Edgy situation

"SOMEBODY was riding with me," driver Jim Hawkins, Bull, said Tuesday when his truck and semi-trailer slipped to the edge of a precipice along the road leading down to the Twin Falls sewage treatment plant. Only a guard rail prevented the 25 ton rig, carrying a bulldozer, from plunging over the sheer drop into the Snake River canyon. Almost as fortunate was Times News reporter David Horanman, who took this photo, then dropped his camera over the rim. The camera was found, in working condition, in a bush about 150 feet below. A loader, two tractors and a wrecker were used to pull the heavy truck back onto the road Tuesday.

Milk co-op suit may end

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department Tuesday filed a decree that would settle a civil antitrust suit against the Associated Milk Producers Inc., the nation's largest milk cooperative which has been deeply involved in the Watergate case.

Attorney General William B. French said the proposed consent decree will become a final court judgment in 60 days upon approval by the U.S. District Court in Kansas City, Mo., where various antitrust suits against AMPH had been filed.

Fast action for monitor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress moved swiftly today to provide President Ford the first weapon he sought to combat inflation — a stripped-down agency to monitor, rather than control, wages and prices.

Top administration aides stressed at congressional hearings that mandatory controls would not be revived and that no effort would be made by the new administration either to raise or lower taxes as a means of coping with economic problems.

Ford told Sen. Russell Long, D-La., during an informal picture-taking session at the White House that he was convinced he took the right action when he criticized General Motors Corp. for its planned 10 per cent price hike on 1975 models.

"I took a crack at GM and you know how the auto industry reacted," Ford said. "But I think it was right—if we could only get an atmosphere of self-sacrifice."

Budget Director Roy L. Ash testified at a House Banking Committee hearing on Ford's request to recreate the Cost of Living Council (CLC), though without the power it formerly had to enforce decisions on wage and price practices of big companies and unions.

But the agency would be given the watchdog role of highlighting wage and price increases it considers inflationary. The Banking committee was expected to give prompt approval to the plan, with Ash stressing that there was no intention to "repeat our past mistakes" and impose controls.

Kenneth Rush, Ford's economic coordinator, testified before the Senate's newly created Budget Committee that he would like the time either to increase or reduce federal taxes. He, too, said the administration is strongly opposed to a return to wage-price controls.

Rush supported reactivation of the CLC to monitor wages and prices to expose abusive increases.

Woman, principals named to TF posts

TWIN FALLS — Morningside and Bickel Elementary schools will get new principals following school board action Tuesday night.

At the same time, school trustees hired a women's athletic director, reportedly the first in Idaho.

Clarence Parker, 27-year veteran in the Twin Falls school system and who is currently principal at Bickel School, will be transferred to serve as principal of Morningside.

Parker replaces Dennis Messenger who recently was appointed to the new post of district curriculum director. Dennis Sontus will replace Parker at Bickel School. Sontus had served as a principal in another district before coming to Twin Falls as a teacher. He currently heads the teacher corps here.

Sontus will be replaced in the teacher corps post by James Sommer. Mrs. Vicki Grube will serve as women's athletic director on a half-time basis. Robert Donnelly will remain men's athletic director.

Turk Cyprus attack revives war threat

Turkey launched massive air, tank and naval strikes against Greek Cypriot positions on Cyprus today in an offensive that threatened partition of the island. The Turks encircled the Nicosia airport and the U.N. troops there and destroyed the city's industrial area.

NATO wants Greece back

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Greece's allies urged it today to reconsider "as soon as possible" its decision to pull its forces out of NATO.

The 16-NATO members held an emergency two-hour meeting of the NATO council to hear Greek Ambassador Angelos Charafat read a three-sentence announcement of his government's action.

A NATO spokesman said most of the other nations "expressed the hope that the Greek government action would prove to be only temporary, and that it would be reconsidered as soon as possible. But, the spokesman said, Charafat gave no hint that it might be temporary."

The council said it would "urgently examine consequences of the Greek decision on the military posture in the area."

Meanwhile, council members urged Greece and Turkey to reactivate the Cyprus cease-fire and Geneva negotiations.

NATO Secretary General Joseph Becht "took a brief sabbatical" vacation in the Black Forest of West Germany and rushed back to his office. The spokesman said most council meetings were likely today or Thursday.

The spokesman, like the Greek government itself, stressed that Greece only had withdrawn its forces from NATO's "integrated military structure," but had not resigned from the "Alliance as such. France did the same in 1966, retaining its voice in NATO political councils and has resumed its allies it will stand by them in time of war."

The Greek action will have little immediate practical impact, NATO sources said.

First, most of all, some 240 Greek officers at NATO installations probably will go home, he said. This includes 10 on the NATO staff here, 10 on the Greek government delegation to NATO, 40 at Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe south of Brussels, and another 180 at NATO naval headquarters in Naples, Italy. Another 200 Greeks were withdrawn from the NATO Army-Air Force base at Izmir, Turkey when the Cyprus crisis began last month.

TF daylight store holdup gets cash

TWIN FALLS — A daring mid-day armed robbery Tuesday at the 7-11 store, 1445 Addison Ave. E., resulted in the loss of an undetermined amount of cash.

TF school spending up

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school administrators Tuesday night proposed raising district spending by $107,000 in order to spend its expected income.

to bring Greece and Turkey back to the conference table and avoid a major war over Cyprus.

The Geneva talks collapsed early today and Britain called an urgent session of the Security Council in New York at 1:30 a.m. MIT. The council required only 10 minutes to pass a unanimous resolution asking for a cease fire. So far the cease-fire has been ignored.

Turkish troops were moving eastward from the Kyrenia area toward the port of Lefkia and toward the more important port of Famagusta. The twin moves there and in the Nicosia area would effectively partition Cyprus by military force.

Beginning at dawn, waves after wave of American-made Phantom fighter-bombers of the Turkish air force streaked out of the sun to bomb and strafed the capital while Turkish artillery hammered Greek Cypriot positions in the Kyrenian mountain range about 15 miles to the north.

Radio Nicosia, monitored in Israel, also said Turkish planes bombed Famagusta. Bombs burst through the industrial section at the east end of Nicosia. It burned for hours, sending up a tower of black smoke into the clear blue sky, and industrialists who took refuge in a hotel said the damage will cripple the island's economy for years.

The heaviest fighting centered at Mia Milca, two miles northeast of Nicosia, and near the airport about five miles southwest of the capital where strong Turkish forces cut off two vital road junctions and encircled the damaged installation, a U.S. spokesman said.

The eruption of renewed warfare following the July 22 cease-fire wounded 20 U.N. soldiers, including six Finns who have been under a constant mortar barrage at their camp near the airport, the spokesman said.

Shrapnel lightly wounded CBS cameraman Carl Sorenson.

Cyprus studied; Japan trip set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, facing the first major international problem of his administration, discussed the renewed crisis over Cyprus with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and other top aides today while Japan disclosed Ford would visit that nation later in the year.

Ford unexpectedly met with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dolynin. There was speculation the Russian envoy brought a message of congratulations from Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev.

An hour-long morning meeting between Ford and Kissinger followed Turkish air ground and sea attacks on Greek Cypriot positions soon after the breakdown of peace talks in Geneva.

Jerry TerHorst, Ford's press secretary, stressed the two leaders saw Cyprus as a diplomatic problem, not a military one as far as the United States was concerned. TerHorst said Ford is "concerned but very hopeful" that further pressure could be exerted through diplomatic channels to get Greek and Turkish diplomats back to the conference table.

Some tapes Nixon's

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Nixon's taped conversations that are not relevant to the Watergate inquiry are his personal property, a White House spokesman said today.

President Ford's press secretary, Jerry TerHorst, said the White House legal counsel's office, in consultation with the special prosecutor and the Justice Department, made the judgment.

Ford played no role in the decision but concurred with the ruling, TerHorst said. Specifically, TerHorst said "the tapes not subpoenaed and not relevant to the Watergate inquiry belong to the President" meaning Nixon. The statement left unclear the status of tapes that have been subpoenaed and deemed relevant.

Lincoln School crossing light request rejected

TWIN FALLS - Idaho Highway Department officials Tuesday refused a request by Twin Falls school officials for a school crossing stop light on Addison Avenue.

The school administration and board of trustees had asked the highway department to install a traffic signal at the intersection of Addison Avenue with Fourth Avenue North in all children crossing to Lincoln School.

But traffic engineer James L. Pine, told the board at its regular meeting Tuesday, the department did not feel there was a need for the signal.

"We have made studies," Pine said, "with existing conditions. In some sections, gaps occur every minute for children to cross Addison Avenue."

"We would be willing to install a signal, but we are assured there's a need," Pine said, adding, "At this time, I would not recommend one."

With the proposed widening of Addison Ave. to four lanes conditions should improve, Pine predicted. By spreading traffic on more crossing lanes, should be provided, he theorized. He also said the highway department is considering construction of a safety median, so children would have to cross only on traffic direction at a time.

Trustees and school administrators expressed concern about the decision of the department.

Dr. Howard Ronk, board president, told Pine he was concerned because of the general tendency of drivers to exceed the posted 35-mile speed limit, making the traffic fast-paced.

"The safety of these kids is really our concern," Ronk said. Ronk mentioned three accidents involving school children had already occurred on Addison Avenue.

Other trustees predicted traffic on the improved four-lane road would be faster and heavier, increasing the danger to the children.

Pine remarked that signals should not be considered "sure protection." Normal violation is about 10 per cent, and at some similar signals reaches up to 25 per cent. He said the board should consider activated warning flashers to draw attention to the crossing.

Pine added the department did not consider reducing the speed limit during school hours. "We have not found this too effective unless extensive enforcement is used," he said. The department has had better luck with suggestive devices, such as flashing lights, Pine said, and prefers not to use restrictive force, in order to prevent "public irritation."

The public will be highly irritated if a child is killed," retorted Ronk.

Power firm rate hike protested

BOISE (UPI) — An organization of Boise consumers filed a brief with the Idaho Public Utilities Commission Tuesday protesting a rate increase requested by Idaho Power Co.

Dave Bockmann, a spokesman for the Boise coalition, said the brief was filed in reply to Idaho Power's request for a 12.8 per cent increase in residential rates. He said the company's profits are inflationary.

"While Idaho wage earners have had only a small increase in earnings—the power company's profits have climbed by 73 per cent since 1968," Bockmann said. "Last year alone, Idaho Power increased its profits by more than 13 per cent. It granted a raise in rates, Idaho Power profits will jump an inflationary 20.8 per cent this year alone."

The brief said that Idaho

Power is less a victim of inflation as claimed by the company officials than it is a cause of inflation.

It also said "The company is much more concerned with the welfare of a handful of eastern 'institutional' investors that control the company, than with the welfare of its Idaho customers."

"The protest filed with the commission also stated that the company's concern for us in Idaho is limited to an expensive propaganda campaign designed to promote the current rate increase—and to discredit citizen reaction to the rate increase and to company plans to build coal fired steam plants in southern Idaho."

