Murder dismissed
NEW DELHI (UPI) — The king of Sikkim, husband of New York socialite Hope Cooke, has agreed to sign a document that dismisses him from an absolute monarch to a figurehead, the Indian foreign office said Wednesday.

The chogyal (religious king), Palden Thondup Namgyal, "has indicated to the Indian political officer that after further consideration he has decided to give his assent to the (Sikkim constitution) bill," an Indian Foreign Office spokesman said.

Brush fire contained
CARLSBAD (UPI) — Hundreds of firefighters today succeeded in containing a brush and forest fire which destroyed more than 1,000 acres in southeastern New Mexico.

Forest Service official Lou Armijo said "back fires" set by the firefighters during the night had succeeded in blowing the fire back on itself.

A total of 2,000 men battled the flames which destroyed forest timber and brush in the Lincoln National Forest and Carlsbad Caverns National Park.

Named the "Cottonwood Fire," the blaze burned through numerous rugged canyons before being contained. Fire crews were confident total control could be achieved by late today.

Resignation accepted
PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A federal judge Wednesday accepted the resignation of George Baker, chairman of the bankrupt Penn Central Railroad and recommended approval of his action by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Baker, 70, Boston, former dean of Harvard's Graduate School of Business Administration, requested that U.S. District Judge John P. Patterson accept the resignation effective upon qualification of John H. McArthur, 30.

Low traffic toll expected
By United Press International
As holiday vacationers crowded onto the nation's highways, safety officials hope the four-day holiday traffic death toll would be the lowest in years.

The National Safety Council estimated that from 430 to 550 persons would die in traffic accidents between 8 p.m. local time Wednesday and midnight Sunday. The estimate was the lowest the council has made in 24 years for a four-day independence day holiday weekend.

The council said reduced speed limits born of the energy crisis and lower death tolls in holidays since the crisis accounted for the reduced death toll estimate.

The record traffic death toll on a four-day Fourth of July holiday period was 760 in 1972.

Martha asks separation
NEW YORK (UPI) — Martha Mitchell, wife of former attorney general John A. Mitchell, Wednesday asked for legal separation from her husband preliminary to a suit for divorce.

According to papers filed in Manhattan Supreme Court, Mrs. Mitchell informed her husband of her request for a separation on May 21.

Mrs. Mitchell's attorney, Richard Creditor, is moving for a hearing seeking separate maintenance and alimony support for his client, said the hearing would be "preliminary to a suit for divorce."

Jury finds 8 Gem employees responsible in death of Poeatello boy
By BART QUENELL
Times News Writer
HAIL, IDAHO — A coroner's jury Wednesday found eight state employees responsible for the death of Jeff Hodgson through criminal negligence.

After the finding, Blaine County Coroner Jay Butler said he would issue arrest warrants for the eight persons. Pros. Atty. Stephen Bolter said he will review evidence presented in the inquest and a report compiled by the attorney general's office before deciding whether to file charges.

Bolter said involuntary manslaughter was the most likely charge that might be filed. He said he expects to make a decision by the first of next week.

The six-man jury found Joe Burson, Lynn Cameron, Keith Johnson, Mike Bybee, Fred Chesley, Jim Netvers, John Johnson, and Karen

US celebrates with parades, pageants, bakeoffs

By United Press International
Patriotic parades, historical pageants, fireworks, spectaculars, watermelon eating contests, apple pie bakeoffs and pet parades were some of the ways Americans celebrated the 198th anniversary of independence today.

President Nixon, in a Fourth of July message to the nation, urged Americans to promote throughout the world the "basic American message of independence, liberty and human dignity."

This would be the last big year for private fireworks displays, as strict new federal regulations could remove dangerous fireworks from the hands of most consumers.

To commemorate the event, Expo '74, at Spokane, Wash., scheduled a 2 1/2 hour fireworks display which promoters claimed would be the largest in the country.

Promoters expected a paid crowd of 20,000 to watch the display at the city's Joe Albi Stadium, with additional thousands watching from outside.

At Bristol, R.I., thousands of visitors were expected to flock to the 90-year-old seaport for its 198th Fourth of July parade, said to be the oldest such celebration in the nation.

The seaport planned an ornate display of pomp, pageantry and patriotism to begin with a 2 1/2-mile march.

The McNeil Island Federal penitentiary near Tacoma, Wash., planned to celebrate the day by staging an inmate motorcycle show, but an announcement was by invitation only.

The Southern Illinois State Fair, in Mattoon, Ill., scheduled a busy contest, free stage acts, a carnival and fireworks display.

At Charleston, W. Va., members of the Bushid family began gathering for Friday's 44th annual convention of the Bushid Family Club of America. Members from 30 states, Canada, Latin America and Lebanon were expected to attend.

A pageant was to be held at Independence Hall, where the Declaration was signed, and trials in colonial costume will fire cannons at old Ft. Mifflin on the Delaware River.

A victory chain donated by 15 watermelon and a grocery store supplied free pies for melon and pie eating contests at Seattle's civic center.

In Salt Lake City, there was to be a parade from the Utah state capitol to downtown sports arenas, where ball, square dancing, singing and shakespearean drama were scheduled.

In the nation's capital, an annual fireworks display will be staged on the Washington Monument grounds and a re-enactment of President Douglas's famous Fourth of July oration will be held at the Kennedy Center.

Shotgun wedding draws huge crowd

Rodeos, fireworks mark July 4 in Magic Valley community celebrations

Rodeos, fireworks and food mark the celebration of the nation's 198th birthday around the Magic Valley today.

Celebrations are occurring in Bull, Halley, Juntura, Glenns, Escoria and Jerome with fireworks displays only in Parknet and in Buhl.

Buhl's annual Sagebrush Days celebration ends tonight with the crowning of next year's queen at the rodeo performance. Highlights of today's events included a parade Wednesday, a shotgun wedding, and a bank robbery on main street road crowds.

In Halley, the annual Fourth of July barbecue begins at 5:30 p.m. with barbecued lamb and beef and hundreds of pounds of potato salad.

Rupert's weeklong festivities continue tonight with selection of a queen and the Inland Empire Carnival, which will go on in downtown Rupert through Saturday.

Veterans of Foreign Wars are sponsoring fireworks at dusk in Glenns Ferry. The event includes games and races, food, toothy political games and a senior citizens picnic dinner.

Jerome and Shoshone are celebrating the Fourth of July in Jerome. At 7 p.m. the town will pit their forces against each other in a ball game.

The game will be followed by a horse jamboree and dance sponsored by the Jerome Community Service. Mounted Police, Kiwanis, fife, drums or 200 yards are set, with entrants required to present a waiver signed by their parents.

The Valley-Richfield, Shoshone, and Jerome

Passes and Jerome recreation riding club and the Buhl Rodeo Riders will put on a riding show at the Jerome County Fairgrounds.

The festivities will end with a fireworks display tonight at 10 p.m. The two chambers of commerce have purchased $1,000 worth of fireworks for the display.

In Camas County, a fireworks display will be held tonight at the Fairchild City Park to night. The display is sponsored by the American Legion.

At dusk fireworks will be set off on Goat Island in the Snake River near Buhl.

In Fremont, the weekly band concert will be held tonight with George F. Cohan music. The "Stars and Stripes Forever" and the "Star Spangled Banner" included in the fare.

Factors listed for survival trip tragedy

POCAATELLO — Failure to plan for emergencies, lack of radio communication and last minute staff changes have been reported as factors contributing to a death on a survival trip.

Jeff Hodgson, 24, a local area resident, died June 30 after he became separated from a desert survival group June 10. The survival program was conducted by the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare (IDHW).

A report on the trip was released Wednesday by IDHW Assistant Atty. Gen. Don Barnett compiled the study.

Expense was a factor in not having walkie talkies on the desert trip, according to the report. In previous trips only one transistor radio unit, costing more than $1,000, was found to function properly in the field.

The report states, however, that the regional IDHW office was not aware that the survival program would not be using radio sets in the field this summer.

Activities and fun took three of the staff members out of the program, two of them just hours before the trip started. These staff members who had made special preparations for the outing were replaced by less prepared persons.

"Among the weaknesses cited in preparations for the trip were:

- an old Jeep was being used for transporting supplies with no plans of what the group should do if it were to break down. It did break down;
- no plans were established for instructing individual students what to do if they should become separated from the group;
- students participating in the program were not screened in advance of time;
- and a change of weather made worse by a water fight.

In a chronology of events, the report states that two adult leaders of the group, Fred Chesley and Karen Kinsey, split from the group June 10 to look for their scheduled eighth child at a camp in Park. Apparently plans were not coordinated for the leaders to return to the group, the report says.

The Hodgson boy and Rocky Nelson, 10, became separated when the group was out without Chesley or Kinsey. The group was led by Keith Johnson.

He said he remembered a stranger who stopped in on the group Sunday while they were still in the area, but he said there was water about three miles from where they were camped. Eighteen days later, Monday, they spotted the windmill of Shoshone Well appeared across the desert for it.

Johnson said during this time he went back to where the boys had been seen last, found a pack and tied a note to it, telling the boys where the group had gone.

The Nelson boy walked to Minidoka the next day. The Hodgson boy was found June 20, south of Split Butte.

Search and rescue workers on the scene found it hard to imagine they had missed the boy. Most were adamant out of the courtroom that the boy had been moved to the spot after the central search had been conducted.

Avram Burkett, a member of the searchers party, was in the area as early as 1:30 p.m. Tuesday. The search was started that afternoon where Johnson said he last saw the boys.

Rescue workers said during testimony it was difficult to organize the search due to the increasingly conflicting reports DECS officials gave about the incident.

Leiland Baker, vice-commander of the Minidoka Search and Rescue said at times, as many as five helicopters combined the area. The pilots said they could spot anything as small as a tin can lid on the desert floor.

Baker said the helicopters flew over the area where the boys were found, but Idaho Game and Shepherd search dogs zigzagged the area and a posse of several horses were within 100 yards of where the body was found.

Allies briefed

PARIS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger arrived in Paris today to confer with French leaders about the U.S. Soviet summit in Moscow, which he said could lead to an eventual strategic arms limitation pact.

Kissinger arrived at Orly airport at 7:10 p.m. 10-10 a.m. EDT from talks in Brussels with the Belgian premier and officials of the European Market and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Kissinger told a news conference before leaving Brussels that it had not been possible for Russia and America to balance the levels at which each one wanted to set limits, but he denied the Moscow summit produced any secret agreements.

"The next step," he said, "is to see whether by extending the current temporary limitation program over a longer time frame, whether a solution can be found and we are fairly optimistic that one can be found."

Kissinger was asked about a statement by Belgian Premier Leo Tindemans who, after breakfasting with the American secretary, told newsmen, "In armaments talks, all results are not always commensurate with the amount of time that took place in Moscow have been put before the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council today."

Kissinger said "I explained to the council the structure of the strategic arms talks. There are no secret agreements or understandings."

A spokesman pressed Kissinger as to why he was so optimistic on an eventual arms agreement, considering the relatively meager results of the summit.

"It's a short time frame, for example five years. If the pace of the current agreement, building programs on both sides may begin to operate at the end of the period," Kissinger said.

Nixon home from summit

KEY BISCAYNE, FLA. (UPI) — President Nixon is home from a summit journey which he says advanced the cause of world peace and brought the elusive goal of curbing offensive nuclear weapons significantly closer.

In the windy and rain-soaked setting of an offshore island, Nixon was welcomed back Wednesday evening by Vice President Gerald R. Ford, two bands, a liturgy with a bouquet and a cheering crowd of 4,000.

