Golan fighting escalates

By United Press International

Syria said it threw tanks into the Golan Heights fighting today and Israeli forces moved up to guard against any surprise attack this weekend on Passover — which falls six months to the day from the start of the Yom Kippur war last fall.

"Our tanks are clashing with enemy tanks in assembly areas in separate places of the front," a Syrian communique said, describing the 22nd straight day of fighting in the disputed Heights between the two countries.

It was the first time since the start of the present clashes that a Syrian communique mentioned direct exchanges of fire between Syrian and Israeli tanks.

Israel said Syrian guns blasted at its positions and civilian areas of the Heights front, bringing a response from Israeli batteries. Newspaper reports said Syria is concentrating its forces in attack formation for a possible offensive.

Syria is regrouping its artillery, armor and infantry to "concentrate them in attack formations, the newspaper Ma'ariv said.

The Syrians are also executing a series of concrete actions indicating preparations for an offensive, military operation in greater scale than the recent harassment.

The Israeli national radio said forward artillery spotters have noticed unusual movement behind Syrian lines. Israeli reinforcements have been called in to bolster defenses, it said.

The newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth said Israeli forces declared their very highest state of alert Monday because the present structure of the Syrian lines enables them to go over to an immediate offensive.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, the Senate GOP Whip, said lack of action on the energy package was the "worst scandal of all."

House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona said the problem discussion focused particularly on the gasoline

Bradley dedicates library

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley, the nation's only living five-star general, dedicated a library in his honor at the US Military Academy today.

The library includes Bradley's correspondence and diary when he served as commander of the 12th US Army Group at the end of World War II as head of the Veterans Administration, and first chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Brother tells courier role

NEW YORK (UPI) — F. Donald Nixon testified today that a lawyer for financier Robert L. Vesco tried to use him in 1972 to warn his brother, President Nixon, that Vesco's secret $200,000 campaign contribution might be exposed.

(Early Story, p. 6)

The bluff, portly 59-year-old government witness at the Mitchell-Stans conspiracy trial told a federal court jury he turned down flatly the request of New York attorney Howard Cerny, whom Nixon described as "an old friend."

Attorney's trial delayed

HOUSTON (UPI) — Trial of attorney Percy Foreman on a drunken driving charge has been rescheduled for May 6 by County Criminal Judge Nell McKay.

He agreed to the delay because Foreman is litigating a federal court case. Foreman was arrested on the charge Dec. 31 following a collision with another car on a freeway north of Houston.

Gem college harm rapped

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's colleges and universities are going to suffer from legislative reduction in his proposed budgets for them, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told a news conference today.

Andrus said this and failure to enact land use planning legislation were the two biggest disappointments he found in the session.

Tax probe completion near

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional committee expects to wind up work Wednesday on an investigation into President Nixon's income taxes which Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., said could cause the President to resign.

A spokesman for the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation said the committee will meet in private Wednesday morning to hear final staff recommendations and is expected to approve the report in the early afternoon. A news conference was scheduled afterwards to discuss the findings.

Hope quits Oscar MC job

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian Bob Hope has withdrawn as emcee of part of tonight's Oscar awards because of automotive firm sponsorship.

Part of the show is sponsored by Chevrolet. Hope's sponsor in recent special appearances has been Ford. "If my regular sponsor caught me snuggling up to the other car, I'd be right in the soup lines," Hope cracked. He is a millionaire.

Vote return delay OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted Monday to bar the public release of presidential election returns until midnight Eastern Standard Time.

The measure, an amendment to the Election Campaign Reform Bill which would provide federal subsidies for presidential and congressional elections, is aimed at preventing news of early Eastern returns from swaying results in states to the West, where polls close later due to the time difference.

Cambodian battles raging

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian government and Communist troops battled today near the old royal capital of Oudong, the high command said. The government has launched a counter-offensive to recapture Oudong town from the insurgents.

The government counteroffensive was led by an estimated 2,500 troops from the 80th and 28th Infantry Brigades in addition to armored personnel carriers and heavy air and artillery strikes, the command said. A navy unit established a beachhead nearby at Kompong Luong to move supplies to the Oudong battleground.

Liner adrift

MAJESTIC liner Queen Elizabeth 41 floated helplessly 280 miles southwest of Bermuda today after all three boilers failed Monday. Most of the 1,600 passengers aboard are Americans. Cunard Line spokesmen said the ship is in no danger of sinking, and expressed hope emergency repairs would enable it to reach Bermuda Wednesday. (UPI)

China trade aid sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Tuesday he will introduce legislation granting China "most favored nation trade status. He said it would build on President Nixon's "outstanding achievement" of restoring relations with China.

Granting China such status would put it on equal tariff footing with all of America's trading partners in the West.

"It is time, I believe, to grant most favored-nation treatment to the People's Republic of China (PRC) and to do so on a single-country basis," Mansfield said in a Senate speech.

"It would be good policy and good sense for this country to follow up on President Nixon's initiative in opening up and normalizing our relations with China by going one step further, by bringing into existence a most-favored-nation treaty between our two countries," he said.

"I advocate such a move. I will support such a move and, in doing so, I think it will establish a policy which will rebound to the benefit of both nations."

Mansfield, who has made several visits to China, advocated such a move in a March 15 speech at Johns Hopkins University. Tuesday, however, he said he would introduce a bill "in the next several days" to accomplish the goal.

3 incumbents retain posts

BELLEVUE — Three incumbents were returned to office in a light voter turnout for the annual Bellevue City election Monday.

Seventy out of a total 180 registered voters cast ballots.

In unofficial returns, incumbent Mayor L. T. (Pete) Johnson, who ran unopposed for a second one-year term, was elected with 64 votes.

For the three open two-year aldermen posts, incumbents Duke Martin and George McKay received 61 and 57 votes respectively and Michael McGraw won a post with 45 votes. Richard Beckman received 39 votes.

The newly elected officials will be sworn in to office May 6.

European mart unity shattered

(C) Chicago Daily News

PARIS — Western Europe fell apart today in bitter reaction to Britain's new demands to revise Common Market rules on food prices, budget and money policy.

French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert called the new British proposals "very largely unacceptable." The prospect of a war of vetoes loomed.

West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel said Britain cannot expect "special" handling.

Hans Apel, Scheel's deputy, called the Deadlock a "crisis."

The new Labor government foreign secretary, James Callaghan, challenged the nine-nation European community at Luxembourg Monday.

Callaghan wasn't surprised at the Jobert turndown. "I didn't come here expecting him to cast rose petals in my path," Callaghan said.

"We certainly hope for our part that Britain stays in the community, but this requires that it intends to respect the rules," Jobert said.

British-French co-operation under ousted conservative Prime Minister Edward Heath brought Britain into the market in January, 1974. The two countries also launched political co-operation efforts in the middle east.

Now they are splitting on key issues. London reportedly is ready to pull out of the $2.5 billion British-French supersonic Concorde jet transport. No outsiders have bought the plane.

British demands for cheaper food policies would shift the cost of subsidies paid to French farmers back to Paris. Now they are shared with West Germany and other market nations.

Store holdup nets man $85

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls police are searching for a lone gunman who held up a local grocery store about midnight Monday.

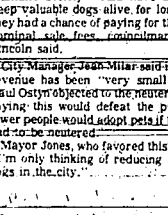
Chief of detectives Jim Qualls said a white male entered the 7-11 grocery store at Filer Avenue and Washington Street North and robbed the store attendant of about $85.

The robber displayed a handgun, Qualls said. He said it was not known if the male clerk was alone in the store at the time of the robbery.

He said the robber took about $65 in paper currency and $20 in coins.

Qualls said he had no information on whether the robber was accompanied by someone outside the store or alone. "All we know is he walked in the front door and left through the front door," Qualls said.

No one was injured in the robbery.



New TF dog license fee schedule wins approval

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls city councilmen have raised the price of city dog licenses.

Under a new fee schedule approved Monday night, licenses for neutered dogs would be $3, an increase of a dollar.

Fees for unneutered dogs would rise from current levels of $5 and $6 to $10 a year.

The ordinance also provided for neutering of all dogs adopted from the city pound by city residents.

Mayor Winston Jones objected strongly to a provision to allow the Humane Society to assume full responsibility of dogs kept beyond the required 72-hour period.

The new regulations allow the Society to keep animals for any length of time if they appear to be of value and to find homes for them or sell them. The society would pay the cost of keeping them but also receiving the sale price if they can be sold.

Mayor Jones said the former contractor was required to give such sale money to the city and he felt this would be fair for the Humane Society as well.

Other council members argued one of the complaints about the previous pound contract was the short lives of dogs taken there. The Humane Society would have an incentive to keep valuable dogs alive for longer periods if they had a chance of paying for the cost through nominal sale fees, councilman Dr. Stephan Lincoln said.

City Manager Jean Milar said in the past such revenue has been "very small." Councilman Paul Ostyn objected to the neutering regulation, saying this would defeat the purpose in that fewer people would adopt pets if they knew they had to be neutered.

Mayor Jones, who favored this measure, said "I'm only thinking of reducing the number of dogs in the city."

Vote backs 2-lane road

KETCHUM — Initial straw ballot returns show Ketchum residents favor a widened and straightened two-lane highway through Wood River Valley.

Mayor William Brand reported the ballot results after a City Council meeting Monday night. Brand and the council had earlier asked newspapers to publish the questionnaires to gauge residents' opinions on proposals for US Highway 93 and State Highway 75.

The straw ballot results will be used in formulating a city position on the proposals.

On the question about the various highway proposals, 7 residents voted in favor of a four-lane highway; 63 were in favor of a widened, straightened two-lane, and 18 favored no change in the present highway.

The following results were received on the question that, if a four-lane highway is constructed, which routing is preferred through Ketchum, on Main Street, 29 votes; on Third Avenue, five; along the railroad tracks, 18, and on a one-way couplet on Second and Third Avenues, 16.

Four residents were in favor and 85 were opposed to widening Sun Valley Road to four lanes.

On the question that, if Sun Valley Road was widened to four lanes, whether a one-way couplet along Second and Third Streets is preferred, 23 residents voted yes and 19 voted no.

Filer property rezoning wins TF council nod

TWIN FALLS — Overruling their zoning advisers, city councilmen Monday approved a request for commercial zoning on Filer Avenue East.

The Twin Falls council approved a change from residential professional to commercial local on property in the Elmwood Subdivision owned by Mr. and Mrs. Duard Lawley.

In rezoning the property, the council approved plans for an appliance and television business on the property. It is located on Filer Avenue directly across the street from the Lynwood Shopping Center and council members felt the commercial zone would not degrade other property on Filer Avenue.

A church is located adjacent and council members said the church may ask for commercial local zoning on its property.

The planning and zoning board had recommended denial of the zone change.

Several members of the zoning board had said residential-professional zoning at the site was an excellent buffer between dense commercial development on the north and west and residential uses on the east. Rezoning the area to allow business might encourage further strip commercialism eastward along Filer Avenue East, they said.

An application by Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Jowsbury for conditional use on their property in a residential local zone to allow a wedding reception catering business was discussed and action delayed.

Mrs. Jowsbury was asked to prepare an agreement including conditional uses her neighbors might wish to require, have them sign it, and return it to the city before action is taken.

She plans two small storage buildings on the back of her lot for storing wedding reception decorations and similar items. She said persons would be contacting her at her home for reception planning, but no receptions.

A request from W. Roy Brown for a zoning variance on property near North Five Points and facing on Addison Avenue, was held for later action.

The variance request involves required parking space and building setbacks. City Council members will ask the planning and zoning board to take another look at a new parking lot design.

The council approved zoning and annexation ordinance, following the recommendations of the planning board.

An ordinance annexing the property at the end of Fillmore Street and Polk Street and owned by Our Savior Lutheran Church as low-density residential zone was approved under suspension of the rules and on third and final reading. The church had asked for annexation as a medium density residential zone.

Hearst sisters write letters

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — In a desperate bid to make contact with kidnaped Patricia Hearst, letters from her sisters are to be published in the San Francisco Examiner.

The first open letter in the newspaper, of which Randolph A. Hearst, father of Patricia, is president and editor was to be published today. Vicki Hearst, 17, was to write it. A second letter from another sister, Ann, 18, was to be published Wednesday.

Patricia was kidnaped from an apartment near the University of California at Berkeley where she is enrolled as a student on Feb. 4 by the Symbionese Liberation Army. The Hearsts have no idea where their daughter is being held, or whether she is still alive.

In attempts to communicate with Patricia, both her parents, and her fiance, Steven Weed, have made radio and television appeals.

Because Hearst did not want to attract attention to his other children with television appearances, the letter writing was planned.

In the last word received by the family, on a tape recording delivered by the kidnapers March 9, Patricia said she wanted to hear from family members.

Meanwhile, charges and countercharges swirled around the just concluded $2 million food giveaway financed by Hearst to win his daughter's release.

A. Ludlow Kramer, the Washington secretary of state who headed the food program, said Monday the program was conducted in "a world of violence." The SLA-nominated coalition that oversaw it was more interested in power than in Patricia's safe return, he said.

Kramer's statement in Olympia, Wash., were prompted by the coalition's remarks in a Sunday night broadcast over a Berkeley radio station that the food program was uncoordinated and disorganized.

Without taking issue with Kramer, Hearst late Monday publicly thanked "each and every member of the coalition for their contribution to the food distribution program."

Hearst said, "They did their best to see the directions of the SLA were carried out and even went beyond their explicit instructions by loading trucks and calming people who, through no fault of the coalition, had to wait in line in some cases for hours because trucks were late.

"Things did not always run smoothly, and there were times when the coalition could have walked away from the whole effort. They did not, and to all of them I say thank you and express my gratitude and the gratitude of the members of my family."

Kramer said, "The coalition said from the beginning that getting Patty back was not their concern. I think their total interest was that of building whatever areas of power they could from the food program."

The coalition included representatives of blacks, welfare recipients and American Indians.

Negotiations under way

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — The deputy governor of the Ethiopian port of Massawa led four men into the bush to negotiate the release of five North Americans held by guerrillas, an oil company official said today.

Ed P. Burtchaell, project manager of Tenneco Ethiopia which employed the five men, said he had not yet heard from the negotiating party.

