Giscard d'Estaing wins backing

PARIS (UPI) — Jean Jacques Servan-Schreiber, president of the Radical Socialist opposition party, said today he and the bulk of his party leaders decided to support conservative presidential candidate Valéry Giscard d'Estaing. Servan-Schreiber's decision will increase Giscard d'Estaing's voting strength in rural areas where the Radicals are influential. In next Sunday's runoff against Communist-backed Socialist Francois Mitterrand.

Gandhi ignores strike talk bid

NEW DELHI (UPI) — With a crippling nationwide railway strike in its seventh day, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government turned a deaf ear today to pleas from opposition political parties to resume negotiations with strike leaders. Political observers said the government was determined to crush the strike, which has virtually severed India's vital supply arteries at a time when the nation is facing the worst economic crisis in its history.

Chou hints he may step aside

HONG KONG (UPI) — Premier Chou En-Lai, complaining of age and "not very well," has given some hints he may step aside after 25 years at the summit of power in China. Chou, 75, has been absent from several state functions. Speculation has centered on the possibility of a political power struggle demoting Chou to a lesser position in the Communist hierarchy which runs the nation.

GM boosts auto. truck prices

BETHTON (UPI) — General Motors, with the blessings of the federal Cost of Living Council, is boosting the average retail price of its 1974 cars and trucks by $105 effective Wednesday. In announcing the increase late Monday, GM chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg said the amount was "within the agreement on price restraint" (TGM) made with the Cost of Living Council last December.

Peace chance called better

TUNIS (UPI) — President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia said today there will be a better chance of peace for the Middle East if Israel gets a new government — without the Religious party — under Premier-designate Yitzhak Rabin. He said in an interview that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger "is doing good work" in his attempts to disengage Israeli and Syrian troops but "the intransigent attitude of Israel is annihilating these efforts."

CIA charter plane crashes

SAIGON (UPI) — A charter plane flying for an airline run by the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) crashed in South Vietnam, injuring three crewmen and apparently leaving one in Communist hands, military sources said today. The South Vietnamese sources said three Taiwanese crew members were injured and a fourth was believed captured by the Viet Cong when a tank of bottled gas blew up forcing the plane down 55 miles northwest of Saigon.

Bell sues bar over suspension

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Attorney Melvin Bell sued the California State Bar Monday for $30 million, charging it suspended him for 30 days in violation of the US Constitution. Bell said the state bar violated the First and Fourteenth Amendments of the US Constitution in suspending him for endorsement of a certain brand of Scotch whiskey. The suit was filed in federal court.

Danes ponder government onster

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Denmark's political parties met separately today to decide whether to oust Prime Minister Poul Hartling's minority government over a controversial economic measure that has provoked widespread strikes and antigovernment demonstrations. The Folketing (Parliament) scheduled a full session later today.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee began its first full day of impeachment hearings today with an announcement it would vote Wednesday on whether to subpoena another presidential tape recording and other materials. The 38 committee members were notified they will be asked to vote at 7 a.m. MDT Wednesday before resuming their consideration of evidence against President Nixon — on possible subpoena of an April 4-1972 conversation by the President with H.R. Haldean, then his chief of staff, and John N. Mitchell, then attorney general. The committee was told by its investigating staff that this tape could throw more light on events that preceded the June 17, 1972, break-in of Democratic National headquarters at the Watergate complex. One focus of today's day-long presentation by the committee staff — behind closed doors — was expected to a tape recording of June 20, 1972, three days after the arrest of five men in the Watergate, when Nixon met with Haldean. This is the tape that contains a now famous 18 1/2 minute gap. Nixon's impeachment attorney, James D. St. Clair, said he arrived for the closed hearing that he plans to attend all of the sessions, now scheduled for three days each week. "I have a free seat," he told reporters. St. Clair said he has heard some of the presidential tape recordings and agrees with Nixon's counselor, J. Fred Buzhardt, who Sunday denounced allegations that the President's conversations contained ethnic slurs that were deleted from the transcripts made public two weeks ago today. The committee's special counsel, John M. Dear, is giving the committee a chronological presentation of impeachment evidence. Evidence concerning involvement of White House aides prior to the break-in was given the committee at the first half-day session.

APPOINTED TO THE Hazelton City Council and sworn in Monday evening were new members Robert Brutke (left) and Dan Sellers. They filled vacancies created by recall of two other councilmen.

Hazelton council picks pass sewer project test

By CHARLOTTE BELL, Times-News Writer
HAZELTON — Their loyalty to a proposed sewer project assured, two men — assumed their seats on the Hazelton City Council Monday night. Dan Sellers and Robert Brutke were appointed to serve unexpired terms that had belonged to Leonard Hamilton and Ellsworth Hensley. The two ousted men were recalled in recent elections. Sellers, 34, is a sixth-grade teacher in Wendell. He was born and raised in Hazelton and will begin teaching in the Hazelton School District this fall. Brutke, 34, is a self-employed building contractor in Hazelton. Before the two men were sworn into office, Councilman Harry Kurtz questioned them about the Hazelton sewer project. Both men agreed the sewer was "necessary" and agreed to do their best to help complete the project. Dean Howard, with whom the city has a land option for the new sewer lagoons, met with the council and asked for reclassification of 40 acres of land adjacent to the proposed lagoons from agricultural to commercial. Rick Knight, Gem State Realty, Twin Falls, told the council that the reclassification was needed so that R and T-S Sales-Burley could erect two potato storage cellars. "Because the land is within a one-mile radius of the city limits, approval must be obtained from the city as well as the Jerome County Zoning Board and the commissioners," Knight said. The council agreed to approve the reclassification providing Mr. and Mrs. Howard signed an easement agreement allowing the city to run a sewer line across land owned by Howard adjacent to the parcel proposed for reclassification. Howard has on several different occasions refused to sign the agreement, which has delayed the sewer project. However, he agreed to sign the easement providing the city approved the reclassification. The city is also negotiating with the Union Pacific Railroad for an easement for the sewer line and Kurtz said that if the railroad approves the easement, Howard's easement may not be used. Also delaying the sewer project is an agreement with the Hazelton Housing Authority on its share of the construction cost of the sewer to service a 48-unit farm house project west of town. Bill Frey, member of the housing authority, told the council the authority and its attorney had not had an opportunity to check the proposed agreement. The council has set 8 p.m. June 17 as the time for the opening of bids on the sewer project. Hugh Hedges, JUB Engineers, Twin Falls, told the council that Environmental Protection Agency would provide 75 per cent of the funding with 15 per cent from the state and 10 per cent from the city. "If we find after the bids are opened that the projected cost of the sewer exceeds the present EPA grant, we can go back and ask for additional funding," Hedges said.

Tax court decision to Vesco

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has suffered a setback in efforts to collect more than $83,000 in back taxes and penalties from fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco. A U.S. Tax Court judge has ruled that the Internal Revenue Service was too vague when it charged Vesco with receiving "cash" payments — totaling about $1 million from International Controls Corp. (ICC) and failing to report them on his 1969 income tax return. Vesco was chairman of ICC at the time. According to the IRS, most of the income came from Vesco's use of ICC-owned jet planes for pleasure flights. Vesco has contended he flew the aircraft only for business. One of these jets is the saunas-equipped luxury Boeing 707 piloted from Costa Rica last week by Vesco's former pilot as part of an elaborate repossession scheme by disgruntled stockholders of Fairfield General Corp., a bankrupt subsidiary of ICC. In an unnoted ruling last week in Newark, N.J., tax court Judge William M. Fay said Vesco was entitled to the extra details.

Senate OK's easing clean air rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Tuesday voted to temporarily ease clean air standards as part of the national campaign to conserve energy. The bill also would delay for two years — from Dec. 31, 1975 — the effective date for auto manufacturers to reach prescribed emission standards. The legislation was routinely approved by voice vote and sent to conference with a much more far-reaching House bill. The provisions of the bill are similar to those contained in the energy-energy act which was vetoed by President Nixon because he objected to other parts of the measure. The bill would temporarily suspend clean air standards and allow conversion to the use of coal if other types of fuel are not available. Conversion to coal would be prohibited, however, in areas where clean air quality standards are now exceeded or would be exceeded by conversion.

Mideast peace bid snags in Damascus

DAMASCUS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said he failed to reach agreement today with Syrian President Hafez Assad on an Israeli-Syrian troop disengagement plan but that his shuttle diplomacy would continue. "No agreement was reached," Kissinger told newsmen at Damascus airport before flying back to Tel Aviv. "I am returning to Israel now to bring to the government some further Syrian thoughts and I expect to return to Syria tomorrow (Wednesday)." "We made further progress in refining the issues," Kissinger said in response to a question about whether progress had been made in more than four hours of talks with Assad. Kissinger spoke to newsmen just before leaving Damascus airport at 8:10 p.m. (8:10 a.m. MDT) on the hour's flight to Tel Aviv. "The president and I had further very extensive talks in the most cordial atmosphere," he said. "We continued to review a possible disengagement agreement, further refining the various ideas we had before us."

Kissinger's announcement that he would make another shuttle back to Damascus Wednesday indicated he still had hopes of getting a troop separation agreement on the embattled Golan Heights front during his current trip. His talk of "further progress in refining the issues" implied he was engaged in discussing details of the withdrawal agreement. A high official traveling with Kissinger said the secretary would know later tonight or Wednesday morning the outcome of his longest and most complicated mission to the Middle East. Kissinger met Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam at the Damascus airport early this afternoon after a 65-minute flight from Israel. The secretary of state then left the airport for a government guest house to prepare for crucial talks with President Hafez Assad. The trip came as sharply conflicting reports appeared in the Israeli and Arab press about the success of Kissinger's fifth Middle East peace mission.

Housing expense scored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House committee gave overwhelming approval today to a report endorsing the Secret Service and the General Services Administration (GSA) for spending $7.1 million on private residences owned or used by President Nixon. The final report approved by the Government Operations Committee concluded a year-long investigation stopping short of direct criticism of the Nixon administration. The report covered spending of public funds on Nixon's estates at San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla., as well as a residence used by his daughter Julie in Maryland and one he uses in the Bahamas, owned by his friend Robert Abplanalp. The committee approved the report — with 36 members in favor and two abstaining — after a brief debate over how much of the $7.1 million was actually spent improving the homes. The report included a recommendation that such government expenditures be limited only to the private residence of a president.

Security unit formed

BONN (UPI) — The West German caretaker government today created a commission to prevent a recurrence of the espionage scandal that forced former Chancellor Willy Brandt out of office, a government spokesman said. The spokesman said that the commission "will examine all aspects of preventive security in connection with the Guillaume affair." The caretaker cabinet met under acting Chancellor and Foreign Minister Walter Scheel, who is up for election as president on Wednesday, succeeding Gustav Heinemann. The commission was formed to assess the situation and work out proposals aimed at improving preventive security in connection with the Guillaume affair.

MVMH board increases fees on some services

By CRICKET BIRD, Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Board agreed Monday night to raise the cost of certain medical services at the Twin Falls facility, beginning Wednesday. The unanimous action came as board members sought to find money to grant a five per cent pay raise to hospital personnel. Hospital officials estimate the increase will amount to $100,000 a year. Departments affected include physical therapy, the pharmacy and laboratory and central services. The price of a hospital room will not change, however. A total of 351 full-time and 65 part-time employees will get the salary increases, according to hospital administrator James Rosenbaum. All hospital personnel except the medical staff are included. Employees will receive the pay increase starting July 1. They received a salary hike of about four per cent the first of this year, according to Rosenbaum.

Some of the services affected have not gone up in cost for three years, and will have been at least a year without a rate increase, Rosenbaum said. Rosenbaum told the board at its monthly meeting the wage hike would not in any way catch up with the cost of living, but said it was a necessary effort to recognize the hospital employees' need for higher pay. The expiration of wage-price controls for hospitals at the end of April made the wage increase possible by thawing service rates. Rosenbaum told the board emphatically he would not interfere at the end of June with a license to increase hospital rates. "We will experience some increase in rate but we will make every effort to hold down the costs," he said. The hospital board also adopted the recommendation of the Administration and the Salary and Revenue Committee to adopt a merit system program for employee salary increases beginning Jan. 1, 1975. ## Strike trouble erupts in East

By United Press International
Independent truckers virtually ignored Monday the call for a second nationwide drivers' strike in three months to force a rollback in fuel prices and an increase in the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit.

But in Pennsylvania, regarded as the focal point of the truckers' protest, strike-related violence spread.

Strike organizers said truck traffic was "down approximately 50 percent" in Utah and about 80 percent effective in Montana and Colorado, but elsewhere across the country the situation was reported normal. Utah State Police said the strike had a significant effect in the state.

In Pennsylvania, truck traffic was reported normal, but incidents of violence were increasing despite warnings from Gov. Milton Shapp who helped settle a two-week walkout in early February.

A sniper on a bridge over the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Brezewood fired a bullet through the windshield of a State Police car Monday, missing Trooper Donald Caldwell, who also brought the vehicle to a safe halt.

Club serves luncheon

BUHL — The Cedar Draw Continually Club served its annual Mother's Day luncheon Monday at the Grange Hall.

About 40 members and guests were welcomed by Dixie Hendrix, president. Roll call was answered by each member introducing her guest.

The program included a flute solo by Debbie Ciele, accompanied on the piano by Mark Hunt, a number by a quartet made up of Debbie Ciele, Debbie Ciele, Chuck Sallquist and Mark Hunt, who also provided a piano accompaniment; a trumpet solo by Denise Rinderson accompanied on the piano by Debbie Ciele; a reading by Helen Hendrix; several auto harp numbers played by Maxine Wright; a reading by Robin Ciele.

Memorial rite slated

BOISE (UPI) — A memorial service will be scheduled sometime in the next two weeks for the Rev. Norman E. Foote, Sr., retired Episcopal Bishop of Idaho, who died unexpectedly Sunday night in a Cascade hospital after a long illness.

The Rev. Hanford L. King Jr., president of diocese synod, said Bishop Foote had directed that he be cremated and public service be held at the home.

Bishop Foote retired Feb. 14, 1972, after serving 15 years as Bishop of Idaho. He was ordained to the diaconate in May, 1940, and to the priesthood in December, 1940.

Prior to coming to Idaho, Bishop Foote served in Montana and Missouri.

Auto theft charge filed

TWIN FALLS — A Kimberly man arrested on a charge of grand larceny was due to be arraigned today in Fifth District Court.

Franklin Eugene Lundy, 24, was arrested Monday by Twin Falls Sheriff C. C. Chubb in connection with the May 8 theft of a car belonging to James Bean, Kimberly. The car was recovered near Cottonwood Creek in the South Hills when a deputy spotted it from a plane.

In a second case, a Filer man reported Monday that his car had been stolen from a church parking lot. Richard Edwards told officers his white 1968 Pontiac GTO was stolen Monday afternoon from the parking lot of the First Methodist Church.

