Deed backing deduction lost
 LOS ANGELES (UPI) — President Nixon's tax accountant contends he has lost the deed supporting the President's large tax writeoff on his vice presidential papers, state investigators said Saturday.

A spokesman for Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. said material turned over to congressional investigators in January included statements by Frank DeMarco Jr., 48, a notary public and law partner of Nixon fund-raiser Herbert W. Kalmbach that he could not find the original deed.

Banker awaits word of wife
 LINO LAKES, Minn. (UPI) — Banker Gunnar Kronholm, 61, Saturday appealed to his wife's kidnappers to get in touch with him. His blond wife, Eunice, 46, was abducted Friday.

Kronholm said he would comply with any demand made by the kidnappers. He said he had received only a telephone call late Friday in which he was told of the abduction and was given a demand for an $80,000 money-for-guns raise.

Golan shell duels continue
 Golan Heights (UPI) — Syrian and Israeli artillery units on the Golan Heights Saturday for the fifth consecutive day, but in Cairo the semi-official Egyptian press predicted an agreement on Syrian retreat troop withdrawals could be reached "within days."

The Damascus command reported some Israeli soldiers were killed and wounded, but said there were no Syrian losses. The command also said an Israeli artillery emplacement, military installations and the headquarters of a tank unit were destroyed by Syrian artillery fire.

Nixon hit with Oprey crowd
 NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — President Nixon (wired) a Nashville-always happy anniversary to his wife on the phone, then accompanied a crowd of 4,000 singing "God Bless America" as the Grand Ole Opry opened its new home.

The President linked with the performers before turning to the piano at the invitation of singer Roy Acuff, who presented Mrs. Nixon as the duet partner of the President at Nashville after flying back from South America.

New Yorkers cheer parade
 NEW YORK (UPI) — Bright green berets and emerald ribbons brightened the grey skies on Fifth Avenue today as New Yorkers lined up to observe New York City's 212th annual St. Patrick's Day parade.

It was a day for bagpipes, marching bands, and high stepping acts, including one beating the holiday of more than one million New Yorkers of Irish background.

Hughes funds discussed
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, has testified she had two or three conversations with Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo about Howard Hughes' $100,000 contribution, but never discussed the matter with Nixon, it was disclosed Saturday.

Miss Woods' comments were contained in an 80-page transcript of her testimony before Senate Watergate committee investigators Feb. 20 that was made available Saturday.

Greeks seize party spokesman
 ATHENS (UPI) — The Greek government Saturday arrested a former senior politician charged with being involved in a party because he asked for foreign intervention in Greece's internal affairs.

Harvros, 52, the spokesman of the Center Union Party, it was not known where he would be deported, but most political prisoners detained without trial are held on the island of Yaros in the Aegean Sea.

Keeping word, Hearst says
 SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Publisher Randolph S. Hearst said Saturday he is keeping his word to the kidnapers of his 20-year-old daughter, Patricia, and doing everything he can to meet their demands.

In a short statement issued at his home, Hearst said he is attempting to make changes in the food rations program and to facilitate the appearance of two murder suspects on television, demanded by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Regular or premium, TF fuel prices rise
 TWIN FALLS (UPI) — The Twin Falls cost of a gallon of regular gasoline went up an average of 2.8 cents during the past month.

Premium prices were hiked an average of 2.6 cents at six service stations surveyed by the Times-News.

A gallon of regular gas is selling at an average price of 32.8 cents, up 48 cent from the price of 32 cents a gallon a year ago. Premium now sells at 36.1 cents, up 40 percent from the March 1973 price of 40 cents a gallon.

A major change from last March is the phasing out of self-service pumps and prices. Six out of seven stations surveyed in 1973 offered self-service; none of the six stations (the seventh went out of business) presently has self-service.

Price increases of 2 cents a gallon were approved by the Federal Energy Office late in February.

Crisis yields big oil bonanza, Church says
 By BILL LAZARUS
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS (UPI) — The profits of the nation's largest oil companies have shot up 60 percent during the past year, according to Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

Church said that a major oil company, Exxon, just posted a $2.1 billion after tax profit. This is the biggest profit for any private company in the history of the world.

Church said he was supported by members of Congress which attempted to force an 11-cent rollback of the price of gasoline at the pump.

Auditors delayed report on BSU fund diversion
 By DAVID ESPINO
 Times-News Capitol Bureau

BOISE — The private firm that audits Boise State University did not report the school's diversion of revenue to the Symbionese Liberation Army project for three years after it happened.

Neither did Touche, Ross & Co. bring the diversion to the attention of the State Board of Education or the Office of Higher Education after it first heard reports of unauthorized procedure from a former college official.

But an independent investigation by the Times-News and the Lewiston Morning Tribune "this week shows that Touche-Ross auditors discussed the diversion with officials at Boise State University shortly after they received the allegations in the summer of 1971.

Embargo, crude price decisions due today

Combined Wire Services
 Ministers of oil-exporting countries are expected to meet Saturday on lowering or raising of crude oil prices.

The decision on new oil prices was deferred until today by the 12 member nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. The decision of the organization, which provides 60 percent of the world's crude oil exports, will make billions of dollars of difference to consumer nations.

In Saudi Arabia, the largest oil exporter in the world, prices are expected to be reduced in the present level of oil prices, which have soared in the last year to more than 400 per cent.

Other members argued, however, in favor of no price change in the present period. Iranian Minister Mustafa Ghannadi-Armanchi said the world's oil exporters will not lower their prices unless Saudi Arabia and Algeria were pressing for an increase of oil supplies — opposed any cuts.

The embargo against the United States will be lifted, Yaman said. The ban on shipments of Arab oil to the United States was imposed last October because of U.S. support of Israel during the 1973 Middle-East war.

OPEC officials said Saudi Arabia wanted Middle East crude oil posted prices to go down.

Junior college funds given OK
 By DAVID ESPINO
 Times-News Capitol Bureau

BOISE — The Senate passed Friday and sent to the House a bill appropriating $2.02 million for academic programs at the state's two junior colleges.

The vote on the measure was 31-9. The appropriation is an increase of about $200,000 from what the College of Southern Idaho and North Idaho College received in state aid for academic programs for the current year.

It also reflects about $200,000 more than Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' recommendations included for the two junior colleges.

The swift passage of the appropriations measure was in contrast to Senate debate last year when the measure was defeated.

After the measure was defeated, it was reconsidered and passed $1.8 million appropriations. (Continued on 7)

Shoshone man sought near river
 SHOSHONE — Lincoln County officers and the Search and Rescue Unit began searching late Saturday afternoon for an elderly Shoshone man.

John Sims, 78, reportedly walked away from the Wood River area on Saturday. He was wearing jeans, a blue and white plaid shirt, and western boots. He was pronounced missing.

Searchers were combing the timber woods here, between the river and the Goshute late Saturday. They planned to divert water from the river Sunday.

Ketchum man charged in Blaine road death
 By FRANK WANDERL
 Times-News writer

BOISE (UPI) — A Ketchum man has been charged with involuntary manslaughter in the death of a state highway department employee in a traffic accident Friday night.

Lesley M. Bartholomew, 50, Halley, who served as area highway crew supervisor, died about 11:20 p.m. as he was struck by a car driven by a Ketchum man.

Whitley was released Saturday afternoon from the Blaine County jail on a $10,000 bond.

The accident was investigated by State Police Lt. Lesley Simpson, Shoshone, and a Blaine County sheriff's deputy with assistance from the Halley Police Department.

Simpson said Bartholomew and a second highway department employee, Delbert McCaskey, Halley, had been installing additional warming devices at an area of broken pavement on US Highway 30 at the time of the accident.

Their highway department pickup truck had been on the shoulder of the northbound lane with the truck's beacon light and emergency flashers turned on, Simpson said. Bartholomew had been standing in the northbound lane about 30 feet south of the truck.

Simpson said Bartholomew was traveling north, when the truck burst through, carrying him about 300 feet. The vehicle traveled about 300 more feet before entering the westbound pit and sliding to a stop.

Bartholomew apparently died upon impact.

Neither Whitley nor a passenger in his vehicle, Judi Wall, 31, Halley, were injured.

Whitley's 1972 model sedan received about $1,000 damage.

Bartholomew was taken to Hurd Funeral Home, Halley.

Udall, McCall back Andrus
 Times-News Capitol Bureau

BOISE — Republican and Democratic politicians urged re-election of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Saturday night at a fund-raising dinner that drew 1,800 people.

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Idaho, told the crowd at the Rodeway Inn Andrus "has struggled for economic and social progress for the entire government all over the country."

Oregon Gov. Tom McCall, a Republican, also urged re-election for Andrus.

Andrus, he said, "has made it clear that he understands the issues that stand for progress for environmental protection and that the environment must be preserved for the sake of the economy."

Sen. Frank Church, Idaho, also urged a wide re-election for Andrus.

McCall and Udall both praised Andrus for his leadership in office. "He not only has given us leadership where quality of life is concerned, but leadership as far as quality of government," Church said of the governor.

Over 1,500 people crowded into the Rodeway's convention center for the $50 a plate dinner. Several hundred others also were present to hear the speeches and to listen to entertainment presented by movie and television star Shirley Jones and her husband, Jack Cassidy.

McCall and Udall both paid tribute to Andrus for qualities of statesmanship while in office. "You're charged with trying to re-elect a salesman," Udall said, "and you're all guilty." (Continued on p. 8)

Bureaucracy entangles FEO, report charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A study of a national symbol of government report issued Saturday said the Federal Energy Office suffered from bureaucratic slow-downs and inefficiency which could threaten its support from the public and the oil industry.

The charges were made in a 106-page report prepared by the staff of the Federal Trade Commission, ordered by law to study the first 45 days of the fuel allocation program.

The report gave the office high marks for its handling of the program but said its confusing allocation regulations should give American motorists equal access to what is left.

"We certainly feel that there has been a number of accomplishments," the FTC has said. "We have recognized from the beginning that an allocation program could not be created overnight in function smoothly."

An FEO spokesman said, "We certainly feel that there have been a number of accomplishments. The FTC has said the FEO had not had a chance to study the full report."

The report said the 1973 Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act made the program a chance to reorganize established two mutually incompatible goals: to increase crude oil prices to stimulate production and control prices at the pump.

The report said "some of the problems in allocation came because the FEO responded where the complaints were loudest rather than following a specific plan."

"Recent patterns of ad hoc response to political pressure and strike threats, announcements of distribution of gasoline in advance of actual or even possible delivery, and the generally inadequate level of rationing, making at national level, raise serious concern as to the longer term credibility and competence of the program."

"Given the program's foundation of ad hoc response, it is not surprising that it has not been able to respond and work within the structure of the program," the report said.

New Labor government faces Monday showdown

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's embattled minority labor government Saturday challenged the Conservative and Liberal Party to a vote on the deficit in its parliamentarian showdown Monday.

Wilson himself indicated Friday night he believed the voters, fed up with party strife, would rebuff the Conservatives and Liberal Party's "right-wing" back to power by a large majority.

Wilson said it was time to recognize that the government's electoral peril. The electorate will know the difference, he said.

Vehicles collide at TF intersection

TWIN FALLS — Three persons escaped injury in a pickup truck and car accident Friday afternoon at the corner of Falls Avenue and Eastland Drive North.
Sheriff's officers said the vehicles collided at the corner and came to rest in a nearby yard after slipping out of a fence across the front of the home.
The accident occurred at 1:14 p.m. when a 1971 pickup truck owned by Charles Perry and driven by Bruce Chamberlain, of Twin Falls, an employ of Perry's plumbing firm, turned left onto Falls Avenue after stopping.

Peking's policies friendly

By NEA-London
Economist News Service

LONDON—LENS—Chou En-lai has to work hard to keep his foreign policy on a steady course.

Apart from January's military with South Vietnam about the same time as the Chinese Communist Party's confrontation with the Russians, China's dealings with the rest of the world are still more amicable than they were for years before 1972.

China's foreign policy in 1973 was the only one in the world today, and the persistent opening at Beijing—Schubert and French and Italian diplomats—among other bourgeois foreigners, suggests that if some Chinese leaders had their way, Chou's open door could be almost shut.

But Mr. Mao's Shanghai sidekick, Wang Huiwen and Yao Wenxian, have demonstrated their dislike for the American corporation.

At a Peking dinner for President Nixon, Chou said that the United States should not play it down, he described it not as a major new development, but as a continuation and deepening of the movement to criticize Lin Biao.

Revised figures show that in 1972 when the inflation rate was 10.7 per cent, the money supply had risen faster in 1972 and early 1973 than it had in 1972.

Revisions to take account of the 8,000 banks, outside the Federal Reserve System, are partly responsible, this added to the money supply.

his guest that China would carry on its foreign policy, which he defined in neither apocalyptic, revolutionary terms. The guests had sounded even more peaceable when he told General Dawe, who was visiting China in the company of a Chinese Communist Party committee, that Peking was discontinuing its support for the communist guerrillas in Thailand.

There is no reason to doubt that Chou meant what he said. The problem is that Chou is not the only voice in China today, and the persistent opening at Beijing—Schubert and French and Italian diplomats—among other bourgeois foreigners, suggests that if some Chinese leaders had their way, Chou's open door could be almost shut.

If Chou En-lai gets it wrong

The China half of Kissinger's policy could be destroyed if Premier Chou fails in his attempt to control China's new revolutionaries by seeming to join them.

target of the original anti-Confucius campaign. The latest People's Daily instruction on the conduct of the campaign makes the party establishment a target as the "vanguard" of the movement, but criticism must be deepened "step by step" and most significant, that the attacks on Lin and Confucius should not become entangled with other problems—thus, that the campaign should not be allowed to run of the rails as the cultural revolution did in 1966, and in the burning of another Western embassy.

It will be a good test if Chou can do it. The big question is whether he can count on having, and keeping, Chairman Mao at his side.

Church stands queried

Nothing cheap now but money

By NEA-WASHINGTON

—Economic News Service
WASHINGTON—LENS—Inflation rolls on. In January, when industrial output fell for the second successive month, consumer prices rose by 1.1 per cent after a 2.2 per cent rise in December, make it plain that more, but not news, for consumers is on the way.

By midyear the explosion in these two categories should be over. But already, over the past 12 months, rent wages have risen by 4 per cent.

The executive council of the AFL-CIO has now called for a new wage target for 1974 of 12 per cent on account of the expected rise in the cost of living, plus a 2 per cent productivity allowance. But with unemployment still at such a high level, it may stop short of the bargaining table.

The only thing that is suddenly cheaper is money. The prime rate changed by banks for the business borrowers has tumbled from 10 per cent in October to 7.75 per cent in January.

The fall in interest rates is due more to the falling off in demand for loans to business than to central bank policy, though this has been helping it.

The Federal Reserve Board's Chairman, Arthur Burns, has told Congress that by 1974, the economy will be in a "soft patch" and that inflation will be under control.

Such a soft patch will be a relief for many, but it will be no reason to seek prematurely to pump up the economy and thus bring back the inflation that money supply increases and current accounts should grow by only a few per cent.

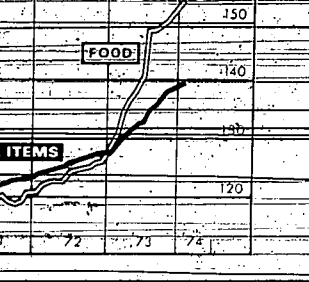

—The Fed, which in a normal recession would be looked to as the first line of defense, is being forced, nevertheless, by Professor Milton Friedman and his monetarist followers for the present inflation because it has not been content simply to hold the growth in the money supply to 3.5 per cent a year.

The central bank considers this an oversimplification, even if it could control the growth in money so exactly and it cannot, in fact, it is a failure to the money supply.

Such a soft patch will be a relief for many, but it will be no reason to seek prematurely to pump up the economy and thus bring back the inflation that money supply increases and current accounts should grow by only a few per cent.

Consumer prices

*US motorists benefitting from oil crisis

By DAN JEDLIKA

CHICAGO—The energy crisis will prove to be the greatest blessing for American motorists since Henry Ford began cranking out his Model T and opened up the car market to average citizens.

In Europe, car designers have been forced to adhere to the bare essentials because of the stiff gas prices and also, because most Europeans just aren't affluent enough to afford anything but small, practical automobiles.

