St. Clair says impeach vote 'doubtful' now

(By Washington Star-News)
WASHINGTON — President Nixon's lawyer, James D. St. Clair, said today he thinks it is "doubtful" — on the basis of evidence heard so far — that the House Judiciary committee will vote to impeach the President.

After sitting through nine days of closed committee sessions, St. Clair said he is "not disturbed over the case so far."

The committee has heard its staff present evidence on the Watergate break-in and cover-up and Nixon's political dealings with the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

St. Clair's optimistic comments came when he was asked if he agreed with those who speculated that the committee will approve articles of impeachment.

Golan pullback set with Geneva signing

(By New York Times Service)
GENEVA — Israel and Syria today signed documents setting out technical arrangements for carrying out their agreement to separate their forces on the Golan Heights.

The technical details covered arrangements for the repatriation of the last of the war prisoners held by Syria and Israel and for the return of the bodies of dead soldiers.

Simultaneously, another Red Cross plane will fly from Damascus to Tel Aviv, the 56 Israeli prisoners remaining in Syrian hands.

The negotiations on the timetable and other practical details for pullback of troops and weapons and the establishing of a United Nations-patrolled buffer zone were conducted by Maj. Gen. Hersh Shafir for Israel and Brig. Gen. Adnan Tayara for Syria.

The signing today was a private ceremony at which the disengagement accord worked out by U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was formally approved.

Carpenters sign pay pact

(By SUN VALLEY)
A subcontractor has signed an interim agreement with union carpenters here, freeing them to resume work on the Wildflower Condominium project.

When the general contract is signed, the carpenters' wages may go up or down, depending on the final settlement.

Members of his union have said that they want a one-year contract — as insurance against fluctuating inflation rates, according to Thornton.

Following today's signing of Golan Heights troop separation agreement in Geneva, Syria's Gen. Adnan Tayara (left) and Finnish Gen. Ensis Sillanpaa shake hands.

Panel eyes commitments

(c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Congressional Committee Tuesday-foreign aid was vital to peace in the Middle East and Indochina and was needed to prevent a split between the developed and developing nations.

But a number of Congressmen told him they wanted to know about secret commitments and values that underpin the administration's aid request.

Members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee heaped praise on Kissinger for his Middle East success, but treated the administration's $2.2 billion foreign aid package with some skepticism.

The aid package treated by Kissinger consists of about $1 billion for economic and military assistance under the Foreign Assistance Act and an additional $1 billion for American contributions to international lending institutions.

But under questioning by Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, Kissinger acknowledged that American taxpayers would pay more than $3 billion when other aid programs were taken into account.

These other programs, it was learned, are $98 million for Public Law 480 food, $145 billion for military aid to Vietnam presently in the defense budget, and $650 million in "cash flowbacks" out of interest and loan repayments to the United States.

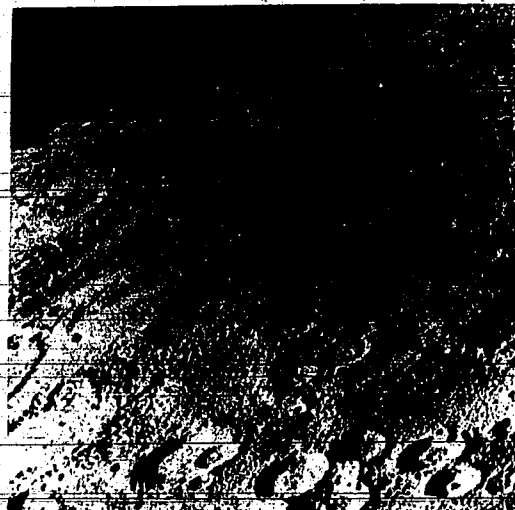

In his prepared statement, Kissinger introduced a new rationale for aid. He said: "The program" could be seen at a time when attempts are being made to divide the world anew — between north and south, developed and developing, consumer and producer." He added that a "cooperative approach" must be made to work.

But most of the Congressmen wanted to talk about the Middle East and Indochina.

Asked about commitments to Syria, Kissinger admitted for the record what had previously been reported from private conversations — that a $100 million request in the bill labeled "special requirements funds" was earmarked for Syria.

But Kissinger insisted that no commitments either implied or expressed had been given to Syria. He did say, however, that he had told Syrian leaders that "in the context of an agreement, the United States would look favorably on aid."

These funds would be used, Kissinger indicated, for the reconstruction of Kuneitra, a Syrian town and capital on the Golan Heights. This city, captured by Israel in the 1967 war, is being returned to Syrian control as part of the recent troop separation agreement.

Kids like whales

TOKYO (UPI) — Three young girls representing thousands of youngsters around the world opened an international crusade today to save the mighty whale from extinction.

The group, sponsored by conservationists, carried letters from 75,000 children pleading with Japan for a 10-year halt to its whaling industry, the world's largest. Whale meat is eaten as a delicacy in this island nation.

"I want generations to come to have the opportunity to see whales," said 13-year-old Christina Laud of Sweden.

"There are many children who haven't seen a whale," said 12-year-old Jennifer of Canada. "I think there are lots of children and adults who would like to see millions of whales swimming free in the ocean."

The two girls, along with Tori

Phone helps

NEW YORK (UPI) — In two Asian cities family planning advice is given over the telephone. The experiment by the Taipei Family Planning Promotion Center and the Planned Parenthood Federation of Korea in Seoul is drawing all kinds of inquiries.

According to an analysis in Studies in Family Planning, a publication of The Population Council, most callers asked specific questions about different methods of contraception or about sterilization. Both pilot projects are considered successful in that they proved to be a relatively inexpensive way of providing information, counseling and referral to large numbers of persons not regularly served by a family planning program.

Nixon abolishes subversive list

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The attorney general's list of subversive organizations, which fueled civil liberties debate for much of two decades after World War II, is no more.

President Nixon Tuesday abolished by executive order the once feared list of 309 groups allegedly dedicated to overthrowing the government by violent or illegal means. He ordered federal agencies not to use, publish or circulate it in any way.

Attorney General William B. French III, announcing the order, said the list had "some justification" when President Harry S. Truman created it in 1947. But he said it has become a "vestigial tail on the federal government's security programs" and no longer serves a purpose.

The decision to abolish the list, he said, stemmed from a study done by his predecessor, Elliot Richardson.

Having abolished the list, the administration declined to give newsmen copies of the most recent version of the list, published in 1965 named such diverse groups as the Communist Party USA, several Ku Klux Klan groups, the Citizens Committee to Free Earl Browder (Communist Party former secretary in the 1830's and 1940's), the Hollywood Writers Mobilization for Defense, the Committee to Uphold the Bill of Rights, the Finnish-American Mutual Aid Society, and the National Committee for Freedom of the Press.

3 TF men arrested
TWIN FALLS — Three Twin Falls men were arrested Tuesday by city and county officers in unrelated cases.

Twin Falls County sheriff's deputies arrested Gary Sherman, 27, on a charge of grand larceny about 6 p.m. Tuesday. Sheriff Paul Corder said Shatto was arrested on a citizen's felony warrant. Shatto remained in jail this morning in lieu of $1,800 bond.

Twin Falls City police arrested Charles A. Bailey, 37, on a charge of assault and battery. Bailey was arrested Monday at 10 p.m. and taken to the Twin Falls County jail where he later was released on $300 bond. Police would not release details of the charge against Bailey.

Twin Falls police also arrested Paul E. Grace, 25, on a charge of indecent exposure. Grace was arrested about 11 p.m. He was later released on $300 bond.

The meeting was adjourned with a song led by Craig Karel.

TF police probe theft

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls detectives today were investigating the theft of a washing machine from one business and the breaking of a window at another firm.

Clyde Richmond, an employee of Northrup King Co., told police Monday that a welder was stolen from the fenced compound at the firm in the 800 block of Russell Street over the weekend.

The welder and attachments were taken from a locked area within the compound, Richmond said. He estimated value of the machine at $275.

In a second, unrelated case, detectives were investigating the breaking of a 7-foot by 15-foot plate glass window at the Kirby Vacuum Cleaner Co., 563 Fillmore St.

Kirby employee John Thornloft police — the window was broken by a thrown ball knife. He estimated damage at $300.

Scout workshop

EXPLAINING rocket construction is Maj. Paul J. Wies, U.S. Air Force Reserve, Utah, center, to Magic Valley Boy Scouts, Alan Portocarr (left), Shoshone, and Brent Gifford, Twin Falls.

TF workshop under way

TWIN FALLS — About 120 local Boy Scouts are participating in an aerospace workshop at the College of Southern Idaho this week.

Scouts from the Snake River Area Council are attending the workshop, which organizers claim is the second of its kind in the country. Cooperating to offer the special program are the Civil Air Patrol and the US Air Force Reserves.

The week's schedule combines courses for three merit badges — weather, aviation and space exploration — with presentations by expert speakers in the field of aerospace.

The boys will also take trips to the Mountain Home Air Force Base. The Kimberly weather station and the Twin Falls airport. Air Idaho planes will take each scout for a short flight around the area.

A special class in rocket building will be climaxed with rocket launching on Friday. Scouts will also construct a capsule around a raw egg as part of their space learning class.

The capsules will be dropped from a height to simulate the impact experienced by a manned space capsule. If the Scout builds a good enough capsule, the egg presumably won't break.

According to Ed Schell, chairman of the planning committee, the workshop is patterned from a program held at Weber State University in Logan, Utah. The program was set up here with assistance from Col. Robert Schreckenberg, reserve commander of the Idaho wing of the CAP, a participant in the Weber State program. Speaking to the Scouts this week will be J. Max Ogilve, aerospace education director for the Civil Air Patrol's five-state Rocky Mountain region; who will give a film presentation, Tom Colson, from the Seattle office of Hughes Air West, will talk on the aviation industry, and Maj. Jimmy Conder, Air Force liaison officer to Idaho CAPF, will make a presentation to the Scouts.

Wrapping up the week at the final banquet will be Air Force Col. Bernard Fisher, who was awarded the congressional medal of honor for missions in Vietnam. Merit badges will be presented then to boys who successfully earn them.

Instructors for the classes are reserve officers from Utah. Each man has background experience in the topic he teaches. The program is fairly low cost, primarily because much time and service are donated. The Air Force is paying the reserve officers, CSI is donating space, Air Idaho is donating flight time, speakers are on their own or company time, and CAP members are donating time.

Each boy pays $2 which goes for bus transportation on the trips, merit badges, rocket kit and materials, and administrative costs.

Interest was high for the initial program, and Schell and other Boy Scout and CAP officials hope to make it an annual event.

Vietnam War continuing in jobs, crime, drugs

(c) New York Times Service
In his Memorial Day speech at the Arlington National Cemetery, Vice President Ford asked that the American people remember not only the men who lost their lives in past wars, but the men who survived, often crippled in body or spirit.
For a time there was genuine concern in the country for our prisoners of war in North Vietnam, for the missing in action, and for the returning veterans whose lives were changed by physical wounds or dope or broken homes.

But once the POW's were home, the campaign to employ the veterans lagged, the battle scenes disappeared from the nightly TV shows, and news issues dominated the American mind.
What Vice President Ford was saying was that the act of remembrance for the living veterans was hard, because many veterans, while home, and "free" were really still prisoners of war in one way or another, crippled, broken and forgotten.

It was a kindly reminder, generally ignored, but the human wreckage of wars, the living casualties, as well as the Vietnam dissenters and deserters in Canada and Sweden, are all part of the tragedy.

In all of America's wars, from the War of Independence through Vietnam, almost 44 million Americans were involved, and at the first of this year, 29,170,000 veterans of these wars were still alive.
The hangover of wars is easy to forget. For example, from the Spanish-American War (1898-1902) there were still 1,624 living veterans on Jan. 1, 1974, and the Veterans Administration was still paying out compensation and pension benefits to them and to 28,487 widows of that conflict.
The record of the First World War: 4,744,000 participants; 1,128,000 living veterans. World War II: 16,533,000 participants, living veterans, 13,857,000; veterans still receiving government compensation 1,875,911.
The Korean War: almost 300,000 still on the compensation or pension rolls. And the Vietnam War: participants 9,188,000. Deaths in combat, 46,000; from other causes 51,000. Living veterans 6,826,000; veterans on government compensation 37,135; widows, 32,531; children 81,142.
All told, the Veterans Administration is still carrying on its pension and compensation rolls, 3,266,722 veterans, 1,179,527 widows, 987,803 children of veterans, and 192,536 parents of veterans.
Vice President Ford was trying on Memorial Day to revive interest in the jobs for veterans program. Unemployment among the veterans of the Vietnam War is still much higher than the national average. This is particularly true of Negro veterans, and the incidence of crime among the veterans is also higher than the norm for nonveterans of the same age.
So in this sense the Vietnam War is not over. Steady patient attention is being given to the drug addicts of Vietnam conflict, but the unemployment and crime figures are still alarming.

