Winder sees Church 'smear' backfiring

Saying a smear campaign against the man who is unseated is "only a dirty campaign tactic," Republican senatorial candidate Donald L. Winder looks for the move to backfire.

While Winder was coming to the defense of Sen. Frank Church against an attack by the John Birch Society, Republican Congressman Steve Symms said today that he felt the congressman lied about the source of his campaign funds.

At the same time, Republican Attorney General candidate Wayne Kidwell was urging national legislation to see that Idaho's chief executive would not be denied information on a classification of Idaho's primitive area.

Winder said Idaho voters wouldn't buy the smear tactics of the John Birch Society. The society recently reprinted it was distributing 50,000 copies of literature charging Church with being "pro-Communist."

"Idaho people do not think liable to smear campaigns," he said. "These responsible for the publication and distribution of this article may well have helped the senator much more than they have hurt him."

Winder renewed his pledge to run his campaign on issues rather than personalities. He said innuendos and accusations, with "little or no basis" only cheat Idahoans "of the kind of honest campaign they deserve." Al Henderson, field director for Symms' office in Idaho said the Republican Congressman received only two contributions in connection with the Union-Pacific Railroad in the first campaign.

Democratic congressional candidate Ken Miller of Sandpoint had charged that Symms received large contributions from Union-Pacific and its affiliates.

Henderson said one contribution of $200 was received from a Union Pacific committee but it was not corporate money. He said a second contribution of $20 came from Nampa man employed by the railroad.

Payoff returned

LOGAN, Utah (UPI) — A Logan couple stepped up to a Post Office stamp machine and dropped in a dime.

For the next several minutes they stood agog as the machine spewed forth 10-cent stamps. When it finally quit, it had dispensed 890 stamps in a single roll.

The couple detached one stamp, laboriously rolled up the rest and stuffed them into a mailbox with a note explaining what happened. "We wish they'd left their names so we could thank them," said Postmaster J. R. Rowberry. The machine had a big "Out of Order" sign Tuesday.

Congress seeking veto power over N-accords

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mounting concern over American atomic technology in the Middle East has triggered a major attempt to give Congress veto power over President Nixon's offers of nuclear cooperation to Egypt and Israel. The Joint Atomic Commission gave quick and unanimous approval Tuesday to legislation which would allow Congress, through a concurrent resolution, which is not subject to veto, to kill Nixon's agreements made with Egypt and Israel during his recent journey through the Middle East.

The measure expected to win early and overwhelming approval in Congress, does not specify the agreements, but there was no question that the bill is designed to give Congress the final say on whether Egypt and Israel will receive to have American nuclear reactors.

Defense Secretary James Schlesinger, a former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, said the legislation is designed to prevent Egypt from converting nuclear reactor fuel to military purposes because as of now, Egypt does not have the technical capacity to do so. The diversion process would take so long it would be unlikely to evade the inspectors.

The issue also came up in a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee where Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., called it the "loonliest idea I have heard since I have been in Washington."

"There is no way to make safeguards for these things intractable," Rosenthal charged.

The committee version would require that Egypt and Israel to the committee, which then would have 30 days before making a report and a recommendation to the Senate. Within 60 days of the submission Congress would have to approve a concurrent resolution of disapproval to veto either or both the agreements.

Under present law, a President need only submit an agreement for the peaceful use of nuclear power to Congress for a 30-day period, the only way for Congress to block an agreement is to pass a bill subject to veto. Since 1954, the United States has entered into 30 agreements with foreign nations regarding nuclear reactors to nuclear reactors.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., vice chairman of the joint committee, said "the purpose is to be able to say yes or nay."

State powers broadened

TWIN FALLS — A leading candidate for state superintendent of public instruction says state junior colleges probably will come under loose policy direction by the Idaho Board of Education.

Roy Truby, who seeks the Democratic nomination for the state post, said in an interview that the state government reorganization brought all state educational institutions, including school districts and junior colleges, under the state's direction.

In the past jurisdiction had been divided roughly between the state board and the superintendent of public instruction. School districts had been reported to the state board, while the colleges reported to the state superintendent. Junior colleges had been permitted to operate under their own policies.

Under the new framework, Truby said, the role of the junior colleges probably would be analogous to that of local school districts. The local junior college boards of trustees would make most decisions, but the state board would have overall policy jurisdiction.

"Policy of junior colleges, such as the College of Southern Idaho's policy prohibiting employes from serving in the legislature, could be overruled by the general board policy permitting service in the legislature," Truby said.

Truby said, however, that the present status of the junior colleges was "unclear," pending clarification by the state board.

"I think the state board should have general authority to set general policy for all school districts and that policy should be followed — specifically including the CSI case."

He said questions of school employes seeking legislative posts was a "general policy decision," appropriate for decision by the state board.

"I've just had to do something for the other 80 percent of the kids who don't go on to college," Truby said.

"Certainly I don't think vocational education should be at the expense of the academic — but just have to enlarge opportunities for vocational education in this area."

Truby said high schools should be encouraged to "let the child out in the community more, using the community as a resource center."

Similar programs in Twin Falls pleased Truby, he said. "I like what you're doing here in Twin Falls very much, using junior colleges and vocational technical programs to provide training for kids in high school. It seems a very reasonable, economic and workable approach."

In other points, Truby said, he views the role of superintendent of public instruction as that of "spokesman" for education. He said he would deliver a "state of education" address each year, probably during the legislative session, to promote educational needs.

— he encourages school districts to adopt kindergarten programs. He supports a state system of publicly-funded kindergartens.

— he believes salaries of teachers should be raised to competitive levels with those in adjacent states. However, he does not think a state tax increase would be required to fund such an expenditure.

— He would rely on increased federal revenue sharing funds, along with growth in the sales tax base to provide additional school funding.

— he encourages the state department of education to make greater use of trained personnel in the various districts in the state, rather than complete reliance on staff experts stationed in Boise.

— he believes women should be given greater opportunities, both as school administrators and in course offerings and extracurricular activities. He supported increased funding for girls' athletics for high schools.

Jarbidge plans July barbecue

JARBIDGE, Nev. — It's going to be another foot-stomping, good-eating Fourth of July at Jarbidge, Nev.

The annual Fourth of July barbecue, held in Jarbidge since 1915, will begin at 1 p.m. on Thursday, July 4.

F. A. Smith, one of the town's 20-odd residents, says the picnic supper will feature barbecued lamb, ribs, buckaroo beans and lots of salads. The town women are making the salads, Smith said, and they'll have all kinds.

— All that food—all your own and the ticket is $2. "Yep," Smith said, "it's pitch-in all win."

Holiday revelers can dance to live music Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at the Red-Dog Saloon.

Jarbidge says Smith, is the youngest ghost town in Nevada. It was the scene of the last stage coach robbery, before the gold mines there shut down.

Smith said he expects about 500 holiday celebrants to show up in the small valley town. They bring their bedrolls and campers — they know there's no accommodations," Smith said.

"Fishing's real great" thereabouts, Smith said.

Smith, a big man with a white mustache, has been running the barbecue for 15 years.

If he quit putting on the picnic, Smith says, "people would give me hell." So he says he'll keep on having the barbecue as long as he can.

TF man seeks Demo post

TWIN FALLS — William Buhler, 51, a Twin Falls real estate executive and motel owner, has entered the race for county commissioner in the third district.

He is the only Democrat to seek the office, although incumbent William Chaney has competition in the primary election on the Republican ticket.

George Bennett, former law enforcement officer in this area, will run against Chaney for the GOP nomination.

The winner of that contest will face Buhler in the general election.

Buhler, who filed his nominating petition prior to the filing deadline, was certified on the county ballot by the Democratic party last week.

the advantages of an agricultural area and is interested in an effort to retain the good environment of this area.

"I don't believe in eliminating pesticides or other agri-chemicals, but I do believe in an all-out training program to keep the beer cans out of our streams and along the roadways," Buhler said.

He said he also favors continued good law enforcement and cooperation between city, state and county officials with a possible consolidation of communications and offices for all law enforcement officials.

TF tops signer quota

TWIN FALLS — Marge Slatten, state president of the League of Women Voters, said Tuesday Twin Falls County has gone over its quota of Sunshine Initiative signatures.

Mrs. Slatten said 1,345 signatures have been verified by the county clerk as registered voters and another 175 are being checked. She said the signatures are found to be acceptable, the county will be nearly 500 signatures over its quota of 1,000.

State coordinator, Mary Mech, Boise, expected Tuesday that 13,498 signatures have been verified statewide and another 14,000 are being checked by county clerks. The signature goal is 24,511 verified signatures.