Chamber meeting

New Buhl road work doubtful

BUHL — The Buhl Highway district directors are not promising any new road construction this year. "We'll just repair the holes in present roads as far as the money goes and if there's any left, perhaps of a few more miles," Bill Kinyon, Castelford, chairman of the highway district board, told Buhl Chamber of Commerce members Monday noon. He was introduced by State Rep. Bill Roberts, R-Buhl, who said the fuel scarcity earlier this year had cut into the funds available for highway districts from the motor user refund. He said at the end of February the state had $900,000 less from this source than a year ago, but by the end of April the difference had been narrowed to within $100,000 of the amount on hand in 1973. Kinyon said "Things are looking up," despite this earlier situation. He said $20,000 of county revenue sharing funds have been earmarked for the Buhl area and the Buhl district plans calling for bids about July 1 on the new Clear Lakes grade for the 2.31 miles planned for construction. Work would begin this fall. Kinyon said 100 miles of the 29 miles of road in the Buhl Highway District are oiled, and reiterated "We just can't possibly promise anything" on road improvement this year. During the question period at the luncheon at the R and R Cafe, Kinyon reported a preliminary study made several years on the possibility of building a road across Salmon Falls Creek had indicated three possible crossings with the location about six miles west of Buhl near the sanitary landfill the most expensive. The site is now posted for dumping of dirt and rocks to start filling the canyon which is an estimated one-half mile in width. Maurice Salquist, chamber member, questioned the feasibility of destroying the beauty of the canyon with no present plans for any possible road construction. Chamber members pointed out the construction of a more direct farm-to-market road from the Blue Gulch and Bell Rapids projects to the Buhl area would be an economic asset to the entire Buhl/Twin Falls area. Kinyon said an engineering firm had made a complete study of such a project, in cooperation with Buhl, Gooding County and Twin Falls County highway districts. He also said petitions had been circulated at one time by residents in the farmland west of Salmon Falls Creek to get the area from the jurisdiction of the Twin Falls Highway District into the Buhl district, but no decision was ever reached.

Senate post sought

BUHL — Ray Stricklan, 42, who made an unsuccessful run as a Democrat for the state Senate two years ago, said Monday he would try again this fall.

Stricklan said he would run against Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, who defeated him two years ago.

Stricklan said he would oppose Barker because it is "only proper there be more than one candidate on the ballot." Stricklan said Barker had done "better" during the 1973 and 1974 legislative sessions than he had in earlier terms because of the opposition he had faced in 1972.

"I think that it's because he ran last time that he watches his p's and q's," he said.

Barker won re-election in 1972 over Stricklan with 89 percent of the vote, tallying 5,252 votes to Stricklan's 2,317.

Stricklan will run in Legislative District 24, which includes the western portion of Twin Falls County, excluding the Bell Rapids portion of the county.

Concert tonight

BUHL — There will be a Pop Concert at Buhl High School tonight beginning at 7:30 featuring a number of musical groups.

The concert will be in the high school auditorium, and will include the concert band, mixed chorus, girls' chorus and stage band, as well as soloists and other small combinations.

'Seniors' confab slated in TF

TWIN FALLS — A two-day program for Idaho senior citizens will be held Thursday and Friday at the College of Southern Idaho.

An arts festival, a conference on aging, a congressional hearing and a state-wide talent show are included on the agenda.

The events are being sponsored by the Idaho Office on Aging, the Idaho Commission on the Arts, Boise State University, CSI and various senior citizen groups and programs throughout the state.

Some of Idaho's top public officials will address the participants. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho will be the keynote speaker for the morning session of the Conference on Aging scheduled for Friday.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus will be the closing speaker for the conference and chair the presentations from workshops to be held earlier in the day. Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, will be the luncheon speaker. A field hearing by the US Senate Special Committee on Aging, chaired by Sen. Church, is scheduled for 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Thursday in the Fine Arts Building. The hearing committee will take testimony from local witnesses on the Social Security system.

Friday's Conference on Aging will involve participants in workshops on topics including nutrition, health, transportation, information and referral, employment, the bicentennial, legal services and the legislature. Area legislators Sen. John M. Barker, Rep. William Roberts, both Buhl; Republicans Sen.

Robert Sarvik, D-Burley and Rep. W. Israel Merrill, D-Blackfoot, will be panel members for the legislative workshop. The workshops are intended to give "older Americans" an opportunity to express their views and concerns in various fields. Professionals in various fields will make up the workshop panels.

Position updated

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls League of Women Voters (LWV) has "updated" its position of development of the Snake River canyon.

The League "urges" retention of the canyon as a "natural attraction" and supports land-use planning in the area, according to President Ingrid Stroppe.

Emphasis should be placed on providing for the future recreational needs of county citizens and tourists," Stroppe said, including purchase of private lands, securing public access, open space zoning of public lands and "assuring maintenance" of public lands.

Development should be "discouraged" in the canyon area because of geological and scenic factors," Stroppe said.

She also asked that environmental impact statements be required "on all developments in or near the canyon area" because of "geology, water quality and other ecological concerns."

Urging a "safeguard" of the canyon's "historical heritage," the League supports "efforts to restore and protect historical landmarks in and near the canyon and the preservation of historical information" about the area.

Paving bid opening set June 3

TWIN FALLS — Bids will be opened June 3 for the paving of a new parking at the old county hospital building.

The county has completed removal of grass and trees and preparation of space for parking of additional vehicles in front of the old hospital and old nursing home. Employees in the two buildings as well as customers of agencies occupying the buildings have had difficulty in the past few years finding adequate parking space.

Last week the county opened bids for fill dirt to complete the parking lot grade and also fill for a new roadway being built just west of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. When this is completed, the area will be paved, and because the cost of paving is expected to exceed $2,500 the county will ask for bids.

Ray Lincoln will be missed

Ray Lincoln's death is a great loss to his countless friends and the Idaho Legislature. Rep. Lincoln rose to wield great influence in the Idaho House of Representatives where he served with distinction for 10 years. He served as chairman of the House Local Government Committee for six years where he directed the course of much important legislation. Beyond that post, however, he became the "unofficial whip" of the House, working endlessly and effectively to mold working majorities for positions he supported. His secret lay in his ability to work with people, to sway fellow-legislators to his viewpoint. His greatest strength was his unrivaled sense of humor. Again and again with a twinkle in his eye he would rise on the floor of the House to prick some politician's balloon-like rhetoric. Unlike the reception given lesser men in that windy chamber, when Ray rose to speak everyone listened. However, Ray did more than carve up his foes with his wit. Often he could break a deadlock or release pent-up frustrations of overtired legislators with a few choice words. Lincoln was a solid legislator, a Republican whose position on the issues could not be predicted. He generally was a fiscal conservative and a moderate on social issues. Even so, his vote seldom was taken for granted. He enjoyed his work. He served well. He was a fine human being who will be missed.

Anniversary thoughts

WASHINGTON — We are coming up now on the 20th anniversary of Brown v. Board of Education. Perhaps this white, middle-aged Southerner may be permitted a few anniversary thoughts. In terms of its impact on our people and our institutions, the Supreme Court's unanimous opinion of May 17, 1954, was the most important that can be made, indeed that Brown had even greater social and political impact than the Dred Scott case a century before. And, ironically, Brown remains to this day bad law. In a single stroke that morning in May, the Court struck down the segregated schools of 17 states. Chief Justice Warren's opinion paved the way, and it created the strong foundation, on which an entire new structure of law could be built. After Brown, the deluge: civil rights, voting rights, public accommodations, equal opportunity. As a matter of jurisprudence, Brown still seems to me wrong-in-essence, the Court looked at the institution of school segregation and said: This is immoral, therefore it is unconstitutional. It was a monstrous non-sequitur. The palpable fact is that when the sun rose on the morning of May 17, 1954, segregated schools were constitutional for 86 years. Courts repeatedly had said so. The evidence is overwhelming that the 39th Congress never on earth intended the Fourteenth Amendment to prohibit the states from operating racially separate institutions. The United States Congress itself saw nothing unconstitutional in the segregated schools of the District of Columbia. But when the sun set, the Constitution had changed. Bad law breeds bad law. The teaching of Brown was that students could not be assigned to public institutions solely by reason of race. But in subsequent cases, having to do with racial balance housing the court stood that principle on its head. The court now approves the assignment of children solely because of their race. The contradiction has yet to be resolved. Other judges, building their own bizarre constructions on Brown, have further distorted the law. Last January a federal district judge in New York, Jack B. Weinstein, found that the Constitution commands desegregation of the Mark Twain Junior High School in Coney Island. The school, which was 81 per cent white in 1962, had changed to 18 per cent white in 1973 largely as a consequence of changes in residential patterns.

JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Judge Weinstein conceded there was no segregative design on the part of public officials. What happened was that white families moved away, and black and Puerto Rican families moved in. The judge has ordered the city, the state and the federal government to "desegregate" the district with white child-bearing families. At whatever cost in money and in social upheaval, Judge Weinstein proposes to compel the reordering of an entire community, to change the racial balance of a single school. But if questions of jurisprudence can be put to one side, the road from Warren to Weinstein has proved a good road. Oliver Brown, Harry Briggs, Dorothy E. Davis, and other plaintiffs could not have known what a lasting contribution they would make toward a better life for their people. Giving full account to the tensions, the hardships, and the new abuses that have been created in uprooting the old way, it has to be said that this way is better. It is not perfect, it is better. A long plea of guilty to unbecoming conduct

WASHINGTON — Perhaps the most remarkable thing about the 1,254 pages of the White House-Watergate transcript is that Richard Nixon in effect has pleaded guilty — in a number of instances — to conduct unbecoming in a President. That is the only conclusion that can be drawn from utterances made by Nixon himself and recorded on the notorious White House tapes of which the transcript delivered to the House Judiciary Committee is a censored compilation. One has only to quote from the transcript to support the conclusion. On the subject of blackmail demands from one of the Watergate burglars, Nixon told White House Counsel John Dean on March 21, 1973, that "you have no choice but to come up with the $20,000." On at least seven occasions, Nixon discussed various ways by which as much as $1 million could be paid to the burglars "without running the risk of having the payments traced to the White House."

"We could get that," Nixon told Dean when Dean said "these people are going to cost a million dollars over the next two years." Nixon added: "You could get a million dollars. You could get it in cash... But the question is who the hell would handle it?"

ANDREW TULLY

Replied Dean, "Well, they have priests in it." In Nixon's own words, the purpose of the payments to the burglars would be "to keep the cap off the bottle," to "buy time." Less than 12 hours after that discussion, Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr. received $75,000 in cash, keeping the cap on that bottle and incidentally resulting in obstruction of justice indictments against seven of the President's official top staff March 1. "On granting clemency to Hunt — You don't do it politically until after the '74 elections that's for sure," Nixon told Dean. "The only thing we could do with him would be to parole him. Parole, in appearance, etc. is something I think in Hunt's case you could do..." Later during the conference, Nixon said to Dean, "That's why for your immediate thing you have an order to come up with the $120,000, or whatever it is, right?" There was also a suggestion by Dean that a new grand jury be convened which would be controlled by the White House. Nixon noted that such a procedure would affect the Amendment protection for White House witnesses. It does not seem harsh to recall that, as an investigative Congressman, Richard Nixon denounced use of the Fifth Amendment by Congressional witnesses as "un-American." Nixon took part in a discussion about using a national security argument to prevent any testimony before a grand jury regarding the White House sponsored break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. According to the transcript, the object was to prevent the grand jury from learning that White House aide Egil Krogh had perjured himself when he falsely testified he had not known the Cuban-Americans who broke into the Watergate and the psychiatrist's office. Some President John F. Kennedy. Some champion of the "work ethic." The conduct to which Richard Nixon has pleaded guilty may not be grounds for impeachment in this case, but it is a sad commentary on the quality of the nation's chief law enforcement officer that never once did the President of the United States make even a passing reference to the difference between right and wrong.

Protectionism and sweatshops

Wall Street Journal

A recent report by the Industrial Bank of Japan indicates that it will soon be easier to produce radio and television sets in Japan than in the United States. Whereas in 1970, the comparative unit cost was almost 20 per cent higher in the US, in 1975 it is expected to be 2 per cent higher in Japan. What a difference time can make. Only a short while ago many Americans were complaining about Japanese radios and TVs flooding US markets. Labor unions demanded protection from goods allegedly produced in Asian sweatshops. Congressmen warned of the adverse effects of growing foreign investment in America. Meanwhile, Japan's economic position worsened as higher oil prices cut sharply into its trade surplus. Even before that, large pay hikes and a spiraling inflation rate aggravated the nation's balance of payments problem by boosting the price of exports and making imports more attractive. In the above projections by the Industrial Bank of Japan, US production costs will have risen 13.9 per cent between 1970 and 1975, but Japanese production costs will have soared 43.8 per cent over that same period. Clearly, Japanese "sweatshops" exist only in the imagination of protectionists. Either that or workers in much of the world would gladly settle for minimum wages. At the bottom of this year Japanese wages averaged $435 per month. In direct and indirect benefits, this is less than workers in the US and West Germany earn, but it is higher than wages in such industrialized countries as Britain, France and Italy. Protectionists focus their arguments on jobs supposedly lost to foreign competition, and that was avoiding having to talk about the lower costs under choice in products, the competing of international bonds and other benefits that accompany free trade. As the Industrial Bank study shows, competitive advantages are seldom permanent in the face of free market forces. Japanese workers are living better today because of free trade and so are the customers for the products they have produced.

Executive branch mood discouragement, despair

(C) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — While President Nixon and his closest associates try to maintain a confident face on the future, evidence grows that the mood within the executive branch generally is one of discouragement and despair. The edited Watergate transcripts have prompted top administration officials to voice their dismay in private conversations. They remain publicly loyal to the President and tight-lipped about the tapes' contents. But away from the cameras and hotlines, they speak more frankly and fearfully.

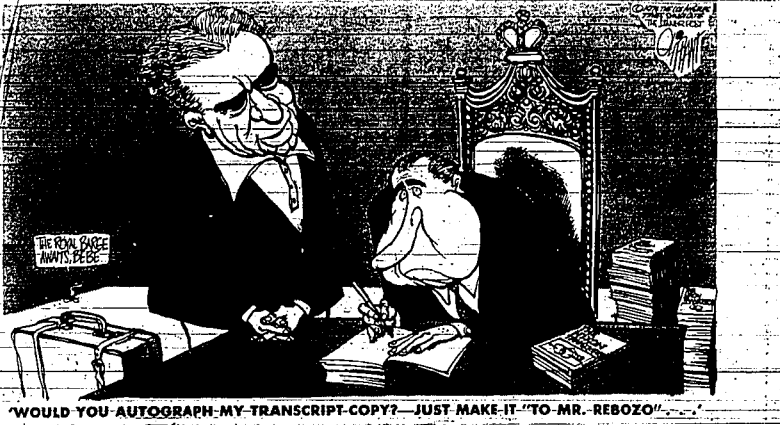

PETER LISAGOR

A cabinet officer, for example, observed the other day that the Nixon administration "is finished." He continued as if he had said nothing especially startling. He said he still believed Nixon will not be impeached, but the government he leads will rock along without creative impulse or forward motion, wholly without influence in the Congress. Another cabinet head privately told friends he was "thoroughly disgusted" with what the transcripts have revealed about the White House during the Haldeman-Brichman era. He also expressed sympathy for the President's chief of staff, Alexander Haig, "now off looking around, excuse my words."

