Fire crews surround blaze

CLONDCROFT, N.M. (UPI) — Fire crews today cut a 40-mile line around a 14,500-acre forest fire in southeastern New Mexico and predicted the blaze would be controlled by winds.

The blaze, which exploded like a cyclone in winds up to 60 miles per hour Saturday, was contained inside the fire lines by 600 men and had destroyed 160 acres of valuable timber in the Lincoln National Forest and private land.

No circus, Mansfield vows

WASHINGTON (Combined wire services) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Monday there will be "no circus" if the Senate is called upon to try an impeachment case involving President Nixon.

Mansfield called for a bipartisan approach to the Watergate scandals by Congress and the press, and said he was concerned over the judiciary committee and the Senate stand before evidence has been presented.

Sawhill in line for post

BALTIMORE (UPI) — John C. Sawhill, deputy director of the Federal Energy Office, soon will be named director of the government's energy program, replacing William E. Simon, the Baltimore Sun reported today.

Announcement of the appointment is expected in Washington this week, the Sun said. Simon is expected to become Secretary of the Treasury, succeeding George P. Schultz.

S. Viets seek siege relief

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam said today it has asked the Viet Cong to lift the 15-month siege of the Bang-e-base at Long Lo Chan and at two other positions south of Saigon to allow food and medical attention to reach its starving and wounded troops.

A government spokesman simultaneously accused the Viet Cong of kidnaping 99 civilians Monday throughout the country to fill its ranks, including 61 women and children working in a rubber plantation 40 miles north of the capital.

Informants' names worry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley said today he would like to tell persons inspect the agency's files on them so long as the identities of secret informants could be protected.

Kelley also said he believed the name FBI director in the Hoover was justified in setting out not only to investigate but disrupt "new-left" activist groups several years ago, but that the policy has been rescinded.

Poll shows Nixon gaining

NEW YORK (UPI) — With more public appearances, President Nixon's standing with the American people has begun to climb from its all-time low, according to the latest Louis Harris poll.

The President's popularity rose five points to 31 per cent in March from the low point of 26 per cent a month earlier, the Harris survey said it found in a poll of 1,495 households.

Fischer demands private salon

PARIS (UPI) — World chess champion Bobby Fischer has demanded a separate building for his use if he competes in the 71st Chess Olympiad in June on the French Riviera.

Edward B. Edmondson, president of the US Chess Federation, has had "some friendly discussions" on the matter with Fischer. A federation official said the demands were made in those talks.

UN opens energy crisis meet

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — World diplomats gathered at a special session of the United Nations General Assembly today with the global energy crisis and the new lineup of haves and have-nots has produced.

The session was to open at 1 p.m. EDT and to last three or four weeks. The debate is scheduled to focus on how much industrial countries are to pay for oil and other raw materials from the so-called developing nations.

Algeria criticized the session, expressing the concern that many poor countries will be unable to pay for the oil they need for development unless they get higher prices for their own raw materials.

Prices on TF gasoline pumps keep edging up

TWIN FALLS — A 3-cent hike in wholesale prices to American Oil dealers helped raise gas prices slightly in March here.

The average price of a gallon of regular gas went up 1.5 cents to 43.3 cents in six local service stations surveyed, and the cost of premium was up 1.9 cents to 47 cents; increases of 2.3 per cent and 3.4 respectively.

American Oil dealers were informed of the 3-cent hike last Thursday, according to John Hansen, manager of Labe's American Service Station. Hansen said that he had no idea when "another increase" would be made, but added, "I think when they said 70 cents a gallon, they're not far off."

N. L. Meyers, district manager for American Oil in Salt Lake City, said the increase was due to higher prices for crude oil. The higher prices to the dealer are "based on the increase of our cost of crude as approved by the Cost of Living Council," Meyers said.

Meyers said the price of crude oil goes up and down in January, we decreased our prices 2 cents a gallon, and that is because our crude mix went down.

Labe Hansen, Meyers said, the anticipated another increase "I think it's inevitable, but I have no way of knowing. It's just an assumption," he said.

American stations had been selling gas at the lowest prices of the six major stations included in the survey.

Two other stations kept their prices the same through March, and one increased its price by 9 of a cent for regular and by 2 cents for premium gasoline.

The lowest price for regular was at an American station, surprisingly enough in view of the increase. A gallon was selling for 42.9 cents.

Premium prices were lowest at another major station, at 56.9 cents a gallon.

Highest prices were also found at an American station, with regular gas selling for 59.9 cents a gallon and premium at 59.9 cents a gallon.

Golan clashes continue

By United Press International

Syrian and Israeli tanks and guns battled along the Golan Heights cease-fire line today only hours after a Syrian delegation was to leave for Washington to discuss with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger how to stop the fighting there.

A communique said the 25th consecutive day of combat began at dawn with battles around the slopes of Mt. Hermon, the Israeli-held peak overlooking the battlefield, and then spread to include tank and artillery duels all along the cease-fire front.

It said the artillery exchanges started "when the enemy tried to strengthen its forward positions" and "our forces are silencing the sources of enemy fire and are striking at its mechanized units. Our artillery is directing fire at key enemy positions."

Government sources in Damascus said the Syrian delegation to the disengagement talks with Kissinger would be arriving in Washington on schedule for the talks, due to begin Wednesday. This would mean they said that the mission would be leaving within 24 hours.

The Syrian delegation—to be made up of military men and diplomats, will meet Kissinger and give to him their rejection to a disengagement plan presented by Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

Spud blight, birth defects said not linked

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

ABERDEEN — Idaho researchers can't find a link between potato blight and birth defects, according to a US Department of Agriculture scientist.

The local tests followed earlier English statistical and experimental studies which suggested consumption of blighted potatoes by pregnant women may result in spina bifida and miscarriage in their babies.

Spina bifida affects the lower end of the spinal cord, resulting in paralysis and early death. Anencephaly prevents proper fusion between the brain and the upper skull, also causing early death.

In May 1972 Dr. James H. Renwick, an English population geneticist, reported a statistical correlation between the two birth defects and the prevalence of potato blight.

Prof. D. E. Poswillo, Royal College of Surgeons, found that a group of marmoset monkeys fed blighted potatoes produced four defective offspring out of 11 births. Another group of marmosets fed good potatoes bore only healthy babies.

But further experiments conducted at the University of Idaho experiment station at Aberdeen showed different results.

According to Dr. Dexter Douglas, USDA plant pathologist, experiments with rats, mice, hamsters, rabbits and marmoset monkeys showed no relationship between potato blight and birth defects.

Douglas also said that in follow-up tests, Poswillo himself has been unable to substantiate the results of his first experiments.

At the Aberdeen testing station Douglas and two colleagues fed the human equivalent of 200 to 600 pounds of potatoes to rats, mice, hamsters and rabbits daily.

Half the animals were fed a concentrate of blighted potatoes while the other half were fed a concentrate of healthy potatoes.

Most of the blighted potatoes used were infected by the phytophthora organism, or "early blight," disease which occurs in Idaho.

Poswillo had experimented with "late blight" potatoes infected by the alternaria organism which grows in areas of high rain fall, Douglas said.

Because the animals would eat their deformed babies, the scientists can't open the mothers and studied the fetuses the day before they were to give birth, Douglas said.

The results were the same for the groups fed early blighted potatoes, late blighted potatoes and good potatoes: no abnormal numbers of defects occurred.

Because of the difficulty of obtaining marmoset monkeys the Aberdeen research team contracted to experiment with marmosets at Washington State University and at St. Luke's Hospital in Chicago.

There is a high, 20 per cent, correlation between the effect of substances on the highly evolved marmosets and on humans, Douglas said.

From February 1973 through February 1974 the St. Luke's marmosets were fed the equivalent of two pounds of potatoes eaten daily by a 120-pound woman.

From early blighted potatoes fed to half the monkeys along with their regular monkey chow while the other monkeys' diets were supplemented with normal potato concentrate.

House hearing slated May 7

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democrats on the House Judiciary Committee today decided to begin a hearing on impeachment evidence against President Nixon on May 7, and to invite the President's lawyers to attend the closed session.

During a majority caucus, the Democrats decided to invite James D. St. Clair, Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, into closed session.

"The general feeling is that we will make a presentation of summary in closed session and we expect Mr. St. Clair will be present," said Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio. "I don't see any necessity for Mr. St. Clair to be here before May 7."

The decision came as the committee which is investigating whether grounds exist for Nixon's impeachment waited for St. Clair to reply to its request for additional presidential tapes. The deadline for his reply was today.

Asked whether any decision on subpoenaing the tapes was still being made, Seiberling said no. The committee had indicated it would go to court if necessary to get the material it said is absolutely necessary for its inquiry.

Seiberling said that during the closed session May 7, the committee will review the impeachment charges against Nixon and decide what—if any—action will be taken.

Seiberling said "after the closed session the committee will conduct detailed presentation of the evidence to St. Clair's role in the impeachment inquiry, if any, has been a major point of dispute between the White House and the committee.

Spying control sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said today American society should be willing to forgo "undiscovered" and bring unlawful surveillance of citizens under control.

Ervin, chairman of the Judiciary subcommittee on constitutional rights, made the statement at the opening of two days of hearings on military surveillance.

Ervin said a bill he introduced in the Senate last November, joined by 30 other Senators, would forbid military personnel to conduct surveillance of the political activities of citizens except in "those limited situations" where there is a legitimate need.

"A democratic society must be compassionate as well as vigilant," he said. "We must guard against past indiscretions and allow its citizens to begin again, but the queen is right," said Ervin. "Beginning anew is much more difficult when there are memories of the past to live down and contend with."

The subcommittee's first witness, Robert E. Jordan III, former general counsel for the Department of the Army, said there was "army spying on civilians" during the 1960s, when civil disturbances occurred in a number of cities, and "things got out of hand."

Collision injures TE cyclist, rider

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls motorcycle and a passenger were seriously injured Monday evening in an accident on Falls Avenue East.

John L. Laird, 29, Twin Falls, and John Jeffrey Swanson, 12, Walnut Creek, Calif., were reported in good condition "this morning" at St. Luke's Hospital.

Laird, driver of the motorcycle, received a fractured right arm and right leg. Swanson received a fractured right leg.

According to police reports, the accident occurred about 7:30 p.m. Monday on Falls Avenue East and Madonna Street.

No citations were issued.

