Nixon fires OEO chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has fired the head of the Office of Economic Opportunity for trying to save some of the programs the President wants abolished.

OEO Director Edwin J. Aronson said Nixon adviser Dean Burch called him Monday afternoon and requested his resignation to become official at 10 a.m. Tuesday. He felt that the President does not want OEO and that I have been accused of lobbying to continue the agency.

Sentenced

SAN ANTONIO, TEX. (UPI) — A jury today sentenced Elmer Wayne Henley to six years in prison — one for each of the boys he was convicted of killing. In the nation's worst modern mass murder spree.

Jurors deliberated for 33 minutes before announcing their decision.

Burns asks big budget cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In an effort to check double-digit inflation, Arthur H. Burns chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, has urged a federal budget reduction of $10 billion.

Takes life

JERUSALEM (N.Y. Times Service) — Premier Yitzhak Rabin today ruled out any possibility of contract or negotiations between Israel and the Palestinian guerrilla organization.

Emergency medical plan for jump set

TWIN FALLS — Administrators of six area hospitals are coordinating plans for emergency medical care during the week of Evel Knievel's canyon jump.

Tentative plans call for Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, St. Benedict's Hospital in Jerome, and the Twin Falls Clinic Hospital to act as primary treatment points, according to NAMI Administrator James Rosenbaum.

If other facilities are needed, less serious patients will be transferred after evaluation to the outlying hospitals in Gooding, Burley and Rupert, he said.

Two major dangers face the hospitals, Rosenbaum said. Any major disaster or emergency would produce an overflow of patients. Magic Valley Memorial has a 100-bed capacity, which can be expanded with 20 cots and special mattresses.

But emergency facilities are extremely limited, Rosenbaum said. A pre-designed mass casualty program is put into effect when more than 10 injured persons need treatment at the same time, Rosenbaum said. In any massive disaster, patients would have to be evacuated to neighboring hospitals, he said.

The other danger is heavy hospital utilization over an extended period of time, Rosenbaum said. The hospital has a limited staff to call on for extra duty, and there is a danger of extreme fatigue and overwork, he said.

Plans, which Rosenbaum emphasized were tentative and extremely flexible, also put at least two physicians on call for emergency duty, if not three. Presently, only one physician is on call, Rosenbaum said. An alternate could be made to have a surgeon and pediatrician on call for backup.

During the jump week, Rosenbaum said tentative plans call for canceling all surgery except essential cases to avoid tying surgical staffs and to reduce hospital occupancy.

Panel issues IRS abuse report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee published evidence today of White House efforts to turn the Internal Revenue Service into an agency of political reward and revenge.

A 40-page report from the impeachment inquiry showed that Nixon was present when his aides discussed efforts to make political hay from IRS tax information and to harass White House "enemies" by adding their taxes.

Former IRS Commissioner "Ira" Holt, who threw in a secret statement to the committee, said the pressure to politicize the tax service became so intense in 1970 that he had to threaten to resign to block a White House plan of reorganization.

Throver said he feared the plan would turn the 1,000-man Internal Revenue and Firearms Division into a "personal police force" controllable only by the IRS commissioner — a political appointee.

The White House offered Throver two candidates for the job — G. Gordon Liddy, later convicted in the Watergate break-in, and Jack Gaudin, a former New York police detective whose role as a political spy came to light during the Senate Watergate hearings.

Throver, a Republican from Atlanta, Ga., said he backed both appointments.

But when he tried to see President Nixon to protest against efforts to turn the IRS over to a political tool, he was denied access to the Oval Office and backed from making his case, he said.

Judiciary Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., has said he considers evidence of the political abuse of government agencies to be among the most serious in the impeachment inquiry. The IRS evidence is likely to be cited when Rodino's committee starts drafting articles of impeachment next week.

Today's report was the ninth volume of impeachment evidence to be released, with more to come later this week.

The new report said:

—Newspaperman Clark Mollenhoff, former special counsel to Nixon, swore in an affidavit to the committee that H.R. Holden invoked Nixon's name in 1970 in seeking a mean on the tax status of Gerald Wallace, brother of the Governor of Alabama. The damaging memo was swiftly leaked, even though unauthorized disclosure of tax returns is a criminal act.

—John B. Ehrlichman, the staffer whom statement, recalls telling former IRS Commissioner Johnnie M. Walters in 1972 what a crummy job he had done because an audit failed to find a tax underpayment by Lawrence O'Brien, then Democratic national chairman. Ehrlichman swore last February "I wanted them to turn up something and send him to jail before the election and unfortunately it didn't materialize."

—Walters, who quit the following April, recalling the incident, said that Ehrlichman had complained to him, "I'm goddam tired of your goddam dragging tactics." White House officials deny the evidence showed, left, Democrats in the IRS hierarchy controlled Republican tax commissioners instead of vice versa.

