

Yield tapes, US court tells Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously today that President Nixon must surrender subpoenaed Watergate material to be used in the trial of six former top aides and possibly in his own impeachment case.

The 8-0 opinion, written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, rejected Nixon's arguments of presidential confidentiality and ordered tapes and records of 64 of his conversations be turned over to Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

"The generalized assertion of privilege must yield to the demonstrated, specific need for evidence in a pending criminal trial," Burger wrote.

"The historic decision orders Nixon to give the materials to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to determine what evidence is relevant for the September trial of former White House and Nixon campaign aides indicted in the Watergate cover-up."

Burger said Sirica had acted properly in his original April 18 ruling ordering Nixon to turn over the tapes but stressed that the judge has a heavy responsibility in handling the materials. He said Sirica must be sure they are returned to the White House intact.

Ronald L. Ziegler, the president's press secretary, had no immediate comment on the ruling. White House officials had refused to say in advance what Nixon's response would be, although in an earlier case that did not reach the Supreme Court Nixon said he would abide by a "definitive" ruling.

A refusal by the President to obey today's order would accelerate impeachment moves.

Jaworski said of the court's action: "I'm especially pleased it was a unanimous decision. It doesn't leave any doubt in anyone's mind."

Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee that is considering impeachment, had no comment on the decision, but a committee source said Rodino had no intention of altering the committee's schedule for a final vote on impeachment this weekend or early next week.

A top Republican member of the committee, Rep. Robert McClell of Illinois, called for a delay in the committee's vote in light of the court decision, saying the tapes contained "important evidence we do not have."

But the committee source said even if Nixon produced the tapes immediately, it would not affect the committee's plans. In the past, Nixon has said that any material given Jaworski would be available to the committee.

"It's a step in the right direction," the source said. "The need to develop all relevant facts in the adversary system is both fundamental and comprehensive. The ends of criminal justice would be defeated if judgments were to be founded on a partial or speculative presentation of the facts."

"The very integrity of the judicial system and public confidence in the system depend on full disclosure of all the facts within the framework of the rules of evidence. To ensure that justice is done, it is imperative to the function of courts that compulsory process be available for the production of evidence needed either by the prosecution or by the defense."

Only eight of the nine justices ruled on the case. Justice William H. Rehnquist disqualified himself because of his past service as an assistant to John N. Mitchell, now one of the co-defendants. John Mitchell was attorney general.

A second case before the court, an argument by presidential lawyer James D. Sicliff that the Watergate grand jury could not mention the President as an unindicted co-conspirator in the cover-up, was dismissed as "imprudently granted." The phrase meant the court thought it should not have heard the case in the first place.

The opinion said since "time is of the essence," the mandate in the case will be issued immediately, rather than in 25 days as is the usual custom.

Sicliff contended that the President, not the special prosecutor, has the right to decide what evidence is to be presented. "The special prosecutor was not delegated the right to tell the President what his conversations are to be made available as evidence."

Sicliff contended that the President, not the special prosecutor, has the right to decide what evidence is to be presented. "The special prosecutor was not delegated the right to tell the President what his conversations are to be made available as evidence."

But it added that "this presumptive privilege must be considered in light of our historic commitment to the rule of law. This is nowhere more profoundly manifest than in our view that the two-fold aim of criminal justice is that guilt shall not escape or innocence suffer."

The court said "neither the doctrine of separation of powers nor the need for confidentiality of high-level communications, without which the operation of government as a constitutional presidential democracy is impossible, justify the doctrine of executive privilege in the separation of powers or the confidentiality of such conversations, a confidentiality of such conversations, a confidentiality with other values arises."

In regard to the argument that the Supreme Court could not tell the President what to do because of the constitutional division of powers, the court said "in the performance of assigned constitutional duties, each branch of the government must judicially interpret the Constitution, and the interpretation of its powers by any branch is due great respect from the others."

Many decisions of this court, however, have made inequity by not holding the holding in Maryland v. Madison that it is unconstitutional for the President to tell the judicial department to say what the law is.

In this case, the court said the materials needed by Jaworski were unavailable at any other source. It said Jaworski had made a sufficient case for the tapes, showing their relevance, admissibility as evidence and was specific in his needs.

Regarding the White House's claim that Jaworski could not bring the executive privilege case to court because it is a private member of the executive branch, the court said:

"The mere assertion of a claim of an 'intra-branch dispute' without more, has never operated to defeat federal jurisdiction. Justifiably does not depend on such a surface inquiry. In the United States v. ICC 1949, the court observed, 'courts must look behind names that symbolize the parties to determine whether justiciable case of controversy is presented.'"

Allowing the executive to withhold relevant evidence on the grounds of executive privilege, the court said, "would cut deeply into the guarantee of due process of law and gravely impair the basic function of the courts."

Today's opinion was 31 pages long, with extended discussions of legal points including whether Sirica's order was appealable in the first place and whether the present case presents a controversy properly before a court.

The defendants in the cover-up case besides Mitchell are former U.S. Attorney General John A. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman; Robert C. Mardian, a former assistant attorney general; Gordon Strachan, who was Haldeman's top assistant; and Kenneth W. Parkinson, an attorney for Nixon's reelection committee.

About 250 persons lined up outside the marbled Supreme Court building this morning in anticipation of the decision.

Historic debate starts

Blast sets tanker afire

LONDON (UPI) — The 150,000-ton Liberian supertanker Astelle was ripped open and set on fire Wednesday by an explosion off the northwest coast of France, the British Royal Navy said. It reported the ship staggering through 20-foot waves in an effort to reach Brest.

A navy spokesman said one child was killed in the blast and eight persons, including five passengers, were injured.

Ouster falls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Amtrak president Roger Lewis has survived an attempt to oust him as president of the semi-public corporation which runs most of the US passenger trains.

The new Amtrak board of directors Tuesday re-elected Lewis as chairman and reappointed all other officers.

Lewis had been accused by some Congressmen and passenger train lobbyists of failing to move fast enough to improve and expand passenger service.

Hijacking report erroneous

NEW YORK (UPI) — An Argentine Airlines jetliner, which reported it had been hijacked over the Atlantic with 10 persons aboard, landed without incident today at Kennedy Airport where authorities said there had been no hijacking.

"They said a mechanical error was responsible for the false report."

New chief pledges elections

NICOSIA (UPI) — Telling President Glafkos Clerides said today new elections "will be held within the next few months" in Cyprus, said the United States. Archbishop Makarios could run for president.

There still was scattered gunfire in the capital city of Nicosia today, threatening the fragile cease-fire, but a UN spokesman said the truce violations were not serious.

Yields control

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Lady Bird Johnson, widow of the late President, has applied for Federal Communications Commission permission to relinquish public control of Radio Station KJLB.

Officials said she plans to give her two daughters another two per cent of the stock in the company that owns the station.

The move, reducing her holdings to less than 50 per cent, a step requiring FCC approval.

Dollar skids to low mark

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The U.S. dollar fell on European money markets today, slipping to its lowest quotation this year in Paris and hitting month lows in several other cities.

Dealers blamed the "increasing revulsion" of President Nixon's impeachment and rumors of a revolution in the Dutch guilder as the reasons for the dollar's worst showing this month.

WASHINGTON — Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr. will walk into the hearing room of the House Judiciary Committee this evening and pound his gavel for order.

The chair will stop the television cameras will switch on. The debate on the impeachment of Richard M. Nixon will begin.

And to a great extent, the debate will be an answer to the Nixon case, like the answers in the two centuries old.

The crucial issue before the committee is the definition of an impeachable offense, just as it has been in every impeachment before. And the answer in the Nixon case, like the answers in the cases before it, will likely depend on politics as well as law.

There is wide agreement in the legal profession on at least a general standard of impeachability.

But President Nixon has offered a narrower standard, just as many impeachment defendants before him have, and some of the committee members appear to favor his view. He is arguing he can be impeached only for an indictable offense.

The 38 members of the Judiciary Committee have a massive record of a presidency gone awry.

Their chief counsel, John M. Doar, says that the record adds up to four impeachable offenses.

1. Nixon's personal and direct responsibility for the Watergate Cover-Up.

2. His direction of "a pattern of massive and persistent abuse of power for political purposes involving unlawful and persistent abuse of power for political purposes involving unlawful and unconstitutional invasion of the rights and privacy of individual citizens of the United States," through such means as the so-called plurgars.

3. His refusal to comply with the committee's subpoenas and his "contempt of the congress and of the cause of constitutional government."

4. His "fraud upon the United States" in the form of this tax returns.

But — and the committee members, who suggested alternative articles of impeachment, just week based on these and similar allegations, rests his conclusion on the majority view among legal experts as to what is an impeachable offense — conduct, as the committee staff put it last February, that is "seriously incompatible with either the constitutional form and principles of our government or the proper performance of constitutional duties of the Presidential office."

Networks set rotation plan

NEW YORK (UPI) — The three commercial networks will take turns carrying live coverage of the House Judiciary Committee's historic debate on articles of impeachment against President Nixon.

ABC begins the rotation with primary responsibility for televising the opening hearing beginning at 5:30 p.m. EDT tonight.

Public Broadcasting Service will follow the live broadcast with complete videotaped coverage daily.

Under the rotation, ABC will handle the first day's coverage followed by CBS and NBC. Public television will carry the entire hearing and follow-up each evening on a videotaped delayed basis.

The plan is similar to the one arranged for last summer's Senate Watergate Committee hearings.

Under the agreement, any of the commercial networks may provide complete or partial live coverage or recorded coverage on the days when it does not handle primary broadcast responsibility.

Fires blacken 4,500 acres

Two fires ravaged more than 4,500 acres in the Shoshone Valley Tuesday.

