Luel Nugent has girl
AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Luel Johnson Nugent, the youngest daughter of the late President Lyndon B. Johnson, today gave birth to her third child, a 6-pound 4-ounce girl.
The baby was born at Seton Hospital and was named Rebekah Johnson Nugent after President Johnson's mother, Mrs. Nugent and her child were reported in line condition.

World Court hears nuke case
THE HAGUE (UPI) — The World Court today to hear New Zealand argue that France should abide by the court's decision banning French nuclear tests in the Pacific.
France, which contends that the court has no jurisdiction over what it calls its national security matters, was not represented. It also was absent when Australia made a similar plea before the court during a five-day hearing that ended Tuesday.
Australia and New Zealand won a World Court injunction last year asking France to stop testing on grounds that radioactive fallout was polluting Pacific basin countries. Despite the injunction France continued testing.

Saxbe testifies on taps
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General William B. Saxbe appeared before a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today to testify about whether Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger played any role in wiretapping of government officials and reports.
Saxbe began his testimony about one hour before Kissinger was due to appear at a few blockades as a defense witness in the trial of John D. Ehrlichman, President Nixon's former No. 2 aide.
Saxbe would not talk to reporters as he entered the committee room.
During Nixon's recent Middle East trip, Kissinger threatened to resign unless the committee cleared him of allegations that he played a role in the wiretapping.

News features king dies
(C) New York Times Service
NEW YORK — John A. Brogan, 61, who played a major role in building King Features Syndicate into the world's largest feature distributing organization, died Monday evening in a hospital in Nassau, the Bahamas.
Brogan, who had retired in 1967, was on a Caribbean cruise when he became ill and was hospitalized.

France improves release due
MADRID (UPI) — The chief of the medical team treating Generalissimo Francisco Franco said today that symptoms of the phlebitis in the 81-year-old leader's right leg have practically disappeared and that he will be able to leave the hospital around the end of the week.
Dr. Manuel Hidalgo, head of the Francisco Franco Medical Center, said, "It is a very light and superficial phlebitis, and now it has practically disappeared."
"He said Franco spent a quiet night and that he could leave the clinic within three to five days."

Runaway 'hotline' planned
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Any of the estimated one million American youngsters who run away from home each year soon will be able to send messages to their parents without revealing where they have gone.
JHEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger announced Tuesday that a nationwide "hotline" number for this purpose will begin operating Aug. 15. The number will be 1-800-672-0000.
A youngster who has run away will be able to call it free from anywhere in the country and send a message to his family without revealing his location.

Black actor must be white
BERLIN (UPI) — A court ruled Tuesday that a black actor can play the part of Stanley Kowalski in Tennessee Williams' play "A Streetcar Named Desire" if he puts on makeup that gives him the appearance of a white man.
The Hungarian production house, acting for Williams, put the injunction to prevent Guenter Kaufmann, from playing the part in a production at West Berlin's Frue Volkstheater.
The court accepted the black actor in return for a promise of theater director Charles Lamm that the production would not stray far from Williams' original script.
Lamm had wanted to change the rape scene in the final act to a seduction. Williams vetoed the idea.

Milwaukee policeman killed
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Two policemen were shot and killed outside a South Side tavern today and authorities began searching the area block-by-block for three men.
Authorities identified the victims as patrolmen Robert D. Riley and Thomas Matulis, both 28.
Police spokesmen said they were searching for three Latin males who were believed to have done the shooting.
The incident occurred shortly after 2 a.m. outside a South Side tavern.

Nixon 'conceal' tape disclosed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon did not release the transcript of a tape in which he urged aides to conceal their involvement in Watergate because it was "not that relevant," his lawyer said today.
A transcript of that — in which Nixon told aides "I want you all to stonewall it ... plead the fifth Amendment, cover up or anything else. If it'll save the plan" — was made public Tuesday when the House Judiciary Committee published its own transcript of eight presidential tapes in its possession.
James D. St. Clair, Nixon's impeachment lawyer, told reporters at a news conference that the taped discussion had nothing to do with whether Nixon was involved in the Watergate cover-up but dealt instead with how his aides were to handle themselves when called before the Senate Watergate Committee.

"So I see nothing sinister at all in this, you know. I still don't think it's relevant," St. Clair said.
The "plan" mentioned in the Nixon quote was referred to earlier in the transcript as "the cover-up plan."
There were a number of differences in the Judiciary Committee transcripts and those of 31 conversations released by the White House April 30. The committee transcripts include expletives, phrases and an entire lengthy section of the March 27, 1974 meeting which are not found in the White House transcript.

It was the March 27 meeting that contained the Nixon quote St. Clair said "we felt was not that relevant."
"On the other hand, we furnished the tape to the House so that if they felt it was relevant they could publish it," St. Clair said.
"They obviously felt it was relevant and published it."
He also defended the White House-edited tapes, saying, "Basically squabbling over words is not a very fruitful exercise. It's the overall gist of it that counts and I submit that the gist of it is substantially the same on any version."
What is an omission to one person may not be to another. What is inadmissible to some may not be to others. Many of the materials that appear in the House transcript are more favorable to the President than those that were released by the White House.
The committee's version was transcribed on recording equipment which his counsel John M. Donoh said was superior to that used by the White House. It contained numerous discrepancies when compared in the White House version.

Gem unions Idaho to pay lawyers

OK contract

TWIN FALLS — Southern Idaho construction workers will not go back out on strike.
In a meeting here Tuesday, leaders of five craft unions voted unanimously following some discussion to accept a negotiated contract with the Associated General Contractors.
Union members had accepted the contract. It was signed by the AGC and a better deal to a separate union.
Bob Kinghorn, secretary-treasurer of the five-craft unions, said the AGC's action in granting the ironworkers substantially larger wage and travel allowances than those granted the craft unions was just one more attempt by the AGC to divide and destroy the five-craft committee.
In negotiations with the AGC, the craft unions had insisted that "the different unions would be treated equally, he said.
But Kinghorn added, "The battle is over. Let's forget it and go to work."
Between 5,000 and 6,000 heavy construction workers throughout southern Idaho walked out on their jobs for nearly a month in an effort to achieve better contract terms.
A compromise agreement was worked out between the AGC and the union in late June.

Idaho to pay lawyers

MADRID — The state plans to pay for defense lawyers for the seven state employees charged with involuntary manslaughter in the desert death of an 11-year-old boy.
Gary Catron, assistant to the administrator for the Department of Health and Welfare (HAW) said today the department's administrator James Bax "feels the department has the responsibility to provide appropriate private counsel."
Catron said, however, that HAW had been told by the Idaho attorney general's office that the attorney general would not provide defense counsel for the seven defendants.
An assistant to the attorney general, Robert Miller, said today the action was taken because of the possibility that the state could be arguing both sides of the case in the event of an appeal to the Idaho Supreme Court.
The seven defendants, all HAW employees, were formally charged with involuntary manslaughter by Blaine County Prosecutor Stephen Bolter. The seven were connected with a state-administered survival program. In the Maladoka desert where 11-year-old Jeff Hodgson of Pocatello became lost and

Henry denies Ellsberg role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger testified today that he did not authorize or have any knowledge of a psychological profile that was ordered in 1971 for Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.
Kissinger answered only three questions in a 90-second appearance during the trial of former White House aide John Ehrlichman and three others on charges of conspiring to burglarize the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist.
"Did you authorize David Young directly or indirectly to obtain a psychological profile on Daniel Ellsberg from the CIA?" asked William French, chief defense lawyer for Ehrlichman, who had subpoenaed Kissinger.
"I did not," Kissinger said.
"Apart from whether you authorized it, did you have any knowledge that such a profile was being done by the CIA?" Assistant Watergate Prosecutor Philip Bakes asked.
"I had no such knowledge," Kissinger replied.
"Did you have any knowledge of any plan to obtain information from Ellsberg?" Bakes asked in his only other question.
"I had no such knowledge," Kissinger said in his final answer.
Ehrlichman's attorneys had subpoenaed the secretary of state in an effort to determine who authorized the break-in at the Hollywood office of Dr. Lewis Ellsberg over Labor Day weekend, 1971.
Kissinger returned Tuesday from his six-nation diplomatic mission in Europe and met with President Nixon during the morning before appearing in court.
Before Kissinger's testimony, U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell told attorneys for the defendants that there was no law permitting the Central Intelligence Agency to allow an individual to commit a crime.

Mitchell may not talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's former attorney John N. Mitchell, who returned to the House Judiciary Committee's witness chair today amid indications he would invoke the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination.
The committee's refusal to accede to Mitchell's request that the questioning be limited to areas outside of a Watergate cover-up indictment against Nixon's former attorney general, returned to the House Judiciary Committee's witness chair today amid indications he would invoke the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination.
But Albert E. Jenner, chief GOP counsel for the inquiry, warned today that Mitchell "cannot plea the Fifth selectively." He would have to invoke the constitutional safeguard from an entire subject area, Jenner said.
Mitchell's request was rejected Tuesday, Jenner said, because "this is an impeachment proceeding which overrides everything."
As one of six defendants in the cover-up trial scheduled to begin Sept. 9, Mitchell had been expected to reduce his bond interest added in stockholders will be paying 2.5 or 3 times the cost of the project over a 40-year bond payment period, he said.
An early in June the district applied for the Internal Revenue Service for ruling on whether or not the interest on the district's bond would be tax exempt. Ross said this decision by the IRS "may mean the difference between paying for the dam twice or three times."

CSI salaries said below average

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho faculty salaries fall more than one-third short of the average for other junior colleges in the intermountain states, according to a state report.
Other intermountain colleges also fall behind, but not by such a large percentage, the report said.
The report's average salary for all ranks of faculty at community colleges is $14,290, according to Dr. James Todd, associate director of the Idaho Office of Higher Education.
But CSI average is $10,679, according to a statement Dr. Todd presented the Idaho State Board of Education budget committee Tuesday.
Todd based the report on a recent and hitherto unpublished study by the American Association of University Professors. The study compares faculty salaries for 1973-74 at institutions in states including Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, and Nevada, Todd said.
He said the average faculty salaries at Idaho's three universities are 20 per cent or more below those of comparable schools in the intermountain west, while salaries at Idaho's two junior colleges average 35 to 45 per cent below the average salaries of other such colleges in the region.
"I'm surprised there's that difference. I can only say that we have been competitive and have done a good job in treating our faculty," Jerry Meyerhofer, CSI assistant to the president, said.
Neither Meyerhofer nor CSI Treasurer Karl Black was able to confirm the state figures.
According to CSI's Self-Evaluation Report presented to the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools accreditation team this spring, overall faculty salaries at CSI at $10,612 fell 10 per cent below average North Idaho College faculty salaries of $11,034 for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

AF Dam replacement cost soars

AMERICAN FALLS — American Falls Dam replacement cost estimates have soared $14 million in the past year.
According to John Rosshol, an attorney for the American Falls Reservoir District, $24 million was the official cost estimate for building the dam in June 1973.
The total cost estimate for putting in the replacement structure, including interest during construction and unforeseen contingencies, is now $38.1 million.
Rosshol said the district will have to pay $700,000 to the Idaho Fish and Game Department to mitigate for all the supposed adverse effects "the structure will have on the fish habitat. Possible uses of this money, he said, will be to build access areas, boat launching ramps and raceways for state hatcheries, according to a preliminary department plan.

The district will also have to pay about $1 million to put in water quality facilities to inject oxygen in the water below the dam. Rosshol said this cost had not been included in the $24 million estimate last year.
These costs, plus a 30 per cent inflation rate in the construction industry, have boosted the project's price tag to $33.8 million, Rosshol said. Interest during construction will increase the costs to $38.1 million, he said.

The Idaho Power Co. has agreed to pick up $19.5 million of the project costs if the Federal Power Commission approves the license for the company to use the dam for hydroelectric generation. "I just don't know if they'll issue the license on time or not," Rosshol said.
If all goes well, he said, a construction contract will be made in November and the replacement dam should be completed by September 1976. But he added, the project could be delayed in about 10 different ways.
Rosshol said the shareholder contribution to the project will amount to $19.1 million. With the district supplying 19.1 million feet of water, the capital cost for the water will amount to $13.24 per acre foot, he said.

Rosshol estimated that Twin Falls Water District stockholders will be paying about 75¢ to 80 cents per acre yearly for the project. With bond interest added in, stockholders will be paying 2.5 or 3 times the cost of the project over a 40-year bond payment period, he said.
An early in June the district applied for the Internal Revenue Service for ruling on whether or not the interest on the district's bond would be tax exempt. Ross said this decision by the IRS "may mean the difference between paying for the dam twice or three times."

Panama hits US hold on canal

CARACAS (UPI) — Panama accused the United States today of creating a constant threat to peace and security by holding on to the Panama canal.

Panama's deputy foreign minister, Carlos Orosco, told the Third U.N. Law of the Sea conference that the United States for "17 years" has maintained control of the canal in order to control the seas.

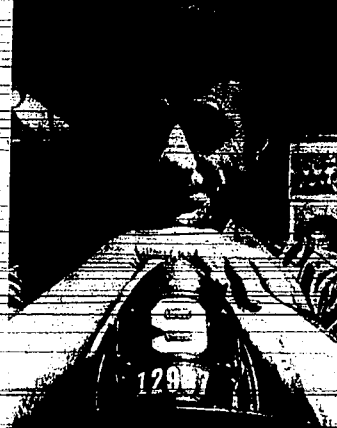

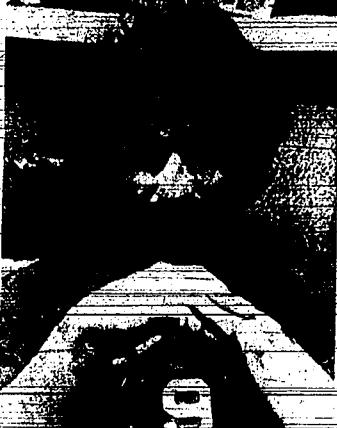

"Denied by a great power of the rights of Panama is a source of international tension and a constant threat to the security of the continents and the seas," Orosco told the 44-nation conference.

"Panama will not stop informing the world about an anomalous situation such as that of seeing a part of your territory occupied by a foreign power—which, through colonialist means, has taken for itself the absolute control and benefits of its most precious natural resource: its geographic position."

Orosco said that Panama was the logical country to control the canal and granted free passage of ships to enter the waters of the 20-mile canal zone it unilaterally claims.

Saudi Arabia, Iran and Israel were scheduled to speak at today's session of the third U.N. conference on the law of the sea.

Portuguese premier resigns

LISBON (UPI) — Portugal's first try at civilian rule since last spring's coup suffered a major setback today with the resignation of Premier Adolfo Leite. Leite, a 69-year-old liberal law scholar, said he submitted his resignation to President Antonio de Spina Tuesday for reasons of conscience. He was shortly accepted.

"I reached this decision after careful thought, for reasons of conscience and political considerations," the outgoing premier said after a half-hour meeting with Spina.

