Position change

ISRAELI TANKS raise a cloud of dust as they move along a road in occupied Syria changing positions Monday. Heavy tank and artillery fire was reported in the Golan Heights today. The fighting is now for an exchange of five Syria charged civilians were wounded in the village of Al Harra. There were 33 reports of Israeli casualties. (UPI)

'Gate jury report given House panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House committee deciding whether there are grounds to impeach President Nixon took possession today of possibly vital evidence — the Watergate grand jury's secret report on Nixon's handling of the scandal. Lawyers for the House Judiciary Committee got a two-page summary of the evidence and a bulging brown leather briefcase filled with material from the private office safe of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica. Sirica ruled last week and the U.S. Court of Appeals upheld that the committee must have the grand jury report. The jury, which March 1 indicted seven of Nixon's closest aides and campaign officials for conspiracy in the Watergate cover-up, had asked Sirica to give the committee the fruit of its handling of the scandal. John Doar, the committee chief counsel, was guarded by four large police officers as he left Sirica's office at noon carrying the briefcase. He did not talk with reporters. Sirica called reporters into his office and told them the transfer process was complete. He read a letter from Judiciary chairman Peter J. Rodino, D-N.J., authorizing Doar to receive the grand jury report. "I deeply appreciate the cooperation of the District Court of the United States of America," Rodino wrote Sirica. The judge then read a statement which said that he had turned the material over to Doar and minority counsel Albert Jenner and "as far as the court is concerned, the transaction is hereby completed." Sirica said in comments to reporters that he and the House committee investigators met in the jury room, "not my office," and simply made an inventory of the material. "We wanted to be sure that they got everything the grand jury wanted us to turn over," he said. He refused to describe any of the material and would not say if there was indeed a tape of the March 21, 1973 conversation between Nixon and John W. Dean III, the former presidential counsel, in which "hush money" to Watergate burglars was discussed. Sirica said his next move after turning over the report was to go on vacation.

Japan rail strike ends

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan's railway workers cut short their planned 24-hour strike Tuesday by 12 hours, but it was too late to be much help to millions of commuters who either had not been able to get to work or struggled to do so. Spokesmen for the railway workers' union said the strike, which began at midnight Monday, was called off at noon Tuesday when progress was made at the bargaining table with government officials.

Pompidou works at home

PARIS (UPI) — Ailing French President Georges Pompidou, whose health has caused speculation he will be forced to quit and call an early election, worked at his home for the fifth straight day today. Officials have said Pompidou is suffering from a slight but painful disorder, but has kept touch with affairs of state. He is expected to return to his office at the Elysee Palace on Wednesday.

Senate opens funding debate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate opens debate today on legislation to federally finance political campaigns. President Nixon already has said he will veto it. An outgrowth of the Watergate scandal, the campaign financing bill involves a new test between Nixon and the Democratic-led Congress and could see another filibuster by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala.

Pope III cancels audience

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI is canceling his weekly general audience Wednesday because of a "slight indisposition" which prevents him from leaving his apartment. The Vatican announced today. He said the Pope will make a White appearance instead to bless the crowd in St. Peter's Square. The announcement did not say what the indisposition was.

Young Ted takes to slopes

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — Ted Kennedy Jr., 12, is learning to ski on one leg in the Colorado resort town. He's holding his leg fanatically, said Blair Ammons, his instructor. Young Kennedy's right leg was amputated last November because of bone cancer. The youth is scheduled to return to Washington Friday but hopes to be able to ski at least beginners' runs by then.

Cambodian forces push attack

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Two government columns backed by heavy air and artillery strikes continued to move from two directions today on the rebel-held former royal capital of Oudong, captured a week ago by insurgent troops, but there was no immediate report on their advances. The Cambodian high command said intense fighting raged on the eastern bank of Oudong, in the north-west of Phnom Penh, and in areas just north and east of the city where the two government columns were advancing.

Action nearing on EE zone law

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County commissioners may adopt the new zoning ordinance this week. "Perhaps this week," Commission Chairman William Chaney said today. The commissioners have held extensive sessions, both closed and open to the public with planning and zoning experts and interested citizens. Chaney has often lamented, "Whatever we do, it won't be right when we adopt it." (Continued on p. 11)

Ex-Buhl man killed

BIJHL — A former Buhl man, Robin Ray Wemple, 21, was killed Sunday night in a motorcycle accident near Santa Rosa. The California Highway Patrol, whose office investigated, said Wemple was operating a motorcycle which went out of control on a curve on a county road near Santa Rosa. A passenger, Delores Sentz, has undergone surgery and state police have been unable to learn any details of the accident. Wemple was a truck driver and had driven truck in Buhl prior to moving to Santa Rosa recently. Funeral services will be held Friday in Riverside, Calif. (Obituary p. 2)

Park given BSU audit

BOISE — An audit of Boise State University was sent to the attorney general's office Monday for a review to determine if findings in the audit show BSU officials violated state law. The Joint Finance Appropriations Committee sent the audit to the attorney general's office after a report on the audit confirmed improper and unauthorized diversion of revenue bond money into remodeling projects, as well as issues of unauthorized travel expense checks and other "questionable" actions on the part of BSU administrators. The audit was ordered by the committee last fall after a former college internal auditor, William Monagle, alleged large scale wrongdoing at the school, then Boise State College. The audit, the committee received from legislative auditor Clyde Koontz, confirmed some of Monagle's accusations, rejected others, and made a series of six recommendations for the school to follow in the future. The audit confirmed reports of the bond money diversion carried in the Times-News and Lewiston Morning Tribune earlier this month. BSU President Dr. John Barnes, in a 14-page response to the audit, took all responsibility "where the institution has erred." He also denied ever consciously circumventing either state law or State Board of Education Policy in any of the activities covered in the audit. (Continued on p. 3)

Moscow talks touch Mideast

MOSCOW (UPI) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet Communist party general secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev today discussed the question of the Middle East, where Kissinger's personal diplomacy has annoyed the Soviets. State Department spokesman George Vest said the two men discussed Middle East in a three and one-half hour meeting at the Kremlin on the second day of Kissinger's visit here. They planned to resume talks at 5 p.m. (8 a.m. EDT). Vest said the two men got into the subject of Middle East peace negotiations during their earlier discussions on the stalled Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) in Geneva. "The Soviets have been critical of Kissinger's personal diplomacy in the Middle East, indicating they want the action shifted back to the country's public conference where they felt they can have more of a say. The Communist party newspaper Pravda, in a reference to Kissinger's Middle East diplomacy last week, said the American press had hailed it as a triumph, but that turns out to be the mountain has given birth to a mouse. Vest said Alfred L. Atherton Jr., assistant U.S. secretary for Near East and South Asian affairs, joined the talks today for the Middle East discussion. He said Kissinger and Atherton focused most of their meeting on this subject, and also touched briefly on the Soviet promoted European security conference in Geneva. After the morning meeting, Kissinger and Atherton privately with his secretaries at the Kremlin. His residence where he is staying, Vest said.

LATEST PUZZLE for space scientists is posed by prominent bright area of unknown origin (circled) discovered by Mariner in cameras on Mercury. Telescopical photos from Earth had not shown the area, described by Jet Propulsion Laboratory scientist as about 250 miles in diameter. ## Oil policy scored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., criticized President Nixon Tuesday for leading Americans to believe the fuel shortage is over just because the Arab oil embargo has been lifted. Jackson, in a Senate speech, said many persons have the false impression that the flow of Arab oil toward the United States is returning to normal. "The President's statements destroy public incentives to cooperate with conservation measures and encourage increased consumption of scarce fuels," Jackson said. Referring to Nixon's televised comments last Tuesday in which he revoked the order closing gas stations on Sunday and promised there would be no gas rationing, Jackson said: "Extensive descriptions of an increasingly favorable supply outlook undermine public compliance with voluntary conservation programs."

House OK's junior college funds

Times-News Capitol Bureau BOISE — The legislature finished work Monday on a $2.02 million appropriations package for academic programs at the state's two junior colleges. The House voted through the measure, 54-6, without debate, and sent it to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus for his signature. The Senate approved the measure, 31-0, earlier this month. The $2.02 million for the College of Southern Idaho and North Idaho College is an increase of about $200,000 over what the two schools received for academic programs for the current fiscal year. It is also about $200,000 more than what Andrus recommended for the institutions in his budget message last January. The appropriations will mean about $1.212 million to the College of Southern Idaho and the remaining $708,000 for North Idaho College, according to information compiled by the office of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee. The final distribution of the funds will be determined by the student enrollment at the two schools, however. The swift passage of the appropriations measure for junior colleges this year through the legislature, is in contrast to last year's fight over the amount appropriated. The 1973 Senate first killed a proposed $1.8 million funding package, then reconsidered it, moved and passed it. The House debate was more lively than it was this year, with over a dozen lawmakers opposing the site of the appropriations.

Idaho attorney general scrutinizing BSU audit for law violations

 After listening to the audit and Barnes for over an hour, Rep. Marion Davidson, D-Boomers Ferry, asked the committee to send the audit to Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park. He said he wanted to know whether any of the events discussed in the document indicated state law had been broken. The committee also voted to request a formal response from the board of education, which it has had a chance to see for audit at its meeting next week in Moscow.
 The findings of the audit include:
 - Administration building remodeling that cost $120,000 was paid out of proceeds of a "revenue bond series." The audit also said it was "unclear" as to "exactly what" construction projects should have been approved by the state board.
 - The private auditing firm that audits BSU books, Touche, Ross & Co., did not uncover the diversion of the funds from the revenue bond series. "It appears that the scope of their audit of this bond issue did not cover the college's compliance with all of the covenants of the bond agreement."
 - The audit goes on: "It also appears that the bond resolution calls for a more extensive report than has been presented."
 - The audit recommended that the covenants of bond agreements be followed to the letter of the agreement.
 - Three members of the BSU business office continued to draw unauthorized travel pay in 1971 totaling $200 a year even though State Auditor Joe Williams said in 1969 he would not honor the claims from appropriated funds. Unclassified BSU employees whose allowance was cut off received pay raises to make up for the differences.
 - A total of 35 pieces of state furniture were in Barnes' home at the time of the audit, carrying an inventory cost of $600. Some of the furniture was purchased from "local funds" including some money from student fees, and some of it was not inventoried until October, 1973 after Monagle had started to make his accusations.
 - Barnes used a student horticulture class to install a sprinkler system at his home, even though he paid for the materials used personally. Nevertheless, the audit concludes, "the propriety of such a matter is questionable."
 - Certain financial records dating to when Boise State was a junior college were destroyed in April, 1973, without authorization from the State Board of Education or the Board of Examiners. "There is no indication," however, "of any records having been destroyed which were related to the Monagle allegations," and the audit also claims complete cooperation on the part of institution officials with legislative auditors staff.
 - The Bronco Athletic Association, a private, non-profit corporation, purchases season's tickets in the Bronco Stadium from BSU for $25 a pair; then sells them to purchasers for $60 a pair. The money from the tickets are entirely to sit in the President's Club, a group of seats along the 50 yard line, and have the use of two paneled, carpeted rooms under the stands. The paneled rooms were marked as "storage rooms" on the initial blueprint drawings of the stadium. Most of the funds from the sale of the $500 goes back into BSU to provide athletic department operating funds.

