Tree bows to winds

High winds batter MV; dust causes fatal crash

Dust storms carrying 60 mile per hour wind gusts swept across the Magic Valley Sunday, contributing to one traffic death and more than 60 injuries, one of them serious.

The winds and dust caused accidents that kept law enforcement officials busy throughout the afternoon and early evening, closed highways and clogged hospitals with the injured.

Police in Cassia County said Paul Ririe, Jr., 3, Salt Lake City, was killed in a seven car pile up about one-half mile south of the Cottrell port of entry about 5 p.m.

The storm closed major highways in the vicinity of Twin Falls and Burley. All of the 24 persons treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital here between 4 and 6 p.m. have been released.

Cassia Memorial Hospital treated 23 persons, four of whom are still being treated today. Ten others were taken to the Mindokko County Memorial Hospital and all but five were released.

In Cassia Hospital three remain in satisfactory condition and one in fair condition while the five still hospitalized in Rupert are listed as fair. Ninette Drury, no age or address available, was in the intensive care unit of the Cassia hospital in fair condition.

BRANCHES FLAILING—This tree in a Twin Falls residential neighborhood bows before heavy winds which blasted the Magic Valley Sunday afternoon, blanketing the area with dense dust, causing widespread damage, and one traffic death.

Malta and Itali River was closed for several hours as was a section of J-15 south of Burley. State police said the most critical situation occurred south of Cottrell on "J-15" where the child was killed and several hundred cars stranded. Dust was so thick it caused vehicles to stall from clogged motors.

One state policeman was attempting to reach an accident scene and became bogged down in traffic and then his own vehicle stalled from the dust. He was able to radio for assistance for the seven vehicle pile up behind him in which the Salt Lake City boy was killed.

Officers said persons were scattered over the highway in the seven car pile up and motorists were held up for two hours and then taken through in caravans of up to 100 vehicles until the road reopened about 10 p.m. Sunday.

Two large trucks were involved in the initial accident five miles south of Cottrell, officers said, and from that time on rear and accident and pileups continued. Wreckers worked for several hours to pull the damaged vehicles from the dust areas and officers said some were simply pulled to the medians or from the roadway to allow traffic to resume.

The National Weather Service in Kimberly reported winds there from about 3:20 p.m. to p.m. averaged 35 miles per hour with gusts up to 50 miles per hour. In the Rupert area the average was about 40 miles per hour, gusting up to 50 and 60 miles per hour.

Albert favors using process
WASHINGTON (UPI)—House Speaker Carl Albert said today he would not suggest to President Nixon that he resign. He is better, Albert said, that the President undergo the constitutional process of impeachment.

Mitchell taps ruled illegal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court in an action probably meaning acquittal for 100-wiretaps criminal defendants, ruled unanimously today that the Justice Department consistently violated federal wiretap law while John N. Mitchell was attorney general.

The 9-0 decision hinges on an interpretation of the Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1968, which lays down specific procedures for making application to a trial judge for a wiretap order.

Affected by the ruling are narcotics and gambling prosecutions against hundreds of persons in various courts, which have been upheld pending a final decision on the wiretap procedure.

One of the test cases involved narcotics charges against Dominic Nicholas Giordano and 13 co-defendants in Baltimore.

The Justice Department had told the Court about 1,430 persons were involved in the various cases.

Justice Byron R. White wrote opinions in two highly complex cases. The Justice Department won in one of the cases but lost in the other, the one holding unanimously that many of the wiretaps were handled illegally by Mitchell's subordinates.

The Court held that the department did not err in authorizing U.S. attorneys in the field to set up wiretaps.

In other actions, the Court: Let stand a lower court decision allowing the FBI to keep secret its files on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, which author Harold Weisberg had sought under the Freedom of Information Act.

Blocked an order which would have required the Chicago Transit Authority to accept "Inpeach Nixon" advertising on its buses.

Let stand a lower court ruling that Rhode Island's amended abortion law is unconstitutional. The statute said the fetus is a person from the moment of conception.

Agreed to decide if a federal judge immediately sentence persons for contempt when they refuse to testify at a trial even after receiving immunity from prosecution.

In cases involving sex discrimination, dismissed a challenge to Virginia's law allowing alimony only for women; refused to hear a coal's complaint that Eastern Kentucky University's dormitory curfew discriminates against women; and let stand a decision that The Air Line Stewards Association did not properly represent 600 airline stewardesses protesting their discharge because of pregnancy.

Tussock spray plan detailed
By BART QUESNELL
Timothy News Miller

FAIRFIELD—Barring "drastic change" in present conditions, the US Forest Service will apply DDT to tussock-infested timber northeast of here next month.

Galen Trostle, a government entomologist, said today the Forest Service is conducting controlled experiments to determine the amount of natural virus kill for the 1,200 to 1,500 acre area.

Trostle, who works with the Forest Service in Ogden, Utah, said only one 10 acre patch in the infested area has so far shown a high virus kill.

"I can't say positively, but unless something drastic and very unusual happens, we will have to spray that area," Trostle said. "We should know by the 17th of this month."

The area includes about five miles north of Fairfield and runs east in the vicinity of Pal Creek, Deer Creek, Mill Canyon and Elk Creek. At least four private owners have infested timber.

In the wiretap case, the Justice Department argued that at worst it had committed "harmless error" in its procedures and had not endangered anyone's privacy.

REP. RAY LINCOLN
Heart attack fatal

Attack fatal for Lincoln

TWIN FALLS—State Rep. Ray Lincoln, R-Twin Falls, 38, died today at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital of what officials said was a "massive coronary attack" he suffered eight days ago.

A hospital spokesman said the state legislator died about 9:15 a.m. He had been in intensive care since he suffered a heart attack at his home a week ago Sunday.

Lincoln, first elected to the legislature in 1964 served as chairman of the House Local Government Committee. He was a member of the committee that drafted executive reorganization legislation for the 1974 legislature.

Lincoln was born and reared in Ellettsville, Ind., graduated from the University of Idaho with a degree in Agricultural Economics.

He first came to Twin Falls as a field man for the U.S. Agricultural Adjustment Association and then went into the sheep business with his father, W. A. Lincoln.

He later traded the sheep business for part ownership of the Salmon River Cattlemen's Association.

He continued as originator and principal stockholder of the Lincoln Land and Livestock Inc.

He served as president of the Idaho Woodgraders Association and had served on the board of the Federal Land Bank Association until his death.

Sirica, counsel study tape

WASHINGTON—US District Judge John J. Sirica met with attorneys today in closed session to decide what should be done with the study on the partially erased Watergate tape.

Attorneys for the "Watergate" special prosecutors' office, the White House and President Nixon, along with Sirica, have studied a proposed draft of the report.

Albert favors using process
WASHINGTON (UPI)—House Speaker Carl Albert said today he would not suggest to President Nixon that he resign. He is better, Albert said, that the President undergo the constitutional process of impeachment.

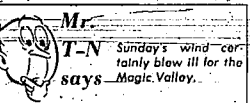

According to knowledgeable sources, the report confirms the conclusion by a panel of experts that the tape was erased by a series of manual actions.

The tape in question records a June 20, 1972, discussion between President Nixon and H. R. Haldeman, then a presidential assistant. An 18-minute portion of that tape, which includes an discussion of Watergate at that meeting, has been erased and covered over by a buzz.

resign," Albert said. "I don't believe he will."

Albert told reporters said he would "have nothing to do with" mounting congressional pressures on Nixon to resign and said he thought the President should go ahead with his planned summit trip to Moscow next month.

Despite new public opinion polls showing more Americans favor Nixon leaving office than ever before, the President was pictured as determined to ride out the Watergate storm.

Mr. T-N Sunday's wind certainly blew ill for the says Magic Valley.

Henry, Israeli aides confer

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Taunted by a chorus of protesting demonstrators, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger held the first of two meetings with Israeli leaders today on bridging the negotiating gap with Syria over a military disengagement for the Golan Heights.

U.S. officials with Kissinger, put chances of reaching an agreement at about 50-50, but in Washington, White House officials, said Kissinger was on the verge of a Middle East breakthrough and hinted a Syrian-Israeli troop separation accord might come this week.

House panel set for hearings, Senators 'clearing the deck'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While politicians continue to debate the merits of a presidential resignation, the House Judiciary Committee opens its first full week of impeachment hearings Tuesday, and the Senate is quietly preparing to "clear the decks."

The House panel, having begun hearing evidence against the President last Tuesday, may have another battle over subpoenaing a mass of tapes all at once. Instead, it may call for specific individual tape recordings.

With the committee apparently having heard evidence indicating that Nixon aides knew months before the Watergate burglary of a campaign committee intelligence-gathering plan, the first such demand might be for tapes that could tell what Nixon knew in advance.

Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino has indicated the panel might abandon its sweeping request, forwarded April 11, for about 70 presidential tapes. Nixon's earlier committee subpoena for 42 tapes, furnishing instead the edited transcripts that have provoked public controversy. The House has since said it will provide no more Watergate materials.

The committee has three days of closed hearings scheduled this week. The hearings would be open to the public next week with a decision pending on whether they will be nationally televised.

On the other side of the Capitol, a random survey by UPI shows that many senators have been studying Senate rules of impeachment, seeking additional reading material from the Library of Congress, and submitting procedural questions to staff members on the Rules Committee.

In addition, Democratic leader Mike Mansfield has met with committee chairmen and urged them to speed their legislative pace so that, in his words, the "decks will be clear." If a trial is held.

"We'll be prepared to face up to our duty," he said in an interview. Mansfield estimated that "if and when the issue comes to the Senate, it would take two weeks to get things in order. Then we'd put a business aside, except for appropriations bills and the like."

"If and when it comes over here," Mansfield said, "I would guess the trial could take as much as two months."

"If that event occurred," he added, "the election campaign of members would become secondary. I would expect and anticipate that every senator running for re-election would forego the campaign involved and be on duty in the Senate day in and day out."

Egypt snubs Libya's Khadafy

CAIRO (UPI) — Egypt today publicly snubbed Libyan leader Col. Muammar Khadafy in a further deepening of the 10-month-old rift between the two countries.

An Egyptian government spokesman rejected "in both form and substance" two messages Khadafy addressed to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat Sunday.

The spokesman accused the Libyan leadership of inconsistency and indicated that Sadat would not have consented to meet Libyan Prime Minister Maj. Abdel Salam Jalloud in Cairo Sunday if Cairo had known the contents of Khadafy's messages.

Government sources said Egypt found the messages "insulting" because they allegedly accuse Egypt of immoral behavior towards Libya.

Khadafy's first message, sent by cable and released by Tripoli radio after Jalloud said he had seen Sadat, said: "After observing for some time everything coming out of Egypt, I have reached the conclusion that we are not suffering a crisis in relations, but a crisis of morals.

"You reached the same conclusion in the past when you urged a return to the morals of the village and their inclusion in the constitution. But when will the morals of the village triumph?"

The Egyptian spokesman said the second message from Khadafy to Sadat was relayed verbally and was in the same vein.

The spokesman said Jalloud had told Cairo he was coming on instructions from the Libyan Revolution Command Council (RCC), which Khadafy heads, in an effort to normalize Egyptian-Libyan relations.

The spokesman said there was a contradiction between the "and the substance of Khadafy's messages and that if Cairo had known about these conflicting positions in time, it would have taken a different attitude."

Government sources said the whole incident, apart from its impact on bilateral relations, was significant from another standpoint: It showed that Khadafy was still exercising political functions at the top despite the recent decision by the command council to relieve him of his political and administrative duties and to assign them to Jalloud.