Four other cabinet members — Deputy Premier Francisco de Carvalho, Finance Minister Vasco Vieira Almeida, Defense Minister Mario Firmiano Albuquerque and Interior Minister Joaquim Agalalhas, Alito — also resigned.

The resignations marked the first major political crisis in Portugal since de Spina's Carlos took office eight weeks ago following the April 25 coup that toppled the rightist dictatorship of Premier Marcello Caetano.

The outgoing premier — he resigns — the post until the resignation is published in the official gazette — said he had asked for "wide powers" independent to carry out his functions, with efficiency and dignity.

He said he resigned when the military Council of State military-civilian body set up to rule on major legislation granted an "insufficient part" of his request. He declined to say what powers he wanted.

Floods claim 20 in Mexico

MORELLIA, Mexico (UPI) — Authorities said today at least 20 persons died and hundreds were left homeless when torrential rains swamped several villages in the Mexican state of Michoacan.

The government sent blankets, food supplies and medicine into areas that were flooded Tuesday by the heavy rain. Vaccination programs to prevent outbreak of epidemics were expected to begin today.

Officials said 1,201 persons were left homeless when the massive flood destroyed 16 houses in the village of La Piedra, Tzucubara and Jamala.

All were located in the mountainous state of Michoacan, approximately 200 miles west of Mexico City.

Inflation hits TF school lunch prices

TWIN FALLS — For school lunches will be more expensive next year at the Twin Falls schools.

Trustees Tuesday night approved increases in the prices of hot lunches for elementary and secondary students and adults.

Elementary lunches will jump a dime, from 45 cents to 45 cents per pupil. Secondary lunches will go up a nickel, from 40 cents to 45 cents, and adult lunch prices will increase by 15 cents, from 60 cents to 75 cents.

Mrs. Evelyn Beck, hot lunch director, submitted a memo to board members stating the raise was necessary because of a "constant rise in food prices" anticipated through next May.

The cost of milk is expected to go up, Superintendent George Staudacher told trustees. According to Mrs. Beck's memo, the milk companies also decided two raises in milk prices since last December without increasing their price to the school district. When bids come in for this fall's program, the higher prices will be reflected, Staudacher said.

Lunch prices were increased a nickel during the last school year.

In other business, the two newly re-elected trustees Ruth Day and Tom Kieley were sworn.

and officers were elected for the 1974-75 year.

Dr. Howard Romk was re-elected as board chairman; Frank DeLoach, re-elected as vice chairman; J. T. Anderson, re-elected as clerk; treasurer, and J. Van Bouchery was re-elected as assistant clerk-treasurer.

The board moved to keep the meeting time the same; regular meetings are held the second Tuesday of each month at a p.m. at the school administration building.

The trustees also authorized the administration to engage the firm of Hildreth, Roth, and Evans to perform the annual audit.

Thursday's band concert time

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Municipal Band will present a summer concert at the band shell in the city park at 8:15 p.m. Thursday.

The program for the concert includes "Holiday Fanfare and March" by Torrie Zito; "Song and Prayer" by Ludwig Van Beethoven; "Kaleidoscope" by P. I. Tschakovsky; "Suite in F for Band, I March, II Meditation, III Finale" by Frederick Brodyer; "Gardens of Spain" by Harry Sosik.

Following intermission, the band will play "Two Israeli Dances" arranged by Allan Small; "Cherish" by Terry Kirkman; Selections from "Hair" by James Radt; "Minuet in Groovy-Four" by J. S. Back; "Sunburst March" by Eric Osterling; and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Sewer link approved

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly City Council approved the installation of a sewer link with Twin Falls Tuesday night.

The line will transport waste from Kimberly to Twin Falls for treatment. It was approved in planning stages for two years, according to Clerk Edythe Widmer. Joe Beem Construction, Yakima, Wash. received the bid.

Other business conducted at the meeting included approval of eight building permits; seven for new homes and one for a bedroom addition. The total construction cost is $149,500 and the building permits totaled $50.

A bid was given to Bob Jackson, Twin Falls, to build a tennis court in Kimberly. The bid totaled $2,425. Construction on the court will begin soon.

Requests for annexation were made by several parties. They were referred to the city zoning commission. Public hearings will be scheduled for the discussion of the proposals.

The council voted to increase the salary of Max Durfee, city maintenance and dog catcher by $25 per month. The council also approved the June police report and discussion was held on the matter of motor vehicles on the basis of the city park.

Oakley man installed as new Cassia trustee

BURLEY — A new member of the Cassia County School Board was sworn in Monday night.

John Adams, Oakley, took the oath of office as a trustee replacing W. B. Whiteley, also Oakley. Whiteley did not run in the May school elections. Dr. A. Paul Brown was sworn in for another term.

In the annual board reorganization, Dr. Brown was re-elected by the board as chairman; Dana Crane was chosen vice chairman; Matt Warr and Supl. Harold Hinder were reappointed clerk-treasurer and assistant clerk, respectively.

Bill alternates for the renovation of the Oakley High School, which were rejected when the project bids were opened, were accepted by the board. A $3,000 alternate to cover plumbing and heating work will be paid by the school district.

The board accepted a $12,000 alternate bid for electrical work which will be paid by donations from the community of Oakley if a fund drive is successful.

Oakley man installed as new Cassia trustee

Lack of funds at the time of the bid opening forced rejection of the alternates for school architects have decided that the extra work is necessary for completion of the project.

Bids for four new school buses, coal, gasoline, bus tires and antifreeze will be opened Aug. 12. School administrators hope to be assured of a supply of the materials by letting bids even if only one bidder participates as was the case last year.

By ordering buses this summer, the board is hopeful of delivery by the start of the 1974-75 school year.

The district will accept applications for the position of transportation supervisor until the July 18 board meeting. The position was left open by the resignation of Kirby Wilson which the board accepted Monday night. Wilson has accepted a similar position with an Oregon school district.

Dr. Brown announced that all high schools in the district were on approved status with the Idaho Board of Accreditation except for Hatt River which has an advised ruling.

Grievance unit formed

TWIN FALLS — Formation of a negotiating committee from among city employees to confer with administrators in any future grievances is underway.

City Manager Jean Millar said the city employees were selecting a committee from among their own ranks and he plans to meet with them in about three weeks to offer any assistance and to help with the organization.

The committee was provided for in a policy adopted by the City Council during the strike of city workers several weeks ago. The policy approved by the council states a committee be named to act as a liaison between employees and city officials with any employee with a grievance or problem to meet with the committee.

The council will recognize the committee members as official representatives of city employees as a whole and the committee would serve in lieu of a union representation.

Idaho league meet set

TWIN FALLS — The state youth softball league will meet at the College of Southern Idaho conference room through noon on Thursday.

The discussion will focus on plans to continue support of the Sunshine Initiative, continue the on-going study being made on state land use and management, and discuss distribution on candidate information guides, according to Marjole Stott, state board president.

The state board will meet with the Twin Falls League members and spouses at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday for a picnic at the home of Retin Self.

Clayton man held

CLAYTON — The Custer County Sheriff's office has apprehended a Clayton man allegedly involved in a 25-ton marijuana smuggling operation.

Gregory L. Pleus, 41, was arrested in Dumas, Sorenson, Custer County sheriff, Saturday at his father's ranch in Clayton. Pleus was wanted on two federal felony counts for conspiracy to commit a felony filed in Florida, Sorenson said.

Sorenson said Florida agents told him several others involved in the 25 ton operation are in custody in Florida. Several, however, are still wanted, he said.

Pleus is alleged to have been in Florida and Pleus has refused to sign extradition papers to Florida. Sorenson said formal procedures would be taken to extradite the man.

Pleus had lived at the Clayton ranch since Mrs. Sorenson said.

Kids fight dirt to improve park in TF

TWIN FALLS — The Harrison Park kids are fighting dirt with elbow grease to improve their park.

The improvement they are planning to make is a new coat of paint for the park, and the way they plan to buy the paint is by painting the playground equipment.

The painting is being held at Harrison Park on Harrison street through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. The cost is fifty cents per car. Any additional donations will be accepted, said park director Delvina Crockett.

The painting project is expected to take about six to seven gallons of paint at the cost of between seven and ten dollars a gallon, according to Chad Browning, recreation director for the city.

About ten to fifteen kids are participating in the car wash and they range in age from about 4 to 15 years old, noted city park supervisor Kris Annis.

Advertising in the form of posters in local merchants stores and jay walking brought enough cars in on the first day of the car wash to clear about seven gallons for city use.

A similar painting project has taken place in Sunrise Park and was successful, Browning added.

2 men plead guilty

RUBEN — Two Minidoka County men pleaded guilty Tuesday in Fifth District Court to charges of embezzlement.

Gene Hrice, 34, and "Bubbs" Bricker, 45, pleaded guilty to taking $1,315 worth of barley from Hayward Farms in Minidoka County on July 10, 1973. The grain valued at $2,225 worth of the grain were illegally removed from the farm.

A presentence investigation was ordered for both men.

Healthy members meet

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Healthy Cooks Club met Monday at the home of Valorie Koster for discussions of Achievement Day prior to the county fair.

Achievement Day gives members an opportunity to complete their annual projects with an official showing of these projects to the fair and an opportunity to practice showing for the fair.

Susan Baker gave a demonstration on frosting a cake. Diane Murray demonstrated parts of a camera and Valerie Kerr making muffins.

Guests were Mrs. John Kerr and Diane Baker. Linda Hill, leader, conducted a discussion on putting elastic in a skirt waistband.

Two held for theft

STANLEY — Two men have been arrested by the Custer County Sheriff's office in connection with thefts of campers' belongings from campgrounds in the Stanley Lake area.

Rick Cory Olson, 39, Boise, and Michael Hies, 23, Mettall have each been charged with several counts of petty larceny resulting from a July 2 arrest at the area. According to Diane Sanson, Custer County Sheriff, the pair had ice chests, clothing and fishing and camping equipment in their possession.

Sheriff's National Protection Area enforcement officer Cecil Wilson called for overtime caution by campers when in the area. Wilson said several incidents of stolen items had been reported.

Tower planned

TWIN FALLS — Construction of a control tower at the Twin Falls City County Airport is scheduled this month, but city and FFA officials say they have no recent communication about it with FFA officials.

John Craft, Seattle, representing the Division of Operations, Federal Aviation Agency, is scheduled to be in Twin Falls next week to meet with administrators regarding the operations manual and updating factors involving the manual.

City Manager Gene Millar said the city and county will meet with FFA officials to discuss the tower. The tower is to be constructed with federal financing and under the direction of the FFA. The city is not involved in the contract or work schedule, Millar said.

An airport commission meeting scheduled for Tuesday morning was canceled for lack of a quorum.

CSI salaries fall short

CSI reported that it compares adequately in the salary ranges for instructors and assistant professors. In fact, the higher ranks there are below the range.

But, the accreditation team found no problem with salaries at the college. Faculty salaries at CSI apparently are competitive with salaries that are available at schools within the intermountain western states; the team's report stated.

Meyerhoeffer did not know if CSI President James J. Taylor, who is attending the Idaho Board of Education meetings in Boise, would request more money for salaries.

"We are all somewhat limited by our resources and I think Dr. Taylor and the board are doing all they can do within the limitations of their resources."

Todd said he disagreed with a report by another accreditation team which reviewed the University of Idaho's salary schedule. The team reported salaries at the lower faculty ranks for 1974-75 will be competitive in the region and these are the highest rank faculty compensation.

Todd said faculty salaries for all ranks at the University of Idaho — on a 10 month basis — average $12,907. They range from $9,734 for instructors to an average of $17,339 for full professors.

Those paid by comparable schools in the intermountain region average $15,420 for all ranks, ranging from $9,390 for instructors to $19,629 for full professors.

Teachers at State College is "in somewhat better shape than Idaho's state universities and junior colleges," Todd said. But even that situation would have to make average salaries by 12.9 per cent to reach the level of their peers.

According to UIC's Todd, the committee that led the annual faculty compensation studies to increase 40-50 per cent next year and education receives its share share of the pie, there should be $9 million more available to spend on higher education.

During the committee meeting and that of the full board later in the week, Todd said decisions will be made on where to place emphasis on educational spending so that the institutions of higher education can develop budgets for next year and present them in late September meetings.

Todd's report showed that in at least seven areas the demand for classes in vocational-technical education is twice as high as the number of admissions to the schools. He said part of the reason for this is the lack of sufficient personnel and facilities at the post-secondary schools to accommodate the number of students qualified for admission.

But at North Idaho College, he added, the high rate of dropouts for forestry students is partly attributable to the problem of placing forestry technology students in jobs in Idaho.

Board member Janet Hily said a study of evaluation reports of Idaho's three universities makes it clear that "Idaho is very much overextended and underfunded."

She offered four possible ways the board can go to "muddle along as it has."

— cut programs and put the resources into ones that need help.

— increase the tax base, something she said she believes must be done.

— increase student fees and tuition, something she said many board members are reluctant to do.

— A combination of these solutions probably will be necessary, she said.

Tape versions compared

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three months ago, the contents of the White House tape recordings were a secret that even subpoenaed from high places could not pry loose.

And now the country has two versions of what the tapes contain — the White House version, issued April 30 by President Nixon and a second one, issued Tuesday by the House Judiciary Committee.

In a few instances, there is even a third version — transcripts of the White House surrendered under court order in January to the special Watergate prosecutor. These differ somewhat from the April 30 transcripts, even though both came from the White House.

News coverage, naturally enough, focuses on the differences between what the White House says Nixon said in his most intimate conversations with his closest aides and what the committee says he said.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, in attacking the committee for its "hyped P.R. campaign," does not dispute the accuracy of the committee transcripts.

Some of the differences appear to be innocent. Others can be interpreted as damaging to Nixon, implying he had a more active role in the Watergate cover-up and more detailed knowledge of his administration's involvement than he has conceded.

In one segment Nixon on March 22, 1972, instructs his associates to "stonewall it" when called before the Senate investigating committee.

The House committee staff claims its version is the accurate one. Chief impeachment counsel John M. Dear says his staff had superior equipment and "greater will" to produce an accurate transcript.

Charges are bound to be made that the White House deliberately left things out and twisted words to protect Nixon. Whole sections of the transcripts produced by the House committee were not in the White House-edited version.

And sometimes a change of a single word is enough to make a difference.

For example, Nixon is quoted in the White House transcript as saying on March 21, 1972, about F. Howard Hunt's demand for money: "At least we can buy the time on that."

In the committee version it comes out: "We should buy the time."

In the White House version of March 21, John W. Dean III reveals some details of the cover-up and then tells Nixon: "I can just tell from our conversations that there are things that you have no knowledge of."

Responds Nixon: "You certainly can't bug me, etc." But the committee passage reads: "Dean: 'I can just tell from our conversations that, you know, these are things you had no knowledge of.'"

Nixon: "The absurdity of the whole damned thing."

Dean: "But it is."

Nixon: "Bugging and so on."

Tape release hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's chief spokesman accused the House Judiciary Committee Tuesday of pursuing a headline-grabbing "hyped P.R. campaign" in releasing its version of the White House tapes.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the committee should release "all the material at the same time and not parcel it out to get a headline day."