Mrs. Slatten said residents of Twin Falls County who wish to sign the initiative petition may call Jo Anne Forman, 734-2072. She said Friday is the last day county clerks can accept petitions because the signatures must be verified and turned in to the secretary of state by July 5.

Useful survey for TF county

A broad-based survey of Twin Falls County residents should provide useful information to plan for the county's future.

The three-page land use survey has been mailed to nearly every household in the county by the Twin Falls Joint Planning Council. The council is an intergovernmental unit composed of representatives of city and county level government in the county.

The purpose of the survey is to find out what ordinary citizens feel about the future growth of the county and how that growth can be shaped to provide for community needs.

The questions cover a broad range of issues, from the placement of parks to location of residential areas.

According to the council's staff, the survey will be used to lay the groundwork for later public meetings designed to discuss in more detail the issues raised on the survey.

The approach of the council is a wise one. Even though it takes some time and effort to find out what the people of the county think about the planning process and their goals for their communities, we feel that time and effort are well worth it.

It is clear the people of Twin Falls and other Valley counties must plan for the future. Without some kind of planning process, we could well become little less Idaho and a lot more California.

But the little way planning can be effective if it meets two standards.

First it must accurately portray the felt needs of the community, as community people express those needs.

Second, it must have the support of the community when completed. Without that support, a plan is only another piece of paper.

For these reasons we support the planning council's decision to seek out the people's views and urge anyone who has not yet completed and returned the survey form to do so.

How to end Mideast terror

Christian Science Monitor

It is high time a solution was found for ending the tragic cycle of terror and counterterror that goes on between Palestinian guerrillas and Israeli troops and officers. The border strikes—both sides could—upset the whole encouraging diplomatic process begun in the Middle East.

We like an idea that is fermenting in the minds of some Mideast experts. That is to seal off the Israeli-Lebanese border by putting some kind of United Nations force there. The border is long and rugged and the cost would be enormous. Moreover the Palestinians would certainly oppose such a move as an act of protecting Israel.

But such a solution, in our opinion, deserves international consideration. The price would be fair: preferable to the present danger that peace efforts will be undermined. And, in the long run, it would ease the cause of the Palestinians, who will never see a resolution of their plight without a peace settlement.

There is absolutely no justification for the murderous attacks on Israeli villages, including women and children, which are the standard weapon of the Palestinian terrorists.

At the same time we are deeply concerned about Israel's decision to carry out vigorous preemptive raids against guerrilla bases in Lebanon. Air strikes are now taking place in southwest Lebanon, near the seacoast, where there are many refugee camps. The risk of lives is extraordinary. There is a point where the military and political consequences must be weighed.

Israel's current policy evidently is aimed in part at assuring the Israeli political opposition that the new government in Jerusalem is not soft. This is seen to be all the more imperative because the new government is indeed weaker than its predecessor.

But it seems to us the Israelis must look beyond their internal politics and consider the possible consequences of their actions. These could bring about an ugly confrontation in the UN.

Lebanon, too, is under pressure to show its people it is not quiescent, and pressures are building up for a Security Council meeting. If a resolution were proposed condemning Israel, Washington would appear in a sensitive position. If it voted for such a resolution, this would anger Israel. If it voted against it, it stands to lose the leverage and confidence it has so carefully built up with the Arab leaders.

An other worry, there is a danger of eroding the diplomatic strength of the U.S., which is trying to maintain its position as middleman while not deserting its special relationship with Israel.

Hence it behooves the Israelis to take the broader view, however difficult, and to exercise restraint.

It should be noted, too, that Washington has not given Israel a green light for retaliatory attacks into Lebanon. The understanding given to Jerusalem—as part of the Israeli-Syrian disengagement package—was carefully avoided. It stipulated that any armed attack across the demarcation line with Syria would be a violation of the cease-fire and that Washington would "understand" Israel's need to take measures to defend itself and would support Israel politically. That clarity has limits.

This is not to underestimate the legitimate concern and agony Israelis feel in the face of continuing terrorist acts by Arab guerrillas. Even as we urge restraint in Jerusalem, we state vigorously that it is up to Arab and Palestinian leaders to curb the terrorists in their midst. If they now expect Israel to make territorial compromises and move toward a final settlement, they must give evidence they are seriously supporting negotiation and not wanting terrorism as the route to solution of the Palestinian question.

US officials divided over strategic weapons

(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON—Almost on the eve of the Nixon-Brezhnev summit meeting in Moscow, the Nixon administration is still divided on what kind of arrangements it should make there with the Soviet Union for control of strategic weapons.

Essentially the differences: Secretary of State Kissinger, who favors a compromise which will slow the development of multiple warhead missiles, and the joint chiefs of staff, who fear that the Kissinger compromise will leave the United States in a position of strategic inferiority.

It is difficult to write about this complicated but critical question, for the fact is that it has never really been defined with precision by the administration. But the joint chiefs of staff want a deal Kissinger thinks they cannot get in Moscow, and Kissinger is arguing for a partial settlement, which the joint chiefs feel may be worse than no settlement at all.

Kissinger's point, as I understand it, is that the critical question is not how many missiles each side has, but how many nuclear warheads are on the missiles.

His argument is that we can make concessions to the Soviets on the number of missiles they asked, for people are not killed by missiles but by nuclear warheads, and the United States is ahead on the art and science of producing these Hydra-headed monsters.

Besides, Kissinger insists, there may be a chance to work out a political accommodation, maybe a new era of missiles, MIRVs, yield limits, throw-weights—all of which, he agrees, are important—but also a question of politics and even of philosophies.

Men like Admiral Zumwalt, chief of naval operations, do not reject the political and philosophical argument, or oppose the concept of compromise or detente with the Soviet Union. They simply argue that Kissinger's political and philosophical concept of detente is admirable but risky, because the Soviet Union is merely using detente as a tactic or trick to achieve hegemony or domination by talking sweet and acting tough.

Zumwalt says that Admiral Mahan, the American philosopher of sea power, would have understood what is now happening: there is a new balance of the power of energy in the Middle East, essential to the industrial non-Communist nations, and if the source of this power could be controlled by the Soviet Union, then there would be a new conception of military strategy in the world.

These are serious questions that divide serious men; but the interesting thing about them is that they have not really been argued out. The President has been preoccupied, with Watergate. Kissinger has been in the Middle East for a month. The joint chiefs are in transition from one team to another, and everything has been arranged for Moscow except the policy.

Fortunately, in Kissinger and Secretary of Defense Schlesinger, we have two reflective and intelligent men, who can understand the ambiguities, dangers, and opportunities of the present situation.

But there are so many other problems in Washington that even they seem to cover up their differences. Accordingly the President is going to Moscow without any clear resolution of the differences within his own administration.

Authors of detente resume summitry Thursday

(C) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON—The third chapter in Soviet-American summitry will open Thursday, with its authors seeking to move detente off dead center.

President Nixon will be headed toward the Russian capital and talks with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev with a strong hand but for the burdens of Watergate. In the considered judgment of diplomatic officials here and abroad.

Nixon will be fortified by America's revived prestige in the Arab world, largely at the expense of the Russians, and by a reaffirmation of NATO's unity of purpose in a statement less comprehensive than desired by the U.S., but adequate.

The President's trip to the Middle East helped to dramatize the declining Russian role in that area, despite the billions in military aid economically aided poured into Egypt and Syria by the Kremlin.

Brezhnev's position at the top of the Kremlin hierarchy may have been eroded somewhat by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's success in achieving a disengagement of Syrian and restatement of NATO's major aim, standing together in the event of a Soviet Threat, with a renewed pledge of consultations among the Allied partners.

PETER LISAGOR

The summit deliberations themselves may be clouded by the pace of events which has prevented the same degree of preparations that marked the first summit in Moscow in June, 1972, and the second here in Washington and San Clemente, Calif., when Brezhnev visited the U.S. last year.

Kissinger, for example, had planned to visit Moscow again before the President's trip, but his Middle East shuttle service hastened far longer than he had anticipated. And the President's hastily scheduled trip to the area required Kissinger's presence, leaving no time for the secretary to mail down a number of possible agreements.

Nixon has assured Congressional leaders that he has no secret understandings with Russians.

Still, the style of the President and Kissinger has been to announce agreements supposedly achieved in the eleventh hour, which tends to give them dramatic emphasis.

It is predicted that the two men will have ready for signing an agreement to prohibit underground nuclear testing above a certain threshold. They may also, in the absence of a pact on strategic arms limitations, agree to extend the interim agreement reached in 1972.