North Laird apparently noticed Swanson did not have the passenger foot rests down and was holding his legs out. While attempting to get the foot rests in place, Swanson swerved toward a car being driven by Diana Lynn Starlin, 29, Twin Falls, which was backing along the curb on Falls Avenue.

Starlin was pulling into traffic.

Mrs. Starlin told police she saw the motorcycle and applied her brakes. Laird told police he saw the car but did not have time to avoid the collision.

The motorcycle struck the Starlin sedan in the right rear causing an estimated $120 damage. The motorcycle was destroyed.

Nixon inspects tornado damage

KENIA, Ohio (UPI) — President Nixon flew to this southern Ohio city of 25,000 today for a personal look at the devastation from killer tornadoes that took 38 lives and destroyed about 40 per cent of the city.

Nixon made the trip in an effort to emphasize to federal agencies involved in disaster relief the need to dispense with red tape and keep paper work to a minimum according to an aide.

Ronald Zeigler, Nixon's press secretary, said the President decided to visit the hard-hit Kenia area and fly over another southern Ohio tornado destruction after receiving a detailed report of the damage.

During the trip, James T. Lynn, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, said that the emphasis was on getting food stamps, housing, schooling and unemployment relief to the tornado victims.

Probers set lawyer query

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William B. Saxton today questioned concerning the tax attorney for President Nixon had been referred to the special Watergate prosecutor by the Internal Revenue Service.

Saxton told reporters at a breakfast meeting that he did not know why matters concerning Los Angeles lawyer Frank Drake, who helped in preparing the tax returns for the President, had been referred to Leon Jaworski, the special prosecutor.

- Tippi Hedren, Griffith (D. Mich.), sponsor of the equal rights amendment.
- Patricia Roberts Harris, attorney and former U.S. ambassador to Luxembourg.
- Dorothy Height, president of the National Council of Negro Women.
- Barbara McDonald, consultant on early childhood education.
- Dr. Dixie Lee Ray, first woman chairwoman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The one-hour presentation was moderated by Bess Myerson, former consumer affairs commissioner.

JANAYE QUIGLEY

Castleford miss national finalist

CASTLEFORD — Janaye Quigley, a senior at Idaho State University, was among the seven national finalists in the 1974 College Girl of the Year Pageant in Washington, D.C., in conjunction with the Cherry Blossom Festival, the pageant featured a variety of entertainment, professional character and 51 regular contestants, one girl from each state and the District of Columbia.

Idaho residents can see the pageant on television Thursday at 11 p.m. on Channel 8 out of Nampa and 11:30 p.m. on Channel 4, Salt Lake City. Dick Clark is master of ceremonies for the event and the former Miss America, Yonda Van Dyke is hostess.

This is the 17th year for the College Girl of the Year Pageant and sponsors of the event, "The Washington Area Convention and Visitors Bureau, hopes will become an annual event.

Janaye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Quigley, Castleford, is an elementary education major and maintains a 4.0 average. When asked how she became interested in the pageant, Miss Quigley said she only filled out an application, and from that was chosen Idaho's delegate.

When she arrived in Washington, however, she found the other contestants had more than a few minutes of pageants.

She was told before she left for the national pageant the contestants would be judged on scholarship, community consciousness, personality, judges' interview and creative ingenuity. What she and her coaches did not realize, the creative ingenuity was in fact a talent portion of the pageant and Miss Quigley had not prepared to present talent.

Trustee appeals

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A trustee of the $4 million Hearst Foundation has filed a lawsuit Monday for the kidnapers of Patricia Hearst to contact him. Attorney Vincent Hallinan said he would try to help the kidnapers get away if it would save the girl's life.

Last Saturday, Hallinan appeared on radio KCB5 and asked Patricia's abductors to contact him.

"Now, the fact that I haven't heard from them since is, I think, a rather bad omen, Hallinan said.

He said he would like to talk to Patricia to see if she has any other suggestions of a group—calling itself the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA), as she claimed in a taped broadcast last week.

Hallinan also said he wanted to remind the SLA, which kidnaped her Feb. 4, that if she is killed the death penalty now applies in California.

Hallinan said that if he were to rendezvous with the kidnapers he would do all he could to see that he wasn't followed.

"I would try to help them get away and even try to circumvent the FBI," he said.

Pomerelle 'fling' winners listed

POMERELLE — More than 100 racers from Idaho and Utah took part in a two-day racing program at Pomerelle this past weekend.

The annual Spring Fling is sponsored by the Burley Lions Club. It included a giant slalom event down instructor run for boys and girls competing in five separate classes at noon Saturday. Later in the afternoon about 30 competitors performed two jumps each on Butternut.

Sunday was fun day with a no-suit downhill with some 20 racers on the course at the same time. The final event Sunday afternoon was an obstacle course event in front of the lodge snow deck.

Top winners of the two-day competition received skis donated by Sunset Sports Center, Burley, and trophies from the Lions Club. Several other merchandise items were given runners up.

Winning the first place trophy and skis in the gigante event was Chris Berrier in the 19 and older division. He also won first place in the giant slalom event for his age group.

Another trophy and skis winner was Bill Davis, who turned in the best giant slalom time of the day for the men skiers. Barry Eberhart won skis and a first place trophy for the best time of the day for the women skiers. She raced in the 13 to 15-year-old girls event.

Winning the skis Sunday were John Hawker, Utah entry, who finished first in the downhill event, and Jerry Norby, Rupert, winner of the obstacle race.

Class slalom winners in their class and order of finish included:

Class 1, 6 to 8-year-olds, boys, Michael Krieger.

Class 2, boys 9 through 12 years, Doug Jones, Ray Barlow and Eric Poulsen; girls, Kelly Walker and Lori Poulsen.

Class 3, boys, 13 through 15, Chris Anderson, David Lierman and Scott Banner.

Girls, Barbara Lierman, Kathy Lincke and Sherril Hanahan.

Class 4, boys, 16 through 18, Bill Davis, Brad Wills and Scott-McNeese. Girls, Colleen Pates, and Jamie Barlow.

Class 5, boys 19 and over, Chris Berrier, Keith Hanebett and John Hawker.

Gelände winners included, 19 and over, Chris Berrier, Brad Wills and Kevin Hodges; 15 through 18, Jerry Norby and Casey Wineman and Brad and Jim Steelman, third, and Terry Kraeger, fourth, and 14 and under, Greg Tolson and Steve Stanger.

White will be at the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce Office.

Sea lion born

BERLIN (UPI) — A sea lion has been born in the West Berlin zoo for the first time in its 130-year history.

Guenther Gonsc, the keeper, said so far as he knows only once before has a sea lion been born in captivity — in 1965 in the zoo in the West German city of Stuttgart.

He said although sea lions give birth in captivity the babies are invariably born dead.

Vandals fire away at firms' windows

TWIN FALLS — Two window shooting incidents were reported to Twin Falls police Monday.

Employees for Bank of Idaho told police a marble-sized hole was shot in a 2-foot by 4-foot window panel in the bank's office at 113 Main Ave. W. between 10:30 and 11:45 p.m. Monday. No damage estimate was available.

Employees of Twin Falls Sewing Center reported a marble-sized hole in the front window of the business at 150 Main Ave. N. The incident was said to have occurred between 9 p.m. Saturday and 10:15 a.m. Monday. The damaged 6-by-2-foot window was valued at about $200.

In a third vandalism case reported to police Monday, Steve Land, 1912 Evergreen St. told police someone had driven a vehicle through the yard between 9 a.m. Sunday and 2 a.m. Monday tearing out three 2-year-old ash trees valued at about $150. Pieces of the trees were dragged into the street, Lund told police.

Police were also investigating the theft of a three-wheeled motorcycle and the theft of a large truck radiator.

Charles Cozgriff, Twin Falls, told police his three-wheeled motorcycle was stolen from the 900 block of Blue Lakes Blvd. N. about 1:30 p.m. Monday. The motorcycle was described as a 1973 Honda with yellow front bumper. It apparently bore no license plates.

Employees for Interstate Mack, 1738 Floral Ave., told police a large radiator was stolen from the firm's property between Sunday and Monday. The radiator, described as a heavy truck type, was reportedly taken from beneath a sheet of plastic next to the company's office. The radiator, although reportedly damaged prior to its theft, was valued at about $550.

Rendering plant shutdown planned

TWIN FALLS — GU International, formerly Idaho Hide and Tallow Co., will halt all rendering operations within a month.

The firm will continue collection of dead animals and freezing the meat for shipment to producers, Gagliardi said.

"Cash return" programs might be arranged with suppliers of the pet food if the meat is kept in a "fresh state," he said.

The Twin Falls plant, southeast of the Kimberly-Rudolph intersection, employs 19 people and several managers, Gagliardi said.

"We said the pet food operation might call for more employees in the future."

Clinic checks 138

SHOSHONE — Several of the 138 persons checked at the hypertension clinics held in Lincoln County will be referred to physicians for further checkup.

Mrs. Zanie Alexander, public health nurse for Lincoln County, said the clinics were held to help persons who were found to be in need of treatment or further checkup.

There were 138 persons who attended the three locations for a blood pressure check. Mrs. Alexander said this included 46 at Richfield, 25 at Shoshone, 25 at Dietrich and 41 at Hildale.

Mary Schwager, Shoshone, assisted Mrs. Alexander with clinic and helped register the patients.

Why is your A.D. Pharmacist called "personal"?

Because it's always available for personal consultation. The pharmacist is trained to understand your doctor's instructions, for instance, is a very good idea to check with him on unusual prescriptions. The little factual cards of help for patients are also made, resulting from self-medication. He sure has the "A.D." Pharmacist.

See McCullochs new village-resort... Woodside!

To appreciate Woodside, you should see it — experience its superb location — and hear the plans made for it by McCulloch, the London Bridge people.

As a substitute for this however, we asked an artist to draw a picture of life at Woodside — because development is just beginning.

Of course, the above sketch is only one of the pictures he drew, because tennis is just one of the sports activities to be provided by the new $1-million Racquet Club complex that will be completed by the end of 1976. It will be maintained by membership fees, and Woodside property owners will be eligible for reduced annual dues.

Imagine having a home apartment duplex or condominium at Woodside for your own family hide-away. But better still, come see the property at Woodside. And hear the whole Woodside story. Woodside property is available now — at attractive prices with excellent terms. Investigate this unusual opportunity today.

The Woodside Welcome Center is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. At the north end of the property on U.S. Highway 93 at Hailey, Idaho across from the airport.