The worst thing about it now," said one knowledgeable administration source, "is that nothing's moving. It's too busy defending the President to attend to the business of running the White House. So things just aren't running." It was not strictly true, Mrs. Nixon told some 60 members of the National Council of the Women's National Republican Club that she will win because we are right." And deputy press secretary Gerald Mason, responding to a reported comment by Sen. Barry Goldwater, Jr. in April, that Nixon would resign if he were impeached by the House to spare himself and the nation the agony of a Senate trial, said: "We have made it clear what the President's position is and there is no reconsideration. We don't believe the President will be impeached, and there is no reconsideration of his resignation." But the public stance of defiance and combativeness belies the deeper, private mood of depression and uncertainty among many executive branch officials, on top, middle and rank-and-file levels.

BERRY'S WORLD

Transcription evils require extreme measures

WASHINGTON — We know a lot about the presidential transcripts, but we still do not know much as to how they were transcribed. A friend of mine who was at the White House told me the story involved with getting out the 1,308 pages and 200,000 words in time for the President's speech on Tuesday night. This, according to him, is what happened. "We got the word on Friday that the President had decided to turn over transcripts of the tapes to the House Judiciary Committee and the call went out for 30 Secretaries who could type and listen to tapes at the same time." "So then what happened?" "We set up a room in the bottom of the White House with tape machines, typewriters, coffee and Danish." "We explained to the girls that they were part of history and what they typed on the weekend could make or break the President of the United States." "Wow, that must of really scared them," I said. "We told them that they would be locked in for the weekend and work eight-hour shifts. We had set up cots in John Dean's old office where they could catch up on sleep when they weren't working."

"Dean would have liked that," I said. "The first shift started typing at midnight on Friday. In the beginning the girls thought it would be a lark, but as they started listening to the tapes some of them went white. One girl said to me, 'This must be the wrong tape. Someone's cursing on it.' I told her it was the right tape and that the voice they heard was the President cursing." "She didn't believe me and thought I was joking so I made a speech to all the girls." "I told them they would be using a lot of foul language on the tapes, but these were code words used for national security reasons. I instructed them to type in an 'explosive detected' on an 'inadvisable' when they heard a bad word. Otherwise the Russians would be able to break our code."

"They did, but pretty soon it started to get to them. Several broke down and started to cry, so we had to send in new girls every half-hour. The language was too much for them." "By Saturday afternoon—the girls were refusing to type the transcripts and I was starting to worry. Then I got a brilliant idea if I must say so myself." "What did you do?" "I called up Hilary Graham and asked him if he would come right over. He did and I explained the problem to him. He understood and said he would help." "How?" "He gave absolution to all the girls transcribing the tapes. He also told them 'If God don't want a President to curse, He would have never created recording machines.'" (C) Los Angeles Times

ART BUCHWALD

Stillwater experience heartwarming but Nixon still on defensive

By NORMAN KEMPSTER
(c) Washington Star
WASHINGTON — President Nixon worked his way along the edge of a crowd of capped and gowned members of the class of '74 at Oklahoma State University, using his politician's two-handed handshake to touch as many as possible, beaming at calls of "Hail, in there."

It appeared to be a heart-warming experience for the embattled President. The hard-core demonstrators who once virtually closed college campuses to Nixon and his predecessor, James B. Johnson, were few in number and far from the visiting President.

A student gave Nixon the tasseled oil on a mortarboard as he moved down the line. Nixon looked at his newly acquired souvenir and said to one in particular, "I didn't steal it."

That remark added another chapter to the President's reputation for usually finding the wrong thing to do when idle chatter or small talk is in order.

But it may also have illustrated a larger point. Despite his frequently repeated determination to fight to remain in office even through the ordeal of an impeachment trial in the Senate, Nixon is on the defensive.

The President, it seems, feels it necessary to assure the public that, as he put it in November, "I am not a crook."

In spite of all his efforts, the calls for his resignation — chiefly from members of his own party — accelerated last week, coinciding with the formal start of the impeachment process by the House Judiciary Committee.

His family and his chief aides responded that he would never quit.

Talking to well-wishers who greeted him at Yonkers, Air Force Base, prior to his commencement address at Oklahoma State Saturday night, Nixon said, "I have that old Okie spirit, and I have it deep down inside — and we never give up."

Analysis

The President's daughter, Julie Eisenhower, quoted her father as saying he would continue to fight even if his support shrinks to a single Senator. That is probably hyperbole since it would take at least 34 votes in the Senate to avoid conviction in an impeachment trial, but it underlines Nixon's view on resignation.

Since January, when he launched the current phase of his campaign to keep his job, Nixon has been trying to take the offensive. But so far he has been unable to regain the initiative.

In a bold stroke intended to show he had nothing to hide, Nixon released 1,254 pages of censored transcripts of his Watergate conversation. It is too early to say whether the move will succeed or fail, but so far the results have been negative. Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, for example, said the transcripts reflected a "shabby, immoral" performance.

One part of the overall strategy that seems to be working out as planned calls for public appearances by Nixon to demonstrate that he still can draw enthusiastic crowds despite his low standing in the public opinion polls.

Nearly 30,000 people gathered in the Oklahoma State football stadium to listen to Nixon's speech and to watch the graduation ceremonies. The few hecklers were drowned out by cheers from the overwhelmingly friendly crowd.

University officials were successful in keeping most anti-Nixon demonstrators outside the stadium, beyond the President's sight or hearing. But if all those Nixon detractors had been permitted to join the audience, they would have been a small minority.

Some White House aides had been apprehensive about the President's first campus appearance in a year. Reports circulated in Nixon's traveling party that severe heckling might discourage other public appearances.

But from the President's standpoint the audience could scarcely have been better. No additional public appearances are on Nixon's announced schedule, but more speeches are likely to be arranged in the weeks ahead.

Subsidy editorial reaps reader view

Editor, Times-News:
I must not let another moment pass without a comment on your editorial on the newspaper dated May 7, 1974. I must say, I think your reasoning is illogical, your thinking unsound, and just exactly when did it become a crime to try and make a little money? Of course, I'm referring to your article on the amount of government subsidies paid to area farmers and ranchers. First of all, farmers are not becoming wealthy at the expense of the tax payers, if you were to ask any person or corporation who you were kind enough to put on your list, that government payment probably wouldn't even make a dent in their annual fuel bill.

If a person wishes to work 12 to 14 hours a day and then spend another several hours keeping records on his operation, and spend hours studying and researching to improve his management skills, just who am I to say that he isn't entitled minimum wages for his time and efforts? Another point to ask, how much of these subsidies comes when crop and livestock prices were such that there was no margin of profit. Of course, these things are also published by the Times News, only the column says "For sale — Farm Auction," and when this happens, the whole valley dies just a little.

The whole business community in Magic Valley depends on agriculture, your business as well as mine, so instead of knocking some one who is making a little money this year, why not wish them well and hope they do as well with the next crop.

I think I know what I'll do. I'll terminate my subscription to the Times-News until they get to be making too much money.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Moving important

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How could I gain back my arm muscles that have "gone to pot" due to arthritis? I am losing the ability to walk with crutches without extreme pain in the muscles in the thighs. I want to do this at home if possible.

Is there any hospital in my area that does treatment for this sort of problem? — Mrs. F. N.

This problem of muscular weakness from arthritis is a serious one.

It is not the arthritis as such which causes the weakness. It is the temptation, because of painful joints, to avoid exercise. The patient just doesn't want to move — and you can't blame him.

Just the same, it is important that the patient must move. Movement is the key to the "freezing" of a joint. It also prevents weakness of the muscles from disuse. These two facts are important to anyone with arthritis.

When, as in Mrs. F. N.'s situation, muscles have lost their tone, there is no quick way of bringing them back. But if it cannot be done quickly, it still should be done slowly.

Simple home treatment would consist of massage of the muscles, which would stimulate circulation and prepare the muscles for use. Heat in whatever form, whether a heating pad, hot bath or other method, would be helpful.

So is using the muscles as much as possible under the circumstances. It would not, in a case like that, be much, but every little bit would help. Just walking a few steps at a time would be worthwhile.

Any other simple method of using the weakened muscles also would help, and day by day more activity would gradually become possible.

Isometric exercises may help — that is, pulling or pushing against some resistance (the wall, a weight, whatever).

As to clinics or institutions, they are scattered all over the country, and most readers (most certainly including Mrs. F. N.) will be within some reasonable distance of one.

Your own doctor likely can direct you to one; if not, the various chapters of the Arthritis Foundation can provide such information. Trained massage and therapy to encourage use of the muscles is, of course, better than self-treatment at home, but even the simple home therapy I have outlined can be helpful.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If a person is short of breath does it mean they have a heart condition and should they see a doctor or get pills for it? — Mrs. J.

It can be an indication of heart disease, but shortness of breath also can indicate some ailment involving the lungs or respiratory system. So the answer is yes, see a doctor; don't wait and see whether the doctor finds something that pills will help, or whether some other treatment is called for.

Note to Mrs. G. S.: No, the various depilatories (hair removers) do not cause skin cancer, and your friend knows not whereof she speaks. Whatever brand you use, follow directions, because if not washed off at the proper time, skin irritation may result.

After his trip through the United States in 1817, French author Alexis de Tocqueville said, "Americans of all ages, all conditions and all dispositions constantly form associations. They have . . . associations of a thousand kinds, religious, moral, serious, futile, very diverse, very numerous, or diminutive. The Americans make associations to give entertainments, to found schools, to send missionaries to the antipodes."

Divorce ballot maces church

ROME (UPI) — A national referendum overwhelmingly endorsing divorce in Italy threatened today to smash the traditional Christian Democratic party and the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

Politicians said Premier Mariano Rumor was expected to announce following the vote but his Christian Democrats would likely delay the referendum as long as possible to shore up the party's position.

More than 23 million Italians voted by a 59.1 to 40.9 per cent margin Sunday and Monday to maintain divorce despite the opposition of the Vatican and the Christian Democrats.

The two-day referendum represented the first Christian Democratic loss at the polls, marked a possible end to the Vatican's traditional influence in Italian political affairs and put a severe strain on church-state relations.

Some politicians predicted the Christian Democrats, who dominated Italian politics since World War II, might be forced to "join" with the Communists to form a new coalition government.

Nearly all of Italy's political parties called meetings for this week to discuss the results of the Sunday-Vatican referendum — Italy's first since voting out the monarchy in 1946.

Pope Paul VI had called on Italian voters to repeal the divorce law, but the issue created sharp divisions in the church. Some church observers predicted a power struggle within the hierarchy following the defeat.

The vote also split Christian Democrats and political sources said party leader Amintore Fanfani, who set the referendum in motion, faced a fight to keep control.

"They lost," Socialist leader Pietro Nenni said after the referendum. "This is the fate of the church. This is the Christian Democratic loss at the polls."

The Christian Democrats tried to minimize the political impact of the defeat, but other parties raised the possibility of a change in church-state relations and an increase in Communist power.

Fanfani said the referendum contributed "to the work of allied democratic forces for the resolution of the political, economic and social problems of Italy."

Gurney's funding practices probed

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., spent more than six hours closed with a federal grand jury investigating his campaign financing practices Monday, but declined to comment on the session.

Gurney, a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, refused to say whether he had answered any of the grand jury's questions or whether he would appear before the grand jury again today.

John Gardner, Gurney's press aide, said in Washington he had talked to Gurney by phone after the grand jury appearance.

"We chatted with Jim but there was nothing substantive said about the testimony," said Gardner. He said the senator was "upset about the news leaks that he knows are going out and we don't want to contribute to them here."

He didn't jump

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — While Oliver Webb, 15, was perched on a freeway overpass Monday threatening to jump, eight policemen were trying to talk him out of it, police said.

Highway Patrolman Joseph Wier, 24, climbed out on the chain link fence enclosing the overpass, and was making his way across it to Webb, when he slipped, catching a ring on the fence. The slip wrenched the ring finger off the patrolman's left hand.

Wier was taken to Orthopaedic Hospital for treatment. Webb did not jump.

Budget request 'too fat'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon budget request for next fiscal year is at least $11 billion too fat, according to a group of former defense officials who charged Monday that the figures are deliberately inflated to cope with a recession.

The group, led by former assistant defense secretary Paul C. Warnke, said $14.9 billion worth of items that could be removed without weakening U.S. defenses to achieve the $11 billion cut.

Warnke and two colleagues, former deputy assistant defense secretary Morton Halperin and former arms control agency director Adrian Fisher, said high on the list is $2.3 billion for improved nuclear weapons and $1.4 billion for aid to South Vietnam.

Warnke told a news conference that the administration had deliberately raised the 1975 Pentagon budget by $6 billion as a pump-priming to cope with an expected recession. He cited statements to that effect by Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger before the House appropriations defense subcommittee in February.

The Pentagon briefly disputed the accuracy of Warnke's citation, but a transcript of Schlesinger's testimony, supplied by the committee, showed he acknowledged the Pentagon had been "prepared to go in for a request on the order of $85 billion" before the inflation factor was added.

The actual budget request for 1975 totals $91.3 billion, about $6.3 billion higher than in addition the Pentagon asked $6.6 billion in a separate request in 1974 appropriations, that Warnke contended should be charged to the 1975 budget.

The 21-member panel, composed mainly of Kennedy and Johnson-era officials recommended cutbacks of elimination for projects including the Trident submarine, the B1 supersonic bomber, the "AWACS" air defense command plane and the Navy F14 fighter and its Phoenix air-to-air missile.

It also said reducing civilian and military payrolls could save $4 billion.

The largest employment group in the San Francisco Bay area is government, according to the Bank of America.

WH gifts unit houses jewelry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — First Lady Pat Nixon never had any intention of keeping jewelry presented to her and her daughters over the past five years by Saudi Arabian royalty, White House aides said today.

"They made the comment in response to questions about a report by a Washington Post columnist, Maxine Cheshire, who said that on the advice of White House counsel J. Fred Buzhardt — Mrs. Nixon removed several velvet jewel boxes from the wall safe of her bedroom last March 28 and sent them by messenger to the White House gifts unit in the Executive Office building."

According to Mrs. Cheshire, the jewels included a $27,000 matched set of emeralds and diamonds presented to President Nixon as a gift of his wife by Prince Fahd of Saudi Arabia during a visit to Washington on Oct. 14, 1969.

Mrs. Cheshire itemized other pieces of jewelry, including diamond and ruby earrings which came from King Faisal on his May 1971 state visit.

She said that at least a portion of the jewelry had gone unreported by the White House gifts unit for nearly two years until she began making inquiries several months ago.

"Mrs. Nixon never had any intention of keeping them," aides said, "she always meant for them to go to the National Archives."

"Mrs. Nixon is not the least jewel conscious, but she has every right to wear them during her tenure."

The aides said Mrs. Nixon had kept some of the jewels upstairs in the family quarters because of the "safety factor."

Judge raps behavior

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two spectators in a group yelling "Racist railroad!" and "Kangaroo court!" during the bank robbery trial of two black militants five months ago now have to write 1,500-word essays on proper courtroom behavior.