The largest fire in the Shoshone Bureau of Land Management District this year burned 3,840 acres of rangeland 11 miles west of Paul. Starting at 2 p.m., the fire was brought into control by 11 p.m. The cause of the blaze was unknown this morning.

BLM district headquarters reported that private land completely surrounded the burned areas, but that only federal land in the middle was scorched.

The Shoshone BLM district sent 15 men, 3 tankers and 1 re-fill tanker, while the Shoshone district sent 38 men, 5 tankers, 1 re-fill tanker and an airplane to battle the flames.

A 30 to 25 mile per hour west wind made fire control difficult, according to the Shoshone district fire office.

In Upper Rock Creek Canyon south of Hansen the Third Fork fire was still blumping out of control early this morning, according to the Shoshone National Forest fire office.

The fire, which was man-caused, started about 2 p.m. and was expected to be under control by late this morning. The office reported the US Forest Service is conducting an investigation.

By this morning the fire had burned 741 acres of open brush and grass in Waldman Hollow, and on the Third Fork of Rock Creek. No damage was reported to buildings or livestock, but resource damage was estimated at $30,000.

Fireline manpower totaled 455 men for day and night shifts. In addition, 2 tractors, 3 bulldozers, 3 front-end loaders, 3 snail darters, and 3 aerial tankers were used to battle the blaze. A fire camp has been established at the Rock Creek Ranger station.

TF commissioners grant Knievel jump license

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County commissioners Tuesday granted a license for Evel Knievel's Sept. 4 jump across the Snake River Canyon.

Most of the provisions in the license dealt with servicing the 50,000 persons who are expected to attend the event. In some cases, the license requirements fell below the standards of the county ordinance governing large public assemblies.

The license calls for a $10,000 cash bond to guarantee cleanup and protection in the jump area. Under the ordinance, the bond would be $100,000.

The license also requires the drilling of a water well and installation of a pump with a 3,000-gallon per hour capacity. That would provide about one and one-half gallons per person per day, short of the 11 gallons required in the ordinance.

An application has also been filed with the county for a "beer license" to permit sale for consumption on the property. No action has been taken on the license, but Galley said it will be issued if it meets requirements of the law.

The license approved and signed Tuesday afternoon by the county commissioners and county attorney limits the size of the assembly to 50,000 persons at any one time, and requires liability insurance of $100,000 for the injury or death of one person, $1 million on an accident covering more than one person and a minimum of $25,000 property damage.

The license also requires 200 chemical toilets. Galley said they are the type recommended by the health department. He said these will be located in suitable places over the 40-acre jump site leased by Knievel and the adjoining 170 acres on which parking and overnight camping will be held.

There will also be 20 dumpsters for garbage, each with three-yard capacity.

The license requires daily dumping of the garbage and toilets. Other requirements include six mercury vapor lights. No events are to be held on the jump site during the period of the license. A permit is required on the jump-site property, especially along the canyon edge.

There will be two fire engines required, each with four trained men for use at the jump site and one fire engine for use at the camp. There will be required for general public use.

George Hansen against involvement in Cyprus

TWIN FALLS — George Hansen said here Tuesday the United States should avoid combat involvement in Cyprus.

GEORGE HANSEN
US stay out

unless the Soviet Union becomes involved here. Hansen, who is seeking the Republican nomination for Second district congressional seat, said the U.S. should stay away from the Cyprus struggle which has threatened to engulf Greece and Turkey in war.

"I hope we won't find ourselves in the middle of that one," he said. "Involvement would be possible," he said. "If Russia takes a hand."

But Hansen suggested the U.S. should "keep a silent pressure on Russia to mind your own business."

Hansen struck out at the voting record of his primary opponent, incumbent Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho. He criticized the incumbent's support for the Occupational Safety Health Act (OSHA) opposition to private ownership of gold, support for busing students for desegregation purposes and support for the minimum wage.

Hansen said OSHA represented the interference of federal bureaucrats "from 2,500 miles away." He said the act should be repealed.

"Efforts at amendment, he said, would not be enough to correct the act's course to date."

He said he supported private ownership of gold, opposed busing and would have voted against the federal minimum wage act.

In response to other questions, Hansen said he would "absolutely not" run again next year. He said in the event he loses the primary election race.

"If I was interested in that sort of thing I would have done it last time. I had an approach."

Hansen said he disagreed with President Nixon's decision not to hand over the tapes, but he understood the President's reluctance because of unfair treatment he has received at the hands of the House Judiciary Committee.

He said that the evidence presented to the House Judiciary Committee to date was not enough to support an impeachment vote.

"So far I don't see too much evidence to support 'impeachment,'" he said.

TWIN FALLS — The Milroy Miles Hey Day contest sponsored by the city parks and recreation department will be Friday at Harrison Park at 1 p.m.

Events are open to children of all ages with trophies awarded to the city champion in each event.

Ten events will make up the contest, including jacks, checkers, limbo, ping pong, jump rope, croquet, hopscotch, badminton, box hockey and tetherball.

Court defiance would warrant impeachment, Demo hopeful thinks

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Defiance of a US Supreme Court decision would warrant impeachment of the President, according to Max Hansen, Democratic candidate for Congress.

If the highest court orders President Nixon to turn over tapes to the House Judiciary Committee, and he does not comply, a trial in the Senate would be justified, Hansen said in an interview here Tuesday.

"The candidate would not take a stand on impeachment," Hansen said. "Conceivably, I may become a juror and I want to look at the evidence at that time," he said.

"Nobody's talking about Watergate but they're thinking about it. The people of this district have very high morals and want candidates who reflect those morals."

Hansen said he was an early signer of the Sunshine Initiative calling for campaign finance disclosure and registration of lobbyists.

Hansen said he is basing his campaign on a slogan called WEP-PM, standing for water, energy, environment and political morality.

On water he said, "I contend that it isn't for sale at any price." He showed particular concern about plans to take Snake River water for oil shale development in Colorado.

Other candidates are taking the same position on Idaho water. "But for some reason they haven't been talking about it," he said.

Hansen hoped he would be able to serve on the powerful House Appropriations Committee in order to influence decisions concerning Idaho water.

"Since this committee is the hardest working and the best planned, it's the best place to want such a committee assignment," he said. Besides, Hansen said, he has a congressional friend from Florida "who has said he would give help" in finding a spot on the appropriations committee.

"I would love to see them use coal before they go into this oil shale development," Hansen said. "To preserve environment while using coal for fuel 'I think they will have to figure out how they'll clean it up,'" he maintained.

By curbing inflation Hansen stressed governmental cutbacks, not price controls. He called for eliminating "some of those moonlighting expenditures" such as spending $75,000 on a Pentagon study of the aerodynamic effects of the fuselage.

"I'm not for cutting defense back. But I think we should have just the essentials without the trimmings," he said.

WASHINGTON — In the Moscow summit meeting of May, 1972, the United States and the Soviet Union agreed to work together to reduce tensions in critical areas of the world...

The so-called "hotline" to the Kremlin has been in constant use since the Turkish invasion of Cyprus, which is regarded here as a test of the policy of detente.

Secretary of State Kissinger, in San Clemente when the invasion started, was on the line immediately to Moscow and also to London, Ankara, and Athens in an effort to organize international pressure on Greece and Turkey to avoid a direct clash of their forces either in Cyprus or along the Greek-Turkish border.

Despite the telephoning and shuffling of the defersibility of State Joseph Sisco from one capital to another over the weekend, the Turkish government at first refused to attend a London conference with the Greek government on the ground that Greece had violated its responsibilities as a guarantor of Cyprus independence but had actually connived at the coup d'etat that ousted President Makarios.

We will see now what the Soviet Union does about Kissinger's appeals.

This administration has never had any "hotline" to the Soviet Union. We have judged movement in our relations with the Soviet Union, not by atmospherics, but by how well concrete problems are resolved and by whether there is responsible international conduct.

"We will oppose the attempt by any country to achieve a position of predominance either globally or regionally."

"We will resist any attempt to exploit a policy of detente to weaken our alliances."

Putting these principles together with the Nixon-Brezhnev summit agreement to cooperate for peace, however, will not be easy. Here are two members of the NATO alliance, which the Soviet Union has consistently tried to weaken, mobilizing for war, and Moscow is being asked to cooperate in stopping it.

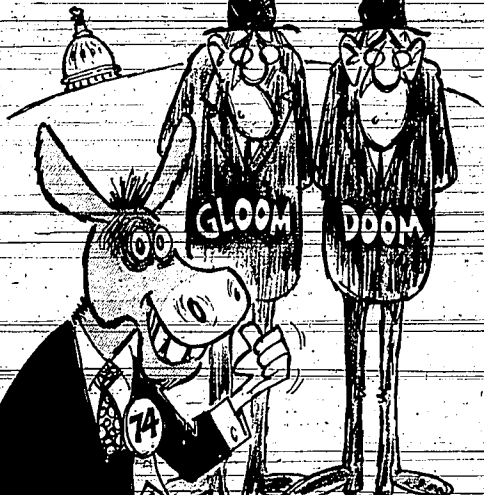

JAMES RESTON

Presumably, Moscow would not like to see a full-scale Greek-Turkish war, but if instability in the Eastern Mediterranean weakens NATO and hampers Washington's lines of communications from Europe to the Middle East, no doubt, there would be people around Brezhnev who would favor that prospect.

What remains something of a mystery in all this is why there was not much more preventive action by the United States before the coup d'etat in Cyprus. For it is generally believed here that the US government had plenty of advance notice.

The popular explanation, as usual, is that Washington's mud lately has been on other things.