TF marchers show heart

The young people who marched or ran up to 20 miles Saturday to raise money for the March of Dimes demonstrated the best kind of citizenship. They quite literally went the extra mile to help the March of Dimes effort to combat birth defects. March sponsors estimate nearly $10,000 was raised. A 20-mile walk is a long way to go to help somebody you perhaps will never see. Yet of the 152 people who set out on the 20 mile hike, 140 went the full 20 miles. Some participants even ran the whole way. That is an impressive record. It shows a lot of people choose to give more than lip service to charity.

NUMBER ONE ON THE NEW ENEMY LIST

LOUG GAVINS
Candidate 1974 for the Michigan State Senate

His toughest challenge

(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the foreign relations committee, turns 69 today. Fulbright has some problems. Sixty-nine is not a venerable age in the Senate, but it's a dangerous age. For example, over the years, Fulbright has voted along conservative lines on domestic affairs. In the East, I guess I'm looked on by many people as a reactionary because of my civil rights votes," he says. "But in Arkansas I suppose a lot of folks look upon me as an extreme liberal or leftist because I opposed the war and opposed Joe McCarthy."
He is finding too, anti-Watergate feeling is working against anybody who is part of the Washington establishment.
Fulbright's record on foreign affairs and his chairmanship of the Foreign Relations committee help him in some ways and hurt him in others. He has fought many unpopular battles against the rise of the presidential power, the invasion of Cuba, the war in Vietnam — all of which have, with the passage of time, increased respect in the Senate for his judgment and persistence.
What is at stake is not only the economy, or the influence of Arkansas in the Senate but the future leadership of the Foreign Relations Committee. If Fulbright were defeated, the next in line of seniority on the committee would be Sen. John Sturgis of Alabama, who is now chairman of the Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee, and would probably prefer to keep that post.
Next is Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, but his duties as majority leader in the Senate would probably preclude his adding the chairmanship of foreign relations. The job would probably go to Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, who has long been a close relationship with a good chance to win.

Fulbright and Nixon served together in both the House and Senate but Fulbright's opposition to the war and his campaign against "the arrogant power" in the White House have made reconciliation extremely difficult.

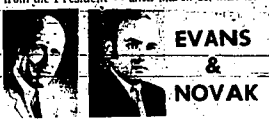

JAMES RESTON

This is not true, however, in the relations between Fulbright and Kissinger. Even in the first Nixon administration, when Kissinger was in the White House, Kissinger and Fulbright acquired a respect that has flourished into a close relationship since — Kissinger, became secretary of state in 1970 and since Secretary Dean Acheson negotiated a working understanding with Chairman Arthur Vandenberg of foreign relations at the end of the last world war, was the secretary and the chairman, been working so well as a team as they are working at times, instability both at home and abroad this is undoubtedly in Fulbright's favor.
Still he is fighting the most critical battle of his long career. "There is clearly a feeling of dissatisfaction with Washington," he says, "and it's up to me to make a distinction between Mr. Nixon and the Watergate on the one hand and my own activities on the other."
"I think I'm managing to argue my case on its merits and frankly I think I can win, but I have a hard educational campaign ahead," he says.

GOP leaders still ignoring Watergate effects

WASHINGTON — The blunders leading to President Nixon's prospective Michigan campaign trip may cost the Republicans another Congressional seat and deepen their gloom.
But far more important is this: national Republican leaders have yet to come to terms with realities of Watergate politics.
"This is absolutely lunatic," one Republican told us in describing plans to send Nixon to Michigan's 8th Congressional District, which elects a new Congressman April 16. That is because the controversy over Nixon's trip has riveted him as the central issue of the race — a burden no Republican candidate can welcome. The blame rests with James Sparling, Republican nominee, making his first try for public office.
But Republicans reveal a party leadership apparently more interested in saving the President than Congressional seats.

These leaders seem oblivious to lessons of earlier special elections. It is to the advantage of Democratic candidates to make confidence in Nixon the central issue. Ironically in Michigan's 8th District the Republican campaign has brilliantly distracted attention from the President — until March 22, that is.

EVANS & NOVAK

Until then, Sparling had State Sen. Robert Traxler, the Democratic nominee, on the defensive for his support of school busing and legislative absenteeism.
But rumors spread of secret Democratic polls showing a huge Traxler lead. Sparling panicked. On March 22, he proposed to Republican State Chairman William McLaughlin a desperate gambit: invite Nixon to campaign in the district. Usually Republican rural counties — though McLaughlin pointed out obvious dangers, he agreed.

Sparling and McLaughlin telephoned Republican National Chairman George Bush to request the President's visit. Word was also received to Rep. Bob Orlin of Illinois. Congressional campaign committee chairman, Bush and Mitchell should have warned Sparling of his folly. They did not.
Instead, they seemed delighted to tell the President March 22, at least one candidate wanted his help. Bush, Orlin and Illinois.
If Bush and Mitchell were delighted to bear good tidings to the Oval Office, the President was equally delighted to learn he was not Typhoid Mary after all.

A few days later, a poll revealed to Sparling: (1) He was less than 8 percentage points behind Traxler, closer than anybody imagined; (2) Nixon was unbelievably unpopular in the district; (3) He was a divisive issue as a race issue. Thanks partly to Sparling's own shrewd campaign. The conclusion: Sparling should concentrate on Traxler and forget about Nixon.
But what is obvious is not always easy in the Republican party. The poll results were revealed to Traxler and presidential counselor Dean Rusk at last weekend's Midwestern Republican conference — in Chicago, nobody fully asked that Nixon stay home. Thus began a classic case of Republican noncommunication.
In the future, such polls, because news accounts incorrectly accused the White House of promoting the invitation. But still the visit was a case of nothing to lose and everything to gain for the President and Sparling.

Who gets final say in impeachment cases?

Portland Oregonian
While there is much current discussion about the constitutional process of impeachment, as it affects a president, the House of Representatives and the Senate, little is said about the validity of judicial review of a possible Senate conviction of a president impeached by the House. The general assumption is that any such Senate action would be final. But there is plenty of reputable opinion to the contrary — that a conviction in the Senate in any impeachment case could be appealed to the federal courts; that is, practically speaking, to the U.S. Supreme Court.
The most thorough recent study of that issue is to be found in "Impeachment: The Constitutional Process," by Tomu Berger, a specialist in American legal history on the faculty of Harvard Law School, the Harvard University Press, 1972. It is the author's decided opinion and that of other authorities he cites that congressional action on impeachment is subject to judicial review.
The popular view on the matter probably springs from the wording of Art. I, Sec. 3, which declares that the "sole power for trying a case of impeachment resides in the Senate. Berger points out that at another point in the Constitution, Art. III, Sec. 2, it is provided that "the judicial power shall extend to all cases arising under this Constitution."
But this is by no means the only support of his position. He cites the relatively recent case of the Supreme Court's setting aside the House of Representatives' expulsion of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, even though the Constitution, Art. I, Sec. 5, says each house of Congress shall be the judge of the qualifications of its members. The court, enunciated the established proposition of judicial review in those words: "It is the province and duty of the judicial department to determine whether the powers of any branch of the government have been exercised in conformity to the Constitution. And if they have not, to treat that act as null and void."
Berger considers the Powell case to be parallel in its constitutional principles to an impeachment case, as do many other constitutional authorities. He cites such authorities, beginning with the Founding Fathers, in support of the theory that "the process of law, as the phrase is used in the Constitution, applies to an impeached president as well as the ordinary citizen. And the 'process of law' is pursued in the judiciary branch headed by the Supreme Court.
Thus there is every respect that any impeachment and conviction of President Nixon by the Congress would not end there. It might very well go to the Supreme Court, which, Berger and others say, should not be excluded from interpreting the constitutional bases for impeachment: treason, bribery, and other high crimes and misdemeanors."

Now it's time for Watergate trivia test

- 1 — On the night five men broke into the national headquarters of the Democratic Party at the Watergate. Several men were stabbed away at a motel across the street.
- 2 — After Watergate, the wife of a former attorney general claims she was held in a motel in Los Angeles, Calif., against her will. How much was she charged for the two extra days?
- 3 — What was the price of milk before the milk industry promised a contribution to President Nixon's reelection campaign? What was the price after the contribution?
- 4 — The President has had four attorneys general and one acting attorney general since 1973. Which one said, "Judge us not by what we say, but by what we do. What status was indicated by his speech?"
- 5 — President Nixon has insisted from the beginning he never had any knowledge of Watergate until March 21, 1974. What football games did he watch while the cover-up was going on?
- 6 — Dr. Fielding, a psychiatrist in Los Angeles, has a patient in the White House. He ordered a special team called "the plumbers" to steal the patient's records — but "the plumbers" couldn't find them, why didn't they take Fielding's couch instead?
- 7 — One of the major discoveries of the Senate Watergate hearings was that President Nixon taped the conversations of everyone who came into his office. When nine of the tapes were subpoenaed, the White House said only seven existed. Who was the man Nixon fired for taping his own conversations?
- 8 — What two buttons on a recording machine would you have to push down at the same time you put your foot on a pedal to record 18 1/2 minutes of a crucial White House tape?

ART BUCHWALD

What was the name of the motel and how many floors did it have at the time?
When Tom Ziegler was informed about the Watergate break-in, he said he would not comment on a alleged burglary. Name a first-rate burglary. Ziegler has commented on.

Buckley recommendations not outside pale

Even the water buffalo and the springbok in Africa are making their own recommendations. Senator from New York; that Richard Nixon resign the presidency pro bono publico.
Returning from abroad and examining the response to his suggestion, one is struck by a number of misunderstandings which appear to have become institutionalized among conservatives and liberals as well.
Most of them, in my judgment, incorporated in a two-sentence statement by a Republican Congressman from Tennessee, Dan Kuykendall.
He is quoted as saying: "Senator Buckley's proposal is most dangerous as it would affect the Republic and its operations. His willingness to see a man forced out of office without proof of impeachment, condones a whole block of understanding as to how this Republic was formed and how it operates."
If Nixon were to resign, would he in fact have been forced out of office? To answer in the affirmative, it is required that the word "forced" be used in a specific sense. Obviously — there is no way to "force" Nixon out of office other than to impeach him, and convict him. Inasmuch as Senator Buckley looks with horror at that prospect, the first part of which is by all accounts imminent, then the point to make is that Senator Buckley desires that Nixon should not be "forced" out of office.
If Kuykendall is using the word figuratively, then the question to ask is: Are we really committed to the proposition that the people should not express themselves concerning the way they desire? Here again a distinction is necessary. If Senator Buckley had said that every time the American people desire a President to resign he should do so, he would have thrown in his lot with the plebeians and those whom, as a conservative, he desires no affiliation.
But he is not saying that. Nowhere in his statement is there a hint of it. He did not say that Nixon should resign because the majority of the American people would rather have another President. He said he should resign because the alternatives — for America — are less desirable.
The alternatives being a) the probability of impeachment and the possibility of conviction; b) a presumptive suspicion of presidential policies reflecting loss of confidence in Nixon; and c) an executive weakened as an institution by former men who, in their anxiety to get 'Nixon' are likely to make further than is good for the institution of the presidency.

