Network to pay for series idea

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Victor Decosta, who created the television series "Paladin," spends his weekends teaching children the dangers of firearms.

"I look tough, and you can bet that the youngsters listen to me," he says.

Now, 65, Decosta claims he originated in 1946 the idea that was later made into "Have Gun Will Travel," a successful television series starring Richard Boone. The shows were first aired on the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) in 1957.

A U.S. magistrate here ruled Monday that the network must reimburse Decosta for the idea, a decision that could make Decosta a wealthy man.

Employed by the state of Rhode Island as a heavy equipment mechanic, he has five children and 14 grandchildren.

Magistrate Jacob Hagopian ruled that CBS, a successful hand to the plaintiff by reason of their unjust enrichment.

The show realized a profit of $14 million by 1966, and had an estimated weekly audience of 29 million.

CBS says it will appeal the judgment.

Decosta said Tuesday he started legal action in 1971 "two weeks after he first saw the program."

"I just couldn't believe my eyes when I first saw it," he said. "I had a tough time convincing my friends that this guy the screen was not me."

Decosta, who bears a remarkable resemblance to Boone, said he has spent $22,000 in legal fees.

He still has several black cowboy suits which he wears when making public appearances, most of them for charity causes.

A former bronco buster, Decosta started in the rodeo business in 1919 and stayed until 1953, when he was thrown from a horse.

"I had all kinds of people requesting photographs and the business cards... some from as far away as California," he said.

In his rodeo acts, Decosta did trick riding and shooting, fast drawing and roping.

"There wasn't anybody who could beat me in the fast draw."

He said "he has no hard feelings against CBS but feels he was wronged in the fact I sure would like to meet Mr. fine actor."

The name "Paladin" originated while exercising one of his horses in his hometown of Newton, R.I., an old Italian town named in honor of "Paladin."

"I just struck me that 'Paladin' would be a good name for a Western hero, and I used it as my name in the rodeo act," he said.

FORMER rodeo cowboy Victor Decosta of North Scituate, R. I., has won a legal shootout with the Columbia Broadcasting System over the television series "Have Gun Will Travel." US District Court in Providence, R. I., has ruled CBS competed unfairly with Decosta who dreamed up the western hero "Paladin" 11 years before the television show. (UPI)

Flood victims run for safety

CAMP SHELBY, Miss. (UPI) — Hundreds fled their homes a step ahead of the swirling floodwaters with scarcely the clothes on their backs.

And for some, there probably won't be much to return to when the muddy waters of the Leaf and Bowlic rivers recede.

"I don't have but two dresses and my little boy just has two pairs of pants," his aunt and shoes." Mrs. Lear Clara lamented Tuesday as she waded with some 1,200 other flood refugees in the barracks of this 135,000-acre National Guard training ground.

"The heard people say the house is under water," she added. "I don't know. If it's under water, I won't be able to save anything."

As Mrs. Lear recalled the evacuation of her home at Camp Shelby, dozens of teenage boys played football between the long, gray brick barracks.

Others waded in single-file lines for a dinner of chicken casserole, string beans and bread.

Camp Shelby, the largest field training facility in the nation, is the summer training ground each year for some 35,000 National Guardsmen and Army reservists from around the South.

Some flood victims who were unable to find homes with friends and relatives around Hattiesburg and cutting areas were housed in local shelters in numerous towns and communities around south

Mississippi.

Civil Defense officials estimated that some 10,000 persons were driven from their homes by the flash flooding which claimed seven lives last week-end — three in the northern half of Mississippi.

Gov. Bill Waller, estimating damage to private and public property at $50 million, has asked that "34 Mississippi counties be designated a federal disaster area.

John Shaw, 60, who has lived his last 34 years in Hattiesburg, sat dejectedly on a metal folding chair outside a Red Cross canteen at the National Guard camp and wondered about the future.

Authorities said that although the water is receding, it will be several days before most of the victims will be able to return to their homes to begin cleanup operations.

Home construction takes sharp fall

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New home construction fell sharply in March after a February rally, the Commerce Department estimated Tuesday that housing starts last month at an adjusted annual rate of 1.4 million, a 22 per cent dip from February's 1.8 million.

With the exception of February, housing construction has been going down for 15

Banks and thrift institutions have been reluctant to offer loans at 8 and 9 per cent while short-term prime interest rates, which have exceeded 10 per cent for the first time, continue to rise.

Raw materials, prices, fundamental question

Devoted to the citizens of Magic Valley... William E. Howard, General Manager

President lost Michigan gamble

President Nixon gambled for high stakes and lost in the special Michigan congressional race. The administration was determined to demonstrate its political clout to the nation and particularly to Republican members of Congress whose support he needs to remain in office.

Nixon toured the district's rural areas, visiting towns that had never before greeted a President. The administration boasts of the trip glowing with anecdotes of grass-roots support.

But the Democrats, not the Republican won. But the victory was narrow, a 3,000-vote margin. Nevertheless, the message that will be delivered to Republican incumbents everywhere is that the President may be a political liability in the coming Congressional elections.

It is unfortunate but probably true, that such political factors will weigh heavily in an impeachment inquiry and trial. If so, Mr. Nixon's situation is increasingly precarious.

NATO has worked

Portland, Oregon (UPI)—The success of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in its 15th anniversary in Brussels... The alliance will be used by America to dominate the policies of Western Europe, whereas, on the other hand, America's World War II enemy, Germany, is the staunchest supporter both of US participation in NATO and of Western European unity.

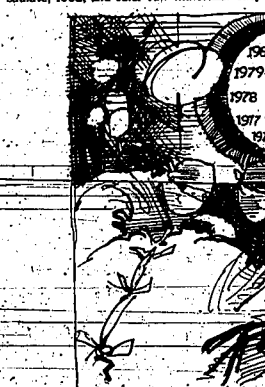

The danger, of course, is that NATO's success in weathering the postwar threat of Russian military aggression will lead the West into a state of over-confidence. There is still a need for NATO and a need to take it seriously. Ever the French agree to that.

BERRY'S WORLD

Where do you think you're going? I'm here to help with your campaign.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The nations of the world gathered here to discuss one of the most fundamental questions of the future, the supply, price and distribution of food, oil, and the other essential raw materials of life.

The Longest Operation

Freedom of press already under challenge

WASHINGTON — In an upcoming article in a newsletter, a California newspaperman serves up a harsh warning about the danger of taking our free press too much for granted.

Bill Stetson is one of five staff writers for the Berkeley Daily Gazette. From the samples of his work I've seen, he's a good reporter — informed, precise, and with a sense of what's right and what's wrong.

What's wrong in Stetson's world is that he's being compelled to pay money to an organization he wants nothing to do with in order to report the news as he sees it.

Nation may go under

The chief purser of the S.S. France put it this way: "When the Arabs quadrupled the price of oil, they wrote an end to La France as surely as if they had aimed a torpedo at our side."

They talk about heading our deficit with little economies. Do away with caviar at night! But why do people come on La France in the first place? The point is we're not the Holiday Inn. When they say, do away with the free table wine, do you know how much that costs us?

There was a little frenzied optimism as the huge steamer left Capetown for St. Helena, that the bride might save this exquisite ship. Perhaps Charles de Gaulle would have put up the estimated $25 million annual subsidy.

The most critical setback was the October Arab-Israeli war which exposed gaping divisions between United States and European policy and which produced an energy crisis that have come together to find out whether they can reach agreement about fair supplies, distribution and price—for the future. It is interesting that this conference was called by President Houari Boumediene of Algeria.

He was careful to open the way to compromise, but he insisted on the rights of the nations that produce the oil and the other essential raw materials.

ANDREW TULLY

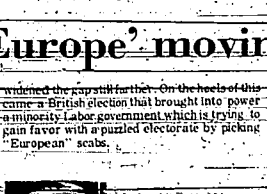

The story is not altogether unfamiliar to anyone acquainted with the news industry. At the New York Times and the New York Daily News, one a "liberal" newspaper and the other more or less "conservative," all reporters are licensed by the Guild. At the St. Louis Globe-Democrat even editorial writers are required to pay the Guild to work.

Who said they can't!

Contrasts, always. St. Helena and Versailles, Dakar and New York. One wonders whether the sidereal fever or whatever it is that rages in your system in protest against going to sleep in Dakar and waking up in New York is partly a matter of jet lag.

At St. Helena, Napoleon, overlord of Europe, was surrounded by four courtiers and the 200 soldiers on the island were not at his disposal, but at that of the saint who governed the island, his full-time warden.

Tragedy was defined long ago as the fall from a great height. At St. Helena you feel the full horror of it, and it is least approached at 30 miles per hour, aboard a boat, than at jet speed.

encouraging a selfish, nationalistic approach. Whatever happens to President Nixon as the Watergate procedures continue to unfold, he can never again be in a position to give the North Atlantic world dynamic guidance.

He was expressing the grievances of the poor countries against the rich countries, and threatening that if nothing was done the underdeveloped nations would create more cartels like the oil cartel, and confront the industrial nations in a struggle for survival.

In many ways, this is a silly threat. It is easier to create an oil cartel than a cartel for bauxite, or copper or coffee, but strange things are happening in this fight over raw materials.

NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE PROGRAM

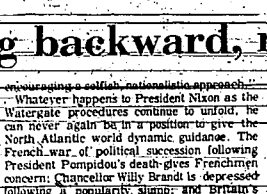

individual pay dues to a private organization in order to work in a modern world of industry. The requirement that he do so in order to express an opinion over the public airways involves an act of coercion by a "private" organization operating under government sanction.

Idea of 'Europe' moving backward, not ahead

PARIS. The idea of "Europe" signaled by the Common Market treaty of Rome 17 years ago is now going backward, not forward.

When the European community was enlarged to include Britain, Ireland and Denmark in 1972 there was a revival of the spirit that envisaged advance toward political unity, a common monetary policy and ultimately a unified system of defense.

The concept of a two-pillared Atlantic alliance based on both American and West-European contributions had started to flicker once again last year. But economic and political setbacks have shoved the project into reverse. Few observers are ready to guess when that trend will halt.

C. L. SULZBERGER

Such talk in which France never outstandingly "European" in its own concepts — has been taking a lead, comes at a bad time for all concerned which means not only the community members but the signatories to the Atlantic Alliance.

But Stetson's fight is the first head-on confrontation involving a working print journalist and the Guild.

Stetson makes it clear that he has nothing against labor unions as institutions. They provide a useful economic counterweight to employers, he says.

But Stetson's fight is the first head-on confrontation involving a working print journalist and the Guild.

Thought for today

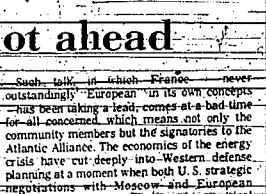

A thought for the day: American novelist Thomas Wolfe said: "There is no spectacle on Earth more appealing than that of a beautiful woman in the act of cooking dinner for someone she loves."