Reds tighten noose on Cambodian city

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Communist insurgents tightened their pressure today on the town of Kompong Thom, a province of Cambodia, after a ground attack forced airport officials Sunday to wave off a plane carrying Prime Minister Long Boret just after it touched down.

Long Boret did not get off the plane and his visit was canceled.

Military sources said initial reports showed 60 civilians killed when rebel forces opened the offensive against the town, 100 miles northwest of Phnom Penh, and about the size of a refugee camp nearby.

Kompong Thom is considered by American aid workers as the province for what the Cambodian government can do with the resettlement of refugees.

The nearly 70,000 refugees who ring the town in camps grow their own food. Some even have started small industries, such as lumbering and fishing.

Kompong Thom is one of the provincial capitals under Communist rule. One of the deeper ports of Kompong Som where the insurgents have pressed in on the city from three sides and have attacked it along Highway 4 from Phnom Penh to Phnom Som.

Unrest injures 20

ATHENS, Ohio (UPI) — At least 25 persons were arrested and 20 others, including three policemen, injured Sunday in the second day of confrontations between youths and police near Ohio University.

Police fought with over 1,000 young people, including 100 students, blocked a major downtown intersection near campus — Sgt. Donald Atwell said — and tried to clear the campus of the camp and out of the city of 20,000.

"We got our men dressed in riot gear and formed a skirmish line. We didn't do anything until they began to throw bricks, rocks and other objects," Atwell said. "We don't have much of a downtown area, but it's all we've got, so we tried to get them out of there after a few windows were smashed."

Sgt. Robert Windle said many of those arrested were from out of town and not students.

"There was a rock music festival being held both Saturday and Sunday night about 10,000 persons attended that event, and we believe some of them became involved in the disturbances," said Windle.

New sweep base named

CAIRO (UPI) — The U.S. Navy's amphibious assault ship Inchon has arrived in Egyptian territorial waters to launch its special minesweeping operation in two years.

The Inchon, which took part in mine clearance work around North Vietnam in 1973, will be the lead ship of two minesweepers as a base for U.S. naval demining efforts, a U.S. spokesman said.

"American minesweeping helicopters, equipment and personnel will transfer from the two U.S. minesweepers within the next 48 hours," he said. The Inchon arrived early Sunday and anchored near the two minesweepers off Port Said, on the Mediterranean end of the canal.

Question

What should I do about paying the clergyman who conducts a funeral service in my family?

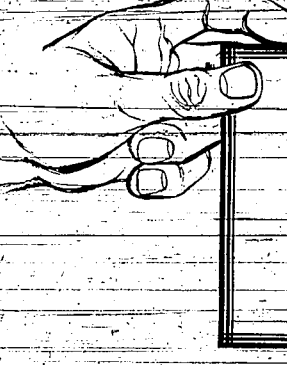

Answer . . .

This is probably the most unresolved question of all those asked us through the years. It should be answered, first of all, by saying that no clergyman of any denomination expects to be paid when it would be a hardship. This may best be illustrated by the fact that no one is ever denied the right to go to church because he cannot contribute to the maintenance of the church; if he has funds he is expected to give to the church.

Some religious groups have published suggested stipends. In some denominations the membership in a church and contributing to it precludes this kind of duty.

As a matter of equity the clergyman must be compensated for his time and services just like any other professional person. If no policy or provision exists in the clergyman's religious group concerning this case at all for his family, we were instructed and did it to the funeral person.

Condominium project in TF under way

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls' first condominium project is under construction.

The innovative development covers about seven acres at the south end of Morrison Street and overlooks a beautiful, meandering section of Rock Creek.

A sign at the entrance to the project explains what it will offer "... leisure living, free of yard and building maintenance, for the people who have reared their families and who appreciate privacy and controlled development."

The "good life" will come with a high price tag between $30,000 and $60,000 per dwelling unit, according to David Armstrong, one of the project's developers.

Armstrong's Twin Falls firm, Design Builders Associates, is the contractor, designer and planner for the project, named Rock Garden Condominiums.

Thirty-four condominium units will be built at the site, Armstrong said. They will be contained in 11 buildings — six four-plexes and five duplexes.

The units will range from 1,253 to 2,600 square feet in floor space.

The condominium concept calls for community sharing. Residents purchase only the air space of their unit plus an indivisible portion of all the land and property, Armstrong said.

"Everyone has an interest in the entire project."

In addition to the $30,000 to $60,000 investment in the "air space" of a dwelling unit, buyers also will pay $15 to $18 monthly for maintenance of the grounds and structures.

The fees will cover nearly all upkeep costs, normally paid by traditional home owners, including fire and liability insurance, water and sewer service and exterior improvements.

"A neighbor can't let his property run down because it is kept up" through the general maintenance fund, Armstrong said.

Community maintenance also will result in overall savings, he said. Materials and labor can be purchased in large quantities, usually discounted.

"Controlled development" is a big benefit of condominium projects, according to Armstrong.

"You don't have Early American development on one side and super contemporary on the other side," he said. "The architecture is standard throughout."

Armstrong stressed that the land dictated the development of the project.

There will be no lawns, Sagebrush, natural grasses, Russian olive trees and Java rock will be left in their natural state.

Although demand played a large part in his decision to build condominiums, Armstrong said increasingly high development costs were an important consideration.

"Development costs are forcing developers to go with multi-units," he said.

The higher density projects boost the return per acre, offsetting high land prices.

Three units have already been sold, Armstrong said.

2 TF women attend confab

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Roy Slotten, and Ella Nelson, members of the Twin Falls League of Women Voters, attended the organization's national convention last week.

The convention was last week in San Francisco, and the two women returned this weekend.

Mrs. Slotten is state League president, and Mrs. Nelson is the immediate past president of the Twin Falls League.

Mrs. Slotten said 600,000 signatures supporting reform of campaign financing have been collected across the country.

"Delegates" changed the League's bylaws to allow men full voting membership rights.

During the convention, delegates marched in Union Square for a rally supporting the equal rights amendment.

Delegates were also urged to seek public office during a panel discussion on women in politics.

Mrs. Slotten said the nation program for the next two years will include "continuation of studies of environmental problems, land use, human resources, representative government and international relations."

Delegates are charged with producing "energy related materials to further League and public understanding, and to produce recommendations to be used as a basis for League discussion, concurrence and action was created."

Sign-in set

BOISE (UPI) — Legislators from districts 14 through 19 have been invited to sign the Sunshine Initiative petition May 13 at Stevenson Park across the street from the statehouse.

The sign-in marks the beginning of the signature drive for the Sunshine Initiative in the Capital City.

The initiative would require all candidates for statewide office and legislature file limited reports of campaign contributions over $100 and expenditures over $50.

Does More Than Help Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Due To Infection

Also Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief in Many Cases from Pain, Itching in Such Tissues.

Doctors have found a remarkably successful medication that actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues when infected and inflamed. And it does more. In many cases it gives relief for hours from pain and itching in these tissues. Tests by doctors proved this true in many cases.

The medication used was Preparation H. And no prescription is needed for Preparation H Ointment or suppositories.

CSI conducts eighth annual commencement

Governor top-speaker at college graduation

By LORAYNE SMITH, Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho graduates were celebrated at the eighth annual commencement exercises Sunday at the school's eighth annual commencement exercises.

Gov. Cecil Andrus told graduates during the services held in the Health and Physical Education Building. "Our life on earth is a stewardship. Work to see that your contribution is based on the belief that you will leave the earth better than you found it."

The governor told graduates you will find many areas in which you believe change is needed. "He urged them not to hesitate to work for change but be certain you really are improving things when you change, not simply shuffling them around and giving them new names."

The top state official, who is seeking re-election, said the public school system is one important area needing change in Idaho. "So far there has been no acceptable proposal, even though the matter has been studied by many individuals and groups, he said.

"Perhaps it will be your generation which will come up with a plan that will assure the equitable educational opportunities for all our children, he said.

But no matter how great the expenditures for education, health, welfare and other services, if they fail to bring direct benefit to the people, these expenditures are worthless, Andrus said.

Discussing the current reorganization of the state's executive department, the speaker said it has not been easy, for one reason because there always is resistance to change.

He said he believes the plan drafted by a bipartisan commission and which was adopted almost without change by the last session of the legislature will achieve the goal of more efficiency in government.

Condition critical

TWIN FALLS — Wesley Annis, 42, former deputy sheriff in Twin Falls, County, was taken to Boise Sunday night in critical condition with a bullet wound in his head.

Twin Falls city police said Annis shot himself in an apparent suicide attempt at his home in Twin Falls about 10:30 p.m. Sunday. He was taken to Boise for special treatment after being treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Burglaries probed

TWIN FALLS — Two burglaries were investigated by Twin Falls city police today and officers said apparently nothing was taken in either incident.

Someone broke into the Salvation Army office, 801 Second Ave. N. A rear window in the building was broken and entry made, but officers said nothing was missing.

At Willis Motor Co., 236 Brookhoke St. W., someone broke into a rear door, entered the service department and the remainder of the building. Owners said they believe nothing was taken.

Stimson view on opening mail seems right

(c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON - In 1929, Secretary of State Henry Stimson closed office...

the establishment of a vast American intelligence community. To him, what was fair and necessary in wartime was wrong when nations were striving to construct a peace.

The time of the thin-lipped Hunt and the hot-eyed Liddy is out of joint, for derring-do has changed to derring-don't.

That willingness to listen in, in particular, national survival ahead of the restraints of what Stimson considered national gentleness, to penetrate personal privacy in order to preserve national security...

CREEPers shifted

National Farmers Organization Reporter. Vice President Gerald Ford may have shown political astuteness when he divorced the Republican Party from the Watergate mess...

He told a large Midwestern conference of his party's leaders in Chicago that the big mistake in the 1972 Presidential campaign was turning it over to the Committee to Re-Elect the President...

The answer is that the CREEP staff is now dispersed throughout the federal agencies including many important positions in the Department of Agriculture...

We are reminded of this by the late March announcement that Frank Naylor Jr. has been appointed associate administrator of the Farmers Home Administration...

He joined CREEP in March of 1972 to work with veterans groups. After the presidential campaign ended and CREEP was disbanded, Naylor got a fat job at the Veterans Administration...

In his new job at USDA, Naylor will get $36,000 a year and will be associated with many of his old Nixon campaign colleagues...

Top man among them is Assistant Secretary Clayton Youtter, described by some as a possible successor to Secretary Butz himself...

At one time or another, Butz has appointed to the USDA staff this long list of onetime CREEP workers:

John C. Foltz, former assistant in the agriculture division of CREEP, as deputy undersecretary of agriculture.

Stephen B. King, the CREEP security guard who restrained Martha Mitchell while she was injected with a sedative out in California...

K. C. Shepherd, who was employed as an administrative assistant in the U. S. Forest Service.

M. L. Baker, a former CREEP worker who was put on the USDA payroll as a confidential assistant to the administrator of the Agriculture Marketing Service.

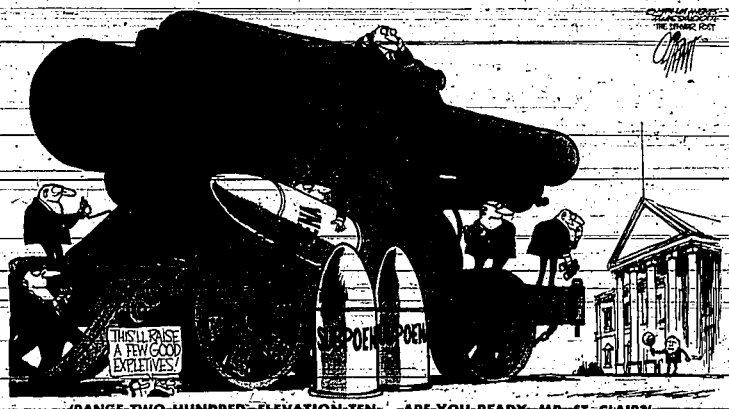

The recent Naylor appointment (March 18) is both a selection out of the old CREEP staff and a reminder that far too many USDA appointments have been made from agribusiness...