It asked the commission to prevent "an unwarranted increase by the company as a step toward control of inflation and control of the spiraling price of energy."

Citizen test

Christian Science Monitor
The Citizens of America now face the test of action as surely as their new President does.
Will they give up their own responsibility for making the system work, now that it has worked so magnificently?
Or will they take the steps necessary for "lives of constructive participation in a changing society," to use a recent phrase by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski?
Mr. Jaworski was talking about a need for the schools to provide more education in the fundamentals of law, to impart to the coming generation that "obedience to the rule of law is indispensable to a free and ordered society."
But the schools cannot do the whole job. And individuals of all generations need to consider whether they are part of the problem, or part of the solution, as America continues the task of recovery from its unprecedented ordeal at the top.
The first lesson of these epochal years is that a government of law depends on a lawful man. All Americans in the below lives are challenged to build on the evidence that their political system can cleanse itself — not when some abstract process takes over but when enough individuals are determined to make the system work and the public gives enough support to their efforts.
Now citizens naturally want President Ford to act according to the canon, conciliation, and other fine intentions he has expressed. They recall that the previous chief executive also assumed the presidency with calls for conciliation and promises of an open administration.
But it is likewise up to the citizens to act according to the national ideals they profess. They cannot be charged with the long-hidden crimes of their leaders. But they can take warning from them in the sense suggested by legal scholar Paul Freund, writing in the Boston Globe:
"We Americans have accepted manipulation as a way of life. We have acquiesced in secrecy when there should have been disclosure, and we have tolerated intrusions into the affairs of individuals when there should have been respect for privacy. All of this moral filabiness has been magnified on the highest levels of public life.
Only the individual decisions and acts of citizens can add up to a turn away from all sorts of "moral filabiness," as America's new era begins. Various legislative reforms are indeed necessary, but the integrity of government, by the people, ultimately depends on the integrity of the people themselves.
Despite signs of moral filabiness, there is a broad base of integrity in the people... or, who knows, how long the abstract symbols used by Watergate would have been tolerated? The real tragedy of Watergate will come if the response to it is cynicism about personal and public conduct rather than the renewed dedication to rectitude which now appears to be on the way.
American citizens can be pardoned for pride in themselves and their government at the moment of victory for national integrity. But they must remember how far their institutions were threatened before being saved — and pursue their own "constructive participation in a changing society" to help prevent a recurrence of the Watergate crime.

Skirts ignored

Portland Oregonian
One of the more cheerful notes in a world of dismal news is the report that American women are ignoring Paris fashions; the latest of which has decreed that skirts must be longer.
The mid-calf skirt is being ignored, except among the avant-garde fashion types. In fact, it has been hard to get women under 25 out of pants, and with many in this group the miniskirt is happily still about.
The rebuffed fashion industry is now making an economic pitch to sell longer skirts, which require more material and thus cost more and provide more profits. They seem to be arguing it will be good for the country if women buy new and more expensive wardrobes.
But for these women inflation has kept them from getting even within sight of the latest trend. Old clothes are going to remain "fashionable" for a long time. At least until they wear out.

"Let me assure you, madam. The sky is NOT falling"

WILLIAM SAFIRE

Underlying lesson of Watergate sinks in at last

(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — Not so long ago, about four to five years ago, this country referred to the word "leadership" as a dirty word.
How should they react to the forged resignation of the man who for so long embodied their beliefs and their prejudices?
"As a card-carrying member of that group, I do me suggest a few things to be done. I made it to the lifeboats and those who want down with the ship."
First, toward Richard Nixon. Despite the frequent hypocrisy of some of his persuaders he was not unfairly ejected.
He is now America's only living former president, for good reasons. When he first learned that someone acting in his name committed a crime, he put friendship ahead of his oath of office. When he had the chance to destroy all the tapes just after their existence had become known, he made the wrong tactical decision, and nobody is patting him on the back now for his rectitude in not destroying the evidence that proved him guilty.
In retrospect, all the maneuvers his supporters considered so ill-advised in establishing his innocence gain an intelligent pattern when viewed as means toward preventing retaliation by his staff.
No wonder, then, he would allow no lawyer to listen to the tapes; he was stalling for time and playing for breaks, and there was nobody he could trust without making him a co-conspirator. Nixon was never foundering. His plan was to protect the tapes at all costs, and their cost was all.
As we spare him our tears, we can afford him more than a little respect. He was never the would-be dictator his severest critics have claimed, and his motives were either noble (to make a peace that would last) or at least noble (to gain the adulation that would flow from being the man who made the peace).

Toward President Ford, the reaction of the "Nixon people" should be far different from the reaction, say, of the Kennedy people to the ascension of President Johnson. Here is no cultural or stylistic usurper; Ford was not Nixon's necessary compromise, but his chosen heir, deserving of a transfer of old loyalties.
As vice president, Ford made only one misstep in the loyal support of the man who nominated him, when he discussed months ago the potential makeup of his administration with a reporter on background.
Finally, how should the former Nixon people view the essential political opposition, led by that agglomeration of academics, old liberals, advocacy journalists and establishment power centers so wrong about the country in 1972 and so right about Nixon in 1973?

For the country's sake and our own, let us let them have their time of vindication without resentment. The triumph of justice is nobody's political defeat. Churchill's "in defeat, defiance" does not apply, because Nixon's defeat is only the defeat of that misguided toughness which is a form of weakness.
Of course, "in victory, magnanimity" does apply; if in months to come, those who justly brought Nixon down want to make a martyr out of him, here we go on another round of vindictiveness.
For Nixon, who might not have shown enough contrition to satisfy everyone, in nearly his last words as president showed that the underlying lesson of Watergate had finally sunk in... those who hate you don't with unless you hate them — and then they destroy yourself.

Right US prescription

WASHINGTON — Gerald Rudolph Ford Jr. of Grand Rapids, Mich., may not become a great President, but he is the president our nation needs — five milligrams of Valium every three hours.
For a while at least — almost surely until the 1976 Presidential campaign heats up — Ford will be a tranquilizer to the Republic. His style and demeanor in Congress will welcome doing business with the man who told television viewers that he has had "a good many adversaries in the political arena... but I don't think I'm single now."
Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, a lifelong Democrat and a gentleman, may have summed up Congress's regard for Gerry Ford. "He's a decent man," said Mansfield. "He's a conservative man who knows where he stands."
This is a "thing" among members of Congress, knowing where a man stands. When the veterans look back at Harry Truman they invariably say something like, "Well, you could always take old Harry at his word." After Watergate, Ford's biggest asset may be a revival of the old rule that honesty is the best policy.
Nixon told no lies in his resignation speech. But he also made no confession or even any specific references — to the wrongdoing that went on in the White House. It is inconceivable that Ford could ever find himself in Nixon's trouble, but a Gerry Ford resigning under fire would not have spared himself.
I suppose Ford is what a lot of people today would call a square; he could make that label one that is applied in admiration because of his pleasant and sometimes awkward insistence on letting people know exactly where he stands. As President, Ford's honesty will limit him in the usual fashion. So be it. Main Street's you know what's going on.

But perhaps more important today is that President Ford is a man who can lead the nation in answering President Nixon's plea that we put bitterness behind us (that can be a process of healing). When Nixon told television viewers that the nation's leadership was "in good hands," he spoke from knowledge of Gerry Ford. Ford will be an "open" President, simply because he has too long been an "open" man. He will work in the Oval Office, a pleasant place. He will not complain, as a secretive Nixon did, that he has too many windows, and escape to a hideaway in the Executive Office building. Nixon worked in secrecy even from his own staff; Ford will use his staff to help him get the job done.

ANDREW TULLY

No one really knows what Ford's policies will be. He is, of course, a lifelong conservative, but he is not likely to be bound by ideology as he works in the Oval Office. The Presidency is too big and too complex for rigid political postures. What matters, however, is the kind of man the Republic has in Gerald Ford.
In Lafayette Park opposite the White House, on the evening of Nixon's resignation, a policeman gently asked the crowd, "Please don't trample the flowers."
I suggest that is the kind of appeal the 54th President will address to the citizenry in times of strain.

He lacked gift of seeing himself as others did

(C) New York Times Service
ATHENS — The astonishing thing is that Richard Nixon is so keenly aware of the importance of strong moral leadership, but paradoxically, he never seemed to apply to himself those standards he saw as necessary for others.
Thus, I can recall his telling me in 1964 during his political campaign that he thought President Lyndon Johnson "dangerously egocentric and power-hungry" and therefore considered it imperative to have enough Republicans in Congress to keep the president from being corrupted by his own power.
When he had moved into the White House, he said to me one day (May 19, 1969): "The real moral crisis in this country is the leadership crisis. The trouble is that the leaders, not the country as a whole, are weak and divided."
"By the leaders I mean the leaders of industry, the bankers, the newspapers. They are irreligious and un-understanding. The people as a whole can be led back to some kind of consensus if only the leaders can take hold of themselves."
Then, with a slight reference to the Vietnam war, he said: "A great nation sometimes has to act in a great way. Otherwise it destroys its own moral fibre."
I was impressed by those words, and by the fact that the president told me he had said himself. On Feb. 26, 1970, he said he was trying to lay the groundwork for a period-long effort he would be out of office (which neither of us, of course, could imagine would come so it did).
In a subsequent talk (March 6, 1971) he observed philosophically: "The older nation and a people become, the more they become conscious of history and also what is possible." He was referring to Vietnam, from which he was trying to extricate American troops.
He described this "a war where there are no heroes, only goats. Our people became sick of Vietnam and supported our men there only in order to get them out" after this period of change in mood. Somewhere a great change has taken place. "As the war ends, the attitude: 'There has never been so great a challenge to U.S. leadership.'

G. L. SULZBERGER

Thus, again this word, "leadership," remained constantly on his mind. He went on: "Frankly, I have far more confidence in our people than in the establishment. The people seem to see the problem in simple terms: 'By golly, we have to do the right thing.'"
In some kind of distorted mirror, "it" all there: the president must not be corrupted by power, the crisis in leadership, a great nation must act greatly or destroy its moral fibre, countries become increasingly conscious of their history, the people warrant more confidence than the establishment. And finally, don't leave anyone things you might regret.

Everything is reflected, with sometimes stunning accuracy, except for one blank space. The man who gazed into that mirror could not perceive his own image to the glass. His role in the things he often so accurately discerned was either warped or absent and he did not seem to know it. He lacked the gift so admired by Robert Burns, to see ourselves as others see us.

WOULD SOMEBODY TELL ME WHEN WE GET TO WHEREVER WE'RE GOING...?