Ore-Ida contract sets good example

Both Ore-Ida and the Meat Cutters Union should be praised for their new contract settlement.
About 850 employees will get good raises during the coming years, in addition to additional fringe benefits.
It is a favorable contrast with the sorry situation at the Heyburn Simplot plant where company-union strife has led to about 300 jobs lost permanently, and rising tensions which had led to violence, including a gasoline fire allegedly set at a crowded union hall.
Hopefully the fruits of the Ore-Ida settlement will provide all the more incentive for some reasonable, quick, amicable solution to the month-long Simplot strike.

Henry succeeds again

Wall Street Journal
The Israeli-Syrian disengagement agreement, announced yesterday, is in many ways Henry Kissinger's most impressive achievement to date. Some of Mr. Kissinger's critics have argued, although not very persuasively, that his previous spectacular successes, such as the Vietnam disengagement and the opening to China, were historically inevitable anyway. But there was nothing inevitable about an agreement between Israel and Syria, whose mutual hatred and distrust exceeds even the bitterest standards of animosity.
Mr. Kissinger deserves praise for persisting in his shuttle even after the Majdal massacre and subsequent terrorist infiltration from Syria territory. He's not clear yet what role these incidents played in the negotiations. Israeli observers believed that Syria sponsored them as part of its "war of attrition," designed to pressure Israel into further concessions.
According to reports, Israel demanded at that point a Syrian promise to prevent further terrorist activities, which Syria refused. Mr. Kissinger got a compromise under which the U.S. would condone Israeli retaliation, against terrorists. But we doubt we've seen the last of this issue.
Egypt and Syria talk of their negotiating strategy in two stages, first to get back the land lost in the 1967 war, then to secure the legitimate rights of the Palestinians. Inevitably, the second point is a euphemism for the destruction of their state and wonder if it means increasing Arab support for Palestinian guerrillas as a minor factor in the process of military disengagement, but a loophole for their activity could unravel the whole agreement.
If the terrorist loophole remains open, it could be an Achilles' heel during the rest of his Middle Eastern activity. At the same time, there's no begrudging him personal credit for the agreement. In terms of drama, personal effort, and aplomb in the face of apparently insurmountable surprises, it's his best performance yet.

Irritability quotient

Christian Science Monitor
On almost every hand, the irritability quotient appears to have risen. If once an act of coldness or unpleasantness seemed worth marking, now an act of decency is, where apathy is the rule, the merely helpful seems saintly.
Most Americans probably recognize such impressions in a report from the United States in the British magazine Encounter. To take issue with them is almost to prove the point that it is now worth remarking on the decent ordinary human relations that used to be taken for granted.
However, could they ever really be taken for granted? In everyone's memory there must be what used to be called crabby storekeepers, mean bosses, surly waitresses. It was always a pleasure to find someone nice in whatever walk of life.
But the "irritability quotient" does seem to have gone up. The thing to do is not to get irritated about it. That's one way to bring it down.
Another was suggested in a little episode involving a man we know. He deflected a season-end tip to the always genial attendant at an athletic facility. The attendant smiled and pushed the money away and said: no, it was just nice to have people come in who said "hello."

Soviet-Mideast strategy shifts to Persian Gulf

WASHINGTON — A shift in Soviet strategy in the Middle East is taking shape, partly as a result of the success of U.S. peace-keeping moves in Syria, Egypt and Israel; but partly dictated by deeper and longer-range Soviet interests.
Russian influence in the Middle East of Syria and Egypt is now at its lowest ebb since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. But further east, along the rim of the Arabian peninsula and the oil-rich Persian Gulf area leading up to Iraq, Soviet influence will soon be ascending. Hence, the Kremlin's new Middle Eastern policy points to new problems in the Persian Gulf, vital to the U.S. as American oil supplies dwindle.
Actually, the Kremlin is not suffering from the reverses it has had to absorb. Despite virtual liquidation of its investment in Egypt, the result of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's masterful diplomacy, there is Soviet potential in the gradual settlement of the basic Arab-Israeli dispute.
The clearest gain for Moscow is the soon-to-be opened Suez Canal; a precondition for the shift of major Soviet activity from the rim of the Mediterranean east to the Persian Gulf.

Once the canal has been cleared and widened, Soviet naval vessels will have easy access to the Red Sea and around the Arabian peninsula to the Persian Gulf. At one point, Sceptre hard-enforced demilitarization of the canal.
Now, not even Jackson wants to risk offending Egypt by attempting to dictate terms of policing that vital artery. Kissinger's success in helping set the stage for Kissinger's miracles of mediation make him far too valuable an ally for such high-power dictation.
Thus, the canal and its use will be under sole control of Egypt; and Egypt has no inclination to embargo the passage of Soviet naval vessels. This means the canal will funnel military supplies, agents-provocateurs and other accretions to further the new objective to Moscow: create a giant pincer movement around the Persian Gulf, its southern anchor probably in Aden, capital of the radical People's Democratic Republic of Yemen; and its northern anchor in Iraq.
Working in the Persian Gulf embraces and in such oil-rich states as Kuwait, Moscow will create political turbulence in an effort to achieve dominant influence over future distribution of the richest crude oil supplies in the world.

The U.S. has assets of its own. Not the least of these is the Shah of Iran, who has dispatched powerful military forces to help the Sultan of Oman against the Dhofar rebellion. But Saudi Arabia and other Arab states resent the Iranian incursion. Hence a key Kissinger objective is to bring the Shah and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia into alignment.
So long as Moscow had Egypt as its main focus in the Middle East, the shift to the Persian Gulf was tangential. Now, however, Kissinger's shrewd mediation of the basic Arab-Israeli struggle has completely removed Egypt as a practical target of Soviet interest.
But the loss to Moscow may be more apparent than real, which may explain why the Russians failed to block the Israeli-Syrian disengagement. Kissinger finally arranged in last week's cliffhanger.
The Soviet Union, in short, is ripe for putting its new focus on the Persian Gulf.

liners, led by Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, seriously considered a carrot-and-stick approach to Egyptian President Sadat's block of the Suez Canal passage through a newly reopened Suez Canal. The carrot: U.S. development aid; the stick:

Knowledge key question

We should, I think, attempt to put into perspective the quarrel now raging, the resolution of which could itself decide whether Richard Nixon is going to be thrown out of office.
While I am not a lawyer, I take modestly the occasion to rejoice in this, because the issues involved are not those that ought to be adjudicated only by lawyers. Lawyers are there, after all, to interpret the codified sentiments of non-lawyers, and sometimes they tend to tell us non-lawyers not so much what it is that the law says, as what it is that they think the law ought to say.
On the question whether Nixon should release the supplementary tapes there is a historical background relating to the boundaries of executive privilege. The Nixon people have been saying that executive privilege takes precedence over the right of Congress, and of the special prosecutor, to access to Presidential tapes. The anti-Nixon people — I mean not only those who are anti-Nixon, but who take a different position from his on the legal question at issue — have clearly won the historical argument. That is to say, they have come up with situations in which past Presidents conceded that the right of Congress to bring together the case against the President superseded the confidentiality of Presidential documents.
What none of the arguments has stressed — so far as one can tell — is the difference between conversation and documents. The lawyers use what they call the "best evidence" rule. It is required that the President turn over to the prosecutor the "best evidence" available against him. The unforgotten point surely is the extreme importance of certain people's conversation. If the courts have authorized it, a district attorney has the telephone of a Mafia boss in the area of evidence. Then we should's mode of thought, habit of speech, his use of the vernacular, are of no general interest save possibly to sociologists interested in human habits.

Where a President of the United States is concerned, there is a terrible imbalance between that which is revealed in the taped conversation, and that which is sought out. I have found much more discussion given over in the assessment of the tape revealed by Nixon, to how he speaks and how he crafts moral and ethical issues, than to the question: what did he know about Watergate, and what did he know?

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.
when a conversation is reduced to a document, it has been transmuted into something substantially different from what it once was. Professor John Kenneth Galbraith refuses to preserve even the first draft of his books. But he makes the point that there is such a great difference between first drafts and completed drafts that he would not endure anyone's looking over his shoulder to trace his analytical and stylistic progress.
How much more this would extend into conversations. We are all ready to concede that Presidents Washington and Jefferson and Jackson agreed that any document pertaining to any question of impeachment can be subpoenaed by Congress. I do not see it anywhere convincingly shown that the attitude of these gentlemen would have extended to the question of the tape recordings of their private conversations with members of their staff, and on the difference between "the two my own feeling is that a great deal should hang."

AROUND THE WORLD IN 80 DAYS — AND EVERY OTHER DAY!

Standard Ford speech covers all bases all ways

WASHINGTON — Vice President Ford has been zigging and zagging on impeachment for some time.
It's a difficult position for him and since he has to give so many speeches it's hard for him to remember what he said the day before.
Because I admire the vice president I have written a speech for him which should cover all the bases. It goes like this:
My fellow Americans,
I would like to say that I am neither for impeachment nor against impeachment. I believe a little "impeachment" never hurts anybody. But if impeachment gets out of hand and starts to affect the country, then we should decide whether there is another way of resolving the issue which can accommodate the positions of those who are for it, as opposed to those who are against it.
Now let me say at the outset that on the basis of all I have read so far the President is not guilty of any impeachable offenses. At the same time, if he is withholding evidence which could show that he is guilty, then he should turn this evidence over to the House Judiciary Committee and settle his guilt or innocence once and for all.

I have talked to the President on this subject and, expressed my views clearly. He has expressed his views to me. It's possible that on the basis of our discussion we may disagree.

ART BUCHWALD
But the fact that we disagree does not mean that we do not see the question in the same way. The President may have his reasons for not turning over the tapes to the Judiciary Committee, and I may have my reasons for him to get the whole thing out in the open. Because the President is stonewalling Congress does not mean that I do not support his efforts to do the right thing no matter if I personally believe it's the wrong thing.
I feel the House Judiciary Committee has enough evidence now to judge whether the President is guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors and they shouldn't ask for any more evidence unless they believe they need the evidence to find out if the President is guilty or not. If they need it, then the President should turn it over to them; though I think it would be a mistake if the President turned over the material and it was then decided it wasn't the proof they needed.

Furthermore, and I have said this many times, the fact that the President has decided to refuse to give more evidence to the Congress should not be interpreted to mean he is hiding anything. I do not know if he is hiding anything because I have not heard the tapes. And I do not want to hear the tapes because if I heard them I would have to make a judgment as to the President's innocence or guilt, which would be a mistake if at some future date I would be asked where I stand.
In conclusion, I would like to say that I will continue to support the President, although I may disagree with him. And I know he supports me. That's why he keeps calling me in to talk to him about why I am not supporting him. If he didn't respect me, he wouldn't try to change my mind. Would he?

Supply, demand law behind sugar price explosion heard around world (Chicago Daily News) CHICAGO — Mrs. Janet Long was irked as she plunked the "bag-of-sugar" into her shopping cart.

"How long can they get away with this?" asked the suburban housewife. "It's true that meat, vegetables and fruit have gone up in price, but the cost of sugar is ridiculous."

It's easy to side with Mrs. Long on this issue.

At the beginning of the year, she was paying 45 cents for a five-pound bag of cane sugar. Today, that bag costs her $1.32, a 56-per-cent increase in four months.

The cost of raw sugar on world markets has been even more phenomenal. Since January, a pound of sugar has gone from 11.34 cents to 24.25 cents, a climb of 113 per cent. Five years ago, raw sugar sold for two cents a pound.

The ancient law of supply and demand apparently is behind the cost explosion.

"In three of the last four years, the demand for sugar has far exceeded the worldwide production," said John Castevens, a commodities analyst at Reynolds Securities.

"Hopefully, some good will come out of this situation and the industry will expand its production operations."

But major sugar companies have taken a conservative approach to expansion because of the fickle nature of the industry.

The demand for the sweet stuff hasn't eased so far this year.

The U.S. Agriculture Department is forecasting that the average consumer will use about 103 pounds of refined sugar this year, compared with 102 pounds in 1973.

It's not only strong demand for America that's causing the problem. Foreign nations also are developing a sweet tooth.

"It's the newly developed countries that are creating the tight supply," said Castevens. "We've seen it in Korea, Africa and Australia. As their living standards are upgraded, sugar suddenly becomes a status symbol.

Sugar growers also are aware of the volatile conditions prevailing in the market. The industry feeling is that many consumers may reduce their use of sugar. As a result, worldwide planting has remained almost stagnant, despite increased demand.

Of this 12 million tons of sugar used each year in this country, about 5.3 million tons are imported. Most imported sugar is of the cane variety—Hawaii, Louisiana and Florida provide the bulk of the domestic cane production, while 18 states grow sugar beets.

The amount of sugar imported into the country will be determined this week when the House of Representatives begins tackling a proposed five-year extension of the Sugar Act. The sugar bill, first enacted in 1934, sets quotas and regulations for U.S. producers and 32 countries allowed to import sugar here.

