Gas prices boosted

By United Press International
Motorists hoping to pay only 3 cents more per gallon of gasoline this month may have to dig deeper into their pockets before the end of March. Six oil companies have announced increases in the wholesale price of gasoline of up to more than 3 cents a gallon, effective today.

Under government regulations, oil companies may increase wholesale prices if they are justified by increases in costs. Two firms have announced lower wholesale prices.

The Marathon Oil Co. of Findlay, Ohio, led firms announcing wholesale price increases, saying its price is now 3 1/2 cents per gallon higher.
Other increases, from 2 1/2 cents per gallon, Texas 4 cents, Gulf 1 1/2 cents, and California 3 cents, of a cent for regular and 1 for premium. Union Oil Co. of California raised prices 1 1/2 cents for most of the nation, but lowered rates by half a cent in the West.

Conoco announced its wholesale price was being reduced by a penny a gallon, and Shell lowered its rates half a cent. B.P. Oil Co. and Standard Oil Co. also announced no price changes.

'Palace guard' indicted

(U) Washington Star News

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Seven persons including President Nixon's four top former advisers were indicted today for trying to cover up the Watergate scandal.

All seven were charged with conspiracy but some of the charges included obstruction of justice, making false statements to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, perjury, and making false declarations to the grand jury.

Those indicted were former attorney general John N. Mitchell, John D. Ehrlichman, former assistant to the president for domestic affairs, H. R. Haldeeman, former assistant to the president and chief of the White House staff, and Charles W. Colson, former special counsel to the president.

Also indicted were Robert C. Mariani, former assistant attorney general in charge of the internal security division; Gordon C. Strachan, former personal aide to Haldeeman; and Kenneth W. Parkison, one of the chief attorneys for the committee for the re-election of the President and its monetary arm, the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President.

Mitchell was charged with obstruction of justice, three counts of lying under oath, and one count of lying to the FBI.

Ehrlichman was charged with obstruction of justice, making false statements to the FBI and two counts of lying under oath.

Haldeeman was charged with obstruction of justice and three counts of perjury.

Strachan was charged with obstruction of justice and lying to the grand jury.

In addition to the indictment, a sealed report was handed to United States District Judge John J. Sirica, which reportedly was a compilation of the grand jury's conclusions about any involvement in the conspiracy by President Nixon, Nixon, who in a speech last year accepted responsibility for the scandal, but not the blame, was not indicted.

Sirica scheduled the arraignment in the case for the morning of March 3, a Saturday. This was done at the suggestion of assistant special prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste, because Mitchell is already on trial in New York in a Watergate-related case.

The 13-count indictment runs 34 pages, and takes into account sworn testimony both before the grand jury and before a special Watergate committee. The indictment does not identify alleged co-conspirators in the plot, but the names of persons in one way or another connected to the case are sprinkled throughout the charges.

Included are the names of the seven persons convicted in the bugging and break-in at the Watergate complex; five former Nixon officials and five aides. Just before a guilty in connection with this and other cases.

Plans examined

The plans for a new elementary school are being examined by school officials. The school will be located on Camden Street and will include a library and additional restrooms.

TF school plans listed

By CRICKET BIRD
Twin Falls, Idaho
Plans for the $5.5 million school building program were announced today by Superintendent George Staudacher and architect Ed Peterson.
Plans are the culmination of discussions with PTA and PTO groups, school principals, maintenance personnel, teachers, school administration and the board of trustees, Staudacher said.
Twin Falls School approved the bond issue last Oct. 15, providing for construction of a new elementary school and additions to four existing schools.
Peterson, of CTA Architects, said the program is divided into two projects.
Project 1, costing about $1.6 million, includes additions to present buildings. Project 2, about $1.45 million, is the construction of the new elementary school.
The remaining half-million goes towards the purchase price of a new junior, high site, equipment, desks, architect's fees, and other costs, Peterson said.
The new elementary school will be located immediately north of Twin Falls High School, will be a V-shaped brick structure, with one wing housing primary classes and the other upper grades. The 24 classrooms — four for each of six grades — will be constructed in six classroom modules. Each module has removable walls which create a flexible, possibly spaces, each with separate ventilation system.
The modules can be used as large classrooms by removing the walls, making space for 100 students. Two of these classes can combine, leaving only one separate. The idea is to give them the flexibility to function both in a traditional and non-traditional classroom way, Peterson said.
Other features of the elementary school plan include separate play areas for primary and upper grades, and separate primary and upper grades, so that students can play safely and efficiently. A special music and art room will provide in-grade schools; will be designed for art, and set up with some unique sitting class spaces which will be carpeted, this room will have a floor of the same material as the floor of the wings. Elevated hallways will open to the center.
A multipurpose gym will serve as a cafeteria, for physical education activities and stage space.
Details for the outside of the building are still being studied, according to Peterson. He said they have to have the construction bid by July 1. Construction should begin this summer with a target completion date of September, 1975.