But the push toward detente has been stymied considerably by Congressional resistance, led by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., to liberalizing trade agreements with the Russians until they relax their restrictions on emigration of Soviet Jews.

There is some expectation that negotiations for a multi-billion dollar government guarantee in natural gas deals with the Russians may be completed in time to receive the approval of the two leaders.

Air strikes outrage US

WASHINGTON—Contrary to published speculation, the highest officials of the U.S. government were both astonished and outraged by the overhaul of Israel's revenge last week against the Palestinian guerrilla bases.

The Israeli government hopes for the resumption of fragile peace hopes for the Mideast.

No word was passed to President Nixon that the retaliation for guerrilla attacks on isolated Israeli villages would begin as soon as he departed. Rather, the Israeli government gave no hint of reprisals.

Anger reached its peak here when the raids continued into their third straight day, raising a disturbing question: could killing scores of Lebanese civilians, including non-combatants, justify in Israel's bombing of guerrilla bases, sabotage Nixon's successful peace efforts?

The answer: Not yet. Egypt's Anwar Sadat, Syria's Hafez Assad and other Arab leaders are too deeply committed to political settlement and have derived too much benefit from Henry Kissinger's diplomacy since the October war to switch course.

But if Israel continues retaliation for predictable Palestinian border raids in the future, the Nixon peace plan might indeed be sabotaged. No Arab leader could long hold to the goal of political settlement while Arabs were being killed by American-made Israeli bombs dropped from American-made Israeli planes.

Yes, the precarious political condition of Lebanon, with its military and political controls only 61 of parliament's 120 seats. Hence, one defection in his thin majority could result in a no-confidence vote.

Moreover, in the back benches of his own Labor Alignment sat Sab's enemies, Moshe Dayan, the former defense minister and hero of the 1956 and 1967 wars; Abba Eban, the former foreign minister passed over in Rabin's cabinet selection; to a lesser extent, even Golda Meir herself, bitterly resentful of Rabin's inclusion in her coalition. Mrs. Shulamit Aloni and her three-member Civil Rights party in his coalition.

Accordingly, at this point Rabin cannot show much restraint in dealing with Palestinian nationalists from Lebanon. This is particularly true in view of Rabin's own reputation for conciliation and compromise in Israel's struggle with the Arabs.

EVANS & NOVAK

Just before his election as Labor Party leader two months ago, Rabin was the target of an accusation that he crumpled under emotional strain during the first hours of the 1967 Six Day War when he was chief of staff of Israel's defense forces. Hard-line enemies in the hawkish Likud Party accused him of weakness, and the Likud Party was the biggest gainer in Israel's last national election.

Thus, politicians both in his own party and in the opposition would exploit Rabin's political vulnerability if he failed to respond to Palestinian raids with maximum severity. There is no reason to expect any change in the immediate future, with the U.S. pressing Rabin's government for further major concessions to the Arabs.

In short, free-wheeling Israeli air raids over the densely-populated refugee camps in Lebanon could sabotage the delicate peace structure being painfully constructed in the Middle East.

"How About Me?"

Charley's grandmother suspicious of amends

WASHINGTON—When Charles Colson got religion, the first person he wanted to break the news to was his grandmother—the same grandmother he named to run over in 1972 to get Richard Nixon re-elected President.

He knuckled on the door and cried, "Granny, it's me, Charles."
"You go away, Charley," his grandmother said, "and take your car with you."
"Granny, you don't understand. I've got religion now. I've come to pray with you."
Colson's grandmother opened the door a couple inches. "You're joshing me, Charley boy."
"It's true, Granny, I'm no longer the trickster you used to bounce on your knee. I've been reborn, Granny."
She hissed. "How do I know this ain't one of your tricks to get me out in the street?"
"I have Sen. Harold Hughes with me. He'll tell you I mean it."

"That's right, Granny," Sen. Hughes said. "Charley has made his peace and he's asking everyone to forgive him his sins."
"I ain't so sure I'm ready to forgive him. You know I was flat on my back for six months after the 1972 election."

"Not me," his grandmother replied. "I haven't been able to kneel since you screamed at me. Four more years! And then put your Oldsmobile into drive."
"That's all in the past, Granny. As a matter of fact, I've pleaded guilty and I'm going to be a witness against Nixon."
"Don't blame you for that; I read the transcripts and it turns out the President didn't think too much of you. My, Charley, I never thought anyone would play you for a sucker the way Nixon did."
"I have to forgive him, too, Granny. Since my conversion, I can feel no animosity toward anyone, not even the President of the United States."
"Buy gum, Charley, you really may be a changed man. It's hard for me to believe that what I've been through."

"To cleanse my soul, the devil was in me in 1972. You understand that, don't you?"
"I understand it, because you're my grandson. But what about all the dirty tricks? What about the political ads and the forged telegrams and the enemies list?"
"I'm going to become a government witness, Granny, and make amends. I'm going to toll nothing but the truth."
"So help you God," Sen. Hughes added. "Anybody want any cider?" Colson's grandmother asked.

"No, we've got to be going. All I want to know, Granny, is do you forgive me?"
"All right, Charley, I forgive you. But no more getting involved in presidential campaigns. You hear?"
Colson smiled. "Cross my heart and hope to die."

China's succession battle lines drawn

By KEYES BEECH-
(c) Chicago Daily News
HONG KONG — Just over a year ago, when China was being sweetly reasonable and American diplomats made their first appearance in China in more than 20 years with the opening of a U.S. liaison office, a bright young British diplomat sounded a cautionary note.

Instead, the significance is that there are some people in China who would be more likely to use the bomb — especially against China's mortal enemy, the Soviet Union — than others. That is why the outcome of the current struggle transcends China's borders.

"What is going to happen here is so obvious that one wants to run out into the middle of the street and shout 'Stop.' The way things are going, China is headed right back to pre-cultural revolution days. And mark you, there is going to be a backlash."

It came at a time when President Nixon is scheduled to visit Moscow.

That proved to be a remarkably accurate bit of political prophecy. Today China is in the grip of widening political turmoil that threatens not only its political stability but its economy and its foreign relations.

"China watchers here say that Mao himself pulled the cork in a May 18 directive which stated that virtually anybody with a gripe against the power-holders could air his grievances in Chinese fashion — with wall posters."

Essentially a struggle for succession to 80-year-old Chairman Mao Tse-Tung, the battle lines are now sharply drawn. The radicals who are the outs and the moderates who are in.

Some of the posters are a block long. In addition to the posters, there are the wall newspapers stretching for 100 yards on one Peking street.

Meanwhile, a new long-range dimension was added to the struggle Monday when China exploded another nuclear bomb — its 16th since 1964.

Observers would not be surprised if the "mass" launched a poster counter-offensive. If that happens, suggested one China analyst with a straight face, victory will go to the side with the most paper.

There is no apparent connection between the new bomb blast and China's domestic political trouble.

The present campaign bears many signs of the cultural revolution of the mid-1960s, which ended with China in shambles. But China watchers are reluctant to draw that conclusion. For one thing, the present struggle appears to be carefully orchestrated by Peking. Although there have been reports of factional street fighting, the situation in general seems to be under control.

Another missing element is widespread anti-foreign sentiment. Although there have been several anti-foreign incidents in recent months, there has been nothing to compare with the excesses of the cultural revolution.

Moreover, Peking is acting as if it had nothing to hide. Foreign newsmen are allowed to make notes and take pictures of the wall posters. It could be that the Chinese Communists have learned something about public relations. At the same time, Peking officials have shown a marked sensitivity to stories by some Hong Kong-based correspondents.

Several Hong Kong correspondents have been blacklisted from entering China, according to reports from Peking.

But the biggest difference between the cultural revolution and now, China watchers say, lies in the attitude of the masses. "There was a certain enthusiasm for the cultural revolution, at least in its initial stages," one analyst observed.

Clauses located

VIOLENT CLASHES between opposing political factions have erupted in major cities and provincial areas of China (indicated on map). One series of posters put up in Peking in past few days reported 200 deaths but few details of Kiangsi Province unrest in eastern China. (UPI)

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Allergies puzzle girl, 14

By GEORGE C. THOSTON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thoston: For a 14-year-old girl I have a serious problem. I'm allergic to almost everything. I can't eat most things and I can't use most antipellucids.

I have one real problem that is not only physical but mental. My best friends and I are three-way partners in a rabbit farm but I'm allergic to rabbits.