What I understand, Senator Buckley to have done is to have asked President Nixon to spare the United States the expense of impeachment or the Watergate fiasco. I cannot see how, in doing so, he showed any lack of understanding of republican government.

Recently the governor of New York State, elected in a landslide, resigned. But even his critics do not believe that he did anything venal by resigning, or that he betrayed his mandate. Any more than Richard Nixon betray his mandate, if he decided to turn over the reins of government to his own appointed successor, Gerald Ford.
Nixon has stressed that he was elected in order to carry out certain programs. Does he recognize that he is saying, in effect, that these programs would not be carried out under his successor, Gerald Ford; if that is the case, why do you appoint Ford?

I understand Senator Buckley to have asked the President to perform an act of noblesse oblige. That is to say, to put his country's interests above his own. That is not, surely, to misunderstand republican government, but to express the highest faith in it. Those who are hell bent to impeach Nixon are the blood-lusters, hiding under the skirts of Constitutional formalism.
Maybe Senator Buckley's recommendations are misguided. Certainly they are not outside the spirit of the Constitution which three times mentions presidential resignation as a possibility.

Cartoon states it right

Editor, Times-News: Your March 11 editorial cartoon of the American eagle and the Russian bear marching suspiciously side by side towards Geneva, mounted on high altitudes of nuclear missiles, portrays much better than words what a ridiculous position we have got ourselves into.

...This continuing hoax being perpetuated upon the American and Russian people (not to mention the rest of the world's spectators), of endless and meaningless peace talks and so-called arms limitation conferences, would be incredible if the average intelligence were not actually a fact of our daily lives.

The past three years of congealed vodka-parties-and-red-carpet-tourist-jackets-at-Helsinki-and-Vienna have not produced a single restraint on the development and manufacture of up-to-the-minute nuclear weapons.

Having now stockpiled and deployed our slightly outmoded IBM and ICBM far beyond the point of overkill, we are free to devote our attention to multiple individual re-entry vehicles (MIRVs) and such new and more efficient toys as shall come off the drawing board from time to time.

We made considerable political capital by publicizing our agreement to outlaw poison gas and chemical warfare. But then, as you will remember, we did that at the Hague peace conference shortly after World War I. Of course, we don't use mustard gas any more. We don't use bows and arrows either.

But, however, we did spend more bombs defolating the jungles of North and South Vietnam than in all of World War II in the Southwest Pacific. In the second momentous year of SALT I, we agreed to refrain from nuclear blasting of the bottom of the ocean, but this did not deter our experiments off Attu in year, to be the funniest thing I've ever heard of in my life.

Letter nets reply

Editor, Times News: This is in reply to the letter published March 31 by Misses Olmstead, Beck, Hansen, Sievers and Charlton. Dear Boys: We at Twin Falls High School are equally as proud of our baseball, track and golf teams as you are of our football and basketball teams.

I'm sure that if you boys were on this year's winning basketball team, you would have sucked up some of this glory and would not have written your letter. It is obvious that you boys did not attend the Champ Day assembly held recently. Past champions and their coaches were mentioned and the Student Body at TFHS proudly applauded them.

SLA: Love through violence

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Preaching love and the brotherhood of man through violence, the Symbiase Liberation Army burst upon the national scene with the kidnapping of publishing heiress Patricia Hearst Feb. 4.

Among the SLA's aims were the destruction of the prison system, of unjustly oppressed people, of the existing system, and to assure the rights of all people to self-determination.

The code ends with the following, signed by Cinque: To those who would tear the hopes and future of the people, let the voice of their guns express the words of freedom.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Laryngitis teacher's occupational hazard

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been an elementary school teacher for six years during which time I have had numerous head colds leading to laryngitis and each attack of laryngitis means losing two days of school.

In some of the 100 or more viruses that cause colds, you are exposed to a goodly crop of them. It is not surprising that laryngitis seems to be an occupational hazard for some elementary teachers.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'd like to give you my views on whether my wife's cure for nail-biting when I first met her was a compulsive nail-biter and couldn't break the habit.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About the man who loses his voice once a year in winter, that was happening to our whole family until we figured it out. We had our humidifier going almost all the time and were perfectly okay at home, but when we went to work or the kids went to school we would lose our voices.

Now when Twin Falls athletics are mentioned, the other schools in the SIC will not only think of spring sports but of basketball as well.

Gaullist candidates

Candidates asked to withdraw

POLITICAL forces in Paris said the splitting of the conservative vote four ways could conceivably give victory to a left-wing candidate on the first round of balloting for the French presidency on May 6. The four Gaullist candidates are from left to right: Giscard d'Estaing, Edgar Faure, Christian Fouchet and Jacques Chaban-Delmas. (UPI)

PARIS (UPI) — Prime Minister Pierre Messmer asked the four Gaullist candidates for the presidency today to withdraw and allow him to step forward as a single compromise standard-bearer against the Communist Socialist bloc.

One of the four contenders, National Assembly Speaker Edgar Faure, agreed immediately to announce "my withdrawing as a candidate."

He added, however, "If everybody stays in the race, I shall re-think my attitude."

One of the two most important Gaullist candidates, former Prime Minister Jacques Chaban-Delmas, indicated he has no intention of pulling out.

The other, Finance Minister Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, made it clear he would not withdraw unless Chaban-Delmas does.

The fourth Gaullist candidate, Christian Fouchet, did not consent immediately. But he would not attract enough votes in any case, in spite of the conservative Gaullists in their battle against the lone Communist-Socialist candidate, François Mitterrand.

A spokesman for Messmer said the prime minister will be a candidate if the other Gaullist candidates pull out of the race. He is asking them to do so.

The nationwide election is scheduled for May 5 to elect a successor to the late President Georges Pompidou, who died of bone cancer last week at the age of 62. A runoff vote will be held two weeks later if no candidate wins an absolute majority in the first round.

Messmer, 58, has rated consistently low in public opinion polls. He appeared to have come forward at least in part to keep France from skidding back to the bad old days of political scheming and infighting deplored by the late President, Charles de Gaulle.

Lawyer-client tie testimony focus

(c) N. Y. Times Service — NEW YORK — Three lawyers testified for the defense in the Mitchell-Stans trial Monday.

In the process the jurors learned a lot about the daily practice of law and the delicacies of lawyer-client relationship.

The lawyers were called in an effort to establish that Robert L. Vesco, a financier who is now a fugitive, was being harassed by the Securities and Exchange Commission and that he sought relief from such harassment.

The defense also wanted to show that Vesco did not care whether or not his secret, $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's reelection campaign was made public.

John N. Mitchell, the former Senate majority leader, and H. Stans, former secretary of commerce, are accused of perjury, conspiracy, and obstruction of justice for allegedly attempting to quash an SEC investigation of Vesco in return for the $200,000 contribution.

First, there was Sherwin J. Markman of the prestigious Washington law firm of Hogan & Hartson, testifying for the second day. On Friday and again Monday Markman testified about what the defense considers the harassment of Vesco.

It is a defense contention that SEC harassment of Vesco led the financier to seek a meeting with William J. Casey, then chairman of the commission.

Weicker shows IRS file access

(c) N. Y. Times Service — WASHINGTON — Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. in a report to the Senate Watergate hearings, made public today documents showing that the White House had frequent access to confidential Internal Revenue Service files on political friends and foes of President Nixon.

The Republican senator from Connecticut told three Senate subcommittee holding joint hearings on government surveillance activities that "the IRS was acting like a public lending library for the white house."

Reading from a thick stack of documents obtained last year by the Senate Watergate Committee, of which he is a member, Weicker recited a number of new details about alleged White House improprieties. They included the following charges: — An administration task force set up in mid-1968 to gather tax information on "activist organizations" had collected files on some 10,000 taxpayers before the unit was disbanded last August.

— John J. Caulfield, a former Treasury Department and White House official, gave John W. Dean III, the former White House counsel, information in 1971 on Internal Revenue Service audits of Billy Graham, the evangelist, and John Wayne, the film star, two political supporters of Nixon.

— A series of 1971 memos from Caulfield to Dean outlined preparations that the White House could undertake to initiate "discreet IRS audits" of Emilio "De Antonio," the producer of a film "Millhouse a white comedy" lampooning the President, and distributors of the movie.

Panel probes fraud possibility

(c) N. Y. Times Service — WASHINGTON — The impeachment inquiry staff of the House Judiciary Committee is investigating whether fraud may have been involved in President Nixon's handling of his personal income taxes.

John M. Donohue, chief counsel of the staff, told committee members at a briefing Monday that the question of fraud is clearly part of their investigation. He said internal Revenue Service records dealing with the President's tax matters have been requested along with other tax information.

Earlier statements by the Judiciary committee's chairman, Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., and other senior committee members had indicated that the committee was unprepared to consider the question of fraud but would concentrate instead on whether the President's handling of his personal tax matters had diminished confidence in the Internal Revenue System.

Rebozo's lawyer gives data

(c) N. Y. Times Service — WASHINGTON — William S. Frates of Miami, the lawyer for Charles G. Rebozo, acknowledged Monday that Rebozo had discussed a President Nixon's suggestion, a controversial $100,000 campaign contribution by Howard R. Hughes during a White House meeting last April with Herbert W. Kalmbach.

But Frates emphatically denied in the telephone interview that Rebozo had told Kalmbach, as Kalmbach has repeatedly claimed, that he disbursed the cash to President Nixon's two brothers, the President's personal secretary and others.

He did have a conversation with Mr. Kalmbach, Frates said of his client, one of the President's closest personal friends, "as he did with several people in the White House about that to do with the money and how to return it."

Nixon, Henry abandon unity campaign

(c) N. Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON—President Nixon and Secretary of State Kissinger have stopped pressing for a united Western Europe because they have come to the conclusion that the only unity possible for the moment is under French leadership in opposition to the United States.