He said "a negative twist" could be put on sections of the transcripts viewed in isolation.

"They have chosen the public relations route which will focus the news media only on one section of the tapes," he said.

Ziegler said the committee has engaged in "some hyped P.R. campaign or sensationalism of proceeding," and he urged: "Let it all out at once, and let me see fair play into this and some due process into this."

But he made no direct comment on the substance of the committee's transcripts, which included a quotation from President Nixon of a March 22, 1972, meeting with his aides: "I want you all to stonewall it," cited the FBI Amendment, cover-up of anything else, if it save it save the plan."

OTTO KERNER
... due in jail

Ex-governor set to enter prison

CHICAGO (UPI) — Otto Kerner, the former Illinois governor who signed the "Kerner Report" and won the U.S. Senate seat, has lost his last appeal and is set to jail within the month in a race track scandal.

Through his lawyer, the ex-governor said he will fight Illinois politics to the sentencing judge Tuesday. He is unrepentant because he is innocent of charges that he traded choice race track dates while governor in return for race track stock at bargain prices.

Kerner, 65, made a final plea for probation or a reduced sentence on grounds of ill health. But the request was denied by U.S. District Court Judge Robert Taylor.

Although Kerner agreed to surrender to the federal penitentiary in Lexington, Ky., on July 29, his attorney, Thomas Patton, made clear Kerner feels no guilt.

"I want to lay it square on the line," Patton told the judge. "There is no repentance. There is no remorse because Otto Kerner in his heart and his mind knows that he is innocent."

Taylor also refused to reduce the three-year prison term imposed on former Illinois Revenue Director Theodore J. Taylor.

The two were convicted last year by a federal jury of accepting race track stock as a bribe.

Taylor was appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court which refused last month to consider the matter.

Indictments hit Mafia suspects

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A federal grand jury Tuesday returned indictments against 12 alleged organized-crime figures in a move that the justice department said puts the Mafia out of business here.

The 12, including the reputed head of a Mafia "family," were charged with 54 counts of racketeering, extortion, interstate transportation of stolen money, interfering with interstate shipments through threats of violence, shake-downs and loan sharking.

They were indicted following an 18-month investigation by the Justice Department's organized crime strike force and the FBI and city police.

They were accused of trying to extort protection money from both legal and illegal businesses.

Eleven of the 12 were arrested by the FBI within hours after the indictments were signed by U.S. District Judge A. Andrew Hauk.

A major witness before the grand jury was a 40-year-old, 200-pound Mafia enforcer, Harry Calabro, 45, of Los Angeles, who was named an unindicted coconspirator.

He has been in protective custody for two months since agreeing to cooperate with federal investigators, agents said.

Israeli PM says Arab attacks due

By United Press International
Jerusalem (UPI) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin warned today that the nation faces "a new wave of murderous activity" by Arab guerrillas stationed in southern Lebanon and will strike against them before they can carry out their plans.

In Cairo, Arab oil ministers agreed unanimously today to end a nearly nine-month-old embargo on petroleum shipments to the Netherlands.

The oil ban imposed during the 1973 Middle East War to pressure Holland and the United States into changing policies favoring Israel, will probably be lifted immediately. The embargo against America was lifted in March.

Rabin's warning came in a speech to parliament responding to a move by the New Communist party turning down the government because of the commando attack Monday night that sank oil fishing boats in three southern Lebanese ports.

The government was upheld in the vote of confidence by a tally of 85-4.

"We stood and we are standing now before a new wave of murderous activity by the terrorist organizations," Rabin told the parliament in Jerusalem.

Pope hit by arthritis

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI, suffering an artificial pain in his right knee, canceled his weekly general audience today but made a window appearance to give pilgrims his blessing and apologies.

His voice sounded more slowly than usual when he left the window.

"We must apologize that it is not possible for us to be amid you this morning," the 76-year-old pontiff told a crowd of 10,000 in an outdoor St. Peter's Square.

"We are as sorry as you are, and much which prevents us from moving freely does not allow us to preside over the usual general audience," the Pope said.

But all wishes, prayer, exhortations and assurances of our loving and cordial presence — be assured that all this goes to you all the same, and reaches you.

The Pope made his remarks in Italian, then repeated them in French, English, German and Spanish and gave his apostolic blessing.

He waved vigorously for almost a minute before turning slowly to step down from the small dais under his window.

Onlookers said the pope was supported by aides inside his room.

The crowd responded with polite applause.

Nixon briefs legislators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon held an early morning meeting today with Republican and Democratic congressional leaders to brief them on his summit talks in the Soviet Union and the status of East-West détente.

Jumping Nixon for the 10:30 a.m. session at the White House were Alice, President Gerald R. Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger who returned Tuesday night from a week of consultations with Western European leaders to discuss the impact of the Moscow summit and the NATO Alliance.

It was the first chance for congressional leaders to question Nixon about his summit with Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev and the limited agreements reached in Moscow, particularly those related to underground testing.

The meeting also offered Nixon and Kissinger an opportunity to explain the administration's position on the States and the Soviet Union from resolving a deadlock in efforts to achieve a comprehensive slowdown in the offensive arms race, expected to be each side's deployment of missiles with multiple warheads.

More than 20 members of Congress were present for the session in the Cabinet Room.

Including Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, his Republican counterpart Hugh Scott, House Speaker Carl Albert and House Republican leader John J. Rhodes.

In advance of the meeting, presidential aides gave an indication that the congressional leaders would be getting a starting new information. Later, they left the impression the briefing would be largely a formality running along the lines of a similar get-together following Nixon's visit to the Middle East nations last month.

Some of Nixon's critics in and out of Congress have challenged his contention that the Moscow summit served to open a new era of relations between the two superpowers. They have said Nixon accomplished very little because it was weakened by an underlying threat of imposition and pressure to bolster his popularity at home without making major concessions to the States and the Soviet Union.

Nixon was under new watergate pressure today, as the House Judiciary committee transcripts of eight of his taped conversations in the White House.

The committee version conflicted on numerous points with transcripts of the same tapes the White House made public April 30.

Earl Warren leaving Supreme Court in June, 1969

Retired chief justice of Supreme Court dies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Earl Warren, who rose through the same Republican ranks as President Nixon to dominate a Supreme Court era that bears his name, died Tuesday at his home.

The retired chief justice of the United States had been at Georgetown University Hospital suffering from a heart ailment since last week and was listed in fair condition. The cause of death was not announced.

Warren died at age 81, with his wife and two daughters at his bedside.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Perhaps the major achievement of the court during Warren's 16-year tenure was the desegregation of public schools.

Warren himself, however, said in later years the most significant ruling was the 1962 "one man, one vote" decision giving federal courts jurisdiction over state legislative reapportionment.

Warren also headed the commission that investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and determined that Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone, killed Kennedy.

President Nixon, who named many of the Warren Court's members, said Tuesday night Warren was "an articulate spokesman for the ideals he cherished. He did not invite controversy but neither did he shrink from public life spanned 30 years until his retirement in 1969, was a crime-fighting district attorney, state attorney general, three-term governor and Republican vice presidential candidate in 1956. From 1958 until 1962 Warren had been chief justice of the United States, replacing Fred M. Vinson.

"Upon leaving the court, Warren said, 'I could hardly believe I had lived through the history of being remembered as a chief of the people, surrounding the civil rights, voting rights and civil liberties cases between 1953 and 1969 made Warren an opponent of judicial and political conservatives and an enemy of the far right, especially the John Birch Society, which ranted throughout the country 'Impound Earl Warren'."

He then said, "I was a man, however, by saying, 'I am not a Communist, a Fascist or a KKK Klutner, or whatever it might be, is entitled to have his rights protected in the courtroom."

Warren is survived by his widow Nina, sons James, Earl and Robert and daughters Nina "Honey Bear" Bryan, Dorothy Van Kraljich and Virginia Daly, wife of former news anchor John Charles Daly.

Warren had long suffered from severe angina, a painful stricture of the heart muscle.

His hospital officials said Warren had long suffered from severe angina, a painful stricture of the heart muscle.

blinded vessels that starves the heart of oxygen.

Calli May of this year, when he was hospitalized briefly, Warren had been lecturing around the country and was writing an autobiography.

At the time of his death, Warren was chairman of the World Association of Judges and the United Nations Association and was a trustee of the Truman Library and the National Armed Forces Museum Committee.

In a statement issued by the court, Chief Justice Warren Jr. Burger said:

"Earl Warren's life epitomized the American dream. His unique half-century career of public service as a prosecutor, attorney general and chief justice spanned one of the most dynamic eras in our history and his contribution was large indeed."

US doubles arms sales

(C) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The United States sold some $6.5 billion in arms for the fiscal year that ended last month, almost double the arms sales for the previous fiscal year and almost $2 billion more than all other nations combined.

The arms sold or given away by all nations in 1973, according to official Pentagon estimates.

The bulk of American arms sales, some $7 billion, went to the Middle East and the Persian Gulf area. This total does not include the $1.5 billion in arms provided free of charge to Israel plus several million dollars in arms grants to Jordan and Lebanon.

While the United States remains the world's leading arms supplier, other nations are also selling arms.

Pentagon estimates for arms sales in 1973 show the Soviet Union with over $2 billion; the East European allies with over $2 billion; and American allies with over $2 billion.

These figures are all expected to be higher for 1974, but official estimates are not yet available.

Soviet arms sales, Moscow does not provide free arms, went mainly to nations in the Middle East such as Egypt, Syria and Iraq.

Arms control experts on the government estimate that worldwide arms sales in the 1970's thus far have about equaled total arms sales for all of the 1970's, even discounting for inflation.

The goal of the American program, according to government sources, has been to pay in balances of payments dollars at least as much as to meet diplomatic and diplomatic requirements.

The increase in American arms sales, Pentagon and State department officials said, has taken place without a policy review of the program and with decisions on specific contracts made on an ad hoc basis.

Law Congress has authority only over arms sales covered by defense department sales credits and credit guarantees about 15 percent of the total. Congress has no voice and little knowledge of 85 percent of the effort involving Pentagon-sponsored arms sales and commercial sales.

American arms sales included over $1 billion for Iran, over $1 billion for Israel and around $700 million for Saudi Arabia.

Sales for the acknowledged modern aircraft, the F-4 Phantom II, plus helicopters and various types of missiles.

Helicopter rescues women lost in park

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (UPI) — Pilot Barney Green swept low over the rugged wilderness of Yellowstone Canyon Tuesday, peering into the dense timber and rocky cliffs.

Suddenly, he spotted Kristen Smith, Loretta J. A. and Hebecca Russell of Memphis, Tenn., jubilantly waving their coats near an SOS they had scrawled in a bush.

The two 21-year-old park summer employes had been lost for four days.

Their disappearance prompted a search of a 40-square-mile area with rangers in helicopters on foot and horseback.

The searchers used bloodhounds and a specially equipped Air Force reconnaissance plane that could register body heat on infrared film.

"They were two hungry girls," Green said, "who started out last Friday with a little bit of lunch and most of it was eaten Friday except an apple."

"When they saw my chopper, they ate that last apple. They said they talked about anything except how badly their families would feel, or how hungry they were."

Park officials said the pair borrowed a car, Friday and parked it at the main base on the 10,500-foot Mt. Washburn, then hitchhiked to the top with plans of walking down the trail.

That was the last time they were seen until Green found them in a canyon.

"They obviously lost their trail," said park spokesman Kit Wing. "They ended up against Yellowstone Canyon. When you descend all the way down there, you can't see upstream or downstream because the banks are so precipitous."

Banker seeks merger plans

(C) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — Joseph W. Barr, the new chairman of the troubled Franklin National Corp., said in the capital Tuesday a week after an administrative and congressional report that he would permit a merger with Franklin.

According to some officials and legislators who talked with Barr, he told them that at least one bank in California has indicated an interest in merging with Franklin.

Barr reportedly has rejected the merger because it would answer for the bank which has suffered huge losses on foreign exchange transactions.

But he has told those he is seeing here that it would be best to merge with the bank as well as its shareholders, if the number of potential acquiring banks were as large as possible.

Barr is reportedly telling analysts here that he would get out what the exact condition of the bank is.

Even assuming that it is not insolvent, however, he foresees a decline on the resources of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. in order to pull the bank in order to continue in business, as a new entity.

It is known that Franklin owes the Federal Reserve System more than $1 billion

Air rates hiked

(C) New York Times Service NEW YORK — International Airlines tentatively approved today the fifth increase in United States Europe air fares of the year, but emphasized the effects on some travelers by voting a new "early bird" discount plan for those who fly tickets at least 60 days before a trip.

Under the preliminary agreement adopted by airlines at a meeting in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the average cost of a ticket between the country and Europe will increase 12 to 15 percent over current rates, and increases averaging 20 percent already imposed this year.

The agreement, which is subject to governmental approval and possible minor revision by airlines, sets the price of a standard economy class round-trip ticket between New York and London at $626 last summer and $692 this summer, up $70 next summer.

Most special round-trip excursion fares aimed at expanding the tourist market will be raised 10 to 20 percent over current rates.

The standard 22 to 45 day excursion, which requires travelers to be abroad at least 22 days and no more than 45, was $312 for the New York-London round-trip last summer and is currently $415. It would be $527 next year, a 26.5 percent increase of 54 percent.

However, the airlines agreed to set aside a certain number of seats under the excursion plan each flight. Between New York and London, for example, the round-trip fare under this plan would be $435 next year, an increase of 40 percent over this year's 22-to-45-day excursion.

Those who buy excursion tickets and then cancel would lose 25 percent.

Suspect tests set

MIAMI (UPI) — A Miami newspaper, the small and struggling Ohio man indicted on charges of slaying Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr. and a deacon of Ebenezer Baptist Church, will undergo a psychiatric examination Tuesday when Superior Court Judge Sam Phillips McKenzie refused to block the inquest into the slaying.

Chenault, 47, had long been a spectator at his July 1 arraignment, told a city judge that his name is "Servant Joseph" and that he is a Hebrew sent to Atlanta with orders from God to "preach the gospel, partially accomplished."

Bacote made the motion to block the grand jury action because, he said, he had evidence to indicate that Chenault is insane.

Mckenzie refused to block prosecution, but allowed the psychiatric tests, and the grand jury went to work immediately. It heard from only three witnesses, before including the Dayton, Ohio, man on two counts of murder, for the slaying of Mrs. King, the 69-year-old mother of the slain civil rights leader, and Deacon Edward Boykin, 70, and the wounding of Mrs. Jimmy Mitchell, 64, an attendee of the church.

Filer hires 2 new teachers

FILER — Two teachers were hired at the Filer school board meeting Monday night. Mrs. Jim Gable, Jerome, was hired for high school. Mrs. Carol Hoyer, also Jerome, as the new junior high English and reading teacher.

Leo Gilrings was installed as a new member of the board and Lawrence Kniage was re-elected chairman of the board. Everett Andrews was named vice chairman and Mr. G. M. Baker, re-elected clerk.

Bruce Lincoln, president of the Student Council, met with the board to discuss the possibility of a future debate team and school club cooperation in putting out a student handbook. Lincoln also asked the board for assistance for improving the student lounge.