Idaho faculty pay increase studied

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Board of Education may ask the governor this fall for funds to boost faculty salaries at state colleges more than 20 percent.

CSI President James L. Taylor told college trustees Monday night that the state teacher's rate came up with a 10.5 per cent cost-of-living index for determining 1975-76 salary needs.

On top of this, the board suggested another 10 to 12 per cent salary hike to bring Idaho colleges to pay salaries more in line with those of state colleges throughout the Intermountain region.

Dr. Taylor said he has been asked by the state board to develop a preliminary budget. He said he would incorporate the 20.2 per cent salary hike "option" in the other state colleges request.

At state board of education meetings last week James Todd, associate director of the Idaho Office of Higher Education, reported that average faculty salaries at Idaho's three universities are 30 per cent or more below those of comparable schools in the Intermountain West, while salaries at Idaho's two junior colleges average 35 to 45 per cent below the average at junior colleges in the region.

The average salary for all ranks of faculty at junior colleges is $12,200 while the state's average, Dr. Todd said, estimated the average salary in the region for nine months teaching is about $12,800. He said that CSI's average faculty increases of 10.5 per cent this year will bring the college more in line with the regional salaries.

Taylor said the state board is considering requesting $20 million more for education and $5.8 million more for post-secondary education.

Another area in which the college will have to work with the state board is the definition of the college district. While the college is to serve the eight-county Magic Valley area, it directly taxes only Twin Falls and Jerome counties. Other counties pay according to the number of students from the county attending CSI.

Hospital rate increase set

By CRICKET BIRD
Twin Falls Staff Writer

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Memorial Hospital board Monday gave final approval to rate increases that will bring in about $200,000 in additional revenue this year.

The rate increases, approved in theory by the board in mid-May, and in effect since early June are the first since the hospital moved to its new location. No changes were made in the room rates.

The board approved the increase, which amounts to five per cent of this year's expected aggregate revenue figure of about $4 million. Thirty-two per cent of that goes to hospital employees.

According to controller John Hayden, about $20,000 of that will go for higher wages. Another $100,000 for fringe benefits and $100,000 plus will help offset any other costs that stand in excess to the hospital during the rest of the year, Hayden said.

Services affected include X-ray, laboratory, emergency, physical therapy, inhalation therapy, operating and recovery room, pharmacy and central services. In addition, rates for the intensive care nursery were increased. Before, the rate had been the same as regular nursery services, Hayden said.

Some of the service rates had not been raised for three years, Hayden said, because of the price freeze. "A lot of our costs had increased but our charges had not," Hayden said.

In addition, the governmental has proposed a Medicare reimbursement policy, that pays the lower figure between costs and charges. If charges are lower than costs, the hospital would be losing money, Hayden said. The rate increases are an attempt to "get our charges so they at least cover our costs item by item," Hayden said.

Spring blasted

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

FAIRFIELD — A popular hot springs near here has been blown up.

"The hot springs is no more. Someone detonated it," said John DeLong, part owner of the ranch northeast of Fairfield where the Elk Creek Hot Springs were located.

DeLong said he was told last week by Camas County Sheriff Paul Cox that some youths had been blasting the springs. Upon checking the location this weekend, DeLong discovered that the dam holding the small pond of hot water had been blown out.

"It looks like somebody must have used dynamite," he said. He did not know who destroyed the dam.

The hot springs had been drawing attention from some neighboring residents, who charged that wild parties were being held there.

Demos draft charges

(C) Washington Star-News

WASHINGTON — A task force of Democrats on the House Judiciary Committee has been assigned by Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., to begin drafting proposed articles of impeachment against President Nixon, according to a source.

A member of the group, who asked not be identified, predicted Monday that from four to six articles will be proposed to the full committee. The proposals, including one from the Intermountain area of the impeachment inquiry.

"The President's personal finances, the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation case, political misuse of the Internal Revenue Service, the milk industry case and the Watergate case."

The source speculated that Nixon would be charged with obstruction of justice in the cover-up investigation.

Ketchum man dies in crash

HAILEY — A head-on two-way pickup collision between Ketchum and Hailey killed a Ketchum man about 12:45 a.m. today and hospitalized four others.

State police are withholding the name of the victim pending notification of parents in Pocatello. Two women and a man are listed in fair condition at Blaine County Hospital.

James A. Dixon, driver of one of the vehicles, is in Meritz Clinic, Sun Valley, with fractured ribs and multiple injuries. He also is listed in fair condition.

Sherriff's Deputy David Euredell said there were no skid marks at the scene and no evidence of excessive speed on the part of either driver. The crash occurred on the three miles north of Hailey on US Highway 93.

