

BLACK SMOKE billows from behind a nearby ridge as a hand of fire is driven out of the path of a fire in the South Hills Sunday. The fire, still burning out of control this morning, necessitated evacuation of summer homes, church camps and removal of livestock. These sheep, moving slowly down Third Fork Canyon, turned back toward the fire when confronted by photographer.

Out of fire's path

South Hills blaze still uncontrolled

TWIN FALLS — A roaring timber and brush fire scorched about 2,500 acres Sunday in the South Hills area of the Sawtooth National Forest and was still out of control late this morning.

Ken Dittmer, fire control officer, said all roads into the South Hills are closed to traffic, other than emergency or forest vehicles. Summer homes and church camps at the head of Goose Creek, which are about a mile or more from the fire and in the path of the flames, were evacuated Sunday night. The Camp Fire Girls camp, although not in the immediate path, was also closed late Sunday.

Forest officials said roads into Oshossee Basin, Rock Creek Canyon and out of Oakley are closed to traffic. They will remain closed until the fire is controlled.

A spot fire, which broke out nearly three-quarters of a mile from the main fire as a result of blowing sparks, exploded Sunday morning in over-mature and dead timber and quickly spread out of control.

Dittmer said the fire is burning from the Bear Hollow area where it started in a northeast direction. It has burned into Telephone Creek, Martindale Creek and into the upper Goose Creek area. It began on Deadline ridge Saturday, crossing the other drainages after the major breakout Sunday.

Tanker planes were taken off the fire temporarily because of intense heat generated when the fire began crowding from timber island to timber island, forest officials said.

Extensive efforts were made Sunday to clear the area of recreation visitors, wood cutters and motorists. Gasoline was taken to some stranded motorists and helicopters were used to drive sheep out of the fire area.

One large band of sheep was driven out of the area via Third Fork Canyon. Officials said no injuries or loss of livestock has been reported and precautions are being taken to protect private property as much as possible.

In addition to the 80 fire fighters, the fire forces include six bulldozers, 10 ground tankers, two helicopters and six aerial tankers.

In addition, eight National Guard trucks and drivers were helping move supplies and provisions for fire fighters.

A 20 miles-per-hour wind was reported in the area this morning and stronger gusts occurred Sunday during the peak of the outburst. The fire was reported burning in both timber and brush but a large amount of dead fir and pine in the area is providing explosive type fuel for the fire and creating the crowning effect as the fire skips along the tops of trees.

Investigators are continuing on the cause of the fire. Forest officials say there is a possibility the fire was the result of an unattended campfire. There had been lightning in the area about a week earlier but forest officials said it is not likely a strike would smolder that long.

Nicosia gunmen slay US envoy

By United Press International

U.S. Ambassador Hodger P. Davies was shot to death today when rioters stormed the American embassy in Cyprus, screaming against the U.S. failure to halt the Turkish invasion of the island.

The British foreign office announced a new Anglo-American approach to both Turkey and Greece to resume the Cyprus peace conference.

Eye witnesses said Davies was killed in a burst of automatic weapons fire by gunmen who stormed the American embassy in the Cyprus capital of Nicosia under cover of a riot by 700 Greek Cypriots screaming "Kissinger, Kissinger."

However, the Greek news agency ANA, in a dispatch from Nicosia, said Davies was killed by a stray bullet which came through a window and hit him as he was standing in a corridor.

Greek Cypriot President Glafkos Clerides said a U.S. Marine guard who killed him and ANA said a Greek Cypriot girl, Antonietta Varnava, believed to be a stenographer in the embassy, also died.

Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis denounced the shooting and said it was a "crime." Turkish Foreign Minister Turan Guner said the shooting helped justify Turkey's military offensive on the island.

Eye witnesses said gunmen wore the military-style uniforms favored by EOKA-B, the Greek Cypriot guerrilla organization that has fought for years to unite Cyprus with Greece.

Greek Cypriot President Glafkos Clerides said an unidentified U.S. Marine guard also was killed in a burst of submachinegun fire.

Clerides rushed to the embassy to try to help and issued a statement declaring "this heinous crime." In Athens, Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis denounced the shooting of Davies and said it will only add to Greece's troubles over Cyprus.

On the military front, Turkish forces with American-built tanks slashed in a drive to cut off the landlocked capital from the sea despite U.S. criticism that the Turkish offensive has gone too far.

In Nicosia, UPI Correspondent Michael Keats said Davies was killed when a mob of 700 Greek Cypriots descended on the embassy at midday screaming "Kissinger! Kissinger! Get your Turkish friends to help you now!"

The mob burned Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in effigy and set fire to at least five cars in the embassy compound. The cars blew up when flames reached their gasoline tanks, darkening the embassy area with clouds of thick black smoke.

Veep choice coming Tuesday?

CHICAGO (UPI) — President Ford, nearing a final decision on his vice presidential nominee, will formally announce his choice Tuesday, a White House spokesman said today.

Another White House official said the candidate would be a Republican.

White House press secretary Jerald Riffe told reporters aboard Air Force One that Ford would make the announcement promptly after he makes his decision for the No. 2 spot. Riffe said it was possible the announcement could come Tuesday afternoon.

US C-141 missing in Bolivia

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — An Air Force plane with a crew of seven and a load of 16 tons of miscellaneous cargo is missing and presumed down in mountainous terrain near La Paz, Bolivia, the Air Force said today.

The C-141 was on a flight from Charleston to La Paz, where it had been scheduled to land at noon EDT Sunday.

Viet Reds launch new drives

SAIGON (UPI) — The Communists launched offensives throughout much of South Vietnam today that brought the heaviest fighting in two years and left more than 800 soldiers dead and wounded, according to government reports.

The attacks — coinciding with the Communist Aug. 19, 1945, revolution against the French occupation which started the first Indochina war — spread from the far north of South Vietnam to the approaches to Saigon.

Bishop held

JERUSALEM (UPI) — A Greek Catholic Archbishop of Hilaon, Greece, has been arrested by police here on charges of smuggling weapons from Lebanon to Arab guerrillas.

Police said arms and ammunition were found in the archbishop's car when it was stopped here. The guerrillas he was allegedly supplying have been operating in Israeli-occupied territory.

Women aid fight

TWIN FALLS — Among the 80 fire fighters battling a forest fire above Rock Creek in the Sawtooth National Forest today is a crew of women.