The House Agriculture Committee has added provisions to the extension bill which would limit government subsidies paid to domestic growers and abolish a half-cent per pound excise tax paid on all processed sugar. At present, sugar producers get $45 million a year in subsidies—about the same amount collected—from the excise tax.

Experts are divided on future trends of the industry, as the market depends on weather and other unpredictable variables.

If sugar tonnage fails to meet demand in the future, a major shift may be made to the newly developed corn sweeteners or artificial sweeteners. Industry sources said many companies already are conducting extensive research into the development and Amstar Corp. already has purchased a corn refining plant in Texas. The artificial sweeteners, although cheaper, have come under attack from some medical experts because of possible harmful side effects.

Dignity abandoned

Editor Times-News: What has happened to our American law and judicial system? Men elected to serve in the highest office of dignity seem to have gone mad.

America has always held that a man accused of a crime is innocent until proven guilty by due course of law. If this is still true why do we see our lawmakers screaming for the blood of the President publicly, stating him guilty before they have heard the facts?

If a man of a minority group would be accused and sentenced before a trial, the screams of prejudice would shake the land but here we see lawmakers hurling charges real and imagined and in the same breath stating the President guilty of all they desire to make up.

To this person they seem little different than wolves snapping at a hapless victim as it twists and turns seeking escape. Strutting and puffing before TV cameras these men are degrading themselves into cheap bit part actors.

Our national newscasters add fuel to the fire by screaming every word real or imagined made by little men into homes across the land and that were not enough they add hours of personal opinions and interpretations to the vocal screech.

I wonder if these same newscasters and congressmen could stand the search into their own personal lives they are giving the President. I don't think so.

Don't these over-vocal newscasters realize they are building the noose that will one day be used to strangle a man elected to the highest office of dignity? I have opinions, not opinions. I have news, not just maybe if I could hear honest news I would change my opinion.

What ever happened to the press of yesteryear when facts were sought after with a passion, thank God for the few that still do. What ever happened to law and order in high places? Isn't the President entitled to at least a modicum of respect before he is sentenced?

In the minds of many of our lawmakers he is guilty and even an angel from heaven couldn't change their minds.

People across the world look on—in disbelief—as newscasters and sitting congressmen declare the President guilty of every crime that their guttered up minds can imagine. Communists shout for joy and urge liberal politicians to go to greater acts of stupidity.

The hour is late and if this whole grisly mess is allowed to run its course without the American people speaking loud and clear the nation could well cease to be the once great nation it was.

If enough people write their congressmen and state their true feelings there may yet be hope but if they remain silent then an old saying may well apply to this country sooner than we think, people deserve the kind of government they get.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Report gives jolt

By GEORGE C. THUSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thusteson: In a recent physical, my cholesterol was 282, my triglyceride count 306, blood pressure 140/90.

I am presently on Altroid-S, one at each meal, also on a low-cholesterol diet. This report gave me a jolt. My reaction is one of dismay and confusion, since I have always been a relatively good health. I am past 70.

Do I change my life-style as to normal exercise? Will medication and diet be sufficient? — C. E.

I think you are being overly dismayed by the report. While your blood lipids (fats) are high, both the cholesterol and triglycerides, your blood pressure is not out of line for a person your age.

It certainly makes sense to bring those lipid levels down, but I think most people are better off if they are not too upset (or dismayed) over learning that something needs to be done.

Your medication plus diet is effective in lowering cholesterol levels. You have your diet and know what foods to avoid. So that's one thing handled in a somewhat different manner. Keeping the diet low in sugar (and other carbohydrates) is necessary. Carbs do not conflict with a low-cholesterol diet.

As to your "life style" of normal exercise, do not change it. There is no indication that you need to do so, and as a matter of fact, normal exercise will be helpful to you in controlling your cholesterol.

Another thought that may be both helpful and comforting to you: suppose you wait a little while and see how the treatment is affecting your cholesterol. You may get too upset. You are, after all, doing what needs to be done, but you cannot expect the results to become apparent instantly. It takes a bit of time.

Other readers puzzled by either cholesterol or triglycerides (or both) will find both problems discussed in my booklet, "Control Your Cholesterol Sensibly." Send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of (name of newspaper) for a copy. And please, keep the report before you and prompt, don't forget the necessary Zip code.

Dear Dr. Thusteson: Could you sign me more information on how to sign up for the anti-smoking program mentioned in one of your articles? — G. J.

No, but you can do it for yourself. Many of these clinics or "stop-smoking courses" are sponsored by the various branches of the Lung Association (the blank is for the name of your state) and they'll steer you in the right direction.

Dear Dr. Thusteson: I had a physical and my doctor told me I had a fallen bladder. To convince me he even held up a mirror so I could see what he was talking about.

How does one know when this sort of thing is so far advanced that surgery is absolutely necessary and what is then done to remedy it? I am 72 and in good health. — Mrs. T. B.

The indications include infection, urinary incontinence and discomfort. Plus the advice of your doctor.

California GOP rejects 'Gate-stained' prospect

United Press International
Republican voters, firing for what could be the GOP's strongest test yet in November, flatly rejected a Watergate tainted candidate in California, picked a politically unknown war hero in South Dakota, chose a harsh critic of President Nixon in Iowa in Tuesday's primary elections. State Controller Houston Flournoy, a Republican progressive, crushed Lt. Gov. Ed Flourens, who has been indicted on three counts of perjury by a Watergate grand jury, to win the GOP gubernatorial primary in California.

In the Democratic primary, Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown, son of former two-term Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown who defeated President Nixon for the governorship in 1962, turned back challenges from Sen. Francisco Mayor Joseph Alito and Assembly Speaker Bob Moritt.

McCloskey wins by narrow margin

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rep. Paul McCloskey Jr. narrowly saved his congressional seat in Tuesday's Republican primary election, staving off a fierce challenge from millionaire businessman George Knapp.

Governors eye strict controls

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The nation's governors are expected to formally meet today to discuss proposals for government control of corruption in government and politics.

Scheduled for approval at the closing session of the National Governors Conference here was a resolution by Republican Gov. William Milliken of Michigan and Democratic Gov. Patrick Leach of Wisconsin for strict controls on campaign spending and lobbying, a ban on secret government meetings and requirements for financial disclosure by public officials.

The governors also were to vote on a raft of other resolutions and policy statements, including calls for re-imposition of beef import quotas, federal budget-making reforms, end to year-round daylight saving time, and action on health care improvements and protection of personal privacy.

The Milliken-Leach resolution had the unanimous approval of the dominant Democratic governors caucus — 27 of those 32 members on hand in Seattle to endorse it Tuesday — and the bipartisan executive committee of the National Governors' organization, which is carefully structured to keep most politically volatile issues from getting to the floor at its meeting.

John Gardner, chairman of Common Cause, praised the enactment of reform legislation by 40 states since the fall of 1972, and he gave year marks for effort to the governors of eight states he said had been "backward" in the field — including Milliken.

senatorial primary in South Dakota. In what could be a classic political match-up, Thorsness will face Sen. George S. McGovern, the incumbent Democratic next fall. McGovern, completing his second term, was the 1972 Democratic presidential candidate and one of the most outspoken critics of the Vietnam war in which Thorsness fought.

In Iowa, State Rep. David Stanley hardly won the Republican senatorial nomination while Rep. John Culver took the Democratic primary without opposition. Stanley, who narrowly lost to Sen. Harold Hughes in 1968, sharply criticized President Nixon during the campaign.

Stanley said of Nixon: "He's hurting our party, he's hurting our country and he's giving the appearance of having something to hide."

California voters also gave a landslide endorsement to Watergate-inspired reforms, enacting the strictest campaign spending laws in the country.

In all, eight states held primaries — the busiest day so far — and almost everywhere there was a low voter turnout. These are the results: CALIFORNIA — Incumbent Sen. Alan Cranston won easy re-nomination in the Democratic primary over taken opposition in the Republican senatorial primary. State Sen. H.L. Richardson, a former member of the John Birch Society, defeated Earl Brian, a Vietnam hero, and Reagan's former health and welfare director, C.W.A. Stanley, who narrowly lost to retiring Sen. Harold E. Hughes in 1968, easily won the Republican senatorial nomination, beating State Sen. George H. "John" Culver, who was unopposed in the Democratic primary. Gov. Robert Ray was unopposed in his bid for a fourth term. The winner of the Democratic gubernatorial nomination was state party leader James Schaben, who defeated former state Rep. William Gannon and former state Democratic chairman Clark H. Hassness.

SOUTH DAKOTA — Thorsness, in his first political outing, won a clear majority in a three-way race for the Republican senatorial nomination. California voters gave a landslide approval Tuesday to a Watergate-inspired reform, enacting the strictest campaign spending laws in the nation.

Proposition 9, a controversial measure to reduce the influence of money on campaigns and government operations, swept ahead by a margin of more than 2-to-1. With 18 per cent of the vote favored, the count was 576,746 in favor to 247,619 opposed.

Backers of reform advertised it as a model for national legislation to prevent future scandals such as Watergate. The proposition puts a ceiling on how much money can be given to candidates or spent on campaigns, builds a financial advantage for challengers against better known incumbents, and enacts a host of new controls on campaign money. It creates a five-man commission to police the political process, with power to issue subpoenas and levy fines.

It forbids cash or in-kind campaign contributions of more than $50. All donors contributing more than that amount must be registered by name, address, occupation and employment, and must contribute by check or bank draft that can be traced. The reports of all major candidates would be audited.

The campaign treasury of an incumbent would be limited to 50 per cent of the amount permitted his lesser-known opponents. The spending limits are based on the number of inhabitants of voting age and the office sought. Candidates for governor would be limited to seven cents per potential voter in the primary and 6 cents in the general election, and other candidates for statewide office would be held to 3 cents per voter.

The proposition would make it illegal for a lobbyist to make a political campaign contribution — a clause bitterly opposed by organized labor — and provides that no lobbyist could spend more than $10 a month engaging a legislator or other public official.

The measure was generally opposed, although not with great fanfare, by Republicans and conservatives, but split the Democrats and liberals.

The AFL-CIO led the opposition, joined by such long-time liberal standard bearers as the Americans for Democratic Action and Common Cause. Opponents called it "overkill" and a possibly unconstitutional limitation on the right of free speech.

The fight for the proposition was led by Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., who made it a cornerstone of his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, despite pressure from the AFL-CIO, which withdrew its endorsement of Brown over the issue. The campaign of my four years as secretary of state," the state's chief elections officer. During his term he emphasized electoral reform. The official backers of the proposition were the People's Lobby and Common Cause, Ralph Nader's citizen action group, but Brown's advisors and legal staff played an important role in writing the initiative and unifying the several groups behind a single version.

NEW JERSEY — Incumbents faced only token opposition, but the retirement of Rep. Peter H. Frelinghuysen touched off a race among nine candidates in the fifth district. Millicent Fenwick won the Republican nomination by 72 votes but assemblyman Thomas H. Keane indicated he would ask for a recount. The Democratic winner was Frederick M. Bohan.

ALABAMA — Jerry L. Beasley, riding the coattails of Gov. George C. Wallace, was nominated for a second term as lieutenant governor in a runoff against businessman Charles Woods.

NEVADA — State Sen. Jerry Apollonia, a Democrat, and Republican Joe Skeen won their party nomination for governor in a crowded field seeking to replace retiring Gov. Bruce King.

MONTANA — Democratic State Rep. Mac Baucus won the right to challenge unopposed incumbent Richard Shoup for one of Montana's two congressional seats. In the other recent Republican convert Jack McDonald easily won the nomination to take on Democrat John Melcher, who was also unopposed.

Rose Mary bristles at erasure finding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Without saying who did it or when or why, court-appointed audio experts have concluded that 18 1/2 minutes definitely was erased from one of President Nixon's Watergate tapes by someone.

Though the report fixed no blame and suggested no culprit, the lawyer for Nixon's secretary, Rose Mary Woods, angrily labeled it an attempt to "incriminate" her and said she could be charged with no crime because she had no "specific intent" to commit one.

Even before the experts' final report on the June 20, 1972, tape was delivered to U.S. District Judge John F. Tamm Tuesday, attorney Charles S. Rhyno denounced the report as "worthless" and demanded that Sirica not accept it.

He charged that Sirica, the White House and Watergate prosecutors had plotted secretly to prove Miss Woods guilty of some criminal offense, perhaps obstruction of justice.

There was no immediate reaction from Sirica, and it was believed the report would eventually go to a grand jury that is considering whether criminal actions were involved in the tape erasure.

The experts, jointly picked by prosecutors and White House lawyers, were assigned by Sirica last November to find out what caused the 18 1/2 minute "buzz" that obliterated a Watergate conversation between Nixon and then-White House Chief of Staff H.R. Haldeman just three days after the bugging arrests.

In a preliminary report in January, they said the gap was caused by at least five, and perhaps as many as nine separate erases and record operations, all done by hand. The final report, rich with charts and graphs, reached the same conclusion.