Who said they can't!

Contrasts, always. St. Helena and Versailles, Dakar and New York. One wonders whether the sidereal fever or whatever it is that rages in your system in protest against going to sleep in Dakar and waking up in New York is partly a matter of jet lag.

What you always wanted to know about missile talks but never asked

Q. What is the current round of talks about?
A. The agreed purpose is to broaden the interim accord to include MIRV's and throw-weight as well as to reduce the numbers of missile launchers. A permanent accord is also sought.

Q. What is known about the current American position?
A. Officials do not like to discuss details, but there are five inter-related proposals. Equally in number of missiles and bombers, with each side free to determine its forces; willingness to halt MIRV deployment if Moscow will limit emplacement of its missiles with high throw-weight that can be equipped with many MIRV's over-all equality in throw-weight of missiles with MIRV's or throw-weight limit on missiles that do not contain MIRV's; over-all missile reductions on both sides, depending on Soviet agreement to all the above proposals.

MVMH board tells position

Editor, Times News: In February of this year, a bond campaign for the purpose of financing the expansion and remodeling of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital failed by a narrow margin. I believe the required majority of approval by the citizens of Blaine County.

The hospital board wishes to state its present position in relation to the needs of the hospital as follows: The board of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital was appointed to do a specific job. That job is the same now as it was for the first hospital board appointed in this county, namely, to serve the medical needs of the county and to perform those functions and duties which would result in the highest level of patient care at the lowest possible cost.

It was with this responsibility in mind that this board came to the decision to ask the public to act in order to prevent a deterioration in the quality of service rendered in the hospital and to insure the continued advantages which modern medicine is capable of providing the sick and injured. A general obligation bond proposal was not only the one legal course available, but it was agreed to be the most equitable, feasible and in the long view the least expensive means of financing necessary improvements.

The proposal for $4.5 million included the addition of 30 more beds. Equally important was its provision to modernize and expand all the scientific, technological and essential supportive services that are often "invisible" but, nonetheless, vitally important in the treatment of the patients who would occupy the existing 126 beds plus those 30 additional new ones.

It is not our intention to compete with any large medical center, nor do we operate this hospital to promote the special interests of physicians. It is operated solely to meet the medical needs of the average citizen who in all probability will never see a specialist in medical and hospital care in his home community. A county hospital is legally and morally obligated to provide health care to anyone who seeks it. We further believe that this care must meet the highest standards consistent with population and resources. This hospital is now overcrowded, its facilities are stretched beyond their capacity and personnel cannot function at peak efficiency under these circumstances. These conditions can only become more critical with every subsequent year, that no solution is provided.

The majority who indicated their approval of the bond proposal with a yes vote exhibited admirable concern for the quality and cost of hospital care as well as for the needs that now exist. Those who cast their ballots against the proposed plan exercised their responsibility with honorable conviction. However, the services and facilities of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital are the proper concern of all citizens in this county, and, as such, should merit the considered judgment and active participation by a large majority of the eligible voters when an election affecting the hospital is held.

- The need for modernization and expansion cannot be corrected by being ignored. Members of the hospital board believe now as they did a year ago that to fulfill their duties to the residents of this county they must continue intensive efforts toward achieving responsible solutions to the prevailing inadequacies.
- We pledge our efforts and abilities to provide and maintain a superior institution in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Letters

Q. Why does the accord refer to missile launchers and not just missiles?
A. It is virtually impossible to tell how many missiles have been hidden away, but it is relatively easy to spot by satellite photograph many land launching pads and numerous missile launchers.

Q. How many offensive missile launchers was each side allowed?
A. The United States was permitted 1,000 land-based launchers and 910 sea-based launchers. The Soviet Union was allowed 1,418 land-based launchers if it built up to 850 sea-based launchers.

Q. What is the significance of MIRV's?
A. MIRV is the acronym for multiple independently targetable reentry vehicles, is the name for the part of the missile containing nuclear warheads that can be aimed at individual targets once it arrives over a target area.

Q. What is the significance of throw-weight?
A. It is the weight of the payload that can be carried by a missile. MIRV's are more accurate than a missile with a single warhead.

Q. What is throw-weight and what is its significance?
A. It is the amount of weight a missile can carry to the point of attack.

Q. Why is the increase in the capacity to destroy the other side's land-based missiles, however well protected?
A. The increase is sharp disagreement. One group believes Washington did better because of its superiority in MIRV's by 1977 this could mean over 10,000 MIRV's mounted on more than 2,000 missiles. A third of this total has already been mounted. The other group believes Moscow fared better because it is catching up technologically with MIRV's being begun last August, and because it has more than a 2-to-1 lead in the throw-weight of land-based missiles.

Q. What is the significance of throw-weight?
A. It is the weight of the payload that can be carried by a missile. MIRV's are more accurate than a missile with a single warhead.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

There's only one self-test for condition

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My wife and I had an ectopic pregnancy (three normal deliveries before that). After surgery the doctors assured me that both ovaries and the other tube were healthy, and to take precautions as I could become pregnant again. I haven't had any female trouble since and my periods are regular. Now I would like another baby but another doctor told me that after an ectopic pregnancy many women can no longer conceive. Is there any way I can tell if I am fertile? I have been trying for the temperature cycle but I can't see that it varies any. I am in good health. — Mrs. E. E. R.

An ectopic pregnancy is one in which the fetus attaches itself to the wrong place—the Fallopian tube.

It is true that many women, after an ectopic pregnancy, cannot conceive again—but many can. The question is what caused the fertilized egg to stop in the tube instead of continuing on to the uterus.

Sometimes this is because infection has scarred the tube, and in that case it is possible that the other tube may also have been sufficiently scarred. Then again tiny polyps or other narrowing of the tube may have been responsible, but only that tube is scarred and the other tube is open, that is, in case pregnancy is possible.

From what the doctors said at the time of surgery, I would assume they believed the other tube to be open. A special test, however, would be in order now, called insufflation, meaning finding out whether air can be blown through the tube.

As to the temperature method, the rise is quite small, from one-half to one degree at the time of ovulation. You could find no association it could mean that you are not ovulating. But make sure that you are watching for that small change, and keep in mind that rectal temperature, not under your tongue, is the way to take a temperature for this purpose.

Anyway, my suggestion would be to talk to your doctor about an insufflation test and possibly other tests rather than trying to guess or to determine for yourself whether you are fertile—really, the only test you can do without your doctor's help—is to become pregnant.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend asked me recently about abdominal epilepsy. Can you be of any help? — J.G.

It's not the easiest thing to explain, but there is a group of inorganic disorders termed by convulsive features. Epilepsy is one of them. But there are different manifestations within the group, known as epileptic equivalents. One is referred to as abdominal pain and is called abdominal epilepsy.

The pain is severe, but it is not associated with the seizures we commonly think of in epilepsy. However, an electroencephalogram (brain wave) shows a tracing suggestive of disordered rhythm in the brain.

Attacks of abdominal epilepsy yield to anticonvulsant drugs, the same type or drugs used with epilepsy.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have varicose veins. Is it possible to have the water taken out of the veins so I won't have these big bumps on my legs? — Mrs. G.

That isn't water. That's blood, which is made up of red blood cells and plasma. The veins and veins of the legs are losing their ability to prevent a backflow, and the veins swell — become varicose. The answer is to remove the veins (lengthwise, so there will be a minimum amount of scarring).

Although the objectives were worthy, everyone now knows that price controls simply did not work exactly as hoped. Instead, they interfered seriously with food production and marketing. Many shortages developed and prices increased. Now, with controls off, and the food business again operating in its normal, freely competitive manner, supply and demand should start to come into balance. Because some foods take longer to produce than others, not everything will become plentiful at the same time. Jaworski seeking added tapes of talks between Nixon, aides

(C) N. Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON—Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski asked the United States District Court here Tuesday to issue a subpoena directing President Nixon to turn over tape recordings and other documents relating to 64 conversations between President Nixon and four of his former top aides.

It was the first step in what could be another major confrontation between the President and the Watergate prosecution, and Jaworski made it clear that he would have preferred avoiding the confrontation.

In a set of legal papers filed with the clerk of the court, the prosecutor said he was asking for the subpoena only after trying for months to secure the tapes and materials from the White House in an informal manner.

He told the court that he needed the materials for an immediate comment on Jaworski's move. At Key Biscayne, where the President was concluding his Easter vacation, a spokesman for Nixon said there would be no comment until the lawyers had a chance to study the prosecution's request.

Previously, as Jaworski has noted in the past, the White House had sometimes made available some of the other tapes that the prosecution has requested informally. On other occasions, the White House has contended that a tape was irrelevant but has given Jaworski an opportunity to listen to the tape to hear for himself.

'Cinque' joined in bank heist

(C) New York Times Service
SAN FRANCISCO—The Federal Bureau of Investigation said Tuesday that Donald DeFreeze, an escaped convict, was among the band of terrorists it believes may have forced Patricia Hearst to take part in a daring bank robbery Monday.

DeFreeze, the so-called General Field Marshall Cinque, who escaped from Soledad prison 13 months ago, was identified by the FBI on surveillance photographs taken at the bank, where the robbers shot two persons and escaped with $160,000.

But while FBI agents were able to make what they considered to be positive identifications of these black and white women who accompanied Miss Hearst into the bank, they concluded that they had not yet been able to identify the individual who calls itself the Symbionese Liberation Army. Charles Harris, the FBI agent in charge of the investigation, said he believed the group was hiding out somewhere in the San Francisco Bay area.

But when asked by reporters if the identifications obtained from the photographs taken at the bank would make the investigation easier, he replied, "nothing is easy in this case."

It has been 10 weeks since Miss Hearst was abducted from her Berkeley apartment, and 12 days since she made her first public appearance, at which she had declined to join her terrorist kidnappers rather than return home to her wealthy parents.

Harris spoke to newsmen in Hillsborough, Calif., after a mid-afternoon meeting with Randolph A. Hearst, the wealthy newspaper magnate, and his 10-year-old kidnapping victim, who was photographed inside the bank standing in front of a line of reporters' booths, holding what appeared to be a carbine.

The FBI said that it has taken 1,200 pictures that were taken during the holdup and that a number of them show that either DeFreeze or one of the robbers in the training party had weapons trained on Miss Hearst.

Both the FBI and the U.S. attorneys here have theorized that the man in the photographs that the kidnapping victim was an unwilling participant in the bank robbery.

DONALD DEFREEZE identified

Bank guard thinks threats in earnest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A guard who witnessed Monday's daring bank robbery by the Symbionese Liberation Army says newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst left little doubt she would use her gun, despite reports she appeared reluctant.

His eyewitness report appeared to conflict with statements by the FBI that Miss Hearst may have been forced to take part in the robbery. The FBI reports were based on photographs taken by hidden bank cameras.

