TF Elks approve remodeling plan

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls Elks Lodge have given their approval for an extensive remodeling effort for the ground-floor of their building.

The work is expected to begin in the immediate future although a contract has not yet been awarded or a firm selected to handle the work. Howard Tippen, lodge official said.

Last week the lodge membership met with Henry Sachs, Los Angeles, representing Dohrman Co., designer for the remodeling project. He explained what can be done to the space formerly occupied by Shane's Furniture. Present plans call for a food and beverage lounge, a gymnasium and "work-out" rooms for businessmen, sauna baths, locker room and a "massage parlor" type facility, a new billiard room and a reading room. Some office space available for rent will also be included.

Members called for a "shoot the works" project with improvement to the entire building as well as just the ground floor.

Bill Ostrander, Elks secretary, said target date for completion is Sept.

Pooped Hoosier homer likes Jackpot roost

JACKPOT, Nev. — It's a long way from Hammond, Ind., to Jackpot. Ten months and 2,000 miles, as a matter of fact.

At least, that's how long it took a racing or homing pigeon to make the trip.

The exhausted bird, fluttered to earth on a parking lot at W. M. (Dob) McGhee's service station. After it sat there for a few minutes, attendant, Michael Covington, went over and plucked the bird up.

A band on its right leg read "9581 Hammond, Ind., Aug. 1973." Another band on the left leg carried the number, "198."

McGhee took the blue pigeon home, fed it and reported it acted refreshed on Monday. Covington thought the bird might have flown into a wire or been hit by a car. But even though its wings are in good shape, it refused to fly away.

Several residents speculated how and why the bird reached this northern Nevada resort town.

One surmised that it had taken a liking to freckling Nevada after finding some resident's mash "and just decided to stay on."

Another, referring to the left leg band, said, "My box number is 198. Perhaps it was looking for me and just missed the post office."

But back in Hoosierland, there's probably a pigeon fancier who wonders what became of the bird he let loose last August. If it was a homing pigeon, it obviously either took a wrong turn via Las Vegas or the longway home.

Gem post eyed by Jerome man

JEROME — A seventh candidate has announced for the district 23 legislative position.

William Kersey, Jerome, was the last candidate to file on the Democratic ticket for district 23 state representative.

Kersey faces Anna Louise Robinson, Hunt, Richard Strickland, Gooding, and Arlyne Kisting, Delrish, in the August primary election.

Republicans have a three-way race with candidates Gordon Hollifield, Clair Ricketts, both Jerome, and John H. Bibboks, Gooding.

Kersey, a 21-year Navy veteran, was born in Jerome. He joined the Navy just prior to graduating from high school and retired in 1970 as a navy senior chief hospital corpsman.

He is a member of the Kiwanis Club, past member of the Jerome School Board, a notary public, registered sanitation with the National Environmental Health Association and a member of the Idaho Association of Realtors.

The seven candidates are vying for two positions in district 23. Former representative Earl Greenawald, R-Jerome, is not seeking re-election and Vernon Ravenscroft is seeking the post of lieutenant governor.

TF community survey under way

TWIN FALLS — More than 10,000 questionnaires have been sent to Twin Falls County residents to get their opinions on community needs.

The three-page survey was prepared by the Twin Falls City-County Joint Planning Council and mailed with the help of the city government. Covering matters ranging from roads to parks to housing, the questionnaire was designed in an effort to let citizens be heard in the planning process.

"What we wanted to do is catch the public ... and get their candid view," Dave Richey, Council Planning Director, said. "We want their candid opinion on all the subjects," he added.

Richey said the questionnaire "is going to form the most part of the foundation of our citizen planning program. When decisions are made that affect various neighborhoods, the returns on this thing will have a great effect."

Questionnaires were sent in stages to all neighborhoods listed in the Twin Falls city directory. Richey said the directory covers Buhl and parts of Kimberly, Hansen and the rural portions of the county.

"We are not, and we never began this project thinking we could truly get a 100 per cent sampling," Richey said. "We're striving toward it as far as the money can be stretched."

According to Richey, the survey will reach "these other communities, but not at the density of coverage" of Twin Falls and Buhl. "Our first obligation is to the city of Twin Falls," he said.

Mailing dates on the surveys will identify the respondent's area. "This way, planners can sort out the city of Twin Falls from other communities, and four different neighborhoods within the city, to see if different areas have different views or concerns."

Broad nuclear weapon accord seen unlikely

(C) Washington Star-News
 WASHINGTON — The Nixon administration still hopes to win Soviet agreement to delay deployment of some advanced nuclear weapons, Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger said Monday.

Schlesinger, like Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, and other high officials, downgraded the probability of achieving the comprehensive strategic arms limitation treaty with the Russians that was once desired as the crowning touch of President Nixon's detente diplomacy.

But Schlesinger, addressing an hour-long news conference held out hope for a variety of secondary agreements which, as a package, would aid the administration's detente policies even if they would not contribute very much to a comprehensive long-range SALT agreement.

The main elements in this package, Schlesinger suggested, would be:

- A Soviet agreement to limit deployment of some of the heavy nuclear missiles and multiple warheads which the Russians have developed since the 1972 freeze on offensive weapons at the levels then existing.

— An agreement to institute a "threshold" ban on underground nuclear testing of powerful weapons.

— An agreement by both sides to limit still further the deployment of antiballistic missile batteries which were frozen at a maximum of two in the 1972 SALT agreement.

If such a package were agreed to, Schlesinger's remarks strongly implied, an extension of the existing five-year freeze on offensive nuclear weapons might be acceptable to the United States.

The prospect of extending the freeze has up to now been an anathema to hard-line critics of Kissinger's SALT negotiating tactics. The theory of these critics is that the new Soviet missiles and warheads will within a few years convert Russia's present advantage in numbers of missile launchers into an absolute strategic advantage.

Schlesinger has shared these doubts, and he repeated his warning that the first SALT agreement, if left as it is now, would lead to Soviet superiority in eight to 10 years.

The Soviets are holding to the development program they undertook after the 1972 SALT agreement, Schlesinger noted, and "if they are going to

SECRETARY JAMES SCHLESINGER tells U.S. arms hopes

— be restrained." Schlesinger said there was "some possibility" of a deal with the Russians to restrain deployment of weapons they have already developed—and that this suggests a significant new approach to a negotiation which had appeared headed for stalemate.

Schlesinger held out this hope while candidly admitting that the final U.S. negotiating position still has not been worked out less than two weeks before the summit is to take place.

The final position will not be formulated until Nixon's return from the Middle East later this week, Schlesinger said.

Asked whether the preparation so far had been adequate, Schlesinger replied that "because of the cycle of events in the Middle East, there has been less time to review these problems than we would prefer."

Schlesinger steadfastly refused, however, to paraphrase a suggestion that a president threatened with impeachment might rush into a disadvantageous deal. He repeated the same defense of Nixon's motive he offered the press several months ago: "It would do nothing intentionally to damage the national security... the President is a visceral, instinctive patriot and his entire history bears witness to this instinctive patriotism."

Schlesinger added, "He has not changed in that regard."

Aide suspected

NEW YORK (UPI) — Martha Mitchell said Monday she thinks Nixon administration members were filled in on the Watergate scandal by H.R. Haldeman on the morning of the break-in.

The wife of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell expressed the opinion on CBS TV's "Pat Collins Show," on which she is serving this week as co-host.

Questioned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst, who may have information about President Nixon's involvement in the ITT case, has been interviewed by the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment probe, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said Kleindienst was interviewed Monday by special counsel John M. Dowd and his staff to determine whether he should be called as a witness.

Kalmbach nets US prison term

(C) Washington Star-News
 WASHINGTON — Herbert W. Kalmbach, President Nixon's former attorney, was sentenced Monday to serve at least six months in prison for two violations of the law covering campaign contributions.

U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica pronounced the sentence on Kalmbach, who helped collect money for the Watergate cover-up, on the second anniversary of the break-in at Democratic Party headquarters.

Kalmbach, 52, from Newport Beach, Calif., was given a term of 18 months in prison for a concealed campaign operation that funneled $3 million to Republican candidates for the Senate in 1970. He is the first person to be sentenced to a prison term for a violation under the since-repealed Corrupt Practices Act.