Labor party leads

LONDON (UPI) — Labor party leader Harold Wilson emerged today as the likely upset victor in Britain's general election but Sunday a majority government to try to solve the nation's economic crisis since World War II.

Wilson and Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative were racing to a probable photo finish, and everything now will depend on a narrow margin of seats in a parliament that would be elected in their first general election since the end of World War II.

At 2 p.m. in a 30-minute party standstill in the election in the House of Commons, Wilson's Conservatives were leading Labor's Harold Wilson's party by 20 seats, Labor 228 and Conservatives 208.

Wilson's party, led by Harold Wilson, had a narrow lead over the Conservative party, led by Edward Heath, in the election. Wilson's party was leading by 20 seats, while Heath's party was leading by 20 seats.

The last time British had a minority labor party government with Liberal support was in 1924 under Labor's James Ramsay MacDonald.

Hazelton petitions returned

HAZELTON — Petitions for the recall of two Hazelton city councilmen have been returned to the petitioners by Hazelton City Clerk Jackie Christopher today.

Mrs. Christopher said she returned the petitions, which request recalls of Leonard Hamilton and Thomas H. Hensley, after each petitioner had not obtained enough signatures.

"I took the petitions to the attorney general's office and was told they were not complete and not legal. To be legal, the petition must contain the name of the signer, his address, town, county, election precinct and date. All of this information was not on the petitions, so I returned them," she said.

An earlier opinion by the attorney general since Hazelton City Clerk Jackie Christopher filed the petitions with the attorney general, requested recalls of Leonard Hamilton and Thomas H. Hensley, after each petitioner had not obtained enough signatures.

A spokesman for the petitioners said attorney general's office was consulted about Mrs. Christopher's action. The spokesman said the petitioners will pursue the matter and, if necessary, will return to all of the signers to obtain whatever further information is required.

Nude dash in public latest collegiate fad

United Press International
Two coeds at the University of Texas, one of a building alongside the main mall around dusk Thursday, dashed naked across the mall, jumped over some bushes and streaked into the street.

They were super-bad, Texas student Bill Garland said. "If these two girls had been seen by the rest of the world, it would have been a breaking news item."

Thursday was a record-setting day in streaking—the nude public dash—that has become the latest collegiate fad, Texas which claims three national collegiate football championships in the last 10 years; also claims two streaking titles. North Carolina also claims a streaking title.

The records, which could be broken any second year.

Most participants in a single streak—North Carolina where 150 male students ran naked from a dormitory complex through the library and social sciences hall.

Most spectators attending a single streak in North Carolina were 1,000 persons lined the route to witness the naked streak.

Longest dash in a single streak, Texas where two tall, lanky freshmen ran across a half mile of the campus.

First woman's double streak, Texas, where the two girls ran for 1.5 miles.

ran for fleeting glory and little else.

They ran about 100 yards and were last seen jumping over some hedges and streaking into the sunset.

Garland said they didn't say anything. They were silent strikers and dedicated to their task.

Earlier the same day the two freshmen who set the longest streak record and gave only their first names—Bruce and Mack—lounged beneath the trees and talked about their upcoming dash.

"This is the longest streak we've ever heard of," said Bruce. "78. Only 70 persons turned up to watch their streak, far short of the North Carolina record established at 12-45 a.m. Thursday."

"We figured this could take over from roller derby as the fastest turning sport in America," Bruce said.

Mack 19, said he and Bruce considered wearing neckties or ski masks, but figured that wouldn't be very streaky.

"As far as its social usage, it's kind of a healthy, natural thing to be doing," Mack said. "As far as that goes, he could be doing a lot worse things."

Although it was their debut as strikers, they had planned the escapade well in advance. They stashed shorts in the men's bathroom of one campus building and their street clothes in lockers at the end of their dash, they said they thought about trailing, nubile bimbos behind them, but discarded the notion.

"We tried thinking of some kind of gimmick, but I guess we are the gimmick," Bruce said.

Hostage breaks free of abductor

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—An ex-convict wanted for the slaying of two Chicago policemen was shot to death Thursday in the driveway of a lawyer's home where he held three children hostage.