Loopholes mar Evel's license

There are serious loopholes in the assembly permit issued Wednesday to Evel Knievel for his canyon jump.

The county permit provides standards for the immediate vicinity of Evel's jump site, but fails to set similar standards for the 250 nearby acres set aside for overnight camping and parking.

The Twin Falls County commissioners voted Tuesday to grant Knievel a license to gather up to 50,000 people at his rim site, providing a number of conditions are met to maintain public order and safety there.

The license granted nearly is identical to the application submitted by Knievel. The problem is that Knievel's application made a division between the 40-acre jump site itself and the surrounding parking and camping areas.

Knievel offered to make provisions for water, toilets, telephones, guards and medical care at his site. Similar provisions for overnight camping and parking areas were shunted to the adjacent landowners.

That would not be a critical problem if the landowners had also filed a permit for a mass-gathering license. The landowners did file a statement in support of Knievel's application but not a separate one for their own land.

The final license issued does not make clear what land is Evel's responsibility and what land is not. Unless there is clear responsibility assigned under the license, it would seem its provisions would be difficult to enforce.

From Evel's application it is apparent that there are few plans for public facilities in the parking areas. To quote: "Many of the people who will be attending the event... will be camping upon the Qualls property. That it is anticipated that for the most part the campers will be self-contained and prepared to take care of their own garbage, water supply, soap and shower facilities, power and light, food and washing facilities."

That is a pretty cavalier attitude toward the needs of the tens of thousands of people who may be camping there. We doubt that so many people will not require provisions for toilets and water in the camping areas, at a very minimum.

According to Evel's application, all arrangements for such parking and camping are being taken care of by the Qualls.

The final permit issued by the county to Evel, however, only requests him to assist the property owners, but sets no standards to be met there.

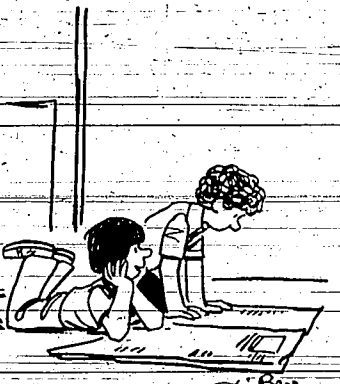

Under the county's assembly ordinance, the person who receives an assembly license is required to spell out just what provisions are being made in areas set aside for overnight camping. This has not been done.

In their rush to accommodate Knievel, the county commissioners have overlooked many of the requirements of their own ordinance.

To be consistent, the commissioners should either require that Knievel's license be extended to provide services mandated by the county ordinance, or require a separate assembly license be issued to the nearby landowners.

The county's standards for ensuring public safety and order at large assemblies are reasonable ones. Now they need to be enforced by the county commissioners.

JERUSALEM — One can only begin to comprehend the venom that poisons Sino-Soviet relations by reading the final installment of Khrushchev's diatribe memoirs, "The Last Testament" as it has recently been called.

Khrushchev was Russia's boss more than a decade during which Marxism's grand alliance broke up in ruin. Yet, despite the fact that Mr. K has not yet decided who he is, he has, by reading his memoirs one better appreciates why there is still so much bitterness in Peking.

Although the present Moscow regime dislikes Khrushchev even as a memory, it has obviously not managed to convince the Chinese that his policy has changed. After all, Brezhnev's predecessor threw the whole book at Mao Tse Tung. And since Mao is still in power and revered, the insult is bitter.

Khrushchev's hatred for Mao was passionate. He writes of his "chauvinism" and arrogance. He recalls that Stalin (whom he also adored) once said: "What kind of man is Mao, anyway. He can't use a Marxist, but he doesn't understand the most elementary Marxist truths." (Khrushchev adds smugly: "I think Mao was justified in his doubts about Mao.")

He insists: "Mao suffered from the same mania as Stalin — he was a mad dog. I can remember my conversations with Mao — I was struck by how much he sounded like Stalin — he had nothing good to say about anyone."

C. L. SULZBERGER

According to Khrushchev, in 1957 "Mao gave a speech, the gist of which was as follows: 'We should be the main of atomic bombs and missiles. If the imperialists unleash their war, we may lose more than 300 million people. So what? War is war... to me his words sounded like baby talk.' ... says China's unsuccessful Great Leap Forward was the intention of Mao Tse Tung and no one else. He wanted to impress the world — especially the socialist world — with his genius and leadership... under Mao the Chinese interpret Marxism-Leninism any way they please. Instead of adhering to the scientific laws of economics, they operate on slogans — nothing but slogans."

It is worth stressing that these opinions were printed abroad from the files of the CPSU. Yet it is plain that apart from the hatred he had for Mao — Khrushchev mirrors a vast prejudice still clouding Sino-Soviet relations and neither personal nor ideological but racial and nationalistic in its essence. "He accuses the Chinese of 'coveting Vladivostok and a substantial area' in Soviet central Asia. He blames them for stirring up 'the trouble with India,' giving the Indonesian Communist Party a poor advice that it 'came to a sad end,' and withdrawing 'experts and workers' from North Vietnam. ... As I to insure an unshakable gift of even more trouble than today exists between Moscow and Peking, he curiously adds: 'After I visited Chai, who was purged before Lin Biao, "our Chinese leader was Chou En-Lai." Poor Chou, that elegant pragmatist; no wonder he has spent weeks convalescing in a hospital. A blessing from Mr. K... all he did not need."

A Thought

A thought for the day: American humorist Mark Twain said, "Work consists of whatever a body is obliged to do. Play consists of whatever a body is not obliged to do."

Melancholy time approaches for US

WASHINGTON — A melancholy time is approaching for the many Americans who have tended generally to support Richard Nixon — he is peculiarly our President — is about to be impeached.

The President will be impeached by the House of Representatives on three broad grounds. No matter how the individual articles of impeachment may be formulated, they will boil down to these charges: the abuse of power; the abuse of justice; and the abuse of money.

The quest for future evidence in the form of additional tapes or documents, has now become meaningless. The Judiciary Committee, and the whole House have sufficient evidence to weigh a vote to impeach. This is not to say that the evidence is sufficient for two thirds of the Senate to convict. Such a judgment will have to wait until after the trial.

A venture these predictions out of emotions cannot sort out sorrow, shame, anger, pity, contempt, scorn, despair. For the past several weeks we have followed the news and Senate reports. Their cumulative effect in my own view is devastating. This evidence is no mirage; this evidence is as real as any avalanche. It overflows.

For many months I have advanced the theory that an impeachable offense must be a criminal offense.

The experts notwithstanding, I cling to that theory still. There is no Constitutional penalty says to me. But if that theory were truly matterly, it matters little now. The Constitution is what the judges say it is, and an impeachable offense is what the House says it is.

Some of the damning evidence deals with the

JAMES KILPATRICK

'President' abuse of money. He chased his eyes, or never opened them, to flagrant abuses in the raising of campaign funds. At San Clemente and at Key Biscayne he ventured no objection to the spending of public money for his personal pleasure. He looked the other way while his lawyers and accountants manipulated dates and documents to his tax advantage. He gave his wife diamond earrings — and paid for them with mystery money produced in a shell-game shuffle.

Other evidence — pages upon pages, of evidence — deals with his abuse of justice. What hurts in this case is the President's attitude. His purpose was not to get the truth out, his purpose, revealed from his own mouth, was to keep the truth in. Instead of pursuing a policy of full disclosure, along the paths of public candor, he was content for months to travel about John Ehrlichman described as "the limited, modified, hang-around."

The most damning evidence, in my own view, deals with the President's abuse of power. It is sickening — no other word comes to mind — to read of John Dean's efforts to harass the President's "enemies" through the Internal Revenue Service. And Nixon knew what Dean was up to.

It is doubtful true, but it is surely immaterial, that other Presidents and other public figures have committed similar abuses. It is also true that much of this avalanche could melt away under the heat of cross-examination in the Senate. Impeachment, like indictment, is a one-sided process; the President has yet to make his case in full.

In the end he may be acquitted. But the mountains of evidence now before the House add up to a prima facie case of awful gravity. These charges, for good or ill, will have to go to trial.

THE GOD MEMBERS ARE READY TO CONTINUE THE IMPEACHMENT INVESTIGATION

Pollster's warning stirs action

WASHINGTON — A major worry which the Western White House has finally begun displaying a sense of urgency about, the economic crisis was a secret warning from President Nixon's favorite pollster that a serious money panic does impend.

Albert S. Wirth, the Philadelphia-based analyst whose polls regularly go to the White House, was stunned by the turn his survey took two weeks ago.

About two months ago, Sindinger added this that he thought the bond funds and banks may be in trouble? At first, only about 20 per cent said yes. But two weeks ago, that figure jumped to 60 per cent. What's more, 15 per indicated a desire to withdraw their personal deposits.

A highly respected Sindinger descended on Washington to buttonhole Henry's cold friend: White House communications chief Kenneth Clawson (his normal contact), officials at the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), several sub-cabinet members and a bipartisan list of senators.

Sindinger's message: The American people, having lost confidence in the politicians and institutions, have little left but faith in the dollar. If that also goes, we may be vulnerable to a man on a white horse. Consequently, it behooves the administration to do something quickly.

Sindinger's panic is credited by high officials as helping to end the do-nothing mood in the administration, where there seemed so little prospect of action that William Simon, secretary of the Treasury, felt safe enough to take a two-week sabbatical to Europe and the Midwest.

So high is the priority that the Nixon administration puts on decontrolling petroleum that Simon last Tuesday sent a cable from Cairo to Sen. Henry M. Jackson pleading with him not to take quick action extending the allocations act.