What am I supposed to do? I'm tired of breaking out and looking like a raspberry. My doctor said I would grow out of it, but when? In four more years I am going into veterinary medicine. Please help. Answer this one. —T.J.

"You do have a jugal of problems, don't you? Let's start with the allergic reaction having been studied by an allergist, and if you haven't, I heartily recommend that you go to one, because with such a variety of allergies you need to know as much as you can about them.

no, but you aren't likely to improve them by continuing to expose yourself to things that bother you. Rather, you're likely to intensify the troubles.

As to foods, an "elimination diet" is an effective way of pinpointing foods that are wrong for you. A doctor would start you on a very limited diet of foods that seldom cause allergies, then add foods one at a time so you learn what you can tolerate and what you can't.

As for rabbits — well, an allergist might be able to desensitize you to some extent, but you still would have to be careful not to come in too much or too close contact with them.

Most important of all, I would have to have substantial X-rays and chest X-rays taken to give your mind at this stage to become a veterinarian. Dogs, cats, horses and other animals can be the source of allergies,

I suggest that you do some serious conferring with an allergist (plus having some searching tests) before you decide to go into that profession.

Dear Dr. Thoston: For years I was told that one needs a good light to read. By recently a doctor on a talkshow said it doesn't matter, even a dim light would do — and he said it wouldn't hurt the eyes by using a dim light. What is right? Do we need a good light when reading? — M.N.

There's a reality — no contradiction here, however it sounds on the surface. Reading in a dim light isn't going to damage the eyes in any way. But it will make reading difficult and may even make you go sense from the effort as to give you a headache. Dim light won't harm the eyes, but a good light is better to read by.

Kennedy bid questioned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield hopes that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., will not seek the presidency, but Mansfield would support him if he does.

"I hope he doesn't run," Mansfield said, repeating a personal feeling he has expressed before.

"But he added, 'If he were to run for the presidency and get the nomination, I would support him without compunction.'

"But I think of this in a personal sense," Mansfield said in a television interview (Washington Straight Talk — PBS). "I think of the two brothers, I think of his family, I think of his young son."

SEN. MIKE MANSFIELD

of affairs in that state," Sen. Lloyd Benson of Texas, who has the soul of personality and intelligence that sort of creeps up on you, grows slowly but stays fast," and Sen. Ernest F. Mondell, of Minnesota, "a comely young enough-to-be-considered a new face; a man of heart who thinks of people."

Mansfield predicted "there'll be others" and briefly mentioned Ohio's Gov. John A. Gilligan.

Mansfield said he hoped that Democrats could pick up between five and seven seats in the fall elections. They now have a 58-42 majority.

Mansfield was asked if he felt Kennedy could exert the "moral" leadership in light of Chappaquiddick.

"I think so, though that would be an issue that he would have to overcome, and it would be difficult," he said.

Asked about leading prospects for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976, Mansfield said: "I think the people are tired of the old faces and the old candidates."

Emission equipment defective

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency said today it had received more than 1.4 million reports of cars with defective emission control equipment.

EPA spokesman said the agency was withholding further information on the models, but said they were made by General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and Volkswagen.

"The companies were given 10 days to reply to the EPA allegations that the cars' smog control equipment emits more pollution than permitted under 1972 federal standards."

The agency determined that 1.4 million was the total production of the type of car carrying the emission-control device, the spokesman said.

Chrysler spokesman said it will begin a recall program, involving 825,000 one-year old cars and 1,000 early model 1974 trucks for repair of a defective pollution control system.

Emergency power end asked

COEUR DALENE, Idaho (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, disclosed plans today to submit bipartisan legislation that will end extraordinary national emergency powers of the President.

Church, co-chairman with Sen. Charles Mathias Jr., R-Md., of the Senate Special Committee on National Emergencies, made the announcement to the National Association of Attorneys General at its convention in Coeur d'Alene.

Church said the committee is preparing legislation after more than a year of studying the ramifications of emergency presidential powers in foreign and domestic affairs.

declarations of national emergency in effect, including the presidential authority to deal with the Depression, President Harry S. Truman's declaration in 1950 during the Korean War and two declarations by President Richard Nixon to deal with the 1970 postal strike in New York and in August 1971 when the wage price freeze was announced.

Church said the national emergency declarations never have been repealed. They bring into play more than 470 laws which the Congress expected would be used only in times of great crisis.

He called the situation a "loaded gun."

"Under the authority delegated by these statutes, the President may seize property, organize and control the defense production, seize commodities, assign military forces abroad, institute martial law, seize and control all transportation and communication, regulate the operation of private enterprise, restrict travel, and in a plethora of particular ways, control the lives of all American citizens."

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., soon will introduce comparative legislation to deal with the host of emergency powers — the Congress has granted the President during the past four decades.

Galley's wings bear hopes

Galley ruling pending

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI)—Former Army Lt. William L. Calley's bid to overturn his My Lai murder conviction is in the hands of a federal judge who has hinted strongly he may free Calley.

U.S. District Judge J. Robert Elliott took under advisement Tuesday Calley's motion to set aside his conviction and 15-year sentence for the murder of at least 22 civilians at the South Vietnamese hamlet. Elliott's ruling is not expected for several days.

During a two-day hearing, however, Elliott appeared several times to agree with legal points made by Calley's attorneys while retelling statements by government attorneys that the court is very limited in its scope of review of the Calley case.

In an order dated May 10 dealing with Elliott's granting of a writ of habeas corpus, he wrote that he was not prejudging the case but on the basis of prior court records, briefs and oral arguments "it now appears to me that the petitioner (Calley) will prevail."

Elliott's order freeing Calley on bond was later overturned by the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court last Tuesday. Elliott also denied a new motion for bond Tuesday, saying it would be inappropriate for him to grant it in light of the appeals court ruling.

"We are hopeful that he will set aside the conviction on one or more grounds," said Kenneth Henson, a Calley attorney, who said government attorneys acknowledged privately that they were not optimistic their position would prevail.

37 balk at ban

WASHINGTON—Thirty-seven Senators said Tuesday they would have "serious reservations" about supporting a limited ban on underground nuclear testing unless it contained provisions for an eventual end to all such tests.

In a letter to President Nixon, the Senators expressed concern about the administration's plans to announce a limited ban while Nixon is in Moscow, which would curb tests above a certain explosive force—a so-called "threshold agreement."

"We strongly urge you to go beyond the threshold ban to an agreement that will lead progressively to a total ban on nuclear testing by the United States and the Soviet Union," they said. "We have serious reservations about a threshold treaty that is not clearly linked to a reduction of tests to zero in a limited number of years."

Among those signing the letter were Majority Leader Mike Mansfield and Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Whale protection measures approved

LONDON—The International Whaling Commission today approved measures designed to insure that in the future no species of whales face extinction because of exploitation.

The measures, calling for the implementation of selective moratoriums on endangered stocks of whales, was approved by the 15-nation commission by a vote of 13 to 2. The Soviet Union and Japan, who together account for about 85 percent of the world's annual whale catch, cast the opposing votes.

While falling short of the 10-year moratorium on all commercial whaling proposed by the United States delegation at yesterday's opening session of the annual I.W.C. meeting, the selective moratoriums were viewed as a victory for conservationists.

Dr. Robert M. White, head of the U.S. delegation, called the measures "a significant step forward in the management of the world's whale stocks."

WASHINGTON—The House Judiciary Committee decided Tuesday, despite bitter and bipartisan dissent to make public as soon as possible virtually all of the evidence assembled for the investigation of President Nixon's conduct in office.

By a vote of 22-16, the committee agreed to publish—perhaps beginning next week—most of the 7,800 pages of evidence presented in 18 days of closed hearings on possible impeachment of the President.

WASHINGTON—Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., has declared a temporary ceasefire in the dispute over the secret nuclear loophole but plans to resume his attack when Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger returns from the Moscow summit next week.

Jackson revoked an earlier decision to release documents in the case Tuesday saying it is "in the interest of the country" to maintain a show of unity with Kissinger and President Nixon as they negotiate with the Russians.

But sources close to Jackson said the documents would be released soon after the summit. They said the evidence would prove that the secret loophole in the SALT agreement was used to "strategic arms limitation (SALT) agreement negotiated at the 1972 Moscow summit."

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., Tennessee chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, has been conducting his own inquiry into what role, if any, the Central Intelligence Agency played in the bugging scandal.

Baker's report was on today's committee agenda. In formal, almost unanimous votes Tuesday, the committee recommended a permanent special prosecution force to police governmental wrongdoing and limiting political contributions to $100 in cash, $3,000 by an individual and $5,000 by an organization.