"We've got our fingers crossed but we have nothing new to report," said Burtchaell, in charge of company negotiations for their release. "I go from the depths of despair to very high hopes."

TF businessman receives award

TWIN FALLS — James A. Sinclair, Twin Falls businessman, was presented with the "Others Award" by the Salvation Army Monday night.

The award, presented at the annual army banquet, was given to Sinclair, president of First Federal Savings, for his service to others in the community.

Capt. Dale O. Vilen, Twin Falls, mentioned a few of Sinclair's activities in the presentation, including service as United Fund president, 1973; United Fund campaign chairman, 1971; vice president of the chamber of commerce; chairman of the Concerned Citizens Committee in the hospital bond election, 1971; and a yearly contributer to Boys and Girls State and the American Legion.

The formal installation of new advisory board members was made by Capt. Kenneth Angel, Boise. New members include Rev. Jim Hughes, Rev. Ray Jones, Roy Roper, Morris Roth and Bob Peterson, all Twin Falls.

Advisory board officers for this year are Jack Muldoon, chairman; Rev. Eugene Tjarks, vice chairman, and Mrs. Marjorie Hoops, secretary, all serving second terms, and Ernest Burby, treasurer, serving his first term.

A plaque of appreciation was presented to television station KMVT for its many public service announcements during the year. Buzz Langdon, assistant station manager, accepted the award.

Entertainment was provided by Diana Hopperstad Roan who sang a collection of country and western songs, accompanying herself on the guitar.

Rev. Herb Morris, First United Methodist Church, gave the dinner speech. Rev. Morris talked about the experiences he had when he and another minister went to the Bowery in New York City dressed as bums.

The venture into the life of a bum was chronicled by Life Magazine 20 years ago, and Rev. Morris showed photos taken as he tramped the streets with no money except for a dime for emergencies tucked into his sock.

"The church has to be looking down," Rev. Morris said, adding that it must care about people who have nothing.

Rev. Morris ended the talk with a moment of seriousness. "All the people who are down there (the Bowery) come from somewhere else ... The Boises, the Twin Falls. They're drifting ... In their own home town, they got in trouble, nobody accepted them, nobody loved them. Finally they gravitate to a place where instead of freedom, they have security."

"I think sometimes the whole nation is drifting to a place where everybody minds their own business, where no one is concerned," Rev. Morris said.

The annual report was presented by Capt. Dale O. Vilen. Income included $11,298.68 from contributions; $5,905.41 from operating income; $8,680 from the Thrift Store profit; $13,824.30 from the United Fund, plus a balance of $3.01 for a total of $39,711.60.

Expenses also totaled $39,711.60, with allowance and wages set at $11,330.52; building and equipment maintenance, $3,800.42; communications and transportation, $5,340.12; services and activities, $19,240.29, plus a balance of 25 cents on hand.

The Thrift Store income was $48,692.55, with expenses totaling $40,075.04. With a balance of $70.87, a total of $8,680 was made.

Officials call Chapin 'overseer'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government prosecutors said today Dwight L. Chapin was the overseer of Donald Segretti's "dirty tricks" campaign against "a particular target" among Democratic presidential candidates in 1972, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

Chief prosecutor Richard Davis made the statement in opening arguments at the perjury trial of Chapin, President Nixon's former appointments secretary.

Chapin was charged with four counts of lying to a grand jury about his knowledge of Segretti's activities among Democratic presidential candidates.

After the jury of seven men and five women was sworn in on the second day of the trial, Davis quoted in his opening remarks from a memo he said Chapin had sent Segretti during the 1972 presidential campaign.

"Don, we really missed the boat on this. The press will want to prove E.M. can keep his temper."

Davis also said Segretti had attacked in a truly ugly and unforgivable manner" Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., in a false letter forged on the stationery of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., another presidential hopeful.

After Davis's statements, chief defense attorney Jacob Stein told the jury that Chapin had nothing to do with Segretti's activities, although "there were crimes committed within the context that Mr. Davis told you about."

Stein said Segretti performed his actions through other people in the White House.

SAIGON (UPI) — Approximately 300 Americans have disappeared into Communist-held parts of Laos in the last 10 years of war there. Only one is known to be alive.

Now that Laos is on the verge of forming a coalition government of neutralists and Communists, there are some hopes that the Communists will provide information on some of the approximately 300 Americans still missing in Laos. But U.S. officials believe there is little chance that more than a handful could be alive.

Most of the Americans still listed as missing were airmen who went down over the Ho Chi Minh supply trail in southern Laos or who disappeared over battlefields in the mountains of northern Laos.

Some of the missing are ground troops, many of them U.S. Army Green Berets lost on clandestine forays into the Ho Chi Minh trail area from bases in South Vietnam.

A steady stream of wives and mothers of missing men has come to Vientiane in recent years in an attempt to learn what happened to them.

No joke!

WATERLOO, Iowa (UPI) — a Waterloo man who had a billboard put up professing his love for his wife, said today that even though it went up on April Fools Day, "it's not a joke."

Bruce Wood, who is separated from his wife of five years, Barbara, said he had the 12-by-25-foot billboard put up with the message "Barbara, I Love You" in hopes of saving his marriage.

Barbara filed for divorce after the couple separated a month ago. Wood concedes the breakup probably was his fault but he says now she won't talk to me. That led to the billboard.

When Wood decided on a location for his billboard he found that all of the billboards on the street were booked. However, Waterloo Implement and Recreation Center, Inc., agreed to relinquish its sign temporarily.

"If it'll save a marriage we're glad to do it," said Harry Olson, owner of the implement firm.

Zoning change clears

A number of property owners in the area attended the council meeting and protested a medium residential zone in their locality.

Church representatives said if Caswell Avenue is extended through the area homes facing on Caswell would also face the backyards of present homes on Grant Avenue, an undesirable factor for first class residential homes.

Carl Freeman, realtor, said the church has had no success in selling the land over a period of time because it was offered for low density residential development.

The church has a buyer which would develop it into duplex and apartment type buildings requiring medium density zoning, he said. He argued there is a need for such housing in the area which is close to the college and Harrison School.

The Tempe store commercial property borders it on the north and Harbor House is located on part of the property donated by the church at the end of Fillmore Street. Owners told the council they would prefer annexation as low density zoning to no annexation at this time.

Another annexation ordinance was approved for land at the extreme southeast corner of the city in the Highland View Tract. It was annexed as industrial zoned property to coincide with other existing zones in that area.

City Manager Jean Milar said no proposed use of the land has been announced but it is rumored for a mobile home park. Council members said such development is automatically authorized in an industrial zone.

A preliminary plat for the proposed Casa Grande Estates Subdivision on Shoup Avenue in the vicinity of Carney Street was approved. Multi-family residential buildings are proposed in the subdivision.

FILER — Four senior members of the Filer Grange were guests of honor at a special dinner Friday evening in the Filer Grange Hall.

The four are Mrs. Elva Ritchie, 93; Mrs. Jannie Peck, 91; Mrs. Margaret Englebright, 80, and Mrs. Della Coates, 88. They have belonged to the Filer Grange for more than 37 years and are still members. The four have served a total of 175 years in the Grange.

A decorated birthday cake containing the names of the honorees was served at the end of the dinner.

Mrs. Peck was a former lecturer of the Grange and for many years was in charge of the flower booth at the Twin Falls County Fair.

Mrs. Englebright joined the Filer Grange in 1927.

Mrs. Coates, besides being a Grange member, is a member of the Rebekah Lodge.

Reservoir filling rapidly

SHOSHONE — Magic Reservoir is filling fast this week, according to Leon Grieve, manager at the Big Wood Canal office, Shoshone.

Monday morning the reservoir contained 145,584 acre feet of water, up 11,000 acre feet in three days.

If the water continues to rise this fast, Grieve said, the reservoir will be full in four more days.

He estimates some or most of this runoff is from the Camas Prairie area, and hopes are that a cooling off spell will cut down on runoff so water level can be controlled by opening the spillway.

Tuesday morning the gates were opened to allow 1,500 second feet to escape into the Wood River. It will wind through to the Snake River, Grieve said.

He said water along the Big Wood River channel has been diverted to move their livestock in event the water level of the river gets out of control and there is some flooding.

During the Monday morning, rainfall in the southern part of the area, Magic Reservoir and north received snow, but weather had not cooled off enough to actually slow down the runoff.

2 police officers resign jobs in TF

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls police officers have announced their resignations.

Judy Brooks, who has worked for the city for the past seven years and was a member of the police department staff for a year, will leave her position April 11.

She began work in the city clerk in the police court. Then she served several years as clerk and deputy police judge. Since the police court was discontinued in the formation of magistrate court, she continued to work with the city attorney to handle preparation of all criminal complaints for the city and to type and process crime reports for city officers.

About a year ago the position was changed from city office jurisdiction to police department jurisdiction.

Police Chief Frank Barnett said he regrets Mrs. Brooks' decision to leave the department but she is accepting a position with the state at a higher salary. She will be working with the Department of Environmental and Community Services.

Barnett said the other vacancy was left by the resignation of uniform officer Bill Reed. He is leaving to return to Hailey and a position on the police department there.

Reed has worked about four years for the Twin Falls department in two terms of employment. He worked one year in Hailey and then returned to Twin Falls. His resignation has already become effective and he is now in Hailey.

Newsprint supply short

CANBERRA (UPI) — A five-to-10 year world shortage of paper, particularly newsprint, was forecast Monday by a United Nations authority on [illegible]

P. Yakemiev, of the Food and Agricultural Organization's [illegible] forestry department, said the 1974-75 paper deficiency would be about 80 millions tons. The great deficiency would be in newsprint, because its manufacture was less profitable and supplies of lumber for newsprint were short, Yakemiev said.

Mistake on Filer Avenue

The Twin Falls City Council made a poor decision Monday night when it approved a rezoning request over the objection of the city's zoning commission.

The council's action would permit construction of an appliance store on Filer Avenue East.

Reportedly pushed by the "urgency" of the project, the council discounted the importance of halting strip commercialism along the city's arterial streets.

The city Planning and Zoning Commission had recommended that the request for rezoning from residential-professional to commercial be denied.

Most members of the zoning commission said the high-density residential designation was an excellent buffer between heavy commercial development on the west and north and low-density residential uses to the east.

The single rezoning was not catastrophic in itself, but it could encourage more requests for commercial development eastward along Filer Avenue East. And it will be tougher to turn down the next rezoning request because a precedent has been set with approval of the appliance store project.

The recently hired city-county planner, David Richey, has outlined the problems resulting from strip commercialism. It slows traffic, increases accidents, and reduces aesthetic values.

The increased traffic spawned by the stores also boosts taxes when streets must be widened to permit normal transportation flow.

The City Council should weigh rezoning decisions very carefully, especially during the two-year period required for completion of a land use plan for the city.

The land use plan, and a transportation study currently underway, should provide a sound basis for all future development.

Kissinger knows when to pull up

(c) N. Y. Times Service

WASHINGTON — Henry Kissinger is back from Moscow without the agreement he sought on the control of strategic arms, but at least he avoided an open break with the Soviet leaders and preserved the possibility of a Nixon visit to the Kremlin this summer.

This is not much but it is better than adding one more problem to his already strained relations with Europe and Japan.

Nevertheless, it is obvious the pace of American diplomacy is slowing down in the USSR, China, Europe and the Middle East, partly because the issues are critical and partly because of domestic political considerations in all the major capitals.

President Nixon's problems at home are never mentioned officially in any of the forums were military, economic, financial or trade questions are being discussed.

JAMES RESTON

It is denied here, of course, that the President's political difficulties at home are influencing in any way his conduct of foreign policy. Kissinger is especially resentful of any such suggestion, but others here are not so sure.

For a time, some observers in Washington felt an enfeebled Nixon administration might be so eager for diplomatic successes abroad that it might take undue risks for short-run political gains that would turn out to be harmful or even dangerous later on.

In fairness, it is hard to find evidence to support this charge. It amounts to suggesting that the President would put his own personal security ahead of the nation's, and while things are bad, they are not that bad.

Nevertheless, the atmosphere of suspicion remains here, and now this thesis is being reversed. For the last line of defense for Nixon in the impeachment process lies with the conservatives in the Senate, who are not enthusiastic about the policy of detente, and certainly not eager for any chancy deals with the Soviet Union.

The interesting thing is that Brezhnev was apparently willing to play the waiting game too. He has his own military hawks who, like ours, are not happy with the arms talks or the bogus air of political chumminess.

Just as Nixon is blamed here by some conservatives for giving the Soviets too much wheat and too much advanced technology, so Brezhnev has his critics.

Nevertheless, Brezhnev has kept his opposition in control. It is important to him personally as he approaches his 70s that he negotiated the recognition of the eastern European borders and established a working arrangement with the United States, which he still hopes will produce the credits and trades and technology necessary to raise the standard of living as well as the prestige of the Soviet peoples.

In the present plight of the Nixon administration and the mood of America in an election year, Moscow is not likely to get the credits and trade it wants, nor is it likey to get the arms concessions it wants in the foreseeable future.

It is in Nixon's personal interest to coast for a while, and hang on to all the conservative support he can get. Thus, it would probably be a mistake to say that Kissinger did not make progress in Moscow.

He kept the talks going and calmed the fears of the conservatives without arousing the hostility of the Soviets or the Europeans, who hate deals between Washington and Moscow.

It is a time for waiting on both sides, and while motion is Kissinger's trademark, he also knows when to pull up.

Economics aid S. African blacks

JOHANNESBURG — This is not the ideal moment to interrogate John Vorster, the prime minister of the Republic of South Africa.

Because on April 24 there will be an election, and between now and April 24 Vorster, manifestly, does not desire to say the kind of thing that might upset his die-hard wing (I use this designation in preference to "his right wing").

If you were to say to Vorster, a big smile on your face, "Why, Mr. Prime Minister, relations in South Africa between the races have greatly improved in the last few years!" — he would probably feel he had to answer: "On? Have they?"

Because to admit that they have improved would suggest to the Bilbo-wing of the Nationalist Party that Vorster is making concessions to miscegenation which will end by destroying the purity of the white race.

What he has done, in fact, is to make — slowly, easily, sometimes unnoticeably — concessions in the direction of easing the awful Jim Crow that has been a part of the South African ideological ethos for over a generation. But it is the kind of progress it isn't good politics to report.

