Isolationism dangers draw Nixon's warning

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon, warning against isolationism, said today that for the first time in this century "a real chance exists for lasting peace."
In a nationwide radio Memorial Day address delivered from the Florida White House, Nixon said that "in 1974 our hopes for a lasting peace are brighter than at any time in living memory because we now have a structure of peace and we are carefully working to strengthen it."
"A momentum has been created that makes it easier for the leaders of the major powers to settle differences peacefully, in negotiation instead of armed confrontation," he added.
He paid tribute to Americans who have given their lives in wars dating back to Valley Forge and said "it should inspire us with a determination to keep America great and free by keeping America safe and strong in our own time, the time of unique destiny and opportunity."
Nixon said that Americans were called away to war "under trying, and sometimes bitter circumstances" four times in this century, the last time in Vietnam.
"Only today, for the first time in this century, do we live in a time when, thanks to past sacrifices, a real chance exists for lasting peace—peace built not on vain hopes and good intentions, but on solid realistic grounds."
He urged that peace not be taken for granted and said that when this happens "its survival is in jeopardy."
"Lasting peace can be achieved only through lasting awareness, lasting good-will, and lasting strength—both physical and moral."

He said that there are some people in America who would like to turn inward and away from the world's problems, "who believe America has enough problems of its own without intervening in others."
But he said that America must continue to be a part of a larger world.
"We may seek to ignore the world," he said, "but the world will not ignore us."
Apparently referring to India's detonation of a nuclear device, he said "it is clear that when atomic weapons are spreading, when famine stalks parts of the earth and when parts of the world are a tinderbox, "to turn our backs on our responsibilities for world leadership, would, in the long run, be disastrous, not for only us, but for all the people in the world who seek peace."
"Today, America's isolation can only lead to the world's destruction," he said.
He stressed that the Atlantic Alliance is the cornerstone of the nation's foreign policy and pointed out the United States' role as a "peacemaker in explosive areas like the Middle East."
He said that the United States has had diplomatic successes in the last five years while he has been President but said such policies must be backed up by military strength.
As he has said repeatedly, Nixon asserted that America must never become the "second strongest nation in the world" and added that it must remain strong if successful negotiations for reductions in weapons are to continue.
"Only a strong America, in concert with its allies, can be a strong force for peace," he said.

Kimberly fire destroys shop

KIMBERLY — A garage, shop and three vehicles were destroyed in a fire early today at the Lyle Jones farm one mile north and one and one-half miles west of here.
Officials of the Kimberly Rural Fire Department said the fire apparently started in the garage portion of a building which also housed a shop and which had not been used for some time. Three automobiles parked near the buildings were also destroyed. The fire was reported at 2:30 a.m.
Firemen said they did not know the cause of the fire but sheriff's officers said a witness driving in the vicinity at the time reported he saw lightning strike the building.

"The young man suffered a fractured skull and fractured leg."

BELFAST (UPI) — The British Army took over two oil storage depots and a number of gas stations in Northern Ireland today in an effort to break a 10-day Protestant general strike. The few workers still manning major power facilities promptly walked off the job.
Protestants armed human chains across many Belfast streets and threw up barricades across some rural roads. They said the strike would go on.
Northern Ireland appeared about to slip into total chaos. Hugo Patterson, a spokesman for the Electricity Board, said those few power workers still on the job walked out this morning. They had been operating the only one of Northern Ireland's five generating plants still working and were supplying 30 per cent of the province's normal need.
"Now it is only a matter of time before there is no electricity at all," Patterson said.
The Gas Board said a gang of armed men in paramilitary uniforms entered the Belfast works this morning and told employees to leave or be shot. Gas supplies to 160,000 families were shut off immediately.
"We'll use the gas being used by the Army break us," said Mrs. Rose Turner, a blonde housewife among a group of young people stopping cars on the city's Shore Road expressway.
The army took over oil storage depots in Belfast and Londonderry and a number of gasoline stations throughout the province.
Police, county sheriff's officers and city police will be on duty.
Memorial Day services were conducted in Twin Falls City Park by the Civil Air Patrol Cadet Squadron this morning.
Membership in veteran organizations has dwindled in most communities to a point where the traditional Memorial Day ceremony with military honors and holiday speakers has been abandoned.
Cemeteries were reported busy as residents decorated graves Friday evening, Saturday and most of Sunday.

Guerrilla raids foul Golan talks

DAMASCUS (UPI) — Syria today refused to discuss the Palestinian guerrilla attacks on Israel as part of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's effort to bring about Syrian-Israeli troop disengagement on the Golan Heights.
The Syrian refusal was reported in an official statement as Kissinger met Syrian President Hafez Assad in another attempt to untangle new snags that have appeared in the past 48 hours.
The Syrian statement was the first official sign that the Palestinian guerrilla issue may have been raised in the Kissinger talks.
Kissinger and Assad met for 3 1/2 hours until 4:20 a.m., and again at 10 a.m. for two hours and 15 minutes, took a 45-minute break and then met for another 45 minutes before recessing again.
They then scheduled a meeting with other Syrian and American negotiators before Kissinger was to take off for Israel at 6:30 p.m. (9:30 a.m. MDT).
An American spokesman said Kissinger would spend the night in Israel and return to the United States on Tuesday.
A high American official said on Kissinger's way here Sunday that "the talks with Assad were decisive for the secretary's mission."
A Syrian statement after the talks began this morning said: "There are still a number of points concerning the subject of troop separation which are under discussion."

It added, "There are points which Syria rejects or refuses to discuss—such as the commands."
Arab guerrillas have struck in Israeli towns twice in recent months in raids that Israeli claimed came from across neighboring borders. The Syrian statement appeared to mean that Syria refused to interfere.
The statement said the question of the guerrillas was linked to that of the Palestinian refugees displaced when Israel was born and was a question to be taken up not with Syria but with the Palestinian leaders.

PROJECTED Golan Heights disengagement agreement calls for Israeli withdrawal from all Golan Heights territory by 1975, Beirut newspaper Al Anwar said today. Ziegler assails House payoff evidence leak

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — Presidential spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler has accused the House Judiciary Committee of leaking information in an attempt to prejudice public opinion which does not have access to the full record of the secret executive session hearings.
"It is unfortunate and indeed disgraceful that this type of judgment—and inference toward the President is made in this fashion when not a witness has been heard by the full committee and before a single witness has been questioned," the presidential press aide said.
The Times quoted three unnamed members of the House Judiciary Committee. It said a notebook kept by Cincinnati lawyer Sherman C. Singer revealed he dined with former Nixon reelection committee official Frederick C. LaRue March 21.
Senate Watergate Committee last year that he served as go-between to deliver the hush money to Hunt's attorney's home, but he vaguely recalled the date of delivery as March 20. That would put the payment one day before the President discussed possible payoffs.

Ziegler said, "This information which has been provided to the New York Times either by a member of the House Judiciary Committee or by one of its staff members is clearly intended to prejudice public opinion which does not have access to the full record of the secret executive session hearings."
"It is unfortunate and indeed disgraceful that this type of judgment—and inference toward the President is made in this fashion when not a witness has been heard by the full committee and before a single witness has been questioned," the presidential press aide said.

Memorial Day weekend quiet, warm

TWIN FALLS — Low officers in Magic Valley reported an unusually quiet holiday weekend today although hazardous heavy traffic was expected during the late afternoon and evening.
Only a few accidents, nearly all minor, were reported Saturday and Sunday. A Twin Falls man, George Culler, about 70, was injured in a motorcycle accident near Halley Sunday afternoon. A Twin Falls youth, Solon Short, 17, was thrown from a horse and suffered severe head injuries Sunday afternoon near Shoshone Falls.
Forest Service campgrounds and major parks were filled to capacity by residents enjoying the first warm weather and long-holiday of the season. Shoshone Falls Park was crowded as family groups enjoying picnic tables close to home and with sightseers viewing the falls which are unusually spectacular now.

State police said traffic was light Sunday but many people appeared to be spending the holiday weekend close to home.
Heavier traffic was expected to begin this afternoon, increasing through the evening as persons return home for work Tuesday.
Officers say the motorists who left home Friday night, Saturday or Sunday will jam highways late today. A full shift of state

Nixon closes 'users book'

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon has closed the 90-year-old "user's book" which recorded the comings-and-goings-of-visitors to the White House family quarters and of the First Family itself.

Tom DeCar, an assistant White House press secretary, said the record was discontinued a few months ago.