While the Spirit of '76 that had carried him 25,000 miles through the Middle East, Europe and the Soviet Union during the past month was refueled, Nixon told Americans on nationwide television he was glad to be back "from a journey that has advanced the cause of peace in the world."

After the 20-minute speech he and Mrs. Nixon, with their daughter Julie and son-in-law David Eisenhower, who had met them in Caribou, rebounded the big white and blue jet and flew to Key Biscayne where they were greeted by relatives.

They bypassed Washington, where most of the Congress had already left town for the Fourth of July holiday, but where the House Judiciary Committee is considering Nixon's impeachment, a District Court is trying the former aide John D. Ehrlichman in the Watergate case, and where the Supreme Court considers Monday whether the President can refuse prosecutors subpoenas.

Mental health service funded

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—The long-awaited federal grant for 1974-75 comprehensive mental health services for Magic Valley has been a financial success.

The Idaho Department of Health and Welfare (IDHW) announced the funding Wednesday.

The grant was announced this spring by Wes Fields, chairman of the South-Central Idaho Mental Health Unit, the association which has awarded the grant for the past four years to obtain the federal money.

The funding of the grant makes Idaho the second state in the nation to provide comprehensive mental health services for its entire population, according to the letter announcing the funding from Dr. David Johnson, regional health administrator, Seattle, Kline said, Kentucky was the first state.

The funds are earmarked for 1974-75 for 23 positions. Kline said not all these can be filled by Aug. 1. Provisions of the grant allow HAW 60 days to implement the staff. Some of the 23 positions will be filled by employees of HAW, Kline said.

The 23 positions include secretaries and of this number 10 or 12 will be located in Twin Falls, probably at the present county offices, chairman of HAW at the Child Development Center, with the rest working throughout Magic Valley.

Services will be either provided or initiated in Buhl, Jerome, Gooding, Burley, Rupert, and Halley where the Wood River clinic has been operating for several years. In some towns office locations may be found.

Kline said in some communities some mental health services have been available through the former DPHS—in Twin Falls, but the approval and funding of the federal grant will greatly expand the services.

In smaller communities throughout the region, where demand does not justify a permanent location, HAW plans on providing itinerant services, Kline said.

There are four stipulations along with the funding, but Kline said he foresees no snag in satisfying the "red-tape" on these points. They include a review of the service at the time of the service at hospitals, submission of a more detailed description of partial hospital service provision about employing Spanish-Americans and evidence of need for a drug abuse program.

To be eligible for federal funds, a local mental health center must provide five types of service: inpatient care, outpatient care, emergency treatment, education and consultation and partial care.

The grant is on an eight-year basis, subject to the availability of money, and must be reviewed annually. Funds diminish each succeeding year.

The South-Central Idaho Mental Health Unit, was legally formed as a non-profit group in 1967, the culmination of two years of effort initiated in the summer of 1969 by the Twin Falls League of Women Voters.

Interested citizens from throughout the entire county area of region have served as the nucleus for gathering the information necessary for writing the grant, which was done by a small staff headed by Don Barlow. They were paid from a smaller federal grant provided for that purpose and completed their work last summer.

Efforts to obtain mental health services for the Magic Valley have been under way intermittently for at least 20 years and at one time it was hoped that comprehensive mental health services would be provided through the Idaho Health Department at the time the Child Development Center was established in Twin Falls in about 1970.

Castleford project eyed

Construction is about to begin on Castleford, an "a" complete collection system and treatment plant.

The $2.2 million project got underway as soon as the present construction workers strike is settled, says Castleford City Engineer Al Williams. City work cost 65 percent of the total project funds come from federal grants and 15 percent from the state.

The city has adopted a $165,000 revenue bond issue to finance land acquisition, engineering, bonding attorney and other fees which will be paid through sewer charges over a 15-year period at eight percent interest.

Nelson Construction Co. has been awarded the contract for installation of sewer lines and construction of a lagoon system for the treatment of the sewage. The lagoon units will be built on land the city has purchased about 2 1/2 miles northwest of the city limits. A 20-acre site was acquired for the location of the lagoons.

The contractor has been given 150 working days after the start of construction and city officials are hoping the strike will end so workers can take advantage of summer weather to complete the excavation. Mrs. Williams said the original completion date was Oct. 1 but the strike may delay this.

In a Tuesday night council meeting, city officials authorized going ahead on installation of two additional fire hydrants. The city will hire labor to dig the trench and city crews will make the installations.

Nixon makes best of difficult Soviet trip

WASHINGTON - During a cocktail-party conversation with Pat Buchanan a couple of years back he remarked about his job as special assistant to President Nixon...

Buchanan, a former editor of the Saturday Evening Post and a fervent conservative, keeps saying one of these things. Practically every time he opens his mouth...

The grand jury of 19 persons, he reiterates, includes 17 members from a minority that voted to acquit President Nixon in the second trial.

Most juries in Washington are predominantly black because the city is more than 75 per cent black...

is wondering not loud whether the jury was motivated by political considerations. Only a hope could fall to get Buchanan's message...

Some of my professional colleagues have expressed outrage that Pat Buchanan should bring up the subject of race. Well, the subject is not pleasant...

Most juries in Washington are predominantly black because the city is more than 75 per cent black. Perhaps some philosopher will tackle the question...

Indeed, it would be a legitimate exercise for George Gallup or Louis Harris if they submitted the "evidence" in a poll of Arizonians or Mississippians...

At any rate, this is a kind of life-and-death struggle for Richard Nixon and I hold that Buchanan should not be condemned for pulling out all the stops...

After all, the public has a right to know not only the charges against the President and his men but the circumstances under which those charges were brought.

appointments to the Watergate prosecuting staff were former associates of the Bradleys Kennedy. The public has a right to know that there are professional Nixon-watchers on the House Judiciary committee...

At this writing, I don't know why on the committee has been looking and Nixon staff by the media. But it is a highly business, and predictably has led Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield a good Democrat to denounce the practice as harmful to due process...

The 1972 election was a dramatic illustration of the American Party, and Watergate has given some Democrats a golden chance that is a proper objective...

A Declaration

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another...

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights...

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights...

Aide eyes effect of black jury

NEW YORK TIMES SERVICE - President Nixon is a great admirer of Woodrow Wilson and when he goes abroad he tends to speak in the heroic idiom of the most eloquent American president of this century...

Never mind the obnoxious, the treacherous and the bankrupt of our world politics. The goal is everything. Peace in our time and our children's time...

This was a reasonable statement in itself but the theme for the President's television message from the Soviet capital...

ANDREW TULLY

For he was speaking to both the American and Soviet peoples and to the world. He could not tell them that he and Brezhnev had agreed on the control of nuclear weapons...

Disputing meetings have been held in Geneva, and the two sides have made some progress in the past few days...

With this as a backdrop, he took his approach to the Soviets. Nixon is far more cautious than he is in his opinions at home...

There would always be differences, he said. Different values, different standards, but whatever the differences, power had to be exercised together...

Nobody who has watched Nixon over the years could argue with this theme or even doubt that in that broadcast from Moscow he was anything but sincere...

This has always been the puzzle about the President. He lives in the world of roles and not of realities. He deals with the public relations of his mission to Moscow...

As a result, after his long, hard negotiations over the control of nuclear weapons, trade, Europe, the middle east and human rights...

In short, he seems to have come out ahead as he planned. He has not upset the conservatives in the congress who hold the balance of power...

In Moscow, he concentrated on the things that might bring the Russians and the Americans together - trade, culture, and their common experiments in space...

He did the same thing in his television address back home: look to the common goal of peace. He said keep the search for compromise going...

On the whole, it was a masterful performance under very difficult circumstances. Nixon is a fan of compromise...

Still Lighting the Way

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: There must be others besides myself who would like to know how we can help a member of our family in a nursing home...

They do so little exercise walking from their room to the dining room and back that they are bedridden...

It seems to me some sort of physical therapy should be required in every nursing home.

For patients, you might arrange to go to the nursing home twice a week and take your relative for walks...

When you suggest talking physical therapy, mandatory in nursing homes, I am afraid that you are asking for more than you realize...

Ford would keep Kissinger, policies

WASHINGTON - President Gerald R. Ford will be expected to announce that he will keep Henry Kissinger as Secretary of State...

The vice president undoubtedly returned to discuss the eventuality of his own resignation...

There is no question but that I would get him. I think he is a man of destiny. For all the world he is the most successful secretary of state we have had in my lifetime...

Ford has known Kissinger for some 15 years. He spoke to me many times arranged by the letter at Harvard on three occasions...

to Spiro Agnew as Vice President last December. As far as Kissinger is concerned, the probability of Ford's appointment is not a possibility...

Since then he believes he has acquired a good background in foreign policy...

Now he attends all Cabinet and National Security Council meetings as part of the regular process of keeping a Vice President informed...

Some CIA analysis that is given to the President. It is in the office when I arrive.

Usually I meet the secretary of defense formally once a month and frequently communicate with him by telephone...

Ford was an isolationist, as a very young man, but began to change during his two years on the Pacific "game" carrier...

It was in the late 50's, I remember, who switched dramatically away from isolationism...

In every stage of these oppressions, we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms. Our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury...

Now we have been wanting your attention to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by your legislators to extend an unbearable jurisdiction over us...

We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in general Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the rectitude of our intentions...

Cultured Big Brother

The Senate of the United States in all its wisdom has passed a law that all radios costing more than $15 henceforth must be able to receive both AM and FM broadcasts...

Senator John Pastore said, "you get some high class cultural music over FM."

Fortunately the measure has not reached the House yet and hopefully it will be killed there.

This is just one more example of Big Brothers in Washington knowing what is best for us.

Holiday exhortation

Editor, Times-News:
As we celebrate the 200th anniversary of our Nation's independence, we must remember that freedom is not free as it must be continually won and re-won.

What can we do to preserve our blessed freedoms and individual liberty? First, let us all praise the freedoms we have in this country. This is a choice land—choice above all others—blessed by the Almighty, our forefathers have made and kept it so. It will continue to be a land of freedom and liberty as long as we are able and willing to advance the principles on which our Constitutional Republic was founded.

Second, we must determine to stay free of debt. Citizenship demands an awareness of the debt we owe to those who procured and secured our American freedom for us. Character demands we experience the history of all mankind shows very clearly that if we are to stay free we must have a strong and vibrant nation. Third, let us reaffirm our patriotism, our love of country.

Patriotism is more than flag waving and brave words. It is how we respond to public issues. As "Taddy" Roosevelt once said, "Patriotism means to stand by the country. It does not mean to stand by the President or any other public official—save exactly to the degree in which he himself stands by the country."

It is patriotic to support him insofar as he effectively serves the country. It is unpatriotic not to oppose him to the extent that by inactivity or otherwise he fails in his duty to stand by the country.

Finally, we must rededicate our lives and our nation to God, Nations that truly love God, love freedom. History is replete with examples of once powerful nations that have forgotten God.

Candidate supports planning

By CRICKET BIRD
TWIN FALLS
Kading, Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor, favors land-use planning, but feels it must be done at a local level.

In an interview here, Mrs. Kading emphasized local land-use programs should be implemented instead of rigid state or federal programs.

Asked if she supported land-use planning legislation, Mrs. Kading answered, "I can say yes because I don't want Idaho to turn into a Las Vegas and I don't know anyone who does you can't have it both ways."

The state should have planning support on call to help in drawing up land-use plans, at the request of counties, she said, adding the state should serve as a "one-stop" resource center for local officials.

But, she rejected statewide regulations as not practical. "You cannot apply the same rule to every community," she said. "Planning should be encouraged and aided by the state, but decisions should be made at a local level," she said.