"This report draws no inferences about such questions as whether the erasure and buzz were made accidentally or intentionally, or when, or by what person or persons," it said. "The report does provide a solid basis in experimental fact for concluding that the erasure and the recording of buzz required several operations of the pushbuttons on the control key board of the Uher-5000 recorder."

Another expert hired independently by the White House, Michael H. Hecker, told the court he was in "general agreement" with the six-man court panel but feels "it is still possible that some internal malfunction of the machine," not thoroughly considered by them, "could have been partly responsible" for the erasure.

Miss Woods used a Uher 5000 to transcribe the tape. She has testified she may have accidentally "caused a gap" of 4 to 5 minutes while working on it last Oct. 1, but did not erase the entire 18 1/2 minutes.

Rhyno said the panel's conclusions were deliberately doctored to "fit their preconceived conclusions" of Miss Woods' guilt, arrived at during a "secret meeting" Sirica had with prosecutors and White House lawyers last Nov.

The conclusion of guilt was "decided"; the panel was merely to embellish it with a "scientific report," he said. "It is obvious... that this particular report is committed to incriminate our client."

As he has before, Rhyno charged that White House lawyers J. Fred Buzhardt and Leonard Garment "pleaded her guilty" at the Nov. 21 meeting. Then, he said, Sirica told the experts to play detective and that with the blessings of the prosecutors and the court, they illegally conducted tests in Miss Woods' office without her knowledge or consent.

What panel found

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Conclusions reached by the court-appointed panel of technical experts on its study of the 18 1/2 minute gap on the tape of President Nixon's June 20, 1972, conversation:

—The erasure was done directly on the original tape.

—The Uher 5000 recorder used by Nixon's secretary, Rose Mary Woods, to transcribe the tape "probably produced" the buzz covering part of the gap.

—The erasures and buzz were done "in at least five and as many as nine" separate operations.

—Erasures in at least five places required hand operation of the keyboard control.

—Erased portions "probably contained" speech at one time.

—Recovering the speech now "is not possible by any method known to us."

—The June 20 tape introduced into evidence is an original and not a copy.

Lake pollution allowed

(C) New York Times Service
ST. LOUIS, Mo. — A three-judge federal appellate court panel handed down Tuesday an opinion that apparently will allow the Reserve Mining Co. to continue to pollute Lake Superior from its Silver Bay, Minn., plant for up to five years.

The panel found that there was not sufficient evidence now to support a district court judge's finding that "an immediate health hazard existed."

The decision virtually insures that Reserve can continue to discharge into the lake while it converts to on-land disposal, a process that officials say will take from three and a half to five years.

The question by the panel of the Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit, stayed for 70 days an order by United States District Judge Miles Lord of Minneapolis that the discharge be stopped immediately.

Earlier, the same panel had granted a temporary stay of Judge Lord's order.

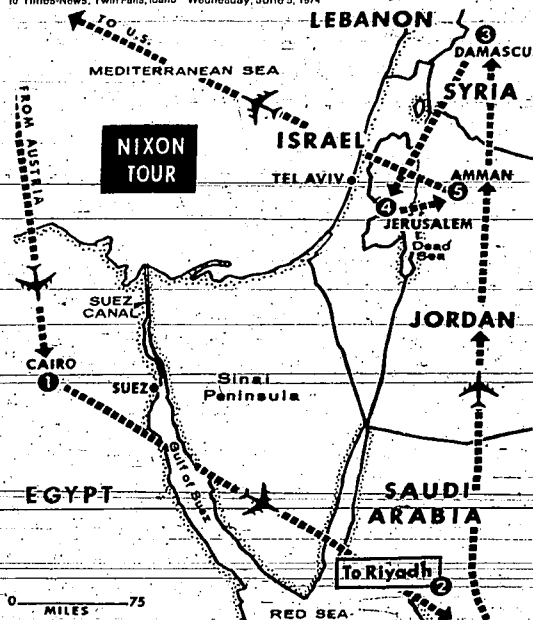

Tuesday's ruling came on Reserve's request that Judge Lord's injunction be delayed until resolution of an appeal on the pollution case as a whole.

The court, in rejecting that request and in granting the new stay, said that it is "unlikely that Reserve will prevail on the merits of the pollution issue."

Reserve, which is jointly owned by Arco and Republic Steel companies, was shut down for two days in April 1973, when Judge Lord's injunction was in effect.

The injunction came near the conclusion of 139 days of testimony in a suit brought by the Justice Department, three states — Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin — and five environmental groups.

Judge Lord based his

Mideast itinerary

TWO-DAY stops are features of President Nixon's trip to the Middle East starting next Monday. After spending June 10-12 in Austria, he will visit Cairo June 13-14; Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, June 14-15; Syria, June 15-16; Israel, June 16-17; Jordan, June 17-18. Return to the U.S. is set for June 18. (UPI)

Probers focus on ITT

(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — The nature of the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment hearings is changing this week.

During eight days of closed hearings last month on the Watergate burglary and its aftermath, much of the evidence presented to committee members was contradictory. The committee's principal job was to decide which material to believe and which to discard.

The panel turned its attention today to whether "impeachable offenses" arose from the relationship between the White House on the one hand and the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation and utility cooperatives on the other.

Few of the facts about President Nixon's role in these cases are in dispute. It will be up to the committee members to pass judgment on the President's motives for the decisions he admittedly made and the actions he unquestionably took.

A new element was added Monday to the inquiry — into the ITT and milk cases — when Charles W. Colson pleaded guilty to one unrelated count of obstruction of justice and agreed to cooperate with authorities.

Colson had direct dealings with ITT officials in the milk producing. His testimony, expected at a later stage of the committee's proceedings, could provide new evidence.

Furthermore, Nixon has refused to supply the committee with tapes of 46 conversations allegedly concerning the milk cooperative case and 20 conversations supposedly about the ITT case. Some, if not all, of these tapes are likely to be subpoenaed.

Nonetheless, a great deal of information on the two cases is already on the public record. What follows, based on public testimony and position papers released by the White House in January, is an explanation of the questions that the judiciary committee will try to resolve and a description of what is known about the President's role in the two cases.

These are three basic questions concerning Nixon's relationship with ITT:

— Did the President order a settlement of antitrust suits favorable to the corporation in return for a promise of a large campaign contribution?

— Did the President obstruct investigations of ITT by the Senate Judiciary Committee or the Securities and Exchange Commission?

— Did the President influence a 1969 tax ruling by the Internal Revenue Service that was highly favorable to ITT?

Experts who have been following the case believe there is insufficient evidence to prove that the antitrust settlement resulted directly from an ITT pledge of up to $400,000 to finance the 1972 Republican national convention.

Magruder starts prison term

LEWISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — James Earl Ray and John Stuntz Magruder, an admitted conspirator in the Watergate cover-up, Tuesday began serving a 10-month to four-year sentence at the Allenwood Federal Prison camp.

Magruder, smiling and in a relaxed mood, told waiting newsmen at the minimum-security facility that he hoped to use his time in prison "to the best advantage and come out and start my own shop."

The 39-year-old former chief of President Nixon's 1972 campaign organization was sentenced in Washington on May 21 by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica after pleading guilty to a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States.

G. Gordon Liddy, convicted mastermind of the Watergate break-in, was hired by Magruder as campaign counsel.

Wine declines

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Distribution of wines with more than 14 percent alcohol declined during the past five years, according to a study by the Bank of America.

Bug probe given new push

(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — The House Judiciary Committee has quickly intensified its inquiry into ITT, so-called "national security" wiretaps authorized by President Nixon beginning in 1969, court records showed today.

A series of letters filed in connection with a lawsuit brought by Morton H. Halperin, one of the wiretap victims, disclosed that committee leaders completed arrangements last week for the Federal Bureau of Investigation wiretap documents and materials.

John M. Donr, special counsel of the committee, told newsmen the legislators would begin hearing evidence Thursday on "domestic surveillance" — an area that would include the wiretaps.

With its access to all of the relevant documents, the house members may finally determine why the electronic surveillance, which began after the first published reports of the secret B-52 bombing of Cambodia in 1969, was expanded to include at least two White House employees who had no access to national security material.

Inflation cure seen via curbs

(C) New York Times Service
WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — Secretary of the Treasury William B. Simon said the United States economy would have to be run at less than full capacity for a "considerable period of time" in order to "squeeze inflation out of the system."

Speaking to American and foreign bankers gathered here for an international monetary conference, Simon said that for the "period" ahead the government's fiscal and monetary policies must be conducted so as to keep total demand for goods and services very close to it, but below.

He said this would inevitably mean that some government spending would have to be curbed, credit could not be "easily and generally available at low interest rates" and unemployment would have to be higher than "an absolute minimum."

"We will have growth and prosperity," Simon said, "but... if we are to make some headway against inflation — the economy cannot operate at flat-out full capacity."

Outbuildings destroyed

BUHL. — Fire destroyed outbuildings at a rural Buhl residence causing an estimated $3,000 to $5,000 damage. According to Buhl Fire Chief Dub Warner the fire broke out at the Gene Baggett residence two miles north and one-and-a-half miles east of Buhl about 10 p.m. Monday. Warner said the fire was contained to a machine shed and a wellhouse on the property, but both those structures were destroyed. There was some damage to a tractor and other equipment in the shed, Warner added. He said he thought the fire started in the wellhouse next to the shed, but he said the direct cause of the blaze has not been determined.

Inflante praised

BOISE (UPI). — The Idaho Sunshine Initiative committee has received praises from the National Governor's Conference for its stand in favor of political disclosure. Mary Mech, Idaho sunshine initiative petition coordinator, said her group "believes and fully intends that the Gem State's name will soon appear on that list" of states that have acted to reduce the influence of money and secrecy in politics.

6th term sought

SALMON, Idaho (UPI). — Senate President pro Tem James Ellsworth, R-Idaho, plans to seek a sixth term in the Idaho Senate. Ellsworth has served as President Pro Tem for the past six years. He represents Legislative District 20 which is comprised of Clark, Custer, Jefferson and Lemhi Counties.

Auctioneer to compete

BUHL (UPI). — Lyle Masters will compete for the 1974 world livestock auctioneer title in competition June 15 at Spokane. The well-known Buhl auctioneer will join the national competition against the country's top auctioneers at the Spokane national finals.

Project funded

WASHINGTON (UPI). — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare will award $41,830 to the Fort Hall Indian Reservation. Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, said the money will be used to install 41 septic tanks and 12,260 feet of drain fields. The John W. Schade Co. of Olympia, Wash., will be the contractor for the project.

Study under way

KELLOGG, Idaho (UPI). — The State of Idaho and the Panhandle Health District are studying the possible health problems directly linked to the amount of lead in the Coeur d'Alene Mining District's air, water, soil and vegetation. The study was sparked in part by the amount discovered in two Kellogg children last winter, officials of the health district and the State Department of Environmental and Community Services said.

Air service continues

WASHINGTON (UPI). — Elko and Ely residents Tuesday won their fight to keep United Airlines from reducing air service to those two cities.

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., said the Civil Aeronautics Board rejected the airline's proposal for substitute service to non-hub areas Nevada. Cannon, chairman of the Senate aviation subcommittee, said CAB chairman Robert Timm informed him the application to provide service along the Reno-Elko-Ely-Salt Lake City route using Sun Valley Jet Airlines was denied by the board.

Seeks 3rd term

RUPERT. — State Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, Tuesday announced his candidacy for a third term to the state Senate. Peavey, the originator of the current Sunshine Initiative on the disclosure of campaign funds by state elected officials, serves on the Senate Finance Committee and the Resources and Environment Committee.

In announcing his candidacy, Peavey said: "It is important to have fiscal conservatives on the finance committee to keep the cost of government from getting out of hand. As a conservative on the finance committee I can help establish priorities of spending."

Airport land purchased

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI). — Earl Barnard, an Emmett developer, plans to purchase the Caldwell Municipal Airport from the city and develop the land. Barnard offered $500,000 for the land, appraised at $476,550, and the city council Tuesday night voted to accept the offer. The city plans to use the money to help finance construction of a new airport.

Fire damages home

TWIN FALLS. — Fire has caused extensive damage to the home of a rural Twin Falls man. Twin Falls County Mutual Fire Department Chief James Rathbun said today the interior of the William L. Smith home, two miles west of Twin Falls, was nearly gutted by a fire of unknown origin on Monday. Rathbun said he did not know the cause of the fire, although it appeared to start in a room containing chemicals, which according to Smith, Rathbun said, were used to develop pictures. There were no injuries, Rathbun said.

Conarrusa to emerge program

SHOSHONE (UPI). — Secretary of State Pete T. Conarrusa will announce a program for a program on Basque music and culture to be presented in Shoshone Saturday. The program will feature Juan Onaitia, Basque folk musician from Spain. The performance is one of three being scheduled in Idaho to feature Basque music and culture.

