CSI trustee resigns post

TWIN FALLS — The resignation of Rev. John Garrabrando from the college board was accepted Monday by College of Southern Idaho trustees.

Garrabrando, a Jerome resident, submitted his resignation in a letter to board chairman John Hepworth.

In the letter he said he was resigning "with reluctance. However, I find that occupational concerns have been making it increasingly difficult to attend meetings."

The board took action on the resignation at a special meeting Monday. The trustees accepted it with "regret" and an expression of thanks for his good service.

Hepworth said the board will name a replacement as soon as possible. The replacement will be from Jerome County and the board is "inviting recommendations" from persons and groups within Jerome County.

He said Nixon conferred all afternoon with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and also met with Gen. Alexander M. Haig, White House chief of staff and Ziegler.

Ziegler said Kissinger had been working with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, and Anatoly Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador to Washington, preparatory to the Nixon-Brezhnev talks.

Today's developments, however, did not appear to rule out the possibility of a nuclear test agreement and one limiting deliveries of ballistic missile warheads might be signed before the summit concludes Wednesday.

Unofficial Soviet sources said the Kremlin Politburo, ruling body of the Soviet Communist party, had met in emergency session Monday night to hear Brezhnev's report on the results of the summit so far. That report could not be confirmed.

Ziegler said Nixon conferred this morning with Kissinger, then met separately with Gen. Alexander M. Haig, the White House chief of staff on domestic affairs, including opening legislation.

Nixon returned to Moscow Monday night after a weekend on the Black Sea and a trip to Minsk where he bumped noticeably on Monday as a result of the phlebitis in his left leg.

The former president said he was in good shape when he stepped out of a plane in Moscow Monday night.

Ziegler said Nixon was "feeling fine" — he is in good shape, "despite the inflammation of veins in the leg." But President's doctors said he had not complained about the ailment.

Death probe opens today

HAILEY — A state specialist testified today at an inquest that one of the adult supervisors on a state-sponsored desert survival training course in a Pocatello boy had died ever before to the area before.

Lynn Corson, recreational specialist for the Pocatello section of the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, testified at the first day of a Blaine County inquest into the death of 17-year-old Fred Hodgson, 16, yesterday.

Hodgson said the state had sponsored six similar outings last year, and only one so far this year. He said the outing was part of a pilot program designed to increase the children's self-image and teach outdoor living skills.

He said that while none of the others had been to the area in the southeastern corner of Blaine County before the outing occurred, they had been briefed by other state officials prior to the trip.

Dr. Edward E. Fisher, Pocatello, testified that the boy's death probably resulted from exposure and near exhaustion.

Dr. Fisher testified that he could not, however, be certain about his findings because of the "highly decomposed" condition of the body.

He estimated the time of death at from a 10 to 20 days before the autopsy was performed on June 20.

He said he could find no sign of snake bite or other injury, though a coal in findings were made difficult because of the body's condition. (Continued on p. 11)

FBI probes King death

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hundreds of mourners filed steadily into the Ebenezer Baptist Church today to pay their last respects to Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr., shot two days ago by a young gunman in the same church.

At the same time, the FBI was investigating the possibility of a conspiracy in the Birmingham slaying which also claimed the life of a church deacon and left a second woman wounded.

At least 200 persons were in a line stretching past the tomb of Mrs. King's son, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who was killed by an assassin six years ago, before the double doors of the brick downtown church opened at 10:35 a.m.

Most of the mourners were black and ranged from infants with their mothers to elderly woman who had to be assisted. They entered the church and walked quietly, except for a few sobbing past the white casket where Mrs. King's body lay in a pale pink dress.

The coffin was set in front of the altar, only a few feet from the organ Mrs. King had been playing when the gunman began shooting.

Cardinals, the Argentine prime minister, and thousands of Peronists prostrated themselves in grief on the grass outside the cathedral and some cries or sobs were reported. Many refused to look at the cortege as it entered the cathedral where seven great white pillars give it the appearance of a Greek temple.

Later as the body lay in state in the Blue Room of the great crowds — estimated by UPI reporters at 100,000 — stood outside the building, weeping Mrs. Peron maintained a aloof dignity at the side of the coffin which was draped in the flag of Argentina and bore his lieutenant general's cap, his sash and a single white rose.

Dressed entirely in black and with her blonde hair pulled back severely, Mrs. Peron rode in a limousine to the cathedral to "escort" the coffin from the suburban residence where Peron died Monday to the cathedral, 10 miles away. The coffin traveled by ordinary hearse to the cathedral but was placed aboard a caisson pulled by a military jeep before it arrived at the cathedral.

Meat to go up, then fall

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Retail meat prices will go up this summer, but supplies will increase and cause a reduction in prices in the fall, Agriculture Department officials predict.

Furthermore, Agriculture Under Secretary J. Phil Campbell said Monday that beef imports are expected to fall 11 percent from 1973 and that they will need to impose import quotas determined by the U.S. cattle industry.

The department report said retail meat prices are expected to remain below year-earlier levels for most of the last half of 1974.

At a news conference on the beef import situation, Campbell said imports, which had earlier been forecast at 1,375 billion pounds for 1974, now were expected to reach only 1,210 billion pounds because of voluntary cutbacks by major shippers, especially Australia and New Zealand.

The new figure was 23 percent below the year's forecast for 1974. It is 11 percent below 1973 level. Imports of 1,331 billion pounds was the lowest foreign beef estimate since 1971.

Getting out of US dead tougher than if alive

By MARILYN ELLIOTT Times News Writer TWIN FALLS — Getting into the United States alive is tougher for anyone. Getting out dead may be even tougher.

lack of money and red tape may leave a dead alien in a morgue for weeks and result in an austere graveside service far from home and friends.

Two Mexican nationals died in the Magye Valley during the past few months. The body of one was sent to Mexico, the other was buried in Utah. Both bodies remained in local mortuaries almost two weeks while searches were made for relatives and red tape was run through bureaucratic machines.

When the men died and were found to be without passports, their deaths were reported to the sheriff's department and the bodies sent to local mortuaries. The sheriff's department reported the deaths to the Mexican consul in Seattle, Wash., then both the mortuary and the sheriff's department sat back and waited.

The first in a series of time-consuming procedures had started. Authorities must contact the relatives of the deceased person who is generally reluctant to admit connection with an illegal activity.

A spokesman at the Mexican Consulate in Seattle, who refused to identify himself, said in a telephone interview that "we do sometimes have trouble finding the family." He said the consular to the main heads" in trying to locate the bodies. Radio, television and newspapers are also used in the search. Although the family is usually notified, they come out to the light when there is an accident, he said, and most of the time we manage to find the family.

The spokesman said he knew of one recent instance in Idaho when the body was buried after burial had been sought because the family could not be located. About a month after the death the family was located, he said, and the body was exhumed and sent to Mexico.

If the family can be found, the difficulties continue as efforts are made to ship the body to Mexico.

The first in a series of payments must be by either agency, which charges, are asked for a valid death certificate and a permit for removal of the remains. Both certificates must go through several offices before becoming final.

When these are obtained, international regulations rule the procedures of preparing and shipping the body and cause skyrocketing costs.

Regulations call for the body to be embalmed, placed in a wooden box with two inches of sawdust filler in the bottom, then placed inside a metallic coffin for shipment. The heavy casket must then be shipped by air — at about $100 per pound.

Rain stay away

MANILA (UPI) — A team of Philippine Air Force weather experts will try to prevent rain in Manila July 21, the same day the 1974 Miss Universe beauty pageant holds its final coronation ball.

"Unless a storm brews, chances of success are high," said Maj. Roger De La Cruz, operations officer of the National Artificial Rain Stimulation Committee.

De La Cruz told newsmen an air force OV transport and three Cessna 210s light planes would "seed" cloud banks within a radius of 125 miles of Manila four days before the event to induce rains in outlying areas and prevent them from reaching the city.

reported by police

TWIN FALLS Several persons were injured in traffic accidents in Twin Falls, city Monday afternoon.

City police were continuing their investigation today of an accident in which seven persons were treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and the Twin Falls Clinic Hospital. The report was not available.

A Twin Falls couple, William Henry McDonald, 75, and Ada McDonald, 70, suffered cuts and bruises when their vehicle and an over-trailer driven by Tonya Blanche Nebecker, 25, Murtaugh, collided at Seventh Avenue East and Third Street East at 3:10 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Nebecker was accompanied by her four small children. Tracy Nebecker, 2, suffered cuts and bruises. Officers cited Mrs. Nebecker for failure to yield right of way at the intersection.

Kathryn Dennis, 15, Twin Falls, suffered cuts and possible other injuries when the vehicle she was driving collided with one driven by Robert Teslie Williams, 70, Twin Falls. Williams was also treated for cuts and bruises.

Williams was cited for failure to yield right of way. The accident occurred at the intersection of Third Avenue South and Third Street South at about 6 p.m.

Ethiopian army gives ultimatum

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — The Ethiopian army has issued an ultimatum to the government of the Amhara region today.

The ultimatum calls for the government to disarm the armed forces to ensure the smooth functioning of the area.