Mrs. Kading re-emphasized the need for a system of citizen feedback on governmental action and agencies. Her plans for the office of lieutenant governor call for it to become a statewide ombudsman's office.

Planning commissions would be able to call on a toll-free line, to request information or lodge complaints. "The office would be staffed by members of other state departments and offices on a rotating basis. Although she would have no legal power to force a governmental official into dealing with a citizen's problem, Mrs. Kading said public pressure from a high state official might be a very effective tool.

"The voices of the people in this state have to be heard," she said, and not just when the legislature is in session.

Speaking of the recent Republican State Convention, Mrs. Kading said, "I wish the convention had entered the Presidential Primary Initiative. In the country's political climate today, she continued, the "worst threat to the political system is the apathy that comes from disenchantment."

Burgoo time in cornbelt

FRANKLIN, Ill. (UPI) — How burgoo got here is a mystery, but every dawn on the Fourth of July, hungry masses converge on this tiny cornbelt community for a taste of the homemade soup.

Burgoo is a blend of chicken, beef, potatoes, cabbage, onions, carrots, tomatoes, rice, beans, seasoning and just about any other ingredients which happens to be in the kitchen. It's a colossal cast iron kettle used to make it.

In Franklin, it's cooked from midnight to dawn, and the homemade folk hunch correctly.

These people get real nasty sometimes, said George Hamilton, 56, president of the local Lions Club, which sponsors the annual event.

fundraiser. They say "Why don't you make more?"

But a town of 500, plus burgoo connoisseurs from surrounding communities, can only make so much. The soup has to be stirred nearly every minute it's on the fire to prevent scorching.

The recipe includes nearly a ton of chicken, a ton of beef, 1,500 pounds of fresh potatoes and hundreds of pounds of vegetables prepared by a hundred women volunteers.

By midnight, the ingredients are all in the kettles. Starting at 1 a.m., the crowd of Lions and volunteers start pouring the burgoo into containers supplied by thousands of willing motorists, who this year will pay $4 a gallon for it.

"I'll tell you this," said Bill Caldwell, 34, past chairman of the event, "burgoo is something you either like or you don't like. There's no in-between."

Viet veterans prepare rally

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vietnam veterans flooded in a flood with police Wednesday vowed to avoid further confrontations over their permit to stay on the Mall early today in order to keep their forces together for a noon rally today.

Another group of veterans, acting separately from the Vietnam Veterans Against the War-Winter Soldier Organization (VVAWWSO), also was in Washington for Independence Day, demanding improved benefits and services from the Veterans Administration.

The National Bonus March Coalition of veterans from all states planned to gather in a park several miles from the Mall, "headquarters" of the VVAWWSO and conduct a "sit-in" to protest the lack of independence day.

VVAWWSO, a more politically-oriented and leftist group, demanding unconditional amnesty and support of Cambodia and South Vietnam, planned a march to the Lincoln Memorial and another parade down Constitution Avenue to the White House.

They have had a permit for several days to conduct all-night vigils of political discussions on the Mall near the Capitol.

But Tuesday and Wednesday morning, they were threatened with arrest when some of them fell asleep in the park, a violation of the permit. Later Wednesday afternoon, police and their supporters were police lines as they tried to march through a "fish-bone" traffic to the Capitol.

A shouting match started, and police clubbed at least two protesters in the street, injuring three seriously enough to require hospitalization. Two were arrested. The demonstrators, however, were allowed to hold a small rally near the Capitol Hill.

A bearded man wearing a fatigue jacket charged police lines today. "I had five years as a member of a Viet Cong bastards. I've got more right than you have to be here."

After the VVAWWSO demonstrators were peacefully ejected from their camp, they were early Wednesday by a riot-ready federal police, they returned at daylight and marched to the Justice Department to demand universal unconditional amnesty.

Good bet

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Folks here apparently don't recognize a good opportunity when they see one or else, in this gambling capital, they are betting the authorities will never catch up with them.

Only 24 persons out of 23,000 appeared in Municipal Court to clear up a nine-year backlog.

Under the program, persons with tickets that had gone to warrant for failure to appear could have paid the face amount of the violation. The warrant would have been dismissed and a $25 penalty was imposed.

The author of the program, Judge Robert Mullen, said the poor response left him bewildered, but he promised to have court bailiffs serving arrest warrants by July 15.

Solution seen in Ethiopian crisis

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — The army pulled back from the bank of a full-fledged civil war, and the government seeks a solution to Ethiopia's worst crisis in years through the democratic process.

The military's decision followed a Wednesday confrontation between Emperor Haile Selassie, intervening directly for the first time, and leaders of the army revolt and the civilian government.

At the talks in the Jubilee Palace, the army presented five demands, including the implementation of a new constitution as soon as possible, amnesty for political prisoners, and the extension of parliament through the summer recess.

Western diplomatic sources said the army's emphasis on parliamentarism indicated moderate elements in the military had gained the upper hand over radicals and they were now prepared to seek a peaceful solution.

The meeting, which appeared to be the turning point in the crisis, was reported to have resulted in a "cease-fire" and the installation of a new cabinet.

Ababa Friday, coincided with a thinning out of troops in the capital.

Diplomats said the army might pull back further in the next few days while discussions continued with Prime Minister Endalkachew Makonnen on the makeup of a new cabinet.

The new government will probably include both military and civilian representatives, they said.

They said the soldiers would still insist that prominent Ethiopians they have arrested since Friday stand trial on charges of corruption.

Argentina mourners honor Juan Peron

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentine mourners flashing the Peronist "V" sign gathered in downtown Buenos Aires today to attend a state funeral with full military honors for President Juan Domingo Peron.

Peron's widow and successor, Maria Estela "Isabel" Peron, led the South American nation of 25 million in paying final respects to the dead president after four days of official mourning.

The 67-year-old widow, Peron's vice president, assumed leadership of the country last Saturday as her husband's health was failing. Peron died of heart and kidney disease Monday afternoon.

Tens of thousands of grieving Argentines began lining the city's broad Avenida Libero today early today to await passage of the president's casket on an army caisson.

Peron's body was to be taken from the downtown National Congressional Palace where it lay in state since Tuesday to the official presidential residence in the northern suburb of Olivos.

The government gave 12 prominent speakers 10 minutes to deliver final eulogies before the funeral march to the Olivos residence. The speakers included the nation's top political, labor and military leaders.

Russian craft docks in space

MOSCOW (UPI) — A two-man Soviet spacecraft docked with a Russian space station orbiting the earth and everything is going well, a spokesman for visiting American astronauts said today.

Moscow Radio said the manned Soyuz 11 spacecraft was launched Wednesday night to link up with the Salyut 3 space station sent into orbit June 7.

"They told us it had docked and everything was going well," said Jack Reilly, spokesman for the American astronauts training with Soviet cosmonauts for their 1973 joint Soyuz-Apollo space mission.

The radio said Soyuz 11, named by Col. Pavel Popovich and Capt. Yuri P. Artyukhin, was launched in central Asia at 9:51 p.m. Moscow time Wednesday, just four hours after President Nixon flew back to the United States from his Soviet summit.

Reilly said the U.S. astronauts had been given no advance notification of the flight but were told about this morning of their way to break fast at the Yel' Gagarin Space Center where they are training with the cosmonauts.

Brig. Gen. Thomas Stafford, the Apollo commander for the joint flight, wished them every success, Reilly said.

Diplomatic sources speculated last week about a possible Soviet manned space flight during Nixon's visit. The sources said the Kremlin presumably held off to avoid risking failure with Nixon on Soviet soil.

The flight program of the Soyuz 11 spaceship envisages joint experiments with the orbital scientific station Salyut space mission.

The launch was the first since two cosmonauts made an eight-day flight last December in a Soyuz 13 craft.

"There was no immediate official word how long the cosmonauts would remain aloft or when their craft would dock," Boris Petrov, chairman of the Intercoms Council, said Wednesday the Soviets did not plan a "prolonged flight."

Judge qualifies juror

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Judge Preston Dial has qualified one woman consisted of a criminal offense as a prospective juror in the Elmer Wayne Henley mass murder trial over the objections of both defense and prosecution attorneys.

Dial accused defense attorney Will Gray Wednesday of trying to "trick prospective jurors with his questions and began questioning them himself."

He qualified a woman to sit on the panel who was convicted on a misdemeanor last week charge although both sides wanted to dismiss her.

Dial had said earlier in the day he wanted to select 32 prospective jurors. Wednesday night, so each side could strike to Friday and the trial could begin Monday.

But when the trial recessed Wednesday until 9 a.m., Friday, only 27 of the 32 named members had been agreed on. State and defense attorneys questioned 66 persons Wednesday before Judge Dial finally called an independence day recess.

Henley is charged with killing six of the 27 young men in Houston who were lured to their sexual "torture" and eventual death.

Defense attorneys, indicated in their questioning Wednesday they intend to make the state prove the defendant and each of the six persons Henley is accused of killing and also that insanity will play a part in their defense.

"You would hold the state to the burden of proving the identity of the so-called victims in this case," Gray said.

"Even if the state proves a murder has been committed, but fails to prove who the victim was, then the verdict should be innocent."

During questioning of another prospective juror, court appointed defense attorney Rudy Esquivel of San Antonio said:

"Will you follow the law that insanity is a defense to murder? Will you follow the law that insanity is a defense to over six murders?"

84-year-old blues singer tops show

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An 84-year-old blues singer took home here all the way from Mississippi because the best blues was an unappreciated by the audience almost wrecked his life.

He wandered into the Mall and he was the only one in the audience on foot from the station Tuesday, but by Wednesday he was one of the hits of the annual Festival of Music and Dance sponsored by the Smithsonian Institution.

He got a tremendous ovation, he warbled in a cracked but vibrant voice from the stage as an untidy collection of businessmen in suits, black laborers and youths wearing only cut-off jeans appeared in silence around him in the sun.

Mississippi blues singer who has been working as a nightwatchman for a compress firm in Hattiesburg, Miss., repeatedly apologized to the crowd that he had a cold that got thunders aplauds between members straggled out on his own and had been singing the blues since he was five, the 84-year-old man with the long beard said in an interview after the show.

"I got a bad cold right now, and I don't sound as good as I usually do," he said. "Course the youngsters can't sing as good as I can sing and I'm almost 84 years old."

The crowd sampled catfish and bush puppies fried in their own grease, buried their faces in slices of watermelon for dessert, and wandered down to an cattle tent where John the Barber, a man owned by Col. Jerry Bouse of Hattiesburg, was holding under an electric fan and Don Hughes of Woodville was complaining about beef prices.

THE FOOD PEOPLE Who Care

Crowd pays tribute to Mrs. King

ATLANTA (UPI) — As mourners packed Ebenezer Baptist Church and thousands more stood outside in the hot sun, Mrs. Coretta Scott King Sr. was eulogized Wednesday near the spot where she was murdered during Sunday's services. A tribute after tribute was offered to the memory of the mother of martyred civil rights champion Martin Luther King Jr. She was pictured as the mother of "the just peaceful warrior of the 20th Century," stridently "the Rock of Ages." Organized by the wife of Vice President Gerald Ford and including civil rights leaders who had marched with her, the church for the 2 1/2 hour ceremony honoring Mrs. Alberta King, 60. Security was tight. Several of those on hand, including the slain woman's husband, reportedly were on a "target list" attributed to the accused killer. Mrs. King and a church deacon, Edward Boykin, 60, were slain by a gunman who began shooting wildly during Sunday's services. The FBI meanwhile checked out reports that the suspect, Marcus Wayne Chenail, 23, of Dayton, Ohio, was a member of a conspiracy aimed at black ministers' and civil rights leaders.