Nixonian revision of American language ends

(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — "Bring us together," and "law and order" were the first catch phrases of the hot man, and in the end they did bring us together in the cause of law and order, but not in the way the phrase makers of 1968 had in mind.
The Nixon people have said that what went wrong was the "scenario" — "At the end of it simply wouldn't stay in the mind." They argued that they were marinated in the faith of the public relations quackery which holds that high gloss on a low gear will make it a big seller in the silk-purse market.
Their talk about public-relations talk, which is a problem, they discussed the "P.R." of the situation.
In the early days, they talked about "the input process." When the President insisted to suggestions about that output of the process, they said "the input process" was going on, in the tradition of public-relations talk, this kind of pseudo-learned jargon sounded impressive.
In the manner of the public-relations minded, the Nixon men noted the unpleasant realities and overstated their case when it was weakest.
announced as a "kangaroo court."
Both phrases were disastrously memorable. Pride in the phrase, an essential quality in good public-relations men, afflicted the administration with phrases the public could not forget.
Unfortunately, it was too late for that. There was that wonderful memorable phrase of the President's uttered in happier days when "law and order" meant an entirely different kind of courtroom "scenario" — the phrase in which the President had deflected "soft-headed judges" for "intensity toward the criminal classes."
The White House was curbed by its own prose again, and in the last days Nixon men could only grapple privately about the judiciary's excessively unsavory head.
Gassy blarney, always present in public-relations talk, swelled the language beyond all comprehension as the "P.R." became more and more difficult. The more determined a person is to conceal his thinking, the wordier he becomes. Eventually there is a Niagara of words that communicates nothing.

The private shop talk, which was fated to become public, was the breezy colorful shorthand common among those high-ranking men in business conferences devoted to planning ways to shear the customers. "Stonewalling" and the "banquet route" will become prominent entries in the lexicon of Nixonisms to be left to the country, and "modified limited banquet" will probably need a long footnote of explanation, as well as "the big enchilada." John F. Heilichman's term for John Mitchell.
The input process is ended now, and the American language as revised by Richard Nixon is complete, it is tempting to say. "Now it belongs to the ages," and unless we are lucky, some last departing phrase maker probably will

RUSSELL BAKER

This Watergate was dismissed at the beginning as "a kind of burglary" unworthy of presidential notices, and the Judiciary committee's impeachment hearings were announced as a "kangaroo court."

Exiled Nixon present throughout Ford's address

By JACK W. GERMOND

WASHINGTON (AP)—Inevitably, Richard Nixon was the loser.

President Ford was, after all, back on his home ground. And the members of Congress, who have been widely criticized for their inaction, were almost obsessively receptive.

But, on the chance that either Congress or the television audience might have missed the point, Ford went to extraordinary lengths to signal that this was a new order in the White House.

The context of the situation itself was alien to Nixon. Although he served there six years, he was never one of the boys on Capitol Hill, never able to joke as Ford did about supporting "worthy" federal projects for Grand Rapids, while opposing "bondholders" in Speaker Carl Albert's Oklahoma.

And the theme of the Ford message—the promise of communication, concentration, compromise and cooperation with Congress—was as timely as the qualities Congress believes were most notably missing from Nixon's administration.

But Ford went far beyond that. Indeed, the speech was so full of language that invited his listeners to make individual comparisons between the promised values of Gerald Ford and the demonstrated values of Richard Nixon.

Some of this political double entendre might, of course, have been a "accident of the speechwriters' pens." But Ford has been a political professional for a quarter-century, and professionals choose their words carefully.

The most direct respect of Nixon came, of course, on the privacy issue.

spending too much," he said in what could only be a reference to the argument of Nixon economists that the public was to blame for inflation.

"It is little comfort that our inflation is only part of a world-wide problem that American families need less of their psychics for groceries than most of our foreign friends," he said in a obvious reference to Nixon's repeated argument that inflation here isn't as bad as it is elsewhere.

Like his predecessor, has the veto power in his arsenal, Ford pointed out, "but can't we do a better job by reasonable compromise? I hope we can."

In an audience that feels Nixon never gave them even a inch, Ford added:

"Minutes after I took the presidential oath, the joint leadership of Congress told me at the White House they would go more than half way to meet me. This was confirmed in your unanimous concurrent resolution of cooperation, for which I am deeply grateful. If for my part, I go more than half way to meet the Congress, maybe we will find a much larger area of national agreement."

Only on foreign policy did Ford avoid anything that might be interpreted as an expression of disapproval for what had gone before. There he promised repeatedly "continuity" of the Nixon policies, that are the deposed president's remaining monument.

But even here there were signs of the changing of the guard, a presidential speech without reference to "peace with honor" in Southeast Asia or the return of the prisoners of war—their feet and not on their knees.

In the 31-minute speech, Ford mentioned Nixon only once by name, to praise his "outstanding" foreign policy—but the 47th president now exiled to San Clemente, Calif., was there in almost every paragraph.

Analysis

"There will be no illegal tappings, eavesdropping, bugging or break-ins by my administration," said Ford with emphasis on the "my." "There will be no hot pursuit of tough laws to prevent illegal invasions of privacy in both government and private activities," he added with emphasis on the "government."

There was no need to spell that one out in real time, and the Congress applauded enthusiastically while in the gallery, Julie Nixon Eisenhower, sat motionless.

But, for the political cognoscenti, there were repeated examples, less blunt but just as telling, and promised an administration "stunned in to the real voice of America" that Nixon left accused of ignoring. Ford commented the "absolute necessity of a free press" that Nixon considered his prime antagonist.

Ford said he would hold his economic summit meeting—the full view of the American public—that had been shut out of so much of the deliberations of the Nixon stewardship.

Some of the Ford language was sharply pointed. "It does no good to blame the public for spending too much when the government is

Cabinet due new role

(c) Washington Star-News

WASHINGTON—President Ford plans to revitalize the cabinet and "eliminate" duplication within the White House staff as he moves to place his own imprimatur on the executive branch, according to reliable sources.

Under President Nixon, cabinet officers were almost figureheads. They had no real power of policymaking, role. That's going to change, said one source deeply involved in the transition of administrations.

"Ford will almost certainly go back to the kind of traditional cabinet we haven't seen since Eisenhower's day. There will be many more cabinet meetings, and a great deal more reliance on department heads in the decision-making process," this source added.

In addition to the new President is expected to revive the National Security Council as a working unit. Nixon gradually turned away from the council, calling fewer and fewer meetings, and relied almost exclusively on the Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger—for foreign policy advice.

If things are looking brighter for the National Security Council, its counterpart—the Domestic Council—may face a different future.

Composed of all cabinet members with the exception of the secretary of defense and secretary of state, the Domestic Council was created only in the Nixon administration—and given a White House staff which served as a filter between the President and cabinet officers.

The Domestic Council staff was headed by Richard L. Einhorn and is under the direction of Keith Cole Jr.

Since White House officials have already said Ford intends to deal directly with his cabinet officers, a large White House staff intended to serve as a buffer between them and the President no longer appears necessary.

In addition, there has been considerable overlap between the Domestic Council staff and the Office of Management and Budget.

No major new appointments are either in the cabinet or on the White House staff—are expected until Ford and his team of transition advisers complete their review of the existing executive branch structure.

According to sources, that review began last Friday when Ford had Nixon's chief of staff, Alexander Haig, give him a complete briefing on the current White House staff set-up.

"Once you make the organizational and structural changes, then you can start looking for the right people to fill the slots," said one individual involved in the review process.

Capitol Hill and White House sources said the Nixon administration's top Congressional lobbyists will remain in their jobs. They are William E. Timmons, head of Congressional liaison, and his two top aides, Tom C. Korotajski and Max Friedersdorf.

Skin cancer types

produce questions

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know more about two types of cancer. I have had two removed from my lip called leukoplakia, and one on my forehead named actinic keratosis.

I am worried and want to know if this type of cancer can be controlled. Should I go to a cancer clinic? I am getting more places on my forehead.

No, I don't think you need to seek out any special clinic. I also suspect you may be more interested in the fact that these spots shouldn't be watched if and as they appear. But I doubt if they are as dangerous to you as you seem to think.

Leukoplakia is the white thickening of the membrane lining of the mouth and lips (and can appear on other mucous surfaces, too) it is due to chronic irritation caused by jagged teeth, etc.

Not all patches of leukoplakia are cancerous. Rather, they are regarded as potentially pre-cancerous. They may develop into cancer. In advanced cases they can become thick, may have fissures (cracks), or may ulcerate. At that stage they possess a strong possibility of becoming cancerous and of course need to be removed.

Mild, faint, patches of leukoplakia may, however, disappear if the irritation is removed.

Hence the rule is to watch such spots, and if your doctor or dentist sees suspicious changes remove them.

Actinic keratosis are skin cancers due to excessive exposure to the sun, not uncommon in people who are outdoors a great deal—farmers, sportsmen, other outdoor workers, etc.—and should be removed.

But keep this in mind, they are not as dangerous as you think they are. They can be seen in their early stages and removed easily before they have had a chance to spread.

When they are removed a laboratory test will determine whether they actually contain any cancer cells.

When your skin shows a tendency to develop such spots, by all means have them watched, but at the same time have your confidence that they can be removed before they really endanger you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know why I get a nose bleed every time I eat a drink of any kind of chocolate. I never have them otherwise. —M.M.

Frankly, I don't know, but it is possible that some of the blood vessels in the nose may be able to send me an explanation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a miscarriage a year and a half ago when I was only three and was in the hospital only two days.

We would like to have children. Could you tell me the best time for becoming pregnant? Is it possible that after a miscarriage it will be difficult to become pregnant again? —Mrs. J.B.M.

The most probable cause of difficulty occurs if some of the tissues remain clinging to the uterus after a miscarriage, but these can be readily removed by a technique called a D. and C. or "dilation and curettage."

Some physicians even favor a D. and C. as a routine procedure after a miscarriage to guard against that possibility. You might discuss it with your doctor if you didn't have one.

Best time—really the only time—to become pregnant is at the time of ovulation, which ordinarily occurs just about half way between the beginning of one period and the beginning of the next one. If you have an average 28-day cycle, ovulation usually occurs 14 to 16 days before your next period is due.

Ford decides to run for full term in 1976

Labor aid asked

AN APPEAL for "general cooperation" in fighting inflation was made by President Gerald Ford to AFL-CIO President George Meany (right) during a White House meeting Tuesday. Ford later called Meany "a great labor leader." It was Meany's first visit to the White House since June, 1973. (UPI)

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON—Several of President Ford's closest political associates said today he has decided, tentatively at least, to seek a full presidential term two years from now.
Since he was chosen last winter to replace Spiro T. Agnew as vice president, Ford has insisted that he was bereft of future political ambition and that he had no intention whatsoever of seeking the presidency in 1976. But his sudden projection into the White House, following the resignation of Richard M. Nixon last Friday, has clearly changed the former Michigan representative's mind.
Even before taking office, Ford had hinted that things might be different if Nixon quit. On April 2, for example, he told reporters: "If these circumstances develop which I don't think will happen, then I've got a hard decision to make."
J. P. TerHorst, Ford's press secretary, said today of the President's 1976 plans, "No decision has been made." This was a significant public retreat from Ford's previous statements of disavowal.
The question was raised, only four days after Ford took the path of office, as the result of a comment made by the President Monday night in his address to a joint session of Congress.