The group, consisting of four summer recreation assistants from the Sawtooth National Recreation Area, was scheduled to go off the fire line this morning.

Forest officials said they would be handling shovels or other duties the same as the remainder of the ground crews. The practice of using women on fire has been in use this summer on a number of fires and while many work in the fire control camps near the scene or drive vehicles to deliver supplies and messages, some have been working on the lines.

Sirica orders Sept. 9 Watergate trial start

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today rejected motions for a delay in the Watergate cover-up trial and said it will begin Sept. 9 as scheduled.

There is no better time to try this case than the present time, Sirica said to the effect of a one-hour, 30 minute hearing.

Attorneys for former White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman immediately appealed Sirica's ruling. Ehrlichman's lawyer, Andrew C. Till, said he would take the case to the Supreme Court if necessary.

In making his ruling, Sirica said the cover-up case was not like a rape or murder case "that arouses passion, anger and hatred."

Sirica said he would hold court sessions from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. for the first month of the trial, and if it were not moving fast enough to his satisfaction, would hold sessions until later in the evening in order to complete it before Christmas.

Lawyers for the defendants — six aides or associates of former President Nixon — asked that the trial be delayed until next year because of the publicity surrounding Nixon's resignation.

William Huddley, who is representing former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, said during a hearing on the motions to delay the trial that the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment debate and the "forced resignation" of President Nixon had created publicity that required postponement of the trial.

"The publicity already has died down," Sirica said. "You can pick up the Washington Post and can't hardly read a Watergate story."

Sirica asked the group of defense lawyers whether they expected him to be the judge when the climate would be right for a trial, and they replied yes.

"I think it's right, right now," Sirica said. "Why?" one of them asked.

"You don't have any (impeachment) debate coming up in the House, you can't have any Senate trial coming up," Sirica said.

Pup, lamb saved

TWIN FALLS — Not all of the raptors from the forest fire in the south hills area were on the bleak side today.

A helicopter crew working to clear livestock and recreationists out of the fire area Sunday landed long enough to rescue a puppy and a pet lamb from an abandoned sheep camp. The herder had been forced to leave the pair behind as he moved the band of sheep away from the spreading fire.

The lamb which had been tied to a tree, was taken to the forest service guard station for the night and fire puppy joined the crew in the fire camp.

Sawtooth NRA challenge set

By BART QUENSTELL
Times News writer

OBSIDIAN — An Obsidian landowner reportedly will file a suit before November against the US Forest Service.

Fred Stewart, owner of International Real Estate in Obsidian and a Jerome farmer, said the suit will claim that the federal act creating the Sawtooth National Recreation Area (SNRA) violates his constitutional rights.

Stewart owns land inside the SNRA north of the Obsidian airport. His land is on the west side of US 93 at Obsidian, an area that has been declared agricultural by the Forest Service. The federal agency has ordered elimination of all structures in that area and in the Pettit Lake subdivision.

Under the act creating the SNRA, Stewart can't subdivide his land.

"There are no ifs, ands or buts," Stewart said. "I'm going to take them to court."

Wayne Kidwell, a Boise attorney and Republican candidate for Idaho attorney general, is preparing the suit for presentation in federal court, according to Stewart.

Stewart said the basic elements of the suit will claim that the SNRA act is unconstitutional, that it hasn't provided criteria for certification of permitted structures and that the elimination of Obsidian is discriminatory.

Ken Dittmer, SNRA private lands superintendent, in a meeting earlier this year, said all homes that could be seen from the road at Obsidian and Pettit Lake subdivisions would eventually have to be moved.

Forest Service regulations say the owners can sell at fair market value, trade their land for other land in designated SNRA cities or live on their land until 1988 when the Forest Service will buy at a reduced rate.

SNRA Superintendent Gray Reynolds said today all land owners have six months from April 29 of this year to final administrative decisions to federal court. Oct. 29 is the final date of appeal, he said.

According to Reynolds, only a declaratory judgment suit can be filed in federal court against the Forest Service for settling regulations which are against the act creating the SNRA.

No money is involved in a declaratory suit, he said. Land owners can file other civil suits at any time against the Forest Service, Reynolds said.

Stewart said, if necessary, his attorney will ask legislators if they wanted Obsidian eliminated when they voted for the SNRA act. "If we don't stop them here, we can't stop them anywhere," he said.

He said the Forest Service was taking his land without due process because interested buyers would not purchase land with SNRA regulations attached.

In addition the Forest Service has decided to retain Sawtooth City (Smiley Creek) and Stanley but eliminate Obsidian, which is discriminatory, he said.

JUDGE JOHN SIRICA refuses trial delay

Impeachment report due Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House of Representatives once planned to start impeachment proceedings against Richard M. Nixon today.

Instead, it will receive the final report of its Judiciary Committee Tuesday and close the books on the Nixon case.

The second presidential impeachment effort in U.S. history died with Nixon's resignation Aug. 9. The impeachment machinery in both the House and the Senate has now been halted, leaving only the informal debate over whether Nixon should be prosecuted in the courts.

But Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., has decided that for historical purposes the report on his panel's activities leading up to impeachment should be made part of the official record.

The report, containing majority and minority views of the committee, was expected to run well over 100 pages in length.

Here fireman hoses down one of the hot spots in a heavily brush covered area.

Parks chief hails plans

BOISE (SP) - The director of the state Parks and Recreation Department would like to meet with those circulating petitions calling for the improvement of recreational facilities at Lucky Peak Reservoir.

Steven W. Bly, discussing the petitions on KTVB's Viewpoint program, aimed Sunday, said "We love it. We hope there's 10 or 15,000 petitions that come to us so we can go to local legislators and say there really is a problem."

Bly said Lucky Peak recreation area "was the most heavily used area last year with more than one million day-use visitors."

There are concerns by many that there are no overnight camping facilities, he said. "There are overcrowded parking conditions and the beach is crowded during the summertime." Bly said adding that Sandy Point has more than 5,000 swimmers on a July day.

Bly said the department is working on the problems and there is some money available for the 1974-75 year for improving the existing facilities.

But he said, "We need people's support to tell us what the problems are and support through legislative action to get the money to get the job done."

Bly also discussed another park area, the Veterans State Park in Boise. He said the final master plan for the park has been approved and detailed construction plans and drawings are now being prepared.

"We are hopeful to begin construction during the spring but much depends on funding from this session of the legislature," Bly said.

The director would like to see the Veterans Park project completed in time for the nation's bicentennial celebration in 1976.