"We have considered measures to be taken by the armed forces to ensure the smooth functioning of the area," the ultimatum said.

The ultimatum committee has worked out a set of plans for consideration by the Amhara regional government.

The statement did not give any details of the plan drawn up by the committee of some 50 unknown army captains and majors, but military sources said it was a "ultimatum" that dictates the makeup of the next government.

Miner missing, feared drowned

CLAYTON—A 39-year-old miner apparently has become the seventh victim of the Salton river in the last month.

A pickup driven by Bill Davidson, a miner at the Hoo Doo Mine near Clayton, was found Saturday morning crushed and battered in the river about nine miles south of Clayton.

Custer County Sheriff Duane Sorenson said Davidson was seen in Challis the evening of June 27. The Slate Creek bridge which Davidson would have to cross to get back to the mine was covered with water on June 27, Sorenson said.

Sorenson said the sheriff's office is assuming the vehicle was washed into the main Salton at the bridge and carried almost 1.5 miles downstream.

"We have to presume he's drowned," Sorenson said. "There is no other logical reason for him to be missing. He had just bought from the mine and all of his personal belongings."

Davidson had worked for the mine only a short time after arriving from Nevada.

Sorenson said the bank of the main Salton had been searched but officers found no indication of the pickup going over the bank.

The pickup was mangled, all of the glass broken out and the hood missing, Sorenson said. The ignition was on, he said.

The pickup is still in flood stage, according to the sheriff, making it impossible to get a boat to drag the river.

"The body is not to be anywhere from here to the Columbia," Sorenson said.

"We've had one body in the river two years we've never found."

He said a search would probably be launched later in the summer when the Salton recedes.

Fire razes pumphouse

FRIDAY—A small pumphouse on the Walter Mathieson Dairy Farm southwest of Filer was destroyed by fire late Monday afternoon.

A hired man on the Mathieson farm was burning weeds along the roadside and sparks traveled to the wooden side of the pumphouse. Several nearby trees were charred.

The Filer Fire Department as well as a number of neighbors kept the fire from spreading to nearby fields and barns.

Mathieson had not estimated the cost of the fire damage this morning.

Repairs on the pump were being made today, according to Mrs. Mathieson.

Lt. Gov. Murphy should find foe

Idaho Lieutenant Gov. Jack Murphy should decide whether he is running against Gov. Cecil Andrus or against the Idaho Daily Statesman of Boise.

Murphy has had a difficult time getting his Republican gubernatorial campaign off the ground. He has been waiting in the wings, hoping some telling political issue would develop.

Meanwhile, Andrus has attempted to avoid issues altogether. He has concentrated instead on image-puffery, such as radio advertisements featuring his voice, supposedly designed to welcome visitors to Expo-74 but really aimed at Idaho voters.

Presumably frustrated, Murphy has taken another tack. Last week he ran television advertisements which featured a pair of angry hands tearing apart a copy of the Boise newspaper. The advertisements, ostensibly were designed to correct what Murphy felt was an inaccurate report in the Statesman. The general impact was that of a bitter attack on that newspaper.

Whether Murphy is correct about the Statesman is secondary to the fact that such tactics will play squarely into Andrus' hands.

Murphy stands a good chance of burning an image of angry, bickering politician attacking the Statesman while Andrus pursues his positive image campaign untouched by his opponent. The Statesman and Murphy will be blighted while Andrus wins reelection.

A better course might be for Murphy to begin to talk the issues of government. He might mention such things as rapid increases in state spending, the low priority Andrus placed on school funding last year in contrast to earlier, stronger support, and the general lack of direction and control over the state's bureaucracy.

He should emphasize answers to the state's problems, not answers to Boise newspapers.

Israeli attacks

Israel took a brass and unstatesmanlike course in launching a series of air strikes against alleged Palestinian guerrilla camps in Lebanon immediately after President Nixon had ended his visit to Mid-East countries.

It is entirely possible to sympathize with the burning rage that Israel feels over the continuing guerrilla attacks against its citizens.

But certainly a bit more reserve than this could be hoped for if the Jewish state is also interested in a real peace in the troubled area.

Israel is a sovereign state, not a band of guerrillas, and in attacking people on Lebanese territory it is guilty of a provocation which could lead all-out war again, rather than the peace which is being sought there in the face of almost insurmountable difficulties.

The move was one which tended to alienate friends of Israel particularly in the United States which acknowledged has been the principal support of the young nation.

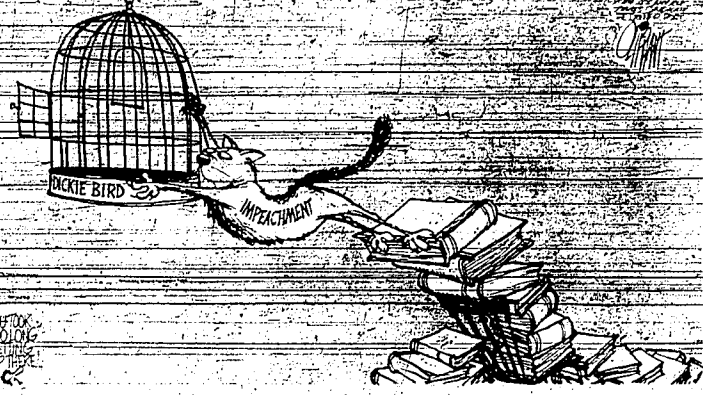

Violence begets more violence. And the vicious sequence of events gains momentum through acts of this kind, even though the severity of the provocation is readily admitted.

If Israel truly wants peace, its actions should be more tempered in the future.

BERRY'S WORLD

PARIS — The last time I was in Paris, six years ago, I wrote a column titled "Paris on $900 a Day." The thrust of the piece was that it was still possible to get by in the French capital on $500 a month... "You mean to say that white asparagus costs as much as Joel's tuition?" "Yes," I replied, "but they're the large white ones with Hollandaise sauce. You can only get them in the spring."

I don't like this bogging at the table... particularly when you get to eat meat and I don't!

Military justice code wording hazy

WASHINGTON — Over the years, millions of males drafted for duty in the armed forces — or volunteers — have made the "court-martial" point handed down the other day by Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart.

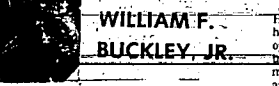

It is that the Uniform Code of Military Justice in many of its provisions comes out a lousy exercise in lazy and ambiguous language. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower himself once told a group of reporters that certain sections of the code were "nothing more than just-in-case stuff, written by some desk-bound officer who was trying to cover everything."

Potter was one of the dissenters in a 5 to 4 vote which reinstated the conviction of an anti-air Army doctor named Howard Levy, who was convicted of disobeying an order and violating Sections 133 to 134 of the Uniform Code. Levy's conviction was upheld on appeal to higher military courts, but he was a reversal last year by a three-judge panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Philadelphia.

The panel declared that the two articles were overly vague, and labeled them a "catch-all" designed as a statutory basis for prosecuting — that is, the "ramrod" — an impersonating an officer to gambling. Stewart addressed himself to Sections 133 and 134.

Section 133 says that any officer, who is convicted of conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman shall be punished as court-martial may direct. Section 134 outlaws "all disorders and neglects to the prejudice of good order and discipline in the armed forces, all conduct of a nature to bring discredit upon the armed forces," and other acts.

Said Stewart: "It may be that military necessity justifies the promulgation of substantive rules of law that are wholly foreign to civilian life, but I fail to perceive how any legitimate military goal is served by enshrining these rules in language so vague and uncertain as to be incomprehensible to the servicemen who are to be governed by them. Indeed, added Stewart, "vague laws, with their serious capacity for arbitrary and discriminatory enforcement, can in the end only hamper the military's objectives of high morale. All true. And yet the majority was right in upholding Levy's conviction. Levy served under the Uniform Code and was bound by oath to follow it. The code needs changing, and I trust the Pentagon will see to it forthwith, but Levy's conviction was based on the code as it existed and still exists, and not on what it might be some day.

Moreover, the armed forces need such a code, or there would be no armed forces because there could be no enforcement of discipline. Anyway, Levy really jumped the rigid fence. He was the chief dermatologist at an Army hospital in South Carolina in 1966, and an opponent of the Vietnam War. He refused to train (Green Beret) troops for Vietnam in medical skills, and publicly labeled them "barbarians and thieves, killers of peasants and murderers of women and children." Forged the vagueness of Articles 133 and 134; Levy was given a direct order and refused to obey it. That was a clear and basic violation, not a "monologue on semantics."

Certainly, members of the military are not excluded from the protection granted by the First Amendment. But the Constitution says that Congress may raise armies, and it is incumbent that the Founding Fathers saw these future armies as undisciplined bodies in which each soldier went his own free-thinking way.

Had the Supreme Court upheld Levy's appeal it would have endorsed the right of every member of the military to fall his boss to go jumping in the lake.

Conversion says much about culture

I have been interested by the letters that greet the news of Charles Colson's conversion to Christianity.