His speech, he said, would not be a formal report on the state of the Union, but I will have at least three more chances to do that. It was a remark noted and pondered by almost every politician in the audience.
The operative phrase was "at least." In the normal course of events, as TerHorst pointed out at this morning's White House briefing, Ford's term runs through Jan. 20, 1977, would have the opportunity to deliver state-of-the-union speeches in 1975, 1976 and early 1977.

But why "at least" three? George Bush, the Republican national chairman, said "the congruence" could have been a signal that he might not be a lame duck, and so he shouldn't be trifled with, or it could have been something stronger.
In any event, Bush, who is considered one of the leading prospects as Ford's choice for vice president, said that "Most of the party people I have been visiting with already assume that the President will be running again."
Another political friend of Ford's described the remark as "a deliberately provocative device, partly to irritate the risibility of the boys, but partly to let them know he was going to be around for a good, long while."

Another intimate of Ford said that his "Ford's" perspective has changed completely, as it had to, "since he acceded to the presidency. As a result," he said, "President "basically" knows that he will run—unless something changes radically in the interim."

Union chief asks new policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Steelworkers President I.W. Abel said today economic problems did not go away when President Richard Nixon resigned, and it is time for a decisive change in policy.
"The monetary policies of the last administration have brought us to the edge of disaster," Abel, chairman of the AFL-CIO economic policy committee, said in testimony prepared for Congress' Joint Economic Committee.
"A decisive change is needed to begin to lift the economy out of its present mess and into the road to balance and health," he said.

Abel outlined a series of "propositional" steps that he organized—labor wants to bolster housing construction, including commitments on housing assistance payments, additional support for conventional public housing, and direct loans and housing assistance payments for housing for low and moderate income citizens.
Abel said the AFL-CIO also recommended these other steps:
—A direct lending program by the federal government to provide mortgages at reasonable interest.

—A fair and equitable means of raising the required volume of federal revenue to meet the government's obligations, for maintaining its operations and expanding essential programs.
—A set of government controls on exports of agriculture and other products in short domestic supply.
—A program of jobs for unemployed persons and special grants to states for the creation of public work construction and repair jobs in high unemployment areas.

Immunity vote delayed

HONOLULU (UPI)—Leaders of the American Bar Association wanted to vote Tuesday on a resolution saying immunity should not be granted former President Richard Nixon. But they squabbled because not enough delegates showed up to make a quorum.
It takes 200 members, and only 150 attended Tuesday's session of the ABA's convention.
Top ABA officials, including outgoing President Chesterfield Smith, were doubtful that the Nixon resolution could be considered at this convention unless delegates vote to consider it an emergency matter.
"It's very regrettable," Smith said.
The proposed resolution, said Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox in October, told a gathering of young lawyers meeting in conjunction with the ABA convention that his "several rejections was: Nixon has been punished enough."
"But I resist leaping to this conclusion. The question is enormously complicated," Ruckelshaus said.
The proposed ABA resolution was strongly worded. It said, "Criminal law must be applied equally and without preference or privilege to all citizens."
It stated all other factors, such as a fall from office, were "irrelevant unless considered by a judge in sentencing a convicted defendant rather than by a prosecutor in deciding whether to prosecute."
Assembly members had been scheduled to debate the resolution, along with a weaker version, blandly stating all are equal before the law, but without specifically mentioning Nixon.

Kennedy hit in filing lack

(C) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, a leading Democratic sponsor of campaign finance reform, was disclosed Tuesday to have become peripherally involved in an apparent violation of the 1972 federal election spending law that he has supported in the Senate.

The violation was described by a spokesman for the Senator as an error by one of Kennedy's long-standing Massachusetts fund-raisers, but it must be referred to the Justice Department for possible prosecution; the matter was plainly an embarrassment to the Senator.

The Senator's press secretary here, Richard C. Graybe, said that Kennedy was acknowledging an "oversight" and a "misjudgment of interpretation of the law" by Clifford J. Shaw of Boston, the 73-year-old treasurer of the committee to re-elect Senator Edward M. Kennedy to the United States Senate in 1972.

It was clear, when we looked into it, that he should have filed," Graybe said of the Boston committee's failure until last Friday, to register or file financial disclosure statements with the Secretary of the Senate, as required by the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1972.

Both the committee's late registration here — under the law it should have done so no later than April 17, 1972, ten days after the campaign spending act took effect — and the filing on Friday of its first financial disclosure statement when it such reports would have been due by now — was "mitigated" as to intent, according to Senate officials, by the apparently regular and full disclosure of Kennedy financial information made under state law to the Massachusetts secretary of the commonwealth.

But both omissions were "on the face of it" violations of the federal law, according to Orlando R. Potter, the Senate staff in charge of supervising senators' campaign financial statements.

Nominally, conviction for non-registration and non-filing could result in a sentence of a year in jail or a $1,000 fine, or both, of the hundreds of violations referred involving Senate candidates, however, none has ever been prosecuted.

Shaw — a motion picture distributor who heads the Maine-New Hampshire Theaters Company when he is not busy as treasurer of both the John F. Kennedy Library and the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Foundation, said he had filed full and continuing reports under the state law but had not believed that committee financing a 1970 Senate race was required to do so under the federal law.

Nominal control program seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is moving toward a new, nominal, wage-price control program, President Ford has served notice that he will be unthrupp big companies — through inflationary price increases — in the weeks ahead.

Ford also moved to reopen a dialogue between the White House and organized labor by holding a 35-minute private talk with AFL-CIO president George Meany.

These three economic developments Tuesday spelled the end of the "policy of the fielding Ford administration, described by some as a "do-nothing strategy, has a surprising, active streak.

Presidential press secretary Jerald F. Terhorst said the Cost of Living Council that Ford wants Congress to request will be "a minimum, a monitoring agency."

Thus, at the very least, Ford is apparently asking for a government watchdog with the power to command and analyze corporate financial records and to publicize price increases it considers unjustified and inflationary.

Ford made clear, however, that he does not favor giving the new C.L.C. the former power to force price rollbacks.

At the same time, two powerful congressmen said they would introduce their own legislation to revive the cost council. Chairman Wright Patman of the House Banking and Currency Committee and Chairman John Sparkman of the Senate Banking Committee said they would open hearings immediately on a bill recreating the council, which was phased out April 30 after 2 1/2 years as the government's chief anti-inflationary agency.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., proposed a five member task force that would highlight critical wage and price actions.

ESTER MADDOX ... in runoff

Congress approval expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress is expected to rapidly approve President Ford's request for an agency to monitor wages and prices, and Senate Democrats apparently will try to give the agency broader powers than Ford may want.

Budget director Roy Ash was summoned before the House Banking Committee today to detail Ford's request to revive the Cost of Living Council, an agency that died with the administration's wage-price control powers last April 30.

At the same time, Ford moved to speed up his other, two-main legislative goals — trade reform and national health insurance — by inviting Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee to the White House today.

Ford did not use the term "jawboning" in his Monday night address to a joint session of Congress, but he hinted broadly that would be the main purpose of the proposed council — to apply public and private pressure on companies and unions to hold down wage and price increases.

Acting with unusual haste, the House Banking Committee called a hearing for today and the Senate Banking Committee for Thursday.

Senate rejects proposal

(C) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — The Senate Tuesday rejected the Navy's $100 million loan agreement with the Grumman Aerospace Corp. to continue production of the F-14 fighter plane.

The vote was 33 to 35 on a resolution by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., disapproving the agreement under which the Navy would have advanced payments of up to $100 million to the Bethesda, N. Y., contractor for the controversial F-14. Proxmire, a persistent critic of the F-14, and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who opposed the Proxmire resolution, said after the vote that Grumman now would have to obtain new sources of financing either from commercial bankers or a revised arrangement with the Navy, which regards the F-14 as essential to the nation's military security.

Maddox faces runoff in Georgia governor race

ATLANTA (UPI) — Flery L. Gov. Lester Maddox, trying to become Georgia's first repeat governor in 30 years, easily won a plurality of votes in the Democratic primary Tuesday night, but was forced into a runoff by the 12-man field.

The one-time ex-handler foe of desegregation held a commanding lead over his nearest challenger but failed to win the necessary 50.1 per cent of votes to avoid a second race.

Georgia House Majority Leader George Busbee and Bert Lance, a small town banker supported by outgoing Gov. Jimmy Carter, were locked in a close struggle for the Sept. 3 runoff spot against Maddox.

With over 63 per cent of the votes counted, Maddox had 276,551 votes, to 110,782 for Busbee and 97,262 for Lance. Former Sen. David Campbell, D-Ga., was far back in the field at 44,848.

The Republican race for governor also went into the hands of Mayor Bonnie "Machine-gun" Thompson, a law-and-order advocate who ordered his policemen to "shoot to kill" felons, led the 1971 race over the state's widely converted Democrat Harold Dye his probable opponent in the second primary.

Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, easily won re-election in a fourth term over political newcomer Carlton Myers. Talmadge faces another newcomer, Republican Jerry Johnston, in the general election in November.

In the congressional races, the only incumbent in trouble seemed to be veteran Rep. John Davis, D-Ga., who was trailing Dr. Larry McDonald, an Atlanta urologist whom he beat by 3,000 votes in 1972.

Maddox, who sold ax handles as a weapon against desegregation in the 1960's, said he was not disappointed in being forced into a runoff despite his campaign predictions that he would win in a landslide.

Special promotions during the early September period will also be discussed Thursday.

Shoshone hears reports

SHOSHONE — Business of the Lincoln County commissioners Monday was routine — reviewing and approving payment of claims and receiving officers' reports.

District court and magistrate court fines and fees received totaled $1,249.45 with $261 received for recording fees in the clerk's office. The sheriff's report for fees amounted to $24.25.

Mrs. Joy McClure, clerk, said the canvass of votes in the primary election showed no change in results as announced the night of the election.

The commissioners will advertise to sell a block of county-owned property in Shoshone.

Range land burn today

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone District Bureau of Land Management will be burning about 3,000 acres of range land west of Gooding today.

According to Michael Green, public information officer for the Shoshone district, this is a range improvement practice. At this time, the area is mostly sagebrush and other prairie grasses.

After it is burned and later this fall the entire area will be seeded to a variety of perennial-type grasses. In an overall purpose to improve the range, Green said, Green said it will take most of the day.

Sentence given

CALDWELL (UPI) — District Judge Edward J. Lodge has sentenced Everett Richard Sam, Boise, 10 1/2 years in the Idaho State Penitentiary for the beating death of Henry J. Swirezynski.

Sam was found guilty after a jury trial July 10 of voluntary manslaughter in the death of Swirezynski, 47. Boise. The victim died of injuries suffered during an argument at an April 10 party at a Nampa residence.

Mine reopening delayed

KEELLOGE, Idaho (UPI) — Unforeseen delays in completing major repair work has delayed reopening of the Silver Star mine for at least another one or two days, mine officials said today.

The mine had been closed last Wednesday to facilitate repair work on the two major vertical shafts serving the mill-dock mine.