 The audit claims adequate financial controls on the funds, but also recommends that a "more realistic price should be charged for the two football season tickets in the president's club section."
 Barnes claimed in his response to the audit that the spending of bond money to remodel administration offices in 1970 "was not an attempt to circumvent the covenants of the bond issue," but rather "was an action that would allow the college to maintain the facilities it needed to be of maximum service to its students from the dollars which were available for capital construction."

EVANS & NOVAK

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. — The uncertainty of coping politically with Watergate in the South was behind the evasive State Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan at a recent press conference here — when he was asked about President Nixon's continuing trouble.

Demo may turn back Dixie political clock

hide his admiration for Nixon's successful Vietnam policy. But at the press conference here he lamely contended he could not talk about the President because — someday, maybe — he would serve in the Senate as a juror in an impeachment trial.

toward a two-party North Carolina. More than any other Southern state except Virginia, North Carolina has followed the classic formula for Republican victory in Dixie: liberals winning Democratic primaries and then losing to conservative Republicans in November. But that formula, which helped elect a Republican governor and Senator in 1972 is now threatened by Watergate — and Morgan.

broke into statewide politics in 1960. Later, Morgan defended the law banning Communists as fellow travelers from speaking at state universities here.

That attitude is not so out of date in the South today as it was. Uncle Sam Ervin may have made himself a folk hero on the West Side of Manhattan because of the Watergate hearings. When Ervin found that Morgan clearly intended to run for the Senate, Ervin pulled out rather than undergo a grueling impeachment saga.

It has eliminated the potentially strongest candidate, Rep. Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mitchell. The Republican nominee will be political neophyte William Stevens, a furniture executive and brother-in-law of Rep. James Brothill.

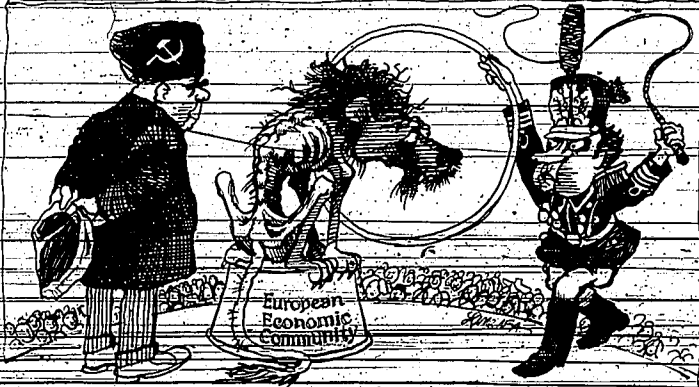

A combination of the old-style politics and the rigors of Watergate, however faint in this region, could turn back the political clock here.

Equal legal services bill short of concept

WASHINGTON — It is a familiar rule of parliamentary procedure that a motion to reconsider can be made only by a member of the prevailing faction.

Because I have long supported the concept of legal services for the poor, perhaps I am qualified to urge the bill soon to be reported from a conference committee. Mr. President, I would like to say I move to reconsider.

By every indication, the compromise legal services bill now in conference is a quantum leap toward the bill soon to be reported from a conference committee. Mr. President, I would like to say I move to reconsider.

In supporting a legal services act, I have been guided by certain principles and observations that seem to me almost beyond dispute. The first is that the concept of equal justice under law is among the greatest ideals of our political system. The second is that our nation has served that concept poorly. Despite improvements in recent years, we still have two systems of law — one for the rich, another for the poor.

A system of federally subsidized legal aid should have, but one purpose — that is to redress the imbalance. The poor family that has been bilked into a usurious installment contract should not be helpless at the hands of a well-heeled merchant. The poor person wrongly evicted from his home should have some aid in standing up to the slumlord. The ignorant or illiterate citizen — often needs legal advice he cannot possibly afford.

A "rehabilitation program" of federal legal aid ought to have these aims in mind, and these aims only because the possibilities for abuse are real. A new Legal Services Corporation should be bound down by chains of law. At the liberal legal eagles who would be free to pursue social reform behind a camouflage of aid to the poor.

These mischievous provisions are not immediately apparent. It is only when the bill is examined line by line, as Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina has examined it — that the shortcomings emerge.

Two examples may suffice to indicate the slippery business here afoot. The Senate bill contains a provision that could make available Senate — free — white — telephone — and other functions of the federal government, such as the General Services Administration, the federal telecommunications system and other facilities. Helms calls this a "mind-boggling blank check," and it is.

For a second example, The House version wisely prohibits the proposed Legal Services Corporation from using "private funds" for purposes for which public funds could not be spent. The Senate version ominously omits this safeguard.

The concept of equal justice remains valid. Nothing is wrong with the idea of providing legal aid to the poor. But the disappointing and deceptive bill that now heads back toward the Senate — free — white — telephone — would accomplish many good things, would constitute an invitation to legal activists to come have a ball. This is not the idea — it is not the idea at all.

Citizens silent in Burley, Hailey

Burley and Hailey citizens have followed the dubious example set earlier by Twin Falls people. Twin Falls City Councilmen last week authorized expenditures of about $400 per man, woman and child in the city, but not a single citizen spoke out at a public hearing on the budget.

Again Monday night, citizens of Burley and Hailey followed that silent example.

The Burley City Council portioned out more than $300 per man, woman and child in Burley. But not a single person had anything to say at the public hearing.

At Hailey, only one reporter attended the budget hearing Monday night, and the reporter only took notes. The Hailey Councilmen, again without citizen guidance, authorized expenditure of more than $100 for each person in the city.

It could be argued that the citizens of Burley and Hailey, like those of Twin Falls, have nothing worthwhile to say. We simply don't buy that argument.

The people have plenty worthwhile to say. Many people grumble privately about government services and about tax levies. But for some curious reason they won't speak at budget hearings.

When a family of four in Burley commits itself to an expenditure of over $100 a month, you can bet it is discussed at length. But when the city spends that much for that family, no one is interested.

The public's business is also the business of private citizens. They should look to their business.

BERRY'S WORLD

Yes, as a Democrat I AM planning to capitalize on Watergate as THE big issue in my re-election campaign!

Smaller stores appeal

WASHINGTON — Every time a neighborhood grocery store closes its doors for good, I expect there are wide grins in the executive suites of the conglomerates and certain pseudo Marxist theorists who are in a good way.

Both Big Brothers have been telling us for years that small towns and small establishments as the corner butcher shop and neighborhood schools are obsolete and should be replaced by "living factories."

We should resist these trends until our satisfied Big Businessmen and head shrinkers. They want to cheer us to the storehouses of supermarkets, wholly owned stock factories and centralized learning mills, the better to control our lives.

The trouble with a supermarket is not that it is big, but that it is a combination of a name. The food is sitting behind a desk in some ornate glass and concrete skyscraper, studies the advantage of selling all meat pre-cut and frozen. He's the joker who put all that stuff in packages so that only a mathematics prof can understand the nutritional value.

On the other hand, the man with a name in the corner grocery will cut salami to order, grind his own hamburger and ask whether your young John has recovered from the flu. "Try a hunk of this new cheese," he says. These days it is considered terribly provincial to say a good word about small towns — the "boondocks." And yet what is a city but a collection of small towns. Even New York City is divided into villages, each with its own shops not shopping centers. Manhattan and Brooklyn probably have more neighborhood grocers per capita than most Iowa hamlets. For years, before its capture and despoliation by hippies and junkies, Greenwich Village was in fact a village.

I can buy cheaper downtown, but picking up a fifth of Scotch at Eddie Bassin's down the street is a social occasion. I pay more for aspirin at MacArthur Drugs so I can pass the time of day, and the state of the nation, with Madeleine, Larry and Ruth.

And then the Arabs can worry about profits

WASHINGTON — By the 1980s, if the predictions come true, the Arab oil countries will have all the money in the world.

They will have to invest this money, and it is not inconceivable that they could own most of the large corporations in the United States. Like any business men they will demand a good return on their money, and I can imagine a meeting of the president of the Abu Dhabi General Motors Corp. of America (ADGMCA), a subsidiary of the Abu Dhabi General Motors Corp. International, and the sheik.

The president, a citizen of the United States, has been called back to Abu Dhabi to explain why profits have been off.

The sheik is angry. "I have just seen the figures for 1982. They're disgraceful. I am the laughingstock of the Middle East Stock Exchange. The Libyan Bell Telephone Co. of America shows a 10 per cent increase in profits.

United States is up 15 per cent and the sheik's Sears-Roebuck is predicting record earnings. What have you been doing over there?"

The president of ADGMCA is on his knees in front of the sheik. "Forgive me, sire. We thought we'd have a good year, but then you people imposed your 1,800th oil embargo and auto sales dropped."

ART BUCHWALD

"That wasn't my fault," the sheik says. "The Standard Oil Co. of Saudi Arabia has been putting the squeeze on gasoline. They think if they can cut down production they can get $25 a gallon for their gas. But if they don't watch it they're going to get into a price war."

The president of the Dhabi Royal Shell Co. holds the line at $23 a gallon. There is no sense driving people away from the pumps. But to get back to your problem. When I bought General Motors two years ago as a present for my wife, I said I wouldn't tinker with management as long as I could get a decent return on my investment. But I said she should give the American natives a chance to prove they could do it on their own. Obviously, I was wrong.

The president was still on his knees. "Please, sire, we expect a turnaround by the end of this year. The Kuwaiti Chrysler Corp. of America is also in great difficulty, and even the Yemen Ford Co. of the United States has shown losses. Rurgar has it that Yemen may fire his American manager, Henry Ford."