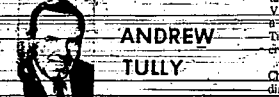

They are variously expressed. Those who could be termed "liberals" mostly treat the whole thing as a huge joke, as if W.C. Fields had come out for the Temperance Union. They are waiting for the second act, when the resolution comes, and W.C. Fields is taunting his rescuers at home and Colson is being practicing calisthenics on his grandmother's grave.

It says a great deal about the meaning of Christianity in our culture. Traditionally, it has been those who have done the most who are the special objects of providential grace. The prodigal son is welcomed, most by heaven, precisely because he has most to atone for.

Ah, but does that mean that we shouldn't be most surprised by the most drastic alteration in human attitudes? As the late St. Augustine, a Frenchman monk, there is no doubting that the prodigal would have exhausted huge storage banks of heavenly grace. Or if Anthony Lewis uttered a compassionate word about Richard Nixon, one would certainly take notice, though in an era of a man whose name would suggest a saint.

But it does not matter who it is, it is possible to suspect guile, as in the case of Charles Colson. If one of the President's conversations had in it: "Let's figure out what our duty is and do it, most people would have suspected those words were uttered for the sake of the record. It may all become so twisted that we tend to be particularly skeptical when we detect someone doing something because it is right, even though it is something that is tactically damaging.

Concerning Colson, it seems to me less implausible than it apparently does to others that he should have found Christ. His weakness as generally identified, has been his heliocentric concern for one person — Richard Nixon. When he told the court that it did not occur to him to challenge Nixon when told to go out and do something, or we asked to disbelieve that. Not the critics of Colson, or those of Nixon, indeed that is what they most desire to believe.

That everything Colson did that was disreputable, he did at the bidding of someone he treated as a commander-in-chief, in charge of the national society. Whether he'd have served Richard Nixon if Nixon had not been the President of the United States we have no way of knowing. But now he says that he has discovered Christ. To say that you have discovered Christ, in our secular society, is to say something that causes most people to wince with embarrassment. Christ is something to be discovered only between the hours of 10 and noon Sunday morning by Billy Graham, before or after a golf game. Or by a bearded young man on the corner of Hollywood and Vine for whom Christ-freaking is a way station between college sociology and Timothy Leary. Or the sort of thing that caused the Jews to be Dark and Middle Ages.

For Colson to say that he has found Jesus Christ is like Coca Cola announcing it has discovered Pepsi Cola.

It is a statement that the Supermundane and when it sees Him most, "I see it as one of the greatest ironies of this ironical time," writes Malcolm Muggeridge, that the Christian message, renouncing the world should be withdrawn from consideration, just when it is most desperately needed to save men's souls, if not their souls. It is as though a Salvation Army band, valiantly and patiently waiting through the long years for Judgment Day, should, when it comes at last, and the heavens do verily begin to unfold like a scroll, throw away their instruments and flex in despair.

Impression unchanged by letter

WASHINGTON — It is understandable, but it is also regrettable, that so little public attention has been paid to President Nixon's letter of June 18 to Peter Rodino.

The letter provides an excellent statement of Nixon's reasons for refusing to surrender further tapes and documents to the House Judiciary Committee.

Unfortunately, this long letter was released at a time when editors were struggling with a flood of news items. The President's letter to the Midwest Henry Kissinger was erupting in Salzburg in Washington, the Judiciary Committee was leaking like a rusty bucket. Few newspapers had space to print the text of Nixon's letter, and few readers would have had time for it anyway. The letter deserved something better.

The situation, in brief, is that the House committee has been testis-demanding that the President surrender certain records. The President refused to honor the subpoenas. His reasons are solidly rooted in the doctrine of separation of powers.

"While many functions of government require the concurrence or interaction of two or more branches," Nixon wrote, "each branch historically has been steadfast in maintaining its own independence by turning back attempts of the others, whenever made, to assert an authority to invade without consent, the privacy of its own deliberations."

Nixon supplied examples. In 1962, a federal district court issued a subpoena to the Senate, demanding certain evidence for use in the trial of James Hoffa. The Senate, by formal resolution, flatly refused to comply.

The judicial branch has taken the same view. In 1953, the House Un-American Activities Committee attempted to subpoena Justice Tom Clark. He refused to obey the subpoena. "The independence of the three branches of our government," said Clark, "is the cardinal principle on which our constitutional system is founded."

In his letter of June 10, Nixon cited a further example. In 1964, a Senate subcommittee demanded certain information from President Kennedy. When he refused to supply it, Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi upheld Kennedy's position. "I know of no case where the Court has ever made the Senate or the House surrender records from its files — and I do not think either of them could. So the rule works three ways. Each is supreme within its field, and each is responsible within its field."

This strikes me as sound doctrine. It is only the power of public opinion that makes presidents obey court orders. As the Supreme Court long ago acknowledged in Mississippi v. Johnson, a Reconstruction case, a federal court is powerless to enforce any order a president chooses to ignore. It is assumed that if a court should order Nixon to comply, Nixon would obey. Bill Rodino's refusal to seek judicial aid is itself a reflection of the doctrine of separation of powers.

Nixon is right in the position he has taken. He is right, that is, as a matter of law. The presidential office simply cannot be made a happy hunting ground, not even in the name of impeachment. The presidency could not survive as we know it.

But if Nixon's law is fine, his public relations are awful. By refusing to give the House committee what it wants, Nixon creates the impression that he has something to hide. The most beautifully preserved letters will not dispel that inference now.

Prices? Don't worry

Vineyard? "The one overlooking the ocean?" "That's the one," I said. "Let's have the lobster tonight."

"You mean you'd rather have lobster than own a house on Martha's Vineyard?" "But this lobster is cooked in a special cream sauce of chef. It could be years before we have a lobster like this again."

"I don't know," my wife said. "I had my heart set on that house."

"Well, I have my heart set on lobster and, since they're the same price, I think our stomachs should come first."

The waiter handed me the wine card. "That's a nice Pinot Gris," I said. "Can we afford it?" my wife asked. "We can if we sell the car when we get home."

"I need a car," she protested. "All right," I said. "We'll order Succarra and cancel the orthodontist's work on Connie's teeth."

My wife was becoming agitated. "If it's costing this much for dinner, how are we going to pay our hotel bill?" "Will you stop worrying? What do you think the World Bank is for?"

Spending limited in campaign bill

(c) 1974 Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — After months of delay, a House-Administration Committee is completing work on a bill that incorporates major reforms in the financing of Presidential elections that maintains a business-as-usual approach to fundraising in Congressional races.

The measure includes significant limitations on the amount of money an individual can give to a candidate for a House or Senate seat or for the Presidency. It also includes limits on overall spending in those campaigns for federal office.

The language of the bill, scheduled for debate by the full house some time this month, appears to preclude evasion of those ceilings by Presidential candidates, but several apparent loopholes are left in Congressional races.

The bill authorizes, for the first time, the use of public funds to finance both Presidential campaigns and the political parties' national nominating conventions — but it excludes Congressional campaigns from the concept of public financing.

Ostensibly, the bill sets limits similar to those in a measure already approved by the Senate on the amount of money an individual can give to a candidate in a primary and another $1,000 in the general election as well as a ceiling on committee donations to a candidate in the primary and general election.

But it exempts from those contribution limits "any communication by any membership organization" to its members, as long as the group "is not organized primarily for the purpose of influencing federal elections."

This, and State Democratic committee or Republican county committee membership organizations whose primary purpose is not to influence federal elections, could engage in unlimited campaign efforts paralleling those by the candidate's organization.

Another loophole would allow any state or local political funds on the "preparation, display, mailing or other distribution" of campaign literature — printed material, newspaper advertisements or television commercials, for example — as long as the material listed three or more candidates.

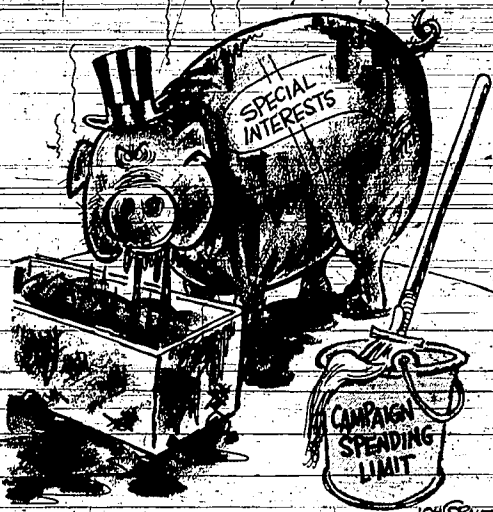

Ostensibly, written to permit political organizations to distribute "state cards" on behalf of a party-endorsed ticket, that provision would also allow the dissemination of material emphasizing one candidate and briefly mentioning two others.

When the bill reaches the house floor, a major fight is expected over its language establishing a board of supervisory officers to monitor implementation and enforcement of the law.

Under a 1971 law, the "supervisory officers" are the House clerk, for all those races, the Senate secretary, for all Senate contests, and the comptroller general, head of the General Accounting Office, for Presidential and Vice Presidential races.