U.S. District Court Judge Hubert J. Ward Monday sentenced the two defendants, Natalie Rosenstein and Bart Labow, both 26, to write essays under the title "Appropriate Conduct of Defendants and Spectators to Avoid Prejudice and Assure a Fair Trial to All Persons." Concerned.

Ward gave them 15 days.

The disruption occurred Dec. 11 during the first day of testimony in the trial of the two charged "Black Liberation Army" members, Jonathan Carmichael and Fred Johnson, who were subsequently acquitted of the $3,700 bank holdup.

Doors close on file access

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court has made it difficult for any private citizen to get FBI files on any subject, an attorney for a man who sought information on the John F. Kennedy assassination said today.

"I see no hope of getting any records out of the FBI, including merely scientific ones," said Bernard Fensterwald Jr. after hearing that the court refused to review a lower court order allowing the FBI to keep the Kennedy files secret.

So far as the lawyer's case, Fensterwald represented Harold Weisberg of Frederick, Md., who has authored four books on the assassination.

Weisberg claims that the FBI purposely kept information from the Warren Commission, which studied the assassination, and that the commission's conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in Dallas is false or at least suspect.

Fensterwald argued in the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia that the Freedom of Information Act requires the FBI to make its 10-year-old files on the case public.

"I said the burden is on the FBI to show why the evidence should not be released, even though 'no prosecution is contemplated and disclosure would not harm the agency's enforcement law enforcement functions.'"

But the FBI argued that an exemption under the act applied on grounds the Kennedy files are part of "investigative files compiled for law enforcement purposes."

It submitted an affidavit by a special agent who said releasing the files would "interfere with the efficient operation of the FBI and with the proper discharge of its law enforcement responsibilities."

The affidavit did not say what harm giving up the files would cause, and Weisberg said disclosure might "show that the FBI deceived the Warren Commission and the public to what the results did in fact show."

Nation to keep 55 mph speed law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation will keep its speed limit at 55 m.p.h. because it saves lives, saves fuel and helps people remember that the energy shortage is "a permanent fact of life."

The Senate Monday voted 57-22 against a proposal that would have given state governments the option to raise highway speed limits from the 55 m.p.h. decreed during the energy crisis to 60 m.p.h.

"The Arab oil embargo is ended and America is not facing the severe crisis" any longer, said Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., who introduced the proposal. "Those who live in Kansas and other less-urbanized areas must frequently travel long distances, for personal and other travel."

Anti-pressure drive continues

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The administration campaign against pressure for President Nixon's resignation continued today after two top officials reiterated his intention to stay in office.

"It's a difficult period — there's no question about that," one key White House aide, declining to be identified, said today. "But this attitude is one of determination ... he feels it is essential to fight this."

Another official, Kenneth R. Cole Jr., chief adviser to the president for domestic affairs, acknowledged that he had begun holding special policy meetings with Vice President Gerald R. Ford and that the next conference would be held today.

But Cole insisted that the new arrangement was not designed to prepare Ford to become president, and Cole said he saw no reason for Nixon to resign.

"I think it would be an absolute disaster if he resigned," he told a news conference Monday. "I think it would be a mistake for the country and a mistake for him."

Cole spoke to reporters shortly after Caspar W. Weinberger, secretary of health, education and welfare, came out of a meeting with Nixon saying he had urged the president not to step aside and that he had been assured, "don't worry, there's no chance of that whatever."

The orchestrated campaign at the White House began last week after several leading Republicans in Congress called on Nixon to step down.

suggested that he give it serious thought and as the House Judiciary Committee began reviewing evidence for its impeachment inquiry.

In recent days Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan, Housing Secretary James T. Lynn and Official White House press spokesman have made pointed attempts to deny any plans for Nixon's resignation and to defend his policy during the Watergate cover-up as outlined in transcripts of his tape recorded conversations.

Cole said his weekly conferences with Ford began several weeks ago at the vice president's request. Previously, he said, his staff and Ford's used to get together when the need arose.

Cole attached little significance to the change. "We tried one way of doing business and it just wasn't working as well as we had hoped," he said.

Rites scheduled

LISBON (UPI)—Gen. Antonio de Spínola will be installed as Portugal's president on Wednesday, a spokesman for the ruling military junta said today.

The spokesman said Prof. Adelino Palma Carlos will be present at the installation of Spínola, head of the junta that seized power on April 25. Carlos' presence appeared to confirm unofficial reports that the 63-year-old nonparty liberal law professor would be named prime minister.

The spokesman gave no indication who would be included in the new cabinet. "It has been formed, but I am not authorized to reveal the names," he said.

Immunity implied, Reinecke testifies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Under cross-examination, California Gov. Ed Reinecke testified Monday that a government promise he would not be prosecuted was actually only an implication.

Reinecke, who is running for the GOP nomination for governor, is charged with lying to the Senate Judiciary Committee about conversations he had with former Attorney General John N. Mitchell about an International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. offer to help finance the 1972 GOP convention in San Diego, Calif.

He asked U.S. District Court Judge Barrington Parker to dismiss the indictment because the evidence was given in the "good faith" belief that it would not be used against him.

Reinecke said special Watergate prosecution lawyers had "certainly implied" he would be offered immunity, and for that reason he and his lawyer, Frank Pagliaro Jr., cooperated fully.

Pagliaro said the prosecutors told him "they would be willing to trade an indictment in return for his cooperation." Under cross examination, he said the prosecutors had only promised to "consider" immunity.

The government prosecutors denied they ever made a promise to that effect, as Reinecke had claimed previously.

But Reinecke and Pagliaro said they did not realize that he might become a defendant until about halfway through his Feb. 4 grand jury testimony.

Asked why he had not brought up the alleged agreement with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, Pagliaro said he thought it might hurt Reinecke if he "called foul" at an early stage.

"I believed that I was dealing with fellow members of the bar," with honorable men, and my client and I were in a very tough situation," Pagliaro said.

Vandals' victim again

Tombstone trouble persists

GLENGWOOD SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI)—Gun fighter P. H. "Doc" Holliday still knows no peace. Someone keeps pushing over his tombstone.

Officials have been re-excavating Holliday's tombstone several times a year since it was placed on the grave in 1968.

"It's just meanness," Garfield County undersheriff Robert Hart said Monday. "We don't know whose responsible for knocking it over, but we do know that a lot of kids have been going up to the cemetery on motorcycles to just sit around and drink whiskey and beer."

Holliday, a dentist, was buried in the Linwood Cemetery in 1887 after he died of tuberculosis. A community group collected funds in 1968 to build a grave marker which bears the gunfighter's birth and death dates and the epithet "He died in bed."

Hart said the sheriff's department makes routine patrols of the grave site, but because the cemetery is in a remote section of town, vandals can frequent the area without being seen.

"I just can't understand why they do it," he said. "They go up there with those motorcycles and four-wheel drive vehicles and just get into mischief."

"If you don't see 'em do it, you sure as hell can't pinpoint anyone to charge," Hart said.

Roy Rainey, Glenwood Springs city manager, said his office was attempting to get a two-cent sales tax approved to provide additional funds for the upkeep of the 100-year-old cemetery.

"If we can get this extra money from the voters, we'll be able to put a fence around the cemetery and hopefully that'll keep the vandals out," he said. "We've got to do something about this problem."

In 1948, Michael won the neighborhood Soap Box Derby. He's been hungering for a roadster ever since.

It was the thrill of a 12-year-old lifetime. Strutting across the finish line ahead of the other neighborhood kids in a homemade racer. Forever after, Michael had visions of his very own sports car. Even at 55 miles per hour.

Finally, one day he walked into The Bank & Trust instalment loan department and explained that recurring dream. Instead of the lecture he expected about "sensible transportation," he got his man. In a few days, he was buzzing around the Magic Valley in a bright red, needle-nosed roadster... in third gear most of the time, but enjoying it just the same.

That's how we do things at The Bank & Trust. We don't make loans according to a stiff corporate policy. We're independent loan to own people, and we know our neighbors need money for a lot of different reasons. We're willing to listen to all of them. Chances are, if your reasons make sense to you, they'll make sense to us.

Next time you need money for any worthwhile purpose, see an instalment loan officer at The Bank & Trust. You'll get a sympathetic ear. And a quick answer.

Follow prescribed path, Democrat leaders advise

(c) Washington Star-News. WASHINGTON — Top Democratic leaders in Congress spoke out Monday against demands for President Nixon's resignation and urged the Congress to proceed instead with the impeachment process spelled out in the constitution.

"Resignation is not the answer," said Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield. "It's time to keep cool, the expression, I believe, is 'cool it.'" Mansfield told his Senate colleagues.

Senate Majority Whip Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., told the Senate he feared "the impact on our constitutional system" if the President is forced to proceed "because of the Watergate scandal."

"A significant portion of the citizens would feel the president had been driven from office by his political enemies. It would polarize the nation," Byrd said.

majority leader said. He continued: "Cries for resignation can echo and res-echo, but the only one who can make that decision is the President himself."

Mansfield expressed hope, however, that the White House would turn over to the House Judiciary Committee the actual tape recordings of White House conversations of that committee "in seeking, rather than the edited transcripts already provided. With the unpurged tapes, he said, Congress would have the evidence necessary to make a decision on impeachment and get Watergate behind us."

The Senate's assistant Republican leader, Sen. Robert F. Griffin, of Michigan, declined to be drawn into a public discussion of whether Nixon should resign, saying any advice he may have on the subject would be offered in private.

Asked whether he believed Nixon should resign because of the Watergate scandal, Griffin replied: "If I had any thoughts along that line, I certainly wouldn't make a public statement. I would advise the President of my feelings in private."

Griffin said he had no plans to talk with the President this week on resignation or any other subject.

Asked if he thought it would be better for the country for Nixon to resign or to undergo the impeachment process, Albert said he believed it was better "for the constitutional process to run its course."

"I have never suggested the president should resign," the speaker said. "I don't believe he will."

Mansfield warned Senators' assumptions about the likelihood of a house vote to impeach the President.

"None of us should be anticipatory as to what the House will do because none of us will know until the House reaches its decision," the

Erasure reports pending

(c) Washington Star-News. WASHINGTON — The report on the partially erased Watergate tape will be made public in about two weeks, US District Judge John J. Sirica said Monday.

Sirica also told reporters that once the official report on the famed 18½-minute gap is filed, the White House will be free to make public the findings of a consultant it hired to evaluate the report of the official panel of experts.

Sirica's announcement came after a two-hour meeting with representatives of the White House, the Watergate special prosecutor's office, presidential secretary Richard May Woods, a former presidential assistant, H. R. Haldeman, the official panel and the White House consultant, Dr. Michael Hecker of the Stanford Research Institute.

The report will be the second by the six-man official panel. The first, which was submitted on Jan. 15, and concluded that the June 20, 1972, conversation between President Nixon and Haldeman had been partially erased by "a series of manual maneuvers." The erase obliterated all conversations on that tape about Watergate.

Sirica had no comment today on reports that the second, more detailed report, confirms the findings of the first.

The judge said the experts are now in the process of having their final report printed, and it will be submitted to him "in approximately two weeks." He said he would then place the report in the public record.

Fire proper
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The chairman of the Republican Governors Conference said Monday President Nixon should have destroyed the controversial tapes of private White House conversations.

Gov. Winfield Dunn of Tennessee, in an interview on radio station WSM, said he is opposed to any obstruction of justice, but he said the transcripts of the tapes do not reveal any law violations or impeachable offenses.

"It would have been better if they had been destroyed in the beginning," Dunn said. "I would have saved us a great deal of heartaches."

The GOP chief executive said he realized some criminal evidence may have been destroyed along with the tapes but "they were his own tapes" and turning them over to the authorities "seems to me like getting someone to testify against themselves."

Hysteria draws blame

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The sudden illness of 39 children at an elementary school Monday was blamed by a county health official on "mass hysteria."

The children were rehearsing a musical play when Lisa Edney, 11, fainted. Within minutes, 39 children were ill.

All 450 students at the school were quickly evacuated as police and fire units rushed to the scene. Eight of the children were hospitalized.

Gas fumes were first suspected but rescue workers could find no leaking gas.

Tapes; Nixon men view Congress

By DONALD SMITH
Congressional Quarterly
WASHINGTON D. C. — Among other remarkable aspects of the Watergate transcripts, they are giving members of Congress an unusual opportunity to see themselves as they were seen by Richard Nixon and his top advisers during the burgeoning Watergate scandal.

As senators and representatives leaf through their blue paperback copies of the transcripts of tape-recorded White House conversations—some looking at them for the second and third times—their reactions to the derivative remarks leveled by the Nixon team toward Capitol Hill are ranging from knowing nods to outbursts of rage.

At one point Nixon called Congress "irrelevant" and "irresponsible," and at another time H. R. Haldeman—then Nixon's chief of staff—said of House Speaker Carl Albert D-Okla., "Well, (expletive deleted) the Speaker of the House." Albert is the third man in line of succession to the presidency.

CBS News has reported that one of the deleted sections of the transcript has John Dean III, then Nixon's counsel, calling Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., a "sniveling paranoiac."

"I wasn't startled by the language," Sen. Howard H. Baker, Jr., R-Tenn., told Congressional Quarterly. "Most of us have been up there

(at the White House) at one time or another and we know that so, presidents are human and sometimes speak in hyperbole and tend to exaggerate. Lyndon Johnson could have deleted a few expletives himself."

Baker, vice chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, was characterized at one point by Nixon as having a "thick skull" and at another point as being "too smoothy."

"But Baker," said he wasn't surprised that the White House held Congress in low regard.

Some other members aren't taking so charitably a view. "I was surprised (by the language) and depressed to think that those people have controlled this country for the years they have and are still in control of it," said Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif., one of Nixon's chief critics on the House Judiciary Committee, which is considering impeachment charges against Nixon.

"But if there's any group of people whose opinion about Congress would not be valued by me, it's that shabby, sneaky group," said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who the transcripts show the White House believed to have been the moving force behind the Watergate committee hearings, called remarks about "him paranoiac."

In a Feb. 28, 1973 meeting, Dean told Nixon he was convinced that "Watergate committee chairman Sam Ervin of North Carolina) is merely a puppet for Kennedy to pull the strings. The fine hand of the Kennedys is behind the whole hearing. There is no doubt about it."

"Uh, huh," Nixon replied. "Yes, I guess the Kennedy crowd is just laying in the bushes waiting to make their move."

Toward the end of his first term, Nixon successfully had muted the opposition of the Democratic-controlled Congress on a series of key issues through his use of the veto to shape legislation. The President's 1972 landslide reelection bolstered his confidence that he could continue managing his opposition. "But Nixon appeared to view the Watergate issue as a vendetta that the Democrats were pressing for purely political reasons."

"(All) this business is a battle and they are going to wage the battle," Nixon told Dean during a Feb. 28, 1973, meeting. "A lot of them have enormous frustrations about these elections, state of their party, etc. And their party has its problems."

During an earlier meeting on Sept. 15, 1972, Nixon spoke of using "the power" of the FBI and the Justice Department to get revenge against those who were passing the Watergate issue.