Progress on the new buildings was reported to the board by Supt. Ray Baker. The new vocational building is expected to be completed by the time school starts and the new building for remedial music and arts are completed behind the elementary school.

Hagerman retains trustee officers

HAGERMAN — Hagerman school trustees re-elected officers at the annual meeting Monday night. Dean Williams is chairman, Vern Cox, vice chairman, and Alfred Sandy, treasurer. Ned Cox and Francis Koomman were sworn in for three-year terms, according to Supt. Kenneth Black.

Other business covered by the board included approval of the 1974-75 school year remaining the same as last year. Student activity cards will be $3 and there will be a $10 school exit fee charge for the high school and $14 (refundable book charge) for the elementary school. The board voted to continue the free lunch program for those who qualify under general ration lines. They also voted to allow the Antique Festival Treasure to use the local football field for its performance Aug. 27-29.

Researchers test rich food diet

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Clinicians are testing a diet which might allow Americans to indulge in juicy steaks, slabs of butter and mounds of ice cream without worrying about cholesterol and the cardiovascular diseases the rich foods are suspected of causing.

Dr. Victor G. DeWolfe, head of the clinic's Department of Peripheral Vascular Disease, is directing the research with nutritionist Dr. Helen H. Brown and medical chemist of the clinic's research division. They are working with six couples, one of both of whom have elevated cholesterol blood levels. "Elevated cholesterol was recognized as being implicated in the development of coronary heart disease; physicians have been attempting to find ways to overcome this," DeWolfe said. "This particular method offers a new dimension in an approach toward alteration of dietary habits."

For the past month and for the next three months, the test couples will eat meat and dairy products produced by livestock fed a special polysaturated feed. Feed containing polyunsaturated vegetable matter is coated with protein which protects the feed from complete digestion in an animal's first stomach. The unsaturated nutrients are absorbed in the second stomach and become unsaturated fat in the cows and beef cattle.

"In Australia they found that they were able to produce polyunsaturated meat," DeWolfe said. "They tried it on normal human beings and found they were able to reduce cholesterol by approximately 15 percent."

At Ohio State University, where they're also working on this, I believe they're using students as test subject," he said. "We're the first group that has tried this on people who have elevated cholesterol to see if we can further decrease their cholesterol levels."

The taste of the unsaturated meat and dairy products is of some concern to the researchers, but DeWolfe regards the test couples. "I think it's pretty good."

"It really works; the people of the Western world eating these highly saturated foods will be getting unsaturated foods instead without having to change their habits," he said.

Disappointing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Tourists are sadly disappointed by famed Fisherman's Wharf because it has become a "honky tonk carnival of cheap side shows," according to a survey.

The number of small fishing boats operating out of the wharf area has sharply declined the past few years while the number of gaudy restaurants, motels, gift shops and wax museums has multiplied.

The survey, released Monday, was undertaken by a citizens committee at the request of Mayor Joseph L. Alioto to find out ways to restore the area which is visited by 12 million tourists a year.

CIA undercover agent reveals all in new book

WASHINGTON — A former CIA undercover agent for the Central Intelligence Agency in Latin America has written what his associates describe as a major expose of the agency's Latin American activities in the 1950's, including an assertion that the agency participated in the murder of some of its employees.

The new book, sources said, was recently completed in London by the former agent, Philip B. F. Agee, who served from 1956 until 1963 with the CIA in, among other places, Ecuador, Mexico and Uruguay.

The as yet unnamed book by Agee, is expected to be published by Penguin Book Publishers of London this fall.

Agee, now seeking an American publisher for the 225-page manuscript, has named Malcolm K. Wald-Flegen as director of the American Civil Liberties Union, in anticipation of protests by the CIA.

Agee, who is represented by Victor Marchetti, a former CIA official, in his recent dispute with the agency, confirmed in a telephone interview that the CIA "if needed, will certainly come to Mr. Agee's defense."

Agee, whose wife and children are now living in Florida, has long recognized that "he has first-hand knowledge of many previously unrevealed CIA operations."

Some of the against Cuba, and that he also was involved in the assassination of locally employed CIA agents, known in the agency as contract employees.

Highly reliable sources said that in discussions with friends, he has declared that the assassinations were not official policy of the CIA, but instead were "local options taken in the field."

At least one such killing, learned the newspapers said, "The negotiations are being handled by Hollywood agent Hank Saperstein and New York lawyer Donald C. Farber."

Saperstein, said Haldeman has dictated about 100,000 words so far, and acknowledges he is a controversial figure. "It's not easy selling a book by someone under indictment," Saperstein said. "There are a lot of problems."

One of the editors who turned down the book was quoted by the Times as saying that the reasons were "financial, not political, that $1 million was too high a price to pay for an unwritten book."

The publishers who have rejected the manuscript were identified as Simon & Schuster, Random House, Grosset and Dunlap and Holt, Rinehart and Winston.

4 publishers reject Haldeman's memoirs

LOS ANGELES — UPI's R. Haldeman is offering his memoirs to New York publishers for $1 million, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

Four publishers have turned down the offer.

The memoirs are tentatively titled "Inside..." and prospective buyers have been shown an eight-page outline and a dummy book jacket with a photo of Haldeman in the office with President Nixon.

The outline of the chapter on Watergate was vague, the Times said. "It said in effect that the subject would be covered later."

The book also was a ghost, according to those who have seen the outline, on what would happen if Haldeman had to do it all over.

Paint industry wants aerosol ban lifted

WASHINGTON — The paint and industry has asked the government not to insist to recall or buy back millions of cans of paint containing vinyl chloride which may be hazardous to consumers.

The industry has asked a recall or purchase as part of a ban on the use of vinyl chloride, a suspected cancer-causer, in aerosol sprays which has been proposed by the government.

The ban, which appears likely to be lowered next month, would principally affect spray paints. Other federal agencies have already moved to end the use of the more aerosolized medicines, insecticides and other products.

The National Paint and Coatings Association, which claims to represent the manufacturers of more than 70 per cent of the spray paints sold in this country, told the commission on paint products with "very short notice" that the industry "now" has manufactured.

But some were manufactured as late as February of this year and are still on store shelves or in the hands of users, not to mention those sold over the years before then.

The association told the commission the ban should affect only those products made after the time the ban goes into effect.

4-Hers to conduct South-Park day camp

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County 4-H Builders Club will be conducting a day camp Monday and Tuesday.

The camp will be held at South Park for those youths living in that area.

Activities will begin at 9:30 a.m. and continue until 3 p.m. Each youngster will have the opportunity of being involved in crafts, games and classes that will help in the growth and development of each child, according to Vicky Taylor, 4-H urban aide.

The day camps will provide a noon meal and snacks will be served each day. No pre-registration is required.

TF County zoning board considers proposals

TWIN FALLS — The first board of appeals called to review a building matter under the new Twin Falls County zoning ordinance met Monday afternoon.

The five member board, selected by the county commissioners, is provided for in the new ordinance to review special problems and rulings of the county zoning commission. The board has the authority to revoke a zoning commission judgment.

Members of the board considered a proposal from Amex Aluminum Mill Products Inc.

The firm is planning a building on the chamber of commerce building site (southwest of the city). The building is proposed at about 30,000 square feet in size, which would require, under the Uniform Building Code, that sprinkler equipment be installed for fire protection.

Company officials say the nature of the business is heating aluminum sheeting and shaping it into irrigation pipe would automatically set off the sprinklers.

Restrictions asked on north Snake canyon rim

JEROME — A development plan recommending restrictions on use of land in the north Snake River Canyon, commissioners of the Planning Commission, is the final draft of a plan tentatively approved by the commissioners two weeks ago.

The plan, compiled by the Jerome County Planning Council, is the final draft of a plan tentatively approved by the commissioners two weeks ago.

Requests for a comprehensive plan of the area development have come from the Bureau of Land Management and the State In-Lieu Land Selection Committee.

The council separated its recommendations for land use in the north rim area into categories, including agricultural use, industry, commercial, residential, open space and natural areas, with specific information concerning transportation and utility development.

The council adopted by the commissioners the plan will become part of the overall comprehensive study of Jerome County. It will be up to the county commissioners and the zoning board to initiate the planning and zoning necessary to implement the recommendations of the plan.

The council preferred their recommendations with an explanation of the need they felt for land use planning.

An increasing population development, pressures, which will be exerted by the construction of a major elevated interchange at Interstate 80 and US 81 and the proposed regional airport, were cited as important reasons for planning.

In addition, the council stated development must be controlled to fit the delicate physical limitation of the area.

Overall goals as set by the council aim to regulate developments closely to "maintain quality of life," require a study of specific development proposals and protect the canyon rim as a natural area.

The method of sewage disposal was set by the council as a principal problem to be solved before development is allowed.

Recommendations for agricultural land, which now includes about 7,700 acres, state that all privately owned land now used for farming or for livestock grazing should be maintained and protected for these uses.

Excluding, as provided, about the land shown by a planning and zoning study to be non-profitable for farming or grazing use or when the comprehensive plan designates the land for other uses.

An additional recommendation by the council states no additional irrigated crop or grazing land should be developed, unless a publicly initiated study declares it as the highest and best use or as specific "sites."

Strict limits on industry are recommended by the council, including permitting no heavy or "wet" industry. The council specifically states the area should not be promoted as an industrial area, but doesn't rule out industry altogether.

Allowable industry cannot cause economic, social or physical stress on existing agricultural and residential uses, the plan states.

Other requirements include a well planned industrial park, a self-contained sewage system or a connection with a central system, adequate onsite parking and freeway access, buffer areas, and adequate site drainage features so surrounding land will be protected.

Concerning commercial developments, the council recommended that tourist-oriented development be encouraged, but that residential-oriented commercial developments not be permitted in the canyon rim area.

Tourist-oriented developments, the council recommends, should be concentrated in the area near the highway interchange of 80 and US 81. Development should be coordinated with Commercial Planned Unit Development (CPUD) type or proposal. The report states. In addition, developers must provide for offices, parking and other facilities.

The council also places strict limitations on residential development, which now includes about 70 plots of one-half to ten acres.

At present, the plan recommends in new residential development be allowed except farmsteads and already platted subdivisions.

If future "acute" need for housing requires additional residential development, the council recommends high density, housing, like apartments, be built only on transitional land between commercial areas and other residential areas.

Medium density residential housing — single family homes on small lots — should be allowed only on transitional agricultural land within platted subdivisions.

And all residential developments, other than farmsteads, should be connected with a central sewage system, unless a soil survey shows the area can accommodate the sewage disposal.

Open space, which now comprises about 6,000 acres, should be preserved without development except fences, rock paths, bridle trails, bike trails and public fire areas. Existing trails should be maintained, the council recommends. Controlled grazing and off-road vehicles should be permitted, with the use of off-road vehicles limited to areas where there is no grazing.

The council also provides for natural areas, where no development and no grazing except for fire control will be permitted. The council recommends any off-road vehicles be allowed. Hunting would be allowed, following public regulations, in both natural and open space areas.

The council recommends a green space area be provided east and west of the Perrine Bridge, stretching east from the bridge to three and one-half miles east of Shoshone Falls, running north to Interstate 81.

In addition, the council makes recommendations concerning road and transportation development, including endorsing a proposal to construct a four mile highway between the interchange and the canyon rim.

Board satisfied

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the Idaho Water Resource Board are apparently happy with the way their chairman handled a request for minority input into the award of a $25,000 contract.

Chairman John Stiefel had been asked by Jack Peterson, a Boise environmental consultant, to look into the award of a contract for a state environmental overview.

Peterson had protested the award was made without giving Idaho firms a fair chance to compete.

The Peterson firm was an unsuccessful contender for the overview contract which went to James Montgomery Consulting Engineers, a Portland, Ore., based firm with offices in Boise.

Man given 2-year term

RUPERT — A 19-year-old Rupert man pleaded guilty Tuesday to a charge of first degree burglary in Elkhart District Court.

Guo Sloneker was sentenced to two years probation and ordered to pay restitution to the owner of Riler's Country Store, Puff, which was burglarized the night of April 21. He was ordered to pay for the services of public defender Herman Becke.

Sloneker's accomplices in the burglary have both pleaded guilty to the same charge.

Francis Ryan, 43, Rupert, has not been sentenced. Ryan was found guilty June 28 of delivery of heroin in a three-day jury trial in Rupert. Presentence investigation has been ordered for Ryan.

Victor Shwartz, also involved in the burglary, has been sentenced to four years in the Idaho State Penitentiary for the breaking and entering following conviction for breaking his at Life Skyline Bar, Burley, and the Magic Valley Klamath Home, Rupert.

Elkhart District Judge Sherman Bellwood rescinded his probation.

A male juvenile was also involved in the Riler's Country Store burglary.

Dealers ask divorcement

By GEORGE WILEY Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Petitions in support of a movement to prevent major oil companies from having their own retail outlets may soon show up in Twin Falls.

Dick Ager, president of the Idaho Falls-based Upper Snake River Valley Petroleum Dealers Association, which is circulating the petitions, said today he is looking for service station operators in Twin Falls who support the divorcement concept and who will circulate petitions.

The divorcement bill being petitioned, Ager said, is similar to bills already passed in Maryland and Arizona which will prevent major oil companies from operating their own retail outlets in those states.

Major oil companies, Ager claimed, now control gasoline from the well to the pump and are forcing out brand-name station franchise holders and assuming the operation of the station directly through the company.

Other franchisees for major oil outlets must stay within allocation limits. Ager said, the major oil company operated station may have an "unlimited supply."

The divorcement petitions have already been distributed in Idaho Falls station avenues, who will gather signatures from motorists. Ager would like to see a similar effort in Twin Falls.

Divorcement legislation, Ager said, is the only method of preventing the major oil companies from making a complete takeover of the oil business. The proposed law would force the major oil companies to leave retailing of gasoline in the hands of local dealers.

Most Twin Falls dealers questioned about the divorcement bill were not familiar with it, but at least one independent operator said he would support the petitioning effort.

Sinclair Dealer Neil Larsen, manager of Don Piper's Gas, said no pressure had been put on him to give up his franchise. However, Larsen did say that he thought a takeover by major oil companies, not Sinclair in his case, was happening, but not in Twin Falls.

Tom Walker, manager of Holly's Holly's Gas, said his company, Phillips, has no pressure on him to live up to impossible conditions to break his franchise. "We haven't had a written lease for 15 years," Walker said. "They've never put the pressure on or anything."

Walker said he had heard nothing about the alleged takeover of retail outlets in Idaho Falls or elsewhere. They're usually wanting to get operators instead of getting rid of them," he said.

Buck Buckingham, manager of Buck's Blue Buck-Texaco, also said he had heard nothing about a takeover of franchised or leased stations by the major oil companies, but he said no pressure had been put on him to break his lease, and he said he knew of no cases in which a dealer had been forced out of a lease.

Joe Clements, owner of Clements Oil Co., said he agreed with the divorcement bill and would be interested in working for the passage, although he has had no involvement so far.

Clements said in his opinion the recent gas shortage was a "frame-up" of the part of the major oil companies.