Arkansas' Fulbright facing primary ballot loss

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. - The reason for the probable defeat of Sen. J. W. Fulbright by Gov. Dale Bumpers in the May 28 Senate Democratic primary can be partly explained by a whispered comment to Bumpers at a restaurant.

A retired Methodist minister pledged Bumpers his vote, then confided: "But to tell the truth, governor, I'd even vote for a colored man against Fulbright. Such incidents lead to this consensus: anybody could beat Fulbright in Arkansas in 1974."

Thus, his defeat would stem not from the Watergate syndrome nor even Bumpers' popularity. Rather, after 23 years representing Arkansas in the Senate, the string has finally run out on the aloof and aristocratic intellectual.

That stems partly from a feeling here that Fulbright, who maintains no residence in Arkansas, has "become distant" and unapproachable as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee in Washington. Beyond personality considerations lies a murky ideological incompatibility between Fulbright and his native state.

Evans & Novak

against the Vietnam war confirms their identification of him as a "liberal" and "weak."

Bumpers' entry enhances the prospect. Emerging from the obscurity of a small-town lawyer four years ago to score a stunning upset for governor over Orval Faubus and Windrop Rocketteller, Bumpers at 45 is one of the most popular politicians in the state's history.

The Bumpers national image is that of a new breed Southern liberal, but he views himself more as a centrist. Most important, lower-income whites can relate to Bumpers as they cannot to Fulbright.

Although Prof. Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and the New Republic have commenced public mouthing over the probable loss of Fulbright for the liberal cause in foreign policy, Fulbright knows his only chance to survive is on more mundane issues.

The strategy concocted for Fulbright by Washington campaign consultant Mark Shields is to portray Bumpers as just another pretty queen. "We are not running for homecoming queen," says Fulbright. His theme for newspaper advertisements and television commercials is: "It's more than just a popularity contest. It's the most crucial election in America."

Judgment questioned

WASHINGTON - In the Congressional Globe for June 13, 1974, the official stenographer in the House of Representatives reports John Quincy Adams as follows:

"Mr. Adams said, 'Why, what mockery it would be for the Constitution of the United States to say that the House should have the power of impeachment, extending even to the president of the United States himself, and yet to say that the House had not the power to obtain the evidence and proofs of which their impeachment was based. It appeared to him (Adams) equivalent to a self-evident principle that the power of impeachment given to the House necessarily the power to call for persons papers.' (Congressional Globe, 27th Congress, 2nd Session, Page 580)."

Nevertheless, 132 years later this is precisely the principle President Nixon is challenging in the Watergate case. He has refused to turn over the additional "evidence and proofs" requested by the House Judiciary Committee and Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, until his lawyer, James D. St. Clair, has threatened to fight the case all the way through the Supreme Court if necessary.

It was probably inevitable that this conflict between the President's claims to "confidentiality" and the House's power to call for "persons and papers" in an impeachment proceeding should be submitted to the highest court for judicial review. But again what is odd about the President's defense is that he has chosen to risk this confrontation in the Supreme Court at the worst possible time for himself.

provided the annexed transcripts of all or portions of the subpoenaed conversations that were recorded.

But having conceded this point and broken his own rule against releasing confidential documents, the President is now insisting that he alone must decide what other evidence the House needs to meet its constitutional responsibilities, who shall be permitted to hear the tapes to assure that a "fair and complete disclosure" has been made, and what is relevant or irrelevant to the house's investigation.

James Reston

Maybe he is gambling that the Supreme Court would sustain him, but if it doesn't, he will either have to hand over the evidence requested by the House, or disobey the court, which would be a subversion of the Constitution and probably a decisive impeachable offense.

All this raises serious moral and legal questions, but leaving these aside for the moment, it also raises stark and troubling questions about the President's judgment of men and events, even of his judgment about now to defend himself.

And the feeling here, as he backs and fills on handing over the evidence the Congress wants, and even trots out a resident priest in the White House to defend his character, indicates that his judgment, under pressure, is not getting better but worse.

French elections have clear loser: DeGaulle

(c) New York Times Service PARIS - It is not clear who will be the French elections' hot man May 5 and scheduled to end May 10, but it is obvious who lost them.

That man was the late Charles De Gaulle. If nothing else, the quest for a new president proved Gaullism could not long endure without its namesake and inventor.

The general himself often confided to callers, with a mixture of pride and regret, that he had no successors. Surely, the late Georges Pompidou never pretended he was more than a man who occupied the Elysee seat filled by his great predecessor.

Pompidou emphasized both continuity and change from the original. Ties of Gaullism, Jacques Chaban-Delmas, who sought to pursue a similar policy, was unable to sell the idea to France's voters.

shortcomings and partly due to the rivalries of other Gaullists scrambling for power. But mostly it was due to the fact that Gaullism couldn't survive. De Gaulle.

G. L. Sulzberger

Gaullism was not a political philosophy. It was a mixture of national pride and a sense of grandeur which the general manipulated into a power apparatus and a policy method aimed at increasing French influence and prestige.

France is and has been for several generations a democracy in terms of its credo and also in terms of its administrative structure although during that time it has been headed by emperors, kings and presidents, some of whom seemed to conceive of themselves in a quasi-monarchic sense of function.

An odd stew has been cooked of financial stability, social justice and traditional strains. These tend to rival each other in a national political body where left, right and center have never ceased to compete.

"Although many modern concepts of democracy were first defined by French philosophers and practiced by French statesmen, democracy here has tended to lack a sense of civism and appreciation of what contributions can be made by the private sector to the public weal."

Likewise, Communism is probably somewhat

Step two, when the FBI appeared squishy, was to write a "superior investigations unit" which was willing to eavesdrop, or worse, in order to plug the leaks.

Step three was the transfer of the ability to eavesdrop to political campaign purposes. H. R. Haldeman explained to the President that John Mitchell had grown so accustomed to eavesdropping that he must have lost his sensitivity to the illegality of wiretaps.

The President's willingness to along with the indiscriminate eavesdropping on all his advisers and visitors should not surprise us, seen as the final, massive dose of the poison he had been sipping steadily for years. It was not wrong, he felt, because he was "for Truth."

any-thing-along those who think the President guilty of an impeachable high crime. An addiction to eavesdropping was his grievous fault, and grievously-had he already suffered for it. The man who was ready to eavesdrop to protect the confidentiality of his office was, in Hamlet's words, "toist with his own petard" - a petard is a bomb, and this one has blown presidential confidentiality sky-high.

Because Nixon would read everyone else's mail, we are now forced to read his own. Baddy's nasty, we are actively and in so doing, we see why Henry Stimson was right.

WHERE SELDOM IS HEARD AN ENCOURAGING WORD

The party is solid, well-organized and can count on impressive support at the ballot boxes. But most voters, Communist here or not, are only expressing opposition.

Thus, as the 1974 election approaches its climax with two standard-bearers, Valery Giscard d'Estaing for the right and center-right and Francois Mitterrand for the left and center-left - Gaullism as an issue disappears. Of course Giscard will do everything possible to depict the dissidents that face France should Mitterrand's Socialist-Communist coalition win.

This will have strong appeal among conservatives, practicing Catholics and those who still announce themselves as "Gaullists." But for the first election in 16 years, neither De Gaulle nor Gaullism is the key issue. New men and patterns that at least appear new will govern France as the memory of the grand old general fades into the history books.

Buzhardt denies ethnic slur charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A White House official who has heard most of the original Watergate-tape recordings says President Nixon did not use ethnic slurs in his conversations, and that news reports saying he did are an attempt to poison the public mind against the President.

"There have been fabrications, there have been attempts to portray remarks that are on the tapes as racial slurs and they are not," said Nixon's special counsel J. Fred Buzhardt Sunday.

Appearing on CBS Face the Nation, Buzhardt was asked about a New York Times report Sunday that Nixon referred to "wops" and "Jewboys" in places where the term "expletive deleted" or "characterization deleted" appeared in the transcripts.

Buzhardt said he had listened to most of the tapes of Nixon's conversations from which the transcripts were taken and "I have heard nothing that I would consider ethnic slurs."

"And let me say this," he added. "For a number of days now we have been literally besieged by rumors that there were ethnic slurs in the tapes. Some language which I wouldn't think of repeating here or in private has been suggested as being on the tapes, and I find it just totally unbelievable."

"And I wonder, you know, it's clear that a concerted campaign has been made to cause these to be publicized. And that is one of the problems that bothers many of us. Obviously this type of material is not relevant to the question of whether the President has committed treason, bribery or high crimes or misdemeanors. I can only characterize this as malicious and vicious attempts to poison the public mind against the President by any means."

The Times reported that Nixon called U.S. District Court Judge John Sirica a "wop," made references to "Jewboys" on the Securities and Exchange Commission and called the three original Watergate prosecutors "those Jews down there."

Buzhardt denied the accusations, but said he could not pinpoint the source of the reports or where such remarks were supposed to have been made in the taped conversations.

Power abuse called grounds for ouster

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two black members of the House Judiciary Committee said Sunday they agreed that proof of "gross abuse of power" would be a sufficient ground for impeaching President Nixon and removing him from office.

Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., and Barbara Jordan, D-Texas, were joined by Rep. Andrew Young, D-Ga., in an interview on ABC's "Issues and Answers." All three said the Nixon administration had criminally neglected the problems of minority group members and poor Americans.

"President Nixon has made history, which at one time seemed to be a bad thing," Rangel said. "I do not feel an impeachable offense has been an indictable offense... an impeachable offense can be for gross abuses of power by a public official and gross neglect of duty."

Rangel, a former U.S. attorney, said "And even if you accept presidential counsel James D. St. Clair's unconstitutional but narrow viewpoint based on public transcripts turned over by the President, he could be subject to indictable offense for his conduct."

Young said poor blacks equated Watergate with economic problems such as rising milk prices.

Asked for her definition of an impeachable offense, she said: "I do not feel an impeachable offense has been an indictable offense... an impeachable offense can be for gross abuses of power by a public official and gross neglect of duty."

Rangel, a former U.S. attorney, said "And even if you accept presidential counsel James D. St. Clair's unconstitutional but narrow viewpoint based on public transcripts turned over by the President, he could be subject to indictable offense for his conduct."

Minimal regulations goal of new FCC chairman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The new chairman of the Federal Communications Commission made a big splash recently when he said that regulation should be stopped from phony contests, hoaxes and other manifestations of low-ethical standards.

Richard E. Wiley, who became head of the seven-member FCC March 8, spelled it out a week later before the

RICHARD WILEY
FCC focus

"You have to resist the temptation to see to it that the American people get what you yourself like."

"This is what the whole system is built on — local people in their own communities — making judgments — as accountable licensees. I think it is difficult in Washington, thousands of miles away, to oversee those things."

"You should not second-guess except where the licensee's judgment is wholly unacceptable."

But Wiley at the same time champions a "new ethic" in the broadcast industry and says the broadcaster holds a public trust in his use of one of the limited number of frequencies.

"We must serve the whole community, which means we must have some regulations," Wiley said.

Wiley said he wants to update and simplify regulations, and get the FCC to make speedier decisions.

"A lot of regulations were made in the '30s and '40s when equipment was much different," he said. As an example, a regulation passed when power levels tended to "jump around" required meter checks every 30 minutes. This has been changed to once every three hours, he said.

"That saves little people a lot of time," Wiley said.