Alan Paton, whose sublime, poetic voice has filtered out of South Africa for 30 years, may be a poor politician, an abstractionist in search of utopia. But he has lately been writing pretty practical things. He says that what will bring relative freedom to the South Africa black is less the elaborate system of Bantustans (the separate black state), than the requirements of a highly industrialized society. These have put such a premium on skilled labor as to advance the technical training of the black South African, and his compensation on the marketplace.

Forget dreamy political reforms, says Paton, and concentrate instead on economic upward mobility. Therein the solution.

And Chief Mangope, an influential black leader, says much the same thing. "If a mutually acceptable formula for economic partnership is found, then it is distinctly possible to improvise, on that basis, acceptable solutions for the social and political needs in the emerging pattern of coexistence. Where economic partnership is not social and political spheres will be completely futile and useless."

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

It is, no doubt, under the influence of such analysis that American black leaders, like Roy Wilkins, have come out strongly against economic boycotts of South Africa, aware that these would hurt most the South African blacks, whose gradual economic vitalization is the key to political parity. It is a pity that these black leaders do not apply the same criteria in formulating a position on the advisability of boycotts against Rhodesia.

Meanwhile there are ugly features in South Africa life which do not relate to the race question. There is the institution by which the minister of justice can "ban" an individual i.e., confine him to his home, prevent him from writing, or being written to.

I asked the prime minister whether this was subject to appeal in the courts (which are a vigorous and thoroughly independent South Africa institution, like the press). He replied that a defendant has that right. I asked had it ever been exercised.

It turns out that in order to be successful, you have to prove to the court that the provisions of the law were arbitrarily or maliciously visited upon you. But in fact the law is itself so arbitrary, it is almost impossible arbitrarily to apply it.

I asked a government senator, "Do you have to prove that someone is a Communist in order to ban him?" Well, no. "You have to prove that what he says plays into the hands of the Communists." "Well," I said, "by that token you could theoretically find yourself banning Henry Kissinger." "That would be frivolous," he said, and of course I agreed, though I am not in a position to say that the law hasn't been used in South Africa to ban, frivolously, mere nuisances to the government.

For all of which I was repaid a day later by a telephone call from a reporter from a prominent South Africa newspaper, who asked me to expand on "the charges" I had made at Johannesburg that "Henry Kissinger is a Communist."

I told him, through the operator, to go jump in a lake, but I am not in a position to report on whether my recommendation on this, or on other matters, has been followed.

Nine months of DST?

Lewiston Morning Tribune

Have you heard any complaints lately about daylight saving time?

Two months ago, there were numerous complaints, especially in southwestern Idaho where the change in time was sending children to school in the dark.

Today, most of the complaints have dropped away.

One small reason is that opponents of winter daylight saving have had to recognize an accomplished fact. But the larger reason would seem to be the growing hours of daylight. The children are no longer going to school in the dark, so parents are no longer reminded of their prime objection to daylight saving.

The complaints and the pressure for congressional change are bound to resume next winter when the short hours of daylight once again become an inconvenience for some residents of some regions.

As the issue now stands, the choice has been drawn between daylight saving 12 months a year or daylight saving only six months a year.

A compromise is in order. It is only about three months of the year that daylight saving becomes much of an inconvenience in regions like southwestern Idaho, located on the western edge of a time zone. And it is only about nine months of the year that those who relish daylight saving receive its prime benefit — a chance at an hour more of outdoor activity after getting off work at night.

Rather than freeze the nation on year-around daylight saving for another winter, and rather than go all the way back to six months of daylight saving, why not nine months of daylight saving? Only the darkest winter days would be on regular time, thereby respecting the concerns of those who don't like daylight saving without taking much outdoor opportunity away from those who enjoy the time shifts.

Volpone holding office in Elysee

(C) New York Times Service

PARIS — It is almost four centuries since Ben Jonson wrote "Volpone or the Foxe" whose thesis is:

"Volpone, childless, rich, feigns sick, despairs, offers his state to hopes of several heirs, lies languishing; his parasite receives presents of all, assures, deludes; then weaves other cross plots, which ope themselves, are told. New tricks for safety are sought; they thrive: when bold, each tempts the other again, and all are sold."

The foxy hero of Jonson's play was a wealthy man who pretended fatal illness in order to see which of his friends would claim his estate. The fox in the Elysee, President Georges Pompidou of France, appears to gain wry amusement by watching the efforts of his principal lieutenants to assert themselves as his — and Gaullism's — political heir.

There is no doubt Pompidou has not been well for the last 18 months.

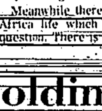
But despite the rumors, there is no compelling evidence his malady is as serious as rival politicians like to whisper.

The president continues to shoulder the heavy burden of office, and tiring journeys abroad (China last September, the Soviet Union this month). That schedule would be impossible for anyone as sick as his enemies or would-be successors pretend to think.

Pompidou has made plain by his latest maneuver he isn't yet ready to give the accolade to a personally nominated successor.

When Premier Messmer and his cabinet resigned (with a push from the Elysee), everyone waited to see who France's new No. 2 would be, assuming this would indicate the inheritor of the Gaullist apparatus.

But, presumably with a private chuckle, Pompidou promptly named Messmer to succeed Messmer. And one sure thing about the faithful premier, who is as loyal to Pompidou as he was to De Gaulle, is that he isn't going to be the next French president and doesn't aspire to that office.



C. L. SULZBERGER

The next election is scheduled in 1976. All last year there was gossip that Pompidou was on the verge of resignation. Messmer's reappointment has diminished the credibility of that kind of talk even if it appears improbable the president will run for re-election in two years.

The list of cabinet members or prominent politicians in the Gaullist coalition who would like to take charge after pompidou includes former premiers Chaban-Delmas and Faure, Finance Minister Giscard D'Estaing, Foreign Minister Jobert, and Planning Minister Guichard.

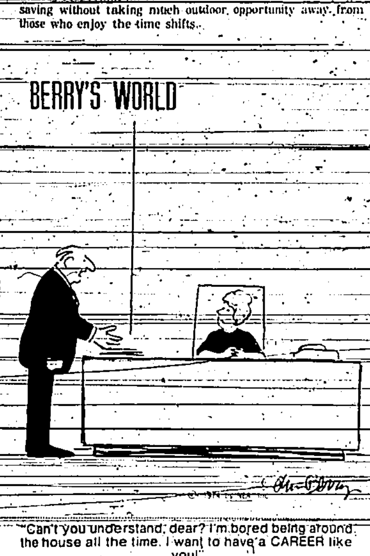
Giscard makes no secret of his ambition but he is a conservative independent, not an orthodox Gaullist, and is privately opposed by Chaban-Delmas and Guichard, who comprise a formidable alliance. He also is thought to have a kind of cold war with Jobert, whose political stock has climbed in opinion polls.

Obviously Pompidou doesn't feel it necessary, or yet desirable, to make a choice among these men. He prefers to keep them in an uneasy scramble.

Pompidou is playing a Volpone game. It is obvious he knows the name of each man who would like to be his heir and that he has no intention of prematurely satisfying such a claim. That was the meaning of the Messmer reappointment.

The president has one basic determination: he will do everything within his power to prevent Francois Mitterrand, Socialist chief and leader of the left-wing alliance with France's Communists, a man whom Pompidou distrusts and dislikes, from winning the next election and moving into the Elysee.

BERRY'S WORLD



"Can't you understand, dear? I'm bored being around the house all the time. I want to have a CAREER like you!"

Law abuse an offense

(C) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — If you take an oath to tell "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," and then you proceed to deceive your questioner with evasions, half-truths, and unresponsive answers — are you guilty of perjury?

The answer, according to the Supreme Court of the United States, is a ringing and unqualified "No." As long as you stick to the literal truth in your testimony, you are not a perjurer. (See, as they say in learned articles: Bronston V. U. S., 1973.)

Movie Mogul Samuel Bronston had a Swiss bank account in his own name for five years. When he went bankrupt, Bronston did not want to reveal his Swiss account to the lawyer for his creditors, so he threw the questioner off the scent in this manner:

"Q. Do you have any bank accounts in Swiss banks, Mr. Bronston?

"A. No, sir.

"Q. Have you ever?

"A. The company had an account there, for about six months, in Zurich.

"Q. Have you any nominees who have bank accounts in Swiss banks?

"A. No, sir.

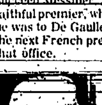
"Q. Have you ever?

"A. No, sir."

The wily producer was telling the literal truth, but surely not the whole truth.

Thrown off by the unresponsive answer, the questioner never did frame the question that would have trapped the witness: "Did you or did you not ever have an account in your name in a Swiss bank?"

A jury found Bronston intended to mislead his examiner, and convicted him of perjury; an appeals court upheld the conviction, interpreting prejury as "half of a truth which also constitutes a lie by negative implication;" but the Supreme Court, most decisively, reversed.



WILLIAM SAFIRE

"It may well be," wrote Chief Justice Burger for the unanimous court, "that petitioner's answers were not guileless but were shrewdly calculated to evade. But it is the responsibility of the lawyer to probe ... to bring the witness back to the mark, to flush out the whole truth with the tools of adversary examination."

A perceptive point, it casts some light on the catchall charge of perjury that has been used so often in the Watergate prosecutions.

Curiously, the present barrage of perjury indictments comes at a time when the Supreme Court is taking up the defense of witnesses as never before.

Why divert US taxes overseas?

Editor, Times-News:

I always read the Andrew Tully column in your paper. In the March 12 issue he protested the keeping of 200,000 troops in Asia and 40,000 in South Korea, all at the U.S. taxpayers' expense.

The final paragraph read: "If Washington's management of international politics has reached the point where we the people have to pay taxes to 'protect' Red China against the Soviet Union, the time has come to call a head shrinker."

We pay approximately ten times as much federal income as state income tax. Where it all is spent nobody knows.

Let's compare our position today with that of King Henry VIII of England, the Blue Beard king, who did more for England than any other monarch.

Henry's father, Henry VII, having won his crown on the field of battle, was a thrifty king and had amassed a huge fortune by foul or fair means. He sent his son to Europe for his education. He learned to speak four or five languages fluently and was a very popular playboy. He associated with some of the best minds in Europe. When Henry was 18 years old, he was forced to marry a Spanish princess, Catherine of Aragon. The Pope was all powerful at that time.

When he became King Henry VIII the first thing he did was to build the swellest court in all Europe, and his friends flocked to England, so it wasn't long before his money began to get scarce and he began to look around.

The Catholic Church had vast estates and collected 10 per cent from the English people, and Henry thought, "If I just had a set up like the Pope I'd be sitting pretty. Besides, why should the English people pay Rome such huge sums?" He was in love with Ann Boleyn and the Pope wouldn't grant him a divorce.

So he broke loose from the Catholic Church and started the Church of England with himself as the head. The Pope excommunicated him, sent him to hell and damnation, but that didn't worry him a bit. He married Anne Boleyn (the mother of Queen Elizabeth) and started reading in the Church in the English language.

This was the beginning of the British Empire. He is remembered mostly because he had three of his six wives beheaded and caused the wars in Ireland. The people there are still Roman Catholics.

I ask, "Why should we pay so much Income Tax to Washington, D. C. so the international government can send it overseas?"

MV legislators' credit vote hit

Editor, Times-News:

I think the most impressive trait of man is his tenacious hold on stupidity. Nationally, we are faced with the most pernicious illness of economics and find our lawmakers passing laws to increase that disease, inflation.

I refer to the rise in interest rates for bank credit cards, giving them the same rate as revolving charge accounts.

To strike a blow at inflation by lowering revolving charge account rates, thus equalizing the rates between the two credit forms they give the revolving credit an opening to try for higher rates since the bank cards charge both the buyer and the seller, a fact that seems to have been overlooked or disregarded by our lawmakers.

Only one of our legislators voted for the people in southern Idaho and against the inflation, E. V. McHan, Blaine County. The rest voted special interest.

Remembering the report made a year or so ago by a group investigating corruption in government that state government was even more corrupt than the national, together with the charge of illegal lobbying in the present session of our legislature, one must wonder if it cost the bankers much to secure so much sympathy from the lawmakers.

Party commends TF commissioners

Editor, Times-News:

The American Party of Idaho commends the actions of the Twin Falls County commissioners for their recent rejection of the proposal of two imported planning "specialists," who proposed placing Twin Falls County on a moratorium, restricting residential expansion.

The American Party finds disfavor with the present zoning.

It seems that many people have blurred vision from the pictures which have been painted depicting blight by those who are pushing to control our property. Many people are unaware that the federal government is withholding funds from states and communities which are not zoned and conforming to national land use plans. Why? One of the most basic rights of freedom is at stake. Whoever controls our land also controls us. It is impossible to enjoy the full right of real property without being free to determine the fullest and best use of it.

No tyrant has ever gained full power without first placing the land and its use under his control. No displeasure with one's neighbor can warrant a surrender of these sacred rights.

Whoever feels compelled to invoke governmental control over his neighbor today will face tyranny for himself tomorrow.

The problems pointed out with the "sprawl" by the planners include unsightly developments, contamination, and rural resident not paying for the services given them. This is total nonsense and not the real reason for the land planning controls.

Most sewer lines and water lines are extended from one area to another at the expense of the developer, not the city. Septic systems and wells have proven to be very satisfactory when wisdom is used in their placement. Water purification equipment for domestic use is available at sensible prices for the rare problem cases.

Public opinion will motivate most people to conform to reasonable building standards. The discomfort of living with the few who will not is bearable.

There can be no question but that the purchasers of property face higher prices when artificial restrictions are invoked. The cost of real estate, rent and building costs rise. Competition is soon removed and buyers or renters are forced to locate in limited areas.

This gives great monetary advantage to one land owner and deprives another who might have equally as valuable a location of his fair value.

The time is quickly approaching when a person wanting to move into the country will be unable to purchase except from one or two wealthy developers who are able to afford the expense of the land, who are able to comply with the extravagant demands of the planners, and who have the blessings of the public officials.

America developed to its real greatness from a pioneer spirit which stirred people into moving into rural areas to raise animals and crops. Can yesterday's directions be wrong for those wanting a garden, a pony, a cow and peaceful country living?

Who says it is proper for one person to enjoy these things but wrong for another? To surrender our property rights to either the local or federal government is to enslave one's self.