Nixon also ordered an end to the keeping of a visitor's logbook at his Florida bayside compound here when he spotted an aide recording his activities.

Washington Post columnist Maxine Cheshire Sunday linked the closing of the log with Nixon's Watergate troubles. She said a report circulated among the White House staff several months ago that former aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman had visited the Nixons in the family quarters and may have stayed overnight in a guest room. Shortly after that, she said, the user's log book was done away with.

"White House sources" said

Nixon may have wanted to keep private some of his contacts with Haldeman and D. Ehrlichman and felt the logbook might be one more item that could be subpoenaed by the special prosecutor of the First Judiciary Committee.

The White House family logbooks were started by White House usher the Hoover in the 1890's in the days of Grover Cleveland and traditionally are the property of the First Lady when she leaves the logbook for the Lyndon B. Johnsons is kept under seal at the LBJ Library in Austin, Tex.

Helen McCain Smith, the First Lady's press secretary, said that Mrs. Nixon had nothing to do with eliminating the logbook, but she did feel it was "too personal" in details.

Lady Bird Johnson, as First Lady, used to tape her memoirs nightly and they became the chief source for her book after she left the White House.

Mrs. Nixon keeps shorthand notes of important happenings in her life.

Thieu fires close political aide

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu has fired a major political aide, says President Nixon's firm, sources close to Thieu's Democracy Party said Monday.

The firing appeared to be the first move in a projected party shakeup, sources close to the party said.

Reports that Ngan (pronounced Nyahn) was being accused of spying for the Viet Cong could not be confirmed.

Ngan's office near the presidential palace was sealed up. Employees coming to work Monday were sent home without explanation.

Ngan was not arrested but he could not be reached for comment.

Nguyen Van Ngan's official title was special assistant in charge of liaison with the National Assembly. The sources said he was dismissed by a presidential decree last Saturday.

The dismissal surprised political observers in Saigon. Ngan was regarded as Thieu's chief operative in securing legislative support for such measures as the recent constitutional amendment which will permit Thieu to run for a third term next year.

Ngan had worked for Thieu since 1968, when Thieu, then an officer in the military junta, began to rise on the South Vietnamese political scene.

Ngan, 38, as a member of the party's central committee, also was responsible for party finances.

Thieu, on grounds of national necessity because of the unending war, has cut back most of the legal-political opposition in South Vietnam.

German magazine withdraws report

BONN (UPI) — A West German magazine threatened with a lawsuit has withdrawn a report alleging that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency considers a new, easy way to catch to be an East German agent.

Governments of Germany and the United States have denied the report.

The editor of the business affairs monthly Capital, Ferdinand Simonet, said Sunday that further research had cast "serious doubt" on the authenticity of a so-called CIA document relating to West German intelligence chief Guenter Nollau.

Nollau himself, as well as the American and German governments, denied the report four days ago when Simonet announced he intended to publish the story.

"New information has cast serious doubt on the authenticity of the copy which was said to be a private study made by the CIA," Simonet said.

"Capital will not publish the article about Nollau."

The allegation had touched off the first crisis of Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's new government. Schmidt's predecessor, Willy Brandt, resigned after discovery of an alleged East German Communist spy on his staff.

Nollau had gone to court seeking an injunction against publication and cash damages for pro-publication publicity. A decision is pending.

'Quake shakes Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — An earthquake measuring 5 on the Mercalli scale and 6 on the Richter scale here shook Mexico City briefly at 11:01 p.m. CDT Monday.

There was no report of injuries or damage in the capital, but light damage was reported near the quake's epicenter, 230 miles southwest of the station and about 60 miles north of the Pacific coast town of Acapulco.

The fastest seismological station said very light damage to buildings was reported, with no report of injuries.

Kennedy unsure of study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — South Vietnam's political prisoners, the State Department has told Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., head of a subcommittee on increasing refugees.

Kennedy said the department has "once again" solved a problem by denying that it exists.

The department's definition of political prisoners, and the contention there is none in South Vietnam, was contained in a reply to a March 25 letter from Kennedy listing 12 recommendations on an Indochina policy developed by a subcommittee study mission to Southeast Asia last year.

The mission concluded that the Thieu government is still holding large numbers of non-Communist political prisoners and getting U.S. financial support to do so.

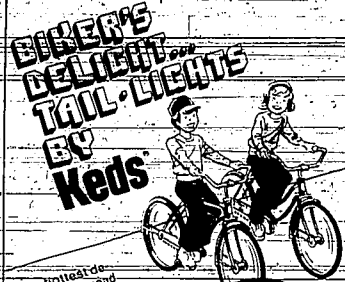

Assistant Secretary of State Lawrence H. Whitehead Kennedy said the "Department of State cannot agree with the study mission's assertion that the record is clear that political prisoners exist in South Vietnam."

"One of the principal sources of confusion in this highly complex matter is the definition of the term 'political prisoner.'" We interpret this term, as applied to South Vietnam, to refer to individuals of non-Communist, nonviolent persuasion who are imprisoned only for expressing their criticism of the government.

Nixon's stand 'on shaky ground'

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., says President Nixon's firm denial to turn over Watergate evidence to the House Judiciary Committee considering impeachment proceedings is on shaky ground.

"I think the House's authority to gain information, whether it is the tapes or transcripts of the tapes or documents, is almost unlimited in the face of a serious impeachment inquiry, which this clearly is," Baker told the

Jury still out on Turner case

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A U.S. district court jury of seven women and five men resumes deliberation today in the marathon trial of Michael L. Kinney, a Turner cosmetics firm executive, charged with the murder of his wife, Glenn W. Turner, and seven associates.

The jury got the case last Thursday after hearing more than eight months of testimony from 170 government witnesses and 60 defense witnesses. It spent most of Friday and Saturday hearing a readback of the key testimony in the case.

It convened on all 26 counts of using the mails to defraud and one count of conspiracy, in the indictment returned last year — the eight men could receive up to 30 years in prison each.

On trial with Turner were aides Harry B. Atkinson, James Francis W. D. Dunling, W. Leroy Beale, Clyde C. Cobb, Jess O. Hickman, Malcolm A. Julian and Hobart Wilder, all from the Orlando area.

The indictment also named three Turner-controlled corporations.

In final summation, special prosecutor Michael L. Kinney said a Turner cosmetics firm had a gross income of $16 million in six years and only 7.5 percent of the amount came from retail sales of cosmetics, the rest from sale of distributorships.

The trial originally had a ninth defendant, prominent trial lawyer F. Lee Bailey, but Bailey won a new trial last month and will be tried at a later date.

Destroyer picketed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The British guided-missile destroyer Kent was picketed Sunday by 35 persons protesting the presence of British troops in Northern Ireland.

"We want the British to leave their soldiers and then negotiate steps for a free Ireland," said Martin Thornton, one of the demonstrators.

About half the protesters were black, who also demonstrated against British guns being sent to Rhodesia and Biafra.

The ship was visited by 1345 persons Sunday.

Editorial brings reader's comment

Editor, Times-News: Who wrote the editorial of April 24, 1974, entitled "Olmstead Should Learn Twin Falls Secret"? It sounds like some young upstart who hasn't been around Twin Falls long enough to know anything about the accomplishments of Ralph Olmstead or the entire Olmstead family concerning their input for good to the community, county, state and nation.

I happen to have organized, help organize and worked on several community "work days" to help neighbors get their farm work done when they had been stricken by illness or accident. The Olmstead machinery and man power were always willingly available.

Ralph has broad background in serving as a working member and chairman on an enormous number of committees. He obtained good results. Perhaps he doesn't want a committee chairmanship in the legislature. If he does, he'll have the drive to go after it. On the other side, he no doubt is intelligent enough to know that when you take a committee chairmanship, you put yourself in the position of possibly not being able to represent your constituents on every issue. Because of your insinuation in your April 24 article, you owe Ralph Olmstead a public apology.

Resolution efforts 'wasted'

Editor, Times-News: During the state conference on aging at CSI last week, we chose to participate in the legislative workshop. The discussions that took place included the bill for limited tax relief to senior citizen homeowners whose assessed valuation is no more than $15,000 and whose total household income does not exceed $5,000.

To avoid any confusion, the workshop participants agreed that the bill should be referred to as No. 519 instead of the "governor's bill" or as the "circuit-breaker" bill. With the rampant inflation that continues, the group voted almost unanimously to recommend that the minimum income figure be raised to $7,200 and that the rent allowance, which was part of the original bill, be reinstated. Much time was spent in preparing the exact phrasing of the recommendation that the workshop participants wanted presented to the general conference for adoption.