EVANS AND NOVAK

Simon's personal visits, often compelling in person, failed at trans-Atlantic distance. Jackson was scheduled to ask his Senate floor committee to quickly extend the authority without hearings at a meeting Monday. Without a doubt, Jackson believes, independent refiners and marketers will be driven out of business by the major oil companies. Riding in a first-class seat on a Los Angeles

Washington flight, July 7, H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's former chief of staff, got into a conversation which revealed that both his arrogance and his isolation from political reality have survived his fall from power.

Haldeman was obviously seeking solace from the man sitting next to him, who had never met before. Instead Haldeman received a review of the Watergate scandals, summed up with the remark that the courts had been too lenient in some of the sentences imposed.

Haldeman listened then tried to argue his seatmate into a different position, playing heavily on the alleged national security issue as the underlying cause of the scandals. But he could not budge the man beside him.

What's more, Higny was summoned to San Clemente last week for the level policy conference.

Impeach ballot may carry 2-1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As the House Judiciary Committee begins its historic debate on impeachment, it appears the committee might vote to impeach President Nixon by as much as 2-1 to one margin.

Numerous interviews by reporters showed that all 21 Democrats on the committee are prepared to vote in favor of impeachment, and that they might be joined by as many as 11 Republicans.

Only one Republican, Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan of Maryland, has announced he will vote for impeachment.

The UPI survey showed this result.

Democrats probably voting for impeachment are: Peter W. Rodino of New Jersey; Harold D. Donohue of Massachusetts; Jack Brooks of Texas; Robert W. Kastenmeier of Wisconsin; Ken Edwards of California; William L. Hungate of Missouri; John Conyers Jr. of Michigan; Joshua Pittenger of Pennsylvania; Jerome R. Wadley of California; Paul S. Sarbanes of Maryland; John Scherling of Ohio; George E. Danielson of California; Robert F. Drinan of Massachusetts; Charles Stenholm of Texas; and Barbara Jordan of Texas.

Republicans leaning toward voting for impeachment are: William S. Cohen of Maine; Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York; M. Caldwell Butler of Virginia; and Thomas T. Hays of New York.

Republicans leaning toward voting for impeachment are: Robert McClory of Illinois; Henry P. Smith of New York; and Harold W. Froehlich of Wisconsin.

Republicans probably voting against impeachment are: Edward Hutchinson of Michigan; Charles E. Wiggins of California; David W. Dennis of Michigan; Carl Albert of Missouri; Charles J. Stenholm of Texas; Joseph J. Marzall of New Jersey; Delbert Latta of Ohio; Charles W. Stenholm of New Jersey; and Wiley Maguire of Iowa.

REP. LAWRENCE HOGAN favors impeachment

(C) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan of Maryland declared in a 10-minute statement, "I, a Republican on the House Judiciary Committee to announce he would vote to recommend President Nixon's impeachment."

"After having read and reread, sifted and tested the mass of information which came before us, I have come to the conclusion that Richard M. Nixon has, beyond a reasonable doubt, committed impeachable offenses which, in my judgment, are of such sufficient magnitude that he should be removed from office," Hogan declared in a 10-minute statement.

Hogan, a conservative who has rarely opposed the President on policy, is running for the Republican nomination for Governor of Maryland.

Hogan said that he thought his vote would have a "disastrous effect" on the campaign. On Tuesday morning, after having read and reread, sifted and tested the mass of information which came before us, I have come to the conclusion that Richard M. Nixon has, beyond a reasonable doubt, committed impeachable offenses which, in my judgment, are of such sufficient magnitude that he should be removed from office," Hogan declared in a 10-minute statement.

Aide saw funds as 'protection'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Frederick C. Laiba, the Nixon campaign aide who funneled nearly $300,000 to the Watergate burglars, has told the impeachment inquiry that he felt the money was meant to buy their silence about high level involvement in the scandal.

"My purpose was to protect the 1972 presidential campaign of Mr. Nixon," he said in testimony to the House Judiciary Committee released today.

He described how one of the conspirators, G. Gordon Liddy, told him immediately after the June 17, 1972, burglary arrests of "certain commitments" to the burglary team to meet their financial needs and how he acted at once to make good that pledge without checking to see if it really had been made or by whom.

Laiba said he had a hunch, though "no direct knowledge" that the commitment hinged on a year of silence by the burglars in return for the money.

"I felt that the reason I made these payments was to fulfill these commitments and I personally felt it was my opinion that a point of commitment was that these defendants would remain silent," Laiba testified.

Laiba's testimony, given at a closed committee session July 3 and July 8, was made public along with that of two other witnesses as the committee began debating legislation to impeach Nixon.

Laiba's testimony, given at a closed committee session July 3 and July 8, was made public along with that of two other witnesses as the committee began debating legislation to impeach Nixon.

Testimony by Paul L. O'Brien, a post-Watergate lawyer on the committee for the reelection of the President (CRP) indicated that it was the final money demand by the burglary conspirator Edward Hunt Jr. in March last year that triggered John W. Dean's decision to blow the whistle on the cover-up.

O'Brien told he had reacted with "personal horror" when Hunt on March 16, 1973, told him he wanted $100,000 immediately for legal fees and family support.

O'Brien said he scurried over to see Dean, then White House counsel.

"Mr. Dean got extremely excited and I think his exact language was, 'I am tired of being put in the middle. I am going to bust this God damned thing up,'" O'Brien testified on July 3.

"What else did he say?" asked committee counsel John Doar.

"These portions which I recall specifically, Mr. Dean said, 'You and I are being... apologize for the language you and I are being served as condits in this case,'" O'Brien replied.

"I queried him on this. He said, 'We can get stuck with obstruction of justice.'"

O'Brien said he became sufficiently convinced within weeks, pleaded guilty to the very crime and are awaiting sentencing. O'Brien has not been charged.

What a Doll Jack, the Zaire doll of Tad Lincoln actually received a presidential pardon for sleeping while on sentry duty. White House stationery the pardon was signed by the boy's father, A. Lincoln.

Kissinger keeps support

(C) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee questioned Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for the first time in a public hearing on July 23, suggesting that he might have misled the committee last year about his role in the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

Afterwards, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said he had heard nothing in the closed door hearings so far to lead him to reverse his support of Kissinger.

"He said — Kissinger's credibility remains unimpaired," Chairman J. W. Fulbright had refused to make any judgments to newsmen on whether Kissinger's testimony removed all doubt, asserting that this was something the entire committee would have to decide after the final witness, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., formerly Kissinger's deputy, testified next Tuesday.

The hearings have been held at Kissinger's request after press reports, based on Federal Bureau of Investigation documents, suggested that he had not been completely candid with the committee last September when he was confirmed as secretary of state.

The FBI documents, including memos by the late J. Edgar Hoover, suggested that Kissinger had misled the committee last September when he was confirmed as secretary of state.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Post-operation care needed

Dear Dr. Thustson: Would you print some advice on after-care of cataract operations? I find many elderly people who say their doctor told them nothing. Some have discomfort when they get up and have been needed had they known what not to do.

I believe it takes six to eight weeks for an eye to heal. That is a lot of days. I would like to know how long before one can sit out of the operated eye.

How long must one avoid bending or looking down as in washing dishes or ironing or lifting? Two months? Six? Eight? One lady said her doctor told her not to lift over a pound.

A housewife must, as soon as possible, resume her chores and she should know what she should or should not do. — Mrs. W. C. B.

You are right that adequate instruction should be given for activity following a cataract operation. Some give it, some don't. All should.

Now I'd like to give you a set of rules to follow in a "T" rigid set of rules just won't fit everybody at all. — It has to be — an individual matter.

The doctor is the only one who can judge how the healing is progressing.

The usual practice is for the doctor to see the patient within four to six weeks after surgery, and warn the patient of the point to ask what he can do and if there is anything he shouldn't do.

These days restrictions soon after eye surgery are nowhere near as rigid as they used to be. The point is not bending or looking down is, oddly enough, that there's a risk of bumping your head when you strain your eye, and such a bump can be harmful in the early phases.

For sleeping, an eye shield is usually used to protect the eye from an accidental bump or pressure from the bed's own hand where you are asleep.

The eye ordinarily is healed within considerably less than six weeks, but this can vary from person to person, and each case is different. You can make a difference, too. So again I have to say that the surgeon is the one who has to decide when a patient might be able to do more. I might give you a list of things to do, but it's for you to decide. One item needs to be mentioned: a safety razor rather than a safety razor. I preferred to use a razor. I can blow into the eye with the latter.

Dear Dr. Thustson: Your column about diabetes and cataracts got my brother, who has had diabetes since he was 16. He told me he could do anything he wanted to as long as he followed the rules and took care for himself.

Since then he has participated in football, track, tennis, and has excelled in basketball and swimming.

If you could let me reach and help one person adjust to the change, it will be truly wonderful. It will help them accept diabetes as a challenge rather than a handicap. — One Lucky Sister.

One letter like yours can do more good than a month of columns by me. Thank you. — Ben Thustson.

My novel is running a little and it has a bad odor. This has been going on for about two weeks. Is this serious? Should I see a doctor? — Mrs. J. P.

In all likelihood an infection has developed there. Various causes are possible, but in any event, you should see a doctor because there really is no way you can treat it successfully by yourself. It is not usually a serious condition, but it is checked up, treated, and becomes one.

Busing foes slate filibuster on bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senators opposed to busing children have hinted they will begin a filibuster today to block action on a compromise education bill they say is too weak on the busing issue.

Asked if this meant a filibuster, Allen said, "Let me just say that it will have to do that length." The House is expected to vote on the bill today. The compromise bill retains the next closest school, but said if a court could still order busing if it found the nearest school unusable.