The bank guard, Edward Shen, 66, told UPI that Miss Hearst "was pretty wild, giving out vindictives and orders and all that, saying she would shoot the first guy that moved, calling everybody an m.f. and everything else."

"There was no doubt in my mind she would shoot," Shen said in an interview with KRON television, asked why, he said, "It was her stance. Her position. It was so up so tough, I heard her say she would shoot the first guy that moved or did anything out of line."

Miss Hearst was dragged from her apartment on Feb. 4 and her captors, members of the Symbionese Liberation Army, demanded a massive food giveaway program by Miss Hearst's father, newspaper magnate and editor of the San Francisco Examiner.

In a later tape-recorded message, Miss Hearst repudiated her former life and said she was joining forces with the SLA.

The robbery occurred Monday at a Hibernia Bank branch in a quiet neighborhood near Golden Gate Park. Five men and four women made up the robbery team.

Special cable service rate limits rejected

(C) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON—The Federal Communications Commission has decided to forbid — for the time being — any regulation of rates for specialized services transmitted on cable television.

At the same time, however, the FCC says it is limiting rate regulation for cable TV systems to rates charged subscribers.

The agency addressed the commission said its latest report on cable TV was designed to clarify some existing rules adopted two years ago, and propose some new ones to eliminate some problems that have arisen as cable TV develops.

The vintages cable TV were handed down Tuesday in a unanimous 4-0 page decision. The agency said further cable television is such a new service that attempting to impose further regulation on various specialized services — such as fire alarms, meter reading, data transmission and the like — might actually hamper development.

Further, the commission contended that no one has any further of how such cable TV services as advertising, special pay programs, computerized data transmission and the like will develop, or how much they will cost.

charge by community groups and others, the commission will not demand that the cable operator also pay for the programming on these channels, or supply people and equipment to produce them. Such costs, the FCC said, must be borne by those who wish to produce the programs.

Although the FCC is requiring new cable systems to provide channels for use of the FCC said.

Among its proposals: The FCC is proposing to forbid state or local agencies from setting up technical standards for cable TV systems.

The commission is considering a rule that would impose a minimum franchise term, possibly five to seven years.

Judge reduces Calley sentence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Secretary of the Army today halved the 20-year sentence imposed on 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr. for the murder of 22 South Vietnamese civilians at My Lai in 1968, while at the same time upholding his court-martial conviction and sentencing.

The reduction of Calley's sentence to 10 years, Army Secretary Howard Callaway said in his statement, was made because of "mitigating circumstances indicating that Calley may have sincerely believed that he was acting in accordance with the orders he had received and that he was not aware of his responsibility for killing an innocent man."

Although today's action concludes the case so far as the military is concerned, President Nixon has said that he will personally make a final review of the matter in his capacity as commander in chief. A Pentagon spokesman said that Callaway's ruling, the complete record of trial and all papers associated with the case were delivered to the White House Tuesday. Nixon has been at his Key Biscayne, Fla., home since Friday afternoon and was scheduled to return to Washington tonight.

Calley was originally sentenced to 30 years in March, 1971, for murdering the 22 men.

Civilians in the hamlet of My Lai in 1968. His sentence for "a harsh labor" but in response to direct intervention by President Nixon, he was instead confined to his quarters at Fort Benning, Ga. Five months later, his sentence was reduced to 20 years by the commanding general of the Third Army, Lt. Gen. Albert O. Connor.

He remained in his small bachelor apartment until Feb. 27, when he was freed in $1,000 bond by U. S. District Court Judge J. Robert Elliott, in Columbus, Ga. Calley told Judge Elliott that he needed "to consult more freely with my attorneys," and that he had "a financial need" to get a job.

His sentence also calls for the forfeiture of his military pay. He also said, "I feel I could be useful to society."

Today's ruling by Callaway, which he said "completes the Army's action in this case," means that Calley would be technically eligible for parole after six months' additional imprisonment. A Pentagon spokesman said that a prisoner was generally eligible for parole after one-third of a sentence had been served. This would make Calley eligible after serving three years and four months; thus far, he has served two years and just under 11 months, since his sentence was reduced.

Gem presidential primary reviewed

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Idaho Assistant Secretary of State Dryden Hiller says the adoption of a presidential primary in the Gem State could have adverse effects on political parties despite the prestige it would give the state nationally.

Hiller made the comments Tuesday during a day-long symposium on the presidential nomination system at the University of Idaho. The Idaho College Republican League has mounted an effort to place an initiative measure on the November ballot calling for a presidential primary in the state, and Hiller said the job would be a challenging one. However, he said he feels presidential primaries harm the party political structure. "Determining party candidates is really a party matter," Hiller said, adding that a primary would allow independents to take part in determining the Democratic and Republican nominees. On the other hand, he said, such a primary would give national attention to Idaho, and would most likely bring some of the major candidates to campaign in the state. They would also be spending money in the Gem State.

Hiller said the measure backers hope to place on the November ballot would place Idaho's primary on the same date as the Oregon primary, the fourth Tuesday in May. The Idaho primary would be among the last in the nation under the initiative proposal, Hiller said, and would be considered rather influential. Since 1880, Idaho has always gone with the winner, except in the close 1960 election when Kennedy defeated Nixon, he said. "As a result, an Idaho primary might well be a good indicator of the voting mood of the nation."

Other big money donors eyed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, who says there were at least 30 men of money who contributed as much or more to the 1972 Nixon campaign than the international wheeler-dealer Robert L. Vesco, was called for the first time as a witness in the Mitchell-Stans trial today.

Stans, 66, a bright-eyed and chipper little Middle West accountant and semi-millionaire, was the chief fundraiser for Nixon as chairman of the Finance Committee for the Re-election of the President and once was the main-business spokesman in the cabinet. Defense attorney Walter J. Bonner laid the foundation for the Stans appearance with a lengthy reading to the federal court jury late Tuesday of Stans' grand jury testimony. It disclosed his figure of 31 big donors. Vesco was the biggest cash donor.

Stans and former Attorney General John N. Mitchell are accused of lying to the grand jury in denying they conspired to impede a federal investigation of Vesco's financial cutie tactics in exchange for his secret $200,000 cash campaign gift. Vesco publicly contributed $50,000 more. Stans was expected to be on the stand at least two days. After that, few or no witnesses were expected. The trial, first against former cabinet members and the former attorney general, should be in the jury's hands next week.

The Stans testimony will aim at rebutting that of former White House counsel John W. Dean and who said Stans volunteered to talk to C. Bradford Cook, then general counsel of the Securities and Exchange Commission, to see if Vesco would be rendered "specific" about the contribution.

Stans testified that on a Texas goose hunt he told Stans he had read that Vesco had given $50,000 to the campaign, and Stans said "I don't think we look money from Vesco, and if we did it was in checks."

Later, Cook said, he phoned Stans to read a paragraph in the upcoming SEC complaint detailing the moving of $250,000 from the Bahamas to Vesco, and Stans said "Oh-oh, that gives me a problem. Do you need that for your case?"

Nude cyclist

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — A streaker rode a bicycle back and forth on the street outside Puerto Rico's Capitol building for about five minutes Tuesday.

Witnesses said the man took off his clothes on a hill opposite the building and began biking. After about five minutes, he got dressed and rode away.

Ehrlichman hinted in 'dealing' mood

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John Ehrlichman is disenchanted with President Nixon, friends say. Ehrlichman's effectiveness as an aide, and his anger at H.R. Haldeman for not telling him that even their talks with Watergate tapes recorded, the Los Angeles Times reported today. Ehrlichman may be ready to make a deal with the Watergate special prosecutor, the newspaper said. The Times quoted associates, neighbors and close friends of Ehrlichman. The newspaper said Ehrlichman would not comment. "Ehrlichman is said to have confided that he resigned his White House post last year after reaching what he thought was an understanding that Mr. Nixon would follow up Ehrlichman's and Haldeman's resignations with a complete statement and admission of everything he knew about the Watergate case and its handling," the Times said in a report from Seattle, where Ehrlichman now lives.

Extra-Viet $ available

(C) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The Pentagon has told a Senate committee that it has found $56-million extra for military aid to South Vietnam this year funds that military officials said they did not know they had.

The upshot is that the Saigon government will receive additional arms this year in that amount though Congress will refuse to raise the spending ceiling as requested by the Nixon administration, as described by congressional sources and confirmed by Pentagon officials. This is what happened.

Several months ago, the Defense Department asked Congress to raise the ceiling for arms aid to South Vietnam to $1.5 billion from $1.26 billion for the current fiscal year. When members of the Senate Armed Services Committee looked at details of the request, they could not understand the accounting procedures. The committee then asked the Pentagon to straighten out its books.

After several weeks of study Pentagon officials reported to the committee that they had discovered an accounting error. The Pentagon maintained that had found that $26 million was left over from fiscal 1972-73 — money that Congress had appropriated — and that this money was now available for the current fiscal year if Congress did not object.

Views differ on Antarctica

Washington Star News: ANTARCTICA — As the world's last great wilderness, there remains and scientists peacefully co-exist, may become an endangered continent in the not-too-distant future.

The area is threatened by the worldwide search for new sources of minerals and energy — especially oil — and the suspicion that the icy continent may be rich in such resources.

Some impetus for the energy minerals-rush comes from within the U.S. Government, particularly the Federal Energy Office.

A policy review is under way, aimed at developing the U.S. position when the 17 Antarctic treaty nations meet in Oslo next year and consider, for the first time, the Antarctic resources — effects of mineral exploitation — and keep Antarctica the way it is now.

Antarctica is a unique scientific laboratory, outside the world of national rivalries.

But, in a three-page report, the National Security Council, then within the next few weeks to President Nixon for final decision, the Federal Energy office disagrees.

The office, say, sources familiar with the disclaimer, has strongly urged that U.S. "options" to develop Antarctica on a unilateral basis not be foreclosed.

The energy office's attitude, one government official said, can be characterized as being "we've got to get our share" of whatever Antarctica might contain. And a high official of the agency agrees that there are "differences in outlook" within the government.

"Our view is that the resources down there may not be technically or economically exploitable today, but important 20 to 30 years from now. We don't want these resources locked up when they're needed," the spokesman said.

Up to now, Antarctica, which is about the size of the United States and Mexico, has been of little interest to anyone outside the scientific, environmental and diplomatic community.

Scientists and environmentalists particularly fear exploitation. They consider Antarctica potentially the greatest source of protein in the world, the greatest source of fresh water and the only place on earth where environmental damage to the world can be measured.

Sulter gives resignation

BOISE (UPI) — Chief Deputy Attorney General Clarence D. Sulter today submitted his resignation in order to return to the private practice of law.

Sulter said he intended to associate in the practice of law with Dwight F. Bickel of Boise and also to pursue private business interests in the Eagle area, where he will engage in a land development operation.

Attorney General W. Anthony Park said he was with a great deal of regret and much reluctance that he accepted Mr. Sulter's resignation.

