Faces probe

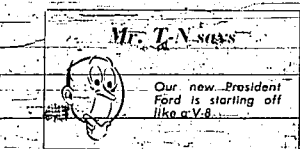

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI) — Former Green Beret physician Jeffrey MacDonald is appearing today before a federal grand jury investigating the death of his pregnant wife and two daughters Feb. 17.

After five months of military hearings, the Army decided there was insufficient evidence to bring MacDonald to trial. The case was returned after that until it was transferred to a new prosecutor a few weeks ago.

Red rockets splatter Bien Hoa base

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist gunners fired a barrage of rockets at the sprawling Bien Hoa air base today in the fourth consecutive day of shelling attacks against the strategic installation on the outskirts of Saigon.

The Saigon military command said the 12-round salvo of Soviet-made 122mm rockets wounded three soldiers this morning at the air base, 14 miles northwest of Saigon.

Commodity market jumps limit

TWIN FALLS — Farm commodity prices rose sharply today following President Ford's speech to Congress and reports of drought damage to Midwest crops.

According to Sinclair and Co., Twin Falls brokers, every commodity future price rose the limit in today's trading. The firms said the increase was highly unusual, but not unprecedented.

Recovering

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Comedian George Burns said he reported "feeling good" after open heart surgery Friday at Mt. Sinai Hospital in Beverly Hills.

Paris said the latest "clashes" came Monday when three Iraqi "bambino mercenaries" crossed into Iranian territory. The agency said one of them was killed and the other two were forced to retreat back to Iraq soil.

Ford plots assault on economy troubles

(c) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Ford, appearing before an enthusiastic joint session of Congress only three days after he took office, called Monday night for the convening of a 90-partisan "summit meeting" on the economy to find a means of controlling inflation.

In a speech interrupted 32 times by applause, the new President also called for quick reactivation of the Cost of Living Council to monitor rises in wages and prices in order to "explore options."

While the thrust of his address dealt with the economy, Ford received the greatest applause when he pledged that his administration would never engage in illegal wiretapping and other invidious privacy.

And, in another promise to set a new tone for his administration, the President said that to the limits of his ability he would be President of "the black, brown, red and white Americans, of old and young, of women's liberationists and male chauvinists and all the rest of us in between."

As expected, his appearance tonight in the house chamber was a warm reunion with the representatives and senators with whom he had served for many years.

(Related stories, p. 6-7)

"It's good to be back in the people's house," he said to thunderous applause. "I do not want a honeymoon with you. I want a good marriage." And he made a special appeal to the Congress controlled by Democrats to compromise rather than pass legislation he would feel compelled to veto. But he noted in a gentle, good-humored way, that their relations would never be the same.

"Only eight months ago, when I last stood here, I told you I was a Ford, not a Lincoln," he said, referring to his speech on becoming vice president. "Tonight I am still a Ford, but I am not a Model T."

The speech, which Ford delivered with twinkling eyes and a firm jaw, was a mixture of old-fashioned conservatism and devotion to civil liberties and democratic government.

On foreign policy, he pledged to keep to the direct path established by President Nixon, but he borrowed a phrase first used by the late President Kennedy in his inaugural address.

"Let us never negotiate out of fear, but never let us fear to negotiate."

Double trouble?

BOISE (UPI) — Evel Knievel, the daredevil who plans to jump a jet-powered motorcycle across the Snake River canyon Sept. 6, had better not be superstitious.

Among other technicalities, Knievel had to get a permit from the State of Idaho to make the jump.

The number of the permit is 13, 13.

Sirica sets 'Gate trial delay session on Friday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica has called a meeting of defense and prosecution lawyers for Friday to discuss whether next month's Watergate cover-up trial should be delayed.

Two of the defendants — John D. Ehrlichman and John N. Mitchell — have asked for a postponement, citing the dramatic events of the past week that led to the resignation of former President Nixon, an unimpeached conspirator in the case.

The other four defendants were expected either to file similar motions for delay on grounds of prejudicial publicity or at least to support the requests by Mitchell and Ehrlichman.

Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski was believed ready to endorse — or at least not oppose — a brief postponement from its scheduled starting date of Sept. 9.

A source close to the case said the judge has summoned lawyers for all sides to his chambers for a meeting at 10 a.m. Friday where the problem of going ahead with the trial as scheduled will be discussed.

Sirica was expected to issue fresh orders today turning over more of Nixon's subpoenaed

Watergate tapes to Jaworski for possible use as evidence at the trial. He has sent Jaworski 15 of the 55 tapes the White House surrendered to him in the past two weeks for his review.

Sirica today directed that tapes of two June 22, 1972 meetings between Nixon and his former chief of staff H. R. Haldeman be sent to Jaworski. It was these tapes, released by Nixon last week and indicating that he had ordered an initial phase of "cover-up" that triggered the rush of events that led to his resignation.

Attorneys for Haldeman, one of the cover-up defendants, were preparing to file a motion to block Jaworski from using Haldeman's White House notes taken during the taped conversations.

Council hearing planned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Responding promptly today to President Ford's plea for cooperation, the House Banking Committee said it will hold a hearing Thursday on restoration of the Cost-of-Living Council to monitor wages and prices.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield promised speedy action in the Senate as well, saying he would contact Banking Committee chairman John Sparkman and urge him to get going tomorrow.

Ford asked Congress Monday night to authorize reactivation of the C.L.C. — minus the power to impose wage and price controls — before the Labor Day congressional recess, which starts Aug. 22 in the House and Aug. 23 in the Senate.

In announcing the House hearing, Banking Committee chairman Wright Patman expressed doubt the council would "have great effect on prices or inflation or interest rates." But he said, "It is desired by the President, I feel the committee and Congress will give it early consideration."

The C.L.C. authorization was one of three specific pieces of legislation Ford requested, along with trade reform and a national health insurance bill.

Mansfield said it was "doubtful" that Congress would pass the trade bill this year. "The main stumbling block is a proposed amendment by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., linking broader U.S. trade with the Soviet Union to the relaxation of Soviet policies on the emigration of Russian Jews."

Brooks nominee

JEROME — An official canvass of votes in Legislative District 23 shows Gordon Hoffield, Jerome, and John H. Brooks, Gooding, being the top two candidates for the Republican ticket for representative candidates.

Unofficial returns had originally given the race to Hoffield and Clair Ricketts. The district covers Jerome County and parts of Gooding and Lincoln counties.

Official figures, now in from all three counties, show Hoffield with 1,094 votes (including 601 in Jerome County), 180 in Lincoln and 333 in Gooding; Brooks with 1,062 votes, including 364 in Jerome, 182 in Lincoln, and 508 in Gooding (unofficial returns showed 523 in Gooding), and Ricketts with 1,052 votes, including 728 in Jerome, 95 in Lincoln, and 219 in Gooding.

On the Democratic ticket, nominees are Louise Robison and William A. Kersey Jr.

Burley crash kills Moreland man

BURLEY — A Moreland man was killed Monday evening in a one-vehicle accident on Sun Valley which was not billed to the insurance company.

Assonson L. Reyes, 31, was dead at the scene after he lost control of his westbound pickup truck, entered the median, rolled several times and was thrown out of the vehicle across the eastbound lane of traffic.

The incident occurred at 6:30 p.m. Two passengers in Reyes' vehicle were thrown out and injured. Porfirio B. Alunas and Paellas Tovaas, 22, both Moreland, were reported in satisfactory condition at Cassia Memorial Hospital this morning.

Jerome fund question sparks hassle

By CHARLOTTE BELL Times-News writer

JEROME — Jerome school trustees cracked down Monday on a special fund used for administrative expenses.

The action prompted a statement by Supt. John Campbell that the trustees might have to "get themselves a new board of trustees." Trustee Cheryl Hyman questioned the district's use of a special checking account from which Supt. Campbell can draw expenses without prior approval from the school board.

"The question arose over a bill for administrative expenses for a conference held at Sun Valley which was not billed to the administrative expense account but instead was billed to another account."

Campbell said his practice has been to have two separate travel expense categories, using one for meals and lodging and the other for travel costs, "to expedite the bookkeeping work."

Campbell also said the special account had been "established" when he first came to the district as a convenience to administrative personnel. "If something comes up that one of the principals should attend, I just write them a check for the amount they should need and when they return, they submit their charges and pay me back," Campbell said.

He said that during it in a hardship on district teachers or administrative personnel to "wait out $100 or more to attend something and have to wait a month to get their money back."

Syria violates troop agreement

By United Press International
 Syria moved mortars and heavy artillery into the Golan Heights buffer zone in violation of the troop-disengagement agreement with Israel, military sources in Tel Aviv said today.

In retaliation, Israel has refused to remove mines planted in the United Nations buffer zone until Syria takes out 160mm and 240mm mortars moved into its limited force strip bordering the buffer zone, the sources said.