The majors are offering me gas at a very nice price at the end of the month," Clements said. He added that many brand name stations have more gas than they can sell now and the major oil companies have been pressuring dealers to stay open and sell.

"Inflation," Clements said, "is directly responsible to the oil companies. This is the biggest rip-off of the world has ever had."

vacancy at Shoshone

SHOSHONE — There is just one vacancy in the Shoshone School District teaching faculty for this fall.

According to Supt. Kenneth Grothers after the Monday night school board meeting, this vacancy is for a reading teacher in the elementary school, a position held last year by Mrs. Al Kristal.

Mrs. Kristal will be teaching first grade half time this year.

A contract has been offered Reina Bezdoff, Twin Falls, to teach second grade.

Ivan C. Hopkins took his path as new board member. The Trustees Don Runley is reorganization of the board. Walter Jones is vice chairman, Chairman with Gordon Brown, vice treasurer. Non-certified personnel were re-hired.

The non-certified persons are Carolyn Air, and Mrs. Martin Laeders and Joe Gonzalez; Mrs. Jess Laccertus as secretary to the superintendent; Mrs. L. Vanadin, Staff nurse said.

The district approved participation in the Idaho State District Cooperative Services Council and membership will have the General Appraisal Co. to appraise school property in detail.

The board approved coaches Ed Sandy, Jack Williams and Rod Pruet attending the annual coaches clinic on Sun Valley Aug. 29.

Action on the proposed school district policy manual was postponed until the August meeting when the opening of school and next teacher's meetings dates will also be announced.

Jamboree slated Sunday

SHOSHONE — The ninth annual Old Time Fiddler's Jamboree will be held at the Shoshone City Park Sunday.

Music will begin around 10 a.m., according to T. V. Strunk, chamber committee chairman. This is the annual Bonnie Shaw Show, with Shaw acting as master of ceremonies for the event.

Musicians are expected to appear throughout Idaho and with them a crowd of several thousand spectators. There is no admission charge.

Families are urged to take their picnic lunches and enjoy the park setting or they may purchase treats from booths set up by the chamber of commerce.

Last year an estimated 4,000 persons attended the event with more than that attending the year before.

Strunk said anyone interested in playing may join the group for any length of time they choose. The music usually runs until between a half a past 11 p.m.

Other chamber of commerce committee members are George Kesterson, Omer Skoog and M. J. Dille.

Andrus in Rupert

RUPERT — Gov. Cecil Andrus will be in Rupert Thursday.

The governor will speak to area residents on his Capitol for a Day program. He will address a Rupert Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting in the Elks building. The governor is also scheduled to speak to the Idaho American Legion and Auxiliary in the Ponderosa Inn at 7 p.m. Thursday.

The governor has been visiting counties and cities around the state in their Capitol for a Day program to speak with and listen to citizens who do not have an opportunity to visit Boise.

Man given 2-year term

RUPERT — A 19-year-old Rupert man pleaded guilty Tuesday to a charge of first degree burglary in Elkhart District Court.

Guo Sloneker was sentenced to two years probation and ordered to pay restitution to the owner of Riler's Country Store, Puff, which was burglarized the night of April 21. He was ordered to pay for the services of public defender Herman Becke.

Hula hoop, frisbee tests set

TWIN FALLS — A touch of nostalgia will hit Twin Falls at Harry-Barry Park at 1:30 Thursday as the annual Hula Hoop and Junior Frisbee contest begins.

The contests are being sponsored by the parks and recreation department. Boys and girls through the age of 15 are eligible to compete according to Kris Amos, parks supervisor.

Individual tests broken into two age groups. Land under and 12 through 15 interested contestants are to contact their local recreation center.

Local Hula Hoop competition will feature boys and girls performing such routines as the knee knockers, Alloy Hoop, hip hop and wrap the mummy, and a free style routine created by the entrants.

Frisbee competition includes a variety of basic Frisbee throws such as accuracy, backhand, sidearm, underhand, skip highs and distance, such novelty catches.

Local boy and girl champions for both events will be eligible for the state. State winners will participate in regional contests.

Winners on the national level for both events will receive a $1,000 (USVA) Bond scholarship award, with $500 and $250 in scholarship bonds going to second and third place winners respectively.

The event is cosponsored by more than 100 parks and recreation departments in all 50 states. More than one million youngsters in all are expected to participate.

A U.S. Pro hasn't won British Open at Lytham

LYTHAM, ENGLAND (UPI)—An American professional never has won the British Open golf championship at Royal Lytham, but the bookies, the galleries and the players say this will be corrected in the third renewal which starts Tuesday.

The Open, the world's oldest championship and the only competition outside the United States to form part of golf's big four events, has been staged four times over Royal Lytham's 18-hole, 7,200-yard par course.

It was first won by an American, Gary Player of South Africa, in 1961. In the clubhouse, in the locker room, in the bars and out on the course one name, Nicklaus, dominated every conversation despite the fact his only victory this year came early in the season in Hawaii.

The 35-year-old Orono, who now lives in Florida, is 4-1 in the betting to win his third championship to go with those he won at Muirfield, 1960, and St. Andrews, 1966.

After almost a week of practice, Nicklaus seems reasonably satisfied with his game. "This is a good type course for me. It favors a left-to-right pattern. I always have been a left-to-right player, but lately it's been a shade too much right," he said.

Tom Weiskopf, who finally fulfilled his great potential when he won at Troon last year, is rated a good bet, although his fellow-pros believe he is suffering from a mental block following discovery he has a fractured left wrist which has troubled him since January.

"It's nothing really," the 31-year-old Weiskopf said. "I'm not playing well because I haven't won this year, but I'm satisfied with my game."

"I've been close five or six times this year, but whereas I won when close last year, I've been unable to do so this season."

Jacklin, who partnered Nicklaus in five practice rounds, said "Tom is playing as well as I've ever seen anyone play. He's putting super and hitting the ball great."

Jacklin said he picked Nicklaus over his buddy.

"I've seen him play for the class players, and this week Nicklaus, Trevino, Weiskopf and Miller."

Miller, who has banked $24,730 this year, thanks a victory in five tournaments, despite a curtailed schedule, said everything would depend on his opening round.

"I'd shoot well in the opening round, then I'd bet on the 27-year-old Californian said.

There have been complaints about the compulsory use of the big ball, the size of the greens and fairways; the lecture of sand in the bunkers and the wind.

Player, twice a winner and with Nicklaus the only active player to have won all big four championships, said, "You hear players complain about the length of a course. They're not champions. The same goes for those who've complained about the ball."

The big ball is compulsory for the first time this year and has caused much adverse comment from home-based players and those who contest the Asian and European circuits.

"The big ball is another reason why an American is fanned."

Of the 41 foreign entries, Americans and Irish players have been pointed John

Mahaffey's way as a possible sleeper.

Hale Irwin, who won the U.S. Open last month, is rated an outsider because it is rare for a foreigner to win the British Open on his first visit.

Patience, and accurate putting will be the key to victory, and Irwin really expects the winner to shoot much below 72, four-under par.

"The fairways are narrow, and with 23 bunkers guarding the greens, accuracy will be a premium. As Jerry Beard said, 'You're looking into a pasture with holes on both sides.'"

Sneed looking for second win

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (UPI)—Zal Sneed "fired" from a fourstroke victory at last weekend's Greater Allegheny Open, will shoot for his second consecutive win on the PGA tour at the $100,000 Quad Cities Open which starts here Thursday.

Sneed is one of five golfers who have captured a major title this year entered in the Quad Cities event, which will be staged at the 6,500 yard Crow Valley Golf Club. Other 1974 winners include Rod Carl (Colonial National), Dave Stockton (Los Angeles Open), Leonard Thompson (Mickey Glenn Invitational) and Bob Means (Kemper Open).

The Milwaukee event was won by the low-scoring Sneed, who is expected to appear at the British Open, does boast veteran Sam Snead, who is searching for his first pro victory since 1963.

Sneed was 13th at the Milwaukee Open and is making his first appearance at the Quad Cities event.

Also considered top contenders for the $20,000 first prize are Quad Cities area players. Sneed, Dick Greig, former Masters champion Charles Coody and Bob Gouby, Dwight Nevel, last year's Quad Cities runner-up, and Victor Jones, who finished second at last week's Milwaukee event.

Despite the heat and lack of rain, the Milwaukee tournament was expected to be a record crowd of more than 30,000 for the 72-hole event. Officials said a strong turnout could convince the event's sponsors to possibly double the prize money next year and lure a television contract.

Energetic WFL sets five games

By the United Press

While most other pro football players are walking around with short pants and picket signs and "everybody else" is looking for a way to escape the heat, the energetic World Football League breathes its first hot breath at 10:30 Wednesday night with a slate of five games.

Skipping such trifling as exhibition games, the 12-team WFL, which stretches as far west as Hawaii, gets right into the regular season with the first of what will be a 20-week regular season. The official National Football League, meanwhile, is in the midst of a player strike.

The opening slate of games has: The Birmingham Americans hosting the Southern California Sun, the Memphis Soulmen at home to the Detroit Wheels, the Florida Blazers hosting the Hawaiian Islanders, the Houston Texans and the Philadelphia Bell at home to the Portland Storm.

On Thursday night, the league will present its first nationally televised game with the New York Stars traveling to Jacksonville, Fla., for a match with the Sharks.

Despite the in-football-like weather and the meagerness of a new league, the first-year away from fielding 100,000 fans, optimistic attendance forecasts are forecast for the opening. In Chicago, officials are predicting that the "Fire" will reach at least even point of 25,000 fans for their first game and owner Tom Ogor sold the figure might reach 40,000 if the weather is good.

Hawaiian 'Kiddie Korps' Blazers open WFL season

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—The cocky but bested Florida Blazers host the highest Hawaiian "Kiddie Korps" on the fringes of Fantasy Land Wednesday night as the first yellow footballs are tossed in the World Football League.

"With this team we could play half the teams in the National Football League and win right now," boasted Blazer quarterback and veteran of the old league, "I figure we'll go 14-0. We have a roster coaching staff that 75 per cent of the NFL teams."

Coach Mike Traflet, who spent 16 years in the NFL and will have 15 veterans in the starting lineup for the kiddie "In The Trenching Band," said "there's a lot of enthusiasm and excitement out there."

"I think they're hitting their peak for the opening 12-week season," he said. "The rookies and veterans are working together real well."

The word from across the water was that Hawaiian coach Mike Traflet, a former San Francisco City Chief and Cincinnati Bengals, averaged nearly five yards a carry. He has been spending with the Wheels and has spent the time in camp this summer.

All-Star team has no practice

CHICAGO (UPI)—The All-Star star sat on the sidelines as their competition to go to football's major league game Tuesday and refused to open practice for their July 26 charity game with the Miami Dolphins.

The start of practice was officially delayed from Tuesday until Wednesday because the All Stars did not finish a Monday night scheduled.

Fifteen striking National Football League veterans picked the All-Star training site in suburban Evanston and 400 rookies had pledged to "bowl the pickets."

The All Stars were reported to training camp Monday to refuse to practice, unless various negotiations underway between the NFL and the NFL Players Association and to refuse to play in the game unless the veterans have a signed contract.

They avoided word from Washington Tuesday on whether the contract would be met. NFL general executive director of the

Confusion blamed on NFL strikers

ATLANTA (UPI)—Bill Curry, president of the NFL Players Association, blamed his own organization Tuesday for whatever public confusion exists about the pro football strike.

"It has become clear in recent weeks that very few people understand what the NFL players Association is trying to accomplish," the Houston Oilers center said.

"The reasons for that are many and varied, but by and large it's our fault."

"In our deal to tough negotiators, we have forgotten that the fans are the only reason that the owners have teams, and the only reasons we have the opportunity in the first place to do play football."

Curry said he called a news conference here Tuesday to clarify the situation, "to accept responsibility for the oversight, and do everything within my power to rectify it."

While Curry was explaining the players position, veteran quarterback Johnny "Moose" said in San Diego that he planned to cross the NFL's picket line Friday and report to the Chargers.

Curry said he had thought the development of the new World Football League might put the NFL owners into a more willing frame of mind to negotiate. "But, if it appears I was mistaken."

Leonard Tose, owner of the Philadelphia Eagles, showed up at the Eagles' camp at Chester, Pa., Tuesday and said he hoped the strike would be a short one.

"Logic always prevails as the season approaches," said Tose. "As far as the Eagles are concerned, every thing is negotiable except the prerogatives of management. We must retain the right to run our club."

Curry said he has not been surprised by some NFL veterans opposing the strike.

"Anytime you have 1,000 strong personalities, you're going to have differences of opinion," said Curry. "I'm roomed with Mike Curtis, one of the dissenters for five years. If we had voted to go to court, he'd have stayed home. That's the sort of individual he is."

Tommy DeVoe has been disappointed, said Bolstare. "But we have a pretty good running game anyway. I know we surprised some people when we shut out Chicago 70 and 14-0. It reminds me of a world of sportsman confidence."

curry said that the points the NFL Players Association proposes are negotiable.

"But, how do you negotiate when the owners flatly refuse to make a counter offer? We have been waiting since the middle of March for them to make us a counter offer."

Curry refused to call the decision by the College Football Association to suspend negotiations a victory.

"We're not seeking any victories, just a labor negotiation, not combat. All we want is a settlement that is good for both sides."

"For the most part, both sides have kept their cool," said Curry. "But frustrations have built up among the people who are supposed to be negotiating, refuse to budge. The owners call our proposal 'aggressive.' They see no reason to change 'bids' that have worked so well for them for 54 years."

IF&G bands 163 geese

By STU MURRELL
Regional Staff Conservationist
Personnel from the Idaho Fish and Game Department and U.S. Bureau of Land Management banded 163 Canada geese at Magic and Mormon Reservoirs last week.

These birds are from an estimated population of about 550 to 600 geese that utilize these two areas.

The banded birds will help biologists determine harvest rates and migratory patterns of the two flocks. For example, two of the Canada geese banded on these reservoirs in 1973 were killed in Imperial Valley, California, this last hunting season. Others have been recovered in local areas such as Pioneer Reservoir near Bliss and along the Snake River.

How do you go about capturing a wild bird like the Canada goose? You have to understand their life history and their nesting habits.

First, they are an early-nester, some birds starting to build their nests while snow is still on the ground in late February or early March. The main nesting period is usually April and early May.

The eggs take about 30 days to hatch. The peak of hatching occurs in May. Their early nesting habits sometimes get the Canada geese into trouble because high water usually hits the area about the time of nesting, and sometimes many nests are flooded out because water came early to Mormon and Magic this year and it appears a good hatch resulted because the nests were placed above the water levels. About 90 per cent of the geese banded were young produced this year which tends to bear this year's out.

After hatching, the young groups of Canada geese will start to gather with the others and at this time, usually late June or early July, the adults will start their flight feathers and are flightless along with their young. It is at this stage that they can be captured.

Mormon Reservoir Department personnel are using "force" of netting and chicken wire to guide the geese into the trap. The men then rowed into the Canas Creek where the reservoir and drove the geese out into open water where motorized boats could slowly herd them up onto land where the trap was situated.