The Sunshine, the nation's largest and richest silver mine, was to have reopened Monday, but mine officials said repair work on the Jewell and No. 10 shafts was running behind schedule.

McClure disappointed in bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, was disappointed in the final version of a compromise bill that excluded tuition provisions from an increase in the state income tax.

McClure said he had pushed for a new sliding tuition plan that would have provided up to $750 a year for school payments.

That provision was eliminated from the conference bill providing for a 2 1/2 percent cost of living increase for veterans.

Bond investments

BOISE (UPI) — Idahoans invested more than $5 million in United States series E-F Savings Bonds during the first half of this year, accounting for 47.7 percent of the goal for the 1974 fiscal year.

L. Westernman Whillcock, state savings bond chairman, said Tuesday Idahoans invested a total of $5,150,276 in the bonds.

Placed on probation

ABERDEEN (UPI) — Judge Arnold Beebe has placed Clinton D. Heer of Aberdeen on five years probation after Heer appeared to answer eight charges of burglary and attempted burglary.

The judge withheld judgment and placed Heer on probation after considering the presentence report and psychiatric evaluation.

Defense attorney Mike Ferrin told the court Heer had made restitution to the eight victims of home burglaries.

Job complaint settlement eyed

BOISE — Two state agencies agreed Tuesday to work jointly in conciliating a job complaint pitting Mrs. Betty Hoppe, Twin Falls, against the Idaho Department of Employment.

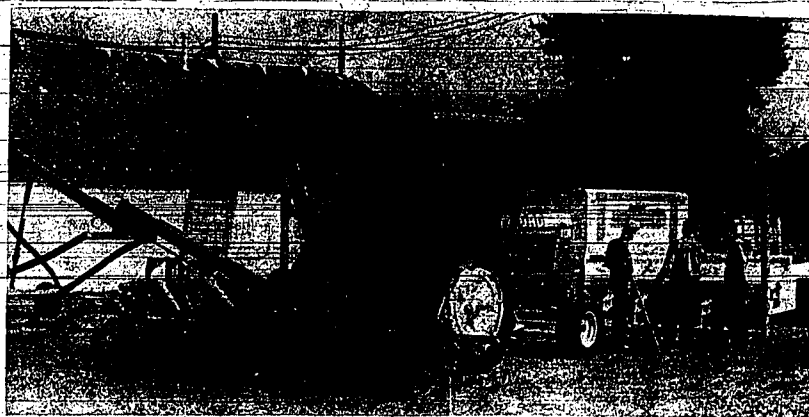

The Idaho Department of Labor and Human Rights Commission (IHRC) agreed to make a joint effort to reach an out-of-court settlement in the dispute.

Mrs. Hoppe resigned her position with the Department of Employment in December of 1973. She later filed a complaint with the IHRC charging sex discrimination by the state agency.

"The IHRC found 'no real cause' for the charge in litigation," John Jones, a Department of Labor spokesman, today said the case's issues were "defined... a little better" in the meeting Tuesday.

"She's a retrospective pay and affirmative action for women in the Department of Employment," Jones said. He stressed, however, that other issues may surface in conciliation sessions.

Mrs. Hoppe today called the meeting "a starting point. I feel we're making progress."

Cassia delays opening

BURLEY — The opening of Cassia County schools has been postponed one week from the scheduled date.

Because of delays in completing school building projects at Oakley High School and the new Declo Elementary School, the board of trustees decided Monday night to begin the school year Sept. 3 instead of Aug. 26. Registration dates have also been postponed a week.

Both projects were planned for completion before the school year started but a building trades strike of nearly one month during the summer has caused a lag in already tight construction schedules.

Projects begun this summer, including the new Burley Junior High and elementary school, should be finished on or before contract completion dates, according to district Supt. Harold Blauer.

To fulfill the state 100-day attendance requirement, school will continue until May 30 rather than May 22 as was originally planned. Holidays will remain unchanged with the new schedule except for Memorial Day which will be another vacation day.

The Oakley High School renovation will not be completed before Oct. 1, making it necessary to add classes in the elementary school and other school facilities until the project is completed.

Declo elementary students will not have regular classes until their building is finished. Instruction periods will be limited to a few hours per week. Field trips away from the school are planned for part of the time until the school is finished.

Registration for Dwarshak, Hillier, Southwest and Overland elementary schools will be held Aug. 27 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Seventh graders who will attend Miller School this year will register at the same time.

Eighth graders who attended Miller last year and those involved in the final program will attend Miller this year due to the lack of a junior high school building.

The rest of the junior high students will be split between Springdale, the old Declo elementary building and Oakley High School. This plan will eliminate the split plan adopted last year after the old Burley Junior High building burned.

Elementary students at Albion, Maita, Almo, Oakley and Declo are scheduled for registration and a full day of school Sept. 3.

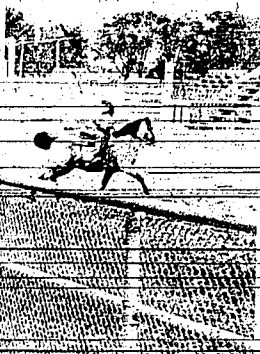

Declo eighth graders will attend a full day of school Sept. 3 with registration the first hour in the morning. The rest of the Declo Junior High and high school students will use the day for registration but not attend classes. Students will have to have their own transportation opening day.

Burley eighth graders who will go to Declo this year and seventh graders attending school at Springdale are scheduled to register Aug. 28 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the old Burley Junior High art room.

Busess will run for Oakley High School registration day Sept. 3. Registration will be held in the gym between 8:30 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Raft River High School students will register in the morning of Sept. 3. Classes will be held all day. Buses are scheduled to run.

Burley ninth graders will register at the High school gym from 1 to 3 p.m. Aug. 26. High School students will register Sept. 3, also in the gym. Different hours are scheduled for registration according to alphabetical order.

Cassia fairtime

Preparations for today's opening of the Cassia County Fair kept a lot of people busy Tuesday.

The big events scheduled for today include a country-western music jamboree and the parade.

The parade, featuring 57 floats, mounted groups and individual entries, was scheduled to leave Overland Shopping Center at 9 a.m. This was to be followed by a barbecue sponsored by the Burley Lions Club at 4:30 in the East Park.

Performing tonight for the country music jamboree at the fairgrounds and sponsored by the Burley Exchange Club are a number of nationally known stars.

Barbara Mandrell, Bobby Bare, Tom T. Hall and Kenny Erice are among the performers who will be in Burley. The jamboree is expected to attract country music fans from throughout southern Idaho.

Early events in the opening day today included the judging of Cassia County Fair queen candidates in horsemanship competition. Judges were also busy with selection of ribbon awardees among 4-H and FFA booths and exhibits and annual dog show was being judged this morning.

Blaine lists new trustee

SUN VALLEY — Dr. Paul Houston was selected by the Blaine County School Board to fill the unexpired term of Lyle Odell, trustee from zone 5.

The board selected itself in executive session to discuss the two candidates, Houston and Butch Harper for the position. Houston, who called after the vote, agreed to serve.

In other business, officials from Intermountain Gas Co. asked for the heating contract for the new high school building to be executed in 1975.

Vince Alberdy, customer relations manager, said natural gas would cost 15 to 20 percent less than electric heat. He assured the board there would be no gas shortage as contracts for the next 20 years which must be honored have been signed.

The board took the presentation under advisement until further cost details can be submitted.

Dr. J. Nelson, director of the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities, said district principals were pleased with the three nine-week sessions to be taught at the center this year. The school district has a program under which district students receive arts and crafts instruction from the center for credit.

Belson said one entire grade would be taken at a time during the sessions to relieve any problem of class disturbance.

The center has asked the board for $1,000 plus transportation for the three sessions. Nelson said other schools in Magic Valley have expressed interest in sending students to the center.

In other action, a motion by Dorothy Moore to supply buses for Ketchum football players during the first 10 days of practice before school starts was voted down.

A new deck for Hemingway School, next to the dressing rooms, was discussed. The deck would serve as a base for the new fire broke out on the gym floor. Some confusion existed as to whether two decks would be required by the Ketchum building inspector, CTA Architect-Twin Falls, will send plans to the inspector this week for approval.

The district principal workshop begins Wednesday. The teacher workshops will be Aug. 21, 22 and 23.

The board voted to raise bus lunches from 25 to 40 cents for elementary students, from 40 to 45 cents for secondary students and from 50 to 75 cents for teachers.

Jerome GOP head named

JEROME — Clair Ricketts was re-elected chairman of the Jerome County Republican Central Committee Tuesday night.

Mrs. Nancy Jones was re-elected vice president and Dorothy Lawwell and Jim Lawwell were re-elected secretary and treasurer.

Elected state committeeman was Dan Sahr who replaced Lefroy Craig. Re-elected state committee woman was Louise Reihart.

Randy Bell resigned as the youth committee chairman and John Hinnbors Jr. was elected to the position. Charles Marshall was re-appointed finance chairman.

Re-elected committee members include Bill Hart, southeast precinct; Karen Waybright, southeast precinct; and Judy Swirezynski, northeast precinct. A committeeman for the southeast precinct is still to be selected.

Ricketts said the motto the committee will follow this year is "We are going to get out just one more vote."

The primary election showed us how important that one vote is. Let's try and get more people out to vote in the general election," Ricketts said. He said 68 percent of Jerome County residents did not bother to vote in the primary election.

Bond sale set

WENDELL — Wendell school trustees Monday set Sept. 16 as the sale day for a $365,000 bond issue.

The issue, approved by school patrons in April, will finance construction of an elementary classroom addition, a new vocational building and a physical education building.

The board also approved a gravity flow sewer system for the new structures, as recommended by Tom Schuster, a Twin Falls engineer.

The trustees will meet Monday with representatives of the architectural firm, Thompson and Kolbe, to review final plans for the new school facilities.

In other action, the board:

- approved bus routes, with minor changes, for the 1974-75 school year;
- accepted a job description for the elementary school principal as recommended by Supt. Lawrence LaRue.

2 timber fires battled

TWIN FALLS — Two lightning caused fires were burning out of control on the Sawtooth National Forest this morning.

Both were located in the Raft River Mountains just over the state line in Utah, forest officials said.

The two were burning in timber and totaled about 50 acres this morning. General location was reported to be in Italian Canyon, six miles southwest of Strevell, Idaho.

Ranchers in the area reported the larger of the fires at 7 p.m. Tuesday. Before dark a small crew reached the remote area and a B-26 from Twin Falls dropped 1,000 gallons of retardant on the fire. Aerial tanker operations resumed at daylight today.

A forest service lead plane was directing retardant drops from two B-26 planes from Twin Falls and a DC-6 from Boise. About 150 men have been mobilized to fight the fires, forest officials said.

Three helicopters are being used to shuttle men and equipment to the firelines in the unroaded terrain. It was reported.

"Firefighters expect to contain the fire contained by 10 p.m. Wednesday. Helicopters are expected to reach up to 40 miles per hour, are expected to hamper fire fighting operations."