Israel and Syria completed the disengagement pact June 26. The agreement, engineered by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, stipulated that artillery in the limited force zones on both sides of the S.N. buffer could not exceed 122mm.

"They put 160mm and 240mm mortars there and we gave no agreement about removing the mines until they remove the mortars," the military source said.

He also charged Syrian MIG21 "sneaker" jets flew about a mile inside the U.N. buffer zone while on reconnaissance flights. Israel has complained to the United Nations about the flights.

Earlier, PLO fighters and guerrillas agreed to pull out of a southeastern Lebanese town today in response to protests by villagers fearful of Israeli retaliation raids against the region.

Lebanese Premier Takkeddin Solh told a news conference in Beirut that guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat ordered his men to withdraw today from the town of Rashayya al Pukhkar.

Arafat has emphasized to his resistance movement's commitment to ensure everything that would provide security and ability to Lebanese citizens living in border areas and throughout the country," he said.

The decision followed last week's Israeli air raids against Rashaya al Pukhkar and other southern Lebanese towns. Five persons were reported killed and 27 others wounded in the strikes.

The inhabitants of Rashaya al Pukhkar described the town after the raids as being in a siltin demonstration at a government building in the city of Marjayoun.

The demonstrators demanded adequate government protection and the cessation of guerrilla from the region in order to board of Israeli retaliatory raids.

Open sign up set for TFHS

TWIN FALLS — High school students here will register for classes under new open registration system this year.

The new system, approved in March by the Twin Falls School Board, is much like a "cafeteria" situation, with three days of registration at the beginning of the fall term.

Students will register the week of Aug. 26. Seniors are to register Aug. 28; Juniors on Aug. 27 and sophomores on Aug. 26. Classes begin Aug. 29.

Each day, Times-Tribune registration will be according to the alphabet. Students whose last names begin with N-S will register from 9:30-10:30 a.m. Students with names T-Z will register at 10:30-11:30 a.m.; L-M at 11:30-12:30; E-H at 1:30-2:30 p.m.; and A-D from 2:30-3:30 p.m.

Students must register at the appropriate time or send a parent to register for them.

Otherwise, students will have to wait until the end of registration and take their chances in getting the classes they wish, according to high school counselors.

No parental approval forms will be used for registration. But counselors add parents are welcome to come with their children to register.

The new system, modeled after similar ones in Boise and Mountain Home, was instituted to avoid the many changes usually made in the fall by students who must register in the spring. Also, students will be allowed to select their own courses and teachers, within the limits of ability and requirements.

High school counselors will be on duty at the high school beginning Aug. 19 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. to aid students in planning programs, and to answer any questions.

Tickets available

TWIN FALLS — Tickets for Evel Knievel's Sept. 8 Snake River Canyon Jump, and accompanying motorcycle races are on sale here.

Available at the Snake River Canyon Enterprises office at 444 Main Ave. S. The tickets are good for Sept. 1-5. No personal checks will be accepted forward purchase of the tickets.

Here are some interesting numbers.

Seven and one-quarter percent. That's a good one to start with. Our highest-yielding Time Certificate of Deposit. A $1,000 minimum deposit for four years pays a healthy 7 1/4% return, particularly with interest compounded quarterly for an even higher yield.

Six and one-half percent interest is your return on $500 or more deposited in a 2 1/2-year Time Certificate of Deposit. Again, interest may be compounded quarterly. It may not be as unique as the old soldier bank, but it pays a lot higher return!

Six percent interest is our rate on a $500 Time Certificate of Deposit for 1 to 2 1/2 years. Interest may be compounded quarterly. A shorter term CDE with a very interesting 6% return.

Five and one-half percent interest. The Harvest. A healthy return on a flexible Time Savings Certificate. A 90 day deposit of $500 or more is all that's required. Renewed automatically and compounded quarterly for a hefty harvest.

Five percent and maximum flexibility in a convenient passbook account. You add to it whenever you need it. Interest computed daily from date of deposit to date of withdrawal and compounded quarterly for a higher return.

First try

MRS. Paul Miller, Twin Falls, received a special purple ribbon in last year's fair for outstanding canning entries. It was Mrs. Miller's first try at entering canning products in the fair. A large class of canners is among the divisions of the kitchen and pantry department.

Wayne Van Celeren, the group's leader, will present a brief gospel message, according to Rev. Seaman.

Nursery facilities will be available.

JEROME — The second annual Jerome High School field-biology expedition recently returned from a seven-week trip to Mexico.

The expedition included students from Idaho, Oregon and Washington. They studied plants, geology and ecology. High school students earned a year's science credit and high school graduates received four units of credit through Idaho State University.

Warren B. Van Camp of Jerome High School directed the expedition.

Madie Valley, participants included Robert Thomas, Gale Thomas, Ellery, Michelle Werry, Jet Tius, Wayne Berney, and Sue Ellis, all Jerome; Becky Elsingher and Janet Floyd, Gooding; Mark Middleton, Ketchum; Brent Van Camp and Tricia Van Camp, Burley; Maggy Gray, Rupert; and Bob Nickelson, Bellevue.

Tracy L'Hershey and Shelly Davis, both Jerome, were assistant instructors.

The group left Jerome on June 10. In Mexico the students visited Guaymas, El Estero, Guadalupe, the volcano, the Paricutin, Irapim, Queretaro and Mexico City.

They returned to Jerome on July 29 by way of Carlsbad Caverns, Grand Canyon and Bryce National Parks.

Van Camp said that Jerome High School is the only Idaho school to offer such a program for high school students.

He said that next year's trip will be to Canada and the Olympic rainforest of Washington.

Nixon remains tragic tangle of contradictions

(c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON - In the long ironic history of America, events have kept unfolding contrary to the expectation of his greatest leaders and thinkers...

and so many odd and unexpected revelations and punishments have come about that it almost sustains the moral interpretation of history. The man who gave his loyalty to aims rather than to his oath of office, hoping for personal success through their association with his power...

promise to the little girl with the sign in Ohio. He has brought us together, not for his leadership and his tactics but against them. It has been a terrible time and but for the extraordinary combination of accident and disclosures, it might have been much worse...

Watergate to bring excessive presidential power under control. There will be reform now that will reform campaign financing, protect the privacy of our people, control the pre-emptive and power of White House officials, and bring the public's business more into the open...

President takes charge

President Ford has handled the difficult presidential transition with firmness and grace. He is well on his way toward rebuilding national confidence in the office and its occupant.

Ford's speeches have been genuinely moving to many people who saw them. He managed to show himself as an honest, humble man who has been thrust into an office he did not seek.

His address to Congress Monday night is a good example of the early Ford Presidency. He said some things will be the same, President Nixon's spectacularly successful foreign policy will be continued with the help of Henry Kissinger.

But many other things will be changed. He drew long applause when he declared he would not permit his administration to wallow in the corruption that had marked his predecessor.

Then he moved to the major dilemma facing the nation, the inflation-ridden economy. He proposed an anti-inflationary effort composed of a balanced federal budget, wage-price monitoring and forceful jawboning of both business and labor.

For one thing, Ford can work with Congress. In the end, it will be Congress which will have to hold the line on federal spending. There is every prospect that Congress will go along with Ford where it would not have done so with Nixon.

Similarly, the business and labor leaders who must cooperate to make self-restraint work may respond to Ford where they would not have done so with a weakened Nixon.

The difference in the prospects for the final two years of a Nixon administration and the beginning two years of a Ford administration is leadership. Ford may be a leader who can win people over to his chosen course of action.

The nation desperately needs, and may have found, such a President.

Middle Snake Future

The mislabeled "administration position" on the future of the Hells Canyon to Lewiston segment of the Snake River papers over a 20 year controversy and has very little substance.

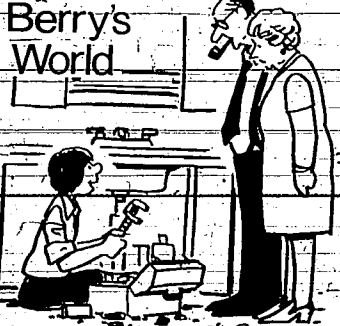

The Federal Power Commission is fed up with waiting for Congress to make up its mind. The Forest Service is dead against instant withdrawal except for the canyon walls.

Although most of the region and light members of Congress have burned thumbs down on more dams in the Snake River above the entrance of Idaho's Salmon River...

The administration recommended against naming the Snake River approval of 60 miles of the more than 100 at issue as a Wild and Scenic River and the study of surrounding lands for special classification later.

This argument over the Snake has been going on for too long a time. If regional members of Congress are unable to get together and get a bill through this session, the Federal Power Commission would be justified in reopening its hearings on Pacific Northwest Power Company's dam license applications.

The future status of the Middle Snake ought to be resolved within 60 days, unless a respected incumbent...

By the way, you might be interested to know - today's my last day. I'm retiring!