The Ketchum ambulance crew worked nearly an hour to free Dixon who was trapped in his vehicle. The crew separated the car from the chassis of the truck about 2 a.m. and rushed him to the clinic.

Medic reports 'test tube births'

(C) New York Times Service

LONDON — A British gynecologist reported today that three babies born in Europe during the last six months had been conceived in test tubes, from an ovum removed from the mother and then placed in her body.

These would be the first babies born from fertilization of human ovum outside the body. In the procedure, the unfertilized egg is put in a nutrient solution in which "sperm" have been added, with the fertilized egg being returned to the body after seven to 10 days.

Dr. Douglas Hens, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Leeds University, reported the test-tube, conceptions at the annual scientific meeting of the British Medical Association at Hull, in Yorkshire.

Bevis said there apparently were no abnormalities in the babies. He declined to give details of the births, which he said had been kept secret for fear of the effects of publicity.

The technique has been developed for women who cannot have children because of damage of the fallopian tubes, which carry the egg from the ovaries to the uterus. Fertilization normally takes place in the tubes.

A major difficulty in the technique has been the loss of the fertilized egg, which is usually flushed out with the lining of the womb during menstruation. Bevis said that this problem had not been solved.

Leading British geneticists said only two doctors in Britain had sufficient experience to have carried out the successful operations. However, both men — Dr. Patrick Steptoe of Oldham in Lancashire and Dr. Robert Edwards of the physiological laboratory at Cambridge University — said they know nothing of the births.

Youth shots needed

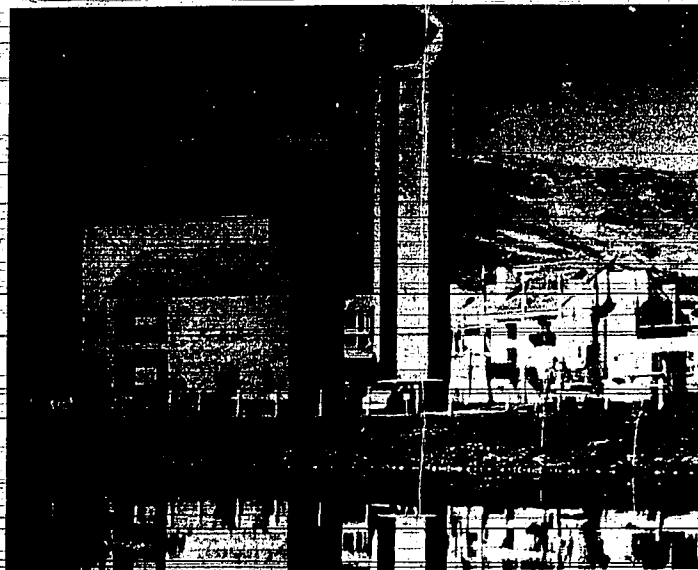

TWIN FALLS — An "alarming" number of children are not receiving immunizations against whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, polio, measles and mumps, according to a survey conducted by the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare.

The immunity level is especially low in children aged 2 through 6.

All immunizations are available from private physicians or at the South Central District Health Department in Twin Falls.

In order to maintain an immunity level that will prevent an epidemic of the communicable diseases, the following schedule is recommended by the health district:

- DPT (diphtheria, whooping cough) and tetanus for children 5 years old and younger.
- Series of three immunizations, one to two months apart beginning at two months, booster one year after.
- Measles, mumps and booster at age 6.
- D and T (diphtheria and tetanus), for those over age 5.
- Immunization should continue at 10-year intervals through adulthood.
- Polio: Series of two or three immunizations, two months apart, booster at age 6.
- Measles: Hard, red, 10-day measles vaccine, recommended at age 1.
- Rubella or 5-day measles: Immunization recommended at age 1.
- Mumps: Immunization at age 1.

Tours scheduled of Elkhorn facilities

Valley residents tour Elkhorn

ELKHORN — People from throughout the Magic Valley and as far away as Florida toured the new Elkhorn at Sun Valley resort Saturday and Sunday.

The tour, the first in a new summer program designed to introduce people to Elkhorn, will be repeated throughout the summer, according to Teddy Shapiro, director of communications for the resort.

The 20 minute free tour includes a description of the village layout, farms featured on the tour include shops and restaurants and the year-around skating rink. Complimentary tickets are issued to those wishing a ride on the Elkhorn lift.

The two-year-old resort is a joint venture of the Johns-Manville Corporation and the Sun Valley Company. During the two-year growth, $10.5 million has gone into the development. Upon completion of the project in 1982, Elkhorn will involve estimated expenditure for excess of $30 million.

The resort is being developed on a 2,920-acre area southeast of Sun Valley. The Sun Valley Planning and Zoning Commission and the City Council assured residents, homeowners and investors that the resort will be well planned and limited to about 25 per cent of the total available land, the remainder being left forever as open space or for recreational uses.