"I don't want excuses," the sheik of Abu Dhabi says. "I want results. Thank Allah I don't have to depend on General Motors for my main source of income. Do you know I make more money from the Abu Dhabi Consolidated Edison Co. of New York than I do from GM?" If you want the truth, I'm tempted to sell the American subsidiary of General Motors and buy the Chase Manhattan Bank instead.

"Please, sire, give me another chance," the president begs. "If you dismiss me, here I'm an Arab company in America that will hire me. I'll get up production if I have to flag every autoworker personally. We'll cut off the left hand of any salesman who doesn't meet his

"All right," the sheik says. "But if I don't get back 20 per cent of my investment next year I'm going to cover you with sand and pour honey on your head and let the red ants have a go at you."

"Bless you, sire. It's no wonder they call you the Howard Hughes of the Middle East."

Time to enforce leash law

Editor, Times News—
It is time the city enforced the leash law.
Those of us who watch over our pets and pay for licensing certainly deserve some consideration.
The many dogs and cats that roam our neighborhood are a nuisance to say nothing of the manner in which these animals are forced to live because their owners just turn them loose. They probably do not want to be bothered with them or care to feed them.
The alley behind our home is strewn with garbage from overturned trash cans, caused by dogs foraging for scraps. Some of the dogs bring in fact larger than the trash cans, have no difficulty in dumping them and even prying loose

Our dogs are small, toy lapdogs. They never run loose except in our well-fenced back yard. Other dogs cannot very well get to them, but the horde of stray cats roaming the area day and night, most of them wild-looking toms, cause a great deal of distress to us.
These cats are, for the most part, bigger than our dogs and they are very capable of killing them. In addition, during the night they lurk in the back yard, spraying the house and everything in sight. It would appear in defiance to our pets that I cannot so had lately, that I cannot let our dogs out to perform their necessary unless I accompany them with a pellet-gun—the ready-to-keep-the-cats-at-bay.

Letters

People who insist upon having pets should be made to keep them from being a liability to others. So many apparently have no concern about not only the well-being of their pets, and the problems they cause their neighbors are manifold.

Let's support our Humane Society and try to encourage a semblance of birth control among the dogs and cats of our city. The way things are, it's not only unfair to the residents, but to the pets as well.

Oil depletion allowance best known tax loophole

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The depletion allowance is one of the oldest and best known of the tax "loopholes" that benefit thousands of Americans from the corporate sector to the poverty family.
Through the years, this tradition-encrusted tax advantage has been maligned by reformers "as an unconscionable break for big business, and defended by the oil companies as a necessary incentive to more oil exploration."
But what is the oil depletion allowance? Where did it come from? How does it work?
The 22 per cent depletion allowance is not some new phenomenon, designed to induce greater oil production. In fact, it is five decades old, and was enacted to simplify a World War I loophole which proved too complicated to figure.
There are two different types of depletion allowances affecting oil and other natural resources—minerals such as coal and ore.

The first type, dating back to the original income tax law of 1913, is called "cost depletion." Basically, this allows a tax deduction for the percentage of the material taken out of the ground, based on the amount of money you have invested in it and the estimated volume of the resource.
For example, if you buy a coal mine for $50,000, and there is an estimated 100,000 tons of coal in your field, then the permit cost would be 50 cents per ton. For every ton you take out of the ground and sell, you can deduct 50 cents from your income for that mine.
But it is the 22 per cent depletion allowance that is known to most laymen as the "oil depletion allowance." It is a tax break that the reformers are trying to do away with.
The rate or percentage depletion has changed over the years. In 1959 it was lowered from 37 1/2 per cent to 22 per cent, where it remains today. This means that oil companies may deduct 22 per cent of the gross income of an oil property for tax purposes, up to a maximum of 50 per cent of the taxable income of the property.

Today, an oil or mineral company may choose either percentage depletion or normal cost depletion, whichever gives it the greatest tax break.
For most wells, percentage depletion gives the greater break. It is estimated that elimination of the percentage depletion allowance would cost oil companies about $2 billion a year today.
The percentage depletion allowance actually came about because of complications in figuring cost depletion in those early years.
When the income tax first became law on March 1, 1913, oil and mineral companies were allowed to declare the value of their deposits on that date as the cost from which to figure cost depletion, rather than what they originally paid for the mine or field.
During World War I, when efforts were being made to increase oil production, the concept of "discovery" value was written into law to give post-war wells the same tax break as the 1913 wells. Basically, this meant that oil companies were allowed to use the estimated value of the oil reserves in figuring cost depletion rather than what they paid for the field.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Explanations requested

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: A member of the family has not been able to work for five months. His trouble was diagnosed at first as myositis, which we had never heard of and later as fibrositis with a possibility of myositis.
Please explain this, and what are the chances of most people of returning to work? The latest time he had an EMG test. Would you explain this test? M. K. A.
Myositis is inflammation of muscle. Fibrositis is inflammation of fibrous tissue that is, tissue surrounding muscle or joints.
The two have similar symptoms, which is not surprising. They result from similar causes and when they occur together, the condition is known as fibrositis.
Acute attacks can result from infection, strain, injury or exposure to irritating chemicals.
Ordinarily with treatment comprising rest, heat, and pain-killers the trouble is short-lived and the patient fairly soon returns to work and other activities.
However, in certain cases, as in this one, the disorder can become chronic, and when that occurs it is wise to start looking for some focal infection in the body—infection in the gums, at the roots of teeth, and in the prostate gland are typical offenders. If no infection is found there, you go on and explore other areas.
In these chronic cases the usual are trigger points and sites of great tenderness—and they can be injected with, cocaine, to relieve the misery.
An EMG test (electromyography) is a recording of muscle response to electrical stimulation.
In this particular case there are a lot of questions I would ask you if you were right here: whether there was any injury; whether the patient had worked with materials that could be irritants; whether a search had been made for sites of infection; what the EMG showed, and so on.

With much information I might be able to explore more specific aspects, but I think the answer above will at least give you some guidance as to the nature of the problem.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes a person to become black and blue when bruised or when a vein is pierced with a needle for medication? Is there something lacking in the system, such as iron? I have been taking an iron supplement but to no avail. M. H.
In the case of piercing with a needle, the answer is that some bleeding has occurred, but the vein was pierced. It may mean that the instrument was not removed soon enough, or there was a weak spot in the vein at that point.
But delayed clotting also can be a factor—excessive use of aspirin, or of so-called blood thinners, or a deficiency of platelets in the blood (platelets being a type of particle in the blood that is necessary for clotting).
These last three possibilities can apply to excessive general bruising. Iron will not help such a situation—but you may need a study of your blood to see if that is where the trouble lies.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please give information on jogging in the winter months. I enjoy jogging very much. — R. F. K.
Presuming that you are in condition the winter months should be different, except look out for slippery or icy spots.
Dr. Thosteson welcomes all e-mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in "his column" whenever possible.

Barents oil deposit in question

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union and Norway have agreed to continue discussions on the Barents Sea issue in October, November. At stake are oil deposits under the continental shelf.

The communiqué suggested Premier Alexei N. Kosygin will conduct the renewed discussions, since it said he accepted Brattoli's invitation to visit Norway.
The communiqué said the two men instructed a mixed commission to draw up a five-year trade agreement for 1976-1980.

It said they also agreed on a long-term program of mutual trade in machinery and industrial equipment. The two sides said they will conclude a new agreement on deliveries of electricity from the Soviet Union to northern Norway.
During the visit Brattoli and Kosygin signed a shipping agreement. They also said both countries should cooperate on fishing matters and environmental protection.

The communiqué welcomed agreements to allow Soviet aircraft to use a Norwegian airport on the sub-Arctic island of Spitzbergen. It also said the Soviet Union expressed satisfaction at Norway's policy not to allow foreign bases or nuclear weapons on its territory.

During World War I, when efforts were being made to increase oil production, the concept of "discovery" value was written into law to give post-war wells the same tax break as the 1913 wells. Basically, this meant that oil companies were allowed to use the estimated value of the oil reserves in figuring cost depletion rather than what they paid for the field.

'Secret' efforts told by Dean

JOHN W. DEAN III testifies

(c) N.Y. Times Service
 NEW YORK — John W. Dean III, smiling and confident, testified today that two former cabinet officers, John Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans, had made a "secret" and confidential effort to keep Robert J. Vesco's financial records secret at least until after the election day in 1972.

The whole thing is something we just did not need before the election," Dean quoted Mitchell as having said.

Dean, former counsel to President Nixon, and a star witness at the Senate Watergate hearings, had been billed as the government's star witness in this case, and as far as the prosecution was concerned, he lived up to that billing.

He testified that Mitchell had spoken to him about the Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of Vesco—at least 19 times—and said the former attorney general had asked him to see if some subpoenas in that case could be delayed until after election day.

Dean testified that Stans, the former secretary of commerce who was then leading the Nixon election-fund campaign, had told him that he was concerned about the circumstances of Vesco's $200,000 cash contribution to the Nixon drive.

Mitchell and Stans are accused of perjury, obstruction of justice and conspiracy in attempting to impede the SEC investigation of Vesco in return for the secret cash contribution. Vesco, who has also been indicted in the case, is now a fugitive.

Mitchell had laid a "Grand Jury" that he had not talked to Dean about the Vesco case, but Dean said otherwise. Dean, who has not been indicted, has been named a conspirator in the case.

The witness depicted Mitchell as a man who apparently had considerable influence at the White House long after he left public office.

Well, Mr. Mitchell would call and request information or actions by me, and I would in turn respond back to him," was the way Dean summed it up. At the time Dean was still Nixon's counsel and Mitchell was a private citizen, having left his post as leader of the Nixon reelection campaign.

Dean testified that Mitchell first spoke to him about the Vesco case in July, 1972, at a meeting "where he and I were alone in Mr. Mitchell's Washington law office."

"Mr. Mitchell asked me if I knew anything about the SEC investigation of Mr. Vesco, and I said to him: 'No, not really other than the fact that Mr. Vesco had been a top member of the White House staff' and several months before asked me if there was such an investigation going on, and I responded that Mitchell at that time that I had made a call," Dean testified.

Rich hit by budget

LONDON (UPI) — Britons selected themselves today for what the new minority Labor government warned would be a tough, belt-tightening national budget that will bring "howls of anguish" from the rich.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey presents the budget to parliament this afternoon. Labor's interim M.P.'s three weeks after the Labor government took office.

Polliticians and newspapers almost unanimously predicted it will sink the rich and not so rich as well by adding to 1.5 billion pounds ($3.2 billion) away from the nation's taxpayers. It is expected to mean higher prices for cigarettes, tobacco liquor, wine, beer, gasoline and most luxury items.