Without mentioning the contents of the bill, nor the bill's Legislative number, nor the income increase to $7,200, Mr. Hill asked for a vote by the general conference while many of the senior citizens were asking those about them which bill he was referring to and what it meant. We and others wasted at least an hour of allotted workshop time compiling a well considered and discussed recommendation only to have it not properly or correctly presented for a vote. It makes one wonder???

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

No harm in bending, touching floor

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 14-year-old son enrolled in a gymnastics group at school and came home to tell me some of the exercises the instructor has them do. One is touching the floor without bending the knees. It seems to me that I read somewhere about this damaging leg tendons or some such thing. And that while we used to do it years ago, doctors now frown on it as causing more harm than good. Could you clear this up? — A.R.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You'd give me some information on emphysema? I had a test that showed I had a mild case. Is there a cure? Can it get worse? How can I control it? — M.D.

I can't agree that bending the back with the legs straight is harmful. Of course most of us can't do it without practice and conditioning, because our muscles are too tight. But the hamstring (thigh) muscles can be loosened and conditioned if we keep at it. To reassure you — look at the ballet dancers, skaters, acrobats and other athletes who can bend that far with ease because they've gotten into condition. I say don't object to your son's gymnastic program.

Emphysema, a loss of the "balloon action" of the lungs, is not curable, but beginning with giving up smoking (if you smoke) there are various ways of controlling it, to prevent it from becoming markedly worse. Dear Dr. Thosteson: You had a letter from a student of 18 who had rapid heart beat which no one could find a reason for. Our daughter had a similar experience several years ago, without reason even after a dozen tests. By accident one day she discovered what her problem was — allergy to some foods, to dust and other things. She was fluffing her bed pillows (leather stuffed) and had an almost instant reaction. Allergy tests confirmed it, and discovered a list of things to which she is sensitive. She avoids them as much as possible and no more heart problems.

We have a granddaughter with severe allergies but in her react in the form of a severe chest cold, so every patient is different. I hope this may help someone else. — Mrs. J. R.

Let's not give anyone the idea that allergy is a common cause of rapid heart beat because there are more predictable causes. But your letter is a vivid reminder of the curious and sometimes deceptive ways allergy can assert itself. You are so right in saying that each patient is different. It could well be that your observation will help someone else who has been similarly baffled. Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had my sinuses cleaned out about five years ago and I have never

Third powers battle looms

By JACK C. LANDAU

(C) Newhouse News Service WASHINGTON — For the third time in his six-year administration, President Nixon is on a constitutional collision course over his unprecedented claims that his powers to protect the "national security" during peacetime permit him to violate civil liberties guaranteed in the bill of rights.

The President's latest "national security" drama crystallized Friday when U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard Gesell said that Nixon "lacked the (constitutional) authority to authorize" the White House plumbers to "secretly burglarize the offices of a California psychiatrist as part of a 'national security' investigation into the leaks of the Pentagon papers to the press." The court also ruled that it would issue subpoenas to the President requiring him to produce "relevant" and "material" "exculpatory" information requested by both the Watergate special prosecutor and the five men indicted for the break-in at the offices of Dr. Lewis Feltling, a psychiatrist for Dr. Daniel Ellsberg who announced it would appeal a similar subpoena issued by U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica for help information relevant to the coming trial of seven men charged with conspiring to cover-up the Watergate grand jury investigation into the break-in at the Democratic National Committee.

The President is expected to appeal the Gesell order, too and this means that the Supreme Court may have to schedule an extraordinary summer session to hear the subpoena arguments. Former aide John Ehrlichman, indicted in the Watergate break-in, and his four codefendants are expected to appeal the Gesell order throwing off their defense that the break-in was justified by Nixon's "national security powers."

Nixon will be the center of this appeal because he told the Supreme Court that he delegated to Ehrlichman "the fullest authority of the President under the Constitution" to probe the "national security" leaks of the Pentagon papers. The Nixon claims are the most concentrated use of the national security power in any single administration. The first came during the Civil War when President Lincoln suspended civil trials and arrested a suspected Southern spy in Indiana, a non-combat area. The courts had no power to insist on constitutional due process for a trial during a war — The Supreme Court ruled against him.

During World War II, President Roosevelt ordered Japanese-Americans to be interned in California without trials. He argued that his "national security" powers were superior to the Constitutional rights of the Japanese-American citizens. The Supreme Court upheld him.

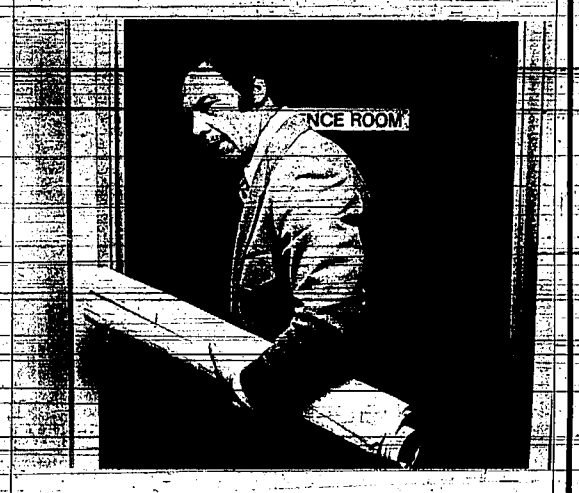

In 1952, President Truman seized the steel mills. He argued that his "national security" powers were superior to the Constitutional guarantees for the protection of private property. The Supreme Court ruled against him.

How to explain to the board why you back to build a Butler building in the midst of an energy and building materials shortage.

First of all, tell the board you know your local source for Butler buildings.

Then tell them you can build you a building that'll save time and money. That'll get their attention.

Next, tell them you realize there's a shortage of many building materials, but that we've assured you this shouldn't be a problem. Butler has been able to maintain a pretty good backlog of their materials. And we feel very confident that we can build you the building you need. When you need it.

Then, talk to them about the energy crisis. Explain that Butler buildings are designed to take full advantage of good insulation. That Butler's roof and wall systems, insulated properly, will give the best available seal against outside heat and cold. Then tell them that the more energy they save, the more money they'll save.

We'd like to make one more suggestion. Before you meet with the board, let us meet with you and give you all the details. Call us any time.

Lawyer status remains 'high'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The legal profession has not been stained by Watergate, despite the involvement of numerous lawyers, says Chesterfield Smith, president of the American Bar Association.

"I don't agree that it was planned, directed or covered up by lawyers," Smith said Sunday during a broadcast interview on NBC's Meet the Press.

"Those people ... of course may have had legal training, but they weren't acting as lawyers or exercising legal skills or doing anything that lawyers normally do or doing anything that relates to the practice of law as such," Smith said.

And any question of disbarment, President Nixon, he said, should wait until the President has left the White House and started practicing law.

VP warns Nixon on tape refusal

DANBURY, Conn. (UPI) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford says he has warned President Nixon that refusal to turn over White House tapes and documents requested by the special Watergate prosecutor could increase the chances of impeachment.

"I want the facts out," the vice president told newsmen here Sunday.

Ford, noting that he and the President differ on the question of handling the Watergate affair, said he urged the President to modify his "stone-walling" defense against requests for further White House evidence.

"He did not reveal Nixon's responses to his advice," however, the vice president said he expected Nixon would deliver more tape recordings if the President was directed to do so by a "definitive" ruling from the Supreme Court.

"At his meeting with Nixon last week, Ford said, 'I indicated that this (stone-walling) could lead to a criminal indictment on the basis of the facts that I don't see necessary to implicate the offense, and sometimes important facts are overlooked. I want the facts out.'"

"Any relevant information, tapes, transcripts, other documents — relating to impeachable offenses — I think should be made available," he said. "I do not think that the White House doors ought to be opened for all the snipers — and some of them are — to go in there and ransack the White House."

WH aide explains 'vendetta' plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Organized labor and liberal organizations conspired in a vendetta starting last year to impeach President Nixon, says White House counselor Anne Armstrong.

"Organized labor set two goals before the Watergate hearings began," she said. "Number one, the impeachment of President Nixon, and they were joined in this — I call it a vendetta — joined in it by other organizations such as the ADA (Americans for Democratic Action) and the American Civil Liberties Union — and (Ralph) Nader — forces and certain remnants of (Sen. George) McGovern's followers, and they set out on an organized, concerted, orchestrated effort to impeach the President."