Abnormally described Mrs. King as "a tower of strength... a reservoir of courage and conviction. Through her, God gave the country and the world the most peaceful warrior of the 20th Century." Mayor Alvin R. Jackson of Atlanta, the first black to hold a major Southern city, and Mrs. King was "a Rock of Ages. No bullet will ever change that fact. She had a will that saw her through tragedy after tragedy until her own death."

The Rev. Sandy F. Ray, a close family friend, said, "Alberta was the coach of the King team... she called the signals to the sidelines." The slain woman's husband, youngest son by her, was drowned, vowed to the husband, adding, "I'm not going to quit. I'm not going to let nothing get me down."

The alleged "target list" which police said they found in Chenail's belongings included the Revs. Martin Luther King Sr., Ralph D. Abernathy, Jesse Jackson and Hosea Williams, all of whom attended the ceremony.

Clarksville draws crowd

CLARKSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — A cattle drive-through town that was supposed to show the serious economic plight of ranchers turned into a whooping, hollering show that attracted 3,000 persons. "This is the largest crowd we've had in some time in Clarksville," said Jim Harvey, 68, one of the cattle raisers who organized the affair Wednesday.

Smith observes

BARTOW, Fla. (UPI) — Charlie Smith celebrates his 132nd birthday because this is the anniversary of the day he says he was sold at the New Orleans slave market. Charlie, bald and toothless, isn't sure of his real birthday and "so" he decided "Independence Day was good a day as any for the celebration. Besides, he said, that was the day on which he was bought as a slave in 1842 by a Texas rancher named Charlie Smith, whose name he later took. He was a boy of 13 in 1842 when he was lured aboard a slave ship by a slave trader who told him he had a "father" whose name was "William" Pookes.

Charlie says, "I was never treated like a slave, though I lived in my dad's house, just like his three boys and two girls did. That's what I called Mr. Smith Dad." After he was freed from slavery, he worked in the oil fields, "drank a lot and browsed a lot." He moved to Florida during the Spanish-American war and has lived here since. Nineteen years ago, when he was 111, Social Security representatives found him at a water-picking orange. To verify his age, they sent him to Denver for examination by gerontologists, who concluded he was probably as old as he says he is.

Word war stepped up

By United Press International — Israel and the Arabs stepped up their war of words today, trading trade violation charges in a possible new front in the fragile peace in the Middle East. The Arabs accused Israel of aggression in launching reprisal raids against Palestinian targets in Lebanon. The Israelis charged Egypt with cease-fire violations in the Sinai Desert. Field Marshal Ahmed Ismail, the Egyptian war minister, said Wednesday at the opening of an Arab military conference in Cairo his nation was prepared to go to "the ultimate extreme" to defend its territory. Two hardline Arab states, Syria and Algeria, offered to station warplanes and troops in Lebanon to defend the Palestinian targets from Israeli attacks. Conference sources said Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam and Algerian Foreign Minister Abdel Aziz Bouteflika made the offers during a three-hour closed session Wednesday night.

Businesslike approach sought by candidate

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — A Republican candidate for state superintendent of public instruction is calling for a more businesslike approach to financing of education in Idaho.

Harmon Groesbeck, Idaho Falls, in a Times-News interview said, "The taxpayer is deserving of a proper financial accounting—that's meaningful. It's not just a matter of how all they hear is how to spend more money. We'll take care of the problems."

Groesbeck, is director of business and operations for Idaho State School District #1. Married with 7 children, Groesbeck has held teaching jobs in Utah, California and Idaho in elementary and secondary schools. A veteran of World War II, he served as school principal and superintendent in Payette before moving to Idaho Falls. His experience ranges from classroom schools to city classrooms.

One new businesslike approach that might be used by school administrators is the "budget system" where several years are included in budgetary calculations, Groesbeck said.

"Another major concern of Groesbeck's as superintendent would be to develop some sort of meaningful achievement criteria," he said. "The idea is to use computers, and we need responsible, acceptable, measurable techniques for showing progress." Groesbeck added, "Developing ways of showing progress that require teachers to adopt a relationship with their students similar to that between a doctor and patient, Groesbeck said.

"A business approach" is needed in education, which may require the restructuring of the whole educational system, he said, mentioning ways of showing progress, possibly making upgraded schools and scheduling more frequent and effective parent-teacher conferences.

Teachers need to be able to do a top 200 individualized program with their students, Groesbeck said. The class load per hour is not so significant as the total number of pupils a teacher sees each day. If there are too many, the teacher has no chance to develop any relationship with his students, he said.

"The candidate emphasized that any new programs should be instituted only with the backing of the community. Educators have a responsibility to respect the 'folkways and mores' of the community," he said. For example, with education programs, Groesbeck said, "in no way do I feel I can dictate to them."

"Our role as educators is to recognize the problem and recommend a solution to the boards," he said. If the patrons and taxpayers turn down a proposed solution, school officials and trustees should accept the will of the patrons," he added.

Groesbeck also advocated the use of technology in schools, computers, for instance, to do the math being brought on the market. "We're going to fall behind if we don't adopt new technology," he said.

Another idea backed by the Idaho Falls educator is a four-quarter school year, particularly in the secondary schools. Under this system, where a child would attend school three-quarters of the year, or more, if he chose, crowding would be reduced without construction of more school buildings, Groesbeck said. Students or teachers would be free to take a quarter off during the year, for vacation, work, or training, he said.

In addition, facilitating legislation should be drafted that would allow the public more use of school facilities such as school buses, buildings should be used for more public functions, Groesbeck emphasized.

Groesbeck said he feels vocational education is an extremely important part of the public school program. Legislation should be approved which would permit students under 16 to work, so they could begin training for a trade in a community business, if they desired, "the school should be open to take kids out of school, "if entirely possible," Groesbeck said, "to let them learn from the community

Wonder Dogs 4-H Club sets dog show at Burley

BURLEY — The Wonder Dogs 4-H Club will hold its first annual dog show Saturday at the Cassia County Fairgrounds.

Judging will begin at 11 a.m. with classes offered in both obedience and fitting and showing.

The show was originally planned to attract 4-H members from Magic Valley, an opportunity to evaluate their dog's performance about the various entry rules, but is being expanded to include non-4-H exhibitors also.

Since dogs are not being judged on conformation, mixed breeds as well as purebreds are eligible to be shown. Entries will be taken at the fairgrounds between 10 and 11 a.m. No entry fee is being charged.

Several local firms have donated money to provide trophies and ribbons for the event and every entry will receive at least a ribbon. Fitting and showing entries will be judged according to the six groups: sporting, blood, working, terrier, toy and non-sporting.

Mixed breeds will be entered in the group they are best suited for according to appearance and characteristics. Groups will be subdivided into classes for junior, intermediate and senior 4-H and non-4-H members.

Class winners compete for the group trophy and the opportunity to represent the group for the large championship trophy. For a dog to be eligible in this division it must be manageable and trained to trot on leash and stand and allow the judge to examine him without showing fear or resentment.

Basic of judging will be neatness and appearance of handler, grooming and condition of dog (coat, ears, teeth, nails) and the ability of handler to present dog in ring to best advantage.

Judges' interference will be judged according to the 4-H program but will also be open to any dog that has had some training or obedience.

Classes will be offered for first through fifth year. First-year dogs will be judged entirely on leash with exercises in heeling on left side of handler, come when called, stand for examination (judge approaches and touches dog and stays) in both the sit and down position.

Second-year dogs are judged the same, plus "heel off leash," and with recall and "stays," done on leash (A.K.C. program for mixed dogs).

Anyone interested in third through fifth year requirements may get further details by phoning 676-2922 or 676-3754.

Jefferson won with the club ace, played a diamond to dummy's ace and led dummy's last club. Again, East couldn't afford to ruff so Jefferson won that trick also. Now he led his small club ruffed with dummy's last trump and showed East his hand with the remark, "We said this truth to be acknowledged that you can only take one trick."

His best was required. The defense started with three rounds of hearts. Jefferson ruffed the third lead, cashed the ace and king of trumps and paused for study before playing to the next trick.

East was sure of a trump trick. It was up to Jefferson to see that the defense didn't

TF traffic panel seeks public input on mall

TWIN FALLS—Public opinion on possible closing of the downtown Twin Falls mall to all "vehicular" traffic is being sought by the Downtown Traffic and Safety Committee.

In a meeting Tuesday at the Holiday Inn, committee chairman Dick Kirkman appointed Steve Hancock, Norm Carter and Dan Oberholtzer to solicit public views on plans of the downtown merchants and the mall shoppers.

He suggested the committee use a ballot method to contact shoppers and the public in general.

Dan Miller, Twin Falls city manager, and Ed Kibbe, assistant city engineer, presented statistics showing the area is one of the most accident free three blocks in the city including the intersection of Shoshone street and Main Avenue where no traffic regulation is used.

Kibbe said in 1973 there were total of 32 accidents in the three block area including the two old intersections. Of these, seven occurred at Main and Shoshone. In 1972 the figures were 41 total accidents, 36 of them at the central intersection. So far this year, 13 accidents have been reported: four of these at Main and Shoshone.

Chief of Police Frank Bennett said this does not constitute a high hazard accident location.

Miller told the group the city has a $100,000 fund in reserve toward paying of the downtown parking improvements but this has resulted from taking all of the lighting, maintenance, parking meter servicing and other costs out of other city funds.

He said the business owners in the mall street areas would represent about $100 per motor per year which would make sense to the city in terms of obligations in the next few years.

and 5,100 per day out of the mall at the east end.

He said at the central intersection there are 8,500 vehicles daily south bound and 8,000 north bound. On Main Avenue there are 5,000 daily on the west side and 7,000 on the east side. These are one-direction traffic counts, he said.

Nearly all of the accidents in the mall area result from vehicles backing out of angle parking or from failure to yield right of way at Main Avenue and Shoshone Street, Kibbe said.

Several committee members said they believe merchants would not favor removal of parking in front of their stores.

Ann Carter, council representative on the committee, said she had been told by at least one merchant there is 35 per cent loss in business on any day the mall is closed to vehicles for such things as art shows, auto shows or other special promotions.

Committee members said they would contact persons to ask the committee or city officials for an expression of opinion on the question.

Kibbe told the committee Twin Falls has submitted a request for federal assistance totaling $220,000 in traffic improvements. He said the city would need to provide only 10 per cent of the total cost for the funding under the 1974 Highway Safety Act.

Included would be seven traffic lights for various new intersections and several replacements, he said. Kibbe said the state officials say it looks good for Twin Falls and within the next three years the grant will probably be approved.

When the mall was built, it was suggested elimination vehicles be considered after the first few years of operation with angle parking.