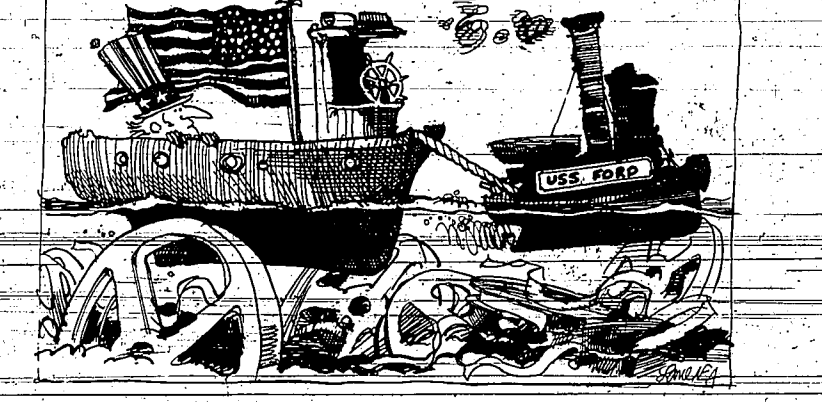

There is something uncanny about the twists and accidents of this fantastic story, which may even include the mystery writers' piece of tell-tale white-tape-placed-the-wrong-way-on-the-Watergate doors; the almost accidental discovery of a three-way question by a minor attorney...

Constantly, the president did his men almost seemed to expect the things they feared the most, by assuming the worst in everybody. Nixon's intent all along, he has explained, was to protect and strengthen the presidency, but the result was to weaken it and revive the confidence and authority of Congress.

He set an electronic trap to gather evidence for the prosecution of his enemies, and produced instead evidence for his own impeachment and conviction. He campaigned for the presidency on a platform of law and order, appealing for "a new morality" and the end of "permissiveness"...

There seems no end to the irony of this drama. He warned his flight on his political enemies in the press and Congress, and asked the people to trust him and believe he had got the truth, but he didn't even trust his own aides or lawyers, and was finally repudiated by most of his own supporters and by a Supreme Court that in effect found his own motives.

A tow through troubled waters

Secret talks, delicate planning led to history

WASHINGTON - Highly secret talks between White House chief of staff Alexander Haig and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, together with extremely delicate planning between Haig and three senior Republicans in Congress finally resolved the crucial question of Kissinger's presidential resignation...

The simple facts of Richard Nixon's last four days in office, filled with emotionally draining details which compelled his resignation Friday, are set forth in a telephone call from Haig to Kissinger on Wednesday, July 1.

Haig, trusting no one outside the closed White House inner circle so much as his former boss on the national security council staff, gave Kissinger the barest details of the intrigues June 24, 1972, tapes.

Kissinger was appalled. Possessing primacy in the cabinet, as well as the greatest store of national and world prestige of any American, Kissinger was approached in highly oblique fashion by powerful Republicans. Would there be some way for the cabinet to tell the call to inform the President that only by speedy resignation could the nation be salvaged from a far worse fate?

The proposal was discarded. "For such a purpose, the cabinet did not exist," one cabinet member explained. "There was only Henry."

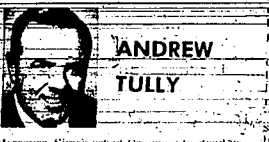

Kissinger's central role in telling the call was underscored by the crucial nature of his job. The State Department officials calculated the agonies that might spring from prolonged chaos and the threat to the legitimacy of the US government. Outbreak of a major crisis, not then perceived to have to be ruled out, could prove disastrous with a President lacking the moral authority to manage these agonies.

A more subtle problem: the longer it took to belittle the call, the more likely that foreign countries would find it irresistible to exploit the vacuum and in the diplomat's phrase, "raise the asking price by 5 per cent in all out negotiations for the cabinet to tell the call."

Worker will applaud Simon's fight

Wayway, Simon's critics have zeroed in only on the Social Security tax. They have ignored his budget program for a national $25 billion reduction in Federal spending.

Moreover, Simon asked Congress to stand up and be counted on the issue of sequestering. Specifically, he suggested that Congress change laws that now freeze sequestered uncontrolled spending such that for Social Security it takes two to whittle down a federal budget. The President's proposal will be liked, but it is Congress that finally appropriates the money.

It is some comfort that Simon continues to support the government's anti-inflation policy of budget restraint, even if an implicit budget of 0 or above 6 per cent inflation is the country's biggest problem.

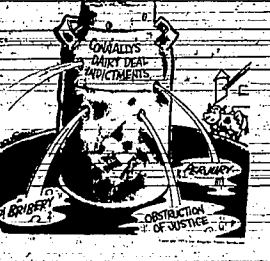

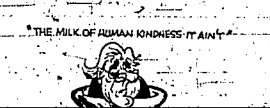

Simon's biggest problem lies within the administration. The House and Senate have led the opposition to Simon's proposal for meaningful budget cuts simply because they are bad politics. One of Simon's men puts it more sarcastically, "Ash is against Simon's policies because he didn't think of them first."

The working effort will lead the applause if Simon decides he'd rather fight than switch with his critics in the White House.

The three party leaders arrived in the Oval Office agreed among themselves that helping the call must be a purely Republican affair. As one told me, "Only Republicans could grapple with the disaster that had struck the country and the Republican Party."

And so they laid the evidence starkly on Nixon's desk. They avoided the word "resignation," sticking to the bare facts. Just as Haig and Kissinger, in playing their own parts in the funeral drama, stuck to the bare facts, the death of Dwight Eisenhower. He wanted "no tears" now and "no bloodshed" when the leaders left. Nixon's choice was simply unavoidable.

Haig, Kissinger, Goldwater, Scott, Rhodes, they had performed a task, unknown in 200 years of American history, effectively, discreetly and with a certain nobility.

A thought for today

A thought for the day: British writer John Clarke said, "If life had a second edition, how I would correct the proofs."

Richard Nixon's enemy truly within himself

WASHINGTON - The world still spins on its axis. It isn't a cold day in Hell. The nuclear-tipped missiles are no less vigilant in the silos of North Dakota than they were last week. Governmental checks are out on schedule and the economy remains free to keep chugging along within the limits of civility and the law, and without fear. The system works.

There's no need to bust a blood vessel about the change in the White House. The Greek drama unfolding there is epic in scope, to be sure, but the men caught in it are not divinely ordained to play their parts. They're really ordinary men carried along in the slipstream of destiny's choice. Jerry Ford may give the country the break it desperately needs, a respite from the straits of an FR that invite evil and flamboyance. In his capable averageness, he may be what the doctor ordered.

Richard Nixon had his fing at the wheel and pushed himself up. His enemy was truly within himself. He didn't seem to understand that power in a free society is not to be hoarded. He was uneasy with it, and in the end, he perceived it as a shield against some imputed in security and fear, and abused it in a manner that finally proved oppressive.

He gave the lie to the belief that, to a successful politician, a man must be reasonable, open and trusted, drawing strength from the people. He was ungenerous, almost introverted to a fault, a brooding loner. This reporter can speak with some experience on this score.

He once confessed to the late Stewart Alsop that he couldn't "let my hair down," even to the extent of being close to him. He asked his friends of long standing if they really knew him, what he was like in the unguarded moment, and the answer always was no. For all my own travels with him, during his presidency, as well as before, I came to know him progressively less well. He was, in the cliché of those who must make judgments of public men, a plastic man, obsessed with his image. He had a passion for arranging where people should stand in photographs taken by him. He had no gift for small talk, and he lacked a talent for anecdotes. The zeal to protect his inner self was intense. The wall he built around himself was almost complete, and we used to wonder what he meant when he boasted about knowing the great cities of the world and their people.

But he traveled a far piece, and some of the journey was couched with glory. I recall standing next to then-secretary of state William P. Rogers in the Kremlin in 1972, watching Nixon with the Soviet leaders. This is quite something for a boy from Whittier, T. Rogers said. And so it was. "But the flaw that brought him to grief made a mockery of the 'historic firsts' he loved to proclaim. His resignation was a historic first that will remain indelible in the annals of time. It was a self-inflicted personal tragedy. But it had to be, and it could prove to be cleansing.

Heavy applause welcomes Ford's call for inflation war 'summit'

He did not propose any bold innovations on the economy or for controlling inflation. Instead he called for the conservative prescription of spending down inflation, to cut back on government spending. Here he came down hard with a bipartisan appeal.

"The American wage earner and the American housewife are a lot better economists than most economists care to admit," he said. "They know that a government big enough to give you everything you want, is a government big enough to take from you everything you have. If we want to restore confidence in ourselves as working politicians, the first thing we all have to do is learn to say 'No'."

He said that in the upcoming Congressional elections in November he would appeal to the voters across the nation to support those candidates—Democrats or Republicans, conservative or liberal—who consistently vote for tough decisions to cut the cost of government, restrain federal spending and bring inflation under control.