The final report on the Watergate scandal will be released after the jury is acquitted for the pillage-break-in case and the committee votes on Friday, according to Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C.

Demand mounts on larger cars

DETROIT (UPI) — Mid-June new car sales, while up 17.4 per cent from a year ago, showed new demand for the larger models dealers couldn't get rid of during the depths of the energy crisis-induced winter slump.

Ford division, three larger models outsold three compact and subcompact models, while the Lincoln-Mercury division had the best mid-month selling record since October.

At the used car auctions where large models were selling for hundreds of dollars below their value during the winter slump, small cars accounted for 60 per cent of all sales.

At Ford division during mid-June, there were 30,572 Thunderbirds, standard Fords and Torinos sold compared to 29,056 compact Mavericks, Mustangs and subcompact Pintos models. Sales of the luxury Cougar were 74 per cent above a year ago.

Backing up this trend is the action at the used car auctions where higher prices for used cars means new car dealers will be willing to offer more for large cars they take as trade-ins.

Back to work

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (UPI) — Laborers at the Jim Bridger power plant construction site 35 miles east of Rock Springs went back to work Tuesday, ending a strike that nearly halted work at the huge complex Monday.

Spokesmen for both sides refused to comment on the issues in the strike or the apparent settlement, but several striking laborers said the dispute was over safety conditions and hiring practices.

Modified bill eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Six congressmen of both parties today introduced a slightly modified version of child care legislation that President Nixon said was "the most radical piece of legislation to emerge from the 94th Congress."

The new Child and Family Services Act of 1974 was to be announced at a news conference by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind. Other initial sponsors include Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, Rep. Patsy Mink, D-Hawaii, and Rep. Margaret Heckler, R-Mass.

Nixon vetoed an earlier $2 billion version Dec. 9, 1971.

Egypt, Israel issue warnings

By United Press International, Egypt threatened today to use its air force to defend Lebanon against Israeli air strikes and Israel warned it stood ready to declare a new Middle East war if necessary to protect itself.

The warnings came in separate interviews as scores of Palestinian refugees fled their camps in Lebanon in fear of Israeli reprisal attacks for an Arab guerrilla raid that killed seven persons at the resort town of Nahariya.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat told the magazine Al Sayyid in Cairo that he might send the nation's air force to fight in Lebanon if requested by the Lebanese government.

"We stand ready to send our air force immediately to fight the battle in Lebanon, and let Israel bear the consequences," Sadat said. He said Egyptian aid to Lebanon "depends on a decision by the Lebanese government."

"Israel must understand that Lebanon will not be left alone and that the Arabs, and Egypt in the forefront, are not more eager to preserve peace and avoid a fifth war than preserving the people of Lebanon," Sadat said.

In Tel Aviv, Israel's chief of staff Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur said in an interview in the army magazine Barmahaneh that Israel preserved the option of going to war "if the skies darken."

"It is important to our neighbors to have them know that this option, under which we will declare war in the event that certain conditions evolve — this option remains open," he said. He did not elaborate on the conditions.

In Jerusalem, police said they dismantled three bazooka rockets and exploded them in the past 12 hours.

Elizabeth in court

SAANEN, Switzerland (UPI) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor appeared in divorce court here today to end her often-stormy 10-year marriage to Richard Burton.

The movie stars announced earlier this year that they would end the marriage that culminated a nearly public courtship during the filming of the multi-million dollar movie, "Cleopatra."

Basement yields large pot haul

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — U.S. and Mexican officials have confiscated 42 tons of marijuana — the biggest seizure in history — with the discovery of a basement piled with tons of the weed which was to be smuggled into the United States in support trucks to fuel pot-smoking government dogs.

The seizure was announced by the Drug Enforcement Administration Tuesday.

The previous record was 28 tons, found in Culiacan, Mexico, in March, 1973, by Mexican investigators, said John Bartles, the DEA administrator.

The marijuana would have been worth $22.8 million in street sales in the United States, he said.

Investigators had been working on the case since January and learned two weeks ago that a big marijuana shipment was to cross the border in supposedly empty asphalt trucks, he said.

The crossings were planned for San Ysidro, Calif., which is just south of San Diego and across the border from Tijuana, Mexico.

Michigan family looks for missing daughter, 7

FARMINGTON, Mich. (UPI) — It has been one year since 7-year-old Susan Jaeger disappeared from her family's tent at a Montana campground.

Her parents, who live in this Detroit suburb, still believe their daughter is alive and will be returned to them.

"We're still just faking it one day at a time," Marietta Jaeger said. She, together with her husband, William, coordinated the establishment of a $1,000 reward fund for information leading to the return of their daughter.

Susie was asleep in a tent with her sister and two brothers in the early morning hours of last June 25 at a camp ground near Three-Forks, Mont.

Thirteen-year-old Heidi awoke at 4 a.m. to find Susie sleeping by empty. A jagged slash was ripped across the tent directly above where Susie had slept. Her stuffed animals were strewn on the ground nearby.

The Jaeger family, who planned the summer vacation to what they called their "land of milk and honey" for almost a year, remained at the campsite for a month while FBI investigators and local police searched for the brown-haired child.

One ransom call was received, in which a man described Susie to her parents' satisfaction and demanded an undisclosed amount of money. But he did not call back.

Now, the family is clinging to one last thread of hope—a phone call made to their Farmington home last September by a man who appeared to have knowledge of Susie's whereabouts.

"We were reluctant to say anything about the phone call up to this time," Mrs. Jaeger said, "because we didn't want to scare him off. He said he needed time to 'work out a plan' and would contact us again, but he never called back."

The Jaegers arranged for the printing and distribution of posters bearing Susie's picture throughout the Western states. They have received donations from all over the nation to boost the reward fund to $14,000.

"It's been such a long time since she disappeared," Mrs. Jaeger said. "She could have been taken almost anywhere in the Western region."

"Just look at how long the search for Patricia Hearst has taken. We really do believe that she could still be alive."

Donation admired

WR health group donates items

HAILEY — Pictures, rugs and potted plants were just some of the items recently donated to State Hospital South by the Wood River Mental Health Advisory Board.

According to chairman Rita Hogg, Halley, the contributions were made by various individuals throughout the Halley and Ketchum area. The people were most enthused about donating the items—she said.—The board hopes to do this again in October, Mrs. Hogg added.

"Anything that gets a community involved is just really good," she stated. "I think that all the people need is to know."

Presently, there is an effort by hospital personnel and residents—to eliminate the institutional look at the hospital. They want to make it as homelike as possible, an employee said.

A 100-cup percolator was among the materials donated. The Wood-River Mental Health Clinic memorial fund provided the money for the percolator, said Mrs. Hogg.

Selected Sermons and Writings of President Harold B. Lee by President Harold B. Lee $5.95

Though he served as President of the Church for only eighteen months, Harold B. Lee left a great legacy to the Church through the wisdom and inspiration of his writings and sermons. In this book are found some of the outstanding positions of President Lee on pertinent gospel themes; the importance of knowing and obeying God; the calling of the prophet, seer, and revelator to direct God's kingdom on earth and the basic principles and ordinances of the Church.

Sex clinic puzzles experts

DETROIT (UPI) — Eddie Pool's new sex clinic has the city's legal experts confused. Pool's clinic, which uses surrogate partners to treat sexual problems, opened three weeks ago and business has been good.

He calls the facility the Michigan Institute of Improved Sexual Response. It's open to both couples and singles, and the therapy includes sexual intercourse after the second session in the six-to-eight-week course.

But one of Carnovale's fellow attorneys said, "It doesn't sound too legal," said Don Inck Carnovale of the Wayne County prosecutor's office. "Can you tell your sexual services by calling yourself a sex therapist?"

"But one of Carnovale's fellow attorneys said, "Sounds like it's not illegal since it is sexual intercourse with consenting adults. The money isn't going to the surrogate partner, but to the institute."

Pool started his business by running classified ads in three newspapers. He said he received 100 calls soon after the ads appeared. The number of actual participants bled down to 40.

Pool charges $26 to $100 per session for the treatment.

He said his surrogate partners are not salaried and provide the sexual intercourse sessions in three small rooms.

In the first session, Pool teaches the patient self-hypnosis. In the second, he teaches relaxation.

Then comes the applied therapy. That involves a closet-sized room with a mattress where patient and surrogate perform sexual intercourse in view of a "hypnotic technician."

Pool said married patients taking the course alone must have a letter of consent from the spouse.