Considering that an auto's price is roughly $14,000, European car engineers are working to build 2,000-pound cars while Detroit routinely has been working until recently to build 4,000-plus pound cars. When it comes to economy—both in terms of initial price and gas mileage—weight is the largest single factor.

Such a shape may not be pretty, but it is functional, and when they are working on more expensive cars like Mercedes or BMW, these designers are able to make an auto with a boxy shape look positively elegant.

Foreign car engineers don't stop with a car's engine and drivetrain at the front or the rear in many designs, including even more filtering room. Some have even mounted the engine transversely, enabling space in the engine compartment to be used most efficiently.

Oil statements rapped

Editor, Times-News: How much longer can Big Oil's petty talk—how long the masses? Try to digest this.

March 6th, on the front page of the Times-News, Nixon vetoes crude oil price controls. Now, six days later, Times-News Big Oil's banner, under the heading, Gasoline—what's next? Will someone care forth and explain this?

How much longer can Big Oil's petty talk—how long the masses? Try to digest this. Nixon, the medicine man also stated, we have broken the back of the energy crisis, but the health is still in. What's the other than doubtless? I imagine when he said the problem is with us he was referring to the 50 to 100 per cent increase in gas prices.

When this country had an abundance of petroleum, the gas-hog contingent kept demanding larger cars, and consequently stifled most forays into innovative design areas.

Nixon brands charges false

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told a friendly gathering of business executives Friday that resignation would be an easy option that would destroy the presidency.

He branded the Watergate charges against him totally false.

In his appearance before the Executive Club of Chicago, Nixon also warned European leaders that "the day of the yes says great to Europe uniting against the United States will still rely on the United States for military support."

Nixon finished 14 questions in the nationally televised hour-long session and repeated several times to an approving audience that he has no intention of quitting the White House.

The appearance was one of a series Nixon has undertaken to bolster his sagging popularity and to restore trust in his administration.

He flew to Nashville, Tenn., late this afternoon, where he will meet Mrs. Nixon for celebration of their 25th anniversary.

He will also dedicate the new home of the Grand Old Party, the first building to be built in South America where they have begun a steady flow of support.

During his session with business leaders, Nixon said he would not be impeached.

many of whom contributed heavily to his reelection campaign, the President also hinted he may refuse to give the House Judiciary Committee any further evidence for its impeachment inquiry, declaring he would not grant investigators a "wishing license" to "prowl" through confidential White House files.

Challenged the committee to follow the Constitution in defying an impeachable offense and urged the panel to complete its inquiry promptly.

Indicated there "may be evidence" that he owes more on his federal income taxes because of the paperwork on his $76,000 donation of his presidential documents.

Charged that the committee had been completed before the new law barring deductions for such items took effect.

Warned Arab nations not to attach political conditions to the lifting of the Arab oil embargo. Any pressure on the United States would have a counter-effect on our efforts to go forward in the Middle East peace efforts, he said.

The President handed the business men's questions with confidence and ease to the Conrad Hilton Hotel.

Called about 1,000 pro-Nixon and anti-Nixon demonstrators set up chicanes and held up placards and banners: "God Loves America," and his supporters, "God Loves Nixon."

"I am a question that the President has something to hide. Either the people have the right to know or the President has the right to confidentiality of presidential conversations."

Aide missing

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — American oil executive Victor E. Samuels remained unaccounted for Saturday, five days after the Esso Argentina company gave Marxist guerrillas a record $12 million ransom for his release.

Esso executives had no report of any contact with Samuels' kidnappers, the People's Revolutionary Army, who captured and delivered 162,000 910 bills stuffed in suitcases and weighing about 200 pounds to an ERP leader last Monday night.

Samuels, 39, has been in ERP hands for 100 days since Dec. 6 when an ERP squad kidnapped him at an Esso plant at Gompansa, 50 miles northwest of Buenos Aires.

Church says crisis oil firm 'bonanza'

(Continued from p. 1) The senator said it is "too late" to get more rigorous controls and that he would not have the confidence in this administration to carry them out.

"I think the House must insist to have all the appropriate evidence," Church said about the impeachment inquiry.

If the President refuses to give all the evidence to the House Judicial Committee, as he did Friday, then "the matter" should be taken to court.

Church said the grounds for impeachment exist if Nixon defies a court order. Church said:

Regarding a description in the Congressional Quarterly which says Church is one of the "least" vulnerable Democratic senators in 1974 largely because of his fence sitting abilities, Church said he considers the passage of the impeachment bill "a great honor."

He said he has tried to represent all his constituents. Speaking in Buckley earlier Friday, Church said he had just come from voting against an amendment for gun control.

The only effect of this kind of legislation is to single out one law-abiding citizen for more harassment," he said. "The proposed law failed, it was a failure. It stopped the manufacture and sale of certain types of handguns and forced registration of other guns."

Fund diversion unreported 3 years

(Continued from page 1) Asked why Touche Ross did not disclose the diversions in its earlier audits for the fiscal years ending June 30, 1971, and June 30, 1972, Russell F. Why did not Touche Ross transmit Mr. Monagle's allegations to the board of education after receiving them in the discussion of June 1972?

Andrus receives bi-partisan boost

(Continued from p. 1) In remarks prepared for delivery, McCall told the crowd, "I'm here because Cecil Andrus is issue oriented, courageous and able. Public officials with public experience should be given the opportunity to be heard in the office because of the party label they wear."

McCall also looked for the opportunity to urge the reelection of Church to his fourth term in the Senate. He reminded the crowd that the Senator had worked against a proposed Congressional pay increase and predicted he would be playing an increasing role in foreign affairs.

Modern machines speed bill printing

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News Capitol Bureau

BOISE — Offset printing and the magnetic tape typewriter have tremendously improved the process of printing legislation, according to Marjorie Wyman, administrator of the Legislative Magnetic Tape Center (MTST).

Prior to MTST, Mrs. Wyman said, secretaries used to type the bills which were then type set by the printer. At that time some of the printed bills would be changed by mistake, she said. When this happened the altered bill would be thrown out by the printer, it had to be re-typed and the printing process of passing the law would begin again.

But with MTST, as a secretary types a draft of a law, everything is recorded on magnetic tape. The tape is then fed into a computer which types out the legislation at a 150-word-per-minute rate in bill form.

When a piece of legislation is ready for printing, the draft bill is sent out, photographed and printed. No alterations are possible because of the photography process, Mrs. Wyman said, and before any legislation is photographed for printing, a proof reader compares the original draft of the measure to the magnetic tape typed draft and to the Idaho Code.

Sixteen people work two shifts at the office which is open until midnight. Since MTST has been functioning for six years the operation works smoothly, Mrs. Wyman said.

She said that so far this session about 1,050 pieces of legislation have been sent to MTST and 550 have been introduced as bills.

"And when the bills are printed another necessary process begins, distribution. Each year we receive 20 million copies of bills pass through the legislative mail office, according to Ruby Hasselbring, chief mail clerk.

Mrs. Hasselbring said her department orders 1,200 copies of each bill, resolution and memorial drawn up by the legislature, which usually number over 500. And then, she said, many bills must be reworded.

The first 1,000 copies of a bill cost $10.50 per page for the printing. Last year the legislature's total printing cost for the bills, resolutions and memorials was $10,285, according to the office of printing.

Mrs. Hasselbring said about 650 persons receive the bills by mail. She said her most difficult task is "trying to keep up with the additions and take offs on the mailing list, almost everybody at one time or another changes their address or decides to remove themselves from the list."

Five persons at the mail office work on sorting and distributing the bills.

Safety bill dies

BOISE (UPI) — The House considered too harsh and killed 21-1 today a bill which would make it a misdemeanor to drive a motor vehicle without a valid safety sticker.

Floor Sponsor Virgil Kraus, R-Mountain Home, said the legislation was needed to make Idaho's vehicle inspection law more enforceable.

But opponents of the legislation said it goes too far. They said a motorist could lend his car to a friend and that friend could be subjected unknowingly to a criminal prosecution unless the bill is brought out of committee for consideration by the full house.

Sales tax prevails

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. C. W. Neider, R-Coeur d'Alene, tried and failed Saturday to force out of the ways and means committee a bill to exempt groceries from the sales tax.

At one point during his floor fight Neider threatened to start of the ways and means committee a bill to exempt groceries from the sales tax.

Bill killed

BOISE (UPI) — The House killed 31-35 Saturday a bill which would have provided for a $30 a day civil penalty for violation of environmental protection or public health laws.

There was notice of reconsideration on the bill however.

Conflict of interest bill stays with panel

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Friday refused to go along with Attorney Gen. W. Anthony Park and vote out his conflict of interest bill.

It voted to hold indefinitely the measure which would require financial disclosure by public officials and candidates.

Park said it would establish a standard of conduct for public officials and provide a system whereby officials with conflicts of economic interest could disclose them to themselves from acting for others.

But Senate President Pro Tem James Gilchrist, I-Liberal, argued that the bill was too far.

He works attempted to have the bill tabled in committee, but Senate Minority Leader John V. Evans, D-Malad, entered a substitute motion to hold it in committee, and that prevailed.

Gilchrist contended that Evans' intended restrictions and disclosures in the bill would keep a lot of people from seeking public office. He said he would support a simpler bill.

"It's nobody else's business what my financial interests are," the pro-tem said. "This goes too far."

Calling the bill "pretty broad," Sen. Walter Yachnaugh, R-Grand View, said "It looks like this is something to drug someone through the bushes."

Yachnaugh said "this opens up a witch hunt."

Sen. Cy Chaso, D-St. Maries, said "Everyone knows I have little pieces of land scattered all over the place. I would have to report and this would be hard to do."

"It looks like this is not a picnic," he added.

Forestry measure to House

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate Saturday passed a bill and sent it to the House to legislate a "forest practices" act.

A leading debate against the bill was Sen. James Steinhilber, D-Sandpoint, who said "If you thought land use planning was bad the other day, you ought to take a look at this because the state is going to take place on your land."

He said that his people didn't like the measure.

Sen. Cy Chaso, D-St. Maries, said he had reservations about the bill but this might have an effect in stopping pollution.

"This speaks to better management of roadbuilding and forest practices," he said.

Sen. Lean Swenson, R-Nampa, also expressed concern about the legislation but added "We need to keep control and not sensible."

He said the bill will be sane and sensible.

CONGRATULATIONS, BRUINS STATE BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

Idaho Senate sustains Andrus' overview veto

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate Friday sustained Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' veto of a bill to provide for legislative overview of executive agency state regulations.

The vote was 22-15 to override but it required a two-thirds majority — 24 votes.

Arguments to override came from the Republican side of the state and those to sustain were all by the Democratic side.

Senate Majority Leader Phil Bati, R-Boise, said he thought that the governor's action was "ill informed." He added that the legislature would be "derailed" if it didn't get a handle on agencies making their own regulations and rules.

"We're asking a very limited veto action solely needed for a long time," Bati said.

Sen. Charles Thompson, D-Boise, said Sen. Malad, however, said while he agreed with the intent of the legislation, "we possibly" didn't examine it good enough and flaws have been found.

Sen. Robert Salyk, D-Boise, agreed that there are abuses, but there are better ways than this piece of legislation to correct the problem.

"The bill has great intent," Salyk said. "But it also has a rag-n-type procedure."

Senate President Pro Tem James Ellsworth, R-Leadore, said the only thing he could see by the veto was that "He (Andrus) doesn't want the legislature to put their nose into it."

"He wants the agencies to run their own show," Ellsworth said.

Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grand View, said that he felt to kill the bill at this time does us just pushing off until we learn more, a very serious problem.

House rejects bargaining measure

BOISE (UPI) — Debating as though there were no tomorrow, the House discussed collective bargaining for public employees for 90 minutes Friday before killing a bill to provide for it.

The final vote was 23-11. Opponents of the legislation attacked it on grounds that it would encourage public employees to strike while others believed it was an improper philosophy.

Rep. Ralph Wheeler, R-American Falls, floor sponsor of the interim study-repealed bill, said the fact is right now employees of counties, cities and the state are organized and wish to bargain collectively.

"Many people are feeling there will be strikes by these employees," Wheeler said. "Present law does not prohibit strikes by public employees."

"This interim term continues under which employees could not strike," Rep. John Sessions, R-Boise, argued that this did not provide employees from striking but merely set out conditions they must meet first.

Rep. Gary Ingram, R-Post Falls, spoke against the bill on grounds it was patterned after private enterprise and he said the public and private sectors of society are different.

Lobby leave set

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' Friday granted request that state employees be given annual leave next Tuesday to lobby the legislature for higher salaries.

The measure would encourage department and agency heads to cooperate with as many employees as possible in arranging for them to take a day of annual leave on Tuesday, keeping in mind, of course, that you retain sufficient personnel to carry on the necessary functions of your department.

Donald H. Hauch, Moscow, president of the Idaho State Employees Association, asked the governor to allow employees to take time off "to observe the legislature in action and to personally express to their legislators their frustrations and desires concerning their salaries."

He specifically cited the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee action in February 1973 which recommended that the legislature at the start of the current fiscal year should have authorized a 5 percent raise.

Pot possession bill changed

BOISE (UPI) — After considerable debate the Idaho Senate decided Friday to amend a bill which would make possession of three ounces of marijuana a felony.

Sens. Mike Mitchell, D-Boise, and Sen. John Peavey, R-Tupelo, said they had some reservations because of language in the bill. It was finally decided that the bill would be amended to clarify the meaning of a "foreign substance" related to the measure.

The bill also would increase from 15 years to life imprisonment the penalty for "pushers" of hard drugs.

Sen. Cy Chase, D-St. Maries, said he thought we can put our head in the sand and let the drug problem will go away.

"We are trying to turn off the spigot," said Watkins, explaining that it was directed at marijuana pushers of drugs.

Sponsor of the life imprisonment amendment on the bill, Sen. Dana Watkins, R-Idaho Falls, said the legislature was at the "crossroads" and "I don't think we can put our head in the sand and let the drug problem will go away."

"We are trying to turn off the spigot," said Watkins, explaining that it was directed at marijuana pushers of drugs.

Troops end Portuguese unrest

LISBON (UPI) — Elite government troops Saturday quelled unrest among officers supporting Gen. Antonio Spínola who was fired two days ago for doubling Portugal's ability to win its African wars.

Centers of unrest

in and around Lisbon to guard against attempts by Army troops to march on the city. One "attempts" made by hundreds of junior officers of a military school, was turned back and its participants disarmed as they returned to their barracks at Colares, 20 miles north of Lisbon.

There were no reports of casualties, but officials said an unknown number of young officers have been arrested. Spínola, a 63-year-old hero of the African wars and holder of Portugal's highest military decoration, was named to the job as deputy chief of staff for the joint chiefs of staff for having authored a book in which he said military victory in Africa was not possible. Absent was his immediate superior, Gen. Francisco Costa Gomes.

Darters target of Korean police

SEOUL, South Korea — South Korea is mobilizing her police forces against a new enemy — the streaker. National police headquarters has instructed policemen throughout the nation to make all efforts to arrest streakers, who can be jailed for up to 20 days under the minor offense law, which prohibits the "excessive exposure of the body in public."

Drug brake approved

BOISE (UPI) — Legislation designed to halt drug traffic in the state in prison and various jails of the state won final approval from the Legislature Saturday. By a vote of 46-15, the House approved a Senate bill to prohibit imprisonment of up to five years and/or $1,000 fine for possession of a controlled substance or dangerous weapon in prison.

Cambodian units gain

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian government paratroopers recaptured a small island two miles northeast of Phnom Penh Saturday, but faced heavy fighting on a nearby island in the Mekong River. UPI field reporters said the paratroopers pushed Communist rebel units from Okhnhatei Island in mid-morning, but the Khmer Rouge still held Phnom Penh.

Abduction suspect asks funds

ATLANTA (UPI) — William A.H. Williams, charged in the abduction of a woman, requested $100,000 for his defense. Editor Reg Murphy, appealed publicly Saturday for funds to secure his freedom on bail and for his defense.

In a letter released through nearby lawyer Williams said he had been denied a building contractor's loan and others such as black activists Angela Davis and members of the Black Panthers had been aided by contributions from Atlanta — even though the charges against them was murder.