Ford asked the congress to meet by labor day legislation that had been proposed by Nixon, to recreate the God of Living Council. Also he supported the suggestion made a month ago by Sen. Mike Mansfield, of Montana, the Democratic majority leader, to convene a conference composed of representatives of labor, industry and agriculture, along with government officials and members of Congress, to devise a "bipartisan action plan for stability and growth in the American economy."

"Neither I nor my staff have been writing press now for letter writing," Ford said. "So I will respond in person. I accept your suggestion and I will personally preside."

"Furthermore," he continued, "I propose that this summit meeting be held at an early date and include views of the next year. They are anxious to get the right answers as we are."

Addressing himself to one of the abuses that brought down the Nixon administration, Ford said, "There will be no more illegal tapings or eavesdropping, bugging or break-ins by my administration. There will be no pursuit of privacy in both government and private activities. We took the need for a higher public morality. Ford took a different tack. Oh that, he said, there was no need for him to preach.

"We have thousands of far better preachers and authors of sacred scriptures to guide us on the path of personal right living and exemplary official conduct," he said. "This is a job that must begin at home, not in Washington."

As expected, Ford received extended standing ovations. The ovation at the beginning went on so long that Ford, looking somewhat embarrassed, said: "We're wasting good television time. When it was over 40 minutes later and he made his way down the aisles to another ovation, the members called out, "Jerry, Jerry," and Speaker Carl Albert apologized to him for failing to call him "Mr. President."

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Ford's characteristic candor extends to his children as well.

Ford was asked for comment Monday on a statement by the President's son, Michael, 24, who told a Boston radio station that former President Nixon should make "a confession or admission of any guilt involved" in connection with his role in the Watergate scandal.

Press Secretary Jerald Ford said Ford replied with a smile:

"All of my children have spoken for themselves since they first learned to speak and not always with my advance approval and I expect that to continue in the future."

WASHINGTON (UPI)—D.C. had sat looking at the Capitol from crowds of people were waiting to greet President Ford. So far as one could see, none carried a sign.

He said he was a Ford, not a Model T. Congress voted him for being Ford, not Nixon.

"I really didn't matter what they said," Ford said, his audience did "right week" to give him.

An outsider could look on the congressmen and senators who sat in the House chamber and see the relief they felt in being before President Ford.

"They were relieved of the triple burden: Richard Nixon presented of judgment, decision and consequence. Congress had looked with dread on the prospect.

"The congress had played its behind-the-scenes role in convincing Nixon to resign and now a man of Congress was before the people.

"But if that weren't enough to make plain old plainpiston Gerald Ford look heroic to his patience, he did more."

He said all the right things he referred to the House of Representatives as "the People's House," the way members are fond of referring to it.

He said he was human. He said he had made mistakes, could make more.

"I hope never to see the day that I cannot admit having made mistakes," he said. "I was loved for saying such simple things as that."

Seven months ago, in February, Nixon had stood in the same place to deliver his famous speech to the Nation. "I am," he said, "a 70-year-old man who has served his country for 36 years."

Scattered before him sat the men who had judged him, were judging him, or would be called to judge him.

small beginning to drop in the bucket.

House Republican Leader John H. Rhodes of Arizona said, "I don't remember hearing a speech as right for this moment as this was one."

House Speaker Carl Albert of Massachusetts said, "I will do all it can to help him succeed."

House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts said, "He asked for our help and our continued criticism and you can bet we will give him that."

Sen. Timothy W. Jackson, D-Wash., said, "He was candid and direct. It was very good beginning for him."

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., said he has suggested that Ford propose a three-point plan in the level of salaries and federal programs and added, "He kind of liked the idea."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said the speech indicated that "in a political sense, it's an entirely new ball game."

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said, "Both the tone and general thrust was refreshing and encouraging. He may have differences down the road, but it will be in the right spirit as we work together to solve national problems."

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., an all-but-declared candidate for President in 1976, said he had the impression that Ford's ideas on the economy were very similar to his own and that they would help in those who most need help in housing, unemployment and other areas.

Several other Democrats and leaders of the Republican Party also questioned Ford's contention that cutting back government expenditures while maintaining defense spending would help slow inflation.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., called Ford's speech a "solid, homespun message" that gave the country "a sense of confidence." But Humphrey said Ford's formula for fighting inflation was " simplistic."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said "Cutting government expenditures alone won't cure inflation and can trigger a recession and bring higher unemployment."

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, which would handle most of Ford's initiatives dealing with the economy, praised the speech, but contended that he was "dismayed" that Ford indicated inflation could be controlled by cutting the budget. "He said that's a husband Edward Cox were with him at the family's oceanfront villa.

But his other daughter, Julie, and her husband, David Eisenhower, were in the audience in the House of Representatives, seated in a special box with the Ford family as the new chief executive delivered his speech.

At one point, the television cameras focused on the Eisenhowers as House Speaker Carl Albert was introducing Ford as "the President of the United States."

They joined in the frequent applause for Ford, except when Ford said there would be "no illegal tapings, eavesdropping, bugging or break-ins in my administration."

Then they sat stony-faced, staring straight ahead, and did not join the resounding applause from the congressmen.

For Nixon, the event came at the end of his fourth day as a private citizen and another in which he remained out of public view, except for an hour-long drive in mid-afternoon up and down the nearby coast with a short stop at the beach.

Aides said the former president worked for hours earlier, trying to arrange his personal affairs and to set up operations for a now very limited staff.

The members of Nixon's staff had no immediate comment on Ford's speech.

which included promises by the new President to run an open administration, to cooperate where possible with Congress and to see that there were no illegal activities such as wiretapping or bugging.

Nixon was expected to continue his emphasis on privacy for the time being as his aides worked to set up office facilities.

Ford doesn't expect miracles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has signaled Congress that he expects results on some of the major legislative problems it faces, but not miracles.

To a Watergate-weary Congress, anxious to rejoin in October and campaign for reelection, Ford asked priority action for only three pieces of major legislation: trade reform, national health insurance, and a reauthorization of the Cost of Living Council to monitor — not control — the economy.

Ford probably will get his expanded trade negotiation powers, and he may get his Cost of Living Council. But a national health insurance plan is likely out of his reach this year.

Significantly missing were comments on such major bills as tax reform, campaign reform, mass transit, public service employment and veterans education benefits. A word from Ford might have provided the extra thrust needed to ensure that campaign reform does not get bogged down in the Senate. He also attempted to compromise House and Senate versions. A word could have boosted a pending $10 billion mass transit bill which may be the lack of time.

But Ford chose instead to zero in on only a few bills. Knowing Congress better than most men, he did not ask for too much.

Of the three Ford priorities, the trade bill stands the best chance of passage. The House has already passed a bill, and a pending bill in the administration's trade negotiation authority, and the only remaining hangup in the Senate Finance Committee is Sen. Henry M. Jackson's amendment to deny "most favored nation" trade status to the Soviet Union unless it allows free emigration of Jews.

National health insurance is another matter. The House Ways and Means Committee is only just beginning to write its bill, but the Senate Finance Committee has taken no action.

Health insurance is controversial, and even its structure has been taken off the AFL-CIO now are lobbying Congress to wait until next year and start over.

Revolving the Cost of Living Council will likely have support among Democrats. A number of liberal Democrats tried to revive it when it expired last April '70, but were overruled by strong Nixon lobbying.

Gerald R. Ford's original home in Grand Rapids

Former Ford home taken off market in Michigan

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) — For five years, the best offer the Veterans Administration could get for the once-stately home of 3900 11th St. was $100,000. The three-story structure has been taken off the market for speculators will buy it.

The house was once the home of President Gerald R. Ford. He lived there for seven years, attended nearby South High School and became an All-Star athlete.

"It was a beautiful home," said Mrs. Ethel Henderson, who owned the house until the Veteran's Administration repurchased it because of a mortgage default.

But it went by now and see what had shape in it. It just makes me sick."

The VA then put it on sale for $9,000 plus $500 for taxes and insurance, but only one offer was made and that was for $100.

"It's not a suitable neighborhood," the VA said, referring to the area's high crime rate.

On Monday, the VA withdrew the old, four-bedroom home from the list of property for sale to prevent any speculators from "taking advantage of the situation."

Most of the old Ford neighbors are also going home and the house was once the home of the upper middle class.

The windows are smashed, the porch screen is ripped and rotting. The lawn in the tiny, weed-covered yard is cluttered with broken bottles and debris.

But it is now something of a historical landmark, and to some speculators, a prospective money-maker.

"Gobs of people came to take pictures of the old Ford house last fall when he became vice president," said Sylvia English, 70, an area resident.

Another neighbor, Mrs. Rosie Sylvester, who has lived next door to the old Ford home since 1966, said, "They ought to make it shine. It would certainly help increase property values."