The new board would include the comptroller general, one each to a Republican and Democrat from the House and Senate. Thus, members of Congress or their employees would hold six of the seven seats on a board established to oversee the accuracy and honesty of the reports filed by Congressmen.

Teachers plan offensive

By JOHN MATTHEWS
 (C) Washington Star-News
CHICAGO — The National Education Association is planning a $1 million political campaign to elect the "friends and foes" of its enemies in Congress and in state offices.

A prime objective in seeking defeat of what Victor H. Vito, president of the 1.5-million-member teacher organization, calls a "pro-education Congress" is passage of a federal law guaranteeing collective bargaining for teachers and other public employees.

The approximately 1,000 delegates to the organization's convention here are also taking preliminary steps toward endorsing a candidate for president for the first time. Delegates to the organization's convention in 1976 would vote to endorse a candidate, with at least 50 per cent of vote required for employment.

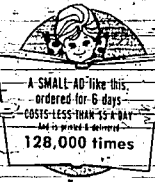

The present convention is also bolstering N.E.A.'s defense against a accountability plans designed to measure teacher performance on the basis of students' scores on achievement tests.

Resolutions, expected to be adopted this week call for their teaching certificates before the state's Supreme Court.

Also attending the rally were some 100 teachers from New Hope, the N.E.A. school district who struck March 1 and were also tried by their school board.

TF fireman cites dangers, pain

Editor, Times-News:
 People, I wonder about you. I wonder when you drive by the firehouse and see me playing ball and say, "I wish I had a job like that." Well, some days I wish you had it, too.

I wish you had it when I was on my first big fire and scared to death.

I wish you had it when I watched the ambulance carry in my comrade away from the hospital and on to the mortuary.

I wish you had it when I rode in the back of a police car, trying to evade a five year old boy, and watching the pain of the family when the doctor told them, "Your son, is dead."

(How I wanted to hold my children that night.)

I wish you had it when I have been on a fire for five or six hours, then roll hose and load the truck.

I wish you had it on a beat, zero nights when I am so cold I can't move but know I have to.

I wish you had it on Christmas day when I am on duty and you are home.

I wish you had it every time I go out on a big one.

You get mad when we're not there in 30 seconds. You're upset when we don't respond to your fire and you only live two miles out of the city limits. (Taxes equal protection.)

You're sore because you let a lot of heat on the street and we can't get the smell out. You don't like it when we are outside in the evening — never mind that it's too hot upstairs.

Like my job? Yes, I like it. I like it when I save a child from being "forever 5 years old."

I like working under pressure in a fire and knowing I did my best.

I like it when kids come to the "station." More adults should.

I like the respect that the few people who know my job and what I do give me.

I like it when you say, "Thanks, fireman, for being there."

Yes, I even like playing ball.

So while I am wondering about your people, don't wonder about me. I am nothing special, but if you need me, I will be there.

All-volunteer plan tops goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first full year of all-volunteer Army was one of the best recruiting years in a decade, or one of the worst, depending on which of the military's two basic measurements is hiked at.

Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway told a news conference Monday that the all-volunteer Army was a resounding success. He announced that when the government's 20th year ends at midnight Sunday, there were a little more than 75,000 men in Army green, more than 1,500 above the official strength figures set for that date by Congress.

Earlier in the year, the Pentagon was predicting a shortfall for an expected 20,000-man shortage.

In eight of the 12 months, the Army missed its strength goals but got help from several other quarters. First Congress cut the sizes on the four services. Then enlistments recovered from their Vietnam loss, and desertion and AWOL rates plummeted.

"We didn't lose as many people as we thought we would," Callaway said.

He brushed aside charges that quality of manpower had fallen in the rush to get numbers. "Quality is far more important than quantity, and I think you'll find that our quality is far higher than it was last year."

The military services have for years used two basic measures of quality — the "recruits" or "high school dropouts" and of low intelligence scorers among their recruits.

In the past fiscal year, 18 percent of the recruits had low intelligence scores — a lower percentage than most years, and right on target, as Army personnel specialists say they need 17-19 percent for scores because they have that proportion of nonkilled jobs.

By the other measure, it was the worst year in the decade. Fully 47 percent of the recruits were "dropouts." During the previous 10 years the dropout proportion ranged from 24 percent at best to 40 percent at worst.

The Army has tried to minimize the number of dropouts because studies show four or 20-dropout recruits turn out to be troublemakers, while only one man over the strength authorized by Congress. A few months ago Pentagon officials were predicting that the Army might fall as much as 20,000 short of the goal. (UPI)

But the Army says it is happy to take in the 16 out of 20 dropouts — who make good soldiers. It is trying to weed out the troublemakers by giving them honorable discharges, during basic training rather than keeping them in the service until they face a court-martial.

'Hot' outhouse

POLOCK PINES, Calif. (UPI) — When John May of Pollock walked into an outhouse while smoking a pipe, the wooden structure burst into flames.

May was treated for second-degree burns from the fire, which occurred at the Six Park Recreation Center here.

Firemen said someone had tossed a lit lantern in the outhouse camp, and the flames were ignited by May's pipe.

Turkish leaders OK poppy crops

ANKARA (UPI) — The Turkish government has granted farmers permission to plant opium poppy crops this fall, ending a ban once upheld by the United States as a major victory in the war against drug addiction.

Information Minister Orhan Birgul told newsmen Monday the government has signed a resolution authorizing poppy cultivation in six Turkish provinces.

He said Premier Bülent Ecevit, who promised during last October's elections to lift the 18-month-old ban, would report to parliament on the details of the decision.

Turkey banned poppy production Dec. 31, 1972 under pressure from the U.S. government, which said Turkish farmers produced 70 percent of the heroin entering the United States illegally.

The United States paid $35.7 million in indemnities, but the estimated 100,000 poppy farmers complained the money was insufficient compensation for the loss of their main source of income.

Turkey was one of seven countries authorized under a 1961 U.N. drug agreement to grow opium poppies legally for medicinal use. Turkey is the source of codeine and morphine as well as heroin.

Turkish officials said the ban had created a 200-million-planting in the nation's pharmaceutical industry.

State farms began germinating poppy seeds in March and will distribute them to farmers in the Central Anatolian provinces of Afyon, Konya, Burdur, Isparta, Usak and Kutahya for the October planting season, a government announcement said.

Previously, the nation went on daylight savings time for only six months out of the year.

Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar, told reporters Monday that during the four last winter months, daylight saving had proved hazardous for school children.

The department also had learned, he said, in a study undertaken at the request of Congress, that the energy saved by daylight savings time was "very small."

Year-round DST cut-off asked

By WILLIAM MCGAFFEIN

WASHINGTON — The Transportation Department has recommended the discontinuance of year-round daylight savings time, that began in 1967, after a costly experiment.

In its place, the department recommends that daylight savings be put into effect by Congress for eight months of the year, from the first of March to the end of October, with the nation going back to standard time for the four winter months of November, December, January and February.

Previously, the nation went on daylight savings time for only six months out of the year.

Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar, told reporters Monday that during the four last winter months, daylight saving had proved hazardous for school children.

The department also had learned, he said, in a study undertaken at the request of Congress, that the energy saved by daylight savings time was "very small."

At the same time, the savings was enough so that the department felt that it would be appropriate to extend daylight savings for two months longer than the six months a year it used to be in effect, he said.

It will take an act of Congress to make the recommended change.

Brinegar explained that when Congress passed the year-round daylight savings bill, it put it in effect for two years. But it also required that the Transportation Department should evaluate the results of the experiment, he said, and make recommendations on July 1, 1973, and Nov. 1, 1974.

Kennedy, son take fishing trip

DUBLIN (UPI) — "Daddy, Daddy," the boy shouted from a window of St. Vincent's Hospital when he saw Sen. Edward M. Kennedy step out of a car parked below.

The son of Massachusetts Democratic Senator Edward M. Kennedy, 42, waved at his 12-year-old son, Teddy. "How are you?"

Kennedy took his son on a fishing trip to western Ireland today after the poignant reunion at the Dublin hospital, where the youngster underwent treatment for side effects of anti-cancer drugs.

The senator met with his son at St. Vincent's Monday following his arrival at Dublin airport with several members of the Kennedy family and Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif.

Teddy entered the hospital last Thursday when he developed side effects from drugs he took to prevent a recurrence of bone cancer, which caused his right leg to be amputated below the knee last November.

Kennedy hugged his son inside the hospital. Father and son then sat down for a two-hour chat and breakfast.

The two went for a drive but returned to the hospital for further treatment before leaving on a five-day fishing

Conemara, a rugged beauty spot in western Ireland.

The treatment is routine, Kennedy said.

The senator's 14-year-old daughter, Mrs. Pat Lawford, her sister, and Tunney were included in the holiday trip.

Kennedy and his son met for 10 minutes in Dublin with Irish Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave. Cosgrave gave the senator a bound volume of his speeches on Northern Ireland.

Kennedy told Cosgrave he would not make any speeches until Parliament Northern Ireland during his visit. He has been a frequent critic of British policy in the province.

NM, Arizona fire slowed

SILVER CITY, N.M. (UPI) — With their biggest fire contained and rain clouds growing daily, firefighters were optimistic today of winning their nine-day battle against forest fires in southern New Mexico and eastern Arizona.