The death of a President Georges Pompidou raises new questions, but there is little expectation in Washington that the French attitude will change.

The Nixon administration, instead of directing its main effort toward the political union of Western Europe, a stated objective of American policy for 25 years, has been trying to bolster relations with European nations individually, and it has been trying to check the French drive for leadership in Europe by telling the other European nations that they must "choose" between Washington and Paris.

Both the President and Kissinger were said by high White House and State Department officials to be prepared to support "the right kind of united Western Europe," still. But the officials said that both believed that this unity was not likely because of the internal weaknesses of the Western European governments.

Kissinger has told his top aides that the governments lack the leadership and internal support to hammer out compromises with Washington, which would entail political opposition at home. Kissinger is said to feel that they are taking the easy way out—siding with Paris in anti-American positions that involve little domestic risk.

Recent news conferences and public statements by Nixon, Kissinger and Vice President Ford were described as being designed to make this policy clear.

The European governments, the officials explained, had been shocked into seeing that they could not move together at the expense of American interests. Some of the Europeans were even coming to us these last months and asking why we were doing nothing about the drift toward the French position," one White House official said.

US spy plot backfired

(c) Chicago Daily News
An out-of-control US espionage operation is blamed for a major role in the deaths of 1,000 eastern European leaders 25 years ago.

The charge comes in a book, "Operator Splinter Factor," by British journalist, Stewart Steven, published today.

Steven says splinter factor was the name of a plan to lure Russian leaders by hiding that some were US spies.

But the cold war plan led Russian leader Joseph Stalin's paranoia and became so successful that the United States lost control over which leaders would be denounced, Steven says.

"Hundreds were killed by that deadly combination of Joseph Stalin and Operation Splinter Factor," Steven writes. "We know that at least 100,000 men, women and children directly suffered; of whom about 1,000 were put to death."

The driving force behind the 1949 plan, according to Steven, was Allen Dulles, a powerful figure in the US intelligence community and later head of the CIA. It was aided by Josef Swiatko, a high-ranking member of the Polish secret police and a US spy.

Splinter factor's purpose was to free the eastern European nations from the Russian grip, Steven says. It was felt that the best way to get the people to revolt would be to replace the "liberal" Communists then in charge of their countries with hard-line Stalinists, who would be so oppressive the people would rise up.

Splinter Factor, Steven says, was designed to denounce the liberalist spies—forcing the Communist leadership into the subsequent revolt.

Crackdown sought

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
WASHINGTON—Consumer advocate Ralph Nader's Health Research Group has called for a crackdown on the distribution of materials used in dentistry that contain the ultrahigh metal beryllium.

Crowns, bridges and partial dentures containing the metal present a clear health hazard, group technicians working in laboratories where such prosthetic devices are made, Alexander M. Schmidt, commissioner of the food and drug administration.

What is more, the organization said, dentists and their patients may also risk serious lung diseases due to unavoidable inhalation of aspects of beryllium created in the final fitting process when the dentist often grinds and polishes the prostheses in the patient's mouth.

The HRTG report also quoted a report from the National Institute for occupational safety and health as saying:

"Pneumonitis with accompanying cough, chest pain and general weakness is the most familiar and striking characteristic of chronic beryllium disease. In addition, pulmonary dysfunction and systemic manifestations may be present."

Monitor wreckage

COMPOSITE of photographic taken of the wreck of the Civil War ironclad warship Monitor in the Atlantic Ocean off Morehead City, N. C. Ship's gun turret, which broke off and shifted from the hull as it came to rest, is shown at the top of the picture, under the barnacle-encrusted hull. After over 110 years on ocean floor, the wreckage is considered almost too fragile to be recovered. (UPI)

Gravity's strength weakening but effect not notable soon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first direct evidence was reported Monday supporting the theory that the strength of gravity on earth and throughout the universe is very slowly weakening.

Dr. Thomas C. Van Flandern, astronomer at the U.S. Naval Observatory, measured the orbital speed of the moon with the precision of an atomic clock to determine that the force of gravity apparently is decreasing at the rate of one part in 10 billion per year.

"This means the said in an interview, that a 150-pound man would lose 7 millionths of a gram of weight a year. A grain is roughly the weight of a paper clip.

Van Flandern presented his findings at the opening session of a week-long meeting of the American Geophysical Union. He said his work was based on a theory proposed two years ago by Cambridge University astronomer Fred Hoyle.

The basis for the work is the assumption that if gravity is weakening, the orbits of planets about the sun, or the moon about the earth, would slowly expand and the time for each orbit would gradually increase.

The orbital time of the moon was easiest to measure, but it is also known that the friction of tidal forces between the earth and moon is slowing the moon's orbit.

Hoyle suggested that if the rate played by tidal forces were the sole cause of deceleration, gravity could be measured.

Van Flandern, using the separate calculations of two other scientists, subtracted the tidal factor and found that what presumably is weakening of gravity is allowing the moon to move away from the earth about 4 centimeters a year—about 1 1/2 inches—to increase its orbital period seven-tenths of a second a year.

"This is the first published result which appears to have a most probable explanation that gravity is decreasing," he said.

Up to about 4 years ago, it was assumed by scientists that the force of gravity remained constant. The first suggestion that it might be decreasing was made in the 1920s. But there is as yet no direct way to measure changes in the force of gravity, and Van Flandern said his work was the first indirect evidence suggesting gravity is decreasing.

Another possible cause for a lengthening of orbital period would be that the sun is losing mass at a greater rate than is now believed, but he said astrophysicists do not believe this is the case.

As nearly as we can tell, the other possibilities seem to be excluded," Van Flandern said.

If the rate of gravity weakening were constant throughout the history of the solar system, he said, it would mean that an object that existed 4.5 billion years ago would be twice as heavy as it is today.

A weakening of gravity also would have major implications for the earth—and reason it would mean, for example, that the earth is expanding at the rate of less than one centimeter per century. That, he said, would explain why the continents of earth seem to be slowly drifting apart.

A constant rate of the decline in the force of gravity also compounds a problem for scientists trying to determine the history of the moon-in-relation-to-earth. Constant deceleration of the moon's orbital speed by tidal forces would mean that a satellite more than 1.5 billion years and the weakening of gravity on top of that would mean the moon must not have been an earth satellite longer than 1 billion years.

History's lessons said survival key

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Unless the United States heeds the lessons of history, "damn soon," Sen. Barry Goldwater says it will be in trouble so deep "it will never be able to get out."

"And I'm not talking about Watergate," the Arizona Republican told a conference of the Council of Construction Employers Monday. "What I am saying is that down through history the governments which burned to the welfare state approach in their handling of mankind's needs and comforts created their own destruction."

He expressed doubt that Americans realized how crucial things were in the United States.

"The situation is not a matter of 'slight' and 'misericords,'" he said. "It is deadly serious. And I suggest that unless we heed the lessons of history—and heed them damn soon—this country is going to find itself in trouble so deep that it will never be able to get out."

Goldwater said any time a problem arises in the United States he called a crisis and the remedy is always the same—throw millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money at that problem and hope that it will go away.

"It does not seem to matter to our policy-makers that this has never worked," he said. "It is a wait-and-see attitude about population is adopted—the result could be unbelievable dangerous."

If the collapse envisioned by the computer based on present growth trends is borne out, you will have a world where industry production has sunk to zero, where population has suffered a catastrophic decline; where the air, sea, and land are polluted beyond recognition.

In other words, we would have a world where our present civilization would be nothing more than a distant memory.

Gas.

The economical replacement.

When your present water heater needs replacing, we want you to consider changing to gas water heating. It's still the most economical method of heating water, and gas water heating is also an efficient use of energy for that purpose. From a convenience standpoint, gas is tops. A 40-gallon model will heat 94 gallons an hour compared to only 18 gallons an hour for its electrical counterpart.

In Idaho we have gas to burn, but we want to burn it wise. Gas water heating is highly efficient in terms of cost and conservation of energy.

Abby

Abigail Van Buran

DEAR ABBY: I am 44 years old and pregnant, but that's not my problem. I have had 27 children. I was married the first time when I was 14. I had three by my first husband and 24 by this one, and it seems that the more children I have, the less interest my husband has in me.

I wrote to you a year ago and you told me to get my husband to go to the priest with me. I knew he'd never go, and I was right. He hasn't set foot inside a Catholic church except for our children's christenings and weddings.

The priest told me to pray to God that my husband would see the light and fall in love with me again, but I know that is never going to happen.

She's had 27 children

He's a good man in many ways. He has never raised his hand against me. He has worked steadily and doesn't owe anybody a dime, but he is not nearly as loving as he used to be. And I miss that.

DEAR TEXARKANA: Maybe. Most Mexican-born men have the old world Spanish attitude about women—they should be seen, and not heard, should always have a baby in their arms and another on the way, stay home, and never complain.

DEAR ABBY: I am being held prisoner against my will in the Oklahoma State Penitentiary in McAlester, Okla. Please send hackaw blades, files, Jeweler's string, and instructions on how to saw through to inch steel bars making the least possible noise. I'm serious.

DEAR NUMBER 81228: Sorry, but if I help you get OUT, I'll end up IN!

DEAR ABBY: A widow wrote you about not receiving any wedding anniversary cards after her husband had died. I lost my husband before our 24th anniversary and would like to tell you what happened on my silver anniversary—I received red roses from my three children (all college age) plus they had reservations for the four of us at one of our better restaurants. This was a total surprise to me.

I do not believe anniversary cards should be sent after one's mate dies, but please don't say the anniversaries cease. You may not count them aloud, but you can't turn off the memory of the happiest day of your life.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GRASS NOT GREENER: You'll never know if she'll take you back unless you ask her. It's worth a try. Plead "temporary color blindness."

Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 49160, L.A., Calif. 90009. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

A Lovelier You CLUES TO PRETTY POSTURE

By Mary Sue Miller

The feminine contingent devotes days and dollars to its fashions and figures. But seldom gives a thought to carriage.

Yet, poor posture undercuts the attractiveness of fine features and fine figures.

Both appear droopy or lumpy or otherwise misbegotten. Perhaps, as we check over our new spring finery, we should check up on our stance.

There is nothing mysterious or arty about good posture—it is exactly the way nature intended you to stand. The basic formula is this:

Place your feet together; center your weight on the balls of the feet and "grip" the floor with the toes.

Retract the derriere (persuade the buttocks to pivot downward, under the body).

Pull the abdominal muscles taut—in and up. Pull up your waist, but don't squeeze it.