She was interviewed Sunday by National Public Affairs Center for Television reporter Jim Lehrer on a program to be carried today by Public Broadcasting Service members.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If inflation continues unchecked at its present record levels it could cause "a significant decline of economic and political freedom for the American people," according to Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns.

The former Stanford University economist told graduates at Illinois College in Jacksonville, Ill., "No country that I know of has been able to maintain widespread economic prosperity once inflation got out of hand — And the unhappy consequences are by no means solely of an economic character."

"If long continued, inflation at anything like the present rate would threaten the very foundations of our society," Burns said. Federal spending had increased 50 per cent since 1969 and the national debt rose by $100 billion increasing demands of government on an already undermined private sector.

SENATE Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd said Sunday he sees President Nixon as "a law and order President who says subpoenas must be answered by everyone except himself."

Byrd added that a court could hold Nixon in contempt for withholding evidence and predicted the Supreme Court would uphold Jaworski's appeal. (UPI)

Hearst search drawing blanks

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The frustrating search for newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst and two fugitive members of the Symbionese Liberation Army led police on an unproductive 90-mile chase into Santa Barbara County Sunday, possibly the false alarm was only one of many that have occurred since six members of the terrorist group died in a fiery gunbattle with police and FBI agents May 17.

But it emphasized law enforcement authorities remain convinced Miss Hearst and William and Emily Harris, fellow SLA members, were still in Southern California, possibly finding shelter with SLA sympathizers.

"A white couple, both in their late 20s, were stopped in their mustang and white van near Upland, Calif., possibly by police from three counties armed with revolvers and shotguns."

"They were cleared of any connection with the SLA, however, and released."

"It was a citizen's lead and turned out to be nothing," a Los Angeles police department spokesman said.

The FBI said the only evidence of the whereabouts of Miss Hearst and the remaining members of the SLA have been the hundreds of reported sightings of the trio by citizens.

But, the FBI admits, the reports are becoming fewer.

"The phone calls have fallen off," an FBI agent said. "But we're still getting lots of leads from interested and concerned citizens and we're running them out as fast as we can."

Several sweeps were made of area highways by police during the weekend on the hunch that the trio may be trying to escape the country in the crush of Memorial Day holiday traffic.

Law enforcement authorities along the Mexican border have also been alerted to watch for Miss Hearst and the Harrises.

The FBI had little comment about a tape recording given to Berkeley FM radio station KPFA Saturday.

A voice on the tape identified herself as "Cibola," and said she was a "General Field Marshal" of the "Federated Forces of the SLA."

On the 16-minute recording, she urged SLA sympathizers to "form combat units" and attack "the corporate state."

She also advised Miss Hearst and the Harrises to "regroup and do nothing in haste — no, will unite in time."

The FBI said it was looking into the tape but did not believe it has anything to do with the SLA.

Quality queried

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell, Jr., said today that the recent trend toward expanded rights of criminal defendants is partly explained by the poor performance of lawyers for the state.

Powell, who took his seat as an appointee of President Nixon in January of 1972, said he has been disappointed in the quality of the briefs and arguments before the high court — particularly those presented by lawyers from state attorneys general.

"Some of the weakest arguments come from these representatives of the public interest," he said in remarks prepared for a meeting of the 5th US Circuit Court of Appeals judges in New Orleans.

"As a general observation it is safe to say, especially where important issues of constitutional law or criminal procedure are involved, that law enforcement is frequently outgunned — and overmatched by the defense," he said.

Wallace aides downplay meet

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Democrats across the nation apparently are felling Gov. George Wallace's attempt to gain control of the party's miniconvention, and Wallace's aides have begun downplaying the importance of the Dec. 6-8 meeting at Kansas City, Mo.

Early returns from caucuses and elections in several states, mainly in the South, show Wallace's delegates are doing fairly poorly, and observers predict now the governor will end up with only 25 to 30 per cent of the delegates.

Wallace had hoped to carry a majority of the delegates to miniconvention and force the party to write his views on racial-bus and tax-reform into the Democrats' first national charter.

But early returns from caucuses in South Carolina and Tennessee show Wallace failed to pick up any delegates, and he has only one of the 14 delegates chosen in Mississippi.

However, he likely will win several delegates in Alabama.

"Democrats in most states have not yet selected delegates," Wallace aides, who last year held high hopes for the miniconvention, now refer to the meeting as a "three-day cocktail party."

"What we are trying to do," said Michael Griffin, Wallace's national campaign coordinator, "is to get our people — many of whom have never participated before — to participate in the party caucuses so they will be ready for 1975."

"We may not do as well as some people expect us to do this time, but we'll be ready when it counts in 1975."

Griffin said a true test of the viability of the campaign will be delegate elections in Maryland, Michigan, Texas, Florida and North Carolina "where we are putting our people on the ground and organizing."

Griffin said the Wallace people intend to contact every miniconvention delegate, to determine how many mainline Democrats can be swung to their side.

GOV. WALLACE ... attempt slows

Haig claims Nixon ability unimpaired

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate has not hurt President Nixon's ability to run the government, according to his chief aide Alexander M. Haig.

"Notwithstanding the difficulties, we've made further progress in bringing government back to the people, in suppressing drug traffic, in bringing back normalcy — the return to sanity, if you will — within our society," Haig said in an interview in the latest issue of U.S. News and World Report.

But he acknowledged that Watergate has had an impact on the conduct of the nation's business.

Administration abandons income maintenance aid plan for poor

(U) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON—The Nixon administration has abandoned its commitment to income maintenance aid for the poor as a substitute for the present welfare system.

Officials at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare are working on alternative plans, including raising the present system that President Nixon and others in his administration have routinely referred to as "that welfare mess" and had vowed to scrap.

Caspar W. Weinberger, secretary of health, education and welfare, said the administration had never been wedded to the income maintenance plan, which would provide cash instead of food, and services, such as food and clothing, to the poor.

Weinberger said this marked the first time there was any hint that the administration was considering a plan other than a direct cash payment program.

Also, it was the first indication that officials were thinking of keeping the present system.

Weinberger said HEW "hired perhaps four different kinds of programs to replace the welfare program."

The secretary denied the end of total commitment to income maintenance had anything to do with the President's difficulties in the Watergate scandals or impeachment proceedings. Some political sources suggested, however, that the administration would not submit such a proposal for fear of alienating conservatives in Congress whom he might need in case there are votes on impeachment.

Weinberger said the only political consideration was that the whatever plan proposed by the administration had enough support to get through Congress.

Weinberger said officials were considering—as alternative plans a revenue-sharing plan that would send federal funds back to the states to use as they wished and a negative income tax plan that would provide tax-free money to the poor up to a certain amount.

Nixon promised, in his State of the Union message in January, to propose an income maintenance program. Officials said shortly thereafter that a plan would be ready by March or sometime in the spring.

At the time, though, the administration was warned by some conservative Republicans, including Rep. Edward J. Derwinski of Illinois, that the President was playing up to liberals with such a proposal while he should be catering to conservatives, many of whom oppose giving cash money to the poor.

Weinberger explained the three options as follows:

"One would provide the poor with tax-free money and when they get above a certain income, through work, they would pay taxes on it. Of course, this would depend on elimination or cashing out of other programs, like food stamps and clothing allowances. The people ought to be able to fulfill some kind of work requirements, and as they make more money it ought to be an incentive for them to get off welfare. The great bulk of people on public assistance want to get off, we have found."

"Another option is to leave the system the way it is and try to make it better, and we've already done that. The question is whether that's all we should do. Therefore, we would concentrate our efforts on better management and continue to improve it. This option would be dictated by the fact that it isn't possible to get support for anything else."

"And then there is revenue sharing. We simply give the money to the states and let them do what they want, including keeping the present system. But a basic contingency for getting the money has to be that the states institute cash payments. We don't want to devise another system of separate categorical programs."

Airline, union gain accord

NEW YORK (UPI)—American Airlines and the Transport Workers Union (TWU) reached a tentative agreement Sunday night just 90 minutes before a 30-day cooling off period imposed by the National Mediation Board expired.

Although no job action was threatened, the union, which represents 17,000 employees, could have called a strike after the midnight deadline and crippled the airline, according to an airline spokesman.

Details of the agreement were not made public, but TWU international President Mark G. Gorman said the terms were "the best benefits, working conditions and wages in the industry."