Valley registration set

VALLEY SCHOOLS — Registration for Valley school students was set by the school board at a meeting Monday night.

Seniors will register from 8 to 11 a.m. Monday and Juniors from noon until 2 p.m. the same day. Sophomores will register from 9 to 11 a.m. and freshmen from noon until 2 p.m. Aug. 20. Eighth grade students will register from 9 to 11 a.m. Aug. 21.

There will be a faculty meeting for all teachers of the Valley District at 9 a.m. Aug. 22 at the high school.

School will begin at 8:40 a.m. Aug. 26 and will be in session all day. Buses are scheduled to run the same routes as last year. Student policy will remain the same as last year.

High school student activity tickets will be $7.50 and the yearbooks will cost $8.50. For the first time this year, seventh grade students will be able to purchase activity tickets for $1.

Mrs. Alvone Sellers, school hot lunch supervisor, met with the board to discuss the lunch program. Information about free lunches for children of low income families will be given to the students when school begins. Prices for lunches will remain the same as last year. The cost is 25 cents for high school students, 35 cents for grade school students and 60 cents for adults.

Supt. Arlyn Bodily said the new lights for the athletic field in Eden are up. They were purchased with money donated to the school by Glenn Trail, a former resident of the district.

Painting will be complete on the bleachers and refreshment stands at the athletic field in time for the opening of football season.

The only bid for coal, milk and fuel for the district for the year was accepted by the board. Contracts for coal were awarded to Morgan Lindsay, for milk to Ida Gem Dairy and fuel to Amoco.

The board accepted the resignation of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lewis, high school teachers, and are now advertising for bids to fill the posts.

Mrs. Louise Crier was hired as a teacher's aide for the grade school. She fills a vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Jilly Human.

Student body officers attended the meeting to request a student lounge. The request was denied because of lack of space.

Birmingham fears Hawaii's passing

By JACK SAUNDERS
UPI Sports Writer

The 11 American Football League teams with a 50 record but not noted for their defense may find the Hawaiian offensive Wednesday night.

Former Ole Miss star Norris Weese, the league's third-ranked passer with 74 completed passes in 141 attempts for 950 yards and nine touchdowns, leads the 14 Hawaiians to Legion Field and Birmingham

Coch Jack Gotla acknowledged that "Weese has proved to be one of the best. The fact that they are a passing team is not welcome news to us," said Gotla, whose Americans rank 10th on pass defense among the 18-league teams.

Birmingham has allowed 26 completions in 141 attempts, yielding 925 yards and 4 touchdowns in five games.

In fact, the Americans, who lead the league in total offense, are at the bottom in total defense. Statistics show that the club has allowed opposing clubs to gain 1,778 yards and score 13 touchdowns.

Gotla said his defense has the potential to be good, "but we weren't getting much from our front four." He is hopeful that two recent acquisitions, Larry Estes and Gary Chalmagne, will help the team.

In other World Football League meetings, Wednesday, Portland is at New York, Memphis at Detroit, Philadelphia at Chicago and Jacksonville at Florida.

Coach Almqvist greets troops

Bruin coach greets near record turnout

A 10-year record turnout of sophomores through seniors greeted Twin Falls Coach Dennis Almqvist and his staff for football conditioning drills Tuesday.

Coach Almqvist reported 90 men in the drills, being held without pads and "red" on at least 10 more will show up."

He said five lettermen and at least five sophomores will come out as they fulfill their vigorous obligations to pass vacations in the next few days.

"We anticipate having 100 in uniform sometime this week," he added. "Of course, it always seems like there are a few who quit, but I think we'll hold pretty close to that number through the season."

If the 100 do show up as the coach predicted, it will be the largest Bruin turnout since 1964 when 117 reported.

"Our trouble right now is finding the equipment to suit today's happy," he decided to them up in."

Coach Almqvist smiled. "But if they come out, we'll find a way to get the pads."

He was very happy with the return of Stan Whigham, junior guard, who for a time had decided on concentrating on motorcycle racing. Whigham probably is the fastest guard in the conference, and Coach Almqvist says, "should be one of our best linemen. We're pleased with the improvement of 6-3, 245-pound left tackle Ed Figueroa, now 2-4. With one on Dwight Evans singled to right on a check swing.

owners on strike stance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A dozen congressmen have warned National Football League owners to reach a fair agreement with the players or face a complete review of football's antitrust exemptions.

The congressmen, in a letter to John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council, also warned the owners against trying to break the players' union.

Stuart call

Eighth and ninth grade football players at Robert Stuart Junior High should attend a meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday, reports Coach Mel Reynolds.

Reynolds said suits would be issued from 9 to 11 a.m. Aug. 20 and 21 for ninth graders and at the same times Aug. 22-23 for eighth grade.

Gambrels win only title

MOSCOW — The Gambrel family of Twin Falls took the only first place managed by the local team in the state swim meet over the weekend.

They won the family freestyle relay race, and the playing second in another family affair on Friday.

Twin Falls had only two other placers in the final day of the event: Doug Gambrel was second in the 19-19 boys butterfly and Rex Nelson was second in the open butterfly.

In their letter, the congressmen said, "We are today calling on both the owners and the players, but particularly the owners... to sit down again Thursday and this time reach a fair agreement."

If they do not or if the union is significantly injured, we want it known that we will undertake a complete review of the National Football League's antitrust status, and if the facts warrant, introduce appropriate legislation.

Signers of the letter included Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House subcommittee which deals with restraints of trade, who said several bills are pending which would affect the NFL's antitrust exemptions.

Others signing the letter were Reps. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., Warren V. Mitchell, D-Md., George E. Brown Jr., D-Calif., Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., Walter E. Fauntroy, D-D.C., Bella St. Abzug, D-N.Y., John Conyers, Jr., D-Mich., Donald W. Riegle, D-Mich., Joe Moakley, D-Mass., and James C.orman, D-Calif.

The players' decision to suspend their strike and go to training camps for a 14-day cooling-off period was "in the best interests of the NFL and the millions of football fans in the United States," the congressmen said in their letter. "We await a comparable move by the owners demonstrating their good faith in seeking a fair agreement with the players."

In New York, a spokesman for the Management Council said it had not received the letter but added, "We know the record of the negotiations will show that we have bargained in good faith and we would invite Congressman Moss or anyone else to examine it."

The letter added, "While most of the evidence of inadequate bargaining points to the owners as the recent party, the players are not wholly without responsibility."

For the Twin Falls women's opener but they fell twice one of them a 7-5 loss to the eventual champion, Wall's Tavern lost both games.

Wilt feels rusty after layoff

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (UPI) — Wilt Chamberlain, trying to decide whether to retire as a player, came back to a tumultuous ovation for his first game in a year and a half Tuesday night when the 10-foot team of pro basketball stars led a 79-40 victory in the 16th annual Maurice Stokes charity game.

Chamberlain, a free agent now, said he'll also give up coaching if he decides not to play this year for the San Diego Conquistadors. But after playing 25 minutes of the game without scoring, shooting only once while concentrating on blocking shots, he said he feels "like I've been away five years."

Chamberlain came back here to Katsuh's hotel where he once was a bellhop and joined Dave Bing, Kevin Porter, George McGinnis, Billy Cunningham and Jo White in the benefit for indigent players.

Kansas City-Omaha's Larry McKnight led scorers with 27 points and won the MVP award. Philadelphia's Doug Collins scored 10 points for the losers, coached by Red Auerbach. Los Angeles' Elmore Smith coached the winning squad.

CHICAGO — Feeder cattle futures were the only red meat commodity featuring a trading market Tuesday.

Commodity News Service said skyrocketing corn prices created nervousness after the market opened in apparent sympathy with fall-cattle which opened limit up. Feeder held limit up levels but gave way later in the day as higher feed costs and deteriorating effects on farmer intentions to build herds.

The market fell as much as $1.15 from early highs before recovering somewhat and closing from down 2 cents in November to 90 cents higher in nearby August. Volume of 443 contracts traded was the heaviest for 1974.

CORN FUTURES
Corn futures were mostly limit up with no buyers Tuesday; with only a few buyers Friday traded at a 10-cent limit, as the combination of smaller crop estimates, fears of a shortfall in feed grains, little prospect for much improvement in the crop condition, and possible sharp grain prices all affected the market.

Chicago cash market was unsettled at 4 cents higher at 3 over September and no sales. Some flat price bids carry an additional 20 cents. Gulf basis bids were unchanged 6 cents over September but an additional 30 cents on flat price.

WHEAT RISES
Trading in small amounts of wheat futures established 20-cent limit highs in all regular contracts Tuesday while Gulf futures posted limits on bids. Wheat reflected general strength from corn, which swayed all grains and products, to limit gains. Chicago cash wheat basis nominally unchanged for hard wheat at 4 cents under September, soft wheat 1-cent higher at 45 cents under September. Gulf basis nominally unchanged 17 over Kansas City September, but an additional 10 cents offered for flat pricing.

BEANS GAIN
Drawing strength from corn futures, soybean product futures traded lightly Tuesday and showed strong gains. Most trading was principally in the August contracts which have price limits. A few contracts sold at 47 cents, up 547 points from Monday. All of the close trading was 527 to 532 points over Monday. August night traded 565 higher at the opening but was down to 537-38 higher levels by the close.

Frozen pork bellies futures opened up at the $1.30 limit Tuesday with only 21 trades, mostly early, and in the front months. Prospects for little change in the market in the near future.

EGGS SCRAMBLE
Shell egg futures followed the limit sugars-in and meats and grains, losing limit up across the board. The market opened limit bid and slayed there all day. Inventory reports indicated a drop in dealer stocks as egg movement improved in both medium and large eggs.

Silver
NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Hurian Tuesday-quoted silver at $4.25 cents per fine ounce up 17 cents.

Crop estimates reflect drought effects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department says the effects of the harshest drought — which is drastically cutting corn production — will be primarily in higher meat prices next year.

The department issued its August crop report Monday, a significant one because it is the first based on actual conditions instead of estimates.

The bid news: The corn harvest is expected to be just under 5 billion bushels, 12 per cent lower than last year's harvest and 25 per cent less than this year's estimate.

One economist — research — records — back to World War II and said he had not had a year in which per acre corn yields were cut so severely.

Soybeans were down 10 per cent and rice and wheat grains as a whole were reported down 15 per cent.

The good news: The wheat harvest is almost in and officials estimate production at 13 billion bushels, a new record.

The drought has been serious, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said Monday in New Orleans. "There are farmers whose crops will be a total loss."

But in the aggregate in 1974 — said he — "I think we will have a grain crop this year that will be the second largest in history."

The United States will continue to play her role as a supplier of food grains and feed grains and of cotton.

On the other hand, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) called the report an "economic bombshell in the lap of the new President."

His prediction: Corn prices would go to record levels; that farmers would sell their dairy herds and poultry and hog production would be sharply cut back.

Dawson said, "The Agriculture Department economists are less pessimistic. 'This is no panic situation,' he said, but added: 'There will be upward pressure on food prices. There's no question about that.'