Black income gap keeps on widening

(C) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The gap that separates the median income of blacks and white families continued to widen last year, the Bureau of the Census reported today in its annual survey of the social and economic status of black Americans.

The survey also confirmed previous reports that the remarkable economic gains made by blacks during the 1960's has slowed, and in some cases has been reversed, in the early 1970's.

The report noted that the widening of the income levels of black families was associated with narrowing the gap which occurred during the 1960's.

Economy draws attention in East, West

By United Press International Despite the swirl of impeachment talk, proposals to reshape the inflation-beset economy are getting a lot of attention both in Capitol Hill and in San Clemente, Calif., where President Nixon is preparing a speech on the subject.

Nixon is preparing a speech on the economy for delivery before a nationwide broadcast audience Thursday night.

Opponent of wage-price controls said last year that what the economy badly needs is a strong dose of do-nothingism.

Senate leader implies tapes may be demanded

Emission controls okayed

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. has met the government's new stringent air pollution rules for 1975 model cars and light trucks without the fine-tuning problems that plagued its emission-control program for the past two years.

John H. Naughton, vice president for sales, said in a letter to dealers Tuesday that the Environmental Protection Agency and the California Air Resources Board have approved the emission controls.

Certification was completed in days ahead of last year, when some cars couldn't be sold in California until mid-October. The previous year, unauthorized maintenance on some 1974 model test cars cost Ford $7 million in fines to the government.

New premier

MICHAEL IMRU was named by the Armed Forces Coordinating committee as Ethiopia's third prime minister in five months Tuesday, replacing Endalkachew Makonnen, whom the committee accused of nepotism. Imru is one of the more progressive members of the present civilian cabinet, political sources said. (UPI)

(Chicago Sun Times) — Majority Leader Mike Mansfield strongly implies that the Senate will demand President Nixon's tapes as evidence in a trial and might remove Nixon from office if he refuses to produce them.

Mansfield thus passed a message to the house Thursday that it need not pursue the tapes before voting on impeachment because, if impeachment is approved, the Senate will grandfather them.

(The Supreme Court) — Special Prosecutor J. Edgar Hoover, a new house effort to obtain and examine them might delay a house vote by weeks or even months.

Mansfield refused to comment on what the house ought to do with respect to the tapes, but he said that presidential refusal to provide them to the Senate "will be much more serious."

"It will be much more difficult for Mr. Nixon not to completely a trial of Nixon in two months or less by working six days a week.

Mansfield said if Nixon is impeached by the house, the White House would be given "a reasonable time, two or three weeks," to prepare the defense.

Once the trial started, said Mansfield, "I would recommend that we go right through the election, on a six-day week basis."

"I would be disposed of this year," but "it comes to that, new senators elected in November could occupy a certain part of the gallery to listen to the evidence, and then sit as jurors if the case runs on past Jan. 20," when the new senators take office and old ones depart.

Mansfield said he believes the Senate is a "continuing body," not a creation of any one Congress, and that the impeachment process would not have to start anew if not completed by January.

He emphasized, in a breakfast meeting with reporters that there were differences of opinion on Senate procedure and that all final decisions would be up to the Senate as a whole.

Ex-dairy aide pleads guilty

(C) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The special Watergate prosecutor's office Tuesday accepted from a former dairy official a plea of guilty to one charge of conspiring to make illegal contributions to campaigns of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey and Rep. William D. Mills and others.

The plea was made by a former special counsel to the nation's largest milk cooperative, an official in the understanding that he would testify, if called, by a letter from Deputy Special Prosecutor Henry S. Ruth specifically barred immunity from any possible violation of bribery statutes in connection with President Nixon's mid-price decision of 1971.

Parr entered his plea Tuesday before Federal District Judge George Hart.

He faces a possible maximum sentence of up to five years in jail and $10,000 in fines.

Besides the cases to which Parr pleaded, the prosecutor's office is investigating allegations that a $2 million pledge to President Nixon's reelection campaign amounted to a bribe.

Parr's plea was the first to come in the investigation of such allegations, but it is not the only one.

As special counsel, Parr was second in command to the big co-op's general manager, Harold S. Nelson, who was named as an unindicted co-conspirator in information filed with the court in connection with the plea.

As other unindicted co-conspirators, the information also named that a dairy assistant to the general manager of AMPI, Robert Isham, the co-op's former controller, and Stewart Russell, former attorney for AMPI.

National rips American, keeps all-star mastery

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The National League, lending further credence to its claim of superiority, showed off all its finest talents Tuesday night by defeating the American League 7-2 in the 11th victory in the last 12 All-Star games.

The triumph, coming before a partisan crowd of 50,706 at Three Rivers Stadium, was the third straight for the National League in the series and gave the NL a commanding 28-11 advantage in the 42-year-old classic.

This loss was one of the more humiliating for the AL in the series, however, because the league had taken extra precautions to insure its chances: A "win at all costs" policy was adopted by AL President Lee MacPhail, and though all the AL pitchers were well rested, purposely, it was the NL pitchers who dominated the game by allowing only four hits.

Andy Messersmith of Los Angeles, Ken Brett of Pittsburgh, Jim Malack of New York, Lynn McLigh of St. Louis and Mike Marshall of Los Angeles all pitched for the NL and only Messersmith, who worked the first three innings, gave up more than one hit.

So diversified were the NL's talents in this one that the most valuable player award went to Steve Garvey of Los Angeles, who was the only player to collect two hits.

Garvey, who almost missed the game because of an ear infection, singled and scored the NL's first run in the second and doubled home the tying run in the third. It was the first All-Star game for the Dodgers' first baseman, who was a write-in candidate for the team.

Another Dodger, Ron Cey, also playing in his first All-Star contest, contributed heavily to the NL cause by driving in two runs with a single and an infield out.

It was the showcase talents of Brock, Smith and Cedeño, however, which perhaps best demonstrated the NL's true superiority.

Brock, who leads the major leagues in stolen bases with 60, pulled off his first stolen base in an All-Star competition in the fifth inning and it resulted in a run which put the National League ahead 4-2.

The St. Louis spoolster led off the fifth with a pinch hit single and promptly stole second off Tiant, then raced to third as catcher Thurman Munson's throw skipped into center field. He scored 4-3 moments later on a sacrifice fly by Cincinnati's Joe Morgan.

It was Smith's turn next to do his thing. "Once Garvey's outfielder, who previously played for the AL in the All-Star game, made his first All-Star hit a big one in the seventh with a leadoff homer that all but locked-up the contest for the NL.

SLIDING across the foul line, Joe Rudi of Oakland and the American League, makes a grab of Steve Garvey's drive in the eighth inning of the all-star game Tuesday, National League won 7-2. (UPI/telephoto)

From all angles By Larry Hovey

Rambblings about women's slowpitch baseball after a weekend of tournament watching.

First let it be said that there are some very good players in the league. We saw several we thought were excellent at most phases of the game and we will name a few — not all — but a few.

Impressive on ground balls is Miss Irlal of Turf Club who might be the best short hop center-fielder in the city. She fights the short hop better than most men we've seen and reminds me of catcher Dean Krujan, using a stiff-arm scoop.

We saw her make eight out of nine — including some kind — poor around the horn throws during the championship night.

On shortstops, that's good anywhere. Also outstanding is Mrs. We assume Irlal's shortstop for Don's Cycle. She has a fine arm and gets a good jump on the ball and a nice swing at the plate.

Karen Brown one of the youngest in the league to be junior at FHHS — has perhaps the best pitch presentation I've seen out on getting in front of the ball. Also throws well.

But Miss Brown's surprise since we've seen her play volleyball and basketball. In fact, recently resigned Brink basketball Coach Don Haynes, before he thought he was leaving said: "Well, we've got one excellent jump shooter in the sophomore class. Too bad we don't have girls' basketball." He was referring to Miss Brown.

Two good outfielders are Red's Trading Post's leftfielder, and Kac Cooper of Turf Club. They cover ground. Red's second baseman has probably the most "live" arm in the league.

Now that is highlighting and leaning more toward defense. There are others. Basically we feel the differences between men and women's play is greater than we suspected it would be. We felt it probably would be effort in exactly the same areas with the women's effort being a little less due to a strength factor.

The ultra-high jump girls considered the most effective, hasn't been mastered as yet. One thing that surprised us — perhaps most — was the lack of power delivered by the batters. Much of this is because, it seems, women batters have real problems in locking their hips and actually negate their leg and body strength. Many of them have their knees locked on the front leg, which prohibits weight transfer.

Very few really open up their hips, relying solely on arm strength.

Again, there are exceptions. Walt's Tavern has at least two girls who back the outfield into regular men's slowpitch position. Ted's has a couple and there are some from the other clubs. Excepting these, however, the general rule of thumb is — the heavier the batter, the more velocity she will deliver to the ball.

Velocity is a primary consideration because in many cases the girls don't have that anticipation, to see the position of the ball as the hit is being swung and know the direction it is headed. If they have this, it isn't translated into motion by the feet.

Speed on the bases also is a handicap for many of the teams who seem to perform as well in many facets of the game as the contenders. But there are a number of outfield assists at second and third base where this speed lack outweighs by the handicap.

Now it must be said that different women are out for different reasons.

Some of the teams are totally competition oriented. Others play it for the recreation involved.

Currently the biggest problem for the league is the wide disparity in talent. Nothing new to such alignments. The men's leagues just now are getting to a point where reveals of former toss-ups are possible on many nights.

For the women, however, it would appear that this classification is necessary from the standard A and B divisions on up. With the city installing more fields at Frontier Field, the number of teams to be accommodated will grow.

Shifting and gauging teams from a larger field will bring better balance.