Lack of access to job training for prisoners hit by Gem official

BOISE (UPI) - The director of corrections for the state believes not enough inmates at the Idaho State Prison have access to job training. Don Erickson said "There are too many people here who are not assigned to a vocational program or meaningful work within the prison."

work outside the compound on farm or work-release assignments, another 100 are assigned to yard details and about 100 are enrolled in prisons industries or vocational training programs.

Primary reasons are the growing population of the institutional which has increased from about 450 more than 500 in the past year, and the number of site facilities which have not been completed.

Erickson said other inmates work in the prison kitchen, assist in clerical duties, and some are going through entrance procedures.

About 75 per cent of the population at the prison has not gone beyond the ninth grade.

Labor leader's birthday present early

By PAUL McGRATH
(C) Chicago Sun-Times

When George Meany became 80 years old Friday, he already had his best birthday present — former President Richard M. Nixon's resignation.

The President of the AFL-CIO was among the first — and certainly the most powerful — national leaders to call for Nixon's impeachment or resignation.

The scenario played close to Meany's own. He predicted privately during the federation's midwinter executive council meeting in Florida last February that the House Judiciary Committee would approve impeachment articles and the president would resign shortly thereafter. He was off only on timing. He expected it sooner.

Meany's gamble paid off. At 80 he will preside over a labor movement, that, with 14 million members, is stronger than ever and gaining. He seems likely to get the reputation of having been the man pushing for the prospects for a Democratic victory in the 1976 presidential election must be considered to be better than they have been since 1964.

Cyprus hazards worsen

WASHINGTON — The Egeid administration has clearly supported basic Turkish demands in the fragile, potentially disastrous Cyprus crisis for a reason fundamental to U.S. self-interest: Turkey is far more important to Greece as the eastern anchor of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization-NATO.

Par fare important, Washington knows that to push Turkey too hard could have a far more disastrous effect than Greece's exit from NATO this past week.

Up to now, there is unanimous agreement both in the administration and foreign embassies here that Moscow is content to stand by and watch quietly as the West erodes its alliance triumph in the Cyprus dispute.

EVANS AND NOVAK

Throughout that period, Turkey, though far more important to NATO and Washington's backbones, despite the Cyprus crisis, in Lyndon Johnson's administration, a Turkish appeal for American support was bluntly treated. If you start anything, President Johnson warned in a secret communique, you are on your own.

Whether NATO will ever be put back together again is questionable. Key Turkish politicians told us in Ankara last month that "American power is declining. World power today, they said, is measured not in strategic nuclear missiles but in oil. Prime Minister Bulent Ecevit told his Turkish ministers for new political and economic arrangements with the Arab oil states and eastern Europe.

Early spats inevitable

WASHINGTON — On the whole, Congress is in a mood to help President Ford in his plea for a "good marriage" between the executive and legislative branches of government, but a couple of early spats seem inevitable.

Congress to find answers to the problem. But as the comments of Albert, Hyrd and Brademas reflect Democratic members almost surely will demand stronger measures than Ford so far has indicated he is willing to take.

There was a warning of voter rebellion in his statement that the American people know that they are not being deceived by anything you want is a government lie enough to take from you everything you have.

So Ford could be in trouble even in the early days of his honeymoon. Legislators who want to slash Pentagon spending, mostly Democrats, have a substantial constituency in this era of a key-high-cost-of-living. There are votes in Congress to slash defense, mostly because defense has become so expensive, and it is natural, for Maine, Streets, to assume that the Pentagon budget contains a lot of fat.

US ponders Turk arms aid cut, Schlesinger says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time in an administration official has condemned Turkey for its military actions on Cyprus and in his criticism Sunday. Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger said continued military aid to Turkey is under review. He also said that if a settlement can be worked out to protect the Greek majority on Cyprus and if the new Greek regime is not "driven into a corner," Athens might not withdraw its forces from NATO.

Schlesinger appeared on CBS's Face the Nation. Asked why the United States had not cut off arms shipments to Turkey if it felt the Turks had made "an acceptable military gain" on Cyprus, Schlesinger replied: "These questions will have to be examined very seriously in the days and hours immediately ahead. I would think that the spillover of the Turkish forces into areas that no one had expected them to now-into is a new element to the problem, and that we will have to take cognizance of it." His criticism of Turkey appeared designed at least in part to restore friendly relations with Greece, which last week refused a U.S. offer to serve as mediator in the dispute.

About 20,000 Greeks and Greek-Americans protested U.S. policy Sunday near the White House. Most of their antagonism was directed not at President Ford but at Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, who was accused of siding with the Turks. They called Kissinger a "murderer," "America's Hitler" and a "secret Turk."

There were no disorders, and special police were on duty anyway to protect Jordan's King Hussein, who was in Washington.

According to international law experts, American forces in Greece will probably have to leave if Greece decides to kick them out, despite the terms of various treaties. The U.S.-Greece military agreement is tied directly to continuing Greek membership in NATO. The government in Athens has said it would leave the military but not the political framework and there is no specific provision for that kind of partial withdrawal. But lawyers interviewed here say any attempt to hold Greece to a legalistic position would be foolhardy and self-defeating for the United States. They described the problem as political rather than legal. Greece's assigned task in the NATO military scheme is to protect Greece itself, something she presumably would do anyway.

Proxmire predicts Ford can't balance US budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today President Ford will not be able to balance the federal budget this year "even though Congress has performed a fiscal miracle" by cutting between $6 and $8 billion from defense and other bills.

Proxmire, vice chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, predicted that the new budget would wind up about $5 billion over the $10 billion the White House requested.

He said Sunday other factors would have more impact on the economy than a balanced budget. Bob Albert and House Republican leader John J. Rhodes said Ford's proposals to revive the Cost of Living Council and hold an economic summit conference would not do much to solve the nation's economic ills.

Albert, appearing on ABC's "Issues and Answers," predicted Congress would approve the council this week before the Labor Day recess but that he didn't think the conference amounts to much. Rhodes was a bit more optimistic. He said he hoped the conference would produce a "realization—that the economy is not recovering completely, the responsibility of government." He was interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Rhodes, however, predicted the budget would be cut sharply "mostly at the expense of new programs." "Government can only do certain things for the economy," Rhodes said. "It is necessary for labor and business and the average individual to get in there and help too."