He was given a concurrent term of 18 months in prison for misdemeanor violation of promising a European assignment to an ambassador in exchange for a $100,000 donation.

Kalmbach, who had pleaded guilty in February, was also fined $10,000 on the first count.

Kalmbach was given immunity from prosecution in other cases, including his role in the Watergate break-in and the so-called milk deal. He is expected to be a key prosecution witness in the Watergate conspiracy trial of former top White House officials later this year.

Kalmbach acted as President Nixon's personal attorney for nearly five years before he withdrew from the practice of law upon his guilty plea on Feb. 25.

ACLU report raps subverted justice

(C) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — A report submitted Monday to the Senate Judiciary Committee, the American Civil Liberties Union sought to show that the Nixon administration had subverted the federal justice system to its own purposes as part of the Watergate cover-up.

The 166-page document is drawn largely from public information, and is an interpretation of that information by its author, Charles Morgan Jr., director of the ACLU's Washington office.

The report swells to length on the possibility that Charles R. Richey, a United States district judge for the District of Columbia, had been improperly influenced in actions in a civil suit brought against Nixon's re-election committee.

Morgan said John W. Dean 3d, the President's counsel, correctly predicted in a meeting with Nixon and H. R. Haldeman, then the White House chief of staff, that Richey would halt the taking of pretrial depositions in the suit, and was even able to tell the President when the judge would act.

The report also points out that Dean indicated that the Judge's decision had grown out of a "casual encounter" between the judge and Earl J. Silbert, then principal assistant United States attorney for the District of Columbia who headed the Watergate investigation and prosecution. Dean reported to the President that Silbert had complained to the judge that preparation of indictments in the Watergate case had been complicated by the continuing pretrial discovery in the civil matter.

Neither Richey nor Silbert could be reached today for comment. However, when they were asked about the matter last month, the judge denied that it had taken place and Silbert declined to discuss it.

GOP probers waver, cite evidence lack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The three or four Republican congressmen who considered probable votes in favor of impeachment are now wavering because, as one of them put it, the evidence so far "just isn't there."

"It's far too early to predict how this will come out. I'm not sure how I'm going to vote — but I'm disappointed," one of the key Republicans, said, asking not to be quoted by name.

"The Democrats are blowing the case, as of now the evidence just isn't there," he added. "There has been some damage in evidence, but there are many gaps that have to be filled before he will make up his mind."

Another of the key Republicans agreed, adding, "The case is weak... it's not as strong as I thought it would be."

The Republicans' conclusions are important because the committee has already heard most of the evidence in the Watergate case itself, plus evidence in such key areas as the milk and ITT matters.

The committee hopes to complete closed door hearings this week, taking up the firing of Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox; Nixon's personal finances, including his income taxes; and the ordering of the secret Cambodia bombings.

While none of the Republicans has committed himself for some months it has been conceded that the minority members most likely to vote for impeachment were Reps. Hamilton Fish of New York, Gilliam S. Cohen of Maine, Thomas Flitcraft of Illinois and Robert McCleary of Illinois.

Red block rapped

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States today denounced the Viet Cong and North Vietnam in a blistering statement blaming the Communists for "lack of progress in the search for missing Americans and a Vietnam peace."

"It seems clear that their sole purpose continues to be to promote propaganda and to prevent real progress," said a seven-page statement issued by the U.S. Embassy.

A U.S. spokesman said the statement was issued after Communist delegations walked out of Saigon talks aimed at declaring an armistice and accounting for the 1,100 Americans missing in Indochina.

Political observers in Saigon said the statement was the strongest anti-Communist document issued by the United States since a Vietnam cease-fire was proclaimed Jan. 28, 1973.

In Cambodia, more than 300 Communist rebel troops were killed when a large government force surrounded them in a battle 11 miles north of Phnom Penh on Highway 5 Monday, the military command announced today.

Analysis of tapes may halt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Judge John J. Sirica apparently is wondering if the U.S. District Court can afford to pay for more expert examinations of President Nixon's Watergate tapes.

With court officials predicting a cost of more than $100,000 for the June 20, 1972, recording, Sirica has called a 1 1/2 hour hearing on the matter.

Though reluctant to discuss specifics, Sirica left the impression that the six-man panel may not get to finish its analysis of a whole lot depends on what the evidence is needed for, he said. "The question of money is the principal thing."

Since they were appointed by the court to determine whether any of these tapes had been tampered with, the experts have been working almost exclusively on the June 20, 1972 recording. A voluminous final report says the gap in a discussion between Nixon and his then-chief of staff, H.R. Haldeman was caused by at least five manual erasures. They will have five tapes and a detabel to study.

According to Edward Garabedian, an official of the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, the expenses of the experts so far are "barely close to $100,000" and all their bills are not yet in. He said, however, he expects the total cost will not exceed $100,000 at this time.

50th anniversary dinner party set

TWIN FALLS — A dinner party for family and friends in honor of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Jensen will be held Saturday at the Blue Lakes Inn.

William and Gladys Jensen were married June 29, 1924, in Hugo, Colo. He worked for the Union Pacific Railroad for 47

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Jensen

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I dropped out of high school to be married. I am now 30, divorced, and have three children. We are totally dependent on welfare.

If I went to work I could earn $1.90 an hour as a motel maid, but here is my dilemma: I attend (but am not enrolled in) the poetry workshops of two colleges in my city. My teachers say I am very talented, and they urge me to stay with writing poetry. I have been published in some of the best literary magazines in the nation, and have had some very encouraging letters from editors, although they haven't paid me anything. My ambition is to become a major poet.

I have spent two years in therapy, but I can't psychoanalyze away my need to write poetry.

Now I must make a choice between my children's physical needs and what my family calls my "selfish ambition."

I welcome your advice. POOR, SCORNED AND TORN

Poetry not edible

DEAR P. B. AND T.: Since you are able to work I think you should get off welfare. Thus far your poetry has netted you only non-edible letters of encouragement. I advise you to get a paying job, and write poetry in your spare time.

DEAR ABBY: I am interested in the strange case of the woman who went to confession and was upset by the priest who confessed his own troubles to her. Even stranger was your advice that the priest should confess to a doctor.

So here's the situation: If a woman confesses to a priest, she's religious; but if a priest confesses to a woman, he's a sick.

My God, Abby, if that's the best you can do, you should quit. Why didn't you simply advise the poor fellow to go to another priest and confess? INFIDEL!

DEAR INF: The priest didn't merely "confess" to a woman—he broke down and wept—and to a parishioner who had come to him to confess. (This is healthy!) True, another priest might have relieved the first priest's guilt by hearing his confession, but only a doctor can diagnose and treat one for an emotional disturbance, which appears to be the case here.

DEAR ABBY: I am a sailor who will be going on leave soon. I expect to be met at the airport by my parents and my girl friend. My problem is I don't know when, since I should go to first. It will be a year and six months since I have been home.

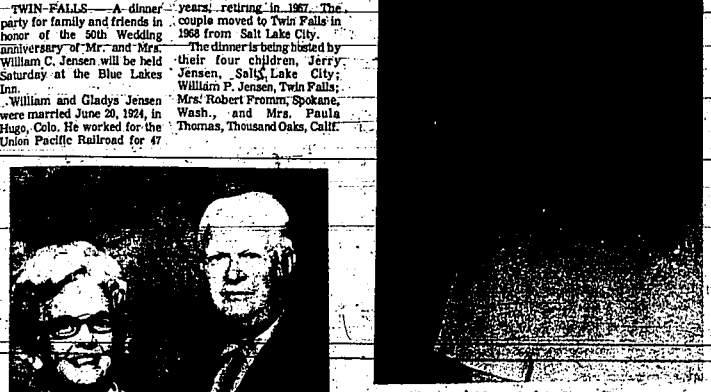

You always say to put your mate above all others because your mate will be your lifelong companion. Well, I am not married yet, but I think my girl friend will expect me to go to her first, and my mother will expect me to go to her last.