For right reasons

Let's do what needs to be done, for the right reasons.

I have just moved into this area from Reno, Nev., thinking this is a very conservative area, not like Reno. But I still seem to see the same wishy-washy news.

So, why worry about such small things as Watergate when it comes to Mr. Nixon who always means just the opposite of what he says.

One of the most unceasing efforts of Richard Nixon in the realm of foreign affairs is to give the United Nations the prestige, the legalistic framework, and the military might to make it in actual fact a one-world Communist government.

This is Mr. Nixon's most visible goal for the United States sovereignty and freedom to be subject unto the United Nations power. (No. 1.)

Secondly, under deliberate treason, by converting our federal republic into a centralized dictatorship with him the dictator. By this I mean he has already created with executive order No. 11647 the "Federal Regional Councils" which goes against the letter, spirit and purpose of the United States Constitution. Meaning, Metro Government. (No. 2)

So let's be honest and try him for treason or at least impeach him for the right reasons.

Minds of people clouded by politics

Editor, Times-News:

Politics today has absorbed the minds of people who still think that they actually are living in a free democratic society.

What a shame it's going to be when they finally start to see things the way they really are.

Recently, in a discussion of politics, the statement was made that today things are so much better, no wars to fight, and no drafting of our American boys. Fine and dandy, no wars is correct, no needless bloodshed, thank God.

However, our "politicians" if you'll excuse the expression, have managed to pull the "wool over the eyes" of the working man of America. We have shortages on everything.

Funny isn't it, that while we have no wars to fight abroad, we fight here among ourselves at the gas station lines, all the way to the supermarket with two very charming ladies bickering over the last roll of toilet tissue.

Yet our policy is to keep sending food and natural resources overseas at a rate and quantity that's astonishing.

Also, I'm sick of hearing people in this and other areas refer to agri-business men as "money-hungry rich farmers." They DID have a good year last year and they deserved it. However, things will be different in '74 thanks to the shortages that just "happened by."

The farmers and ranchers costs are extreme in maintaining a farm or ranch operation, but never fear, the government will put a ceiling on their prices to keep inflation at a minimum, meanwhile their feed costs, fertilizer costs, etc., skyrocket, thus eliminating a chance of profit, let alone survival.

But alas, the oil companies who by the way seem to pull Lil' King Richard's strings, are being allowed to act as a lecherous leech in our society, while all we can do is grin and bear it.

I'm tired of it all of it, and until Americans start to "talk" back to their so called "politicians" we are going to stay in one hell of a mess.

Credit rate, pay draw writer's ire

Editor, Times-News:

Our broad minded law makers should be real proud of themselves, raising the judges and justices salaries twenty per cent.

The men working for the State are at a wage level that makes them eligible for food stamps. Most of our law makers seen to think this way — you take from the poor and give to the rich. I hope the people that voted for the raise sleeps well.

The law makers also did everyone a big favor with the $15 food credit. If a person doesn't have enough deductions, they can't use it.

Also, the lawmakers never think about lowering the tax rates. They want higher interest rates. The law makers need the banks if they think they are missing a penny that they can wring out of the laboring people. It never enters their minds to make the credit card people cut down to the banks' level of interest.

I feel strong wash about big salaries getting better men doesn't seem to apply to the labor force. Laborers are only paid what the government forces them to receive.

I would like to hear of one bill being passed that would help the labor forces in this state. It's no oversight that Idaho is at the bottom of the ladder in wages. It was planned that way. I feel it will stay that way until people show enough guts to speak out in their own defense.

Help, not harm dog problem key

Editor, Times-News:

Man's best friend, that is if we need him to save our life as he would if need be and has known to do so many times.

As for the garbage cans tipped over, have you ever been hungry? Homeless, cold and alone, terrified. If you were you might even look in the garbage can.

I have had a dog for a pet all my life and they were the most loyal friend I have ever had and gave me more love and affection, but a week ago someone killed my darling little white Pekingese who never run the neighborhood as it was always close by. She was all I had.

I am a Senior Citizen now and alone, the house is so empty. Have you forgotten a dog leads the blind?

As for the dogs litter? Maybe they should be toilet trained! I have picked up many a homeless dog or may be they were just dumped.

Why can't we get laws to protect the animals? We have a Humane Society here and they need all the help they can get, but we need for instance no female dogs in town unless they were spayed. That would be a start, and people should be fined for dumping animals.

If we can't help the poor things let us not hurt them. Strange I have never been hurt or attacked by a dog, as many as I have had in my car strange dogs taking them to the pound or Humane Society.

Look both ways

Editor, Times-News:

Wednesday, March 13, between 11:30 and 12, I was going into Twin Falls on Washington Street headed north. A semi-driver stopped at the stop sign, headed west, and immediately proceeded into the intersection, ignoring my presence completely. I stepped on the brake myself to avoid impact on my car. We missed, but it was certainly not due to any action on his part.

There is no safety in stop signs if one looks neither to the right nor left when he stops.

This bothered me very much as a common cause of accidents. Maybe the driver will see this and think . . .

Privacy invaded

Editor, Times-News:

The party who wrote about the dog problem in her area of town has a legitimate complaint. We too have more than a nodding acquaintance with the dogcatcher and the police about this problem — not that it does any good.

At a random count last summer, in a one-block area, counting houses on either side of the alley, there are approximately 17 dogs!

Some bark part of the time. All bark some of the time. A few bark all of the time.

And it isn't fun to clean up their "surprises" on the yard, before one can mow the lawn, or even walk across it sometimes. We don't have a dog — who needs one?

I asked the police what would happen if my boys made that kind of rocket late at night. But we know the answer to that, believe me.

Do these people really think their dog barking isn't nerve wrecking after a hard day's work? Well if is! This noise is an invasion of privacy the same as any other excess noise would be.

Proposal concerns

Editor, Times-News:

I wish to express my concern over the proposed regulations set forth by DECS, for the new intermediate personal care facilities to be established soon.

I'm concerned over the quality of care that will be given with such a limited role for licensed personnel in these facilities. Also that the public will not be aware of how limited it is — it will fall to aides to get medications to these residents, and offer coverage for at least sixteen hours a day. Medications will not be a small item in this setting, as most of these individuals will only be controlled enough to live there through medication.

It would set a dangerous precedent and probably lead to the further use of unlicensed personnel to administer medications in our other public institutions — which is against the present laws of Idaho.

Freight Salesmen Never Call On Us

And That's Good News For Idahoans

Amcor concrete block, pipe and related products are hardly ever shipped out of Idaho, where they're made. Freight costs are prohibitive. Made of heavy local materials they remain local in their usable form. In homes. Warehouses. Stores. Apartments. Churches. Schools. Factories. Hospitals. Court houses. Post Offices. Farm buildings. In patios. Under our streets and highways. In our irrigation projects. Wherever we strive to improve and live better.

And because they are local, every dollar that is spent to purchase and use Amcor concrete products remains a local dollar. A dollar that stays in Idaho and pays for the people who produce these products, and the people who supply them with the raw materials. And the people who furnish the energy needs. And so on. Local dollars spent on local products are the best kind. Dollars spent on products imported from out-of-state leave — and don't return.

Something to consider if you're about to build.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Attack victim should take it easy

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband is 73 and had a heart attack six months ago. He is doing well now, the doctor tells him.

But he does not take enough time to sleep and he listens to what people tell him and he is scared. A nurse told him never to put his hands over his head or sleep with them over his head, and never to bend down.

He takes pills to lower his cholesterol but the doctor didn't tell him to. A friend did. He has one of the best doctors in town but won't tell him he is taking the pills. He also eats vitamin E capsules.

He works hard, mostly mental, runs his own business and works 10 hours a day, but he can fall asleep in a chair talking to me. I refuse to nag or correct him.

Some ways your husband is not being smart. It's amazing, really, how many patients pay attention to remarks by anyone who comes along, and get scared, but hold out information from the doctor.

Anyone who at 73 can work 10 hours a day isn't doing bad, but I don't like the tension factor involved in his work or that he gets so tired he falls asleep talking to you. Tension and fatigue can be big factors in raising cholesterol and blood pressure and thereby increasing the risk of another heart attack.

If his cholesterol is not high, taking pills for it is an unnecessary expense, but in addition could mislead his doctor who, obviously, is interested in knowing the true condition.

The nurse's advice is sheer poppycock. I don't anticipate that the vitamin E will do any harm but I am not optimistic that it will do any good, either.

The less one talks to well-meaning friends and acquaintances about a heart attack and the same is true of many other ailments, the better. Friends often feel they ought to offer some kind of advice, whether sound or not, and often it is downright harmful or incorrect.

Many times a heart patient, listening to all the things he "should" or "shouldn't" do, becomes more and more scared. The more frightened he is, the more tension and the tension is bad for him.

If your husband would level with his doctor, tell him what he is taking and doing, and what he has been told not to do, I feel pretty sure the doctor could do a lot to relieve him of being so scared. But it's up to your husband to talk straight and not try to hide things from his doctor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read that constant use of a breath freshener is harmful to the brain. My husband refuses to believe me. Your telling him so will make him believe it. — Mrs. S. A. L.

Sorry, but I don't know of any such thing. Where did you read it?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a deviated septum show up on an X-ray? Does the septum have anything to do with the bone in the nose? Do your nostrils have an effect on the way you breathe? — Mrs. S. B.

Certain exposures of a skull X-ray will reveal a deviated septum — that is the "partition" between the nostrils is out of normal position.

The septum consists of thin bone in its upper portion. The lower portion, which is visible by direct observation, is cartilage. And that is the usual site of deviation.

If the septum is badly deviated (or if there are polyps in the nose) it can cause mouth breathing and a sense of obstruction in the nose.

Academy award winners tonight

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Oscar could go to the devil tonight, but will it go to Marlon Brando again too?

"The Exorcist," the smash boxoffice hit about a young girl possessed by a demon, was favored to win the most Academy Awards, including best picture.

It has had Americans standing in long ticket lines—and then gasping, cringing, closing their eyes and in a few instances reportedly vomiting or passing out. It has set off an international preoccupation with diabolism that alarmed clergymen and psychiatrists.

Among the nominees for best actor is the aloof Brando, nominated this year for his portrayal of a grief-stricken expatriate American hedonist, destroyed by an affair with a much younger girl in Paris in the X-rated "Last Tango in Paris."

When he won last year for "The Godfather," Brando was represented by a little known starlet, costumed as an Indian woman, and using the name "Sacheen Littlefeather." She refused the award on his behalf and treated the national television audience, and the surprised film celebrities, to an attack on the way Hollywood portrays Indians. She said Brando was on his way to join the besieged Indian militants at Wounded Knee, S.D., but he never appeared there.

Brando has not said whether he planned to attend the ceremony this year, the 46th of the Academy Awards, the movie industry's biggest celebration for itself.

Rivals to "the Exorcist" for the much sought after "best picture" Oscar, which greatly pumps up the revenues from a movie, are:

—"The Sting," with Robert Redford and Paul Newman playing a pair of con men neatly separating a gangster from a fortune in the 1930s to revenge a murdered friend.

—"American Graffiti," bringing nostalgia right into the 1960s by resurrecting the hot rods and drive-in culture of teen-agers in a small California town.

—"A Touch of Class," a frothily sophisticated comedy of adultery in Spain and loss in London, with Glenda Jackson as an English divorcee and George Segal as a married American.

—"Cries and Whispers," lingering death and sisters in Sweden.

Brando's rivals for best actor are Jack Lemmon—the favorite—for "Save the Tiger," Al Pacino for "Serpico," Jack Nicholson for "The Last Detail" and Redford for "The Sting."

Barbra Streisand, previous winner and leading nominee this year for best actress for her appearance in "The Way We Were," has not said whether she will attend.

Other nominees for best actress are Marsha Mason for "Cinderella Liberty," Joanne Woodward for "Summer Wishes, Winter Dreams," Miss Jackson for "A Touch of Class" and Ellen Burstyn for "The Exorcist."

"The Exorcist" and "The Sting" led the nominations, each getting 10.

The show, to be nationally telecast from the Los Angeles Music Center on NBC beginning at 8 p.m. MDT, features an opening number by Liza Minelli, singing and dancing a special tribute to the Oscar. She won the best actress award last year for "Cabaret."

The hosts are Burt Reynolds, David Niven, Dianna Ross and director John Houston, and making the presentations will be Elizabeth Taylor, Ann-Margret, Shirley MacLaine, Twiggy, Silvia Sidney, Susan Hayward, James Caan, Gene Kelley, Roger Moore and Peter Falk.

Coast drilling backed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Council on Environmental Quality has given President Nixon a report saying that the benefits of oil drilling off the Atlantic coast are worth the environmental risks, it was reported today.

The report said the council has concluded that leasing can be undertaken under carefully stipulated and controlled conditions, according to the Washington Post, which said it had obtained a copy of the unpublished document.

Nixon last year promised to hold back on leasing drilling rights in the Atlantic and Gulf of Alaska until the council had reported to him on the environmental considerations.

The report urged that a very high priority be placed on environmental protection, with requirements that "the very best available technology must be used to minimize the environmental risks."

The report said the public must be given a major advisory role in the federal management and regulation of the outer continental shelf.

Donald Nixon to testify

(c) N. Y. Times Service

NEW YORK — A securities and Exchange Commission official testified Monday at the Mitchell-Stans trial that he had been under considerable pressure from his superiors around the time of the 1972 election, to avoid doing anything that would be "politically embarrassing" to President Nixon.

In another development today, Judge Lee P. Gagliardi denied a motion to quash a subpoena to testify here that had been issued to F. Donald Nixon, President Nixon's brother. Donald Nixon is now expected to testify this week, probably by Wednesday.

But the main prosecution business today was the testimony of Stanley Sporkin, director of the SEC's Division of Enforcement, who was called to corroborate the government contention that John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans interfered in an SEC investigation of Robert L. Vesco, a financier, in return for a secret $200,000 as a contribution that Vesco had made to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

So far the most damaging witness against the defendants in this respect has been John W. Dean III, President Nixon's former counsel. Dean has testified that Mitchell, the former attorney general, called him at the White House at least 19 times to try to get the SEC to at least delay its investigation of Vesco, now a fugitive.

Surprise witness gives testimony

MEDIA, Pa. (UPI) — The first of seven convicted or confessed killers to publicly identify former Tony Boyle as a conspirator in the 1969 Yablonski murders returns to the witness stand today for crossexamination.