Cohen, 30, said to be a master of makeup and disguise and a sometime tennis promoter, was shot 16 times.

"Every officer in the place started shooting and the guy went down like a sack of flour," said a witness, Mrs. Warren Dehodes.

Cohen was accused of shooting Chicago policemen William Marck and Bruce Garrison, both 28, when they tried to question him Wednesday night in a North Side Chicago tavern.

Before he was killed Thursday, he shot and seriously wounded FBI agent Richard Casey and wounded a police detective William Beckley.

Herbert Hoxie, FBI agent in charge of the Milwaukee office, was treated for a shoulder injury which doctors at first thought was caused by a bullet but later decided was inflamed by flying glass.

Hundreds of law enforcement officers converged on a hillside Wednesday night where Cohen had registered under the name of Danney Brady, 44.

One of three hostages held by Jacob Cohen who was killed in a shootout, Danney broke away from Cohen as they left the house where the hostages were held. Cohen was identified as the gunman who killed the Chicago policemen Wednesday (UPI).

House backs pension guarantee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has voted over-whelmingly to guarantee American workers that if they have earned a pension, they won't lose it, even if they quit before retirement age.

The bill does not require any company to begin a pension plan, nor does it say how much a pension must pay.

But if a company offers a pension, the legislation would set standards for who must be covered, how long the vesting must be, and how soon

Enactment seems certain because pension reform has been listed as a major goal of the Carter Congress.

The bill would allow workers not covered by a pension plan to set aside up to $1,500 a year tax-free for a personal retirement fund. Less than half the country's 40 million workers are covered by employer pensions.

"It also requires that a full-time worker be included in his employer's pension plan after he works three years or reaches age 23.

A federal pension insurance fund to be paid into by employers would assure a worker's pension would not be lost because of fraud or bankruptcy.

The employer would have to select one of three minimum standards of conferring pension rights (vesting):

- Full vesting after 10 years
- Vesting of 20 per cent after five years, gradually increasing year by year until full vesting is reached after 15 years.
- Fifty per cent vesting after the sum of an employee's age and years of service reaches 45 with 100 per cent vesting five years later.

Protest strikers gain in number

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The number of local miners striking because of a gasoline shortage increased to more than 17,000 Thursday as Gov. Arch Moore refused to rescind a restriction on fuel sales.

United Mine Workers (UMW) officials asked Moore to rescind his order, barring motorists from buying gasoline until their tanks were three-quarters empty, saying the rule was the major cause of the greatest strike in the state's southern coal fields.

Moore refused, but indicated he would not insist on strict compliance. "There is no penalty for violating the law," he said.

The order was imposed last week to discourage "panic buying" and "long lines" at gas stations.

Meanwhile, the West Virginia Senate Judiciary Committee was to hear testimony today on a controversial measure that would give Moore the power to force oil companies to deliver fuel to gasoline stations in times of emergencies like the strike.

Messmer eliminates half of cabinet

PARIS (UPI) — German Minister Pierre Messmer has eliminated almost half the posts held in his old government, political sources said today.

The government's reshuffling today may result in as few as 22 positions compared to the 42 ministers and 15 state secretaries or deputy ministers in the one that resigned Wednesday.

President Georges Pompidou accepted Messmer's resignation Wednesday, then re-named him as prime minister hours later with the aim of strengthening his cabinet.

Messmer has said "I would like to have a smaller cabinet with the most possible cohesion and effectiveness in order to make decisions and to act."

The prime minister, forming his third government, is

Cordoba gangs clash

CORDOBA, Argentina (UPI) — Leftist and rightist gangs battled in the streets of Argentina's third largest city today in clashes touched off by a police rebellion against the military government.

Hundreds of residents of Cordoba, an automaking center nicknamed "the Detroit of Argentina," fled to the countryside to escape the fighting.

Police fired, arresting 1,000 persons, including the province governor and dozens of his top aides, since officers began the uprising Wednesday by seizing a five-square-block downtown area in the city of 700,000.

A police spokesman said at least 10 persons were wounded in gunfights Thursday. Witnesses reported seeing the body of a bullet-riddled woman lying in the streets.

Police Chief Antonio Navarro, supported by the 10,000-member force, accused Gov. Ricardo Obregon of "arbitrary" known "Marxists" in the province.

Backed by armed rightists, police seized government stations and then fanned out across the city. Armed leftists loyal to the governor seized the Clinicas university district, the scene of gunfights throughout the night.