Predictions

CONGRESS will approve the Cost of Living Council requested by President Ford, House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., said Sunday in a television interview. He also predicted Democrats will gain seats in the House in November elections. House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona predicted in another TV interview former president Richard Nixon eventually will admit his guilt in the Watergate cover-up, and said it would be "useful" if he would do so. (UPI)

December Demo blood bath due

(K) Newhouse News Service KANSAS CITY — The Democratic Party, which had looked to a new charter as a means of recovery from its 1972 convention disaster, is back in the spotlight over its mid-term conference in December looms as a "blood bath" over again. This was the conclusion of all factions following the disintegration of the final charter commission drafting session as the liberals staged a walkout and the deliberations ended for lack of a forum.

Commission Chairman Jerry Sanford, who had blamed the tumultuous end on "overkill" by party Chairman Robert Strauss, whose staff "worked the delegates" in a "negative, lobbying effort to block certain reforms." The "hot points of contention had been ironed out by compromise, but the end came when a "party apparatus attempted to remove a lion on the unit rule — the winner-take-all provision which went a long way toward giving the 1972 nomination to Sen. George McGovern. (UPI)

Strauss, who was opposed in the mid-term meeting and determined to eliminate the mandatory off-year convention from the charter, succeeded in persuading King H. Parnell, chairman of that battle, his operative working in concert with the AFL-CIO, succeeded in subverting the role of a proposed judicial council by setting intra-party disputes. The matter of "affirmative action in all party affairs," which was sought by minority groups and opposed by the party organization, was settled on a compromise — "Four suggestions — two from each side of the ideological fence" — will be put before the Dec. 6-9 meeting — and the 1,000 delegates meeting here can pick their favorite.

And that's when they (the national committee staffs) began to feel their oats. Sanford said. "These forces outside the commission went too far. They were guilty of overkill."

Martha McKay of Chapel Hill, N.C., called it a "Sunday afternoon massacre" — but Sanford, former governor of North Carolina and now president of Duke University disagreed. He insisted that "no massacre occurred," and that the proposed charter will meet most objections. "Strauss, who avoided the sessions, attempted in a statement from his Dallas residence to sweep the broken drafting session under the rug. He was not alone in his predictions. House Speaker Carl Albert plek their favorite. And that's when they (the national committee staffs) began to feel their oats. Sanford said. "These forces outside the commission went too far. They were guilty of overkill."

Bomb threats plague Los Angeles after 'alphabet bomber' ruled out

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A wave of telephoned bomb threats rippled throughout the city Sunday, one day after police ruled out the possibility that the "alphabet bomber" caused a devastating chemical explosion in an industrial district.

Police evacuated the Delta Pacific Southwest Airlines and Hughes Air West passenger terminals at the Los Angeles International Airport Sunday after receiving telephone calls of planted bombs.

The evacuation was precautionary, a spokesman said, but it was spurred by a bomb explosion at the airport American passenger terminal the night Aug. 17 that killed three persons and wounded 35 others.

The Greyhound bus terminal, where a police bomb squad found a planted bomb in a locker Friday night, was also evacuated during the day after police received a call that another bomb had been planted there.

No bombs were found at the airport or the bus station.

Police said hangar bays, newspaper offices, sporting arenas and theaters were also targets of bomb threats.

The Saturday explosion at the trucking company injured five persons and caused an estimated $5 million damage.

Early speculation was that the "alphabet bomber" was a man who telephoned police and took credit for bombing the airport and planting the bomb at the bus station, had struck again. But police later ruled this out.

The bomber identified himself as "Frank" Rastin, self-proclaimed "chief military officer" of the "Allens of America." He has threatened to "spill out in blood across America" the "Letter" sequence of his organization to press demands for repeal of all immigration laws.

Rastin's first target was the airport, representing the letter "A" in the word "allens." His second was a locker at the bus terminal for the letter "L" in the word "allens."

Rastin threatened to "bombing Sunday" and suggested to represent the letter "L" but later called a newspaper and said he was postponing it.

The Fire Department ruled out Rastin's connection with the trucking company blast, saying it was caused by benzoyl peroxide, a flammable chemical that may have leaked from plastic containers. But even so, the Police Department sent out 2,000 extra officers to scour the city for a possible bombing.

The explosion occurred as a jilted city of more than 3 million persons was bracing for the threatened bomb blast Sunday by Rastin. Los Angeles police officers at some Southern California events Sunday were blamed on the bomb threats.

Coal miners stop work in memory of workers killed this century

United Press International A five-day, nationwide work stoppage begins today by 80,000 soft coal miners to commemorate the more than 100,000 workers killed by the mines in this century.

United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller said the walkout, the first such memorial since the 1969 commemoration of the late UMW president John L. Lewis, is to protest "the terrible slaughter that day after day turns miners' wives into widows."

The strike will close as many as 200 mines.

The Bituminous Coal Operators Association criticized the memorial saying it was being used by the union to improve its bargaining position with the soft coal industry in about two weeks. The current contract expires Nov. 12.

Under the 1971 bituminous contract, the UMW has the option to call up to 10 days of nonpaid memorial periods during which no coal can be produced by operators covered by the agreement.

Strikes causing production delay

United Press International Strikes of two key parts suppliers and other auto industry labor problems left thousands of auto workers out of work today and forced a delay in the production of 1975 model cars and trucks.

Some 16,000 General Motors employees were idled at six GM truck plants in Michigan, Maryland, Wisconsin, Georgia and Canada and a GM auto plant in Massachusetts as the nation's largest automaker postponed the start of new model production.

The postponement was triggered by strikes against two Milwaukee, Wis., plants, A. D. Smith Corp., which makes suspension parts and Chrysler and Briggs & Stratton Corp., which manufactures door and ignition locks.

Some 4,300 workers at GM's Chevrolet plant in Indianapolis, Ind., also have been laid off because of the strikes.

GM was particularly hard hit since the strikes at Briggs & Stratton and A. O. Smith come on top of lingering strikes at GM plants in Lorain, Ohio and St. Louis. Those strikes affect some 13,500 workers.

Some 3,800 workers at the Chrysler truck plant in St. Louis, Mo., were also idled because of the strikes and American Motors said it may have to close its Kenosha, Wis., assembly plant Aug. 25 if the strikes are not settled.

A charge of unfair-labor practices filed by the coal operators against the union to stop the memorial was dismissed last week by the National Labor Relations Board.