About 300 birds captured in the year-long project collapsed the entire trap.

Giants stopped by Expos 5-4

MONTREAL (UPI)—Mike Jorgensen, who hit a home run and Tim Lincecum drove home two runs apiece Tuesday night to lift the Montreal Expos to a 4-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

The Expos went ahead 4-0 in the third inning with the help of four walks by losing pitcher Tom Bradley that forced home two runs.

Winner Dennis Blair, 32, opened the rally with a single and he went to second on a sacrifice fly Boos Day. Larry Lintz hit a walk and Mike Davis, Ken Singleton and the walked intentionally to load the bases. Bradley then walked Bob Bailley and Mike Jorgensen for his second home run on his first two runs.

Foil followed with a bases-loaded single, scoring Singleton and Bailley.

Hunting does not cause extinction of wildlife

Those dedicated to the abolition of hunting for sport insist that hunters and wildlife managers are primarily responsible for the elimination of wildlife species.

What are the real facts? According to the Department of the Interior, 32 species of birds native to the 50 states are "now" extinct. Twenty-four of these lived in Hawaii and were nearly hunted by sportsmen.

They succumbed to the predatory attentions of domestic cats and mongooses, introduced by man to the islands. No sportsmen were involved.

Of the remaining eight extinct species of birds, only two—the heath hen and passenger pigeon—were hunted for sport. The heath hen was eradicated by spreading civilization in the densely populated Northeast.

The passenger pigeon was destroyed by market hunting and habitat change. Sportsmen were simply not a factor in either case.

Nine species of modern times U.S. mammals are extinct. Only three such could have been pursued by hunting sportsmen—beaver, bison and big horn sheep. All were wiped out before 1910, during the settlement of their respective ranges. They were hunted for food by the pioneers, and for market, but they were long gone before sport hunting achieved any popularity in their range areas.

Hunting had absolutely no part in the extermination of any American wildlife species, the sportsman wildlife manager partnership has been almost totally responsible for returning many species to healthy population levels, including elk, wild turkey, dove, quail, pheasant, antelope, beaver and wood duck. Those are the real facts, Idaho's special chukar.

Bench homers

CINCINNATI Reds' Johnny Bench hit homer over the left field wall in the 3rd inning of Tuesday game against the Cubs. Bench was one of six different players who cracked home runs for Cincinnati to tie a National League record.

The Cubs contributed two homers to the day's onslaught and the two teams fell just one short of the major league record for most homers by individuals in a game. The record of nine has been accomplished six times.

Chicago starter Steve Stone, who picked up his third loss against three wins, gave up five of the home runs in the 2 1/2 innings he worked.

Second baseman Joe Morgan started it off with his ninth homer in the first inning. Tony Perez' 15th homer and Cesar Geronimo's fourth home run gave the Reds two more runs in the second.

Home runs by Dan Brissen, the third of the year, and Johnny Bench, with his ninth, finished Stone's tenure at the top of the third. George Foster then powered Cincinnati with his sixth homer when he drove a three-run circuit off Horacio Pina in the sixth, his third of the year.

Six other teams have had homers by six individuals in a game, the last one being the San Francisco Giants against Cincinnati on Aug. 23, 1961.

Bench hit the major league mark of seven against Boston on May 17, 1967.

Heck "Monday" hit his 10th homer of the year in the fourth inning and Jose Cardenal hit a two-run homer in the sixth.

Pirates edge Atlanta 5-4

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Manny Sanguillen's two-run double keyed a four-run fourth inning rally Tuesday night when the Pittsburgh Pirates edged the Atlanta Braves 5-4 with Ken Brett winning his 11th game.

Brett, 15, who has won nine of his last 11 games, needed a little help from Dave Giusti. Phil Nickra, 8-8, was left with the loss.

Trailing 2-0 in the fourth Pittsburgh rebounded as Rich Heister and Rick Zisk opened with singles and scored when Sanguillen bounced a double down the leftfield line.

Senate approves athletic rules

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate approved Tuesday legislation to create an independent federal agency to rule over amateur athletics and end the disputes that have marred a variety of sports participation in international competition.

Despite administration opposition, the Senate passed and sent to the House legislation which would establish a five-member Amateur Sports Board to govern Olympic and international amateur sports. The vote was 68-29.

A long-standing feud between the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) and the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) has periodically prevented the United States from fielding its top talent in international events and has caused athletes to quit competition because of jurisdictional disputes.

During floor debate Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., called for a "total cleanup" of the crisis of American sports and said it would "begin to breathe the strangest breath the massive amateur sports bureaucracy has ever taken."

He added it was designed "to end once and for all the divisive and confusing wars that have marred the history" of amateur athletics in this country and have often worked to the detriment of individual athletes.

The proposed board would designate sports organizations which then would sanction a national "amateur sports" organization among teams of different nations or for trials for the Olympics and other international events.

Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., last year attempted to eliminate the board and provide instead for arbitration by the American Arbitration Association for disputes between amateur organizations and between athletes and their sponsors, but was barred from competition.

Although Cook's amendment was defeated, 68-23, the Senate approved a proposal by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., designed to strengthen the recourse of an athlete barred from an event.

Under provisions of the bill, an athlete could appeal either to the Board or the arbitration association. The finding of either would be binding.

Cook charged, however, that the bill was written so that it grants the NCAA an exclusion. Tunney said that while the bill was not "clear" on that point, it was important to give the NCAA an exclusion because sometimes refuse permission for an athlete to compete for academic reasons or because his absence might hurt the school's team.

The Senate approved authorizing $1.1 million for each of the next six years for the Board's operation. But it balked at providing federal financial aid to develop amateur sports at the local level.

The Senate by a vote of 47-17 killed a proposed $30 million subsidy to help underwrite the start of the National Sports Development Foundation, which would be authorized for 10 years.

The Senate also killed a proposal that the NCA be barred from prohibiting a university team from being eligible for selection as a penalty for recruiting violations.

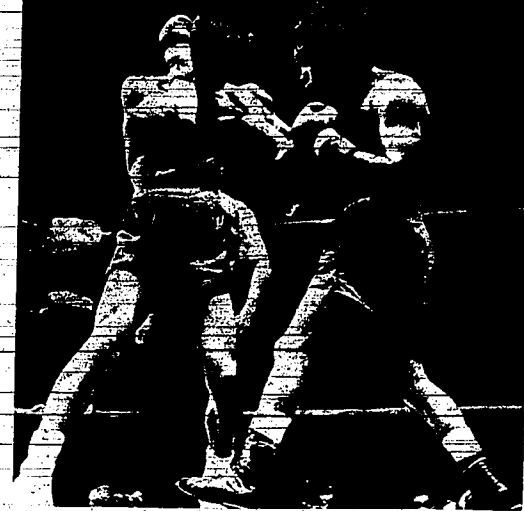

Ron Watson named to basketball post

TWIN FALLS—Ron Watson has been named new head basketball coach of the Twin Falls High School Bruins, by the Twin Falls District School Board.

Watson replaces Don Hayes who resigned the post after leading the 1972-74 Bruins to the Idaho State A-1 Basketball Championship. He will be coaching in Spokane, Wash.

Watson has been sophomore basketball coach at Twin Falls High School for eight years. He is a graduate of the University of Idaho.

There had been 45 applications for the position and 25 inquiries. The board of trustees said they felt they had picked the best man in Ron Watson.

Palmer's elbow examined

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Baltimore Orioles' right-handed pitcher Jim Palmer's throbbing elbow will be examined by more specialists to determine if it is suffering from nerve damage.

There is no evidence of injury to the ulnar nerve and we therefore cannot confirm the diagnosis of damage to that nerve, said Dr. J. Robert Kerlan in Los Angeles last week. Dr. Leo Kaufman Wallenstein, the team physician, said Tuesday.

Crockett, a 24-year-old graduate of Southern Illinois University, is not a new name on the track scene, but it did come as a surprise to some track experts to see him break the world record. For five years Crockett had been rated among the world's top 100 and 200-yard sprinters.

Before the 1972 Olympic trials, Crockett had won two consecutive National AAU 100-yard sprints (1971, 1972) and 1972 with 0.3 clockings each year. However, his fifth-place finish in the trials of the trials eliminated him from the Olympic team.

"No one thought I was capable of breaking the record because of the reputation I had following the Olympic trials," Crockett said. "When people talked about a flat, I thought of Steve Williams or Reggie Jones. But when I thought about flat and broke the world record, I had a feeling of great achievement and that's what the awards are all about. It is one thing to

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market opened mixed in mid-afternoon, leading a W. V. rally in the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was 1,211.47 at 2:00 p.m. after the opening. Advances led declines 112 to 76, among the 291 issues crossing the tape.

Foreign exchange continued to be a dominant factor on the stock market these days. The rise in most of them has kept it in a state of flux.

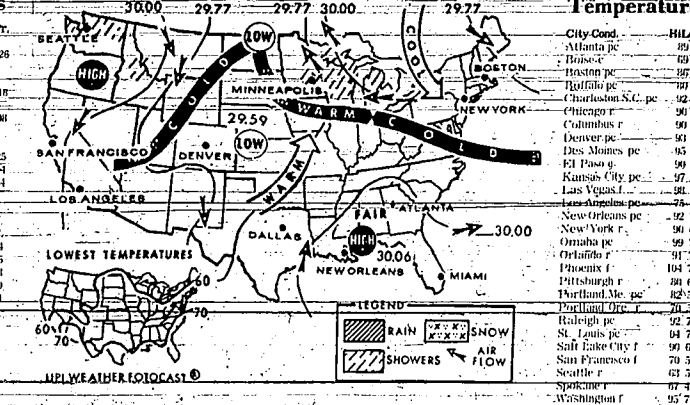

On the bond market, short-term interest rates rose this day, causing the Federal Reserve Board to pump funds into the system.

The market traditionally early Tuesday, but failed to sustain it and ended up the day almost even. Analysts say it is looking for direction, but there might be a continuation of a downward trend.

World oil surplus cracks unity among producers

By WILLIAM D. SMITH
The New York Times Service
NEW YORK (UPI) — The 12 nations that form the oil-producing OPEC cartel have agreed to cut production to meet a projected surplus of 2.7 million barrels a day during the next half of 1974.

The surplus was created by a worldwide downturn in demand for oil, which has caused a more than 400 percent increase in the price of crude oil in 1973.

Bread price decline due?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Bread prices "dominated" all court levels this spring while their prices were dropping sharply, government records show.

A spokesman for bakers, however, said in an interview that bread prices stayed up because the bakers were rapped in high-priced wheat contracts signed early in the year. He said consumers may see retail bread prices dropping in the first half of 1974 if the wholesale cost of flour stays below the peaks of early spring and other costs can be held in check.

"If we can get some help on the cost side, I think it's possible bread could come down in the last half of the year," said Robert J. Wager, president of the American Bakers Association.

According to Agriculture Department records, the farm value of wheat in a one-pound loaf of white bread rose to a record 6.9 cents last February before plunging to 4.4 cents by May. In June, although official figures have not been published, the wheat value was probably around 4.4 to 4.5 cents a pound.

Retail bread prices, meanwhile, have gone up from a national average of 32.5 cents for a one-pound loaf of white bread last February to 34 cents.

Fertilizer force retained

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Fertilizer prices are expected to rise this year, the White House announced Monday. It was extending the life of the interagency task force on fertilizer prices.

Kenneth Fodor, presidential economic counselor, said Dr. Fodor said he will continue to chair the interagency group which was originally created under the Carter Working Council. The council disbanded June 30.

Food exports to Saudis, Iran up

(C) New York Times Service—WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department reported Tuesday United States food exports to Saudi Arabia and Iran are rising briskly because of higher petroleum prices and revenues realized by those two largest Persian Gulf oil producers.

Food sales to Saudi Arabia totaled $202 million for the period July 1973 through May 1974, nearly triple the $70 million recorded for the same months a year earlier. Shipments of rice and wheat in June will probably hit the total for the fiscal year 1974, which ends June 30, above $1 billion, according to John E. Parker of the department's Economic Research Service.

Increased demand for food in several ways, Parker wrote in his article. "As oil profits sit down in the people living in villages and rural areas," Parker wrote, "changes in buying and eating habits are likely to import wheat and rice from home, grain miller and sugar."

Classic feud gains speed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A classic but unbalanced feud between Senator Henry M. Jackson and Fulbright is gaining momentum but has not yet reached its peak in recent days.

The gentlemanly restraints may have slack in the dispute over defense with the Senate between Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and J. William Fulbright of Arkansas.

An unbalanced contest now because Fulbright is chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and an ardent supporter of Soviet American accommodations.

Unfinished describing how he and the Chinese saw eye to eye on the responsibility of the Soviet Union, he was asked about Fulbright's charge on a "New York Times" panel program that Jackson and like-minded "hawks" were exploiting President Nixon's weakness more than the Russians.

Election hurts Japanese party

(C) New York Times Service—TOKYO (UPI)—The ruling Liberal Democratic Party's setback in Sunday's upper house election continues a decline in its popularity.

Lower house, where real legislative power resides, is considered likely early next year.

Curious theft

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI)—Steven D. Ridley, 30, faces arraignment Thursday after breaking into a state office building and stealing among other items, books entitled "The Prevention of Crime" and "The Open Prison."

Police Chief Robert Welch said Ridley was arrested at the Executive Department Office Building shortly after midnight Monday. He said the books were taken from the office of the Governor's Task Force on Corrections.

Welch said he was on patrol when he spotted Ridley in a truck. He said the loot also included a television set.

Oil firms urge defeat of tax bills

(C) Washington Star-News—WASHINGTON (UPI)—Major oil companies have asked their shareholders to write their Congressmen to oppose a package of legislation that would cost the oil industry $14 billion over the next five years.

EPA to open land use division

(C) New York Times Service—WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Environmental Protection Agency will establish a new division to deal with the increasingly important field of land use, the agency administrator, Russell E. Train, said Tuesday.

The EPA's action is seen as a significant development in an area that has been fraught with controversy.

TOM CROSIER points to a painting of Noah's ark in Dallas, Tex. He is leading 63 members of his commune on a trip to Turkey to climb Mt. Ararat in search for pieces of Noah's ark. On previous trips he returned with wood that has been scientifically dated at 4,000 to 5,000 years old. He said the photographs taken from satellites indicate something shaped like a boat is on the mountain at the 17,500 foot level. (UPI)

Nixon proposal on nuke cutback reported

(C) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — President Nixon proposed in a briefing Tuesday that both the United States and the Soviet Union limit the number of their missiles with multiple nuclear warheads and then phase out some of their land-based missiles with single warheads, according to government sources.

The proposal became the center of discussion at the summit meeting, the sources said, but the talks foundered when the two sides found themselves unable to agree on several points.

The areas of agreement, the sources said, included the questions of how many warheads should be allowed, what kinds of missiles could be readily fitted with such warheads, and how many of the older land-based missiles should be phased out.

In Moscow, Soviet sources said that the Kremlin rejected the proposal because it wanted "real parity" with the United States in strategic arms. Agreement was not reached, the sources said, because of a deadlock primarily over the number of missiles to which the Soviet Union would be allowed to install multiple warheads.