They predicted, too, that income taxes will be higher.

Government officials said the extra taxes will have to go to pay for higher retirement pensions, social security benefits and food subsidies promised by the Labor government as well as to try to slow down inflation.

Albert changes opinion

(c) Chicago Daily News
 WASHINGTON — Speaker Carl Albert, who has prided himself on neutrality in the impeachment crisis, has turned around and now is speaking about the House Judiciary Committee.

The President's assertion that the panel wanted to back up a "sham" trial to the White House in a document was an unjustified "wild, defensive maneuver," Albert said.

Nixon is "making a mistake" in trying to sway the House against impeachment by "coming out and making speeches and charges in political audiences or semi-political audiences," the Oklahoma Democrat said.

"I think the President has hurt his credibility by relying upon his apparent concern with the office of the presidency and its authority to operate secretly when the whole issue is credibility," Albert added.

Albert made the unusually outspoken comments in an interview by Paul Duke shown last night on the Public Broadcasting Service Stations.

"I do think that most members of the House today feel that the President has lost ground in the last two or three months than had felt that way through the entire previous eight or nine months," the speaker added.

Other leading House Democrats, including Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the Ways and Means Committee, and Majority Leader Charles P. Price of the Education and Labor Committee, have called on the President to resign from office.

In the past, however, Albert has declined to comment about the President's conduct and last November he said impeachment would be a "catastrophe" for the nation.

The tone of his televised remarks reflected the apparent switch in the mood of the House toward Nixon since he began resisting requests by the Judiciary Committee staff for tapes of 42 Watergate-related conversations.

Albert's view contrasted sharply with the White House appraisal of the President's outtings to Chicago, Washville and Houston where he seemed to have been "renewed" in requests. A spokesman said the President was "extremely pleased with the results and would be doing more traveling to express his point-of-view."

Nixon's comments were unjustified.

"I think there is a feeling among a number of House members that the President is probably, some think certainly, unfairly attacked the

School-aid bill eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House takes up the $7 billion school-aid bill today with heated debate likely on several key amendments, including one to limit funding for racial purposes.

In all, more than 60 amendments have been offered to the bill that will extend the federal aid to education program through fiscal 1980.

The measure authorizes a $7 billion expenditure in fiscal 1974. The amendments, which are expected to cause most of the controversy since most Democrats and Republicans favor the bill in principle, fall into three main categories:

—Amendments to change the method of allocating funds according to the poverty level in each school district.

—Amendments to restrict busing within school districts.

—Amendments to restrict the rights of teachers to organize and strike.

There are more than two dozen amendments to change the bill's method of allocating funds which some lawmakers contend is unfair to urban areas with large numbers of families on welfare.

There are two major anti-busing amendments likely to be debated, both of which are opposed by civil rights, labor and church groups.

Ehrlichman trial to begin April 15

(LOS ANGELES UPI) — The trial of John Ehrlichman on perjury charges is scheduled to begin April 15, which would make Ehrlichman the first former high White House official to face a jury for the Ellsberg burglary.

Ehrlichman is the only one of the four original defendants in the Ellsberg trial in California court.

He is charged with lying to a county grand jury when he testified that he did not know in advance the White House planners planned to rifle the files of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

The trial date was set Monday in a conference involving prosecutor Stephen Trotter, defense attorney Douglas Dalton and Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer.

The lawyers said there was still a possibility that Dalton would request a change of venue.

Ehrlichman, 48, formerly President Nixon's top domestic affairs adviser, was originally charged with burglary and conspiracy on the grounds that he gave the orders that led eventually to the break-in.

Trial continues

MEDIA, Pa. (UPI) — The murder trial of Alvin "Son of Sam" Boyle, former president of the United Mine Workers, continues today with 10 regular and two alternate jurors set to be chosen to hear evidence in the 1970 slaying of Joseph A. Jablonski, a union rival.

Two jurors were seated

Monday in the first day of the trial.

Boyle, 31, was charged with the Dec. 31, 1969 slaying of "Jack" Jablonski, his wife and daughter in their Clarksville, Pa. home.

Legislature starting to get 'bloody' as leaders push adjournment

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — It's starting to get bloody in this second regular session of the 42nd Idaho Legislature as the leadership tries for final adjournment.

Frustrated because they cannot get a budget project through in the waning days of the session or because they cannot stop something they dislike, many lawmakers are starting to lose their tempers.

Senate President pro tem James Ellsworth, R-Leader, accused the joint budget committee Monday of "holding up money bills pending passage of junior college funds."

Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, co-chairman of the joint committee, denied the allegation—although he contended the junior college monies finally won approval Monday.

Later, Ellsworth said those who made the remark that the junior college funds held up other financial bills claimed they did so in jest. He did not sound convinced, however.

Over in the House, Rep. C. L. Otter, R-Caldwell, tried to line out of an appropriation bill for the Legislative Council a $15,000 appropriation for the Council of State Governments.

Speaker Wm. J. Lanting, R-Hollister, told him his motion to "divide the question" was improper—and to move to put the bill into committee of the whole if he wanted to change it.

Otter appealed the ruling of the chair to the entire House—something not seen in that chamber for many years. Lanting—personally affronted because he is serving his second term as majority chairman of the Council of State Governments—was sustained 53-15.

Then a move to put the bill into committee of the whole failed, 22-44. Finally the bill passed 48-19.

All bets on just when this session may end seem to be off until the issue over state employees' salary increases is resolved. Senate Democrats voted to block consideration of two tax relief bills until $1 million in "new money" is restored to the bill to raise salaries.

More substantive legislation continues to crowd the desks in both houses with the Senate getting a new lobbyist registration measure Monday.

Debate continues as though today were not the 22nd legislative day. The House decided for more than an hour before killing Monday afternoon a bill to require subdividers to make money or land available for recreational facilities.

Elsewhere on the legislative scene:

—The House approved 41-21 a bill to revise the Idaho Charitable Tax Act. Floor sponsors: Wayne Lammers, D-Boise and Bill Buehler, R-Boise.

—The Senate approved 30-4 a house bill permitting establishment of health maintenance organizations in Idaho.

The House completed legislative action 41:27 on a Senate bill providing that either husband or wife may manage, control or bind community property by contract.

—Senators approved 30-4 a house bill permitting establishment of health maintenance organizations in Idaho.

—The House approved 41-21 a bill to revise the Idaho Charitable Tax Act. Floor sponsors: Wayne Lammers, D-Boise and Bill Buehler, R-Boise.

Attempt to tamper with reorganization defeated

T-N Capitol Bureau
BOISE—A Senate Committee Monday beat back one more attempt to tamper with the newly reorganized structure of state government.
 The Senate Resources and Environment Committee voted to table a bill that would have transferred some water quality functions to one new state agency from another.
 The executive reorganization package that passed the legislature earlier in the session left all water quality functions with the new Department of Health and Welfare. The new proposal which had already passed in the House, would have transferred water quality control for waters used in irrigation or agriculture to the Department of Water Resources.
 Dr. Leo Stokes, who heads the Department of Environmental and Community Services, environmental protection division, said the measure wasn't drafted carefully enough to accomplish what it attempted to.
 The DHS general counsel, Robert Bushnell, also spoke against the measure for his agency. He said it would "virtually preclude" the state from ever getting control over the water permit system that the federal government now controls.
 He said requirements in the federal law prohibit conflicts of interest on the part of people making decisions about whether permits should be granted. Since the Idaho Water Resource Board would be making the determinations under the law, he said, there would be an excellent likelihood that a conflict might occur.
 Sen. Reed, Budge, R-Soda Springs, agreed with Bushnell that a conflict could result and moved to keep the bill in committee. Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, convinced the committee to table the measure, however, killing it for the session.
 The committee also voted not to print a proposed memorial relating to the primitive areas in the state that has provoked opposition from environmentalists.
 The House already passed one memorial, but it was buried and efforts to have another one drafted have not similar opposition.
 The one the committee voted not to print would have requested the Forest Service to reclassify existing primitive areas as Wilderness, but retained them for multiple use.
 Sen. Robert Kinghorn, D-Pocatello, who was an earlier supporter of the proposal, withdrew his support when he said he had not understood fully what the memorial requested.
 Kinghorn said that while he supported the concept of multiple use management, he did not support the "tone" of the proposed memorial.
 Sen. Orval Snow, who opposed printing the proposal, said he's the first "big game animal they'd shoot" when the session adjourned if he didn't oppose it.
 In the end, one senator, Ivan Hansen, R-Coeur d'Alene, voted to reprint the bill. He said 10 percent of the land in the state is tied up in areas classified as primitive, roadless or those being considered for classification.

Appropriation OK'd for school

T-N Capitol Bureau
BOISE—The Senate approved and sent to the governor Monday a $1.3 million appropriation for the fiscal year for the State School for the Deaf and Blind in Coeur d'Alene.
 The vote on the measure was 28-0. Earlier the House had approved the measure, 53-1.
 The appropriations include $1,175,000 from the state's general funds and nearly $119,000 in federal funds.
 The fiscal year 1975 appropriations are an increase of $170,000 over the figure appropriated for the current fiscal year. The increase in general funds amounts to nearly $200,000.
 The final appropriations figure is also $79,000 higher than the recommendation made by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus. Most of the difference is in spending from the general fund.

House okays property bill

BOISE (UPI)—A bill to give wives equal rights with their husbands in management of community property won final legislative approval 41-27 from the House Monday and is headed for the governor.
 Floor sponsor, Edward W. Rice, R-Boise, said existing law probably will be thrown out of court the first time it is challenged. He predicted "just such a challenge if the law is not revised."
 But opponents of the legislation argued that somebody has to manage community property in the eyes of the law.
 "Now, the husband is assumed to be the manager," Rep. Melvin Hammond, D-Rexburg, argued. "If this passes it will be impossible to determine who is the managing partner."
 Rep. Peggy Bunting, R-Boise, said present law dates to the 1880's and is "antiquated."
 Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Boise, said she was "astounded" the legislature continues to intrude itself in the marriage relationship.
 "If you really mean what you say—that the state has no business sticking its nose into how two people run their lives—then you better pass this bill," she said.
 Rep. Wayne Loveless, D-Pocatello, said the bill would "tend to encourage divorce."