The VA agreed, saying it would like to turn the house over to a historical society or any other group with similar interests.

Ford frowns on GM action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford began his first business day in office by taking on General Motors; the nation's biggest corporation and a major employer in his old congressional district.

GM apparently is in a mood to back down.

The cause of the confrontation was a GM price increase. Ford said the increase of the prices of its 1975 models, by record $300, General Motors is a price leader in the auto industry and...

Both the 10-per cent increase will affect the economy, he said, and particularly at this time, that all segments of the economy — industry and labor — exercise restraint in their wage-price action.

Asked to comment, a GM spokesman said, "We'll stand by our letter to dealers."

Mitchell urges delay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell is arguing for a delay in the Watergate cover-up trial scheduled to begin next month because of the "nightmare" of former President Nixon's resignation is still fresh in the public's mind.

Mitchell Monday joined with another of the six defendants, former Nixon domestic adviser John D. Ehrlichman who previously asked for a "reasonable delay" in the start of the trial from early September.

"President Nixon's forced resignation has heightened the public view that Nixon and his close associates, i.e., Mitchell, Ehrlichman, and others were criminal conspirators in Watergate," Mitchell's lawyer, William G. Hundley, said in a two-page motion for continuance filed in U.S. District Court.

"With Nixon gone, the nightmare of Watergate is going to diminish and in the foreseeable future the climate is going to be more conducive to providing these defendants a fair trial than they could receive now."

Hundley also cited the House Judiciary Committee's televised impeachment debate, and said "the one thing that all 18 members agreed on was that Mitchell was criminally involved in Watergate."

Judge John J. Sirica told reporters later that after other defendants file their motions, as they are expected to do, he would hold a hearing on whether to delay the trial.

Sirica also said he would give Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski portions of 17 additional tapes today for use in the trial. That would make a total of 27 tapes, given to prosecutors so far.

Sirica said he allowed some White House claims of executive privilege and disallowed others and that he is turning over only relevant portions of the tapes.

St. Clair said it appeared that 2 minutes and to seconds of the 19-minute conversation related to a discussion about whether Hunt would be given clemency.

Earlier Monday, James D. St. Clair, Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, submitted an analysis of a Jan. 8, 1973, taped conversation between Nixon and then White House special counsel Charles W. Colson.

Ford to maintain priority on peace

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford says he will maintain the high priority United States effort to promote long-term peace in the Middle East.

"We shall carry out our promise to promote continuing negotiations among all parties for a complete just and lasting settlement," Ford declared Monday in his address to a joint session of Congress.

Finding a peace settlement for the complex Middle East situation, he stated, "is the North's best diplomatic for the last quarter-century. It had become one of President Nixon's top priority goals before he resigned — the responsibility of all."

Campaign backing eyed by president

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford may campaign for Republican congressional candidates this fall, it was learned today.

Ford, an affable, soft-spoken, middle-aged man, is expected to throw his backing behind GOP candidates and continue his battle against a Democratic Congress.

But a White House official described as "without foundation" a report that Ford may undertake a trip to Western Europe in the coming weeks.

The report also said that Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev's trip to the United States scheduled for next summer may be moved up.

Ford was expected to travel abroad at some point, but not until after the November elections.

Drought cuts US corn crop

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Drought in some major farm areas has cut the 1974 corn crop in an estimated 4,966 billion bushels and posed new threats of future increases in food prices, an Agriculture Department report disclosed Monday.
Wheat prospects declined a few percent from July but remained at record levels and in excess of previously estimated demand for the coming year.
The department's crop report, based on Aug. 1 conditions, showed the corn estimate 12 percent below last year's record 5,649 billion bushels—and substantially below earlier forecasts of demand for the 1974-75 crop season.
The report also estimated the 1974 wheat crop at a record 1,840 billion bushels, seven billion production, a record 1,313 billion bushels, and grain sorghums also down from last year at 519 million bushels.
The estimate for corn, the key raw material for many kinds of meat and poultry, indicated President Ford's new administration may come under heavy pressure to limit exports in order to hold down domestic

Replacements sought

By United Press International
The Environmental Protection Agency's ban on production of the two most widely used pesticides for health reasons has sent farmers on a search for substitutes to combat crop-threatening pests.

This year's yield does not appear to be in trouble, but farmers are worried about the future because of the EPA ban on the use of aldrin and dieldrin, banned because of the possible danger of cancer and other illnesses.
The two pesticides, manufactured solely by Shell Chemical Co., are mostly used around such crops as corn but have also been applied for termite control and moth proofing.

Dieldrin has also been used to control pests in apple orchards, and aldrin has been used against termites, ants, grasshoppers, crickets, leafhoppers and spitting on self-sown seedlings and other commercial turf.
Dr. Harry Moore, an entomologist at North Carolina State University, said chlordane, a highly volatile insecticide, was a "perfectly adequate substitute" for aldrin for the termites and turf uses. But he said the substance already casts more than aldrin and dieldrin and would probably become even more costly as demand in-

Fair at Elko opens Aug. 26

ELKO — "Roses—races—ribbons" is the theme for this year's Elko County Fair and Livestock Show.

grain prices and later food inflation.
The corn estimate was the first formal survey-based forecast of the season. It showed that despite a bright early-season outlook for record output, the harvest may fall short of the 5,200-5,240 billion bushels which experts estimated in July would be used in domestic and export markets combined in the year starting Oct. 1.
Earlier, with all controls on major crops scrapped in a drive for all-out production, Agriculture officials had hopefully projected a possible overharvest of a record 6.7 billion bushels. Later, as weather withered their hopes, the projection was pulled down in stages to a 5,200-5,240 billion bushel range in late July.

Financial help due this week

BOISE (UPI)—Financial assistance for livestock and poultry producers under the Emergency Livestock Credit Act will become available this week, William D. Stevenson, state director of the Farmers Home Administration said.
Stevenson said the agency will be prepared to implement the recently enacted law by guaranteeing up to 80 percent of possible loss on loans made by legally organized lenders to livestock and poultry producers.
The maximum loan to any single borrower that can be assisted by FHA guarantee is $25,000. Stevenson said the loan will be repayable at three years, although renewal for two years may be authorized. Interest rates are determined between borrower and lender.
FHA guarantee will be made only when the loanable farmer or rancher cannot obtain financing without a guarantee, Stevenson said, adding that loans will not be used to expand operations.

Trustee Alvin Christy said he felt the expenses for administrative personnel should come out of one account and teacher's expenses out of another.

The trustees voted four to one to change the district's policy so that any travel or expenses amounting to $50 or more must have prior approval from the board of trustees and that

Trustee Darrell Wolf voted against the motion saying he felt the trustees were getting out of policy determination and into the administrative work of the district.

Campbell said he felt the trustees were trying to stymie him from doing his work. If that was the case they had better "get yourselves a new boy."

Trustee Jack Thomason questioned the district's policy of letting Campbell purchase items without board approval. "We come down here month after month and are handed a piece of paper and asked to approve the bills for items already purchased. I think we should have something to say on how the money is spent," Thomason said.

Campbell said "You hire me to run the business, school district which is your responsibility in and pay out. Now you want to control it." Thomason contended that was not his contention. However, he said he thought some of the spending had gotten out of hand.

Campbell said "I did not fire you to limit my spending for the district. I will make the job more inconvenient and difficult, but I'll do it. If you want to make my job so tough I'll quit. I will. I've gotten the impression several times tonight you are trying to get rid of me," Campbell said.

The trustees, in a four to one vote, passed a motion requiring any item over $1,000 be approved by the board before purchase. "It's not an effective way to run the district. If you don't like the way I handle this school district and its money, then you had better get someone else," Campbell said.

The trustees said they would try the passed motion to see if it would work. Wolf voted against the measure, saying he felt they were hampering the operation of the school district.

The trustees unanimously voted to change the district's policy so that no board member or agent of the school district accept a gift of any kind, whether in cash or any form of persons doing business with the district.

BURLINGAME — George Atkins was appointed trustee for district 3 at the Buhl School Board meeting Monday.

He will join the inexperienced group of Mrs. Charles McLainman who has resigned since she is moving to Twin Falls.

The trustees signed a diploma for a girl who has completed her summer school training and has obtained required number of credits for graduation.

Supt. Don Mabe announced the contractor, who had awarded a contract at a previous meeting to put metal coverings over the eaves of the elementary school building, has ordered the material but it has not yet arrived. He is still hoping to be able to meet Aug. 30 completion date.

John Barker Agency was given the contract for "Workshop Insurance." Ida Gent will supply milk for the school.

Wright Electric was given the contract to supply 300 tons of coal at $29.60 per ton. Intermountain Gas was granted permission to install a gas range in the home economics room.

The trustees discussed bus routes and extended the route into Melon Valley to pick up a number of students. A special meeting will be held soon to discuss contracts with bus drivers.