In connection with the accident reports, Kibbe told the committee daily traffic counts—5,200 vehicles per day out of the mall to the east

TE, Jerome gas pipeline nears finish

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Crews are completing installation of 19 miles of natural gas pipeline from Twin Falls to the Jerome area to meet increasing north-side demands. Intermountain Gas Co. officials say the installation will cost about $1.8 million and will give the company a back-up system with twin main lines now crossing Snake River Canyon. It will also double the capacity of the firm's delivery capabilities to the north-side areas, especially the Blaine County region where heavy growth is creating a growing demand for gas. William Chapman, director of commitments for Intermountain Gas, Boise, said there is no gas storage in the northwest plateau and Intermountain is assured of a supply for the coming 20 years. He said exploitation must continue to assure a supply for the 20-year period beyond that. The 19-mile line, ranging in size from 8 to 10 inches, runs from the delivery source for Intermountain at the lake-of-and-gardening station south of Twin Falls down Grandview Drive to US Highway 93-30 just west of the Twin Falls City limits where it crosses the highway. One of the cost factors of the project, Chapman said, is the need to cross US Highway 93, Rock Creek-Canyon Interstate 90 and Snake River Canyon. Ralph Hass, operations superintendent in Twin Falls, said the line will be completely underground and hidden from view except where it must cross irrigation structures and cannot go beneath them. In those cases, it will be crossed and carried above or around the structures. At Snake River Canyon, Hass said the south side canyon wall is not disturbed. A hole, 220 feet straight down inside of the rock, was bored to carry the line and casing. It is the bottom of the well, goes around the new-golf-course project and crosses Snake River on the bridge which supports the city water line. On the north side of the canyon, the approach is a trench dug in nearby said rock. Hass said the company and contractor will meet all environmental requirements to the trench will be filled and covered by rock or gravel. Small sections of pipe are exposed where they enter the canyon or where they pass irrigation structures will be filled to protect the exterior so the natural brown will blend with the environment. At Rock Creek Canyon, similar undertakings are being made with the line under the rocks which will be covered and seeded when the work is completed. Hood Construction Co., with 115 to 120 workers, has been in the area since May 6 to install the 19 miles of pipe. These will begin leaving July 10 to 20 as final stages of the work are completed. The new line will connect with the existing line just north and east of Jerome. The supply will be made available to Woodell Gooding, Shoshone, Bellevue, Hanley, Ketchum and Sun Valley. It will also supply an Idaho Power turbine generator plant being built in the Hanley area. This will be on a summer or slack season basis only and will help when the gas deliveries are at a minimum. Hass said the existing line from Jerome to Blaine County communities will be given a 10 per cent increase in pressure by tying the two lines together. Where Intermountain takes gas from the Northwest pipelines and 12 1/2 miles south of town, a new colortizer unit is also being installed. This overall project is the first major new installation since 1957 when Intermountain Gas Co. began service in this area.

Contracts not signed

RUBERT — Missidoka Valley school teachers have not signed contracts for next school year. Teacher negotiating representatives met last week with school administrators to work out a salary agreement. Their proposal will be presented to the school board in a regular meeting Monday night in executive session. Assistant Supt. Doyle Lowder said roughly 200 teachers are affected. He said the salary negotiations are now to both sides. He said the administration is confident an agreement will be reached before school begins in the fall. The administration is not concerned about it at this point, he said.

TF man sentenced

TWIN FALLS — Ernest Salazar, 48, Twin Falls, was sentenced to 90 days in jail following a conviction in Fifth Judicial District Court on a petit larceny charge. Salazar was originally charged with grand larceny in the theft of 1963 automobile from Archie Malone. The jury ruled the defendant guilty of a lesser charge. Judge James M. Cunningham sentenced Salazar to 90 days in the county jail with credit for time served prior to the trial.

Stream protection aimed

CHALLIS, Idaho (UPI) — San Frank Church, D. Idaho, says he has found concern among Idaho ranchers over stream protection on the Salmon River near Challis. The ranchers told Church the problem was that the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service has ceased making matching federal funds available to the ranchers for stream bank stabilization. The ranchers reported ASCS said that such funds will no longer be made available to ranchers along major rivers, such as the Salmon. Church assured the ranchers that he would protect the apparent Agriculture Department decision.

Reorganization eyed

BOISE (UPI) — John Bender, director of the new Department of Law Enforcement, says he expects to complete the reorganization of the department within three months. The reorganization will include bringing the Horse Racing Commission into the same building with other law enforcement functions and relocation of police services, liquor law enforcement and investigation services into a separate facility to be located on Curtis Road.

Quick action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, says he will encourage quick presidential action on congressional approval of legislation restoring the right of U.S. citizens to own gold. "I will urge the President to act under the authority of this legislation in the near future so that our own people can enjoy life-time rights to buy, sell and own gold that are enjoyed by people in other countries," Hansen said.

Study urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, has introduced legislation authorizing a Hells Canyon National Recreation Area study and a moratorium on licensing of any dams on the Middle Snake River. The bill calls for a study of recreation and wilderness potential on Forest Service lands surrounding Hells Canyon, Symms said Wednesday. The legislation directs the Forest Service to continue present uses of the lands within the study area through Sept. 30, 1978, and places the moratorium on dams during that period.

Legion convention set

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho American Legion department commander Percy J. Voyles, Centello, will preside over all Legion convention sessions beginning Thursday, July 11 and concluding Saturday, July 13. Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and the national commander of the American Legion, Robert E. Eglon of Maryland, will be the featured speakers at the convention to be held in Turley.

Prisoner back behind bars

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Convicted killer Carl Eltous Bowles is back behind prison bars. Bowles arrived at the Idaho State Penitentiary at Boise Wednesday evening from Coeur d'Alene to begin serving his 75-year sentence for three counts of kidnaping. Two officers from the Idaho Department of Corrections picked up Bowles at Kootenai Memorial Hospital Wednesday morning. He was handcuffed in the backseat of a station wagon for the 100-mile trip to Boise. Garland Drewrey, assistant superintendent of operations, said "no special provisions" had been made for Bowles, and if reports he had received were correct, Bowles would be spending some time in the prison hospital.

Salvage expert begins search

TWIN FALLS — An underwater salvage expert from Arizona is going to search for Evel Knievel's ill-fated Skydiver. Robert Ruby from Scottsdale was here because he thought Knievel was going to launch skydive II, but the revised model on the fourth of July. By chance, he heard of the $5,000 reward offered by Knievel for the return of the sunken craft. Ruby says he has 10 years of experience in underwater salvage and has made dives in the Mexican waters, the Pacific Ocean and in lakes and streams. Armed with current charts and scuba diving equipment he hoped to locate the aluminum vehicle which fell to the bottom of the Snake River during last fall's practice flight. Knievel was not in the cycle during the test run.

Agency releases desert death report

THE REPORT — At 3:30 p.m. Keith Johnson decided that it would be in the students' interest to move off the lava flows and search for a source of water. He apparently abandoned or disregarded any plan for establishing a rendezvous with the jeep. A jeep was parked at Yopi Park with water, which was the original destination. After 4:30 p.m., following a rest stop, the group resumed its hike and ultimately encountered a road. It is unclear whether or not Rocky and Jeff were with the group at the time it reached the road. Several of the students recall that Rocky and Jeff were with the group at the edge of the lavas when the group moved toward the road. The group movement was characterized by the presence of a dead grouse at the front with Keith Johnson moving up and down the line to talk to the students, raise their morale, and attend to their problems. At this time according to inquest testimony, no one in the group had water. "One of the girls was vomiting, the other was lying, and two of the boys apparently were suffering from near exhaustion. Consequently it appears that an adult was at the rear of the group much of the time, but not always. Meanwhile the group continued on to a place where a fence intersected the road. Johnson returned to that point and announced he could not find the boys but said he had left a blue bandana with a gale attached to the fence. The group went on to where they spotted the top of the Schrade Well Windmill according to the report. They left the road and walked toward the well arriving at 9 p.m., the report says. The group camped there, the report said. "Meanwhile the adults prepared a meal for the students, and decided that, since it might be falling, a vigorous effort to find the boys would be postponed until daybreak. The report said search and rescue units were in the area Tuesday afternoon following radio transmission from Crystal Ice Caves by one of the leaders, Jim Peterson. The report said several facts were confusing in the investigation. The circumstances under which Rocky, Nelson and Jeff Hodgson parted ways after becoming separated from the main group remain unclear. Rocky's statement to this inquest indicated the two boys had accompanied the group to the point where the road was encountered after leaving the lava flows. "He stated that they trailed the group until they reached a grassy area where the road disappeared and Rocky stated that he left Jeff at this point and walked forward a short distance which he estimated to be about 25 steps and found where the road resumed; but when he returned to the spot where he had left Jeff, Jeff had disappeared and two packs which the boys had dropped when stopping were also gone. During the report interview, Rocky frequently made confusing statements concerning time and distance. Peterson consistently stated this author was unable to attribute great weight to the details of the boy's statement. The report goes on to say DECS had conducted several similar programs with some success. The report says Johnson had been in an accident in 1970 which caused the dissolution of his business in 1971. His physicians advised the family that the head injury might have residual effect upon his personality and speech pattern. At a later date the family did not notice any marked change of personality, and noted only a slight degree of hesitancy in speech. This impairment was not found to be consequential in daily affairs by a psychologist in Pocatello, the report said.

Scholarship eyed

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — A new $10,000 memorial award fund at the University of Idaho will allow one or possibly two students to receive a scholarship for use during the student's senior year. The award fund was established at the university's college of engineering by the family of the late Harold T. Nelson, a former Bureau of Reclamation Pacific Northwest region director.

Shoshone city dump burning must stop

SHOSHONE — Burning at the city dump must stop, Shoshone city officials announced Tuesday night. Mayor E. R. Werry said Wednesday that some individuals have been burning trash at the site. Cost of controlling the last fire that resulted from burning there was $400, according to the Bureau of Land Management. In the future, costs of suppressing fires resulting from the dump, either on city owned or federal property, will be billed the city, Mayor Werry said. Meeting with the council Tuesday night was BLM district manager, Charles Haszler, and assistant manager, Donald Skowen. Means of controlling the problem were discussed in detail. A sanitary landfill with an attendant on duty during hours when the fill would be open to the public was recommended. Since a satisfactory solution cannot be worked out immediately, city officials ordered all burning stopped. Mayor Werry said to help in control of the problem, the city and BLM will provide surveillance and an attempt be made to determine land who is setting the fires and then to prosecute these persons. State law labels starting fires of this nature as a felony. An other business at the council meeting, a report from magistrate's court showed $74.25 for the month of May and $7.20 for the month of June as the city's share of fines and fees. Burning permits were issued to Roy Hayes for a garage on lot 2 of Kilsler Addition, Edwain

Anderson, new home on lots 48-51, View Addition, James Scott, new home, 10 1/2 Mile View Addition, Alfred H. Kristol, remodeled home on Lot 1 in Block 10 Original Townsite, and Oliver Priddy to move mobile home to lots 67 in Block 10, Shoshone Townsite. Applications for water service were approved for Oliver Payne to the mobile home, and Evans Knight for the new residence in the Matt Valley addition. Since backing the city garbage truck out of dead-end alleys is becoming dangerous, the city is going to send notice to persons residing along areas where collection of garbage is in these dead-end areas. The notice will designate a change-of-pickup point for garbage, at least on a trial basis.

Barndorff permits were issued to Ray Tanaka, Marie Tanaka, Dora Perron, Harold Perron, Gilbert Aquila, Lois Stenmark, Gail Reeves, Hazel Cole, Marvin Cole, Charlene Chisham, Donald Chisham, Martin Schroeder, Patsy J. Newey, Wallace K. Pond and Sharon W. Pond. Methods of conserving water was considered by the council. To initiate the savings the city will look into the possibility of irrigating the entire city park from the river water rights. Only water in the park is irrigated from the river, now with the remainder coming from the deep well city system. The city also encourages all other institutions and individuals who have such rights to use them and thus relieve the drain on the city system.

One searcher testified he was on the road Wednesday afternoon about 9:30 yards from the spot. The body, however, was found over a small road and could not be seen from the road. Tuesday night several vehicles were positioned in spots with search lights pointing upward throughout the night. Baker said he said several repeated blasts on horns were heard. In addition, he said several hundred people joined the search on foot, but no leads were turned up. Two bloodhounds tracked young Hodgson along the road where he was reportedly killed but lost his scent. The search was called off on Monday, June 17. Thursday the body was found by a nearby DECS employee who said he had dreamed of the spot where Jeff's body was found. Gerald Sturm took him to the body. He said, upon reaching the vicinity, he "knew he had been there before." He was referring to a dream he had had on Tuesday. He said he saw the boy's shirt from the road he was walking and found his socks and boots further on. He then stepped up over the knoll and saw the body, he said. "I stepped up over and could smell him. Stenmark was the first to see the body. Sturm said he did not see the body until he stepped up over the small knoll of rocks. In testimony later, Blaine County Sheriff's Deputy Don Green said the story told him by Rocky Nelson was to see Jeff was not consistent with what he told others. He said Rocky's testimony on the stand Tuesday differed from earlier versions. Green read a diary belonging to Jeff after the body was found but it had only the first day's entry in it. Hodgson's parents said the handwriting was not their son's, although the book was the one Clyde Hodgson gave his son before he went on the trip.