Clients pay a fee depending on their financial capabilities. Pool said all funds go to the clinic.

We sent Blue Bonnet to Europe where food experts couldn't tell it from butter.

Now we're sending you to the store so you can find out for yourself.

Other margarines claim they taste like butter. But only Blue Bonnet proved its honest-to-butter flavor with European food experts.

In dish after dish, Blue Bonnet Margarine was compared with the best European butter in tough, rigidly controlled side-by-side tests. In cooking, in-baking, in sauces, even spread on bread, the experts agreed: "No difference!"

Use this money-saving coupon to get yourself a pound of Blue Bonnet Margarine. And prove to yourself, in any test you can devise, that Blue Bonnet truly tastes like butter.

The Ragu' Barbecue Sauce Recipe.

In 1 cup Ragu' Spaghetti Sauce add 2 tbs. vinegar, 2 tbs. brown sugar, 1 1/2 tsp. prepared mustard. Mix everything together and simmer for 2 minutes. It makes more than a cup of fantastic barbecue sauce for burgers, ribs, steaks, franks or chicken.

Now we've saved for our colorful Ragu' Barbecue Apron. It's washable, heavy-duty vinyl with our barbecue sauce recipe printed on the front. Send $2.00 and one Ragu' label for each apron.

Repairs eyed by TF aides

FILER — County commissioners said they were planning to meet sometime today to discuss repairs to cinderblock walls at the four-year-old county fair grandstands.

Shouse said both the south and north walls show some wind damage signs and said strong winds could wipe the block the wind, holding the full force of the wind.

Blaine aides deny change in zoning

HAILEY — The Blaine County commissioners will not change zoning on 20 acres of land north of Hailey to allow construction of a General Motors garage.

He said for the property was incorrectly zoned residential. Since it is not one-residence-hall built near there, he said.

King, Connors romp to Wimbledon wins

WIMBLEDON—England's Billie Jean King, five times the Queen of Wimbledon, and Jimmy Connors, a young man on the threshold of tennis greatness, Tuesday returned to tournament play and scored comfortable victories in their opening matches at the All-England championships.

King and Connors have carried the challenge of Philadelphia and Baltimore, respectively, in the World Team Tennis league back to the United States where no singles players actually competed a full match. Critics maintained this would hurt their form in a tournament as demanding as Wimbledon's.

In keeping with tradition, Mrs. King opened the second day proceedings on the court, an honor reserved for the defending title holder, and she made a 33-minute appearance in routing Kathy May of Los Angeles, 6-1, in a second round match.

Connors, the third seed from Belleville, Ill., completed a 6-1, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4 victory over Brentwood's Steve Ove Benson in a match which had been halted because of falling light.

Chris Evert, winner of the recent Italian and French Open and seeded to meet King in the finals, was idle, as were other girls in the draw of 96 who gained first round byes.

A crowd in excess of 26,000 was on the grounds of the ivy-walled club on a dull, overcast day. Hundreds of uniformed schoolgirls brought comments of "disgraceful" from anglers; sporting gray suits and the traditional white club tie, following chants of "We want

Permit application closes on Monday

BOISE (UPI) — Hunters were reminded by the Idaho Fish and Game Department Monday that next Monday was the deadline for controlled hunter applications.

Buhl strikes early, thumps Minico 7-1

BUHL — The Buhl Legion jumped on Minico for six runs in the first inning and coasted to its 16th straight decision Tuesday night, 7-1.

Buhl did all of the damage to Terry Bradshaw who had a very shaky start but was untouchable after the second inning.

Meanwhile, Cary Schmeckpepper and Tim Martin combined pitching for Buhl with Martin getting the win on a one-hit six-strikeout performance over the last three innings.

Minico scored in the first inning when Baker lived on an error, moved to third on another miscue and came home on James Deay's squeeze administration, reminded hunters that group applications will not be accepted for antelope, moose, sheep, and goat controlled hunts.

A group application is two or more hunters applying for one controlled hunt species on the same application card.

Group applications will only be accepted for post-season deer, and deer and elk controlled hunts. Belnap said.

He added that group applications for other controlled hunt species will be rejected.

Belnap said applications also were being rejected because they did not include the $1 filing fee to help cover processing fees — an innovation this year.

Applicants who record unit numbers instead of "G" hunt numbers also are disqualified, the business chief said.

He said applicants may have first and second choice on one application card for hunts of the same species. He said if unsuccessful in the first choice, the application will automatically be entered in the second choice drawing.

Tigers stop Orioles

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Mickey Lolich scattered seven singles to whittle away at the Detroit Tigers blanked Mike Cuellar and the Baltimore Orioles, 2-0.

Lolich, 10-7, stranded eight runners and pitched a complete game and won on the strength of Willie Horton's RBI single and a bases-loaded walk by Jim Northrup off Cuellar in the third inning.

Immediately after the Tigers scored twice off Cuellar, umpire Russ Goetz ejected the Baltimore southpaw from the game and then tossed out manager Earl Weaver for ranting out battling for his pitcher. Cuellar continued arguing on balls and strikes calls was the reason for his ejection.

Tiger designated hitter Al Kaline started the third inning rally with a two-out triple to left field.

Manager under fire

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Frank Quetel, young team manager in big league baseball at 35, is under the gun to put the Minnesota Twins on the winning track.

Calvin Griffith, president of the Twins, stopped short Tuesday of saying outright that Quetel is in immediate danger of being fired, but with the club in fifth place in the American League West, 8 1/2 games behind, he did say:

"The guy has to produce or he has a hell of a problem. It's up to him to show he is capable of being a big league manager and if he isn't, then we've got to look somewhere else."

The Twins have won only 28 games against 32 losses and attendance is running 141,000 behind last season, Griffith said.

WINNER'S 10th
Hunter picked up his 10th win of the season Tuesday night when the Oakland A's defeated the California Angels 6-1.

San Diego's Steve Nunn, in the third inning, snapped a 1-1 tie as Hunter, despite giving up nine hits, went the distance for the eighth time in 12 starts.

NFL negotiations face Monday strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — National Football League owner and player negotiators arranged for more than five and half hours Tuesday on their contract dispute and a federal mediator plumply reported they still are tremendously far apart.

He said the prolonged session was marked by heated exchanges and added that both the players and owners are "going to have to start realizing they have a long way to go."

He also charged that the owners are trying to "intimidate" the rookies into reporting to training camps when the strike occurs and said this would amount to using the first year players as strike breakers.

Dodgers rally for two runs in ninth inning to nip Braves 2-1

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ron Cey's shooed-long single will not out-drive Jimmy Wynn with the winning run as Los Angeles scored twice in the bottom of the ninth to post a 2-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves Tuesday night.

Los Angeles rallied for two runs in the ninth inning to nip Atlanta Braves Tuesday night. Atlanta hurler Ron Reed and Max Baer shut out the Dodgers on five hits until Los Angeles used four relievers in the intentional walk to score the winning runs to mark the 10th time this season they have won in their last at-bat.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department's statistical "food market basket" is higher again and the figures back up administration claims that increasing profit margins of stores and wholesalers are behind the high price of food.

According to the report, the farm value of foods in the basket declined for the fifth consecutive month to an annual rate of $690 in May, down $34 from April. But middlemen's margins — costs and profit — are increasing and selling foods — rose for the fifth consecutive month and reached $1,043 in May, up $39 from April.

as a result of rising wages, energy and material costs and transportation charges. The market basket cost rose steadily from last November to a record $1,748 in March before going back to $1,726 in April. The $1,732 rate in May was 19 percent, or $240, above May 1973, and the report said most of that increase was due to higher middlemen's margins, 25.6 percent higher than last year. Farm returns were 4.2 per cent higher.

Music teachers set meet

BOISE — A highlight of the Idaho Music Teachers Association convention June 26-28 at Boise State University will be an appearance of the Schoepflin Duo.

The Schoepflin Duo is composed of Judith Schoepflin, pianist, and H. James Schoepflin, clarinetist and was formed when both musicians were undergraduates at the University of Idaho. They presently are employed by Idaho State University in addition to their concert appearances.

Stanley Butler, Willamette University, Salem, Ore., will also appear during the convention. He will present his "Guide to the best in contemporary music."

Officers of the organization include Mrs. George Yeast, Emmett, president; Dr. D. E. Hill, Nampa, Northwest Nazarene College, first vice president; Dr. Richard Skyrn, College of Idaho, Caldwell, second vice president; Mrs. Georgia Blaastock, Filer, secretary; Mrs. Estelle Clary, Blackfoot, treasurer.