I love them both very much, and wouldn't want to hurt either one, so whose arms do you recommend? SAILOR

DEAR SAILOR: Since you aren't married yet, I'd suggest you greet your mother first. But once you take a mate, mate, she comes first!

CONFIDENTIAL TO A FRENCH-SPEAKING ITALIAN IN ROME: The French have a phrase for it: "Il n'y a pas les femmes froides, mais les hommes malsains." Which means, "There are no frigid women, only clumsy men."

Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a private reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 6719, L.A., Calif., 90048. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Mr. Wholin points out that South would have made his contract in spite of the bad break if he just stopped to think when West showed out on the second diamond. South should simply overtake his queen with dummy's king, take a heart finesse and lead his three diamonds to dummy's nine.

East would win and lead a club to dummy's ace. South would cash the last two diamonds and then take a second heart finesse.

The whole point would be that South would make the same four diamond tricks but would get one more heart trick.

CARD Sense

By Oswald & James Jacoby
We are indebted to Jan Wholin of Lockhart for today's hand. South gets to a good three notrump contract after a Stayman response to his opening notrump bid.

He started out correctly by winning the club lead in his own hand. The next three tricks were taken by his ace and queen of diamonds and dummy's king. A fourth diamond lost to East's jack.

A club was led back to dummy's ace and the fifth diamond cashed. A successful heart finesse gave him his seventh trick, but the king failed to drop under the ace and he had to go down one.

Protection inadequate Crews battle jams, Big Wood flooding

By ED MITCHELL
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Several major buildings in Burley have inadequate fire protection, according to a preliminary study by JUB Engineers, Twin Falls.

Hugh Hedges, engineer for the firm, told the City Council at a meeting Monday night that large buildings, including the hospital, Dworshak School, the new junior high school, Southwest Elementary School, the Ponderosa Inn and the Albertson-Staggs shopping complex, "would burn" if a major fire started.

The present water system does not provide enough pressure to adequately supply fire hoses, according to the study presented by Hedges.

The preliminary study is the first step in the city's project to change and improve its water system. The plan for the project is expected to be presented to the council in about 45 days.

The city will base its water system planning on a population projection prepared by JUB. According to the projection, which Hedges showed the council, Burley may have 10,000 people in 20 years.

Jim Rippey, councilman, said that population projections for Burley have been consistently too high. He said that in 1910 when the city had 5,000 people, it was estimated that there would be 10,000 by 1920. However, the population had not reached 5,000 by 1950. The present population is under 10,000.

To have adequate water supply for consumption and fire protection, the city needs an additional four million gallons of storage capacity, according to Hedges.

The city will have to decide between having one large storage facility or smaller tanks in separate locations. Hedges said the second alternative is favored by his firm "since you wouldn't have all your eggs in one basket."

The council decided to use cast iron pipe in the new system, which, according to Hedges, may cost about $1 million more than if they used concrete pipe. Cast iron pipe is expected to last 50 years compared to about 25 years for concrete pipe.

HAILEY — Crews again worked into the night Monday breaking log jams in the flooding Big Wood River.

Several bridges still face danger and the private road into the Gillet airport area has been closed. Three other county roads remain closed.

The river has receded some but is still sending enormous timber downriver which is jamming at several bridges and along the river banks. County crews worked this morning at the bridge crossing into Hullen Meadows, a subdivision north of Ketchum.

An old bridge has been completely washed out and crews are working there to save a new bridge.

The Army Corps of Engineers is in the area and will mobilize crews today. Much levee work and rip-rap along the bridges has already been done.

Efforts have been continuing since Saturday to control the river which rose to the 7.25 foot level Monday morning. Many homes along Warm Springs and Trail Creek, generally easily flowing streams, have been flooded although there have been no reports of evacuation.

The Glendale road may be closed for five days, County Commissioner C. W. Andy Gardner said. Water continues to inundate a 100-yard stretch of road west of the bridge. Crews have set up a constant surveillance at the bridge.

hosting logs which jam there.

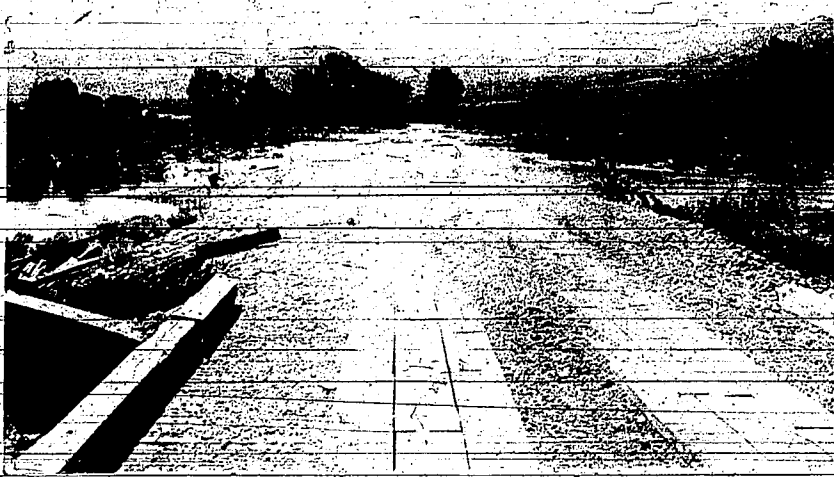

One crew member said the bridge would have been lost if the work had not begun when it did. Bradford Road remains closed although work will begin today to water and channel through roadway at the Bellevue Bible Camp. A county crew ripped up the pavement to allow water to escape when a levee above the camp broke Saturday night flooding has homes there.

Adam Gulch, north of Ketchum, also remains closed. Rip-rap has been hauled to the Deer Creek bridge to bolster a fastly eroding corner of that structure.

Gillet area residents near the airport are using an access road to bypass bridge structures there was declared unsafe Sunday. Residents in the flood plain near the airport say the river has changed its channel and is causing less worry now although one structure was surrounded on three sides by water.

Crews are still working near the Warm Springs bridge, rebuilding a washed out levee. City officials were worried the river might reach Hemingway Elementary School but the area has been patched and is out of danger at least temporarily.

Some groups are forming here now to fight flood plain building.

Gooding planning group asks serious support

GOODING — How to get people, particularly developers, to take part in city planning and zoning commission seriously, was discussed by the Gooding City Council here Monday night.

Mrs. Pat Klingler, commission chairman, and Pat Hendrix, one of the members, attended the council meeting to discuss the problem and seek advice. Mrs. Klingler stressed, "We are not out to get anyone. We have no axe to grind, but only want to help."

Fence Co., Wendell, to install fencing for two city wells. Bids were not called since each job is under $2,500. Cost will be $2,389 for 520 feet of fencing and $2,360 for the other project. This will be industrial type three-barbed, nine-gauge wire.

There was much discussion as to whether or not the city could afford this project, because of increased costs of sewer improvements required by the Environmental Protection Agency, but after consultation by Mayor Rice and City Clerk George Silva as to how much additional revenue could be obtained from increase in water and sewer rates, it was decided to have the fencing installed.

According to their estimates, a planned increase in water rates would bring in about $18,000 extra money and councilmen decided upon a 26 per cent increase in sewer rates which would be "rounded off at the nearest quarter."

This increase, raising the current $2.95 monthly residential charge to $3.75.

Councilman Eugene Kelly discussed requests of city employees regarding sick leave, vacations and holidays. It was decided to have a representative from Jerome speak to the group regarding benefits given municipal employees there.

Councilmen also authorized a call for bids for a city road grader. They will be opened at the July 16 council meeting.

Crowd gathers for TF fiesta

TWIN FALLS — Hundreds of people turned out Saturday and Sunday for a fiesta complete with dancers, Mexican food, speakers and a band.

Planned and organized by "La Operacion Huilapochli," a committee of volunteers from Magic Valley towns and groups like the Migrant Council, the fiesta began with a dance Saturday night.

More than 100 people attended the dance set in the basement of St. Edward's Catholic Church. A band based in Laredo, Tex., "El Conjunto Los Socios," played for dancers along Sunday afternoon. The fiesta continued with several hundred mothers, fathers, grandmothers, uncles, kids and more coming to city park.