"The contracts for various employee categories are all scheduled to run to August 31, 1975. They will become effective after each is ratified by secret mail ballot by the separate employee groups.

A TWU spokesman said meetings will be held by the union in all locations to explain and report the details of the settlements. He said after the membership meeting, the details of the settlement may be made public.

Patient last

NEW YORK (UPI)—Hospitals must improve their outpatient services. A major defect in the hospital system is that the service operation has been designed for the comfort of the physician and administrator, and the patient is the last person to be considered.

This is according to Dr. Stanley Reicinman, director of community medicine, Hospital for Joint Diseases and Medical Center in New York City.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Regarding "Normal girl" who wanted to know why you replied, "Lovely" to the 16-year-old girl who was saving her virginity for her husband, may I comment?

I am a male, 55, who has been a social worker for 18 years. I don't know how mature "Normal girl" considers herself to be, but if (as she claims) all that is necessary for a beautiful and guilt-free sexual relationship between a guy and a girl is that they "love" each other, it's a wonder we are not all in bed by the time we are 13.

Respect needed

Children, by their own immature standards, start "falling in love" very early in their lives. What keeps most young girls from going all the way is respect for the standards of their parents, teachers, and community.

CLEVELANDER

DEAR CLEVELANDER: As I view it, of equal importance to respect for the standards of one's parents, teachers and community is respect for one's self. But according to my mail, what keeps most young girls from going all the way is fear of pregnancy, fear of V.D., and fear that the boy might tell a few dozen of his closest friends—and in that order.

DEAR ABBY: Norton's wife, who complained that Norton never opened his mouth in company, and consequently everybody thought he was unfriendly or mad, reminded me of a cousin of mine. Her husband was a very quiet man, but it was beautiful to watch her draw him into the conversation by saying, "Larry, why don't you tell the folks about the night talkman who found the cat locked in the office?"

That gave Larry a chance to talk without making him feel self-conscious. I've always admired my cousin for the consideration she showed for her quiet husband.

KISSIN' COUSIN

DEAR COUSIN: She deserves to be kissed. The world could use more wives like her, and fewer wives who make a practice of interrupting their husbands to finish a story he's telling.

DEAR ABBY: The mother who labeled her son and his wife "fatheads" because they were denying her the pleasure of being a grandparent should have applied that label to herself. She apparently wants them to add to an already overcrowded world, regardless of their feelings, simply for her own selfish pleasure.

While the "Bible" does say, "Go forth and multiply" and there is a timely quotation in "How has that multiplied the nation and not increased the joy" (Isaiah 61:3).

The last thing the world needs is children whose parents were high pressured into such a serious and permanent decision. There should be a national organization to assist parents who are being pressured to "have children, and to inform those well intentioned, but misguided, people who try to make couples feel guilty or abnormal for remaining childless."

POPULATION CONTROL

DEAR FORT: Would you believe there is such an organization? It's the National Organization for Non-Parents: 515 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022.

CONFIDENCIALMENTE—A AQUELLOS QUE HE, DE ENVIDIO: Usted tiene toda la razon de estar enojado por los comentarios que escribi "Ja maoria de hombres de origen espanol." Fue una generalizacion absurda de mi parte. Lo debia de haber sabido.

Improved communications result from formation of CSI faculty senate

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The creation of a faculty senate at the College of Southern Idaho has improved communication, according to the senate chairman.

Stephen Carter, looking back over the first four months of the fledgling organization's existence, said, "If we've achieved anything so far, it's been a better communication between faculty."

Created Feb. 15, the senate is the first organization to include the entire faculty from both vocational and academic segments of the college.

The establishment of the senate was "basically" an attempt to unite the faculty together in a single organization, which all faculty could belong to and which would represent all faculty," Carter said.

Exactly unit was sought so there would be a College of Southern Idaho, not a vocational or academic college, Carter said.

In addition, some faculty members feel the creation of the senate may give the faculty a more significant influence on college affairs.

The move towards a coordinated faculty group was encouraged by the administration, according to Carter. Apparently, faculty members have sought for several years to have a professional organization such as the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) or the Idaho Educational Association (IEA) recognized as the official body to represent the faculty.

In contrast to these outside organizations, the senate is an internal body. This is the reason why the idea of a faculty senate was successful with all parties including the administration, and the vocational and academic faculty, according to Carter.

According to its constitution, the senate is "the official representative body of the college faculty... empowered to act for the faculty in matters pertaining to the college." Powers of the senate include the initiation, consideration and recommendations of policy within the scope of its authority.

The entire senate, about 110 members, is set up to meet only twice a year, except when unusual problems arise. But the senate's executive committee and special committees meet on a regular basis.

The executive committee has six members plus chairman Carter, a history and government professor. The six members are chairmen of the six senate committees.

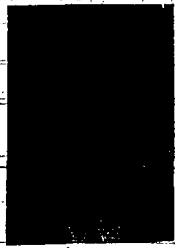

Most significant among the committees is the professional standards committee. In the future, the committee may be concerned with rank and tenure among the faculty, according to Carter, although it isn't now. Potentially, he said this committee may be the farthest reaching. It would probably handle tough problems like faculty censure and others if they cropped up at CSI, although it is doubtful whether CSI would have difficulties like those experienced by some California and eastern schools.

Other committees consider salary and fringe benefits; sabbaticals, leaves, grants, scholarships and research; public relations; internal affairs; and institutional affairs.

The internal affairs committee deals with policy matters.

By WALTER SULLIVAN (c) N. Y. Times Service
NEW YORK — In the most ambitious exploration effort ever undertaken with deep submersibles, three of the world's deepest-diving craft are to make some 60 penetrations this summer into the volcanic rift valleys of the mid-Atlantic.

According to the schedule announced in Washington, the dives will be divided, about evenly between the American Craft Alvin and two French submersibles, the Bathyscaphe

Hagerman reports honor roll

HAGERMAN — Honor roll for Hagerman High School for the final nine weeks is announced.

Students on the A honor roll include Diana Jones, senior; Tami Bruhn and Doug Hanson, juniors; Val Hansen and Kelly Jones, freshmen; Christy Arriaga, Debbie Holley, Tammy Pearson, Sonia Upplano and Mary Wilson, eighth; Kerri Black, Nancy Cox, Kay Hansen, Patti Sellers, Ann Volder and Martin Cole, seventh grade.

Those on the B honor roll are Kip Allen, Lucy Jenks, Sharon Lapp, Paul Peterson, Rha Solter, Kent Upplano, Josh Martin, Terri Moreland and Connie Butters, seniors; Rhonda Jenks, Jeri Billiard, Kay Bridges, Kay Gary, Lee Cox, Rex Dalton, Susan Pearson, Kim Lemmon, Mary Twilchell, Valerie Pepper, Becky Moore, Roxie Burch and Curtis Hansen, juniors.

Lana Williams, Karen White, Eric Upplano, Lenny Tate, Nancy Jenks, RaNea Jenks, Phil Goss, Vicky Barnett and Jill Asplante, sophomores; Jeff Brown, Mike Butters, Margo Ellis, Juanita Manchaer and Ron White, freshmen; Susan Altshirich, Doug Bennett, Jess Burch, Connie Burton, Todd Choules, Barry Dalton, Dawn Jenks, May Lou Lloyd, Vickie Turner, Brenda Lockhart, and Teresa Zapata, eighth grade.

Seventh graders were Doris Oulbertson, Jull Cortabarie, Gloria Jenks, Tim Peterson, Robert Sandy, Christy Schuler, Justice Zapata, and Jennifer Savage.

Arche and the "Diving Saucer" Cyana. Each will be supported by her own, specialized mother ship.

In the climactic phase of the three-year project they will seek to enlarge knowledge of the mid-ocean eruptions that create "new" ocean floor, generating earthquakes and metallic deposits as the eastern and western halves of the Atlantic are dragged apart.

The concept that the Atlantic floor is spreading from the rift along its centerline—ridges is part of the new view of the earth's surface as formed of gigantic plates that, for reasons not fully understood, are moving with respect to one another.

Because of the intensive mapping of the dive area, some 200 miles southwest of the Azores, conducted during the past two years in preparation for the coming dives, the region is better known than any other sector of the deep ocean. The most sophisticated photographic and sonar systems—some of them still classified by the military—have been used in the area by American, British and French vessels.

Furthermore, in a series of seven preliminary dives last summer, the Arche made obtained a preview of what to expect in the steep-walled valley. It was evident that penetrating the black depths of this region, close to 10,000 feet below the surface, is not without its hazard.