Demo head named

KETCHUM. — Joan Terra, Ketchum, has been named Idaho County Democratic chairwoman. She replaces Betty Lavery, who resigned her position to attend to business matters. Mrs. Terra is the editor of the Sun Valley magazine. She had been involved in politics since the John Day campaign in 1960. Ms. Terra has served as precinct committee woman, state committee woman and was a national delegate in 1972. Sally Donart, Ketchum, has been named state committee woman replacing Terra in that position. Joe Bergin, Bellevue, will remain as state committeeman.

Special visit

RICKY WHITE, Elko, Nev., can't go to the Shrine Circus which ends tonight, so the circus came to him. Ricky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard White, was in Magie Valley Memorial Hospital for removal of his tonsils and was one of many hospitalized children visited by a group of Twin Falls Stripers and AI Ross; clown with the circus. The circus is held in the county fairgrounds at Filer.

Gooding fees to increase

GOODING. — Effective with the June billing, sanitation collection fees for residents of Gooding will go up from $1 to $2.50 per month. City Council members Monday night adopted a new set of fees designed to cover increased city costs in collecting and hauling city garbage and trash. The household's rate increase of two- and one-half times is similar to the new commercial rates which have gone up from $3 per month for small commercial pickups to $7 from $4 to $9 for medium size loads, and from $5 to $12 on large pickups.

City officials also increased the city sewer hookups from $50 to $100. This pertains to new buildings or first-time connections. The city also heard a report from Councilman Duane Clemons on a letter from the Federal Aviation Administration regarding a federal grant application for improvement of the Gooding Airport. Clemons said cost estimates for resurfacing of a runway 60 feet wide by 500 feet long would be $103,354. In addition cost estimates for resurfacing taxiways and hangar aprons would be $85,100. Clemons said the government grant, if approved, would provide $140,884 of the total cost with the state and city to divide the remainder. He said if the county will share the local costs with the city they would need to raise only $13,779 for the total project.

No action was taken pending further information and discussion with the county commissioners. It was also announced the swimming pool in Gooding has opened for the summer season and other phases of the summer recreation program including baseball is now underway. The council approved plans to call for bids for the purchase of a road grader. The city attorney was asked to draw up a formal bid call for approval at the next City Council meeting.

Blaine OK's use permit

HAILEY. — Willamette Construction, Ketchum, was awarded a conditional use permit Tuesday night to extract shale on US Forest Service land. The Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission working on the assumption they have jurisdiction on forest service land, voted unanimously to allow the conditional use in Independence Gulch east of Elkhorn. Termining the case "a jurisdictional dispute, more or less," Bob Barnes, planning and zoning administrator, said the forest service had given a special use permit over a year ago to the operation. However, according to Steve Boller, county attorney, Blaine County has jurisdiction over all such pits in the county and legally should demand use permits on forest service land. Ed Ford, public manager of the Ranch at Elkhorn, said the "Willamette" hauling operation "goes right through the ranch and tennis complex." He said "possibly 72 children would be involved in a tennis camp there this summer." The project engineer for Elkhorn, Joe Humphrey, said Willamette Construction would cross through land surrounded by 200 condominium units when the project is completed. As the area develops, truck traffic becomes increasingly inappropriate to the area," he said. Thomey Williams, Hidden Hollow, speaking for Willamette Construction, said, "Those people knew these roads were there when they built there and bought those lands."

The land is leased to Rupert House who said "there is some desirable mineral under that shale and we are going to mine there. These roads are built right to the mine and we have the right to use those roads to haul shale and eventually tailings from those mines." The commission approved the use unconditionally. Afterward commissioner Martha Potevich said the commission was going on the assumption only that they had jurisdiction on forest service land. "We may not have the jurisdiction," she said, "but until we find out we're going on the assumption we do."

Blaine aides hear protest

By BART QUESNELL, Times-News writer
KETCHUM. — The Ketchum City Council Monday night heard a motel owner protest that recent sewer rate increases were too great. Ross Fitzpatrick, Ketchum, told the council "The city should not be concerned with profit or loss of the system but should be content to recover the cost of maintenance and operation of the plant." The city has raised sewer fees from $2 to $4 for single dwellings including each condominium. In addition the city has raised rates for individual units in motels and hotels from 50 cents to $2. Fitzpatrick said depreciation estimates on the system were not accurate. He concluded the charge against hotel and motel owners on single rooms was not fair because the facilities did not pour as much water into the lines as family units. "The residents already have paid an LID (local improvement district) fee when the plant was built," Fitzpatrick said.

The water and sewer system could not pay for itself, according to council members, under the old rates. Phil Puchner, councilman, said a meeting should be arranged with motel and hotel owners with the figures used by the engineers who figured the need increase. He said accountants and engineers should talk over the possible re-assessment of the depreciation rate. In other action council members voted favorably to recommend R.L. "Jake" Pypwansa to the Ketchum Planning and Zoning Commission. They also decided to waive the building permit fee for the Presbyterian Church to be built along Warm Springs. Mayor Bill Brand reminded Ketchum residents the bond election for the proposed municipal building is on June 25. Brand said if the election falls land donated by Big Wood Co. would revert back to them.

Jerome approves new apartment complex

By CHARLOTTE BELL, Times-News writer
JEROME. — A 32-unit apartment complex is set for development in the southwest section of Jerome. The Jerome City Council Tuesday night gave tentative approval to L.A. Rowland, Jerome, to develop the apartment complex, which will be located east of South Fillmore between East Avenues D and F. Rowland said he had not developed a plan for the proposed 32 units because he wanted to know whether or not the council would approve the project. He explained he plans to build four separate buildings each containing eight townhouse apartments.

"The living quarters would be downstairs and the sleeping quarters would be upstairs. I will have an architect meet with the council next month to present a more detailed plan," Rowland said. In other business, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Hepworth, Jerome, asked the council for clarification on whether or not the city would extend North Date Street. Hepworth said they have sold three parcels of land for homes and wanted the street extended to accommodate the new homes. The council informed Hepworth if he developed one more parcel of land on his property, it will be considered a subdivision. Mr. and Mrs. Hepworth argued that because they were selling the land for their children who are not area residents, it was not technically theirs, although the title was in their name. The council concluded that under state law any piece of land owned by one party and divided into more than four lots, which the Hepworths now have, is considered a subdivision. Mayor Charles Hancock said a subdivision developer, under Jerome city ordinances, is responsible for the development of the sewer, water, curb and guttering, as well as the streets. Hepworth said he had been advised by the former city engineer, Bill Block, that the city would extend the street. Councilman S.N. Weeks said Block advised Hepworth without council approval.

Buhl property owners urge formation of LID

By LORAIN O. SMITH, Times-News Writer
BUHL. — Four citizens who live on Sprague Street in the McCollum Addition requested the Buhl City Council to form a local improvement district on the street. Joyce Ellis, spokesman, said property owners on the street are willing to assume financial costs if they can get the work done. Councilmen agreed to go ahead with the LID project, but are investigating possibility of including other areas in the city in the district. Mayor Ted Pence pointed out that the project could be very expensive for property owners if only one block is included in the LID. Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened mixed in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday.

Minutes after the opening bell the Dow Jones industrial average had fallen 1.30 to 877.30.

Advances and declines were closely balanced, of the 382 stock leaders.

The Dow climbed 7.43 to 828.69 on Tuesday, added to Monday's gain of 19.09 points. The two-day rally hinged on hopes the nation's major banks may be ready to lower their prime lending rates from the current prevailing 11 1/2 per cent level.

On Monday, First National Bank of Chicago lowered the rate it charges on loans to top-rated commercial borrowers to 11.6 per cent from the record 11.75 per cent. And a much smaller bank, Southwest Bank of St. Louis, reduced its prime by 1/2 point to 11 1/2 per cent.

But buying enthusiasm on the stock market seemed to be waning in the closing hour of trading Tuesday. At that time, spokesmen for Continental Illinois Bank of Chicago, said they do not expect major banks to lower their prime rates at present. With hopes for lower interest rates somewhat diminished, Wall Street is expected to be highly attentive to the Federal Reserve's business and demand statistics set to be released on Thursday afternoon.

Seattle awarded 28th NFL franchise for 1976 play

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League Wednesday awarded Seattle its 28th franchise beginning in the 1976 season.

Lake Tampa, which was awarded the expansion franchise by the league last month, the new Seattle team will pay $16 million to join the NFL.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Seattle's expansion franchise is the longest first day of meetings here.

"We have voted to expand to 28 teams with Seattle joining the league in 1976," Rozelle said, "and our expansion committee is still an open deck and will continue to explore future expansions."

Aaron becomes NL's all-time grand slam king as Braves win

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Hank Aaron, became the all-time home-run king for the second time this season Tuesday night when he belted a grand slam in the seventh inning to lead the Atlanta Braves to a 7-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

John wins 9th, LA drags Buccs

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Southpaw Tommy John hurled a five-hit shutout to become the National League's first nine-inning winner and Tom Postle ripped a three-run triple Tuesday night to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The home run, his 19th of the year and the 27th in his career, was the 16th grand slam for Aaron, who has been tied for the National League career lead with Willie McCovey. It was Aaron's second slam of the season. Lou Gehrig holds the American League record of 23.

John's third shutout and fifth complete game in 13 starts this season upped his record to 9-1 and tied him with the American League's Gaylord Perry and Wilbur Wood with nine wins. The 31-year-old left-hander has now captured 14 of his last 15 decisions and 27 of 35 since coming to the National League from the Chicago White Sox.

McAnally's power

Aaron connected off reliever Eddie Watt to spark a six-run seventh-inning for Atlanta, which took a 4-0 lead in the first on Mike Lum's home run. The Phils used Del Unser's homer in the second to tie the score and took the lead 2-1 in the fourth on a Willie Montezano single.

McAnally, Expos blank Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Ernie McAnally scattered five hits in hurling the Montreal Expos to a 5-0 win Tuesday night over the Houston Astros.

McAnally limited the Astros to one single as he evaded his record at 4-1. It was his second shutout of the season and his third win in his last four starts.

Reds topple Mets in 10th

HOUSTON (UPI) — Cesar Geronimo, who entered the game as a pinch runner in the ninth, joined Jim Fregosi to score three runs off Ray Sadecki to defeat the New York Mets in the 10th Tuesday night when the Cincinnati Reds opened the inning with a single and advanced to third on George Foster's double off the right field wall.

Several vacancies still are available in the final week of the College of Southern Idaho basketball clinic, announced Coach Boyd Grant. Coach Grant said the sessions are divided into three age groups to allow instructors to set a proper pace for each. These include 9 a.m. to noon for grade school youngsters, 2 to 5 p.m. for junior-high aged boys and 7 to 10 p.m. for high school teenagers. Mike Montgomery, currently assistant at Boise State University and a former aide at University of Florida and Colorado State University, will handle the defensive instruction for the third week. Don Haynes, who guided Twin Falls to the state A-1 championship this spring, also will be on hand. Coach Grant added the high school group currently is filling the most rapidly with seven of next year's Walls, Nev., variety signing up Tuesday. "I think we'll be able to accommodate everyone," he said, "but we won't take so many that we lose personal touch."

Baseball conducts free agent draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball will conduct its summer free agent draft beginning Wednesday and the San Diego Padres, leading off the grand lottery, are expected to choose shortstop Bill Almon of Brown University. The Texas Rangers, who get a starting pitcher out of last year's draft in David Clyde, need to pick second and it is anticipated they will try to double their luck with another pitcher, right-hander Tom Boggs of Austin, Tex. Philadelphia will pick third, followed in order by Cleveland, Atlanta, Milwaukee, the Chicago Cubs, the Chicago White Sox, Montreal, California, Pitts-

Pittsburgh mum on Greenwood's status

—PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Steelers had "no official comment" Tuesday on reports that all-pro defensive end I.C. Greenwood had signed a 1975 contract with the Birmingham Colts of the World Football League. "The only thing we have heard is from his agent, who said he has signed such a contract," said a Steelers spokesman. "We have not heard directly from him and our efforts to reach him have been unsuccessful." Birmingham announced Monday night that Greenwood, 27, a five-year NFL veteran and Pittsburgh's 10th round draft choice in 1969, had become the first Steeler to jump to the WFL. Although quarterback Terry Bradshaw rejected the Colts' offer from the WFL, New York Stars, two other Steelers also reportedly were negotiating with the new league after receiving injury offers. "Over the weekend, we signed the best tight end in football," Jim Mitchell (of

A-M selects Buckeye aide

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida A&M University Tuesday named Rudy Hubbard, a 28-year-old assistant under Woody Hayes at Ohio State University, as its new head football coach. Hubbard, a former halfback at Ohio State, will succeed Jim Williams, who was fired last spring after two 5-6 seasons. Hubbard will receive between $18,000 and $20,000 a year. Rattlers Athletic Director Hansel Tobkes said the salary has not been finalized. A native of Hubbard, Ohio, he joined the Ohio State coaching staff immediately after competing his football eligibility in 1958. As an Ohio State senior, Hubbard averaged 5.3 yards per carry, scored three touchdowns; received 13 passes for 98 yards and averaged 17.1 yards per attempt on kickoff returns.