Eight tennis courts are already in use at the resort and the three designated communities, a twenty court complex, will soon be completed. Every Saturday afternoon exhibition matches featuring some professionals are offered at Elkhorn.

Upcoming events at the resort include the grand opening of the 7,200-yard, 18-hole golf course. The course will open Aug. 1.

Sawtooth contract set

KETCHUM — A San Francisco firm has been awarded the community development plan contract for Stanley, Lower Stanley and Sawtooth City.

Technical requirements listed in the bid include creating the SNREA provide that each community establish long-range and comprehensive policies and development processes, goals and objectives.

According to the bill, the contractor in preparing the general plans shall identify the existing community development and recreation what is desired in the future within the provisions of PL 92-400 and what is necessary to insure use and enjoyment of the land in perpetuity.

According to SNREA planning supervisor Tom Kovalicky, the firm will research and inventory each community through a program as well as local input as it can. A regional recreational officer in Ogden said the firm had been in the SNREA for two weeks.

Hansen classes meet for reunion

HANSEN — About 100 graduates of Hansen High School classes of 1928 through 1935, rekindled friendships at a reunion Saturday.

The group met at Kimberly Park at 10 a.m. for a coffee tour. Many later went to former classmates' homes where they recalled school days. A dinner was attended by 109 of the graduates at the Holiday Inn Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Gailey, class of 1931, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Naylor, 1928, were on the coffee hour committee. Mrs. June (Robison) Wilson, 1931, was the general chairman for both meetings.

At the evening meeting a memorial was held for deceased graduates: William (Bib) Wiseman, Twin Falls, 1934, was master of ceremonies at the dinner. Bill Gims, Corning, Ore., 1927, gave the invocation. Dorothy (Cline) Custer, 1929, gave a humorous skit, in which she used the names of a number of the classmates. She was dressed as an "Granny".

Heidi (Minnich) Bailey, 1935, and Freda (Peg) Drake-Dodson, 1935, directed the table floral arrangements and corsages. They presented former teachers, Gerald Talbot, Nampa; Earl (Tweedy) Gaverney, Salmon; Halah Nyblud, Caldwell, Superintendent for many years; Roy Smith, Lewiston; and Elsie Lindgren, Twin Falls, with corsages and bouquets.

Lucille (Buster) Wilson prepared the class tabs for seating at the tables.

Howard Hill, Shoshone, class of 1928, introduced his classmates; Dorothy (Cline) Custer introduced 1928 graduates; Lester Naylor, Hansen, 1929; Max Gailey, 1931; Leon (Walker) Ridgeway, Twin Falls, 1932; Norman (Hayes) Hill, Shoshone, 1933; Dorothy (Mills) Carson, Hansen, 1934; and Fred Shobe, Twin Falls, 1935. Each of the alumni gave a brief resume of activities and talents since graduation.

Glady's (Brewer) Esson, Springfield, Ill., and her sisters, Grace (Brewer) Hugkins, Beloit, Kans., came the farthest to attend. There were many from Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada and Utah.

Grazing eliminated

KETCHUM — Grazing privileges in a portion of the Sawtooth National Recreation Area have been eliminated and a high mountain pass closed to trailing animals.

Gray Reynolds, SNREA superintendent, said Hammond Livestock Co. has exchanged grazing privileges on the Upper Middle Fork of the Boise River for an allotment in the Boise National Forest.

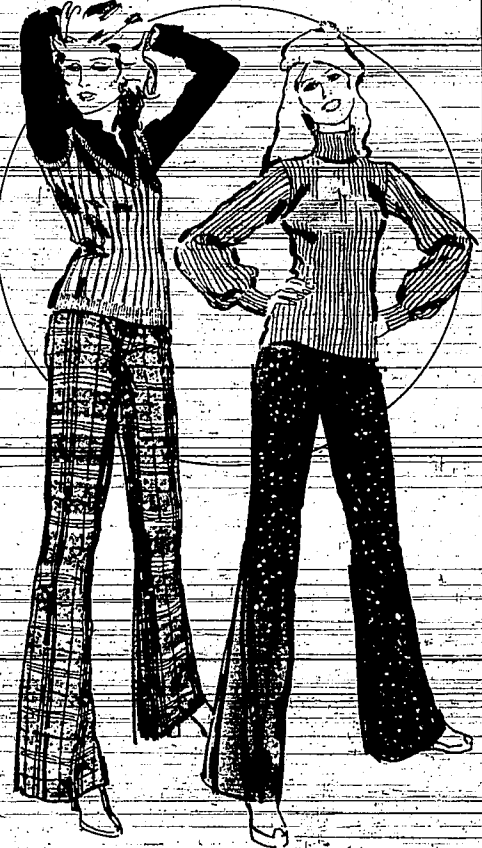

In addition, the mountain pass near O'Calligans Lake and Iron Basin has been closed to trailing animals. Reynolds said, Challis rancher Will Ingram was now trading his livestock from Salt Creek to his Warm Springs allotment.