Buhl's schools will commence Aug. 26. Registration for high school will be held Aug. 20-21 and for junior high, 22-23. Elementary students will not pre-register, but room assignments will be made by the staff. Students new in the area should check with the principal's office previous to the beginning of school. Mabe said.

Senior high activity tickets will be $6 this year, annuals $3, school newspaper, $1; towel service for physical education $3 and for each sport $2.

Students who do not wish to purchase activity tickets will be charged 20 cents for each event. The wish to attend the activity tickets will enable them to attend assemblies, like football games, soccer basketball games, three track meets, two band concerts, two vocal concerts, two drama productions and Girls League and Boys League.

Opening slated

PHILIP — Eller school classes will start Aug. 19, according to Dr. Baker, superintendent.

High school students may register Monday beginning at 8:30 a.m. After they register with their teachers, they may leave for the day. There will be no hot lunches at the high school on Monday.

Elementary school students are registering at the school from 9 a.m. to noon and 4 p.m. each day this week. First graders are required to bring their birth certificates.

Elementary school students are asked to bring a sack lunch the first day of school, Aug. 19. Hot lunches are expected to begin on Tuesday. Lunches in the grade school will be 30 cents and in high school, 45 cents.

All teachers of the district will meet at 9 a.m. Friday at the high school for a meeting and then will spend the rest of the day at their respective schools, Supt. Baker said.

Members of the school board and faculty will have a picnic at 6:30 that day at the Filer fairgrounds.

Pennies needed

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co. is again short of pennies.

William C. Hedges, vice president of operations, said the bank requires a $50 supply of pennies weekly from the Federal Reserve System. He said the pennies must be distributed among the three banks in the area and the amount enough to supply demand.

He said public response to an earlier plea to put pennies back in circulation eased the local shortage somewhat during July, but that the redemption of pennies by individuals is steadily decreasing. He urged grocers, merchants and citizens to encourage the exchange of pennies or their redemption at the bank.

Pleads guilty

BURLEY — One of three men charged with arson in the fire which destroyed a quarter-million dollar potato cellar July 4 pleaded guilty Monday.

James A. Reed, 19, and Wesley John Roberts, both Burley, have not yet been brought to trial. They are charged with the same three counts of arson as Wright was.

When she returned she saw a young man leaving the building and when she checked her purse found a number of bills missing. She estimated between $70 and $100 was taken from her purse.

TWIN FALLS — A preliminary hearing will be held Sept. 19 in magistrate court here for Richard Lee Huffman, 28, charged with first degree murder.

Judge Daniel Meehl has set the hearing date in September to give the public defender and the prosecutor time to prepare information. Prosecutor: Alvin Galley said today.

TF shelter home under double attack

TWIN FALLS, Idaho — A Twin Falls County shelter home under fire from city police for harboring dangerous persons, is in trouble with state health officials for operating an unlicensed home.

Tim Qualls, Twin Falls chief of detectives, Monday said the Magic Valley Living Center is harboring dangerous persons, and such persons are allowed, to indiscriminately wander unattended.

The private business is operated by Mr. and Mrs. Duane Brown.

The accusation came in the wake of the arrest of Rick Hutton, 23, a resident of the shelter home who is charged with the slaying murder of Stephanie Whitesides, a 31-year-old store clerk who was killed while working.

The Browns denied having prior knowledge of dangerous persons at the home.

"If we do have dangerous people, we are not aware because we do not have records by these people from the state," Mrs. Brown said. "I have four children—wouldn't they have been in their home were people here capable of murder."

Bill Klein, Region Five administrator of the Department of Health and Welfare and Mark Lively, an assistant to the Department of Health and Welfare director, denied having any knowledge of dangerous persons living at the shelter home.

Reports of potentially dangerous persons living at the home, Klein said, "are not totally consistent with our own."

"I think there are some people who are assigned to these homes that the homes do a good job for," said Qualls. "But they should give more care for which ones they place out in society."

The home's operating license has been expired for two months, and the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare has advised the 30 residents of the home that the firm is operating illegally.

The department said it has offered to assist residents in finding alternate housing until the licensing question is resolved.

Officials at the department said they are not certain whether the firm will be re-licensed.

Relicensing would require an inspection of the home, its programs, structure, sanitation and personnel capabilities.

Klein, when asked about the home operating without a valid license, compared the situation with a motor vehicle operator driving on an unexpired license.

"The burden of obtaining a license is on the individual," Klein said. "If one doesn't renew the driver's license, he may not be in any real jeopardy until it comes to light that he doesn't have a valid driver's license. I'd say this is more or less the same situation."

Klein said some of the residents have gone to their family homes, but to his knowledge none has been transferred.

Dr. John Mather, director of the Division of Health Services, said reissuance of the license "seemed unlikely at this point."

$150,000 Evel trinket?

TWIN FALLS — What does a rabid Evel Knievel fan with money burning a hole in his pocket do to satisfy his passion?

Two Texas businessmen have designed an answer to that question.

For the super fan, they offer a limited edition size sculpture of Evel Knievel, done in 24 karat gold for the handsome price of $150,000. That's more money most collectors have, there are 11 solid silver E.K. sculptures at $22,500 and 100 bronze sculptures of the man for $5,000.

For the average aficionado, the promoters offer commemorative coins with a picture of Evel backed up by his motorcycle. Silver coins limited to 1000, rise to $10 and bronze coins marked for $1. Bronze coins are unlimited "for the mass market."

In addition, handcast belt buckles in both silver and gold with a diamond inset are offered. Bronze buckles cost $40; prices for the silver and gold ones are available on request.

Authors of the idea are Evel's old friends and hunting partners W. J. (Rock) McMullan and Coy J. McCann, who "operate under the banner" of Two M Enterprises Inc., Big Spring, Tex.

McMullan and McCann are jaunting through the west with their sculptures and coins, planning to hit Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, California and so on, ending up in Twin Falls the moment just before Knievel launches himself over the Snake River Canyon.

The two Mc's, who believe the "commemoratives will likely be the most popular of all time," have commissioned artist Metz Castlesbury to do the sculpture. A Weatherford, Tex., resident, Castlesbury made the Texas Ranger commemorative sculpture.

Gem land board increases 'landing' fee

BOISE (UPI) — The State Land Board, in a special meeting Monday, followed the example of the federal government and increased to $5,000 the fee it will charge draywood Evel Knievel to land on state property after jumping the Snake River Canyon.

Board members, at the same time, turned down an offer from Knievel and Top Rank, Inc., the group handling media arrangements for the Knievel spectacular, for $5,000 to use the site for fund-raising, broadcast purposes, during the exhibition.

The Bureau of Land Management issued a lease to Knievel for the right to land on BLM property on the north rim of the Snake River Canyon for $5,000.

Denny Attorney General Matthew Mulvaney told the board the federal agreement does not specify motion picture and television rights but does not exclude them; the fee seems predicated on them.

The agreement stipulates that the federal government will get a percentage of gross receipts and the state film spectators plus 3 of net percent if the motion picture and television royalties.

Under the arrangement $5,000 would be the minimum fee and a credit against the total royalty.

The board, at a meeting a week ago, authorized a public auction of the broadcasting and motion picture rights with a minimum bid of $25,000. The media use stipulated that spectators would be excluded from that area of the rim. But there were no bids submitted at the auction Thursday.

Instead, Top Rank offered $5,000 for the same rights, with Knievel's attorney James May of Twin Falls explaining that the $50,000 bid required by the board was too much to pay for using the rim.

Secretary of State Pete T. Couranusa said another organization wanted rights to the state land and would pay $5,000. Board members agreed Top Rank's offer could not be accepted without re-opening the proposal.

Dr. Enkeling, public instruction superintendent, expressed concern about the danger on the land and recommended only "support" personnel be allowed on the state land. He also favored sickling with the original $500 landing fee considered by the board.

Besides allowing Knievel to have support personnel on the state land, the state permit omniously numbered 1313—requires him to provide security forces to assist Jerome County.

Couranusa urged the board to consider a fee greater than $500, calling that amount "a little out of line" for a national landing fee of $5,000 is considered. Another fee of $2,000 would be to make the motion, however, when it came time for the board to consider the point.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said he would hope that Knievel is here. It comes off without a hitch, he lands on federal land, takes his boys and returns to Montana.

Board members expressed concern during the meeting that broadcasting and motion picture crews might go onto the state land even without a permit. Mulvaney said the state's then state have recourse to the courts and could collect for trespass.

Bigger chins and smaller ears—that's what most men would prefer. At least, most men who aren't satisfied with their faces as they are. What the dissatisfied girls want most are bigger eyes and smaller noses. Such be the indications of an extensive survey in the college crowd.