Corn is a major livestock feed, and its price and supply is key to future meat production. Department economists said that if current expectations are fulfilled, these may be the results:

"This fall there may be more beef, pork and poultry, but will probably mean lower prices. The high cost of feed may induce ranchers to sell their herds before the costs go up."

"This winter, hamburger may be easier to get than steak. The experts predict that farmers will reduce prices by feeding their hogs, pigs and hay instead of the more expensive corn which will result in lower grade meats."

"Next year the supplies will be lower and the prices will be higher."

On the way to farm supply may be the export volume. Farmers are trying to get exports in control exports by legislation, and Sen. Bernard Fatouros, D-Ida, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, has scheduled hearings for Thursday.

"We are opposed to controls and we will continue to look," said an Agriculture Department spokesman.

Bearish reactions to potato figures

NEW YORK (CN) — Initial reactions of traders to the U.S. Department of Agriculture fall potato crop estimates were described as bearish.

In its August crop report released Monday, the USDA estimated the fall potato crop at 1.6 billion bushels, up from 1.5 billion in 1973 and 1.6 billion acres intended in March.

A few bearish traders said a bullish crop report could, after a positive incentive for potatoes, cause a crop production estimates.

Corn for grain — 4.6 billion bushels down 12 per cent from a year ago.

MV Ranch cattle sale set Thursday

MALDEN — What is expected to be one of the largest sales of registered Hereford cattle ever held in Idaho will be held Thursday with the exception of the MV Ranch herd.

There will be 1,150 head of Hereford bulls, cows, heifers and calves offered at auction in conjunction with the sale of the MV Ranch herd.

Raleigh Yost, manager of the auction, said the sale is to dissolve the MV business operation and the sale will be held by The Valley Livestock Commission, Inc. in Rupert instead of at the ranch.

Livestock are being moved from the ranch to the sale yard in preparation for the three-day event.

Selling will begin Thursday and continue through Sunday with the sale opening daily at 11 a.m. On Friday, about 300 head of registered Hereford

Devastating drought effects hit prices

By United Press International

The drought which has hit the nation's plains may be breaking with the recent rains, but its devastating effect on the nation's crops should soon be appearing at supermarkets.

All major prices will be affected by the high price of grain, according to Jim Billington, a cattle industry spokesman and president of the Woodward-Treadwell Credit Association.

"The drought has had the worst since the Dust Bowl days of the 1930s," he said, "and it is a real economic situation."

"The drought has become a dismal fact of economic life. It has had a major effect on the estimated in excess of $10 million on crops and livestock and has pared back the expected yields of some of the major crops," he said.

The Agriculture Department reported Monday that the drought has cut the 1974 corn crop by an estimated 12 per cent.

It also said that the drought has cut the nation's production and nearly a billion bushels below the bumper crop production, posing the threat of increased food prices.

"This is the first time I can remember such a total disaster of grain and feeding the

SNRA superintendent replies to woman's criticism

KETCHUM — The Sawtooth National Recreation Area superintendent has answered a Ketchum woman who protested the administrative visitor center site location.

In a letter to Julie Thompson, Ketchum, realtor Gray Reynolds, SNRA superintendent, has explained reasoning behind the location.

Mrs. Thompson has vocally opposed the site location at North Fork seven miles north of Ketchum in a lush vegetative area.

North Fork area and is located at the initial entry point to the Sawtooth NRA, Reynolds states.

He said the site was chosen after evaluation of other sites and discussion with "many groups and individuals." In addition he says discussion on the site was held in seven cities across Idaho.

He said planning tours were conducted by the NRA out of Ketchum in 1972 and the site was pointed out during the dedication tour of 1972.

Reynolds said, "The proposed construction does not encroach on the beaver ponds and related wildlife, habitat areas, the beaver ponds and associated native birds and animal life will be protected in our construction and use of the area. We are very sensitive to the environmental values on the site and have developed our proposal to protect them.

"It is our plan to preserve the natural habitat, and to train and replant natural vegetation to assure that building does not detract from the scenic and natural values while providing the necessary administrative functions and visitor orientation on the Sawtooth NRS," Reynolds says.

Mrs. Thompson had asked why the taxpayer must subsidize low-cost housing planned for the project.

Reynolds said he did not know how many buildings were to be built for employees at the site and that no plans were yet drawn.

Reynolds answered Mrs. Thompson, "You expressed concern about our providing housing for low grade employees in the Wood River Valley. I understand your concern, but have found few low income families purchasing houses in the Wood River Valley with the existing real estate prices. The limited housing that we plan to provide will be for those low grade employees who are unable to acquire housing in the Wood River Valley."

Reynolds explained the fragmented office arrangement was not a long term alternative.

"We are not able to provide adequate NRA visitor orientation under the existing circumstances and feel the proposed site will fill a necessary link in the NRA management program," Reynolds said last week the project was too far advanced with too much money expended to turn back.

However, several citizens have said they will form a group to oppose the building site. In addition the Blaine County commissioners and the planning and zoning commission have written to the Idaho attorney general seeking questions of county jurisdiction on federal land.

She asked Reynolds why in an area of beaver ponds and wildlife sanctuaries the SNRA has to build a 12,000-square-foot building.

She asked how the SNRA can justify removal of homes and buildings in the Sawtooth Valley disturbing scenic beauty she said says the SNRA will be doing the same thing in full view of the Boulder Mountains.

In conclusion Mrs. Thompson asks, "Why is the national recreation area, whose sole purpose surely must be to preserve natural habitat and wildlife sanctuaries, pick the one site in its 750,000 federal acres where this destruction would take place?"

According to Reynolds only a small portion of the area will be built on.

"The area is well screened from view by residents in the

Humane Society saves dog

TWIN FALLS — When the Twin Falls Humane Society crew goes to work in the morning they never know what they may be called on to do before the day is over.

Tuesday, two of the workers had to scale a 30 to 40 foot sheer rock wall in Snake River Canyon.

Charles (Lucky) Bourn and Craig McKenney were in the shelter when call came from a frantic dog owner saying the family pet had just fallen over the canyon wall at Shoshone Falls.

The two borrowed a rope from the Twin Falls sheriff's office and by securing it at the top of the canyon McKenney was able to "rip" down the canyon face to a small ledge where the dog had managed to land.

The dog could not move either up or down because of the sharp drop off and the straight wall above. He appeared to be unhurt and was returned safely to the waiting family when McKenney ascended the wall with the small dog in one arm.

Bourn said the family was delighted to get its pet back and gave the society a donation. Owners of the dog were identified as Mr. and Mrs. William Paul and their three children, Twin Falls.

Couple recites vows in home ceremony

TWIN FALLS — Peggy Anderson and William McComas Jr. were married in a double ring ceremony July 27 at the home of the bride's parents.

Bishop Monty Carlson performed the 3 p.m. garden ceremony before a white Juliette rose trellis decorated with fern hanging silver bells, white doves, natural flowers and a scattering of vegetables and yard decorations.

Two hanging baskets of daisies and carnations completed the floral setting.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Anderson, Twin Falls, former Burley residents, and the bridegroom is the son of William McComas Sr., Pomona, Calif., and Mrs. Betty Bahler, Sebastopol, Calif.

The bride wore an empire style gown of cream tulle with a choir collar of cream imported English lace. The long full sleeves were gathered to fit wide cuffs of matching lace. Her Italian straw garden hat was encircled at the crown with yellow and turquoise daisies. The dress was made by Nadine Baker, friend of the family.

She carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums and daisies. Joyce Oelberry, Portland, Ore., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Doris Hult, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

A. E. Bohler, stepfather of the bridegroom, was best man. Robert Bohler was groomsmen.

Kevin Anderson, brother of the bride, provided stereo wedding music for the ceremony. Laurene Baicutt, Burley, was in charge of the guest book. Judy Hult and Diane Anderson, sister and sister-in-law of the bride, were in charge of the gift table. Sarah and Gary Crawford and Amy Woodhead, nieces and nephew of the bridegroom, were gift bearers.

The serving table featured a three tiered square wedding cake decorated with white doves and blue rosette flowers, and a miniature bride and groom seated on a bench on top of the cake. A punch fountain and colonial basket of blue and yellow daisies and carnations completed the table decorations.

Helen Sorenson and her daughter, Vi An, assisted by Diane Sparks, Malba Anderson and Gen Bassett, served.

Quarter tables covered with wild flower tablecloths were centered with pottery baskets of daisies and carnations.

Special guests included Pearl Anderson, Paul, grandmother of the bride; Sarah Krueger, Twin Falls; great-grandmother of the bridegroom, and Ella Amos, Twin Falls, grandmother of the bridegroom.

Guests attended from Portland, Ore.; Sebastopol, Calif.; Las Vegas, Nev.; Boise, Nampa, Pocatello, Burley, HOPKIN, Garden, Twin Falls, Kimberly and Paul.

A patio pizza party was given at the home of the bride's parents following the rehearsal.

Friends and relatives of the family were served a buffet style turkey dinner catered by Bingham's Catering Service, following the reception.

The bride was honored at a party, shower given by LeRene Boucatt at the Lewis Dillie residence, Burley.

School board frowns on aides modeling

NEW YORK (UPI) — Barbie Lawie, a blonde model who says she lost a job as teachers aide after appearing nude in a girle magazine, Monday said she plans to sue her former employer, the Greendale-Wisconsin school board.

"It's the mothers that are causing the problems. The fathers and sons think it's great," she said in an interview. "I did nothing immoral and certainly nothing illegal."

However, Don Moberly, the business manager of Greendale School Board, said in a telephone interview that the 25-year old teaching assistant "was never officially hired."

Asked whether Miss Lewis could report to work when school opens, he laughed and said, "I didn't say that either."

Miss Lewis said she was in New York to discuss the lawsuit with attorneys from the magazine, who will represent her in court.

"I had hoped that by the time school opened the whole matter would have blown over," she said, adding that many of her seventh and eighth grade students have seen the magazine and "think it's fine. They're not uptight, which is more than I can say for some of the women teachers."

She admitted, however, that with all of the carefully cultivated publicity, even if she wins a court test, "it might not be possible for me to go back. Right now, I can't even go shopping without some mother coming up and telling me a nasty."

It's not as if Miss Lewis will be unemployed—if she doesn't teach, besides $2,000 for appearing in the centerfold of Penthouse, she has a guaranteed job promoting the publication.

Abby

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune, Inc. New York, N.Y.

DEAR ABBY: While I was driving my car, a traffic officer suddenly appeared, and signaled for me to pull over. I promptly obeyed and asked him what I had done wrong. He asked me to get out of the car, and when I did, he looked me over—but good. Then he asked me for my driver's license, which I gave him. Meanwhile, I was wondering what he was looking for.

I noticed that he made a note of my name and address. Then he said: "You were exceeding the 35 mile-per-hour speed limit—but if you let me see you when I'm off duty, I'll call this a warning." Then he smiled and told me his first name.