Reynolds said conflicts were occurring between recreational use of the area and cattle trailing over the pass. Maintenance of the trail was becoming difficult, Reynolds said, due to livestock use.

Land use is limited in the Middle Fork area section be protected in its natural state, he said.

In the O'Calligans Lake basin area the superintendent said there were indications trailing cattle were competing for forage with summering bighorn sheep and a small population of mountain goats.

The basin is one of the primary areas used by 45 to 50 bighorn sheep.

US crime rate keeps rising

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Serious crime soared 23 per cent in small U.S. cities and 15 per cent throughout the entire nation during the first three months of 1974, the FBI said Monday.

Statistics compiled by local county and state law enforcement agencies and released by FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley also reported major crime increases in suburban and rural areas. Regionally, the biggest increase was in the South. The generally grim statistics showed a crime level 16 per cent higher than the same period in 1973. These statistics provide no clues as to what is causing the upsurge in crime, other than in what areas of the country the increases are occurring.

Attorney General William French Smith said in a statement accompanying the report.

"The increase that our law enforcement, as well as the public, must take a hard look at the situation and work together to halt this trend. The entire criminal justice system—the police, the prosecutors, the courts and the corrections systems—must improve itself."

The Uniform Crime Report divides serious crime into two categories: violent crime—murder, rape, robbery and aggravated assault—and property crime, which includes burglary, larceny and auto theft.

Violent crimes increased 4 per cent nationwide, a relatively bright spot in the report compared with the 29 per cent rise in crimes of violence registered in the first three months of 1973.

Crime in middle-sized cities jumped 10 per cent compared to the 29 per cent climb in cities with under 10,000 people; the report showed. There was a 22 per cent increase in suburban crime and an 18 per cent rise of crime in rural areas.

Regionally, the crime level climbed 23 per cent in the South, 17 per cent in the West, and 9 per cent in the North and North Central states.

The increase in crime also was reflected in statistics from major cities. Only 14 cities reported decreases this year, compared to 100 which had decreases during the first three months of 1973.

Crimes against people rose an average 4 per cent for the period. Foreible rape was up 10 per cent, aggravated assault and murder rose 7 per cent each, and robbery was up 1 per cent.

Crimes against property soared 16 per cent, compared to a 3 per cent decrease reported in the first quarter of 1973. Larceny increased 19 per cent, burglary 16 per cent and auto theft 5 per cent.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

'Don't sweat' good advice

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My problem may sound trivial but it is big to me. I have a persistent itchy rash. They stop-odor-but do no good in keeping me dry. I am so tired of being embarrassed even in winter or in air-conditioned rooms.

I am easy to excite and stay tense a lot. Could this have anything to do with my problem?

My mother says it is a sign that you are healthy when you perspire. If so there must be just a few healthy people on earth.—J. P.

Perspiration is one of the body's functions over which you have no voluntary control, but your overactive nerves have a great deal to do with it. It may well be that as you calm down with the passage of time, your problem will moderate.

However, that doesn't happen overnight, and I can sympathize with young women who have had cystitis, a difficulty—as you do—for the majority, the various antiperspirants plus a deliberate effort to relax is adequate, and the more confidence they gain, the better the results.

In severe situations, surgical help can become necessary for comfort. While there are drugs that suppress perspiration, the resulting disease is such that side effects result.

As to surgery, there are two methods I am aware of. One is removal of tissue in the armpits that contain sweat glands. The other is a procedure called sympathectomy. This involves severing nerve trunks having to do with perspiration control.

You would have to consult your own physician for referral to surgeons who do these operations. If you live in a city without such facilities, you can go to one of the larger medical centers.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About a year ago a guy on a TV program announced he had accidentally found a cure for baldness. He said that while curing ulcers on the head of a 90-year-old man, he found a compound that grew a tuft of hair. It seems to me he said vitamin "A" and (rare you ready?) estrogen. Please don't think I am a nut. I know I saw this show and he claimed it would be marketable in six months. Have you heard anything or can you find out?

Mrs. J. M. R.

No, don't think you're a nut. But I have over the years heard and sometimes talked to so many people who were utterly convinced that they had found a cure for baldness, that I have learned to pay no attention to them whatsoever.

When or if some university or medical center or reliable pharmaceutical firm reports such a thing, along with some factual data instead of a mere say-so, then I'll take notice. Emimization of imites can occur from estrogen used this way.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does homemade maple sugar or brown sugar have as much effect as cane or beet sugar has on diabetes? Or how about molasses in baking cookies or muffins?—Mrs. L. S.