"Clancy has served the attorney general's office and the State of Idaho with great dedication and at much personal sacrifice these last 3 1/2 years," Park said.

(c) New York Times Service
 NEW YORK — An industry-sponsored study of vinyl chloride has indicated that when mice are exposed to the amount of the chemical that workers are currently permitted to inhale, the animals develop a rare fatal cancer of the liver that has been found in 98 vinyl chloride workers.

Vinyl chloride, an explosive gas, is used to make polyvinyl chloride, the basis for much of modern plastics. Some 6,500 workers are involved in the vinyl chloride-polyvinyl chloride industry. In addition, vinyl chloride has been used as a propellant in "foam" aerosol consumer products, including hair sprays and pesticides.

The industry's laboratory findings, presented Tuesday to a private briefing for government and industry officials, raises questions about the safety of the current Federal Emergency Occupational Standard of 10 parts of vinyl chloride per one million parts of air.

At this level of exposure for seven hours a day over seven months, several mice in the study, sponsored by the Manufacturing Chemists

Association, are reported to have developed the liver cancer called angiosarcoma. In a previous study, Prof. Cesare Maltoni of the Cancer Institute in Bologna, Italy, found the cancer in rats at levels of 250 parts per million and higher.

Maltoni's studies to date have shown no adverse effects at 50 parts per million, and was partly for this reason that the United States Department of Labor's Occupational Safety and Health Administration chose 50 parts per million for the emergency standard.

John O'Neill, chief of Health

Standards Development at the agency said Monday that the emergency standard would remain until "we have looked closely at the data and seen how good it is." He noted that mice sometimes develop angiosarcoma of the liver spontaneously.

Woman considers post

BOISE (UPI)—The assistant to the director of Idaho's Early Childhood Office is considering running for the Democratic nomination for Congress, the seat now held by Republican Steve Symms of Caldwell.

Gay Davis Tuesday confirmed she had talked with Gov. Cecil Andrus about running for the Democratic nomination for Congress, and is considering the race.

But she said she needs financial as well as verbal support from those Democrats seeking to draft her.

Kidnaping said hoax

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI)—Police Chief Nelson Olds says a kidnap report by a 17-year-old Ontario, Ore. youth was a hoax.

Olds said officers discovered the hoax after dusting the car of Richard Jones for fingerprints and finding only those of Jones.

The youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jones, Ontario, told officers Monday he was kidnaped and robbed while delivering newspapers and left locked in the trunk of his car at Carl Miller Park in Mountain Home.

Grosebeck seeks nomination

BOISE (UPI)—Harmon J. Grosebeck, director of business and operations for School District 91, says he will seek the Republican nomination for state superintendent of public instruction.

A native of Idaho, he was reared in Idaho Falls and attended Idaho State University, University of Utah, Brigham Young University and Sacramento State College.

He has served as a teacher, principal and superintendent.

Solons to meet

BOISE (UPI)—Legislators for the first time since the legislative session ended this year will get together Friday for a meeting of the Legislative Council.

The meeting will start at 11 a.m. in the House Caucus Room. The lawmakers will make appointments to the seven legislative study committees.

Gem college aide named

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI)—William C. Cassell, director of development at the University of Denver since 1970, is the new president-elect of the College of Idaho.

Cassell, 39, takes over the new duties on July 1. He is a graduate of Pomona College, Claremont, Calif., where he received a Bachelor of Arts and masters degree.

Prior to accepting his present post he was director of development and public relations for the Menninger Foundation.

Cassell has published articles in business, education and has written various articles for professional journals.

Church airs criticism

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Idaho's senior senator strongly criticized the Nixon Administration for its refusal to waive a regulation preventing foreign ships from transporting fertilizer from Alaska to other U.S. ports.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, accused the administration of ignoring the needs of farmers in the Pacific Northwest who lack anhydrous ammonia fertilizer, because there is a shortage of the product in the Northwest and a lack of ships to transport it from Alaska.

"In denying this request, Church said, 'the administration is inviting another unnecessary shortage that could seriously impair this year's wheat crop throughout the Northwest.'"

Kidwell enters race

BOISE — Wayne Kidwell, Republican, Boise, today announced he is running for attorney general in the race for Idaho's Attorney General.

"I would be proud to work for the people of Idaho as attorney general," he said. "My campaign will not be based upon personalities but rather in my belief that the office should be moved to a new and positive direction."

WR Journal names editor

HAYLE — Chris Peck, a 24-year-old Wyoming native, is the new editor of the Wood River Journal.

Peck has worked for the Journal throughout Wyoming and Montana in addition to helping his father, "a Wyoming publisher."

Peck said he will first be seeking "stability in the staff." The weekly has lost many employees over a two-year period. "I have changed editors twice since September, 1973, when Gordon Glasman, Jerome, purchased the paper, according to Peck.

"I am on my own," Peck said. "I will be in charge of the paper and hire employees who will stay with the paper."

Tax returns slow

COBURG, VA., Idaho (UPI)—The manager of the local office of the Idaho State Tax Commission says state income tax returns processed through his office were running about 3,500 behind last year.

"I don't know why," he said. "The overall figure could match last year's figure after this week."

Minidoka school still closed

RUPERT — Minidoka County High School will be closed for at least one more day to complete a temporary sewer line.

The school is closed today because of "a lot of problems we did not anticipate," according to school Supt. Darrell Hatfield.

"The sewer line has been closed since last Wednesday when it began to back up. A sewer line to a drain field near the school will have to be completed before students can come back to class."

School officials had said they expected to be in session today but progress with the temporary line has been slow. Hatfield said he "could not guarantee completion today."

The junior high students will be registered for next year while the high school is closed to classes today.

Ketchum council OK's zoning plan

By BART QUINNELL
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — The Ketchum City Council voted reservations and then unanimously approved the new zoning plan and map Tuesday night.

The plan would provide stricter regulations for new construction and will designate commercial and residential areas in the city.

Paul Peterson, councilman, said, "There are certain things the council doesn't like about it and some things the people don't like about it. We will start the amendment proceedings as soon as possible."

Another councilman, Jack Corroick, said "Certain setback recommendations in business districts and along arterials need definite review."

He said arguments over avalanche and flood plain control could be avoided. A new designation between general residential low and general residential high would have to be recommended, he said.

"This he said, would probably be general residential medium."

"I do personally think some of these things will be contested in court," Corroick said.

Martha Poltevin, councilwoman, said opinions by the council were not reasons for the new plan.

"The ordinance is mostly as it should be or we wouldn't pass it," she said.

Ketchum Mayor Bill Brand said he could amend certain sections now, he would. Proper procedure for amendments is to file a petition with the City Council who in turn will pass it on to the city planning and zoning commission.

The council decided to publish an amendment that section on agricultural and forest land.

In other action the council voted to revise the fire structure on sewer hookups. The raise will mean a minimum charge of $4 rather than $1 which serves 200 residents now pay.

According to Mayor Brand, the city was $30,000 in the hole on the sewer system after 1973's audit. He explained the total cost of completing the new sewer plant was still $20,000. The sewer take-off fee only.

A request for a beer and wine license by Steve Smith, "Sun Valley," was "tabled" until speakers could appear.

The council decided until highway department hearings on a proposed four-lane highway through the Wood River Valley before taking a stance.

Brand read a composite of voter attitudes on highway route alternatives. The $600,000 through Ketchum for a two-lane improved highway was welcomed by 63 persons, while a four-lane highway got 4 votes. A total of 18 persons voted for no change.

A four-lane Sun Valley alternative route received 4 yes and 85 no votes.

Hailey still has cold mornings

Hansen bid opening set

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

HANSEN — Bids on the construction of the new Hansen Elementary School will be opened May 8.

Supt. Percy Christensen and trustees studied all aspects of the building project at the monthly meeting Monday night before setting the bid opening. Voters have approved $380,000 bond issue to provide for the school, which will be located on 12 acres of land purchased by the district just west of the present school site.

Trustees also decided to ask voter approval of a three-mill override levy at the trustee election May 21. Funds from the levy will be used to buy equipment and improve the site for the new school, Christensen said.

Two trustee posts will be filled in the election, with terms of Everett Norris in zone 3, and Robert Pettigrove, zone 1, expiring.

Nominating petitions must be filed by May 2 in the superintendent's office.

Polls will be open from noon to 8 p.m. May 21 in the high school.

Trustees discussed inaugurating a special service cooperative with Kimberly Valley and Starbuck districts. Christensen said the services anticipated in such a cooperative are special education, school psychologist, speech therapy and possibly counseling.

The superintendent also told trustees the district revenue from state funding may be less this year because of decreased enrollment. He said there are about 20 students under the expected increase this year. The increase was expected on the basis of the new housing development and trailer court, both under way in Hansen.

"Preliminary indications are we may be a little short on revenue," Christensen said, "but we won't have to cut any programs. We won't know for sure until the audit is done in July."

He said current state funding means "you've got to guess on next year's enrollment." He said it is difficult to estimate daily average attendance a year in advance. He said the trailer court, which will hold about 35 units when filled, is only about 30 per cent filled now, and the housing development now has 35 homes sold, but has a potential of about 80.

Trustees also approved a "salary schedule, making base pay for a teacher with bachelor's degree $7,000 and for salary, for five years $10,000. The loss of 20 anticipated students means about $4,000 out in state funds for the district.

Next year's school calendar was approved, with two weeks Christmas vacation, Dec. 20-Jan. 6. Other holidays include Sept. 2; Labor Day; Sept. 4, fair; fall vacation, Oct. 21; Thanksgiving, Nov. 29-30; Presidents Day, Feb. 12; Easter, March 28-31; Memorial Day, May 28, with school to close May 29, 1975.

A vacancy was announced in the dishwashing department in the school hot lunch program.

Break-ins probed

TWIN FALLS, Idaho — Detectives in the Twin Falls Police Department today were investigating the latest in a recent string of break-ins to local doctors' offices.

The office of Dr. Wilhard Heston, 542 Main Ave. S. was broken into late Tuesday, although apparently nothing was taken. According to police reports no drugs, completed or controlled substance are kept in Dr. Peterson's treatment room.

The break-in, according to reports, was accomplished by smashing the lower glass in the rear door of the office with a rock. The treatment room was then ransacked.

Damage was estimated at $75.

The break-in followed two earlier burglaries at doctors' offices in the past week, and one car burglary.

The office of Dr. Werner H. Kramer and Dr. David L. Crossland, were broken into and the medical bag of Dr. Randall Slickers was stolen from his car.

Minico boundary change reviewed

RUPERT — District boundary lines may have to be redrawn to equalize student numbers in Minidoka County's two junior high schools.

Supt. Darrell Hatfield explained the situation at a school board meeting Monday night to a large delegation of parents who came to protest bringing their children change schools.