Offers differ

By United Press International
Ratification of a strike ending proposal from the Associated General Contractors may have broken a promise made to representatives of the five basic craft unions. John Kinghorn, executive secretary-treasurer of the Typographical Union of America, pledged more money than the other craft unions. Ironworkers Wednesday evening rallied an agreement which included 22 cent annual increases in wages the first year and $2 more in the second year, less than the other union members received. Kinghorn said the AGC "absolutely assured us that the wage offer they were giving us was the maximum and they would not give any more to any other craft."

John Newcombe, King ousted at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—It was the day of the long knives at Wimbledon Wednesday and when the carnage was over, Billie Jean King, Evonne Cawley and John Newcombe were gone and an almost 40-year-old was making the one last long run at the title he wants most in the all-English world.

Tim Ken Rosewall carved Newcombe to pieces in four sets—winning one of them at love—a 25-year-old Russian, Olga Morozova, outed John Billie King, the "strident" ace, and Kerry Melville outdissected Evonne.

When the smoke had cleared, three Americans had reached the last four. In the men's singles, it was not much by the U.S. since 1947 when Jack Kramer, Tom Brown and Budgie Patty gained the semi-finals. Evonne Cawley was the unlikely third member of this year's trio when he finished up the day of upsets by blasting Russia's 10th seeded Alex Metkewell off the court to join Jimmy Connors and Stan Smith in the semi-finals.

Smith, in the semi-finals, next will meet Connors and the towering Smith will try to crash the day. Rosewall's dream of becoming the oldest man ever to win the world's premier tennis event.

Connors, the third seed from Beverly Hills, Calif., is defending champion Jan Kodeš of Czechoslovakia, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3; Smith, the fourth seed and 1972 title winner from Sea Pines, S.C., stopped instead of killer Ishaq El Shafie of Egypt, 9-8, 7-5, 6-4, 7-5, while the unseeded Stockton, of Port Washington, N.Y. toyed with Metkewell, 6-1, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1.

But the biggest sensation of all was provided by the 39-year-old Rosewall, 20 years after he appeared in the first of his losing finals, when he defeated three-time winner and title favorite Newcombe, 6-1, 6-0, 7-5.

Mrs. King, the defending champion seeking her sixth title, lost her temper and the match, 7-5, 6-2 to the eighth seeded Mrs. Morozova.

But Chris Evert kept pace with her boy friend Connors by beating by 6-2, 6-2, over unseeded Helga Masthoff of Germany.

In other matches, the sixth seeded Miss Melville of Australia took command of third seeded Miss Gooding, 9-7, 1-6, 6-2, while Briton's Virginia Wade, the fifth seed, defeated unseeded South African teenager Linky Joubert, 6-2, 6-1.

Rosewall, winner of four Australian two U.S., French and WCT titles but always a loser here, broke Newcombe's heart with his return of service and his brilliant backhand passing shots.

In the third set, Newcombe, the reigning U.S. and WCT champion, was able to win 12 points. Whatever he did it was not enough against an

San Francisco edges Padres

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Gary Matthews homered leading off the bottom of the 10th inning for his fourth hit of the game Wednesday, lifting the San Francisco Giants to a 3-2 victory over the San Diego Padres and out of the National League West cellar.

The blow, Matthews' seventh homer of the season, came off reliever—Vicente Romo—and snapped a Padres' streak. Randy Moffatt, who pitched two shutout relief innings, gained credit for his third victory in six decisions. The loss was Romo's fourth in eight decisions.

The Giants tied the score in the eighth on a pinch-hit single by Steve Garvey. Matthews' hit hit the Padres' seamstress and worked out or a bashed double situation.

Prior to Orioles' hit Tito Fuentes had driven the ball through the middle.

Dave Freisleben speared it on the line and threw to third to complete the double play.

Stargell bats Pirates to win

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Willie Stargell led off the ninth inning with his two-run homer Wednesday night to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-1 victory over the Montreal Expos for their sixth win in a row and their 14th straight at home.

Jerry Reuss, who had scattered seven hits to pick up his seventh victory in his last eight decisions, John Montague, who gave up the home run to Stargell and was tagged with the loss.

The Expos took a 1-0 lead in the third inning when Tom Hunt singled, Lou Lick hit a sacrifice bunt and Tony Perez scored.

The Pirates tied it in the same inning, loading the bases with none out on singles by Willie Stargell and Mack Mondesa and a sacrifice bunt by Reuss, which was bobbed for an error by Hunt. Stennett scored as Gene Clines capped into a double play.

Reds, Dodgers split twin bill

CINCINNATI (UPI)—The Cincinnati Reds ended a string of seven straight losses to the Los Angeles Dodgers Wednesday night when Don Gullett pitched a 6-0 shutout in the second game of a doubleheader after the Reds lost the opener, 4-1.

Gullett, against his eighth game winning his 15th, sacrificed the Dodgers to four hits, struck out seven and walked four. He was supported by a nine-hit attack which included homers by Pete Rose and Joe Morgan.

Rose's homer, his second of the season, led off the fifth and broke up a "secret" deal between Gullett and loser Doug Haskins. Haskins, in conception and Morgan and Tony Perez sacrificed fly balls to the Reds' second run in the inning.

The Reds added four more runs in the sixth inning off Charlie Hough. Concepcion singled home two runs in the third hit of the game and Morgan played with his 10th homer of the season.

Mike Marshall ran his record string of mound appearances to 31 by retiring the last two batters in the ninth inning of the first game.

Tommy John's 12th victory against Dodgers.

John yielded only five hits before his departure. One of them was a two-run homer by Tony Perez in the seventh inning, spoiling the Dodgers' bid for a shutout.

San Francisco edges Padres

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Gary Matthews homered leading off the bottom of the 10th inning for his fourth hit of the game Wednesday, lifting the San Francisco Giants to a 3-2 victory over the San Diego Padres and out of the National League West cellar.

The blow, Matthews' seventh homer of the season, came off reliever—Vicente Romo—and snapped a Padres' streak. Randy Moffatt, who pitched two shutout relief innings, gained credit for his third victory in six decisions. The loss was Romo's fourth in eight decisions.

The Giants tied the score in the eighth on a pinch-hit single by Steve Garvey. Matthews' hit hit the Padres' seamstress and worked out or a bashed double situation.

Prior to Orioles' hit Tito Fuentes had driven the ball through the middle.

Dave Freisleben speared it on the line and threw to third to complete the double play.

Stargell bats Pirates to win

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Willie Stargell led off the ninth inning with his two-run homer Wednesday night to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-1 victory over the Montreal Expos for their sixth win in a row and their 14th straight at home.

Jerry Reuss, who had scattered seven hits to pick up his seventh victory in his last eight decisions, John Montague, who gave up the home run to Stargell and was tagged with the loss.

Rangers defeat Minnesota 7-1

BLOOMINGTON (UPI)—Oscar Tovar celebrated his 34th birthday by driving in four runs on three hits against his old, native Texas Rangers Tuesday night.

The Rangers took a 4-0 lead in the second inning as Tom Ervin walked to first and Jim Sundberg filled the bases. Grieve and Pregoski scored on Tovar's two-run single to right.

The Astros had put the game into extra innings in the ninth with a two-run homer by pinch-hitter Cliff Johnson.

Ervin led off the bottom of the ninth with a sacrifice bunt to first by Danuel Evans. Dave Johnson and Marty Perez were both in the lineup.

Ervin walked to lead the ninth. Johnson was hit by pitcher Johnny Oates.

Amp, who was called in for home run champion, worked the count to 1-2, then drove the ball into the outfield deep enough to allow Baker to score easily.

Orioles sweep pair from Boston

BOSTON (UPI)—Paul Blair pitched a four-run first inning Wednesday night with two runs, a double, to give the Baltimore Orioles a 6-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox for a sweep of their doubleheader.

In the first game, Don Baylor got three hits, knocked in two runs and scored two as the Orioles collected 14 hits en route to a 9-2 triumph.

The double victory moved the Orioles to within 2 1/2 games of the first place, ahead of Sox in the American League East.

Dave McNally, who was ejected from the first game in a dispute with first base umpire Hank Homansky over two balks, returned in the nightcap and protected the Orioles' triumph by pitching out of a bases-loaded out-jump in the ninth.

McNally, who has not gotten credit for the win in the opener when he was booted in the first inning; took over for reliever Bob Ryan in the ninth inning and got Curt Yastrzemski to line out with the bases loaded, then retired Bernie Carbo on a forefoot to end the game.

The Orioles jumped on Reggie Cleveland for four hits in the first inning of the nightcap. An error by Cecil Cooper and singles by Rich Coker and Jim Fregoski, after a walk to Boog Powell, Baylor and Blair delivered back-to-back doubles.

WFL is denying switches

BIRMINGHAM (UPI)—The World Football League and the Birmingham Americans Wednesday both denied Dallas Cowboy players Rayfield Wright and Jethro Pugh had jumped to the new league, but there was obviously some difference of opinion.

A secretary in the WFL office at Newport Beach, Calif., told Samantha Stevenson of radio station WFAA in Dallas Wednesday that WFL officials contacted contract dealer April 15 signed by Wright, an all-pro offensive lineman, and Pugh, the Cowboys' fullback.

Later, however, the league office changed its story and said they had no contracts from Pugh and Wright and that they would not comment further.

A spokesman for the Birmingham Americans told UPI that the knew of no such signings.

"This must be some sort of false information, here," said Carol Stallworth of the Americans. "I've spoken with the WFL director of player personnel and he didn't know of anything concerning these two players."

"Pugh and Wright are still on our protected list."

Connors sues promoters

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jimmy Connors, the renowned tennis player in the United States, filed a $10 million lawsuit in federal court Wednesday against tennis promoters and sponsors Jack Kramer, Donald Dell, the Commercial Union Assurance Company and other unnamed parties.

The suit claims violations of the federal antitrust laws as well as "interference with Connors' right to pursue a career in professional tennis."

Connors' business agent Bill Riordan said in a statement: "My client was lured from the Italian and French national championships last month because of the efforts of these defendants to monopolize the tennis world."

The sale ground of that suit was that Connors is a member of World Team Tennis, and he will not stand by when his career is being injured in such a discriminatory way and a flagrantly unlawful manner.

Ed Sneed fires 66 for early lead in Milwaukee tourney

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Ed Sneed, shooting his best round of golf this year, pulled a 66 to score a six under par 66 for a two-stroke lead in the first round of the Greater Milwaukee Open Wednesday.

Sneed finished seven holes an over par only once before a shift wind that belated other golfers on the 7,000-yard Tuckaway Country Club

Curtis Silford and Tommy Aaron were tied in second place at 68 and Bob Zender was all alone at 69.

Larry Hinson, Tom Shaw, Cesar Sando, Bob Greenwood and Rick Rhoads had 70s, and were in play. Including Lee Trevino and Sam Sneed, 17 players for a total of 21 subpar rounds.

The last three tournaments on the tour were won with above par scores and the pros talked earlier in the week of a reversal in the lead here, but the low number of subpar rounds was disappointing.