The coloring and flavoring make no difference. Anyone with diabetes should stay away from everything you mentioned. They all have a high sugar content.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have glaucoma but the drops I have to put in my eyes cause for one or two minutes. The doctor has changed brands several times but the stinging continues. He says I should get used to it after a while.

Will this stinging do any damage to my eyes?—A. T.

It is not unusual for the drops to sting momentarily, so you aren't alone. But unless they produce redness or other signs of irritation, the advice to continue them is correct.

Nixon 'confident'

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon is confident House investigators have turned up no evidence that he committed an impeachable offense, White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig said today.

Haig also said Nixon's recent summit "journeys" reinforced his determination to remain in office.

In an interview at the Western White House, Haig said Nixon feels "that in the wake of all this activity there has been no impeachable offense" confirmed by the evidence.

"Both the President and his lawyers feel an impeachable case has not been made, but there are those who may have that objective view."

Speaking of Nixon's June travels to the Middle East and Moscow, the summit, Haig said,

Nixon aides saw IRS as political tool

Previously undisclosed testimony from John W. Dean III before a closed session of the Senate Watergate committee quoted him as saying that Nixon wanted to stop tax actions against his friends. Dean said Nixon asked that the IRS "be turned off on friends of his."

Dean, in a memo to his White House superiors, asked, "can we do anything to help?" when told that presidential friend Billy Graham, when he had reported as income gifts he had received. The reply: "No... it's already covered."

Former Assistant IRS Commissioner, for inspection Vernon Acree, covered over and over in the testimony as the conduit of information from the IRS to the White House. For example, it was Acree who told Caulfield about Graham's tax troubles and Acree who in 1971 reported to Caulfield on the tax returns of Lawrence "Old Man" H. H. White House memo on the tax status of "Individuals in the Entertainment Industry Who Are Politically Active" showed that Ronald Reagan had to pay assessments totaling $13,101 in four years prior to his election as governor of California.

The same memo — from Caulfield to Dean showed actor John Wayne was reassessed $27,331 in 1966, Jerry Lewis had to pay $462,312 from 1958 through 1969, Frank Sinatra was asked for a total of $30,779 for four years in the early 1960s, and reassessments were made against Richard Boone, Sammy Davis Jr., Peter Lawford, Fred MacMurray, Garry Morton and Lucille Ball.

When the report was written, on Oct. 6, 1971, audits were still under way for Wayne, covering his taxes from 1966 through 1969, and for Reagan, covering 1967 through 1970. The results of those audits were not disclosed in the memo.

Apparently the audits began after Wayne complained he had been singled out for particularly harsh tax treatment. Caulfield said in his memo: "The Wayne complaint when viewed in the attached context does not appear to be strong enough to pursue."

Two transcripts of presidential conversations published by the committee — Sept. 15, 1972 and March 14, 1973 — showed Nixon was aware through the conversations of Dean, Ehrlichman and Haldeman of political use of the IRS.

"The committee has been unsuccessful in going what it considers the most telling tape," said Ehrlichman in a Sept. 15, 1972, conversation in which Haldeman and Dean have testified there was talk of overruling the IRS' unwillingness to cooperate.

"The President seemed somewhat annoyed and said that the Democratic administration had used this tool well and after the election we would get people in those agencies who would be responsive to White House requirements," Dean testified last year in recalling that conversation.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica has ordered the White House to surrender tapes to Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski but James D. St. Clair is appealing that ruling to the Court of Appeals. Sirica, after reviewing the tape, said he found it "unquestionably relevant."

In a segment of the Sept. 15 tape that was given the committee, this exchange occurred:

Nixon: I want the most. I want the most comprehensive notes on all of those who have tried to do us in. Because they didn't have to do it.

Dean: That's right.

Nixon: They didn't have to do it. I mean, if the thing had been a close — uh, they had a very close election everybody on the other side would understand this game, but now they are doing this. They are doing it and they are asking for it and they are going to get it. And this, this — we, we have not used the power in this first four years, has you know.

Dean: That's right.

Nixon: We have never used it. We haven't used the bureau (the FBI) and we haven't used the Justice Department, but things are going to change, and they're going to get it right.

Dean: That's an exciting prospect.

Nixon: It's got to be done. It's the only thing to do.

Convinced

FORMER presidential aide Charles W. Colson said Monday he is convinced President Nixon didn't know in advance of plans to burglarize the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, even though he ordered the operation that led to the break-in. He made the observation after nine hours of testimony before the House Judiciary Committee. (UPI)

Aides quit

TOKYO (UPI) — Two key cabinet members resigned today, threatening to break up Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's troubled, two-year government.