"What kind of programs appeal to the overseer of broadcasting?"

"News, chat, documentaries and, of course, a lot of spots. But I don't think my tastes should be reflected in regulations."

Prosecutor scored

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, Sunday criticized the action of Assistant U.S. Attorney General Henry Petersen in prosecuting the Watergate defendants.

Ervin told newsmen prior to a speech that transcripts of White House tapes released recently led Petersen to keep President Nixon up to date on the progress of the case against the Watergate defendants. Ervin called the action "highly improper."

"The transcripts of the tapes reveal that he (Petersen) was over there (the White House) line and time again, that he received information about what the grand jury was hearing," said Ervin.

Impeach vote edge to Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford predicts that President Nixon would be cleared by a 4-3 margin if the House voted on impeachment right now.

In a local broadcast interview, Ford said Sunday he thinks the House Judiciary Committee "would probably vote a resolution involving the impeachment of the President," but that it would not be "overwhelming."

"Assuming that the committee does vote an impeachment resolution," Ford said, "I doubt there is a majority in the House that would vote for the resolution. It's probably a 4-3 vote at the present time, but it could change with developments between now and when it comes to the floor of the House."

Such a vote, Ford said, would be difficult in terms of pleasing a member's constituents.

"I think voting for impeachment, or even voting against impeachment, is a loser for any member of the Congress, Democratic or Republican, because there are those hard core areas that want the President impeached and those that don't," Ford said.

Ford was interviewed on WMAL-TV's "McCaffrey at Large."

New Bonn cabinet lined up

BONN (UPI) — Helmut Schmidt, Willy Brandt's handpicked successor as Chancellor, expects to form a new West German government by Tuesday to replace his predecessor's scandal-marred administration.

"There will be no difficulties," Schmidt told newsmen Sunday after reaching agreement in principle on the form of a coalition government made up of his own Social Democrats and the Free Democrats.

The parties were partners in the ongoing coalition led by Brandt, who resigned last week in the midst of an espionage scandal.

"The Social Democrats and Free Democrats hold a combined 34-seat majority in the federal assembly, electing the new president."

Political sources said Schmidt seemed to fear that failure to form a new cabinet before the election might prompt rebellious members of both parties to obtain in-onger-over-the-controversy surrounding the Brandt resignation.

The weekly magazine Stern said Sunday Helmut Wehner, second-in-command of Brandt's Social Democrats, pressured his chief into quitting because he feared the Christian Democratic opposition would take advantage of the scandal.

Stern said Wehner showed Brandt dossiers on alleged East German spy Guenter Gillaume, claiming the suspect frequently found a bribe for Brandt during official trips.

A party spokesman, however, quoted Wehner, 67, as denying the Stern report as "invention" and "blaspheming to suit."

National Association of Broadcasters.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "the day is over when you can engage in fraudulent billing practices, rigged contests, hoax announcements, misrepresentations to the commission, and a number of other very shoddy actions."

But in an interview this weekend with UPI, Wiley came through as less the taskmaster and more the dispassionate champion of local decision-making.

"My philosophy is one of minimal regulation," he said, adding that the FCC should be as objective and neutral as possible.

"I don't permit myself to become a national selector of program tastes," Wiley said.

SEC halts trading in NY bank stocks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) today announced suspension of trading in common and preferred stock of the Franklin New York Corp. and its wholly owned subsidiary, the Franklin National Bank of New York City.

Charles Larson, an SEC official, said the action was being taken at the request of the Franklin New York Corp. The order halts all trading in the firm's stock and preferred stock of the Franklin National Bank from midnight May 13, 1974, until midnight May 15, 1974.

He said the corporation wanted to halt all trading of stock both over the counter and on exchanges.

"The suspension was announced in order to permit the appropriate dissemination and review of releases of the Federal Reserve Board and the Franklin New York Corp. Larson said in a brief statement.

Late Sunday afternoon, the Federal Reserve Board (FRB) offered to protect the financial position of the Franklin National Bank with an advance of money if needed.

George W. Mitchell, vice chairman of the Fed's board of governors, issued a statement saying the FRB had conducted a careful examination of the Franklin National's financial condition.

"Franklin New York Corp., the company that owns all the bank's stock, announced Friday that its management was recommending that the bank not declare a dividend because of small first quarter profits."

Quake hits Slavcity

BEEGRADE (UPI) — A tremor Sunday night in the southern Yugoslav city of Slavcity scored a 4.5 magnitude earthquake more than 10 years ago. Most residents fled their homes in panic, but there were no reports of injury or damage.

Citizens were alerted in return home for at least two hours, police said.

The official Tanjug news agency said the tremor registered between 5 and 6 on the 12-point Mercalli scale.

Russians seize sea power lead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new study of naval power that reports that the Russian Navy has acquired what was described as a vast advantage over the United States since 1960.

The study, based on both classified and unclassified information, said the Soviet fleet cruised Indian Ocean waters four times longer than U.S. ships last year, and that the Russian vessels were newer and far better equipped.

The study, prepared by the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress, was published Saturday by Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., chairman of the House foreign affairs near east subcommittee. Hamilton's committee has been holding hearings on a Pentagon proposal to build a new base on the island of Diego Garcia, in the middle of the Indian Ocean.

Despite the report, Hamilton said he still believes the United States should follow a policy of "restraint and low profile" and avoid any military buildup in the area.

Italians vote on divorce law

ROME (UPI) — Voters cast ballots today at the windup of a controversial, two-day referendum on whether to keep a three-year-old law permitting divorce in Italy for the first time since the days of Napoleon.

The polls opened at dawn for seven hours. The first results were expected about an hour after voting ends in early afternoon.

Repeal of divorce legislation would be a major victory for the Vatican, which has waged an active campaign to maintain the Roman Catholic church's voice in Italy's affairs of state.

Officials said 73.8 per cent of the nation's 37.5 million eligible voters cast ballots Sunday on a "Yes" and seven "No" ballots in Italy. The turnout was five per cent less than on the first day of the 1972 national elections.

The two-day vote was the first referendum since Italians ousted the monarchy in 1946. Although divorce was the only issue, the balloting could affect church-state relations and future government alignments.

The dominant Christian Democratic party, the Vatican and the neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement campaigned to repeal the divorce legislation. All other Italian political parties wanted the law retained.

Politicians on both sides said Christian Democratic setback could force Amintore Fanfani, the party's leader, into a "historic compromise" coalition with the Communists to form a new government.

Politicians and Vatican officials privately agreed a victory for divorce would all but eliminate church influence in Italian political affairs and step up pressure for changes in the Holy See's Concordat with Italy.

The church-state treaty was signed by Mussolini in 1929, but never repudiated by Rome or the Vatican.

The divorce issue has also created new rifts in Catholic ranks. Leading Giuseppe Siri, said Catholics were in favor of divorce, but they thought it might be a good idea. Many more congressmen added that impeachment probably is inevitable.

In Tennessee, GOP party chairman Sen. Kopald said Nixon should not resign, but face impeachment.

"I don't know whether he is guilty, but the process should be carried through without asking the man to resign," Kopald said. "And I don't think it will tear the country up to have an impeachment process. We survived it before."

Republican House Speaker Richard Hoves in Maine said "I would vote to go ahead with impeachment, because 'I've seen enough to discredit the man.' Things that are revealed later might change that one way or the other but it has to be resolved."

A vast number of GOP leaders said they found nothing in the transcripts to support impeachment. They include California Gov. Ronald Reagan, Alabama national committee man Perry Hooper, Oklahoma chairman Clarence Wagoner, Oregon national committee woman Cillis Moore, Florida chairman L.E. Tommy, Thomas, Pennsylvania Senate minority whip Stanley Stroup, and former Nixon cabinet member Winton M. Blount.

Antibusing laws eyed by Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress will probably mark the 20th anniversary of the Supreme Court decision outlawing racial segregation in the nation's schools by debating a new antibusing legislation.

On May 17, 1954, Chief Justice Earl Warren read the historic decision that "separate educational facilities are inherently unequal." The United States has been plagued with the problem of how to make the law fit the decree ever since.

Busing is "one way," a way which has provoked controversy wherever it is proposed. The Senate this week debates a four-year, $23 billion elementary and secondary education bill which already contains antibusing provisions already approved by the House.

President Nixon has said he would reluctantly accept the House's $18 billion, three-year package but would veto the Senate version.

Debate on the antibusing amendment is scheduled to begin Wednesday and liberals are marshaling their forces against it. The vote is expected to be so close that Vice President Gerald R. Ford may have to cast the deciding ballot.

The amendment, to be offered by Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., would prohibit busing a grade school student past the closest or next closest school to achieve racial balance.

There would be no busing across school district lines, a provision that would prevent busing students between mostly black cities and mostly white suburbs.

Students in the ninth grade or higher would get exceptions, if it can be proved that the individual would suffer educational deprivation.

The legislation, says Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., "would undo all that has been accomplished slowly and sometimes painfully over the past two decades."

Trucking slowdown not evident

By United Press International

Spot checks in Pennsylvania confirmed today a statement by Gov. Milton S. Shapp that drivers voted to keep their rigs off the roads after midnight. Some drivers elsewhere made similar threats.

Overdrive's editor, Michael Parkhurst, predicted Sunday night that more than 90,000 drivers would start a nationwide strike at midnight. He made the forecast before returning to Washington after attending a truckers' meeting in Breezewood, Pa., which he had summoned to drum up support for the strike.

Parkhurst claimed that "at least 500 drivers" were present at the meeting and that a majority favored the strike. Shapp, who spoke to the drivers by telephone from his Philadelphia home, said "fewer than 20 per cent of the 300" truckers at the meeting voted for the shutdown.

A key demand by the truckers is for an extension of the May 31 deadline for renewing their licenses. Shapp noted that the drivers need the extension because they are "short of cash" — a license costs a minimum of $200.

He told the truckers he would introduce legislation to allow them another 60 days for renewals. The truckers also want speed limits above the present 55 miles an hour and the right for small truckers to haul manufactured goods in competition with the big trucking companies.

In Ohio, William Hill — temporary chairman of the National Independent Truckers Union Committee — told a Columbus newspaper that the shutdown urged by "Overdrive" would harm the independent truckers. The group, made up of between 16 and 23 national truckers organizations, voted this month not to support a strike.

Opinions vary on 'Gate data

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Watergate transcripts have left Republican leaders deeply divided over the future of President Nixon and of the party itself.

There are those who say Nixon is innocent of any wrongdoing, those who want him to resign or impeach and those who remain silent.

But, according to a UPI poll, almost all the GOP leaders are dismayed by what they read and many are struggling with how candidates should deal with Watergate in this year's congressional election.

There also was a strong indication that some of the calls for Nixon's resignation were prompted by fears that the GOP will lose badly. One Pennsylvania party leader who declined to be identified said, "I'd give anything to have someone else in the White House by then. Jerry Ford is looking better all the time."

Gov. Otis Bowen of Indiana summed up the "quandary" by saying that after reading the transcripts "it's pretty hard to decide which side to get on."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said they reflected "deplorable, shabby, disgusting and pathetic performance. The word that prevailed among state leaders was 'disappointing.'"

The calls for Nixon's resignation centered mainly in Washington. Five GOP senators suggested the President should step down and two House Republican leaders said they thought it might be a good idea. Many more congressmen added that impeachment probably is inevitable.

In Tennessee, GOP party chairman Sen. Kopald said Nixon should not resign, but face impeachment.

"I don't know whether he is guilty, but the process should be carried through without asking the man to resign," Kopald said. "And I don't think it will tear the country up to have an impeachment process. We survived it before."