Paul E. Gilly, sentenced to death two years ago for the Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski murders, was a surprise prosecution witness Monday in proceedings that were interrupted by an attempted attack by one of Gilly's convicted henchmen on special prosecutor Richard A. Sprague.

Earlier Monday, Sprague opened the state's case by arguing that Boyle, 72, former United Mine Workers (UMW) president, ordered the assassination of Yablonski, a reform candidate, six months before a UMW presidential election. Sprague argued that Boyle paid for Yablonski's death "out of the sweat and blood of the miners of America."

Yablonski's wife, Margaret, and daughter, Charlotte, 25, also were shot to death on New Year's Eve 1969, as they slept in their Clarksville home in the southwestern Pennsylvania coal fields.

Gilly became the first person to publicly identify Boyle as a conspirator Monday when he said he was told by two other admitted or convicted suspects, former UMW officials Silous Huddleston and William Prater, that Boyle wanted Yablonski killed.

Court rejects power claims of secrecy act

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled Monday that the 1970 Bank Secrecy Act is constitutional, rejecting arguments it gives the government too much power to spy on Americans.

In a 6-3 decision, the court turned aside arguments by the American Civil Liberties Union that challenged the act on grounds it was an invasion of privacy and could be used to identify an individual's political and social affiliations.

The Bank Secrecy law, passed partly to combat crime, requires banks to keep records of the identities of their customers and microfilm copies of their checks. It also requires banks to report to the government money transfers out of the country of $5,000 or more.

Candidacy announced

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — Retired Air Force Major Charley Bolsridge, 52, Nampa, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for U.S. Senate.

Bolsridge has resided in Idaho the past nine years and has taught aerospace science and physical science at Vallivue High School near Caldwell.

He is the third person to announce for the GOP senatorial nomination. Others were Bob Smith of Nampa and Leon Olson of Boise.

If police return to work

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — Members of the Idaho Falls Police Monday voted to return to work.

Police Association President Byron Stommel said that because of the efforts of Idaho State Labor Commissioner Bart Brown, the city and the police would return to the negotiating table Tuesday. He said the outcome of that meeting will determine whether the police will strike again.

Indian conference set

BOISE (UPI) — The Shoshone-Paiute Tribes from the Duck Valley Reservation located in Idaho and Nevada will host the all-Idaho Indian conference here Wednesday and Thursday.

Arthur Manning, tribal chairman of the host tribe, said the conference would concentrate on issues critical to each of the five tribes in Idaho, "mainly the protection and development of their natural resources."

Peavey to speak

BOISE (UPI) — Headlining the Idaho Press Club luncheon Wednesday noon at the Village Inn will be state Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, who will kick off his drive for a government reform initiative on the fall ballot.

Peavey tried to get so-called "sunshine" legislation through the just-adjourned Idaho Legislature but failed. He has begun to work with interested citizens to prepare an initiative drive for the fall election.

Issues being considered for the initiative are campaign finance disclosures and lobbying registration.

Press awards scheduled

BOISE (UPI) — Judging has been completed on some 300 entries and winners will be announced April 19 at the Idaho Press Club's annual awards dinner, President Bob Leewright announced.

Awards Committee Chairman Don Watkins said a record number of news people from throughout Idaho submitted entries in the four judging categories: newspaper and wire services, television, radio and news photography.

Engelking to resign

BOISE (UPI) — State Public Instruction Supt. D. F. Engelking is stepping down at the end of his current term, ending 16 years in office and the longest time in that position in Idaho history.

In officially announcing his retirement, Engelking said he would endorse his administrative assistant, Roy Truby, 34, for the position.

Two more policemen leave Burley force

BURLEY — Two more Burley policemen have left the force. Lt. Det. Rex Madden resigned Monday night, citing "pressure" on the department.

Madden's letter of resignation stated, "I find I can no longer perform my duties under the pressure I would have to work," and said he was quitting for "peace of mind and personal well being."

The Burley City Council Monday accepted resignations from Madden and Sgt. William Dayley, both long-time employes of the Burley Police Department.

Madden was a close personal friend of former police chief Kenneth Barry. He has taken a position with the Heyburn City Police.

Dayley quit the Burley force to take a position in the Idaho State Identification Department, a job he has reportedly sought for several years.

The council agreed to the promotion of police Sgt. Frank Fowler to lieutenant. Fowler is a 17-year veterans of the force. Dennis Dexter, Burley, was hired as new patrolman.

In other action, the council:

— Approved a change of ordinance to license trailer parks on a calendar year basis, rather than by fiscal year.

— Appointed Albert Hodge waste water superintendent for licensing purposes. Hodge is currently city water superintendent.

— Raised pay for volunteer firemen to $5 per drill and $5 per hour while on duty.

— Heard councilman L. V. Morgan propose a resolution in favor of the US Parks Department proposed City of Rocks project. The council will draft a resolution to be sent to US senators and representatives.

Hazelton aides resolve controversy on fees

HAZELTON — Tentative agreement has been reached over sewer charges for a farm housing complex west of the city.

Farm Home Administration officials from Boise met Monday night with Hazelton City councilmen and members of the Hazelton Housing Authority to resolve a controversy over hookup fees to the Hazelton sewer system.

The city council requested the housing authority pay hook up charges for the farm worker housing project.

Vern Yates, housing specialist, FHA, Boise, told the council he has been informed by the FHA state director Donald Winder unless the controversy is resolved FHA will not purchase the city's bond for the new lagoon sewer system.

Yates questioned whether or not the housing authority would be given any credit for the lift station and sewer line it installed at its own expense with the idea of donating it to the city.

Hugh Hedges, Twin Falls, HHB Engineers, who represented the city, said the city does not feel it should give the housing authority credit for the lift station or line.

"You (FHA) were victims of circumstances. The time was such you could not wait for us. (Hazelton city) had we been permitted to go ahead as we were, the city would have been able to secure EPA Environmental Protection Agency) funds for the lift and line," Hedges said.

He said the cost projection for the sewer is almost $5,000 higher than the $35,000 bonded for it a year ago.

"Because of this, we have to come up with the 'extra' cash. That is why we are asking a hookup fee from the housing authority," he said.

Yates said if this is the city's feeling FHA would certainly not consent to purchase city bonds for the sewer lagoon system.

"It seems you are trying to bleed the government for every penny you can get," Yates said.

It was suggested in a March 18 meeting by the City Council and housing authority that the housing authority pay on $11,000 hookup fee and a percentage of the operation and maintenance charges.

It was pointed out several times Monday night the authority does not have cash or a borrowing source for the $11,000.

Following a long and sometimes heated debate between the factions, a tentative agreement was reached in which the housing authority will pay 27.7 per cent per year on the bond retirement and a percentage of the maintenance and operation costs based on the flow at the lift station.

No agreement was reached on the question of the housing authority's need to pay the 27.7 per cent in cash of the excess amount of money above the bond figure.

In reaching the agreement, Albert Lockwood, president of the housing authority, questioned Yates as to the authority's ability to obtain funds from FHA for possible construction of a senior citizen complex in the future providing this controversy was not settled.

Yates said the housing authority would have a slim chance of getting funding from FHA if they could not get along with the city. Elwood Thueson, Boise, program section FHA, said most of the controversy seems to be nothing more than lack of communication.

He said since the agreement has been reached, the city can go ahead with a request for FHA purchase of its sewer bonds.

Door shut on building

KETCHUM — The Ketchum City Council has extended the building moratorium until midnight April 21.

This will allow adoption of the new city zoning ordinance and map.

The moratorium on construction which results in additional sewage connections was originally scheduled to be lifted Friday.

During a meeting Monday night councilwoman Martha Poltevin said it was "unconscionable" to go this far with the proposed ordinance and map without giving a "ten-day leeway" for its adoption.

Poltevin said the newly re-published proposals contained changes which basically stemmed from two earlier public hearings.

Public hearings on the amended measures will be conducted April 12 before the city planning and zoning commission and April 15 before the City Council.

C. A. Grubb, Ketchum, who was present at Monday's meeting, termed the extension an "unreasonable delay."

Parking law repealed

GOODING — The Gooding City Council repealed the city parking ordinance Monday night.

Although a survey of businessmen in town did not show all agreement of opinion on the existence of a parking problem, councilmen felt there was no parking problem and that the enforcement of the ordinance would create hard feelings.

Councilman Paul Klingler said the parking ordinance should either be enforced consistently or the two hour parking limit should be removed from the books.

Mayor Leo Rice requested another full-time policeman for the city. More officers were needed downtown, especially on weekends, he told the council.

With the intention of hiring a new patrolman the council called for bids on a new police car.

Rice requested the council to consider hiring a manager for the city. "We need one guy who can be over everybody," Rice said. He told the council he had a man in mind for the job who could be hired for $14,000 a year.

The council expressed reservations about hiring a manager but agreed to interview the applicant at a future meeting.

The council asked for an appraisal of about 55 acres of unused city airport property for a possible sale. The city has received several requests to sell the property. Rice said one potential buyer had already given him a check for the land at $500 per acre.

The council did not agree to sell the property, but at the mayor's request agreed to proceed with preliminary procedures for the property's possible sale.

New guidelines for city employes were discussed by the council.

One guideline inserted by the mayor would dock city employe pay for the time they spent fighting fires as volunteer firemen. Time spent fighting rural fires would have to be made up, according to the guideline.

Councilman Gene Kelly opposed the insertion. "Just because he's working for the city you're penalizing him for being a volunteer fireman," he said.

The council took no action.

Councilman Duane Clemons suggested formation of a five member airport advisory board to make recommendations for airport improvements. The council requested an additional report on the proposal at the next meeting.

The council considered a garbage rate increase but took no final action. Kelly said he would "work out a formula that is fair."

City clerk George Silva said the Idaho Traffic Safety Commission had informed the city that it could submit plans for the correction of highway hazards to the commission and receive federal funds for the projects.

The council also gotten building permits at a total of $116,500.

Minico judge won't hear case

BURLEY — Minidoka Magistrate Judge LeRoy Blacker has disqualified himself from hearing a criminal libel case against the South Idaho Press.

The judge disqualified himself from the case Monday, citing his working relationship with Magistrate Judge Gleason Anderson as the reason.

Anderson signed the libel complaint against the South Idaho Press and its editor, John Eberline, late last week.

Eberline was arrested Friday and released on his own recognizance by Judge Blacker.

Anderson's charges of libel came as a result of an item in a South Idaho Press column, "The Enquirer," which dealt Wednesday with the procedures for removing a magistrate judge from office. The answer in the column used Anderson as an example.

Cassia County Pros. Atty. Gordon Nielson said Monday that he was not sure what the procedure would be since Judge Blacker has disqualified himself. The appointment of a judge will be up to a court administrator, Neilson said.

Recall paper resubmitted

HAZELTON — A recall petition naming Hazelton City councilman Leonard Hamilton will be submitted again to the city clerk sometime today.

The petition to recall Hamilton was returned to the petitioners last week because it lacked three signatures of the required amount.

A second petition filed against Elsworth Hensley, also a Hazelton City Council member, was accepted by the city clerk. A letter notifying Hensley of the recall has been sent to him.

Hensley was given five days from receipt of the letter in which to voluntarily resign or face a recall election.

Hamilton also will have five days to resign following the acceptance of the second petition and the letter of notification.

The city clerk will have 30 days in which to set a date for the recall election.

Recall petitions were first filed against the two council members in February and were rejected because of lack of information on the signers.

New petitions were received by the city clerk with the one for Hamilton being rejected a second time.

Petitions charge Hamilton and Hensley with refusing to cooperate with the mayor in seeking solutions to the city's sewer problems and refusing to vote to confirm anyone appointed by the mayor as city attorney.

Both Hamilton and Hensley have said they have worked with the council in an effort to resolve the city's sewer issues and the city attorney appointment.

GF drive set

GLENNS FERRY — Old car bodies from Glenns Ferry will be stored on vacant lots owned by Mr. and Mrs. Glen Sellers until a compactor visits the area.

The Glenns Ferry Chamber of Commerce obtained permission from Mr. and Mrs. Sellers at a meeting Monday to use the lots. The City Council is organizing a cleanup drive and is concentrating on removal of abandoned cars.

Barton Bailey and Ronald Hall, both Weiser, directors of the Idaho and Oregon Regional Planning and Development Association were guests. The association represents 10 counties in Idaho and 2 in Oregon. Its main area of concern is senior citizen's programs.

The association also wants to obtain low incom... housing programs for senior citizens.

Dog 'fees' hiked

Licenses will be issued for a one year period from the date of issuance on all dogs. Previously half-year licenses have been sold and reduced rates were available early in the year.

Councilmembers voted to delay action on a Twin Falls School District request to waive building permit fees for the school construction program. They will ask the district to submit requests on each building at the time the permits are needed.

In other action the council agreed to vacate part of an alley right of way on land in the industrial area owned by Kaystone Seed Co., and vacated street right of way in the Graceland Subdivision, now part of the College of Southern Idaho property and no longer scheduled for development.

Mayor Jones proclaimed Vietnam Veterans Day, March 29; Defensive Driving Week, April 7 through 13, and Secretary Week, April 21 through 27 with Secretary Day April 24.

Two other requests for vacating street or alley rights of way and utility easements in the industrial area were delayed for further study.

Bill clears way to desert land opening

BOISE — Between 1.4 and 2.4 million acres of Idaho desert land will be opened by the state to homesteaders under a measure signed into law by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Monday.

"It's certainly not a gold rush situation, but it is a good basic improvement or update in our land and water law," Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, R-Tuttle, said.

Ravenscroft, who sponsored the bill in the House, said it vitalizes the long-neglected Carey Act which opened state lands to homesteading near the turn of the century. The new law gives priority to veterans wishing to homestead.

Under the Carey Act, the persons who put water on land could not farm it. Ravenscroft said this law enables the water developers, as individuals or as groups of individuals, to homestead the land.

When the land is watered by a separate company, persons could file on the property for homesteading. Since the number of filings would far exceed the farm units available, distribution of the land would be determined by lottery, Ravenscroft said.

In cases where the lottery system is used, veterans would be given automatic priority, he added.