The memorial was to begin with services at Mannington, W. Va., to commemorate the 16 men killed in 1954 and the 78 miners killed in 1968 at Consolidation Coal Co.'s Farmington, W. Va., No. 9 mine.

Another rally will be held Tuesday at UMW International Union Headquarters in Washington with other rallies scheduled for Hartman County, Ky., Birmingham, Ala., West Frankfort, Ill., and Ludlow, Colo.

A spokesman for the Tennessee Valley Authority said it has a 23-day coal supply at its Widows Creek Generating Plant in North Alabama.

The West Virginia Coal Association said it thinks most steel companies have stockpiles of coal to last between 25 and 28 days, while utilities have accumulated reserves for 60 to 75 days.

Wild growth hit

HELEN, Ga. (UPI) — Four Southern governors warned Sunday that the South must curb its rapid industrial growth to save its environment and protect its natural resources.

Winding up a three-day conference of the Commission on the Future of the South, the governors drafted a report for submission to the Southern Governors' Conference in Atlanta Nov. 13.

"If we want rains on the wild horse growth we'll have to suffer the harvest," said the report prepared by Govs. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, John C. West of South Carolina, James E. Rothenberger of North Carolina and Mills E. Godwin of Virginia.

Carter said the time is past when the South will welcome new industry with promises of cheap labor.

"We formerly took as a basic premise the proposition that one of our major advertising efforts should be 'Come on down here, South, where you can get cheap labor and produce your product cheaper in the South because labor is cheaper,'" said Carter.

The governors and 100 delegates from 13 southeastern states agreed that booming population growth in the South is inevitable.

'Chief' cites need for publicity

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Judge Rastin, who claimed responsibility for the bombing at Los Angeles International Airport, says he decided to notify authorities of the bombing because "our cause is getting publicity."

In a cassette recording received Friday night by the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner, Rastin directed authorities to locker 625 of the Greyhound bus terminal, where a bomb was found and removed.

Rastin self-proclaimed "chief military officer" of the "Allens of America," has threatened to "spill out in blood across America" the "Letter" sequence of his organization to press demands for repeal of all immigration laws.

Rastin threatened to "bombing Sunday" and suggested to represent the letter "L" but later called a newspaper and said he was postponing it.

Episcopalian quits

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — De Charles W. Willie, the highest lay officer of the Episcopal church, has resigned as a protest against the inhuman treatment of women.

Willie, 52, said he had quit both as vice president of the church's House of Deputies and as a member of the church's Executive Council.

"To carry out the laws of the church which do not affirm the right of females to be priests and bishops is to visit oppression on women."

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: If I were DEAR ABBY for ten minutes, I would tell every woman in the world not to marry a mamma's boy. One of the tip-offs is a man who is between 30 and 40 and not married. I married one of these 30-Yos and it's the dumbest thing I ever did. Although he's a steady worker, that's all he knows how to do. I have to get him up in the morning, tell him what to wear, and even when to change his clothes. He's so childish and helpless. He doesn't even know how to kiss. He clamps his lips together and presses them on my lips. I've tried to teach him how, but even after five years, he hasn't improved. He doesn't know the first thing about how to make love either. It's him-wham, and that's it. So for the last two years, an hour before he gets home I start to getting a migraine.

Mamma's boy to migraines

I'd go to a marriage counselor, but he won't go, and no woman can save her marriage alone. Mamma's boys just want a cook and housekeeper and a bed partner for two minutes once a week. If I could get a job and support myself, I'd leave him. STUCK IN PEKIN, Ill.

DEAR STUCK: Nobody is stopping you from trying. One woman's leftovers are another woman's banquet. DEAR ABBY: My problem is a small one, but on second thought, it's not so small a problem. My husband and I would like your opinion of this situation: We know two different families whom we invite to our home for dinner occasionally. (Not together.) The minute we sit down at the table, both fathers of these families ask one of their children to say the grace. "Abby, am I out of line to think this shows extreme bad manners on their part? I always thought it was up to the host and hostess to decide if grace was to be said at their table. And if so, by whom." Please print your reply. Perhaps these men or their wives will read your column and learn something. Or I may learn something if I am wrong.

DEAR SOCIAL: You are not wrong. It's the host's or hostess' prerogative to decide if grace shall be said at his or her table, and if so, by whom.

DEAR ABBY: I have a unique problem. I have been married to Elmer for six years. We are both in our late twenties. All my life I have been extremely overweight, but the last year, through a friend's inspiration, I was motivated to lose 120 pounds. (Yes, one hundred and twenty pounds!) Throughout my diet Elmer never indicated that he approved or disapproved, but now that my life has changed as much as my figure, Elmer has decided that he doesn't like the "new me," and he wants me to regain the weight I sacrificed so much to get rid of. Perhaps I should mention that Elmer is fat, and we used to have a lot of fun together eating all the things we shouldn't, but those days are gone for me. Now Elmer feels betrayed, and I feel guilty, because when he married me he really liked me the way I was. I am torn between staying thin, which I am so proud to be, or letting myself go to please Elmer. FORMERLY FAT

DEAR FORM: For heaven's sake, stay thin! Join Overeater's Anonymous and let them help you. And take Elmer with you. They are a great, loving, caring fellowship. If Elmer doesn't flip for them and their program, I'll eat my calorie counter.

Jim: "George Googin and Frank Thomas have written an amusing book called 'Sherlock Holmes-Bridge Detective'. It is a collection of 44 hands. The bidding is unimportant since each one illustrates some point in play in the form of a dissertation by Holmes."
Oswald: "The first hand shows Holmes at a four-trump contract. West leads three rounds of diamonds. East ruffs dummy's queen. Holmes overruffs, plays three rounds of trumps, and loses the spade finesse. East leads back a spade to dummy's ace. Holmes ruffs a third spade. Jim: "Holmes promptly leads a club to dummy's king; finessses against East's queen and claims his contract before West has had time to play to trick. West says, 'It looks as if you knew my partner had the queen.'"
Oswald: "Of course, Holmes did. It wouldn't require much effort on anyone's part to know. When East trumped the third diamond it meant West held six cards in that suit. West had shown up with three spades and three hearts, and followed for the first club. Thirteen cards were accounted for. He could not have another club."

More land needed

By Union Press International
CHALLIS, Idaho (UPI) - Vernon Hamre, chief of the U.S. Forest Service Intermountain Region, said ranchers, increasing the number of livestock on the range due to feed grain prices, may be forced to seek additional public land for grazing.