In his case, no one was hurt and no money was lost," he said. "That was denied me that the American Revolutionary Army, and my staunch conservative beliefs were given some publicity."

Williams and his wife, Betty, have been indicted in the kidnapping of Murphy on Feb. 20. Murphy was released 49 hours later upon payment of $700,000 ransom and the Williams' arrest and recovery of the ransom came a few hours afterwards.

Mariner 10 makes last course shift

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The maneuver had not worked, Mariner would have Down by Mercury 6,700 miles above its surface. JPL controllers were expected to turn on Mariner's cameras next Saturday for the first in-flight pictures of Mercury, which is seen as little more than a blue dot from earth. It is believed Mercury is cratered and has surface temperatures of 850 degrees, hot enough to melt lead, and nightside temperatures of minus 300 degrees.

Mariner 10, the first two-planet synchrotron, swung by Venus on Feb. 5, beaming a bonanza of scientific information back to earth.

Mariner's guidance engines were fired for 51 seconds which lowered the spacecraft's velocity by about 70 miles an hour. It

BOISE (UPI) — The executive committee of the Young Republican National Federation has cited Rep. Lee Barron, B-Corral, for his record as a freshman in the Idaho Legislature. National YR chairman Dick Smith announced in Washington, D.C., that Barron is one of several Young Republican office holders cited for their service and urged to seek continued service in their legislative careers.

"The fact that dedicated and concerned men like Lee are willing to work for a set of principles they believe in is reassuring to me and I think these men exemplify the proper method of working within the system," Smith said.

Filer pair selected Girls state delegates

FILER.—Connie Brewster and Linda Johnson have been selected as Filer delegates to Girls State this spring. Miss Brewster is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Brewster. Her school activities include membership in the drill team, Deafness on the staff of the school newspaper and the yearbook, sophomore representative for Girls League, Pop Club, F. Club, track and as varsity cheerleader. Her out of school activities are skiing, skating and swimming. She plans to go to dental hygiene after graduating from Filer High School.

Miss Johnson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Johnson. She is a member of the National Honor Society, Deafness, Girls League, yearbook staff, concert and marching band, F. Club, G.R.A. She was a varsity cheerleader and was selected Key Club sweetheart this year. She is a member of the Music Club, 4-H and the Order of the Rainbow for Girls. She enjoys showing sheep, for 4-H, water and snow skiing and all kinds of sports. Mrs. Arnie Chadwick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Chadwick, is alternate delegate.

Letter 110 years late

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (UPI)—Everybody complains about the slowness of the mail—but 110 years?

"Friend, Emiline," began a letter delivered last month to Teresa Collins and the senior citizens home she runs here. "I now sit down to answer your kind letter, which written Sept. 16, 1863, it came in due time."

So began the waylaid letter from a wounded Civil War Private, Horace H. Prindle of Birmingham, Mich., as he recuperated in a Nashville, Tenn., hospital from a bullet wound received in the Battle of Gettysburg. He was writing to a lady friend.

The letter was certified as genuine by Alice Dallingin, chief of the Burton Historical Collection at the Detroit Public Library. Prindle, it seems, lived through the war and was discharged in 1864. His sweetheart's last name was not available.

"I have absolutely no explanation," Miss Collins said. "We once had a resident here whose last was the same as Emiline's, but how some postmaster would know that?"

Postmaster Walter T. Ashon of Royal Oak, Mich., said the mislaid missive strayed into a crack or crevice, where it remained until the post office was torn down or remodeled. Someone must have found it and dropped it into mailboxes for delivery—110 years late.

The letter chafes about influenza virus, which apparently swept the Detroit area about that time. Mutual friends, and the Civil War. "You have learned all about the Great Battle of Chickamauga," it said. "We had a very large battle week ago today in the Lookout Valley."

"We drove the Rebels some 6 miles—and taken a number thousand bushel of corn which helped our forces a good deal and our forces have got both sides of the river."

"The Rebels still hold a strong force, we can see there camps plain from our camp. They still think they will take Chattanooga, but I don't think they will for I think that old brag has-bout-bagged his last brag."

It ends with a romantic flourish: "Give my love to all, and keep a good share to yourself."

Japanese Relocation Center remembered in film

By DIXIE DIXON
 The film "Fences of Minidoka" will have one common theme—the days before the "good days" when they view the film.

The film depicts a history of the Minidoka Japanese Relocation Center that was built here during World War II. Arrangements for the film are being made by the Hunt-Women's Club, according to Mrs. Duane Child, president. An effort is being made to notify all of the original homesteaders and invite them to the showing, she said. The film will be shown at the Hunt-Women's Church at 8 p.m. All residents and persons are welcome. Those attending should bring a dessert or potluck dish.

The Hunt area was named after Wilson Price Hunt of St. Louis, Mo., who was an early prospector who traveled through this area as early as 1810. Hunt was the right hand man of the famous John Jacob Astor who developed the Pacific Fur Company located in Jerome County between the north-south main canal and the Milner Gooding canal north of Eden, the area remained a desert wasteland until the late 1800s when the United States government placed the relocation center here.

After the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, military strategists were convinced that operations should be taken to guard the West Coast against possible Japanese invasion. Finding it impossible to separate the Japanese from the loyal Japanese people on an individual basis, they placed 110,000 Japanese-Americans from the West Coast in ten detention camps situated in desolate areas throughout the western states. The Hunt camp was one of these.

As many as 9,387 Japanese people lived at the camp at one time. The original purpose of the relocation centers was to separate the Japanese from the loyal Japanese people on an individual basis, they placed 110,000 Japanese-Americans from the West Coast in ten detention camps situated in desolate areas throughout the western states. The Hunt camp was one of these.

The Minidoka center was opened Aug. 10, 1942, when thousands of Japanese came to the site to live in 500 hastily built wooden buildings. The community was divided into 36 blocks of geometrically shaped barracks, consisting over an area that was three and a half miles long and one mile wide. Many problems faced the evacuees as many of the barracks were unheated and for many months the housing problem prevented the camp from becoming properly situated. The sewage system had not been installed and the inhabitants were forced to use unsanitary outdoor latrines. The "Minidoka Irrigator" reported that there was a "stagnant stench and mud" caused considerable distress during the winter months.

Other problems faced by the Japanese were beatings of the prisoners, health food, both lack of it and the way the food was prepared. The administration made attempts to introduce an effective educational system at the camp, but the project failed, according to Donald E. Hausler in his master's thesis, "The History of the Japanese Relocation Center at Hunt-Minidoka County, Idaho." The WRA (War Relocation Authority) had originally planned to provide the center with proper school buildings, however necessary materials were not forthcoming and the barracks had to be altered and partitioned into makeshift classrooms. Mess halls and uncomfortable benches served as desks and work tables. Supplies and equipment could not be acquired easily. Textbooks were scarce and those that were available, because of their age, could not be readily adapted for classroom use.

All that remains

LAVA ROCK, guard house and fireplace on eastern bank of the northside canal at entrance to the Hunt project near Twin Falls in Jerome County, Idaho, are all that remains of the Japanese Relocation Center and World War II.

couple still remain in the area. They are Glenn Parson, Lucene Kenner, Fred Stewart, Roland Powers, Dean Northrup, Robert Norman, Johnson, Belcher, Waters, Karl Black, Leonard Williams and Bill Jones.

Another drawing for farm land was held in June of 1949. One of these lucky veterans and their families still living on their original homesteads include Clarence Miller, Thomas O'Connor, Tennessee Robinson, Wendell Davidson, Edell Hanger, Orvil Call, Keith Muller, Ferrell Chambers, James Brooks, Edwin Stigle and Iva Carpenter. Idaho's Lt. Gov. Donald S. Wathead was in hand for the event and drew the first name from the 24 names in the bowl. He said on the occasion that the veterans and their families will always be worthy members of the state.

Little 9-year-old Beverly Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon James, son of Eileen, drew this remaining lot on June 15, 1947, and that she granted an especially big grin when she pulled the name of her uncle, Karl Black, from the bowl. Over 100 other veterans of the lucky winners. The first veteran to move to the Hunt area was Edwin Parson. He and his wife moved to the area in 1947. A lot of water, electricity or other conveniences, the first year, homesteaders recall.

The original Hunt Farms Club was organized in 1948. Lucile Anderson, then president, organized Nov. 6, 1947. That group voted to disband the auxiliary in October of 1948 and the Hunt Ladies' Sewing Club was organized with Mrs. Johnson as president.

over the years the club has remained active and has held traditional Christmas parties and other community events. An old grocery store, just west and a bit south of the church, stands deserted, weathered by the storms and parched by the hot dry sun.

The veterans all have real stories to tell of the dust, wind, and mud. Sometimes, suspicious feelings and other hardships encountered during those first trying years. But all readily agree that they have been fortunate in their relocation. They are looking forward with anticipation to seeing this film. "Fences of Minidoka" will tell them of times even before they came to this relocation center.

Camp Fire Girls schedule various events to observe 64th birthday

By JOYCE CARPENTER

TWIN FALLS—Camp Fire Girls in the Southwestern Idaho Council join Camp Fire Girls nationwide in celebrating the 64th birthday anniversary of the organization today through Saturday.

The Southwestern Idaho Council was organized in the 1930s by Mrs. William VanEngelen who had heard about Camp Fire from girls visiting from other areas and obtained information on the organization. The Southwestern Idaho Council has a total of 800 girls enrolled in the program and is growing every year.

Camp Fire Girls offers activities for girls of all ages. Activities include:

- Adventure groups for 1st through 4th graders;
- Discovery Club for 7th through 8th graders;
- Horizon Club for 10th through 12th graders.

Boys are now being encouraged to join Camp Fire. The more students there are, the more fun there will be.

Activities have been planned for the girls in the various towns served by the council. The partial schedule of events includes:

- Go to Church Sunday
- Skating party in Burley Wednesday
- Dinner-dance at the Twin Falls High School gymnasium
- Family public dinner at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday at the High School
- Dinner at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the Twin Falls High School
- Dinner at 6:30 p.m. Friday at the Twin Falls High School

Camp Fire Girls is a nonprofit organization supported by contributions and events. Activities are directed and approved by a board of directors. Paul Mosley, serves as board president; Bill Nye, first vice president; Bobbi Egan, second vice president; Dick Bruce, treasurer; and Pat Greene, secretary.

Hospital stay inspires MV woman

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

WENDELL—Georgina Hunt is writing a book. She may even write two. With a memory as vivid as Mrs. Hunt's bubbly displays, the total could well be higher.

Mrs. Hunt's book began as a tale of her experiences in Mary Valley Hospital. Hospital last summer while recuperating from injuries she received in a car accident. The name of the book at that point was "Our Tales of the Bedpan."

Since her release from the hospital "so many interesting things have happened" that the book is being expanded to include three times its original length.

"Quite a bit of the book will be inspirational," she said. The change is reflected in the new title "Keeping the Spirit Burning" taken from a church hymn.

Her conversation is so crowded with stories from her past that the listener often finds himself in a maze which seems to have no end. "I can't remember where I put my glasses or car keys, but I can very vividly remember things that happened 50 years ago," the 66-year-old Mrs. Hunt said, launching into several stories of her 26-year teaching career.

"These stories about the problems children that wrapped themselves around my heart seem so" will be the subject of her second book, which she has not yet started.

Mrs. Hunt said the book about her hospital experiences and recuperation could be finished in just a month.

"I thought I had a book when I got out of the hospital," she said, but too many things have happened since then.

She began the book a few days following an automobile accident last July that put her in the hospital for several months. She wrote the first part of the book from her hospital bed.

"I found out every detail about the hospital," she said. "I had to learn all these things the hard way."

Armed with a request to curiously doctors and other hospital personnel who were part of her experience.

She said there was a temporary fling among some of the personnel when they found she was writing a book about them, but there were few people she had harsh words for.

Birthday week

TWIN FALLS The chamber-poted tubs right now are not free of it. Streaks upon the walls and toilets across America the wit and humor of graffiti has thrived for centuries.

A well-documented case inscribed upon one early chamber pot goes like this: "Use me well and keep me clean. And I'll not tell what I have seen."

Obviously, much graffiti cannot be printed. Most of it deals in sex or toilet-related acts.

Psychologists suggest that graffiti are acts of expressions of individual identity. All of us have seen rocks with names to let the world know who someone is, where he came from and what team or gang he belongs to.

"The Rock" at the Twin Falls High School is a prime, socially acceptable example.

most establishments consider graffiti vandalism, but since no one person can be accused, the owners forget about it and try to wash it away.

Footprints in cement, arrangements of rocks upon a mountainside to signify an event are all forms of graffiti. Buttons with graffiti are prevalent everywhere, even jeans are not free of it.

People have written that the extent to which a person can influence his environment will determine his ability to perceive himself as a separate human being.

Obviously, abundance everywhere, where they say, because rock has lost some of himself to those surroundings.

The simple but poignant saying often times says the best of an individual for help. One case represented the search and final location of the person scribbling across several subways in the East the message "Support Meant Herein." The individual was found and sent to an institution for the help he needed.

Most people in Twin Falls feel graffiti results from too many poor urban areas.

The graffiti specialist expects that when he writes something on a fence or bathroom or others will do the same. That, they seem to work hard.

Several correspondences can be found in downtown establishments.

These direct expressions raise the question of whether it is possible to distinguish between people's art and vandalism. Is it a step toward angry and environmental degradation or legitimate expression?

The boy who sprays a peace sign on the school wall or chalks the name of a friend on a building is trying to express himself or is he?

Some urban quarters of graffiti artists and graffiti students as they enter in the fall to decorate their rooms as they wish.

A similar procedure it is suggested could be applied to our residents might be great authority over the aesthetics of the usual environment including signs, color of light fixtures, hydrants and billboards. There seems little reason to many people why all lamp posts must be dark green or grey.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I don't have any actual proof, but I think my husband is cheating on me.

First he came home smelling of teen strong perfume with lipstick on his collar. He said he was with a friend and hugged him "hello," but that was all.

Then I noticed several long scratches on his back. He swore he didn't know how he got them, but Abby, they were too deep and long for him not to know. I think some lady did it with her fingernails.

Weighty evidence

Also, his coat, home with ticks, (love ticks) all over his neck, and when I asked where he got them he said it must be "hives" from eating strawberries. (Where could he get strawberries now?)

Next, he said he had work because the judge didn't allow him to see his first stepson for a minute.

Then I hear then laugh.

We've been married for two years and he would like a child, but I'm not sure he'd make a good father. His eyes he loves me. I believe him or do you think he's playing me for a fool?

DEAR DUSTY: I'm sure you'll find evidence soon. How a guy smokes has all the signs he needs. If he's a father, he can be a good husband before you make him a father.

DEAR ABBY: Should a family alter their lifestyle each time the husband's parents come to visit?

We always have a little bit of a fight when his folks come smoking and drinking moderately since his college days, but his parents still don't know it.

When they come, everything of which they disapprove is hidden. This includes coffee, soft drinks, candy, and believe it or not, sugar, cough syrup, and aspirin. We even keep our dentures away from them. He's Catholic, Jewish, or Black.

My husband's parents live 250 miles from us and visit about three times a year, and when I know they're coming I feel like a hypocrite—hiding things, and substituting honey for sugar, and dishing some of our good friends.

My husband says that life is too short to cause family disharmony when it can be easily avoided, but I think all the pretenses is a bad example for our children.

What do you think?

DEAR WONDERING: You shouldn't blame the contrast between their smoking and drinking. It's a simple thing to realize about you after years in college. You're not your in-laws. If they don't adjust a little to your way of living, they may stay away a lot. And from your description of them, you and your children might be better off.

DEAR ABBY: Who said: "No public man can be just a little crooked?"

DEAR JACK: Herbert Hoover. (But it sounds more like something United States Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas would have said.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO J. ME N: True, "a little learning is a dangerous thing," but it still beats total ignorance.

Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box 67000, Los Angeles, 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Gregory may well be the best player in the World. He is certainly one of the top five and he had no problem. He let that king lead the trick. You would lead a spade from dummy and finesse your ten. West would collect a surprise trick with his jack and trick a three aces would complete your downfall.

What would have happened if Gregory had played spades? Rightly or wrongly, he may have laid his queen of trumps down, dropped the jack and made his contract.