Dissidents challenge Lanting, but lose vote

BOISE (UPI)—In a rare move, a band of dissidents challenged a ruling of House Speaker William V. Lanting, R-Hollister, on the floor last Monday.
 This action marked the first time in recent memory a ruling from the chair has been challenged on the floor of the Idaho House. One lawmaker said he had never seen it happen in his 22 years in the Idaho legislature.
 Rep. C. L. Otter, R-Caldwell, started the action when he asked to divide the question on a bill appropriating $177,200 to the Legislative Council. He and the others objected to earmarking $16,000 of the money for payment to the council of state governments.
 Lanting, now serving his second term as national chairman of the House, returned to the floor to rule that the question could not be divided. He suggested if Otter wanted to amend the bill, he should attempt to get into committee of the whole for amendment.
 Otter then challenged Lanting's ruling.
 "If we're really going to follow the laws of this state," Otter said during debate, "what are we doing considering appropriation bills introduced after the 45th day of the session?"
 The House beat down Otter's motion and then passed the bill 48-19.

appropriations to be introduced by the 45th day.
 Rep. Lee Barron, R-Corral, supported Otter's move.
 "I believe that this is fundamental," he said. "The question is divisible."
 By a vote of 54-15 the House sustained the speaker.
 Then Rep. Ralph Gines, R-Nampa, moved to put the bill into committee of the whole.
 Rep. John Reardon, R-Boise, called that move a test of "sincerity" on the part of those who had suggested the bill could be put into committee of the whole for amendment.
 This prompted Rep. Norma Donner, D-Idaho, to suggest Reardon was out of order—saying she repeated his inferring.
 "The lady is correct," Lanting said.
 The House beat down Gines' motion and then passed the bill 48-19.

Walkout stops bill on stream channel

BOISE (UPI)—Rep. Floyd Dunn, R-Georgetown, led a bipartisan walkout from the House Resources and Conservation Committee Monday to delay in committee the controversial stream channel law amendments.
 When Dunn walked out followed by the Democrats—the committee no longer had a quorum and the vote could not take any action.
 Dunn told the committee that sending the bill to the floor for action would be "one of the greatest wastes of time we could indulge in."
 There is no possibility the bill could become law, he said, pointing out that Gov. Cecil D. Andrus used a similar measure last year.
 After the walkout, Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, R-Tuttle, said he had worked hard to get the original law on the books. But Ravenscroft said he had expected the introduction to be so restrictive.

Water bill tabled

BOISE (UPI)—A bill which would have given the new Department of Water Resources control of waste and irrigation water quality was tabled in the Senate Resources Committee today.
 At the same meeting, the committee also refused to introduce a new anti-wilderness memorial.
 The vote against printing the proposed memorial was 31-0. Only Sen. Ivan Hansen, R-Coeur d'Alene, favored it.
 The water quality control bill was tabled when two officials of the Department of Environmental and Community Services testified it conflicted with federal law. They added the measure does not do what it purports to do.

Fish license fee hike gets no recommendation

Times-News Capitol Bureau
BOISE — The Senate Resources and Environment Committee sent to the floor without recommendation Monday a controversial bill to increase fish and game license fees.

At the same time, the committee also authorized its chairman to seek introduction for a different license fee bill. The new one would authorize an across the board increase for licenses.

The first measure, which passed the House narrowly and after lengthy debate, was sent to the floor on a vote of 84-56. Richard "High" R. Twin Falls and John Peavley, R-Rupert, were among those voting to send it out without recommendation. Sen. J. Wilson Steen, R-Idaho, opposed the move.

Earlier in the meeting, however, Steen had supported a move to send the bill to the floor for discussion. Sen. Reed Budge, who proposed the idea, said he wanted to take a provision that would dedicate certain funds to purchasing of land.

Under the act as written, $2 collected for certain license fees would go exclusively for the acquisition and rehabilitation of big game ranges and upland game habitat.

Budge also objected to the provisions setting fees for out-of-state hunters, saying he would have "no compunction" in charging an out of state resident $200 to hunt in the state.

Anticipating difficulty for the bill since it reached the floor, the committee agreed at the end of the meeting to seek printing for the second measure. Since it is after the 30th legislative day, the Resources Committee is not authorized to introduce new legislation on its own.

Several committee members agreed it was necessary to provide more operating funds for the Department of Fish and Game for the coming fiscal year. The agency receives its operating money from the sale of licenses and hunting tags.

The estimated increases for the Department under the measure which has already passed the House is $1.4 million.

The bill would increase the second proposal, is the one the committee ordered printed, would be less, but still more than $1 million.

Utah truck driver killed

GREEN RIVER, Wyo. (UPI) — A Salt Lake City truck driver was killed Sunday night when an oil storage pump exploded and burned near Green River, Sweetwater County coroner Peter Vase said.

George Joseph Rhinesmith, 35, a driver for Cowboy Oil Co. of Pocatello, Idaho, was loading crude oil at Allied Chemical Co. when the explosion occurred.

Inspection set

BOISE (UPI) — A one-day meeting of the Idaho Board of Environmental and Community Services will be held in Soda Springs Thursday to inspect the Agricultural Products Corporation fertilizer complex.

Board chairman John Van Orman said Monday the board will inspect the facility and consider "political control" requirements for the plant.

The company seeks a 60-day variance from a compliance schedule developed by the Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS).

College aid change asked

BOISE — The Senate Finance Committee has introduced legislation to change the way the state's two junior colleges receive their academic state aid.

The proposal would require that the state give the College of Southern Idaho and North Idaho College their academic support funding in a lump sum payment.

Senator legislative aide requested last year by CSI, was kept bottled up in a Senate

Amateurs big operators in drug business

Joy ride fatal for 2

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The "French connection" is giving way to the "Latin-American connection" as a hang-around in a street in the federal drug enforcement department says "everybody and his uncle" is getting in the drug business. "The average professional language behind bars," John F. Bartels Jr., administrator of drug enforcement for the Justice Department, said in an interview in U.S. News & World Report the back of the "French connection" has been broken. "Those five French-Corsican families which, for years, brought in between 70 and 80 percent of the heroin into this country aren't operating," said

Bartels. "But now any guy with $2,000 can walk across the Rio Grande or go into Tijuana, hang around a bar and find something to buy and sell. Everybody and his uncle is in the business now." The amateurs, now, are operating out of France, Mexico, South America, Southeast Asia, the United States—anywhere there are drugs to be had—or used," according to Bartels. "People in planes fly down to Mexico, pick up a couple hundred pounds of marijuana, an ounce or two of cocaine and bring it back," he said. "Some dealers have also been known to use aliens as 'mules' to bring drugs into the United States. Bartels said it is also getting harder to guard every potential port of entry for illegal drugs with the growth of the Latin American in-flow. Such relatively new entry points as Miami, Seattle and Vancouver are a serious problem." Asked about incidents where narcotics agents have broken into the wrong house or arrested the wrong person, Bartels said his department is cracking down on such unauthorized "raids." "If you decide to break the law and go out and raid homes without a warrant or without any probable cause," Bartels has warned his agents, "we're going to come down hard. If you pull your gun off unauthorised occasions, you're going to get 30 days without pay." He said, however, drug law enforcement is "the toughest, most demanding form of law enforcement that exists," every body carries a gun. It's part of the counter-culture of narcotics traffic to stout people.

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — Darwin Bagley bought a dune buggy and asked Judy Burley to take a ride with him. A hour later they were dead. The dune buggy flipped over in an Amarillo vacant lot, crushing both of them, police said Sunday. Bagley, 34, and Miss Burley, 23, were dead on arrival at a local hospital.

SPRING FEVER SALE

Wearing US flag given OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled Monday it is not against Massachusetts law for a person to wear an American flag on the seat of his pants. On a 5-4 decision with four separate opinions, the court upheld a lower court decision that a Massachusetts law was too vague and too broad. The court ruled unconstitutionally "the law that prohibits criminal penalties against anyone who 'publicly' treats contemptuously the flag of the United States." Writing the majority opinion, Justice Lewis F. Powell said that "flag contempt statutes have been characterized as void of lack of notice on the theory that what is contemptuous to one may be a work of art to another." The Massachusetts law, Powell wrote, "fails to draw reasonably clear lines between the kinds of nonceremonial treatment that are criminal and those that are not." "In other decisions, the court refused to review an appeal of a decision which struck down New York's 1927 abortion law as an invasion of a woman's privacy and unconstitutionally vague." Declined to hear an Arkansas case, which police officers posing as gamblers intercepted telephone calls without a specific warrant.

Reversed the contempt conviction of a truck driver in Oklahoma because he had not been warned once before being cited for using profanity. Agreed to review an anti-trust ruling against Gulf Oil Co. for allegedly trying to monopolize the asphalt industry in southern California. Justice Byron R. White, in a concurring opinion in the flag case, said he thought the Massachusetts law was too vague, but believed it did violate the First and 14th Amendments guaranteeing free speech and due process.

Oil firm rejects charges

BERLIN (UPI) — The West German subsidiary of British Petroleum Monday rejected charges that it had engaged in unfair trade practices to reap huge profits in the wake of the oil crisis. In an open hearing before the Federal Cartel Office in Berlin a company spokesman said the firm did not seek a monopoly in the German market but was legally subject to the unfair trade charges. "The abuse could only have taken place if it could be proved that the company had a dominant market position," a BP spokesman told the hearing. Five oil companies—Aral, Esso, Shell, Texaco and BP—control 74 percent of the oil market in Germany, and thus collectively are subject to German monopoly restriction laws. The companies argued that they control only 59 percent of gasoline distribution; they are not subject to the unfair competition rule, which requires a dominant market position, defined as two-thirds of the market. Hans Heinrich Barnikel, heading the Cartel Office hearings, said the German subsidiaries accounted for "an exceptionally large part" of the international oil concern's profits last year.

Shoshone streak reported
SHOSHONE, Idaho (UPI) — Shoshone has had its first streak. Two unidentified males, described as being in their early 20s, streaked across Shoshone's Main Street just at dusk Sunday. They then jumped the railroad track that divides the town's main streets and dashed through a busy tavern.
Observers said the two streakers were not wearing masks, or anything else for that matter.

An FBI agent and the Sun Valley police chief arrested Leslie Vance Cram, 29, in Sun Valley Saturday on a federal warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.
Cram, wanted in California under the name of Vance Leslie Fields, is awaiting extradition. According to an FBI agent, he has not disclosed a waiver of extradition with an attorney.
He was arraigned before U.S. Magistrate Harry Turner.