Relax your shoulders so that they fall neither forward nor back of the body. As a result, the arms and chest automatically take their correct position.

Hold your chin parallel to the floor.

Sound simple? Well, to acquire the knack, you have to practice many until your body assumes the stance without thought of your posture.

LEGLINE TRIMMERS If your individual problem is heavy legs, send for my new booklet, LEGLINE TRIMMERS, which contains spot reducing exercises that will meet your individual needs, whether for thighs, knees, calves or ankles, or for toning your entire legline. Write Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin.

but West had thought things out carefully. He discarded a club. Dummy's jack of spades was led next. West ruffed this time and led a third diamond to force dummy to ruff with his last trump.

Dummy was down to five clubs. South had to lead ace, king and another and there was no way to keep West from scoring the setting trick with his two hearts.

ANSWERS TO PREVIOUS QUIZ

2. A Bid four spades. This method of letting two spades show a stronger hand than an immediate four-spade bid would have done.

3. TODAY'S QUESTION: Instead of bidding two spades, your partner has jumped to three spades over your two-club call. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North put down the dummy and remarked, "I wish I could take back my four hearts."

South replied, "I feel the same way about my five hearts—but you've still got to make it a new way."

He took the diamond lead, and promptly played his ace and king of trumps. East discarded a spade and the silence for the next few minutes could almost be cut by a knife.

Then South led a spade. West was in with the ace and it was this turn to think. Finally he led a second diamond which dummy ruffed.

The next play was the king of spades from dummy. This change to let South make his contract. All he had to do would be to ruff that spade.

the district. Kermit Douglas, bus contractor, presented a proposed 1974-75 bus transportation contract. The board tabled action on this until it can meet and reach equitable terms with the faculty and other concerned.

The board also approved one room in the Eden Elementary School to be used for a special education class next year in cooperation with Kimberly, Hansen and Murtaugh. A school calendar for 1974-75 was approved. It includes registration Aug. 19, 20 and 21; teacher meetings Aug. 22, and school beginning Aug. 26.

India may boost wheat price

NEW DELHI (UPI) — If India could afford to buy the grain, some experts believe it needs to avert famine this year, the tab could approach $1 billion and send the world wheat price shooting skyward again.

India, of course, does not have that kind of money.

Still, there are experts who believe this country may indeed need as much as five million tons of imported grain before the year ends, particularly if the summer monsoon rains fall as they did in 1971 and 1972.

There are reports that India already is in the market to buy gigantic amounts of wheat and grain sorghum, but government officials are not talking.

Such talk could drive the price up for India as well as for other nations who need to buy grain on the world market.

India learned its lesson last year when it was forced to pay top prices after a secret $1.1 billion grain sale by the United States to the Soviet Union already had sent the world price soaring.

Although India certainly does not have the cash to import five million tons of grain this year, U.S. diplomats say India has not so far approached the United States to secure grain or concessional terms.

In any case, the United States might not be willing to offer such terms since virtually all U.S. food surpluses now are committed to trade, not aid.

Even now, U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butte is meeting agriculture attaches from U.S. embassies of an Asian tour to discuss the booming Asian market for American farm products.

Last year India had to import 47 million tons of grain, but almost half of it was provided by the Soviet Union under barter agreements.

Even so, India still had to dip into its dwindling foreign exchange reserves for cold cash to pay for the rest.

Coming up with cash for grain will be even more difficult this year because the rising price of oil, which India desperately needs to produce fertilizer, could absorb 80 per cent of the nation's export earnings.

World Bank experts have warned that India will have to import at least two million tons of grain this year, but U.S. diplomats here expect that estimate to be revised upward.

The Soviet Union expects a good wheat crop this year and there is hope here that some of the Russian wheat will be sent on favorable terms.

Foreign experts expect the real crunch to come this summer, particularly if the monsoon rains die in June are poor.

Estimates vary but just about everyone agrees there will be a shortfall in India's spring crop. A poor monsoon would be disastrous for the winter crop to follow.

An American expert here said a poor monsoon would not affect the current spring crop but the effect of drought would be immediately psychologically damaging and could prompt hoarding, which has plagued India's grain distribution system in recent years.

Kenaf may aid paper

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department said Monday a new, quick-growing plant found in Africa, Central America and parts of Mexico could help solve the shortage of timber used in paper-making.

The plant, called Kenaf, could provide harvests of more than 20 tons per acre under good conditions in parts of Florida and Texas, according to current studies conducted by the Department's Agricultural Research Service.

Ranchers pleased

ROSWELL, N.M. (UPI) — The president of the New Mexico Wool Growers' Association says sheep ranchers in the state are pleased with a federal court ruling allowing experimental use of a once-banned device for coyote control.

Robert B. Naylor, Roswell, says, however, that the sheep ranchers "all wish that the ruling had come sooner."

Naylor said that with legalization of the M44 gun by the court decision, he would apply for permission for its use on behalf of New Mexico sheepmen. He said Federal Environmental Protection Agency officials had agreed to issue a permit later this month to firm up guidelines for the experimental program using the device.

Meat counters crammed as slaughter increases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumers have had problems with meat supplies and prices at times during the past year, but for the moment the counters are crammed, a government report shows.

A weekly Agriculture Department estimate indicates the total volume of red meat produced in slaughterhouses under Federal inspection last week reached nearly 60 million pounds. This was the 2 per cent from the heavy production of the previous week, but it was

Soviet grain crop said OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reports from Moscow continue to confirm earlier indications that the Soviet Union's winter grain crop is in satisfactory condition, an Agriculture Department report indicated today.

Department officials have been saying if the Soviet Union's overall 1974 grain crop is satisfactory, this summer may begin sharply from the high levels of the two preceding years.

The latest report, called from late-March notices in Soviet newspapers, termed the condition of winter grains "generally satisfactory."

Officials said there were tentative indications the amount of "winter kill" damage to the crop was above last year's low level, but was no greater than normal. The report added a warming trend and rains helped development of the crop in mid-March in many major winter grain areas.

The favorable mid-March weather, the report added, allowed farmers in southern Soviet areas to begin spring farming operations from 4 to 15 days earlier than usual.

Aid wheat reduced

WASHINGTON — An Agriculture Department official said today that although he dislikes a cutback in available commodities, he will virtually halted market development use of PL 480, the U.S. supply demand situation will probably allow only 65 million bushels of wheat to be shipped as food aid during fiscal year 1975.

That was the amount that should be shipped in fiscal year 1974, Agency for International Development Administrator Daniel Parker testified that AID hopes more wheat can be made available. He also presented a vague U.S. overture for "mutuality on stock building to provide a margin against world shortages."

Questioned as to whether or not the government will have to cut off donation commitments this year, Deputy Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Bell told a Senate food aid hearing that he sees no need for a cutoff once the 1974 US crop year begins. He emphasized that the past year's experience has forced a closer look at food aid priorities, but that the USDA feels that were no essential pipeline breaks.

Bell told a subcommittee chaired by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., that the US government now has reason to believe that the European community will be able to continue its food aid contributions under the food aid convention of the International Wheat Agreement, which expires June 30.

The U.S. will not continue to participate in the program if United Kingdom indication helps the EC out.

The official told the subcommittee that he does not see how a domestic US grain reserve could help PL 480 programs.

World wool clip drops

LONDON (CNS) — World wool production this season has been estimated at 2,375 million greasy, a drop of 1.5 per cent on the 1972-73 level.

However, the decline may be halted in 1974-75, according to the International Wool Textile Organization at its annual conference here.

There are encouraging signs of future increases in output by major producers, although in the months ahead supplies will still be tight.

Among the major wool-growing countries only the UK, Argentina, Russia and Uruguay have recorded increases in 1973-74, but these gains, the committee reports, are likely to be offset by reductions in Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, and the US.

Production is now running at a low level and if forecasts materialize, the organization's

Purchase order set

WASHINGTON (CNS) — USDA today announced issuance of a PL 480 purchase authorization to Thailand for $44,000 worth of U.S. wheat.

Authorization No. 23-705 provides for about 240 metric tons of hard red spring wheat of the subclasses Dark Northern Spring, Hard Spring and Red Spring; U.S. No. 2 or better; in bulk.

Contracting period is April 8 through April 30, 1974, delivery period is April 8 through May 31, 1974.

Report assails co-op subversion

(C) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — Giant Agricultural cooperatives that operate like corporations often subvert the interests of members for whom they were formed, a report by a public interest research group charged Monday.

The report by the Agricultural Accountability Project blames the professional managers of the cooperatives, to whom it says the members have "lost decision-making power." Farmers and consumers alike must be vigilant of this shift in cooperative control and must turn it around, for it adversely affects the farmers' survival and the competitive structure of agriculture, said Linda Kravitz, the staff member who wrote the 146-page study entitled "Minding The Co-Op." It singles out, as an example, Associated Milk Producers, Inc., one of the large dairy cooperatives that funneled money into President Nixon's reelection campaign without specific authority from the membership.

Much of the report focuses on relationships between cooperatives — which are generally marketing and buying associations of farmers — and large business corporations that operate in agriculture-related enterprises. It attacks another practice: entry of the cooperatives into the combinations of the two different types of organizations into joint ventures.

It also criticizes big cooperatives that limit membership to large producers and set standards to discriminate against smaller farmers.

It also criticizes "big cooperatives" that limit membership to large cooperatives, to join the Department's (Armed) cooperative service who have encouraged the farm groups to enter joint ventures with corporations.

The new director of the service, Ronald D. Knutson, who was praised in the report for apparently taking a "definite position in a recent speech, said:

"I think there is justifiable criticism that there are some co-ops where producers have

Live, feeder cattle post gains

CHICAGO — Live and feeder cattle futures both closed limit up Monday.

Commodity News Service reported that live cattle futures posted limit gains at the opening and maintained those levels through most of the session.

Commission house orders were slow entering the pit during the morning but improved — cash markets renewed local confidence and prices were firm up over open and Monday. Futures in the back. Traders said fundamentals were looking firmer with a sharply lower market receipts reported.

New wheat trade light

CHICAGO — Trading in the new Gulf hard red winter wheat contract of the Chicago Board of Trade was classified as light Monday.

An estimated 275,000 to 300,000 bushels were traded, primarily by local processors and commercial concerns. Traders were described as spreading between the old Chicago and New Chicago fall contracts.

There was almost no commission house interest and little was expected the rest of the week.

The situation was believed indicative of a lack of awareness of the new contract and a wait-and-see attitude among those who were informed.