MAYBE YOU didn't realize that the majority of the airline stewardesses come from the littler towns. STILL CAN'T find anybody who'll contradict the claim that a pig always sleeps on its right side. . . . EXACTLY 61 years ago, the tax on a $4,000 yearly income in this country was just one penny, please note. . . . TO HIS LIST of redundancies, our Language man now has added "daily journal" . . . WAS NONE OTHER than Claude Houghton who defined "memory" as "a nursery where old children play with broken toys."

LOVE AND WAR

Kindly ask your Love and War man which spouse — the husband or the wife — is more likely to carry on a romantic affair with a member of the opposite sex outside the home.

A Husband is dilly dally around a lot more, no doubt, he says. But they're not apt to get so serious about it. When wives step out to adventure, they're more likely to go for real. And for broke. And forever.

IF YOU WANT to keep your apples fresh longer, store them beside your sack of barbecue charcoal, young lady.

BEAU BRUMMEL

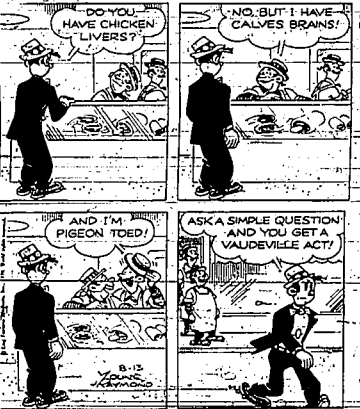

Sorry, must view with skepticism this historical report that the renowned Beau Brummel, that best-dressed Englishman when he lived in France, sometimes added 100 eggs yolk to his bath water. A most immaculate fellow, Brummel—just can't believe he'd step barefooted into such a mess. Still, it's known that some noble Frenchmen of the day wallowed around stark naked in wine, crushed strawberries and various kinds of wine.

CAN YOU BELIEVE the report by a scientific magazine that the governments of more than 30 nations employ specialists to administer sophisticated tortures to political prisoners? Incredible!

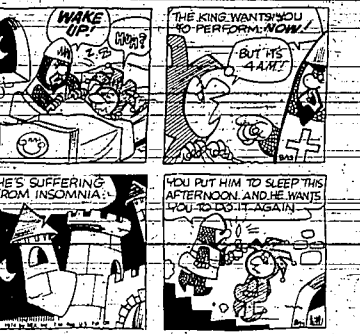

THAT MASCULINE moniker most frequently shed during the last 40 years in name-change actions by the courts is Adolph, I'm told.

Talks resume as NFL vets heed cooling off period

By United Press International
 Striking National Football League players began drifting back into camp Monday, first day of the two-week "cooling off" moratorium issued by federal mediator W. J. Casey Jr., while the owners prepare to meet regarding the ramifications of it all.

The NFL Management Council announced that it will meet in New York Tuesday with representatives from all 26 clubs to discuss what measures will be taken regarding the status of rookies.

and free agents now that the veterans will be coming in to camp.

Also on the agenda for Tuesday's meeting was an in-depth discussion as to where the negotiations in the 43-day-old dispute seem to be heading.

Meanwhile, as veterans from most of the clubs began reporting, at least one team, the Minnesota Vikings, remained near-united in their protest against management. Only four Vikings—center Mick Tingelhoff, placekicker

Fred Cox, defensive end Carl Eller—and tight end Doug Minter—reported to camp at Mankato, Minn., while the remainder of the Viking squad continued the boycott.

"We know who is going in and we know their reasons and it is not a big team issue," Vikings player representative Alan Page said. "It is not a divisive factor." The Vikings had voted on Sunday 318 to 10 to strike with the "cooling off."

"I'm nervous." With that comment, Mike Falash, everyone's favorite quarterback this year for high school, left Twin Falls Tuesday morning to begin his football career at Idaho State University.

"I don't know what to expect. Just getting ready has been a hassle. Buying clothes is the biggest hassle of them all," says the 6-2, 195-pound all-around athlete star.

Falash, son of ex-Twin Falls and University of Idaho Star Bob Falash, left for Notre Dame from Twin Falls because his parents now are living here. Mike spent the first five years of school at the now defunct St. Edward's Catholic school.

and stand 6-0 and 5-10, but reportedly have what the TV men refer to as "quick feet."

Falash has the promise he'll get every consideration at quarterback.

"I don't know if I can make it," says the kid who can fit foot the ball 60 yards on a gear line and runs the 100-yard dash in 10.2. "I'll probably be around the middle of the season before anything starts changing. If I can't make it as quarterback or if a couple of other guys get ahead of me, they'll put me where I can play best."

"But there are only two quarterbacks on the team this fall and they both graduate. So I'll be an open field next year. The one (trossi) quarterback who makes it this fall will be in a good spot," he continues.

Falash also couldn't close without taking a shot at his old hometown.

"We (Highland) beat you (Twin Falls) last season but I was in the season and then you beat us in the state finals. That isn't fair," he said. "We played poorly that night. We beat you twice."

Reminded, however, that Highland had won the football championship, he chuckled "well, we were getting a little greedy. We wanted both of them."

On another happy note, father-Bob Falash will be able to attend the first couple of days of football drilling at Notre Dame. Business is making him and he can't fit a trip off at South Bend in very handy.

He left looking forward to seeing the pieces of high pressure college football and also to attending the football-season kickoff banquet Wednesday night.

"But I'll tell them it doesn't impress me because I'm from (University of) Idaho," he promised.

As Falash begins this very big step in his athletic life, however, his nervousness is shared by many who think can, then he'll give his best shot. "I'd be the best all-time passing, 100-yardage, etc., leader at Embraceable U," he would have wondered the rest of his life. How would he have gone at Notre Dame.

He is going to know that—good or bad.

But he also leaves the certain knowledge that many knowledgeable Idaho football coaches and watchers believe he has a good shot. Among those who are confident of Idaho's success producing a national championship-type quarterback, Mike Falash is the one.

In the end, it doesn't matter whether they say correctly he is from Peacoteo's Highland high school or living in Twin Falls. Because if he does well in his new life, we've heard the comment "It's too bad, he'll get lost," or "Why didn't he go to a smaller (football) school where he knew he could play?"

Mike told you earlier: He feels if he's going to play and they think can, then he'll give his best shot. "I'd be the best all-time passing, 100-yardage, etc., leader at Embraceable U," he would have wondered the rest of his life. How would he have gone at Notre Dame.

He is going to know that—good or bad.

He played all the sports here and, in fact, was a key member of the Twin Falls Little League team for two years after he moved to Peacoteo. The coach would simply call up the parents and say "we're going to Caldwell Friday afternoon."

They'd put Mike on the bus and he'd then travel up with the team, playing "camp games" as a pitcher and playing shortstop between games.

"That's really miffing the Peacoteo people," Mike laughed Monday night. "Everyone's mad because we're moving back to Twin Falls. They're saying you're going to be the boy from Twin Falls but they'll never hear about Highland or Peacoteo."

One guy asked me, when they ask you where you're from, are you going to say Peacoteo or Twin Falls? I just told him I had to make the team first before anyone would care where I'm from," Mike added.

Although Mike attended Catholic school here, the religious enticement of Notre Dame wasn't great.

"It was considered a University of Oregon and New Mexico," he says. "I really thought I'd probably end up at New Mexico. But I hadn't been to Notre Dame yet so I didn't sign with anyone."

I went there (to Notre Dame) just to get the trip. When I left I had a good time. When I got there, everything just switched around." He couldn't trace it to any one thing. He'd talked for 30 minutes with head coach and was just the whole place. It isn't big statistics, about 800 students, and it's liked that. Then I also thought that if I had any chance for an athletic career in college I might just as well start with the big boys. I'll probably be home in two weeks," he said.

To our knowledge, Falash is only the second Twin Falls to be adopted him back football to get a Notre Dame scholarship. The first was Lyle Pearson, who is still considered by many longtime Bruin watchers to be the best halfback the school has produced. Pearson came out of Twin Falls in 1945 but never figured prominently in Notre Dame's grid success.

In this day and age of bigger names better, what Coach Parishigan told Mike came as a bit of a surprise.

"I said he really didn't like big guys at quarterback and told me I'd crew much more. I'd probably be switched to some other position. He didn't say where," Mike reports.

Mike is one of three quarterbacks recruited by the Irish. They are from Michigan and Illinois and stand 6-0 and 5-10, but reportedly have what the TV men refer to as "quick feet."

Ryan sets AL mark, fans 19 Red Sox

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)—Nolan Ryan, who came within one out of a no-hitter in his last start, equalled the major league single game strikeout mark by fanning 19 Monday night, while pitching the California Angels to a 2-2 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Ryan, who increased his major league leading strikeout total to 239, notched his 15th win of the season while tying the major league record for most strikeouts in a single game established by Steve Carlton of Philadelphia in 1969 and Tom Seaver of the New York Mets in 1970.