IMTA members include instructors of piano, organ, voice, singing, wind, percussion and public school music educators.

Art work displayed

BOISE — Michael Green, Twin Falls, College of Southern Idaho art instructor, will participate in a group objective or abstract art display at Boise Gallery of Arts beginning July 2. Six Idaho artists will be participating in the show.

Inmates learn to cook

CANON CITY, Colo. (UPI) — It's not easy to teach someone to cook a recipe for meat loaf that begins: "Take 400 pounds of hamburger meat..."

But a shortage of cooks serving time at the Colorado State Prison has forced officials to start teaching inmates how to prepare food for hundreds of persons at a time.

"If an inmate comes in here and shows some desire to learn the culinary trade, we'll try to teach him," said Fred Copp, chief steward at the prison.

The inmates must learn to feed 700 inmates and guards daily, plus workers in the reception center and other inmates in the women's division.

"A meat loaf requires 400 pounds of hamburger," Copp said. "We drink 150 to 200 gallons of milk a day, coffee will run around 50 gallons every time we make it."

The cooks mash, bake or fry up to three tons of potatoes in one week and go through 50 cases of lettuce every 2 1/2 weeks.

As a result of the shortage of cooks, the prison has hired two civilian chefs to train inmate kitchen help. Copp said he has 28 cooks and bakers now working in the prison's kitchens.

"Several inmates who have worked here have left to work as cooks. We hope eventually to get a vocational program set up in the trade."

Surprisingly, food is not complained about at the prison. During an inmate strike in 1971, prison warden Alex Wilson said the prisoners told officials food was not a major issue.

"I suppose some of the food made is bland, but when you get food prepared by the gallons and gallons, you do lose a little something," Wilson said. "From time to time, we do get a 'bummer' meal here, but I can get that at a restaurant."

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT C. KINNEY

Miss Roholt, Kinney exchange promises

TWIN FALLS — Susan Carol Roholt and Robert C. Kinney were married in a double ring ceremony June 3 at Immanuel Lutheran Church.

The bride is the daughter of Elwood Roholt and Mrs. Erna Roholt, both Twin Falls, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Owen R. Kinney, Jerome.

Pastor Eugene Sparks performed the candlelight ceremony before an altar flanked with two candelabra and two large flower baskets filled with blue and lavender daisies and chrysanthemums. The center aisle was decorated with lavender candles and large blue bows.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Erna Roholt, in a white gown in a Victorian style with a full circle chapel train. The empire line gown was made of tulle and polyester organza with imported peau d'ange chantilly lace of the high banded neckline.

The dress featured lace decorated full sleeves and skirt panels. The bodice and neckline were trimmed with pearls.

Her three-tiered elbow length veil of nylon illusion was held by an organza and satin bandeau encrusted with seed pearls and lace. She carried a bouquet of blue and lavender daisy-pom-pom chrysanthemums.

Rebecca Fikstad, Rupert, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Betsy Meigs, Salt Lake City; Pam Bartlett, Jerome; and Chris Place, Twin Falls.

Jerome miss competes. JEROME — Lana Bracken, Jerome, is competing in barrel racing and breakfast roping at the national intercollegiate rodeo finals.

The finals are being held in Bozeman, Mont., through Saturday.

Lana represents Idaho State University in the Rocky Mountain region as second in all-around and second in barrels for the term of 1973-74 regional competition. While in Bozeman, Lana will be one of the flag bearers for each main performance.

Miss Brannon, Heath say vows

KING HILL — Janet Brannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Brannon, became the bride of Paul Heath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heath Sr., Glens Ferry.

The double ring ceremony was performed at 2 p.m. June 8 by Rev. James Burton in the First Baptist Church in Glens Ferry. Tall baskets of pink and white lilacs and white candelabra decorated the church.

The bride given by her father chose a floor-length colonial style gown of white satin, with and overlay of pink hearts and flower leis. The gown had long sleeves and a high neck line. Her chapel veil of silk netting had a satin crown and was edged with pink and had a train. Her corsage was of white mums, pink rosebuds and forget-me-nots with long satin streamers of lilac and pink ribbon. She carried a white Bible.

Mrs. Ward Bullen, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her bridesmaid was of pink and white streamers, with lilac ribbon. Her floor length dress was of pink polyester and she wore a white hat with pink and lilac streamers.

Janie Brannon, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Dennis Griggs of Glens Ferry, were bridesmaids. Sherry Heath, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Mrs. Rullen made all the dresses.

Arnold Hall, Glens Ferry, was the best man; Alfred Heath, Glens Ferry, and Charles Heath, King Hill, brothers of the groom, were ushers and candlelighters. Albert Ramos, son of Mrs. Hazel Ramos, Glens Ferry, was ringbearer.

Roe John, Glens Ferry, was organist.

A reception was held in the church parlors. The bride's table was covered with lace over a pink cloth and centered with a four tiered cake decorated with white and lilac. It was topped with a Camo Cross and a "Kiss in the Garden" — bride and bridegroom. It was flanked with heart-shaped cakes decorated in pink and white.

Mrs. Ralph Healy, sister-in-law of the groom, Mountain Home, and Mrs. Eldon Heath, Glens Ferry, cut and served the cake. Shert Pruett, King Hill, was seated at the punch bowl, assisted by Carol Viner, Glens Ferry. Bonnie Jakes, Glens Ferry, was in charge of the gift table. Claudia Decker, Glens Ferry, was in charge of the guest book.

Guests attended from Boise, Shoshone, Gooding, Bliss, and Mountain Home.

The young couple are both graduates of the 1974 class of the Glens Ferry High School. They are now at home on the Brannon Ranch.

No streaking

VISALIA, Calif. (UPI) — The Tulare County Grand Jury warns that practitioners of one recent fad may be in for trouble.

"Because there is no mosquito abatement district serving Eastern Tulare County, the grand jury strongly urges no streaking," it said in its annual report.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe I'm actually writing a letter to Dear Abby! Now, what is crazy? I know you're not "God," but you say a lot in a few words and your answers make sense, so here goes:

I'm a 34-year-old married woman with two kids and a million problems. The biggest is my marriage. It's going downhill fast.

My husband and I fight all the time. We've got money problems, in-law problems; he says I'm a lousy housekeeper and he's right, and I say he spends too much time with "the boys" and not enough with me and the kids. (He's a sports freak.) We can't even discuss our problems without ending up in a fight. The only thing we've got going for us is sex. That's terrific, but you can't stay in bed all the time.

Marriage on rocks

Don't tell me we need counseling. We'd never go. And I can't afford a shrink, so forget that.

All right, Abby, you've got all the answers. Answer this one.

DEAR MISS: The answer I have for you, you won't like. You need professional counseling. TF friends are a waste of time—they tell you only what they think you want to hear. You say your husband won't get well, go home. If you learn how to handle your husband, you will know more than you know now. And with luck, you can get him to go later.

If you need a shrink and can't afford one, your Family Service or Welfare Department can provide that at a price you CAN afford. Now get going, and let me hear from you in 30 days.

DEAR ABBY: I was a very happily married woman until I went to this mind-reader. She told me that my husband was on drugs and also that he was unfaithful to me.

I asked my husband about this and he denied it. I want to believe my husband because we have two kids, and I don't want to break up my marriage.

Abby, why would that mind-reader say something like that if it wasn't true?

I don't know what to believe. Can you help me?

MESSED-UP MIND

DEAR MESSED UP: I'd believe my husband. I would also stay away from "mind readers."

DEAR ABBY: Tell me something. Do I have a right to complain? We've been married for 14 years, and for the last ten years my husband has taken a 10-day skiing vacation without me.

I couldn't go because I had no one to leave the kids with. I took one vacation without my husband five years ago. I went to Florida for a week to visit my folks, and I took my kids with me. Same vacation!