The water pressure is sufficient to crush any ordinary submarine. The only lighting is that provided by the craft's lamps and visibility is limited to a few dozen yards. The Arche, an elephant among submersibles, can only make about two knots.

Its first dive into the rift zone, was manned by a two-man crew under Lt. Cmdr. Huet de Froberville, leader of the Bathyscaphe group, with Dr. Xavier Le Pichon, as observer. Dr. Le Pichon is chief scientist on the French side while Dr. James Heintzler of the Woods Hole oceanographic institution is his counterpart on the American side.

One of the second dive, Dr. Robert Ballard of Woods Hole was the scientist.

This summer it is hoped that four dives can be made by the Arche during each of four periods at sea between June 25 and Sept. 2. She must be towed to and from port by her mother ship, the Marcel Le Bihan.

The Alvin, operated by the office of naval research, is to make three series of dives, from June 20 to Aug. 11, tended by its mother vessel, a catamaran called Lulu that an lift it out of the water.

The Arche, which depends for its buoyancy on a large envelope of gasoline, is far too bulk to be lifted in this manner. The Alvin dives will also be supported by the Woods Hole ship Koor.

The Cyana will make four series of dives during the same period. Because of its greater maneuverability, she will concentrate on a transverse rift known as fracture Zone A. It is typical of the mid-ocean rift valleys that they are repeatedly offset by such fracture zones.

Blaine resources development key

Statement opposes federal control

FILER — Three representatives of the Halley Canal Co. will present a written statement opposing federal control of state waters at a Boise hearing Tuesday.

Canal company members will draft a statement "opposed to the take-away program" at a special meeting Monday night, Ray Schmidt, company operator, said today.

The Idaho Water Resources board is holding a hearing at the Statehouse Tuesday afternoon concerning a proposal by the Federal Water Resources Council. The proposal includes possible in-basin transfer of water, federal jurisdiction over water rights and reallocation of existing storage in an effort to use the country's water resources more efficiently to meet energy needs.

HAILEY — Development must not exceed the county's resources, according to the introduction of the Blaine County comprehensive plan.

The planning and zoning office has decided to release portions of the plan which will be turned into the planning and zoning commission June 5.

David Vbay, county planner, said the public should begin thinking in terms of what the plan will do for Blaine County.

The plan calls for open space, environmental protection and restrictive development in areas found capable of absorbing the impact.

The plan reads "Blaine County can anticipate a steady increase in population over the next two decades. Considering its total private land area, Blaine County has a relatively small percentage of land that is suitable for intensive (residential) commercial or recreational uses."

"Growth will not just 'happen' even in those areas designated for development," the plan continues. "If a growing population is to be accommodated by development that is compatible with Blaine County's character and country side, strong measures must be taken to curb strip and grid patterns of development."

The plan says "the quality and characteristics of Blaine County's existing landscape and developments cannot prevail against current development trends. Today's stretches of structures along the highways, shopping centers on the outskirts of towns and housing spread-out across the fields are the indications of the pattern of tomorrow."

"Maintaining the economic viability of the county is as critical as sustaining the quality of the environment. However, the two objectives must be regarded as complementary and only development that is consistent with both permitted."

The rough draft of the entire county is almost completed according to Vbay. Various sections on specific land areas will be released soon.

If the planning and zoning commission quickly approves the plan, Vbay hands them public hearings could probably begin in June.

The county commissioners will make the decision on the final draft which hopefully can be completed in July.

Plant strike in 4th week

By ED MITCHELL
Times-News Writer

HEYBURN — The strike by the Grain Millers Union against the Fl. Simplot plant at Heyburn and Caldwell, now in its fourth week, remains unsettled today.

The strike began May 2 after Federal Mediator Jack Garvey declared negotiations at an impasse. The Simplot Co. and American Federation of Grain Millers Union representatives were unable to come to an agreement on wages, benefits and working conditions in a new three-year contract.

Workers began to picket the plants one minute after the old contract expired at midnight May 1.

Production at Caldwell has been completely stopped, but preliminary plans are under way to reopen the facility. The Heyburn plant began partial operation May 6 when non-striking personnel — mostly supervisors and office workers, came from Caldwell to join non-striking plant employees in getting the plant back in production. One French fry processing line has been put back in service.

Since May 6 five of the plant's eight processing lines have returned to operation, according to company officials. Hugo DalSoglio, Heyburn plant general manager, said last week that production had reached about 50 per cent of maximum. Union officials asserted that claim.

According to William Maxwell, Simplot public relations representative, about 500 persons were working in the Heyburn plant this week. Success in hiring new help and the return of some union workers have allowed Caldwell personnel to return to their own plant.

Maxwell said about 100 union members have been permanently replaced by new employees at the Heyburn plant. Letters of notification have been sent to the workers who were replaced. New employees are being paid the rates which in the union refused before the strike, Maxwell said.

Picketing at the Heyburn plant has been generally peaceful, with some exceptions. Roofing nails allegedly were thrown on the plant grounds during the first weekend of the strike and on May 6, when the plants was reopened.

A fire was set in a pile of wooden pallets behind one of the plant grounds but it was quickly extinguished. No one was charged in any of the incidents.

An estimated 300 striking employees were present when non-union workers arrived from Caldwell. About 500 were counted in the main gate area at one time.

The company then filed a complaint seeking an injunction against the union alleging illegal mass picketing, destruction of property by placing nails on the roadway and intimidation of employees by the large number of people at the entrance gate.

After a postponement to allow attorneys for both sides to work out an agreement, the case came to court the following week on May 19. Testimony was taken from union members and company employees.

Union members said that the main reason for the large number of people at the plant May 6 was that the company had sent letters to workers on strike telling them to appear at work. If they or the company would be free to replace them.

Fifth District Judge Sherman Bellwood ruled in favor of the company and issued an injunction against the union May 22. In his ruling, the judge set limits on the number of pickets at the plant and required the union to keep its members from blocking traffic on the highway in front of the plant and vehicles using the plant gates. The ruling has been challenged by the union's attorneys.

In the meantime, the union called for a nationwide boycott of simplot products made at the Caldwell and Heyburn plants. Arrangements for the boycott were made through the national AFL-CIO office May 10.

On the same day, some workers abandoned the strike and resigned from the Grain Millers Union to return to work. These workers were advised on procedures for quitting the strike by a new union organization called the American Labor Action Committee.

Some spokesmen more than 80 former Grain Millers members have resigned to go back to work in Heyburn.

Workers who crossed the picket lines May 10 were not stopped by the pickets but were photographed as they entered the plant gate. One who crossed the picket line, Mary Oden Senorson, 32, Burley, was charged with arson and assault with intent to commit murder. After she allegedly set fire to the union office the evening of May 16.

No new negotiations have been announced to settle the labor dispute. Since May 1, negotiating teams have met only once, on May 8. No progress was reported at that meeting in Burley.

Picketing continues while Simplot officials try to step up plant production and finish this year's potato run.

Maxwell said most employees at the plant fall into grade classifications which will have a wage increase of 25 to 30 cents per hour.

TRADITIONAL bouquets and wreaths of flowers were placed on "simplot graves" in Maple Valley cemeteries for Memorial Day, as survivors remembered their loved ones. Flowers at the Twin Falls Cemetery are shown here.

Church keynote speaker for Blaine graduation

BY BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Blaine County graduates were told Sunday "a good dash of old-fashioned patriotism is what this country needs."

Sen. Frank Church, D-Ida., told 91 graduating seniors at Wood River High School in Hailey "patriotism is merely love of country, universally shared."

Church gave the 78th commencement address at the high school Sunday afternoon. Joe McFarland, student body president, gave the invocation, followed by the salutatory address by Becky Parke and the valedictory address by Wendy Thurber.

"It has always been said, Church continued, "in this country you could say what you wanted when you pleased without trembling in the night waiting for the secret police."

Church said, "In the good old days every man stood equal in the eyes of the law."

Church said, however, old-fashioned patriotism meant bragging that every American had cars and that America had never lost a war.

"Even though the words were there," Church said, "with old-fashioned patriotism they never succeeded in getting the right message across."

"Freedom is a universal law," Church said, "you can't cut it one way for this and another way for that. We do not draw on a long cultural heritage. Our citizens come from all over the world. Our bondage is freedom."

"If you shrug your responsibility, do not keep yourself informed and do not do your part, then in your lifetime you could see the unity that holds us together break."