A special theater group, "El Teatro al Pobre," presented a series of skits about farm workers. Made up of students from the University of Washington, the group was sponsored under the Idaho Migrant Council's Chicano Cultural Plan by the State Commission on the Arts and Humanities and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Colorfully costumed dancers from the Nampa-based "El Alma de Mexico" performed Mexican folk dances. The dancers, in long embroidered skirts, were led by Benny Munoz, a famous Mexican actor.

The main speaker was Abelardo (Lalo) Delgado, a chicano studies professor at the University of Utah, Salt Lake City. Lalo, generally regarded as the area's chicano poet, spoke, and read poems, some of which dealt with fathers and Father's Day.

Flood hits Sawtooths

STANLEY — A week of hot weather has created serious flooding in the creeks and rivers in the Stanley Basin.

Onelek Creek, from the Stanley ranger station, Sawtooth National Recreation area, said Monday, "The main Salmon River is at flood stages in all areas." The river is closed to all water-associated sports and Eberole said "Flood boating would be considered a suicidal attempt."

Many roads and campgrounds in the area are closed.

The road up to East Fork drainage from US 30 is closed to the upper area due to flooding, with the lower area in water and not visible. The Fourth of July Creek road is closed and bridges are underwater. The Yankee Fork Road from Samba Dam on US 30 is closed and two bridges are out.

The Slate Creek-Robinson Bar road is under water and washed out in several places. Eberole warned it is not advisable to travel the Robinson Bar road. The Slate Creek road is closed.

Stanley Lake campgrounds is flooded and people are flooded from the Stand-Creek and Grandjean roads and campgrounds are under water and not open for use.

Eberole said flooding will continue or increase until the weather cools off, and added they aren't sure if the river has peaked yet.

TF panel proposed

Milar said the city supports the employees' cause but not the proposed committee bid "because it (the committee) represents the employees or rather they represent themselves without any expense or burden."

At least some employees have doubts about the proposed employee committee. "I don't know," said one. "I've got to see what it's all about."

Another striking employee, Larry Karner, also questioned the proposal.

But Jim Carron, Milar said, "but I've talked with guys that have been here for 40 years and they've talked with the council and Mr. Milar. And that's all they've done — talked."

Teamster local business representative Roy Corson asserted that an employees' committee would not be effective "because it still would be controlled by the city council and the city manager."

"The city employees would still have no say so simply because the city management and the city council is going to do exactly what it's done in the past," he said.

today in brief

3,500 expected at contest
WEISER, Idaho (UPI) — The vanguard of an anticipated 3,500 visitors has arrived in Weiser for the National Oldtime Fiddlers' Contest and Festival.

One campground was jammed to capacity and Weiser city officials encouraged others to set up camp north of town as they arrived by the hundreds.

More than 200 fiddlers are expected to compete for $3,000 in prize money at this year's contest.

Tonight's performance at Weiser High School will culminate competition for junior fiddlers aged up to 12 years. The junior competition for all ages up to 18 will be completed Wednesday night and the ladies' championship will be determined Thursday night.

Signs initiative
BOISE (UPI) — Hope Kadig, Boise, candidate for lieutenant governor, added her name to a "Sunshine Initiative" petition Monday at a meeting of the Ada County Republican Women's Club.

Mrs. Kadig said she "has researched the initiative extensively and believes there must be a state disclosure act."

Search continues
CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — Sheriff's deputies resumed early today their search for Joan Allan Bailey, Salmon, believed to have drowned while swimming in Lake Powell Monday night.

Miss Bailey, a recent graduate of Gem State Academy, and a friend, Kathy Cozler, Caldwell, were playing in the swimming area of the lower embankment with an inner tube when Miss Bailey disappeared.

Firefighters battle range fire
BIRLEIGH, Idaho (UPI) — Bureau of Land Management officials hope the first major range fire of the season, burning five miles southeast of Birleigh, can be contained sometime today.

The fire, which consumed 4,500 acres Monday night, was reported to be spreading quickly because of extreme heat and 20 knot wind. Boise BLM spokesman John Shered said.

The fire started early Monday afternoon on an Air Force bombing range.

Forty men from the Boise, Burley and Shoshone districts of the BLM as well as Air Force personnel from Mountain Home Air Force Base planned to spend Monday night fighting the blaze, Shered said.

Autopsy results expected
CASCADE, Idaho (UPI) — The results of an autopsy, including chemical tests on the body of McCall police chief James Perkins, will be available later this week, Valley County Coroner Bud Walker said.

Perkins, 47, was killed in an exchange of gunfire with sheriff's deputies and Idaho State Police Saturday, after he went on a window-smashing and pistol firing rampage.

The small town police chief had been chased by state police and sheriff's men at speeds up to 130 mph until he ran into a vehicle driven by James Savast, Grand Junction, Colo., State Police Lieutenant Victor R. Bariggs said.

River claims lives of 2
RIGGINS, Idaho (UPI) — The Main Fork of the Salmon River, running at record high levels, has claimed the lives of at least two persons in a boating accident near Mackay Bar.

Idaho County Coroner Leon E. Whitcomb said the body of an unidentified male believed to be in his 50s, had been recovered from the river and was flown into a Grangeville, Idaho mortuary.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Maxwell said a party of 10 in nine rubber rafts were reported to have been running the river Monday.

Medex opens GE clinic
GLENN'S FERRY — Paul Delaplaine, medox, is operating the clinic at the Union Pacific Railroad Hospital with the assistance of Mrs. Betty Edwards, LPN.

Clinic hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Delaplaine recently completed medox training at the University Medical School, Seattle, Wash.

All of the clinic rooms have been cleaned, painted and carpeted. Some of the work and materials were donated by different area organizations.

Delaplaine is married and has a young daughter.

Ducks foul Gooding meet

GOODING — Ducks which annoy their neighbors and create traffic jams on city streets were among the problems considered by Gooding city councilmen Monday night.

In the case of the ducks the council is apparently unable to remedy the condition, according to city Atty. Cecil Hobbay; since they do not violate any existing ordinance.

John Hoover appeared to complain about 18 ducks which, he said, a neighbor keeps penned up, but "make a lot of noise." City ordinance provides that fowls must not be allowed to run at large.

Mayor Leo Rice said he also has received complaints about the ducks which have multiplied from two or three which the owner reportedly won at the fair last year. Tuesday it was reported the owner is planning to sell the offending fowl.

Harvey Bickett's complaint about machinery stored on a vacant lot at Eighth Avenue and Nevada Street caused a general discussion about similar situations in other parts of town.

The site of Bickett's concern is zoned R2, according to Mrs. Pat Klingler, city zoning commission chairman, and a grocery store is located across the street.

Hobbay was instructed to draw up a complaint against Dick Bird who, reportedly, owns the machinery. This is in violation of an existing junk ordinance.

TF pilot not injured

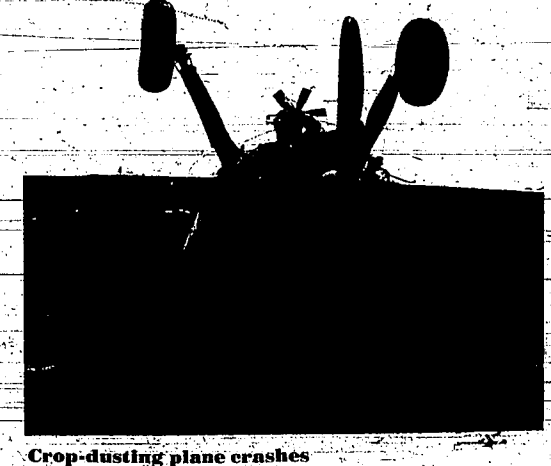

SHOSHONE — David Hilland, pilot for Air Ag Inc., Twin Falls, escaped injury when the crop-dusting plane he was piloting crashed into a cornfield northwest of here Monday morning.

Mrs. Darrell Hamilton, whose husband owns the business, said Hilland was taken to a motel in Shoshone where he showed her to wash off any of the chemical spray on his body. Hamilton then took him immediately to a doctor for examination and he apparently was not harmed either by the crash or the spray, she said.