HEAVENLY INSTANT ANSWER

♥-CARD Sense

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Since this seems to be the week for unusual plays we will wind-up with a hum-dinger.

NORTH's three-spade call was a real canny. He had no reason to attract any bid to his queen of hearts and one king of spades did not justify his attempt to reach a game.

Still that queen of hearts was of value and East had not made a very fine defensive play. North's overbid would have worked.

South won the heart lead with his jack and led a low spade to dummy.

Any ordinary bridge player would have put the ace on the king without a moment's hesitation. But East was Giorgio Belladonna of Italy's world champion Blue-Team.

The bidding has been:

West North East South

Pass 3♠ Pass

You should have bid 4♥ 8 5 4 ♠ A K Q 8 3 ♠ A J 6 ♠ A

What do you do now?

Did five spades bid asks partner to bid at it if he holds very good trumps.

POOR QUESTION

Instead of bidding three spades your partner has responded two diamonds. To what, one spade? What do you do now?

Answer: Mondays

The total production of lumber from California forests in the past 100 years was in excess of 202 million board feet.

Couple recites vows

FILER — Jacques Harris and Ron Maxwell were married in a double ceremony at the Magic Valley Center on Thursday. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack G. Harris, Caldwell. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Luther Maxwell, Filer. Mr. Dennis Dinges was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Eddie Collman and Mrs. Don Campbell. The ceremony was conducted by Father Paul Perfield. Catholic children, assistant flower girls, were: Mrs. Edna Thompson, Karyn and Kerry Harris. The couple resides in Boise where both are seniors at Boise State College.

Miraculo Cure

5,000 YEAR OLD CHINESE HEALTH REMEDY FOUND

PERKING (Special) Health researchers in China have uncovered an amazing rare old Chinese herb remedy that possesses spectacular healing qualities and reportedly has been used for thousands of years to cure or give relief to a host of the most common illnesses suffered by mankind. It is a miracle herb called ginseng, which actually holds the key to a longer, healthier life. It has been the time honored cure of a user living in the 25th year old.

Helps Many Illnesses — Like acupuncture, the many healing properties of this remarkable herb were once considered folklore and superstition. But modern researchers around the world are suggesting that it may actually stimulate many of the body's processes to increase SEXUAL potency, help heal ULCERS, relieve ARTERIOSCLEROSIS, gray hair, or loss of HAIR, improve DISCERNMENT, slow down ASTHMA, TONSILLOSIS, relieve ASTHMA, rheumatism, and other ailments. ANEMIC conditions, relieve inflammation of the URINARY TRACT, help chronic MIGRAINES, relieve BACKACHES and PAINS, and generally improve your health by increasing your body's potential.

Safe, No Side Effects — Ginseng is not a drug, but an extremely rich in vitamins and minerals. What's more, this amazing natural remedy is completely safe and non-toxic with no side effects. Unfortunately, high-grade ginseng is in short supply, and brokers and peddlers around the world are bracing themselves for a "run" on the market as the herb's purported "miraculous" healing properties become more widely known to the general public.

Now Available in U.S. — Now you can get a generous 30-day supply of this amazing natural herb direct from the producer by sending only $10.00 in check, cash, or money order to Health Laboratory, Dept. 7, Box 2142, Palm Springs, Calif. 92222. This wonder herb is said to have helped millions of other people, and it may help your health problem, too. Isn't it worth a try?

Californian in custody

HAILEY — Jeffrey N. Kidd, 28, Concord, Calif., remained in custody in lieu of bond Saturday in the Blaine County Jail on a charge of grand larceny.

Kidd had been arrested by the Coquille Police Department on a Hailey Police Department warrant and had been returned to Hailey Friday by Chief Dan Norton and Blaine County Sheriff Deville Drexler.

Norton said Kidd had been charged in connection with the alleged theft of $350 in Hailey earlier in March. Kidd's bond has been set at $1,000.

Gooding chamber to meet

GOODING — R. J. Brumby, special assistant to Gov. Cecil Andrus, will address the Gooding Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting Tuesday on a proposal for establishment of Amtrak service in southern Idaho.

Interested citizens may make reservations by calling 934-4484.

Burley man held

BURLEY — A Burley man was taken into custody by the Blaine County Sheriff's Department Saturday morning in Burley.

Enrique Garcia Alajandres, alias Socorro Carranza, allegedly escaped from State Hospital South in Boise on Feb. 24. He was charged in Payette County in 1972.

Patrolman Dennis Lanun and detective Pete Rodriguez of the Burley City Police Department arrested Alajandres about 8:15 a.m. Saturday.

Alajandres had worked at a Burley potato produce plant for about six months under the name of Carlos Garcia. He had been traced through fingerprints and a National Crime Information Center check, according to Rodriguez. Alajandres claims to be 35 years old although his true age should be about 30, Rodriguez said.

Immigration authorities have been notified in the case, Rodriguez said.

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — The president of the Hells Canyon Preservation Council says, that questions about Hells Canyon in a survey by U.S. Sen. James McClure bear no relationship to provisions of recent legislation.

Richard Egan of Idaho Falls said Friday the questions sent to him were for the purpose of providing a check a response to the preservation of the canyon.

He said in spite of recent hearings which demonstrated a high degree of public support for preservation, the McClure seems intent on generating some evidence to the contrary.

Water to spill

NYSSA, Ore. (UPI) — Water was to be spilled over the "Clay Hole" at the Owyhee Reservoir beginning today.

Adam Koch, North Board of the Owyhee Irrigation System said Friday it is necessary to spill the water to make a cushion for expected runoff.

It is anticipated that the water-spill will remove a temporary road to the Owyhee Recreation Area installed last fall after a truck hit a springer and collapsed the old steel bridge.

Jerome project bid opening set

JEROME — Bids will be opened 2 p.m. Thursday at the Jerome County Courthouse for construction of an addition to and remodeling of the county sheriff and city chief of police's jail facility.

The original estimated cost of the project was between $400,000 and $450,000. After the first set of plans were drawn up the cost had increased to $1,000,000.

Commissioners have worked with Sundberg and Associates Inc., architects, Idaho Falls, and have modified the original plans in an effort to bring the cost of the project down.

Most of the cuts were made in the original plans in remodeling the courthouse with some items eliminated in the new addition. The new addition will be located on the south side of the present facility and will be a three-story brick building 50 by 70 feet.

The basement of the new structure will not be completed until additional funds are available, according to Claude Bernard, commission chairman.

Plans call for joint county sheriff and city chief of police facilities which will be housed on the ground floor of the annex. The present auditor-clerk quarters will be remodeled as offices for the county sheriff and city chief of police.

The jail facility including work release areas will be situated on the first floor of the addition. The jail facilities were scaled down from the original plans when listed 38 cells became 20 cells.

Commissioners have been negotiating the call the number was cut down and still meets requirements for prisoner categories.

The county auditor clerk quarters will be located in the basement to make room for another courtroom.

FILER — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, spoke of the problems and hopes of the elderly as he addressed the Kiwanis Club of Filer at its Golden Anniversary Banquet Friday night.

The theme chosen for the 50-year-old club is "Elderly Citizens Living Well."

Church said that our fast-changing society has tended to isolate senior citizens. Fifty years ago, he said, many Americans were living in large, old frame houses where two or three generations stayed together.

But now "the tendency has been for young parents to move from community to community, to small houses and to leave the old frame houses behind."

Church said that with this change have emerged stereotypes of the elderly as either living in "golden ghettos" or "afflicted with some disease . . . gathered together in dreary nursing homes and living out their lives in isolation.

"Both types of stereotypes do, in fact, exist," Church said. But then he went on to speak of those people who are not living the stereotypes.

He said that the happiness of the elderly depends largely on their "sense of participation in community affairs" and their "feelings of belonging" and "worth."

In this sphere, not the government but the community in its local and national forms has to find the answer," he said.

During the past six years there has been "a complete transformation right here in Idaho" due to some of the innovative programs started.

Church said, "In many communities, they (the elderly) are a lulling bunch."

At one Boise high school, a senior citizens group is not only using the school facilities for special programs but are coming to eat lunch with the students.

The older folks and the younger ones are acting along very well," he said.

He said another senior citizens group in Boise has organized the "XYZ" or "lasta years of zest" program. This group has established a senior citizens phone service to help people and has started a minibus service.

In Stamps, he said, "the elderly are doing more 'modern' work" through a "latter grandparent program."

Church mentioned the senior citizens' "fine home" with a very popular pool table in Rupert. And he spoke of his visit to the newly established Silvercreek Home.

The senator also talked about needed help at the government level. He said that inflation has "tempered greatly the promise of Social Security."

"Regarding medical care, he said, 'Here we have made a great deal of progress though there is still much to be done.' He said that Medicare has relieved the elderly of the great fear of being impoverished by the high costs of medical care.

"In closing, Church said, 'I solved problems which we haven't even begun to solve.

Wendell budget increases 46 per cent from 1973

WENDELL — According to a proposed budget unanimously approved Thursday night, Wendell city spending next year will be three times as high as this year.

Most of the extra spending is for special projects.

However, the general fund budget, including most routine city services, will rise 16 per cent above a year ago.

Local taxes would rise 34 per cent above current levels.

The total spending authorized under the proposed budget would rise to $600,000, $173,000 above the current budget.

Taxes gathered locally would rise to $40,700, up from $27,800 in last year's budget.

General fund spending would rise from $44,300 this year to $64,700 next year.

According to City Clerk Glenn Collett, the increased budget funds mostly will go toward two city projects: construction of a city water treatment plant and completion of McInnis Park.

Mrs. Collett said Wendell had planned to spend over $127,000 last year, but the expected grant money did not come through.

The city owes $200,000 in debt for the water works and sewer system has already been approved. The rest of the money for the systems will be raised from sewer collections, Mrs. Collett said.

She said the federal government will put up about $22,800 for construction of McInnis Park and the city will put in matching amount of that value.

Other changes include an increase in the library fund up nearly $2,000 to $4,400.

A total $300,000 was appropriated for construction of the city water system and new sewage sludge and sprinkler system. Nearly $400,000 was spent last year in this department.

City engineer Hugh Hedges said the construction of the city sewer system is underway and should be completed in June.

McInnis Park has been appropriated $157,000 up from $120,000 spent last year.

The irrigation department was budgeted $16,200 up from $13,700 spent last year. The sanitation department's fund increased to $11,700 up from $7,900 spent in 1973.

The city council authorized a garbage collection increase of $20,000 to $40,000 effective this month.

The spent fire department fund dropped from $7,200 spent last year to the $3,800 budgeted this year. Monies for the parks and recreation department will be returned to the state.

James See was hired as the city dog catcher after being fired last year. See's appointment is part of the city's tough stand on dog control. He had been fired for rough treatment of dogs.

Vernon Sisson and Robert Blackwell were sworn in as members of the McInnis Park Board.

Continuation of last night's council meeting will be Thursday. This for the city police car will be given. At the regular council meeting on March 28, bids for materials for the city water system will be opened.

Solon visits Burley area

By BOB MICHIELLI Times-News writer

BURLEY — Energy problems, shortages, unemployment and the gun control law are among the subjects Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, discussed when he stopped in the Burley area Thursday.

The senator and his wife arrived late in Burley because of a gun control amendment to the Senate bill to restore constitutional death penalty.

The amendment, sponsored by Sen. Edward Brooke and Jacob Javits, came up late Wednesday. Sen. Church said he was forced to stay in Washington to argue and vote against the amendment. It was defeated.

The energy crisis of this kind of legislation is to single out the petroleum industry for more tax treatment," Church said. The law would have stopped the manufacture and sale of certain types of handguns and forced registration of other types of guns.

Church called the proposed oil-pricing legislation "a hanky panky" on the part of the oil companies, according to the senator.

Church said he could not see why companies invested money in the US at all when foreign investment has been so profitable. He said that over $10 billion has been invested in the US in the last 12 years because of profit and tax advantages.

The Exxon Corp. posted "the biggest profit of any private company in the history of the world," Church said. He said the program is to bring some of these things out," he said.

Price control programs in the US have been a farce and a failure," Church said. "We are in a period of the worst inflation in this century."

Church recognized this. My guess is that Congress will let the program die except for the jails and hospitalization," he said.

On the question of impeachment of the President, Church said, "I have said very little about impeachment as I may be going to jail myself if a bill of impeachment is passed by the House and sent to the Senate for trial."

As a juror, I would approach the subject with an open mind. Every man is entitled to a fair trial including the President of the United States.

Church said he disagreed with the President that he could withhold evidence "at his pleasure."

The senator answered questions from the public in the courthouse during the day. In a noon church meeting at the Ponderosa Inn and at a public meeting in the evening at Deorschak School.

TWIN FALLS — Twenty members of Boy Scout Troop 160 manned rakes, pitchforks and trash bags Saturday for an eight hour stretch to clean debris from the Perrine Coulee in the Lynwood Shopping Center.

The Twin Falls city sanitation Department cooperated by furnishing trucks and a loader to haul the 1000 lbs. of debris to the landfill.

James McClure, U.S. Senator, and Dennis Chase said several truck loads of debris went to the sanitary landfill as a result of the cleanup.

Appointed

JEROME — Dick Wasson, manager of Moore Business Forms Inc., Jerome, has been appointed to the governing board of St. Benedict's Hospital.

The announcement was made by Sister Mary Matthew, chairman of the hospital governing board.

Wasson is a resident of the new Jerome plant he served as plant manager for the corporation in Logan, Utah. Wasson is active in community affairs and a member of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club.

Staff changes

GOODING — The Gooding Leader is undergoing its fourth change in news staff in three years as a result of the resignation of editor Lewis Brammer.

Ordon Glesmann of the Ogden Standard Examiner, who purchased the Leader and other area papers in September, 1972, is operating the Gooding paper until Brammer's replacement, Ron Wade, can arrive here early in April.

News editor is Ruth Miller; Hagerman. Brammer and Glesmann both maintain Brammer's resignation had nothing to do with the ousting of news editor Harry Van Horn a few weeks ago.

Glesmann said Brammer's job was to come into the area where his papers were having trouble. Brammer never planned to move to Gooding permanently, Glesmann said.

When Brammer left, Van Horn said he left the Gooding Leader to take another job. Van Horn is currently printing a five county area weekly newspaper the "South Idaho Enterprise" which will be based in Gooding. The initial issue is scheduled April 1.

McClure optimistic over City of Rocks monument

BURLEY — The outlook is optimistic for legislation to make the City of Rocks area south of Burley a National Monument, according to Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho.

Sen. McClure was in Burley Saturday to meet with the public at the Cassia County Courthouse and a luncheon meeting in Byron's Cafeteria. The same day he had been in a meeting with the National Park Service.

McClure met with Cassia County residents to discuss the issue Saturday morning.

McClure said that people have come to the point of discussing politics and politicians in the United States. "People don't like government very darn well," he said, "people have to know that this government is just as good as they make it and just as bad as they allow it to be."

The United States government is more respected throughout the world than it is by its own citizens at the moment, according to Sen. McClure. This is shown by the fact that the U.S. is allowed to "boycott" in the Middle East negotiations, he said.

McClure said the energy crisis is real and that oil companies have had a bad image, but that they did not "contribute" the crisis. Part of the problem with the energy oil companies currently have is due to the "American habit of finding a scapegoat," according to McClure.

The energy crisis was predictable, McClure said. "I did predict it." He said the country would still be five percent short of fuel if the Arab oil embargo was lifted.

Addressing himself to a question about farm fuel allocations, McClure said: "If the system works as it is supposed to and the embargo is lifted and stays lifted, I think he (the farmer) will get it. No one knows for sure. I have no illusion that there won't be problems."

Farmers are concerned with the problem at the moment because they have to decide now what they can plant with confidence that they will be able to harvest it.

He did not vote in favor of the gun control amendment to the death penalty bill which came up in congress last Wednesday. McClure said, "I am not in favor of gun control now or ever."

The report is totally false," McClure said, that he was in favor of the measure. It had been reported in a wire service story that the senator voted for the amendment.

Blaine school bond won't increase district construction levy

By TERRY CAMPBELL Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — Approval of the March 28 Blaine County school bond proposal will not increase the district construction levy, according to ASU, Supt. Ray Jefferson.