Police mum on change in Gooding

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News writer

GOODING — Two Gooding police officers who resigned in February have been replaced by their predecessors but no one is making any comments on the matter.
It was learned Dee Barzee and Cecil Miles resigned a few weeks ago without submitting letters of resignation and without making their reasons public.
Resigning them are two men who resigned from the police force prior to the hiring of Barzee and Miles. These men, Duwaine Walker and Larry Henslee, also are not discussing the situation.
Police Chief Iyle Clifford, when asked by the Times-News about the situation said, "I would rather not go into that."
Miles, when asked why he resigned said, "I'm not making any comment." Barzee could not be reached for statements.
Hensley said he rejoined the police staff, because conditions have changed for the better." He declined to discuss the reasons he resigned in the first place or to say what the "conditions" involve.
Walker said, "They needed some officers and I was available."
He, too, would not comment on his earlier resignation and when asked if, like Henslee, he felt "conditions" had improved, replied, "no comment."

Buhl girls ask equality

BUHL — Equal rights for women has expanded to sports.
An indication of this trend came to light at Buhl last week when 18 girls turned out, along with 20 boys, for the first practice of the boys interscholastic basketball program, being initiated at the Buhl High School.
They're addition basketball coach said the girls knew they couldn't participate at the boys' level, but they are serious about wanting to play basketball.
Both he and Principal Roger Michener talked to the girls at a special meeting, pointing out there currently is "no other school with interscholastic basketball or softball for girls."
Michener says he believes girls basketball and gymnastics will be the next things for girls since other schools in the valley already have these sports.
Buhl high school girls currently are being invited to sign for an intramural basketball program. Michener said an earlier sign-up, for a broader, diversified intramural program including ping pong, basketball and volleyball, was unsuccessful.
But, he said, he felt there was some misunderstanding and girls interested only in one sport failed to sign the first time.
"The girls make a good point," and I'm glad they did," Michener said. After all, serious athletic competition for girls is a widespread movement.

Buhl office expanded

BUHL — The Department of Environmental and Community Services is expanding its Buhl office at 112 Main.
Milt Klein, regional administrator, told the Twin Falls County Mental Health Board meeting here Monday that the office expansion will include an employment examiner and a mental health worker, plus fulltime secretary.
He said the additional office space has been secured in the former facilities to accommodate the added personnel.
DECS had a service worker previously and sometimes appointments were made for Buhl people at the local office, Klein said, but mostly the Buhl area persons using DECS services had to come to the Twin Falls office.
Now, he said, as soon as the office changes are completed, hopefully within a week to 10 days, Buhl area residents will be able to receive most of the agency services in the local office.
Klein said with the mental health worker and eligibility examiner will be working full time in the Buhl area, but they may be out making calls and will not always be in the office.

Grant given
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The community of Horseshoe Bend will receive a $23,342 grant from the Environmental Protection Agency.
Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, said Monday the funds would be used to upgrade and expand existing waste water treatment facilities and purchase a previous grant of $35,872.

Burley hearing silent
BURLEY — The 1974 Burley budget was approved at a special meeting of the City Council Monday night.
Schubert offered testimony at the budget hearing.
The total 1974 budget is $3,535,882, compared with a 1973 budget of $3,675,703. The 1974 budget is down slightly because of completion of several major projects, according to city treasurer Steve Rogers. It follows is the budget list with 1973 figures first.
General fund: $1,059,681 and $849,508; street fund: $371,395 and $338,828; inter-governmental services: $215,284 and $164,896; general long-term fiscal assets: $715,599 and $496,529; water and sewer: $491,386 and $542,527; electric: $1,031,424 and $1,117,974; and trust and agencies: $236,349 and $25,856.
Funds which were previously budgeted under general fund are in part being budgeted under general long-term fiscal assets.

Action nears on TF zoning
TWIN FALLS — City planner David Richey has asked the commissioners to temporarily reduce proposed residential zoning around Twin Falls City. The reduction would discontinue "urban sprawl" developments in outlying regions until a two-year land use study can be completed, Richey said.
Chancey said today the commissioners will probably approve a portion of Richey's proposal into the zoning law.
The three county officials toured the area in and around Twin Falls with Richey Friday.
Chancey said the planner pointed out several developed areas north and northeast of Twin Falls, representing residential, commercial and industrial uses, reserving adjacent county land at least until the land use plan is completed.
Chancey also indicated today that specific areas will be set up for mobile home parks. Several homeowner areas, especially those representing areas north and northeast of Twin Falls, have objected to outright allowance of trailer parks in the region. Many said the parks should be "conditional uses" in any zoning requiring public hearings and permitting special rules before approval.
Commissioner Merl Leonard said he is "leaning toward" smaller specified areas where the trailer parks can be allowed outright.

Hailey sees 4.7% tax hike

HAILEY — The Hailey City Council adopted a 1974 budget totaling $180,915 after no protests were made during a public hearing Monday night. Total taxes will rise 4.7 per cent.
The budget includes a 4.7 per cent increase over last year's budget.
Stephen W. Boller, city attorney, said that the budget is the result of an attempt to hold the tax levy near last year's 23 mills. Last year, the city's assessed valuation was $1.65 million in September and the amount of Worldwide development Jan. 1 increased the assessed valuation by $59,525 or about 3.6 per cent.
Boller said with the county's 2.5-voluntarism program and other new construction within the city the levy to fund the 1974 budget may even be lowered. He said this year $22,000 of the budget will come from taxes, compared to about $14,128 last year.
Other projected revenue includes $37,375 in carryover funds from 1973 for the road and street fund and about $25,000 in federal revenue sharing funds which will be allocated to the general fund mostly for capital outlay. A law enforcement planning commission grant is expected to be about 10 per cent of the salary of an additional police officer.
General government expenditures total $83,700 in 1974, compared to $69,000 last year. Additional expenditures include a salary increase for the mayor and councilmen, $2,400 for accountant fees for the city's accounting and audit work and water billing, funding for additional volunteer firemen and $3,500 for the initial appropriation for another fire truck.
The road and street fund was decreased about $2,000 to a total of $97,415. The street construction and maintenance allocation was re-adjusted to $35,000 from $51,000 last year because of the amount of such work which can be done during the construction season.

Land board okays draft
BOISE (UPI) — A preliminary 25-page draft of rules and regulations on leasing of state land for geothermal use was approved by the State Land Board Monday.
Next, a public hearing will be held in Boise. No date was set for it will have to be published and no hearing can be held until at least 20 days after publication, officials said.
The draft calls for a non-refundable $50 filing fee and 50 cents per acre yearly for the first five years, followed by $1 per acre annually for the second five years and $2 per acre yearly thereafter.

Kidnaping discounted
BOISE (UPI) — Federal investigators have discounted kidnaping in their probe of the reported payment of $2,000 ransom for the return of a banker's wife.
Regional officials of the Federal Bureau of Investigation of Butte, Mont., committed reports the FBI was looking into the incident for possible violation of federal law.
But they apparently reported no kidnaping was involved.
Last Friday, a Boise branch manager for the Bank of Idaho supposedly left a satchel containing $2,000 in a telephone booth after receiving a telephone call that his wife had been kidnaped.

The vehicle was owned by Darrell Smith, 34 Sidi Springs, who is still missing from his home.

Charges dropped
SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Happy to be out of the Air Force, which he charged was holding him as a "slave," an Idaho man dropped his federal court suit demanding his freedom Monday.

3 face tax charges

A fourth person, Osmond farmer Larle Verle Gray, pleaded guilty to three counts of willful failure to file personal income tax returns for 1967, 1968 and 1969, was released on his own recognizance pending presentence investigation.

ALBION — Albion voters will go to the polls today to decide the fate of the city's sewer bond proposal.

Jerome grants rezoning classification
The Jerome County Commission has granted a rezoning classification in a Pocatello firm for construction of a hot mix plant southeast of Jerome.
Bannock Paving Company Inc., Pocatello, requested the rezoning of 10.08 acres bordering the east side of US Highway 93 and the old Barrymore Road.
The firm asked for reclassification from zone A (agriculture) to zone P (heavy industry).
The area involved is located four miles east and three miles south of Jerome, just north of the Union Pacific Railroad.
According to Bannock Paving officials, plans call for a railroad spur and stockpiling of aggregate material for shipment. Future development will include a hot mix plant.
A public hearing conducted Monday afternoon was attended by 16 persons. Carl Ricketts, who lives in the vicinity of the proposed plant, testified objecting to the reclassification. "I am opposed to agricultural land being eaten up by commercial or industrial units. If you county commissioners allow the reclassification, you will be opening the area to heavy industry. It won't be long until Highway 93 to the intersection of Highway 25 will be completely commercialized," Ricketts said.
Ricketts said that agricultural land has continued to decrease and the commissioners should look closely at the possibility of setting a precedent in the area.
M. L. Wood of Bannock Paving said the company had checked several different areas for the plant and had found the 10 acres to be best suited since it has easy access to the railroad and highway and is marginal farmland.

Construction will begin next fall and is expected to be completed in the summer of 1975.
The mayor said Albion must build a sewage treatment facility by 1975 or be fined by the federal government for discharging wastes into tributaries of the Snake River. The city would also lose federal funding for the project if it is not begun by 1975.
Albion has about 165 registered voters, according to mayor Redman.
Bill Block, city engineer, testified in support of the plan, saying there was an urgent need for the aggregate materials to build the roads. The materials to build the roads, the farmer won't be able to get their crops to market. The material the Bannock corporation plans to bring is of superior quality to that available here," Block said.

Carolina St. tops Warriors for title

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UPI) — Fighting North Carolina State, helped immensely by two technical fouls called on Marquette coach Al McGuire in the last three minutes of the first half, roared away from the game but outnerved Warriors Monday night for a 76-74 victory to win the NCAA basketball championship.

UCLA didn't go all out but Bill Walton, Keith Wilkes, and Dave Meyers inspired a 14-point burst early in the second half, booming the Bruins to a 76-71 victory over Kansas in the third-place game.

The championship game, played before 15,742 fans and a national television audience, was decided in the last three minutes of the first half and the first five minutes of the second half.

All-American David Thompson, who scored 21 points, led the top-ranked Wolfpack on a 12-2 spurt to put the game out of reach at 51-32 with 15:32 left.

The Wolfpack took advantage of two technical fouls called on McGuire to go on a 10-point run in less than a minute near the end of the first half.

Marcus Washington of Marquette started the action with a jump ball, 2-18, to go in the half giving the Warriors a 29-27 lead. Washington was called for charging, however, and McGuire drew his first technical foul from umpire Jim Howell of the Southern Conference, when McGuire kicked the NCAA emblem in front of the official scorer's table.