My husband says: "Just because YOU have to stay home

Peggy Joslin weds David L. Hammond

TWIN FALLS — Peggy Joslin and David L. Hammond repeated vows June 11 in the First Presbyterian Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Joslin, Twin Falls. The bridegroom's parents are Helen P. Hammond, Twin Falls, and Harley Hammond, Gooding. Rev. Robert Van Nest performed the double ring ceremony. Cathy Rudey, Twin Falls, was the bride's maid of honor. Other-bridal attendants were Tammi Joslin, Sandy Hammond, Linda Hammond, all of Twin Falls, and Andrea Stone, Pocatello. Serving as best man was Chuck Schabacher. Ushers were Dale Hammond, Phil Joslin and Walt Hess. The bride wore a full length princess style lace gown that she designed and made. It had a mandarin collar, yellow lace edged slyce, long self ruffled sleeves and matching skirt ruffle. The train length tulle and lace veil was covered by a matching fingertip veil on a modified Juliet cap. She carried a nosegay of yellow roses, iris and daisies. The bride also wore a pearl necklace of her mother's and carried her great grandmother's handkerchief. The couple was honored at a reception held in the church's fireside lounge. The bride's table colors were yellow and light green with carnations around a three tiered yellow cake with white daisies and topped with white satin bells. The guest book and gift table were attended by Mirsha True, Mary Jo Biggs and Mrs. Dale Hammond. Karlene Calop and Ethel Calop cut cake and Mrs. Russell Pletz served the coffee. Punch was served by Mrs. Elden G. Bracken, all are from Twin Falls.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kronika, Twin Falls, grandparents of the bridegroom; Mrs. Max Gammage, Filer, grandmother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Osborne, Bozeman, Mont.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple will reside in Moscow, where the groom is employed by the University of Idaho.

Board clears film

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The government's play and movie censorship board Monday cleared the movie "Jesus Christ Superstar" for showing in Israel over objections of American Jewish organizations that have called it anti-Semitic. Censorship board chairman Levi Geri said the board did not judge to the question of whether it is proper to promote the film, since that is not its task.

The film, which was partly made in Israel, had been approved by the Commerce and Industry Ministry. Some American rabbis have said dialogue in the film and original stage production served to arouse anti-Jewish feelings.

One of the general rules of play that everyone is taught is "Cover an honor with an honor." Like all general rules you will do better if you follow it every time rather than never follow it. But you will do best if you learn when to follow it and when not to. South wins the first club, or ducks and wins the continuation. It doesn't matter much. He has to lose two clubs and one diamond and success or failure depends on whether or not he loses a trump trick. With eleven trumps the correct percentage play is to try to drop the king. It will work exactly 52 per cent of the time. So, all else being equal the expert will play for the drop.

However, all else doesn't have to be equal. Any good player will tend to duck spades. If West has been taught to cover an honor with an honor on each and every occasion he will associate with the king and south will make his contract anyway. If West sees that this is not the time to cover (it isn't) but goes into a huddle before ducking, South will finesse in the theory that West's huddle meant that he was thinking of covering.

However, if West just plays his six spot unconcernedly, South should rise with dummy's ace. After all, that is a 52 per cent chance. East will show out and another contract will bite the dust.

Cottage Cheese.

It's a Peachy Idea for Summer.

Here's how to turn a juicy little fruit into a great tasting salad.
Take a peach. Any peach. Even canned will do. And fill it with cool-cottage cheese.
Then set it on some crisp lettuce. And whammo. You've got one of the best tastin' salads around.
But don't just try it with a peach. Try it with your favorite fruit. An avocado. A tomato. Or even a big piece of melon.

A 4-oz. serving of Creamed Cottage Cheese is a good way to get 33% of the protein you should have each day. And it has only 121 calories. Cottage Cheese. It's high in protein. Low in calories.
And it's a peachy idea for a hot summer day.

ON THE MALL TWIN FALLS

Effluent report prepared

TWIN FALLS — The first of what will become a one-month report by the city of Twin Falls is being prepared for the Environmental Protection Agency.

City Manager Alan Millar said the city has been issued a waste water discharge permit covering the effluent from the city sewage treatment plant in Snake River Canyon. Millar said to justify the permit, the city must submit a monthly report showing the quality of the discharged effluent going back into the Snake River.

The first report must be sent to the EPA by Sunday and is now being prepared.

Information includes such items as oxygen demand, suspended solids and bacterial count. Laboratory tests and samples taken at the sewage treatment plant in the canyon will provide the necessary information.

Contracts have been awarded for construction of a secondary sewage treatment plant in the canyon to replace the primary plant which has been in use the past 10 years. Millar said the permit covers discharge of primary treatment wastes.

Bad road plagues motorists

SHOSHONE — Curves, ruts and dust all combine to plague motorists on the Magic Reservoir West roadway this time of year.

A group of interested persons has worked for several years to improve the 10-mile stretch of roadway.

The road winds in and out of three counties, Lincoln, Blaine and Camas. Lincoln County owns the first one-mile off US 93. The other nine miles are in Blaine and Camas Counties.

Last month, North Side Communities, Inc. carried a vote to purchase 5,000 stickers to be sold and funds collected to go toward the "improved road project." The stickers will read "I support improving Magic Reservoir Road." All interested persons should see committee members John McKenzie, Harrell Thomas, Shoshone, who will be depositing the funds in the bank as they are received.

Spritsmen complain that their boats and vehicles are often damaged by the rough road and threat of accidents exists, especially without cautious driving.

Two men that their lives a little over two years ago when their vehicle failed to negotiate the downgrade curve in one spot and their car overturned and burned.

In addition to the popular fishing attraction at Magic Reservoir, use is noted for the road. Idaho Fish and Game Department and Bureau of Land Management personnel must use the road for their work and some ranchers are required to use it daily.

The Idaho Highway Department said the road does not come within its jurisdiction, and efforts to improve the surface have been announced through offices of county commissioners within the three counties.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 27, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when dramatic events can take place in your relations with other people. Make sure you are thoughtful and considerate with them, and realize it would be your opportunities that may arise. Be more cooperative.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) It would be wise to listen carefully to what associates have to suggest now since the planets are with them. Control your temper.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Show your skill in whatever faces you today and make an excellent impression on higher-ups. You can improve your appearance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Allow some free time for an invitation that may be extended to you unexpectedly. Think kindly of others. Be more cheerful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan how to make family more pleased at home. Tomorrow is best if you want to put some new project into motion.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23) Consult with associates in the morning about future plans. Don't neglect important correspondence. Engage in favorite hobby.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Keep secret any future plans and become a more successful person. Be ready and willing to give advice to a good friend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) An associate can be of great assistance to you. Know what your aims are and how to achieve them. Put forth more effort.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A higher-up can help you with a particular plan you have in mind. Avoid one who doesn't understand you. Take it easy tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make certain you contact someone who can help you with your activities that interest you. Make plans for a fascinating trip.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) This is an ideal day to handle personal obligations. Listen to what loved one has to suggest, so that happiness can be increased.

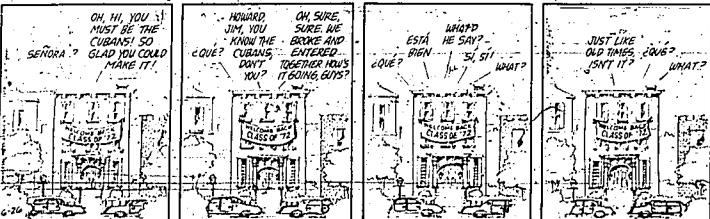

YOUR CHIEF IS HOT! TODAY... he or she will be one with a very warm and delightful nature. Make sure you make available courses in art, culture, music appreciation as well as other related subjects. Teach early in life to listen to what others have to say before coming to conclusions. Give credit where credit is due.

The stern implications are not complete! What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Father Time is a cloaked and hooded man with scythe, King Neptune, a great bearded figure with a scepter... Death, the skull-over-velvet... and curiously, you and I know Santa Claus when we see him. Point is that for many years we have been able to visualize all such folk-hero characters... except one. Not until recently did there have any identification whatsoever in folklore or legend of Mother Nature. She survived without face or form for centuries. Now TV has changed that. She's revealed in gloriously peddling comestibles. Frankly, I'm a little disappointed. Had thought she might be a little plumper.

Q. SCANNY might imagine how much money Queen Elizabeth might take in, if she were to sell all her old clothes in a parage sale? What does she do with them, anyway?

A. Garage sale? Burns them. In a Buckingham Palace furnace. It's thought not cricket that a female subject of the Crown might show up a public somebody in one of the Queen's old outfits.

HEDGES

Most grown hedges need three trimmings per season. QUESTIONS ARISE as to whether man among the land animals throughout history has been primarily the hunter or the hunted. In other words, predator or prey. That's easy. Look at his eyes. They're set on the front of his head. That's a distinguishing characteristic among predatory beasts. Tigers, for instance. The eyes of defensive animals, as previously reported, tend to be set on the sides of the head, swiveling in a full 180 degrees to see in many directions at one time. Horses, for instance. There are even things who claim men with closed eyes make the best hunters. But that's a little much.

Statistics say that the husband and wife who sleep in the same bed, that's about 47 per cent of the married population, each will shift the sleeping position approximately 35 times a night.