The only real bad thing we've found is the verbal abuse some of the fans throw at the girls during games. Some of it is very cutting. Another perplexing thing for us was the "time marches on" aspect of the league. Many of the girls, particularly on Walt's and Red's teams, we've come to know by name over the years as they went to school with our daughter.

From a reporting standpoint it became tough because a lot of them have different last names now.

Garvey claims fans deserve MVP trophy

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Humbly Steve Garvey accepted the Most Valuable Trophy for his performance in Tuesday night's 7-2 All-Star victory by the National League, but he said the honor didn't really belong to him.

"I really belong to the fans," he said.

"They voted for me, so they should be the ones to get it," he said, with some pretty sound reasoning.

Garvey, who was laid up with a swollen neck and ear infection, since last Wednesday, was not on the actual All-Star ballot. He was a "write-in" candidate but he still pulled more than a million votes.

The Dodger first baseman, who had a single and a double, scored one run and drove in another and made a brilliant diving catch, said "I can't express in words my thanks to the fans who put me here. It isn't my trophy—it's theirs."

"I wasn't sure I could play," he said. "By Sunday, I was feeling better, thanks to the antibiotics. For a while, my neck was swollen like a basketball."

Garvey's fine performance filled a 30-year-old dream of being a Dodger star.

"My dad has the biggest smile in Pittsburgh," he said.

"When I was a kid, he used to take me around the Dodger training camps. My idol was Gil Hodges. How I hoped I could be like him some day."

Winning pitcher Ken Brett, who only Pittsburgh player named to the NL All-Star received a thunderous pregame ovation from Pirate fans.

"I was nervous," said Brett. "I was surprised I was so nervous. I didn't know I was going to pitch until 6:30 when Yogi gave me the word. Then I got some lumps all over."

Brett entered the game in the fourth inning and immediately walked Jeff Burroughs.

"I then told myself I should concentrate and overcome my nervousness. I'm telling you, was hot that nervous when I pitched in the World Series in 1967."

Brett, the Pirates' leading hitter, said he was disappointed in being taken out of a pinchhitter in the fifth inning. But the "move paid off" when Lou Brock singled, stole second, went to third on Thurman Munson's throwing error and scored on Joe Morgan's sacrifice fly.

"After he was laid out, Brock would pinch hit," Brett said he told Berra. "You're going to make a lot of enemies in this town."

AL stars explain 'zip wasn't there'

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—"The zip wasn't there, that's all."

Reggie Jackson said it all for the beaten American League losers now in 11 of the last 12 All-Star games with the National.

"You wanted to do something big, didn't you, someone asked. The Oakland A's slugger, who pulled 3,497,338 votes in the All-Star balloting, more than any player on either squad.

Jackson, who made a spectacular sliding catch on Mike Marshall's eighth inning flir, merely smiled. He was about to bite into a pig game ham and cheese sandwich following Tuesday night's loss at Three Rivers Stadium and he stopped.

"I wanted to do the best I could," he said.

As he spoke, two visitors came into the American League quarters to see him. They were Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Frank Harris of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"Where've you been the last three days?" Jackson snapped at Stargell, feigning anger. "Me and my roommate over there," he went on gesturing toward Kansas City's John Mayberry, whom all but ourselves the past three days. We said this here is Stargell's town, but we don't see Stargell."

In another part of the room, Dick Williams, who managed the American League, was talking to them up despite their loss.

"We lost this one," he said, "but we'll come on like a house after in October."

Before the game, American League President Lee MacPhail had suggested that Williams limit the number of All-Star players participating in the game to increase the chances of victory. But Williams, the new manager of the California Angels, played 20 of his 28 plays.

Williams said, "We just didn't get any hitting and our second pitcher, Luis Tiant, got the ball up high."

Aaron wanted job as Braves manager

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Home run king Hank Aaron and his brother, Tommie, were not considered candidates for the Atlanta Braves' managing job and Hank isn't happy about it at all.

Braves general manager Eddie Robinson was named a successor to the fired Eddie Mathews today.

Robinson didn't even know the courtesy of asking him or his brother whether they might be interested in the job.

Aaron, who had previously ruled out any managing job, recalled his position before Tuesday night's All-Star baseball game here. But, he said, he was disturbed by Robinson's announcement to the effect Tommie and Henry Aaron are out as possibilities for the Braves' job.

"I'm not interested in managing, but I felt he ruled all black players out by that statement. No one had even approached me to see if I'd be interested. I think he (Robinson) should have asked me out of courtesy after he put my name in the papers."

Earlier this week, Robinson was asked about Mathews' replacement, and ruled Aaron and his brother out of the running.

Aaron, however, said he might have changed his mind about becoming a major league manager if Robinson had approached him. Aaron added he probably would have accepted "because there has never been a black manager."

"But why should I say yes when there are other guys qualified to manage? I've been traveling for 20 years and I'm tired of it and that's one of the reasons I don't wish to get into managing." But there are plenty of black players who are well qualified.

Somewhat drily, Aaron said the Braves apparently feel Tommie is more valuable as manager of their Savannah farm team, that he would be in Atlanta.

Aaron also had some criticism of the selection of Dick Williams as manager of the Los Angeles Angels after the dispute between Williams and A's owner Charlie Finley.

Charlie Finley and Williams were supposed to be enemies but an opening came up where a black man has a chance to get the job and suddenly, Finley and Williams are enemies again.

Williams gets the job, but Frank Robinson was the logical choice to get it.

WFL comes up with first 'big game'

By United Press International
 Unbeaten Central Division powers Birmingham and Memphis, scoring a genuine Southern rivalry, meet tonight before what is expected to be the largest World Football League crowd to date.

An estimated 60,000 fans are due for the Birmingham Legion Field—when the hometown Americans risk their 2-0 record against the visiting Southern, also 2-0 in the WFL, central which also features a third unbeaten club, the Chicago Fire. The Fire is on the road against Portland.

Other WFL action features

Southern California at Jacksonville and Houston at Florida while in the national TV Game Thursday night, New York is at Philadelphia.

In addition to featuring a pair of unbeaten teams from comparatively close proximity, the Birmingham-Southern game also will showcase some of the fledgling league's brightest stars.

Ex-NFL cast-offs John Huarte, of Memphis and George Mira of Birmingham, seem to have found their niches as quarterbacks in the WFL. Mira, for example, last week rallied his team from a 29-3 halftime deficit to victory over New York with three touchdown passes. In the second half and a run for a fourth.

In addition to Mira, the Americans also boast ex-NFL running stars Paul Robinson and Charley Hestaway while the Southern center with Jennings, the rookie from Rutgers who is being touted as the most exciting runner in the league.

Further south, the Florida Blazers, the fourth WFL unbeaten contingent, are hoping for a sellout of 20,000 at Orlando's Tangos Bowl.

Homer derby set

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The same people who brought the Bobby Riggs tennis extravaganza to working order will take all home run hitting match between Japan's Sadaharu Oh and Henry Aaron.

Jackie Barnell, who produced Riggs' matches with Margie Caird and Billie Jean King, said Tuesday the Japanese slugger has agreed to participate in a match with Aaron.

According to the promoters: Aaron has not yet responded. But they say they have applied to the commissioner's office for the use of Aaron's services if he agrees to participate. The match would be held in Tokyo Stadium in October.

Oh, who is only 34, has hit 639 home runs in Japanese baseball. Aaron is American baseball's all-time home run hitter with 725.

Memphis begins rebuilding team

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—The ABA Memphis Tams have acquired center Mel Daniels, guard Freddie Lewis and right to forward Roger Brown from the Indiana Pacers in exchange for forward Charlie Edge and more than $50,000 in cash, the Memphis Press-Scimitar reported Tuesday.

New Tams owner Mike

Storren, who resigned recently as ABA commissioner to take over the year-old team in the league, would not comment on the report.

Press-Scimitar Sports Editor George Lupton said an official announcement would be made soon. Daniels was the most valuable player in the ABA in 1969 and 1971. He was brought into the league by Storren when the new Memphis owner was general manager of the Pacers.

Two teams tie for golf title

Pro Bart Schuerman and Kevin Packard, Twin Falls, and Bob Preaux and amateur Newt Carter of Boise shared the two-man scratch best ball championship at Blue Lakes Country Club Tuesday.

Schuerman and Packard had a second straight three-under-65 while Preaux and Carter went five under Tuesday to get into the tie at 130.

Another 63 was posted by pro Jim Packard and Carl Hoss, Twin Falls, who pulled into a tie for third place with first day co-leaders pro Arnold Hamke, Boise, and Jack Morgan, Roth had this.

The father-son team of pro Clyde Thomson and Jeff Thomson shot a 65 to catch up with Rich Hutchins and Harold Peterson, Boise, at 130.

Raiders add three vets

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (UPI)—Oakland Raiders stars Jim Otto and speed Biletnikoff reported to camp Tuesday and planned to begin practice despite the players strike, club officials reported.

Defensive back Jimmy Warren also crossed team mates' pickets for practice, the club said.

"I want to win a championship, and the only way it can be done is to be in camp," said Otto, 35, the starting center. "And to get into shape I need to be in camp."

Edges is 47 rebounder

CHARLOTTE (UPI)—Chuck Edges, 47, rebounded from Memphis, broke into the Tams starting lineup early last season.

"I have not talked to Mr. Brown," Storren said. "Storren played an arriving here last week, but he would work 24 hours a day to improve the Tams, which finished with a 21-63 record last season."

Voluntary workout

NFL and TV might adjust pay schedules

NEW YORK (UPI)—With strike negotiations between the National Football League owners and the players union deadlocked, NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle said Tuesday that he has held "informal" conversations with the three major television networks regarding the fees they pay for the rights to telecast NFL games.