Sneed blamed the wind, which was blowing about 15 miles per hour and cutting in. Trevino said, "I like that wind."

Trevino, the only superstar golfer here since the others have already left for the British Open next week, had three bogeys on the front nine and three more on the back.

But he also came out for three birdies and sank a 35-footer on the par five 18th for an eagle to recover and stay in the race.

"I can't say I did it well when I made five birdies and an eagle," he said.

Aaron was one who felt the wind "definitely a factor." But he admitted it was "the first good round I've had in a long time. I played pretty good from tee to green."

Silford disagreed, about the wind.

"It didn't bother me," he said, adding he was concentrating more on his own problems than the conditions.

"I've been practicing a lot," he said. "I missed the cut in the last seven tournaments and had thought about quitting. But I changed my mind—this is what I want to do."

"I'm not a good wind player," said Sneed, whose 66 was on the board early and held up the rest of the day.

But I handled it well today."

"I had a good swing today and I pulled" superbly," he said, recalling the 15-footer he sank on No. 1 and the 20-footer he cannoned on the 18th green.

The $130,000 tournament offers a top prize of $25,000.

It was a 3,000-swing today and "I pulled" superbly," he said, recalling the 15-footer he sank on No. 1 and the 20-footer he cannoned on the 18th green.

David Pearson gains pole spot from Allison

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — David Pearson took the pole position from Bobby Allison in the Firecracker 400 Wednesday by about three inches and takes the coveted role into Thursday's race.

Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., was clocked at 190.759 miles per hour Wednesday in qualifying laps, a one-thousandth of a second faster than Allison who was the fastest qualifier Tuesday.

Track officials calculated that the margin by which Pearson nosed out Allison for the favored pole position was about three inches.

Asked if they own, Mr. driver who is driving a borrowed Matador from Roger Penske, seemed unperturbed over his loss of the pole position.

"I don't think it's that much of a loss," said Allison in the garage area at Daytona International Speedway. "There may be a slight psychological advantage and, of course, there's the extra $1,000 that goes to the pole sitter. But you've got a good shot at the race if you're anywhere in the top five."

Pearson, who is aiming for his third straight Firecracker win, said he thought he was going to do better in his qualifying lap.

"We expected to run 181 or better, especially after practice Tuesday," Pearson said. "But the track was hotter today and the rain had washed out the rubber on the track."

Bobby Allison, and his younger brother, Donnie, had held the inside and outside pole positions overnight until Pearson bumped them back into second and third place with his faster speed.

The Allison's clocked their

Just lap times during the first day of qualifying Tuesday before persistent rains washed out time trials of the 2.5-mile oval.

Bobby Allison's time of 190.755 m.p.h. was something of a surprise since the Matador he is driving has never done top in the high-groove racing

In such Grand National races as Daytona, which has turned banked at 20 degrees.

Holland defeats Brazil to reach world finals

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Holland defeated defending champion Brazil, 2-0, in a bruising, bloody battle and West Germany slithered past Poland, 4-0, in a squaggy match to reach Saturday's World Cup championship final in Munich.

It will be the Dutchmen's first appearance in the final, but the second in three tournaments for the West German favorites.

John Neeskens, knocked unconscious by a punch from a Brazilian defender in the first half, bounced back to score Holland's opening goal in the 39th minute. Dutch super star Johan Cruyff put the icing on the cake with the second goal in the 57th minute.

Heal-faced, he relied in ill-tempered fashion. Fullback Luis Pereira was sent off 10 minutes from the end for a brutal tackle on Neeskens, who faintly thumped out a 22-degree marshaled by Franz Marla and Francisco Marinho, Brazilian who decorated Neeskens in the first half, were also booked.

The match was punctuated by ugly fouls from the opening whistle and West German referee Kurt Tashenicher could have used some of the peacemaking skills of Henry Kissinger, the U.S. secretary of State, who flew in to the Dortmund stadium from Moscow to watch the match.

In Frankfurt, Gerd Mueller, the man West Germans fans call "Der Bomber" got the lone goal in the 78th minute of a match which bordered on a farce because of a waterlogged field.

Polish goalkeeper Jan Tomaszewski saved his second consecutive penalty shot of the tournament when he tipped away a kick by Uli Hoessgen. But the Polish, who needed a win to reach the final, were felled by a tight West German defense marshaled by Franz Beckenbauer and two superb saves by goalie Sepp Maier.

Brazil, flustered in its best performance of the tournament against the Dutch and Rivelino, Paulo Cesar, and Jairzinho often had the Dutch defense in a tangle in the first half. But as the game went on, the Brazilians began to play the man and not the ball, and several off-the-ball fouls made managers fume.

Shortly before halftime Marinho hit Neeskens behind the referee's back as the players were walking upfield for a goalkick. Neeskens lay stretched out for four or five minutes before the Dutch trainers could bring him round.

Pereira's hip-thigh tackle on Neeskens in the second half followed his rudy tackle on Cruyff in the first and the referee never hesitated in showing the huge Brazilian the way to the dressing rooms.

On the way Pereira got into a shouting match with a section of the crowd and had to be hustled into the showers. The fouls were not all one-sided, however, and Johnny Rep and Wim Labadie also received yellow cards.

Despite its rough manners, Kissinger said he enjoyed the game. "It was a great game. I was very impressed with Cruyff," he said. "I wish we had left the stadium."

Dutch manager Rinus Michels strongly condemned the Brazilian tactics.

"Brazil not only lost its title but also its honor," said Michels.

Mario Zagalo, Brazil's gray-haired manager, said the match was the real final.

"Holland is the best team in the world," conceded Zagalo.

"The violence was the fault of the referee who was not up to his task. He started making mistakes, lost his momentary control of the game," said Zagalo.

Close battle seen for Rupert amateur

HUPERT, another close battle is expected in the year for the Rupert Amateur Club Championship with a strong contingent of championship fighters already signed up.

There is also a strong possibility of a new champion as 1974 winner Carl Ayres Caldwell has not yet returned to defend his title. But the championship that will not be without talent as last year's first round leader Dave Driscoll, Twin Falls, will be on hand as well as steady Jim Purvis, also of Twin Falls. Mike Cameron, formerly well known in Toolson, Rupert, and probably not Spencer, is back.

Toolson earned the best round of the tournament last year, ripping off a 69 on Sunday to finish in a tie for second.

Carl Jones, Rupert Country Club Pro, said entrants must call in for Saturday teatime. He said he expects to keep the entry to around 100 players for festive play this year.

As far as possible, are expected to be played in the Championship flight and gross and net in the other flights.

Players will be grouped by handicap and paired for Sunday's round by scores from the first three flights.

Jones said about 80 players had signed up for the tournament as of Wednesday morning.

Painting recorded

THIS painting, "The Downs" by Peter Moran, is in the permanent collection of The Boise Gallery of Art. It is one of the Idaho paintings being recorded in the Smithsonian Institution's Inventory of American paintings executed before 1914.

Boise gallery seeks art

TWIN FALLS — The Boise Gallery of Art is searching for original oil paintings, watercolors, or pastels over 50 years old.

The gallery is assisting the Smithsonian Institution in preparing for the 50th anniversary of the centennial celebration. An inventory of all American paintings, executed before 1914 in Idaho is being taken.

The gallery is not looking for reproductions because the originals have most likely been recorded.

Federal land use plans hit by Hansen

TWIN FALLS — There is absolutely no need, nor justification for federal land-use planning legislation, George Hansen said at the Republican picnic in Twin Falls today.

Hansen, who has opposed OSHA since its creation over 180 years ago, said he "loathes both political parties in their expressed concern for strong and adequate health and safety regulations but insisted, "they must be handled at the most appropriate level in government, they must be administered in helpful and not coercive fashion, and they must provide for the rights of citizens under the process of law."

Writers will be traveling throughout the state in August to examine and record these paintings. She says she would like to receive responses before then, but those that are omitted from the record.

Delegates scored by candidate

KEITH HOLVE

Holve criticized the Supreme Court and the Presidential Preference Primary drive which were not given official backing at the recent state Republican convention.

Ketchum theater toured

KETCHUM — A newly opened theater in Ketchum may be shut down this week as a result of the city building inspector's tour Tuesday.

Fire Chief Bill Brand said the roundabout Gagn Hollows Hall, which began showing movies Saturday is inadequately protected against fire.

Brand said the theater should install stand pipes inside the building so a blaze could be controlled before the fire department arrives.

Brand said a fire department inspection upon completion will file an injunction against him.

However, Brand said the injunction would be filed this week if Kessler continues to show movies there.

John Conroy, building inspector, said "The city is not going to let Kessler run without stand pipes."

Brand said a fire department inspection upon completion will file an injunction against him.

Sen. Humphrey called 'burglar'

TWIN FALLS — Don Winder, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, charged Sen. Humphrey today with "burglary" Monday in Boise.

Winder said that "Humphrey has been traveling the region and breadth of our great nation attacking the Republican Party and many of its candidates with engaging in highly questionable fund raising tactics, when in fact he himself has had the most sought-after literary in the political field."

Mitchell said likely to testify in House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House lawyers said today they expect former Attorney General John N. Mitchell will testify before the House Judiciary Committee on Tuesday.

All 12 members of the committee are expected to question Mitchell, his attorneys and the Watergate burglars.

But some members of the committee, including Mitchell, might balk at testifying if the questioning involves his actions in the Watergate cover-up. Mitchell has been indicted for conspiracy in the cover-up.

James D. St. Clair, Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, told reporters he had been in touch with Mitchell's attorneys and said "I don't" expect him (Mitchell) to refuse to testify.

Former Nixon campaign aides Paul O'Brien and Frederick C. LaRue were summoned today to testify behind closed doors. St. Clair had asked that the two men be permitted to appear, and their testimony was expected to concentrate on the cash money payments.

On Tuesday it was revealed that former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldean would claim the Fifth Amendment if he is subpoenaed to appear before the impeachment panel.

China accused the Soviet Union of pursuing certain designs of controlling the seas and drew a counter-demonstration Tuesday in the first major public squabble to mar the international conference on the ocean.

Chai Shi-fan, China's deputy foreign-trade minister, supported developing nations demanding a 200-mile offshore fishing zone for the United States and Moscow want to plunder the ocean's wealth at the expense of smaller countries.

Chai accused the Soviet Union of pursuing "vicious tactics" in its international dealings, and blasting of "fulfilling the wild capitalist ambition of a century ago to dominate the seas."

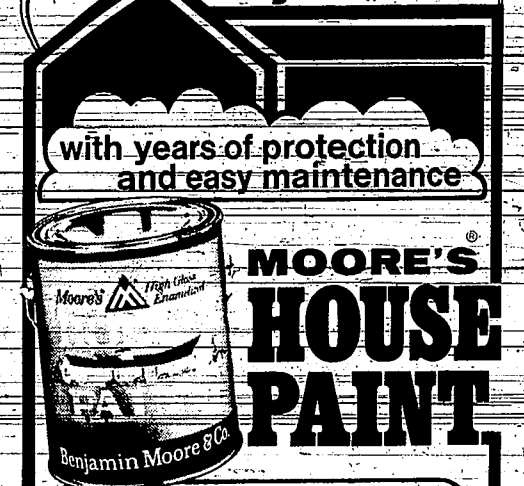

Russia's vice-chairman, Valentin A. Romanov, rose to his feet with a denunciation of Chai for "demagoguery," "political trickery" and "outraged attitudes."

Conference president Hamilton S. Amerasinghe of Sri Lanka chastised both men for their language.