Management practices must be improved if grazing needs are to be met in the future, Hamre said, noting that the Forest Service receives the same funding for range management now that it did in 1952.

"We just don't have the money to do an adequate job," Hamre said.

Deadline for petitions

HORSESHOE BEND, Idaho (UPI) - Tuesday is the deadline for those circulating petitions to move the Boise County seat to Horseshoe Bend from Idaho City.

Began back in May by a group of Horseshoe Bend residents, the drive requires at least 522 signatures. If that number is reached, the question will be put on the general election ballot in November.

Those pushing the movement say they want to change the county seat because of the population shift to the western section of the county.

Sunshine plan supported

BOISE (UPI) - The Idaho Division Board of the American Association of University Women meeting here over the weekend was highlighted by support of the Sunshine Initiative and public broadcasting.

The division board passed a resolution signifying its intent to register its legislative program chairman as a volunteer lobbyist in the Idaho State Legislature when the Sunshine Initiative or similar campaign finance disclosure and lobbyist registration measures are considered.

In other action, the AAUW urged branches and individual members to financially support public broadcasting and to support legislation to extend public broadcasting to all parts of Idaho.

Woman killed

LAMA HOT SPRINGS, Idaho (UPI) - F. Jean Hill, 36, Lama Hot Springs-Idaho died over the weekend in a car accident on U.S. 30 in Caribou County, Idaho State Police reported.

Police said the victim's car went off the road, throwing the victim out and she was killed by the wheel.

10 to 1 odds

BOISE (UPI) - For every ten teachers looking for a job in Idaho, one exists, and those who do the hiring say the situation is dimmed for English, history and social sciences teachers.

Twin Falls Schools Superintendent George Staudacher said, "When I came on the job, July 1, 1974, I had 17 vacancies and no applications. July 7 we had on file 1,000 active applications, any of which I would hire - but all our openings are filled with the exception of one counselor."

The outlook for new teachers is no better in the Boise School District. Henry Van Der Helde, director of secondary education, said the number of openings actually has been decreasing in the junior and senior high schools, while the number of applicants is increasing.

Child center to open

SALMON (UPI) - Three and one-half years of effort by Boise, Tendency, Lemhi, Latah and Salmon citizens will culminate Aug. 30, with the opening of the Salmon Satellite Child Development Center.

The state-employed staff of the center will consist of an administrator and teacher, vocational training aide, teacher aide, speech therapist, secretary and vocational training specialist.

A psychologist and social case worker will be available for consultation.

Bearproof garbage urged

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (UPI) - A Grizzly bear study ordered by Interior Department Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton concludes garbage dumps in the Yellowstone ecosystem should be made "bearproof."

The report, prepared by the National Academy of Sciences, said allowing grizzlies to eat out of garbage dumps increases the likelihood of human injury and property damage.

The Yellowstone ecosystem includes Yellowstone and Grand Teton National parks and portions of four national forests in northwest Wyoming, eastern Idaho and southern Montana.

The report also concludes the grizzly bear is in no immediate danger of becoming extinct.

Canyon politicians elect

CALDWELL (UPI) - Canyon county political central committees have elected new chairmen to head their activities through the fall general election campaign.

Mrs. Lynda Dameron, Sunny Slope, was chosen chairman of the Democratic Central Committee and Robert L. Franklin Jr., Caldwell, was elected chairman of the Republican Central Committee.

Fr. Arthur Bonde was chosen state committeeman and Mrs. Ruth Rodas state committeewoman for the Democrats. Both are from Caldwell.

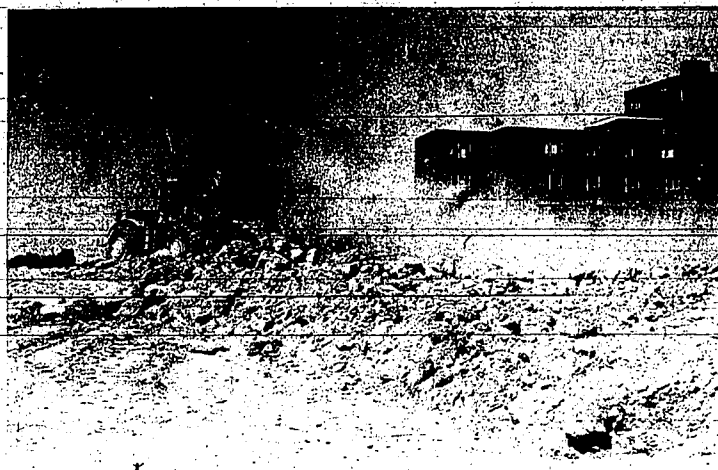

James H. Gipson Jr., Caldwell, was re-elected state committeeman for the Republicans and Mrs. Virginia Smith, Caldwell, was re-elected state committeewoman.

Cash stolen from carwash in Burley

BURLEY (UPI) - A carwash was held up again early Saturday morning. Burley Police Detective Sgt. Jim Higns said an unidentified man with a T-shirt over his head took a small unmarked amount of cash from a carwash in Burley.

He was described as being about 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighing 150-160 pounds, with a dark complexion and dark hair.

Investigation is continuing.

Future parking area

Hospital gets parking lot

TWIN FALLS - A new parking lot for the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital is under construction at the west of the building.

William Chaney, county commission chairman, said the work is part of a continuing program and has been in the planning stage for three years. Work is being done on an hourly pay basis for the cost of equipment and labor.

The project involved removal of trees along the west of the hospital and removal of a section of lawn. Fill dirt, which has been hauled to the site over a number of years, has helped build up the area close to the canyon. Other dirt from the project will be used to level a roadway and make space for three lines of parking spaces.

Chaney said it is not known how many additional parking spaces the hospital will gain from the improvement but it will be considerable and they are badly needed, he said. A reentry-type walkway is planned through the parking area to the hospital entrance and lighting and landscaping will follow.

The county added surfacing to parking area at the rear of the hospital two years ago, but during visiting hours it is difficult to find a place to park.

Chaney said removal of part of the lawn in front of the old hospital nurses home was completed earlier this year to increase parking spaces there for employees and customers of state offices in that building. Parking is needed at present at all county buildings, Chaney said, and no matter how much is added there is never enough.

The day is probably not too far off, he said, when more of the county courthouse lawn will have to give way to parking for the main county offices and judicial building offices.