North Carolina State parlayed that into a five-point play. Thompson hit the technical free throw and both ends of the 1- and 1-for the charging violation.

The Pack took ball out of bounds and Tom Burleson netted a layup with 2:36 to go in the half for a 32-28 lead.

After a Marquette timeout, the Bruins scored again at the 2:18 mark. Then, with 1:45 left, Al Spencer's fast-break layup by Bo Ellis of the Warriors who was called for foul play.

McGuire rushed onto the floor and referee Jim Howell of the Western Athletic Conference fouled him with the second technical. Thompson again converted and the Wolfpack had a 32-28 lead.

The two teams exchanged baskets in the last 23 seconds, giving North Carolina State a 35-30 halftime lead.

When North Carolina State scored the first six points of the second half, three by Thompson, they were doubt about the verdict.

Thompson was voted the Most Outstanding Player in the tournament by the writers.

Behind Thompson, North Carolina State, little Moie Toive scored 16 points, Moie Burleson also had 14. Maurice Lucas led the Warriors with 21 points. Bo Ellis had 12, and Marcus Washington added 11.

The Wolfpack rushed to a 10-2 lead in the first four minutes, but the Warriors battled back to knot the game at 12-12. Neither team had much advantage until McGuire gave the Bruins a 16-12 lead at the 10:00 mark.

North Carolina State finished the season with a 30-1 record, avenging its only loss when an 86-77 double-overtime victory over UCLA Saturday's semifinals. Marquette finished at 25-5.

UCLA turned a 43-43 double lead into a 43-41 lead in a 52-43 lead with 10:32 left.

Walton, Wilkes and Meyers, the only Bruins regulars who played in the second half, led the surge.

UCLA started its regular season with a 25-25 record, but they left early in the game.

Tennessee captured a 36-31 margin at intermission.

Walton ends collegiate career with typical fantastic shot

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UPI) — Bill Walton's last shot as a college player was typical of his spectacular college career: a game close to an art form.

Walton, who led the Bruins to a 76-71 victory over Kansas in the consolation game between UCLA and Kansas, Walton floated up with his back to the basket, took a pass from a teammate and gently tipped the ball into the basket behind his head.

And with that, UCLA's All-American center jogged over to the bench to a standing ovation from 15,000-plus persons crammed into the Greensboro Coliseum to watch the game.

If that last shot was typical of Walton's play, his last news conference was also typical. Walton has been at odds with the press since early in his college career when he felt he was misquoted about his views regarding socialism.

His college career might have been over, but Walton made it clear that his views about newsmen remain the same.

Reporters waited outside the UCLA dressing room for 15 minutes before being allowed in and had to wait another 10 minutes for Walton to finish his shower. The news conference was held in a room off these words from Walton — "I don't know" — to all questions.

There had been some doubt almost to the time of the consolation game whether Walton — and other UCLA seniors — would play. UCLA coach John Wooden had told newsmen that it was his policy to give his starters and seniors the option of playing or not playing in consolation games, an option which they had not had a chance to exercise since 1963 and UCLA's last loss in the NCAA tournament.

There had been rumors since Saturday's UCLA defeat by North Carolina State that Walton had left Greensboro or that he was still in Greensboro but would not play. Wooden said Sunday that Walton had told him he might not play.

Walton asked Monday why he decided to play, made one of his longest comments of the evening, saying, "I don't know."

Walton told newsmen he knew Walton would play.

Oakland looks like champion

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — How lucky can Alvin Dark be? Just over a month ago he was playing golf at home in Florida wondering if baseball was going to pass him by again.

Now, here he is in Arizona watching the two-time world champion Oakland A's go through the motions of getting ready for the 1974 season.

And going through the motions is about all the A's are doing this spring. They are so solid that all Dark has to do between now and opening day is make two decisions. Otherwise, the club is set and Barina is unforeseen circumstances should walk away with the American League pennant and try for a third straight world championship.

In many ways the A's remind you of the push-button New York Yankees' of Casey Stengel's era. There is quality from top to bottom and about the only thing that could stop them is complacency or serious injuries.

"If I've been surprised this spring," Dark says of his A's, "it's been with the veterans' enthusiasm and hustle. For the most part I've left them alone to get ready at their own pace and not one man has taken advantage. Heck, these fellows have worked harder than a lot of players I can name with far less talent."

So as not to clutter up the scene and because there are few jobs open, the A's took only 10 rookies to camp this spring. Some figures to make the club:

Strengths: Starting lineup of centerfielder Billy North who appears to be over an ankle injury, shortstop Bert Campaneris, third baseman Sal Bando, MVP rightfielder Reggie Jackson, designated hitter Deron Johnson, first baseman Gene Tenace, pitcher Tom Seaver, pitcher Dick Green, plus a premin staff that includes 20 game winners Jim Hunter, Vida Blue and Ken Hershner, and John Odum as starters and relievers. Batters — Fireballs David Knowles, Paul Lindblad and Bob Locker.

The reserves are solid too, with Jesus Alou, Vic Davallo and Angel Mangual in the minor leagues. Starting and backup Kubiak and Rich McKinny in the infield.

Gas. the economical replacement.

When the time comes to replace your old clothes dryer, we hope you will consider the significant advantages found in a natural gas dryer. Average drying time with gas is 33 minutes compared to 46 minutes with electricity. A gas dryer produces moist heat for a very gentle drying action. Your clothes don't bake dry. And gas drying costs less per load than electricity. Energy studies show that drying clothes with gas is an efficient use of energy. If you don't consider gas, you'll miss out on all the advantages of gas clothes drying.

George Foreman is favored to beat Ken Norton tonight

CARACAS (UPI) — Undeclared heavyweight champion George Foreman, weighing the heaviest of his career, was a 3-to-1 favorite to retain his title against ex-Marine Ken Norton tonight in his second defense in 14 months.

The 25-year-old champion defeats Norton before some 15,000 fans at the Polidoro Stadium and a potential television audience of one billion in 70 countries, he will make another defense in late September in Kinshasa, Zaire, against ex-11th-order Muhammad Ali.

Foreman weighed 224 1/2 pounds at the official weigh-in, more than five pounds heavier than his previous high. But he rejected suggestions he was overweight.

Norton, 28, came in at 212 1/2, just one-quarter of a pound below his target, but also a career high. However, he wanted the extra weight in going against the stronger champion.

Not until one hour before the 8:30 p.m. MDT fight time will it be known for sure if the local boxing commission or Foreman's manager-trainer, Dick Sadler, has won a dispute over the nationality of the referee. That when the referee and two judges will be announced.

Sadler said he wanted an American referee while the local boxing commission, supported by the World Boxing Council, would withdraw recognition of the fight as a title event.

"Then we'll rip up the contract and write a new one calling it a local fight," Sadler told Velasquez. "We can call it the heavyweight championship of Caracas," he said.

Sadler said he wanted an American referee with heavy-weight championship experience so that he and Foreman could speak in English to him. "I do not want someone who speaks a different language," Sadler said.

"I'm an American and both fighters are Americans," Sadler said. "I like Venezuelans, but I don't want my man to lose his title because he didn't understand a warning."

Norton's co-manager, Robert Brion, agreed to a Venezuelan referee.

Both sides agreed to the 10-point scoring system and the use of a 12-round fight.

Foreman, who has a perfect 39-0 record, will receive $700,000 against 40 per cent of all the revenue, while Norton, the second-ranked contender, was guaranteed $200,000 against 20 per cent. The total was expected to be up to $3 million.

That's nothing compared to the $10 million purse guaranteed for the Foreman fight against top-ranked Ali in the former Belgian Congo. Video Techniques, Inc., co-promoters of the Foreman-Norton fight will announce details of the Foreman-All fight Wednesday.

Foreman, saddled with financial troubles as a result of a costly divorce settlement and faced with several lawsuits in the United States over alleged sexual contacts, said he wasn't even thinking of the lucrative All fight.

"I've got lots of things to look after before then," he said. "I put my pants on, one leg at a time."

There is no provision in the Video Techniques contract for a Norton-All fight, in the event of a Norton win tonight.

Individual titles clinched in ABA

NEW YORK (UPI) — Five individual titles, including the scoring crown, were virtually clinched in the American Basketball Association Monday but three others remained up for grabs in the closing games of the regular season.

Julius Erving, the versatile "Doctor J" of the New York Nets, had the scoring championship wrapped up, both on total and average, with 2,856 points in 83 games, an average of 34.4 points per game.

Also assured of championships were Artis Gilmore of Kentucky in rebounding with 18.4 per game, Al Smith of Denver in assist with 8.2, Caldwell Jones of San Diego in blocked shots with 3.0, and Ted McCain of Carolina in steals with 2.5.

However, all of the shooting accuracy titles were hanging in the balance.

Sven Nater of the San Antonio Spurs clung to the shooting title on two-point field goals with a .564 marksmanship average, followed by James Jones of Utah with .549. Jones had led the category for several weeks.

In three-point field goals, Louie Dampier of Kentucky has a .387 mark to 376 for Billy Keller of Indiana.

Trailing Erving in scoring were the only two players in the league over the 2,000 point mark—George McGinnis of Indiana with a 2,028 points and a .26.0 average and Dan Issel of Kentucky with 2,058 and 25.7.

McGinnis also is second in rebounds with 15.08 per game, followed by Caldwell Jones with 13.78.

McGuire picked as top coach

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — The National Association of Basketball Coaches has honored Marquette's Al McGuire as the 1973-74 National Coach of the Year.

McGuire was named University Coach of the Year while Thomas won the College Division award.

Thomas' club went 21-9 this year and was runner-up to Morgan State in the NCAA Division-II Tournament. Marquette played North Carolina State Monday night for the national championship.

The genuinely delighted McGuire said Monday in accepting the award, "This is the most important coach's award to me because it's chosen by your peers."

Thomas has been at South

Releasing ballplayers is tough assignment for most managers

NEW YORK (UPI) — This always is the worst part of the job.

A manager, any manager, all managers have no real book or guide they can go to when the time comes to release a ballplayer. There is no prescribed right or wrong to do it, but all managers learn how quickly.

After a manager cuts loose his first player, he automatically becomes a veteran at the procedure.

Bobby Matthews is beginning his second full season as manager of the Atlanta Braves and he remembers the first player he ever had to let go. It was Denny McLain, who was with Atlanta on a look last spring, and when spring training finished a year ago Matthews simply told McLain, "Thanks, he was all through looking."

"Ten minutes or so later," he says, "I didn't mean anything, I just said to Eddie Mathews, who understood completely and wasn't really looking for an apology, 'I was shocked and pleased you let him go.'"