Republican House Speaker Richard Hoves in Maine said "I would vote to go ahead with impeachment, because 'I've seen enough to discredit the man.' Things that are revealed later might change that one way or the other but it has to be resolved."

'Phalanx' develops problems

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new computerized Navy gun system designed to shoot down enemy missiles also tends to aim at friendly vessels and even nearby islands, according to Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis.

Aspin said his information on the troubles of the "Phalanx" gun system came from a declassified General Accounting Office (GAO) study, which reports that during tests off the California coast "the system locked on and declared as a threat Santa Barbara Island and the USS Hollister," a destroyer that participated in the tests.

The Navy declined to release the specs of the "Phalanx" computer reported for the island. A spokesman said the system is still under develop-

Great-grandmother receives diploma

HELENA, Ark. (UPI) — Getting an education was never easy for Ruth Shipley, 67. Back on the farm in north central Arkansas 49 years ago, she missed a lot of winter classes because her clothes weren't heavy enough to protect her from the cold for the long walks.

"Friday night, the smiling great-grandmother, wearing a black robe, clutched her red diploma, bound high school diploma."

"It's something I always wanted to do, but I never thought I'd have the opportunity," she said Mrs. Shipley, who has five children, 11 grand children, and two great-grandchildren.

School officials and students mopped her after the ceremony, hugging her.

Mrs. Shipley completed the requirements for her certificate of high school equivalency by attending the Elaine branch of the county's adult high school education program.

She began work on her degree in January, 1973, as soon as it (the Elaine branch) was opened.

Mrs. Shipley went to school on a part-time basis, having to drop out for about a month when her husband, R.F. Shipley, had to undergo major surgery last fall.

"I'm glad to see her do it. She's worked faithfully on it," said her husband.

"I enjoyed doing it because I fall like I was accomplishing something," Mrs. Shipley said.

"It's nice when your grades are high, but that's not the important thing. It's what you get out of it."

Mrs. Shipley didn't complete the eighth grade until she was 19 because the school had split terms and she had to miss some school to help her family.

Now she says she is making plans to attend Phillips County Community College in the fall to begin work on her college degree.

DECA students

TF DECA students honored by school

TWIN FALLS — Outstanding marketing students of the Twin Falls High School DECA program were announced today by Jim Alcorn, teacher-coordinator.

Denis Ryall was named student of the year for 1973-74 in the program and received a $200 scholarship, a $100 stock portfolio, a $60 gift certificate, a pen and pencil set and his name on the permanent school plaque.

Runners-up in the year-long competition included Anna Marie Williams, Gary Nelson and Roxy Walker. Each received engraved pens.

Alcorn said the winners were selected from the student of the month winners during the school year.

The DECA Chapter in the Twin Falls High School is part of the school's marketing program, now in its third year. This is the second year of the selection of student of the year winners.

Alcorn said the entire marketing program is based on competition as the students learn marketing by participating. This year, he said, there were 34 seniors and 65 juniors in the program, making it one of the best thus far. He said all of the seniors maintain jobs in Twin Falls business firms and receive credit for their work hours.

Jackson proposes new law

MORGANTOWN — W. Va. (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Saturday that he would propose legislation to require oil companies operating in the United States to get federal charters.

In a speech prepared for delivery to a gathering of West Virginia Democrats, Jackson said he would propose the charter system in an amendment to the emergency energy bill now in the Senate.

He added that the charter would "define the rights and duties of major oil companies in their important relationships with their shareholders, the public, federal, state and local governments, foreign nations, consumers and others."

"I want an oil industry that is both privately owned and responsible to the public interest," he said.

The emergency energy legislation, he said, "must stop these disastrous price rises which have jeopardized the financial security of millions of American families."

He said half of the domestic crude oil prices have risen from $9.00 per barrel to $10 per barrel in less than a year and have become the "biggest single factor in the 14 per cent rate of inflation."

Jackson, who is considering seeking the presidency in 1976, said President Nixon vetoed an earlier version of the emergency energy legislation with the support of the oil industry.

"We failed to get the two-thirds necessary to override that veto by only eight votes," he added.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rising interest rates and inflation remained cautionary factors in the stock market Monday. In moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange, the Dow Jones Industrial Average made gains of 1.24 points, ending at 1,067.45.

Investors were encouraged by the Securities and Exchange Commission's suspension of trading in Franklin Bank Stock. The firm earlier admitted it had suffered $14 million in losses because of unauthorized foreign currency transactions.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average was off 2.80 at 847.56 shortly before noon. It had been lower. Declines dominated advanced issues, among them 1,316 issues closing lower. Probably affecting the market most at present is the rise in interest rates. Most major banks in the nation have increased the prime rate to the 11.75 percent level, a second within the past several days. And the Federal Reserve Board has maintained a relatively tight-money policy.

"Consolidated Edison of New York, which has money problems of its own, was the most active issue, up 3/4 at 72 on 37,000 shares. The stock rose heavily recently.

The American City Bank was second, up 1/4 at 37 3/4 on 20,000 shares. ITT (ex-dividend) followed, off 1/4 at 20 1/4 on 66,400 shares.

Transportation issues generally were weaker. Union Pacific lost 1/4. Norfolk & Western 1 1/4. Delta Airlines 1/2.

Energy related issues were irregular. Halliburton, Schlumberger and Kerr-McGee were point-sized losers.

DOT car report drops fuel cost

WASHINGTON—Just two years ago, the Department of Transportation could say without too much fear of contradiction, "gasoline is still one of the best bargains on today's market."

The low fuel statement would draw expostulations from American motorists and it has been dropped from DOT's biennial report on automotive costs.

In the latest booklet, DOT said the cost of owning and operating a standard-sized 1974 car for 10 years and 100,000 miles will total $19,899.38 or 19.38 cents a mile. Costs for the same new car trip "from the assembly line to the junkyard" in 1972 amounted to $13,552.95 or 13.55 cents a mile — 17 percent less than in 1974.

Prices have risen for compact and subcompact autos as well. It will cost the owner of a 1974 compact a total of $12,875.53 or 12.88 cents a mile if he keeps his car for 10 years, an increase of 19 percent from 1972. The jump for subcompact cars is 18 percent to $11,152.10 or 11.15 cents a mile.

The situation certainly has changed, remarked Laurence L. Liston, an official with the Federal Highway Administration and the author of "Cost of Operating an Automobile."

"Gasoline used to be one of the lower priced items — now it is one of the highest."

Until the gasoline shortage began in late 1973 and continued through 1974, prices had changed relatively little in 20 years, Liston continued in an interview.

The 1972 study said the standard-size new car would consume 7,350 gallons of gasoline over its 10-year life at the average cost of 37 cents a gallon. Today's models will burn up 7,700 gallons at 52 cents a gallon.

Liston explained that in 1972 the models they tested got 13.6 miles per gallon. This year, the average had dropped to 12.92. Liston emphasized that the study did not represent national averages and was based solely on suburban driving near Baltimore, Md. He said motorists in other areas "would have to take into consideration the kinds of costs in that area that are different."

State gasoline tax, insurance rates, tolls and parking fees are some of "the items" of difference.

But Liston said he didn't think the Baltimore area was "unusual" except that tolls might be higher than in most areas.

In addition to paying $1,032 for gasoline over the 10-year anticipated life span, owners of 1974 standard-size cars will pay $3,521 for maintenance and repairs, $1,618 for insurance and $1,690 for parking, tolls and garaging.

Depreciation still is the greatest single cost of owning and operating a standard-size car, the study found, but for compacts and subcompacts, the total cost of gasoline including taxes and license over as the number one expense.

Copies of the booklet may be obtained from the Federal Highway Administration, DOT, 400 7th St., S.W., Washington, D.C. 20590.

FMC offer rejected
POCAITELE (UPI)—The manager of the FMC Corp. plant near Pocatelle was "disappointed" by a rejection of the company's contract offer to striking machinists.

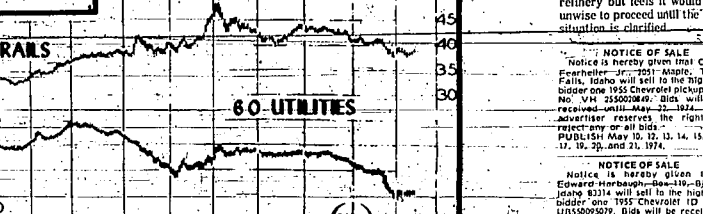

More than 300 members of the Machinists local 1833 voted 2-1 to reject the offer from the company because they were not happy with the company's cost-of-living clause, Wally Wright, a union spokesman from Salt Lake City said Friday.

Wright said the employees want a cost of living clause of one-cent-for-every-three-tenths of a point of increase based on the 1967 consumer index.

The workers have been on strike for three weeks.

"We are very disappointed," what else can I say."

In addition to our offer of a 2.25 percent wage increase, plus additional fringe benefits, we went that extra mile and conceded a cost of living clause and offered a 10 percent increase in the second year," he said.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I don't know if you believe in spirits. I never did, but something happened that really got me thinking, and I don't know who else to ask about this.

When my husband was in Kansas City on a business trip he picked up an old friend just for old time's sake, and she told him that I had visited her some years back under very mysterious circumstances.

Abby, I have never met this woman in my life. In fact, I have never been to Kansas City. Now here is where the trouble comes in.

My husband swears that this girl is telling the truth and that somehow my spirit left my body and went to Kansas City to visit Agnes. He says that Agnes described me to him, even to the mole I have on my right cheek, so now I don't know what to think.

Can you explain this? I am all bewildered and confused.

—WONDERING

No spirits in Kansas City

DEAR WONDERING: I don't believe in spirits. Even though you have never been to Kansas City or met Agnes, perhaps Agnes has seen you or a picture of you. Or possibly you have been described in detail to her. Don't worry about it. There is no evidence that spirits exist, much less leave the body and go to Kansas City.

DEAR ABBY: I am 34. My mother remarried two years ago. The problem is that before she remarried, she used to spend all her time with me and my little brother. As soon as she remarried she started spending all her spare time with him.

She is always sending us to the movies, park, etc. just to get us out of the house so she can be alone with him. My younger brother doesn't realize it, but my mother buys us things to make up for it (her shutting us out).

Do you think I should have a talk with her and explain how I feel? I don't have anybody to tell my troubles to. Please help me. I feel so alone.

DEAR SHUT: Yes. Tell your mother how you feel. It will open the door to conversation and give your mother an opportunity to tell you how she feels. Too. Instead of resenting the time your mother spends with her new husband, you should be glad she has found someone with whom she is so obviously compatible. If she's actually neglecting you and your brother, she may not realize it until you speak up.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the mother of an 11th grader who is upset about the four-letter words in the books assigned him to read by his English teacher.

Mrs. Upstated states: "If I heard my son using such language as he is being forced to read, he would get five knuckles in the mouth."

As a mother and teacher it is my opinion that there is more suffering in this world caused by parents who think parenthood gives them the right to apply five knuckles in the mouth than by all the four-letter words that ever were. Just as beauty lies in the eye of the beholder, so does filth in literature. To this beholder, dirty words, if used at all, might best be used to mark the inhumanity of assuming the right to judge the values of another person, and further assuming the right to physically assault another person because of a difference in values.

A WISCONSIN MOTHER AND TEACHER

DEAR MOTHER AND TEACHER: Beautiful! Your students are fortunate, and your children are blessed.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lake Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "Cover an honor with an honor" is a pretty good rule to follow most of the time.

Jim: "We might say it is a very good rule, provided you know when not to follow it."

Oswald: "Let's look at some of the exceptions. In general you do not cover the first time when one of equal honors is played against you."