The measure also allows the homestead unit to be twice the size called for by the Carey Act by enabling both a husband and wife to file on 160 acres separately. Ravenscroft said that the 160 acre limitation was a major factor in making the Carey Act ineffective.

Finally, the law raises application and permit fees enough to fund state supervision of the homestead land program.

Under the Carey Act only 50 cents per acre was raised — not nearly enough to fund state administration of the program, Ravenscroft said.

But under the proposed law, $100 will be charged for the initial land application and a total $10 an acre additional charge when possession of and title to the land is granted, he said.

He said one of the reasons the Bureau of Land Management has been so slow in granting desert land entries is that it is short of staff.

With the revenues gained from homesteaders and applicants, Ravenscroft said the Idaho Water Administration will have enough money to completely and more efficiently govern the homestead act.

In addition to encouraging private development of desert lands, Ravenscroft said the law will enable the state to sponsor major irrigation projects. Funds raised from delivering the water will pay the costs of the projects as well as maintaining them, he said.

Ravenscroft specifically mentioned the possibility of Idaho State taking control of the Indian Hills project at Hansnell, a defunct desert entry development which may fall back into the hands of the BLM.

Ravenscroft said that in the 1890s the US Congress voted three times to provide desert land in Idaho for homesteads. Depending on whether one of the votes is considered a duplication of a prior vote, the Congress set aside between 1.4 million and 2.4 million acres for homesteading.

In any case the BLM at least has "the legal obligation to let go the 1.4 million acre allotment," he said.

Facility to open

WENDELL — A new bean cleaning and storage facility will be opened in Wendell in the fall.

Donald Hunter, part owner of MJ Bean Co. Inc., said the operation will feature a receiving house in the Bell Rapids area.

By taking beans to the Bell Rapids storage facility, many farmers will be able to avoid the long trip to Wendell, Hunter said. He said that MJ Bean would transport the beans to Wendell itself.

Selling the beans brought to the Wendell firm will be handled by the Fair Trader, an "experienced company" in bean sales, Hunter said.

He said that MJ Bean also will sell seed for raising commercial beans.

Wendell's accessibility to both the railroad and the interstate makes it a good location for setting up a bean operation, Hunter said.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed on the New York Stock Exchange today in light trading.

Rising interest rates and tight money apparently was discouraging buyers. Several banks now have lifted their prime lending rate to 9½ per cent and some analysts fear the charge to largest borrows eventually reach the record 10 per cent established last year.

Shortly after the opening bell, the Dow Jones industrial average gained .31 to 843.79. Declines led advances, 155 to 130, among the 443 issues traded. Volume was 410,000.

ITT was the most active stock in early trading and was unchanged at 23 on a turnover of 12,100 shares. The Singer Co. was second most active, off ⅛ at 48⅝ on a volume of 10,000 shares. General Public Utilities was third and unchanged at 18⅛. ATT, off ⅛ at 49, and Chadbourne, Ind., unchanged at 1, followed in the active list.

Feeder futures decline

CHICAGO — Feeder cattle futures fell 40 to 75 cents per hundredweight Monday in active trading.

Commodity News Service reported 60 contracts traded, with the market appeared to be mostly under the influence of fat cattle dealings, which were weak most of the day.

Feeder arrivals were considered nominal with 8,100 head at 11 major markets.

The Midwestern feedlot review:

— Iowa, Southern Minnesota, confirmed sales of 11,900 slaughter cattle, with early Monday trading slow, demand fair to good. Most purchases were for midweek or later delivery.

— Nebraska had confirmed sales of 2,800 slaughter cattle with trading quiet with only sparse buyer inquiry and some seller inquiry but little interest in bids, which held barely steady. Live sales were steady to weak for steers and heifers.

— Western Kansas, with 9,000 head of slaughter cattle sold. Steers were steady but not enough heifer sales to test the market. Trading activity slow to moderate depending on area. Inquiries good, buyer demand fair.

— Texas Panhandle and Western Oklahoma confirmed sales of 1,300 cattle but trading slow with limited early sales of steers and heifers bringing steady prices.

Stars owner agrees to sale of ABA franchise

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Owner Bill Daniels, who wants to devote his time to politics, Monday conditionally agreed to the sale of the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association to a Salt Lake City firm which hopes to raise a good chunk of the purchase price by selling shares to residents within the state.

The sale price was not announced, but the deal must be closed by Aug. 1 or Daniels will look for buyers outside the state.

Daniels said he had sold the club to Westam Corp., a Salt Lake City company which manufactures recreational vehicles, owns Solitude ski resort near Salt Lake, and has several mountain subdivisions.

President Keith Howick and vice president Lyle Smith, chief officers in the firm, said they would put 80 per cent of the ball club's stock on the market to meet the Aug. 1 deadline.

"If they can't do it, then I will be forced to sell the club outside the state," Daniels said.

Daniels, a Colorado businessman who announced earlier he was selling the club to devote his time to politics, said he had followed through on his promise to keep "the price lower" if someone in Utah bought the team with plans to keep it in the state.

The team has lost money since moving to Utah four years ago from Los Angeles, although it has won an American Basketball Association title and three division crowns. It won the ABA West this season and is currently in the first round of the league playoffs.

Daniels said Westam had made "a substantial down payment" and that the deal — despite the Aug. 1 deadline — was firm. "I can go out now and spend the down payment" he said.

Howick and Smith said the management of the Stars would remain the same and there are no thoughts of changes in the immediate future.

"We feel they have done a good job," Howick said.

They said the price, conditions and amount of stock to be sold would be announced after discussions with state securities regulators. They said their plans would be announced within 10 days.

"We feel that this is a good time to capitalize the Stars at the local level," Howick said.

Daniels interjected: "All the Stars need to break even is to sell another thousand tickets a game a year."

Mayor Jake Garn and Mike Miller, administrative aide to Gov. Calvin L. Rampton, pledged city and state support of the new owners, terming the Stars a valuable asset to the community.

New York tops ABA's Squires

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Julius Erving scored 35 points Monday night in leading the New York Nets to a 129-110 victory over the Virginia Squires to give the Nets a 2-0 lead in their American Basketball Association Eastern Conference playoffs.

The turning point of the game came in the second quarter when Erving scored 16 of his points to give the Nets a 72-48 lead at intermission. The Squires tied the score nine times in the first quarter, but once hot-hand Erving, the ABA's leading regular season scorer, got going in the second, it was all downhill for the Squires.

Billy Paultz scored 29 for the Nets and had kept the New York offense going during the opening quarter when he rapped in 17 of his total.

George Carter scored 28 for the Squires.

Rookies Larry Kennon and Brian Taylor, elected earlier in the day to the ABA's All-Rookie team, sparked the Nets during the first half during which New York set 68 per cent from the floor.

The game, unlike the March 29, was comparatively free of fouls.

The teams resume the series April 4 at Hampton, Va.

Pacers rout Spurs to even playoffs

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Playing their best defense of the season and with Billy Keller getting a record nine threepoint "home runs," the Indiana Pacers routed San Antonio Monday night, 128-101, to even their ABA playoff series at one game apiece.

Keller finished with a career high 39 points and teammate George McGinnis was lifted with 30 as the Pacers completely dominated the second game of the best-of-seven series which continues at San Antonio Wednesday night.

The previous ABA playoff record for three-point "home runs" was eight by Rick Barry, formerly with the New York Nets.

Indiana, winner of the ABA title three of the last four years but beaten by the Spurs here in Saturday night's playoff opener, started with a full-court press and pressured through most of the game — even after taking a 25-point lead, 53-28, late in the second period.

The Pacers led 60-38 at the half and their biggest lead early in the third period was 70-42.

Keller came off the bench and got three "home runs" in the second period, got two more in the third period, and four in the fourth. He got a standing ovation when the record was announced. He scored 20 of his 39 points in the final period.

Jerry Ruth is Firebird champ

BOISE — Jerry Ruth, Seattle, won Firebird Raceway's 4th annual Ignitor event Sunday with a track record of 228.92 miles per hour. Ruth defeated a field that included two-time national champion, Gary Beck.

Ruth is the current top fuel world champion. Ruth and Beck have met head to head in the final runs at the US National championships in Indiana, the World Finals in Texas and the recent Winternationals in Los Angeles. The score was 2-1 in Beck's favor, previous to their meeting at Firebird. Herm Peterson and Hank Johnson were also defeated by Ruth in the day's action.

Carl Malone, Twin Falls, won a class trophy driving a 1965 Mustang. Malone's winning speed was 97 miles per hour with an elapsed time of 11.03 seconds.

Stars throttle Conquistadors

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UPI) — Utah's Gerald Govan set a personal American Basketball Association playoff record Monday when he pulled down 25 rebounds to pace the Stars to a 119-105 win over the San Diego Conquistadors for a 2-0 playoff edge.

Utah's overall 65 rebounds offset a 41-point performance by the Q's Bo Lamar. The 6-foot-11 Govan's previous high was 20.

Utah broke to a 10-point lead in the first quarter and stretched it to 24, 82-58, near the end of the third period.

Lamar led the Q's back to within 11 with two minutes to go but had little help. The Q's had only 48 rebounds.

Willie Wise paced the Stars balanced scoring with 23. Jim Jones had 20, Johnny Neumann had 18 and Ron Boone and Rick Mount each had 16.

Tim Bassett, Stew Johnson and Caldwell Jones each had 14 for San Diego.

The two meet in the third game of the best-of-seven series at San Diego Wednesday.

Baseball balk rule is dead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball's proposed new balk rule died Monday . . . before it really was ever born.

Johnny Johnson, the baseball rules committee chairman, announced that the committee voted down a proposal on Monday for the adoption of the balk line for pitchers.

The rule was adopted as a spring training experiment at the winter league meetings in Houston last December with the provision that a mail vote would be held on April 1 to consider permanent adoption for the regular 1974 season.

The mail vote was held, and the proposal failed to draw the necessary seven affirmative votes for adoption.

Los Angeles to face must win situation

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers go into the third game of their playoff series with Milwaukee Tuesday night knowing exactly what Bucks coach Larry Costello meant when he said "the pressure will really be on Los Angeles."

The Lakers dropped the first two in Milwaukee in their best-of-seven Western Conference playoff series, and they can't afford to drop any more.

But Costello's hope that his club can split the next two games on Los Angeles home court may be wishful thinking. The Bucks lost their three regular National Basketball Association season games with the Lakers in their big Forum Arena.

"It's tough to play there, and there'll be a little more pressure," Costello said when his club demolished the Lakers 109-90 Sunday.

"But if we split, the pressure is on Los Angeles."

The dazzling Laker performance that pulled Los Angeles away from Golden State in the final games of the playoff berth race tarnished in Milwaukee.

Scoring sensation Elmore Smith, who hit 67 out of 107 shots from the field in five of the Lakers last six games, was held to a meager 32 points by the Bucks.

But even more damaging, the finely balanced attack of Smith, Happy Hairston and Gail Goodrich collapsed under Milwaukee's steady pressure.

Hairston has been held to 16 points and Goodrich alone has been unable to pull the Lakers into the win column.

"We'll have to beat down, fight fire with fire. You've got to shoot well against the Bucks," said Laker coach Bill Sharman. "We'll have to work for better shots next time."

The Lakers only managed 40.8 per cent of their shots in Friday's 99-95 loss and even less — 37.8 per cent — Sunday when Los Angeles was out rebounded 64-48.

Tough smothering defense, high scoring led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and the cool playmaking leadership of the Big O — Oscar Robertson combined to take the edge off the Los Angeles offense.

But the Lakers, at least center Smith, are confident Los Angeles can even the match at 2-2.

"I still think we can take them," Smith said.

Bulls defeat Detroit to even playoff series

DETROIT (UPI) — Bob Love caged 38 points Monday night to lead the Chicago Bulls to a 108-103 victory over the Detroit Pistons in a pressure-packed, shootout in their National Basketball Association semifinal playoff series.

The Bulls' win evened their best-of-seven series at one victory apiece.

It also was the first road playoff victory in 10 tries for Chicago. The game drew a Cobo Hall record crowd of 11,499.

Each team had a chance to break the game open in a seesaw struggle but the Bulls dominated the last four minutes of play to squeak through.

Until the Bulls' charge in the closing minutes, the Pistons had been in front 21 times, the score was tied 21 times, and the Bulls were in front 16 times.

The Pistons' biggest lead was five points and the Bulls, until their closing surge, never got in front by more than four points.

Big Bob Lanier of the Pistons matched Love in scoring, hitting 38 points, but his teammates could not give him the support the Bulls gave Love.

Chet Walker dropped 20 points for the Bulls, Jerry Sloan 19, and Norm Van Lier 15 while Don Adams caged 23 and Dave Bing 18 for the Pistons.

Each team now has won once away from home to restore the home court advantage in the series to the Bulls, who will play the next game on the Chicago court Friday night.

The Pistons earned a four-point lead in the first period before the Bulls fought back to a 27-27 tie, and at the half Chicago held a 50-49 lead, hitting on 46.5 per cent of its field goals compared with 47.9 for the Pistons.

In the third period, the Bulls managed a three-point lead but Detroit was in front five times before the Bulls worked to a 77-77 edge with 12 minutes to play. In the fourth period, Detroit led three times but never by more than two points and the Bulls scored 15 of the last 23 points in the game for the final margin.

Swen Nater is top ABA rookie

NEW YORK (UPI) — Swen Nater of the San Antonio Spurs who spent his college career overshadowed at UCLA by Bill Walton, edged Caldwell Jones of the San Diego Conquistadores Monday by one vote in balloting for "Rookie of the Year" honors in the American Basketball Association.

The 6-foot-11 Nater, a 250-pound native of Holland who started the season with the Virginia Squires and was traded to the Spurs for a reported $300,000 and a high draft choice on Nov. 21, received 24 votes to 23 for Jones.

Nater averaged 12.6 points per game with the Squires as a reserve in 17 games, but then averaged 14.5 as a regular with the Spurs for an overall average of 14.1 points per game.

The Rookie of the Year winner spent the first nine years of his life in Holland and did not start playing basketball until he enrolled at Cypress Junior College in California. In his second season there he averaged 23 points and 18 rebounds per game and moved to UCLA.

For the UCLA Bruins, however, he sat on the bench behind Walton and didn't get a chance to shift until he played in the series between the U.S. and Soviet teams last summer.