Poor lands hit by fuel prices

By BERNARD BRENNER UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's energy crisis and skyrocketing fuel prices could lead to serious food shortages in some of the nation's poorest areas, an Agriculture Department report warned Monday.

"First, these countries are paying higher prices for petroleum products," noted the report published by the Federal Reserve Board's Agricultural Service (FAS).

Second, they face serious shortages in fertilizer and substantially higher prices from traditional suppliers — due at least in part to the energy crisis," added Reed E. Friend, a department economist who prepared the summary.

Friend said that fuel production of the new high yielding grain types which have been widely adopted in developing countries.

This grain is added to reduce food availability and high food grain prices, could result in serious food shortages in some areas," Friend said.

India, which has been hit hard by fertilizer shortages this year, reportedly already is feeling the pinch.

Administration officials here they have seen trade reports indicating India has been negotiating with private U.S. exporters for further grain purchases.

Friend's report said the energy crisis has produced both pluses and minuses in the outlook for US farm exports. Overall, he said, the net result may be increased overseas food demand with a rise in exports in the 1974-75 marketing year from $17 billion and $19 billion, only a

Few rare wolves said holding on

CODY, Wyo. (UPI) — The rare, elusive Rocky Mountain wolf-belted, annihilated by predator control programs early in the century, might still be clinging to survival in the mountains.

"I think most of us feel there are wolves," biologist Larry Rood said today. "There have been a lot of sightings from reputable people, but none has been verified."

Rood is with the Wyoming Game and Fish Department, which is working with state and federal agencies in an intensive effort to determine if the species still exists.

Rood said the wolf was thought to be extinct for years but the sightings have kindled hopes a few of the animals, maybe only 15 or 20, have eluded man's attempts to destroy them.

The effort to confirm the existence of the wolf ranges from blaring wolf-howls into the forest to trying to candid photos with video using baited camera traps.

"The wolves existed in 'good numbers' in the mountains until the first quarter of the 20th century, when the area became heavily more settled by man," Rood said.

"It was kind of surprising how quick it was, considering it was in the rugged Rocky Mountain," he said.

"Once they started predator control, they really wiped them out."

The biologist said the Rocky Mountain wolf was a large predator and they were "pretty

Corn scores gains

CHICAGO (CNS) — Gains of 2 1/2¢ cents were recorded in May 1974 live cattle futures. It was a highly session which first saw prices fall and then recover and then commercial buying that occurred after covering gave the market an appearance of solid gains.

But profit taking again brought the market under pressure and left it just a little better than Friday's 15¢. Corn was steady 2 cents over May in Chicago and weekend marketing by farmers were held early in the trade and late in the day.

Grain orders on the CBT fall "expect" corn, wheat and soybean to the higher than corresponding period last year.

US wheat and flour exports from July 1, 1973 to April 5, 1974 of 283,198,000 bushels compared with 846,830,000 for the same time a year ago.

Silver off over board

NEW YORK — The spot April-closed loss of 45 cents in the price of the silver market finished with 20 cent limit declines. The market opened and closed down the limit and sources feel that the downward trend is far from over.

The overall $6.25 cut in the price of gold was the straw that broke the bulls back as all last week they had been working to break through the market above the $5.00 level.

On Friday, however, the nearby closed below the $5.00 level and this apparently penetrated just about every chart point around.

ATLANTA — Market tone for broilers was steady to slightly improving. Week-end cover was moderate in most quarters following a fair to occasionally weak demand.

In production areas slaughter schedules are returning to near normal after disruptions last week due to weather conditions. Live supplies are generally in good balance with plant requirements. Average weights are mostly satisfactory but in instances trending heavy.

Official wins nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Monday confirmed President Nixon's nomination of Dr. Richard L. Felner as Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for marketing and commodity services. The former occupant of that post, Clayton Ueuter, was transferred recently to become Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for international affairs and commodity programs.

Felner had indicated earlier it might be several weeks before he completed his move from Urbana, Ill., to begin his new federal duties.

Aaron blasts homer to top Ruth's mark

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hank Aaron, who took the first step of this year's incredible climb nearly 20 years ago, crossed the final milestone Monday night when he broke Babe Ruth's record with his 715th home run in the fourth inning of the Atlanta Braves' Los Angeles Dodgers contest.

Southpaw Al Downing was the victim of Aaron's record-breaker, serving up the second home run of the season to the 40-year-old Braves' superstar on a 3-and-1 pitch.

The ball cleared the left field fence at the 385-foot marker and in an unusual maneuver, Dodger left fielder Bill Buckner virtually climbed over the wall in an unsuccessful attempt to retrieve the ball.

Aaron's climactic wallop came on his second time at bat and in his first swing of the night.

He had walked on a 3-and-1 pitch leading off the second inning and scored the Braves' first run of the game in that frame.

With the Braves trailing 3-1, Darrell Evans was safe on error by Dodger shortstop Bill Russell opening the fourth.

Downing then came in with a curve ball as his first pitch to Aaron, which was low and the crowd of 50,000 boomed "disapproval."

On the next pitch, Aaron brought those marvelous miracle warts of his into play. The ball took off on a blurred line toward the left field fence and like what occurred in Cincinnati last Thursday when the crowd sat in stunned silence upon watching Aaron's 714th homer, the fans at Atlanta Stadium roared their approval before Aaron's 715th event cleared the fence.

As he walked triumphantly toward the dugout, he was greeted by two young fans raced out of the stands to accompany Aaron on his trip around the bases. All his Braves teammates swarmed him at home plate and swirled around him to shake his hand.

A microphone was set up near Aaron's dugout and he spoke a few words into it.

"Just thank God it's all over with," said the Atlanta left fielder. "Thank you."

Among fans in former member of the New York Giants and Hall of Famer, left his field box seat to present a $3,000 diamond-studded solid gold wrist watch to Aaron with the compliments of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. It is one of the commissioner's administrative aides and when he mentioned Kuhn's name the stadium was filled with buzz, presumably because the commissioner was not on hand in person.

There were signs supporting that presumption in the stadium, one in the upper deck said "Hank 715 Bowie K." Another one said, "Phony or Bowie?" Aaron actually set records in each of his first two times at bat. By scoring in the second inning on Dusty Baker's double and Buckner's error, he moved behind only Ty Cobb and Ruth in total runs scored with 366.

When he scored on his home run, he had 365 runs scored. That increased that record to 366.

There was an ironic twist to Aaron's 715th home run, in that it came off Downing, who broke in with the New York Yankees, and Aaron's very first home run on April 23, 1954 came off another former Yankee, Vic Raschi, then pitching for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Moreover, Aaron also was wearing a former Yankee player's baseball shoes Monday night. Originally, they had belonged to Joe Judge when he was with the Braves.

When he left, Aaron laughed. "He forgot two pairs of his shoes," Ralph Garr, grabbed one and I took the other. I'm still wearing them."

Prior to the contest Downing said he would have no particular sentiments one way or another if he was the victim of the homer.

"I don't feel any particular pride if he hits it off me," said Downing, "and I won't feel disgraced either."

Following Aaron's record-breaking hit, Downing was removed after walking. Left fielder Dusty Baker and Dave Johnson, Dodger manager Walt Alton came to the mound to take out Downing and bring in reliever Mike Marshall, and the crowd gave Downing a warm ovation as he left the field for the Dodgers' dugout.

"Tom House, one of the Braves' pitchers, retrieved the ball to the right of the Braves' bullpen.

The Braves' management honored Aaron before the game with ceremonies that included a 21-gun salute and the releasing of red, white and yellow balloons on a given signal so that the entire affair took on an Olympic-like atmosphere.

Alton, watching it all, said, "I know he's gonna hit it sooner or later, just hope it doesn't cost us a ball game."

The game was delayed 11 minutes after Aaron's home run.

In hitting the homer as he did, Aaron, ended the controversy which had begun last Thursday in Cincinnati over whether or not the Braves should play him against the Reds or save him until he could be recognized with his feet back home in Atlanta.

Sports

Aaron is glad chase is over

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hank Aaron, the Atlanta Braves' 71st career homer and thereby eclipsing Babe Ruth's previous record "took a tremendous weight off my back."

"I'm glad that's over," the 40-year-old Atlanta Braves outfielder said in a post-game interview after breaking Ruth's 35-year-old record in the fourth inning of a 4-1 Braves victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers with a two-run homer.

"I'm glad it came in Atlanta," said Aaron. "I felt after hitting No. 715 in Cincinnati that it would have been the courteous thing to do to let me try to try it here in Atlanta."

House was referring to an order by baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn that he had to play either Saturday or Sunday in Cincinnati after he hit 714 in the season opener on Thursday.

"I think it put manager Eddie Mathews in a peculiar position," said Aaron. "It took the time out of his hand."

"I really felt that the people in Atlanta were entitled to see me hit 715," continued Aaron. "If God didn't see fit for me to hit here, well, then, I would just have had to hit it somewhere else."

Aaron started his post-game interview by taking a slap at reports that he had not really tried in Sunday's game in Cincinnati when he went 0-for-3, striking out four times.

"I have always tried to be my best," said Aaron. "There was a lot of criticism about my performance here in Kirby made some good pitches on me and that's all there is to it."

Aaron said that now he has broken Ruth's career home run record he would like to spend the remainder of what is expected to be his final season as an active player putting together as good an overall performance as he possibly can.

"I've been thinking about that career average of mine — what is it, .311 or .312? Now I can concentrate on trying to do something about that."

House was asked what he would like to do in baseball after he retires as an active player and particularly if he would like to manage.

"If there has not been a black manager named at that time, I would like the job if it were offered to me," said Aaron. "But really I don't want to manage. I feel I could do more helping out in our farm system."

Aaron said he was a bit nervous about a light which began falling early in the game and continued after he hit his home run.

"I really thought about that," he said. "If it got any heavier, I would have run out there and put down the tarp myself."

Aaron said he had a faint hope Garr met him at home plate and helped him plant his foot on the plate after he finished circling the bases.

"Ralph told me before the game to get this thing over with so the team could concentrate on playing some baseball," Aaron said.

Kuhn says homer great for game

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Monday night Hank Aaron's taking over the all-time home run crown from the immortal Babe Ruth was a wonderful thing for baseball and for Aaron.

"I think it is wonderful for Hank and I am proud of him and his dedication," said Kuhn, who was at a cocktail party given by the Cleveland Indians.

"It was one of the greatest achievements in baseball and it was done by one of the greatest men in the game."