Jefferson, members of the county program and facilities study steering committee and Wood River High School student detailed the bond proposal before the Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The $1 million bond proposal includes funding for new Wood River High School and updating district schools. The proposal calls for the replacement of the present 10-mill plant facilities levy with a 10-mill bond fund for 20 years.

Jefferson, who also serve as study coordinator, said the plant facilities levy adopted about three years ago and set to run for five years was dedicated solely to construction of the new high school.

Since the levy was initiated, he said, costs have "rocketed" and with continued growth the district's needs have changed. He said the district presently has "very real and critical needs."

Delay will only make these needs more critical and costly, Jefferson said.

Wood River High School student body president John McFarland outlined the need to replace the existing high school.

Problems at the school, McFarland said, include that the classroom section is "structurally weak," the building is "inadequate for the present about 400 students" and the district architect designed enrollment for a maximum of 150 students; the electrical system is "completely obsolete"; the lack of health room facility, and the school poses fire escape problems.

A second high school student, Frank Goble, said the district architect "stated that unless the bid for the proposed improvements is accepted by November, the improvements will cost from $30,000 to $40,000 more each month."

Goble said residents will not be voting for bricks and concrete but for the "future of student lives."

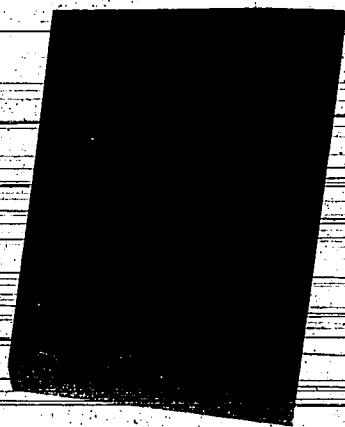

Jefferson also discussed why the Woodside site, donated to the district by McCulloch Properties Inc., was chosen for the new high school rather than a site in Gibby Gulch.

The district, he said, had attempted for six to eight months to negotiate a land swap between the state, which owns the Ohio Gulch school section, and the Bureau of Land Management (BLM). However, he said the district received a letter in March 1973 from the BLM officials stating that they felt the exchange was not in the best public interest.

The site selection committee chose the Woodside site because it would enable the district to save about $100,000 in site development costs. The other proposed site also did not have police and fire protection and its location would necessitate transportation for every student, he said.

Janel Coleman also outlined the proposed program for updating district schools.

These, she said, included a band room and cafeteria multipurpose room at the Carey School; classrooms at Bellevue Elementary and at the present Wood River High School, which would become another elementary school; retaining the present high school gymnasium and adding classrooms, locker and shower room facilities for a junior high complex; and classrooms and a music room at Hemingway Elementary, Ketchum.

Acrobatics aplenty as 'hotdoggers' compete

Hot dog: New folk art form

SUN-VALLEY — Hot-dog-skiing is just another form of American folk art, according to Doug Pfeiffer — self-proclaimed "father of free-styling."

But if large crowds of spectators appreciatively following "allright" after a spectacular stunt is any indication, hotdogging is on up and coming rival to football and baseball. And those enthusiastic spectators and an about 200 strong contingent of even more enthusiastic hotdoggers gathered last week at Sun Valley's Bald Mountain for the Western National Freestyle Skiing championships.

The event, which concluded Saturday, was sponsored by Chevrolet, Skiing magazine, Diet Pepsi and Sun Valley.

Competition is divided into three categories: ballet, aerial acrobatics and free-style.

Pfeiffer, who serves as editorial director for Skiing, said hotdogging got its start about five years ago between him and Tom Corcoran, president and general manager of the Waterville Valley N.H. ski area.

The launch included the idea that "skiers are great, but all they can do is go straight and go left-and-right."

The potential for hotdog skiing was gauged, in Pfeiffer's opinion, by the fact that "the real skiers practice hotdogging when no one is looking."

Pfeiffer said early hotdog competition had too much emphasis on "daring-do." But nonetheless, he said, it was a "very exciting sport" and captured the fancy of the younger generation.

Also in the early stages of the sport, traveling competitors slept in vans or on the floor of friends' residences.

Three years later, Pfeiffer said, the same hotdoggers who have risen to the top are repeating their stunts as much as 400 times.

Hotdogging's biggest draw is the fact that competitors "are breaking through barriers and reaching into the unknown," Pfeiffer said. "Almost one week to the next, we see fantastic combinations of old tricks." Pfeiffer said he has encouraged competitors to form their own association and set their own safety standards, which gave rise to the International Free-style Skiers Association.

However, he said, two competitors sustained serious injuries in aerial acrobatic events last year. As a result, Skiing magazine last spring encouraged competitors to form their own association and set their own safety standards, which gave rise to the International Free-style Skiers Association.

Pfeiffer said hotdogging will always have an element of danger because it is professional competition but that officials hope to take the risk out of the sport as much as possible.

Pfeiffer also said the emphasis of the sport in the last several years has shifted to precision, control and safety.

"The father of hotdogging" said the sport is "only in its adolescent stage at best." But he said, it has a "tremendous potential as an exciting spectator sport and as a valuable contribution to athletic development."

And continued spectator excitement is promised by his feeling that "the ultimate has not been achieved by any means."

Triplet kids face pet life

MRS. BEN KING holds one of the three triplet kids born to their family just three weeks ago. The three have been named Levi, Jeremiah and Chae. The Kings plan to keep them all as pets.

to have her babies so wandered a mile away to the highway. The first kids, two girls and one boy, have been named Levi, Jeremiah and Chae. The Kings bottle-feed the smallest of the three for several days. The mother now has enough milk for all three and they also are receiving breast milk as a supplemental food.

Mrs. King said their friends have been telling them how good mutton chops taste, but she says she has no intention of bringing these kids to such an end. They plan on keeping them all as pets.

At the King place, the mother said and three kids, a Siamese cat and several other cats, plus three dogs, Lady, a German shepherd, Meggins, a bird dog, and Tuffy, a beaver and white 'Heinz variety' type, all sat along in harmony.

Triplet 'kids' puzzle parent

BULL: She had so many kids she didn't know what to do. Nanny, a goat owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ben King, northwest of Buhl, must at times feel a kinship with the Old Woman in the Shoe.

When Nanny tries to keep her three new babies near her and they want to wander away, she looks and feels utterly frustrated. How to keep away on all three at once? The triplets were born three weeks ago to the female goat, which had been bought last summer by the Kings who planned to milk her. The Kings knew the goat was expecting her first offspring but didn't know just when. So they were rather surprised when their neighbor drove into the yard to tell them their goat had had triplets out by his haystack.

Affirmative answer due rail car call

WASHINGTON—The Agriculture Department's formal request for additional rail cars to move fertilizer did not specify the number of cars needed, but cited fertilizer shortages in certain areas of the country, an Interstate Commerce Commission official said Friday.

ICC plans to issue an order "reacting positively" to USDA's request, directing about a thousand covered hopper cars to needy regions, especially in Florida, the official said.

More beans
Washington, D.C. — The American Soybean Association said farmers plan to plant 350,000 acres of beans this spring, nearly 50 percent more than last year's production. The increase was due to a soybean price spike and a USDA program to encourage farmers to plant more soybeans.

The ASA thinks farmers will plant 50 percent more bushels of beans than they did last year. That extra incentive will mean a lot more beans per acre.

Farm Cattle trade mixed

CHICAGO—Cattle traders Friday appeared to be reversing the spreads between nearby and back months in the wake of crop acreage reports.

Futures were mixed with prices ranging from down 75 cents to up $1.00, but a heavy bid in nearby April, June and August contracts helped lift prices up sharply after limit down levels were reached during the early trading. For the day, 13,410 contracts changed hands.

Brazil buying more
Washington, D.C. — The department issued the sale of hides and skins to Brazil.

The U.S. supplied Brazil 200,000 cattle hides, worth $16 million, and 74,000 sheep hides, worth almost $10 million.

Planting forecasts hint US corn, wheat records

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American farmers apparently are heading for record corn and wheat crops this year on the basis of new planting forecasts issued by the Agriculture Department Thursday.

But the size of those and other harvests is the question of whether agriculture experts will alter their previous projections of potential harvest figures, estimated by experts who said they would issue their projections of actual production on key crops late today.

On the basis of production forecasts issued by agriculture economists until today, government reports have predicted that 1974 total food crop yields would probably average 12 percent above 1973. But if harvests fall substantially short of the early forecasts, experts have warned this year's food price gain could equal the 16-per-cent rise recorded last year.

Thursday's report said a March survey showed farmers will plant 76.8 million acres of corn up 10 percent last year. The forecast was unchanged from a January survey which later led department experts to forecast that corn production could go from last year's 5.2 billion bushels to 5.7 billion in 1974.

That potential big corn crop, which is 549 million bushels above their forecasts of demand in the 1974-75 season — to ease corn prices off the current 45-cent level. Experts have said lower prices for corn — a key raw ingredient for many poultry uses and milk — will stimulate increased livestock production and bring consumer food prices down later this year.

Lamb crop down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Among the other things we'll have less of this year is lamb, an Agriculture Department report indicated today.

The report said the number of sheep and lambs of feed for slaughter in seven major producing states declined 478,000 head, down 6 percent from a year earlier.

Officials added the early lamb crop this year in Kansas, Texas and California was estimated at 1.8 million head, down 11 percent from a year earlier.

Wheat bids off in early March

TWIN FALLS — Wheat bids dropped sharply during the week of March 5, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture marketing service report.

Although wheat showed strength early in the period, it dropped sharply and was quoted 5 to 20 cents lower at the close of most grain markets.

Domestic grain export and domestic wheat was limited.

Cash corn bids at country points were unchanged; to 20 cents per bushel white sorghum bid 20 to 31 cents per hundredweight.

Several port elevators were embargoed and supplies and supplies built up on tracks as vessel loading slowed. Traders in the area expressed concern over the supply of fertilizer available for spring usage. Soil moisture was adequate in most areas with the exception of west Texas.

Farm Support level hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress is seeking to force a strong bipartisan drive developed behind bills to boost the price of flour. President Nixon later ordered an increase in the price of flour. Critics subsequently charged that this action was sparked by heavy campaign contributions from big dairy cooperatives which also had contributed to many members of congress.

This year, dairy farm income is expected to rise 90 percent of the "fair earning" power level. The new support rate will be 65 percent of the current rate of 96 cents.

Planting increase foreseen

The largest of all wheat plantings in the past 20 years is expected, as well as sharp increases in the acreages for soy commercial beans and dry edible peas.

The service said major decreases in planted acreage are planned for barley, mixed grains and sugar beets.

Wheat plantings in the southwest, little progress has been made in preparing land for spring planting, since fields have been sold and, according to the service, soil moisture supplies are inadequate for starting early spring growth of crops.

Normal mountain snow packs should assure plentiful snowmelt for irrigation water for the 1974 season.

Especially, the international language is governed by only 16 grammatical rules.

Gem cloud seeding studied

MALAD (UPI) — An organization with members from Northern Utah and Southeastern Idaho is investigating the formation of an association to implement cloud seeding programs for the area.

The Bear River Resource Conservation and Development Organization includes members from Box Elder, Cache and Rich Counties, Utah; and Oneida and Franklin Counties in Idaho.

Reese Warburton, president, said his objective would be to increase annual rainfall in the area to suppress damage from hail, lightning and thunderstorms, and to monitor the results.

Utah eyes control of programs

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The State Agricultural Department is drafting legislation which would give it more power over predator control programs.

Commissioner Joseph Francis said the bill would create an anti-predator board, a livestock, poultry and wild game damage prevention board with members drawn from government agencies and livestock and poultry associations.

Francis said the bill would create an anti-predator board, a livestock, poultry and wild game damage prevention board with members drawn from government agencies and livestock and poultry associations.

The executive secretary of the Utah Wool Growers Association, Montezuma Palmer, said the bill now being considered would give stockmen license to destroy all predatory wildlife.

BlM eyes fire season

SHOSHONE (UPI) — The Bureau of Land Management officials in the Shoshone District are making fire preparations for the 1974 fire season.

Bureau personnel last year put out fires on 31,000 acres of the three million acres of land comprising the Shoshone District, twice the normal amount for an average fire season.

Wallace Fixsen, fire control officer, said that because of extreme winter and spring moisture, bureau officials are again looking for high fire hazard conditions.

He explained that the wet lands foster intense growth of fuels which grow bigger and drier more quickly than usual.

Motorists shift loyalty to price

(C) New York Times Service
NEW YORK — With increasing supplies of gasoline already available, and even more in prospect when the Arab oil embargo ends, motorists across the country are beginning to shop around for the best price, and a few gas station operators are even starting to worry about recurrence of price wars.
 Ironically, the end of the embargo is expected to mean somewhat higher prices at pump, because of the high cost of Arab crude oil.
 Meanwhile, industry critics are questioning whether the production of gasoline in the United States is being deliberately held down to prevent a plentiful supply of gasoline that would weaken prices and allow serious price competition to resume.
 "We're surprised stiffly, the long lines that plagued motorists for several months have largely disappeared, leaving car owners to choose among a hodge-podge of prices that differ by as much as 15 or 20 cents for a gallon of gasoline," a survey by the New York Times, conducted at the end of the Arab embargo, being heralded indicated that many motorists had already begun shopping more discriminately for gasoline and in some cases had stopped patronizing stations where they had bought their gasoline for years.
 "I'm definitely beginning to consider price," Helen Finkler, wife of a Pittsburgh lawyer, "I'm looking for lower-priced stations rather than buying just anywhere I'm going up, my regular station for cheaper."
 Even as motorists began shifting their allegiance, oil industry critics were pointing out that the industry cut back slightly last week in the production of gasoline at 100,000 of year when it normally increases production and despite a 10-cent increase in the price of a cent a gallon to produce more gasoline.

 One Senate investigator said he believed there was a good deal of "secondary" storage that had not been reported officially.
 "Obviously there's a strong incentive for the companies not to produce as much as it will produce," he said.
 A spokesman for the American Petroleum Institute defended the industry's performance and said that even though more crude oil was inventoried last week than the week before, somewhat less crude was available for use in refineries because of the transportation problems. He said that crude oil was transferred around the country from companies with plenty of crude in companies with less.
 The critics, however, pointed out that the nation's supply of crude oil last week was 240 million barrels, up from the previous week's 237 million barrels, despite the increase in production.
 "The percentage of domestic refinery capacity utilized declined from 83.1 per cent to 81.5 per cent and the production of gasoline decreased slightly to 1.9 million barrels a day to 1.86 million barrels."

UCLA routs San Francisco, sets sights on N.C. State

BY JIM COHR
UPI Sports Writer
TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—Smooth Keith Wilkes, UCLA's other All-American, poured in 27 points Saturday as the No. 2 Bruins swept aside Carolina State in the NCAA West Regional championship game to set up a rematch with the ranked North Carolina State in the second round of the tournament.

UCLA, which beat the Wolfpack by 18 points in college basketball's season-opening game Saturday in St. Louis last December, will face North Carolina State in the NCAA semifinals next Saturday afternoon.

Wilkes, who scored only 14 points in the Bruins' triple overtime squeaker over Dayton Thursday night, had 16 points in the second half as UCLA put away the unranked Donors early.

Bill Walton, UCLA's three-time college basketball MVP, added 17 points, 12 in the second half and played with an enthusiasm that was definitely lacking against Dayton.

Long-shooting forward Kevin Hestani and Phil Smith, USA's outstanding senior guard, paced the outclassed Donors with 20 and 18 points respectively.

USF, which lost in the West

(final) to UCLA by only 15 points a year ago, double and sometimes triple teamed the 6-7 Wilkes with 20 shots.

Around 3:23 at halftime, the Bruins, who have had trouble holding leads this season, were intent to put the Donors away early and they did.

Dave Meyers, who clipped in with 12 points following a 28-point performance against the Flyers, and Wilkes hit baskets to open the second and fourth quarters.

When freshman Marques Johnson connected on a free throw with 11:15 to go, the Bruins were ahead 57-38 for their biggest lead of the game at 17 points.

The victory was the 38th consecutive in NCAA tournament play for the Bruins, who are bidding for their eighth national championship in a row and tenth in 11 years.

Walton, who has appeared to lack enthusiasm in some games this season, was at his unimpaired best against the Donors. The big redhead from La Mesa, Calif., carried on a running conversation with his teammates and shouted frequently for instructions from his coach, John Wooden.