USC, BYU men share lead in decathlon

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Southern California's Bob Coffman failed to win a first place but took four of five seconds Tuesday to tie the Runald Backman of Brigham Young at the halfway point of the decathlon at the NCAA Track and Field Championships. Coffman took runner-up honors in the 100 and 400 meter runs, the shot put and the long jump, and tied for first in the 100 meters and tied for first in the high jump. Both amassed 4,120 points, edging Roger George of Fresno State by a 2,812 point total. Brigham of Oregon won 3,928. "I was expecting to score 4,100 points today," Backman said. "But my high jump was better than what I expected to do."

MaePhail awaiting reports

SCARSDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Lee MacPhail, the American League president, said Tuesday night that the Cleveland Indians had doubted their normal security for the game against the Texas Rangers. "It was a situation fraught with problems and we were aware of it," MacPhail said. But he said he could make no official comment on the game that was forfeited to Texas because "I don't know the facts yet." MacPhail, at his suburban New York home, said he hasn't yet received an official report from Cleveland and his only reports were via the news media. He also will get a written report on the forfeit. "Apparently, the players weren't involved," MacPhail said. Last week, the Cleveland and Texas players got involved in a brawl. MacPhail said he talked with the Texas manager, (Billy Martin) and Cleveland's general manager (Phil Seigi) by phone earlier Tuesday in an effort to head off any problems. "I will certainly check into this situation," MacPhail said.

ABA boss says league will be stable with 10 teams

NEW YORK (UPI) — American Basketball Association Commissioner Mike Stoen has been leading his league in defense ever since the season ended.

Stoen's rumors by "informing" sources that the ABA is about to fold, reduce its number of teams and merge with the National Basketball Association, or slim down to eight or less teams for another go-around next season, have appeared periodically in recent weeks.

Stoen deals in optimism, to be sure, but he also deals in facts. And the facts dispute the rumors. According to Stoen, "we'll be back with at least 10 teams and much more stabilized than ever before."

One fact that superficially supports the rumors is that Carolina Cougars owner Ted Munchak will not operate a team in North Carolina next season. He has sold All-Star guard Ted McClain to Kentucky, waived high-priced Jim Chones out of the league and told his coach and general manager to "seek employment elsewhere." Those facts add up to the demise of a franchise and would seem to leave the ABA with nine teams. But not so, says Stoen.

"Munchak has told me he's not interested in getting out of basketball," Stoen said. "Everyone thinks he's pulling up all the roots but I think he'll have a few surprises at the league meeting."

The meeting Stoen referred to will be held June 26-27 at Louisville. Stoen hopes "all the issues will be settled at that meeting. The Carolina franchise will likely be shifted but I think Munchak will remain."

Stoen also said Cougar star Billy Cunningham, rumored to be heading back to the NBA, will definitely be playing in the "next" season.

A second fact is that Virginia Squires owner Earl Foreman is now "out of the picture," according to Stoen. The ABA recently took over the money-troubled franchise from Foreman, who was forced to deal away several top players to pay his bills, and the league is negotiating a prospective new owner.

A third fact is that the Denver Rockets are no longer a franchise in limbo. Monday they hired Larry Brown and Carl Scheer, both former stars of Carolina, to become general manager and the team is set to play in a new building still under construction.

A fourth fact is that several discussions between ABA and NBA officials have increased the possibility of merger at all. The leagues are as far apart as they were a year ago.

One of the pressing issues Stoen wants settled is the status of the San Diego Squires, stranded now in a 3,200-seat gym. Stoen said negotiations have progressed.

"I expect that," he says. "If I fumble, Larry fumbles or Paul drops out, we know we're going to hear something. That's only natural. In our first joint exhibition game, last season against Cincinnati, I think it was, we were behind in the first quarter and some fan yelled, 'you guys ought to turn back your rings—you're no good.' You know how that goes. You can run the ball and make 100 yards every game, then go one game in which you make only 20 or 30 yards and people will get on you. That's just the way it is. People are people."

Gabrielson new favorite in British amateur

GUILIANE, Scotland-(UPI) Atlanta insurance broker Jim Gabrielson donned the role of favorite today to become Britain's new amateur golf champion.

Gabrielson, 32, a member of the U.S. Walker Cup team, became the only seeded player in his half of the draw Tuesday after a convincing 6-5 second round win over Scotsman Morrison Zull and the surprise departure of defending champion American Dick Siderowf.

But Gabrielson would only say "maybe" when asked if he thought he would have an easy stroke through the finals.

"It's too early to talk about my chances," he said. "But I'll face it—that's what I'm here for, to win."

First he must defeat Bill Dumbleton of Dallas. Today he'll face in the last 32.

Of the 48 Americans who started the tournament, only 12 remained after Tuesday's play. One of the victims was Siderowf, the Westport, Conn. stockbroker who took the title last year.

He went out at the hands of a 23-year-old Glasgow fashion salesman named Mick Miller who 25-foot putt on the 18th green sent him through.

Miller, a former Scottish youth international, played the more experienced Siderowf stroke for stroke through 17 holes, where he missed a 12-inch putt that could have put him in the lead.

"I've no excuses, I played lousy golf," Siderowf said later.

WFL money looks the same as NFL's, Dolphin players find

NEW YORK (UPI) — Not that they actually were worried, but for the first time the Miami Three—Larry Csonka, Jim Kwik and Paul Warfield—got to see the color of the World Football League's money the other day.

"The WFL's money is the same color as the NFL's, a nice cool green."

In this case, it came to one million bucks, cash on the barrelhead.

This represented the first installment on that lumpy $5 million-a-player package that took the three Miami players to jump from the NFL to the WFL. The money was paid by the Memphis Southern, known as the Toronto Northmen until only last month, and spread out among Csonka, Kwik and Warfield.

"It didn't make me feel rich," said Kwik, the Dolphins'

27-year-old running back. "I never got to see the money. It went right to Mark McCormack (the agency handling the three players' finances) and what made me feel good was talking to the investment counselors, and listening to the way the money was being invested."

Jim Kwik put in seven years with the Dolphins and is one of their more versatile backs. He was the one they called on for the short yardage. But he finds he has become much more of a celebrity since he decided to go over to the other league along with Csonka and Warfield beginning in 1975. He is questioned a lot more by people.

He is questioned in the past and he is sought more for appearance money.

Kwik finished competing in the Dewar's Sports Celebrity Tennis championship in Las Vegas Tuesday and enjoyed meeting all the others who participated. His doubles partner was miler Jim Ryun, with whom he spoke at length. He also had a long conversation with another of the competitors, Walt Frazier of the New York Knicks.

"We talked about everything," basketball, football, people," Kwik said. "I really enjoyed meeting and getting to know Walt Frazier. He's quite an individual."

Kwik had no desire whatsoever to go out—and including himself after signing with the new league. His share alone came to around a million. Some people keep asking him what he did with the money and his answer is always the same—nothing really.

"I don't need any yachts," he says. "We fixed up the house a little bit. We got some furniture we needed."

He spoke with Miami Coach Don Shula since his signing several times. In fact, but Kwik has not. This isn't anything intentional on Kwik's part. It has merely worked out that way.

Csonka has a good relationship with Shula, Kwik says. "Mine is like a business relationship more or less. Don't get me wrong. I get along with Shula all right. And there isn't any doubt in my mind we'll have a good team this year. I'd rather leave the Miami people being sorry than bitter, and I think by winning a third Super Bowl championship they'll feel that way. I don't want the people to say the reason we didn't go to a third Super Bowl was because of these three."

Still, Kwik knows that the Cleveland Browns are bound to hear from the fans negative about the three.

"We expect that," he says. "If I fumble, Larry fumbles or Paul drops out, we know we're going to hear something. That's only natural. In our first joint exhibition game, last season against Cincinnati, I think it was, we were behind in the first quarter and some fan yelled, 'you guys ought to turn back your rings—you're no good.' You know how that goes. You can run the ball and make 100 yards every game, then go one game in which you make only 20 or 30 yards and people will get on you. That's just the way it is. People are people."

Broncos seek hike in seating capacity

DENVER (UPI) — The board chairman of the Denver Broncos Tuesday asked city officials to include on the fall primary election ballot an issue which would expand Mile High Stadium from its existing 75,016 seating capacity to 75,016.

Gerald Phipps said the planned expansion would be paid for by general obligations bonds if voters approve in the Sept. 19 election.

"We cannot exist economically with a 50,000 seat stadium," said Phipps during a meeting with Mayor William McNichols and city councilmen. "We feel that we have kept our obligation to the city of Denver. All we ask is that the city and county of Denver give us a stadium so we can be competitive."

Phipps pointed out that Denver is the only team in the National Football League which hasn't lost a player to the new World Football League.

He said the expansion could begin Jan. 1, 1975 and be completed in four phases by Sept. 1, 1976 and would cost $24,726,000. The first phase would cost about $1.6 million; Phase 2, $9.3 million; Phase 3, $4.4 million and the final phase $3.5 million.

New pro loop sets up eight franchises

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The International Basketball Association announced plans Tuesday for its first professional league season starting next fall and introduced the first pro player contracted in Europe.

Belgium's Willy Stevener, John Coburn, IBA commissioner, told a news conference the IBA has franchises now in Barcelona and Madrid (Spain), Belgium, Holland, Geneva, Lyon, Munich and Rome.

"Our purpose is to develop a high quality of play that has not been seen so far in Europe," Coburn said. Two more franchises may be announced shortly, he said.

Les Patrick, president of the Belgian franchise, refused to reveal the financial terms of Stevener's contract. Stevener, now 26, was 16 when he joined the IBA in 1961.

Belgian players of the year, during his career with various Belgian first division clubs and in 1967 was elected best European player.

Patrick said the "four" more local players will naturally be attracted to the IBA teams, which will be made up of young talent imported from the United States.

The European teams would be divided into two divisions. If two more franchises are announced, each team would play up to 62 games a season, four of them at home. The season would start early in November and extend five months.

Eye injury sidelines Ashbee

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A flying puck that struck Barry Ashbee in the eye during the semi-finals of the Stanley Cup hockey playoffs has ended the National Hockey League career of the veteran Philadelphia Flyers defenseman.

The Flyers, Cup champions, announced at a solemn news conference Tuesday that Ashbee considers the club's best defenseman this season, was forced to retire.

Ashbee was struck by the right eye by a flying shot on goal during overtime of the fourth game of the semifinal series with the New York Rangers.

The 34-year-old Ashbee, a native of Weston, Ont., calmly said: "I don't have the vision in the right eye to play. It's not going to get better."

Ashbee, who was wearing sunglasses, "I have less than 20 per cent vision in my right eye."

Ashbee, who finished his fourth season with the Flyers, said he was not "bitter" but "I hadn't planned on retiring, that's for sure."

"It's been tough," he said unemotionally, "but you appreciate that Stanley Cup when it comes that way. When you reach that achievement, you can't be bitter about it."

Nance hasn't jumped to WFL

BOSTON (UPI) — An attorney for veteran running back Jim Nance denied Tuesday his client has signed with the Houston Texans of the new World Football League.

The Texans at the opening of their training camp Monday in Houston, announced the signing of the 6-1, 240-pound Nance who gained 5,300 yards rushing during seven seasons in the National Football League with the New England Patriots and the New York Jets.

"We will probably come to terms with the Texans," said Nance's attorney, Irwin Cooper, "but as yet, there is no signed contract."

Prosecutors seek oil firm suits

FLINT, Mich. (UPI) — Five district attorneys from across the country Monday called for the prosecution of major oil companies for "intentional and negligent violations" and "anti-trust violations" in the immediate and coordinated action is warranted and necessary if the people we represent, the consumers of our respective jurisdictions, are to be protected against the ruthless modern-day robber barons," said district attorneys Dale Tooley of Denver, Joseph Bush of Los Angeles, Emmett Filpatrick of Philadelphia, Eugene Gold of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Robert F. Leonard of Flint.

The acquisition by oil firms of various resources, reserves and means of production "presents the single most ominous threat to the free enterprise system," they said. "Their comments came in a report by the National District Attorneys Association energy crisis committee, which has been investigating the oil industry since January. "At least some of the committee members strongly suggest that the main reason for the continued shortage was the emasculation of the environmentalists as a major hurdle for both the oil and auto industries," the report said, "as manifested by the recent automobile emission control cutbacks proposed in pending legislation."

The committee issued a list of recommendations to the NDAA's 6,000 prosecutors throughout the country on how to prosecute the oil companies for the alleged illegal operations.

Citing failure by the U.S. Justice Department to protect consumers from allegedly illegal oil company tactics, the report urged prosecutors to study applicable state laws, implement special grand juries and subpoena oil officials and documents.

"The committee is unable to discern any visible movement on the part of the Justice Department to initiate a thorough investigation of the petroleum industry," the report said.

Leonard, chairman of the committee, said legal action against nine major oil firms "would begin soon." They are Exxon, Texaco, Gulf, Mobil, Standard of California, Shell, Standard of Indiana, Atlantic Richfield and Union.