Jim: "There is nothing wrong with South's four-heart contract. That is, there is none of the except that bad breaks and good defense will defeat it. West opens the defense of spades. The jack is covered with the king. If East covers with the king, the defense will collapse. South will play the ace and king of trumps and ace of diamonds. Then he will lead a diamond to dummy's king and ruff a diamond. His next play will be to put East in with the queen of trumps. East can shift to a club and give his partner two club tricks. But that will be all the defense can do."

Oswald: "If East holds Jack, the king of spades, the contract won't make. South dummy has no way to get to the king. If East holds the king, he can set up. He will have to lose two clubs, one trump and one spade."

Susan Parkhurst weds Mark Miller

SHOSHONE — Susan Parkhurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parkhurst, Shoshone, became the bride of Mark Miller, Twin Falls, on April 27.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Miller, Twin Falls.

Rev. Theo Mayberry, Shoshone Baptist minister, performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with lavender, yellow and white daisies and white-candleabra.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white silk organza and lace. She wore a white picture hat with lace streamers and carried a bouquet of white daisies with lavender and yellow ribbons.

She also wore an antique sashon pin borrowed from her sister, Connie Olmstead. Mrs. Olmstead was matron of honor and Mrs. Dave Pederson, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Mary

MR. AND MRS. MARK MILLER

St. Anthony girl to wed Hadlock

SHOSHONE — Christene Murri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess H. Murri, St. Anthony, is engaged to marry Brent Hadlock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferry Hadlock, former Shoshone residents.

The Hadlocks now live in Rigby.

Miss Murri is a 1971 graduate of South Fremont High School, St. Anthony, and a 1973 graduate of Rice's college.

Hadlock is a 1967 graduate of Shoshone High School, and a 1973 graduate of Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah. He served as chairman for the LDS Church in France-Belgium.

The couple plans a May 24 wedding at the Idaho Falls LDS Temple.

Hadlock has been accepted in the school of optometry at the University of California, Berkeley.

Auxiliary elects

RICHFIELD — Mrs. David Roessler is the newly elected president of the Richfield American Legion Auxiliary.

Others elected are Mrs. Jerry Davis, vice president; Mrs. Carl Paulson, second vice president; Pamela Eitzen, secretary; Mrs. Lester Johnson, treasurer; and Mrs. Myrtle Riley, chaplain.

The officers will be installed on May 28 and an awards ceremony will be held honoring 25 year members.

EPA plans muddy water hearings

TWIN FALLS—A proposed irrigation district discharge permit hearing will be held by the Environmental Protection Agency at 7:30 p.m. May 22 at the Holiday Inn.

Local irrigation districts whose draft permits will be considered at the hearings are Burley Irrigation District, Burley, Twin Falls Canal Co., Twin Falls; North Side Canal Co., Jerome; Mindoko Irrigation District, Rupert; and B Irrigation District, Rupert; Big Wood Canal Co., Shoshone, and American Falls Reservoir District Number 2, Shoshone.

The EPA hearings are to gather testimony on draft discharge permits for irrigation districts which presently call for monitoring points from which the irrigation districts will collect water quality samples and measure return flows during 1975 and 1976. Also of interest is initiation of monitoring systems during 1975 to check turbidity, suspended solids, conductivity and flow quantity, and development of an inventory of non-irrigation related discharges districts will collect water quality samples and measure return flows during 1975 and 1976.

systems and return flow channels. Irrigation districts will also be asked to draw up a control plan describing how the district intends to reduce pollutants — principally sediment runoff from irrigated croplands — to return flows through improved water management practices or other control measures.

The draft permits, according to Seattle EPA spokesman Gene Viers, the result of a cooperative effort between the EPA and officials of the Idaho Water Users Association, will be released in late 1973 by a "second generation" of permits which will hopefully lead to further pollution abatement measures.

Persons wishing to testify at the EPA hearings may get copies of set sheets and draft permits through the EPA Idaho operations office at 422 Washington St., Boise 83702. Persons unable to testify in person may send written comments to the EPA regional Administration, 1200 Sixth Ave., Seattle, Wash. 98101. The deadline for written comment is May 30.

The Twin Falls EPA hearing is one of three scheduled for Idaho this month. Other hearings will be held in Boise May 23 and in Idaho Falls May 30.

The EPA encourages all those who wish to testify to do so. The discharge permits to be issued by the EPA in Idaho will include about 150 irrigation districts by the fall of this year, affecting an estimated 7.5 million acres of irrigated cropland in the state.

The EPA has said that sediment runoff from irrigated cropland is one of the major sources of water pollution in the Pacific northwest.

Chavez eyes Idaho farm workers

TWIN FALLS — A former organizer and a strong arm man for Cesar Chavez said here Wednesday he fears Chavez may try to organize Idaho farm workers.

Richard Napolitano said he had defected from the Chavez organization because of the "lie" it put forth and because he became convinced that Chavez' reliance on boycott tactics would drive growers out of business and backfire on the workers.

Napolitano said Chavez may turn other parts of the nation to his organizational effort because of his failure to convince many California workers to follow him. He said Chavez' support had fallen to about 5,000 workers involved with a contract with only one company.

He also said Chavez has been quoted in the New York Times a week ago as saying he was going to initiate an organizational effort among Idaho's Mexican-American workers.

Napolitano said he would be in Idaho there would be a "shortage" of labor. The growers here are family farmers, individual farmers, they're not going to stand and let this man come in and dictate to them.

Napolitano said he is not working for the growers or for the rival Teamster's Union which engaged in a bitter struggle with Chavez.

He said the expenses for his three-year long national tour, in which he brought his "message to the American People" had come from donations and occasional fees for speaking engagements.

Napolitano said both the Teamster's Union and Chavez' organization resort to physical harassment and violence.

Napolitano claimed he had personally taken groups of farm workers to "pull foremen from their hotel rooms," roughing them up "until there was blood."

He said sometimes people were stabbed, but none of his victims had ever been killed. He said there had been killings elsewhere, but said he doubted Chavez had them.

Napolitano said that while he was an organizer he had been told to tour the east to say California farm workers were being paid only about $50 a week.

The truth, Napolitano said, is that farm workers there get up to $50 a day for piece work. A worker employed year-around would make between $5,000 and $10,000 a year.

He charged Chavez was a "hypocrite" because he had accepted the Martin Luther King award for nonviolence while he was aware that his organization routinely resorted to violence. He also claimed Chavez had diverted $365,000 provided by a group of California growers to establish a medical fund for workers. He said "only" about $15,000 had reached workers, while the rest went to finance the Chavez boycott on lettuce.

The farm workers' best alternative to the "tyrannical" Chavez organization is to remain on the job for the growers. He said most growers had treated their laborers "as well as they can."

Homedale man scores

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — John Davis of Homedale, Idaho, scored 88 out of a possible 100 points to win the bull riding event at the Britches Western Championship Rodeo and Bluegrass Festival here.

Davis, ranked No. 3 nationally in prize money earned, added $1,676 to his winnings to move closer to the second place ranking.

Management charge eyed

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise newspaper, the Idaho Statesman, reported Sunday that there are signs that Boise River management may be about to change.

The Environmental Protection Agency and state agencies have criticized the Army Corps of Engineers environmental impact statement on the operation of Lucky Peak Dam and Reservoir.

The operations manual for the dam and reservoir used by the Army Corps has not been updated since it was prepared in 1956.

Pair held on fugitive charges

BOISE (UPI) — David A. Wentworth, 35, and Ann Louise Wentworth, 24, have been arraigned in Fourth District Court, Boise, on fugitive charges.

Bail for each was set at $500,000. Maryland authorities requested that the couple be held pending extradition to Maryland for prosecution in the April 3 kidnaping and murder of Jimmy Mosley at Princess Anne, Md.

Seeks re-election
CALDWELL (UPI) — The Republican state senator from District 11, W. Dean Abrahamson, has announced his candidacy for re-election.

Abrahamson said in a statement "although the work is hard, sometimes nearly unbearable and the pay leaves much to be desired, it is a pleasure to be able to represent my Canyon County neighbors of District 11."

Veterans eligible for benefits
BOISE (UPI) — Larry Laughridge, executive secretary of the Idaho Veterans Affairs Commission, said Idaho Vietnam veterans are eligible for the same benefits as those of any other war.

Idaho since 1971, has had an emergency relief program set up to provide immediate assistance to Idaho wartime veterans and their dependents in cases of destitution.

Laughridge said the program isn't designed to replace income, but it is "a way to put food on the table."

Jerome fires reported
JEROME — The Jerome Rural Fire Department answered two calls Sunday afternoon within about three minutes of one another.

Volunteer firemen were first dispatched to a fire at the Producer's Livestock Marketing Association where an undetermined amount of hay was burning.

Within three minutes of the time they arrived at that fire, the whistle blew again and the city volunteer fire department assisted the rural fire department in answering a call in a wood fire, nine miles east and two miles north of Jerome which had spread to eight trees. Damage was confined to the trees.

No estimate of damage has been made for either fire.

Property owners protest
SALMON (UPI) — The Salmon City Planning Commission conducted survey showed a majority of Salmon property owners who responded feel they are not getting their money's worth out of city, county, state and federal government.

The 200 persons who answered the 80 questionnaires distributed to property taxpayers said they would be willing to pay increased taxes to raise the quality of educational resources, fire protection, water, roads and streets. They also indicated they would not want to pay more for improved police protection, water pollution control and employment.

Burley meet tonight
BURLEY — The regular monthly meeting of the South Idaho Regional Airport Authority is scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight at the Ponderosa Inn.

The authority is in the process of letting bids to aeronautical engineers for a master study of the proposed regional airport site in Jerome County. According to William MacKnight, Authority spokesman, only approval of an environmental statement remains before unconditional recognition of site two, near Interstate 86, is given by the Federal Aviation Authority.

The study is expected to be completed in about 60 days.

Miller announces candidacy
SANDPOINT (UPI) — Ken Miller, 42, Sandpoint, a free lance writer and former news editor of the Sandpoint Daily Bee, says he will seek the Democratic nomination for Congress from the first district.

Miller is the first to announce for the Democratic nomination for the seat now held by Republican Steve Symms. J. Ray Cox, Coeur d'Alene attorney and former state legislator, however, has picked up nominating petitions.

Cars use headlights, creep along dust-fogged Addison Avenue

Windstorm causes havoc in MV area

Idaho State Police said several rear-end collisions occurred on U.S. highway 93 south of Twin Falls.

About 3:30 p.m. seven miles south of Twin Falls the first two-vehicle accident occurred, followed by about four others. The highway was closed for approximately an hour, officers said. Cars in the severe dust area were moved into adjoining farm yards and some were taken through the area in caravans after wreckage was cleared.

State police said persons taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital from the U.S. 93 accidents included Arthur Charles Sharon, 51, driver and his passenger, Raymond Perkins, 47, both Ogden, Utah. Another passenger, Joseph Ophieken, also Ogden, suffered minor injuries. Madlene Perkins, 46 and Barbara Sharon, 35, escaped injury. Teressa Sue Miller, 20, Twin Falls, was hospitalized from the same accident as was her passenger Edna Rice, 51, Twin Falls. All were later released.

In the same area a short time later, Mary Martin, 72, Gooding, was injured when her car she was riding in was struck from behind.

About 10 miles south of Twin Falls on U.S. 93, officers were called to another series of accidents. Bonnie Jean Tress, 15, driver and a passenger, Judy Burns, 29, both Duhl, were hospitalized and later released. Their vehicle was struck by another driven by Charles Weiler, Spokane, Wash. He and his wife were unharmed. Violet Kennedy, 55, Hansen and Gloria Burns, 7, Duhl were treated for minor injuries.