Sheriff B. J. Anderson said the plane was spraying a hay field on the Wayne Sorenson farm about eight miles northwest of Shoshone. Hamilton was in the field flagging the pilot when the plane hit a fence and landed on its tip in a corn field.

The sheriff had been unable to locate Hamilton by Tuesday morning and the fact the Air Ag phone number is disconnected added to the confusion, but Mrs. Hamilton said they did not have the number in use this year because "their customers all know them and telephone them" at their home.

She said her husband had filed the crash report with the Federal Aviation Agency and would contact the sheriff.

Training pays off

TWIN FALLS — Special evacuation training pays off Monday for employees of Magic Valley Ambulance Service who were able to save an Amalgamated Sugar Co. employee buried in a bin of sugar.

Ronald J. Fisher, 22, was climbing a silo at the sugar plant late Monday afternoon when a ledge of sugar on which he was standing broke and buried him.

He is listed in fair condition today at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and (full extent of his injuries is not fully known.

Wayne Edwards, ambulance service owner, said two of his men, Calvin Edwards and James Stark, just completed training in the State Emergency Rescue and Evacuation School. They were called to the scene after fellow employees had worked nearly an hour to free Fisher from the bin.

The workers had cleared sugar from his head and face several times during that time but could not get him out of the bin.

The ambulance workers crawled through a small opening in the silo below the ten-foot-deep bin and attached ropes to the man, pulling him from the sugar and then lowering him down the silo and through the small opening.

He was admitted to the hospital about 10:30 p.m. Monday. Hospital officials said he was in severe shock and complained of pain.

Calvin Edwards said when rescued he was buried about to the neck under the heavy sugar.

Stable gasoline, oil prices eyed

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — Consumers can look forward to at least three months of stable gasoline and oil prices because of Saudi Arabia's resistance to higher petroleum tax hikes, oil sources said today.

Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil exporter, Monday refused to raise prices with 11 other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — that wanted to impose an increase in taxes and posted prices for oil.

The posted price, a level artificially set by the oil group for tax purposes, currently averages $11 a barrel by oil companies will be increased by 2 per cent.

Saudi Arabia disassociated itself from an increase in royalties, which the companies pay the state for rights to drill and export oil.

The new increases will come to between 5 and 10 cents per barrel, or a fraction of a cent per gallon of oil.

Had an agreement not been reached, the petroleum consortium could have broken down after 14 years of existence.

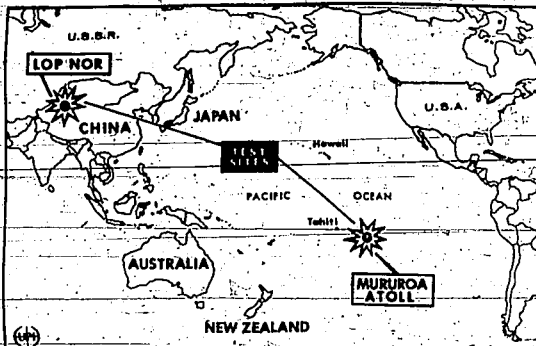

The key debate was sparked by a recommendation of OPEC's economic committee that posted prices be increased 9 per cent to compensate for inflation in the industrialized nations.

It asked for a tax hike from the current level of 45 per cent to 87 per cent.

"We are not going to accept a price increase or a tax increase," Saudi oil minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani told reporters before the start of the final three-hour session which ended the three-day meeting.

Yamani said to meet that a further increase in oil prices could cause serious problems in the world economy, especially inflationary, and booming against oil producing nations which must import industrialized products.

OPEC quashed the posted price of oil last year but left it frozen for the first six months of the year while it waited to see if the industrialized nations could curb inflation.

Fireworks ban delayed, noisy July 4 expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It will be a noisy Fourth of July after all, but maybe the last one of that kind.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission Monday granted the fireworks industry a 30-day delay in the start of a nationwide ban on firecrackers and the beginning of new safety rules governing the manufacture of most other fireworks.

As a result, firecrackers will continue on the market until at least mid-July, after which time the commission will make a public hearing to determine if some overall revision is necessary in its new regulations.

Four trade associations representing Chinese manufacturers and American importers and wholesalers had asked for the delay, claiming they would be stuck with inventories valued at $50 million on the retail market if the ban started at 12:01 a.m. EDT today as originally scheduled.

The commission ruled Monday that the petition was legally sufficient to warrant the public hearing. The trade associations had raised other objections to the regulations beyond liquidation of inventories. They objected, for instance, to labeling requirements as well as to the scientific basis on which the agency made the safety rules.

But the commissioners seem adamant on the validity of their proposed firecracker ban, and it appeared likely that this would be the last year for an old-fashioned, noisy Fourth around American homes, even if some other parts of the regulations are revised. The regulations do not affect public displays or use of firecrackers for pest control.

The firecracker ban met particular opposition in Hawaii, where it was said to interfere with the religious freedom of orientals.

US data banks found

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The General Services Administration tried to hide from Congress its plans for a computer system that would centralize all information gathered by federal data banks, a Senate subcommittee report charged today.

The committee said it found 58 federal data banks with at least 1.2 billion records on individuals.

But Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., the subcommittee chairman, said: "I suspect there are many more we haven't found."

The Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee, in a report based on a four-year study, said GSA's plans remained "unknown and undisclosed" despite repeated requests for information on federal data banks.

The report said "neither in response to the subcommittee survey" nor in response to congressional oversight hearings did the General Services even mention its plans for the massive national data bank.

The subcommittee said in mid-1972 GSA was preparing a system known as FEDNET, which would have centralized the data processing and telecommunications of an unlimited number of agencies, beginning with the Agriculture Department.

The report called FEDNET a "reincarnation of the National Data Center, which was abandoned by the executive branch in the late-1960s under public and congressional pressure."

Using the survey as a basis, the subcommittee was scheduled to open hearings today on legislation designed to insure the privacy of individuals. Among the witnesses was former attorney General Elliot Richardson.

Nuclear tests assailed

By United Press International and French governments have "a clear obligation toward the international community to prevent the dangers of environmental pollution."

The Indian Atomic Energy Commission estimated the Chinese test at one megaton and placed it at the desolate Lop Nor test area 1,500 miles west of Peking.

Swedish officials at the Stockholm Institute in Uppsala said they registered the Chinese explosion at 300 kilotons but did not detect the French test.

In Washington, Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger told a news conference China's test "simply reflects the slow paced Chinese research program."

In Japan the Socialist-dominated National Council against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs said it has sent a cable of protest to Chinese Premier Chou En-lai.

The Japanese Meteorological Agency said it has alerted its observation posts throughout the country to possible radioactive contamination of the atmosphere.

Japan and New Zealand also protested the bomb tests held Monday, the first time two different nations detonated nuclear weapons the same day.

In Tokyo, a spokesman for the foreign ministry said Japan reserved the right to demand compensation for damage that may be caused by radioactive fallout.

In Canberra, Whitlam said the huge Chinese explosion, estimated to have the force of between 300,000 and one million tons of TNT, was "likely to lead to deposits of radioactive fallout within Australian territory."

The French explosion was much smaller, described by New Zealand Prime Minister Norman Kirk as "under the equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT."

The Australian foreign ministry announced it called in the French ambassador Gabriel van Lathem, and presented a formal protest. It also planned to later call in the Chinese Ambassador Wang Kuo-chuan to give a similar protest.

Whitlam said the Chinese

TV cameramen film getaway

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Anthony Er-Schiano Monday escaped from the sheriff's department by elevator while television cameramen filmed his successful get-away.

Er-Schiano had just been sentenced in Superior Court to state prison for parole violation when he bolted and fled through a snack bar. Television camera crews and reporters, waiting in the corridor for participants in another trial, filmed Er-Schiano's dash for freedom.

The escaping prisoner jumped into an elevator and the doors closed.

In the elevator with him was a district attorney's investigator.

Er-Schiano had escaped. He rode with him from the 13th floor to the sixth, where Er-Schiano got out and vanished.

Immediate tax cut passage dims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The prospect of immediate passage of a tax cut has been dimmed by Sen. James B. Allen's filibuster.