SISTER MARY ANNE GUTHRIE... campaigner

Memphis nun runs for Congress

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — The first nun to run for Congress won't have to wear a habit, but she may have substantial budget problems. "I receive $6,000 a year, but only $30 is for my personal budget and $20 for my professional budget," said Dominican Sister Mary Anne Guthrie, director of health and welfare services for the Catholic Diocese of Memphis. "The rest goes for living expenses—so it's going to be a people campaign where the little dollar really counts," she said after announcing for the Democratic nomination from the 8th District in Tennessee Monday.

"I'm going out on the street. I'm going to knock on doors. I'm going to accept opportunities to speak before groups during the campaign." "The 47-year-old nun, dressed in a red-and-white knit dress and casual white pumps, must beat at least four men, including state Rep. Harold Ford, in the Aug. 6 Democratic primary in order to get a chance to take on four-term Rep. Dan Kuykendall, R-Tenn., in November. "I think I'm just as competent and better perhaps than any other candidate," said Sister Mary Anne, whose short-cropped hair is salted with gray. "I am seeking political office because I can and want to perform the task as an effective congresswoman," she said. "For too long there has been a tragic under-representation of women in government." Sister Mary Anne said she would not hesitate, provided she had the facts in hand, to vote to impeach President Nixon. "If I had the material in front of me that I could weigh the problem seriously and carefully, I would not hesitate," she said. "Later," she said, "I have never supported Richard Nixon."

Record snow measured near McCall

MCCALL, Idaho (UPI) — Payette National Forest office has reported record measurements for the Brundage Mountain snow course: in both snow depth and water content for June 1. Forester Robert D. Bryan said the snow depth was 116.75 inches, 52 per cent more than the seven-year average, and the water content of 62 inches was 53 per cent more than the average for those years. Last year, the snow depth was 32.25 inches with water content recorded at 15.50 inches on the same date.

"I'm going to knock on doors. I'm going to accept opportunities to speak before groups during the campaign." "The 47-year-old nun, dressed in a red-and-white knit dress and casual white pumps, must beat at least four men, including state Rep. Harold Ford, in the Aug. 6 Democratic

Defendant Means carried from court

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Fred Nichol today found Wounded Knee defendant Russell Means in contempt of court and four federal marshals carried Means out of the courtroom. Nichol placed Means under the custody of federal marshals for 24 hours.

After a short absence, however, Means returned to the courtroom and apologized to Nichol. He was allowed to remain.

The incident was sparked when FBI special agent Vernard Grimes testified that he was not assigned to a roadblock at Wounded Knee last year to provoke an incident. "You're a liar!" shouted Means.

Nichol then warned Means he could be jailed for the next 24 hours if he made any further comments.

When Means continued to talk, Nichol said, "I order you out and the marshals to take charge and keep you in charge for 24 hours." Means was carried out by the marshals when he refused to leave the courtroom and taken to the marshals' headquarters.

Means and co-defendant Dennis Banks are charged with 10 felonies each stemming from the 71-day occupation of the South Dakota village last year. Means and Nichol had a sharp exchange of words Monday.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY—I have a son who was my whole life until this happened. He was married for 18 years and had two lovely children. Then all of a sudden he left his wife and family to go live with a man!

He called to tell me about it. My world was shattered. When he was young, I sometimes wondered why he was homosexual. I noticed a few signs, but I never would accept it. In my hysteria, I screamed at him over the phone: "As far as I'm concerned, you just died. In fact, drop dead. I never want to see you again!" Then I hung up.

He and his wife must have some kind of understanding because the "dead" man recently accepted me. I've told her I spent last Christmas Eve with his family, helped with the tree, and everything went smoothly.

Apologize to son

Abby, dear—I am not without sin. Was I wrong to sit in judgment and condemn a man I accept him for what he is? We were always the closest and I loved each other. Should I call him and apologize? Please, Abby, tell me what to do.

BROKENHEARTED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: When we do the right thing, we feel good about it. When we do the wrong thing, we feel bad. Call him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been considering beginning a family, but we aren't completely certain that we want to, for various reasons. However, here is one reason in particular which bothers me. I have always been a rather possessive person, and it is important to me to be the most important person in my husband's life.

I'm afraid if I had a child, the child might become more important to my husband than I am, and I would then become jealous of my own child. I've seen it happen in some families.

I have caught myself feeling jealous when my husband shows affection for our dog. Now, wouldn't it be terrible to feel that way about your own child? Does this sound far out to you, or have you come across this problem before? And what should I do about it?

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: If you're jealous of a dog, forget about a family. It shouldn't happen to a child.

DEAR ABBY—I finally met a man I can be serious about, and there are only two things wrong with him.

One: When we go out to dine, he cuts all his meat into little, bite-sized pieces as though he were preparing it for a 4-year-old child, or a dog!

The other thing: When a lady comes into a room and he is seated, he never stands up.

How can I get him to correct these two faults without hurting his feelings? He would be perfect otherwise.

SERIOUS ABOUT HIM

DEAR SERIOUS: Tell him lovingly that if it weren't for two minor flaws in etiquette, he would be perfect! Then gently explain how what man would resent a little constructive criticism in order to attain perfection? If you do, he has more than only two faults.

CONFIDENTIAL: "PROVED MY LOVE IN COLUMBUS": If he comes near you again, call the police. Or do you want to try for two?

Problems: You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69706, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

After ruffing the second heart, South had an automatic way to make his contract. He should draw trumps. One trump would be enough. Then play ace, king and another club.

If it wouldn't matter, which opponent led the diamond or where the king and jack were located, South would simply play low from whichever hand had it, play first and be sure of two tricks in the suit.

Suppose the defender refused to lead a diamond? He would have to lead a club at heart. South would simply ruff in one hand and discard a diamond from the other to wind up losing just one diamond trick.

Drugs closely linked with teen crimes

(c) Newhouse News Service. WASHINGTON — The drugs most closely linked to violent crime in teen-agers are alcohol and secobarbital although drug use itself does not lead to criminal assaults, a California study says.

The study published in the Archives of General Psychiatry covered 50 teen-agers who had committed 56 assaults, including 6 rapes and 10 murders.

In 85 per cent of the crimes, the attacker was "high" on drugs, and in 55 per cent of the total cases he had used alcohol or secobarbital alone, in combination or in combination with other drugs.

Yet a comparison of the 50 violent delinquents with 50 other teen-ager males jailed for serious crimes that did not involve assaults, showed the non-violent delinquents were much more frequent users of drugs.

The two groups were equally likely to use alcohol and secobarbital, but the non-violent teen-agers were frequent users of marijuana, psychotics and heroin.

Although the violent teen-agers used marijuana even more frequently than alcohol, only two assaults were committed under the influence of this drug alone.

The similar level of use of alcohol and secobarbital — both central nervous system depressants — showed that "polydrug use per se does not inexorably lead to violent crime," but assaults committed under the influence of drugs were often more brutal, the study said.

Assaults that took place while the attacker was using drugs were three times as likely to be "sustained" continuing through two or more blows, shots or stabs — the study showed.

Only one assault involved the use of amphetamines, or speed, although the drug was in vogue at the time of the study (1971-72) a finding which came as a surprise to the authors. However, this one assault did cause death, and "followed the classic pattern of bizarre, irrational, paranoid behavior" associated with intravenous use of stimulants, the study said.

The 50 teen-agers used drugs in large amounts. All the crimes took place during "acute intoxication," the study said.

The authors said their findings contribute to the understanding of human aggression in general, because they show that violence is more likely to be triggered by drugs that depress the central nervous system than by those that stimulate it or cause perceptual distortions.

The study was conducted by research teams from Stanford University and the Palo Alto Veterans Administration, and included Drs. Jared W. Tinkler, Walton T. Roth and Bert S. Kopell.

Recognition shifted to wrong person

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI) — A University of Wyoming historian says Esther Hobart Morris, whose statue was returned to its pedestal in front of the state Capitol Monday, was falsely credited for decades with being the prime force behind the country's first law granting equal rights to women.

"It's essentially a myth," said T. A. Larson, author of the 579-page "History of Wyoming" and a veteran of 38 years of teaching at UW. "There's no valid proof that she inspired the woman's suffrage bill."

The bill was passed in Wyoming's first Territorial Legislature in 1859, after introduction by "former Virginian William H. Bright. In his book, Larson labels Bright as the "central neglected figure" in woman's suffrage in Wyoming.

"In fact, a letter I've uncovered here says Mrs. Morris didn't even meet William Bright until after the bill was passed," Larson said. "She probably had nothing to do with it, judging by this letter. I do say that she's a fine woman, but it's just a little unfortunate that she's given credit for things she never did."

Larson said Mrs. Morris' suffragette fame was largely the work of Grace Raymond Hebard, a former UW history teacher who called Mrs. Morris the "mother of women's suffrage" and in 1920 published a pamphlet entitled "How Woman's Suffrage Came to Wyoming."

The booklet was read in Wyoming schools and shifted the spotlight of recognition from Bright, who left the territory in the 1870's.

"Mrs. Morris' genuine claim to fame is her service as the state's first woman justice of the peace. She won an appointment to the post from Territorial Secretary Edward M. Lee, a woman's rights advocate who helped get a suffrage bill through the legislature."

"Because of her public record," Mrs. Morris was named in 1955 as Wyoming's outstanding deceased citizen and her statue was placed in Washington's statutory hall. She died in 1902.

The statue replaced Monday was damaged Aug. 1, 1973, by an out-of-control automobile and a copy of the Washington figure. It cost an estimated $15,000 to repair the bronze cast.

The inscription on the statue's pedestal in front of the state Capitol describes her as a "protagonist" of the suffrage bill.

"Actually, what's claimed for her on the statue is not unreasonable," Larson said. "She's just a protagonist."

The foundation of Mrs. Morris' fame lays in the story of a tea party in South Pass City, Wyo., where she was credited with extracting a promise from Bright that he would introduce a suffrage bill.

But Larson said a letter authored by Mrs. Morris' 18-year-old son, Robert, and printed in "The Revolution," a national suffragette weekly, showed that Bright and Mrs. Morris never met until after the signing of the bill Dec. 10, 1869.

"It's remarkable that a woman with practically no public record could gain recognition as Wyoming's outstanding deceased citizen," he said.

Larson also said the statue doesn't look anything like Mrs. Morris.

"When the bill passed, she was over 50, weighed 180 pounds, and had a rough face," he said. "They hired a sculptor in Utah who wanted to make her look pretty and he streamlined her."

SS near deficit funding

WASHINGTON — A long-awaited trustees' report for the Social Security Administration shows that the system's costs will exceed its income by the end of the decade, and that the problem will become worse each year after that.

Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell said today that long-range projections for Social Security show expenses exceeding tax resources by an average 2.98 per cent over the next 75 years, a staggering amount, when the size of the system's fund — $67.7 billion, this year — is considered.

Cardwell said that the new findings, due primarily to the apparent trend toward "zero population growth," mean that the financing of Social Security will have to be changed significantly in coming years in order to avoid bankruptcy.

But he stressed that Congress still has a few years to consider the problem before it becomes pressing.

The new population projections showing the trend toward zero population growth are not expected to have any significant impact on the system until about 1990, when the work force will become proportionally smaller in relation to the nation's population as a whole.

"The main thing we want to emphasize is that because of the difficulty in forecasting the future, our estimates in themselves are imprecise," Cardwell said. "There is time to examine what happens in the face of a changing population, but the tools we have now to do it with do not begin to take such things into account," Cardwell said.

He said the financial deficit forecast for the Social Security funds would lend ammunition to critics of the system who wanted to scrap the payroll tax that currently pays for the system and support it with the federal government's general revenues, but he said he personally opposed the idea, since it would destroy the system's traditional financial independence.

Aides may condemn NRA land

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — Sawtooth National Recreation Area officials are considering condemnation action in two situations in the Stanley Basin.

However, Ken Dittmer, SNRA private lands superintendent, said condemnation procedures cannot be taken without extensive negotiation with owners.

If negotiations fail, Dittmer said a decision would have to be made on the local level by the area ranger to condemn. The secretary of agriculture would also have to make his own determination.

The SNRA was created by congressional act in 1972 to protect and preserve the scenic, environmental, and natural resources and beauty in a 736,000-acre area.

The regulations and rules set forth by the bill covers over 25,000 acres of private land.

Dittmer said the United States government was exercising its power of eminent domain. He said the land owner would be paid fair value for his land but the land deed would legally be owned by the government if a "declaration of taking" was signed.

Condemnation would be applied only if the violation was significant enough to impair SNRA objectives," Dittmer said.

Dittmer did not say which land was under consideration but mentioned SNRA officials were considering two situations and will probably review several more in the future.

Land owners may seek certification by SNRA officials to see if they are conforming under the new regulations.

According to regulations applying to the SNRA property for which a certification is held by the owner, condemnation shall not be applied by the secretary.

However, property for which a determination has been made which is not in conformance with the standards, the property may be purchased by the secretary by condemnation.