Ryan, who pitched seven hits, also tied the major league record for most strikeouts in two consecutive games with 32. Luis Tiant of the Boston Red Sox previously set the record.

Late bomb beats 49ers

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Will Carlton threw an 80-yard touchdown pass to Steve Holden with 23 seconds to play Monday night and Chris Gartner kicked the extra point to give the Cleveland Browns a dramatic 21-20 pre-season victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

With a first down at his 20, Curleton threw the ball to Holden, who pulled away from two defenders at the San Francisco 30 and trotted into the end zone with the Browns third touchdown in an explosive fourth quarter.

Dale Guzman attempted a 42-yard field goal on the last play of the game that would have given San Francisco the victory but it was wide.

Mike Holmes had run a kickoff back 90 yards for a touchdown which gave San Francisco a 20-14 lead with six minutes left in the game.

Holmes, a rookie cornerback from Texas Southern, took the ball at his 10, broke to the right sideline and then evaded and outran the Browns as they swarmed in pursuit of him.

At the end of the third quarter, Holmes was called for pass interference giving the Browns the ball at the San Francisco one-yard line and setting up Bob Hunt's one-yard plunge for the touchdown on the first play of the fourth quarter.

Rangers drop Milwaukee 5-1

ARLINGTON, TEX. (UPI)—George Scott and Darrell Porter each drove in two runs and Jim Colborn ended a personal five game losing streak Monday night to produce a 5-1 Milwaukee Brewer victory over the Texas Rangers.

Scott, who pitched seven hits, also tied the major league record for most strikeouts in two consecutive games with 32. Luis Tiant of the Boston Red Sox previously set the record.

Steelers maul Bears 50-21

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Sub quarterback Joe Gilliam passed for 200 yards and ran for another Monday night to maintain the Pittsburgh Steelers' unbeaten exhibition season with a 50-21 thrashing of the winless Chicago Bears.

Starting quarterback Terry Bradshaw plunged a yard for Pittsburgh's first touchdown and rookie Frank Nester kicked a 31-yard field goal before Gilliam took over midway in the second period to lead the Steelers to their second exhibition victory.

The Steelers' other touchdowns came on a five-yard run by rookie Billy Joe Beford and a six-yard run by veteran Jesse Taylor, both in the fourth quarter.

Speedy rookie Clifton Taylor ran 85 yards for Chicago's first touchdown and ran back another kickoff 60 yards in the third period to set up an 18-yard touchdown pass from sub quarterback Alan Chadwick to Wayne Wheeler. Chadwick also scored on an eight-yard run in the final period as the Bears' pre-season record dipped to 0-2.

Pittsburgh could mount only a sputtering offense before Gilliam, who had spent most of his past three National Football League seasons on the taxi squad, relayed Bradshaw.

Gilliam steered the Steelers 33 yards on three plays before rolling out right end for a touchdown with 1:17 remaining in the first half.

Pirates belt Redlegs 7-4

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Willie Stargel and Ed Kirkpatrick hit two-run homers, and Al Oliver added four hits to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Monday night in a nationally televised game.

Bills topple Chiefs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Kansas City Chiefs were routed by the Buffalo Bills in a 35-21 National Football League exhibition victory over the Kansas City Chiefs.

A crowd of 39,248 watched in half-filled Arrowhead Stadium. Leading 21-0, the Bills broke the game open in an 18-second span midway through the third quarter. Kirby picked off Gen. Pettford's pass and returned it yards to the Kansas City three. Carlester Crumpler scored from there.

The Chiefs tumbled on their first play after the kickoff and Means recovered at the Kansas City 24. On first down, rookie Gary Marangi fired a touchdown pass to Gary Hayman, who made his second scoring reception of the night.

Mets defeat Dodgers 3-1

NEW YORK (UPI)—Harry Parker scattered nine hits for his first major league complete game and John Milner bounced a double to lead the New York Mets to a 3-1 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Parker, who pitched seven hits, also tied the major league record for most strikeouts in two consecutive games with 32. Luis Tiant of the Boston Red Sox previously set the record.

Phillies beat San Francisco

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Willie Montenz doubled home two first-inning runs and scored an insurance run in the eighth to support the seventh-hit pitching of Jim Lohmeyer Monday night and lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Lohmeyer, who pitched seven hits, also tied the major league record for most strikeouts in two consecutive games with 32. Luis Tiant of the Boston Red Sox previously set the record.

Cardinals nip Padres in 13th

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Stake Meltrick hit a sacrifice fly with the bases-loaded in the bottom of the 13th inning Monday night to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-5 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Mantle, Ford favorites among inductees into hall of fame

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (UPI)—Mickey Mantle and Ford held the crowd in the palm of his hand for 10 minutes during his Hall of Fame induction.

Now it was time for his closing remark.

The audience of about 2,500 had been treated to a wonderful display of wit and poise by Mantle and Whitey Ford, two of the greatest stars of the New York Yankees' golden age, bringing to a climax the induction of 16 immortals into baseball's Hall of Fame.

New York Giant first baseman Fred Sanford was the last inductee, and he was inducted on Sunday night when he asked the new inductees, "don't just take the plaques and walk away...come back."

The thing they concern themselves most with is that guys like Mantle and Ford—great players, yes, but whippersnappers in their eyes, really don't care that much. Mantle put their fears to rest—at least for the moment.

"Turning to the 21 seated on the stage of the National Baseball Library, Mantle closed his remarks with the statement, "I hope Whitey and I can live up to what these guys stand for."

It was a fitting end to an emotion-packed day during which two of Casey Stengel's "roguers" of the 1950s and 1960s captivated the audience with their wit and poise.

"When you think about what happened in Washington last week," Ford had said, "you'd have to say it's been a pretty good year for Ford."

Mantle thanked Commissioner Bowle Kuhn, who presided over the ceremonies, for "leaving all those strikeouts to the other guys and then sacrificed to help him as a boy in Commerce, Okla., and then added a quip about an unsuccessful business venture in which he was engaged with a hotel restaurant chain.

"I made up the slogan for the restaurant," he said. "It was 'Mantle's better piece of chicken'—you'd have to be a rooster."

Earlier in the ceremonies, the 7-year-old Bell said he was standing "here to receive the greatest honor of my life...I thank God for enabling me to smell—the roses—when yet living" and Conlan paid tribute to former National League president Warren Giles as "the greatest president in the history of baseball."

15 strokes behind in the middle of the pack, continued to lead the list while adding only 3817 to his total figure, the 200,000 golfer to pass the $200,000 figure at $205,557.

Republic wins mart nod

PARIS (UPI) — The nine members of the European Common Market have agreed that each will recognize Guinea-Bissau as a new republic granted independence by Portugal, the French foreign ministry announced Monday.

France, its current president of the European Common Market, made known the decision in a communique a day after Portugal advised the United States that it wants its west African colony of Portuguese Guinea recognized as the republic of Guinea-Bissau.

The Dutch government was the first to recognize Guinea-Bissau. It said it would support the republic's application for United Nations membership.

The Common Market communique released by France said, "In the spirit which inspired their communique of June 11 at Bonn, the nine government members of the European community took counsel together on the question of the recognition of Guinea-Bissau."

"In expressing satisfaction with the decision taken by the governments of the United Kingdom with the African Party for the Independence of Guinea-Bissau and the Cape Verde Islands (PAIGC), they arrived at the same positive conclusion. Each of them will make known their decision shortly."

Acupuncture uses studied

DALLAS (UPI) — Americans don't have the resistance to pain that Orientals have developed, and therefore the use of acupuncture in the United States will not become widespread for many years, according to a medical school professor who recently returned from China.

"Acupuncture works well in China with Chinese doctors and skilled Chinese practitioners," Dr. M. T. Jenkins, chairman of the Department of Anesthesiology at Texas South western Medical School, said Saturday.

Jenkins said acupuncture will not be used widely in the United States for a long time because it is not accepted by Western patients who tend to have relatively low pain thresholds than their Oriental brethren.

"It also seems the Western surgeons will demand quieter, more relaxed patients," he said.

French say Ford 'average man'

PARIS (UPI) — To the French, President Ford is a simple, average man, some said he recalled the title of a book by Henry S. Truman, but others remarked he was the average for a president.

Radio commentator Raymond Cartier, who is billed as France's leading expert on the United States, told his listeners that Ford was "very nice, very courteous, the kind you meet in the Middle West, an average American."

"He is a man of great loyalty, precise, a hard worker, interested in sports," Cartier said. "He has excellent relations with everybody, including the press."

Cartier noted, however, that Ford had traveled rarely outside the United States and "is a product of isolationism."

The newspaper, Combat, commented on the French reaction to Ford's visit.

"They say he'll be well surrounded by good men when you're a nobody, they must encourage you. The party will be expected to return to normalcy, friendliness," the newspaper commented.

"What will happen with Gerald Ford, even inspired, counseled, controlled by Kissinger, will happen in