Abby, I was NOT going over the speed limit, and I was angry because he tricked me into stopping. Besides, I have a boyfriend and I'm not interested in seeing anyone else, but I didn't want a ticket so I said, "Okay." Now, what do you call me?

BLONDIE

Resist officer?

DEAR BLONDIE: Tell him if he wants to charge you with "resisting an officer" to go ahead, because he's not all that irascible.

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, you had something in your column about people who have a misdeed occur their record and how to get it removed.

At age 18, I was wrongly accused of being an accomplice to a minor shoplifting offense. (Ten dollars.) Being very much upset by the whole thing, I didn't fight the charge. I just went to court, paid the fine and it was put on my record.

I am now 21, married and want to apply for employment, but the previous job (where the shoplifting incident took place) was the only one I've ever had, so I wonder if you can help me.

I don't think a person should be penalized the rest of his life for one minor mistake at an early age.

It's possible to get this off my record, how do I go about it?

BEWILDERED

DEAR BE: If you have been in no legal difficulty for a year following the incident, go to the Probation Department and inquire about the possibility of sealing your records. Once they are sealed, it is as though they never existed, and you may apply for employment mentioning the fact that at one time you had this on your record. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: Was I ever glad to see that letter in your column from "Foolish Question," whose mother kept insisting that she felt pain in her leg—which had been amputated.

It was not a foolish question, and I am glad you didn't tell her she was "nuts," as so many can be when I tell them that my toe itch when I'm not wearing it.

I had my leg amputated below the knee, and one day when I was all alone sitting on my bed, the stump started jumping up and down on the bed. I couldn't even hold it still with my hands.

By the time the doctor arrived, it had stopped jumping, but he explained that nature, which is a wonderful thing, was "rebellious." There should be more nerves in my leg than I had, and nature was letting me know it.

You did a lot of amputees a big favor by printing that letter. Now, when we tell people that some part of our anatomy that isn't there is itching or throbbing or giving us pain, they won't look at us like "nuts."

ANOTHER AMPUTEE

Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Al Morehead used today's hand to illustrate his theory that you did not need to make an immediate jump shift when you held a really tremendous hand opposite an opening bid. The bidding in the box is explained by him on the basis of South being sure that North would need the ace and king of spades for his jump raise.

Dick Frey adds a footnote to the effect that South could bid five notrump as the grand-slam force to ask North to go to seven with the ace and king of trumps.

There are any number of really modern ways to get to seven and there are also quite a few ways to play the hand.

The correct line of play is very interesting. South wins the club lead and plays his queen of spades. Then he leads out the ace of hearts.

He sees that a 5-0 heart break is going to give him a lot of trouble, and that even a 4-1 break might ruin him.

His next play is a trump to dummy's ace. West shows out and South discards his king of hearts on dummy's king of clubs. He ruffs a low heart, then ruffs another low heart, plays his ace of diamonds, ruffs a diamond and makes the rest of the tricks with dummy's hearts.

Jerome schools set dates

JEROME—Grade-school registration, dates for Washington, Lincoln and Jefferson elementary schools are announced.

Donald Daw, principal of Washington, said anyone who did not register for first and second grades last spring may do so Friday. He noted that new first graders not registered early must have birth certificates.

Lavar Butters, principal at Jefferson, said fifth and sixth graders could register from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Thursday and Friday.

Registration at Washington school will be from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Friday.

Friday has been set as the date for registration of all elementary students, according to the superintendent's office.

School officials explained for new residents in Jerome that the Jerome school system is somewhat different than others as the first and second grade students go to one school—Washington—third and fourth grade students attend Lincoln, and fifth and sixth grade students attend Jefferson school.

It was pointed out that the students are to go to the school nearest to them where they will be based to their proper school.

Anyone having any questions is asked to contact the superintendent's office.

Camas school levy cut

FAIRFIELD—An override levy in the Camas County School District has been reduced two mills.

Supt. Harold Stroud said the district's board of trustees reduced the levy from five mills to three Monday after a review of the district's increasing assessed valuation and anticipated stable enrollment for the coming term.

The five-mill override levy received approval from 51 percent of the voters at a special election this past spring. The levy provides maintenance and operation funds.

Stroud said the reduction will leave the full maintenance and operation levy at 30 mills instead of the anticipated 32 mills. The district has had a 5-mill override levy for the past three years. This is the first reduction, Stroud said.

Opening dates set at Camas

FAIRFIELD—Camas County Schools will open the new term Monday Aug. 26.

Supt. Harold Stroud said high school registration will be from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. on Aug. 23. Fees will remain the same as in 1973-74.

Stroud said buses will be operating the first day of school and hot lunches will be served that day. Prices will be the same as last year, at 40 cents for the first through sixth grades and 45 cents for seventh through twelfth grades.

Stroud said he expects enrollment to be about the same as a year ago or possibly up slightly. In the 1973-74 term, there were 51 enrolled in high school and 125 in elementary schools.

Bus routes will be the same as a year ago, Stroud said. Approval was given the routes by the school board on Monday.

Principal hired at Fairfield

FAIRFIELD—Warren Wallace has been hired as the new elementary school principal here.

Supt. Harold Stroud said Wallace succeeds Bill Sweet, whose resignation was accepted Monday by the school trustees. Sweet will devote full time to his Camas County ranch, Stroud said. He had been principal for about 15 years.

Wallace is a former principal in the San Diego, Calif., school system. He moved to Camas County several years ago after purchasing property in the area, Stroud said.

Concession licenses discussed

TWIN FALLS—What to do about requests for permits to set up concessions stands for the Sept. 8 canyon jump was being discussed Tuesday by Twin Falls County commissioners.

Commissioner William Wiseman said he received a call from a New York woman who is interested in selling novelty hats as souvenirs of the Evol Knievel jump.

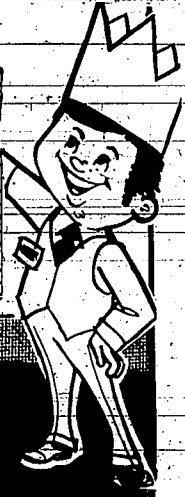

Commissioners have had others express an interest in various commercial endeavors, he said.

They from other areas have difficulty realizing the land around the jump site is all privately owned. Commissioners said they should be able to set up their stands without any difficulty.

Where the land is agricultural, he said, permits will be required under county zoning regulations. In discussing the matter with zoning officials a fee of $15 for a commercial concession stand for the one-week period was suggested.

Commissioners said they will have to give the matter further consideration.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, AUGUST 15, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This can be an upsetting day if you allow yourself the luxury of feeling you are being imposed upon, so control any martyr attitudes. Don't make dramatic or sudden changes, but do your work well.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If an argument begins between a partner and kin, refrain neutral, or you become the goat, and the dispute soon ends. Show kindness to kin.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) The tact with co-worker who is trying to get out of doing work to get him or her back in line. Drive or walk with care to avoid trouble. Have insurance in order.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have some monetary matter that needs your immediate attention, so wait until the p.m. for the pleasure you want.

MIAN CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get that family member straightened out diplomatically today and have more harmony. Don't bring up any controversial subjects that could start arguments.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't permit some worry at home to keep you from going out and accomplishing the important things in business that are now possible.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Forget that social affair that a pal wants to take you to, or you could get into trouble. Get together with a clever businessman and progress.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Don't permit anyone to keep you from handling some important matter now. Decide on aims. Take no chances with one who is an old hypocrite.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study into various situations that are puzzling and come up with the right answer. Don't be inquisitive, and you avoid trouble.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Listen to suggestions from an adviser and a good friend, then use your own good judgment to choose the best ideas given. Don't let others color your thinking.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) An associate is trying to get you to lambast a higher-up, but don't. Handle worldly affair satisfactorily, even though it is rather difficult. Help a good friend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do your job perfectly despite your desire to be out of the news and more interesting outlets. Once work is out of the way, then you can study new matters.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't spend money foolishly; save it for practical things. Don't permit others to take what belongs to you. Reach better understanding with mate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want to make changes constantly, but teach early to think out the best course first and then follow through without deviating from it. The field of merchandising is best here and the education should be slanted along such lines, whether male or female. Sports are a natural and should be indulged in. Give good religious training early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Most every man who installs a home swimming pool justifies said luxury on the ground that the daily plunge is a great way to stay in shape. How true! But a pool builder of lengthy experience contends it's the wife with the good-looking figure, not the athletic husband, who presses hardest to get the pool. He says the typical female prefers those sports wherein she's permitted to wear the least clothing. It's almost invariably the lady of the house, not the old man, who wants the pool, enclosed by a high privacy fence next to the bedroom, for instance. Because of this feminine fixation with minimum clothing, he says, favorite sports among the girls, in descending order, are swimming, tennis and bowling.

FLEA JUMP

Am told the record high jump for a flea is exactly seven inches.

SOME BABY EXPERTS say red is the only color that stirs up a strong reaction in infants.

LITERAL translation of one of the standard traffic signs in China reads: "Give large space to the festive god that makes sport in the roadway."

THE LIE is much under study. By judges, legislators, grand juries. But what is a lie exactly? Best definition I ever heard goes: "The deliberate withholding of any part of the entire truth from someone who has the right to know."

DISAPPOINTING AGE

Q. "What did you mean by 'that great disappointing age of the three B's'?" The lives of Bach, Beethoven and Brahms cover 212 magnificent years.

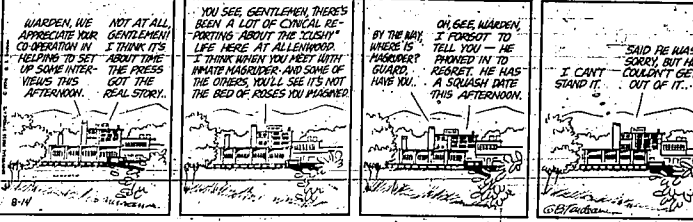

A. Was not referring to those master musicologists, my dear. The three Bs represent the late 40s in the life of one man or another. They stand for bifocals, bulges and baldness.

IF THE MOTHER is strong, most probably the son will be ambitious. That's the contention of a scholar who has studied world leaders. Cited were Franklin D. Roosevelt, Winston Churchill and Joseph Stalin. Likewise Adolph Hitler and Ferdinand Gandhi. Mama's boy's life, it's claimed, it is also asserted that the most aggressive show-business personalities are the offspring of hard-driving mothers.

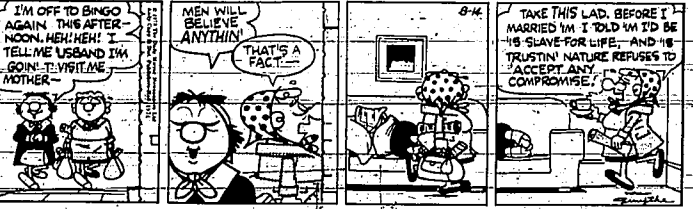

CONSIDER YOURSELF a seasoned citizen, too, if you recall when standing at someone's head was the most widely used therapy by bald men to restore hair. In the 1930s, that was, Liberty Magazine publisher Bernard MacFadden touted that technique, remember?