All 12 nations and organizations theme part in Tuesday's debate supported the proposed establishment of 200-mile zones in which coastal nations would have exclusive rights in fishing and mineral resources.

The U.S. and Soviet delegations to the 10-nation third U.N. conference on the law of the sea want other countries to be able to use the fishing zones and to fly over them.

Coastal sugar growers see worries ahead

By DOUGLASF KNEELAND (C) New York Times Service

EL CENTRO, Calif. — Hossie Smith should be happy. The 1971 "56" should be Fred Jenkins' and John Hinchard and Jack Fleming. They aren't. But Smith, Jenkins, Hinchard and Fleming raise a lot of sugar beets, and the price of sugar has risen to levels they never dared fantasize about.

In a supermarket here in El Centro's sugar was up to 51.39 for a five-pound bag the other day, about twice what it was at the beginning of the year.

What is more with the refined product that comes out of the area's Holly Sugar Corporation is carbon plants selling to wholesalers for 30 cents a pound. It seems certain to cost housewives considerably more before long.

Smith, Jenkins, Hinchard and Fleming are among 200 growers who have a total of about 65,000 acres in sugar beets in the valley, making Imperial county the largest beet sugar producing county in the country. Since they are paid under contract a percentage of the processors' selling price they might be expected to be ecstatic.

But they fear that there is a big black cloud on the horizon. In fact, most of them seem to be convinced that Congress has already rained on their parade to prosper by the unexpected killing on June 5 the Sugar Act, ending among other things the 1971 "56" which had guaranteed them a large share of the American market for 30 years.

"We never had a sugar 1971," said Hossie Smith, a heavy-set, hard man in his late middle years.

Smith is a district president of the California Beet Growers Association, which represents about 1,500 growers throughout the state who produce 25 percent of the nation's beet sugar. And, like the other growers, he is worried about the demise of the Sugar Act.

In the short run, it probably won't have very much effect, he said, "but in the long run, in my opinion, it's going to ruin the domestic industry."

The Sugar Act, which is due to expire at the end of the year, establishes import quotas from 32 countries. The United States uses about 12 million tons a year, and under the act, domestic cane and beet sugar producers and processors are allocated about 7.5 million tons, with the remainder being imported from the foreign producers of Beet sugar, which is indistinguishable from cane sugar, accounts for somewhat more than half the domestic production.

Processors are rigidly limited to their assigned share of "56 sugar production." Therefore, they contract with growers for a stated supply to their mills and the farmers has no other outlet, even if he wanted to sell elsewhere.

For years, this has kept the price of sugar relatively stable, since an adequate supply was guaranteed and an over-supply was prevented by the controls on imports and production.

Now, however, there is a shortage on the world market. Demand has grown at a time when many countries had cut back on production. For the first four years, world consumption has exceeded the sugar produced, cutting in Venezuela from about 20 million metric tons to about 13.5 million in about 7 1/2 days' supply. Prices have accordingly risen on the world market on the domestic price has followed.

What if the controls provided by the Sugar Act are not maintained, processors would expand production to take advantage of the higher prices and, getting a larger share of the U.S. market.

However, they fear that foreign countries will

Foresters ban all fireworks

TWIN FALLS — All fireworks including the air and safe variety are banned from forest lands, according to Ed Fournier, Saulteau forest supervisor.

Fournier said fireworks are prohibited on forest lands because of fire danger. A regional forester order prohibits the discharge of all types of fireworks from May 1 through Oct. 31 on national forests with violators subject to prosecution under federal law.

Fournier said the closure is especially important now because of the unusual dry condition existing throughout the forest. Five fires have occurred this year and three of those were man caused.

Unusually heavy use of forest recreation areas is anticipated during the July 4 holiday, the supervisor said, and persons are urged to be careful with smoking materials and camp fires.

Highway department sets study

SHOSHONE — The Idaho Department of Highways is studying the possibility of a new highway project in Magic Valley.

Howard Johnson, district engineer for the department, said Tuesday the project includes the widening of a section of roadways on US 30 from its junction with Interstate 80N to Newman's Corner, seven miles north of State Highway 23.

Johnson said the length of the project is about 14 miles.

An environmental study will be completed and the public will be given an opportunity to comment on the project progress.

Implement dealer says part stolen

TWIN FALLS — Wayne Ottenburg, Twin Falls Tractor and Implement Co., 2000 Kimberly Road, has reported a missing drive assembly from a piece of equipment.

Ottenburg said the equipment, a bulldozer, was owned by Harold Johnson, Wood River Ranch, Bellevue, and had been repaired at the Twin Falls business firm, and parked at the rear of the building after repairs until it could be picked up.

Johnson raised the drive assembly when he returned the unit to Bellevue and began to use it. The loss was listed at about $150 in value.

Girl makes career from patriotic speech

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — "I am an American. I listen to my words and listen to her words then, and they're still listening to that little speech."

When Susan Huskisson first spoke those words as a 16-year-old Miss Teenage Knoxville contestant in 1956, she had no idea they would become a career with her.

Her first national appearance with the speech was for "Honor America Day" July 4, 1967, in Washington. Like a snowball growing with every turn, the demand for the speech grew.

"It was incredible at that time," she said. "I've made it literally hundreds of times during the past seven years."

she said — eight years, almost. People did listen to her words then, and they're still listening to that little speech. It speaks for Democracy, written in 1956, by Elizabeth Evans.

"My sister found it in a speech book, and I just loved it," Susan recalled.

And still she might. It has taken her all over the country, onto national television three times, opened many doors for her, and is still sending her off to conventions and meetings from coast to coast as part of the program.

Now 24, the blond daughter of Knoxville's former chief of police, Harry Huskisson, is still in demand for that speech. Her next appearance, without a doubt, will be July 24 in Tampa, Fla.

"It just proves that there is a strong sense of patriotism in this country," she said.

During the past seven years, in addition to traveling with that speech across the country — to Las Vegas and Chicago, New Orleans and Boca Raton and Miami, Washington and too many other cities to remember clearly, Miss Huskisson has:

- Graduated from the University of Tennessee with a degree in English with an idea that one day she might teach.
- Served on the National Youth Highway Traffic Safety advisory committee.
- Worked as a youth consultant with the state of Pennsylvania.
- And, just about decided that she may one day write a special for her own patriotism, her own words, her own ideas, similar to that little speech, but with an eye on reaching the youth of the nation.

"I've been thinking of a speech of my own directed at young people to tell them that this is a wonderful country; not perfect, and if there are things wrong with it, it's up to them to do something about it," she said.

Many of her appearances are set up by a national organization working in the convention program business. Others come through individuals who have heard the speech and would like to put it in a program for their club or organization.

Perhaps the most moving response to the speech came during an appearance in Las Vegas.

"A man with a strong French accent was in the audience and later came up to me. He was crying, he was so moved," she said. "And he wasn't even an American. Bill A. Frenchman, I think he was a retired citizen or was getting his papers. But he had come to love this country."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Find the best way to take care of your financial and property affairs now and be happier. Be sure you have right facts and figures.

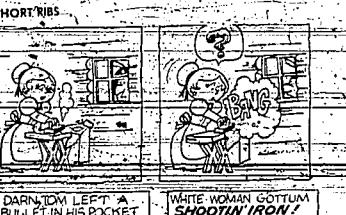

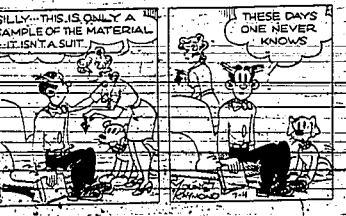

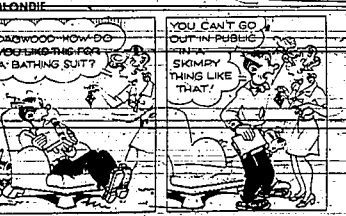

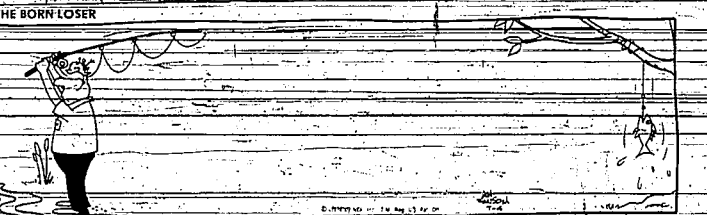

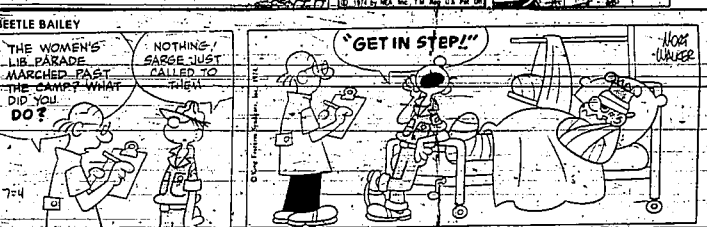

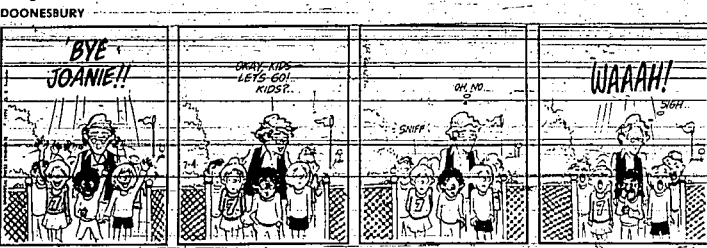

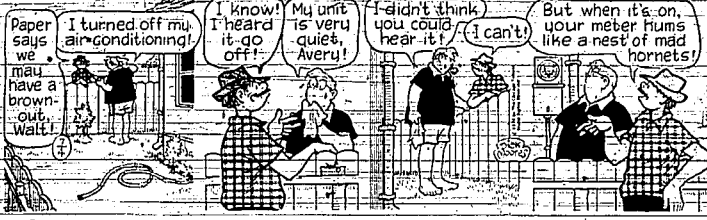

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Exchange favors with associates for an ideal day, p.m. Get into that social meeting that can be good for you. Do not be a slave to your time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be practical-minded. Give ethical, spiritual training early so your youngster will not be exclusively material-minded and will have true values in life. What ever is earned will be kept. Teach early to repay any favors extended. Give music, art lessons that can be an added source of revenue during the lifetime, also. Sports are a must early.

The stars imply they do not compel what you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

THE CHEMISTRY SET is not a popular 2-boy gift as once it was. Question arises as to why? Lack of repeat business, I think. Few boys are permitted a second chemistry set.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS Q. "Do frogs eat birds?" A. Yes, big frogs. Little birds. Surprising, what? Never say such, personally. But the experts insist some frogs eat small mice and even little snakes.

Q. "UNDERSTAND a group of women, who did not look upon love-making for money in the same way our forefathers looked upon it, have formed an organization called COYOTE. What does that stand for?" A. "Call Off Your Tired Ethic," I'm told.

Q. "HOW COME a customer to sip wine but gulp beer?" A. Heard it's because the taste buds at the tip of the tongue detect wine's sweetness while the buds at the back pick up the more bitter flavors of beer. Does this explain it? Don't know.

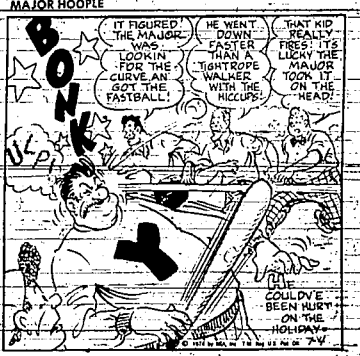

ATHLETES Let's see you name the athletes who executed the 10 most important parts of a 22-second 100-meter dash. That was the question "pollster" put to sports fiends nationwide.