Wooden, who asked if he questioned the Bruins' bench near the end of the first half when his team had the ball.

With his team in front 61-44 with 9:27 to go, Walton yelled at Wooden again and asked, "Shall we press them?"

Wilkes took 28 shots and made 13 of them, while Walton was 7 for 12 from the floor and scored all rebounders with nine.

In the consolation game prior to the UCLA-USF game, the Bruins' Lobos, with reserve guard Jim Hardin, scored 12 of his 14 points in the second half, including a layup.

The new Mexico-Dayton game was played by the Lobos starting center Bill Hagins, a 6-7, 220-pounder and reserve forward Jim Testerman of the Flyers. No punches were spared in the game.

UCLA coach John Wooden said he had hoped his Donors, who have been eliminated in the NCAA West Regionals the past three seasons, might jump out to a lead of six or seven points against UCLA and then go into a more controlled game.

"But we only led once and then by a single point," he said.

Galliard said the Bruins have a tremendous psychological advantage in the tournament, because of their winning tradition. "It's almost as if they know they're going to win," he said.

Galliard, asked if the Bruins would go all the way, said, "I always like to bet on the sweetest and the strongest, and while I'd certainly be willing to bet on a victory for the Bruins, I'd certainly be willing to book any bets on that game."

Wooden admitted the Bruins have had some problems this year, particularly after Walton's midseason back injury.

"I showed up in funny ways," he said. "Bill seemed to lack his usual capacity for leadership while he was recovering."

"But he worked very hard and when he was feeling 100 per cent physically, he became his old bubbling, infectious self. He's been playing in top form the past couple of weeks."

Green, Wiechers share Jacksonville lead

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Hubert Green and Jim Wiechers, both shooting remarkable golf scores, were the lead at 11-under-par 105 in the third round of the $150,000 Greater Jacksonville Open golf tournament Saturday.

Green shot a four-under-par 68 and Wiechers had a remarkable six-under-par 66 over the par-72, 108-yard Deerwood Country Club course.

Two strokes back at 207 was Texan John Mahaffey. At 209 were Homero Blancas, Labron Harris and New Zealand's Bob Charles.

Green had five birdies and two bogeys en route to his third round total.

Wiechers carded an eagle on the par-5 16th hole and four birdies.

Blunched at six under-par 710 were Dennis Weaver, Larry Nelson and Tom Weiskopf.

Arnold Palmer ran into putting problems on his round and shot a five-over-par 77 which put him in a lurch at par-216 with nine holes.

Lee Trevino carded a 89 for a three-round total of 214.

University of Florida golfer Gary Koch, the only amateur in the tournament, had 73 Saturday for a three-round total of 218.

Green, a graduate of Florida State University, in Tallahassee, said he was fired after his third round finish but felt he had enough stamina to win the $30,000 first prize money Sunday.

"It's exciting to be out there with all those people following me around from hole to hole but it tires you out mentally and physically when you play the way you have to play to win," said the 27-year-old Green.

Green won the Bob Hope Desert Classic earlier this year and his next best finish was a third in the Phoenix Open. He won over $100,000 on the tour last year and he has already earned $32,628 this year.

As they have throughout the tournament, both winners played hot with drives and long shots.

"You can't hit what you think is the best shot of your life and find that you're 30 or 40 feet from the hole," said Green.

Wiechers said he hit his best round. "I've played Jacksonville this year. I cannot hit the ball better than I hit it today. All my shots landed at or very near the pin."

Weaver said he was "winded to death to be here. I am. What else could be better except leading the tournament?"

Weaver, who has relatives in the Jacksonville area, said a lot of his kinfolk were in his gallery.

"And I could see them closing my eyes every time."

Wooden wants N.C. State to think about 18-point defeat

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—UCLA coach John Wooden said Saturday he hopes North Carolina State will dwell on the fact that his Bruins beat the Wolfpack by 18 points in a consolation game Saturday in St. Louis last December.

UCLA meets the Wolfpack Saturday in St. Louis in the second round of the NCAA semifinals game. Marquette and Kansas meet in the other matchup.

Wooden was asked if he thought the Bruins might have a psychological edge by being more motivated because of their earlier defeat. "Only loss of the season," he said.

Lead shot freeze sought pending data

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, has introduced a bill to give his decision-making authority for hunting until Congress has an opportunity to take legislative action on the issue.

The interior department is very close to issuing an order that would allow the use of lead shot for waterfowl hunting across the nation.

McClure said, "and nowhere in the process of making these new regulations has there been any public hearings or consultation with the congress."

McClure said he is tired of seeing bureaucrats make arbitrary decisions in a vacuum.

"They may go through a ritual of filing environmental impact statements with the environmental protection agency, but what the American people want or need has nothing to do with the end result," he said.

"In this case, the bureau of sport fisheries is locked to an idea without sufficient scientific evidence or expert opinion on all sides of the issue to warrant a far reaching decision.

"Certainly there is evidence of waterfowl kills from lead poisoning through shot ingestion, but there is also evidence that the outlawing of lead shot without a suitable alternative is no answer at all."

McClure said there is much scientific weight to show that the alternative of iron shot that will be ordered by interior as a replacement will ring about more needless deaths than lead shot.

McClure said he would like to see the issue brought to the attention of the public and the congress.

He said his bill would prohibit the issuance of any new regulations without the approval of the congress and scientific arguments on all sides and for all alternatives.

Godby wins fourth state boxing title

POCAHELLO.—Dryke Godby of Gooding claimed his fourth Idaho State Junior Olympic championship Saturday night and was joined in the winners circle by Chris Harbaugh of Gooding and Carlos Castro of Twin Falls.

Godby knocked out Jeff Miller of Mars in the first round to claim the 142-pound championship in the senior division. It was Godby's 10th KO in 50 matches.

Harbaugh won the junior division 85-pound class with a decision over Wayne Monke of Emmett.

Castro, who was unopposed in the 105-pound class.

Godby's fist fight will come next Saturday night at the Gooding high school gymnasium to the feature event of another top timber annual card presented by Bud Godby.

Spartans win playoff spot

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—San Antonio edged Memphis 104-102 behind a 20-point effort from rookie George Karl and clinched at least third place and a playoff berth in the American Basketball Association West Division Saturday night.

Karl scored all but two of his points in the second half and grabbed 10 rebounds as the Spartans boosted their record to 42-36 in a battle with Indiana for second place and the home court advantage in the playoffs.

The game was up for grabs until the final seconds when a three-point shot by Memphis hit the rim and bounced away.

White ready to go north

TEMPLE, Ariz. (UPI)—American footballer Danny White, drafted by the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League, Saturday was reported ready to sign with the Cowboys.

White, who said he will be in Toronto on Monday, said "Whether I sign there or not will depend on the agreement we make. They've made me a pretty good offer and if the contract's the way I want it, I'll sign—and it'll probably be confirmed on Tuesday or so."

White originally had been drafted by the Chicago franchise but he was traded to Toronto for future draft choices.

Oklahoma wins NCAA mat crown

AMES, Iowa (UPI)—Oklahoma spurred by two individual championships rallied from the tail end of a four-team race here Saturday night to capture their seventh NCAA wrestling title.

Oklahoma, which began the evening finals in fourth place, took the lead quickly but had to wait until Michigan heavyweight Gary Brad was defeated by Western Illinois' Jim Woods in the final match of the night to lock up the title.

A victory by Ermat would have given the championship to Michigan.

The St. Louis area had individual championships from Gary Breece at 118 pounds and Rod Kilgore at 136. Second place Michigan had only one individual winner, Jerry Hubbard, who won his second straight national title at 150 pounds.

Allen Hubbard, who won the Michigan hopes then rested on the shoulders of Ermat, who was decided 5-5 by Woods.

Oklahoma State, which held a one point lead going into the final round, finished third and second in the championship.

Oklahoma State had an excellent chance at the championship at the start of the day's competition.

Marquette plans on dynamite in finals

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—Marquette Coach Al McGuire believes his Warriors will be "dynamite" in next week's NCAA basketball championship.

The fifth-ranked Warriors (25-4) tipped the Michigan Wolverines Saturday, 72-70, in the Midwest Regional finals to become one of the four teams going to Greensboro, N.C., and will play Midwest winner Kansas next Saturday.

"I personally believe we're going to be dynamite," McGuire said. "The dynamite is broken and it has been a shadow over me."

McGuire was referring to the fact that Marquette failed to win the previous five times it went to the Midwest Regional since he became coach at the Catholic school 10 years ago.

"In virtually any national championship game, it's going to come down to the final two points, as this one did," McGuire said.

Marquette grabbed a four-point lead with 45 seconds to play Saturday when reserve Jerry Homan was fouled and sank two free throws. Michigan cut the margin to two on a jumper by Campy Russell, voted the most valuable player in the tournament, but although the Wolverines got the ball back two more times in the closing seconds, they were unable to cash in.

"We had a lot of opportunities near the end," said Michigan coach John Oler. "But they got what counts. The score is what counts."

Third-ranked Notre Dame (26-1) posted seventh-ranked Vanderbilt (25-1) 88-88 in the Midwest consolation game, running up the highest score ever made by a Vanderbilt opponent.

The Wolverines, now 22-5, led by 30 points late in the game but had that margin cut to 9-9 at intermission when the Warriors ran off the last six points of the period.

The Carey Lake Wildlife Management Area has been producing excellent catches of perch, bluegill, and a few largemouth bass. It is another example of how important the Fish and Game Department's access to the lake is.

Michigan Valley residents, Carey Lake is actually a large, shallow water marsh that is located just to the east of Carey Lake.

The marsh is an excellent nesting area for waterfowl, pond ducks hunting in the fall, important waterfowl cover, pheasants and some dove nesting.

The marsh is a popular area for my family last weekend and fished the area. There was still about a foot of snow on the ground around the lake so we parked our vehicle along the edge of the highway, and walked along the trail at the Fish and Game Access Point.

Michigan opened the lead to five points at the Warriors' second half but the Warriors finally forced into the lead at 33-27 when reserve Jerry Homan tipped in his only field goal of the game.

Michigan got a break that night when 6-9 Maurice Lucas fouled out but the Warriors' other center, Tim Thurmond, shot a three-pointer to pick up the slack.

Washington wound up with 17 points, 11 of them late in the second half, and Ellis had 10 points and five rebounds.

The Big Ten sports chairman who poured in 30 points against Notre Dame Thursday was the high scorer in the game with 21 points but the Wolverines had trouble getting the ball to their ace when the pressure was on in the closing minutes.

Shulmeier, a 6-9 junior who scored 34 points Thursday night when Notre Dame was upset by Michigan had 20 points Saturday and left the game with more than four minutes left to play after hitting the buzzer.

Austrian miss wins dual slalom

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI)—Austria's Maria Kasten won the spotlight from teammate Gertraud in the women's dual slalom Saturday long enough to win the women's dual slalom event in the Nations' World Series of Skiing.

Kasten, ranked two through the bracket to face Leth and a younger and from Brunnsch, won in the finals of the race on a short course.

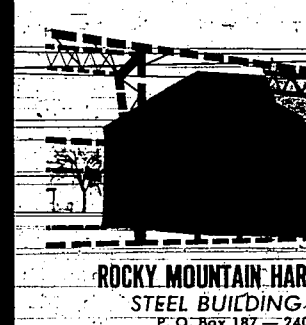

Miss Lende, who lost because she cut one gate, just a little too close, was trying to go too fast.

Three men each won the Nations' Series in Italy, Germany and Austria qualified for Sunday's finals, the last event in the Aspen phase of the World Series.

Bruce, who won Thursday's parallel slalom, was the fastest in the red course in 20.82 seconds. Behind him were Fausto Radice of Italy, Johann Krieger of Austria, Otto Berger of West Germany, Franz Klammer of Austria, Dave Irwin of Canada, Bernard Russi of Switzerland and Piero Gros of Italy.

Allen may return from operation

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Milwaukee Bucks guard Larry Allen, having the best season as a pro underfoot knee surgery Saturday and was given an outside chance of returning to action this season.

A Bucks spokesman said Allen will be in a long rest for three to four weeks. There is a chance he could return to action in June or a few weeks if the Bucks were still involved in the National Basketball Association playoffs at that time, the spokesman said.

T.F. takes track victory; Burley's Harper doubles

The Twin Falls Bruins, with only a few familiar faces returning, opened the track season Friday afternoon with a four-way meet victory.

Coach Jerry Kleinkopf showed basically sophomore and junior performances, perhaps the best being a 53-4/4 inch effort in the 400-yard dash.

Hawaii slips past Fairmont in NIT

NEW YORK (UPI)—Hawaii's 6-foot 9 Melton Werts scored two crucial baskets in the closing minutes of Saturday night's first round game of the National Invitation Tournament as the Rainbows edged Fairmont 66-65.

In the opening game of the evening doubleheader, Henry Williams' five-foot-10-inch shot gave Jacksonville a 73-69 overtime victory over Massachusetts.

In the afternoon doubleheader, Maryland-Eastern Shore brought its own version of "streaking" to Madison Square Garden to edge Manhattan 74-81 and Burley topped eight-ranked pre-tournament favorite North Carolina 82-71.

Werts scored the first of his two key baskets on layup bounds play, taking a pass high above the rim and shooting while still in the air.

After the score closed the gap to one again, Werts tapped in an errant shot for the Rainbows' final basket and a 64-57 lead with two minutes left.

Fairfield closed to within one but failed to capitalize on two opportunities to win the game in the final minutes. In fact, when Ralph Rehn missed a front-end of a one-second free throw situation with 23 seconds left.

Hawaii guard Tom Henderson iced a terrific clutch layup for game scoring honors with 20 points, 12 of them coming in the second half when the Rainbows' momentum a 37-32 halftime deficit.

Jacksonville's Leon Benbow added a pair of free throws with 20 seconds left to wrap up the Dolphins' victory.

Jacksonville had a Massachusetts breakthrough throughout the game, but Pete Brown's five-foot jumper with 39 seconds left in regulation time tied the game at 67-67. Jacksonville missed an opportunity to win in regulation when Williams' 30-foot jumper bounced off the front of the rim as the buzzer sounded.

Butch Taylor, who led the Dolphins with 21 points, scored the first bucket of the overtime on a sweeping hook shot with 3:47 left to play. Massachusetts' John Murphy, the game's high scorer with 25 points, countered with a short jumper to tie the score at 69-69 before Williams shot 'em decided 'em issue.

Williams finished with 18 points, but his aggressive defense and hustling offensive performance was the sparkplug to the Dolphins' victory. Trow had 16 points for the Minute-men and Al Skitter added 13.

Furdue's tough defensive effort undoubtedly had something to do with the Tar-heels' poor performance, but North Carolina's shooting was atrocious and its ball handling even worse. They committed an unheard of 33 turnovers.

Meanwhile, Jerry Nichols poured in 14 of his team-high 22 points in the second half as the Bolle-makers ran away.

Although playing brilliantly defensively, North Carolina star forward Bobby Jones was held to 12 points by the Bolle-makers' swarming defense.

John Garrett contributed 15 points to the Bolle-makers but before fouling out in the closing minutes of the game and Frank Kendrick added 16.

Waiver David Werts held UNC heels with 17 points. North Carolina held a 43-38 halftime lead, but Nichols stepped in as the Bolle-makers in the second half to a 71-57 advantage.

The Hawks' mauling their debut against major college competition was a top effort. In fact, the trust of the first half by Manhattan's disciplined play.

But with just under three minutes left in the opening half and trailing by 39, the Hawks dashed frantically all over the court. The Hawks rolled off 13 straight points, taking a 40-37 lead before 3:14. Campbell's layup gave the Jaspers a 41-40 halftime edge.

Maryland-Eastern Shore came out running in the second half and receded off a nine-point hurt for a 31-21 lead. The Hawks then continued to control the tempo of the game, until Manhattan rallied late in the contest.

Hawk guard William Gordon paced their scoring attack with 26 points, most on long jumpers. His backcourt mate Robin Collins, added 21 and played a key role in Maryland-Eastern Shore's rebounding.

As Captain, Manhattan's bulky 6'10 center was outstanding for the Jaspers, running up 22 points and controlling the boards, particularly in the first half. George Bucel contributed 21 points to Manhattan's total.