"... It has to be done," Nixon said. "We have been (adjective deleted) fools for us to come into this election with regard to the Democratic senators who are running, etc. And who the hell are they after? They are after us. It is absolutely ridiculous. It is not going to be that way anymore."

In sizing up individual members of Congress, Nixon and his advisers were harsh on some Ervin "away from his staff is not very much," Dean told Nixon during a March 22, 1973, discussion on how to persuade Ervin to compromise on procedures for the pending hearings.

If the President could get Ervin away from Capitol Hill and into the White House to discuss the matter, "... I think he might just give up the store himself right there and lock himself in," Dean suggested.

Baker and Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., were considered loyalists on the Watergate committee—particularly Gurney—and Sen. Barry Goldwater at one point is depicted as preparing to make a speech, written by a White House staffer, opposing replied.

On April 17, Nixon, Haldeman and Ehrlichman assembled in an angry mood over their inability to control the course of the scandal. The talk turned to Weicker, who by that time had been making public statements damaging to the White House, and whether his congressional immunity during speeches on the Senate floor protected him against libel.

"He's covered," Nixon said. "Oh, he's not, not when he was on (ABC-TV's) Issues and Answers," said Ehrlichman.

"(Unintelligible) or using newspaper interviews," said Haldeman. "... It was not on the floor, he's too buzzy, stupid."

A few moments later Nixon ordered, "Good, good, good." The President's men subsequently decided against libel suits.

Idaho praised for case cuts

BOISE (UPI) — The Regional Director of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has commended the State of Idaho for its reduction in public assistance caseloads.

A letter from Regional Director Bernard E. Kelly, Seattle, commended Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and the Idaho Department of Environmental and Community Services for their achievements in the management of the public assistance caseload in Idaho.

Kelly said statistics released in February showed Idaho leading the nation for the percentage of reductions in aid for dependent children.

The state reduced the number of recipients by 18.3 per cent while reducing the amount of dollar payments by 19.1 per cent.

The "public assistance statistics — October 1973" data also showed the state increased its payment to eligible aid for dependent recipients from 80 to 90 per cent of the 1971 need, restoring cuts made by earlier administrative savings.

Roundup used illegal methods

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An official government report indicates some ranchers used illegal methods in the roundup of wild horses near Howe, Idaho, last year, according to the Washington Post.

The report, not yet made public, said some of the horses driven to the edge of a cliff during the roundup had their legs cut off with a chain saw and their heads slit.

A helicopter and snowmobiles were used to drive the horses toward an enclosure—roundup methods not allowed by law, according to the report.

At least a dozen horses and one colt were killed or died during the roundup, including five or six whose throats were slit and legs severed because their hooves had become stuck in the cliff's crevices. Many of the 50 to 60 horses captured during the roundup have died since.

These details are said to be included in the U.S. Forest Service and Interior Department's Bureau of Land Management official report of the roundup.

The field office of the Bureau of Land Management is reported to have given its full blessing to the January through February 1973 roundup.

The stated purpose of rounding up the horses and removing them from public lands in Idaho reportedly was to leave more grass for cattle and so ranchers could sell the captured horses for dog food.

Sawhill predicts shortage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Americans are careless with energy in the coming months, they could occasionally be without electricity this summer, according to Federal Energy chief John C. Sawhill.

Sawhill said Sunday the Federal Energy Administration is "staggering" the electricity situation right now, and that a shortage could be avoided if thermostats are turned up to 78 degrees in air-conditioned homes and offices.

"If we have an extremely hot summer and people don't respond to our request, then we might have some spot problems around the country," Sawhill said.

Servicemen

RUPERT — Airman 1C Kathleen S. Studer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Studer, Rupert, was named outstanding airman in her unit at Davis-Monthan AFB, Ariz.

June monsoon said key to Indian food situation

Experimental feed tropic ranch aid

CHEMUL, Mexico (UPI) — An experimental feed based on sugar cane that has been setting records in fattening beef cattle, could revolutionize cattle ranching in the tropics, a Mexican territorial governor said Sunday.

David Gustavo Gutierrez, governor of the territory of Quintana Roo on the Yucatan peninsula said the feed mixture, prepared mainly with ground sugar cane, molasses, and rice proteins, has been used in an experiment with several hundred steers.

The animals have gained an average of 500 pounds in six months, a gain that normally takes two and a half years.

Low cost and the elimination of grazing are two advantages of the feed, the governor said. Twenty animals — instead of the usual five — can be fed on the harvest of 41 acres of land, using the cane mixture.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The key to India's chances of avoiding a severe food shortage this year lies with the summer monsoon rains expected in early June, an Agriculture Department specialist says.

If the monsoon is poor, India's fall harvest may be skimpy and it could produce a 10 million to 15 million ton gap between grain production and the needs of its people, specialist Kenneth L. Murray said in a report published by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

"India would experience great difficulty in making up such a deficit from the world market," he warned.

Murray's report, compiled after an Indian tour, said the food situation from now through October does not appear alarming despite poor growing weather for spring-harvested crops and fertilizer and fuel shortages.

India's spring-harvested grain crops, which make up about a quarter of annual production, this year are expected to be down about 10 per cent from 1973. But they will be bigger than earlier pessimistic forecasts, and "well above the disaster level," Murray said. He reported the spring wheat crop is estimated at 23 million tons compared with 24.9 million tons last year.

The current spring crop and last year's fall harvest add up to a total 1973-74 food grain production of about 103 million tons. This is 5 million tons below the 1971-72 record, but would be 6 million tons bigger than the small 1972-73 crop, Murray said.

As a result, he said, India can probably meet its minimum food needs until late this year by importing about 4 million tons of grain before the important 1974 fall harvest begins in October.

Murray noted that India's continuing battle to feed its growing population has been hampered by the world energy shortage and skyrocketing fuel prices. At today's prices, he estimated that one year's import needs of petroleum would cost up India's entire $1.3 billion reserve of foreign exchange.

Shortages of fuel for irrigation pumps were responsible for part of the drop in spring wheat production this year — the report said. But fertilizer shortages due partly to the energy crunch also played a part.

Murray predicted India's fertilizer problem can be eased in three to four years. But the energy problem "is perhaps more acute and less soluble," he added.

Consumers demand economy meat cuts

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — The best cuts of meat have declined in price because supermarket shoppers are placing a bigger demand on economy cuts, an executive of the nation's beef industry said Thursday.

"The Cadillac" cut costs have declined because more Americans are becoming concerned and shop better with their food dollar," W. W. McMillan of the American National Cattlemen's Association told the second annual Texas Beef Conference in Amarillo, Texas.

"The (packers and stockyard) administration is attempting to determine basic policies on the cattle industry structure which they don't know about," he said. "We already have plenty of antitrust and other laws to deal with any anti-competitive situation which may arise — without adding another layer of costly, inefficient bureaucracy which will be unnecessary for the cattle industry operation."

McMillan said PSA proposals on bonding and registering of all cattle feeding operations and prohibition of dual ownership relationships between packers and custom feedlots do not protect consumers and instead force them to pay higher prices.

Pollutant cleanup creates fertilizer

BOISE — An engineering team has developed a process to remove a chemical pollutant from water and convert it to a fertilizer.

The developers from CH2M Hill developed a method to remove ammonia nitrogen from sewage plant waste water and convert it to ammonium sulfate, a commercial fertilizer widely used in agriculture and currently in short supply.

Patents are pending on the process, which holds promise of solving an important water-pollution problem, while recycling nitrogen to agricultural lands or directly into the food chain.

removed by conventional primary-secondary sewage treatment methods.

While technically classed as a nutrient, ammonia which is a form of nitrogen has a polluting effect in water. It can stimulate an algae and aquatic plant growth in the waters of streams and lakes into which sewage plant effluent is discharged. Under some conditions it is also toxic to fish.

The new process has been tested through a series of pilot studies, and is currently being prepared for use in two water reclamation plants — one in California and one in Virginia.

American families eating more fish

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans are eating more fish than at any time since the federal government started keeping records in 1909, according to figures released by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. The agency said 1973 statistics indicated the average U.S. resident ate 12.6 pounds of seafood in 1973, an increase of two per cent from the previous year.

NOAA said the increase can be attributed largely to a rise in consumption of fresh and frozen products, and to a lesser degree, to canned fishery products.

The agency said there were record U.S. harvests of anchovies, Pacific shrimp, surf clam meats and snow crabs in 1973. There were sharp declines in landings of yellowtail and Pacific flounders, Atlantic sea herring, mackerel, albacore tuna, bluefin and shipjack tuna, pink salmon, hard blue crabs, dangerous crabs, gulf shrimp and squid.

Farm price drop looms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farmers may find crop prices declining this year and net farm income may be 15 per cent below last year's record, USDA economists warned.

The new forecast represented a cut in earlier predictions for farm income this year. Initially, department experts had estimated net income would slide from a record $26.1 billion in 1973 to about $24 billion this year. The revised estimate lowered the forecast another 8 per cent to about $22 billion.

Even with this decline, net income for the nation's farmers this year would be the second best on record, officials said.

Economists writing in a "demand and price situation" summary noted that in the first quarter of this year, with farm prices holding at near-record levels and retail food prices reaching new peaks, net farm income reached a seasonally adjusted annual rate of more than $28 billion.

Low-cost protein. Another good reason to drink milk.

A big hunk of cake will always be a mighty good reason for a big, cold glass of milk. Here's another good reason. Milk's a low-cost source of high-quality protein. Like the kind you find in beef. And just two 8-oz. glasses give one-third the protein most of us should have each day. Low-cost protein. Another good reason to drink milk.

Mini Reviews

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Public Library officials have released "mini-reviews" for some of the new books recently received by the library.

"America in Legend" by Richard M. Forson. This fascinating retelling of American history through its folklore shows how the ideas and "values" of a given period are reflected in ballad, lore and legend.

"Red Man's Land; White Man's Law" by Wilcomb E. Washburn. This is a history of the legal status of the Americans and their land from the period of first contact with Europeans down to the present day.

"Thomas Paine: His Life, Work and Times" by Audrey Williamson. Few men have ever had such an impact on their times as this controversial leader of the American Revolution.

"The Adventures of a Young Outlaw" by Thomas Bontly. For a few brief months in the summer of 1853, the stories of Pat Schuler and the township of Wauoqua Heights run parallel. They converge into an exciting conclusion reminding you of a 20th-century Mark Twain.

"Winnie Ruth Judd: The Trunk Murders" by Dwight J. Dobkins. The most fascinating murder case in America — a classic genre of psychological murder.

"Desperate Games" by Pierre Boule. This novel is about a group of scientists who became dissatisfied with the condition of the world and established a global government.

"The Sound of Coaches" by Leon Garfield. Set in England during the 19th century, this story tells of a rugged old coachman and his rugged wife who rides shotgun on the Chichester-London coach.

"Beyond Your Doorstep" by Hal Borland. An informal guide and companion to those readers who years not just to look at but to see into the manifold wonders of nature.

"Kolchak's God" by Brian Gardner. The chain of clues suggests the whereabouts of Kitchak's gold, which disappeared more than a half-century ago. Here is a compelling story involving three powerful governments, one man and the women he falls in love with.

Spectacle Week set

FILER — This is "Spectacle Week" in Filer, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

The Filer Kiwanis club will join other clubs in Utah and Idaho in collecting used, discarded and unwanted eye glasses. These will be sent to a central collection point in Santa Barbara, Calif., where they will be cleaned and repaired.

They will be checked and listed, according to prescription, and then made available throughout the world to persons needing eye sight correction. —Needy persons with sight handicaps which can be corrected by the eye glasses available at the center will be given the glasses.

Ed Marshall, chairman of the Filer project, said additional information may be obtained by contacting him at the Filer High School. He said collection points in Filer are Max's Food Land and Jordan's Market.

TF group sets date

TWIN FALLS — Modern Woodmen of America, Camp 1089A, Twin Falls, will honor Rev. Harrie Young at a dinner meeting Thursday.

Rev. Young will be cited for his service to the community. The free dinner and meeting will be held in the Rogerson Restaurant at 7:30 p.m. All members and their families are invited.

Winning name

"LIBBY, The Library Elephant," was the winning name selected for the large patchwork elephant who is a permanent fixture in the children's department of the Twin Falls Library. Shawn Holman, 7, a first grader at Harrison School, received a "Little Libby" for submitting the winning name. Here he opens the box containing the prize. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Holman.

Scholarship awarded Recital set

TWIN FALLS — Luanne Gae Platt has been awarded a $100 scholarship by Juan's College of Hair Design.

Miss Platt, a senior at Twin Falls High School, is active in High School Symphony Band and Orchestra. She has been an active 4-H member, receiving many awards and the Idaho Key Award. She is the leader of the Healthy Cooky Cutters 4-H Club.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale W. Platt.

FILER — Five piano students of Mrs. Robert Blastock Jr., will give a recital at 8 p.m. Friday at Mrs. Blastock's studio north of Filer.

The students are John David Reed, Filer; Mark and Michael Ward and Steve Gould, Ruhl, and Jed Moss, Jerome.

The boys will play classic rock, jazz and boogie selections. The public is invited.

 4 strips bacon, diced
 1 medium onion, chopped
 1 can chilis
 2 cups grated cheese
 12 eggs
 12 tortillas, flour
 Saute bacon in electric fry pan or large iron skillet. Remove bacon from pan and add chopped onions, saute until transparent; remove from pan.
 Beat eggs until well mixed, but not foamy. Drain grease from pan and add eggs, sprinkle bacon, onions and chopped chilis over eggs.
 Cover with grated cheese and place under broiler until cheese is melted and eggs are well set. Heat tortillas in hot skillet and place in folded terry towel to steam and keep warm. Cut eggs into strips and wrap in tortillas.
 May be served with refried beans, topped with melted cheese, and a salad.
 The Times-News will pay $5 each week for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page—Editor.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a most unusual father. He's close to 80, but looks 60, and he knows it. He never misses an opportunity to tell his age because everyone raves about how "young" he looks, and he eats it up.
 Whenever Dad goes to a wedding or a party where his music is ever carried away and thinks he's Fred Astaire. Everyone assumes he's tipsy, but all he drinks is soda pop.
 He's a handsome man and a good dancer, but not good enough to put on a solo performance which he always does. Mom died five years ago, and Dad remarked, and he can't control him worth a hoot.

Let dad have fun

Sorority leaders

O'Leary teacher heads local sorority

TWIN FALLS — The Alpha Delta — Kappa, Honorary Teacher's Sorority, installed Anna Davis, O'Leary, Junior High School teacher, as president — Saturday — at a luncheon.
 Other officers installed at the luncheon at the Holiday Inn included Fern Manning, vice president; Ruth Griggs, treasurer; Dorothy Guest, recording secretary; Chloe Day, corresponding secretary; Jane Gray, historian; Beth Hedrick, sergeant at arms, and Lucille Jones, chaplain.
 Gen Howard, retiring president, was presented with a president's pin in appreciation for her service.

50th year observed

RUPERT — Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Seal, long time Rupert residents, celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary April 28. The couple was married in South Carolina in 1924 and moved to Idaho in 1928. They are the parents of 13 children.