The two men conversed for a while.

Eddie Mathews went over some things he had tried to tell Ron Swoboda before, things like how the Braves and how an opportunity had to be given them; things like how a ball club had to pay a player for two months if it kept him even one day after March 25th; Ron Swoboda listened sympathetically, and said he knew.

"This is Eddie Mathews' 18th year in the big leagues. He has seen a lot of players sent back down to the minors and released outright. He used to see other managers do the job, but as a manager himself now, he has to do it himself. I can't check up on it, yet it's part of the job."

"I try to be fair and honest," he says. "I've got ballplayers to evaluate and I'm going to do it the way the kids were told. I say I always do the right thing, I try, though."

It would be absolutely incorrect to say Mathews did not feel something when he let Ron Swoboda go. Monday, it did feel something. It bothered him to an extent, and why would there not be some hurt.

"I'm a human, you know, I'm going to let a kid go, it's going to hurt," Eddie Mathews says. "You let a ballplayer go, and always does something to you. It's not a pleasant task."

Youth upsets Stan Smith

ATLANTA (UPI) — Christopher (Buster) Motra upset second-seeded Stan Smith 6-2, 6-1 Monday night in the $50,000, three-set tennis classic.

Motra, only 18, never let America's co-ranked No. 1 player into Atlanta. His pinpoint-voiced backhand and service kept Smith off balance all evening.

The WCT Blue group saw an earlier upset when fourth-seeded Paul Ramirez of Mexico City beat the 20-year-old Filip Moore 6-2, 6-3.

"I was playing well and Smith was just off," said Motra, of Great Britain. "I guess I was just lucky."

Motra was relaxed and smiling while Smith appeared tense after the match. "I haven't been playing well, I'm not serving well and I'm not moving well," said Motra.

Motra jumped off to a quick 5-1 lead before Smith could get untracked and then served out the first set. Smith made some comeback motions in the second half, but Motra finally put it away on his fourth match point.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MARCH 27, 1974

GENERAL TRENDS: I try to... build up your savings account.

Extravagance of any kind of material irresponsibility, or chance taking could lead to unfortunate events.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle a matter intelligently instead of just trying to buy your way out of it. Try to have more than one bank account. Don't put all eggs in one basket.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you are tactless in telling another what to do, you could lose a valuable friend. Give any physical problem immediate attention.

MEANWHILE (June 22 to July 21) Do important work. Be sure you're on for advice is not in good form today. Put aside any nonsense of social fun and do what is wise in it.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Watch temper with vigor, or you can lose out. Work harder at your career and solve that problem cleverly.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sep. 21) You want to run off to some new place or situation. This would only bring you trouble, so stick to the tried and true.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) Although you think you are being overcharged, don't argue about it, or you get into trouble. Show more concern for romantic life.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) It won't do any good to try to change the likes of a stubborn associate now. Study position first, then take the right steps.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to lambast a co-worker, but this would only make things worse. Get at the bottom of the matter instead.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 31) Enjoy recreation now, but don't overstep. Get rid of depression and these good times will come to you again.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 31 to Feb. 29) Make sure you do not say things alone that can start an argument or you will regret later. Be kind and gentle.

PISCES (Feb. 30 to Mar. 31) Much tension is prevalent today, an almost any sphere of your efforts, so be the peacemaker and avoid accidents and the like by minding details.

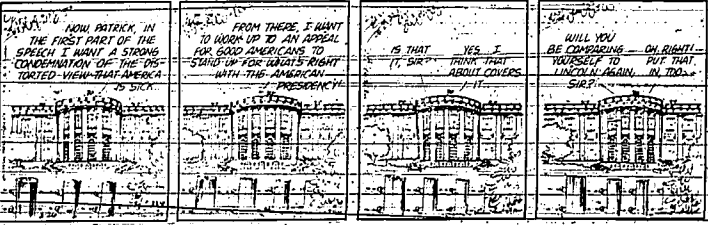

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be... with others who are human beings, too, and that diplomacy and tact are prime requisites for success.

Where does 'good provider' rank on that list of the most important qualities a husband? Pollsters put that query to married women and single gals. Exactly 42 per cent of the voted list No. 1. Only 28 per cent of the unmarried women put it No. 1. Our Love and War man says this suggests too few single girls realize the importance of the future husband's earning power.

All porcupines flourish in the case of Siamese twins, one is right-handed, the other, left-handed, always. Or so a doctor tells me.

Reports Chet E. Swire: "Did you know that both chili con carne and hot tamales are not Mexican dishes? Both were created in southern Texas?"

Coldest Day: White and when was the coldest day in the nation last year? A Tok Junction, Alaska, on January 17, at 68 degrees F. below zero. Coldest day in the lower Forty Eight was at Tower, Minn. on Jan. 8, at 46 degrees F. below zero. Hawaii did not compete.

Young lady, how long does it take you to make a bed? A woman a page editor clocked herself at one minute 58 seconds.

Dr. Henry Kissinger has been described as a man who never forgets a lady's birthday and never remembers her age.

The medical boys contend emotions, not the heat of the day, account for most hypertension.

Hardback: Clearly, no wife should let her husband go fishing without a schedule of that outdoorsman's grub known as hardback. What you don't know the recipe? Nothing to it. Take a cup of flour, a half teaspoon of salt, a teaspoon of sugar, and mix it all up. Pour in just enough water to get it moist. Roll out the mass until it is thinner than pizza dough. Cut it into small squares. Pull it on a greased cookie sheet. And bake the unchewy wafer, consistent for about 15 minutes in a 400-degree oven.

It is the toe, it is called a "bumon." In the knee, "housemaid's knee." In the elbow, "legion elbow." But why is there no name for the wrist? It occurs most commonly in the shoulder, 27.2% of the time.

Actor explains role he'd like to play

By E. G. MARSHALL
If I hadn't been an actor, I might well have been a preacher.

Growing up in Minnesota, I was a chorboy in our Episcopal church, and I loved it. I loved the music, the atmosphere, the liturgy, everything. I was so interested in the church that our pastor decided I belonged there and urged me to become a minister.

In less trying times I might have taken his advice. But in those days the dead hand of the Depression was heavy on the land. Dignity school meant more time and more expense and no guarantee of employment. Somebody offered me a job in a radio station, singing and playing the guitar, and that was my introduction to show business.

But I always had a desire to communicate with people myself. That soon found me in a theatrical school, but an enthusiastic young Shakespearean actor, touring the country under the auspices of the Federal Theater.

Today's youngsters think they invented love. They've patched clothing and communal living, but believe me, they didn't. We had to share everything.

I remember one fellow in our company who was a poet, and without pay in a grocery store, just so he could bring back some spoiled fruit and override tomatoes to the rest of us.

Our clothes were patched because otherwise we'd have been arrested. We couldn't afford the wig we needed for our Shakespearean roles, so we let our hair grow down to our shoulders. I can still hear the jeers and laughter that used to follow us down the street.

But a few hardships when you're getting started are good. Let our hair grow down to our shoulders, and the theater was kind to me, and then came television.

So I never became a minister, but my early interest in religion laid the moral foundations of my life. I still think the solution to the world's problems lies in Christ's commandment to love one another.

"I still read the Bible, because reading it can bring peace or instructions or inspiration, or whatever wisdom you need at any given moment. I know that people don't read the Bible as much as they used to, but it's their loss."

Let a young lover try reading the Song of Solomon aloud to his girl. Let a politician take time out to read the epistles of St. Paul. He'll see what I mean. So I read the Bible aloud to our three children—all of whom, incidentally, have biblical names. I try to teach them to live by the Golden Rule.

This, I must say, isn't always so easy. I remember one time when two of them were swinging in a swing. Samuel had possession; Sarah wanted a turn.

"Come on, now," I said to Samuel, "remember the Golden Rule." Sarah remembered it. "I said Samuel happily. "If Sarah would just do unto me as she wants me to do unto her, she'd let me have the swing."

Will this early religious training stay with my children? I think so. It stayed with me. Maybe it will reveal itself in different ways, but that's all right. The basic principles won't change.

The other day I was with some friends my own age who were complaining about today's youngsters. They said they couldn't understand their life-style and their attitudes. They said a lot of them would never amount to anything because they weren't interested in making money or getting ahead.

But you know, I think perhaps these youngsters are wiser than we are. They're somewhat lazy, to be sure, but most people is the best of all preparations for getting along in life ("new commandment I give you"). They know that religion has the answers to the meaning of life where science and technology do not. They're not so much interested in controlling or dominating nature as in getting back into harmony with nature.

They're looking for Christ and trying to find His attributes—love, forgiveness, kindness, compassion, self-sacrifice—in themselves. They may not ever make much money, but they may be far richer than their critics will ever be.

Not long ago one of these young people said earnestly to me, "If God is good, then good is God—so when you struggle to incorporate the good and diminish the evil in the world, then you're believing in God and working with Him as matter what your formal creed may be."

I told him that I thought so, too. For four years, in The Defenders, I played the role of a lawyer, Lawrence Preston. In "The Bold Ones," I am a doctor, David Craig. Someday I would like to find myself playing the part of a minister in a television series, a minister who becomes involved with these young people, who shares their lives and their problems and who, in the process, reaffirms and reestablishes his own relationship to God.

I don't know whether I'll ever find the writers or the producers to help me turn this dream into a reality. But I know that if I ever do, I'll feel, somehow, as if I've come home.

Thief in danger?

DETROIT (UPI)—Harvey, a German shepherd guard dog that bit every one of the 368 suspects he helped capture last year, has been stolen, his handler Arthur Jackson said Sunday.

Jackson, a Detroit schools safety officer said he fears the thief may be in some danger. The dog was stolen from Jackson's patrol car Saturday.

The guard dog helped capture 368 school prowlers last year and bit everyone because the suspects tried to run instead of surrendering.

Embargo threatened

PRINCE GEORGE, Saudi Arabia has informed Syria that it will impose the embargo on oil supplies to the United States if there is a slowdown in American efforts to achieve a Middle East settlement, the Beirut newspaper Al Bayraq said today.

The paper said the message was contained in a pledge from Saudi King Faisal to President Hafez Assad of Syria. Omar Sakka, the Saudi Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, delivered the message to Assad in Damascus Sunday.

Attributing its information to informed sources, Al Bayraq said the Saudi message proposed that forthcoming indirect talks on troop disengagement between Israeli and Syrian representatives in Washington should "be a test of American intentions."