Kuhn did not see the historic blast, which occurred in the fourth inning at Atlanta Stadium on a 3-and-1 pitch from southpaw Los Angeles pitcher Al Downing. But Kuhn's representative was in Atlanta to present Aaron with a $3,000 gold watch with the number 715 inscribed in diamonds.

"It's my job to take on behalf of the entire league and everybody in the game," said Kuhn, who joined Braves manager Eddie Mathews to play in two of the club's first three games against the Reds in Cincinnati.

It was in the season opener last Thursday that Aaron, on a 3-1 pitch, clouted No. 714 of Reds pitcher Jack Billingham on his first swing of the season to tie Ruth's career home run record.

Kuhn, who some say did not want to attend the game in Atlanta because his order for Aaron had to play was unpopular with Atlanta fans, denied this.

He said that he had invitations to attend gatherings here and in Atlanta and since I had been in Cincinnati with Hank when he hit his historic 714th home run, I felt it was appropriate for me to be here.

Aaron smiles after homer

Hank Aaron's historic home run helps Atlanta defeat Dodgers

ATLANTA (UPI) — Henry Aaron's historic 715th home run, a high fly ball that cleared just beyond the fence at the 385-foot mark, was the big blow in a four-run fourth inning that gave the Atlanta Braves a 7-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday night.

Aaron's homer, with Darrell Evans on base, brought the Braves to a 3-1 tie in the bottom of the fourth. Lefty Al Downing, who gave up the Aaron blast and then stood by watching for 11 minutes of wild cheering and an awards ceremony, was visibly rattled.

He walked the next two batters and was removed from the game. His reliever, Mike Marshall, got Vic Carrell, to ground to shortstop Bill Russell but Russell bobbled the ball and the bases were loaded.

Marshall then walked pitcher Ken Frank Topping to force in the third run of the inning and after pitcher Ron Reed flied out, Ralph Garr hit a sacrifice fly to score Dave Johnson.

Aaron's homer was the lone hit in the four-run rally that made Downing the losing pitcher.

The Braves had scored in the second inning when Dusty Baker doubled to drive in Aaron, who had walked in his first at-bat of the night. Atlanta got two more runs in the sixth inning on singles by Johnson and Marky Perez, errors by Dave Lopes and Joe Esguerra, and a run-producing infield out by Mike Lun.

All told the Dodgers committed six errors in the game, two of them by Russell.

The Dodgers scored three runs in the third inning to take a 3-1 lead, the first on a single by pitcher and the next, two on a double by Jim Wynn who continued his hot hitting, and now has eight hits and nine runs-batted-in in four games.

The Dodgers got their final run in the sixth inning on a single by a single by Ron Cey.

The largest crowd ever to see a Braves game in Atlanta, 53,775, sat through rain showers in the early innings. The rain had stopped by the time Aaron hit his historic homer but gusty winds prevailed through the game, making it difficult for outfielders to judge the ball.

Red got credit for the victory although he needed relief help from Steve Carlton in the seventh. Capra struck out five Dodgers and walked only one in three innings.

The defeat was the first of the season for the Dodgers after three victories and dropped them out of a first-place tie with San Francisco in the West.

Atlanta's lead in the National League Eastern Division was 11-9 over the Dodgers.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 10, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A very disturbing and distracting day in which most everyone will be in a mood to upset usual conditions and will be inclined to stare out with poor judgment in a m. If this is allowed to occur, feelings will be depressed later. Keep cheerful, calm.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) First complete what you have started since later you have to contend with new situations. Study a new plan, well and then put in action tomorrow.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have many responsibilities to take care of and are tempted to cut them off, but this would not be wise. Be serious with mate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Although you do not understand the position a partner takes, do not try to change him or her, or you get into trouble.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Cooperate with a fellow worker. Although you think you are sick, a good rest will help and you soon feel well again.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You want to go out for amusement, but do pick up the tab this time and don't let your friends pay to often. Add credit to your account.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Although conditions at home do not suit you, don't be belligerent, or you could start a real fracas. Be more cooperative.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Shop, but stay within the budget. Don't take any chances with driving, walking, and you must exercise vigorously.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Save more for future wealth. Consult one with much monetary know-how. Get work done so you are better satisfied with it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't argue with one who means much to you, or you lose this person very quickly. Improving your appearance is important now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Carefully study what has to be done, then get at it vigorously. Smile to ward off opposition. Help a friend in trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be with good friends in a m. Make them your closest friends. Solve personal affairs in a m. Don't be careless with one who is hot-tempered.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Although you do not approve of what a higher-up is doing, keep busy at own affairs and all works out just fine for you.

"IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY..." he or she will be very happy and content. If you are a parent, you should try to control the temper, or there could be much wasted time here, and the success otherwise possible would not be realized. There is a fine thing here and many bigwigs will be interested in your child, so save as much education as you can. Working in foreign countries is very good, with imports, exports, etc. Foreign languages a must. Keep busy at own affairs and all works out just fine for you.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

BLONDIE

NO I'M NOT TAKING YOU OUT TO DINNER.

AND YOU CAN'T HAVE A NEW FUR COAT.

ONE OF THESE DAYS I'M GOING TO SAY ALL THAT BEFORE SHE HANGS UP.

AND YOU'D BETTER DO SOMETHING ABOUT YOUR WEIGHT!

BEETLE BAILEY

THIS HASH TASTES TERRIBLE.

LET ME TASTE IT. MAYBE IT NEEDS SOMETHING.

OH-OH.

THE BORN LOSER

COME ON, HICKNAPPLE. DON'T TELL ME YOU TOOK YOUR MOTHER-IN-LAW TO FLORIDA WITH YOU!

YES, AND BELIEVE IT OR NOT, WE HAD A GREAT TIME ON THE BEACH. I EVEN BURIED HER IN THE SAND.

MAN HER SOUL REST IN PEACE.

SHORT RIBS

GET AWAY!

AFTER SHAVE!

NICK O'SHAY

NEVER GET HAVE YOU DONE PULLY THAT GAIN AWAY!

I DON'T THINK I'M A BOYS' BOYS.

YOU SEE, WE'VE BEEN THINKING YOU HAD ALL THAT GOLD THAN FOURTH.

NO HARD FEELINGS BOYS.

BOOY-BUSINESS IS BUSINESS.

WIZARD OF ID

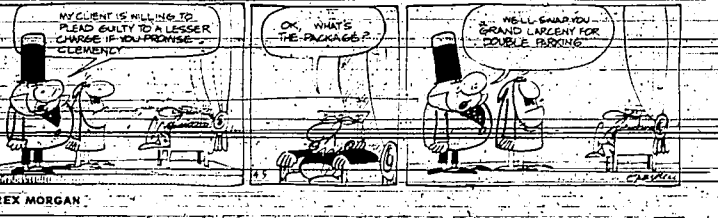

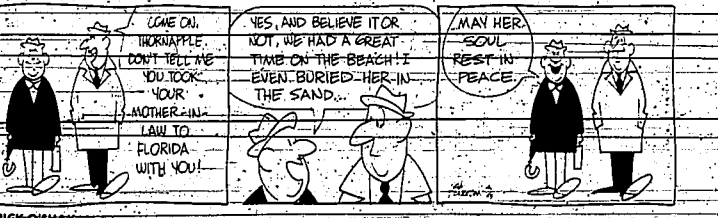

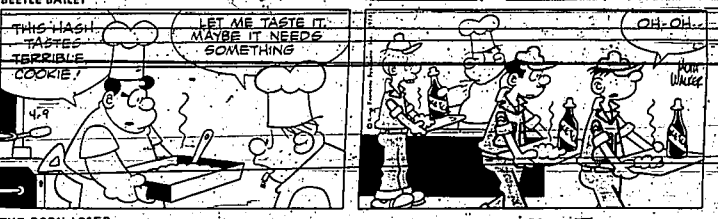

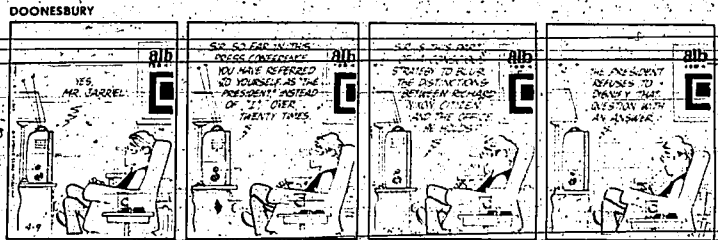

MY CLIENT IS WILLING TO PLED GUILTY TO A LESSER CHARGE IF YOU PLEAD FOR ME.

OK, WHAT'S THE PACKAGE?

WELL, SHAD YOU GRAB LARGELY FOR DOUBLE PARKING.

OUT OUR WAY

THAT'S THE BEST I CAN DO FOR YOU. AFTER YOU GET A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP, YOU CAN KEEP AS LONG AS YOU WANT TO. I'LL BE HERE TO HELP YOU OUT.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

—Husbands don't tend to be as critical of their wives as do wives of their husbands. Surveys show that in one such, 71 out of every 100 married women found faults in their husbands to criticize. But only 54 in every 100 husbands could single out faults in their wives.

NAME
Where you wear Dr. Krieger's real name is Heats, not Heat's.

—The incidence of narcotic addiction for obvious reasons is 40 times greater among doctors than among any other professionals.

—If you run your family washing machine three times a week, probably cuts you just about 73 cents per load. Original price of the three-figure machine is $1,200.

Your skin can be expected to lose about half of its thickness between the ages 20 and 80. And some skin resistance, too, certainly. But the dermatologist contends this loss is not as severe among men as among women.

SUPPORT PAYMENTS
The maximum security prison in Vermont houses a fellow named George J. Chubb. Been there since Oct. 30, 1967. Superior Court Judge Robert W. Larrow, he sentenced Chubb to life because the prisoner could not be retried with $2,500 in support payments. The judge is quoted further as saying he is convinced Chubb has $30,000 hidden somewhere, but that won't pay the support debt as embezzler of principle. Fascinating, if factual.

It is between age 3 and age 10 that the child is likely to be most seriously affected by the divorce of his parents. Or the child's emotional adjustment to the divorce. The man claims you generally can't tell how much a fellow cares for a woman by the amount of space he gives her under those umbrellas.

Living with your in-laws is always a little risky, no doubt. But recent studies indicate it's less risky to live with the husband's parents than with the wife's.

Average driver gets a ticket every 92 years for running a red light, speeding or reckless driving.