"The networks are planning to go ahead with their schedules," Rozelle said, "I simply told them that we would review the situation later as to ratings of the games televised, and if it seemed to be appropriate to make adjustments in rights fees we would discuss it and work something out."

With the annual All Star game already a strike casualty—the Miami Dolphins were to have faced the College All Stars on ABC this Friday—the networks have to be concerned on the sales worth of NFL games without the big teams and names which have made the game one of their prime sources of income through high ratings.

For those ratings, the cost per minute advertisement to a sponsor in many cases equals or exceeds the salary of some of the players on the team based upon the ratings, the telecasts receive.

"You cannot project ratings," Rozelle said. "You can't do that until you know if they (the networks) have suffered any loss. Our conversations have been quite informal up to this time, but we have talked."

Rozelle, secure in his Park Ave. office, is determined to keep away from the bargaining between the NFL Management Council and the NFLPA.

"I can't do otherwise," the commissioner said. "The leadership of the NFLPA has made this office and myself major issue in the negotiations. I think that the federal mediator has done a fine job in keeping the two sides talking off and on."

Rozelle said he has been "keeping abreast of developments."

"I've talked to union representatives, not serious talks, but at least there has been communication," he said. "And the Management Council has also been in touch with me."

Rozelle insisted his role is strictly that of an interested bystander up to this point.

"It is totally untrue," he said, "to claim that I am management's man. The union representatives have never made such a charge. I am not involved with the Management Council, which is representing the owners, nor am I involved with the players' union."

Rozelle may be faced with a dilemma on Saturday, when he goes to Canton, Ohio, for the annual Hall of Fame ceremonies. (UPI/Continued)

Bill George, Dick Lane and Lou Groza are to be inducted, and the commissioner will be on hand.

After the induction ceremonies, the Buffalo Bills are scheduled to play the St. Louis Cardinals in an exhibition game—dated for ABC-TV national coverage. The Bills and Cardinals will use rookies and free agents, and there is a threat of a picket line by the NFLPA.

"I doubt," Rozelle said, "that they will picket the induction ceremonies."

"You're the commissioner, cross a picket line?" Rozelle hesitated, then said, "I think that's academic at this time. I will attend the induction ceremonies, and I intend to attend the game as well."

When did the commissioner think negotiations between the owners and players would resume?

He sighed. "I can only say that obviously the talks will be resumed. Both sides know there has to be a football season."

Christ-led Minico tips Jerome

RUPERT — Tom Christ's grandson homer in the third inning sent the Minico Legion past Jerome 7-5 Tuesday night.

Christ's blow settled a game marred by 11 errors, just about equally split between the clubs.

Jerome hit early when lead-off man Petterson opened with a double and later scored on a double steal. A throwing error allowed the walking Thompson to score in the second.

But Jerome gave one back in the third when Christ came around on three straight miscues.

In the third, Cowell, Jim, Baker and Jim Dean drew walks before Christ belted his four-run shot.

Lenny Schilling replied with a solo homer for Jerome in the fourth and an error let Larson score Jerome's last run in the fifth after he and VanDyke had singled.

Minico pushed out of reach in the bottom of the frame when Tilley scored, one-run with a sacrifice fly and Ed singled home another.

Minico will travel to Twin Falls at 7 p.m. Thursday in the final week of the season. Coach John Astorula's crew defeated Pocatello 3-2 Friday, split with Nampa Saturday, winning 3-1 and losing 7-6 and then bowed to Nampa again Sunday 9-6.

Lower prices pare annual US food bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Lower farm prices knocked $2 off the average annual food bill for the American family last month, reducing it to $1,731, the Agriculture Department reported Tuesday.

In spite of the slight relief, the June food basket calculations still stood 14 percent higher than June 1973, and did not change official predictions that retail food prices would rise again.

By the standards used in Tuesday's report, a theoretical family of 4.2 persons paid $24 for a selection of farm-produced foods in the month of June. The Agriculture Department also publishes a separate estimate of food costs for a family of four based on grocery lists in differing price ranges. The latest such report showed a family of four spent $55 a week for a "moderate" grocery list in May.

The decline that retail food prices had dropped slightly in June came in a departmental report which calculates, each month, the annual cost of selected farm products to the theoretical family of 4.2 persons.

For May, that yearly market basket costs have risen only 3 percent since January. But officials repeatedly have warned consumers to expect future price increases, and an overall rise in the food budget of 12 percent this year is forecast.

The department also released a booklet Tuesday which blamed rising food prices chiefly on consumers and on food-processing middlemen.

The booklet said "the real facts" behind rising food prices include these factors:

- Consumers are earning more money and "bidding" more for food.
- Increased foreign demand for U.S. farm products.
- Increased charges by processors and retailers.
- Food production dropped slightly last year.
- Low-income Americans are getting more subsidies for food purchases.

China wheat crop good

HONG KONG (UPI)—China reaped a good summer wheat harvest this year despite serious drought conditions in some areas, the New China News Agency reported today.

Production in 10 key areas "hit an all-time high" and "total output rose by a big margin over that of last summer," NCNA said.

As usual, the Chinese gave no hard figures on production.

However, the report of increased production is in line with assessments made almost two weeks ago by analysts specializing in Chinese agricultural affairs.

Despite the good summer harvest, China's purchases of grain could reach a record high this year, the analysts said.

A tabulation of import commitments and probable additional deliveries indicates China's total imports for the year will be just under 8 million tons. Analysts who prepared the tabulation said total purchases could go as high as 10 million tons.

Wheat imports make up the bulk of these totals, almost 7 million tons. Canada will supply 3 million tons; Australia 1.1 million; Argentina 1 million; and France 250,000 tons. The United States has contracted for 1.5 million tons of delivery this year but it is "not definite yet whether China will accept delivery because of the presence of a smut in some of the wheat. This issue is under discussion.

NCNA attributed the good crop to increased yield, ranging from one-half ton to three-quarters of a ton per hectare (2.2 acres).

Analysts here said the Chinese also were believed to have brought more land into production, possibly as much as 3 million acres.

The NCNA report gave no figures on total acreage but did say that wheat is China's major summer crop, with a sown acreage second only to rice paddies.

Analysts here estimate that wheat production totals between 25 to 30 million tons a year and makes up slightly more than 10 percent of China's total annual grain crop. The summer wheat harvest accounts for about 90 percent of total annual wheat production.

TWIN FALLS — Teresa Marie Benoit and Kelly C. Hamlett were married July 6 at St. Edward's Catholic Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Benoit, Twin Falls. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hamlett, Piler.

Father Thomas L. Lahey officiated. The double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli, pink, yellow and blue daisies and baby's breath. A matching bouquet was placed on the side altar in memory of the bride's grandmother Hewlett.

The bride wore a floor-length gown in a princess style of white eyelet embroidery. The long full sleeves were gathered at the wrist with a satin bow and trimmed with tiny pearls. The "scopoped" neckline was decorated with tiny pearls and rhinestones.

Her fingertip veil of illusion net was attached to a white daisy tiara. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and baby's breath. She and her bridesmaid carried lace handkerchiefs, belonging to their grandmother Hewlett.

Lisa Benoit, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

Ted Benoit was best man. Ushers were Wayne Hamlett, brother of the bridegroom, and Mark Osterhout.

Joann Cubit was organist and Marilyn Barber was soloist.

The couple was honored at a reception following the ceremony at the parish hall.

Mrs. Harry Benoit, great aunt and godmother of the bride, registered guests.

The three-tier wedding cake was iced in pale yellow and trimmed with white daisies. A pair of white doves were placed on top of the cake. Mrs. Russell Pietz cut the cake with a silver knife that had been used at Mrs. Melvin Reithor's wedding.

Assisting at the bride's table were Mrs. B. D. Taylor, Mrs. Charles Crane and Mrs. Lowell Hewlett, aunts of the bride. Debbie Taylor, cousin of the bride, served punch.

Brandy snifters with floating daisies decorated the quartet tables.

Susie Hewlett, Shawna Stephens, Leanna Crane and Timmie and Shelle Taylor served the gifts.

Special wedding guests were grandparents of the couple Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Benoit Sr., and Arthur Hamlett, and great-aunts of the bride, Mrs. Henry Benoit, Mrs. J. J. Winterholer and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bevan.

Following a honeymoon trip to Sun Valley the couple resides in Piler where the bridegroom is engaged in farming.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: If a man works hard all day, is he supposed to help his wife with the housework? And even pack his own lunch pail?

The wife works, too; but it's light office work. My new daughter-in-law won't even clean her oven. She says it's a man's job. They've been married only ten months and already their apartment looks like something the cat dragged in. You can't find a clean spot to sit on.

I've been married for 32 years, and my husband never helped me with the housework.

I think a man should take care of the yard, empty out the garbage and maybe paint a little, but the housework, cooking and kids are the wife's department.

Send me some good advice that I can send to my new daughter-in-law. She needs it.

NO NAME, PLEASE

Unasked advice

DEAR NO NAME: Sorry, but I send advice only to those who ask for it. It's a good policy. I recommend it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 54, and I am a few years older. He used to be such a refined and gentle man, but lately he'll fly into a rage for no apparent reason, starting around the house and shouting so the whole neighborhood can hear him. He has even broken furniture and thrown it out the back door in a fit of anger.

He gets into fights with waitresses and salespeople and shouts obscenities at pedestrians and other automobile drivers. Almost every time we walk on the street he gets into a fight with a stranger. His language is foul and Abby, this man never even used to swear? If I try not talking to him, he gets mad at me for giving him the silent treatment.

He's been seeing a skin doctor about a rash which seems to be getting progressively worse. What could be wrong with him? Please tell me what to do. I don't know how much more I can take.