Allen, an Alabama Democrat, said Monday he was "not prepared to yield" the Senate floor for any amendments to a pending bill setting a ceiling bill that would provide a tax reduction.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and other liberals had hoped to attach tax reform amendments to the bill, but they were rebuffed March 31. The present $475.7 billion limit expires June 30, and without the pending legislation, the government could not pay its bills or meet its payroll.

Even if the Senate passes a tax package, it faces many more obstacles, including a possible presidential veto before it could become law.

The House Ways and Means Committee is working on its own tax reform measure, and has already approved an oil industry tax bill. But both measures are "becoming bogged down, and the debt bill could become this year's tax reform vehicle."

Israel builds arsenal

LONDON (UPI) — The newspaper Daily Telegraph said today that Israel has built up an arsenal of atomic bombs.

A report by John Miller of the newspaper's diplomatic staff, citing no source for its information, said "the one certainty of the Middle East is that she (Israel) has stockpiled atomic bombs."

"Official statements on the issue have been blandly and diplomatically limited to an insistence that Israel would never be the first Middle East country to use atomic weapons."

"But even this phrase has signified to the West, the Kremlin, and to Israel's Arab neighbors that Israel would not be caught empty handed if it came to the nuclear crunch."

The newspaper said Israel first set off on the nuclear road with a secret deal with France in 1956, then "embarked on a crash program" to produce nuclear weapons "just at Dimona, a nuclear research center in the Negev desert."

Bomb blast kills cop

ULSTER (UPI) — A policeman examining a suspicious package was killed in a bomb blast today and two other high-powered bombs went off in cars beside police stations in remote villages in County Tyrone near the border with the Irish Republic, police said.

A 300-pound bomb in Stewartstown, 50 miles southwest of Belfast, heavily damaged a police station, and a 500-pounder in nearby Cogh-darae and another after they went off in parked cars, police spokesman said.

The buildings were evacuated before the blast, the spokesman said.

Magic Valley must integrate girls athletics in schools

The integration of girls athletics into high schools will severely test some districts. But it is far more certain that this integration must be completed.

With the federal government having the power to withhold educational money to accomplish this, Magic Valley, which has been a leader in the field, will have to continue making additions.

There will be a stress on gymnastics and other facilities, not easily given to simultaneous use. For that reason there must be considerable dovetailing.

Journamentals and classifications.

Several class A3 and A4 schools which have for years offered girls competition only in track, are going to basketball this winter.

The facilities problem is easily seen. In some districts the junior high, sophomore and varsity boys basketball teams already occupy the gym for practices from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. daily. Working in a girls varsity basketball practice schedule will have some teams there until 11 p.m.

The gymnastics situation also demands gymnasium time, but the space requirements aren't quite as great. And the sport is more individual than team.

Some areas schools which had gymnastics last year had their team members reporting early in the morning. Gymnasts also were relieved of physical education class requirements for an hour during the day to improve their skills.

Boys' wrestling teams already have adjusted to working out in more cramped areas in most cases. But it remains that winter time will create the most difficulties for any athletic department scheduling.

It comes at a time when the students seem more bent toward participating with the steady classroom grind not yet taking its full mental stress and leading to the spring fever burst at year's end. There is a search for an energy release.

A larger problem, at least at the outset, will stem from supervision. The federal edict states that girls' teams must have the same competent coaching that the boys receive and at a commensurate pay level.

Coaching salaries — that paid over and above the base teaching salary — in the Twin Falls district approach $14,000, not including a full time athletic director. While it is unlikely that anyone would require a girls volleyball team to have four coaches as the varsity football team does, the extra cost to be paid is

Twin Falls athletic director Bob Donnelly firmly believes the day is not far away that a full time women's athletic director. They already are fact in some eastern states and California.

At the outset, hiring of competent female coaches will be difficult with the number of teachers now in surplus over the number of teaching jobs available, any number of bodies will be available. Girls athletics will become, initially, a magnet for anyone with a P.

E. minor. And how many current graduates know anything of gymnastics, for example.

Donnelly sees this as a potential problem of no-lasting consequence.

It would surprise you to find out how many people in Twin Falls knew something about gymnastics. When we started the program and sent out a call for some assistance I think we had something like eight women respond. Most of them were mothers, but they all knew something about it," he says.

In cases of ignorance, then, the school will again go to the community for aid. But in some smaller areas, that aid might not be available.

Of better news in the basketball field, however, is the announced abandonment of the old girls rules. The programs coming into being now and in the next few years will be new. In such instances the new women's coach have assistance immediately available, if necessary.

But an Edinaily says, the duration of ignorance will not last long nor will it be new to this area. Only about 15 years ago when Twin Falls and Buhl got together for their first wrestling match, neither of the coaches nor the official had seen a match before.

Aaron still leads in all-star ballot

NEW YORK (UPI) — Only record-breaking Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves was able to break the domination of Cincinnati and Los Angeles players Monday when he received the latest tabulations for the National League All-Star team were announced.

Aaron, the biggest name in baseball after breaking Babe Ruth's home run record in the first week of the season, was the top vote-getter with 484,972 in the balloting conducted by fans across the nation.

"Aaron enjoyed a wide margin over his competition for outfield berths as Pete Rose of Cincinnati was second with 238,364 votes and Jimmy Wynn of Los Angeles was third with 224,490.

The balloting will continue through Sunday, July 7, and the All-Star game is scheduled to be played in Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium-Tuesday night, July 23.

A breakdown of the leading contenders for each position follows:

Preston Gerber wins cycle prize

JACKPOT — Preston Gerber, left, Utah, won the $200 overall prize in the Sixth Annual Cactus Pte. cross country motocycle race here Sunday.

Gerber's time for the 60-mile run-of-five laps through sagebrush, sand, rocks, washes and prickly pear cactus was one hour and 30 minutes.

Robert Sward, who won the overall last year, went out of the money when a fire on his bike blew.

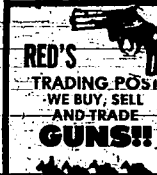

Carroll Crosby, Salt Lake City, Utah, won the top prize in the 250 cc class; Scott Stender, Alsea, Ore., took the 200 cc to 250 cc class; John Harrison, Salt Lake City, took the 126 to 200 cc class; and Dennis Kanley, Boise, won the 8 to 125 cc class.

breze riders ate plenty of dust which often blew from exhaust. Breakdowns plagued a dozen enthusiasts and several only completed half of the first lap because they couldn't get a long, steep, rocky hill.

Trophies and $1,200 in total prizes were formally presented at an assembly in the Horseshoe Casino. Some cited the race as a model for safety. Jay Schneider, Jackpot fire chief, had an ambulance at the airport and four wheel drive vehicles at various vantage points on the back country course. A helicopter from Twin Falls checked for stragglers at the end of the grueling contest.

Mrs. Floyd Bettey, Twin Falls, — race official — complimented the Twin Falls and Pocatello citizen band radio clubs for their cooperation.

West quarterbacks are concerned about time

CURBOCK — Tex. (UPI) — Lefty Freitas and Joe Barnes are two young men concerned with time.

"We have very little of it this week to get in everything we would like, but I feel we can still get the job done," said San Diego State's Freitas, who led the nation in both passing and total offense last year.

Freitas and Barnes of Texas Tech will quarterback the West Saturday night against the East in the 34th annual Coaches All-America Football game.

The West, thanks to a 20-6 victory in the series which began in 1952 at Buffalo, later moved to Atlanta and has won 16 of the last five years.

A near-capacity crowd of 42,000 is expected for Jones Stadium for the 8:30 p.m. kickoff, and millions are expected to view the game nationally via television (ABC).

Freitas completed 227 of 347 passes for 2,993 yards and 21 touchdowns last year and averaged 263.7 yards per game in total offense. He will have plenty of targets available Saturday, including his old high school receiver Lynn Swann.

Swann caught 42 aeriels for 714 yards and six touchdowns at Southern California last year.

"It will be great to get back with Lynn for this game, but I don't think it's going to make that much difference," Freitas said. "Just having played with him back in high school doesn't help me know his moves now."