MY problem: My son is being married soon. Should I let Dad ride and ask him to please refrain from making a monkey of himself at the wedding reception? Or should I let him do his usual act and try to remain calm? All our relatives and friends know what a show-off he is but the bride's family has never seen him in action.
 Love my father, but when he's on, I blush like crazy, a little fizzes on my face, and I clean my teeth until my cheeks ache. What to do?
 Hugs DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: An 80-year-old man who looks like a 60-year-old man is a good thing. He has a good time to have a little fun. Let Dad have a good time. And thank heavens you aren't shepping chicken soup to him to eat at home every day!

DEAR ABBY: I would like a wrestling partner. Someone who would like to wrestle for fun and exercise. I am not looking to be a champion.
 I am 56 years old. I am a good wrestler and would like to wrestle as long as possible. I've never wrestled but that kind of exercise appeals to me. Where should I look?
 WANTS TO WRESTLE

DEAR WANTS: Go to the YMCA (if you're looking for a male partner—otherwise, go to the YWCA) and ask if there is a wrestler who would like to work out with you. If there is, you won't have to twist his arm.

DEAR ABBY:—Here is a problem that has our whole family divided: Shirley is married to Robert, Shirley's sister is married to Charles. What are Robert and Charles to each other? I say they are brothers-in-law. Someone in the family—of which I am a member—says Charles and Robert are NOT related to each other at all.
 That is true, I cannot understand why Robert's children call Charles "Uncle," and Charles' children call Robert "Uncle."
 Please rush your answer as this problem has thrown a wet blanket over our family reunions for years.
 ALL IN THE FAMILY

DEAR ALL: Technically, a brother-in-law is either the brother of one's wife or the husband of one's sister. However, it is customary for husbands and wives to accept their spouses' relatives by marriage as their own.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "K" WHOSE CONSCIENCE BOTHERED HER FOR 50 MANY YEARS: I look care of that little matter for you, and now you are square. Pleasant dreams.

 A real expert would have taken the finesse. East had shown up with four hearts to the queen-10; two aces and the jack of clubs. If he had also held the club king he would surely have opened the bidding.

Disconnections approved

HANSEN — City Council members in Hansen approved between 10 and 12 water service disconnections Monday night.

Mayor Harold Miller Jr. said the water service will be discontinued immediately to about a dozen residents who have not paid their bills for the past two months.

Miller also said the city will open bids May 28 for the new sewer and water improvement program which will necessitate higher rates when completed. The project includes extension of water and sewer lines to accommodate growing residential areas in Hansen.

Pre-registration set

WENDELL — Pre-registration for kindergarten will be held May 20 and 21 at the Wendell kindergarten room from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Parents should bring their child's birth certificate. To be eligible for the class, children must be 5 years old by Oct. 15, according to Arlin Dennis, Wendell school principal.

AAUW supports initiative

BOISE (UPI) — The Sunshine Initiative has drawn the support of the Idaho Division of the American Association of University Women as a result of a vote at their Coeur d'Alene convention.

Pat Ehrlich, Boise, state president, said the convention agreed that citizens have a right to know how candidates for state office finance their campaigns and should have an idea of the nature and extent of lobbying activities in the legislature.

Flood threat slows

BOISE (UPI) — Rivers, near the flood stage for weeks now, are expected to drop during the next few days as a result of cooler temperatures that have slowed the runoff from mountain snowfields.

The National Weather Service Monday said the cool temperatures are forecast through midweek and the rivers should lower slowly during that time.

The Portneuf River at Pocatello was reported just below flooding Monday and the Snake River at Pocatello was just above the flood level but both were expected to lower because of the unseasonably cool weather.

Taxes reported

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, keeping a campaign promise he made this spring, has released information showing he paid more than $13,300 in taxes to state and federal governments during his first term in office.

Andrus said Monday he had paid $5,280 in taxes for 1971 on his income of $28,454. In 1972 he paid $7,227 for taxes on his income of $33,406 and in 1973 he paid $6,843 for his income of $23,359.

Judge ponders motion

POCATELLO (UPI) — A sixth District Judge has taken under advisement a motion to dismiss an action that would disqualify Rep. Patricia McDermott of Pocatello from serving in the legislature.

A group of voters in district 34 of Pocatello has filed an action to court to enjoin her from serving because she is married to Richard Bieber, a lobbyist, and to force her removal from office.

Terminal bids eyed

HAILEY — Bids should be let soon on a proposed airport terminal to be located on the west side of Friedman Airport.

Peter Flood, area representative for Justice Company, said the plans for the $10,000 to $150,000 building should be to him today. After the plans are received by Flood, specification can be drawn up and presented to county officials for approval.

Flood said the plans call for slightly less than 5,000-square-foot building which would include two main air traffic ways, a waiting room, complete terminal facilities and a snack bar in the future.

Priest dies in Boise

BOISE (UPI) — The Right Rev. Monsignor John Creagan, a priest in Idaho for the past 44 years and pastor of St. Mary's Parish in Boise for 37 years, died in a Boise hospital Monday.

Mgr. Creagan was born in New York City in 1900, raised in Ireland, Montana, and Maryland. He was ordained at Mount St. Mary's Seminary, Emmitsburg, Md., in 1930.

He was first assigned to the Polish Parish in Idaho and later had assignments in Boise, Idaho Falls, Shoshone, Hailey and finally at St. Mary's parish in 1937 where he was pastor. He remained there until his death.

Accident victims remain serious

BURLEY — Seven persons, two in serious condition, remained hospitalized in Burley and Rupert today as the result of Sunday traffic accidents in blinding dust storms.

Hospital officials in Burley said Nanette Drury, 11, Salt Lake City, was the most serious. She underwent surgery for internal and facial injuries.

The child was a passenger in a vehicle driven by her mother, Doris Drury, 34. Another child in the same vehicle, Pajul Rieck, 3, of Mc and Mrs. Paul Rieck, Salt Lake City, was killed in the accident.

Mrs. Drury is listed in "good condition" in the Minidoka Memorial Hospital in Rupert.

Others in the Cassia County Hospital include Norma Ramsey, 39, Granger, Utah, in satisfactory condition, and Everett Jones, 34, a truck driver for Interterminal Lines, in serious condition.

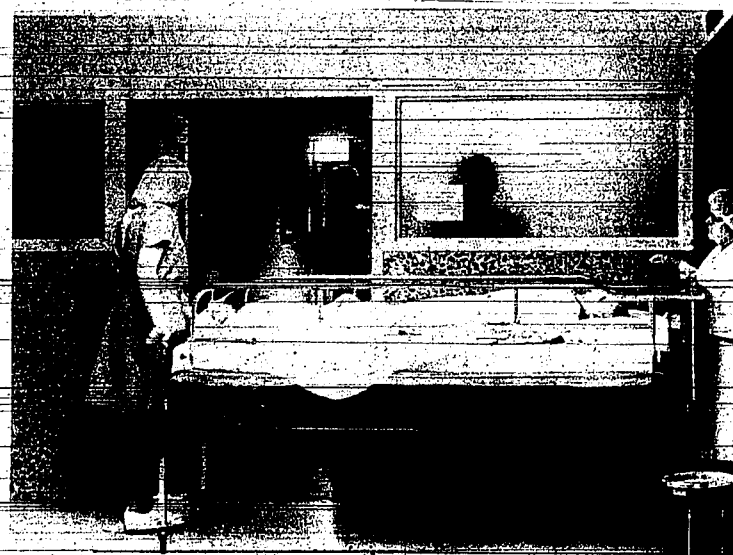

Others in the Minidoka hospital are Olive Taylor, 84, Teton, Utah, and Lynn Alder, 61, Malad, both in good condition and Ruth Price, 67, both in good condition.

All of the injured were taken to the two hospitals following a series of pileups in heavy dust on highway 130 N. near Callahan Sunday afternoon and evening. Officials have indicated between 18 and 30 vehicles involved in the series of pileups. There were 24 persons treated in the two hospitals but others were released following emergency room treatment.

Linda Steffenson, Salt Lake City, was released Monday morning from the Rupert hospital.

Another 24 persons were treated in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, Twin Falls, and released following dust-storm accidents south of Twin Falls.

State police reported a vehicle driven by Charles Westler, Spokane, Wash., was struck by a vehicle driven by Bonnie Jean Tewa, 15, Buhl, south of Twin Falls, in a dust storm on U.S. Highway 94. An earlier report stated the Westler vehicle struck

Hospital aides OK hike in some service costs

Both the administration and the board favored the merit system — where salary increases are based on productivity, longevity and efficiency — because they said it rewards the hard-working employee. An across-the-board increase benefits all employees — both marginal and valued — at the same rate.

In other business, the board heard a report by Ken Reed, chairman of the Personnel Committee, on proposed amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act which would allow strikes in non-profit hospitals. Government institutions are exempted from the proposed legislation so MVMH would not be affected at this time.

R. W. Piggie, chairman of the building committee, told board members that the air conditioning system would be operable

"sometime next week." The system has been ineffective or inoperable since its installation and the hospital has had lengthy dealings with contractors and suppliers to correct the problems.

Piggie also announced that Home Plumbing and Heating, Twin Falls, had been requested to make a bid on a secondary and separate air conditioning system which would service the orthopedic operating room.

Hoschbaum reported a search was underway for two nurses to serve as director of nurses and director of the intensive care unit.

The board also approved an administration request to begin a search for an accountant and personnel director. The wages for the two new positions will be paid from the service rate increase.

Innocent, says Heughins

JEROME — A Jerome man pleaded innocent today to the first degree murder of three Jerome people.

Charles Eldon Heughins, 47, was arraigned in Fifth District Court at the Jerome County Courthouse.

Heughins was formally notified of the charges against him in the April 22 shotgun deaths of the suspect's wife, Clara Irene Heughins, 40; her sister, Joy Laurine Nelms, 50, and her father, Cecil W. Moore Sr., 71, all Jerome.

The Heughins appeared before Judge James Cunningham, who had presided at a divorce hearing involving Heughins and his wife a half hour before the alleged crime occurred.

Jerome County public defender Phil Becker requested at least two months to prepare his case for the defense.

Becker said he hoped to provide the suspect with a complete mental and physical evaluation at Mountain Home Air Force Base, for which Heughins is eligible as a former Air Force man.

Becker said the evaluations could require up to six weeks to complete. Cunningham said he would set the trial date later this week.

Strike hearing in second day

RUPERT — The hearing on a complaint by J. R. Simplot against the American Federation of Grain Millers union on strike at the Heyburn plant continued today.

Fifth District Judge Sherman Bellwood began hearing the case Monday afternoon in Rupert. The complaint was brought by the company against officials and members of the union May 6 because of alleged mass picketing and incidents of intimidation of company employees by pickets at the plant.

The strike continued today with no negotiations scheduled to settle the labor dispute which caused the walkout May 2.

The company has begun to advertise on local radio stations and in newspapers for "replacement workers."

Production has gradually increased since that time with the hiring of new employees and the return of some probationary employees to the job, according to William Maxx, public relations representative for the company.

Identity swap frees prisoner

BOISE (UPI) — Wallace Lloyd Rhodes, a man convicted of first degree murder in Montana and kidnap and escape in Idaho, has escaped from federal authorities in Texas, according to Ada County Sheriff Chuck Palmer.

Rhodes, 25, was described by Palmer as "extremely dangerous."

The Sheriff said he learned Monday that Rhodes apparently switched identifications with another federal prisoner in Dallas and during a May 6 appearance before a Texas judge, using his false identity, was released.

Rhodes was sentenced to 10 years in prison by an Idaho court this spring for convictions of kidnap and escape from Elmore County.

Rhodes and James Shields, who was his partner in the escape from Mountain Home in 1972, made their way across the United States leaving a trail of crimes including the murder of a Montana man until they were caught by authorities in Tennessee.

They were convicted of murder in the first degree by the Montana court and sentenced to death. They have appealed that sentence.

Palmer said he did not know why Rhodes was taken to Texas. He said Rhodes is 5 feet 8 inches tall, of slight build, weighing 119 pounds, with brown hair and blue eyes. He has the word "Gina" tattooed on his forearm.

In Elmore County, a sheriff's deputy clerk said details of the Rhodes escape had apparently not been transmitted over the National Crime Information Center teletype.

"We really don't know too much about this situation," the clerk said, "except we're going to keep our eyes open."

Twin Falls County Sheriff Paul Corder said he had received no information on the Rhodes escape. He said he found it hard to believe that Rhodes had escaped by exchanging identities with another prisoner.

Sunshine petition campaign hits TF

BY MARRILYN ELIOTT Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Sunshine hit Twin Falls Monday night.

The statewide push for support of the Sunshine Initiative, calling for campaign finance disclosure and lobbyist registration, was brought to Twin Falls by three steering committee members.

Mary Mech, Judy Austin and Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, met with members of the League of Women Voters, American Association of University Women, and Common Cause, as well as legislators and interested citizens here to get the local petition drive going and drum up community support.

Nearly 25,000 signatures must be filed by July 5 to put the initiative on the November ballot.

The initiative combines parts of two separate pieces of legislation, one aimed at registration of lobbyists and one aimed at required disclosure of campaign funding.

The state legislature killed similar proposals last winter.

The initiative calls for all legislative and statewide candidates to file reports of all contributions of over $50 and all campaign expenditures with the Secretary of State.

Paid lobbyists would have to register with the Secretary of State by both their name and their employers' names. They would also be required to list the subject of the legislation and the number of the bills in which they were interested.

Lobbyists' employees would also be required to register with the secretary of state.

Initiative supporters are "in no way trying to curb campaign contributions," Mrs. Mech, legislative chairman of the League of Women Voters and steering committee member said. No limits on the amount of contributions are set in the initiative and organizations and corporations are not excluded from contributions.

Legislators around the state remain largely uncommitted in the matter, according to Peavey, though only three flat rejections have been given — one from Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, at a meeting Monday night.

If the issue gets on the ballot, it will probably be a major election issue, Peavey said. "It's my obligation to use the election as a forum for what I believe and it's up to the people to decide the issues."

Watergate and its aftermath are part of the reason the initiative was launched, Peavey said.

Although Peavey said he didn't feel money was widely misused, "there's real cause" behind legislative issues are only won by a few votes and it probably wouldn't take much to swing a decision.

"The effectiveness of the bill will be up to the people," he said. "Write the letter, get the bill filed with the secretary of state, it will be up to the public to first take it and then use it to keep the legislature responsive."

Hailey aides skeptical on land action

By BART QUENELL Times-News Writer

HAILEY — The Hailey City Council was skeptical Monday night about 2,000 acres John Koppes wants to give Blaine County and the city of Hailey.

Koppes has offered his Indian Creek Ranch, just north of Hailey, to both governmental groups in exchange for development rights on 310 acres adjacent to the ranch.

Koppes said all grazing rights, water rights between 300 and 400 inches plus an estimated $20,000 of plat drawings and architect studies accompany the ranch he is offering.

A Blain presented last week by Koppes detailed a site for a possible golf course or hay should the land be left in agriculture. Koppes has suggested the city may designate the area a park for future generation.