The American proposals, according to the Washington sources, would have had the following effect:

— If it would have involved small reductions in the numbers of missiles on both sides.

— The United States would have been left with several thousand multiple warheads already in use.

— The Soviet Union could start deploying its multiple warheads, but the total would be well below the American deployment.

— Nothing would be done to curtail new American or Soviet nuclear and submarine programs.

Both sides could continue to improve the accuracy of their missiles.

Some American officials said the focus of the Moscow talks was narrow because the Soviet leaders no longer expressed an interest in limiting other aspects of the arms race. Like the American leadership, the officials said, the Russians have come to see the key to the future nuclear arm-balance in an agreement on limiting the multiple, independently targetable, re-entry vehicles or MIRVs.

"Each side put forward proposals to let it do what it was going to do anyway," one ranking official said.

Another thing that was in the cards at this time was a MIRV agreement, said another official, who was involved in the Moscow talks.

"But the Russians were not prepared to accept any limits on their planned rate of MIRV deployment."

After the attempt failed, the Moscow summit meeting ended last week with the announcement that both sides would seek a new 10-year interim agreement to replace the present five-year interim accord, which expires in 1977.

By that agreement, which was signed in 1972, the United States was restricted to 1,000 land-based missile launchers if it built up to 710 sea-based missile launchers, with the comparable figures for the Soviet Union being 1,410 and 950. The accord did not mention multiple warheads.

By the end of 1973, the United States expects to have placed multiple warheads on most of its missile force for a total of about 7,000 separately targetable warheads. Moscow is expected to begin its deployment some time later in 1974 or in 1975.

By 1980, at official projections, the United States could have 10,000 missile warheads compared with 5,000 for the Soviet Union. But what troubled many American officials, particularly the military, was the development of new heavy Soviet land-based missiles. The lifting power of these missiles was estimated to be as great as to permit Moscow to deploy as many as 15,000 to 17,000 separately targetable warheads by the early 1980's.

Deployments at these levels, many officials contended, would allow Moscow to pose a real threat to 90 per cent of America land-based missiles.

Kissinger therefore proposed to the Russians that both sides phase out their land-based missiles because of their vulnerability to a first strike and move toward greater reliance on submarine-launched missiles.

Moscow rejected this proposal on two counts. It would have meant giving up their advantage in land-based missiles. It would also have placed greater importance on long-range bombers, where Washington has the lead.

Moscow then countered with a proposal of its own that would have maintained the Soviet lead in the number of missiles, allowed parity in multiple warheads, prohibited American deployment of the Trident, a long-range submarine-based missile system and the B-1 bomber.

No one wants touchy VA job

(C) Washington Star-News
 WASHINGTON — President Nixon has been getting determined "no thanks" from dozens of people who were sounded out as possible administrators of the troubled Veterans Administration.

According to sources in the executive branch and on Capitol Hill, firm offers of the $42,500-a-year job were made to at least two people, Rep. Olin E. Teague Jr. and Sen. Kenneth E. Belding, a former Undersecretary of the Army and "one-time" ally to Vice President Gerald R. Ford.

Both turned them down.

Many others answered "no" when asked if they were interested in the job. As a result, they were never actually offered the post.

Teague, the former chairman of the House Veterans Affairs committee, and regarded as one of the best-informed men in Congress on veterans matters, told the White House he was not interested and that he was far from alone in that attitude.

"They tell me they've contacted a couple," Teague said. "Two or three are willing to accept it and the others aren't. I don't think it's been offered to anybody, but there are two or three who are being considered."

A senior White House official said an appointment to replace Donald E. Johnson as head of the $1.3 billion-a-year agency would be made soon.

"There are several still in the running about it — it was narrowed down pretty close to a decision," the official said.

He contended that some people had indicated they were not interested but he declined to say how many.

2 glasses of milk give 1/3 the protein Davy should have each day

And a great place to dunk his donuts

Dunkin' donuts will always be a mighty good reason for a big, cold glass of milk.

But there's another good reason. Milk's a good source of high quality protein. Just two 8-ounce glasses of milk give one-third the protein most of us should have each day.

So, whatever your reason, drink up.

ATT challenges competition plan

(C) 1974 Washington Star-News
 WASHINGTON — The Justice Department gave strong backing Tuesday to wide open competition in the long-distance telephone market.

Chargé Whitehead, director of the State House Office of Telecommunications Policy, said in testimony prepared for a Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee that the idea of a monopoly telephone system is outdated and federal regulatory law should be changed to reflect this.

Whitehead said that aside from basic local telephone service, competition should be allowed in telecommunications. And he said the recent "aggressive campaign" by AT&T and other telephone companies to declare a moratorium on competition should be replaced by a wise and more constructive source of communications.

Whitehead questioned the notion — espoused strongly by allowing customers to attach their own communications devices to telephone company lines.

"I cannot conclude that this problem is really significant," he said, adding that there are a number of ways in which technical standards can be developed.

The process of developing standards for telephone-related devices is known as "interchangeability" and is strongly opposed by the Bell system.

Whitehead pointed out that historically it has been up to a monopolist to justify before the courts his monopoly status, and regulation has been directed at protecting customers and other business from the monopoly.

"But ingenious and perverse twist has occurred in the communications industry," he said, with the Federal Communications Commission being placed in the posture of "permitting competition."

"The result," he said, "is the would-be provider of a new communications service, rather than the monopolist, is required to justify its existence, and the monopolist receives the protection of the regulatory monopoly."

Bhutto pushes US aid

(C) New York Times Service
 RAWALPINDI, Pakistan — Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto said Tuesday that the United States has an obligation to provide economic aid to Pakistan.

Bhutto, in the most forceful statement he has made on the subject in the two and a half years he has been prime minister, made clear that he was accelerating his tactics in his efforts to reclaim his country with US help. He said in an interview here that Pakistan was the only ally of the US that was being denied arms. He spoke sharply and visited many of the new democratic nations in the past, including a visit last September to Washington.

Bhutto has calmly said that Pakistan must receive the military aid and that the "war" being considered

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: There is something I need to know but I'm too embarrassed to ask anyone else, so I'm asking you. For years I've heard that in order for catfood and dogfood to be sold in grocery stores, it has to be fit for human consumption.

Well, I know that tuna fish is rich in protein, and with regular tuna so expensive, I tried making a casserole with catfood tuna. My family really went for it. I hid the cans so nobody would know what I had done. My family has been asking me to make that special tuna casserole "like last time," but I'm worried. Is there something in catfood that will harm humans? The price is certainly right, but I don't want to take any chances with my family's health. Please advise me.
SLIGHTLY WORRIED

Don't pussyfoot

DEAR SLIGHTLY: I didn't pussyfoot around. I went right to the leading catfood manufacturers, and the word from them is: "Don't serve catfood to humans."

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think this is a stupid question, but can an unwed mother join Parents Without Partners? And if so, how do I go about finding out if there is a chapter near me? Thank you.
INTERESTED

DEAR INTERESTED: Parents Without Partners, Inc. is for divorced parents, separated parents, unwed parents and widowed parents. In other words, it's for any and all single parents with living children. Look for their telephone number in your directory. Or write to their International Headquarters: 7910 Woodmont Ave., Washington, D.C. 20014.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I bought a lovely suburban home. I became friendly with a neighbor who taught me a lot about gardening. She and I liked each other. Suddenly my husband became desperately ill. He fought hard to live, but it was terminal. During his illness, this neighbor came over often to cheer me up. After my husband died, my neighbor came over. I told her how grateful I was to her for all she had done; then she said: "May I ask a big favor of you?" Then she asked if I would SELL her a bracelet he had told her it was a gift from my husband, and I didn't want to sell it. Abby, she begged and begged, telling me how much she liked that bracelet, so I finally agreed to let her have it for $180—exactly what my husband had paid for it some 15 years before.

Well, that woman wore the bracelet constantly. Finally, I couldn't bear to see it on her, so I asked her to please, please sell it back to me. At first she refused. Then she said she would—for $500! It's worth $350 in today's market, but the money isn't important. The thought of that greedy woman wearing my memories on her wrist makes me sick. What would you do?
WRONGED

DEAR WRONGED: I'd buy the bracelet back, before she raises the price.

Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box 697W, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

WENDELL — The Airedale Presbyterian Church, Wendell, was the setting for the June 15 wedding of Miss Mary Lou Hagerman to Jerry V. Jensen.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Hagerman, Wendell, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Jensen, Buhl.

Rev. Anthony Gamble performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore an old-fashioned style, floor length gown of white lace Her glow-length veil was held by a headpiece of seed pearls and beads which had twin falls. The bridegroom's mother, she carried a bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Best man, Schell Wendell, was in a suit of honor. Bridesmaids were Mary Lou and Anne Hagerman, sisters of the bride.

Bill Schell, groom's father, was the officiating minister. Best man, Groomsman were Todd Marshall, Caldwell, and Rick Williams, Boise; Tontand, Guy Ramsey, cousins of the bridegroom.

Cherry Kresge, Caldwell, was organist. Estyn Gess, vocal professor at the College of Idaho, was the soloist. Prelude music was played by Mary Lou Hagerman.

The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake baked by Mrs. Stephen Talbot, Seattle, and served by Mrs. Don Miller, Boise, and Mrs. Talbot.

The bridegroom's cake was baked by Mrs. Jack Ramsey, Ellers.

Other reception assistants were Mrs. Muncie Mink, Mrs. H. E. Hagerman and Mrs. M. E. Schell.

Mrs. Edwards, Wendell, Michael and Kristi Lattue, Wendell, assisted at the gift table.

Rev. Anthony Gamble, Wendell, had charge of the guest book and Beverly Schraak, Wendell, assisted with the flowers.

Special guests included Mrs. Ross, Edwards, Wendell, grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Earl Ramsey, Ellers, a grand mother of the bridegroom; Susan Jensen, the bridegroom's aunt; Mr. and Mrs. Joanne Mosen, Idaho Falls, great uncle and aunt of the bridegroom.

The couple will be living in Pocatello, this fall where the bridegroom will be in a graduate program at Idaho State University.

Summer treats

Use freezer for children's cooking

- 19 popsicle sticks or wooden dowels
- In blender, combine one-half of the punch and fruit cocktail. Blend until smooth. Pour into a large pitcher and stir in remaining punch. Pour mixture into paper cups.
- Freeze until mushy. Push stick at an angle into center of each cup. Freeze until hard. To serve, cut off paper cup. Makes 19 pops.
- Note: For long storage, slip each through piece of plastic wrap and cover the surface of the pops to prevent ice crystals from forming.
- FRUIT CUBES
- 1 can (16 oz.) very berry Hawaiian Punch
- 1 can (16 oz.) fruit cocktail, drained
- 19 paper cups (3 1/2 oz. each)
- Pineapple chunks, fresh or canned
- Quartered orange slices or canned mandarin orange sections
- Cantaloupe cubes
- Fill as many ice cube trays as desired with Hawaiian Punch. This amount will fill three trays; any remaining may be stored in the refrigerator for snacking.)
- Place a piece of fruit in each cube section. Freeze until hard. Remove from trays and store in plastic bag until needed. Use as a flavorful chiller for Hawaiian Punch, ginger ale, lemon-lime carbonated beverage or any other soft drink.
- Makes three trays.

More water needed

JEROME — The recipe for Picnic Cake in the July 4 Times-News incorrectly lists 1 1/2 cups of boiling water in the ingredients.

The correct amount of boiling water is 1 1/2 cups. The Times-News regrets the error.

Filer '64 class has reunion

FILER — About two thirds of the class of Filer High School met for a family picnic Sunday afternoon at the Filer fairgrounds.

The class held a reunion banquet Saturday evening at the Blue Lakes Inn with Gary Larson, serving as master of ceremonies. Music was provided by Slim Bessey and the Gem State Gens.

Charles Putz, Anchorage, Alaska, traveled the farthest to attend the reunion. Dean Fischer was named the "most wanted man" of the class. Steve Parish had become "the baldest." Jerry Rembert was named "the class clown" and attended the reunion wearing a "dumb" hat.

Teachers who had taught the class and who attended the reunion were Edumy, Ed and Mrs. William Morlin and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Glassinger.

CONNIE KEVAN joins group

Elmore girl on 4-H tour

GLENN'S FERRY — Connie Kevan, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. James Kovan, Glenn's Ferry, is touring Europe with the People's Program and other youth.

They are traveling by bus, ship, train and airplane to live with host European families in England, Ireland, Belgium, Switzerland, France, Germany, Hungary and Russia.

The group left in mid-June to spend 29 days gaining a deeper understanding of how people of other countries live as part of the 1974 Citizen Ambassador Program, a division of People to People.

Connie was selected on the basis of recommendation and personal application. The applicants pay their own cost of this program. Coordinated by Mrs. Ruth J. Shane, US delegation coordinator, a former Idaho and Washington extension home economist until 4-1-1969.

Contest set

SHOSHONE — An art contest sponsored by the Wood River Soil Conservation District will be held at the Lincoln County Fair this fall.

Mrs. Linda Guthrie is chairman of the contest.

Entries must depict some phase of conservation of Idaho's resources. Pictures on other subjects are to be entered in the Hobby Exhibit department.

The fair will be Aug. 2 and 3 at the fairgrounds in Shoshone.

Club donates $50

RICHFIELD — The Richfield Burmah Improvement club has donated $50 toward the Senior Citizens' Center in Richfield.

Mrs. Judy Barker reported on the senior citizen organization at the last club meeting.

Mrs. H. A. Ross received a polynesian performance for her 60th birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Carl Paulson will be hostess at the club meeting on July 12.

COLETTE THOMPSON engaged

Jerome girl sets Aug. 23 wedding

JEROME — Mr. and Mrs. Keith B. Thompson are announcing the betrothal of their daughter Colette Thompson to Coletto Nylone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Nylone, Mountain Home.

Miss Thompson is a 1973 graduate of the Jerome High School and graduated from Boise College with one year of business. She now works as a secretary for Morrison and Knudsen at the National Reactor Testing Area.

Nylone was born in Philadelphia, Pa., high school and is employed at Hawthay Plant. She is studying to plans to continue his college education after the fall.

The wedding will be held on Friday at 1:30 p.m. at George K's restaurant for a luncheon reception.

Wranglers club holds trail ride

KING HILL — The King Hill Horse Wranglers 4-H Club enjoyed a trail ride Saturday, officials announced Monday.

The ride was held at the Reservoir for a cook-out, swimming and fishing party. Several parents and two guests accompanied the members to the ride.

Club members reported they had been practicing "Western Show" with their horses.

BRIDGE

Hopless contract blinds East

The simple, safe defense would be to cash a heart and the second high spade and settle for down one. But East wanted more than one trick set. He led a trump.

South won in dummy and led the queen of hearts. East was in a bind and still refused to take the sure set. He led a second heart.

East had refused to see what just might happen to him if he was punished severely for his blindness.