"But, then, I don't think there is going to be a real problem with any of our receivers," he said. "They are all All-Americans. It only takes about three or four days to know your receivers and to get a pattern down pretty well."

Barnes agrees the West will come out passing — and probably mix just enough of the running game to keep the pass effective.

"We will just run some basic offense plays," said Barnes, who admits he's happy and excited to play one more collegiate game before the home fans.

"If you put in too much offense for a game like this you just get the guys mixed up and they forget," Barnes said. "Therefore, you stick just to getting down the basics."

"Experienced quarterbacks believe they will be familiar with West Coach Barry Switzer of Oklahoma. Al San Diego State's Freitas has spent under both a vet and prep set, and Barnes has run the Texas Tech option for two years.

"Saturday night we'll probably combine all all-in, and it's similar to what Oklahoma ran last year — and mix-out running with our passing," Switzer said.

Barnes, the all-Southwest Conference quarterback in 1973, led Texas Tech in rushing, passing and total offense last year.

Jones expected to sign with Rockets

DENVER (UPI) — The American Basketball Association's Denver Rockets, fighting to remain a living league, will call a Tuesday news conference at which time they were expected to announce the signing of 6-9 Olympian Bobby Jones of North Carolina.

Saturday, the National Basketball Association's Houston Rockets said they could not afford to meet Jones' contract demands and would no longer negotiate with him. An announcement comes in pro basketball when an player has been lost to the rival league.

Jones was drafted in the ABA by the Carolina Cougars, but Denver obtained his negotiation rights several weeks ago and newly named General Manager Carl Scheer and Coach Larry Brown said they were confident Jones would sign with Denver.

The signing would improve Denver's hopes of being included in any consolidation that might be sanctioned by the NBA and ABA. That announcement, quite conceivably, could come this week as both leagues hold annual meetings.

In earlier talks of consolidation, Jones had been mentioned as one of the teams that would be included, but recently managing owner Frank Goldberg has announced that he is not interested in the negotiations that may have been generated about the team.

Denver already had an 18,000 seat arena set to open for the 1975-76 season, but post-season developments such as rumors of unhappy owners and unhappy players like star guard Ralph Sampson left the Rockets situation very much up-in-the air.

Powerful Joe Frazier whips Jerry Quarry in 5 rounds

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jerry Quarry tried to be "new Quarry" but the smacking left hand of the former champion Joe Frazier gave Quarry no chance Monday night, with Frazier winning when referee Joe Louis stopped the bout in the fifth round.

The 29-year-old Quarry's face was a bloody mess as they began the fifth round and Quarry, who had been favored by odds on Louis, pursued his opponent, opening a wicked cut over the left eye. At one point, Quarry stepped back and raised his hands in a taunting fashion but Frazier kept up the attack before Louis stopped the fight at 1:37. Quarry had been in trouble throughout and was completely off-balance when he was dropped by Frazier in his own corner. As the bell rang ending round four, Quarry was up at the count of five and his desperate corner didn't what they could, but there was no hope that the "new Quarry" would emerge.

Frazier, weighing 212 pounds as he did in his defeat in January at the hands of Muhammad Ali, fought his usual fight here at Madison Square Garden, came steadily at his opponent and fired the left hooks which had earned him the well-deserved "Smokin' Joe" nickname.

Clancy, the veteran handler who had guided Quarry to six consecutive victories since taking him over 18 months ago, was frantic from the first round on. Constantly screaming at Jerry throughout the round, he kept telling Quarry to "move, move, move, damn it, move."

Frazier's emphatic victory, in the second round, hood began to show in Quarry's right eyes as Frazier's lefts continued to find their mark.

In the third round, Frazier was all over his opponent, giving him no room to breathe and trapping him in the corner. The "new Quarry" still had the old Quarry heart and attempted to fight his way out of trouble instead of following his corner's orders.

In the last minute of the fourth round, a murderous Frazier left Quarry on the jaw and the Irishman wobbled around the ring. Frazier followed him wildly and dropped him with a vicious left to the midsection.

Yankies rip California 5-1 ANAHEIM (UPI) — Lou Pinella ripped a two-run homer in the seventh inning and New York added three more runs in the eighth to California's shaky bullpen Monday night.

Frazier revealed that he not only didn't wish to Quarry in any manner, but really didn't want to knock him out. "I didn't want to hit him in the face again," said the 29-year-old fighter.

Bob Foster, Argentine fight to disputed draw

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — Light heavyweight boxing champion Bob Foster, locking the aggressiveness shown in his previous 13 title defenses, and stocky Argentine challenger Jorge Ahumada Monday night fought 15 rounds to a controversial draw.

Ahumada, whose relentless and bullish attack won the approval of the highly partisan crowd, in Foster's hometown, was the aggressor, blood dripping from his eyes and his white trunks, and stared in disbelief at the decision which allowed Foster to retain his title.

Referee Jim Cleary gave the decision to Ahumada 145-142 and Judge Jim Kober ruled in favor of Foster 148-143. But judge Sam Gallup said the 15 rounds were a draw 144-144.

National Temperatures

NEW YORK (UPI) The stock market, still showing concern over interest rates, opened lower in light trading Tuesday on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 0.31 at 832.92 shortly after the opening. Declines led advances, 118 to 55, among the 270 issues crossing the tape.

Volume amounted to more than 240,000 shares. There has been little favorable economic news lately, especially concerning interest rates. Hopes they have peaked last week apparently have been dashed within the past few days.

Few major banks followed the lead of First National City Bank of New York in lowering the prime rate, that charged key corporate customers — to 11 1/2 per cent from the general rate of 11 1/4 per cent.

Project finish eyed

ROGERSON — Rapid progress is being made on the construction of the Bureau of Land Management's 14-unit recreation site at Salmon Dam. MacTrico Corp. has a full work force working at the site with completion anticipated by the end of August. District Manager Nick J. Cozakos of the BLM's Burley office reports that the overall job is approximately 30 per cent completed, with restroom facilities approximately 60 per cent completed.

All roads in the area have culverts installed and have been worked to grade; however, no gravel has been placed at this time. The water distribution system for the site will be completed by the end of next week.

No camping facilities such as showers, tables and shades have been constructed at this time. Visitors and fishermen using Salmon Dam should continue to exercise care so as to avoid accidents with construction activities that are now under way at the recreation site, Cozakos advised. He said he has received many telephone calls and inquiries with respect to whether the construction will be completed by the 4th of July. He advised that construction will be in progress until the latter part of August.

eloments in its operation," Jaros said.

Jaros said the device has been effective in relieving the pain experienced by patients with a form of heart disease called angina. With angina, decreased cardiac circulation produces acute chest pains.

"We treated some patients with angina. After a few days, we remove the balloon, and they remained pain free for several months," he said.

For muscular damage, the balloon reduces the workload on the damaged heart muscle by helping with the circulation of the blood.

Jaros, who recently came to URI from Sinal Hospital in Detroit, said, "At Sinal, we tried the device on several patients who had usually fatal damage from heart attack. The assist in some cases gave the damaged heart an opportunity to repair itself."

Rupert youth gets stipend

STEVE SNAPP, recipient

RUPERT — Steve Snapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Snapp, Rupert, has been awarded a Macfarlane Foundation scholarship, sponsored by Condit Warehouses Inc.

The scholarship is awarded on the basis of ability and academic standing. The stipend is $500 per year for four years to the college of his choice.

He was in the top 10 of the 1974 graduating class at Malco High School. While at Malco, he was a member of the M Club, German Club and Beta Club Honor Society. He is also active in his church group and has played school basketball the last two years.

Steve plans to attend Boise State University, this fall, majoring in a science field.

Salmon school not accredited

SALMON — The Idaho Department of Education advised that Salmon High School will not be accredited for the 1974-75 school year.

Robert Banks, district superintendent, noted the district had been on the warned list the past school year.

The department advised that the loss is the result of an inadequate high school building, insufficient number of books in the library and too many students for one guidance counselor.

Banks said the deficiencies in books and counseling will be corrected.