The Senator told the class not to let people lead them to believe their part isn't important.

"Even solving falls to each generation," he said.

"The problems you face are many and clear. In searching for the solutions for problems, be a participant and not a spectator."

Church told the class "if you do your part you can say in the end, 'I kept the faith with my heritage.'

RUPERT — A Red Cross Bloodmobile drawing will hold Tuesday from 2 to 6 p.m. in the Rupert Civic Building.

A 125-pint quota has been set for the drawing.

Mrs. Melvin Plughoeff, Mindoka County chairman, blood drawing, has issued a "special plea" for 10 pints of A negative blood and 15 pints of B negative blood at the drawing.

Filer Legion elects

FILER — Newly elected officers for the Filer post of the American Legion have been announced.

Jim Hendricks will serve as commander; Clarence Showers, first vice commander; Richard Tucker, second vice commander; Paul Brown, adjutant; Wayne Webster, sergeant at arms; Ted Glessinger, finance officer; Carl Holmes, service officer; and John Mackay, chaplain.

Blaine budget hearing set

HAILEY — Hearings on the Blaine County 1974-75 school budget will be held at 8 p.m. June 7 in the school administrative office.

Teachers' salaries will increase 14 per cent in the proposed budget of $15.7 million. Salaries were the biggest item increase in the budget which is up from this current year's total of $12.1 million. The budget both years is based on a 27 mill levy on real property.

According to Ray Jefferson, assistant superintendent, school district officials feel that because of estimated increase in valuation of Blaine County property a levy in excess of 27 mills will not be necessary for next year's operation.

Instructional costs including salaries, textbooks and supplies will comprise 60 per cent of the budget-down one per cent from 1973-74. The starting salary for a teacher with a bachelor's degree is $7,500, a $750 increase.

The maximum salary in the district will be set at $11,925.

Administrative funding has risen to $5.7 million from last year's $5.0 million but still represents 40 per cent of the budget. Jefferson said the new budget will expand the salary of the superintendent about $3,000 and the assistant superintendent $250.

Principal salaries also have risen consistent with district administrative salaries, he said.

Expenditures for plant maintenance has jumped from 5 per cent to 6.7 per cent. Next year's budget is proposing $105,000 up from 1973-74's $82,000 maintenance costs.

Jefferson said the district generally needs repairing because of a restrictive operating budget for years. He said some schools are to be repainted, ground work completed including in some instances, installing fences and some equipment replaced.

Fixed charges (social security, insurance, bonding, workmen's compensation, and retirement) will raise a per cent from $32,000 to $41,000. Some bonding costs for administration employees have risen. Jefferson said along with spiraling costs generally in fixed charges.

Budgeted capital outlay has nearly doubled although raising only 500 per cent of the total budget. In the 1974 school year capital outlay was $20,000. The district is proposing $39,000 for 1974-75.

Included in the budget is a $161,000 outlay contingency fund. The county will receive none of the $161,000 however unless the district valuation increases above the estimated $22,450,000.

Recall petitions circulated

IDAHO CITY, Idaho (UPI) — Boise County Commissioner George Emerson says late snow with high water content and equipment failure are causing the "rough and washboard" condition of some county roads.

Doris Stroud, Roble Creek School bus driver, said, "The safety of the children is my prime concern. I have had to drive the bus at five miles per hour because of the chuckholes and condition of the road, but still it would shake and throw the children around in their seats—aloud to the floor."

Water rule hearing set

BOISE (UPI) — A hearing on alteration of water quality standards for waters below the proposed new American Falls Dam will be conducted Wednesday at Burley, the Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS) announced today.

DECS said representatives of several irrigation districts, state agencies, the Idaho Power Co. and at least one environmental organization have indicated they will present testimony.

The hearing is being held by DECS in response to a petition from the American Falls Reservoir districts. DECS said water users are contending that a change in dissolved oxygen standards is needed if the dam is to be rebuilt quickly and economically.

Present water standards call for dissolved oxygen content of six parts per million (ppm) or 90 per cent of saturation, whichever is greater.

The present dam spillway serves from the reservoir before it reaches the power plant. The proposed new dam would route water through the plant's turbines without using a spillway.

That didn't work, either. Some historians contend they know of no language that has survived so many attempts to stamp it out.

Johnny Rutherford is Indy 500 winner

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Johnny Rutherford, never given a chance to finish here in 10 previous times, came charging all the way back from 25th place to win Sunday's Indianapolis 500-mile race in a relatively eventless, smooth run that contrasted sharply from last year's Indy, which claimed the life of one driver.

Rutherford won the 58th running of auto racing's richest spectacle by first securing down pole leader A.J. Foyt and then beating Bobby Unser by 21 seconds.

Foyt was fouled in his bid for an unprecedented fourth Indy victory after a virtually running neck-and-neck with Rutherford for 300 miles. Foyt, however, was forced out on the 143rd lap with a broken gearbox.

Billy Vukovich was third as Rutherford took the checkered flag with an average speed of 158 miles per hour, considerably slower than the record 162, set by Mark Donohue in 1972.

Rutherford, whose Roger Penske team earned an estimated $250,000, predicted he would win the race after officials of the United States Auto Club had denied him a front-line start despite a 100 m.p.h. qualifying speed. They said Rutherford turned up late for his turn in the hole and penalized him for the tardiness by placing him in the ninth row.

Fuel became the critical problem in this year's race with the new U.S.A.C. rule limiting each car to 320 gallons, including a 40-gallon tank capacity. The issue became crucial in the 179th lap of the 200-lap event when Rutherford came in for a final-fuel-stop, which lasted 26 seconds.

The Fort Worth, Tex., driver lost the lead briefly to Unser during this pause, but regained it when Unser went for a 16-second fuel-up on the 176th lap.

Rutherford, driving a McLaren, had only a 10-second lead over Unser, a former Indy winner in an Eagle, and they battled the remaining 24 laps for auto racing's richest prize.

At the end of 190 laps, Jerry Karl's car hit the wall on the 120th lap and he suffered casualties of the left leg.

Rutherford was almost involved in a collision with Jim McClarion and Duane "Pancho" Carter on the 53rd lap. Carter's car spun in turn one and Rutherford instinctively steered for the inside lane to avoid an impact.

In contrast to last year's twice-postponed race, in which Louis Meyer was fatally injured, Sunday's race was conducted under extremely safe conditions. Shortened wings helped curtail speed on the turns, which had previously been a critical point in past accident-prone races.

Wally Dallenbach, alongside Foyt in the front row, took the lead shortly after the green flag, but was forced out on the third lap when his car burned a piston.

Rutherford, meanwhile, showed an early instinct for speed when he established a new track record of 152.84 m.p.h. after 70 laps. The Texan led Foyt at the halfway point of the race with Bobby Unser third and Al Unser fourth.

Defending champion Gordon Jocock, who made frequent pit stops for fuel, was the overall fourth place finisher after 500 miles. David Hobbs of Britain was the only foreigner in the field; Mario Andretti, who has been having trouble at Indy since his 1963 victory, was forced out. In the first lap, with mechanical problems.

Reutemann whose Brabham suddenly slowed down.

Sweden's Ronnie Peterson driving a John Player Special Lotus, won the Monaco formula one Grand Prix Sunday by more than 20 seconds to score his first victory of the year.

South African Jody Scheckter in a Tyrrell finished second in his debut on the Monaco circuit. Frenchman Jean-Pierre Jarrier, in an American Shadow, was third.

Ferrari, which has not won here for the past 19 years, again was stricken by its jinx. Niki Lauda of Austria dropped out with ignition failure while in the lead and Swiss Clay Regazzoni spun at the hairpin and also leading, finally finishing fourth.

Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil finished fifth in a McLaren to increase his lead in the World Drivers Championship to 20 points.

Only nine of the 25 starters finished.

The 78-lap race, run in hot sunshine before about 100,000 spectators, got off to a spectacular start with six cars retiring in the first lap.

Brian Redman of Britain in a Shadow and the McLaren of New Zealander Denny Hulme collided, putting them both out of the action without serious injury to the drivers.

Victims of mechanical failure were Australians Tim Schenken in a Trojan and Vern Schuppan in an Ensign.

Frenchman Jean-Pierre Beltoise was the only breaker of the lead when Italian Vittorio Brambilla—in a March.

Carner fires 68 to win Hoosier event
PLYMOUTH, Ind. (UPI) — Joanne Carner passed leader Donna Capani Young and captured Sandra Palmer by firing a final round 68 to win her second LPGA Tourney in a row Sunday, the Hoosier Classic.