The 2,000-acre fire in the Gila National Forest was contained Monday and expected to be under control today, said Lee Singer, a Forest Service spokesman.

"We're getting a little bit more optimistic as the hours go by that we've got a handle on everything," he said, referring to the slope of lightning-caused fires that seared tens of thousands of acres.

However, Singer warned other "forest areas" farther north may burst into flames by coming days with the northern passage of thunderstorms.

"They are still parts of this state that are completely dry," Singer said, "and have yet to catch the dry lightning storms" that precede the onset of heavier rain storms.

In eastern Arizona and southwestern New Mexico, Singer said, the humidity has kept up and temperatures have been down a few degrees, and it has really helped us. We had a pretty good rain Monday over the thick range on the Gila.

"Southern Arizona is getting a little bit more moisture than anybody else," he said. "Temperatures are down substantially because of a lot of a cloud buildup."

Testimony heard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal jury heard testimony Monday that John D. Ehrlichman removed three sensitive documents about the 1971 Watergate break-in from White House files.

David R. Young Jr., who was a confidante of the White House plumbers' special investigative unit, described his meetings on March 27 and April 30 in 1972 with Ehrlichman, then President Nixon's domestic adviser.

He also said Ehrlichman told him Nixon viewed the operation as a national security matter.

After cross-examination of Young today, associate Watergate prosecutor William F. Sullivan said he would call Kathleen Cheney, the plumbers' secretary, in whose name their phone was listed and Bill "Butt" Krogh Jr., the other contractor.

Ehrlichman and three other men associated with the 1971 plumbers are on trial for conspiring to deprive Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist of his civil rights by breaking into his office.

Young, testifying under immunity from prosecution, said Ehrlichman initiated his approval on Aug. 11, 1971, memo for the documents removal, along with the notation that they were "assessable." That "is not traceable."

Formation forbidden

(Dispatch of the Times, London) PEKING — The Communist Party Central Committee in Peking has issued a directive forbidding formation of mass struggle organizations similar to those set up during the cultural revolution, it has been disclosed here. A poster put up by workers from Honan Province identified this as the contents of number 12 in the series of 18 directives that the party has issued for the conduct of the present political campaign. During the cultural revolution, scores of organizations sprang up in cities and towns, often warring among themselves and using violent methods. Meanwhile, the Peking municipal authorities have been accused of tearing down a poster that denigrated by a senior member of the city administration. The poster, written by Mrs. Hsueh Pao-Jen, one of the original architects of the present campaign in Peking, named Chen Shu-Huai as a "sworn follower" of the late Marshal Lin Biao. Chen was last named as a standing committee member of the municipal committee of the Communist party and a deputy secretary general of the revolutionary committee.

Boise man arrested

TWIN FALLS — Thomas David Shelcutt, 27, Boise, was arrested late Saturday by Twin Falls city police in connection with an alleged "sex" and "indecency" conduct with a minor child. Capt. Tim Qualls, chief of Twin Falls detectives, said the complaint against Shelcutt was signed Monday evening charging lewd and lascivious conduct. The alleged incident involved a five-year-old boy, Qualls said, and occurred at the intersection of Locust Street and Elizabeth Boulevard.

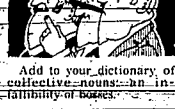

(C) Chicago Daily News (C) NBC — The question of morality in government and politics has taken the spotlight at the National Education Association's annual convention. Sen. Richard S. Schweiker (R-Pa.) called for a united front addressing the members Sunday by educators and public officials to help restore confidence because the nation seems to have gotten off the moral high road. Public confidence in American institutions has plunged, Schweiker said, with idealism replaced by cynicism. He added that educational leaders will be the key in turning this country around.

Terminating public education a "cornerstone" of American strength, Schweiker said the education system "could be the catalyst" for restoring American idealism. "I propose a partnership, a joint commitment, between public officials and educators to put America back on the moral high road," Schweiker said.

SCHWEIKER acknowledged that public officials need to be responsible for the start but restoring national values. "But in the long run, our educational leaders must hasten the training which will help their citizens — determine

Before Schweiker spoke, more than 3,000 of the approximately 10,000 convention delegates held a rally to support striking teachers in New Hampshire and Wisconsin. Participants included dozens of the 104 teachers fired by the Timberlane Regional School System in Southport, N.H. The 12 teachers, who were fired from striking Feb. 26, had made the 1,000-mile trip to the convention by marching 30 days. The Timberlane strike morality and ethics in government while the President disregards the nation's traditional high standards of morality," Mrs. Pastoret said. Historian Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., convention keynote speaker, devoted all of his 45-minute speech to the subject. "Many of the speakers and panelists leveled harsh criticism at the actions of the Nixon administration. One of the seminar speakers was Historian Henry Steele Commager, who labeled President Nixon "the most dangerous chief executive ever because he is so concerned with imperiling the constitution of the United States and Bill of Rights. There are any other Presidents who would do that."

Embarrassing

HORRABRIDGE, England (UPI) — Embarrassed carnival officials had to stop the show and refund the child viewers' 12-cent tickets minutes after the action started Sunday. The "Fun Film" purchased for the carnival turned out to be the so-called "Savage Messiah" which quickly revealed a nude actress. "I didn't take too long to realize it was too strong for youngsters," one of the organizers said.

Viet veterans plan protests

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Vietnam Veterans Against the War-Winner Soldier Operation (VVAW) will meet in a camp in the shadow of the U.S. Capitol to demand a planned week of demonstrations.

Another veterans protest group, however, has decided to ask the Supreme Court to let it come out across the street from the White House.

A VVAW spokesman said early today the group decided to stay in the Mall within the limits of the permit, which allows a 24-hour vigil as long as participants do not sleep.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Robert A. Maheu, former right-hand man to former Hughes, won the first round of his $4.5 million counterclaim suit against the billion-dollar billonaire Monday when a federal judge ruled in Maheu's favor.

Maheu, who headed Hughes' vast Nevada gambling empire until his summary living in 1972, wanted until the four-woman, two-man jury had left the courtroom before his eyes brimmed with tears and he turned to kiss his wife.

Maheu sued Hughes over the millionaire's public statement in a telephone news conference 1972 that Maheu was a dishonest son of a bitch and he stole me blind.

mentioned overpopulation and starvation as two of the three major problems that must be overcome.

It was Johnson who first said, "I tremble for the future." In 50 years the world population will have increased by more than twice and energy consumption will have increased by more than three times.

But Hughes was less pessimistic. He professed faith in the durability of the American system of government, and on President Nixon's possible role in the Watergate scandal but gave little from a speech recently given by Earl Warren, former chief justice.

Revival of sugar subsidy, control eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chairman Russell Long, D-Tex., of the Senate Finance Committee may try later this year to revive the government's sugar subsidy and control program, a spokesman said Friday.

Chairman W. R. Poage, D-Tex., of the House Agriculture Committee wrote Long recently and said he would like a bill for passage this year of a law continuing the 30-year-old sugar control and subsidy program currently scheduled to expire at the end of 1974. The House voted 269-172 earlier this month against a proposed five-year extension of the law.

decision is going to be very expensive to the American people, but I cannot believe there can be much to gain by trying to force a reversion of this decision until those who made the decision have changed their position.

An aide said Long is not ready to give up the senator said recently that he was making no immediate legislative moves but he also said to believe that eventual continuation of the revival of the sugar program in some form is necessary to the U.S. sugar industry.

Other Senate sources speculated that one of several courses open to Long might be to lack a rewritten version of sugar legislation onto the trade expansion bill.

Japanese produce costs eyed

(C) New York Times Service TATEYASHI, Japan—When Uhei Jiro, sold one of his black steers last week, he got $2.25 a pound, more by American standards though not enough to cover his costs.

By the time his meat is brought to the housewife in Tokyo, 40 miles south here, it will cost $8.90 for a pound of sirloin.

These prices are a result of Japan's archaic, inefficient farming and distribution system—a system that has intensified the punishing inflation in 12 months consumer prices have risen 25 per cent, the biggest jump in the industrial world.

Farming in Japan is not an industry—it is an unbreakable link over the feudal period, and the distribution system is a disaster, remarked an executive of a major company specializing in food products.

Except for rice, which is subsidized by the government, it would be more efficient in the long run if Japan gave up her farming, her food and industry and imported all beef and vegetables.

You would expect some problems with beef because its popularity is relatively new in Japan, but the situation is just as bad with vegetables.

Arai's Neighbors here in Tateyashi get 30 cents a pound for their cucumbers and 20 cents for eggplant. In Tokyo grocery they will bring 60 to 70 cents a pound.

Farming is so uneconomical because in an era when rising oil prices measure their value in billions of dollars and can capitalize on economies of size, the average farm is only 2.7 acres and the average cattle raiser has three animals.

With a population of 100 million squeezed into a largely mountainous country the size of California Japan simply has no space for bigger farms.

The lack of available pasture forces cattlemen to raise their animals indoors and to import 90 per cent of their feed, most of it from the United States.