Finance Minister Takao Fukuda and State Minister Shigeru Hori stepped down, raising to three the number of resignations from Tanaka's cabinet since last week's parliamentary elections.

Stars' tax status White House target

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House conducted an inquiry in 1971 into the tax status of nine "politically active" movie and television stars, according to a report released today by the House Judiciary Committee.

White House officials, the evidence showed, sent to internal Revenue Service inas to the incident. The memo was written Oct. 6, 1971, to then White House Counsel John W. Dean III by John J. Caulfield, an ex-New York City policeman hired by the White House for special assignments.

The investigation was triggered, according to accompanying testimony by a complaint to the White House from cowboy-king John Wayne that he was being "harassed" by tax men. After looking at the status of other movie and television stars, Caulfield concluded that the Wayne complaint does not appear to be strong enough to pursue.

Impachment investigators obtained the Caulfield memo from the Senate Watergate Committee, along with his secret testimony at an executive session last March 1966.

For your instructions of September 29, 1971, we have selected some individuals in the entertainment industry who were politically active during prior elections and determined their audit history. Caulfield wrote Dean.

The review, he said, showed these "deficiencies" for the selected stars:

- Richard Hayne, $1,377 for 1967-68;
- Sammy Davis Jr., $26,483 for 1963-65 and 1968;
- Jerry Lewis, $462,312 for 1958-66 and 1969;
- Peter Lawford, $29,720 for

Audit failure draws fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John D. Ehrlichman chewed out the chief of the Internal Revenue Service for a "crappy job" in 1972 when a White House-indigated audit failed to turn up any tax cheating by then-Democratic Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

Ehrlichman's pressure for the investigation of O'Brien — and his wrath when it bore no fruit — were detailed in evidence released today by the House Judiciary Committee as part of its impeachment inquiry.

Relying principally on sworn statements from both Ehrlichman and Johnnie M. Walters, head of the IRS at the time, the evidence told much the same story related last week in the Senate Watergate committee's final report.

"I wanted them to firm up something and send him (O'Brien) to jail before the election and unfortunately it didn't materialize," Ehrlichman was quoted as saying.

Walters, in a sworn affidavit dated June 10, remembered the conversation with Ehrlichman. He said it was on Aug. 29, 1972, and that he, Shultz and another IRS official, Roger North, all told Ehrlichman that O'Brien's case had been examined and closed.

"Mr. Ehrlichman indicated disappointment," Walters said, "and said to me 'I'm goddamn tired of your foot dragging tactics.' I was offended and very upset but decided to make no response to that statement." Walters said.

Following the telephone conversation, Walters said Secretary Shultz told him he could have any job any-time he wanted.

Walters stayed on, however, through April of last year.

Most of these personalities, according to the memo, were being audited for later-years returns at the time — including Reagan, who was elected governor of California in 1967.

It also noted an "open full-scale investigation on Sinatra" was underway for at least 1962 through 1967.

Caulfield testified that he reviewed the data from Vernon Acree, then an assistant IRS commissioner in charge of enforcement and now chief of the U.S. Customs Service. He said Acree "advised" the stars to check out pursuant to a White House request to see if Wayne's complaint was justified.

New league tries for O.J. Simpson in vain

NEW YORK (UPI) — The World Football League people tried they came up with an offer they felt O.J. Simpson would have to listen to, but he didn't and in a way that they claim they were perfectly right to do his hitch on the plecter.

There were some other nice inducements along with the cash also — O.J. Simpson signed a new contract with the Buffalo Bills last year, one presumably for the rest of his football "life."

When some of the Bills players asked O.J. to come to a training camp last week at Niagara Falls, N.Y., and help them, he said he'd be more than happy to do so.

Commissioner says Big Sky may have to cut from men's sports

BOISE (UPI) — Federal intervention on behalf of women may force the Big Sky Conference to cut back on men's intercollegiate sports.

The Big Sky favors intercollegiate athletic programs for women, Roning said. It feels more time is needed to implement them.

Roning said, most Big Sky schools have tried to upgrade women's athletic programs in recent years, but have not budgeted for them at the same level, as the "revenue producing" sports for men.

Hells Canyon issue argued

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Preservationists squared off against dam builders Monday at a House subcommittee hearing on the decades-old battle over construction in Hells Canyon of the Snake River "dam" between Oregon and Idaho.

Preservationists and their congressional allies argued for a law that would keep the Middle Snake undammed and free through the deep-cut canyon on the north and south.

A bill offered by Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., to permanently preserve the canyon. A second bill, introduced two weeks ago by Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, simply would delay any decision on dams or land management until further study is made of the need for hydroelectric power, timber, minerals and recreation.

The day-long House session heard witnesses.

Ullman told the Interior subcommittee on parks and recreation that he drafted the bill "after a great deal of soul-searching and some reluctance," he said.