Officers said the winds which continued strong for about an hour were so full of dust drivers could not see other vehicles even though their lights were on.

Highway 93 was opened after about an hour when a light rain shower settled the dust.

Another dust storm accident occurred on the road to Shoshone Falls about 3:30 p.m. Twin Falls sheriff's officers said three pickup trucks piled up in the dust. Michael Garcia, 65, was hospitalized but all three drivers and some of the nine passengers in the camper truck which Garcia was riding were treated for cuts and bruises at the hospital and released.

Tree limbs were blown across power lines and into roads throughout the area. One power pole was blown down at the Bill Workman Ford Co., damaging a number of new vehicles parked beneath it. A window was blown out in the Emporium furniture store in Twin Falls and a tree was blown into the street in the 400 block of Fourth Avenue North.

Severe winds in the Jerome area toppled a tree on a home at 224 West F Street but there were no injuries. Storage boxes were blown into the streets in the warehouse district and three large cottonwood trees on the Raymond Nutsch ranch four miles north and three miles west of Jerome were toppled, narrowly missing the farm home.

Power was out on the north and east sections of Main Avenue E. but power company officials reported no major damage or lengthy outages.

Jerome board meet tonight

JEROME — The Jerome School board will hold its regular meeting at 8 p.m. tonight in the superintendent's office.

Representatives of the senior class will meet with the trustees. Tonight's agenda will include several reports from the State Department of Education, dealing with the minimum wage, approval of Title I projects, and the Idaho Child Find project.

Resolutions will be submitted by Betty Johnson and John Johnson.

The trustees have set Tuesday night for a public hearing on the proposed 1974-75 budget for the district. The hearing will begin at 8 p.m. in the audio-visual room at Jerome Junior High School. The proposed $1,549,922 budget is $207,313 above last year's total of $1,342,609. The assessed valuation of the district for 1974-75 is $19 million, compared to $14.1 million for 1973-74.

This year's budget includes a seven per cent increase in salaries for teachers and administrative personnel, plus adding a new step to the salary schedule which will bring a nine per cent increase to some district teachers.

Decision reversed

HALLEY — Reversing an earlier decision, the Halley Planning and Zoning Commission gave tentative approval last week to a 180 acre subdivision north of Halley.

Western National Corporation was turned down in its earlier bid in March because of insufficient engineering of sewer and water plans.

The original plans called for one acre break up parcels, but new plans are for five acre plots. Twenty acres have been reserved for a mobile home park just north of the city limits.

The entire 180 acres lies within one mile of the city limits and falls under the jurisdiction of Halley and Blaine County. Approval for the development also must be granted by the county planning and zoning commission.

River water drop eyed

HAILEY — The water level on the Big Wood River should drop in the next few days according to the National Weather Service.

The river gauge reading was 520 feet today, down from the Sunday reading of 540. Flood level for the river, set by the service is 450 feet.

But the level of 450 may be too low, according to the official. He said a flood stage level above 5.0 feet would be more accurate. A weather team is investigating the gauge today.

Weather officials said the storm system which had swept across the area was moving eastward, resulting in cooler temperatures. The high terrain will have freezing temperatures at night, retarding water runoff.

The inflow at Magic Reservoir is also expected to drop. Sunday morning inflow was 2,609 cubic feet per second, but the Weather Service expects this to drop to 2,300 cfs or less by May 15.

Pipe still unavailable for Bellevue project

BELLEVUE — The city of Bellevue has still found no pipe to increase the city water supply and ease an expected water problem.

Bellevue is supplying residents with water from Semon Creek, but the 80 inches that can currently be delivered is barely adequate, according to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Mayor E. (Peter) Johnson said today eight inch plastic pipe was still unavailable. He has tried several sources, he said, all without success. The eight inch plastic pipe, he said, would increase the supply from Semon Creek to the full 150 inch allotment which the city is allowed.

The planning and zoning commission last week recommended a building moratorium be placed upon the city until a solution could be found. It was also suggested that a bond election for construction of a sewer and water system would alleviate the situation.

The State Department of Environmental and Community Services has responded to a letter from the council that no grants are available on the state or federal level on such water improvement projects.

Johnson has suggested raising user fees and avoiding a bond issue which "the city can't afford if floated over a period of years."

Strikers hearing set

REPURT — A hearing on a complaint by the J. R. Simplot Co. against strikers at the Heyburn Simplot plant was scheduled for today.

The complaint was filed May 6 by the company, alleging unlawful mass picketing by members of the American Federation of Grain Millers at the Heyburn plant. An order to show cause why the picketing practice should not be temporarily restrained was issued by Elin District Judge Sherran Bellwood at that time.

The case was scheduled for a hearing before Bellwood this afternoon at the Minidoka County courthouse.

Striking union representatives met at the courthouse Thursday, when the case was originally scheduled. Attorneys for both sides attempted to work out a settlement at that time without going to court but failed to reach agreement.

The strike at Simplot Potato processing plants in Heyburn and Caldwell continued today. The Caldwell plant has been completely closed and Heyburn has carried on only limited production since the strike started May 2.

The Grain Millers' Union called a nationwide boycott Saturday against Simplot products manufactured at the two plants through national offices of the AFL-CIO in Washington, D. C.

Chisham said some drivers coming through the area said they would shut down their rigs today. "We were affected last time and I think we're going to be affected this time, too," Chisham said.

But another truck stop reported no strike talk and no reduction in truck traffic.

Negotiations in Washington, D. C. ended the last big shutdown by truckers, which was centered in Pennsylvania and Ohio in February.

Hazelton ceremony tonight

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News Writer

HAZELTON — Two new city council members will be sworn into office tonight in Hazelton.

The two councilmen, whose names have not been made public, will be appointed by the mayor to replace Ellsworth Hensley and Leonard Hamilton, who were recalled from their council positions, in separate elections last week.

Mayor Jimmy Dryden, who will administer the oath of office to the two men, was also subject of the recall movement, but was retained in office by a 14 vote margin.

Hugh Hedger, AUB Engineers, Twin Falls, is expected to meet with the council tonight to finalize paper work for a $118,310 Environmental Protection Agency grant for the city's sewer project. A Farm Home Administration grant will also be discussed and final papers signed.

The Hazelton sewer project was one of the major controversies in the recall movement. Due to delays on the project, it is estimated Hazelton will be short over $10,000, for completion of the sewer project.

Also on the agenda is a discussion on the city budget — also delayed by the controversy over the handling of Hazelton city government.

Mayor Dryden has called for a complete audit of Hazelton city books after the resignation of Charles Peterson, city clerk. It is anticipated the audit will be completed by the middle of the week, so that the city budget can be prepared and a public hearing set.

Dryden was unavailable for comment this morning on who the new council members might be.

Anti-moth spray set

Samples of egg clusters randomly selected have been hatched in controlled conditions at the Boise experimental forest service office. Trostle said he hasn't seen the last three or four days of experimental data, but as far as he knows, only the 10 acre patch has shown a 30 per cent kill ratio, which is big enough to control the infestation, he said.

The virus is a naturally occurring disease which spreads through moth populations in the larval stage.

Over 13,000 acres of Forest Service, Bureau of Land management and private land was infested last year. The affected areas were detected primarily along an east-west line from Little Wood Reservoir to Featherhill.

Only the infestation near Fairfield remained a dominant threat, according to Trostle. Timber was killed in all areas where the moth hit, he said, but much of the timber is salvageable.

The infestation is in a dormant stage now, but warming weather will bring to life a large population of moths, Trostle said. The infestation is located mainly in stands of Douglas fir.

The moth destroys Douglas fir in the caterpillar stage of development, according to Trostle.

"That's when they eat the needles and leaves," he said. "The tree dies when it is completely defoliated."

The Environmental Protection Agency has relaxed its ban on the use of DDT for one time use. Trostle said a spray helicopter, followed by a monitoring copter could complete the job in two or three days.

Local truckers keep rolling

TWIN FALLS — Local trucking is bucking for a nationwide strike of independent truckers called for one minute past midnight this morning.

Reports from Magic Valley truck stops and trucking brokers indicate that many truckers here have little sympathy for the strike called for by Oxydrite Magazine, a leader of earlier attempts.

Art Hail, owner-manager of an independent trucking brokerage with offices in Twin Falls, Selt Lake, Idaho Falls and Boise, said Heyburn is not going to shut down because of this wildcat strike.

Hail said that 90 to 95 per cent of the drivers he talked to feel the same way about the strike. "Most of these independent can't afford to shut down," he said. "They shut down twice and didn't get anything out of it."

from Chicago, New Orleans and other cities in Idaho, indicating no apparent strike action.

"Nothing is going on in those areas as far as we can get information," Hail said.

A company driver from Billings, Mont., said today "I know Montana ain't going to recognize it and I heard Idaho ain't going to recognize it so far."

The driver said the truckers will strike if they're forced to, but they will wait a while before joining.

Chisham said some drivers coming through the area said they would shut down their rigs today. "We were affected last time and I think we're going to be affected this time, too," Chisham said.

But another truck stop reported no strike talk and no reduction in truck traffic.

Negotiations in Washington, D. C. ended the last big shutdown by truckers, which was centered in Pennsylvania and Ohio in February.

MORE than 200 students entered projects in the annual Vega C. O'Leary Junior High School Arts and Crafts Fair held Friday. Top winning entries were a display case built by Marty Lacey, left, ninth grade, a leather vinyl cap made by Craig Beutler, seventh grade, a psychedelic poster painted by Mark Swenson, ninth grade, and a pair of leather moccasins boots made by Jay Leddom, right, eighth grade.

Celtics hold Jabbar for win over Bucks in NBA finals

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — People talk so much about the tradition and pride of the Boston Celtics it's become an almost overworked phrase. But all that tradition and all the pride came pouring out Sunday when the "new Celtics" won to bring Boston its 12th — National Basketball Association (NBA) since the start of the NBA.

The Celtics did it the old-fashioned way — by playing harder and tougher than the other team — the Milwaukee Bucks, who saw their title hopes go down the drain in a 102-87 Boston victory.

"Sure we were tired," Boston's center Dave Cowens said. "But that fatigue is sometimes only in your head. You can always go a little harder, find that extra inch or that needed spot of wind."

The Celtics' and-all-they-needed Sunday as they built a 42-point lead midway through the third quarter. But the Bucks roared back and trailed by only three points before Boston found that extra gust. With the score 71-68 early in the fourth quarter, Boston got eight straight points from four different men to take a 79-68 lead and the Bucks' hopes were dead.

Sports Flyers topple favored Bruins

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Flyers, relying more on finesse than crunch, took the fight out of Boston with their period goals by Orst Kindrachuk and Ross Lonsberry for a 4-1 victory Sunday afternoon that gave them a two games to one advantage over the heavily favored Bruins in the Stanley Cup final.

For the third consecutive game in this series Philadelphia yielded the first goal. This time it took the Bruins only a minute and three seconds to score as Johnny Bucyk celebrated his 39th birthday by touching off the red light. But it was virtually all Philadelphia the rest of the way as Tom Bladon and Terry Crisp gave the Flyers a 2-1 lead by the end of the first period and goalie Bernie Parent protected the slim margin until Kindrachuk and Lonsberry put the game away.

Newcombe beats Borg for title

DALLAS (UPI) — John Newcombe, a victim of the aggressiveness of challenger Bjorn Borg in the first set, rallied Sunday to defeat the young Swede 4-6, 6-3, 6-2 and capture the World Championship of Tennis title — the richest prize in the sport.

Newcombe collected $50,000 for his afternoon's work, boasting his earnings this year on the WCT circuit to $174,063. Borg, the toughest 19-year-old to sport, overcame a stunned two formidable foes in reaching the finals, gave Newcombe all he wanted before finally falling to the Australian's experience.