Thereport, approved by D.F. Egan, state superintendent of public instruction, said:

"Since there are too many inadequacies in the high school facilities to conduct a modern educational program, the school board, administration and school patrons should immediately begin planning a new facility by involving all facets of the community in this planning."

The high school structure is apparently sound and should be used, possibly for a junior high. But it is not large enough nor structured right for high school students."

Device might save life

KINGSTON, R.I. (UPI) — For some heart attack patients suffering a little plastic balloon-like device may be a life saver.

The device, about three-quarters of an inch in diameter and six inches long, was developed five years ago, but its use has not been widespread because of certain problems.

Dr. Dov Jaros, a bio-medical engineer at the University of Rhode Island, is working to solve them.

"The device has already been tried clinically, but the results have not been as good as people had hoped," Jaros said.

Fire danger rating high

TWIN FALLS — Extremely high temperatures of the past few days have brought the fire danger rating to high in some lower-elevation areas of the Sawtooth National Forest.

Richard Stanley, fire dispatcher, said a first watch is out in all areas of the forest although higher-elevation areas are still moist and in some areas snow banks are still in evidence.

Lower regions in Rock Creek and Halley areas are beginning to dry and continued high temperatures will increase the hazards daily, he said.

Conservationist says coyote draws bum rap

(C) Chicago Sun-Times
WASHINGTON — "Enjoy American lamb," reads a bumper sticker often seen on cars from western states.
 "500,000 coyotes can't be wrong."
 Actually, the sheep industry is bunnapping canis lastrans, as the coyote is scientifically known, says a Western conservationist.
 Sheepmen and their woolly charges get into difficulty more often through their own hard luck and folly than from the depredations of the wolf-like creature that is widely perceived as their mortal enemy.
 Aubrey S. Johnston, Southwestern representative of Friends of Wildlife, told an animal-lovers forum last week that:
 — A long-term campaign of extermination against coyotes in the West has not been notably successful except in the four-big-sheep-praising states of Idaho, Utah, Montana and Wyoming.
 — Even in the states where anti-coyote measures have been harshest and most effective, the total number of sheep lost from all causes has not varied significantly over the years.

 Speaking at a symposium on endangered and threatened species of North America, Johnston said "loss rates (in Western flocks) are amazingly constant over the years" despite the fact that coyote populations are known to fluctuate wildly over a 10-15 year cycle.
 Sheepmen tend to blame coyotes for their losses despite the fact that sheep die in large numbers from causes totally unrelated to predation, Johnston said. One of the causes is a general one: sheep just aren't bright.
 "If you put all the brains of all the sheep in the world into one sheep," he said, "you would have a reasonably intelligent animal."
 Johnston told of riding across some sheep-grazing lands with a rancher looking for dead sheep. Of seven found in a short time, six were dead of various causes having nothing to do with coyotes. These, he said, the rancher shrugged off as part of the game. The seventh dead animal, killed by coyotes, threw him into a rage.

 The conservationist cited a government study, based on before-and-after kill counts in the states where coyote populations had been cut "in half" through ruthless extermination measures. The resultant change in sheep losses amounted to 1 to 5 percent.
 Two alternative conclusions were reached, Johnston said: Either the true level of sheep predatory losses are so low that cutting it in half doesn't make much difference, or else predatory and nonpredatory losses may be "compensatory," meaning that sheep killed by coyotes were sick or otherwise weakened and would never have made it to market in any event.
 Coyotes or no coyotes, Johnston said, the sheep industry is diminishing in the United States, and if sheepmen regard themselves — rather than coyotes — as the "endangered species," it may be because of their own imprudent practices such as over-grazing of lands. The fact that much of this land, in the West, belongs to the public is not often taken into consideration, Johnston said.

 He suggested that conservationists stop "going on the defensive," whenever cattlemen and sheepmen complain about predation by coyotes, mountain lions and grizzly bears. The wild animals were there first, the lands are public, and the herders should be forced to prove the need for killing predators, he said.
 Johnston advocated a governmental "get tough" policy with ranchers using federal lands who do not observe wildlife protection statutes.
 "We (the public) have a big club — you know what," Johnston said. "We can take away their public land leases, which are de facto subsidies. We can take away the capacity of the cattlemen and sheepmen to make a living (unless they observe the laws)."

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — It rained like a mishmash of gibberish to the untrained listener this weekend at the 1974 World Livestock Auctioneer championship.
 But buyers acting as judges were able to pick out the important bids and named Ralph Wade of Brush, Colo., as the best caller.

Feedlots by-passed

WASHINGTON — The increased number of heavier home grown and grass-fed cattle by-passing the feedlot and going directly to market explains why fed cattle markets in May were down nine per cent from last year, while total May marketing of steers and heifers for slaughter went up sharply, the Agriculture Department explained today.

Beef price drop cited

DENVER (UPI) — The American National Cattlemen's Association says beef prices throughout the nation have dropped 26 cents since last February.
 However, steak prices, reflecting the increased demand for steaks for summer cookouts, were up in about half of the nation's cities and down in the other half, said Gordon Van Vleck, president of the Denver-based organization.
 He said a recent survey by ANCA showed lowest average steak prices were in Denver, Cleveland, Jackson, Miss., Kansas City, Los Angeles, Memphis, Phoenix and San Francisco.
 Cities showing the highest averages "were Atlanta, Houston, New York, Portland and Omaha."
 Van Vleck said beef production remains well ahead of a year ago, and cattle prices in recent months have shown further sharp declines.

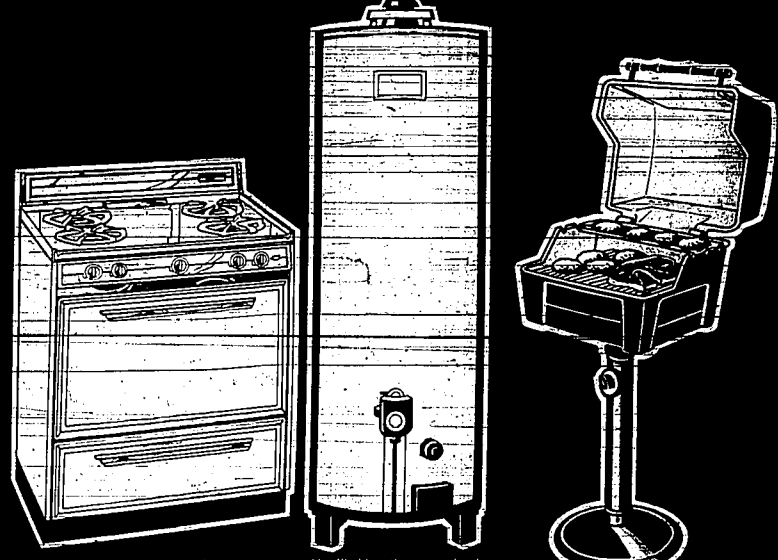

Fire ants menace S. Texas crops

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Fire ants, red ants with painful stings, are on the march in Texas, crawling from the state's eastern regions toward the Rio Grande. Some school children have been bitten, and entomologists say the ants could threaten vegetable crops in South Texas.
 "The ants swarm rapidly on a person who disturbs their mound, and before he knows it he can be stung by large numbers of them at one time," said entomologist Vinson Radeloff of Texas A & M University.
 "The stings themselves are irritating, and a person scratching them can cause infections that often become a serious medical problem."
 Dr. Vinson, an associate professor of entomology at Texas A&M who is trying to come up with a way to stop the invasion of fire ants, held a picture of an elementary school child; his hands swollen from the bites of hundreds of fire ants.

 "Although uncommon, there have been documented cases of death from the stings. Some people are very sensitive to the sting and upon a second encounter with the ant have died from a severe reaction," the insect expert said.
 "The ants are not only a problem to the farmer," he said. "They're also in Dallas, San Antonio and Houston and may invade other metropolitan areas where people water their lawns and create islands of damp ground."
 He said the fire ants are now marshing through East Texas and down the Gulf Coast toward the Rio Grande Valley. "They're moving rapidly down the Gulf Coast of Texas," Vinson said.

 "It would cause serious problems in the Rio Grande Valley if it got into the vegetable-growing areas. The ants like plowed areas where the soil is soft and damp."