According to Hatfield, the problem is that West Minico Junior High School will have 626 students next year, while East Minico Junior High School will have 407. The buildings were both built to hold 750. Equalization of numbers, at least to within 75, would permit better use of facilities and allow better education, Hatfield said.

"The most likely alternative in changing the district boundaries would be to draw the line from 150 West, south to 200 South, then east to the Snake River. This would result in 626 students attending West Minico and 745 attending East Minico."

Objections were raised from the parents who live close to East Minico but would have to have their children sent to West. Many parents seem to object to having students currently enrolled at East Minico Junior High School changing schools, particularly since some of them think East Minico is a better school.

One parent suggested building another school because the district appears headed for future overcrowding conditions. "What's another tax dollar?" he asked.

The matter is still under discussion by school authorities.

Three teachers asked the board for a year's leave of absence for next year. Two of them requested a guarantee of re-employment the following year. Kathy Bell, Rosie Astorquia and Mrs. Elizabeth Toolson were granted leaves of absence, but without guarantee of their positions. Mrs. Astorquia will continue as drill team sponsor.

The board decided that they would have their positions back if they were available, depending upon the possibility of hiring teachers to fill the positions for next year.

School board chairman Leonard Martin, and David Muller, president of the Minidoka County Teacher's Association, signed a procedural agreement for negotiations between teachers and school administration. The agreement has been under discussion for about two years.

All Minidoka teachers were offered new contracts for next year. Stan Bruns was approved for hiring as a chorus and band teacher for West Minico Junior High School.

No decision was made on the possible financing of the proposed sewer facility which would link Minidoka County High School and the city of Rupert. Hatfield said he was "pessimistic" and thought the project would cost more than $199,000.

Sewer problems may force the school to use only one-third of the normal amount of water, so that a drainfield can be utilized until a permanent sewer facility is built. The school may have to administer a cold lunch program in the next few years.

No vote has been filed a petition to run for election to the school board yet, according to Dr. Hatfield. The election will be held May 21. Petitions for zones 2 and 3 must be returned to the central office by May 3.

Plan opens Elmore land

According to Altrett, the board initially would expand the 3,800 Indian Hills Project to 5,000 acres. When developed, hopefully by the spring of 1976, the lands would be opened to homebuyers under the provisions of the recently enacted Carey Act, he said.

Homebuyers would be chosen through lottery with priority given to veterans and their wives. Individuals could file on 160-acre plots and a man and wife could jointly file on 320 acres.

Revising the Indian Hills Project and expanding it to 5,000 acres would entail putting in pumps and pipelines designed to deliver water to 160-acre plots at an upward cost of $1.5 million, Altrett said.

Based on average crop prices from 1969 through 1973, the 5,000-acre project would generate about $2 million in gross profit, Altrett said.

After developing the 5,000 acres, the board would expand the project to 11,000 acres, he said.

TF zoning plan praised

The entire rim is zoned agricultural under the proposed ordinance. The county commissioners have suggested that the rim zone may be changed when the citizen committee completes the land study.

Woods said the area between Pole Line Road and the rim "has more or less been turned over" to the city by way of "contingent land use planning. I think we owe them the courtesy of letting them continue forward with their recommendations," he said.

Edward Mealy, a member of the council, said "The city council probably will take several more months. It's not a hurry-up thing," he added.

Several persons justifying at the meeting said the new zoning ordinance should be considered an "interim" measure which will be altered when a final use plan is completed for the entire county. City county planner David Richey has said the county plan should be finished in about two years.

Mayor Bruns, Twin Falls, asked that commercial zoning along Kimberly Road be extended to the east.

Noian Vinton, also Twin Falls, protested zoning "in general." He said zoning laws prevent the "fullest and best use" of land by property owners.

Woods also announced several changes in the text of the ordinance, and proposed zoning around Twin Falls City.

The minimum size for lots connected to public sewers in the residential agricultural (RA) zone has been cut from one-half acre to 3,000 square feet. A one-acre minimum was maintained for RA lots using septic tanks for sewage disposal.

Minimum sizes for residential low density (RL) and residential medium density (RM) lots in public sewers also have been reduced. The smallest RL lot was cut to 3,000 square feet and the RM to 2,500 square feet. Minimum lots in both zones previously had been 10,000 square feet.

RL and RM requirements for lots using septic tanks remain at one-half acre.

More RM zoning has been added around Twin Falls City, according to Woods. A parcel of land northwest of the city, bounded on the north by Pole Line Road and on the south by Falls Avenue West, has been zoned from RM to an RM designation.

Jerome cleanup pressed

JEROME — Jerome residents will have 30 days to clear trash from their property after receiving city notification.

The Jerome City Council Tuesday night adopted an ordinance which gives the city attorney the authority to go to court and obtain a court order to remove abandoned wrecked or junked vehicles as well as household appliances or other junk that is left on private property in Jerome.

Bill Hart, city attorney, said that under the ordinance city residents will be notified to remove the junk from their property. If they fail to do so, the junk will be removed by the city and the city resident will be charged for the court costs, attorney fees and the cost involved in removing the items, Hart said.

Mayor Charles Hancock said he hopes the public will clean up its junk before the city has to enforce the ordinance.

In other business before the council, approval was given to representatives of Colonial Life and Accident Insurance Co. to meet next week with city employees and present a proposed accident and hospitalization insurance program. The program, which will not cost the city anything, is available only to city, county and school employees.

Bill Korpeloff, with the council and asked for assistance in grading an irrigation ditch he re-located on his property on Cedar Street and Fifth Avenue. City engineer Bill Block agreed to assist Jersey with the grading providing he pays for pile and work.

Chief of Police Howard DuBus reported to the council that effective July 1 the state will go under a new and improved telephone system and that Jerome will participate in the new system.

DuBus also said that he has obtained a new police car under an emergency clause and that the police car which was wrecked last week will be repaired sooner than anticipated.

DuBus reported that the city irrigation water will be turned into ditcher Monday.

Dave Smith commended the city fire department for its ability to answer fire calls in a short time. Smith said that a study of the department showed that the volunteers were able to answer fire calls in record time in comparison with other fire departments in the nation.

TF picket

UNITE pickets in front of Ullman Construction Co. in Twin Falls, is part of an effort to "bind unions" in Twin Falls, according to John Walters, secretary of Building and Trades local in Idaho. But Bob Ullman, Ullman Construction, said he had not been contacted by the union in any way. Walters said the goal was to reach a union agreement with Ullman.

Foreman uncertain when he'll defend title in U.S.

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI)—Heavyweight champion George Foreman said Tuesday it wasn't up to him when he would make his first title defense in the United States.

"It's the promoters who make fights and it's the promoters who determine where I'm going to fight," the 25-year-old former Job Corpsman said.

"I would love to cross the street to fight or even fight in my back yard. Then I wouldn't have to pack up any bags or anything. I do get tired of traveling. And I love this country."

Foreman appeared at a news conference at NBC-TV where he is preparing for a Bob Hope special fight scheduled Friday night.

Since winning the heavy-weight crown from Joe Frazier in two rounds at Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 22, 1973, Foreman has made two title defenses outside of this country.

He is scheduled to meet former champion Muhammad Ali at Kinshasa, Zaïre, formerly Leopoldville, the Belgian Congo, in late September.

"I'm trying to fight all over the world and every promoter in the world has a chance to have me fight in his specific area," he said. "I'm not tied in with any specific promoter."

Foreman, who knocked out Ken Norton in two rounds at Caracas, Venezuela, March 26, said the Ali fight would go off as scheduled "on or about Sept. 30."

"I'm a guy who believes in the law and I have certain documents with my name on them," he said. "I don't go around breaking the law."

Foreman was asked if he would have a tune-up fight before his title defense against Ali.

"I really don't know," he replied. "Dick Sadler (Foreman's trainer) is still making all the decisions."

Foreman refused to make any prediction about his bout with Ali.

"You really can't predict how a fight is going to go," he said. "All you can do is get your tools as sharp as possible and hope you can land the right punch. I train for 15 rounds but any fight can go from one to 15 rounds."

"I would never fight if I didn't think I'd win, though I would never get into the ring with any man I thought could beat me. And I'm very confident this time around. But he may beat me."

On the morning of the fight with Norton, Foreman went to the hospital for an examination of what his physician said was an inflamed knee.

"My knee still needs to have a lot of work done on it," he offered. "It needs a lot of rest."

A gold nugget was found in Dawson City, Yukon, that weighed 72 ounces and 1.5 grains. It was nearly six inches long and was 2 1/2 inches wide at the heavy end and 1 1/2 inches at the smaller end. At $16 an ounce it was valued at $1,150 in 1968.

BALL HUNTING goes on between Idaho State's shortstop and second baseman CSI's Robb Morgan and safety Talo-second base Tuesday. The second baseman dropped the ball on the front-end of a double-play. The Eagles swept the twin bill 7-4 and 1-0 in eight innings.

Rubino, Nelson pitch CSI to doubleheader sweep over ISU

Joe Rubino and Kevin Nelson combined pitching talents Tuesday to give the College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles a doubleheader sweep over Idaho State.

Rubino went the full eight innings and got the nighttime victory 7-0 when Joe Velasquez delivered a bases-loaded single in the first extra inning. CSI's lone hit, a sacrifice, was interrupted for a six-run inning highlighted by Velasquez's three-run homer, as Nelson won the first game 7-4.

Both Rubino and Nelson had big hitting days as Rubino cracked out three hits in his own behalf in the nightcap.

Nelson, who joined in the six-run outburst with a hit and five hits for the day, playing rightfield in the nightcap.

The nightcap saw both sides miss chances to win the thing in regulation. Graves started the decisive play in the eighth with a bunt, and he flew around to third while Rubino was slashing his third hit up the middle. Rubino took second on the throw-in and ISU purposely walked Mike Fries to load the bases.

The drawn-in infield did not cut one run down at the plate but then Velasquez punched his game-winner up the middle. CSI's defense looked a little suspect early against ISU as walk, passed ball and throwing error set up the first Bengal run to score on Jones' single.

Nelson opened the bottom of the second with an inning with Pat Sore pitch running Shawn Jenkins sent Barr all the way around when a linedrive double to left center.

But in the next inning ISU collected three runs. Nick Yauris playing the first two with a single and scoring on a double.

Then came CSI's biggest inning at home for a long while. Fries opened with a hit and

ABA opens fire in escalating cage war

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cazzie Russell shooting a red, white and blue ball through the hoop, and a crowd of fans cheering. The National Basketball Association stars may be doing just that as the end result of Wednesday's American Basketball Association draft of NBA players.

The ABA, trying to consolidate its efforts to obtain additional talent from its rival league, will hold several drafts here along similar lines to that just conducted by the World Football League. Each of the 10 ABA teams will pick five players, can get one from each of the 17 NBA teams—and make every effort to get these 50 players to jump leagues.