SEND NO ROPE

DEAR END: Your husband's trouble is more than skin-deep. Tell his doctor what you have told me. When a man becomes suddenly hostile, profane and violent, a psychiatrist should be consulted.

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widow for 25 years. I have continued to call myself Mrs. William Smith. A friend of mine recently told me that this is incorrect, that since there is no longer a William Smith, neither is there a Mrs. William Smith, and I should call myself Mrs. Isabel Smith. Will you kindly set me straight? CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Your friend needs to be set straight. When you took William's name, you took it for as you, as YOU lived unless you took another husband, not for as long as WILLIAM lived. Sincerely, you are still Mrs. William Smith. When it comes to signing legal documents, consult your lawyer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO V.S. — Breeding — I like what Jonathan Swift has to say about it: "Good manners in the art of making those people busy with whom one converses. Whoever makes the fewest people uneasy, is the best bred in the company."

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69360, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Story of Jarbidge featured in book

JARBIDGE, Nev. — "Gold Fever," a story of gold mining and prospecting in the Jarbidge, Nev., area, was published in June.

The author, HELEN WISNER Jarbidge, Nev., has explored the area in soft spot, hard-boiled editions. The book is available from City Book Store in Twin Falls and at Murphy, Hot Springs.

The book tells the story of Hattie, a city girl, and Jack, a hunter, prospector and miner, who lived in the wild mountain area with their two young children. It also details some of the historic events in the area including the last United States mail stage robbery.

According to the author, more than eight years of careful research went into the preparation and writing of the book. The author's mother was an amateur geologist and sent her informative letters from the area. The material helped the author portray the time and land as it was.

Then what has he led from? He is Garrozzo, but you are playing in the World's championship also and you can't be sure to have led from jack-ten-six. You play your nine and make the contract.

Why didn't Garrozzo lead the 10? Because he was sure that you would recognize that if he led the lead, play low and finesse against his jack on the next turn. Suppose his lead was top of nothing? In that case you were a dead bird in any case.

TWIN FALLS — Gov. Cecil Andrus' Republican Second Congressional District candidate, has called for repeal of the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA).

Speaking to a group in Twin Falls, Doretto and Ashum Hansen said a modification of OSHA was not sufficient. "The small frame and business man 'Can't' cope with this heavyhandedness and the only real solution is outright repeal," Hansen said.

Hansen singled out bureaucrats as the only ones viewing OSHA as a success. "OSHA is obviously just a lot of money—the people of Idaho—m added."

"He has accomplished little if anything in the enforcement of health and safety regulations that might improve lives," Hansen said, "providing a state or local control."

Workers often had the law difficult to obey, according to Hansen, and in some cases safety equipment is so cumbersome that it creates more hazard than it avoids.

Andrus visits Hailey

HAILEY — Gov. Cecil Andrus answered questions about subjects ranging from farm-forestry intervention to forest service policies during his "Capitol for a Day" tour here Monday.

The governor was in Blaine County as part of a campaign to contact people who are unable to visit Boise and the governor.

During a press conference at the Wood River Junior Andrus said a request from the city of Ketchum concerning drug and crime related problems had been acted upon. A Ketchum resident wrote a letter last week to Andrus pleading for more police protection, especially in regard to the drug problem.

Andrus said he advised Law Enforcement Commissioner John Bender of the problem and that the state was responding to the request from the city. He did not say how the help was coming, however.

Ketchum Police Chief Dennis Hayes last week said state narcotics agents would be sent here.

Several Ketchum residents are concerned organized crime may be involved in an apparent increase of hard drugs here.

Press Secretary Chris Carlson said Monday night the governor was unaware of any mafia influence in the region. He said information given by residents would be considered.

Andrus said Highway 75 along Trail Creek would be patrolled by the Idaho Highway Department. The department has abandoned the road and pot holes are scattered from Sun Valley to the summit.

The governor said his first step when he got to Boise was to organize the crew to patrol the road. He said a temporary three-way agreement between the forest service, highway department and Blaine county may be worked out to fund repair work until a long term agreement is settled.

Comments on the death of Jeff Hodgson, found dead last month while on a state administered survival program, Andrus said "he wasn't aware the state had such a program for children that age."

He said he would not "hack away" at anyone through the press. His office had nothing to do with Idaho Health and Welfare head James Bux' decision to shut down all-terrain vehicle programs, Andrus said.

Andrus is capable of ranking his own decisions, Andrus said. "I'm not going to debate with the parents of the young boy. All my sympathies go to them."

Andrus agreed with the attorney general's report that attorney fees would be paid for the seven defendants if they are acquitted of involuntary manslaughter.

"But understand that I'm not defending that type of program at all," Andrus added.

Referring to forest service construction, Andrus said "counties have enough power to control what the forest service does through sewage and sanitation requirements."

Andrus said the forest service "was down to take a hard line early, then drop back after the regular hearings were out of the way."

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JULY 25, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES. The early part of the day finds you able to work out problems with others and you can easily get the results you desire. But unless you are very cooperative and diplomatic you could run into minor opposition.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You know what associates expect of you but you think you can do it better your way, which could lead to trouble. Be logical.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can accomplish a great deal in the morning but later you are apt to be ruder to others, so think before you speak. Be kind.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can have lots of fun with friends during spare hours but don't neglect your duties. Listen to what associates have to say.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) The early morning is best time to make any improvements to your home. Be careful not to spend too much for amusements.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you have conferences with members of your family make sure you control your temper. Show more affection than you have in the past.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Analyze your financial position early in the day but don't confide in an untrustworthy person. Do something kind for loved one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Morning is best time to come to right decisions where important matters are concerned. Try to please all by being considerate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan what it is you really want out of life and then talk with experts who can help you attain your aims. Strive for happiness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take time to study the best way to improve your career. Hasty action could hurt the feelings of a sensitive friend. Use caution.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Expressing your talents before headquarters is a wise thing to do now. An out-of-towner can give you the backing you need now.

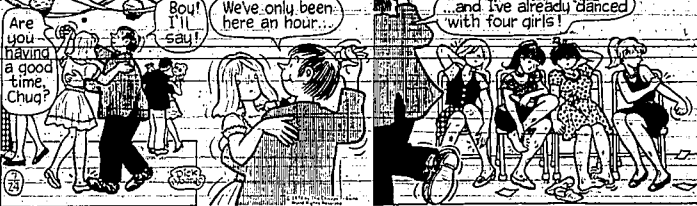

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Keep busy obtaining the data you will need to put through a project you have in mind. Don't let anyone waste your time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Attend to your responsibilities ahead of you and discharge them efficiently and wisely. Forget running out on any debts.

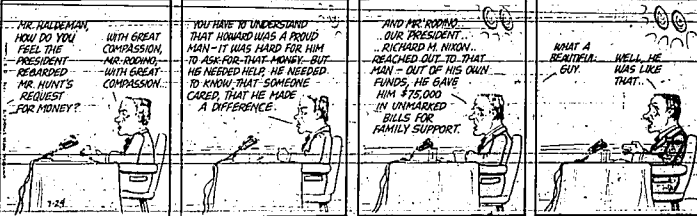

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will appeal to almost everyone and will be very popular, but you need to screen playmates well; your progeny is not influenced by those on the opposite side of the fence. Train to be respectful of others and to work in a precise and conscientious way. Don't neglect religious training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life largely up to YOU!

What's What

L. M. Boyd

To get along well with men, a woman must be reconciled with her own mother. That is the conviction now spreading among numerous students of the mind-by-reconciliation, they say they mean the girl must be in sympathy with her mother's mood regarding her with a certain understanding, must feel she did her best in hard times, whatever. How this dandy attitude helps the lady mend her relationships with the gentlemen is a little complicated. If she can't forgive her mom, she's apt to blame men for this will, or some such. Anyhow, our Love and War man says his studies bear out the contention.

CROSSWORDS

After menopause, numerous women can expect to lose as many as 100 hairs from the scalp every day; doctors now report.

IT'S KNOWN by all that man is the animal species with the widest distribution around the world. Cattle, which species has the second widest distribution. The housefly, I'm told.

THE PUEBLO INDIANS have a curious way of dividing man's work from woman's work. The material determines it. Earth is hers, wood is his. She makes pottery, builds an adobe, thus and such. He carves tools, timbers, roofs, so on.

ASTROLOGY

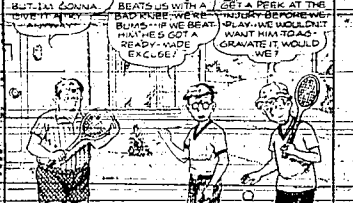

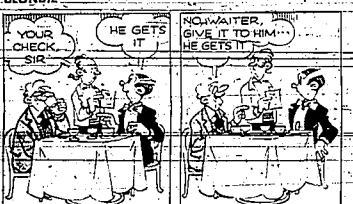

Q. "What are the characteristics of a Leo lady?" A. She tends to be pretty hungry for success, that Leo. But fortunately, she's usually gifted with a sense of humor that enables her to laugh at herself when she fails. Or so say the stargazers. Lucille Ball is a Leo, you know.

ANY SOLDIER who plays the piccolo, oboe or bassoon can pick up a tidy bonus by reenlisting, it's reported. According to Wisconsin Representative Les Algin, such military musicians have been receiving an average re-upward of $3,500 each lately.

YOUNG DOCTORS now believe what old wives have long known—that a heart attack is often as follows some great traumatic change in the patient's life. Such as divorce, loss of job, death of a loved one. Medical researchers in Finland say their studies indicate that heart attacks come along right after personal tragedies far too frequently to be coincidental.