South ruffed in dummy, led a diamond to his king, a second one back to his ace, and a third diamond, which he ruffed. East's queen and jack were gone. South ruffed his last heart, discarded his second spade on the 10 of diamonds and his impossible contract had been made.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There are none so blind as those who will not see. This is particularly true about bridge players who are blinded by their high cards and fail to see that maybe something bad may happen to their rock crusher.

We can't find any fault with East's bidding. His double would probably go down at four hearts, but East certainly held enough values to get that. Likewise, his double of five clubs was correct decision, but his defense left South make his contract.

West got off to the fine lead of the six of spades. Dummy's jack lost to East's king and it was up to East to proceed from that point.

Horse show planned

TWIN FALLS — The third annual Sandown All-Breeds Horse show will be sponsored Saturday by the Patriotic Pokes 4-H Club.

The show will begin at the Piker fairgrounds at 4 p.m. Entries will be accepted until past time.

John Lickley, Jan Peterson and Mary Kimball will judge entries in 22 classes on a three-point system. Trophies will be awarded in each class and rosettes will be given to the top five winners.

Special awards also will be given to the all-around horse and all-around runner-up performers in both the 23 and under age category and the 14-18 years category. Someone will also have the honor of earning the halter trophy.

Girls make show plans

Competition will include halter class, showmanship at halter, barrel racing, western English equitation, western riding, cutting, barrel racing and pole-bending. Each of these will be divided into the two age groups.

Open classes will be conducted for halter, geldings and mares, English pleasure and trail riding. A special walk and trot class will be offered for children 10 and under. At the end of the show, a free western membership class will be open for all those who haven't won an award in other classes.

Entries may be picked up at Peterson's Western Apparel, Marie's Boots, McKers' Saddle and Tack and City Supply. For more information call 733-9011 or 733-9070.

Twin Falls native honored

TWIN FALLS — Frank R. Berria, Twin Falls native, has received the 1974 Federal Executive Board award for service award for law enforcement in the Cleveland, Ohio, area.

Berria, presently serving as chief intelligence officer of the Internal Revenue Service in Cleveland, was cited for making nationally significant contributions to law enforcement and the preservation of the integrity of our society's tax structure.

A U.S. Navy veteran, Berria joined the IRS in 1948 as a deputy collector in Gooding where his mother still resides. In 1951, he transferred to the Weiser office, and in 1955 moved to Boise as a special agent. During these years he also attended Boise State College and the University of Idaho.

His record in Boise led to promotion and a transfer to the IRS National Office in Washington, D.C. From 1970 to 1974, he served as intelligence coordinator for the Strike Force against organized crime.

While serving as chief intelligence officer in Birmingham, Ala., district from 1969 to 1972, Berria directed a political corruption program resulting in numerous indictments by the federal grand jury.

Berria has been active in promoting equal employment opportunity since going to the Cleveland district in 1972. His efforts have resulted in the hiring of the first woman, special agent, a black special agent, and the establishment of two para-professional positions which blacks were recruited.

News Of Servicemen

GLENN FERRY — Mrs. Steven Wilcox is staying at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Sellers, while her husband is in the field in Germany.

Wilcox has received housing and as soon as he returns to his Kirchgoose base Mrs. Wilcox will join him. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. May Wilcox of Caldwell, formerly of Glenn Ferry.

The army base is north of Frankfurt, Germany.

BUHL — Pvt. Samuel D. Caron, son of Mrs. Marian Caron, Buhl, has completed eight weeks of basic training at the US Army training center at Ft. Ord, Calif.

He is serving in the Infantry.

Hagerman to celebrate Pioneer Day

HAGERMAN — The annual Hagerman Pioneer Day will be held July 24, according to Floyd Marsh, general chairman.

AS in past years, the day's events will begin with the queen's contest at 9 a.m. The parade will begin at 11 a.m. and the rodeo is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. in the tree-shaded arena.

A ham dinner will be served by the Relief Society in the air conditioned LDS Church cultural hall across the street from the rodeo arena.

Barbara and Blair Hall will be chairmen for the queen's contest. Girls interested in the contest should contact Mrs. and Mrs. Hall at their Bliss address or call 424-4219.

Contestants must be 16 years of age and not over 24 by Sept. 1. They must be single and never have been married. Entries will be taken until Friday.

Bob Evans, Hagerman, is parade chairman. All entries are welcome including bands, marching groups, horse clubs, etc. Trophies and cash prizes will be presented to winners in the old time, commercial and organizational divisions.

Trophies will be presented winners in the marching groups and riding clubs. Evans may be contacted by phoning 737-6184.

Mrs. Lee Chitt will be in charge of the children's division of the parade. Her phone number is 424-4126.

Rhon Wood, Bliss, is the rodeo chairman with Mrs. Wood, rodeo secretary. Mrs. Wood said entries for the rodeo will open Wednesday and close at 11 p.m. Thursday.

Joe Smith is party representative and at the rodeo office before 11 a.m. July 24 or entrance will be taken until 10 p.m. and be applied by an alternate.

The rodeo arena will be closed from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. July 24. Mrs. Wood may be contacted by phoning 424-4126.

Mrs. Wood noted that girls 1901 trying a new event, had been added to this year's rodeo with the regular rodeo events, which include barrel racing, saddle bronc, kids' call riding, calf roping, cow milking, team roping, ribbon roping, wild cow race and bull riding.

Another special event during the rodeo will be a western animal scramble. This will be held in two divisions with one for the children 7 years and younger and the other for the 12 to 18 year olds.

Stark, for the rodeo, will be furnished by Hugh Stevens, Milevale, and the Wood Ranch, Bliss.

Gooding officers remain

GOODING—A resume of a puppet show performance was presented to the Gooding County School Board Monday night.

Mrs. Claire Major and Mrs. Pat Elsinger, project advisers, gave the board a complete rundown of the performance to be held July 22-25 in Washington, D.C. at the JFK Performing Arts Center.

Reorganization of the district was also on the meeting agenda. The officers remained the same with Claude Scanton, chairman; Rodney Glanville, vice chairman; Mrs. Eugene Guinn, clerk; treasurer; Cecil Hobbes, school attorney; and Ernest Oakley appointed as auditor for the district.

Clark Seaman is chairman for a three-year term on the board. Other business covered at the meeting included the purchase of a driver for the grade school, approval of bus routes for the 1974-75 school year, which will remain the same as they were at the close of the previous year, and a discussion of a window breakage in the school system. The board went on record as supporting a levy of $1000.00 to provide for this type of vandalism.

Virgil Jensen, Shoshone, was offered a contract to teach fourth grade at the elementary school. Eugene Sabo was appointed as director of title of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act for 1974-75. The board appointed James Muscat, teacher, as the district representative for all federal projects for the coming school year.

Discussion was held on the parks and recreation needs of the Gooding High School concerning the proposed tennis courts, to be done late summer or early fall.

The board discussed the Sun Valley State Department of Education meeting July 2-3, and tabled adoption of the high school handbook until the next meeting.

Family nights slated

JEROME—Family night swimming will begin Thursday at the Jerome swimming pool. S.N. Weeks, Jerome councilman, said "The pool will be open to families from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. each Thursday night. All children under 16 years of age must be accompanied by their parents. We had originally set Thursday night for adults only but because the adults are not using the night we have received several complaints about dropping the family night. We have now dropped the adult night only." Weeks said.

The last Jerome City Council meeting, management of the Jerome swimming pool, was cited as being poor and not offering enough swimming hours in the public by two Jerome women. Weeks said because of the new federal law allowing only a 40-hour work week for employees the city was limited in the number of hours the pool could be open without hiring additional personnel. "At the present time the pool is used in the morning hours for swimming lessons. At noon the Jerome swimming team uses the pool until 1 o'clock. At that time the pool and decks must be scrubbed down before we can open to the public at 2 p.m. The pool is then used again by the swimming team from 6 to 7 p.m. when it is once again open to the public. We have always closed the pool on Fridays for cleaning," Weeks said.

The City Council has agreed to check into the possibility of having the pool open more to the public next year.

2 trustees sworn in at Kimberly

KIMBERLY—Two new members were sworn in at the Kimberly school trustee meeting Monday night.

George Nauman and Dale Dohse are the new members. Don Ballard, vice, elected chairman, Holly Houffour, vice chairman, Jack Chaborn, clerk, and Evelyn Jones, secretary-treasurer.

Other business items discussed by the board were raising janitor salaries 20 cents an hour and setting the time and place for meetings to be the same as last year. There will be a vote on the cost of hot lunches with an amount decided later. American Oil was given the bid for supplying gas for the buses.

Two coaches, Rick Ericson and George Arness, will go to Sun Valley to attend the coaches conference in August.

Elmore fair data reported

GLENNS FRARY—The Elmore County Fair books and schedule sheets will be sent to all 4-H members and leaders.

Those who entered exhibits in the open-class division last year will also receive a fair book. Books are available at the extension office.

Each 4-H club in the county is asked to make a poster for its club for entry in the poster contest. This was started last year and main ideas developed.

Prizes will be awarded to the clubs and premiums paid for the award given. A grand prize will be given to the club with the grand champion ribbon. The poster will be displayed over the 4-H projects this year and will take center to the future building.

The secretary and reporter of each 4-H club is reminded to complete the books and display them at the fair. They will be judged and each entry will be given a ribbon and award. The grand champion winners will be presented a gift at the awards ceremony. The award date for the poster contest is July 19. If anyone is having difficulty in preparing a poster, call the extension office and Tina Van Slyke, the home extension agent, will be of assistance.

Horoscope

Carroll Righter

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JULY 11, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Delays and disappointments can haunt your path early in the day. Keep cheerful and expect to have some problems to solve that are not easy. Later you can make long-range plans that will include many changes. Keep alert.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can now understand what's holding you back from gaining the aims that's important to you. Don't make any snap decisions.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Attend to routine chores although they may be boring and soon you'll receive the recognition you desire. Think constructively.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your friendships are deepening now but make sure they are the ones who can help you to advance more quickly in the future. Keep calm.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Others are very critical today so make sure you do nothing to give them cause to criticize you. You can impress others now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have good ideas and want to make some radical changes, but that's not sure they are practical. Try to clear crosses you've made.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have made arrangements to handle credit properly so do it before you get pushed further. Come to an agreement with loved ones.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use tact in finding out what your true position is with an associate who has a bad temper. Avoid one who strongly opposes you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Finish difficult work early in the day so you have time for more important matters later. Take the exercises you need.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are not in the right position financially to engage in expensive amusement, so postpone for the time being. Be thrifty.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you are cooperative at home you can easily alleviate mounting tensions, and have harmony once more. Show love.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although you are thinking things you could be thinking wrongly, so correct your thoughts if need be. Take it easy tonight.

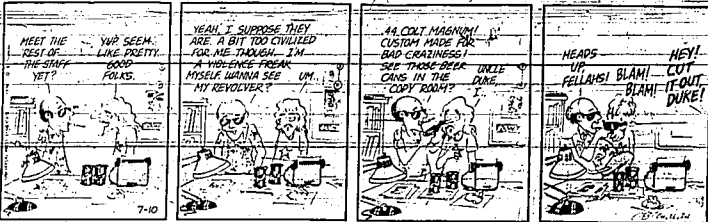

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You think you can buy yourself out of anything, but use a wiser approach. Study your budget and cut down expenses.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be an interesting person who can solve problems easily but should be taught that any problems purposely created have to be paid for at a high price. Teach to work with hands and mind for the best result. One ethical training early in life and send to the best school you can afford.
The Stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

Some medical researchers now say you inherit the gripping power in your hands. And you can't improve it significantly by exercise. Most people, they say, grip more strongly in the dominant hand than in the less-used, hand by about 10 per cent. Average man's gripping power, between 60 and 130 pounds. Average woman's, between 30 and 70 pounds.

WERE YOU aware that houses have been built out of molasses? Correct. The science boys have worked up an adobe brick called Plastic B concentrate. With molasses as a key ingredient, Molasses has even been used to blacktop driveways.

JUST 89 years ago, no woman was permitted to enter a cafeteria. Just 90 years ago, there weren't any cafeterias.

VILLAGESMITHY

O. "Under the spreading chestnut tree, the village smithy stands. So begins that poem called 'The Village Blacksmith' by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. But 'L'ouie, do you realize that nowhere in that classic does it explain whether the smithy was a man or a woman? Why, not?"

A. Won't bite on that one, friend. The smithy was the building. Kindly recall the text: "The smith, a mighty man is he, with large and sinewy hands..."

YOU SAY YOU don't know how to get all the meat out of the coconut shell? Nothing to it. Pierce the eye with an ice pick. Drain the milk. Bake the coconut for 25 minutes at a 350-degree F. oven. Then put the coconut in the freezer for an hour. Just a couple of taps with a hammer now will crack the shell, leaving the meat intact.

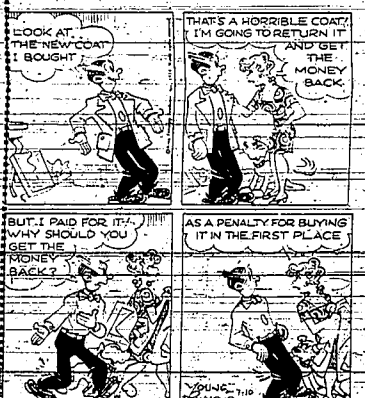

THE HARD FACTS

Every year has 52 of the days it begins on. THE CANADIAN HONKER also mates for life. MAYBE you know that surgeons now are using staple guns? FIGURE your fingernail grows about two inches a year. HEN'S EGGS on the average run about 10 to the pound.

IN MOST fictional murder stories, the prosecution seems only to be required to prove one thing—that the party charged with the murder actually did it. But in real murder cases, three other things need be proved: (1) One that the killing did indeed take place. (2) That it was done in such a manner as to be legally defined as murder. (3) That the accused intended, at least for a moment, either to kill or to cause grievous bodily harm. Remember that.

Wendell aides rescind policies for principal

WENDELL—Trustees, newly elected to the Wendell School Board, met for their first time Monday night and voted to rescind the previous board's rules and regulations for the high school principal.

The rules, adopted by a three-to-two vote in the June board meeting, represented a final action of the outgoing board, four members of which were defeated in the trustee election this spring.

Vard Melton, the only incumbent returned to office and who ran unopposed, was elected board chairman Monday night. Jim Campbell, was named vice chairman. Other sworn-in-to-office trustees: Evelyn Campbell, Bill Fleming and Grant Zollinger.

In voiding the rules passed by the former board, the new trustees substituted a set of regulations as proposed by the school superintendent and asked him to prepare regulations in the form of a job description for the elementary principal.

Former board members had ruled the high school principal teach two regular classes, be required to be in the building from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and if necessary to leave sign out before going. He was also required to make no comments to board intentions unless they were first in writing.

Trustees also adopted a revised student handbook for junior and senior high school students and voted to allow coaches to attend a clinic in Sun Valley in August.

Chairman Melton, Mrs. Campbell and Lawrence Latta superintendent, were named to a salary negotiating committee to meet tonight with a teachers representative group to discuss the teachers' contracts for the coming school year.

The board members discussed engineering services needed for the proposed new gymnasium, physical education and industrial arts complex and addition to the elementary school.