Russell, of the Golden State Warriors, and Seattle's Alvin Attles, formerly known as Walt Hazzard, are among the small number of NBA players who have played out their options this season and could switch leagues immediately. Also rumored to be in the market for a switch is Atlanta's Dale Marazich, who is dissatisfied with his position in the Hawks, and New York's...

Following the NBA draft, the ABA will officially reveal the names of the college stars taken in the first two rounds of the secret college draft held last month. Then the ABA will draft 10 more rounds of college players.

Several college stars such as UCLA's Bill Walton, North Carolina State's David Thompson and Providence's Marvin Barnes are already in the draft property of the teams that chose them last year. Sam Orringer holds the rights to Walton, Memphis to Thompson and Denver to Barnes.

However, it was learned the names of the college players taken in the first two rounds are headed by Maryland's star center Tom McMillen, Virginia, which has suspended and then sold several stars in the last two years, picked the top-11 senior...

ABA Commissioner Mike Storey explained the purpose of holding such a "rights" draft, which in fact is not from his league have gone after NBA players without this kind of assistance.

"The purpose of the draft is to organize the efforts of signing the best players available," Storey said. "I wouldn't expect clubs to be drafting big-name stars like Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who is tied to long term contracts. We'll be after the people whose contracts are up or who have only a year or two left on them."

"There's a tendency to become lazy or spread your efforts too thin when you don't narrow your choices down. Now each team will have five players to think about and approach and maybe we'll get some better results."

Most NBA stars are committed to long-term contracts, some as long as 10 years. In order to jump to the ABA, a player must be released from the terms of his contract and then play one more year on the option rule.

Salaries in the NBA are already at a high level, reaching well into six figures for established stars. The new offers the ABA will have to make undoubtedly will reach into the millions—for such players.

Memphis held the second pick in the first two rounds of the secret draft and chose Scott Wedman, a 66 senior forward from Colorado State. Memphis chose third look Major Jones, 6-7, from Albany State and Denver followed by taking James "Fly" Williams, Austin State's high-scoring 6-5 sophomore.

Virginia, taking San Antonio's fifth place selection, drafted Jan van Breda Kolff, the 6-7 center's senior.

For the first time, a freshman was drafted choice of a professional club when San Diego, taking Kentucky's number eight selection, chose Tom McMillen, a 6-7 senior from Beach State.

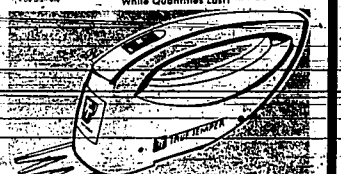

Other first-round choices were: Indiana, Billy King, 6-10 Pittsburgh senior; Carolina, John Lucas, a Maryland sophomore; New York, Bryan Winters, 6-10, South Carolina senior; 6-10, Utah, Joe Meriwether, 6-10 Southern Illinois junior.

Eamonica, McKeever jump to WFL California team

ANAHEIM (UPI) — The Southern California Sun of the fledgling World Football League Tuesday announced the signing of two National Football League veterans — quarterback Daryle Lamonica, 33, and linebacker MacIn McKeever, 34.

Lamonica will play out his option year this season with the Oakland Raiders and report to the Sun for the 1975 season.

The club said both players were signed to multiyear contracts and did not announce any money figures.

Lamonica, according to Northern California sources, signed for a package deal including deferred payments and incentives with the total of $1 million range over a period of three or four years.

His annual signing with the Raiders is believed to be about $100,000.

McKeever, a free agent, played last year with the Philadelphia Eagles after prior service with the Los Angeles Rams, the Washington Redskins and the Minnesota Vikings. He was an All-America tight end at the University of Southern California.

Lamonica was a 2nd draft choice by Buffalo when he got out of Notre Dame in 1962. He was second string last season to Ken Stabler who has also signed with WFL team in Birmingham.

Lamonica has a career record of 163 touchdown passes, a 49 per cent completion average and 19,878 yards gained in the air.

He was asked about his status last year with the Raiders and said at first it was "political," then added, "I could better be described as a misunderstanding. I don't want to go into it."

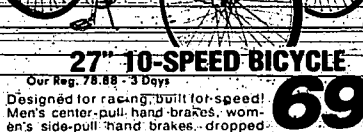

"This is one of my biggest opportunities as a pro," he said. "I'm very much impressed with their organization."

McKeever will report to training camp June 8 for immediate duty.

Wheat growers seeking review of US crop boosting efforts.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farm spokesmen will soon seek Congressional review of an administration policy that leaves wheat growers without effective income insurance when they respond to the government's appeal to increase production, a wheat association official said today.

The move was touched off by the Agriculture Department's decision last week to set 1973 national wheat planting allotment at 53.5 million acres, a reduction of 1.5 million acres from the 1971 level.

The allotment does not limit the number of acres farmers can plant, it does, however, put a ceiling on individual farms and the nation as a whole on the acreage eligible for full income protection under the government's "target price" support system.

Jerry Rees, Washington spokesman for the National Association of Wheat Growers (NAWG), which believes the allotments for both 1972 and 1973 were set too low, said in an interview the Agriculture Department's decisions leave growers with no expanded production of wheat, the entire crop if prices decline.

The NAWG official said the group thinks Congress should share the risk through extending target price protection to additional acreage.

The lack of price protection may be academic this year because market prices for wheat, even after declining sharply in recent months, are still about double the support price of $2.05 per bushel.

The heart of the NAWG complaint over Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz's decision on wheat allotments centers on the way Butz has interpreted the 1973 law setting up the target price support program.

The law requires Butz to extend target price support protection to enough wheat acreage to meet combined domestic and export needs for the forthcoming crop year, and Butz has formally estimated that allotments for both 1972 and 1973 meet that test, but the law also gives the secretary optional authority to increase the allotment if he determines extra wheat is needed to rebuild national reserves. That authority has not been used.

Administration officials have contended the attraction of high market prices was sufficient to encourage the added production for building reserves.

Under the target price program, the government is committed to pay farmers any loss between market prices and the $2.05 support level if the market average is below the target. Rees said growers are now seeking income insurance because "an explosion in production could make the $2.05 figure 'unrealistic' and current law will not permit an increase until the 1976 crop.

Horse beef plant shut

HOUSTON (UPI) — Missouri Beef Packing Co. has shut down slaughter operations at its Butte plant again because of the low price being paid for processed beef.

About 150 of the 200 employees at the plant will be laid off, the company said.

Most of the plant's processed meat goes to the California market, company officials said.

Although slaughtering operations have stopped, carcasses will be processed, the company said.

Meat will come from other Missouri beef plants and from other companies.

Outbreak limited

BOISE (UPI) — State officials say an outbreak of the cattle disease brucellosis apparently has been limited to about one percent of the cattle in Franklin and Owyhee Counties.

Dr. Willard Nelson, assistant state veterinarian, said the infectious disease was reported late last month after it spread to Idaho herds from northern Utah.

Brucellosis, sometimes called "Bangs," causes cows to abort their calves.

Early sales hit wheat

CHICAGO — Wheat futures opened as much as 7 cents lower Tuesday after a sharp jump Monday had faded Friday to anticipate opening strength.

"One of the reasons cited for the early weakness was a report that the U.S. government will be in the form of a selling of 100,000 bushels of wheat to the U.S. Army," said a market analyst.

The analyst said the sale is finalized and the Department of Agriculture is expected to announce the details of the sale in the next few days.

Wheat futures were also hit by a report that the U.S. government will be in the form of a selling of 100,000 bushels of wheat to the U.S. Army.

Live cattle close mixed on Tuesday

CHICAGO — Live cattle futures closed mixed Tuesday. Commodity News Service said futures continued to react to the anticipated cattle and feed prices and cash fundamentals. Final quotes were similar to Monday's finish, with April and June lower, 80 cents and 10 cents, respectively, and the back months showed gains of as much as 30 cents in October.

Volume was moderately heavy with 19,499 contracts traded. Most traders expected the coming report was expected to be constructive to the back months, due to fewer placements during the past month.

This has apparently spurred trading in the bull market which had been working with some last week. Futures prices were up from cash interest, and commission house selling, as locals tended to support the market.

Some short covers were entered, but "scattered buying to take prices back up. Some cash interests reported

Protest slaughter of milk cows set

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — Treasure Valley National Farmers Organization (NFO) members plan to slaughter between 400 and 500 pregnant dairy cows next week in protest against national dairy prices.

Bill Kerner, area NFO dairy representative, said the farmers are getting pretty tired of being pushed around and right now are getting the price of production.

He said the protest slaughter would be nationwide as a result of a decision from the national NFO headquarters.

The protest was apparently touched off by the recent drop in cheese prices.

Kerner said farmers will be going moving their cows immediately to an NFO location in the Nampa, Ida. area, where they will be slaughtered in orderly fashion.

NFO area producers are cooperating in the protest, Kerner said, and the slaughtered cows will be processed for meat.

"People may think this is pretty awful, but we own the cows and if we can't afford to raise them to get back the cost of production we simply can't afford to produce," he said. "We're entitled to a reasonable profit."

Kerner predicted the American people will soon see the same thing in 100,000 to 200,000 more cows being slaughtered in the next few months.

"We'll be having to depend on foreign producers if all farmers aren't getting fair prices," he said. "A nation of consumers is getting a pretty good deal, but if they depend on foreign sources prices will go up even more."

Gem farm efforts slowed by weather

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's spring farming operations were slowed during the first half of this month because of heavy rains and snow, the Weather Service and U.S. Agriculture Department reported today.

Less than 10 percent of the spring grains and peas have been seeded in North Idaho, and cool weather has slowed operation of early seeded fields, the agencies said. Only light to normal winter injury is showing in fall seeded grain fields.

The agencies said that in southwestern counties, about 60 percent of the spring wheat, spring barley, onions, potatoes and sugar beets have been planted.

In the fruit areas, bud development was reported good, peach and apricots are in bloom and cherry blossoms appear.

The agencies said that in the south central valleys, about one-fourth of the spring grains have been seeded, but only a few of the early fields have emerged. About five per cent of the sugar beet acreage has been planted.

In east Idaho, the departments said, only a very few fields have been planted to spring crops as cool, windy weather and spring snow storms have kept field operations to minimum levels.

The agencies said that livestock were generally in good condition and movement to early ranges was underway. Moisture supplies are plentiful for development of range and pasture forage, but early snow has been slow to melt, the agencies said. Calving and lambing operations were nearing completion in the mountain areas and the halfway mark on higher levels in the valleys.

UFW keeps grape pact

COACHELLA, Calif. (UPI) — Cesar Chavez and his United Farm Workers Union, fighting against extinction by the rival Teamsters Union, has held on to the profitable grape-picking contract the UFW has left.

Chavez signed a contract Monday with Iwona Steinberg, largest table grape grower in the Coachella Valley, grape production region.

The UFW is down to the sole contract, with Steinberg after having more than a dozen at the high point of its success a few years ago. The union's membership is down to 10,000, a fifth of what it was.