"The bill is best suited to preserve this river in its natural state."

Besides a ban on dam construction, Ullman said, it is important to prohibit real estate development and "honey-loops" — influences from dominating the recreation area.

Symms said there must be more study done on the area before committing the region to either recreation uses.

"There are a lot of questions to be answered, and my bill would give us four more years," he said. He said the study is needed on timber, grazing, mineral deposits and hydroelectric potential.

Witnesses testifying for the administration repeated their stand favoring a prohibition against dams but differed with various congressional plans for wilderness and recreation areas. John McCall, head of the U.S. Forest Service, said the area could be protected by his agency under current practices but said the Middle Snake should become part of the nation's wild and scenic river system.

GOP unit appeals to voters

BOISE (UPI) — Frustrated in their efforts to get a presidential primary initiative on the ballot, Idaho Republicans appealed to Idaho voters today to win their goal by another means.

David Warnick, coordinator for the drive, estimated the youngsters collected about 15,000 voter signatures. By 5 p.m. today they need nearly 23,000 in order to get the issue on the November general election ballot.

While the Secretary of State will accept any postmarked today, Warnick said, "at the present rate it will not be enough to put this issue on the ballot by initiative."

But he indicated the college Republicans have not given up their effort to achieve a presidential primary election on the ballot in one form or another.

Warnick told a news conference that the voters should ask every candidate for legislative and state office whether they think the rank and file should have a say in the presidential nomination of 1976, he said.

"If every candidate can be asked whether he supports an Idaho presidential primary, the issue can be put on the ballot in one form or another."

Study urged on uses of Middle Snake River

By United Press International

Two Idaho political candidates have asked a House subcommittee on public lands to take a thorough look at the uses of the Middle Snake River.

Lieutenant Governor Jack Murphy, who is seeking the Republican nomination for governor, and GOP State Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, who wants Murphy's current job, appeared before hearings in Washington, D.C. Monday.

Murphy said to place the lower portion of the river under a national designation, such as wild and scenic river, would work a great hardship on many Idahoans, and entail expenditures of many millions of dollars for preservation of an area which serves Idaho as an income producer rather than a scenic wonder.

He said the upper section "should be saved for future generations to enjoy as well as for its present use as a long distant future which might be very short on necessary resources."

Ravenscroft asked the committee to conduct more studies of the Middle Snake, saying there were three obvious potential uses for the river — upstream development, power generation and water-based recreation.

"Those who demand immediate and final classifications are willing to sacrifice their friends and neighbors," Ravenscroft said. "They're for research and study — essential."

GOP attorney general candidate Wayne Kidwell noted there was a lack of confidence in the present attorney general's office.

He said thousands of dollars were being needlessly spent by allowing state agencies to hire private law firms to handle their business because of "a lack of confidence in the Idaho attorney general's office."

Kidwell said his practice of "seeking competent legal counsel outside the attorney general's office is a tragic commentary on the lack of confidence that has been allowed to become established towards the attorney general's office."

At McCall, Ezra H. Moore, Republican state public in-charge, also spoke in favor of research and study should have available state-funded kindergartens on an optional basis.

"Sufficient state funds should be provided," he said, "to permit the (school) district to operate the program without taking funds from other programs the district feels are necessary to meet the needs of its students."

Another public instruction candidate, Democrat Roy Truby, said at Caldwell a school volunteer program can free the teacher of non-teaching tasks.

"It gives the teacher more time for the most important thing in education, the contact between the teacher and your child," Truby said.

Another public instruction candidate, Charlie Brown, a Republican, also spoke in Caldwell, where he called for better understanding of common school problems.

Brown said to meet student needs, teachers, trustees, administrators and parents must plan together changes they want in their schools.

In Coeur d'Alene Ken Miller, first district Democratic congressional candidate, said he is finding "working people feel cheated by leap-frogging prices and betrayed by corruption in high places."

"Most of us believe that government was set up to serve the interests of the people," he said.

Gem mining group states opposition

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Mining Association has stated its firm opposition to the engagement of legislation to establish a Hells Canyon National Parklands.

In a letter to Chairman Roy A. Taylor of the House Interior subcommittee on National Parks and Recreation, Executive Secretary A.J. Teske said it would withdraw from mineral entry on vast metalliferous province.

Teske said this has been recognized since the turn of the century, and it contains several major mineralized areas which have yielded substantial but sporadic production of high grade copper with significant gold and silver by-products.

"All of these commodities are in short supply today, with consequent upward pressure on prices which aggravates the capital requirements of these

Deputies okay affiliation

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — By a vote of 30-6 Canyon County deputies approved affiliation with the International Brotherhood of Police Officers — the same organization to which Camp and Ada County police belong.

The Canyon County action Monday climaxed about six months of discussion in the sheriff's office.