The Hawks appeared to have the contest wrapped up with 10 minutes left in the game, holding a 70-50 lead and outplaying Mike Young, who played with four fouls for Manhattan. However, the Jaspers decided to run with the Hawks and almost pulled out the contest, closing to within 80-79 with 1:08 to go.

Athletics sign pinch-runner

OAKLAND (UPI)—Charlie Finley announced Saturday that the Oakland A's have signed a pinch runner, Herb Washington, 22, who holds the world record in the 50-yard dash at five seconds flat and the record in the 60-yard dash at 5.8 seconds.

Finley said Washington will work in the outfield, but his primary job will be as a pinch runner. The distance between first and third bases is 60 yards, Finley noted.

"I'm very proud to have this young man on the team," Finley said. "I personally feel he will be directly responsible for winning at least 10 games this year."

"I frankly believe this is a beginning of pinch running in baseball, in going out and getting spectators for running," the A's owner added.

Washington will report to training camp in Mesa, Ariz., on Monday.

N.C. State swamps Pitt in east NCAA

Pitt in east NCAA

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — North Carolina State swamped Davidson College in a 71-47 victory Saturday in the first round of the NCAA Eastern Regional championship.

Davidson's Moe Rivers, who had scored 15 points in the first half, was injured in the first period when he somersaulted high in the air in a futile attempt to block a shot and landed heavily on his back and head. First effort to revive him failed and he was wheeled from the hospital, leaving his team stunned.

Stacy and the Wolfpack team clamored around Thompson when he returned to the bench. There the team went to work and Davidson's offense wilted.

Burleson led the Pack with 25 points, 19 in the second half. Tower, the smallest man on the court, had 19 and Rivers added 17-15 of them in the second half.

Pittsburgh grabbed an early lead as State struggled to figure out its shifting offense.

Thompson was one of the first to solve the puzzle, and had ripped off six straight points when he was injured.

Pittsburgh led by 56 forward Billy Knight who had 35 points did not take the floor after Thompson left the game, although it carried within on point.

But the Wolfpack pulled back together and took a 71-47 lead into the dressing room at halftime.

North Carolina State will meet the Western Regional champions at 3 p.m. EDT Saturday at Greensboro.

Providence won the Eastern Regional consolation game, defeating Furman 65-59, as all America Marvin Barnes led six players in double figures.

Barnes, a 6-7 center, had 21 rebounds, and 6-5 guard Kevin Smith each scored 18 points for the Friars. Bob Cooper scored 16 points, Rick Santos 12 and Gary Bell and Joe Hasselt had 10.

Ltjue Mayes, a burly 6-9 forward paced Furman with 20 points and freshman guard Bruce Grimm had 17.

Providence outscored Furman 19-2 during a six-minute flurry midway through the first half to build a 16-point lead and coasted the rest of the way.

The Friars were up by 10 at 4:30 in intermission and led by as many as 17 points in the second half.

Furman led briefly early in the game and was ahead 16-15 with 12:30 to go in the half when Providence began its scoring spree that put the game out of reach.

Providence snipped off eight straight points, let the Paladins have a basket, then ran off 11 more.

Neither team shot well in the first half. Providence set up 42 per cent to 31 per cent for Furman. But in the second half, the Friars hit 61 per cent of their shots to 31 per cent for the Paladins.

Norton says he feels 'great'

CALGARY (UPI) — Heavyweight challenger Ken Norton feels a bit sluggish after his first professional boxing workout since his preparation for his March 20 title fight against champion George Foreman, but he "felt great" after being assessed by his sports physician Saturday.

Norton's manager, Bill Slayton, told sporting partners Mac Foster and Peter Majumdar, "William to loose the pack. They accumulated six rounds against the 26-year-old ex-Marine."

They did and Slayton said he was satisfied with Norton's showing.

It was only Norton's second season with his survival partners since his arrival Wednesday night and he said he felt "great" after being assessed by his sports physician Saturday.

Foreman, who sparred for six rounds after Norton had finished, said he has been "in good luck" with the fight, but work because "I was ready, he told me."

The largest crowd yet to witness a training session at the Polaris, site of the fight, nearly filled the 10,000-seat stadium at the center of town.

Norton left the Polaris 10 minutes after Foreman arrived, but their paths didn't cross, although they have admitted dressing rooms.

Employment in Arizona rose from 662,500 in 1968 to 760,000 in 1973, an increase of 38.7 per cent, the Valley National Bank of Arizona reports.

Coach shuddered at Thompson's injury

RALEIGH (UPI) — Coach Norman Sloan of North Carolina State wished he had never been associated with basketball.

The moment came when America's David Thompson lay unconscious on the floor of Reynolds Coliseum, knocked out when he jumped to block a shot administered and landed on his back.

"There's been a lot of wonderful things happen to us in the past 20 years and David has been at the center of them," Sloan said. "I've all kinds of memories when I saw David go down. But I thought that none of us, none of these things, were worth it."

"I wish I had never been associated with any of it," he said. "Now maybe I'll find something to say, but that's what I thought."

"I was sick," he said. "It was just an awful feeling."

Sloan said he and the Wolfpack team were encouraged by the news that Thompson apparently suffered no serious injuries, though he did have stitches across the back of his head and was to be kept overnight in a hospital for observation.

But Sloan said he was still worried.

"One thing should be on the minds right now, but they are not," Sloan said. "We want good words on David in the morning. Not that he'll be able to play next week, but that he's really all right."

The Wolfpack earned a berth in the NCAA finals next week in Greensboro, N.C., by winning 11th-ranked Pittsburgh 100-72 in the NCAA Eastern Regional championship game Saturday.

Dr. James Manly, a Raleigh surgeon, said Thompson should be able to play in the final.

West tabbed favorite in Monday night prep all-star cage game

The west, owning most of the height, is favored to win its first Magic Valley all-star basketball test Monday night when it meets the East at 8 p.m. Monday at the College of Southern Idaho gymnasium. Coach Bud Watkins, who led his Castleford Wolves for a 194 season record, has four members of the state All-Fall Bruins and only a couple men under the six-foot mark. Coach Dick Treck, who led his Kimberly Bulldogs to state has a couple boys in the 6-4 and 6-6 area, but, by comparison, is a little shorter. Representing the west will be 6-1 Eric Rovey, 6-9 Kent Schmidt, 5-10 Lanky Hayes and 6-1 Jim Lusk, all from Twin Falls; 6-4 Mike Hamilton and 6-3 Monte Bell, 5-9 Bob 6-1 Bill Aldinger, Wood River; 5-10 Dave Wiggins, of Castleford; 6-2 Brent Thaele of Filer; and 5-9 Larry Patterson of Gooding. From the east come 6-1 Scott Morehouse of Albion; 6-1 Kerry Taylor and 6-0 Ed Robinson of Burley; 6-4 Don Pickett of Verley; 6-3 Randy Hinson of Kimberly; 6-9 Bob Wright of Murtaugh; 5-10 Bob Ridding of Dalma; 6-0 Byron Stanger of Hansen; and 6-1 Rocky Hagan of Valley.

The game itself will be almost 100-minute competitors for the most part. The Magic Valley team has been battling heads since junior high. Twin Falls played almost four times this year in both the March and May. Each of Schmitt's sons will surprise the others much. The game will be played on a regular court and will be controlled by the referee. We would continue to pay the insurance if they promised there would be no strike before the regular season. They're asking that they be paid while they may be on strike. The players in the past have claimed they were being treated like children. Now they should show maturity and live up to their obligations.

Garvey responded at a Saturday meeting with owners. "We think they are entitled to the strike," he said. "If we can't get a deal, we want to reach a settlement and avoid a strike." Bill Curry, president of the Super Bowl, providing a lump-sum adjustment to a player upon retirement increasing the minimum contract figure from $100,000 to $150,000 and hiking the pay for pre-season games.

Insurance snags first session in NFL negotiations; players make 57 demands

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Football League Players and NFL owners held their first bargaining session on a new contract Saturday and immediately struck a snag over a threatened cut-off of insurance premiums previously part of the league

John Thompson and Theodore Kheel, spokesman for the owners' newly created Management Council, said they were "in a stalemate" over a 48,000-a-month payment date if the players would give a no-strike pledge until the first game of the regular season.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, termed the action "bad faith negotiating" and rejected the proposal for a no-strike pledge out of hand.

The NFL's association executive committee, consisting of Garvey and seven other players, has estimated 57 demands, most of them economic but many aimed at providing greater freedom for the players and a dismantling of the authority now held by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

In an opening statement, the players accuse you of taking freedom from the players with no justification beyond hollow phrases. We accuse you of ignoring the injustices occasioned by head coaches and general managers who fire indiscriminately if players excesses their first amendment freedoms. It is time to end the suffocating paternalism and suppression of individuality. The NFL is a monopoly. It is 30 times for freedom.

Among the "freedom" demands was an end to the so-called "Rozelle rule" which requires a player who has played one option with another club to pay compensation, usually in the form of high draft choices. The players argue this renders the option a trivial, meaningless

Other proposals would give players greater rights in salary grades and strip Rozelle of his right to arbitrate club-player grievance cases. The economic demands include increasing the player's share in the Super Bowl, providing a lump-sum adjustment to a player upon retirement increasing the minimum contract figure from $100,000 to $150,000 and hiking the pay for pre-season games.

Player demands listed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If the 57 demands made by the NFL Pro Football Players Association were accepted by the owners, the monastic tradition of players at pre-season training camps would be far less Spartan.

A copy of the association's proposals, submitted to the owners Saturday obtained by UPI, showed they called for the following conditions at training camps: Curfews would be eliminated. Players would not practice outdoors on those days. No out-of-town training camp would be allowed for more than 10 days.

Each player would be allowed at least one day a week off. Training camps would begin 10 days before the first preseason game and at no event earlier than July 15. At out-of-town training camps, teams would have to provide players with "reasonable amenities to which men are normally accustomed." This presumably would be such items as phones in rooms at dormitories.

There would be a $30-a-week payment plus room and board. Pre-season games would start to increase by steps to $7,000 for the seventh one before the regular season starts.

In an effort to whittle down the authority of Commissioner Pete Rozelle, the players urged elimination of the rule which lets him set the compensation for a team signing a player who has been eliminated of all rights, elimination of Rozelle's authority to discipline players, a provision that a veteran player can't trade, elimination of the option clause in the players' system, removal of Rozelle from any arbitration role on grievances, an end to any psychological or personality testing.

The players demanded increases in their pay for divisional and conference championship games, a boost in the Super Bowl payoff to $500,000 for the winners and $200,000 for the losers, and a minimum season salary of $20,000 for rookies and $25,000 for veterans.

Off-season camps would be done away with. Players' representatives could not be read or cut without consent while in office. All players would receive two tickets for each away game and four for each home performance. The 500 Super Bowl tickets between the 20-yard lines and at least 20 rows up.

Half of any monies paid the league by expansion teams would go for player benefits and 10 per cent would be earmarked for needy inactive players. Every player would have the right to have a contract with him on any contract negotiations. On retirement, a player would be given an adjustment lump sum payment amounting to $5,000 for each year in the league.

There would be a moratorium on further installation of artificial turf and present synthetic fields would be replaced with natural grass as they wear out.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, MARCH 17, 1974

GENERAL PRINCIPLES

—A fairly unimportant day when you have a chance to do the small things that get your life on a different, more positive, more meaningful, more useful, more sane.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Find out how to gain the favor of those who mean much to you in a credit or business way. Keep reputation unimpaired.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Others give you good, honest ideas that should be followed, but you must ask for them. Take on things, improve holdings.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Follow intuition and get information—etc.—that you need. Seize fine opportunities to advance. Remain with close ties. Don't argue.

MOON (CHILDREN) (June 22 to July 21) Find out what your closest associates expect of you and show how much you appreciate them. Some persons you like can do you the favor.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get into those duties that will put you in a far better position to impress high-ups and impress other important people in the office.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get out and secure yourself whatever is inexpensive and yet delightful. Avoid one with ulterior motives who could harm you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Handle important home duties early and please those who do it with you. Find a better way to please visitors. Avoid a quarrelsome person.

SAGITTARIUS (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) Do not do anything that is not possible yesterday and do some window shopping as well. Study philosophical beliefs. Meet with good friends in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) Analyze what your present business and plans include. It done. Be efficient. Contact adviser who can be of real service to you now.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

If all the money spent on advertising every year were billed to the citizenry, you and I would pay something in the neighborhood of $30 each. Predictably, these United States are where the most of action is, worldwide. Nepal is where the least is. The very total of bills is pegged down to a nickel per resident.

If you're trying to pick out a college, young lady, please bear in mind that the men's suits under the women's are twice as big as theirs.

No other species in the animal kingdom produces as many continued young as do fish.

Average child going into the first grade has three cavities, please note.

How many miles per gallon does the average commuter bus get? Just 47 m.p.g.

How far was a Pony Express rider required to travel each day when carrying the mail? About 75 miles.

How much does the average family spend per year to light the house? A Equus $32.

How long was it after the first public schools were established in this country that girls were permitted to attend them? More than 150 years.

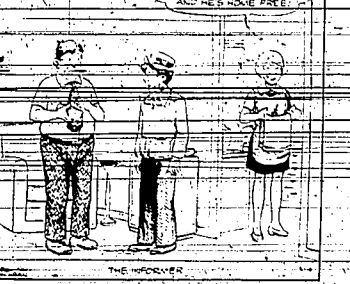

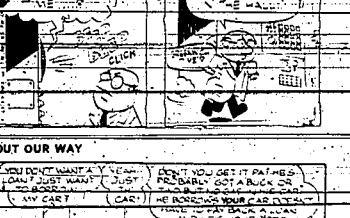

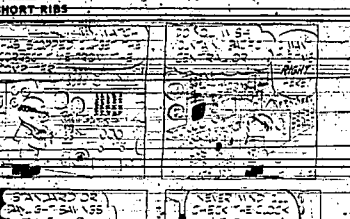

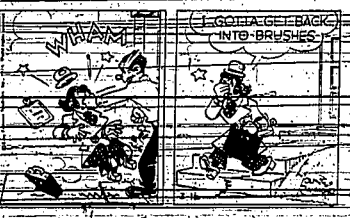

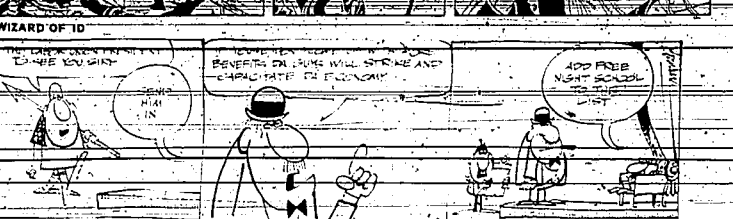

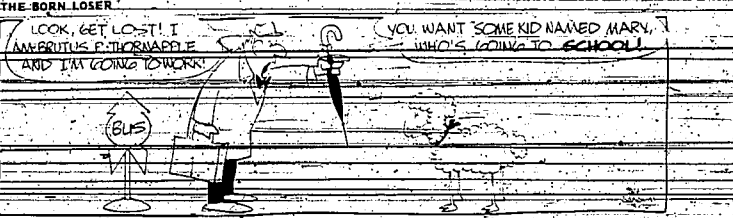

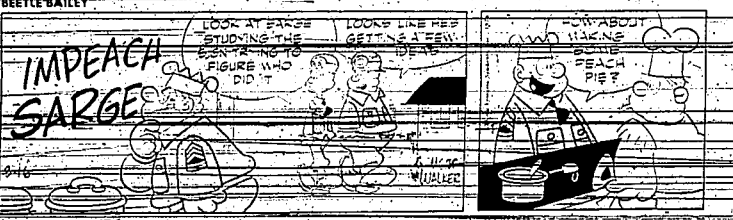

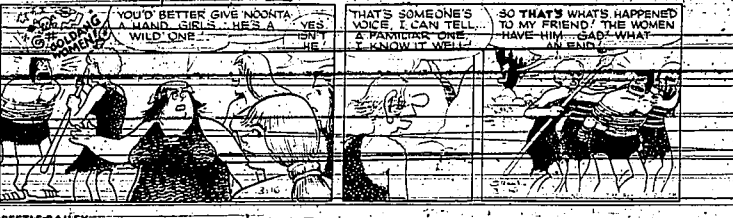

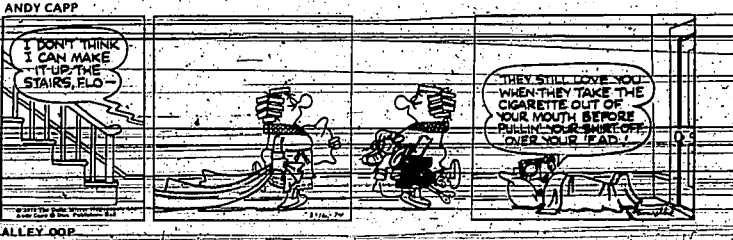

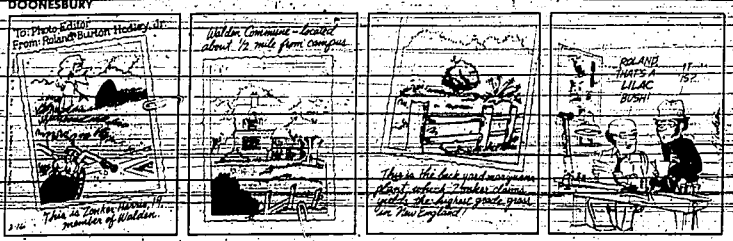

How many lights to flowers does a bee have to undertake to make an ounce of honey? About 219,000. I'm told, but can't say for sure that my spouse is.