The Steinberg contract calls for a 25-cent-per-hour wage increase, to $2.51 an hour, plus a 25-cent-a-box harvesting bonus that will bring grape pickers more than $3 an hour, Chavez said.

Production boost told

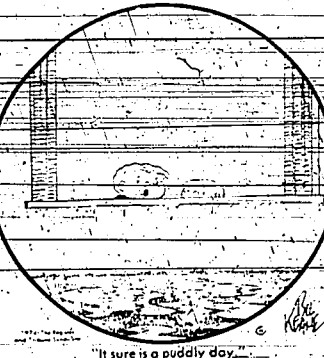

TOKYO (UPI) — U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz told Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka Tuesday that the United States is trying to grow more rice to meet demand and avoid export restrictions.

Butz, now on a tour of the East, held a 30-minute meeting with Tanaka at the prime minister's official residence in Tokyo.

Butz also told Tanaka that America is a target market for rice exports to Japan and would like a "guaranteed market."

Tokyo newspapers speculated before Butz's arrival that he would be greeted with complaints over the temporary restriction on American soybean exports last summer.

Butz said Tanaka had the crop year ending next summer the United States expects a 22 percent increase in its wheat harvest over 1973.

Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Charles Tribbiani, N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: For years I have contributed to office collections for co-workers on the occasion of their engagements, marriages, anniversaries, births, deaths in the family, new homes, etc.

My wife and I separated a year ago, and I've been romancing with another man since then. Now I'm getting my own apartment, and I need all the things a couple needs to set up housekeeping—sheets, towels, dishes, appliances, etc. (My wife took everything when we split up.) Since I can't afford to buy all these things at once, I have proposed a "divorce" shower at work. It might even be appropriate for the gifts to be used items, since it's a second start for me.

Divorce shower?

The general reaction in the office was favorable, but some were on the fence. We agreed to abide by your advice as to whether this idea was too outrageous or actually a sensible way to help me out with a problem.

POTLESS: The idea makes a lot of sense to me. But you shouldn't "propose" the shower yourself, anymore than a bride should "propose" her own shower. If S. Yours is not actually a "divorce shower," it's a miscellaneous shower for a man who's setting up housekeeping and doesn't have a pot.

DEAR ABBY: I work in an office building. There's a woman down the hall who smokes about a pack of cigarettes a day, and she burns every one of them!

She knows there are several smokers in this office, so she runs in just about every 30 minutes and asks if "anybody" has a cigarette.

I asked her why she didn't buy some, and she said: "I'm not supposed to be smoking at all, and I let my 'husband' buy me only one pack a week. I wonder what she thinks she is doing with the cigarettes she burns off us?"

Is there some real sharp answer we can give her when she comes in here to burn a cigarette?

SUCKER: Don't look for a "sharp" answer, fell'ers. If she's going to smoke, she'll have to buy her own. That's sharp enough.

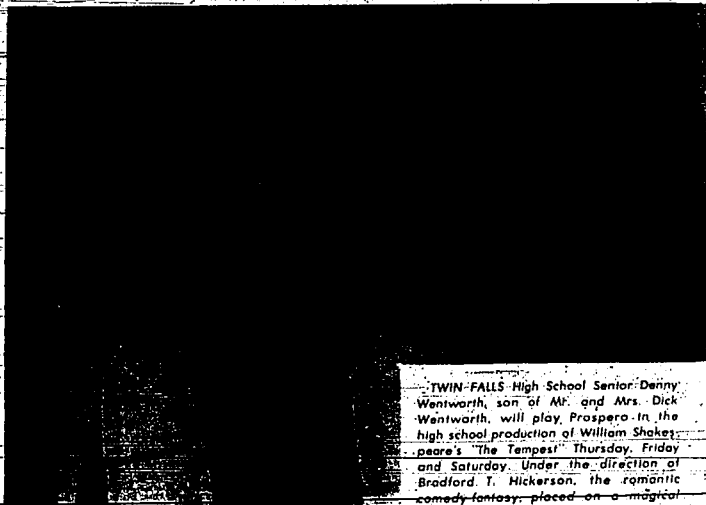

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating Henry for six months. He says he does not have a telephone at home. I do not have the phone number of the night of day jobs where he works. He says they allow only emergency calls, so he does all the calling.

One day I asked him where he lived, and he said: "I can't give you the address because I'm moving right now." When I asked him where to send his Christmas card, he said: "I don't know."

I have never been introduced to any of his friends, and he says he doesn't have any family.

Once I came right out and asked him if he was married, and he said "no." He is always telling me I ask too many questions. I have a feeling he is not being honest with me. There are things I would like to know about him because I am falling in love with him. Why do you think he's so secretive?

IN THE DARK: Dear Abby—He's just a wild guess, but I'd say he's either married or living with someone. Unless he's willing to let you know where he lives and where he works, you'd be wise to forget him and look for a man who's not afraid to answer a few simple questions.

'Mona Lisa' shown at Japan Museum

PARIS (UPI) — A special Air France Boeing 707 carrying Leonardo da Vinci's Mona Lisa took off for Tokyo today and is expected to arrive in Japan to be exhibited at Japan's National Museum.

It was the third time since Leonardo painted the "Mona Lisa" in the 16th century that the painting has left France. The picture is on loan from the Ministry of Culture. It left today accompanied by several officials of the Louvre Museum where the painting usually hangs.

It was transported to Orly airport, where it will be loaded on a special aircraft. Eight police officers armed with machine pistols watched its transfer to the Boeing on a landing strip far from the air terminal.

The "Mona Lisa" first left France in 1911 when an Italian stole it and went into hiding with it for two years in Italy.

The painting went to the United States in 1962 and was put on show in New York and Washington, D.C.

Unidentified winner to get $2,291,000

BRASILIA (UPI) — Someone, as yet unidentified, in the northeastern state of Bahia has won what is believed to be the world's largest lottery prize — $2,291,000.

The Federal Sports Lottery, managed by the Brazilian Finance Ministry, announced Monday that only one person in the entire country chose correctly the results of 13 soccer games played throughout Brazil this weekend.

Although the name of the winner was not immediately revealed it was known that the bet was made in Bahia.

The Federal Sports Lottery said $53,291 bets were made last weekend.

The government will not announce the name of the winner until the money has been delivered.

The previous single largest jackpot was won in November 1972 by Mario Alberto Ronconi of the state of Espirito Santo who won $2,187,943. He divided the money among 17 of his friends.

The most dangerous hour for driving an automobile is from 3 to 6 P. M., says the National Automobile Club.

Actress collapses

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Nev. (UPI) — Actress Liza Minnelli collapsed on stage Monday night while waiting to perform before a sellout crowd at Harrah's Club.

Stage manager Jacques Vogt said the Academy Award winning actress had a sudden syncope of the du and an upset stomach while waiting in the wings.

Cincinnati zoo sets 'gorilla' record

Wednesday, April 17, 1974 • Times News-Town • Falls, Ohio • 7
Magic Valley Favorites

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Whether it's the vitamin-enriched meals, the special "rice bread" snacks or just plain love, there's something about the Cincinnati Zoo that appeals to gorillas.

With the birth Monday of a 5-pound-11-ounce female gorilla, the zoo set a world record for the number of lowland gorillas born in captivity—seven.

And the record should soon jump to eight because another gorilla couple here is expecting a baby within a month. The second oldest in the nation, had shared the previous record of six with the Basel, Switzerland Zoo.

"It's more important than ever that we encourage the breeding of gorillas in captivity because they're an endangered species," said Ed Maruska, zoo director. "There hasn't been a gorilla brought into this country since 1970, when they were declared an endangered species."

The baby, born Monday, is worth $10,000 and her parents are valued at $2,000. The zoo inundated with requests from other zoos for our gorillas, but I think it's important we keep them here in an environment they seem to like."

Why has the Cincinnati Zoo become a gorilla "lover's lane?"

Some zoo officials credit Maruska's "love" powder" in reference to the director's routine of mixing vitamins and minerals with the gorilla's food.

But then it may be the special "gorilla rice bread."

rice? Pabum, Karo syrup and raisins, baked four hours at 350 degrees each afternoon at the zoo.

"I don't know if it's a love powder, but we do provide our gorillas with an excellent program of nutrition," says Maruska.

Robert Doshaw, zoo curator, has his own idea.

"We just happen to have two pairs of gorillas who are very much in love," he said.

Cancer Society meets standards

GOODING—The American Cancer Society meets all standards set up by Kiplinger Magazine for judging health agencies.

Blanche Loewen, Gooding member of the Cancer Society's Idaho division board of directors, said the Kiplinger Magazine "Changing Times" has set up five standards for judging charitable organizations.

Only seven of the 32 charitable non-profit organizations studied qualified for the perfect rating of "meets all standards," Mrs. Loewen said.

MR. AND MRS. WAYNE STAHECKER Couple exchanges nuptial promises

BUHL—Linda Clark, Buhl, and Wayne Stahecker, Castletown, were married the evening of April 15 in the First Assembly of God Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Clark, Buhl, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Stahecker, Castletown.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Glenn Waltman before a backdrop of two brass candelabras and baskets of blue mums and white gladioli. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bridal dress was designed and made by the bride's mother. The gown was floor-length, princess-style, of white tulle and lace, with ruffles of nylon accenting the front and back and ruffles on the collar and cuffs. The dress was tied with a large sash in back and had a large train.

The gown was trimmed in blue lace. A veil was held in place with a band of beads and blue tulle.

The bride carried a bouquet of small mums, rosebuds and baby's breath with blue and white satin ribbons.

Mrs. Dennis Clark, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor and Sharon Stahecker, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. Denise Shaub was the bridesmaid.

Diane Sigel, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. The bride's nephew, Tracy, Clark, was ring bearer.

Dennis Clark, the bride's brother and Dennis Jones, the bride's cousin, were ushers. The groom's brother, Howard

A Lovelier You GUESS WHO'S EXERCISING?

By Mary Sue Miller

Do you have a bold, fine figure you must exercise? You're not alone. Good posture as well as correct stance and walk not only add grace to the figure but also help to shape it.

For instance, if you habitually carry the hips low, you'll have a "trunk" body—you help to prevent the development of a bustle in the back. Posture routines can be done while you do something else. No one would guess that you were exercising.

1. During a telephone call, the bosomline can be firm and lifted. Just suspend the receiver in your hands, and several bows out to shoulder level. Then squeeze together as if to telescope ends. The action will set up a strong tension in both chest and arms; hold it for 6 seconds, then relax and repeat. (You can't perform this routine and talk at the same time. Listen while you work out.)

2. While you wait for a bus, whittle plump knees. Your public will be none the wiser. Simply shift your weight to right foot, draw up kneecap and hold for 6 seconds. Repeat, shifting weight to left foot and tighten kneecap. Repeat until the bus comes.