Koppes has said before the stipulation that he be allowed to begin selling lots as soon as the design is finalized and it is possible to allow lots.

About 310 single family lots would be built on the proposed development land, ranging from one-half to two acres. The acres have been set aside for future multi-family units.

Questioned by Mayor Lawrence Heagle about the multi-family units located near the north city border of Hailey, Koppes said building them would not commence until sewer and water regulations are worked out.

Don Angeli, city councilman, asked Koppes why he was giving the property to Hailey instead of only Blaine County.

"The right plan fits right in with Hailey because of its location," Koppes said.

Councilman Claude Porter said he personally would have to have more than two or three days to study something that would be a long time commitment to the city.

"I would not obligate the city on three days notice for something that is going to be here for life," Porter said.

Koppes answered "if you think I'm trying to pull something, you don't understand what I'm trying to do. I'm not doing it for you to handle. I'll retract my offer. I can't believe I'm getting such negative reaction to something I am willing to give."

"It was a goodwill gesture to include the city and the people of Hailey," Koppes said. "They should not be very interested and enthusiastic what happens up there."

Heagle responded the city may end up shouldering expenses. Other cities in the county should share.

"I wonder where the money would come from," Heagle said.

Koppes read from his statement to the council, "if we work together, we can work it out. We need an act of cooperation between the city and county and us to handle. I'll retract my offer. I can't believe I'm getting such negative reaction to something I am willing to give."

Meet tonight

TWIN FALLS — The public will have its say on the proposed Twin Falls school budget at a public hearing before the school board tonight.

The hearing is set for 8 p.m. at the school administration building. After considering public comment on the budget, trustees are expected to take final action on the administration's budget proposals.

The proposed fiscal year 1974-75 budget calls for general fund spending of about $4.1 million, a $377,000 increase over last year's budget level — about a 4 per cent jump.

The budget has estimates of only $100,000 in carryover of unspent funds from last year, even though current spending levels suggest there could be a carryover of as much as $300,000.

Also additional state and federal funds received in the district this year above the budgeted income level are not considered in the proposed budget.

Cannade is favorite from Preakness field

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The 99th running of the Preakness Saturday will feature the best of 100 world for those entered in the second jewel of the Triple Crown.

Lake the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness will be the richest race in the history of the event. But, unlike the Churchill Downs rush-hour race, aspirants will not have to contend with a thundering horde on the Pimlico racing strip.

The probable starting field for the Preakness stood at 13 Monday, enough to make this year's final purse the largest ever, but small enough to forestall the possibility of having to split the race into two divisions.

Cannade, the winner of the 100th Kentucky Derby, is a $5 favorite to capture the $156,500 winner's share of what will be a $203,000 purse, if there are 13 starters.

Cannade's trainer Woody Stevens said the Derby champ will arrive at Pimlico Tuesday afternoon from New York.

John Olin's three-year-old worked six furlongs in 1:10.4 Sunday at Belmont Park.

Monday's chief Preakness development saw the withdrawal of Bushong, the winner of the Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah Park. The son of Mongo came out of the Blue Grass Stakes lane and was forced to skip the Derby.

Trainer Frank Bonas said there would not be enough time to have Bushong in top form by Saturday.

Heir To The Line, winner of last Saturday's Preakness Derby, was returned to New York Monday, but only for a short shopping spree. The son of Majestic Prince, winner of the 1969 Preakness will return to Pimlico Thursday with a new pair of shoes.

Hudson County, the surprising runnerup in the Derby, is the early second choice for the Preakness at 9-2 with J.R.'s Pet third at 6-1.

All Game and Destroyer have been listed at 12-1.

UMPIRE MERLE ANTHONY, standing with hands on hips and eyes closed, refuses to look where Cleveland catcher Dave Duncan and manager Ken Aponte are pointing. # Cleon Jones, Grote lead Mets to 5-3 victory over St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Cleon Jones and Jerry Grote each hit a two-run homer off Bob Gibson and Jones added another run with a sacrifice fly Monday night to give the New York Mets a 5-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Gibson had his usual early inning troubles, giving up a first inning run and two more in the third. He dropped the third game in five decisions.

Bob Harrelson opened the game with a single and Ken Boswell drove him to third with another single, his first of three hits for the night. Jones followed with a sacrifice fly to make it 1-0.

Jones added two more in the third when he followed Boswell's two-out single with a homer. The Mets knocked out Olson in the seventh after Dave Semick doubled and Grote followed one out later with his home run.

The Cardinals scored, single runs in the fifth, sixth and seventh.

Luis Alvarado led off the fifth with a ground-rule double and scored two outs later on a single by Ted Sizemore.

In the sixth, Bob Apodaca making his first major league start, issued a walk to Ted Simmons and wild-pitched him to second before leaving with a blister on his pitching hand.

Reliever Harry Parker made another wild pitch to move Simmons to third and Ken Reitz singled him home.

Japan club plans to release Howard

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese newspapers reported Monday that Frank Howard will be released from the 15-year major league baseball career, will be released by the Taiheyo Lions because of a knee injury.

It was reported the club decided to terminate Howard's $50,000 because of a physician's diagnosis that the knee injury which the big first-baseman outfielder suffered in training camp is serious and the time of recovery uncertain.

The decision at this time was prompted, the newspapers said, by an estimated expenditure of $35,000 to bring Howard's wife and six children to Japan for two months during the summer.

Marty Kuehnert, the Lions' American secretary Howard's case "is being discussed at the highest level but no decision has yet been taken. Neither has Howard been notified of his release."

Kuehnert said Howard was chasing a fly ball just prior to the season opener when he fell loose turf give way and he twisted his right knee. It was the first serious injury Howard suffered in 17 years as a "ball player."

Howard appeared in the opening game on April 6. He was hitless in two times at bat and drew a base on balls. That was his only appearance this season.

The Lions have another American player, on their roster, former Baltimore Orioles outfielder Don Buford.

Brewers beat Baltimore 9-4

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Dave Ruff, Bob Mitchell and John Briggs cracked home runs off Ross Grimsley Monday night when the Milwaukee Brewers moved into first place in the American League East division with a 9-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Run-scoring singles by Darrell Porter and Robin Yount boosted the Brewer lead to 6-1 in the fourth inning, and Milwaukee added single runs off reliever Dave Alexander in the seventh and eighth innings.

Grimsley, 43, was outduelled by Ed Spang, making only the third start of his 10-year league career, and reliever Tom Murphy.

Angels' snap losing streak

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Charles Sands' first home run of the season and Paul Schaaf's second shut out the Angels in a 1-0 victory over the fading Texas Rangers Monday night, ending the Angels' losing streak at three games.

Dodgers defeat Houston

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Red Kuffel-Jimmy Wynn drove in three runs with a single and sacrifice fly Monday night to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to an 8-1 victory over the Houston Astros in their straight triumph.

Wynn, a former Astro, increased his major-league leading RBI total to 34, by hitting a five-run fifth inning with a two-run single and scoring another run in the sixth with a sacrifice fly.

Cesar Cedeno's sixth homer of the season led the Dodgers to the fourth inning, but the Dodgers lost the bases in the fifth on Bill Russell's infield single, a throwing error by pitcher Dave Roberts and a walk to Bill Buckner.

Relief specialist saves win for Twins

CHICAGO (UPI) — Relief specialist Bill Campbell preserved Dave Goltz's first win of the season with a fine late-inning performance Monday night when the Minnesota Twins edged the Chicago White Sox 3-2.

The Twins' victory ended their three-game losing streak, although they were out-hit by the White Sox, 15-12.

Goltz, recalled from Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League, pitched the first 2 1/2 innings, giving up 10 hits. With two men on in the seventh and two out, Goltz came in and fanned Dick Allen.

Campbell gave up a two-run homer to Ken Henderson, his fourth of the year, in the bottom of the eighth. After giving up a pop-fly double to Ron Santo, Campbell struck out two of the next three batters to preserve the win.

The White Sox scored first in the third inning on singles by Pat Kelly, Carlos May and Bill Melton.

The Twins came back to score twice in the fifth off loser Bill Moran who was making his first major league start. Singles by Jerry Terrell and Rod Carew and a double by Larry Hise produced the runs.

The Twins sent eight men to the plate in the seventh inning with Glenn Borgmann's single scoring two runs. Carew collected three hits in three appearances at the plate to raise his league-leading average to .400.

Cy Acosta, the fifth Sox pitcher, got into trouble in the ninth when he hit Bobby Richardson. Acosta retired the next two batters but Terrell tripled into the rightfield corner for his fourth hit of the night, scoring Darwin Terrell.

Terrell scored when Allen, playing second base, fumbled Steve Brye's easy ground ball.

Perry hurts Cleveland win

CLEVELAND (UPI) — John Elter belted a three-run homer in the first inning off Jim Perry, with relief help from Tom Buskey, posted his 32nd career victory over the Boston Red Sox Monday night in pitching the Cleveland Indians to a 4-1 victory.

Elter, who has now hit safely in 14 of 14 Indians' last 15 games, drilled a 3-2 pitch into the leftfield stands following a single by John Lovchich and an error by second baseman Dick McAuliffe on Buddy Bell's bouncer.

Atlanta tops San Diego 7-5

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Dusty Baker drove in four runs with a homer and three singles Monday night to lead the Atlanta Braves to a 7-5 victory that extended the San Diego Padres' losing streak to six games.

A crowd of 36,052, third largest in San Diego's six-year history, saw pitcher Harrison Perry, with relief help from Tom Buskey, posted his 32nd career victory over the Boston Red Sox Monday night in pitching the Cleveland Indians to a 4-1 victory.

Elter, who has now hit safely in 14 of 14 Indians' last 15 games, drilled a 3-2 pitch into the leftfield stands following a single by John Lovchich and an error by second baseman Dick McAuliffe on Buddy Bell's bouncer.

Bekert is removed from list

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Padres have called up pitcher Dave Tomlin and outfielder Dick Gaspar from their Hawaii Farm Club to remove second baseman Glen Beckert from the disabled list, the club announced Monday.

Beckert had been on the disabled list since April 17 with an ankle injury.

Tomlin, a left-handed reliever, was obtained from Cincinnati in a trade last winter. He was 2-1 with Hawaii, with an era of 1.18 in 23 innings.

The switchhitting Gaspar was batting .258 with the Leis. In addition to getting Hilton, who was hit by .077, Williams, .133, and Ross, Bell, 8-4-00 era; Hawaii picked up relief pitcher Jerry Janeski from the Spokane Indians.

Janeski had one save and a 2.25 era through seven relief appearances.

Braves manager feels depressed

ATLANTA (UPI) — Color Eddie Mathews blue, Braves' manager for feeling depressed.

The Braves, the most expensive offensive club in baseball last year, claim they have improved their pitching and their defense, but have little to show for it.

When the Braves left town Monday for a 10-day visit to the West Coast, they were in fifth place in the National League West, nine games off the lead with their 14-15 record — the same position they were in at this time last year.

"We're a better team than we were a year ago," fumed Mathews. "I don't care what the record shows, this club has a better chance of winning. We haven't been getting the clutch hits we've needed, but our hitting started slow last year and look what happened."

What happened was that the Braves led the majors in runs scored, runs batted in, and home runs — but wound up ninth in the West, nine games off the lead back in fifth place.

The problem was obvious. The Braves were last in the National League in pitching with a 4.25 era and next to last in fielding with errors.

Records indicate that improvement Mathews speaks about may be "no more fantasy than fact."

"The 'improved' pitching is still giving up an average of about four runs per game," he said.

His eight-home runs in the first fifth of the season is right in line with last year's total of 40. But Dave Johnson and Darrel Evans, who hit 43 and 41 home runs last year, only had four and three when the Braves headed West.

The Braves felt acquiring shortstop Craig Robinson from Philadelphia would bolster their defense. But Robinson has made four times as many errors as any other Braves and Mathews now insists the 25-year-old Wake Forest graduate "still has a lot to learn."

The Braves are suffering at the box office in relation to their record. Attendance figures are averaging only 9,346 paid for 48 home dates that figures out to a season total of barely 720,000 — lowest in the nine Atlanta years.

Dallenbach mechanic is denying any tampering

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — George Bignotti says it isn't he who didn't cheat, as some have claimed, in getting Wally Dallenbach's car ready for 500-mile race qualifications.

The season's first furore at the Indianapolis Speedway is highly technical. It involves the blower on the turbocharger of the car driven by Dallenbach for the second fastest of the 15 qualified Saturday for the May 20 race.

Several rival crews charged Dallenbach had a horsepower advantage because of the larger blower. Some, in fact, said this amounted to cheating.

Bignotti, a chief mechanic whose car has won the 500 here six times, including last year's rain-abbreviated event with Gordon Johncock at the wheel, denied it flatly.

"We didn't cheat at all," he said. "There's no rule governing the size of blowers. Ours is absolutely legal. We inspected the rule before we put it on."

The hassle developed when Bignotti petitioned the United States Auto Club to change to the larger blower for the race to conserve fuel. The USAC technical committee promptly rejected the request and chief steward Tom Binford agreed, saying the move was "too significant" a change to be permitted.

Some adjustments are permitted at the 500. In getting cars changed from a qualifying to a race-day setup.

Bignotti protested the decision and a hearing was set for Tuesday. He said if the protest is disallowed, it would "cause us a lot of hardship" in the race in order to get top efficiency from the engine.

Bignotti said the Parnelli team, too, also requested permission to use the larger blower for two-time race winner Al Unser's car, and he intends to use the larger blower in qualifications on Johncock's car Saturday.

Unser's engine "blow in practice last Saturday, using the larger blower for the race. It wasn't our fault," said Bignotti.

"We were the only ones successful with the larger blower," he added.

In effect, Bignotti charged Binford was "picking something out of the air" in denying him the right to install the smaller blower. He said the rules stipulate the engine can be changed for the race as long as the bore and stroke remain the same as that used in the time trials.

"The Speedway reserves the right to change the rules as it sees fit," he said. "There is no more energy crisis. My idea is to throw the valve out. Let's get back to racing."

The valve, he referred to, permits the power an engine develops, thus reducing speeds, and was mandatory for qualifications only.

Youngest player in majors isn't concerned about age distinction

NEW YORK (UPI) — The complexion is smooth, like the creamy, grade A milk that always used to be delivered fresh in the morning, and here and there a few unmanageable blond curls spill out from under his baseball cap. They call him "The Kid," what else? He's the youngest player in the majors.

Robin Yount isn't even aware of the distinction. Mowbray, Milwaukee's 38-year-old shortstop doesn't particularly seem to care about it one way or another.

"I don't think about my age," he says, sitting much straighter on the bench than any of the other Brewers. "I can't worry about how old I am. There are too many other things for me to think about. Publicly?" "I don't make that much difference. I don't, especially like it, but I understand there is a need for it in baseball."

Robin Yount looks like Marty Marion did when he first came up. He not only looks like him, he's built the same way at six foot even and 165 pounds. Which brings up his batting average. At the moment it's only .202, not much more than his weight, and his three hits and one home run aren't crowding Reggie Jackson, but the Brewers feel exactly the same way about him the Reds did about Johnny Bench eight years ago.