The fighting kept up despite a threat by Judge Adolfo Ledesma to call in federal troops if the police refuse to end the rebellion.

Plan bill ducks death blow

By DAVID ESPRO
Times-News Capitol Bureau

BOISE—Opponents of land use planning legislation handily defeated the first of a four-bill package in the Senate Thursday, but then it came back to committee before they could administer a final death blow.

The 14-21 defeat for the bill that would have called for cities and counties to draft comprehensive land use plans indicates that not even the majority study of an interim legislative committee and a series of over a dozen hearings statewide has removed much of the opposition.

Opponents of the bill charged it was an infringement of the right of personal property owners while supporters countered by saying the proposal was necessary to maintain orderly development of land in the state.

After the bill was defeated, the Senate became embroiled in a 10-19 vote on a separate measure, but in which supporters finally managed to get their bill off the floor.

Sen. David Rivers, R-Payette, chairman of the interim committee and floor sponsor of the bill, said it responded to the indications of the public the committee found when it held its hearings.

Rivers said the committee had learned the public wanted land use planning that would not interfere with the state government and that it wanted maximum local control.

Sen. John Evans, D-Malden, Senate Minority Leader, said the bill was as close to local control as the land use area was possible. "Fears that this is Communist-inspired and Socialist inspired just aren't true," he told the Senate during the two-hour debate on the measure.

Sen. Walt Yarbrough, R-Grand View, however, questioned whether there was any need for the bill. He said he had contacted an Ada County Commissioner, as well as Boise Mayor Dick Eardley, and they had assured him they needed no further legislation from the state to permit planning in their areas.

"The facts aren't breaking down their backs," Yarbrough said, urging the Senate to "hang the bill up for a year and then see what needs develop."

Sen. Ova Gray, D-Moscow, a former Idaho County Commissioner, told the Senate he had the job of selling land-use planning in his home county about a dozen years ago. "Don't get into trouble by ignoring this problem," he urged, adding that even counties that think they don't have problems in the areas of land use should be looking at problems that might develop.

Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, urged support for the bill. He said that constituents "asked lawmakers to move and if they see any problems developing on the horizon, their duty is to act to solve them. I don't think we're examining anything down anyone's throat," he said, "accept the responsibility in that light."

He also said rural estate developments were threatening the Idaho scenery along the Salmon River in the Challis and Salmon area. Referring to his own 30,000 acres in Minidoka County, Peavey said he had no intention of subdividing it, but he also thought estate developments were a recent threat posed by subdividing their own land without regard for their neighbors.

Sen. J. Wilson Green, R-Genesee, Ferry, said the proposal amounted to an encroachment on local control. "If we believe in local control as advocated by representatives of our constituents, then we do not need encouragement" by the state and federal government.

Following the vote on the bill, Evans asked the bill be held until the next legislative session at Caldwell's session. Sen. Fred Judice, R-Soda Springs, talked the Senate into reconsidering the bill immediately, however, a second vote was never taken on the bill.

However, after a series of parliamentary maneuvers, Peavey successfully resubmitted the bill to the Senate Resources and Environment Committee, where it can still be brought back onto the floor.

Annual inspection repeat bid fails

Times-News Capitol Bureau

BOISE—Rep. V. Melan, R-Kremore, tried but failed Thursday to get the House to pass a bill to require annual automobile safety inspections.

Melan asked the House to refer the Transportation and Finance Committee to report the bill out immediately, since it had passed in the Senate.

The bill would require the Department of Transportation to report the bill out immediately, since it had passed in the Senate.

The committee said it would just sit on the bill to make a recommendation to the rest of the House.

Melan argued that the bill should be brought to the floor for members could see for themselves what the problems were with the current inspection system.

Session is maintained however, the committee was awaiting further information. He said there was some information it could require up to the state police to enforce a special provision in the Transportation Act.

Churchmen renew integrity search

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
WASHINGTON (UPI)—
After two years of pretty much marking time, American churchmen are once again talking about a renewed search for integrity in the nation's churches and synagogues.
The reason: Watergate.
Watergate has put an end to the "let's get on with it" attitude of the churches of government,
according to Albert Vorspan, director of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.
"The national action program is a first step to revitalize democratic, social and ethical conviction," Vorspan said. "It will be joined to form what they call the "Religious Committee for Integrity in Government."
Among the sponsors of the program are several leading churchmen as Sterling Cary, president of the National Council of Churches, Robert Campbell, general secretary of the American Baptist convention, and the Rev. James Bevel, president of the National Council of Churches, Memphis.
"The times call for citizen affirmation of political participation, not cynicism," the committee said in announcing its work through Washington-based staff people of the various agencies and groups.