3. To firm hips, sit squarely on a hard chair. Rest buttocks evenly thereon. Contract muscles with such force that your torso is lifted, almost airborne. Hold for 5 counts and repeat once. Don't let your feet get into the act; the lift must come from the hip muscles.

LADY GIRL'S EXERCISES

Here's an effortless way to trim off heavy speck. All you do is lie down or sit down, and flex your muscles. If that's for you, send for LADY GIRL'S EXERCISES. Based on the isometric principle of exercise, this slimming booklet will save Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents in coin.

Prisoner group formed

BOISE — A new organization, Prisoner's Rights Project, Inc., has been formed in Idaho to support efforts being made to help prison inmates become productive citizens, according to Mary Brock (Mrs. James Brock), director of the group. This small group of inmate wives, relatives and friends have been working to form this organization for one year. Officers are Mary Brock, director, Geraldine McClellan, vice chairman, and Donna Bearshield, secretary. Filing for incorporation through the Secretary of State's office is now in process. Articles of incorporation and bylaws have been drafted and approved by all the members, according to Mrs. Brock, who is formerly of Twin Falls.

Mrs. McClellan said one of the main objectives of the organization is to determine the present status of inmate rights within the institution and to improve this wherever necessary in order to help the group as a whole in its propensities. The organization was formed with the hope it will gain official recognition and public support. "Whereas has not been forthcoming, such organizations have proven ineffective."

"Many people are aware of the fact that there is a need for certain rights for prison inmates. They want to help insure the enforcement of these rights, but just don't know how to go about it," she said. Once the incorporation is formed, membership fee will be small and membership will be open to all concerned citizens.

Mrs. Brock said she has given up hope of finding a profit or non-profit making organization as a sponsor for the group. "As local citizens, civic groups, and religious organizations become aware of us and our aims, we are certain support for our efforts will become available," she said. Adequate support from the news media is another must for this group. "If the media helps inform people of our group, I am sure we'll be about to build up a sizeable membership."

Three men placed on probation

TWIN FALLS — Three men were placed on 18-month probation in Fifth District Court earlier this month on drugs, bad check and theft convictions.

Oliver R. Phipps, 25, Twin Falls, was placed on probation by Judge Theron W. Ward on April 9 following a conviction for delivery of a controlled substance. Phipps had pleaded guilty to the charge on March 13, 1973 and was sentenced to 13 months on a charge of selling a bag of marijuana to state narcotics agents.

John Livingston, 20, Twin Falls, was placed on 18 months probation by Judge Ward on April 9 after a conviction for receiving stolen property. Livingston pleaded guilty to the charge on Nov. 30, 1973. His probation follows a 120-day analytical period served at the State Penitentiary. Livingston was arrested on July 6, 1973 and charged with receiving $500 in cash stolen by his brother from Jordan's Market in Filer on July 3, 1973.

Gene Koepnick, 25, Eden, was placed on 18 months probation by Judge James M. Cunningham on April 8 following a conviction on a felony insufficient funds check. Like Livingston, Koepnick was originally sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary and was placed on probation following the 120-day observation period at the penitentiary. Koepnick was arrested on June 14, 1973 and charged with issuing fraudulent check for $78.49 to the Twin Falls Firestone Store on May 30, 1973. He pleaded guilty to the charge on Nov. 26, 1973.

Licenses due May 1

EDEN — Dogs in the city of Eden must be licensed by May 1, or they will be picked up and turned over to the animal shelter in Twin Falls. Licenses can be obtained from Mrs. Newby at the city hall. The fees are $3 for spayed females and $5 for males.

Planning group installed

WENDELL — A six-member city planning and zoning commission was installed at Wendell Monday night. The members named by Mayor Otto Lemke with approval of the council were installed at Monday night's resumed meeting. They had been appointed at last Thursday's council meeting. J. D. Slusher was named chairman and the new council members drew lots for their terms of office. Slusher and Arlin Dennis will serve two years; A. C. (Ben) Morgan and Hob Muffley, four year terms, and Marshall Howden and Robert Thiberry, six year terms. Two members of the Gooding County Planning Commission, Bill Taylor and Wayne Matthews, attended the meeting and discussed the installation of the new group. Other unfinished business from last Thursday's meeting included approval of transfer of beer and liquor licenses to Harry Constock of the Stockman's Club. They previously were held by Mary Hunt.

Shoshone meeting Saturday

SHOSHONE — Students who plan to enroll in kindergarten in Shoshone next fall and their parents are invited to a special meeting at 1 p.m. Saturday. The meeting will be at the Baptist Church kindergarten room. Mrs. Ruth Strubben, teacher, said she and the other kindergarten teachers will be 5 years old by the time school starts. There will be another meeting in the fall for students actually registering. Mrs. Strubben said.

News Of Servicemen

GLENN'S PERRY — The Boise Naval Reserve reports that the first of the dependents to enlist has now re-enlisted for a second two-year period. Mrs. Eunice Ann West, mother of an 18-month-old youngster, will be attending to the administrative support required at the center until her husband, Sgt. Steven West, returns from his US Marine Corps assignment in the Far East. Mrs. West is a daughter of Eugene and Mrs. DeLoe Hester and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Messerly, Glenba Ferry.

TWIN FALLS — Navy Seaman Apprentice Clifford McQueen Jr., son of Mrs. Alta S. McQueen, Twin Falls, returned to his hometown at Long Beach, Calif., aboard the guided missile frigate USS Bainbridge. He participated in a four-month training and patrol cruise in the Pacific and Indian Oceans.

Contract awarded

HALLEY — Sawtooth Ford Sales has been awarded the contract for a 1974-Blair County car for the sheriff's office. The firm bid $342.85, one dollar under the maximum amount set by the county. Sun Valley Motors entered a bid of $4,091.20. Dawson Harnsey Motor Sales Inc. bid $4,168.61.

Names changed

SHOSHONE — The names under the pictures of two of the Boys State delegates from Shoshone printed in the Wednesday Times-News were incorrect. The boy identified as Paul Eysenman should have been Rob Haddock. Haddock's name was "over" under Eysenman's picture. The Times-News regrets the error.

Washington College in Chester Green, Md., is the only college in the nation to bear George Washington's name, with his express consent. He served on its first Board of Visitors and Governors.

Gooding reviews proposed airport lease

GOODING—The Gooding City Council reviewed a proposed airport lease Monday night which would turn over control of the municipal airport to High Range Aviation, Inc.

The corporation, formed by Lynn Stevenson, present airport manager Earl Kelly, and James Hindmarsh, has requested the city to renegotiate its airport lease with Kelly in order for the corporation to open a repair shop, air taxi, service commercial service and private flying instruction program.

Provisions of the lease presented to the council by the corporation's attorney, Severt Swenson, would require the corporation to pay 50 per cent of its gross revenue to the city in return for control of the airport.

The lease would run until December, 1976, and could be renewed for five years at that time.

The corporation would be given the right to sub lease or rent to commercial enterprises without the approval of the city; could charge landing fees and make charges for other airport facilities; and would restrict private commercial use of the airport and could regulate public use of facilities.

The city would still be required to provide major repairs and capital improvements at the airport and pay the cost of lighting landing strips.

The lease would agree to pay the remaining utilities. Utility fees at the airport including runway lights totaled $1,579 for the past year.

Councilmen expressed reservations about the lease provisions: Councilman Duane Clemons said the city could be worse off financially under such an agreement. Under this kind of a lease, we are giving them the airport, he said.

Proposed lease was turned over to city attorney, Cecil Hobday, for review.

The council voted not to sell 10 acres of city property at the airport, stating the land has an increasing value to the city. In an earlier meeting Mayor Leo Rice requested the land be appraised and the city consider its sale. The land was appraised at between $700 and $750 an acre.

Councilman Paul Klingler objected to the sale at the earlier meeting because of valuable gravel cinders beneath the soil. Rice said there are no cinders under the land. Assistant City Superintendent Lloyd McCleod told the council he had dug up cinders in the center of the 10 acre site.

Other council members then voted unanimously against the sale and referred the matter to the newly formed city planning commission.

"We want to know other alternatives for its use," one councilman said.

Garbage rate increases were approved increasing residential rates by 25 cents a month and commercial pickups by one dollar per month. The increase will be effective with the May billing.

Councilman Gene Kelly said the increase will bring in $3,000 to $4,000 more per year for the sanitation department. It will help cover rising costs for sanitation services, he said.

The city did not receive any bids for gasoline at a scheduled bid opening Monday night. Councilman Kelly suggested the city trade with all local dealers and check to see who has extra fuel. City Clerk George Silva said the dealers have agreed to sell to the city at the same price they sell to the service stations when they have adequate supplies.

A proposal by Mayor Rice to create 70 more parking spaces in the city met with opposition from councilman Kelly who is in charge of streets.

Crews repair ditch pipe

Shoshone repairs pipe

SHOSHONE—Repairs are being made by Shoshone City crews on the City ditch culvert pipe near the Mike Urrutia residence.

A leak from the pipe has seeped up through the roadway and damaged the surface. The pipe, being repaired, was about 20 years old.

Working with Hatmaker on the project were Clayton Clifford and Rex Gallimore. The ditch, formerly known as the Mott Ditch, originates near the William Trammel residence in the northeast section of town where a pump brings water from Little Wood River, then it travels through the ditch to property owners on the North side of town for irrigation purposes.

Warren pleaded innocent to both the burglary charges on March 11.

In conjunction with Warren's conviction on the burglary charges, Fifth District Judge Theron W. Ward, released a bribe

2 Twin Falls men sentenced

TWIN FALLS—Two Twin Falls men were sentenced to 10 years in the Idaho State Penitentiary earlier in the month following unrelated convictions for forgery and burglary.

Michael R. Warren, 38, Twin Falls, was sentenced by Judge James M. Cunningham in Fifth District Court on April 8.

Warren was found guilty at a jury trial March 28 of two counts of first degree burglary. Judge Cunningham sentenced Warren to 10 years on each count, but stipulated that the sentences be served concurrently.

Warren was arrested in Boise on Feb. 14 and returned to Twin Falls where he was charged with burglaries at Kennington-Lumber, Yard, Filer, and Denny's Market, Twin Falls. Both burglaries occurred during the night of Feb. 13.

Warren had pleaded guilty to the charges. The sentences were originally imposed by Judge Ward on Dec. 15, 1972, after Warren had pleaded guilty to the charges. Judge Ward placed Warren on probation after Warren completed a 120-day analytic term at the state penitentiary.

The escaped and jail-injury charges stemmed from a November, 1972 incident in which Warren and a companion in jail on juvenile petitions tore up plumbing in their jail cell and used the pipes to chip through the cell wall and escape.

The second 10-year prison term handed down in Fifth District Court was imposed on Vernon C. Ball, Jr., Buhl, by Judge Ward on April 5. Ball pleaded guilty to a felony charge of forgery March 8, in imposing the sentence, Judge Ward created but with time served in the county jail since Oct. 31, 1972.