Dittmer said condemnation was the most severe action which could be placed upon private property and all possible efforts to avoid the possibility would be taken.

"But without the condemnation clause," Dittmer said, "we could actually accomplish nothing. There is no way we could make an owner obey the rules without the clause."

Dittmer pointed out an important element in the regulations states, "No further reduction in size of residential ownerships except that which will not impair the objectives for which the SNRA was established."

Recently, land was sold without a prior certification from the SNRA. Dittmer said an investigation would be undertaken to determine if the action was detrimental to the area.

He said if a "declaration of taking" was filed the owner could be made to sell his entire acreage, including subdivided land if it did not fit SNRA standards.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 5, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You find many small problems in your relations with others and it is necessary for you to iron them out objectively, instead of emotionally. Use ingenuity to handle persons and conditions blocking your progress.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Kin can be quite demanding today—try to get on with good friends and avoid any bickering at home. Make necessary changes in abode in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) An out-of-town letter gives you good tips on how to get better results with a disturbed individual. Clear decks for big things.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle money-matters with care. Listen to what an adviser has to say, since this could be helpful to you. Don't tease mate in p.m.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are in doubt on how to proceed in certain matters and should seek advice of one with right answers. Don't repeat past errors.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Contact a good pal who can be trusted in confidential matters and plan what's best to do. Don't lose sight of the big issues.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do whatever is important for career or city, even though a friend wants you to go on some tangent. Get into civic matter that increases prestige.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Find some novel way of impressing bigwigs with your finest abilities, and get advice from those in the know. Prepare yourself better to make big headway.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Heed hunches to you understand why your life is changing radically at this time. Thought and affection bring you more understanding with mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure you and your partners each know own duties, definitely. Study into those strange conditions between you and an associate.

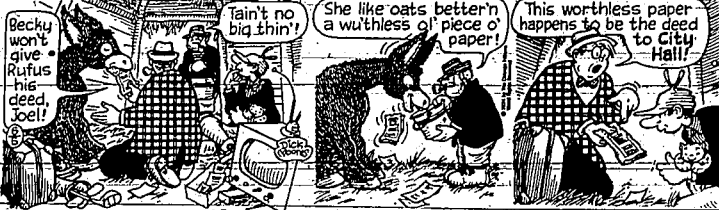

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Although very busy, take the time to discuss with an associate any moves you want to make, or there could be trouble later. Vitamins increase energy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although you want recreation, first handle anything important. Get into something creative that is somewhat different.

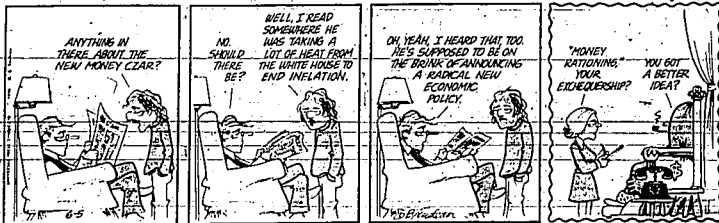

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get work done at home, then take kin out for needed recreation. Sports are especially good at this time. Use intelligence.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will want to look beneath the surface for the right answers. Because of all the curiosity in this nature, you as parents should be answering questions by the minute asked by your youngster. Be sure to give an accurate education as possible and plant it toward science, teaching, politics, medicine, etc. Give a good grounding in spiritual matters early on. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

The Brazilian fishermen tapped on the bottom of his boat. The fisherman tapped again. The dolphin swung out from the boat in an arc, returning in another arc, behind the school of fish it was herding closer and closer to the boat. The fisherman spared several minutes of his time to show the school back toward the dolphin. And that seal-like beast now took its own share. Then the fisherman and his dolphin friend did it again. The foregoing scene reportedly was witnessed by tropics expert Dr. Frank Bruce Lamb.

And while we're on the Amazon, might mention also Among the Witoto Indians thereabouts, whenever the wife has a baby, the husband goes to bed. And the family shows the old boy with attention most solicitously. Odd. Very odd.

CHOCOLATE

Where does chocolate rank now on that list of most popular cream flavors? A. Still No. 2. Right after No. 1, vanilla. Strawberry, however, is no longer No. 3. That third-place preference shifts from year to year and place to place. Mint to coffee to fruit, and so on.

Purse snatchers are apt to be more dangerous than muggers with guns and knives. That's the contention of one police official. The purse snatcher starts out violently, hitting fast and furiously, but usually soon loses interest. It's likely you'll be knocked around somewhat. But the armed robber tends to make you freeze, thus giving you a chance to escape with your life but not retaining, usually.

Thrift. Pretty thrifty bunch, those Japanese. The record shows the average Japanese puts 20 per cent of his income into savings. One study of male and female taxicab drivers indicated the women had three times as many traffic accidents as did the men. Did I tell you—the citizens nationwide spend five times as much money annually on dog food as on college textbooks?—A house cleaning binge, the surveytakers say, is the third most popular way among wives to lose the blues. A difficult stepchild, if not stuck completely, will slide more readily if you rub it with a soft lead pencil.

Lot of computer programmers are looking for jobs. It's enough. Still, U. S. Labor Department claims that profession will demand more and more experts in upcoming months. What's gone wrong, an official contends, is many of the operators have attended second-rate schools, so come out minus sufficient training.

Officials close Lilly Grade dump

BUHL — D. A. Heider, Twin Falls County solid waste director, today announced closure of the Lilly Grade dump.

The dump, located west of Buhl, will close June 15. After that time, Heider said, residents in that part of the county will use the West landfill located six miles north of Castelford and about the same distance west of Buhl. County residents in the Castelford area have been using the Lilly Grade dump in the past. Heider said the West landfill will handle the additional refuse created by the closure and in doing so will save the taxpayers the cost of maintaining the additional dump.

This makes five dumpgrounds the county has closed to date in an effort to clean up the dumping situation and consolidate solid waste to sanitary landfill sites.

Heider said the landfills do not accept such items as dirt and rock or concrete products. Other areas are available for this type of debris, he said, including the crossing of Rock Creek proposed in the area just west of Independent Meat Co., Twin Falls, for east areas of the county and an area just north of the West landfill for west and county residents.

Heider said dumping at the West location when concrete building material, large rocks or dirt are involved should be preceded by obtaining directions from the West landfill, calling 543-4654 or making an appointment with the operator of the old Buhl city dump, 543-4522 or by contacting the solid waste department, 724-3300 for other areas in the county where such material will be received.

Heider said residents of the county have been most cooperative in using the landfills as the old problem dumpgrounds are being closed. He asked those taking trash to the landfills to cover the refuse to prevent it scattering along the roadides en route to the landfills.

There is a maximum $300 fine for littering in such manner, he said.

Landfills in the Twin Falls area and the east and west ends of the county are open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., on Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays from noon to 5 p.m.

County commissioners met Monday with the Buhl Chamber of Commerce to discuss landfill, airport services and other county government matters.

Chamber members had asked for more stringent regulations to prevent discarding of trash over the canyon rim and creating a sanitation problem and unsightly situation, Chancey said. This has been happening at the fill area north of the West landfill in what is known as Salmon Falls Creek Canyon.

Trail riders set event

HANSEN — Up to 300 persons will join in the Idaho State Trail Machine Association's state ride this weekend.

The 95-mile marked course will be held out in the vicinity of Porcupine Springs Campground, 35 miles south of Hansen, said Steve Miller, Twin Falls, state director and association ride chairman.

Miller said from 200 to 300 riders are expected to attend the event, with about half coming from the Magic Valley. The rest will be from other towns in southern Idaho, with one group possibly coming from Medford, Ore. Competition is scheduled Saturday and Sunday, with a quarterly business meeting of the directors of the ITMA on Sunday. Vic Deahl, Twin Falls, is president of the state association. Larry Drexler, Twin Falls, is president of the chapter in the Magic Valley.

Miller said trails for the various classes of riding competition for beginners, intermediates, and experts have been laid out with the help of US Forest Service personnel, crossing varied terrain and different elevations.

On Saturday, a 65-mile-loop ride is planned, starting at 8 a.m. from the Porcupine Springs base. A lunch meeting is planned at 2 p.m. at Bear Gulch Campground with return to base about 6 p.m.

Cancer Society to convene in Gooding

GOODING — All officers, delegates and members of District VII, Idaho Division of the American Cancer Society, will meet at 11:45 a.m. June 10, at Gooding for the annual district meeting.

A post-noon luncheon will be served at the Lincoln Inn to be followed by the regular business meeting.

Janis Nowlan, program director from the division office in Boise, will be the featured speaker followed by a question and answer period.

Also included in the agenda will be a brief review of county unit activities by the following county unit presidents: Edna Gill, Carnas; Joann Brunen, Blaine; Mrs. Grant Zollinger, Gooding; and Mrs. Tom Betilla, Lincoln.

Those planning to attend the luncheon should contact either their own county unit president or Mr. Abe Logan, Route No. 1, Gooding, 83330, phone 934-5348, by Friday.

Man receives unusual manslaughter sentence

MIAMI (UPI) — A man convicted of manslaughter has been ordered to pay for the college education of his victim's two small children, court records showed Tuesday.

Richard Urso was convicted of running a red light last Oct. 25 and causing the death of Raymond Pough when their cars collided.

Circuit Judge Sidney Weaver said he did not want to send Urso to jail "because he had no prior criminal record and he will have this accident to live with for the rest of his life."

But Weaver ordered Urso,

38, to pay $1,500 a year for the next five years into an "education trust fund" for Pough's two small children, Gregory 2, and Sabrina, 8.

"As each one reaches the age of 18, it will be available for their education," the judge ruled.

Attorneys for both Urso and Pough's widow, Linda, 22, said the judgment was satisfactory.

Mrs. Pough's lawyer, Marvin H. Freedman, said the judge had made a "wise and useful" decision. "Putting this man in jail will not serve any purpose."

Cottage Cheese. It's a Peachy Idea for Summer.

Here's how to turn a juicy little fruit into a great-tasting salad.

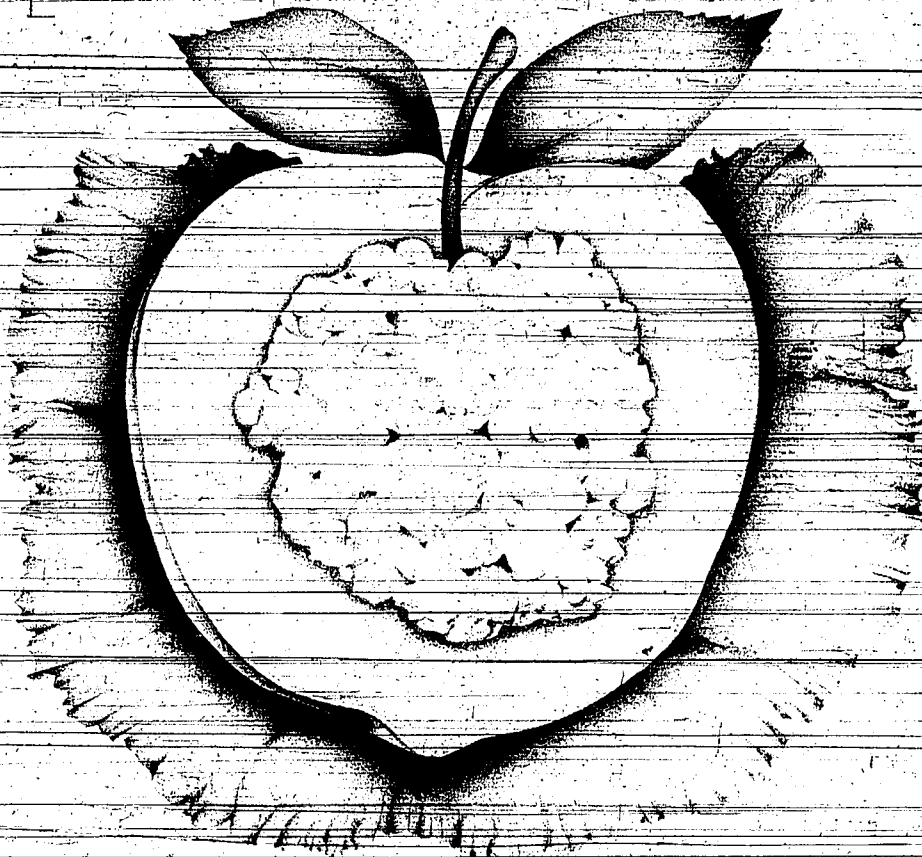

Take a peach. Any peach. Even canned will do. And fill it with cool cottage cheese.

Then set it on some crisp lettuce. And whammo. You've got one of the best tastin' salads around.

But—don't just try it with a peach. Try it with your favorite fruit. An avocado. A tomato. Or even a big piece of melon.

A 4 oz. serving of Creamed Cottage Cheese is a good way to get 33% of the protein you should have each day. And it has only 121 calories. Cottage Cheese. It's high in protein. Low in calories.

And it's a peachy idea for a hot summer day.