"We have been dead to sin and were blinders in the presence of criminality, law evasion, dirty tricks, gross violations of civil liberties and blatant invasions of privacy."
Vorspan sees the Watergate crisis as providing a unique opportunity for securing significant federal legislative solutions to neglected social problems in American life.
The line is drawn, he believes,
at a point of the civil rights movement of the 1960s composed of religious, ethnic and labor organizations.
"Such a coalition, according to Vorspan, could work as a "conscience" task force aimed at the issues of civil rights, law, urban problems, ecology and economic programs for the poor.
"There are some indications such a coalition might be joined by some evangelists, unlikely allies — heretofore
in the past, evangelicals have been noted more for their support of the political and

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Abby you are well paid for giving advice to others. I feel many times your advice is immature and meaningless. A woman writes that she lost her cherished letters and photo album in a flood, and she asked your advice on how to get over it.

Your reply was excellent. You compared her loss to the death of your own parents. Has it ever occurred to you that she, too, might have lost her mother and father, or others dear to her, but their memories had been kept alive by those precious photographs?

Sometimes I think you are absolutely without a heart or feeling.

DISGUSTED IN ARCADIA

Reader upset

DEAR DISGUSTED: I know that I am not "absolutely without heart" because I have a heart when I read your letter. But another reader expressed quite a different reaction to the same letter. Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: How safe and timely (to me) was your reply to the lady who had lost her precious collection of pictures and letters she had saved over the years.

Several years ago, in moving, I lost many irreplaceable possessions just as that lady did, and I, too, was heartbroken for a long while.

In January of 1973, my beloved daughter and absent grandson (aged 4 and 9) were murdered in a senseless tragedy of mass murders here in Santa Cruz, Calif.

Now I know what heartbreak truly is. There is no day or night that I do not sense my gentle ones' arms around me. I know that life will never be the same for me without them. I keep trying to live. I try to be happy.

I am blessed that my wife, mother, the fragile and not well, is still alive.

Please, Dear Abby, continue to remind your readers that nothing material can be compared with our loved ones. Absolutely nothing. You may miss my name if you wish.

CHLARA PERAZI (Mrs. T.H.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 54-year-old widow. I lost my husband three years ago and live alone in a large, lovely home. My only child is married and she lives out of state.

I have been dating a widower (age 58) for about a year. He wants to marry me, but I am in no big hurry. Meanwhile, my daughter suggested that I not depend on me to live alone. So I should contact the local college for a male student to share my home. He would have a bedroom to sleep and study in. No boarding or wandering around-the-home type of arrangement. No money involved. I'd give him the room in return for his giving me a feeling of security.

I told my gentleman friend about it, and he said: "No, No, No! A college student is a man... and I don't want another man taking them!" Then he suggested I get on with an older woman to live with me.

Abby, I don't think an older woman would offer any protection at all. Furthermore, I am involved in a case now that anything could go on between me and a college youth.

If my friend doesn't have any more confidence in me than that I will never marry him, he do you think I am wrong?

IOWA CITY READER

DEAR READER: I think your friends very warmly minded. You are wise not to rush into marriage with him. I agree. A college man would offer more protection than an older woman.

Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply write to ABBY: Box No. 9706, P. O. Call: 306-3. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

and promptly played his 10 of clubs. West had to make a suitward shift. If he couldn't afford to hesitate and then duck, so he ducked.

Now South had one club trick in. He played dummy's three diamonds, entered his hand with a diamond, drew the last trump and cashed the rest of the diamonds.

West had gone right up with the ace of clubs. He could have beaten the contract by promptly leading a fourth heart.

Now matter which hand South trumped in, West would eventually collect a trump trick, provided he had his subsequent play perfectly.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Handi Pan does not always apply at the bridge table.

Smith looked over dummy quickly. He didn't like that queen of hearts lead. Obviously, dummy's king and ace were worth more to him. Still, the contract appeared to be pretty safe. Dr. Smith saw that he would have a good third round of hearts. Then he could draw trumps and send a message to the ace of clubs. Suppose the trumps were going to break 4-1. An unpleasant thought occurred to him. Could he do anything about it? He pulled the third heart.

If your sugar beets are infested with nematodes, TEMIK is a must.

Weldon Reeder of Weston, Idaho, uses TEMIK aldicarb pesticide to control nematodes in his sugar beets. He does it with one TEMIK application at planting.