In the ABA All-Star game in January, he scored 20 points and had 22 rebounds. However, he himself says, "I'm still not caught up with guys who have been playing all their lives."

In the voting by sports writers and broadcasters in the 10 league cities, Larry Kenon of the New York Nets was third in the Rookie balloting with 14 votes and his teammate John Williamson received three.

Kenon, however, was the leading vote getter in balloting for the all Rookie team, which also was announced Monday. With two points for a first-team vote and one for a second-team vote, Kenon had 126 points.

Named to the All-Rookie team were Kenon, Nater, Williamson, Dwight Lamar of San Diego, and Mike Green of Denver.

Nater beat out Jones again for the center spot on the Rookie team, 68-78. Named on the second team with Jones were Tim Bassett of San Diego, Jim Bradley of Kentucky, and Bird Averitt and George Karl, both of San Antonio.

Brian Taylor of the New York Nets won the 1973 Rookie award winner. Previous winners were Mel Daniels 1968, Warren Armstrong 1969, Spencer Haywood 1970, Dan Issel and Charlie Scott in a tie in 1971, and Artis Gilmore in 1972.

George Foreman returns to U.S., says he isn't bound by Ali pact

CARACAS (UPI) — An embarrassed heavyweight champion George Foreman, who says he doesn't feel bound by an agreement to defend his title against Muhammad Ali in Kinshasa, Zaire in September returned home today, one week after knocking out Ken Norton in the second round of their championship bout.

Foreman, manager-trainer Dick Sadler and financial advisor Leroy Jackson were booked on board a 5:20 a.m. EDT Miami-bound flight.

The way for the 25-year-old champion's departure delayed four days by immigration authorities for non-payment of Venezuela income tax, was cleared Monday with the filing of a tax form and payment of $300,000 to cover taxes on his $700,000 purse and his expected share from ancillary earnings.

Sadler had originally said Foreman would not pay the taxes because his contract with Video Techniques, Inc., of New York, co-promoters of the Norton fight, had the projected bout with Ali called for a tax-free purse.

The local promoter, Sonia writer Aldemaro Romero, said Foreman had to pay his own taxes because Venezuelan law forbids payment by third parties.

"Whoever promotes any future fight for me outside the United States will have to settle me that they have some knowledge of certain, you know, governmental laws, and can keep me from getting embarrassed," Foreman said.

The undefeated champion raised doubts about a fight with Ali, the former champion with whom he's expected to split a six million paycheck.

"It's (the Ali fight) a lifetime away because there is no promoter alive who truly has me bound to fight any more," Foreman said.

"From what I understand, the group who promoted this fight (with Norton) are the ones interested in promoting the other (Ali) fight," he said. "As far as I'm concerned, they didn't conduct a successful promotion because they didn't get me out of the city."

Henry Schawartz, executive vice president of Video Techniques, said the day after the Norton fight that a contract had been signed for Foreman and Ali to meet in Kinshasa, the former Belgian Congo capital of Leopoldville.

Foreman said the contract would have to be renegotiated.

"There are a lot of things, other than money, which they'll have to discuss," he said. "These are supposed to be professional promoters. For sure, next time I fight everything will have to be taken care of."

Ken Singleton is picked as NL best

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The best looking player I've seen all spring, the one I think can maybe pass Pete Rose, Willie Stargell, Johnny Bench and Cesar Cedeno in the bone-tiring, mind-bending six-month marathon for the National League's MVP Award is Ken Singleton.

He scores a 10 in practically every department.

Condition, good; swing, better; attitude, best of all.

Ken Singleton gives you the impression this summer with him is going to be like last summer all over again, only more so, and when you stop to check his last summer's figures —103 rbi's, 23 homers and a solid .302 batting average playing in every one of the Montreal Expos' 162 games — you find yourself wondering whether he can top them.

He can.

Mostly because of that attitude of his.

Dave Bristol, who managed Cincinnati and Milwaukee and now is one of Gene Mauch's gunches with Montreal, says Singleton has shown him something already no other ballplayer ever has before.

"I've never seen a ballplayer who came to the park more ready, physically and mentally, to play the game every day than he did," says Bristol.

Wait a minute now. Hadn't he managed Pete Rose four seasons?

Bristol nodded.

"That's right," he said, "but Pete's in another world."

Ken Singleton, who put in two years with the Mets, diminishing some of their enthusiasm with a .245 figure before they dealt him, Tim Foli and Mike Jorgensen to the Expos for "Le Grand Orange" Rusty Staub in April of 1972, did such an extraordinary job last year that a lot of people went out of their way to let him know how they felt about his performance.

A week or so before the season ended, after Singleton already had driven in his 100th run, Sawyer made it a point of congratulating him on his tremendous season.

On the final day, Gene Mauch called Singleton into his office because he also had something he wanted to say.

"You worked at all phases of your game," he said in his strong, six-foot-4 rightfielder. "You did a tremendous job."

"I'm gonna do even more next year," answered Singleton.

His salary negotiation with vice president-general manager Jim Fanning during the winter was a classic.

"I spent 20 minutes extolling the virtues of Ken Singleton to him," Fanning remembers. "I told him he was the only player in the big leagues who scored 100 runs, drove in 100 runs, drew 100 walks and hit over .300. There wasn't a single negative aspect about his performance and it gave me a great deal of pleasure to tell him that.

"When I finished," Fanning smiles, "Ken looked at me and said, 'I've nothing more to say. You've said it all.'"

Singleton, needless to say, got a nice pay boost.

The Expos' husky, 26-year-old switch-hitter has been having himself a good spring with 10 rbi's, 2 homers and a .317 batting average. He is an exceptional disciplined hitter who brings the ball into the strike zone before he swings and that also accounts for the number of walks he draws.

He feels no abrasiveness toward the Mets for letting him go after he was with them only two seasons.

"I can't really blame them," he says. "Guys like Cleon (Jones), (Tommie) Agee, Sham (Art Shamsky) and (Ron) Swoboda are the guys who won it for them in 1969, so they went with them.

General fund surplus certain, treasurer says

BOISE (UPI) — Action by the Legislature which adjourned Saturday night assures the general fund of another surplus next year, Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon said Monday.

Miss Moon said her office alone should produce $2.5 million in surplus funds through interest returned on investment of idle monies.

When he put his proposed budget before the Legislature in January, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus estimated that Miss Moon's investments would return $4.6 million in interest to the general fund next year.

A legislative revenue projection committee held down its estimate to $3 million.

Miss Moon said she now estimates her investments will produce $5.5 million next year, or $2.5 million more than the revenue projection committee said she would make. The budget adopted by the second regular session of the 42nd Legislature was based on the revenue projection committee's estimates.

While Miss Moon said she believes there will be $2.5 million in surplus — produced by her office — some legislative leaders have said privately the surplus could be $10 million or more next year.

They contend galloping inflation is bringing in money to the state's coffers at much faster rate than anybody realized it would.

If Miss Moon and the others are correct, this means there was enough money to grant considerably more tax relief or beef up certain state programs than the lawmakers provided.

This session of the Legislature produced a $190.2 million general fund budget for next year giving public schools a whopping $12 million increase.

It includes $1.5 million in permanent "circuit breaker" property tax relief for elderly homeowners. The Legislature also provided for $3.25 million in one shot tax relief by extending one more year the grocery credit on income taxes — paying for it out of this year's general fund surplus.

A contingency bill also was adopted by the Legislature. This will put any surplus from this year's budget into one time only property tax relief by cutting the county school equalization levy up to four mills if enough money is available.

If there is any money left over beyond that tax cut, then it will be used to pre-pay the obligation to reimburse the endowment funds for endowment lands put into the state park system.

No satellite for Mercury

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Mariner 10 claimed the record today for history's most distant April Fool's joke. There is no "Charley the moon."

"Charley," which, almost enshrined a boy's well loved dog in the heavens with ancient gods like Jupiter and Venus — was Mariner's joke on the space scientists, a prank on a cosmic scale.

What the Mariner-watchers at Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory thought was a possible moon over Mercury, a startling discovery, has turned out to be prosaic old 31 Crater — a hot and distant star that wrecked one of Mariner's instruments through a series of coincidences.

Futures market reforms sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House Committee Monday called for sweeping reforms in federal policing of the nation's multi-billion dollar commodity futures markets, including steps to prevent foreign governments from manipulating prices on U.S. Exchange.

The call for new legislation and administrative action came in a report issued by the House Select Committee on Small Business following hearings by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa.

Many of the reforms proposed by the report are included in a bill, already approved by the House Agriculture Committee which may reach the House floor before mid-April.

Smith's proposals, however, go beyond the House bill on several key points including his suggestion that commodity trading regulation be turned over to a new, completely independent commission similar to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The pending House bill also proposes a new regulatory commission with a considerable degree of independence to replace the Agriculture Department's small Commodity Exchange Authority.

Under the bill, however, the new commission would be housed in the agriculture department and the agriculture secretary would be a member of the commission and would be eligible for selection as its chairman.

Drafters of the bill also had indicated they believed general new regulatory powers would be sufficient to safeguard U.S. markets against manipulation by foreign as well as domestic speculators.

Oil tax loophole elimination asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The controversial oil depletion allowance would be eliminated in three stages under a House Ways and Means Committee vote Monday, thereby channeling an estimated $2.3 billion annually into the U.S. Treasury.

The committee recommended that the existing 22 per cent allowance be reduced to 15 per cent on Jan. 1, 1975, to 8 per cent on Jan. 1, 1976, and eliminated completely on Jan. 1, 1977.

Elimination of the allowance would mean up to $3 billion annually to the Treasury depending on production.

The committee voted 18-? in favor of doing away with the allowance, a longtime subject of controversy. It has been conducting hearings on "windfall profits" in the oil industry.

The depletion allowance might no longer be necessary since oil industry profits are so high, a committee spokesman said. After the price of oil reaches a certain point, he said, it is arguable how much of an incentive is needed to stimulate oil exploration and production.

Advocates argued with the worldwide demand being what it is there no longer is a need to encourage oil exploration.

On proposals to exempt so-called stripper wells which produce less than eight barrels a day and the first 2,000 barrels a day from larger wells no decision was reached by the committee.

Initiative not proper

BOISE (UPI) — A group that wants ballot status for the question of removing President Nixon from office cannot use the initiative to do it, Attorney General W. Anthony Park said Monday.

"It is my opinion that advisory questions or resolutions are not proper subjects for the initiative process in Idaho," Park said in a formal opinion for Deputy Secretary of State Jerry Hill.

Hill had asked Park for an opinion after Jon Robertson, a spokesman for the Boise Coalition and in 1972 state chairman of the Peace and Freedom (now People's) Party, asked him about it.

Later the Boise Coalition announced it wanted to put the question of removing Nixon on the ballot next November to get an advisory reading from the public.

Park said both the Constitution and the code speak only to creation of legislation and not to the passage of resolutions in providing for the right of initiative rights of the people.

"A resolution is not a 'law' or 'ordinance' but merely the form in which a legislative body expresses a determination or directs a particular action," Park said. "A law or ordinance prescribes a permanent rule for conduct of government while a resolution is of special or temporary character."

Park also said the use of initiative for this sort of purpose could lead to widespread abuse of it as a poll taking device.

Initiative last was used in Idaho in 1970 when the people voted to cut back on legislative compensation. At the next session of the Legislature the lawmakers restored most of the money cut. As a result two members of that Legislature were recalled from office by their constituents.

Minimum sales tax level hiked

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus signed into law Monday a bill that increases to 15 cents from 13 the minimum sale on which sales tax does not have to be collected or paid.

This measure also exempts from the sales tax the sale of meals by schools to the aging under the Older Americans Act.

Andrus signed 26 bills in this latest batch, among them measures that:

—Provide that consumer credit insurance may be written on transactions up to 12 years instead of just five. This also increases the maximum amount of group life insurance that may be provided for credit life to $25,000 from $10,000.

—Requires collection agencies to maintain an office in Idaho that is open to the public.

—Requires every insurer issuing a motor vehicle insurance policy to pay within 20 days after receiving an itemized bill for repairs he has authorized.

Cadets gunned down

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two young Salvation Army cadets were gunned down at a city bus stop Monday night in an apparent unprovoked shooting.

Thomas Rainwater, 19, was dead at the scene. His companion, Linda Story, 21, was in critical condition at Mission Emergency Hospital with bullet wounds in her back.

The shootings were similar to the unresolved "Zebra" slayings of two months ago in which a black man killed four whites and wounded another, apparently at random, during a one-hour shooting spree.

Police said a black man in his early 20s, wearing a green fatigue jacket and black watch cap, walked up to the couple at the intersection of Geary Boulevard and Webster Street.

DEAR ABBY: Our son (he is 24) and his finance have been going steady since they were 16, and plan on being married when she finishes college (out of town) in June. They have been spending every weekend together for some time. (They each have an apartment.) I knew about this and have told them I disapproved, but since they are both over 21, I had no say in the matter.

Last weekend the girl's mother checked on them and discovered what had been going on. She said she would not give them the big church wedding that was planned as it would be hypocritical.

Examine feelings

The girl is well off in her own right and plans to pay for a big church wedding herself. She has asked me to help her with the plans, and now I am in the middle.

They are a wonderful couple, and I love them both, but I don't want to irritate her mother by doing for this girl what her own mother has refused. Yet, I don't want to alienate my future daughter-in-law. Can you help me?

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: How do you feel about being a party to a big church wedding for a couple who have been spending weekends together for some time? If you feel it would be hypocritical, then have no part in planning it. But if you feel differently about it, then go ahead and help! How the girl's mother feels about it shouldn't dictate your actions.

DEAR ABBY: As my eight-year-old son's birthday approached, I found myself in the dilemma of wanting to give him a birthday party, but being turned off by the idea that each child invited would feel compelled to buy a gift.

Now that we are beginning to realize that the resources on our planet are not inexhaustible, we must be more conservative, so I suddenly hit upon the idea of "recycling" gifts. I sent a note with each invitation saying: "Doesn't your child have something that he has enjoyed, but has grown tired of and would like to pass along to a friend?"

It resulted in a beautiful sharing experience. My son appreciated the gifts all the more knowing they had been enjoyed by his friends. And his friends had the pleasure of giving something they had enjoyed. And nobody had to spend a dime!

If you think this is a good idea, please pass it on. D. B.