Similarly, vegetable growers must import much of their fertilizer. Dependence on these imports is costly.

Export demand could decline sharply by winter and farmers are held in a tight grip caught in a falling market.

Farm Gem-gardeners warned

BOISE (UPI)—A state official said southwest Idaho residents with purple sprouting or string beans growing in their gardens should continue to look for Mexican bean beetle and Colorado potato beetle.

John Flanagan, head of the Idaho Department of Agriculture's plant industry division, said 50 infestations of the beetle have been found so far and as many as 100 are expected to be found.

The predator can identify the Mexican bean beetle by the 16 spots on its copper-orange back. The insect lays its oblong, yellow eggs on the underside of the bean plant.

Produce Prices CHICAGO (UPI)—Live cattle and frozen pork bellies were higher Friday.

CHICAGO (UPI)—Wheat and soybean prices were steady Friday.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Export sales of American farm products in the 1973 fiscal year will jump to a record of about $21 billion, about $1 billion more than previously forecast for the year, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

clude Shannon Quinlan, Boise; Jim Talbot, Castelford; and Kurt Kolthausel, Nampa.

The group held its annual business meeting during the day, awarding $500 prizes to help defray the expenses of the field day and also to pay $50 toward the expenses of the two fitting and showing winners.

The members thanked Jim Brooks, Hamilton, for making the hatters. The group's next meeting will be in February when the Idaho Angus Bull sale is held at the fairgrounds.

Injunction battled

(C) New York Times Service BAKERSFIELD, Calif.—The United Farm Workers of America AFL-CIO and Hollis Smith's United States National Bank had made to Roberts' related firms when the bank failed last October.

Miss Athine has filed a discovery order, asking the Superior Court Judge John J. DeLoach to compel Roberts to produce land deeds, lease and management arrangements, records of bank loans and liens on Roberts-owned lands held by the bank, or other regulatory agencies.

Quinlan, one of Roberts' lawyers, has opposed the request, arguing that there is an abuse of the discovery process and is simply a publicity-seeking device.

The battle has its genesis in its jurisdictional dispute between the Farm Workers and International Brotherhood of Teamsters to organize the nation's army of field hands.

Specifically, Barbara Blinn, Farm Workers lawyer, contends that Roberts may no longer be entitled to the piekling injunction because he may not be the true owner of all the lands in which there are injunctions.

She interceded that some of the lands may actually be owned by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, which assumed receivership of 100 million of dubious loans.

Oakland A's spoil Williams' return

ANNAHIM, Ill. — The Oakland A's spoiled Dick Williams' return to managing Monday night, using doubles by Sal Bando and Angel Mangual to score three runs in the eighth inning in posting a 5-3 game over the California Angels.

After California jumped ahead 3-1 in the bottom of the seventh, Williams called off loose Nolan Ryan to pitch a damper on Williams' debut party before he was out.

With one out, Bert Campanella began the A's comeback against their former boss next man, with a single. The Oakland shortstop took second on a passed ball and scored when Ryan struck his second double of the game into the right field corner. With two outs, Ryan threw out the plate to end the inning.

Bertie Eingers, who picked up for starter Dave Hamilton in the seventh, earned his seventh victory in nine decisions. Ryan, who struck out 10 and walked five, is now 10-7.

The Angels had used Dave Chalk's one out bunt to score Tom Egan from second base in the bottom of the seventh, but broke a 2-1 tie.

After being shut out for 11 innings by Hamilton,

FRANK ROBINSON, right, breaks into a big grin moments after new California Angels Manager Dick Williams announced that Robinson has been named team captain. (UPI)

Robinson named Angel captain

ASHEMETH, Ill. — Frank Robinson, the only player to ever win the MVP award in both the National and American Leagues, and a top MVP candidate, was named captain of the California Angels.

"It came out of the blue," said a delighted Robinson, who was on a hot and very athletic.

Dick Williams, who took over as Angel manager Monday, replaced the fired Bobby Winkles' sidekick, Dick Williams, who was named to the job.

Williams said Robinson made the first captain in the team's history.

"His knowledge can be very instrumental to our success," Williams said, adding the Angels look on his old club, the Oakland A's. "There's a lot more he can accomplish for the team besides with his bat."

Boyer pitches TF past Jerome 22-2

JEROME — Riding the twin hit-pitching of Jerome Boyer and strong hitting performance of the whole team, the Twin Falls American Legion baseball team clubbed Jerome 22 to 2 Monday night.

The game was becoming such a rout, that officials stopped the game after the five innings of play. The seven innings Boyer struck out seven batters and the Twin Falls defense let only one ball of the inning.

Twin Falls started the barrage by scoring five runs on six hits in the first inning. Bruce Berg started the whole thing off with a single and Ken King, King Krist and Bob Woods all followed suit with singles. Boyer added a double late in the inning.

Jerome went through four pitchers. Dick Van Dyke, Mike McAfee, Lenny Shelling and Norm Cochrane. Cochrane was most effective, striking two batters. The players hit in the last inning.

Jerome's only runs came in the third inning on a single by Dwight Heard knocking Eric in. Bruce Thomson walked and then stole home. Twin Falls then ended any rally hopes of Jerome by making a double play to get out of the inning.

Twin Falls and Hunt will clash tonight in Jerome at 8 p.m.

Two meetings of the Idaho-Fish and Game Commission are underway.

The regular quarterly meeting is scheduled in Boise beginning July 26. A public hearing will be held from 1:30-5:00 p.m. in Boise at state headquarters of the Fish and Game Department, 600 South Walnut Street.

Idaho upland game bird hunters and trappers are looking ahead to the special meeting of the Fish and Game Commission August 15 when game bird and hunting-trapping regulations will be established.

Opening dates for upland game bird and rabbit hunting seasons were set last May so that scattershotters could schedule vacation leave.

These dates are:

- Northern Idaho pheasants — October 12; Huns, chukars and quail — September 14; special chukar season (parts of Middle Fork and main Salmon rivers) — August 1-September 13; Wild game birds — September 21-September 21; mourning doves — September 1 and September and pygmy rabbits — September 1.

Jerome pitcher Boyer strikes out seven batters in the seventh inning of the game against Twin Falls.

Rob King leads Buhl by Valley

JEROME — Buhl rode the big bat of Rob King to a 17 to 4 whipping of Valley in American Legion Baseball play Monday night.

King hit three for the night on a triple, double and single and had four runs scored in.

Buhl's pitchers Mike Hamilton and Jerry Hill did their jobs. Buhl up only three hits between them in the game. In all, Buhl scored 17 runs on 19 hits.

Valley got three of its four runs on an in-park three run homer by (Iraed) Hightower. The scored Glen Williams and Mickey Banks in the fourth inning with the homer tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Williams scored Valley's last run in the top of the sixth on a past ball.

The two teams were tied three all in the end of the fourth before Buhl broke loose with four runs in the fifth and seven in the sixth.

Valley's timely Jerome tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Salmon get breaks

Salmon fishermen are getting all the breaks this year — big ones.

First, the run of spring chinook salmon entering the Columbia River from the ocean was the highest in 10 years. Indian gillnet fishing occurred anyway.

Then fish passage conditions have been bad all the way in the Columbia, Snake, Clearwater and Salmon river drainages, and the waters predators will remain high and roily during most of the salmon fishing season.

The Idaho Fish and Game Department reminds anglers that the salmon fishing season ends most places July 31 on the Salmon River and the Middle Fork of the Salmon. Unfavorable fishing conditions are predicted in the meantime.

"Everything has been against the salmon fisherman this year," says Dave Ortmann, area fisheries supervisor.

Such chinook catches at Little Goose Dam are less than half the number of fish at that point for the same period of time — 17,250 in round numbers, compared to over 55,000 in 1973.

Hunters who bag big game sheep this year in Idaho will not be required to apply to hunt this species in the future controlled hunt in the state. This is new for big game sheep, although a similar regulation for moose has been on the books for many years.

No person whose name was deleted to hunt on any controlled elk, moose, sheep, goat or antelope hunt in Idaho in 1972 or 1973 is eligible for a permit to hunt the same species this year.

Another new regulation is that the horns and front teeth of big game animals harvested this year must be presented to a conservation officer or Fish and Game Department subregional or regional office. This is for examination of the trophy and collection of biological data and must be done within five days after the close of the season.

Season opening dates for moose, sheep and goat are:

- Moose — September 1 and September 15
- Sheep — September 1 and September 15
- Goat — September 1 and September 15

Brazil feared in World Soccer Cup

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Holland, the common consent, may have played the final football in the 1974 World Soccer Cup, but Brazil emerged today as the team the remaining contenders must face.

Said West German Manager "Helmuth Schöen" "I am glad we don't have to play the Brazilians. For me, they are something like the Sphinx."

Holland meets Brazil Wednesday in the Group A match which decides which of the two teams picks the final in Munich, July 27. West Germany meets Poland to decide the Group B survivor for the championship.

Holland and West Germany need only draws to advance to the final. Their opponents must win.

Dutch supervisor John Cruyff said, "Brazil is playing better each game and every player is obeying orders. That's why I have tremendous respect and a little bit of fear for them."