Last weekend she won the Blue Grass Open at Louisville, Ky.

Mrs. Carner, of Palm Beach, Fla., took a commanding two-shot lead at the 13th hole after two consecutive birdies, to stay ahead of Miss Palmer for good and win the $5,000 top money in the $35,000, 54-hole competition at the Plymouth Country Club with a final round of 33-35-68—the best of the day.

Mrs. Carner caught Mrs. Young at the sixth hole, swamping the lead with her several times until the turn at the end of nine holes.

Muirfield, named for the world's oldest golf club in Scotland, is almost sure to become the site of a PGA tournament.

Marsh wins Pepsi tourneyKAGA CITY, Japan (UPI) — Graham Marsh of Perth, Australia, sank a nine-foot birdie putt Sunday on the fourth sudden-death playoff hole to beat Nationalist China's Hsieh Yang '70 and win the $50,000 Pepsi Golf Tournament.

It was the 30-year-old former school teacher's third consecutive tournament victory in three weeks in Japan.

Marsh, starting in the final round Sunday on the 6,211-yard, par-72 Kaitiyama Country Club course three strokes behind the round leader Lu Liang-Huan of Nationalist China and Japanese pro Namio Takasu fired five birdies without a single bogey for a 67 and a four-under-par 284 for the regulation 72 holes.

Ronnie Peterson wins at Monaco

Reutemann whose Brabham suddenly slowed down.

Sweden's Ronnie Peterson driving a John Player Special Lotus, won the Monaco formula one Grand Prix Sunday by more than 20 seconds to score his first victory of the year.

South African Jody Scheckter in a Tyrrell finished second in his debut on the Monaco circuit. Frenchman Jean-Pierre Jarrier, in an American Shadow, was third.

Ferrari, which has not won here for the past 19 years, again was stricken by its jinx. Niki Lauda of Austria dropped out with ignition failure while in the lead and Swiss Clay Regazzoni spun at the hairpin and also leading, finally finishing fourth.

Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil finished fifth in a McLaren to increase his lead in the World Drivers Championship to 20 points.

Only nine of the 25 starters finished.

The 78-lap race, run in hot sunshine before about 100,000 spectators, got off to a spectacular start with six cars retiring in the first lap.

Brian Redman of Britain in a Shadow and the McLaren of New Zealander Denny Hulme collided, putting them both out of the action without serious injury to the drivers.

Victims of mechanical failure were Australians Tim Schenken in a Trojan and Vern Schuppan in an Ensign.

Frenchman Jean-Pierre Beltoise was the only breaker of the lead when Italian Vittorio Brambilla—in a March.

By the 12th lap Regazzoni and Lauda were firmly in command and Peterson was back in fifth place, after being balked by Argentina's Carlos

Nastase wins men's net title

BOURNEMOUTH, England (UPI) — Romania's Ilie Nastase swept past Paolo Bertolucci of Italy in straight sets Sunday, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2, winning the men's singles title of the $72,000 Rothman's British Hardcourt tennis championships.

Nastase, who had played only four matches and nine sets during the week-long tournament, produced his best tennis of the championships and simply outplayed the less experienced Italian.

After losing service in the opening game, he stormed back and permitted Bertolucci just six more points in the set. The second set also was won on a tiebreak and in the third the Italian led briefly 2-1 before going under.

Nastase needed just 58 minutes to capture the first prize of $7,200. Bertolucci received $4,800.

After the match, the often temperamental Romanian signed and gave his racket to a young boy with a broken racket.

"This was only my second outdoor tournament in seven months, so it was a bit strange," Nastase said. "I had to concentrate and fight because I could not really feel the ball."

Sugar price no US appetite curb

By BERNARD BRENNER - UPI Staff Writer WASHINGTON (UPI) - Booming sugar prices haven't yet curbed the American appetite for sweetening coffee and cereal, sugar-distilled pastries and candy and soft drinks - reports from Agriculture Department economists indicate. A report from the agency's marketing specialists last week said demand for sugar remains good so far despite rising prices. Another sizable increase in the retail figure is expected when May reports are released next month. In many parts of the country, wholesale sugar in 100-pound bags was raised to 28.1 cents a pound effective May 15 compared with 12 to 15 cents a year earlier. Corn syrup recently has been selling for less than half the price of sugar. Agriculture economists say the sharp increase in sugar prices in recent months was due to the fact that world reserve stocks have been unusually low. But experts pointed out the 1973-74 harvest will narrowly exceed probable world demand for the first time in several years, and delivery figures show that US cutshippers this year are getting more sugar than a year earlier. According to Agriculture Department records, sugar deliveries from Jan. 1 through May 31 are estimated at 4,225 million tons compared with 3,977 million tons in the same period last year and 3,921 million tons two years earlier.

US seeks loosened meat rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) (UPI) - US embassies in Europe and Japan are being instructed to urge those governments to loosen their meat-import restrictions, it was learned Saturday. A government official said the move is being made because the US, which currently is not restricting imports of beef except under health regulations, feels that "we are having to carry almost the entire burden of softening (world meat) demand." The official said that while the US has kept its beef import control program suspended since mid-1972, countries in the European-Common-Market and Japan have drastically restricted imports in recent months. The controls, ordered because beef supplies are at least temporarily large and cattle prices to producers are low, have forced traditional exporters like Australia and New Zealand to consign more of their beef shipments to the US market. Cattle prices in this country have been depressed by heavy supplies recently and the price leaders have been losing money steadily since last fall. Agriculture Department officials said they do not believe reopening of European and Japanese markets would have any major impact on US prices, but added they felt "as a matter of principle" it is unfair to keep some major markets closed while the US has open ones. "What we're saying is there should be a better sharing of the burden, and we're willing to listen to any suggestions," the official said. Spokesmen said the problem was also being called to the attention of officials in major exporting countries.

Arkansas race seen as indicator

Arkansas Democrats chose this week between young thugs and old lions and provide more clues on what Watergate has done to American politics.

Running on a well-established record in office. He has been in the senate for 30 years and now is its fifth most senior member.

The 49-year-old senator is internationally known as the iconoclastic chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Oregon and Kentucky also will hold primary elections Tuesday, but national attention is riveted on the Arkansas contents between J. William Fulbright and Dale Bumpers for the Senate and Orval Faubus and David Pryor for the governorship.

While he has a record of four years as governor, his campaign is aimed at citizen disaffection with the political status quo, asking the voters to "join me in restoring our faith in the democratic system" and calling the election an opportunity for the people of Arkansas to decide if they want the curse of the country changed. Almost as sharp a contrast is presented in the contest for the Democratic nomination for governor. Faubus, now 64, became the symbol of Southern Resistance to racial change when he tried to block integration of Little Rock high school in 1957, although he softened his image during six two-year terms as governor that ended with voluntary retirement in 1966.

Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore. Morse served 24 years in the Senate as a Democrat and a Republican before Packwood shipped him in 1968, and the former "Tiger of the Senate" lost a combative effort against Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., in 1972.

In Kentucky, Republican Sen. Marlow Cook had a problem getting on the ballot, but made it and was not expected to be seriously challenged for renomination. His Democratic opponent is almost sure to be Gov. Wendell Ford, who has only taken ordinary opposition.

One and same

SHEFFIELD, England (UPI) — Police constable Terence Murphy often was first on the scene after a break-in and often recovered stolen goods. But his reports always showed he had no clue to the culprit.

The paradox was solved in Sheffield Crown Court Thursday when Murphy and the thief were found to be the same man.

Murphy, a 28-year-old father of two, pleaded guilty to four charges of theft and burglary and asked for 24 other offenses to be considered in sentencing. He was jailed for 18 months.

His lawyer told the court that after five years on the force Murphy felt he was not advancing fast enough, so he committed the break-ins to "look good" by recovering stolen goods and earn promotion.

Shoshone coed to study land use

SHOSHONE — Patricia Ann Saras, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Saras, Shoshone, will be among researchers preparing land use policy studies this summer.

Twelve students will be working under a $17,631 grant provided by the student originated studies program of the National Science Foundation under the student project director, Richard N. Williams, Boise, who developed the plan.

Oregon grows

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — While Gov. Tom McCall acknowledges he has disappointed tourists to enjoy "oneselves" but for heaven's sake please don't move here, because he wanted Oregon to avoid the population crunch, he acknowledges things may be going in reverse.