DEAR D. B.: It's a lovely idea! But it's hardly new. Adults have been quietly "recycling" gifts for years.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 65-year-old man and have been married to the same woman for 35 years. About ten years ago my good wife went through menopause and during that period she gave me a very bad time. Since then I have been completely "turned off" sexually, especially since she now has grown a mustache.

She complains that I don't "love" her anymore. I love her in the real sense of the word because I care about her, but I do not "love" her enough to make love to her. In fact, I don't think I can! What do you suggest? OVER THE HILL

DEAR OVER: First, tell her to get rid of the mustache and then make an honest effort to make love to her. Most men can, if they want to enough. Force yourself. You may like it.

How did South manage to get set two tricks at this three notrump contract? The answer is that South was an expert and when experts go wrong they really go wrong.

His nine of diamonds held the first trick and as you can see he could now count on three diamonds, three hearts and three spades. Of course, he needed finesses in both diamonds and hearts, but they were right there staring him in the face.

South was sure of the diamond finesse but didn't want to risk the heart finesse if he didn't have to. So he led a club at trick two.

West ducked and dummy's 10 lost East's jack. East led back a diamond and West's king lost to dummy's ace.

South came to his hand with a spade and led a second club. West won this trick with the ace and cleared the diamond suit.

Now South led out his last two high spades. West chucked a heart. It now looked to South as if East held the guarded queen of hearts and the king of clubs in addition to the last spade. South led his four of spades. East won, led a club to his partner and West's two good diamonds completed the two trick set.

Complaint received on brazen streaker

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (UPI) — A complaint received by police here Sunday of a "nude man in the kitchen" sent officers to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Marchette to investigate what appeared to be the most brazen of all streaking incidents.

Sure enough, Patrolmen Earl Smith and Paul Judd confirmed they found a nude male in the couple's kitchen. They told headquarters, however, the Marchettes spoke very poor English and the subject of their complaint probably wasn't capable of serving a jail sentence or paying a fine for indecent exposure.

The Marchettes and police agreed not to file charges against the two-year-old son of Mrs. Sandra Pelfrey, a neighbor, who apparently had stumbled into the wrong home while playing outside.

Magic Valley Favorites

ELNOR WOOD
743 Del Mar Drive, Twin Falls

DUTCH APPLE MUFFINS
2 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
4 tablespoons butter
1-3 cup sugar
1 egg beaten
1 cup milk
1 cup pared chopped apples
Cinnamon-sugar mixture

Sift the flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg together. Cream the butter. Add the sugar and blend well. Add the egg, milk and apples, mix well. Add the sifted dry ingredients and mix only enough to moisten. Drop the batter into greased muffin pans. Top each muffin with either a slice of apple or some chopped apple. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 12 muffins.

One-half cup applesauce may be substituted for the raw apples, decreasing the milk to two-thirds of a cup.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Problems which require a change of persons, attitudes, methods or interests in your life are in effect today. You can easily attain new goals, but you have to get into the specifics of any plan you have in mind.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19): You can do all that work ahead of you most efficiently now. Make sure your health is improved so you can be at the peak of ability.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20): See what you can do to make your personal life more ideal and as you want it to be. Take time to improve your appearance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Don't start an argument at home where the situation is tense at this time. Find solutions to present problems. Take no chances.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Show some thoughtfulness to outside groups and gain their goodwill. Do your shopping early today. Watch your money.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21): You can do a great deal to improve your financial position now. Don't spend too much for recreation. Make plans for the future.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 21): See what you can do to solve your problems instead of fretting about them. Avoid stress and strain. Take health treatments.

LIBRA (Sept 22 to Oct 23): Be sure to take care of accumulated tasks before you go out for entertainment today. Establish order around you. Relax tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct 24 to Nov 21): Get together with dynamic people and exchange ideas. Don't be the critical of others and let them do most of the talking now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21): Handle civic and community affairs with extreme caution now or they could be troublesome. Enjoy the social this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20): You need to study every facet of some new interest now in a most careful way. Listen to what new acquaintances have to suggest.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19): Deal more intelligently with creditors and debtors and get far better results. Forget temptation to lose patience with mate.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20): An associate is discontented but a little heart-to-heart talk can clear up the whole matter. Don't use the wrong words at this time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will like to take center stage with a tendency to be too talkative. Teach to make presence felt only at the right time and place. Then the life becomes successful and a force for the good, especially where the climate is concerned. Give it thorough a spiritual training as you can.

Two-thirds of the divorces are demanded by the women, not the men. . . Why did Mr. Shakespeare call that play "A Midsummer Night's Dream"? It's set in the spring. . . The Federal government now spends $10,500 per second. Client asks what proportion of the population lives life-long on the same county. About 15 per cent. Athletic budgets in the average high school will run about $99 per boy and $1 per girl.

Am asked how long the effect of marijuana lasts. Depends. Strong marijuana, four hours maybe. Weak marijuana, one hour or so. Said "effect" is described as a "passive euphoria." Usually, but not always. What happens physically, varies. Distortions in the hearing, vision or sense of time. And the partaker generally tends to withdraw, pull out of the social action, contemplate private visions.

FRENCH TAX

Approximately 35,000 women in France pay income tax on money they get through prostitution. About 10,000 of them live in Paris. So report French tax authorities.

Those Swiss watchmakers use a little machine so fine it can split a human hair lengthwise into 50 equal strands.

Q. Lewis, would you give me a little tip. Do you have a hired hand?"

A. Not anymore. When the gas shortage started up, I gave him a five-gallon can of high test, and told him to take it out back of the barn, and bury it. Pretty soon he showed up, and said he'd done it, and asked me what to do with the empty can. What, you don't believe that? All right.

DOGS AND CATS

In the wild, dogs run in packs, following a leader. But cats don't. They hunt alone. That's a natural difference between the two. Animal experts say it explains why a dog tends to be so slavishly loyal to its master. Regards said master as the leader of the household pack. The cat, as is known by all, is more inclined to remain its own commander.

Certainly you know all about the human mummies of ancient Egypt, but were you aware that thousands of cats and mice also were mummified then?

Explanations are being sought now for that campus lad known as streaking. But exactly why naked runners abound remains a mystery. But Love and Western movies may have something to do with it, the common denominator among men to please women. You know what old Gautier said: "Women like audacity, when one astounds them, he is sure to please them."

Russians plan further grain purchases abroad

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Advance reports on the Soviet Union's next five-year agricultural plan indicate Russia probably will continue to import grain in years when its own supplies are short, a government analyst said today.

The first solid hint of the content of the plan for 1976-80 Soviet Agriculture were outlined by Leonid Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist party. Brezhnev spoke of continuing the current five-year plan's stepped-up investments in fertilizer, mechanization and other steps to boost crop and livestock production.

Roger B. Euler, an agriculture department specialist in Soviet farm affairs, said in an interview the preliminary reports show hint of a change in a major new policy adopted by Soviet officials several years ago.

Previously, in years of short crops, Soviet policy-makers usually took up the slack by reducing livestock herds. But when a subnormal grain crop was harvested in 1972 the Soviet Union moved into world markets with record grain purchases — including heavy buying of wheat and corn from the United States — in order to avoid pinching domestic consumer supplies of meat, milk and poultry.

Brezhnev's March 15 comments "generally indicate a continuing policy of improving production, especially livestock," Euler said.

"I think, and my colleagues agree, that if they get into another situation where they had to import, they would do it," he added.

Soviet grain imports from the United States are expected to be about seven million tons in the 1973-74 season, which ends this summer, down substantially from 13.4 million tons in the previous year. Experts here predicted recently there will be another sharp drop in sales for the year beginning this summer because the Soviet supply outlook has been brightened by a record 1973 harvest, and prospects for a 1974 crop which would be the second-best in Soviet history.

Euler said the extent of future U.S. grain and soybean sales to Russia will depend on how the weather affects Soviet production. He said Soviet plans appear to call for raising grain output fast enough to keep up with planned expansion in livestock. But the blueprint is based on average weather, which does not always occur, he noted.

A summary of the preliminary 1976-80 plan details outlined by Brezhnev published today in a weekly Agriculture Department magazine on foreign agriculture noted that Soviet fertilizer use is scheduled to rise from 56 million tons in 1973 to 120 million tons by 1980.

Euler said further details of the plan may be disclosed later this year or in 1975.

Survey reveals food price dip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Another global grocery shopping survey by Agriculture Department attaches shows retail food prices around the world in mid-March were generally down slightly from mid-January, a department report showed today.

Officials cautiously added, however, the small overall shifts don't prove there's been a significant break in the general uptrend in food prices. There are some hints the report said, price hikes forced by higher energy costs may be more widespread by summer.

The March survey in 14 world capitals showed consumers in Washington paid $2.29 a pound, for boneless sirloin, 5 per cent below mid-January. Of the 14 separate foods surveyed, Washington prices in early March were down or unchanged for 10 including most meats and eggs and up for only four including cheese, chuck roast, onions and oranges.

In Tokyo, home of some of the world's highest-priced steak, boneless sirloin in early March was down to $10.31 a pound compared with $10.67 in January. The cheapest sirloin found in the 14 capitals ranging from Australia through North and South America, Europe and Asia, was 69 cents a pound in Buenos Aires, unchanged from January.

Overall, the survey showed 92 declines from January in pricing 14 food items in each of 14 cities. There were 73 price increases and 50 cases where prices were unchanged. Most of the price drops were concentrated in fruit, vegetables, pork and eggs — including some normal seasonal "declines." Price increases outnumbered declines, however, for bread, cheese and broiler chickens.

"Supplies of pork were reported to be larger in many markets, and indications are that beef at the retail level may also become more plentiful in the next few months," the report said.

The Agriculture Department's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS), which published the report, noted it found no widespread trend of price increases due to booming energy costs. But some individual cases turned up, and officials warned they could be advance signs of more pressure on consumer food bills.

In Japan, for example, broiler chicken prices jumped from 87 cents a pound in mid-January to $1.43 a pound in early March because of increasing — feed and transportation costs. Tomato prices jumped 14 per cent to reflect the increased cost of plastic film and heating fuel for hothouses, the report added.

The survey showed Washington, while far from the cheapest of the 14 cities for shoppers, generally ranked close to the low end of the price scale for most foods. Pork chops, for instance, were cheaper here at $1.28 a pound than in all the surveyed cities except London and Buenos Aires.

Field day slated

FILER — The Idaho Junior Angus Field Day will be held June 28 at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds here.

The purpose of the field day is to select two Junior Angus members to represent Idaho in the 1974 National Junior Angus Showmanship Contest in Louisville, Ky.

Elmore fair queen contest plans set

GLENNS FERRY — Letters have been mailed to sponsoring organizations and businesses about the fair queen contest.

Junior girls from Elmore County are eligible to participate. Forms are available at the county agent's office, to any girl, regardless of race, religion or creed.

The orientation will be Saturday in the Veterans Memorial Hall here. Girls will be given instruction in modeling, hair care, wardrobe and makeup. The girls will provide salads and the fair queen committee will furnish the rest of the luncheon that day.

The girls will travel by bus provided, from the Mountain Home Air Force Base and the Mountain Home High School leaving at 9:30 a.m. for the 10 a.m. orientation. No private vehicles are to be used. The contestants are asked to not wear slacks or jeans. They are asked to bring the shoes they will wear to the tea, to assist them in modeling practice.

The tea is schedule May 5 at the Air Force base. The pageant will be held June 6 at Mountain Home High School.

Agent sets meetings

GLENNS FERRY — Herbert Edwards, Elmore County agent, has announced that he will arrange a schedule to meet with all livestock leaders and members.

He will review the progress of the 4-H club members. All 4-H steers will be weighed by April 15 to be entered in the carcass evaluation project.

Edwards said there would be an "Offshoot Farm" tour April 24 in Twin Falls. If any 4-H member, 14 years of age or older is interested, information relative to the tour may be obtained at the county agent's office.

The Elmore County Fair will be Aug. 7-10 in Glenns Ferry.

Woodside at the Gateway to "America's ALPS"

Woodside is designed to be a relaxed place for active people. For average people. For people seeking a place to live ... a place to play ... in the placid Wood River Valley. This valley leads north to the Sawtooth Mountains, famed as "America's Alps."

A leading newspaper report has called the Sawtooth Mountain Range area "one of the seven best places to live in the United States." It was so chosen because the air and water are pollution-free, it has a four-season climate and the scenery is superb.

This is an ideal location for a second home in a land of unspoiled forests, mountains, lakes and streams. Property at Woodside offers Idahoans the rare chance to have a vacation home or family hideaway right here in the state within comfortable distance for weekend driving.

Vacation living tailored to your own lifestyle!

On Woodside's 654 acres we intend to provide sites to accommodate living units of varied types — single family homes, apartments, duplexes and condominiums. We want this to be a family fun center for the enjoyment of all the scenic and sports attractions of this beautiful part of Idaho.

To accomplish this, McCulloch's plans call for a total investment of $6 million in land, building and development.

Plans include $1 million Racquet Club

This village resort will feature the private $1 million Woodside Racquet Club complex with extensive facilities for tennis, swimming and other sports.

The club will be maintained by membership fees, and Woodside property owners will be eligible for reduced annual dues.

The club's restaurant and lounge will be open to the public. Six miles of paved bicycle paths will originate at the club. McCulloch is safeguarding the environment with open spaces, park sites and landscaping. Commercial zoning will permit shops and a hotel or motel.

Facilities Bonded

The Racquet Club and bicycle paths are bonded for completion by McCulloch before the end of 1976. Four year completion bonds are posted for paved streets, water lines and sewers, on all property offered for sale. Local utilities will provide natural gas, underground telephone, electricity and cable TV.

Come see Woodside soon!

Our staff will be on hand to answer your questions during this preview period. Be sure to bring your family.

You'll find the Woodside Welcome Center open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. — at the north end of the property on U.S. Highway 93 in Hailey across from Blaine County Friedman Memorial Airport.

Special offer to Idaho residents

After you hear about McCulloch's plans, perhaps you'll be interested in sharing Woodside's exciting future as a property owner. If so, we have a special offer for residents of Idaho during our preview period.

In addition to our low pre-development prices and excellent terms, we are also offering special preview discounts this weekend to residents of Idaho. So take the pleasant drive to Woodside — and investigate this unusual opportunity to us.