Sportswriters have attacked Brazil's laborious progress through the tournament, calling it "defensive" and "miserable."

Holland manager Manager Titus Michels preferred the word "impressive." The 45 minutes of the Brazil-Argentina match I saw were most impressive. I saw very few pleats of attacking football, more than enough to believe Wednesday's match will be a decisive one."

Pole said of his countrymen:

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Lawn tennis was introduced into the United States by Mary Outerbridge, who first played the game in March, 1874, at the Staten Island Cricket and Baseball Club on the present site of the ferryhouse. The World Almanac recalls: The first saw the game being played by British Army officers in Bermuda and obtained a set which she brought to America.

Weather plays strong role in Championship

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — In rain-soaked Wimbledon, the race often goes to the strong rather than the swift.

That's because the rains play havoc with careful scheduling and tree organizers to compress a program intended for 12 days into nine or 10.

Players then are sent onto the courts once and sometimes twice a day for an entire week in singles, doubles or mixed doubles matches that become increasingly grueling as the final few near.

It's Mike's better than defending champion Jan Kodess of Czechoslovakia, who has staggered through this year's rain-drenched Wimbledon and can look forward to four tough contests in the next five days if he is to retain his title.

"One real day is not enough in these championships," he said Monday, shortly before the second round with over Australian Dick Crealy.

"It's a pity that Wimbledon cannot be extended by a day to give players more rest during the toughest stages. It is tough for everyone, but even tougher for me. I always am tired after these matches."

Retiree Mike Gibson plans for the men to play a singles match today, Wednesday and Thursday — weather permitting — with the two finalists given Friday off to prepare for their meeting Saturday.

It's not an arrangement we like," Gibson said. "We like to think that the players here are taken better care of than at any other tournament."

Adding pressure to the men will be the fact that both of the 12 seeds have played through to the fourth round, meaning whoever wins will have to beat the likes of John Newcombe, Ilie Nastase, Jimmy Connors, Stan Smith and Kodes.

The women have it even tougher. They must play every day this week in order to reach the final Friday.

"In the end it's physical fitness that wins Wimbledon," Arthur Ashe, who was eliminated Monday, said. "Mental toughness, too, but you can't be mentally tough without being physically fit."

Those few players who say they can get along without a day's rest between matches are generally short and light, like Dutchman Tom Okker.

"I don't mind it this way," he said. "You don't get so tired on grass, even in a long match, as on clay or hardcourt, and I think you can recover much faster than from a long clay court match."

But Dutch supervisor John Cruyff said, "Brazil is playing better each game and every player is obeying orders. That's why I have tremendous respect and a little bit of fear for them."

Sportswriters have attacked Brazil's laborious progress through the tournament, calling it "defensive" and "miserable."

Thirteen Americans lead Wimbledon field

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—The United States, with 13 players, leads the most international field in the history of Wimbledon tennis.

There are 14 nations represented in the 128-player field. The Australians with five and Britain with two are the only others with more than one representative.

The players come from Russia, Czechoslovakia and Romania in Eastern Europe, and Germany, France, Spain and Holland in Western Europe. Egypt represents the Middle East, Chile and Argentina represent South America and South Africa the Southern Hemisphere.

It would be nice to credit love of sport for the upsurge but the motivation in the days of amateur tennis only had moderate success with the prospect of free travel and expenses. What has every kid with access to a racket and practicing is the most potent lure of them all—money.

The remaining seeds in the men's singles included top seed John Newcombe, who is insured by the $24,000 first prize. And the attraction for the seven women's seeds, led by defending champion Billie Jean King, King of LPGA Golf, is the $16,000 winner's share of the $24,400 in awards.

The field today is without its first seed, the 16-year-old schoolgirl favorite Bjor, Borg of Sweden, who went down in straight sets Monday to Israel's El Shalev.

By general agreement this is one of the most astonishing statements yet by anyone with a chance of winning the blue prize. He has his token play as a consolation prize.

Hosoe Takuro of Osaka, Japan, took to the last 16 by beating Arthur Ashe of Miami, the eighth seed in a match played as most others were Monday afternoon.

By JIM HUMBIRD

As usual, pheasants more than double their numbers each spring.

Winter and other death hazards of the wild take approximately 70 percent of the population. This occurs whether they are hunted or given complete protection.

Nature normally overstocks pheasant ranges. Large numbers of chicks are hatched by pheasants and all other species with a high rate of turnover, the quail, grouse or wild turkey. Nature uses the up-in-large-numbers-in-fatal-situations principle.

Any game habitat is capable of supporting just so many pheasants. Quail or other species of wildlife, food range usually can support large numbers of pheasants, but whatever poor habitat can support only a small crop, if any. Every habitat has a limited capacity for game.

When game farm birds are released beyond their carrying capacity, most of the released pheasants will starve in competition with the wild population.

Japanese green pheasants are being phased out. This experimental program to introduce a pheasant that might adjust better to the ringneck pheasant range.

It lost in the first round by 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

seemed to bother Ashe more than it did him. He said he simply switched to a "sharper" service, his booming first serve being one of the hardest in the game.

With 14 matches to play in the next five days, if she is to grab all the titles, Billie Jean said she was in good shape, the fittest she ever has been physically and mentally ready. It's just a question of "keeping concentration."

Game stocking is most practical: 1. When a good habitat has been depleted or destroyed by fire or other temporary factors. 2. When such a habitat is suitable for a game species that does not exist there or is scarce.

NFL players strike — nobody notices, cares

NEW YORK (UPI)—Veteran players in the National Football League officially went on strike Monday, but hardly anybody noticed and presumably even fewer people cared.

There were no picket lines, work stoppages or mass walkouts to mark the second strike since 1970 by the NFL Players Association.

Instead, they passed the day doing pretty much what they have been doing all spring because even the first training camp isn't scheduled to open until Wednesday, and the first exhibition game still is two months away.

Mostly they spent their first day on strike talking tough. Ed Garvey, executive director of the players union, announced that the union is "scab-free" and "scab-free" practice will be kept against the owners, saying they refused to bargain in good faith and were trying to "undermine the union."

And Bill Curry of the Houston Oilers, the association president, called on the public for support to prevent the owners from imposing a pickup brand of football on them by playing exhibition games with rookies.

Drumhiss added: "We want the ability to function just like any other business or industry," said Preston Pearson, player representative of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

There are a flood of other, unresolved issues pertaining to the master player contract, such as the role of Commissioner Pete Rozelle in minor league salaries, pension and insurance coverage, but "freedom" is at the hub.

No more negotiations are presently scheduled. Rozelle said he will continue to negotiate, keeping an eye on things but referring all questions to Thompson and the NFL Management Council.

The first exhibition game is scheduled for July 26, the annual charity contest in Chicago between the College All-Stars and the Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Coach Bo Schembechler of the University of Michigan has seen three of his football assistants graduate to head coaching jobs in the past three seasons.

Chicago Tribune: "The rookies will be the next study. The situation is very comparable to four years ago, and we were able to get the game in then."

During the first strike by the players, the then champion Kansas City Chiefs were given permission to report to camp for one week during the strike to get ready to play the Chicago game.

Also, there was no World Football League '70 worry about in 1970, so the owners figured they had nothing to lose when they all agreed to keep the veterans—even those who wanted to report out of their camps en masse until the dispute was settled.

They're not doing that this time, presumably because players who have signed future contracts with the NFL—like Larry Shanks, Jim Knick and Paul Horn—will be able to play.

NEW YORK (UPI) - The stock market opened lower in moderate trading Tuesday on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue-chip stocks was off 0.47 at 1017.75 Monday after the opening bell.

Voluntarily announced to avoid $30,000 fines.

Trading has been light on the Big Board for the past several weeks.

Rising interest rates have concerned investors and kept many on the sidelines.

There has been little other news to influence the buyers.

The Dow has been threatening to go below the 800 level for the first several days.

A few investors have bought into blue-chip stocks lately in some bargain.

Carroll Righter

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 3, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Tomorrow's coming Full Moon gives you the feeling you have more to do than you can handle. To stimulate that you accomplish more than you had imagined you could. Be more organized in your efforts and this gains support.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Ask direct questions of bigwigs instead of being doubtful about what they can or will do for you. Change your attitude with kin for fine results.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Being more open-minded to the new and letting go of the past that has served its purpose is wise now. Handle small interests quickly to derive benefits.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get ready for handling matters of a practical and money nature, and make big headway. Get expert's advice on an important matter. Don't waste time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you think associates are fair with you, discuss it with them instead of fretting. Then find the right way to handle one who opposes you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get work out of the way quickly. You now have the answer on how to handle some secret anxiety and clear it up. Avoid one who only pretends to like you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Handle problems with a close tie so you can enjoy tomorrow's holiday. Make sure you know what a group is after before you accept some invitation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Straighten out any misunderstandings at home. Take care of an outside matter satisfactorily, also. Avoid one who is a troublemaker tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try to get your aims to the attention of bigwigs who can help you to further them quickly. Some new acquaintance could be helpful in your career also.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Pay bills and make collections without delay so you feel more secure. Give more attention to tax, government matters. Keep up insurance policies.

PAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get into activities that bring you more success in personal matters during day, then join with congenials socially tonight. Afternoon is best for business matters of importance.

QUINTESSENTIALS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get into the quiet of your study and make better plans for the future since your hunches are good and so are your ideas. Then start action on plans.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Listen to a good friend who has fine ideas for your progress, though not a very glamorous person. Don't permit mate to stifle you through jealousy. Be loyal to him.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... ...or she will have wonderful ideas for making a big success in life. Give as fine an education as you can to insure success, even fame. Government work is fine. Teach to be objective early and not to give in to the emotions so much for big results. Spiritual training early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Some men really need to be henpecked, you know. They like at the American Institute of Family Relations found that out. Its studies indicate that such fellows aren't dominated by their wives, they tend to get edgy. A matter of insecurity, evidently. Our Love and War man submitted the foregoing with curled lip.

RECENTLY asked a math teacher, who also happens to be the high school's basketball coach, what sort of student made the best grades in his algebra classes. He said: "Always a girl, and particularly one such a real tall brother."

Q. "WHAT'S a tennis player's favorite Goolagang's name mean?"
A. Comes from the abbreviation for those of the Kangaroo.

ERROLL GARNER
Hard to believe that Erroll Garner doesn't own a piano, isn't it?

IT'S STILL the custom among most of the people in India to bathe only in moving water, never in a sit-down tub, which is regarded here as a filthy practice.

WHEN a brother and sister are born twins, even though the brother may arrive minutes or hours earlier, it's the sister who's biologically older by about a month. Or say the medical scholars.

THE TIGER, the pig monster, the wolf, each bears the distinctive colors of orange and black. And each is dangerous to a greater or lesser degree. In the world of beige, orange and black should bear a signal for caution, say the wildlife scholars. Even the butterfly so marked, they say, tastes terrible.

BRA MARKET
It's also a known fact that the biggest markets for the padded bra are in the North.

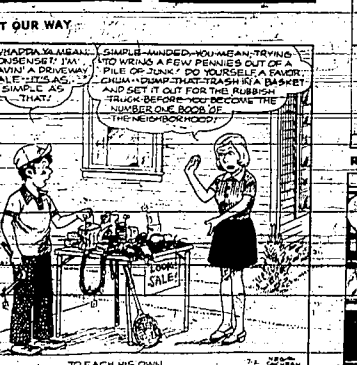

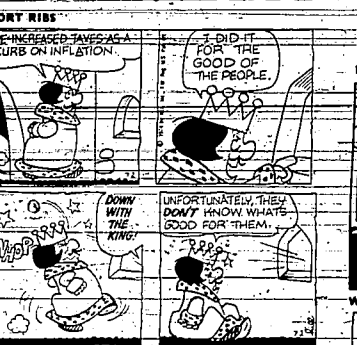

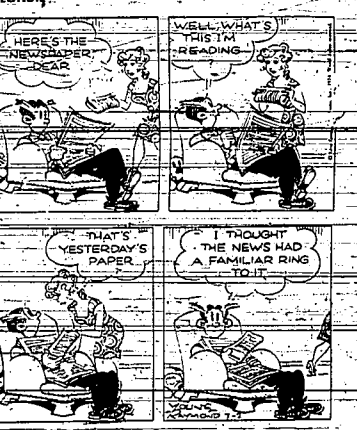

SO YOU'RE a pretty-good talker, are you? All right, repeat this three times: "Sue's Snaps for Snaps."

SIR, an adviser there's enough water in your body to fill a 10-gallon barrel at average.

NINE CHURCHES a day catch fire. Most are just about ruined. Average loss in this is a lot heavier than in almost any other sort of building. Why is clear. Such fires usually are discovered late, because they flare up when the places are unoccupied. Also, fire tends to move unchecked more quickly through the large unbroken areas of the churches than through, say, cubical office buildings.

MAJOR HOOPLE

UMW contract talks outlined

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A major walk-out by the nation's critical wage contract negotiations in the long history of the United Mine Workers' union will get under way with increased industry.

If a strike results, every American eventually might feel the results and be forced to undertake "energy saving measures" far more uncomfortable than the lowered thermostats and gasless Sundays of last winter.

Union president Arnold Miller, however, in the contract talks will be directing negotiations with a mandate from the UMW's 40th constitutional convention held last December to support a strike for as long as six months if contract demands are not met by the time the old contract expires Nov. 12. No date for starting negotiations toward a replacement contract has been set.

Miller, directing negotiations for the first time since he unseated W. A. "Tony" Boyle in a court-ordered election in 1972, will be out to impress the rank and file.

The demand for coal has never been higher, perhaps even surpassing the nation's needs during World War II, because of the many power conversions being made from gas and oil to coal.

Legislation requiring power plants and other fuel burning installations to convert from gas and petroleum to coal. The measure modifies the Clean Air Act by permitting the relaxation of anti-pollution standards.

A prolonged strike in the coal industry could be disastrous to the economy. It would affect virtually every industry,

Prime TV time for Nixon visit

MOSCOW (UPI) — From Grand Canyon to the White House, American television has had a busy week. Thanks to President Nixon's visit to the Soviet Union, the state television network is also covering the summit in U.S. style, with live broadcasts of Nixon's arrival and signing ceremonies, as well as numerous replays.

A nationwide audience already accustomed to horse and Mighty Mouse may have had a hard time following the American part in a makeshift something you don't see on the streets of the Soviet capital.

TV viewers in Moscow can't escape to their new Super without getting a healthy dose for the front pages are full of summit pictures and even the full texts of the agreements.

President Nixon's portrait and official biography were in the lower right hand corner of the 45-minute news program on the day of his arrival.

Dazed woman chases attacker

CHICAGO (UPI) — Judy Widmer was soaked with blood. But she pedaled her bike as fast as she could in a born pursuit of the man who had just attacked her with a scimitar.

Dozens of joggers, bicyclists and pedestrians shrugged at her screams for help and went about their business — although a trail of blood followed Miss Widmer's ride through Lincoln Park.

Moments before, as the 29-year-old law clerk in the Illinois Appellate Court pedaled home from work Friday, a young man leaped into her path in an underpath and swung at her with a chain.

"He threw it at me like a whip and it whopped around my head about four times," Miss Widmer said. "The lock hit my ear. I thought, 'I was dead. I was a little woozy for a couple of seconds, but my bicycle kept going and I didn't lose my balance.'"

The man grabbed at the lock, but Miss Widmer pulled away. He backed off and started to run.

"I'm sort of a strange person," Miss Widmer said. "My first reaction was, 'If this man comes after me again, he's going to kill me.' Then I thought, 'What's going to prevent him from going after somebody else? I was just as he hit me. I have this pugilistic streak in me that said, 'Go after him.'"

The suspect and Miss Widmer raced past a woman reading a newspaper on a park bench, guards taking down a flag at the Academy of Sciences, and a bus stopped at an intersection outside the park.

"For God's sake, won't somebody help me?" Miss Widmer cried.

The woman went on reading her newspaper, the guards finished taking down the flag and the bus continued along its route.

"It was the most frustrating feeling I've ever had in my life," Miss Widmer said. "People looked at me like, 'What's this crazy woman doing?'"

The breathless suspect turned up an alley and Miss Widmer followed. Suddenly, the two were alone again. The attacker turned and approached her.

"He started coming at me," she said. "There was nobody behind me."

"I said, 'Okay, everything's cool. I'm not going to do anything to you. Just put the chain down and get out of here. He believed me for some reason.'"

As the man started to back away, John McSamara, a blind man who rounded the corner and quickly overcame the suspect.

Blood was oozing from Miss Widmer's head. It was in her left eye, all over her left side and on her bicycle.

Miss Widmer ignored the blood and approached the man, a 29-year-old who later was charged with aggravated battery.

"You're just messing around with the wrong person, buddy," she said.

Museum uncovers etching by Goya

PYRAMING TALE (UPI) — A collection of etchings depicting war-time atrocities by famed 18th Century Spanish artist Francisco Goya, discovered at the Hill Street Museum.

Curator Jerold Talbot said today the etchings, printed from copper plates and signed and initialed by the author, were found in an inexpensive cardboard cover in an unmarked shell of the museum's library.

The collection, titled "The Atrocities of War," was considered an indictment of Spain around 1810, when war and corruption were rampant.

Talbot declined to put a price on the collection, but an art appraiser of Southby's Park, Boone Gallery in New York said a similar set was recently sold for about $17,000.

Talbot said the collection would be available to study by scholars but museum regulations prevent the material from being loaned out or sold.

The museum is on a 29-room mansion designed by Stanford White for steel magnate Alfred Moore Pope around the turn of the century, which was willed as a museum by his daughter, Mrs. John Wallace Hiddle, in 1939.

"Goya, a court artist at the turn of the 18th century, authored a number of works on Spain's Peninsular War with France, detailing the cruelties of wars and soldiers."

Many of his paintings and other works now hang at the Prado Museum in Madrid.