States: Certainly you can list the one state whose name is a French noun. And the four which are named after foreign places. And about the six named with Spanish words. But can you designate the 11 which are derivations of names of cities of renowned persons?

Flag of France has three vertical stripes. Blue, white and red. Sad stripes are supposed to be of equal width. But they're not. Differences in the wave length of the colors make an optical illusion. So they're equal—the stripes in the French flag have to be made in a proportion of 100 for the blue, 110 for the white and 120 for the red.

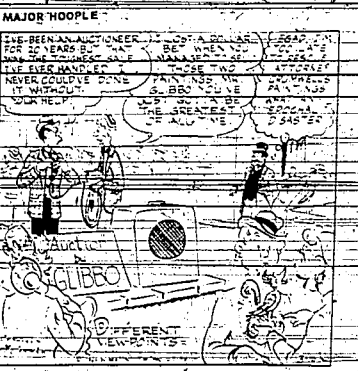

Hill the cars that sail by you on the road are faulty in some way. How do I know? Because states which require auto-inspections report that half fail to pass the first time. Worsecase notion, what?

It's also a fact that the typical American wastes two hours of his time every day that he doesn't have to waste.

Most gas conservation measures seen staying

(C) Washington Star-News

WASHINGTON—Most of the gasoline conservation measures now in effect—with the likely exception of the Sunday sales ban—will remain in effect for the foreseeable future, according to a report by the American Petroleum Institute.

The institute's report says that most of the conservation measures now in effect will be continued through the spring and summer vacation months.

And prices at the gasoline pump may be slightly higher, by perhaps 1 cent a gallon, reflecting greater supplies but at higher foreign oil prices paid on to consumers.

Both oil company and federal officials continue to talk in terms of "rather than when" the embargo is ended.

While the federal energy office has been drafting "post-embargo contingency plans," no one would comment on what these include.

It is believed, though, some of the measures contemplated if the embargo does indeed end include:

- Conservation—Continuing to enforce lower speed limits, car pooling and higher thermostat settings in winter and less lighting.
- With the exception of the Sunday gas sales ban, all current conservation measures would remain in effect. The Sunday ban would be dropped because of its impact on the tourist industry.
- Rationing—Gasoline rationing is out of administrative planning. It would have a limited effect only under the severest shortage circumstances, since Nixon and Simon are both philosophically opposed to it.
- Allocations—A program of allocating or sharing available scarce supplies would remain, at least until Arab supplies began coming on line.

The A.P.I. has made no determination yet on whether the program will continue, but it is likely to be in effect, at the least, with more supplies going to industries and commercial establishments in particular.

Business

New restaurant opening slated

TWIN FALLS—An Italian and W Family Restaurant is expected to open Tuesday in the former A and W Drive-In, 150 N. Lakes Road.

The business, owned by Gene and Virginia Morrow, will have a new look and new method of serving customers. The franchised unit is expected to complete the first phase of construction by early next week and open for business with an electronic ordering system for its customers on March 19.

The second phase of construction will begin immediately and will include the addition of a new, two-story interior dining facility. The renovation will be completed by the end of the month and the new restaurant will be open for business by the end of the month.

The restaurant will be a family restaurant and will serve breakfast, lunch, and dinner. It will have a full bar and a dance floor. The restaurant will be a family restaurant and will serve breakfast, lunch, and dinner. It will have a full bar and a dance floor.

Cooking cheapest for shale

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A government researcher said Tuesday that it may be cheaper to cook the oil out of oil shale than to mine the shale and process it.

But the government expert warned that such processing of oil shale resources of the west would require a major energy investment.

Current research on the process was described by Gerald D. Dimmick, director of research at the U.S. Bureau of Mines, Laramie, Wyo., Energy Research Center, in testimony before the House Mines and Metallurgy subcommittee.

It may be more economical than mining and processing shale, Dimmick said. However, it may introduce other environmental problems such as the possibility that ground water may be contaminated by shale processing.

The government official said there had been little research on the underground processing of shale but that it had attracted increased attention in recent years.

Dimmick said he believed the only active field research on the process was the potash project near Rock Springs, Wyo., which is being conducted by the U.S. Geological Survey.

Dimmick said detailed plans had been prepared for fracturing the shale with nuclear explosives but that no field testing had been scheduled yet.

He said that the process for the shale would create a government-owned or controlled corporation to develop publicly owned oil shale lands in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming.

Unprofitable line abandonment overemphasized, rail aide says

ALBANY, N.Y.—Federal railroads' abandonment of unprofitable lines is being overemphasized, a senior rail aide says.

Alles, however, pointed out that the railroads are not abandoning lines at a rate which he described as "unusually high."

Alles said "We are not abandoning lines at a rate which he described as 'unusually high.'"

UP sets outlay for track work

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Union Pacific Corporation will lay out $381 million for new equipment, roadway improvements and expanded oil exploration and development programs.

Board chairman Frank E. Barnett said the figure is more than double the $187 million spent last year.

More than $100 million will go into petroleum development and exploration and capital improvements to UP's subsidiary Champlin Petroleum Company, said Barnett. He said considerable investments in land and coal development operations were also budgeted in 1974.

Champlin has a 71 per cent interest in the Brady field in Wyoming. A recent Oil Field report said the Brady field has recoverable oil and natural gas reserves of at least 100 million barrels.

The other major partner in the Brady field is Mountain Fuel Supply Company, which is presently in a battle with the Public Service Commission over a proposed rate increase. MPS officials place the reserve capacity of the field at more than 150 million barrels.

UP said it is considering the conversion of its main line from North Platte, Neb., to Salt Lake City, and Coalinga to electric power lines.

There is a mode of transportation that could use power generated from coal as efficiently as the electric locomotive, said Barnett.

The railroad already has an experimental electric power line in Utah and plans to install another this spring in Wyoming.

Loan block applauded

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, said he was pleased with the House's decision to block a loan to the Trans Mountain pipeline.

Alles said "We are not abandoning lines at a rate which he described as 'unusually high.'"

Change OK'd

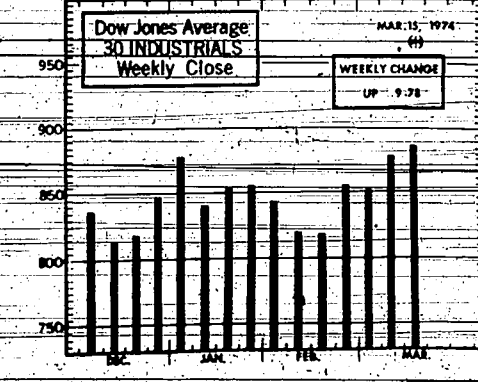

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Public Utilities Commission today allowed Trans Mountain Pipeline Corp. to change its name to Trans Mountain Energy Corp.

The commission's decision was unanimous and was based on the company's request to change its name to better reflect its expanded energy services.

Auto layoffs slated

DETROIT (UPI)—U.S. auto makers have set a schedule for layoffs this week as they await word of an interest rate cut from the Federal Reserve.

Only a sales uptick can reverse the spiraling layoffs that have seen more than 100,000 workers lose their jobs in the industry since last Christmas.

Even as speculation mounted that an official announcement on the embargo will soon be made, GM said Friday that its layoffs will continue through the first week of April.

Oldsmobile has been hit hard by the move away from big cars and has sold 72,597 cars so far this year, half of what the division sold in the comparable period a year ago.

Oldsmobile's layoffs will be the most significant since the company's merger with GM.

GM Friday added the Doraville, Ga. GM assembly division plant, with 3,000 workers, to the list of plants closed next week. That plant, which manufactures GM's Chevelle, will be closed by the end of the month.

BP earnings up

LONDON—The British Petroleum Co. reported Friday its earnings in 1973 had risen 24 1/2 per cent over a year comparable to those already reported by other major oil companies for last year.

British Petroleum said its net income had risen to $11.7 million from $9.1 million in the year before. Earnings in the fourth quarter totalled $281.1 million, more than triple the figure for the year-earlier quarter.

Bank hikes prime rate

NEW YORK (UPI)—First National City Bank Friday raised its prime interest rate for business loans to large customers a quarter of a percentage point to 8 1/2 per cent.

The old rate was 8 per cent, effective Monday.

Bank of America raised its prime rate from 8 1/4 per cent to 8 3/4 per cent on Friday, and apparently expected other major commercial banks to follow its lead. But virtually none did.

Academic leader named

KETCHUM Wendy Thurber has been named as the new principal of Ketchum High School, according to John Kirtan, principal.

Miss Thurber is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ketchum. She has an overall grade point average of 3.92, was recognized twice for citizenship and was a delegate to Spring-Cris State. She was named an "Outstanding Teacher of America."

She is a member of the National Honor Society, German club and student council officer. Miss Thurber is participating in Nordic events as a member of Junior National Team. She is a past honor queen of Ketchum No. 30. Her daughters, and she served as a chairman for sixteen of them.

She has been notified that she has "early acceptance" at Dartmouth, where she will major in pre-medical and hope to continue in Nordic sports.

University head talks to teachers

W. Hartung, president of the University of Idaho, discussed changing educational techniques in an address before Fourth District High School Teachers here Friday. Dr. Hartung emphasized changes on the college level of educational progress, saying constant change is necessary to keep pace with the demands of the time.

Mrs. Helen Szasz, third district president, presided. New officers were elected for the following year: Mary Helen Perry, president; Blanche Perry, vice president; Ruby Gilmore, secretary; and Ellen-Born, treasurer.

Helen Dietz, fourth district president, presided. About 60 members attended.

Easter egg plant planned

The club has received the Sheep award for community service this year and this is the third time in eight years the club has been named for the honor. Scrapbooks of extension club activities are judged for the competition.

Mrs. Arduen Lane will represent the club in the Best Cooks contest in Buhl. Mrs. Hendrix reported on the recent extension District Re-creation meeting and the extension committee is asking for volunteer labor to help with the wading pool at the city park.

Bottle show April 6, 7 in Boise

BOISE - Several Buhl residents will have exhibits in the Seventh Annual Northwest Bottle Show and Sale at the Holiday Inn in Boise April 6 and 7.

DATSUN SAVES

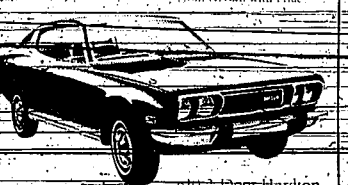

Your pride.

Sure luxury cars are nice. But with operating expenses so high, who can afford them anymore?

You can. A Datsun. They wash around miles per gallon and remain both inexpensive and beautiful. All luxuries without the high cost. Carpeting, big reclining bucket seats, handsome vinyl-upholstered interior, electric rear window defroster and much more are all standard equipment.

The Datsun line is a variety of cars from America's most famous car company.

We sell tires.

All kinds at all prices.

PICKUP, OFF-ROAD AND LIGHT COMMERCIAL

Michelin XZZ and XC
For pickups and commercial vehicles, think radial and look to the leader. Michelin XZZ and Michelin XC. Each gives you firm traction on wet or dry roads, saves you gas, and has easy handling.

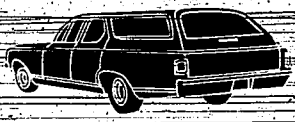

Sonic Vagabond
Off-the-road performance. Vehicles need a tire for all seasons. The Sonic Vagabond has dynamic traction in summer and winter. Extra tough construction. We carry one of the most complete lines of off-the-road tires from our B.F. Goodrich, Sonic, and Tru Bond Brands. There's one to fit your pocketbook.

B.F. Goodrich
The Power Express and the Heavy Duty Express from B.F. Goodrich each has deep self-cleaning tread and a highly expanded steel road safety. They have carbon rubber for longer wear and nylon cord for greater strength.

Tru Bond Commercial
The right tire at the right price. Our Tru Bond Commercial tread has good stability and cornering. It is dual-radius, contoured to put more rubber on the ground.

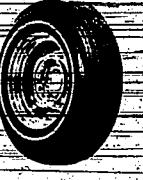

FAMILY CARS

Sonic
Sonic tires are priced for the man with a family. The durability of steel belts and control the premium steel belted or the new Sonic radial steel. Each has belts of steel and two plies of polypropylene. Each with a free replacement warranty.

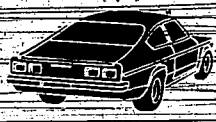

Michelin X
The top of the line. The Michelin X steel cord belted radial. For positive puncture and blowout protection and greatly improved cornering and traction in the wet. Of course, there's proven gas economy.

Tru Bond Premium
It's built better than most. Lasts longer. Retreads. And hacked better than most new tires. It has built-in high speed stability. It's wide, deep, and highly siped. Quality for quality at about half the price of new tires.

B.F. Goodrich Radial Steel
This tire has been selected as original equipment for many 1974 automobiles. For good reasons. The aggressive block tread design backed by a 5-ply steel belt, keeps a tracked path of channelling grooves open to hold the road and to minimize hydroplaning. Cushioned. Steel gives silent and comfort.

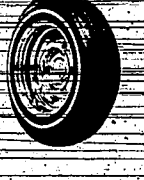

ECONOMY CARS

Tru Bond Premium
You don't have to sacrifice quality to get a good tire you can afford. The Tru Bond Premium is built better than most retreads. Backed better than most new tires. It's a tire that's a perfect match to today's economy driving.

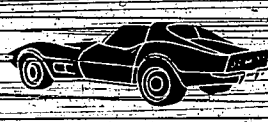

Michelin ZX
Made especially for imported cars. With the Michelin ZX, you get performance and gas savings, too. Steel belts inside protect against flats. Radial construction helps to grip the road and guard against skids.

Sonic Golden H.P.
Our soon-to-be priced tire. It has four ply and a nylon cord body. It has a maximum greater siped depth. Super road stability and good steering control.

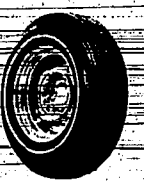

Tru Bond Delux
Our lowest priced tire. This retread is 1/4" wider than most new tires of the same quality. Built to original new car quality tread dimensions out of selected first quality casings.

SPORTS CARS

B.F. Goodrich Radial T/A
The only performance proven 60-series radial in America. Outstanding steering response and improved road holding. The radial construction with flexible sidewalls gives you superior mileage, handling, and maximum speed performance. Available with bold raised white letters.

Tru Bond Premium
The retread that will stand up to the best of tires, because it's built better than most retreads. So we built it better than most new tires. The new 70 series width is wide, deep and highly siped.

Sonic Maxima
The racing champions' choice. A low profile, wide 60-series tire made of extra strong nylon with dynacor belts. It has quiet roadability, even at its tested speed of 142 MPH.

Michelin XAS
The asymmetric radial tire especially engineered to make the most of your sports car's high performance capabilities. It's designed for controlled cornering and handling performance you can count on. You get precise road holding stability on wet as well as dry roads.