Nicosia mob kills envoy

The demonstrators burned the American flag, shouting, "Burn them down, as they burned Cyprus down."

Greek Cypriot policemen hurled tear gas grenades at the demonstrators in a futile effort to hold them back from the embassy building.

Still the mob came on, carrying banners reading "Murderers, your mask has fallen" and "NATO murderers of Cyprus."

Guns were sprayed at the embassy with submachineguns. The rioting was broken up by U.S. Marine guards inside the building fired over the heads of the demonstrators and they broke and ran. Under the cover of the demonstrators, the gunmen slipped into the building.

Clergies who had been holding a news conference when the riot started, rushed to the embassy. He entered the building wearing a gas mask against the tear gas.

Clergies came out of the embassy at about the time Davies' body was being brought out in a Land Rover. Rushing to help, Clergies jumped onto the back of the vehicle as it careened out of the compound.

Gem labor union okays Gov. Andrus, Sen. Church

BOISE (UPI) - The Idaho State AFL-CIO today announced its support of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and Sen. Frank Church, Idaho, in their re-election campaigns.

The endorsements were made Saturday at the labor federation's Committee on Political Education convention here. COPE is the AFL-CIO's political arm.

Robert W. MacFarlane, president of the state AFL-CIO, said John Evans, candidate for lieutenant governor, Pete T. Conrassus, incumbent secretary of state candidate, Joe Williams, incumbent candidate for state auditor, Marjorie Ruth Moon, incumbent state treasurer candidate, W. Anthony Park, incumbent candidate for attorney general, and Roy Truly, candidate for superintendent of public instruction, also received the union's endorsement.

MacFarlane said the convention also endorsed Max Hanson's bid for election from the Second Congressional District.

All of those candidates are Democrats, with the exception of Conrassus, who is running unopposed.

An endorsement for the First Congressional District was postponed, MacFarlane said, pending completion of the official vote canvass by the secretary of state's office.

The convention also voted to recommend passage of two constitutional amendments which would permit majority voting on county revenue bond measures for acquisition of environmental pollution control facilities and reduce to three the number of times constitutional amendments must be passed.

Delegates also endorsed the construction of a steam electric generating plant in the southern Idaho area, provided that all federal and state environmental standards are met.

"The state of Idaho must have an increased supply of electrical power to keep pace with increasing demands on agriculture," the convention said. Delegates said irrigation requires a great deal of electricity "but pays off in increased production of sorely-needed commodities."

Ford sad at death

CHICAGO (UPI) - President Ford, saddened by the shooting death of the US ambassador to Cyprus, today pledged help for Vietnam veterans and said he would nominate former Rep. Richard Goodrich to revitalize the much-criticized Veterans Administration.

Ford's first out of town trip as President was marred by the news that U.S. Ambassador to Cyprus Roger Davies was shot to death by anti-American rioters in Nicosia. Ford expressed his shock and said he was "deeply saddened."

"This tragic incident emphasizes the urgent need for the end to the violence on Cyprus and an immediate return to negotiations for a peaceful settlement," Ford said in a statement released on route to Chicago.

In a speech prepared for the 75th annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Ford promised that "during my administration the door of my office will be open to veterans as it was in the Capitol."

"The veteran is a human being and not just a 'C' number to be processed by a computer system," Ford said. "The government knew your name when you were called to service. This administration is going to see to it that we still know your name and your problems."

Ford's choice of Goodrich, a former Indiana congressman, to head the VA was widely expected and had the backing of most major veterans organizations. Criticism of VA inefficiency from these organizations, forced Donald Johnson to resign as head of the agency about two months ago.

Goodrich has been Johnson's deputy at the VA. Earlier he served in the House as a GOP representative from Indiana before failing to win a third bid for the Senate.

Ford said he was "deeply concerned" about continuing high unemployment among former servicemen, especially those who served in Vietnam, and expressed determination to improve various assistance programs, particularly those involving education and medical care for the disabled.

"This administration puts a high priority on aiding the men who bore the brunt of battle," he said. "If we can send men thousands of miles from home to fight our wars, certainly we can send them back to school and to better jobs at home."

But the President gave no details and coupled his promises to a clear warning that he would veto any bill mandating that Congress force another legislation if he decided they would undercut the battle against inflation.

Specifically referring to veterans education bill still awaiting final congressional approval, Ford said: "America is fighting for its economic life, not for the sake of the welfare to control inflationary excesses."

Rupert eyes annexation

RUPERT - An ordinance annexing the Wheeler subdivision may be accepted at the Tuesday night City Council meeting.

The subdivision, located in the northwest side of Rupert, was the subject of controversy earlier this year because of sewer and water facilities in the tract.

The Idaho Health Department had approved individual wells and septic tanks in the subdivision which is in the city's buffer zone. The council objected to the annexation because of potential health hazards in the original plat of the tract. City water was planned for the subdivision.

Annexation procedures were held up by the council in April until meetings with the owner of the subdivision and state health officials could take place to resolve the health questions. The council decided to extend water service to the tract with material costs to be paid by the owner.

There are still legal questions to be settled before final approval of annexation by the city.

Stanley agrees to growth plan

STANLEY (UPI) - The residents of the tiny mountain community of Stanley, Idaho, agreed at a Friday night meeting that they want more room for the town's growth.

Residents voted to propose the plan for Stanley, nestled in the Sawtooth National Recreation Area, include all currently annexed land plus 50-70 acres of land just south of town.

The people of the town outlined a 198-acre community in May, 1973, when they annexed 190 surrounding acres.

Edward A. San Francisco firm hired by the Forest Service to help with the future of Stanley, Lower Stanley and Sawtooth City, the SNRA's three designated communities, recommended at the meeting a town somewhat smaller than the residents prefer.

Research goes to dogs

SPokane (UPI) - A researcher attempting to condition coyotes to stop killing sheep has packed up and left town after a pack of marauding domestic dogs killed the eight sheep he was using for the experiment.

Dr. Earl Gustavson, a psychologist from the University of Utah working out of Eastern Washington State College, said Sunday he had moved his base of operations to the college campus at nearby Cheney, leaving Spokane "to the dogs."

Gustavson's study, funded by a $20,000 Department of Agriculture grant, centers around chemical castration of male coyotes to reduce their killing of sheep temporarily. He hopes the coyotes will then steer clear of sheep.