Dave Hill shoots 65 to capture Houston event

HOUSTON — (UPI) — Temperamental Dave Hill heated his golf game Sunday afternoon to the intensity of this criticism to sink eight birdie putts in the final 18 holes, fire a seven-under-par 65 and win the $100,000 winner's share in the Houston Open by one stroke over Steve Melnyk, Rod Curl and Andy North.

BOSTON CELTICS' John Havlicek takes a slug of champagne as Celtics coach Tommy Heinsohn yelled at Boston's cheering fans in the dressing room after defeating the Milwaukee Bucks 102-87 to win the NBA championship. (UPI-Telephoto)

Hill watched as big-willing Melnyk barely missed a 20-foot putt at No. 18 which would have forced a playoff. "It didn't bother me," Hill said. "What the hell could I do about it? I wasn't out there to win the money, the $200,000 prize. Melnyk, a co-leader with Hill after two rounds, said the putt went in the hole and came out. "It was probably the best putt I ever hit that I had to hit," Hill said. "I guess it was going too fast."

Behind them were Dave Stockton, who finished second at Houston last year, and Joe Imman. Hubert Green and the 47-year-old Bob Rosburg also put on first day streaks only to fall three shots short. Rosburg, the 1959 — PGA — champion, was particularly happy at his comeback. "This was the best finish I have had in a long time," he said. "But I really felt like I threw the tournament away."

Champagne flows in Celts locker room

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The visitors' locker room at the Milwaukee Arena is a little bigger than a jail cell, but smaller than an average high school locker room. "But it was crammed with excitement as the champagne flowed freely. People got tossed into showers, everybody persisted and the noise level made it difficult to hear."

Economical? Yes. But don't think Ford's hot-selling Courier isn't plenty gutsy, too. Courier's extra-husky frame, for example, features box-section side rails anchored by seven crossmembers. The roomy 74.5 in. x 62.2 in. box is all-steel, all-welded. Upfront, Courier rides on an independent suspension with big coil springs and stabilizer bar. Rear springs are long, wide... will lift leaves. There are double-acting shocks, front and rear.

If the original Hollywood planners had had their way, Edward G. Robinson would have starred in "The Painted Forest," Ronald Reagan, in "Casablanca," George Raft, in "The Maltese Falcon," and Gregory Peck, in "The African Queen." Details that explain how Humphrey Bogart wound up as the star in each of the foregoing films are lengthy and complicated. But he did, in fact. More recently, the late Mr. Bogart turned into a sort of cult-worshiper-hero. But the old pros in Hollywood say he almost never was the first choice of the casting moguls. That's hard to understand, isn't it?

The boys who got set back in school to repeat a grade outnumber the girls who do so 63 to one. Not all out-numbered in a tub of ice water. Some soaked him; they could drop their prices by about 15 per cent if they could get rid of the shoplifters.

REAL NAMES

What are the real names of the Unruly stunt drivers?
A. Um, Kaye Kaiser, Roy-Jack Plumstead, Al Cliff Cudney. That last one, Cudney, did the trick driving in films such as "The French Connection," "The Anderson Tapes," "Cops and Robbers," and "Shah's Big Score."

What sort of injury is most common among people hit by lightning?
A. A painful and temporary loss of hearing. Believe you already know that more lightning victims survive than die.
Q. How come most wallpaper comes 20 1/2 inches wide?
A. Because that was the widest the old hand-crank presses could print up on the early days.

Trading agency hearing opens today

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The second round of a Congressional drive to police commodity futures trading with a powerful club in place of a relatively weak federal agency started today in Capitol Hill.

Following action by the House in passing a new futures trading control bill, the Senate Agriculture Committee today will open two weeks of hearings on its own version of the legislation.

Key issues facing the Senate will include demands — backed by a recent report from the General Accounting Office — that a proposed new commodity regulation agency be given completely independent status.

The House bill, which has won administration support, would set up a new Commodity Futures Trading Commission to replace the Agriculture Department's Small Commodity Exchange Authority. The commission would get a lengthy list of new police powers. But while it would have a considerable degree of independence, it would still retain some ties to the Agriculture Department.

The secretary of agriculture would be a member of the commission and would be eligible, along with any of the four other members, for nomination as its chairman. Also, there is no requirement that the commission members serve on a full time basis, which has led to fears that the non-government members could be dominated by the secretary of agriculture.

Pending Senate bills by members including Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and George S. McGovern, D-S. have a different approach. All of the Senate measures would provide for a completely independent commission.

House farm leaders had insisted on retaining a link between the Agriculture Department and the new regulatory agency because most trading in the $20 billion a year futures industry involves farm products. But Senate advocates of trading reform point to a recent General Accounting Office report calling for separation of trading regulation from agriculture for a somewhat similar reason.

To remove any appearance of conflict of interest, and to instill the fullest public confidence, the Congress should establish an agency ... separate from the Agriculture Department to regulate all futures trading," the GAO said. "It said a potential interest conflict might exist with the secretary of agriculture on the commission because his basic job involves actions which could affect commodity prices."

Both the House bill and the Senate measures would extend federal regulation to many commodities now trading free of government controls and would include new powers such as authority for government injunctions against potential price manipulation. Several of the Senate bills, however, would require mandatory action in regulatory areas the House measure would leave to the discretion of the proposed new commission.

Labor force up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — This year's upsurge in farm production is being accompanied by an increase in the number of people working on farms, an Agriculture Department report indicates.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said the number of farm family workers and hired laborers during the last full week of April was 4.3 million. This was up 4 percent from a year earlier, but 1 per cent below the figure for two years ago.

High feed cost hurts stockmen

DENVER (UPI) — The president of the American National Cattlemen's Association said today that high feed inflation and high costs of feed were hurting cattle growers.

Gordon Van Vleck said that demand for beef continues to be a problem for cattle growers simply wasn't supported by the facts.

The amount of beef produced and marketed through April was six per cent below that of a year ago and consumer expenditures for beef also were up, he said.

"All of the indicators are contrary to reports that demand for beef is strong," Van Vleck said.

"Our industry continues to sustain losses because of large supplies of market hogs and the lower live cattle prices and continuing inflation and high costs."

"Also the percent of slaughter accounted for by cattle other than from feedlots is higher than in the recent past. However, it is abundantly clear that, in terms of both pounds consumed and dollars spent for beef, consumer demand remains good."

Van Vleck said there has been no data to support the claim that consumers at home have lost their taste for beef or have made fundamental changes in their diets.

Farm draft slated

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union, behind schedule with its spring crops because of bad weather, has decided to draft city dwellers into emergency agricultural work, Pravda said today.

The newspaper said the party central committee has issued a decree authorizing governments of the various Soviet republics "to employ able-bodied members of the populations of cities, settlements and villages in agricultural operations" as an "exceptional measure" during 1974.

Similar measures were authorized last year to help bring in the harvest.

Soviet officials have said recently that unexpectedly cool spring weather has delayed the planting of spring crops and delayed the growth of winter wheat that is still being harvested. Normally 70 percent of the Soviet grain crop is planted in spring.

Fertilizer gap noted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Heavy fertilizer sales earlier in the current 1973-74 season have left the industry unable to fill all of the "bumming" farm demand for some fertilizer deliveries this spring, an industry spokesman said at the weekend.

Edwin M. Wheeler, president of the fertilizer institute, noted in a statement that fertilizer deliveries from last July through the end of March totaled 11 percent above the same period of a year earlier. But figures for the month of March alone showed deliveries 7 percent below a year earlier.

Spud bruise-cut tests scheduled

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — In an attempt to cut down on crop loss from bruised potatoes, two universities of Idaho faculty members plan field tests this fall in Southern Idaho on a bruising boom controller.

Conducting the experiment will be Lynn F. Johnson, Aberdeen, university research professor of agricultural engineering, and Dr. Everett M. Baily, an associate professor of electrical engineering, who developed the device.

Johnson, a native of Preston, said each year about a quarter of Idaho's potato crop is lost due to mechanical damage to the potatoes.

Based on an annual crop of 70 million hundredweight with a huge contract of $1 a hundredweight, Johnson said the loss to Idaho farmers could exceed $50 million a year.

The controller devised by the two men is an air medium sound unit. It is hung at the end of the boom and emits little pulses of sound that travel down to the potatoes, and reflect back. The controller calculates the distance from the drop to the potatoes in the truck and emits a signal which controls solenoid valves that in turn control the lowering and raising of the boom.

"We're trying to correct the problem that results because you have two moving platforms in the field controlled by two separate drivers," Johnson said.

"Not only is the vertical movement different but there's a backward movement towards the difference."

Export record looms

CHICAGO (UPI) — An all-time high of nearly $20 billion in farm products exports from the United States in the fiscal year ending June 30 was predicted today.

The Illinois Agricultural Association, which made the forecast, compared the total with the U.S. national agricultural export of $17.7 billion in the calendar year 1973.

The association, also known as the Illinois Farm Bureau Federation, is composed of 216,000 members and emphasizes that Illinois leads the 30 states in exports of farm products.

SNRA plan calls for new strict controls

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News Writer

KETCHUM—Grazing, logging and mining will come under strict new controls under a new Southwest National Recreation Area (SNRA) management plan.

The management plan, issued in conjunction with a draft environmental statement, calls for elimination of any use not in keeping with objectives established for the SNRA. The objectives for the 750,000-acre SNRA call for preservation and protection of the natural, scenic, historic, pastoral and fish and wildlife values.

The new management plan also spells out how the US Forest Service proposes to achieve those goals.

Dick Anderson, planning forester with the SNRA, said several areas have a continuing plan that has been in effect in some instances for a number of years.

Several areas will be modified under the plan. A number of roads will be closed to vehicles, grazing allotments may be cut down, timber cutting practices updated and mining allowed only to valid claims that do not impair the land or values set forth in the SNRA regulations.

Anderson said areas around Coakens Lake would be restricted to livestock grazing. Some ranchers who have been grazing livestock there have been using land not included in their allotments.

Officials have never taken a hard stand on the areas but Anderson said under the regulations only land under allotment would be allowed to graze.

The US Forest Service is conducting a range analysis on several allotments to figure the actual carrying capacity. Over a period of time Anderson said the allotted grazing allotments have been going down.

Under the environmental draft, combined cattle and sheep grazing will be reduced from 15,400 animal unit months to approximately 11,400 animal unit months. Anderson said actual grazing for the present however, would go down very little because the 15,400 maximum allotment capacity was never used anyway.

In the Valley Creek area Anderson said a plan was already started where fences were being built to keep livestock from the stream bed while watering.

The forest service has built pipes to carry water to troughs and watering holes away from Valley Creek. The creek is a critical Salmon spawning waterway.

The Queen's River area also is in cutting under scrutiny to fencing as an alternative to keep cattle off the main channel. Under the proposed regulations cattle trailing up the main Salmon River will be restricted.

Candidate study areas in the Hansen Lakes area—White Clouds and Boulder Mountains regions will be restricted to timbering until a complete environmental study is made.

There will be no clearcutting employed within the SNRA, according to Anderson. Some selective cutting will be allowed but no large areas will be opened up to logging.

Anderson said all major timber sales were completed last year. Bids will still be let on large timber cuts but harvest techniques will be greatly modified. Anderson said large companies will be under the same special regulations as the small logger.

All mining will be restricted to valid claims. Many claims already have been relinquished. No bulldozer work over large areas will be employed in many cases.

Private land regulations which control the subdivision and development of private lands have already been announced. Major land acreages which have come under controversy include the Pett Lake subdivision and west side of US 93 at Obsidian.

The final regulations have zoned those area agricultural which will force many landowners from that region.