His report: "I would say that if you were infested with nematodes it would reduce your yield about 30 percent."

"But with TEMIK, I had real good results last year. I'm sure it increased my yield considerably."

Mr. Reeder also noticed a difference in the appearance of his TEMIK-treated beet plants. They show a definite increase in growth over the ones that didn't have TEMIK applied," he says.

"Will Weldon Reeder use TEMIK again? "If you're infested with nematodes, TEMIK is a must," he says.

Special precautions can be taken to protect the environment from misuse. Read the label carefully and use only as directed.

Federal survey shows price secrecy in funerals

2 TF boys named to AF academy

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls High School seniors, Lance Undheim and James Hendrix, have been accepted into the United States Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Hendrix, student body president, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hendrix. He has participated in the 1973 Idaho Boys' State, National Honor Society, Bruin Club, Math Club, varsity basketball, track and field.

Undheim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Undheim, also attended Boys' State and is a national Honor Society member, looking to being an Eagle Scout and participating in cross country and varsity golf.

LANCE UNDHHEIM (recepted)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first survey of funeral home prices ever conducted by the federal government showed today that funerals can be bought for as little as $710 but the average buyer, because of price secrecy and lack of competition, may wind up paying closer to $2,000.

The survey by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) in 23 funeral homes in the District of Columbia, but the agency said the results revealed many of the same problems faced by consumers nationwide.

Officials said the FTC is now considering whether to conduct similar surveys in other cities across the country to stimulate competition and publicize prices.

Some of the FTC's findings: The "cheapest" funeral home service, excluding cemetery costs, ranged from $210 to $700 at individual funeral homes. But many of the homes offering them said they had few takers. Some consumers are not aware of their availability and morticians don't bother to tell them.

The expensive funerals are the same as the cheap ones, except that a casket is involved. Most homes offer the same basic services and the buyer who thinks he's getting a "better" funeral for more money is probably just buying a fancier casket.

The cheapest funerals in twelve cloth-covered wood caskets, although some of the cheapest metal caskets cost about the same.

The "average" basic price charged by homes covered in the survey during 1973 was $1,137, although it ranged to as high as $1,830 at one establishment.

Most funeral buyers must pay a cemetery fee beyond the funeral home expenses—sometimes $750—and this pushed the average total price up to $1,886.

Prices for cremations were no viewing of the body is involved beforehand ranged from $60 to $245, with the top priced firm insisting a casket had to be purchased as well, even though FTC said the law doesn't require it.

FTC attributed the wide price variations to a "less competitive environment." But it said competition and publicizing among the homes in the survey has already started.

Public Aquarium

VANCOUVER, B. C. (UPI) — A 20-foot killer whale named Shamu pulled an acrobatic show every day at the Vancouver Public Aquarium.

The "twice-born" animal was taken from the North Pacific Ocean, one of thousands of marine species gathered from all over the world by Murray Newman, director of the aquarium.

Agency approved

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' proposal for a state building authority went through the House Thursday after an explanation by Rep. Jack Kennevick, Idaho.

The bill, which would set up an independent state building authority to construct, manage and operate state buildings, was approved by the building authority would be paid off by rent collected from the new buildings.

Eventually, the state would take title to the buildings.

Faulty door handle causes nymphomania

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — The prosecution in the case in the county jail Wednesday, arguing that a devout Catholic mother of seven became a whore because of a faulty door handle.

Maria Parson, 47, a single, red-haired housewife, a student of Holyday Health Sp. of Orange for $1 million, charging that she became a promiscuous woman "because she was trapped for 20 minutes in a sauna bath."

Maria Parson, the devout Catholic mother of seven, became Maria Parson the whole because of a defective door handle. She said she was not fixing the faulty door handle, said Mrs. Parson's attorney, Martin Boyle, 68, in the trial argument.

"We knew that she had sex with at least 41 men in four years and there may have been many more that she just can't recall," Boyle said.

Parson's husband and children testified that they were unable to confront her, leaving for sex with strangers, that she picked up men in front of her husband and son, and she tried to seduce a male friend of her eldest daughter.

"Lewis said she had become a nymphomaniac," who haunts bars in tight miniskirts and low-cut blouses, Boyle said.

Boyle said Mrs. Parson's psychiatrist testified that she had talked of seducing him.

Mrs. Parson was not physically hurt while trapped in the sauna, but argued that the emotional trauma of the experience caused her to develop a split personality. One of the personalities is sexually promiscuous, she said, and another suffers the guilt for her escapades.
