice and start nothing new, or some real difficulties could follow. However, afternoon and p.m. are good for recreation.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't bring an adviser and a good friend together, or an unfortunate argument ensues. Plan time for getting work done and for social contacts.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you disagree with a higher-up, keep your mouth shut. You lose support; you now enjoy. Listen and you may find you are wrong.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Instead of fretting over present position, look into some new outlet that is more right for you. Combine hunches with fine judgment.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Listen to what a clever friend recommends instead of relying on that adviser who is not in his fettle now.

CANCER (July 22 to Aug. 23) Remain neutral during a possible altercation between a higher-up and an associate, or you lose the support of both. Postpone action.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) Study new outlets, while keeping steadfast to the old so you can decide which to choose. A letter brings good news.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Responsibilities are more vital than you believe, so get them behind you quickly and forget fun. Show loyalty to mate for greater future happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Kin and associates are in a mood for dispute, so keep them apart now and do not start any controversial subjects. Don't confide in others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be objective in judgment which is better than using your personal view right now. Schedule time wisely for advice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget finances and anxieties now and relax with good friends. Evening is then fine for working on important matters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do not disagree with those at home, or you get into unfortunate arguments best avoided. Early p.m. in favor of recreation.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You like to live in a quiet and sensible way, so do not get into situations that could bring real trouble to you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be very attractive, but will want just about everything he or she sees, so teach early to discriminate, know what can be afforded, or there could be much trouble instead of a steady course of success and happiness otherwise indicated. Bigwigs will assist your youngster easily, provided there is support of them and not roundabout criticism. A fine artist. The Stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

That's the typical tugger is a lotter lighter than the typical lion's common knowledge. Less widely known is what gives the tugger the advantage. Simple thing. The lion stands on three paws to maul with the fourth. But the tugger balances itself on its hind legs to maul with both front paws simultaneously. Moment by moment, the lightning paws on the tugger's side generally outnumber the lightning paws on the lion's side by two to one.

... the upwind side of the lake is invariably gentler, but it's much more comfortable. Too bad because the bumpy navy downwind side of the lake is where you can expect to catch the trout. Studies by experts prove that. Sorry.

SINGER
O' All right, Louis, who's been the most popular singer in the history of this country? A Little obvious, that. Bing Crosby, certainly. For that matter, can you credit Bing as the most popular singer, so far in the history of the world? Think so.

Marriagiest people in the world are the Libertians. Exactly 38 out of every 1,000 wed annually there. That's a remarkably high matrimonial rate, my friend. The U.S. Virgin Islands have the second highest rate in the world, but it's only 19.3 marriages for every 1,000 people.

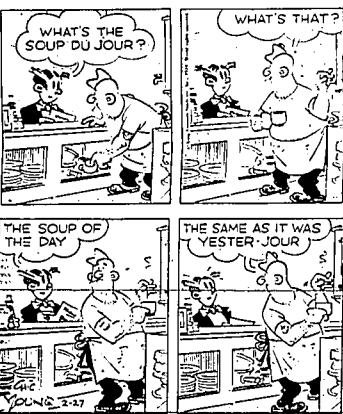

It's no longer true that a savvy crook invariably can pick out a plainclothes policeman in any crowd of civilians. Such was the case once, however. Nothing remarkable about why. Most police departments of any size for many years required all their officers to sport regulation haircuts.

INSOMNIA
Forget the name of the picture, but John Crawford starred, as I recall, and one scene portrayed has in bed, attracting in some tip-tilt manner, unhappy to tolerate a wide-eyed insomnia. Somebody got that wrong. A medical man of national renown says you don't suffer insomnia because you're unhappy. On the contrary, he contends, the unhappy people sleep to sleep more swiftly than most. To escape. And they stay asleep longer, too, usually.

Women's slacks are hung by the waist. Men's trousers are hung by the cuffs. Why is that? So asks a customer. I've seen some tip-tilt manner, unhappy to tolerate a wide-eyed insomnia. Somebody got that wrong. A medical man of national renown says you don't suffer insomnia because you're unhappy. On the contrary, he contends, the unhappy people sleep to sleep more swiftly than most. To escape. And they stay asleep longer, too, usually.

State hospital needs items

HAILEY — A goods drive has been initiated to improve living conditions on the region five ward at the State Hospital South, Blackfoot. According to Rita Hoag, chairman of the Department of Environmental and Community Services Region-Five advisory board, which includes the Magic Valley and Wood River valleys, the list of needed goods was compiled by a committee of five patients. Mrs. Hoag said any item on the list would serve as a good project for service organizations. The drive is spearheaded by the Wood River

Mental Clinic advisory board, which has donated money from a memorial fund to purchase a large coffee pot for the ward; the regional advisory board, and the Idaho State Mental Health Association, which had earlier conducted an on-site study of the hospital. The list includes eleven, 44 inches long and 50 inches wide curtains for the television room; six, four feet by four feet tablecloths; Bingo and other games for large groups; a large oval rug for the television area; printed pictures and frames; individual chests of drawers for the residents; and a combination radio-record player.

Florida killing denied

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI) — Suspended St. Johns County Manager Alan P. Stanford pleaded innocent today to charges he hatched to death of former Broadway actress Athalia Ponsell Lindsay. A judge set his bond at $20,000.

The indictment alleges that Stanford 49, "unlawfully killed with premeditation Athalia Ponsell Lindsay by cutting her with a knife commonly known as a machete."

Stanford, married, and the father of three children, was making $20,000 a year as county manager before his arrest last Friday night. He lived next door to Mrs. Lindsay and her husband, former St. Augustine mayor James Lindsay.

In a letter read to the St. Johns County Commission before it suspended him Monday, Stanford said: "I have been arrested and charged with a serious crime and a crime which I assure you I did not commit. While I can ill afford the loss of income at this time, I do not feel that I could expect to continue my duties with the county while I stand accused."

Mrs. Lindsay was slain Jan. 23.

Nader scores oil firms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ralph Nader said today the major oil companies were attempting to kill smaller competition at both wholesale and retail levels at the expense of the American consumer. A group of FTC lawyers have recommended breaking up parts of eight big firms, Nader said. The FTC said it will increase competition and said that without it, consumer prices of gasoline and other fuels will soar.

Nader, the consumer advocate, contended that the big oil concerns are not importing all the oil they can because they can get higher prices in Europe, Japan and elsewhere in the world.

Nader said on the NBC-TV Today Show that there was "a contrived relationship between supply and demand to keep the domestic price of oil and gas high."

"And the tragedy of it all is, it is now moving into, in effect, a rapacious attempt to drive out the small business competitor at the retail and wholesale level so that the greater share of the oil companies' profits—the big oil companies—can come from the retail base."

"And that's why the objective is to double the price of oil in this country. They're attaining that objective, along with massive profits."

Nader said the FTC objective is "to break up the oil majors, separate the refining from the production and get this into a competitive sphere."