But Gustavson said when he recently visited the pen where he was keeping eight sheep for the experiment, he discovered that a pack of dogs had jumped a 12-foot fence and were mauling the sheep.

He said some of the dogs were wearing collars with name tags.

"It's ironic," he said. "Here we are, trying to teach coyotes not to kill sheep, and our sheep are killed by dogs. It's not fair to the sheep."

Gustavson said his study will now concentrate on methods of preserving the chemically treated meat patties so they can be placed near grazing areas and left for long periods of time.

What sort of drink actually works best to quench your thirst? That's what the science boys wanted to know. So they proved first that the quench-quotient depends on high water content. Plain water, itself, therefore, ranks No. 1. Their ranking of other beverages: Club soda, No. 2. Iced tea, No. 3. Coffee, No. 4. Diet cola, No. 5. Pre-sweetened Kool-Aid, No. 6. Beer, No. 7. Ginger ale, No. 8. Milk, No. 9.

ONE RECENT Federal study purports to show that a third of all first-born children nationwide are conceived out of wedlock. Interesting, if true. That's somewhat higher a proportion than experts previously had reported.

DID YOU KNOW all the baseballs used in the major leagues here are sewn up in Haiti?

NARWHAL
Q. "What does a narwhal use its tusks for?"
A. "Nothing. They're useless. But let me get it right. The male narwhal ordinarily has but one tusk. It sticks out of the left side of its head. The female ordinarily has no tusks. Now comes the exception. Some females have two tusks but not one. And if you find a two-tusked narwhal in your bathtub, you can be fairly certain it's a female without looking any further.

WILL YOU BUY the claim that the average American grownup has 50 headaches a year? Neither will I. But the aspirin makers say so.

GET IT RIGHT
Did I say numerous deer had died after eating the disposable portion of self-developing film? That's wrong, evidently. Spoken for the Polaroid Corporation, the National Park Service, and, lo, even the Sierra Club are circulating reports to the contrary. They say extensive tests prove that film backing is tasty, but non-toxic to beasts.

IT IS PROPER and official to call all Icelanders by their first names only.

NEVER SERVE a thick steak from the frying pan directly to the table. Let it stand a few minutes. As for a big roast, it should wait up to an hour before the carving. Or such be the claim of a renowned chef. Cooking draws the juices to the center, he says. That rest away from the heat disburse them. Makes for tenderer tastier cuts.

Fat stock sale feature of final TF Fair day

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News writer

FILER — The annual Twin Falls County 4-H and FFA Fat Stock Sale will be conducted Sept. 7, the final day of the Twin Falls County Fair, in the livestock arena.

All 4-H and FFA members from 4-H clubs and FFA chapters of Twin Falls County are eligible to sell animals at the sale. They are limited to one animal per member.

The champion or reserve champion of each class will be sold first, with the top three animals from each weight class being judged to determine champion and grand champion.

Jack Skinner, Jack Pierce, and Galen Guthrie are superintendents of the junior division of the fair, which includes 4-H clubs and Future Farmers of America members.

At fair judging premiums will be paid on five classes of market steers which include market steer under 500 pounds, market steer 501 to 1,000 pounds, market steer, 1,001 to 1,040 pounds, market steer, 1,041 to 1,080 pounds, and market steer, 1,081 pounds and over.

The grand champion in this class will receive a rosette and the reserve champion a purple ribbon. Trophies will be presented to the exhibitors of the grand champion and reserve champion.

The dairy springer heifer sale class includes premiums and trophies for springer heifer.

Premiums in market lamb class will be paid for market lamb 80 to 90 pounds, market lamb, 91 to 100 pounds, market lamb 101 pounds and over, and rosette to champion and purple ribbon to reserve champion.

Trophies will be given to the exhibitor of grand champion and reserve grand champion, and first and second place trophies will be provided.

The first annual Twin Falls County 4-H and FFA Lamb carcass contest will be held just after the close of the 1974 fair. It will be coordinated through the Twin Falls County Extension office, in charge of Lyn C. Merrick, extension agricultural agent. Trophies and cash awards will be provided.

Premiums in market hog class will be paid for market hog 190 to 200 pounds, and market hog 221 pounds and over, with a rosette for grand champion and purple ribbon for reserve champion.

Trophies go to the exhibitor of the grand champion and reserve champion, marketing hog, and first and second place awards will be presented.

The Poland China Breed Association and United Duroc Swine Registry also have awards in their respective classes.

Siberia bound

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The first shipment of cattle from the US direct to Siberia left aboard the Soviet vessel Markham Kull on Thursday.

Six Scottish Highland beef cattle were aboard the ship. The Highlanders, raised on Lopez Island, Wash., will travel via the trans-Siberian railway to Moscow.

They will be exhibited prior to reaching their new permanent home in the Siberian Altai Mountains bordering Mongolia and China.

Director appointed

RICHFIELD — Mrs. Clarence Lemmon is the Richfield delegate to the board of directors of the regional library.

Mrs. Jody Parker will serve as alternate for the Richfield area.

Mrs. Parker is new chairman of the Richfield board with Mrs. Max Behr vice chairman and Mrs. Lemmon secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Glen Jensen is the other member of the board, elected to a five-year term at a recent election.

Briefs

HAZELTON — The next meeting of the Kasota Singers will be Sept. 10 at the home of Mrs. Ralph (Ruth) Scott. Mrs. Dick (Corene) Rommer and Mrs. Leonard (Val) Genef Mills will be co-hostess. Election of officers will be on the agenda and all members are urged to attend.

Truck firms win rate hike

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has approved a 13 per cent rate increase requested by two Idaho trucking companies.

Wycoff Co. and City Delivery Service, both of Boise, applied for identical rates of 10 per cent increase in their charges to help defray increased expenses in labor, equipment, maintenance and a three per cent increase to compensate for additional fuel costs.

"The commission ruled the increases will become effective on one day's notice to the public."

Appreciation told

TWIN FALLS — Rarely does a university receive a gift of appreciation from students, especially in the form of a $150 check.

Boise State University received a check from Patricia and William Murphy for appreciation of the personal interest, high quality instruction and financial help.

William Murphy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Murphy, Twin Falls.

The money was presented to the theater arts department for use by the department's scholarship fund.

Murphy said that "The school gave us a lot of help when we were first married. He is manager of the Royal Restaurant in Boise."

Hollywood's pop art architecture began in 1926 when Herb Sornborn built the Brown Derby restaurant in the shape of a hat.