"The talent is obvious," says Don Crandall, the Brewers' manager, and he's right because you don't have to be a manager or a supercoach to see Robin Yount isn't cut from any common mold.

"It was the fourth or fifth day of spring training and I said to him, 'you want some ground balls?'" remembers Crandall about the first time Yount made it to the major leagues as a player. "I don't even remember his name," he says, trying to think of the pitcher.

Yount's pitcher, Jim Colborn pointed to the clubhouse boy, who happens to be older than Yount.

"You ask Robin Yount today, the name of the pitcher he hit his home run off, and he honestly can't tell you."

"I don't even remember his name," he says, trying to think of the pitcher.

Russ Grimes, the Orioles lefty, was the victim. The fact Yount doesn't remember doesn't really matter that much.

"He'll look it up in the winter," says Don Crandall, the Brewers' third baseman.

It is conceivable that some day some club will come along and make the Brewers a huge offer for Yount. The offer could even exceed six figures, but that won't matter to the Brewers.

"He is not for sale at any price, and I mean any price," says Allan "Bud" Selig, Milwaukee's president and chief executive officer. "Robin Yount is symbolic of our whole philosophy which quite simply is a quality fan development program. Players like him, Darrell Porter, Pedro Garcia, Bob Coluccio, Jim Slaton, Kevin Kobal and Charlie Moeck represent the fruits of our labor in this program."

When the Brewers say Yount isn't for sale at any price, they mean it. A year ago, John Hollander, the Cubs' president, came to them with an offer from Cubs' owner Phil Wrigley. The offer was a million dollars plus for catcher Darrell Porter.

"The Brewers said no, thanks, and that's why Darrell Porter catches for them now and George Mitterwald does for the Cubs."

Now you know.

Boston needs more desire, new fuse to stay alive in playoffs

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Calling attention to the fact that, according to the Boston Herald, the Bruins' playoff team needs if it hopes to stay alive in tonight's fourth game of the Stanley Cup finals against the Flyers.

"Godfathers on our club right now," the Bruins coach said at lunch Monday. "We can use some enforcing."

Gouldin was joking, of course. He knows, and everyone else who has seen the series knows, that what the Bruins need most is a hot new fuse to recharge their once proud power play.

Not since the opening game has Boston been able to take advantage of a Flyer penalty, and the count now shows the Bruins going one-for-17 on power plays, including eight dismal failures in Sunday night's 4-1 loss.

All this has enabled Philadelphia to jump off to a 2-1 advantage in the best-of-seven series, and if the Flyers can win again tonight at home, they're not skating on thin ice.

Flyers' head working harder than ever," said Boston's Bobby Orr. "They're hungrier than we are and we just don't seem to be grabbing for it."

As for our power play, it's been useless. When they get a penalty, we might as well take the 10 yards."

The Flyers, for their part, feel they should receive the credit for disrupting Boston's power play rather than putting the blame on the Bruins for failing to execute. They point to the fact that they also managed to thwart the New York

Rangers, who had the most effective power play in the NHL during the regular season, in the semifinals.

"Everyone said that once the Flyers got on their power play, they'd get us," Terry Crisp said. "But they never did, did they? We had something to do with it, and maybe we do with Boston."

Philadelphia goaltender Bernie Parent, who has the best view in the house of the Bruins' attack, was asked if he noticed any difference in their power play from earlier in the season.

"The difference is we're forcing them to make mistakes," Parent said with a grin. "I'm all for it. I'd like to see who wins the Stanley Cup."

Flyer Coach Fred Shero, a staunch proponent of innovation and surprise, went home after Boston's opening game victory to study films of the Bruins' attack, and he said Team Canada's power play two years ago. He made a few changes after looking at the films.

"Maybe we're reading it better," Shero said. "They've had the same power play for a long time."

Guidolin, very distressed following Sunday's loss, was in a more chipper mood today and said he would recall his No. 1 line of Phil Esposito, Wayne Cashman and Ken Hodge. Esposito and Hodge were replaced by rookies Rich Redmond and Steve Larmer, but for a few minutes of Sunday's final period.

"With just a little more effort from the bigger guys we'd come back today," Guidolin said. "The thing that happened the other day I gave the kids some ice time. This is no time to press the panic button if some guys have a bad night."

"We'll go with the same team and see what happens. That's the same team that put me in first place and the same team that got me in the Stanley Cup final, so why give up because we're not going down? But I won't hesitate to make changes early if some guys aren't playing."

Bob Kelley and Bill Clement, two of the team's veteran players, were also injured during the New York series, skated Monday during a Flyers' workout but will not return to action tonight. Binky Don-Sabatik has been selected to fill in at right wing for Philadelphia's latest casualty, Gary Dorrohcer, on a line with center Rick MacIvish and Ross Lonsberry.

The fifth games of the series will be played at Boston Thursday night.

Yankees sell Mike Hegan

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Monday Yankees announced the sale of their right-handed pitcher Mike Hegan had been sold to the Milwaukee Brewers for an amount "somewhat in excess" of the waiver price.

Hegan, 32, has been confined to the left-handed rotation since he acquired Chris Chambliss from the Cleveland Indians and threatened to retire from baseball if not traded. Hegan, who lives near Milwaukee, had asked to be traded to the Brewers.

The Yankees acquired Hegan in a trade with the Oakland A's last season.

The left-handed pitcher is a superior fielding first baseman and hit .226 in 18 games for the season.

New York did not announce who would fill his spot on the roster.

"The talent is obvious," says Don Crandall, the Brewers' manager, and he's right because you don't have to be a manager or a supercoach to see Robin Yount isn't cut from any common mold.

"It was the fourth or fifth day of spring training and I said to him, 'you want some ground balls?'" remembers Crandall about the first time Yount made it to the major leagues as a player. "I don't even remember his name," he says, trying to think of the pitcher.

Dave Hill gains on PGA list

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dave Hill's victory in the Houston Open jumped him from 44th to 14th on professional golf's money-winning list for the year, but the top 10 remained virtually unchanged.

Hill's $30,000 first prize raised his 1974 earnings to $53,100 and it was his first tournament victory, since the 1973 Danny Thomas Memphis Open.

Johnny Miller continues to lead the PGA—Tournament Players—Division money winners with $192,877, with Buddy Allen and Hubert Green also over the $100,000 mark.

Jack Nicklaus is eighth, while the only change in the top 10 involved Dave Stockton and Hale Irwin, who switched ninth and 10th places, with Stockton moving past Irwin.

Wayne Maki dies of brain tumor

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Wayne Maki, whose National Hockey League career was haunted by a stick-swinging fight that hospitalized another player with a blood clot on the brain, died here Sunday of a brain tumor. He was 28.

Maki, who played with the NHL's Chicago Black Hawks, St. Louis Blues and Vancouver Canucks, was admitted to hospital here about two weeks ago.

The tumor was discovered late in 1972 when Maki complained of severe headaches and left the Canucks.

shortly after the start of the season. — Surgery was performed at that time and he had been training as an electrician "since" he retired from hockey.

Ironically, Maki is well remembered for a stick-swinging fight he had with former Boston Bruin defenseman Ted Green in an exhibition game on Sept. 29, 1969.

Maki, then trying for a spot on the St. Louis roster, sent Green to the hospital with a severe brain injury. Green was operated on successfully and returned to play with the Blues.

He is now with the New England Whalers of the World Hockey Association.

Charges were brought against both players, but neither was convicted.

Maki, a five-foot, 11-inch, 158-pound left winger played two seasons with the Canucks, finishing the 1970-71 campaign with 26 goals and 38 assists for 63 points, and netting 22 goals and 25 assists for 47 points in the 1971-72 season.

A native of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Maki was a member of a large hockey family that included his brother, Chico, a forward with the Chicago Black Hawks.

He is survived by his widow Beverly and two children, Schanick, 3, and Christopher, 2.

Heinsohn credits team efforts in triumph over Milwaukee Bucks

BOSTON (UPI) — Don't ask Tom Heinsohn to tell you who won the National Basketball Association title for him. He can't put it in these terms.

Ask him and he will tell you: Havlicek, White, Chaney, Covens, Silas.

Bucks vote on distribution

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Lucius Allen, Milwaukee Bucks' play representative, Monday announced the team had voted 6-0 to distribute full shares of $15,714 to all two players.

Dick Cunningham, who played in only eight games, and Larry Carretti each received $3,717.

Trainer Bill Bates was voted a full share and assistant coach Hubie Brown was voted $4,000.

Brown will also receive a playoff bonus from the club management.

Head Coach Larry Costello will receive a full share from the National Basketball Association.

champions were led by a big man, who was able to dominate the middle. The old Celtics had Bill Russell, the New York Knicks had Willis Reed, the Los Angeles Lakers had Wilt Chamberlain.

"This time it was the 'little' Celtics against seven-foot-two Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and his teammates. Five very good basketball players against one man-mount and his helpers."

"They (are) the big guys and we (are) the little guys," Heinsohn said early in the series. "We're going to make them play our style of basketball. The press is how we do it."

The biggest "little guy," Dave Covens, won his personal duel with Abdul-Jabbar in the seventh and final game of the series and the Celtics ran off with a 102-91 victory and their 17th NBA title. The series had been scored 28 points and led in 14 rebounds to Abdul-Jabbar's 26 points and 13 rebounds.

"Covens' contribution was tremendous because he was called upon to do things center is not normally called upon to do," said Heinsohn.

It was Covens' accurate shooting from the outside, Heinsohn said, that was just as important as his previous wins. With the Celtics' center pumping in shot after shot from 15 feet or more, Abdul-Jabbar had to work far away from the basket, opening up the middle for Paul Silas, who had 14 points in the final game, far above his playoff average.

"Silas had to do all the rebounding with Covens out of the picture and he tried to do a great performance," said Heinsohn.

"Ho Jo White and Don Chaney did a fantastic job on the press," he said. "They probably worked harder than anyone in the series."

White and Chaney took advantage of the Bucks' lack of ballhandlers throughout the series, forcing turnovers which were converted into easy baskets.

The Bucks' three wins, one at home and two in Boston Garden, came on Oscar Robertson's ability to bring the ball up court against the press and get it to forwards Bob Landri and Cornell Warner.

When Robertson couldn't get the ball in almost exclusively on Abdul-Jabbar's defense, the center simply could not score often enough to offset Boston's balanced attack.

"We lost to their pressure defense," said Bucks' coach Larry Costello. "We just didn't have the speed to counteract their quickness."

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 15, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day and evening to direct your activities far beyond present boundaries. Use your finest judgment to make your biggest aims workable in specific instances where formerly it has been impossible to work them out successfully.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Private talks with financiers and experts-in-business can pave the way to greater success. Put good advice to immediate use.

AURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are highly magnetic now and others will assist you to get the support you need. Show your appreciation in some tangible way.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Engage in activities that will put you in contact with the right persons. Dress in fine taste, but avoid wearing more than two colors.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have fine ideas now, but be sure to express them to the right allies for best results. Don't overlook any details.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your hunches are very good now, and it is possible to work out fine arrangements of a plan you have in mind. Be more cooperative.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Meet with a clever associate and work out new agreements that could be profitable. Attending the social tonight is worthwhile.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Improve your surroundings and make a good impression on those who visit you. Take steps to make yourself more attractive.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make plans to engage in the amusements you enjoy the most. Strive for greater mutual happiness in the home tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan how to make improvements in your home. A new approach at regular activities can bring excellent results. Avoid arguments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan how to obtain the data you need and gain the backing of persons who can assist you in a new project. Be kind to a friend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Thinking along lines of having greater abundance is fine at this time, but put your ideas on a practical plane. Be logical.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your judgment is fine now, so get busy with a project you have in mind. Avoid one who opposes you. Show that you have a good idea.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY He or she will have excellent ideas on how to make a big success in life. Give the right spiritual training early in life so your progeny will know the best course to follow. There could be excellent prosperity in his chart, as well as a successful marriage. Sports are especially fine here.

The Stars impel, they do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

L. M. Boyd

That sort of book most likely to be stolen from a public library is the volume on automotive repairs. About half a dozen companies now are trying to market devices to prevent such thefts. Most of these call for some sort of metallic tab on each book. If the book isn't desecrated by a librarian, it will trigger a signal when the book carries it past a scanner beside the library door. Trouble is a clever soul with mechanical aptitude also can learn to desecrate books. And those interested in automotive repairs tend to be so capable.

GOOD-AMERICANS

Good Americans, when they did go to Paris? P. O. Appleton said that about 100 years ago. Comes to mind because a client asks if Paris still is the romantic place that once it was. No, young lady, there isn't such a Paris now. Nor an adventurous London. Nor brave Berlin, antique Rome, exotic Cairo. Moscow is a minimum security yard. Tokyo, a television stage set. Bombay, a water-logged slum. Hong Kong, a bazaar. The new Paris? A dead city. And Paris is a town of some size. Good Americans, when they die, do go to Colorado Springs.

Every sunset is said to be a mirage. What looks like the sun on the horizon is actually just the tail end of the sun already set minutes earlier. Its light rays at day's end curve through the atmosphere, that's why.

Idaho Expo display carries $53,000 tag

By RICHARD CHARNOCK

BOISE (UPI) — A controversial Idaho display at Expo '74 in Spokane has cost an estimated $53,000 so far, State Commerce Secretary Lloyd Howe said today.

Howe said Cline Advertising of Boise estimated it would cost $38,750 for design concept, construction, installation, maintenance and removal of the display. He said space rental at the world's fair cost an additional $14,750.

At the insistence of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, the display is being modified to meet objections. Howe estimated it will take about three weeks to make the changes in hopes the display will be more palatable to the Idahoans who have seen it.

"We are deeply working on revisions," Howe said. "That's going to cost us some money—no doubt about it."

He said the state has only about $1,200 left to spend on the display and that he now is looking at alternate sources of funds. He said $1,200 will not be enough to do what needs to be done.

Among the changes planned are replacement of the shadow boxes with translucent transparencies (backlighted photographs and art works), installation of slide presentation and installation of the Miners Memorial Statue, now on display at the Statehouse in Boise.

"If we can find some funds we'll have the thing funded," Howe added.

A total of $54,774 in private contributions and state funds was available for the display, Howe said. $34,774 came from private sources and the rest from state monies.

Out of the $38,750 estimated by Cline Advertising for the display itself, apparently will come the agency's fee. Howe said the agency gave him that overall estimate when he asked it to design a display and give a top budget figure on it.

Just how much that fee will amount to, Howe said, he does not know at this time.

When asked where he may find additional funds at this time to modify the display, Howe said, "We'll probably have to curtail some programs next year."

As state commerce secretary, it was up to Howe to approve the display concept before work by Cline Advertising and Reading Display of Boise was begun. He said he takes full responsibility for approving the display and authorizing its construction.

"I thought it was a good display," Howe said. "I still think it's a good display."

Howe said he is determined to modify the display so it will meet within the approval of Idahoans.

He said his office already has authorized some payment on a monthly billing basis to Cline for the work it has done. But he added,

"Final payment of the agency's Expo '74 bill will be contingent upon satisfaction by the state."
